County Boy Drowns on River Trip

Voyaging on the flood-choked Santa Ana River for an after-school adventure Monday, four boys — unaware of a treacherous waterfall ahead — were dumped from their rubber raft and inertube into the muddy torrent.

Three made it safely ashore. One daring sailor, whose parents were just returning from an ocean cruise to Hawaii, is missing and presumed drowned in the debris-littered flood channel.

He is Bill Dischner, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dischner, of 2424 N. Flower St., Santa Ana, and the brother of one survivor.

SUFFERED SHOCK

Robert Dischner, 18, is recovering from shock and exposure today at Orange County Medical Center, where the other two victims were treated and released after the ordeal Monday.

They are Randy Howard, 18, of 2611 Greenbrier St., and Craig Park, 17, of 26117 Freeman Lane, Both Santa Ana addresses, according to investigators.

The drama of adventurous boys, battling a river flooded by the worst Southland storm since one 15 years before they were born, began to unfold at 4:20 a.m., when a county employee spotted them.

Gary Hadin, 2, patrolling inspector for the county flood control district, saw three boys in the raft and one on the inertube and called Anaheim police.

Howard, photographing the fatal lark from the inertube and his companions were then battling the 20-mile-per-hour river currents between Katella and Orangewood Avenues.

Death waited just ahead, beneath the surface, where the raging waters plunged over a five-foot-high check dam which is being built to span the river.

STADIUM NEARBY

Angel Stadium is just a short distance away from the tragedy scene.

By the time Anaheim Police Officer James Santoro and Orange County Sheriff's deputies arrived on another among what has been frequent river-rafting accidents.

Buffalo Bills Pick (Who Else?) O. J. Simpson

NEW YORK (AP) — The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League chose Southern California's O.J. Simpson, an All-American halfback who won the Heisman Trophy, as the third annual combined pro football draft got under way today.

The choice of Simpson as the No. 1 pick came as no surprise. Many rate him the best ball-carrier in football history.

Simpson has indicated that he would demand as much as a $600,000 bonus.

Simpson, a 6-1, 207-pounder rushed for 1,709 yards, an all-time record, and scored 22 touchdowns. He had an 80-yard scoring run in the Rose Bowl, in which Southern California lost to Ohio State.

The choice of Simpson marked the second straight year that a Southern California player had been No. 1 in the draft.

Last year the honor went to Ron Yary, a giant tackle, grabbed by the Minnesota Vikings.

Minutes after the Bills drafted Simpson, the Heisman Trophy winner told his new boss Tuesday, "I'm looking forward to contribute to the Bills' organization."

John Rauch, the Bills' new head coach, put through a telephone call to Simpson in California to welcome him to Buffalo.

Rauch said Simpson told him he was "happy to be drafted No. 1."

"We did not talk about a contract," Rauch said.

Here is the complete list of first-round draft choices:

1. Buffalo Bills — O. J. Simpson, USC, 6-1, 207-pound halfback.
2. Atlanta Falcons — George Kunz, Notre Dame, 6-5, 245-pound tackle.
3. Philadelphia Eagles — Leroy Keyes, Purdue, 6-3, 230-pound halfback.
4. Pittsburgh Steelers — Joe Greene, North Texas State, 6-4, 275-pound defensive tackle.
5. Cincinnati Bengals — Greg Cook, University of Cincinnati, 6-4, 200-pound quarterback.
6. Boston Patriots — Ron Sellers, Florida State, 6-4, 187-pound split end.
7. San Francisco 49ers (New Orleans choice from trade) — Ted Kwalick, Penn State, 6-4, 205-pound end.
8. Los Angeles Rams (Detroit choice from trade) — Larry Smith, Florida, 6-4, 221-pound running back.
9. San Diego Chargers (Denver choice from trade) — Marty Domres, Columbia, 6-4, 212-pound quarterback.
10. — Los Angeles Rams (Washington choice from trade) — Jim Seymour, Notre Dame, 6-4, 205-pound end.
11. Miami Dolphins — Bill Stanfill, Georgia, 6-5, 240-pound defensive tackle.
12. Green Bay — Richie Moore, Villanova, defensive tackle.
13. Chicago Bears — Rufus Mayes, Ohio State, defensive tackle.

U.S. to Israel: Don't Retaliate

WASHINGTON — The United States has urged Israel not to retaliate against the hanging of nine Jews as spies in Iraq, the State Department announced today. (See earlier story, Page 5.)

The urging was made through the U.S. Embassy in Israel within the last 24 hours, State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey told a news conference.

Responding to questions about threats or reprisals against Iraq, McCloskey said:

"The position every American administration has taken regarding the cycle of provocations and reprisals has been a consistent one, it should be avoided. We continue to make that view known."

Then McCloskey acknowledged, in response to follow up questions, that the United States has urged Israel not to retaliate.

Meantime Iraq vowed today to hold more espionage trials despite international protests over the hangings of 14 men accused of spying for Israel, Baghdad Radio reported.

The radio, in a broadcast monitored in Beirut, said "other spies will be tried soon," but did not elaborate. However, the Iraqi ambassador to the United Nations, Joel Barzani, said 60 more persons, many of them Israelis, would be tried for spying.

Iraq also condemned Israel Tuesday for trying to "disfigure its international reputation" with propaganda and threats of reprisals.

Israel Premier Levi Eshkol had said Monday that the nine Jews were "murdered" because of their faith and promised his parliament that "the Lord shall avenge their blood."

Miami Bound Jet Ordered To Havana

MIAMI (UPI) — Two men armed with a pistol and explosive burst into the cockpit of a National Airlines jet between New Orleans and Miami today and forced the pilot to fly to Cuba with 32 persons aboard.

The hijackers struck moments after National's flight 64 took off from New Orleans shortly after 9 a.m. The flight had originated in Los Angeles and had made a stop in Houston.

The super DC8 — the 10th plane to be hijacked to Cuba this year — carried 25 passengers and a crew of seven.

"Please be advised that I am going to Havana," Capt. James G. Brown radioed to ground controllers. "I have two men in the cockpit, one with a .38 and one with some type of an explosive device and they are holding a stewardess."

The plane landed at Havana's Jose Marti Airport at 10:03 a.m., the Federal Aviation Administration said.

Besides Brown, 44, the crew members included co-pilot James E. Durr, 32; flight engineer David J. Schneider, 39; and stewardesses Barbara J. Mohny, Victoria J. Sikorski, Pamela D. Yorda and Donna J. Yost.

National said 11 of the passengers boarded at Los Angeles.

It was the second hijacking of a National plane this year. Last Friday a National 727 jet was hijacked en route from Miami to Key West by a long-haired teen-ager who said he was a Navy deserter. The plane carried 40 passengers.

Of the 10 hijackings this year, six have involved U.S. airlines. The other planes belonged to Peruvian, Ecuadorian and Colombian airlines.

National said it did not know when the hijackers boarded the plane.

In past hijackings, Cuban authorities have released both the planes and the people within hours. Although they have insisted that fully loaded jets could not

Priest, Lover Not Father

A cassock-clad Costa Mesa youth created an unholy row in Juvenile Hall Monday when shocked sheriff's deputies realized it wasn't the rosary he was lovingly reciting to his 15-year-old girlfriend, an inmate in the building.

Incensed officers descended en masse to eject the pseudo priest. They identified the phony father as James William Morris, 19, of (get this) 937 Serra Way.

No charges were filed. James, commented amused deputies, made a full confession.

The three survivors — shivering and sobbing at the tragedy they never considered — were found on the east bank of the river, while their yellow raft bobbed in the brown rapids.

"He went down and he just never came up again," said Howard, an accredited Red Cross junior lifeguard who pulled one buddy ashore but was unable to save the younger Dischner brother.

One attempt to get Bill Dischner failed, so Howard dashed upstream and entered the treacherous water again, to float to the overturned raft, but the missing youth had lost his grip and gone.

Trembling and fearful, Howard said he and his companions had successfully voyaged before and that he plans to go on an organized Colorado River rapids-run this Easter Week.

"I think," he added in subdued tones.

Real Fish Story: It's 583 Pounds

KAILUA-KONA, Hawaii (AP) — Sally Rice of Naalehu, Hawaii, beat the existing world record for women Sunday when she landed a 583½-pound Pacific Blue marlin.

Mrs. Rice, using a 130-pound test line, fought the huge fish for four hours. It measured more than 10 feet in length.

The previous record was held by Mrs. Ruth Bowen, who caught a 580-pounder at Kailua-Kona in 1966.

Sunday's catch was made aboard the charter boat Malia, owned by Mrs. Rice's husband, Fred. The Rices are veterans of the International Billfish Tournament.

Freeway Widening Job Delayed for 2 Months

Originally planned to coincide with opening Wednesday of the last link in the San Diego Freeway, a 16-mile freeway widening project from El Toro to San Juan Capistrano won't be done for two more months.

Spokesmen for District Seven of the State Division of Highways said Monday, however, that the eight-lane job begun in June, 1967, is still within its contract time limit.

Just as in the case of the U.S. Route 405 segment from Costa Mesa to its U.S. Route 5 tie-in near El Toro, construction changes and delays, plus rain, have held up the work schedule.

The $12.3 million job assigned to the Griffith Co., of Los Angeles, is due for completion about April 1, when the original four-lane freeway becomes eight lanes wide.

A portion of the freeway in the Laguna Canyon Road area is being widened to six lanes as well.

Most of the concrete paving is now in, but some asphalt concrete paving remains to be done, according to a spokesman for the State Division of Highways.

BIG PROBLEM

He said one of the biggest problems encountered in completing the long job is its sheer magnitude, since 19 overpasses, bridges and similar structures had to be widened at the same time.

Depending upon available men and equipment, some of them could have been done simultaneously, but the state chose also to avoid creating too many bottlenecks to slow routine traffic flow.

Meanwhile, the state Legislature has made an emergency appropriation of $11,600 for shoring up to help prevent a pileup of automobile wreckage at one point in the newly widened freeway.

Fast-growing myoporum bushes — $15 of them — will be planted to form a visual barricade beside the freeway at Laguna Canyon Road, location of the Orange County International Raceway.

Officials of the drag strip partially solved the problem with a six-foot fence along much of their property, but the remaining gap needed to be closed to prevent motorists from race-gaping.

BELIEF INCORRECT

Orange County Assistant Planning Director Stuart Bailey said it was first doubted that motorists would be distracted by the high-speed auto competition but this belief proved incorrect.

The $11,600 appropriation includes a sprinkling system.

Charles Gustafson, press information officer for the Division of Highways, said late Monday that the 8.8-mile San Diego Freeway segment ending in Costa Mesa should open Wednesday.

Continuing bad weather over the past two weeks has stymied final work which will open the 78-mile thoroughfare from its southern tie-in to the Santa Ana Freeway to U.S. 101 at Encino.

Correction of sign information on distances and direction is the sole remaining work to be done and is much more hazardous in wet weather since workmen must climb bridge rails and otherwise work aloft.

up the council to the gloomy facts of life.

"We are concerned about the situation," said Mayor Doreen Marshall. "We're aware of the difficulties we're faced with. This resolution shows that. But you may be right. Maybe it is a black picture."

BIRTH HOPEFUL

Councilman Ed Hirth, a one-time local marina-operator, was more hopeful.

"With this resolution," he said, "we feel we have a chance of getting support (from the other cities in the county) for our position. We know we have better chances of getting that than in trying to save the Harbor District."

"I hope you're right," said Cook. "But remember that the basic premise behind the dissolution movement was to get a tax cut throughout the county. If you try and get money to support harbor operations, the same people who are behind the dissolution will yap and say no deal."

Shelton reminded Cook that the final decision on the issue of financing harbor regional requirements rests with the County Board of Supervisors. "There is no limit to what the board can legally do to provide the funds that were provided before."

The resolution was then adopted on Gruber's motion.

STRONG SUPPORT

To be distributed to every other city in the county, as well as the Board of Supervisors, it concedes that "there is strong support for the proposed dissolution of the Harbor District by the cities of Orange County."

It also commends members of the League of Cities "for their efforts to provide an integrated approach to regional facilities and services."

But it points out that in the event of dissolution of the district, Newport must be prepared to take over harbor operations, "which will result in a substantial increase in the city's financial contribution to this regional facility."

Huntington Surf Can't Beat This

It may not have memories of the old Pavalon, feature Sonny and Cher at the Golden Bear — or scenic vistas of wandering, miniskirted teenyboppers — but Cua Viet has surf as good as Huntington Beach.

"I'd say it's as good," says Navy dental technician 2/C Rex Crossley, of Valinda, a frequent Huntington Beach surfing visitor while on stateside duty.

"The Tonkin Gulf has some great waves," Crossley added.

He was interviewed at Cua Viet, a beach six miles south of the DMZ border between North and South Vietnam, which is a swimming and surfing preserve for Marines and Navy men.

Servicemen are allowed to visit Cua Viet on two-day rest and recuperation leaves from the war zone.

Department of Peace In Cabinet Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to establish a Cabinet-level Department of Peace will be reintroduced next month in the U.S. Senate, this time with Majority Leader Mike Mansfield as co-sponsor.

Sen. Vance Hartke (D-Ind.), who first introduced the measure last year, said Mansfield's support enhances the possibility of early Senate passage. A similar bill will be introduced in the House by Rep. Seymour Halpern (D-N.Y.).

War on Crime Vowed; Nixon to Keep Surtax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told Republican Congressional leaders today he wants to wage a "war on crime," particularly in the nation's capital.

At a two-hour breakfast meeting with GOP leaders, Nixon also said he expected that the 10 percent income tax surcharge probably will have to be continued through 1970.

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen and House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford told newsmen after the White House meeting that Nixon would ask Congress for more money to boost the Justice Department's crime-fighting efforts.

"We're going to ask for supplemental funds for whatever it takes to carry out this war on crime," said Dirksen, reporting on the meeting with Nixon.

SOLVE PROBLEMS

Later, Ford told newsmen at the Capitol it was hoped the administration could "solve the problems of the District of Columbia, as an example" of a successful fight against crime.

"We hope to use this as a showcase of what can be done," Ford said.

Dirksen and Ford did not specify how much money would be needed. They said it would go primarily for increasing judgeships, implementing bail reform and expanding the staffs of prosecuting attorneys.

On the income tax surcharge, Dirksen held out little hope that the 10 percent levy could be reduced or eliminated. "If we maintain a surplus, the surtax certainly will have to be maintained for the time being," Dirksen said.

After the White House conference, Nixon went to the Capitol for a meeting with House leaders of both parties.

PROMISED DRIVE

At his news conference Monday, the President promised to launch an all-out battle against crime in the nation's capital, where even walking the streets at night can be a "very serious problem," he said.

Dirksen's remarks at the White House concerned primarily the District of Columbia and the federal courts but he indicated in answer to a reporter's question that he administration would also be willing to assist state courts in streamlining criminal proceedings and eliminating the backlog of criminal cases.

Attending the White House session were more than a dozen Republican congressional leaders, as well as Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell; George W.

Romney, secretary of housing and urban development, and budget director Robert P. Mayo.

Besides crime, Dirksen said the conferees discussed the newly increased interest rates on mortgage loans by the Federal Housing Authority, and the subject of federal assistance to municipalities.

Mitchell is preparing a study on crime that will contain specific recommendations for a nationwide crime protection program and coping with the rising incidence of crime in Washington. Nixon said Monday he had directed Mitchell to submit shortly a plan to combat the high crime rate in Washington.

Dirksen said he expected Nixon's overall anticrime proposals to be sent to Congress some time this week.

Ford said the recommendations would call for increases in Justice Department personnel sufficient to provide the "additional services that must be available to enforce the anti-crime program."

The White House and Capitol Hill meetings with Congressional leaders — expected to become regular, weekly events — were seen as an indication of where the new President thinks he will find many of his problems.

Leary Arraigned on 3 Drug Counts in Clemente

By JACK CHAPPELL

Dr. Timothy Leary, so-called high priest of the tune-in, drop out cult, was arraigned on hashish, marijuana and LSD charges Monday in San Clemente Municipal Court.

He was ordered to appear for preliminary hearing April 1 by Judge Richard Hamilton.

Leary's wife, Rosemary, and son John, 19, were also arraigned on the charges and ordered to appear with Leary.

The accusations stem from arrests in Laguna Beach Dec. 26 when the Leary trio was picked up by Officer Neil Purcell.

Purcell said he observed the Leary station wagon parked in the 200 block of Woodland Drive late that night. The Learys said then they were saying goodbye to John and that the car was legally parked.

Police alleged one pound of marijuana, some LSD, and hashish were seized.

Leary, 48, a former Harvard psychology professor, repeated off-heard charges of police harassment to newsmen at the court appearance.

Leary dressed in a Nehru jacket, said the last time he was in Orange County last time he was in Orange County he was stopped by a Highway Patrolman who accused him of being drunk.

"I'd been eating apples. I showed him the evidence — a sack of apples and one core.

"I know Adam and Eve got busted for that but..." Leary quipped.

He said he had been stopped by officers 14 times that his son had been stopped 12 times and his daughter and wife had been stopped five times.

Out of all those, only one other case ever went to trial, he said. It is now under appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

He said he expects a ruling "anyday" from the court on the legality of marijuana.

Fourth Suspect In Christmas Gang Rape Held

A fourth suspect in the Christmas day mass rape of a 16-year-old girl in Huntington Beach is in the custody of Fairhaven, Mass. police today.

Huntington Beach police said Robert Lewis Souza was arrested Saturday in Fairhaven. Authorities here weren't sure yet on what charges he is held or if extradition back to California would be possible.

A warrant for Souza's arrest was issued last week after he was named as one of ten men suspected of participating in a gang style rape of a runaway Anaheim girl in a Huntington Beach teen hangout, the Syndicate 3000, police said.

Souza is a native of Massachusetts but he had been living an unknown length of time in Huntington Beach, police added.

Three other suspects were arrested last week.

Jasper O. Hickey, 20, of 877 W. Wilson St., Costa Mesa, is in custody at Orange County jail on $1,500 bail. Preliminary hearing for Hickey is scheduled at 9 a.m. Wednesday before Judge Walter Charamza of West Orange County Municipal Court.

Peter Buell, 22, of El Monte, was released on his own recognizance until his Feb. 5 arraignment.

Sunset Sewage Problems Spill Over Into Harbour

Sunset Beach sewage problems literally spilled over into the waterways of the Huntington Harbour section of Huntington Beach during the recent rainstorms.

Richard Harrison, manager of the Sunset Beach Sanitation District's controversial sewage treatment plant on Warner Avenue just north of Pacific Coast Highway said Monday that it was true that there was some flow into the channels during the storm.

"There was some flow of treated sewage water," he explained. "But it was mostly rain water they (the objecting residents of the marina area) saw running out of the settling pond."

John Silver of the Huntington Harbour Property Owners Association and others who live nearby met Monday with Ron Montgomery of the Huntington Harbour Corp. to look at the runoff areas which had contaminated the main channel.

Silver and his group said they want action immediately to close the plant. Montgomery pledged the aid of his company and said he would arrange a meeting of all concerned with the sewage plant later.

Harrison said that "the alternative to letting the overflow of treated sewage go into the channel was to allow raw sewage to back up into the streets."

"My first job is to keep the plant open and functioning and while sewage plants all up and down the coast failed and are not in operation at all today, I've kept this one working."

Considerable time has been put in by board members of Orange County Sanitation District 11, the City Council of Huntington Beach, Fire Chief Raymond Picard and by members of the board of the sanitation district to find a way to allow removal of the plant, yet not increase drastically the taxes for the families along the beach side of Coast Highway.

Harrison said that by Monday morning he had the plant under control and functioning as well as could be expected with the rains.

"We've had the highest tides of the year and the heaviest rains in decades. There was bound to be some problem."

Homeowners, however, were not happy about the sewage problem and pledged a fight "to the very top, if we must," to eliminate the plant.

Beach Mothers March of Dimes Begins Today

Brian Ferguson, 2, can toddle a few steps with support from his mother, Mrs. Sue Ferguson of Seal Beach.

For Brian and thousands of children with birth defects the walking could become easier with the support of hundreds of Huntington Beach area mothers who today began the annual Mothers March for the March of Dimes.

Brian was born with arthrogryposis, a defect of the joints and muscles, said his mother. He is one of 1,700 children born in Orange County each year with birth defects.

Aiding the families and these children is the goal of the National Foundation, the March of Dimes, and its Orange County chapter.

The Mothers March will end Friday. Co-chairmen Mrs. Connie Bauer and Mrs. Charlene Bauer are leading the drive.

Through the efforts of the Orange County Chapter, a birth defects center was opened in 1964 at Children's Hospital in Orange. It was here that Mrs. Ferguson received advice and counsel following Brian's birth.

"Brian is a big responsibility and there are many moments of anxiety," she said, "but the big thing is we are able to accept his limitations and help others understand them."

"We have managed, but what a burden it must be to have a child with a birth defect in a family of many children. The great expense in time and money can run the average family down to nothing very quickly."

School area captains for the Mothers March are Mrs. Charles R. Scott and Mrs. Jane Fisher, co-captains for the Newland School area; Mrs. Alvin M. Buffalo Bills Tap Simpson

USC Grid Star First Pick as Pro Football Draft Begins

NEW YORK (AP) — The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League chose Southern California's O.J. Simpson, an All-American halfback who won the Heisman Trophy, as the third annual combined pro football draft got under way today.

The choice of Simpson as the No. 1 pick came as no surprise. Many rate him the best ball-carrier in football history.

Simpson has indicated that he would demand as much as a $600,000 bonus.

Simpson, a 6-1, 207-pounder rushed for 1,709 yards, an all-time record, and scored 22 touchdowns. He had an 80-yard scoring run in the Rose Bowl, in which Southern California lost to Ohio State.

The choice of Simpson marked the second straight year that a Southern California player had been No. 1 in the draft.

Last year the honor went to Ron Yary, a giant tackle, grabbed by the Minnesota Vikings.

Minutes after the Bills drafted Simpson, the Heisman Trophy winner told his new boss Tuesday, "I'm looking forward to working to contribute to the Bills' organization."

John Rauch, the Bills' new head coach, put through a telephone call to Simpson in California to welcome him to Buffalo.

Rauch said Simpson told him he was "happy to be drafted No. 1."

"We did not talk about a contract," Rauch said.

Here is the complete list of first-round draft choices:

1. Buffalo Bills — O. J. Simpson, USC, 6-1, 207-pound halfback.
2. Atlanta Falcons — George Kunz, Notre Dame, 6-5, 245-pound tackle.
3. Philadelphia Eagles — Leroy Keves, Purdue, 6-3, 250-pound halfback.
4. Pittsburgh Steelers — Joe Greene, North Texas State, 6-4, 275-pound defensive tackle.
5. Cincinnati Bengals — Greg Cook, University of Cincinnati, 6-4, 208-pound quarterback.
6. Boston Patriots — Ron Sellers, Florida State, 6-1, 187-pound split end.
7. San Francisco 49ers (New Orleans choice from trade) — Ted Kwalick, Penn State, 6-4, 230-pound tight end.
8. Los Angeles Rams (Detroit choice from trade) — Larry Smith, Florida, 6-4, 221-pound running back.
9. San Diego Chargers (Denver choice from trade) — Marly Domres, Columbia, 6-4, 212-pound quarterback.
10. Los Angeles Rams (Washington choice from trade) — Jim Seymour, Notre Dame, 6-4, 205-pound end.
11. Miami Dolphins — Bill Stanfill, Georgia, 6-5, 245-pound defensive tackle.
12. Green Bay — Richie Moore, Villanova, defensive tackle.

26. New York Jets — Dave Foley, Ohio State, 6-5, 235-pound tackle.

SA River Raft Ride Fatal to Boy

Voyaging on the flood-choked Santa Ana River for an after-school adventure Monday, four boys — unaware of a treacherous waterfall ahead — were dumped from their rubber raft and in-tube into the muddy torrent.

Three made it safely ashore.

One daring sailor, whose parents were just returning from an ocean cruise to Hawaii, is missing and presumed drowned in the debris-littered flood channel.

He is Bill Dischner, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dischner, of 2424 N. Flower St., Santa Ana, and the brother of one survivor.

SUFFERED SHOCK

Robert Dischner, 18, is recovering from shock and exposure today at Orange County Medical Center, where the other two victims were treated and released after the ordeal Monday.

They are Randy Howard, 18, of 2611 Greenbrier St., and Craig Park, 17, of 26117 Freeman Lane, both Santa Ana addresses, according to investigators.

The drama of adventurous boys, battling a river flooded by the worst Southland storm since one 15 years before they were born, began to unfold at 4:20 a.m., when a county employee spotted them.

Gary Hadin, a patrolling inspector for the county flood control district, saw three boys in the raft and one on the innertube and called Anaheim police.

Howard, photographing the fatal lark from the innertube and his companions were then battling the 20-mile-per-hour river currents between Katella and Orangewood Avenues.

Death waited just ahead, beneath the surface, where the raging waters plunged over a five-foot-high check dam which is being built to span the river.

STADIUM NEARBY

Angel Stadium is just a short distance away from the tragedy scene.

By the time Anaheim Police Officer James Santoro and Orange County Sheriff's deputies arrived on another among what has been frequent river-raiding calls this week, the raft and tube had capsized.

The three survivors — shivering and sobbing at the tragedy they never considered — were found on the east bank of the river, while their yellow raft bobbed in the brown rapids.

"He went down and he just never came up again," said Howard, an accident investigator, Page 2)

Beach Banquet

Freedom 'Risky' Says CofC Guest

credited Red Cross junior lifeguard who pulled one buddy ashore but was unable to save the younger Dischner brother.

One attempt to get Bill Dischner failed, so Howard dashed upstream and entered the treacherous water again, to float to the overturned raft, but the missing youth had lost his grip and gone.

Trembling and tearful, Howard said he and his companions had successfully voyaged before and that he plans to go on an organized Colorado River rapids-run this Easter Week.

"I think," he added in subdued tones. Parents of the boy whose body is believed jammed in river debris somewhere downstream — or even washed to sea — arrived in San Francisco Monday night aboard the SS Lurline.

Mr. and Mrs. Dischner were picked up at the dock and flew to Orange County Airport after being advised that they had apparently lost their son.

He also leaves younger brothers Richard, 14, Donald, 12, and Kenny, 6, according to investigators who compiled details of the tragedy Monday.

All four youths dumped into the five-foot-deep floodwaters are Santa Ana High School students and only the missing boy — stocky and in good shape, but with a blood condition — was not a top athlete.

Howard was starting center on the football team, while Bob Dischner was a varsity guard and young Park is starting center of the Santa Ana High School varsity basketball team.

Park Building Future Slated At Beach Meet

The future park building program for Huntington Beach will be discussed in detail at a joint meeting Wednesday night of the City Council, Planning Commission, Recreation and Park Commission and staff members.

The session is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall, 5th Street and Pecan Avenue.

At stake is a program which will cost the taxpayers some $6 million. It includes plans for a large central city park and scores of small neighborhood parks.

A $6 million bond issue has been proposed to pay for the program and the meeting Wednesday night could resolve the date of the election.

A similar proposal failed to get the needed two thirds vote at the polls on Nov. 5, losing on a 62 per cent yes vote.

Construction of a library, which was also on the Nov. 5 ballot, is expected to be completed through bonds sold under a joint powers agreement with the county. Approval of the voters is not needed for this type of bond.

issued the statement as a partial explanation of why today's college campuses are in such turmoil.

"We have become so preoccupied with freedom's rights, that we are neglecting freedom's responsibilities," said Dr. Banowsky.

"Today's youth are living in a world of paradoxes," he continued, "we have peace yet war. We dine at large banquets while other people starve."

"There has never been a generation more deeply in search of commitment than today's youth," Dr. Banowsky said.

But they need leadership, he pointed out. "It's time for the great American middle, the chamber of commerce and others, to provide some direction for their search."

"They have to be shown that absolute freedom is not complete freedom, but complete absurdity."

Dr. Banowsky warned that unless America learns this lesson, "at some point we may prefer tyranny to anarchy."

He told the audience in conclusion that the youth and ourselves must learn that "freedom simply means that we can become what we should."

Before Dr. Banowsky's speech, the 300 diners at the Sheraton Beach Inn witnessed the installation of the Chamber's 1969 officers and Board of Directors.

C. E. "Bill" Woods, 1968 vice president of the Chamber, took over the top post Monday night as he was installed president for 1969.

The Board of Directors for 1969 includes Stan Botello, James DeGuelle, Jack Feehan, Dr. Max Forney, Jack Froggatt, Jack Groth, Jack Higley.

Stephen F. Holden, Fred Kalenborn, Ralph C. Kiser, A. C. Marion, George McCracken, Robert L. Merriman, R. M. Morgan, M. D., Leonard Shane, Martin Snow, Frank Richmond, Ed Thompson, Tom Welch and George West.

Women's division officers include Helen Stewart, president, Elizabeth Casey, first vice president; Ladema Pearmain, second vice president; Alice Bartlett, treasurer; Sue Regan, recording secretary, and Pat Klingensmith, corresponding secretary.

Youth Involved In Wild Joy Ride Given 8 Months

A youth who admitted that he was the passenger in a stolen sports car which was driven by a 16-year-old Seal Beach girl at more than 100 m.p.h. has been sentenced to eight months in Orange County Jail.

Superior Court Judge Robert Gardner also ruled that Patrick D. Phelan, 18, of Long Beach, must serve three years probation. His girl companion is currently serving a 15-day detention sentence in Juvenile Hall.

Police arrested Phelan and the girl last Jan. 2 after a wild "Keystone Kops" pursuit through four county communities. Seal Beach, Cypress, Buena Park, La Palma and Los Angeles and Orange County sheriff's units joined in the high-speed chase.

The two were arrested when they drove the car off the San Diego Freeway at Los Alamitos Boulevard. Phelan was convicted of auto theft; the juvenile was found guilty of driving without a valid driver's license and violation of curfew.

Beach Police Get Chopper

By TERRY COVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Gloomy skies brightened up just in time Monday for the landing of Huntington Beach's first police patrol helicopter.

City officials were present at noon Tuesday at the Sea Cliff Country Club to take over ownership of the Hughes Model 300 patrol chopper.

Police Chief John Seltzer was given a whirlbird tour of the city before a World Associates, Inc., pilot landed the chopper on the country club parking lot.

World Associates are currently training the city's first two helicopters, Sergeant Robert Morrison and Officer Floyd Stafford of the Huntington Beach Police Department.

Acceptance of the police helicopter makes Huntington Beach the first city in Orange County to employ choppers for police work.

Costa Mesa, Newport Beach, Anaheim and other Orange County cities are now considering purchase of helicopters for their police work.

Although the craft was formally presented to the city by Hughes officials, it will remain at Southland Helicopters near the Long Beach International Airport for an indefinite period.

The city has not yet decided where to build a landing pad for the new chopper. It will fly patrols from Long Beach until a site is selected.

Another decision the city hopes to make soon is selection of an appropriate name for the crime fighter.

A name selection committee is currently being formed to choose the best name from a list submitted by hundreds of Huntington Beach residents.

The city ordered the $44,000 helicopter on Dec. 3. Seltzer and City Administrator Doyle Miller proposed the use of helicopters for city patrols last July.

The versatility of the machine for crime detection and surveillance is its chief asset, but Seltzer pointed out that if necessary it can aid the fire department and the lifeguard patrol in emergencies.

The crime chopper is equipped with a siren, a loudspeaker system, tow ropes and pontoons for water landings, in addition to special police equipment.

City officials hope to buy a second police helicopter after July 1.

Christ Teens Picket at Valley High

About 15 Teens for Christ picketed Fountain Valley High School Monday from 2 to 4 p.m. in their continuing protest against what they charge is education's unfairness to religion.

The young Christian revolutionaries have previously picketed Marina High School and Huntington Beach High School to demonstrate their belief in the right to distribute Bible tracts on school property.

Sunday, one of the Teens, Hap Wotella, picketed the First Assembly of God Church in Santa Ana.

Wotella is a marine radio operator at El Toro Marine Station.

According to Wotella, a church member reported him to the Marine Military Police, who took him into custody for an alleged violation of service regulations.

Wotella was told that no member of the armed services is allowed to picket, demonstrate or be involved in such activities.

The young follower of Jesus said he thought the rule meant only while in uniform.

Wotella said that once Marine officials found out what he was doing they released him without punishment, but asked that he not picket while in the service. He is due for separation from the Marine Corps on Feb. 7.

"It was ironic," said Wotella, "that the church we were picketing is the former congregation of my wife, Lois Jean."

Parents to See Family Films

Parents in the Westminster School District will be able to see the films and look over the materials used in family life classes in the district at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 30 at 17th Street School, 7571 Westminster Ave.

The school will show during the annual Parent Night for Family Life Education a new film being used in fifth and sixth grade classes.

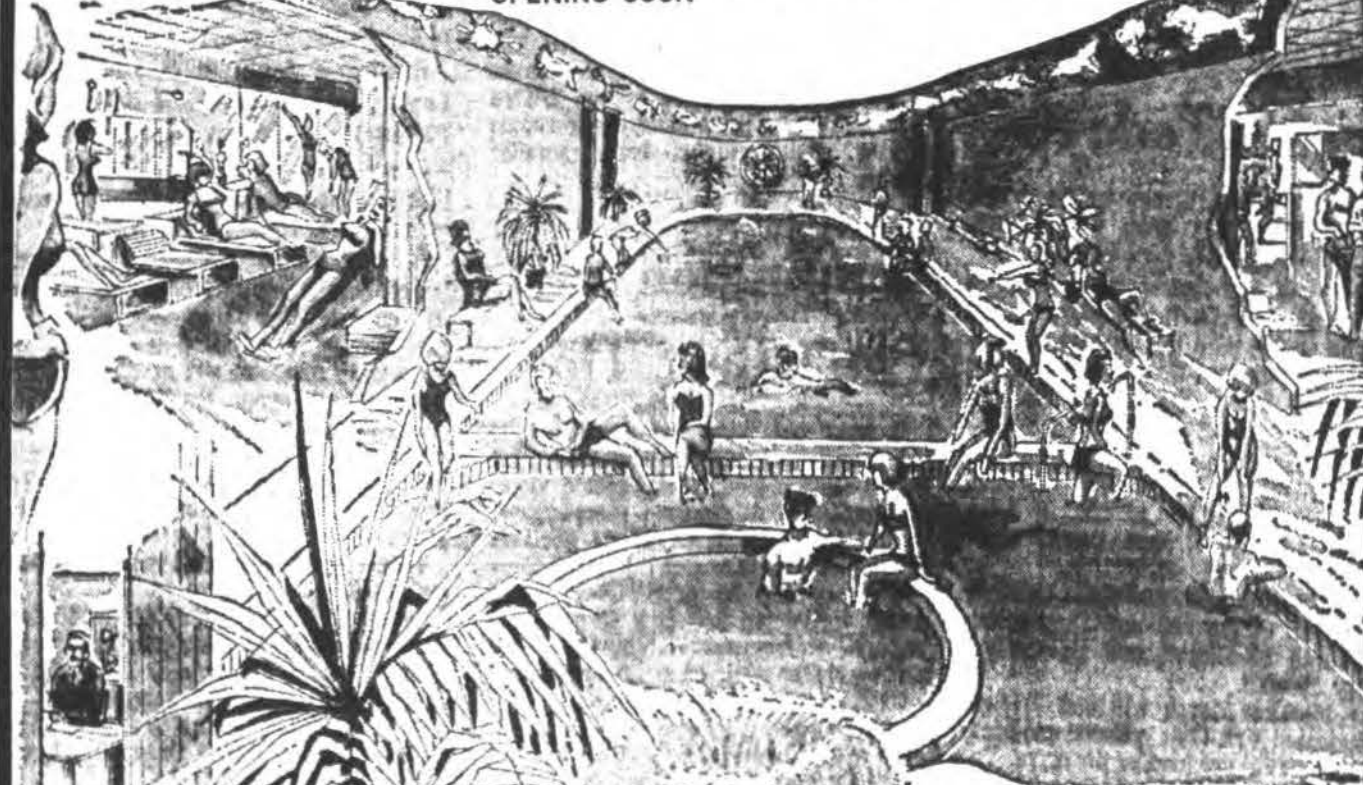

Family Life Education classes are held for all children in kindergarten through eighth with the exception of those students whose parents have asked that the youngsters be excused from the classes.

County Bucks Crime Rate

While It's Up, It's Lower Than U.S. Total

SANTA ANA — Although the jury is still out, it appears Orange County is bucking the nationwide trend of burgeoning crime rates — at least in less populated portions of the county under the jurisdiction of Sheriff James A. Musick and his 377 sworn deputies.

Musick released an annual report today showing total crimes handled by his department, the largest law enforcement agency in the county, were up 8.4 percent in 1968 over 1967.

It appears likely the figure will be a good deal lower than the increase in crime computed annually by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). The federal agency, however, has not yet completed its tally of nationwide crime for the last three months of 1968.

The trend, though, looks like this:

The local agency recorded a 10.9 percent increase during 1968 in major crimes (murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, felony assault, burglary, theft over $50 and auto theft). The FBI reported a national increase during the first nine months of 1968 of 19 percent for the same offenses.

Credit Card Bill Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. William Proxmire, (D-Wis.), today proposed legislation to regulate issuance of credit cards to persons who do not ask for them.

"All too often, the financial burden of lost, strayed or stolen cards has fallen on the consumer without distinction as to whether he had used the card or applied for it," Proxmire said.

Under the terms of the bill, a person would not have to pay if his card is lost or stolen unless he either asked for it or "accepted" it by using it himself. Even if the individual accepted a card, he could not be required to pay more than $50 if the card is used by another person without permission.

of those served by the sheriff live in unincorporated areas, but the figure does include three cities which contract with the sheriff for police services — San Juan Capistrano, Villa Park and Yorba Linda.

Sheriff Musick's report shows that, in these areas, increases in major crimes during 1968 ran below the national trend in all but one category — burglary.

According to Musick, there were 2,394 burglaries in his jurisdiction during 1968, a 20.3 percent increase over the previous year. FBI figures showed a 16 percent increase in burglaries nationally during the first nine months of 1968.

On the other hand, robberies in areas patrolled by sheriff's deputies dropped 5.6 percent below the 1967 figure during 1968. Nationally, the number of robberies rose 32 percent during the first three quarters of 1968.

The sheriff noted that 1968 felony arrests in his jurisdiction were up 13.9 percent over the previous year. Misdemeanor arrests, he said, were up 9.8 percent and there was in 1968 an 8 percent rise over 1967 in juvenile cases handled by his officers.

Disney Dream to Come True

WASHINGTON — A year-round resort 7,800 feet up in the High Sierra in Sequoia National Park received a go-ahead Monday from the U.S. Forest Service.

The approval means "realization of one of Walt Disney's last and greatest dreams," said Disney's brother, Roy O. Disney, board chairman of the sponsoring Walt Disney productions.

Among conservation groups

opposing the development was the Sierra Club, a nationwide organization headquartered in San Francisco.

Dr. Edgar Wayburn, president, said the Sierra Club has "under consideration the filing of legal action, but first we want to study what the Disney firm plans and what is involved."

Wayburn said the club feared Mineral King Valley would be ruined since Disney

plans "to put as many people into Mineral King on a given day as enter Yosemite Valley at any one time, and it is admitted Yosemite is overcrowded and Mineral King is one sixth to one third the size of Yosemite."

The resort will be known as Mineral King, after the valley. It will be built in a wilderness area 55 miles east of Visalia and about halfway between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Beach Mothers March of Dimes Begins Today

Brian Ferguson, 2, can toddle a few steps with support from his mother, Mrs. Sue Ferguson of Seal Beach.

For Brian and thousands of children with birth defects the walking could become easier with the support of hundreds of Huntington Beach area mothers who today began the annual Mothers March for the March of Dimes.

Brian was born with arthrogryposis, a defect of the joints and muscles, said his mother. He is one of 1,700 children born in Orange County each year with birth defects.

Aiding the families and these children is the goal of the National Foundation, the March of Dimes, and its Orange County chapter.

The Mothers March will end Friday. Co-chairmen Mrs. Connie Bauer and Mrs. Charlene Bauer are leading the drive.

Through the efforts of the Orange County Chapter, a birth defects center was opened in 1964 at Children's Hospital in Orange. It was here that Mrs. Ferguson received advice and counsel following Brian's birth.

"Brian is a big responsibility and there are many moments of anxiety," she said, "but the big thing is we are able to accept his limitations and help others understand them."

"We have managed, but what a burden it must be to have a child with a birth defect in a family of many children. The great expense in time and money can run the average family down to nothing very quickly."

School area captains for the Mothers March are Mrs. Charles R. Scott and Mrs. Jane Fisher, co-captains for the Newland School area; Mrs. Alvin M. Coen, Peterson School; Mrs. Carol Roach, Lark View; Mrs. Wilfred Wyatt, Wintersburg High School; Mrs. Gertrude Martin and Mrs. Carol Crofoot, Lamb School; Mrs. Robert Lowe, Circle View; Mrs. Eugene Bedard, College View; Mrs. Don Crocker, Crest View.

MIAMI (UPI) — Two men armed with a pistol and explosive burst into the cockpit of a National Airlines jet between New Orleans and Miami today and forced the pilot to fly to Cuba with 32 persons aboard.

The hijackers struck moments after National's flight 64 took off from New Orleans shortly after 9 a.m. The flight had originated in Los Angeles and had made a stop in Houston.

The super DC8 — the 10th plane to be hijacked to Cuba this year — carried 25 passengers and a crew of seven.

"Please be advised that I am going to Havana," Capt. James G. Brown radioed to ground controllers. "I have two men in the cockpit, one with a .38 and one with some type of an explosive device and they are holding a stewardess."

The plane landed at Havana's Jose Marti Airport at 10:03 a.m., the Federal Aviation Administration said.

Besides Brown, 44, the crew members included co-pilot James E. Durr, 32; flight engineer David J. Schneider, 39, and stewardesses Barbara J. Mohny, Victoria J. Sikorski, Pamela D. Yorda and Donna J. Yost.

National said 11 of the passengers boarded at Los Angeles.

It was the second hijacking of a National plane this year. Last Friday a National 727 jet was hijacked en route from Miami to Key West by a long-haired teenager who said he was a Navy deserter. The plane carried 40 passengers.

Of the 10 hijackings this year, six have involved U.S. airlines. The other planes belonged to Peruvian, Ecuadorian and Colombian airlines.

National said it did not know when the hijackers boarded the plane.

In past hijackings, Cuban authorities have released both the planes and the people within hours. Although they have insisted that fully loaded jets could not safely take off from Jose Marti. The Cuban officials have forced the crews to fly empty jets back to the United States, allowing the passengers to return aboard shuttle flights using smaller planes.

Huntington Surf Can't Beat This

It may not have memories of the old Pavalon, feature Sonny and Cher at the Golden Bear — or scenic vistas of wandering, miniskirted teenyboppers — but Cua Viet has surf as good as Huntington Beach.

"I'd say it's as good," says Navy dental technician 2/C Rex Crossley, of Valinda, a frequent Huntington Beach surfing visitor while on stateside duty.

"The Tonkin Gulf has some great waves," Crossley added.

He was interviewed at Cua Viet, a beach six miles south of the DMZ border between North and South Vietnam, which is a swimming and surfing preserve for Marines and Navy men.

Fourth Suspect In Christmas Gang Rape Held

A fourth suspect in the Christmas day mass rape of a 16-year-old girl in Huntington Beach is in the custody of Fairhaven, Mass. police today.

Huntington Beach police said Robert Lewis Souza was arrested Saturday in Fairhaven. Authorities here weren't sure yet on what charges he is held or if extradition back to California would be possible.

A warrant for Souza's arrest was issued last week after he was named as one of ten men suspected of participating in a gang style rape of a runaway Anaheim girl in a Huntington Beach teen hangout, the Syndicate 3000, police said.

Souza is a native of Massachusetts but he had been living an unknown length of time in Huntington Beach, police added.

Three other suspects were arrested last week.

Jasper O. Hickey, 20, of 877 W. Wilson St., Costa Mesa, is in custody at Orange County jail on $1,500 bail. Preliminary hearing for Hickey is scheduled at 9 a.m. Wednesday before Judge Walter Charamza of West Orange County Municipal Court.

Peter Buell, 22, of El Monte, was released on his own recognizance until his Feb. 5 arraignment.

Sunset Sewage Problems Spill Over Into Harbour

Sunset Beach sewage problems literally spilled over into the waterways of the Huntington Harbour section of Huntington Beach during the recent rainstorms.

Richard Harrison, manager of the Sunset Beach Sanitation District's controversial sewage treatment plant on Warner Avenue just north of Pacific Coast Highway said Monday that it was true that there was some flow into the channels during the storm.

"There was some flow of treated sewage water," he explained. "But it was mostly rain water they (the objecting residents of the marina area) saw running out of the settling pond."

John Silver of the Huntington Harbour Property Owners Association and others who live nearby met Monday with Ron Montgomery of the Huntington Harbour Corp. to look at the runoff areas which had contaminated the main channel.

Silver and his group said they want action immediately to close the plant. Montgomery pledged the aid of his company and said he would arrange a meeting of all concerned with the sewage plant later.

Harrison said that "the alternative to letting the overflow of treated sewage go into the channel was to allow raw sewage to back up into the streets."

"My first job is to keep the plant open and functioning and while sewage plants all up and down the coast failed and are not in operation at all today, I've kept this one working."

Considerable time has been put in by board members of Orange County Sanitation District 11, the City Council of Huntington Beach, Fire Chief Raymond Picard and by members of the board of the sanitation district to find a way to allow removal of the plant, yet not increase drastically the taxes for the families along the beach side of Coast Highway.

Harrison said that by Monday morning he had the plant under control and functioning as well as could be expected with the rains.

"We've had the highest tides of the year and the heaviest rains in decades. There was bound to be some problem."

Homeowners, however, were not happy about the sewage problem and pledged a fight "to the very top, if we must," to eliminate the plant.

Buffalo Bills Tap Simpson

USC Grid Star First Pick as Pro Football Draft Begins

NEW YORK (AP) — The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League chose Southern California's O.J. Simpson, an All-American halfback who won the Heisman Trophy, as the third annual combined pro football draft got under way today.

The choice of Simpson as the No. 1 pick came as no surprise. Many rate him the best ball-carrier in football history.

Simpson has indicated that he would demand as much as a $600,000 bonus.

SA River Raft Ride Fatal to Boy

Voyaging on the flood-choked Santa Ana River for an after-school adventure Monday, four boys — unaware of a treacherous waterfall ahead — were dumped from their rubber raft and inertube into the muddy torrent.

Three made it safely ashore.

One daring sailor, whose parents were just returning from an ocean cruise to Hawaii, is missing and presumed drowned in the debris-littered flood channel.

He is Bill Dischner, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dischner, of 2424 N. Flower St., Santa Ana, and the brother of one survivor.

SUFFERED SHOCK

Robert Dischner, 18, is recovering from shock and exposure today at Orange County Medical Center, where the other two victims were treated and released after the ordeal Monday.

They are Randy Howard, 18, of 2611 Greenbrier St., and Craig Park, 17, of 26117 Freeman Lane, Both Santa Ana addresses, according to investigators.

The drama of adventurous boys, battling a river flooded by the worst Southland storm since one 15 years before they were born, began to unfold at 4:20 a.m., when a county employee spotted them.

Gary Hadin, 7, patrolling inspector for the county flood control district, saw three boys in the raft and one on the inertube and called Anaheim police.

Howard, photographing the fatal lark from the inertube and his companions were then battling the 20-mile-per-hour river currents between Katella and Orangewood Avenues.

Death waited just ahead, beneath the surface, where the raging waters plunged over a five-foot-high check dam which is built to span the river.

STADIUM NEARBY

Angel Stadium is just a short distance away from the tragedy scene.

By the time Anaheim Police Officer James Santoro and Orange County Sheriff's deputies arrived on another among what has been frequent river-raiding calls this week, the raft and tube had capsized.

The three survivors — shivering and sobbing at the tragedy they never considered — were found on the east bank of the river, while their yellow raft bobbed in the brown rapids.

"He went down and he just never came up again," said Howard, an ac-

Beach Banquet

Freedom 'Risky'
Says CofC Guest

credited Red Cross junior lifeguard who pulled one buddy ashore but was unable to save the younger Dischner brother.

One attempt to get Bill Dischner failed, so Howard dashed upstream and entered the treacherous water again, to float to the overturned raft, but the missing youth had lost his grip and gone.

Trembling and tearful, Howard said he and his companions had successfully voyaged before and that he plans to go on an organized Colorado River rapids-run this Easter Week.

"I think," he added in subdued tones.

Parents of the boy whose body is believed jammed in river debris somewhere downstream — or even washed to sea — arrived in San Francisco Monday night aboard the SS Lurline.

Mr. and Mrs. Dischner were picked up at the dock and flew to Orange County Airport after being advised that they had apparently lost their son.

He also leaves younger brothers Richard, 14, Donald, 12, and Kenny, 6, according to investigators who compiled details of the tragedy Monday.

All four youths dumped into the five-foot-deep floodwaters are Santa Ana High School students and only the missing boy — stocky and in good shape, but with a blood condition — was not a top athlete.

Howard was starting center on the football team, while Bob Dischner was a varsity guard and young Park is starting center of the Santa Ana High School varsity basketball team.

Park Building
At Beach Meet

The future park building program for Huntington Beach will be discussed in detail at a joint meeting Wednesday night of the City Council, Planning Commission, Recreation and Park Commission and staff members.

The session is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall, 5th Street and Pecan Avenue.

At stake is a program which will cost the taxpayers some $6 million. It includes plans for a large central city park and scores of small neighborhood parks.

A $6 million bond issue has been proposed to pay for the program and the meeting Wednesday night could resolve the date of the election.

A similar proposal failed to get the needed two thirds vote at the polls on Nov. 5, losing on a 62 per cent yes vote.

Construction of a library, which was also on the Nov. 5 ballot, is expected to be completed through bonds sold under a joint powers agreement with the county. Approval of the voters is not needed for this type of bond.

100th Transplant Dies

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The world's 100th heart transplant patient, Wylie Juliard, 22, of Babylon, N.Y., died early today in the Cleveland Clinic.

issued the statement as a partial explanation of why today's college campuses are in such turmoil.

"We have become so preoccupied with freedom's rights, that we are neglecting freedom's responsibilities," said Dr. Banowsky.

"Today's youth are living in a world of paradoxes," he continued, "we have peace yet war. We dine at large banquets while other people starve."

"There has never been a generation more deeply in search of commitment than today's youth," Dr. Banowsky said.

But they need leadership, he pointed out. "It's time for the great American middle, the chamber of commerce and others, to provide some direction for their search."

"They have to be shown that absolute freedom is not complete freedom, but complete absurdity."

Dr. Banowsky warned that unless America learns this lesson, "at some point we may prefer tyranny to anarchy."

He told the audience in conclusion that the youth and ourselves must learn that "freedom simply means that we can become what we should."

Before Dr. Banowsky's speech, the 300 diners at the Sheraton Beach Inn witnessed the installation of the Chamber's 1969 officers and Board of Directors.

C. E. "Bill" Woods, 1968 vice president of the Chamber, took over the top post Monday night as he was installed president for 1969.

Other 1969 officers installed were: C. William Carlson, first vice president; Pete Horton, second vice president; William S. Peterson, treasurer, and Howard C. Matheny, retiring president.

The Board of Directors for 1969 includes Stan Botello, James DeGuelle, Jack Feehan, Dr. Max Forney, Jack Froggatt, Jack Groth, Jack Higley.

Stephen F. Holden, Fred Kalenborn, Ralph C. Kiser, A. C. Marion, George McCracken, Robert L. Merriman, R. M. Morgan, M. D., Leonard Shane, Martin Snow, Frank Richmond, Ed Thompson, Tom Welch and George West.

Women's division officers include Helen Stewart, president, Elizabeth Casey, first vice president; Ladema Pearmain, second vice president; Alice Bartlett, treasurer; Sue Regan, recording secretary, and Pat Klingensmith, corresponding secretary.

Youth Involved
In Wild Joy Ride
Given 8 Months

A youth who admitted that he was the passenger in a stolen sports car which was driven by a 16-year-old Seal Beach girl at more than 100 m.p.h. has been sentenced to eight months in Orange County Jail.

Superior Court Judge Robert Gardner also ruled that Patrick D. Phelan, 18, of Long Beach, must serve three years probation. His girl companion is currently serving a 15-day detention sentence in Juvenile Hall.

Police arrested Phelan and the girl last Jan. 2 after a wild "Keystone Kops" pursuit through four county communities. Seal Beach, Cypress, Buena Park, La Palma and Los Angeles and Orange County sheriff's units joined in the highspeed chase.

The two were arrested when they drove the car off the San Diego Freeway at Los Alamitos Boulevard. Phelan was convicted of auto theft; the juvenile was found guilty of driving without a valid driver's license and violation of curfew.

Valley High

About 15 Teens for Christ picketed Fountain Valley High School Monday from 2 to 4 p.m. in their continuing protest against what they charge is education's unfairness to religion.

The young Christian revolutionaries have previously picketed Marina High School and Huntington Beach High School to demonstrate their belief in the right to distribute Bible tracts on school property.

Sunday, one of the Teens, Hap Wotella, picketed the First Assembly of God Church in Santa Ana.

Wotella is a marine radio operator at El Toro Marine Station.

According to Wotella, a church member reported him to the Marine Military Police, who took him into custody for an alleged violation of service regulations.

Wotella was told that no member of the armed services is allowed to picket, demonstrate or be involved in such activities.

The young follower of Jesus said he thought the rule meant only while in uniform.

Wotella said that once Marine officials found out what he was doing they released him without punishment, but asked that he not picket while in the service. He is due for separation from the Marine Corps on Feb. 7.

"It was ironic," said Wotella, "that the church we were picketing is the former congregation of my wife, Lois Jean."

Citizens Give Library Plans Good Going Over

About 20 citizens turned out Monday night before the Laguna Beach Planning Commission to debate or comment upon future public library development in the community.

Speakers either lined up in favor of consultant recommendations or spent their time verbally knocking holes in the proposals.

It was emphasized haste is needed in selection of a library site, otherwise, currently budgeted county funds for site study, architects' fees and engineering costs could be lost with the beginning of the new fiscal year in June.

Vernon Spitaleri, past president of the Friends of the Library said that continuing delay in selection of a site has meant that five years of expanded service were lost and that "that many waves of children have lost out."

"Gentlemen, the community is tired of study."

"We don't really care anymore where you put the library, just put it. If it is economically feasible to put it on the central site then put it there, we just don't happen to believe that it is feasible."

The first speaker was Jim Dilley, president of the Citizens' Town Planning Association, a group strongly in favor of expanding existing facilities rather than relocating the library.

Dilley presented planners with a 12-page report criticizing the Daniel, Mann, Johnson & Mendenhall (DMJM) study of library site, and presenting opinions of other planners and librarians concerning library location.

The DMJM report recommended on a priority basis the selection of sites at, first choice, the Water District Pipe Yard north side of Third Street, second choice, Third Street, east side, and third choice, Blumont and Park Avenue.

DMJM ruled out the existing site because of high site cost and parking problems. Dilley charged that when all factors were in, the cost of property was competitive, that the DMJM report was incomplete, and noted contradictions within the report and false assumptions.

"It appears to us that the central site excels on every score," Dilley said. He cited accessibility of the existing location, low building cost, and desirability of keeping the library in the central town.

"There are many studies where libraries have suffered by even a half-block move."

"Our library has come to a very flourishing condition in its present location and this alone would suggest the folly of moving," he said.

Clifford Cave branch librarian, presented the commission with a 13-page study of his own recommending the present site be re-evaluated, that the (See LIBRARY, Page 2)

Laguna Blaze Believed Arson as Woman Sought

A young woman who stood outside a Laguna Beach residence and said "we're burning it down" may have been telling the truth.

Fire Marshal James Presson who is

The fire Sunday night gutted a small frame residence at 389 Cress St. Presson said the tenant Thomas B. Bidwell was gone at the time. He said two or three mattresses on the floor indicated there were or had been other occupants.

Presson said the blaze started in the center of the front room. He had not yet pinned down the cause after running tests Monday.

Officials were told that a woman outside the flaming structure was holding a long knife and had made incendiary remark to a passerby who asked if she needed help.

Leary in Court for Drugs

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dr. Timothy Leary, so-called high priest of the tune-in, drop out cult, was arraigned on hashish, marijuana and LSD charges Monday in San Clemente Municipal Court.

He was ordered to appear for preliminary hearing April 1 by Judge Richard Hamilton.

Leary's wife, Rosemary, and son John, 19, were also arraigned on the charges and ordered to appear with Leary.

The accusations stem from arrests in Laguna Beach Dec. 26 when the Leary trio was picked up by Officer Neil Purcell.

Purcell said he observed the Leary station wagon parked in the 200 block of Woodland Drive late that night. The Learys said then they were saying good-bye to John and that the car was legally parked.

Police alleged one pound of marijuana, some LSD, and hashish were seized. Leary, 40, a former Harvard psychology professor, repeated off-beat charges of police harassment to newsmen at the court appearance.

Leary dressed in a Nehru jacket, said the last time he was in Orange County last time he was in Orange County he was stopped by a Highway Patrolman who accused him of being drunk. "I'd been eating apples. I showed him the evidence — a sack of apples and one core."

"I know Adam and Eve got busted for that but..." Leary quipped.

He said he had been stopped by officers 14 times that his son had been stopped 12 times and his daughter and wife had been stopped five times.

Out of all those, only one other case ever went to trial, he said. It is now under appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

He said he expects a ruling "any day" from the court on the legality of marijuana.

Lagunan Endows College With $200,000 Fund

A local businessman disturbed by lack of integrity in high places has donated more than $200,000 to Claremont Men's College to establish a chair of philosophy.

The endowment by Frederick I. Richman, attorney and president of Consolidated Mortgage Co., was announced this week by George C.S. Benson, college president.

"My hope is that our philosophy department will create an emphasis on integrity as a way of life," said Richman, 1200 Skyline Drive.

"The great strength of this nation is that we have no actual norm for our national life or philosophy," Richman said. "The pendulum is swinging now throughout the country and through philosophy we hope to keep that pendulum swinging in a constructive way."

He said the endowment would be invested and the income used to establish and maintain the philosophy chair.

Dr. Benson said, "We are delighted to be able to name this important chair in honor of Fred Richman."

"He has been a generous contributor and a loyal trustee of the college for more than 10 years. His keen interest in public life fits closely with the college's primary area of interest."

"Because philosophy lies at the basis of most of our decisions regarding government and economics, an endowed chair in philosophy is particularly needed at this college. It is a fitting recognition of Richman's efforts here."

Richman's son, Frederick Jr. is an alumnus of the small college.

Pair Shoot Burst Into Cockpit

MIAMI (UPI) — Two men armed with a pistol and explosive burst into the cockpit of a National Airlines jet between New Orleans and Miami today and forced the pilot to fly to Cuba with 32 persons aboard.

The hijackers struck moments after National's flight 64 took off from New Orleans shortly after 9 a.m. The flight had originated in Los Angeles and had made a stop in Houston.

The super DC8 — the 10th plane to be hijacked to Cuba this year — carried 25 passengers and a crew of seven.

"Please be advised that I am going to Havana," Capt. James G. Brown radioed to ground controllers. "I have two men in the cockpit, one with a .38 and one with some type of an explosive device and they are holding a stewardess."

The plane landed at Havana's Jose Marti Airport at 10:03 a.m., the Federal Aviation Administration said.

Besides Brown, 44, the crew members included co-pilot James E. Durr, 32; flight engineer David J. Schneider, 39; and stewardesses Barbara J. Mohney, Victoria J. Sikorski, Pamela D. Yorda and Donna J. Yost.

National said 11 of the passengers boarded at Los Angeles.

It was the second hijacking of a National plane this year. Last Friday a National 727 jet was hijacked en route from Miami to Key West by a long-haired teen-ager who said he was a Navy deserter. The plane carried 40 passengers.

Of the 10 hijackings this year, six have involved U.S. airlines. The other planes belonged to Peruvian, Ecuadorian and Colombian airlines.

National said it did not know when the hijackers boarded the plane.

In past hijackings, Cuban authorities have released both the planes and the people within hours. Although they have insisted that fully loaded jets could not safely take off from Jose Marti. The Cuban officials have forced the crews to fly empty jets back to the United States, allowing the passengers to return aboard shuttle flights using smaller planes.

Board Eyes IBM Leasing At Thurston

A proposed contract to lease a computer system from International Business Machines (IBM) for Laguna's Thurston School will be up for board consideration tonight.

Dr. William Ullom, district superintendent, said the flexible scheduling equipment consisting of three machines could be leased from IBM for $660 monthly using the 70 percent student discount rate.

The equipment, said Dave Lloyd, principal of the innovation school, is used to daily build a partial master schedule of classes, teachers and students in the classes.

The system, if accepted by the board, would replace an earlier system supplied by McBee Systems, a division of Litton Industries, on a three-year lease-purchase arrangement for $23,854.

The board on Jan. 14 acted to rescind the McBee contract because of difficulties involved in performance of the data system.

In other business, the board will:

- Consider a report on relocation of the bus stop on Forest Avenue at Second Street which has been a thorn in the side of motorists cited by police for not stopping for school buses.
- Receive for action a policy statement guaranteeing free or reduced-price meals to needy children and setting up the guidelines for the program.
- Hear a capsule report on four films from the Orange County Film Library by Ron Ross. They are on the library restricted list although accepted by the County board of education in 1958.

Dr. Ullom said some persons have maintained the films teach communism rather than teaching about it. They are "Iron Curtain Lands," "The Face of Red China," "Nightmare in Red," and "Russia."

—Be asked to apply for $1,206 in federal funds for school library resources.

—Consider requirements for another federal-funds project to assist in elementary school counseling.

She is the mother of Mrs. Jose Rosan, San Juan Capistrano, and lived along the Orange Coast for 15 years, leaving a large number of relatives including 21 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Survivors include sons, James D., Costa Mesa, John J., Buena Park, and Robert T., Long Beach, as well as two other daughters, Mrs. Warren Michaelis, and Miss Margaret Magner, both of Costa Mesa.

Arrangements are under the direction of the Laguna Beach Mortuary.

Defense Committee Aids Youth Facing LSD Rap

His innocence proclaimed by sign-carrying friends, a Laguna Beach youth charged with possession of LSD arrived in court Monday with legal counsel arranged by a defense committee.

Joseph Zahrt, 19, is supported by the Committee to Defend Joseph Zahrt, which has gathered $20 in cash and $47 more in promises.

The funds — and perhaps promises — will go to Santa Ana criminal attorneys George Chula and Robert Law, who are handling defense of the youth, arrested Jan. 5, on narcotics and jaywalking charges.

Laguna Beach Police Officer Neil Purcell stopped Zahrt on suspicion of jaywalking on South Coast Highway, then arrested him after finding a capsule of suspected LSD at his feet.

During Monday's preliminary hearing in South Orange County Judicial District Court, attorney Chula began a minute exploration into just why Officer Purcell stopped Zahrt.

The hearing — in which Zahrt pleaded innocent — was continued until Feb. 10 so his counsel can prepare the defense.

city declare its willingness to abandon the half block of Park Avenue necessary for expansion and the site be chosen as quickly as possible.

Cave said he personally supported expansion of the existing location.

He said, however, if all things necessary for its use could not be done "within a few weeks, then the city and county seek an agreement with the Water District Board for purchase of the pipe yard."

Other speakers in favor of relocation of the library were Dr. Anthony Demetriades, speaking for the Civic League.

He urged swift action, and said that he was "in overall agreement with the DMJM report." He said it would be a catastrophe if the library is left in the "hustle and bustle of downtown."

Following presentations, Planning Commission Chairman Fred Briggs noted commissioners had "a lot of weighty information to digest."

Now Laguna Has A Dog Burglar

Still in the midst of their cat burglar cases, Laguna Beach police got a dog burglar report Monday.

Telen Stuart, 1505 Regatta Road, told police about a dog that steals shoes out of her garage. Police responded but the pooch had slipped off.

College Enrollment Dips Saddleback Students Home During Winter

Saddleback College enrollment has fallen off sharply as half the night students of last fall are staying home for the winter quarter.

Daytime enrollment since the end-of-quarter holiday shows a slight increase from 827 students to 834. But extended day enrollment dropped from about 750 students to 572.

Some theories for the attrition were offered at the Saddleback board meeting Monday night.

Supt. Fred Bremer said he thought many of the missing night students are enrolled this quarter at other junior colleges. "I think the word got out that they can enroll for up to six units without an interdistrict permit," he said.

He noted that from the Tustin area another junior college might be closer and that women probably have some fear of attending college at night in an isolated area.

Board President Michael Collins said he figures that when the new college came to the area many people decided to go back and get a degree. "They've found three nights a week can be pretty rigorous," he suggested.

Trustees approved 175 courses for the winter quarter and discontinued 14 others because of insufficient enrollment.

In other action, the board:

- Approved a 50-50 split with the Mission Viejo Company of the cost of a $3,715 boundary survey of the permanent campus site.

- Heard a report from Dr. Bremer that the campus library is being sufficiently expanded to, he believes, meet the approval of a formerly critical accrediting commission.
- Passed a resolution urging the Board of Supervisors request of legislators that loss of assessed valuation due to agricultural preserves be made up from a wide area and not just from taxpayers close at hand.
- Signed an agreement permitting the Red Cross to use campus buildings during a disaster.
- Took steps to be put on the list of those receiving catalogues listing surplus government property.

Commercial-hotel Proposal Back On Design Board

It was back to the drawing board for Laguna Beach's proposed commercial-hotel zone Monday as city planning commissioners met in a study session to consider the proposal's fifth draft.

City planner Al Autry told commissioners that, following discussions with the city engineer, building director and city manager, the latest draft will be changed again.

Peter Olander, associated with the Civic League and Chamber of Commerce, asked why the zone was being pushed now rather than waiting until the city's master plan is ready.

"The area is not of that much consequence that it would affect the general plan standard," Autry answered.

He said that development of the proposed zone between Laguna Street and Cleo Street can't be held in abeyance while the master plan is worked out.

Development by the variance procedure would not be conducive to the sought for uniformity, Autry said.

Nixon Tells GOP Chiefs Crime Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told Republican Congressional leaders today he wants to wage a "war on crime," particularly in the nation's capital.

At a two-hour breakfast meeting with GOP leaders, Nixon also said he expected that the 10 percent income tax surcharge probably will have to be continued through 1970.

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen and House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford told newsmen after the White House meeting that Nixon would ask Congress for more money to boost the Justice Department's crime-fighting efforts.

"We're going to ask for supplemental funds for whatever it takes to carry out this war on crime," said Dirksen, reporting on the meeting with Nixon.

Later, Ford told newsmen at the Capitol it was hoped the administration could "solve the problems of the District of Columbia, as an example" of a successful fight against crime.

"We hope to use this as a showcase of what can be done," Ford said.

Dirksen and Ford did not specify how much money would be needed. They said it would go primarily for increasing judgeships, implementing bail reform and expanding the staffs of prosecuting attorneys.

On the income tax surcharge, Dirksen held out little hope that the 10 percent levy could be reduced or eliminated. "If we maintain a surplus, the surtax certainly will have to be maintained for the time being," Dirksen said.

After the White House conference, Nixon went to the Capitol for a meeting with House leaders of both parties.

At his news conference Monday, the President promised to launch an all-out battle against crime in the nation's capital, where even walking the streets at night can be a "very serious problem," he said.

Dirksen's remarks at the White House concerned primarily the District of Columbia and the federal courts but he indicated in answer to a reporter's question that he administration would also be willing to assist state courts in streamlining criminal proceedings and eliminating the backlog of criminal cases.

Attending the White House session were more than a dozen Republican congressional leaders, as well as Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell; George W. Romney, secretary of housing and urban development, and budget director Robert P. Mayo.

Besides crime, Dirksen said the conferees discussed the newly increased interest rates on mortgage loans by the Federal Housing Authority, and the subject of federal assistance to municipalities.

Capistrano Asks Reagan for Aid In Storm Damage

Suffering damage from the recent storms estimated at $2.5 million, San Juan Capistrano has appealed to Governor Ronald Reagan and the Board of Supervisors for aid. They want the city declared a disaster area.

Public works Director T. J. Meadows estimated storm damage to local streets and facilities at $1 million. He guessed that the county water works facilities had $500,000 damage.

Mayor Ed Chermak said he had checked damage to orchards and field crops in the city and adjacent areas and estimated losses there at another $1 million.

Damages included about 700 feet of sewer trunk lines ripped out by flooding of San Juan Creek, between 1,000 and 2,000 feet of lateral sewer lines destroyed and two bridges undermined.

Meadows said two of three water lines crossing Trabuco Creek were wiped out. He said raw sewage is being dumped into San Juan Creek as the result of the sewer line destruction.

Freeway Widening Delayed

El Toro-Capistrano Project Completion Set Back

Originally planned to coincide with opening Wednesday of the last link in the San Diego Freeway, a 16-mile freeway widening project from El Toro to San Juan Capistrano won't be done for two more months.

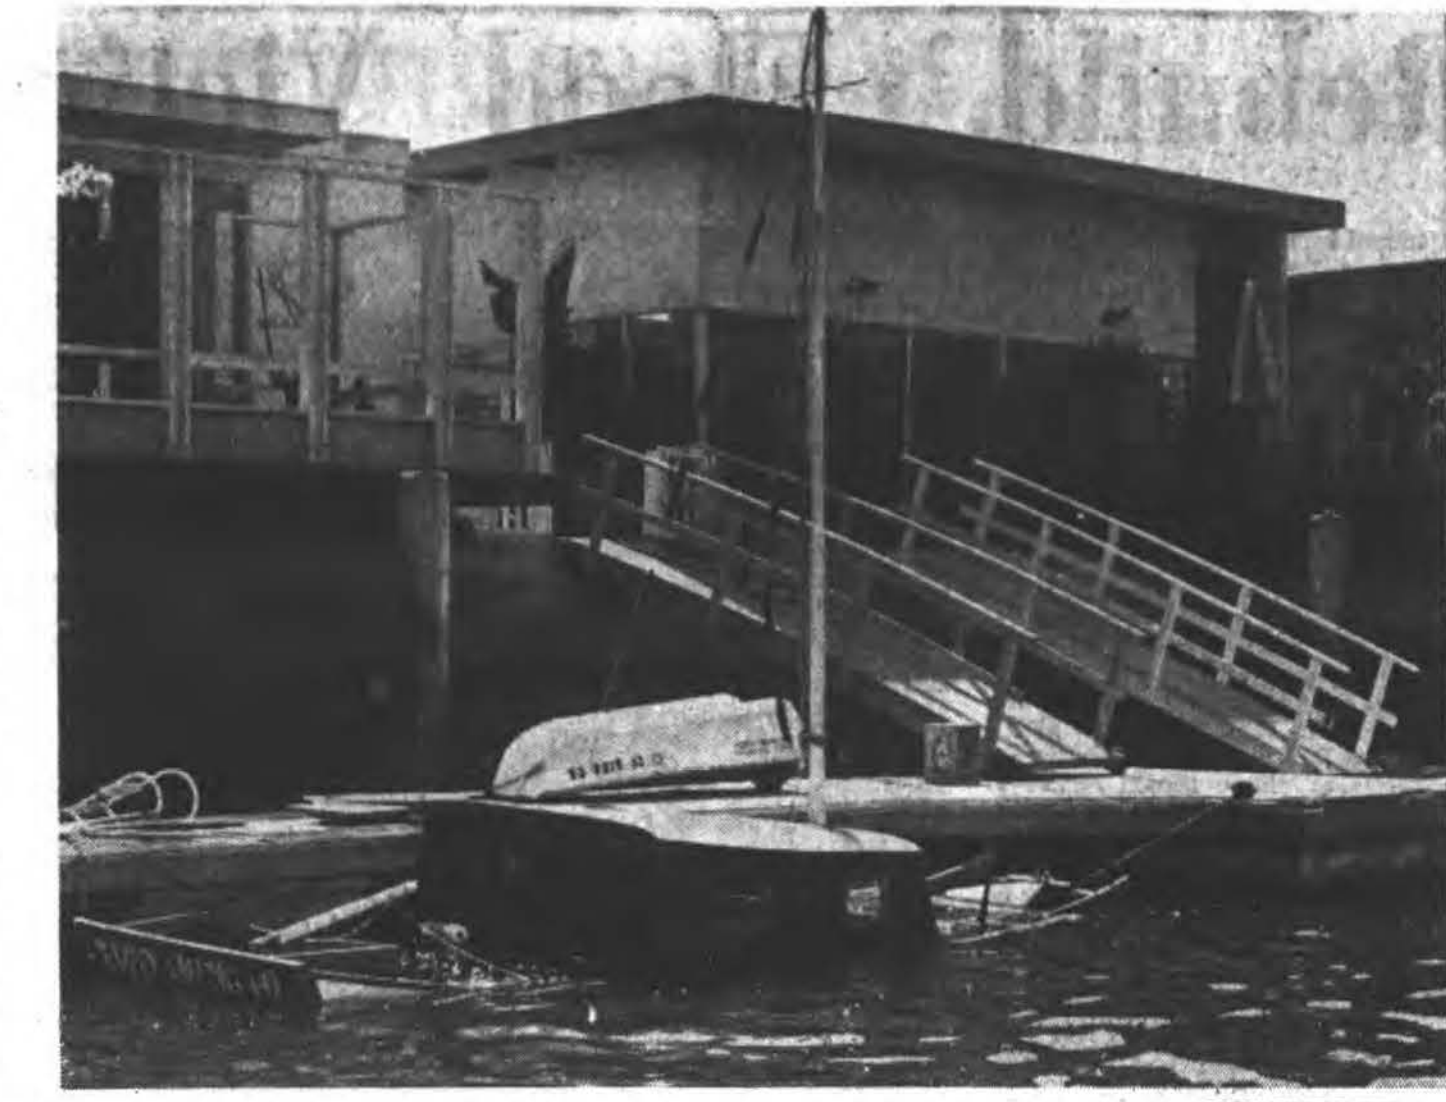

Spokesmen for District Seven of the State Division of Highways said Monday, however, that the eight-lane job begun in June, 1967, is still within its contract time limit.

Just as in the case of the U.S. Route 405 segment from Costa Mesa to its U.S. Route 5 tie-in near El Toro, construction changes and delays, plus rain, have held up the work schedule.

The $12.3 million job assigned to the Griffith Co., of Los Angeles, is due for completion about April 1, when the original four-lane freeway becomes eight lanes wide.

A portion of the freeway in the Laguna Canyon Road area is being widened to six lanes as well.

Most of the concrete paving is now in, but some asphalt concrete paving

Tests of Skull Murder Suspect Due Wednesday

Psychiatric evaluations of one of two men charged in the Elsinore execution murder of a man whose skull and watch were found by three Costa Mesa rabbit hunters will be submitted Wednesday.

Further proceedings against Rowland J. Berry, 20, of 734 Toland St., Santa Ana, depend on results of the sanity hearing in Riverside County Superior Court.

Berry pleaded innocent by reason of insanity at a preliminary hearing Jan. 8 and is set for jury trial April 14, while a motion will be heard Feb. 21 to dismiss charges against a second suspect.

Timothy Herron, 19, of 6012 Anthony St., Garden Grove, is being held without bail as is Berry, charged with the murder of Kent D. Davis, 21, of Hayward.

Prosecutors contend the pair — and perhaps additional men — shot Davis through the head in the lonely Railroad Canyon Dam area last April and left his body to be eaten by wild animals.

Two Costa Mesa brothers and a companion hunting last November stumbled across Davis' gnawed bones about dusk and brought the bullet-shattered skull and a watch to Costa Mesa police headquarters.

Subsequent investigation led to the theoretic reconstruction of an arranged narcotics sale in which purported suppliers merely took up to $800 from Davis and then killed him.

An 18-year-old youth and a 15-year-old boy were also arrested in connection with the case, but both were later released due to insufficient evidence for effective prosecution.

Fire Destroys Home in Viejo

Fire of unknown origin almost totally destroyed a Mission Viejo home early this morning.

When firemen arrived at the James R. Price home, 2483 Fordview St., the building was totally involved in flames which were bursting through the roof, they reported. Damage to the two-story home was estimated at $23,000.

Price and his wife were sleeping in a downstairs bedroom when their dog awakened them. They had to climb out a window to escape the flames.

A daughter was staying with her grandmother fortunately as she would have been sleeping upstairs which was totally burned.

U.S. Warns Israel Against Retaliation for Hangings

From Wire Services

WASHINGTON — The United States has urged Israel not to retaliate against the hanging of nine Jews as spies in Iraq, the State Department announced today. (See earlier story, Page 5.)

The urging was made through the U.S. Embassy in Israel within the last 24 hours, State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey told a news conference.

Responding to questions about threats or reprisals against Iraq McCloskey said:

"The position every American administration has taken regarding the cycle of provocations and reprisals has been a consistent one, it should be avoided. We continue to make that view known."

Then McCloskey acknowledged, in response to follow up questions, that the United States has urged Israel not to retaliate.

Meantime Iraq vowed today to hold more espionage trials despite international protests over the hangings of 14 men accused of spying for Israel, Baghdad Radio reported.

The radio, in a broadcast monitored in Beirut, said "other spies" will be tried soon, but did not elaborate. However, the Iraqi ambassador to the United Nations, Joel Barromi, said 60 more persons, many of them Israelis, would be tried for spying.

Angel Stadium Assessing Battle Set for Thursday

A showdown is likely Thursday morning in the battle between County Assessor Andrew J. Hinshaw and the city of Anaheim over property tax assessment of Anaheim Stadium.

The tax appeal board set 9:30 a.m. for announcing a decision.

The hearing has droned through three days, the longest tax appeal in Orange County history.

Hinshaw has assessed the possessory interest of the California Angels Baseball team in the stadium at $2.3 million. Anaheim which must pay any taxes under the lease agreement with the baseball club has paid $206,871 under protest.

Anaheim City Attorney Joseph Geisler representing the ball club contends that the Angels use the stadium only 80 days a year and do not have any rights on other days.

Deputy County Counsel Tim Strader represented the assessor in the hearings. He argued that the stadium was designed primarily for baseball and the Angels.

Possessory interest is the interest of a private party in government-owned property. Nonprofit corporations such as the city set up to build Anaheim Stadium are tax exempt.

No Recognition

Hanoi Discounts 'Private' Parley

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks cold-shouldered today a suggestion that talks might be held privately with representatives of the Saigon government.

The suggestion was raised Monday by South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky who said that eventually, if the "other side" was willing, there might be private talks "in Paris or anywhere else."

A spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation, again calling the Saigon government "an administration of traitors to the fatherland and people," said that any party to the "conference of four" in Paris who had something to say could raise it at this meeting.

He added that the fact that North Vietnam was participating in the talks did not signify in any way that it recognized the Saigon government.

Ky's reference to "the other side," was to emphasize his — and the Americans' — contention that the talks are two-sided and lend no recognition to the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front. The Hanoi delegation just as pointedly used the term "conference of four," to stress the claim of equality here for the Front.

Teachers Due Pay Losses At SF State

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With the customary pickets braving cold rains, San Francisco State College began its final week of the chaotic winter semester today amid reports of loss of pay or jobs for striking teachers and the threat of a bigger effort by dissidents.

A list of 277 college employees, most of them teachers, was sent to the state controller's office Monday afternoon for docking of pay.

However, the report did not say who are to be docked for striking or how much their checks — due Thursday and Friday — are to be reduced.

College officials said they made no recommendations of dismissals but hope to file a report by Thursday on how long certain teachers were out of class without authorization.

Under state law, teachers off the job five straight days have automatically resigned. The teachers strike began a month ago but school officials have been reluctant to apply the rule.

Meanwhile, a student strike leader said outside backers would be invited to a "community mobilization day."

"We're going to shut it down until the 15 demands are met," Hari Dillon, a spokesman for the Third World Liberation Front, declared at a news conference Monday.

He said the strike, which began Nov. 6, has "no room for pacifism or non-violence."

A rally staged last Thursday in defiance of a campus ban resulted in 456 arrests.

Huntington Surf Can't Beat This

It may not have memories of the old Pavalon, feature Sonny and Cher at the Golden Bear — or scenic vistas of wandering, miniskirted teenyboppers — but Cua Viet has surf as good as Huntington Beach.

"I'd say it's as good," says Navy dental technician 2/C Rex Crossley, of Valinda, a frequent Huntington Beach surfing visitor while on stateside duty.

"The Tonkin Gulf has some great waves," Crossley added.

He was interviewed at Cua Viet, a beach six miles south of the DMZ border between North and South Vietnam, which is a swimming and surfing preserve for Marines and Navy men.

If she did, the resolution said, full responsibility would be placed on Commissioner William Norwood. The resolution passed and Typhoon Phyllis stopped moving toward Saipan and halted 240 miles southeast of the island.

The four students grinned with pleasure when they got their marks in Clark University night courses—all B's and C's. All are inmates of the Worcester County jail in Massachusetts.

There are no Negroes in Mountain Lakes, N.J., but residents want the world to know it is not because they are not welcome. Mayor Carl Schmorr signed a petition, also signed by 657 of the town's residents, which said "We welcome individuals of any race, creed or color as citizens of Mountain Lakes."

'We'll Rebuild,' Flood Victim Vows

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. William Sugden walked into their $70,000 home in the flood-swept suburb of Glendora. The floor of the ranch-style stucco house was covered with two feet of mud, the furniture was soggy and beyond repair, shelves were covered with slime.

"My wife and I built every bit of this house ourselves 12 years ago and we will rebuild it ourselves," said Sugden, a supervising engineer at Lockheed Aircraft.

Sugden's determination was typical of other California householders as they surveyed the damage done to their property by mud, water and debris.

There were 91 known deaths in nine days of heavy rains. Seven other persons were missing and presumed dead in mudslides and flooded rivers.

Damage was estimated at $35 million by Gov. Ronald Reagan before he set out today on a private airplane tour of the flood-stricken areas. The estimate was expected to go millions of dollars higher.

Families with brooms and hand shovels trudged up hillside streets to their mud-caked homes. Strewn in their paths were boulders rolled like pebbles from the several California mountain ranges paralleling the Pacific Ocean.

Juan Carlos Constenla, 37, a research engineer with the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, found mud piled nearly to the ceiling of his $37,000 home and said he was grateful.

"Had the storm hit us a few minutes later, I would have been on my way to work and my wife would have been alone. She would have been trapped inside," he said.

When the rains came, Constenla said he awoke to what sounded like thunder. "I ran to the door but everything was jammed by rocks and mud. The sliding doors in the back were blocked and debris closed the front windows. The garage had over eight feet of mud," he said.

State officials said nearly 9,000 Californians were evacuated from their homes in similar circumstances.

Nearly 1,000 persons were isolated because of washouts, landslides and wrecked bridges throughout the state. Helicopters, flying under bright sun, came to the aid of the sick and the elderly.

The floods brought promises of emergency credit and other aid including the distribution of government food commodities from the U.S. Agriculture Department. More than 2,800 Pacific Gas and Electric Co. repairmen worked Monday to restore normal service to the state.

In San Francisco, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers estimated various flood control facilities around the state prevented another $1.25 billion in damage to property in foothill areas.

Work crews lifted mud and debris from the state's major roads and railways. Limited traffic began to move again on the Pacific Coast highway, a major north-south artery.

Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles estimated $15 million damage to that city alone. In Ventura County, agricultural officials predicted losses to citrus crops in the Santa Paula area would total another $15 million. Orange County damage was $1 million.

Health officials warned many California residents to boil all tap water. In areas of many cities, raw sewage was afloat in the streets. Sewage disposal plants were knocked out in several communities.

Bucher Goals: Clear Name, Get Command

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI) — Pueblo skipper Lloyd M. Bucher has two main goals — to clear his name and again command a U.S. Navy vessel.

The 41-year-old commander of the intelligence vessel feels there is no need for Congress to look into the capture of the Pueblo by North Korea one year ago.

Bucher says he is getting a fair hearing at a Navy Court of Inquiry. He thinks the public has "over-reacted" to his narrative of capture and torture and particularly to the "routine" Navy warning he is suspected of violating Navy regulations for relinquishing his ship without a fight.

The civilian attorney for Bucher, E. Miles Harvey, made those points Monday at a news conference.

Harvey said Bucher was distressed at the impression he is being made a scapegoat for higher-ups.

One of those superiors, Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson, testified in closed session before the five-admiral board on Monday.

As commander of United States Naval Forces operating from Japan, it was Johnson's operational and tactical decision not to go to the aid of Bucher and his 82-man crew after they radioed they were under attack.

That decision, however, may have gone as high as the White House.

Johnson will begin public testimony Wednesday. Other officers involved in the operational response to the Pueblo's radio messages for assistance will be called at the same time. Today's session was closed.

Harvey, a reserve commander in the Navy, called an unusual news conference to set the record straight.

The attorney said he was speaking at Bucher's request.

Vietnam Deaths May Soon Pass Korean War Toll

SAIGON (AP) — American combat deaths in Vietnam have passed 31,000 and could exceed the Korean War's toll by May 13, the first anniversary of the Paris peace talks, military spokesmen reported today.

Communiques for the past week have listed 28 Americans killed in action, raising the Vietnam war's toll to 31,019. More than 8,000 Americans have died on the battlefield since North Vietnamese and Washington representatives first met in Paris last May 13.

The weekly report of casualties for last week will be released on Thursday. It is expected to be substantially larger than 28 since the daily reports do not list scores of troops killed in small skirmishes, nor those who died of wounds and whose status is changed from missing to dead.

The U.S. Command reported last Thursday the eight-year Vietnam war has cost the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong at least 436,556 soldiers killed.

The U.S. combat toll for the three-year Korean War was 33,629.

Since Jan. 1, U.S. battle deaths have been averaging about 150 a week. There are 15 more weekly reporting periods until May 13, and if this average continues, the number of Americans killed in the Vietnam war would exceed 33,000 by the peace talks anniversary.

South Vietnamese rangers killed 320 Communists in the first big Vietnam battle of 1969.

Trying to catch the estimated 300 guerrillas who survived the 27-hour weekend battle, the giant stratofortis swept in in waves of five to 12 planes and hammered the target with a million pounds of bombs.

Elsewhere, about 1,500 U.S. infantrymen surrounded 120 Communists 19 miles southwest of Saigon. Communist mine fields hampered U.S. marines sweeping the Batangan Peninsula to the north.

Military spokesmen said the South Vietnamese rangers lost 51 men wounded but none killed in the highlands fight between Pleiku and Dak To 225 miles northeast of Saigon.

The battle erupted Saturday and ended at noon Sunday, the delayed report said. U.S. dive bombers were credited with at least 200 Communists killed.

It was the biggest fight of 1969 and centered in an area where South Vietnamese soldiers are taking over major fighting tasks as a prelude to the eventual withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam.

Within 24 hours after the weekend battle, the United States turned over its 3,000-man garrison at Dak To to South Vietnamese soldiers. Only a handful of Americans remained as liaison officers for U.S. artillery, air strikes and helicopters.

On Saigon's southern doorstep, about 1,500 American soldiers swarmed in on helicopters Monday and surrounded 120 Communist troops who opened fire on a landing U.S. chopper.

With air strikes and artillery barrages, the U.S. 9th Infantry Division and 199th Light Infantry Brigade troopers hammered the beleaguered guerrilla unit, killing 10 Communists.

Republicans Wield Control Of Committees

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Republicans took control of a majority of the Assembly's 21 committees today and sought to reserve the power to challenge the Senate's Democratic leadership.

Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan (R-Tracy), announced committee members Monday. The new lineup offers Gov. Reagan a better chance for passage of proposals to combat obscenity and campus disorders and to reform the state's tax structure.

The GOP moved from a 5-5 tie on the Criminal Procedure Committee to a 5-4 majority; from a 9-7 Democratic edge on the Education Committee to 9-8 Republican; from 8-6 Democratic to Republican control of the Ways and Means Committee, which considers the state's budget.

In the Senate, both parties held separate caucuses on 1969 house rules proposed by Senate President pro tem Hugh M. Burns (D-Fresno).

Later, the Senate Republican leader reported that his caucus wanted to ensure that the 40-member house could elect a new president pro tem with 20 votes — the number of seats now held by Republican members.

But Sen. Donald L. Grunsky of Watsonville, the Republican leader, emphasized that the GOP senators only "want to maintain our option" and not move against Burns now.

"We haven't decided what we're going to do," Grunsky said.

Burns' proposed rules, reportedly much the same as last year's would require 21 votes to elect a president pro tem.

But the Republicans hold a majority of seats, since the death of Sen. George Miller Jr. (D-Martinez), reduced the Democrats' holding from 20 to 19.

A successor to Miller will be chosen by April.

Nixon Tells Setter 'Eat 'em Alive'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today introduced his new 6-month-old male Irish setter, King Timahoe, to the press. "Eat 'em alive," he instructed the dog with a laugh.

Nixon paraded the frisky new pet around the rose garden and broke up when he heard a cameraman call out: "Mr. President would you mind pulling his ears?"

Nixon's predecessor, Lyndon B. Johnson, caused an uproar with dog lovers around the world when he once playfully pulled his beagle's ears.

"Let the record show Irish setters have very sensitive ears," Nixon said.

The Irish setter was a belated birthday gift from Nixon's staff to replace the bronze replica of a setter given to Nixon on his 56th birthday last Jan. 9.

Nixon told newsmen "you have to run with this dog. That's the way I'll do my jogging."

Then with a twinkle in his eye, he quipped, "I am not going to be running for a few years."

12 Men Rescued From Fire Trap In Coal Mine

MOUNT MORRIS, Pa. (UPI)—Twelve miners were rescued today after being trapped more than six hours by fire deep inside a soft coal mine on the Pennsylvania-West Virginia border.

Rescue teams led 11 of the men to safety from an area where they had barricaded themselves 3,000 feet from the bottom of the 430-foot-deep Mount Morris portal of the Christopher Coal Co.'s Humphrey No. 7 mine.

The 12th man was carried out by stretcher and taken in an ambulance to a hospital. Rescuers said he did not appear to be injured seriously.

Company fire crews and firemen from nearby communities fought the flames with water and then with foam.

Millard Brock, 38, of Morgantown, W. Va., section boss of the trapped men, said the men did not panic and immediately employed routine survival measures, first finding a safe area with fresh air and building a barricade.

"It was not bad down there," Brock said. "We got a little smoke but nobody panicked. Everybody followed my orders to a 'T' and we got out okay."

Brock said the men followed a tunnel away from the fire until they found an area with fresh air.

"Thank the Lord for that," he said. Three rescue teams entered the mine shortly before 11 a.m. and quickly made contact with the 12 miners.

The Laguna Line

Whirl of Entertainment Predicted in February

By JEAN COX
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

February's activity pace will start out slowly, but will quicken as St. Valentine's Day approaches and break out into a gallop Friday, Feb. 21, the opening of the Laguna Beach Winter Festival.

THE FIRST day of the month, Saturday, Feb. 1, is the closing date of Laguna Beach Ebells Club's two-day rummage sale which is taking place in Laguna Beach Woman's Clubhouse.

THIS SHOULD be a pleasant month for music-lovers, beginning Sunday, Feb. 2, when Laguna Beach Chamber Music Society presents the Borodin Quartet in Laguna Beach High School's auditorium at 8 p.m. Laguna Beach Community Concert Association also will use the auditorium for a presentation Sunday, Feb. 9, at 8:15 p.m. of Orchestra Michelangelo di Firenze. "The 17 members of this ensemble have been drawn from the ablest orchestral musicians of central Italy and are noted for their superb musicianship, virtuosity and tonal clarity," Mrs. L. F. White, association press chairman, commented.

THE FESTIVAL OF ARTS Chorale, will be entertaining music-lovers every week on Mondays at 7:30 p.m. in Laguna Beach Community Presbyterian Church. Marilyn (Mrs. Frank) Interlandi leads the singers.

TUESDAY, FEB. 11, will find women playing bingo, traveling, bidding at an auction and visiting a hospital.

A bingo party will begin at 10 a.m. in the Mystic Park home of Mrs. Carol Sturm. The event is being sponsored by Laguna Beach Chapter, League for the Orange County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, a fairly new group led by Mrs. Joseph Petrash.

Laguna Beach Assistance League will sponsor a bus trip which will take travelers to Ports of Call Village where they will enjoy luncheon aboard the SS Princess Louise. The Opera League of Laguna Beach, a fund-raising branch of the Lyric Opera Association of Orange County, will offer a meeting and white elephant auction in the Monarch Bay Beach Club, and Laguna Beach Ebells Club members have selected the day for sponsoring a St. Valentine's Day celebration for their adopted ward in Fairview State Hospital.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY, Wednesday, Feb. 12, will be a school holiday. It's the same date South Coast Garden Club members will gather at 2 p.m. in Three Arch Bay Community Clubhouse for an illustrated program presented by Mrs. D.M. Hummel, followed by a tea chaired by Mrs. J. Parley Smith.

A FESTIVE array of St. Valentine's Day events have been planned by area women. The gala Valentine's Ball will take place in the Newporter Inn under auspices of Silver and Gold Chapter, South Coast Community Hospital Auxiliary.

Mrs. William H. Bruggere (right) plays auctioneer while (left to right) the Mmes. George H. K. Bryant, Jacob Onstott and Thomas Armstrong get in a few practice bids before the White Elephant Sale. The event will be sponsored by Opera League of Laguna Beach, a fund-raising branch of the Lyric Opera Association of Orange County in the Monarch Bay Beach Club Tuesday, Feb. 11. Mrs. William Hinwood is president and Mrs. Bruggere will be auctioneer. Mrs. Jack Lyons is in charge of the event and reports refreshments will be keeping with the celebration of Washington's birthday.

Club Passport Unlocks Beauty

Laguna Beach Garden Club's annual flower show is expected to be one of the highlights of the Winter Festival when it takes place in the Laguna Beach Woman's Clubhouse Friday, Feb. 28, and Saturday, March 1.

The club used to open its show in late spring, but at the request of Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce moved it to coincide with the Winter Festival in order to offer horticultural appeal to Art Colony visitors.

Theme of the show, Passport to Beauty, will salute homes of both residents and visitors. There will be 32 classes of horticulture and 16 artistic division classes, all of which are open to entry by area residents who want to exhibit their choice blooms or flower arrangements.

Area landscape architects, nurseries and commercial florists will cooperate by displaying exotic specimen plantings and latest developments in the horticultural field. In addition, junior exhibits by school children and special exhibits by neighboring garden club members are planned.

Mrs. Andy Antosik is coordinating the event with the help of co-chairmen Mrs. John Burri and Mrs. Arnold Kearns. Mrs. Eldon Stark heads the staging committee, and Mrs. Paul Harnegnies is classification chairman.

Others working behind the scenes are the Mmes. Wilfrid Verity and William Robb, entries; Charles Achauer and David J. Erikson, artistic division; Harry Busby, horticulture placement; Frank N. Benham, artistic placement, and Leonard Davis, hospitality.

Judges and clerks have been selected by Mrs. Neil H. Lewis. The conservation exhibit is being set up by Mrs. John Reilly, and Mrs. Jack Cole is in charge of outside special exhibits while Mrs. Lyle Ingerick is junior exhibits chairman.

More workers are the Mmes. W. Herbert Allard, publicity; J. Orville Chilton, tea committee chairman; Reg Ketteringham and Floyd Case, plant table; Charles Dillinger, programs and posters, and James R. Wylie, treasurer.

Working schedules for the show are now available in the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce Office, Floral Arts Studio or from club committee members.

Ebells Club's Rummage Sale Proves Frightening

Some of the merchandise to be offered in the Laguna Beach Ebells Club's annual spring rummage sale is pretty frightening — at least it scares Mrs. Douglas Kenaston (center). Showing her the African heads are (left) Mrs. Rudolph S. Steward and (right)

Mrs. James Agnew. The event will take place in Laguna Beach Women's Clubhouse Friday, Jan. 31, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday, Feb. 1, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

'Exceed-drin' Headache No. 2: Spirits Spoil Romance

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please, please print this letter for the benefit of men who drink too much too often.

Boys: You are lousy lovers when you are drunk. Your wives find you revolting and disgusting. Also inadequate. When you come home from a party smashed out of your mind, please forget about romance. When you roll in dead drunk from a lodge meeting or from a poker game — or whatever it was — please don't wake up your wife and make silly suggestions. It is annoying to be jolted out of a sound sleep and she will not appreciate your sudden interest in her.

This sort of thing happens to me at least twice a week and I am sick of it. My husband doesn't remember a single thing the next day and telling him does no good. He doesn't believe it. So, dear Ann Landers, be a friend and publish this letter in your column. I want to tape it to my husband's shaving mirror. Thanks much. — KLONDIKE KATE

DEAR KATE: Here's your letter and I hope His Majesty takes the hint. You can bet your bottom dollar HIS shaving mirror won't be the only one that is decorated this morning!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In 1964 I began to date a man who came to work for our firm. At first he showed very little interest in me but I "grew on him," he says, as time went on. In 1966 we became engaged. I am now 31 years of age, he is 36. I've been wanting to get married and start a family before I get too old. Whenever I bring up the subject he says, "Don't rush me."

Two weeks ago I insisted on setting a wedding date. I told him I was tired of waiting. He then announced that he is not good enough for me and that he has decided to "set me free."

There are rumors around the office that he has been pinching the new filing clerk behind the coat lockers. Before you tell me to dump him, please remember that I love this man in spite of his faults and I have invested five years in our future. Advise me, please. I am sick at heart. — TEARS ON MY PILLOW

DEAR TEARS: Stop mourning the loss of this heel. A man who would take five years of a girl's time and then decide he's not good enough for her is probably right. He's not. It's funny, though, how these guys who aren't good enough for you always wind up good enough for someone else. Pity the girl who gets him. He's N.G.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PATIENT GRISELDA: If all marriage means to you is "21 meals a week for that big ape," you need more help than I can give. The pastor who married your children sounds like a wise man. Talk to him.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the DAILY PILOT, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Women Golfers, Valentines Celebrate

Rancho San Joaquin women's golfers and their valentines will gather in the Newport Beach Tennis Club Friday, Feb. 14, for a dinner dance. Festivities will begin with a 7 p.m. cocktail hour. Dinner will be served at 8 and dancing to the music of Warren Saylor's Band will follow. Mrs. I. W. Sturgis (right), chairman receives help from Mrs. Robert Livingston (left) and Mrs. Donald Talmage in decorating the clubhouse.

Rx Written for 'Ailing' Law

By BEA ANDERSON
Society Editor

"Abortion involves women only, but it's men who make the laws."

This is the conclusion drawn by Dr. Fred Hansen, Santa Ana gynecologist and a member of the board of directors of the California Committee on Therapeutic Abortion, who suggests that women are discriminated against and are forced into compulsory pregnancy.

Dr. Hansen spoke on the pros and cons of this issue during a district conference of San Orco District, Business and Professional Women. He admitted to the 200 women assembled in the Newport Inn that he is a proponent of liberalizing the abortion laws.

Abortion is one of the legislative issues currently being studied by BPW, which, during its state convention in May in the Century Plaza

Hotel, Los Angeles, will debate a resolution for presentation to the state legislature which urges abortion law changes. OMIT EMOTION

Dr. Hansen believes it is time "we call a spade a spade" and leave out the emotional arguments while discussing the therapeutic and criminal picture.

"Abortions are only criminal because the law says so," he contends and proposed taking one or all of three routes to change the law — an initiative, legal action, or court action. The latter, he claims is the "shortest because this would prove the present law unconstitutional."

His arguments for liberalization included that abortions would free women to control their own reproductive lives, control the population explosion by serving as a back-up for "fail safe" contraceptives, control the birth rate of defective children and stop the slaughter of 7 to 10,000 women a year.

"By changing the law it would place the decision with the woman and her physician where it has rightfully belonged," he asserted.

OTHER SIDE

The other side of the picture, according to Dr. Hansen, is that the law is not respected by society, is not enforceable medically, is not enforceable and is not respected by women.

All of which drive women into the hands of the criminal abortionists because, he said, "If women want an abortion they'll get one." He explained that at this point they don't care about religious and moral beliefs.

"Statistics show there are more married than single women seeking abortions," he said. "Many of these married women already have three or four children and they feel another child would be economically ruinous."

He scoffed at advocates of the present law, which supposes, he said, that women who have abortions suffer serious psychological problems.

CONTRAST

He contrasted the adverse effect of not being able to have an abortion by asking, "What about the emotional problems suffered by women with an unwanted pregnancy who bears an unwanted child, and the problems suffered by the child being reared in a home where it is unwanted?"

The law, which went into effect in November, 1967, allows legal abortions when there is a substantial risk that a continued pregnancy would gravely impair the physical or mental health of a mother, or when a pregnancy results from rape or incest.

Another provision of this abortion measure, which was rejected, provided for an abortion when there is a risk of an abnormal fetus. Dr. Hansen said this is a most important aspect of abortion laws and criticized Gov. Reagan for rejecting it.

Dr. Hansen indicated even this present law is archaic and is perpetuated by religious dogma. He pointed a finger at the Catholic hierarchy, calling them the "only organized opposition." He granted them a right to their own opinions, but said it is not a fair proposition to force this dogma on those of us who do not agree and who feel it is an invasion of our private rights.

In this connection, he pointed out that Catholics have softened their views on contraceptives and expressed a hope that this relaxation, in time, might even be found among them on the abortion issue.

More opposition to the present abortion laws must be voiced to get a change, he said. Although abortion involves only women, the number of women behind liberalizing the law is disappointingly few.

He urged the BPW group to take a stand.

In Harbor Area

Argentine Visitors Due

Fifteen Argentine Exchange Students and their chaperone will arrive in the Harbor area next Friday.

The students will remain with families for three weeks before continuing their travel under auspices of the Argentine Council of Student Exchange. The students, age 16 through 19, will fly to New York where they will spend a week and then tour Washington, D. C. and Philadelphia before splitting up into smaller groups for the remainder of their visit directly as guests of individual American families.

Mrs. Winston Barnett, activities chairman, has planned a full itinerary for the visitors. Events include a tour of UCI, San Onofre Nuclear Station, Newport Harbor, Voit Rubber, Robinson's Fashion Island, and trips to Disneyland, and a picnic at Irvine Park.

Los Angeles trips will include visits to Lawry's Foods, the Music Center, Los Angeles Museum, Busch Gardens, La Brea Tar Pits, North American Aerospace facility in Downey and Douglas Aircraft in Long Beach.

During their stay the Argentines will be guests of the Optimist Club and Kiwanis for luncheon. Students at Estancia, Corona del Mar and Newport Harbor High schools also will entertain the guests with bowling, a basketball game, slumber party, ice skating, beach party, go carts and attendance at the high school of the host student.

Serving as host students from the Harbor Area are the Misses Ann Montano, Carroll Beek, Cheryl Peterson, Barbara Barnett, Janice Holmer, Cheryl Smallwood and Dianne Barrett. Other hosts will be John and Rick Fletcher, Jack Thous and, Howie Rogers, Rip Pratt, Steve Saxon, Sid Common, William Durkin and Ed

'Picture Black,' Says Cook

City in Gloomy Plea for Harbor Aid

By JEROME F. COLLINS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach city councilmen Monday night unanimously — and gloomily — declared they don't want Newport stuck with the entire cost of running the harbor for the rest of the county.

The declaration was made in a strongly worded resolution aimed at the threatened dissolution of the Orange County Harbor District.

"It is essential," said the resolution,

"that the city be reimbursed by the county for expenditures to provide harbor facilities and services which produce regional benefits."

The city's plea, however, may fall on deaf ears, according to ex-councilman Dee Cook.

Cook, representing the Corona del Mar Chamber of Commerce, told the council that it had acted too late.

"The chances of the city getting any subsidy from the county in any sense are pretty slim," he said. "I see trouble ahead on this for every taxpayer in our town."

If the district is abandoned as a countywide taxing agency, its responsibilities for operating the harbor would presumably be turned over to the city. This would be required by state law, the council was told.

Cook said without county assistance, maintaining the harbor could mean an annual municipal expenditure of at least $360,000. He said it would push the city tax rate up by 17 cents.

His figures weren't challenged by city officials.

Driving his point home he warned: "I don't believe this city can go on the assumption that it is going to get any county money."

Councilman Robert Shelton asked him why he believed "the picture is so black." Cook would only reply that he has his sources, and wouldn't reveal them if asked.

He termed the resolution "a resolution of futility."

Councilmen were plainly impressed with Cook's views, which largely derive from a close acquaintance with harbor affairs during his eight years on the council.

At one point, Councilman Paul J. Gruber indicated a belief that Cook was somehow implying the city was responsible for the impending Harbor District breakup.

"Cook, are you under the impression that this is the city's idea?" Gruber asked. "Well, it isn't. The council is in no way responsible for the proposed dissolution. It is the League of Cities' idea."

Cook said he recognized that. He explained that his purpose was to wake (See HARBOR, Page 2)

Irvine Tells $1.2 Million Marina Plan

The Irvine Company plans to begin massive redevelopment of marinas along company-owned tidelands off Bayside Drive next month, it was disclosed Monday.

R. A. "Buck" Fisher, Irvine marina manager, said the $1.2 million project calls for expansion and rearrangement of all existing boat slips south of the Balboa Island bridge up to and including docking facilities at the Balboa Yacht Club.

Fisher outlined the project before the City Council.

He said the number of slips along the Balboa Island channel will be increased by 50 percent, from 128 to 192.

66 NEW SLIPS

The 66 new slips, he explained, will be installed at the Balboa Yacht Club. All the other docks will be rebuilt so most of them lie parallel to the shoreline. The slips are now at right angles.

In addition to the tidelands work, about a dozen single family waterfront homes will be built on an undeveloped site between the Balboa Yacht Club and the Bahia Corinthian Yacht Club.

Fisher emphasized: "There won't be any high-rise any place. We intend to (See MARINA, Page 2)

Plane From LA Turned to Cuba

MIAMI (UPI) — Two men armed with a pistol and explosive burst into the cockpit of a National Airlines jet between New Orleans and Miami today and forced the pilot to fly to Cuba with 32 persons aboard.

The hijackers struck moments after National's flight 64 took off from New Orleans shortly after 9 a.m. The flight had originated in Los Angeles and had made a stop in Houston.

The super DC8 — the 10th plane to be hijacked to Cuba this year — carried 25 passengers and a crew of seven.

"Please be advised that I am going to Havana," Capt. James G. Brown radioed to ground controllers. "I have two men in the cockpit, one with a .38 and one with some type of an explosive device and they are holding a stewardess."

The plane landed at Havana's Jose Marti Airport at 10:03 a.m., the Federal Aviation Administration said.

FLIERS AND LIFEGUARDS DISCUSS BELLY LANDING AT NEWPORT'S ORANGE AVENUE BEACH
A Question Remained This Morning: "How Do We Get It Out of Here?"

'Perfect Belly Landing'

Plane Misses Jeep, Ditches on Beach in Newport

Quick thinking, skill and "a little luck" were credited this morning with averting tragedy when a light plane and a lifeguard jeep narrowly missed a collision as the plane safely ditched on a stretch of sand in west Newport Beach.

The light plane, being checked out by a pilot and mechanic out of Orange County airport, made "a perfect belly landing" on the beach at Orange Avenue.

Neither the two lifeguards nor the two occupants in the aircraft were injured in the 10 a.m. mishap.

Pilot of the plane was Bob Downey, 49, of Whittier, who was flying with Frank Johnson, 47, a mechanic at Orange County Airport.

The plane, which lost fuel flow over the surf line, was only slightly damaged. The lifeguards, Capt. Buddy Belshe, 34, and Logan Lockabey, 32, were on a routine patrol in a lifeguard jeep, they said, when they spotted the plane heading for them on a collision course. The jeep was traveling south on the beach.

"We saw the thing heading toward us, and as it came in we swerved to miss it," Lockabey said. "At the (See PLANE, Page 2)

Buffalo Bills Tap Simpson

NEW YORK (AP) — The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League chose Southern California's O. J. Simpson, an All-American halfback who won the Heisman Trophy, as the third annual combined pro football draft got under way today.

The choice of Simpson as the No. 1 pick came as no surprise. Many rate him the best ball carrier in football history.

Simpson has indicated that he would demand as much as a $600,000 bonus.

Simpson, a 6-1, 207-pounder rushed for 1,709 yards, an all-time record, and scored 22 touchdowns. He had an 80-yard scoring run in the Rose Bowl, in which Southern California lost to Ohio State.

The choice of Simpson marked the second straight year that a Southern California player had been No. 1 in the draft.

Last year the honor went to Ron Yary, a giant tackle, grabbed by the Minnesota Vikings.

Minutes after the Bills drafted Simpson, the Heisman Trophy winner told his new boss Tuesday, "I'm looking forward to working to contribute to the Bills' organization."

John Rauch, the Bills' new head coach, put through a telephone call to Simpson in California to welcome him to Buffalo.

Rauch said Simpson told him he was "happy to be drafted No. 1."

"We did not talk about a contract," Rauch said.

Here is the complete list of first-round draft choices:

Imperial Offers to Buy Newport-Bal S&L Stock

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Imperial Corp. of America, the nation's fourth largest savings and loan holding company, has offered to buy all outstanding stock of Newport Balboa Savings and Loan Corp. in Newport Beach, it was announced today.

The total stock transaction, if effected, would involve about $16 million, spokesmen for the holding company said.

A joint statement issued by representatives of both firms said that an agreement for the purchase has been reached "in principle."

The purchase is subject to approval by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the California Savings and Loan Commissioner. Approval from both may take two months.

Newport Balboa Savings was founded in 1936 by present board chairman Paul A. Palmer and current President Agnes Blomquist.

It started as a federal association and later was converted to a state charter in 1953. It has assets in excess of $110 million and outstanding loans of about $90 million.

Imperial's assets total about $1.1 billion.

Newport Balboa Savings has head offices in Newport with a newly opened branch in the Irvine Financial Center.

The two senior officers of Newport Balboa Savings, Palmer and Miss Blomquist, would remain with the organization in an advisory capacity if the sale is consummated, Palmer said.

He added that although the sale is still in the preliminary stages, agreements thus far call for retaining other present personnel "for the foreseeable future."

No charges were filed. James, commented amused deputies, made a full confession.

City Ready To Oppose Air Routes

Major airlines seeking new routes at Orange County Airport at a March 25 hearing will face stiff opposition from the City of Newport Beach, city councilmen indicated Monday night.

They unanimously authorized the city attorney to petition for a place on the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) hearing agenda.

At issue is proposed service between the county and the cities of Seattle and Portland.

Mayor Doreen Marshall noted that a recent DAILY PILOT article revealed 10 airlines had applied for the route award.

"It's not a happy prospect," she said. "Some of those airlines are pretty big."

The council will take a formal position on the proposed service later. The petition to the CAB will result in the transmittal of additional information to the city.

Council Takes New Look at Auld's Project

A West Newport Beach advertising executive's plan for construction of an extensive marina off West Newport Beach will come up for more Newport City Council discussion Feb. 24.

The council will determine at the session whether the plan of Stephen Auld of 472 62nd St. should be sent to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for a feasibility study.

The plan, in general, calls for building a breakwater off the shoreline and transforming the bay which the breakwater creates into a marina-hotel area holding several thousand boats.

At its initial exposure to the council two weeks ago, municipal officials agreed the idea merited further study.

Meanwhile Auld has hit at critics of his plans, and outlined alternate plans that would retain two-thirds of the existing surfing beach.

The smallest of the breakwater plans, he stated, "still could solve a dozen community problems to which no workable solution has been offered, and still provide docks for 2,700 boats."

Belshe said, "It seemed almost as if you could have touched the wing as it passed by."

Lifeguard Lockabey is the son of DAILY PILOT Boating Editor Al Lockabey.

Both lifeguards praised the pilot, saying, "He did a superb job of bringing that thing in. We've got nothing but praise for him."

The craft, a Myers 0200, was being checked prior to a flight to the East when Downey said, "The motor just stopped, and we tried everything to get it going again. It started up for a second, then just quit altogether."

"Frank said we were going too fast, so I dropped the flaps and slowed the thing down, then we hit the beach at about 70 miles per hour," he said.

"It was an awfully smooth landing," Johnson interjected, as he stared at the white craft. "It wasn't like the jarring, bone crushing crunch that I expected."

He described Downey as "a veteran pilot. He's been flying since 1947."

The plane is 11 years old.

As for its extraction from the beach the mechanic commented, "That's a damned good question. We haven't decided how to get it home yet."

"We are concerned about the situation," said Mayor Doreen Marshall. "We're aware of the difficulties we're faced with. This resolution shows that. But you may be right. Maybe it is a black picture."

BIRTH HOPEFUL

Councilman Ed Hirth, a one-time local marina-operator, was more hopeful.

"With this resolution," he said, "we feel we have a chance of getting support (from the other cities in the county) for our position. We know we have better chances of getting that than in trying to save the Harbor District."

"I hope you're right," said Cook. "But remember that the basic premise behind the dissolution movement was to get a tax cut throughout the county. If you try and get money to support harbor operations, the same people who are behind the dissolution will yap and say no deal."

Shelton reminded Cook that the final decision on the issue of financing harbor regional requirements rests with the County Board of Supervisors. "There is no limit to what the board can legally do to provide the funds that were provided before."

The resolution was then adopted on Gruber's motion.

It also commends members of the League of Cities "for their efforts to provide an integrated approach to regional facilities and services."

Industrialist's Mother-in-law Succumbs at 72

Rosary will be recited tonight for the mother-in-law of Newport Beach aerospace industry supply company owner Jose Rosan, who died Sunday at South Coast Community Hospital after a short illness.

The rosary for Mrs. Frances I. Magner, 72, of 30753 Calle Cheuca, San Juan Capistrano, will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Mission San Juan Capistrano.

Mass will be celebrated there at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday as well, with interment in Good Shepherd Cemetery, Huntington Beach.

She is the mother of Mrs. Jose Rosan, San Juan Capistrano, and lived along the Orange Coast for 15 years, leaving a large number of relatives including 21 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Survivors include sons, James D., Costa Mesa, John J., Buena Park, and Robert T., Long Beach, as well as two other daughters, Mrs. Warren Michaelis, and Miss Margaret Magner, both of Costa Mesa.

protect the view of the people on the hill."

Fisher said the project is scheduled to begin in mid-February, but he could be optimistic.

Required rezoning must yet go through the city planning commission, harbor use permits must be obtained from the city council, and all tract maps must be first approved by the city.

Also, Mayor Doreen Marshall indicated she wasn't happy at the prospect of the project providing no beach frontage for the public. There may be, however, little the city can do about it. Public Works Director Joseph T. Devlin pointed out that the area involved is privately owned by Irvine; no public tidelands are affected.

Koebig & Koebig, Inc., of Los Angeles are the planners and engineers of the project, which Fisher estimated would take seven months to complete.

He added that redevelopment of marinas on Irvine leasehold land in the lower bay will continue over the next few years "as the company assumes direct management of its slip and pier facilities now operated by lessees." First of some eight marina leases expires in September. All will terminate by 1979.

Bal Isle Protests City Advances Parking Law

Despite protests of 71 Balboa Island merchants and property owners, Newport Beach city councilmen Monday night pushed forward a controversial commercial parking ordinance.

The vote to move the proposal to a second and final public hearing on Feb. 10 was 5-1.

Councilman Howard Rogers voted no. Vice Mayor Lindsey Parsons was absent.

The Balboa Islanders, by petition and in person, objected to application of the parking requirements along the island's Marine Avenue.

George Woods, owner of properties at 210 and 212 Marine Avenue, said the ordinance would be "impossible" to comply with on the island.

As proposed, the law would compel new commercial buildings in districts not now covered by parking requirements to provide:

- One on-site parking space for each 250 feet of floor space.
- One parking space for every three restaurant seats.
- One parking space for every five theater seats.
- One parking space for every two rooms in a hotel, and one for each room in a motel.

Areas affected are business districts along E. Coast Highway in Corona del Mar, in Balboa, Central Newport and on Balboa Island.

The law would apply only to future construction. Buildings that do not now meet the parking requirements would have to provide parking spaces in accordance with the law only with extensive remodeling or rebuilding.

Woods and others insisted that remodeling be allowed, as long as there is no increase in parking needs.

Councilmen, however, replied that the city's parking problems would go on indefinitely unless there were a legal means to compel on-site facilities.

Woods said most business establishments on Balboa Island are on lots only 30 feet in width. "You can't put parking spaces on lots like that. You would have room for only one car and a 15-foot wide building."

He was told by councilmen, however, that the ordinance allows for a use permit procedure to override the parking requirements in "special situations," such as on Balboa Island.

Neither Woods nor representatives of the Corona del Mar Chamber of Commerce were happy with this. They said property owners would not want to bother with seeking use permits from the Planning Commission. They would instead not remodel or rebuild.

At the conclusion of the 90-minute hearing, Councilman Rogers explained his "no" vote. He said he favored the intent of the ordinance, but felt remodeling and rebuilding should be permitted, with no parking penalty, as long as there is no expansion.

ting a river flooded by the worst Southland storm since one 15 years before they were born, began to unfold at 4:20 a.m., when a county employee spotted them.

Gary Hadin, a patrolling inspector for the county flood control district, saw three boys in the raft and one on the innertube and called Anaheim police.

Howard, photographing the fatal lark from the innertube and his companions were then battling the 20-mile-per-hour river currents between Katella and Orangewood Avenues.

Death waited just ahead, beneath the surface, where the raging waters plunged over a five-foot-high check dam which is being built to span the river.

Angel Stadium is just a short distance away from the tragedy scene.

By the time Anaheim Police Officer James Santoro and Orange County Sheriff's deputies arrived on another among what has been frequent river-raiding calls this week, the raft and tube had capsized.

The three survivors — shivering and sobbing at the tragedy they never considered — were found on the east bank of the river, while their yellow raft bobbed in the brown rapids.

"He went down and he just never came up again," said Howard, an accredited Red Cross junior lifeguard who pulled one buddy ashore but was unable to save the younger Dischner brother.

One attempt to get Bill Dischner failed, so Howard dashed upstream and entered the treacherous water again, to float to the overturned raft, but the missing youth had lost his grip and gone.

Trembling and tearful, Howard said he and his companions had successfully voyaged before and that he plans to go on an organized Colorado River rapids-run this Easter Week.

Dull Future Given Brush

An optimistic picture of fund-raising for Children's Home Society was sketched by Mrs. Wilson V. Woodman today as she accepted the gavel and duties of the presidency of the Newport Harbor Auxiliary.

With two major events scheduled this year, the new leader is confident that goals will be reached because of the members' enthusiasm.

First on the agenda will be the biennial Soiree d'Art, to take place April 18 in Irvine Coast Country Club, and in December the group will present its annual Debutante Ball.

Serving on the board with Mrs. Woodman are the Mmes. Richard A. Sewell, vice president; Raymond Hitzel, recording secretary; Alfred V. Jorgensen, corresponding secretary; William F. Harper, treasurer, and William C. Adams, parliamentarian.

Chairmen appointed include the Mmes. Robert H. Blandford, programs; G. Robert Hodson, invitations; Terrell L. Root, publicity; Richard Hogsett, community information; Ira W. Smith, photography; Alvin Cox, roster; Les Littlejohn, volunteers, and John Sammis, hostess.

Also appointed were Mrs. Royal D. Tucker as ball chairman and Mrs. Merton K. Cameron Jr., soiree chairman.

Serving on the soiree committee are the Mmes. Richard Jonas and William F. Krumpholz, Petit Salon; Donald E. Swedlund, paintings; William Blanton, reservations; Hodson, invitations; Delbert Van Ornum, decorations; Raymond Hitzel, dinner; George W. Gurr Jr., programs, and J. Robert Meserve, transportation.

Panhellenic Brings Show Up to Date

Repeating last year's success members of Newport Harbor Panhellenic are busying themselves with the Dollars for Scholars annual Bridge Fashion Show Luncheon.

The Stuff Shirt in Newport Beach is being readied for the Feb. 10 event.

Ann Folger of Fashion Island will offer a collection of spring and summer styles while Florence Smales will commentate on the variety, of colors and fabrics.

Mrs. Edwin F. Steen Jr., benefit chairman, announced that tickets for a weekend at the Hacienda Hotel in Las Vegas will be the first prize and area stores have contributed other door prizes.

Luncheon proceeds will help Panhellenic extend scholarships. The Minerva Medal is awarded to a Harbor Area coed attending college, who has the highest grade point average during the fall semester. Past winners of the $50 scholarship include Miss Nanette Pattee and Miss Barbara Phillips, both of Corona del Mar.

The American Field Service also benefits. The Frances Bloker Panhellenic Memorial Fund at UCI has assisted 25 students in the past year with their educational needs.

The organization also honors an outstanding Harbor Area woman with the Athena Award. Previous winners have been the Mmes. Walter Burroughs, Alvin Pinkley and R. L. Bacon.

Mrs. John R. Kelley of Newport Beach is taking reservations through Feb. 1.

Assisting the chairman are the Mmes. Sydney Gaynor, Graham Gibbons, C. Ray Lenahan, M. A. Johnson, C. Paul Dubois, John Biby Jr., F. M. Redman, William Telkamp, John Marr, Lloyd McCollum, David Wing and Virginia Bollman.

dent, and Mrs. R. L. Bacon, past Athena award winner. In the photograph is Miss Barbara Phillips, Minerva Medal winner.

'Exceed-drin' Headache No. 2: Spirits Spoil Romance

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please, please print this letter for the benefit of men who drink too much too often.

Boys: You are lousy lovers when you are drunk. Your wives find you revolting and disgusting. Also inadequate. When you come home from a party smashed out of your mind, please forget about romance. When you roll in dead drunk from a lodge meeting or from a poker game — or whatever it was — please don't wake up your wife and make silly suggestions. It is annoying to be jarred out of a sound sleep and she will not appreciate your sudden interest in her.

This sort of thing happens to me at least twice a week and I am sick of it. My husband doesn't remember a single thing the next day and telling him does no good. He doesn't believe it. So, dear Ann Landers, be a friend and publish this letter in your column. I want to tape it to my husband's shaving mirror. Thanks much. — KLONDIKE KATE

DEAR KATE: Here's your letter and I hope His Majesty takes the hint. You can bet your bottom dollar HIS shaving mirror won't be the only one that is decorated this morning!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In 1964 I began to date a man who came to work for our firm. At first he showed very little interest in me but I "grew on him," he says, as time went on. In 1966 we became engaged. I am now 31 years of age, he is 36. I've been wanting to get married and start a family before I get too old. Whenever I bring up the subject he says, "Don't rush me."

Two weeks ago I insisted on setting a wedding date. I told him I was tired of waiting. He then announced that he is not good enough for me and that he has decided to "set me free."

There are rumors around the office that he has been pinching the new filing clerk behind the coat lockers. Before you tell me to dump him, please remember that I love this man in spite of his faults and I have invested five years in our future. Advise me, please. I am sick at heart. — TEARS ON MY PILLOW

DEAR TEARS: Stop mourning the loss of this heel. A man who would take five years of a girl's time and then decide he's not good enough for her is probably right. He's not. It's funny, though, how these guys who aren't good enough for you always wind up good enough for someone else. Pity the girl who gets him. He's N.G.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PATIENT GRISELDA: If all marriage means to you is "21 meals a week for that big ape," you need more help than I can give. The pastor who married your children sounds like a wise man. Talk to him.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the DAILY PILOT, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Women Golfers, Valentines Celebrate

Rancho San Joaquin women's golfers and their valentines will gather in the Newport Beach Tennis Club Friday, Feb. 14, for a dinner dance. Festivities will begin with a 7 p.m. cocktail hour. Dinner will be served at 8 and dancing to the music of Warren Saylor's Band will follow. Mrs. I. W. Sturgis (right), chairman receives help from Mrs. Robert Livingston (left) and Mrs. Donald Talmage in decorating the clubhouse.

Rx Written for 'Ailing' Law

By BEA ANDERSON
Society Editor

"Abortion involves women only, but it's men who make the laws."

This is the conclusion drawn by Dr. Fred Hansen, Santa Ana gynecologist and a member of the board of directors of the California Committee on Therapeutic Abortion, who suggests that women are discriminated against and are forced into compulsory pregnancy.

Dr. Hansen spoke on the pros and cons of this issue during a district conference of San Orco District, Business and Professional Women. He admitted to the 200 women assembled in the Newport Inn that he is a proponent of liberalizing the abortion laws.

Abortion is one of the legislative issues currently being studied by BPW, which, during its state convention in May in the Century Plaza

Hotel, Los Angeles, will debate a resolution for presentation to the state legislature which urges abortion law changes.

OMIT EMOTION

Dr. Hansen believes it is time "we call a spade a spade" and leave out the emotional arguments while discussing the therapeutic and criminal picture.

"Abortions are only criminal because the law says so," he contends and proposed taking one or all of three routes to change the law — an initiative, legal action, or court action. The latter, he claims is the "shortest because this would prove the present law unconstitutional."

His arguments for liberalization included that abortions would free women to control their own reproductive lives, control the population explosion by serving as a back-up for "fail safe" contraceptives, control the birth rate of defective children and stop the slaughter of 7 to 10,000 women a year.

"By changing the law it would place the decision with the woman and her physician where it has rightfully belonged," he asserted.

OTHER SIDE

The other side of the picture, according to Dr. Hansen, is that the law is not respected by society, is not compatible medically, is not enforceable and is not respected by women.

All of which drive women into the hands of the criminal abortionists because, he said, "If women want an abortion they'll get one." He explained that at this point they don't care about religious and moral beliefs.

"Statistics show there are more married than single women seeking abortions," he said. "Many of these married women already have three or four children and they feel another child would be economically ruinous."

He scoffed at advocates of the present law, which supposes, he said, that women who have abortions suffer serious psychological problems.

He contrasted the adverse effect of not being able to have an abortion by asking, "What about the emotional problems suffered by women with an unwanted pregnancy who bears an unwanted child, and the problems suffered by the child being reared in a home where it is unwanted?"

The law, which went into effect in November, 1967, allows legal abortions when there is a substantial risk that a continued pregnancy would gravely impair the physical or mental health of a mother, or when a pregnancy results from rape or incest.

Another provision of this abortion measure, which was rejected, provided for an abortion when there is a risk of an abnormal fetus. Dr. Hansen said this is a most important aspect of abortion laws and criticized Gov. Reagan for rejecting it.

Dr. Hansen indicated even this present law is archaic and is perpetuated by religious dogma. He pointed a finger at the Catholic hierarchy, calling them the "only organized opposition." He granted them a right to their own opinions, but said it is not a fair proposition to force this dogma on those of us who do not agree and who feel it is an invasion of our private rights.

In this connection, he pointed out that Catholics have softened their views on contraceptives and expressed a hope that this relaxation, in time, might even be found among them on the abortion issue.

More opposition to the present abortion laws must be voiced to get a change, he said. Although abortion involves only women, the number of women behind liberalizing the law is disappointingly few.

He urged the BPW group to take a stand.

In Harbor Area

Argentine Visitors Due

Fifteen Argentine Exchange Students and their chaperone will arrive in the Harbor area next Friday.

The students will remain with families for three weeks before continuing their travel under auspices of the Argentine Council of Student Exchange. The students, age 16 through 19, will fly to New York where they will spend a week and then tour Washington, D. C. and Philadelphia before splitting up into smaller groups for the remainder of their visit directly as guests of individual American families.

Mrs. Winston Barnett, activities chairman, has planned a full itinerary for the visitors. Events include a tour of UCI, San Onofre Nuclear Station, Newport Harbor, Voit Rubber, Robinson's Fashion Island, and trips to Disneyland, and a picnic at Irvine Park.

Los Angeles trips will include visits to Lawry's Foods, the Music Center, Los Angeles Museum, Busch Gardens, La Brea Tar Pits, North American Aerospace facility in Downey and Douglas Aircraft in Long Beach.

During their stay the Argentines will be guests of the Optimist Club and Kiwanis for luncheon. Students at Estancia, Corona del Mar and Newport Harbor High schools also will entertain the guests with bowling, a basketball game, slumber party, ice skating, beach party, go carts and attendance at the high school of the host student.

Serving as host students from the Harbor Area are the Misses Ann Montano, Carroll Beek, Cheryl Peterson, Barbara Barnett, Janice Holmer, Cheryl Smallwood and Dianne Barrett. Other hosts will be John and Rick Fletcher, Jack Thousand, Howie Rogers, Rip Pratt, Steve Saxon, Sid Common, William Durkin and Ed

Koepsel.

Students visiting will be Ana Maria Tortorola, Isabella Guillermo Ripoll, Adriana Del Carmen Cubillos Mena, Julio A. Roca, Lilliana Leonor Andersen, Marcela Benzi, Maria Eloisa Rodriguez, Silvia Rouquau, Pedro Guillermo Vasena, Weccelao Eduardo Vasina, Manuel Belgrano, Rodolfo Eduardo Moore, Eduardo Horacio Pla, Hector Luis Hugo Laghi, Enrique Aduriz, and Marcelo Alfonso de Arcechea.

Mrs. Inez Walker is the chaperone for the group. She will be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. David Davis of Costa Mesa.

The program is designed to promote the exchange of language and culture by the travel between Argentina and the United States. As the Argentine students have their summer vacations during winter, they have the opportunity to see the high schools in action, get to know their American families and experience a little of American life.

Adventure Turns to Death

LA Liner Hijacked Plane With 32 Aboard Flown to Cuba

MIAMI (UPI) — Two men armed with a pistol and explosive burst into the cockpit of a National Airlines jet between New Orleans and Miami today and forced the pilot to fly to Cuba with 32 persons aboard.

The hijackers struck moments after National's flight 64 took off from New Orleans shortly after 9 a.m. The flight had originated in Los Angeles and had made a stop in Houston.

The super DC8 — the 10th plane to be hijacked to Cuba this year — carried 25 passengers and a crew of seven.

"Please be advised that I am going to Havana," Capt. James G. Brown radioed to ground controllers. "I have two men in the cockpit, one with a .38 and one with some type of an explosive device and they are holding a stewardess."

The plane landed at Havana's Jose Marti Airport at 10:03 a.m., the Federal Aviation Administration said.

Besides Brown, 44, the crew members included co-pilot James E. Durr, 32; flight engineer David J. Schneider, 39, and stewardesses Barbara J. Mohny, Victoria J. Sikorski, Pamela D. Yorda and Donna J. Yost.

National said 11 of the passengers boarded at Los Angeles.

It was the second hijacking of a National plane this year. Last Friday a National 727 jet was hijacked en route from Miami to Key West by a long-haired teen-ager who said he was a Navy deserter. The plane carried 40 passengers.

Flotsam and Jetsam

Assorted debris washed ashore during recent storm lines beach as Newport Beach resident walks his dog near Santa Ana River jetty (background). Storm debris along entire Orange Coast is attracting many a sharp-eyed beachcomber hoping to uncover a valuable item, or two, or just a handsome piece of driftwood.

SA River Raft Ride Fatal to Boy

Voyaging on the flood-choked Santa Ana River for an after-school adventure Monday, four boys — unaware of a treacherous waterfall ahead — were dumped from their rubber raft and interned into the muddy torrent.

Three made it safely ashore.

One daring sailor, whose parents were just returning from an ocean cruise to Hawaii, is missing and presumed drowned in the debris-littered flood channel.

He is Bill Dischner, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dischner, of 2424 N. Flower St., Santa Ana, and the brother of one survivor.

Robert Dischner, 18, is recovering from shock and exposure today at Orange County Medical Center, where the other two victims were treated and released after the ordeal Monday.

They are Randy Howard, 18, of 2611 Greenbrier St., and Craig Park, 17, of 26117 Freeman Lane, Both Santa Ana addresses, according to investigators.

The drama of adventurous boys, battling a river flooded by the worst Southland storm since one 15 years before they were born, began to unfold at 4:20 p.m., when a county employee spotted them.

Gary Hadin, 2, patrolling inspector for the county flood control district, saw three boys in the raft and one on the innertube and called Anaheim police.

Howard, photographing the fatal lark from the innertube and his companions were then battling the 20-mile-per-hour river currents between Katella and Orangewood Avenues.

Death waited just ahead, beneath the surface, where the raging waters plunged over a five-foot-high check dam which is being built to span the river.

Angel Stadium is just a short distance away from the tragedy scene.

By the time Anaheim Police Officer James Santoro and Orange County Sheriff's deputies arrived on another among what has been frequent river-raiding calls this week, the raft and tube had capsized.

The three survivors — shivering and sobbing at the tragedy they never considered — were found on the east bank of the river, while their yellow raft bobbed in the brown rapids.

"He went down and he just never came up again," said Howard, an accredited Red Cross junior lifeguard who pulled one buddy ashore but was unable to save the younger Dischner brother.

Just a Wolf in Priest's Clothing

A cassock-clad Costa Mesa youth created an unholy row in Juvenile Hall Monday when shocked sheriff's deputies realized it wasn't the rosary he was lovingly reciting to his 15-year-old girlfriend, an inmate in the building.

Incensed officers descended en masse to eject the pseudo priest. They identified the phony father as James William Morris, 19, of (get this) 937 Serra Way.

No charges were filed. James, commented amused deputies, made a full confession.

Placentia Ave. Pleas

Mesa Planners Reject Music, Plastics Requests

A handful of routine matters won favorable recommendations by the Costa Mesa Planning Commission Monday, but plastics manufacturing and music making on Placentia Avenue suffered somewhat.

Commissioners recommended approval of one music teaching studio on Placentia Avenue, but ran into a legal snarl on a second such application requiring city council action.

Myron L. Burke of 1934 Placentia Ave. seeks a zone exception permit, allowing him to repair instruments and stage band practice in an industrial zone.

City legal counsel says, however, that the planning commission has no power to act in Burke's case — without an ordinance amendment by the council — so the permit request goes to the council for action.

James P. Dallam, of 1862 Placentia Ave., was given a recommendation for approval of his zone exception permit, to teach music in an administrative and professional zone.

Burke, city officials noted, will not instruct, but only repair and supervise practice.

Planners recommended for denial a request by Circle Chemical Co., 940 W. 17th St., to install equipment and manufacture polyester resin at 1937 Placentia Ave., in a manufacturing zone.

In other action Monday, planning commission members:

—Recommended denial of a variance application by Glenn B. Gossett, of 2195 Miner St., to convert two existing structures into a total of eight apartment units in a duplex zone.

—Recommended approval of a Sinclair Paint Co., variance application for a shop on a corner lot at 1901 Newport Blvd., now occupied by a service station made useless since street widening.

—Recommended denial without prejudice, of a variance application by Mary L. McCarty, of 2949 Pemba Drive, to allow a five-room home addition and alteration at that address.

—Recommended denial of a petition by Lydia V. Perez, of 2099 Placentia Ave., to rezone her property from industrial and manufacturing use to high-density apartment development.

—Recommended approval of a zone exception permit sought by Phillip K. Mellott, of 2169 Miner St., to build an additional residence on his property.

SRO for Talk On Alternates For Freeway

Discussions Wednesday on the effect of four proposed Newport Freeway routes through Costa Mesa will be open to the public, but there won't be much room for a crowd.

Talks during the study session will take place in a second floor conference room at the Costa Mesa Police Facility, 99 Fair Drive, rather than in the larger city council chambers.

The 7:30 p.m. session is designed particularly for councilmen, planning commissioner, department heads and the press, but no visitors could be barred.

During organization of the meeting, urged by Councilman William L. St. Clair, state highways officials were quoted as asking if the public could be excluded to make a less-lengthy meeting.

Bill Hashimoto, assistant District Seven engineer for the State Division of Highways, will be on hand to discuss the route issue with questioning city officials.

The public will have a chance to question highway experts at a hearing Feb. 18 at the Orange County Fairgrounds, and at least two more meetings will be held before a decision is made.

City officials are expected to take a stand soon on where the Route 55 alignment should go to best serve Costa Mesa interests.

Presently, it is scheduled to go right down existing Newport Boulevard, a choice made in 1944, long before the area underwent so much postwar development.

Newport Beach city officials — who favor a route just west of Superior Avenue, tying into Pacific Coast Highway — agreed along with Costa Mesa spokesmen to reopen the route question some time ago.

It may remain where it was originally planned, a location opposed by some downtown area merchants and businessmen, but actively supported by others with different types of financial interest.

Don't Look Now, But Rain's Back For 'Last Gasp'

While the sun played hide and seek with the Orange Coast today amid the threat of renewed rain, forecasters stuck to their prediction of cloudy and cold — but dry — weather for Wednesday.

Some sections of Los Angeles County were hit by a sudden downpour today which left as quickly as it had arrived. Showers also were reported in parts of the Orange Coast this morning.

The word for tonight was possible scattered showers, producing no more than a quarter inch of precipitation, while dry if cloudy weather was the Wednesday outlook.

Temperatures along the Orange Coast were expected to dip into the upper 50's at midday, sinking to the low 40's overnight.

Col. Boyd Set To Address CofC

A retired U.S. Army officer will address the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce Official Greeters Thursday, on use of motivation in promoting sales incentive and solving business problems.

Col. Paul B. Boyd will be the featured guest at the noon luncheon in the Caspian Restaurant banquet room, according to chamber Executive Manager Nick Ziener.

Boyd has excellent credentials to discuss the benefits of correct motivation in building a business.

He is employed as West Coast representative, Performance Incentive Corp., and is currently president of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

Greeter luncheons generally draw up to 100 persons and those attending are urged to bring a supply of advertising samples, souvenirs or calling cards to place in bags at each seat.

Luncheon reservations must be made before 5 p.m. Wednesday by calling the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce office.

O. J. Simpson

Buffalo Bills Tap Simpson

NEW YORK (AP) — The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League chose Southern California's O. J. Simpson, an All-American halfback who won the Heisman Trophy, as the third annual combined pro football draft got under way today.

The choice of Simpson as the No. 1 pick came as no surprise. Many rate him the best ball carrier in football history.

Simpson has indicated that he would demand as much as a $600,000 bonus.

Simpson, a 6-1, 207-pounder rushed for 1,709 yards, an all-time record, and scored 22 touchdowns. He had an 80-yard scoring run in the Rose Bowl, in which Southern California lost to Ohio State.

The choice of Simpson marked the second straight year that a Southern California player had been No. 1 in the draft.

Last year the honor went to Ron Yary, a giant tackle, grabbed by the Minnesota Vikings.

Minutes after the Bills drafted Simpson, the Heisman Trophy winner told his new boss Tuesday, "I'm looking forward to working to contribute to the Bills' organization."

John Rauch, the Bills' new head coach, put through a telephone call to Simpson in California to welcome him to Buffalo.

Rauch said Simpson told him he was "happy to be drafted No. 1."

"We did not talk about a contract," Rauch said.

Here is the complete list of first-round draft choices:

1. Buffalo Bills — O. J. Simpson, USC, 6-1, 207-pound halfback.
2. Atlanta Falcons — George Kunz, Notre Dame.
3. Philadelphia Eagles — Leroy Keyes, Purdue.
4. 245-pound tackle.
5. 245-pound halfback.
6. Pittsburgh Steelers — Joe Greene, North Texas State, 6-4, 275-pound defensive tackle.
7. Cincinnati Bengals — Gray Cook, University of Cincinnati, 6-4, 206-pound quarterback.
8. Boston Patriots — Ron Sellers, Florida State.
9. 167-pound full end.
10. San Francisco 49ers (New Orleans choice from trade) — Ted Kwalick, Penn State, 6-4, 220-pound tight end.
11. Los Angeles Rams (Detroit choice from trade) — Larry Smith, Florida, 6-4, 221-pound running back.
12. San Diego Chargers (Denver choice from trade) — Marty Domres, Columbia, 6-4, 219-pound quarterback.
13. Los Angeles Rams (Washington choice from trade) — Jim Seymour, Notre Dame, 6-4, 205-pound end.
14. Miami Dolphins — Bill Stanfill, Georgia, 6-3, 245-pound defensive tackle.

Newport Set To Oppose Air Routes

Major airlines seeking new routes at Orange County Airport at a March 25 hearing will face stiff opposition from the City of Newport Beach, city councilmen indicated Monday night.

They unanimously authorized the city attorney to petition for a place on the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) hearing agenda.

At issue is proposed service between the county and the cities of Seattle and Portland.

Mayor Doreen Marshall noted that a recent DAILY PILOT article revealed 10 airlines had applied for the route award.

"It's not a happy prospect," she said. "Some of those airlines are pretty big."

The council will take a formal position on the proposed service later. The petition to the CAB will result in the transmittal of additional information to the city.

Fourth Suspect In Christmas Gang Rape Held

A fourth suspect in the Christmas day mass rape of a 16-year-old girl in Huntington Beach is in the custody of Fairhaven, Mass. police today.

Huntington Beach police said Robert Lewis Souza was arrested Saturday in Fairhaven. Authorities here weren't sure yet on what charges he is held or if extradition back to California would be possible.

A warrant for Souza's arrest was issued last week after he was named as one of ten men suspected of participating in a gang style rape of a runaway Anaheim girl in a Huntington Beach teen hangout, the Syndicate 3000, police said.

Souza is a native of Massachusetts but he had been living an unknown length of time in Huntington Beach, police added.

Three other suspects were arrested last week.

Jasper O. Hickey, 20, of 877 W. Wilson St., Costa Mesa, is in custody at Orange County jail on $1,500 bail. Preliminary hearing for Hickey is scheduled at 9 a.m. Wednesday before Judge Walter Charamza of West Orange County Municipal Court.

Peter Buell, 22, of El Monte, was released on his own recognizance until his Feb. 5 arraignment.

so Howard dashed upstream and entered the treacherous water again, to float to the overturned raft, but the missing youth had lost his grip and gone.

Trembling and fearful, Howard said he and his companions had successfully voyaged before and that he plans to go on an organized Colorado River rapids-run this Easter Week.

"I think," he added in subdued tones.

Parents of the boy whose body is believed jammed in river debris somewhere downstream — or even washed to sea — arrived in San Francisco Monday night aboard the SS Lurline.

Mr. and Mrs. Dischner were picked up at the dock and flew to Orange County Airport after being advised that they had apparently lost their son.

He also leaves younger brothers Richard, 14, Donald, 12, and Kenny, 6, according to investigators who compiled details of the tragedy Monday.

All four youths dumped into the five-foot-deep floodwaters are Santa Ana High School students and only the missing boy — stocky and in good shape, but with a blood condition — was not a top athlete.

Howard was starting center on the football team, while Bob Dischner was a varsity guard and young Park is starting center of the Santa Ana High School varsity basketball team.

Police Seeking Rentals, Woman

A La Puente woman who came all the way to Costa Mesa to rent $423 worth of power tools — using all brand-new identification and credit cards — is being sought by police on suspicion of grand theft.

Lee Garbert, of A to Z Rentals, 1809 Newport Blvd., told Officer Harry Bowen Monday that the woman contracted for two items Jan. 21, to be returned Jan. 22, but she never came back.

A check of credentials used at the time showed all to be phony, while the car involved was a rented vehicle possibly stolen.

Imperial Offers to Buy Newport-Bal S&L Stock

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Imperial Corp. of America, the nation's fourth largest savings and loan holding company, has offered to buy all outstanding stock of Newport Balboa Savings and Loan Corp. in Newport Beach, it was announced today.

The total stock transaction, if effected, would involve about $16 million, spokesmen for the holding company said.

A joint statement issued by representatives of both firms said that an agreement for the purchase has been reached "in principle."

The purchase is subject to approval by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the California Savings and Loan Commissioner. Approval from both may take two months.

Newport Balboa Savings was founded in 1936 by present board chairman Paul A. Palmer and current President Agnes Blomquist.

It started as a federal association and later was converted to a state charter in 1953. It has assets in excess of $110 million and outstanding loans of about $90 million.

Imperial's assets total about $1.1 billion.

Newport Balboa Savings has head offices in Newport with a newly opened branch in the Irvine Financial Center.

The two senior officers of Newport Balboa Savings, Palmer and Miss Blomquist, would remain with the organization in an advisory capacity if the sale is consummated, Palmer said.

He added that although the sale is still in the preliminary stages, agreements thus far call for retaining other present personnel "for the foreseeable future."

Mesa Man Gets 2nd Reckless Driving Ticket

A Costa Mesa mechanic failed to reach his destination Monday, after telling the same patrolman who cited him for reckless driving 12 days ago that he had to get to a car agency before it closed.

This time, Charles L. Lancaster, 24, of 2669 Orange Ave., was hauled into headquarters by Officer Chano Camarillo and formally booked on a reckless driving charge.

Camarillo said he stopped Lancaster on Harbor Boulevard at Bay Street early Monday evening — with red lights and siren — to inquire about his automotive haste.

He estimated that Lancaster, a used car lot employee, was hitting 55 miles per hour in a 25 mile per hour zone, while only about five feet behind another car at one point.

"I have to get to the agency before they close," Lancaster was quoted as saying.

Instead, he was rerouted to a place where they stay open for business 24 hours a day.

Reeds... In the Wind

A big power play appears about to begin and the prize for the winner could be the nearly 2,000 acres of the Bolsa Chica from Warner Avenue to the bluffs along Pacific Coast Highway.

The word has leaked out that the Huntington Beach leaders have filed what appears to be a minor and unimportant annexation move, Annexation No. 5 it is called. A hearing is due soon at the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFC) level.

The annexation is to shut off a corridor along Coast Highway which could be used by Seal Beach to bring the potentially profitable Bolsa Chica into its city limits.

In the middle of the power play likely will be the residents of Sunset Beach who could outsmart themselves if they are not careful on this one.

The city of Seal Beach recently completed an annexation along Coast Highway which brought the city limits of Seal Beach to Anderson Street, right across the highway from Huntington Beach.

A logical next move would be to annex Sunset Beach as far south as Warner Avenue. Next could come annexation reaching across Warner Avenue to the Bolsa Chica.

Residents of Sunset Beach are an independent lot and although they have asked Huntington Beach to take steps which could lead to an annexation by Huntington Beach of their beach strip community, the matter is far from resolved.

At Warner Avenue there is a strip of uninhabited territory which could well be annexed to Huntington Beach should the LAFC feel the annexation logical. If it is annexed to the city then the threat to the Bolsa Chica is ended forever.

Still, residents of Sunset Beach are wondering if the move to annex the strip is not one to isolate Sunset Beach with Huntington Beach on three sides.

Of course the owners of the Bolsa Chica will have a lot to say about what city their property is to be in, but lets hope that the annexation matters still unresolved can be determined without excess hard feelings.

Mopup Continues

Rebuilding, Cleanup Follows Rain

GLENDORA (AP) — Homeowners with shovels and brooms and city crewmen with bulldozers fought back Monday against mud and debris throughout flood-ravaged Southern California. Nine days of torrential rain finally had ended.

Hundreds of persons were still isolated by the state's worst flooding in 31 years. Ninety-one persons were dead. Damage estimates were expected to rise above the $35 million set by state officials.

Scattered clouds hung over the region in cool weather as repair work began on homes, yards, streets, bridges and public utilities. About 9,000 homes were destroyed or damaged, seven major bridges were out in three counties, rail traffic was blocked on some lines and some main highways still were plagued by slides and washouts.

About 700 homes were damaged in the Los Angeles area, including 250 homes here, in the foothills of the San Gabriel Mountains. Residents worked tirelessly salvaging what they could from expensive homes.

"We plan to stay," said William Sugden, whose $70,000 home on six acres was swamped by water, mud and boulders.

Inside the ranch-style house, mud lay two to four feet deep. Furniture was soggy, some beyond repair. A dead fish floated in an aquarium. Outside, the once lushly landscaped yard was buried in boulders and the swimming pool was destroyed.

"My wife and I built every bit of this house ourselves 12 years ago and we will rebuild it ourselves," said Sugden.

Like most, the Sugdens' loss was not covered by insurance. Standard policies in this area don't cover storm-flood damage.

Tragedy began at dawn for the Sugdens and their neighbors. After a cloudburst, torrents of water poured over hills behind the house which were denuded by a brush fire last year.

"It was absolute terror," said Mrs. Sugden.

She said the storm brought out a "humaneness" in her neighbors, who are helping each other and sharing food and provisions at an emergency center at a neighborhood church. It brought out the worst in others she said — vandals who attempted to loot the homes.

Mayor Sam Yorty estimated damage in Los Angeles alone at $15 million. Board of Public Works, said damage in the city was "unprecedented," especially in hillside and mountain areas. Some 2,000 city crewmen were out working on city streets Monday.

A Los Angeles County supervisor, Frank G. Bonelli, asked for a temporary one-half cent increase in the state gas tax to pay for highway repairs.

Rebuilding will be partially funded by $3 million made available Sunday by President Nixon in declaring California a disaster area.

Ventura County will rival Los Angeles in the cost of repairs. Farm officials estimated the loss to citrus crops in the Santa Paula area alone at $15 million.

In Northern California, major highways crossing the Sierra were opened Monday.

Prostitution in Posh Paris

PARIS (AP) — The rich and elegant residents of the French capital's most exclusive street are pestering the police to chase the prostitutes away from their front gates.

The complaints come from the Avenue Foch, the wide, leafy thoroughfare that is home in Paris to Aristotle Onassis, Sophia Loren and a thousand other wealthy capitalists, conspicuous consumers and society page fixtures.

After dark prostitutes in minicars come from outside the area to prowl the avenue while a few others take station in front of the ivy-covered gates in front of the mansions and luxurious apartment houses. They like Avenue Foch because it is quiet and free of heavy automobile and pedestrian traffic.

The girls in cars stop for men waiting along the street or flash their lights at a car with only a man in it. The residents find the lights annoying, also.

"I know it's extremely disagreeable to these people," said the chief of the vice squad, Pierre Ottavio. "We're harassing the girls as best we can and arrests are made every night. But the girls are clever, and arrests are not easy."

An arrest can't be made until a girl actually solicits a customer. Ottavio says the Avenue Foch girls seem to have a sixth sense about plainclothesmen and only make their approach when they find someone who looks "manageable" and "not like a cop."

Classes on Display

Teachers of business education, industrial arts and homemaking will present a display of class activities and discuss class topics at Huntington Beach High School tonight. The event begins at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria on Main Street.

War, Red China Strain

Japanese-U.S. Relations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Anti-American sentiment in Japan will increase significantly if the United States does not moderate its traditional policy of containing Red China, a group of high ranking Japanese and American officials predicted Sunday.

Aiichiro Fujiyama, former Japanese minister of foreign affairs, told a news conference American-Japanese relations are strained by the continuing Vietnam war and by Japan's growing interest in Red China as a trading partner.

"The Japanese," he said, "are very much worried about the possible escalation of the war in Vietnam. If the war is escalated, Japanese leaders would not be able to explain why to youth."

And, said Tokuma Utsonomiya, a member of the Japanese parliament and vice president of the Association for the Promotion of International Trade, "We have reached a position in our diplomacy where we can no longer ignore the existence of mainland China. We have problems with our fishing vessels off the China coast and of trade."

Fujiyama said he would not support terminating the Japanese-American Security Treaty, under which the United States stations troops in Japan, when the pact comes up for review next week.

But, he said, he hopes steps will be taken to improve relations with Red China and render the treaty unnecessary.

The Japanese officials joined Sen. Mark Hatfield, (R-Ore.), Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, and Rep. Don Edwards, (D-Calif.), at a news conference to summarize the findings of their three-day meeting in nearby Santa Barbara.

The meeting, sponsored by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, was attended over the weekend by ten members of the Japanese Diet, Sen. J. William Fulbright, (D-Ark.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; Arthur Goldberg, former U.S. ambassador to the U.N.; Sen. Eugene McCarthy, (D-Minn.), and Sen. John Cooper, (R-Ky.).

A paper by Sen. Edward Kennedy, (D-Mass.), favoring seating Red China in the United Nations, was read at the meeting.

Edwards said unless the United States makes efforts to improve relations with China "pressure will build up. The youth movement in Japan has heated up. It is connected with the American military presence in Japan. The Japanese came to this conference with a sense of urgency."

Father Sues Son For School Costs

MIAMI (UPI) — Debt-ridden fathers of college boys take note. A father has sued his son for college expenses, $19,000 worth, and won.

It apparently has nothing to do with politics, pot or poverty, but Orval Robertson of Miami, won his suit in circuit court against his son, Dr. James A. Robertson.

The father filed suit for expenses he paid for his son in four years of college and in dental school, and won in a jury trial.

The son claimed that his father volunteered to put him through the University of Michigan and dental school in Virginia. But the father produced a letter from the son acknowledging the debt, with a promise to repay it at $100 a month.

The son has practiced dentistry the past five years at Fort Meade. "This was not a feud between us," said the son. But, the two did not speak during or after the trial.

'We'll Rebuild,' Flood Victim Vows

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. William Sugden walked into their $70,000 home in the flood-swept suburb of Glendora. The floor of the ranch-style stucco house was covered with two feet of mud, the furniture was soggy and beyond repair, shelves were covered with slime.

"My wife and I built every bit of this house ourselves 12 years ago and we will rebuild it ourselves," said Sugden, a supervising engineer at Lockheed Aircraft.

Sugden's determination was typical of other California householders as they surveyed the damage done to their property by mud, water and debris.

There were 91 known deaths in nine days of heavy rains. Seven other persons were missing and presumed dead in mudslides and flooded rivers.

Damage was estimated at $35 million by Gov. Ronald Reagan before he set out today on a private airplane tour of the flood-stricken areas. The estimate was expected to go millions of dollars higher.

Families with brooms and hand shovels trudged up hillside streets to their mud-caked homes. Strawn in their paths were boulders rolled like pebbles from the several California mountain ranges paralleling the Pacific Ocean.

Juan Carlos Constenla, 37, a research engineer with the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, found mud piled nearly to the ceiling of his $37,000 home and said he was grateful.

"Had the storm hit us a few minutes later, I would have been on my way to work and my wife would have been alone. She would have been trapped inside," he said.

When the rains came, Constenla said he awoke to what sounded like thunder. "I ran to the door but everything was jammed by rocks and mud. The sliding doors in the back were blocked and debris closed the front windows. The garage had over eight feet of mud," he said.

State officials said nearly 9,000 Californians were evacuated from their homes in similar circumstances.

Nearly 1,000 persons were isolated because of washouts, landslides and wrecked bridges throughout the state. Helicopters, flying under bright sun, came to the aid of the sick and the elderly.

The floods brought promises of emergency credit and other aid including the distribution of government food commodities from the U.S. Agriculture Department. More than 2,800 Pacific Gas and Electric Co. repairmen worked Monday to restore normal service to the state.

In San Francisco, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers estimated various flood control facilities around the state prevented another $1.25 billion in damage to property in foothill areas.

Work crews lifted mud and debris from the state's major roads and railways. Limited traffic began to move again on the Pacific Coast highway, a major north-south artery.

Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles estimated $15 million damage to that city alone. In Ventura County, agricultural officials predicted losses to citrus crops in the Santa Paula area would total another $15 million. Orange County damage was $1 million.

Health officials warned many California residents to boil all tap water. In areas of many cities, raw sewage plants were knocked out in several communities.

Bucher Goals: Clear Name, Get Command

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI) — Pueblo skipper Lloyd M. Bucher has two main goals — to clear his name and again command a U.S. Navy vessel.

The 41-year-old commander of the intelligence vessel feels there is no need for Congress to look into the capture of the Pueblo by North Korea one year ago.

Bucher says he is getting a fair hearing at a Navy Court of Inquiry. He thinks the public has "over-reacted" to his narrative of capture and torture and particularly to the "routine" Navy warning he is suspected of violating Navy regulations for relinquishing his ship without a fight.

The civilian attorney for Bucher, E. Miles Harvey, made those points Monday at a news conference.

Harvey said Bucher was distressed at the impression he is being made a scapegoat for higher-ups.

One of those superiors, Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson, testified in closed session before the five-admiral board on Monday.

As commander of United States Naval Forces operating from Japan, it was Johnson's operational and tactical decision not to go to the aid of Bucher and his 82-man crew after they radioed they were under attack.

That decision, however, may have gone as high as the White House.

Johnson will begin public testimony Wednesday. Other officers involved in the operational response to the Pueblo's radio messages for assistance will be called at the same time. Today's session was closed.

Harvey, a reserve commander in the Navy, called an unusual news conference to set the record straight.

The attorney said he was speaking at Bucher's request.

Vietnam Deaths May Soon Pass Korean War Toll

SAIGON (AP) — American combat deaths in Vietnam have passed 31,000 and could exceed the Korean War's toll by May 13, the first anniversary of the Paris peace talks, military spokesmen reported today.

Communiques for the past week have listed 28 Americans killed in action, raising the Vietnam war's toll to 31,019. More than 8,000 Americans have died on the battlefield since North Vietnamese and Washington representatives first met in Paris last May 13.

The weekly report of casualties for last week will be released on Thursday. It is expected to be substantially larger than 28 since the daily reports do not list scores of troops killed in small skirmishes, nor those who died of wounds and those whose status is changed from missing to dead.

The U.S. Command reported last Thursday the eight-year Vietnam war has cost the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong at least 436,556 soldiers killed.

The U.S. combat toll for the three-year Korean War was 33,629.

Since Jan. 1, U.S. battle deaths have been averaging about 150 a week. There are 15 more weekly reporting periods until May 13, and if this average continues, the number of Americans killed in the Vietnam war would exceed 33,000 by the peace talks anniversary.

South Vietnamese rangers killed 320 Communists in the first big Vietnam battle of 1969.

Trying to catch the estimated 300 guerrillas who survived the 27-hour weekend battle, the giant stratoforts swept in waves of five to 12 planes and hammered the target with a million pounds of bombs.

Elsewhere, about 1,500 U.S. infantrymen surrounded 120 Communists 19 miles southwest of Saigon. Communist mine fields hampered U.S. marines sweeping the Batangan Peninsula to the north.

Military spokesmen said the South Vietnamese rangers lost 51 men wounded but none killed in the highlands fight between Pleiku and Dak To 225 miles northeast of Saigon.

The battle erupted Saturday and ended at noon Sunday, the delayed report said. U.S. dive bombers were credited with at least 200 Communist killed.

It was the biggest fight of 1969 and centered in an area where South Vietnamese soldiers are taking over major fighting tasks as a prelude to the eventual withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam.

Within 24 hours after the weekend battle, the United States turned over its 3,000-man garrison at Dak To to South Vietnamese soldiers. Only a handful of Americans remained as liaison officers for U.S. artillery, air strikes and helicopters.

On Saigon's southern doorstep, about 1,500 American soldiers swarmed in on helicopters Monday and surrounded 120 Communist troops who opened fire on a landing U.S. chopper.

With air strikes and artillery barrages, the U.S. 9th Infantry Division and 199th Light Infantry Brigade troops hammered the beleaguered guerrilla unit, killing 10 Communists.

Press Meets Dog Nixon Tells Setter 'Eat 'em Alive'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today introduced his new 6-month-old male Irish setter, King Timahoe, to the press. "Eat 'em alive," he instructed the dog with a laugh.

Nixon paraded the frisky new pet around the rose garden and broke up when he heard a cameraman call out: "Mr. President would you mind pulling his ears?"

Nixon's predecessor, Lyndon B. Johnson, caused an uproar with dog lovers around the world when he once playfully pulled his beagle's ears.

"Let the record show Irish setters have very sensitive ears," Nixon said.

The Irish setter was a belated birthday gift from Nixon's staff to replace the bronze replica of a setter given to Nixon on his 56th birthday last Jan. 9.

Nixon told newsmen "you have to run with this dog. That's the way I'll do my jogging."

Then with a twinkle in his eye, he quipped, "I am not going to be running for a few years."

Republicans Wield Control Of Committees

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Republicans took control of a majority of the Assembly's 21 committees today and sought to reserve the power to challenge the Senate's Democratic leadership.

Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan (R-Tracy), announced committee members Monday. The new lineup offers Gov. Reagan a better chance for passage of proposals to combat obscenity and campus disorders and to reform the state's tax structure.

The GOP moved from a 5-5 tie on the Criminal Procedure Committee to a 5-4 majority; from a 9-7 Democratic edge on the Education Committee to 9-8 Republican; from 8-6 Democratic to Republican control of the Ways and Means Committee, which considers the state's budget.

In the Senate, both parties held separate caucuses on 1969 house rules proposed by Senate President pro tem Hugh M. Burns (D-Fresno).

Later, the Senate Republican leader reported that his caucus wanted to ensure that the 40-member house could elect a new president pro tem with 20 votes — the number of seats now held by Republican members.

But Sen. Donald L. Grunsky of Watsonville, the Republican leader, emphasized that the GOP senators only "want to maintain our option" and not move against Burns now.

"We haven't decided what we're going to do," Grunsky said.

Burns' proposed rules, reportedly much the same as last year's would require 21 votes to elect a president pro tem.

But the Republicans hold a majority of seats, since the death of Sen. George Miller Jr. (D-Martinez), reduced the Democrats' holding from 20 to 19.

A successor to Miller will be chosen by April.

12 Men Rescued From Fire Trap In Coal Mine

MOUNT MORRIS, Pa. (UPI) — Twelve miners were rescued today after being trapped more than six hours by fire deep inside a soft coal mine on the Pennsylvania-West Virginia border.

Rescue teams led 11 of the men to safety from an area where they had barricaded themselves 3,000 feet from the bottom of the 430-foot-deep Mount Morris portion of the Christopher Coal Co.'s Humphrey No. 7 mine.

The 12th man was carried out by stretcher and taken in an ambulance to a hospital. Rescuers said he did not appear to be injured seriously.

Company fire crews and firemen from nearby communities fought the flames with water and then with foam.

Millard Brock, 38, of Morgantown, W. Va., section boss of the trapped men, said the men did not panic and immediately employed routine survival measures, first finding a safe area with fresh air and building a barricade.

"It was not bad down there," Brock said. "We got a little smoke but nobody panicked. Everybody followed my orders to a 'T' and we got out okay."

Brock said the men followed a tunnel away from the fire until they found an area with fresh air.

"Thank the Lord for that," he said. Three rescue teams entered the mine shortly before 11 a.m. and quickly made contact with the 12 miners.

U.S. Summary

Inclement weather and freezing temperatures covered most of the nation today with the central sections receiving the brunt of the snowstorms. Up to three inches of new snow fell from northern Wisconsin to Minnesota in a six hour period early today with heavy snow warnings in effect. South of the snow area, freezing rain caused heavy ice accumulations and glazing from Michigan and Indiana southeast into the Ohio River Valley and the central Appalachians. Bands of freezing rain also hit other portions of the Midwest, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. Scattered showers were reported in the Southwest while light snow prevailed in the eastern sections of the northern and central Plains. Subzero temperatures remained in the northern Plains and Montana with Glasgow, Mont., recording Monday's low at minus 35.

Iraq to Hang More Jews?

Israel Tells Thant Another Group Faces Death

By The Associated Press
Israel told U.N. Secretary-General U Thant Monday another group of Jews is threatened with execution in Iraq. Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, Joel Barzani, conveyed the information, and Thant said he would look into the report immediately.

After the Iraqi government announced that nine Iraqi Jews and five other Iraqis were hanged Monday for spying for Israel, Iraqi Information Minister Abdullah El Samarra told a news conference in Baghdad that 67 other persons would be brought to trial soon on charges of spying for Israel and plotting against the Iraqi government. Barzani in his warning to Thant possibly was referring to members of this group.

Israel denied that those executed Monday were spying for her and said their only crime was being Jewish. Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban in a statement to Thant said the Baghdad government "has perpetrated an act of barbarity which exceeds even what the world has come to expect from a country in which violence and murder have become almost commonplace."

Thant expressed fear that the executions would upset U.N. efforts to achieve peace in the Middle East. The Iraqi delegation to the United Nations at once complained that Thant was mixing in something that was "entirely an internal affair of Iraq."

The U.S. government and American Jewish leaders also condemned Iraq's action. Secretary of State William P. Rogers said the mass public executions were "repugnant to the conscience of the world" and "a matter of deep concern" to the U.S. government.

But Rogers noted that because the United States has no diplomatic representative in Baghdad, he could not comment "on the facts surrounding the trials."

Former Ambassador and Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, the president of the American Jewish Committee, expressed "shock and outrage" and urged the United States and the United Nations to "join with us in condemning what has occurred."

Rabbi Arthur J. Lelyveld, president of the American Jewish Congress said the 65 persons awaiting trial in Iraq were held on "trumped up, contrived and fraudulent" charges. He called on Rogers to use "every available diplomatic means" to prevent more hangings.

Today Thant called for big power pressure through the U.N. Security Council to settle the Arab-Israeli conflict.

He agreed with President Nixon's news conference statement Monday that the next eruption in the Mideast might bring a nuclear confrontation.

On the execution of the nine Jews in Iraq Thant said he recognized that the case was entirely within Iraqi domestic jurisdiction and that he did not plan to bring it before the United Nations for debate.

"But in such a delicate situation such action may impede our common effort for a just and peaceful settlement in the area," he told his first news conference of the year.

Thant said if the hangings had taken place in a less sensitive part of the world he might not have issued the statement he did Monday, deploring mass trials and executions and declaring that they impeded a peaceful settlement in the Middle East.

BAGHDAD TRIAL — Twenty-one men fill prisoners' dock during their trial in Baghdad Jan. 12-15 on charges of sabotage, spying for Israel, and plotting to overthrow Iraqi government. Fourteen of them were hanged Monday after revolutionary court handed down 16 death sentences. One man's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and another is still awaiting execution.

Charles Winninger, Veteran Actor, Dies

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — Actor Charles Winninger, who was type cast as a loveable old codger in many Hollywood movies, died Monday at his Palm Springs home. He was 84.

The plump, white haired actor had been in poor health since he broke his hip in a fall four years ago.

Winninger's picture credits in the 1930's and 40's included "Show Boat," "Three Smart Girls," "Babes in Arms" and "Destry Rides Again."

In two pictures he played the father of actress Judy Garland — "Little Nellie Kelly" and "Ziegfeld Girl."

Winninger claimed to have been born in a log cabin near Athens, Wis., in 1884, to a show business family that toured the vaudeville circuit. His father was a former Austrian army bandmaster.

A vaudeville comedian and occasionally a pitchman for patent medicines in his early days, Winninger crashed Broadway as a comedian in the play "Yankee Girl" in 1909.

He married the show's star, Blanche Ring, who divorced him in 1911 after 23 years of separation.

On Broadway, Winninger appeared in "No, No, Nanette," and the Ziegfeld Follies. He created the role of Captain Andy in "Show Boat."

Winninger turned permanently to Hollywood in the 1930's. Besides a steady run of motion picture roles, he was a radio star in the 1930's of the "Show Boat Hour."

Britain Favors Big Four Meet

By United Press International

Britain is "basically sympathetic" to a French proposal for a big four meeting at the United Nations to try to bring peace to the Middle East, authoritative British sources said today.

Such a meeting would have to be in the U.N. and in agreement of Israel and the Arab nations and would have to be "a contribution" to the peace mission of U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, the sources said in London.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahran said nearly the same thing today, quoting British envoy Goronwy Roberts as saying Britain "favors" such a conference of the big four.

Civil Rights Leader Slain In Seattle

SEATTLE (UPI) — County and city law officers combined in an intensive hunt today for the killers who fired a shotgun slug into the head of Negro civil rights leader Edwin T. Pratt.

Shocked businessmen pooled funds and offered a $10,000 reward Monday for information leading to the capture of the murderers.

Police sought two or three men known to have met Pratt at the front door of his home Sunday night. They fired a slug from a 12-gauge shotgun into the mouth and head of the executive director of the Seattle Urban League.

State and community leaders expressed numbed disbelief at the slaying of Pratt, 38, a leading moderate in the struggle for black equality.

Czech Vets Guard Grave Of Palach

PRAGUE (UPI) — Eight gray-haired veterans who fought for Czechoslovakia's freedom in World War I took up guard duties today at the grave of the nation's newest freedom martyr, Jan Palach.

In the old army uniforms heavy with medals, the veterans stood inside a ring of 100 candles surrounding the grave of the student who burned himself to death in protest against Soviet occupation.

Hundreds of mourning Czechoslovaks paid individual tribute to Palach at Olsany Cemetery. The eight veterans pledged to maintain their vigil through the week.

Since his hero's burial three days ago, Palach's grave has become a shrine for Czechoslovakia's independence from Soviet domination. His

Judy Weds—Awaits Divorce

LONDON (UPI) — Judy Garland, married for the fifth time in a secret 3 a.m. religious ceremony 19 days ago, today awaited the divorce papers from her fourth marriage in order to make it legal.

Miss Garland, 46, returned Monday night to the Talk of the Town cabaret, where she was booed off the stage four nights ago and announced backstage that she had married for the fifth time on Jan. 9.

Her new husband is Mickey Deans, 35, a New York discotheque owner.

"Don't push me too hard for the details," Deans said after the announcement. "I don't wish to get the priest in trouble."

"But you take my assurance that we are married in the eyes of God if not in the eyes of the law," Deans said. "We are still awaiting the arrival of divorce papers from New York."

Miss Garland had earlier delayed a scheduled public wedding because her divorce papers had not arrived. Her fourth husband is Mark Heron, a publicity agent.

The singer said she and Deans were married in a London church between 3 a.m. and 4 a.m. Jan. 9.

"It was a religious ceremony and we went to the church by taxi and left shortly afterwards," she said. "It was a proper thing and the priest was somebody I've known for a long time."

"We even signed the marriage register," she said. "I have never been so happy."

Deans said he was Roman Catholic and Miss Garland Jewish. She quickly rejoined, "I'm show business."

Deans said they would go through a public civil ceremony with singer Johnny Ray as best man

President Nixon Favors Hikes for Congressmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today added his endorsement to an impending 41 percent pay raise for congressmen. With time running out, opponents all but gave up trying to block the hike.

Nixon, who himself got a 100 percent pay boost as Congress' first significant action, supports the congressional increase key lawmakers were told.

It appeared the $12,500 congressional salary boost — from $30,000 to $42,500 a year — would go into effect shortly without either House or Senate having voted on it.

House Rules Committee Chairman William M. Colmer (D-Miss.), who considers both the increase and its semiautomatic imposition improper, promised a last-minute attempt to force a House test.

Pueblo and the Brass

As the inside story of the USS Pueblo incident unfolds at Coronado, it becomes steadily clearer that it is the Navy's top command that is under questioning far more than the ship's captain and crew.

The present hearing thus far has developed answers to questions about what happened, but precious little about the real why. And the why is where the Navy's embarrassment rests. It will be the focus of congressional hearings to come.

Among the more obvious "why" questions will be these:

— Why was a slow-moving, thinly armored, top-heavy converted freighter with sluggish steering and no weapons worth the name used to carry the products of $100 million worth of electronic research into the vicinity of an enemy country in any circumstances?

— Having done so, why was there no adequate provision for instant radio alarm reception and no effective means to respond to such an alarm?

— Why was no means provided for instant destruction of the secret electronic equipment and paper records to prevent enemy capture?

— Why was there no adequate means for rapid scuttling of the ship — or orders not to scuttle if in shallow waters where salvage would be possible but instead to rely on equipment destruction?

— If the Pueblo's captain and crew were expected to honor the John Paul Jones tradition by fighting the enemy, why were they not given the means to fight back under something less than ridiculous odds.

— If Commander Lloyd Bucher was in any way indictable for surrendering the ship to save the lives of his men, or for later "confessing" for the same purpose, then why is not the Navy's top command — including the commander-in-chief then in the White House — equally indictable for "confessing" to a lie to gain release of the crew after 11 months of abuse?

Other equally pertinent questions will be asked before Congress finishes with the Pueblo incident. Their answers seem certain to embarrass the top Navy brass.

At this point, public opinion is running strongly to the view that Commander Bucher deserves some understanding from a sympathetic nation and from his embarrassed superiors. Even more apparent is the feeling that the Pueblo affair reveals the need for prompt and sharp inquiry into the adequacy of high echelon Navy thinking and planning.

The Appellate Court Need

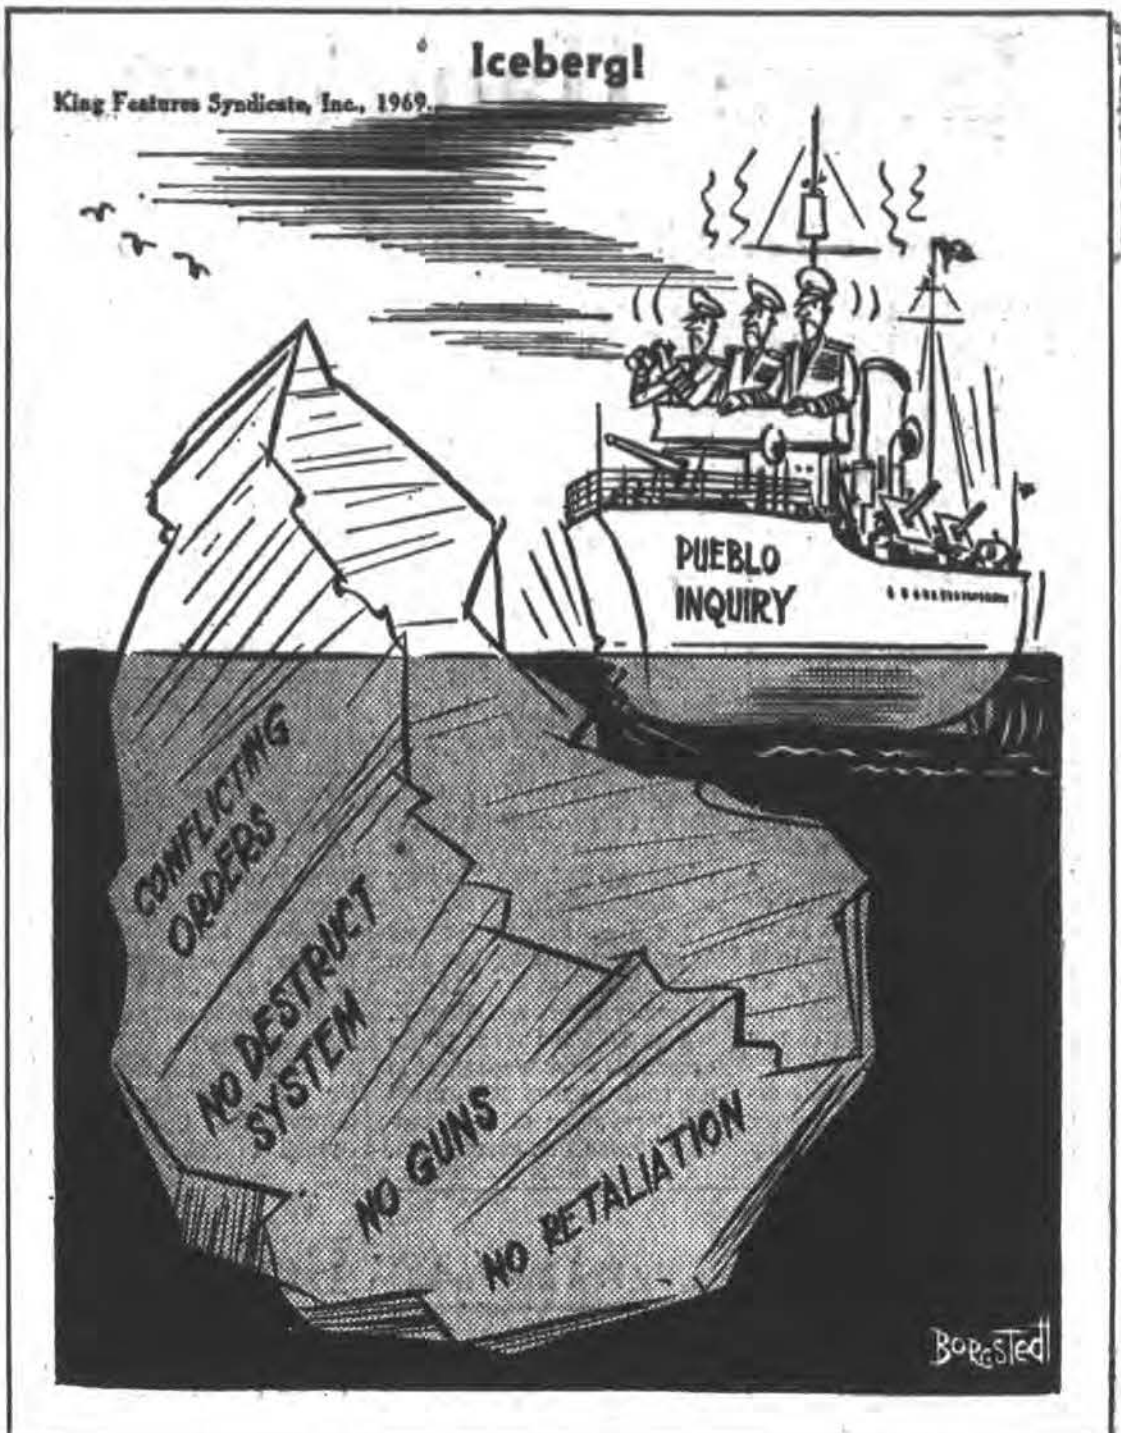

Orange County in the many years it was primarily agricultural got along very well with its municipal and superior court system. For the amount of appellate court work it produced, it wasn't too great a hardship to travel to such courts in neighboring counties.

It's different now. Urbanization has produced court case backlogs at all levels.

So the time has come when the county should have its own branch of the 4th District Court of Appeal. It can be located in the new courthouse in Santa Ana until a state building becomes available. A committee of the Orange County Bar Association supports the idea.

State Sen. James E. Whetmore (R-Fullerton) has introduced a bill to establish the branch with three appellate justices.

Governmental agencies and civic organizations in the county should lend their support to the court bill.

Play It Cool, Act Impartially

Advice to Police Officers

By CHARLES McCABE

It is not easy for a man in a uniform to be spat upon by strangers, to be called a pig, and a mother, and other very harsh names, and remember all the time that he is a public servant.

A servant, to be precise, of exactly the people who are insulting him.

But this is the way it is. When it is forgotten, real trouble starts between cops and people.

There are many places where much thought and effort are being employed to cool things between militant people and those peace officers paid to protect them — who are often seen in a much different light.

ONE SUCH PLACE is Philadelphia, where ten specially prepared manuals, written in blunt language, advise the cop on ways to cope with tricky situations he meets.

The booklets were written by two University of Pennsylvania law professors—Louis B. Schwartz and Stephen R. Goldstein—and were financed by a $43,404 Federal grant. Copies have been sent to the major police departments throughout the country.

The gist of the advice is to play it cool and act impartially. Not easy advice to take; but the authors are pretty cogent in their approach.

The authors recognize that demonstrations are "one of the toughest problems the community and the police department have to face."

Guest Report

THEY POINT OUT that the cop has as much responsibility to protect the citizen's right to demonstrate as they have to maintain public order.

When handling crowds the cop is advised to "remain courteous and good-humored, regardless of provocation. Be firm but friendly. Use no more force than is necessary. A joke or an apology may save the situation. An arrest, even though justified, may precipitate mass violence."

On handling delinquent juveniles: "Every officer should do the best he can to eliminate race, nationality, or religion as a consideration in his behavior."

"THIS IS NOT easy. Policemen are human beings and have prejudices like other people. You're not expected to like all groups equally. In fact, you may be kidding yourself if you say you do."

"It's much healthier to admit that, because of your upbringing or some personal experience, you do have a prejudice; but knowing that, make up your mind to watch out for it and not let it affect your official conduct and manner."

On race: "... the best policy is not to think of the disfavored group as 'them' against 'us.' We're all Americans of many immigrant stocks; and the Negroes, incidentally, were in America long before the ancestors of many white Americans."

"Think of any boy you have taken into custody as 'one of us'—an American, a Philadelphian—who is in deep trouble and is giving the rest of us people of his own race as well as others, trouble."

ON THE TRICKY subject of disorderly conduct, officers are advised that it "does not include odd behavior, or dress, or public displays of affection."

The authors state that "young people often dress or behave in a way that shocks people, but unless the behavior is extreme enough to violate some other law, for example, open lewdness, there is no offense."

The writers also tell officers, which may come as news to some, that it is no offense for someone to argue with them. On the contrary, they say, an argument is just the thing a cop must expect on occasion.

HE IS ADVISED not to be "quick about turning an 'argument' case into a disorderly conduct or resisting arrest. Keep cool."

Counsel for saints, you will perhaps say. Well, perhaps a little bit of sainthood is required on the force in these troubled days. A cop can do a lot of good, in a quiet way, by personal self-restraint.

faces and give imitations of their concept of the stereotype dinky. The South's fascination for black-face minstrels persisted into the 1920s.

It obviously is bad manners to affront Negro athletes, students and spectators with "Dixie," a song historically associated with defense of slavery and ridicule of the Negro by white men in black-face performances. One may be sure that no self-respecting Negro athlete would feel complimented if his school had Confederate flags, Confederate uniforms and a band blaring "Dixie" to remind him of ridicule and slavery.

"DIXIE" WAS NEVER a Southern song in origin or intent. It was a New York "dinky" minstrel song, later associated with a war to maintain chattel slavery.

By all means, let those who can't do without it continue to have it. I do suggest, however, that only if they black their faces and put on preposterous costumes such as the minstrel show "darkies" wore will they get to the soul of it.

Dear Gloomy Gus:

"Tijuana" and "Herb Alpert" have become practically synonymous in recent years. It's a shame Mr. Alpert can't learn to pronounce the name of the town correctly.

Democratic Council Idea Unconvincing

Allen Goldsmith

WASHINGTON — Democratic congressional leaders are far from enthusiastic about the creation of that top-level Democratic Policy Council to chart party policies.

The council was authorized by the Democratic National Committee at its meeting earlier this month. As matters now stand, former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is expected to be chairman of a prestigious council membership.

The council is supposed to function as a sort of "shadow government" for the Democrats while Republicans control the government's executive branch. Meeting periodically, the council is to discuss national issues and issue party position papers on them.

Many congressional Democrats feel that party policy while Republicans control the White House must be made by Democrats in the House and Senate. They think policies and policy papers drafted by an outside group will only complicate the process for the elected lawmakers.

SENATE DEMOCRATIC Floor Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., has let it be known that he was not consulted about formation of the council. He says that, as a consequence, he is neither for nor against the idea — only unconvinced and uncommitted.

"I will have to be convinced that the council can do a job down here that will help us with our job up here at the Capitol."

"I think the fulcrum of power is here in Congress and the party's success in the 1970 and '72 elections will depend on our performance," says Mansfield.

A similar panel, known then as the Democratic Advisory Council, was established by Adlai Stevenson after his presidential defeat in 1956. That council was headed by Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler.

FORMER PRESIDENT Harry S. Truman was one of 20 council members. So were Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Sec. of State Dean Acheson, but Butler was firmly rebuffed when he sought participation by Democratic leaders in the House and Senate.

Speaker Sam Rayburn wanted no part of the council, and the then Senate Democratic leader, Lyndon B. Johnson, said: "The necessity of dealing with an additional committee, not created by federal law, before taking action would only cause delay and confusion."

Democratic strategists are now hoping that Mansfield and Speaker John W. McCormack can be persuaded to participate in the council's deliberations. They think the two top congressional Democrats of 1964 are less antagonistic to the concept than their 1956 predecessors.

SUPPORTERS OF the council plan contend that, with former Senator Humphrey as chairman, congressional leaders will have assurance that the council's policies will not be such as to annoy or embarrass Democratic members of the House and Senate when they come to vote on related legislative questions.

Humphrey is well aware, of course, of the unhappiness caused by the Advisory Council's creation in 1956. He is known to have had some misgivings about a new council before he finally embraced the idea.

Credit, Blame In Unequal Measure

Sydney Harris

When summer dwindled into fall last year, I heard no great murmuring from the populace about the "short cool summer" we had, when most of the expected riots in the black ghettos never materialized.

Yet, had they happened, everyone would have nodded his head sagely at the fulfillment of these dire expectations, and the air would have been filled with grim pronouncements.

When the election was over, and it turned out that the polls had been uncannily accurate in their predictions of the popular vote, I heard no large burst of applause or approval (or even apology) from the millions who had gazed upon the polls with deep dubiety.

YET, HAD THEY happened to be off by a considerable percentage, the air again would have been clamorous with recrimination and indignation and dark talk about "doing something" to the perpetrators of such folly.

This is the way it goes, and we must understand it. What does not fit in with our predictions and prophecies and forebodings is quickly forgotten, while what confirms them is sharply imbedded in the public consciousness. And while we are quick to blame those who fulfill our worst expectations, we are just as reluctant to credit those who act better than we had predicted.

THERE IS SOME perverse element in the human animal that dispenses credit and blame with unequal measure. Hardly anyone is ever given credit for acting better than he needs to, while everyone is condemned for acting worse than we think he should.

Everyone in public life is painfully aware of this distorted sense of equity, in praise and blame. A politician can do a dozen things right without a glimmer of recognition from the electorate, but one wrong step may bring down on him a cascade of rebuke — not merely from his enemies, which is to be expected, but from his previous supporters as well.

MY OWN DAILY mail is quite characteristic in this respect. Many of the letters, quite unconscious of their implications, will tell me that "I have read the column for many years and generally like it, but this time you really hit a foul ball," or words to that effect.

But they never write in to let me know about the columns they liked and agreed with — until, perhaps once a year, something happens to stick in their psychic craw and they feel forced to expel it my way. In the same manner, to take a more common example, hardly anyone would write to a restaurant complimenting it about good service over the years — but one bad meal, sloppily served, brings down wrath. To accentuate the negative seems an almost ineradicable human failing.

Fraudulent Statements

Law in Action

Bill and Mary Sharp, handy fixer-uppers, owned a five-room house with a big basement. They re-did it into a four room apartment, and rented it.

Later Bill and Mary sold the Joneses the house for $20,000. A few years later the health department ordered the Joneses not to rent the basement apartment.

Jones sued the Sharps for fraud in the sale of the house. The Sharps replied that they did not know they needed a health department or building permit, and that they had hired a carpenter to help them, and thought he would get the needed permits to list their place as a multiple dwelling.

THE COURT HELD the Sharps liable to the Joneses for misrepresentation. There was fraud. The way the Sharps listed their property as one with rental income, and their implied knowledge of building permits showed they were saying, in effect, that their house was suitable for rental as two units.

The victim of a fraudulent statement of fact may hold the other person liable for his losses.

The law expects you to know or find out about the law. The seller of a drugstore said his area was zoned to keep out another drugstore. But it was not. In a lawsuit the buyer got nothing since he could have checked out the law for himself.

BUT A PERSON who claims to be an expert on law or real property may have the courts treat his statements as facts. If he lies, he is liable to the person he has injured.

Such statements do not include obvious "bragging" or "puffing." People can "puff" their property or goods. They can claim that it will go up in price, that rentals are low and should go up, or that the house or car is as sturdy as Mount Rocky. No one in his right mind should rely on such statements alone. He should check them out himself.

To say the tires are new, or the water heater holds 50 gallons, or the coat is all mink, these are all statements of fact. If they are made in order to mislead a buyer, the seller will most likely be responsible for any loss the buyer suffers.

Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

Dear George:

I'm very bashful around girls and my problem is this. When I take a girl to a movie I get up nerve enough to put my arm on the back of her seat, but I don't have enough courage either to drop it to her shoulder or to take my arm down. What can I do?

NUMB ARM

Dear Numb Arm:

For one thing, stay away from double features. Secondly, try holding hands instead of her shoulder — this way you can practice at home. (It's lots easier to practice holding your own hand than it is putting your arm around your own neck.)

Army Mutiny Trial Begins

Presidio Sit-down Strikers Face Court Martials

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Six young soldiers who held a sit-down strike at the Presidio Stockade face an Army Court Martial today on the rare charge of mutiny.

The six defendants are among 27 soldiers charged with mutiny for refusing to go to their work details last Oct. 14. They said they are protesting conditions at the stockade and the fatal shooting of an inmate by a guard three days before.

The penalty for mutiny can be death, but the Army said it would not seek the maximum penalty in the Presidio cases. The first six to go on trial are Larry Zaino, Toledo, Ohio; Larry Reidel, Crescent City, Calif.; John Colin, Sacramento, Calif.; Richard L. Toddy, Hayward, Calif.; Edward Yost, Elmer, Calif.; and Louis Oczepinski, Florida, N.Y.

Lt. Gen. Stanley Larsen, 6th Army commander, ordered the 27 tried for mutiny, ignoring recommendations of an Army hearing officer and protests by religious and antiwar leaders.

Capt. Richard J. Millard, who conducted the preliminary investigation for the Army, recommended reduction of the charges to willful disobedience.

"The charge of mutiny under Article 94 (of the Military Code) does not apply to the facts of 14 October 1968," Millard said. "In my opinion, this case has been built up out of all fair proportion."

Meanwhile, a group of 35 clergymen demanded that the Army drop the "inhumane and intolerable" charges.

Bob Hope Hospitalized

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bob Hope was reported resting comfortably at UCLA Medical Center today pending treatment of a recurrent eye ailment that has troubled him since 1958.

Hope, 65, entered the hospital for observation Sunday night after he experienced discomfort in his left eye at his North Hollywood home.

There was a possibility the comedian would undergo photocoagulation treatment to repair hemorrhaging. He was treated for the same ailment last June and underwent the treatment in 1963 in San Francisco.

LA Sued in Jet Noise Complaint

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charging that jet aircraft at Los Angeles International Airport threaten their lives and their pocketbooks, 94,000 home owners sued the city of Los Angeles for $2.8 million Monday.

The mass damage action was filed in behalf of persons with interests in 35,000 parcels of property located near the airport's north runway. All are residents of the city of Inglewood.

The suit was organized by a homeowner group calling itself the Inglewood Residents Protective Association.

"We first put in a claim asking for $1 billion," said the association's president, Vito A. Bernardi. "The city did not respond, so now we are filing the damage suit."

He said the group also will seek a court order forbidding the city-controlled airport to use the runway in question.

The complaint charged that they have lived in fear of death or injury from plane crashes since the runway was opened May 2.

They maintained the noise of jet aircraft has deprived them of the chance to make financially favorable sales of their homes and commercial structures. The suit also alleged that planes using the runway violate the residents' air space and that noise and jet fumes impair the enjoyment of their property.

Jet Crash Salvage Continues

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The crew of the tiny submarine Deep Quest hopes to attach a cable to the tail cone of a sunken Scandinavian Airlines jetliner that crashed Jan. 13. Still missing are nine bodies.

Inside the cone, investigators expect to find the plane's flight recorder and information why the DC3 plunged into the sea, killing 15 persons.

In another piece of the tail section nearby, the bodies of the nine still missing may be entombed, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board said.

Salvage operations were delayed by high waves Monday. Above surface, however, a research vessel continued its search for the remains of a United Air Lines jetliner that crashed later in the same area, killing all 38 persons aboard.

Newport, Sea Kings Rocked by CIF Penalties

By GLENN WHITE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Harbor High School and Corona del Mar High have been found guilty of CIF rules violations and are being punished accordingly, the DAILY PILOT learned exclusively today.

Corona del Mar was charged with illegal swimming practices and was subsequently found guilty on evidence submitted by CIF commissioner J. Kenneth Fagans, a Balboa Island resident.

Newport Harbor was judged guilty of three violations, Fagans told the DAILY PILOT. All were in regard to the holiday basketball tournament staged by the Optimist Club.

For sidestepping regulations, the CIF executive committee voted that Newport will not be allowed to hold any invitational events in any sport for one year, with the exception of its March 29 Beach Cities Invitational track meet.

The meet will be allowed to go on this year but is hatched in 1970. The basketball tourney is also off for a year.

Corona del Mar is barred from competing in any swimming invitational, including the CIF championships and prelims. However, the Sea Kings may be permitted to vie in the Irvine League meets. That decision is in the hands of the league, Fagans says.

The beefs with Newport were as follows:

1. Newport did not notify the CIF that four teams had dropped out of its Optimist tournament.
2. Newport did not request state sanction for the tournament when non members of the CIF Southern Section were invited (the Yuma schools and Monte Vista of San Diego).
3. Newport allowed a graduate team to participate in the tournament when the Mexican team dropped out.

The Corona del Mar violations were called to Fagans' attention by two swim mothers and he followed up by personally investigating alleged wrong doing.

"I got up at 5:15 a.m. one Tuesday and drove my car to Corona del Mar High School," he told the DAILY PILOT.

"I observed boys (about 20 of them) in the swimming pool, which had lane lines set up and no evidence of water polo equipment in the area. (Corona del Mar contended that it was holding a post-season water polo workout).

"I further observed coach Cliff Hooper using a stop watch to time the boys and he was exhorting them to go faster.

That to me indicates a pre-season swimming workout — not post season water polo. That gives Corona an unfair advantage since swim practice doesn't open till Saturday."

Corona del Mar principal Leon Meeks was chagrined over the turn of events and says he will appeal the ruling. Fagans says such an appeal can be made and that it would be heard by the executive committee. "If it turns out we're wrong, we'll rescind the ruling," he reveals.

Meeks charges that the case was heard and judged without anyone from Corona being allowed to testify. But Fagans says the executive committee felt there was sufficient evidence to make a ruling without hearing Cdm testimony.

Meeks also says he had previously outlined what Corona del Mar was doing in earlier correspondence with the CIF when a possible rules violation was brought up and that Fagans never responded to his letter.

Fagans did not recall the letter.

Meeks was also disgruntled at hearing of the school's penalty via the rumor route. However, Fagans says letters were sent to Meeks and Newport principal Chuck Godshall on Monday and should have been received this morning.

The Best of Two Worlds

Laguna Beach athlete Bill Toomey stands between pictures of himself and Detroit pitcher Denny McLain while McLain takes his picture. Toomey, Olympic decathlon gold medalist, was named amateur athlete of the year by the Philadelphia SportsWriter's Association Monday night. McLain was named the year's top pro athlete.

O.J. Goes to Bills; Rams Get Smith, Irish's Seymour

NEW YORK (UPI) — O.J. Simpson, the Heisman Trophy winner and two-time All-America from Southern California, today was picked by the Buffalo Bills as the No. 1 choice in the 1969 pro football draft.

Los Angeles, using Detroit's No. 1 pick acquired in the Bill Munson deal, took Larry Smith, second-leading rusher in the Southeast Conference. The Florida senior is 6-4 and 221.

Los Angeles, using its second of three first-round picks, selected receiver Jim Seymour of Notre Dame, 6-4, 205. The All-American split end caught 53 passes for 736 yards last season.

San Diego, which had Denver's pick in the Steve Tensi deal, surprised with Marty Domres, Columbia quarterback who is 6-4 and 212.

Domres, who holds 15 Columbia and 12 Ivy League records, was the fourth leading passer in the country and third in total offense last season.

Simpson, in his two varsity seasons at USC, practically rewrote the NCAA's rushing records. He set records for career rushing yardage (3,124) and led the nation in rushing last season with a record 1,709 yards. His 22 touchdowns were high in the nation and placed him second in scoring with 132 points.

George Kunz, the All-America offensive tackle from Notre Dame, was selected by the Atlanta Falcons. Kunz, 6-5, 240, and co-captain of the Fighting Irish, has everything necessary to become one of the great pro linemen, combining both strength and speed. He was Notre Dame's starting right end in his junior year.

Kunz, whose strength basically is in his arms, caught seven passes as a junior for 101 yards. Coach Ara Parseghian shifted him to tackle in an attempt to establish a better ground

Wetzel Prays For More Rain At Alta Loma

Bob Wetzel is probably the only man in Southern California who is hoping it starts to rain again.

"I'm praying for rain, then maybe we won't have to play Chaffey tonight," said the Orange Coast College basketball coach whose team is coming off a pair of disheartening one-point losses over the weekend.

Tonight's Eastern Conference game between Chaffey and the Pirates is scheduled to get under way at 8 in far off Alta Loma.

"Everybody is down on our team, including the coach," Wetzel said. "We need a win badly, but I'm not looking forward to our next 11 games."

"We haven't been playing with any consistency and we've had two straight poor shooting nights."

Wetzel indicated he'd probably go with the same lineup that started in the Pirates' weekend loss to Cypress—Rich Stickelmaier at center, Phil Jordan and Steve Jacobsen at forwards and Tim Saylor and Mike Flaherty at guards.

As has been the case most of the year, Coast will be giving away height to Chaffey up front.

The Panthers have been relying on a balanced attack all year with their five starters averaging 13 or more points a game in conference play.

OU or Stanford?

Vataha Still Has Chance To Reconsider Choice

It's still not too late for Golden West College's super football star Randy Vataha to change his mind and pick the University of Oklahoma over Stanford as the college of his choice.

Vataha announced earlier that he was going to pursue his grid career at The Farm, under the coaching of John Ralston, instead of at OU under Chuck Fairbanks.

With Ralston, Vataha will quite likely never know the thrill of playing in a bowl game.

WHITE WASH

Under Fairbanks he'll probably enjoy that experience a couple of times.

Ralston, surprise recipient of a renewed contract at the end of last season despite his lack-luster overall coaching record at SU, may simply be over his head against big name coaches like Tommy Prothro, John McKay, Dee Andros, Jim Owens, etc.

Perhaps he'd fare better at a high school somewhere.

In the meantime, Vataha has a chance to reconsider and try his fortunes at Oklahoma — where winning and bowl games are a way of life, not an occasional luxury.

Short Circuits

Paul Schaaf, California Angel third baseman who was picked up by the Kansas City Royals in the recent expansion draft, says he's going to be shifted to shortstop this year.

Schaaf, a Fountain Valley resident, is looking forward to a return to action after being benched in Boston last year.

Ed Sukla, former Huntington Beach High star, has big hopes for the upcoming season. Sukla says the Angels have assigned him to their Hawaii team.

So a shot at parent team may be right around the corner since the Cherub pitching staff could use all the help it can get.

The Marlin McKeever have moved to Newport Beach. McKeever, wife Sue and their four children are the latest sports celebs to make the Orange Coast area their home.

McKeever, a former USC star, plays with the Rams.

A big weekend for the Boyds of Orange County. Bob Boyd, basketball coach at the University of Southern California, saw his Trojans hit a new low when they lost to Athletics in Action Friday night.

And while SC was taking its lumps, Bill Boyd and his Football High team-mates were losing their first Crestview League start of the hoop campaign (to El Modena).

Looks like Huntington Beach High's basketball team may not make it on television after all. The TV station checked out the Oiler gym and found it was 10 candlepower short of required lighting.

There's been a miscout on Compton High School's string of basketball games without a loss. The Tarbabes were 33-0 last year and are 17-0 this season, which makes 50 straight — not 48 as reported by the CIF and one LA newspaper.

Ranko Zeravica, who coached Yugoslavia to the Olympic Games silver medal in basketball last October in Mexico City, is a guest at Cal State (Fullerton) for 12 weeks to observe basketball in LA USA.

He is scheduled to see the sport on all levels of competition during his stay.

The Sports Vacation Recreational Vehicle Show at Anaheim Convention Center has some outstanding travel movies.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—The status of knee injuries to the top two scorers in the American Basketball Association—Rick Barry of Oakland and Connie Hawkins of Minnesota—may spell the difference tonight in the league's 2nd annual All-Star game.

Hawkins, who has led the Minnesota Pipers to first place in the Eastern Division, was counted out of action Monday by East coach Jim Harding.

The West's main threat, Barry, returned to action Sunday night against Houston and played 16 minutes. He will be able to start in the all-star game, which will not be televised.

BRISBANE, Australia—It's one down and three to go for Corona del Mar's Rod Laver, who's aiming for a second tennis Grand Slam. Laver won the Australian Open Monday—first of tennis's Big Four tournaments.

The others are the French, U.S. and Wimbledon championships. Laver swept all four as an amateur in 1962.

Laver, now a pro, whipped Spain's Andres Gimeno handily, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5. Then Laver teamed with Newport Beach's Roy Emerson and won the doubles crown, beating Australians Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle 6-4, 6-4.

The national basketball team from the Republic of China will visit Costa Mesa Wednesday evening to play Southern California College.

The Chinese team has been playing a series of games in the United States, Canada and Mexico since December.

The 14-man Chinese team has three players standing 6-4 or taller, the tallest at 6-7.

INGLEWOOD — The Los Angeles Lakers open a schedule of six games in seven nights with tonight's National Basketball Association game against the Chicago Bulls at the Forum.

Everything Under Control For Archer

PEBBLE BEACH (UPI) — Many followers of the game these days rate George Archer the best putter on the golf tour.

After the way he played Monday to win the $150,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am they could add he's pretty good from tee to green, too.

Archer, the gangling Californian who placed fourth on the money winning list last year with $150,000, had every part of his game under complete control in the Crosby final. It wasn't spectacular golf, two birds, a bogey and 15 pars, but it was good enough for a one-under 71 and victory by a stroke over Howie Johnson, Bob Dickson and Dale Douglass.

Archer did play well but it was more case of the competition not keeping up as much as his own shooting.

Scores and money won in the $150,000 Bing Crosby Tournament:

Tough One for Irvine — Anteaters Visit Fresno

By EARL GUSTKEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

FRESNO — UC Irvine is confronted with its most difficult basketball assignment in exactly one month when it takes the floor here tonight.

It was one month ago today coach Dick Davis' Anteaters dropped a 61-60 decision to powerful Cal State (Long Beach). This evening, they are asked to defeat Fresno State College's Bulldogs in what is known as the "Snake Pit of the San Joaquin Valley."

At least, that's what CCAA basketball coaches like to call Fresno's 2,500-seat gym. The Bulldogs have lost once there in the last four years.

UCI enters the contest with a 12-5 record. Fresno State is 10-6.

Davis figures his club needs to win the remainder of its games to secure a berth in the NCAA college division playoffs in early March.

Fresno coach Ed Gregory will start two Orange Counties against Irvine — Bob Stephens (6-3) from Savanna High of Anaheim and Larry Hendricksen (6-5) of Fullerton.

Hendricksen, a sophomore, has been Fresno's surprise player of recent outings and makes his first start tonight.

Stephens, a junior, is averaging 15.4 points per game. The team's leading scorer is Lu Davis, at 17.4 per.

Davis counters with his classy junior forward, Jeff Cunningham. He's hitting at 20 points a game.

Gregory says his best win so far was a 72-69 game gained at San Jose State. On the road, the Bulldogs lost close ones at Colorado (69-64) and at Colorado State (85-78).

Fresno has beaten San Diego State and Cal State (LA).

"We've got a scrappy ball club," he says.

"Nobody has beaten us badly yet. We were down by only eight with Santa Clara with four minutes to play. We had to go for the ball and they blew us out, 42-45."

Tarkanian Eyes NIT Bid

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Coach Jerry Tarkanian is trying to dispel the myth, accepted as fact in some areas, that Cal State (Long Beach) is a small school in basketball.

Not only does Tarkanian feel that the 49ers are a major basketball team but he said Long Beach would entertain bids for postseason competition.

Tarkanian said in other parts of the country teams are unaware that Cal State has an enrollment of 28,000 and plays major schools in basketball.

Currently the 49ers have a 17-1 record and have won 12 straight games while dominating the California Collegiate Athletic Association.

"I'd love to get into any tournament," he said before the Southern California basketball writers Monday. "It could be an at-large invitation from the NCAA in the university division or to the National Invitational Tournament."

"If we continue to play the way we have, I think we deserve some sort of post-season bid."

Long Beach suffered its only loss to the nationally-rated Tulsa team which is leading the Missouri Valley Conference.

Tarkanian moved to Cal State this season after an amazing record at both Riverside City College and Pasadena College. He was coach of the junior college team in the Olympic basketball trials and his Jaycees defeated one of the NCAA teams in that competition.

UCLA coach John Wooden said he found it amusing that teams which lost to his top-ranked Bruins thought UCLA could be beaten.

EARL GUSTKEY

If you sat in on UCI's game with UC Davis last Thursday night, you probably gleaned some idea of the affluence of the agricultural school's basketball program.

The team brought along its cheerleaders and a 17-piece band to UCI, where the Aggies were beaten, 99-89. Coach Bob Hamilton was telling us of how the game is received in Davis, a community of some 9,000 near Sacramento.

"Our gym seats about 2,000 and we turn away about two or three thousand for every game," he reported.

"Most of the tickets are gone five or six days ahead of the game but there are mobs at game night trying to get the few remaining general admission tickets. We'll have a new gym in two or three years that will seat something like eight or 10 thousand."

The Aggie basketball team is good, but not great. You must conclude, therefore, that the Davis band goes a long way toward drawing the UCD crowds.

The scraggly-looking outfit staged the most entertaining pre-game, halftime and post game shows yet seen at a UCI game.

Salty Remarks Redden Faces

An unpredictable lot, their salty remarks directed toward the Irvine songleaders and UCI in general reddened a few Anteater snouts, possibly explaining Irvine's overwhelming play in the second half.

When the band was taking a break, the 1,408 on hand enjoyed watching the frantic sidelines antics of Hamilton, who at one point rushed up to a radio station announcer broadcasting the game and asked: "Say, I hope none of those dirty words of mine are going out over the air!"

Coaches have their own methods of diagramming plays during timeouts. Some use chalk on the floor, others use the fore-finger-and-palm method. Hamilton is the first we've seen with a legal pad and pencil. He's scribble a play down and then tear the sheet off and draw another.

At the end of the game the Davis bench was ankle-deep in discarded plays. The team's worst crisis of the evening arrived when Hamilton lost his pencil.

ANGELS DEPT. — Angel general manager Dick Walsh is still trying to land Washington third baseman Ken McMullen, but he says the Senators want pitcher George Brunet in exchange.

Incidentally, scratch that report that Angel centerfielder Vic Davallilo had a nervous breakdown in Caracas. Doctors finally diagnosed his ailment as ptomaine poisoning and the Angels are overtly worried.

UCI DEPT. — Irvine basketball coach Dick Davis is attempting to schedule a home game with Santa Clara next season.

The Broncos are unbeaten right now and are rated the nation's third best team.

HALL OF FAME DEPT. — You have to wonder what kind of an affliction besides a low IQ is ailing the baseball writers who cast their votes for Hall of Fame candidates each year.

Some of those who received votes last week were Jackie Jensen, Harry Brecheen, Gil McDougald and Mort Cooper.

SANTA ANA DEPT. — All-round athlete Isaac Curtis is ready for track season. He high jumped 6-4 in a workout last week in the rain.

QUIZ DEPT. — Here's one you might stump a baseball fan on: At the start of this year's baseball season, major league baseball will have been played in eight major league parks in California. Name them.

Answer — Seals Stadium, Candlestick Park, Oakland Coliseum, Los Angeles Coliseum, Wrigley Field, Dodger Stadium, Anaheim Stadium and San Diego Stadium.

JCs Stand by for Baseball Openers

All three Orange Coast area junior college baseball coaches are hoping for a prolonged dry spell so they can work their squads into some kind of shape for the 1969 season which opens next week.

Saddleback opens the season Monday with a scrimmage at Cal State (Fullerton) and then comes right back the next day with its first game at Golden West. Orange Coast inaugurates its season Feb. 7 in a home scrimmage with Long Beach City College.

Dick Hoover, the Golden West head man, has a pitching staff topped by a pair of hurlers sought by majors.

Steve Griffith was drafted by the Houston Astros last year but decided to stay in school. Hoover said 10 major league clubs have expressed interest in left-hander Gary Marks.

Myron Pines, who compiled a .385 average last year in the outfield is expected to lead the Rustler attack.

Dale Wonacott, who assumes the head baseball job at Orange Coast, is sorting through 32 prospects including two returning .300 hitters and a solid starting pitcher.

Mike Bailey (.321), Bill Jenkins (.303) and Ethan Oliver (.276) are proven hitters while Gary Dunkleberger compiled a 7-7 record and a 2.05 ERA last year.

At Saddleback, Doug Fritz is trying to mould 17 prospects with no junior college experience into shape.

Corona Streak On Line

The longest Irvine League basketball streak in history is on the line Wednesday night when defending champion Corona del Mar plays host to its stiffest challenge of the season — Magnolia High School.

Tipoff is at 7 o'clock. Coach Ernie Wheeler's Sentinels are current possessors of third place in Orange County rankings and have won nine of their last 10 outings.

Corona del Mar, meanwhile, is working on a 17-game league win string, including three this year to match the Sentinels in the race for the '69 title.

The two teams have met once before — that coming in the Huntington Beach Invitational where Magnolia was an easy 59-49 winner.

Coach Bill Bloom of Corona says his club must hold the highly-regarded Senta to 45 in order for his Sea Kings to spring an upset.

The Sea Kings, picked to finish second in the Irvine circuit, have dropped Fountain Valley and Loara by three points each. Those two, along with Magnolia, figure to give Bloom's charges the most opposition to a third straight berth in the CIF playoffs.

Wheeler's crew had a rough time in its last test — a 48-44 squeaker over Estancia. "We'll have to do a lot better against Corona del Mar than we did against Estancia," says Wheeler.

"Estancia played extremely well against us," Wheeler added.

As for Wednesday night's crucial Wheeler noted that his club had a good book on Corona and he felt the Sea Kings knew as much about his own club.

"We'll just have to go out and do a good job," Wheeler said.

Bloom says the key to an upset will be in his team's ability to shut off the vaunted front line of Magnolia — Jan Adamson, Doug Omer and Dave Murray.

Kim Wilbrecht has been assigned the strongest individual in each of the Sea Kings' three wins in league action and draws Omer this time.

Winternationals At LA Fairgrounds

A new version of the "Freight Train," one of drag racing's most unique innovations, will be unveiled this weekend when the 9th annual Winternationals drag racing championships unfold at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds. Designed and built by 29-year-old John Peters of Los Angeles, the new machine will be similar to its predecessor in that it will be powered by two Chevrolet engines, arranged in line and supercharged to produce more than 1,000 horsepower.

Peters reports, however that a great many refinements have been added to assure better performance. The car is one of more than 40 class AA gas dragsters entered in Top Gas Eliminator competition.

It will be driven by veteran Bob Muravez, also of Los Angeles, who drove the original "Train" on a successful rampage of the nation's drag strips during the past two years.

"We've been plagued by too much horsepower in the past," Peters said. "Transmitting all that power to the rear wheels often was a problem, and when we did lose it was because the tires went up in smoke." Peters said he is confident that the new machine will not have that problem and that he expects Muravez to better his 202.70 mph and 7.50 second national records which he set with the old car.

The "Freight Train" and its crew have become one of drag racing's greatest crowd pleasers during the past two years. Each member is colorfully attired in railroad engineer caps and overalls and their push car is equipped with an authentic train whistle which sounds off whenever Muravez wins. Challenging the Muravez-Peters combination for Top Gas honors is an array of other well known drivers including defending champion Gordon Collett of Portsmouth, Ohio, the "Gas House Gang" from Los Angeles and world champion Bob Noice of Van Nuys.

The $150,000 Winternationals will get underway with time trials and qualifications on Friday, followed by class eliminations on Saturday and final eliminations for the eight major eliminator titles on Sunday.

MV Ends Jinx Diablos Stay Cool, Nip Tustin 47-42

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Mission Viejo High School's poised basketball players broke a 42-42 tie with 2:08 to go and went on to hand Tustin a 47-42 defeat Monday night at Foothill High in a Crestview League crucial for the winners.

Coach Pat Roberts' quintet, with the Tustin victory in hand, now stand one game out of first place in circuit action behind pacesetter Foothill.

The Diablos, with a 4-2 mark, are tied for second with San Clemente and Villa Park.

For Mission Viejo, it was a win a long time coming at the Foothill confines.

Prior, the Diablos had never won at Foothill — losing once in 1967 and twice last year.

The game was moved to Foothill because of the lack of bleachers in the Tustin gym.

And for a moment in the waning moments of the game it appeared that the jinx was going to continue to plague the Diablos.

However, Tom Gardner hit a free throw with 2:08 left to give the invaders a one-point margin and then Jerry Gloster picked up a key bucket and followed with a steal of a poorly thrown Tiller pass to set the tempo for the rest of the test.

Roberts could not single out any individuals for honors, instead lauding his team's overall effort.

It was Jeff Masterson, however, who came through at the outset of the third period to get the Diablos into a nine-point lead with 7:12 spent in the quarter.

He tanked five of his nine points in that span and it appeared Mission Viejo was on its way to a breather.

Tustin, however, whittled the advantage to nothing midway in the fourth period with the help of an effective full-court press.

The Diablos, when they beat the press, could not take advantage, blowing several layups.

ANAHEIM

Newport Harbor High School's varsity basketball team will be trying to get untracked from its five-game Sunset League losing streak tonight when the Sailors play host to dangerous Anaheim at 7 o'clock.

Anaheim, losers only to league-leading Huntington Beach, rate as six-point favorites to continue Newport in its downfall.

The Bluejackets sprung two upsets last year over Anaheim, however, and observers give the Tars an even chance to do it again to the Colonists.

The two collide at Corona del Mar Wednesday at 7.

Western, despite two Sunset League losses, dropped only one place — from eighth to ninth.

The Pioneers were beaten by Huntington Beach and nipped by one by Anaheim.

Foothill clings to the last position on the poll after splitting last week's shocker a 64-59 loss to El Modena.

County Bucks Crime Rate

While It's Up, It's Lower Than U.S. Total

SANTA ANA — Although the jury is still out, it appears Orange County is bucking the nationwide trend of burgeoning crime rates — at least in less populated portions of the county under the jurisdiction of Sheriff James A. Musick and his 377 sworn deputies.

Musick released an annual report today showing total crimes handled by his department, the largest law enforcement agency in the county, were up 8.4 percent in 1968 over 1967.

It appears likely the figure will be a good deal lower than the increase in crime computed annually by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). The federal agency, however, has not yet completed its tally of nationwide crime for the last three months of 1968.

The trend, though, looks like this:

The local agency recorded a 10.9 percent increase during 1968 in major crimes (murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, felony assault, burglary, theft over $50 and auto theft). The FBI reported a national increase during the first nine months of 1968 of 19 percent for the same offenses.

Credit Card Bill Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. William Proxmire, (D-Wis.), today proposed legislation to regulate issuance of credit cards to persons who do not ask for them.

"All too often, the financial burden of lost, strayed or stolen cards has fallen on the consumer without distinction as to whether he had used the card or applied for it," Proxmire said.

Under the terms of the bill, a person would not have to pay if his card is lost or stolen unless he either asked for it or "accepted" it by using it himself. Even if the individual accepted a card, he could not be required to pay more than $50 if the card is used by another person without permission.

of those served by the sheriff live in unincorporated areas, but the figure does include three cities which contract with the sheriff for police services — San Juan Capistrano, Villa Park and Yorba Linda.

Sheriff Musick's report shows that, in these areas, increases in major crimes during 1968 ran below the national trend in all but one category — burglary.

According to Musick, there were 2,394 burglaries in his jurisdiction during 1968, a 20.3 percent increase over the previous year. FBI figures showed a 16 percent increase in burglaries nationally during the first nine months of 1968.

On the other hand, robberies in areas patrolled by sheriff's deputies dropped 5.6 percent below the 1967 figure during 1968. Nationally, the number of robberies rose 32 percent during the first three quarters of 1968.

The sheriff noted that 1968 felony arrests in his jurisdiction were up 13.9 percent over the previous year. Misdemeanor arrests, he said, were up 9.8 percent and there was in 1968 an 8 percent rise over 1967 in juvenile cases handled by his officers.

Disney Dream to Come True

WASHINGTON — A year-round resort 7,800 feet up in the High Sierra in Sequoia National Park received a go-ahead Monday from the U.S. Forest Service.

The approval means "realization of one of Walt Disney's last and greatest dreams," said Disney's brother, Roy O. Disney, board chairman of the sponsoring Walt Disney productions.

Among conservation groups

opposing the development was the Sierra Club, a nationwide organization headquartered in San Francisco.

Dr. Edgar Wayburn, president, said the Sierra Club has "under consideration the filing of legal action, but first we want to study what the Disney firm plans and what is involved."

Wayburn said the club feared Mineral King Valley would be ruined since Disney

plans "to put as many people into Mineral King on a given day as enter Yosemite Valley at any one time, and it is admitted Yosemite is overcrowded and Mineral King is one sixth to one third the size of Yosemite."

The resort will be known as Mineral King, after the valley. It will be built in a wilderness area 55 miles east of Visalia and about halfway between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

'Exceed-drin' Headache No. 2: Spirits Spoil Romance

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please, please print this letter for the benefit of men who drink too much too often.

Boys: You are lousy lovers when you are drunk. Your wives find you revolting and disgusting. Also inadequate. When you come home from a party smashed out of your mind, please forget about romance. When you roll in dead drunk from a lodge meeting or from a poker game — or whatever it was — please don't wake up your wife and make silly suggestions. It is annoying to be jolted out of a sound sleep and she will not appreciate your sudden interest in her.

This sort of thing happens to me at least twice a week and I am sick of it. My husband doesn't remember a single thing the next day and telling him does no good. He doesn't believe it. So, dear Ann Landers, be a friend and publish this letter in your column. I want to tape it to my husband's shaving mirror. Thanks much. — KLONDIKE KATE can bet your bottom dollar HIS shaving mirror won't be the only one that is decorated this morning!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In 1964 I began to date a man who came to work for our firm. At first he showed very little interest in me but I "grew on him," he says, as time went on.

In 1966 we became engaged. I am now 31 years of age, he is 36. I've been wanting to get married and start a family before I get too old. Whenever I bring up the subject he says, "Don't rush me."

Two weeks ago I insisted on setting a wedding date. I told him I was tired of waiting. He then announced that he is not good enough for me and that he has decided to "set me free."

There are rumors around the office that he has been pinching the new filing clerk behind the coat lockers. Before you tell me to dump him, please remember that I love this man in spite of his faults and I have invested five years in our future. Advise me, please. I am sick at heart. — TEARS ON MY PILLOW

DEAR TEARS: Stop mourning the loss of this heel. A man who would take five years of a girl's time and then decide he's not good enough for her is probably right. He's not. It's funny, though, how these guys who aren't good enough for you always wind up good enough for someone else. Pity the girl who gets him. He's N.G.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PATIENT GRUSELDA: If all marriage means to you is "21 meals a week for that big ape," you need more help than I can give. The pastor's words about children sounds like a wise man. Talk to him.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the DAILY PILOT, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Women Golfers, Valentines Celebrate

Rancho San Joaquin women's golfers and their valentines will gather in the Newport Beach Tennis Club Friday, Feb. 14, for a dinner dance. Festivities will begin with a 7 p.m. cocktail hour. Dinner will be served at 8 and dancing to the music of Warren Saylor's Band will follow. Mrs. I. W. Sturgis (right), chairman receives help from Mrs. Robert Livingston (left) and Mrs. Donald Talmage in decorating the clubhouse.

Rx Written for 'Ailing' Law

By BEA ANDERSON
Society Editor

"Abortion involves women only, but it's men who make the laws."

This is the conclusion drawn by Dr. Fred Hansen, Santa Ana gynecologist and a member of the board of directors of the California Committee on Therapeutic Abortion, who suggests that women are discriminated against and are forced into compulsory pregnancy.

Dr. Hansen spoke on the pros and cons of this issue during a district conference of San Orco District, Business and Professional Women. He admitted to the 200 women assembled in the Newport Inn that he is a proponent of liberalizing the abortion laws.

Abortion is one of the legislative issues currently being studied by BPW, which, during its state convention in May in the Century Plaza

Hotel, Los Angeles, will debate a resolution for presentation to the state legislature which urges abortion law changes.

OMIT EMOTION

Dr. Hansen believes it is time "we call a spade a spade" and leave out the emotional arguments while discussing the therapeutic and criminal picture.

"Abortions are only criminal because the law says so," he contends and proposed taking one or all of three routes to change the law — an initiative, legal action, or court action. The latter, he claims is the "shortest because this would prove the present law unconstitutional."

His arguments for liberalization included that abortions would free women to control their own reproductive lives, control the population explosion by serving as a back-up for "fail safe" contraceptives, control the birth rate of defective children and stop the slaughter of 7 to 10,000 women a year.

"By changing the law it would place the decision with the woman and her physician where it has rightfully belonged," he asserted.

OTHER SIDE

The other side of the picture, according to Dr. Hansen, is that the law is not respected by society, is not compatible medically, is not enforceable and is not respected by women.

All of which drive women into the hands of the criminal abortionists because, he said, "If women want an abortion they'll get one." He explained that at this point they don't care about religious and moral beliefs.

"Statistics show there are more married than single women seeking abortions," he said. "Many of these married women already have three or four children and they feel another child would be economically ruinous."

He scoffed at advocates of the present law, which supposes, he said, that women who have abortions suffer serious psychological problems.

CONTRAST

He contrasted the adverse effect of not being able to have an abortion by asking, "What about the emotional problems suffered by women with an unwanted pregnancy who bears an unwanted child, and the problems suffered by the child being reared in a home where it is unwanted?"

The law, which went into effect in November, 1967, allows legal abortions when there is a substantial risk that a continued pregnancy would gravely impair the physical or mental health of a mother, or when a pregnancy results from rape or incest.

Another provision of this abortion measure, which was rejected, provided for an abortion when there is a risk of an abnormal fetus. Dr. Hansen said this is a most important aspect of abortion laws and criticized Gov. Reagan for rejecting it.

Dr. Hansen indicated even this present law is archaic and is perpetuated by religious dogma. He pointed a finger at the Catholic hierarchy, calling them the "only organized opposition." He granted them a right to their own opinions, but said it is not a fair proposition to force this dogma on those of us who do not agree and who feel it is an invasion of our private rights.

In this connection, he pointed out that Catholics have softened their views on contraceptives and expressed a hope that this relaxation, in time, might even be found among them on the abortion issue.

More opposition to the present abortion laws must be voiced to get a change, he said. Although abortion involves only women, the number of women behind liberalizing the law is disappointingly few.

He urged the BPW group to take a stand.

In Harbor Area

Argentine Visitors Due

Fifteen Argentine Exchange Students and their chaperone will arrive in the Harbor area next Friday.

The students will remain with families for three weeks before continuing their travel under auspices of the Argentine Council of Student Exchange. The students, age 16 through 19, will fly to New York where they will spend a week and then tour Washington, D. C. and Philadelphia before splitting up into smaller groups for the remainder of their visit, directly as guests of individual American families.

Mrs. Winston Barnett, activities chairman, has planned a full itinerary for the visitors. Events include a tour of UCI, San Onofre Nuclear Station, Newport Harbor, Voigt Rubber, Robinson's Fashion Island, and trips to Disneyland, and a picnic at Irvine Park.

Los Angeles trips will include visits to Lawry's Foods, the Music Center, Los Angeles Museum, Busch Gardens, La Brea Tar Pits, North American Aerospace facility in Downey and Douglas Aircraft in Long Beach.

During their stay the Argentines will be guests of the Optimist Club and Kiwanis for luncheon. Students at Estancia, Corona del Mar and Newport Harbor High schools also will entertain the guests with bowling, a basketball game, slumber party, ice skating, beach party, go carts and attendance at the high school of the host student.

Serving as host students from the Harbor Area are the Misses Ann Montano, Carroll Beek, Cheryl Peterson, Barbara Barnett, Janice Holmer, Cheryl Smallwood and Dianne Barrett. Other hosts will be John and Rick Fletcher, Jack T. Housand, Howie Rogers, Rip Pratt, Steve Saxon, Sid Common, William Durkin and Ed

Koepsel. Students visiting will be Ana Maria Torterola, Isabel Ripoll, Guillermina Ripoll, Adriana Del Carmen Cubillos Mena, Julio A. Roca, Lilliana Leonor Andersen, Marcela Benzi, Maria Eloisa Rodriguez, Silvia Rouquay, Pedro Guillermo Vasena, Weccelao Eduardo Vasin, Manuel Belgrano, Rodolfo Eduardo Moore, Eduardo Horacio Pla, Hector Luis Hugo Laghi, Enrique Aduriz, and Marcelo Alfonso de Arrechea. Mrs. Inez Walker is the

chaperone for the group. She will be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. David Davis of Costa Mesa. The program is designed to promote the exchange of language and culture by the travel between Argentina and the United States. As the Argentine students have their summer vacations during our winter, they have the opportunity to see the high schools in action get to know their American families and experience a little of American life.

TELEVISION VIEWS

TV Screens Going Black

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ebony, the black-oriented magazine, has given space to a major article about Negroes in television. And the fact that it is basically a hopeful and positive article is of significance.

Pointedly, the added fact that the piece is not a bit of Pollyanna fluff, and does not look at television through rose-colored glasses, is also significant. The writer, Louie Robinson, knows what things are all about, and has a healthy perspective. "IT MUST BE remembered," he writes, "that although there is now a brighter minority employment picture on the tube, the Negro's high visibility makes him appear to be in greater TV abundance than he really is."

"The most recent surveys of the joint equality committee formed by the artists, directors, screen actors and writers' guilds in New York showed that minorities got only about 6 percent of the acting jobs and less than 3 percent of the commercials."

The title of Robinson's article is: "TV Discovers the Black Man." And a subtitle section adds: "Unprecedented large number of Afro-Americans make appearance on top network shows."

ROBINSON POINTS out properly that this television season has been, "in a rather strong sense . . . the year of the black people." He writes:

"Click! There's a big, bad, black stud riding tall in the saddle, with lightning in his gun-hand and a deadly eye . . ." He is talking about ABC-TV's "The Outcasts."

"Click! There's a lean young cat wearing a natural who knows where it's at and tells it like it is; but watch him, he's the fuzz." He is talking about ABC-TV's "Mod Squad."

"Click! Click! There's the finest little brown girl you ever wanted to see, lives in a sharp pad and has this kid; her husband got clobbered in Vietnam." He is talking about NBC-TV's "Julia."

ACCORDING to Robinson, "a monitoring survey made four years ago showed that, in a five-hour viewing period, three Negroes were likely to be seen on TV, two of them for less than a minute . . . at the beginning of the 1968-69 television season, there were black people starring or costarring in 14 network evening shows . . ."

"And in the housewives' domain of daytime TV, the drama and the trauma of the soap opera is no longer for whites only. Colored people have problems too. In further daytime adventures, black contestants are no longer a rarity on the quiz shows."

THINGS, HOWEVER, are still far from perfect from the black point of view. Quoted in the article is Ivan Dixon, a Negro performer in CBS-TV's "Hogan's Heroes," who says:

"The industry does feel a need to project black images, but they don't really know how. It's kind of confusing on the part of film producers basically because they still don't really comprehend what and where we really are."

THE CHANNEL SWIM: "Julia," most successful of the new television series, has been renewed for next season . . . CBS-TV's cops and robbers series, "Hawaii Five-O," has climbed sharply in the ratings after being switched to a late Wednesday night time slot.

Conference Nixon's Bag

New President Compares Well With Predecessors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon may decide the news conference is his bag after all — especially in the White House.

Nixon's relations with the press have not always been amicable. Sometimes just the opposite.

And long in his memory and the annals of reporting was his premature political swan song in 1962 when after his defeat for California governor, he said at a famous news conference: "You won't have a Nixon to kick around anymore."

But the new President's first confrontation with the press in the East Room Monday produced no kicking. He learned, like other Presidents, the office commands respect even from reporters and national television does not permit much room for challenging a chief executive's defense of mother, home and country.

The 56-year-old President looked like a bright student heading a debating team as he displayed an orderly mind with glib and well-constructed answers to questions from Vietnam to his alleged reneging on a promise to President Lyndon B. Johnson that he would not pull back a group of last-minute judgeship nominations.

Somewhat tense at the start, Nixon stood on a raised platform before a standup microphone and displayed a virtuosity of information without benefit of a podium to lean on or papers to refer to.

He wore pancake makeup, a blue suit, a white shirt, a royal blue tie and he looked all shined up for the first encounter with White House correspondents.

Nixon's gestures still do not quite gibe with what he is saying. His hands go up at the wrong time. He uses his fists and fingers awkwardly.

But veteran reporters gave him high marks on syntax. His sentences had a beginning and end — which was not always the case with former President Eisenhower, and even with the eloquent John F. Kennedy. Lyndon Johnson was a master of good syntax and short, clear sentences.

Nixon gives the one, two, three reasoned approach, to each question — even when he is evading an issue.

Johnson, articulate and at ease in off the record sessions with reporters, never hit his stride in the formal news conference. And he tried every possible format.

He took reporters on walking "death marches"—15 laps around the South Lawn — and he even held a news conference on top of a building at the New York World's Fair.

But usually his mood was hostile. He felt reporters were the opposition challenging his performance rather than seeking answers about his administration's performance.

In turn, reporters who had seen him in his relaxed sessions were sorry the American people were not also treated to the Johnson they knew at times as a man in command and an excellent yarn-spinner.

Johnson always threw the onus at the reporters at starting the conference. "I heard you all wanted to see me," he would say. TV was never his cup of tea and he appeared stiff at the podium when trying to get his point across at a news conference. Only once when he used a lavalier mike did the emotional and eloquent Johnson come through to TV watchers.

Eisenhower was usually in good humor, unless certain female reporters got under his skin, and he sounded good. But afterwards newsmen would find themselves poring over the official transcripts to find out just what he said.

Eisenhower was the first to have the televised press conferences. His predecessor, Harry F. Truman, used to have them in the oval presidential office until a reporter burned a cigarette hole in his rug. Truman could be tough in give-and-take and did not exactly suffer fools easily.

But reporters never doubted where he stood on any question.

The master of suavity and sophistication in meeting the press was Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Roosevelt, like Kennedy, actually seemed to enjoy the sessions with reporters, most of them he knew by name. He leaned back in his chair at his desk, lighted a cigarette in a long holder and opened up for questions. He also had no hesitation in telling a reporter, in effect, to go stand in a corner or put on a dunce cap.

Kennedy will be remembered for his wit, style and banter that made the American people turn on their TV sets for his news conferences, as though it were their soap opera or entertainment show.

Kennedy obviously enjoyed sparring with reporters. He leaned over the podium and laughed back at the correspondents.

Huge Cache Of Nazi Items Found

NEW YORK (AP) — Who is Dr. Galvez and why did he in 1963 store a mysterious cache of Nazi flags and literature, photos of Hitler and an assortment of weapons in a Manhattan warehouse?

The materials were found packed in about 15 cartons, trunks and suitcases in the warehouse in Yorkville, New York's German-American section.

Among the items were two Thompson submachine guns, two automatic rifles and about 25 handguns, most of them Lugers and Mausers.

There were three large swastika flags, a leather-bound edition of "Mein Kampf," photos of Nazi leaders and Nazi magazines yellowed with age. There was a Nazi colonel's uniform and an enlisted man's uniform and helmet.

The Morgan-Manhattan Storage Co. said the materials were left by a man who identified himself as Dr. Jose Galvez of Cali, Colombia. But the South American remained a mystery to authorities.

An agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said Tuesday, "We are going to have to try to find this man. A determination must be made if he exists, is dead or perhaps a fugitive. We just don't know."

The cache was discovered when the warehouse owners decided to auction the materials because the storage bill had not been paid for more than a year. The cartons and trunks were opened Monday by Manhattan Galleries, the auctioneers.

New Minimum Wage

1.5 Million Soon Covered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new federal minimum wage, well below the government's own poverty standard, goes into effect this week for an estimated 1.5 million workers not previously covered.

The expansion extends federal minimum wage protection to an estimated 44 million persons—more than half the nation's work force—as of Feb. 1.

But the newly covered workers will be entitled to 30 cents an hour and $12 a week less in basic pay than those previously covered by law.

For most workers the minimum wage is $1.60 an hour but for those covered for the first time this week it will only be $1.30 an hour.

Translated into annual pay, assuming the worker is employed a full 52 weeks, the $1.30 figure comes to $2,704—considerably less than the government's $3,200 a year poverty level.

Practically all the newly covered workers are retail service employees such as restaurant, hotel and motel workers.

In addition to the basic minimum wage all workers covered by the law must now receive a time and one-half pay for every hour worked over 40 hours a week. Exempted from the overtime provision entirely are restaurants, hotel, motel and hired farm employees. And nursing home employees must work a 48 hour week before they can collect overtime.

The newly covered workers will receive 15 cents an hour increases each year until they are brought up to the $1.60 an hour level. This means by Feb. 1, 1971, all covered employees will be entitled to the same amount.

27th Child at Age 63 Father Says Children Just Kept Coming

MIDDLESEX, N.C. (UPI) — Jim Stone had a homecoming for his new baby daughter Monday. But it took the 63-year-old lumber man a moment to remember her name.

"It takes a little while to get 'em in your mind when they first come," said Stone, father of 27 children.

The baby, Wendy Gay, joined 11 other Stone children in the 15-room house Stone built 20 years ago. His first home at the same site burned.

Wendy Gay was born in a Rocky Mount Hospital last Thursday. Stone and his second wife, Thelma, have had nine children. His first wife, Lettie, died "about 18 or 19 years ago" after bearing 18 children. Stone married Thelma about a year later.

"She was right young when I married her, about 20 or 21," said Stone, who operates a lumber mill in nearby Bailey. Thelma is 39.

Lecture Set By Humphrey

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will begin his new academic career by giving a speech on the urban crisis.

The speech will be the keynote address for the annual political emphasis week beginning Feb. 23 at Macalester College where Humphrey will be a professor. He also will teach this year at the University of Minnesota.

Stone has 13 daughters and 14 sons. He says 15 children are married and spread throughout the world. He doesn't know how many grandchildren he has.

"They say something about it when one comes," he chuckled. "But I don't keep up right close to them."

The older children help Stone's wife with the housework. A maid comes in the mornings. The oldest at home is Sue, 27, who is unmarried and works in Raleigh.

"We all work together, kinda," Stone says.

Stone says he had so many children because "they just came along. And God let us have 'em." Stone attends the Church of God near his home.

Asked how he has managed to provide for so many, Stone laughed and replied, "It takes some stirrin' around."

How to Prevent Hijacking

FAA Rummages Through Tons of Suggestions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American citizen, aroused by the increasing number of airline hijackings, has come up with several cures — some serious, some frivolous and most pretty unusual.

One of the strangest suggestions called for installing a trapdoor in the cockpit. Once a would-be hijacker entered, the pilot could open the trap and send the hapless air pirate plummeting to his death.

Some other ideas:

Build a double-door cockpit entrance, trap the hijacker between them and fill the space with gas. Or shoot would-be hijackers with a tranquilizer gun — that's the way TV thugs are handled.

Day after day, proposed cures for the problem flood the Federal Aviation Administration, which says it is in danger of being swamped by the mail.

In addition to handling its own hijacker mail, the FAA serves as a clearinghouse for suggestions sent to the FBI, the White House, the State Department and the airline companies.

Suggestions from aerospace engineers, scientists and others are sent to the FAA's engineering division for careful analysis. Manufacturers of devices that might control the problem are invited in to give demonstrations, and their products receive close study.

"Mayors, bank presidents, civic club members, teachers, whole classrooms of students write in," says Al Butler, assistant chief of the air carrier research branch of the FAA's Flight Standards Service.

"We read them all, and acknowledge every one. Some we can answer only with a card."

Others get letters pointing out that hijacking is a crime punishable by death.

But the FAA thinks violence of any sort should be avoided because of the danger of a catastrophe that might endanger all the passengers on a plane.

Letters stream in from prison guards, jail inmates and relatives of prisoners, often suggesting metal-detect-tion devices such as prisons use. The trouble is, the FAA responds, that there's no way so far to tell a pilot from a cigarette lighter or belt buckle.

Nor would metal detectors give a warning of a plastic explosive or a bottle of nitroglycerine, the FAA points out.

Another popular solution for the U.S. to provide free transportation for anyone who wants to go to Cuba, where most hijacked planes are taken.

And then there's the ultimate solution: "Have the Cuban national anthem played over the public address system of the airliner just before takeoff. Arrest anyone who stands up."
