Mrs. Popeil To Retrieve Rolls Royce

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Eloise Popeil, who is facing a court hearing on police charges that she conspired to have her millionaire husband murdered, today is expected to get back the Rolls Royce police confiscated during her arrest in Newport Beach a week ago.

Reached today at her Newport Beach home, Mrs. Popeil said she had no comment to make on any aspect of the police accusations that she and her boyfriend, Daniel Ayers, 37, of Santa Ana hired a Long Beach man to murder Samuel J. Popeil of Chicago.

Police claim the plot fell through when the hit man called the Chicago kitchen gadget millionaire and told him of his estranged wife's plan.

According to police, Mrs. Popeil, 48, and Ayers allegedly wanted Popeil murdered before a pending divorce became final so that she could inherit approximately one-third of his estate, estimated to be worth up to $200 million.

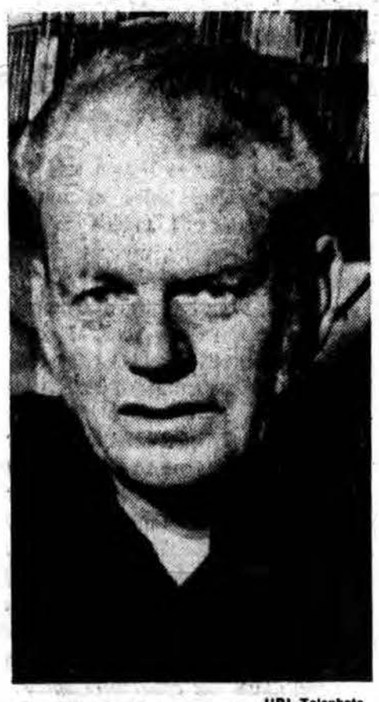

Mrs. Popeil, who wsa freed on $100,000 bail raised by neighbors on Linda Isle and Harbor Island Road, is scheduled to appear in municipal court in Long Beach Monday in the preliminary hearing in the case.

She and Ayers both pleaded innocent to the conspiracy to commit murder charges at their arraingments last week.

Ayers is still in custody, apparently unable to raise the $100,000 bail set by Judge Charles Litwin.

Brannon Resigns Saddleback Post After Conviction

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

With a public apology and a testimony to "the crutch of prayer," Saddleback College trustee Alyn Brannon of Santa Ana resigned his post Monday night.

Brannon, 43, a charter member and former president of the board, pleaded guilty to bookmaking charges in Orange County Superior Court last month.

He said he will remain in office until a successor is elected in the June primary.

"I want to publicly apologize to my family for the embarrassment and shame I have caused them for the actions I may have done in the past," Brannon said.

"The past year and a half have been very difficult, and without the love and affection they've shown for me I doubt that I could have survived," he added.

The Santa Ana trustee said he plans to "dedicate the rest of my life to repaying my family for their love."

Senate Seat Bar Requested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb.), asked Democratic leader Mike Mansfield today to bar Howard Metzenbaum from taking is Senate seat, pending an investigation into the Ohio industrialist's tax returns.

Metzenbaum, appointed to fill the unexpired term of William B. Saxbe who was named attorney general, settled a tax claim for $118,102 two days before his appointment to the Senate.

Metzenbaum took the oath Jan. 4 but formal swearing-in is not scheduled until Congress reconvenes Monday.

President's Brother Don Infuriated

By L. PETER KRIEG
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

President Nixon's brother F. Donald Nixon of Newport Beach today was furious over alegations carried in a United Press International story Monday that he profited from the fraudulent sale of stock to billionaire Howard Hughes.

Nixon said his only tie to Hughes was through former good friend John Meier, a former Newport Beach resident and former mining consultant for Hughes. Meier was indicted Monday in Las Vegas on charges of income tax evasion and fraud against the federal government.

Nixon for some time has been predicting the indictment and contended that Meier brought in the Nixon name in hopes things would go easy for him.

"Mr. Meier is in very deep trouble," Nixon said.

"But beyond that, I have no comment, other than to say those investigators are going to have some red faces too," he said.

In its story Monday, UPI said the Senate Watergate Committee is investigating the possibliy that Donald Nixon received "substantial sums" of money from former Hughes aides for his help in mining claim ventures.

The story linked Donald Nixon to Meier because of a trip the two made to the Dominican Republic in 1969.

Nixon claims the trip was purely pleasure. He said he went to see Meier receive that country's Christopher Columbus award.

UPI said the trip may be tied to allegations by Meier that Donald Nixon sought personal financial gains by offering to use his kinship with the

The Showdown

John Wayne Off to Harvard

LOS ANGELES (UPI) Newport Beach resident John Wayne saddled up a jetliner Monday and headed east for a showdown at Generation Gap.

WAYNE IS NOT a man to ignore a challenge to have it out, man to man, and that's what he received from the university's satire magazine, the Harvard Lampoon. The editors wrote him challenging him to show just how tough he is, asking if he is willing to face up to "a gang that would rather quote you Marx or Mao Tse-tung than spit in your eye" and face demontrators and counter-demonstrators.

"I don't know a damned thing about it except they challenged me to come," growled Wayne, boarding a plane for the East. "I figure the Harvard boys and I are at opposite ends of the spectrum. They suggested I didn't have the courage to go."

THE HARVARD EDITORS have promised to welcome Wayne with a military convoy, a mock cowboys-and-Indians shootout, a "stampede of some kind of mammal," and a question and answer session after the showing of his latest movie, "MCQ." "It has the makings of a real ugly incident," Lampoon President Jim Downey said in apparent delight.

The Duke was unfazed as he strode out for the showdown. "I hear the last guest they had at one of these things was Linda Lovelace," he said in his parting shot. "I guess she met the challenge."

Judge OKs Truth Serum Movie in Sauna Trial

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When Maria Parson completes her testimony from the witness stand today in the Orange County Superior Court sauna bath trial the jury will view a movie made while she was under the influence of a so-called "truth serum."

Judge William Murray made the ruling that enables attorney Marvin Lewis Sr. to screen two video tape films in the courtroom. The decision came after a four-hour out-of-court session Monday in the offices of Dr. Deane A. Benton, the Santa Ana psychiatrist.

"I'll let 'em in," Judge Murray said after a bitter argument between Lewis and Holiday Health Spa attorney Donald A. Ruston on the admissibility of the two films.

One of the movies run by Dr. Benton in the privacy of his office depicts his interview last Oct. 25 with Mrs. Parson, 50, when she is not under the influence of sodium amytol.

The second movie, shot by the psychiatrist last Dec. 19 and Jan. 2, depicts the buxom redhead responding to his questioning in the slow, slurred manner induced by his injection of the tranquilizer.

The screening was carefully kept from the jury until today.

Lewis believes the movies will considerably enhance his hopes for a favorable verdict in the $1 million lawsuit

He said he checked his belongings and found the intruder had taken $500 worth of valuables, including his television set and assorted stereo equipment.

Leaves Road Carrying Workers

BLYTHE (AP) — Nineteen farm laborers drowned and 25 to 30 others were injured today when a bus taking them to work plunged into 10 feet of water in a drainage canal, the highway patrol said.

The bus failed to make a curve at a rural intersection seven miles southwest of this southeastern California desert town, the patrol said.

The fully loaded vehicle went over a 20-foot embankment and landed on its side in the water.

The people were stacked up like dominoes against each other toward the front of the bus," said highway patrolman Robin Howard. "The driver was jammed into the steering wheel with all the others behind him."

None of the victims was immediately identified. The patrol said most were Mexican nationals being brought from the border city of Mexicali to work in the fields.

The injured, some in serious condition, were taken to Palos Verdes Hospital

HEADS HARBOR COURT
Judge Donald Dungan

Don Dungan Presiding Judge for '74

Judge Donald Dungan has been elected Presiding judge of the Harbor Judicial District Court.

Judge Dungan, 57, succeeds Judge Selim S. "Bud" Franklin as administrative head of the four-division municipal court. Judge Dungan was appointed to the bench in 1966 by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

He had already served Costa Mesa in capacities which won him honors.

Judge Dungan was a member of the city's incorporation committee in 1953 and was immediately named city attorney when cityhood was approved by voters.

He served for 12 years and for 11 years was a member of the old Newport Harbor Union High School District Board of Trustees.

Judge Dungan's colleagues for the current year and their assignments include:

—Judge Robert C. Todd, Division Two, where most criminal cases are handled after being assigned from Judge Dungan's Division One.

—Judge Selim Franklin, Division Three, which handlles small claims and other civil matters.

—Judge Calvin P. Schmidt, Division Four, where traffic citations are handled.

new freeways is contemplated.

The policy was formed to create the longest usable portions of freeways and not to start new projects for which there may be insufficient funds.

The Department of Transportation forecast a $111 million shortage in its budget for the fiscal year ending June 30. The total budget is $980 million.

Blamed for the short fall are the new 55-mile-per-hour speed limit, higher prices for gasoline and the reduced availability of fuel.

If the Corona del Mar Freeway is not built — as local officials are beginning to fear—Costa Mesa will lose nearly $500,000 in investments made contingent on the freeway! Pinkley predicted.

This includes money spent on the Bear Street interchange and on the planning of downtown redevelopment for Costa Mesa. Hammett believes that failure to construct the Corona del Mar Freeway will spell the doom for continuation of the Newport Freeway and the redevelopment plan, which is contingent on the Newport Freeway.

Sauna Door Admittedly Defective

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Former Holiday Health Spa manager Charles A. Cassazza today admitted that the sliding glass door of the sauna room in which Maria Parson was trapped three years ago was defective before the incident.

Cassazza, called to the witness stand before Mrs. Parson, 50, had completed her testimony in the Orange County Superior Court sauna bath trial, also admitted that he found the 200-pound door off its tracks after the hysterical woman had been rushed to a local hospital.

Cassazza attributed the strength he had acquired as a physical fitness expert with the Orange health spa to his being able to replace the heavy door without assistance.

Mrs. Parson wants $1 million in damages from the spa for the alleged neglect that led to her entrapment and for the creation of a "three faces of Eve" psychiatric condition on which she will resume testimony when Cassazza leaves the witness stand.

It is alleged that the trauma created by her entrapment led her to develop separate personalities.

She has stated that one of those personalities, Maria, frequently become dominant and seeks extra marital sexual relationships through men picked up in local bars.

Cassazza today admitted that both patrons and employes had complained about the sticking sauna room door before Mrs. Parson was trapped on March 2, 1970.

The former manager said the only attempt to repair the door prior to Mrs. Parson being trapped was made by two male instructors at the health spa.

He also confirmed Mrs. Parson's testimony that the handle of the door broke off in her hand as she tried to force the heavy door open.

Mrs. Parson testified that she collapsed in the 170-degree heat after she was unable to open the door and the handle snapped off in her hand.

She and other patrons have testified that health spa employes were never within shouting distance on such occasions and that many complaints had been filed in the months prior to her ordeal.

Parents' Group Seeking Recall Of HB Trustees

The first official step has been taken in a recall campaign against two Huntington Beach Union High School District trustees stemming from the "Deep Throat" sex movie controversy.

Trustees Dennis Mangers and Ron Shenkman now have until Friday to answer charges made against them in the notices of intent to circulate recall petitions filed with the Orange County registrar of voters.

Members of the Citizens for Parents' Rights Committee, led by Doris Allen of Westminster, filed the notices Friday. The trustees have one week to rebut — after which time the actual recall notices can be filed.

Although there have been threats of a recall campaign for months, this is the first such action.

Mrs. Allen said today the citizens group plans to start circulating petitions to get the necessary 23,000 signatures to set a recall election soon after the trustees answer the allegations.

The 23,000 figure represents 20 percent of the registered voters. Mrs. Allen said the group intends to try to get at least 30,000 signatures in case some are thrown out during validation.

'Darling People'

Neighbors Raise Mrs. Popeil Bail

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Eloise Popeil, the woman police accuse of a plot to murder her multi-millionaire husband, returned to her Harbor Island Road home this weekend, thanks to efforts of four of her neighbors.

According to Mrs. Popeil's attorney, Phillip Petty, Mrs. Popeil's neighbors pledged more than $7 million worth of property to guarantee the slim blonde's $100,000 bail.

Reached today at her home, Mrs. Popeil said she was very grateful for her neighbors' generosity which led to her release Saturday morning from Los Angeles County Jail.

"I am very gratified," she said. "They are darling people and it is particularly reassuring when you realize I haven't lived here too long."

Petty said the pledges came primarily from residents of Linda Isle where Mrs. Popeil and her estranged husband, Samuel, owned a summer home.

Mrs. Popeil, 48, spent four days behind bars following her arrest last Tuesday with her boyfriend on suspicion of hiring a Long Beach man to kill Popeil, a Chicago kitchen gadget manufacturer.

The boyfriend, Daniel Ayers, 37, an unemployed machinist from Santa Ana, remains in custody today, unable to raise the $100,000 bail set Friday in a hearing in Long Beach.

Police allege the pair conspired to kill Popeil so that she could inherit roughly one-third of his $150 million estate before their pending divorce became final.

According to investigators, the couple separated this summer and Popeil returned to Chicago to start divorce proceedings while Mrs. Popeil and their two teenage daughters stayed on in Newport Beach.

The three women vacated the Linda Isle home while it was being remodeled and neighbors said work on the house located at the northwest point of the island, stopped when court action on the divorce started.

Since then, Mrs. Popeil and her daughters have lived in rented homes in Irvine Terrace and on Harbor Island Road.

Petty alleged today that Popeil was $14,250 behind in his temporary alimony and child support payments of $4,250 a month.

In Chicago, Popeil went to court Friday in a stormy session to ask for custody of the two girls and an end to financial support for his wife.

That hearing was continued to this Friday.

According to the Associated Press, Popeil's lawyer, Samuel A. Rinella, called the estranged wife an adulteress and a "willful, vicious woman."

In opposing the motion to terminate the separate maintenance payments, Mrs. Popeil's lawyer, Charles Stein, charged that Popeil "has attempted to use every technique to starve his wife and children into submission in this case," according to the AP story.

He said that if the monthly payments were cut off Mrs. Popeil would be without funds to defend herself in litigation.

AP reported that in commenting to newsmen after the hearing, Popeil said, "My wife has two sides to her—a good side and a rough side."

One of Popeil daughters related last week that the three women all had been forced to take jobs in an apparent effort to support themselves in the bayfront house and maintain the three expensive European cars they used.

One of those cars, a Rolls Royce, was impounded by police as evidence in the case.

Long Beach detectives who arrested Mrs. Popeil and Ayers allege that they gave $400 cash and $60,000 worth of diamond jewelry to an acquaintance of Ayers to kill Popeil.

Newport Seeking Airport Group Budget Increase

By L. PETER KREIG
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach stepped up its legal battle against Orange County Airport today by serving Orange County Supervisors with a writ of mandamus in an attempt to force them to beef up the budget of the Airport Land Use Commission.

City Attorney Dennis O'Neil said the writ was served in the county clerk's office and he will file it in Orange County Superior Court Tuesday or Wednesday asking for a show cause hearing.

O'Neil said Newport Beach was taking the action "on behalf of Mayor Donald A. McInnes, who is chairman of the land use panel created in 1971.

O'Neil recited repeated frustrations that McInnis has complained about during the past 18 months. .

He pointed out that Newport Beach succeeded in getting state legislation passed that forced the county supervisors to fund the panel, but so far it has been getting only $500 a year.

"They asked for $62,000," O'Neil said.

"The mayor feels this is an affront to the commission. It is still required to do all the land use planning yet it doesn't have enough money to pay its postage," O'Neil said.

He said the show cause hearing hopefully will force the supervisors to reconsider the panel's current budget.

"We are asking for a public hearing to reconsider the budget and a statement of reasons and findings for the current $500 appropriation," O'Neil said.

He pointed out that the commission is supposed to be preparing a comprehensive land use plan for the airport.

County Superior Court Clerk to Run for Sheriff

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County Superior Court Clerk Marshall Norris, soundly defeated the last time he ran for sheriff, said today he will try again this year on a platform of sweeping organizational changes in the department.

Norris, 47, of Buena Park, announced his candidacy at a press conference in Santa Ana. He is the second announced candidate to succeed retiring Sheriff James Musick. Also seeking the job is Bradley Gates, a young department lieutenant.

Another possible candidate for the job — Cypress Police Chief George Savord—is waiting in the wings but hasn't formally announced. Norris said Savord would be the hardest man to beat.

Norris was beaten in June of 1970 by then-incumbent Musick by a total of nearly 150,000 votes.

This time he said he is running on a six-point platform calling for a major overhaul in the county jail, a program of coordinated city county law enforcement and reorganization of the sheriff's department.

But the former sheriff's lieutenant said his major plank will be an attack on the dependence of county peace officers on federal funds—a practice he said results in poor administration.

"There is something basically wrong with accepting federal funds and I am opposed to linking the federal government to local sheriff's offices because they must then do the government's bidding," Norris said.

He said a lot of the money now being used to subsidize sheriff's department programs is going to waste and most needed expenditures could be absorbed by what he termed "proper administration."

Norris claimed the office of sheriff is now virtually unresponsive to the public. He said it has "been responsive only to a select few."

Norris said he will avoid taking contributions from what he called "big money" contributors because he said he is "frankly very scared of them."

AGNEW . . .

William H. McCullough said Agnew's conduct was harmful to the proper administration of justice.

"In our opinion, the proper administration of justice, the proper respect of the court for itself and a proper regard for the integrity of the profession compel us to conclude that the respondent is unfit to continue as a member of the bar of this state," the recommendation said.

The three judges said their recommendation was based solely on Agnew's no-contest plea to the tax charge. They said they did not take into consideration any of the allegations made by the Justice Department in Agnew's U.S. District Court appearance Oct. 10.

In a 40-page statement of evidence, federal prosecutors alleged that Agnew was involved in a system of kickbacks to Maryland politicians from architects and engineers doing non-bid government business.

Although Agnew has not practiced law in Maryland since being elected to public office, it is the only state where he was a member of the bar. He appealed to the judges at the hearing last month not to deprive him of his means of earning a living by recommending disbarment.

Egypt Nixes Kissinger's Troop Plan

By United Press International

Egypt today rejected the troops disengagement plan worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi said in Aswan. He said Egypt was demanding that it be redrafted into an "Egyptian plan."

The Israeli plan Dr. Kissinger brought with him was "not satisfactory," Fahmi told a news conference near the end of a day of negotiations involving Kissinger and Egyptian leaders including President Anwar Sadat.

Fahmi said Kissinger was returning to Israel tonight "with an Egyptian plan and an Egyptian map on disengagement with Israel" along the Suez Canal.

Kissinger told newsmen earlier after a working luncheon with Fahmi that his attempt to conclude an Israeli-Egyptian agreement "is the toughest negotiation I've ever been in." Despite Kissinger's statement, American sources said a major announcement could be expected Tuesday.

Kissinger had flown to Aswan with what basically was a plan worked out by Israel calling for Israeli withdrawal to about 20 miles from the canal and a thinning out of Egyptian armed forces in the Sinai Desert on the Israel side of the canal.

Work had gone so far on the plan that both Kissinger and Fahmi said experts were using maps to pinpoint the exact withdrawal plans. An American spokesman said an interim announcement was expected late today with the major announcement Tuesday.

The Egyptian demand for a revision of Kissinger's proposal forced Kissinger to delay his scheduled return to Israel for more than four hours.

American officials said he expected to leave this afternoon to place the revised project before the Israelis.

In an indication of what caused the Egyptian objections to Kissinger's plan, Fahmi said any disengagement agreement "should be sufficiently detailed that there can be no hangups.

"Everything must be in clearcut language so that there will be nothing again like Point B (of the cease-fire consolidation agreement Egypt and Israel signed Nov. 11)," Fahmi said.

Point B of the November agreement called on Egyptian and Israeli military representatives to negotiate a return to lines held when the first U.N.-ordered cease-fire went into effect Oct. 22.

Defense attorney Daniel Berger argued at a hearing before magistrate George Bobich that police confiscated the films without a warrant and obtained a confession before Kucera was advised of his rights. Berger also claimed his client was drunk and the films were seen only by adults.

President's Brother Don Infuriated

President Nixon's brother F. Donald Nixon of Newport Beach today was furious over alegations carried in a United Press International story Monday that he profited from the fraudulent sale of stock to billionaire Howard Hughes.

Nixon said his only tie to Hughes was through former good friend John Meier, a former Newport Beach resident and former mining consultant for Hughes. Meier was indicted Monday in Las Vegas on charges of income tax evasion and fraud against the federal government.

Nixon for some time has been predicting the indictment and contended that Meier brought in the Nixon name in hopes things would go easy for him.

The Showdown

John Wayne Off to Harvard

LOS ANGELES (UPI) Newport Beach resident John Wayne saddled up a jetliner Monday and headed east for a showdown at Generation Gap.

WAYNE IS NOT a man to ignore a challenge to have it out, man to man, and that's what he received from the university's satire magazine, the Harvard Lampoon. The editors wrote him challenging him to show just how tough he is, asking if he is willing to face up to "a gang that would rather quote you Marx or Mao Tse-tung than spit in your eye" and face demontrators and counter-demonstrators.

"I don't know a damned thing about it except they challenged me to come," growled Wayne, boarding a plane for the East. "I figure the Harvard boys and I are at opposite ends of the spectrum. They suggested I didn't have the courage to go."

THE HARVARD EDITORS have promised to welcome Wayne with a military convoy, a mock cowboys-and-Indians shootout, a "stampede of some kind of mammal," and a question and answer session after the showing of his latest movie, "MCQ." "It has the makings of a real ugly incident," Lampoon President Jim Downey said in apparent delight.

The Duke was unfazed as he strode out for the showdown. "I hear the last guest they had at one of these things was Linda Lovelace," he said in his parting shot. "I guess she met the challenge."

Judge OKs Truth Serum Movie in Sauna Trial

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When Maria Parson completes her testimony from the witness stand today in the Orange County Superior Court sauna bath trial the jury will view a movie made while she was under the influence of a so-called "truth serum."

Judge William Murray made the ruling that enables attorney Marvin Lewis Sr. to screen two video tape films in the courtroom. The decision came after a four-hour out-of-court session Monday in the offices of Dr. Deane A. Benton, the Santa Ana psychiatrist.

"I'll let 'em in," Judge Murray said after a bitter argument between Lewis and Holiday Health Spa attorney Donald A. Ruston on the admissibility of the two films.

One of the movies run by Dr. Benton in the privacy of his office depicts his interview last Oct. 25 with Mrs. Parson, 50, when she is not under the influence of sodium amytol.

The second movie, shot by the psychiatrist last Dec. 19 and Jan. 2, depicts the buxom redhead responding to his questioning in the slow, slurred manner induced by his injection of the tranquilizer.

The screening was carefully kept from the jury until today.

Hockey Player Records Loss

A burglar pried the door in his absence from the apartment at 7302 W. Ocean Front, in Newport Beach and a neighbor discovered it standing open, Sutherland told police Monday.

He said he checked his belongings and found the intruder had taken $500 worth of valuables, including his television set and assorted stereo equipment.

Leaves Road Carrying Workers

BLYTHE (AP) — Nineteen farm laborers drowned and 25 to 30 others were injured today when a bus taking them to work plunged into 10 feet of water in a drainage canal, the highway patrol said.

The bus failed to make a curve at a rural intersection seven miles southwest of this southeastern California desert town, the patrol said.

The fully loaded vehicle went over a 20-foot embankment and landed on its side in the water.

The people were stacked up like dominoes against each other toward the front of the bus," said highway patrolman Robin Howard. "The driver was jammed into the steering wheel with all the others behind him."

None of the victims was immediately identified. The patrol said most were Mexican nationals being brought from the border city of Mexicali to work in the fields.

The injured, some in serious condition, were taken to Palos Verdes Hospital

Starts, Stops of Machine Blamed in Tape Gap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Technical experts told a federal judge today that the 18-minute gap in a subpoenaed Watergate tape was caused by repeated stopping and starting of the recording machine during the obliterated segment.

In a report to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, the experts did not speculate on whether the gap was caused by accidental or deliberate acts.

Sirica then scheduled a hearing to hear testimony from the experts.

They told the judge that their examination of the tape showed "that the buzzing sounds were put on the tape in the process of erasing and rerecording at least five, and perhaps as many as nine separate and contiguous segments."

They said the gap "could not have been produced by a single continuous operation."

They also said that recovery of any speech that was obliterated "is not possible by any method known to us."

Their report appeared to eliminate the possibility that President Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, could have inadvertently erased a segment when she accidentally pushed the record button when interrupted by a telephone call while trying to transcribe the tape of a June 20, 1972 conversation between the President and aide H. R. Haldeman.

Miss Woods testified she thought she might have caused at least part of the gap when she pushed that button and possibly inadvertently kept her foot on a foot pedal that operated the machine.

But the experts said their examination showed conclusively that the gap could not have been produced by a single continuous operation. They said whether the foot pedal was used or not "the recording controls must have been oprated by hand in the making of each segment."

The tones which formed the buzz "do not appear to be caused by normal machine operations," the experts said.

They also said they believe that conversation had been recorded on the obliterated segment.

"Can the speech be recovered?" as the report said. "We think not. We know of no technique that could recover intelligible speech from the buzz section."

The experts said that in their examination of the tape they used computers, instruments for measuring frequency spectra and waveforms, techniques for "developing" magnetic marks that can be seen and measured directly on the tape, techniques for measuring the performance characteristics of recorders and statistical methods for analyzing experimental results.

Mass Murders

Sheriff Recalls: 'Led to Graves'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A drawling East Texas sheriff told a court hearing today that he talked with a teen-ager accused of mass murder "like he were one of my own sons" while the 17-year-old led him to four sandy graves.

Today was the second day of pretrial hearings on one of the six murder charges against Elmer Wayne Henley in connection with a 2½-year spree of homosexual torture-slayings.

Defense lawyers are trying to exclude from evidence oral and written statements Henley gave police before, they say, he was permitted legal counsel.

San Augustine County Sheriff John Hot said Henley led him to four shallow graves near San Augustine in deep East Texas Aug. 9, the day after he was arrested.

"I don't really recall the deatils of what we said. We were talking like he were one of my own sons," the sheriff related.

Hoyt, under cross-examination, testified he complied with Henley's request to see a doctor but Henley later declined the physician's directive to take sleeping pills.

"I asked him why he wanted to see a docctor," Hoyt said, "and he said 'I just wanted to see if you would call one.' "

During Monday's half-day hearing, Mary Pauline Henley, the defendant's mother, testified her son had been hallucinating and was sick when she visited him in jail after his arrest.

District Court Judge William Hatten said the pretrial hearing could take as long as two weeks. Jury selection will begin after the hearing.

Mrs. Henley said her son was "hallucinating — seeing people who weren't there and doors opening from the wrong side. He would see people standing at the open door, standing there laughing at him, and then the door would close again."

Mrs. Henley said she received a telephone call from her son Aug. 8 telling her he killed Dean Arnold Corll, 33, and was being held by police.

Henley called officers in suburban Pasadena Aug. 8 and told them he shot Corll during a sex and paint-sniffing party at Corll's home.

Police said Henley and David Owen Brooks, 18, led officers to the bodies buried at three sites. Brooks is charged in four of the slayings. Brooks and Henley allegedly procured teenagers for Corll.

Couple Hold Up Midway City Store for $1,500

A Midway City market manager who was lured to the rear of his store Monday night by a female customer lost more than $1,500 when he found her male accomplice waiting for him.

Sheriff's officers said manager Paul William Voshell, 55, of the Midway Market, 8121 Bolsa Ave., was robbed at knifepoint by the heavily built male after the woman asked him to help her select a dinner wine from the display at the back of the store.

Deputies said the robbery team took $1,553.84 from Voshell's cash register and $50 from the manager's wallet.

They then fled from the store after tying Voshell's hands and feet. The manager was able to free himself and summon help.

Suspect Guilty In Molesting Of Two Girls

Sturgeon was tried in Los Angeles County Superior Court for the Nov. 20 kidnaping and molesting of two Gardena girls.

Huntington Beach Patrolman Arthur Droz spotted Sturgeon and the older girl on the freeway and took the unemployed machinist into custody when the child told him she had been taken from her home two days before.

Oregon Coastline Ripped By 100 MPH Winds, Rain

From Wire Services

Winds of more than 100 miles an hour whipped the Oregon coast during the night and heavy rains fell over much of the state, causing flooding, road closures power outages and school closures. The storm also was bringing rain and snow to Northern California.

At Corvallis, Ore. 15 persons were evacuated from an apartment complex just inside the southwest city limits about 4 a.m. today when rising water threatened their homes. Police Chief Jim Goodman said a fire department tank truck sloshed through 3½ feet of water to bring out the families, most young couples with children.

At Gold Beach, a Greyhound bus carrying 15 passengers north on Highway 101 was halted because of high water. The passengers were lodged in the county jail overnight because there were no other accommodations.

"We drank lots of coffee, had a lot of conversation and a few naps," said a dispatcher.

Road closures throughout Oregon were so numerous police agencies could not keep track of them.

State police said Interstate 5 had only one lane open where a mudslide crashed down 6½ miles north of the California border. Both southbound lanes and one northhbound lane were closed. A state police officer said he did not know when traffic would be restored.

It's a big one," he said.

In Benton County, some roads were covered with 3½ feet of water. Most of the water was runoff, not flooding streams, officers said.

Along the coast, windows were smashed, trees blown over and telephone and electrical power outages were numerous.

A gust of 110 miles per hour was recorded at Mt. Hebo Air Force Station. The wind hit 86 mph at Brookings and 83 at Gold Beach.

Meanwhile the winter storm, packing southerly gales, heavy rain and snow, is on the loose in Northern California.

The front, 200 miles west of California early today, will "bring locally heavy rains south to the Tehachapis today and Wednesday with heavy snow in the northern Sierra Nevada above 6,000 feet," the National Weather Service said.

Monday's indictments charge Meier and three others with shifting huge profits from deals with Hughes to Swiss bank accounts.

U.S. attorney Devoe Heaton said the indictment involves sales of mining claims exceeding $8 million to the Hughes Tool Company, which was then owned by Hughes.

Meier was named in two indictments returned by the Las Vegas Federal Grand Jury on two counts of conspiracy and on two counts of alleged tax evasion —1969 and 1970.

Meier was indicted last year for income tax evasion for 1968.

One conspiracy count charges Meier with defrauding the United States by obstructing the collection of income tax as a result of the sale of mining claims by Alan Jarlson, Las Vegas television newsman, to the Hughes Tool Company.

Others indicted along with Meier on a second conspiracy count were Anthony Hatsis, 47, and James P. Cowley, 45, both of Salt Lake City, and Robert Kahan, 59, of Los Angeles.

against the health spa.

Ruston angrily condemned the movies as "self serving, leading and suggestive and extremely inflammatory" and repeatedly pointed out to Judge Murray that he had no opportunity to cross examine Mrs. Parson in either circumstance, drugged or otherwise.

Dr. Benton argued before he showed the films that it was only fair for the jury to see Mrs. Parson at her most relaxed moments which could only be in the office of her psychiatrist.

Her courtroom testimony has been offered under circumstances that are particularly adverse to any person suffering the kind of psychiatric trauma Mrs. Parson is undergoing, Benton told Judge Murray and the two lawyers.

Mrs. Parson's statements under the drugs and otherwise were identical: that before she was trapped in the sauna room of the Orange health spa on March 2, 1970, she was a happily married Catholic woman whose life was devoted to her husband and seven children.

She stated in both video tape sequences that any spare time she had was devoted to the Catholic church, Catholic youth programs and the PTA.

Mrs. Parson broke down and wept at the end of the first movie as she told Dr. Benton how Maria took possession of her body, donned sexy clothes that she would never have worn under normal conditions and set off for local bars in a hunt for men and sexual relationships.

Mrs. Parson, who has been known to her family and friends from an early age as Betty, again named several of the many men she has known over the past three years.

She listed among her favorite bars in the hunt for extramarital mates the Newporter Inn and the Stuft Shirt in Newport Beach.

"When I'm Maria I just want to run away," she hesitantly mumbled under the influence of the truth drug. "Maria wants sex and she wants to be held by a man—one thing leads to the other."

She also relates in both interviews the nature of the dreams she states she has experienced almost nightly since her ordeal in the 170-degree sauna room.

Mrs. Parson tells Benton of being imprisoned in a cube of ice, of being carried along in a flow of hot lava and of looking down from the sky at boiling, steaming water.

"Maria comes out of the top of my head and takes over my soul," the redhead tells Dr. Benton. "I fight her and fight her but sometimes she is too strong for me."

Lewis stated Monday that Mrs. Parson still eludes her husband and family when she is dominated by the Maria personality an ddrives off alone from the Anaheim home.

Mrs. Parson told Dr. Benton in both interviews that she will often offer her husband and family the excuse that she needs a loaf of bread or a pair of stockings to escape from the home when Maria takes control.

2 Days in Jail

Assemblyman Z'berg Serves Time

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Veteran Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg quietly entered the county jail Friday just after he was sentenced for drunken driving and served a two-day term over the weekend, it was learned today.

In sentencing Z'berg to jail, Municipal Court Judge Haven Courtney gave the 47-year-old Sacramento Democrat 45 days in which to comply.

It was Z'berg's sceond conviction for drunken driving since 1969. Under a state law effecitve Jan. 1, second drunken driving convictions are punishable by a mandatory two days in jail.

Z'berg, chairman of the Assembly Conservation and Natural Resources Committee, was arrested Nov. 17, 1972, after his car rear-ended another vehicle. There were no injuries.

Courtney sentenced Z'berg to 30 days in jail, but suspended 28 days of the term for the duration of one-year probation. He also fined Z'berg $625 and ordered him to participate in the court's "alcoholic re-education program."

Cities Get Cigarette, Auto Money

Orange Coast cities have received a total of nearly $118,000 as their share of December's revenue returns from state cigarette taxes and motor vehicle license fees, state officials said today.

Most of the money came from deposits in the Cigarette Tax Fund during November, which totaled $4.6 million statewide. Of that total, the Orange Coast will get about $85,000.

The remaining money comes from returns on fees charged for vehicle license plates, drivers licenses and other driving charges. Cities and counties throughout the state have been given a total of $2.5 million from that source.

Orange County government, which oversees the affairs of all unincorporated land in the county, also received funds from both sources.

The county got a total of nearly $115,000 from both sources.

—Costa Mesa, $26,400.
—Fountain Valley, $11,000.
—Huntington Beach, $36,000.
—Irvine, $8,200.
—Laguna Beach, $4,600.
—Newport Beach, $18,000.
—San Clemente, $5,100.
—San Juan Capistrano, $2,200.
—Seal Beach, $6,000.

Mercy Killing Dismissal Move Nixed by Judge

MINEOLA, N.Y. (UPI) — A judge has rejected a bid by defense attorneys to dismiss murder charges against a surgeon accused of the "mercy killing" of a terminally ill cancer patient.

Lawyers for Dr. Vincent Montemarano, 34, chief resident surgeon at the Nassau County Medical Center, argued that national publicity made it impossible for him to receive a fair trial anywhere in the country.

However, Nassau County Judge Raymond Wilkes ruled Monday "there is every probability, every certainty, that we will have a fair and impartial jury."

The small, balding doctor pleaded innocent last June to charges he injected a lethal dose of potassium chloride into the veins of Eugene Bauer, 59.

Nassau County District Attorney William Cahn, who has not tried a case since he took the post in 1962, said he would conduct the prosecution "because of the philosophical and legal questions" involved in euthanasia, or mercy killing.

But defense attorney J. Russell Clune warned the 72 prospective jurors not to forget about references in the news media to a supposed "mercy killing."

"There has been no statement about any mercy killing in this court," he said. "We 're trying a pure and simple murder case."

Beach Erosion Emergency Work Put at $5,800

Orange County tax coffers will have to come up with at least $5,800 to pay for emergency sandbagging and other erosion control activities performed to protect beachfront homes during last week's destructive storms and high tides.

A spokesman for the Orange County Harbors, Beaches and Parks Department said today overtime salaries for county crews, sand supplies and bagging material were costly.

Larry Leaman, chief of operations for the harbor department, said he is compiling figures to present to the Board of Supervisors.

Most of the money was spent on operations in Capistrano Beach, where high tides cut away the foundations of homes and trailers.

Leaman said sand had to be hauled in from gravel pits in San Juan Capistrano for use in the sandbagging and the cost of that operation alone was $3,500.

The remainder of the money will go to salaries for crews and flood control officials who worked to protect the homes from further damage.

Leaman said he has been given estimates by some Capistrano Beach homeowners of the money they spent to shore up their eroding beachfront.

4,900 Arrested in 1973 On Drunken Driving Raps

Orange County Highway Patrolmen waged a war on drunken drivers last year, arresting 30 percent more than during 1972, a top Santa Ana CHP officer said today.

Capt. William Fradenburg said his forces arrested more than 4,900 motorists for driving under the influence of alcohol last year compared to just over 3,500 the year before.

During the same period, Fradenburg said seven fewer persons died and 87 fewer were injured in accidents last year than during 1972.

"We would like to think there is a correlation between the increase in drunk arrests and injury accidents and maybe there is," he said. "But it is too simplistic since there are other factors involved."

Fradenburg said, however, he gives a lot of weight to the relationship since statistics show that more than 50 percent of injury or fatal accidents involve drinking drivers.

According to Fradenburg's figures, 80 persons were killed in traffic accidents during 1973 in the CHP's jurisdiction as opposed to 87 the year before. The total number of fatal accidents declined, too, from 76 to 70.

Fradenburg said 2,716 persons were injured in his area in 1973 compared to 2,916 the year before — a reduction of 200. There were a total of 1,895 injury accidents in 1973 and 1,982 the year before.

Fradenburg said his figures cover only the Santa Ana office's jurisdiction. The Westminster CHP bureau handles freeway statistics in a portion of northwest Orange County but their statistics also include a large part of Los Angeles County, he said.

"But since there are mostly incorporated cities over there, they do mostly freeway patrol," he said. "Our officers are responsible for all traffic enforcement in the unincorporated land in the south county, which is an enormous area."

Fradenburg said the accident reduction figure is particularly significant when the rapid growth of Orange County is taken into account. He said there are a lot more cars now than even a year ago — particularly in the south county.

Fradenburg said there are other factors involved in the rate reduction, including weather conditions, highway improvements and possible auto trip reductions as the energy crisis took hold.

But, he said, the drunken driving arrests play the key role and without them, many more people would have been killed or maimed on county highways and byways.

The Orange County statistics are part of a total of 120,800 drunken driving arrests made statewide, according to figures released by CHP Commissioner Walter Pudinski.

Pudinski said there was a reduction of five percent statewide in deaths and injuries because of it.

"We placed a number one priority on arresting drunks," Pudinski said. "We followed through in 1973 and the pressure will stay on in 1974."

Fradenburg said 1974 should be an interesting year to watch, particularly because of the new low speed limits designed to conserve short fuel supplies and clean up the air.

Nixed $52,000

Candidate Tells Of Money Offer

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Marshall Norris figures it will cost him $63,000 to run for Orange County Sheriff but said he has already turned down a $52,000 "big money" donation to help him on his way.

"To be frank, I am scared of some of the money being offered to candidates for nonpartisan office these days," said Norris, a 47-year-old Superior Court clerk and former Sheriff's lieutenant.

"A group of people in Santa Ana came to my home and offered me $52,000 but I refused to take it," he said. "I won't name them right now because I am investigating to see if they have done anything illegal."

This will be Norris' second try to win the job. He was defeated by a landslide in 1970 by Sheriff James Musick, who is retiring this year after 25 years.

Norris said he refused the big money in his first campaign and has no regrets.

"Most of my financial support is going to come from people in my church and from many friends in the county," he said. "I know there is money to be had from groups like the Lincoln Club (an organization of top Republican businessmen) but I won't touch it."

The North Carolina native said he will conduct a newspaper advertisement and precinct-walking campaign and put very little emphasis on signs and mailings.

Norris lives in Buena Park with his wife and six children. He went into law enforcement after getting a bachelor's degree in police science and served in the sheriff's department for 10 years.

He said he is hopeful of beating his opponents on the basis of his platform of departmental reorganization. So far, only one other man — Sheriff's Lt. Bradley Gates — has announced he will run.

If elected to the sheriff's job, Norris said he will undertake a major overhaul of the jail facilities and procedures, reorganize the sheriff's department, work closely with cities and manage funds better than they have been.

SEEKS SHERIFF'S POST
Marshall Norris

He said the county's jail facilities are not up to par and he agreed with many criticisms brought out last year by the Orange County Grand Jury.

"You can see how bad things are when it takes more than three and a half hours to get someone out of jail on bail," he said.

Norris said he would see to it that special officers trained to work in penal institutions are hired and will put deputies now working in the jail "back on the asphalt."

Norris also said he feels better use can be made of existing field forces, particularly in the booming south county area and sections of the county with high crime rates.

Better administration could also make operations cheaper, he said, pointing to ways the county could turn over some functions to private enterprise.

"Specifically, I'm talking about motor vehicle maintenance and fueling," he said. "It's ridiculous for a patrol car on duty in Dana Point to drive all the way to Santa Ana county garages to get gas."

He said he would get credit cards for the officers and give maintenance contracts to private enterprise.

Other items Norris said he would pursue include:

—A need by police agencies to avoid federal funding which could put undue controls on the functions of local departments.

—A need to maintain low-cost coroner's facilities by continuing to use mortuaries as morgues and pathology labs rather than building an expensive central facility.

—Closer coordination of patrol efforts with cities, particularly ones containing small, isolated county islands.

Youth Beheaded On Subway Car

NEW YORK (UPI) — A boy on his way home from school was decapitated when he climbed atop a subway car and was struck by a beam spanning the tracks, police said. The youth's mother was aboard the same train but was not aware of the accident.

Police said Robert Larocca, 13, was returning from school Monday with two friends when he decided to ride on top of the subway car and climbed between two cars as the train pulled out of the station.

As his head poked above the top of the car, the subway ran beneath a low crossover beam spanning the tracks, police said.

'Cultural Boom'

Trustee Candidate Gives Forecast

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Saddleback College in Mission Viejo could bloom into a cultural center reaching the whole southern half of Orange County.

That is the opinion of John Tolle, 24, a Saddleback College student and candidate for a vacant seat on the seven-member board of trustees.

An art major living in El Toro, Tolle said he believes the cultural events sponsored by the two-year community college have provided some of its most effective links with the community.

"There are all kinds of really talented artists and musicians in this area," Tolle said. "I could see a cultural thing developing here — and if I'm elected to the board I'll push for more of that."

Tolle, a sophomore, is one of eight candidates for the Area Six (Irvine-El Toro) trustee seat being vacated by resigning charter trustee Michael Collins.

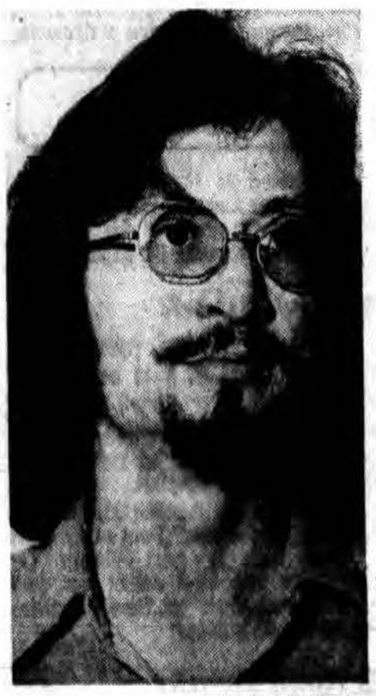

Lack of permanent facilities may be partly to blame for the lack of cultural activity at the school so far, Tolle speculated.

But he added that the lack should not be an excuse for being uncreative. "An artistic person will work regardless of where he's at," Tolle said.

"Good artistic activity is not impossible at Saddleback. Contrary to what some people think, this school is not a total failure. In many ways it is relatively good," the candidate said.

"There could be some improvements in the atmosphere Tolle said. "But the potential is there. A lot of people would really like to see something blossom."

Tolle spent close to four years in the Air Force and was reared in Venice.

New York Solons Approve Tougher Bill on Rapists

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state Assembly unanimously has passed a bill designed to make it easier to obtain the conviction of suspected rapists, a measure long advocated by women's lib groups and law enforcement officials.

The bill, an extension of a revision of the rules of evidence in sex crime cases which was begun in 1972, would eliminate the need for corroboration of the testimony of the victim of a rape or other sex offense.

There was no debate on the measure, which goes to the Senate where approval is expected.

A memo in support of the rape testimony bill, introduced by Assemblyman Alvin M. Suchin (R-Dobbs Ferry), said the change is needed because in many cases corroborative evidence was impossible to obtain and many rapists were thus freed without penalty.

South Laguna Hit By Plant Pilferer

South Orange County's potted plant pilferer popped up again Monday night to add two display plants valued at $50 to his mushrooming haul of filched foliage.

Sheriff's officers said the thief took the plants from the home of laundromat operator John R. Reilly, 29, 22161 Paseo del Sur, South Laguna, while Reilly was in bed asleep.

45 Injured as Amtrak Leaves Tracks

By The Associated Press

"The last thing I remember is seeing flying glass and flying people," Pricilla Heidner says of the derailment of Amtrak's crack Texas Chief passenger train.

The Texas Chief left the tracks near Ardmore, Okla., Monday, resulting in injuries to 45 persons. That was one three train accidents around the country.

AT McGREGOR, Tex., two tank cars carrying petrochemicals derailed and exploded, but no injuries were reported. In Pennsylvania, four tank cars carrying compressed chlorine overturned and ruptured in a sparsely populated area near White Haven. There were no reported injuries.

The Texas Chief, southbound from Chicago to Houston with 115 passengers aboard, was movin gthrough an industrial area on the northeastern outskirts of Ardmore when it derailed at 55 miles per hour.

Several persons were pinned inside derailed cars for a time before being rescued by workmen with pry bars. Two of the cars, including the dining car, turned on their sides. The dining car caught fire.

"Everyone and everything was going everywhere," said Mrs. Heidner of Austin, Tex., who was in the diner. "My first thought was: 'This is the end.'"

"I JUST HUNG on," said Samuel H. Treadway, 74 ,of Oklahoma City. "The car started jumping It was on the right side of the train, and the care began tilting to the left, so to kep from being thrown across the car I just hung on to my seat."

Of the 45 persons injured, 29 received emergency treatment and were released. Sixteen were hospitalized, including Mrs. Don Summers of Arlington, Tex., who suffered a broken back.

"It looked like an atom bomb had exploded," said John M. Gardner, a McGregor resident, of the blast at the Texas community.

Police evacuated scores of persons from a 22-block area as firemen fought a fire that followed the explosion.

The Santa Fe Railway said five tank cars among 12 cars that derailed were carrying vinyl chloride, chlorine gas, naphtha and other combustibles. Two of the derailed tank cars exploded and burned.

WITNESSES SAID one car in the 23-car train was leaking naphtha as the train neared the McGregor depot and the cars derailed when the crew attempted an emergency stop.

The four tank cars carrying compressed chlorine were among 10 cars in a Lehigh Valley Railroad 67-car freight train that left the tracks near White Haven.

State police advised residents within a half-mile of the accident to evacuate their homes through Monday night because of chlorine fumes.

"A whiff of this stuff doesn't kill you, but a big dose could," said State Police Sgt. John Hosking.

Sheriff Hangs Up His Guns

OFF AND RUNNING DEPT. — Over the past three decades, Orange County has been blessed with considerable new population. So it may suprise many when they are informed of how long incumbent Sheriff James Musick has held forth in office.

Do you know how long its been since we had a real election contest for sheriff in these parts?

Twenty-eight years, that's how long.

Oh well, the office has come up for election regular as clockwork, every four years. But against Sheriff Musick, it has been strictly no-contest.

Take 1972, for example, when a county clerk named Marshall Norris challenged incumbent Musick at the polls.

WHEN THE VOTES WERE counted up yonder at the County Seat, Musick had 208,941. Norris gathered 56,733. Yet another no-contest.

So it was that Sheriff Musick had won his seventh four-year term, dating back to the election of 1946. Actually, he had been with the Orange County Sheriff's Office much longer than that.

An All-American running back with USC's "Thundering Herd" teams of 1929, '30 and '31, he came to the Orange County Sheriff's Office under Sheriff Logan Jackson in the early 1930s as a deputy. He rode night patrol cars. Kept the peace during the citrus strikes of those days. Worked 60-hour weeks for $150 a month.

TO AUGMENT THAT grand $150 monthly income, Musick took off in fall months to play professional football with the old Boston Braves which, in 1937, became the Washington Redskins.

Why, here was the big money. They got a whole $150 per game in those days—just about pocket money for today's pro player.

When the Great War came along, Deputy Musick went off to fight it with the Marine Corps.

MUSICK CAME HOME in 1945, and it was the perfect "home is the hero" setting for a challenge to then-incumbent Sheriff Jesse Elliott. Here was Musick, USC All-American, pro football star, young, handsome and returned from the Great War.

He defeated Elliott at the polls rather decisively.

In the elections since, Musick has kept that winning record intact. He has never really faced a serious challenge. He may have held office longer than any other California sheriff.

FATHER TIME, however, usually wins in the end. And Musick has decided not to seek an eighth four-year term. At 62, he is stepping down.

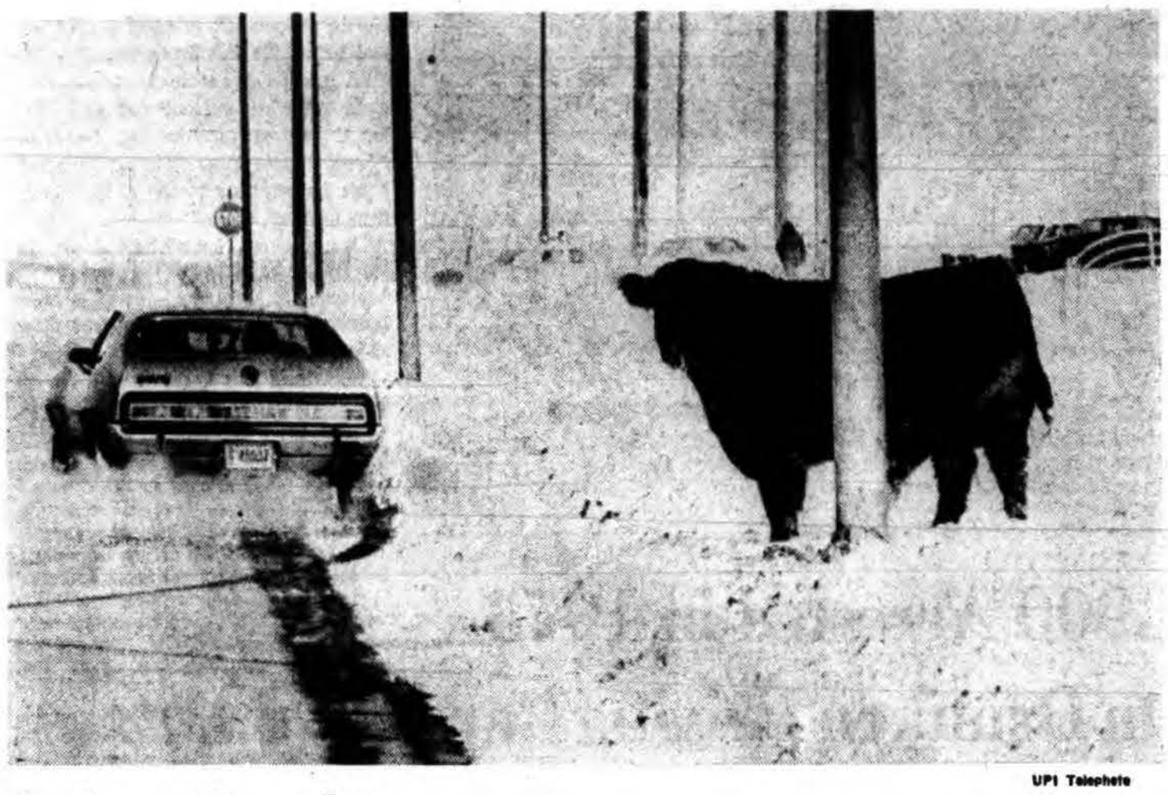

Thus for the first time in nearly three decades, Orange County will have a real election race for sheriff. Already candidates like Norris, Sheriff's Lt. Bradley Gates and likely Cypress Police Chief George Savord are stepping forward to seek the vacated sheriff's post.

And Musick will be watching it all from the sideline.

He isn't really used to watching from there.

King Commemorated

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Schools were closed here today as part of a nationwide program of celebrations commemorating the 45th birthday anniversary of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. A spokesman for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said about 1,000 memorial services will be held, including those in most of the nation's major cities.

Heavy Vietnam Bombings Assailed by Viet Cong

From Wire Services

SAIGON — The Viet Cong today accused the Saigon government of conducting the heaviest bombing since the United States halted air raids a year ago.

As the fighting continued, congressional backers of President Nguyen Van Thieu introduced a constitutional amendment to allow Thieu to run for office a third time. The South Vietnamese constitution at present forbids a third try.

SENATE SOURCES said more than 140 legislators signed a petition to support the amendment allowing Thieu to serve until 1980. A two-thirds majority is required and sources said the amendment would easily pass.

Thieu's term expires Oct. 31, 1975. He has been in office since 1967 when he beat out former Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky. He ran unopposed in 1971 for a second term.

The government and the Viet Cong also held their longest meeting of the Joint Military Commission (JMC) today. In the nearly five-hour meeting, the government proposed a banning of weapons — such as mortars, artillery and rockets — which often cause heavy casualties to civilians, but it was rejected, spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said.

On the war front, North Vietnamese troops shelled several government positions near the Le Minh border base today and made one ground assault, apparently trying to prevent reinforcements from reaching the camp in the central highlands.

AN ADVANCE patrol of 30 South Vietnamese infantrymen was landed in Le Minh by helicopter on Monday after the area was softened up by government bombers. The government said the commandos met little resistance in retaking the camp, which the North Vietnamese captured last September.

A force of more than 5,000 troops was reported on the move in the area west of Pleiku, but the Saigon command said it has run into resistance 3½ miles from Le Minh.

Boston Sellout For Bob Dylan

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Garden was filled to capacity twice as folk-rock superstar Bob Dylan made his first two appearances here in nine years.

More than 15,000 showed up for both his afternoon and evening concerts Monday.

Dylan, noted more for his song lyrics than his conversations with audiences, spoke three times during the afternoon affair.

At the end of the opening song, "Rainy Day Women," he told the applauding audience: "Thank you. It's good to be back in Boston." He later said, "You're too much," after prolonged applause for "Like a Rolling Stone," and he also announced the intermission.

Tanaka Jeered By Indonesians

JAKARTA (UPI) — Thousands of Indonesians poured into the streets today, burning, smashing and hammering on anything Japanese in a massive demonstration timed for the visit of Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

Demonstrators tore down Japanese flags, burned Japanese-made motor vehicles and broke windows in stores dealing in Japanese goods. They attacked a busload of Japanese tourists and UPI photographer Toshio Sakai, a Japanese, was forced to flee when demonstrators turned on him. One demonstrator was reported killed.

DESPITE THE rampage, police and army troops appeared to have the demonstrations under control. There were no shots fired and no tear gas was used, although police turned firehoses on demonstrators earlier in the day.

Indonesian President Suharto ordered a 6 p.m. curfew in the city. There were still thousands in the street 1½ hours after the deadline, but their ranks were rapidly thinning.

Tanaka arrived in Jakarta late Monday and is scheduled to leave Thursday. It is the last leg of a five-nation tour for the prime minister. There were also anti-Japanese demonstrations in Thailand but not as serious as the ones in Indonesia. Other stops included Manila, Singapore and Kuala Lumpur.

Crowds surged several times against the Japanese embassy on Thamrin Street. Some got in and tore down the Japanese flag and broke 19 panes of glass on the second floor of the modern building.

THE YOUNG protesters, shouting "down with Japan" and "economic imperialists," grew increasingly hostile as Indonesian troops tried to break up the demonstrations.

The youths, who traveled to the Indonesian capital from as far away as Sumatra, 800 miles to the northwest, were protesting against alleged Japanese economic discrimination.

Earlier, demonstrators moved away good naturedly when army units with machine guns and armored cars ordered them out of the Jakarta civic square near the national residence where Tanaka conferred with Indonesian President Suharto.

The students regrouped later, however, and converged on the back of the residence before troops had a chance to disperse them again.

Trio Perish In Marijuana Plane Crash

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Three men were killed Monday night when a twin-engine plane carrying 100-pound blocks of marijuana crashed in heavy rain near an unoccupied apartment building and exploded.

IT WAS THE second such Florida crash in four days.

A spokesman for the Ft. Lauderdale police said one of the persons believed to be aboard the plane had been linked with the crash of a similar plane carrying more than a ton of marijuana at Placida, on Florida's gulf coast.

One of the victims was identified as a Gainesville, Fla., resident, but his name was withheld. The other two victims were too badly burned for immediate identification. A medical examiner's report was expected later in the day.

The spokesman, Gene Farmer, said there were no reports of any injuries to bystanders, although the plane crashed in a densely populated area of high-rise buildings one block from the Atlantic ocean.

THE PLANE, a white Lockheed Learstar with an orange stripe painted on its sides, radioed the tower at Pompano air park shortly before 9 a.m. and reported one of its engines had failed, police said.

Eyewitnesses said the plane, with fire spewing out of one of its engines, rapidly lost altitude, and exploded less than 15 feet from the Pompano Beach Club, a 28-story condominium under construction.

According to the police report, the plane exploded on impact, spreading marijuana "like seaweed" through the area.

"The plane caught fire and you could smell the marijuana burning all around," said one witness.

Authorities said it was difficult to determine how much pot was aboard since wind and rain had scattered and split the blocks.

"IF THE PLANE was fully loaded it would hold about 2,400 to 2,500 pounds of marijuana," Farmer said.

Wilkins Denies Ouster From NAACP Top Post

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Wilkins has been ousted as executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the New York Daily News said today. But Wilkins and other NAACP officials categorically denied the story.

The newspaper said the 64-member board of directors of the civil rights group took the action Monday in a closed session.

"I haven't the slightest idea where the story came from. It's so contrary to the meeting yesterday and the items that came up," Wilkins said today in a telephone interview.

● Vegas Murder

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Two men wearing ski masks beat up a casino executive Monday, then bound his 71-year-old wife with electrical cord and cut her throat.

Hilda Krause bled to daeth in her bedroom while her husband, Marvin, 64, slot machine manager at Caesar's Palace, lay unconscious.

Ash Resnick, another executive of the casino, escaped death from a dynamite bomb planted in his car last week. Police, tipped that he was marked for murder, kept watch on the car and nabbed a man planting the explosive.

● Ford Attack

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford accused the AFL-CIO and other "small groups of activists" today of attempting to exploit the Watergate affair to bring about President Nixon's downfall.

"And make no mistake about it — it is an all out attack," Ford said.

"Their aim is total victory for themselves and total defeat not only for President Nixon but for the policies for which he stands."

● Road Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 19 percent decline in highway traffic fatalities for November was reported in the 16 states which have reduced their speed limits, the Department of Transportation said Monday.

On the other hand, the department said the highway death rate declined only 2 percent in the rest of the nation.

Dr. James Gregory of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said the lower speed limits could save as many as 6,000 lives nationwide in a year.

Cronkite Served Court Subpoena

NEW YORK (UPI) — CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite has been served with a subpoena to appear at the Feb. 19 trial of two gay activists who crashed a live telecast of Cronkite's nightly network news program last month.

A CBS spokesman confirmed Monday that Cronkite had received the subpoena, but declined further comment on the case.

The two defendants, Mark Segal, 23, and Harry Langhorne, 26, both of Philadelphia and both members of the "Gay Raiders," are charged with trespassing. They interrupted the "CBS Evening News" Dec. 11 to protest what they said was antihomosexual bias in the network's programming.

S. California

Clear skies but slightly cooler weather greeted Southern Californians today following a brief heat wave, which reached a peak of 81 in Los Angeles — 17 degrees above normal.

The bright and clear weather was only slightly marred by occasional high cloudiness and patchy fog near the coast.

It was 75 today in Los Angeles and the temperature was expected to drop into the low 70s Wednesday. The overnight low is expected to be 48.

U.S. Summary

Gusty winds whipped across the Northern states today as a midwinter thaw spread into much of the nation chilled by recent cold snaps and heavy snows.

The rise in temperature brought dense fog to a large area from the Gulf of Mexico to the lower Missouri and Ohio valleys. Zero visibilities were reported at Tulsa, Okla., and New Orleans, La.

The winds topped 80 m.p.h. at Cape Blanco, Ore., where temperatures were in the 50s. At Great Falls, Mont., with readings in the 40s, gusts reached 50 m.p.h., and Watertown, N.Y., clocked 40 m.p.h. winds and 30-degree temperatures.

Storm warnings were in effect for the northern Pacific Coast, and gale warnings were posted for the central California coast, the Great Lakes and the northern New England coast.

The thaw missed northern portions of Minnesota and North Dakota. International Falls, Minn., and Grand Forks, N.D. collected 2 inches of snow and remained in subzero cold.

Coastal Weather

Shootout Suspects Cite Plea

OAKLAND (AP) — The man charged with the murder of Oakland schools Supt. Marcus Foster, has pleaded innocent to charges arising from a shootout with Concord police that led to a break in the killing of the black school chief.

Joseph M. Remiro, 27, entered his plea at a hearing in Martinez Municipal Court Monday. Russell Little, 24, also charged in the shootout Thursday, entered an identical plea to the charges of assault to commit murder.

The two were arrested by Concord police after the pair

Driving Victim's Car

Two Men Held in Murders

ROSEBURG, Ore. (UPI) — Two men, one a convicted murderer on parole, were in custody today for the killing of a California teen-age couple and the robbery of a New Mexico bank.

The men were arrested Monday in Sutherlin for the shooting deaths of two youths in Victorville Sunday — apparent robbery victims — and the theft of $7,000 from a Santa Fe, N.M. bank last Wednesday.

THEY ALSO threatened a Sutherlin resident with a knife when they wanted to use his car, but he was able to drive away unharmed, Douglas County authorities said.

They are being held on warrants for assault, carrying a concealed weapon with intent to use it and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Murder warrants from California were expected.

David R. Peterson, 41, Santa Fe, and Donald L. Bernard, 35, were taken into custody after a California Highway Patrolman alerted Oregon authorities he had stopped the two near the state border for littering.

But, unaware they were the subjects of an all points bulletin, let them go, he said. said.

PETERSON WAS paroled from the New Mexico State Penitentiary three weeks ago after serving 15 years for murder.

They were apprehended in a car belonging to one of the murder victims, taken, police said, when they left their car in Victorville at the site of the killing.

Robert G. Nyberg, 19, Victorville, and Loretta Dickinson, 16, Hesperia, were found in a park near the Mojave River each with a single gunshot wound in the back of the head.

They had apparently been robbed, police said.

Judge Nixes Dismissal Of Teacher

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A judge says the Grossmont Union High School District can't fire Charles Kahan, 41, a teacher who was twice cleared of marijuana charges.

The district's motion to invalidate Kahan's reinstatement was denied Monday by Superior Court Judge Eli H. Levenson.

Kahan was first removed from his job at La Mesa's Helix High School in 1971, after he was indicted on Arizona charges of possessing and transporting marijuana. The charges were dismissed and he returned to work.

In 1972 a federal grand jury in Arizona indicted Kahan in the same case. The school district placed him on compulsory leave and later dismissed him.

He was found innocent of the charges last June, but district trustees refused to reinstate him until ordered to do so last September by a California school board hearing officer.

Pay Toilet Ban Launched

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A new crusade to eliminate pay toilets in California has cleared its first legislative hurdle over opposition from a company that makes the coin-opening mechanism.

People who have to pay to use restroom facilities take better care of them than do people who use them free, said Jack Ewald, spokesman for the Nik-O-Lok Co. of Indianapolis, Ind.

But on a unanimous vote Monday, the Assembly's Health Committee sent the antipay bill by Assemblyman March Fong to the Ways and Means Committee. Approval in Ways and Means would send the measure to the lower house floor.

EWALD TOLD committee that pay toilets contribute $175,000 to $200,000 annually to the state treasury.

"I think that's a disgraceful way to collect money for the state," said Mrs. Fong, an Oakland Democrat. Her bill would prohibit pay toilets in restrooms operated by public agencies, including airports.

In 1969, Mrs. Fong smashed a toilet to bits on the front steps of the state Capitol in an effort to gather support for an earlier antipay bill that died in committee.

Another bill (also killed) sought to limit the number of pay toilets in a given public restroom. It was nicknamed the "one in three must be free" bill.

Robert Toigo, a spokesman for Mrs. Fong, said the bill is expected to have its toughest test in the state Senate.

'Sex Life Of Crab' Rejected

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The assembly has rejected a freshman lawmaker's tongue-in-cheek attempt to override a Gov. Ronald Reagan veto.

Assemblyman Barry Keene (D-Santa Rosa), Monday urged his fellow lawmakers to override Reagan's veto of a bill to provide annual state fish and game department reports on the decline of the market crab at a cost of $250,000.

Keene said in a floor speech: "His (Reagan's) office inquired whether a bill numbered 1984 would not be construed as a 'big brother' attempt to invade the privacy of the reproductive habits of market crabs."

Crosby, 69, was reported "feeling good" Monday night in Peninsula Hospital's intensive care unit, where he was placed following surgery Sunday for removal of part of his left lung where an orange-sized abscess was found.

Samples of tissue infected by "a species of nacordia, a fungus bacteria picked up during a duststorm while on safari in Africa," were sent to pathologists at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco and the State Health Department in Sacramento.

Criticism Justified

In its voluminous annual report, the Orange County Grand Jury has leveled some well-justified criticism at the Board of Supervisors.

Political self-interest and failure to display needed leadership in crucial situations were key objections raised by the jury relative to board activities.

The report didn't overdo the criticism — it only took up three of the 300 pages. The rest was devoted to such things as health, law enforcement, environment, social welfare and other topics of concern to the public.

The critique of the board pointed up weak points that have become glaringly obvious in recent months.

These include petty politicking, hurried action on critical matters, important items brought up off-agenda with no preparation and crude handling of personnel matters.

The board should accept the criticism as constructive.

Because of a new state law, this year's jury will have another six months to follow up on its suggestions. That's more than enough time for the supervisors to make some signs that Orange County can get better government.

Disclosure Loopholes

California's new finanical disclosure and conflict of interest law is a step in the right direction — as far as it goes. But it contains some rather unfortunate loopholes.

The law requires that most elected officials and some appointed officials disclose their business interests in excess of $1.000 and their sources of income, gifts or loans in excess of $250. Such disclosures are to be made with regard to interests in the jurisdiction in which they serve.

Two candidates for the Irvine City Council have chosen to file complete disclosure statements which point up the fallacy of this geographical limitation.

Candidate Robert West's statement shows that, while he owns a home in Irvine, his business interests are in adjacent Newport Beach and he owns some property in Dana Point. Neither the business nor property holding disclosures would have been required under the existing law.

Incumbent Irvine Councilman Henry Quigley filed a dual statement — one covering required information, i.e, his interests in the city of Irvine, the other reporting additional income from real estate investments in Riverside County, which would not be required.

While it is doubtful outside interests such as these would influence behavior in office, the possibilities are obvious.

The second loophole in the law came about in a slight wording change which had the effect of eliminating many appointed officials from the disclosure requirements. Disclosure is mandatory for county supervisors, city councilmen, city managers and planning commissioners. But the law now says that local authorities "may" require such disclosure from members of other appointive boards and commissions. The original wording was "shall.'

Since a great deal of regulatory power and influence rests with these lesser-known agencies, the change substantially weakened the law.

A much more stringent disclosure law is being prepared for presentation as a statewide ballot initiative later this year. Meanwhile, the watered-down version will have to serve.

Concern has been expressed that the disclosure law will discourage candidates who do not choose to make public their business affairs. Unfortunately, revelations on the political scene during the past year make it essential that those who choose public careers must also be willing to undergo public scrutiny.

Common Market Second Thoughts

EDITORIAL RESEARCH

LONDON — One year after entering the Common Market, most people in Britain feel vastly disappointed in the European Economic Community. When the Common Market is not being blamed for the United Kingdom's current crisis, it is being damned as irrelevant in solving pressing problems. One senior British official perhaps best summed up the attitude when he described the EEC summit meeting in Copenhagen as "Eurocrap."

THE ALARMED perspective in Brussels is that the community's very future may be at stake unless Britain and West Germany are able to reach agreement on the size and distribution of the planned regional fund. Britain wants a fund of about $3 billion over three years to build up its depressed areas. Bonn wants a ceiling set at about one-fifth of that figure. The controversy is the most serious threat to the EEC since Charles de Gaulle ordered a French walkout in 1965.

Because popular feeling in Britain continues to be so negative, Prime Minister Edward Heath has been trying to provide a tangible economic benefit from membership. However, the Germans are also tired of paying for community policies without deriving commensurate benefits. A high German official has said that to accept Britain's demands on regional development because it might otherwise drop out would be like paying one's spouse to be faithful.

LABOR PARTY members of the House of Commons have called the first year of membership "an unmitigated disaster." Foreign Minister Alec Douglas-Home replied that "We recognized we had to pay quite a lot in the early years but we also calculated the great industrial advantages in the later years." The British contribution to the EEC agricultural fund in 1973 was $240 million; returns were minimal.

Because of the increasingly querulous mood in Brussels, it now appears that regional economic unity will be delayed. The proposal that member countries should pool 20 percent of their currency reserves was shelved altogether. Transport policy has bogged down, as has a common social policy. The haggling in the EEC over the most effective way to handle the Arab oil crisis seriously dampened the prospects of a common approach and was seen as a severe setback to the European cause.

HEATH maintains that the Common Market is not to blame for Britain's rampant inflation and has been hitting back at the "Little Englanders" in both parties who have been urging Britain to trim its sails. But a majority of voters now believe it was wrong for Britain to have joined the EEC. And many British civil servants told the Sunday Times that they would like to see the organization scrapped.

In the Labor Party, which opposed the terms of entry, the consensus is that Britain would lose little by pulling out. The public has blamed the rising cost of living and higher food prices on EEC membership. Peter Shore, a Labor spokesman on the Common Market, has argued that there should be "no government from Brussels without the prior democratic consent of the British people."

The French and the Germans are openly wondering whether to keep Britain in is worth the price. But Francois-Xavier Ortoli, president of the EEC executive commission, pleaded with the British not to "break up the community." Despite all the disappointments, the feeling on the continent is that if Britain should pull out, there would be no winners in Europe — only losers.

Not Old, Just Timeless

SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the nicest compliments any of my children have paid me came this fall from my middle daughter, just before she left for boarding-school.

I make it public not for the sake of self-flattery, but because I think it may help some parents better understand what their children want and hope of them.

We were talking about "age," about being young and being old, and she said she was glad I acted my age and didn't try to compete with the whole new youth culture. Upon which I was tempted to inquire, "You don't think of me as 'old,' do you?"

"NOT AT ALL," she answered swiftly, "I don't think of you as young or as old, but as kind of . . . timeless."

I was delighted. Because it seems to me that this is what a parent ought to aim at—timelessness. To make a conscious effort to remain "young," with all its current implications, is too much of a strain for a middle-aged person; yet to sink into old age, disaffected from modernity, crabbing about the way things used to be, seems to me even more an abdication of one's proper role as a parent.

AND I WAS doubly pleased, because the contemporaries I have most admired, and would like to emulate, have evinced this spirit of timelessness, no matter how old they became. The recently dead Casals, the recently dead Picasso, the late Martin Buber, all were old in years and experience when they died, but in some ways as youthful as when in their 20s. Marc Chagall is another living example of this.

Old age, in fact, should not be another "period" in the life of man, like infancy, adolescence, or maturity, but ideally should be a summation of all life: it should include and represent the earlier periods, and not obliterate them. To forget what it was like to be young, to fall out of sympathy with the "new youth," is to grow rotten before you grow ripe.

TO BE timeless is better than to be young or old or any other specific age; it is, in my opinion, what living is all about—so that you can identify with Socrates or Shakespeare as well as with the latest proponents of contemporary thought, and so that children's games remain as meaningful and heartwarming to you as all the social and financial and medical impedimenta of growing older.

Youth is neither a stage to cherish nor to reject; rather, it is a stage to incorporate within oneself, along with all the other stages that go to make up the full spectrum of our humanity unto death.

Health Care For Indians 'Deplorable'

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Health experts fear that epidemics may break out on the nation's Indian reservations because of a critical lack of doctors and facilities. Indians already have the highest disease rate and lowest life expectancy of any group in the nation.

In an urgent memo to Chairman James Abourezk, (D-S.D.), the staff of the Senate Indian subcommittee reports evidence of "tuberculosis outbreaks" and "other serious disease epidemics particularly in the Aberdeen, S.D. area.

"We believe that the urgency of the present situation not be overemphasized," they stress.

The memo declares that "the backlog of people needing corrective surgery is now past 20,000. Of that number, 13,000 children are in need of surgery."

Yet President Nixon has impounded Indian Health Service money four of the last five years. This has caused a critical shortage of funds, which has brought on the Indian health crisis.

Without adequate funds, a "serious and growing shortage of physicians" has developed in facilities serving the Indians.

"The physician shortage," states the memo, "exacerbates the already deteriorating conditions brought on by an increased patient load and inflated costs. By June, 1974, facilities may have to close down for lack of physicians."

THE FACILITIES used by the Indian Health Service have also fallen into deplorable shape. "In the Aberdeen area alone," reports the memo, "60 percent of the buildings being used by the IHS have been declared unfit for use by state inspectors.

"For example, Rosebud Hospital was constructed in 1914 and has been condemned even by IHS, but for lack of funds they will have to make do."

Nor can the Indians rely on their own people for health care. There are only 52 Indian doctors in the entire United States. The IHS has launched a new recruitment drive for doctors, but the program is unlikely to help Indians in critical need of health care now.

Many Regard Crisis as Hoax

Gas Rationing Backlash

EVANS-NOVAK

WASHINGTON—While the Nixon administration ponders pros and cons of coupon gasoline rationing, a bitter truth is dawning on the White House: anti-rationing sentiment has risen so sharply that Congress might reject a presidential request for it.

Congressmen who left Washington Dec. 22 for a month-long recess were unprepared for the backlash to the standby rationing plan unveiled by energy czar William Simon Dec. 27. Thus, even if Mr. Nixon requests authorization of rationing when Congress returns Jan. 21, he might not get passage until mid-April. Indeed, if the present tide keeps running, he might not get it at all.

The anti-rationing backlash has been generated partly by interested business groups, including retail automobile dealers. But the Nixon administration must share the responsibility. From President Nixon down, policymakers have referred to rationing as a horrible last resort almost too dreadful to confront. Now that chances are better than 50-50 that Mr. Nixon will go to rationing after all, his own words come home to haunt him.

If American voters only weeks ago were willing to accept gasoline rationing in time of crisis, Congressmen returning home for the recess found that spirit of sacrifice evaporated. In its place is rising — and heated — opposition to Simon's standby plan for a 32-gallon-per-month limit.

A sampler of grass roots testing: in the Shreveport, La., area, Democratic Rep. Joe Waggonner got an earful of anti-rationing talk from owners of roadside restaurants, auto dealers and just plain drivers. On Maryland's Eastern Shore, gas station operators have been bombarding Republican Rep. Robert Bauman with anti-rationing arguments. Around Moline, Ill., members of the United Auto Workers who work in the city but live in the country tell Republican Rep. Thomas Railsback that Simon's plan would keep them from work.

A FINAL example: in Macomb County, Mich., containing industrial suburbs of Detroit, Democratic Rep. James O'Hara, during luncheon meetings of the Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary this week, was surprised by unanimous anti-rationing sentiment. Worse, he was positively stunned by overriding skepticism that any true energy crisis exists. As of now, O'Hara would vote against rationing.

The auto dealers, watching their lots full of gas-guzzling '74 white elephants, have persistently buttonholed Congressmen from coast to coast over the last two weeks. Whether this constitutes a nationally coordinated drive, few Congressmen have escaped haranging by local auto dealers contending that coupon rationing would be the last straw breaking the once-strong back of all those gas guzzlers.

FAR MORE mysterious — and somewhat ominous—is the mood Congressmen now privately define as mass hysteria; the conviction by ordinary citizens that the energy crisis is a hoax perpetrated by big oil for higher profits and by Mr. Nixon to drown Watergate. Once that devil theory is accepted, the need for rationing or any other emergency measure is automatically discounted — one of Simon's most serious worries today.

Overlying all this is the role of the administration itself. President Nixon has missed no public opportunity to relate the horrors of rationing (describing it as "something the American people would resent very, very much"). Simon, far preferring an unobtainable high federal gasoline tax, has sounded much the same note.

EVEN SOME administration officials assume this doomsday rhetoric damns rationing. But in truth, chances are better than even that Mr. Nixon will have to swallow it. Simon's litmus test is whether the time-consuming gas station queues continue or worsen. Thus, one highly placed administration official flatly predicts rationing will be necessary if the Arab embargo is not ended by Feb. 1—an unlikely development.

Mr. Nixon's advisers now fear a Feb. 1 call for gas rationing would be delayed at least two months and, if Congressmen continue to hear grass roots hostility, might never pass. Few of his aides would urge the President to impose rationing with the dubious statutory authority he now has.

SIMON'S TASK is not enviable. Having described the horrors of rationing, he may now have to sell the necessity. More to the point, he must convince Americans that the energy crisis is real and not another dirty trick, and he must do it without much help from the Oval Office. Nothing better underscores the crisis of a President without credibility than the developing fiasco over gas rationing.

The Happy Unity of Shared Hatred

ART HOPPE

Well, you don't have to worry about the Energy Crisis any longer. I've solved it. You're welcome.

The problem, Our Leaders keep telling us, is that we must all voluntarily unite for the common good and conserve energy. They have made a blatant appeal to our sense of brotherhood and love. Thus, it's an appeal that's bound to fail.

The solution came to me in a blinding flash as I was driving up to the mountains to relax last weekend. Like all good Americans, I always drive up to the mountains to relax at 70 miles an hour. This way it takes me three-and-a-half hours to reach the mountains to relax and another half hour to recover from the whips and jingles.

BUT LAST weekend, in a noble experiment, I kept the speedometer under 55. If, like most good Americans, you've never driven under 55, you'll find the experience soothing, visually rewarding and downright idyllic.

True, I burned up 10 gallons of gas getting there, but I saved at least a gallon for my fellow Americans. Indeed, my only regret is that my journey wasn't twice as long so I could save them two gallons and feel twice as noble.

Moreover, while the trip took four hours, I didn't require a half hour at the end to calm down. I required 45 minutes instead — the reason being all those no-good, rotten, selfish, gas-guzzling maniacs who passed me doinig 70.

IT WAS then that the solution hit me. What we must do when we are passed on the highway, fellow 55-miles-per-hour Amricans, is honk! And throw in a scowl, too, if you can manage it.

Think of the emotions churning in the breast of any dirty, egomaniacal fink passing a line of honking, scowling, law-abiding motorists! Think of the shame he'll feel! Think of the mental anguish we'll inflict upon him! Think of the glow of self-righteous pleasure that will warm the cockles of our hearts as we honk and scowl away.

Soon our highways will be divided into happy honkers and despised honkers. Not only will this prove a first step in solving The Energy Crisis, but it will promote racial unity. For we and our black brothers can hate the honkees together.

FROM THERE, it will be but a simple step to conserving heat and electricity. All we need do is agree on a common hate object. Some will suggest the fiendish Arabs, some the greedy oil barons. But I propose those basically responsible for the mess we're in — Our Bumbling Leaders.

Then as we turn down the thermostat or dim the lights, we can cry out in triumph, "Take that, you Bumbling Leaders, you!" And we can sit in the chilly darkness aglow with the sweet fire of righteous revenge.

At last, Americans will be united, just as our Leaders have urged. Nor can they be faulted for not doing their part.

For if there's one thing history proves, it's that love and brotherhood are all right in their place. But what really unifies human beings is a mutually shared hatred.

Eight Irvine Scouts Get Eagle's Wings

TUSTIN — Eight boy scouts from Irvine Troop 36 will be honored with the coveted rank of "Eagle" Wednesday night, during a traditional Eagle Court of Honor ceremony.

The colorful ritual, open to the public, will be held at the Tustin Presbyterian Church, at Main and "C" Streets at 7:30 p.m.

Recipients of the medals for this highest scouting rank are: Louis Cohen, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cohen, Irvine; Chris Connolly, 16, and Mark Connolly, 17, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Connolly, Tustin; Bill Czarnecki, 16, sonof Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Czarnecki, Irvine; Harry Kohaut, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kohaut, Tustin; Marty Lauber, 16, son of Dr. and Mrs. Donald J. Lauber, Santa Ana; Larry Le Voir, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clive Le Voir, Santa Ana, and Mike Williams, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Williams, Santa Ana.

"It's unusual for a troop to have so many boys becoming Eagle Scouts at one time," said Dean Buchinger, institutional representative from the Irvine Company, which sponsors the troop. "Normally, only one or two scouts a year complete the requirements and become eligible for the rank of Eagle." With the addition of the eight boys this week, 10 of the troop's 45 active members will have received this high honor.

In order for a scout to become eligible for Eagle status, he must undergo a series of intensive interviews and complete a number of difficult requirements. The prospective Eagle must plan and carry out a community service project, hold at least 21 badges of merit for past achievements, and obtain several letters of recommendation from various superiors. He must also have been a Boy Scout for at least two and one half years, and a leader in the troop for at least one year.

Irvine Troop 36, which is part of the Orange County Council, was formed and chartered in 1952. An active camping group, the troop goes on at least one outing a month, usually treking through the local mountain areas.

Forums Set On Waste Water Plan

Orange County Sanitation Districts are seeking public input concerning their scheduled upgrading of wastewater treatment at their Huntington Beach plant.

Two public forums have been scheduled for Wednesday, at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m., for the public to hear the various proposals and their potential impacts, and to respond to each proposal.

"Public input from the two meetings, from both private citizens and environmental groups, will assist the districts in the selection of the proposed improvement to be presented for evaluation by state and federal authorities," explained a spokesman for the sanitation districts.

New laws to tighten up wastewater treatment have been issued by state and federal authorities, the spokesman added.

Cost of the proposed upgrading will range between $20 and $100 million, depending on which alternative is used, the spokesman said.

Social, economic and environmental impacts of the different plans will be presented.

Both forums will be held at the district offices, at 10844 Ellis Ave., Fountain Valley.

"Where's OUR house, Mommy? Where's OUR house?"

Tokyo Lovers

Every Woman for Self

By MARIANNE OHE

TOKYO (UPI) — Tokyo may not be as notorious as Rome for girl-watchers, but it should share in the notoriety.

Several irate foreign women have written letters to newspapers here complaining of "rude and offensive stares from Japanese men" and Japanese men have also been accused of pinching, squeezing and even name-calling.

Although it's impossible to say what portion of Tokyo's male population engages in such antics, I can testify to one or two first-hand experiences of it.

ONE INEBRIATED man sauntered up to me on my way home from work one night and said loudly in my ear, "Sex!" That was all. Then he walked on, apparently satisfied.

A Canadian girl I know had several grabs made at her during her year-long stay in Tokyo. One Australian girl I met had a man grab her breast on a narrow street late at night. She socked him and he threw his briefcase at her.

Japanese girls I know also testify to pinches and squeezes in crowded subway cars and on train platforms.

"I AM A YOUNG American wife who has too often been exposed to the rude and offensive stares of Japanese men who seem to think that at any minute my clothes will fly off revealing a voluptuous sexpot and whose dream is that I invite them on a wild sexual adventure," said one distraught woman in a letter to the Japan Times.

Another American woman wrote the Times:

"While I was waiting to meet a friend in Shibuya station (in Tokyo)," she wrote to the Times, "I was approached by at least six men. When the seventh came up to me, I decided to try a different tack. So I put my arm around him and said, 'Great, let's go.' Well, he practically froze in terror."

ONE JAPANESE businessman theorizes that slightly tipsy men do most of the "grabbing" when they leave a bar after paying a hostess to sit with them.

But then there was the tight-lipped, proper businessman who passed me one sunny day, dressed impeccably in a dark suit and tie. While still staring straight ahead, he mechanically reached out, executed a grab, withdrew his hand and — without missing a single step — continued past me.

Reactors Opposed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The board of directors of the conservationist Sierra Club has voted 9-4 to oppose the opening of new nuclear reactors anywhere in the country until further assessment of environmental safety factors.

After a two-day debate ending Sunday, the board supported the position of University of Utah psychologist David Raskin, who cited the potential hazards of uncontrolled atomic power.

Outcasts No Longer

SACRAMENTO UPI) — Convicted prostitutes no longer would be marked "as social outcasts" when applying for a new job under a bill proposed by Assemblyman Mike Cullen, (D-Long Beach).

The bill would prohibit employers from requiring prospective employes from disclosing whether they had ever been convicted or arrested on prositituion charges. It also permits prostitutes to ask a court to seal their records of such violations.

"Rehabilitation of these people will not be accomplished by marking them as social outcasts for the rest of their lives," Cullen said when introducing the bill Monday,

Insurance Firms Hit On Rates

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Beverly W. Thompson is seeking $21.6 million in damages from 10 insurance companies because she says they based her auto insurance rates on her private life rather than her driving record.

Ms. Thompson, 43 and unmarried, claimed the firms denied her normal automobile insurance because a credit company reported she "was practically living" with a man.

THE COURT action claims she was put into a pool of bad risk auto insurance customers, despite a record of 15 years of driving without an arrest or accident.

The action against the insurance companies she filed Monday as an amendment to Ms. Thompson's 1971 federal court suit against Retail Credit Co., an Atlanta-based firm.

A judge must approve addition of the insurance companies as defendants in the original suit, but such approval is usually given, according to a lawyer defending Ms. Thompson, a title she prefers.

The action filed Monday charges the insurance firms with violating federal antitrust regulations.

A REPORT BY the Retail Credit Co. of Alexandria, Va. said a 49-year-old man "was a constant visitor" at her apartment when she lived in Hartford, Conn., the action claims. She called the credit company report "meaningless gossip."

Her attorney, Katheryn Emmett of Bridgeport, said the suit is an attack "on the basic insurance company underwriting practices which are totally incomprehensible to the average person but which serve to enrich the insurance companies.

"How can anyone refute a claim of 'practically living' with someone? It's like saying someone is 'practically beating his wife,'" the lawyer said.

THE SUIT charges the Retail Credit Co. with violating the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act and invasion of privacy.

A spokesman for Retail Credit in Atlanta said there would be no immediate comment on the matter.

Orthopedic Foundation

Coast Man Named to Board

Newport Beach resident Ignacio E. Lozano, Jr. has been appointed to the Board of Trustees of Los Angeles' Orthopedic foundation and Hospital.

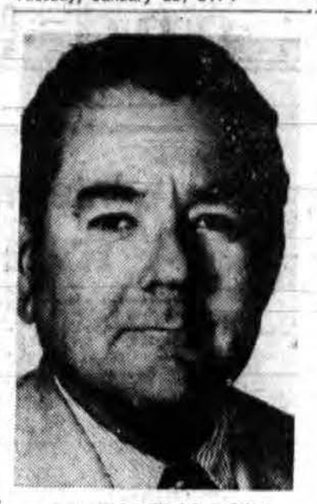

Lozano, publisher of the Spanish language newspaper, La Opinion, joined the board last month, according to an announcement from board chairman Albert Martin.

The Newport Beach man is active in the Inter American Press Association, the California Newspaper Publishers Association, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the Southern California Visitors Council.

Lozano is also executive director of the Commission of the Californias and is a member of El Pueblo de Lons Angeles State Historic Park Commission, the advisory council to the cabinet committee on opportunities for Spanish Speaking People and the advisory board of the Convent of the Good Shepherd.

He is a member of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, the Transpacific Yacht Club, Coto de Caza, Balboa Club de Mazatlan and Club de Caza y Pesca Las Cruces.

His wife, Marta, is a member and past president of the Newport Harbor Junior League.

Hang Glide Seminar Set

"Fly Me" is the title of a seminar on "hang gliding" that will be presented in the Orange Coast College Forum at noon on Thursday. Admission is free.

Guest speaker for the event is Bob Wills of Escape Country in Trabuco Canyon. Hang gliding is a sport where "pilots" attach themselves to large kites and jump off of anything from ladders to large hills and cliffs. They utilize air currents to float softly to the ground.

Grand Opening, Sequence 3

Above everything else, The North View has extraordinary values.

One thing, perhaps more than all the others, stands out about Sequence 3 at The North View: the extraordinary value of the homes. It comes from a combination of the breathtaking views of Saddleback Mountain, quiet cul-de-sac streets, greenbelt, and parklike areas, serene atmosphere – plus the homes themselves. Ones which create a whole new perspective of country-view living.

The question is: how much longer will these outstanding values remain at these prices?

Large expanses of glass have been blended with soft earth tones to create exteriors of warm wood, brick and stone...much like a country manor. The front yards are landscaped and have sprinklers. The rear yards are fenced, especially designed for each lot. Inside, these beautiful 3 and 4 bedroom homes have large rooms, deep carpeting (in major living areas), fireplaces, built-ins, even the luxury of self-cleaning ovens.

Surround all this with Laguna Niguel's 8,000 acres filled with fresh, ocean-cooled air and affluent neighbors and it's extremely attractive; even more so when you add in the pool, clubroom, and playfields of The Highlands Club provided by The Homeowners Association for a fee of $15 a month.

And there's more. Golf at the private El Niguel Country

Club. Tennis at the private Laguna Niguel Tennis Club. (Memberships are available. Memberships in the country club and the tennis club are voluntary and are controlled by Avco Community Developers, Inc., which is the management and operations agent of the club facilities.)

beaches are only 4 miles away, and the Dana Point Harbor, "home port" for Laguna Niguel is down the coast a bit. What more could someone who desires a larger home ask for?

From $48,500 to $59,400

'Sticks and Bones' Stunning Drama at SCR

Intermission
Tom Titus

The experience of the Vietnam war is a part of history most Americans likely would prefer to forget. Playwright David Rabe is dedicated to the task of insuring they do not.

In his multi-honored drama "Sticks and Bones," Rabe shoves the ugly scars of conflict into the living room, exposing his interpretation of American attitudes about the war. Yet his values are not stacked against an insensitive family — cruelly stereotyped as it may be — which gives the play a sense of balance and, consequently, true dramatic power.

South Coast Repertory has mounted a characteristically excellent production of "Sticks and Bones," the West Coast premiere of the controversial work. It is a stunning and thought-provoking show, intensified by the strong direction of Martin Benson and a uniformly superb cast headed by James de Priest in his most outstanding performance to date on the Costa Mesa stage.

"STICKS AND BONES"
A drama by David Rabe, directed by Martin Benson, set design by Gregory Bolton, lighting by James McKie, costumes by Carole Ellsworth, sound by Barry Koron, presented Wednesdays through Sundays until Feb. 10 by South Coast Repertory, 1827 Newport Boulevard, Costa Mesa. Reservations 646-1363.

THE CAST

Ozzie	James de Priest
Harriet	Ann Siena-Schwartz
David	Richard Doyle
Rick	Steve Patterson
Sergeant Major	James McKie
Zung	Elizabeth Herbert
Father Donald	H. J. Parks

RABE LAMPOONS the family with a milk-and-cookies mentality and dubs them Ozzie, Harriet, David and Ricky lest anyone misinterpret his motivation. David is the war-blinded soldier who upsets the family's emotional equilibrium with the ideas the rest can neither understand nor accept.

Thus are the battle lines drawn — the balm of mindless existence vs. the harsh and profane reality of the returning soldier, with only the sheer weight of numbers prevailing in the final confrontation. Yet Rabe (who has matured remarkably since "The Basic Training of Pavolo Hummel" which SCR produced last season) veers away from pure propagandizing by his characterization of the soldier in a light equally unfavorable as that of the family.

DE PRIEST enacts the Ozzie character with remarkable accuracy — the benign, cardigan-garbed father figure whose ineffectual nature turns to bitter and, ultimately, vindictive frustration. It is a performance of uncanny insight which ranks among the finest delivered by SCR actors.

ALSO ON target is the surgary sweet character of Harriet, whose apparent primary functions are the making of fudge and the going for groceries. Ann Siena-Schwartz delivers a rich low-key interpretation of this role.

The part of David, the Vietnam returnee, is tinged with intense bitterness and hate. Rick Doyle bites deeply into the role, emerging with less empathy than the playwright may have intended, with the result being mixed emotions of disgust and relief at his eventual demise.

Steve Patterson plays the mindless, guitar-strumming Ricky to perfection. His part is more deeply rooted in caricature and he brings it off skillfully with his incessant "Hi, Mom; Hi, Dad" and his dingaling quips such as "I'm too pretty not to have a good time."

THE BEST OF the minor roles is that of the presumptuous priest, well done by H. J. Parks. James McKie is frightening as the steely sergeant major who brings David home, while Elizabeth Herbert contributes an ominous presence as the Vietnamese whore who haunts David's memory.

"Sticks and Bones" is a curious mixture of realism and fantasy which oversteps both boundaries on occasion — the father's overreaction on learning of David's experiences with the prostitute; his inane address to an empty household in an attempt to regain his self-identity. Yet on balance, the play is a gripping experience presented with the sort of dramatic dedication that has given South Coast Repertory an enviable reputation of artistic achievement.

Performances of "Sticks and Bones" continue for four more weekends, Wednesdays through Saturdays, at the company's Third Step Theater, 1827 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa.

How 'Ham Actor' Got His Name

By MARILYN AND HY GARDNER

Q: Where did the expression "ham actor" or "hammy" come from? — Irene Talamo, Worcester, Mass.

A: Several theories are advanced. One goes all the way back to the 1880s and a precocious actor named Hamish McCullough whose traveling troupe was known as "Ham's" actors.

Other historians trace the expression back to the era of Tony Pastor's Opera House in New York City, when free hams were given away to patrons to bolster attendance on week nights. Since the performers, not the hams, were supposed to be the main attraction, they became known as "ham actors."

Another version, also stemming from Tony Postor and advanced by the late comedians Buster Keaton, Harold Lloyd and Ed Wynn, involves a blackface quartet called the Hamtown Students. Their exaggerated movements, overplaying and lordly attitude pinned the term "ham" on other such ego-filled individuals.

'Glad You Asked That'

We tend to believe the most valid theory is this one: that minstrel men and early actors once removed makeup with lard because it was cheaper than cold cream. Since lard was devived from pork and ham, it was not surprising that actors were called "hams."

Q: What's this about Phyllis Diller saying she was posing for a centerfold for Watchtower magazine — that "it was the only centerfold I could make"? Since this is a newspaper of dignity published by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, I hope she was kidding. Am I right? — Mrs. Nessee V. Blaylock, Richmond, Va.

A: Definitely. And we're sure the comedienne will appreciate your digging her humor. Phyllis made the same wisecrack before — substituting Football News, Popular Mechanics, National Geographic, etc. for Watchtower.

Q: My brother-in-law and I have a bet about which series Richard Boone played in first — "Medic" or "Have Gun Will Travel." Your answer will save a lot of fights. — Carol Halford, Peoria, Ill.

A: Whoever said "Medic" wins. As Dr. Styner, Boone was twice nominated for an Emmy. He moved from the operating room to Paladin in 1957. In his early days, Richard was a roustabout, a prizefighter, an aerial gunner, an artist and a writer. He's noted as an actor who makes a role famous, not vice versa.

Send your questions to Hy Gardner, "Glad You Asked That," care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1560, Costa Mesa 92626. Marilyn and Hy Gardner will answer as many questions as they can in their column, but the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

Aussie Worms Lay Big Eggs

Memory is inherited.

Why Georgia is so widely known for its peaches I just can't say. South Carolina turns out more. Likewise Califor nia.

A student of mental matters with access to a computer contends the average person who lives to be 72 devotes just about three years to quarreling.

COMPACT

Nobody knows who invented that female makeup case called the "compact." What's known only is that several manufacturers jumped into the markets with it at about the same time, each advertised it as a "compact beauty case." Some nameless ad men no doubt labeled the thing over drinks on Lexington Avenue. And the public whittled it down to fit the lingo. Now that's happening to the small car of the same name, too.

Hardly anybody this side of the Atlantic can name the six languages besides English spoken in the British Isles Can you? . . . Exactly why parsley has been cultivated for more than 2,000 years I just can't say . . . How can you call yourself a music lover, if you don't know what note musicians use to set the pitch? . . . No aspiring author should forget that it took Stephen Crane only 10 days to write that great tale "The Red Badge of Courage" . . . Three out of four firebugs are under 21. And the boys among them outnumber the girls by 22 to one.

ELEVATOR BUTTONS

Maybe you've seen those elevator buttons that light up not from the pressure of your fingertips, but from its heat. Almost magical, thought the plain folk. And the technical boys smiled wisely. But those buttons respond to fire, too. At least a couple of times so far, elevators have stopped dead on floors where blazes broke out. And coughing citizens thereat poked helplessly at the stupid buttons, before boiling down the stairwells.

In Missouri, a Justice of the Peace tacked on his hall bulletin board the following advice to attorneys: "Gentlemen, please don't ask me to step out for a drink during business hours. I can't go, and I don't want to get into the habit of refusing."

OCC Offers Insurance Courses

Orange Coast Evening College is offering a pair of courses this spring to prepare students for a certificate in general insurance.

"General Principles of Insurance" is a three-unit course that begins with an introduction ot the concept of risk and the methods of handling risks. It meets Thursday evenings from 7-10 p.m. in the OCC applied science building.

"Property Insurance" is a three-unit class that emphasizes contracts and contract analysis. It meets Wednesdays from 6-9 p.m. in the applied science building.

Western's Passengers

Western Airlines has reported preliminary 1973 traffic of 6.5 billion revenue passenger miles, a record for any year in the company's 47-year history. The 1973 figure represented an 8 percent increase over 1972's 6.0 billion revenue passenger miles.

Available seat miles for the 12 months of 1973 increased 8.5 percent. Contributing to the increase was the introduction of four DC-10s into Western's fleet. ASM's increased for the 12 months from 10.3 billion in 1972 to 11.2 billion in 1973.

Money's Worth

Ousting the Gypster

By SYLVIA PORTER

What may turn out to be one of the great milestones in the history of the U.S. consumer movement rode through Congress and into law unnoticed late last year on the coattails of the 1973 Alaska Pipeline authorization bill.

PORTER

THE MEASURE was an amendment to the 1914 Federal Trade Commission Act and, in the words of a brilliant young U.S. government official, "is potentially as important" as the most basic antitrust and consumer protection laws of our land.

Yet, the probability is that few of you — including the most vigilant consumer advocates — are even aware that the historic legislation is on our statute books. To give you a quick grasp of what the amendment says and could mean, consider the following composite case history of one of the traps endangering the American consumer today.

An organization of high-pressure promoters puts together an alluring campaign promising big-paying jobs for those who sign up for an expensive training program in heavy machinery operation, computer programming, nursing, etc. The course costs several hundred dollars and is offered on credit. Thousands respond, send in checks, sign contracts to pay the rest. Then they turn up for training.

BUT EITHER the training turns out to be inadequate to equip them for the promised jobs — or the "training school" can't be found. The promoters have sold the contracts to a finance company, paid off all the company's officials handsomely and filed for bankruptcy.

In the past, the Federal Trade Commission — the consumer's top policing agency against deceptive advertising and promotion -- handled swindles of this sort by issuing a "cease and desist" order. But this merely invited a backlash of appeals, endless legal delays, shopping for judges on appeal, and the like. The agonizing result has been that it has taken as long as a decade to put a racketeer out of business — not in jail, mind you, just out of the business he was in.

In fact, really professional gypsters have managed to keep one long step ahead of the law in individual states just by moving their businesses from state to state whenever the complaints appeared to be getting too loud for their comfort.

NOW, THOUGH, under the new FTC Act amendment, the FTC may go immediately to the U.S. district courts and — armed with reasonably solid evidence that a racketeer is seriously deceiving us in the marketplace via his ads, promotions, come-ons, sales pitches — slap an injunction on the violator. The injunction may be temporary or permanent but the vital point is that it can immediately halt the fraudulent operation, immediately provide protection for the public. The district judge, under the new provision, may move just as rapidly as he wishes or as the situation warrants.

"This new power," says one legal observer, "could open up a new chapter in the protection of the public if the FTC takes advantage of it."

In addition, punishment has been sharply increased. Under the "cease and desist" system, a person violating the order is subject to a fine. Under the new amendment, a violator of an injunction could be jailed within a matter of days if the district judge puts on the pressure.

WITH LIVING costs soaring and joblessness spreading in 1974, it's a certainty that swindlers will be operating on a grant scale. Consumer frauds — particularly those appealing to individuals looking for business opportunities or job training and families trying to save money every way they can — will reach an all-time peak. This "injunction power" then could be crucial consumer protection.

How soon will the Federal Trade Commission use its new powers to fight the racketeers? That depends on how soon evidence of individual consumer deceptions, misrepresentations and gyps are brought to the FTC's attention. And that in turn depends on how awakened and agressive are the consumer protection agencies and Better Business Bureaus across the land. And that, in turn, depends on you, the target.

Occupational Safety, Health Seminar Set

Employer and employe rights and responsibilities under the California Occupational Safety and Health Act, will be explained by the State Department of Industrial Relations at a seminar at the Disneyland Hotel Feb. 5.

The seminar will answer such questions as:

—What are employer record-keeping requirements and other rights and duties under the health act?

—What part does a union business agent play during an inspection?

—What are the consultative services that the act will provide?

Richard Wilkins, chief of the Division of Industrial Safety will speak on the general intent of the California Act during the morning session.

The afternoon session includes workshops on the state safety orders for general industry and construction, electrical safety orders, record keeping and the role of the Department of Health in the implementation of the act.

VTN Corp. Tells Loss

VTN Corp. of Irvine reported a net loss for the six months ended Nov. 30 of $79,200 or seven cents a share on revenues of $11,953,900 compared with net income of $547,700 or 55 cents a share on revenues of $10,606,100 for the like period in the preceding fiscal year.

30 seconds isn't enough.

At a time when people are demanding more informative advertising, television commercials are getting shorter.

The trend is to 30 second spots. Or time for about 50 words.

That's not enough to tell everything consumers want to know these days: prices, colors, guarantees, where to find it, what it's made of, and so much more.

Instead, advertise where you can tell a complete story without being a "fast talker."

In newspapers.

In newspapers you can give the full details—in 30 seconds the average reader can absorb 250 words, or 5 times as much information as from TV.

And newspapers let a consumer pause to evaluate, re-read, and even clip your ad as a reminder.

Newspapers have always been the hardest working advertising medium.

Basie Gets a Replacement

From Wire Services

When the call "Is there a drummer in the house?" went out in Akron, Bill Smith, a senior at Cuyahoga Falls High School, pushed his way from the balcony to the stage.

Jazz musician Count Basie needed a drummer to fill in because his regular, Sonny Payne, was late in arriving for a concert at the University of Akron.

Smith, who has been playing drums for eight years, told Basie he knew the arrangements and the Basie group "Plus One" performed two numbers until Payne arrived.

Elvis Presley, who has not appeared on a Memphis stage in 13 years, has scheduled three shows in his hometown March 16-17.

Col. Tom Parker, Presley's manager, said the 39-year-old former teen-age idol will appear for matinee and evening performances at the Mid-South Coliseum.

A former governor and an aspiring governor were among those joining in a party to celebrate Ida Brown's 96th birthday in Sacramento.

Mrs. Brown, mother of ex-Gov. Edmund G. Brown and grandmother of Edmund G. Brown, Jr., secretary of state of California, looked around at the family members and said: "I'm so grateful for everything."

Villalobos, the Democratic party candidate, beat a Costa Rican professional wrestler known as "The Buzzard" in a two of three-fall match.

Villalobos, who has made parachute jumps for publicity and ridden horses to dramatize the oil crisis, is one of seven candidates for the Feb. 3 election. He promises to rule 30 years if elected.

Anna Kashfi, who was married during the weekend in Las Vegas, says her 15-year-old son by Marlon Brando is embarrassed by his father's role in "Last Tango in Paris".

"For a bachelor to do a role like that would be more acceptable. But he has embarrassed his son," said Miss Kashfi, 37.

A former divorce attorney who is the publisher of a forthcoming new magazine "Marriage and Divorce" has been divorced by his wife.

"We had no serious problems with our marriage until I became involved with publishing the magazine," said Julian R. Warner. "And most of the conversation in our household began to deal, of course, with the subject of marital breakups.

"All this talk just caused my wife Janet to question our marriage seriously for the first time, and she just decided to end it," said Warner.

Governor Pens Ballad Of Bugging

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Democratic Gov. Milton Shapp is not only the chief executive of Pennsylvania, but also is a songwriter. A sample:

"Rose Mary, oh, Rose Mary, please relate
"To our Head of State
"He must make things perfectly clear, yes my dear.
"He must tell what the beep went on at Watergate."

"Like a lot of other people, I usually just write them songs and put them aside, but these were so timely," Shapp said after his song was recorded at the Sigma Sound Studio in Philadelphia

Sue Levinson, a Spanish teacher and sometime drama coach at Germantown High School, recorded the two songs, "No Shortage of Love" and "The Ballad of Rose Mary."

Abortion Amendment

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cardinal Terence Cooke, the archbishop of New York, wants a constitutional amendment to overturn the U.S. Supreme Court's decision last year allowing abortion on demand.

"Despite the opinion of the court, we still hold, together with millions of others in our society, that all human life is sacred — from conception through the nine months of growth and development in the womb, through infancy, childhood, adolescence, maturity, middle and old age, to death," he told worshippers at a service in St. Parick's Cathedral to honor Catholic couples who celebrate golden anniversaries.

Fairview Hospital Fetes 15th Year

A 15-year period of progress in which California's programs for treating the mentally retarded have been almost completely revolutionized will be observed Wednesday at Fairview State Hospital in Costa Mesa.

Highlight of the 15th anniversary of the opening of the hospital at 2501 Harbor Blvd. will be a 1 p.m. luncheon open to the public.

SPEAKERS AT the buffet will include Andrew Robertson, deputy director of the State Department of Health; William Long, chief of the agency's hospital services section for developmental disabilities; Rep. Andrew Hinshaw (R-Newport Beach); Dean McCoy, chairman of the Fairview State Hospital Advisory Board, and Costa Mesa Mayor Jack Hammett.

Guided tours of the hospital's wards and service centers, including its school, will begin at 2 p.m., according to Dr. Irving Stone.

He is in charge of the anniversary celebration, as community liaison director for the hospital.

Some officials say Fairview may have the greatest degree of community involvement of any such facility in the state.

"ONE OF THE most important aspects which has marked the progress of the hospital is the total community involvement," says Dr. Stone.

He cited such groups as Fairview Families and Friends Inc., which raises money for equipment and facilities not budgeted by the state; volunteer workers who come to help with patients, and the state's Foster Grandparents program.

Since Fairview opened doors to patients Jan. 5, 1959, with a capacity for well over 2,000 patients, it has reduced its number of hospitalized clients to 1,700 or so.

PROGRAMS PIONEERED by the Fairview staff under Supt. Dr. Anthony N. Toto which are being applied elsewhere in the state hospital system are largely credited for the decrease.

A system in which each county has a regional center for treatment of the mentally retarded and the handling of their cases has also contributed to reducing the number of patients in the hospital at a given time, officials said.

They range in age from a few days to 87 years and — except for those with severe, multiple handicaps that require lifelong nursing —are at Fairview on a limited-term basis for specialized treatment programs.

Last year Plymouth compacts outsold every other compact in America, including such popular cars as Chevrolet's Nova and Ford's Maverick. We think there are a lot of good reasons for this. So we're going to list some of them in the event you may be considering a small car this year.

Recently published test results by Popular Science on '73 cars (with figures adjusted by Popular Science to reflect 1974 model changes and the results of E.P.A. tests) show our Duster with a "Slant-Six" engine can go farther on a gallon of gas than a comparable Maverick or Nova.

More room for hips, legs, shoulders, and heads.
We try to make sure our small cars aren't too small. Duster and Scamp have enough room for five. Our four-door Valiant has enough room for six passengers. And it has more hip, leg, shoulder and head room than either Maverick or Nova.

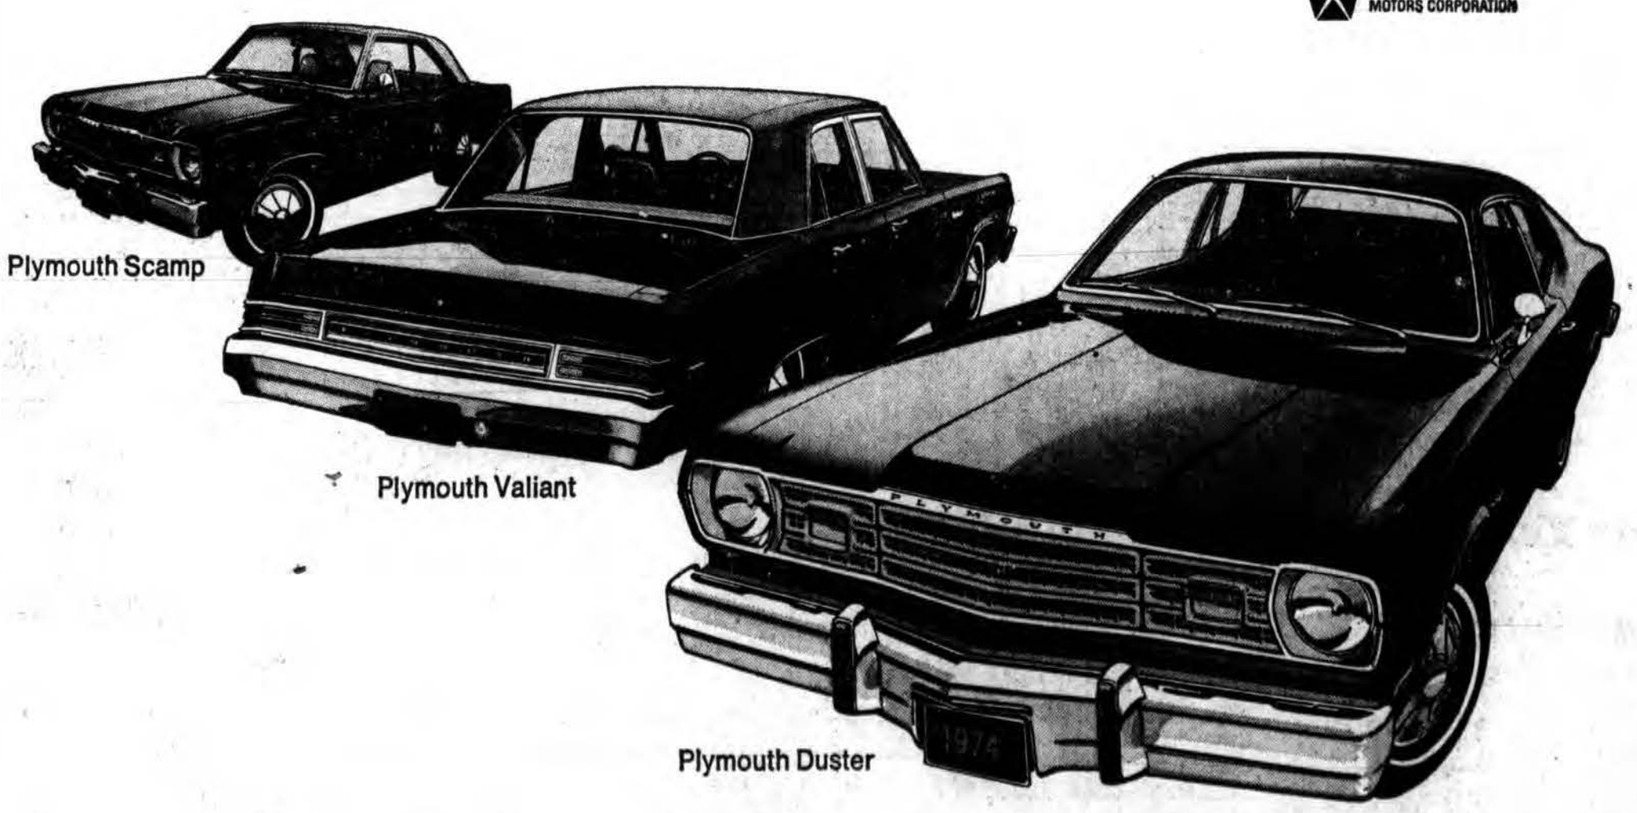

More trunk space.
For example, Scamp has more trunk space than Maverick or Nova. And Duster and Valiant have bigger trunks than Scamp. In short, we make small cars with big trunks.

Plymouth compacts are priced low.
Depending on where you live, Plymouth Duster is either priced right down with, or less than VW's most popular model. After all, one of the first things anybody considers when buying a new car is the price. And in a comparison of manufacturer's suggested retail prices, we stand up very well.

Chrysler engineering. The kind of engineering that goes into our most expensive Chryslers and Imperials. So you get things like a standard Electronic Ignition System, with no points or condenser to replace. So ignition tune-ups are less expensive and come less often.

Nobody has more compacts to choose from than your Chrysler-Plymouth dealer.
He'll be happy to give you a test drive in any one of them. He's not satisfied with last year's sales success. This year, he wants you.

'Y' Not Socialize?

By JO OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Take several former teachers and secretaries, an ex-post office clerk, a former office manager, a registered nurse and numerous housewives.

Add an interesting schedule of lectures, socials, trips and surprises, and the enticing mixture is called YW-Women.

Formed to give women an opportunity to meet new friends and learn without the red tape of enrolling for a class or the commitment of joining a club, YW-Women also offers the benefit of free child care during programs.

It is a good way for newcomers to the county to meet people and make friends, and, as Virginia Brown put it, YW-Women affords an opportunity to keep up with new trends.

With only one fund-raising activity, a Shower of Flowers luncheon in the spring, the pace of the group is relaxed.

VARIED PROGRAMS

Oct. 4, quilting and other crafts; Oct. 18, learn how to select a wardrobe that is right for you; Nov. 1, the wonderful world of color — using color in decorating your home; Nov. 15, selecting and using wines, and Jan. 3, slimming down after the holidays.

Future offerings will include party ideas, Feb. 7; yoga, Feb. 21; flower arranging, March 21; words of wisdom from a psychologist, April 4; basic car repairs for women, May 2, and travel on a budget, May 16.

The prcie is right, also, for the fee of $6 per year includes coffee at each meeting and child care ($5 is for the Y; $1 is dues).

The 70 current members come from all over the county, some from as far away as Mission Viejo and Laguna Hills. They were attracted for a variety of reasons.

LIKES BALANCE

Mrs. Brown, a retired teacher, joined to "follow interests I didn't have time for when working. I enjoy the balance of younger and mature women. They are sincere and friendly."

Barbara Fuller, a former secretary, came "to make new friends and expose my preschool child to other children." Almost all of the women polled also said they came for friendship and fellowship.

It is the lament of Ruth Schell, president of the YW-Women, and Eleanor Weir, executive director of the YWCA, that more women do not know about the group in particular and the YWCA program in general.

"We have quality," said Mrs. Weir. "We are helping women prepare for the changes that are all around them in life. We are both stability and a change agent in a changing world."

She emphasized that the YWCA program is geared to the working woman because of its evening classes and low cost.

SUPPORT GROUP

Mrs. Schell, a Santa Ana resident, added that YW-Women is important for the support role the group plays for the YWCA.

"It's like a church auxiliary," she said, pointing out the more than $1,000 the women raised through their annual fashion show, Shower of Flowers, last year.

The women also assist with the YWCA's Flea Market at Christmas and any other activities where volunteer help is needed.

"Women need the social contact and the enlightenment," Mrs. Schell added.

Other officers of the group, which meets at 9:30 a.m. the first and third Thursdays at the YWCA in Santa Ana, are Marilyn Hansen, vice president, and Barbara O'Donnell, treasurer.

Chairmen and co-chairmen are Alberta Thiry and Hazelbelle Covert, hospitality; Sylvia Hetrick and Milani Demarco, publicity, and Phyllis Troudt, telephone.

Perhaps the purpose of the group was best stated by C. Bedord, who said the reason she comes to YW-Women meetings is "change."

Anyone wishing further information about the group may call the Y at 542-3577.

Passion Not Past

Oldie Still Good

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have read with amusement the letters in your column from women who seem to be in perpetual search for sexual ecstasy. Take it from an old lady who is past 60—it's all in the head.

Recently I was involved in a minor accident. While the insurance adjuster, a handsome young man in his 30s, was writing out the claim, I felt a sudden surge of passion. (I had a hysterectomy 10 years ago!)

Had I been 30 years younger I'm sure I'd have made a pass at the young man. So you see, Ann, where sex is concerned, there's a very thin line between reality and fantasy.—GUTTED BUT NOT DEAD

DEAR NOT DEAD: There's a great deal of fantasy connected with sexual desire, in fact, lust is loaded with it! This doesn't mean you were imagining those feelings. A woman in her 60s can be far from sexually dead—"gutted" or not— and your experience proved it!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why do people have such dirty minds? I refer to that mealy-mouthed gossip who noticed that a certain girl in the office always wears the same outfit on Thursday that she wore on Wednesday.

The cat observed: "Her dress is usually pretty wrinkled—and her hair is a mess." She concluded that the girl has a steady arrangement and doesn't sleep home on Wednesday night.

That letter made me furious because last Wednesday night I went directly from work to a friend's house following a frantic phone call. Her husband is overseas and her labor pains had started.

The poor kid has no relatives in town and I am her only close friend. When I arrived, the taxi had already been called to take her to the hospital. She was waiting for me with instructions on what to do for the two pre-schoolers.

Her 2-year-old had a terrible cold. I slept on the couch and held that child in my arms all night. The following morning the woman next door took the kids and I went to work looking like

Ann

I had lost a rassling match with two gorillas.

Sorry I couldn't have turned up looking fresh as a daisy in order to protect my reputation, but these are the facts, Ma'm.—NUTS TO THE GOSSIP

DEAR N.T.G.: Let's hear it for a Good Samaritan with wrinkled clothes and messed-up hair. Thanks for writing!

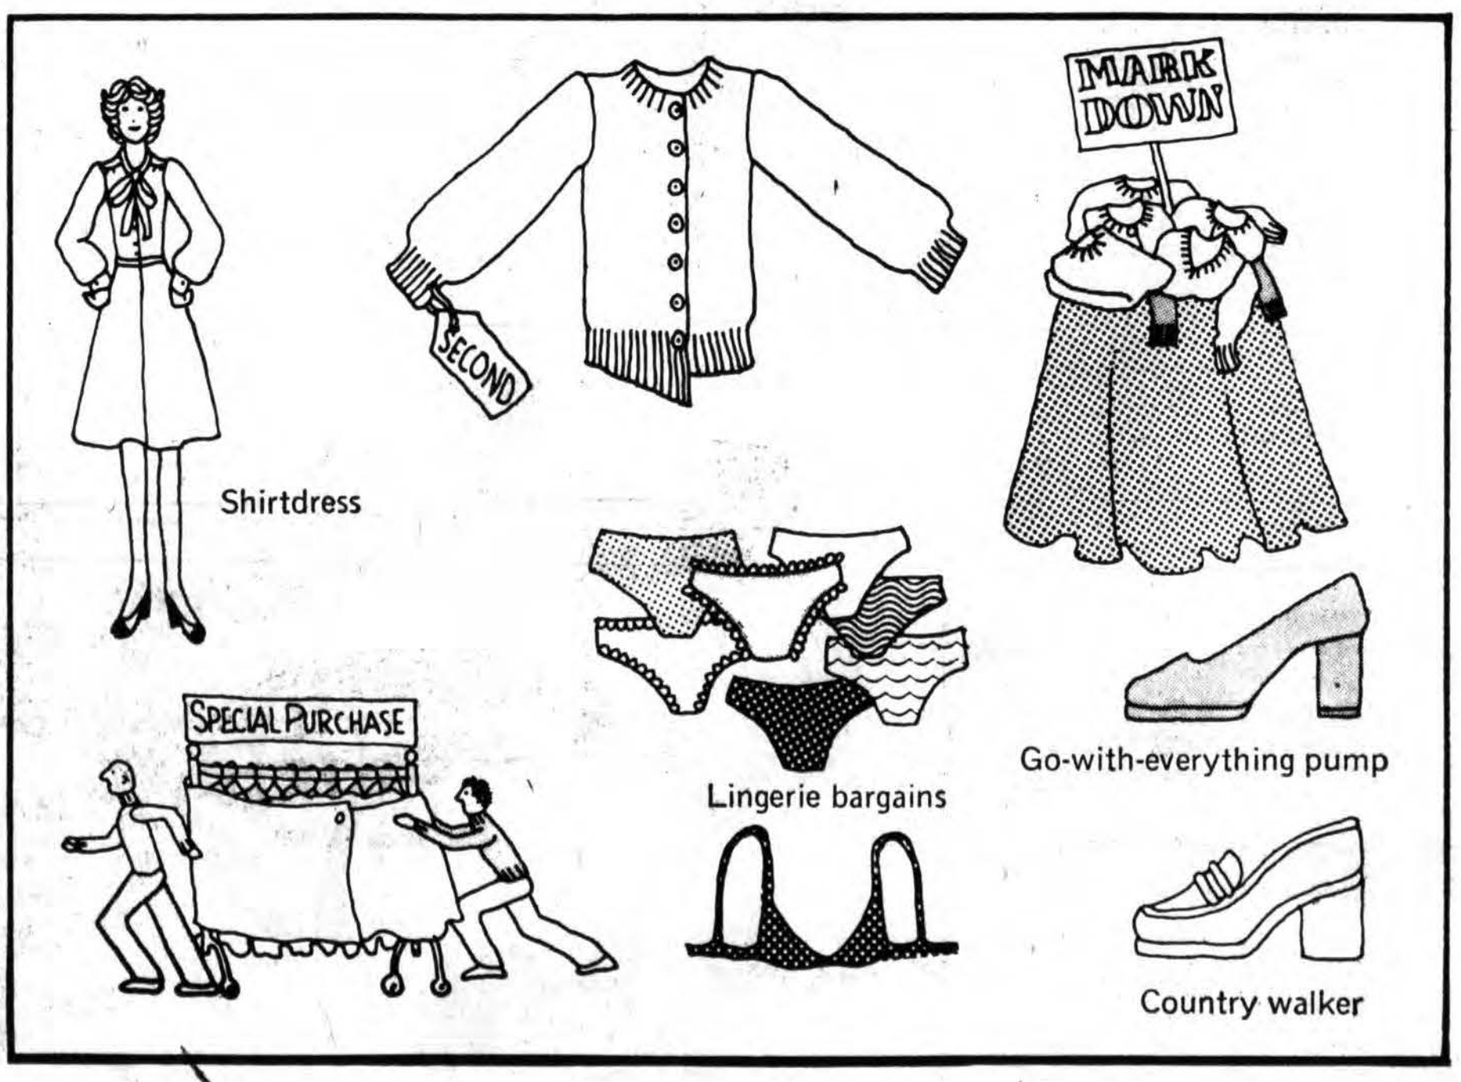

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You advised mothers to teach their daughters to sew, cook, fix hems and make beds. You then went on to suggest that fathers teach their sons to be "fixers" of whatever might break in the house.

Where have you been these last 10 years, Annie? Don't you know that His and Her duties are things of the past? Men should know how to sew and cook and make beds and women should be able to fix faucets, repair appliances, change tires and repair whatever breaks.

Assigning certain jobs to certain sexes is unfair, unpleasant and impractical. We share the work at our house. But how much easier it would be for both of us if, when we attended school, home ec and woodshop had been compulsory subjects for everyone.—OVER 60

DEAR OVER: Right you are. Odd jobs know no gender. These past several years have seen a blurring of the sexes. Today, precious few things are exclusively His and Hers. In fact, we have trouble labeling He and She. Thanks for writing.

What kind of wedding goes with today's new life styles? Does anything go? Ann Landers's completely new "The Bride's Guide" tells what's right for today's weddings. Wise Find Good Sale Buys

January is big sale time and, faced with racks and racks of "bargains," it can be hard to know what's a good buy and what isn't. Here are some tips on the sales you'll be seeing advertised in the local papers.

An ad for a "special purchase" sale means the items are not the store's regular merchandise marked down, but merchandise bought from one or two manufacturers — maybe an overstock of clothes already too late for the regular selling season — at a low price.

You'll find good bargains, but don't expect to find that sweater you saw in the fall but couldn't afford.

When the store marks down its regular merchandise the ad will usually say "mark-down" and this is when you'll find that sweater.

A sale that advertises "seconds" or "irregulars" means there's some irregularity in the merchandise. It can be slight or a real flaw. Just be certain you know what's wrong with anything before you buy so you won't be sorry later.

Pick a classic style like a trench, duffle, wrap or a short jacket coat that looks terrific with pants. These are never out of fashion.

A fur jacket, if you've been wanting one but couldn't afford it, is a good buy now. The little hip ones will still make smashing cover for pants next winter.

A sweater or shirt in a great off-beat color may have seemed risky at full price, but on sale it could be just the brightener you need now and later.

A pair of good classic pumps or high-heeled moccasin shoes will always work. A simple sling - back pump would also be a good buy.

Check out the lingerie sales that are in full force now. You may find your favorite bra on sale, a supply of bikini pants or some beautiful sleepwear. All of these things are likely to be in a mark-down sale in January, according to Glamour magazine.

Climber Reaches New Heights

Helen Higby, a 26-year-old part-time librarian, is believed to be the first woman to climb Grand Teton Peak in the winter. A diminutive 100 pounds, the former New Yorker made the summit earlier this month with her husband and five other climbers in the annual Pat Petzoldt expedition.

$3 Bargain in Mexico Worth a Few Scents

By ERMA BOMBECK

AT WIT'S END

MEXICO: I didn't really write this column in Mexico, but I like to give it a little class once in awhile.

Actually, I was across the border just long enough to drink three Kaopectate Stingers, consult my Spanish dictionary and say, "Ricardo Montalban, your zipper is on fire" and purchase a quart of French perfume for $3.

The latter is important because my husband has always accused me of being lousy at dickering. He once told me I couldn't sell a paper route two weeks before Christmas. That is, until I got all that French perfume for $3.

"I still don't see how you did it," he said.

"Face it, Preppie," I said, "you are married to a financial giant."

"I hope you're a giant at fixing fuel pumps because I think our gas line is leaking."

He stopped the car and checked, then returned and said, "The smell is coming from inside the car. I think it's your French perfume."

"It's a little strong," I admitted. "But give it a chance. When the alcohol burns off, you won't be able to keep your hands off me." We rode home with the windows down.

The kids were the next to notice the perfume. One of them said, "Why do we have a bug repellent burning in the winter?"

"It's not a bug repellent," I said.

"Then how come the bird just died?"

"It's not dead. I can still see it gasping."

My friend Mayva didn't get a chance to whiff it until a couple of days later. "Do you like it?" I said, waving the cap under her nose.

"Like it? I haven't smelled anything like that since we left the cat in our cabin over the summer. What is it?"

"It's a bottle of French perfume that I brought back from Mexico for three dollars."

"That's all they paid you? You should have held out for more."

"Look, Mayva," I said, "I've had enough of your innuendoes. I am going to try to be more of a woman so he can be more of a man."

"It won't be easy," said Mayva, picking up the bottle and reading the label. "This says 'Por Homme,' which in French means 'For Men.'"

So, it's more of a challenge with after-shave cologne.

Humrich is a graduate of Servite High School in Anaheim and attended Fullerton College, UCLA, UC Irvine, Sonoma State College and Cal State Fullerton.

Horoscope: Pisces Tunes Up

WEDNESDAY
JANUARY 16

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): One who handles your finances should be asked some penetrating questions. Laugh at your own foibles and be sure others are not taking themselves too seriously. You have right to protect interests. Know it and speak up about it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Lie low; play waiting game. Study Aries message for valid hint. Don't push. Instead, laugh and let mate, partner lead the way. You do best now by observing, planning and planting seeds for future. Check legal ramifications of any proposal.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20. Be ready for change of scenery and "mind." Means what seemed set, cemented is subject to flexibility. Some of your most provocative qualities surge to forefront. Personality sparkles and only a few of us know you are chewing fingernails over recent assignment.

CANCER (June 2-July 22). Family member surprises by offering hand of reconciliation. Be mature enough to accept — graciously. Taurus, Libra could play prominent roles. What appears an irritant could be encouragement through proverbial side door.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Avoid self-deception. See situations, individuals as they really are, not through haze of rose-colored glasses. Real estate values could command some attention. Garrulous person may be trying to get something for next to nothing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Build for future. Be aware of time and timing element. Older person wants to cooperate — if you so permit. Capricorn, Cancer could be in picture. Hold off on short trip, if practical. Directions and messages may not be accurate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Pull in money reins. Don't continue to pursue losing proposition. One who leans and whines is not deserving of further consideration. Know it and take appropriate action. Aries could be in picture. Finish rather than begin project.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): One close to you is aggressive, restless and aching for a fight. Know it and exercise restraint. You are on verge of receiving fine offer, chance for new deal. Avoid antagonizing partner, mate. Adversity will boomerang in your favor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Pace should be slowed. There are hidden elements which need your attention. Take nothing for granted. Check behind the scenes. Older person may be envious and attempt to block plans. Clear skeletons from closet.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Refuse to become involved in combat of friends. Means some will try to draw you in middle — and then turn on you. Keep distance — and sense of humor. Those who do battle today may be staunchest of allies tomorrow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Stick to course leading to goal. Don't permit yourself to be sidetracked. Check details in thorough manner. You could make valuable discovery — if persistent. Keep books in order. Organize. Deal from position of strength.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Movement, creativity are featured. You shake off lethargy. Plenty of action indicated — dialogue is sharp. Opportunities multiply. Key now is to analyze. Find reasons. Check message which may have gone astray.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are spiritual and introspective. June should be your significant month of 1974.

Troth Told at Tea

During a champagne tea in their Newport Beach home Mr. and Mrs. Robert Joseph Hayes announced the engagement of their daughter, Lucinda Jean Hayes to Robert Marinus Contant.

Miss Hayes, a graduate of Newport High School, now is a senior at the University of Southern California where she is a member of Delta Gamma.

A 1970 National Charity League debutante, she also studied at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo.

Her fiance, son of Marinus Contant Jr. of Corona del Mar and the late Mrs. Contant, is a graduate of Corona del Mar High School and California State University, San Diego where he majored in business and real estate. He also attended Chapman College World Campus Afloat.

Maras Scores 30

Slow UCI Start Ruins Upset Bid

Special to the Daily Pilot

NORFOLK, Va. — Jerry Maras scored 30 points and Scott Magnuson grabbed 18 rebounds but it wasn't enough as a second half rally fell short for the UC Irvine basketball team Monday night at Old Dominion College, here, 84-77.

Coach Tim Tift's UCI Anteaters were down, 68-65, with four minutes to play and had possession of the ball before a near capacity crowd of 4,610 in the school's field house.

A missed shot forced the Anteaters to play a trap press to get possession but the Big Blues of Old Dominion converted free throw attempts to put the decision out of reach.

"We totally outplayed them in the second half," a disappointed Tift said following the game. "I'm proud of the way our players came back. They made a gutsy effort but our rally fell short.

"I wish we could get them fired-up in the first half and maybe things would be different."

UCI fell behind, 45-32, at the intermission but outscored the seventh-ranked college division team, 45-39 in the second half.

This was the narrowest margin of victory for Old Dominion at home this season and brings the Big Blue record to 10-2. UCI is currently 8-5.

Each team had 37 field goals with the Big Blues hitting 10 free throws to only three for the Anteaters. UCI didn't have a free throw attempt until 8:22 remained in the game with Old Dominion picking up three on a five-point play in the first half and five in the closing stages of the action.

The five-point play came on a shooting foul with both shots converted. A technical was also called because a UCI player raised both hands instead of one. Then Old Dominion scored on the inbounds pass.

Gary Eubanks, a starter before he was injured more than a week ago, saw limited action but didn't score.

Maras hit 15 of 24 field goal attempts and nabbed nine rebounds. UCI had 46 to 44 for its hosts in rebounding.

Joel Copeland, Old Dominion's All-American candidate who was highly-recruited by Maryland, hit 29 points on 12 field goals and five free throws.

The Anteaters continued their hot shooting from the field with a 51 percent completion figure. In the second half, it was 21 of 36 for 66 percent.

Wednesday night UCI will conclude the eastern swing at the University of Richmond. The next home game is a week from tonight in Crawford Hall against Cal State (Northridge).

It's Another Super Bowl Mishmash

Sometimes I wonder how a nation as large as America with such a supposedly sophisticated sports audience can annually fall for an overplayed, overrated event which seven times out of eight turns out to be a leading candidate for bore of the year laurels.

With the exception of the 1971 Super Bowl, won by Baltimore, the much-heralded yearly pro title decider has been a gross flop. One team has dominated to the point where you welcomed the commercial timeouts and dreaded the return to live action.

GLENN WHITE

Yet people plan abstinence from normal living one day every year — a day called Super Sunday by those who have tried to make the Super Bowl comparable to the Last Supper.

Newspapers devote more attention to one day of football than they do to two weeks of the Olympic Games. And the wire services go berserk with stories on players, water boys, bellhops, pennant salesmen and anyone else they can even remotely associate with the Super Bowl game.

I devoted 30 minutes of my Sunday watching that debacle from Houston, wondering why I shut myself off from the rest of the world to partake in such mishmash.

Assuredly, that error will not again be repeated. .at least not until we get a few Super Bowl games that live up to the inference of the name.

The U.S. Davis Cup team's loss to Colombia last weekend is comparable to the U.S. basketball defeat at the hands of Russia in the 1972 Olympic Games.

Neither would have transpired had we simply sent our best players.

Our basketball representatives at Munich wouldn't have been fifth string on a national team made up of the country's best talent. And the Davis Cup team we didn't send to Bogota (Stan Smith, Arthur Ashe, Marty Riessen, Cliff Richey· Bob Lutz and Jimmy Connors) would have taken Colombia with about the same ease in which the Russian army would conquer Swaziland.

Long Beach Goes to Court

LOS ANGELES — Cal State (Long Beach's) Glenn McDonald and Roscoe Pondexter, who played Saturday night at San Jose State under court order, were scheduled to go to court today.

Coach Lute Olson of the 49ers said a U.S. District Court hearing was set for the university to show cause why it made the two players ineligible a week ago as a result of NCAA charges that they entered school under fraudulent test scores.

A temporary restraining order was issued late last Friday which enabled the players to rejoin the team.

"We want to show everybody that we're the team that should be going to the playoffs," McDonald said Monday, when asked if the NCAA action that bars the school from post-season play for three years has given an added incentive to win.

Olson, a former Marina High coach and a Fountain Valley resident, said the suit, filed on the players' behalf by attorney Harry Simon of Long Beach, "revolves around due process" since the NCAA rejected an appeal without a hearing.

"I'm speaking as an individual," Olson said. "The NCAA hasn't talked to Glenn since October of 1972. They waited a year and a half and dropped the bomb. It doesn't make sense."

In San Francisco

Evert Forced to Rally

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chris Evert, in her West Coast debut, struggled before playing like the poised tennis player she is at age 19.

"I was too tight," she admitted after a 6-7, 6-3, 6-1 opening round victory over Martina Navratilova, 16, of Czechoslovakia Monday night in the $50,000 San Francisco Pro tennis tournament.

"I knew it was going to be tough," the Fort Lauderdale teenager added. "I'm starting my first full year on the pro tour and I'm playing in my first West Coast tournament.

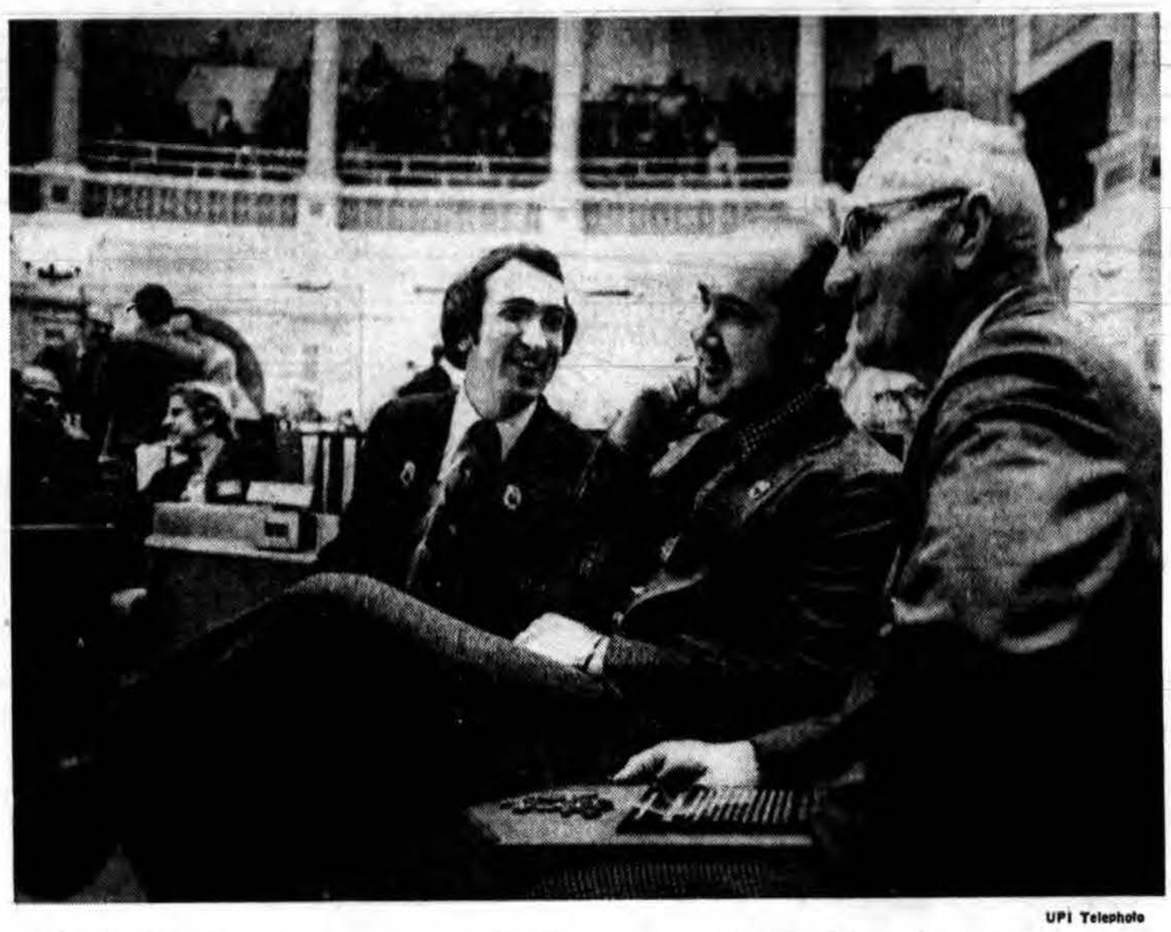

"There was a big buildup. I'm glad I pulled it out."

Billie Jean King also had early troubles in her first round match Monday night.

She beat another Eastern European teen-ager, Mine Jausovec of Yugoslovia, 7-6, 6-3, and might have been an upset victim if she hadn't been sharp with her serve throughout the match.

Other opening day winners included fourth-seeded Kerry Melville 7-5, 7-6 over Kerry Harris, fifth-seeded Rosie Casals 6-4, 6-2 over Glynis Coles, and unseeded Karen Krantzcke 6-3, 6-2 over sixth seeded Francoise Durr.

Following the San Francisco tourney, the tour moves to Mission Viejo next Monday.

Sports in Brief

Police Guard Dolphins; Soccer Player Killed

MIAMI — Police threw a tight ring of security around Miami Dolphins' coaches and players upon their arrival at Miami International Airport Monday because of telephoned threats.

"What happened was that the City of Miami Police Department received a couple of calls threatening coach Don Shula and the team and security measures were taken," said Dade County Public Safety Department spokesman Frank Ramos.

Four policemen rushed up the ramp when the door of the Dolphins' airplane was opened. Police surrounded Shula and players on their departure from the airplane and accompanied Shula on a podium where he addressed 2,000 fans who welcomed the National Football League's champions.

"We don't want this out of proportion," said Ramos. "God knows what it was. But security measures were taken as a precaution."

● Player Killed

MEXICO CITY — Amador Silva Madero of the American team protested to the referee as soon as Eusebio Rosas had scored for the San Mateo Soccer Club.

It so angered Rosas that he ran to the sidelines, pulled a pistol from his clothes and shot Silva to death.

The game between San Mateo and the America team was under way at Cuautitlan, 21 miles outside Mexico City Sunday.

● Coach Fired

VANCOUVER — Bill McCreary has been fired as coach of the Vancouver Canucks and replaced by Phil Maloney, the National Hockey League club said Monday.

● Kings in Action

MONTREAL — The traveling Los Angeles Kings hope they can snap a 15-game jinx when they meet the Montreal Canadiens tonight in a National Hockey League game. It's on TV, Channel 5 at 6 o'clock.

● LSU Falls

STARKVILLE, Miss. — Larry Fry led a second-half surge that carried Mississippi State past a depleted Louisiana State 89-75 Monday in a Southeastern Conference college basketball game in which the Tigers finished with only four players.

LSU coach Dale Brown suspended seven Tigers earlier Monday for breaking curfew here the night before the game. That left LSU with only five players dressed for the contest.

King Named Top Female Athlete of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Billie Jean King, who beat Bobby Riggs in her continuing crusade to upgrade the image of women in sports, was named Female Athlete of the Year by The Associated Press today.

Ms. King, as she prefers to be addressed, was the overwhelming choice in the voting of AP member sports writers and broadcasters. She received 487 votes, compared with 146 for Olga Korbut, the Russian gymnast who received the honor last year for her Olympic performance.

Kathy Whitworth, who was Athlete of the Year in 1965 and 1966, was a distant third with 34 votes, followed by Margaret Court of Australia, winner of the French, Australian and United States open tennis championships, with 20; swimmer Keena Rothhammer, 11; track star Mary Decker, 9, and tennis pro Chris Evert, 7.

The award is accompanied by the Babe Didrikson Zaharias Trophy, presented annually by George Zaharias in memory of his wife, the late golfing great who was AP Athlete of the Year six times.

Billie Jean, who also was named AP Athlete of the Year in 1967, was overshadowed by Mrs. Court on the pro tennis tournament trail. The only major international title to come her way was Wimbledon, which she won for the fifth time in her career.

Final Word On Walton Due Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The UCLA Bruins could be without star center Bill Walton when they return to the scene of their last defeat but if coach John Wooden is alarmed he doesn't show it.

"I'm assuming we will not have him," Wooden said Monday, when Walton's bruised back muscle kept him from practicing. "If we do, it'll be a plus — a big plus."

Walton, the senior who already has been honored as college basketball's outstanding player the past two years, was hurt Jan. 7 against Washington State. He missed UCLA's 86th and 87th consecutive triumphs last weekend against California and Stanford.

The top-ranked Bruins leave Wednesday for Chicago and a game Thursday night against Iowa and then move on to South Bend, Ind., to meet second-ranked Notre Dame Saturday on national television.

UCLA's last defeat was 89-82 at Notre Dame in January 1971.

"If Bill can practice today without any complications, he will go on the trip," Wooden said.

Trainer Ducky Drake, who gives the 6-foot-11 Walton twice-daily whirlpool massage, ultrasound and bending exercises, said Walton "is moving much better. He's walking normally but he can't move quickly."

Wooden said Walton told him he has lost 15 pounds since the injury. Walton started the season listed at 220.

Dr. Gerald Finnerman, UCLA team physician, said, "It's a day-to-day proposition."

Wooden said "There's no way to tell just how long Bill will be out."

Wooden said Walton's absence has been good "in a sense" for the team because "all the players have the opportunity to see what they can do as a team without Bill.

"A lot of people think this is just a one-man team. It is not. My players don't think they're as good as they would be with Bill, but they don't think they'd be unbeatable without him or with him. And I want them to keep thinking that way."

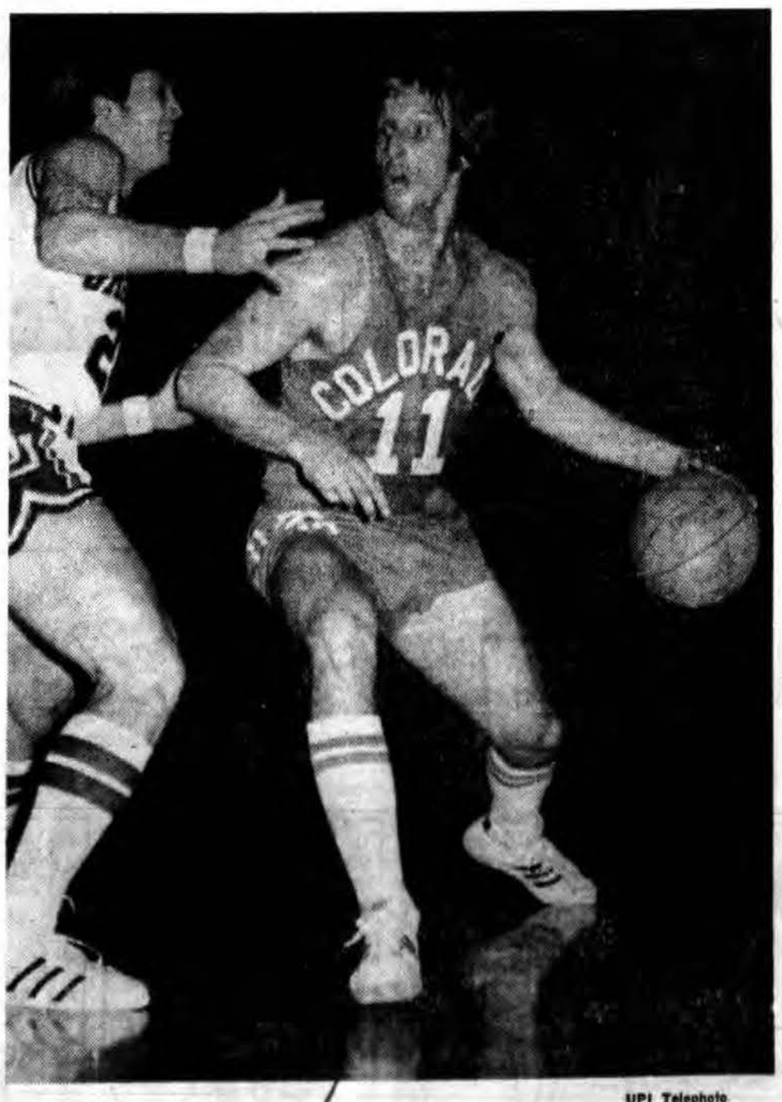

Wooden said there is pressure to maintain an unbeaten record but he refused to overly emphasize the Notre Dame game, just as he played down the North Carolina State game a month ago.

"Our long winning streak has not been a point of emphasis, even in my thoughts. When we got close to it (60 games), it was of concern, but once we broke it, the streak ceased being important. Conference games and tournament games are of utmost importance to us."

In Walton's absence, Wooden said Tommy Curtis and Keith Wilkes have asserted themselves as leaders. Ralph Drollinger, 7-foot-1 sophomore, and Rich Washington, 6-9 freshman, "have stepped in well under a lot of pressure," he said.

Wooden was on the casualty list himself Monday. The 64-year-old coach pulled a hamstring muscle Sunday morning during his daily five-mile walk.

"I'll be all right," he said. "I'm worried more about Bill's condition than I am my own."

All-stars Clash

NBA Expansion Looms; San Diego in Running

SEATTLE (AP) — "I think the league has leveled off and this might be a proper time to expand," East coach Tom Heinsohn said prior to tonight's 24th National Basketball Association All-star game at the Seattle Center Coliseum.

While 24 of the league's finest players — 12 each from the Eastern and Western conferences — were preparing for the All-star clash before a record Seattle crowd of 14,360 and a national television audience, expansion to an 18th team for the 1974-75 season loomed big on the NBA horizon.

On TV Tonight Channel 2 at 6:30

The possible addition of another franchise for next season, expected to be the major topic of discussion at today's late-breaking Board of Governors meeting, probably was triggered by the expiration in Congress on Jan. 4, of the merger proposal between the NBA and the American Basketball Association.

Having failed in an effort to interlock with the younger ABA, the NBA, apparently now has decided to expand. Where it will go still was a matter of conjecture, but several cities reportedly were in the running, including a late entry, San Diego.

Although San Diego previously failed as an NBA city, moving to Houston at the outset of the 1971-72 season after four years in the league and now flopping as an ABA site, it appears to have forged back into the picture with the reported presence of two groups from that city attending the all-star game.

Meanwhile the West team has a superiority in height with 7-foot-2 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee, and a pair of 6-11 centers in Bob Lanier of Detroit and Nate Thurmond of Golden State.

The East starting lineup included 6-9 Dave Cowens at center, 6-5 John Havlicek of Boston and 6-5 Lou Hudson of Atlanta at forwards, and 6-5 Peter Maravich of Atlanta and 6-4 Walt Frazier of New York at guards.

Starting along with the towering Jabbar for the West were 6-7 forwards Rich Barry of Golden State and Chet Walker of Chicago, 6-4, guard Geoff Petrie of Portland and 6-1 guard Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles.

Loop Lead On Line At Laguna

The elevator ride to the top of the Orange League basketball standings was a brief one for San Clemente High. Whether the Tritons' stay there will be equally brief will be tested tonight when they tangle with Laguna Beach at 7 at Laguna Beach.

In another league game involving Orange Coast area schools, Dana Hills is at University, also at 7.

After only two games, San Clemente is alone in first place with two loop victories and has won its last four games in a row. It's an unfamiliar position for coach Stan DeMaggio's Tritons, who struggled in the Crestview League prior to this season.

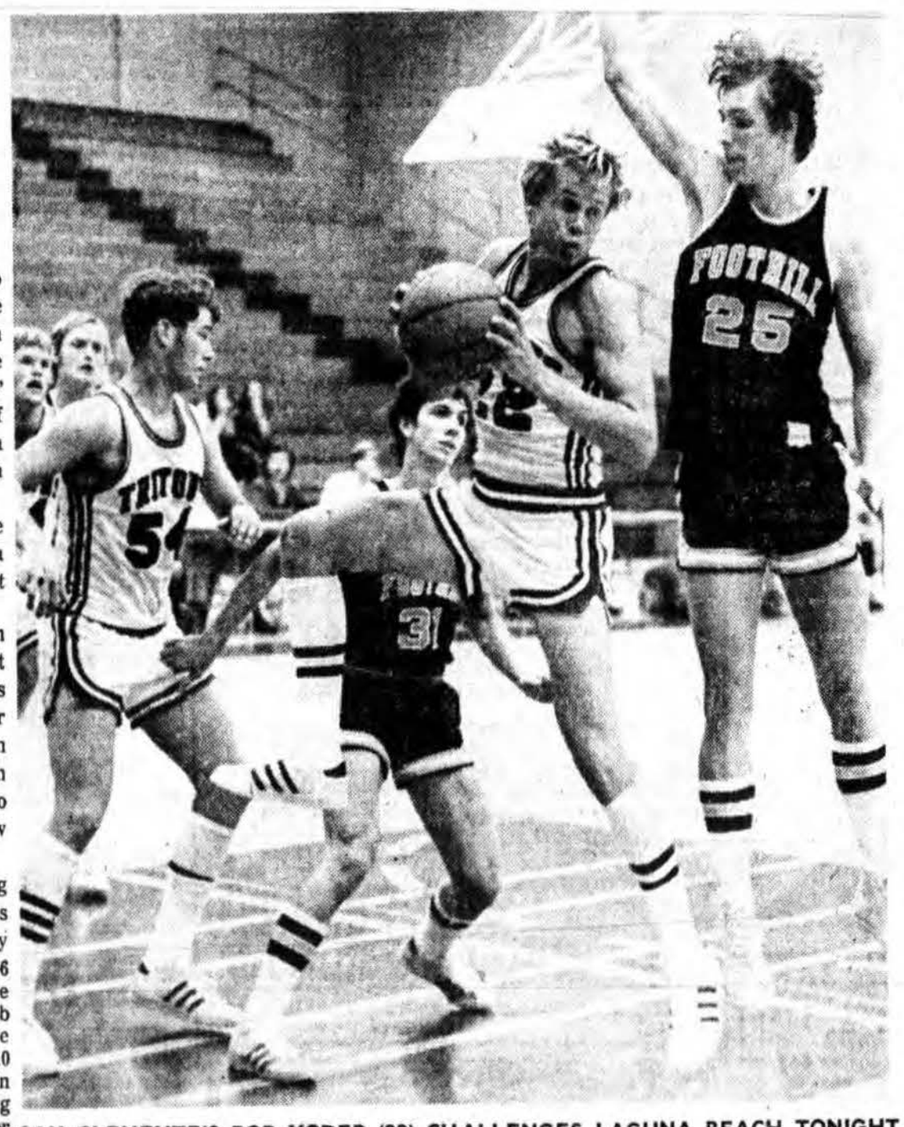

San Clemente, now sporting an 8-4 seasonal record, has won with superior board play from 6-7 Ted Kalota and 6-6 Dan Dodd and the outside shooting of guard-forward Bob Yoder. Kalota and Dodd have chipped in at better than 10 points per game each in league play while controlling the backboards while Yoder has averaged 15 points a game against loop competition.

The Tritons will have size superiority, but will have to handle a quicker and sometimes hot-shooting Laguna Beach squad.

Coach Jerry Fair's Laguna Beach Artists, 6-6 on the season and 1-1 in league play have been an on-again, off-again unit but one capable of extending any team to the limit.

No Laguna Beach starter measures in taller than 6-4, but the Artists have great scoring potential from forward Dave Kiesselbach (26 in his last game), and guards Frank Wright, Mike Serrano and Mark Rathbun.

The University-Dana Hills matchup pits two teams who opened strongly but dropped league encounters Friday to stand at 1-1 in loop play.

Pivotal Cage Clash For Diablos Tonight

Mission Viejo High's Diablos invade the confines of Villa Park High's Spartans tonight in a pivotal Crestview League basketball clash.

Tipoff is at 7 and for coach Pat Roberts' Diablos it's a chance to get back into the championship race after splitting their first two circuit tiffs with El Modena and Saddleback.

Roberts will be going with the same lineup that was successful against Saddleback. The Diablos were paced by Dean Egertson, Marty Zogg, Bob Beane, Dave Harris and Dave Patterson.

Roberts' major worry with coach Ron Lindsay's Spartans is the combination of 6-4 forward Steve Nelson, the running offense and a man-to-man defense.

Costa Mesa High Grid Job Attracts Seventy Candidates

Costa Mesa High athletic director Bob Hunter reports when the deadline fell for varsity football coach applications Friday at noon, more than 70 replies were received.

"When we made the announcement of the opening," says Hunter, "we made it clear we wanted someone with three years of successful varsity coaching experience or the equivalent.

"We'll be able to eliminate some right off the top, but we have a lot of work ahead of us."

The plan is to whittle the list to 20 or so and then conduct interviews.

STEVE BRAND

"I don't see how we could come up with a name before mid or even late February," says Hunter.

Costa Mesa apparently has contacted some of the top names in the business, however. When asked about Temple City's Bob Hitchcock, whose teams have won four consecutive CIF 2-A titles, Hunter quickly said, "we contacted him but he said we'd have to hire his assistants, too."

Hunter said that was impossible.

There are only two indoor track meets in the Los Angeles area and Orange Coast area high school athletes will be well represented in both.

The Sunkist meet Saturday night at the Sports Arena will have virtually every top track athlete fro mthis area in the high school sectin, which starts at 5:45.

On Feb. 8, the Los Angeles Times meet will feature a two-mile race where Marina's Gary Blume and Eric Huist of Laguna Beach will certainly be invited.

One of the early entrants to the Sunkist meet, Tom Lloy of Edison High, has written the directors of that meet announcing he will be unable to attend. It seems he's tossing basketballs through the hoop at such a prolific rate he hasn't been able to practice running.

Late entries not yet announced for the Sunkist meet include the Newport Harbor 640 relay team (Brian Theriot, Vinnie Mulroy, Pete Brown and Bryant Humann) and Corona del Mar's standout 2-miler, Brian Hunsaker.

When Cal State (Long Beach) basketball coach Lute Olson says, "I may have reconsidered taking the head coaching job here if I knew we were being investigated." doesn't he really mean, "if I knew the punishment (three years without post-season play, no TV exposure and a limit on scholarships) was going to be so severe, I might have reconsidered?"

It doesn't seem possible Lute wasn't aware an investigation was being conducted since those on the inside speculated that it was the investigation, more than anything else, which drove Jerry Tarkanian away from Long Beach.

Rumors have been flying that a major hand-slapping was imminent ever since Tarkanian moved in. However, when the name Ed Ratleff is mentioned as a culprit, that seems a bit ludicrous. Ratleff was a good student and quite an ambassador for Cal State (Long Beach).

Dave Kurrasch, the Santa Ana High standout in the shot, set an age group record for 15-year-olds with the 16-pound ball, but it may not be acceptable. His toss of 51-2¼ eclipsed the 49-9½ by Arvada, Colorado's Howard Banich in 1971. However, because there was just one other competitor, UCI's Judd Binley (47-2½), the mark set at UCI last week may not be legal. Normally, three competitors constitute a competition.

Vikes Climb to No. 1; Oilers 4th in CIF

Marina High's undefeated basketball juggernaut today sits atop the heap of Southern California high school talent as the Vikes become the first-ever Orange Coast area cage team to be rated No. 1 in the CIF.

Not far behind Marina in this week's ratings is Huntington Beach, which climbed from fifth place a week ago to fourth today. The HB Oilers (12-1) are at Marina Friday night at 8 in the CIF game of the year.

Marina, 14-0, edged 1973 CIF champ Verbum Dei in the ballot of Southland sports writers, 189 votes to 187, although Verbum Dei outgained the Vikes in first place votes, 11-9.

Vikings coach Jim Stephens was pleased to learn of the lofty rating and said, "I'd just as soon be there and trying to hold that position as trying to work our way up from the bottom.

"I don't think being No. 1 will fire up the opposition any more than it usually is when it plays us." Stephens had a team head the CIF ratings once before when he coached at Garden Grove High.

Other key matches Friday involving the CIF 4-A top 10 have Torrance (3rd) hosting Palos Verdes (6th) and Buena (7th) dueling Santa Barbara (11th).

FREE ESTIMATE

Technically realtors are not qualified to give appraisals - but they can give estimates of value. We work as a team when asked to give an estimate. Our whole office staff will individually make their own estimate. Then we often disregard the highest and lowest and average the rest of the estimates. We are quite accurate this way and can do this for you if you wish. We can help you price your home so that it will sell. Call Colwell, 675-7225.

Clemente Seeks At-grade Crossing for Pier

By CANDACE PEARSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Armed with coastal commission backing, San Clemente is going to try again to get an at-grade crossing over Santa Fe railroad land at the municipal pier.

In an unusual turnabout Monday, San Clemente city officials asked the South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission to make the conditions on a proposed modification of the pier stiffer.

A simple at-grade crossing — not a tunnel or an elaborately ramped bridge — would be best, planner Mike Dadasovich said.

Agreeing with him were Bill Eaton of the San Clemente Chamber of Commerce; Phil Peter, city engineer; Mick Spencer of the California Paralyzed Veterans Association; resident Bill Waddell and Commissioner Art Holmes, who is also a San Clemente city councilman.

The pier entrance is an "eyesore," Eaton said, and attracts "every undesirable element you can think of."

In addition, Holmes pointed out, by state law the city is required to accommodate handicapped and elderly persons in public facilities. The present pier tunnel is difficult for these people to walk in, he added.

The city proposed an at-grade crossing five years ago, Eaton said, and still doesn't have approval because of opposition from the railroad.

"I don't know if the coastal commission recommendation will help," Holmes told his fellow commissioners, "but we have to give it one more try."

The commission agreed unanimously to approve the improvement of the pier, but only if it is done with an at-grade crossing.

Spencer, who testified from a wheelchair, told the commission that current conditions "deny access to at least 20 percent of the citizens in the area — the handicapped, the elderly, those with heart conditions."

Waddell backed up Spencer's statements and added that the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) has encouraged the city to apply again for the right-of-way.

"If you people will join us," Waddell said at the Long Beach hearing, "we'll have a good chance of beating the PUC and Santa Fe."

Commission Chairman Donald Bright agreed to send a copy of the commission's vote on the issue to the PUC and the railroad.

Apologizes To Family, Saddleback

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

With a public apology and a testimony to "the crutch of prayer," Saddleback College trustee Alyn Brannon of Santa Ana resigned his post Monday night.

Brannon, 43, a charter member and former president of the board, pleaded guilty to bookmaking charges in Orange County Superior Court last month.

He said he will remain in office until a successor is elected in the June primary.

"I want to publicly apologize to my family for the embarrassment and shame I have caused them for the actions I may have done in the past," Brannon said.

"The past year and a half have been very difficult, and without the love and affection they've shown for me I doubt that I could have survived," he added.

The Santa Ana trustee said he plans to "dedicate the rest of my life to repaying my family for their love."

And he added in making his decision he had relied on "a crutch—a crutch many of us should use but all too often do not—and that is prayer."

He said he had talked to many friends in the last month to determine what his action should be, and apologized to them for any embarrassment he had caused the school and its staff. "I am truly sorry," he said.

Board members made no comment on Brannon's remarks, but two of them, Patrick Backus and Hans Vogel, said privately they had talked with Brannon about his possible resignation and urged him to do so.

In the audience were acting student body president David Hall and five of the eight candidates for another seat soon to be vacated—that of Michael Collins who resigned last November.

One of them, Norrisa Brandt of Irvine, had entered the race with Barnnon's resignation as a chief plank.

"I am glad Mr. Brannon has thought of the community," Mrs. Brandt said after the speech. "He did the right

Farm Workers Drown in Canal

BLYTHE (AP) — Nineteen farm laborers drowned and 28 others were injured today when a bus taking them to work plunged into 10 feet of water in a drainage canal, the highway patrol said. Three of the victims were women.

The bus failed to make a curve at a rural intersection seven miles southwest of this southeastern California desert town, the patrol said.

The fully loaded vehicle went over a 20-foot embankment and landed on its side in the water.

The people were stacked up like dominoes against each other toward the front of the bus," said highway patrolman Robin Howard. "The driver was jammed into the steering wheel with all the others behind him."

None of the victims was immediately identified. The patrol said most were Mexican nationals being brought from the border city of Mexicali to work in the fields.

The injured, some in serious condition, were taken to Palos Verdes Hospital in ambulances and sheriff's patrol cars. The ambulances made three round trips between the accident scene and the hospital.

"There were some broken arms and legs but none seemed in critical condition," Howard said.

He said the bus seats were ripped loose by the impact, and the injured crawled out through windows and the front door.

Power Plant Gets Support In Newport

The California coastal commission will meet next month to reconsider its decision to kill the Southern California Edison Company proposal to enlarge the blufftop station.

Councilmen cited the current power shortage and said it is likely to become more acute.

And they pointed out that the expansion would involve "only approximately one half mile of coastline, but would meet the urgent demand for increased electrical power and at the same time conserve between 25 and 30 million barrels of oil per year."

They said they felt the adverse environmental impact of the project would be minimal.

The endorsement came after a lengthy and impassioned appeal to reject the resolution that was made by Mrs. Judy Tracy, 706 Bison Ave., Newport Beach, a member of the city's Citizens Environmental Quality Control Advisory Committee.

That panel had endorsed the expansion but Mrs. Tracy said her statement represented the viewpoints of three members who feel "the decision to expand nuclear fission plants is perhaps the most far reaching moral issue of our time."

Mrs. Tracy cited the possibilities of nuclear accidents at both the generating plant and at the waste storage centers.

She pointed out that some of the spent byproducts including plutonium-239 will require segregation from our environments for 240,000 years.

"We must reach our minds beyond the entire time span of human experience to deal with plutonium-239," Mrs. Tracy said.

She also talked about the dangers of radioactive materials being shipped from place to place across the country.

While conceding the odds of a container coming open during even a railroad derailment are low, "what about someone intent upon opening the 16 bolts of the container?" she said.

"The horrifying possibilities of terrorism, sabotage and blackmail, both at reactor sites and during shipment pinpoint our increasing vulnerability," she said.

Mrs. Tracy told councilmen, "It is your moral mandate to call for a nuclear fission moratorium and to call for the redirection of our nation's research priorities and funds to the environmental safer sources of energy supply."

Councilmen Hear Progress Report In Capistrano

San Juan Capistrano city councilmen heard preliminary reports Monday of progress on the $65,000 general plan revision program and then agreed to allow consultants to continue their job.

In a routine progress report which will be followed by specific details late this month, the city staff explained that consultants Hayworth and Anderson are nearing the end of the busiest phase.

The interim land use element of the plan, which was reviewed for the public at a special session last weekend, forms the main segment of the city's new planning guide.

Fourteen new elements in all will be included in the plan by the time it reaches the public hearing stage this spring.

Under initial proposals by the consultants, the city could accommodate a population of about 42,000 persons.

The figure is half the amount contemplated as the final poulation under older planning guidelines for San Juan.

The general plan items headed the relatively light agenda for the council's session.

In other actions the panel:

—Agreed to continue pursuing funding for the Valle Road improvement project. It will be built with funds raised through an improvement district and county gas tax funds. An environmental impact statement will be drafted before the actual contracts are let. Consultants for the work will be selected within two weeks.

—Agreed to allow City Attorney James Okazaki to draft changes in an ordinance banning commercial construction work on Sundays after the District Attorney's office declined to prosecute violators of the current ordinance. Okazaki agreed with the DA's staff which said there may be some constitutional questions in

Clemente Probes Water Mains at Mobile Park

San Clemente City Manager Kenneth Carr ordered a thorough staff study Monday of possible improvements in water mains and fire hydrants in the mobile home park which was heavily damaged in a $100,000 blaze last week.

Carr said he believes that there is a "major deficiency in the system" serving the Capistrano Shores Mobile Home Park. He had asked Fire Chief Ron Coleman to suggest improvements.

Coleman said later in the day that it was too soon to specify the exact number of new hydrants needed at the park.

"It appears that at the very least we will ask for a hydrant each 300 feet. That is the current requirement for all residential districts," he said.

The space between existing hydrants at the park is about 1,000 feet, Coleman added.

Carr said he hopes the report will be ready for the city council at its Wednesday session.

The lack of a nearby hydrant was a factor in the damage to mobile homes — seven in all — at Wednesday's blaze.

Coleman said the one hydrant which could have served the upcoast end of the park where the blaze erupted was inaccesible. Flames kept firemen from reaching it.

Instead, fremen had to bring 5,000 feet of hose across rail tracks and along El Camino Real to tap water from a hydrant at the Palm Beach trailer park.

Coleman said his men were without sufficient water for at least 10 minutes in the early stages of the blaze.

It was during that period that the greatest damage occurred to the

2 Truth Serum Films Screened For Sauna Jury

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When Maria Parson completes her testimony from the witness stand today in the Orange County Superior Court sauna bath trial the jury will view a movie made while she was under the influence of a so-called "truth serum."

Judge William Murray made the ruling that enables attorney Marvin Lewis Sr. to screen two video tape films in the courtroom. The decision came after a four-hour out-of-court session Monday in the offices of Dr. Deane A. Benton, the Santa Ana psychiatrist.

"I'll let 'em in," Judge Murray said after a bitter argument between Lewis and Holiday Health Spa attorney Donald A. Ruston on the admissibility of the two films.

One of the movies run by Dr. Benton in the privacy of his office depicts his interview last Oct. 25 with Mrs. Parson, 50, when she is not under the influence of sodium amytol.

The second movie, shot by the psychiatrist last Dec. 19 and Jan. 2, depicts the buxom redhead responding to his questioning in the slow, slurred manner induced by his injection of the tranquilizer.

The screening was carefully kept from the jury until today.

Lewis believes the movies will considerably enhance his hopes for a favorable verdict in the $1 million lawsuit against the health spa.

Ruston angrily condemned the movies as "self serving, leading and suggestive and extremely inflammatory" and repeatedly pointed out to Judge Murray that he had no opportunity to cross

Clemente Council Mulls Trash, Taxi Rate Hikes

San Clemente city councilmen Wednesday will sit in judgment of two separate requests for rate increases for public services — trash and taxis.

The panel will consider an average five-cent increase in household trash and garbage collection fees paid to the San Clemente Commercial Company. It also (as a mini-public utilities panel) will consider an appeal for taxi service rate increases.

Both requests stem from rising fuel and employment costs by the local businesses.

The household fees for rubbish collection are nominal, but the increases for businesses and other larger customers will be slightly higher. In all, 30 separate rate schedules will be affected by the proposed hikes.

Taxi owner Jack Campbell has asked for an increase from the existing fee of 55 cents for the first one-fifth mile and 10 cents for each additional fraction of a mile.

Under the new concept the rates would be 60 cents for the first one-seventh mile and 10 cents for each additional one-seventh of a mile. Campbell also seeks an increase in the hourly waiting charge from $5 per hour to $7.50.

Campbell said that surveys of the closest cab services to San Clemente show that his requests "are in line" with current charges elsewhere.

Areas Flooded

From Wire Services

Winds of more than 100 miles an hour whipped the Oregon coast during the night and heavy rains fell over much of the state, causing flooding, road closures power outages and school closures. The storm also was bringing rain and snow to Northern California.

At Corvallis, Ore. 15 persons were evacuated from an apartment complex just inside the southwest city limits about 4 a.m. today when rising water threatened their homes. Police Chief Jim Goodman said a fire department tank truck sloshed through 3½ feet of water to bring out the families, most young couples with children.

At Gold Beach, a Greyhound bus carrying 15 passengers north on Highway 101 was halted because of high water. The passengers were lodged in the county jail overnight because there were no other accommodations.

"We drank lots of coffee, had a lot of conversation and a few naps," said a dispatcher.

In eastern Oregon, a foot-deep snowpack at Baker vanished overnight in a downpour of rain.

Road closures throughout Oregon were so numerous police agencies could not keep track of them.

State police said Interstate 5 had only one lane open where a mudslide crashed down 6½ miles north of the California border. Both southbound lanes and one northhbound lane were closed. A state police officer said he did not know when traffic would be restored.

It's a big one," he said.

In Benton County, some roads were covered with 3½ feet of water. Most of the water was runoff, not flooding streams, officers said.

Along the coast, windows were smashed, trees blown over and telephone and electrical power outages were numerous.

A gust of 110 miles per hour was recorded at Mt. Hebo Air Force Station. The wind hit 86 mph at Brookings and 83 at Gold Beach.

Meanwhile the winter storm, packing southerly gales, heavy rain and snow, is on the loose in Northern California.

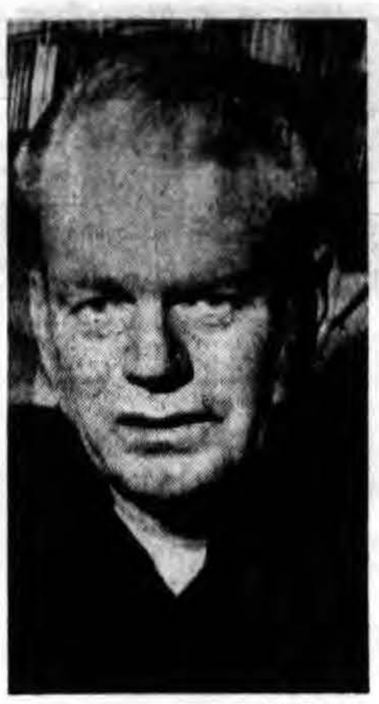

The front, 200 miles west of California early today, will "bring locally heavy rains south to the Tehachapis today and Wednesday with heavy snow in the northern Sierra Nevada above 6,000 feet," the National Weather Service said.

Forecasters also warned of flooding in low lying coastal areas north of Monterey Bay.

Storm warnings for southerly winds of up to 60 miles per hour were issued for today and Wednesday north of Point Arena on the Mendocino County coastline. Southward to Point Sur, the weather service expected gales ranging from 25 to 45 m.p.h.

The weather service said a weak weather front moved across Northern and Central California Monday, spreading "light to moderate rain southward to the San Francisco Bay area and northern San Joaquin Valley."

More than an inch of rain fell in Eureka while Red Bluff had more than a half inch and San Francisco nearly a quarter inch.

Donald Nixon Furious

Link to Howard Hughes Hotly Denied

By L. PETER KRIEG
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

President Nixon's brother F. Donald Nixon of Newport Beach today was furious over alegations carried in a United Press International story Monday that he profited from the fraudulent sale of stock to billionaire Howard Hughes.

Nixon said his only tie to Hughes was through former good friend John Meier, a former Newport Beach resident and former mining consultant for Hughes. Meier was indicted Monday in Las Vegas on charges of income tax evasion and fraud against the federal government.

Nixon for some time has been predicting the indictment and contended that Meier brought in the Nixon name in hopes things would go easy for him.

"Mr. Meier is in very deep trouble," Nixon said.

"But beyond that, I have no comment, other than to say those investigators are going to have some red faces too," he said.

In its story Monday, UPI said the Senate Watergate Committee is investigating the possibliy that Donald Nixon received "substantial sums" of money from former Hughes aides for his help in mining claim ventures.

The story linked Donald Nixon to Meier because of a trip the two made to the Dominican Republic in 1969.

Nixon claims the trip was purely pleasure. He said he went to see Meier receive that country's Christopher Columbus award.

UPI said the trip may be tied to allegations by Meier that Donald Nixon sought personal financial gains by offering to use his kinship with the President to win decisions favorable to the Hughes empire.

Monday's indictments charge Meier and three others with shifting huge profits from deals with Hughes to Swiss bank accounts.

U.S. attorney Devoe Heaton said the indictment involves sales of mining claims exceeding $8 million to the Hughes Tool Company, which was then owned by Hughes.

Meier was named in two indictments returned by the Las Vegas Federal Grand Jury on two counts of conspiracy and on two counts of alleged tax evasion —1969 and 1970.

Meier was indicted last year for income tax evasion for 1968.

One conspiracy count charges Meier with defrauding the United States by obstructing the collection of income tax as a result of the sale of mining claims by Alan Jarlson, Las Vegas television newsman, to the Hughes Tool Company.

Others indicted along with Meier on a second conspiracy count were Anthony Hatsis, 47, and James P. Cowley, 45, both of Salt Lake City, and Robert Kahan, 59, of Los Angeles.

Police Artist to Draw Face for Mystery Skull

Police artist Sandy Martin will be called on again this week to try to reconstruct the facial features of a woman whose skeleton was discovered after last week's serious gas main fire at a San Clemente mobile home park.

Detective Lt. Mel Portner said that Martin has offered to use the same techniques he used to draft portraits of another victim of foul play whose decomposed body was found in the city recently.

The drawings which Martin made of Marine deserter Dale Arthur Erlewein, 21, were described as "almost on the button" by investigators who came up with a positive identification late last week.

As in the Erlewein case, Martin will use photographs of the skull, examine them under a magnifying glass and draw from the bone structure.

The veteran portraitist performs the services for police on a volunteer basis and declines any payment, Portner said.

Besides the drawings, police have only scraps of evidence and a dental chart to help them determine the identity of the short woman whose remains lay unnoticed for six weeks or more at the edge of the Capistrano Shores Mobile Home Park.

Charts of the teeth in the skull — described as being in poor condition and showing signs of major dental work — have been sent to dentists in the area for checking against their records.

Portner said Monday that probes in missing-person records revealed one woman who could be the victim, but dental checks are not yet complete in her case.

The victim — apparently slain and left beneath the thick bushes at the edge of the Santa Fe tracks — was less than five-feet tall and had brown hair with flecks of gray or a lighter tint.

No apparent cause of death has been determined because of the condition of the remains.

The severe heat of the fire on Wednesday of last week burned away the shrubbery and then nearly cremated the remains before authorities were notified by workmen at the scene who first noticed the bones.

His partner, Robert Emmett Kelley of Newport Beach, was sentenced to six months in jail and three years' probation last month. Brannon has not yet been sentenced.

Business Plane Crashes in Fog, Killing 2 Men

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A business jet attempting to land at Will Rogers World Airport crashed in a dense fog today four miles short of the runway, killing two persons aboard but just missing several residential areas.

George Clark, chief investigator at the regional office of the National Transportation Safety Board in Fort Worth, Tex., said the aircraft was owned by the Kerr-McGee Corp. of Oklahoma City and was flying from Corpus Christi Tex., to Oklahoma City.

Officials of the Federal Aviation Administration in Oklahoma City said two persons aboard the aircraft were killed, but apparently they were the only casualties.

Kerr-McGee officials identified the dead as pilot Kenneth Blair Hunter, 65, and co-pilot Jack Ernest Garner, 50, both of Oklahoma City.

The plane, a two-engine North American Rockwell Sabreliner with a capacity of eight persons, was on an instrument landing in visibility of a quarter mile.

Commuters Delayed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Commuters riding the computer-age Bay Area Rapid Transit system to San Francisco were delayed up to one hour Monday because the doors refused to open automatically. BART officials said the problem on the seven-car train from Daly City was an electronic component that refused to relay door opening signals.

Toner to Head San Juan CofC 'Temporarily'

John Toner, the husband of the immediate past president of the San Juan Capistrano Chamber of Commerce, has assumed the role as "temporary coordinator" of the organization.

The new title, essentially corresponding to interim manager, was set at a recent meeting of the chamber board which has the task of finding a permanent occupant for the post.

The chamber, wracked by controversy recently over the resignation of manager Valerie Powers, now will go on a search for a permanent office manager.

Toner is the husband of Mrs. Pat Toner, the owner of Niguel Personnel and immediate past president of the chamber.

Mrs. Toner resigned as a director of the chamber last week as a technicality so that her husband could assume the paid position.

A limit of 90 days was set on Toner's tenure in the interim role.

Chamber Vice President Bruce Swarthout said a new recruiting program will begin for a manager and that Toner might very well be included in the list of applicants.

As a sidelight to the latest chamber action the board at its session last week also agreed to appoint two official spokesmen for the chamber — Swarthout and President Forest Dunivin, who currently is hospitalized and unavailable.

The previous manager for the chamber was literally locked out of the chamber offices after three weeks on the job. The incident marked the end of a fiery three weeks of controversy involving Mrs. Toner and Mrs. Powers over a $75 employment fee.

Total Enrolled At Saddleback Declines 9.4%

Total enrollment for the winter quarter at Saddlebacg Colege is 4,390, down 9.4 percent from the fall term enrollment.

Saddleback Superintendent Fred Bremer said the drop was "normal attrition" experienced every year between the two terms.

Last year a reduction of seven percent was noted.

Of the total, 1.639 students are full time, carrying 12 units or more, and 2,751 are part-time, carrying less than 12 unts.

Eleven classes were dropped because of indequate enrollment — seven n the day program, one in the night program, and three in the off-campus program at six high schools.

All three of the unfilled off-campus classes were at Laguna Beach High School. Night classes also are offered at San Clemente High School and Irvine University.

In the extended campus program, a total of 420 students enrolled, with the most, 150, at Tustin High School. Residents in that area recently have complained of not enough course offerings and the distance to the main campus in Mission Viejo.

London Railway Workers Strike

LONDON (AP) — Most of Britain's railway engineers struck for 24 hours today and commuters relying on cars snarled traffic in London and other cities.

All passenger train service was halted, but some freight trains kept running.

examine Mrs. Parson in either circumstance, drugged or otherwise.

Dr. Benton argued before he showed the films that it was only fair for the jury to see Mrs. Parson at her most relaxed moments which could only be in the office of her psychiatrist.

Her courtroom testimony has been offered under circumstances that are particularly adverse to any person suffering the kind of psychiatric trauma Mrs. Parson is undergoing, Benton told Judge Murray and the two lawyers.

Mrs. Parson's statements under the drugs and otherwise were identical: that before she was trapped in the sauna room of the Orange health spa on March 2, 1970, she was a happily married Catholic woman whose life was devoted to her husband and seven children.

She stated in both video tape sequences that any spare time she had was devoted to the Catholic church, Catholic youth programs and the PTA.

Mrs. Parson broke down and wept at the end of the first movie as she told Dr. Benton how Maria took possession of her body, donned sexy clothes that she would never have worn under normal conditions and set off for local bars in a hunt for men and sexual relationships.

Mrs. Parson, who has been known to her family and friends from an early age as Betty, again named several of the many men she has known over the past three years.

She listed among her favorite bars in the hunt for extramarital mates the Newporter Inn and the Stuft Shirt in Newport Beach.

"When I'm Maria I just want to run away," she hesitantly mumbled under the influence of the truth drug. "Maria wants sex and she wants to be held by a man—one thing leads to the other."

She also relates in both interviews the nature of the dreams she states she has experienced almost nightly since her ordeal in the 170-degree sauna room.

Mrs. Parson tells Benton of being imprisoned in a cube of ice, of being carried along in a flow of hot lava and of looking down from the sky at boiling, steaming water.

"Maria comes out of the top of my head and takes over my soul," the redhead tells Dr. Benton. "I fight her and fight her but sometimes she is too strong for me."

Lewis stated Monday that Mrs. Parson still eludes her husband and family when she is dominated by the Maria personality an ddrives off alone from the Anaheim home.

Mrs. Parson told Dr. Benton in both interviews that she will often offer her husband and family the excuse that she needs a loaf of bread or a pair of stockings to escape from the home when Maria takes control.

Lewis said Dr. Benton, two other psychiatrists who have examined Mrs. Parson and Lewis himself while the lawyer was interviewing Mrs. Parson in his San Francisco office have all been invited to join Mrs. Parson at a local bar and receive her sexual favors when she suddenly became Maria during the interview.

Basie Gets a Replacement

From Wire Services

When the call "Is there a drummer in the house?" went out in Akron, Bill Smith, a senior at Cuyahoga Falls High School, pushed his way from the balcony to the stage.

Jazz musician Count Basie needed a drummer to fill in because his regular, Sonny Payne, was late in arriving for a concert at the University of Akron.

Smith, who has been playing drums for eight years, told Basie he knew the arrangements and the Basie group "Plus One" performed two numbers until Payne arrived.

Abortion Amendment

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cardinal Terence Cooke, the archbishop of New York, wants a constitutional amendment to overturn the U.S. Supreme Court's decision last year allowing abortion on demand.

"Despite the opinion of the court, we still hold, together with millions of others in our society, that all human life is sacred — from conception through the nine months of growth and development in the womb, through infancy, childhood, adolescence, maturity, middle and old age, to death," he told worshippers at a service in St. Parick's Cathedral to honor Catholic couples who celebrate golden anniversaries.

Fairview Hospital Fetes 15th Year

A 15-year period of progress in which California's programs for treating the mentally retarded have been almost completely revolutionized will be observed Wednesday at Fairview State Hospital in Costa Mesa.

Highlight of the 15th anniversary of the opening of the hospital at 2501 Harbor Blvd. will be a 1 p.m. luncheon open to the public.

SPEAKERS AT the buffet will include Andrew Robertson, deputy director of the State Department of Health; William Long, chief of the agency's hospital services section for developmental disabilities; Rep. Andrew Hinshaw (R-Newport Beach); Dean McCoy, chairman of the Fairview State Hospital Advisory Board, and Costa Mesa Mayor Jack Hammett.

Guided tours of the hospital's wards and service centers, including its school, will begin at 2 p.m., according to Dr. Irving Stone.

He is in charge of the anniversary celebration, as community liaison director for the hospital.

Some officials say Fairview may have the greatest degree of community involvement of any such facility in the state.

"ONE OF THE most important aspects which has marked the progress of the hospital is the total community involvement," says Dr. Stone.

He cited such groups as Fairview Families and Friends Inc., which raises money for equipment and facilities not budgeted by the state; volunteer workers who come to help with patients, and the state's Foster Grandparents program.

Since Fairview opened doors to patients Jan. 5, 1959, with a capacity for well over 2,000 patients, it has reduced its number of hospitalized clients to 1,700 or so.

PROGRAMS PIONEERED by the Fairview staff under Supt. Dr. Anthony N. Toto which are being applied elsewhere in the state hospital system are largely credited for the decrease.

A system in which each county has a regional center for treatment of the mentally retarded and the handling of their cases has also contributed to reducing the number of patients in the hospital at a given time, officials said.

They range in age from a few days to 87 years and — except for those with severe, multiple handicaps that require lifelong nursing —are at Fairview on a limited-term basis for specialized treatment programs.

Last year Plymouth compacts outsold every other compact in America, including such popular cars as Chevrolet's Nova and Ford's Maverick. We think there are a lot of good reasons for this. So we're going to list some of them in the event you may be considering a small car this year.

Better gas mileage.
Recently published test results by Popular Science on '73 cars (with figures adjusted by Popular Science to reflect 1974 model changes and the results of E.P.A. tests) show our Duster with a "Slant-Six" engine can go farther on a gallon of gas than a comparable Maverick or Nova.

More room for hips, legs, shoulders, and heads.
We try to make sure our small cars aren't too small. Duster and Scamp have enough room for five. Our four-door Valiant has enough room for six passengers. And it has more hip, leg, shoulder and head room than either Maverick or Nova.

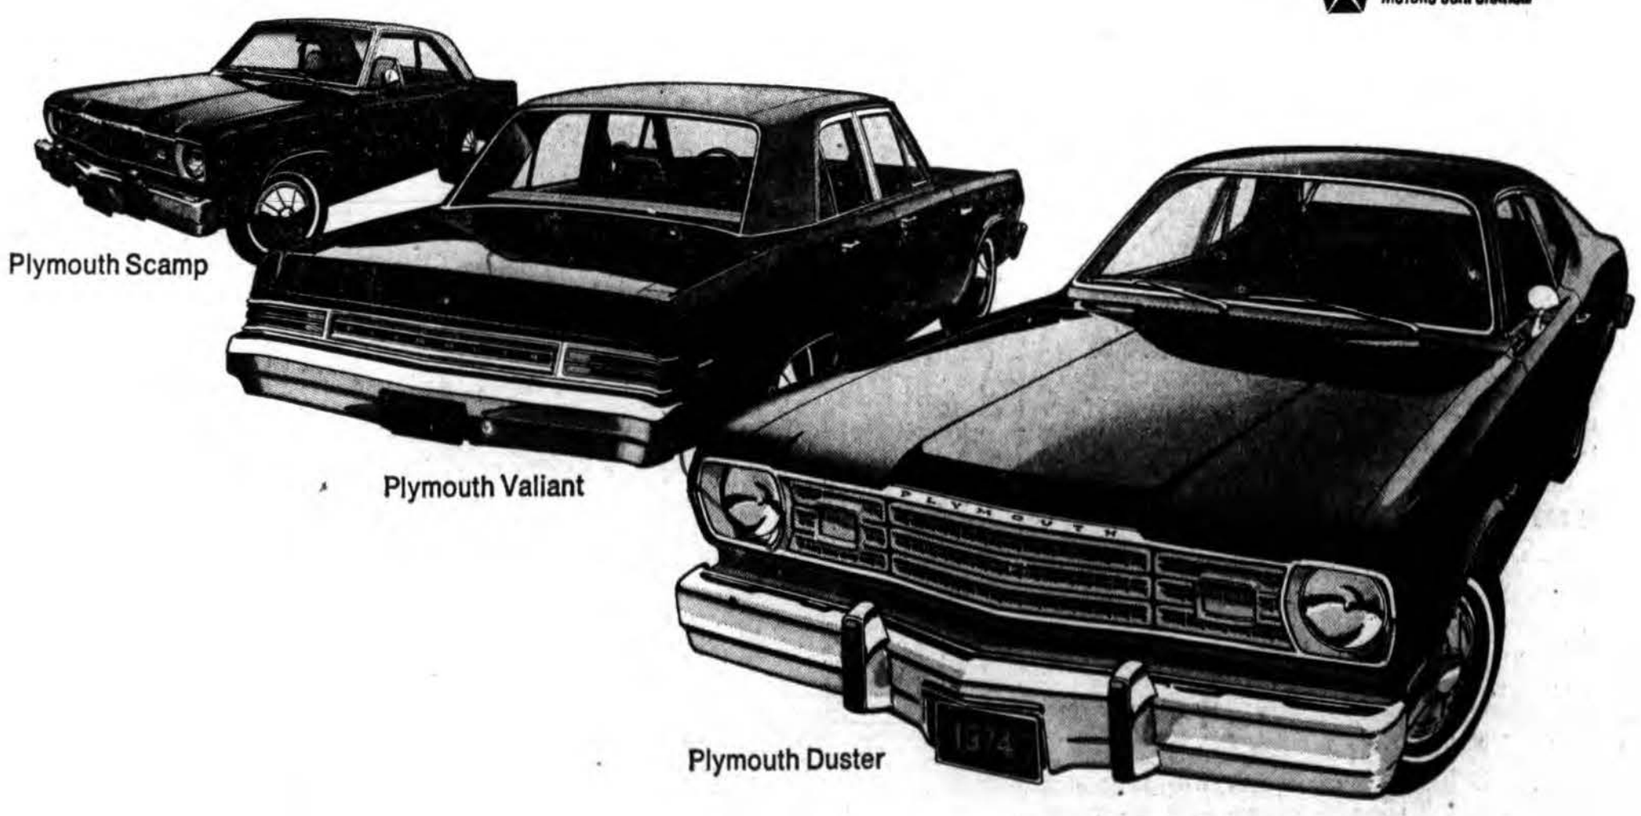

More trunk space.
For example, Scamp has more trunk space than Maverick or Nova. And Duster and Valiant have bigger trunks than Scamp. In short, we make small cars with big trunks.

Plymouth compacts are priced low.
Depending on where you live, Plymouth Duster is either priced right down with, or less than VW's most popular model. After all, one of the first things anybody considers when buying a new car is the price. And in a comparison of manufacturer's suggested retail prices, we stand up very well.

Chrysler engineering. The kind of engineering that goes into our most expensive Chryslers and Imperials. So you get things like a standard Electronic Ignition System, with no points or condenser to replace. So ignition tune-ups are less expensive and come less often.

Nobody has more compacts to choose from than your Chrysler-Plymouth dealer.

Saddleback's Brannon Apologizes, Resigns

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

With a public apology and a testimony to "the crutch of prayer," Saddleback College trustee Alyn Brannon of Santa Ana resigned his post Monday night.

Brannon, 43, a charter member and former president of the board, pleaded guilty to bookmaking charges in Orange County Superior Court last month.

He said he will remain in office until a successor is elected in the June primary.

"I want to publicly apologize to my family for the embarrassment and shame I have caused them for the actions I may have done in the past," Brannon said.

"The past year and a half have been very difficult, and without the love and affection they've shown for me I doubt that I could have survived," he added.

The Santa Ana trustee said he plans to "dedicate the rest of my life to repaying my family for their love."

And he added in making his decision he had relied on "a crutch—a crutch many of us should use but all too often do not—and that is prayer."

He said he had talked to many friends in the last month to determine what his action should be, and apologized to them for any embarrassment he had caused the school and its staff. "I am truly sorry," he said.

Board members made no comment on Brannon's remarks, but two of them, Patrick Backus and Hans Vogel, said privately they had talked with Brannon about his possible resignation and urged him to do so.

In the audience were acting student body president David Hall and five of the eight candidates for another seat soon to be vacated—that of Michael Collins who resigned last November.

One of them, Norrisa Brandt of Irvine, had entered the race with Barnnon's resignation as a chief plank.

"I am glad Mr. Brannon has thought of the community," Mrs. Brandt said after the speech. "He did the right thing. I was surprised to hear him ask forgiveness. And I know that was hard on him but best for all."

Also present was Lee Rhodes, president of the Saddleback College Faculty Association.

The faculty gave Brannon a direct communication which was not made available to the press.

But Rhodes said "We wanted positive action, and I think what has happened here tonight was positive. We are satisfied with the outcome."

Brannon was arrested in August, 1972 in connection with a $25,000 a week gambling ring in the Harbor Area.

His partner, Robert Emmett Kelley of Newport Beach, was sentenced to six months in jail and three years' probation last month. Brannon has not yet been sentenced.

Rest Room And Tower Plans Eyed

A proposal for development of additional Main Beach Park rest rooms and renovation of the old lifeguard tower will be considered by the Laguna Beach City Council meeting at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday at city hall.

The rest rooms, if constructed to present plans, would be located behind the South Coast Highway stores, along the former right of way for El Paseo, Stan Scholl, public works director, said.

Scholl said cost estimates for the project would be available for the council Wednesday.

City Attorney Tully Seymour said in his opinion, the construction of the rest rooms at the south end of the beach park would not conflict with the court settlement reached in the suit brought against the city by resident John Gabriels.

Gabriels sued to block development of the park until a review of the project's environmental impact report was made by the South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission. He settled in time to allow completion of the park by summer, but the city agreed to at least temporarily omit some planned buildings from the project.

Seymour said the buildings spelled out in the court agreement did not include rest rooms.

Scholl said if the facilities were not constructed, the city probably would be required by the state to provide temporary rest rooms at a cost of about $1,500 a month.

The only other facilities are located

Library Plaza Project Slated For Laguna Study

The Laguna Beach City Council will weigh a city staff proposal Wednesday which could breathe new life into the downtown Library Plaza.

The council will meet at 4:30 p.m. at city hall.

The staff proposal calls for providing 16 additional parking spaces in the Glenneyre Street lot by redesign and restriping at a cost of $5,200.

Since one of the prime objections to the Library Plaza plan has been the loss of eight parking spaces on the plaza site it is felt the new spaces could help compensate for that loss.

The plaza would be developed on the Park Avenue appendage between the library and Pacific Coast Highway and along the deteriorated alley behind Forest Avenue stores.

Estimated cost of the plaza is $40,000. The staff recommendation is that the project be sent to the city planning commission for consideration.

Farm Workers Drown in Canal

BLYTHE (AP) — Nineteen farm laborers drowned and 28 others were injured today when a bus taking them to work plunged into 10 feet of water in a drainage canal, the highway patrol said. Three of the victims were women.

The bus failed to make a curve at a rural intersection seven miles southwest of this southeastern California desert town, the patrol said.

The fully loaded vehicle went over a 20-foot embankment and landed on its side in the water.

The people were stacked up like dominoes against each other toward the front of the bus," said highway patrolman Robin Howard. "The driver was jammed into the steering wheel with all the others behind him."

None of the victims was immediately identified. The patrol said most were Mexican nationals being brought from the border city of Mexicali to work in the fields.

The injured, some in serious condition, were taken to Palos Verdes Hospital in ambulances and sheriff's patrol cars. The ambulances made three round trips between the accident scene and the hospital.

"There were some broken arms and legs but none seemed in critical condition," Howard said.

He said the bus seats were ripped loose by the impact, and the injured crawled out through windows and the front door.

The patrol said the bus was one of three owned by Jesse Ayala, a labor

Plane Theft Foiled

MUSKEGON, Mich. (UPI) — An 18-year-old forced his way on an empty United Airlines plane at Muskegon County Airport Monday and attempted to start the craft, saying he wanted "to fly the plane to Arizona." The man, Dennis Wyrick of Grand Rapids, Mich. was taken into custody by airport police and admitted to North Shore Hospital for a psychiatric examination.

Veteran Pilot Buxton Dies of Cancer at 61

Veteran pilot William Buxton, who flew remodeled military planes in scenes of the movie "Tora, Tora, Tora," has died of cancer in Idaho, where he moved from the Orange Coast.

Mr. Buxton, was 61. He had lived in Laguna Beach for 30 years before the family changed its residence to Hagerman, Idaho, three years ago.

Funeral services have been held and Mr. Buxton will be buried in his family's plot at Rialto.

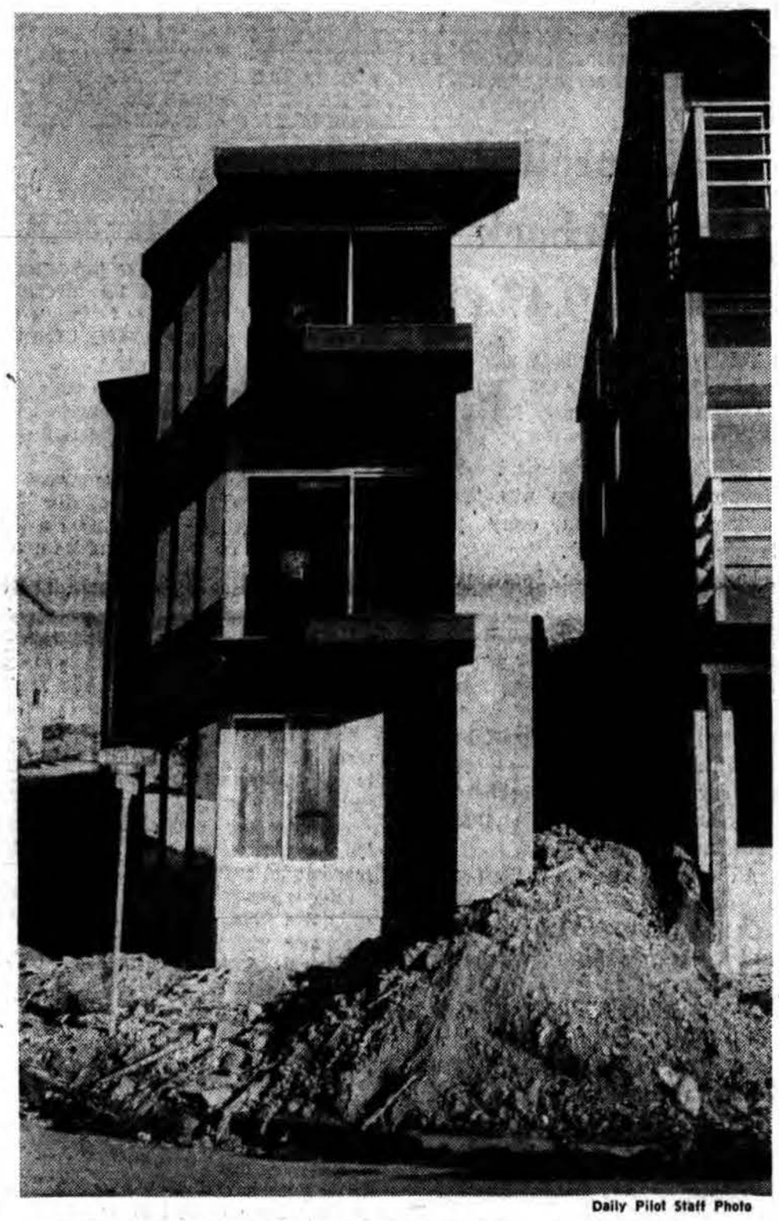

He was a native of San Bernardino and spent much of his career as a pilot for petroleum companies after learning to fly in 1929 at Pensacola Naval Air Station.

World War II saw Mr. Buxton assigned to the Army Air Transport Command and one of his tasks was ferrying a PBY amphibious plane from Long Beach to Honolulu.

He returned to the islands in another warplane under different conditions four years ago to fly combat scenes for "Tora, Tora, Tora," a movie about the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Survivors include his wife Pat, of Hagerman, Idaho; children Mike Buxton, of San Clemente, William Buxton of Eagerman, Idaho, Mrs. Margaret South of Newport Beach, Mrs. Pamela Rose of Corona del Mar, Lynn Buxton of Laguna Beach; his mother, Mrs. Bessie Atkinson and a sister, Mrs. Bette Srerwin, both of Upland.

Family members suggest memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

THERE'S A TOGETHERNESS ABOUT ARCH BEACH HEIGHTS
Lot Size Problem Now Being Tackled by Laguna Planners

Arch Beach Landowners Blast Building Minimum

By FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A contingent of Arch Beach Heights landowners appeared before the Laguna Beach Planning Commission Monday night to protest a proposed 5,000 square foot building site minimum.

The provision is contained in a draft specific plan as a way of reducing density in the troubled heights.

After 90 minutes of discussion, commissioners decided to continue the hearing on the specific plan until Jan. 28.

Landowners charged that application of the 5,000 square foot standard was unjust and could lead to legal action against the city.

Standard lots in the heights contain 2,500 square feet. If the proposal is adopted, the owner of such a lot would have to buy an adjacent one before building.

"I'd rather sell my lot to the city at its fair market value than have to buy from the guy next door at a high price," said Robert Hughes, a former Arch Beach Heights resident now living in Laguna Niguel.

"To tell a man who owns one lot that he has to have two lots to build . . . well, it's unjust," said Hughes as applause sounded from several of the 100 persons in the audience.

"I'll tell you gentlemen, if I can't build I'm prepared to take this right to the Supreme Court," declared Don Page of Gardena, owner of property in the hilltop community.

Support for the lot combination ordinance case from Charles Brady, president of the Arch Beach Heights Association. Brady said most members of the association supported the specific

Old Moving Site Clears Coast Unit

By CANDACE PEARSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A 15,000-square-foot commercal project in Laguna Beach with 30 parking spaces — 53 spaces below standard — was approved Monday by the regional coastal commission.

The renovation and reduction of an existing 18,000 square feet of building into about 30 shops at 580 Broadway St. near the Laguna-Moulton Playhouse is proposed by David Doherty.

The South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission has usually held firm on its staff-suggested commercial parking code, which in this case have would required 83 spaces.

But in the case of "The Colony" project, the issue was complicated when planner Bob Joseph suggested eliminating all parking to speed development of city parking structures.

The city of Laguna Beach has plans for centralized parking structures and, Joseph added, is in the draft stages of its circulation and transportation element which may call for one-way traffic flows, pedestrian malls and mini-buses or tram service.

Joseph recommended that Doherty convert his 30 spaces into a garden or "urban plaza" and pay parking fees to the city, along with granting a pedestrian access from the rear of the property.

Laguna doesn't have a structure yet, Joseph conceded under questioning by commissioners, but it does have a parking district and Mayor Roy Holm has said an increase in on-site parking would only be a problem, not a solution.

But Doherty countered with charges that the city has "proven unreliable in providing anything, including parking."

Doherty said his project should be judged on its individual merits and added he wouldn't agree to go without parking and pay fees to "somebody who hasn't any way to build them (the structures) because they're broke."

Doherty added that his lender won't agree to a loan on a project without parking.

Joseph told the commission that if

Water Rate Hike Studied

Laguna Officials Get Recommendation of 20% Boost

Laguna Beach County Water District directors will consider increasing water rates by an average of 20 percent tonight.

The recommendation to raise the water rates follows six months of study by district General Manager Joseph R. Sweany and his staff.

Sweany said the rate increase is needed because of a 50 percent jump in the wholesale cost of water in the past six years. That cost is what the local district pays for water from the Metropolitan Water District.

An increase in the general "cost of doing business" also is a factor for the rate increase, Sweany said.

Included with the water rate increase is a change in the billing format.

Now, all water users pay a bimonthly fee of $6.40 cents, entitling them to 1,200 cubic feet, or 8,976 gallons, of water.

Users pay 19.5 cents for every 100 cubic feet, or 748 gallons, consumed in addition to the base amount.

Under the proposed system, users will pay a $5 "readiness" fee, plus 23 cents for every 100 cubic feet of water.

For example, the average residential user in the water district, consuming 2,818 cubic feet every two months, now pays a water bill of $9.56.

Under the new system, the bill for the same amount of water will climb to $11.48.

Sweany said the rate increase — and an increase in connection rates — will bring in about $106,000 more on an annual basis.

For the remainder of this fiscal year, Sweany projects the district will gain $30,000.

The five water district directors have been studying a report on the water rate increase for several weeks and Board President Richard Jahraus predicted the proposal will be adopted tonight.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be held at the water district board room, 306 Third St.

In justifying the rate increase, Sweany said that since the last water rate increase in 1968, the cost of doing business has climbed 60 percent. During

Laguna Tackles Disaster Plan

A military jet crashes into downtown Laguna Beach, setting off a major fire that threatens to reduce scores of commercial and residential structures to ashes.

It's not the sort of thing people like to think about.

But it could happen. If it did, how would Laguna Beach respond?

That question is tackled in a fire emergency plan drafted for the city by Dr. John Atkinson.

The "wide front" fire plan, as it is called, is the first in a series of disaster plans being prepared by Atkinson on a volunteer basis. Atkinson is a consulting physicist who has worked in varied fields including atomic research and communications.

Other plans will list steps to be taken in the event of a major leak of poisonous gas, gasoline truck explosion, flood, power failure, earthquake, riot or nuclear attack.

The wide front fire plan, scheduled for adoption Wednesday night by the city council, details steps to be taken by the fire, police, public works, and lifeguard departments.

In the event of major blaze threatening city neighborhoods, the city manager or the mayor would be asked to proclaim a "local fire disaster."

City departments, county governments and utilities would be mobilized to help fight the blaze under the direction of the fire chief and the city disaster council.

The police force will be used for traffic control and evacuation; public works crews will join the firemen fighting the blaze, and the lifeguards will provide immediate first aid.

Laguna Beach High School will be the chief evacuation center.

The fire emergency plan also sets up special precautions for times of Santa Ana winds, when fire danger is at its highest.

—The police department will establish extra patrols to watch for fire in Laguna Canyon, Arch Beach Heights and Top of the World.

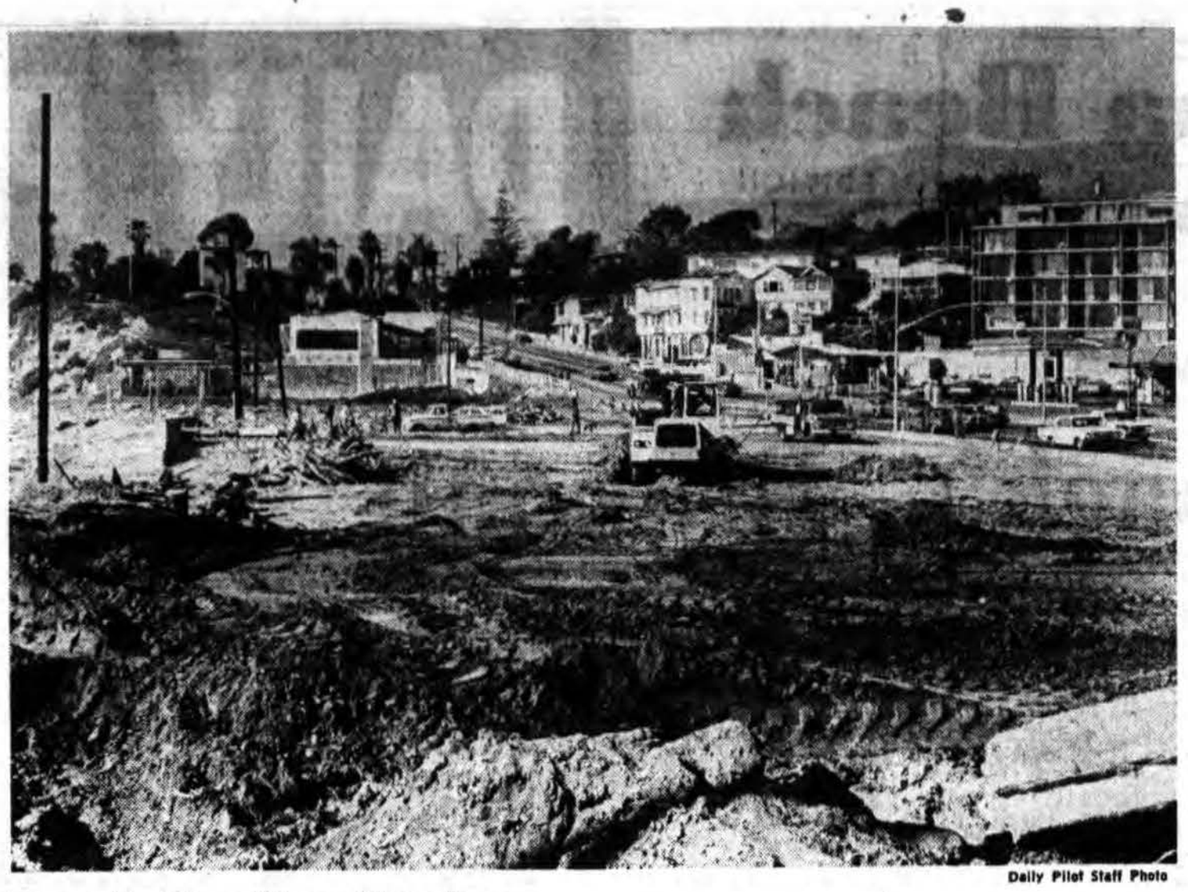

—During particularly hazardous Santa Ana conditions, a reserve fire engine with crew will be dispatched to Arch Beach Heights.

City Manager Al Theal said Atkinson has spent several months working with the city staff in preparing the set of disaster plans.

When all the plans are completed, they will be assembled in booklet form and given to all city departments.

"In the event of a disaster, the department heads will know exactly what to do," Theal explained.

He said the new disaster plans replace an outdated, massive book that was written mainly for nuclear attack.

Beach Grading Begins

Heavy equipment moved onto Laguna Beach's Main Beach Park site Monday to start the contouring of the oceanfront park. Demolition previously cleared the property of old buildings, and the beach boardwalk. Existing trees on the park site will be preserved, and others planted. The park is scheduled for completion by summer.

Mrs. Popeil To Retrieve Rolls Royce

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Eloise Popeil, who is facing a court hearing on police charges that she conspired to have her millionaire husband murdered, today is expected to get back the Rolls Royce police confiscated during her arrest in Newport Beach a week ago.

Reached today at her Newport Beach home, Mrs. Popeil said she had no comment to make on any aspect of the police accusations that she and her boyfriend, Daniel Ayers, 37, of Santa Ana hired a Long Beach man to murder Samuel J. Popeil of Chicago.

Police claim the plot fell through when the hit man called the Chicago kitchen gadget millionaire and told him of his estranged wife's plan.

According to police, Mrs. Popeil, 48, and Ayers allegedly wanted Popeil murdered before a pending divorce became final so that she could inherit approximately one-third of his estate, estimated to be worth up to $200 million.

Mrs. Popeil, who wsa freed on $100,000 bail raised by neighbors on Linda Isle and Harbor Island Road, is scheduled to appear in municipal court in Long Beach Monday in the preliminary hearing in the case.

She and Ayers both pleaded innocent to the conspiracy to commit murder charges at their arraingments last week.

Ayers is still in custody, apparently unable to raise the $100,000 bail set by Judge Charles Litwin.

Popeil will go to court there on Friday to seek an order giving him custody of the couple's two teenage daughters and abandonment of the $4,250 monthly alimony and child support payments.

Since their separation, Mrs. Popeil and her two daughters have been living in Newport Beach. She and Ayers were arrested Tuesday night at her home at 519 Harbor Island Road shortly after Ayers drove up to the bayfront home in the Rolls.

Police confiscated the car as evidence in the case, but Newport Beach detective Ken Smith said today it has been authorized for release.

Funk Factory Owner Airing Case on TV

Funk Factory owner Jerry Walden, arrested in Laguna Beach for sale and distributing of alleged pornography, will be a guest on the television program "Philbin and Company" a talk show on KHJ Channel 9 airing from 9:30 a.m. to noon Friday.

Walden was asked to appear on the program in connection with a discussion on the current U.S. Supreme Court ruling setting community standards as a determining factor in obscenity cases.

The talk show, hosted by Regis Philbin, will feature Walden during the 11 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. segment.

Walden was arrested by Laguna Beach police Dec. 18, the same day the city council held a special hearing on Lagunans' attitudes toward obscenity and censorship.

Twenty-three speakers at the council meeting opposed censorship, and three supported it.

Walden was the third Lagunan to be arrested by Laguna Beach Police for selling underground comic books, copies of "Zap Comix" deemed obscene after a review by Deputy District Attorney John Anderson.

A spokesperson for the KHJ program said the Philbin show will attempt to take a look at what happens as a federal edict gets passed down to the local level.

Walden, owner of the Funk Factory, 750 S. Coast Highway, is due for arraignment on the smut charge Jan. 22.

Gordon and Evelyn Wilson, owners of Fahrenheit 451 Bookstore, 509 S. Coast Highway, were to appear in court today for arraignment. All three have said they will plead innocent to the charges.

Total Enrolled At Saddleback Declines 9.4%

Total enrollment for the winter quarter at Saddlebacg Colege is 4,390, down 9.4 percent from the fall term enrollment.

Saddleback Superintendent Fred Bremer said the drop was "normal attrition" experienced every year between the two terms.

Last year a reduction of seven percent was noted.

Of the total, 1,639 students are full time, carrying 12 units or more, and 2,751 are part-time, carrying less than 12 unts.

Eleven classes were dropped because of inadequate enrollment — —seven in the day program, one in the night program, and three in the off-campus program at six high schools.

All three of the unfilled off-campus classes were at Laguna Beach High School. Night classes also are offered at San Clemente High School and Irvine University.

In the extended campus program, a total of 420 students enrolled, with the most, 150, at Tustin High School. Residents in that area recently have complained of not enough course offerings and the distance to the main campus in Mission Viejo.

Laguna Council Meeting Set For Wednesday

The Laguna Beach City Council Wednesday faces an agenda of 39 regular business items, and six public hearings when it meets at 4:30 p.m. at city hall.

Public hearings are scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

On the business agenda, the council will consider:

—A change in city law to permit construction between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. on weekends and holidays.

—A request for a spiritualist business license.

—A report by Fire Chief Charley Kuhn on a parademic emergency care program.

—A request for a policy statement on possible release of sale or distribution of the city's sewer billing mailing list. list.

Major items on the public hearing agenda include:

—Request for industrial zoning and annexation of a piece of county territory in Laguna Canyon.

plan. His statement also drew applause from some members of the audience.

Commissioners agreed to continue the hearing after learning from City Attorney Tully Seymour that application of the lot combination provision could result in a host of legal actions against the city.

"It seems we're taking up a questionable area," said Seymour. "On legal principles alone, I think we'll have trouble if we get into this."

Seymour refused to say anything more in the public portion of the meeting, but did discuss the matter further with commissioners in an executive (closed) session.

He said further discussion in the open meeting might violate the attorney-client privilege in the event the city is faced with legal action.

Commissioner Sally Bellerue appeared to stand alone in supporting the lot combination ordinance. "We need a lot size minimum up there. . .and we need it now," said Mrs. Bellerue.

Commissioner Jack McDowell said he would like to see the city "encourage" lot combinations on a voluntary basis.

"I don't think we should rush to make a decision on this until we receive more information," said McDowell.

Chairman Roger Lanphear, agreed with McDowell, saying, "if a person is able to comply we will get some reduction in density."

Commissioner Michael May said he, too, would encourage rather than mandate lot combinations.

City planner Wayne Moody had estimated that if a lot combination ordinance was applied, the number of additional homes that could be build in the heights would be reduced from 462 to 279.

at the north end of the beach. They are not large enough to accommodate the summer beach crowds, he said.

The renovation of the lifeguard tower, ordered to be "minimal" by the city council, would cost between $5,000 and $10,000 if minor refurbishing is done.

A major job would put costs at between $14,00 and $20,000, according to Scholl.

A staff report on the beach project, notes the recent storm and tidal damage to lifeguard structures at Newport Beach and San Clemente, where facilities are located on the beach.

"This supports Mr. (Skip) Conner's, (director of the department of marine environment, contention that the old tower should be located behind the new sea wall. However, this would be a major refurbishing project requiring relocation and installation of new pilings," Scholl's report states.

It is also suggested that a temporary lifeguard headquarters be set up in a trailer during the time the old tower is refurbished and during the summer season.

It would be placed adjacent to the park at El Paseo and Laguna Avenue. Cost would be $175 a month, or from $2,700 to $4,000 if purchased outright.

The trailer would serve as a medical aid station, lost and found and house local and county radio gear and telephone switchboard.

Maria Parson

Judge OKs Truth Serum Movie in Sauna Trial

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When Maria Parson completes her testimony from the witness stand today in the Orange County Superior Court sauna bath trial the jury will view a movie made while she was under the influence of a so-called "truth serum."

Judge William Murray made the ruling that enables attorney Marvin Lewis Sr. to screen two video tape films in the courtroom. The decision came after a four-hour out-of-court session Monday in the offices of Dr. Deane A. Benton, the Santa Ana psychiatrist.

"I'll let 'em in," Judge Murray said after a bitter argument between Lewis and Holiday Health Spa attorney Donald A. Ruston on the admissibility of the two films.

One of the movies run by Dr. Benton in the privacy of his office depicts his interview last Oct. 25 with Mrs. Parson, 50, when she is not under the influence of sodium amytol.

The second movie, shot by the psychiatrist last Dec. 19 and Jan. 2, depicts the buxom redhead responding to his questioning in the slow, slurred manner induced by his injection of the tranquilizer.

The screening was carefully kept from the jury until today.

Lewis believes the movies will considerably enhance his hopes for a favorable verdict in the $1 million lawsuit against the health spa.

Ruston angrily condemned the movies as "self serving, leading and suggestive and extremely inflammatory" and repeatedly pointed out to Judge Murray that he had no opportunity to cross examine Mrs. Parson in either circumstance, drugged or otherwise.

Dr. Benton argued before he showed the films that it was only fair for the jury to see Mrs. Parson at her most relaxed moments which could only be in the office of her psychiatrist.

Her courtroom testimony has been offered under circumstances that are particularly adverse to any person suffering the kind of psychiatric trauma Mrs. Parson is undergoing, Benton told Judge Murray and the two lawyers.

Mrs. Parson's statements under the drugs and otherwise were identical: that before she was trapped in the sauna room of the Orange health spa on March 2, 1970, she was a happily married Catholic woman whose life was devoted to her husband and seven children.

She stated in both video tape sequences that any spare time she had was devoted to the Catholic church, Catholic youth programs and the PTA.

Mrs. Parson broke down and wept at the end of the first movie as she told Dr. Benton how Maria took possession of her body, donned sexy clothes that she would never have worn under normal conditions and set off for local bars in a hunt for men and sexual relationships.

Mrs. Parson, who has been known to her family and friends from an early age as Betty, again named several of the many men she has known over the past three years.

She listed among her favorite bars in the hunt for extramarital mates the Newporter Inn and the Stuft Shirt in Newport Beach.

"When I'm Maria I just want to run away," she hesitantly mumbled under the influence of the truth drug. "Maria wants sex and she wants to be held by a man—one thing leads to the other."

She also relates in both interviews the nature of the dreams she states she has experienced almost nightly since her ordeal in the 170-degree sauna room.

Mrs. Parson tells Benton of being imprisoned in a cube of ice, of being carried along in a flow of hot lava and of looking down from the sky at boiling, steaming water.

Trustee Brannon Quits Post

Apologizes To Family, Saddleback

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

With a public apology and a testimony to "the crutch of prayer," Saddleback College trustee Alyn Brannon of Santa Ana resigned his post Monday night.

Brannon, 43, a charter member and former president of the board, pleaded guilty to bookmaking charges in Orange County Superior Court last month.

He said he will remain in office until a successor is elected in the June primary.

"I want to publicly apologize to my family for the embarrassment and shame I have caused them for the actions I may have done in the past," Brannon said.

"The past year and a half have been very difficult, and without the love and affection they've shown for me I doubt that I could have survived," he added.

The Santa Ana trustee said he plans to "dedicate the rest of my life to repaying my family for their love."

And he added in making his decision he had relied on "a crutch—a crutch many of us should use but all too often do not—and that is prayer."

He said he had talked to many friends in the last month to determine what his action should be, and apologized to them for any embarrassment he had caused the school and its staff. "I am truly sorry," he said.

Board members made no comment on Brannon's remarks, but two of them, Patrick Backus and Hans Vogel, said privately they had talked with Brannon about his possible resignation and urged him to do so.

In the audience were acting student body president David Hall and five of the eight candidates for another seat soon to be vacated—that of Michael Collins who resigned last November.

One of them, Norrisa Brandt of Irvine, had entered the race with Barnnon's resignation as a chief plank.

"I am glad Mr. Brannon has thought of the community," Mrs. Brandt said after the speech. "He did the right thing. I was surprised to hear him ask forgiveness. And I know that was hard on him but best for all."

Also present was Lee Rhodes, president of the Saddleback College Faculty Association.

The faculty gave Brannon a direct communication which was not made available to the press.

But Rhodes said "We wanted positive action, and I think what has happened here tonight was positive. We are satisfied with the outcome."

Brannon was arrested in August, 1972 in connection with a $25,000 a week gambling ring in the Harbor Area.

His partner, Robert Emmett Kelley of Newport Beach, was sentenced to six months in jail and three years' probation last month. Brannon has not yet been sentenced.

19 Drown in Bus Accident

28 Injured as Vehicle Plunges Into Canal

BLYTHE (AP) — Nineteen farm laborers drowned and 28 others were injured today when a bus taking them to work plunged into 10 feet of water in a drainage canal, the highway patrol said. Three of the victims were women.

The bus failed to make a curve at a rural intersection seven miles southwest of this southeastern California desert town, the patrol said.

The fully loaded vehicle went over a 20-foot embankment and landed on its side in the water.

The people were stacked up like dominoes against each other toward the front of the bus," said highway patrolman Robin Howard. "The driver was jammed into the steering wheel with all the others behind him."

None of the victims was immediately identified. The patrol said most were Mexican nationals being brought from the border city of Mexicali to work in the fields.

The injured, some in serious condition, were taken to Palos Verdes Hospital in ambulances and sheriff's patrol cars. The ambulances made three round trips between the accident scene and the hospital.

"There were some broken arms and legs but none seemed in critical condition," Howard said.

He said the bus seats were ripped loose by the impact, and the injured crawled out through windows and the front door.

The patrol said the bus was one of three owned by Jesse Ayala, a labor contractor of Brawley.

The accident occurred in the darkness about 6:30 a.m. at the intersection of Rannels Boulevard and 20th Avenue near the farming community of Ripley.

The patrol said the canal, which passes under the roadway, was carrying more water than usual, draining salt from the fields.

Newport Mayor Will Fight for CdM Route Link

By JOHN ZALLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach Mayor Donald A. McInnis was authorized Monday by the city council to fight for reinstatement of the Corona del Már Freeway in this year's state transportation budget.

The council gave informal affirmation of its support for the freeway after the mayor said he wanted all the help he could get in trying to revive the now dormant freeway.

"This is one of the few areas around here where all the agencies involved are in agreement that a freeway needs to be developed and I think we should go ahead with it," the mayor said.

McInnis was referring to the agreement between Newport Beach, Costa Mesa, and Irvine that the freeway ought to be built to relieve traffic congestion on MacArthur Boulevard and Bristol Street.

The California Department of Transportation disclosed last week that it is delaying construction of the Corona del Mar Freeway because of a lag in gasoline tax receipts.

Bidding for construction of the first major link of the freeway near Bonita Canyon had been scheduled for February.

Councilmen took no formal vote on McInnis request for support, but they

Irvine Council Candidate Smith Seeks Endorsement

Former Irvine Tomorrow chairman Robert Smith, now a candidate for Irvine City Council, vowed today to seek endorsement of the citizens forum organization by vote of all members, Jan. 31.

Smith, an attorney who lives in Turtle Rock, was not among the five candidates selected Saturday by the IT endorsement nominating panel.

That seven-member group, chaired by Dr. Irwin Alber, interviewed nine persons who are seeking IT backing in the March 5 city council election.

The panel recommendation is subject to vote of the full IT membership at the Jan. 31 meeting.

Smith said today he would present his platform to the full membership "which last year elected me chairman."

Smith suggested that platform will differ little in basic philosophy from his previous stands. Smith says he is neither a strict environmentalist nor an advocate of "growth for growth's sake."

Since his appointment to the city planning commission and election as vice chairman of that body, Smith has authored hillside development report suggesting guidelines which may become city law.

The report typifies Smith's stands as a planning commissioner in that the hillside study recommends approval of development by the city except on the steepest or most hazardous slopes.

Smith said today he would stand on his record. "I believe my record and achievements in the city make me a candidate worthy of Irvine Tomorrow support," he said.

"I voluntarily stepped aside as chairman shortly after announcing my

Vending Truck To Be Replaced With Cafeteria

An indoor cafeteria soon will replace the outdoor vending truck which provides snacks to Saddleback College students.

Saddleback trustees Monday authorized a contract with R&R Food Service Systems of Fullerton to run the cafeteria in the old library building.

The building has been kept vacant for that purpose since the school's new library opened last summer.

Saddleback Superintendent Fred Bremer said remodeling is scheduled to begin this month for the cafeteria with opening expected in mid-April.

Tentative hours of operation will be 7:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Vending machines to supplement the hot food offerings will be installed both in the cafeteria and in the new library.

The college will receive five percent on all food service proceeds $15,000 and under; 5.5 percent between $15,000 and $19,999; and six percent between $20,000 and $24,999.

Public Safety Firms Quizzed By Irvine Council

Irvine city councilmen tonight will interview four firms to select a consultant to prepare a city public safety plan.

Expected to be present for the public interview session at 7:30 in city hall are representatives of the following firms:

Arthur D. Little of San Francisco, Public Systems Inc. of Sunnyvale, Ultrasystems of Irvine and Booze, Allen and Hamilton of Los Angeles.

Costs of preparing the police, fire and health services plan range from a $17,500 estimate by the Little firm to a high of $40,000 suggested by Booze, Allen and Hamilton.

Acting Public Safety Director Paul Brady selected the four firms for interviews based on proposals submitted by a total of six firms.

Water Boosted

Irvine Rates Jump 19 Percent

February bills mailed to customers of the Irvine Ranch Water District will be about 19 percent higher, reflecting rate increases approved this month by district directors.

A typical Irvine family of four will receive a water and sewer service bill of about $13.50, up from an average $11.45 before the rate increase, an IRWD spokesman said.

IRWD sewer service charges increased $3 a month from the old charge of $2, and a base water service charge was hiked 25-cents to $1.75, according to the spokesman.

The IRWD spokesman said the district has absorbed two rate increases from its water supplier — the Metropolitan Water District — since the last IRWD increase.

The cost of providing service also has risen, the district contends.

Mrs. Popeil To Retrieve Rolls Royce

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Eloise Popeil, who is facing a court hearing on police charges that she conspired to have her millionaire husband murdered, today is expected to get back the Rolls Royce police confiscated during her arrest in Newport Beach a week ago.

Reached today at her Newport Beach home, Mrs. Popeil said she had no comment to make on any aspect of the police accusations that she and her boyfriend, Daniel Ayers, 37, of Santa Ana hired a Long Beach man to murder Samuel J. Popeil of Chicago.

Police claim the plot fell through when the hit man called the Chicago kitchen gadget millionaire and told him of his estranged wife's plan.

According to police, Mrs. Popeil, 48, and Ayers allegedly wanted Popeil murdered before a pending divorce became final so that she could inherit approximately one-third of his estate, estimated to be worth up to $200 million.

Mrs. Popeil, who wsa freed on $100,000 bail raised by neighbors on Linda Isle and Harbor Island Road, is scheduled to appear in municipal court in Long Beach Monday in the preliminary hearing in the case.

She and Ayers both pleaded innocent to the conspiracy to commit murder charges at their arraingments last week.

Ayers is still in custody, apparently unable to raise the $100,000 bail set by Judge Charles Litwin.

Popeil will go to court there on Friday to seek an order giving him custody of the couple's two teenage daughters and abandonment of the $4,250 monthly alimony and child support payments.

Since their separation, Mrs. Popeil and her two daughters have been living in Newport Beach. She and Ayers were arrested Tuesday night at her home at 519 Harbor Island Road shortly after Ayers drove up to the bayfront home in the Rolls.

Police confiscated the car as evidence in the case, but Newport Beach detective Ken Smith said today it has been authorized for release.

2 Days in Jail

Assemblyman Z'berg Serves Time

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Veteran Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg quietly entered the county jail Friday just after he was sentenced for drunken driving and served a two-day term over the weekend, it was learned today.

In sentencing Z'berg to jail, Municipal Court Judge Haven Courtney gave the 47-year-old Sacramento Democrat 45 days in which to comply.

It was Z'berg's sceond conviction for drunken driving since 1969. Under a state law effecitve Jan. 1, second drunken driving convictions are punishable by a mandatory two days in jail.

Z'berg, chairman of the Assembly Conservation and Natural Resources Committee, was arrested Nov. 17, 1972, after his car rear-ended another vehicle. There were no injuries.

Courtney sentenced Z'berg to 30 days in jail, but suspended 28 days of the term for the duration of one-year probation. He also fined Z'berg $625 and ordered him to participate in the court's "alcoholic re-education program."

Business Plane Crashes in Fog, Killing 2 Men

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A business jet attempting to land at Will Rogers World Airport crashed in a dense fog today four miles short of the runway, killing two persons aboard but just missing several residential areas.

George Clark, chief investigator at the regional office of the National Transportation Safety Board in Fort Worth, Tex., said the aircraft was owned by the Kerr-McGee Corp. of Oklahoma City and was flying from Corpus Christi Tex., to Oklahoma City.

Officials of the Federal Aviation Administration in Oklahoma City said two persons aboard the aircraft were killed, but apparently they were the only casualties.

Kerr-McGee officials identified the dead as pilot Kenneth Blair Hunter, 65, and co-pilot Jack Ernest Garner, 50, both of Oklahoma City.

The plane, a two-engine North American Rockwell Sabreliner with a capacity of eight persons, was on an instrument landing in visibility of a quarter mile.

Couple Hold Up Midway City Store for $1,500

A Midway City market manager who was lured to the rear of his store Monday night by a female customer lost more than $1,500 when he found her male accomplice waiting for him.

Sheriff's officers said manager Paul William Voshell, 55, of the Midway Market, 8121 Bolsa Ave., was robbed at knifepoint by the heavily built male after the woman asked him to help her select a dinner wine from the display at the back of the store.

Deputies said the robbery team took $1,553.84 from Voshell's cash register and $50 from the manager's wallet.

They then fled from the store after tying Voshell's hands and feet. The manager was able to free himself and summon help.

Little Leaguers In Irvine Area Set for Signups

Signups for the Greater Irvine Little League will be held in two Irvine locations Saturday and again on Jan. 26.

Registration tables will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at both the University Park and Walnut Village Shopping centers on both days.

Boys who are at least 8 years old and will not be older than 15 on July 31, 1974, are eligible. Any boy who has not previously been enrolled in Irvine Little League is required to bring a birth certificate to the registration desk.

Little League fees are $20 for each player or $30 for a family.

Irvine Voter Registration Set

Irvine residents wishing to register to vote in the March 5 election may do so three afternoons next week in city hall.

City Clerk Carol Flynn said today a deputy voter registrar will be at city hall from 1 to 4 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, in room 200, Town Center, 4201 Campus Drive.

Commuters Delayed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Commuters riding the computer-age Bay Area Rapid Transit system to San Francisco were delayed up to one hour Monday because the doors refused to open automatically. BART officials said the problem on the seven-car train from Daly City was an electronic component that refused to relay door opening signals.

Total Enrolled At Saddleback Declines 9.4%

Total enrollment for the winter quarter at Saddleback College is 4,390, down 9.4 percent from the fall term enrollment.

Saddleback Superintendent Fred Bremer said the drop was "normal attrition" experienced every year between the two terms.

Last year a reduction of seven percent was noted.

Of the total, 1,639 students are full time, carrying 12 units or more, and 2,751 are part-time, carrying less than 12 unts.

Eleven classes were dropped because of inadequate enrollment — —seven in the day program, one in the night program, and three in the off-campus program at six high schools.

All three of the unfilled off-campus classes were at Laguna Beach High School. Night classes also are offered at San Clemente High School and Irvine University.

In the extended campus program, a total of 420 students enrolled, with the most, 150, at Tustin High School. Residents in that area recently have complained of not enough course offerings and the distance to the main campus in Mission Viejo.

psychiatrist last Dec. 19 and Jan. 2, depicts the buxom redhead responding to his questioning in the slow, slurred manner induced by his injection of the tranquilizer.

The screening was carefully kept from the jury until today.

Lewis believes the movies will considerably enhance his hopes for a favorable verdict in the $1 million lawsuit against the health spa.

Ruston angrily condemned the movies as "self serving, leading and suggestive and extremely inflammatory" and repeatedly pointed out to Judge Murray that he had no opportunity to cross examine Mrs. Parson in either circumstance, drugged or otherwise.

Dr. Benton argued before he showed the films that it was only fair for the jury to see Mrs. Parson at her most relaxed moments which could only be in the office of her psychiatrist.

Her courtroom testimony has been offered under circumstances that are particularly adverse to any person suffering the kind of psychiatric trauma Mrs. Parson is undergoing, Benton told Judge Murray and the two lawyers.

Mrs. Parson's statements under the drugs and otherwise were identical: that before she was trapped in the sauna room of the Orange health spa on March 2, 1970, she was a happily married Catholic woman whose life was devoted to her husband and seven children.

She stated in both video tape sequences that any spare time she had was devoted to the Catholic church, Catholic youth programs and the PTA.

Mrs. Parson broke down and wept at the end of the first movie as she told Dr. Benton how Maria took possession of her body, donned sexy clothes that she would never have worn under normal conditions and set off for local bars in a hunt for men and sexual relationships.

Mrs. Parson, who has been known to her family and friends from an early age as Betty, again named several of the many men she has known over the past three years.

She listed among her favorite bars in the hunt for extramarital mates the Newporter Inn and the Stuft Shirt in Newport Beach.

"When I'm Maria I just want to run away," she hesitantly mumbled under the influence of the truth drug. "Maria wants sex and she wants to be held by a man—one thing leads to the other."

She also relates in both interviews the nature of the dreams she states she has experienced almost nightly since her ordeal in the 170-degree sauna room.

Mrs. Parson tells Benton of being imprisoned in a cube of ice, of being carried along in a flow of hot lava and of looking down from the sky at boiling, steaming water.

"Maria comes out of the top of my head and takes over my soul," the redhead tells Dr. Benton. "I fight her and fight her but sometimes she is too strong for me."

Lewis stated Monday that Mrs. Parson still eludes her husband and family when she is dominated by the Maria personality an ddrives off alone from the Anaheim home.

Mrs. Parson told Dr. Benton in both interviews that she will often offer her husband and family the excuse that she needs a loaf of bread or a pair of stockings to escape from the home when Maria takes control.

Lewis said Dr. Benton, two other psychiatrists who have examined Mrs. Parson and Lewis himself while the lawyer was interviewing Mrs. Parson in his San Francisco office have all been invited to join Mrs. Parson at a local bar and receive her sexual favors when she suddenly became Maria during the interview.

President's Brother Don Infuriated

By L. PETER KRIEG
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

President Nixon's brother F. Donald Nixon of Newport Beach today was furious over allegations carried in a United Press International story Monday that he profited from the fraudulent sale of stock to billionaire Howard Hughes.

Nixon said his only tie to Hughes was through former good friend John Meier, a former Newport Beach resident and former mining consultant for Hughes. Meier was indicted Monday in Las Vegas on charges of income tax evasion and fraud against the federal government.

Nixon for some time has been predicting the indictment and contended that Meier brought in the Nixon name in hopes things would go easy for him.

"Mr. Meier is in very deep trouble," Nixon said.

"But beyond that, I have no comment, other than to say those investigators are going to have some red faces too," he said.

In its story Monday, UPI said the Senate Watergate Committee is investigating the possibliy that Donald Nixon received "substantial sums" of money from former Hughes aides for his help in mining claim ventures.

The story linked Donald Nixon to Meier because of a trip the two made to the Dominican Republic in 1969.

Nixon claims the trip was purely pleasure. He said he went to see Meier receive that country's Christopher Columbus award.

UPI said the trip may be tied to allegations by Meier that Donald Nixon sought personal financial gains by offering to use his kinship with the President to win decisions favorable to the Hughes empire.

Monday's indictments charge Meier and three others with shifting huge profits from deals with Hughes to Swiss bank accounts.

U.S. attorney Devoe Heaton said the indictment involves sales of mining claims exceeding $8 million to the Hughes Tool Company, which was then owned by Hughes.

Meier was named in two indictments returned by the Las Vegas Federal Grand Jury on two counts of conspiracy and on two counts of alleged tax evasion —1969 and 1970.

Meier was indicted last year for income tax evasion for 1968.

One conspiracy count charges Meier with defrauding the United States by obstructing the collection of income tax as a result of the sale of mining claims by Alan Jarlson, Las Vegas television newsman, to the Hughes Tool Company.

Others indicted along with Meier on a second conspiracy count were Anthony Hatsis, 47, and James P. Cowley, 45, both of Salt Lake City, and Robert Kahan, 59, of Los Angeles.

Solon Fights For Men's Rights

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A group of Iowa legislators had moved to strike a blow for equal rights for men.

The legislators filed bills Monday in the Iowa House to create a Commission on the Status of Men and to provide by law for the observance of Father's Day as well as Mother's Day.

Areas Flooded

From Wire Services

Winds of more than 100 miles an hour whipped the Oregon coast during the night and heavy rains fell over much of the state, causing flooding, road closures power outages and school closures. The storm also was bringing rain and snow to Northern California.

At Corvallis, Ore. 15 persons were evacuated from an apartment complex just inside the southwest city limits about 4 a.m. today when rising water threatened their homes. Police Chief Jim Goodman said a fire department tank truck sloshed through 3½ feet of water to bring out the families, most young couples with children.

At Gold Beach, a Greyhound bus carrying 15 passengers north on Highway 101 was halted because of high water. The passengers were lodged in the county jail overnight because there were no other accommodations.

"We drank lots of coffee, had a lot of conversation and a few naps," said a dispatcher.

In eastern Oregon, a foot-deep snowpack at Baker vanished overnight in a downpour of rain.

Road closures throughout Oregon were so numerous police agencies could not keep track of them.

State police said Interstate 5 had only one lane open where a mudslide crashed down 6½ miles north of the California border. Both southbound lanes and one northhbound lane were closed. A state police officer said he did not know when traffic would be restored.

It's a big one," he said.

In Benton County, some roads were covered with 3½ feet of water. Most of the water was runoff, not flooding streams, officers said.

Along the coast, windows were smashed, trees blown over and telephone and electrical power outages were numerous.

A gust of 110 miles per hour was recorded at Mt. Hebo Air Force Station. The wind hit 86 mph at Brookings and 83 at Gold Beach.

Meanwhile the winter storm, packing southerly gales, heavy rain and snow, is on the loose in Northern California.

The front, 200 miles west of California early today, will "bring locally heavy rains south to the Tehachapis today and Wednesday with heavy snow in the northern Sierra Nevada above 6,000 feet," the National Weather Service said.

Forecasters also warned of flooding in low lying coastal areas north of Monterey Bay.

Storm warnings for southerly winds of up to 60 miles per hour were issued for today and Wednesday north of Point Arena on the Mendocino County coastline. Southward to Point Sur, the weather service expected gales ranging from 25 to 45 m.p.h.

The weather service said a weak weather front moved across Northern and Central California Monday, spreading "light to moderate rain southward to the San Francisco Bay area and northern San Joaquin Valley."

More than an inch of rain fell in Eureka while Red Bluff had more than a half inch and San Francisco nearly a quarter inch.

gave clear verbal support to his position.

"We have so few chances to agree with Costa Mesa that I think we ought to follow through with this one," said Vice-mayor Howard Rogers at one point in the discuasion.

It would then read southeasterly. intersect the Newport Freeway, run along the current alignment of Bristol Street to MacArthur Boulevard, and down MacArthur to Bonita Canyon.

Costa Mesa officials, who first became aware of the omission last week, have been working to have the route reinstated in this year's budget.

Costa Mesa Mayor Jack Hammett said Monday he would appeal to Governor Reagan if necessary to keep the freeway construction on schedule.

Led to Grave Of Victims, Says Sheriff

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A drawling East Texas sheriff told a court hearing today that he talked with a teen-ager accused of mass murder "like he were one of my own sons" while the 17-year-old led him to four sandy graves.

Today was the second day of pretrial hearings on one of the six murder charges against Elmer Wayne Henley in connection with a 2½-year spree of homosexual torture-slayings.

Defense lawyers are trying to exclude from evidence oral and written statements Henley gave police before, they say, he was permitted legal counsel.

San Augustine County Sheriff John Hot said Henley led him to four shallow graves near San Augustine in deep East Texas Aug. 9, the day after he was arrested.

"I don't really recall the deatils of what we said. We were talking like he were one of my own sons," the sheriff related.

Hoyt, under cross-examination, testified he complied with Henley's request to see a doctor but Henley later declined the physician's directive to take sleeping pills.

"I asked him why he wanted to see a docctor," Hoyt said, "and he said 'I just wanted to see if you would call one.'"

During Monday's half-day hearing, Mary Pauline Henley, the defendant's mother, testified her son had been hallucinating and was sick when she visited him in jail after his arrest.

District Court Judge William Hatten said the pretrial hearing could take as long as two weeks. Jury selection will begin after the hearing.

Mrs. Henley said her son was "hallucinating — seeing people who weren't there and doors opening from the wrong side. He would see people standing at the open door, standing there laughing at him, and then the door would close again."

Mrs. Henley said she received a telephone call from her son Aug. 8 telling her he killed Dean Arnold Corll, 33, and was being held by police.

Henley called officers in suburban Pasadena Aug. 8 and told them he shot Corll during a sex and paint-sniffing party at Corll's home.

Police said Henley and David Owen Brooks, 18, led officers to the bodies buried at three sites. Brooks is charged in four of the slayings. Brooks and Henley allegedly procured teen-agers for Corll.

Coast Board Nixes Huntington Fourplexes

Nine fourplexes in the town lot area of Huntington Beach were turned down Monday by the regional coastal commission to make way for a city study the developers say won't get done.

Denied "without prejudice" were permit applications by Joseph Shaffer to construct fourplex apartments at 401 and 405 18th St. and by Charles Hermansen to build seven fourplexes along 22nd and 7th Streets.

The section from 6th Street to Golden West Street is currently being studied by the city in a report due at almost anytime, Planner Mike Dadasovich told members of the South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission.

Much of the area, especially west of 17th Street, is still undeveloped and is spotted with oil wells.

The city is considering several alternatives for the older section of town, Dadasovich said, including downzoning part of it, a multistory high density district, commercial sections and the realignment of part of Pacific Coast Highway.

Initially, the town lot report was due now, he said, but the resignation of city Planning Director Ken Reynolds has set it back.

Some commissioners didn't like the idea of a slow down of development in the area. Commissioner Don Phillips of Long Beach said that to him, it sounded like a moratorium.

But Deputy State Attorney General Dennis Antennor said it is "proper for the commission to temporarily delay a development given confusion over local planning."

And Commissioner Robert Rooney supported the move because he said he wants to hold out for a higher density.

With more units allowed, Rooney said, more "lower income people would have a chance to live at the beach."

Shaffer objected that the city has been "studying the town lot area for eight years. I don't know if they're any closer. I've been paying taxes while the land is growing weeds."

Hermansen also complained that the town lot study has "turned into a political football — it's ridiculous."

The area near the beach already "caters to every walk of life," contended Hermansen. "We have millionaires living next door to surfers."

He said he has $16,000 invested in his project that he'll lose unless he can start work by the end of February.

The density on fourplex the projects was 24 dwelling units an acre gross.

A denial "without prejudice" means the commission can consider the project again, without regard to its previous actions.

Tape Gap Deliberate, Panel Hints

The Showdown

John Wayne Off to Harvard

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Newport Beach resident John Wayne saddled up a jetliner Monday and headed east for a showdown at Generation Gap.

WAYNE IS NOT a man to ignore a challenge to have it out, man to man, and that's what he received from the university's satire magazine, the Harvard Lampoon. The editors wrote him challenging him to show just how tough he is, asking if he is willing to face up to "a gang that would rather quote you Marx or Mao Tse-tung than spit in your eye" and face demontrators and counter-demonstrators.

"I don't know a damned thing about it except they challenged me to come," growled Wayne, boarding a plane for the East. "I figure the Harvard boys and I are at opposite ends of the spectrum. They suggested I didn't have the courage to go."

THE HARVARD EDITORS have promised to welcome Wayne with a military convoy, a mock cowboys-and-Indians shootout, a "stampede of some kind of mammal," and a question and answer session after the showing of his latest movie, "MCQ." "It has the makings of a real ugly incident," Lampoon President Jim Downey said in apparent delight.

The Duke was unfazed as he strode out for the showdown. "I hear the last guest they had at one of these things was Linda Lovelace," he said in his parting shot. "I guess she met the challenge."

Opinion On Bible Study Asked

A legal opinion on voluntary Bible study clubs on high school campuses will be requested this week of the Orange County Counsel by Huntington Beach Union High School District administrators.

The request follows last week's board meeting, where more than 100 students and parents asked trustees to allow campus clubs to study the Bible during school hours — such as lunch time.

Spencer Covert, deputy county counsel, explained it may take as long as several months before an opinion can be reached on the matter.

"In the interim, however, we have been in touch with all the principals and have instructed them to let the clubs meet," said Glen Dysinger, assistant superintendent.

A previous Orange County Counsel opinion had ruled that faculty members could not sponsor religious groups on campus and the state education code states that campus groups must have a faculty sponsor.

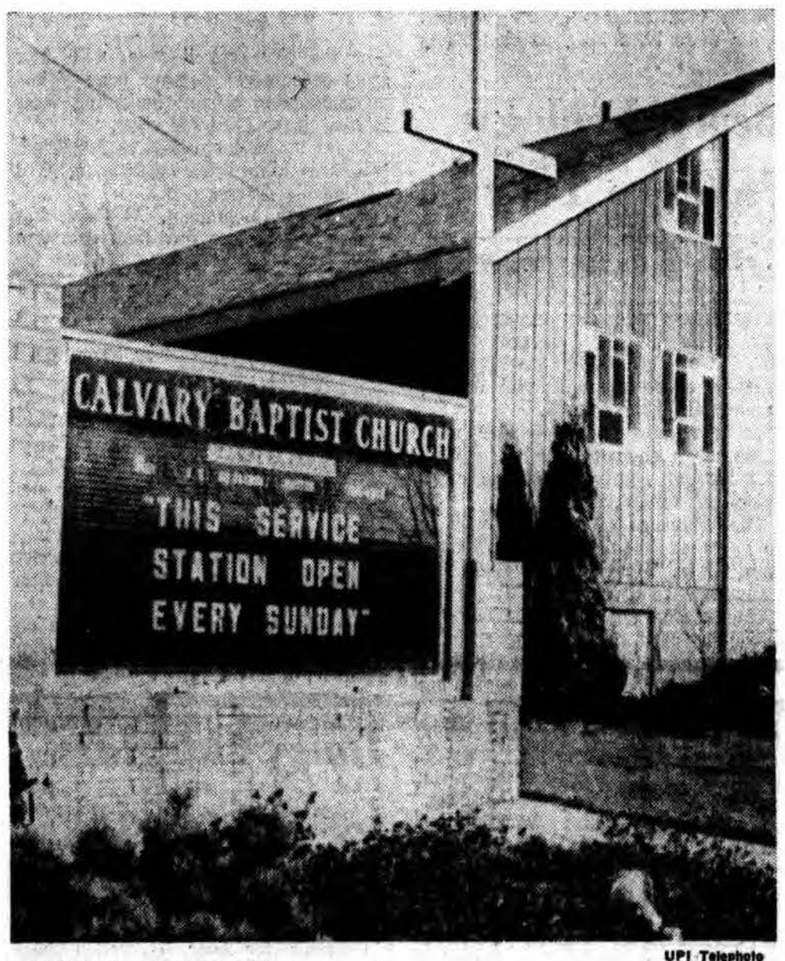

"This is why they were ruled out," Dysinger explained, "but we'll work around it. Principals were told to have some kind of supervision of the clubs, faculty or otherwise."

Covert, who spoke with William Settle, deputy superintendent, on Monday, said he is awaiting a formal request before his office can proceed.

"We have to examine the First Amendment rights, and then look at the specifics in the case," Covert said.

"It's a difficult question," Covert contended. "There's nothing that says a student can't take a Bible with him to campus. But on the other hand, a Billy Graham-type crusade, or a

18-minute Hum Caused By Erasures

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 18½-minute gap in one of President Nixon's key Watergate tapes was caused by erasing and re-recording the tape as many as nine times, technical experts reported to U.S. Judge John J. Sirica today.

Further, the experts said, the erasures had been caused by hand operation of the machine on which it was played — not by a foot pedal as Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, insisted under oath she used while working with the tape.

The experts said there was evidence the tape contained conversation but that there was no known way of recovering an intelligible version.

Without saying so directly, the panel of six audio experts strongly suggested in their final report on the June 20, 1972 tape that its obliteration apparently was deliberate.

"Magnetic signatures that we have measured directly on the tape show that the buzzing sounds were put on the tape in the process of erasing and re-recording at least five, and perhaps as many as nine, separate and contiguous segments . . . The 18.5-minute segment could not have been produced by any single, continuous operation," the report said.

Sirica, who recessed hearings into the tapes issue last month while awaiting the experts' report, immediately called an open court hearing at which the experts were summoned to testify.

Copies of the report were given to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski and his staff and to White House lawyers at a meeting with Sirica this morning.

The White House issued a statement saying the experts' report had been received and was under review, and that "it would be altogether incorrect and improper for premature judgments or conclusions to be reached" about the tape at this time.

The tape involved a conversation Nixon had with then White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman on the first working day after the June 17, 1972 Watergate bugging arrests. Haldeman's notes of that meeting, introduced into evidence earlier in Sirica's court, show that Watergate was discussed during the 18½-minute segment now obliterated

Plunges Into Canal

19 Laborers Drown, 28 Hurt in Bus Accident

BLYTHE (AP) — Nineteen farm laborers drowned and 28 others were injured today when a bus taking them to work plunged into 10 feet of water in a drainage canal, the highway patrol said. Three of the victims were women.

The bus failed to make a curve at a rural intersection seven miles southwest of this southeastern California desert town, the patrol said.

The fully loaded vehicle went over a 20-foot embankment and landed on its side in the water.

The people were stacked up like dominoes against each other toward the front of the bus," said highway patrolman Robin Howard. "The driver was jammed into the steering wheel with all the others behind him."

None of the victims was immediately identified. The patrol said most were Mexican nationals being brought from the border city of Mexicali to work in the fields.

The injured, some in serious condition, were taken to Palos Verdes Hospital in ambulances and sheriff's patrol cars. The ambulances made three round trips between the accident scene and the hospital.

"There were some broken arms and legs but none seemed in critical condition," Howard said.

He said the bus seats were ripped loose by the impact, and the injured crawled out through windows and the front door.

The patrol said the bus was one of three owned by Jesse Ayala, a labor contractor of Brawley.

The accident occurred in the darkness about 6:30 a.m. at the intersection of Rannels Boulevard and 20th Avenue near the farming community of Ripley.

The patrol said the canal, which passes under the roadway, was carrying more water than usual, draining salt from the fields.

Mrs. Popeil May Receive Impounded Rolls Royce

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Eloise Popeil, who is facing a court hearing on police charges that she conspired to have her millionaire husband murdered, today is expected to get back the Rolls Royce police confiscated during her arrest in Newport Beach a week ago.

Reached today at her Newport Beach home, Mrs. Popeil said she had no comment to make on any aspect of the police accusations that she and her boyfriend, Daniel Ayers, 37, of Santa Ana hired a Long Beach man to murder Samuel J. Popeil of Chicago.

Police claim the plot fell through when the hit man called the Chicago kitchen gadget millionaire and told him of his estranged wife's plan.

According to police, Mrs. Popeil, 48, and Ayers allegedly wanted Popeil murdered before a pending divorce became final so that she could inherit approximately one-third of his estate, estimated to be worth up to $200 million.

Mrs. Popeil, who wsa freed on $100,000 bail raised by neighbors on Linda Isle and Harbor Island Road, is scheduled to appear in municipal court in Long Beach Monday in the preliminary hearing in the case.

She and Ayers both pleaded innocent to the conspiracy to commit murder charges at their arraingments last week.

Ayers is still in custody, apparently

Suspect Guilty In Molesting Of Two Girls

Sturgeon was tried in Los Angeles County Superior Court for the Nov. 20 kidnaping and molesting of two Gardena girls.

Huntington Beach Patrolman Arthur Droz spotted Sturgeon and the older girl on the freeway and took the unemployed machinist into custody when the child told him she had been taken from her home two days before.

Truth Serum Film Okayed

Sauna Court Jury to View Movie of Mrs. Parson

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When Maria Parson completes her testimony from the witness stand today in the Orange County Superior Court sauna bath trial the jury will view a movie made while she was under the influence of a so-called "truth serum."

Judge William Murray made the ruling that enables attorney Marvin Lewis Sr. to screen two video tape films in the courtroom. The decision came after a four-hour out-of-court session Monday in the offices of Dr. Deane A. Benton, the Santa Ana psychiatrist.

"I'll let 'em in," Judge Murray said after a bitter argument between Lewis and Holiday Health Spa attorney Donald A. Ruston on the admissibility of the two films.

One of the movies run by Dr. Benton in the privacy of his office depicts his interview last Oct. 25 with Mrs. Parson, 50, when she is not under the influence of sodium amytol.

The second movie, shot by the psychiatrist last Dec. 19 and Jan. 2, depicts the buxom redhead responding to his questioning in the slow, slurred manner induced by his injection of the tranquilizer.

The screening was carefully kept from the jury until today.

Lewis believes the movies will considerably enhance his hopes for a favorable verdict in the $1 million lawsuit against the health spa.

Ruston angrily condemned the movies as "self serving, leading and suggestive and extremely inflammatory" and repeatedly pointed out to Judge Murray that he had no opportunity to cross examine Mrs. Parson in either circumstance, drugged or otherwise.

Dr. Benton argued before he showed the films that it was only fair for the jury to see Mrs. Parson at her most relaxed moments which could only be in the office of her psychiatrist.

Her courtroom testimony has been offered under circumstances that are particularly adverse to any person suffering the kind of psychiatric trauma Mrs. Parson is undergoing, Benton told Judge Murray and the two lawyers.

Mrs. Parson's statements under the drugs and otherwise were identical: that before she was trapped in the sauna room of the Orange health spa on March 2, 1970, she was a happily married Catholic woman whose life was devoted to her husband and seven children.

She stated in both video tape sequences that any spare time she had was devoted

Countian Gets 90 Days After Fraud Conviction

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Edward S. Golka, 41, of Tustin was sentenced to 90 days in jail after pleading no contest to illegal sale of real property securities and illegal advertisement of subdivisions and securities.

The sentence imposed Monday by Superior Court Judge Franklin B. Orfield was a condition to three years' probation.

A codefendant in the case, James P. Tucker of Huntington Beach, pleaded no contest earlier to offering to sell subdivision lands illegally, was fined $250 and placed on probation for a year.

Dist. Atty. Edwin L. Miller said they were accused of defrauding local investors of more than $200,000.

Judge Says Evidence Admissible

Judge William Murray is bucking an appellate court for the second time on the same issue in his belief that an interview carried out while the patient is under the influence of the "truth serum" sodium amytol is admissible evidence.

His controversial ruling in the Parson trial is identical to that he made two years ago in the murder trial of former Marine Mark Allen Johnson of San Clemente.

Judge Murray's thinking in Johnson's first trial was rejected by the Fourth District Court of Appeals which ordered a new trial. But he drew powerful support in that decision from dissenting Justice Robert Gardner of Newport Beach.

Gardner vigorously defended Judge Murray's ruling and commented: "This case represents a classic reflection of the attitude of the courts towards the rules of evidence which I find completely out of step with the facts of life as they exist today."

Johnson, now 22, was found guilty of second degree murder in his first nonjury trial on charges that he stabbed and killed his pregnant wife, Connie, 22, in the couple's Monterey Lane apartment.

His second jury trial ended in a lesser verdict of voluntary manslaughter after the controversial truth serum interview was barred from evidence before the jury.

Both lawyers in the Parson trial commented late Monday that, whatever the verdict, the issue is sure to go before the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Parson broke down and wept at the end of the first movie as she told Dr. Benton how Maria took possession of her body, donned sexy clothes that she would never have worn under normal conditions and set off for local bars in a hunt for men and sexual relationships.

Mrs. Parson, who has been known to her family and friends from an early age as Betty, again named several of the many men she has known over the past three years.

She listed among her favorite bars in the hunt for extramarital mates the Newporter Inn and the Stuft Shirt in Newport Beach.

"When I'm Maria I just want to run away," she hesitantly mumbled under the influence of the truth drug. "Maria wants sex and she wants to be held by a man—one thing leads to the other."

She also relates in both interviews the nature of the dreams she states she has experienced almost nightly since her ordeal in the 170-degree sauna room.

Mrs. Parson tells Benton of being imprisoned in a cube of ice, of being carried along in a flow of hot lava and of looking down from the sky at boiling, steaming water.

"Maria comes out of the top of my head and takes over my soul," the redhead tells Dr. Benton. "I fight her and fight her but sometimes she is too strong for me."

Lewis stated Monday that Mrs. Parson still eludes her husband and family when she is dominated by the Maria personality an ddrives off alone from the Anaheim home.

Mrs. Parson told Dr. Benton in both interviews that she will often offer her husband and family the excuse that she needs a loaf of bread or a pair of stockings to escape from the home when Maria takes control.

New Space Champions

Skylab Crewmen Break All Flying Traveler Records

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 3's astronauts, the new world champions of space flight, today began four days without darkness in sunlight that could cause heat discomfort.

Like many energy-conscious earthlings, they turned off some lights, but for different reasons. They want to cool the station.

Gerald P. Carr of Santa Ana, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson, formerly of San Clemente, Monday night became history's longest-flying space travelers as they broke the single mission record of 59 days, 11 hours, 9 minutes, which had been set by the Skylab 2 crew.

"You guys are now the world champs," mission control communicator Richard Truly informed the astronauts at 6:10 p.m. PDT, "the longest man has been in space."

"Let's hang in here and get the rest of it," mission commander Carr replied. "You guys on the ground have kept us here. Send our compliments to everyone on the ground. It's not our record, it's everybody's record."

The astronauts soared on toward their goal of 84 days. They are to return to earth Feb. 8.

They might begin to feel somewhat uncomfortable today as temperatures climb inside their orbiting station because of the high angle of the sun in relation to the spacecraft.

"They'll see no darkness, only daylight, until Saturday," said flight director Charles Lewis.

For most of the mission, the astronauts have whirled through either a sunset or a sunrise every 46 minutes as they orbited the globe.

But for several days, the sun has been moving into a position where they have seen fewer nights. The position, called a high beta angle by mission control, will bathe the station in direct sunlight until Saturday. Then normal-night cycles will begin to return.

The most noticeable effect has been a temperature rise inside the station from 71 to 79 degrees.

"This thermal situation is going to worsen," Lewis told newsmen. "We expect the temperature to rise to somewhere between 80 and 85 degrees."

Lewis said that, in the next few days, some earth resources surveys might be canceled because these require maneuvers that expose more vulnerable areas of the orbiting craft to solar heat.

A week ago, the astronauts shut off about half the lights in the station, turning certain ones on only when needed, to keep the heat down.

President's Brother Don Infuriated

By L. PETER KRIEG
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

President Nixon's brother F. Donald Nixon of Newport Beach today was furious over allegations carried in a United Press International story Monday that he profited from the fraudulent sale of stock to billionaire Howard Hughes.

Nixon said his only tie to Hughes was through former good friend John Meier, a former Newport Beach resident and former mining consultant for Hughes. Meier was indicted Monday in Las Vegas on charges of income tax evasion and fraud against the federal government.

Nixon for some time has been predicting the indictment and contended that Meier brought in the Nixon name in hopes things would go easy for him.

"Mr. Meier is in very deep trouble," Nixon said.

"But beyond that, I have no comment, other than to say those investigators are going to have some red faces too," he said.

In its story Monday, UPI said the Senate Watergate Committee is investigating the possibliy that Donald Nixon received "substantial sums" of money from former Hughes aides for his help in mining claim ventures.

The story linked Donald Nixon to Meier because of a trip the two made to the Dominican Republic in 1969.

Nixon claims the trip was purely pleasure. He said he went to see Meier receive that country's Christopher Columbus award.

UPI said the trip may be tied to allegations by Meier that Donald Nixon sought personal financial gains by offering to use his kinship with the President to win decisions favorable to the Hughes empire.

Monday's indictments charge Meier and three others with shifting huge profits from deals with Hughes to Swiss bank accounts.

U.S. attorney Devoe Heaton said the indictment involves sales of mining claims exceeding $8 million to the Hughes Tool Company, which was then owned by Hughes.

Meier was named in two indictments returned by the Las Vegas Federal Grand Jury on two counts of conspiracy and on two counts of alleged tax evasion —1969 and 1970.

Meier was indicted last year for income tax evasion for 1968.

One conspiracy count charges Meier with defrauding the United States by obstructing the collection of income tax as a result of the sale of mining claims by Alan Jarlson, Las Vegas television newsman, to the Hughes Tool Company.

Others indicted along with Meier on a second conspiracy count were Anthony Hatsis, 47, and James P. Cowley, 45, both of Salt Lake City, and Robert Kahan, 59, of Los Angeles.

No Challengers

City Attorney Bonfa Takes Election Papers

City Attorney Don Bonfa has picked up nomination papers to seek re-election to his post in the April 9 Huntington Beach municipal elections.

Bonfa took out his papers Monday. So far there have been no challengers for the attorney's post.

No challengers have stepped forward yet for the city clerk's job with incumbent Alicia Wentworth the only person who has taken out nomination papers.

In the city council race, with four seats open, seven persons have picked up nomination papers indicating their interest in the April 9 election.

Of the seven contenders so far listed, two are incumbent councilmen, Ted Bartlett and Norma Gibbs.

One other incumbent, Al Coen, has said he will seek a third four-year term of office, but has not picked up his papers, while the fourth, Jack Green, is stepping off the council this year for a move to Los Angeles.

The five challengers who have tossed their hats in the ring so far are: Dr. Ralph Bauer, a trustee on both the Huntington Beach Union High School District and the Ocean View (elementary) School District; Bruce Gabrielson, an electronics engineer and surfing official; George McCracken, a former councilman; Mark Porter, a city planning commissioner; and Harriet Wieder, head of the city's environmental council.

The deadline for filing nomination papers with the city clerk is noon, Jan. 31.

Beach Ecology Panel to Tour City Resources

Members of the city environmental council will take a four-hour "grass roots" tour of Huntington Beach Saturday, according to Harriet Wieder, chairwoman of the council.

The tour is designed to give most of the city's environmentalists a first-hand look at nearly all of the city's major land resources.

"The emphasis of the tour will be the city's environmental and economic needs," Mrs. Wieder says. "There has to be a balance of both."

Some of the tour spots include the central city park, the Bolsa Chica Bluffs, the state ecological preserve in the Bolsa Marsh and more than a dozen other significant sites.

City staff members, such as Public Works Director Bill Hartge, environmental planner Carol Schwartz, environmental engineer Jerry Jackson, Parks Director Norm Worthy and economic development director Bill Back, will explain the significance of some of the land resources.

Mrs. Wieder said the tour will help the environmental council better understand its work in reviewing proposed projects which could affect both the environment and the economy.

Plan to Turn Bunker Into Bar Goes on Agenda

A proposal to convert an old World War II Army bunker into a restaurant-night club will go before the Huntington Beach planning commission tonight during the commission's 7 o'clock meeting.

It sits in county territory but the owner, Donald E. Goodell, a Huntington Beach resident, wants the city to prezone his six acres so he can be assured the bunker-style restaurant can be built. He first suggested this project in November, 1972, but has not obtained approval from city planners because the entire marsh is still under study.

Staff planners will ask the commission to delay the requested prezoning until Feb. 19 to await the outcome of a special traffic study, county studies and development plans for the marsh being prepared by Signal Oil Co., owner of most of the marsh.

The bunker restaurant has been one of the sore points which recently touched off a heated verbal exchange between Mayor Jerry Matney and the planning commission.

Matney criticized commissioners for delaying this specific project as well as many other projects pending the outcome of studies which never seem to finish.

Commissioners had blamed the staff for the slow studies, but contended such items as the requested prezoning should not be granted until the entire area's future is decided.

Couple Found Dead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The bodies of Cynthia Washington, 19, and Maurice McFarland, 45, were found Monday with bullets in their head in what police described as a murder-suicide. Inspectors Ron Schneider and Al Podesta quoted a friend of the couple, Beatrice Lawson, as saying the couple argued in a bedroom and then she heard Miss Washington cry, "Go ahead, shoot me."

Dairy Burglars Get Everything --Except Milk

Cravings for beer, cigarettes, beef jerky and potato chips — but not milk — brought burglars to the Rockview Dairy in Fountain Valley early Monday morning.

Owners of the dairy, at 9080 Talbert Ave., could not estimate their losses this morning, but said large amounts of beer were missing from the dairy.

Cartons of cigarettes were among the booty taken, police reported.

According to police, the burglars exited over the rear wall of the dairy, leaving footprints in a freshly plowed field. The suspects also left samples of their haul on all sides of the wall, and in bushes and street corners surrounding the dairy.

Since their separation, Mrs. Popeil and her two daughters have been living in Newport Beach. She and Ayers were arrested Tuesday night at her home at 519 Harbor Island Road shortly after Ayers drove up to the bayfront home in the Rolls.

Police confiscated the car as evidence in the case, but Newport Beach detective Ken Smith said today it has been authorized for release.

London Railway Workers Strike

LONDON (AP) — Most of Britain's railway engineers struck for 24 hours today and commuters relying on cars snarled traffic in London and other cities.

The traffic congestion was less severe than expected in some areas. Some commuters apparently were staying home as they did last week when a one-day rail stoppage caused massive traffic jams.

All passenger train service was halted, but some freight trains kept running.

Couple Hold Up Midway City Store for $1,500

A Midway City market manager who was lured to the rear of his store Monday night by a female customer lost more than $1,500 when he found her male accomplice waiting for him.

Sheriff's officers said manager Paul William Voshell, 55, of the Midway Market, 8121 Bolsa Ave., was robbed at knifepoint by the heavily built male after the woman asked him to help her select a dinner wine from the display at the back of the store.

Deputies said the robbery team took $1,553.84 from Voshell's cash register and $50 from the manager's wallet.

They then fled from the store after tying Voshell's hands and feet. The manager was able to free himself and summon help.

Solon Fights For Men's Rights

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A group of Iowa legislators had moved to strike a blow for equal rights for men.

The legislators filed bills Monday in the Iowa House to create a Commission on the Status of Men and to provide by law for the observance of Father's Day as well as Mother's Day.

Valley District Classes Open To Old, Young

Classes and seminars for everyone — from children to senior citizens — are again being offered by the Fountain Valley School District Community Schools program.

Registration for the various classes continues through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at school district offices, Number One Lightouse Lane, Fountain Valley.

Those who are unable to register in time, however, may do so at the individual class, a spokesman for the program explained.

In addition to classes on a wide variety of topics, the program offers individual one night only workshops and seminars.

One such workshop will be "Preventing Fire in Your Home" Jan. 23, from 7 to 9 p.m. Another workshop concerns drugs, entitled, "Family Life and the Drug Scene". This workshop, taught by county drug educator Dr. Herb Brayer, will be held Feb. 28, from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

Sports will also be a large part of the program. There will be a sports clinic which will cover common sports injuries, how to prevent them, and how to care for them. It will meet Wednesday evenings, Feb. 13 and 20, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Another sports class will be "Self Defense and Exercise for Women", meeting Monday evenings from 7 to 8 p.m. for six weeks, beginning Jan. 21. The cost is $7.

For children, "Youth Bowling" is offered on Tuesday afternoons at 4 p.m. The class spans three weeks, is free and includes professional instruction.

Another phase of the Community Schools schedule concerns crafts. Paper tole, a 3-D art, and liquid embroidery are two of the craft classes planned. Both begin Jan. 22.

Sheriff: 'Led to 4 Graves'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A drawling East Texas sheriff told a court hearing today that he talked with a teen-ager accused of mass murder "like he were one of my own sons" while the 17-year-old led him to four sandy graves.

Today was the second day of pretrial hearings on one of the six murder charges against Elmer Wayne Henley in connection with a 2½-year spree of homosexual torture-slayings.

Defense lawyers are trying to exclude from evidence oral and written statements Henley gave police before, they say, he was permitted legal counsel.

San Augustine County Sheriff John Hot said Henley led him to four shallow graves near San Augustine in deep East Texas Aug. 9, the day after he was arrested.

"I don't really recall the deatils of what we said. We were talking like he were one of my own sons," the sheriff related.

Hoyt, under cross-examination, testified he complied with Henley's request to see a doctor but Henley later declined the physician's directive to take sleeping pills.

"I asked him why he wanted to see a docctor," Hoyt said, "and he said 'I just wanted to see if you would call one.'"

During Monday's half-day hearing, Mary Pauline Henley, the defendant's mother, testified her son had been hallucinating and was sick when she visited him in jail after his arrest.

District Court Judge William Hatten said the pretrial hearing could take as long as two weeks. Jury selection will begin after the hearing.

Mrs. Henley said her son was "hallucinating — seeing people who weren't there and doors opening from the wrong side. He would see people standing at the open door, standing there laughing at him, and then the door would close again."

Business Plane Crashes in Fog, Killing 2 Men

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A business jet attempting to land at Will Rogers World Airport crashed in a dense fog today four miles short of the runway, killing two persons aboard but just missing several residential areas.

George Clark, chief investigator at the regional office of the National Transportation Safety Board in Fort Worth, Tex., said the aircraft was owned by the Kerr-McGee Corp. of Oklahoma City and was flying from Corpus Christi-Tex., to Oklahoma City.

Officials of the Federal Aviation Administration in Oklahoma City said two persons aboard the aircraft were killed, but apparently they were the only casualties.

Kerr-McGee officials identified the dead as pilot Kenneth Blair Hunter, 65, and co-pilot Jack Ernest Garner, 50, both of Oklahoma City.

Candidate Tells Offer Of Funding

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Marshall Norris figures it will cost him $63,000 to run for Orange County Sheriff but said he has already turned down a $52,000 "big money" donation to help him on his way.

"To be frank, I am scared of some of the money being offered to candidates for nonpartisan office these days," said Norris, a 47-year-old Superior Court clerk and former Sheriff's lieutenant.

"A group of people in Santa Ana came to my home and offered me $52,000 but I refused to take it," he said. "I won't name them right now because I am investigating to see if they have done anything illegal."

This will be Norris' second try to win the job. He was defeated by a landslide in 1970 by Sheriff James Musick, who is retiring this year after 25 years.

Norris said he refused the big money in his first campaign and has no regrets.

"Most of my financial support is going to come from people in my church and from many friends in the county," he said. "I know there is money to be had from groups like the Lincoln Club (an organization of top Republican businessmen) but I won't touch it."

The North Carolina native said he will conduct a newspaper advertisement and precinct-walking campaign and put very little emphasis on signs and mailings.

Norris lives in Buena Park with his wife and six children. He went into law enforcement after getting a bachelor's degree in police science and served in the sheriff's department for 10 years.

He said he is hopeful of beating his opponents on the basis of his platform of departmental reorganization. So far, only one other man — Sheriff's Lt. Bradley Gates — has announced he will run.

Heavy Rains Close Roads And Schools

From Wire Services

Winds of more than 100 miles an hour whipped the Oregon coast during the night and heavy rains fell over much of the state, causing flooding, road closures power outages and school closures. The storm also was bringing rain and snow to Northern California.

At Corvallis, Ore. 15 persons were evacuated from an apartment complex just inside the southwest city limits about 4 a.m. today when rising water threatened their homes. Police Chief Jim Goodman said a fire department tank truck sloshed through 3½ feet of water to bring out the families, most young couples with children.

At Gold Beach, a Greyhound bus carrying 15 passengers north on Highway 101 was halted because of high water. The passengers were lodged in the county jail overnight because there were no other accommodations.

"We drank lots of coffee, had a lot of conversation and a few naps," said a dispatcher.

Road closures throughout Oregon were so numerous police agencies could not keep track of them.

State police said Interstate 5 had only one lane open where a mudslide crashed down 6½ miles north of the California border. Both southbound lanes and one northhbound lane were closed. A state police officer said he did not know when traffic would be restored.

Along the coast, windows were smashed, trees blown over and telephone and electrical power outages were numerous.

A gust of 110 miles per hour was recorded at Mt. Hebo Air Force Station. The wind hit 86 mph at Brookings and 83 at Gold Beach.

Meanwhile the winter storm, packing southerly gales, heavy rain and snow, is on the loose in Northern California.

The front, 200 miles west of California early today, will "bring locally heavy rains south to the Tehachapis today and Wednesday with heavy snow in the northern Sierra Nevada above 6,000 feet," the National Weather Service said.

Forecasters also warned of flooding in low lying coastal areas north of Monterey Bay.

LONDON (UPI) — A hotel has mailed apologies to thousands of British men for any embarrassment caused by a circular letter announcing the reopening of its restaurant.

He said the mailing list was selected by an agency and did not necessarily include previous clients.

Brannon, 43, to Quit As Saddleback Trustee

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

With a public apology and a testimony to "the crutch of prayer," Saddleback College trustee Alyn Brannon of Santa Ana resigned his post Monday night.

Brannon, 43, a charter member and former president of the board, pleaded guilty to bookmaking charges in Orange County Superior Court last month.

He said he will remain in office until a successor is elected in the June primary.

"I want to publicly apologize to my family for the embarrassment and shame I have caused them for the actions I may have done in the past," Brannon said.

"The past year and a half have been very difficult, and without the love and affection they've shown for me I doubt that I could have survived," he added.

The Santa Ana trustee said he plans to "dedicate the rest of my life to repaying my family for their love."

And he added in making his decision he had relied on "a crutch—a crutch many of us should use but all too often do not—and that is prayer."

He said he had talked to many friends in the last month to determine what his action should be, and apologized to them for any embarrassment he had caused the school and its staff. "I am truly sorry," he said.

Board members made no comment on Brannon's remarks, but two of them, Patrick Backus and Hans Vogel, said privately they had talked with Brannon about his possible resignation and urged him to do so.

In the audience were acting student body president David Hall and five of the eight candidates for another seat soon to be vacated—that of Michael Collins who resigned last November.

One of them, Norrisa Brandt of Irvine, had entered the race with Barnnon's resignation as a chief plank.

"I am glad Mr. Brannon has thought of the community," Mrs. Brandt said after the speech. "He did the right thing. I was surprised to hear him ask forgiveness. And I know that was hard on him but best for all."

Also present was Lee Rhodes, president of the Saddleback College Faculty Association.

The faculty gave Brannon a direct communication which was not made available to the press.

But Rhodes said "We wanted positive action, and I think what has happened here tonight was positive. We are satisfied with the outcome."

Mercy Killing Dismissal Move Nixed by Judge

MINEOLA, N.Y. (UPI) — A judge has rejected a bid by defense attorneys to dismiss murder charges against a surgeon accused of the "mercy killing" of a terminally ill cancer patient.

Lawyers for Dr. Vincent Montemarano, 34, chief resident surgeon at the Nassau County Medical Center, argued that national publicity made it impossible for him to receive a fair trial anywhere in the country.

However, Nassau County Judge Raymond Wilkes ruled Monday "there is every probability, every certainty, that we will have a fair and impartial jury."

The small, balding doctor pleaded innocent last June to charges he injected a lethal dose of potassium chloride into the veins of Eugene Bauer, 59.

Nassau County District Attorney William Cahn, who has not tried a case since he took the post in 1962, said he would conduct the prosecution "because of the philosophical and legal questions" involved in euthanasia, or mercy killing.

But defense attorney J. Russell Clune warned the 72 prospective jurors not to forget about references in the news media to a supposed "mercy killing."

45 Injured as Amtrak Leaves Tracks

By The Associated Press

"The last thing I remember is seeing flying glass and flying people," Pricilla Heidner says of the derailment of Amtrak's crack Texas Chief passenger train.

The Texas Chief left the tracks near Ardmore, Okla., Monday, resulting in injuries to 45 persons. That was one three train accidents around the country.

AT McGREGOR, Tex., two tank cars carrying petrochemicals derailed and exploded, but no injuries were reported. In Pennsylvania, four tank cars carrying compressed chlorine overturned and ruptured in a sparsely populated area near White Haven. There were no reported injuries.

The Texas Chief, southbound from Chicago to Houston with 115 passengers aboard, was movin gthrough an industrial area on the northeastern outskirts of Ardmore when it derailed at 55 miles per hour.

Several persons were pinned inside derailed cars for a time before being rescued by workmen with pry bars. Two of the cars, including the dining car, turned on their sides. The dining car caught fire.

"Everyone and everything was going everywhere," said Mrs. Heidner of Austin, Tex., who was in the diner. "My first thought was: 'This is the end.' "

"I JUST HUNG on," said Samuel H. Treadway, 74 ,of Oklahoma City. "The car started jumping It was on the right side of the train, and the care began tilting to the left, so to kep from being thrown across the car I just hung on to my seat."

Of the 45 persons injured, 29 received emergency treatment and were released. Sixteen were hospitalized, including Mrs. Don Summers of Arlington, Tex., who suffered a broken back.

"It looked like an atom bomb had exploded," said John M. Gardner, a McGregor resident, of the blast at the Texas community.

Police evacuated scores of persons from a 22-block area as firemen fought a fire that followed the explosion.

The Santa Fe Railway said five tank cars among 12 cars that derailed were carrying vinyl chloride, chlorine gas, naphtha and other combustibles. Two of the derailed tank cars exploded and burned.

WITNESSES SAID one car in the 23-car train was leaking naphtha as the train neared the McGregor depot and the cars derailed when the crew attempted an emergency stop.

State police advised residents within a half-mile of the accident to evacuate their homes through Monday night because of chlorine fumes.

"A whiff of this stuff doesn't kill you, but a big dose could," said State Police Sgt. John Hosking.

Sheriff Hangs Up His Guns

OFF AND RUNNING DEPT. — Over the past three decades, Orange County has been blessed with considerable new population. So it may suprise many when they are informed of how long incumbent Sheriff James Musick has held forth in office.

Do you know how long its been since we had a real election contest for sheriff in these parts?

Twenty-eight years, that's how long.

Oh well, the office has come up for election regular as clockwork, every four years. But against Sheriff Musick, it has been strictly no-contest.

Take 1972, for example, when a county clerk named Marshall Norris challenged incumbent Musick at the polls.

WHEN THE VOTES WERE counted up yonder at the County Seat, Musick had 208,941. Norris gathered 56,733. Yet another no-contest.

So it was that Sheriff Musick had won his seventh four-year term, dating back to the election of 1946. Actually, he had been with the Orange County Sheriff's Office much longer than that.

An All-American running back with USC's "Thundering Herd" teams of 1929, '30 and '31, he came to the Orange County Sheriff's Office under Sheriff Logan Jackson in the early 1930s as a deputy. He rode night patrol cars. Kept the peace during the citrus strikes of those days. Worked 60-hour weeks for $150 a month.

TO AUGMENT THAT grand $150 monthly income, Musick took off in fall months to play professional football with the old Boston Braves which, in 1937, became the Washington Redskins.

Why, here was the big money. They got a whole $150 per game in those days—just about pocket money for today's pro player.

When the Great War came along, Deputy Musick went off to fight it with the Marine Corps.

MUSICK CAME HOME in 1945, and it was the perfect "home is the hero" setting for a challenge to then-incumbent Sheriff Jesse Elliott. Here was Musick, USC All-American, pro football star, young, handsome and returned from the Great War.

He defeated Elliott at the polls rather decisively.

In the elections since, Musick has kept that winning record intact. He has never really faced a serious challenge. He may have held office longer than any other California sheriff.

FATHER TIME, however, usually wins in the end. And Musick has decided not to seek an eighth four-year term. At 62, he is stepping down.

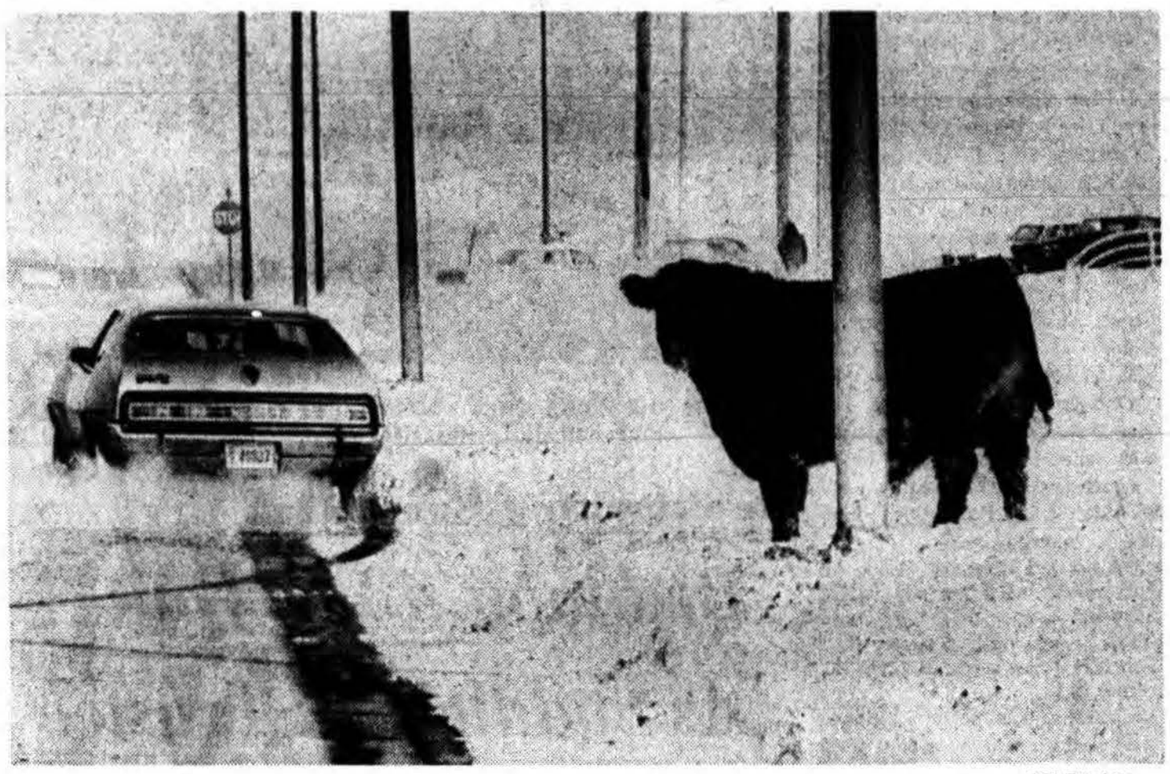

Thus for the first time in nearly three decades, Orange County will have a real election race for sheriff. Already candidates like Norris, Sheriff's Lt. Bradley Gates and likely Cypress Police Chief George Savord are stepping forward to seek the vacated sheriff's post.

And Musick will be watching it all from the sideline.

Heavy Vietnam Bombings Assailed by Viet Cong

From Wire Services

SAIGON — The Viet Cong today accused the Saigon government of conducting the heaviest bombing since the United States halted air raids a year ago.

As the fighting continued, congressional backers of President Nguyen Van Thieu introduced a constitutional amendment to allow Thieu to run for office a third time. The South Vietnamese constitution at present forbids a third try.

SENATE SOURCES said more than 140 legislators signed a petition to support the amendment allowing Thieu to serve until 1980. A two-thirds majority is required and sources said the amendment would easily pass.

Thieu's term expires Oct. 31, 1975. He has been in office since 1967 when he beat out former Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky. He ran unopposed in 1971 for a second term.

The government and the Viet Cong also held their longest meeting of the Joint Military Commission (JMC) today. In the nearly five-hour meeting, the government proposed a banning of weapons — such as mortars, artillery and rockets — which often cause heavy casualties to civilians, but it was rejected, spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said.

On the war front, North Vietnamese troops shelled several government positions near the Le Minh border base today and made one ground assault, apparently trying to prevent reinforcements from reaching the camp in the central highlands.

AN ADVANCE patrol of 30 South Vietnamese infantrymen was landed in Le Minh by helicopter on Monday after the area was softened up by government bombers. The government said the commandos met little resistance in retaking the camp, which the North Vietnamese captured last September.

A force of more than 5,000 troops was reported on the move in the area west of Pleiku, but the Saigon command said it has run into resistance 3½ miles from Le Minh.

Tanaka Jeered By Indonesians

JAKARTA (UPI) — Thousands of Indonesians poured into the streets today, burning, smashing and hammering on anything Japanese in a massive demonstration timed for the visit of Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

Demonstrators tore down Japanese flags, burned Japanese-made motor vehicles and broke windows in stores dealing in Japanese goods. They attacked a busload of Japanese tourists and UPI photographer Toshio Sakai, a Japanese, was forced to flee when demonstrators turned on him. One demonstrator was reported killed.

DESPITE THE rampage, police and army troops appeared to have the demonstrations under control. There were no shots fired and no tear gas was used, although police turned firehoses on demonstrators earlier in the day.

Indonesian President Suharto ordered a 6 p.m. curfew in the city. There were still thousands in the street 1½ hours after the deadline, but their ranks were rapidly thinning.

Tanaka arrived in Jakarta late Monday and is scheduled to leave Thursday. It is the last leg of a five-nation tour for the prime minister. There were also anti-Japanese demonstrations in Thailand but not as serious as the ones in Indonesia. Other stops included Manila, Singapore and Kuala Lumpur.

Crowds surged several times against the Japanese embassy on Thamrin Street. Some got in and tore down the Japanese flag and broke 19 panes of glass on the second floor of the modern building.

THE YOUNG protesters, shouting "down with Japan" and "economic imperialists," grew increasingly hostile as Indonesian troops tried to break up the demonstrations.

The youths, who traveled to the Indonesian capital from as far away as Sumatra, 800 miles to the northwest, were protesting against alleged Japanese economic discrimination.

Earlier, demonstrators moved away good naturedly when army units with machine guns and armored cars ordered them out of the Jakarta civic square near the national residence where Tanaka conferred with Indonesian President Suharto.

The students regrouped later, however, and converged on the back of the residence before troops had a chance to disperse them again.

Trio Perish In Marijuana Plane Crash

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Three men were killed Monday night when a twin-engine plane carrying 100-pound blocks of marijuana crashed in heavy rain near an unoccupied apartment building and exploded.

IT WAS THE second such Florida crash in four days.

A spokesman for the Ft. Lauderdale police said one of the persons believed to be aboard the plane had been linked with the crash of a similar plane carrying more than a ton of marijuana at Placida, on Florida's gulf coast.

One of the victims was identified as a Gainesville, Fla., resident, but his name was withheld. The other two victims were too badly burned for immediate identification. A medical examiner's report was expected later in the day.

The spokesman, Gene Farmer, said there were no reports of any injuries to bystanders, although the plane crashed in a densely populated area of high-rise buildings one block from the Atlantic ocean.

THE PLANE, a white Lockheed Learstar with an orange stripe painted on its sides, radioed the tower at Pompano air park shortly before 9 a.m. and reported one of its engines had failed, police said.

Eyewitnesses said the plane, with fire spewing out of one of its engines, rapidly lost altitude, and exploded less than 15 feet from the Pompano Beach Club, a 28-story condominium under construction.

According to the police report, the plane exploded on impact, spreading marijuana "like seaweed" through the area.

"The plane caught fire and you could smell the marijuana burning all around," said one witness.

Authorities said it was difficult to determine how much pot was aboard since wind and rain had scattered and split the blocks.

"IF THE PLANE was fully loaded it would hold about 2,400 to 2,500 pounds of marijuana," Farmer said.

Boston Sellout For Bob Dylan

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Garden was filled to capacity twice as folk-rock superstar Bob Dylan made his first two appearances here in nine years.

More than 15,000 showed up for both his afternoon and evening concerts Monday.

At the end of the opening song, "Rainy Day Women," he told the applauding audience: "Thank you. It's good to be back in Boston." He later said, "You're too much," after prolonged applause for "Like a Rolling Stone," and he also announced the intermission.

A CBS spokesman confirmed Monday that Cronkite had received the subpoena, but declined further comment on the case.

The two defendants, Mark Segal, 23, and Harry Langhorne, 26, both of Philadelphia and both members of the "Gay Raiders," are charged with trespassing. They interrupted the "CBS Evening News" Dec. 11 to protest what they said was antihomosexual bias in the network's programming.

On the other hand, the department said the highway death rate declined only 2 percent in the rest of the nation.

Dr. James Gregory of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said the lower speed limits could save as many as 6,000 lives nationwide in a year.

S. California

Clear skies but slightly cooler weather greeted Southern Californians today following a brief heat wave, which reached a peak of 81 in Los Angeles — 17 degrees above normal.

The bright and clear weather was only slightly marred by occasional high cloudiness and patchy fog near the coast.

It was 75 today in Los Angeles and the temperature was expected to drop into the low 70s Wednesday. The overnight low is expected to be 48.

U.S. Summary

Gusty winds whipped across the Northern states today as a midwinter thaw spread into much of the nation chilled by recent cold snaps and heavy snows.

The rise in temperature brought dense fog to a large area from the Gulf of Mexico to the lower Missouri and Ohio valleys. Zero visibilities were reported at Tulsa, Okla., and New Orleans, La.

The winds topped 80 m.p.h. at Cape Blanco, Ore., where temperatures were in the 50s. At Great Falls, Mont., with readings in the 40s, gusts reached 50 m.p.h., and Watertown, N.Y., clocked 40 m.p.h. winds and 30-degree temperatures.

Storm warnings were in effect for the northern Pacific Coast, and gale warnings were posted for the central California coast, the Great Lakes and the northern New England coast.

The thaw missed northern portions of Minnesota and North Dakota. International Falls, Minn., and Grand Forks, N.D. collected 2 inches of snow and remained in subzero cold.

Newport Votes to Put Reins on Development

Newport Beach councilmen Monday night decided to tie all future developmen in the city to the availability of energy sources and municipal services, such as solid waste disposal.

At the urging of Councilman Paul Ryckoff, they voted unanimously to require a report from all utilities about their ability to provide service.

In addition, the city will now require an environmental impact report on "energy availability."

The city's Environmental Affairs Committee will be charged with obtaining an analysis from developers as to its potential energy consumption and then obtain the report from suppliers as to its availability.

Ryckoff's proposal was amended at the suggestion of Councilman Carl Kymla to include studies of the ability of other services, like the Orange County Sanitation District, to adequately handle the increased demands.

Ryckoff talked of the tremendous growth in the city and said, "This is rather important. I don't want to think of the day when our homes are cut off from gas."

Community Development Director Richard V. Hogan explained that, in the past, the Southern California Gas Company has always said it could provide whatever additional supplies are needed and the city accepted that declaration.

"However, this is no longer sufficient. We're going to be asking harder questions of them in the future," Hogan said.

City Attorney Dennis O'Neil pointed out that the city will not necessarily have to deny future developments on the basis of unfavorable impact reports.

"The Environmental Affairs Committee may reject the impact report as insufficient if it shows there is an inadequate amount of energy to serve the new development," O'Neil said.

"But that is only an informational document to be used by the planning commission and city council to approve or deny a project," O'Neil said.

"The mere fact than an EIR is rejected does not mean that a project cannot proceed to development," he said.

"On the other hand, it's up to the decision-makers, the commission and the council, to decide how much weight to give to an EIR when considering the project as a whole" he said.

"I suppose as the energy sources become more scarce, more weight would be given to consideration of that factor," O'Neil said.

O'Neil pointed out that energy availability is only one of several factors the Environmental Affairs Committee is charged with weighing as it reviews environmental impact reports.

"The council, for instance, just told them to look at archeological and paleontological aspects of development," he said.

O'Neil also said he does not think the intent of the council's action is, in any way, an attempt to slow down construction in Newport Beach.

"I don't know what effect it will have, if any, on development. But that was not the intent of the councilmen," O'Neil said.

Tape Gap Deliberate, Panel Hints

18-minute Hum Caused By Erasures

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 18½-minute gap in one of President Nixon's key Watergate tapes was caused by erasing and re-recording the tape as many as nine times, technical experts reported to U.S. Judge John J. Sirica today.

Further, the experts said, the erasures had been caused by hand operation of the machine on which it was played — not by a foot pedal as Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, insisted under oath she used while working with the tape.

The experts said there was evidence the tape contained conversation but that there was no known way of recovering an intelligible version.

Without saying so directly, the panel of six audio experts strongly suggested in their final report on the June 20, 1972 tape that its obliteration apparently was deliberate.

"Magnetic signatures that we have measured directly on the tape show that the buzzing sounds were put on the tape in the process of erasing and re-recording at least five, and perhaps as many as nine, separate and contiguous segments . . . The 18.5-minute segment could not have been produced by any single, continuous operation," the report said.

Sirica, who recessed hearings into the tapes issue last month while awaiting the experts' report, immediately called an open court hearing at which the experts were summoned to testify.

Copies of the report were given to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski and his staff and to White House lawyers at a meeting with Sirica this morning.

The White House issued a statement saying the experts' report had been received and was under review, and that "it would be altogether incorrect and improper for premature judgments or conclusions to be reached" about the tape at this time.

The tape involved a conversation Nixon had with then White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman on the first working day after the June 17, 1972 Watergate bugging arrests. Haldeman's notes of that meeting, introduced into evidence earlier in Sirica's court, show

By L. PETER KRIEG
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

President Nixon's brother F. Donald Nixon of Newport Beach today was furious over allegations carried in a United Press International story Monday that he profited from the fraudulent sale of stock to billionaire Howard Hughes.

Nixon said his only tie to Hughes was through former good friend John Meier, a former Newport Beach resident and former mining consultant for Hughes. Meier was indicted Monday in Las Vegas on charges of income tax evasion and fraud against the federal government.

Nixon for some time has been predicting the indictment and contended that Meier brought in the Nixon name in hopes things would go easy for him.

"Mr. Meier is in very deep trouble," Nixon said.

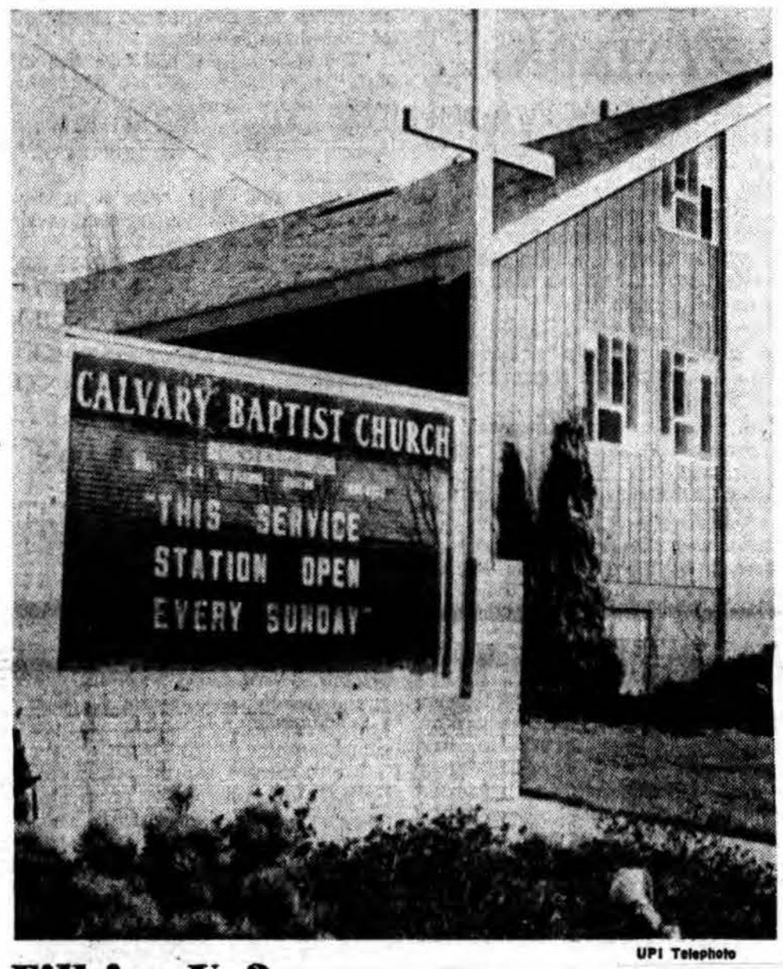

"But beyond that, I have no comment, other than to say those investigators are going to have some red faces too," he said.

In its story Monday, UPI said the Senate Watergate Committee is investigating the possibility that Donald Nixon received "substantial sums" of money from former Hughes aides for his help in mining claim ventures.

The story linked Donald Nixon to Meier because of a trip the two made to the Dominican Republic in 1969.

Nixon claims the trip was purely

The Showdown

John Wayne Off to Harvard

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Newport Beach resident John Wayne saddled up a jetliner Monday and headed east for a showdown at Generation Gap.

WAYNE IS NOT a man to ignore a challenge to have it out, man to man, and that's what he received from the university's satire magazine, the Harvard Lampoon. The editors wrote him challenging him to show just how tough he is, asking if he is willing to face up to "a gang that would rather quote you Marx or Mao Tse-tung than spit in your eye" and face demontrators and counter-demonstrators.

"I don't know a damned thing about it except they challenged me to come," growled Wayne, boarding a plane for the East. "I figure the Harvard boys and I are at opposite ends of the spectrum. They suggested I didn't have the courage to go."

THE HARVARD EDITORS have promised to welcome Wayne with a military convoy, a mock cowboys-and-Indians shootout, a "stampede of some kind of mammal," and a question and answer session after the showing of his latest movie, "MCQ." "It has the makings of a real ugly incident," Lampoon President Jim Downey said in apparent delight.

The Duke was unfazed as he strode out for the showdown. "I hear the last guest they had at one of these things was Linda Lovelace," he said in his parting shot. "I guess she met the challenge."

Newport Council To Take Stand On Big Canyon

City councilmen promised Monday to consider adoption of a policy to protect known Newport Beach archeological and paleontological sites from haphazard destruction.

And councilmen made clear that if they adopt the new policy, the first place it will apply is Big Canyon.

As proposed by Planning Commissioner Jackie Heather, the new policy would require the city to hire a trained scientist to be present on all known valuable sites during critical phases of bulldozing operations.

"It seems to me that preservation of Newport Beach's history is worth the price of a new traffic light, which is about how much money we're talking about," Mrs. Heather told councilmen.

Mrs. Heather originally was most interested in salvaging fossils from the Big Canyon condominium site, but she has recently been working to gain support for protecting fossils and archeological artifacts throughout the city.

Councilmen wouldn't specifically commit themselves to approving the new policy, but indicated they probably will be favorably disposed to it when the matter comes up to a vote later this month.

Sauna Trial Judge Okays Two Truth Serum Movies

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When Maria Parson completes her testimony from the witness stand today in the Orange County Superior Court sauna bath trial the jury will view a movie made while she was under the influence of a so-called "truth serum."

Judge William Murray made the ruling that enables attorney Marvin Lewis Sr. to screen two video tape films in the courtroom. The decision came after a four-hour out-of-court session Monday in the offices of Dr. Deane A. Benton, the Santa Ana psychiatrist.

"I'll let 'em in," Judge Murray said after a bitter argument between Lewis and Holiday Health Spa attorney Donald A. Ruston on the admissibility of the two films.

One of the movies run by Dr. Benton in the privacy of his office depicts his interview last Oct. 25 with Mrs. Parson, 50, when she is not under the influence of sodium amytol.

The second movie, shot by the psychiatrist last Dec. 19 and Jan. 2, depicts the buxom redhead responding to his questioning in the slow, slurred manner induced by his injection of the tranquilizer.

The screening was carefully kept from the jury until today.

Lewis believes the movies will considerably enhance his hopes for a favorable verdict in the $1 million lawsuit against the health spa.

Ruston angrily condemned the movies as "self serving, leading and suggestive and extremely inflammatory" and repeatedly pointed out to Judge Murray that he had no opportunity to cross examine Mrs. Parson in either circumstance, drugged or otherwise.

Dr. Benton argued before he showed the films that it was only fair for the jury to see Mrs. Parson at her most relaxed moments which could only be in the office of her psychiatrist.

Her courtroom testimony has been offered under circumstances that are particularly adverse to any person suffering the kind of psychiatric trauma Mrs. Parson is undergoing, Benton told Judge Murray and the two lawyers.

Mrs. Parson's statements under the drugs and otherwise were identical: that before she was trapped in the sauna room of the Orange health spa on March 2, 1970, she was a happily married Catholic woman whose life was devoted to her husband and seven children.

She stated in both video tape sequences

Newport Authorizes Campaign for Freeway

By JOHN ZALLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach Mayor Donald A. McInnis was authorized Monday by the city council to fight for reinstatement of the Corona del Mar Freeway in this year's state transportation budget.

The council gave informal affirmation of its support for the freeway after the mayor said he wanted all the help he could get in trying to revive the now dormant freeway.

"This is one of the few areas around here where all the agencies involved are in agreement that a freeway needs to be developed and I think we should go ahead with it," the mayor said.

McInnis was referring to the agreement between Newport Beach, Costa Mesa, and Irvine that the freeway ought to be built to relieve traffic congestion on MacArthur Boulevard and Bristol Street.

The California Department of Transportation disclosed last week that it is delaying construction of the Corona del Mar Freeway because of a lag in gasoline tax receipts.

Bidding for construction of the first major link of the freeway near Bonita Canyon had been scheduled for February.

Councilmen took no formal vote on McInnis request for support, but they gave clear verbal support to his position.

"We have so few chances to agree with Costa Mesa that I think we ought to follow through with this one," said Vice-mayor Howard Rogers at one point in the discuasion.

It would then read southeasterly,

Newport Dredging OK'd

By CANDACE PEARSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach's 10-year maintenance dredging plan for Newport Bay almost drowned Monday at the regional coastal commission, until it was rescued by a tardy commissioner.

The first vote taken by the South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission on the $25,000 project was 7-3 to approve. But under the 1972 coastal zone act, dredging projects need eight votes for approval.

Commissioner Judy Rosener of Newport Beach was out of town and Commissioner Ronald Caspers, also of Newport Beach, was late getting back from lunch.

"It would be a shame if this thing went down in mlames because of my absence," Caspers said when he returied.

Commissioner Robert Rooney of Huntington Beach, who had voted against the plan, said he would move for immediate reconsideration "out of consideration for Mr. Caspers."

The second time around, the plan was approved 8-3, with Rooney and Commissioners Donald Bright and Rimmon Fay, both marine biologists, voting no.

Fay argued that Newport Bay has continued to "deteriorate as a marine habitat and one of the reasons is because of continual dredging.

"It takes years, sometimes decades (after dredging) to re-establish a marine environment of the diversity this is and this is one of the things the commission is supposed to do," added Fay, referring to the coastal zone act, which calls for the commission to help enhancement of marine life.

Fay wasn't against all dredging. In areas where dredging isn't immediately necessary for navigation, he said, it should be postponed.

Dredging should be done on a priority basis only, Fay said. Rooney agreed in opposing the mass dredging idea.

Caspers, who is also an Orange County Supervisor, said the maximum use of the bay now is recreational. "Our priority is people and boats," he said, adding he has seen too many boats and docks "keeled over" because of

San Onofre Expansion Supported

The California coastal commission will meet next month to reconsider its decision to kill the Southern California Edison Company proposal to enlarge the blufftop station.

Councilmen cited the current power shortage and said it is likely to become more acute.

And they pointed out that the expansion would involve "only approximately one half mile of coastline, but would meet the urgent demand for increased electrical power and at the same time conserve between 25 and 30 million barrels of oil per year."

They said they felt the adverse environmental impact of the project would be minimal.

The endorsement came after a lengthy and impassioned appeal to reject the resolution that was made by Mrs. Judy Tracy, 706 Bison Ave., Newport Beach, a member of the city's Citizens Environmental Quality Control Advisory Committee.

That panel had endorsed the expansion but Mrs. Tracy said her statement represented the viewpoints of three members who feel "the decision to expand nuclear fission plants is perhaps the most far reaching moral issue of our time."

Mrs. Tracy cited the possibilities of nuclear accidents at both the generating plant and at the waste storage centers.

She pointed out that some of the spent byproducts including plutonium-239 will require segregation from our environments for 240,000 years.

"We must reach our minds beyond the entire time span of human experience to deal with plutonium-239," Mrs. Tracy said.

She also talked about the dangers of radioactive materials being shipped from place to place across the country.

While conceding the odds of a container coming open during even a railroad derailment are low, "what about someone intent upon opening the 16 bolts of the container?" she said.

"The horrifying possibilities of terrorism, sabotage and blackmail, both at reactor sites and during shipment pinpoint our increasing vulnerability," she said.

Mrs. Tracy told councilmen, "It is your moral mandate to call for a nuclear fission moratorium and to call for the redirection of our nation's research priorities and funds to the environmental safer sources of energy supply."

Caspers also said he could "care less about bugs and barnacles."

During his statement supporting the project, Caspers looked up to see Commissioner James Hayes — one of the original seven yes votes — leave the room.

"Jim," Caspers interrupted himself, 'are you going to be gone very long."

"I'm just going to be in the hall," Hayes replied. He was back in time for the vote.

Caspers said the maintenance would be paid for by bayfront homeowners and added that a blanket permit was more logical than going case by case.

Commission Chairman Bright told Caspers that "as punishment" he would have to call the city officials and tell them the good news.

2 Days in Jail

Assemblyman Z'berg Serves Time

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Veteran Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg quietly entered the county jail Friday just after he was sentenced for drunken driving and served a two-day term over the weekend, it was learned today.

In sentencing Z'berg to jail, Municipal Court Judge Haven Courtney gave the 47-year-old Sacramento Democrat 45 days in which to comply.

It was Z'berg's sceond conviction for drunken driving since 1969. Under a state law effecitve Jan. 1, second drunken driving convictions are punishable by a mandatory two days in jail.

Z'berg, chairman of the Assembly Conservation and Natural Resources Committee, was arrested Nov. 17, 1972, after his car rear-ended another vehicle. There were no injuries.

Courtney sentenced Z'berg to 30 days in jail, but suspended 28 days of the term for the duration of one-year probation. He also fined Z'berg $625 and ordered him to participate in the court's "alcoholic re-education program."

Newport Council Backs Bridge Over Upper Bay

Newport Beach councilmen formed a citizens ad hoc committee Monday to expedite rebuilding of the Pacific Coast Highway bridge over the Upper Newport Bay.

The committee is also charged to coordinate all local interests and to come up with a design for the bridge that will be acceptable to the California Department of Transportation.

Rebuilding and widening of the Upper Bay crossing of the highway was listed as a top priority by the city's traffic consultant, Alan M. Voorhees.

"The state says it will take five to eight years before we get that new bridge," Store complained.

"But I think we can get it much sooner than that if we push for it," Store said.

Store said that with A proper coordination bridge construction could begin within three years.

Council appointees to the Citizens Ad Hoc Pacific Coast Highway Crossing Planning Committee include Ray Williams, Richard Clucas, Willard Wade, Roger Turner, Bob Shelton, and Marshall Duffield.

UPI said the trip may be tied to allegations by Meier that Donald Nixon sought personal financial gains by offering to use his kinship with the President to win decisions favorable to the Hughes empire.

Monday's indictments charge Meier and three others with shifting huge profits from deals with Hughes to Swiss bank accounts.

U.S. attorney Devoe Heaton said the indictment involves sales of mining claims exceeding $8 million to the Hughes Tool Company, which was then owned by Hughes.

Meier was named in two indictments returned by the Las Vegas Federal Grand Jury on two counts of conspiracy and on two counts of alleged tax evasion —1969 and 1970.

Meier was indicted last year for income tax evasion for 1968.

One conspiracy count charges Meier with defrauding the United States by obstructing the collection of income tax as a result of the sale of mining claims by Alan Jarlson, Las Vegas television newsman, to the Hughes Tool Company.

Others indicted along with Meier on a second conspiracy count were Anthony Hatsis, 47, and James P. Cowley, 45, both of Salt Lake City, and Robert Kahan, 59, of Los Angeles.

Glazier is one of three announced candidates for the Third District seat to be vacated by Councilman Carl Kymla. Other District Three contenders are Realtor Peter Barrett and accountant John McKerran.

So far, there have been no challengers against Dostal in his district. Two other seats representing the First and Sixth districts will also be filled by voters.

London Railway Workers Strike

LONDON (AP) — Most of Britain's railway engineers struck for 24 hours today and commuters relying on cars snarled traffic in London and other cities.

The traffic congestion was less severe than expected in some areas. Some commuters apparently were staying home as they did last week when a one-day rail stoppage caused massive traffic jams.

All passenger train service was halted, but some freight trains kept running.

Ryckoff Reports He'll Discontinue Fire Complaints

Newport Beach City Councilman Paul Ryckoff, a frequent critic of the city's fire protection policies for Balboa Island, said Monday he's going to quit complaining for the time being.

"We've checked into the procedures," Ryckoff told councilmen at a study session, "and we think the situation is under control."

Ryckoff, who lives on the island, complained last month that the fire truck on Balboa Island spends too much time off the island. He also questioned whether the truck was in proper operating condition.

Ryckoff said that following a meeting with City Manger Robert L. Wynn and Fire Chief Leo Love, he now believes that firemen are careful to leave the island only when traffic is light enough to allow their easy return.

He also conceded that any equipment is bound to have occasional mechanical problems.

Ryckoff warned, however, that he intends to continue keeping a close eye on Balboa Island fire station operations.

"The houses are so close together that we're really vulnerable," said the island resident. "And we've got to be sure that we're getting the best fire protection possible."

The experts concluded that the buzzing "originated in the noise picked up from the electrical power line to which the recorder was connected." They also concluded there had been conversation on the tape at one time although they believe there is "no technique that could recover intelligible speech from the buzz section."

They said they had been able to find three speech fragments, each less than one second in length, on the tape at places where tests indicated there had been brief interruption in the erase and re-record process.

Miss Woods testified that she had an "accident" while attempting to transcribe the tape Oct. 1. She said she was distracted by a telephone call and apparently pushed the "record" button by mistake while attempting to stop the machine and apparently kept her foot on a pedal that kept the machine in motion, thus erasing it.

But she testified repeatedly she could have caused a gap of no more than 4½ to five minutes and not the full 18½ minutes.

Mrs. Popeil To Retrieve Rolls Royce

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Eloise Popeil, who is facing a court hearing on police charges that she conspired to have her millionaire husband murdered, today is expected to get back the Rolls Royce police confiscated during her arrest in Newport Beach a week ago.

Reached today at her Newport Beach home, Mrs. Popeil said she had no comment to make on any aspect of the police accusations that she and her boyfriend, Daniel Ayers, 37, of Santa Ana hired a Long Beach man to murder Samuel J. Popeil of Chicago.

Police claim the plot fell through when the hit man called the Chicago kitchen gadget millionaire and told him of his estranged wife's plan.

According to police, Mrs. Popeil, 48, and Ayers allegedly wanted Popeil murdered before a pending divorce became final so that she could inherit approximately one-third of his estate, estimated to be worth up to $200 million.

Mrs. Popeil, who wsa freed on $100,000 bail raised by neighbors on Linda Isle and Harbor Island Road, is scheduled to appear in municipal court in Long Beach Monday in the preliminary hearing in the case.

She and Ayers both pleaded innocent to the conspiracy to commit murder charges at their arraingments last week.

Ayers is still in custody, apparently unable to raise the $100,000 bail set by Judge Charles Litwin.

The Popeils, who summered in their Linda Isle home, separated this summer and Popeil filed for divorce in Chicago.

Popeil will go to court there on Friday to seek an order giving him custody of the couple's two teenage daughters and abandonment of the $4,250 monthly alimony and child support payments.

Since their separation, Mrs. Popeil and her two daughters have been living in Newport Beach. She and Ayers were arrested Tuesday night at her home at 519 Harbor Island Road shortly after Ayers drove up to the bayfront home in the Rolls.

Police confiscated the car as evidence in the case, but Newport Beach detective Ken Smith said today it has been authorized for release.

Irvine Company Hosts Agencies Of Government

The Irvine Company will meet Wednesday with a task force of 10 governmental agencies it wants to review and approve plans for its 10,000-acre coastal sector between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. in Irvine Company offices where the participants will be shown topographical models of the property.

A tour of the coastal sector will follow a buffet lunch.

"The sole purpose of tomorrow's meeting is to familiarize the agency representatives with the property so when they see our proposals and models, they will be able to tie plans to reality," said Irvine Company vice president Richard Reese.

Appellate Court Bucked by Judge

Judge William Murray is bucking an appellate court for the second time on the same issue in his belief that an interview carried out while the patient is under the influence of the "truth serum" sodium amytol is admissible evidence.

His controversial ruling in the Parson trial is identical to that he made two years ago in the murder trial of former Marine Mark Allen Johnson of San Clemente.

Judge Murray's thinking in Johnson's first trial was rejected by the Fourth District Court of Appeals which ordered a new trial. But he drew powerful support in that decision from dissenting Justice Robert Gardner of Newport Beach.

Gardner vigorously defended Judge Murray's ruling and commented: "This case represents a classic reflection of the attitude of the courts towards the rules of evidence which I find completely out of step with the facts of life as they exist today."

Johnson, now 22, was found guilty of second degree murder in his first nonjury trial on charges that he stabbed and killed his pregnant wife, Connie, 22, in the couple's Monterey Lane apartment.

His second jury trial ended in a lesser verdict of voluntary manslaughter after the controversial truth serum interview was barred from evidence before the jury.

Both lawyers in the Parson trial commented late Monday that, whatever the verdict, the issue is sure to go before the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Parson broke down and wept at the end of the first movie as she told Dr. Benton how Maria took possession of her body, donned sexy clothes that she would never have worn under normal conditions and set off for local bars in a hunt for men and sexual relationships.

Mrs. Parson, who has been known to her family and friends from an early age as Betty, again named several of the many men she has known over the past three years.

She listed among her favorite bars in the hunt for extramarital mates the Newporter Inn and the Stuft Shirt in Newport Beach.

"When I'm Maria I just want to run away," she hesitantly mumbled under the influence of the truth drug. "Maria wants sex and she wants to be held by a man—one thing leads to the other."

She also relates in both interviews the nature of the dreams she states she has experienced almost nightly since her ordeal in the 170-degree sauna room.

Mrs. Parson tells Benton of being imprisoned in a cube of ice, of being carried along in a flow of hot lava and of looking down from the sky at boiling, steaming water.

Ralph Deaver, Phone Company Executive, Dies

Funeral services are scheduled Thursday for longtime Pacific Telephone Company executive and yachtsman Ralph H. "Jeff" Deaver, who died Monday.

Rites for Mr. Deaver, a 29-year Harbor Area resident, will be at 2 p.m. in St. Andrews Presbyterian Church with Dr. Charles H. Dierenfield officiating.

Mr. Deaver served with Pacific Telephone for 43 years and would have been 69 years old next month.

He was a member of the Newport Harbor Kiwanis Club, the Hoag Memorial Hospital 552 Club and staff commodore of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club.

Survivors include his wife, Billie, of the home at 1919 Chubasco Drive, Corona del Mar; a son, Richard of Corona del Mar; a daughter, Nancy McDowell of Cincinnati, Ohio; a brother, Lloyd Deaver of Sierra Madre, and five grandchildren.

Mesa Law Endorsed—No Sign of 'No' Votes

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Costa Mesa sign ordinance passed its first test Monday night, winning a 4-0 endorsement from the city Planning Commission.

Commissioners took the vote following two-and-one-half hours of pro and con testimony by homeowners and businessmen who, despite divided philosophies, appeared to be advancing toward a compromise on the controversial ordinance.

Nathan L. Reade was the only member of the five-man commission to abstain from the vote. Reade is employed by the chamber of commerce, one of the protagonists in the battle over the sign ordinance.

The final decision on the sign ordinance will be taken in three weeks following a second public hearing before the Costa Mesa City Council. At that time councilmen will take the planning commission recommendation under advisement.

Minor changes in the sign ordinance softened the impact on the businessman and although Eugene Bergeron, president of the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce, said he had not sufficiently studied them, he was of the opinion that the newer version is "a tremendous improvement" over the original draft of the ordinance.

Extremely complex, the ordinance proposes to cut down the overall amount of signing in Costa Mesa by lowering the height and size of signs and phasing out existing non-conforming signs under a sliding amortization schedule.

To safeguard the small businessman, every site no matter how small, would be allowed a minimum of 75 square feet of signage. Signs generally would be accorded on the basis of one square foot per lineal foot of frontage, with

Gaps on Nixon's Tapes Caused by 'Erasures'

Obliteration Deliberate, Experts Hint

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 18½-minute gap in one of President Nixon's key Watergate tapes was caused by erasing and re-recording the tape as many as nine times, technical experts reported to U.S. Judge John J. Sirica today.

Further, the experts said, the erasures had been caused by hand operation of the machine on which it was played — not by a foot pedal as Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, insisted under oath she used while working with the tape.

The experts said there was evidence the tape contained conversation but that there was no known way of recovering an intelligible version.

Without saying so directly, the panel of six audio experts strongly suggested in their final report on the June 20, 1972 tape that its obliteration apparently was deliberate.

"Magnetic signatures that we have measured directly on the tape show that the buzzing sounds were put on the tape in the process of erasing and re-recording at least five, and perhaps as many as nine, separate and contiguous segments . . . The 18.5-minute segment could not have been produced by any single, continuous operation," the report said.

Sirica, who recessed hearings into the tapes issue last month while awaiting the experts' report, immediately called an open court hearing at which the experts were summoned to testify.

Copies of the report were given to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski and his staff and to White House lawyers at a meeting with Sirica this morning.

The White House issued a statement saying the experts' report had been received and was under review, and that "it would be altogether incorrect and improper for premature judgments or conclusions to be reached" about the tape at this time.

The tape involved a conversation Nixon had with then White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman on the first

Freeway Campaign Authorized

By JOHN ZALLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach Mayor Donald A. McInnis was authorized Monday by the city council to fight for reinstatement of the Corona del Mar Freeway in this year's state transportation budget.

The council gave informal affirmation of its support for the freeway after the mayor said he wanted all the help he could get in trying to revive the now dormant freeway.

"This is one of the few areas around here where all the agencies involved are in agreement that a freeway needs to be developed and I think we should go ahead with it," the mayor said.

McInnis was referring to the agreement between Newport Beach, Costa Mesa, and Irvine that the freeway ought to be built to relieve traffic congestion on MacArthur Boulevard and Bristol Street.

The California Department of Transportation disclosed last week that it is delaying construction of the Corona del Mar Freeway because of a lag in gasoline tax receipts.

Bidding for construction of the first major link of the freeway near Bonita Canyon had been scheduled for February.

Councilmen took no formal vote on McInnis request for support, but they gave clear verbal support to his position.

"We have so few chances to agree with Costa Mesa that I think we ought to follow through with this one," said Vice Mayor Howard Rogers at one point in the discuasion.

It would then read southeasterly, intersect the Newport Freeway, run along the current alignment of Bristol Street to MacArthur Boulevard, and down MacArthur to Bonita Canyon.

Sauna Trial Judge Okays Two Truth Serum Movies

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When Maria Parson completes her testimony from the witness stand today in the Orange County Superior Court sauna bath trial the jury will view a movie made while she was under the influence of a so-called "truth serum."

Judge William Murray made the ruling that enables attorney Marvin Lewis Sr. to screen two video tape films in the courtroom. The decision came after a four-hour out-of-court session Monday in the offices of Dr. Deane A. Benton, the Santa Ana psychiatrist.

"I'll let 'em in," Judge Murray said after a bitter argument between Lewis and Holiday Health Spa attorney Donald A. Ruston on the admissibility of the two films.

One of the movies run by Dr. Benton in the privacy of his office depicts his interview last Oct. 25 with Mrs. Parson, 50, when she is not under the influence of sodium amytol.

The second movie, shot by the psychiatrist last Dec. 19 and Jan. 2, depicts the buxom redhead responding to his questioning in the slow, slurred manner induced by his injection of the tranquilizer.

The screening was carefully kept from the jury until today.

Lewis believes the movies will considerably enhance his hopes for a favorable verdict in the $1 million lawsuit against the health spa.

Ruston angrily condemned the movies as "self serving, leading and suggestive and extremely inflammatory" and repeatedly pointed out to Judge Murray that he had no opportunity to cross examine Mrs. Parson in either circumstance, drugged or otherwise.

Dr. Benton argued before he showed the films that it was only fair for the jury to see Mrs. Parson at her most relaxed moments which could only be in the office of her psychiatrist.

Her courtroom testimony has been offered under circumstances that are particularly adverse to any person suffering the kind of psychiatric trauma Mrs. Parson is undergoing, Benton told Judge Murray and the two lawyers.

Mrs. Parson's statements under the

Nobody was home at the time and, if the neighbor had not noticed the smoke so quickly, damage could have been far worse, investigators said.

Donald Nixon Termed Furious Over Reports

By L. PETER KRIEG
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

President Nixon's brother F. Donald Nixon of Newport Beach today was furious over allegations carried in a United Press International story Monday that he profited from the fraudulent sale of stock to billionaire Howard Hughes.

Nixon said his only tie to Hughes was through former good friend John Meier, a former Newport Beach resident and former mining consultant for Hughes. Meier was indicted Monday in Las Vegas on charges of income tax evasion and fraud against the federal government.

Nixon for some time has been predicting the indictment and contended that Meier brought in the Nixon name in hopes things would go easy for him.

"Mr. Meier is in very deep trouble," Nixon said.

"But beyond that, I have no comment, other than to say those investigators are going to have some red faces too," he said.

In its story Monday, UPI said the Senate Watergate Committee is investigating the possibility that Donald Nixon received "substantial sums" of money from former Hughes aides for his help in mining claim ventures.

The story linked Donald Nixon to Meier because of a trip the two made to the Dominican Republic in 1969.

Nixon claims the trip was purely pleasure. He said he went to see Meier receive that country's Christopher Columbus award.

UPI said the trip may be tied to allegations by Meier that Donald Nixon sought personal financial gains by offering to use his kinship with the President to win decisions favorable to the Hughes empire.

Monday's indictments charge Meier and three others with shifting huge profits from deals with Hughes to Swiss bank accounts.

U.S. attorney Devoe Heaton said the indictment involves sales of mining claims exceeding $8 million to the Hughes Tool Company, which was then owned by Hughes.

Meier was named in two indictments returned by the Las Vegas Federal Grand Jury on two counts of conspiracy and on two counts of alleged tax evasion —1969 and 1970.

Meier was indicted last year for income tax evasion for 1968.

One conspiracy count charges Meier with defrauding the United States by obstructing the collection of income tax as a result of the sale of mining claims by Alan Jarlson, Las Vegas television newsman, to the Hughes Tool Company.

Others indicted along with Meier on a second conspiracy count were Anthony Hatsis, 47, and James P. Cowley, 45, both of Salt Lake City, and Robert Kahan, 59, of Los Angeles.

The Showdown

John Wayne Off to Harvard

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Newport Beach resident John Wayne saddled up a jetliner Monday and headed east for a showdown at Generation Gap.

WAYNE IS NOT a man to ignore a challenge to have it out, man to man, and that's what he received from the university's satire magazine, the Harvard Lampoon. The editors wrote him challenging him to show just how tough he is, asking if he is willing to face up to "a gang that would rather quote you Marx or Mao Tse-tung than spit in your eye" and face demontrators and counter-demonstrators.

"I don't know a damned thing about it except they challenged me to come," growled Wayne, boarding a plane for the East. "I figure the Harvard boys and I are at opposite ends of the spectrum. They suggested I didn't have the courage to go."

THE HARVARD EDITORS have promised to welcome Wayne with a military convoy, a mock cowboys-and-Indians shootout, a "stampede of some kind of mammal," and a question and answer session after the showing of his latest movie, "McQ." "It has the makings of a real ugly incident," Lampoon President Jim Downey said in apparent delight.

The Duke was unfazed as he strode out for the showdown. "I hear the last guest they had at one of these things was Linda Lovelace," he said in his parting shot. "I guess she met the challenge."

Eloise Popeil, who is facing a court hearing on police charges that she conspired to have her millionaire husband murdered, today is expected to get back the Rolls Royce police confiscated during her arrest in Newport Beach a week ago.

Reached today at her Newport Beach home, Mrs. Popeil said she had no comment to make on any aspect of the police accusations that she and her boyfriend, Daniel Ayers, 37, of Santa Ana hired a Long Beach man to murder Samuel J. Popeil of Chicago.

Police claim the plot fell through when the hit man called the Chicago kitchen gadget millionaire and told him of his estranged wife's plan.

According to police, Mrs. Popeil, 48, and Ayers allegedly wanted Popeil murdered before a pending divorce became final so that she could inherit approximately one-third of his estate, estimated to be worth up to $200 million.

Mrs. Popeil, who wsa freed on $100,000 bail raised by neighbors on Linda Isle and Harbor Island Road, is scheduled to appear in municipal court in Long Beach Monday in the preliminary hearing in the case.

She and Ayers both pleaded innocent to the conspiracy to commit murder charges at their arraingments last week.

Ayers is still in custody, apparently unable to raise the $100,000 bail set by Judge Charles Litwin.

Popeil will go to court there on Friday to seek an order giving him custody of the couple's two teenage daughters and abandonment of the $4,250 monthly alimony and child support payments.

Since their separation, Mrs. Popeil and her two daughters have been living in Newport Beach. She and Ayers were arrested Tuesday night at her home at 519 Harbor Island Road shortly after Ayers drove up to the bayfront home in the Rolls.

Police confiscated the car as evidence in the case, but Newport Beach detective Ken Smith said today it has been authorized for release.

TAPES . . .

working day after the June 17, 1972 Watergate bugging arrests. Haldeman's notes of that meeting, introduced into evidence earlier in Sirica's court, show that Watergate was discussed during the 18½-minute segment now obliterated by a loud buzz.

The experts concluded that the buzzing "originated in the noise picked up from the electrical power line to which the recorder was connected." They also concluded there had been conversation on the tape at one time although they believe there is "no technique that could recover intelligible speech from the buzz section."

They said they had been able to find three speech fragments, each less than one second in length, on the tape at places where tests indicated there had been brief interruption in the erase and re-record process.

Miss Woods testified that she had an "accident" while attempting to transcribe the tape Oct. 1. She said she was distracted by a telephone call and apparently pushed the "record" button by mistake while attempting to stop the machine and apparently kept her foot on a pedal that kept the machine in motion, thus erasing it.

Couple Found Dead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The bodies of Cynthia Washington, 19, and Maurice McFarland, 45, were found Monday with bullets in their head in what police described as a murder-suicide.

ORDINANCE . . .

Several types of sign gimmickry would be prohibited by the ordinance.

Bergeron's organization initially requested a three-to-one ratio of sign footage per frontage foot but, in earlier discussions with the commission, settled for 1.5 square feet.

There was no immediate reaction from the chamber of commerce on a counter proposal by the planning department to allow the 75 square-foot minimum but to keep the one-to-one ratio originally proposed.

Planning Commissioners found themselves deadlocked 2-2 on one provision of the ordinance which would limit sign applicants to a choice of only one sign from each of the two sign groups. Group One includes ground signs, projecting signs and roof signs and Group Two wall signs and canopy signs.

Commissioners Chic C. Clarke and Ed McFarland were in favor of leaving the restriction in the ordinance as a safeguard against clutter, but commission Chairman H. J. "Jimmie" Wood and John C. Leonhardt declared the section was overly restrictive.

During the public hearing portion of the planning session numerous business owners, and sign industry representatives termed the entire ordinance too restrictive.

Some, including those representing Mark C. Bloome, Security Tires and Steammaster Carpet Cleaners, predicted a reduction of overall signing would have dire effects on business.

They said they had noticed as much as a 20 percent drop in business as a result of energy conservation measures which included turning off some signs and turning others off earlier in the evening.

Homeowners, on the other hand, argued that heavy signing is not necessarily correlated to business and pointed to Newport Beach and Irvine as examples to the contrary.

Speaking for the homeowners, Mrs. Monica Viotto, said the difference between Costa Mesa and Newport Beach is illustrated most convincingly on 17th Street, a street shared by both cities.

"You can tell without a sign or anything where Newport Beach stops and where Costa Mesa begins. Why?" she asked.

"The businesses are virtually the same, the streets are the same width and in the same state of repair or disrepair. Why is it that you can tell the difference. Newport Beach is tastefully done. It's almost luxurious. But when you hit Costa Mesa the whole feeling changes. It throttles you. It's extremely garish."

However one business manager argued that there is nothing wrong with a business district looking like a business district and one sign company executive suggested that parts of Costa Mesa might look worse without the signs.

"If we took out all those ratty looking signs we might find out that we have a bunch of ratty looking buildings," commented Les Scott of Federal Sign and Signal Corporation.

Others suggested that Costa Mesa begin its sign reform by concentrating first on the elimination of billboards which advertise products and services not directly concerned with the benefit of Costa Mesa.

That theme was picked up at the end of the session by Chairman Wood who urged Mayor Jack Hammett and other council members sitting in the audience to "do something as soon as possible about passing a billboard ordinance.

Transient Arrested

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Georgia transient, who allegedly tried to extort $5,000 from Continental Airlines by threatening to blow up an airliner, was arrested at a downtown department store Monday when he tried to pick up the money, the FBI said. Jesse R. Bingham, 40, Porterdale, was booked in county jail on a federal charge of threatening destruction of an aircraft.

Appellate Court Bucked by Judge

Judge William Murray is bucking an appellate court for the second time on the same issue in his belief that an interview carried out while the patient is under the influence of the "truth serum" sodium amytol is admissible evidence.

His controversial ruling in the Parson trial is identical to that he made two years ago in the murder trial of former Marine Mark Allen Johnson of San Clemente.

Judge Murray's thinking in Johnson's first trial was rejected by the Fourth District Court of Appeals which ordered a new trial. But he drew powerful support in that decision from dissenting Justice Robert Gardner of Newport Beach.

Gardner vigorously defended Judge Murray's ruling and commented: "This case represents a classic reflection of the attitude of the courts towards the rules of evidence which I find completely out of step with the facts of life as they exist today."

Johnson, now 22, was found guilty of second degree murder in his first nonjury trial on charges that he stabbed and killed his pregnant wife, Connie, 22, in the couple's Monterey Lane apartment.

His second jury trial ended in a lesser verdict of voluntary manslaughter after the controversial truth serum interview was barred from evidence before the jury.

Both lawyers in the Parson trial commented late Monday that, whatever the verdict, the issue is sure to go before the Supreme Court.

drugs and otherwise were identical: that before she was trapped in the sauna room of the Orange health spa on March 2, 1970, she was a happily married Catholic woman whose life was devoted to her husband and seven children.

She stated in both video tape sequences that any spare time she had was devoted to the Catholic church, Catholic youth programs and the PTA.

Mrs. Parson broke down and wept at the end of the first movie as she told Dr. Benton how Maria took possession of her body, donned sexy clothes that she would never have worn under normal conditions and set off for local bars in a hunt for men and sexual relationships.

Mrs. Parson, who has been known to her family and friends from an early age as Betty, again named several of the many men she has known over the past three years.

She listed among her favorite bars in the hunt for extramarital mates the Newporter Inn and the Stuft Shirt in Newport Beach.

"When I'm Maria I just want to run away," she hesitantly mumbled under the influence of the truth drug. "Maria wants sex and she wants to be held by a man—one thing leads to the other."

She also relates in both interviews the nature of the dreams she states she has experienced almost nightly since her ordeal in the 170-degree sauna room.

Mrs. Parson tells Benton of being imprisoned in a cube of ice, of being carried along in a flow of hot lava and of looking down from the sky at boiling, steaming water.

"Maria comes out of the top of my head and takes over my soul," the redhead tells Dr. Benton. "I fight her and fight her but sometimes she is too strong for me."

Lewis stated Monday that Mrs. Parson still eludes her husband and family when she is dominated by the Maria personality and drives off alone from the Anaheim home.

Mrs. Parson told Dr. Benton in both interviews that she will often offer her husband and family the excuse that she needs a loaf of bread or a pair of stockings to escape from the home when Maria takes control.

Lewis said Dr. Benton, two other psychiatrists who have examined Mrs. Parson and Lewis himself while the lawyer was interviewing Mrs. Parson in his San Francisco office have all been invited to join Mrs. Parson at a local bar and receive her sexual favors when she suddenly became Maria during the interview.

Ralph Deaver, Phone Company Executive, Dies

Funeral services are scheduled Thursday for longtime Pacific Telephone Company executive and yachtsman Ralph H. "Jeff" Deaver, who died Monday.

Rites for Mr. Deaver, a 29-year Harbor Area resident, will be at 2 p.m. in St. Andrews Presbyterian Church with Dr. Charles H. Dierenfield officiating.

Mr. Deaver served with Pacific Telephone for 43 years and would have been 69 years old next month.

He was a member of the Newport Harbor Kiwanis Club, the Hoag Memorial Hospital 552 Club and staff commodore of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club.

Survivors include his wife, Billie, of the home at 1919 Chubasco Drive, Corona del Mar; a son, Richard of Corona del Mar; a daughter, Nancy McDowell of Cincinnati, Ohio; a brother, Lloyd Deaver of Sierra Madre, and five grandchildren.

Power Plant Gets Support In Newport

The California coastal commission will meet next month to reconsider its decision to kill the Southern California Edison Company proposal to enlarge the blufftop station.

Councilmen cited the current power shortage and said it is likely to become more acute.

And they pointed out that the expansion would involve "only approximately one half mile of coastline, but would meet the urgent demand for increased electrical power and at the same time conserve between 25 and 30 million barrels of oil per year."

They said they felt the adverse environmental impact of the project would be minimal.

The endorsement came after a lengthy and impassioned appeal to reject the resolution that was made by Mrs. Judy Tracy, 706 Bison Ave., Newport Beach, a member of the city's Citizens Environmental Quality Control Advisory Committee.

That panel had endorsed the expansion but Mrs. Tracy said her statement represented the viewpoints of three members who feel "the decision to expand nuclear fission plants is perhaps the most far reaching moral issue of our time."

Mrs. Tracy cited the possibilities of nuclear accidents at both the generating plant and at the waste storage centers.

She pointed out that some of the spent byproducts including plutonium-239 will require segregation from our environments for 240,000 years.

"We must reach our minds beyond the entire time span of human experience to deal with plutonium-239," Mrs. Tracy said.

She also talked about the dangers of radioactive materials being shipped from place to place across the country.

While conceding the odds of a container coming open during even a railroad derailment are low, "what about someone intent upon opening the 16 bolts of the container?" she said.

"The horrifying possibilities of terrorism, sabotage and blackmail, both at reactor sites and during shipment pinpoint our increasing vulnerability," she said.

Mrs. Tracy told councilmen, "It is your moral mandate to call for a nuclear fission moratorium and to call for the redirection of our nation's research priorities and funds to the environmental safer sources of energy supply."

4,900 Arrested in 1973 On Drunken Driving Raps

Orange County Highway Patrolmen waged a war on drunken drivers last year, arresting 30 percent more than during 1972, a top Santa Ana CHP officer said today.

Capt. William Fradenburg said his forces arrested more than 4,900 motorists for driving under the influence of alcohol last year compared to just over 3,500 the year before.

During the same period, Fradenburg said seven fewer persons died and 87 fewer were injured in accidents last year than during 1972.

"We would like to think there is a correlation between the increase in drunk arrests and injury accidents and maybe there is" he said. "But it is too simplistic since there are other factors involved."

Fradenburg said, however, he gives a lot of weight to the relationship since statistics show that more than 50 percent of injury or fatal accidents involve drinking drivers.

According to Fradenburg's figures, 80 persons were killed in traffic accidents during 1973 in the CHP's jurisdiction as opposed to 87 the year before. The total number of fatal accidents declined, too, from 76 to 70.

Fradenburg said 2,716 persons were injured in his area in 1973 compared to 2,916 the year before — a reduction of 200. There were a total of 1,895 injury accidents in 1973 and 1,982 the year before.

Fradenburg said his figures cover only the Santa Ana office's jurisdiction. The Westminster CHP bureau handles freeway statistics in a portion of northwest Orange County but their statistics also include a large part of Los Angeles County, he said.

"But since there are mostly incorporated cities over there, they do mostly freeway patrol," he said. "Our officers are responsible for all traffic enforcement in the unincorporated land in the south county, which is an enormous area."

Fradenburg said the accident reduction figure is particularly significant when the rapid growth of Orange County is taken into account. He said there are a lot more cars now than even a year ago — particularly in the south county.

Fradenburg said there are other factors involved in the rate reduction, including weather conditions, highway improvements and possible auto trip reductions as the energy crisis took hold.

But, he said, the drunken driving arrests play the key role and without them, many more people would have been killed or maimed on county highways and byways.

Zonta Club to Hear Noted Space Expert

Dr. Krafft Ehricke, noted space expert, will address Newport Harbor Zonta Club members and their guests at an Amelia Earhart Day dinner Saturday.

Ehricke has played a key role in development of the U.S. space shuttle system for the Rockwell International Corp. His speech will be delivered following a banquet in the Empire Room of the Newporter Inn.
