Mills Admits He's an Alcoholic

Congressman Wilbur Mills

Intends To Stay In House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) acknowledged today he is an alcoholic but said he will stop drinking entirely and will stay in the House of Representatives.

Mills, who entered Bethesda Naval Hospital Dec. 3 for what was described as exhaustion, said in a statement released through the office of the House Ways and Means Committee:

"I ask the understanding of the members of Congress about what my tragic experience has been. I know that I am a well man as long as I do not drink and, by the grace of God and with competent medical advice, and the support of friends, I will remain well.

"In light of the above, it is my intention to continue in the Congress of the United States."

Mills, who has already announced he will not seek the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee which he headed for more than a decade and a half, said he realizes now his behavior of the past several months was not that of "the Wilbur Mills who has spent 36 years in Congress."

The behavior climaxed with an incident in Washington involving a stripper, Annabel Battistella, whom Mills said he had known for some time and with whom he later appeared on a Boston stage.

Mills said he did not understand at that time what was happening to him. Now, he said, he thinks "the fatigue and pressure built up by years of dedicated work" had a severe impact on him.

"During the past several years, and most especially in the last year, I had scarcely noticed that my drinking habits had changed perceptibly."

Mills has been at Bethesda since two days after he appeared on the Boston stage. He has been visited daily by his wife of 40 years, Polly. A spokesman for Mills said the congressman will remain at Bethesda until the new Congress convenes Jan. 14.

"I now realize, after several weeks of treatment by the doctors and soul-searching of my own, that I developed a severe drinking problem, not as a daily drinker but as a periodic heavy drinker. I did not know that this pattern corresponds with what is known as alcoholism. . .

"I have come to a full understanding that alcoholism is a disease from which people by the thousands have recovered," Mills said, pledging "total abstinence."

Mills said he is lucky to be in good physical and mental condition, but that his illness caused me to suffer blackouts from time to time — periods during which I have had no knowledge of what I was doing."

Man Trapped In Burning Auto, Dies

An Artesia man trapped inside his car after a La Palma traffic accident was burned to death Sunday night when the auto burst into flames.

A police spokesman said Gerald R. Fonkert, 59, was unable to get out of the car after a grinding collision with another vehicle that had run a red light at the intersection of Moody Street and La Palma Avenue.

Witnesses said Fonkert's wife, Marilyn, 48, jumped clear of the car just as the fire started. She was hospitalized with burns, cuts and possible internal injuries.

The driver of the other car, Fortunado P. Baygoza, 21, of Santa Ana, was booked in city jail on charges of vehicular manslaughter.

Raygoza sustained only slight injuries in the 10:55 p.m. crash but a female passenger in his car was admitted to La Palma Community Hospital with facial and ankle injuries.

A police spokesman said the exact cause of the crash is still under investigation.

Two county firemen were slightly injured putting out the car fire.

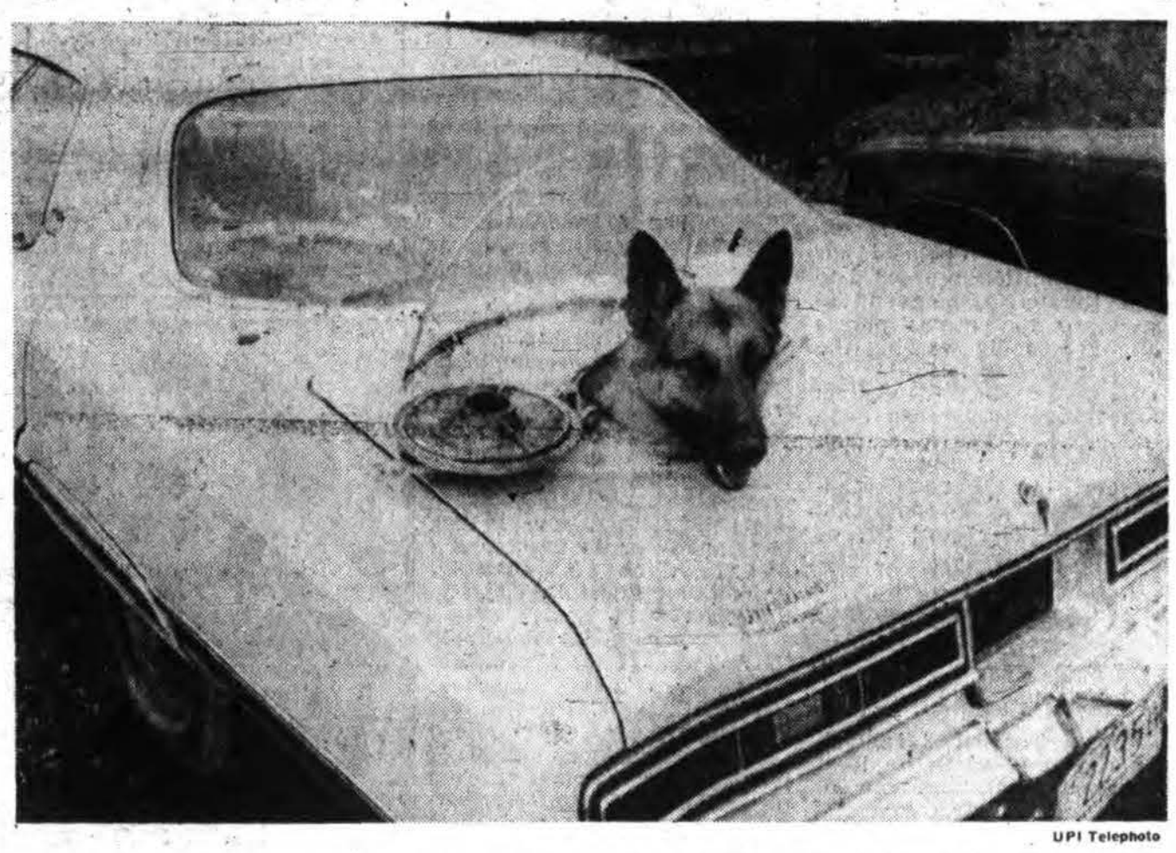

Police Probe Death of Pair

CUDAHY (UPI) — Police today were investigating the slaying of James Munsford, 24, and the execution-style killing of his wife, Mariane, 20.

Munsford's body was found Sunday morning in a south Los Angeles alley. He had been shot in the head.

When police went to his home to tell his wife, they found her body in the bedroom of the home, also shot in the head, and with her hands bound behind her.

Quake Deaths Hit 4,700 in Pakistan

PATTAN, Pakistan (AP) — The earthquake that hit northern Pakistan over the weekend killed an estimated 4,700 persons and injured about 15,000 in nine villages, rescue officials said today.

They said the final casualty toll could be even higher when reports arrive from isolated regions north of Pattan.

The villages were clustered about Pattan, nestled among the snow-capped Karakoram Mountains about 200 miles north of the Pakistani capital of Islamabad. The quake struck Saturday evening, and tremors followed intermittently for 24 hours. First word of the disaster was brought out by runners.

The quake almost destroyed this village of 10,000, leaving hardly one house intact. Senior army officers taking part in rescue operations estimated 500 inhabitants of Pattan were dead, 2,000 injured and some 400 houses either completely or partially destroyed.

Army rescue teams have been working around the clock since shortly after the quake struck, treating the injured, pulling bodies from the wreckage and mounting a helicopter-borne mercy airlift. Two field hospitals have been set up.

Because of the widespread damage to houses, many people havpe been sleeping in the open in temperatures that drop to near freezing at night. Nearly every family has reported losing one or more relatives in the disaster.

Police Seek Knife Waver

Orange County Sheriff's deputies were called to a Laguna Hills restaurant over the weekend when the manager was threatened at knifepoint by a patron who had been accused of stealing bar glasses.

Deputies said the suspect, who fled from the scene before officers arrived, used a pocket knife to intimidate manager Aladdin Partovi, 33, of Don Jose restuarant, 23972 Avenida de la Carlotta.

They said Partovi was also punched by the suspect who dragged the manager from the restaurant to the entranceway during the fracas.

Laguna Police Arrest 3 Men In Sex Case

Officers identified the suspects as Richard A. Henzell, 50, of 120 Cress St. and Dudley A. Stier, 34, of 1116 Miramar St., both of Laguna; and William S. Rutledge, 31, of San Francisco.

Henzell and Rutledge are held in lieu of $5,000 bail today. Stier, who police said is owner of a Costa Mesa leather manufacturing company, was booked on sex charges and resisting arrest. He was released on $2,500 bail.

Officer Greg Bartz alleged he was on beach foot patrol when he observed the three men engaged in a mutual sex act. Bartz handcuffed two of the men and escorted all three to a patrol car. The unshackled suspect allegedly fled but was later apprehended.

Ferry Hits Mine

SAIGON (UPI) — A ferry carrying Mekong Delta villagers through a canal hit a huge mine, killing 22 civilians and wounding 22 others, the Saigon military command reported today.

Managua Hostages Released

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nine terrorists today released hostages they held for 60 hours and flew off to Cuba with 16 sympathizers freed from Nicaraguan jails, officials said. The Roman Catholic archbishop of Managua went along to guarantee their safety.

A national guard officer at the airport said he believed but could not confirm that the Mexican and Spanish ambassadors and the papal nuncio in Managua also accompanied the terrorists to Cuba.

The break came only a couple of hours after the broadcast of a guerrilla demand that six points be met before noon or they would begin shooting one hostage every 12 hours. The government had said it would not allow the hostages — at least 13 men — to be taken to Havana.

Archbishop Miguel Ovando y Bravo was the first man out of the house where the hostages were held, followed by a man in plainclothes. A guerrilla wearing a stocking mask and pointing a rifle followed.

The group came out in single file and boarded a red and white tourist bus for the 15-mile drive to Managua's airport. They whipped through the airport to the end of the runway where the four-engine government-owned jet was waiting and 10 minutes later took off with a flight plan for Havana.

No details were available on whether the government met a $5 million ransom demand. A

Storm Passes

Sunny, Cool Weather Here

Clear, sunny and cool weather stayed on in Orange County today, leaving little trace of the weekend storm except for snow-capped Saddleback Mountain.

The sudden storm that arrived early Saturday dumped rain, hail and lightning on coastal cities and snow in the mountain areas. By Sunday afternoon skies were again clear and mountain routes were clogged with snow enthusiasts trying to reach the new white stuff.

Gusty winds were expected to blow into the Orange Coast region later today, sending temperatures into the low 60s. Gustier winds are expected for Tuesday, when highs may dip to the high 50s, forecasters predict lows may drop to the mid-30s.

Gusts between 15 and 25 miles per hour are anticipated below the canyons, with mountain areas due to receive northeast gusts up to 40 miles per hour.

Unless unforeseen weather conditions suddenly arise, forecasters are predicting fair weather for New Year's Day and the rest of the week.

Mountain areas throughout Southern California, including the local Saddleback Peak, were congested Sunday with visitors to the snow.

By noon Santiago Canyon Road, the main route to the county's snow, was closed due to heavy traffic, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Snow was reported as low as the 2,500-foot level in Orange County, with snow flurries at even lower levels, including Ortega Highway east of San Juan Capistrano.

Skiers going into the San Bernardino and San Gabriel Mountains were caught in mammoth traffic tie-ups, too, authorities reported.

Harper PTA Tax Studied

The Harper PTA in Fountain Valley finally has heard from officials of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Alan Wessa said an IRS official telephoned to try to straighten out the PTA's tax trouble.

The PTA owes the IRS a $1,440 fine, not in back taxes, but over failure to file a tax exemption form more than a year ago. The fine was due Dec. 12.

Mrs. Wessa said the IRS official said the Harper file didn't contain the many letters the PTA has sent trying to explain that their failure to file the form was accidental.

But she exlained the IRS official told her they would notify Los Angeles tax officers not to impose a lien on PTA functions or other penalties until the Philadelphia office has had a chance to investigate further.

In the meantime, Mrs. Wessa, PTA president at the time of the oversight, said she has mailed the Philadelphia official copies of all correspondence.

Illegal Donations

Oil Firm Lashed With $25,000 Fine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ashland Oil Corp. was fined $25,000 today for unlawful corporate donations to political candidates and organizations in 1970 and 1972 — including one said to have been delivered to Robert L. Strauss, now the Democratic national chairman.

The Kentucky-based firm pleaded guilty to each of five misdemeanor counts in surprise information brought by the Watergate special prosecutor's office. Chief U.S. District Judge George L. Hart imposed the maximum $5,000 fine on each count.

Strauss later issued a statement saying he was pleased that "the record clearly reflects that there was no knowledge on the part of anyone at the Democratic National Committee that these gifts were corporate.

"As a matter of fact," he added, "They were clearly represented as being the gifts of individual executives."

One count said an Ashland representative turned over $50,000 in cash to Strauss between June 1970 and February 1972 for use by the Democratic National Committee. Strauss was then treasurer of the party organization.

The other charges were based on unlawful contributions of $6,865 to campaign committees for Democratic Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in 1970 and 1972, $100,000 to various committees for Senate and House candidates in early 1972, $2,500 to the re-election campaign of Republican Sen. John Tower of Texas in 1972, and $10,000 for the unsuccessful Senate race of Kentucky Republican Louis B. Nunn in that year.

An attorney for Ashland said the fine would be paid personally by the corporation's chairman, Orin E. Atkins, who in 1973 pleaded no contest and was fined $1,000 individually on charges of making unlawful donations to the re-election campaign of former President Nixon. Ashland was fined $5,000 at that time.

It was the first illegal contribution uncovered by Watergate prosecutors involving the Democratic party.

There have been previous violations involving individual Democratic candidates.

A Watergate prober added that even though Atkins and other Ashland officials withheld information from the prosecutors in 1973 concerning the other gifts, he was departing from usual policy and would file no further charges against Atkins.

In an accompanying appendix, Ruth indicated the prosecutors had been misled by Fred. M. Vinson, son of the former Supreme Court justice and the lawyer who represented Ashland at the time of its guilty plea last year.

JERUSALEM (UPI) — An Israeli woman who took fertility drugs because she failed to get a child in seven years of marriage has given birth to quintuplets.

Officials at Hadassa Hospital said Mrs. Tova Medina, 31, and the quintuplets were in satisfactory condition Sunday after a Caesarean section.

The officials said the mother and babies still face a 48-hour critical period before the children's chances of survival will be clear. Mrs. Medina is the wife of prison guard Moshe Medina.

Fire Causes Heavy Loss To Garage

A fire of unknown origin roared through a two-car garage behind a Laguna Hills Leisure World condominium complex Sunday night causing $17,000 damage, a county fire spokesman said today.

The fire broke out at about 10:15 p.m. in the garage behind the Ben Herron residence at 3296 San Amado in the retirement community.

Three fire engines, a paramedic team, rescue truck and 29 men from the El Toro and Laguna Hills fire stations responded to the blaze. It took about 25 minutes to control the fire, the spokesman said.

The flames destroyed a 1969 Oldsmobile, a fully outfitted machine shop and other storage items worth a total of $17,000.

The spokesman said the garage was a total loss and some damage was done to the residential building. Nobody was injured in the blaze.

Honeymoon Shortened By Theft

NEW YORK (AP) — Some honeymoon.

Ronald and Marie McHugh of Carbondale, Pa., who are in their 50's, got married Friday night, arrived here Saturday by bus, hailed a cab and headed for the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and a week's honeymoon.

As they were leaving the cab, the driver sped away with their three pieces of luggage and $200 in gift money.

The couple gave chase in another cab but lost their original taxi in traffic. They did manage to get their quarry's license plate number. Police located the cab but recovered only one suitcase which had been looted. The money was also missing.

The driver was being sought, and the McHughs went back to Pennsylvania.

"You might say I'm really teed about this," the bride said.

"This has got to be the shortest honeymoon in history."

Another survivor, 24-year-old Kima Khan, said: "I was sitting inside my house when there was this big earth tremor. The whole house collapsed on top of me.

"I was rescued, but three of my relatives — an aunt, a young girl and a man — were killed. The whole village was destroyed."

Bold Gunman Nets $268 In Stickup

Orange County Sheriff's deputies resumed their search today for a gunman who visited a Capistrano Beach beauty salon during the weekend and robbed the proprietress and two patrons of $268.

Deputies said two women were having their hair done at Palisades Hair Fashions, 26951 Camino de Estrella, when a man wearing a black and white ski hat, blue jeans and tan shoes entered the store and brandished a revolver.

The three women said the gunman told them "give me all your money" and then proceeded to pocket the store's takings and the contents of the patrons' purses while repeatedly warning the women not to move.

INSURED UP TO $40,000

U.S. Pays Cash to Keep 32 Stoned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The federal government has spent more than $350,000 on a study in which 32 volunteers were kept stoned on marijuana for up to a month.

The project, designed to test tolerance to and dependence on marijuana, is being conducted at the Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute here under the guidance of project director Dr. Reese T. Jones.

Dr. Jones said volunteers are paid $25 a day to live in the psychiatric ward and receive a daily dosage of government-grown marijuana equivalent to about 80 joints.

He said the study has cost $358,830.

Before beginning the program, each volunteer signs a statement which says in part:

"The doses of marijuana used in this study may produce low blood pressure and fainting. The management of this and its consequences, which could conceivably include seizures and death, has been discussed with me to my satisfaction."

Two volunteers who spent 21 days in the experiment, Patrick Lanzing and Michael Krummel, said they were kept high on capsules filled with tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), the active chemical ingredient of marijuana.

They said drug doses were administered six times a day, including a double dose at midnight and a wakeup dose at 4 a.m. Tests were taken at regular intervals of their urine, saliva, semen, heart rate, physical strength, vision, brain waves, memory, moods and psychological state.

Dr. Jones said preliminary findings have convinced him marijuana users develop a physical dependence on the drug.

He said that when his subjects were taken off the heavy marijuana dosage, they suffered such symptoms as irritability, insomnia, sweating, hot flashes, hiccups and weight loss.

Lanzing and Krummel, who Jones said were "atypical subjects," both said they alternated between depression and elation during the experiment and frequently suffered frightening hallucinations.

Both men said they believed they suffered no permanent harm from the experience.

Keep Will at Home

DEAR PAT: My husband and I had our attorney draw up a will for us many years ago. Although our wishes have not changed as far as the disbursement of the estate is concerned, our attorney has moved out of the state. We have kept the will in our safe deposit box since, but friends tell us this is not wise. I hesitate hiring an attorney just to tell us where our will should be kept. Can you find out what is recommended?

R.K., Laguna Hills

Your safe deposit box may not be the best choice for storage because upon death this box may be sealed, even if it is held jointly with another person. Your executor would then have to go to court for permission to open the box. Your safest course, according to attorneys and bankers contacted, is to keep a copy of your will at home in a fire-proof container; with the original being held by your executor, often either a relative, bank, trust company or attorney.

China 'Crazing' Okay

DEAR PAT: I have some very old china dishes that I use only occasionally. While storing them after Christmas dinner, I noticed some "crazing," or fine cracks, in the glaze. Will continued use make this worse, and is there any way I can remove food stains without making the crazing worse or ruining the remaining glaze?

R.E., Newport Beach

Some crazing is expected on older dishes, and not considered that undesirable, according to antique china experts. Careful use and cleaning of these dishes will help preserve the remaining glaze. Avoid serving strongly colored food in them, such as beets, and do not allow food to remain in this china any longer than necessary. Use of strong automatic dishwasher detergent also should be avoided. Although most stains can be removed by rubbing with a cloth dampened with baking soda or salt, tough stains may require a mild household bleaching treatment. Bleach should not be used without pretesting or an expert's recommendation, especially if the china is porcelain or has a fine glaze.

Accountant's Wrath

DEAR PAT: My tax accountant has been after me for years to get my deductions in order for his consideration before the end of the calendar year. I've tried to do so this year, and remember I made several spur of the moment cash contributions to charitable causes, which I can not prove. Knowing I'm already in trouble with my accountant for submitting "no-proof" contributions, am I also in trouble with the IRS for claiming such deductions?

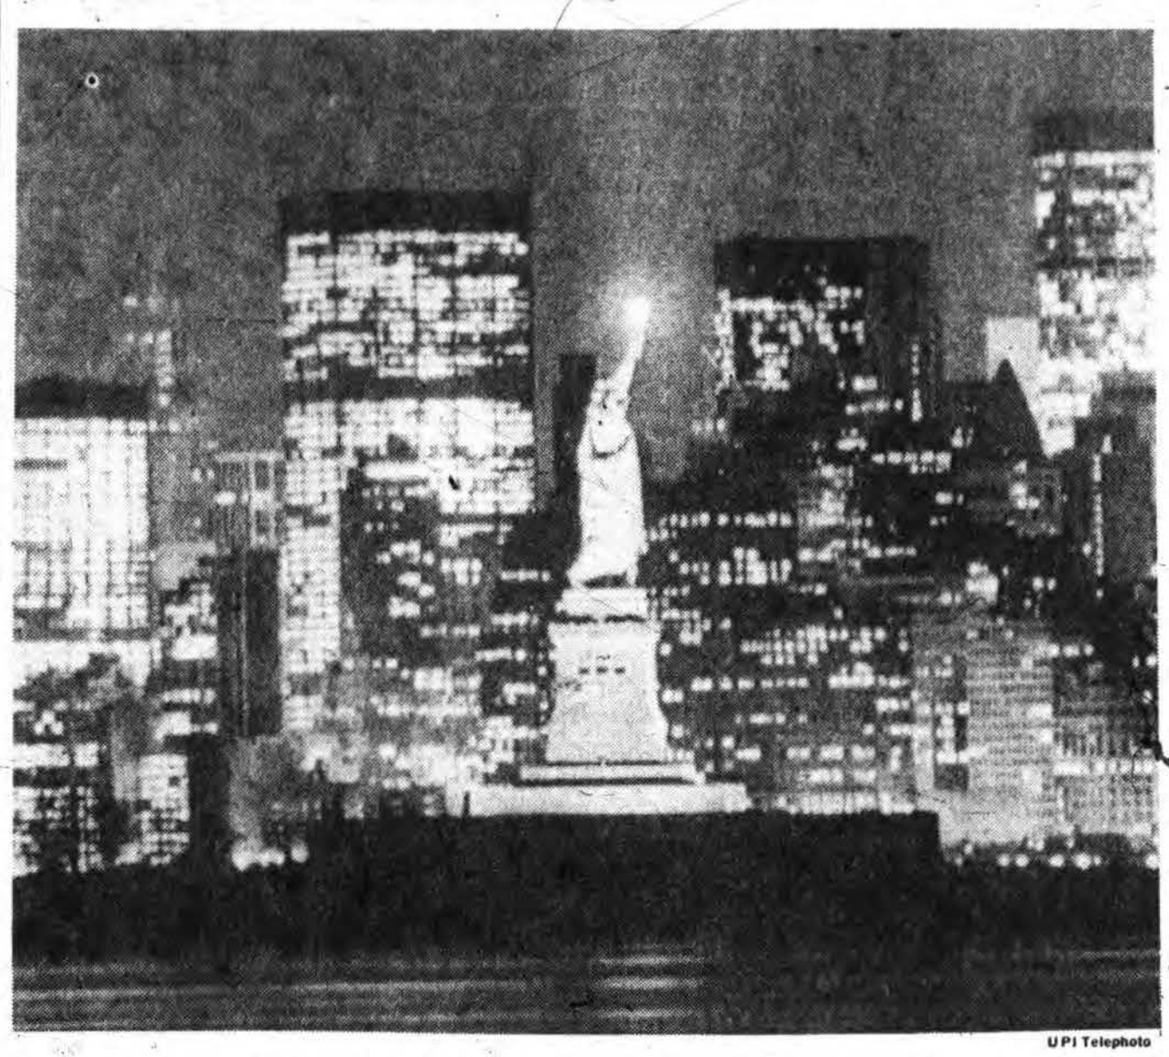

G.S., Costa Mesa

If IRS selects your tax return for an audit, you probably will be safe in claiming no-proof charitable deductions of between $50 and $80, say several certified public accountants contacted by AYS. Since each taxpayer's return varies according to his own financial circumstances, take the chance of incurring your own accountant's wrath and check with him before claiming these deductions.

Third LA Vendor Slain

Ice Cream Man Victim of Young Thugs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was a rainy winter morning, but Dipsy Doodle Ice Cream Company driver Ardis Love decided to take his truck out anyway.

Christmas was just past and Love, though only 39, was a widower and had a recurring illness that didn't let him work as much as he'd like to support himself and his 5-year-old daughter, Dana.

He left home early Saturday morning. At 1:43 p.m., he was found stabbed to death, sprawled across the front seat of his truck. Police believe he was the victim of three youthful robbers posing as customers.

He became the third ice cream vendor killed in Los Angeles in six months during similar robberies which police say are unrelated.

Love's battered truck with its colorful signs and enticing bells was found stopped beside a small park. Coins were scattered around it on the Southwest Los Angeles street.

Sheriff's Lt. David Hagthrop said three youths were seen fleeing the area just before the body was discovered. No weapon was found at the scene and there have been no arrests.

Oct. 29, another Dipsy Doodle driver, 25-year-old Vatcharin Vinyarath, was shot to death in a Lincoln Heights housing project.

And in another case last summer, more than 20 persons looted Victoriono Paredes' ice cream truck after he was brutally beaten in a robbery near another housing project. Two adults and three juveniles were booked for investigation of murder after the 55-year-old vendor died.

Like Love, the previous victims were described as unassuming, kindly men who enjoyed their work. Love and his daughter had been living with his sister, Mrs. Redell Huggins. She described her brother as a sickly man, but hard working.

"He was a quiet, friendly man, not a bad guy in any way," she recalled.

Watergate Jury

Ignore Nixon Pardon--Judge

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica instructed the Watergate cover-up trial jury today to ignore the pardon granted Richard M. Nixon in considering the guilt or innocence of five former Nixon administration and campaign aides. Then he gave the case to the jury.

"Neither the pardon of former President Nixon nor any other cases or extraneous matters should have any effect on your deliberations or your verdict," Sirica said.

Repeatedly Sirica explained that the cover-up would be a conspiracy to "influence, obstruct and impede and corruptly endeavor to influence, obstruct and impede, the due administration of justice in connection with the Watergate investigation and in connection with the trial of the original Watergate defendants..."

The defendants sat expressionless in the paneled courtroom where they have spent most of their days since the trial began Oct. 1.

They are former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, ex-White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, former assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson, one-time lawyer for the Nixon re-election committee.

All are charged with conspiring to obstruct the investigation of the original Watergate break in. All but Mardian are charged with obstruction of justice. Mitchell, Haldeman and Ehrlichman also are charged with perjury.

Sirica informed the jury for the first time that he dismissed two counts in the indictment which charged Ehrlichman and Mitchell with lying to FBI agents.

The jurors listened without showing any expression.

After hearing Sirica's instructions, the nine women and three men, who heard 11 weeks of arguments and testimony will begin deciding the guilt or innocence of the defendants.

The long trial was the climax of a scandal that forced Nixon to resign the presidency less than two years after he was re-elected by one of the largest margins ever.

The grand jury that returned the cover-up indictment March 1, also named Nixon, then still president, an unindicted co-conspirator.

Rain Puts Damper on Glide Ride

"Have no doubt about it, nature has not been on our side."

So said John Smith, director of public relations at Escape Country in Trabuco Canyon, where 125 top hang glider pilots in the U.S. National Hang Glider championship were grounded by bad weather this weekend.

"It was a real bummer all the way," Smith said. After three television stations had spot features on the gliding events Friday night, thousands of spectators drove to the Trabuco Canyon recreation spot Saturday, only to learn that all events had been canceled.

Saturday the culprit was mud created by Friday night's heavy rain.

On Sunday the wind blew the wrong direction, Smith said. Events were scheduled to run through Tuesday when the final competition, a four-mile jump from Saddleback Peak back to Escape Country, was on tap.

Pilots were meeting today to determine how to choose a national champion in the shortest time, Smith said. A trophy to the top glider pilot was to be presented Tuesday afternoon by representatives of the U.S. Hang Glider Association.

Garbage Pickups

Trash pickups in all Orange Coast cities will be affected by the New Year's Day holiday Wednesday, with collections either being moved back one day or postponed until Saturday.

Most cities will have Wednesday pickups on Thursday, Thursday pickups on Friday and Friday's collections on Saturday.

However, residents of Newport Beach, Huntington Beach and San Juan Capistrano, who normally have their trash picked up on Wednesday, will have it picked up on Saturday. Those with Thursday and Friday pickups will not be affected.

City halls in all cities will be closed on New Year's Day.

1974—File And Forget

AULD LANG FOOEY: Now it is almost time for the old year to depart us. It may get relegated to a few lines in some musty history text. People, however, get very teary-eyed about the demise of the old year.

For one thing, the newspapers have this penchant about this time for sounding all the last hurrahs for the old year, telling you how great and newsy it was, and then listing, for your re-consumption, the Top 103 Stories of 1974.

"MARCH 15—INTERNAL Revenue Service predicts seven million Americans will be late paying income taxes. . .

"April 3—Orange County Grand Jury files report suggesting 93 reforms in county government. Board of Supervisors files report without comment. . ."

"May 1—Kremlin holds annual May Day Parade, trotting out fearful new offensive missiles which can strike anywhere in the world. . ."

"June 30—Another railroad platform collapses in Guru, India, with happier result. Only 32 die."

"July 4—National Safety Council predicts 428 Americans will lose lives over the holiday from errant fireworks, drowning, overeating and sunburn.

"AUG. 7—NEWPORT Beach City Council announces new surfing restrictions as waves climb to 11 feet."

"Sept. 10—Newport Beach City Council announces relaxed surfing regulations as schools reopen."

"Oct. 21—National Safety Council discloses 74 different types of Halloween costumes which explode into flames if worn near a hot lightbulb."

"NOV. 3—COSTA MESA City Council engages in bitter debate over when to celebrate Veteran's Day. In other action, councilmen quietly file newest study of sign control ordinance. . ."

"Dec. 11—The National Safety Council predicts 411 homes will burn to the ground over the holidays because of faulty Christmas tree lights and wishes everybody a Happy New Year."

So thus you are given the old year which is passing. To balderdash with it. You may have it with all its happy memories. Better that we leave the recounting to the aforementioned musty textbooks.

FORGET ALL the dire predictions. You just know that 1975 is going to be our better, brighter tomorrow.

Don't look back.

Something might be closing in on you.

Christmas Slaying

Suraj Narayan, 40, (right) suspect in Christmas morning slaying of part-time model Sandra Zahler, 25, (left) has surrendered to reporter of New York Dail News. Neighbors said they heard screams at time but passed it off as a lovers' spat and did not call police.

Yanks Flee Red Uprising In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Nineteen American civilians who were in Ban Houei Sai when rebellious Laotian troops took over the Mekong River town in northwest Laos six days ago arrived safely in Vientiane today.

Jack Huxtable, in charge of the U.S. Agency for International Development's program in the Ban Houei Sai area; said they left because of a "total breakdown in law and order."

"WE DIDN'T WANT to leave all our Laotian friends, but it became very evident this morning that we could not stay," said Huxtable, 36, from Richfield Springs, N.Y.

The Americans, an Italian missionary and a Briton crossed the Mekong River to the Thai border town of Chieng Khong and were flown from there to Vientiane, 250 miles to the southeast.

They included Huxtable's wife, 5-year-old daughter and 4-year-old son; Karen Smith, a nurse at the U.S. Embassy in Vientiane who was holidaying in the town when the rebels took over; Mrs. James Linn, wife of the director of International Voluntary Services in Ban Houei Sai, and her two daughters, 3 and 5 years old; William W. Sage and Wayne Johnson, refugee relief workers for AID; Johnson's wife; Gary E. Alex and James R. Bowman, two agricultural specialists; Raymond Boone; the Rev. Jerry Torgerson, a missionary, and his wife and three children, and Wyndham James, a British official of the World Health Organization.

THE IDENTITY OF the Italian was not immediately learned.

Sage was taken off the plane on a stretcher and taken to a hospital but U. S. Embassy officials said he had not been hurt by the rebels. They explained that he was in a hospital in Ban Houei Sai recovering from injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident when the rebels took over the town.

The U. S. Embassy said earlier that the rebels kept the Americans under house arrest, and their release was promised after an agreement Saturday between the rebellious troops and a negotiating commission from the coalition government in Vientiane. But Huxtable indicated that they remained voluntarily, saying:

"We stayed seven days because we wanted to demonstrate to the people there that 'we were with them. The villagers wanted us to stay.'"

Helpless Horror

NEW YORK (AP) — Police have arrested a 25-year-old man who allegedly killed his mother, forcing her head down into a water-filled bathtub, while his mute 17-year-old brother, a cerebral palsy victim, watched helplessly.

Police said the handicapped youth, James Brown, managed to alert neighbors Sunday around 8 a.m. that something had happened.

Mrs. Mary Brown, 57, was found in the bathtub. Dennis Brown was seized later.

Avalanche Gave Man No Chance

From Wire Services

ASPEN, Colo. — County officials say a Minnesota contractor had no chance of escaping an avalanche which carried him 300 yards down a mountainside and buried him under 10 feet of snow.

The victim was identified as Morton Berland, 52, of St. Paul. Berland's body was recovered about three hours after the accident in McFarland Gulch Saturday.

"He was considered an excellent skier, but there was nothing he could do when the slide started," deputy sheriff Roy Smith said. "He was carried 300 yards by the force of the slide and buried."

IN SHORT

Gary 'Dismay'

GARY, Ind. — Gary Mayor Richard G. Hatcher said he was "dismayed" at the decision of the U.S. Steel Corporation to close 10 air-polluting open hearth furnaces at its Gary works.

The decision to close the furnaces will cause the layoff of 2,500 U.S. Steel employes and put out of work at least 1,500 other workers in related industries.

Prison Riot

DUBLIN, Ireland — The feud between branches of the Irish Republican Army reportedly sparked a prison riot Sunday that 600 troops and police quelled.

The security forces stormed the main cell block in the Portlouise jail 50 miles southwest of Dublin and freed 27 guards held captive by more than 100 convicted IRA guerrillas, the government reported today.

Firm Closes

LONDON — The Aston Martin company, manufacturers of prestige sports cars including one used in a James Bond movie, has become the latest victim of the hard times afflicting the world's automobile makers.

The company announced Sunday it is ceasing production today and going into voluntary liquidation because it couldn't raise enough cash to stay in business. Five hundred workers at the company's plant in Buckinghamshire will lose their jobs.

Tax Cut Urged by Advisers

VAIL, Colo. CAP) — President Ford has been urged by some of his economic advisers to push for a tax cut to bolster the faltering economy.

Ford also was reported ready to abandon his proposed income tax surcharge, a measure he urged earlier this year when he declared inflation to be public enemy No. 1.

However, the deepening recession reportedly has led some White House economic advisers to push for a tax cut. That advice was said to have been given to Ford over the weekend when he met with his economic advisers.

There was no indication whether Ford will propose a tax cut. Ford has sworn his advisers to secrecy, and press Secretary Ron Nessen has said that Ford will not announce any new programs until his State of the Union address sometime after the new Congress convenes on Jan. 14. But Nessen said Ford plans "fundamental changes" in the management of the nation's economy.

Advisers Seen as Drawback

By United Press International

The Soviet Union announced today that Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev has postponed indefinitely his scheduled January visit to Egypt, Syria and Iraq. Arab sources said cancellation of the visit followed Egyptian refusal to permit Soviet military advisers to return to Egypt.

The Soviet announcement was made by the Tass news agency and was broadcast by Moscow radio, ending a six-day Russian news blackout on Brezhnev's plans to visit the Middle East.

TASS SAID a new date for Brezhnev's Middle East visit would be announced later. The Soviet announcement confirmed reports by Arab news agencies of the postponement but gave no reason. Soviet announcements have stressed that the talks between the visiting Egyptians and the Kremlin had been friendly.

Diplomatic reports in London and Beirut said Brezhnev was prepared to replace the arms Egypt lost in the 1973 Yom Kippur war with Israel and had promised advanced MIG25 fighter planes and super-sophisticated SAM missiles if Egypt would permit the return of Russian military advisers expelled by President Anwar Sadat in 1972.

THE MOSCOW development coincided with these other Middle East developments:

—Israeli newspapers reported that Israel has appointed Prof. Saadia Amiel, a nuclear scientist, to the strategic planning division of the Israeli defense ministry. The reports said nuclear physicist Yuval Ne'eman would be appointed a senior adviser to the defense ministry later.

—Israel officially denied reports that its officials had had secret meetings with representatives of the Palestine Liberation Organization to discuss the prospects of negotiations on the Middle East. The report was carried in Newsweek Magazine and the newspaper Ma'Ariv.

Arab sources in Moscow said the postponement did not necessarily indicate a deterioration in relations between Moscow and Cairo, but there have been reports in the Arab press for days that the Russian advisers would not be allowed to return. 's a con-

CIA Resignations

Colby 'Cleans House'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three more top officials in the CIA's counterintelligence division are stepping down in the midst of a reported policy dispute and allegations that the agency was involved in domestic spying.

Along with the resignation of counterintelligence chief James J. Angleton, the three departures leave vacant the top command of the division, which is known to have disagreed sharply with CIA Director William E. Colby over detente with the Soviet Union and Colby's public discussions of agency activities.

"COLBY IS USING this to clean house," a well-informed source said of the departures. Meanwhile, it was learned that Angleton, named in published reports as the overseer of the alleged domestic spy operation, once served on an interagency panel that teported directly to the White House on the threat of domestic demonstrations and disturbances. The so-called Intelligence Evaluation Committee was headed by Robert C. Mardian, former assistant attorney general and now a defendant in the Watergate cover-up trial. The sources said the committee was assisted by a staff which included Richard Ober, who has been named as the man who ran the CIA's alleged domestic surveillance activities on a day-to-day basis. Angleton has denied any involvement in illegal domestic spying. Ober, once an aide to Angleton and now on the National Security staff, has declined to comment.

IN ADDITION to Angleton, 57, whose resignation was requested by Colby 10 days ago, Raymond Rocca, 57, No. 2 man in the counterintelligence division, Newton S. Miler, 48, chief of operations, and William J. Hood, 54, executive officer, are also leaving the agency at the end of this month. Rocca, Miler and Hood confirmed Sunday they were stepping down, but declined to discuss their reasons.

The CIA's mandatory retirement age is 65 for most of its employes, but the agency requires those who have served overseas to retire at age 60 and urges others to do so as well.

One source said Miler had been Angleton's choice to ultimately succeed him as counterintelligence chief.

A SOURCE WHO worked with all four officials said their decisions were influenced in part by added benefits available to government employes who retire before the end of the year. However, the source said allegations of domestic surveillance and a long standing policy dispute with Colby were the major factors in the retirements of Rocca and Miler.

It was learned that Angleton's name was mentioned in one draft of the 50-page report on the alleged domestic spying that Colby has forwarded to President Ford. Details of the reference to Angleton could not be determined.

A well-informed source said the counterintelligence staff disagreed "totally" with Colby over interpretation of events in the Soviet bloc and was more suspicious than higher policy-makers about the Soviet Union's expressed desire for detente.

Angleton and his staff were said by this source to believe that the agency was being destroyed by Colby's disclosures of agency activities.

U.S. Summary

The winter storm that swept the Southwest last weekend lost its intensity, but snow continued in the Colorado mountains. Travelers advisories went up for snow and blowing snow in southern Colorado.

Fog dropped visibility near zero from the South Atlantic Coast to Texas. A thick cover of clouds stretched from the Southeast into the Mississippi Valley and the southern plains.

Rain and drizzle fell from Texas to the Appalachians and the eastern Great Lakes.

A cold front brought rain and some snow to the plateau and parts of the Pacific Coast. Astoria, Ore. received one half inch of rain in six hours and Quillayute, Wash. reported three inches of rain during the last 24 hours.

Southern Californians can expect a cool and windy New Year's Eve followed by a sunny, clear day for Rose Bowl watching, the National Weather Service says.

Lows tonight will be in the upper 40s in the Los Angeles area, 32 to 42 in the coastal and intermediate valleys, the teens and low 20s in the mountains and the 20s and 30s in the desects.

No new snow is anticipated, but those temperatures should be low enough to maintain the base at ski resorts and to keep the mountaintops glistening, the forecasters say.

Highs Tuesday will range from the lower 60s in Los Angeles to the low 40s in the mountains.

Coastal Weather

Monday winds generally westerly 8 to 15 knots. Highs today, 55 to 65.

Coastal temperatures will range between 40 and 66. Inland temperatures will range between 40 and 66. The water temperature will be 57.

War Hero Eyes Return

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Teruo Nakamura, a Taiwanese who fought for the Japanese army in World War II and hid 30 years on an Indonesian island, said today he would like to return to Taiwan after staying a few days in Tokyo.

Nakamura, flown to Jakarta on Sunday and now resting in a hospital, said he could not recognize his wife and son from photographs shown to him "because they have changed and become old." His wife, now remarried, and his son live in Taiwan.

He told a news conference Sunday that while hiding on Morotai Island in the Moluccas he suppressed his longing for his wife and son by concentrating on gardening.

Nakamura, 57, surrendered to an Indonesian air force team on Morotai on Dec. 19. He had been spotted earlier this month by a villager who informed the authorities.

He told newsmen he survived by fishing, trapping wild pigs and turkeys, and by growing bananas, taro and tapioca. He added he was enjoying eating good Japanese-style meals again.

Doctors said Nakamura's health was improving rapidly. When first found he was said to be suffering from a shortage of hemoglobin in his blood due to a lack of protein and iron in his jungle diet.

Comedians Eulogize Jack Benny

CULVER CITY (UPI) — His fellows said goodbye to Jack Benny Sunday with tears and gentle jokes he would have liked.

Men and women who came the route he did — from vaudeville circuits to national entertainment institutions — buried the comedian on a brilliantly sunny Sunday afternoon in a cemetery packed with celebrities, fans and emotion.

George Burns, Benny's best friend, broke down in sobs three sentences into his eulogy and could not finish. Bob Hope, who met Benny on Broadway 45 years ago, carried on, mixing gentle humor with his tributes.

"He was stingy to the end," Hope said. "He was only with us 80 years, and it wasn't enough."

Burns, who with his wife Gracie Allen, was one of Benny's fellow giants of the golden days of network radio in the 1930s and 1940s, said beforehand that he did not know if he could go through with his part of the eulogy. "I told that to Mary (Livingston, Benny's widow), and she asked me to try."

"What can I tell you about Jack? I've known him 55 years. . ." Burns broke. "I can't imagine my life without him," he sobbed and returned to his seat.

Police several times had to push back the crowd of 2,000 who came to see Benny buried at Hillside Memorial Cemetery.

Pallbearers included Frank Sinatra, Gregory Peck, Milton Berle and director Billy Wilder. Mourners included a roster of the most famous names in show business and politics, including Gov. Ronald Reagan and former Sen. George Murphy, both former entertainers.

CHP Eyes Reagan Incident

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — California Highway Patrol supervisors were to discuss today the incident in which Gov. Ronald Reagan's vehicle and a state security car were halted after driving over the state's 55 mile per hour speed limit.

CHP Investigator Robeit Roese said Sunday that Reagan's station wagon and his backup security car were traveling about 70 m.p.h. during a 27 mile "chase" from an area north of Goleta to Seacliff, south of Santa Barbara.

Both the governor's vehicle and the state security car, which was traveling at a very close distance behind, were driven by CHP officers, the patrol said.

Roese said it had not been determined whether speeding charges would be pressed and today's discussion by supervisors will determine if further action should be taken. He noted that the incident couldn't really be termed a high-speed chase.

He said the CHP car which attempted to stop Reagan's two-car caravan flashed its red lights but that the rear car flashed its own red light to the rear and continued.

However, the CHP car which was tailing the Reagan cars radioed for assistance and another unit was sent to the area.

Bay Area Shaken Up

RICHMOND (UPI) — A light earthquake joggled the San Francisco Bay area early Sunday.

No damage was reported by the temblor, which registered 3.5 on the Richter scale. The shaker, which could be felt in San Francisco, was centered on the Hayward fault in the Richmond-El Cerrito area on the east side of the bay.

Vandals Prompt Fatal Accident

FAIRMONT, N. C. (UPI) — Vandals pulled up the stop signs at about five intersections near here.

The next day, Lou Ann Walters of Garner drove through one of the intersections without stopping. Her car smashed broadside into another auto carrying five persons, killing two and injuring the other three.

Land Dispute

Brando's Sis Just Joking

CHICAGO (AP) — Actor Marlon Brando's sister backed off late Sunday from earlier claim that the family farm near Chicago would go to the American Indians only "over my dead body."

Mrs. Richard Loving said she made that comment jokingly, and that she is sure her brother did not intend to include the 40 acre farm where she lives and where the actor spent some of his early years. Brando and his two sisters own the land jointly.

Brando announced Saturday that he would give all his land in the United States to the Indians.

Mrs. Loving did not deny that she told a reporter: 'We are not giving this (Illinois) land away. There is no question about it."

But, she said, that sounds like she and Brando are quarreling which is not the case. She said she spoke to her brother about the land donations Saturday and he did not mention the Illinois property. She is convinced her brother didn't include the family farm.

Mrs. Loving said she supports her brother's efforts to help the Indians and thinks it's fantastic that he is willing to give his property away.

Brando, in listing the land he plans to give away, mentioned the farm in addition to 14 acres of land near Calabasas, a home in Los Angeles and an apartment complex in nearby Anaheim.

"I think giving up all my land in America will entitle me to ask others to make a contribution, too," Brando said.

Brando said he will sign a deed today to give the acreage in Liberty Canyon, near Calabasas, to Hank Adams of the Survival of American Indians Association.

Courts View Growth

Two sharply split state Supreme Court rulings upholding the validity of so-called "anti-growth" initiatives could have a substantial impact on such fast-growing areas as Orange County.

One of the voter-approved initiatives set a 30-foot building height limit in the San Diego coastal area. The other established a building freeze in a section of San Jose until residential developers agree to provide new school facilities.

Developers and property owners challenging the limitations, maintained that the legislation by initiative deprived them of due process rights to notice and hearing.

But in two separate 4-3 votes, the state's high court denied the challenges, ruling that notice and hearing provisions apply only to judicial situations, not to the adoption of general legislation on zoning.

A general building limitation in the city of Petaluma, earlier ruled unconstitutional by a U.S. District Court, apparently does not compare with the San Jose ban, since the latter is limited to an already overcrowded section and therefore, in the eyes of the court, does not restrict the right of newcomers to move into the community.

Turning aside claims of damage to property values in the two cases, the court, in a significant opinion, commented that "the time has passed when property rights were exalted over our citizens' rights to life and liberty."

With growth versus no-growth rapidly becoming one of Orange County's most controversial issues —and indeed the subject of heated argument in many parts of the state— court rulings on the topic are guaranteed to be among the best-read legal documents of the day.

In the South County alone, San Juan Capistrano city fathers are weighing the possibility of freezing acreage into agriculture zoning; Laguna Beach (which entered the picture at an early date with its controversial high-rise initiative) is having doubts about participating in a regional sewage disposal plan which could facilitate development; Irvine is trying to stay one jump ahead of surging school needs; and owners of vast, undeveloped ranchlands are confronting density reduction demands from county planners.

It's a safe bet that the judiciary has not heard the last of the growth controversy.

Help for Jobless

A reverse flow of federal funds — from Washington to Orange County — will make life somewhat brighter during 1975 for about 800 persons and their families.

They'll be those employed under a special, $8.3 million federal grant providing jobs for those who have been without jobs for at least 30 days. The exact occupations haven't been specified, but generally the jobs will be city and county posts in libraries, community centers and schools.

There seems to be little question that the program is primarily a make-work proposition. Orange County's Manpower Commission isn't claiming the 800 jobs are essential to the running of city or county government. Nor is it asserted that the year-long program will offer specialized training in fields where jobs might appear.

Officially, the funds come from the Department of Labor's interpretation of Title 6 of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1963.

In short, it's a federal handout, pure and simple.

The Strange Fall Of Wilbur Mills

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — From his hospital bed, Wilbur Mills has sent us word that he has experienced "blackouts" since his 1973 back operation, that he has "absolutely no memory" of his escapade on a Boston burlesque stage but that he is now beginning to feel like his old self.

Because he has been forbidden by his doctors from talking to newsmen, he asked a fellow patient at Bethesda Naval Hospital, Rep. Walter Jones, D-N.C., to deliver the message to us.

Jones reported that Mills had been irrational when he entered the hospital. "Doctors have assured me that he was not responsible for some of his actions," said the North Carolina congressman.

THIS WAS confirmed by Speaker Carl Albert, who persuaded Mills to be hospitalized. Albert told us that Mills came to his office and babbled incoherently. "You're sick:" the Speaker interrupted him. Mills halted his rambling chatter. "I'm terribly sick," he agreed, in a sad, soft voice.

But the deposed House Ways and Means chairman is now recovering. "I am happy to report that he is rapidly becoming the old Wilbur," Jones said. "He is coming out from the shadows into the sunshine."

Mills has discussed his fall from power, according to Jones, with no bitterness. He is "relieved" to relinquish his powerful chairmanship and may also give up his House seat. "He has not made a definite decision," said Jones.

STRIPTEASE dancer Annabel Battistella, the Argentine Firecracker who brought Mills front-page notoriety, has not been in touch with him at the hospital, reported Jones. But Mills' wife Polly spends several hours with him every day and takes his pajamas home for washing.

Mills used to tell his colleagues that his father always advised him: "You can't do a day's work if you stay out all night at parties."

For 35 years on Capitol Hill, Mills heeded his father's counsel. The congressman from Kensett, Ark., shunned Washington's night life. He stayed away from cocktail parties. He even turned down invitations to White House socials.

"I remember seeing Wilbur at a Washington reception only once," Speaker Albert told us.

Jones recalled flying on the same chartered plane with Mills on a festive occasion when drinks were served. "Wilbur asked for a Scotch and water, and didn't finish the first drink," said Jones.

MILLS developed a reputation on Capitol Hill for hard work and political skill. He took the Internal Revenue Code home for bedside reading. He ran the Ways and Means Committee as his private fiefdom. He became probably the most powerful member of Congress.

Then, in the early hours of October 7, the Argentine Firecracker clawed Mills' face, bolted from his Mark IV Continental and splashed into the tidal basin. Washington has been buzzing ever since with the question: What has happened to Mills?

WE HAVE now carefully pieced together the story of Mills' fall from power. It began in July 1973, when a degenerative disc in his back began causing him excruciating pain. Surgery repaired the disc, but he never regained his health. Visitors in his Capitol office sometimes found him lying flat on his back, in pain.

He took painkilling drugs and began to drink. The mixture, apparently, was explosive. Sources close to Mills confided to us that he had a "Binge problem." When he started drinking, they said, he would lose control. This was one reason, they suggested, that he stayed away from cocktail parties.

At Bethesda Naval Hospital, three medical sources confirmed to us that alcohol was a factor in Mills' hospitalization. He was also suffering, they said, from physical and mental exhaustion.

AFTER HIS back operation, Mills began showing up at striptease joints. Sources who saw him said on several occasions he became "extremely intoxicated" and "very rowdy." One employe said he once had to help Mills to his car "because he was so intoxicated he could barely stand up."

When he had a few drinks under his belt, Mills carried on flirtations not only with the Argentine Firecracker but with other strippers, reportedly including one known as the Peruvian Pistol.

OUR sources say Mills' wife accompanied him to the striptease dive out of desperation, because she didn't know what else to do. Sometimes the intoxicated Mills would flirt with the performers in front of his wife.

It was clear to those who know Mills that he was not himself. His debased behavior was so uncharacteristic that they are convinced he was a very sick man. The doctors are now giving him tests to determine whether the back medication contributed to his breakdown.

Words That Made History

ART HOPPE

Ah, how hope springs eternal in the human breast! It not only springs forward, it springs backward.

Take the case of Mr. Nixon. Less than four months before his resignation he engaged in this recorded conversation with Mr. Haldeman while the roof was falling in:

President: Incidentally, I always wondered about that tapping equipment, but I'm damn glad we have it, aren't you?"

Haldeman: Yes, sir.

These certainly rank with some of the great lines of unrecorded history, such as (1) "Remember, Adam, an apple a day keeps the doctor away," (2) "No, thanks, Noah, I've got an umbrella," or (3) "Don't worry, Mom, I'll never forget Mother's Day — Oedipus."

But perhaps the classic example of such cases is embodied in the letters the commanding officer of the Seventh Cavalry wrote to his wife. Excerpts follow.

DEAR ELIZABETH: Well, as you know, those (expletives deleted) in Congress are out to get me. But I've got a plan. I've drawn up an Enemies List. And once I wipe them out, that will cover up any investigations by those (expletives deleted). I'll come out of this a hero.

George

Dear Elizabeth: Of course, I know what I'm doing! After all, I've got to protect the commanding officership for the benefit of future commanding officers. What's more, my spies have identified the enemies out there. A scraggly lot of a couple hundred. They'll be a cinch to wipe out.

I asked my advisers, Marcus and Fred, "How much is this thing going to cost?" They said about 200 men. "That's no problem," I said. "We can raise that many." So I'm about to attack.

By the way, I'm sending Marcus and Fred up the river. In case things go wrong, which they won't, they can take the heat.

George

Dear Elizabeth: Great news! I've found the enemy and my Enemies List was way short. There must be 5000 of them. What a victory this is going to be! I'll go down in history as the greatest general of them all.

Now I've got those (expletive delected) Injuns where I want 'em.

George

THIS WAS, of course, General Custer's last stand on the issue. As history tells us, only a single Indian scout of the Seventh Cavalry survived the Battle of the Little Bighorn.

He made his way to Mrs. Custer. "Was George damn glad we have his letters," she asked him tearfully, "and should we keep them in order to exonerate him?"

The Indian scout folded his arms and repeated General Custer's last words verbatim. "That," he said, "would be wrong."

To Offset Communist Gains

Vietnam Aid Watch Set

EVANS-NOVAK

WASHINGTON—A new office set up in the Pentagon to monitor U.S. aid to Vietnam may represent the last best hope of preventing this tragic outcome of the Vietnam saga: a Communist triumph over South Vietnam's forces achieved neither by military nor political power but by choking off help from Washington.

The office was created at the urging of Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, noting with dismay the military deterioration in Vietnam caused by declining U.S. aid and rising Communist aid from Moscow and Peking. By maintaining a stiff watch to eliminate waste and to control the use of U.S. arms, the new office is intended to provide precisely documented proof to Congress of the need for arms.

If it does not check the congressional trend toward abandoning the Saigon government and letting Hanoi have its head, the present deterioration may soon prove fatal.

THAT'S WHAT bothered Stennis, the immensely prestigious chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, when he wrote a private letter to President Ford Sept. 17. With typical understatement, Stennis warned that U.S. military aid for Saigon was in "considerable difficulty." His proposal: appointment of a single "top administrator" with full control over the orphaned aid program.

That office has now been set up in the Pentagon, headed by Erich von Marbod, a civilian expert on military aid with wide experience in national security. He reports directly to Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger.

Von Marbod's unit is keeping track of American military aid with strictest accounting integrity, in accordance with Stennis's thesis: if Congress does not know intimate details of the military aid program, its life-or-death impact on Saigon's ability to do battle and its comparison to Hanoi's outside help, there will not be the slightest chance of emergency U.S. aid when it is needed early next year.

THE IMMEDIATE backdrop of Stennis's plea to the President was a better than 50 percent reduction in the Vietnam military aid package voted by Congress for the present fiscal year from $1.5 billion to $700 million. The result is that, despite steady economic improvement in South Vietnam, there are tragic arms shortages for South Vietnam. Simultaneously, North Vietnam is being fattened by ever-rising military aid from both Moscow and Peking.

One example typifies the stark picture: with their supply of mortar and artillery shells dangerously low, South Vietnamese field commanders must now limit artillery fire in defense of outposts under Communist attack to only two rounds.

That alone helps explain the sudden increase of North Vietnamese attacks on military outposts in the heavily populated, rice-rich Mekong River delta. It also explains the sharp increase in South Vietnamese casualties, now running close to 500 killed each week, and the fact that the all-important cadres of young officers and non-commissioned officers are being depleted.

ON THE COMMUNIST side, stockpiles of ammunition, tanks and the military basics are now estimated by American intelligence agents to have reached record levels—enough to fight for a full 18 months at the exorbitant pace of the 1972 spring offensive. No general enemy offensive is expected now and probably not until next winter. Nevertheless, the disparity of stockpiles is chilling.

The Communists have now completed a new 400-mile all-weather road from the demilitarized zone down to the southern edge of the central highlands, a new petroleum pipeline to roughly the same point and are steadily increasing anti-aircraft, tank and transport capacity. Saigon's stringent hold-down on firing ammunition, its cancellation of 75 new F-5E fighter aircraft, its lack of enough fuel to fly the A-37 in direct troop support and its 50 percent cut in the strength of infantry battalions — all for lack of equipment and funds — show the dangerous contrast.

IT IS NOW assumed inside the White House that without more aid from the U.S., Saigon's military position will go into possibly irreversible decline. So, despite any faint sign that the Communists are making political headway among the rice farmers and townspeople of South Vietnam, Hanoi could be on the verge of victory sought for a generation.

Considering the infusion of new, anti-Vietnam liberal Democrats in the 94th Congress, the strategy instituted by Stennis has at best a questionable future. Yet, it is just possible that when the contrast between Communist aid to Hanoi and American aid to Saigon is dramatized along with the strict, new standards imposed on Saigon by the Pentagon's Vietnam office, even a highly liberal Congress may understand reality.

Casteneda Tales

THE BOOKMAN

Tales of Power, by Carlos Castaneda. Simon & Schuster. 287 Pages. $7.95.

The UCLA anthropologist's trip through Yaqui Indian sorcery with those two Marx Brothers of middle Mexico, don Juan and don Genaro, takes him, this time, to the jumping-off place.

Drawn back to don Juan's desert shack, Carlos Castaneda resumes his apprenticeship. As in the first three don Juan books, we see apparitions and power struggles in the chaparal.

BUT, what's this? Don Juan materializes in Mexico City! He's swapped his khakis and poncho for an impeccable pinstripe. "I'm a stockholder," is all he says.

And the lessons continue, but with new settings. A man dies in the park, a waiter sneers in a restaurant, old ladies limp down cathedral steps — and a curious friend chases Castaneda into a warp of time.

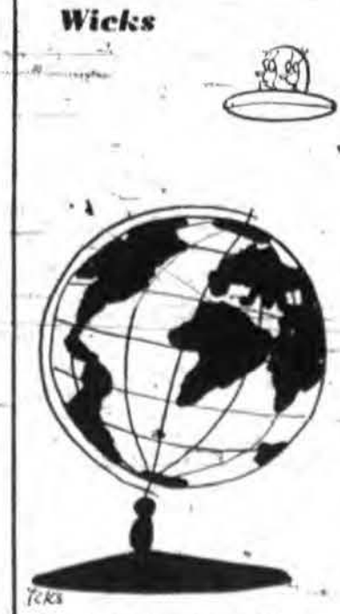

Early in this book, Castaneda tells don Juan that some readers have suggested it's wrong to write about his apprenticeship. Eastern masters demanded secrecy.

"I'M NOT a master," rejoins don Juan. He adds: "It doesn't matter what one reveals or what one keeps to oneself . . . if we don't have enough personal power, the most magnificent piece of wisdom can be revealed to us and that revelation won't make a damn bit of difference."

The reader can judge the truth for himself. Near the end of the book, don Juan painstakingly recapitulates the lessons, the tasks, the secrets of this apprenticeship that began in 1961. But now knowing all, even the ultimate "sorcerers' explanation," who can follow?

Mental Health Unit

Swim Party Investigated

CHICAGO (UPI) — A nude swimming party by male and female staff members of an Illinois state mental health center has sparked a state investigation, officials said.

Dr. Leroy P. Levitt, director of the Illinois Department of Mental Health, confirmed the skinny-dipping took place this month in the adult pool of the Chicago-Read Mental Health Center and that he ordered an investigation.

Levitt said, "We hope by Tuesday to have the appropriate data to act. . .I can assure you it will be swift and it will be done."

According to initial information available to state officials, more than a dozen male and female staff members of the health center stripped to the buff for an after-hours swimming session.

Levitt said he ordered Alan Grischke, regional attorney for the department, to investigate and said he intended to take action by Dec. 31.

"We will not tolerate unprofessional behavior," Levitt said.

The doctor stressed those involved were staff members of the center and not patients.

"This isn't therapy," he said.

Depending upon the investigation, Levitt said, those involved could face "some sort of suspension pending discharge."

Blues Cause Nagging Cold

Maybe you read that students in Rangoon recently fought with police over the body of Burma's U Thant. Client asks how Rangoon got its name. King Alaungpaya first called it that. In 1755. Because he thought there never again would be fighting there. Rangoon comes from the word "yangon" meaning "end of strife." The king was wrong.

SO YOU WANT to be a radio announcer, do you? All right, read the following with no fluffs: "The swan swam the sea. We shouted, 'Swim, swan, swim!' The swan swirled and swam back again. 'What a swim, swan, you swam!'"

OYSTERS

Q. "Is there any possible scientific basis for the old claim that eating oysters makes you romantic?"

A. Doubtlessly not. Still, it's noteworthy that Brittany is that French province with the most oysters, and Brittany long has reported the highest birth rate in France.

IT HAPPENED a couple of years ago in Valencia, Spain. A British-born lion tamer named Carl Fisher and his bride got married in a circus cage. With them therein was the best man and two ushers, all lions, and a couple of bridesmaids, each a tiger. Don't know who officiated that thing to make it legal, but he did it outside the bars, which I find blameless.

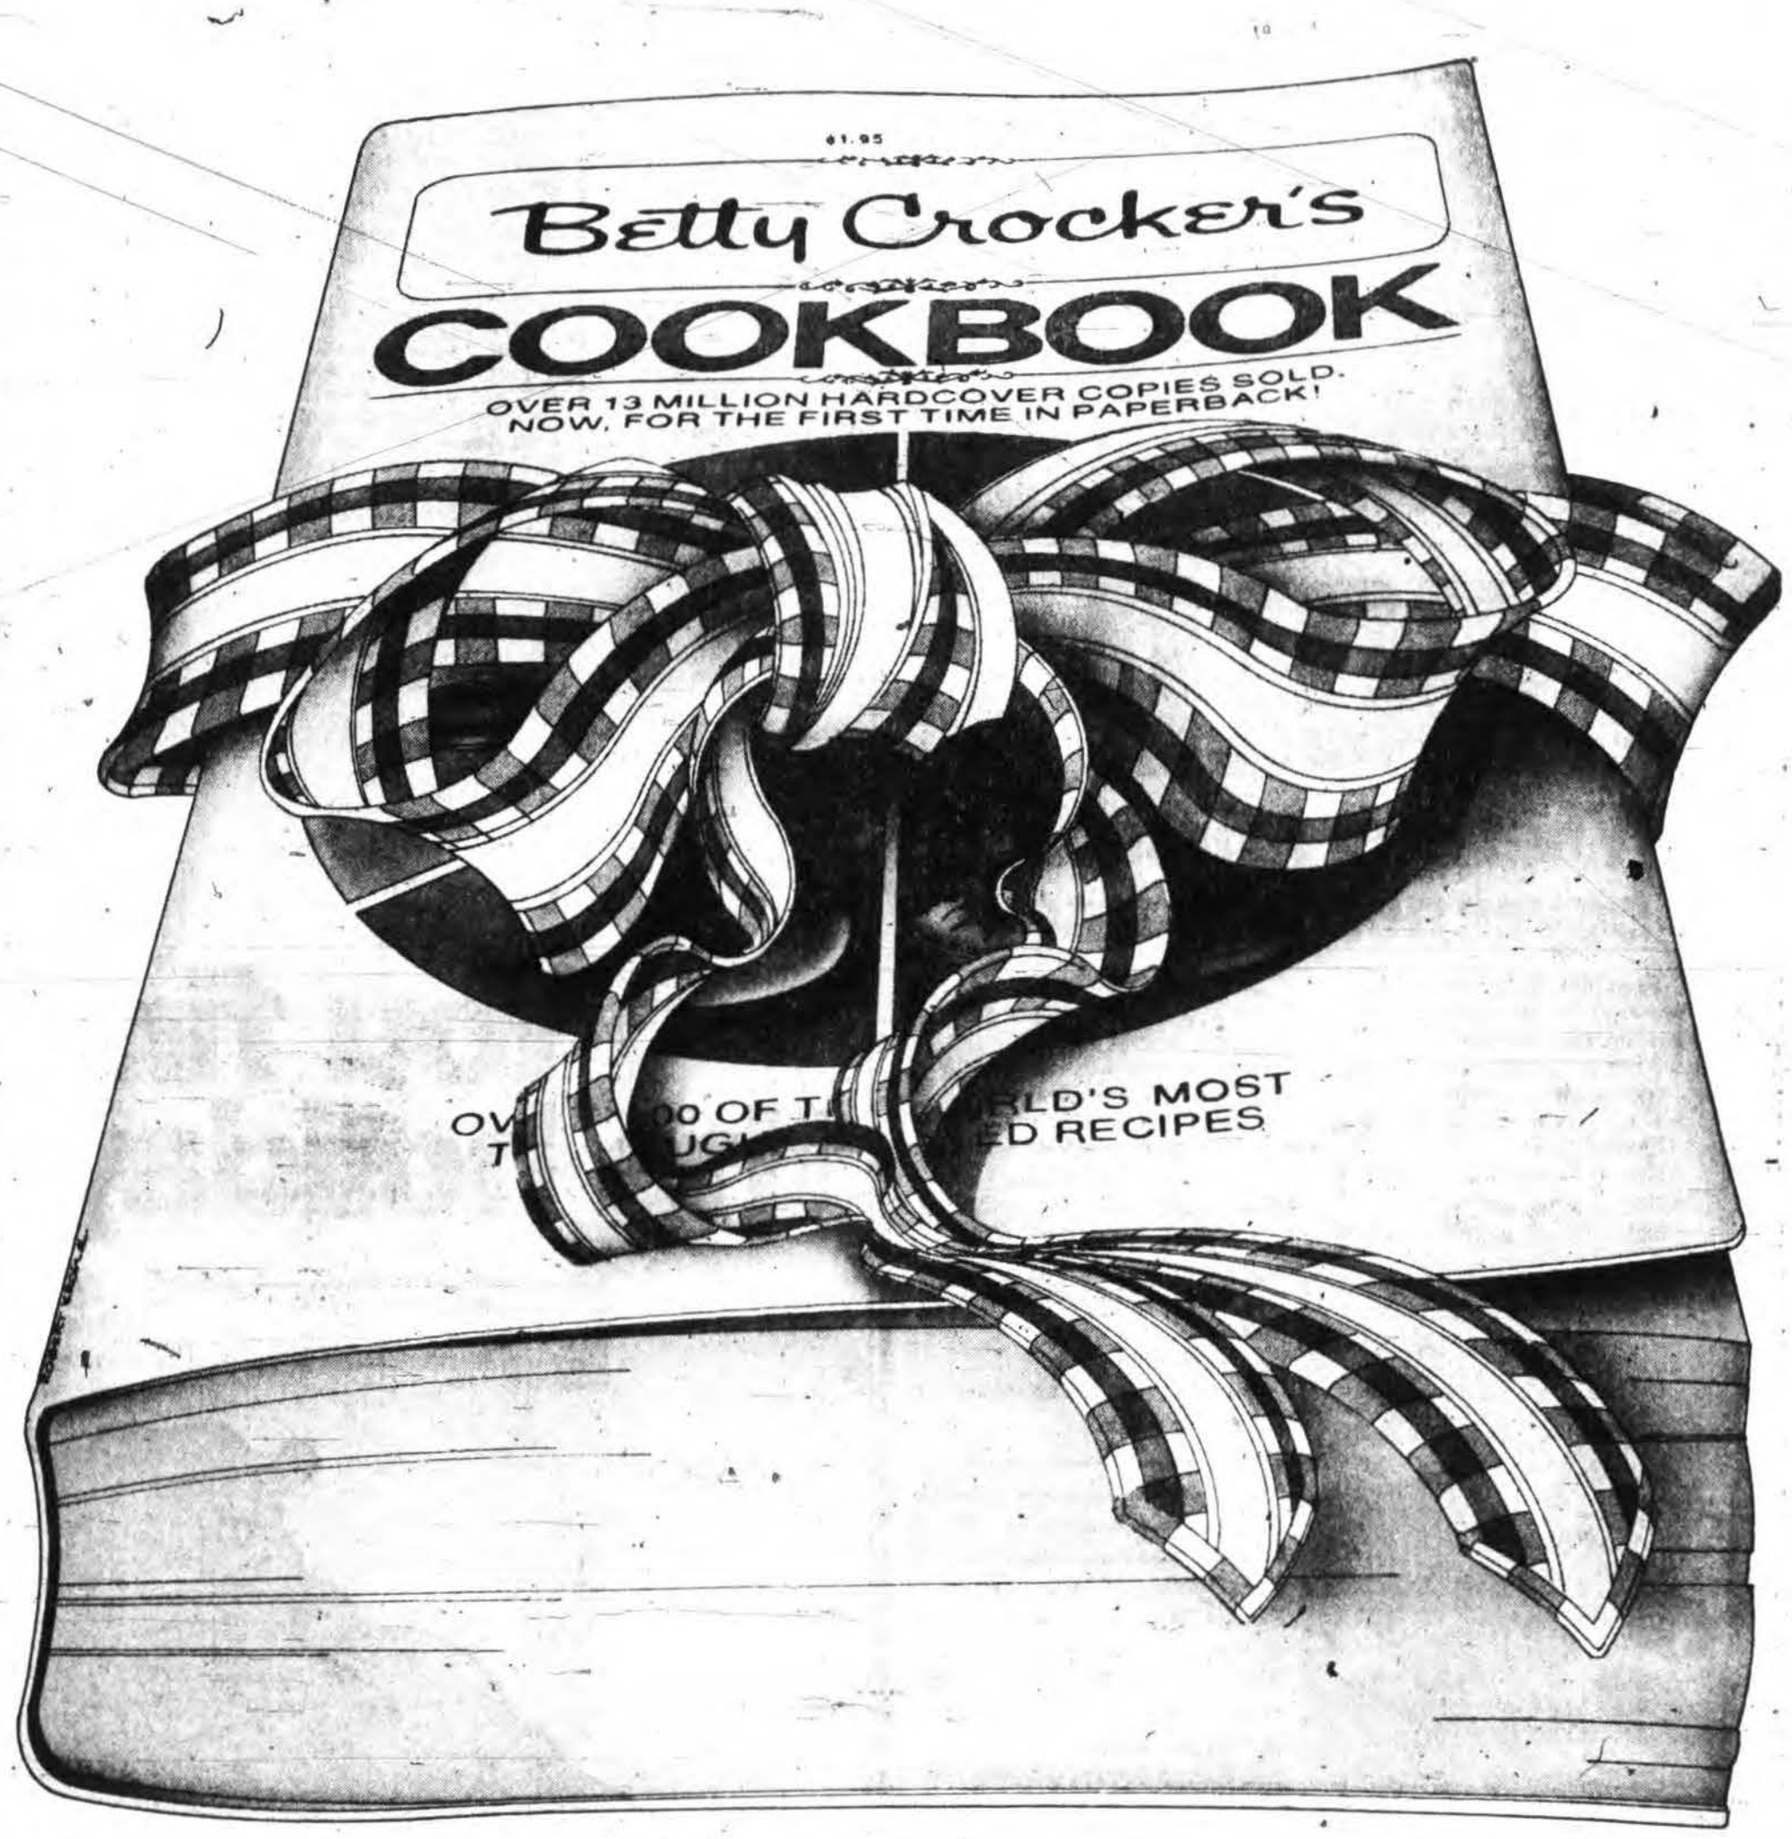

HEIGHT

If you stand six feet, sir, you're exactly as tall as the average newborn giraffe.

WHEN A GROWNUP catches that ailment known as the common cold, it's fair to guess said party was recently smitten with a bad case of the blues. At least, that's the contention of medical researchers after a three-year study of the matter. Emotional depression, they say, in 95 out of 100 cases precedes the sniffles. They do not think the viruses cause the sorrow, but rather that the intense emotion changes the chemistry in some mysterious way so as to make the body more susceptible. The cold is the most common communicable disease. Coming up, an item about how intense emotion likewise tends to precede the second most common communicable disease. Don't miss it.

Emerges From Shadows

Top Panther a Woman?

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Black Panther party enters the new year with a slender 31-year-old woman heiress to the mantle of leadership because one founder is a fugitive and the second has apparently abdicated.

Elaine Brown, educated in a primarily white, upper class Philadelphia area high school where during assemblies the school song was sung in Latin, has emerged from the shadows of political theorist Huey Newton and the fiery Bobby Seale.

Newton is in hiding, accused of murder and assault. Seale is living in Los Angeles and makes no effort to speak for the Panthers.

MS. BROWN served for many years as the Black Panther minister of information and, to observers, appeared to rank third in the political structure, behind Newton and Seale.

Last week, she announced her candidacy for a seat on the Oakland City Council, downplaying her affiliation with the Panthers and making it clear that she is not running strictly as a Panther candidate.

"I'm a lot of other things beside a Black Panther," Ms. Brown said. "I want to broaden my political base."

The Panthers "as well as other groups throughout the community are supporting my candidacy."

She and Seale ran unsuccessfully for elective offices two years ago. Seale sought the mayorship of Oakland and Ms. Brown a seat on the council. She captured 33 percent of the vote.

IN ANNOUNCING her candidacy again, Ms. Brown said:

"I know that the 3rd District needs real representation, for the incumbent representative, Raymond Eng, has failed to advocate programs for the people of West Oakland and Chinatown, or even to display serious concern for any of our problems."

As a child, Ms. Brown attended Thaddus Stevens School in Philadelphia, where her classmates were the children of the upper intellectual-social strata. But after school she would return to the sparse home kept by her mother in the city's black ghetto.

"I was raised in a home without a father until I was 16. I lived with my mother and was raised to be a very independent person."

SHE ENTERED a high school rated 10th in the nation academically, Ms. Brown said.

"Our high school was unbelievably bourgeoise. We even sang our school song in Latin. I studied five years of Latin and I even took fencing."

After high school she attended Temple University for 18 months but dropped out for financial reasons.

She moved to Los Angeles in 1967, settling near Watts and worked as a cocktail waitress.

Ms. Brown began writing for a paper called the Black Congress and met Bunchy Carter, a strong advocate of black power.

"HE HAD COME from the streets and wars forming a chapter of the Black Panthers in L.A." she said. "Early in 1968 I joined and I knew then that I would devote my life to the cause."

Carter and another Panther, John Huggins, died in a shooting on the UCLA campus on Jan. 17, 1969, victims of a power struggle between the Panthers and another black group called US.

"I knew my life was on the line," she said. "Panthers were being killed all over the country but mostly in Los Angeles."

Not Father— Humperdinck

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Singer Engelbert Humperdinck has denied being the father of a baby girl born to a Las Vegas model more than four years ago.

The denial came in an answer to a paternity suit filed Oct. 8 against Humperdinck, whose real name is Arnold George Dorsey, by Diane Marie Vincent.

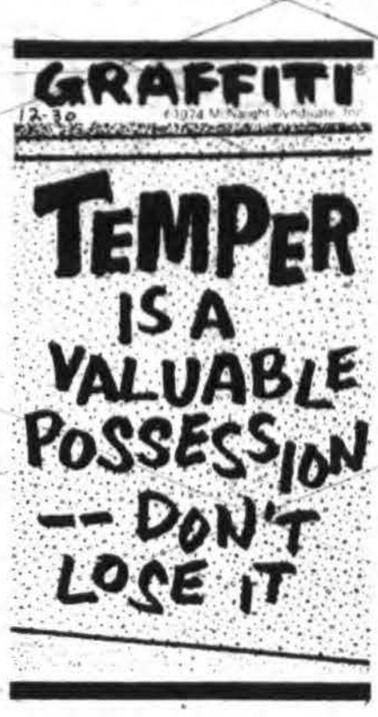

In his denial, Humperdinck also said it was too late to file a paternity suit because more than two years have passed since the child's birth.

In her suit, Miss Vincent said the girl was conceived Feb. 2, 1970 and born Oct. 22, 1970.

Barefoot —A Reason

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Scoey Mitchell, star of the 1970 television series "Barefoot in the Park," has filed for bankruptcy, listing more than $100,000 in debts.

The entertainer's bankruptcy petition in Los Angeles federal court listed three automobiles and a piece of property in Oregon as his only major assets.

Victim Gets $100,000 Every Year

HOUSTON (AP) — James Alexander, 18, who was permanently injured in a traffic accident, will receive more than $100,000 a year for the rest of his life from an out-of-court settlement of a lawsuit, his lawyer says.

Alexander, then a 16-year-old high school dropout, was employed as a plumber's helper when hurt in a two-car collision Aug. 27, 1972. Four others died, and he lost the use of his legs and arms.

Bumpers Of Plastic Advocated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Department of Transportation has proposed allowing automobile manufacturers to use car bumpers made of plastic to save gasoline and money.

"We think in the long run they will be just as safe as the present heavy steel bumpers," a department spokesman said.

THE PROPOSAL by the department's National Traffic Safety Administration will undergo 45 days of public comment before a final ruling is made.

The spokesman said the heavy steel bumpers required since late 1973 on all new cars are "very expensive, very high in repair costs and very heavy."

"We believe the auto industry has the capability to develop a lighter bumper, perhaps made of plastic of some type, which when perfected, can provide just as much a safety for you, me and the kids as the heavy steel bumpers," the spokesman said.

THE REGULATION change would give auto manufacturers until September, 1979 to develop a lighter weight bumper which would withstand impact against a barrier at 4 miles an hour without damage. The current 5 mile per hour standard would be lowered to 2½ miles an hour in the interim under the proposal.

"We think this could save up to 100 pounds of weight on a car," the spokesman said.

BILL SIMPSON REFLECTS UPON LA'S LOSS.

Too Many Mistakes Keep Rams Out of Super Bowl

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Just six inches away from the goal line, the Los Angeles Rams appeared on the threshold of taking the lead over the Minnesota Vikings Sunday in the National Football Conference championship game when the Rams were penalized five yards for illegal motion.

"They called the penalty on offensive guard Tom Mack but Tom says he did not move," Rams coach Chuck Knox said of the key play in Minnesota's 14-10 victory over the Rams.

Pushed back to the five yard line, the Rams had a pass intercepted by Vikings linebacker Wally Hilgenberg two plays later to end the threat. Minnesota stayed ahead 7-3.

Rams quarterback James Harris said he was about to run a quarterback sneak for the six inches when Vikings defensive tackle Alan Page jumped offside, and the referee ruled Page was drawn off by movement of Rams linemen.

"There was a long count, and Harris may have changed the play, and when somebody flinched there was nothing for us to lose if the referee called the penalty on me instead," said the Vikings' Page.

After the Hilgenberg interception, the Vikings drove 80 yards for a touchdown that put them ahead 14-3, and Minnesota was able to control the ball for most of the remaining 12½ minutes of the game.

Harris completed 13 of 23 passes in the game for 248 yards, with two interceptions. He said that Hilgenberg's interception of a pass deflected by the Vikings' Jackie Wallace was intended for Rams end Pat Curran.

"Curran broke free and I didn't think Wallace could read the ball," Harris said. The goal line events had been set up on a 73-yard pass-run play from Harris to the Rams's Harold Jackson.

Vikings defensive back Jeff Wright pushed Jackson out of bounds on the two yard line. Later in the game Jackson scored on a 44-yard pass from Harris to cut the Vikings margin from 11 points to four.

"We just made too many mistakes in inopportune situations," Harris said, referring to three fumbles lost by the Rams, two interceptions and seven penalties for a total of 70 yards.

The Vikings controlled Rams halfback Lawrence McCutcheon, giving him only 32 yards in 12 carries. His running mate Jim Bertelsen took over with 65 yards rushing and 53 additional yards on five pass receptions. But he was unavailable late in the game.

"I had a hip pointer going into the game, and by the third quarter I had taken too many hits and I just couldn't go on," said Bertelsen.

Rams defensive ends Fred Dryer and Jack Youngblood led a defensive charge that forced five Minnesota fumbles during the game, two recovered by the Rams.

Youngblood was among many Rams disconsolate over the defeat, saying: "I guess the big guy up there just didn't want us to win this one."

Most of the Vikings declined to make predictions on how they might play in the Super Bowl, but Dryer said he thinks the Vikings can win it all Jan. 12, after two previous failures in 1969 and a year ago.

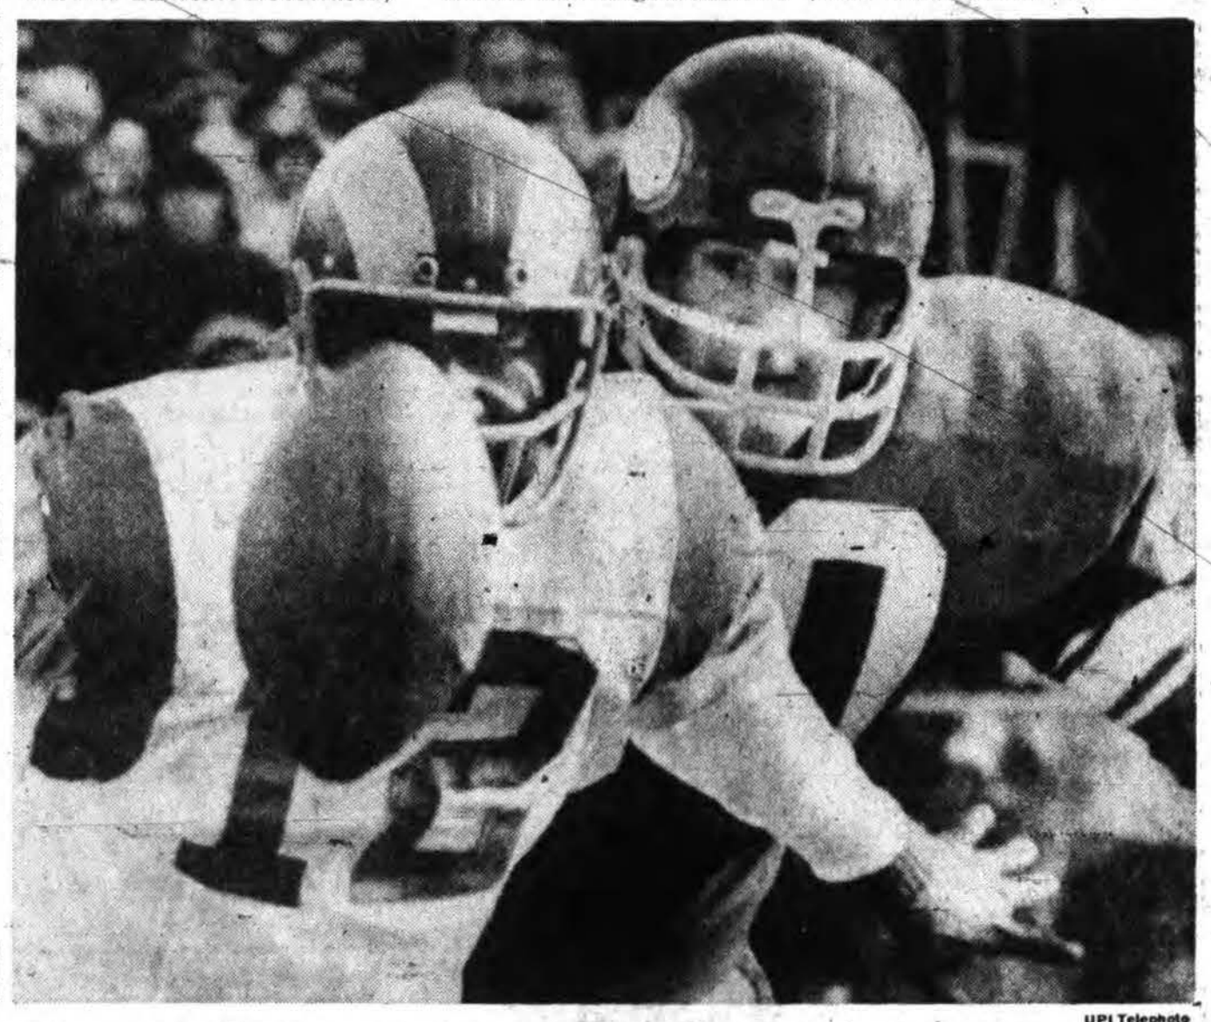

"With the few mistakes they make, the play calling of Francis Tarkenton, the running of Chuck Foreman and the defense making big plays, I think they can win," Dryer said.

Steelers Stop Run To Stop Oakland

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders' eight-day binge of joy was turned off by the Pittsburgh Steelers' front four.

"They stopped our running plays and that was it. They did what they had to do and we didn't," said Clarence Davis, after Sunday's 24-13 loss to Pittsburgh in the American Football Conference championship game.

Oakland Coach John Madden saw his team beaten one step short of the Super Bowl for the fourth time in the last six years and he admitted, "We had the feeling that everything was going our way. We had the best record in the NFL, beat Miami, and had the opportunity to play at home."

Davis said, "I thought we'd still win until that last interception with less than two minutes left."

J.T. Thomas made the final interception and the Steelers scored their third touchdown of the final quarter to clinch the victory.

"You can't come back with a few seconds left to win too many weeks in a row," said Oakland guard George Buehler.

The interception that hurt the most was by Jack Ham, setting up Pittsburgh's go-ahead touchdown early in the final quarter.

Stabler, whose 217-yard passing performance was ruined by the three interceptions, had only one comment later and made it over and over again: "I have nothing to say about the game."

Pittsburgh kicked Oakland's rushing game in the teeth, kicked apart Stabler's dreams of a second straight miracle comeback and kicked the Raiders out of the playoff game they were favored to win.

"It was meant to be. We were meant to win this thing," quarterback Terry Bradshaw said after his cool, precise signal calling and passing carried Pittsburgh to the summit of Super Bowl IX. "We knew we were going to win this game . . . we came here with the confidence to win."

Bradshaw threw the ball only 17 times and he didn't even have to do that. Not with Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier behind him, waiting to take the ball and run it down the Raiders' throats.

Harris bulldozed his way through the astoundingly malleable Oakland line 29 times for 111 yards and two touchdowns. And when the Raiders managed to stop him — which was rare — Bleier was right there, adding 98 yards on 18 carries.

Even Bradshaw got into the ground game, rushing three times for 15 yards. And astonishingly, his total was more than half the total yardage gained by entire Oakland running corps.

Twenty-one times the Raiders punched into Pittsburgh's front line of defense. The result was a meager 29 yards, a new low for an AFC title game.

"They gave us nothing on the ground," Madden understated. "Our passing was sufficient but we just couldn't get the run going. I can't remember when our ground game was shut down that effectively. . .to win, you've got to have a mixture on offense. We were able to call the mixture, but we couldn't make it go."

Vikes Say Running Was Key

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — "We felt we had to run at the Rams and it turned out that this is what eventually won the ballgame for us," Minnesota Vikings coach Bud Grant said Sunday after the Vikings beat Los Angeles 14-10 to earn a third try for the Super Bowl.

"Just plain hard hitting resulted in a lot of fumbles," Grant said, of the string of bobbles that helped keep the score down. The Vikings lost two of their five fumbles, the Rams lost the ball all three times they fumbled, and both squads had drives halted by penalties.

Fran Tarkenton, the Viking quarterback who directed the two Minnesota scoring drives, said, "The Vikings had a hard time finding out what would work against the Rams. Minnesota had no first downs the first three times it had the ball.

"The Rams play defense as well as anybody in football.

Tarkenton hit on passes of 13 yards to Stu Voight and 15 yards to John Gilliam to keep the other Viking touchdown drive going at the start of the fourth period. Dave Osborn scored from six inches away on a fourth-down play.

"We were only six inches away from winning," Grant said of the thinking that decided against a field goal try.

Osborn said the Rams defense was "a little lucky at first, stunting in the same places we were running. Then we got going, catching few of their slants and got a few holes."

Anyone But Harris

Any QB for Rams? Namath? Blanda?

There may be some confusion today regarding the Los Angeles Rams-Minnesota Vikings pro football playoff game staged Sunday in Minnesota.

That is, most reports will say Minnesota beat the Rams, 14-10. Only the score is accurate, however. At least that's the way this corner sees it.

Actually, I thought quarterback James Harris beat

WHITE WASH

the Rams with his low quality performance. It was Harris' fumble and interceptions that denied his LA mates at least one touchdown and broke up drives that appeared headed for scores.

If he is National Football League caliber, the NFL should merge with the World Football League.

He carries the ball like a kid playing in his first sandlot game and throws much of the time as though he needs glasses. Some may say he simply needs a little more seasoning to break into stride and make good.

By that same reasoning, a mud pie would only need a bit more seasoning to become edible.

The Rams took a big gamble when they let bona fide quarterback John Hadl go early in the season and cast their lot with Harris, the 27-year-old product of Grambling College.

If time is all Harris needs to become an effective quarterback, he'll be the first 80-year-old to play pro football, unless George Blanda keeps going.

The Rams tried to roll sevens, but came up with snake eyes. Harris was good enough to QB them to the divisional title. But in that lackluster division of hapless teams, George Plimpton probably could have done as well.

The Rams won a playoff game from Washington, but it wasn't Harris who did it, it was Isiah Robertson's touchdown return of an interception and a rock-ribbed defense that turned the trick.

There is rumor that the Rams may deal for Joe Namath to handle quarterbacking next season. I'd settle for Bill Munson, Roman Gabriel or Blanda. Or Hadl. Or Bob Waterfield. Or Sammy Baugh.

In fact, rather than see Harris at the helm, I'd favor almost any alternative.

TV commentators said the Rams had nothing to be ashamed of in losing to the Vikings.

But when you beat yourself on fumbles, interceptions and penalties, what is there to be proud of?

Odds and ends:

Finals of Inglewood High's 21st annual basketball tourney are due tonight with Fremont (LA) meeting Dorsey (LA) at 8:30.

Huntington Beach twice won the tourney, including the first one in 1954 and again in 1961. HB players Butch Coopman and Dennis Hamilton were tourney MVPs.

The last time it rained during a Rose Bowl game was 1955. The combatants? USC and Ohio State. Hope that's not an omen for Wednesday.

After nearly a month's play it would appear that El Dorado High of Placentia is Orange County's No. 1 prep basketball team. Nash Rivera, coach of that outfit, once was varsity head man at Mater Dei.

Sports in Brief

Rozelle Confident Appeal Will Win

MINNEAPOLIS — Commissioner Pete Rozelle says the National Football League believes the Joe Kapp ruling in which the NFL's reserve system was declared illegal "expresses the personal philosophy of the judge rather than being a ruling after a careful evaluation of the record."

Rozelle, interviewed here Sunday when he attended the playoff game between Minnesota and Los Angeles, said the NFL was confident the Kapp ruling by U.S. District Court Judge William C. Sweigert would be overturned on appeal.

Connors Wins

MELBOURNE, Australia — Top-seeded, and defending champion, Jimmy Connors of the United States advanced to the quarter-finals of the Australian Open tennis championships with a 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 6-0 victory over fellow American Raz Reid.

Oh Inks Pact

TOKYO — Sadaharu Oh, Japan's reigning home run king, signed a contract with the Yomiuri Giants today that made him the first $200,000 professional baseball player in this country.

Colts Coach Quits

BALTIMORE — Joe Thomas confirmed today he has decided to step aside as coach of the Baltimore Colts and has already launched a search for a replacement.

Trojans Face Rams on TV

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Boyd is afraid of a letdown and Hal Wissel is hoping for no letup as Southern Cal meets Fordham tonight in the finals of the 23rd Holiday Festival basketball tournament.

The game will be telecast on Channel 5 at 8:45 tonight.

HOUSTON (AP) — The road-weary Los Angeles Lakers face the Houston Rockets tonight, playing their fourth National Basketball Association game in five nights.

The game will be telecast live on Channel 5 at 6 tonight.

Longhorns, Auburn Collide

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Texas Longhorns, who lost a six-year New Year's Day lease on the Cotton Bowl, will make their first Gator Bowl football game appearance tonight against the Auburn Tigers, here for the sixth time.

Auburn brings a 9-2 record and No. 6 national ranking as credentials for its third Gator Bowl game in four years. The Tigers upset Colorado two years ago and won a thriller over Mississippi Jan. 2, 1971. In all, Auburn has won three Gator Bowl games and lost two.

Although Auburn is rated five notches ahead of No. 11 Texas, the Longhorns are favored in many quarters by as much as a touchdown, prompting Auburn coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan to say: "They don't have much confidence in our team. But I do."

And coach Darrell Royal of Texas said "I don't see how anybody could pick us. They are ranked sixth and we're 11th."

Texas, 8-3, lost to Oklahoma, Texas Tech and Baylor. But the Horns finished like a whirlwind by beating Texas Christian 81-16 and Texas A&M 32-3.

On TV Tonight
Channel 7 at 6

The Longhorns operate from the wishbone and Auburn's two losses were to wishbone teams Florida and Alabama. But Jordan maintains his Tigers aren't awed by the wishbone.

Anyone who bought a Gator Bowl ticket with expectations of an aerial circus will be disappointed. Texas was 128th and last among major teams in passing yardage for the season. Auburn was 123rd.

Dissension Tale Denied by Irish

MARCO ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Reports of dissension and racial problems have poured fresh emotion into the already super-charged Notre Dame football team which plays unbeaten Alabama in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1.

Coaches and players deny it. Some scoff at it. Others are bitter about it. But the matter has been brought into the open and reached a stage where official denials have been deemed necessary.

"There is a different attitude on the team this year than a year ago," said a member of Ara Parseghian's staff. "Last year, the boys were loose and supremely confident.

"It is not that they are not confident now. But there is a seriousness and determination that wasn't as obvious then."

Last New Year's Eve, Notre Dame sent an unbeaten team into the Sugar Bowl against Alabama with the national championship at stake and won a thriller 24-23.

This time, the Fighting Irish takes a 9-2 mark against the 11-0 Crimson Tide, plus incentives that could affect the odds favoring Alabama.

It's the last game for Parseghian, retiring after 11 years because of what he calls weariness and constant pressure. The situation lends itself to a "Win One for Ara," just as "Win One for the Gipper" became a Notre Dame trademark in the days of Knute Rockne.

Both Parseghian and his men appear bent on redeeming the embarrassing 55-24 loss to Southern California in the regular season's final game and discrediting the critics who said the disaster resulted from turbulence inside the ranks.

The most damaging indictment came from columnist Wells Twombley of the San Francisco Chronicle, who quoted a Notre Dame source as saying the Irish didn't give their all in the USC game because of disenchantment with authorities.

Twombley, author of a book on the late Frank Leahy, former Notre Dame coach, said the players were sore at Parseghian and university authorities for not being more understanding towards six black players suspended last summer for dormitory infractions.

The players were accused of having a girl in their living quarters. The source also suggested that there were racial problems between the black and white members of the team. There are currently six black regulars on the roster.

"When we read it, we thought it was a joke," said Wayne Bullock, the 223-pound black fullback who is the team's leading rusher. "I have never found any dissension on this team."

Discussing Notre Dame's collapse against USC after leading 24-0, Bullock said, "It was just one of those wild things. If we were not going to try, why would we roll up 24 points in the first half?"

Eric Penick, senior halfback, also black, said, "I didn't travel four hours by plane just to lose on purpose."

One of the strongest denials came from Greg Blache, a black assistant coach at Notre Dame since 1967.

"There's not a black man on the team who wouldn't break his neck for Ara," Blache said. "They all have great affection for him."

The rumors of friction also had Bullock and Art Best fighting at halftime of the USC game, Best arguing with backfield coach Tom Pagna and a clash between Al Samuel, a black halfback, and Gerry DiNardo, a white senior guard.

"Because of the strange way we were beaten, some people felt there had to be a reason," said Roger Valdiserri, the team's publicity director. "This is Notre Dame. It is like living in a fishbowl."

Paterno, Teaff

Bowl Rivals Alike in Style

DALLAS (AP) — Penn State coach Joe Paterno may not remember meeting Baylor coach Grant Teaff, but Teaff has total recall of a brief encounter in 1972.

Both coaches face each other for the first time New Year's Day in the Cotton Bowl classic.

In 1972, Teaff was just a visitor at the Texas-Penn State game in which Paterno and the Nittany Lions triumphed, 30-6.

"I shook his hand in 1972 when he was down here to drub our Southwest Conference representative," Teaff said.

"I'm sure I would have more of a reason to remember him than he would to remember me. After all, he was in the Cotton Bowl. I was very impressed with him."

Paterno made a protocol visit to Teaff briefly during Baylor's workout Friday. The two coaches exchanged pleasantries for several minutes, posed for a photographer and went their respective ways.

Teaff said Friday, "Our philosophies are alike in a lot of ways. We basically have the same beliefs in coaching young people. I have read a lot of things written about coach Paterno and I've been very impressed with him. I do know one thing — we don't sound alike when we talk." Baylor arrived on the Cotton Bowl scene Friday and both teams staged workouts in crisp weather. The seventh-ranked Nittany Lions have been in Dallas since Thursday.

"I was pleased with the condition of our players," said Teaff. "We had one week of real good workouts in Waco before we broke for the Christmas vacation. We are pretty well set as far as a game plan is concerned."

Royal Realizes Parseghian Woes

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Texas coach Darrell Royal said Saturday he understands exactly how Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame feels in wanting to get away from football for a year.

Parseghian recently said he would retire after Notre Dame's Orange Bowl game against Alabama Wednesday.

"I know exactly what Ara is talking about," Royal told a news conference held jointly with Auburn coach Shug Jordan. The coaches bring their teams together in the Gator Bowl game tonight.

"I hope I'm not starting speculation or any kind of rumors about myself," Royal quickly added. "If I felt as he feels I'd quit too, but I plan to continue coaching as long as I have fun and as long as they want me."

Royal, 50, said he doesn't know how long it will be before his coaching career ends. He pointed out that there are not many active coaches older than he is.

"Did you ever stop and count the number of coaches over 50?" Royal asked. "There's Shug Jordan, Woody Hayes and Bear Bryant, and there's . . . and there's . . . That's as far as I can go.

"Now there's a bunch of us around 50," he added. Jordan, 64, said he has no immediate plans for retirement.

"I think it's quite obvious that the inevitable is closing in on me," he said. "But I still manage to enjoy coaching.

"I don't have any plans to retire, and I feel I'm in sort of an enviable position to have a four-year contract at nearly age 65. That's pretty good security."

Both Royal and Jordan have a long line of successful seasons and bowl appearances behind them and said they don't feel much pressure when their teams lose.

"I haven't had any static from the people I work for," Royal said. "I imagine there's some folks are hot because we didn't win the Southwest Conference championship this year. I can't keep people from talking over coffee, but I can sure keep them from talking to me."

Royal told how he felt when a long Texas winning streak ended a few years ago.

"I went home all coughed up, pouting, sucking my thumb and moping around the house," he said. "My wife Edith said, 'That's the best thing that ever happened to you.' Of course, I felt it bad enough but now my wife had turned on me.

"Now I've calmed down a little bit and found out that loss didn't hurt us all that bad. She was probably right. You need a little bitter with the sweet. You can experience enough victories that you get so you don't enjoy a victory. The only thing is you've got a kind of sigh of relief that you avoided defeat.

"I think it's kind of sad when you get in that position."

SoCal in Action

Southern California College will host Messiah College of Grantham, Pa. in a New Year's Eve basketball game in the Vanguards gymnasium beginning at 8.

The Vanguards, after losing their first four games away from home this season, have turned things around to bring the season mark to 4-4 with a pair of home tilts and a brace of away games.

Following the game with Messiah College to end a 10-day absence of competition, the Vanguards will host Cal State (Northridge) Saturday and Redlands Jan. 7.

NAIA District III league games begin Friday, Jan. 17 at Biola College. SoCal and five other schools will play home-and-home games to determine entrants in the district playoff tournament.

Woody Eyeing Mistakes

PASADENA — Woody Hayes, a devotee of conservative, error-proof football, is a worried man on the eve of his Ohio State team's Rose Bowl encounter with Southern California.

"We've been off nearly five weeks. We could be mistake prone," Hayes told a horde of newsmen Sunday night at the team's hotel headquarters.

The Buckeyes committed only 14 major errors — 10 lost fumbles and four interceptions — in whipping 10 of 11 regular season opponents to share the Big Ten crown with Michigan.

Southern California, the Pac-8 titleholder and 9-1-1 for all games, was guilty of nearly twice as many turnovers.

Asked if this was his best team, Hayes said, "The greatest teams are the ones who don't lose, so I have to go back to 1954 and 1968. They won them all and they did everything but this one is going to be better than it is."

Asked if the battle between running backs Anthony Davis of Southern Cal and Ohio State's Archie Griffin would be all it is forecast to be, Hayes said:

"Archie is the finest player I've ever coached and Anthony certainly is one of the greatest and this duel will keep the fans on the edges of their seats for the whole 60 minutes. But just remember that this is still a team game and let those linemen forget to block and you won't see the real Anthony or the real Archie."

Hayes spoke extemporaneously for 20 minutes, then fielded writers' questions for another 20. The final query: "Woody, you have been most cordial. Does this mark an end to your feuding with sportswriters?"

Hayes squinted, bent down to the microphone and bellowed: "Hell, no!"

"I've got a whole new book of months!"

County Gets 911 Plans

Project Would Cost $1½ Million

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

SANTA ANA — Tentative plans for an emergency telephone network in Orange County that could cost $1.5 million to install and $500,000 a year to operate will come before the Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

Supervisors will be asked to endorse the proposal, which would put emergency services within reach of any county resident by dialing 911.

According to County Administrative Officer Robert Thomas, a new state law requires all local jurisdictions to submit a preliminary 911 plan to the state by Jan. 31 of next year.

"ASSEMBLY BILL 515 requires final plans to be filed by Jan. 31, 1977, with implementation of a fully operational system by Jan. 1, 1982," Thomas said.

Pacific Telephone Company officials have said the type of sophisticated gear needed for the 911 network is not yet available.

The system the county is considering would include such features as:

— Automatic number identification with special equipment that reads out the number where the call originates.

— A special called party hold system allowing the PSAP to control the connection to trace and confirm the nature of the call.

— A ring back capability whereby the PSAP could ring the phone at the originating number whether or not it has been hung up.

— An automatic location identification system permitting the PSAP to cross-index addresses of callers.

MORRIS SAID that although the county has assumed the role of 911 coordinator, each city will tailor the plan to its own needs and establish a PSAP in a location of its own choosing.

The county will act as a backup for the whole system with the capability of picking up a call from any city if the local network is out of service for any reason.

Most of the city answering points are to be located at police or civic center complexes, according to the current plan.

Morris said the plan supervisors will consider is the joint effort of a task force that included representatives of the cities and the county.

"SOMETIME IN February or March of next year, after we submit the plan to the state, we will update it and establish some arbitrary date prior to 1982 when we will place our order and get the system operational," Morris said.

Morris said all costs of the system would be borne by the government agencies unless the state Legislature agrees to fund all or part of the installation price.

"We are hoping the Legislature will look at the plan and agree to pay for it," he said. "If they don't, it will be up to us."

Gordon McClusky, Pacific Telephone's resident expert on 911 systems, estimated it would cost better than $1.5 million to install the kind of system the county has in mind.

R.I. "Cuba" Morris, the county's communications chief and the man spearheading the emergency network task force, said the equipment hasn't been developed because there wasn't enough money or the inclination to do so until now.

"Technically, it is all possible to do but there is a lot of work that must be done on the existing phone company equipment," he said.

MORRIS SAID telephone exchange lines don't conform with the county's cities, which will have to provide emergency response to a 911 call.

But, he said, all 26 cities have agreed to cooperate with the county in formulation of the 911 system, which makes the job of coordination simpler.

"If we do place an order for the equipment, the phone company says it can provide the necessary equipment within two years," Morris said.

HE SAID IT could cost as much as $45,500 per month to operate the network or about $546,000 a year.

Society Beckons

When they received invitations to become 1974 Children's Home Society debutantes, they were non-plussed.

They wondered why they were chosen and their idea of "debbing" had been tarnished by the "hippie attitude." They also felt uneasy about what their peers might think.

However, they discovered that becoming a debutante is regaining popularity; that some of their friends were even mildly envious that they were invited, and their peers believe in the individual's right to "do her own thing."

After learning more about the sponsoring organization and why the debutante ball is presented annually, they began "to feel good about it. . .really get excited."

In an interview with some prior to their presentation, Louise Robinson said her initial reaction to the invitation was "to laugh.

"I always 'thought it (debutante ball) was a social event without purpose; that being a debutante was snobbish. My idea of the ultimate deb," she said, "was the cheerleader."

UNAWARE

She said she was not familiar with the sponsoring organization or the services it provides. She also was unaware that the ball is a charity fund-raiser.

"When I really got into it, I found it really is worthwhile."

A pre-med student who plans to become a pediatrician, she said, "Because of my interest in children and the agency's work with them, I decided to accept."

There is an annual orientation for debutantes and their fathers when they learn about CHS services and tour the headquarters.

After that, she said, her participation turned into a positive thing. And, her family also thinks it's "neat—not because of the social part but because of the charity."

Others agreed that the orientation was the key to their "really positive attitudes" and one said she has decided to change her major because now she wants to prepare for work in an agency such as CHS.

But, they said, they wouldn't have accepted if their families had objected. "After all, they are the ones paying for it."

COMMUNITY SERVICES

Selection of debutantes is based in part on community service which encourages volunteerism at an early age.

Volunteering, in turn, helps young students determine whether they are suited to certain fields or not, which was termed "important" by Lauri Herbert, an education major at the University of Southern California.

"I always wanted to teach first grade," she said. During her senior year in high school, she served as a teacher's aide, taking charge of a class one hour per week.

"Now, I can hardly wait to finish my education and start teaching."

In the same field at Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo is Teri Tiberg.

She was a Candystriper at Hoag Memorial Hospital, Presbyterian where she helped in pediatrics and as an Assisteen of the Newport Beach Assistance League, she worked at the Children's Day Care Center.

GOAL CHANGES

"Preschool had been my aim until the (CHS) orientation. Now I'm planning to change to family services. I'd like to work for an agency like CHS."

Elizabeth Hitzel, an Orange Coast College student who plans to become a nurse, said she can't remember when she didn't plan on a medical related career.

Serving as a Candystriper at Hoag, she said, convinced her of her chosen field.

Anxious to finish school so she can "start working as a recreational therapist with either physically or mentally handicapped children" is Alyson Scholz.

Also an OCC student, she said she chose this field after volunteering at Fairview State Hospital.

She had taught swimming one summer at the Orange Coast YMCA and served in other volunteer capacities.

But, she said, "It seems more worthwhile working with the handicapped," which she does as a part-time employe at Hy-Lond Home for Exceptional Children.

OWN MOTIVATION

"A lot of people think Dad pushed me," she said, but her selected field is the result of "my own motivation. From the time I was little I bugged my father to let me tag along."

At 14, she started working in his office. Her father and his associates explained procedures and "taught me a lot."

She worked with the orthopedically handicapped at Playan School, Fountain Valley and the OCC Day Care Center.

A student at UC San Diego, she serves at the campus day care center and heads student recruitment.

"Because my main interest has been working with children," she said, "I volunteered in the field.

"I think that girls who are going into work should do what they can make the best use of.

"But," she said, "I think it is hypocritical if they select or are pushed into certain areas just so they might be chosen as a debutante.

It's important, she said, to volunteer because you want to and work where you want to, not for some honor.

Her Trial an Error?

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the father of three children. Our 19-year-old daughter was married and divorced within seven months and is now living at home while completing her education at UCLA. She is nearly 21.

Our second daughter, Jill, who is just 11 months younger, decided to move in with her boyfriend. She goes to college and works part time.

I find it impossible to condone her actions even though I've been told by many that this is a common practice and the parents see nothing wrong with it. Jill insists she is completely happy and one day she may marry the young man.

If, however, they decide to go their separate ways, she claims she will have no regrets because it will have been "a good experience."

Jill's major point is her sister's divorce. She claims that if she and the young man had lived together for several months they would NOT have married.

I have let Jill know that her behavior is totally unacceptable to me and that she is not welcome in our home. My wife is heartbroken about the situation and so am I. Am I wrong, Ann? What are your views? — SAD DAD

DEAR DAD: Although a great many students are living together these days I still think the idea is a bummer and I've said so repeatedly. Shacking up is NOT marriage, as many who have tried it have testified.

I believe you are wrong, however, to close the door on your daughter. She is old enough to choose her own lifestyle, and you ought not be so rigid and punitive merely because her ideas are different from yours.

Bury the hatchet, already. Life is too short, Dad.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My in-laws' house is a potential death trap for my 15-month-old toddler. Under every sink there are containers with household cleaners, gasoline, lighter fluid, furniture polish and detergents.

My mother-in-law loves my little girl and wants me to leave her there when I go shopping or have a club meeting or attend a church affair. I would love to accept her kind offer, Ann, but I'm scared to death that my child might get into some of that stuff.

My husband says I'm being overly protective. My mother-in-law claims she is a good "watcher" and I have nothing to worry about. What do you say? — WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: I say you are absolutely right. Every year approximately 5,000 children die because someone wasn't a good enough "watcher."

An additional 12 million children have non-fatal accidents that need medical attention. Stick to your guns, Mother. Tell Grandma that unless she puts all that stuff in a locked cabinet, you will not leave your child with her.

Pledges Recited

MRS. ANDREWS

MRS. THOMPSON

AUERBACH-RABINER

Dallas will be home for the newlywed Martin Eliot Auerbachs, who exchanged wedding pledges during rites in Temple Shalom, Dallas, conducted by Rabbi Saul Besser.

The bride, the former Leslie Diane Rabiner, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rabiner of Dallas and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Auerbach of Costa Mesa.

Miss Lynne Rabiner was maid of honor and Herbert Matthew Platt served as best man. Ushers were Sam Zalowitz and A. Rami Greenberg.

The new Mrs. Auerbach attended the Universities of Oklahoma and Texas and her husband is a graduate of UCI. He earned his JD from UCLA Law School.

THOMPSON-McCOY

Peggy Ann McCoy, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul McCoy of Costa Mesa, and Steven Allen Thompson, son of the Lyman Thompsons of Mansfield, Tex., exchanged wedding vows in the Faith Evangelical Free Church, Santa Ana.

The rites were read by her father, the Rev. McCoy.

Honor attendants were Mrs. Pamela Yates and Jon Gilman. Others in the party were Robin Ritchie, Toni Carpenter, Mrs. Victoria Gilman, Archie Yates, Bob Stalians, Mark Sinclair and Ronald Thompson.

The newlyweds will reside in Azusa, where they attend Azusa Pacific College.

ANDREWS-SCHROEPPEL

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schroeppel, all of Fountain Valley.

Reading the afternoon rites was the Rev. Dr. Donald Inlay.

Honor attendants were Mrs. Christine Guinan and Scott Andrews. Others in the party were Marsha Hale, Amy Gattermeyer, Micheal Hale, Don Currier, Timothy Currier and Melissa Hammond.

DISCHE-CADNUM

The First United Methodist Church, Costa Mesa was the setting for the nuptial rites linking Judith Eileen Cadnum and Donald Frank Dische.

Reading the ceremony for the daughter and son of the Robert Cadnums of Costa Mesa and the Frank Disches of Newport Beach was the Rev. Elwood Wissmann.

Maid of honor was Jeanette Cadnum and bridesmaids were Marilyn Dische, Laura Lee Cadnum, Shirley Franken and Sheryl Lalor.

Best man was David Perez Serna, while ushers were Rand Bates, David Perl, William Flores and William Painter.

The new Mrs. Dische is a graduate of Estancia High School and Orange Coast College. She now attends California State University, Long Beach.

Her husband is an alumnus of Costa Mesa High School and OCC. He attended Cal State San Diego.

They will reside in Costa Mesa.

Your Horoscope

Aquarius: No Details

TUESDAY DECEMBER 31

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent is on mood, attitude, creative approach. Personal magnetism flows.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Celebration close to home base would be desirable. You can have fun without being extravagant.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Study Taurus message for valid hint. Relative, neighbors help you ring in the New Year.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Lunar cycle is high. You bring in New Year with harmony and feeling that you are loved. Shake off any tendency to be gloomy.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Some "quiet time" is necessary. Realize that being alone is not the same as being lonely. You get some serious views.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Accent is on friendship, celebration. You make impression on one who means much to you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-De Nov.21): Your ambitions are outlined. You see where you want to go — and you learn how to make room for yourself at top.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Good lunar aspect coincides now with long distance communication, journey, special calls and correspondence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You get involved. Nothing happens half way — it is all or nothing. Know it and don't play games.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accent on how to get along with partner, close associate or mate. Leave details for another time.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Moderation can be a blessing. Know it and remember it. Pace yourself.

If today is your birthday you have never been "part of the crowd." You were on your own early, at least in psychological sense.

Weddings and Engagements

To avoid disappointment, prospective brides are reminded to have their wedding stories with black and white glossy photographs to the Daily Pilot People Department one week before the wedding.

Pictures received after that time will not be used.

For engagement announcements it is imperative that the story, also accompanied by a black and white glossy picture, be submitted six weeks or more before the wedding date; otherwise it will not be published.

To help fill requirements on both wedding and engagement stories, forms are available in all Daily Pilot offices. Further questions will be answered by People Department staff members at 642-4321.

Hour Soap Opera

New 'World' Debuts

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — On Jan. 6, an NBC soap opera called "Another World" will enter one. It is expanding from the half-hour format of all soap operas to one lasting an hour each day.

One would think the man in charge of the show, executive producer Paul Rauch, would be groaning at the prospect of the increased daily workload. Wrong. He's quite serene about it.

In fact, he says he started seriously thinking about making the show television's first hour-long soap opera 18 months ago when the show's head writer, Harding Lemay, was mildly grousing about the hours a half-hour form imposed on him.

He said Lemay complained that with only 21 minutes of drama time — the rest of the half-hour goes for commercials — he couldn't fully develop the story lines and characters the way he'd like to.

"I concurred with that because he's a guy who can write long scenes and develop them better in the longer form," Rauch said.

Sweet Victory

USC Wins Ninth Series

USC sailors have dominated the Dick Sweet Trophy series, symbolic of the sloop championship of the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association for the nine years it has been sailed as a post-Christmas sailing event in Newport Harbor.

The Trojans scored their sixth victory Thursday and Friday with consistent sailing in light to moderate winds. Benny Mitchell, of Los Angeles, and his crew of Gordo Johnson and Curt Olson of Newport Beach, posted three first, two thirds, a fourth and a fifth for 18 points.

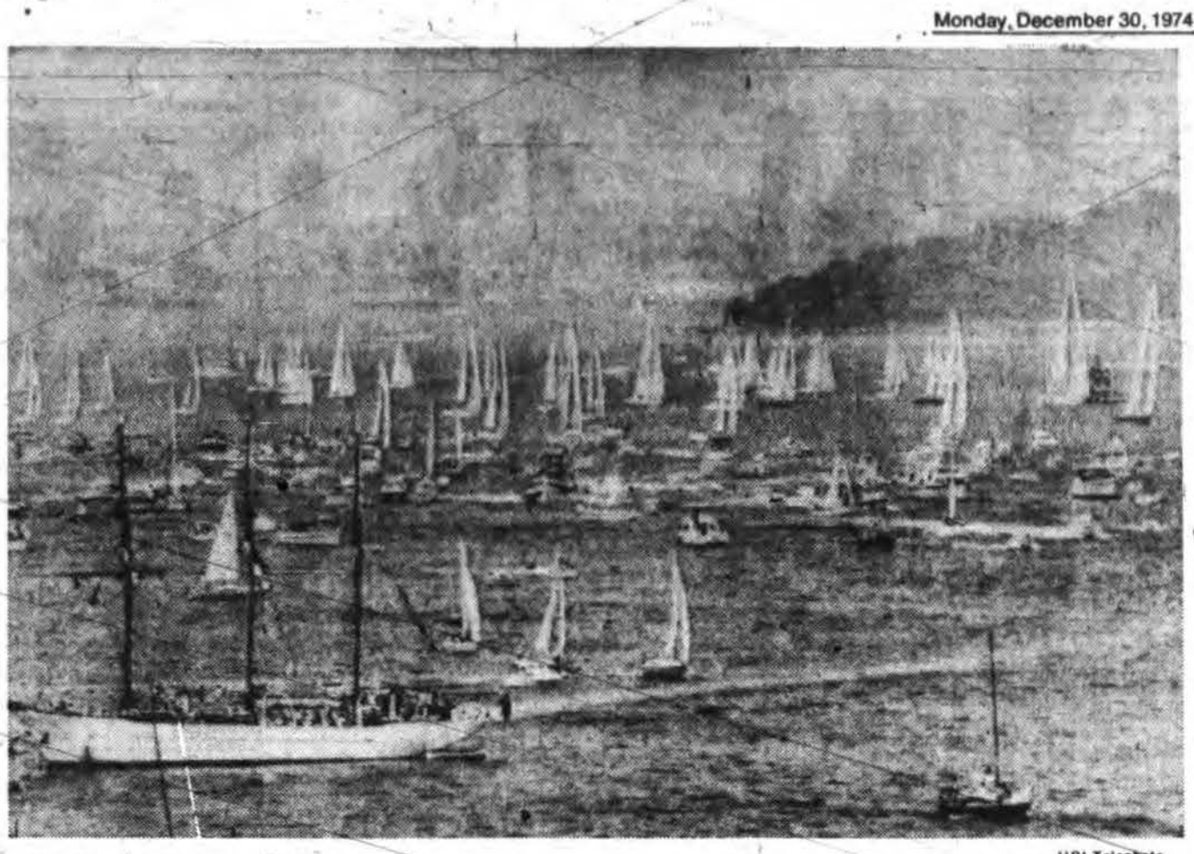

Eleven schools competed. Runnerup was UCLA with Alan Jewett, Kim Gage and Tom Blanton with 30 points. University of Hawaii, the defending school, was third with 32.

THE VICTORY entitles USC to represent the PCIYRA in the North American intercollegiate sloops championships at Chicago next June. The Sweet Trophy was the forerunner of the sloop championships for North America.

The other schools competing for the Sweet Trophy in order of finish were: San Diego State 45; Orange Coast College 46; Stanford 46; UC Santa Barbara 49; Long Beach City College 49; UC Santa Cruz 50; UC Irvine 54, and UC Davis 65.

Seven of these schools will compete today and Tuesday in the Dave Grant Trophy Series but none of the personnel involved in the Sweet Trophy competition will be allowed to sail.

Two West Coast schools are competing in the Sugar Bowl Regatta at New Orleans today and Tuesday. They are San Jose State and UC San Diego.

Burrows Captures 'Brugman'

Gordon Burrows of Shark Island Yacht Club has been awarded the C. King Brugman Trophy, symbolic of the Southern California Cruiser Association's 1974 championship for predicted log racing.

Burrows, skipper of the Aggie M. was awarded the trophy at the SCCA annual dinner meeting by Morris Edelstein, the 1973 winner.

Marylyn Ritchie of California Yacht Club, skipper of Bobber II was awarded the Bathke Trophy for first year racers. She was the first woman to win the award. Second place in the Bathke competition went to Vance Holdham, skipper of Galatea, California Yacht Club, and Burrows was third.

Crime Chief Paroled

Panel Votes Release on 'Good Behavior'

From Wire Services

Raymond L. S. Patriarca, the reputed head of organized crime in New England, was granted parole by the Rhode Island Parole Board over the objections of the state and federal law enforcement officials.

Patriarca, 66, has served five years of a 10-year sentence for murder conspiracy. He will be freed Jan. 9 from the state adult correctional institutions.

Parole Board Chairman Joseph Galkin said the five-member panel voted to release Patriarca because of his "excellent prison behavior and the desirability of supervision in the community." He declined to elaborate or to disclose the vote.

Chief Running Horse, 77, who says he is a direct descendant of Chief Sitting Bull, took his traditional holiday season dip into the chilly waters of Long Island Sound.

He has been making the plunge since 1918, when he and a group of like-minded men founded the "Iceberg Athletic Club" at Coney Island in New York City.

About 100 persons watched him brave air temperatures in the teens and the 40-degree waters of the sound. He said the water was fine.

The John Peter Zenger Freedom of the Press Award will be presented Jan. 25 to Thomas E. Gish, publisher of the Whitesburg, Ky. Mountain Eagle, whose newspaper office was burned.

The University of Arizona announced that Gish had been named to receive the award, in mail balloting by 400 editors and publishers.

Gish, 48, has been publishing the Mountain Eagle from his home since August when the newspaper — which tackled a number of powerful interests in its region — was set afire. Four men, including a police officer, have been charged in connection with the fire, the university said.

PEOPLE

A longtime antiwar activist and a black woman were named in St. Louis to head the Socialist Workers Party's national ticket for the 1976 election. Both concede they do not expect to win office.

The selection of Peter Camejo of Boston as candidate for president and Willie Mae Reid of Chicago for vice president was announced at a news conference. The party's national committee chose the two at an October meeting in New York.

Two Americans were winners of more than $100,000 as holders of tickets on the horse Comedy of Errors in the Irish Sweepstakes Hurdle.

The tickets were worth 50,000 pounds sterling each, the equivalent of $117,000 at Friday's exchange rate.

LEB 75601, Ray V. Ross, 3569 S. 15 Place, Milwaukee, Wis.

A. Ludlow Kramer, who headed the Hearst food giveaway program last spring, announced he is giving up his job as Washington secretary of state because it does not pay enough.

Kramer said the decision was "based solely on the inability to financially support myself and my children."

He said he will form a private corporation, A. Ludlow Kramer and Associates, but said he would be involved in a political commentary for a radio talk show and may become a lobbyist.

Two of Gov. Ronald Reagan's aides, Michael K. Deaver and Peter D. Hannaford, are going into the consulting business together, Reagan announced.

A statement issued by the governor's office said their company, Deaver & Hannaford, Inc., will have offices in Oakland, Sacramento and Los Angeles to consult with clients in government relations and marketing.

The Western Hemisphere debut of Soviet ballet dancers Valery and Galina Panov has been postponed a second time and is now scheduled for Feb. 4.

The Panovs originally were to have danced in Philadelphia Dec. 10, but the performance was postponed until Jan. 7 after Valery strained a leg muscle.

Reservations For Opera To Be Taken

Reservations may be made beginning Jan. 6 for the Orange County Lyric Opera Association's production of Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman."

The opera, based on stories by German writer Wilhelm Hoffman, deals with a poet and his three thwarted love affairs.

Winners of recent auditions sponsored by the opera association will be among the winners. The opera will be sung in English.

"Tales of Hoffman" will open at 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 18, at the Forum Theater in the Irvine Bowl and will continue for three weekends. Performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturdays and 2:30 p.m. Sundays.

Tickets cost $3 and may be reserved by writing the Lyric Opera at P. O. Box 514, Laguna Beach, 92652, or telephoning 494-0709 after Jan. 6.

Japan Crime

Girl Imports Top Offenses

TOKYO (UPI) — Imports of pornographic magazines from abroad and massage parlor girls from Thailand were the worst of 1974 crimes offending public morals, Japanese police said.

So far, 47 Thai women have been discovered in Japan this year working as prostitutes in bars or bath houses, a police official said.

"FORTY-SEVEN Thai women were involved in seven different cases," the official said. "They were brought to Japan with tourist visas and forced to work as prostitutes while serving in bars or massage parlors."

The official also said that 175 persons have been arrested for smuggling pornographic magazines and articles into Japan this year. Items seized by customs officers and police totaled 21,630.

One Japanese restaurant owner tried to smuggle 600 reels of pornographic films in chocolate boxes from Honolulu and was arrested, the official said. Another businessman was detained by airport police when caught smuggling 700 obscene pictures from the United States. He told police he was going to refinance his bankrupt business.

THE OFFICIALS said the number of women working in Turkish bath houses decreased by 1,259 to 16,573 from a year ago.

But the number of snack bars and Turkish bath houses has increased during the year, the official said. Turkish bath houses increased by 35 this year to 1,183. Late-night snack bars rose 80 percent in the past five years to 234,500.

The official said 206 persons were arrested on charges of violating the anti-prostitution law in bath houses this year. It was an increase of 122 over last year.

New Attractions

3 Steam Trains Come to County

Directors of the Orange County Fair have concluded an agreement with a Palos Verdes industrialist to bring three steam locomotives and 11 passenger-carrying box-cars to the Costa Mesa Fairgrounds.

The railroad was originally built for the 1915 Panama Pacific International Exposition in San Francisco which celebrated the construction of the Panama Canal.

Because the railroad played such a prominent part in the canal's construction, it was decided that a railroad should carry visitors around the exposition grounds.

CHRISTENED the Overfair Railroad, the assortment of engines and cars was built by Louis MacDermot of Oakland who used his mother's house as a machine shop, foundry, and pattern shop.

MacDermot built everything except the boiler plates for the locomotives there and used a nearby rented warehouse for the construction of 60 cars, each capable of carrying 16 passengers.

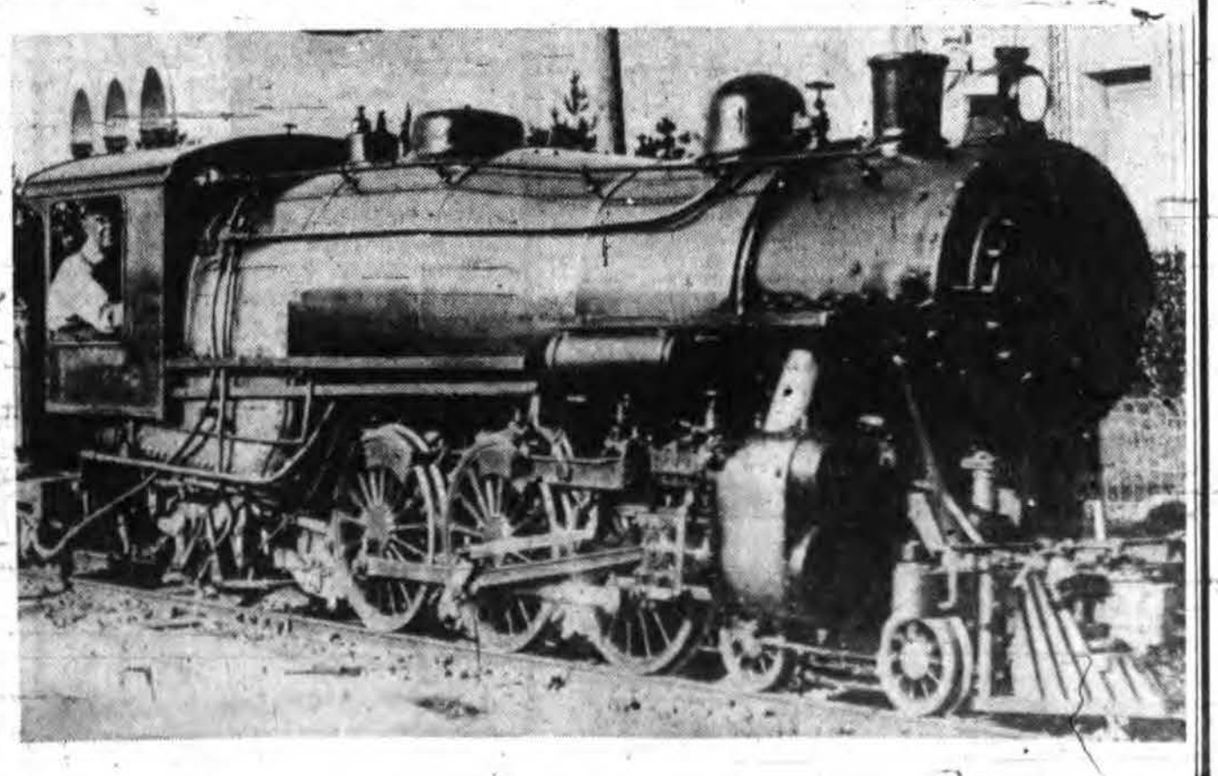

The fare then was 10 cents, but MacDermot's enterprise was not a huge financial success because he could not devise a system for checking on his conductors. He reportedly "about broke even" on his $250,000 project.

THOUGH TIMES have changed, the fare won't be much higher when the railroad comes to the fair this June. Fair manager Jim Porterfield says the charge for a 15 minute ride will be about 25 cents.

"It's almost too good to be true," he said. "The owner is going to install the railway, pay us $500 for the privilege, and still charge only 25 cents a ride," he said.

The railroad, he pointed out, will be manned by retired engineers wearing period costumes.

how's your nose for a bargain?

People turn to the Daily Pilot whenever they have something to convert to cash — a used car, sofa, boat, camper, washer or dryer.

Campus Attacks Keep Students Afraid of Dark

By LAURIE BECKLUND

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Patty Jeffery won't go to the main library at UC San Diego anymore. A girl was mugged in a eucalyptus grove near there last spring.

Sherri Willsn doesn't go near the Botanical Gardens on the UCLA campus.

"Weird guys hang out there," she says.

"I PROMISED MY mother I would."

Four persons, including three students, have been slain on three campuses in two years. A fifth, a San Diego State security offieer, died of a heart attack after being beaten last September.

LAST SEPTEMBER, two USC students were shot to death while strolling on Fraternity Row.

And early in December, an 18 year-old coed was murdered in her dormitory room at San Diego State.

"You can see fear on people's faces at night," said Tom D'Agostino, student president at San Diego State. "They are leery of who walks by them now.

"It used to be you could walk up to someone and say, 'Hi!' But now people are paranoid. It's a combination of the murders and the fact that students have more traditional attitudes about crime than they did five years ago."

Throughout Southern California, students and most administrators agree that campus security can generally be improved.

A SURVEY FOUND little evidence of claims by student groups that rape is widespread, however.

At San Diego State, many lights are turned off to save electricity. The lights-off policy may be partly responsible for a subsequent rash of bicycle thefts, tire slashings and thefts from cars, says Vincent McGrath, campus police chief.

Crime is up 10 percent at San Diego State this year.

At UCSD across town, reported crime is up 25 percent. Through November of 1973, there were 259 reported petty thefts or ripoffs on the La Jolla campus. So far this year there have been 340.

Although statistics show that college campuses continue to be safer places than other parts of the cities, statistics may be misleading.

Eric Ziegler, 19, says that "campus cops are purely pathetic. You report something to them and they say they can't do anything about it."

Says Sean Gallaher: "There's an outrageous number of thefts at Zura Hall where Tanya Gardini was killed."

After the stabbing strangulation of the pretty freshman from Walnut Creek, the Student Council voted 16-8 against arming campus police.

McGrath says, "Many nights we have only one guy patrolling the whole 271-acre campus. Usually there are two."

Is It Real?

Lucky's Will To Be Aired

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Last Testament of Lucky Luciano" will be published on schedule despite allegations that the book may not actually be the dictated memoirs of the late underworld figure.

Little, Brown & Co. said it "reviewed all the available data on which the manuscript was based," and would issue the book on Feb. 19.

The publishing firm did not say how it conducted its review or what information it examined, but the company said, "This book contains the only disclosures that Lucky Luciano ever made of the events that shaped his life."

And the Book-of-the Month Club, which already picked the book as its February selection, plans to continue offering the book.

"THE CLUB REAFFIRMS its faith in Little, Brown," said a spokesman for the club.

Earlier this month, The New York Times said it obtained information through research and interviews that questioned the authenticity of the manuscript, written by freelance writer Richard Hammer and Martin A. Gosch, a film producer who died in 1973.

Advertisements for the book claim Luciano dictated it to Gosch before the mobster died in Italy in 1962.

The Times listed "discrepancies" between the book and its findings that included:

—QUOTES IN THE BOOK attributed to Luciano but which refer to an event that occurred two years after his death.

—Other quotes that have Luciano saying he participated in meetings and events that occurred while he was in jail, and could not possibly have attended.

—The repetition in the book of a story that Luciano got his nickname after having survived an attempt on his life in 1929. The Times says the story is erroneous and has appeared in other books. It says writer William Safire has a recorded conversation with Luciano in which the underworld leader claims "Lucky" dated from his early youth and stemmed from his actual last name, Luccano.

Your Head Hangs Heavy In a Whiplash Accident

Rear-end auto collisions are the most frequent cause of cervical spine injuries, according to Dr. Gary Couture of the Couture Chiropractic Center. Dr. Couture recently stated that approximately 84 per cent of the cervical disorders he has studied were the result of auto crashes.

Dr. Gary Couture, D.C.

Only about 15 per cent of these crash injuries resulted from head-on or side collisions, he said.

"The amount of damage to the crashing auto is not a reliable indicator of the damage to the passengers," Dr. Couture noted. "Most cervical disorders start with sprains, and most sprains are caused by the action of the 8 to 12 pound human head as it snaps backward during a rear-end crash."

This head snapping action can produce an impressive variety of muscle tears, ligament stretching and damage to the backbone, particularly the fourth, fifth and sixth vertebrae, he added.

"The position of the head and the neck at the time the force is applied determines to some extent the site of the injury," Dr. Couture said. "The structures which are relaxed may receive less injury than those which are taut or on stretch."

Thus, injury in a side collision may be to the side of the neck opposite the impact. Side collisions cause a sudden lateral bending and rotation of the neck toward the side of the impact, and then to the opposite side.

Sprained or torn ligaments and capsules result in a traumatic inflammatory reaction with minute hemorrhages and continued, even prolonged, blood leakage, Dr. Couture said. The inflammation may persist for months or years.

"The eventual outcome is a reparative response, and injury results most often in scarring which is the usual residual of tissue damage," he said.

Tissue repair in the cervical area is slow, probably because of the meager blood supply. Under ideal circumstances, the usual healing time is six to eight weeks after injury, Dr. Couture said.

The scar tissue which forms is less elastic than normal tissue which means there may be continued neck stiffness, he said.

(Dr. Gary Couture, D.C., maintains Chiropractic Offices at 2043 Westcliff Drive, Suite 107, Newport Beach. Telephone 645-5300.)

AP Photo
'I'M AN ALCOHOLIC'
Congressman Wilbur Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) acknowledged today he is an alcoholic but said he will stop drinking entirely and will stay in the House of Representatives.

Mills, who entered Bethesda Naval Hospital Dec. 3 for what was described as exhaustion, said in a statement released through the office of the House Ways and Means Committee:

"I ask the understanding of the members of Congress about what my tragic experience has been. I know that I am a well man as long as I do not drink and, by the grace of God and with competent medical advice, and the support of friends, I will remain well.

"In light of the above, it is my intention to continue in the Congress of the United States."

Mills, who has already announced he will not seek the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee which he headed for more than a decade and a half, said he realizes now his behavior of the past several months was not that of "the Wilbur Mills who has spent 36 years in Congress."

The behavior climaxed with an incident in Washington involving a stripper, Annabel Battistella, whom Mills said he had known for some time and with whom he later appeared on a Boston stage.

Mills said he did not understand at that time what was happening to him. Now, he said, he thinks "the fatigue and pressure built up by years of dedicated work" had a severe impact on him.

"During the past several years, and most especially in the last year, I had scarcely noticed that my drinking habits had changed perceptibly."

Mills has been at Bethesda since two days after he appeared on the Boston stage. He has been visited daily by his wife of 40 years, Polly. A spokesman for Mills said the congressman will remain at Bethesda until the new Congress convenes Jan. 14.

"I now realize, after several weeks of treatment by the doctors and soul-searching of my own, that I developed a severe drinking problem, not as a daily drinker but as a periodic heavy drinker. I did not know that this pattern corresponds with what is known as alcoholism. . .

"I have come to a full understanding that alcoholism is a disease from which people by the thousands have recovered," Mills said, pledging "total abstinence."

Injured 15,000 Hurt in

PATTAN, Pakistan (AP). — The earthquake that hit northern Pakistan over the weekend killed an estimated 4,700 persons and injured about 15,000 in nine villages, rescue officials said today.

They said the final casualty toll could be even higher when reports arrive from isolated regions north of Pattan.

The villages were clustered about Pattan, nestled among the snow-capped Karakoram Mountains about 200 miles north of the Pakistani capital of Islamabad. The quake struck Saturday evening and tremors followed intermittently for 24 hours. First word of the disaster was brought out by runners.

The quake almost destroyed this village of 10,000, leaving hardly one house intact. Senior army officers taking part in rescue operations estimated 500 inhabitants of Pattan were dead, 2,000 injured and some 400 houses either completely or partially destroyed.

Army rescue teams have been working around the clock since shortly after the quake struck, treating the injured, pulling bodies from the wreckage and mounting a helicopter-borne mercy airlift. Two field hospitals have been set up.

Because of the widespread damage to houses, many people have been sleeping in the open in temperatures that drop to near freezing at night. Nearly every family has reported losing one or more relatives in the disaster.

Efforts to bring in more blankets and tents have been hampered because the Karakoram Highway, which runs through the disaster-struck region, has been either severed or demolished along a 70-mile stretch.

The highway, which runs from the Chinese border nearly to the Indus Plain in the center of the country, is the main artery through which vital commodities are brought into the poverty-stricken northern areas of the PALMER, Alaska (UPI) — Two moderate earthquakes shook a sparsely populated area of Alaska Sunday without causing any damage. The quakes, 12 hours apart and each measuring 4.8 on the Richter scale, were centered in a section north and northwest of Palmer.

Laguna Police Arrest 3 Men In Sex Case

Officers identified the suspects as Richard A. Henzell, 50, of 120 Cress St. and Dudley A. Stier, 34, of 1116 Miramar St., both of Laguna; and William S. Rutledge, 31, of San Francisco.

Henzell and Rutledge are held in lieu of $5,000 bail today. Stier, who police said is owner of a Costa Mesa leather manufacturing company, was booked on sex charges and resisting arrest. He was released on $2,500 bail.

Officer Greg Bartz alleged he was on beach foot patrol when he observed the three men engaged in a mutual sex act. Bartz handcuffed two of the men and escorted all three to a patrol car. The unshackled suspect allegedly fled but was later apprehended.

Ruby Keeler Improving

Ruby Keeler, the tap dancing star of the 1920's who calls Laguna Beach her home, was reported improving today at a Great Falls, Mont., hospital.

Miss Keeler, 64, underwent brain surgery Nov. 25 to repair a weakened blood vessel.

A spokesman for Columbus Hospital said the Irvine Cove resident is now listed in satisfactory condition. The spokesman did not say how long she would remain in the hospital.

Plutonium Ban?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid reports that the government cannot account for some plutonium, Rep. Les Aspin (D-Wis.), said today he will seek a five-year ban on plutonium recycling to allow time for safeguards to protect the material from possible theft and use in homemade atomic weapons.

2 Women Hunted In Home Thefts

Orange County Sheriff's deputies tried without success during the weekend to trace two women who visited a number of model homes in the Laguna Hills area and left with a brand new television set and other recently installed fittings.

Deputies said both women were seen running from a home at 30372 Via Corona shortly after officials at the recently completed tract discovered the theft of valuables.

Capistrano Picks New City Chief

By PAMELA HALLAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A new city manager has been hired in San Juan Capistrano.

Mayor Roy Byrnes announced this morning that James S. Mocalis, 43, city manager of Baldwin Park, will take over the city's managerial post Feb. 17.

His salary will be $33,000 a year.

Mocalis has been with Baldwin Park since 1971 and has served as city manager, assistant manager, director of public works and associate civil engineer in South Pasadena.

He has a bachelor's degree in architectural engineering, a master's degree in public administration and is a doctoral candidate in public administration at University of Southern California.

Mayor Byrnes said Mocalis was hired through an employment contract, the first for the city.

"This is an attempt to lay out the position of city manager so that people in the community can understand what a professional city manager is and isn't."

Although the term of the contract is four years, Dr. Byrnes stressed that termination clauses are specific and thew new manager will serave "at the pleasure of the council."

One problem left to be resolved is the new manager's retirement system. The mayor said he belongs to Public Employes Retirement System (PERS), a service the city does not have.

"We're in the process of revising our retirement system for all of our employes," said Dr. Byrnes. "We may elect to become a PERS city."

Byrnes added that if the city

Sunny Skies Taking Over Along Coast

Clear, sunny and cool weather stayed on in Orange County today, leaving little trace of the weekend storm except for snow-capped Saddleback Mountain.

The sudden storm that arrived early Saturday dumped rain, hail and lightning on coastal cities and snow in the mountain areas. By Sunday afternoon skies were again clear and mountain routes were clogged with snow enthusiasts trying to reach the new white stuff.

Gusty winds were expected to blow into the Orange Coast region later today, sending temperatures into the low 60s. Gustier winds are expected for Tuesday, when highs may dip to the high 50s, forecasters predict lows may drop to the mid-30s.

Gusts between 15 and 25 miles per hour are anticipated below the canyons, with mountain areas due to receive northeast gusts up to 40 miles per hour.

Unless unforeseen weather conditions suddenly arise, forecasters are predicting fair weather for New Year's Day and the rest of the week.

Mountain areas throughout Southern California, including the local Saddleback Peak, were congested Sunday with visitors to the snow.

Jewelry Stolen In South Laguna

Jewelry valued at $6,500 was stolen during the weekend by burglars who entered a South Laguna home while the occupant was absent.

Deputies said thieves whose method of entry is unknown took a number of rings from the nightstand in the home of E. Hamilton Langley, 13, of 29 South La Senda, Three Arch Bay.

Fire Rages In Leisure World Area

A fire of unknown origin roared through a two-car garage behind a Laguna Hills Leisure World condominium complex Sunday night causing $17,000 damage, a county fire spokesman said today.

The fire broke out at about 10:15 p.m. in the garage behind the Ben Herron residence at 3296 San Amado in the retirement community.

Three fire engines, a paramedic team, rescue truck and 29 men from the El Toro and Laguna Hills fire stations responded to the blaze. It took about 25 minutes to control the fire, the spokesman said.

The flames destroyed a 1969 Oldsmobile, a fully outfitted machine shop and other storage items worth a total of $17,000.

The spokesman said the garage was a total loss and some damage was done to the residential building. Nobody was injured in the blaze.

Laguna Hills Man Jailed

A Laguna Hills clothing store employe was jailed on charges of embezzlement during the weekend by Orange County Sheriff's deputies who said he now-and-again donned brand new clothing and walked out of the store wearing it.

Deputies said the value of the clothing allegedly stolen by salesman Raymond Patrick Harrington, 26, from the Pantry Clothing Store, 24242 Laguna Hills Mall, was about $226.

Officers said the clothing allegedly was taken by Harrington over a two-month period.

Plane Crash Kills Former POW

By ALAN DIRKIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The family members of an Air Force pilot, who had been attempting to restructure their lives after his return from Vietnam where he spent 6½ years as a POW, were left shattered today following the pilot's death in an air crash.

Mrs. Elaine Pyle of Irvine, wife of Maj. Darrel A. Pyle, flew to Alaska Sunday to be with her 9-year-old son, Phillip, who survived the crash that killed Maj. Pyle Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Pyle, a dental assistant, was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Howard Williams, of Tustin, while her father was attempting to find a military burial site for the Air Force pilot.

The crash occurred near Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage where Maj. Pyle and Phillip were returning in a small plane from a hunting trip.

It appeared today that Maj. Pyle's last act may have saved the life of his son who received only a cut over his eye in the crash. The crash occurred on a frozen lake in temperatures below zero, but Air Force officials said Phillip got out of the plane and walked about two miles to a farmhouse to call help. It took rescuers about 1½ hours to reach the wreckage, but Maj. Pyle died 15 minutes after being admitted to the Elemendorf base hospital.

Mrs. Pyle's sister, Miss Laurel Williams of Tustin, wondered today whether Maj. Pyle was conscious for a while after the crash.

"He might have told Phillip where to go for help," Miss Williams said. "Otherwise it seems more likely that the boy would have wandered around in circles in the snow and died. In any event, it must have been an ordeal for Phillip because he would have had to climb over his father to get out of the plane."

Phillip, who suffered mild frost bite, was still in Elemendorf base hospital today. He was reported in good condition.

Air Force officials reported that torches had to be used to extricate Maj. Pyle from the wreckage and that a fire broke out just after he was freed. Officials said he died in the hospital of multiple crash injuries and not from the burns.

Maj. Pyle was a prisoner of war from 1966 to March, 1973. He held the Legion of Merit, two Silver Stars, two Bronze Stars, the Air Force Commendation Medal and the Distinguished Flying Cross.

He had spent about six months at the Elmendorf base and had bought and was furnishing a home. Mrs. Pyle and Phillip had planned to join him when it was completed and the home in Irvine was sold.

Miss Williams said Phillip went up to the base to spend Christmas and New Year's with his father who loved hunting and fishing.

Miss Williams said Maj. Pyle had fitted pontoons and skis on the small Piper plane he bought.

Terrorists to Cuba

Hostages Free In Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nine terrorists today released hostages they held for 60 hours and flew off to Cuba with 16 sympathizers freed from Nicaraguan jails, officials said. The Roman Catholic archbishop of Managua went along to guarantee their safety.

A national guard officer at the airport said he believed but could not confirm that the Mexican and Spanish ambassadors and the papal nuncio in Managua also accompanied the terrorists to Cuba.

The break came only a couple of hours after the broadcast of a guerrilla demand that six points be met before noon or they would begin shooting one hostage every 12 hours. The government had said it would not allow the hostages — at least 13 men — to be taken to Havana.

Archbishop Miguel Ovando y Bravo was the first man out of the house where the hostages were held, followed by a man in plainclothes. A guerrilla wearing a stocking mask and pointing a rifle followed.

The group came out in single file and boarded a red and white tourist bus for the 15-mile drive to Managua's airport. They whipped through the airport to the end of the runway where the four-engine government-owned jet was waiting and 10 minutes later took off with a flight plan for Havana.

No details were available on whether the government met a $5 million ransom demand. A source close to the negotiations said the government agreed earlier to pay the ransom in small bills.

But later the five men and three women guerrillas made additional demands for salary increases for many workers, year-end salary bonuses, an end "to all repression" in Nicaragua.

The demands were broadcast over national radio.

Clemente Whale Tours Set

The San Clemente High School's Parent Teacher Student Association will sponsor whale-watch excursions beginning Saturday with reservations now being taken for future trips.

Scheduled trips run at 9:45 a.m. and 1 p.m. each Saturday and Sunday through Jan. 27, and again Feb. 15 and 16.

Reservations should be made at least 10 days prior to the date desired. The cost of the trip is $4 for adults and $3 for children under 12.

Further information is available by calling 496-7106.

The excursions offer close-up views of gray whales as they migrate from the feeding grounds in the Bering Sea to warm lagoons off Baja where the calves are born.

Infant's Death Related

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Jennifer Elizabeth Dabney admitted today for the second time in her trial that she decided not to take her dying baby to the doctor last June 1, "because he might ask questions about the bruises."

But the El Toro woman also made it clear as she completed her testimony in her Orange County Superior Court trial that she did not think that eight-month-old Robert Dabney was dying when she made that decision.

Her second statement brought Deputy District Attorney Pat Brian to his feet with another question for the defendant:

"You thought that despite the fact that you put your baby's face down in water after beating him, and despite the fact that mouth-to-mouth resuscitation failed to revive him?"

"I wish I could explain," the hesitant witness replied after a long pause. "I, uh, sort of hoped he wouldn't be that sick."

Deputy public defender Michael Beecher said he will now call psychiatrists to the witness stand to support his argument that Mrs. Dabney, 24, was of "diminished capacity" when she inflicted fatal injuries on her baby, one of twin sons.

Mrs. Dabney was arrested last June 1 when the child died in Childrens Hospital, Orange, from injuries she admitted inflicting during the 24 proceding hours.

Dabney will be sentenced Jan. 10 by Judge Kenneth E. Lae. He has reduced the charge against Mrs. Dabney from first to second-degree murder.

It has been repeatedly alleged during the trial that the couple's home in the Wherry housing sector of the El Toro base was splattered with human and animal excreta and littered with dirty dishes, moldy food, unwashed diapers and dirty clothing.

A taped confession in which Mrs. Dabney admitted beating and abusing Robert has been played back to the jury. It also contains her admission that she was responsible for the broken arm and injuries suffered on his twin brother, John.

Laguna Firm —Despite Terse Note

Laguna Beach officials won't back down on elimination of two roads from the city's street system despite an Orange County threat that Laguna could lose substantial highway building funds.

Instead, the Laguna Beach City Council has asked the county to modify its plans so they conform to Laguna's.

The council's action at a recent meeting was in response to a letter from Orange County Road Commissioner Ted McConville.

McConville noted that the city had erased Alta Laguna Boulevard extension from Top of the World to Arch Beach Heights and scrubbed Campus Drive as it entered the city near the Boat Canyon shopping area.

In a terse letter, the council was told its unilateral action on the two roads could coast arterial highway funding. The city has received about $100,000 a year over five years from the fund.

In response, Mayor Roy Holm suggested the city send "a polite letter" to McConville suggesting that the alterations the city made should be considered by the county as reasons for deleting the roads from its own plan of future streets.

Mayor Holm noted that the letter appeared to have been written by a subordinate of McConville's and he said its curt tone was not in character with that of the commissioner.

The suggestion by the county that the city redraw the roads was also criticized by Village Laguna, a citizens organization.

Clemente Home Hit by Burglars

A San Clemente housewife lost an expensive watch and cash to a burglar over the weekend, police reported.

Pat Sickafoose of 400 Avenida Arlena told police she discovered the loss Sunday morning. Someone entered a built-in trash chute to the residence, officers said, and removed the loot worth $190.

$500 Church Mat Stolen In Laguna

A $500 doormat stolen from St. Catherine's Catholic Church, was among weekend thefts in Laguna Beach.

The expensive footwipe, personalized with the name of the church, was reported stolen Sunday morning.

William Lewis, 2192 Ocean Way, reported the theft of $165 in linen and toiletries. Police believe the thief gained entry through an unlocked shower room attached to the residence.

Steven A. Wonner, 343 Aster St., Apt. 4, reported Friday the theft of $550 in stereo and camera equipment. Entry to Wonner's residence was gained by removing louvered windows and then unlocking a door, police reported.

Bold Gunman Nets $268 In Stickup

Orange County Sheriff's deputies resumed their search today for a gunman who visited a Capistrano Beach beauty salon during the weekend and robbed the proprietress and two patrons of $268.

Deputies said two women were having their hair done at Palisades Hair Fashions, 26951 Camino de Estrella, when a man wearing a black and white ski hat, blue jeans and tan shoes entered the store and brandished a revolver.

The three women said the gunman told them "give me all your money" and then proceeded to pocket the store's takings and the contents of the patrons' purses while repeatedly warning the women not to move.

Police Seek Knife Waver

Orange County Sheriff's deputies were called to a Laguna Hills restaurant over the weekend when the manager was threatened at knifepoint by a patron who had been accused of stealing bar glasses.

Deputies said the suspect, who fled from the scene before officers arrived, used a pocket knife to intimidate manager Aladdin Partovi, 33, of Don Jose restuarant, 23972 Avenida de la Carlotta.

They said Partovi was also punched by the suspect who dragged the manager from the restaurant to the entranceway during the fracas.

Ohio State's Band to Play At Safari

The Ohio State University marching band will perform Thursday at Lion Country Safari in Irvine.

A special selection of appropriate numbers, "Elephant Walk" and "Talk to the Animals" will be added to the 250-member band's repertoire for a 50-minute outdoor concert at the entertainment areas of the African wildlife preserve.

The single performance is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

A Lion Country spokesman said baby elephants will roam among the musicians during the "Elephant Walk" number and predicted "a few surprises" during the "Talk to the Animals" song.

The Ohio State band is in Southern California to support its football team in the Rose Ball contest against USC New Year's day. Following the Lion Country performance, the band will depart for Columbus Ohio.

Despite Economy

Restaurants Faring Well

LOS ANGLES (AP) — Despite rising food costs and a slumping economy, the restaurant business in Southern California is faring well.

"We are rather pleased with sales in view of the economy and what's happening in other industries," says Robert Riley, general manager of the Restaurant Association of Southern California.

He says members report sales are up between 4 and 10 percent over last year.

But, he added, many members say they are just breaking even because of higher wholesale food costs.

"OUR MAJOR COMPETITOR is the housewife," says Riley. "She looks at supermarket prices and then looks at menu prices and often is the one who determines whether the family will eat out."

He says some restaurant operators have raised menu prices 15 to 25 percent while others are reluctant to boost prices significantly for fear it will drive customers away.

"We have about 20 percent fewer customers than we had a year ago," says Donald H. Clinton, owner of Clinton's cafeterias in Los Angeles.

He has raised prices 11 percent because of higher costs.

"Our clientele are mainly working people and shoppers," he says. "We try to keep our prices in line. But we use a lot of canned fruit and vegetables and the labor costs for harvesting those products are up. The fruit is packed in sugar and everybody knows how that has gone up. We use sugar in our baked goods, too.

We've tried to cut back our electricity needs by about one-third, but we are paying 50 percent more in electric bills this year."

AT THE OTHER END of the restaurant spectrum is swank Perino's, where general manager William A. Coleman feels that his affluent customers have been affected by a recession psychology.

"They are people who are particularly aware of finances and the economic impact, and I think they are worried about what is going to happen," he says.

Coleman says that while November-December business has been good it is off from previous years. Perino's has kept its prices stable for some years and has no plans to boost them, he says.

Bank Introduces Machine Tellers

Automated teller machines, enabling Orange County residents to obtain cash and make deposits or loan payments at their convenience, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, will be introduced by Wells Fargo Bank Jan. 20.

The program, called Silver Service, will allow customers to bank nights and weekends, at teller machines in Buena Park, Westminster and Anaheim.

Customers will be able to withdraw from checking, savings or Master Charge accounts and deposit to checking and savings accounts at the teller machine. In addition, customers may make loan payments and transfer money from one account to another.

"Customers will no longer have to worry about getting to the bank during regular business hours. The modern consumer wants to do business at his convenience.

Construction has started on the installation of the machines on the exterior walls of the bank's Buena Park office, 8781 Knott Avenue, the Westminster office, 7950 Westminster Avenue, and the State College Boulevard office in Anaheim.

Bank customers will receive a Silver Service card and a personal identification code.

BILL SIMPSON REFLECTS UPON LA'S LOSS.

Too Many Mistakes Keep Rams Out of Super Bowl

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Just six inches away from the goal line, the Los Angeles Rams appeared on the threshold of taking the lead over the Minnesota Vikings Sunday in the National Football Conference championship game when the Rams were penalized five yards for illegal motion.

"They called the penalty on offensive guard Tom Mack but Tom says he did not move," Rams coach Chuck Knox said of the key play in Minnesota's 14-10 victory over the Rams.

Pushed back to the five yard line, the Rams had a pass intercepted by Vikings linebacker Wally Hilgenberg two plays later to end the threat. Minnesota stayed ahead 7-3.

Rams quarterback James Harris said he was about to run a quarterback sneak for the six inches when Vikings defensive tackle Alan Page jumped offside, and the referee ruled Page was drawn off by movement of Rams linemen.

"There was a long count, and Harris may have changed the play, and when somebody flinched there was nothing for us to lose if the referee called the penalty on me instead," said the Vikings' Page.

After the Hilgenberg interception, the Vikings drove 80 yards for a touchdown that put them ahead 14-3, and Minnesota was able to control the ball for most of the remaining 12½ minutes of the game.

Harris completed 13 of 23 passes in the game for 248 yards, with two interceptions. He said that Hilgenberg's interception of a pass deflected by the Vikings' Jackie Wallace was intended for Rams end Pat Curran.

"Curran broke free and I didn't think Wallace could read the ball," Harris said. The goal line events had been set up on a 73-yard pass-run play from Harris to the Rams's Harold Jackson.

Vikings defensive back Jeff Wright pushed Jackson out of bounds on the two yard line. Later in the game Jackson scored on a 44-yard pass from Harris to cut the Vikings margin from 11 points to four.

"We just made too many mistakes in inopportune situations," Harris said, referring to three fumbles lost by the Rams, two interceptions and seven penalties for a total of 70 yards.

The Vikings controlled Rams halfback Lawrence McCutcheon, giving him only 32 yards in 12 carries. His running mate Jim Bertelsen took over with 65 yards rushing and 53 additional yards on five pass receptions. But he was unavailable late in the game.

"I had a hip pointer going into the game, and by the third quarter I had taken too many hits and I just couldn't go on," said Bertelsen.

Rams defensive ends Fred Dryer and Jack Youngblood led a defensive charge that forced five Minnesota fumbles during the game, two recovered by the Rams.

Youngblood was among many Rams disconsolate over the defeat, saying: "I guess the big guy up there just didn't want us to win this one."

Most of the Vikings declined to make predictions on how they might play in the Super Bowl, but Dryer said he thinks the Vikings can win it all Jan. 12, after two previous failures in 1969 and a year ago.

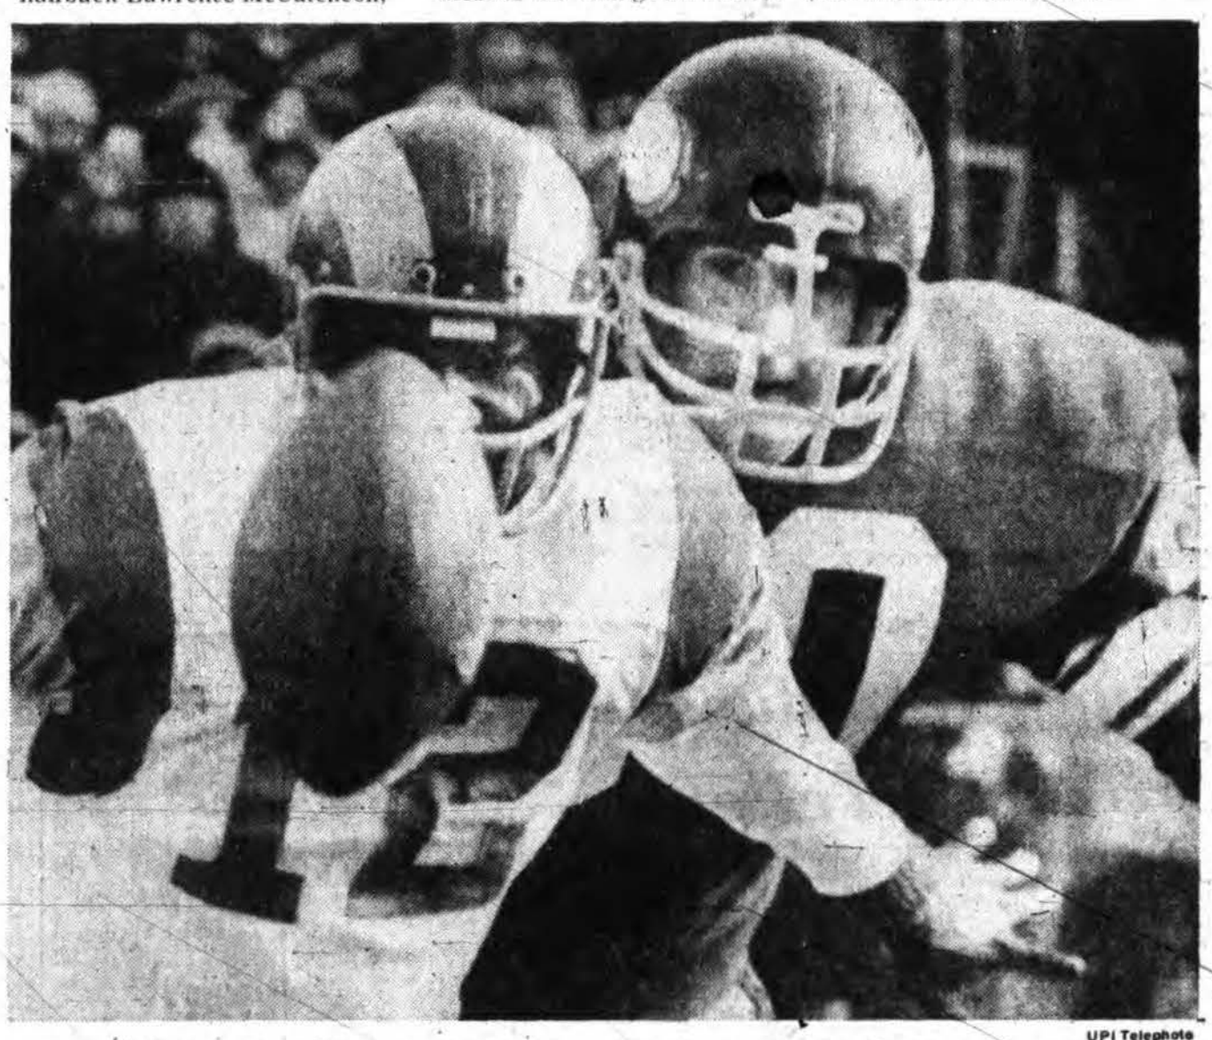

"With the few mistakes they make, the play calling of Francis Tarkenton, the running of Chuck Foreman and the defense making big plays, I think they can win," Dryer said.

Steelers Stop Run To Stop Oakland

"They stopped our running plays and that was it. They did what they had to do and we didn't," said Clarence Davis after Sunday's 24-13 loss to Pittsburgh in the American Football Conference championship game.

Oakland Coach John Madden saw his team beaten one step short of the Super Bowl for the fourth time in the last six years and he admitted. "We had the feeling that everything was going our way. We had the best record in the NFL, beat Miami, and had the opportunity to play at home."

J.T. Thomas made the final interception and the Steelers scored their third touchdown of the final quarter to clinch the victory.

"You can't come back with a few seconds left to win too many weeks in a row," said Oakland guard George Buehler.

The interception that hurt the most was by Jack Ham, setting up Pittsburgh's go-ahead touchdown early in the final quarter.

Stabler, whose 217 yard passing performance was ruined by the three interceptions, had only one comment later and made it over and over again: "I have nothing to say about the game."

Pittsburgh kicked Oakland's rushing game in the teeth, kicked apart Stabler's dreams of a second straight miracle comeback and kicked the Raiders out of the playoff game they were favored to win.

"It was meant to be. We were meant to win this thing," quarterback Terry Bradshaw said after his cool, precise signal calling and passing carried Pittsburgh to the summit of Super Bowl IX. "We knew we were going to win this game. . .we came here with the confidence to win."

Bradshaw threw the ball only 17 times — and he didn't even have to do that. Not with Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier behind him, waiting to take the ball and run it down the Raiders' throats.

Harris bulldozed his way through the astoundingly malleable Oakland line 29 times for 111 yards and two touchdowns. And when the Raiders managed to stop him — which was rare — Bleier was right there, adding 98 yards on 18 carries.

Even Bradshaw got into the ground game, rushing three times for 15 yards. And astonishingly, his total was more than half the total yardage gained by entire Oakland running corps.

Twenty-one times the Raiders punched into Pittsburgh's front line of defense. The result was a meager 29 yards, a new low for an AFC title game.

"They gave us nothing on the ground," Madden understated. "Our passing was sufficient but we just couldn't get the run going. I can't remember when our ground game was shut down that effectively. . .to win, you've got to have a mixture on offense. We were able to call the mixture, but we couldn't make it go."

Vikes Say Running Was Key

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — "We felt we had to run at the Rams and it turned out that this is what eventually won the ballgame for us," Minnesota Vikings coach Bud Grant said Sunday after the Vikings beat Los Angeles 14-10 to earn a third try for the Super Bowl.

"Just plain hard hitting resulted in a lot of fumbles," Grant said, of the string of bobbles that helped keep the score down. The Vikings lost two of their five fumbles, the Rams lost the ball all three times they fumbled, and both squads had drives halted by penalties.

Fran Tarkenton, the Viking quarterback who directed the two Minnesota scoring drives, said, "The Vikings had a hard time finding out what would work against the Rams. Minnesota had no first downs the first three times it had the ball.

"The Rams play defense as well as anybody in football.

Tarkenton hit on passes of 13 yards to Stu Voight and 15 yards to John Gilliam to keep the other Viking touchdown drive going at the start of the fourth period. Dave Osborn scored from six inches away on a fourth-down play.

"We were only six inches away from winning," Grant said of the thinking that decided against a field goal try.

Osborn said the Rams defense was "a little lucky at first, stunting in the same places we were running. Then we got going, catching few of their slants and got a few holes."

Anyone But Harris

Any QB for Rams? Namath? Blanda?

There may be some confusion today regarding the Los Angeles Rams-Minnesota Vikings pro football playoff game staged Sunday in Minnesota.

That is, most reports will say Minnesota beat the Rams, 14-10. Only the score is accurate, however. At least that's the way this corner sees it.

Actually, I thought quarterback James Harris beat

WHITE WASH

the Rams with his low quality performance. It was Harris' fumble and interceptions that denied his LA mates at least one touchdown and broke up drives that appeared headed for scores.

If he is National Football League caliber, the NFL should merge with the World Football League.

He carries the ball like a kid playing in his first sandlot game and throws much of the time as though he needs glasses. Some may say he simply needs a little more seasoning to break into stride and make good.

By that same reasoning, a mud pie would only need a bit more seasoning to become edible.

The Rams took a big gamble when they let bona fide quarterback John Hadl go early in the season and cast their lot with Harris, the 27-year-old product of Grambling College.

If time is all Harris needs to become an effective quarterback, he'll be the first 80-year-old to play pro football, unless George Blanda keeps going.

The Rams tried to roll sevens, but came up with snake eyes. Harris was good enough to QB them to the divisional title. But in that lackluster division of hapless teams, George Plimpton probably could have done as well.

The Rams won a playoff game from Washington, but it wasn't Harris who did it, it was Isiah Robertson's touchdown return of an interception and a rock-ribbed defense that turned the trick.

There is rumor that the Rams may deal for Joe Namath to handle quarterbacking next season. I'd settle for Bill Munson, Roman Gabriel or Blanda. Or Hadl. Or Bob Waterfield. Or Sammy Baugh.

In fact, rather than see Harris at the helm, I'd favor almost any alternative.

TV commentators said the Rams had nothing to be ashamed of in losing to the Vikings.

But when you beat yourself on fumbles, interceptions and penalties, what is there to be proud of?

Odds and ends:

Finals of Inglewood High's 21st annual basketball tourney are due tonight with Fremont (LA) meeting Dorsey (LA) at 8:30.

Huntington Beach twice won the tourney, including the first one in 1954 and again in 1961. HB players Butch Cobpman and Dennis Hamilton were tourney MVPs.

The last time it rained during a Rose Bowl game was 1955. The combatants? USC and Ohio State. Hope that's not an omen, for Wednesday.

After nearly a month's play it would appear that El Dorado High of Placentia is Orange County's No. 1 prep basketball team. Nash Rivera, coach of that outfit, once was varsity head man at Mater Dei.

Sports in Brief

Rozelle Confident Appeal Will Win

MINNEAPOLIS — Commissioner Pete Rozelle says the National Football League believes the Joe Kapp ruling in which the NFL's reserve system was declared illegal "expresses the personal philosophy of the judge rather than being a ruling after a careful evaluation of the record."

Rozelle, interviewed here Sunday when he attended the playoff game between Minnesota and Los Angeles, said the NFL was confident the Kapp ruling by U.S. District Court Judge William T. Sweigert would be overturned on appeal.

Connors Wins

MELBOURNE, Australia — Top-seeded and defending champion, Jimmy Connors of the United States advanced to the quarter-finals of the Australian Open tennis championships with a 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 6-0 victory over fellow American Raz Reid.

The game will be telecast live on Channel 5 at 6 tonight.

Longhorns, Auburn Collide

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Texas Longhorns, who lost a six-year New Year's Day lease on the Cotton Bowl, will make their first Gator Bowl football game appearance tonight against the Auburn Tigers, here for the sixth time.

Auburn brings a 9-2 record and No. 6 national ranking as credentials for its third Gator Bowl game in four years. The Tigers upset Colorado two years ago and won a thriller over Mississippi Jan. 2, 1971. In all, Auburn has won three Gator Bowl games and lost two.

Although Auburn is rated five notches ahead of No. 11 Texas, the Longhorns are favored in many quarters by as much as a touchdown, prompting Auburn coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan to say: "They don't have much confidence in our team. But I do."

And coach Darrell Royal of Texas said "I don't see how anybody could pick us. They are ranked sixth and we're 11th."

On TV Tonight
Channel 7 at 6

Texas, 8-3, lost to Oklahoma, Texas Tech and Baylor. But the Horns finished like a whirlwind by beating Texas Christian 81-16 and Texas A&M 32-3.

The Longhorns operate from the wishbone and Auburn's two losses were to wishbone teams Florida and Alabama. But Jordan maintains his Tigers aren't awed by the wishbone.

Anyone who bought a Gator Bowl ticket with expectations of an aerial circus will be disappointed. Texas was 128th and last among major teams in passing yardage for the season. Auburn was 123rd.

Sweet Victory

USC Wins Ninth Series

USC sailors have dominated the Dick Sweet Trophy series, symbolic of the sloop championship of the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association for the nine years it has been sailed as a post-Christmas sailing event in Newport Harbor.

The Trojans scored their sixth victory Thursday and Friday with consistent sailing in light to moderate winds. Benny Mitchell, of Los Angeles, and his crew of Gordo Johnson and Curt Olson of Newport Beach, posted three first, two thirds, a fourth and a fifth for 18 points.

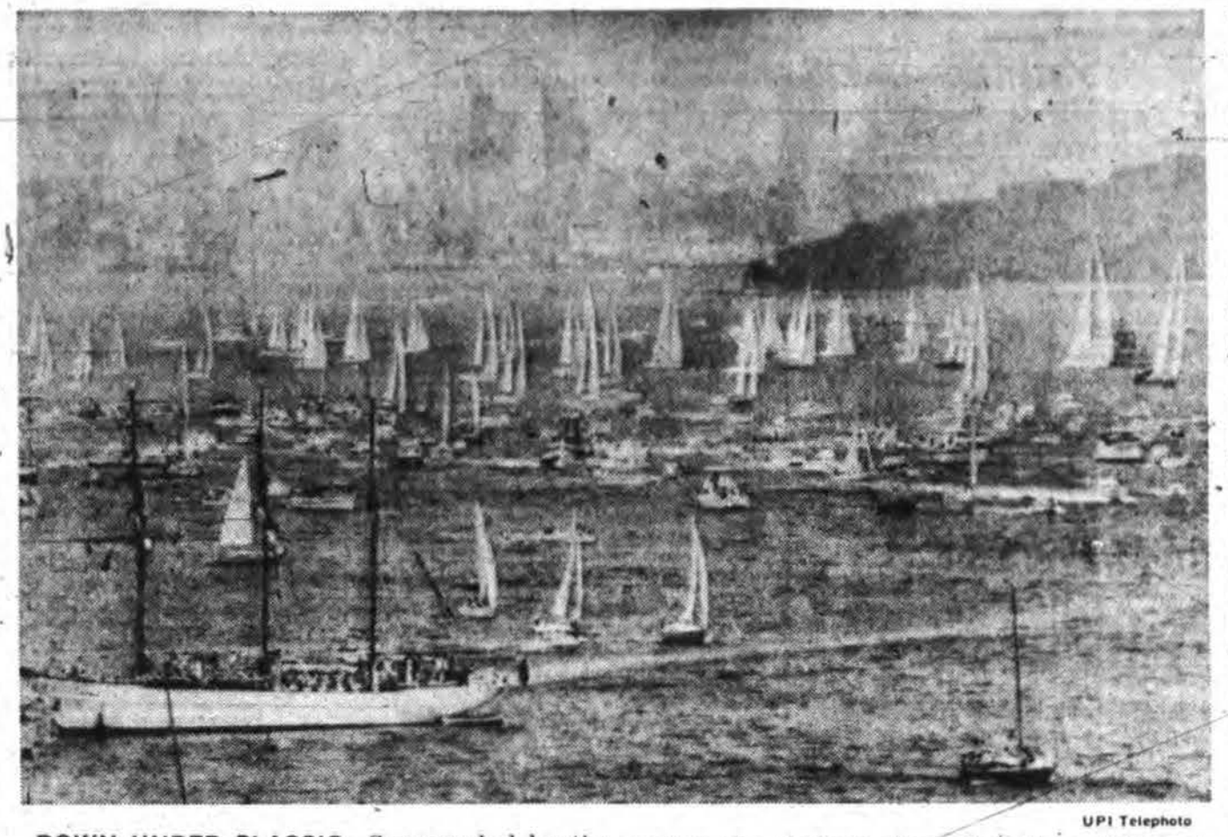

Eleven schools competed. Runnerup was UCLA with Alan Jewett, Kim Gage and Tom Blanton with 30 points. University of Hawaii, the defending school, was third with 32.

THE VICTORY entitles USC to represent the PCIYRA in the North American intercollegiate sloops championships at Chicago next June. The Sweet Trophy was the forerunner of the sloop championships for North America.

The other schools competing for the Sweet Trophy in order of finish were: San Diego State 45; Orange Coast College 46; Stanford 46; UC Santa Barbara 49; Long Beach City College 49; UC Santa Cruz 50; UC Irvine 54, and UC Davis 65.

Seven of these schools will compete today and Tuesday in the Dave Grant Trophy Series but none of the personnel involved in the Sweet Trophy competition will be allowed to sail.

Two West Coast schools are competing in the Sugar Bowl Regatta at New Orleans today and Tuesday. They are San Jose State and UC San Diego.

Reservations may be made beginning Jan. 6 for the Orange County Lyric Opera Association's production of Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman."

The opera, based on stories by German writer Wilhelm Hoffman, deals with a poet and his three thwarted love affairs.

Winners of recent auditions sponsored by the opera association will be among the winners. The opera will be sung in English.

"Tales of Hoffman" will open at 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 18, at the Forum Theater in the Irvine Bowl and will continue for three weekends. Performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturdays and 2:30 p.m. Sundays.

Tickets cost $3 and may be reserved by writing the Lyric Opera at P. O. Box 514, Laguna Beach, 92652, or telephoning 494-0709 after Jan. 6.

Japan Crime

Girl Imports Top Offenses

TOKYO (UPI) — Imports of pornographic magazines from abroad and massage parlor girls from Thailand were the worst of 1974 crimes offending public morals, Japanese police said.

So far, 47 Thai women have been discovered in Japan this year working as prostitutes in bars or bath houses, a police official said.

"FORTY-SEVEN Thai women were involved in seven different cases," the official said. "They were brought to Japan with tourist visas and forced to work as prostitutes while serving in bars or massage parlors."

The official also said that 175 persons have been arrested for smuggling pornographic magazines and articles into Japan this year. Items seized by customs officers and police totaled 21,630.

One Japanese restaurant owner tried to smuggle 600 reels of pornographic films in chocolate boxes from Honolulu and was arrested, the official said. Another businessman was detained by airport police when caught smuggling 700 obscene pictures from the United States. He told police he was going to refinance his bankrupt business.

THE OFFICIALS said the number of women working in Turkish bath houses decreased by 1,259 to 16,573 from a year ago.

But the number of snack bars and Turkish bath houses has increased during the year, the official said. Turkish bath houses increased by 35 this year to 1,183. Late-night snack bars rose 80 percent in the past five years to 234,500.

The official said 206 persons were arrested on charges of violating the anti-prostitution law in bath houses this year. It was an increase of 122 over last year.

New Attractions

3 Steam Trains Come to County

Directors of the Orange County Fair have concluded an agreement with a Palos Verdes industrialist to bring three steam locomotives and 11 passenger-carrying box-cars to the Costa Mesa Fairgrounds.

The railroad was originally built for the 1915 Panama Pacific International Exposition in San Francisco which celebrated the construction of the Panama Canal.

Because the railroad played such a prominent part in the canal's construction, it was decided that a railroad should carry visitors around the exposition grounds.

CHRISTENED the Overfair Railroad, the assortment of engines and cars was built by Louis MacDermot of Oakland who used his mother's house as a machine shop, foundry, and pattern shop.

MacDermot built everything except the boiler plates for the locomotives there and used a nearby rented warehouse for the construction of 60 cars, each capable of carrying 16 passengers.

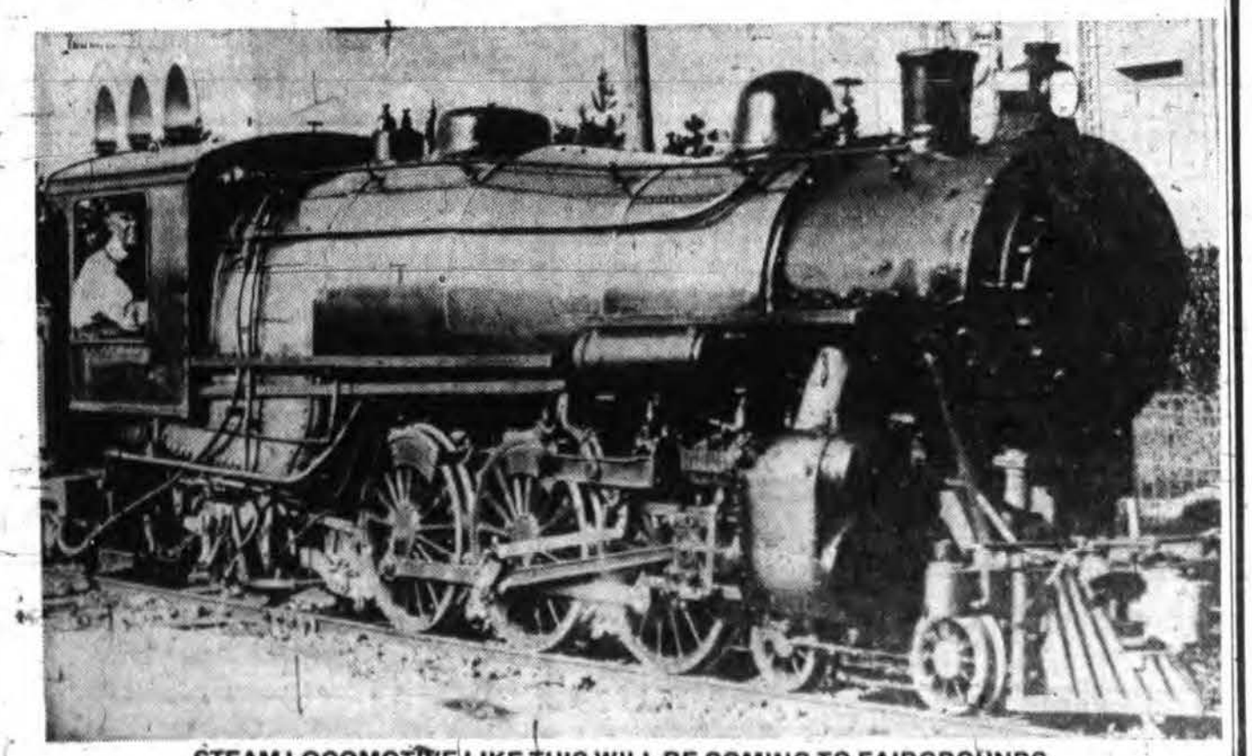

The fare then was 10 cents, but MacDermot's enterprise was not a huge financial success because he could not devise a system for checking on his conductors. He reportedly "about broke even" on his $250,000 project.

THOUGH TIMES have changed, the fare won't be much higher when the railroad comes to the fair this June. Fair manager Jim Porterfield says the charge for a 15 minute ride will be about 25 cents.

"It's almost too good to be true," he said. "The owner is going to install the railway, pay us $500 for the privilege, and still charge only 25 cents a ride," he said.

The railroad, he pointed out, will be manned by retired engineers wearing period costumes.

Campus Attacks Keep Students Afraid of Dark

By LAURIE BECKLUND

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Patty Jeffery won't go to the main library at UC San Diego anymore. A girl was mugged in a eucalyptus grove near there last spring.

Sherri Willsn doesn't go near the Botanical Gardens on the UCLA campus.

"Weird guys hang out there," she says.

"I PROMISED MY mother I would."

Four persons, including three students, have been slain on three campuses in two years. A fifth, a San Diego State security officer, died of a heart attack after being beaten last September.

LAST SEPTEMBER, two USC students were shot to death while strolling on Fraternity Row.

"You can see fear on people's faces at night," said Tom D'Agostino, student president at San Diego State. "They are leery of who walks by them now.

"It used to be you could walk up to someone and say, 'Hi!' But now people are paranoid. It's a combination of the murders and the fact that students have more traditional attitudes about crime than they did five years ago."

Throughout Southern California, students and most administrators agree that campus security can generally be improved.

A SURVEY FOUND little evidence of claims by student groups that rape is widespread, however.

At San Diego State, many lights are turned off to save electricity. The lights-off policy may be partly responsible for a subsequent rash of bicycle thefts, tire slashings and thefts from cars, says Vincent McGrath, campus police chief.

Crime is up 10 percent at San Diego State this year.

At UCSD across town, reported crime is up 25 percent. Through November of 1973, there were 259 reported petty thefts or ripoffs on the La Jolla campus. So far this year there have been 340.

Although statistics show that college campuses continue to be safer places than other parts of the cities, statistics may be misleading.

Eric Ziegler, 19, says that "campus cops are purely pathetic. You report something to them and they say they can't do anything about it."

Says Sean Gallaher: "There's an outrageous number of thefts at Zura Hall where Tanya Gardini was killed."

After the stabbing strangulation of the pretty freshman from Walnut Creek, the Student Council voted 16-8 against arming campus police.

McGrath says, "Many nights we have only one guy patrolling the whole 271-acre campus. Usually there are two."

Is It Real?

Lucky's Will To Be Aired

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Last Testament of Lucky Luciano" will be published on schedule despite allegations that the book may not actually be the dictated memoirs of the late underworld figure.

Little, Brown & Co. said it "reviewed all the available data on which the manuscript was based," and would issue the book on Feb. 19.

The publishing firm did not say how it conducted its review or what information it examined, but the company said, "This book contains the only disclosures that Lucky Luciano ever made of the events that shaped his life."

And the Book-of-the Month Club, which already picked the book as its February selection, plans to continue offering the book.

"THE CLUB REAFFIRMS its faith in Little, Brown," said a spokesman for the club.

Earlier this month, The New York Times said it obtained information through research and interviews that questioned the authenticity of the manuscript, written by freelance writer Richard Hammer and Martin A. Gosch, a film producer who died in 1973.

Advertisements for the book claim Luciano dictated it to Gosch before the mobster died in Italy in 1962.

The Times listed "discrepancies" between the book and its findings that included:

—QUOTES IN THE BOOK attributed to Luciano but which refer to an event that occurred two years after his death.

—Other quotes that have Luciano saying he participated in meetings and events that occurred while he was in jail, and could not possibly have attended.

—The repetition in the book of a story that Luciano got his nickname after having survived an attempt on his life in 1929. The Times says the story is erroneous and has appeared in other books. It says writer William Safire has a recorded conversation with Luciano in which the underworld leader claims "Lucky" dated from his early youth and stemmed from his actual last name, Luccano.

Your Head Hangs Heavy In a Whiplash Accident

Rear-end auto collisions are the most frequent cause of cervical spine injuries, according to Dr. Gary Couture of the Couture Chiropractic Center. Dr. Couture recently stated that approximately 84 per cent of the cervical disorders he has studied were the result of auto crashes.

Dr. Gary Couture, D.C.

Only about 15 per cent of these crash injuries resulted from head-on or side collisions, he said.

"The amount of damage to the crashing auto is not a reliable indicator of the damage to the passengers," Dr. Couture noted. "Most cervical disorders start with sprains, and most sprains are caused by the action of the 8 to 12 pound human head as it snaps backward during a rear-end crash."

This head snapping action can produce an impressive variety of muscle tears, ligament stretching and damage to the backbone, particularly the fourth, fifth and sixth vertebrae, he added.

"The position of the head and the neck at the time the force is applied determines to some extent the site of the injury," Dr. Couture said. "The structures which are relaxed may receive less injury than those which are taut or on stretch."

Thus, injury in a side collision may be to the side of the neck opposite the impact. Side collisions cause a sudden lateral bending and rotation of the neck toward the side of the impact, and then to the opposite side.

Sprained or torn ligaments and capsules result in a traumatic inflammatory reaction with minute hemorrhages and continued, even prolonged, blood leakage, Dr. Couture said. The inflammation may persist for months or years.

"The eventual outcome is a reparative response, and injury results most often in scarring which is the usual residual of tissue damage," he said.

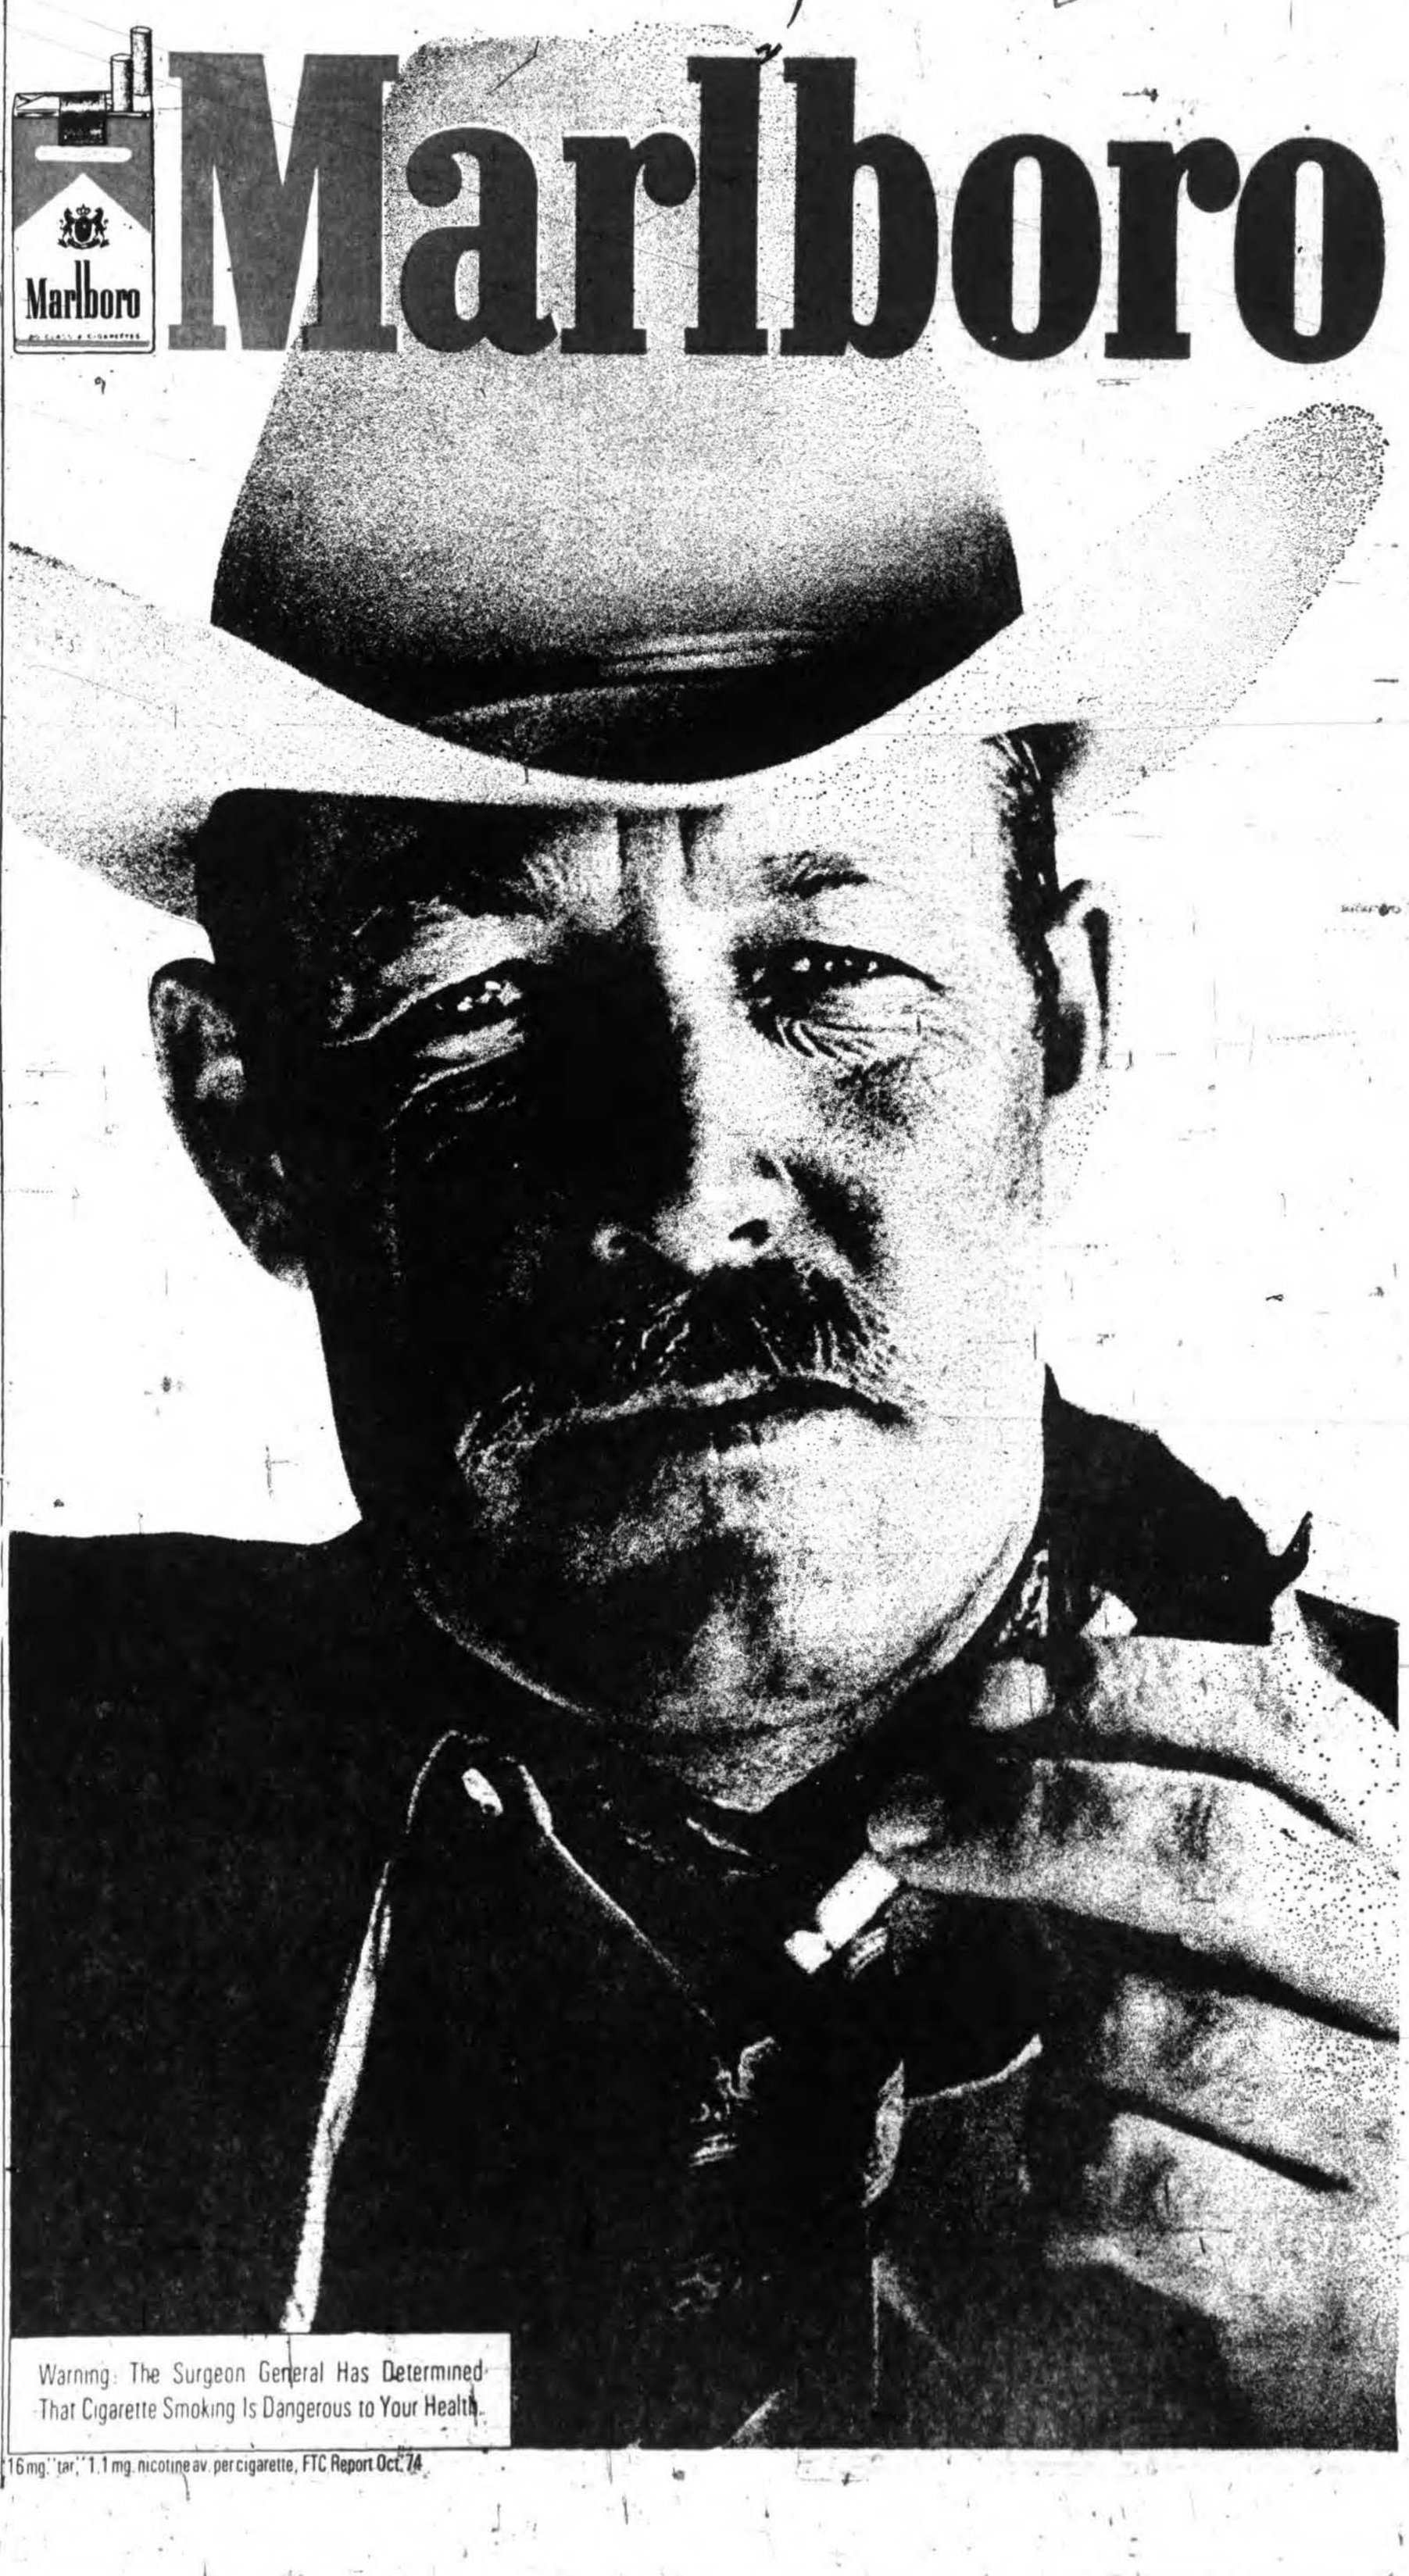

Tissue repair in the cervical area is slow, probably because of the meager blood supply. Under ideal circumstances, the usual healing time is six to eight weeks after injury, Dr. Couture said.

The scar tissue which forms is less elastic than normal tissue which means there may be continued neck stiffness, he said.

(Dr. Gary Couture, D.C., maintains Chiropractic Offices at 2043 Westcliff Drive, Suite 107, Newport Beach. Telephone 645-5300.)

AP Photo

Congressman Wilbur Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) acknowledged today he is an alcoholic but said he will stop drinking entirely and will stay in the House of Representatives.

Mills, who entered Bethesda Naval Hospital Dec. 3 for what was described as exhaustion, said in a statement released through the office of the House Ways and Means Committee:

"I ask the understanding of the members of Congress about what my tragic experience has been. I know that I am a well man as long as I do not drink and, by the grace of God and with competent medical advice, and the support of friends, I will remain well.

"In light of the above, it is my intention to continue in the Congress of the United States."

Mills, who has already announced he will not seek the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee which he headed for more than a decade and a half, said he realizes now his behavior of the past several months was not that of "the Wilbur Mills who has spent 36 years in Congress."

The behavior climaxed with an incident in Washington involving a stripper, Annabel Battistella, whom Mills said he had known for some time and with whom he later appeared on a Boston stage.

Mills said he did not understand at that time what was happening to him. Now, he said, he thinks "the fatigue and pressure built up by years of dedicated work" had a severe impact on him.

"During the past several years, and most especially in the last year, I had scarcely noticed that my drinking habits had changed perceptibly."

Mills has been at Bethesda since two days after he appeared on the Boston stage. He has been visited daily by his wife of 40 years, Polly. A spokesman for Mills said the congressman will remain at Bethesda until the new Congress convenes Jan. 14.

"I now realize, after several weeks of treatment by the doctors and soul-searching of my own, that I developed a severe drinking problem, not as a daily drinker but as a periodic heavy drinker. I did not know that this pattern corresponds with what is known as alcoholism. . ."

15,000 Hurt in Pakistan

PATTAN, Pakistan (AP) — The earthquake that hit northern Pakistan over the weekend killed an estimated 4,700 persons and injured about 15,000 in nine villages, rescue officials said today.

They said the final casualty toll could be even higher when reports arrive from isolated regions north of Pattan.

The villages were clustered about Pattan, nestled among the snow-capped Karakoram Mountains about 200 miles north of the Pakistani capital of Islamabad. The quake struck Saturday evening and tremors followed intermittently for 24 hours. First word of the disaster was brought out by runners.

The quake almost destroyed this village of 10,000, leaving hardly one house intact. Senior army officers taking part in rescue operations estimated 500 inhabitants of Pattan were dead, 2,000 injured and some 400 houses either completely or partially destroyed.

Army rescue teams have been working around the clock since shortly after the quake struck, treating the injured, pulling bodies from the wreckage and mounting a helicopter-borne mercy airlift. Two field hospitals have been set up.

Because of the widespread damage to houses, many people havpe been sleeping in the open in temperatures that drop to near freezing at night. Nearly every family has reported losing one or more relatives in the disaster.

Efforts to bring in more blankets and tents have been hampered because the Karakoram Highway, which runs through the disaster-struck region, has been either severed or demolished along a 70-mile stretch.

The highway, which runs from the Chinese border nearly to the Indus Plain in the center of the country, is the main artery through which vital commodities are brought into the poverty-stricken northern areas of the country.

Laguna Hills Family Eyes Storm Loss

Two bedroom ceilings soaked by the heavy rains collapsed, damaging bedroom furnishings, walls and carpeting at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Craig, 22392 Lombardi, in the Laguna Terrace neighborhood.

"We were having a room addition over the garage," said Mrs. Craig, her voice breaking.

"The remodeling people had put plastic over the part of the roof that had been cut away."

The plastic didn't hold.

At 5:20 a.m. Saturday and again at 8:50 a.m., Orange County firemen from Station 22 in Laguna Hills were called to pump water from the house.

Firemen were called a third time — at 10 a.m. — when the Craigs reported that two bedroom ceilings had crashed to the floor below.

The Craigs' 10-year-old son narrowly escaped injury when the plaster began to fall, exposing the rafters. He had just been led out of the room by his parents.

Mrs. Craig said the firm constructing the second-story family room has promised to repair the damage. Workers were at the house today, lifting the water-soaked carpeting from the two bedrooms and an adjoining den.

"The firemen were wonderful. I don't know what we would have done without them," she added.

Man, Wife Held

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Jefferson County police Sunday arrested a husband and wife who operated a suburban nursing home after two elderly inmates were found dead of apparent malnutrition. Arrested on charges of involuntary manslaughter were Donald Ray Morris, 35, and his wife, Loretta, 30, operators of the Morris Mini-Nursing Home.

Baby Death

Dabney Spouse Admits 'Wait'

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Jennifer Elizabeth Dabney admitted today for the second time in her trial that she decided not to take her dying baby to the doctor last June 1, "because he might ask questions about the bruises."

But the El Toro woman also made it clear as she completed her testimony in her Orange County Superior Court trial that she did not think that eight-month-old Robert Dabney was dying when she made that decision.

Her second statement brought Deputy District Attorney Pat Brian to his feet with another question for the defendant:

"You thought that despite the fact that you put your baby's face down in water after beating him, and despite the fact that mouth-to-mouth resuscitation failed to revive him?"

"I wish I could explain," the hesitant witness replied after a long pause. "I, uh, sort of hoped he wouldn't be that sick."

Deputy public defender Michael Beecher said he will now call psychiatrists to the witness stand to support his argument that Mrs. Dabney, 24, was of "diminished capacity" when she inflicted fatal injuries on her baby, one of twin sons.

Mrs. Dabney was arrested last June 1 when the child died in Childrens Hospital, Orange, from injuries she admitted in-

Sunny Skies Taking Over Along Coast

Clear, sunny and cool weather stayed on in Orange County today, leaving little trace of the weekend storm except for snow-capped Saddleback Mountain.

The sudden storm that arrived early Saturday dumped rain, hail and lightning on coastal cities and snow in the mountain areas. By Sunday afternoon skies were again clear and mountain routes were clogged with snow enthusiasts trying to reach the new white stuff.

Gusty winds were expected to blow into the Orange Coast region later today, sending temperatures into the low 60s. Gustier winds are expected for Tuesday, when highs may dip to the high 50s, forecasters predict lows may drop to the mid-30s.

Gusts between 15 and 25 miles per hour are anticipated below the canyons, with mountain areas due to receive northeast gusts up to 40 miles per hour.

Unless unforeseen weather conditions suddenly arise, forecasters are predicting fair weather for New Year's Day and the rest of the week.

Mountain areas throughout Southern California, including the local Saddleback Peak, were congested Sunday with visitors to the snow.

By noon Santiago Canyon Road, the main route to the coun-

Yule Tree Burn Slated

The Mission Viejo Jaycees will sponsor a Christmas tree bonfire at 8 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Jeronimo Road and Alicia Parkway in Mission Viejo.

Area residents are encouraged to leave their dried-out Christmas trees at the lot (directly across from the Burroughs Corporation plant) beginning Thursday afternoon.

Jaycees also plan to collect Christmas trees by circulating through the Mission Viejo area in a truck.

Laguna Hills Man Jailed

A Laguna Hills clothing store employe was jailed on charges of embezzlement during the weekend by Orange County Sheriff's deputies who said he now-and-again donned brand new clothing and walked out of the store wearing it.

Deputies said the value of the clothing allegedly stolen by salesman Raymond Patrick Harrington, 20, from the Pantry Clothing Store, 24242 Laguna Hills Mall, was about $226.

Officers said the clothing allegedly was taken by Harrington over a two-month period.

Fire Rages In Leisure World Area

A fire of unknown origin roared through a two-car garage behind a Laguna Hills Leisure World condominium complex Sunday night causing $17,000 damage, a county fire spokesman said today.

The fire broke out at about 10:15 p.m. in the garage behind the Ben Herron residence at 3296 San Amado in the retirement community.

Three fire engines, a paramedic team, rescue truck and 29 men from the El Toro and Laguna Hills fire stations responded to the blaze. It took about 25 minutes to control the fire, the spokesman said.

The flames destroyed a 1969 Oldsmobile, a fully outfitted machine shop and other storage items worth a total of $17,000.

The spokesman said the garage was a total loss and some damage was done to the residential building. Nobody was injured in the blaze.

2 Women Hunted In Home Thefts

Orange County Sheriff's deputies tried without success during the weekend to trace two women who visited a number of model homes in the Laguna Hills area and left with a brand new television set and other recently installed fittings.

Deputies said both women were seen running from a home at 30372 Via Corona shortly after officials at the recently completed tract discovered the theft of valuables.

Alaska Shaken

PALMER, Alaska (UPI) — Two moderate earthquakes shook a sparsely populated area of Alaska Sunday without causing any damage. The quakes, 12 hours apart and each measuring 4.8 on the Richter scale, were centered in a section north and northwest of Palmer.

Outage Hits Viejo Homes

A transformer failure Sunday morning left about 40 Mission Viejo homes without power for up to five hours.

Bud Jackley, area manager for Southern California Edison Company, said the power went off at 9:16 a.m. after a transformer failed.

Most of the 40 homes in the Aegean Hills neighborhood had service restored by 10:30 a.m. About 15 customers were without power until 2:27 p.m., Jackley said.

Plane Crash Kills Former POW

By ALAN DIRKIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The family members of an Air Force pilot, who had been attempting to restructure their lives after his return from Vietnam where he spent 6½ years as a POW, were left shattered today following the pilot's death in an air crash.

Mrs. Elaine Pyle of Irvine, wife of Maj. Darrel A. Pyle, flew to Alaska Sunday to be with her 9-year-old son, Phillip, who survived the crash that killed Maj. Pyle Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Pyle, a dental assistant, was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Howard Williams, of Tustin, while her father was attempting to find a military burial site for the Air Force pilot.

The crash occurred near Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage where Maj. Pyle and Phillip were returning in a small plane from a hunting trip.

It appeared today that Maj. Pyle's last act may have saved the life of his son who received only a cut over his eye in the crash. The crash occurred on a frozen lake in temperatures below zero, but Air Force officials said Phillip got out of the plane and walked about two miles to a farmhouse to call help. It took rescuers about 1½ hours to reach the wreckage, but Maj. Pyle died 15 minutes after being admitted to the Elemendorf base hospital.

Mrs. Pyle's sister, Miss Laurel Williams of Tustin, wondered today whether Maj. Pyle was conscious for a while after the crash.

"He might have told Phillip where to go for help," Miss Williams said. "Otherwise it seems more likely that the boy would have wandered around in circles in the snow and died. In any event, it must have been an ordeal for Phillip because he would have had to climb over his father to get out of the plane."

Phillip, who suffered mild frost bite, was still in Elemendorf base hospital today. He was reported in good condition.

Air Force officials reported that torches had to be used to extricate Maj. Pyle from the wreckage and that a fire broke out just after he was freed. Officials said he died in the hospital of multiple crash injuries and not from the burns.

Maj. Pyle was a prisoner of war from 1966 to March, 1973. He held the Legion of Merit, two Silver Stars, two Bronze Stars, the Air Force Commendation Medal and the Distinguished Flying Cross.

He had spent about six months at the Elmendorf base and had bought and was furnishing a home. Mrs. Pyle and Phillip had planned to join him when it was completed and the home in Irvine was sold.

Miss Williams said Phillip went up to the base to spend Christmas and New Year's with his father who loved hunting and fishing.

Miss Williams said Maj. Pyle had fitted pontoons and skis on the small Piper plane he bought.

Terrorists to Cuba

Hostages Free In Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nine terrorists today released hostages they held for 60 hours and flew off to Cuba with 16 sympathizers freed from Nicaraguan jails, officials said. The Roman Catholic archbishop of Managua went along to guarantee their safety.

A national guard officer at the airport said he believed but could not confirm that the Mexican and Spanish ambassadors and the papal nuncio in Managua also accompanied the terrorists to Cuba.

The break came only a couple of hours after the broadcast of a guerrilla demand that six points be met before noon or they would begin shooting one hostage every 12 hours. The government had said it would not allow the hostages — at least 13 men — to be taken to Havana.

Archbishop Miguel Ovando y Bravo was the first man out of the house where the hostages were held, followed by a man in plainclothes. A guerrilla wearing a stocking mask and pointing a rifle followed.

The group came out in single file and boarded a red and white tourist bus for the 15-mile drive to Managua's airport. They whipped through the airport to the end of the runway where the four-engine government-owned jet was waiting and 10 minutes later took off with a flight plan for Havana.

No details were available on whether the government met a $5 million ransom demand. A source close to the negotiations said the government agreed earlier to pay the ransom in small bills.

But later the five men and three women guerrillas made additional demands for salary increases for many workers, year-end salary bonuses, an end "to all repression" in Nicaragua.

The demands were broadcast over national radio.

Dabney will be sentenced Jan. 10 by Judge Kenneth E. Lac. He has reduced the charge against Mrs. Dabney from first to second-degree murder.

It has been repeatedly alleged during the trial that the couple's home in the Wherry housing sector of the El Toro base was splattered with human and animal excreta and littered with dirty dishes, moldy food, unwashed diapers and dirty clothing.

A taped confession in which Mrs. Dabney admitted beating and abusing Robert has been played back to the jury. It also contains her admission that she was responsible for the broken arm and injuries suffered on his twin brother, John.

John and a baby born to Mrs. Dabney while she was in Orange County Jail awaiting trial have been removed from her custody and will be made available for adoption, authorities said.

Mazda Sales Sag; Irvine Move Studied

By DOUGLAS FRITZSCHE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Sagging sales of rotary engine imports reportedly may prevent Mazda Motors of America from moving into the firm's new headquarters building in Irvine.

A corporate official said last weekend that a decision will be made next month on whether to move the firm's headquarters from the present location in Compton.

The $6 million building at Von Karman Avenue and Main Street is complete and ready to be occupied, said an Irvine Industrial Complex spokesman.

He said, however, that "things are up in the air at this time."

Mazda offices are closed for the holidays and other executives could not be contacted for comment.

In June 1973, when a groundbreaking was held for the four-story, 130,000-square-foot building, sales of the novel rotary engine cars were strong.

In the meantime, federal Environmental Protection Agency tests indicated that the engines were not markedly more efficient or less polluting than their piston-driven counterparts.

Sales, the Mazda executive said, are down. He said, however, that the firm may go ahead with the expensive move in an effort to boost the morale of Mazda dealers.

Corporate plans for the Irvine site call for a 150,000-square-foot parts warehouse for Mazda's western operations as well as a 300,000-square-foot national parts depot.

Ruby Keeler Improving

Ruby Keeler, the tap dancing star of the 1920's who calls Laguna Beach her home, was reported improving today at a Great Falls, Mont., hospital.

Miss Keeler, 64, underwent brain surgery Nov. 25 to repair a weakened blood vessel.

A spokesman for Columbus Hospital said the Irvine Cove resident is now listed in satisfactory condition. The spokesman did not say how long she would remain in the hospital.

Plutonium Ban?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid reports that the government cannot account for some plutonium, Rep. Les Aspin (D-Wis.), said today he will seek a five-year ban on plutonium recycling to allow time for safeguards to protect the material from possible theft and use in homemade atomic weapons.

Enrollment Climb Set at Saddleback

Saddleback College's campaign to bolster its enrollment appears to be succeeding, according to figures released today.

One measure of success is that the college in Mission Viejo will have an enrollment during the winter quarter starting Thursday greater than the enrollment during the fall quarter.

Community colleges throughout the state normally experience an enrollment decline between fall and winter quarters.

That figure does not include students who will be signing up this week and next for more than 192 off-campus offerings, said Dan Armstrong, the college's community services and information director.

Courses will be conducted in Tustin, San Clemente, Irvine, Laguna Beach and Dana Point so that part-time students will not have to drive to the main campus.

The enrollment figure also does not include students who will be taking three television courses that will appear on KABC (Channel 7), KCET (Channel 28) and KOCE (Channel 50). The courses are "Law for the '70s," "The Ascent of Man" and "Yoga."

College officials have been trying to make Saddleback — now in its seventh year of operation — more attractive to students.

College enrollment jumped nearly 1,600 students from the 1973 fall quarter to the 1974 fall quarter, bringing a total of 6,400 students to Saddleback.

The college has been anxious to garner as much additional enrollment as possible to earn a more favorable position for state money to aid in new campus construction projects.

There are now plans to construct a music-arts complex, a gymnasium, physical education facilities, a campus road and additional parking within the next two years.

Other permanent facilities are planned in future years, to replace temporary facilities now in use.

Respiratory Outpatient Course Set

The fourth class in the Saddleback Community Hospital respiratory outpatient teaching program is scheduled as a series from [illegible] to 2:30 p.m. Jan. 6, 8, 13 and [illegible].

Pat Dunlap, R.N., respiratory home care coordinator, said respiratory outpatients wanting to attend the series may make reservations by calling 837-4500, extension 285.

Instruction and demonstrations will cover how the lungs work, postural drainage, bronchial hygiene, breathing exercises, body-improvement exercises, nutrition and breathing, inhalation therapy, oxygen therapy and care and cleaning of equipment.

Climb Seen In Welfare

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Welfare rolls are climbing again after more than a year of steady decline, according to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Also increasing is the amount of money going to welfare families, which has increased steadily even while the number of persons on welfare was declining, the federal agency said Sunday.

Ohio State's Band to Play At Safari

The Ohio State University marching band will perform Thursday at Lion Country Safari in Irvine.

A special selection of appropriate numbers, "Elephant Walk" and "Talk to the Animals" will be added to the 250-member band's repertoire for a 50-minute outdoor concert at the entertainment areas of the African wildlife preserve.

The single performance is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

A Lion Country spokesman said baby elephants will roam among the musicians during the "Elephant Walk" number and predicted "a few surprises" during the "Talk to the Animals" song.

The Ohio State band is in Southern California to support its football team in the Rose Ball contest against USC New Year's day. Following the Lion Country performance, the band will depart for Columbus Ohio.

Only 1 Hopeful Revealed

With only three business days until the filing deadline, there is only one official candidate for the five seats on the Saddleback Valley Unified School District board of trustees.

Of the dozen who have taken out papers so far, only Cyrus Woodel of El Toro, a Los Angeles County deputy sheriff, has returned them to make his candidacy official.

Interested residents have until 5 p.m. Friday to turn in their papers to the Registrar of Voters in Santa Ana.

At stake are all five seats on the board. Top three vote-getters will serve four-year terms and the fourth and fifth-place winners will serve two years beginning April 1.

Besides Woodel, residents who have taken out papers include Chester Briner, incumbent; Robert Brumfiel, a dentist; George Henry, incumbent; Preston Howell, retired minister; William Kohler, an insurance agent.

Also, Carole Neustadt, mental health coordinator; Mary Phillips, PTA leader and housewife; Elinor Kemper, a retired school administrator; Dennis Smith, incumbent; Ray Skony, a private investigator, and Loa Young, PTA leader and housewife.

In the race for three seats on the Saddleback College board of trustees, only the three incumbents, Donna Berry, Norrisa Brandt and Larry Taylor, have turned in papers.

Police Seek Knife Waver

Orange County Sheriff's deputies were called to a Laguna Hills restaurant over the weekend when the manager was threatened at knifepoint by a patron who had been accused of stealing bar glasses.

Deputies said the suspect, who fled from the scene before officers arrived, used a pocket knife to intimidate manager Aladdin Partovi, 33, of Don Jose restuarant, 23972 Avenida de la Carlotta.

They said Partovi was also punched by the suspect who dragged the manager from the restaurant to the entranceway during the fracas.

Mills Admits He's Alcoholic

'I'M AN ALCOHOLIC'
Congressman Wilbur Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) acknowledged today he is an alcoholic but said he will stop drinking entirely and will stay in the House of Representatives.

Mills, who entered Bethesda Naval Hospital Dec. 3 for what was described as exhaustion, said in a statement released through the office of the House Ways and Means Committee:

"I ask the understanding of the members of Congress about what my tragic experience has been. I know that I am a well man as long as I do not drink and, by the grace of God and with competent medical advice, and the support of friends, I will remain well.

"In light of the above, it is my intention to continue in the Congress of the United States."

Mills, who has already announced he will not seek the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee which he headed for more than a decade and a half, said he realizes now his behavior of the past several months was not that of "the Wilbur Mills who has spent 36 years in Congress."

The behavior climaxed with an incident in Washington involving a stripper, Annabel Battistella, whom Mills said he had known for some time and with whom he later appeared on a Boston stage.

Mills said he did not understand at that time what was happening to him. Now, he said, he thinks "the fatigue and pressure built up by years of dedicated work" had a severe impact on him.

"During the past several years, and most especially in the last year, I had scarcely noticed that my drinking habits had changed perceptibly."

Mills has been at Bethesda since two days after he appeared on the Boston stage. He has been visited daily by his wife of 40 years, Polly. A spokesman for Mills said the congressman will remain at Bethesda until the new Congress convenes Jan. 14.

"I now realize, after several weeks of treatment by the doctors and soul-searching of my own, that I developed a severe drinking problem, not as a daily drinker but as a periodic heavy drinker. I did not know that this pattern corresponds with what is known as alcoholism. . .

I have come to a full understanding that alcoholism is a disease from which people by the thousands have recovered," Mills said, pledging "total abstinence."

Head Blow Said Fatal For Fetus

A deputy county coroner whose testimony was flatly contradicted in a special pretrial hearing today told an Orange County Superior Court jury that a massive head injury undoubtedly caused the death of a Fountain Valley woman's unborn child.

Dr. Warren Bostick of the UC Irvine School of Medicine testified for the prosecution that he was "perfectly satisfied" that a blood clot created by that head injury led to the death of the fetus delivered stillborn by Mrs. Consuelo Berber, 20.

It is alleged by the prosecution that blows delivered to Mrs. Berber's abdomen by defendant Lorenzo Villareal De La Rosa, 23, were responsible for the death of a previously healthy fetus that was in its ninth month at the time of the incident.

De La Rosa is being tried for murder in a case that is unique to Orange County Superior Court history.

Mrs. Berber has testified that she and the defendant, with whom she once lived in a common-law relationship, quarreled last July 10 at her mother's home in Fountain Valley over De La Rosa's right to see a son born of their relationship.

She told the jury that she called

Balloonists Preparing For Flight

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
of the Daily Pilot Staff

Adventurers Malcolm Forbes and Dr. Thomas Heinsheimer were scheduled today to begin inflating the 13 helium balloons they hope will take them on a record-breaking flight over the United States and the Atlantic.

The balloons require a full four days of inflation with helium gas before they are wheeled out of the blimp hangar at the Marine Corps Air Station in Santa Ana.

Weather and flight conditions permitting, the millionaire magazine publisher and his scientist companion will lift off from the base at 4 a.m. Thursday.

Originally the two men were to be carried aloft by an aggregate of 12 balloons arranged in four tiers but a 13th was added, not for luck, but for sound scientific reasons.

The 13th gas-filled bag will be attached at the very top of the craft and quite literally serve as a trial balloon.

It will be inflated to a greater degree than the others and its purpose is to serve as a pressure relief mechanism for the other 12 in the stack.

If it breaks, it will not endanger the flight or the other balloons but bring the $700,000 vehicle down to a safer altitude where the pressure exerted on the balloons is not as great.

Quake Disaster

Pakistan Fears 4,700 Dead

PATTAN, Pakistan (AP) — The earthquake that hit northern Pakistan over the weekend killed an estimated 4,700 persons and injured about 15,000 in nine villages, rescue officials said today.

They said the final casualty toll could be even higher when reports arrive from isolated regions north of Pattan.

The villages were clustered about Pattan, nestled among the snow-capped Karakoram Mountains about 200 miles north of the Pakistani capital of Islamabad.

The quake struck Saturday evening and tremors followed intermittently for 24 hours. First word of the disaster was brought out by runners.

The quake almost destroyed this village of 10,000, leaving hardly one house intact. Senior army officers taking part in rescue operations estimated 500 inhabitants of Pattan were dead, 2,000 injured and some 400 houses either completely or partially destroyed.

Army rescue teams have been working around the clock since shortly after the quake struck, treating the injured, pulling bodies from the wreckage and mounting a helicopter-borne mercy airlift. Two field hospitals have been set up.

Because of the widespread damage to houses, many people havpe been sleeping in the open in temperatures that drop to near freezing at night. Nearly every family has reported losing one or more relatives in the disaster.

Blue Skies Come Back To County

Clear, sunny and cool weather stayed on in Orange County today, leaving little trace of the weekend storm except for snow-capped Saddleback Mountain.

The sudden storm that arrived early Saturday dumped rain, hail and lightning on coastal cities and snow in the mountain areas. By Sunday afternoon skies were again clear and mountain routes were clogged with snow enthusiasts trying to reach the new white stuff.

Gusty winds were expected to blow into the Orange Coast region later today, sending temperatures into the low 60s. Gustier winds are expected for Tuesday, when highs may dip to the high 50s, forecasters predict lows may drop to the mid-30s.

Gusts between 15 and 25 miles per hour are anticipated below the canyons, with mountain areas due to receive northeast gusts up to 40 miles per hour.

Unless unforeseen weather conditions suddenly arise, forecasters are predicting fair weather for New Year's Day and the rest of the week.

Mountain areas throughout Southern California, including the local Saddleback Peak, were congested Sunday with visitors to the snow.

By noon Santiago Canyon Road, the main route to the county's snow, was closed due to heavy traffic, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Snow was reported as low as the 2,500-foot level in Orange County, with snow flurries at even lower levels, including Ortega Highway east of San Juan Capistrano.

Skiers going into the San Bernardino and San Gabriel Mountains were caught in mammoth traffic tie-ups, too, authorities reported.

Baby Death

Dabney Spouse Admits 'Wait'

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Jennifer Elizabeth Dabney admitted today for the second time in her trial that she decided not to take her dying baby to the doctor last June 1, "because he might ask questions about the bruises."

But the El Toro woman also made it clear as she completed her testimony in her Orange County Superior Court trial that she did not think that eight-month-old Robert Dabney was dying when she made that decision.

Her second statement brought Deputy District Attorney Pat Brian to his feet with another question for the defendant:

"You thought that despite the fact that you put your baby's face down in water after beating him, and despite the fact that mouth-to-mouth resuscitation failed to revive him?"

"I wish I could explain," the hesitant witness replied after a long pause. "I, uh, sort of hoped he wouldn't be that sick."

Deputy public defender Michael Beecher said he will now call psychiatrists to the witness stand to support his argument that Mrs. Dabney, 24, was of "diminished capacity" when she inflicted fatal injuries on her baby, one of twin sons.

Mrs. Dabney was arrested last June 1 when the child died in Childrens Hospital, Orange, from injuries she admitted inflicting during the 24 proceding hours.

Dabney will be sentenced Jan. 10 by Judge Kenneth E. Lee. He has reduced the charge against Mrs. Dabney from first to second-degree murder.

It has been repeatedly alleged during the trial that the couple's home in the Wherry housing sector of the El Toro base was splattered with human and animal excreta and littered with dirty dishes, moldy food, unwashed diapers and dirty clothing.

A taped confession in which Mrs. Dabney admitted beating and abusing Robert has been played back to the jury. It also contains her admission that she was responsible for the broken arm and injuries suffered on his twin brother, John.

John and a baby born to Mrs. Dabney while she was in Orange County Jail awaiting trial have been removed from her custody and will be made available for adoption, authorities said.

Mazda Irvine Move Periled by Slump?

By DOUGLAS FRITZSCHE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Sagging sales of rotary engine imports reportedly may prevent Mazda Motors of America from moving into the firm's new headquarters building in Irvine.

A corporate official said last weekend that a decision will be made next month on whether to move the firm's headquarters from the present location in Compton.

The $6 million building at Von Karman Avenue and Main Street is complete and ready to be occupied, said an Irvine Industrial Complex spokesman.

He said, however, that "things are up in the air at this time."

Mazda offices are closed for the holidays and other executives could not be contacted for comment.

In June 1973, when a groundbreaking was held for the four-story, 130,000-square-foot building, sales of the novel rotary engine cars were strong.

In the meantime, federal Environmental Protection Agency tests indicated that the engines were not markedly more efficient or less polluting than their piston-driven counterparts.

Sales, the Mazda executive said, are down. He said, however, that the firm may go ahead with the expensive move in an effort to boost the morale of Mazda dealers.

Corporate plans for the Irvine site call for a 150,000-square-foot parts warehouse for Mazda's western operations as well as a 300,000-square-foot national parts depot.

Terrorists to Cuba

Hostages Free In Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nine terrorists today released hostages they held for 60 hours and flew off to Cuba with 16 sympathizers freed from Nicaraguan jails, officials said. The Roman Catholic archbishop of Managua went along to guarantee their safety.

A national guard officer at the airport said he believed but could not confirm that the Mexican and Spanish ambassadors and the papal nuncio in Managua also accompanied the terrorists to Cuba.

The break came only a couple of hours after the broadcast of a guerrilla demand that six points be met before noon or they would begin shooting one hostage every 12 hours. The government had said it would not allow the hostages — at least 13 men — to be taken to Havana.

Archbishop Miguel Ovando y Bravo was the first man out of the house where the hostages were held, followed by a man in plainclothes. A guerrilla wearing a stocking mask and pointing a rifle followed.

The group came out in single file and boarded a red and white tourist bus for the 15-mile drive to Managua's airport. They whipped through the airport to the end of the runway where the four-engine government-owned jet was waiting and 10 minutes later took off with a flight plan for Havana.

No details were available on whether the government met a $5 million ransom demand. A source close to the negotiations said the government agreed earlier to pay the ransom in small bills.

But later the five men and three women guerrillas made additional demands for salary increases for many workers, year-end salary bonuses, an end "to all repression" in Nicaragua.

The demands were broadcast over national radio.

Oil Firm Fined for Donation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ashland Oil Corp. was fined $25,000 today for unlawful corporate donations to political candidates and organizations in 1970 and 1972 — including one said to have been delivered to Robert L. Strauss, now the Democratic national chairman.

The Kentucky-based firm pleaded guilty to each of five misdemeanor counts in surprise information brought by the Watergate special prosecutor's office. Chief U.S. District Judge George L. Hart imposed the maximum $5,000 fine on each count.

Strauss later issued a statement saying he was pleased that "the record clearly reflects that there was no knowledge on the part of anyone at the Democratic National Committee that these gifts were corporate.

"As a matter of fact," he added, "They were clearly represented as being the gifts of individual executives."

One count said an Ashland representative turned over $50,000 in cash to Strauss between June 1970 and February 1972 for use by the Democratic National Committee. Strauss was then treasurer of the party organization.

The other charges were based on unlawful contributions of $6,865 to campaign committees for Democratic Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in 1970 and 1972, $100,000 to various committees for Senate and House candidates in early 1972, $2,500 to the re-election campaign of Republican Sen. John Tower of Texas in 1972, and $10,000 for the unsuccessful Senate race of Kentucky Republican Louis B. Nunn in that year.

An attorney for Ashland said the fine would be paid personally by the corporation's chairman, Orin E. Atkins, who in 1973 pleaded no contest and was fined $1,000 individually on charges of making unlawful donations to the re-election campaign of former President Nixon. Ashland was fined $5,000 at that time.

It was the first illegal contribution uncovered by Watergate prosecutors involving the Democratic party.

There have been previous violations involving individual Democratic candidates.

A Watergate prober added that even though Atkins and other Ashland officials withheld information from the prosecutors in 1973 concerning the other gifts, he was departing from usual policy and would file no further charges against Atkins.

In an accompanying appendix, Ruth indicated the prosecutors had been misled by Fred. M. Vinson, son of the former Supreme Court justice and the lawyer who represented Ashland at the time of its guilty plea last year.

Mexican Violence Flares Up

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Troops have been posted to protect a small Mexican community after a Mexican citizen was killed when he and others rushed to put out a fire at a meeting of an American religious colony.

Capt. Francisco Kraus Morales, head of the Baja, Calif., State Judicial Police unit at Ensenada, Mexico, said Edmundo Aguilar, 24, died in a hospital late Saturday of gunshot wounds.

Aguilar was one of 13 people hospitalized from gunshot wounds they received when they rushed to fight the fire at a meeting of Church of the First Born of the Fullness of Time in Los Molinos, about 16 miles south of the American border.

Authorities said the shootings were related to an internal dispute amohng church members. They said that as members of the sect gathered in a house, someone drove past and threw a home-made bomb through a window, setting the house on fire.

Neighbors rushed to put out the blaze, but as they did, those who set the fire shot into the crowd with rifles and shotguns, police said.

Kraus Morales said residents of Los Molinos have identified "at least two members" of the sect who had done the shootings and that they were believed to be hiding in the San Diego area.

Kraus Morales said the guard was posted because, "All the residents are extremely frightened and we believe their fear is well-founded."

During a shooting involving the sect in 1972 Widmar, an official of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, said the sect was excommunicated from the church because it practiced polygamy.

He said the sect, founded in 1955, split in 1972 over doctrines of leadership and interpretation of the Book of Mormon.

Mexican authorities had asked the FBI to aid the search for members of the sect. Some members of the colony live in Southern California and "we are sure they are on the American side of the border," a Mexican police official said.

Enrollment Climb Set at Saddleback

Saddleback College's campaign to bolster its enrollment appears to be succeeding, according to figures released today.

One measure of success is that the college in Mission Viejo will have an enrollment during the winter quarter starting Thursday greater than the enrollment during the fall quarter.

Community colleges throughout the state normally experience an enrollment decline between fall and winter quarters.

That figure does not include students who will be signing up this week and next for more than 192 off-campus offerings, said Dan Armstrong, the college's community services and information director.

Courses will be conducted in Tustin, San Clemente, Irvine, Laguna Beach and Dana Point so that part-time students will not have to drive to the main campus.

The enrollment figure also does not include students who will be taking three television courses that will appear on KABC (Channel 7), KCET (Channel 28) and KOCE (Channel 50). The courses are "Law for the '70s," "The Ascent of Man" and "Yoga."

College officials have been trying to make Saddleback — now in its seventh year of operation — more attractive to students.

College enrollment jumped nearly 1,600 students from the 1973 fall quarter to the 1974 fall quarter, bringing a total of 6,400 students to Saddleback.

The college has been anxious to garner as much additional enrollment as possible to earn a more favorable position for state money to aid in new campus construction projects.

There are now plans to construct a music-arts complex, a gymnasium, physical education facilities, a campus road and additional parking within the next two years.

Other permanent facilities are planned in future years, to replace temporary facilities now in use.

Liquid oxygen and nitrogren tanks mounted on its cross arms will provide the two aeronauts with breathable air at their 40,000 foot cruising altitude. Carbon dioxide given off will be removed by lithium batteries.

The cramped living environment has forced numerous deletions of luxuries in the capsule, including a heater. But the men say they won't freeze because they can generate enough heat from their bodies and from equipment carried aboard. That, plus the insulating properties of the capsule are expected to keep temperatures between 40 and 80 degrees.

Carried inside the capsule, however, are four navigation systems which will be used to pinpoint the "Windborne's" position within 20 miles. Forbes' own DC-9, named "Capitalist Tool" will serve as a mobile flight operations center.

Forbes and Heinsheimer will have a variety of food from which to choose on their four to seven-day flight, including beef and gravy, hot dogs, salami, ham, dried beef and pork, cheese, peanut butter and jelly, nuts, fortified cake, cereal bars, and specially baked bread.

Personal hygiene items include towelettes, a wind-up shaver, and a special chewing gum for cleaning teeth. Urine will be collected in containers during the day and dumped at night. Solid wastes will be treated with germicide and deodorants and stored in sealed containers until the landing.

Miss Williams said Maj. Pyle had fitted pontoons and skis on the small Piper plane he bought. "I understand that he had taken Phillip skiing on one trip and that they were returning from hunting caribou when the crash occurred."

Air safety investigators told them that Phillip said that the carburetor iced up. The plane suddenly turned and went straight down.

Miss Williams said no funeral arrangements had been made yet because of difficulty in finding a military cemetery with a vacant plot in Southern California.

Mrs. Berber said she was immediately stricken by severe cramps and was told by the doctor who attended her that he could no longer detect signs of life in the fetus. It was delivered dead July 22.

Defense attorney Norbert Bunt said he will again call to the stand Dr. Kurt Bernischke, a German-born pathologist who refutes Dr. Bostick's theory and states that the child did not die as the result of the blows.

"A child in the womb can live without a head, since it breathes through and draws nourishment from the mother," Dr. Bernischke earlier testified in Judge Walter Charamza's courtroom.

In that sense, the defense witness earlier testified, it would not have been possible for a blow of any description to cause the death of Mrs. Berber's unborn child.

Police Sue Huntington on Work Week

By TERRY COVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The 170-member Huntington Beach Police Officers Association has filed a Superior Court suit against the city to determine if police detectives should work a four-day or five-day week.

About 25 detectives returned to a standard, eight-hours-per-day, five-day week last September after Police Chief Earle Robitaille decided the 10-hours-per-day, four-day week was ineffective.

The police association, in its suit filed Dec. 6, claims the four-day work week was part of the three-year contract negotiated in 1972.

Robitaille said today the contract gives him the authority to determine if and when such a four-day work week should be employed.

Orange County Superior Court Judge Mark Soden has set a Jan. 14 hearing date to settle the issue.

The four-day week, referred to as the "four-ten plan," was installed by Robitaille in late 1969 for patrol officers, then expanded on an experimental basis a year later for all members of the department.

He said the system is effective for patrol functions because it overlaps shifts, placing more police manpower on the streets during peak crime time, such as the evening hours.

But he said the four-ten plan proved a failure for administrators, detectives and other non-patrol employes because it created greater communication gaps and less productivity.

The chief said the decision was made several months ago to put detectives and administrators back on a standard week and all were given about five months advance notice on it.

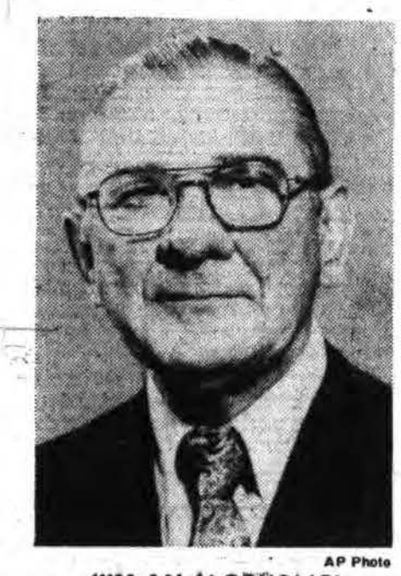

"We didn't have any complaints when we gave notice," Robitaille said today. "I don't think the suit is necessarily the sentiment of all the detectives. It only takes one or two complaints to get such action."

The department has 170 sworn officers and a total of 252 employes. Robitaille said about 110 to 115 people are now on the four-ten plan, all connected with patrol functions.

In addition to detectives, all administrators are now back to a five-day week.

Mills Admits He's Alcoholic

'I'M AN ALCOHOLIC'
Congressman Wilbur Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) acknowledged today he is an alcoholic but said he will stop drinking entirely and will stay in the House of Representatives.

Mills, who entered Bethesda Naval Hospital Dec. 3 for what was described as exhaustion, said in a statement released through the office of the House Ways and Means Committee:

"I ask the understanding of the members of Congress about what my tragic experience has been. I know that I am a well man as long as I do not drink and, by the grace of God and with competent medical advice, and the support of friends, I will remain well.

"In light of the above, it is my intention to continue in the Congress of the United States."

Mills, who has already announced he will not seek the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee which he headed for more than a decade and a half, said he realizes now his behavior of the past several months was not that of "the Wilbur Mills who has spent 36 years in Congress."

The behavior climaxed with an incident in Washington involving a stripper, Annabel Battistella, whom Mills said he had known for some time and with whom he later appeared on a Boston stage.

Mills said he did not understand at that time what was happening to him. Now, he said, he thinks "the fatigue and pressure built up by years of dedicated work" had a severe impact on him.

"During the past several years, and most especially in the last year, I had scarcely noticed that my drinking habits had changed perceptibly."

Mills has been at Bethesda since two days after he appeared on the Boston stage. He has been visited daily by his wife of 40 years, Polly. A spokesman for Mills said the congressman will remain at Bethesda until the new Congress convenes Jan. 14.

-Head Blow Said Fatal For Fetus

A deputy county coroner whose testimony was flatly contradicted in a special pretrial hearing today told an Orange County Superior Court jury that a massive head injury undoubtedly caused the death of a Fountain Valley woman's unborn child.

Dr. Warren Bostick of the UC Irvine School of Medicine testified for the prosecution that he was "perfectly satisfied" that a blood clot created by that head injury led to the death of the fetus delivered stillborn by Mrs. Consuelo Berber, 20.

It is alleged by the prosecution that blows delivered to Mrs. Berber's abdomen by defendant Lorenzo Villareal De La Rosa, 23, were responsible for the death of a previously healthy fetus that was in its ninth month at the time of the incident.

De La Rosa is being tried for murder in a case that is unique to Orange County Superior Court history.

Mrs. Berber has testified that she and the defendant, with whom she once lived in a common-law relationship, quarreled last July 10 at her mother's home in Fountain Valley over De La Rosa's right to see a son born of their relationship.

She told the jury that she called her husband "a bastard" after he struck her and that he immediately delivered another blow to her abdomen.

Mrs. Berber said she was immediately stricken by severe cramps and was told by the doctor who attended her that he could no longer detect signs of life in the fetus. It was delivered dead July 22.

Balloonists Preparing For Flight

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
of the Daily Pilot Staff

Adventurers Malcolm Forbes and Dr. Thomas Heinsheimer were scheduled today to begin inflating the 13 helium balloons they hope will take them on a record-breaking flight over the United States and the Atlantic.

The balloons require a full four days of inflation with helium gas before they are wheeled out of the blimp hangar at the Marine Corps Air Station in Santa Ana.

Weather and flight conditions permitting, the millionaire magazine publisher and his scientist companion will lift off from the base at 4 a.m. Thursday.

Originally the two men were to be carried aloft by an aggregate of 12 balloons arranged in four tiers but a 13th was added, not for luck, but for sound scientific reasons.

The 13th gas-filled bag will be attached at the very top of the craft and quite literally serve as a trial balloon.

It will be inflated to a greater degree than the others and its purpose is to serve as a pressure relief mechanism for the other 12 in the stack.

If it breaks, it will not endanger the flight or the other balloons but bring the $700,000 vehicle down to a safer altitude where the pressure exerted on the balloons is not as great.

Attached to the balloons is a Mylar-covered gondola, described by Forbes as "smaller than a jail cell" in which the two men will live for the duration of the 6,000-mile flight.

The cabin is capable of floating and carries a sponge at the bottom to pick up water and serve as a keel if the craft lands in water.

Liquid oxygen and nitrogren tanks mounted on its cross-arms will provide the two aeronauts with breathable air at their 40,000 foot cruising altitude. Carbon dioxide given off will be removed by lithium batteries.

Sale Seen Of Freeway Site Land

The state may start unloading $7.6 million worth of property it owns in Huntington Beach and Fountain Valley sometime during the first six months of 1975.

Just how the California Department of Transportation will sell, trade or give away the land, or exactly when, is still undetermined, according to several Cal Trans officials.

The state-owned property is land which lies in the path of the once-proposed, but now demised, Route 39 (Huntington Beach) Freeway.

Transportation officials declared last March there wasn't enough money to include the freeway on their 20-year master plan. The importance of the Huntington Beach route was also diminished when the Pacific Coast Freeway was abandoned.

Hal Richards, assistant secretary to the California Highway Commission, said this week the commission is expected to officially kill the freeway route within the next three months.

The commission's formal action is necessary to allow Cal Trans to dispose of the right-of-way property it has already bought, and to clear the cloud hanging over the future of other property along the freeway route, Richards said.

Dick Friedman, an information specialist with the transportation department, said

Quake Disaster

Pakistan Fears 4,700 Dead

PATTAN, Pakistan (AP) — The earthquake that hit northern Pakistan over the weekend killed an estimated 4,700 persons and injured about 15,000 in nine villages, rescue officials said today.

They said the final casualty toll could be even higher when reports arrive from isolated regions north of Pattan.

The villages were clustered about Pattan, nestled among the snow-capped Karakoram Mountains about 200 miles north of the Pakistani capital of Islamabad.

The quake struck Saturday evening and tremors followed intermittently for 24 hours. First word of the disaster was brought out by runners.

The quake almost destroyed this village of 10,000, leaving hardly one house intact. Senior army officers taking part in rescue operations estimated 500 inhabitants of Pattan were dead, 2,000 injured and some 400 houses either completely or partially destroyed.

Army rescue teams have been working around the clock since shortly after the quake struck, treating the injured, pulling bodies from the wreckage and mounting a helicopter-borne mercy airlift. Two field hospitals have been set up.

Because of the widespread damage to houses, many people have been sleeping in the open in temperatures that drop to near freezing at night. Nearly every family has reported losing one or more relatives in the disaster.

Efforts to bring in more blankets and tents have been

Police Nab Suspect in Robbery

A youth who ignored a bandit's warning to "split" moments before a Huntington Beach robbery gave police a description of the getaway car which led to the arrest of a suspect and two companions Sunday.

The bandit, wearing a white bandana and threatening to shoot, took $98 from Fred Siqueido of the Liberty Park Liquor Store, 17685 Beach Blvd., about 7:30 p.m.

In Huntington Beach jail today on charges of suspicion of robbery and possession of stolen property is Dennis Mark White, 23, 592 Frontier Circle, Huntington Beach.

Arrested on the same charges with White were Rudolfo Espinoza, 22, 5121 Dunbar St., Huntington Beach, and Norman William Janisse, 26, 2150 Canyon Drive, Costa Mesa. They also are in Huntington Beach jail.

White matched the description of the suspect who reportedly told three youths outside the liquor store "they'd better split because he was going to hold up the place," police said.

One of the youngsters ignored the advice, however, and stayed long enough to identify the bandit's car. He described the car to police, who found it and the suspects two hours later at The Beehive bar, 6431 Edinger Ave., Huntington Beach.

As officers entered the bar, a man later identified as White ran to the restroom and attempted to leave by a back door, police said.

Companion Hurt

Valley Youth Dies In Auto Smashup

A 16-year-old Fountain Valley youth was killed and a companion critically injured as their car skidded on rain-slickened streets into a telephone pole in north Fountain Valley Saturday.

Paul Capito of 9910 Dahlia Circle was pronounced dead at 10:52 p.m. at Fountain Valley Community Hospital, two hours after the crash at Heil Avenue and Sandalwood Street.

A report from the Fountain Valley rescue squad also gives no details on their condition, other than that both victims were breathing on their own after some medical assistance.

Police described the car as "wrapped around the telephone pole." The car apparently collided with the pole on Capito's side.

The young driver was attempting a turn from Heil onto Sandalwood at a high speed, police said. The speed plus a street slickened by the day's rains apparently caused the car to skid, according to police.

A rosary service will be held tonight for Capito, the son of Francis and Antonia Capito, at 7:30 p.m. at Peek Family Colonial Funeral Home, Westminster.

Mass will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Saint Barbara Catholic Church in Santa Ana, and burial at Good Shepherd Cemetery, Huntington Beach.

Capito, a La Quinta high school student, leaves his parents; brother Michael; sister Karen; stepmother Ruby Capito; grandparents Paul and Matilda Capito.

He had lived in Orange County two years.

Sunny Skies Taking Over Along Coast

Clear, sunny and cool weather stayed on in Orange County today, leaving little trace of the weekend storm except for snow-capped Saddleback Mountain.

The sudden storm that arrived early Saturday dumped rain, hail and lightning on coastal cities and snow in the mountain areas. By Sunday afternoon skies were again clear and mountain routes were clogged with snow enthusiasts trying to reach the new white stuff.

Gusty winds were expected to blow into the Orange Coast region later today, sending temperatures into the low 60s. Gustier winds are expected for Tuesday, when highs may dip to the high 50s, forecasters predict lows may drop to the mid-30s.

Gusts between 15 and 25 miles per hour are anticipated below the canyons, with mountain areas due to receive northeast gusts up to 40 miles per hour.

Unless unforeseen weather conditions suddenly arise, forecasters are predicting fair weather for New Year's Day and the rest of the week.

Mountain areas throughout Southern California, including the local Saddleback Peak, were congested Sunday with visitors to the snow.

IRS Calling

Harper PTA Contacted

The Harper PTA in Fountain Valley finally has heard from officials of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Alan Wessa said an IRS official telephoned to try to straighten out the PTA's tax trouble.

The PTA owes the IRS a $1,440 fine, not in back taxes, but over failure to file a tax exemption form more than a year ago. The fine was due Dec. 12.

Mrs. Wessa said the IRS official said the Harper file didn't contain the many letters the PTA has sent trying to explain that their failure to file the form was accidental.

But she exlained the IRS official told her they would notify Los Angeles tax officers not to impose a lien on PTA functions or other penalties until the Philadelphia office has had a chance to investigate further.

In the meantime, Mrs. Wessa, PTA president at the time of the oversight, said she has mailed the Philadelphia official copies of all correspondence.

Terrorists to Cuba

Hostages Free In Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nine terrorists today released hostages they held for 60 hours and flew off to Cuba with 16 sympathizers freed from Nicaraguan jails, officials said. The Roman Catholic archbishop of Managua went along to guarantee their safety.

A national guard officer at the airport said he believed but could not confirm that the Mexican and Spanish ambassadors and the papal nuncio in Managua also accompanied the terrorists to Cuba.

The break came only a couple of hours after the broadcast of a guerrilla demand that six points be met before noon or they would begin shooting one hostage every 12 hours. The government had said it would not allow the hostages — at least 13 men — to be taken to Havana.

Archbishop Miguel Ovando y Bravo was the first man out of the house where the hostages were held, followed by a man in plainclothes. A guerrilla wearing a stocking mask and pointing a rifle followed.

The group came out in single file and boarded a red and white tourist bus for the 15-mile drive to Managua's airport. They whipped through the airport to the end of the runway where the four-engine government-owned jet was waiting and 10 minutes later took off with a flight plan for Havana.

No details were available on whether the government met a $5 million ransom demand. A source close to the negotiations said the government agreed earlier to pay the ransom in small bills.

Oil Firm Fined for Donation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ashland Oil Corp. was fined $25,000 today for unlawful corporate donations to political candidates and organizations in 1970 and 1972 — including one said to have been delivered to Robert L. Strauss, now the Democratic national chairman.

The Kentucky-based firm pleaded guilty to each of five misdemeanor counts in surprise information brought by the Watergate special prosecutor's office. Chief U.S. District Judge George L. Hart imposed the maximum $5,000 fine on each count.

Strauss later issued a statement saying he was pleased that "the record clearly reflects that there was no knowledge on the part of anyone at the Democratic National Committee that these gifts were corporate.

"As a matter of fact," he added, "They were clearly represented as being the gifts of individual executives."

One count said an Ashland representative turned over $50,000 in cash to Strauss between June 1970 and February 1972 for use by the Democratic National Committee. Strauss was then treasurer of the party organization.

Police today will search that area for a gun possibly used in the holdup. The liquor store clerk said he did not see a gun, but the bandit, believed to be White, suggested he had a gun in his jacket pocket, according to police.

The robber allegedly told the clerk, "Don't push any buttons or I'll blow your head off," police said.

Police believe the bandit's two companions waited outside the store or in the car during the robbery.

Detectives were not available today to establish whether or not money taken in the robbery was found with the suspects.

Police added the stolen property charge against the trio after finding a videotape viewer stolen from the Ocean View School District in White's car, allegedly the one used in the holdup.

That, plus the insulating properties of the capsule are expected to keep temperatures between 40 and 80 degrees.

Carried inside the capsule, however, are four navigation systems which will be used to pinpoint the "Windborne's" position within 20 miles. Forbes' own DC-9, named "Capitalist Tool" will serve as a mobile flight operations center.

Forbes and Heinsheimer will have a variety of food from which to choose on their four to seven-day flight, including beef and gravy, hot dogs, salami, ham, dried beef and pork, cheese, peanut butter and jelly, nuts, fortified cake, cereal bars, and specially baked bread.

Personal hygiene items include towelettes, a wind-up shaver, and a special chewing gum for cleaning teeth. Urine will be collected in containers during the day and dumped at night. Solid wastes will be treated with germicide and deodorants and stored in sealed containers until the landing.

Man Trapped In Burning Auto, Dies

An Artesia man trapped inside his car after a La Palma traffic accident was burned to death Sunday night when the auto burst into flames.

A police spokesman said Gerald R. Fonkert, 59, was unable to get out of the car after a grinding collision with another vehicle that had run a red light at the intersection of Moody Street and La Palma Avenue.

Witnesses said Fonkert's wife, Marilyn, 48, jumped clear of the car just as the fire started. She was hospitalized with burns, cuts and possible internal injuries.

The driver of the other car, Fortunado P. Raygoza, 21, of Santa Ana, was booked in city jail on charges of vehicular manslaughter.

Raygoza sustained only slight injuries in the 10:55 p.m. crash but a female passenger in his car was admitted to La Palma Community Hospital with facial and ankle injuries.

A police spokesman said the exact cause of the crash is still under investigation.

Two county firemen were slightly injured putting out the car fire.

PROPERTY .

the state owns 122 parcels of property in Huntington Beach-Fountain Valley valued at about $7.6 million. It also owns other property along the route north to Lampson Avenue in Garden Grove.

The state will probably sell the property, parcel-by-parcel, to the highest bidder, according to Robert Blocker, project engineer for the Route 39 Freeway.

Blocker did say, however, the state can first offer the property to other governmental agencies at fair market value, or the state can hold onto the land if local agencies are interested in the route for some type of transportation corridor, other than a freeway. Most of the property contains single-family homes.

Officials in Fountain Valley and Huntington Beach indicated they have no special interest in the property, though they might look at individual parcels for park or other uses.

The freeway route, west of and parallel to Newland Street, was opposed by Fountain Valley anyway, and the city of Huntington Beach had agreed to a westward shift of the route to parallel Gothard Street.

But the route shift had never been enacted by the state, and as Richards said, "it's a moot point now."

Money picked up from the land sale would be used for other transportation projects which are scheduled for construction, Richards said.

"We've lost about 5 percent of our purchasing power over the past two years. That changes your mind about a lot of things," Richards said, explaining why the Route 39 project was eliminated.

Secret Witness Offers 2 Rewards

TWO SEPARATE $100 cash rewards are offered by the Secret Witness for help in cracking major burglaries in Huntington Beach and Fountain Valley.

Investigators from the Huntington Beach Police Department are trying to put an end to a series of rooftop commercial burglaries they believe are committed by the same pair of thieves.

The two robbers have hit at least 11 business establishments in the two months prior to Christmas, each time attempting a similar approach through air conditioning ducts or rooftop skylights.

THEY WERE SEEN only once, in early December as they hopped down from the roof of Grandma Bean's poster shop, 123 Main St.

The witness could only give a vague description of them, saying one was wearing blue jeans and having long blond hair, while the other wore a green fatigue jacket with his blue jeans and had shoulder length, curly brown hair. Both were male caucasians, estimated to be about 16 to 17 years old.

ANYONE WHO has seen such a pair in a suspicious manner or knows anything about the rooftop burglaries is urged to contact the Secret Witness by phoning 642-0700, or writing to: Daily Pilot, Secret Witness, P.O. Box 790, Huntington Beach, Ca. (92648). You may earn a $100 cash reward.

Fountain Valley Police are looking for the burglar or burglars who hit the home of Vincent Salerno, 18263 Cabrillo Court, on Dec. 16.

They took $3,875 worth of jewelry from the Salerno home, including several identifiable necklaces. One necklace is a $20 1892 gold piece, surrounded by pearls, mounted on a 14-karat gold chain.

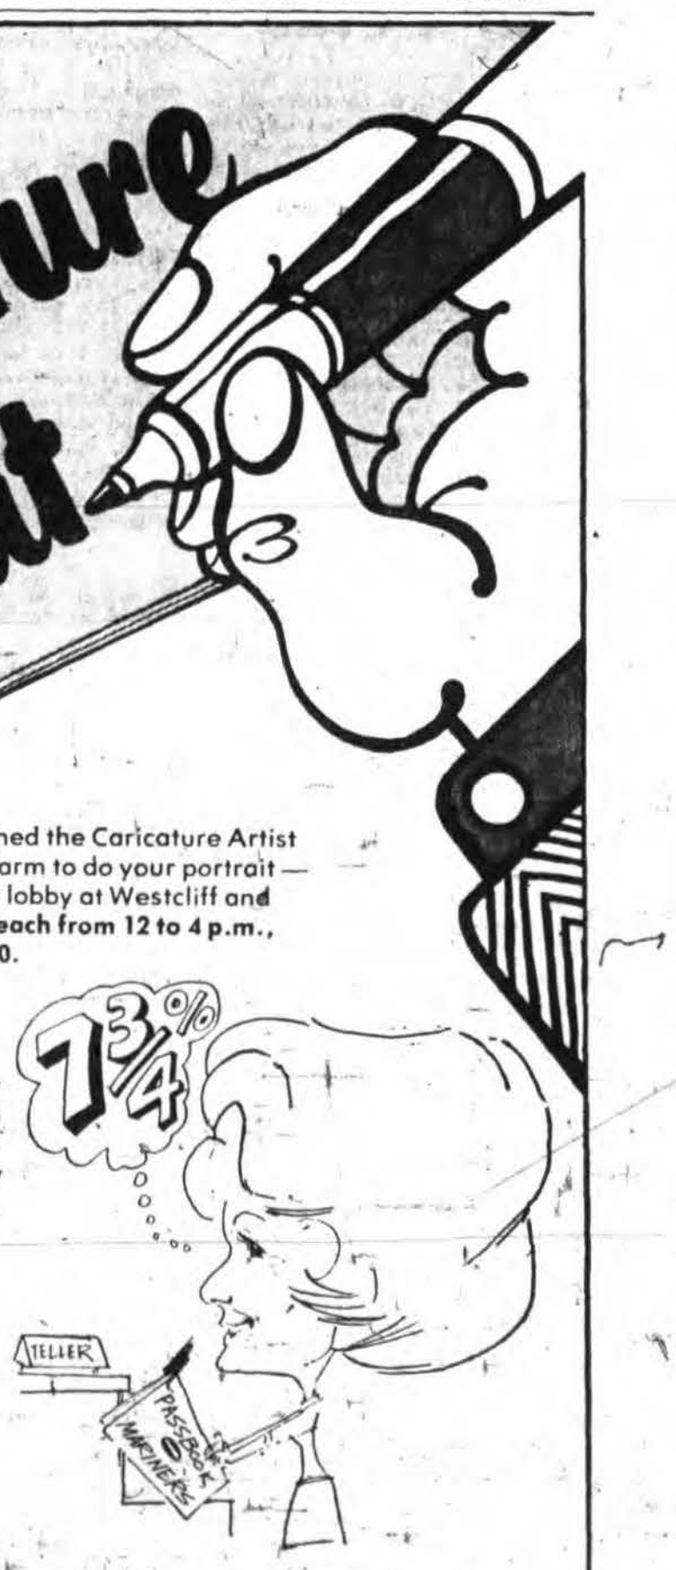

Another necklace is a 1914 British sovereign coin, surrounded by emeralds; also mounted on a 14-karat gold chain. Two other necklaces are a three-strand piece with turquoise lurds and fish on it, and another with a turquoise squashblossom Indian design.

Anyone who might like to offer information on any crime, but does not want to be involved with police officials, should tag information with a simple six-digit code, combing letters and numbers such as ABC123.

If we wish further contact with the informant we will publish the first three digits of the code in the Secret Witness column. Complete secrecy is guaranteed to all informants.

2 Balloonists Pumped Up for Flight

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
of the Daily Pilot Staff

Adventurers Malcolm Forbes and Dr. Thomas Heinsheimer were scheduled today to begin inflating the 13 helium balloons they hope will take them on a record-breaking flight over the United States and the Atlantic.

The balloons require a full four days of inflation with helium gas before they are wheeled out of the blimp hangar at the Marine Corps Air Station in Santa Ana.

Weather and flight conditions permitting, the millionaire magazine publisher and his scientist companion will lift off from the base at 4 a.m. Thursday.

Originally the two men were to be carried aloft by an aggregate of 12 balloons arranged in four tiers but a 13th was added, not for luck, but for sound scientific reasons.

The 13th gas-filled bag will be attached at the very top of the craft and quite literally serve as a trial balloon.

It will be inflated to a greater degree than the others and its purpose is to serve as a pressure relief mechanism for the other 12 in the stack.

If it breaks, it will not endanger the flight or the other balloons but bring the $700,000 vehicle down to a safer altitude where the pressure exerted on the balloons is not as great.

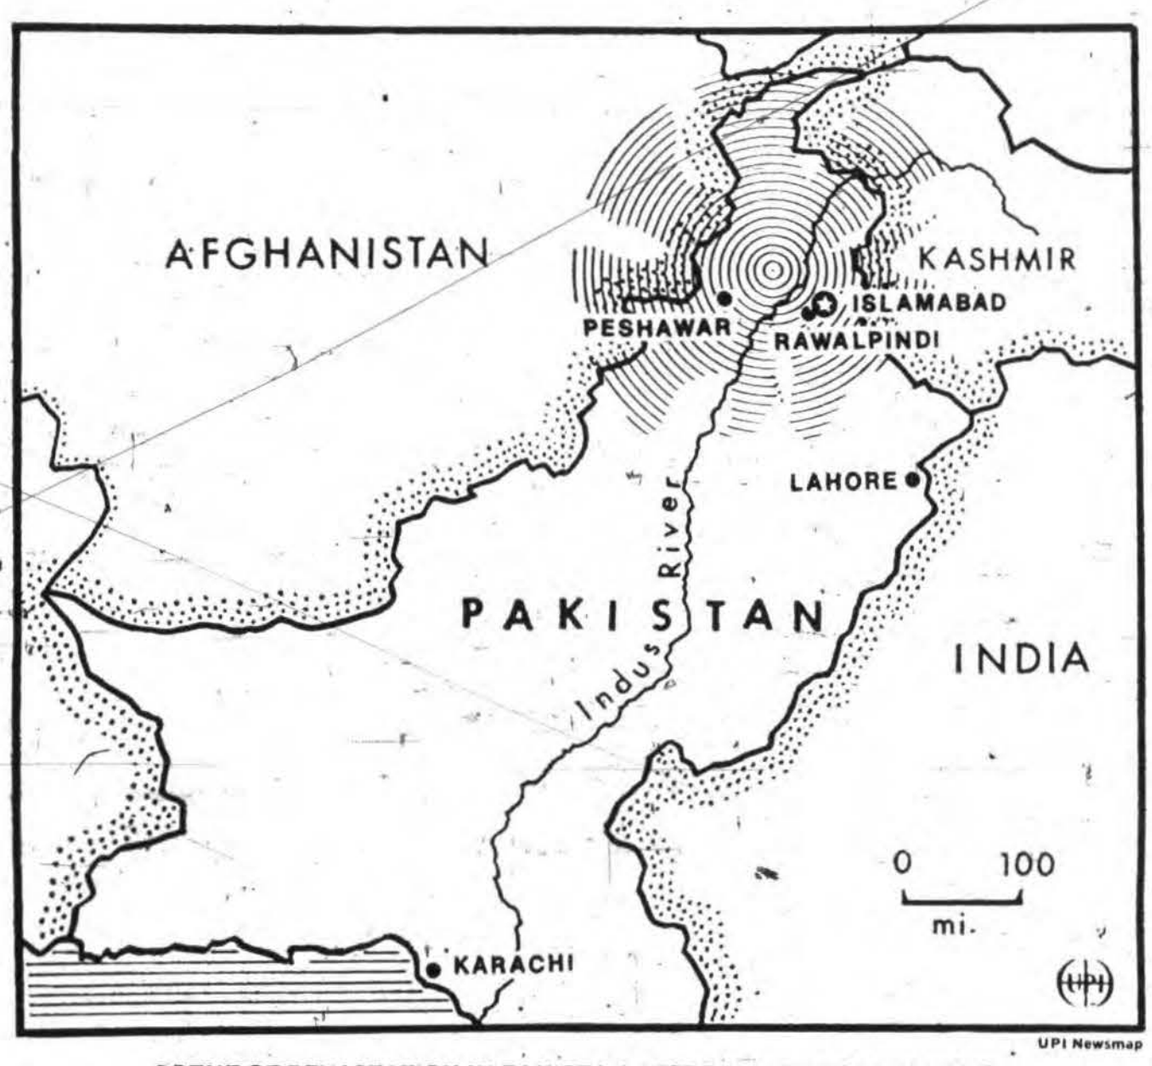

Attached to the balloons is a Mylar-covered gondola described by Forbes as "smaller than a jail cell" in which the two men will live for the duration of the 6,000-mile flight.

The cabin is capable of floating and carries a sponge at the bottom to pick up water and serve as a keel if the craft lands in water.

Liquid oxygen and nitrogren tanks mounted on its cross arms will provide the two aeronauts

SCENE OF DEVASTATION IN PAKISTAN AFTER MAJOR EARTHQUAKE
Death Toll Estimated Near 5,000 and May Go Even Higher

Pakistan Suffers Disaster

PATTAN, Pakistan (AP) — The earthquake that hit northern Pakistan over the weekend killed an estimated 4,700 persons and injured about 15,000 in nine villages, rescue officials said today.

They said the final casualty toll could be even higher when reports arrive from isolated regions north of Pattan.

The villages were clustered about Pattan, nestled among the snow-capped Karakoram Mountains about 200 miles north of the Pakistani capital of Islamabad. The quake struck Saturday evening and tremors followed intermittently for 24 hours. First word of the disaster was brought out by runners.

The quake almost destroyed this village of 40,000, leaving hardly one house intact. Senior army officers taking part in rescue operations estimated 500 inhabitants of Pattan were dead, 2,000 injured and some 400 houses either completely or partially destroyed.

Army rescue teams have been working around the clock since shortly after the quake struck, treating the injured, pulling bodies from the wreckage and mounting a helicopter-borne mercy airlift. Two field hospitals have been set up.

Because of the widespread damage to houses, many people havpe been sleeping in the open in temperatures that drop to near freezing at night. Nearly every family has reported losing one or more relatives in the disaster.

Ray Glenn, Ex-cowboy Star, Dies

Raymond Glenn, who hung up his spurs and stage name after a successful career in western movies and later became Newport Beach's chief building inspector, died Friday at his retirement home in Torrance.

Mr. Glenn, 76, once starred as Bob Custer in more than 100 silent and sound features during the 1920s and '30s, and after retiring from the screen went to college to obtain a degree in engineering.

Those who worked with Glenn remembered him today as "a quiet person, who did a fine job."

"He was a good organizer and a joy to work with," said Maryann Cain, Glenn's former secretary.

"We stayed in touch over the years, and I was shocked and disheartened to learn of his death," she added.

During his movie career, his films included "Law of the Mounted," "The Last Roundup," "Riders of the Rio Grande" and "Code of the West."

Rosary will be recited Tuesday evening at Niland Mortuary in Torrance, followed by Roman Catholic rites and committal Wednesday.

'I'M AN ALCOHOLIC'
Congressman Wilbur Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) acknowledged today he is an alcoholic but said he will stop drinking entirely and will stay in the House of Representatives. (Editorial column, A6).

Mills, who entered Bethesda Naval Hospital Dec. 3 for what was described as exhaustion, said in a statement released through the office of the House Ways and Means Committee:

"I ask the understanding of the members of Congress about what my tragic experience has been. I know that I am a well man as long as I do not drink and, by the grace of God and with competent medical advice, and the support of friends, I will remain well.

"In light of the above, it is my intention to continue in the Congress of the United States."

Mills, who has already announced he will not seek the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee which he headed for more than a decade and a half, said he realizes now his behavior of the past several months was not that of "the Wilbur Mills who has spent 36 years in Congress."

The behavior climaxed with an incident in Washington involving a stripper, Annabel Battistella, whom Mills said he had known for some time and with whom he later appeared on a Boston stage.

Mills said he did not understand at that time what was happening to him. Now, he said, he thinks "the fatigue and pressure built up by years of dedicated work" had a severe impact on him.

"During the past several years, and most especially in the last year, I had scarcely noticed that my drinking habits had changed perceptibly."

Mills has been at Bethesda since two days after he appeared on the Boston stage. He has been visited daily by his wife of 40 years, Polly. A spokesman for Mills said the congressman will remain at Bethesda until the new Congress convenes Jan. 14.

Crash Kills Ex-POW

Son Survives; Pilot Dies in Alaska

By ALAN DIRKIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The family members of an Air Force pilot, who had been attempting to restructure their lives after his return from Vietnam where he spent 6½ years as a POW, were left shattered today following the pilot's death in an air crash.

Mrs. Elaine Pyle of Irvine, wife of Maj. Darrel A. Pyle, flew to Alaska Sunday to be with her 9-year-old son, Phillip, who survived the crash that killed Maj. Pyle Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Pyle, a dental assistant, was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Howard Williams, of Tustin, while her father was attempting to find a military burial site for the Air Force pilot.

The crash occurred near Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage where Maj. Pyle and Phillip were returning in a small plane from a hunting trip.

It appeared today that Maj. Pyle's last act may have saved the life of his son who received only a cut over his eye in the crash. The crash occurred on a frozen lake in temperatures below zero, but Air Force officials said Phillip got out of the plane and walked about two miles to a farmhouse to call help. It took rescuers about 1½ hours to reach the wreckage, but Maj. Pyle died 15 minutes after being admitted to the Elemendorf base hospital.

Mrs. Pyle's sister, Miss Laurel Williams of Tustin, wondered today whether Maj. Pyle was conscious for a while after the crash.

"He might have told Phillip where to go for help," Miss Williams said. "Otherwise it seems more likely that the boy would have wandered around in circles in the snow and died. In any event, it must have been an ordeal for Phillip because he would have had to climb over his father to get out of the plane."

Phillip, who suffered mild frost bite, was still in Elemendorf base hospital today. He was reported in good condition.

Air Force officials reported that torches had to be used to extricate Maj. Pyle from the wreckage and that a fire broke out just after he was freed. Officials said he died in the hospital of

Licenses Extended a Month

Newport Beach city bicycle licenses scheduled to expire at midnight Tuesday will be valid at least through Jan. 31, 1975.

ACCORDING TO police Lt. Wayne Connolly the 31-day extension has been granted because the city has not received its supply of new licenses that will be uniform throughout the state.

The extension was allowed by the Newport Beach Police Department to allow time for delivery of the new licenses, said Connolly.

WHEN THE CITY receives its supply, licenses may be purchased at the Newport Beach Police Department, 870 Santa Barbara Drive, or at any city fire station.

The new bicycle license will be valid through Dec. 31, 1975, and will cost $3.

Managua Hostages Released

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — A band of left-wing guerrillas took off today for Cuba with $5 million, 14 newly freed prison inmates and four volunteers standing in for the hostages they took in a machine gun raid on a diplomatic cocktail party.

The 13 hostages were set free on a runway at La Merced Airport moments before the guerrillas took off at midday to the cheers of a handkerchief-waving crowd of about 150 people.

The hostages had been seized Friday when the guerrillas shot their way into the party. They appeared to be in good condition. After waving at the crowd, they were taken away in two station wagons to meet President Anastasio Somoza in the presidential palace.

The people in the crowd cheered the freed hostages but reserved their loudest cheer for the takeoff of the plane.

The guerrillas were wearing gas masks and stockings over their faces and carrying submachine guns when they boarded the blue and white jet at the far end of the runway.

National guard troops ringing the house where the kidnapers had been holed up were withdrawn minutes before the guerrillas and their hostages emerged in a red and yellow bus and sped off for the airport, 12 miles away.

The Spanish and Mexican ambassadors, the archbishop of Managua and the pope's representative in Nicaragua volunteered to fly along to Cuba with the kidnapers as a guarantee they would not be stopped.

Head Blow Said Fatal For Fetus

A deputy county coroner whose testimony was flatly contradicted in a special pretrial hearing today told an Orange County Superior Court jury that a massive head injury undoubtedly caused the death of a Fountain Valley woman's unborn child.

Dr. Warren Bostick of the UC Irvine School of Medicine testified for the prosecution that he was "perfectly satisfied" that a blood clot created by that head injury led to the death of the fetus delivered stillborn by Mrs. Consuelo Berber, 20.

It is alleged by the prosecution that blows delivered to Mrs. Berber's abdomen by defendant Lorenzo Villareal De La Rosa, 23, were responsible for the death of a previously healthy fetus that was in its ninth month at the time of the incident.

De La Rosa is being tried for murder in a case that is unique to Orange County Superior Court history.

Mrs. Berber has testified that she and the defendant, with whom she once lived in a common-law relationship, quarreled last July 10 at her mother's home in Fountain Valley over De La Rosa's right to see a son born of their relationship.

She told the jury that she called her husband "a bastard" after he struck her and that he immediately delivered another blow to her abdomen.

Mrs. Berber said she was immediately stricken by severe cramps and was told by the doctor who attended her that he could no longer detect signs of life in the fetus. It was delivered dead July 22.

Defense attorney Norbert Bunt said he will again call to the stand Dr. Kurt Bernischke, a German-born pathologist who refutes Dr. Bostick's theory and states that the child did not die as the result of the blows.

"A child in the womb can live without a head, since it breathes through and draws nourishment from the mother," Dr. Bernischke earlier testified in Judge Walter Charamza's courtroom.

senior at Harbor High, will be held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Newport Beach. In lieu of flowers the family suggests donations be sent to the Eileen Wach Memorial Fund in care of Newport Harbor High School. The donations will be used for back-packing scholarships.

Miss Wach is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wach, Newport Beach; a sister, Kathleen Rumph, Tustin; a brother, Lawrence Wach, Newport Beach, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Wach, Pasadena, and Mr. and Mrs. George Hayes, Newport Beach.

Officers at the Bridgeport office of the California Highway Patrol said the accident occurred around 6 p.m. when a Chevrolet crossed over the center divider and into the path of the Datsun.

CHP officials said the driver of the Chevrolet reported her car started skidding on the icy road and that she was unable to regain control by letting go of the brakes and changing to a lower gear.

That driver, Linda Darwy, 22, and her 16-year-old sister Kim, both of Rancho Palos Verdes, were released from Mono County Hospital Sunday.

Newport Beach architect Kermit Dorius has stayed in close contact with hospital authorities since the accident, and said today that both his son and Wiegand will be transfered to a Newport Beach hospital in three or four days.

However, he added that his daughter, Kristen, is more seriously injured and will have to undergo more surgery before a transfer can be contemplated.

Dorius, 255 Walnut Ave., praised the work of both the Lee Vining Volunteer Fire Department and the Mono County General Hospital staff in saving the lives of his children.

"It took 45 minutes to pry Kristen out of the wreck and I understand that if the fire department hadn't just bought some new equipment it wouldn't have been possible," he said.

Dorius reported that his daughter, a student at San Diego State, was "just about off the critical list and conscious and talking."

All four of the injured Newport Beach youngsters were on their way to Sun Valley for a skiing vacation when the accident happened.

Ohio State's Band to Play At Safari

The Ohio State University marching band will perform Thursday at Lion Country Safari in Irvine.

A special selection of appropriate numbers, "Elephant Walk" and "Talk to the Animals" will be added to the 250-member band's repertoire for a 50-minute outdoor concert at the entertainment areas of the African wildlife preserve.

The single performance is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

A Lion Country spokesman said baby elephants will roam among the musicians during the "Elephant Walk" number and predicted "a few surprises" during the "Talk to the Animals" song.

The Ohio State band is in Southern California to support its football team in the Rose Ball contest against USC New Year's day. Following the Lion Country performance, the band will depart for Columbus Ohio.

Maj. Pyle was a prisoner of war from 1966 to March, 1973. He held the Legion of Merit, two Silver Stars, two Bronze Stars, the Air Force Commendation Medal and the Distinguished Flying Cross.

He had spent about six months at the Elmendorf base and had bought and was furnishing a home. Mrs. Pyle and Phillip had planned to join him when it was completed and the home in Irvine was sold.

Miss Williams said Phillip went up to the base to spend Christmas and New Year's with his father who loved hunting and fishing.

Miss Williams said Maj. Pyle had fitted pontoons and skis on the small Piper plane he bought.

"I understand that he had taken Phillip skiing on one trip and that they were returning from hunting caribou when the crash occurred."

Air safety investigators told them that Phillip said that the carburetor iced up. The plane suddenly turned and went straight down.

Miss Williams said no funeral arrangements had been made yet because of difficulty in finding a military cemetery with a vacant plot in Southern California.

Angelsen Funeral Scheduled Tuesday

Retired U.S. Navy Commander and yacht skipper Harry Angelsen, who died Saturday, will be buried Tuesday overlooking the sea he sailed for years in war and peace.

Rites will be at 1 p.m. in Pacific View Memorial Park Chapel, Corona del Mar, with burial to follow there on the hill overlooking the ocean.

A native of Norway, the 69-year-old seaman and skipper was entitled to use his Navy title, but listed himself as Capt. Angelsen instead of commander.

He and his wife Isabel lived in the Harbor Area for 28 years and were residents of 1845 Monrovia Ave., Costa Mesa, at the time of his death.

During those years, he was captain of several large yachts, including The Puritan, 17 years; The Voyager, 10 years, and in 1958 he skippered the scientific ship used by the American Museum of Natural History of New York on a research voyage in Mexican waters.

For a time, Capt. Angelsen was also skipper of The Diablo, another local yacht.

His World War II Navy service included commanding ships in the invasion of the Marshall Islands and also North Africa.

Survivors in addition to his widow include a daughter, Mrs. Gunvor Helma Aanensen; grandchildren Ivy, Tove, Kurt and Johanna Aanensen, all of Newport Beach; a brother Reidar Angelsen, of Oslo, Norway, and a sister, Mrs. Magnhils Aspen, of Mo-I-Rana, Norway.

It was the first illegal contribution uncovered by Watergate prosecutors involving the Democratic party.

There have been previous violations involving individual Democratic candidates.

Mazda Irvine Move Periled by Slump?

By DOUGLAS FRITZSCHE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Sagging sales of rotary engine imports reportedly may prevent Mazda Motors of America from moving into the firm's new headquarters building in Irvine.

A corporate official said last weekend that a decision will be made next month on whether to move the firm's headquarters from the present location in Compton.

The $6 million building at Von Karman Avenue and Main Street is complete and ready to be occupied, said an Irvine Industrial Complex spokesman.

He said, however, that "things are up in the air at this time."

Mazda offices are closed for the holidays and other executives could not be contacted for comment.

In June 1973, when a groundbreaking was held for the four-story, 130,000-square-foot building, sales of the novel rotary engine cars were strong.

In the meantime, federal Environmental Protection Agency tests indicated that the engines were not markedly more efficient or less polluting than their piston-driven counterparts.

Sales, the Mazda executive said, are down. He said, however, that the firm may go ahead with the expensive move in an effort to boost the morale of Mazda dealers.

Corporate plans for the Irvine site call for a 150,000-square-foot parts warehouse for Mazda's western operations as well as a 300,000-square-foot national parts depot.

Despite Economy

Restaurants Faring Well

LOS ANGLES (AP) — Despite rising food costs and a slumping economy, the restaurant business in Southern California is faring well.

"We are rather pleased with sales in view of the economy and what's happening in other industries," says Robert Riley, general manager of the Restaurant Association of Southern California.

He says members report sales are up between 4 and 10 percent over last year.

But, he added, many members say they are just breaking even because of higher wholesale food costs.

"OUR MAJOR COMPETITOR is the housewife," says Riley. "She looks at supermarket prices and then looks at menu prices and often is the one who determines whether the family will eat out."

He says some restaurant operators have raised menu prices 15 to 25 percent while others are reluctant to boost prices significantly for fear it will drive customers away.

"We have about 20 percent fewer customers than we had a year ago," says Donald H. Clinton, owner of Clinton's cafeterias in Los Angeles.

He has raised prices 11 percent because of higher costs.

"Our clientele are mainly working people and shoppers," he says. "We try to keep our prices in line. But we use a lot of canned fruit and vegetables and the labor costs for harvesting those products are up. The fruit is packed in sugar and everybody knows how that has gone up. We use sugar in our baked goods, too.

We've tried to cut back our electricity needs by about one-third, but we are paying 50 percent more in electric bills this year."

AT THE OTHER END of the restaurant spectrum is swank Perino's, where general manager William A. Coleman feels that his affluent customers have been affected by a recession psychology.

"They are people who are particularly aware of finances and the economic impact, and I think they are worried about what is going to happen," he says.

Coleman says that while November-December business has been good it is off from previous years. Perino's has kept its prices stable for some years and has no plans to boost them, he says.

Wells Fargo

Bank Introduces Machine Tellers

Automated teller machines, enabling Orange County residents to obtain cash and make deposits or loan payments at their convenience, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, will be introduced by Wells Fargo Bank Jan. 20.

The program, called Silver Service, will allow customers to bank nights and weekends, at teller machines in Buena Park, Westminster and Anaheim.

Customers will be able to withdraw from checking, savings or Master Charge accounts and deposit to checking and savings accounts at the teller machine. In addition, customers may make loan payments and transfer money from one account to another.

"Customers will no longer have to worry about getting to the bank during regular business hours. The modern consumer wants to do business at his convenience.

Construction has started on the installation of the machines on the exterior walls of the bank's Buena Park office, 8781 Knott Avenue, the Westminster office, 7950 Westminster Avenue, and the State College Boulevard office in Anaheim.

Too Many Mistakes Keep Rams Out of Super Bowl

UPI Telephoto

BILL SIMPSON REFLECTS UPON LA'S LOSS.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Just six inches away from the goal line, the Los Angeles Rams appeared on the threshold of taking the lead over the Minnesota Vikings Sunday in the National Football Conference championship game when the Rams were penalized five yards for illegal motion.

"They called the penalty on offensive guard Tom Mack but Tom says he did not move," Rams coach Chuck Knox said of the key play in Minnesota's 14-10 victory over the Rams.

Pushed back to the five yard line, the Rams had a pass intercepted by Vikings linebacker Wally Hilgenberg two plays later to end the threat. Minnesota stayed ahead 7-3.

Rams quarterback James Harris said he was about to run a quarterback sneak for the six inches when Vikings defensive tackle Alan Page jumped offside, and the referee ruled Page was drawn off by movement of Rams linemen.

"There was a long count, and Harris may have changed the play, and when somebody flinched there was nothing for us to lose if the referee called the penalty on me instead," said the Vikings' Page.

After the Hilgenberg interception, the Vikings drove 80 yards for a touchdown that put them ahead 14-3, and Minnesota was able to control the ball for most of the remaining 12½ minutes of the game.

Harris completed 13 of 23 passes in the game for 248 yards, with two interceptions. He said that Hilgenberg's interception of a pass deflected by the Vikings' Jackie Wallace was intended for Rams end Pat Curran.

"Curran broke free and I didn't think Wallace could read the ball," Harris said. The goal line events had been set up on a 73-yard pass-run play from Harris to the Rams's Harold Jackson.

Vikings defensive back Jeff Wright pushed Jackson out of bounds on the two yard line. Later in the game Jackson scored on a 44-yard pass from Harris to cut the Vikings margin from 11 points to four.

"We just made too many mistakes in inopportune situations," Harris said, referring to three fumbles lost by the Rams, two interceptions and seven penalties for a total of 70 yards.

The Vikings controlled Rams halfback Lawrence McCutcheon, giving him only 32 yards in 12 carries. His running mate Jim Bertelsen took over with 65 yards rushing and 53 additional yards on five pass receptions. But he was unavailable late in the game.

"I had a hip pointer going into the game, and by the third quarter I had taken too many hits and I just couldn't go on," said Bertelsen.

Rams defensive ends Fred Dryer and Jack Youngblood led a defensive charge that forced five Minnesota fumbles during the game, two recovered by the Rams.

Youngblood was among many Rams disconsolate over the defeat, saying: "I guess the big guy up there just didn't want us to win this one."

Most of the Vikings declined to make predictions on how they might play in the Super Bowl, but Dryer said he thinks the Vikings can win it all Jan. 12, after two previous failures in 1969 and a year ago.

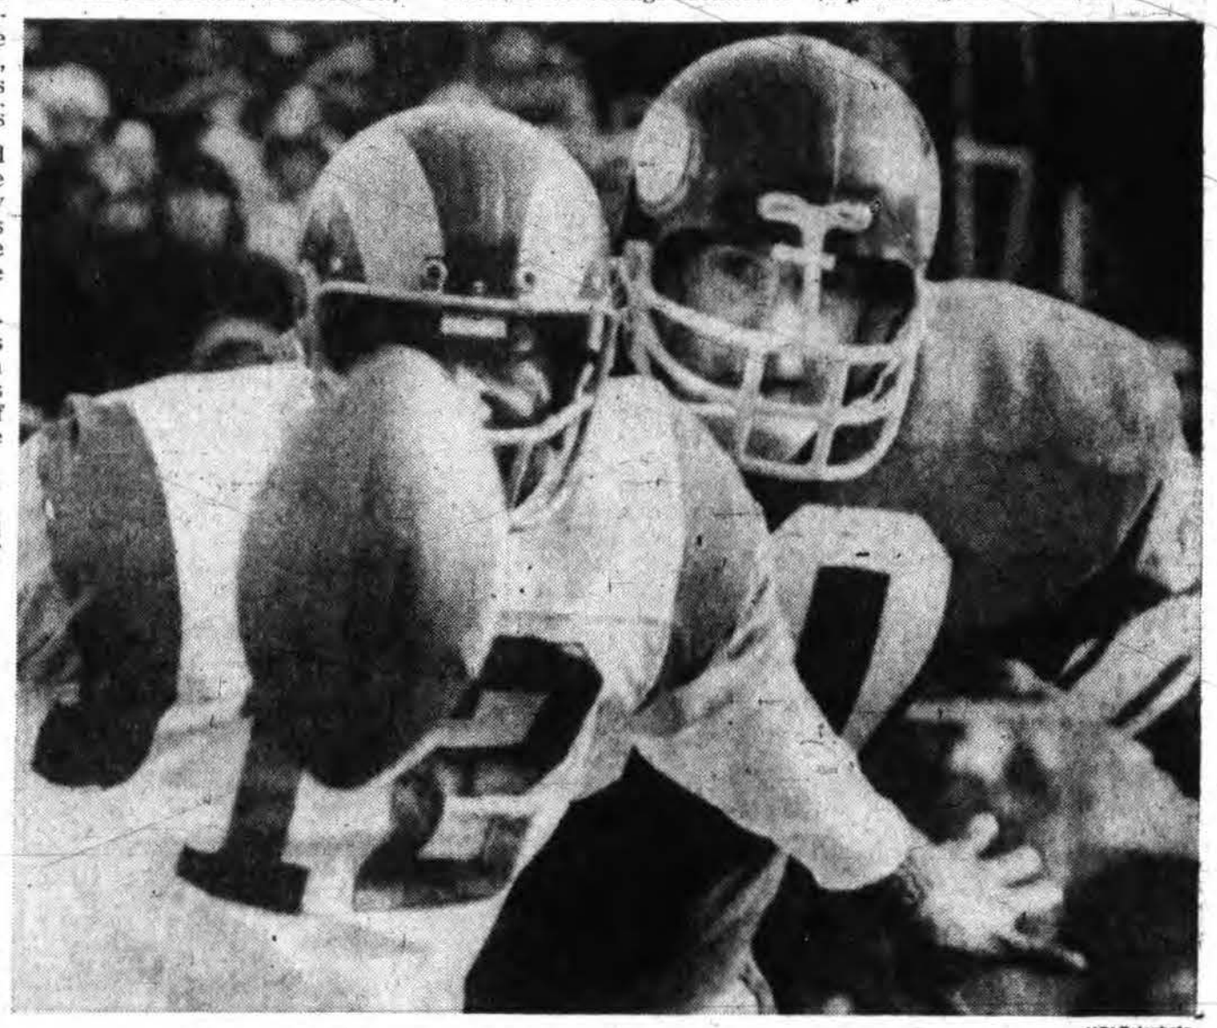

"With the few mistakes they make, the play calling of Francis Tarkenton, the running of Chuck Foreman and the defense making big plays, I think they can win," Dryer said.

Steelers Stop Run To Stop Oakland

"They stopped our running plays and that was it. They did what they had to do and we didn't," said Clarence Davis, after Sunday's 24-13 loss to Pittsburgh in the American Football Conference championship game.

Oakland Coach John Madden saw his team beaten one step short of the Super Bowl for the fourth time in the last six years and he admitted, "We had the feeling that everything was going our way. We had the best record in the NFL, beat Miami, and had the opportunity to play at home."

J.T. Thomas made the final interception and the Steelers scored their third touchdown of the final quarter to clinch the victory.

"You can't come back with a few seconds left to win too many weeks in a row," said Oakland guard George Buehler.

The interception that hurt the most was by Jack Ham, setting up Pittsburgh's go-ahead touchdown early in the final quarter.

Stabler, whose 217-yard passing performance was ruined by the three interceptions, had only one comment later and made it over and over again: "I have nothing to say about the game."

Pittsburgh kicked Oakland's rushing game in the teeth, kicked apart Stabler's dreams of a second straight miracle comeback and kicked the Raiders out of the playoff game they were favored to win.

"It was meant to be. We were meant to win this thing," quarterback Terry Bradshaw said after his cool, precise signal calling and passing carried Pittsburgh to the summit of Super Bowl IX. "We knew we were going to win this game . . .we came here with the confidence to win."

Bradshaw threw the ball only 17 times — and he didn't even have to do that. Not with Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier behind him, waiting to take the ball and run it down the Raiders' throats.

Harris bulldozed his way through the astoundingly malleable Oakland line 29 times for 111 yards and two touchdowns. And when the Raiders managed to stop him — which was rare — Bleier was right there, adding 98 yards on 18 carries.

Even Bradshaw got into the ground game, rushing three times for 15 yards. And astonishingly, his total was more than half the total yardage gained by entire Oakland running corps.

Twenty-one times the Raiders punched into Pittsburgh's front line of defense. The result was a meager 29 yards, a new low for an AFC title game.

"They gave us nothing on the ground," Madden understated. "Our passing was sufficient but we just couldn't get the run going. I can't remember when our ground game was shut down that effectively. . .to win, you've got to have a mixture on offense. We were able to call the mixture, but we couldn't make it go."

Vikes Say Running Was Key

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — "We felt we had to run at the Rams and it turned out that this is what eventually won the ballgame for us," Minnesota Vikings coach Bud Grant said Sunday after the Vikings beat Los Angeles 14-10 to earn a third try for the Super Bowl.

"Just plain hard hitting resulted in a lot of fumbles," Grant said, of the string of bobbles that helped keep the score down. The Vikings lost two of their five fumbles, the Rams lost the ball all three times they fumbled, and both squads had drives halted by penalties.

Fran Tarkenton, the Viking quarterback who directed the two Minnesota scoring drives, said, "The Vikings had a hard time finding out what would work against the Rams. Minnesota had no first downs the first three times it had the ball.

"The Rams play defense as well as anybody in football.

Tarkenton hit on passes of 13 yards to Stu Voight and 15 yards to John Gilliam to keep the other Viking touchdown drive going at the start of the fourth period. Dave Osborn scored from six inches away on a fourth-down play.

"We were only six inches away from winning," Grant said of the thinking that decided against a field goal try.

Osborn said the Rams defense was "a little lucky at first, stunting in the same places we were running. Then we got going, catching few of their slants and got a few holes."

Anyone But Harris

Any QB for Rams? Namath? Blanda?

There may be some confusion today regarding the Los Angeles Rams-Minnesota Vikings pro football playoff game staged Sunday in Minnesota.

That is, most reports will say Minnesota beat the Rams, 14-10. Only the score is accurate, however. At least that's the way this corner sees it.

Actually, I thought quarterback James Harris beat

WHITE WASH

the Rams with his low quality performance. It was Harris' fumble and interceptions that denied his LA mates at least one touchdown and broke up drives that appeared headed for scores.

If he is National Football League caliber, the NFL should merge with the World Football League.

He carries the ball like a kid playing in his first sandlot game and throws much of the time as though he needs glasses. Some may say he simply needs a little more seasoning to break into stride and make good.

By that same reasoning, a mud pie would only need a bit more seasoning to become edible.

The Rams took a big gamble when they let bona fide quarterback John Hadl go early in the season and cast their lot with Harris, the 27-year-old product of Grambling College.

If time is all Harris needs to become an effective quarterback, he'll be the first 80-year-old to play pro football, unless George Blanda keeps going.

The Rams tried to roll sevens, but came up with snake eyes. Harris was good enough to QB them to the divisional title. But in that lackluster division of hapless teams, George Plimpton probably could have done as well.

The Rams won a playoff game from Washington, but it wasn't Harris who did it, it was Isiah Robertson's touchdown return of an interception and a rock-ribbed defense that turned the trick.

There is rumor that the Rams may deal for Joe Namath to handle quarterbacking next season. I'd settle for Bill Munson, Roman Gabriel or Blanda. Or Hadl. Or Bob Waterfield. Or Sammy Baugh.

In fact, rather than see Harris at the helm, I'd favor almost any alternative.

TV commentators said the Rams had nothing to be ashamed of in losing to the Vikings.

But when you beat yourself on fumbles, interceptions and penalties, what is there to be proud of?

Odds and ends:

Finals of Inglewood High's 21st annual basketball tourney are due tonight with Fremont (LA) meeting Dorsey (LA) at 8:30.

Huntington Beach twice won the tourney, including the first one in 1954 and again in 1961. HB players Butch Coopman and Dennis Hamilton were tourney MVPs.

The last time it rained during a Rose Bowl game was 1955. The combatants? USC and Ohio State. Hope that's not an omen for Wednesday.

After nearly a month's play it would appear that El Dorado High of Placentia is Orange County's No. 1 prep basketball team. Nash Rivera, coach of that outfit, once was varsity head man at Mater Dei.

Sports in Brief

Rozelle Confident Appeal Will Win

MINNEAPOLIS — Commissioner Pete Rozelle says the National Football League believes the Joe Kapp ruling in which the NFL's reserve system was declared illegal "expresses the personal philosophy of the judge rather than being a ruling after a careful evaluation of the record."

Rozelle, interviewed here Sunday when he attended the playoff game between Minnesota and Los Angeles, said the NFL was confident the Kapp ruling by U.S. District Court Judge William T. Sweigert would be overturned on appeal.

Connors Wins

MELBOURNE, Australia — Top-seeded, and defending champion, Jimmy Connors of the United States advanced to the quarter-finals of the Australian Open tennis championships with a 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 6-0 victory over fellow American Raz Reid.

Oh Inks Pact

TOKYO — Sadaharu Oh, Japan's reigning home run king, signed a contract with the Yomiuri Giants today that made him the First $200,000 professional baseball player in this country.

HOUSTON (AP) — The road-weary Los Angeles Lakers face the Houston Rockets tonight, playing their fourth National Basketball Association game in five nights.

The game will be telecast live on Channel 5 at 6 tonight.

Longhorns, Auburn Collide

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Texas Longhorns, who lost a six-year New Year's Day lease on the Cotton Bowl, will make their first Gator Bowl football game appearance, tonight against the Auburn Tigers, here for the sixth time.

Auburn brings a 9-2 record and No. 6 national ranking as credentials for its third Gator Bowl game in four years. The Tigers upset Colorado two years ago and won a thriller over Mississippi Jan. 2, 1971. In all, Auburn has won three Gator Bowl games and lost two.

Although Auburn is rated five notches ahead of No. 11 Texas, the Longhorns are favored in many quarters by as much as a touchdown, prompting Auburn coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan to say: "They don't have much confidence in our team. But I do."

And coach Darrell Royal of Texas said "I don't see how anybody could pick us. They are ranked sixth and we're 11th."

Texas, 8-3, lost to Oklahoma, Texas Tech and Baylor. But the Horns finished like a whirlwind by beating Texas Christian 81-16 and Texas A&M 32-3.

On TV Tonight
Channel 7 at 6

The Longhorns operate from the wishbone and Auburn's two losses were to wishbone teams Florida and Alabama. But Jordan maintains his Tigers aren't awed by the wishbone.

Anyone who bought a Gator Bowl ticket with expectations of an aerial circus will be disappointed. Texas was 128th and last among major teams in passing yardage for the season. Auburn was 123rd.

2 Balloonists Pumped Up for Flight

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
of the Daily Pilot Staff

Adventurers Malcolm Forbes and Dr. Thomas Heinsheimer were scheduled today to begin inflating the 13 helium balloons they hope will take them on a record-breaking flight over the United States and the Atlantic.

The balloons require a full four days of inflation with helium-gas before they are wheeled out of the blimp hangar at the Marine Corps Air Station in Santa Ana.

Weather and flight conditions permitting, the millionaire magazine publisher and his scientist companion will lift off from the base at 4 a.m. Thursday.

Originally the two men were to be carried aloft by an aggregate of 12 balloons arranged in four tiers but a 13th was added, not for luck, but for sound scientific reasons.

The 13th gas-filled bag will be attached at the very top of the craft and quite literally serve as a trial balloon.

It will be inflated to a greater degree than the others and its purpose is to serve as a pressure relief mechanism for the other 12 in the stack.

If it breaks, it will not endanger the flight or the other balloons but bring the $700,000 vehicle down to a safer altitude where the pressure exerted on the balloons is not as great.

Attached to the balloons is a Mylar-covered gondola, described by Forbes as "smaller than a jail cell" in which the two men will live for the duration of the 6,000-mile flight.

The cabin is capable of floating and carries a sponge at the bottom to pick up water and serve as a keel if the craft lands in water.

Liquid oxygen and nitrogren tanks mounted on its cross arms will provide the two aeronauts.

4,700 Die in Earthquake

Infant's Death Related

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Jennifer Elizabeth Dabney admitted today for the second time in her trial that she decided not to take her dying baby to the doctor last June 1, "because he might ask questions about the bruises."

But the El Toro woman also made it clear as she completed her testimony in her Orange County Superior Court trial that she did not think that eight-month-old Robert Dabney was dying when she made that decision.

Her second statement brought Deputy District Attorney Pat Brian to his feet with another question for the defendant:

"You thought that despite the fact that you put your baby's face down in water after beating him, and despite the fact that mouth-to-mouth resuscitation failed to revive him?"

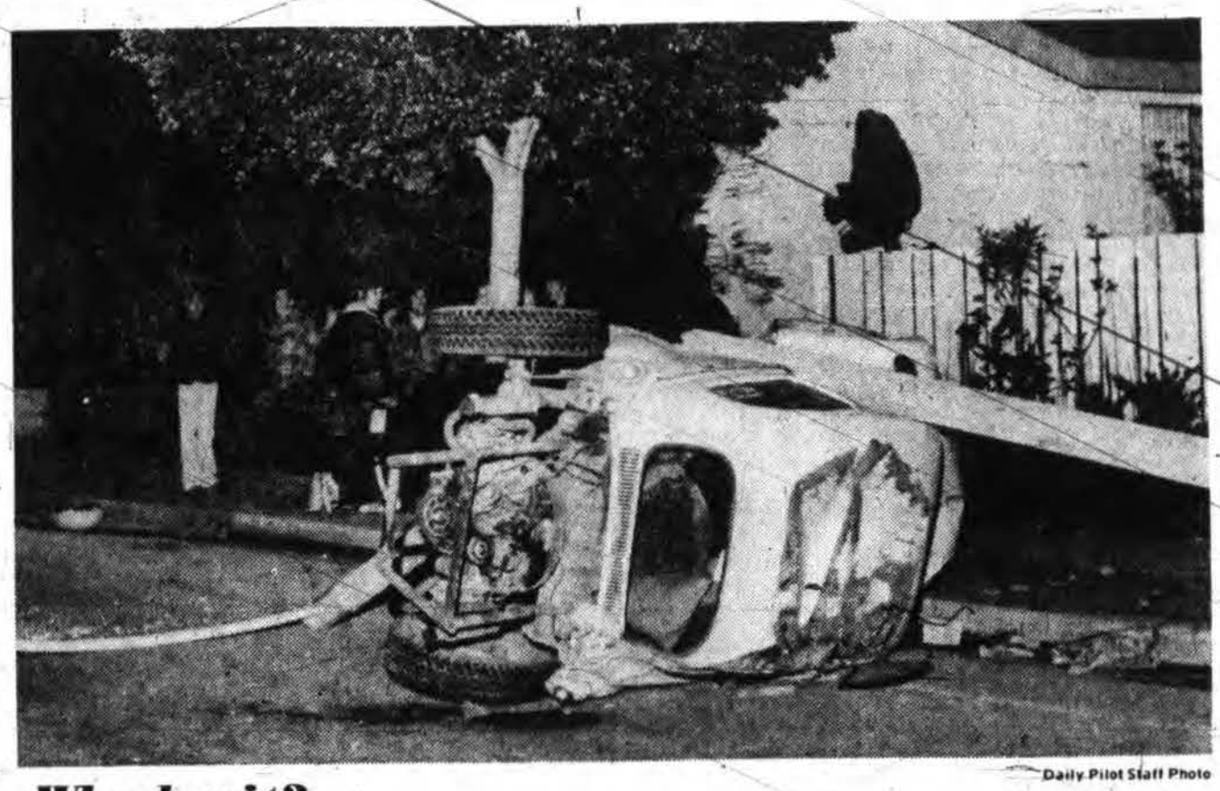

"I wish I could explain," the hesitant witness replied after a long pause. "I, uh, sort of hoped he wouldn't be that sick."

Deputy public defender Michael Beecher said he will now call psychiatrists to the witness stand to support his argument that Mrs. Dabney, 24, was of "diminished capacity" when she inflicted fatal injuries on her baby, one of twin sons.

Mrs. Dabney was arrested last June 1 when the child died in Childrens Hospital, Orange, from injuries she admitted inflicting during the 24 proceding hours.

Her husband, Marine Corps Sgt. Dennis Eugene Dabney, 24, was cleared of manslaughter charges during the trial after pleading guilty to charges of

Pakistan Suffers Disaster

PATTAN, Pakistan (AP) — The earthquake that hit northern Pakistan over the weekend killed an estimated 4,700 persons and injured about 15,000 in nine villages, rescue officials said today.

They said the final casualty toll could be even higher when reports arrive from isolated regions north of Pattan.

The villages were clustered about Pattan, nestled among the snow-capped Karakoram Mountains about 200 miles north of the Pakistani capital of Islamabad. The quake struck Saturday evening and tremors followed intermittently for 24 hours. First word of the disaster was brought out by runners.

The quake almost destroyed this village of 10,000, leaving hardly one house intact. Senior army officers taking part in rescue operations estimated 500 inhabitants of Pattan were dead, 2,000 injured and some 400 houses either completely or partially destroyed.

Army rescue teams have been working around the clock since shortly after the quake struck, treating the injured, pulling bodies from the wreckage and mounting a helicopter-borne mercy airlift. Two field hospitals have been set up.

Because of the widespread damage to houses, many people havpe been sleeping in the open in temperatures that drop to near freezing at night. Nearly every family has reported losing one or more relatives in the disaster.

Efforts to bring in more blankets and tents have been hampered because the Karakoram Highway, which runs through the disaster-struck region, has been either severed

Two Eye Mark for 'Monotony'

Monotony, not Monopoly is the game of Costa Mesa High School students Bob Phillips, 17, and Bruce Nelson, 16.

They've been at the game since 1 p.m. Friday and are planning to go on playing until 11 p.m. or midnight in their quest to eclipse the world record.

"Then we're going to try and break the world's sleeping record," yawned Phillips, of 3037 Fernheath Lane, where the game is played with his father and mother acting as judges.

At noon today the boys had played for 71 hours and the monotony of Monopoly was clearly beginning to show. Both of them were tired although they said their minds had not deteriorated.

"We're still sane," said Phillips, noting that they have been playing on the same game since Friday and have kept it going by means of mortgages and bank loans.

"Every time Bruce counts his money, I get about 15 minutes of sleep. We're still legally playing Monopoly, although he counts his money very very slowly," he added.

The world Monopoly record is claimed by some Fountain Valley High School students who played Monopoly for 96 hours.

Mills 'Alcoholic,' Going on Wagon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) acknowledged today he is an alcoholic but said he will stop drinking entirely and will stay in the House of Representatives. (Editorial column, A6)

Mills, who entered Bethesda Naval Hospital Dec. 3 for what was described as exhaustion, said in a statement released through the office of the House Ways and Means Committee:

"I ask the understanding of the members of Congress about what my tragic experience has been. I know that I am a well man as long as I do not drink and, by the grace of God and with competent medical advice, and the support of friends, I will remain well.

"In light of the above, it is my intention to continue in the Congress of the United States."

Mills, who has already announced he will not seek the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee which he headed for more than a decade and a half, said he realizes now his behavior of the past several months was not that of the Wilbur Mills who has spent 36 years in Congress."

The behavior climaxed with an incident in Washington involving a stripper, Annabel Battistella, whom Mills said he had known for some time and with whom he later appeared on a Boston stage.

"Mills said he did not understand at that time what was happening to him. Now, he said, he thinks the fatigue and pressure built up by years of dedicated work" had a severe impact on him.

"During the past several years, and most especially in the last year, I had scarcely noticed that my drinking habits had changed perceptibly."

"I now realize, after several weeks of treatment by the doctors and soul-searching of my own, that I developed a severe drinking problem, not as a daily drinker but as a periodic heavy drinker. I did not know that this pattern corresponds with what is known as alcoholism."

Mills has been at Bethesda since two days after he appeared on the Boston stage. He has been visited daily by his wife of 40 years, Polly. A spokesman for Mills said the congressman will remain at Bethesda until the new Congress convenes Jan. 14.

Laguna Police Arrest 3 Men In Sex Case

Officers identified the suspects as Richard A. Henzell, 50, of 120 Cress St. and Dudley A. Stier, 34, of 1116 Miramar St., both of Laguna; and William S. Rutledge, 31, of San Francisco.

Henzell and Rutledge are held in lieu of $5,000 bail today. Stier, who police said is owner of a Costa Mesa leather manufacturing company, was booked on sex charges and resisting arrest. He was released on $2,500 bail.

Officer Greg Bartz alleged he was on beach foot patrol when he observed the three men engaged in a mutual sex act.

That's No Doggy Door

A Costa Mesa dog has learned the sad lesson that one should not stick his nose into places where it does not belong, thus requiring his mistress to call police for a rescue.

"Their dog had his head stuck in the cat entrance," Humane Officer Tom Owen wrote in his report, after finding Mrs. Eva Bryce's pet trapped in the kitty door Saturday.

"Pried siding and freed dog," the report concluded.

Police Nab Suspect in Robbery

A youth who ignored a bandit's warning to "split" moments before a Huntington Beach robbery gave police a description of the getaway car which led to the arrest of a suspect and two companions Sunday.

The bandit, wearing a white bandana and threatening to shoot, took $98 from Fred Siqueido of the Liberty Park Liquor Store, 17685 Beach Blvd., about 7:30 p.m.

In Huntington Beach jail today on charges of suspicion of robbery and possession of stolen property is Dennis Mark White, 23, 5921 Frontier Circle, Huntington Beach.

Arrested on the same charges with White were Rudolfo Espinoza, 22, 5121 Dunbar St., Huntington Beach, and Norman William Janisse, 26, 2150 Canyon Drive, Costa Mesa. They also are in Huntington Beach jail.

White matched the description of the suspect who reportedly told three youths outside the liquor store "they'd better split because he was going to hold up the place," police said.

One of the youngsters ignored the advice, however, and stayed long enough to identify the bandit's car. He described the car to police, who found it and the suspects two hours later at The Beehive bar, 6431 Edinger Ave., Huntington Beach.

As officers entered the bar, a man later identified as White ran to the restroom and attempted to leave by a back door, police said.

Police today will search that area for a gun possibly used in the holdup. The liquor store clerk said he did not see a gun, but the bandit, believed to be White, suggested he had a gun in his jacket pocket, according to police.

The robber allegedly told the clerk, "Don't push any buttons or I'll blow your head off," police said.

Police believe the bandit's two companions waited outside the store or in the car during the robbery.

Detectives were not available today to establish whether or not money taken in the robbery was found with the suspects.

Police added the stolen property charge against the trio after finding a videotape viewer stolen from the Ocean View School District in White's car, allegedly the one used in the holdup.

Dabney will be sentenced Jan. 10 by Judge Kenneth E. Lae. He has reduced the charge against Mrs. Dabney from first to second-degree murder.

It has been repeatedly alleged during the trial that the couple's home in the Wherry housing sector of the El Toro base was splattered with human and animal excreta and littered with dirty dishes, moldy food, unwashed diapers and dirty clothing.

A taped confession in which Mrs. Dabney admitted beating and abusing Robert has been played back to the jury. It also contains her admission that she was responsible for the broken arm and injuries suffered on his twin brother, John.

John and a baby born to Mrs. Dabney while she was in Orange County Jail awaiting trial have been removed from her custody and will be made available for adoption, authorities said.

Honeymoon Shortened By Theft

NEW YORK (AP) — Some honeymoon.

Ronald and Marie McHugh of Carbondale, Pa., who are in their 50's, got married Friday night, arrived here Saturday by bus, hailed a cab and headed for the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and a week's honeymoon.

As they were leaving the cab, the driver sped away with their three pieces of luggage and $200 in gift money.

The couple gave chase in another cab but lost their original taxi in traffic. They did manage to get their quarry's license plate number. Police located the cab but recovered only one suitcase which had been looted. The money was also missing.

The driver was being sought, and the McHughs went back to Pennsylvania.

"You might say I'm really teed about this," the bride said.

"This has got to be the shortest honeymoon in history."

Skate Thugs Rob Cabbie

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A taxi driver was robbed of his wrist watch and an undetermined amount of cash by a gang of youths on roller skates who surrounded his cab, police reported.

Authorities said Stanley Bank, a driver for the Diamond Cab Co. was stopped at an intersection in the city's southwest section over the weekend when about 20 youths rolled up.

Three members of the gang opened the driver's door, reached in and grabbed Bank's watch and a fare bag which was lying on the front seat, police said. The thieves and their companions then skated away.

Costa Mesa Drill Team Class Set

Registration hours are from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Jan. 9 and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Jan. 11 at the Community Recreation Center on the Orange County Fairgrounds.

The 10-week class will be held from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Recreation Center. Cost is $6. Girls aged 9-15 are eligible.

Angelsen Funeral Scheduled Tuesday

Retired U.S. Navy Commander and yacht skipper Harry Angelsen, who died Saturday, will be buried Tuesday overlooking the sea he sailed for years in war and peace.

Rites will be at 1 p.m. in Pacific View Memorial Park Chapel, Corona del Mar, with burial to follow there on the hill overlooking the ocean.

A native of Norway, the 69-year-old seaman and skipper was entitled to use his Navy title, but listed himself as Capt. Angelsen instead of commander.

He and his wife Isabel lived in the Harbor Area for 28 years and were residents of 1845 Monrovia Ave., Costa Mesa, at the time of his death.

During those years, he was captain of several large yachts, including The Puritan, 17 years; The Voyager, 10 years, and in 1958 he skippered the scientific ship used by the American Museum of Natural History of New York on a research voyage in Mexican waters.

For a time, Capt. Angelsen was also skipper of The Diablo, another local yacht.

His World War II Navy service included commanding ships in the invasion of the Marshall Islands and also North Africa.

Survivors in addition to his widow include a daughter, Mrs. Gunvor Helma Aanensen; grandchildren Ivy, Tove, Kurt and Johanna Aanensen, all of Newport Beach; a brother Reidar Angelsen, of Oslo, Norway, and a sister Mrs. Magnhils Aspen, of Mo-I-Rana, Norway.

Managua Hostages Released

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — A band of left-wing guerrillas took off today for Cuba with $5 million, 14 newly freed prison inmates and four volunteers standing in for the hostages they took in a machine gun raid on a diplomatic cocktail party.

The 13 hostages were set free on a runway at La Merced Airport moments before the guerrillas took off at midday to the cheers of a handkerchief-waving crowd of about 150 people.

The hostages had been seized Friday when the guerrillas shot their way into the party. They appeared to be in good condition. After waving at the crowd, they were taken away in two station wagons to meet President Anastasio Somoza in the presidential palace.

The people in the crowd cheered the freed hostages but reserved their loudest cheer for the takeoff of the plane.

The guerrillas were wearing gas masks and stockings over their faces and carrying submachine guns when they boarded the blue and white jet at the far end of the runway.

National guard troops ringing the house where the kidnapers had been holed up were withdrawn minutes before the guerrillas and their hostages emerged in a red and yellow bus and sped off for the airport, 12 miles away.

The Spanish and Mexican ambassadors, the archbishop of Managua and the pope's representative in Nicaragua volunteered to fly along to Cuba with the kidnapers as a guarantee they would not be stopped.

The guerrillas had said they would kill their hostages at 12-hour intervals starting Tuesday night if their terms were not met.

"If there had been any other way to get our comrades out of jail this action would never have happened," they said in a broadcast manifesto.

They also demanded that the government increase the minimum salary for farm and industrial workers and private soldiers.

A government source said the $5 million ransom was flown into the country from the United States. President Somoza had said earlier there was not that much cash in Nicaragua.

Blow to Fetus' Head Said Fatal

A deputy county coroner whose testimony was flatly contradicted in a special pretrial hearing today told an Orange County Superior Court jury that a massive head injury undoubtedly caused the death of a Fountain Valley woman's unborn child.

Dr. Warren Bostick of the UC Irvine School of Medicine testified for the prosecution that he was "perfectly satisfied" that a blood clot created by that head injury led to the death of the fetus delivered stillborn by Mrs. Consuelo Berber, 20.

It is alleged by the prosecution that blows delivered to Mrs. Berber's abdomen by defendant Lorenzo Villareal De La Rosa, 23, were responsible for the death of a previously healthy fetus that was in its ninth month at the time of the incident.

De La Rosa is being tried for murder in a case that is unique to Orange County Superior Court history.

Mrs. Berber has testified that she and the defendant, with whom she once lived in a common-law relationship, quarreled last July 10 at her mother's home in Fountain Valley over De La Rosa's right to see a son born of their relationship.

She told the jury that she called her husband "a bastard" after he struck her and that he immediately delivered another blow to her abdomen.

Mrs. Berber said she was immediately stricken by severe cramps and was told by the doctor who attended her that he could no longer detect signs of life in the fetus. It was delivered dead July 22.

Defense attorney Norbert Bunt said he will again call to the stand Dr. Kurt Bernischke, a German-born pathologist who refutes Dr. Bostick's theory and states that the child did not die as the result of the blows.

"A child in the womb can live without a head, since it breathes through and draws nourishment from the mother," Dr. Bernischke earlier testified in Judge Walter Charamza's courtroom.
