Police thwart attack in desert motel; victim believed to be wife of suspect

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A 68-year-old Costa Mesa man is being held today on suspicion of murdering a woman believed to be his wife and driving to a small desert town where he was caught while allegedly trying to kill the owners of a motel.

The trail of violence, police said, apparently started in a Costa Mesa condominium at 2554 Elden Avenue where police found the slain woman early today.

Police stopped short of identifying the dead woman as the wife of Joseph Katcher, the man suspected of being the killer. Police said it appears the woman had been dead at least one day when found this morning inside Katcher's condominium.

Katcher was arrested Thursday evening by police in Desert Hot Springs, a town on the outskirts of Palm Springs

Desert Hots Springs police claimed the older man severely beat motel owner Arthur Sussle, 76, and was in the process of strangling Pauline Sussle, 73, when officers arrived at the couple's highway motel.

Sussle was listed in critical condition today at Palm Hospital in Palm Springs. His wife was said to be in good condition at the same hospital.

Police in Desert Hot Springs also said it appeared Katcher, who'd spent the previous night at the motel, had tried to commit suicide at some point.

During the arrest, Katcher reportedly fell through a plate-glass window when officers tried to pull him away from Mrs. Sussle.

"He was in the process of strangling her at the time and had to be pulled

Biggest 'coke' seizure in HB

$6 million stash left in rented car

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huntington Beach detectives who stumbled across a suitcase containing a record 50 pounds of cocaine admitted today there's little chance of finding the person who left the drug in a rented car.

The cocaine, estimated to be worth at least $6 million on the street, was discovered inside a 1984 Lincoln Town Car that had been towed because it was illegally parked.

The seizure is the largest cocaine haul in Orange County history, according to Huntington Beach police.

Officers said the car was found on Heil Avenue near Camino Canada Laneon Wednesday. It was hauled to the police station by a private towing firm that contracts with the city.

Sgt. Carl Vidano said the suitcase was found during a routine inspection of the car and opened as part of an effort to learn the identity of the car's owner.

Narcotics officers were quickly called when police found the huge supply of the white powder in the suitcase.

"We've really had no luck on determining who was using the car and even if we did, it's highly doubtful they'd admit to owning the suitcase," said Lt. Merle Schneblin.

Police estimated that the cocaine probably cost its owner about $500,000 but is worth at least 12 times that much when divided, diluted and sold on the street.

U.S. Customs agents, who arrested an Irvine man this week at Los Angeles Harbor, put the worth of 70 pounds of cocaine at $20 million. Police in Huntington explained that determining the worth of a drug is not a scientific process and varies depending on how much the drug is diluted.

Reaction guarded on college deal

County campus leaders say their budgets are austere — but they'll take money

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Local community college leaders are reacting with guarded optimism to the financial compromise being negotiated between Gov. George Deukmejian and Democratic Assembly representatives.

The state Senate and Assembly approved legislation that would restore $96.5 million to the state's 106 community colleges for the 1983-84 school year.

The governor indicated he would sign this bill when the legislators also approve a first-time-ever $50 per semester tuition fee for full-time community college students. Part-time students would pay $5 per credit. The tuition would begin this fall.

Democratic Assembly leaders indicate they will approve the charge if it incorporates a number of existing fees now paid by students. In addition, the fee must expire in three-and-a-half years unless legislators approve an extension.

The Legislature is expected to vote on the fee proposal early next week at a special session.

Representatives of the Coast and Saddleback community college districts in Orange County say they had already adopted austere 1983-84 budgets based on the possibility of not receiving additional state funds. But they said they will have no difficulty putting any additional money to good use.

Dana sewage spill halted

By L.P. BENET
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dana Point sanitary operations were back to normal today after officials replaced a broken pump that caused 150,000 gallons of raw sewage to spill into Salt Creek, shutting down a mile-long stretch of beach.

Bob Merryman, director of the county's Environmental Health Department, said that although the sewage spill was halted late Thursday, Monarch Bay Beach and Salt Creek Beach won't reopen before Tuesday.

Officials closed the contaminated beaches Thursday to prevent a health hazard to beach users.

"It's bad because this is raw, untreated sewage," Merryman said earlier.

He said the sewage could kill marine life and pose health problems to persons coming in contact with it.

The spill began Wednesday while Dana Point Sanitation District workers were repairing a broken pump at a sewage station near Dana Hills High School, Bob Merryman said.

The main sewage line to the station from nearby homes was shut down, but the backed-up sewage created so much pressure that it burst through, filling a well in the pumping area and then overflowing, first into a pond used by the high school's marine biology classes and then into nearby Salt Creek, which flows to the coast. Authorities said there was no health threat to the high school.

Sanitary officials stopped the spill at 9:30 p.m. Thursday by inserting a submersible pump in the underground pump station, said Tom Richards, assistant manager of the Dana Point Sanitary District.

He said the replacement pump will carry the raw sewage to a nearby treatment plant while work crews continue to repair the original pump that malfunctioned.

Officials plan to move the pump station's electronic control panel

Golden arches get their place in U.S. history

A federal agency has declared a 30-year-old McDonald's restaurant in Downey eligible to become a national historic landmark.

The stand, built in 1953, is the oldest surviving McDonald's in the nation. The chain's fourth stand, it was the second in the nation to have the now-famous golden arches.

The restaurant is still run by the original franchise holders, Bud Landon and Roger Williams.

Carol Shull, chief of registration for the National Park Service National Register of Historic Places, declared the stand eligible as a landmark.

The stand is significant because the architecture represents a social and economic period that emphasized mobility and because it's the oldest restaurant for a chain that's become synonymous with American life, said Carol Dubie, a park service historian.

Getting ready for Olympics traffic

County employers urged to promote ride-sharing plan

By JEFF ADLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Organizers for the Summer Olympics want everyone to participate — in their own little way.

Orange County employers — like their Los Angeles County counterparts — are being urged to promote ride-sharing and consider more flexible work schedules during next summer's Olympic games when heavy traffic is expected to disrupt Southern California's normally congested traffic patterns.

"We don't want to project any doom or gloom," explained California Highway Patrol Sgt. Mike Howard of the CHP's Olympic planning task force, "but Orange County, though to a lesser degree than Los Angeles, will feel the spillover affects of increased Olympic traffic.

Howard said more than 8 million people are expected to attend the Summer Games, covered by 9,000 members of the press and involving about 14,000 athletes and coaches.

"I'm sure our county will be impacted by the Olympic family, especially with Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm and the Orange Coast's attractive beaches," Howard said.

Besides the additional visitors, four Olympic events are scheduled in Orange County.

The modern pentathalon in Coto de Caza, wrestling at the Anaheim Convention Center, team handball at Cal State Fullerton, and a bicycle race in Mission Viejo could draw as many as 200,000 spectators.

All in all, Howard said, Southern California's highways will have to bear the brunt of an estimated 214 million extra auto miles as 80 percent of those attending Olympic events are expected to drive cars to game sites.

JEFF ADLER

NEWS BACKGROUND

"We need to maximize the efficiency of existing roadways," the veteran CHP officer noted.

Gary Ethier, of the Caltrans Olympic Task Force, said businesses are being asked to help keep traffic moving by shifting delivery schedules and routes to avoid Olympic-congested areas during the games.

Gary Edson, Ridesharing program manager for the Orange County Transportation District, also suggested that some employers might shift employee schedules somewhat or allow more flexible scheduling to minimize traffic during peak hours.

However, Edson that in Orange County, unlike Los Angeles, scheduling plant shutdowns would be an "over-reaction" since the heaviest traffic will be concentrated in downtown Los Angeles for events scheduled at places like the Coliseum.

Another solution is ride-sharing, Edson said. He suggested Orange County firms consider enrolling in OCTD's ride-sharing program not only for the Olympics, but thereafter.

OCTD will train selected employees so that they can establish ride-sharing programs tailored to the particular needs of individual companies, Edson explained. The ride-sharing program sets up employee car or van pools, thus reducing the number of vehicles crowding onto

Crash hurts CM cycle cop

Officer said 'lucky' as bike demolished by truck on Harbor

By CHRISTINE DECKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Luck must have been riding with Costa Mesa Police Officer Bob Crogan as he patrolled on his motorcycle Thursday night.

Crogan's motorcycle was smashed beyond repair when he collided with a truck on Harbor Boulevard, according the California Highway Patrol Traffic Officer Rick Stevens.

Crogan, 35, was rushed to Fountain Valley Community Hospital. He suffered multiple facial lacerations, abrasions and torn ligaments in his left leg.

"He's listed in serious condition but that's standard procedure. He's really lucky. He suffered a lot less damage than others I've seen come in from similar accidents," said Mike Nash, hospital public relations director.

At about 10 p.m., Marshall Lee Northcutt, driving a 1972 Jeep Scout was heading northbound on Harbor Boulevard by the Vagabond Motel, a short distance south of the San Diego Freeway when he allegedly attempted to make an illegal U-turn.

Crogan was heading south on Harbor.

Northcutt, 25, of Costa Mesa apparently didn't see the motorcycle and caused Crogan to broadside the small truck.

Stevens said the case is under investigation by the CHP — which takes charge of accidents involving police officers — and no charges have been filed against Northcutt.

Toro teen critical in freeway suicide try

A 19-year-old El Toro man with a suicide note stuffed in his billfold was critically injured late Thursday when he walked in front of car on the San Diego Freeway near the Lake Forest Drive offramp, authorities said.

Moody Kenneth Wayne was struck by 1976 Dodge driven by a female motorist who said she could not avoid the collision. Wayne was rushed to Mission Community Hospital where he is listed in critical condition today.

Orange County Sheriff's deputies said they believe Wayne deliberatly walked in front of the southbound car. A suicide note found in his wallet explained that he was despondent over personal problems, officers said.

The driver who struck Wayne was treated for facial lacerations and emotional trauma.

Pair clean out NB jeweler

A pair of armed bandits with black greasepaint smeared on their faces took nearly every piece of jewelery from an expensive Lido Village jewelery shop today after tying up and blindfolding the clerk, police said.

Newport Beach police said the robbers stormed into Jewelery by Mardo, 3416 Via Oporto, shortly after 10 a.m. and grabbed a lone employee.

Officers said the employee, whose identity was not released, was not injured.

Officers had not tabulated the total loss late this morning but speculated it would be staggering.

Clear skies predicted for weekend

A weak ridge of high pressure over the coast should keep skies clear of rain through the weekend, the National Weather Service says, but some cloudiness is expected to sneak in.

For coastal areas, forecasters said, the weather will be fair, except for some late night and early morning fog along the coastline.

Saturday is expected to be slightly warmer, with highs in the upper-60s.

The cloudy, dry weather should persist throughout the weekend and into next week, the weather service said.

COLLEGE COMPROMISE REACTION...

like there was a compromise on funding last fall and that fell through," said William Schreiber, assistant to the chancellor at Saddleback College, which has campuses in Irvine and Mission Viejo. "We'll believe it when the check's in the mail."

Schreiber said the $96.5 million being considered would only bring the two-year college back to 1982-83 budget levels.

"We at Saddleback have mixed emotions about it (the current compromise)," he said. "All this does is bring us back to where we were two years ago. It's tough to be overjoyed about being restored to a 2-year-old funding level. It doesn't allow us to consider much in the way of growth or program enhancement."

If the compromise is approved, Saddleback would receive an additional $2 million this school year, Schreiber said.

If the additional $2 million is provided, it will probably be used to purchase supplies or to replenish the building and self-insurance funds that were depleted to help balance this year's budget, Schreiber said.

"It will help keep the wolf at bay for another six months or so," he said. "The tragedy is that the price for this was (establishing) tuition."

The Coast Community College District, which includes Orange Coast, Golden West and Coastline colleges, also approved an austere budget based on the assumption that no additional state aid would be provided.

If the compromise is adopted in Sacramento, the Coast District would receive an additional $4.7 million for the 1983-84 school year, according to Correllan J. Thompson, the district's vice chancellor for business.

"The Coast Community College District has suffered the loss of more than $9 million over the past two years," Thompson said. "Restoring the base to us will mean a giant step in returning the Coast District to a level the community has wanted and supported in the past."

He said he district could use the additional funds on deferred maintenance and the purchase of instructional supplies, two areas cut in the current budget.

Thompson said district trustees could also decide to build up the reserve fund that is designed to cover unexpected emergencies. The trustees depleted the fund recently when they used the money to rehire teachers laid off early last year.

Thompson also said the restored funds could help relieve the district's "current deficit spending mode." He said the district's current budget was balanced only through the use of $4.2 million left over from last year's budget.

Calnon said it was not clear how the woman had died, though it was evident the death was not natural. Though police believe the woman was Katcher's wife, positive identification had not been established.

Ethier also suggested that firms considering allowing employees to work a more flexible schedule during the Olympics contact OCTD so that bus schedules can be coordinated to everyone's benefit.

And the worst day for the Olympics? That will be Friday, Aug. 3. The day traffic planners already have dubbed "Black Friday."

Edson said highway conditions may be terrible Aug. 3 because so many events are scheduled and people won't yet be used to the traffic disruptions expected during the Olympics.

In Orange County, however, the worst disruption could come Sunday, Aug. 5.

That morning, portions of the Riverside Freeway are to be closed for an Olympics bicycle race and, that afternoon, the California Angels are scheduled to play a a home game in Anaheim Stadium, Ethier said.

Edson asked employers interested in joining OCTD's ridesharing programto contact him at the transit district's offices.

County officials said the beaches will definitely remain closed over the weekend, but may be reopened early next week.

More study to be asked on sites for county jail

Environmental reports requested on Gypsum, Coal canyon locations

After nearly a year-long study into the feasibility of building a medium-maximum security jail in one of two remote canyons near the Riverside County line, Orange County, planning experts are ready to ask the Board of Supervisors to approve further study of sites in Gypsum and Coal canyons.

The county General Services Agency will ask supervisors to approve more detailed studies of the two locations, including an environmental impact report.

Supervisors will also be asked to endorse the idea of building a landfill adjacent to whichever jail site finally is selected, explained Bob Peterson of the county Environmental Management Agency.

But Peterson said he estimated it would be another year before county officials would have enough information to recommend which site is best for the jail and landfill.

Already, residents of Anaheim and Anaheim Hills are objecting to having the jail built near their communities.

The Gypsum and Coal canyon sites the county has been studying both are located near the Santa Ana River off Weir Canyon Road.

The county began its search for a new branch jail site to relieve over-crowded conditions in the Santa Ana main jail and to accommodate the county's detention needs through the end of the century. Construction is still estimated to be six to 10 years away.

Last February, supervisors voted to eliminate proposed sites in El Toro, Irvine and downtown Santa Ana, adjacent to the existing jail, after hearing protests from residents who lived near the proposed jail locations.

FV eyes development plan

Proposal turns 140 acres of Sakioka farmland into industrial park

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Fountain Valley City Council members are studying a development plan that would turn about 140 acres of local farm land into an industrial park.

The council, in its role as the Agency for Community Development, is encouraging light industrial construction on the property east of Euclid Street between Slater and Talbert avenues.

The land, now used for farming, is owned by the Sakioka family. The family's business, Sakioka Farms, is based in Santa Ana.

Contending the Sakiokas had shown little interest in developing the land, Fountain Valley officials negotiated over the past year with Transpacific Development Co. of Torrance. As a last resort, Fountain Valley officials say the city's redevelopment agency has the authority to condemn the farm land and purchase it from the Sakiokas. Then the agency would lease the property to Transpacific for industrial development.

Sakioka family members oppose the proposal, saying family members now want to develop the property themselves.

Roy Sakioka, the elderly head of the family, made a rare appearance Tuesday before the Fountain Valley council. He said the family is now interested in improving the farm land as an industrial park. He asked the council to allow the family to oversee this development instead of turning to an outside firm such as Transpacific.

Sakioka family members are negotiating with another development firm, the Cadillac Fairview Co. of Los Angeles.

Rick Stephens, senior vice president of Cadillac Fairview, said his firm has not yet reached a formal agreement with the Sakiokas. But he said the negotiations do involve the possible construction of a large Hughes Aircraft plant in Fountain Valley.

At Tuesday's meeting, council members said they would be willing to listen to any development plans presented by the Sakiokas.

But they also agreed to review a disposition and development agreement prepared by Transpacific and attorney Thomas P. Clark Jr, who has been retained as special counsel to the city's redevelopment agency.

Clark said the document calls for the construction of at least three large industrial facilities on the Sakioka property.

Michael Oberst, a Transpacific vice president, said the firm will have no difficulty finding major coprorations to occupy the Fountain Valley acreage.

But Clark said the plan gives Sakioka representatives the same right to develop the property if they can bring major corporations to Fountain Valley.

Councilman Ben Nielsen said the city entered into discussions with Transpacific because the Sakiokas were reluctant to develop the land from which the city would like to derive more revenue.

Industrial development would bring additional people into the city to patronize local businesses and bolster the local tax base.

Nielsen said city officials would prefer to deal with the property owner — the Sakioka family — and would probably condemn the property only as a last resort.

Councilwoman Barbara Brown agreed that city officials are not anxious to use their eminent domain powers.

"It's a very serious step," she said. "You use it very reluctantly."

The council is expected to continue discussion of the Transpacific plan at its Feb. 7 meeting.

Oft-criticized OC jail gets a medical chief

The Orange County Jail — repeatedly criticized for providing less-than-adequate health care to inmates — will get its first full-time medical director next month when a former Cal State Los Angeles health director assumes the post.

Harold Haughton, will begin working in the jail Feb. 10, according to county health officials. A professor of health and safety at the Cal State Los Angeles campus, the 60-year-old Haughton has had previous experience in correctional medical services.

He has held public health jobs in Napa, Lake and Santa Barbara counties since 1975 and treated county inmates in all four counties.

Haughton also said he is aware of the controversy over health care in the jail and of the Grand Jury's continued interest in the care of inmates. "I took this job because I thought it would be a challenge," he said.

Jail medical services were severely criticized in reports issued by both the 1982-83 and 1983-84 grand juries. The independent panels' reports raised concerns over inadequate staffing levels, lack of organization, the number of personnel and poor morale that seemed indemic among the jail's nursing staff.

Both Grand Jury panels also called for the hiring of a full-time medical director.

NEW VOLUNTEER FIRE OFFICERS IN LAGUNA

The Laguna Beach Volunteer Fire Department has elected new officers for 1984.

They are Dom D'Isabella, president; John Luna, vice-president; Alan Kawartani, treasurer; and Ross Tucker, secretary.

D'Isabella has been a volunteer for six years and works as a plumber at Campbell Plumbing in Laguna Beach. His father, Eugene, is captain of the Laguna Beach Fire Department.

Luna, a three-year volunteer, is an insurance inspector.

Kawartani, another three-year firefighter, is a student at Saddleback College.

Tucker has been on the volunteer force less than a year and is employed as a clothing salesman.

The Laguna Beach volunteers are paged whenever there is a structure fire or a brush fire within the city. The nine volunteers man Engine No. 8504, which is housed at Station 2, when they respond to an emergency.

CM police getting new computer

By CHRISTINE DECKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Costa Mesa is soon to have one of the most sophisticated police computers in the state.

Not even Los Angeles or San Diego County's police computers will rival Costa Mesa's updated model for speed and complexity, said Lt. John Regan, project manager.

The City Council got the computer chip rolling this week by agreeing to pay $82,000 to Public Management Services, Inc., a San Fransisco computer planning company, to do the upgrading. The changes, to be made in the records section of the computer, will be in full operation before the end of May.

"Because we'll be able to produce information faster, we'll be able to make more arrests and hopefully decrease crime," Regan said. "For example, say we've had a burglary in the morning in the Mesa Verde area of the city. With the changes coming in the computer we'll be able to chart a pattern and list the associated person or persons who fit the pattern of that burglary.

"We can get this information to the detectives by 8 a.m. the next day. Then, if they see one of the people roaming around that area we've got on our list, they have a pretty good cause for picking him up. It used to take three or four days to get such information and by that time there could be several more burglaries," Regan said.

The computer will also be able to chart crime trends. For example, it can accurately count the number of rapes in a certain part of the city during a certain time period so police can increase patrols and possibly prevent crimes.

Besides saving time, the computer changes will mean the city won't have to keep hiring additional records clerk to keep up with the increasing amount of information processed, according to Regan. The present system handles 1.5 million separate entries per month.

The advanced computer will also do some of the work in filling out offense reports, he said. Officers now do the reports by hand, which cuts down on their time in the field.

Burglars tunnel into Mesa office, but nothing missing

Puzzled police are still looking for one or more burglars who broke into Union, Inc. in Costa Mesa and then tunneled through a wall into Rockwell International, ransacking offices but taking nothing.

Responding to a tripped burglar alarm, police arrived shortly after midnight Wednesday to find a large wooden entry door was open at Union, a shipping and receiving warehouse behind Rockwell on Airway Avenue.

Stashed behind a cement column, police found a cassette recorder, a tool box and a can of coffee.

Inside, police discovered the office had been ransacked. They also found a hole had been chopped in a plaster board wall leading to Rockwell.

A canine unit was called in to search the building but the dogs didn't locate anyone. However, they led police to the second floor accounting office which had been ransacked. But apparently nothing was taken.

A police helicopter searched the area unsuccessfully.

Executions up in China

PEKING (AP) — Posters displayed outside Peking's city court today said 37 people were executed this week for crimes ranging from murder to rape, the largest group since the government launched a crackdown on lawlessness five months ago.

Thirty-two people were executed Wednesday and five today, the posters said. All were men, mostly in their 20s and many described as unemployed. In Shanghai, the newspaper Wen Hui Bao reported three men convicted of rape were executed Wednesday after a public rally.

The latest execution announcements in Peking bring to more than 130 the number of criminals put to death in the capital since the anti-crime campaign began in August.

Western diplomats in the capital say an estimated 5,000 people have been put to death nationwide since the campaign started, and tens of thousands have been arrested.

The announcements did not say how the condemned were executed, but most death sentences are carried out with a bullet to the back of the head, followed by another gunshot five minutes later.

The Communist government launched the anti-crime drive to smash what it called a wave of unchecked lawlessness.

Beirut battle near airport

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Druse insurgents pounded Lebanese army positions in the hills above the U.S. Marine base with tank fire today and sprayed Beirut's Christian sector with artillery and rocket barrages, police said. At least six civilians were reported wounded.

Police and Lebanese army positions were locked in heavy artillery duels with Druse gunners in the Aley mountain region, seven miles east of Beirut.

The sound of rapid blasts echoed through the city. Police said shells and rockets crashed into east Beirut's Ashrafieh, Dekwaneh, Sin el-Fil and Hazmieh neighborhoods as well as suburban Baabda, Kfarshima and Hadath.

The Christian port of Jounieh, 12 miles north of Beirut, was bombarded and shells also fell around the Defense Ministry in suburban Yarze close to the presidential palace and the residence of U.S. Ambassador Reginald Bartholomew.

Cold weather grips nation

Few states escapes freeze; Super Bowl weather not super

By the Associated Press Writer

A curtain of cold descending from Canada plunged temperatures below zero today from the northern Rockies to the Northeast, and parts of 49 states — all but Hawaii — were chilled to freezing.

"In fact, if you want a nice, warm vacation, you can go to Alaska," said Nolan Duke of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo. Juneau and Anchorage were both to be at or above the freezing mark, he said.

At least 18 lives have been claimed by the combination of arctic air and snow-slicked roads since Tuesday.

The mercury sank to 31 below zero today in International Falls, Minn., and 24 below in Fargo, N.D. Minneapolis reported a reading of 19 below, and most of Minnesota was in the minus-20 to minus-30 range.

Temperatures in the teens extended as far south as Louisiana, Alabama and Georgia. New Orleans hovered around the freezing mark overnight, and south Florida could do no better than the 40s and 50s.

In Tampa, Fla., the warm-weather site chosen for Sunday's Super Bowl football game, it was a chilly 47 early today.

Economic pace levels

Year's GNP growth fastest since 1978, government says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy grew 3.3 percent in 1983, recovering its recession losses in a frenzied spring and summer and then moving on to a calmer expansion, government figures showed today.

The year's advance was the fastest since the 5.8 percent of 1978 and followed a drop in growth of 1.9 percent and a gain of 2.6 percent in the recession years of 1982 and 1981, respectively, the Commerce Department reported.

Adjusting for inflation, it said, GNP climbed to $1.535 trillion last year from $1.485 trillion in 1982 — a growth of 3.3 percent.

Commenting on today's report, Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said, "We have had a strong recovery."

Last year's gain was fueled largely by a strong comeback in final sales, in part because of a boom in consumer spending, and business investment to rebuild inventories sharply depleted during the downturn.

Restraining the year's growth was the weight of a deteriorating performance in foreign trade. The net trade figure slumped sharply as merchandise trade posted a record deficit of about $70 billion.

Baldrige, meeting with reporters, predicted a further worsening this year.

He noted the negative effect of the high interest rates and the strong dollar on trade, saying, "the major key" to restraining interest rates is reducing the federal budget deficits, which have resulted in record government borrowing in credit markets.

Bank predicts strong growth

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Economic recovery in Southern California should outpace that in the rest of the nation this year, the chief economist for Los Angeles-based Security Pacific National Bank says.

Tourism, electronics and aerospace are expected to give the economoy its biggest boost, said Robert Parry, an executive vice president for the bank.

The tourist industry will reap its biggest benefit from the Summer Olympics, which are expected to pour $3 billion into the local economy, Parry said Thursday.

Defense expenditures, which have increased steadily since the mid-1970s, should permit continued expansion in the aerospace and electronics industries through 1985, he added.

Home construction — considered a bellwether of general economic well-being — is expected to continue at about the same pace as last year, which was double the depressed rate of 1982.

Parry predicted that the improved housing situation wouldn't be cut short by interest rates, which are expected to hover between 13 percent and 14 percent for conventional, fixed-rate mortgages.

Unemployment should drop to 7.5 percent by December, Parry said.

Parry's forecasts largely paralleled those made by several banks and the UCLA Graduate School of Business last month.

KIDNAP A HOAX — GI

SCHWAEBISCH-GMUEND, West Germany (AP) — A U.S. Army soldier has admitted that his purported kidnapping by anti-nuclear activists last weekend was an elaborate hoax, West German police said today.

Herbert Sarchro, spokesman at Stuttgart police headquarters, said Spec. 4 Liam Fowler, 21, of Port Orange, Fla., told authorities he had acted alone.

The U.S. Army declined immediate comment. However, sources said the Army and West German authorities would release a joint statement later in the day.

The soldier made a telephone call to his wife, Nikki, at their home near Schwaebisch-Gmuend, early last Saturday, claiming he had been kidnapped in his car the night before by "six protesters."

In a second call Saturday afternoon, Fowler asked his wife to publicize through the American news media the opposition to deploying new U.S. missiles in West Germany.

The soldier was found unharmed Sunday morning in a barn in Bavaria. He was hospitalized in Stuttgart after initial questioning and then released Wednesday for further questioning by West German police.

Sarchro said Fowler admitted the hoax during questioning late Thursday in Schwaebisch-Gmuend.

"We cannot release the details yet," he said, adding that West German police and the prosecutor met with the commander of Fowler's unit, the 56th Field Artillery Brigade, to discuss the case.

The brigade is the first to receive Pershing 2 nuclear missiles in West Germany.

Sarchro said he couldn't explain the call reported by the West German news agency DPA last Saturday in which a German-speaking man said Fowler had been abducted.

Well-informed sources who spoke on the condition they not be identified in any way said Fowler had been readmitted today to the Army's 5th General Hospital in Stuttgart for psychological tests.

Sarchro said Fowler's new red Dodge Charger had not been found.

Nixon as neighbor ticks off a tenant

Nixon has stalled the former president's effort to buy a 12-room cooperative apartment in Manhattan for $1.8 million. PAUL HARVEY

Women ought to back the President

Women could decide who will be the next president of the United States. In 1980 more women than men voted. They may again in 1984.

President Reagan's refusal to endorse ERA hurt him politically with some women; his perpetuation of military draft registration is resented by others.

Is it possible this handsome, charming president is getting a bum rap? He thinks he is. He says the issue of his attitude toward women has been surrounded with "a fog of demagoguery."

Let's see, if we can, through the fog.

From historical perspective this president has done nothing more significant than reducing inflation to 2.4 percent last year, the least in 17 years.

He believes that women should appreciate that.

The prime interest rate is down from a Carter administration high of 21 12 percent to about half that.

In just the past year two million new jobs have been added to our economy, dropping the unemployment rate for adult women from 9.2 percent to 7.9 percent.

The administration believes we of the media have been ignoring constructive accomplishments which benefit women: virtual elimination of the widow's tax, reduction in the marriage tax penalty.

When IRAs were expanded, women benefited most.

As when larger tax credits were allowed working mothers for child care.

Retirement and pension plans no longer penalize women.

Three million women now own businesses and that number is growing faster than the number of men-owned businesses.

For the first time federal job training was specifically targeted to women.

The president authorized "flex-time" work schedules to accommodate working mothers, so that they could adjust their work day to their children's schoolday.

Women still do not receive equal pay for equal work despite laws which provide that they should. The average working woman takes home about one-third less than the average man who is similarly employed.

But President Reagan is supporting changes in 112 federal laws which discriminate against women and has established a project to assist governors who are willing similarly to modify discriminatory state laws.

Then, of course, this president has placed more women in top policy-making positions than has any other president in a comparable period of time.

They include the familiar ones plus 1,200 other women in executive positions. So the potentially decisive women's vote in the next election could go either way.

One of the things this president has going for him is his mutually respectful working partnership with his own wife.

This may be unrelated but ...

There's an old Ron Reagan movie still on late-night TV in which an Oriental says, "In my country a man tells a woman what to do!"

And Mr. Reagan replies, "Oh? And how is your country doing?"

No hospital at UCI would be a great medical error

To the Editor:

If the approval of Irvine Medical Center means that UCI will not get its campus hospital, then one of the great medical blunders in Orange County history will have been committed.

Orange County needs a major medical referral center located on the campus of a university. Because of the academic freedoms present in a university, here is where you find the "superdocs" to whom patients with specialized problems can be referred by the doctors in town. The better the university facilities, the better the medical care in the entire Orange County community.

The facility now used by UCI doctors is essentially a Medi-Cal facility in Orange, hardly impressive to either doctors or patients.

You also can't expect the superdocs to be happy about having their research and clinical offices in Irvine, then have to admit their patients miles away in Orange. It's wasted time hassling the freeways, when the doctors should be caring for their patients in the hospital next door, or conducting their research.

It's also bad for patient care if patients must travel over freeways to reach the hospital after being seen in offices in Irvine for their severe medical conditions. The sensible solution is to locate both outpatient clinics and hospital on campus in Irvine, with the hospital in Orange serving as a satellite to the main hospital in Irvine.

The value of a major medical center on the campus of UCI should not be underestimated. As things stand now, there are two possibilities for resolution of the Irvine hospital controversy.

Either allow two hospitals to be built in Irvine (the community hospital in East Irvine and the campus hospital at UCI), or put Irvine Medical Center on the campus of UCI.

In any case, UCI must have a hospital on campus. The people of Orange County need it.

U.S. rhetoric can't be believed

Sec. Shultz is babbling his way into big lies

WASHINGTON — I came home the other night to watch the nightly news. I saw Secretary of State George Shultz condemn the grounding of a U.S. helicopter in Honduras and the killing of the pilot by saying, "It is unacceptable to fire from one country to another country and end up killing some people." Larry Speakes at the White House called the action "reckless and unprovoked." Then, Daniel Ortega, the Nicaraguan chief of state, characterized the flight as anything but "innocent." I believed the Nicaraguan.

Shultz, who will apparently say anything to prove he is not an academic sissy, is fast babbling away his credibility. When it comes to shooting from one country to the next, the United States has been doing that for a quite a while. Unless you are the only person in the world who believes that the anti-Sandinista Contras in Honduras are not receiving both CIA money and advice in their war against Nicaragua, then what Shultz said should strike you as preposterous.

Daily, the Contras launch strikes from Honduras into Nicaragua. The Contras have blown up oil depots within Nicaragua and have even managed to bomb the airport at Managua. They are, in effect, conducting a guerrilla war against the Sandinista regime--a war launched at the behest of the United States and financed by it. Just to complicate matters, witnesses reported that the downed helicopter not only strayed over Nicaraguan territory, but its American markings were obscured by mud. The Nicaraguans may not have known they were shooting at an American helicopter.

The issue at the moment is not the advisability of this dirty little war, which is both acknowledged and unacknowledged by our own government. The issue instead is the credibility of our government--its tendency to talk to us the way the Soviet leaders talk to their own people. In the persons of both Shultz and Speakes, for instance, you have two important government officials telling you something that you know is either not true or downright absurd.

For Shultz, though, this is par for the course. He was the first to pop onto the tube after the downing of the Korean airliner--and the first to say things that turned out not to be true. He characterized the downing as something akin to premeditated murder and left us all with a picture of a homicidal Soviet government--one that knew it was dealing with a civilian airliner.

It turned out later that there were some excuses. There had been a U.S. spy plane in the vicinity, the Soviets might have confused the two planes, the Soviet pilot might not have recognized the Korean plane as a civilian aircraft (Shultz said he did) and the order to shoot probably came when "The Book" was substituted for good judgment. Just recently, for instance, the Soviet armed forces published a critique of the way it handled the Korean airliner incident, indicating not the homicidal intent that Shultz alleged, but something different--a mistake.

Similarly on Grenada, the administration was quick to issue statements that turned out not to be true. These statements concerned the jeopardy American medical students were in, the number of Cubans on the island and the sorts of Cubans they were--construction workers or soldiers.

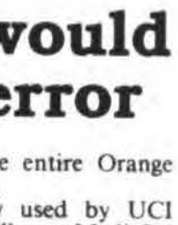
In contrast, from yet another island, Fidel Castro of all people was issuing statements that conformed to the facts. It was he who announced the correct number of Cubans. It was he who gave their right occupations. It was he who provided a more accurate account of events leading up to the American invasion.

Mistakes are inevitable, especially in confusing circumstances. Shultz and the administration can be excused some statements simply because all the facts were not yet in. But even taking that into account, you still have to conclude that they are not above winging it on the facts or striking a ludicrous posture.

In discussing the helicopter incident on television the other night, the Marxist leader of an authoritarian state came off better than two officials of our own democracy. He used a clever media device. He made sense.

HONEST MAN GETS UNJUST REWARD

JACK ANDERSON



WASHINGTON — Robert Reilly was a top official at the U.S. Information Agency until he committed an unpardonable sin: He tried to save the taxpayers some money.

This seemed to offend a congressional aide who handles the USIA's budget. Reilly's superior, Charles Wick, feared that antagonizing the aide might imperil the budget that provides USIA with daily manna. To placate the aide, Wick banished poor Reilly to a lowly outpost. Discouraged, the taxpayers' hero left.

The whole byzantine affair centered on a junket to Australia; such things are important in Washington. Here are the dreary details:

The man who wanted to go to Australia was Spencer Oliver, who earned a footnote in history as the politico whose phone at the Democratic Party headquarters was tapped by the Watergate burglars.

Oliver also had a telephone set up at the American Council of Young Political Leaders, a bipartisan educational outfit he founded in 1970, which gets about $400,000 a year from USIA.

Oliver is an inveterate traveler at the taxpayers' expense. He not only toured the United States as an ACYPL official, but from 1970 to 1981 he went on 32 trips abroad — to Western Europe, the Soviet Union, Japan, China, Latin America and Africa.

In 1982, Oliver asked USIA to pay for his 33rd overseas trip — this one to Australia with a group of ACYPL delegates. The travel request was channeled to Reilly who saw no need for an escort to accompany the delegates and so notified ACYPL.

If the delegates had needed a translator and Oliver could have fulfilled that function, Reilly indicated. USIA might have approved the expense. But Reilly solemnly noted that English is spoken in Australia.

Since Oliver was a Democrat, his travel wishes should have been of small consequence to the Reagan administration. But Washington is a city of interlocking connections. Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., is chairman of the Helsinki Commission, where Oliver works. He is also chairman of the subcommittee that oversees USIA's budget.

Fascell was the model of propriety in this whole sideshow. But a busy congressman doesn't always know what is done in his name.

The subcommittee aide who handles USIA matters for Fascell is Virginia Schlundt. She placed a call to the deputy director of USIA and, according to one account, "chewed him out for half an hour." The substance of her complaint was that Reilly had made a serious mistake, that Oliver should go to Australia and that Reilly should be fired.

In the end, Oliver went to Australia but used ACYPL's funds. Wick groused that Reilly had used bad judgment when he rejected Oliver's trip request. "I need Dante Fascell," the USIA director later confessed to a group of congressional aides. "He's too important to our budget."

After a brief period in the USIA's doghouse, Reilly left the agency. But the final chapter was written in a highly sensitive USIA memo, which my associate Dale Van Atta has obtained. The memo charges that most of the Democrats sent abroad by ACYPL from 1978 to 1982 were from "a definable clique that was active in Democratic Party affairs in the 1960s (who) served as the core of the Young Democrats."

Oliver isn't mentioned by name. But he was head of the Young Democrats in the 1960s. Later he founded ACYPL and became its foremost junketeer.

The memo also notes that "an inordinate number of representatives of particular states" were included among ACYPL's globe-trotting travelers. Specifically cited was Florida — Fascell's home state.

Footnote: Virginia Schlundt did not respond to several telephone calls.

Do they have weekly rates?

Those who propose the United States "rent" the Israeli Armed Forces to resolve the Middle East crises have come up with nothing original. President James Madison realized war with England was imminent. And he knew this country couldn't afford to build a big navy. So he proposed we rent Portugal's.

This is the winter, is it not, to prove that Fahrenheit and Centigrade thermometers read exactly the same at one temperature only -- 40 degrees below zero?

Each day on the average, the human mouth produces a quart of saliva and the human skin excretes two and a half quarts of sweat, I'm told. Why I'm told is a mystery. I didn't want to know.

The left bank of a river is the bank on the left, looking downstream. You know that. But that's not necessarily so, if the river is on a map. The left bank of the Mississippi on a map is the right bank if you're on the river itself.

A. An "English kiss."

CAUSE OF CRIME IS NOT THE EFFECT OF POVERTY

SIDNEY HARRIS

One of the trickiest words we commonly use, without thinking about it, is "cause." According to Aristotle, there are four distinct kinds of causes, which we will not go into today. What I want to discuss now is the presumed "cause" of much crime.

There are two basic and opposite viewpoints: one is that poverty "causes" crime; the other is that poverty does not "cause" crime. Both are wrong, because each uses "cause" in a different sense.

In one sense, poverty causes crime, because there is much more crime perpetrated by the poor than by the well-to-do. On the other hand, poverty does not cause crime because most poor people are not criminals, and only a small minority of the underprivileged resort to law-breaking.

Obviously, it is poverty plus some other condition that promotes criminality -- and I think that this other condition is proximity. Poor people live in closer proximity to one another -- in slums, or ghettos -- and it is this concentration that makes for crime. There is much poverty on the land, on farms and rural regions, but relatively little crime where people are not jammed together. It is density of population that generates anti-social behavior.

Schopenhauer once compared the human condition to a colony of porcupines trying to survive a winter. They flee to a cave, where they are still cold, so they huddle together for warmth, but the closer they huddle, the more their quills prick each other, and they are forced to move farther apart.

The financially comfortable among us are able to buy or rent our own "caves," with adequate space, and heating and privacy, even to our separate bedrooms and bathrooms. But the poor remain in the position of the porcupines, crowded together, both publicly and privately, and acutely aware of the quills of resentment and anger and frustration.

It is not the poverty per se that breeds so much crime as the poverty plus the proximity; as the community of misery, as the sense of helplessness and hopelessness is intensified by social constriction, the absence of privacy, the lack of contact with the nourishing land

PROPRIETY QUESTIONED

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My young son has been living with a girl for two years. Although it broke my heart, I said very little about it. Maybe I am old-fashioned, but their living arrangement was an embarrassment to me.

Last month the girl had his baby. He was born prematurely and lived only a few hours. The local newspaper ran the item in the obituary column, saying the infant was survived by his mother (giving her maiden name) and his father, bearing our family name. They also included the names of both sets of grandparents, maternal and paternal.

I feel it was not necessary to run the obituary at all and surely, under the circumstances, they did not need to publish the names of the grandparents. My son says he did not give the newspaper the information, nor did his girlfriend. How do newspapers get these items? Am I wrong to feel as I do? — DISCONCERTED IN VA.

DEAR VA.: Births and deaths are a matter of public record. Newspapers have access to such information.

Since the infant you are writing about lived only a few hours and was born out of wedlock, I question the propriety of publishing the names of the grandparents.

DEAR ANN: This is for "Petrified in Texas," who stated that in five years he probably will be wearing full dentures because of his fears of dentists. I know a few other nuts who think the same way.

Just where does he think he will eventually get these dentures ... from the corner tavern, the supermarket, or perhaps the gas station?

Before he gets dentures he must have all the rotten stubs removed from his mouth. Then he needs to have an impression made. After the teeth are fitted, he must return for adjustments. All this must be done in the dentist's office.

So, "Texas" and all the other fraidy cats out there, take your choice — now or later.

I wish someone had educated me early on the importance of taking care of my teeth. They are precious gems. Treasure them. — DENTURE-WEARER IN NEW JERSEY.

DEAR DENT: Thanks for putting the problem in proper focus.

DEAR ANN: You have written extensively and often about drunken drivers and said they should be treated like the criminals they are.

I wonder how many people are aware of the other deaths caused by drunkenness? Here are some figures from columnist Dr. Timothy Johnson.

Seventy percent of choking victims are intoxicated. 70 percent of all drowning victims, 70 percent of all burn victims, and 50 percent of "freak accidents." Makes you stop and think, doesn't it? — CAPE COD.

DEAR COD: Sure does. More and more I see the wisdom of my decision, at age 15, never to touch the stuff.

Variety of bare root roses abound

Follow planting guidelines for optimum performance

By LOUIS HERNANDEZ JR.
Salesman
Lloyd's Nursery, Costa Mesa

The bare root rose season is in full swing, with all the old favorites and introductions at local nurseries, promising another superb year for rose culture.

Leading the way for introductions is the Olympiad, the official rose for the 1984 Summer Olympics. An excellent addition to any rose garden, the Olympiad is a red rose, whose hybridizers claim will hold its color longer and is more disease resistant than the favorite red rose, Mr. Lincoln.

Other introductions are Intrigue (plum) and Impatient (orange-red), selected as roses-of-the-year by the American Rose Society.

When selecting an Olympiad or any other bare root rose choose the most vigorous looking bush with a branching structure that resembles the fingers of a hand holding a softball. This will yield a bush with an open branching structure, which will allow light penetration to all the interior leaves. To obtain best results prune back the bare root bush and amend the soil before planting.

Bare root roses are harvested at the wholesale rose farm by a machine that cuts the tops and roots at an equal length. If planted as is, the bush's roots will not be numerous enough to adequately supply all the new growth with nutrients and water.

This is why pre-plant pruning is highly recommended. Cut back all the canes to a length of about 8 inches, ¼ inch above a bud located on the outside portion of the cane. Remove any broken, twiggy or dead branches. Treat the fresh cuts with black pruning paint.

When buds break in the spring, examine each cane and remove all shoots growing toward the inside of the bush. This will alleviate crowding of the new canes, thus yielding healthy vigorous roses.

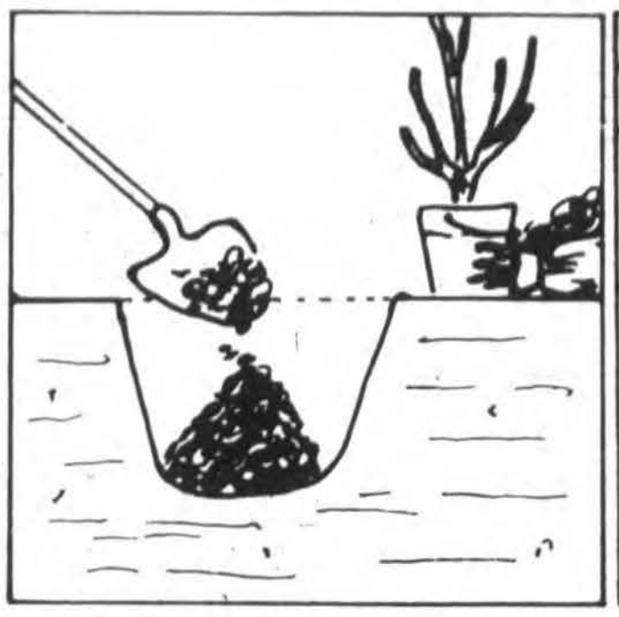
In the first year it is better to have fewer healthier roses than many small spindly roses.

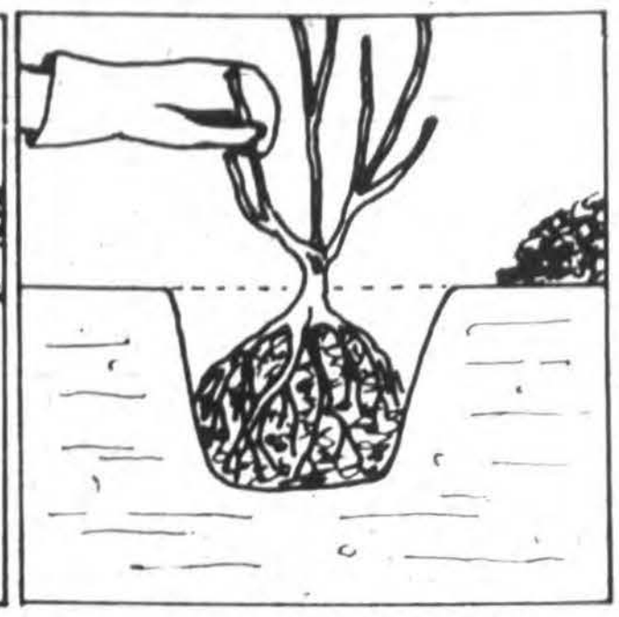
If the soil is not prepared correctly it will affect the rose's performance for many years to come.

Begin by digging a hole at least 18 inches deep (deeper in heavy clay soils) and 24 inches wide. To the soil from the hole add an equal portion of mulch (redwood is best) to get 50 percent soil and 50 percent mulch. At the same time add bone meal or Super Bloom (0-10-10) to increase flower production.

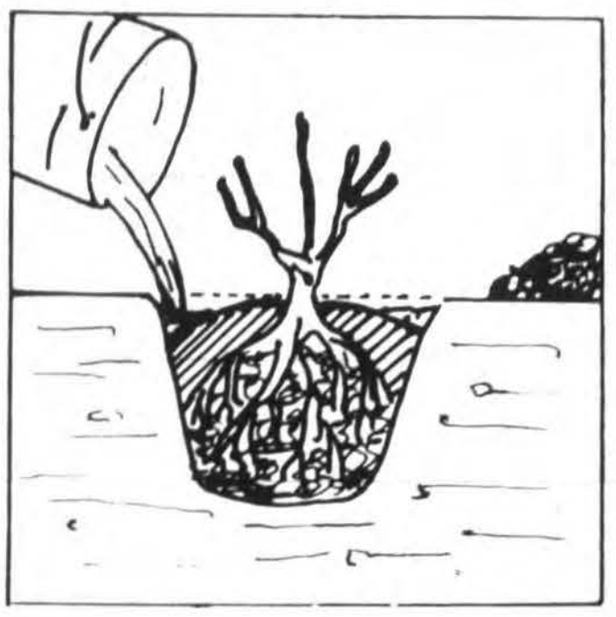
Thoroughly mix the soil mulch and fertilizer together so no layers are formed. Begin filling the hole with the amended soil so a mound is formed in the center of the hole. To avoid shock and promote new root production, dip roots in a B1 solution (for a couple of minutes or longer) and then spread the rose bush out over the mound.

With the rose now in place continue filling the hole, making sure not to leave any air spaces. The final soil level should be 2 to 3 inches below the bottom of the bud union.





Dig a hole at least 18 inches deep and 24 inches wide. Amend soil from the hole and mix thoroughly so there are no layers. Begin filling hole with amended soil to form mound. Spread roots over mound and continue to fill hole. After the planting is complete, give the rose a thorough watering.



To facilitate deep watering, make a well around the rose bush with any excess soil. After the planting is complete, give the rose a thorough watering.

Post planting care should consist of: a 2-inch layer of redwood compost or shredded bark (not bark chips), regular deep waterings and fertilizer applications (not steer manure) every six weeks.

GARDEN CHECKLIST

• Asparagus and artichokes are two tasty vegetables that do not need replanting each year. Plant these perennial vegetables this month.

• Spruce up flower beds with winter annuals. Look for pansies, violas, Iceland poppies and more at your local nursery.

• Giving your lawn a light feeding now will give it a boost as we move towards warmer weather.

• Be sure to water container plantings especially if they're under eaves or on the porch where the rain doesn't get to them.

• Dust should be cleaned from leaves of houseplants. Those that require the most light should be moved in the winter to windows with a southern exposure.

• This is one of the best times to transplant evergreen and deciduous shrubs.

Enjoy glads indoors and out.

Plant bulbs now; you'll be glad later

The earlier you plant gladiolus bulbs, the earlier you will be enjoying their colorful flowers in your garden.

Plant some now and make additional plantings every 15 to 25 days until July and you will have glads in the landscape and as cut flowers from late spring until late fall.

As with all bulb flowers, they are easy to grow. To insure top performance and tops in flower form:

— Discourage any possible infestation of thrips, those minute bugs that love the glad almost as much as gardeners. Dust the bulbs with an insecticide powder before planting. As the tops sprout, give them an occasional dusting or use a liquid spray.

— Be sure to set the bulbs in the ground on an even keel because glads will grow in whatever direction they are pointed. Plant them on a 45-degree angle and they will grow and bloom at that angle.

— Give the bulbs a good start with the right soil by working some compost into the planting area. Also work some fertilizer (bonemeal is excellent) into the soil under the bulbs before you plant, but avoid any direct contact of bulb with fertilizer.

— Set bulbs 4 to 6 inches deep depending on their size. The larger the bulbs, the deeper you will plant them. Space them about 6 inches apart in rows.

For a more massed effect, plant them in two rows about 4 inches apart with the bulbs staggered.

— Water the bulbs well after planting and do so regularly throughout the growing season. Water is important during the period just before bloom to insure the quality of the flower spikes. Feed them with a balanced plant food monthly.

Activist Gerry Bernhard joins a game of Rummikub at senior center that she fought for in San Jose.

SENIOR BARK GETS ACTION

SAN JOSE (AP) — Gerry Bernhard is 70, but that doesn't mean she's retired from fighting battles with City Hall and anybody else she thinks is doing something damaging to senior citizens.

Her needling tongue and lack of awe at officialdom has thrust her into the role of champion for causes near and dear to the hearts of her fellow seniors.

"Maybe I'm a troublemaker," she said recently. "But there are times you have to bark in order to be heard. And believe me, I'm a good barker."

Her main battle began seven years ago when Moreland School was closed and the site was sold to the city. Officials promised housing and a center for seniors and a park for children. But when a developer was chosen, plans changed.

When the problem was called to her attention by friend Lilyann Brannon, things started to happen.

"The two of us got in the harness together and started the long pull," Bernhard said. They staged a series of events to raise money to battle the city, and they won.

In 1980, the city settled their suit by promising to reserve 80 low-income, one-bedroom rentals for seniors and give priority to the elderly on two-bedroom apartments.

City officials also agreed to pick up the pair's $10,000 legal fees. And they told the developer to build a 4,000-square-foot neighborhood facility for senior citizens.

Now, that center has been named the Gerry Bernhard Senior Center, with its namesake as president. The center has 100 members, who each pay $3 a year to take part in activities ranging from seminars to exercise classes.

"The thing that makes this center different from the city-run centers is that there's no paid staff," Bernhard said. "It doesn't cost the taxpayers a penny. What we have here are seniors volunteering for seniors."

Bernhard has the background for such enterprise. While living in Miami, she helped set up the city's first subsidized senior housing. In 1961, she was Dade County's outstanding woman of the year.

Bernhard, who says legendary actress Sarah Bernhardt was her husband's great-aunt, shares her home with five cats. But her "family" is at her senior center.

"If someone gets sick, we take turns preparing food," she said. "If someone can't drive, someone takes him shopping or to the doctor. These are beautiful people. This is a family. And the best part is that we're doing it all on our own."

Coast teens really work for Junior Miss pageant

By KARREN ZAPPE
Daily Pilot Correspondent

Work usually isn't mentioned when discussing beauty pageant criteria. Talent, poise, grace, intelligence, and of course, beauty are more common subjects.

But organizing or participating in a beauty pageant really could be a lot of work. For example, how do you keep 64 California Junior Miss contestants, many with nervous jitters and excited giggles, busy for 10 days?

"We've got a lot of rehearsals," Fountain Valley Junior Miss Laura Ann McCully said.

"In 10 days they will learn how hard they can work," Helene Guggiana, contestants chairman, said of her charges for the pageant which began Tuesday in Santa Rosa and runs through Saturday.

It takes a lot of rehearsals to put on four production numbers. The high school seniors, most untrained as entertainers, must learn several routines, including the 10-minute physical fitness drill that makes up 15 percent of the judging points.

"It's moving and dancing that everyone can do," Guggiana said. "It's more a contest to see who's standing at the end. The audience really enjoys watching it. It's cute."

Sounds like work.

Contestants also are judged on poise and grace, performing arts and scholastic achievement. Five educators judge the difficulty of their courses and the grades they received. Then there's an interview that's worth 35 percent of the total points.

"We like to find out where they're coming from and if they're aware of the world around them," Guggiana said. "We find out if they have opinions and if they can express them."

Julie Anderson

Laura Ann McCully

The new California Junior Miss, four runners-up and four special achievement winners will receive college scholarships. The winner will represent California in America's Junior Miss finals this summer in Mobile, Ala.

The work of participating in the pageant started long before the contestant's stay in Santa Rosa. Guggiana said most of the entrants are excellent students, which usually means lots of homework and studying.

But there's also the work of developing a performing art. Laura Ann McCully took her first dance lesson eight years ago. The 17-year-old daughter of James and Judith McCully will perform a ballet jazz dance to the music of "Flashdance."

A senior at Fountain Valley High School, Laura belongs to the California Scholarship Federation, is a cheerleader and has been active in student government for three years. As sophomore she attended the Hugh O'Brian Leadership Seminar and has worked on fund-raisers for the Muscular Dystrophy Association for six years. She would like to major in business at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

Laura Ann said she began aspiring to be California Junior Miss when a pageant representative came to her school and explained the program which "sounded like fun and a great way to meet people."

Irvine Junior Miss Julie Anderson, 17, said she started with the program because of the scholarships. The University High school senior would like to attend Stanford University and major in international business law.

The daughter of Jack M. and Nancy Anderson is on the varsity tennis, diving and softball teams. She is a member of the California Scholarship Federation and served as secretary for the March of Dimes Youth Council, which helped plan that organization's local walk-a-thon.

"It's a good cause that helps people and helps prevent birth defects," she said.

This year she's homecoming queen, student body vice president and president of Girls' League and the ski club.

Julie will be performing a comic-dramatic monologue that she wrote about a girl waiting for her prom date to arrive and the conversation she has with her parents.

She says she isn't nervous about performing because "I did a lot of professional acting — extra roles and bit parts in commercials — while I was in junior high."

If she should win the title Saturday, she would like to spread the good will of the program.

"The Junior Miss is not just one person, but a representative of a bunch of outstanding girls in the program," she said. "It's a wonderful program with lots of neat people and girls who are really outstanding."

When the 64 contestants return home after a week away from school, there will be still more work.

"We got a note last year from one contestant who said we gave her a great experience but she wished we had also given her someone to do her homework," Guggiana said.

Center updates data on kids

When a child is missing, what good are fingerprints except for identifying a body

FRESNO (AP) — The anguish of having missing children tears at hundreds of thousands of American families each year. Some children are found within hours, but others are gone forever.

A Fresno businessman thinks he has an idea that could help: a non-profit corporation called National Child Identification Center to keep updated information on youngsters as they grow.

Wallace Scheuerman, an investment counselor, was concerned that parents of missing children are too distraught to give authorities quick, reliable, descriptions and that photographs tend to be old or of poor quality.

"There is no agency in the whole United States that deals with children before the fact, except for fingerprints," said spokesman Roy Mitchell. "What are fingerprints good for? Identifying a body."

The center provides parents with a $5 kit that includes a form to list a child's description, medical history, likes and dislikes, just in case the information is needed.

"We didn't put it together to be a clearinghouse," Mitchell said. "We deal with children prior to a crisis. What we're trying to do is get parents to put together accurate, up-to-date information prior to anything happening."

Since its opening in September at a small office, The National Child Identification Center (P.O. Box 5839, Fresno, 93755), will store data sheets and fingerprints for a $10 annual fee or the data, fingerprints and photographs for $15. Quarterly reminders will be mailed to obtain new pictures.

Mitchell explained that a large number of parents want the center to store information on microfilm as a safeguard to be relayed to law enforcement agencies and news media in an emergency.

For children of divorce, the agency can also contact authorities where the former spouse lives.

The center estimates 1 million American youngsters, including runaways, disappear each year, and 100,000 of them are never found.

"Where do these children end up? In child prostitution, pornography, things they're forced into by criminals," Mitchell said.

"People really are tuned into this. We'd like to reach every kid in the United States."

Mitchell had a troubling experience with a lost child when his preschool daughter, Shannon, wandered off with playmates to find a park and was missing briefly.

He encountered a problem that he believes is common with many police agencies. Missing children are assigned a low priority until they are missing 24 hours or authorities have evidence of foul play.

Murder exercise upsetting

CONCORD (AP) — A teacher who told his students to plot the perfect murder as a writing exercise says he might "reconsider" the odd homework assignment after being scolded by a student's angry mother.

Veteran English teacher Pierre Peterson said the assignment — to plot the death of a rich uncle in order to collect an inheritance — is one he's used for years to teach his students about good writing and logical story-plotting.

But Donna Brown said Tuesday she doesn't want her daughter, a freshman, to think so intensely about killing another person.

"It's one thing to see it on TV or read about it in the newspapers, but once you have to start meditating about it in your mind, you're too involved with murder," Mrs. Brown said.

"Her ambition is to be a nurse, and she's supposed to plot the perfect murder?"

Peterson defends the idea as an "attention getter" that always elicits an enthusiastic response from his writing students.

"It's no more sinister than reading Agatha Christie, and probably less so," he said. Students "like it very much ... They call it 'challenging.'"

Peterson said most of the plots turn out to be more comical than insidious. He noted one student planned to kill the uncle by rigging an outhouse to collapse on him.

He said he had received only one complaint before, in 1977, and several letters and calls from supportive parents since the current controversy began. However, he intends to send out letters to parents of present and former students to see if they object.

Clipped Wings turn 10

Former flight attendants bearly entertained

The 10th anniversary celebration of the OC Chapter of United Air Lines' Clipped Wings at Chanteclair was full of surprises. The first one, the dancing bear duo, delighted more than 100 members and guests waiting for their table numbers to be called for the buffet.

The bears (really people in costume) joined the celebration spirit by stepping lively to the taped Happy Birthday song.

Another surprise — Gail Preston, founder of the chapter and its first president, was presented with a certificate and document of appreciation plus a briefcase gift.

Surprises were also among the door prizes awarded following a fashion presentation by Noddie Weltner of I. Magnin, South Coast Plaza.

Marilyn Schaefer, the national president, flew out (United, of course) from Nebraska to join the party as members reviewed the organization's history through verse. (Clipped Wings is a national group formed in 1948 and comprised of past and present UAL flight attendants. All support retarded groups — with Ray of Hope the Orange County recipient.) Barbara Vincent, national secretary, came from Palm Springs.

The Saturday event began with palmist Karen Lee Attwood holding hands and describing characteristics of those in the long lines and concluded with Steven Thompson sketching their caricatures.

Among those attending were Arlene Littman, chairman, Lynn McMaster, Jana Miller and Barbara Roberts, all on the planning committee,. Karen Waldron, president; Jacqueline Abel, Mary K. Dana, Kathleen LaBelle, Joanne Phillips, Beverly Salata and her daughter Melanie Salata and Pamela Smith. Others were Marian Hanst, Jeanne O'Connor, Lois Bruns, Shirlee Cobb, Nancy Derickson, LaVon DeGraw, Susan Garber, Becky Patty and Lesley Von Iderstine.

We are not the only ones who have stressed the need for a combined holding of at least eight cards for a satisfactory trump suit. While this is surely the most flexible holding, a seven card fit, especially in a major, is often more than adequate. The great guru of the 4-3 fit was the late Sonny Moyse, and it has become known in the trade as the Moysian fit. This hand, from a tournament more than 20 years ago, was one of his favorites.

We do not know why East, who was sure of at least six tricks in diamonds, behaved so tamely throughout the auction. South opened in his long suit, then took advantage of East's silence to show his four-card major at the one-level. North took a preference to clubs, and East belatedly introduced his diamond suit.

That gave South the opportunity for a fine bid. He wanted to play in game somewhere, but he was not sure where, so he showed his power with a cue bid of three diamonds. That almost surely denied a diamond stopper, for with the enemy suit under control, South could have bid some number of no trump. Now North described the other feature of his hand — three-card spade support. Note that he could not have four spades, since he did not raise spades immediately.

South decided that North could not have more than two diamonds on the auction. If that were the case, the defenders could not force South with diamonds, causing him to lose control of the trump suit. So South boldly bid the game in spades, his known seven card fit, rather than in clubs, his ten-card fit.

Events proved him right. After a diamond lead, he lost exactly three tricks in the red suits. He would have lost exactly the same tricks at a contract of five clubs.

Anteaters stun Bulldogs

UC Irvine puts it together to top Fresno St., 63-57

By JOHN SEVANO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

So UC Irvine is a basketball team in disarray, is it? A collection of individuals who are more concerned with points and minutes played than they are with wins and losses?

Guess again.

First of all, you don't win many ball games with individualism. And you certainly don't beat one of the nation's top 20 teams (according to the rankings) with selfishness and dissention.

The Anteaters, who admittedly have had unification problems this season but not to the point where the club was in total upheaval, showed their fans, Fresno State and, more importantly, themselves what they were made of Thursday night when they upset the No. 17-ranked Bulldogs, 63-57, before a screaming, sellout crowd of 1,467 at Crawford Hall.

"Irvine turned in a real strong game," offered a gracious Coach Boyd Grant, who watched his Bulldogs lose their second straight game to fall 2-2 in the PCAA, 11-4 overall. "I used to think Irvine was soft. Maybe we're the ones who are soft."

Grant noted that he had heard all about UCI's so-called "discord."

SUPER TIME: 1:30

Time for a test.

Question: Super Bowl XVIII begins Sunday at what time?

Answer:

(a) 11:30 a.m. our time.
(b) 3:30 p.m. our time.
(c) 1:30 p.m. our time.
(d) all of the above.

It's C, as in see the Redskins and Raiders meet in Super Bowl XVIII at 1:30 p.m. our time on Sunday.

During the past few weeks, it has not been unusual for the Daily Pilot sports staff to field 30-50 phone calls a day — all in need of the same answer.

1:30 p.m. our time.

Since the start of 1984, hundreds of phone calls have reached the sports desk asking the same question. It has gotten to the point that we simply answer the phone and respond, "1:30 p.m. our time."

1:30 p.m. our time means the game is starting in Tampa, Fla. at 4:30 p.m. their time.

Why, you ask?

Probably because the later the game starts in the east, the better the prime time ratings are for CBS. For instance, when the Super Bowl is played on the west coast, it has usually started at 3 p.m. our time — or 6 p.m. eastern time. There's a pretty good chance a Super Bowl will outdraw Hardcastle and McCormick in the ratings war.

That point aside, Super Bowl XVIII, complete with Alzado, Riggins and Co., is set for 1:30 p.m. our time.

Mumbling and grumbling goes public

Sea View League says Catholic system not compatible with public schools

NORWALK — The Sea View League, by way of Corona del Mar High Principal Dennis Evans, sent its message to the CIF Southern Section Council meeting Thursday — and if nothing else, he had everyone's attention.

Citing philosophical differences between public and non-public (Parochial) schools, Evans provided 58 league representatives with a statement citing the basic differences and some alternatives, including one which would separate the 4-A and 3-A playoffs between public and non-public schools.

Reading from a prepared statement, Evans said: "That these differences exist seems irrefutable; whether they cause inequitable competition is obviously debatable.

However, there seems to be a widely held belief that such is the case; that differences such as attendance area structure, recruitment of students, matriculation methods, compensation of coaches, etc. have damaged the philosophy of 'equity of competition' to a degree that is a threat to the maintenance of 'cordial and friendly relations among schools.'"

That's a mouthful, and it was digested very slowly and quietly by the body.

Evans went on to suggest no championship contests between the two systems and that the suggestions being made Thursday be an "action item" at the CIF's next meeting (March 22).

"It's difficult to say right now," said CIF Commissioner Ray Plutko when asked if he felt major changes could be in the offing soon. "The dialogue was philosophic and it's difficult to react without pinpointing specifically what's wrong."

Robert Packer, the president of the CIF Council and formerly a principal at Costa Mesa High, predicted the comments would indeed stir things up.

"Yes," said Packer, "some things are going to happen. Emotions could carry it (in a vote to split the public and non-public schools), there's no question.

"In my experiences I've seen a couple of things out of control, but the CAA (Catholic Athletic Association) has been very willing to tackle those issues and take a hard stand."

Plutko agreed: "The CAA has been doing a pretty good job of policing, sometimes a little too harsh in my opinion in terms of penalties. But,

Southern Section drops regional playoffs in 1985

NORWALK — Mater Dei High's basketball team is considered the team to beat in the race for the state championship in March, with senior Matt Beeuwsaert and junior Tom Lewis paving the way, but one thing is certain: Lewis and Mater Dei haven't a prayer in 1985.

The CIF Southern Section Council voted by a 44-14 margin to drop participation in the state playoffs Thursday in a meeting at Saddleback Inn.

"Even the basketball coaches in our section were in agreement with it," said CIF Commissioner Ray Plutko. "That's a unique marriage."

The Southern Section realized $7,000 from its participation in the 1983 state playoffs, but the drain on the athletes and coaches was too much. In addition there were other problems, such as forcing seven and eight-team leagues to make up two extra league games by either playing three times twice in a week or in beginning league prior to the Christmas holidays.

"I'm a basketball fan," continued Plutko, "and I wish we would have had some type of opportunity to work it out. But it's tough to argue against an educational standpoint.

"Winning a CIF Southern Section championship is like a state title in 48 other states," he continued. "Kids and coaches are just beat after that."

Plutko would not venture a guess on the future of the state tournament without the Southern Section.

In other matters Thursday:

- Riverside Poly High has been stripped of its 1983 CIF 3-A basketball championship because of the use of an ineligible player, who had transferred to Poly and has since transferred to another school.
- A request by the Century League to advance the football season one week, in order to begin the non-league season after the school year begins in September, was turned into an action item for the March 22 meeting of the CIF Council.

WHITE SOX GET SEAVER

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox said today they have selected three-time Cy Young Award-winner Tom Seaver of the New York Mets as their compensation for the loss of free agent reliever Dennis Lamp.

White Sox President Eddie Einhorn called the 39-year-old right-hander "the best player that was available" in the major league compensation pool and denied reports that he would be used as trade bait.

"We picked him to keep him, not to trade him," Einhorn said at a news conference.

Seaver was 9-14 last year with the Mets. His annual salary is estimated at $800,000.

"With the addition of Seaver, we have one of the best five-man staffs in the history of baseball," Einhorn said.

He said the White Sox notified Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office of the selection Thursday night but delayed a public announcement until today

CdM faces Newport; OV at Edison

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Arch-rivals Newport Harbor and Corona del Mar square off tonight in Sea View League basketball action at CdM, a game which keeps the winner no worse than one game off the pace of Estancia's Eagles as the first round of league play closes out.

Each is 4-2 after the Sea Kings of CdM Coach Jack Errion were shocked on Wednesday, losing a 16-point lead in the second half en route to a 43-41 loss at El Toro.

"It was the same thing when we played Estancia," says Tars Coach Jerry DeBusk, "they're just coming off a loss. I don't know what we did to deserve that."

DeBusk describes his team as "hanging on for dear life" after a 48-45 victory over Irvine, while Errion is still trying to shake off the effects of his team's shocking loss at El Toro.

Errion-coached teams, bent on man-to-man defense and a slowed tempo, simply do not lose leads of 16 points.

"No," admits the veteran Errion, "I haven't seen it much. But sometimes things swing on you and you just can't shut it down. And, you have to give El Toro some credit, they played very well."

Errion cites a breakdown in ball-handling and rebounding as the keys to his team's upset loss, and tonight's game could be played without starter Bill Kendall.

Will the officials get in the way Sunday?

Raiders, Redskins are likely to play game of intimidation

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The word is "intimidation," another way of saying anything goes until the officials get in the way.

The Los Angeles Raiders tried to rile the Washington Redskins last Oct. 2 — and the Redskins expect more of the same Sunday in the Super Bowl. So, for that matter, do the Raiders.

"The mentality of this team is to dictate and dominate. There will be jabs and hooks, low shots and high shots," says Raider cornerback Lester Hayes, "Lester the Molester."

"They've tried it on us before and I have no doubt they'll try it on us again," observes Mark Murphy, the Redskins' free safety. "That's something we've talked about a lot — to just ignore 'em."

When the teams met during the season, a 37-35 'Skins win, shoving matches broke out repeatedly.

"That first game, it looked like Flag Day out there, there were so many penalties called," said Murphy. "I've never seen so many flags — and it seemed there were always two of them, offsetting penalties.

"I think their intent is twofold. No. 1, they try to intimidate you, but I don't think you can intimidate professional athletes. If you could be intimidated, you wouldn't be a professional athlete, let alone in the Super Bowl," Murphy said.

"No. 2, and this I think is something they are effective in, is distracting you, to make you think more about the pushing and the shoving and the fighting than about the next play. They, on the other hand, are so used to it that it's natural to them.

"They can push and shove and fight and then put it behind them and go on to the next play whereas a lot of opposing players end up worrying more about trying to get back at Howie Long or Matt Millen than executing the plays."

Cornerback Mike Haynes, who signed with LA in midseason, says the Raiders "have real short fuses here. They get so keyed up for the games, it's not surprising. All the carrying on on the field, that's just a part of the way these guys are made up."

And although Haynes says he's already been schooled in the Raiders' philosophy of intimidation, "if something breaks out, hopefully I'll head in the other direction."

Hayes said Haynes' arrival "knocked some of the rust and dust off of me from teams not challenging me. In a span of four or five games, I didn't see but maybe one or two passes."

What's in a Rose? Expos must think there's quite a bit

From AP dispatches

MONTREAL — Pete Rose, a 21-year major-league veteran who at age 42 is chasing Ty Cobb's career record for hits, has agreed to a one-year deal with the Montreal Expos.

John McHale, president and general manager of the Expos, confirmed the agreement Thursday night. Rose will be officially introduced to the Montreal media at a news conference scheduled for today.

ROSE

"This is a proposal to win," said McHale.

The deal is reported to be worth $700,000, although McHale said Rose could earn over $1 million "if we win."

Only a handful of teams have stirred at the prospect of signing Rose, who was released by the Philadelphia Phillies following the 1983 season. However, Rose has voiced his determination to surpass Cobb's record of 4,191 hits. Rose is 201 hits shy of Cobb's record and admits it will take him more than one season to do it.

What apparently helped Rose land with Montreal was the fact that owner Charles Bronfman wanted him on the club.

Also a plus is Rose's fierce competitiveness. His style might be an inspiration for his new teammates, who have been criticized for lacking intensity in recent seasons.

SAN DIEGO — Boxer Stewart Darden, who lapsed into a coma during a fight on Tuesday, was reported to be improving Thursday after regaining consciousness, according to a Grossmont Hospital official.

"He's conscious, but he's not alert," said Chris Shapiro of the hospital's public affairs office. "He's still critical, but it's a step in the right direction."

Darden, 24, of San Diego, was injured in the 10th round of a junior welterweight fight against Steve Acosta. Darden was solidly ahead in the scoring when, with 38 seconds left in the fight, he took an uppercut from Acosta and slumped to the canvas. He lapsed into a coma moments later.

Suns rock Lakers, 138-123

PHOENIX — Larry Nance scored 23 points and the Phoenix Suns used a late third-period rally to beat the Pacific Division-leading Los Angeles Lakers, 138-123, in a National Basketball Association game Thursday night.

The score was tied 28 times — including 36-36 after the first quarter and 69-69 at halftime — before Phoenix took control with 6:03 remaining in the third period.

Consecutive baskets by Walter Davis, James Edwards and Maurice Lucas put the Suns ahead to stay at 89-83. Davis and Edwards both had 3-point plays in a one-minute span to make it 94-89 and Phoenix scored the final six points of the period for a 102-91 bulge.

The Suns, now 18-22, coasted from there as Adams accounted for six of the fourth quarter's first 10 points. Phoenix led by as much as 21 down the stretch in downing its rival.

Lucas and Kyle Macy each finished with 19 points for the Suns while Adams and Edwards both had 18 and Davis 15.

The Lakers (24-15) got 23 points from James Worthy, 22 from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and 20 from Jamaal Wilkes. Bob McAdoo added 15 points.

Berardi has bowling lead

LAS VEGAS — Joe Berardi of Brooklyn, N.Y., won six of eight match games Thursday night to lead the field after five rounds of the Showboat Invitational Pro Bowlers Association tournament.

Berardi, a six-time Pro Bowlers Association titlist, totaled 9,042 for 40 games, but his lead was cut considerably by the performance of PBA veterans George Pappas and Gil Sliker.

Pappas, an eight-time winner from Charlotte, N.C., won seven of his games to jump to second with 9,026 pins, just 16 behind the leader.

Sliker, who finished fourth in last week's tournament, had the highest eight-game block of the night, rolling 1,866 and winning six matches to claim the No. 3 position at 8,934 pins heading into today's final two rounds of match play.

In fourth was Wayne Webb of Carmel, Ind., who is gunning for his fourth consecutive appearance on Saturday's nationally televised finals. Webb, a 13-time champion, totals 8,826, just five pins ahead of Ernie Schlegel of Vancouver, Wash., and six more than Marshall Holman of Jacksonville, Fla.

The winner of the championship round will earn $33,000.

Olympic hotel rate plan nixed

LOS ANGELES — Calling it a "well-intentioned" but "ill-conceived" idea, a City Council committee has unanimously rejected Mayor Tom Bradley's proposal for a ceiling on hotel and motel room rates during the Olympics.

The committee recommendation came Thursday after industry officials pledged a strong self-policing effort against price gouging.

The recommendation will be forwarded to the full council for consideration.

Later Thursday, Bradley, who had pushed for the price controls in a Dec. 29 letter to the council, expressed disappointment at the committee action.

Bradley said he had been led to believe that the committee would only be discussing the proposal and not taking any action Thursday.

Pro or Con holds on at 'Anita

ARCADIA — Pro or Con jumped out to an immediate lead, stretched it out as far as two lengths and then held off several challenges to win the feature race by a head before 17,899 fans at Santa Anita Thursday.

Pro or Con, carrying 122 pounds and ridden by Patrick Valenzuela, ran the mile course for fillies and mares, 4-year-olds and up, in 1:37 1-5 to earn $24,750. The winner paid $28, $9.40 and $4.40.

Queen of Song, carrying 114 pounds and with Chris McCarron riding, outdueled Irish O'Brien for second place and returned $4.20 and $2.80.

Snead finishes with a flourish

PHOENIX — Veteran J.C. Snead finished off a 66 with birdies on three of his last four holes and moved into a three-way tie for the lead Thursday in the frost-delayed first round of the Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

Snead, 42, who scored the last of his seven PGA tour triumphs 2½ years ago, shared the top spot with rookie Corey Pavin and Gary Hallberg.

The tournament start was delayed more than an hour because of frost-covered greens. The delay backed up the field to the extent that the last few threesomes were jogging down the fairways on the 6,726-yard Phoenix Country Club course in order to beat nightfall.

Snead missed only one green, did not make a bogey and did not have a 5 on his card in an extremely solid effort.

A single stroke off the pace at 67 were Lanny Wadkins, Donnie Hammond, Ben Crenshaw, Mike McCullough, Al Geiberger, Larry Mize and lefty Russ Cochran.

The group at 68 was headed by Johnny Miller, a two-time winner of this title, who put together a birdie-birdie finish.

SCC hosts Cal Lutheran

A small but quick Cal Lutheran College invades Southern California College tonight (7:30) in NAIA District III basketball action.

Cal Lutheran, 11-6 overall and 1-1 in District III play, is coming off a victory over Cal Baptist. First-year Coach Ed Anderson's starting five boasts no player over 6-6, and the Kingsmen like to press and fast break.

SCC, 2-1 following a 96-89 win over UC San Diego in La Jolla Tuesday night.

The balanced Vanguards are paced by forward Dave Corsi and guard Andre Smith. Smith and Corsi scored 15 points apiece against UC San Diego, but the big gun that night was center Larry Hirst (25 points).

Cal Lutheran is paced by guard Gary Abraham, who averages 16.9 points per game. Forward Dave Lareva enters the contest at 13.8 points per contest. The Kingsmen's Erik Slattum at 6-5 is the tallest starter on the team and averages nine points per game.

SCC enters the game with a 12-4 overall recored, while Cal Lutheran has turned things around under Anderson after a 7-21 season last year.

FV extends win streak in wrestling

Fountain Valley High extended its wrestling dual meet winning streak to 48 matches Thursday night, shutting out Marina, 66-0, in a Sunset League match.

Elsewhere in the Sunset, Huntington Beach suffered a tough 35-32 setback at the hands of Westminster.

Meanwhile, in the Sea View League, Estancia pinned a 40-30 setback on Newport Harbor.

The Barons (10-0 this year) prevailed as Marty Stretch won a narrow verdict at 121 pounds; and Robert Uyekawa (128 pounds) and Scott Harrison (193) rallied for decisions.

In the heavyweight class, Russ Abrahams improved his personal mark to 23-1 with a pin 26 seconds into the match.

The Barons will compete in the Canyon Four-Way Invitational Saturday, which will include the unbeaten hosts, Santa Barbara and Colton. It starts at 3 o'clock.

Huntington Beach and Westminster are each 2-1 in league following Thursday's verdict.

In the defeat, Kyle Hansen won a 6-2 decision to improve to 27-0 this season, while Jon Westerman is 14-2 after pinning his foe at 167 pounds. Each are seniors.

The Oilers will be competing in the San Clemente Tournament Saturday morning, beginning at 10 a.m.

Estancia (2-1 in league) was sparked by junior Peter Smith, who was wrestling for the first time at 177 pounds and won by a decision.

Also, junior Jim Stanavich is 16-3 after winning at 114 pounds, also by pin.

Rams sign Smith to 3-year contract

By JOHN SEVANO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Rams center Doug Smith, one of 14 players on the squad currently in the option or final year of their contracts, has agreed to a new three-year pact which will put him among the top-third financially at his position, the Daily Pilot has learned.

Although the contract has not been signed, terms and figures were ironed out by Smith's attorney, Jack Mills, and John Shaw, the Rams' vice president-finance, Thursday after the Rams discovered the Los Angeles Express of the United States Football League had entered the picture.

Neither Smith nor Shaw could be reached for comment.

Smith, whose salary was $93,000 this past season, among the lowest at his position based on NFL experience and performance, is expected to sign the new agreement some time next week.

According to figures released by the NFL Players Association following the strike-shortened 1982 season, offensive linemen earned an average of $89,704.

Although no terms of Smith's contract were revealed, it is believed the six-year veteran will earn in excess of $500,000 for his three seasons of work.

Smith didn't begin negotiations with the Express until early this past week after newly appointed general manager Don Klosterman, a former GM with the Rams, inquired about the potential free-agent in a meeting with Mills.

The Rams, who had been dragging their feet on negotiations with Smith throughout the season, got down to business once they became aware of the Express' interest.

The Express' final offer, in fact, was for more money, but Smith, wanting to stay in the NFL, settled for less and agreed to terms with the Rams.

Smith, who has played all three offensive linemen positions for the Rams during his career, took over the starting center slot after Rich Saul retired following the 1981 season.

HB, Costa Mesa skaters qualify

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Kitty and Peter Carruthers, despite a fall by Kitty and two other bobbles, won their fourth straight U.S. pairs title Thursday night and will try to break the Soviets' 20-year Olympic grip on that event next month at the Winter Games in Yugoslavia.

Joining them on the Olympic team were Billy Fauver and Lee Ann Miller, who finished second, and third-place finishers Jill Watson of Costa Mesa and Huntington Beach's Burt Lancon.

Meanwhile in other events at the U.S. Figure Skating Championships, Scott Hamilton moved a step closer to his fourth straight men's title and Rosalynn Sumners and Elaine Zayak opened their battle for the women's crown.

The brother-sister team who grew up in Burlington, Mass. but trained in Wilmington, Del., stunned the crowd when Kitty fell on a throw triple salchow during which she turned three revolutions in the air.

49ers stun Fullerton

USC survives in overtime; UCLA breezes past California

From AP dispatches

LONG BEACH — Joedy Gardner hit a 30-foot bank shot at the buzzer in the fourth overtime Thursday night to give Long Beach State a 52-50 Pacific Coast Athletic Association victory over Cal State Fullerton.

Fullerton, which had worked the clock down, was trying to get the ball in to center Ozell Jones, but Gardner batted it away and eventually recovered it near the top of the key at the 49ers' end of the court.

Gardner, who finished with nine points, quickly turned and fired in the shot under heavy defensive pressure to give the 49ers the win. The two points were the only ones scored throughout overtime play.

Long Beach, which improved its PCAA record to 1-3 and overall standard to 4-9, was led by center Ivan Verberckt, who had 13 points, and forward Craig Lack, who contributed 12.

Fullerton, which dropped to 4-1 and 13-3, was led by guard Gary Davis, who scored 14 points and Jones, who collected 11.

Jones tied the game at the end of regulation play when he hit a five-foot baseline jumper with two seconds remaining. The Titans got the ball back under their basket when the 49ers' inbounds pass went long, but Jones missed an 18-footer.

In another PCAA matchup:

Nevada Las Vegas 117, Pacific 78

LAS VEGAS — Jeff Collins scored 24 points and Richie Adams added 18 as eight-ranked UNLV hammered the Tigers.

All 11 players scored at least five points for the fast-breaking Rebels as Pacific, 2-15, suffered its worst PCAA lost ever. The Tigers were beaten 74-40 by Fresno State two years ago.

Collins, a 6-2 guard, scored five times on slam dunks as the 15-1 Rebels ran past the slow, inexperienced Tigers. His two jumpers and fast break jam capped the 10-2 breakaway that blew it open, 75-50, with 12:53 to play.

Another 10-2 spurt made it 100-62 with 4:55 to go.

UNLV led 55-37 at the half despite 17 points by Pacific's Andy Franklin, who finished with 24 and a game-high seven rebounds.

Meanwhile, in the Pacific-10:

USC 51, Stanford 49

LOS ANGELES — Larry Friend's 6-foot bank shot with eight seconds remaining in overtime lifted the Trojans to the win.

After Friend's basket, the Cardinal's Keith Jones missed an 18-foot shot attempt at the buzzer.

Wayne Carlander, an Ocean View High product, had a game-high 22 points and Ron Holmes, formerly of El Toro High, added 11 for the Trojans, who raised their conference record to 2-3 and their overall mark to 7-11.

UCLA 76, California 54

LOS ANGELES — Center Stuart Gray scored 16 points and a career-high 14 rebounds to lead the ninth-ranked Bruins to the romp at Pauley Pavilion.

Gary Maloncon scored 12 points and Kenny Fields and Ralph Jackson added 10 each for the Bruins, who are now 11-2 overall and 4-1 in conference play.

In West Coast Athletic Association action:

Santa Clara 77, Pepperdine 63

SANTA CLARA — Guard Harold Keeling scored 24 points to lead the Broncos over the two-time defending conference champion Waves.

Santa Clara, trailing 23-16 with seven minutes left in the first half, scored the next 14 points and held a 33-27 halftime lead.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Ocean View takes over second in Sunset

Leaders Fountain Valley, Costa Mesa breeze to victories

Ocean View High won a pivotal Sunset League matchup with Edison to highlight girls basketball activity Thursday night.

Meanwhile, Fountain Valley continued its reign atop the Sunset with another lopsided victory, and Huntington Beach finished with a flourish to polish off Westminster.

In Sea View League play, Costa Mesa raced to its 10th straight success; Corona del Mar outlasted Newport Harbor; and Estancia kept its playoff hopes alive by beating University as the first round of competition came to a close.

In an Angelus League contest, Mater Dei had no problem with host St. Joseph's.

Here's how it went:

Ocean View 51, Edison 48

The visiting Seahawks (3-1) took a grip on second place in the Sunset with the verdict over Edison (2-2).

Ocean View entered the fourth quarter with a 16-point advantage, but the Chargers chipped away to make it close in the late stages.

Michelle Chomicz had a fine all-around game, scoring 14 points, snatching 16 rebounds and blocking two shots. Laura Simek had 13 points and 11 rebounds and sophomore floor leader Dana Douty accounted for 10 assists.

Marybeth Thobe fueled the Edison rally in the fourth quarter by notching 10 of her 17 points and also had 11 rebounds, as did Gretchen Meinhardt.

But Douty hit a couple of key fouls shots near the end to keep the Chargers at bay.

Fountain Valley 74, Marina 34

The Barons (4-0) started a bit slowly, taking only a three-point lead at the end of one quarter, but Fountain Valley's defense limited Marina (2-2) to just 14 second-half points.

It was the seventh straight win for the Barons, now 17-3 overall.

All of Fountain Valley's league wins have been one-sided, the closest game being a 24-point victory.

Senior forward Therese Puchalski had 23 points, 11 rebounds, five assists and four steals to pace the Barons.

Overall, Fountain Valley was credited with 10 steals, many of which came off the press.

Jackie Cook had eight rebounds for the Barons, while senior Jill Bellamy was the lone Viking in twin figures with 12.

Huntington Beach 53, Westminster 33

The final margin is misleading as the host Oilers actually trailed entering the final stanza, but outscored the Lions, 23-2 in the period, thanks to a number of turnovers created by the pressure defense.

Senior Eve Titus enjoyed a 30-point, 14-rebound performance to spearhead the Oilers to their first Sunset success in four outings. Westminster remained winless in loop play.

Titus was 11 of 21 from the field and 8 for 10 from the foul line. Junior Kelly Murray had six steals and five assists.

Costa Mesa 63, Saddleback 18

The Mustangs (7-0) were able to use the reserves liberally after building a quick big lead.

Coming off an injury, Kris McIroy was 5 for 9 from the field and had 12 points. Lisa Schumaker added 16 points.

For Saddleback (0-7), Mikel Healey had 10 points.

Corona del Mar 47, Newport Harbor 42

The Sea Kings (6-1) stayed on the heels of Sea View pace-setter Costa Mesa with a tough win over the host Sailors.

In her second game back from an injury, Lisa Romney had 13 points after scoring 30 on Tuesday. Fran Wynn, CdM's top point-getter with 16, also contributed nine rebounds, and Kim Valentine had 10 points.

For Newport (3-4), Lisa Wayne was the leading scorer with 12 points, Kristen Drage had 11 and Lara Asper 10.

Estancia 68, University 45

Amy Hathcock netted 13 of 19 from the field and was one of three Eagles who reached double figures in rebounding as Estancia (3-4) stayed within reach of a playoff spot.

Hathcock had 13 rebounds, Teri Pavlik 12 and Leslie Self 10 as the Eagles controlled the boards. In running the offense, Connie Brazell dished off nine assists.

University's (2-5) Brenda Zimmerman paced the Trojans with 17 points.

Mater Dei 95, St. Joseph's 46

After winning an overtime battle Tuesday, the Monarchs had a much easier time against host St. Joseph's, scoring a seasonal high 95 points.

Mary Gainey topped the scoring list with 15 points as Mater Dei improved to 4-0 in league and 16-5 overall.

Edison wins

The Edison girls soccer team, behind three goals from Joy Biefeld, recorded a 6-1 Sunset League victory Thursday over Ocean View High.

The Chargers (12-2-1 overall, 2-0 in league) also received goals from Janell Rogers, Laura Crawford and Kelli Winkler.

In a Sea View League match, El Toro downed Corona del Mar, 2-1.

James Dale takes charge

By CHRIS CRAWFORD
Daily Pilot Correspondent

James McLaren Dale, a driving force behind the family owned Villa Nova restaurant on Newport Harbor, will take over as 1984 president of the Newport Harbor Area Chamber of Commerce.

At 33, Dale is the youngest person ever elected president of the chamber, which begins its 77th year as a business organization.

Dale is a former vice-president and area manager of the chamber and a former president of the Newport Harbor Jaycees.

A 1968 graduate of Newport Harbor High School and a 1973 graduate of Chapman College with a B.A. in Economics and Business Adminstration, Dale is general manager of his family's restaurant as well as president of Allen Dale, Inc. — the parent company of Villa Nova.

Dale's postgraduate work was completed at Thunderbird Graduate School of International Managment, Glendale, Ariz., with an emphasize in Japanese.

In 1974, Dale became Assistant ot the Vice President of the Asian Division of Wometco Enterprises, Inc. in Tokyo.

During his three years in Japan, he wrote a restaurant column for the Japan Times, the largest English language newspaper in the country, and performed some dubbing of Japanesse commercials and movies in English. He also had speaking parts in television shows and a role in "The Late Dinosaur," a Japanese monster movie starring Richard Boone.

Later while visiting Southern California, he remarked that "Newport Beach looked like heaven." He stayed and took over the family business.

The young businessman is a member of the Commodores Club, an arm of the chamber. He organized its recent athletic awards breakfast for outstanding area high school athletes. He also co-chaired Newport Beach's 75th anniversary celebration in 1981.

Dale's activities in the Newport Harbor Jaycees have included being International Vice President, Chairman of the " Miss Newport Beach" Pageant, and a term as president of the organization in 1980.

He also was a co-host of the calbe television program "Newport Now" and has served as vice-president for the past three years of the Assessment and Treatment Services center for troubled youth.

Other community activities have included: member of the board of directors of the Youth Employment Service; president of the Friends of the Newport Beach City Arts Commission; coordinator of Ito, Japan City Council visits to Newport Beach; president of the Marine Division of the Newport Chamber; chairman of "College Night" of the city's "Irrelevant Week"; chairman of "The Last Rendezvous at the Balboa Fun Zone"; and co-chairman, with Charlotte Dale, of "Ferragusto," which celebrated the 50th anniversary of the Villa Nova Restaurant, with the proceeds going to the Assessment and Treatment Services Center of Orange County.

James M. Dale

Dale is a resident of Newport Beach and has a 4-year-old son, Alexander.

Pat Marley to hang it up after 33 years in business

By JOY DEE ANTHONY
Daily Pilot Correspondent

In a few weeks, Pat Marley Menswear of Corona del Mar will only be a memory of its patrons. After 33 years in the cothing business, Marley is waving goodbye to it all in exchange for a life of painting, skiing and visiting a home north of Toronto.

"I'll miss my customers," he says, "and will always be grateful for 33 great years."

The building on Pacific Coast Highway which Marley owns has been turned over to a leasing agent. On the fifth of February, the store will have a close-out sale in which everything will be sold.

Marley's sister, Lois Littlejohn, is also retiring from the business. His clerk and nephew Bruce Littlejohn will become property manager.

When Marley was a child, he remembers his dad taking him to the local clothier's after church each Sunday.

Young Marley thought to himself, "He just sits here and has fun and makes money."

After beginning professional life as an accountant, Marley decided to open an 18-by-18 foot store in Montebello. He catered mainly to high schoolers then, to whom he was known as "Uncle Pat."

Marley says he first started changing the image of the store when the original high school clientele grew up.

The small store was a big success, allowing him to expand it to around 25 by 80 feet. In 1967, he opened up his current store in Corona del Mar. Though for a time, he managed both, Marley eventually sold the Montebello shop because he liked having personal control over operations and a solid acquaintance with his customers.

As one of his former clerks once put it: "You don't have a store, you have a club."

This personalization means that a wife could come into Marley's store and say "I'd like to see the chart on my husband." He keeps all of the sizes of his regular customers for such purposes.

To wives and others buying clothing items for men, Marley advises: "Don't buy ties. Ties are one of our big items for gifts and I can never understand it because a tie is the most personal thing and the hardest thing to pick for someone else."

To those buying clothing for themselves, Marley suggests they find a sales person whose advice they can depend on and allow that person do the fine decision making. For oneself, Marley says, it's hard to stand back and be sure what looks good.

What is said to look good in traditional menswear hasn't changed much since the fifties, he adds, though polyester did have a brief popularity in the early seventies. If you placed the merchandise he stocked in 1955 inside the current shop, "no one would know the difference except in price."

Collars are about the same width. Penny loafers are back. When one particular loafer style went over a hundred dollars, Marley called up the maker and asked for a change of style number. Why? "I had it when it was $12.95," he told the man.

BIG YEAR FOR BPBC

A 45 percent increase in sales and leasing volume over 1982 propelled Business Properties Brokerage Company (BPBC) to the best year in its seven-year history in 1983, the company reports.

According to Lawrence M. Scher, president of the Southern California real estate brokerage firm, the bulk of BPBC's business increase occured during the last six months of 1983 when the economic recovery took hold.

Scher reported that the $435 million in new business during 1983 far surpassed the company's previous sales and leasing volume record of $300 million in 1982.

The coming year will be a big one for Business Properties in other ways, Scher reported. In 1984, the company will open a 50-person regional office in Anaheim, its third office overall and second in Orange County.

Cadillac Cimarron has a new look

New cross-hatch grille introduced

Cimarron, Cadillac's four-door, compact-sized, front-wheel-drive sedan offers a fresh new appearance for 1984.

Cimarron's front end appearance is highlighted by a new cross-hatch grille designed to provide a bold, distinctive look. The new grille retains a "Cadillac" script identification at its lower left corner.

Fog lights, introduced in 1983, continue to be standard. The tungsten halogen fog lights, positioned below the front bumper, require low power (25 watts) and deliver highlight output (6500 Candela) per lamp. They are designed to be helpful during adverse weather conditions such as fog, snow rain, sand or dust.

The front seats also include adjustable contoured headrests and manual seatback recliners.

The 1984 Cadillac Cimarron

For 1984, Cimarron features new stripe insert colors for the black bumper rub strips, bumper end caps and body side moldings. Four insert colors — white, red, orange and gold (for D'Oro only) — are available when used with the recommended exterior and interior color combinations, the new stripe color add a coordinated and distinctive flair to Cimarron's styling.

Rear end styling refinements for 1984 include a new lighting arrangement that features horizontal upper red stop and tail lamps accented with flush-mounted winged Cadillac crest ornamentation. New amber turn signal lamps and white backup lamps are located below the red stip and taillights. The new back up lamps feature a wide dispersion of light for improved visibility.

The special edition Cimarron D'oro — introduced last year — again will be available in 1984.

The D'Oro features a Sable Black exterior paint finish highlighted by distinctive gold tone accents. The car's basic black theme includes black-finished bumpers; headlamp bezels; drip rail and window reveal moldings; wheel opening and rocker panel moldings; door handles; door, trunk lid and fuel filler door lock cylinders; and fixed mast radio antenna. Gold tone D'Oro touches include: the grille, lay-down "Cadillac Cimarron" hood ornament, accent stripes on the hood, body, bumper rub strips and body side molding; "D'ORO" fender plaques; "Cimarron" trunk lid script;"2.0 Liter Fuel Injection" trunk lid plaque, and winged Cadillac crest tail lamp ornamentation.

Cimarron's interior carries on the quality and attention to detail exhibited by the exterior. It is highlighted by standard body-contoured perforated leather-trimmed seats designed to provide lumbar and lateral support. The front seats also include adjustable contoured headrests and manual seatback recliners. A floor-mounted shift lever is contained within a center console that includes a removable storage bin, ash tray, spring-loaded coin holder and standard fold-down armrest. Front door map pocket provide additional storage.

A new optional cloth/leather interior trim combination is available in 1984.

The woven velour cloth trim used on seating surfaces features a miniature diamond-shaped pattern that coordinates with the vinyl door trim. The cloth trim also extends to the center and upper portion of the front headrests. This interior trim is available in three colors: dark blue, sand gray, and dark briar brown. The seat bolsters of this interior package are trimmed in leather.

Cimarron's instrument panel features a cluster and gauge package that includes a large round speedometer and tachometer and smaller circular coolant temperature and fuel gauges. An oil pressure gauge and voltmeter are set into the lower portion of the tachometer.

California sales up for American

LOS ANGELES — An American Motors Corporation executive said recently the company's sales momentum in the all-important California market continues to grow.

Joseph E. Cappy, vice president-marketing group said that the company's special California marketing program established in 1983 has led to sales increases higher than those nationally for the company and that an expanded program is in place for 1984.

"Led by the award-winning Renault Alliance, our car sales in California increased 100 percent in 1983, while Jeep vehicle sales rose by 48 percent," Cappy said. "To help maintain that momentum, we're expanding on our aggressive sales and marketing program here for 1984."

Cappy said that the special California media budget established last year to expand consumer awareness of Renault products would be doubled for 1984.

In addition, he announced the appointment of Thomas J. Peyton as California Marketing Manager, a new position in the Los Angeles zone office.

In a move to capture a larger share of the California market, Cappy announced plans for the opening of a consumer showroom in the Del Amo Mall next month in Torrance and an expanded schedule of promotional activities.

"This is our first permanent mall showroom and it will expand on our reach to California shoppers," Cappy said. "In addition to the Del Amo Mall facilty, we will continue to exhibit our products in other major expos and auto shows and at more than 70 malls in California at various times throughout the year. With the active California lifestyle, it's important to bring our products to locations and events that attract large numbers of people."

Other California promotional activities will include the sponsorship of the IMSA/Renault Cup racing series and participation in SCORE off-road racing, according to Cappy. In addition, college and university sporting events will be used extensively to promote awareness of Renault products.

"We will be expanding our aggressive merchandising tie-in programs with leading California retailers in 1984," Cappy added.

Cappy said that American Motors will sponsor the 1984 Pro-Beach Volleyball series that features 15 matches across the United States, including eight matches in California.

1984 Cougar LS offers stability and agility

There is an undeniable visual grace about the Cougar LS, but beyond that there is the way the styling expresess proven aerodynamic principles. Inside, there is something more — ergonomic efficiency. For Cougar LS is a car that offers more than sensous appeal. It is a car of impeccable engineering, finely crafted to provide a completely satisfying driving experience.

Cougar LS features a standard 3.8 liter V-6 with electronic fuel injection, an engine chosen for its combination of power and economy. The standard three-speed SelectShift automatic transmission with locking torque converter accelerates evenly for optimal mileage, thus gratifying one's sense of fiscal responsibilty.

Choice of suspension components was critical because Cougar must display the stability of a mid-size car, with a corresponding isolation from road harshness, as well as agility and tight cornering. To meet these objectives, cougar features MacPherson-type strut front suspension and four-bar link coil spring rear suspension, with Nitra-cushion front struts and rear shocks, to reduce "suspension topping" on rough roads. Variable ratio power rack-and-pinion steering and a dual braking system, with power front discs and rear drums are also standard. The result is a ride distinguished by its feel — firm, but not hard and comfortable without being slack.

The Cougar LS interior reveals a similar attention to detail, and the conviction that driver satisfaction results from logical placement of controls and comfortable seating. Standard luxury cloth contour sport seats, luxury door and quarter trim panels, and plush 24-ounce carpeting contribute to riding comfort and quiet. Tinted glass, a visor vanity mirror and power windows are also standard. If digital readouts are preferred over analog, an optional electronic instrument cluster is available, with a digital speedometer, graphic display fuel gauge and an electronic digital clock, for a distinctive, high-technology look.

Those who drive Cougar LS and find it pleasing to the eye, quiet to ride in and responsive to the touch, may also find that their common sense, being satisfied, suggests that they buy it.

Toyota Corolla cars on top of the world

Over the last five years Toyota has sold more Corolla models worldwide than any other nameplate by offering a combination of economy, dependability and affordability in a stylish and fun package reknown for its quality.

For 1984 the all new Corolla lineup combines those attributes in the best of two worlds — spacious Corolla front-wheel drive models and balanced new Corolla Sport SR5 models. There's even a new diesel engine for the first time in a Corolla that combines the roomy interior with ultra high mileage.

Both Corolla lines feature stunning new aerodynamic styling. The sloped nose,, molded front bumper grille and hood of the new Corollas were designed as a single aerodynamic unit to direct the flow of the air over and around the cars. Semi-concealed window wipers and thin roofline adds to the sleek body and a high rear deck lid controls the flow of air to prevent turbulence behind the car. It all adds up to some amazing drag coefficient numbers, 0.34 or the SR5 Sport Liftback, numbers more commonly associated with higher priced sports cars. SR5 Corolla Sport Models also feature concealed headlights for improved aerodynamics.

The 1.6-liter, 4-cylinder OHC engine is standard on all Corollas. The low maintenance engine features the Intergrated Ignition Asembly that combines distributor, coil and ignitor into one sealed unit for increased protection and durability. a 10,000 mile oil change interval — longest in the industry, also helps reduce maintenance costs. The engine is altered slightly for transverse mounting in front-wheel drive models.

An all-new 1.8 liter diesel engine also is available on front wheel drive models with both 5-speed manual and 3-speed automatic transmission with a lock-up torque converter.

Kenneybunkport?

Wasn't he the Ambassador from Australia under Teddy Roosevelt?

no

If you're not sure who (or what) Kenneybunkport was, don't feel bad — you're not alone. Kenneybunkport is one of 14 distinctively different apartment floorplans at Seawind Village in Huntington Beach. Seawind Village is a result of totally personalized professional planning. The kind of attention you deserve. A perfect blend of nature and living — nestled in a forest with babbling brooks and quiet ponds, cooled by natural ocean breezes. Add to that tennis courts, swimming pools, a spa and a convenient location near shopping and employment and you've got a place anyone would proudly call home. (Even Kenneybunkport). One and two bedroom, one and two bath apartments from $575

'Mass Appeal' has just that at Grand

Martin Milner stars in meaty clerical comedy, a sort of 'Going My Way' in reverse

What, you may ask, could be so entertaining in a two-character play about a middle-aged priest and a young seminarian hashing out the conflicts of the Catholic church? And at a dinner theater, yet.

Well, get ready for a joyous awakening. Bill C. Davis' "Mass Appeal" at the Grand Dinner Theater is one of the wittiest, meatiest seriocomedies to come down the pike in many a moon. Watching it is like seeing "Godspell" — it may deal with theological topics, but you don't have to be religious to enjoy it.

TOM TITUS

Actually, "Mass Appeal" is sort of "Going My Way" in reverse. Its older character, a long-established priest, exists on the love of his congregation (not to mention an eternal supply of wine) and in return he provides spiritual placebos and pleasant pacification. Along comes a young, firebrand seminarian who wears intensity like a suit of armor and challenges the establishment values of his mentor.

It's an oil-and-water mixture which playwright Davis laces liberally with laughs in the early going before going for the jugular later on. It's also a formidable challenge for the two actors entrusted with its success.

At the Grand there are no problems in the latter department. Martin Milner, who's driven through our living rooms for years in "Route 66" and "Adam 12," superbly enacts the priest while Fred Lehne provides outstanding counterpoint as the young man who yearns for the priesthood, but on his own terms.

Milner's role is the more complex, and the veteran actor deftly handles its every facet, turning up the authority when required and playing what Lehne's character refers to as a "song and dance theologian" when he can get away with it.

Fred Lehne (right) declines a glass of wine from Martin Milner as part of their counterpoint in the comedy-drama "Mass Appeal" at the Grand Dinner Theater in Anaheim.

He is particularly memorable in one scene where his own troubled childhood emerges in a play-acting situation, and before we know it he is offering a "confession" to his younger comrade. It's a consummate performance by an actor whose trademark has been the easygoing character with the steely inner resolve.

Lehne is structured into the "angry young man" mode and has less elbow room in which to develop his character, but his consistency is splendid. His own confession is a startling one, credibly delivered, and he never loses our belief in, nor our concern for, his personal crusade.

"Mass Appeal" should elicit just that during its seven-week stint at the Grand, through March 4. It's one of the best dinner theater productions of the season, musicals included.

Performances are given Tuesdays through Thursdays at 8:15, Fridays and Saturdays at 8:45 and Sundays at 7:45 with matinees at 1:30 both Saturdays and Sundays in the Grand Hotel, on Freedman Way off Harbor Boulevard, opposite Disneyland, in Anaheim. Call 772-7777 for ticket information.

Philharmonic program stars Leinsdorf, Ax

Maestro Erich Leinsdorf will conduct the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra with internationally famed pianist Emanuel Ax as the soloist when the Orange County Philharmonic Society presents its sixth concert in the current 14-concert series.

Saturday's performance, starting at 8:30 p.m. in the Santa Ana High School auditorium, 520 W. Walnut Ave., will include Mozart's "Overture, The Abduction from the Seraglio," Mozart's Concerto in G for Piano and Orchestra, K. 453; and, after intermission, Symphony No. 3 in D Minor by Anton Bruckner, written in 1873.

The career of the Vienna-born Leinsdorf, one of the most distinguished musicians of our day, began in the 1930s when he became assistant to Arturo Toscanini at the Salzburg Festival. The worsening political situation in Austria prompted him to accept the Metropolitan Opera's offer to become assistant conductor in 1938; within two years he had full responsibility for its German repertoire, with special emphasis on Wagner.

Having conducted the Rochester Philharmonic for nine years, Leinsdorf has spent the past 15 years on professional tours of the Far East, Europe and North and South America, conducting symphonies in London, Paris, Amsterdam, Berlin and Vienna.

He has led the Los Angeles Philharmonic on tour in Mexico and the U.S. and the New York Philharmonic on tours of Scandinavia, Russia and Japan.

Ax's prominence has risen as he won the Artur Rubinstein International Master Competition in 1974, the Michaels Award of Young Concert Artists in 1975 and the Avery Fisher Prize in 1979.

Tickets are available at the Orange County Philharmonic office, 234 E. 17th St., Suite 107, Costa Mesa. Phone 646-6411 or 642-8232 for details. All seats are reserved.

Movie Reviews

THE BIG CHILL: Rated R. A warm, superbly acted film about a reunion of college friends, following the death of a comrade. Writer-director Lawrence Kasdan ("Body Heat" and the George Lucas mega-hits) sets up the story to make a Big Point about the 1960s generation. He never quite makes that point, but the film remains an engaging, funny study of friendship.✓✓✓

NEVER SAY NEVER AGAIN: Rated PG. Sean Connery is back as James Bond, but this 007 adventure is strictly by the numbers. There are the usual chases, escapes and electronic gadgets, but nothing that hasn't been done before — and better. Among the supporting actors, only Barbara Carrera sizzles. Irvine Kershner ("The Empire Strikes Back") directs mechanically.✓✓

SUDDEN IMPACT: Rated R. Clint Eastwood reworks familiar ground in this fourth Dirty Harry film. Fans of the series won't be disappointed, as Harry and his handy Magnum eliminate a fresh horde of urban scum. Sondra Locke does another of her icy blonde routines as a pistol-packing painter who's out to avenge a gang rape. Eastwood is a first-rate action director, but don't look for well-rounded characters. Extremely violent.✓✓

TERMS OF ENDEARMENT: Rated PG. Debra Winger and Shirley MacLaine give Oscar-caliber performances in this funny and touching film, which traces a mother-daughter relationship over 30 years. Jack Nicholson, as a paunchy, drunken astronaut, is also superb. The serious twist that occurs two-thirds through is manipulative, but you'll probably succumb to it anyway. James Brooks was the writer-director.✓✓✓

✓✓✓✓ — Excellent; ✓✓✓ — Very good; ✓✓ — Good; ✓ — Not so good.

Sports

Only the memory is super

By PETER M. McCAULEY

This year's Super Bowl, No. 18 if you're counting, is being hyped as "the greatest 60 minutes in sports."

Aw, c'mon guys. Who's going to believe that?

The Super Bowl may decide the best team in football — sorry USFL fans, but it's true — but that doesn't necessarily mean it's the best game. Of the 17 previous games only one was decided by three points or less. Remember which team won that game and how? It was 1971 and the Baltimore Colts beat the Dallas Cowboys when Jim O'Brien kicked a 32-yard field goal with five seconds left.

But with a nod to Joe Namath for his 1969 performance in the game Bubba Smith says was fixed, the Super Bowl has usually been a super bore. The most fans can hope for is a memorable individual performance, such as John Riggins' record 166 yards rushing last year.

Or maybe this year somebody will pull a bonehead play like the dead-duck pass Miami's Garo Yepremian tried in 1973 only to have the Redskins' Mike Bass gather it up and run 49 yards for a score. These are the sort of Super Bowl memories most of us harbor.

While the games have not gotten better, the TV technology has. Sunday's CBS telecast will require the talents of about 215 people. Commentators John Madden and Pat Summerall will use 14 videotape machines, three graphics generators and 100 microphones.

The only thing this guarantees is that whatever memorable plays come from Super Bowl XVIII, good or bad, viewers will get to see them many times over.

Show's script has lots of artistry

Calligraphy's easy strokes profitable after practicing

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Calligraphy is the art of elegant penmanship, the kind you've seen on wedding invitations and certificates.

But you don't have to be an artist to do calligraphy. That's the message of Ken Brown, the instructor in a 13-part calligraphy series produced by KOCE Channel 50 in Huntington Beach. The series debuts at 7 p.m. Wednesday. (Each week's program repeats at 6 p.m. Saturdays.)

"Calligraphy is an acquired skill, using just a few basic tools," Brown explains on the first program. "It doesn't take any talent."

Brown himself has no expertise in painting, drawing or sculpting. His calligraphy skills are self-taught. He was introduced to the craft more than 20 years ago in an architectural design class at Oklahoma State University.

Brown's lettering work on that assignment only earned him a "C." But he was captivated by what everyone had produced with inexpensive pens. Brown has perfected his calligraphy skills in the years since college.

For many years, calligraphy remained just a hobby for Brown, who worked as a television producer in Dallas. But in recent years, he has concentrated on a lucrative calligraphy supplies mail order business, based in Hugo, Okla.

In the mid-1970s, he was asked to write a calligraphy textbook. That forced him to analyze and break down his own penmanship techniques. Brown discovered that a handful of strokes, joined together in different ways, could produce an entire alphabet.

His book explaining this technique was a hit. More than 160,000 are in print, Brown says.

On KOCE, he demonstrates this same technique, proving all you really need to create elegant writing is a chisel-point instrument (reservoir and dip pens, felt-tip pen or a steel brush), some ink and a surface to write on.

He offers some basic rules on how to produce the elegant letters: Keep the pen at a 45-degree angle. Rest the pen on the third joint of the extended index. All strokes must go down or to the right.

Brown focuses on three elegant writing styles — Chancery, Cursive and Old English. In upcoming programs, he will show how to use these styles to create a party invitation, a book plate and posters as well as letter on wood and fabric.

Viewers interested in trying some of Brown's techniques can order a $12 calligraphy kit being distributed by the station. The kit includes four chisel-tip marker pens, practice sheets, parchment papers, an instruction book and three wall charts that focus on the simple strokes needed to create upper and lower case letters.

The calligraphy teacher admits he's been criticized by some "purists" who believed he has simplified the craft and made it too accessible to non-artists.

"I don't mind the criticism," Brown says. "I've had everyone from kids to people in their 80's thanking me for showing them how."

He says the television lessons and the kit can get a person started, but practice is really the key to learning calligraphy. Those who do master the skill can use it for personal enjoyment or as a money-maker. When he picked up the skill, Brown found lots of free-lance work making posters or certificates.

"Even if your handwriting is terrible, you can still do calligraphy because it's a mechanical technique," Brown says. "It's like learning anything — if the desire and interest to learn is there, you can achieve excellent results....

"Plus, there's an added benefit — a definite improvement in your own handwriting."

Ken Brown shows some decorative applications of calligraphy.

TV TIDBITS: Walt Disney's classic animated films rarely air on television. But the Disney version of "Alice in Wonderland" makes its debut this month on The Disney Channel, a pay cable channel offered by Dickinson Pacific Cablesystems. Cablesystems serves Huntington Beach, Fountain Valley, Westminster and Stanton.

James Michener's "Poland," the best-selling novel spanning seven centuries in a nation that became the battleground of Eastern Europe, is being developed by ABC as a three-hour TV movie. Published in September 1983, the book has already sold nearly 800,000 copies. A screenwriter to adapt Michener's book is now being sought.

Joanne Woodward, Lindsay Wagner, Richard Crenna and Viveca Lindfors star in "Passions," a new TV movie being filmed in Los Angeles for CBS. The film focuses on two women who are both in love with Richard Kennerly, a wealthy businessman (Crenna). Woodward portrays his wife, Wagner his mistress.

John Denver will host the three-hour "26th Annual Grammy Awards" show, scheduled Feb. 28 on CBS from the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles. Singer Michael Jackson has received 12 Grammy nominations, among them Record of the Year, Album of the Year and New Song of the Year.

Production is under way for an additional six hours of "V," the popular NBC miniseries about an alien invasion of Earth. The original four-hour drama will be rerun this spring, followed by the new six hours. Marc Singer, Faye Grant, Jane Badler and other key actors from the original miniseries will return.

Speaking of miniseries, a nine-hour drama based on Sidney Sheldon's best-seller "Master of the Game" will air Feb. 19, 20 and 21 on CBS. Before he became a popular novelist, Sheldon was a busy TV series writer. He was the creator of "I Dream of Jeannie" and "The Patty Duke Show."

The abused child will grow up someday.

Maybe.

Each year, over one million American children suffer from child abuse. Over 2,000 children die from it. But what about those who survive? An abused childhood can affect a person's entire life. Yet child abuse can be prevented.

The National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse is a private charitable organization that knows how to do it.

But we need your help. We need money. We need volunteers. Send us your check today. Or write for our booklet.

Police thwart attack in desert motel; victim believed to be wife of suspect

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A 68-year-old Costa Mesa man is being held today on suspicion of murdering a woman believed to be his wife and driving to a small desert town where he was caught while allegedly trying to kill the owners of a motel.

The trail of violence, police said, apparently started in a Costa Mesa condominium at 2554 Elden Avenue where police found the slain woman early today.

Police stopped short of identifying the dead woman as the wife of Joseph Katcher, the man suspected of being the killer. Police said it appears the woman had been dead at least one day when found this morning inside Katcher's condominium.

Katcher was arrested Thursday evening by police in Desert Hot Springs, a town on the outskirts of Palm Springs

Desert Hots Springs police claimed the older man severely beat motel owner Arthur Sussle, 76, and was in the process of strangling Pauline Sussle, 73, when officers arrived at the couple's highway motel.

Sussle was listed in critical condition today at Palm Hospital in Palm Springs. His wife was said to be in good condition at the same hospital.

Police in Desert Hot Springs also said it appeared Katcher, who'd spent the previous night at the motel, had tried to commit suicide at some point.

During the arrest, Katcher reportedly fell through a plate-glass window when officers tried to pull him away from Mrs. Sussle.

"He was in the process of strangling her at the time and had to be pulled

Biggest 'coke' seizure in HB

$6 million stash left in rented car

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huntington Beach detectives who stumbled across a suitcase containing a record 50 pounds of cocaine admitted today there's little chance of finding the person who left the drug in a rented car.

The cocaine, estimated to be worth at least $6 million on the street, was discovered inside a 1984 Lincoln Town Car that had been towed because it was illegally parked.

The seizure is the largest cocaine haul in Orange County history, according to Huntington Beach police.

Officers said the car was found on Heil Avenue near Camino Canada Laneon Wednesday. It was hauled to the police station by a private towing firm that contracts with the city.

Sgt. Carl Vidano said the suitcase was found during a routine inspection of the car and opened as part of an effort to learn the identity of the car's owner..

Narcotics officers were quickly called when police found the huge supply of the white powder in the suitcase.

"We've really had no luck on determining who was using the car and even if we did, it's highly doubtful they'd admit to owning the suitcase," said Lt. Merle Schneblin.

Police estimated that the cocaine probably cost its owner about $500,000 but is worth at least 12 times that much when divided, diluted and sold on the street.

U.S. Customs agents, who arrested an Irvine man this week at Los Angeles Harbor, put the worth of 70 pounds of cocaine at $20 million. Police in Huntington explained that determining the worth of a drug is not a scientific process and varies depending on how much the drug is diluted.

Reaction guarded on college deal

County campus leaders say their budgets are austere — but they'll take money

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Local community college leaders are reacting with guarded optimism to the financial compromise being negotiated between Gov. George Deukmejian and Democratic Assembly representatives.

The state Senate and Assembly approved legislation that would restore $96.5 million to the state's 106 community colleges for the 1983-84 school year.

The governor indicated he would sign this bill when the legislators also approve a first-time-ever $50 per semester tuition fee for full-time community college students. Part-time students would pay $5 per credit. The tuition would begin this fall.

Democratic Assembly leaders indicate they will approve the charge if it incorporates a number of existing fees now paid by students. In addition, the fee must expire in three-and-a-half years unless legislators approve an extension.

The Legislature is expected to vote on the fee proposal early next week at a special session.

Representatives of the Coast and Saddleback community college districts in Orange County say they had already adopted austere 1983-84 budgets based on the possibility of not receiving additional state funds. But they said they will have no difficulty putting any additional money to good use.

Dana sewage spill halted

By L.P. BENET
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dana Point sanitary operations were back to normal today after officials replaced a broken pump that caused 150,000 gallons of raw sewage to spill into Salt Creek, shutting down a mile-long stretch of beach.

Bob Merryman, director of the county's Environmental Health Department, said that although the sewage spill was halted late Thursday, Monarch Bay Beach and Salt Creek Beach won't reopen before Tuesday.

Officials closed the contaminated beaches Thursday to prevent a health hazard to beach users.

"It's bad because this is raw, untreated sewage," Merryman said earlier.

He said the sewage could kill marine life and pose health problems to persons coming in contact with it.

The spill began Wednesday while Dana Point Sanitation District workers were repairing a broken pump at a sewage station near Dana Hills High School, Bob Merryman said.

The main sewage line to the station from nearby homes was shut down, but the backed-up sewage created so much pressure that it burst through, filling a well in the pumping area and then overflowing, first into a pond used by the high school's marine biology classes and then into nearby Salt Creek, which flows to the coast. Authorities said there was no health threat to the high school.

Sanitary officials stopped the spill at 9:30 p.m. Thursday by inserting a submersible pump in the underground pump station, said Tom Richards, assistant manager of the Dana Point Sanitary District.

He said the replacement pump will carry the raw sewage to a nearby treatment plant while work crews continue to repair the original pump that malfunctioned.

Officials plan to move the pump station's electronic control panel

Golden arches get their place in U.S. history

A federal agency has declared a 30-year-old McDonald's restauran' in Downey eligible to become a national historic landmark.

The stand, built in 1953, is the oldest surviving McDonald's in the nation. The chain's fourth stand, it was the second in the nation to have the now-famous golden arches.

The restaurant is still run by the original franchise holders, Bud Landon and Roger Williams.

Carol Shull, chief of registration for the National Park Service National Register of Historic Places, declared the stand eligible as a landmark.

The stand is significant because the architecture represents a social and economic period that emphasized mobility and because it's the oldest restaurant for a chain that's become synonymous with American life, said Carol Dubie, a park service historian.

Getting ready for Olympics traffic

County employers urged to promote ride-sharing plan

By JEFF ADLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Organizers for the Summer Olympics want everyone to participate — in their own little way.

Orange County employers — like their Los Angeles County counterparts — are being urged to promote ride-sharing and consider more flexible work schedules during next summer's Olympic games when heavy traffic is expected to disrupt Southern California's normally congested traffic patterns.

"We don't want to project any doom or gloom," explained California Highway Patrol Sgt. Mike Howard of the CHP's Olympic planning task force, "but Orange County, though to a lesser degree than Los Angeles, will feel the spillover affects of increased Olympic traffic.

Howard said more than 8 million people are expected to attend the Summer Games, covered by 9,000 members of the press and involving about 14,000 athletes and coaches.

"I'm sure our county will be impacted by the Olympic family, especially with Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm and the Orange Coast's attractive beaches," Howard said.

Besides the additional visitors, four Olympic events are scheduled in Orange County.

The modern pentathalon in Coto de Caza, wrestling at the Anaheim Convention Center, team handball at Cal State Fullerton, and a bicycle race in Mission Viejo could draw as many as 200,000 spectators.

All in all, Howard said, Southern California's highways will have to bear the brunt of an estimated 214 million extra auto miles as 80 percent of those attending Olympic events are expected to drive cars to game sites.

NEWS BACKGROUND

"We need to maximize the efficiency of existing roadways," the veteran CHP officer noted.

Gary Ethier, of the Caltrans Olympic Task Force, said businesses are being asked to help keep traffic moving by shifting delivery schedules and routes to avoid Olympic-congested areas during the games.

Gary Edson, Ridesharing program manager for the Orange County Transportation District, also suggested that some employers might shift employee schedules somewhat or allow more flexible scheduling to minimize traffic during peak hours.

However, Edson that in Orange County, unlike Los Angeles, scheduling plant shutdowns would be an "over-reaction" since the heaviest traffic will be concentrated in downtown Los Angeles for events scheduled at places like the Coliseum.

Another solution is ride-sharing, Edson said. He suggested Orange County firms consider enrolling in OCTD's ride-sharing program not only for the Olympics, but thereafter.

OCTD will train selected employees so that they can establish ride-sharing programs tailored to the particular needs of individual companies, Edson explained. The ride-sharing program sets up employee car or van pools, thus reducing the number of vehicles crowding onto

Officer said 'lucky' as bike demolished by truck on Harbor

By CHRISTINE DECKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Luck must have been riding with Costa Mesa Police Officer Bob Crogan as he patrolled on his motorcycle Thursday night.

Crogan's motorcycle was smashed beyond repair when he collided with a truck on Harbor Boulevard, according the California Highway Patrol Traffic Officer Rick Stevens.

Crogan, 35, was rushed to Fountain Valley Community Hospital. He suffered multiple facial lacerations, abrasions and torn ligaments in his left leg.

"He's listed in serious condition but that's standard procedure. He's really lucky. He suffered a lot less damage than others I've seen come in from similar accidents," said Mike Nash, hospital public relations director.

At about 10 p.m., Marshall Lee Northcutt, driving a 1972 Jeep Scout was heading northbound on Harbor Boulevard by the Vagabond Motel, a short distance south of the San Diego Freeway when he allegedly attempted to make an illegal U-turn.

Crogan was heading south on Harbor.

Northcutt, 25, of Costa Mesa apparently didn't see the motorcycle and caused Crogan to broadside the small truck.

Stevens said the case is under investigation by the CHP — which takes charge of accidents involving police officers — and no charges have been filed against Northcutt.

HB teen faces trial

Popular student could face death penalty in brutal boutique murder

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A Huntington Beach high school student was ordered Wednesday to stand trial for the murder of a 37-year-old woman who was found gagged, bound and stabbed last October in her clothing boutique.

Zachary Pettus, a well-liked student at Marina High School, could face the death penalty if convicted in Darleen Hazboun's death because the brutal slaying allegedly resulted during a robbery.

West Orange Municipal Court Judge Michael Beecher ordered Pettus, 19, to appear in court Jan. 30 to face the murder rap. Pettus is being held without bail.

During the preliminary hearing, a customer of Hazboun's vintage clothing boutique testified she saw Pettus in the Warner Avenue shop the day the woman was robbed and killed.

Janice Schindler said she heard a high-pitched wimpering sound when she entered the boutique. Somewhere in Time. She recounted that a man she identified as Pettus ordered her out of the store, saying "We're closed."

Another witness, a high school student, testified that Pettus had asked her to join him in a series of robberies that he had planned. She reportedly contacted police after hearing of Hazboun's murder.

Police detectives claimed they located several pieces of Hazboun's jewelry in a bedroom of a house where Pettus was living at the time.

The jewelry was not found until detectives searched the house for a third time.

The murder weapon as well as Hazboun's wallet and shop cash box were never located despite an intense search and a reward offer.

Pettus, a native of Cincinnati who enrolled at the high school last fall, was described by school administrators as a popular and intelligent student who earned good grades and many friends.

COLLEGE COMPROMISE REACTION...

like there was a compromise on funding last fall and that fell through," said William Schreiber, assistant to the chancellor at Saddleback College, which has campuses in Irvine and Mission Viejo. "We'll believe it when the check's in the mail."

Schreiber said the $96.5 million being considered would only bring the two-year colleges back to 1982-83 budget levels.

"We at Saddleback have mixed emotions about it (the current compromise)," he said. "All this does is bring us back to where we were two years ago. It's tough to be overjoyed about being restored to a 2-year-old funding level. It doesn't allow us to consider much in the way of growth or program enhancement."

If the compromise is approved, Saddleback would receive an additional $2 million this school year, Schreiber said.

If the additional $2 million is provided, it will probably be used to purchase supplies or to replenish the building and self-insurance funds that were depleted to help balance this year's budget, Schreiber said.

"It will help keep the wolf at bay for another six months or so," he said. "The tragedy is that the price for this was (establishing) tuition."

The Coast Community College District, which includes Orange Coast, Golden West and Coastline colleges, also approved an austere budget based on the assumption that no additional state aid would be provided.

If the compromise is adopted in Sacramento, the Coast District would receive an additional $4.7 million for the 1983-84 school year, according to Correllan J. Thompson, the district's vice chancellor for business.

"The Coast Community College District has suffered the loss of more than $9 million over the past two years," Thompson said. "Restoring the base to us will mean a giant step in returning the Coast District to a level the community has wanted and supported in the past."

He said he district could use the additional funds on deferred maintenance and the purchase of instructional supplies, two areas cut in the current budget.

Thompson said district trustees could also decide to build up the reserve fund that is designed to cover unexpected emergencies.

away and restrained," a police spokeswoman said.

Costa Mesa police Lt. Jack Calnon said police here were alerted to the apparent murder on Elden Drive by authorities in Desert Hot Springs.

"We got a call this morning to check on the welfare of this woman," Calnon explained. "We had to kick in the door and found a deceased woman in the bedroom."

The condominum, off Newport Boulevard near the Santa Ana Country Club Golf Course, was roped off this morning as detectives waited for a coronor to arrive and remove the body.

Calnon said it was not clear how the woman had died, though it was evident the death was not natural. Though police believe the woman was Katcher's wife, positive identification had not been established.

local freeways during peak rush hours.

Ethier also suggested that firms considering allowing employees to work a more flexible schedule during the Olympics contact OCTD so that bus schedules can be coordinated to everyone's benefit.

And the worst day for the Olympics? That will be Friday, Aug. 3. The day traffic planners already have dubbed "Black Friday."

Edson said highway conditions may be terrible Aug. 3 because so many events are scheduled and people won't yet be used to the traffic disruptions expected during the Olympics.

In Orange County, however, the worst disruption could come Sunday, Aug. 5.

That morning, portions of the Riverside Freeway are to be closed for an Olympics bicycle race and, that afternoon, the California Angels are scheduled to play a a home game in Anaheim Stadium, Ethier said.

Edson asked employers interested in joining OCTD's ridesharing programto contact him at the transit district's offices.

Sewage spill in Dana halted

But mile-long beach stretch closed

Dana Point sanitary operations were back to normal today after officials replaced a broken pump that caused 150,000 gallons of raw sewage to spill into Salt Creek, shutting down a mile-long stretch of beach.

Bob Merryman, director of the county's Environmental Health Department, said that although the sewage spill was halted late Thursday, Monarch Bay Beach and Salt Creek Beach won't reopen before Tuesday.

Officials closed the contaminated beaches Thursday to prevent a health hazard to beach users.

"It's bad because this is raw, untreated sewage," Merryman said earlier. He said the sewage could kill marine life and pose health problems to persons coming in contact with it.

The spill began Wednesday while Dana Point Sanitation District workers were repairing a broken pump at a sewage station near Dana Hills High School, Bob Merryman said.

Authorities said there was no health threat to the high school.

Sanitary officials stopped the spill at 9:30 p.m. Thursday by inserting a submersible pump in the underground pump station, said Tom Richards, assistant manager of the Dana Point Sanitary District.

He said the replacement pump will carry the raw sewage to a nearby treatment plant while work crews continue to repair the original pump that malfunctioned.

James Dale takes charge

By CHRIS CRAWFORD
Daily Pilot Correspondent

James McLaren Dale, a driving force behind the family owned Villa Nova restaurant on Newport Harbor, will take over as 1984 president of the Newport Harbor Area Chamber of Commerce.

At 33, Dale is the youngest person ever elected president of the chamber, which begins its 77th year as a business organization.

Dale is a former vice-president and area manager of the chamber and a former president of the Newport Harbor Jaycees.

A 1968 graduate of Newport Harbor High School and a 1973 graduate of Chapman College with a B.A. in Economics and Business Adminstration, Dale is general manager of his family's restaurant as well as president of Allen Dale, Inc. — the parent company of Villa Nova.

Dale's postgraduate work was completed at Thunderbird Graduate School of International Managment, Glendale, Ariz., with an emphasize in Japanese.

In 1974, Dale became Assistant ot the Vice President of the Asian Division of Wometco Enterprises, Inc. in Tokyo.

During his three years in Japan, he wrote a restaurant column for the Japan Times, the largest English language newspaper in the country, and performed some dubbing of Japanesse commercials and movies in English. He also had speaking parts in television shows and a role in "The Late Dinosaur," a Japanese monster movie starring Richard Boone.

Later while visiting Southern California, he remarked that "Newport Beach looked like heaven." He stayed and took over the family business.

The young businessman is a member of the Commodores Club, an arm of the chamber. He organized its recent athletic awards breakfast for outstanding area high school athletes.

He also co-chaired Newport Beach's 75th anniversary celebration in 1981.

Dale's activities in the Newport Harbor Jaycees have included being International Vice President, Chairman of the " Miss Newport Beach" Pageant, and a term as president of the organization in 1980.

Pat Marley to hang it up after 33 years in business

By JOY DEE ANTHONY
Daily Pilot Correspondent

In a few weeks, Pat Marley Menswear of Corona del Mar will only be a memory of its patrons. After 33 years in the cothing business, Marley is waving goodbye to it all in exchange for a life of painting, skiing and visiting a home north of Toronto.

"I'll miss my customers," he says, "and will always be grateful for 33 great years."

The building on Pacific Coast Highway which Marley owns has been turned over to a leasing agent. On the fifth of February, the store will have a close-out sale in which everything will be sold.

Marley's sister, Lois Littlejohn, is also retiring from the business. His clerk and nephew Bruce Littlejohn will become property manager.

When Marley was a child, he remembers his dad taking him to the local clothier's after church each Sunday.

Young Marley thought to himself, "He just sits here and has fun and makes money."

After beginning professional life as an accountant, Marley decided to open an 18-by-18 foot store in Montebello. He catered mainly to high schoolers then, to whom he was known as "Uncle Pat."

Marley says he first started changing the image of the store when the original high school clientele grew up.

The small store was a big success, allowing him to expand it to around 25 by 80 feet. In 1967, he opened up his current store in Corona del Mar. Though for a time, he managed both, Marley eventually sold the Montebello shop because he liked having personal control over operations and a solid acquaintance with his customers.

As one of his former clerks once put it: "You don't have a store, you have a club."

This personalization means that a wife could come into Marley's store and say "I'd like to see the chart on my husband." He keeps all of the sizes of his regular customers for such purposes.

To wives and others buying clothing items for men, Marley advises: "Don't buy ties. Ties are one of our big items for gifts and I can never understand it because a tie is the most personal thing and the hardest thing to pick for someone else."

To those buying clothing for themselves, Marley suggests they find a sales person whose advice they can depend on and allow that person do the fine decision making. For oneself, Marley says, it's hard to stand back and be sure what looks good.

What is said to look good in traditional menswear hasn't changed much since the fifties, he adds, though polyester did have a brief popularity in the early seventies. If you placed the merchandise he stocked in 1955 inside the current shop, "no one would know the difference except in price.,"

Collars are about the same width. Penny loafers are back. When one particular loafer style went over a hundred dollars, Marley called up the maker and asked for a change of style number. Why? "I had it when it was $12.95," he told the man.

BIG YEAR FOR BPBC

A 45 percent increase in sales and leasing volume over 1982 propelled Business Properties Brokerage Company (BPBC) to the best year in its seven-year history in 1983, the company reports.

According to Lawrence M. Scher, president of the Southern California real estate brokerage firm, the bulk of BPBC's business increase occured during the last six months of 1983 when the economic recovery took hold.

Scher reported that the $435 million in new business during 1983 far surpassed the company's previous sales and leasing volume record of $300 million in 1982.

The coming year will be a big one for Business Properties in other ways, Scher reported. In 1984, the company will open a 50-person regional office in Anaheim, its third office overall and second in Orange County.

Suspect captured in desert motel; victim may be wife

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A 68-year-old Costa Mesa man is being held today on suspicion of murdering a woman believed to be his wife and driving to a small desert town where he was caught while allegedly trying to kill the owners of a motel.

The trail of violence, police said, apparently started in a Costa Mesa condominium at 2554 Elden Avenue where police found the slain woman early today.

Police stopped short of identifying the dead woman as the wife of Joseph Katcher, the man suspected of being the killer. Police said it appears the woman had been dead at least one day when found this morning inside Katcher's condominium.

Katcher was arrested Thursday evening by police in Desert Hot Springs, a town on the outskirts of Palm Springs

Desert Hots Springs police claimed the older man severely beat motel owner Arthur Sussle, 76, and was in the process of strangling Pauline

CM cycle cop hurt in crash

Luck must have been riding with Costa Mesa Police Officer Bob Crogan as he patrolled on his motorcycle Thursday night.

Crogan's motorcycle was smashed beyond repair when he collided with a truck on Harbor Boulevard, according the California Highway Patrol Traffic Officer Rick Stevens.

Crogan, 35, was rushed to Fountain Valley Community Hospital. He suffered multiple facial lacerations, abrasions and torn ligaments in his left leg.

"He's listed in serious condition but that's standard procedure. He's really lucky. He suffered a lot less damage than others I've seen come in from similar accidents," said Mike

Dana Point sewage spill halted

But a mile-long stretch of beach will remain closed through weekend

By L.P. BENET
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dana Point sanitary operations were back to normal today after officials replaced a broken pump that caused 150,000 gallons of raw sewage to spill into Salt Creek, shutting down a mile-long stretch of beach.

Bob Merryman, director of the county's Environmental Health Department, said that although the sewage spill was halted late Thursday, Monarch Bay Beach and Salt Creek Beach won't reopen before Tuesday.

Officials closed the contaminated beaches Thursday to prevent a health hazard to beach users.

"It's bad because this is raw, untreated sewage, " Merryman said earlier.

He said the sewage could kill marine life and pose health problems to persons coming in contact with it.

The spill began Wednesday while Dana Point Sanitation District workers were repairing a broken pump at a sewage station near Dana Hills High School, Bob Merryman said.

The main sewage line to the station from nearby homes was shut down, but the backed-up sewage created so much pressure that it burst through, filling a well in the pumping area and then overflowing, first into a pond used by the high school's marine biology classes and then into nearby Salt Creek, which flows to the coast. Authorities said there was no health threat to the high school.

Sanitary officials stopped the spill

Biggest OC cocaine haul

HB police probing $6 million stash left in rented car

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huntington Beach detectives who stumbled across a suitcase containing a record 50 pounds of cocaine admitted today there's little chance of finding the person who left the drug in a rented car.

The cocaine, estimated to be worth at least $6 million on the street, was discovered inside a 1984 Lincoln Town Car that had been towed because it was illegally parked.

The seizure is the largest cocaine haul in Orange County history, according to Huntington Beach police.

Officers said the car was found on Heil Avenue near Camino Canada Laneon Wednesday. It was hauled to the police station by a private towing firm that contracts with the city.

Sgt. Carl Vidano said the suitcase was found during a routine inspection of the car and opened as part of an effort to learn the identity of the car's owner.

Narcotics officers were quickly called when police found the huge supply of the white powder in the suitcase.

"We've really had no luck on determining who was using the car and even if we did, it's highly doubtful they'd admit to owning the suitcase," said Lt. Merle Schneblin.

Police estimated that the cocaine probably cost its owner about $500,000 but is worth at least 12 times that much when divided, diluted and sold on the street.

U.S. Customs agents, who arrested an Irvine man this week at Los Angeles Harbor, put the worth of 70 pounds of cocaine at $20 million. Police in Huntington explained that determining the worth of a drug is not a scientific process and varies depending on how much the drug is diluted.

Golden arches get their place in U.S. history

A federal agency has declared a 30-year-old McDonald's restaurant in Downey eligible to become a national historic landmark.

The stand, built in 1953, is the oldest surviving McDonald's in the nation. The chain's fourth stand, it was the second in the nation to have the now-famous golden arches.

The restaurant is still run by the original franchise holders, Bud Landon and Roger Williams.

Carol Shull, chief of registration for the National Park Service National Register of Historic Places, declared the stand eligible as a landmark.

The stand is significant because the architecture represents a social and economic period that emphasized mobility and because it's the oldest restaurant for a chain that's become synonymous with American life, said Carol Dubie, a park service historian.

Getting ready for Olympics traffic

County employers urged to promote ride-sharing plan

By JEFF ADLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Organizers for the Summer Olympics want everyone to participate — in their own little way.

Orange County employers — like their Los Angeles County counterparts — are being urged to promote ride-sharing and consider more flexible work schedules during next summer's Olympic games when heavy traffic is expected to disrupt Southern California's normally congested traffic patterns.

"We don't want to project any doom or gloom," explained California Highway Patrol Sgt. Mike Howard of the CHP's Olympic planning task force, "but Orange County, though to a lesser degree than Los Angeles, will feel the spillover affects of increased Olympic traffic.

Howard said more than 8 million people are expected to attend the Summer Games, covered by 9,000 members of the press and involving about 14,000 athletes and coaches.

"I'm sure our county will be impacted by the Olympic family, especially with Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm and the Orange Coast's attractive beaches," Howard said.

Besides the additional visitors, four Olympic events are scheduled in Orange County.

The modern pentathalon in Coto de Caza, wrestling at the Anaheim Convention Center, team handball at Cal State Fullerton, and a bicycle race in Mission Viejo could draw as many as 200,000 spectators.

All in all, Howard said, Southern California's highways will have to bear the brunt of an estimated 214 million extra auto miles as 80 percent of those attending Olympic events are expected to drive cars to game sites.

NEWS BACKGROUND

"We need to maximize the efficiency of existing roadways," the veteran CHP officer noted.

Gary Ethier, of the Caltrans Olympic Task Force, said businesses are being asked to help keep traffic moving by shifting delivery schedules and routes to avoid Olympic-congested areas during the games.

Gary Edson, Ridesharing program manager for the Orange County Transportation District, also suggested that some employers might shift employee schedules somewhat or allow more flexible scheduling to minimize traffic during peak hours.

However, Edson that in Orange County, unlike Los Angeles, scheduling plant shutdowns would be an "over-reaction" since the heaviest traffic will be concentrated in downtown Los Angeles for events scheduled at places like the Coliseum.

Another solution is ride-sharing, Edson said. He suggested Orange County firms consider enrolling in OCTD's ride-sharing program not only for the Olympics, but thereafter.

OCTD will train selected employees so that they can establish ride-sharing programs tailored to the particular needs of individual companies, Edson explained. The ride-sharing program sets up employee car or van pools, thus reducing the number of vehicles crowding onto

At about 10 p.m., Marshall Lee Northcutt, driving a 1972 Jeep Scout was heading northbound on Harbor Boulevard by the Vagabond Motel, a short distance south of the San Diego Freeway when he allegedly attempted to make an illegal U-turn.

Crogan was heading south on Harbor.

Northcutt, 25, of Costa Mesa, apparently didn't see the motorcycle and caused Crogan to broadside the small truck.

Northcutt was taken to Costa Mesa Community Hospital where he was treated and released.

Second unit ordinance boost for HB's elderly

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The way Bob Allen sees it, Huntington Beach residents can fulfill their obligations to elderly relatives thanks to a new ordinance that allows small, independent living quarters to be attached legally to single-family residences.

"Our folks burped us and took care of us when we were young," said Allen, "and it's our responsibility to pay them back when they need it."

Allen, a city water pollution inspector, said he hopes that his 83-year-old mother, Mildred, can be persuaded to move to his house from her place near Amarillo, Texas.

City officials have cleared the hurdles for such a change in living styles, he feels, when they approved an ordinance that allows living units of 650 square feet and smaller to be attached to or included in existing homes on 6,000-square-foot lots.

The concept of adding small, secondary living units — sort of a sequel to the "Granny Flat" proposal of a few years ago — has been pushed by state officials as a way to ease housing shortages and provide affordable housing.

Huntington Beach this week became the first Orange County coastal city to adopt such an ordinance.

Officials have stipulated that at least one of the two units has to be owner-occupied — not necessarily by relatives — or it would be considered an apartment. And apartments aren't permitted in single-family residential areas. This safeguard is needed, officials say, to protect residential neighborhoods from absentee landlords and possible deterioration.

The second residential units are viewed by Allen and others as a way of solving the housing shortage for young people, too.

"Our kids are not making it at times. They grow up and fall in love and they make about $3.50 to $5 an hour. In some cases, they're not making as muchour fathers did during the depression.

"It costs $600-$700 a month for real estate and sometimes about five of them get together to share a house. This overcrowding can lead to drunken brawls and other kinds of instabilities. Our kids don't want that. The second units would be just right for them."

Sussle was listed in critical condition today at Palm Hospital in Palm Springs. His wife was said to be in good condition at the same hospital.

Police in Desert Hot Springs also said it appeared Katcher, who'd spent the previous night at the motel, had tried to commit suicide at some point.

During the arrest, Katcher reportedly fell through a plate-glass window when officers tried to pull him away from Mrs. Sussle.

"He was in the process of strangling her at the time and had to be pulled away and restrained," a police spokeswoman said.

Costa Mesa police Lt. Jack Calnon said police here were alerted to the apparent murder on Elden Drive by authorities in Desert Hot Springs.

at 9:30 p.m. Thursday by inserting a submersible pump in the underground pump station, said Tom Richards, assistant manager of the Dana Point Sanitary District.

He said the replacement pump will carry the raw sewage to a nearby treatment plant while work crews continue to repair the original pump that malfunctioned.

Officials plan to move the pump station's electronic control panel above ground to prevent similar mechanical failures in the future, Richards said.

"Before everything was located underground," Richards said. "And when the gate valve malfunctioned, the whole station was washed out."

"The sheer pressure forced the spill," said Merryman, who said the pressurized flow could not be contained until the pump is repaired.

Merryman said signs were posted at the affected beach area to warn visitors of the quarantine.

"It's a good thing it's winter and not the Fourth of July weekend," said Merryman.

County officials said the beaches will definitely remain closed over the weekend, but may be reopened early next week.

local freeways during peak rush hours.

Ethier also suggested that firms considering allowing employees to work a more flexible schedule during the Olympics contact OCTD so that bus schedules can be coordinated to everyone's benefit.

And the worst day for the Olympics? That will be Friday, Aug. 3. The day traffic planners already have dubbed "Black Friday."

Edson said highway conditions may be terrible Aug. 3 because so many events are scheduled and people won't yet be used to the traffic disruptions expected during the Olympics.

In Orange County, however, the worst disruption could come Sunday, Aug. 5.

That morning, portions of the Riverside Freeway are to be closed for an Olympics bicycle race and, that afternoon, the California Angels are scheduled to play a a home game in Anaheim Stadium, Ethier said.

Edson asked employers interested in joining OCTD's ridesharing programto contact him at the transit district's offices.

Cleared principal reinstated

By the Associated Press

A Fullerton school principal cleared of child molestation charges last week has been reinstated with back pay, but school district officials have yet to decide if he will be reassigned to Valenica Park Elementary School.

The president of the Fullerton School District Board of Education, Irene Armstrong, said Thursday after a two-hour closed meeting that principal John Roseman had requested and been granted a month-long paid leave of absence "to recover from his ordeal."

Superintendent Duncan Johnson said a decision on where Roseman will be reassigned will be made within a month.

Child molestation charges against Roseman were dropped after the 5-year-old girl who had said the principal took her pants down later told police that she had soiled herself and that Roseman only helped wash her.

James Dale takes charge

By CHRIS CRAWFORD
Daily Pilot Correspondent

James McLaren Dale, a driving force behind the family owned Villa Nova restaurant on Newport Harbor, will take over as 1984 president of the Newport Harbor Area Chamber of Commerce.

At 33, Dale is the youngest person ever elected president of the chamber, which begins its 77th year as a business organization.

Dale is a former vice-president and area manager of the chamber and a former president of the Newport Harbor Jaycees.

A 1968 graduate of Newport Harbor High School and a 1973 graduate of Chapman College with a B.A. in Economics and Business Adminstration, Dale is general manager of his family's restaurant as well as president of Allen Dale, Inc. — the parent company of Villa Nova.

Dale's postgraduate work was completed at Thunderbird Graduate School of International Managment, Glendale, Ariz., with an emphasize in Japanese.

In 1974, Dale became Assistant ot the Vice President of the Asian Division of Wometco Enterprises, Inc. in Tokyo.

During his three years in Japan, he wrote a restaurant column for the Japan Times, the largest English language newspaper in the country, and performed some dubbing of Japanesse commercials and movies in English. He also had speaking parts in television shows and a role in "The Late Dinosaur," a Japanese monster movie starring Richard Boone.

Later while visiting Southern California, he remarked that "Newport Beach looked like heaven." He stayed and took over the family business.

The young businessman is a member of the Commodores Club, an arm of the chamber. He organized its recent athletic awards breakfast for outstanding area high school athletes.

He also co-chaired Newport Beach's 75th anniversary celebration in 1981.

Dale's activities in the Newport Harbor Jaycees have included being International Vice President, Chairman of the " Miss Newport Beach" Pageant, and a term as president of the organization in 1980.

Pat Marley to hang it up after 33 years in business

By JOY DEE ANTHONY
Daily Pilot Correspondent

In a few weeks, Pat Marley Menswear of Corona del Mar will only be a memory of its patrons. After 33 years in the cothing business, Marley is waving goodbye to it all in exchange for a life of painting, skiing and visiting a home north of Toronto.

"I'll miss my customers," he says, "and will always be grateful for 33 great years."

The building on Pacific Coast Highway which Marley owns has been turned over to a leasing agent. On the fifth of February, the store will have a close-out sale in which everything will be sold.

Marley's sister, Lois Littlejohn, is also retiring from the business. His clerk and nephew Bruce Littlejohn will become property manager.

When Marley was a child, he remembers his dad taking him to the local clothier's after church each Sunday.

Young Marley thought to himself, "He just sits here and has fun and makes money."

After beginning professional life as an accountant, Marley decided to open an 18-by-18 foot store in Montebello. He catered mainly to high schoolers then, to whom he was known as "Uncle Pat."

Marley says he first started changing the image of the store when the original high school clientele grew up.

The small store was a big success, allowing him to expand it to around 25 by 80 feet. In 1967, he opened up his current store in Corona del Mar. Though for a time, he managed both, Marley eventually sold the Montebello shop because he liked having personal control over operations and a solid acquaintance with his customers.

As one of his former clerks once put it: "You don't have a store, you have a club."

This personalization means that a wife could come into Marley's store and say "I'd like to see the chart on my husband." He keeps all of the sizes of his regular customers for such purposes.

To wives and others buying clothing items for men, Marley advises: "Don't buy ties. Ties are one of our big items for gifts and I can never understand it because a tie is the most personal thing and the hardest thing to pick for someone else."

To those buying clothing for themselves, Marley suggests they find a sales person whose advice they can depend on and allow that person do the fine decision making. For oneself, Marley says, it's hard to stand back and be sure what looks good.

What is said to look good in traditional menswear hasn't changed much since the fifties, he adds, though polyester did have a brief popularity in the early seventies. If you placed the merchandise he stocked in 1955 inside the current shop, "no one would know the difference except in price.,"

Collars are about the same width. Penny loafers are back. When one particular loafer style went over a hundred dollars, Marley called up the maker and asked for a change of style number. Why? "I had it when it was $12.95," he told the man.

BIG YEAR FOR BPBC

A 45 percent increase in sales and leasing volume over 1982 propelled Business Properties Brokerage Company (BPBC) to the best year in its seven-year history in 1983, the company reports.

According to Lawrence M. Scher, president of the Southern California real estate brokerage firm, the bulk of BPBC's business increase occured during the last six months of 1983 when the economic recovery took hold.

Scher reported that the $435 million in new business during 1983 far surpassed the company's previous sales and leasing volume record of $300 million in 1982.

The coming year will be a big one for Business Properties in other ways, Scher reported. In 1984, the company will open a 30-person regional office in Anaheim, its third office overall and second in Orange County.
