Newport May Push Expansion of City

How It Was

City Pioneers Reminisce

By THOMAS FORTUNE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Eighty-one Newport Beach oldtimers had the time of their long lives Tuesday night trading tales of a toddling town.

Gathered together for the final time at an "Early Settlers Dinner" at the Mariners Library, each of the old folks took microphone in hand to tell about Newport as it was. Hearing aids were turned up high as the pioneer residents strained to hear each other reminisce.

During the session, individual historical flashbacks were taped for posterity by Friends of the Library.

Earlier, tearful reunions were held as the city's oldtimers recognized each other through failing eyesight.

COMMENTS

Among comments overheard in the dinner line:

"I thought she was dead."

"Well, so there you are. I haven't seen you in 20 years."

Later, during introductions, Balboa Island's oldest permanent resident, Joe Beek, told hom he borrowed tools from Charlie Way on credit to take a job as a carpenter and build the island's first bridge.

GIVES SMILE

Charlie Way, who moved to Balboa in 1909, smiled an ancient smile when Beek offered to pay an instalment on his account.

"The bridge was crooked and narrow," Beek continued, "but I tried to atone for it 18 years later by circulating bonds to build the new bridge. After the bridge was built, my wife Carol and I moved onto the island in 1917."

Mrs. Beek corrected him. "I'll have to take exception to that. We weren't married in 1917," she said.

Mrs. Ramona Castle of San Diego stunned almost everyone present when she revealed she was born at Newport Landing near the present Upper Bay bridge in 1888.

Her father, Joe Duarte, was a longshoreman at the landing and later helped build Newport Pier, she said. As a widow, she moved to San Diego in 1943.

PAVILION OPENED

Mrs. Pauline McClure recalled the opening of Balboa Pavilion in 1907. She said she arrived on the Pacific Electric Railway for "a real estate promotion." She recalled, "They gave us a box lunch and then we walked out the peninsula on planks laid on the beach."

She remembered that she returned with her husband John to buy a home in 1917. Real estate men on the peninsula told them Balboa Island was infested with mosquitoes but they bought a house there anyway, she said.

"We were stubborn, I guess. I still live at 112 Emerald Ave. and I haven't seen a mosquito for years," she laughed.

RECOLLECTIONS

Other recollections included those of Challen Lathers who met his wife, Peg, at Balboa 46 years ago on an Easter Week blind date; Stuart Diehl who took the Balboa Ferry

BAL ISLAND DEVELOPER — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allen Beek engage in mild argument over exact date they moved to Balboa Island. Beek subdivided much of the island and sold it after taking over the land when W. S. Collins, original owner of the island, lost it through foreclosure.

NO. 1 CITIZEN — Charlie Way, oldest living permanent resident of Newport Beach, with his daughter, Miss Marguerite Way, were among honored guests at oldtimers' dinner and enjoyed story of how Joe Beek borrowed tools on credit from Way to build first bridge to Balboa Island.

THEY WERE THERE — Mrs. Pauline McClure (left), a Balboa Islander for 44 years, recalled at Tuesday night's "Early Settlers Dinner" that she was present for opening of the Balboa Pavilion in 1907. Mrs. Ramona Castle (right), now a San Diego resident, revealed she was born near present Upper Bay Bridge in 1888.

Trustees Oppose Pay Plan

Making it clear they don't care to trade local control for state dollars, Harbor Area school trustees Tuesday night rejected a proposal for a uniform statewide teachers' salary schedule.

Board members directed District Supt. Leland Newcomer to send a letter stating their objections to the president of the California School Boards Association.

The CSBA plan calls for uniform salary schedules and disbursement of state aid based on the number of teachers employed by the district.

Dr. Newcomer told Newport-Mesa Unified School District trustees he fought "this same sort of thing" all through the Nevada state legislature when he was superintendent of the Las Vegas district.

He said he objected to the scheme for a uniform salary schedule because it represented "an erosion of local control." He called aid based on number of teachers employed "a bonus for inefficiency."

Board members agreed.

He Said It With Flowers

It looked as if someone was either building a float or getting ready to be the best dressed man of 1967.

Whichever, Laguna Beach police today are pondering the great carnation theft.

Police said the 720 mixed color carnations Tuesday were reported stolen from the Garden Shack Nursery, 690 S. Coast Highway.

Officer said the flowers, owned by Bernard C. Tyrrell, a Solana Beach florist, were being sold on the honor system. They were arranged in 120 bunches on a self-service table near the sidewalk.

At 50 cents per bunch, Tyrrell calculated the loss was $60.

Pretty Book Expert Defends Racy Novels

By WILLIAM REED
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huntington Beach smut trial jurors, bored nearly to tears during recent book readings, finally got a break Tuesday by hearing from a pretty 32 year old mother of two who is also a literature expert.

The expert, Dr. Carolyn Sturak, now a professor of literature at UCLA, provided the spark to snap jurors out of the doldrums.

She appeared as a defense witness in the trial of liquor store owner William C. Bray, accused of keeping a "sin, sex and sadism" bookcorner in his store.

The pretty mother was called as an expert in literature to evaluate five books claimed to be obscene by Deputy Dist. Atty. Allan Stokke.

The seven-woman, five-man jury who have been lulled near the point of exhaustion through the reading aloud of the five books by the prosecution, obviously perked up as the petite literature expert testified in a manner that resembled a college lecture.

Defense Atty. Dean Pic'l early established that Dr. Sturak was an avid reader with "thousands of books read," and several hundred of those being the type involved in the Bray obscenity case.

Discussing "Madame Butch," "Leather Girls," "Just for Kicks," "Surf Broad" and "Pay the Devil," the books claimed to be obscene, Dr. Sturak testified the books wouldn't be considered obscene in her opinion.

Pic'l particularly pressed the point of the way sexual scenes in the books were described. Dr. Sturak maintain-

Viet Camp Of Horror Uncovered

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese troops overran a Communist horror camp in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon and liberated eight prisoners who had been chained for months, a military spokesman disclosed today. Five other prisoners were found shot or hacked to death.

In another tragic episode of the war, big guns of the U.S. Army's 1st Infantry Division shelled a friendly village by mistake today through a computing error. A spokesman reported three villagers killed and 14 wounded, seven of them seriously enough to require hospitalization.

The Communist terror camp was found near the village of Sa Dec, 66 miles southwest of Saigon, when a government regiment swept the area looking for Viet Cong guerrillas who have terrorized the region for years.

Three prisoners managed to escape the Communist camp and lead the South Vietnamese to the scene. The Communist guard apparently discovered the missing prisoners and killed four of those remaining—two men and two women — by shooting them while their hands were still chained behind their backs. One man [illegible] so badly [illegible] nearly off. Two other prisoners were shot and [illegible] died later.

The Communist guards managed to flee ahead of the South Vietnamese troops.

Supervisors 'Dismiss' Vanscourt

Louis T. Vanscourt, who traveled to Hawaii recently, got officially fired late Tuesday from his post as Orange County chief public deputy administrator.

The official reason given by the county was that Vanscourt couldn't account for $14,116 missing from the estate of Mrs. Ida Storm, a Laguna Beach widow who died alone in her modest home.

Dismissal came with a letter filed with the Board of Supervisors by Dr. Raymond Brandt, county coroner and the administrator's boss since 1959.

Under the suspension of Nov. 4, Vanscourt could have been reinstated. But the duties as a public administrator which only this year was turned into an added elective county post separated from the coroner's office, will go to the winner in the Nov. 8 general election, county service officer James Heim.

Meanwhile, Vanscourt remains in Orange County Jail, held on charges of grand theft and misappropriation of public funds. Bail is $9,500.

Allegations against the 45-year-old Vanscourt were expected to be presented today to the Orange County Grand Jury by the district attorney's office.

Vanscourt awaits preliminary hearing Thursday afternoon at Santa Ana-Orange Municipal Court. If the jury indicts him, the Municipal Court proceedings would be suspended.

Meet Tonight

College Trustees To Act on Crisis

By JACK BROBACK
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange Coast College District trustees will meet tonight at 8 o'clock to take steps to solve the district's financial dilemma brought on by the defeat of the Nov. 8 override vote.

They will consider recommendations made by Dr. Norman Watson, district superintendent, for drastic cutbacks in some phases of the educational program and doubling of fees for evening college classes.

The trustees also may set a date for another override election. The ill-fated Nov. 8 proposal called for a 24-cent tax for a 20-year period. This may be modified.

In order that the district may "live" within its income, Dr. Watson has recommended:

—Elimination of the summer sessions at OCC and Golden West colleges.

—Doubling of the evening college charge per class from $2.50 to $5.

—A cutback in educational supplies for some courses.

—Elimination of some clerical help for instructors.

—Elimination of the Community Artist Series which brings top talent to the campus and the community.

The Nov. 8 override was designed to raise funds to continue the full-scale educational program at OCC and GWC, Dr. Watson explained. He said preparations are necessary for more than 11,000 students expected to attend the two colleges in less than four years.

2 Detectives Recalled To Stand in Stag Trial

By BRUCE [illegible]
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Two Newport Beach detectives were recalled to the witness stand in a surprise move by the prosecution late today in the vice raid trial of Jeremy C. Hill.

Prosecutor Ed Laird recalled detective John Simon and Lt. William Saunders, commander of Newport's detective division.

Defense counsel Donald McCartin, however, also had a last-minute surprise move. He attempted to call Laird, the prosecutor, to the stand himself.

SURPRISED

Laird's face turned to surprise and shock when McCartin made the request.

There was a hurried conference between attorneys and judge and it was unclear if Laird might actually take the stand in the late going as a "defense witness."

Simon, in his new testimony, said that he heard Hill's girlfriend, Nancy Franklin, once tell stag party undercover officer Chris Karamanos that she understood a fee of $60 each was being asked by women who later attended Hill's stag party.

Lt. Saunders under questioning by Laird said that at the stag party he observed a couple engaged in sexual intercourse in an upstairs bedroom.

Both Simon and Saunders were among the police who raided Hill's Corona del Mar residence.

Shortly before the prosecution rested its case at 11:05 a.m. today, defense attorney McCartin attempted to place Laird himself on the witness stand.

In earlier court action today and Tuesday, prosecutor Laird continued a point-by-point cross examination of defendant Hill.

Hill's testimony in his own defense began Tuesday, marking the climax to a week of appearances by various defense witnesses.

The six-man, six-woman jury in Judge Donald Dungan's court listened intently to Hill's allegations that he was entrapped into throwing a stag party with lewd films, hired women and gambling.

Defense Attorney Donald McCartin has attempted to show that Chris Karamanos, a Newport Beach full-time reserve police officer, originally suggested the party's illegal goings-on.

Karamanos and Hill each have testified that the other proposed the movies, women and gambling.

Prosecutor Ed Laird today continued a point-by-point cross examination of the defendant. Laird has also charged that Hill sought Karamanos out for "police protection" during the Sept. 27 stag party.

Hill, 34, faces charges of possessing obscene matter, keeping or living in a bawdy house, inviting others to a bawdy house and soliciting patrons for purposes of prostitution or gambling.

QUESTION

Pressing the issue of police protection, Laird asked the defendant why he invited Karamanos to the stag affair.

(Both Karamanos and a second policeman, Jon R. Turner, posed as undercover agents at the party until police raided it).

Hill responded that he asked Karamanos on Sept. 6 what was necessary to "avoid arousing a lot of unhappiness with the neighbors, and even the police department."

Laird asked, "And what were Karamanos' first remarks?"

Hill answered, "He thought it was a good idea. He said the best thing to do was [illegible] everybody in the house. Karamanos then asked if he Annexation Policies To Change?

By JEROME F. COLLINS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Should the city of Newport Beach lower the barriers and pursue a more aggressive annexation policy?

City Manager Harvey Hurlburt says yes, for a number of reasons. Principal among them is that the more people a city has, the greater its political muscle.

If Newport leaves its borders intact, says Hurlburt, by 1985 it would have a population of about 70,000, approximately double what it is today. But if the city expands its borders to embrace all "potentially advantageous" unincorporated territories, it could have a population of about 117,000.

That much muscle would go a long way toward exercising self determination, argues the city manager.

City councilmen are in the process of buying the argument.

Municipal lawmakers, however, aren't yet fully committed to chucking the city's traditional policy of favoring only rich, water-oriented annexations.

But they are plainly about ready to abandon the policy.

Councilmen indicated as much this week after Hurlburt presented to them a staff report citing the advantages of a less restrictive annexation philosophy.

The report included documentation on population projections, maps and point-by-point pro-annexation arguments prepared by Planning Director Ernest Mayer Jr.

Hurlburt said it would be to the city's advantage to annex adjacent county territories totaling 11.6 square miles. About two-thirds of this is Irvine ranchland.

If the annexations take place, they would approximately double the city's present area size.

In addition to the Irvine property, which would not encompass the UCI complex, the proposed annexation areas include Banning and Cagney lands between the western city limits and the Santa Ana River, all of Santa Ana Heights and the Orange County Airport area.

The 20-year population projection for these unincorporated territories, Hurlburt noted, is 46,840.

The city manager cited several reasons for acquiring the territories. Among them:

TAX BASE

—Broadening the tax base with properties that have high revenue producing improvements that far surpass the cost of city services. As an example: the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. near the airport.

—Retention of the right of

SEE SUN THROUGH FOG

If you can find your way through the fog Thursday morning, chances are it'll be a nice day, says district forecaster John Aldrich. He looks for temperatures in the mid-sixties along the sands, jumping to almost 80 in the inner regions of the county. And you can forget your umbrellas at least until Monday.

self-determination as to ultimate desirable boundaries. Other agencies, Hurlburt warned, are now moving into this field.

—Increasing size, both area and population, results in increasing political influence, prestige and power. Hurlburt pointed out that Newport is at a disadvantage now on such cross-city ballot issues as unification of schools and libraries. "Good or bad, if we had been larger, we wouldn't have been outvoted by Costa Mesa on school unification. It cost us a lot of money."

PROTECTION

—Protection of city taxpayers against future costs incurred to correct prior improper land development. The city manager cited as an illustration oil properties west of the city. "One day the oil will run out, and by annexing before then we can control residential and commercial development there."

—Acquisition to correct inter-area street circulation deficiencies. Hurlburt commented that "if the city years ago had had a more aggressive annexation policy, it would have been possible to push for an inland freeway route compromise with no conflict."

Hurlburt's other points included "the moral obligation" the city has to help an adjacent "substandard" area such as Santa Ana Heights to upgrade itself. "We can provide the leadership and the means through assessment districts to get the job done," he said. "To wait for them to do it themselves, and then annex the area, is doing it backwards."

Councilmen reacted enthusiastically to the report. It was unanimously agreed that it was time to consider giving the city's current annexation philosophy a complete overhaul.

MILLIONAIRE

"You have to be a millionaire to get into this town now," said Councilman Al Forgit. "I think we should annex everything we can get our hands on."

"What was good 20 years ago isn't good today," said Mayor Paul J. Gruber.

"Providing the tools and the leadership for (substandard) areas to improve themselves is a healthy process," said Councilman Robert Shelton. "A lot has changed since this subject was last talked about."

"We can't develop a closed ecological system for Newport Beach," said Councilman Howard Rogers.

Vice Mayor Doreen Marshall found no one objecting when she suggested that "it is time to re-evaluate our policies and perhaps expand on Harvey's statement."

"We can't do it all in one session," cautioned Councilman Dee Cook. But he agreed that a fresh approach is in order and the city staff should be provided with new annexation guidelines as soon as possible.

APPROVED

Councilman Lindsley Parsons added that he approved in principle the areas Hurlburt recommended as suitable for annexation, with the exception of the McDonnell Aircraft property. "That's too far inland," he said.

Shelton, toward the close of the discussion, emphasized that further studies should include talks with Costa Mesa, Orange County and Irvine Company officials. "This should be on a professional level so we can talk about these matters frankly and not emotionally."

Forgit concluded his comments with this observation: "It would be a shame for a town like this to stay the size of an egg."

Hurlburt later said he expects the council to go over his report point-by-point and ultimately develop a policy statement on annexations, "so it would serve as a guideline to the staff and the Planning Commission."

"Frankly," he added, "I was quite pleased with the council's reaction."

could come to the party. He suggested that if the police came, he could shoo them away."

The defendant continued that Karamanos then asked, "Why don't we get some movies?"

Hill said he had not contemplated movies before. Hill said that Karamanos at that time also suggested that girls be included at the party.

Deputy District Atty. Laird asked Hill if the policeman indicated what kind of girls, to which Hill replied, "He said, 'Why don't we get some swingers?' "

Hill told the prosecutor that on the Sept. 6 discussion he had made no definite plans for the party. He said he "had no idea where the party was going to take place, if it was going to at all."

GAVE DETAILS

Karamanos testified earlier that Hill outlined the party and most of its details to him during the Sept. 6 conversation.

Prosecutor Laird also pressed the allegation that Hill's stag party was a commercial venture. The defense has acknowledged that each of the more than 50 guests paid $15 to attend.

Laird: "Was it ever planned that you'd make any profit whatsoever?"

Hill: "It never entered my mind."

The defendant said the $15 party fee covered $200 paid to four Los Angeles area women who attended, along with wedding gifts for a friend of his in whose honor the party was held, plus a liquor bill and apartment cleaning expenses after the affair.

The feminine touch in football will be demonstrated on the Harbor High School football field Saturday by the Aloha Lura and Hoa Hineme Tri-Hi-Y Clubs of the Orange Coast YMCA.

Kickoff will be at 2 p.m. The two clubs are sponsoring the events and selling tickets throughout the Harbor Area.

They promise live competition of rough and tumble football.

Tickets may be reserved by calling 675-5835 or 548-7982.

Supervisors Scuttle County Nurse Raises

Sweeping mid - year pay raises for Orange County public health nurses and county employes in six other medical clcassificatins were nixed Tuesday by the Board of Supervisors.

There just isn't enough money, the supervisors ruled after a three - hour hearing prompted by an Orange County Employes Association request.

The supervisors did, however, refer the lengthy written request to personnel director William Hart for consideration at next spring's salary hearings.

Affected by the bid would be public health nurses, x-ray technicians, clinical laboratory technologists, public health microbiologists, dieticians and physical and occupational therapists.

Association manager John Sawyer sought a 2½-step raise for the 70 public health nurses, a change which would have brought their pay span to $735 to $966 monthly. The same group now earns $641-$842.

Bids in other classifications ranged from 2½ to 3e steps in raises which would have been substantial.

Sawyer based the requests on the internal pay situation for all nurses and medical workers. Recent raises closed a gap between the hospital nurses and the public health nurses.

8 County Girls Seek Miss Press Club Title

Eight "favorite daughter" candidates from throughout Orange County Thursday night will seek the title of Miss Orange County Press Club in the only contest of the year operated by the newsmen and women who cover dozens of beauty pageants annually.

Members of the press club will vote to select Miss Photogenic on a popularity-contest basis, but the big winner will be selected by guest judges, most of whom will be celebrities.

Four Orange Coast area entrants are among the young fillies who go to the post at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Orange County Medical Association Bldg., 300 S. Flower Ave., Orange, in the race for the Miss Orcop crown.

Harry Babbitt of Newport Beach, probably best known for his years as featured vocalist on radio, in person and in movies with the Kay Kyser band, will emcee.

Orange Coast entrants in the contest include (alphabetically):

—Susie Bruderlin, 20, Huntington Beach. She's Miss Huntington Beach, Miss Aloha of the Orange County Fair, Maid of California (state fair), Miss Surfboard, Miss Safe Boating and Miss Southern California. 36-24-36.

—Judith Ann Budd, 18, Huntington Beach, nominated by contest committeeman Tony Cillo of the DAILY PILOT. Judith Ann has not entered any previous contests. 39-24-36.

—Cindy Frey, 19, Newport Beach, nominated by Tom McCann of the DAILY PILOT. She is Miss Air Travel of 1966 and Miss University Oldsmobile. She is a vocalist with the Sandpipers, popular Orange Coast area "lounge music" combo. 39-23-36.

—Diana Lee Rosser, 17, Huntington Beach. She was first runner-up to Miss Huntington Beach in 1966. 36-24½-36.

Entries from other parts of the county:

—Shannon Heft, 17, Villa Park. She is Miss Orange of 1966-67 and was a finalist in the Orange County Fair Miss Aloha contest and Miss Southern California competition. 36-24-36.

—Andrea Hosler, 17, Brea. She is Miss Brea and was selected as a princess at the Orange County International Auto Show. She is an addition to the contest lineup replacing Marlene Beth Lemons, 19, Miss Garden Grove, who was forced to drop out of competition due to illness. Miss Hosler's measurements: 37-23-37.

—Tere Rich, 18, Anaheim. She was Miss Stanton 1965-66, first runner-up for Miss Anaheim 1966. Orange County auto show princess, a runner-up in the Miss Mermaid contest, winner of Miss Anaheim in local division of Miss Universe Contest and is Miss Lake Arrowhead. 36-23-36.

—Terri Lynn Storm, 19, Brea. She's Miss La Habra, Miss Orange County International Auto Show 1965 and finalist in Miss Fullerton and Miss Bikini-Hollywood contests. 37-23-36.

Tall bachelor Marine officers, resplendent in dress blues, will escort each of the contestants through their paces in the contest.

Strangler Hunt Widens To Mexico

The manhunt for a Santa Ana strangler extended into Mexico today.

Police broadened their search for the prime suspect in the strangulation of a 33-year-old mother of two after a warrant was issued Tuesday for the arrest of Raul Medina Valdez, 37, of Santa Ana.

Valdez was being sought throughout California also.

Police said Valdez, whose most recent known address was 16375 Greenville Road, Santa Ana, was believed at one time to have been the boyfriend of the victim, Beatrice Barragan, 33, of 310 N. Flower St.

Mrs. Barragan, a factory worker and onetime barmaid, was found dead in her home Friday night by police who were called by a baby sitter.

Coroner's deputies later ruled that her death was caused by strangulation

Officers said Mrs. Barragan was seen leaving a Santa Ana bar early Friday morning with a man believed to be Valdez.

ed that the language used in the descriptions is not beyond the customary limits of candor, but "very much this side of customary limits."

(One of the legal tests of obscene matter is that it must go substantially beyond the customary limits of candor.)

"The last thing they want to talk about is sex," she testified, claiming the language used in the books "is not candid at all."

Dr. Sturak described the language as "lacy" and "extremely vague and general."

She told the jurors who hung onto her words as she lectured on the methods of evaluating literature in general and erotic works in particular, that "they (the authors) don't talk about what is going on (in sexual scenes)."

She testified the books may have social value in future years as a sort of a guide to sociologists or anthropolgists on society today.

Dr. Sturak called the books in question "popular literature" because of what she claimed are large sales to the masses. Given an outline of the tests of obscenity in California law, Dr. Sturak said she did not believe any of the five books obscene.

Stokke, despite extensive cross - examination and use of the doctoral dissertation written by Dr. Sturak five years ago, was not able to shake her testimony to any appreciable degree.

Stokke asked if she felt the five books appealed to the "prurient interest (shameful or morbid interest in sex, nudity, etc.) of the average person," and she replied that "one man's prurient interest is another man's joke. I don't know what a person is thinking when he picks up one of these books."

NO EXPERT

"I'm not an expert on the prurient interests of others," she pointed out to Stokke, who seemed unable to keep Dr. Sturak from charming the jury with her informative lectures.

She did admit she had seen books she considered obscene and backed the idea of some laws in the obscenity field.

Meanwhile jurors are enjoying two days of relief today after spending nearly three weeks of hearing of "sin, sex and sadism" in the trial of Bray.

Brawl Death Suspect Free On Own Bail

A manslaughter suspect in the bar brawl death of an Anaheim man was released on his own recognizance Tuesday after arraignment at Anaheim-Fullerton Municipal Court, aides reported this morning.

Noel Edward Christy, 23, employe of a Whittier glass company, was ordered to return Dec. 5 for preliminary hearing in the death of 42-year-old Robert L. Podratz.

Podratz, a body and fender repairman, died after being struck by a single blow in the face at the Country Girl bar, near the Santa Ana Freeway near Lincoln Avenue.

Police said the two had argued over a pool game. Podratz was dead at the scene, and Christy was arrested early Saturday morning at his home in Whittier.

Ex-Mesan's Rites Held

Funeral services were held Friday at Westminster Memorial Park Chapel for Dorothy Gillespie, a resident of Costa Mesa for 30 years.

She died after an extended illness at her home in Cal Mesa near Redlands. She was 60.

Active in Costa Mesa community affairs she held offices in the Democratic Party and VFW Women's Auxiliary. Her former home was at 370 Avacado St.

Survivors include her husband, Eugene, retired assistant postmaster of Newport Beach; son, Pete Dowell, deputy sheriff, Santa Ana; two brothers, Glen Fair of Long Beach and Donald Fair of Anaheim; sister, Mrs. Ethel Thompson of Newport Beach and four grandchildren.

LONDON (AP) — The British government plans to ask the United Nations this weekend for compulsory economic sanctions against Rhodesia if Prime Minister Ian Smith doesn't come to terms by then, government sources reported.

U.S. Summary

The coldest air of the season spread today over the nation's midsection and advanced southeastward along a line from Lake Superior to Oklahoma. The front was expected to push eastward to Lake Erie and into the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas by Thursday.

Cold wave warnings were posted for a seven state area from Wyoming to Iowa and Kansas with temperatures dropping well below zero in the Dakotas and Montana. Strong winds gusted to 40 miles an hour as the frigid blast moved into Iowa and Missouri.

More than a foot of snow was dropped in the Great Lakes region and Appalachians and heavy snow was reported in the mountains of New Hampshire. Elkins, W. Va., had seven inches of snow on the ground.

The only other precipitation was along the north Pacific coast.

A warming trend developed in the southeast and in the southwest and Southern California temepratures were above normal levels.

Arab League Calls Top Meet on Border Crisis

Thant Set To Accept 2nd Term

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—U Thant, yielding in a sense to popular demand, is ready to accept another term as secretary general of the United Nations, highly reliable diplomatic sources said today.

Thant was understood to have indicated a change of heart during a brief visit by a five-man security council delegation late Tuesday. The full 15-member body first met secretly for three hours to frame an approach to him.

Although there was speculation the cheroot-smoking Burmese would remain for a shorter period of two or three years, sources said Thant was ready to agree to serving a full five-year second term.

The sources said the council was expected to meet by this weekend—probably Friday—to recommend formally Thant's election by the General Assembly for a new term.

Thant said last January he would be happy if the council could find a successor. On Sept. 1, he announced he did not wish to "offer himself" for re-election when his first term expired Nov. 3. But he agreed to remain in office through the current General Assembly session, scheduled to end Dec. 20.

Not Ruled Out

Rafferty to Buck Kuchel in 1968?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — State School Superintendent Max Rafferty opened the door today to the possibility of running in 1968 against Sen. Thomas Kuchel whom he described as "no more a Republican than Lyndon Johnson."

The school official said he "wouldn't rule out anything" in regards to the campaign although "I have no interest in running for any office other than the one I now hold."

Rafferty also denied flatly that he anticipated a gubernatorial appointment should freshman Republican Sen. George Murphy retire.

Rumors of retirement began shortly after Murphy underwent surgery for removal of a malignancy from his vocal cord.

"I talked with the senator by telephone yesterday and found him in high spirits, even chortling (over the rumor). He said he planned on remaining in office next year and 10 years from now," Rafferty said.

Rafferty said Kuchel's future wasn't up to anyone but the senator himself. "Kuchel should stop masquerading as a Republican. Nothing he has done in the last few years has been consonant with the Republican party."

The educator suggested that Kuchel change parties as did Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon and "he'd have an excellent chance of remaining in the senate."

Rafferty said he felt that under the administration of Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan there would be "a greater emphasis on state financial aid for education. He said he would ask for an "absolute minimum" of $300 million in new state money next year for school districts and "wouldn't be surprised if you saw an increase in sales and cigarette taxes."

May Act Against Israel

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — The 13-nation Arab League today called a Dec. 7 meeting in Cairo to discuss possible action against Israel in view of the increasing tension in the Middle East.

Cairo Radio said Abdel Khaleq Hassouna, the league's secretary general, cabled defense and foreign ministers and chiefs of staff of the member nations to attend the gathering.

It quoted him as saying, "The agenda is a report by the commander of the Arab Unified Command about the military situation on the Arab borders with Israel."

King Hussein of Jordan blamed the mideast crisis on Soviet agitation. He was trying desperately today to turn aside new threats to his regime by hardline Arab extremists backed by the Soviet bloc and to establish a "balance of power" with Israel.

GESTURE

Hussein called parliament into session Thursday to discuss the growing crisis.

In a conciliatory gesture, Hussein said at a news conference Tuesday Jordan would agree to basing United Nations peacekeeping troops along the border with Israel.

(As Hussein acted, Syrian radio reports monitored in Beirut told of a general strike and new demonstrations against him in the Gaza Strip.)

Extraordinary security precautions remained in effect in Jordan, as Arabs began demonstrations to protest the 1947 United Nations resolution partitioning Palestine and leading to the establishment of Israel. There were fears the demonstrations would be turned into new protests against Hussein, whom extremists accuse of weakness in dealing with Israel.

PROTEST RALLY

(At a protest rally in Gaza, Ahmed Shukeiry, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), renewed his bitter attakcs on Hussein. He said he was considering an attempt to topple the 31-year-old king and declaring Jordan a "Palestine Arab Republic.")

German Leaders Confer

Chancellor-designate Kurt-Georg Kiesinger (left) and West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt meet in Bonn to work out final details of their coalition cabinet list. Kiesinger is leader of the Christian Democratic Party and Brandt is leader of the Social Democrats, two opposition parties which have feuded for years but have agreed to cooperate in a grand coalition.

Bigger Slash Hinted

GOP Backs Spending Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen gave a GOP blessing today to President Johnson's plan to reduce spending by $3 billion—with the reservation that Congress may cut even deeper.

Dirksen said in an interview the $5.3 billion holddown on administration programs — calculated to clip more than $3 billion in actual spending in the current fiscal year which ends next June 30 — tallies with figures congressional leaders were given at a conference at Johnson's Texas ranch last Friday.

The President did not detail in his announcement in Austin Tuesday where the cuts will be made. But Dirksen said he expects the presidential pruning knife to fall heaviest on the anti-poverty and public works programs — including highways — and on foreign aid.

REALISTIC

Dirksen avoided joining former Vice President Richard M. Nixon in contending that Johnson was reading with a turn to the right the Nov. 8 election returns in which Republicans picked up 47 House seats, three Senate posts and increased their governorships from 17 to 25, with one still in doubt.

"Let's just say," Dirksen chuckled, "that the President is being realistic."

Johnson told a news conference Tuesday that expenditures will be sliced in a variety of ways. He said these would include not asking Congress to appropriate money for some programs already authorized. He said there will be a stretchout in others and some cancellation of contracts.

In the Austin news conference, Johnson called the economy strong. He said the "prudent and necessary" cuts would help combat inflationary pressures, "the cruelest burden of all."

DEFENSE

The President said the largest share of the budget goes for defense and for expenditures over which he has no control, including interest on the national debt, veterans' assistance, agriculture price supports and payments on prior contracts.

The President also said he hopes to announce about the first of the year whether he will propose a tax increase. "There is not a thing in the world we can tell you about that until we have the figures," he said.

In Washington, Undersecretary of the Treasury Joseph M. Barr said a $3 billion spending cut already had been worked into the Treasury's figuring on a possible tax increase.

S2 Rocket Test Firing Set Today

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. (UPI) — Space engineers were set to begin countdown today for a static firing test of the Saturn S2, troublesome second stage of the Saturn V moon rocket.

A successful test of the S2-1, first flight model of the stage to be tested, will be a milestone in the country's race to the moon. A failure will add weight to the S2 millstone that has been holding back the Apollo man - on -the moon program.

The five - engine, million-pound - thrust rocket was scheduled to be ignited late today for a six-minute burn — the time it would take the rocket to help blast an Apollo spacecraft into orbit.

A test version of the S2 was successfully test fired five times at the Mississippi test facility near here earlier this year. But in May the test rocket blew up during a pressurization test.

Reagan Studies Appeals For Spending Increase

Demands for increased state spending awaited Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan in the Capitol today.

Republican Reagan, beginning a day of talks with Democratic leaders and state officials, prepared to meet with the State Personnel Board, in charge of the financial fortunes of California's more than 150,000 state employes.

In advance of the meeting, Samuel Hansen, general manager of the 109,000-member California State Employes Association, reiterated a plea for a six per cent pay raise. The estimated cost: At least $30 million, plus another $25 million if it is extended to the University of California and the state colleges.

Hansen said Reagan, who has pledged economy in government, should "follow progressive personnel practices of putting in his budget the amount needed to pay for the labor force. Any other action would not be intelligent."

The CSEA and other employe organizations are seeking even higher raises for categories such as nurses and psychiatric technicians.

And Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, said Tuesday he will ask the legislature to boost state spending for public schools by $375 million. He suggested higher liquor and cigarette taxes and "milking the race track industry," with some money going to reduce local taxes.

An unusual air of secrecy surrounded Reagan's trip from Los Angeles to Sacramento.

A press aide, Clyde Beane, declined to say when Reagan was arriving. That was the case earlier this month, when his aides said they didn't consider the arrival time newsworthy.

Beane also refused to give any details of Reagan's Thursday activities. The governor-elect's schedule said "private appointments and staff meetings" but gave no details, not even what city Reagan would be in.

City of Future?

Huge Buildings—No Cars

BOSTON (AP)—Two space scientists said today that the aerospace industry should be enlisted to solve "the burgeoning problems of our sickening cities" and presented their own idea of the "super city" of the future.

In their ideal city, all residents would live in 100-story apartment buildings built in a circle around a vast recreational complex. There would be no automobile travel except for leaving the city, and each building would be filled with luxuries such as health and beauty resorts.

The concept was outlined in a paper presented today at the annual conference of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics.

The authors, Vernal M. Tyler and Carl F. Asiala Jr. of the McDonnell Aircraft Corp., St. Louis, Mo., reported their future city idea "has met with a most gratifying acceptance."

They said studies show the U.S. population will increase by 30 million persons in 10 years and that 320 million will be living in urban areas 50 years from now. Traffic, they said, will be unbearable.

Why should the aerospace industry be called upon to solve the problems?

"Aerospace," their paper said, "has the largest private reservoir of scientific talent in the world. Its engineers have come up with workable solutions for almost every problem presented — no matter how difficult it might have been."

Instead of further crowding existing cities, Tyler and Asiala suggested that new ones be built from scratch. Their ideal city, called a "modular, circumferential city," might not be the perfect solution but could be a base from which to work, they said.

It would consist of 24 high-rise apartments in a double circle around the rim of the wheel-shaped city. It would house 250,000 persons, with parking on the lower floors, low-cost housing just above and the most expensive housing at the top of the 100-story structures.

Snowstorm Moves East

A vast storm system which brought the worst weather in nearly a year to the Great Lakes area, moved eastward today.

Seven inches of snow fell in the mountains of New Hampshire in a six-hour period.

Cold wave warnings were issued for the Rockies and northern plains states. Another inch of snow was added to the 17-inch cover at Alpena, Mich.

Gold Dwindles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the absence of France at the payout window, the U.S. gold supply dropped $45 million more during October, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

Rehabilitation Stressed

LBJ Orders Prison Revamp

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson today ordered a major reorganization of the Federal Bureau of prisons to better cope with crime repeaters.

The Texas White House announced the bureau will be reorganized in January "to assure the most effective use of new techniques in inmate rehabilitation."

The chief executive also made public a report on the success of special federally assisted summer school programs for disadvantaged children.

REPORT

The report by a national advisory council recommended an early decision on reserving a substantial portion of funds under title 1 of the elementary and secondary education act for summer programs.

Johnson, who underwent throat and abdominal surgery two weeks ago today, is bouncing back with his old vigor.

Acting Press Secretary George Christian said he spent the morning at the LBJ Ranch talking by telephone "several times" to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and to Walt W. Rostow, his national security affairs advisor.

Johnson "is being kept constantly advised" on the Israeli - Jordanian crisis, Christian said.

U.N. TALK

The chief executive last night talked at length with United Nations Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg after the U.N. turned down membership for Red China and a study of its possible future admission to the world organization.

Christian was asked today about reports that Johnson had set up a special study group to search for new ways to cope with strikes that are judged to threaten national interest.

"Ever since he became president the departments involved in this subject such as the justice department and the labor department have been studying questions of this kind," Christian said. "Nothing has come to him. When and if it does we will let you know."

Letter Stirs Fuss in GOP

Romney Wrote It to Goldwater After '64 Debacle

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top man in Barry Goldwater's presidential campaign dismissed today as "baloney" the two-year-old charge of Michigan Gov. George Romney that the race was designed to appeal to segregationist Southerners.

But Dean Burch, who served as Republican national chairman during the last presidential race, ended his rebuttal there — and said he had advised Goldwater against debating the matter.

He said it threatened to renew the strife that split the party during the Goldwater campaign.

"We're just starting 1964 all over again," Burch, in Tucson, Ariz., said in a telephone interview. "That won't do anybody any good."

Both Romney and Goldwater men denied that they had first made public the text of the 12-page letter the Michigan governor wrote Dec. 21, 1964.

Written as an explanation of Romey's refusal to endorse the Goldwater presidential ticket, it complains about campaign strategy and makes this assertion:

"Indeed, the conduct of the campaign and the Nov. 3 election results demonstrated that your campaign never effectively deviated from the Southern-rural-white orientation."

Romney said there was "distressing evidence that this was part of the strategy" but added he did not believe Goldwater had shaped such a plan.

"A leading Southern delegate in a private conversation with me ... made it clear that there had been a platform deal that was a surrender to the Southern segregationists, contrary to the entire tradition of the party," Romney wrote.

"That's a bunch of baloney," said Burch.

Goldwater himself was off on an Air Force Reserve flight, but a spokesman said he had decided against making any statement on the newly published Romney letter.

BIPARTISAN ROMANCE — Pretty, honey-blonde Sharon Percy will marry John D. Rockefeller IV, a member of one of America's wealthiest families, next March. Miss Percy is the daughter of Illinois Republican senator-elect Charles H. Percy; Rockefeller, a Democrat, is a state representative-elect in Virginia.

Smoking Warnings Repeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Cancer Society repeated today its plea for men and women to give up cigarette smoking "in order to protect themselves against cancer, emphysema and heart disease."

"However, those who continue the habit should be able to choose cigarettes with low tar and nicotine in the main stream of smoke," said Dr. Harold S. Diehl, the society's deputy executive vice president for research and medical affairs.

Diehl's statement came as the society presented a report at a Federal Trade Commission hearing on rules the FTC has proposed for use in testing cigarettes and reporting on their nicotine content.

Besides cancer society spokesmen, representatives of the tobacco industry and government experts are scheduled to testify at the hearing.

Diehl said the society is convinced that "it is in the interest of health to provide the public with information as to the tar and nicotine content of the smoke of the various brands of cigarettes on the American market."

The testing is expected to be done by machines that puff on cigarettes as a person does. After a measured amount of smoke passes through a filter, the filter is weighed to determine the amount of residue present.

Among points to be decided are the butt length to which test cigarettes are smoked, the number of cigarettes that should be smoked to measure tar and nicotine content, how the test cigarettes should be selected and how the results of the tests should be reported to the public.

The U.S. Public Health Service, meanwhile, offered new statistics from death records to back up its claims about the alleged health perils of smoking, particularly cigarette smoking.

PanAm Still Negotiating With Union

NEW YORK (AP) — Pan American World Airways, the largest international carrier in the world, said today it would continue negotiations with the Transport Workers Union in efforts to avert a strike threatened by the union for noon Friday.

A strike by the union, which says it represents 13,000 Pan Am flight and ground-service employes, would result in the suspension of all of Pan Am's 360 daily flights to 128 cities around the world. The airline serves 16,500 passengers a day.

The two sides are deadlocked over a 15-per cent wage increase over 2½ years recommended by a presidential fact-finding board.

U.N. Action

2-Chinas Policy Suffers Defeat

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly's rejection of both the bid to seat Peking and the proposal to seek a compromise solution of the issue of China's representation has dealt a severe blow to advocates of a two-China policy.

The 62-34 defeat Tuesday of the Italian plan to turn the China problem over to a U.N. study group virtually doomed chances of any two-China formula now, since that was viewed as the goal of the proposed study.

The decision of the United States to support the Italian plan had been viewed as major shift by Washington toward the two-China idea. But the poor showing Peking made in this year's vote and the lack of support for the Italian proposal was expected to prompt a U.S. reappraisal of a solution it did not relish.

The results of the balloting came as a general surprise. Peking had been given virtually no chance of winning a seat under the two-thirds majority rule, but few expected it to emerge 11 votes behind the Nationalists.

Supporters of Red China blamed the defeat on Peking's own attitude, pressure from the United States and the "quality" of new African governments.

Jury Calls Officials in Vegas Quiz

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)— A federal grand jury may have come up with some specific gambling money figures in its investigation of Nevada casino tax reports.

A court order—required by Nevada law if a state official is asked to reveal confidential information—was obtained to call the head of the State Gaming Control Board before the grand jury Tuesday.

The panel is looking into Internal Revenue Service allegations that casino officials have raked off part of their gambling profits before reporting to tax men.

In the first two days of its investigation, the jury called 13 witnesses, two of them state officials. Donald Aikin, an accountant in the auditing section of the State Gaming Control Board, appeared Friday as the grand jury's first witness.

Speck Said Competent To Be Tried

CHICAGO (UPI)—Four psychiatrists who examined Richard Speck testified Tuesday the sandy-haired drifter is mentally competent to stand trial on charges of murdering eight young nurses.

The testimony given by the doctors, four of seven chosen by the prosecution and defense to examine Speck, retraced the hours—as related by Speck—before the night of terror when eight young women were killed in their townhouse apartment.

Two of the psychiatrists testified Speck told them he went on a liquor, narcotics and barbiturates bender on the eve of the day the nurses died.

Dr. Vladimir Urse, director of the Cook County Mental Health Clinic, said Speck told him he "went blank" during the drinking and pill gulping bout July 13.

Urse also testified that a colleague reported that Speck's use of drink and drug "triggered compulsive attacks on the people around him."

The testimony, much of it brought out by questions from Speck's lawyer, public defender Gerald W. Getty, appeared to hint at a possible line of defense should the hearing jury rule Speck competent to stand trial and the trial is held.

The hearing before a jury of seven men and five women continued today with testimony from the remaining three members of the psychiatric panel. Criminal Court Judge Herbert C. Paschen indicated Tuesday the hearing might not conclude until Thursday.

Johnson Feels Fine, Plans Mexican Trip

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson, looking fit and feeling "fine," plans to leave the country briefly Saturday to inspect a dam construction site on the Rio Grande with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz.

Details of the one-day presidential trip south of the border were released today.

Diaz Ordaz will host an informal lunch for Johnson at the Amistad (friendship) Dam construction camp. After lunch, both presidents will take a helicopter tour of the dam, a joint project of both the United States and Mexico.

The Mexican president's office said Diaz Ordaz had planned a working trip through the area and decided to invite the American president, who is currently recuperating from his recent surgery on the LBJ Ranch only 200 miles from the dam site.

Asked how he felt Tuesday, the President replied: "fine."

Talking with newsmen, Johnson seemed back in his old peppy form. He plans to spend several hours touring the dam site after meeting Diaz Ordaz at Ciudad Acuna, Mexico.

Johnson spent six hours at his swanky office in the federal building here Tuesday and seemed to be at home in the new surroundings.

At his news conference, Johnson announced a $5.3-billion cutback in federal programs during the 1967 fiscal year.

Percy's Girl, Rockefeller Plan to Wed

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP) — Republican Sen.-elect Charles H. Percy announced Tuesday his daughter, Sharon Lee, 21, will marry John D. Rockefeller IV in March.

Rockefeller, 29, scored an election victory as a Democratic nominee for the West Virginia Legislature. Percy, 47, ousted three-term incumbent Democratic Sen. Paul Douglas in Illinois.

Miss Percy, the twin sister of Valerie who was slain Sept. 18 in her bedroom of the Percy mansion, is the daughter of the senator-elect by his first wife, Jeanne Dickerson Percy.

Nazis Jeered

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — About 5,000 banner-carrying demonstrators marched through Hamburg streets Tuesday night in a protest against West Germany's newest neo-Nazi party, the National Democrats (NPD).

Home Buying Costlier Despite LBJ Efforts

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The cost of borrowing money to buy a home rose sharply in October despite Johnson Administration efforts to stop the upward spiral.

On the eve of the Nov. 8 election, the President's Council of Economic Advisers said that the long upward march of home mortgage interest rates "is now past history."

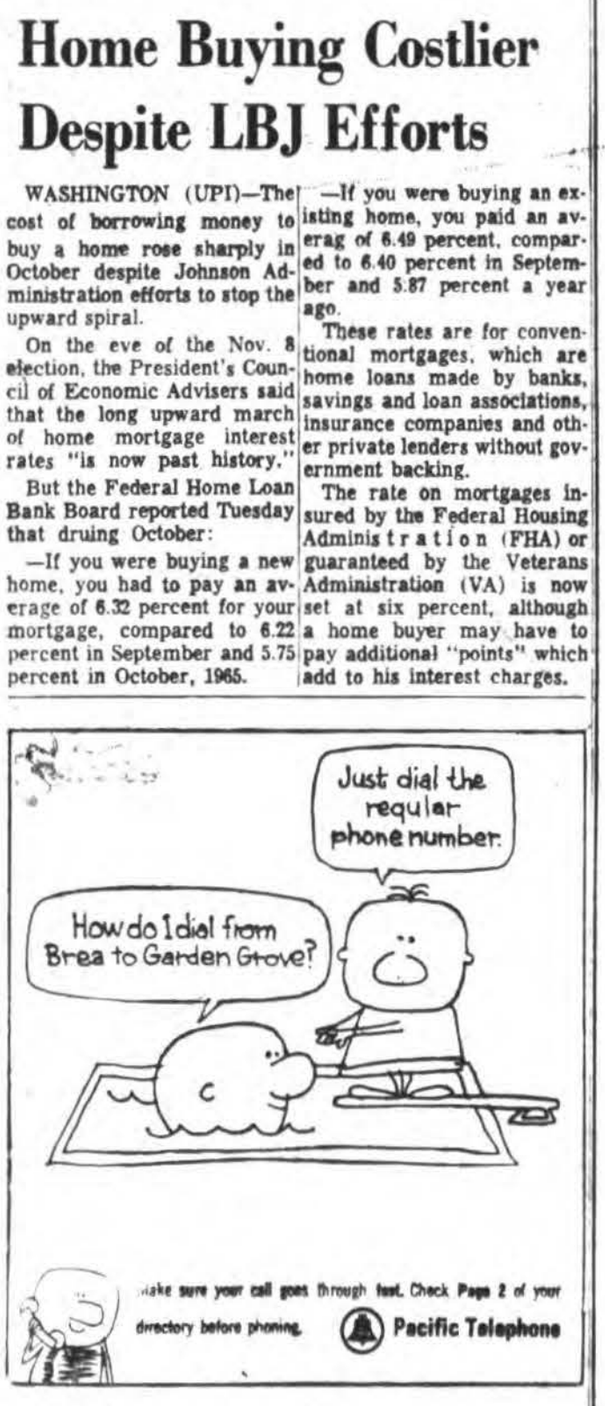

But the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported Tuesday that druing October:

—If you were buying a new home, you had to pay an average of 6.32 percent for your mortgage, compared to 6.22 percent in September and 5.75 percent in October, 1965.

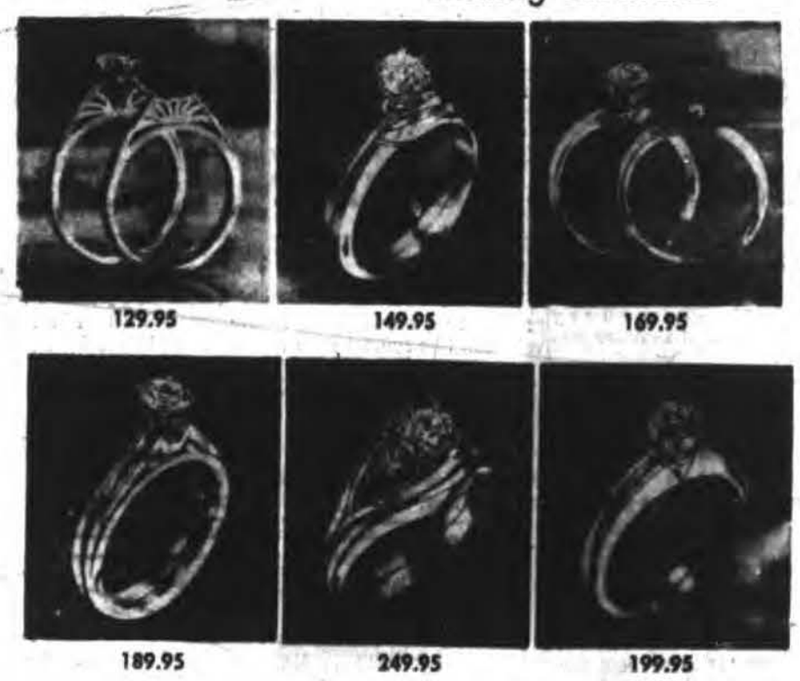

—If you were buying an existing home, you paid an averag of 6.49 percent, compared to 6.40 percent in September and 5.87 percent a year ago.

These rates are for conventional mortgages, which are home loans made by banks, savings and loan associations, insurance companies and other private lenders without government backing.

The rate on mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) or guaranteed by the Veterans Administration (VA) is now set at six percent, although a home buyer may have to pay additional "points" which add to his interest charges.

State Council

College Teachers Pushed for Raises

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Raises of 10.6 per cent for University of California teachers and 10.4 for state college faculty members have been unanimously recommended by the State Coordinating Council for Higher Education.

The council, however, turned down a proposal that would have added five percent more to the raises to help recruit new teachers and retain the present ones.

In a second vote, the council approved a request to the legislature that would implement the five percent raise in 1968. The council's meeting was in San Francisco Tuesday.

Current UC salaries range from $7,229 for instructors to $17,000-plus for full professors. For state college teachers, the range is from $7,965 to $15,000.

The council's recommendations will be presented to the governor and the legislature, which must act on the measure before teachers' wages are actually increased.

The council staff presented a proposed plan for financing the state's 78 public junior colleges. The plan would shift the full support of the schools to the state's general fund, eliminating the 66 percent portion currently supported by local property taxes.

Staff members presenting the plan emphasized that the control of the academic program in the schools would remain with the local governing boards.

The council took no action on the plan, but it will be resubmitted in January.

QUEENIE By Phil Interlandi

"We're thinking of throwing out the trading stamps and taking certain customers out to dinner instead —how does that appeal to you?"

Barmaids May Lean Over To Serve—Even in Bikini

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A state appeals board ruled Tuesday that a barmaid attired in a bikini bottom and pasties isn't violating public welfare and morals when she leans down to serve a customer his beer.

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board reversed the state liquor control department's decision to suspend for 30 days the license of the Rooster Tail Go-Go, an El Monte beer bar.

The department suspended the license after two waitresses were observed wearing the scanty costumes.

Guardsman Death Study Now Closed

FRESNO (UPI) — The National Guard has closed the case of a Riverdale guardsman stabbed in the heart during a drill, but the soldier's father said Tuesday he is not happy with the way the case was handled.

"I should think the survivors would be entitled to more information than we've had," said Glenn V. McNary, who said the family has received only meager details of the death of their son, Pvt. Roger G. McNary, 22.

Young McNary was stabbed to death Sept. 17 during a riot control practice session at his unit's weekend drill at the Fresno armory. Guard officials said he was acting as a rioter when the scabbard slipped off another soldier's bayonet and he was stabbed. The name of the man handling the weapon has not been released.

Lt. Col. Willard A. Shank, the guard's advocate general, said "It's a closed case as of now."

He said there was no board of inquiry into the death. "If it is convened, then it's an accident and there is no reason for an inquiry," he said.

McNary said he has learned the last name of the guardsman involved, but has not tried to talk to him. He said his daughter tried to talk to another soldier present at the drill, but said he told her he was under orders not to make a statement.

Supervisors Challenged

Nightspots Fight for Lives

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Two Sunset Strip nightspots fought for their lives today in the wake of actions by city and county officials to stop teen-age unrest in the area.

Operators of the Whisky-a-Go Go nightclub filed suit Tuesday against county supervisors claiming the recent revocation of their youth dance permit deprived the club of a "valuable property right" and was unconsitutional.

The suit asserted they had been deprived of the permit, which resulted in a loss of business, without due process of law.

The permit allowed persons between the ages of 18 and 21 to dance in clubs where liquor is served.

In another action Tuesday, the city council voted unanimously and without debate, to condemn the Pandora's Box coffee house.

The move will expedite proceedings by the city to acquire the land on which the club is built to permit the lineup of Laurel Canyon and Crescent Heights at Sunset Boulevard.

It is believed that the proposed link, which has been under consideration for the last three years, will relieve a traffic bottleneck in that section.

Councilman James B. Potter Jr., who made the motion for condemnation, said he paid a visit to Pandora's Box last Saturday night and "found the place dirty and filthy."

AND NOW THERE ARE 20

BAKERSFIELD (UPI) — A Bakersfield woman has given birth to her 20th child.

Mrs. Eldora Parnell, 42, and the baby girl are reported doing fine at Bakersfield Memorial Hospital after the Monday birth.

She and her husband, James, have been married for 27 years. Sixteen of the children, who range in age up to 26, are still living at home.

They'll Take It

But Ladies Don't Need SS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three fiercely independent ladies, aged 80 to 102, have reluctantly been persuaded to accept their rightful Social Security benefits — $35 a month each. But it wasn't easy.

Told they had the money coming to them, the ladies would have none of it until they consulted their business adviser on the propriety of accepting money from the government.

"It's there for you and you might as well take it," he told Mrs. Ebon A. Swanson, 102, and her maiden daughters, Lurline, 81, and Alice, 80.

"We didn't need the money," said Miss Alice, "and thought that others could use it more." But they will take it — and give it to charity.

SAW QUAKE

The Swanson ladies need no books to tell them what the 1906 earthquake and fire was like. They lived through it. And they need no talented descriptions to tell them how people lived in the city by the Golden Gate at the turn of the century.

All they need do is look around them.

These hearty, durable women live in a huge victorian mansion Swedish-born Capt. Alexander Swanson built for his wife and daughters at the turn of the century. Capt. Swanson was the dean of San Francisco bar pilots. He died in 1943 at the age of 86. But his house lives on.

The three-story house is filled with old books, stained glass, American flags and richly stained sideboards filled with expensive old crystal. Pictures of sailing ships hang on the walls.

PARTIES

"We had such wonderful parties here," said Miss Alice. "And it's all here, all of it."

The wall gas jets for lighting are still where they were installed, though now converted to electricity. A cameo-shaped portrait of a young beauty — Mrs. Swanson 70 years ago — graces the front sitting room.

Upstairs, a small picture of Capt. Swanson, when he shepherded the ships into San Francisco Bay, sits on a fireplace. Nearby, the ladies watch television.

"We're all very healthy, just perfect," said Miss Alice, "and we expect to be around a while."

And in the telephone book, the name of Capt. Swanson, dead these many years .... he's there too.

State Asked To Exhibit

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Osaka Wednesday invited California to participate in the 1970 Osaka World Exposition.

The invitation was extended by officials of this city when they met with a goodwill and trade development mission from San Francisco.

The San Francisco delegation arrived in Osaka, Japan's second largest city, Tuesday to strengthen San Francisco-Osaka sister city relations which began 10 years ago.

The meeting is open to the public. Donations will be taken at the door.

30 Viet Cong Killed

County GI Fights Way Out of Trap

ORANGE — Word reached here today that Sp4 Ralph Harrigan of Orange and four other American soldiers killed 30 Viet Cong soldiers after almost being trapped on a long-range patrol 32 miles northeast of Saigon Sunday morning.

Counting silently the five Americans on the patrol watched 80 Viet Cong troops file along the road 20 yards away. Then one of the Americans, moving slightly, snapped a twig.

The frighteningly loud "pop" brought a Viet Cong soldier snooping toward them. He saw them and died.

Down went 30 other Viet Cong "as we laid down fire over an 80-yard swath," said Sgt. Cleetus Sanders, of St. Louis, Mo., telling the story at a briefing seven hours after the clash at 7:30 a.m. today.

Three of his patrol had never been behind enemy lines before. They all made it home without a scratch.

Helicopter gun ships and tactical air strikes raked the fleeing Viet Cong. The Communists put up some rifle and automatic rifle fire but did no harm.

Sanders, Sp4 Kenneth Good of Lancaster, Pa.; Sp4 Robert O'Malley of New City, N.Y.; Sp4 Harrigan and Staff Sgt. Lemvin Finnegan of Brooklyn, N.Y., had been dropped into the area 32 miles northeast of Saigon Sunday morning by helicopters.

All five members of the patrol were airlifted out of the combat area after their brush with the Cong. Sgt. Sanders dangled from a rope ladder hanging out of the rescue helicopter during the 12-minute flight to safety at Phu Loi.

County Weighs Study Of Future to 2000

SANTA ANA — Orange County of the year 2000 AD may be viewed in a study now being considered by the Board of Supervisors.

The board Tuesday took under submission the proposal by Third District Supervisor William Phillips that the probe of 1959 be updated to include a look of 20 more years into the future.

The Stanford Research Institute study of 1959, which was updated in 1963, only carries the county until 1980 in its evaluation of economic and political needs.

Questions from planners and others are not being answered by the present study, Phillips said as he brought up the proposed study after the board's regular meeting.

Such a study by the research institute would probably cost about $34,000. According to Phillips, the cost of the earlier studies has been recovered through the sale of the volumes.

Hearing Set On Dismissal

FULLERTON — Arguments for a motion to dismiss murder charges will be heard Dec. 13 on behalf of two brothers accused in the death of a UCLA coed from Fullerton, Superior Court aides in Santa Monica reported today.

Accused in the death are Donald Davis, 19, and his 20-year-old brother, Gene Earl, both of Santa Monica. Both denied guilt in the August death.

The victim, Sheryl Cummings, 22-year-old daughter of Cal State, Fullerton professor Sherwood Cummings, disappeared Aug. 19 while on her way to work.

Want a Date?

Pretty Paulette Taylor of Riverside has plenty of them. But the date she's talking about most these days is Jan. 14 when a successor will be named to take her place as Queen Scheherazade to reign over the National Date Festival in Indio. The festival will be held Feb. 17 through 26 in the Coachella Valley community.

Here's a Lot of Gold Waiting to Be Mined

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Be calm, now! No rushing round, please. After all, as somebody must have said, there are finer things than gold.

Still, it may be of some general interest to note that the Interior Department's Geological Survey has discovered, — or, rather, rediscovered — quite a lot of gold which is just lying around waiting to be mined.

The tale goes back more than half a century. The locale is a wild and remote region of northern South America, 100 miles southwest of Georgetown which is the capital of what used to be British Guinea and is now the independent nation of Guyana.

Around the turn of the century somebody discovered some gold-bearing quartz in this rain - drenched wilderness accessible only by boat. They opened a digging which came to be known as Peter's Mine.

ABANDONED

From 1904 to $909 it produced about 39,800 ounces of gold, yielding around eight-tenths of an ounce of gold per ton of rock. It was one of the richest "lode-gold" mines in the country.

Peter's Mine was then abandoned for several years. It was just too hard to get to it, extract the gold, and get it back to civilization to make the operation worthwhile.

The mine was reopened briefly in 1915 - 16 and produced another 1,103 ounces of gold.

All this came from an area only 300 by 200 feet and mainly from a depth of less than 200 feet.

At the request of the new government of Guyana, the Geological Survey made a field study of Peter's Mine under the auspices of the Agency for International Development (AID).

EXPEDITION

A. E. Weissenborn of the survey's Spokane, Wash., office and C. N. Barron, staff geologist of the Guyana Geological Survey, made an expedition to the site of the abandoned mine and did a lot of drilling.

They reported that there still is gold in Peter's Mine. They found indications of gold-bearing veins extending to depths of at least 600 feet and laterally to distances larger than previously explored. A few samples assayed as much as 7 ounces of gold per ton of rock.

Although access to Guyana's "green hell" still is by boat only, the new explorers noted that "in recent years small gold mines are operated profitably by using air transport."

According to Weissenborn's report, 160,000 or more ounces of gold are available for production from Peter's old mine. At current prices, this would amount to more than $5.5 million.

MAY BE MORE

And, as the report says, there may be more gold deeper down and farther out.

But the survey's findings do not mean that the Guyana hinterland is ripe for a latter day gold rush by all comers.

"By Guyana law," the Geological Survey said, "exploration and development rights are open to bid by selected applicants, which may include foreign countries."

For further information consult the U. S. Geological Survey.

Strange Bird

The bewildered bird, done in brilliant colors, is contribution of commercial designer Tom Ungerer to the presentaton, "Fifty Years of Graphic Arts in America," currently on display at the California Museum of Science and Industry at Exposition Park in Los Angeles. Art exhibit will continue through Dec. 4.

RAMBLING ROUND RICHARD'S

WITH SALLIE

DIG IN A TUB COME UP WITH BARBEQUED BEEF

Yum . . . There'll be times when you'll welcome this big 2 pound tub of barbeque beef in your freezer . . No fat, no bones, just extra yummy slices of barbecue beef. You can slither off a few or a lot of slices with a fork and put the rest back in your freezer. Put on foil and heat. The greatest for sandwiches or plain ole beef eating. If someone should happen to give you a boat for Christmas, remember Coronet's tub o beef and give it a whirl in your boat freezer.

PARTIES, PARTIES EVERYWHERE

If your holiday entertaining is too hot for you to handle, remember our Party Coordinator Virginia Fouts, and give her a quick whirl on the telephone. She ties together all the goodies in the flower shop, party shop, bakery, and delicatessen and comes up with a party package marked special delivery just for you . . . Everything from ordering invitations to washing the last glass and putting it in the cupboard is included in Virginia's repertoire. She'll come to your home and help you make plans and offer suggestions. Her crew of helpers is the nth degree of efficiency. They wear the smartest black uniforms with white brgandy and lace aprons and cuffs. You'll be proud to have them around if you need them . . .

PEOPLE WE LOVE 'EM MORE EVERY DAY . . .

One gal was breathless in the flower shop. "I was looking in the windows last night after the show and I just had to come down and see inside." Christmas bower of the hour, the flower shop in its Yuletide dress. Hanging from the ceiling Christmas tree ornaments in the shapes of gold foil fish and and long gold bobbles swinging sideways to look like a sail boat. Red velvet rocking horses, white doves in four sizes. Angel dolls with hand-painted wax faces, really dressed dolls in red velvet and brocade. Red velvet apples growing on ivy. Tiny 2 foot green artificial trees to decorate yourself, hand-carved wooden nativity figurines. You'll be breathless too and the flower shop is great mood music to put you in the spirit of things to get done.

COFFEE, COFFEE EVERYWHERE

The Toddy coffee pot wraps up the coffee making delima in one little glass jar. You put a whole pound of coffee in the top, pour 7 cups of cold water in, stir once and let stand for 8 to 12 hours. The end product, concentrated coffee to make by the cup or the pothul. Put 1-1½ teaspoons in a cup and add boiling water. The coffee keeps its wonderfuly fresh flavor indefinitely in your refrigerator. Downstairs in Housewares in the gift shop where you'll also find the Italian Christmas Tree lights. Lights like stained glass windows, bunches of grapes, drums, lanterns, icicles, all delicately beautiful. The newest are angelfish, pastel pinks, blues, greens and yellows. Can't you see 'em swimming around on a white tree. And every home needs a Lamp-Lite. It electronically controls any light plug in your home to turn a lamp on when it's dark outside and off when daylight sets in. You place it on the photo electric cell faces outdoors.

PRETTY WRAPPINGS MAKE WARM GIFTING PACKAGES

Gold gift boxes with lustrious gold, red or green bows For gifts, already boxes a glamorous new very old brocadey-looking paper . . . For those who like far out flavors a stunning chartreuse or fucsia foil to be-ribbon as you wish. Just like wrapping your own presents with somebody else to do the work. You make the decisions, decisions as to what color of ribbon with what paper and Mary Dood and her eager beaver gift wrappers do the rest. And don't forget that mail. The girls will mail anything mailable anywhere.

Bay Transit System Riding Out Storms

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco Bay Area's new $1.2 billion 7-mile rapid transit system, one of the world's largest engineering projects, is about one-half under construction.

Its completion goal is 1971. Its object is to provide the most modern, fast, automatic and efficient rapid commuter service existing in the world today.

The officers and engineers of the Bay Area Rapid Transit System (BART) predict both goals will be met.

When finished, it will be the world's first fully automatic train control system as well as the first completely automatic self-service fare collection system.

The project is of the magnitude of the St. Lawrence Seaway, the California Water Project or, say, the Panama Canal. Costs of the system and the seaway probably are about the same.

The California Water Project will cost more, but it will be built segment-by-segment over many years. The Panama Canal cost $365 million to construct when completed in 1914, but dollars and labor were cheaper in those days.

COMBINATION

BART will operate cars and trains averaging 50 miles per hour, including station stops, with equipment reaching maximum speeds of 80 miles per hour. The system will be a combination of subway, elevated and surface lines.

One of the key segments is the trans-bay tube between San Francisco and Oakland, the longest underwater tube in the world. It follows, almost directly, the course of the now discontinued ferry system between the two cities.

BART has had its stormy periods and expects more. It was created as a tax-levying district by the Legislature in 1957. It included five of the nine counties bordering the bay, with option of the other four to join later.

Preliminary engineering studies and the fact that San Mateo County already had the Southern Pacific railroad commuter service, led that county to withdraw. Marin County withdrew when engineers gave unfavorable reports on use of the Golden Gate Bridge to carry rapid transit trains in addition to regular vehicular traffic.

ENDORSED BOND

That left three counties — Contra Costa, Alameda and San Francisco. A three-county plan was approved by supervisors and voters endorsed a $792 million general obligation bond issue to provide capital costs for construction.

Equipment and maintenance were planned to come from operating revenue, toll bridge funds and other sources. Part of the tube construction also was to come from bridge tolls. BART went ahead with its planning.

Another hurdle occurred when a taxpayers suit, brought by four individuals who had opposed the system, was filed in Contra Costa County. Time and money was lost, until courts decided in favor of BART. The time lost, however, set the project behind schedule and cost money because of inflation.

Another obstacle developed when Berkeley residents objected to 2½ miles of elevated tracks through the center of their city. They voted a special bond issue of $20.5 million to put that portion of BART underground. This, too took time.

A further difficulty arose recently when two prominent landscape and planning architects quit. They charged that too much emphasis was being given engineering creations and not enough to the problem of fitting the system into its environment.

Long Beach Boat Show Draws Well

By ALMON LOCKABEY

BOATING

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Boating Editor

The first section of Skip Creger's Doubleheader Boat Show at the Long Beach Arena is drawing large crowds in spite of some inclement weather. The first section of course, is the sailboat show which lasts through Nov. 30.

Given three days to clear out the ragbaggers, the powerboat section will start Dec. 3 and continue through Dec. 11.

So whatever your preference in boats, there's something for you to see at the Long Beach Arena between now and Dec. 11.

The nice thing about this doubleheader feature is that one admission is good for both shows. This was an innovation of Skip's last year when he first decided to branch out from his original exclusive sailboat show format and extend a welcoming hand to the power boat addicts.

And Skip has done a little more expanding this year. The doubleheader type exposition will also be staged in Northern California with sail featured Jan. 18 through 22 and power exhibited Jan. 25 through 29. In February Creger will stage a combination show in San Diego — Feb. 15-19.

This year's sailboat show features the smaller type craft such as dinghies and the so-called Midget Ocean Racing classes up to 30 feet. There are a few 30-35 foot craft and only one 40-footer, Columbia Yachts' Columbia-40.

Reason for the graduation downward to the smaller sailboats is probably two-fold. Those are the sizes being bought by the majority of new sailors — and it is quite expensive for manufacturers to move the big 40-50 foot sloops, yawls and ketches to the show for such a short exposure.

One of the small boat classes getting a lot of viewing at the sailboat show is the new British designed, international Tempest Class, a two-man keel boat that was designed as a possible substitute for the Star Class in the Olympics and other international competition. The boats are being built locally by W. D. Schock Co. of Santa Ana. Look for an active class of Tempest sloops in the Newport area in the not too distant future.

Among other things you'll find at the boat show are varied lines of accessories and equipment for both sail and power, and a wide range of boating togs and marine specialties.

If you are hankering to know what's new in the boating world for 1967, don't fail to take in one or the other of the expositions at the Long Beach Arena. And don't forget, if you want to get double your money's worth, buy a ticket to the sail boat show and hang onto the stub until the powerboat show comes along a few days hence.

Baltimore Fire Kills 5 Persons

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Five persons, four of them children, were killed today when a flash fire raced through their southwest Baltimore home.

The victims were identified as Marie Hallameyer, 27, and four of her seven children: Brenda, 4, Michele 2, Tina and Jim, ages uncertain. Two of the survivying three children were in school at the time.

BCYC Sets Year End Regatta

Bahia Corinthian Yacht Club will host the Year End Regatta for both inside and outside classes this weekend as a finale to the club's 1966 season.

Outside classes invited to race are ORR, PHRF, MORF, and any other class with five or more entries. Inside classes expected on the starting line are Lido-14 A, B, and Jr.; Kite; Snowbird; and Sabot A, B, and C. As in the case of the ocean racers, additional classes with five or more entries will receive a start.

The bay classes will start from a committee boat in the turning basin off Lido Isle. Ocean classes will start and finish at a committee boat off the Balboa Pier. The schedule calls for five races for inside classes and three for the outside. The first inside start on Saturday will be at 11:30 a.m. and on Sunday at 12:30 p.m. The first Saturday start outside will be at 12 noon and the single race on Sunday will be at 1 p.m.

Trophy presentation for outside classes will be at 6 p.m. Sunday in the BCYC clubroom. Trophies for the inside classes will be presented as soon as final race results have been tabulated.

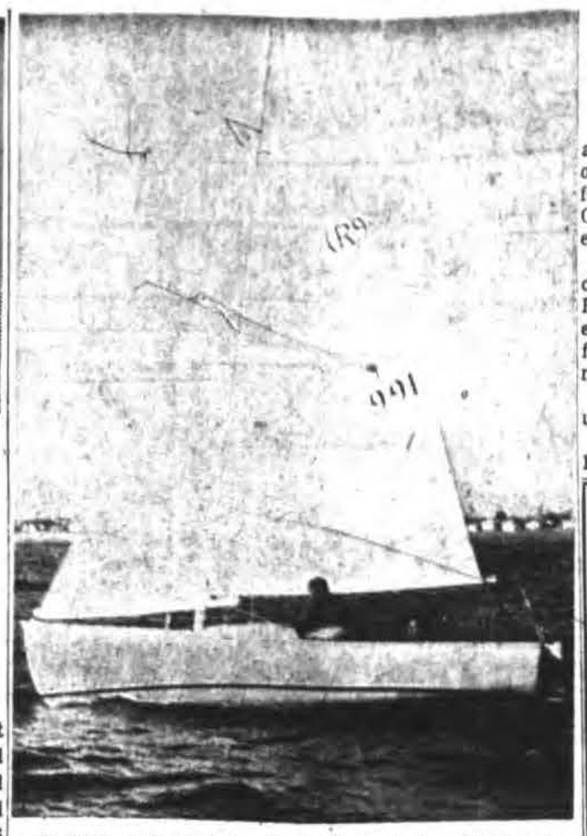

Bahia Corinthian will hold its annual dinner meeting for the entire membership on Saturday evening in the First Cabin of the Balboa Bay Club. At this time the officers and directors for 1967 will be elected, and annual trophy awards will be made.

Yule Regatta Set Sunday

Seal Beach Yacht Club will stage its third annual Yuletide Regatta Sunday for Ocean Racing, Pacific Handicap, Midget Ocean Racing and Ocean Racing Catamarans.

The regatta is open to all member clubs of the Southern California Yachting Association. Entry cards must be postmarked so as to arrive no later than the mail delivery on Dec. 2. After a class has been established entries will be accepted aboard the committee boat until 11:45 a.m. Sunday.

The club's facilities at the Edgewater Inn, Long Beach, will be open to all entrants and crews after the race.

FLEET CHAMPION — Scott Weber's Rhodes-19 sloop Speed D' Men from Balboa Yacht Club is the new fleet champion after a close contest with Brian Carter's Touche Pas from Orange Coast Yacht Club. There were nine entries in the championship series.

Balboa's Weber Cops Rhodes Fleet Crown

Scott Weber of Balboa Yacht Club was the winner of the Rhodes - 19 Southern California fleet championship last weekend in a tight duel with Brian Carter of Orange Coast Yacht Club.

Weber scored a first and two seconds in the three races for a total of 4½ points while Carter was scoring at fourth and two firsts for 5½ points. Under the reversed scoring system.

The three - race series was sailed in the ocean off Newport Beach under the sponsorship of the Orange Coast Yacht Club. The regatta was a special event limited to Rhodes - 19s which have participated in at least one local regatta during the past year.

The championship series had nine entries from six yacht clubs and was the climax of the 1966 sailing season during which the fleet has competed in a total of 61 races in 21 regattas.

Third place went to Don Cray of Voyagers Yacht Club who will succeed Carter as fleet president during 1967.

Ardell Gets Chris-Craft Dealership

Ardell Marina of Newport Beach has been named by Chris-Craft Corp. as exclusive dealers in Los Angeles, Orange and San Diego counties for their new line of sailing yachts.

Chris-Craft yachts, built in Florida, include the new Shields Class sloop and the new Apache-37 sloop, a racing-cruising auxiliary designed by Olin Stephens of the firm of Sparkman and Stephens.

Six of the Shields Class sloops have recently been donated to California colleges — including two to the University of California, Irvine, two to the University of Southern California and two to Stanford.

Ardell expects to have the first of the new Apache-37s on display at an early date. Features of the yacht are a light displacement hull with an integral skeg rudder and fin keel.

Information or specifications on the newline of Christions on the new line of Christhrough Ardell at their Los Angeles or Newport Beach offices.

FEW EXCEPTIONS

DAILY PILOT circulation is so complete that many of the more than 500 carrier salesmen learn their routes by memorizing the very few homes to skip, rather than the doorsteps to deliver.

Midget Trophy Series Set

Voyagers Yacht Club has announced the inauguration of a perpetual trophy series for the fast-growing Midget Ocean Racing Fleet in Southern California.

The new trophy will be called the Voyagers Midget Perpetual and will be awarded to the winner of the best five out of seven scheduled races.

The seven race series set up by VYC is as follows:

Catalina Island race, April 1-2, sponsored by VYC.

Laguna "C" Race, May 21, sponsored by VYC.

Newport to Oceanside race, June 24, co-sponsored by VYC and Oceanside Yacht Club.

Huntington Flats race, July 23, sponsored by VYC.

Long Point and Return race, Aug. 12-13, sponsored by Newport Harbor Yacht Club.

VYC-BCYC Fall Regatta, Oct. 14-15, co-sponsored by Voyagers and Bahia Corinthian Yacht Club.

Fourteen-Mile Bank Race, Nov. 11, sponsored by Newport Ocean Sailing Association.

In a letter to John Daniel, president of the MORF of Southern California, VYC Commodore Morrie Rich said: Voyagers Yacht Club feels strongly that MORF is one of the fastest growing and most needed areas of yacht racing in Southern California."

OCC Series

Heralded Pianist To Play

A musician, hailed by critics as the finest young pianist in Southern California will open the 1966-67 Orange Coast College concert series Sunday when he appears with the OCC Community Symphony.

David Swenson, 15-year-old student of well known piano teacher Earle Voorhies, will play in the college auditorium at 4 p.m. in the concert which is co-sponsored by the college and the Costa Mesa Park and Recreation Department.

Tickets for the offering are $1 and can be obtained at the city recreation department, 80 Fair Drive; the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce, 538 19th St.; City Hall, 695 W. 19th St.; Coast Music Co., 1888 Harbor Blvd., and the OCC student store.

Despite his youth, Swenson has all the credentials, sponsoring officials say. He is already a veteran performer in recitals and competitions.

Swenson has twice captured the Long Beach Summer Youth Music Festival championship over 600 other entrants. He is also a winner of the International Piano Recording contest sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers.

Joseph Pearlman, symphony conductor, said that the youth demonstrated rare ability in a recent rehearsal with the OCC symphony group.

The balance of the Sunday program the ordhestra will present includes "Overture, Der Freischutz" by C. M. von Weber; "Evening Prayer, Dream Pantomime" from Hansel and Gretel by Humperdinck; Ballet Suite from "Swan Lake" by Tchaikovsky, and overture, "La Vie Parisiene" by Dorati-Offenbach.

FEATURED — David Swenson, 15, hailed as one of Southern California's leading young pianists, will be featured Sunday in opening concert of Orange Coast College series.

Investment Talk Slated

Making money by buying and selling money will be discussed at the Thursday public lecture in the University Extension series "Family Security Through Investment Planning" at UCI.

Speaker is Milo Hefferlin of the International Banking Office of Bank of America, Los Angeles. He will talk about how to value foreign currencies, the effect of events on foreign exchange and also in vesting in coins for profit.

The program begins at 7 p.m. in Science Lecture Hall. Admission at the door is $3.50. For further details contact extension in Campus Hall at UCI, or call 833-5414.

LONDON (UPI) — Lord Snowdon, Princess Margaret's 36-year-old husband, was convalescing at home today following minor surgery for an undisclosed ailment.

U.S. Seeks Civilians For Vietnam Service

A drive to recruit men and women for civilian posts in Vietnam will get under way Monday in Los Angeles, according to William A. Platt, public affairs chief for the Far East of the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID).

A 50-man team from Washington will aid in the drive to enlist civilian skills that are needed to help win the "other war" in Vietnam, the war against hunger, illiteracy and diseases, Platt said.

He said there is a widening gap in job recruitment for the civil action program in the war zone. "More than 700 specialists, mostly professional and technical personnel, are needed now to fill the current vacancies and be trained as future replacements," Platt said.

Temporary headquarters for the recruitment program will be at 756 S. Broadway in downtown Los Angeles. Those interested may call collect for appointment to (213) 688-3456.

Several AID officials from Vietnam will be flown to Los Angeles to assist the recruitment effort.

Candidates with qualifications as economists, registered nurses, civil and construction engineers, auditors, public administration advisors, teacher education advisors, vocational education advisors, provincial representatives, public safety advisors, automotive maintenance specialists, and secretaries are interviewed.

Salaries range from $7,000 to $18,000 a year, depending on the position or qualification for the job. Up to a 25 percent hardship bonus will be added to the basic salary, along with housing allowance, medical care and other benefits, Platt said.

307 Home Courses Set For 1967

A total of 307 home study courses are being offered by University of California Extension for 1967 under its correspondence program, according to Dr. Richard Baisden, director of Extension in Orange County.

Among the 20 college-level courses now [illegible] are such specialties as Readings in Masterpieces of Spanish Literature in English Translation, Non-Fiction Magazine Writing, Studies of the Soviet Union and International Communism, Methods of Real Estate Finance, Elementary Swedish, Computer Programming and a History of Africa.

With 21,000 enrollments last year, University of California Extension operates the largest correspondence program of its kind in the world.

A free correspondence course catalog for 1967 is available from the Extension office on the UCI campus, Room 1325, Campus Hall.

BEFORE — This aerial photo, made last September, shows initial stages of construction of 75-acre Fashion Island shopping complex, heart of Newport Center, expected to be completed by next September near intersection of MacArthur Boulevard (Corona del Mar Freeway) and Pacific Coast Highway. Circular boulevard surrounding project will be six-lane Newport Center Drive. It will be fed by six other six-lane thoroughfares, all divided with landscaped center strips. Photo is looking north toward Philco-Ford Corp. complex (not shown).

Newport Center Rises

Shopping Center Rapidly Takes Shape

Newport Center, the 330-acre Irvine Co. shopping complex in Newport Beach, is rapidly taking shape and when completed, will be the model after which similar projects throughout the world will be patterned, according to Daniel A. O'Farrell, manager.

Fashion Island, the hub of the Center, will be comprised of four major department stores which flank 51 smaller retail shops.

It is 95 percent leased, O'Farrell said.

The shopping complex has been planned under a new concept in which the small retail shops are staggered in stair-step fashion rather than a conventional in-line layout.

Ground was broken for Fashion Island, the first phase of Newport Center, in August 1965. Grand opening is set for September 11, 1967. Cost of developing the 75-acre Fashion Island has been forecast at $20 million.

Parking facilities for 5,500 automobiles have been planned, and traffic within Fashion Island will flow over six wide thoroughfares leading in and out of the center.

Anticipated gross sales will exceed $35 to $50 million within the first three years of operation.

Major tenants for the shopping complex are J. W. Robinson, Broadway-Hale, Buffums' and J. C. Penney.

Other businesses in Fashion Island are, clothing stores: Silverwoods Back Street, Pickwick Fashions, Judy's, Chris Fashions, Desmonds, Di Orrio's, Waltah Clarke's Hawaiian Shops, Motherhood Maternity, Phelps Wilger, Show-Off, Apropos, The Look, Lerner's, Youngland, Sam Bork Originals and Gentry Shop.

Shoe store spaces have been leased to Mandel's, Paul Allan, Wetherby Kayser Shoes, Fiesta Footwear, Leeds, Gallenkamp, and Newport Children's Bootery.

Seven restaurants include Robert Burn's Cutty Sark, Ontra Cafeteria, Northcott's Restaurant, Coco's, and restaurants in Buffums', Penney's and Robinson's.

Four jewelry stores are Zale's, Slavick's, Clark's and Brett-Walker Goldsmith.

Specialty stores are Hallmark of Newport, Neal's Sporting Goods, Dalton Books, Westbrook's, Yardage, Penney's Patio Shop, The Tobacconist, See's Candies, Bath Shop, Mediterranean Imports, Newport Candle Center, Karl's Toys, Warren's Stereo, Plummer's Radio Station KOCM-FM, a beauty salon, barber shop, florist, and custom shoe building shop.

AFTER — Here's the way an artist sees the finished Fashion Island from the air over Philco-Ford Corp.'s complex looking seaward. Rectangular Newport Center would box in the circular island. Entire center will cover 330 acres, the "island" will contain 75 acres. Four major tenants flank 51 retail stores and service firms. Major tenants (starting with columned building — Broadway Department Store —and proceeding clockwise around the circle) are J. C. Penney Co., J. W. Robinson and Buffums' Department Store. Pacific Coast Highway and Newport Harbor are visible in background (top of photo).

Woman Folds Paper Into Art Objects

By WILLIAM REED
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Schoolboys long have long known the hobby as making paper airplanes to sail through classrooms, but to Mrs. Robert Dyer of Huntington Beach folding paper into interesting shapes is known as "Origami," the Japanese art of paper folding.

Right now the showcase of Huntington Beach public library is full of the many objects Mrs. Dyer, 8091 Indianapolis Ave., has fashioned by folding paper.

Although she has been involved in the hobby for only six months, her creations daily draw admiration from viewers at the Main Street library.

"Most hobbies are expensive," Mrs. Dyer explained, "but all one needs to work at the art of Origami is paper. Even the poorest child can find a sack or a spare sheet of paper to fold."

To help those who would like to learn more of the art, the library has several books on the topic, Librarian Walter Johnson pointed out.

Mrs. Dyer took up her paper folding after suffering a sprained ankle and being forced to stay indoors.

"I love to read, but after a while even reading becomes tiresome," she said, "then I began to fold paper." She explained that in addition to creating art objects, the hobby teaches more difficult things such as the geometry involved with shapes.

Because of the involvement with higher mathematics, and the need to express through art, the hobby has become international after its start in Japan, Mrs. Dyer said.

ORIGAMI ARTIST — Folding paper into art objects has become a hobby for Mrs. Robert Dyer of Huntington Beach. A show of her efforts at Origami, Japanese paper folding, is now in the showcase at Huntington Beach Public Library.

I KNOW THAT FACE — Linda Lloyd, staffer for Fountain Valley High School yearbook, Raconteur, checks pictures and names during work session. Tending to other details are Jan Anderson (center) and Jeanne Edmondson.

Slides Shown

Mesa Students See County Space Work

Slides and moving pictures illustrating the role which the Aeronutronics Division of Philco - Ford Corp. has played in the production of space equipment were shown Tuesday to students at the Victoria School in Costa Mesa.

Dr. Dan Tompkins, of the Space and Re-entry Systems Division, Newport Beach Operations, told the students of equipment which the corporation has produced in Orange County in the past eight years.

The students, first, second and third graders, who attended the program are taught by a team of teachers at the school who are developing a project, "Introducing Space to Children," as a part of the Newport-Mesa Unified School District's Space Science Learning Program.

Robert Kramer, manager of programs, for Philco - Ford's Space Re-entry Systems Division in Newport, serves on the advisory board of the school district's space program.

Twenty-two teachers in the Newport - Mesa district are currently working on special phases within the space science learning program which is being planned at the elementary, junior high and high school levels, according to Fay Harbison, project director.

Most of the space industries in Orange County are represented on the advisory board, she said.

Libraries Set Parties

Christmas parties for children will be held at both the Mesa Verde and Center Street Libraries in Costa Mesa on Dec. 19, Mrs. John Nolan, president of the Costa Mesa Friends of the Library, announced today.

The Mesa Verde program will be held at 10 a.m. and the Center Street presentation at 2 p.m. A puppet show, Christmas music and refreshments are planned.

Lecture Set

A slide-illustrated lecture on "Archaeological Discoveries of the American Indian in California, Arizona, and Sonora" will be given at Chapman College in Orange Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the little theater.

Open to the public free of charge, the lecture will be given by Dr. Paul H. Ezell, professor of anthropology at San Diego State College.

School Paper

French Have a Word for It

By TONY CILLO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When Fountain Valley High School's newspaper staff members say they have to get the word out, they mean it.

The name of the school newspaper is "Le Mot." In French, it means "the word."

The newspaper made its second appearance last week, it's first with it's new name. The first edition came out with ? ? ? where the name should have been, and a plea for the student body to help name it.

The newspaper is one of two major publications produced by the school's journalism students. The other, of course, is the school yearbook, Raconteur. The yearbook's name also is French and it means "a story teller."

For the newspaper, the staffers have come up with a "mystery writer." Listed with other writers is "T. C. Smothers, foreign correspondent." The identity of Smothers is the staff secret.

Editor-in-chief of Le Mot is Peggy Matthews, and assistant editor is Bob Bryant. Co-editors of the yearbook are Cyndi Byrd and Paul Ross.

Reporters are Kathy Malone, Scott McVay, Robert Purkiewicz, Scott Williams, Barry Bravo, Cynthia Byrd, Jerry Combe and Craig Haney.

Other yearbook staffers are Carolyn Dittee, Casey Spencer, Jeanne Edmondson, Bob Thompson, Darlene Giron, Linda Lloyd, Claire Maunders and Jan Anderson.

Balkan Kidney Disease Baffles U.S. Physician

By IVAN STEFANOVIC

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Twenty-five percent of the rural population of Yugoslavia, Romania and Bulgaria suffers from a mysterious kidney disease. Its cause is still unknown after four years of research directed by a prominent American doctor.

Despite its wide spread in these three countries, the malady is endemic — almost unknown in any other region.

It strikes the young — teenagers or even children under 10. But its origin is difficult to trace because the symptoms usually do not appear for almost 10 years. As the disease develops, the sufferers become anemic and are greatly weakened. In its advanced stages, the disease often is fatal.

STUDY STARTED

The illness, called only endemic nephropathy — regional kidney disease — has existed for many years. It has become grave in the past decade.

A careful study of the malady was started four years ago at a research center set up in a hospital of the Bosnian town of Bijeljina under Dr. Philip W. Hall of the Cleveland Ohio Metropolitan General Hospital.

Since then Hall has spent part of his time at Bijeljina and part at a research center at the Karolinski Institute at Stockholm, Sweden.

"But after all this work," Hall said recently, "we are as much in the dark about the origin of the disease as before."

NOT HERIDITARY

Evidence so far indicates the malady is not hereditary and that it may be connected in some way with the rivers of the region. Incidence of the disease has been found to be greater among people living in lowlands along the rivers than those in communities on higher land or farther from the streams. But tests of the water have failed to give any clue to either the origin or spread of the ailment.

Hall himself may have narrowly escaped the malady.

"For three weeks," he said, "there was a suggestion of this abnormal pattern in my proteins while I was working here. But it cleared up when I went back to the United States."

ACROSS FROM BOB'S BIG BOY

Dear Ann Landers:

"How can I tell my wife she's a lousy singer?"

"What do I do about the noise my little sister makes?"

"Do I really need a good beating as my husband suggests?"

"Is 13 too young to go steady?"

"How do I break off an affair with my boss?"

"Should I wear a wig to church?"

"How do I make my father stop cursing?"

"Should I tell my husband he's a bore?"

"Is it right for a wife to pour out her husband's whiskey?"

"Is cheapness inherited from mother to son?"

"Am I a sucker to invest in hormone cream?"

"What should a teen-ager's telephone privileges be?"

"We were secretly married and now I'm pregnant . . . ?"

It's our ANNIVERSARY!

El Rancho

We've seen a lot of changes in the eighteen years since our first El Rancho opened its doors in Arcadia. The original store has undergone four major "re-models" . . . we've added markets in South Pasadena, Pasadena and Newport Beach . . . construction has begun for El Rancho's Eastbluff . . . and El Rancho Huntington Harbor is in the design stage. In design, in equipment, in merchandise, El Rancho has kept pace with the growth of the supermarket industry . . . always keeping in mind the needs of the communities we serve. For, in one thing, El Rancho has not changed—our guiding principle is still the Golden Rule. Our aim has never been to be the biggest—only the best! As we add another candle to our birthday cake, we take this opportunity to say thank you to all our good neighbors — and to pledge to each of you that we will continue in our efforts to serve you to the best of our abilities.

FREE!
TURKEYS for CHRISTMAS!
It's traditional! Ten free turkeys for ten lucky people at each El Rancho! Just sign your name on any piece of paper—register tape, business card, or even wrapping paper . . . and drop it in the box provided at each store! No purchase necessary . . . winners will be notified Monday, Dec. 19th!

BILL DONER

If they were still manufacturing Edsels, it's almost a cinch USC's John McKay would go right out and purchase one.

The guy is on such a losing streak lately, he should name Pat Brown to his coaching staff for the Rose Bowl.

Of course, it's easy to rip the Trojan football bossman.

It's always easy to stomp a guy when he's down and McKay is surely down as low as he can possibly get following the events which have transpired during the past fortnight.

Hero today, bum tomorrow. That's football, baby.

Examining the record, however, maybe McKay is deserving of a blast or six after the way his onec magnificent warriors have stumbled around like so many guys in a graveyard.

To say the very least, the Troys have folded up like a $10 suit in a rainstorm.

Who else can you blame but the coach? George Tirebiter?

After all, it was McKay who informed the world prior to that memorable pushing and shoving bout with UCLA that his gladiators should celebrate New Year's in Pasadena no matter the outcome of the crosstown showdown.

McKay Fighting Mad

And it was McKay who admitted he was fighting mad prior to the Notre Dame classic and intended to show skeptics his club didn't deserve to be "ridden-down."

We are now waiting patiently for an official statement concerning the Rose Bowl.

Certainly Jovial John must have some words of wisdom about how his troopers will redeem themselves at the expense of Purdue's Boilermakers.

Something like, "Don't count us out."

An interesting thing occurred the week before the Notre Dame game. The Las Vegas betting line began to jump around like a go-go dancer with a hotfoot.

Trouble in Paradise

The Nevada bookies insisted there was trouble in paradise, meaning McKay and members of his coaching staff were not getting along — at all.

On the surface this seemed hard to believe, mainly because McKay is one of the most personable fellows in the trade and seemingly incapable of causing trouble even in his most tormented moment.

But the books grinned knowingly and kept raising the line on the game until by kickoff time the Irish were 16½-point favorites and completely wiped off the board in some shops.

Several prominent SC boosters, in fact, jumped all over Notre Dame despite what seemed like an awful lot of points to be giving away.

Then There Was Winslow

Then there was the matter of quarterback Troy Winslow.

Winslow, according to McKay, missed the Notre Dame game because of a leg injury suffered against UCLA.

Others, however, said Troy's gimpy pin was no worse than it had been all season long, only that he decided he knew more about calling plays than McKay did and failed to produce.

Winslow, so the story went, refused to heed advice from the sidelines and blew away what appeared to be a cinch touchdown.

If this is true, then McKay is certainly one of the biggest men in this or any other land.

Coach Took Abuse

Remember, it was McKay who took all that abuse about those silly calls, not Winslow.

Anybody who would risk his neck and his job to save the face of someone who had disobeyed him — can't be all bad.

Mind you, I'm not saying I place a whole lot of stock in the yarn, but I am willing to let him have one more chance.

Like, say Jan. 2 in that giant Arroyo Seco saucer.

Bruin Honors Trojans

Just when you're convinced athletics are about as character building as girl watching, you hear a story like the one about the party given for USC halfback Jim Lawrence and his fiancee Janet Jones of Newport Beach.

UCLA defensive end Wade Pearson, a friend of Lawrence's and a neighbor of Miss Jones in Newport Heights, hosted a surprise party for the newly engaged couple Saturday night following the Notre Dame debacle.

Now doesn't that sound just a little bit strange?

Pearson, being a Bruin and all, certainly doesn't figure to be going overboard for anyone connected with USC — friend or foe — following the Rose Bowl snub.

And yet he invited several Trojan gridders to attend, including Troy Winslow, along with a half-dozen Notre Dame gladiators.

The Irish contingent, incidentally, came from Los Angeles to Newport by limousine headed by linebacker John Pergine and halfback Tom Schoen.

Schoen is the fellow who intercepted an SC pass in the first half and ran it back for a touchdown, only to be injured as he was tackled in the end zone. He was out the rest of the game, but rallied handsomely at the evening festivities.

Dean Chance—He's No Boy Scout

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — A boy scout is honest, loyal and true.

Nobody is more honest, loyal or true than Dean Chance of the Angels even though he isn't exactly a Boy Scout.

He isn't an Angel either, for that matter, although in his own carefree, buoyant way, he at least comes closer than a lot of guys who like to go around posing as Angels.

Anyway, Chance's name has been mentioned a great deal at these baseball meetings because there are a great deal of people interested in possibly securing his services from the Angels. Maybe his ears were ringing because who do you think suddenly breezed in here big as life? That's right — Dean Chance.

"I've been reading in the paper where I may be traded, but that's not why I came," laughed the good-humored, 25-year-old right-hander who was voted baseball's premiere pitcher, even over Sandy Koufax, only two years ago.

"I live only 70 miles north of here, in Wooster, Ohio, and with all the baseball people being on hand I came over to see my old friends. Fellows like Bob Willis, who I once played for and now runs the Orlando club; Pat Gillick with Houston; Fred Haney, Bill Rigney and all the rest. They're great guys."

Everybody is a great guy with Chance who really dislikes mighty few people. Whether the Angels trade him or not, he likes them, too.

"They've treated me just wonderful," he said, easing his long six-foot, three-inch frame into a hotel lobby chair. "Honestly speaking, I'd like to stay with the Angels, but if it helps them to trade me I can't blame them."

Dean is one of those impulsive individuals. His monthly phone bills are staggering because he has a habit of calling his friends all over the country simply to keep in touch.

He was talking the other night about one of his former minor league teammates, Arnie Thorsland, now out of baseball and living in New Jersey, when he suddenly wondered if Thorsland ever got married.

Chance fished Thorsland's phone number out of his wallet and promptly called him up.

"Hey, Arnie, this is Dean," he opened the long distance conversation. "Did you ever get married?"

"Why yes," answered the surprised Thorsland.

"Oh good," said Chance. "Congratulations, and I just want you to know I'm thinking of you."

That's Dean Chance all over.

Honest, loyal and true. A whale of a pitcher, too. But no Boy Scout.

Wills May Be Next to Go

The Anteaters From Irvine

Dodgers Peddle T. Davis

Yanks Want Maury at 3rd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, having acquired second baseman Ron Hunt, and the New York Yankees, having given up third baseman Clete Boyer, looked forward today to molding new infields with shortstop Maury Wills possibly leaving one and joining the other.

The National League champion Dodgers made the first major trade of the annual baseball meetings Tuesday, sending two-time batting champion Tommy Davis and infielder - outfielder Derrell Griffith to the Mets for Hunt and infielder - outfielder Jim Hickman.

Less than eight hours later, the Yankees and the Atlanta Braves completed the first inter-league trade of the meetings and sent Boyer, an eight-year Yankee veteran, to the Braves.

In return the Yankees received outfielder Bill Robinson, who played for Richmond of the International League last season. The Yankees also got Federico (Chi Chi) Olivo for their Syracuse IL farm club roster and will send a player to Richmond later.

The Dodgers long have needed a solid third baseman, and the acquisition of Hunt will enable them to move Jim Lefebvre from second to third. John Kennedy, whose weak hitting has prevented him from fulfilling the team's wishes for a third baseman, now is free to move to short.

Wills Wants 'Right Club'

SEATTLE (AP) — Maury Wills, his ailing legs rejuvenated through a daily weight lifting program, doesn't want to quit baseball but says he will if he's traded to the wrong club.

The Los Angeles Dodger shortstop and team captain—holder of the major league season record of 104 stolen bases — talked of his possible retirement Tuesday after learning the Dodgers had said they would trade him for a reasonable offer.

"I'd rather not be traded because Los Angeles is a great place to play ball," Wills said.

"But if they decide to trade me I'll continue to play in the same fashion. I've always done for the Dodgers. I'll give 100 per cent all the time.

"But if I feel I'd rather not go with another club, I'd retire."

Wills was bothered by injuries last season. He stole only 38 bases and was caught 24 times. But for the last few weeks he said he has been running each day with two-pound weights on his ankle and spending a half hour lifting a 5½-pound weight with each leg.

Laker Road Show Limps to Baltimore

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Feeling that their performance in New York Tuesday night left something to be desired, the struggling Los Angeles Lakers moved their road show to Baltimore for tonight's encounter with the less than speedy Bullets.

With little Howie Komives conjuring up 26 points on his patented jump shot, the New York Knickerbockers held on for a 118-114 win over the Lakers Tuesday.

A 15-foot one - hander by the former Bowling Green All - American with the score 116-114 stopped a Laker last-minute surge.

Komives and big Willis Reed, who netted 21 points after missing the previous two outings with an ankle injury, were more than enough to offset the Lakers' scoring duo of Elgin Baylor and Jerry West, who tallied 33 and 25 points respectively.

UCLA-USC Game on TV

Saturday night's USC-UCLA basketball opener from UCLA's Pauley Pavilion will be telecast in color over Channel 11 at 8 p.m.

The game marks the debut of UCLA's sensational Lew Alcindor, 7-foot-1⅜ inch center who oddsmakers say will take the Bruins to a national championship in his first season.

COACH RAPS LA FANS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Portland Buckaroo coach Hal Laycoe doesn't think much of Los Angeles as a hockey town.

"Big league town? Baloney!" said Laycoe recently to a fan at the Sports Arena after his team and the Los Angeles Blades drew 6,500 spectators in a two-game series.

"It's a shame," said the coach of the Western Hockey League leaders. "This beautiful arena, a good team, and nobody shows up."

The Buckaroos rarely draw fewer than 8,000 in Portland.

Says Billy Martin

'I Want My Day in Court'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Peppery Billy Martin learned Tuesday that a Chicago jury had decided he should pay pitcher Jim Brewer $100,000 for his part in a baseball diamond fight six years ago, and promptly demanded, "They've got to give me my day in court."

Martin contended he was not notified that the civil damage suit was going to promptly demanded, "They've got to give me my day in court."

"I'm just preading that I wasn't even notified," Martin said, "and they've got to give me a chance to present my side, because I can prove it didn't happen the way this guy says it did."

Brewer was pitching for the Chicago Cubs on Aug. 4, 1960, in Chicago when he and Martin, then a second baseman for the Cincinnati Reds after stardom with the New York Yankees in the 1950s, tangled on the field.

Brewer and the Cubs brought a $260,000 damage suit, alleging that Martin broke Brewer's cheekbone and nearly cost him the sight in his right eye. Brewer, now with the Los Angeles Dodgers, did not lose his sight however.

The Cubs withdrew from the suit Monday when the trial began, saying any money awarded by the jury should go to Brewer.

Judge John Gutknect presided at the trial, during which television films of the fight were shown.

Martin, now a coach for the Minnesota Twins after retiring as a player following the 1961 season, claims he's got pictures which dispute Brewer's and the Cubs' contentions.

"It was proved in pictures that I didn't hit the man in the eye where he claimed he was hit," Martin said. "I hit him in the jaw. Another player, a teammate of mine, hit him in the eye and this player gave a deposition to a lawyer to that effect.

"I've got a lot of witnesses, if they would let me in on the trial.

Dons Shock LBCC, 66-63

SANTA ANA — Unheralded Santa Ana College pulled the shock of shockers when it stunned heavily favored Long Beach City College, 66-63, here Tuesday night in a non-conference basketball game.

Coach Bob Wilhelm's Dons raced to a 34-26 halftime advantage then overcame a 63-62 Long Beach lead in the closing seconds to nail down the unexpected victory.

Long Beach is considered one of the strongest jaycee aggregations in the state with its returning bevy of stars from last year's 31-2 team and the addition of All-CIF players.

From Galesburg, Ill., to Mesa Verde

By EARL GUSTKEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The golfing career of Dean Gordon Fuller began exactly 30 years ago in the little town of Galesburg, Ill.

"I was a caddy when I was nine years old," he says.

Tuesday, Fuller was named head professional at Mesa Verde Country Club.

Fuller, a wiry golfer built along the lines of Jerry Barber, makes the move from Meadowlark Golf Club in Huntington Beach where he was assistant pro for the past seven years.

The 1953 national small college golf champion at Western Illinois University, Fuller is the present holder of the course record (68) at the new Naval Station course at Los Alamitos. He has fired the same score at Mesa Verde.

"I suppose I've played the Mesa Verde course 10 or 12 times and I rank it among the finest I've ever played," he said.

"I rate it with Pebble Beach as among my favorites. It's a very challenging course."

One of the nation's finest collegiate golfers in the early 1950's, Fuller remembers Western Illinois' battles with North Texas State.

"They had Don January and Billy Maxwell in those days and won the NCAA championship four straight years. Boy, were they tough."

Despite his being a golf star in college, Fuller wanted to coach after graduation but when suitable offers failed to materialize he moved to California.

"A friend of mine kept sending me golf score cards during the winter months when I was snowed in so I packed up and left," he said.

Fuller worked as a laboratory technician for the Richfield Oil Company's Wilmington refinery for six years before joining the staff at Meadowlark in 1960.

A firm believer in starting them early, Fuller plans to realign Mesa Verde's junior program this summer.

"We won't be making many immediate changes — the winter season is pretty well booked up."

WHITE WASH

Say Your Prayers

By GLENN WHITE

Say your prayers early for the University of Southern California football team that will take the turf January 2 for the 53rd Rose Bowl classic at the famed Pasadena stadium.

If you've paid heed to the trend of conversation regarding the Trojans' forthcoming date in Pasadena with Big Ten runnerup Purdue, you get the idea SC's only way to save face is to forfeit.

After Southern Cal lost to UCLA, 14-7, and then got the Rose Bowl bid, doubters began grumbling, suggesting SC's chances against Purdue's Boilermakers were virtually non-existent.

So you can imagine what they were saying after Notre Dame handed Troy its most severe spanking in history — a merciless 51-0 clobbering last week.

Said one critic: "Their worst loss in history, eh . . . well that'll give Purdue something to shoot for in the Rose Bowl."

Another buff submitted that the West Coast would have a better chance by sending a Pop Warner delegation against the Big Tenners.

Even some of the most devout Trojan followers are throwing in the towel after the debacle against Notre Dame.

In fact, one rumor has it that the chap who rides the white Trojan horse refuses to take any more mounts this season.

Who Says Purdue is Good?

However, there is one thing that makes all the doubts seem exaggerated: What makes Purdue such an overwhelming foe?

The Boilermakers have Bob Griese . . . a sharp-shooting quarterback who would probably play third string for Notre Dame . . . or second string for UCLA.

Purdue made a lot better showing against Notre Dame than did the Trojans, losing by a 26-14 verdict.

However, it must be pointed out that Purdue got the Irish in the second game of the campaign.

And for the Boilermakers, season success or failure is measured largely upon the results of the Notre Dame clash.

Let's examine some of the Boilermakers' other duels and see exactly why they should run roughshod over SC on January 2.

Against such nonentities as Ohio University, Iowa and Indiana, the Black and Gold was unstoppable.

The Boilermakers were also forced to come from behind to edge mediocre Illinois, 25-21 and they posted unimpressive victories against Minnesota (16-0) and Wisconsin (23-0).

SC smacked Wisconsin, 38-3.

Purdue was shoved around handsomely by Michigan State (41-20).

Beside the Notre Dame effort, the Boilmakers' only other plausible performance was a 35-23 conquest of Southwest Conference champion SMU. And even the credibility of that triumph is clouded since the Southwest Conference is at its lowest ebb in years.

Trojans Will Win

So, to the garbage scow with all the talk about the Trojans being headed for another meat grinder.

I doubt that Purdue would have finished higher than fourth in the Pacific-8 Conference and am therefore compelled to believe the University of Southern Smogifornia will not only make the final result respectable, but frankly, I expect the Trojans to win.

That same feeling existed a year ago when UCLA was supposed to be humiliated by Michigan State in the New Year's classic. You'll recall the Bruins came out with a stunning 14-12 victory — which was richly deserved.

Short Snorts

Ex-Corona del Mar High football coach Howard "Corky" Johnson was probably on the threshold of an honor which will now never be realized, since he was replaced as Sea King grid boss Monday by Dave Holland.

Corky was one of the senior coaches in the southern part of Orange County and was being given prime consideration for coaching duty in the summer's annual county all-star game. Reasons for his ouster at Corona del Mar were given only as "personal" by principal Leon Meeks.

Now the search will start all over again with John Lowry of Estancia and Bob Woods of Mater Dei among possible choices.

Two of Southern California's finest high school placement kickers will be on opposite sides Friday night when Huntington Beach and South Pasadena mix it up at Orange Coast College.

Steve Biegenzahn of the visitors has split the uprights on 34 of 39 attempts this year and is accurate on the field goal up to 20 yards.

Huntington Beach sensation Rick Seibert has made good 29 of 37 efforts and has also booted a field goal. He has a range of about 25 yards.

And the way the game's shaping up, one of those two lads may decide the final outcome with their educated toes.

Horst Richardson of Costa Mesa was a prominant member of Colorado College's soccer team this year, taking over coaching duties from former coach Bill Boddington.

Richardson is a German instructor at the Colorado Springs institution.

Paul Koch and Al Wood — both from Newport Beach — enjoyed a nifty bit of deep sea fishing recently at La Paz, Mexico. They bagged roosterfish, red snapper, dolphin and cabillas.

Assuming each gets by its Friday night opposition, Mater Dei and Anaheim will collide next week — probably at the Big A in Anaheim — in the CIF football semifinals.

It will no doubt be the biggest game in Orange County prep history, from an interest point of view, and a throng of 40,000 would come as no surprise.

The other half of the semis — probably El Rancho against Centennial—would no doubt attract 20,000 to the Coliseum. Not only will both be undefeated, but there's bad blood boiling between the rival coaches.

Marlin McKeever, guest speaker at Estancia High's football awards program Thursday night was a New Year's baby. He and twin brother Mike came into the world January 1, 1940.

Can HB Survive Injuries?

Depth Answer To Problems

Hit by the injury of three key defensive players, Huntington Beach High football coach Ken Moats still feels his Oilers are deep enough in talent to stay with South Pasadena's Tigers in Friday night's CIF playoff game at Orange Coast College.

Lost is 243-pound Ray Hunt, a tackle; Jerry Harris, 200-pound middle guard; Bob Ryder, 188-pound linebacker.

They were all hurt in the 17-14 verdict over Bellflower last week and they are doubtful participants in the quarter finals tiff with the Tigers.

Juniors will move in at two of the positions while a couple of seniors — Mike Bailey and Woody Stewart — will go for Ryder.

Harris' replacement will be either Al Perlee or Rory Muniz, two 225 pounders.

Taking over for Hunt will be either Chuck Harden or Frank Brenes, a pair of 190-pound aces. Harden is a transfer from Glendora — the team South Pasadena tripped (7-0) in last week's playoff struggle.

"The loss of the trio definitely puts the pressure on our defensive group. South Pasadena has a strong running attack with Glenn Priest and Jack Schultz leading the way. And they can pass, too, so our defense will have to rise to the occasion," Moats opines.

"There's no doubt in my mind that South Pas will be our toughest opponent of the year. But I think we're capable of beating them — even with the injuries.

"It simply means that some of our other boys will have to put out a little more and of course we can't make any mistakes." Moats also feels he may have to do his aerial attack somewhat more than he has in the past.

Monarch Ambition Realized

Playing Loyola is a dream come true for Mater Dei coach Bob Woods and his staff as they gird for Friday night's CIF football playoff struggle at El Camino College.

"We've waited a long time for the chance to play them," Woods confides. "They're the king-pins of Southern California high school ranks and we'd like to see what we can do against them."

Mater Dei nearly had its wish granted in the season opener when it appeared the two schools would collide in a practice game. But the match fell through when the Cubs announced they would meet Centennial instead.

They probably wish they'd have taken on the Monarchs since Centennial dumped them, 20-7—only their fourth loss in their last 56 outings.

Woods hopes to stop Loyola from having ball control Friday night. "They aren't as big as previous Loyola teams but they are fundamentally sound—they don't make mistakes," he points out.

"They vary their attack a little more this year, using slots and open ends. They always play well defensively and we feel we'll have our hands full."

Woods hopes to mix up the Monarch attack more this week than he did in the 41-7 thrashing of Muir in the first round of the playoffs. Against Muir he ran off 59 rushing plays. "We'll try and throw more this week and frankly I wouldn't be surprised if Loyola comes out throwin' the ball against us."

"They threw 20 times last week in the 7-7 tie with Santa Barbara, completing five."

Only one Monarch is on the disabled list today—linebacker Bill Brown with a twisted knee. However, Woods says he should be ready by Friday.

Tucker Talks

Orange Coast College football coach Dick Tucker will be the guest speaker tonight at a football awards dinner at the Upper Bay Boys' Club, 2131 Tustin Ave., Costa Mesa, at 7 p.m.

TRYING TO SHOOT — Corona del Mar High's Mike Martin (30) tries to find an opening for a shot over a Fullerton defensive player during Tuesday night's CIF semifinals game at Long Beach Millikan High. Corona earned a berth in the finals Thursday night against Downey by posting a 5-2 double overtime triumph.

Area Cagers Open Season Thursday

Newport Harbor, Huntington Beach and Mater Dei leave the starting blocks first Thursday, but the Orange Coast area prep basketball season arrives in full flower Friday.

The Sailors travel to Bellflower to kick off their 19-game and one tournament schedule. Huntington Beach travels to Mater Dei in the only other Thursday prep opener.

Friday, Laguna plays host to the Orange Glen Patriots of Escondido, Pacifica is at Estancia, Marina travels to Loara, Santa Ana invades Costa Mesa, Westminster goes to Lowell and Corona del Mar opens at John Glenn.

LIONS, OILERS SEEK TITLES

LONG BEACH — Westminster and Huntington Beach carry the banner of Orange Coast area cross country honors to Cal State, Long Beach, Thursday afternoon as they vie in the CIF championships.

Huntington, champion of the Irvine League, will compete in the Class AA race, which begins at 3:30. Thirty minutes later defending CIF titlist Westminster will report to the starting line for the AAA division run.

Pacing the Oilers of Huntington Beach will be Paul Williams, first place finisher in last week's prelims at Sunny Hills. The Oilers will face such powers as Bolsa Grande, Pomona, Palos Verdes, Redondo Beach, Glendale Hoover, Salesian, La Puente and Santa Fe.

Westminster's classy seven—sparked by Mike Solomon and Neil Sybert—will probably have its stiffest test from South Torrance and its ace, Jay Marsee.

Coach's Calming Words Save CdM

By GLENN WHITE

LONG BEACH — A nervous Eric Carson stood by the edge of the pool. His hands trembled visibly as he prepared to return to the waters at Long Beach Millikan High School for the first overtime period in Tuesday night's CIF water polo semifinals game with Fullerton.

His mood reflected the dampened spirits of his Corona del Mar teammates.

Their 36 - game victory streak and hopes of bagging a second consecutive CIF championship were facing severe challenge.

What seemed to be a hard-fought 2-1 triumph had been erased in the last 31 seconds of play when Indian ace Ferdie Massimino tanked a penalty goal to deadlock the score and force the issue to overtime.

The five-minute break before the beginning of extra time was almost up. And Carson, the number two scoring gun for coach Cliff Hooper's forces, still looked tense, maybe even a little rattled.

That was Hooper's cue to intervene. "Eric!" he hollered at his tall, handsome young star. He repeated the call.

Carson turned around slowly, to face his coach. "Keep your cool, Eric! Keep your cool!" The words seemed to take effect. Once more they came, then a final, "get in there and get 'em! Let's go!"

The words transformed the nervous youngster into a cool, confident player. And they had a telling effect on the team as Corona del Mar came to life and blasted the Tribe from the pool with three extra period goals — two by Carson — to score a 5-2 victory. The win puts them in Thursday night's finals at Millikan against Downey, a foe they've dumped three times in bitterly contested duels — 7-5, 6-4 and 7-3.

Downey edged El Segundo in sudden death, 9-8, after the two foes battled through two overtime periods tied at 8-all.

Corona del Mar's win was mainly due to the overall performance of Carson, who tallied three times during the evening and who played a sparkling game defensively.

He was joined in defensive magnificence by Bill Stoner, Mike Martin and goalie Doug Schaumburg as the latter came through with two vital saves in a scoreless third quarter.

Corona del Mar drew first blood, Christy nailing the shot 1:29 into the first quarter. Fullerton did not get a goal attempt off till the last 3:51 of the half and that effort was a perfecto for Chip O'Rourke to tie things, 1-1.

However, the defending CIF champions rebounded on Carson's rifle-like shot into the corner to make it 2-1.

There was no change until Massimino made his penalty score in the closing seconds although both teams had their chances. Scoring gun Pat McClellan, held without a point by the Tribe, missed a penalty try in the fourth period.

And Fullerton lost a goal in the third quarter on a foul.

Hooper's lads wasted no time sewing things up in overtime as Bruce Reynolds took a long shot that skipped and skidded into the goal the first 1:28 of extra time.

Twenty - eight seconds later Carson fired in a score and 50 seconds after that he pumped in another to round out the scoring.

Score by Periods
Fullerton	0	1	0	1	0	0—2
CdM	1	1	0	0	3	0—5

Sea Kings Dominate All-League

Corona del Mar's fabulous water polo team placed all seven of its starting players on the all-Irvine League team as selected recently by the loop's coaches.

In fact, selecting Irvine coaches stretched the all-league first team to nine players instead of seven to make room for Paul May of Estancia and Mike Wilson of Newport.

Sea King coach Cliff Hooper was named coach of the year.

Corona's Pat McClellan was named the team's most valuable player. The other Corona players named were Eric Carson, Mike Martin, Bill Stoner, Bruce Reynolds, Dan Christy and Doug Schaumberg.

Estancia had three players —Bob DeGrasse, Mark Millar and Jim Hill — named to the second team. Newport's Jim McDonald and Bill Crosby were second team choices.

Other second team picks were Bruce Kranz (Huntington) and Paul Hughes (Costa Mesa).

GWC Banquet Set Dec. 15

First annual sports awards banquet for Golden West College athletes will be held in the Broadway restaurant, Huntington Center, December 15, at 7:30 p.m.

"This is our first awards event and we are looking forward to an outstanding evening," said athletic director Fred Owens.

Honored will be lettermen in football, cross country, and water polo. Joining Owens in making the presentations will be head football coach Ray Shackleford, and assistants, Don Rowe, Fred Hoover, Dick McVeigh, and Fran Marone; cross country coach Tom Noon; and water polo coach Tom Hermstad.

Owens said no speaker had been scheduled in order to keep the program within reasonable time limits.

CIF Teams Laud Backs, Linemen

Outstanding backs and top linemen were lauded today by Mater Dei and Huntington Beach High for their performances in the first round of the CIF football playoffs last Friday.

Mater Dei, 41-7 conqueror of Muir, tabbed Mike Morgan for back of the game honors while guard Joe Grothus stole lineman of the night laurels.

Morgan was unquestionably the tilt's outstanding overall player, intercepting four passes, scoring two touchdowns and having another called back, and gaining 122 yards for the night — 100 coming the first half.

Grothus was described as "outstanding," by coach Bob Woods for his line play against the outmanned Mustangs.

Huntington Beach chose Bill Jenkins as the leading Oiler back. But coach Ken Moats was unable to separate Richard Alderdice and Woody Stewart and therefore chose to honor both as the linemen of the 17-14 win over Bellflower.

Jenkins was Mister Everything for the Orange and Black.

He scored on a 48-yard run and directed the Oiler offense as quarterback. Defensively, he made a sensational interception and came up with five unassisted tackles and four assists.

Stewart had nine unassisted stops with four assists while Alderdice was credited with eight lone tackles and five assists.

Area Teams In Warner Title Duels

Newport-Mesa's Pop Warner Caballos and Cowboys will be shooting for the moon Sunday when they battle for Southern California Warner championships at Mark Keppel High School in Alhambra.

The Caballos will be playing the San Bernardino Comanches and the Cowboys are up against the Claremont Buccaneers. The Cowboys, in the pee wee class, are scheduled for a 12:30 p.m. starting time and the midget Caballos play at 2:30.

Both teams are 12-0 on the season. Never in Orange County Pop Warner annals have two teams from the same area emerged with the pee wee and midget championships. Now, hoping to top that feat, the teams are after the So-Cal titles.

The Cowboys ushered themselves into the finals last Saturday at West Torrance High School with a 13-6 victory over Temple City. Hollis Danford blocked a punt and scored a touchdown and David Parsel scored the other Cowboy TD.

The Caballos came up with a 32-26 win over the Pasadena Bulldogs in their semi-final match last week. Ron Tripp had a big day for the locals, scoring three touchdowns while Jim Schultz had two scores.

Penhall Captures Area Stats Crown

Westminster's David Penhall, the strong-armed Lion, emerged as the Orange Coast Area's most productive football player for the 1966 season by racking up 1,837 yards in final statistics compiled by the DAILY PILOT.

Finishing in the runnerup spot was Mater Dei quarterback Jack Wigmore with 1,610 yards.

Statistics compiled include only regular season games and not CIF playoff contests.

Mater Dei, with 3,585 yards is the total offense team leader and Huntington Beach allowed only 1,770 to top team defensive statistics.

Penhall, needless to say, led Orange Coast Area passers with 1,756 yards and just missed the CIF single season CIF passing record when he was held to 50 yards by Marina in the last game of the season.

Corona del Mar's shifty Tom Westgate topped area rushers with 767 net yards as compared to 670 by Mater Dei's Mike Morgan. Newport Harbor's Jeff Baker had 594 and Westminster's John Lassak, who finished up the campaign in a rush, collected 583.

Morgan easily copped the scoring derby with an amazing 96 points on 16 touchdowns. Closest to him were Baker and Huntington Beach's Mike Bailey with 60 each.

Morgan's twin, Jim, scored 42, mostly on pass receptions.

Wigmore was the runnerup to Penhall in the passing derby with 1,125 yards. The Monarch quarterback positioned himself high in the total offense department with a good balance between running and passing — 485-1,125.

Two junior quarterbacks figure to fight it out for the total offensive title next year — Laguna's Bill Janes and Estancia's Chuck Perry. They were 3-4 in this year's race.

Rustlers 5th In Tourney

Golden West College wrestlers, in their second outing this season, took fifth place among nine colleges competing in Palomar College's first Invitational Wrestling Tournament last Saturday (November 26).

Coach Fred Owens' team scored 42 points, to notch fifth spot behind Arizona Western (85 points), Palomar (54), San Diego City (45), and Glendale Community (43). Mira Costa College and Rio Hondo tied for sixth place with 34 points, followed by Citrus (18) and Orange Coast (14).

Placing for the Rustlers were Mike Stephenson, 115 weight class, third; Rick Ruz 123, second (injury default); Katsuji Nerio, 130, third; Ralph McDaniel, 145, second (15-second riding time); Harvey Smithson, 160, fourth; Charlie Smith, 167, second.

Golden West's matmen made their debut on Wednesday (November 23), capturing four individual honors in a takedown tournament at Mt. San Antonio College. Winning first place were Ruz, Nerio, McDaniel, and Smith.

This week GWC travels to Fullerton for the UCLA Open Collegiate Tournament, Friday and Saturday.

Boy Praised For Putting Out Fire

A DAILY PILOT carrier boy was praised by a Balboa resident today for quick action in extinguishing a fire in a trash can.

J. B. Wassall, 409 E. Edgewater Ave., said he witnessed 11-year-old Bob Berner scoop sand from the beach Monday afternoon to smother the fire before firemen arrived.

Wassall said teenagers with firecrackers started the fire.

Berner is the son of Mrs. Virginia Berner, 116 E. Ocean Front, Balboa.

All It Needs Is Freeway

Northern ramp to carry San Diego Freeway across Newport Freeway and other area roads takes shape near intersection of Newport and MacArthur boulevards. Latest link of completed San Diego Freeway (between Harbor Boulevard in Costa Mesa and Brookhurst in Huntington Beach) is expected to open for traffic by mid-December.

Valley High School Gets Slate of Officers

Fountain Valley High School now has its full complement of student officers, Principal Dr. Paul A. Berger said today.

The top officers of each class are:

— Jim Valbuena, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Valbuena, 8894 El Capitan St., a quarterback on the football team.

— Jim Luna, 16, son of Mrs. Lydia Luna, 10371 Calle Independencia, who is inclined to art and is preparing to go to college where he will likely be an art teacher major, Junior Class president.

— Keith Arledge, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Arledge, 16809 Mulberry Circle, a halfback on the football team who is preparing for college study, Sophomore Class president.

— Cathy Anderson, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylan Anderson, 17428 Elm St., a member of the Girls Athletic Association now following a business-orientated course, Freshman Class president.

Other officers are:

— Senior Class, Chris Shelley, vice president; Elaine Mays, secretary, and Linda Lloyd, treasurer.

— Junior Class, Dave Nelson, vice president; Carolyn Ditte, secretary; Tesa Lloreda, treasurer.

Grand Tour Of Plants Possible

PASADENA (UPI) — A scientist at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) says "grand tour" space travel may be possible in the 1970's by means of a billiard system of ricocheting vehicles via gravitational drag from one planet to another.

Dr. Homer J. Stewart, manager of JPL's advanced studies office, said an eight-year, nine - month tour — passing Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune — might be possible in 1978.

He said a JPL study theorized that an unmanned spacecraft would be redirected at each planetary approach when the gravitational forces enable the craft to pick up added energy as it changed course.

"It would pick up extra energy for nothing," Dr. Stewart said in an article dealing with solar system exploration in the December issues of astronautics and aeronautics journal.

"Two propulsion developments, now emerging from engineering research, may well open Jupiter and the outer planets, Mercury, regions outside the solar system and even the sun itself to close-up inspection during the decade of the 1970's," he said.

Stewart said the developments are the use of planetary gravitational drag and solar - electric propulsion. Studies were under way on systems using small ion engines and large solar panels for sustained low-thrust power.

The scientist noted that astronomers long have recognized that a moving planetary gravitational field can change the trajectory of another body. An example of such three body effect, he said, was shown when the gravity of Mars increased the speed of Mariner 4 and shifted the spacecraft's path 10 million miles closer to the sun.

TB Center Needs Gifts

If you have an ant farm you would like to give away, the tuberculosis patienets at Orange County Medical Center want it.

An ant farm, an aquarium and painting and hobby supplies are on a list of suggested Christmas gifts for the shut-in TB patients in the Center's Chest Division.

A pool table, radios and television sets, and games such as horseshoes and croquet would also be welcome, according to Mrs. Ann Vernor, volunteer coordinator for the TB and Health Association of Orange County, who is helping to collect holiday gifts.

"Men patients could use golf clubs and old golf balls for limited practice," Mrs. Vernor said, "and many of the women would like sewing equipment."

Contributions will be accepted, from either organizations or individuals, at the TB Association offices, 1104 West 8th Street, Santa Ana. The telephone number for further information is 542-7213.

PATH OF PROSPERITY — The chart, prepared by Downey Savings and Loan Association, maps the comparative rate of growth in industrial, retail trade, government service and construction employment in Orange County since 1958. The survey shows that substantial increases in industrial employment has provided the basic foundation for the county's population growth in that period.

Industry Paves Way For Growth

A recent economic survey indicates substantial increases in industrial employment have provided the basic foundation for the growth of Orange County.

The survey, prepared by Downey Savings and Loan Association, covers employment trends in manufacturing, retail trade, government and construction. It shows there would have been a slower pace in Orange County population growth had it not been for substantial gains in industrial employment.

Though not as sharp as industrial, retail trade and government service functions employment have held a steady upward course over the past eight years, adding to the population growth.

According to the survey, construction employment climbed to a peak in 1964 and has since declined and not kept pace with the latest Orange County growth patterns.

This is regarded as another reflection of the substantial decrease in the county's residential building from the 1963-64 high levels. However, non - residential construction activity has continued to climb, making the actual drop in overall construction employment very modest.

Construction employment in recent months has began to move upward in the county, but is still below the 1964 level.

Manufacturing employment has more than tripled since 1958, while construction employment has not quite doubled. Retail trade and government employment have more than doubled.

Social Security Pay Base Hike Ahead

By SYLVIA PORTER

If you now have taxable earnings of more than $6,600 a year, it is a near certainty that your Social Security tax bill soon will be boosted. This would be above and beyond the increases you will have to pay because of Social Security tax rate hikes already in the law and scheduled to hit you beginning Jan. 1.

Explanation: When President Johnson goes to the new 90th Congress early next year, he will request major Social Security liberalizations and benefit boosts. A total benefit rise of as much as 15 percent, costing at least an extra $3.3 billion a year, is already being actively discussed in Washington. Social Security benefit hikes will get top priority when the new Congress convenes, for there is broad bipartisan pressure to bring millions more into the system as well as to make overall benefit levels more adequate in this era of rapidly climbing living costs. Benefit increases almost surely will be voted next year.

HOW WOULD we pay for an estimated $3.3 billion cost of benefit boosts and liberalizations?

As much as $1.65 billion could be financed from surpluses due to our increased contributions based on increased earnings, revised population estimates, higher interest rates being earned by the Social Security trust funds, etc.

The balance could come either from a new Social Security tax boost or from a hike in today's $6,600 "wage base" upon which our maximum contributions and your future benefits are figured, or, most likely, from a combination. A tax boost, of course, would hit all 80,000,000 of today's contributors to the system. But a wage-base boost would hit only the 16,000,000 of us now earning more than $6,600 a year.

ASSUMING you are in the over-$6,600 earnings range, how would a wage-base hike affect you?

You will pay a total of $277.20 in Social Security taxes this year, or $405.90 if you are self-employed. Starting Jan. 1, you will pay a maximum of $290.40, or $422.40 if you are self-employed.

But let's say that the wage base is hiked next year from $6,600 to $7,800, the "magic" figure now being debated in Washington. Taking into account 1967's already scheduled Social Security tax increased, the maximum you might have to pay would jump from next year's $90.40 to $343.20. If you're a self-employed individual, the maximum would jump from next year's $422.40 to $499.20. These are hefty increases, to say the least, and they would, of course, have to be matched by employers the nation over.

A KEY argument for a wage base boost is that the wage base simply has not kept pace with the overall advances in our earnings. Had the wage base kept up with the rise in earnings since 1935 — when it was first set at $3,000 — the base would be $15,000 today. In 1935, 98 percent of the nation's workers paid Social Security taxes on all their earnings; today, only 78 percent of us have all our earnings covered.

The second argument is that the Social Security tax-burden now falls disproportionately on the lower-income individual. A man with taxable earnings of $1,000 a year today pays a full 4.2 percent of this amount. But a man earning $100,000 pays less than .003 percent of his total earnings.

A third argument is that contributions based on a higher earnings base today would mean proportionately higher benefit levels later when you retire. A fundamental principle of our Social Security System has always been to relate benefits to actual earnings. Since a rise in the wage base appears inevitable, the third argument may be some comfort to you.

Something To Live On Was Aim

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thirty years ago, the United States was in the grip of a great depression.

Ten million men were out of work. Eight million families were on the relief rolls.

Movies were giving away dishes to lure patrons. Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) boys were building roads in national parks. Works Progress Administration (WPA) workers were raking leaves in city parks.

Franklin D. Roosevelt had just been elected to a second term by the biggest landslide in U.S. history, carrying every state except Maine and Vermont.

NEW PROGRAM

It was in that month of November, 1936, that the United States embarked on a program that was destined to have a more far-reaching effect on its economy, and on the lives of millions of people, than any other action of FDR's "new deal."

It was called Social Security.

Its purpose was explained on posters which were prominently displayed in every U.S. post office. The posters said:

"There is now a law in this country which will give working people something to live on when they are old and have stopped working."

The "something to live on" was a modest sum by today's standards. The original Social Security Act provided for pensions ranging from $10 to $85 a month for fully-covered workers retiring at age 65. There was no provision for benefits to wives, widows or children.

WELCOME

But any kind of pension was welcome in the depression days of the 30's, when men were glad to find jobs paying 25 cents an hour, and you could buy a new car for $400 — if you had $400.

So there was a good deal of excitement around the country in November, 1936, when the Post Office Department began the titantic task of registering 26 million workers and their employers for Social Security coverage.

During the election campaign, Republicans had charged that the registration would involve giving every worker a metal dog tag. But it turned out that workers got little cards — red, white and blue — cards with identifying numbers.

Card number 1 was issued to John David Sweeney Jr., of New Rochelle, N.Y., and it is a measure of the strict confidence which surrounds Social Security records that the only piece of information which it can or will provide about Mr. Sweeney is that he was 23 years old at the time he registered.

PAYROLL TAX

Although it held forth the promise of future benefits, Social Security first made itself felt as a bite. The first pension checks, for sums ranging from $10 to $85 a month, didn't go out until 1939. But the payroll tax which was to finance the old age insurance program took effect as soon as the registration was completed, in January, 1937.

American Stock Exchange Closing

NEW YORK (AP)—Following is a complete list of transactions on the American Stock Exchange Wednesday.

Interstate Earnings Set Record

Aided by higher second quarter profits, Interstate Engineering Corp., Anaheim, registered record first half earnings in the six months ended Oct. 31, president Robert W. Limacher announced. Sales continued below year earlier levels due to a temporary reduction in defense production, he added.

Net income in the first half of the current fiscal year, totaled $1,796,824 equal to $1.24 per share on the 1,453,277 shares of common stock outstanding. This compares with earnings of $1,760,278 or $1.21 a share based on the same number of shares for the six months ended Oct. 31, 1965. Sales for the two periods were $16,982,000 and $18,242,000, respectively.

OCC Team Talks Way To Success

Orange Coast College is home with most of the hardware today from the Eastern Conference Speech Tournament at Santa Ana.

The OCC team took two firsts, two seconds, six thirds and the second place sweepstakes trophy in defeating the other eight conference schools.

Pamela McClellan of Irvine took first in Women's Oral Interpretation for OCC, and Linda West of Laguna Beach took first in Women's Oratory.

Second place for Best Actor went to John Law of Laguna Beach.

Jon Henricksen of Huntington Beach took second place for After Dinner Speaking.

The following members of the OCC team took third places in their categories:

Jeff Burtt, Newport Beach, Best Actor; Dan Wagner, Costa Mesa, Men's Panel; Pat Dickerson, Huntington Beach, Men's Oratory; Charles Apgar, Westminster, Men's Oral Interpretation.

John Mraz, San Clemente, Men's Impromptu; and Carol Clifford, Costa Mesa, Women's Extemporaneous.

Competing in the tournament, in addition to OCC, were Santa Ana, Riverside, San Bernardino, Chaffey, Citrus, Golden West, Fullerton and Cypress.

Unit Formed To Select Consultant

Interviews of candidates for a consultant post with the Huntington Beach Urban Land Institute Citizens Steering Committee (CSC) is expected to start in mid-December following formation of an interview board.

The 11-member interview committee will be composed of the five CSC members, City Administrator Doyle Miller, Planning Director Ken Reynolds, Rober Slates and Jack Frogatt, representing the Chamber of Commerce, and Joe Irvine and Art Gilespie, representing the Downtown Business Association.

CSC spokesmen said that several planning consultants have been recommended to the committee.

The consultant will be hired on a retainer basis, but will be in the city several times a week to assist the CSC in duties such as preparing an application for federal planning funds.

The prospective planning consultant must have extensive knowledge of methods of financing redevelopment projects, be familiar with both federal and private sources of financing and have broad experience in redevelopment projects in other cities, CSC members have said.

CSC members presently include Chairman Monte Nitzkowski, Walter Cleveland, Robert Merriman, George McCracken and Robert Zinngrabe.

They have been charged with implementation of several recommendations made to the city last year after a $30,000 study of the city by a ULI panel.

Chet Huntley Sets Chapman Talk

Chet Huntley, New York anchorman for NBC News' Huntley - Brinkley Report, will lecture at Chapman College, Orange, on Dec. 11 at 2:30 p.m. in the college auditorium. Tickets for the lecture, "A Newsman Looks at the World," may be purchased at the door.

The lecture, which is the second event in the ninth annual Chapman College Artist Lecture series, was originally scheduled for Dec. 4 but has been changed to the later date because of a special network assignment which has been requested of Huntley.

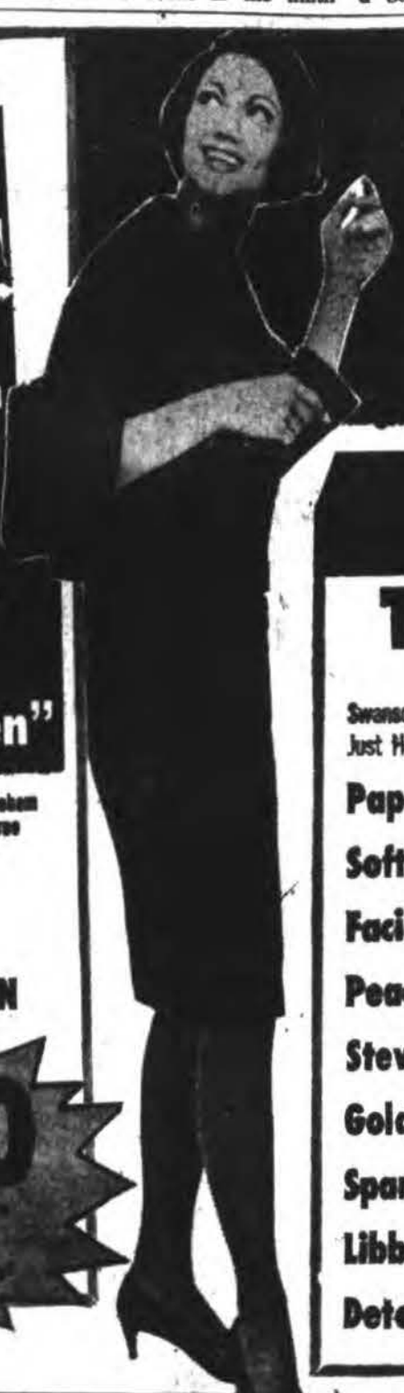

Huntley's career in broadcast journalism began in 1934 when he was hired by a Seattle newspaper and shortly found himself reporting the news on the paper's radio station. After working for radio stations in Portland and Spokane, he joined CBS in 1939. For the next 12 years he covered top news stories in the western states, including the founding of the United Nations in San Francisco.

In 1951, he moved to ABC for which he covered stories in Asia and the Middle East, and in 1955, he joined NBC News, teaming up within a year with a young Washington correspondent, David Brinkley. Together they have covered national political conventions and elections and individually they have hosted many NBC News Specials.

Cal State, Fullerton

New College Library, Center Dedicated

Librarians, educators and leaders from business, industry and the community were to attend the dedication today of the new library and audio-visual center at Cal State, Fullerton.

Featured speaker at the 3 p.m. ceremonies was Dr. Louis B. Wright, director of the Folger Shakespeare Library, Washington, D. C.

A distinguished writer, historian, and authority on Elizabethan England, Wright was awarded the honorary doctor of humane letters degree, first honorary degree ever awarded by the California State College system at the Fullerton campus.

Guests invited to the program and dedication included the governor; the board of trustees; Harold M. Williams, president of the Cal State, Fullerton, Patrons of the Library; Ernest W. Toy, college librarian; Dr. Raymond E. Denno, director of the audio-visual center; Dr. William B. Langsdorf, Cal State, Fullertons president; and Dr. Glenn S. Dumke, chancellor of the state colleges.

Also included were Leland C. Launer, chairman of the college's advisory board, and William J. McGarvey, Jr., president of the Friends of the College.

Other distinguished guests invited were John E. Smith, UCI, librarian; Robert Vosper of UCLA, immediate past president of the American Library Association; Harry M. Rowe, president of the California Library Association and librarian of the Fullerton Public Library; Dr. David W. Davies, director of the Honnold Library, Claremont.

Avalon Loan Approved

$750,000 for Harbor Improvement OK'd

The state Harbors and Watercraft Commission meeting in Sacramento has approved a $750,000 loan from California's Harbors and Watercraft Revolving Fund for the first phase of the improvement of Avalon Harbor.

Construction, consisting of a small breakwater at Cabrillo Point to protect the easterly section of Avalon Harbor, is scheduled to begin before the first of the year and be completed before the summer season.

This is the state's first project on the Southern California offshore islands. Funds for the second phase, consisting of a breakwater on the west side of the harbor and improvements to the interior, are scheduled for budgeting for fiscal year 1967-68.

The project is expected to improve the mooring area of Avalon Harbor without significantly changing its abundance of marine life and underwater gardens. The additional protection and facilities will provide more accommodations for the many thousands of visitors from the mainland.

The cost of the project will be repaid to the state from revenues derived from the harbor improvements and mooring charges. The project is a joint venture by the state and the City of Avalon, with engineering design being done by Moffatt and Nichol of Long Beach.

Fullerton Plans Units For Elderly

Fullerton city councilmen have taken exploratory steps toward seeking a long-term federal government loan for the construction of a multi-storied, church - administered senior citizens' housing development similar to the Bethel Tower project planned in Costa Mesa.

The 150-unit tower proposed for construction near Fullerton's City Hall would be built with federal funds, but would be administered on a non-denominational basis by a church group yet to be named.

The Costa Mesa project, funded by the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) office, was initiated and will be operated by the Assembly of God.

The 18-story Costa Mesa project will be the tallest building in Orange County.

The proposed Fullerton facility would be eight to 12 stories tall. Tentative site is at the corner of Short Street and Amerige Avenue.

Church Unit Seeks Better Repair Signs

A plea to local city governments and contractors for better routings, signs and warning devices used in construction areas has been issued by the Harbor Council of Churches.

A resolution adopted last week by the council, read in part: "In view of the extensive street repair work under way in the Harbor area and the traffic hazards created, (by such work) and the traffic accidents in recent weeks on such streets as Jamboree Road, the council calls upon cities, safety engineers and contractors to more carefully consider routings, and warning devices used in such areas."

The council resolution also urged citizens to carefully observe posted speed limits and to report to police departments any conditions which they believe to be unsafe.

Copies of the resolution were sent to Newport Beach and Costa Mesa city councils and the Orange County Board of Supervisors.

Clergymen Invited to OCMA Meet

Dr. Laurance A. Mosier, president of the Orange County Medical Association today announced that physician members of the OCMA are inviting clergymen and rabbis as guests at the general membership meeting Dec. 6 at 300 S. Flower St., Orange.

The joint meeting is being sponsored by the medicine and religion committee of OCMA.

Guest speaker will be Elder Larry Woodard of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. The topic of his discussion was inspired from Matthew 14:14 ':'And He Healed Their Sick."

Elder Woodard received his BS and MA degree from Brigham Young University in Utah. He has served as a missionary among the Shoshone, Araphaho and Asinahoin Indians. He currently teaches speech and drama at Excelsior High School, Norwalk.

'Motherly' Actress Wants to Visit GI's in Viet

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP — Would American servicemen in Vietnam like to be visited by motherly types as well as shapely chicks?

Character actress Lilia Skala thinks so, but she can't convince the committee that sends entertainers to the war zone.

The Viennese - born Miss Skala, an American resident since the Nazi takeover of Austria, thought of going to Vietnam when she read of how movies are shown outdoors to troops at Army bases.

'SOOTHING FILM'

"I thought perhaps I could show 'Lilies of the Field' to them," said the actress whose portrayal of the stern mother superior in the film won her an Academy nomination. "It is a very soothing film and that in itself would be helpful. Afterwards I could sing some songs — I have taken lessons for years.

last war.

"Also, I could take names and telephone numbers of their wives and mothers, whom I would call when I got back here. That would certainly be of comfort."

"But better yet, I would just talk to the boys and answer any questions they might have about the making of the movie. I have no illusions about myself as an entertainer; I know the boys would rather have Ann-Margret. But I think I could be of help in talking to the boys, perhaps telling them about my own two sons who were in the

NOT DISCOURAGED

Miss Skala made her proposal to the Hollywood Overseas Committee which books the Vietnam trips. She was told in a polite way that the committee sees a greater need for entertainers who can sing and dance, preferably young ones.

She won't be discouraged.

"Every human being finds himself under great pressure," she reasons, "and he has the desire to speak of it and have someone listen with visible interest. Sometimes just speaking out clarifies our thought. I'm sure I could be of service if I could go to Vietnam and just listen to what those boys have to say."

Miss Skala is now making a feature film for television, "Ironside," in which she appears with Raymond Burr. Learning that he had made three trips to Vietnam, she told him of her desire to go. "Come with me next time," he suggested, and she accepted eagerly.

U.S. Plans To Test New Spacecraft

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The United States plans to wind up its 1966 space effort with the December launchings of two satellites designed to lay the groundwork for future space ventures.

One satellite will test new equipment and techniques for advanced spacecraft and the second will help scientists predict the possible medical hazards facing astronauts on long voyages in orbit or to the planets.

Up for launch first is a new breed of experimental spacecraft called an Applications Technology Satellite. It is scheduled to be rocketed into a stationary orbit Dec. 6 to lead the way for improved communications and weather satellites.

Eight days later, on Dec. 14, the federal space agency plans to orbit the first in a new series of flying biological laboratories built to see how space and its phenomena affect life.

LAST SHOT

The biosatellite firing is expected to be the 33rd and last space shot of the year at Cape Kennedy. Next on the schedule is the launch of eight military communications satellites on an Air Force Titan 3C Jan. 5.

Two other shots — the launching of the first three-man Apollo and a communications satellite — were once set for late this year, but technical problems have pushed both into early 1967.

The ATS scheduled for the first December launching will act as a test stand high above earth to try out transmitters that may be used on future communications satellites and to test a camera and other gear for possible weather satellite use.

The satellite, the first of five in the ATS series, is shaped like a barrel and will weight 800 pounds in orbit. It will be positioned 22,300 miles above the mid-Pacific where it will appear stationary with its orbital speed matching earth's rotation.

The "hanging" orbit will enable the satellite to relay both black and white and color telecasts between North America, Japan and Australia and it will also "talk" to airplanes in flight and transmit weather maps across the Pacific.

EQUIPMENT

Among the other experimental equipment aboard, the ATS carries a telescopic camera that will take high quality cloud photographs. From its stationary vantage point, the camera is expected to be able to provide almost continuous coverage of 39 percent of the earth.

The biological spacecraft set for launch Dec. 14 will circle the globe for three days carrying such specimens as frog eggs, bread mold, pepper plants, wheat seedlings and virus-harboring bacteria. Then it will be returned to earth for recovery and scientific study.

Laguna Ebells

Festive Salute

Taking time out from their schedule of fund-raising for philanthropies to wish each other, husbands and guests a "very Merry Christmas" will be Laguna Beach Ebells.

Colorful Christmas lights reflecting on the placid Newport Bay will greet holiday celebrants as they arrive at the Balboa Pavilion Wednesday, Dec. 14.

Festivities will begin at 7:30 p.m. with cocktails, to be followed by a sumptuous dinner and dancing to the music of the Vi Winters trio.

Traditional seasonal ornaments will decorate the party setting, according to Mrs. Jay Stone, chairman.

Assisting her with arrangements are the Mmes. Douglas Kenaston, John Foster, Richard Aubrey, Stanley Eichstaedt, Joseph Bushard and Dwight Smith.

Yuletide Prelude

Sailors Hoist Party Pennant

Combining solemnity, sentimentality, anticipation, gaiety and laughter will be Lido Isle Yacht Club's annual Christmas party, planned for next Saturday in the community's clubhouse.

Prior to these festivities, Commodore and Mrs. William Haskell will host the traditional cocktail party in their home, honoring all who have contributed so much time and effort to the past year's success of the club.

Commodore Haskell also will conduct a business meeting featuring the election of new officers and directors. This will be followed by the impressive ceremony when past leaders pass their flags of office to the newly elevated staff.

Deserving sailors will be apprised that their names have been permanently engraved on perpetual trophies as they are presented.

Rear Commodore and Mrs. Robert Paley will supervise new members who will host the customary roast beef dinner, decorate the clubhouse and generally be responsible for the revelry.

Committee chairmen are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Larzelere, decorations; Mr. and Mrs. Roger MacGregor, clean-up, and Dr. and Mrs. Buck Bruce, bar.

New members are Dr. Walter Parsell, Cal Preston, George Vandervort and the Messrs. and Mmes. Arthur Voss, Myron Sheward, Ivan Sullivan, Bruce McClaire, Robert Garrison, John Shepardson, Stephen Barnard, James Newquist, Melville Keim, William Turpin and Milton Alione.

Grandparents Have Forgotten How to Love Wisely

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The best way I know to get a vital message across to millions of people is to write to Ann Landers. Here it is — an open letter to grandparents:

Why, oh why, don't you treat your grandchildren the way you treated your own children when they were growing up? Did you stuff your own youngsters with ice cream, candy and popcorn? Did you let them stay up beyond their normal bed time just to have a little extra fun? Did you let your own kids talk back to you? Did you make excuses for them when they misbehaved? Did you laugh at their bad manners and call it cute? Why, then, do you do this to your grandchildren?

We — the parents — have to undo all your spoiling when we take our children home from your place — or after you leave our place. Please give your grandchildren a break. Stick to the rules their parents have set up for them.

And please don't take your grandchildren's side against his mother and dad. We have enough trouble raising kids today. Thank you very much. — BATTLE WEARY PETITIONER

DEAR PETITIONER: Some grandparents rationalize their permissiveness by telling themselves they are not going to train their grandchildren —that they simply want to enjoy them.

This of course is fourth-rate reasoning. Grandparents undermine their childrens' hard work when they let their grandchildren get away with a lot of nonsense. And please don't say, "wait till you have grandchildren of your own." I have grandchildren of my own and I'm a pretty tough ol' cookie.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 17-year-old high school senior who read in a magazine that $10 a month will support an abandoned Korean child. The magazine piece said the child's case history will be sent and the child will write to his adoptive parents.

I have a fairly generous allowance and I do baby-sitting weekends. Would I qualify even though I am only 17? Please tell me where to write if I am eligible. Thank you. — WANT TO HELP

DEAR WANT TO: Whenever I hear someone putting down today's teenagers, I like to haul out a letter like yours and show them how wrong they are.

There is no age limit on this adoptive plan. Write to Compassion, 7774 W. Irving Park Road, Chicago, Ill. 60634. In Canada the address is Box No. 880, Blenheim, Ontario. It's a wonderful thing to do and I admire you for wanting to do it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a young friend who talks of death constantly. He is bright and sensitive and has much to offer. It makes me terribly sad to hear him say he wants to die because he can't stand all the horrible things that are happening in the world today.

Three weeks ago this young man had his third automobile accident. He managed to escape again with only minor injuries. I have the feeling he is trying to kill himself. Is this possible? What can I do to help him? — CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: It sounds as if your friend is indeed trying to kill himself. The only thing you can do is try to get him to seek professional help before he succeeds and takes somebody with him.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boyfriend, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far to Go," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the DAILY PILOT enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Signed, Sealed and Delivered

Members of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church Women's Guild in Newport Beach will stage their Christmas Bazaar in the fashionable Lido Isle home of Mrs. Vincent Salmacia. Mailing invitations to the event are (from left) Mrs. Frank Marshall, Mrs. Charles Bauman and Mrs. Harold Parrott. The guild will put forth loads of imaginative gifts in gay holiday ribbons for the sale, which will take place from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 7. Proceeds will go to the church.

Webb - Jardine Nuptial Vows Recited in Newport Beach

Escorted by her father to the altar of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Jeanne Alicia Jardine recited her marriage vows in her own original alencon lace creation.

Her silk moire sheath was covered with a high-collared floor length coat, and the lace was repeated in her headdress which caught a mantilla - styled veil. Phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis formed her nosegay.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Jardine of Pasadena, and her husband, James Phillip Webb of Newport Beach is the the son of Mrs. Clyde Webb of Anaheim. The Rev. Dr. Charles H. Dierenfield performed the single ring rites.

Miss Anne Dort, maid of honor, wore a long frock of willow green velvet and satin and a matching headpiece and carried a cascade of pale green roses and carnations on a Bible.

Dressed identically were bridesmaids, Mrs. Jerry Lee Jardine, the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. James L. Cook and Miss Sherry Joyce Lee, the bride's cousin.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was his brother, Thomas L. Webb. Guests were ushered to their seats by Richard Arnold, Louis Middleton, James Walsworth and Jerry Jardine. Soloists were Mrs. Louis Craig and Ray Wickham.

Northern California Honeymoon

Afterward 180 guests were received in the Newport Beach Elks Club where tables were adorned with bouquets of white and yellow chrysanthemums. Assisting were George Fristed, Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmer Lee of Wyoming, the bride's aunt and uncle.

Following a northern California honeymoon the bridal couple will live in Newport Beach. The bride is a graduate of Pasadena High School, Pasadena City College and Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo. Her husband is an alumnus of Anaheim High School and California State College at Long Beach.

Troy Leads Christmas Celebration

The sound of Christmas music is being heard throughout the University of Southern California as the Chamber Singers rehearse for the annual Christmas Convocation Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 13-14, in Bovard Auditorium.

Starting at 8 p.m., the program will feature Christmas readings by Dr. Frank Baxter, emeritus professor of English, and will open with the USC Concert Choir under the direction of Dr. James H. Vail.

The Chamber Singers, directed by Dr. Charles C. Hirt, will perform Christmas selections from around the world, and will lead guests from the auditorium to a reception in Town and Gown.

Area members of the Trojan League who are serving on the hostess committee include Miss Marian Parks and Mrs. Clark Somers of Corona del Mar.

Facts about cleaning carpets with Blue Lustre

A gallon of Blue Lustre cleans the equivalent of six 9x12 rugs, depending on soil.

Traffic paths may be removed without cleaning wall-to-wall if rest of carpet shows no soil.

Blue Lustre raises beaten-down nap at doorways, leaving pile open and lofty.

It costs only about 1c per square foot to clean your carpet. Blue Lustre electric shampooers may be rented for $1 a day.

Carpets stay new-looking if you keep Blue Lustre handy to remove spot sand traffic paths as they appear. Since it contains no soap, there is no residue to cause rapid re-soiling. It dries to an invisible crystalline powder containing the soil, removed by vacuuming.

You'll be delighted by the way Blue Lustre restores forgotten colors in both carpets and upholstery. Rima Hardware, 2666 Harbor, Costa Mesa.

Auxiliary Compiles Meetings

Represented in the Veteran's Day parade in Santa Ana were the Messrs. and Mmes. Porath, Thomas, Paul Biladeau, Furle Lindsey, Sam Houchin, and Mrs. Latchford and Miss Barbara Thomas.

Mrs. Porath, recently hosted the executive board in her home. Members revising the auxiliary's standing rules include the Mmes. Paul and Biladeau, vice presidents; Houchin, secretary; Thomas, past president, and Earl White and Fred Hoffman, committeewomen.

Women Unwrap Holiday Bundle

Christmas preparations and a bundle of festivities are in store for members of the Coast Women's Club of Corona del Mar.

New ideas on gift wrapping, home and table decorations and corsages will be shared during a meeting in the Irvine Coast Country Club at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 6.

Mrs. Eugene Wing, program chairman, will present the ideas, while Mrs. Ray Nielsen will preside over the meeting.

Also scheduled is the collection of beauty bundles for girls in Juvenile Hall, Santa Ana. Reservations may be obtained by calling Mrs. William Halliday at 545-4545.

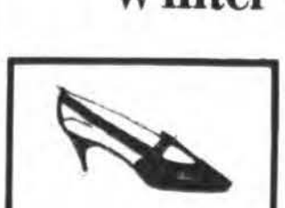

Meanwhile, a gala party is being planned for the Book Section in the Costa Mesa home of Mrs. Halliday at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 13. On the agenda is a gift exchange, potluck-smorgasbord dinner and singing.

Mrs. Jack Hart, card section chairman, has invited members and friends to her Corona del Mar home at noon Tuesday, Dec. 20, for a holiday punch bowl and luncheon which will be followed by games and cards.

A Scandinavian Christmas Glugg and Snack Party awaits members and their husbands in the Newport Beach home of Mrs. Nielsen, president, at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 17. A no-host dinner and program will follow in a nearby restaurant.

Also keeping members busy is the selling of note paper and pecans in order to raise money for scholarships and blind children, and the collection of food and clothing for Arizona Indians.

Stewardess Jets Around Propelling Jewelry Line

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The world of Elizabeth Rich revolves around jet planes and jewelry fantasies.

One of her fulltime jobs is stewardess on trans-atlantic jet flights. The other is helping with the design and distribution of a new line of costume jewelry. She and two other self-styled "junior tycoons" are marketing it in some of the nation's better department stores and specialty shops.

One of their earring pairs recently made the cover of Vogue Magazine, with Jean Shrimpton, model extraordinaire, wearing them. Another Vogue cover using their jewelry is in the works, Miss Rich said.

"Just how fortunate can one get?", remarked the 24-year-old Miss Rich, a gray-eyed blonde with short straight bob. The others in the triumvirate are Edward Dunn, 24, and Calvin Townsend, 21.

Their jewelry business had its beginnings when Miss Rich, a native of South Portland, Maine, and a graduate of Barnard College, New York, was working at the Institute of International Education (IIE) screening applicants for Fulbright scholarships.

There she met Dunn, who had studied at San Francisco State College and then bounced around the country acting or doing costume and set designs. Townsend, a native of Tatum, N.M., and graduate of Arizona State University, was Dunn's roommate. He had come to New York to study piano.

The three often talked about other directions their creative talents might take, and the answer seemed to be in jewelry. Miss Rich had made a hit at a party for Skitch Henderson with her exaggerated eardrops made from crystal chandelier parts she had spotted in a neighborhood shop. By this time, Miss Rich had left IIE and was a stewardess on New York to Europe flights of Trans World Airlines.

The three incorporated as Maison de Fou (French for crazy house) on July 8, the day the major airlines were struck by the machinists union. Miss Rich like other TWA personnel went off the payroll.

"We started with a capital of about $20," she recalled in an interview in the New York brownstone where the firm has its offices. "Now, we'd know better."

A friend put them in touch with the accessories editor of Vogue, leading to the cover and to orders from jewelry buyers.

Their designs are "offbeat but not kooky . . . we're returning to a romantic era in fashion. Though chic is on its way out." Tiny squared mirrors make up belts, bracelets or geometrically shaped earrings. One double-duty item is a cascade of pearls and fake diamonds fastened to a velvet bow for the hair or detached for wear as a pin.

For the holidays, they've used flexible metallics looking like Christmas garlands, in gold or silver, to make ruffs. Lightweight earrings are smaller copies of Christmas tree balls.

"People say our approach is fresh and new," said Miss Rich. "We do believe though that any item should enhance the wearer."

Miss Rich manages her dual role by working a seven-day week. Union regulations limit a stewardess to 65 hours per month flying international routes. This means she leaves New York each Friday night on TWA flights to Paris and returns on Sunday. On her last return trip, she said her passengers included Arlene Dahl and Anne McDonnell Ford.

During the week, then, she is free for her job as jewelry entrepreneuse.

MRS. JAMES T. MANSFIELD
Resides in Tustin

Altar baskets of carnations and chrysanthemums decorated Costa Mesa First Methodist Church when Ruth Ann Phillips and James T. Mansfield were directed in their vow and ring exchange by the Rev. Herbert Johnson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Phillips of Costa Mesa, and she was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length gown of silk, fashioned with a bateau neckline, elbow length sleeves and a tiered back trimmed with venetian lace. A matching fabric rose caught her full length veil, and she carried peppermint carnations with white pompon chrysanthemums.

Miss Louise Phillips, the bride's sister, wore a full length royal blue chiffon gown and carried peppermint carnations for her role as maid of honor.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mansfield of Elgin, Ill., asked Ralph Westberg to be his best man, and H. James Phillips and Wesley George as ushers.

Assisting at the reception in the church hall were Miss Marilyn Conrath, who circulated the guest book, Mrs. Herbert Miller, Mrs. Jay Ingall and Miss Hazel Stover.

The new Mrs. Mansfield received her schooling in Texas, and her husband is a graduate of the University of Illinois where he affiliated with Pi Kappa Alpha. They are residing in Tustin.

CHARLOTTE MARX
Betrothal Told

Festive decorations will lend an early California atmosphere to Christ Church by the Sea when Charlotte Marx becomes the bride of Wolfgang Dietzel of Atlanta, Ga. on Friday, Dec. 30.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Kott of Newport Beach, and her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Dietzel of Inglewood.

Miss Marx was a student at Newport Harbor High School and Mount St. Mary's College and was graduated from the University of Southern California where she majored in business.

The bridegroom - elect, who attended Black-Foxe School, is an alumnus of the School of Philosophy at USC and pursued his graduate studies in the university's School of Business Administration. During his undergraduate years he was active as president of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Luscious Pies Serve as Just Desserts

HEAVENLY HOLIDAY DESSERT LIFTS SPIRITS

Give your guests their just desserts this happy holiday season by harking back to the old days when the bill of fare on special occasions just wasn't complete without a trio of taste-tempting pies. Here's a threesome a bit different from most — a heavenly, cloud-light Angel pie, redolent of rich coffee; a spicy Mince that's at its flavor-peak served piping-hot; and a rosy Cranberry pie laced with morsels of orange. All three depend upon real molasses for their unusual, tart-sweet tang; and you may depend upon your holiday guests to enjoy every mouthful when you serve these fragrant delights.

ANGEL CHIFFON PIE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¾ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¾ cup molasses
1 cup hot coffee
4 eggs, separated
1 9-inch pie shell (baked pastry or crumb)
1 cup heavy cream, whipped and sweetened

In top of double boiler, mix gelatin, ½ cup sugar, salt and soda. Stir in molasses and hot coffee and cook over boiling water, stirring until gelatin dissolves. Beat egg yolks slightly, slowly stir in a small amount of hot gelatin mixture. Return to double boiler and cook 3-4 minutes more. Chill until thick enough to mound slightly when dropped from spoon. Beat egg whites until soft peaks are formed, gradually add ¼ cup remaining sugar, beating until stiff. Gradually fold chilled molasses mixture into egg whites. Spoon into cooled pie shell and chill until firm. Decorate with sweetened whipped cream. Serves 6 to 8.

HOT MINCEMEAT PIE

1 package pie crust mix
1 slightly beaten egg white
1 jar mincemeat
1 diced apple
1/3 cup molasses
Pulp and grated rind of 1 orange

Preheat oven to 425 degrees F. Make pie crust as package directs. Roll out on floured board, place ½ of recipe inside pie pan. Brush with beaten egg white; refrigerate. Mix apple, orange, mincemeat, molasses, pour into pie shell. Roll out other half of crust, place on top of mincemeat mixture, press together at pie shell rim; crimp. Make several slits in top crust for steam vents. Brush top crust with milk before baking 30-35 minutes.

CRANBERRY PIE

Homemade pastry or pie crust mix for 9" double-crust pie
4 cups fresh cranberries, washed and halved
1½ cups light brown sugar, firmly packed
4 tablespoons molasses
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Preheat oven to 425 degrees F. Line a nine-inch pie pan with one-half of pastry. Fill shell with cranberries and brown sugar. Dust with cinnamon. Sprinkle molasses over it. Roll out second half of pie crust, cut into strips ½ inch wide, long enough to cover pie in lattice formation, and place criss-cross strips on cranberries, about 1 inch apart. Use remaining pastry to make extra fluting on edge. Bake pie 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 degrees F. Cook about 1 hour longer. Serve with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream if desired.

This delicious combination of pumpkin and orange, nestled in a pie crust dessert for any dinner on a fall evening.

GOLD 'N NUGGET PIE

1 pie shell, baked and cooled
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup water
½ cup sugar
2 egg yolks
1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup evaporated milk
1 pound can pumpkin (2 cups)
1-½ teaspoon grated orange rind
2 egg whites
⅛ cup sugar

Have baked and cooled pie crust shell ready. Soften gelatin in water in a 2-quart saucepan. Add ½ cup sugar, egg yolks, spice and salt. Stir until smooth. Stir in evaporated milk. Cook and stir over LOW heat until thick. Remove from heat. Stir in pumpkin and orange rind. Chill until thick, but not firm. Beat egg whites in 1-½ quart bowl on electric mixer at HIGH speed until foamy. Beat in ½ cup sugar gradually until stiff and glossy. Fold into pumpkin mixture. Heap into pie shell. Top with finely cut pecans, if desired. Chill 2 or 3 hours, or until firm.

Prepare Mr. Pumpkin cake in advance, freeze without frosting, then frost and decorate later.

MR. PUMPKIN CAKE

1 package applesauce spice cake mix
¾ cup pumpkin, cooked or canned
¾ cup water
¼ cup cooking oil
3 eggs
1 package Fluffy white frosting mix
Few drops yellow food coloring
1 can green cake and cookie decorator
1 ice cream cone.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F.

Combine cake mix, pumpkin, water, cooking oil and eggs. Beat 4 minutes at medium speed. Bake in a well greased lightly floured 10 - inch tube pan at 350 degrees F for 50 to 55 minutes until a toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Remove cake from pan and cool completely.

Prepare frosting mix as directed on package and tint a delicate yellow. Make eyes, nose and mouth with writing tip of decorator. Cover ice cream cone with green cake decorator, using leaf tip, and place in center for Mr. Pumpkin's stem. Yield: one 10 - inch cake.

A color and taste contrast is to be had with Two - Tone Pumpkin Pie. This also is prepared in advance, which provides time for those last minute demands that arise when entertaining.

TWO-TONE PUMPKIN PIE

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¾ cup milk
1-½ cups canned pumpkin

Soak gelatin in water. To the eggs add the remaining ingredients listed above. Cook on LOW heat until thickened. Add gelatin; chill.

1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1-¼ cups milk, scalded
1 teaspoon vanilla

Soak gelatin in water. Combine egg, flour, sugar, salt and hot milk. Cook on LOW heat until thick and smooth. Stir in gelatin and vanilla. Chill.

When both mixtures begin to congeal, spoon in half the pumpkin fixture into a baked and cooled pie shell. Chill quickly. Cover with custard mixture; chill again. Add the remaining pumpkin mixture and chill at least 2 hours. Yield: one 9 - inch pie.

FESTIVE FARE: DELLA ROBBIA SALAD

Nectar of the Gods . . .

Perks Up Salads

For a new holiday high in salads, add Rose wine to an unflavored gelatin preparation. Modest amounts of sugar, salt and lemon juice will bring the festive flavor to perfection. Surround the centered mold with fresh winter pear halves, frosted grapes and orange sections, and serve with pink mayonnaise, for a lovely Della Robbia Salad.

Either Anjou or Bosc, will add distinction to this salad or dessert. Halve and remove the cores. But do not peel these thin skinned pears to retain the color and the character of green or yellow Anjou or russet colored Bosc.

Long flavored for eating out of hand, western pears are the ideal fresh fruit for salads in this season when sweet fruits are rare. You'll usually find them ripe and ready to eat at your favorite market. Ripe pears yield to gentle pressure regardless of color. But you can always buy firm pears with confidence. They'll ripen at home in a few days at room temperature, becoming sweet and juicy, the way you like them.

PEAR DELLA ROBBIA SALAD

3 fresh Anjou or Bosc pears
Lemon juice
1 large orange
Frosted grapes
Rose wine mold
Pink Mayonnaise

Halve and core pears. Brush cut sides with lemon juice to prevent darkening. Peel and section orange. Frost grapes by dipping in slightly beaten egg white, then in granulated sugar. Place on waxed paper to dry. Place Rose wine mold in center of salad platter. Encircle with fresh pear halves, orange sections and frosted grapes. Serve with pink mayonnaise made by adding grenadine to mayonnaise to tint it delicately pink. Makes 6 servings.

Wrap-up Pears

Pare, quarter and core fresh pears. Wrap a salami slice and cheese strip around each quarter, secure with fancy pick.

Snack Time

To satisfy that after-school hunger, spread slices of bread with a nice thick mixture of cottage cheese and canned apple sauce. A glass of apple juice will taste good with this.

Waffle Topping

Drizzle lemon juice and honey over fresh pear slices on hot, buttered waffles.

'Launch Meat' up in Air

By DOROTHY WENCK
Orange County Home Adviser

"Launch meat" has been the new space-age name for cold cuts ever since Astronaut John Young took along a corned beef sandwich on the Gemini 3 flight.

Whether you call them "launch meats," luncheon meats, cold cuts or sandwich meats, these products cover a wide variety of meat mixtures with a wide variety of uses.

Some are quite costly. For example, a 39-cent package of sliced beef or turkey weighing 3½ ounces actually costs you over $1.75 per pound — almost as much as New York steak!

Other luncheon meats which seem rather inexpensive, sliced bologna for example, are actually more costly than you think because of high fat content — ground-in fat that you can't see. You may be paying $1.50 a pound or more for the actual protein in sliced bologna.

Is there any regulation of the amount of meat, fat and other ingredients that these luncheon meats contain? Yes, all such products that are shipped across state lines come under the jurisdiction of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

The meat used must be federally inspected for wholesomeness before processing and the entire manufacturing and packaging process is closely supervised by federal meat inspectors to insure you of safe, wholesome meat.

All formulas for luncheon meat products must be submitted to the USDA for approval. The formulas vary according to the type of product. For some products, certain ingredients are prescribed, while in others the amounts of ingredients are regulated.

Thus, you can be sure of finding the same basic product in each of several different brands labeled with similar names.

For instance, liver sausage, liver loaf, liver paste, liver cheese and liver spread must contain at least 30 percent liver.

No sausage product may contain more than 3½ percent of cereals, starchy flours or dried milk products either individually or collectively. If such extenders are used at all, the label must say so.

Moisture content is also carefully regulated. For luncheon meats and loaves moisture cannot exceed 3 percent of the total ingredients used, while bologna and similar cooked sausage cannot exceed 10 percent added moisture.

Fat content is also regulated and will vary from one type of cold cut to another.

USDA regulations also cover the packaging and labeling of luncheon meats. Each package must be accurately labeled to show: the product name; an accurate statement of the ingredients by their common name in descending order of predominance; the net weight; the name and address of manufacturer and the federal meat inspection mark.

Luncheon meats that are produced, packaged and sold within the state are not covered by federal regulations. However, California meat inspection regulations would apply, and these are similar to federal regulations. California processed meats are marked with California meat inspection stamp.

New fruit-rich treat from Scandinavia

Van de Kamp's New Julekake Just pronounce it "You'll Akaka!" Actually, the name means "Christmas Cake" . . . but we call it Holiday Loaf because it's a new kind of betwixt-and-between treat. Julekake is rich with delicious cherries, plump raisins, fine citron, glaced orange and lemon peel and crunchy walnut meats like a deluxe fruit cake . . . yet much lighter in texture and flavor. Delicious with fruit salad lunches . . . served with coffee or tea when friends drop in . . . as a "brunch," toasted, with eggs and bacon. You'll enjoy introducing your family and friends to unusual and delicious Julekake. Specially priced this weekend, too. (Reg. 69¢)..... 59¢

Newport Chief Warns

Heating System Check Due

"Now that the winter season is upon us, residents should check the safety of their home heating system," Newport Beach Fire Chief R. J. "Jan" Briscoe warned today.

The important thing is to check whether the heater has a vent system to carry combustion products out of the house, the fire chief said. He pointed out that old-fashion, unvented heaters may release deadly carbon monoxide fumes into the room if the heater is not functioning properly.

Briscoe advised residents using unvented heaters to take the following precautions until the heater can be replaced with a modern unit:

— Always leave one or more windows open to provide ventilation.

— Never sleep in a room where an unvented heater is in operation.

—Use only approved metal connectors; rubber hoses are unsafe and illegal.

Briscoe also reminded that some older heaters with exposed flames present a fire hazard. Place such heaters away from drapes and out of busy traffic areas, he advised. "If there are small children in the house shield the heater with a fire screen."

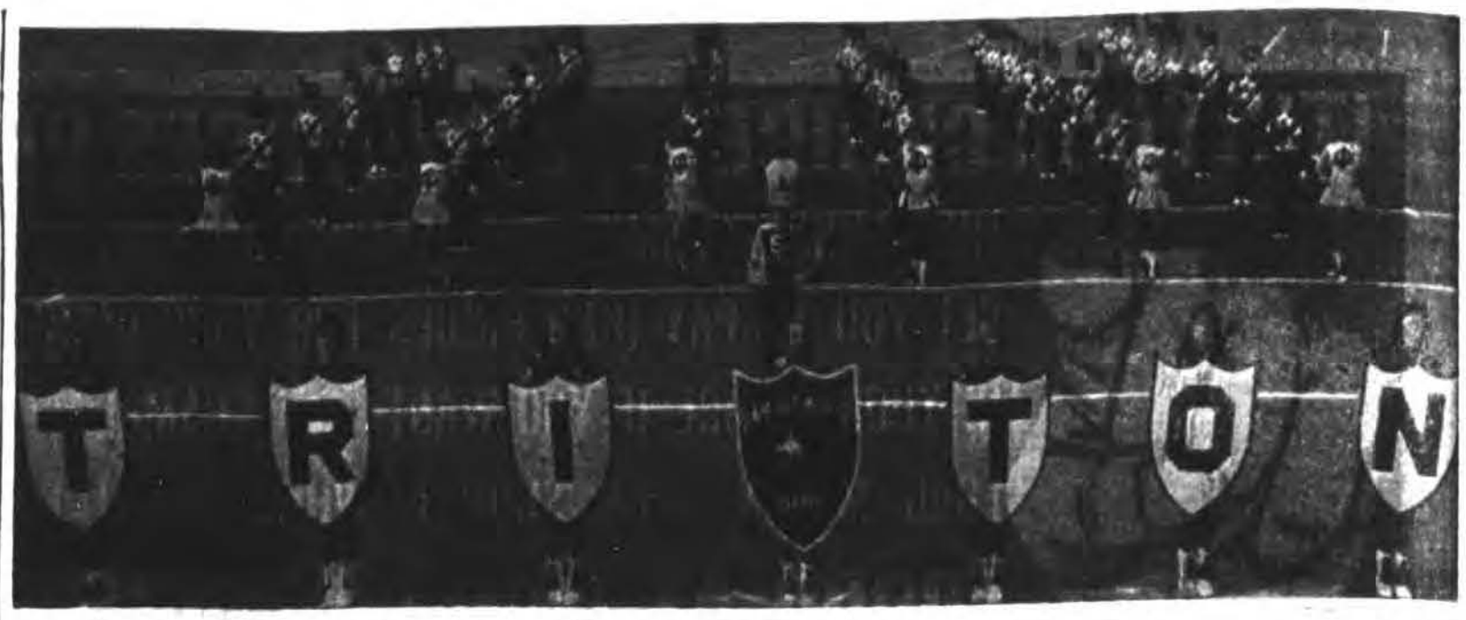

Army ROTC Scholarship Spots Doubled

Congressman James B. Utt (R-Tustin) today announced that Army ROTC scholarships will be doubled in number in 1967.

A total of 800 four-year scholarships will be awarded to outstanding high school graduates, and at least 856 two-year awards will be made to selected college students who have completed two years ROTC training.

High school applicants must be male, United States citizens, who meet prescribed physical standards, and must be 17 years old by Oct. 1, 1967.

Utt said residents of California, desiring application forms and additional information should apply to the Commanding General, Sixth United States Army, Attn: AMAG-R-SCH, Presido of San Francisco.

They Want to Travel

San Clemente High School Tritons band, under leadership of Joseph Shofner, is brushing up on its field maneuvers and new musical arrangements as band members get ready for East-West Shrine game in Kezar Stadium, San Francisco. But the trip (Dec. 31) is $2,400 away. Youngsters in band plan to sell band pictures, decals, stage a dance and otherwise raise funds for the trip. San Clemente unit is only high school band in Orange Coast area invited to the San Francisco game. It will be the Tritons' second appearance in the Northern California classic. Band will warm up for the special appearance by staging a Christmas parade Dec. 10 in San Clemente. Donations can be sent to Triton Band Committee, PO Box 232, Capistrano Beach.

Ain't No Flies on Him, Maybe, But . . .

How long do you suppose a guy has to stand completely motionless before a timid little butterfly figures he's a harmless "landing field?" The DAILY PILOT photographer who stood still enough, long enough wouldn't tell how long it took, but there's the butterfly and there's the photographer's hand and camera — on the job every minute, busy, busy, busy.

Boys Club News

Basketball Series Starts

Basketball intramural and traveling leagues are now being formed at the Central Branch of the Boys' Club of the Harbor Area. Coaches said emphasis will be on teaching the boys basketball and sportsmanship.

Last week two of the Boys Club teams played in the Los Angeles Sports Arena before 13,000 spectators. The game was played before the Laker vs. S. F. Warriors encounter.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE:

High School	Monday	4 to 10 p.m.
8th Grade	Tuesday	4 to 7:30 p.m.
7th Grade	Thursday	4 to 7:30 p.m.
6th Grade	Wednesday	4 to 7:30 p.m.
5th & 4th Grades	Tues. & Thurs	4 to 5:30 p.m.
3rd & 2nd Grades	Wed.	4 to 5:30 p.m.

All star teams also play on Saturday. Come in and sign up with Dave Larson.

The games room is having tournaments in ping pong, chess and checkers for competition against other boys clubs in the county. Boys are invited to try for a spot on the teams. A representative for each group, junior, intermediate and senior, will participate in each division except no senior will play caroms, an extra ping pong player will be added.

Clyde Hartwigsen has a fine program planned in plastics, woodwork, plaster, and electronics classes which are conducted every Tuesday 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Volunteers with a special craft skill who would like to share this skill with a group of youngsters are asked to contact Lee Fisher at 548-9387.

Dan Day, 11, was selected as games room department boy of the month for October.

Darrell Davis, 12, was selected arts and crafts boy of the month, and Rick Cullen, 12, was selected as gym boy of the month.

Mike Kahler 9, was selected for his "services and citizenship qualities" as boy of the month for the Central Branch.

Actor Named

Oscar-winning actor Jimmy Stewart, one of Hollywood's most durable stars, has been elected to the board of trustees of Claremont Men's College.

In making the announcement, President George C. S. Benson said that Stewart had served in a similar capacity as trustee for Princeton University, his alma mater.

Marine Life Poisoners

Marine life in tidal pools along the Orange Coast may be in danger of extinction from amateur and professional hunters, using poison.

Laguna Beach Councilman Glenn Vedder told the DAILY PILOT this week he had encountered four adults poisoning tidal pools to drive octopuses out of their holes so they could be captured and eaten.

As Vedder pointed out, the toxic substances used to get at the octopuses kill other types of sea life in the vicinity.

Another instance was reported in which a woman illegally picked immature abalone off the rocks at low tide. In still another case a Redondo Beach man with a crew of boys was collecting starfish by the hundreds to sell as decorations.

Other cases of marine life destruction were reported last week in a letter to the editor from Gilbert W. Bane, assistant professor of population and environmental biology at the University of California, Irvine.

Bane said during a 15-minute period on a recent Sunday afternoon he counted 123 bucket-carrying scavengers at Little Corona Beach at Corona del Mar collecting specimens from the shoreline.

Later in the day, Bane wrote, a biology class from a state college (outside Orange County) came to the beach to study the sea animals. The class poisoned a tidepool of about 900 cubic feet, he reported, to collect its few dozen specimens.

It would seem at this rate, that humanity can probably poison, if not collect, most of the sea life from the coast in a few years.

Bane has suggested restrictions to close rocky beaches so that the tidal pools will again become a "living laboratory for the casual visitor and the student of marine biology."

John T. Cooper of Costa Mesa, in a rebuttal in Mailbox yesterday, said the high rate of reproduction of the species Bane mentioned "excludes the possibility of extinction." He agreed, however, that poison should not be used for collecting.

It might be well to look into establishment of a game preserve for protection of marine life. In the meantime there are existing laws that can be enforced to dampen the enthusiasm of some of the collectors who use poison.

Help the Interviewers

This week a dozen man-in-the-street interviewers are scurrying about Corona del Mar's business district, asking people all kinds of questions.

The interviewers are working for Wilbur Smith & Associates, the San Francisco consulting engineering firm hired by the city to study traffic and parking needs.

It's an important study, and the questions now being asked of Corona del Mar shoppers and residents are a vital phase of that study.

Information is being sought about why people come to Corona del Mar, where they come from and where they park—or try to.

It's likely that some of those interviewed will wonder just what it's all about.

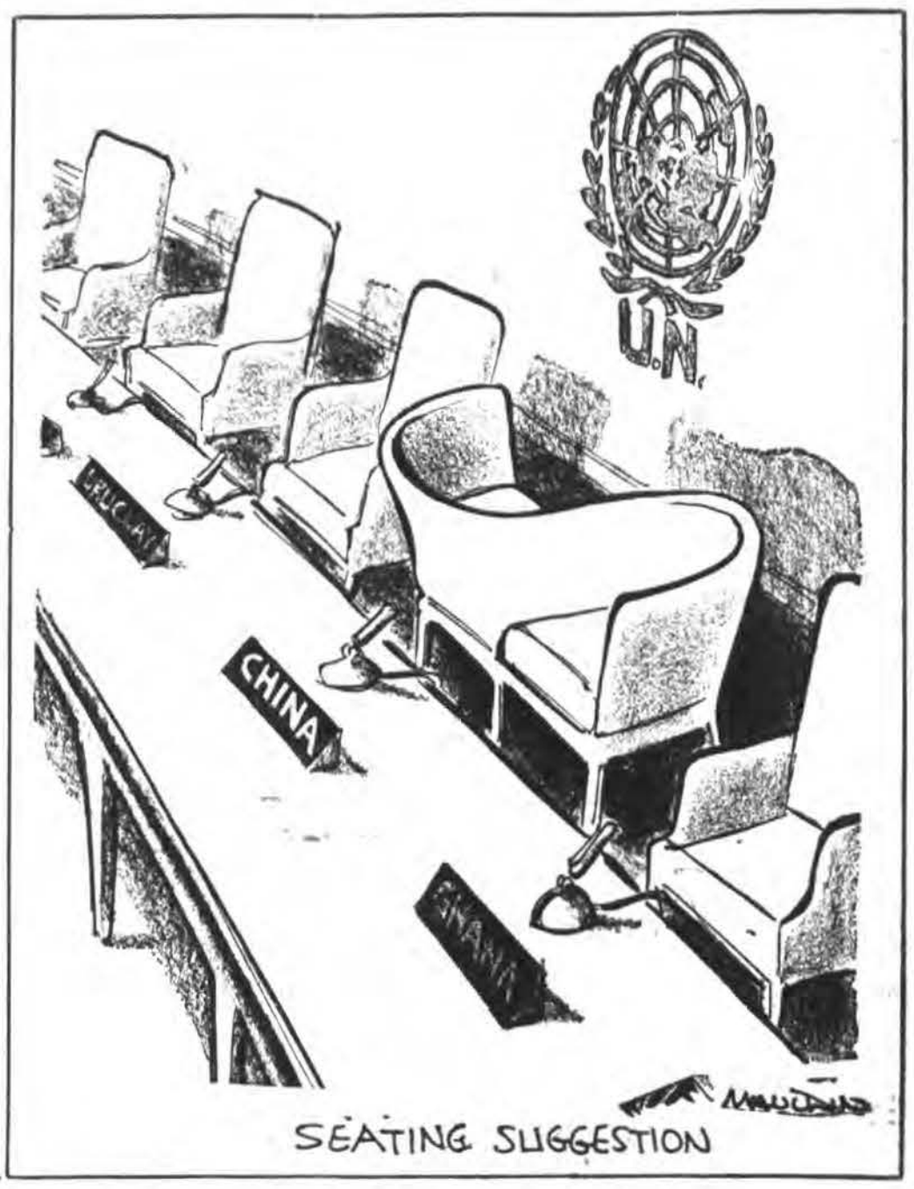

What it's about, of course, is their future parking convenience and how that convenience would best be served.

That may well be determined by the answers given to Wilbur Smith's research team members.

So don't be shy. Tell all.

Each interview shouldn't take more than a minute or two. And that could be time well spent—for you and your community.

'Immunity for Soviet Spies'

Katzenbach, FBI Chief to Clash

Allen-Scott

Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach is apparently a glutton for punishment.

The former Attorney General has, at his own request, tackled the extremely thorny job of trying to persuade the Senate to approve the long-stalled agreement between the U. S. and Russia to set up consular offices in their countries.

A leading opponent of this treaty is FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. The out-spoken disapproval of the militant anti-Communist has been largely responsible for the Senate's failure to consider this pact, negotiated by the State Department with President Johnson's warm support.

State Department insiders say Katzenbach requested permission to lead a drive for Senate ratification of the consular agreement in order to force a showdown with Hoover over whether internal security or foreign policy should determine relations with the Soviet.

KATZENBACH, who singled out Yuri Tchernjakov, counselor at the Russian embassy, as one of the first to be informed of this, argues that now is the time to expand U. S.-Soviet cooperation, and ratification of the treaty would be a tangible and effective step in that direction.

Since taking over the No. 2 position in the State Department, Katzenbach has consistently sided with Llewellyn Thompson, newly-appointed Ambassador to Moscow and a leading exponent of developing closer ties with Russia for the purpose of mutually countering Red China.

Hoover, who denounced the consulate treaty from the forum of a House Appropriations Subcommittee, is credited as welcoming a direct confrontation over this issue with his former Justice Department boss.

AIDES OF Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., leader of the Senate foes of the pact, say Hoover is eager to appear before the Foreign Relations Committee to present a detailed account of how Soviet consulates will be used to increase espionage in the U. S.

A particular Hoover target is Article 19 that grants immunity from criminal prosecution to all employes of Russian consulates. Moscow insisted on this provision before agreeing to the treaty.

It is claimed by Hoover this is unprecedented in U. S. consular agreements. Such pacts with other countries grant immunity only on misdemeanors, and not felonies.

If this article remains in the treaty, an FBI estimate given Sen. Dodd holds that "more than 400 Soviet espionage and Intelligence agents assigned to proposed consulates in New York, Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles would be guaranteed immunity from prosecution."

MOSCOW HAS indicated that if the pact is approved, it will seek to open consulates in these four cities. In contrast to these plans, the State Department intends to open only one in Leningrad.

When the Kremlin initially proposed the immunity provision, Hoover vigorously dissented on the ground it would open the way for Russia to set up a virtual "fifth column" without fear of prosecution.

Under the agreement, the only recourse the U. S. would have in the event a Russian spy was apprehended would be to deport him. Hoover contended this would greatly work to the advantage of the Soviet as the U. S. meticulously bars its consulates from Intelligence activities.

Katzenbach, then Attorney General, overruled Hoover.

Catholic Bishops Take Big Step

Ralph McGill

A pastoral statement, unanimously adopted by the National Conference of Roman Catholic Bishops, called upon Christians, Jews and "all men of good will" to work together in "combating racial discriminations and poverty."

Had the Reverend Fathers stopped there, the result would have been a wide yawn. It is a familiar resolution, trite with much adoption. It also is one more honored in the breach than in observance. Not only is it a shopworn declaration, it is one often adopted by various Southern committees as an escape from confronting the realities.

Happily, the Bishops got down to specifics.

They unanimously endorsed open housing with equal opportunities for all, regardless of race, creed or color.

THE REVEREND gentlemen also urged that "reasonable dialogue" replace "slogans" in the area of racial tensions.

"We must learn, and learn first hand," said the Bishops in unanimous agreement, "what it means to be poor, to be a poor Negro, a neglected Spanish-American, or a disfranchised Indian . . . Open discussion of these problems is the beginning of their solution."

This is a big step — a Christian step.

It has been the experience of the Christian church to reflect the values, views, and prejudices of its environment. With a few exceptions, the Christian church has not cared about "the poor." It has helped a few poor persons, but one must admit that the "Christmas" or "Thanksgiving" basket was the most general mechanism of doing something for the poor.

THE CHURCH COULD — and did — support human chattel slavery in the South and call it God's work. In the North the Christian church could be, and was, strongly abolitionist.

With but few exceptions, the church opposed the early efforts of labor unions to bring about reforms such as shorter work days and end the more ruthless exploitations in factories and mines. A heavy majority of Christian churches opposed programs aimed at abolishing child labor.

When the CIO came into being it was the special target of organized religion, especially in the South. Thousands of ministers denounced it as godless and as an instrument of hell itself. In some mill towns ministers joined with or encouraged deacons, elders and members to drive labor organizers from the country.

IN OUR OWN time we have seen Christianity support the unquestioned evil and injustice of segregation. Churches still admit only "WASPS" (White, Anglo-Saxon Protestants) to worship. Not only are all others barred, the act itself is described as ordered by God. God (or Christ) is said to be a segregationist.

We still see Christian communities go into a white-faced fury because an ailing Negro must be admitted to a hospital. Hundreds of communities, the terrain of which is dotted by churches, go into a frenzy because federal school guidelines require admission if greatly needed federal aid is to be received.

Whatever these attitudes are, they are not Christian.

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC Bishops ask real estate associations and individuals to adopt a dialogue of reason about housing. The slogans being used are false. They point to the fact that the public accommodation law did not anywhere "ruin" the business of a hotel, restaurant or motel — contrary to all previous fears, slogans and myths.

The Bishops note that the same thing is true of housing. A shockingly small percentage of Negroes can buy housing in our affluent suburbia. Those who can will be educated and cultural peers of potential neighbors. Values will not be destroyed any more than restaurants, hotels or motels were "destroyed" in value.

We must also provide housing — and other things of life — for the really poor.

The Roman Catholic Bishops need some help in trying to make Christianity a living force. It will be interesting to see what the Protestant response will be.

'Reprehensible Rationale'

Mailbox

To the Editor:

Even as the Balboa Island Improvement Association abruptly shifted ground last week and requested the City Council to abandon a proposed master plan study of the Island's ongoing needs, it was predictably conforming to a long - standing and fundamental fact of our municipal existence — that is, to each successive spasm of community growth, our civic establishment will react, if at all, with an equally spasmodic set of piecemeal policies and patchwork planning efforts.

IN VIEW OF THIS apparent truism, it was not the BIIA's ultimate decision to forsake the planning study which surprised me; rather it was the awesome illogic of the reasoning involved.

To quote the organization's President Burton S. Grant: ". . . how are you going to accomplish changes when the Island is already 99.9 percent built up? People are pretty well set in their ways. . ." — an assertion which seems reasonable enough until a sense of local history and the dynamics of modern community planning are given some consideration.

WHEN THIS is done, the BIIA's position quickly degenerates into a represensible rationale for standpatism, inaction, and a fatalistic acceptance of the unacceptable — such as the Island's poor traffic flow, inadequate recreation facilities, parking problem, inharmonious land use and decaying marine environment.

What the BIIA and many of our civic leaders fail to understand is this: unlike the sleepy, seasonal, sparsely populated resort of what is now a distant past, Balboa Island and, indeed, all of Newport Beach is a dynamic, interdependent, and highly populated community, with complex patterns of social, economic and cultural interrelationships.

WITH PEOPLE living elbow to elbow, even the slightest alteration in the Island's physical or social complexion — which must come with the increasing construction of duplex units and influx of university people — will send ripples through the entire Island community, ripples which could easily become destructive waves in the absence of constructive, farsighted, master planning.

Junior Colleges Come Into Their Own

Guest Report

There was a time when the junior college was looked upon pretty much as a stepchild in the California education plan. Not so any more. It has become, through the years, an extremely important offering both as a stepping stone to extended college or university work or as a terminal educational facility where the student gets that all-important technical training he needs for the better job opportunity.

The junior college student is doing so well, in fact, the California Teachers Association found in a recent survey that:

SOME AUTHORITIES believe junior college students are exposed to better teaching than their counterparts in the freshman and sophomore classes at the University of California.

And those junior college transfers to five campuses of the University of California who had high school grades high enough to get into UC as freshmen, do as well during their junior and senior years as the four-year UC student.

Arthur M. Jensen, chief of the Bureau for Junior Colleges in the State Department of Education, may be talking from a somewhat prejudiced office, but he believes the JC student may be getting a better education than his counterpart in universities because:

JUNIOR COLLEGE teachers are first and last teachers. Their prime purpose is teaching, in contrast to the universities where research and other duties compete with teachers' time.

He ignores in this assessment the value of exposure to professors with the background in research and in other interests. Yet there is no question but that the quality of instruction in the junior college is a proven product by any measurement in education.

The junior college has been a part of the California educational opportunity for 56 years. It is only in the postwar years, however, that it has emerged as a full partner with the college and the university in the public estimation.

WHERE ONLY A portion of the secondary school graduates entered a JC two decades ago, today 70 percent of all California students enrolled in freshmen and sophomore college work are enrolled in junior colleges.

The statistic speaks for both the record of the JC in post high school education and for the public confidence now commonly held for the junior college throughout the state.

TELEVISION VIEWS

Old Timers Still Favored

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A trade paper suggests that perhaps the only trend in television entertainment this new season is cancellations. And this belief is easily bolstered by a look at the last national ratings, which indicate that now that the home viewers have stopped sampling and settled down with their preferred shows, they have fallen back more than ever on old favorites.

Of the reasonably popular new series, ABC-TV's "Rat Patrol," a World War II entry set in the North African desert, has slipped considerably from its earlier "Top 10" rating, but at this point, at least, seems reasonably secure with its status of success. Lucille Ball, whose series came in behind "Rat Patrol" in the early ratings that measured their head-on competition, has regained her very high position, and now is way ahead of the freshman entry.

THE THREE OTHER new series that looked in the early ratings as though they were reasonable hits were "Family Affair," a CBS-TV comedy about a bachelor and his valet who inherit some orphans; "Occasional Wife," an NBC-TV comedy about a young fellow who pretends to be married to get ahead in his job; and "Felony Squad," an ABC-TV police story. Of these three, later ratings indicate that "Family Affair" may have the best chance to hang in there, well up in the ranking game. ABC-TV's "Iron Horse," a Dale Robertson Western, has also shown respectable ratings strength among the new series.

But none of the fledgling endeavors seems to have the stuff of which some of television's remarkable long-run hits are made. For example, there is NBC-TV's "Bonanza," which, except for occasional specials that may knock it out of the No. 1 spot, continues to be the viewers' favorite weekly series, year in and year out.

THERE IS THAT other long-running Western, CBS-TV's "Gunsmoke," which may not make the Top 10, but almost always comes up with respectable statistics. Yet another Western, NBC-TV's "The Virginian," looks as though it may be with us indefinitely, too.

ABC-TV's Lawrence Welk is a phenomenon in his own quiet way, and let no one underestimate his astute show business sense, whether or not you care for his music. NBC-TV's Walt Disney, of course, is an American institution, and will run as long as he wants on television. CBS-TV's Ed Sullivan is also something of an institution by now, never letting his show drift into the past for too long, always moving with the times.

CBS-TV's Red Skelton is likewise a phenomenon, often coming in right behind "Bonanza" in the ratings. And the same network not only has the incomparable Miss Ball, but such other long-run stars as Andy Griffith, Jackie Gleason and Fred MacMurray (in the situation comedy "My Three Sons"). Somehow, "Rat Patrol," "Family Affair," "Felony Squad," "Occasional Wife" and "Iron Horse" don't seem much of a threat beside these. You can't fool all of the people all of the time.

Theater Notes

Last Week Busy; Four Shows Open

By TOM TITUS
Of The Daily Pilot Staff

Theater along the Orange Coast is going out the same way it came in this year — with a bang.

This week, probably the last for new shows during 1966, will find no less than four openings of widely varying production level and subject matter.

But one common denominator to the two community theaters, the new college and the old high school raising their curtains this week is the fact that all four are presenting plays that have been around for a while.

Two of these time-tested vehicles will be unveiled tonight at the Laguna Playhouse and Golden West College. The other pair go on the boards Friday at the Costa Mesa Civic Playhouse and Newport Harbor High School.

DIRECTS LAGUNA
Mesa's Larry Johns

At Laguna, the fare will be the venerable comedy, "You Can't Take It With You," with which authors George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart captured a Pulitzer Prize in 1937. Larry Johns of Costa Mesa, a veteran actor, director and technician of both stage and screen, is guest director for the production.

Its cast includes a cross section of Orange Coast theatrical names from Huntington Beach to San Clemente — Jeanne Evans, Frazier Smith, Patti Sandeman, Milt Hanson, David Rosen, Cortes McKeighen, Jo Ann Black, Barbara Van Holt, Jaquie Moffett, Paul Toft, David Pyle, John Malone, Bernard Simon, Ed Van Deusen, Elinor Schmidt and Travis Bryan.

The show will be staged for a dozen performances, Wednesdays through Saturdays until Dec. 17, at the playhouse, 319 Ocean Ave., Laguna Beach. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Sharing tonight's opening date with Laguna will be the first ever (to borrow some sports parlance) production of Huntington Beach's Golden West College — a show aptly titled "The Girl of the Golden West."

The gold rush era story will be staged by GWC drama instructor Lucian Scott in the round at the school's communications building. Because of the limited seating (80 persons), there will be eight productions, Wednesday through Saturday for two weeks.

Alternating in the title role are Dee Lyford and Susan Conway, with Armen Keuilian of Huntington Beach playing the male lead. Susan Perry and Patt Hollingsworth are double cast as "Wowkle the Fox," an Indian squaw.

Curtain time for the GWC show is 8:15 p.m. with no seating for latecomers until intermission.

* * *

"Come Back, Little Sheba," the William Inge drama which won an Academy Award for its star, Shirley Booth, opens Friday at the Costa Mesa group's Community Center auditorium.

Directed by Pati Tambellini, resident director of the Civic Playhouse, the show stars Mary Macy as Lola and Don Rhoades as her alcoholic husband, Doc. Cherie Floyd is featured as the young coed boarder, Marie.

Completing the Costa Mesa cast are Carl Henger, Susie Scott, Bill Randol, Benny Jensen and Alan Sandquist.

"Sheba" will be on stage four days only — Friday through Monday — at 8:30 p.m. The playhouse, located on the west side of the Orange County Fairgrounds, is sponsored by the Costa Mesa Recreation Department.

* * *

Opening Friday for an even shorter run, two days, will be "On Borrowed Time," the annual senior play at Harbor High. Robert Wentz, recently seen in Laguna's "A Man for All Seasons," is directing.

The student cast includes Brad Brown and Laura Smith as the grandfather and grandmother, Sherwood Sharp as their grandson and Robert Mathison as "Mr. Brink," the messenger of death.

Others in the cast are Janice Morisette, Judy Sherman, Sandy Caudell, Anita Prigmore, Nancy Wells, Robert Lewis, Robert Hammel, Misty Adams, Helen Taylor, Patsy Ober, Roger Boyd and Bob de Malignon.

Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. at the auditorium, 15th Street and Irvine Avenue, Newport Beach.

* * *

CURTAIN CALLS — Resuming its six - week run Thursday is South Coast Repertory's production of Harold Pinter's "The Caretaker," directed by Martin Benson with John Arthur Davis, Don Tuche and David Clements comprising the cast.

ENTERTAINMENT

Christmas Symphony On Tonight

A symphonic feast of lights and sounds will hearld the beginning of the holiday season in Orange County tonight with the presentation of a Christmas concert by the Orange County Symphony Orchestra in Santa Ana's Fashion Square.

Entitled "Symphony of Lights," the 7 p.m. concert will be under the direction of Eugene Ober, with the Chorale Sinfonia of Orange County led by Jack Coleman. There is no admission charge.

Featured during the evening will be the dedication of the "Symphony of Lights" Christmas tree to the Symphony Association. Used to open the holiday season on the White House lawn in 1961, this "tree of lights" electronically changes its palate of color to the sounds of music.

Traditional Christmas music has been programmed for the evening. Narrator for the concert will be Larry Grannis of radio station KWIZ.

The program, inaugurated last season, also will signal the mailing of the Symphony Christmas Seals to 50,000 county residents. The seals, a major source of popular support for the Orange County Symphony Orchestra, are available for $1.

Donations may be sent to the Symphony Association of Orange County, 777 S. Main St., Orange.

Westminster Tryouts Set

The Westminster Players will hold readings for their next production, William Inge's "Come Back, Little Sheba," tonight and Sunday at the 17th St. Auditorium at Westminster Avenue and Hoover Street.

Clay Phillips will direct the drama, which requires a cast of eight men and three women. Tryouts will be conducted at 7:30 tonight and 2 p.m. Sunday.

The play is scheduled to open Jan. 27 for a three-weekend run.

Is He Serious?

International Flair Marks UCI Offerings

The University of California, Irvine, takes on an international flavor this weekend with the presentation of an Italian opera, a German movie and a lecture by a Mexican poet.

"The Secret Marriage," a comic opera by Domenico Cimarosa, will be presented Friday night at the UCI Studio Theater.

Sponsored by the UCI Committee for Arts and Lectures, the production is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Admission is $3 for the general public and $1.50 for students.

"Die Fledermaus," the second in a series of German language films, will be shown Saturday and Sunday evenings by the UCI German Club.

The Johann Strauss operetta with English subtitles will be shown in the UCI science lecture hall at 7:30 p.m. Tickets and series passes may be obtained at the door or by contacting the club at the department of foreign languages.

Mexican poet Sergio Mondragon will lecture and give poetry readings in Spanish Tuesday, Dec. 6, at the UCI fine arts building, room 1616.

Chiefs Warn

Beware, Charity Rackets

By JACK BROBACK
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange Coast police chiefs today warned citizens to be wary of Christmas charity rackets as one Harbor Area man reported he had already been victimized by telephone solicitors.

Costa Mesa Chief Roger Neth said, "Our department does everything possible to apprehend these con artists, but it is the citizen who can do most to nip their schemes in the bud."

A Costa Mesa real estate developer, M. Michael, 1686 Tustin Ave., said today that he was certain he had been victimized three times in recent weeks.

'GOOD STORY'

"People have called on the telephone saying they represent various veterans and charity groups and are conducting a drive for funds," Michael related.

"They tell a good story and make an appointment to pick up a check. They leave no telephone number for you to call them and do not want you to deliver the money," Michael continued.

"I donated money after three such calls and found that they were all cashed at the same liquor store by the same man, although in some cases a woman picked up the check," he added.

Monday Michael was called by a man purportedly soliciting for the Junior Chamber of Commerce. He checked with the local Jaycees and they told him that they were not conducting a charity drive.

"This happens every year," said Newport Beach Police Chief James Glavas. "Every solicited person should make sure that a charity appeal is legitimate before they contribute."

CAUTION

John Seltzer, Huntington Beach chief, and Chief Harry LaBrow of Laguna Beach, added their words of caution.

"These unsavory characters take advantage of the Christmas spirit to bilk the unwary," they chorused. "The people must help us fight these rackets."

The Orange Coast chiefs also warned against pickpockets, shoplifters and bad check artists who take advantage of the Christmas shopping throngs to ply their illegal trade.

Orange Coast Flying Saucer on Wheels?

Well, not exactly. DAILY PILOT staff photographer Lyle Haigh figured for a few moments that he'd actually caught up with the little green men from elsewhere. Lamentably, the wheeled saucer turns out to be a manure spreader, usually operating on Gothard Street near Warner Avenue in Huntington Beach.

HB Council Turns Down Restaurant

The lot at the corner of Ocean Avenue and 5th Street in Huntington Beach remains vacant today following a City Council denial of a plan to build a drive-through restaurant at the location.

The decision to deny the restaurant was on a 4-3 vote of councilmen and based on a "holding zone" recently placed on the downtown and waterfront while a master plan of development is being drawn.

Neal T. Baker Enterprises of San Bernardino asked the council to direct the building department to issue building permits for the small restaurant.

The applicant explained that he had placed the matter before the building department long before the council passed the holding zone ordinance and that when he went to pick up the permits he was told the holding zone precluded building without council approval.

Property owner Charles Sarrabere, through an attorney, said on the basis of law existing at the time plans were filed, he had icvested more than $3,000.

The money was spent in tearing down existing structures and clearing the site for the proposed restaurant, he said.

Mayor Jake Stewart and Councilmen Jack Green, Al Coen and Dr. Henry Kaufman voted against allowing the drive-through restaurant. Councilmen Ted Bartlett, Ernest Gisler and Dr. Donald Shipley voted for approval.

The attorney for Sarrabere claimed the council action is taking away a man's property without due process of law. Gisler, who voted for the holding zone oridnance, said he did not realize at the time the ordinance "takes a man's property away," and vowed he would not vote for any urban renewal plan.

The holding zone was imposed by the council in order to prevent building that might later be out of step with future over-all development of downtown.

Cherubs Sing

The 100-voice Cherub Choir of James Madison Elementary School in Santa Ana will present a special program of Christmas music Dec. 6 at 8 p.m. in the St. Clement's By-the-Sea Episcopal Church, 202 Aragon, San Clemente.

Sponsored by the San Clemente American Association of University Women, the meeting will be entitled "A Young View of Christmas," announced branch President Mrs. Jack Walker.

News of Coast Men in the Service

Ensigns Simeon Baldwin III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Baldwin Jr., 1359 Cliff Drive, Laguna Beach, and Charles W. Kewish, USNR, son of Mr. C. H. Kewish, 265 Labrea, Laguna Beach, have completed the Basic Naval Aviation Officer's School at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

Seaman Apprentices Thomas R. Groseclose, USCG, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Groseclose, 1111 Park St., Huntington Beach, and Edwin A. Meserve, USCG, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Meserve, 106 Via Genoa, Newport Beach, have completed eight weeks of intensive training at Alameda in the work of a coast guardsman.

They received training in boatmanship, visual signaling, infantry drill, personal hygiene, and history and traditions of the Coast Guard.

Seaman Recruit Richard L. Runyan, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Runyan, 3041 Grant Ave., Costa Mesa, is undergoing nine weeks of basic training at the San Diego Naval Training Center. Navy classification tests later will determine whether he will be assigned to a school, shore station or ship after his graduation.

Marine Pvt. James W. Dooley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley L. Dooley, 517 Emerald Bay, Laguna Beach, has been graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the San Diego Marine Corps Recruit Depot. The now faces four weeks of individual combat training and four weeks of basic specialist training.

Pvt. William S. Sloan, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max L. Sloan, 1751 Pitcairn Drive, Costa Mesa, recently completed a radio relay and carrier operation course at the Army Southeastern Signal School, Ft. Gordon, Ga.

Radarman 3.C. Terrance A. Fitzsimmons, USN, son of Madrid of Huntington Beach, is serving as a crewmember aboard the seaplane tender USS Salisbury Sound which recently returned to the U.S. after a 10-month deployment in the Far East.

During the cruise the Salisbury Sound operated four seadrones in Cam Ranh Bay, Vietnam.

Radarman 3.C. Terrence A. Fitzsimons, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan R. Fitzsimons, 3078 Zell Drive, Laguna Beach, has departed Long Beach aboard the USS Benner on the first leg of a scheduled six-month deployment to the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific. The Benner, a 2250-ton destoyer, takes route first for the Hawaii area for some final training in anti-submarine warfare.

Marine Pvt. James O. Spaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Odis Spaw, 1994 Maple Ave., Costa Mesa, has been graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at San Diego.

His next assignment will be about three weeks of individual combat training.

Pfc. Darrel A. Kirkman, 22, son of Mrs. Dorothy V. King, 2332 15th St., Newport Beach, has been assigned to the 173rd Airborne Brigade in Vietnam. Pvt. Kirkman, a helicopter repairman, was last stationed at Ft. Eustis.

Marine Pvt. James W. Dooley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley L. Dooley, 517 Emerald Bay, Laguna Beach, has been graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the San Diego Marine Corps Recruit Depot.

He will now undergo four weeks of individual combat training and four weeks of basic specialist training.

Pvts. Steven S. Zieg, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford V. Zieg, 956 Junipero Drive, Costa Mesa, and Lawrence M. Larson, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin P. Larson, 3209 Vermont Ave., Costa Mesa, have completed eight weeks of advanced infantry training at Ft. Ord.

Planners Discuss Downtown

The future of downtown Huntington Beach and what part the federal government will play in that future is the topic for a special meeting of the City Council Thursday.

Councilmen and representatives of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and members of the city staff and Urban Land Institute Citizens Steering Committee will discuss steps involved in applying for a federal planning grant.

The session will be held at 7:30 p.m. in council chambers of Memorial Hall, 5th Street and Magnolia Avenue.

City officials have met previously with HUD representatives, but this will be the first session since the survey of downtown commercial area revealed the area as qualifying for federal urban renewal funds.

The area in question is roughly bounded by the ocean on the south, First and Lake streets on the east, Palm Avenue on the north and the alley between 7th and 8th streets on the west.

A HUD expert made a walk-through survey of the area recently and found that more than 20 percent of the old buildings deviate substantially from accepted fire, building and zoning codes.

Armed with this information, the next step, if the city intends to redevelop the area, is to look into federal funds for surveys and planning.

Even with swift action by the city, funds for planning are not expected to be available for at least two years.

If the city does receive federal planning funds, the money would not have to be repaid should the council later decide not to go ahead with redevelopment, one-fourth of the money would be repaid to the federal government.

Funeral Set On Thursday For Mesan

Funeral services will be held Thursday, 10 a.m. at Christ Lutheran Church, Costa Mesa, for Mary Elden Lassiter who died Monday at her home after an apparent heart attack. She was 55.

A resident of Costa Mesa for 20 years, Mrs. Lassiter is survived by her husband, Edward, and a son, James, of the family home, 2183 Puente, Costa Mesa; two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Galoede and Mrs. Laura Kraft; one brother, Phillip Scheib, all of Iowa.

The Rev. L. D. Tornow will officiate at the services. Interment will follow at Harbor Rest Memorial Park, Costa Mesa.

Arrangements are under direction of Bell Broadway Mortuary, Costa Mesa.

Buddhism To Be Topic

"Zen Buddhism" will be the topic for the Huntington Beach Community lecture series event Thursday night and will be discussed by Dr. James Catanzaro, Golden West College social sciences division chairman.

The series, co-sponsored by the Huntington Beach Public Library and the College, is held in council chambers of Memorial Hall, 5th Street and Magnolia Avenue.

Lectures are free and open to the public.

AN OPEN LETTER

TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA HOUSEWIVES

The public announcement in yesterday's news media that some supermarket chains are discontinuing games is the most gratifying piece of information we could hope for.

We, like the countless thousands of you, didn't like and don't like games! We never felt that games had a place in the merchandising program of Alpha Beta.

But we did take one on--we did offer EVERY customer an opportunity to win at least $1.00 with our Cash-A-Check—we did it as a defense measure to protect our business. Our decision to enter the "game rat race" wasn't made on the spur of the moment, nor was it made immediately when we found ourselves faced with this new competition. We thought about it a great deal and for a very considerable time. We finally introduced Cash-A-Check on July 13, 7 months after "Bonus Bingo," 4¼ months after "Let's Go To The Races", and 6 months after "Match & Win."

And we were the first to announce the discontinuance of our game program in our ads which appeared last week in which we indicated that no more Cash-A-Check cards would be issued after November 23.

As you've read in the news media, as you've heard in arguments raised in defense of the retail food industry, it isn't the cost of games that increases the cost of food. There are many and other factors—the higher cost of farm and all other labor, the continued rising costs of transportation, the higher overall costs of doing business, increased taxation, the absorption of former food surpluses in this country by the underdeveloped nations—all of these and more have contributed and are contributing to the higher cost of food.

Alpha Beta makes this pledge to you: we will continue with our 56 year old policy of offering you, our customers, quality products at the lowest prices consistent with good business practice.

Rat Patrol Wages War On Ships

By DICK EMERY

LONG BEACH (AP) — There's a grim little crew of 14 men prowling the harbor's ships looking for rats.

They don't find many. But they keep on looking.

On only seven ships, out of nearly 600, did they find rats in a whole year of inspecting. That was fiscal '65. The year before, they had found 14 ships infested.

"Not badly infested either," said Frank E. Newport, a Long Beach resident, supervisory quarantine inspector of the United States Public Health Service. He heads the crew which checks incoming ships and planes, too, for threats to America's health.

UGLY NAMES

The threats have ugly names — names like plague, typhus, malaria, yellow fever, smallpox, cholera.

"The ships on which we found rats we rated at the 1-to-20 level. That is not more than 20 rats," said Newport.

Each of those ships was pulled away from the dock and the rats were trapped and poisoned.

"We know in advance which ships have touched at plague ports — ports where rats might have bome aboard," Newport said.

"Ports in Asia are suspect — Vietnam ports especially.

"We dispatch a quarantine inspector to the ship or plane. He meets it as it arrives — not an hour or so later.

NO ILLNESS

"It is his job to see that the ship brings no illness into the country.

"He checks immunization documents. He looks for apparent symptoms of illness among crew and passengers. If he suspects a medical problem to exist, we can put a doctor on the spot in minutes. The inspector vaccinates against smallpox.

"He examines the ship's rat - inspection certificate — called a de-ratting exemption certificate — which must be renewed each six months. He may inspect the ship's galley and cargo holds and other parts of the vessel.

"Only when he is satisfied that no health threat exists does he release the crew and passengers."

BUBONIC PLAGUE

Of all threats posed by incoming foreign shipping the worst is bubonic plague.

"Bubonic plague is caused by a bacillus, Pasteurella pestis, which is carried by fleas, and when an infected flea bites a man, the man is infected with a disease which, within two to six days may cause him to drop suddenly in his tracks and never get up.

"There is no good lasting preventive for bubonic plague."

"So we war on rats to stop the flea," Newport said.

"There is no health problem in a healthy rat anymore than in a healthy cat or dog. The problem is the flea. So we fight by relentless inspections, by trapping and poisoning and by fumigation of the whole ship if necessary.

"Most ships are clean. Japanese and Scandinavian ships are scrupulously clean. But the Greeks and the English aren't so careful. Old tramp freighters can be pest holes — filthy, dirty, garbage-littered, without even hot water for dishwashing — and on such old ships we find rats."

"There's an old sea saying that a rat leaves a doomed ship," said Newport. "I don't know about that; but this we do know — that a rat will do his best to leave a dry, clean ship. He can't find anything to eat or drink and he'll leave it as soon as he can.

"Rats come aboard — and leave, too, with cargo. Ratguards on hawsers won't keep rats on or off a ship. Our city ordinance requiring ratguards on hawswers are not enforced.

"So we encourage shippers to improve sanitation on ships to use traps and poison always, and to rat-proof the galleys and storerooms and other places to eliminate nesting places."

The harbor's crew of 14 Public Health Service inspectors do their never-ending checking of incoming ships under the direction of Dr. Donald A. St. Claire, medical officer in charge of the federal service's Division of Foreign Quarantine at the Federal Building in San Pedro.

In both Long Beach and Los Angeles harbors, other experts have been given the job of keeping piers and warehouses rat-free. The two cities have made their harbors unfriendly to rats — with traps and poison and other anti-rat measures.
