SLICK WAY TO CURTAIL SPREAD OF OIL ON COAST
Barrier of Barrels, Plywood, Canvas Readied for Louisiana

Offshore Oil Well Blast May Cause 'Worst' Spill

VENICE, La. (UPI) — Firefighters prepared today to blow out a 27-day-old blaze on an offshore platform with a dynamite charge that could cause the nation's worst oil spill.

Calm seas and gentle breezes greeted workmen early today and they began preparing the 200-pound explosive charge to cap what has been called the worst offshore oil fire in history.

Putting out the blaze 30 miles offshore was only the first problem. The most difficult will be controlling an expected deluge of crude oil pollution after the fire is out.

An Interior Department spokesman said Chevron Oil Company's "Charlie" structure was believed capable of spewing anywhere from 900 to 8,000 barrels of oil a day until its eight damaged wells are capped — an operation that may take up to three weeks.

By comparison, the Santa Barbara Channel oil spill in California amounted to about 8,000 barrels of oil that leaked to the surface and stained beaches over a month-long period.

The recent oil slick that gummed Tampa Bay, Fla., was only 350 barrels.

Texas wild well firefighters working for Paul "Red" Adair have been ready for more than a week to detonate an explosion to put out the fire and begin the tricky process of installing shutoff valves to the ruptured well heads. But small craft warnings, high winds and seas up to 11 feet postponed the shot for the past few days.

Once the fireball that has been consuming the high pressure natural gas and oil from the wells is doused federal and state officials and Chevron crews will make the first rough estimate on the volume of oil being spilled.

At that point, Chevron will activate the world's first oil pollution control system designed to function in the open sea.

It will be the first test to see if hundreds of men working with barges, specially designed floating booms, newly developed oil skimmers and other equipment can contain a large spill and vacuum it out of the water before it reaches shore.

Crime Suspects Testing Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration proposed legislation Monday to subject suspects in federal crimes to fingerpringting and other detective tests such as saliva and blood checks even before being formally charged.

The Supreme Court has held that such identification procedures do not violate the consittutional guarantee against self-incrimination but only in cases involving suspects already charged.

The administration proposal would extend such tests to persons suspected of crimes in cases where there is no probable cause to arrest. The tests would be administered only upon issuance of a court order.

If enacted by Congress, a federal judge, commissioner or magistrate could order a suspect in a federal criminal case to submit to identification by "fingerprints, palm prints, foot prints, measurements, blood specimens, urine specimens, saliva samples, hair samples, handwriting exemplars, voice samples, photographs and lineups."

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said in a letter of transmittal to the House and Senate that the proposed law "will provide federal law enforcement officers with a useful new tool for the investigation of criminal activity and the apprehension of criminals."

Teen Youth Faces SA Kill Charge

Police will seek a murder complaint today against Paul A. Ruiz, 18, of Santa Ana, in the shooting death early Saturday of a 12-year-old girl, the innocent victim of a gang fight.

Officers allege Ruiz was one of several youths who drove to the Hernandez home and engaged in a fight with one of the victim's brothers, Pete Hernandez, 20.

Police said during the fracas Ruiz and his companions got back into their car and a shot was fired through a window of the vehicle striking the girl who was standing in the driveway.

A preliminary autopsy report by the coroner's office indicated that the girl bled to death from a gunshot wound in the chest. Services will be held tonight and Tuesday for Gloria V. Hernandez of 4901 6th Street.

Grunion Hit Beach Tonight

The elusive grunion may slide in on the tide to spawn on beaches tonight.

It is always problematical when the slippery silversides will find conditions to their liking but those who chart the tides say any of the next four nights could bring a grunion hunter's payoff.

The small fish come in at high tide. Peak tide tonight is 10:24 p.m. Tuesday night it will be 11 p.m., Wednesday night 11:36 p.m. and early Friday morning 12:24 a.m.

The next possible dates for grunion spawning are March 25 to 28.

Two laws apply to grunion hunting. One is the fish may not be netted or trapped but must be caught with the hands. The second law is that anyone over 16 years of age must have a fishing license to catch grunion as any other fish.

Cyclists' Party Raided

Police Arrest 108 in Holy Jim Canyon Revelry

Orange County taxpayers provided the hangover brunch for 108 partying motorcycle gang members Sunday, after lawmen raided an unholy revel in Holy Jim Canyon, 20 miles east of El Toro.

Most of the 73 men and 35 women were booked into Orange County Jail for investigation of disturbing the peace, and immediately posted bail on the misdemeanor.

A haul of marijuana and other drugs, plus an assortment of 22 illegal weapons — including shotguns, swords and a medieval mace — plus allegedly stolen vehicles led to 29 additional bookings.

"Everybody was pretty well drunk," observed one sheriff's deputy who participated in the massive raid after dozens of complaints by campers and cabin dwellers in the rustic, wooded canyon.

First lawmen on the scene called in reinforcements, including 17 sheriff's deputies and California Highway Patrol officers, plus three buses to transport the suspects.

Sheriff's Lt. Ted Dwyer said three groups of residents who live in the usual sanctity of Holy Jim Canyon iled in fear for their lives and safety.

Representatives gathered in a remote corner of scenic O'Neill Park for the revelry included the Outlaws, the Gents, the Nuggets and the Hessians, investigators said.

Despite the low bail set for disturbing the peace and being drunk in public, a large number of cyclists and hangers-on found themselves stranded after release by impounding of vehicles.

A number of cars and motorcycles are being checked out as possibly stolen, authorities said today.

Possession of pistols, shotguns, knives and other deadly weapons classed as illegal led to stiffer charges against 22 persons, while another seven face charges for drugs and marijuana.

Woman Tries Chute Jump From Crippled Plane, Dies

Never before aloft in a small plane, a young Tustin woman photographer died Saturday when she tried to parachute from the disintegrating skydivers' special over Perris, in Riverside County.

Her husband watched in horror from the ground as the 22-year-old victim, her chute snagged on the tail, plunged to earth.

The pilot, who also bailed out, was hit by the falling plane on the way down and critically injured, while four sky diving enthusiasts had already parachuted routinely.

Madeline M. Matthews, an insurance company employe, was killed instantly, and William R. Scherer, 26, of Santa Ana, was listed today in guarded condition at Riverside Community Hospital.

He suffered severe head injuries when struck by debris, or the plane itself, according to authorities probing the tragedy.

Mrs. Matthews' husband David, a Marine assigned to El Toro MCAS, watched the tragedy unfold.

The single-engine Stinson, specially outfitted for parachuting sport, took off earlier in the day with four skydivers aboard.

Mrs. Matthews had never been up, but went along to photograph their dramatic leaps, her grief-stricken husband revealed afterward.

Structural difficulty developed after the four divers had jumped and Mrs. Matthews tried to bail out, but opened her parachute prematurely.

The tail of the plane snagged it, ripping a gaping hole in the silk.

County Worker Sixth in Race

The list of candidates seeking the post of Fifth District supervisor grew to six Saturday, when Ted Crisell, a county probation department employe from Costa Mesa, entered the race.

Crisell, 23, of 1723 Samar Drive, said he feels there is "a great need for young people to become a part of the decision-making process."

He was student body president at Orange Coast College, student president of the Chapman College world campus afloat and a Freedom Foundation award winner.

Only two other candidates have formally feild for the post held by Alton E. Allen, but three others have indicated their intention to do so.

Filed so far are the incumbent candidate and Cris C. Cris, of Huntington Beach. Others who are expected to enter the race are Robert M. Wilson, Costa Mesa vice mayor, Ronald Caspers Newport Beach financier and Anthony Tarantino, San Clemente businessman.

Tarantino has spearheaded a recall campaign against Allen, filing more than 10,000 signatures last week on petitions required for the action.

Quiet Time by the Sea

Like a magnet, sunset over tranquil sea draws Orange Coast family to cliff overlooking beach to stroll, to watch nature's work, to feel the afternoon breeze, to listen to the surf and, maybe, to hurl a stone or two at a receding wave.

35 Truckloads of Rock Save Threatened Homes

Two homes and a lot on an erosion plagued section of Beach Road in Capistrano Beach survived the weekend well, residents said today, but it took 35 truckloads of granite to do the job.

John Reynard, 35787 Beach Road, owner of two of the endangered parcels, said tons of granite boulders which he ordered "are working just fine."

Late last week Reynard's two homes and a lot owned by a neighbor next to them near the Poche beach were hit hard by heavy surf borne on high tides.

A large section of nearly new sea wall fell under the battering seas and emergency crews worked throughout Thursday staving off erosion with hundreds of sandbags.

Reynard then hired a contractor and ordered truckloads of granite from a west Riverside quarry.

The last loads are due to arrive through today.

The weekend surf and tide conditions worked in favor of the beachfront homeowners, with only light surf and moderately high tides reported.

The original estimates of damage in the erosion incident have not yet been tabulated, because the total cost for the expensive boulders has not been received.

"They started dumping them in front of the three spots before the weekend and they just work great — like a small jetty, and they soften the waves really well," Reynard said this morning.

"I don't know how much it's going to cost, but it will be worth it if the work saves the homes. It's not really that much when you figure it," he added.

Air-sea Search Being Conducted For Lost Vessel

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter and surface craft out of Oceanside Harbor today are searching an area off San Onofre for a 22-foot outboard boat reportedly in trouble.

A search of the area 1½ miles southwest of the atomic power plant Sunday night turned up no sign of the distressed boat.

Coast Guard officials said the Harbor Police at Oceanside monitored a "mayday" call from a Citizens Band radio at 6:52 p.m. but the call was not from the distressed boat.

A Coast Guard helicopter was sent aloft at 6:50 p.m. and Oceanside surface craft searched the area until nearly midnight.

Authorities this morning were trying to locate the originator of the citizens band report.

Heckler Gets In on Arrests

Attempting to arrest two out-of-town youths late Friday, Laguna Beach narcotics officers Norman Babock and Neil Purcell extended their endeavor to include a partygoer who allegedly shouted obscenities to discourage them.

The two officers followed Ronald William McAdoo, 20, of Inglewood, and Dennis I. Tremblay, 20, of Anaheim, from the Taco Bell to the 100 block of Sunset Terrace, where the arrests were made.

When a group of guests at a party in the area emerged to watch the action, the officers also booked Charles Carl Coleman, 25, of 155 Sunset Terrace, on a charge of disturbing the peace.

McAdoo is charged with possession of marijuana, Tremblay with possession and sale of the drug.

2 Girls Admit $8,000 Spree Of Vandalism

Jealous of the "pretty things," a Garden Grove school secretary's children bragged of having, two girls aged 8 and 13 have confessed an $8,000 vandalism spree at the family's home.

The school principal traced down the suspects by studying absentee lists of schools serving the neighborhood on Feb. 25, the date of the destruction.

Orange County Probation Department employes will question the girls March 18 about the case, to determine just what charges will be lodged against them.

They confessed under questioning to the vandalism committed at the home of Mrs. Marian Ryan, a secretary at Violette Elementary School in Garden Grove.

Firemen sent tothe home found a play table burning, plus rooms flooded by water, furniture slashed and food scattered on floors and walls.

Violette Elementary School Principal Kenneth Boyce said the girls admitted playing hooky and going to Mrs. Ryan's home for the senseless rampage.

They told him the Ryan children bragged of "having pretty things."

Talk Scheduled By Mrs. Hanson

Mrs. Carole Hanson, wife of Vietnam POW Marine Capt. Steve Hanson, will be featured speaker at the Constructive Action Council meeting of Laguna Hills March 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Royal Savings and Loan Association, El Toro.

Mrs. Hanson of 24112 Birdrock Dr., El Toro and three other POW wives recently completed a world tour in an effort to focus world attention on the plight of American POWs and bring pressure on Hanoi to conform to the Geneva Convention calling for humane treatment of prisoners.

Council president Earl M. Rees said all residents of the Laguna Hills area are invited to attend. For further information call 837-4123.

Utt Field Office Will Close Soon

Conrad Epley, field representative to the late Congressman James B. Utt, said today the 35th congressional district field office will close within the month.

Pending matters will be referred to Robert A. Geier, administrative assistant to the late Republican congressman in the Washington, D.C. office. Epley said Geier and the Washington staff will continue to handle 35th district business until a successor is elected and seated in the House of Representatives.

New business should be directed to the attention of Mr. Geier, 2346 Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20515.

Chain Reaction

Motorist Has Smashing Time

A funny thing happened to Jerry D. Ainsworth on the way to Costa Mesa police headquarters early Sunday to report several traffic accidents.

He had another one, investigators said.

The 26-year-old Downey man, who faces a variety of charges today, knocked down a street light standard in front of the station as helpless officers watched from inside.

Officer Don Casey — into whose waiting arms the suspect finally collapsed — said several persons who preceded Ainsworth to report the series of mishaps also witnessed his fifth or sixth.

Known casualties of his meandering drive so far include two One-Way signs, a traffic signal, a telephone pole and the street light at 99 Fair Drive.

Police are not overlooking the possibility of additional damage reports yet to come from various points on Fairview Road between the San Diego Freeway and headquarters.

Officer Casey said Ainsworth had parked his by-then heavily damaged camper truck adjacent to police headquarters at 2:25 a.m. and was trying to lock the rear door when approached.

He fell backwards, right into the long arms of the law, according to the rather detailed report covering several pages.

The patrolman said his partners, Dick DeFrancisco and Rudy Malik, told him several citizens waiting in the lobby had additional information about the case.

Some had followed Ainsworth's truck, keeping a healthy distance — while others preceded him to the stationhouse, investigators said.

By the time the booking process was completed, Ainsworth faced charges including possession of dangerous drugs, possession of marijuana, drunken driving, drunk in public and hit-and-run.

The camper he was allegedly trying to lock up contained a quantity of suspected marijuana and assorted drug pills, plus a drunken companion who wasn't charged with anything.

"We thought he was dead," marveled one officer.

Sanitary District Meets On 'Cease, Desist' Order

Sunset Beach Sanitary District will call a special meeting to decide whether or not to comply with a state order to eliminate noxious odors from the Sunset Beach sewage treatment plant, Plant Superintendent Richard Harrison said today.

Although the date and time has not yet been fixed, he said it would probably take place this week.

"This decision has a definite bearing on all treatment plants," declared Harrison. "There is one in Fountain Valley and one in Newport Beach who have the same problem with odor due to the nature of the product."

The order to eliminate the smell emanating from the Pacific Coast Highway and Warner Avenue facility was issued Friday by the California Regional Water Quality Control Board, Santa Ana Region.

It acted on the basis of complaints by numerous Huntington Harbour residents who claimed the fumes were embarrassing to guests and created a general nuisance.

The board also heard testimony from county water pollution and air pollution inspectors who said light to moderate odors came from the plant during certain times of the day.

Harrison, however, contends that the board is without authority to act on matters pertaining to odor.

"This is a far reaching decision that would give the water quality control board authority to act on matters in the air when there are already state and county agencies governing air pollution."

The odors n the Huntington Harbour area, he claims, are not so much generated by the sewage treatment plant as by the reclaimed marshland on which the tract was built.

The board's order stipulates that the Sunset Beach Sanitary District comply "forthwith," which is interpreted by its legal staff to mean "immediate correction within physical and supply limitations."

U.S. Shuts Rhodesian Consulate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, refusing to recognize the new regime in Rhodesia, has instructed its consul in Salisbury to close the consulate on March 17, the State Department announced Monday.

The Rhodesian regime broke with the British crown on March 2. The new Rhodesian constitution transforming Rhodesia into a republic "constitutes the final and formal break with the United Kingdom," the State Department said.

It added that the United States continues to regard Britain as the lawful sovereign there.

"In the above circumstances, we have instructed our consul in Salisbury to begin arrangements for closing as of March 17 and for the departure of the staff."

Consul Paul O'Neill and a staff of six will return to Washington for reassignment, officials said.

Consular services for the early 1,000 American citizens will be handled in neighboring countries by U.S. consultates in Johannesburg, South Africa, or Blantyre in Malawi.

Copter Makes Hasty Landing

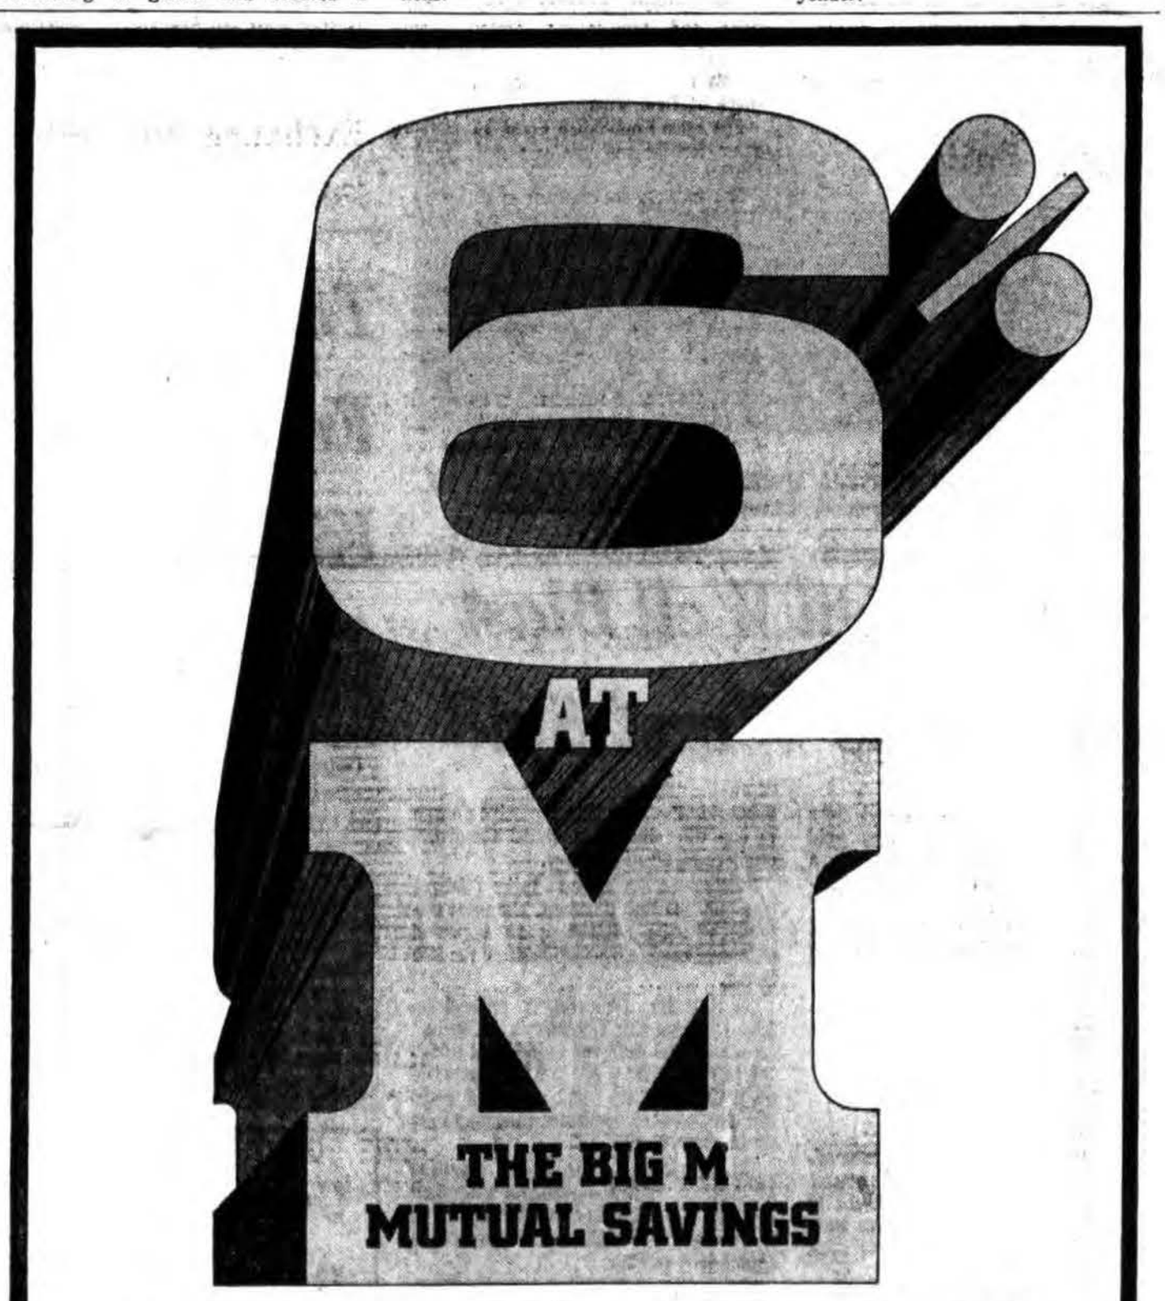

A descending National Guard helicopter produced a short-lived crash scare in San Clemente Sunday, but fortunately its hasty landing on a golf course green was only due to a minor emergency.

Police said they received calls at 11:30 a.m. about the chopper landing on the 11th green of the Municipal Golf Course. Patrolmen investigating the reports indeed found a helicopter there, but the craft seemed intact.

The crew of the helicopter, flying out of Long Beach, told officers a sliding window blew off the machine in flight and struck a rotor.

They landed the chopper to make sure the damage was not severe, the crewmen said.

Minutes after the landing, the helicopter left the green for the wild blue yonder.

Los Alamitos Station Could Be a Giveaway

Scheduled for phase-out within 15 months, Los Alamitos Naval Air Station could be given away free if transformed into a public use facility such as a civilian airport or college campus.

Congressman Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) made the announcement today on the status of the sprawling station, largest in the Naval Air Reserve program.

Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird confirmed last week that Los Alamitos will be eliminated from military use by June 30, 1971, opening its eventual fate to widespread speculation.

Federal agencies will retain first rights to the property, but state, county and city governments in the surrounding area may be able to acquire some of it, Hosmer said today.

But other military services and various branches of the government get first claims, he pointed out with strong emphasis.

"There isn't going to be any Cherokee Strip land grab," he added.

The Defense Department must still determine after deadline set for closure of the base whether it should be kept within the realm of military control.

If not, it will be released to the General Services Administration.

"At that point, the property is up for grabs by other federal departments and agencies," Congressman Hosmer explained.

"And in land-short Southern California, we must reckon with the possibility that part or all of it will be claimed for other federal requirements."

Hosmer said the GSA would then determine the best use of the land and establish its value to guide setting the price for disposal — which could be quite low.

Local public agencies are allowed a 50 percent cut if the surplus land is used for parks and recreation, or 100 percent if it is used for public health, education or an airport.

The Long Beach legislator has said he will support the conversion of Los Alamitos to parks and recreational use, but would fight its use as a commercial airport.

The facility has been suggested in recent months as a commercial airport supplementing Orange County and nearby Long Beach Airport, drawing much protest from citizens and public officials.

Odor Order

Sewage District To Decide Steps

Sunset Beach Sanitary District will call a special meeting to decide whether or not to comply with a state order to eliminate noxious odors from the Sunset Beach sewage treatment plant, Plant Superintendent Richard Harrison said today.

Although the date and time has not yet been fixed, he said it would probably take place this week.

Beach Resident Dies in Crash, Wife Injured

A Huntington Beach man was killed and his wife injured in a two-car crash Sunday near Lost Hills in western Kern County.

Clarence F. Halverson, 65, of 16562 Sabot Lane, was dead on arrival at Kern General Hospital. Mrs. Halverson was undergoing tests at the hospital this morning to determine whether she should be detained for treatment.

A passenger in Halverson's car, Truman J. Lortz, 72, of Williamsburg, Iowa, also was killed.

The accident occurred on State Route 46 near the California aqueduct. Highway Patrol officers reported that another car struck Halverson's from behind causing it to run off the roadway and roll over.

The driver of the second car, Arthur M. Simpson, 41, of San Luis Obispo, was not injured. His wife received minor injuries, but she was released from Kern General Hospital this morning.

Zone Violation Sentence Given

Suspended sentences totalling 30 days in jail and $100 in fines were issued Friday against a Huntington Beach service station operator who had violated city zoning codes by maintaining large signs and ouside storge of tires and automobiles.

Municipal Court Judge Kenneth Lae suspended the seven counts against Richard Parry provided he comply with the code. He also placed him on one year's summary probation.

Parry operates the B&W Texaco and the Five Points Texaco service stations, both on Beach Boulevard.

Parry has maintained the zoning laws are unconstitutional. He could not be reached for comment this morning.

Bills Affecting Harbor District Heard March 13

State hearings on two bills affecting the Orange County Harbor District have been switched from Thursday to March 13 in Sacramento, at the request of the Orange County League of Cities.

One bill, introduced by Assemblyman John V. Briggs (R-Fullerton), calls for a vote of the people to decide if the Harbor District should be retained, expanded or dissolved.

Another bill, authored by Assemblyman Ken Cory (D-Anaheim), simply requests the state Legislature to expand the duties of the Harbor District without a vote of the people.

"We asked for the change in hearing dates because the League of Cities already has a meeting this Thursday," said Huntington Beach Mayor Jack Green, who is president of the League.

The Orange County League of Cities is on record favoring the Briggs bill and letting the people decide he Harbor District's future.

Briggs said anyone interested in the Harbor District question is invited to the hearing at 1:45 p.m., March 19, room 2133, State Capitol.

Ex-Huntington City Attorney Plunkett Better

Former Huntington Beach city attorney Jerry Plunkett is reported to be in good condition today at Westminster Community Hospital following a fall Friday morning in which he suffered a fractured skull and concussion.

The 47-year old lawyer fell backward onto the concrete sidewalk while rushing to West Orange County Municipal Court, according to Lt. John McIntyre of the Orange County Marshal's Office.

Plunkett and his wife, Marian, operate a private law firm at 412 Olive Ave., Huntington Beach, and make their home in Tustin.

He served as Huntington Beach city attorney from 1961 to 1966.

Panther Rips Jury

Roster System Blast Delays Trial

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Arthur DeWitte League's lawyer today branded California's jury selection system as unconstitutional and imposed what is expected to be at least a three-day delay in the murder trial of the accused Black Panther.

League, 20, of Santa Ana, is accused of the shooting last June 4 of Santa Ana police officer Nelson Sasscer. It is alleged that the Negro militant gunned down the patrolman after he was ordered to produce identification.

Attorney Robert Greene asked Judge Samuel Dreizen to rule that the picking of a jury from the roster of names assigned to the court for the League trial would amount to denial of a fair trial for his client.

Those names, Greene said, are selected from Orange County's voter registration lists and do not reflect a true cross-section of the community.

Greene wants a jury picked from "the community as a whole and not under a system which denies my client a fair trial under any of the provisions envisaged by our law — among them economic, racial and political factors."

Greene's motion ended a two-hour delay in opening of the trial and was being debated at press time. Judge Dreizen delayed summoning of the first panel of prospective jurors until the motion is decided.

Greene indicated that he would have further motions to offer following settlement of his challenge of the jury system.

Among spectators in the courtroom today was Daniel Michael Lynem, 21, also a member of the Black Panther organization and the man who was cleared of the murder charges now faced by League.

A heavily reinforced detachment of sheriff's officers turned away more than 100 persons from the courtroom door after the 75 seats in Judge Dreizen's courtroom were quickly occupied this morning.

All persons entering the courtroom, with the exception of witnesses and the press, were carefully searched before they were allowed to take their seats.

There were no incidents other than loud complaints from several persons who wished to view the murder trial.

Black Panther literature was distributed in the courthouse corridor to all persons entering Judge Dreizen's courtroom.

Transit District Turns Down Plea For Beach Route

Automobile-less residents who had hoped for a city bus service that could carry them to shopping facilities in north Huntington Beach may have to wait a little longer.

That, in essence, was the determination of the Southern California Rapid Transit District (RTD) which ruled that establishment of a line would not have sufficient passenger patronage "to justify the costs."

C.J. Holzer, associate transportation engineer for the RTD, informed Huntington Beach Planning Director Ken Reynolds by letter that the cost for provision of service would be in excess of $330 per day and would require more than 1,100 daily rides to meet expenses.

The decision was reached following an RTD study of the proposed route beginning at Pacific Coast Highway and Main Street, running along Main Street and up Beach Boulevard to Warner Avenue, Springdale Street, McFadden Avenue, Golden West Street, Edinger Avenue and back onto Beach Boulevard to Bolsa Avenue.

Jerry Murphy, associate planner for the City of Huntington Beach, said the request was generated by requests from "people who wanted to get to Huntington Center from the downtown area."

He said that many of the downtown residents either don't drive or own cars. A bus line would have afforded them the opportunity to shop there, he said.

U.S. Admits 27 Laos Casualties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has conceded 27 Americans, including a U.S. Army captain cut down by North Vietnamese machine gun fire, have been killed in Laos by Communist ground action since June, 1962.

The casualties are among the almost 400 Americans, most of them airmen, who have been officially reported killed during the eight years of America's semisecret involvement in the Laotian conflict.

Disclosure of the casualties was made Sunday by a White House official following a news report that Capt. Joseph K. Bush Jr. was killed during a North Vietnamese guerrilla attack on a Laotian military headquarters Feb. 11, 1969.

The disclosure brought into question the accuracy of a key portion of President Nixon's report to the nation Friday on the limits of U.S. activities in Laos.

In the report, Nixon confirmed officially for the first time what already was widely known — U.S. warplanes were making bombing raids in support of Prince Souvanna Phouma's Royal Laotian Army and along the Ho Chi Minh Trail which funnels men and supplies frnm North Vietnam through East Laos into war zones in South Vietnam.

But in seeking to allay fears the United States is drifting into another Southeast Asian land war, Nixon also said there were no American ground combat troops in Laos beyond 643 Americans, both military and civilian, who help train, equip and advise the Laotian army. He added:

"No American stationed in Laos has ever been killed in ground combat operations."

Assistant Press Secretary Gerald Warren told reporters at Nixon's vacation home in Key Biscayne, Fla., the President was not aware of Bush's death when he made the report.

A White House official said, however, Nixon was aware of the other 26 casualties suffered from such hostile actions as ambushes, booby traps, long range shelling and ground fire at helicopters.

Beach Chamber To Urge Delay On Buildings

The Chamber of Commerce tonight will ask Huntington Beach councilmen to hold up on the civil improvements program.

The $13.3 million program for a new civic center, library, fire stations and corporation yard will be reviewed in a council study session tonight, beginning at 7:30.

The councilmen will ponder the priority of each project and then consider ways of paying for it.

Ralph Kiser, chamber of commerce manager, said the chamber's executive committee had decided to ask the council for a 60 or 90-day delay on the project. "We'll recommend that a study be made on whether the program should be implemented and if so how it should be financed," Kiser said.

The committee decided to seek a delay after the 300-odd members of the chamber were polled for their views on the improvements.

Kiser added that his executive committee would meet late this afternoon to decide on names of those it will recommend for the study group.

Two plans have been suggested for financing the improvements. The administrative staff wants to see a joint cash and bond program over a 15-year period. Cost of this scheme is estimated at $18.9 million.

Another proposal that has been discussed is a full bond program over 25 years. The cost of this plan has been figured at $28.7 million.

Fairy R. Orens Succumbs at 77

Mrs. Fairy R. Orens, a resident of Huntington Beach for half a century, died Friday at Huntington Intercommunity Hospital. She was 77.

Funeral services for Mrs. Orens will be held Tuesday at 1 p.m. at Smith's Mortuary Chapel. Burial will follow at Westminster Memorial Park.

Mrs. Orens, who lived at 811 California St., is survived by her husband, William, a daughter, Wanda Hanson and a sister Violet White of Huntington Beach. She also leaves two other sisters, Leona Haslem of Santa Maria and Ivy Burton of Taft.

Grunion Hit Beach Tonight

The elusive grunion may slide in on the tide to spawn on beaches tonight.

It is always problematical when the slippery silversides will find conditions to their liking but those who chart the tides say any of the next four nights could bring a grunion hunter's payoff.

The small fish come in at high tide. Peak tide tonight is 10:24 p.m. Tuesday night it will be 11 p.m., Wednesday night 11:36 p.m. and early Friday morning 12:24 a.m.

The next possible dates for grunion spawning are March 25 to 28.

Two laws apply to grunion hunting. One is the fish may not be netted or trapped but must be caught with the hands. The second law is that anyone over 16 years of age must have a fishing license to catch grunion as any other fish.

Cyclists' Party Raided

Police Arrest 108 in Holy Jim Canyon Revelry

Orange County taxpayers provided the hangover brunch for 108 partying motorcycle gang members Sunday, after lawmen raided an unholy revel in Holy Jim Canyon, 20 miles east of El Toro.

Most of the 73 men and 35 women were booked into Orange County Jail for investigation of disturbing the peace, and immediately posted bail on the misdemeanor.

A haul of marijuana and other drugs, plus an assortment of 22 illegal weapons — including shotguns, swords and a medieval mace — plus allegedly stolen vehicles led to 29 additional bookings.

"Everybody was pretty well drunk," observed one sheriff's deputy who participated in the massive raid after dozens of complaints by campers and cabin dwellers in the rustic, wooded canyon.

First lawmen on the scene called in reinforcements, including 17 sheriff's deputies and California Highway Patrol officers, plus three buses to transport the suspects.

Sheriff's Lt. Ted Dwyer said three groups of residents who live in the usual sanctity of Holy Jim Canyon fled in fear for their lives and safety.

Representatives gathered in a remote corner of scenic O'Neill Park for the revelry included the Outlaws, the Gents, the Nuggets and the Hessians, investigators said.

Despite the low bail set for disturbing the peace and being drunk in public, a large number of cyclists and hangers-on found themselves stranded after release by impounding of vehicles.

A number of cars and motorcycles are being checked out as possibly stolen, authorities said today.

Possession of pistols, shotguns, knives and other deadly weapons classed as illegal led to stiffer charges against 22 persons, while another seven face charges for drugs and marijuana.

U.S. Shuts Rhodesian Consulate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, refusing to recognize the new regime in Rhodesia, has instructed its consul in Salisbury to close the consulate on March 17, the State Department announced Monday.

The Rhodesian regime broke with the British crown on March 2. The new Rhodesian constitution transforming Rhodesia into a republic "constitutes the final and formal break with the United Kingdom," the State Department said.

It added that the United States continues to regard Britain as the lawful sovereign there.

"In the above circumstances, we have instructed our consul in Salisbury to begin arrangements for closing as of March 17 and for the departure of the staff."

Consul Paul O'Neill and a staff of six will return to Washington for reassignment, officials said.

Consular services for the early 1,000 American citizens will be handled in neighboring countries by U.S. consultates in Johannesburg, South Africa, or Blantyre in Malawi.

Youth Named First Boys Club 'Boy of the Year'

A 15-year-old boy who sweeps off the basketball court, cleans the stairway and helps on special projects without asking, "what do I get for it?" deserves some kind of award.

Friday night he got it. Ralph Palomares was named "Boy of the Year" at the first annual awards dinner of the Huntington Beach Boys' Club, 319 Yorktown St.

"Ralph has been one of our steadiest members. He works willingly without being asked and he participates in almost all activities," Pat Downey, director of the club, said today.

Ralph's award was the top one of several given out at the Boys' Club to outstanding young men.

Jon Sampson, 10, was another award winner as he was named Citizen of the Year for "always smiling."

Other winners included Wayne Peabody, 12, games room boy of the year who shoots a good game of billiards; John Palomares, 11, craftsman of the year who turns excellent wood salad bowls on the club lathe; Patrick L. Downey, 9, sportsman of the year and a fine wrestler; John Drake, 15, who won honors in judo for his determination, and Larry Espitia, 14, most improved boy.

Three volunteer judo instructors, Ivor Gitsham, Takesie Kawahara and Dusty Moore, received plaques for their efforts.

Art Gillespie, who helped found the Boys' Club in 1967, was given the man-boy award for giving the most to the Boys' Club effort.

The Key Club from Huntington Beach High School served the spaghetti dinner to more than 65 guests at the Boys' Club banquet. The dinner was cooked by the Villa Sweden Restaurant with desert and drinks provided by Jay Mastroianni.

New officers installed Friday night included Al Klingensmith, president; Bill Woods, vice president; Ray Beam, secretary and Polly Tolson, treasurer, for the board of directors.

Guests of honor were Mayor Jack Green and Police Chief Earl Robitaille.

John Wayne Hosts Envoy; Congo Mine Deal Looms?

Congo's ambassador to the United States was entertained in the Newport Beach homes of actor John Wayne and Ernest Saftig over the weekend in a business deal courtship that has potentially millions of dollars hanging on the outcome.

Wayne and Saftig are principals in the Newport Beach-based Statesman Mining Company which is seeking mineral exploration rights to all of the Congo.

Congolese Ambassador Justin Bomboko made the visit to gather facts for a report to Congo President Joseph Mobutu.

"I think he was impressed we gave out friendship and good feeling toward him. Certainly he was relaxed with us," Saftig said.

He remarked that "from everything Bomboko indicated, I think we will hear from him very soon."

The principals in the Statesman Mining venture had heard last October they were awarded a Congolese license for exploring mineral rights and they thought they were in. Since then they have learned Congo law differs from U.S. law and there is a second phase after awarding of the rights. They are now awaiting a go ahead from President Mobutu.

In winning the license award, Statesman principals figured they had won out in competition with representatives of the Soviet Union, Red China and France.

Japanese, Belgian and French companies have small mineral concessions in the Congo but essentially the vast country, larger than the state of Alaska, is untapped.

"It may be the treasure house of the world," said Ed Smart, Aspen, Colo. resident who is president of Statesman Mining and was in Newport for the weekend talks. He said the Congo basin contains more mineral possibilities than anywhere else in the world.

If the firm gets the exploration go ahead the entire Congo will be surveyed by air. When geological equipment indicates a likely mining area a ground crew will be dispatched to the site.

Ambassador Bomboko, his First Counselor Charles Sumbu, and two Congolese secretaries stayed at the Newporter Inn. Saturday night they had dinner at John Wayne's home in Bayshores, Sunday they were taken on a boat tour of the harbor and coast by Wayne's friend Clement Hirsch, Sunday afternoon there was a business meeting, and Sunday evening a buffet dinner at Saftig's Lido Isle home which 35 attended.

College Theater Tour Helped Out By Jr. Women

Golden West College's children's theater group went on the road for the first time this weekend with special performances in Anaheim and San Diego.

The trip was made possible by a $75 gift to the college drama department by the Huntington Beach Junior Women's Club.

The students performed an original children's play, "The Case of the Golden Bagel," at Baden Powell School in Anaheim, and the San Diego Public Library and San Diego Children's Theater.

The play was written by Peter Conway, a former Golden West student now studying at Fresno State College.

Drama instructor Charles Mitchell was accompanied by Kris Wilson, Renata Florin, Roland Barajas, Barbara Shores, Marion Christie, Larry Goldberg and Laurel Burne, all of the children's troupe.

Losers Eat Beans In Club Contest

A Friday the 13th banquet of beans will be served up to half the members of the Fountain Valley Exchange Club who lost an eight-week membership drive contest to the other half.

Besides eating beans and humble pie Friday night at Francois in Huntington Beach the losers must pay for steak and all the trimmings for the winning team, according to club secretary Bernie Beausang.

The losing team was appropriately called "The Pea Pickers" while the winners were known as "The Harvesters."

Fountain Valley's Exchange Club has 27 members. Seven new men were drawn to the club during the recent membership drive.

Pay-as-you-go Trustees Topic

Trustees will tackle the touchy issue of pay-as-you-go school construction when the Huntington Beach City School District Board meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Dwyer School library.

Two weeks ago the board decided not to ask for a $1.50 increase in the tax rate on April 1st to support school construction for five years. Now trustees will consider placing the same issue on a June ballot along with a request to increase the interest rate on $4.75 million in already approved school bonds.

The two issues are alternatives, and if the school bonds can be sold a pay-as-you-go system will not be necessary, according to district officials.

'Firebug' Firemen

Planned Blazes Provide Practice

"It's much harder to burn a house down intentionally than to do it accidentally."

That's the opinion of Capt. Jim Vincent, of the Huntington Beach Fire Department, who last year lined up more than 25 homes for firemen to burn down.

Friday, crews from four Huntington Beach fire companies fought a blaze they set at 17071 "B" St. after the owner had asked them to demolish it.

"It's hard to fight a fire if you don't know its behavior," explained Battalion Chief Frank Kelly.

Kelly directed Friday's fire fighting as new firemen — and old — studied various patterns of a blaze in an old frame structure.

Igniting the blaze is a task given to older hands who first study a house that the owner wants destroyed, decide if it has training value for the fire department — just any house won't do — then prepare the house so it will burn a certain way.

"We have to knock a few holes in the roof to make it burn rapidly. Then we might stack some old furniture in one pile and throw kerosene on it to launch the blaze," Vincent explained.

"Sometimes we have dummies we hide in the house. Then we tell the ifremen there are people inside — go get them. Some of our dummies are lost when they burn up," Kelly added.

When bright red flames begin licking at the sides of the home, firemen are sent into action.

"First they have to knock down the fire by throwing a fine spray of water on it," Kelly said. The fine spray creates steam which smothers the flames. In a real fire they use this method to avoid heavy smoke and water damge.

"But in the training fire we don't continue the steam treatment. We let the flames erupt again to give the men practice," Kelly said.

What the firemen watch for are smoke patterns (where it goes) and how the fire burns. They also learn that different smoke colors indicate how hot the blaze is.

Rescue patterns are practiced when the fire cools down a little. "We always pick the heaviest man to be a victim for the men to carry out," Vincent said.

When the building is burned to the ground it is up to the owner to haul the ashes away — which is considerably cheaper than the cost of destroying a home.

Protection in the form of a fine water spray is provided for nearby homes and plants not being burned.

"About 15 minutes of hard fire fighting equals eight hours of activity," Kelly said, as he wiped the sweat from his brow.

After Friday's fire curious neighbors were shown the fire engines and their operation was explained to the youngsters by Vincent, who handles much of the public relations work for the department.

Blood Tests, Prints Asked For Suspects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration proposed legislation Monday to subject suspects in federal crimes to fingerpringting and other detective tests such as saliva and blood checks even before being formally charged.

The Supreme Court has held that such identification procedures do not violate the consittutional guarantee against self-incrimination but only in cases involving suspects already charged.

The administration proposal would extend such tests to persons suspected of crimes in cases where there is no probable cause to arrest. The tests would be administered only upon issuance of a court order.

If enacted by Congress, a federal judge, commissioner or magistrate could order a suspect in a federal criminal case to submit to identification by "fingerprints, palm prints, foot prints, measurements, blood specimens, urine specimens, saliva samples, hair samples, handwriting exemplars, voice samples, photographs and lineups."

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said in a letter of transmittal to the House and Senate that the proposed law "will provide federal law enforcement officers with a useful new tool for the investigation of criminal activity and the apprehension of criminals."

Oil Blaze Battled

Blast May Cause Worst U.S. Slick

VENICE, La. (UPI) — Firefighters prepared today to blow out a 27-day-old blaze on an offshore platform with a dynamite charge that could cause the nation's worst oil spill.

Calm seas and gentle breezes greeted workmen early today and they began preparing the 200-pound explosive charge to cap what has been called the worst offshore oil fire in history.

Putting out the blaze 30 miles offshore was only the first problem. The most difficult will be controlling an expected deluge of crude oil pollution after the fire is out.

An Interior Department spokesman said Chevron Oil Company's "Charlie" structure was believed capable of spewing anywhere from 900 to 8,000 barrels of oil a day until its eight damaged wells are capped — an operation that may take up to three weeks.

By comparison, the Santa Barbara Channel oil spill in California amounted to about 8,000 barrels of oil that leaked to the surface and stained beaches over a month-long period.

The recent oil slick that gummed Tampa Bay, Fla., was only 350 barrels.

Texas wild well firefighters working for Paul "Red" Adair have been ready for more than a week to detonate an explosion to put out the fire and begin the tricky process of installing shutoff valves to the ruptured well heads. But small craft warnings, high winds and seas up to 11 feet postponed the shot for the past few days.

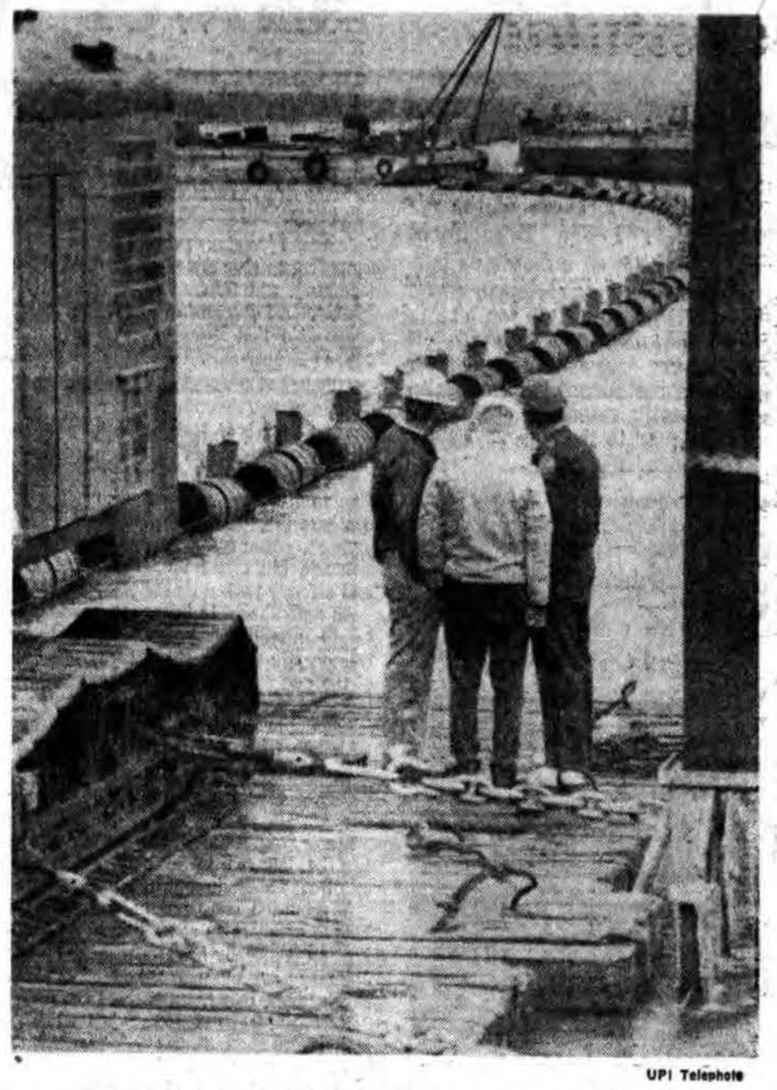

Once the fireball that has been consuming the high pressure natural gas and oil from the wells is doused federal and state officials and Chevron crews will make the first rough estimate on the volume of oil being spilled.

At that point, Chevron will activate the world's first oil pollution control system designed to function in the open sea.

It will be the first test to see if hundreds of men working with barges, specially designed floating booms, newly developed oil skimmers and other equipment can contain a large spill and vacuum it out of the water before it reaches shore.

The Interior Department has said it thinks Chevron has done all it possibly could to control the anticipated spill. A spokesman said Chevron has the capability to scoop up as many as 20,000 barrels of oil a day.

The question was whether wave action would toss the oil over the barriers set up to contain it.

Air-sea Search Being Conducted For Lost Vessel

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter and surface craft out of Oceanside Harbor today are searching an area off San Onofre for a 22-foot outboard boat reportedly in trouble.

A search of the area 1½ miles southwest of the atomic power plant Sunday night turned up no sign of the distressed boat.

Coast Guard officials said the Harbor Police at Oceanside monitored a "mayday" call from a Citizens Band radio at 6:52 p.m. but the call was not from the distressed boat.

A Coast Guard helicopter was sent aloft at 6:50 p.m. and Oceanside surface craft searched the area until nearly midnight.

Authorities this morning were trying to locate the originator of the citizens band report.

U.S. Laos Bombing Raids Said Causing Red Pullback

VIENTIANE (UPI) — Intelligence sources said today there are indications the North Vietnamese are pulling away from two U.S. support bases because of supply problems caused by American bombing.

The guerrilla troops who took the Plain of Jars three weeks ago advanced southward to within striking distance of the bases at Long Cheng and Sam Thong and were expected to attack.

Instead, according to these sources, Gen. Vang Pao, the commander of Laotian troops in the area, has received reports they are pulling back because they cannot get enough rice or munitions.

The reason given for this is the U.S. bombing campaign against Highway 7, the North Vietnamese supply lifeline from Hanoi, and against supply routes leading south from the Plain of Jars.

Long Cheng and nearby Sam Thong lie about 30 miles south of the plain, Long Cheng serving as Vang Pao's headquarters and as the site of a vital U.S. support and advisory base for Laotian government troops.

Despite the pullback reports, U.S. embassy officials canceled a scheduled visit by newsmen today to Sam Thong, citing "bad security." Newsmen said it was because the officials did not want them to see what is going on there.

The Communist Pathet Lao commented on one of the secrecy-shrouded aspects of the U.S. operation, claiming that 12,000 Thai troops now are fighting in Laos, at least 5,000 of them in the Plain of Jars region.

Self-immolation Victim Critical

An Anaheim woman remains in critical condition today in the burn unit of Orange County Medical Center where she was taken Saturday night after setting fire to herself with paint thinner, police reported.

Mrs. Margaret E. Houston, 46, of 9532 Rosebay Drive, is suffering from third degree burns over most of her body.

Officers said she poured the paint thinner over the upper part of her body and set it afire. The blaze was put out by her daughter Ellen, 14.

Police Say 82 Pets Too Many

Johnny Whiteriver, an unemployed clown living in Santa Ana, told police he and his wife were used to sharing their 35-foot house trailer with their pets — all 82 of them.

Police decided it was cruelty to the pets which include three 200-pound bears, a burro, a wallaby, an ocelot, a bobcat, three goats, two opossums, a monkey, three peacocks, 13 dogs, four cats, six pigeons, five doves, three rabbits, five guinea pigs, nine chickens, two geese, 16 quail, two desert turtles and a duck.

Whiteriver, 35, was held today on traffic warrant violations as authorities prepared charges against him for cruelty to animals, possession of wild animals within the city limits and owning unlicensed dogs.

Utt Field Office Will Close Soon

Conrad Epley, field representative to the late Congressman James B. Utt, said today the 35th congressional district field office will close within the month.

Pending matters will be referred to Robert A. Geier, administrative assistant to the late Republican congressman in the Washington, D.C. office. Epley said Geier and the Washington staff will continue to handle 35th district business until a successor is elected and seated in the House of Representatives.

New business should be directed to the attention of Mr. Geier, 2346 Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20515.

President Plans Change In Foreign Aid Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon plans to propose a new foreign aid plan based on a report which recommends scrapping traditional foreign assistance programs and establishing a multibillion dollar lending fund for developing nations.

The fund, as outlined by a 16-man task force appointed by the President in September, would inlude:

—$2 billion for a new U.S. development bank. The money would be appropriated by Congress and the bank would have the power to borrow $2 billion from the public if needed.

—$1 billion for a new U.S. international development institute which would try to make progress in using scientific and technical know-how to build up developing nations.

—An increase from $500 million to $1 billion in the amount of money the United States spends each year contributing to international finance institutions. The amount would be spread over a three-year period.

Nixon, in a statement issued at the Florida White House Sunday just before he returned to Washington, did not endorse specifics in the task force report. But he said:

"A new approach to foreign assistance, based on the proposals of the task force, will be one of our major foreign policy initiatives in the coming years. I believe its ideas are fresh and exciting."

Nixon said the United States "has a profound national interest in cooperating with developing countries in their efforts to improve conditions of life in their societies." He said he would send a proposal based on the recommendations to Congress next January.

The task force was headed by Rudolph A. Peterson, board chairman of the Bank of America. It urged that the Agency for International Development be gradually dismantled and its duties absorbed by various new organizations which would be under the supervision of the State Department.

Linked to Rights

Barry, Ted Back Lower Vote Age

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Senate maneuvering over Negro voting rights legislation, the issue of lowering the voting age to 18 was raised anew today by two senators poles apart politically.

A Senate judiciary subcommittee called a hearing to give Sens. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), and Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.), a chance to advance their arguments that Congress can give the vote to 18-year-olds.

Although Goldwater and Kennedy agree on this, they differ on whether it should be made part of legislation to prevent denial of voting rights because of race.

The legislation is embroiled in a dispute between senators who want to continue the 1965 Voting Rights Act, applying to seven Southern states, and a nationwide bill urged by President Nixon and already passed by the House.

An amendment to lower the voting age to 18 already has been offered by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. One of the co-sponsors is Kennedy, the assistant Democratic leader.

But Goldwater says the proposal should be handled as a separate measure rather than entangled in the already sharp controversy over the voting rights legislation.

Many senators maintain the voting age can be lowered to 18 only by a constitutional amendment.

A proposed constitutional amendment lists 67 senators as co-sponsors and hearings on it already have been held by the Judiciary subcommittee, headed by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

However, Bayh signed up last week as one of 10 co-sponsors of Mansfield's amendment to the voting rights bill. An aide to Sen. Marlow W. Cook (R-Ky.), a subcommittee member, said he also has concluded the voting age can be lowered by statute and plans to introduce a separate bill.

In the Senate, where debate on the voting rights legislation began a week ago, supporters of a straight-out extension of the 1965 act have kept the upper hand so far.

A motion to tabi. the extension bill was rejected, as were two amendments offered by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., to ease the law's impact on the South.

The 1956 act suspended voter literacy tests and authorized the use of federal registrars in six Southern satates and parts of a seventh. It also requires these states to obtain advance approval for voting law changes from the U.S. attorney general.

The administration bill, which Southern senators prefer as the lesser of evils, drops this pre-clearance requirement and provides for uniform nationwide application of other parts of the 1965 act.

Peace Plan Ignores Arab Land Demand

PARIS (UPI) — Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann said today the Big Four were working on a new Middle East peace formula that no longer calls for unconditional Israeli evacuation of territories it seized from the Arabs in the 1967 war.

Schumann, addressing a foreign press luncheon, said he hoped the Big Four would agree on the formula, which also would send United Nations troops into the area again and create a demilitarized zone between Israeli and Arab forces.

In the past, the Soviet Union and France have demanded total withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied territories before there can be any negotiations — the position the Arabs have taken. Israel maintains it cannot withdraw until there are negotiations.

Authoritative diplomatic sources in Cairo said today France had proposed a plan which called for Israeli withdrawal linked with a pledge by the Arab nations to maintain peace. A second part of the plan deals with the Palestinian refugee problem and with setting up recognized frontiers, the sources said.

Schumann made a sweeping review of world problems and results of the visit he and President Georges Pompidou made to the United States. In the review he said President Nixon admitted that France might play a specific role in helping to bridge differences over the Vietnamese conflict.

Kidnap Victim Says Guerrillas Eying Hostages

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — Sean Michael Holly's kidnapers told them they have other American diplomats in mind for use as hostages to exchange for imprisoned Communist terrorists.

Holly, the labor attache and second secretary at the U.S. embassy, was freed at 5 a.m. Sunday in exchange for two jailed guerrillas, Jose Manuel Aguirre Monzon and Vidalina Monzon Soto.

His abductors had demanded the release of four jailed comrades by 2:30 p.m. Sunday or said Holly would be killed. It turned out one of the four already had fled to Mexico and another was freed earlier in the week and had taken refuge in the Costa Rican embassy.

Aguirre and Miss Monzon joined Lionel El Cid in the Costa Rican diplomatic enclave and all three were granted safe conduct passes to Mexico.

Holly, 39, told an impromptu news conference he would not recognize the men who seized him from his car Friday at an intersection because they wore hats and masks throughout the ordeal.

"They said they had their eye on other officers in the embassy and that they would have killed me if I had tried to run," he said.

He said they took his glasses and blindfolded him before beginning the journey to a mountain hideout by car, on foot and on horseback. The abductors carried machine guns.

Once Aguirre and Miss Monzon were freed, the kidnapers brought Holly back to Guatemala City early Sunday and left him in the Church of the Divine Providence with instructions not to call anyone for an hour.

The hour up, "The first thing I did was to call my wife, Rebecca," Holly said. The couple has five children. He spoke to newsmen at the U.S. embassy following a tearful reunion with the family.

5 Russ Advisers Killed in Egypt

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

A reliable Beirut publication reported during a weekend of Arab-Israeli clashes on three fronts that five Russian advisers serving with Egyptian troops have been killed in Israel air strikes.

In Cairo today, memorial services were held for Gen. Abdel Moneim Riad who was killed exactly one year ago by Israeli mortar fire on the second day of Egypt's "war of attrition" against Israel.

The steady increase in air and ground actions since has brought the Middle East to the brink of a new all-out war. The situation was worsened recently by accelerated Arab guerrilla activities from Lebanon.

Greenbacks Raised

Box Social Plans Grow

A green scene is being planned by members of Las Flores Women's Club when they invite their husbands to the club's first social event of the year.

A box social will take place in the Huntington Beach home of Mrs. Virgil Komara at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 14.

St. Patrick's Day theme will be carried out in decorations and the unique box lunches which will be auctioned. Proceeds from the sales will be used to finance various programs throughout the year.

Assisting Mrs. Komara with preparations will be Mrs. Harry Winchell and Mrs. Jack Johnston, and in addition to surprise entertainment, members will be taught the Irish jig.

Mrs. Rol White, secretary, recently presented a check to Walter Johnson of the Huntington Beach Library to purchase children's books for the library's bookmobile. The club also makes an annual scholarship contribution.

IN JIG TIME — Whipping up box suppers which will be auctioned during a Saturday, March 14, social party are (left to right) Mrs. Frank Pellkofer, president; Mrs. Joseph Valinsky, secretary, and Mrs. Virgil Komara, treasurer of Las Flores Women's Club. Proceeds from the auction will be used to finance the club's many projects for the coming year.

LUCKY STEPS — Members of the South Coast Junior Woman's Club will follow the shamrocks when they conduct a door-to-door campaign for new members Tuesday, March 17. Joining the search are (left to right) Mrs. Carl Cleary and Mrs. Dick Trodick, membership director.

Juniors Expand

Shamrocks will shine along the way when members of the South Coast Junior Woman's Club of Fountain Valley circulate St. Patrick's Day greetings during a door-to-door campaign for new members.

The good luck encountered in past endeavors will be described to all women between the ages of 18 and 35 as the Juniors explain their purpose, major activities and philanthropies.

In addition, an invitation to attend the group's general meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 25, in the community center will be issued by Mrs. Dick Trodick, membership director.

The meeting will celebrate the club's fourth birthday and all past presidents and coordinators will be honored.

Also in conjunction with the membership drive, Mrs. Trodick is planning a tea at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 6, in the community center.

All women interested in attending either of the functions are invited to call her at 893-6753.

Serving as president of the organization is Mrs. Jon McKibben. The Juniors were organized in 1966 with Mrs. William B. Hayes serving as charter president, and in 1967 were accepted in the Los Cerritos District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, Junior Membership.

Register's Ring Provides Reason for Celebration

Little Mermaid Guild members Mrs. William Thomas, Mrs. A. A. Dowers and Mrs. T. W. Welsh (left to right) have every reason to be jubilant. The Huntington Beach Guild presented Children's Hospital of Orange County with a check for $10,000, proceeds from their year's funding activities. The next meeting of the Little Mermaids takes place Tuesday, March 17, in the Welsh home when plans for a June home and garden show in Anaheim Convention Center will be discussed.

Dog Gone Laziness Replaces Bonnie's True Puppy Love

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 16-year-old daughter begged us for a puppy for her birthday. Bonnie promised to train him, walk him, feed him and be totally responsible for all his needs. So we bought Bonnie a Boxer puppy. She named him Plato.

Plato chews everything in sight and vomits all over. He has spotted the sofa, the living room chairs and ruined every rug in the house. The place smells like a kennel and no amount of airing seems to help.

Plato cries all night and no one can sleep — no one except Bonnie, that is. Nothing bothers her. She is in school all day so I'm the one who walks Plato and cleans up after him. When Bonnie does come home she is too busy on the telephone to feed her puppy so I have to do that, too.

Last night we had a heated argument and I told Bonnie I was giving Plato away. She became hysterical and made me feel like a murderer. I love my daughter and I don't want to break her heart. Please tell me what to do.

—NERVIS RECK

DEAR RECK: Do yourself, Plato and Bonnie a favor and give the puppy to people who will care for it properly. Bonnie has not kept her word. If you let her hysterics trap you into keeping the pup, you've got a geranium in your cranium, Lady.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's bookkeeper quit last May after working for him for five years. I was not unhappy about her leaving because she was such a trouble-maker and I never liked her.

Two weeks after Jennie quit, her husband came to the house on his lunch hour to tell me "something important." I almost died of shock when he told me Jennie was pregnant by my husband—and he was thrilled because he always had wanted a family and was physically unable to father a child. He then admitted it was HIS idea—that he had talked his wife into seducing my husband and he thought I ought to know the facts.

The baby is four months old now and from what I hear she is a very beautiful child.

I told my husband about the visit that very night. He denied everything—called the guy "nuts," and said Jennie was involved with another man in the company and that he had fathered the child.

The whole thing has made me physically ill. I believe my husband, but I keep wondering how much gossip there is. I want to leave town but my husband has a good job and it would mean starting over. We have three young children and I don't want them hurt by this. What should we do?—RICHMOND

DEAR RICHMOND: If you don't feel better in 60 days, I suggest you and your husband seriously consider moving to another city. Whatever he loses financially will be worth it in terms of your health and peace of mind for your family.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHAT TO DO?: It's time your neighbor found an unmarried "humanitarian" to cry on. Hand your husband the names of a counselor, a clergyman and a therapist and suggest that he give the list to the lady.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents . . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged by Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the DAILY PILOT, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped en[illegible]

Sagittarius: Forces Scattered

TUESDAY
MARCH 10

By SYDNEY OMARR

Scorpio is called the sexiest of the zodiacal signs. But if that is true, Leo runs a close second.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Money areas activated. Pay and collect debts. But not wise to lend. One who is aggressive makes numerous promises but may be covering up unfavorable points. Act accordingly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You asked for action — today you get plenty of it. There is change, variety, attention from others. You are in spotlight and cycle is high. Drive forward. But take care in traffic.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): One who is usually shy speaks up. Be cooperative. Realize some tempers are on edge. You may be the individual in the middle — one others regard as peacemaker. Play that important role.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Some friends appear hot-tempered. Realize clash of ideas is exciting but maintain self-control. Important issue can be settled without hurling of insults.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You get action through writing, publishing, advertising. Prestige rises; Aries individual can prove valuable ally today. Accept responsibility and you will gain reward.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Some ideas concerning vacation, long journey need further development. Give logic equal space with impulse. Then you avoid entanglement in embarrassing situation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Avoid argument with mate, partner over finances. Neither of you may have authority to do a thing. Realize this and be civil. Set example of maturity. Then you will be happy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Break indicated in relationship that previously survived severe bumps. Key is to realize fatigue might have much to do with emotions. Measure words, actions. Study Libra message.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Forces are scattered. People you depend upon could be absent. Some details are better left for another day. Watch diet. Take care of yourself. Pacing is important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Good lunar aspect today coincides with intense emotional reactions. Some young persons could make unjust accusations — has nothing to do with chronological age. Don't compound error.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friction indicated at home base. Be ready to contribute ideas. But also express willingness to listen. Member of opposite sex may be false-flattering you with definite motive in mind.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Please do not rush — not in writing, driving, giving answers to important questions. You exhibit tendency to be careless. Seek steadying influence — comes from family member.

Los Alamitos Station Could Be a Giveaway

Scheduled for phase-out within 15 months, Los Alamitos Naval Air Station could be given away free if transformed into a public use facility such as a civilian airport or college campus.

Congressman Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) made the announcement today on the status of the sprawling station, largest in the Naval Air Reserve program.

Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird confirmed last week that Los Alamitos will be eliminated from military use by June 30, 1971, opening its eventual fate to widespread speculation.

Federal agencies will retain first rights to the property, but state, county and city governments in the surrounding area may be able to acquire some of it, Hosmer said today.

But other military services and various branches of the government get first claims, he pointed out with strong emphasis.

"There isn't going to be any Cherokee Strip land grab," he added.

The Defense Department must still determine after deadline set for closure of the base whether it should be kept within the realm of military control.

If not, it will be released to the General Services Administration.

"At that point, the property is up for grabs by other federal departments and agencies," Congressman Hosmer explained.

"And in land-short Southern California, we must reckon with the possibility that part or all of it will be claimed for other federal requirements."

Hosmer said the GSA would then determine the best use of the land and establish its value to guide setting the price for disposal — which could be quite low.

Local public agencies are allowed a 50 percent cut if the surplus land is used for parks and recreation, or 100 percent if it is used for public health, education or an airport.

The Long Beach legislator has said he will support the conversion of Los Alamitos to parks and recreational use, but would fight its use as a commercial airport.

The facility has been suggested in recent months as a commercial airport supplementing Orange County and nearby Long Beach Airport, drawing much protest from citizens and public officials.

Odor Order

Sewage District To Decide Steps

Sunset Beach Sanitary District will call a special meeting to decide whether or not to comply with a state order to eliminate noxious odors from the Sunset Beach sewage treatment plant, Plant Superintendent Richard Harrison said today.

Although the date and time has not yet been fixed, he said it would probably take place this week.

"This decision has a definite bearing on all treatment plants," declared Harrison. "There is one in Fountain Valley and one in Newport Beach who have the same problem with odor due to the nature of the product."

The order to eliminate the smell emanating from the Pacific Coast Highway and Warner Avenue facility was issued Friday by the California Regional Water Quality Control Board, Santa Ana Region.

It acted on the basis of complaints by numerous Huntington Harbour residents who claimed the fumes were embarrassing to guests and created a general nuisance.

The board also heard testimony from county water pollution and air pollution inspectors who said light to moderate odors came from the plant during certain times of the day.

Harrison, however, contends that the board is without authority to act on matters pertaining to odor.

Beach Resident Dies in Crash, Wife Injured

A Huntington Beach man was killed and his wife injured in a two-car crash Sunday near Lost Hills in western Kern County.

Clarence F. Halverson, 65, of 16562 Sabot Lane, was dead on arrival at Kern General Hospital. Mrs. Halverson was undergoing tests at the hospital this morning to determine whether she should be detained for treatment.

A passenger in Halverson's car, Truman J. Lortz, 72, of Williamsburg, Iowa, also was killed.

The accident occurred on State Route 46 near the California aqueduct. Highway Patrol officers reported that another car struck Halverson's from behind causing it to run off the roadway and roll over.

The driver of the second car, Arthur M. Simpson, 41, of San Luis Obispo, was not injured. His wife received minor injuries, but she was released from Kern General Hospital this morning.

Zone Violation Sentence Given

Suspended sentences totalling 30 days in jail and $100 in fines were issued Friday against a Huntington Beach service station operator who had violated city zoning codes by maintaining large signs and ouside storge of tires and automobiles.

Municipal Court Judge Kenneth Lae suspended the seven counts against Richard Parry provided he comply with the code. He also placed him on one year's summary probation.

Parry operates the B&W Texaco and the Five Points Texaco service stations, both on Beach Boulevard.

Parry has maintained the zoning laws are unconstitutional. He could not be reached for comment this morning.

Bills Affecting Harbor District Heard March 13

State hearings on two bills affecting the Orange County Harbor District have been switched from Thursday to March 13 in Sacramento, at the request of the Orange County League of Cities.

One bill, introduced by Assemblyman John V. Briggs (R-Fullerton), calls for a vote of the people to decide if the Harbor District should be retained, expanded or dissolved.

Another bill, authored by Assemblyman Ken Cory (D-Anaheim), simply requests the state Legislature to expand the duties of the Harbor District without a vote of the people.

"We asked for the change in hearing dates because the League of Cities already has a meeting this Thursday," said Huntington Beach Mayor Jack Green, who is president of the League.

The Orange County League of Cities is on record favoring the Briggs bill and letting the people decide he Harbor District's future.

Briggs said anyone interested in the Harbor District question is invited to the hearing at 1:45 p.m., March 19, room 2133, State Capitol.

Grunion Hit Beach Tonight

The elusive grunion may slide in on the tide to spawn on beaches tonight.

It is always problematical when the slippery silversides will find conditions to their liking but those who chart the tides say any of the next four nights could bring a grunion hunter's payoff.

The small fish come in at high tide. Peak tide tonight is 10:24 p.m. Tuesday night it will be 11 p.m., Wednesday night 11:36 p.m. and early Friday morning 12:24 a.m.

The next possible dates for grunion spawning are March 25 to 28.

Two laws apply to grunion hunting. One is the fish may not be netted or trapped but must be caught with the hands. The second law is that anyone over 16 years of age must have a fishing license to catch grunion as any other fish.

Ex-Huntington City Attorney Plunkett Better

Former Huntington Beach city attorney Jerry Plunkett is reported to be in good condition today at Westminster Community Hospital following a fall Friday morning in which he suffered a fractured skull and concussion.

The 47-year old lawyer fell backward onto the concrete sidewalk while rushing to West Orange County Municipal Court, according to Lt. John McIntyre of the Orange County Marshal's Office.

Plunkett and his wife, Marian, operate a private law firm at 412 Olive Ave., Huntington Beach, and make their home in Tustin.

He served as Huntington Beach city attorney from 1961 to 1966.

Panther Rips Jury

Roster System Blast Delays Trial

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Arthur DeWitte League's lawyer today branded California's jury selection system as unconstitutional and imposed what is expected to be at least a three-day delay in the murder trial of the accused Black Panther.

League, 20, of Santa Ana, is accused of the shooting last June 4 of Santa Ana police officer Nelson Sasscer. It is alleged that the Negro militant gunned down the patrolman after he was ordered to produce identification.

Attorney Robert Greene asked Judge Samuel Dreizen to rule that the picking of a jury from the roster of names assigned to the court for the League trial would amount to denial of a fair trial for his client.

Those names, Greene said, are selected from Orange County's voter registration lists and do not reflect a true cross-section of the community.

Greene wants a jury picked from "the community as a whole and not under a system which denies my client a fair trial under any of the provisions envisaged by our law — among them economic, racial and political factors."

Greene's motion ended a two-hour delay in opening of the trial and was being debated at press time. Judge Dreizen delayed summoning of the first panel of prospective jurors until the motion is decided.

Greene indicated that he would have further motions to offer following settlement of his challenge of the jury system.

Among spectators in the courtroom today was Daniel Michael Lynem, 21, also a member of the Black Panther organization and the man who was cleared of the murder charges now faced by League.

A heavily reinforced detachment of sheriff's officers turned away more than 100 persons from the courtroom door after the 75 seats in Judge Dreizen's courtroom were quickly occupied, this morning.

All persons entering the courtroom, with the exception of witnesses and the press, were carefully searched before they were allowed to take their seats.

There were no incidents other than loud complaints from several persons who wished to view the murder trial.

Black Panther literature was distributed in the courthouse corridor to all persons entering Judge Dreizen's courtroom.

Transit District Turns Down Plea For Beach Route

Automobile-less residents who had hoped for a city bus service that could carry them to shopping facilities in north Huntington Beach may have to wait a little longer.

That, in essence, was the determination of the Southern California Rapid Transit District (RTD) which ruled that establishment of a line would not have sufficient passenger patronage "to justify the costs."

C.J. Holzer, associate transportation engineer for the RTD, informed Huntington Beach Planning Director Ken Reynolds by letter that the cost for provision of service would be in excess of $330 per day and would require more than 1,100 daily rides to meet expenses.

The decision was reached following an RTD study of the proposed route beginning at Pacific Coast Highway and Main Street, running along Main Street and up Beach Boulevard to Warner Avenue, Springdale Street, McFadden Avenue, Golden West Street, Edinger Avenue and back onto Beach Boulevard to Bolsa Avenue.

Jerry Murphy, associate planner for the City of Huntington Beach, said the request was generated by requests from "people who wanted to get to Huntington Center from the downtown area."

He said that many of the downtown residents either don't drive or own cars. A bus line would have afforded them the opportunity to shop there, he said.

U.S. Admits 27 Laos Casualties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has conceded 27 Americans, including a U.S. Army captain cut down by North Vietnamese machine gun fire, have been killed in Laos by Communist ground action since June, 1962.

The casualties are among the almost 400 Americans, most of them airmen, who have been officially reported killed during the eight years of America's semisecret involvement in the Laotian conflict.

Disclosure of the casualties was made Sunday by a White House official following a news report that Capt. Joseph K. Bush Jr. was killed during a North Vietnamese guerrilla attack on a Laotian military headquarters Feb. 11, 1969.

The disclosure brought into question the accuracy of a key portion of President Nixon's report to the nation Friday on the limits of U.S. activities in Laos.

In the report, Nixon confirmed officially for the first time what already was widely known — U.S. warplanes were making bombing raids in support of Prince Souvanna Phouma's Royal Laotian Army and along the Ho Chi Minh Trail which funnels men and supplies frnm North Vietnam through East Laos into war zones in South Vietnam.

But in seeking to allay fears the United States is drifting into another Southeast Asian land war, Nixon also said there were no American ground combat troops in Laos beyond 643 Americans, both military and civilian, who help train, equip and advise the Laotian army. He added:

"No American stationed in Laos has ever been killed in ground combat operations."

Assistant Press Secretary Gerald Warren told reporters at Nixon's vacation home in Key Biscayne, Fla., the President was not aware of Bush's death when he made the report.

A White House official said, however, Nixon was aware of the other 26 casualties suffered from such hostile actions as ambushes, booby traps, long range shelling and ground fire at helicopters.

Beach Chamber To Urge Delay On Buildings

The Chamber of Commerce tonight will ask Huntington Beach councilmen to hold up on the civil improvements program.

The $13.3 million program for a new civic center, library, fire stations and corporation yard will be reviewed in a council study session tonight, beginning at 7:30.

The councilmen will ponder the priority of each project and then consider ways of paying for it.

Ralph Kiser, chamber of commerce manager, said the chamber's executive committee had decided to ask the council for a 60 or 90-day delay on the project. "We'll recommend that a study be made on whether the program should be implemented and if so how it should be financed," Kiser said.

The committee decided to seek a delay after the 300-odd members of the chamber were polled for their views on the improvements.

Kiser added that his executive committee would meet late this afternoon to decide on names of those it will recommend for the study group.

Two plans have been suggested for financing the improvements. The administrative staff wants to see a joint cash and bond program over a 15-year period. Cost of this scheme is estimated at $18.9 million.

Another proposal that has been discussed is a full bond program over 25 years. The cost of this plan has been figured at $28.7 million.

Cyclists' Party Raided

Police Arrest 108 in Holy Jim Canyon Revelry

Orange County taxpayers provided the hangover brunch for 108 partying motorcycle gang members Sunday, after lawmen raided an unholy revel in Holy Jim Canyon, 20 miles east of El Toro.

Most of the 73 men and 35 women were booked into Orange County Jail for investigation of disturbing the peace, and immediately posted bail on the misdemeanor.

A haul of marijuana and other drugs, plus an assortment of 22 illegal weapons — including shotguns, swords and a medieval mace — plus allegedly stolen vehicles led to 20 additional bookings.

"Everybody was pretty well drunk," observed one sheriff's deputy who participated in the massive raid after dozens of complaints by campers and cabin dwellers in the rustic, wooded canyon.

First lawmen on the scene called in reinforcements, including 17 sheriff's deputies and California Highway Patrol officers, plus three buses to transport the suspects.

Sheriff's Lt. Ted Dwyer said three groups of residents who live in the usual sanctity of Holy Jim Canyon fled in fear for their lives and safety.

Representatives gathered in a remote corner of scenic O'Neill Park for the revelry included the Outlaws, the Gents, the Nuggets and the Hessians, investigators said.

Despite the low bail set for disturbing the peace and being drunk in public, a large number of cyclists and hangers-on found themselves stranded after release by impounding of vehicles.

A number of cars and motorcycles are being checked out as possibly stolen, authorities said today.

Possession of pistols, shotguns, knives and other deadly weapons classed as illegal led to stiffer charges against 22 persons, while another seven face charges for drugs and marijuana.

U.S. Shuts Rhodesian Consulate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, refusing to recognize the new regime in Rhodesia, has instructed its consul in Salisbury to close the consulate on March 17, the State Department announced Monday.

The Rhodesian regime broke with the British crown on March 2. The new Rhodesian constitution transforming Rhodesia into a republic "constitutes the final and formal break with the United Kingdom," the State Department said.

It added that the United States continues to regard Britain as the lawful sovereign there.

"In the above circumstances, we have instructed our consul in Salisbury to begin arrangements for closing as of March 17 and for the departure of the staff."

Consul Paul O'Neill and a staff of six will return to Washington for reassignment, officials said.

Consular services for the early 1,000 American citizens will be handled in neighboring countries by U.S. consultates in Johannesburg, South Africa, or Blantyre in Malawi.

Youth Named First Boys Club 'Boy of the Year'

A 15-year-old boy who sweeps off the basketball court, cleans the stairway and helps on special projects without asking, "what do I get for it?" deserves some kind of award.

Friday night he got it. Ralph Palomares was named "Boy of the Year" at the first annual awards dinner of the Huntington Beach Boys' Club, 319 Yorktown St.

"Ralph has been one of our steadiest members. He works willingly without being asked and he participates in almost all activities," Pat Downey, director of the club, said today.

Ralph's award was the top one of several given out at the Boys' Club to outstanding young men.

Jon Sampson, 10, was another award winner as he was named Citizen of the Year for "always smiling."

Other winners included Wayne Peabody, 12, games room boy of the year who shoots a good game of billiards; John Palomares, 11, craftsman of the year who turns excellent wood salad bowls on the club lathe; Patrick L. Downey, 9, sportsman of the year and a fine wrestler; John Drake, 15, who won honors in judo for his determination, and Larry Espitia, 14, most improved boy.

Three volunteer judo instructors, Ivor Gitsham, Takesie Kawahara and Dusty Moore, received plaques for their efforts.

Art Gillespie, who helped found the Boys' Club in 1967, was given the man-boy award for giving the most to the Boys' Club effort.

The Key Club from Huntington Beach High School served the spaghetti dinner to more than 65 guests at the Boys' Club banquet. The dinner was cooked by the Villa Sweden Restaurant with desert and drinks provided by Jay Mastroianni.

New officers installed Friday night included Al Klingensmith, president; Bill Woods, vice president; Ray Beam, secretary and Polly Tolson, treasurer, for the board of directors.

Guests of honor were Mayor Jack Green and Police Chief Earl Robitaille.

John Wayne Hosts Envoy; Congo Mine Deal Looms?

Congo's ambassador to the United States was entertained in the Newport Beach homes of actor John Wayne and Ernest Saftig over the weekend in a business deal courtship that has potentially millions of dollars hanging on the outcome.

Wayne and Saftig are principals in the Newport Beach-based Statesman Mining Company which is seeking mineral exploration rights to all of the Congo.

Congolese Ambassador Justin Bomboko made the visit to gather facts for a report to Congo President Joseph Mobutu.

"I think he was impressed we gave out friendship and good feeling toward him. Certainly he was relaxed with us," Saftig said.

He remarked that "from everything Bomboko indicated, I think we will hear from him very soon."

The principals in the Statesman Mining venture had heard last October they were awarded a Congolese license for exploring mineral rights and they thought they were in. Since then they have learned Congo law differs from U.S. law and there is a second phase after awarding of the rights. They are now awaiting a go ahead from President Mobutu.

In winning the license award, Statesman principals figured they had won out in competition with representatives of the Soviet Union, Red China and France.

Japanese, Belgian and French companies have small mineral concessions in the Congo but essentially the vast country, larger than the state of Alaska, is untapped.

"It may be the treasure house of the world," said Ed Smart, Aspen, Colo. resident who is president of Statesman Mining and was in Newport for the weekend talks. He said the Congo basin contains more mineral possibilities than anywhere else in the world.

If the firm gets the exploration go ahead the entire Congo will be surveyed by air. When geological equipment indicates a likely mining area a ground crew will be dispatched to the site.

Ambassador Bomboko, his First Counselor Charles Sumbu, and two Congolese secretaries stayed at the Newporter Inn. Saturday night they had dinner at John Wayne's home in Bayshores, Sunday they were taken on a boat tour of the harbor and coast by Wayne's friend Clement Hirsch, Sunday afternoon there was a business meeting, and Sunday evening a buffet dinner at Saftig's Lido Isle home which 35 attended.

College Theater Tour Helped Out By Jr. Women

Golden West College's children's theater group went on the road for the first time this weekend with special performances in Anaheim and San Diego.

The trip was made possible by a $75 gift to the college drama department by the Huntington Beach Junior Women's Club.

The students performed an original children's play, "The Case of the Golden Bagel," at Baden Powell School in Anaheim, and the San Diego Public Library and San Diego Children's Theater.

The play was written by Peter Conway, a former Golden West student now studying at Fresno State College.

Drama instructor Charles Mitchell was accompanied by Kris Wilson, Renata Florin, Roland Barajas, Barbara Shores, Marion Christie, Larry Goldberg and Laurel Burne, all of the children's troupe.

Losers Eat Beans In Club Contest

A Friday the 13th banquet of beans will be served up to half the members of the Fountain Valley Exchange Club who lost an eight-week membership drive contest to the other half.

Besides eating beans and humble pie Friday night at Francois in Huntington Beach the losers must pay for steak and all the trimmings for the winning team, according to club secretary Bernie Beausang.

The losing team was appropriately called "The Pea Pickers" while the winners were known as "The Harvesters."

Fountain Valley's Exchange Club has 27 members. Seven new men were drawn to the club during the recent membership drive.

Pay-as-you-go Trustees Topic

Trustees will tackle the touchy issue of pay-as-you-go school construction when the Huntington Beach City School District Board meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Dwyer School library.

Two weeks ago the board decided not to ask for a $1.50 increase in the tax rate on April 14 to support school construction for five years. Now trustees will consider placing the same issue on a June ballot along with a request to increase the interest rate on $4.75 million in already approved school bonds.

The two issues are alternatives, and if the school bonds can be sold a pay-as-you-go system will not be necessary, according to district officials.

'Firebug' Firemen

Planned Blazes Provide Practice

"It's much harder to burn a house down intentionally than to do it accidentally."

That's the opinion of Capt. Jim Vincent, of the Huntington Beach Fire Department, who last year lined up more than 25 homes for firemen to burn down.

Friday, crews from four Huntington Beach fire companies fought a blaze they set at 17071 "B" St. after the owner had asked them to demolish it.

"It's hard to fight a fire if you don't know its behavior," explained Battalion Chief Frank Kelly.

Kelly directed Friday's fire fighting as new firemen — and old — studied various patterns of a blaze in an old frame structure.

Igniting the blaze is a task given to older hands who first study a house that the owner wants destroyed, decide if it has training value for the fire department — just any house won't do — then prepare the house so it will burn a certain way.

"We have to knock a few holes in the roof to make it burn rapidly. Then we might stack some old furniture in one pile and throw kerosene on it to launch the blaze," Vincent explained.

"Sometimes we have dummies we hide in the house. Then we tell the ifremen there are people inside — go get them. Some of our dummies are lost when they burn up," Kelly added.

When bright red flames begin licking at the sides of the home, firemen are sent into action.

"First they have to knock down the fire by throwing a fine spray of water on it," Kelly said. The fine spray creates steam which smothers the flames. In a real fire they use this method to avoid heavy smoke and water damge.

"But in the training fire we don't continue the steam treatment. We let the flames erupt again to give the men practice," Kelly said.

What the firemen watch for are smoke patterns (where it goes) and how the fire burns. They also learn that different smoke colors indicate how hot the blaze is.

Rescue patterns are practiced when the fire cools down a little. "We always pick the heaviest man to be a victim for the men to carry out," Vincent said.

When the building is burned to the ground it is up to the owner to haul the ashes away — which is considerably cheaper than the cost of destroying a home.

Protection in the form of a fine water spray is provided for nearby homes and plants not being burned.

"About 15 minutes of hard fire fighting equals eight hours of activity," Kelly said, as he wiped the sweat from his brow.

After Friday's fire curious neighbors were shown the fire engines and their operation was explained to the youngsters by Vincent, who handles much of the public relations work for the department.

Blood Tests, Prints Asked For Suspects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration proposed legislation Monday to subject suspects in federal crimes to fingerpringting and other detective tests such as saliva and blood checks even before being formally charged.

The Supreme Court has held that such identification procedures do not violate the consittutional guarantee against self-incrimination but only in cases involving suspects already charged.

The administration proposal would extend such tests to persons suspected of crimes in cases where there is no probable cause to arrest. The tests would be administered only upon issuance of a court order.

If enacted by Congress, a federal judge, commissioner or magistrate could order a suspect in a federal criminal case to submit to identification by "fingerprints, palm prints, foot prints, measurements, blood specimens, urine specimens, saliva samples, hair samples, handwriting exemplars, voice samples, photographs and lineups."

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said in a letter of transmittal to the House and Senate that the proposed law "will provide federal law enforcement officers with a useful new tool for the investigation of criminal activity and the apprehension of criminals."

League Murder Trial Draws More Than a Little Interest From Santa Ana's Black Community

Roster System Blast Delays Trial

Arthur DeWitte League's lawyer today branded California's jury selection system as unconstitutional and imposed what is expected to be at least a three-day delay in the murder trial of the accused Black Panther.

3 Controversial Matters Facing Newport Council

Three matters that have provoked community controversy will be on the Newport Beach City Council agenda tonight. They are:

— An application of the White Horse Inn to stay open after midnight.

— Action on a Corona del Mar Main Beach food concession stand.

— Licensing of the underground newspaper "From Out of Sherwood Forest."

Owners of the White Horse Inn, Dan-Brit.ania Inc., are appealing a city Planning Commission decision 10 days ago that the inn must close at midnight instead of the usual tavern closing hour of 2 a.m., because it is adjacent to a residential area.

Councilmen will be asked to award a $31,000 contract to low bidder B. F. Syfan Corp. for construction of the Corona del Mar beach food concession stand. An agreement also is to be executed with Gordon Kilmer to run the concession. Kilmer's ability has been a matter of dispute at three council meetings.

City councilmen also will discuss a report from City Attorney Tully Seymour regarding licensing of newspapers, in which Seymour points out efforts to license the sellers of "From Out of Sherwood Forest" have been unsuccessful.

The Bird In the Cage bookstore, from has since been closed and at last reports the underground paper was being published out of Santa Ana.

The city council session begins at 7:30 p.m. in council chambers at City Hall.

Chute Failure Kills Woman; Pilot Injured

Never before aloft in a small plane, a young Tustin woman photographer died Saturday when she tried to parachute from the disintegrating skydivers' special over Perris, in Riverside County.

Her husband watched in horror from the ground as the 22-year-old victim, her chute snagged on the tail, plunged to earth.

The pilot, who also bailed out, was hit by the falling plane on the way down and critically injured, while four sky diving enthusiasts had already parachuted routinely.

Madeline M. Matthews, an insurance company employe, was killed instantly, and William R. Scherer, 26, of Santa Ana, was listed today in guarded condition at Riverside Community Hospital.

He suffered severe head injuries when struck by debris, or the plane itself, according to authorities probing the tragedy.

Mrs. Matthews' husband David, a Marine assigned to El Toro MCAS, watched the tragedy unfold.

The single-engine Stinson, specially outfitted for parachuting sport, took off earlier in the day with four skydivers aboard.

Mrs. Matthews had never been up, but went along to photograph their dramatic leaps, her grief-stricken husband revealed afterward.

Structural difficulty developed after the four divers had jumped and Mrs. Matthews tried to bail out, but opened her parachute prematurely.

The tail of the plane snagged it, ripping a gaping hole in the silk.

Army Captain Slain

U.S. Admits 27 Laos Casualties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has conceded 27 Americans, including a U.S. Army captain cut down by North Vietnamese machine gun fire, have been killed in Laos by Communist ground action since June, 1962.

The casualties are among the almost 400 Americans, most of them airmen, who have been officially reported killed during the eight years of America's semisecret involvement in the Laotian conflict.

Disclosure of the casualties was made Sunday by a White House official following a news report that Capt. Joseph K. Bush Jr. was killed during a North Vietnamese guerrilla attack on a Laotian military headquarters Feb. 11, 1969.

The disclosure brought into question the accuracy of a key portion of President Nixon's report to the nation Friday on the limits of U.S. activities in Laos.

In the report, Nixon confirmed officially for the first time what already was widely known — U.S. warplanes were making bombing raids in support of Prince Souvanna Phouma's Royal Laotian Army and along the Ho Chi Minh Trail which funnels men and supplies frnm North Vietnam through East Laos into war zones in South Vietnam.

But in seeking to allay fears the United States is drifting into another Southeast Asian land war, Nixon also said there were no American ground combat troops in Laos beyond 643 Americans, both military and civilian, who help train, equip and advise the Laotian army. He added:

"No American stationed in Laos has ever been killed in ground combat operations."

Assistant Press Secretary Gerald Warren told reporters at Nixon's vacation home in Key Biscayne, Fla., the President was not aware of Bush's death when he made the report.

A White House official said, however, Nixon was aware of the other 26 casualties suffered from such hostile actions as ambushes, booby traps, long range shelling and ground fire at helicopters.

Without defining what, in the President's view, constituted participation in ground combat operations, the official said it was the President's opinion Bush and the 26 others were not so involved when they were killed.

Don A. Schanche, a newsman who frequently reports from Laos, wrote in a dispatch Sunday in the Los Angeles Times that Bush was killed when North Vietnamese guerrillas attacked a Laotian army headquarters near Muong Soui, just south of the Plain of Jars.

According to Schanche's report, Bush killed one Communist soldier before he died.

Warren said another check of records, prompted by the news dispatch, disclosed Bush had indeed been killed by North Vietnamese guerrillas making a predawn attack on the headquarters compound situated "approximately 10 miles to the rear of the expected line of contact with the enemy."

Grunion Hit Beach Tonight

The elusive grunion may slide in on the tide to spawn on beaches tonight.

It is always problematical when the slippery silversides will find conditions to their liking but those who chart the tides say any of the next four nights could bring a grunion hunter's payoff.

The small fish come in at high tide. Peak tide tonight is 10:24 p.m. Tuesday night it will be 11 p.m., Wednesday night 11:36 p.m. and early Friday morning 12:24 a.m.

The next possible dates for grunion spawning are March 25 to 28.

Two laws apply to grunion hunting. One is the fish may not be netted or trapped but must be caught with the hands. The second law is that anyone over 16 years of age must have a fishing license to catch grunion as any other fish.

Terrified Woman In Wrecked Car For Four Hours

A Santa Ana woman sat terrified in her car, which had ran off Jamboree Road early this morning, for nearly four hours before being rescued, Newport Police said today.

Beverly Marie Ralth, 34 said she was afraid to get out of her car in the darkness, because she didn't know where it had come to rest.

Police said the woman apparently was southbound on Jamboree between Ford and San Joquin Hills Roads about 2 a.m. when her car lost a wheel.

The vehicle went out of control, crossed the center divider and crashed down an embankment.

Miss Ralth said she left the car at day break and got aid from a passing motorist who called police.

She is listed in satisfactory condiditon with a neck injury at Hoag Memorial Hospital.

U.S. Shuts Rhodesian Consulate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, refusing to recognize the new regime in Rhodesia, has instructed its consul in Salisbury to close the consulate on March 17, the State Department announced Monday.

The Rhodesian regime broke with the British crown on March 2. The new Rhodesian constitution transforming Rhodesia into a republic "constitutes the final and formal break with the United Kingdom," the State Department said.

It added that the United States continues to regard Britain as the lawful sovereign there.

"In the above circumstances, we have instructed our consul in Salisbury to begin arrangements for closing as of March 17 and for the departure of the staff."

Consul Paul O'Neill and a staff of six will return to Washington for reassignment, officials said.

Consular services for the early 1,000 American citizens will be handled in neighboring countries by U.S. consultates in Johannesburg, South Africa, or Blantyre in Malawi.

Mesa Cyclists Chased by Man With Gun, Rocks

A Costa Mesa motorcyclist riding in the old dirt and gravel pit on the city's west side was chased away Saturday by an angry homeowner who took the law — and a gun — into his own hands.

Police supplied with a car license number today were checking the assault with a deadly weapon case, witnessed by a second teenaged cycle enthusiast.

William O. Odelle, 18, of 1721 Aviemore Terrace, said the irate man approached him first on the run and threw a large rock, yelling at him to leave.

Odelle and Gary L. Etter, 18, of 900 Arbor St., Costa Mesa, said the assailant returned in his car 15 minutes later, screeching to a halt, waved a .45 caliber pistol, and again ordered them out.

Asked if the weapon was loaded, the man showed them it wasn't, at which time Odelle went to report the incident to police and the gun-wielder left in his car.

Motorcycle riding on private property along the Santa Ana River and the mesa rim has been the subject of complaints and controversy over a long period.

State authorities last year posted property adjacent to Fairview State Hospital with no tresspassing signs, thus allowing city police to prosecute motorcycle riders.

Residents of the neighborhood overlooking the dirt and gravel pit area — a dirt-biker's paradise — have petitioned the city to act, but without much subsequent success.

The property is not under one single ownership, making it difficult to establish a no-tresspassing policy under which violators could be cited.

Mrs. Hines, 68, Dies on Birthday

She is survived by a son, James, of Corona del Mar, a daughter Jessie May Shirar of Newport Beach and six grandchildren.

The family suggests those wishing to make memorial contributions, give to the Hoag Hospital Memorial Fund for Stella Hines.

Public Use Eyed

Base Giveaway At Los Alamitos?

Scheduled for phase-out within 15 months, Los Alamitos Naval Air Station could be given away free if transformed into a public use facility such as a civilian airport or college campus.

Congressman Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) made the announcement today on the status of the sprawling station, largest in the Naval Air Reserve program.

Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird confirmed last week that Los Alamitos will be eliminated from military use by June 30, 1971, opening its eventual fate to widespread speculation.

Federal agencies will retain first rights to the property, but state, county and city governments in the surrounding area may be able to acquire some of it, Hosmer said today.

But other military services and various branches of the government get first claims, he pointed out with strong emphasis.

"There isn't going to be any Cherokee Strip land grab," he added.

The Defense Department must still determine after deadline set for closure of the base whether it should be kept within the realm of military control.

If not, it will be released to the General Services Administration.

"At that point, the property is up for grabs by other federal departments and agencies," Congressman Hosmer explained.

"And in land-short Southern California, we must reckon with the possibility that part or all of it will be claimed for other federal requirements."

Hosmer said the GSA would then determine the best use of the land and establish its value to guide setting the price for disposal — which could be quite low.

Local public agencies are allowed a 50 percent cut if the surplus land is used for parks and recreation, or 100 percent if it is used for public health, education or an airport.

The Long Beach legislator has said he will support the conversion of Los Alamitos to parks and recreational use, but would fight its use as a commercial airport.

The facility has been suggested in recent months as a commercial airport supplementing Orange County and nearby Long Beach Airport, drawing much protest from citizens and public officials.

Blood Tests, Prints Asked For Suspects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration proposed legislation Monday to subject suspects in federal crimes to fingerpringting and other detective tests such as saliva and blood checks even before being formally charged.

The Supreme Court has held that such identification procedures do not violate the consittutional guarantee against self-incrimination but only in cases involving suspects already charged.

The administration proposal would extend such tests to persons suspected of crimes in cases where there is no probable cause to arrest. The tests would be administered only upon issuance of a court order.

If enacted by Congress, a federal judge, commissioner or magistrate could order a suspect in a federal criminal case to submit to identification by "fingerprints, palm prints, foot prints, measurements, blood specimens, urine specimens, saliva samples, hair samples, handwriting exemplars, voice samples, photographs and lineups."

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said in a letter of transmittal to the House and Senate that the proposed law "will provide federal law enforcement officers with a useful new tool for the investigation of criminal activity and the apprehension of criminals."

Nationwide Complaints Come on Gang Suspects

Teletypes today were tapping out information on four suspected desperadoes caught in Costa Mesa Friday to determine where else they are wanted in the nation and why.

Complaints charging the three men and the woman with a variety of local crimes will be requested Tuesday from the Orange County District Attorney.

Bail was set late Friday at $25,000 each for the quartet, captured at 514½ Bernard St., in a little rented house that yielded loaded guns, drug pills, cash and other suspected theft loot.

Detective Sgt. John Regan said today information from other law enforcement agencies between the Orange Coast and the Illinois-Missouri area may implicate the four in other cases.

They are charged locally with armed robbery, burglary, possession of dangerous drugs for sale among others, while Independence, Mo. authorities have additional complaints.

The jailed suspects are Jack and Patricia Jackson, 25 and 24, named in arrest warrants issued from Independence, charging armed robbery and forgery, plus Howard R. Tschirhart, 31, of the Bernard Street address and Jack C. Matney, 32, of Denver, Colorado.

The men are held at Costa Mesa City Jail, with arraignment scheduled Tuesday afternoon in Harbor Judicial District Court.

Mrs. Jackson was booked into Orange County Jail after the raid, during which she tried to flee out the back door and was caught by one of a dozen lawmen surrounding the house.

Newport, Irvine Dedicate Park

Buffalo Hills Park in the newly developing Harbor View Hills area was dedicated today by Irvine Company and Newport Beach officials.

The seven-acre park has four baseball diamonds, a children's play area, picnic tables and walkways that eventually will connect with Irvine's master-planned bicycle trail network.

The park is called Buffalo Hills because it is located south of Ford Road on the site of the old Irvine buffalo ranch.

Home builder Donald Bren developed the park at a cost of $80,000. He will be paid back over 10 years by the City of Newport Beach with funds from a building excise tax on new construction. The excise tax is collected to be used for fire stations, libraries and parks.

Greene called Superior Court administrator Leslie McCartney to the stand to explain the processes used by McCartney's office in selecting jurors used in Orange County Superior Court trials.

McCartney testified before the court rose for lunch that the 5,000 names submitted to his office by the county's computerized data systems divisions "are just names and we have no idea at that time just who these people might be."

"Do you know where they live, what their occupation is, the nature of their employment or race?" Greene asked.

"No," McCartney replied. "All we know at that time is that we have 2,500 men and 2,500 women from whom we can pick our juries."

Dog Gone Laziness Replaces Bonnie's True Puppy Love

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 16-year-old daughter begged us for a puppy for her birthday. Bonnie promised to train him, walk him, feed him and be totally responsible for all his needs. So we bought Bonnie a Boxer puppy. She named him Plato.

Plato chews everything in sight and vomits all over. He has spotted the sofa, the living room chairs and ruined every rug in the house. The place smells like a kennel and no amount of airing seems to help.

Plato cries all night and no one can sleep — no one except Bonnie, that is. Nothing bothers her. She is in school all day so I'm the one who walks Plato and cleans up after him. When Bonnie does come home she is too busy on the telephone to feed her puppy so I have to do that, too.

Last night we had a heated argument and I told Bonnie I was giving Plato away. She became hysterical and made me feel like a murderer. I love my daughter and I don't want to break her heart. Please tell me what to do.

—NERVIS RECK

DEAR RECK: Do yourself, Plato and Bonnie a favor and give the puppy to people who will care for it properly. Bonnie has not kept her word. If you let her hysterics trap you into keeping the pup, you've got a geranium in your cranium, Lady.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's bookkeeper quit last May after working for him for five years. I was not unhappy about her leaving because she was such a trouble-maker and I never liked her.

Two weeks after Jennie quit, her husband came to the house on his lunch hour to tell me "something important." I almost died of shock when he told me Jennie was pregnant by my husband—and he was thrilled because he always had wanted a family and was physically unable to father a child. He then admitted it was HIS idea—that he had talked his wife into seducing my husband and he thought I ought to know the facts.

The baby is four months old now and from what I hear she is a very beautiful child.

I told my husband about the visit that very night. He denied everything—called the guy "nuts," and said Jennie was involved with another man in the company and that he had fathered the child.

The whole thing has made me physically ill. I believe my husband, but I keep wondering how much gossip there is. I want to leave town but my husband has a good job and it would mean starting over. We have three young children and I don't want them hurt by this. What should we do?—RICHMOND

DEAR RICHMOND: If you don't feel better in 60 days, I suggest you and your husband seriously consider moving to another city. Whatever he loses financially will be worth it in terms of your health and peace of mind for your family.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHAT TO DO?: It's time your neighbor found an unmarried "humanitarian" to cry on. Hand your husband the names of a counselor, a clergyman and a therapist and suggest that he give the list to the lady.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents . . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged by Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the DAILY PILOT, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

League Murder Trial Draws More Than a Little Interest From Santa Ana's Black Community

Panther Rips Jury

Roster System Blast Delays Trial

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Arthur DeWitte League's lawyer today branded California's jury selection system as unconstitutional and imposed what is expected to be at least a three-day delay in the murder trial of the accused Black Panther.

League, 20, of Santa Ana, is accused of the shooting last June 4 of Santa Ana police officer Nelson Sasscer. It is alleged that the Negro militant gunned down the patrolman after he was ordered to produce identification.

Attorney Robert Greene asked Judge Samuel Dreizen to rule that the picking of a jury from the roster of names assigned to the court for the League trial would amount to denial of a fair trial for his client.

Those names, Greene said, are selected from Orange County's voter registration lists and do not reflect a true cross-section of the community.

Greene wants a jury picked from "the community as a whole and not under a system which denies my client a fair trial under any of the provisions envisaged by our law — among them economic, racial and political factors."

Greene's motion ended a two-hour delay in opening of the trial and was being debated at press time. Judge Dreizen delayed summoning of the first panel of prospective jurors until the motion is decided.

Greene indicated that he would have further motions to offer following settlement of his challenge of the jury system.

Among spectators in the courtroom today was Daniel Michael Lynem, 21, also a member of the Black Panther organization and the man who was cleared of the murder charges now faced by League.

A heavily reinforced detachment of sheriff's officers turned away more than 100 persons from the courtroom door after the 75 seats in Judge Dreizen's courtroom were quickly occupied this morning.

All persons entering the courtroom, with the exception of witnesses and the press, were carefully searched before they were allowed to take their seats.

There were no incidents other than loud complaints from several persons who wished to view the murder trial.

Accidents Come In Bunches For Motorist

A funny thing happened to Jerry D. Ainsworth on the way to Costa Mesa police headquarters early Sunday to report several traffic accidents.

He had another one, investigators said.

The 26-year-old Downey man, who faces a variety of charges today, knocked down a street light standard in front of the station as helpless officers watched from inside.

Officer Don Casey — into whose waiting arms the suspect finally collapsed — said several persons who preceded Ainsworth to report the series of mishaps also witnessed his fifth or sixth.

Known casualties of his meandering drive so far include two One-Way signs, a traffic signal, a telephone pole and the street light at 99 Fair Drive.

Police are not overlooking the possibility of additional damage reports yet to come from various points on Fairview Road between the San Diego Freeway and headquarters.

Officer Casey said Ainsworth had parked his by-then heavily damaged camper truck adjacent to police headquarters at 2:25 a.m. and was trying to lock the rear door when approached.

He fell backwards, right into the long arms of the law, according to the rather detailed report covering several pages.

The patrolman said his partners, Dick DeFrancisco and Rudy Malik, told him several citizens waiting in the lobby had additional information about the case.

Some had followed Ainsworth's truck, keeping a healthy distance — while others preceded him to the stationhouse, investigators said.

By the time the booking process was completed, Ainsworth faced charges including possession of dangerous drugs, possession of marijuana, drunken driving, drunk in public and hit-and-run.

The camper he was allegedly trying to lock up contained a quantity of suspected marijuana and assorted drug pills, plus a drunken companion who wasn't charged with anything.

"We thought he was dead," marveled one officer.

Nationwide Complaints Come on Gang Suspects

Teletypes today were tapping out information on four suspected desperadoes caught in Costa Mesa Friday to determine where else they are wanted in the nation and why.

Complaints charging the three men and the woman with a variety of local crimes will be requested Tuesday from the Orange County District Attorney.

Bail was set late Friday at $25,000 each for the quartet, captured at 514½ Bernard St., in a little rented house that yielded loaded guns, drug pills, cash and other suspected theft loot.

Detective Sgt. John Regan said today information from other law enforcement agencies between the Orange Coast and the Illinois-Missouri area may implicate the four in other cases.

They are charged locally with armed robbery, burglary, possession of dangerous drugs for sale among others, while Independence, Mo. authorities have additional complaints.

The jailed suspects are Jack and Patricia Jackson, 25 and 24, named in arrest warrants issued from Independence, charging armed robbery and forgery, plus Howard R. Tschirhart, 31, of the Bernard Street address and Jack C. Matney, 32, of Denver, Colorado.

The men are held at Costa Mesa City Jail, with arraignment scheduled Tuesday afternoon in Harbor Judicial District Court.

Mrs. Jackson was booked into Orange County Jail after the raid, during which she tried to flee out the back door and was caught by one of a dozen lawmen surrounding the house.

U.S. Admits 27 Americans Lost Lives in Laos Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has conceded 27 Americans, including a U.S. Army captain cut down by North Vietnamese machine gun fire, have been killed in Laos by Communist ground action since June, 1962.

The casualties are among the almost 400 Americans, most of them airmen, who have been officially reported killed during the eight years of America's semisecret involvement in the Laotian conflict.

Disclosure of the casualties was made Sunday by a White House official following a news report that Capt. Joseph K. Bush Jr. was killed during a North Vietnamese guerrilla attack on a Laotian military headquarters Feb. 11, 1969.

The disclosure brought into question the accuracy of a key portion of President Nixon's report to the nation Friday on the limits of U.S. activities in Laos.

In the report, Nixon confirmed officially for the first time what already was widely known — U.S. warplanes were making bombing raids in support of Prince Souvanna Phouma's Royal Laotian Army and along the Ho Chi Minh Trail which funnels men and supplies frnm North Vietnam through East Laos into war zones in South Vietnam.

But in seeking to allay fears the United States is drifting into another Southeast Asian land war, Nixon also said there were no American ground combat troops in Laos beyond 643 Americans, both military and civilian, who help train, equip and advise the Laotian army. He added:

"No American stationed in Laos has ever been killed in ground combat operations."

Assistant Press Secretary Gerald Warren told reporters at Nixon's vacation home in Key Biscayne, Fla., the President was not aware of Bush's death when he made the report.

Chute Failure Kills Woman; Pilot Injured

Never before aloft in a small plane, a young Tustin woman photographer died Saturday when she tried to parachute from the disintegrating skydivers' special over Perris, in Riverside County.

Her husband watched in horror from the ground as the 22-year-old victim, her chute snagged on the tail, plunged to earth.

The pilot, who also bailed out, was hit by the falling plane on the way down and critically injured, while four sky diving enthusiasts had already parachuted routinely.

Madeline M. Matthews, an insurance company employe, was killed instantly, and William R. Scherer, 26, of Santa Ana, was listed today in guarded condition at Riverside Community Hospital.

He suffered severe head injuries when struck by debris, or the plane itself, according to authorities probing the tragedy.

Mrs. Matthews' husband David, a Marine assigned to El Toro MCAS, watched the tragedy unfold.

The single-engine Stinson, specially outfitted for parachuting sport, took off earlier in the day with four skydivers aboard.

Mrs. Matthews had never been up, but went along to photograph their dramatic leaps, her grief-stricken husband revealed afterward.

Structural difficulty developed after the four divers had jumped and Mrs. Matthews tried to bail out, but opened her parachute prematurely.

The tail of the plane snagged it, ripping a gaping hole in the silk.

Unarmed 'Customer' Becomes Armed Thief

An empty-handed thief browsed around a Costa Mesa sporting goods store Sunday and left armed, the owner told police later.

Theodore A. Ponting, owner of Ponting's Rod & Reel, 2470 Newport Blvd., said whoever it was pocketed a .22 caliber revolver with a $70 pricetag.

Growing Center

Mesa Planners to Review Plaza Expansion Plans

Plans for expansion of South Coast Plaza and Town Center, including another movie theater and a six-story office building, will be reviewed before the Costa Mesa Planning Commission tonight.

The agenda for the 7:30 p.m. meeting is lengthy and includes a public hearing on the fifth phase of the city's Master Plan of Drainage, a $5 million project.

A conditional use permit issued in 1967 authorizes the movie house and commercial tower planned by C. J. Segerstrom & Sons, developers of the giant, extremely successful center.

Under city law, however, the various additions must pass through planning commission and city council channels as the expansion progresses.

The new theater will be a second Fox South Coast Plaza enterprise, adjacent to the first and featuring 700 seats, 464 on the floor and 236 in the balcony.

City planning experts say more than 200 parking spaces will be provided, supplemented by additional parking not in use by shoppers during prime evening movie time.

The six-story, 60,000-square-foot commercial office structure will be located at the intersection of Sunflower Avenue and Bristol Street.

Since South Coast Plaza and Town Center opened, its dozens of shops and stores have thrived and plans are in the works for another mall and wing with 40 more.

Nearly 20 other matters are on the agenda for consideration by planning commissioners, few major or of a controversial nature.

One zone exception permit for an open storage area for boats, campers and trailers at 2755 Bristol St., however, has drawn sharp criticism from surrounding landowners.

Applicant Leonard D. Welch of 1262 Palisades Road, Santa Ana, has requested that it be withdrawn from the agenda without consideration, Planning Department officials said today.

Three matters scheduled for action, however, involve billboards and advertising signs, topics on which the city is taking a tough stand.

Pacific Outdoor Advertising Company of Los Angeles is appealing a recent city council decision refusing permission to continue maintaining a billboard at 1534 Newport Blvd., near the Newport Beach city limit line.

The firm may also run into difficulty in its bid to replace five poster panel-type signs on Bristol Street near Baker Street, erecting two standard billboards.

A request will also be considered by officials of Worthington Dodge, 2888 Harbor Blvd., to amend the master plan on advertising signs and hang promotional banners.

Strict rules have been imposed about such attention-getters along Harbor Boulevard's so-called Auto Row and city officials are tough on enforcement.

SA Police Seek Murder Action In Gang Killing

Police will seek a murder complaint today against Paul A. Ruiz, 18, of Santa Ana, in the shooting death early Saturday of a 12-year-old girl, the innocent victim of a gang fight.

Officers allege Ruiz was one of several youths who drove to the Hernandez home and engaged in a fight with one of the victim's brothers, Pete Hernandez, 20.

Police said during the fracas Ruiz and his companions got back into their car and a shot was fired through a window of the vehicle striking the girl who was standing in the driveway.

A preliminary autopsy report by the coroner's office indicated that the girl bled to death from a gunshot wound in the chest. Services will be held tonight and Tuesday for Gloria V. Hernandez of 4901 6th Street.

Fugitive Captured

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — An accused bank robber, one of only five men ever to be named twice to the FBI's 10 most wanted criminal list, was arrested here Sunday night. FBI agents said Joseph Lloyd Thomas, 58, a native of Terre Haute, Ind., offered no resistance when apprehended, though he was armed.

Grunion Hit Beach Tonight

The elusive grunion may slide in on the tide to spawn on beaches tonight.

It is always problematical when the slippery silversides will find conditions to their liking but those who chart the tides say any of the next four nights could bring a grunion hunter's payoff.

The small fish come in at high tide. Peak tide tonight is 10:24 p.m. Tuesday night it will be 11 p.m., Wednesday night 11:36 p.m. and early Friday morning 12:24 a.m.

The next possible dates for grunion spawning are March 25 to 28.

Two laws apply to grunion hunting. One is the fish may not be netted or trapped but must be caught with the hands. The second law is that anyone over 16 years of age must have a fishing license to catch grunion as any other fish.

Newport's Wayne Seeks Mineral Exploration Rights

Congo's ambassador to the United States was entertained in the Newport Beach homes of actor John Wayne and Ernest Saftig over the weekend in a business deal courtship that has potentially millions of dollars hanging on the outcome.

Wayne and Saftig are principals in the Newport Beach-based Statesman Mining Company which is seeking mineral exploration rights to all of the Congo.

Congolese Ambassador Justin Bomboko made the visit to gather facts for a report to Congo President Joseph Mobutu.

"I think he was impressed we gave out friendship and good feeling toward him. Certainly he was relaxed with us," Saftig said.

He remarked that "from everything Bomboko indicated, I think we will hear from him very soon."

The principals in the Statesman Mining venture had heard last October they were awarded a Congolese license for exploring mineral rights and they thought they were in. Since then they have learned Congo law differs from U.S. law and there is a second phase after awarding of the rights. They are now awaiting a go ahead from President Mobutu.

In winning the license award, Statesman principals figured they had won out in competition with representatives of the Soviet Union, Red China and France.

Japanese, Belgian and French companies have small mineral concessions in the Congo but essentially the vast country, larger than the state of Alaska, is untapped.

"It may be the treasure house of the world," said Ed Smart, Aspen, Colo. resident who is president of Statesman Mining and was in Newport for the weekend talks. He said the Congo basin contains more mineral possibilities than anywhere else in the world.

If the firm gets the exploration go ahead the entire Congo will be surveyed by air. When geological equipment indicates a likely mining area a ground crew will be dispatched to the site.

Ambassador Bomboko, his First Counselor Charles Sumbu, and two Congolese secretaries stayed at the Newporter Inn. Saturday night they had dinner at John Wayne's home in Bayshores. Sunday they were taken on a boat tour of the harbor and coast by Wayne's friend Clement Hirsch, Sunday afternoon there was a business meeting, and Sunday evening a buffet dinner at Saftig's Lido Isle home which 35 attended.

Long Rest Due For City Manager

Costa Mesa City Manager Arthur R. McKenzie was released from Hoag Memorial Hospital Saturday and faces convalescence at home for six weeks or more.

The 51-year-old administrator was admitted to the facility a week ago for tests and observation following a mild stroke which left him feeling numbness and head pains.

Physicians said McKenzie apparently suffered no severe or lasting effects from the minor cerebral hemorrhage.

Assistant City Manager Fred Sorsabal will hold down the fort at City Hall during the six weeks or more his boss must rest and recuperate.

U.S. Shuts Rhodesian Consulate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, refusing to recognize the new regime in Rhodesia, has instructed its consul in Salisbury to close the consulate on March 17, the State Department announced Monday.

The Rhodesian regime broke with the British crown on March 2. The new Rhodesian constitution transforming Rhodesia into a republic "constitutes the final and formal break with the United Kingdom," the State Department said.

It added that the United States continues to regard Britain as the lawful sovereign there.

"In the above circumstances, we have instructed our consul in Salisbury to begin arrangements for closing as of March 17 and for the departure of the staff."

Consul Paul O'Neill and a staff of six will return to Washington for reassignment, officials said.

Consular services for the early 1,000 American citizens will be handled in neighboring countries by U.S. consultates in Johannesburg, South Africa, or Blantyre in Malawi.

Mesa Cyclist Chased by Man With Gun, Rocks

A Costa Mesa motorcyclist riding in the old dirt and gravel pit on the city's west side was chased away Saturday by an angry homeowner who took the law — and a gun — into his own hands.

Police supplied with a car license number today were checking the assault with a deadly weapon case, witnessed by a second teenaged cycle enthusiast.

William O. Odelle, 18, of 11721 Aviemore Terrace, said the irate man approached him first on the run and threw a large rock, yelling at him to leave.

Odelle and Gary L. Etter, 18, of 900 Arbor St., Costa Mesa, said the assailant returned in his car 15 minutes later, screeching to a halt, waved a .45 caliber pistol, and again ordered them out.

Asked if the weapon was loaded, the man showed them it wasn't, at which time Odelle went to report the incident to police and the gun-wielder left in his car.

Motorcycle riding on private property along the Santa Ana River and the mesa rim has been the subject of complaints and controversy over a long period.

State authorities last year posted property adjacent to Fairview State Hospital with no tresspassing signs, thus allowing city police to prosecute motorcycle riders.

Residents of the neighborhood overlooking the dirt and gravel pit area — a dirt-biker's paradise — have petitioned the city to act, but without much subsequent success.

The property is not under one single ownership, making it difficult to establish a no-tresspassing policy under which violators could be cited.

Construction Office Rifled by Burglars

Construction company officials today were taking inventory to determine exactly what is missing from a Costa Mesa job site office burglarized of more than $700 in valuables Saturday.

A variety of tools and equipment were known to be stolen from the AFCCO building at 211 E. 17th St., according to Jess Phillips, spokesman for the Los Angeles firm.

108 Cyclists Arrested In 'Holy Jim' Revelry

Orange County taxpayers provided the hangover brunch for 108 partying motorcycle gang members Sunday, after lawmen raided an unholy revel in Holy Jim Canyon, 20 miles east of El Toro.

Most of the 73 men and 35 women were booked into Orange County Jail for investigation of disturbing the peace, and immediately posted bail on the misdemeanor.

A haul of marijuana and other drugs, plus an assortment of 22 illegal weapons — including shotguns, swords and a medieval mace — plus allegedly stolen vehicles led to 29 additional bookings.

"Everybody was pretty well drunk," observed one sheriff's deputy who participated in the massive raid after dozens of complaints by campers and cabin dwellers in the rustic, wooded canyon.

First lawmen on the scene called in reinforcements, including 17 sheriff's deputies and California Highway Patrol officers, plus three buses to transport the suspects.

Sheriff's Lt. Ted Dwyer said three groups of residents who live in the usual sanctity of Holy Jim Canyon fled in fear for their lives and safety.

Representatives gathered in a remote corner of scenic O'Neill Park for the revelry included the Outlaws, the Gents, the Nuggets and the Hessians, investigators said.

Despite the low bail set for disturbing the peace and being drunk in public, a large number of cyclists and hangers-on found themselves stranded after release by impounding of vehicles.

A number of cars and motorcycles are being checked out as possibly stolen, authorities said today.

Possession of pistols, shotguns, knives and other deadly weapons classed as illegal led to stiffer charges against 22 persons, while another seven face charges for drugs and marijuana.

Burglar Suspect Caught in Mesa On Citizen's Tip

A citizen's tip led to the arrest of a Costa Mesa machinist Sunday night near a downtown music store someone had been trying to burglarize.

Michael Cassidy, 23, of 1535 Superior Ave., was booked for investigation of burglary and suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs.

Nothing was taken from Coast Music Company, 1839 Newport Blvd., but a pry tool was found near a damaged air vent on the southwest corner of the building, police said.

Officer Frank Jordan said Cassidy was stopped in a rear alley by Lt. John Moquin and Detective Sgt. John Regan and couldn't explain his legitimate presence in the darkened area.

Besides the pry tool taken as evidence, a bag containing 15 suspected benzedrine pills was found in a jacket taken from Cassidy's parked car, police said.

McCartney testified before the court rose for lunch that the 5,000 names submitted to his office by the county's computerized data systems divisions "are just names and we have no idea at that time just who these people might be."

"Do you know where they live, what their occupation is, the nature of their employment or race?" Greene asked.

"No," McCartney replied. "All we know at that time is that we have 2,500 men and 2,500 women from whom we can pick our juries."

2 Girls Admit $8,000 Spree Of Vandalism

Jealous of the "pretty things" a Garden Grove school secretary's children bragged of having, two girls aged 8 and 13 have confessed an $8,000 vandalism spree at the family's home.

The school principal traced down the suspects by studying absentee lists of schools serving the neighborhood on Feb. 25, the date of the destruction.

Orange County Probation Department employes will question the girls March 18 about the case, to determine just what charges will be lodged against them.

They confessed under questioning to the vandalism committed at the home of Mrs. Marian Ryan, a secretary at Violette Elementary School in Garden Grove.

Firemen sent tothe home found a play table burning, plus rooms flooded by water, furniture slashed and food scattered on floors and walls.

Violette Elementary School Principal Kenneth Boyce said the girls admitted playing hooky and going to Mrs. Ryan's home for the senseless rampage.

They told him the Ryan children bragged of "having pretty things."

Public Use Eyed

Base Giveaway At Los Alamitos?

Scheduled for phase-out within 15 months, Los Alamitos Naval Air Station could be given away free if transformed into a public use facility such as a civilian airport or college campus.

Congressman Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) made the announcement today on the status of the sprawling station, largest in the Naval Air Reserve program.

Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird confirmed last week that Los Alamitos will be eliminated from military use by June 30, 1971, opening its eventual fate to widespread speculation.

Federal agencies will retain first rights to the property, but state, county and city governments in the surrounding area may be able to acquire some of it, Hosmer said today.

But other military services and various branches of the government get first claims, he pointed out with strong emphasis.

"There isn't going to be any Cherokee Strip land grab," he added.

The Defense Department must still determine after deadline set for closure of the base whether it should be kept within the realm of military control.

If not, it will be released to the General Services Administration.

"At that point, the property is up for grabs by other federal departments and agencies," Congressman Hosmer explained.

"And in land-short Southern California, we must reckon with the possibility that part or all of it will be claimed for other federal requirements."

Hosmer said the GSA would then determine the best use of the land and establish its value to guide setting the price for disposal — which could be quite low.

Local public agencies are allowed a 50 percent cut if the surplus land is used for parks and recreation, or 100 percent if it is used for public health, education or an airport.

The Long Beach legislator has said he will support the conversion of Los Alamitos to parks and recreational use, but would fight its use as a commercial airport.

The facility has been suggested in recent months as a commercial airport supplementing Orange County and nearby Long Beach Airport, drawing much protest from citizens and public officials.

Blood Tests, Prints Asked For Suspects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration proposed legislation Monday to subject suspects in federal crimes to fingerpringting and other detective tests such as saliva and blood checks even before being formally charged.

The Supreme Court has held that such identification procedures do not violate the consittutional guarantee against self-incrimination but only in cases involving suspects already charged.

The administration proposal would extend such tests to persons suspected of crimes in cases where there is no probable cause to arrest. The tests would be administered only upon issuance of a court order.

If enacted by Congress, a federal judge, commissioner or magistrate could order a suspect in a federal criminal case to submit to identification by "fingerprints, palm prints, foot prints, measurements, blood specimens, urine specimens, saliva samples, hair samples, handwriting exemplars, voice samples, photographs and lineups."

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said in a letter of transmittal to the House and Senate that the proposed law "will provide federal law enforcement officers with a useful new tool for the investigation of criminal activity and the apprehension of criminals."

Panther Lawyer Assails Jury Selection System

Wants Panel Picked From Community

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Arthur DeWitte League's lawyer today branded California's jury selection system as unconstitutional and imposed what is expected to be at least a three-day delay in the murder trial of the accused Black Panther.

League, 20, of Santa Ana, is accused of the shooting last June 4 of Santa Ana police officer Nelson Sasscer. It is alleged that the Negro militant gunned down the patrolman after he was ordered to produce identification.

Attorney Robert Greene asked Judge Samuel Dreizen to rule that the picking of a jury from the roster of names assigned to the court for the League trial would amount to denial of a fair trial for his client.

Those names, Greene said, are selected from Orange County's voter registration lists and do not reflect a true cross-section of the community.

Greene wants a jury picked from "the community as a whole and not under a system which denies my client a fair trial under any of the provisions envisaged by our law — among them economic, racial and political factors."

Greene's motion ended a two-hour delay in opening of the trial and was being debated at press time. Judge Dreizen delayed summoning of the first panel of prospective jurors until the motion is decided.

Greene indicated that he would have further motions to offer following settlement of his challenge of the jury system.

Among spectators in the courtroom today was Daniel Michael Lynem, 21, also a member of the Black Panther organization and the man who was cleared of the murder charges now faced by League.

A heavily reinforced detachment of sheriff's officers turned away more than 100 persons from the courtroom door after the 75 seats in Judge Dreizen's courtroom were quickly occupied this morning.

All persons entering the courtroom, with the exception of witnesses and the press, were carefully searched before they were allowed to take their seats.

There were no incidents other than loud complaints from several persons who wished to view the murder trial.

Black Panther literature was distributed in the courthouse corridor to all persons entering Judge Dreizen's courtroom.

1st Plunge Fatal

Tustin Woman's Chute Snags

Never before aloft in a small plane, a young Tustin woman photographer died Saturday when she tried to parachute from the disintegrating skydivers' special over Perris, in Riverside County.

Her husband watched in horror from the ground as the 22-year-old victim, her chute snagged on the tail, plunged to earth.

The pilot, who also bailed out, was hit by the falling plane on the way down and critically injured, while four sky diving enthusiasts had already parachuted routinely.

Madeline M. Matthews, an insurance company employe, was killed instantly, and William R. Scherer, 26, of Santa Ana, was listed today in guarded condition at Riverside Community Hospital.

He suffered severe head injuries when struck by debris, or the plane itself, according to authorities probing the tragedy.

Mrs. Matthews' husband David, a Marine assigned to El Toro MCAS, watched the tragedy unfold.

The single-engine Stinson, specially outfitted for parachuting sport, took off earlier in the day with four skydivers aboard.

Mrs. Matthews had never been up, but went along to photograph their dramatic leaps, her grief-stricken husband revealed afterward.

Structural difficulty developed after the four divers had jumped and Mrs. Matthews tried to bail out, but opened her parachute prematurely.

The tail of the plane snagged it, ripping a gaping hole in the silk.

Besides the victim's husband, another chutist, Lowell Roeder, said the plane went into a tailspin and part of a wing peeled back and broke off as it fell.

An investigation was immediately begun by the National Transportation Safety Board.

Capo's School Election Ends Hard Fought Drive

By RICHARD P. NALL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The election Tuesday for Capistrano Unified School District will climax one of the hardest fought support campaigns ever waged in an area where school finance issues have traditional tough sledding.

Truman Benedict, district superintendent, has been through 22 elections in 21 years with local schools, most of them before unification five years ago.

Most of them lost. His own daughter attended high school in quonset huts. It took 10 elections to secure funds to build the present San Clemente High School.

The district's most recent school election loss was last April when a turnout of about 40 percent turned down a 50-cent override by about three-to-two.

Supporters of this override are hoping for a 55 percent trunout Tuesday of the 15,270 persons registered to vote in the sprawling 156-square-mile district.

Election proponents are hoping that the bigger turnout will balance what they described as a large block of "historically built-in no votes to school finance measures."

The district electorate Tuesday will be voting for two measures.

One is authorization to increase the interest maximum from five to seven percent on $4.2 million in previously authorized bonds for school site acquisition and construction.

The bonds can't be sold at the present five percent limit. Given approval of this by the necessary two-thirds majority, district officials would expect to sell about $1.4 million this year and would sell the rest over a two to three year period.

Voters will also decile a 50-cent override that district officials say is necessary to maintain the existing educational program.

Without the override, which would represent a loss of about $700,000 in operating funds, school officials say that an across the board 10 percent cutback is necessary. This would range from busing and music programs to vocational education and larger classes.

The district now has about 7,400 students and estimates this will increase by 10 percent to more than 8,000 next year.

An organized group supporting the override calls itself ARVY which means Area Residents — Vote Yes.

It has waged a voluminous grassroots campaign that included bumper stickers, talks, advertising, telephone calls and news releases.

The ARVY effort will climax with a telephone campaign effort to turnout the voters tomorrow. Their hope is that the 30 to 35 percent who declared themselves undecided during a pre-campaign poll will turnout and vote yes.

Polls are open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. There are 11 polling places ranging in size from 1100 to 1900 registered voters.

Planners Slate Special Session On Sign Issue

The Laguna Beach Planning Commission will hold a special study session at 7:30 o'clock tonight in city hall council chambers to prepare amendments to the sign ordinance for presentation to the City Council Wednesday.

The commissioners have been asked by the council to devise precise wording for five changes in the ordinance which have caused or are believed likely to cause enforcement problems. They deal with measurement of sign area, situation of pole signs and sign setback from building sidelines.

Although the mechanism of amending the ordinance will require public hearings and other legal delays, the council has agreed to instruct the city staff to administer the law as if the amendments already were in effect as soon as wording is established.

Also at tonight's session, the planners will give a final review to the general plan goals statement before making their formal recommendation to the council.

French Reds Out Poll Gaullist in Voting

Deadline Nears For '70 Festival

Deadline for artists and craftsmen who wish to submit works for jurying in the 1970 Festival of Arts is 10 a.m. Saturday, grounds chairman Verner Beck said today.

The jurying will take place between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday and artists are asked to bring three examples of their work to Irvine Bowl between 7 a.m. and 10 a.m.

An artist wishing to apply in more than one medium should take three works in each medium, Beek said.

A combined jury elected by the artists and appointed by the Festival board will rate the works submitted on an established point system. Available space on the grounds is allocated according to scores received.

Artists who should apply Saturday are those who did not apply last year, those who applied but were not taken onto the grounds and those who were on the grounds last year but were asked to re-submit for the 1970 system. Those who exhibited last year and were not asked to re-submit are entitled to apply for space without jurying.

City Council Candidates Keeping Busy in Laguna

By BARBARA KREIBICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Laguna Beach City Council candidates are tuning up their vocal chords for a record-breaking series of "meet the candidates" sessions that will carry them to the eve of the April 14 municipal election.

The Laguna Beach Board of Realtors will get the ball rolling this week by presenting all five candidates at an 8 a.m. breakfast meeting Thursday in Ben Brown's Restaurant.

On hand to air their views and respond to questions will be incumbents Richard Goldberg and Joseph A. O'Sullivan and new candidates Joseph L. Tomchak, Peter Ostrander and Edward Lorr. The five are competing for three upcoming council vacancies.

On Tuesday evening, March 17, the Laguna Beach Coordinating Council will present the five candidates at a 7:30 p.m. meeting in the Laguna Federal building.

Wednesday morning, March 18, will find the quintet on the program at the 7:30 a.m. Chamber of Commerce breakfast in the Hotel Laguna.

At 8 p.m. on Thursday, March 26, the South Coast Democratic Peace Club will present the candidates in a public meeting in city hall council chambers.

A final session has been scheduled by the Laguna Beach Civic League on April 7, at a location to be announced.

In previous election years, it has been customary to schedule no more than two full-scale pre-election sessions for council candidates.

In addition to the public meetings, most of the candidates have their engagement calendars well filled with "coffee" dates for appearances before small organizations and neighborhood groups.

Goldberg kicked off his campaign Sunday evening at a cocktail party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Johnson and attended by about 200 guests.

In an informal talk, Goldberg promised to continue his role as a "24-hour councilman," referring to the fact that his business keeps him in Laguna and therefore available to constituents, while other councilmen and candidates are employed out of town.

Goldberg also introduced architect Peter Ostrander and told guests he is supporting Ostrander's candidacy.

Cyprus Nets 11 In Makarios Shooting Try

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — The Cyprus government said today 11 persons were arrested during the night as suspects in the attempted assassination Sunday of Archbishop Makarios, the president of this island nation.

Official sources said these were in addition to three men summoned for questioning earlier Sunday, two of them identified as members of an opposition group demanding union with Greece.

Witnesses of the atempt on Makarios' life were called in to view the suspects in a lineup later today.

Three gunmen firing automatic weapons from the roof of a high school shot down the president's helicopter at 7:10 a.m. Sunday as it lifted off from the palace grounds headed for a memorial service at Makheras Monastery, 30 miles from the capital.

Makarios escaped unhurt but the pilot, Zacharias Papadoyiannis, was wounded critically.

Grunion Hit Beach Tonight

The elusive grunion may slide in on the tide to spawn on beaches tonight.

It is always problematical when the slippery silversides will find conditions to their liking but those who chart the tides say any of the next four nights could bring a grunion hunter's payoff.

The small fish come in at high tide. Peak tide tonight is 10:24 p.m. Tuesday night it will be 11 p.m., Wednesday night 11:36 p.m. and early Friday morning 12:24 a.m.

The next possible dates for grunion spawning are March 25 to 28.

Two laws apply to grunion hunting. One is the fish may not be netted or trapped but must be caught with the hands. The second law is that anyone over 16 years of age must have a fishing license to catch grunion as any other fish.

Worst Oil Fire Attacked

Dynamite Charge May Cause Louisiana Spill

VENICE, La. (UPI) — Firefighters prepared today to blow out a 27-day-old blaze on an offshore platform with a dynamite charge that could cause the nation's worst oil spill.

Calm seas and gentle breezes greeted workmen early today and they began preparing the 200-pound explosive charge to cap what has been called the worst offshore oil fire in history.

Putting out the blaze 30 miles offshore was only the first problem. The most difficult will be controlling an expected deluge of crude oil pollution after the fire is out.

An Interior Department spokesman said Chevron Oil Company's "Charlie" structure was believed capable of spewing anywhere from 900 to 8,000 barrels of oil a day until its eight damaged wells are capped — an operation that may take up to three weeks.

By comparison, the Santa Barbara Channel oil spill in California amounted to about 8,000 barrels of oil that leaked to the surface and stained beaches over a month-long period.

The recent oil slick that gummed Tampa Bay, Fla., was only 350 barrels.

Texas wild well firefighters working for Paul "Red" Adair have been ready for more than a week to detonate an explosion to put out the fire and begin the tricky process of installing shutoff valves to the ruptured well heads. But small craft warnings, high winds and seas up to 11 feet postponed the shot for the past few days.

Once the fireball that has been consuming the high pressure natural gas and oil from the wells is doused federal and state officials and Chevron crews will make the first rough estimate on the volume of oil being spilled.

At that point, Chevron will activate the world's first oil pollution control system designed to function in the open sea.

It will be the first test to see if hundreds of men working with barges, specially designed floating booms, newly developed oil skimmers and other equipment can contain a large spill and vacuum it out of the water before it reaches shore.

The Interior Department has said it thinks Chevron has done all it possibly could to control the anticipated spill. A spokesman said Chevron has the capability to scoop up as many as 20,000 barrels of oil a day.

The question was whether wave action would toss the oil over the barriers set up to contain it.

Joint Approach to Sewage Problems Studied

By RICHARD P. NALL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

San Clemente city officials had a look at SERRA last week.

San Juan Capistrano councilmen will give her the once over tonight.

SERRA isn't a storm. She's a concept, a regional approach to sewage and ecology problems in the huge San Juan Basin of southern Orange County.

The basin, which reaches from the beach at San Juan Creek 15 miles back into Santa Ana Mountains, is served by seven public entities. It is estimated the area will have 244,000 residents by the year 2000.

It is these entities that would form SERRA in a cooperative approach to sewage problems — a joint powers agreement — if they all agree. SERRA means South East Regional Reclamation Authority.

As proposed, the involved agencies in the joint approach to sewage disposal and reclamation would be Moulton-Niguel Water District, San Juan Capistrano, Capistrano Beach Sanitary District, Dana Point Sanitary District, San Clemente, Santa Ana Mountain County Water District and Santa Margarita Water District.

The purpose of SERRA would be to eliminate the necessity for small agencies to construct and maintain duplicate facilities for carrying and purifying sewage.

A case in point is the location now a stone's throw from each other of separate treatment plants along San Juan Creek owned by Dana Point Sanitary District, Capistrano Beach Sanitary District and San Juan Capistrano.

Participating agencies in the future could buy space in carrying lines, treatment plant and outfall lines based on the extent of participation by each.

A single huge sewer main might be constructed in the future. This would eliminate for the participating agencies many costs such as separate rights-of-way acquisition, separate legal fees and separate engineering fees.

A sophisticated sewage purification plant could catch the water and purify it before release to the sea. Proponents of SERRA point out that such an agency would be far more able to prevent proliferation of pollution than each going it alone.

They maintain, as well, that should the political and social trend toward environmental protection result in future higher standards of sewage purification, SERRA would be in a better position to perform than seven individual agencies.

SERRA is designed as something of a limited partnership so that no participating agencies would give away local autonomy.

It would have no power of taxation or power to issue general obligation bonds but would be empowered to make application for and administer federal loans and grants, grants such as the type President Nixon has mentioned to fight sewage pollution.

Each participating agency would elect a member and an alternate to serve on the board of SERRA. The financial resources would come from the member agencies.

Members would participate in public work projects to the extent of the benefit derived and could withdraw from the agency by giving 120 days notice.

SERRA grew out of a study committee formed by county supervisors in 1968. It is co-chaired by Carl Kymla, manager of Moulton-Niguel County Water District, and J.B. Latham, president of Capistrano Beach Sanitary District.

A contract that would get SERRA off the ground is now making the rounds of the governing bodies of potential member agencies. If all agree SERRA is go.

Participating agencies would have different degrees of need and it would develop at different times. San Clemente for instance is building its own large sewage treatment plant. SERRA, for it, would be a provision for future growth.

Agencies forming SERRA initially would supply only the funds to keep the fledgling entity operating. In San Clemente it was estimated this might be $1,000 yearly.

Homes Still Dry

Granite Dump Aids Capo Fight

Two homes and a lot on an erosion plagued section of Beach Road in Capistrano Beach survived the weekend well, residents said today, but it took 35 truckloads of granite to do the job.

John Reynard, 35787 Beach Road, owner of two of the endangered parcels, said tons of granite boulders which he ordered "are working just fine."

Late last week Reynard's two homes and a lot owned by a neighbor next to them near the Poche beach were hit hard by heavy surf borne on high tides.

A large section of nearly new sea wall fell under the battering seas and emergency crews worked throughout Thursday staving off erosion with hundreds of sandbags.

Reynard then hired a contractor and ordered truckloads of granite from a west Riverside quarry.

The last loads are due to arrive through today.

The weekend surf and tide conditions worked in favor of the beachfront homeowners, with only light surf and moderately high tides reported.

The original estimates of damage in the erosion incident have not yet been tabulated, because the total cost for the expensive boulders has not been received.

"They started dumping them in front of the three spots before the weekend and they just work great — like a small jetty, and they soften the waves really well," Reynard said this morning.

"I don't know how much it's going to cost, but it will be worth it if the work saves the homes. It's not really that much when you figure it," he added.

Scholarship Fund Group Seeks Organizations' Aid

An appeal to organizations was officially begun Monday by the Scholarships Fund Association serving the Capistrano Unified School District.

Gary Sodikoff is chairman of this aspect of the community-wide fund drive which is seeking funds for graduating seniors of San Clemente High School.

"The school has provided us with a list of organizations which have donated scholarships in the past," said Lyn Harris Hicks, head of the association.

"Organizations may either contribute to the general fund or finance a scholarship in the name of a person or organization," she said.

Contributions over $100 will be allowed to bear the donor's name while other amounts will be placed in the general fund. Contributions may be specified for students answering particular fields of study but they cannot be specified for a particular school.

Mrs. Hicks said the association works directly with the school to determine who will receive the scholarships. Barbara Cornwell is in charge of scholarships applications at the high school and has encouraged students who are college bound to apply for whatever scholarships she believes they have a chance to get.

"The amount of the scholarships awarded by our association will be determined by need, but financial need will not necessarily be a prerequisite for obtaining a scholarship," said Mrs. Hicks.

Working with Sodikoff in the organization's appeal will be Mrs. Wilma Bloom, Mrs. Dorothy Shank, Phil Ellsworth and Ted Kopp.

The association also is attempting to obtain scholarship money from industries and by appealing directly to individuals.

Air-sea Search Being Conducted For Lost Vessel

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter and surface craft out of Oceanside Harbor today are searching an area off San Onofre for a 22-foot outboard boat reportedly in trouble.

A search of the area 1½ miles southwest of the atomic power plant Sunday night turned up no sign of the distressed boat.

Coast Guard officials said the Harbor Police at Oceanside monitored a "mayday" call from a Citizens Band radio at 6:52 p.m. but the call was not from the distressed boat.

A Coast Guard helicopter was sent aloft at 6:50 p.m. and Oceanside surface craft searched the area until nearly midnight.

Authorities this morning were trying to locate the originator of the citizens band report.

Cerebral Attack Caused Death Of Mrs. Doran

Mrs. Florence M. Doran, 82, San Clemente suffered a fatal cerebral hemorrhage at the wheel of her car last Wednesday afternoon before it collided with another auto, the County Coroner's Office reported today.

Coroner's aides said an autopsy Thursday confirmed suspicions that the woman did not die from injuries suffered in the crash in which her car, traveling the wrong way in northbound lanes of El Camino Real, became involved in a collision.

Mrs. Doran, 140 Avenida Barcelona, died before noon Thursday at South Coast Community Hospital in South Laguna.

She had been in critical condition up to the time of her death. Hospital aides Thursday morning inadvertently had given her condition as critical more than an hour after she died.

Coroner's investigators said her hemorrhage was brought about by "severe hardening of the arteries."

Funeral services are pending for Mrs. Doran at Lesneski Mortuary in San Clemente.

Talk Scheduled By Mrs. Hanson

Mrs. Carole Hanson, wife of Vietnam POW Marine Capt. Steve Hanson, will be featured speaker at the Constructive Action Council meeting of Laguna Hills March 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Royal Savings and Loan Association, El Toro.

Mrs. Hanson of 24112 Birdrock Dr., El Toro and three other POW wives recently completed a world tour in an effort to focus world attention on the plight of American POWs and bring pressure on Hanoi to conform to the Geneva Convention calling for humane treatment of prisoners.

Council president Earl M. Rees said all residents of the Laguna Hills area are invited to attend. For further information call 837-4123.

Congo Diplomat Hosted by Wayne; Mining Deal Due?

Congo's ambassador to the United States was entertained in the Newport Beach homes of actor John Wayne and Ernest Saftig over the weekend in a business deal courtship that has potentially millions of dollars hanging on the outcome.

Wayne and Saftig are principals in the Newport Beach-based Statesman Mining Company which is seeking mineral exploration rights to all of the Congo.

Congolese Ambassador Justin Bomboko made the visit to gather facts for a report to Congo President Joseph Mobutu.

"I think he was impressed we gave out friendship and good feeling toward him. Certainly he was relaxed with us," Saftig said.

He remarked that "from everything Bomboko indicated, I think we will hear from him very soon."

Capo Council Eyes Rezoning

A public hearing on the rezoning of 19 acres between The Casas development and the San Diego Freeway will occupy San Juan Capistrano city councilmen at their meeting tonight.

The planning commission approved the rezoning of the property from single family residences to planned development which would permit condominium type housing.

Opponents of the zone change, primarily from The Casas, contend it would devaluate their property and create nuisance traffic along Los Pajaros Street which runs through their development. Preliminary plans call for the extension of the street to make it the main artery between the proposed condominiums and Camino Capistrano.

$165 Bankroll Taken Off Table

Next payday James Clope of San Clemente will ask for big bills.

The dollar variety, he discovered this weekend, doesn't work so well.

Clope, of 206 El Levante, went to a local donut shop late Friday for some coffee and crullers, his wages in his hand.

The money, he told police, was mostly one-dollar bills with a smattering of fives and a lone 20.

But the wad was just too thick to fit in his wallet, he lamented, so he set the bankroll and the wallet on a table while he went to a counter to order.

When he returned the bankroll was gone — all $165 worth.

Cyclists' Party Raided

Police Arrest 108 in Holy Jim Canyon Revelry

Orange County taxpayers provided the hangover brunch for 108 partying motorcycle gang members Sunday, after lawmen raided an unholy revel in Holy Jim Canyon, 20 miles east of El Toro.

Most of the 73 men and 35 women were booked into Orange County Jail for investigation of disturbing the peace, and immediately posted bail on the misdemeanor.

A haul of marijuana and other drugs, plus an assortment of 22 illegal weapons — including shotguns, swords and a medieval mace — plus allegedly stolen vehicles led to 29 additional bookings.

"Everybody was pretty well drunk," observed one sheriff's deputy who participated in the massive raid after dozens of complaints by campers and cabin dwellers in the rustic, wooded canyon.

First lawmen on the scene called in reinforcements, including 17 sheriff's deputies and California Highway Patrol officers, plus three buses to transport the suspects.

Sheriff's Lt. Ted Dwyer said three groups of residents who live in the usual sanctity of Holy Jim Canyon fled in fear for their lives and safety.

Representatives gathered in a remote corner of scenic O'Neill Park for the revelry included the Outlaws, the Gents, the Nuggets and the Hessians, investigators said.

Despite the low bail set for disturbing the peace and being drunk in public, a large number of cyclists and hangers-on found themselves stranded after release by impounding of vehicles.

A number of cars and motorcycles are being checked out as possibly stolen, authorities said today.

Possession of pistols, shotguns, knives and other deadly weapons classed as illegal led to stiffer charges against 22 persons, while another seven face charges for drugs and marijuana.

Special Meeting Scheduled On Clemente Master Plan

San Clemente planning commissioners will meet in a special study session Tuesday afternoon to delve into a new, 31-page report on the city's revised master plan.

The report, submitted by hired consultants and planning aides, covers general concepts of the future San Clemente as a balanced community with considerations for industry and commercial uses, coupled with the traditional residential flavor.

The 4 p.m. meeting will allow the commissioners time to discuss revisions to the supplemental report before they take any official action.

City Associate Planner Gene Schulte said the date of a public hearing on the report still has not been decided.

"We still need to consult with the city attorney to see if a hearing is needed on the report. Hearings, obviously, are necessary for a general plan or any amendments to it, but supplemental reports are something different," he said.

Whether a hearing is required or not, commissioners Wednesday night are expected to delay any action on the report until they study it further.

Wednesday's meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Touring Harbor

Dana Nature Walks Planned

Nature-walk-style tours of the Dana Point Marine Refuge and the site for the new Marine Studies Institute at Dana Harbor will begin on a regular basis near the end of this month, county schools aides said today.

The tours will be the first regular public opportunity for guided visitors to see the 3.2-acre site which eventually will become the marine studies center for thousands of Orange County students.

The formal christening of the institute will take place at the harbor May 1, 2 and 3 with scores of activities for youngsters and adults.

The tours will be guided by college and university students who are majoring in ocean sciences. The students will take small groups for walking lectures along the site near the harbor's pier, then onward around Dana Point itself where the wildlife refuge lies.

The dedication days will feature three specific activities.

Friday, May 1, will mark a massive workshop day for county students who will meet with occupational guidance counselors to discuss the varied opportunities in ocean-related vocations.

The students also will tour the refuge and learn more about the ocean and its tidal zones.

On Saturday, May 2, the official ceremonies will take place, including attendance by state, county and local figures and public officials.

The area will take on a festive atmosphere on Sunday with varied attractions, including water ski exhibitions, a dry-land boat show, a visit by Naval craft with the possibility of on-board tours, an art show showing student works on the sea, displays on the literature of the sea and a marine hardware display.

The institute has been set up as a nonprofit foundation through the auspices of the County Superintendent of Schools office.

Ultimately it will have lecture halls, a library and laboratory area along with ramps out into the bay and ocean from which students may fish or observe the sea at work.

The institute, financed through donations and fund-raising projects, will become an educational center for the county's 38,000 students who will travel there on field trips.

The Ford Foundation made an original grant for the institute late last year — $18,000.

The goal for the institute is $500,000 by 1971, $1.5 million more by 1973 and $3 million more by 1975.

Despite the years needed for raising of funds for the actual institute, facilities the site donated by the Orange County Harbor District will be used in the interim for student visits and the nature tours.

Dr. Andreas Rechnitzer, president of the committee planning the institute, has termed the proposed facility the only one in the world where students can trace their study of the sea from primary field trips to sophisticated research.

Stock Talk Set

All NAREB members are welcome. Reservations are available by calling 496-5353 no later than next Wednesday.

College Choir, Clemente Band Slate Concert

Saddleback College's Choir and the San Clemente Municipal Band will perform in a free concert Wednesday at the San Clemente High School Triton Center Auditorium.

The 8 p.m. performances will feature the choir directed by Richard Raub. The singers will appear for the first half of the evening.

The choir will open the performance with a Renaissance period offering of "O Magnum Mysterium" by Spanish composer Tomas Luis Vitoria. They also will sing works including "Three Hungarian Folk Songs" by Sieber and "Long Time Ago" with an arrangement by Asron Copland.

The band will take over the final part of the program.

Its performances will include "First Suite in E Flat" by English composer Gustav Holst and Beethoven's "Overture to Egmont Opus 84."

Dana Harbor Filling Up

Construction Work Begins Soon on Marina

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huge clamshell cranes will begin gouging away at two 80,000-cubic yard coffer dams in Dana Harbor in the next two weeks and the sea's surge will begin filling the future haven for thousands of boats.

Sea water which has been siphoned into the twin marinas in the new harbor already is up to the low-tide line, but several more feet of depth will be added when the two coffer dams are punched through.

Orange County Harbor District Resident Engineer Jack Rains said the dam-busting operation will be an extensive, two or three-week project, "but as soon as the equipment cuts through to let the water in, the tides will help clear out the rest."

The classic and simple method of the siphon was put to use to raise the marina water to its present minimum level.

The pipes were put to use about two weeks ago.

During the two or three weeks before the dams burst, crews will finish waterproofing seams in the deep concrete revetments of the marina, while other workmen will rush to finish the bridge spanning the channel between the two boat basins.

The concrete cap on the top of the bridge will be poured within the next seven days or so, Rains said.

The bridge, which will be dedicated to ailing Ohio Rep. Robert Kerwan (instrumental in federal appropriations for the harbor project) will rise an average of about 21 feet above the water's surface, thus allowing some shorter-masted sailboats to pass underneath.

As a hint to yachtsmen and their projections of the harbor's yachting qualities, Rains said most sailboats would probably be berthed in the east half of the marina because of the ease at sailing in and out of the 250-foot entrance ways during prevailing wind conditions.

Some sailors, however, already know the yachting qualities of the harbor.

On an average, sunny weekend day, he said, a hundred boaters use the already operating boat launching ramps at the harbor.

"Certainly the parking and paving aren't in yet, but it doesn't seem to cause any problems.

"Those large launching areas are a dream for boaters and they tell us so sometimes," Rains said.

As soon as the two dams break through and the marina fills, county supervisors are expected to let to bid contracts for installation of utilities and paving of the giant harbor's land areas.

Soon after that, crews for individual lease holders will begin moving in with their equipment and will work through the year's end building the slips, dock facilities, restaurants, boat service facilities, motels and other commercial ventures master planned for the $20-million marine complex.

Rains said the construction is progressing so well that workmen are up to two months ahead of schedule on the work.

"Actually the present contract for the marina construction and the bridge should be wound up by the end of summer, but if the work keeps up at the present pace the men should be through by the end of May," the engineer said.

By next summer, the first increment of slips will be filled to capacity with an estimated 1,500 boats bobbing at their lines.

In the meantime visitors still can drive to the westernmost part of the harbor, down the steep road along the flanks of Dana Point and fish or sightsee.

The launching ramp is open every Saturday and Sunday for free boat launching — a good compromise, temporarily.

Clemente Pupil Expelled

A San Clemente High School student with a record of 20 incidents dating back to fall of 1967 has been expelled after his arrest recently on marijuana possession charges.

The unidentified youth who now is in juvenile hall after the latest offense, was on probation before his arrest on charges of possessing the forbidden weed.

"Typically no student is expelled without a series of incidents of problems leading up to the expulsion action," District Supt. Truman Benedict said after the board of trustees expulsion last week.

But the youth's record shows cases of striking a teacher, vandalism, cutting classes, truancy and fighting on campus, the superintendent added.

Benedict said the youth has received counseling, continuation high school and has been the subject of many conversations between school officials and his parents, described as "very cooperative."

Linked to Rights

Barry, Ted Back Lower Vote Age

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Senate maneuvering over Negro voting rights legislation, the issue of lowering the voting age to 18 was raised anew today by two senators poles apart politically.

A Senate judiciary subcommittee called a hearing to give Sens. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), and Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.), a chance to advance their arguments that Congress can give the vote to 18-year-olds.

Although Goldwater and Kennedy agree on this, they differ on whether it should be made part of legislation to prevent denial of voting rights because of race.

The legislation is embroiled in a dispute between senators who want to continue the 1965 Voting Rights Act, applying to seven Southern states, and a nationwide bill urged by President Nixon and already passed by the House.

An amendment to lower the voting age to 18 already has been offered by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. One of the co-sponsors is Kennedy, the assistant Democratic leader.

But Goldwater says the proposal should be handled as a separate measure rather than entangled in the already sharp controversy over the voting rights legislation.

Many senators maintain the voting age can be lowered to 18 only by a constitutional amendment.

A proposed constitutional amendment lists 67 senators as co-sponsors and hearings on it already have been held by the Judiciary subcommittee, headed by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

However, Bayh signed up last week as one of 10 co-sponsors of Mansfield's amendment to the voting rights bill. An aide to Sen. Marlow W. Cook (R-Ky.), a subcommittee member, said he also has concluded the voting age can be lowered by statute and plans to introduce a separate bill.

In the Senate, where debate on the voting rights legislation began a week ago, supporters of a straight-out extension of the 1965 act have kept the upper hand so far.

A motion to tabi. the extension bill was rejected, as were two amendments offered by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., to ease the law's impact on the South.

The 1956 act suspended voter literacy tests and authorized the use of federal registrars in six Southern satates and parts of a seventh. It also requires these states to obtain advance approval for voting law changes from the U.S. attorney general.

The administration bill, which Southern senators prefer as the lesser of evils, drops this pre-clearance requirement and provides for uniform nationwide application of other parts of the 1965 act.

Kidnap Victim Says Guerrillas Eying Hostages

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — Sean Michael Holly's kidnapers told them they have other American diplomats in mind for use as hostages to exchange for imprisoned Communist terrorists.

Holly, the labor attache and second secretary at the U.S. embassy, was freed at 5 a.m. Sunday in exchange for two jailed guerrillas, Jose Manuel Aguirre Monzon and Vidalina Monzon Soto.

His abductors had demanded the release of four jailed comrades by 2:30 p.m. Sunday or said Holly would be killed. It turned out one of the four already had fled to Mexico and another was freed earlier in the week and had taken refuge in the Costa Rican embassy.

Aguirre and Miss Monzon joined Lionel El Cid in the Costa Rican diplomatic enclave and all three were granted safe conduct passes to Mexico.

Holly, 39, told an impromptu news conference he would not recognize the men who seized him from his car Friday at an intersection because they wore hats and masks throughout the ordeal.

"They said they had their eye on other officers in the embassy and that they would have killed me if I had tried to run," he said.

He said they took his glasses and blindfolded him before beginning the journey to a mountain hideout by car, on foot and on horseback. The abductors carried machine guns.

Once Aguirre and Miss Monzon were freed, the kidnapers brought Holly back to Guatemala City early Sunday and left him in the Church of the Divine Providence with instructions not to call anyone for an hour.

The hour up, "The first thing I did was to call my wife, Rebecca," Holly said. The couple has five children. He spoke to newsmen at the U.S. embassy following a tearful reunion with the family.

Peace Plan Ignores Arab Land Demand

PARIS (UPI) — Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann said today the Big Four were working on a new Middle East peace formula that no longer calls for unconditional Israeli evacuation of territories it seized from the Arabs in the 1967 war.

Schumann, addressing a foreign press luncheon, said he hoped the Big Four would agree on the formula, which also would send United Nations troops into the area again and create a demilitarized zone between Israeli and Arab forces.

In the past, the Soviet Union and France have demanded total withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied territories before there can be any negotiations — the position the Arabs have taken. Israel maintains it cannot withdraw until there are negotiations.

Authoritative diplomatic sources in Cairo said today France had proposed a plan which called for Israeli withdrawal linked with a pledge by the Arab nations to maintain peace. A second part of the plan deals with the Palestinian refugee problem and with setting up recognized frontiers, the sources said.

Schumann made a sweeping review of world problems and results of the visit he and President Georges Pompidou made to the United States. In the review he said President Nixon admitted that France might play a specific role in helping to bridge differences over the Vietnamese conflict.

5 Russ Advisers Killed in Egypt

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

A reliable Beirut publication reported during a weekend of Arab-Israeli clashes on three fronts that five Russian advisers serving with Egyptian troops have been killed in Israel air strikes.

In Cairo today, memorial services were held for Gen. Abdel Moneim Riad who was killed exactly one year ago by Israeli mortar fire on the second day of Egypt's "war of attrition" against Israel.

The steady increase in air and ground actions since has brought the Middle East to the brink of a new all-out war. The situation was worsened recently by accelerated Arab guerrilla activities from Lebanon.

Panther Lawyer Assails Jury Selection System

Wants Panel Picked From Community

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Arthur DeWitte League's lawyer today branded California's jury selection system as unconstitutional and imposed what is expected to be at least a three-day delay in the murder trial of the accused Black Panther.

League, 20, of Santa Ana, is accused of the shooting last June 4 of Santa Ana police officer Nelson Sasscer. It is alleged that the Negro militant gunned down the patrolman after he was ordered to produce identification.

Attorney Robert Greene asked Judge Samuel Dreizen to rule that the picking of a jury from the roster of names assigned to the court for the League trial would amount to denial of a fair trial for his client.

Those names, Greene said, are selected from Orange County's voter registration lists and do not reflect a true cross-section of the community.

Greene wants a jury picked from "the community as a whole and not under a system which denies my client a fair trial under any of the provisions envisaged by our law — among them economic, racial and political factors."

Greene's motion ended a two-hour delay in opening of the trial and was being debated at press time. Judge Dreizen delayed summoning of the first panel of prospective jurors until the motion is decided.

Greene indicated that he would have further motions to offer following settlement of his challenge of the jury system.

Among spectators in the courtroom today was Daniel Michael Lynem, 21, also a member of the Black Panther organization and the man who was cleared of the murder charges now faced by League.

A heavily reinforced detachment of sheriff's officers turned away more than 100 persons from the courtroom door after the 75 seats in Judge Dreizen's courtroom were quickly occupied this morning.

All persons entering the courtroom, with the exception of witnesses and the press, were carefully searched before they were allowed to take their seats.

There were no incidents other than loud complaints from several persons who wished to view the murder trial.

Black Panther literature was distributed in the courthouse corridor to all persons entering Judge Dreizen's courtroom.

Voters Should Discount Rumors in School Issue

Trustees of Capistrano Unified School District and other supporters of the Tuesday finance election are frankly concerned.

They're trying to reason with such obstacles as a rumor campaign that drug abuse is soaring at the high school and junior high school. This is not factual. On the contrary, police say, they've seen a decline in this problem area in recent years.

It's also clear that local youngsters will take some of the rap for college campus disturbances. This is patently unfair. The local kindergarten student or even the high school senior has little to do with the Santa Barbara uprising or the unrest at Cal State Fullerton.

Voters in this school district should decide the two finance issues strictly on their merits. Leaving out the extraneous issues, the school district has made a good case for the need of 7,400 children and those who will follow.

Capo's School Election Ends Hard Fought Drive

By RICHARD P. NALL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The election Tuesday for Capistrano Unified School District will climax one of the hardest fought support campaigns ever waged in an area where school finance issues have traditional tough sledding.

Truman Benedict, district superintendent, has been through 22 elections in 21 years with local schools, most of them before unification five years ago.

Most of them lost. His own daughter attended high school in quonset huts. It took 10 elections to secure funds to build the present San Clemente High School.

The district's most recent school election loss was last April when a turnout of about 40 percent turned down a 50-cent override by about three-to-two.

Supporters of this override are hoping for a 55 percent trunout Tuesday of the 15,270 persons registered to vote in the sprawling 156-square-mile district.

Election proponents are hoping that the bigger turnout will balance what they described as a large block of "historically built-in no votes to school finance measures."

The district electorate Tuesday will be voting for two measures.

One is authorization to increase the interest maximum from five to seven percent on $4.2 million in previously authorized bonds for school site acquisition and construction.

The bonds can't be sold at the present five percent limit. Given approval of this by the necessary two-thirds majority, district officials would expect to sell about $1.4 million this year and would sell the rest over a two to three year period.

Voters will also decile a 50-cent override that district officials say is necessary to maintain the existing educational program.

Without the override, which would represent a loss of about $700,000 in operating funds, school officials say that an across the board 10 percent cutback is necessary. This would range from busing and music programs to vocational education and larger classes.

The district now has about 7,400 students and estimates this will increase by 10 percent to more than 8,000 next year.

An organized group supporting the override calls itself ARVY which means Area Residents — Vote Yes.

It has waged a voluminous grassroots campaign that included bumper stickers, talks, advertising, telephone calls and news releases.

The ARVY effort will climax with a telephone campaign effort to turnout the voters tomorrow. Their hope is that the 30 to 35 percent who declared themselves undecided during a pre-campaign poll will turnout and vote yes.

Polls are open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. There are 11 polling places ranging in size from 1100 to 1900 registered voters.

Planners Slate Special Session On Sign Issue

The Laguna Beach Planning Commission will hold a special study session at 7:30 o'clock tonight in city hall council chambers to prepare amendments to the sign ordinance for presentation to the City Council Wednesday.

The commissioners have been asked by the council to devise precise wording for five changes in the ordinance which have caused or are believed likely to cause enforcement problems. They deal with measurement of sign area, situation of pole signs and sign setback from building sidelines.

Although the mechanism of amending the ordinance will require public hearings and other legal delays, the council has agreed to instruct the city staff to administer the law as if the amendments already were in effect as soon as wording is established.

Also at tonight's session, the planners will give a final review to the general plan goals statement before making their formal recommendation to the council.

French Reds Out Poll Gaullist in Voting

PARIS (UPI) — The Communist Party won more votes than the Gaullists Sunday in the first nationwide election since President Georges Pompidou took office.

Partial returns in the Cantonal (county) Elections today gave the Communists 23 percent of the votes compared with 15 percent for the Gaullists.

Deadline Nears For '70 Festival

Deadline for artists and craftsmen who wish to submit works for jurying in the 1970 Festival of Arts is 10 a.m. Saturday, grounds chairman Verner Beck said today.

The jurying will take place between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday and artists are asked to bring three examples of their work to Irvine Bowl between 7 a.m. and 10 a.m.

An artist wishing to apply in more than one medium should take three works in each medium, Beek said.

A combined jury elected by the artists and appointed by the Festival board will rate the works submitted on an established point system. Available space on the grounds is allocated according to scores received.

Artists who should apply Saturday are those who did not apply last year, those who applied but were not taken onto the grounds and those who were on the grounds last year but were asked to re-submit for the 1970 system. Those who exhibited last year and were not asked to re-submit are entitled to apply for space without jurying.

City Council Candidates Keeping Busy in Laguna

By BARBARA KREIBICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Laguna Beach City Council candidates are tuning up their vocal chords for a record-breaking series of "meet the candidates" sessions that will carry them to the eve of the April 14 municipal election.

The Laguna Beach Board of Realtors will get the ball rolling this week by presenting all five candidates at an 8 a.m. breakfast meeting Thursday in Ben Brown's Restaurant.

On hand to air their views and respond to questions will be incumbents Richard Goldberg and Joseph A. O'Sullivan and new candidates Joseph L. Tomchak, Peter Ostrander and Edward Lorr. The five are competing for three upcoming council vacancies.

On Tuesday evening, March 17, the Laguna Beach Coordinating Council will present the five candidates at a 7:30 p.m. meeting in the Laguna Federal building.

Wednesday morning, March 18, will find the quintet on the program at the 7:30 a.m. Chamber of Commerce breakfast in the Hotel Laguna.

At 8 p.m. on Thursday, March 26, the South Coast Democratic Peace Club will present the candidates in a public meeting in city hall council chambers.

A final session has been scheduled by the Laguna Beach Civic League on April 7, at a location to be announced.

In previous election years, it has been customary to schedule no more than two full-scale pre-election sessions for council candidates.

In addition to the public meetings, most of the candidates have their engagement calendars well filled with "coffee" dates for appearances before small organizations and neighborhood groups.

Goldberg kicked off his campaign Sunday evening at a cocktail party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Johnson and attended by about 200 guests.

In an informal talk, Goldberg promised to continue his role as a "24-hour councilman," referring to the fact that his business keeps him in Laguna and therefore available to constituents, while other councilmen and candidates are employed out of town.

Goldberg also introduced architect Peter Ostrander and told guests he is supporting Ostrander's candidacy.

Cyprus Nets 11 In Makarios Shooting Try

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — The Cyprus government said today 11 persons were arrested during the night as suspects in the attempted assassination Sunday of Archbishop Makarios, the president of this island nation.

Official sources said these were in addition to three men summoned for questioning earlier Sunday, two of them identified as members of an opposition group demanding union with Greece.

Witnesses of the atempt on Makarios' life were called in to view the suspects in a lineup later today.

Three gunmen firing automatic weapons from the roof of a high school shot down the president's helicopter at 7:10 a.m. Sunday as it lifted off from the palace grounds headed for a memorial service at Makheras Monastery, 30 miles from the capital.

Makarios escaped unhurt but the pilot, Zacharias Papadoyiannis, was wounded critically.

Worst Oil Fire Attacked

Dynamite Charge May Cause Louisiana Spill

VENICE, La. (UPI) — Firefighters prepared today to blow out a 27-day-old blaze on an offshore platform with a dynamite charge that could cause the nation's worst oil spill.

Calm seas and gentle breezes greeted workmen early today and they began preparing the 200-pound explosive charge to cap what has been called the worst offshore oil fire in history.

Putting out the blaze 30 miles offshore was only the first problem. The most difficult will be controlling an expected deluge of crude oil pollution after the fire is out.

An Interior Department spokesman said Chevron Oil Company's "Charlie" structure was believed capable of spewing anywhere from 900 to 8,000 barrels of oil a day until its eight damaged wells are capped — an operation that may take up to three weeks.

By comparison, the Santa Barbara Channel oil spill in California amounted to about 8,000 barrels of oil that leaked to the surface and stained beaches over a month-long period.

The recent oil slick that gummed Tampa Bay, Fla., was only 350 barrels.

Texas wild well firefighters working for Paul "Red" Adair have been ready for more than a week to detonate an explosion to put out the fire and begin the tricky process of installing shutoff valves to the ruptured well heads. But small craft warnings, high winds and seas up to 11 feet postponed the shot for the past few days.

Once the fireball that has been consuming the high pressure natural gas and oil from the wells is doused federal and state officials and Chevron crews will make the first rough estimate on the volume of oil being spilled.

At that point, Chevron will activate the world's first oil pollution control system designed to function in the open sea.

It will be the first test to see if hundreds of men working with barges, specially designed floating booms, newly developed oil skimmers and other equipment can contain a large spill and vacuum it out of the water before it reaches shore.

The Interior Department has said it thinks Chevron has done all it possibly could to control the anticipated spill. A spokesman said Chevron has the capability to scoop up as many as 20,000 barrels of oil a day.

The question was whether wave action would toss the oil over the barriers set up to contain it.

Grunion Hit Beach Tonight

The elusive grunion may slide in on the tide to spawn on beaches tonight.

It is always problematical when the slippery silversides will find conditions to their liking but those who chart the tides say any of the next four nights could bring a grunion hunter's payoff.

The small fish come in at high tide. Peak tide tonight is 10:24 p.m. Tuesday night it will be 11 p.m., Wednesday night 11:36 p.m. and early Friday morning 12:24 a.m.

The next possible dates for grunion spawning are March 25 to 28.

Two laws apply to grunion hunting. One is the fish may not be netted or trapped but must be caught with the hands. The second law is that anyone over 16 years of age must have a fishing license to catch grunion as any other fish.

Joint Approach to Sewage Problems Studied

By RICHARD P. NALL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

San Clemente city officials had a look at SERRA last week.

San Juan Capistrano councilmen will give her the once over tonight.

SERRA isn't a storm. She's a concept, a regional approach to sewage and ecology problems in the huge San Juan Basin of southern Orange County.

The basin, which reaches from the beach at San Juan Creek 15 miles back into Santa Ana Mountains, is served by seven public entities. It is estimated the area will have 244,000 residents by the year 2000.

It is these entities that would form SERRA in a cooperative approach to sewage problems — a joint powers agreement — if they all agree. SERRA means South East Regional Reclamation Authority.

As proposed, the involved agencies in the joint approach to sewage disposal and reclamation would be Moulton-Niguel Water District, San Juan Capistrano, Capistrano Beach Sanitary District, Dana Point Sanitary District, San Clemente, Santa Ana Mountain County Water District and Santa Margarita Water District.

The purpose of SERRA would be to eliminate the necessity for small agencies to construct and maintain duplicate facilities for carrying and purifying sewage.

A case in point is the location now a stone's throw from each other of separate treatment plants along San Juan Creek owned by Dana Point Sanitary District, Capistrano Beach Sanitary District and San Juan Capistrano.

Participating agencies in the future could buy space in carrying lines, treatment plant and outfall lines based on the extent of participation by each.

A single huge sewer main might be constructed in the future. This would eliminate for the participating agencies many costs such as separate rights-of-way acquisition, separate legal fees and separate engineering fees.

A sophisticated sewage purification plant could catch the water and purify it before release to the sea. Proponents of SERRA point out that such an agency would be far more able to prevent proliferation of pollution than each going it alone.

They maintain, as well, that should the political and social trend toward environmental protection result in future higher standards of sewage purification, SERRA would be in a better position to perform than seven individual agencies.

SERRA is designed as something of a limited partnership so that no participating agencies would give away local autonomy.

It would have no power of taxation or power to issue general obligation bonds but would be empowered to make application for and administer federal loans and grants, grants such as the type President Nixon has mentioned to fight sewage pollution.

Each participating agency would elect a member and an alternate to serve on the board of SERRA. The financial resources would come from the member agencies.

Members would participate in public work projects to the extent of the benefit derived and could withdraw from the agency by giving 120 days notice.

SERRA grew out of a study committee formed by county supervisors in 1963. It is co-chaired by Carl Kymla, manager of Moulton-Niguel County Water District, and J.B. Latham, president of Capistrano Beach Sanitary District.

A contract that would get SERRA off the ground is now making the rounds of the governing bodies of potential member agencies. If all agree SERRA is go.

Participating agencies would have different degrees of need and it would develop at different times. San Clemente for instance is building its own large sewage treatment plant. SERRA, for it, would be a provision for future growth.

Agencies forming SERRA initially would supply only the funds to keep the fledgling entity operating. In San Clemente it was estimated this might be $1,000 yearly.

Homes Still Dry

Granite Dump Aids Capo Fight

Two homes and a lot on an erosion plagued section of Beach Road in Capistrano Beach survived the weekend well, residents said today, but it took 35 truckloads of granite to do the job.

John Reynard, 35787 Beach Road, owner of two of the endangered parcels, said tons of granite boulders which he ordered "are working just fine."

Late last week Reynard's two homes and a lot owned by a neighbor next to them near the Poche beach were hit hard by heavy surf borne on high tides.

A large section of nearly new sea wall fell under the battering seas and emergency crews worked throughout Thursday staving off erosion with hundreds of sandbags.

Reynard then hired a contractor and ordered truckloads of granite from a west Riverside quarry.

The last loads are due to arrive through today.

The weekend surf and tide conditions worked in favor of the beachfront homeowners, with only light surf and moderately high tides reported.

The original estimates of damage in the erosion incident have not yet been tabulated, because the total cost for the expensive boulders has not been received.

"They started dumping them in front of the three spots before the weekend and they just work great — like a small jetty, and they soften the waves really well," Reynard said this morning.

"I don't know how much it's going to cost, but it will be worth it if the work saves the homes. It's not really that much when you figure it," he added.

Blood Tests, Prints Asked For Suspects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration proposed legislation Monday to subject suspects in federal crimes to fingerpringting and other detective tests such as saliva and blood checks even before being formally charged.

The Supreme Court has held that such identification procedures do not violate the consittutional guarantee against self-incrimination but only in cases involving suspects already charged.

The administration proposal would extend such tests to persons suspected of crimes in cases where there is no probable cause to arrest. The tests would be administered only upon issuance of a court order.

If enacted by Congress, a federal judge, commissioner or magistrate could order a suspect in a federal criminal case to submit to identification by "fingerprints, palm prints, foot prints, measurements, blood specimens, urine specimens, saliva samples, hair samples, handwriting exemplars, voice samples, photographs and lineups."

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said in a letter of transmittal to the House and Senate that the proposed law "will provide federal law enforcement officers with a useful new tool for the investigation of criminal activity and the apprehension of criminals."

Cyclists' Party Raided

Police Arrest 108 in Holy Jim Canyon Revelry

Orange County taxpayers provided the hangover brunch for 108 partying motorcycle gang members Sunday, after lawmen raided an unholy revel in Holy Jim Canyon, 20 miles east of El Toro.

Most of the 73 men and 35 women were booked into Orange County Jail for investigation of disturbing the peace, and immediately posted bail on the misdemeanor.

A haul of marijuana and other drugs, plus an assortment of 22 illegal weapons — including shotguns, swords and a medieval mace — plus allegedly stolen vehicles led to 29 additional bookings.

"Everybody was pretty well drunk," observed one sheriff's deputy who participated in the massive raid after dozens of complaints by campers and cabin dwellers in the rustic, wooded canyon.

First lawmen on the scene called in reinforcements, including 17 sheriff's deputies and California Highway Patrol officers, plus three buses to transport the suspects.

Sheriff's Lt. Ted Dwyer said three groups of residents who live in the usual sanctity of Holy Jim Canyon fled in fear for their lives and safety.

Representatives gathered in a remote corner of scenic O'Neill Park for the revelry included the Outlaws, the Gents, the Nuggets and the Hessians, investigators said.

Despite the low bail set for disturbing the peace and being drunk in public, a large number of cyclists and hangers-on found themselves stranded after release by impounding of vehicles.

A number of cars and motorcycles are being checked out as possibly stolen, authorities said today.

Possession of pistols, shotguns, knives and other deadly weapons classed as illegal led to stiffer charges against 22 persons, while another seven face charges for drugs and marijuana.

Special Meeting Scheduled On Clemente Master Plan

San Clemente planning commissioners will meet in a special study session Tuesday afternoon to delve into a new, 31-page report on the city's revised master plan.

The report, submitted by hired consultants and planning aides, covers general concepts of the future San Clemente as a balanced community with considerations for industry and commercial uses, coupled with the traditional residential flavor.

The 4 p.m. meeting will allow the commissioners time to discuss revisions to the supplemental report before they take any official action.

City Associate Planner Gene Schulte said the date of a public hearing on the report still has not been decided.

"We still need to consult with the city attorney to see if a hearing is needed on the report. Hearings, obviously, are necessary for a general plan or any amendments to it, but supplemental reports are something different," he said.

Whether a hearing is required or not, commissioners Wednesday night are expected to delay any action on the report until they study it further.

Wednesday's meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Scholarship Fund Group Seeks Organizations' Aid

An appeal to organizations was officially begun Monday by the Scholarships Fund Association serving the Capistrano Unified School District.

Gary Sodikoff is chairman of this aspect of the community-wide fund drive which is seeking funds for graduating seniors of San Clemente High School.

"The school has provided us with a list of organizations which have donated scholarships in the past," said Lyn Harris Hicks, head of the association.

"Organizations may either contribute to the general fund or finance a scholarship in the name of a person or organization," she said.

Contributions over $100 will be allowed to bear the donor's name while other amounts will be placed in the general fund. Contributions may be specified for students answering particular fields of study but they cannot be specified for a particular school.

Mrs. Hicks said the association works directly with the school to determine who will receive the scholarships. Barbara Cornwell is in charge of scholarships applications at the high school and has encouraged students who are college bound to apply for whatever scholarships she believes they have a chance to get.

"The amount of the scholarships awarded by our association will be determined by need, but financial need will not necessarily be a prerequisite for obtaining a scholarship," said Mrs. Hicks.

Working with Sodikoff in the organization's appeal will be Mrs. Wilma Bloom, Mrs. Dorothy Shank, Phil Ellsworth and Ted Kopp.

The association also is attempting to obtain scholarship money from industries and by appealing directly to individuals.

Air-sea Search Being Conducted For Lost Vessel

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter and surface craft out of Oceanside Harbor today are searching an area off San Onofre for a 22-foot outboard boat reportedly in trouble.

A search of the area 1½ miles southwest of the atomic power plant Sunday night turned up no sign of the distressed boat.

Coast Guard officials said the Harbor Police at Oceanside monitored a "mayday" call from a Citizens Band radio at 6:52 p.m. but the call was not from the distressed boat.

A Coast Guard helicopter was sent aloft at 6:50 p.m. and Oceanside surface craft searched the area until nearly midnight.

Authorities this morning were trying to locate the originator of the citizens band report.

Cerebral Attack Caused Death Of Mrs. Doran

Mrs. Florence M. Doran, 82, San Clemente suffered a fatal cerebral hemorrhage at the wheel of her car last Wednesday afternoon before it collided with another auto, the County Coroner's Office reported today.

Coroner's aides said an autopsy Thursday confirmed suspicions that the woman did not die from injuries suffered in the crash in which her car, traveling the wrong way in northbound lanes of El Camino Real, became involved in a collision.

Mrs. Doran, 140 Avenida Barcelona, died before noon Thursday at South Coast Community Hospital in South Laguna.

She had been in critical condition up to the time of her death. Hospital aides Thursday morning inadvertently had given her condition as critical more than an hour after she died.

Coroner's investigators said her hemorrhage was brought about by "severe hardening of the arteries."

Funeral services are pending for Mrs. Doran at Lesneski Mortuary in San Clemente.

Mrs. Carole Hanson, wife of Vietnam POW Marine Capt. Steve Hanson, will be featured speaker at the Constructive Action Council meeting of Laguna Hills March 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Royal Savings and Loan Association, El Toro.

Mrs. Hanson of 24112 Birdrock Dr., El Toro and three other POW wives recently completed a world tour in an effort to focus world attention on the plight of American POWs and bring pressure on Hanoi to conform to the Geneva Convention calling for humane treatment of prisoners.

Congo Diplomat Hosted by Wayne; Mining Deal Due?

Congo's ambassador to the United States was entertained in the Newport Beach homes of actor John Wayne and Ernest Saftig over the weekend in a business deal courtship that has potentially millions of dollars hanging on the outcome.

Wayne and Saftig are principals in the Newport Beach-based Statesman Mining Company which is seeking mineral exploration rights to all of the Congo.

Congolese Ambassador Justin Bomboko made the visit to gather facts for a report to Congo President Joseph Mobutu.

"I think he was impressed we gave out friendship and good feeling toward him. Certainly he was relaxed with us," Saftig said.

He remarked that "from everything Bomboko indicated, I think we will hear from him very soon."

Capo Council Eyes Rezoning

A public hearing on the rezoning of 19 acres between The Casas development and the San Diego Freeway will occupy San Juan Capistrano city councilmen at their meeting tonight.

The planning commission approved the rezoning of the property from single family residences to planned development which would permit condominium type housing.

Opponents of the zone change, primarily from The Casas, contend it would devaluate their property and create nuisance traffic along Los Pajaros Street which runs through their development. Preliminary plans call for the extension of the street to make it the main artery between the proposed condominiums and Camino Capistrano.

$165 Bankroll Taken Off Table

Next payday James Clope of San Clemente will ask for big bills.

The dollar variety, he discovered this weekend, doesn't work so well.

Clope, of 206 El Levante, went to a local donut shop late Friday for some coffee and crullers, his wages in his hand.

The money, he told police, was mostly one-dollar bills with a smattering of fives and a lone 20.

But the wad was just too thick to fit in his wallet, he lamented, so he set the bankroll and the wallet on a table while he went to a counter to order.

When he returned the bankroll was gone — all $165 worth.

Dunphy's son took his life last year while under the influence of drugs, and as a result Dunphy has studied the problem extensively. He has spoken before clubs, schools and on television.

The talk will be aimed at the consequences of drug use, and how to detect symptoms of those on drugs.

Refreshments will be served following the program.

Paperbacks Collected

A paperback library is being compiled in Fountain Valley High School with the assistance of South Coast Junior Woman's Club.

A section of the regular library, the paperbacks will be available to all students and for use in the remedial reading classes. Advisors hope the smaller books will be more enticing for poor readers.

Junior members have been collecting books and now are helping twice a month by typing fiction lists, pocket cards and setting up filing systems.

Assisting are the Mmes. Robert Marten, education chairman; Larry Long, Dick Trodick, Jon McKibben, Larry Moeller, Ed Borowiec and Daniel Calm. Anyone interested in donating suitable paperback books to the library may call Mrs. Marten.

Ford Shows 'Thrifty Swifty'

By CARL CARSTENSEN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A new Maverick described by Ford Division general manager John Naughton as a "thrifty swifty" is now on sale at local Ford dealers. Joining the newest Maverick, called the Grabber, is a similar Mustang powered by Ford's smallest V-8.

"We are offering these Grabber offsprings of the '70 Maverick and Mustang for the buyers who prefer a lot of show but not so much go in their sport cars," Naughton said. Advertising slogans describe the attributes of the Maverick Grabber as going "zero to sixty in under three cents" and "for $1,995 it's a little gas . . . For a little more, it's a grabber."

Distinctive features of the Grabber are dual racing mirrors, bodyside tape stripes, black painted hood and cowl, deck lid spoiler, woodgrain trimmed steering wheel, six-cylinder engine and five lively exterior colors — Grabber blue, Grabber orange, Grabber green, vermilion and bright yellow.

Grabber Mustang is a SportsRoof model with added features highlighted by Boss Mustang "C" tape stripes, dual racing mirrors, black-painted lower back panel, hub cap and trim rings, F70 white sidewall tires, Maverick's Grabber's five lively colors and Ford's 302 2V eight-cylinder engine.

Most options available with the 302-powered Mustang SportsRoof are available with Mustang Grabber.

Other dress-up features with Maverick Grabber include bright drip moldings, bright window frames; deluxe fuel cap; wheel trim rings; color keyed carpets; all vinyl black interior seat trim; black-painted lower back panel and black painted grille.

Options available with Maverick Grabber include Ford's largest six cylinder engine — the economical 250-cubic-inch version, automatic transmission, optional axle ratios, power steering, vinyl roof, convenience group, air conditioning, tinted glass and AM radio.

Cal State Fullerton Using New Computer

Instructional, research and administrative programs that rely on electronic data processing have advanced a generation at California State College, Fullerton with the installation of a new computer system.

Dr. Kenneth R. Doane, director of institutional research, said the new CDC 3150 system replaces an IBM 1620 and represents a jump from a second to third generation computer.

Valued at approximately $500,000, the system was acquired from Control Data Corp. of Minneapolis, Minn., under a long-term lease agreement that also involves nine other campuses of the California State Colleges.

Considered approximately 25 times more powerful than the 1620, the new system owes its superior performance to a combination of characteristics.

Featuring a magnetic tape capability, the CDC 3150 was activated this month when Dr. William B. Langsdorf, CSCF president, pressed a button starting the processing of a series of student-written programs in quantiative methods, physics and engineering.

"Our 1620, in use since 1964, was a workhorse, and hundreds of students learned computer techniques on it," Doane said. "But the increasing complexity of computer programs, coupled with the growing instructional and administrative workload on a rapidly expanding campus, necessitated an advance in hardware."

While the 3150 in itself is such an advance, another far-reaching aspect of the installation is its telephonic link with a new California State Colleges computer network that extends from Humboldt on the north to San Diego on the south.

Spring Fever On Wall St.

NEW YORK (AP) — A stripteaser with a white sweater tighter than the money supply caused an intense short-interest situation on Wall Street Thursday.

The touch of spring brought what is now getting to be a recurrent warm-weather phenomenon in the financial district—a girl with measurements to make any bear bullish. This one was Ronnie Bell, 44-24-35.

"Now that's a real conglomerate," remarked a knowledgeable messenger.

Accountants Get PR-man

John M. Briggs, deputy director of auditing, Douglas Aircraft Co., Long Beach, will handle public relations for the Orange County Chapter of the National Association of Accountants for 1969-70.

Briggs, a resident of Orange County for ten years, earned his Master of Business Administration from California State College at Fullerton. He is a Certified Public Accountant, and a member of the American Institute of CPA's and California Society of CPA's.

Glamour Stocks Lead Big Retreat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Glamor stocks paced a broad and fairly sharp retreat on Wall Street today in moderate turnover.

The UPI marketwide indicator showed a loss of 0.88 percent on 1,552 issues on the tape. Of these, 934 declined and 393 advanced.

The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips was off 5.81 at 778.31 near the bell.

Turnover of around 10 million shares compared with 10,980,000 shares on Friday.

Newton Zinder, analyst for the E. F. Hutton brokerage, said there was "no real news to spur the market on." He added that much of the selling was profit taking following recent big gains.

Another analyst said there appeared to be "less confidence about the prime interest rate being cut than there was a week ago."

Recent strength had been atributed to a reduction in the prime rate — that charged big corporations — by a number of small banks. The nation's large institutions, however, have indicated that such a move on their part may be at least two to three months away.

IBM, king of the glamor group, was among the hardest hit issues, closing down 8 1/2 at 316 1/2. One view is that big losses in the glamors may be "an indication that the bear market of 1969-70 is finally burning itself out." Some analysts noted that glamors traditionally have been the last to decline in a bear market.

S. S. Kresge, Jersey Standard, Carter Wallace and Roan Selection Trust were among the most active stocks in retreat.

Jersey Standard closed at 52 1/8, off 1/8.

South Coast Repertory

'Spoon River Anthology' Fine Ensemble Production

By TOM TITUS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

In its excellent production of "Spoon River Anthology," South Coast Repertory once again demonstrates its mastery of ensemble staging, bringing Edgar Lee Masters' collection of Midwestern nostalgia full blown to the stage of the company's Costa Mesa theater.

"SPOON RIVER ANTHOLOGY"
An evening of song and narrative by Edgar Lee Masters, directed by Ron Thronson, lighting by Les Zellan, visuals by Kenneth Shearer, presented Thursdays through Sundays until March 22 at South Coast Repertory Third Step Theater, 1827 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa.

THE CAST
James Baxes, Martha McFarland, Charles Hutchins, Toni Douglass, Larry Harbison, Toni Shearer, Musician: Ron Thronson.

This is no hastily mounted piece of readers' theater, but a full fledged production under the craftsmanlike direction of Ron Thronson who as onstage guitarist also controls the tempo of the evening. It has been staged with tender and loving hands, preserving the poetic beauty of the work.

The show's cast of six exhibits a coordinate style unequaled since the company's frenzied production of "America, Hurrah" two seasons ago, an unusual point of comparison, but one relevant in the area of ensemble approach. Intricate lighting effects and countless mood slides well documented by Kenneth Shearer contribute overwhelmingly to the success of the production.

Presented as the combined recollections of the citizens of one small Illinois community more than a century ago, "Spoon River Anthology" is narrated from the graveyard, a sometimes bitter, often humorous chronology of rural America. Emptiness and loneliness are major ingredients, but interspersed throughout are occasional winks of the eye, a gentle comic balance in a mood of general dejection and resignation.

It is a show which demands versatility, and this is served up in heaping helpings by a splendid cast of singing actors and actresses — James Baxes, Martha McFarland, Charles Hutchins, Toni Douglass, Larry Harbison and Toni Shearer.

Each is called upon to create a number of unrelated character vignettes, and none is more skilled at this art than is Baxes, who exhibits an astonishing aptitude for capturing impressions of the elderly. Baxes possesses a strong, rich voice which can shift smoothly from the fervor of a pulpit-pounding preacher into the creaking uncertainty of an old codger whom life and love have forsaken.

Another pair of resonant vocal cords belong to Hutchins, who handles the chores of the public speaker in several sequences with ringing authority. Harbison, an impressive newcomer to the SCR stage, invokes an affinity for rustic comedy which provides much of the show's spice.

Musically, much of the evening's enjoyment is due to the melodic tones of Toni Shearer, who takes over the more difficult solo arrangements. Miss Shearer, one of the more dynamic of local musical actresses, makes her debut on the SCR stage a memorable one.

Martha McFarland brings poignancy mixed with an occasional fillip of broad comedy to her varied assignments. And Toni Douglass adds a strong dose of feminine charm to her convincing interpretations.

Music, lighting and visual effects blend skillfully with top notch ensemble performance in this skillfully constructed presentation which will stir a responsive chord in anyone with a small town background. Characters and circumstances are ageless, and author Masters has penned his work with indelible ink.

Only two more weekends remain for "Spoon River Anthology" at the SCR Third Step Theater, 1827 Newport Blvd. in downtown Costa Mesa.

Georges Foundas turns out to be the right man for Melina Mercouri in "Never on Sunday," the motion picture which may be seen on Channel 9 tonight at 7:30. Miss Mercouri was picked as best actress at Cannes Film Festival for this movie.

Original Musical Set For Premiere at GWC

"Irving," an original two-act musical comedy about a computer with a John Wayne-sounding dialect, will be produced at Golden West College, April 10-11 and 16-18.

It is the first musical on a major scale to be staged at Golden West, and to accommodate both props and large audiences it will be held in the College Center, with the curtain going up at 8:30 p.m.

General admission tickets are $1.00, and may be purchased in advance through the college book store.

"Irving" is the product of the composer-writer team of Glen Wescott and Stewart Rogers, two artists who have three prior musical comedy successes to their credit.

Wescott, the composer, wrote the music and lyrics to "The Golden Knight" and the highly acclaimed "Little Man in Search of His Serious Side." The latter ran six months at the Orange Studio Theater and two months in Hollywood.

Rogers, a member of the Golden West faculty, wrote the script and is directing. He has written nine shows and directed more than 50, including "Calico," his first musical which was well received in its debut at Santa Ana College.

Patton Scott's Hero

General's 'Gigantic Stature' Lauded

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It is rare for a U.S. Marine to pick an army officer as his hero.

But the late Gen. George S. Patton has become something of a personal hero to actor George O. Scott as the result of playing the title role in "Patton," a $15 million roadshow film by 20th Century-Fox.

Scott, who rose to the rank of sergeant during a four-year hitch in the Marines, became fascinated with the personality of the famed U.S. 3rd Army commander who achieved notoriety by slapping a shellshocked private and later won renown for his march across France.

"I think I could write a book about Patton now," he said. "My biggest difficulty was to avoid the popular cliche of him — to show him not as a swaggering bully with a gun but as he actually was, a complex, multifaceted man.

"Patton had gigantic stature as a human being."

Like Patton, Scott has had a stormy and controversial career. He once refused an Academy Award nomination and by the time he was 30 he had been thrice-married and had his nose broken five times. But time and a happy third marriage have mellowed his impetuous nature.

"I don't have a definition of controversial," he said mildly. "If it means I like to live my own life, then I suppose I am. But I'm not meddlesome, I despise gossip, and I don't stick my nose into other people's business."

Scott is a six-footer with cloudy eyes and an imperious profile. Admired by other actors for his dedication and skill at his craft, he says he became an actor because "it's the only thing I can do successfully.

"That's a left-handed thing to say, but it's true. Acting has its gratifications and rewards. But it is rather like gambling luck — you can kill it by talking about it.

"You can make a mistake by trying to overanalyze either a performance or your own life. It'll lead you on the road to the laughing academy. Better leave it to the critics—that's their job."

The key word in Scott's philosophy is distinction.

"It is unforgivable for a man not to aspire to distinction in everything he does," he said. "You also have to prize individuality very highly. It's one of the things that make man a higher animal — if he is."

Scott feels his own worst fault is intellectual laziness.

"I know I could be a better person," he said, "if I laid on the sweat and tears it takes. It's like a good marriage: you have to slave at it to get the best results."

His best trait, he feels is that he likes people individually, but not in crowds.

"I'm really gregarious," he said, "although some people might not think so."

Scott's biggest professional goal is to play "Macbeth" with his actress wife, Colleen Dewhurst, as costar.

Panther Lawyer Assails Jury Selection System

1st Plunge Fatal

Tustin Woman's Chute Snags

Never before aloft in a small plane, a young Tustin woman photographer died Saturday when she tried to parachute from the disintegrating skydivers' special over Perris, in Riverside County.

Her husband watched in horror from the ground as the 22-year-old victim, her chute snagged on the tail, plunged to earth.

The pilot, who also bailed out, was hit by the falling plane on the way down and critically injured, while four sky diving enthusiasts had already parachuted routinely.

Madeline M. Matthews, an insurance company employe, was killed instantly, and William R. Scherer, 26, of Santa Ana, was listed today in guarded condition at Riverside Community Hospital.

He suffered severe head injuries when struck by debris, or the plane itself, according to authorities probing the tragedy.

Mrs. Matthews' husband David, a Marine assigned to El Toro MCAS, watched the tragedy unfold.

The single-engine Stinson, specially outfitted for parachuting sport, took off earlier in the day with four skydivers aboard.

Mrs. Matthews had never been up, but went along to photograph their dramatic leaps, her grief-stricken husband revealed afterward.

Structural difficulty developed after the four divers had jumped and Mrs. Matthews tried to bail out, but opened her parachute prematurely.

The tail of the plane snagged it, ripping a gaping hole in the silk.

Besides the victim's husband, another chutist, Lowell Roeder, said the plane went into a tailspin and part of a wing peeled back and broke off as it fell.

An investigation was immediately begun by the National Transportation Safety Board.

Jury Wants Panel Picked From Community

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Arthur DeWitte League's lawyer today branded California's jury selection system as unconstitutional and imposed what is expected to be at least a three-day delay in the murder trial of the accused Black Panther.

League, 20, of Santa Ana, is accused of the shooting last June 4 of Santa Ana police officer Nelson Sasscer. It is alleged that the Negro militant gunned down the patrolman after he was ordered to produce identification.

Attorney Robert Greene asked Judge Samuel Dreizen to rule that the picking of a jury from the roster of names assigned to the court for the League trial would amount to denial of a fair trial for his client.

Those names, Greene said, are selected from Orange County's voter registration lists and do not reflect a true cross-section of the community.

Greene wants a jury picked from "the community as a whole and not under a system which denies my client a fair trial under any of the provisions envisaged by our law — among them economic, racial and political factors."

Greene's motion ended a two-hour delay in opening of the trial and was being debated at press time. Judge Dreizen delayed summoning of the first panel of prospective jurors until the motion is decided.

Greene indicated that he would have further motions to offer following settlement of his challenge of the jury system.

Among spectators in the courtroom today was Daniel Michael Lynem, 21, also a member of the Black Panther organization and the man who was cleared of the murder charges now faced by League.

A heavily reinforced detachment of sheriff's officers turned away more than 100 persons from the courtroom door after the 75 seats in Judge Dreizen's courtroom were quickly occupied this morning.

All persons entering the courtroom, with the exception of witnesses and the press, were carefully searched before they were allowed to take their seats.

There were no incidents other than loud complaints from several persons who wished to view the murder trial.

Black Panther literature was distributed in the courthouse corridor to all persons entering Judge Dreizen's courtroom.

Capo's School Election Ends Hard Fought Drive

By RICHARD P. NALL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The election Tuesday for Capistrano Unified School District will climax one of the hardest fought support campaigns ever waged in an area where school finance issues have traditional tough sledding.

Truman Benedict, district superintendent, has been through 22 elections in 21 years with local schools, most of them before unification five years ago.

Most of them lost. His own daughter attended high school in quonset huts. It took 10 elections to secure funds to build the present San Clemente High School.

The district's most recent school election loss was last April when a turnout of about 40 percent turned down a 50-cent override by about three-to-two.

Supporters of this override are hoping for a 55 percent trunout Tuesday of the 15,270 persons registered to vote in the sprawling 156-square-mile district.

Election proponents are hoping that the bigger turnout will balance what they described as a large block of "historically built-in no votes to school finance measures."

The district electorate Tuesday will be voting for two measures.

One is authorization to increase the interest maximum from five to seven percent on $4.2 million in previously authorized bonds for school site acquisition and construction.

The bonds can't be sold at the present five percent limit. Given approval of this by the necessary two-thirds majority, district officials would expect to sell about $1.4 million this year and would sell the rest over a two to three year period.

Voters will also decile a 50-cent override that district officials say is necessary to maintain the existing educational program.

Without the override, which would represent a loss of about $700,000 in operating funds, school officials say that an across the board 10 percent cutback is necessary. This would range from busing and music programs to vocational education and larger classes.

The district now has about 7,400 students and estimates this will increase by 10 percent to more than 8,000 next year.

An organized group supporting the override calls itself ARVY which means Area Residents — Vote Yes.

It has waged a voluminous grassroots campaign that included bumper stickers, talks, advertising, telephone calls and news releases.

The ARVY effort will climax with a telephone campaign effort to turnout the voters tomorrow. Their hope is that the 30 to 35 percent who declared themselves undecided during a pre-campaign poll will turnout and vote yes.

Polls are open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. There are 11 polling places ranging in size from 1100 to 1900 registered voters.

Planners Slate Special Session On Sign Issue

The Laguna Beach Planning Commission will hold a special study session at 7:30 o'clock tonight in city hall council chambers to prepare amendments to the sign ordinance for presentation to the City Council Wednesday.

The commissioners have been asked by the council to devise precise wording for five changes in the ordinance which have caused or are believed likely to cause enforcement problems. They deal with measurement of sign area, situation of pole signs and sign setback from building sidelines.

Although the mechanism of amending the ordinance will require public hearings and other legal delays, the council has agreed to instruct the city staff to administer the law as if the amendments already were in effect as soon as wording is established.

Also at tonight's session, the planners will give a final review to the general plan goals statement before making their formal recommendation to the council.

Deadline Nears For '70 Festival

Deadline for artists and craftsmen who wish to submit works for jurying in the 1970 Festival of Arts is 10 a.m. Saturday, grounds chairman Verner Beck said today.

The jurying will take place between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday and artists are asked to bring three examples of their work to Irvine Bowl between 7 a.m. and 10 a.m.

An artist wishing to apply in more than one medium should take three works in each medium, Beek said.

A combined jury elected by the artists and appointed by the Festival board will rate the works submitted on an established point system. Available space on the grounds is allocated according to scores received.

Artists who should apply Saturday are those who did not apply last year, those who applied but were not taken onto the grounds and those who were on the grounds last year but were asked to re-submit for the 1970 system. Those who exhibited last year and were not asked to re-submit are entitled to apply for space without jurying.

French Reds Out Poll Gaullist in Voting

PARIS (UPI) — The Communist Party won more votes than the Gaullists Sunday in the first nationwide election since President Georges Pompidou took office.

Partial returns in the Cantonal (county) Elections today gave the Communists 23 percent of the votes compared with 15 percent for the Gaullists.

City Council Candidates Keeping Busy in Laguna

By BARBARA KREIBICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Laguna Beach City Council candidates are tuning up their vocal chords for a record-breaking series of "meet the candidates" sessions that will carry them to the eve of the April 14 municipal election.

The Laguna Beach Board of Realtors will get the ball rolling this week by presenting all five candidates at an 8 a.m. breakfast meeting Thursday in Ben Brown's Restaurant.

On hand to air their views and respond to questions will be incumbents Richard Goldberg and Joseph A. O'Sullivan and new candidates Joseph L. Tomchak, Peter Ostrander and Edward Lorr. The five are competing for three upcoming council vacancies.

On Tuesday evening, March 17, the Laguna Beach Coordinating Council will present the five candidates at a 7:30 p.m. meeting in the Laguna Federal building.

Wednesday morning, March 18, will find the quintet on the program at the 7:30 a.m. Chamber of Commerce breakfast in the Hotel Laguna.

At 8 p.m. on Thursday, March 26, the South Coast Democratic Peace Club will present the candidates in a public meeting in city hall council chambers.

A final session has been scheduled by the Laguna Beach Civic League on April 7, at a location to be announced.

In previous election years, it has been customary to schedule no more than two full-scale pre-election sessions for council candidates.

In addition to the public meetings, most of the candidates have their engagement calendars well filled with "coffee" dates for appearances before small organizations and neighborhood groups.

Goldberg kicked off his campaign Sunday evening at a cocktail party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Johnson and attended by about 200 guests.

In an informal talk, Goldberg promised to continue his role as a "24-hour councilman," referring to the fact that his business keeps him in Laguna and therefore available to constituents, while other councilmen and candidates are employed out of town.

Goldberg also introduced architect Peter Ostrander and told guests he is supporting Ostrander's candidacy.

Cyprus Nets 11 In Makarios Shooting Try

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — The Cyprus government said today 11 persons were arrested during the night as suspects in the attempted assassination Sunday of Archbishop Makarios, the president of this island nation.

Official sources said these were in addition to three men summoned for questioning earlier Sunday, two of them identified as members of an opposition group demanding union with Greece.

Witnesses of the atempt on Makarios' life were called in to view the suspects in a lineup later today.

Three gunmen firing automatic weapons from the roof of a high school shot down the president's helicopter at 7:10 a.m. Sunday as it lifted off from the palace grounds headed for a memorial service at Makheras Monastery, 30 miles from the capital.

Makarios escaped unhurt but the pilot, Zacharias Papadoyiannis, was wounded critically.

Worst Oil Fire Attacked

Dynamite Charge May Cause Louisiana Spill

VENICE, La. (UPI) — Firefighters prepared today to blow out a 27-day-old blaze on an offshore platform with a dynamite charge that could cause the nation's worst oil spill.

Calm seas and gentle breezes greeted workmen early today and they began preparing the 200-pound explosive charge to cap what has been called the worst offshore oil fire in history.

Putting out the blaze 30 miles offshore was only the first problem. The most difficult will be controlling an expected deluge of crude oil pollution after the fire is out.

An Interior Department spokesman said Chevron Oil Company's "Charlie" structure was believed capable of spewing anywhere from 900 to 8,000 barrels of oil a day until its eight damaged wells are capped — an operation that may take up to three weeks.

By comparison, the Santa Barbara Channel oil spill in California amounted to about 8,000 barrels of oil that leaked to the surface and stained beaches over a month-long period.

The recent oil slick that gummed Tampa Bay, Fla., was only 350 barrels.

Texas wild well firefighters working for Paul "Red" Adair have been ready for more than a week to detonate an explosion to put out the fire and begin the tricky process of installing shutoff valves to the ruptured well heads. But small craft warnings, high winds and seas up to 11 feet postponed the shot for the past few days.

Once the fireball that has been consuming the high pressure natural gas and oil from the wells is doused federal and state officials and Chevron crews will make the first rough estimate on the volume of oil being spilled.

At that point, Chevron will activate the world's first oil pollution control system designed to function in the open sea.

It will be the first test to see if hundreds of men working with barges, specially designed floating booms, newly developed oil skimmers and other equipment can contain a large spill and vacuum it out of the water before it reaches shore.

The Interior Department has said it thinks Chevron has done all it possibly could to control the anticipated spill. A spokesman said Chevron has the capability to scoop up as many as 20,000 barrels of oil a day.

The question was whether wave action would toss the oil over the barriers set up to contain it.

Grunion Hit Beach Tonight

The elusive grunion may slide in on the tide to spawn on beaches tonight.

It is always problematical when the slippery silversides will find conditions to their liking but those who chart the tides say any of the next four nights could bring a grunion hunter's payoff.

The small fish come in at high tide. Peak tide tonight is 10:24 p.m. Tuesday night it will be 11 p.m., Wednesday night 11:36 p.m. and early Friday morning 12:24 a.m.

The next possible dates for grunion spawning are March 25 to 28.

Two laws apply to grunion hunting. One is the fish may not be netted or trapped but must be caught with the hands. The second law is that anyone over 16 years of age must have a fishing license to catch grunion as any other fish.

Joint Approach to Sewage Problems Studied

By RICHARD P. NALL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

San Clemente city officials had a look at SERRA last week.

San Juan Capistrano councilmen will give her the once over tonight.

SERRA isn't a storm. She's a concept, a regional approach to sewage and ecology problems in the huge San Juan Basin of southern Orange County.

The basin, which reaches from the beach at San Juan Creek 15 miles back into Santa Ana Mountains, is served by seven public entities. It is estimated the area will have 244,000 residents by the year 2000.

It is these entities that would form SERRA in a cooperative approach to sewage problems — a joint powers agreement — if they all agree. SERRA means South East Regional Reclamation Authority.

As proposed, the involved agencies in the joint approach to sewage disposal and reclamation would be Moulton-Niguel Water District, San Juan Capistrano, Capistrano Beach Sanitary District, Dana Point Sanitary District, San Clemente, Santa Ana Mountain County Water District and Santa Margarita Water District.

The purpose of SERRA would be to eliminate the necessity for small agencies to construct and maintain duplicate facilities for carrying and purifying sewage.

A case in point is the location now a stone's throw from each other of separate treatment plants along San Juan Creek owned by Dana Point Sanitary District, Capistrano Beach Sanitary District and San Juan Capistrano.

Participating agencies in the future would buy space in carrying lines, treatment plant and outfall lines based on the extent of participation by each.

A single huge sewer main might be constructed in the future. This would eliminate for the participating agencies many costs such as separate rights-of-way acquisition, separate legal fees and separate engineering fees.

A sophisticated sewage purification plant could catch the water and purify it before release to the sea. Proponents of SERRA point out that such an agency would be far more able to prevent proliferation of pollution than each going it alone.

They maintain, as well, that should the political and social trend toward environmental protection result in future higher standards of sewage purification, SERRA would be in a better position to perform than seven individual agencies.

SERRA is designed as something of a limited partnership so that no participating agencies would give away local autonomy.

It would have no power of taxation or power to issue general obligation bonds but would be empowered to make application for and administer federal loans and grants, grants such as the type President Nixon has mentioned to fight sewage pollution.

Each participating agency would elect a member and an alternate to serve on the board of SERRA. The financial resources would come from the member agencies.

Members would participate in public work projects to the extent of the benefit derived and could withdraw from the agency by giving 120 days notice.

SERRA grew out of a study committee formed by county supervisors in 1968. It is co-chaired by Carl Kymla, manager of Moulton-Niguel County Water District, and J.B. Latham, president of Capistrano Beach Sanitary District.

A contract that would get SERRA off the ground is now making the rounds of the governing bodies of potential member agencies. If all agree SERRA is go.

Participating agencies would have different degrees of need and it would develop at different times. San Clemente for instance is building its own large sewage treatment plant. SERRA, for it, would be a provision for future growth.

Agencies forming SERRA initially would supply only the funds to keep the fledgling entity operating. In San Clemente it was estimated this might be $1,000 yearly.

Homes Still Dry

Granite Dump Aids Capo Fight

Two homes and a lot on an erosion plagued section of Beach Road in Capistrano Beach survived the weekend well, residents said today, but it took 35 truckloads of granite to do the job.

John Reynard, 35787 Beach Road, owner of two of the endangered parcels, said tons of granite boulders which he ordered "are working just fine."

Late last week Reynard's two homes and a lot owned by a neighbor next to them near the Poche beach were hit hard by heavy surf borne on high tides.

A large section of nearly new sea wall fell under the battering seas and emergency crews worked throughout Thursday staving off erosion with hundreds of sandbags.

Reynard then hired a contractor and ordered truckloads of granite from a west Riverside quarry.

The last loads are due to arrive through today.

The weekend surf and tide conditions worked in favor of the beachfront homeowners, with only light surf and moderately high tides reported.

The original estimates of damage in the erosion incident have not yet been tabulated, because the total cost for the expensive boulders has not been received.

"They started dumping them in front of the three spots before the weekend and they just work great — like a small jetty, and they soften the waves really well," Reynard said this morning.

"I don't know how much it's going to cost, but it will be worth it if the work saves the homes. It's not really that much when you figure it," he added.

Scholarship Fund Group Seeks Organizations' Aid

An appeal to organizations was officially begun Monday by the Scholarships Fund Association serving the Capistrano Unified School District.

Gary Sodikoff is chairman of this aspect of the community-wide fund drive which is seeking funds for graduating seniors of San Clemente High School.

"The school has provided us with a list of organizations which have donated scholarships in the past," said Lyn Harris Hicks, head of the association.

"Organizations may either contribute to the general fund or finance a scholarship in the name of a person or organization," she said.

Contributions over $100 will be allowed to bear the donor's name while other amounts will be placed in the general fund. Contributions may be specified for students answering particular fields of study but they cannot be specified for a particular school.

Mrs. Hicks said the association works directly with the school to determine who will receive the scholarships. Barbara Cornwell is in charge of scholarships applications at the high school and has encouraged students who are college bound to apply for whatever scholarships she believes they have a chance to get.

"The amount of the scholarships awarded by our association will be determined by need, but financial need will not necessarily be a prerequisite for obtaining a scholarship," said Mrs. Hicks.

Working with Sodikoff in the organization's appeal will be Mrs. Wilma Bloom, Mrs. Dorothy Shank, Phil Ellsworth and Ted Kopp.

The association also is attempting to obtain scholarship money from industries and by appealing directly to individuals.

Air-sea Search Being Conducted For Lost Vessel

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter and surface craft out of Oceanside Harbor today are searching an area off San Onofre for a 22-foot outboard boat reportedly in trouble.

A search of the area 1½ miles southwest of the atomic power plant Sunday night turned up no sign of the distressed boat.

Coast Guard officials said the Harbor Police at Oceanside monitored a "mayday" call from a Citizens Band radio at 6:52 p.m. but the call was not from the distressed boat.

A Coast Guard helicopter was sent aloft at 6:50 p.m. and Oceanside surface craft searched the area until nearly midnight.

Authorities this morning were trying to locate the originator of the citizens band report.

Cerebral Attack Caused Death Of Mrs. Doran

Mrs. Florence M. Doran, 82, San Clemente suffered a fatal cerebral hemorrhage at the wheel of her car last Wednesday afternoon before it collided with another auto, the County Coroner's Office reported today.

Coroner's aides said an autopsy Thursday confirmed suspicions that the woman did not die from injuries suffered in the crash in which her car, traveling the wrong way in northbound lanes of El Camino Real, became involved in a collision.

Mrs. Doran, 140 Avenida Barcelona, died before noon Thursday at South Coast Community Hospital in South Laguna.

She had been in critical condition up to the time of her death. Hospital aides Thursday morning inadvertently had given her condition as critical more than an hour after she died.

Coroner's investigators said her hemorrhage was brought about by "severe hardening of the arteries."

Funeral services are pending for Mrs. Doran at Lesneski Mortuary in San Clemente.

Talk Scheduled By Mrs. Hanson

Mrs. Carole Hanson, wife of Vietnam POW Marine Capt. Steve Hanson, will be featured speaker at the Constructive Action Council meeting of Laguna Hills March 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Royal Savings and Loan Association, El Toro.

Mrs. Hanson of 24112 Birdrock Dr., El Toro and three other POW wives recently completed a world tour in an effort to focus world attention on the plight of American POWs and bring pressure on Hanoi to conform to the Geneva Convention calling for humane treatment of prisoners.

Council president Earl M. Rees said all residents of the Laguna Hills area are invited to attend. For further information call 837-4123.

Blood Tests, Prints Asked For Suspects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration proposed legislation Monday to subject suspects in federal crimes to fingerpringting and other detective tests such as saliva and blood checks even before being formally charged.

The Supreme Court has held that such identification procedures do not violate the consittutional guarantee against self-incrimination but only in cases involving suspects already charged.

The administration proposal would extend such tests to persons suspected of crimes in cases where there is no probable cause to arrest. The tests would be administered only upon issuance of a court order.

If enacted by Congress, a federal judge, commissioner or magistrate could order a suspect in a federal criminal case to submit to identification by "fingerprints, palm prints, foot prints, measurements, blood specimens, urine specimens, saliva samples, hair samples, handwriting exemplars, voice samples, photographs and lineups."

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said in a letter of transmittal to the House and Senate that the proposed law "will provide federal law enforcement officers with a useful new tool for the investigation of criminal activity and the apprehension of criminals."

Congo Diplomat Hosted by Wayne; Mining Deal Due?

Congo's ambassador to the United States was entertained in the Newport Beach homes of actor John Wayne and Ernest Saftig over the weekend in a business deal courtship that has potentially millions of dollars hanging on the outcome.

Wayne and Saftig are principals in the Newport Beach-based Statesman Mining Company which is seeking mineral exploration rights to all of the Congo.

Congolese Ambassador Justin Bomboko made the visit to gather facts for a report to Congo President Joseph Mobutu.

"I think he was impressed we gave out friendship and good feeling toward him. Certainly he was relaxed with us," Saftig said.

He remarked that "from everything Bomboko indicated, I think we will hear from him very soon."

Capo Council Eyes Rezoning

A public hearing on the rezoning of 19 acres between The Casas development and the San Diego Freeway will occupy San Juan Capistrano city councilmen at their meeting tonight.

The planning commission approved the rezoning of the property from single family residences to planned development which would permit condominium type housing.

Opponents of the zone change, primarily from The Casas, contend it would devaluate their property and create nuisance traffic along Los Pajaros Street which runs through their development. Preliminary plans call for the extension of the street to make it the main artery between the proposed condominiums and Camino Capistrano.

$165 Bankroll Taken Off Table

Next payday James Clope of San Clemente will ask for big bills.

The dollar variety, he discovered this weekend, doesn't work so well.

Clope, of 206 El Levante, went to a local donut shop late Friday for some coffee and crullers, his wages in his hand.

The money, he told police, was mostly one-dollar bills with a smattering of fives and a lone 20.

But the wad was just too thick to fit in his wallet, he lamented, so he set the bankroll and the wallet on a table while he went to a counter to order.

When he returned the bankroll was gone — all $165 worth.

Cyclists' Party Raided

Police Arrest 108 in Holy Jim Canyon Revelry

Orange County taxpayers provided the hangover brunch for 108 partying motorcycle gang members Sunday, after lawmen raided an unholy revel in Holy Jim Canyon, 20 miles east of El Toro.

Most of the 73 men and 35 women were booked into Orange County Jail for investigation of disturbing the peace, and immediately posted bail on the misdemeanor.

A haul of marijuana and other drugs, plus an assortment of 22 illegal weapons — including shotguns, swords and a medieval mace — plus allegedly stolen vehicles led to 29 additional bookings.

"Everybody was pretty well drunk," observed one sheriff's deputy who participated in the massive raid after dozens of complaints by campers and cabin dwellers in the rustic, wooded canyon.

First lawmen on the scene called in reinforcements, including 17 sheriff's deputies and California Highway Patrol officers, plus three buses to transport the suspects.

Sheriff's Lt. Ted Dwyer said three groups of residents who live in the usual sanctity of Holy Jim Canyon fled in fear for their lives and safety.

Representatives gathered in a remote corner of scenic O'Neill Park for the revelry included the Outlaws, the Gents, the Nuggets and the Hessians, investigators said.

Despite the low bail set for disturbing the peace and being drunk in public, a large number of cyclists and hangers-on found themselves stranded after release by impounding of vehicles.

A number of cars and motorcycles are being checked out as possibly stolen, authorities said today.

Possession of pistols, shotguns, knives and other deadly weapons classed as illegal led to stiffer charges against 22 persons, while another seven face charges for drugs and marijuana.

Special Meeting Scheduled On Clemente Master Plan

San Clemente planning commissioners will meet in a special study session Tuesday afternoon to delve into a new, 31-page report on the city's revised master plan.

The report, submitted by hired consultants and planning aides, covers general concepts of the future San Clemente as a balanced community with considerations for industry and commercial uses, coupled with the traditional residential flavor.

The 4 p.m. meeting will allow the commissioners time to discuss revisions to the supplemental report before they take any official action.

City Associate Planner Gene Schulte said the date of a public hearing on the report still has not been decided.

"We still need to consult with the city attorney to see if a hearing is needed on the report. Hearings, obviously, are necessary for a general plan or any amendments to it, but supplemental reports are something different," he said.

Whether a hearing is required or not, commissioners Wednesday night are expected to delay any action on the report until they study it further.

Wednesday's meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Touring Harbor

Dana Nature Walks Planned

Nature-walk-style tours of the Dana Point Marine Refuge and the site for the new Marine Studies Institute at Dana Harbor will begin on a regular basis near the end of this month, county schools aides said today.

The tours will be the first regular public opportunity for guided visitors to see the 3.2-acre site which eventually will become the marine studies center for thousands of Orange County students.

The formal christening of the institute will take place at the harbor May 1, 2 and 3 with scores of activities for youngsters and adults.

The tours will be guided by college and university students who are majoring in ocean sciences. The students will take small groups for walking lectures along the site near the harbor's pier, then onward around Dana Point itself where the wildlife refuge lies.

The dedication days will feature three specific activities.

Friday, May 1, will mark a massive workshop day for county students who will meet with occupational guidance counselors to discuss the varied opportunities in ocean-related vocations.

The students also will tour the refuge and learn more about the ocean and its tidal zones.

On Saturday, May 2, the official ceremonies will take place, including attendance by state, county and local figures and public officials.

The area will take on a festive atmosphere on Sunday with varied attractions, including water ski exhibitions, a dry-land boat show, a visit by Naval craft with the possibility of on-board tours, an art show showing student works on the sea, displays on the literature of the sea and a marine hardware display.

The institute has been set up as a nonprofit foundation through the auspices of the County Superintendent of Schools office.

Ultimately it will have lecture halls, a library and laboratory area along with ramps out into the bay and ocean from which students may fish or observe the sea at work.

The institute, financed through donations and fund-raising projects, will become an educational center for the county's 38,000 students who will travel there on field trips.

The Ford Foundation made an original grant for the institute late last year — $18,000.

The goal for the institute is $500,000 by 1971, $1.5 million more by 1973 and $3 million more by 1975.

Despite the years needed for raising of funds for the actual institute, facilities the site donated by the Orange County Harbor District will be used in the interim for student visits and the nature tours.

Dr. Andreas Rechnitzer, president of the committee planning the institute, has termed the proposed facility the only one in the world where students can trace their study of the sea from primary field trips to sophisticated research.

All NAREB members are welcome. Reservations are available by calling 496-5353 no later than next Wednesday.

College Choir, Clemente Band Slate Concert

Saddleback College's Choir and the San Clemente Municipal Band will perform in a free concert Wednesday at the San Clemente High School Triton Center Auditorium.

The 8 p.m. performances will feature the choir directed by Richard Raub. The singers will appear for the first half of the evening.

The choir will open the performance with a Renaissance period offering of "O Magnum Mysterium" by Spanish composer Tomas Luis Vitoria. They also will sing works including "Three Hungarian Folk Songs" by Sieber and "Long Time Ago" with an arrangement by Asron Copland.

The band will take over the final part of the program.

Its performances will include "First Suite in E Flat" by English composer Gustav Holst and Beethoven's "Overture to Egmont Opus 84."

Dana Harbor Filling Up

Construction Work Begins Soon on Marina

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huge clamshell cranes will begin gouging away at two 80,000-cubic yard coffer dams in Dana Harbor in the next two weeks and the sea's surge will begin filling the future haven for thousands of boats.

Sea water which has been siphoned into the twin marinas in the new harbor already is up to the low-tide line, but several more feet of depth will be added when the two coffer dams are punched through.

Orange County Harbor District Resident Engineer Jack Rains said the dam-busting operation will be an extensive, two or three-week project, "but as soon as the equipment cuts through to let the water in, the tides will help clear out the rest."

The classic and simple method of the siphon was put to use to raise the marina water to its present minimum level.

The pipes were put to use about two weeks ago.

During the two or three weeks before the dams burst, crews will finish waterproofing seams in the deep concrete revetments of the marina, while other workmen will rush to finish the bridge spanning the channel between the two boat basins.

The concrete cap on the top of the bridge will be poured within the next seven days or so, Rains said.

The bridge, which will be dedicated to ailing Ohio Rep. Robert Kerwan (instrumental in federal appropriations for the harbor project) will rise an average of about 21 feet above the water's surface, thus allowing some shorter-masted sailboats to pass underneath.

As a hint to yachtsmen and their projections of the harbor's yachting qualities, Rains said most sailboats would probably be berthed in the east half of the marina because of the ease at sailing in and out of the 250-foot entrance ways during prevailing wind conditions.

Some sailors, however, already know the yachting qualities of the harbor.

On an average, sunny weekend day, he said, a hundred boaters use the already operating boat launching ramps at the harbor.

"Certainly the parking and paving aren't in yet, but it doesn't seem to cause any problems.

"Those large launching areas are a dream for boaters and they tell us so sometimes," Rains said.

As soon as the two dams break through and the marina fills, county supervisors are expected to let to bid contracts for installation of utilities and paving of the giant harbor's land areas.

Soon after that, crews for individual lease holders will begin moving in with their equipment and will work through the year's end building the slips, dock facilities, restaurants, boat service facilities, motels and other commercial ventures master planned for the $20-million marine complex.

Rains said the construction is progressing so well that workmen are up to two months ahead of schedule on the work.

"Actually the present contract for the marina construction and the bridge should be wound up by the end of summer, but if the work keeps up at the present pace the men should be through by the end of May," the engineer said.

By next summer, the first increment of slips will be filled to capacity with an estimated 1,500 boats bobbing at their lines.

In the meantime visitors still can drive to the westernmost part of the harbor, down the steep road along the flanks of Dana Point and fish or sightsee.

The launching ramp is open every Saturday and Sunday for free boat launching — a good compromise, temporarily.

Clemente Pupil Expelled

A San Clemente High School student with a record of 20 incidents dating back to fall of 1967 has been expelled after his arrest recently on marijuana possession charges.

The unidentified youth who now is in juvenile hall after the latest offense, was on probation before his arrest on charges of possessing the forbidden weed.

"Typically no student is expelled without a series of incidents of problems leading up to the expulsion action," District Supt. Truman Benedict said after the board of trustees expulsion last week.

But the youth's record shows cases of striking a teacher, vandalism, cutting classes, truancy and fighting on campus, the superintendent added.

Benedict said the youth has received counseling, continuation high school and has been the subject of many conversations between school officials and his parents, described as "very cooperative."

Linked to Rights

Barry, Ted Back Lower Vote Age

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Senate maneuvering over Negro voting rights legislation, the issue of lowering the voting age to 18 was raised anew today by two senators poles apart politically.

A Senate judiciary subcommittee called a hearing to give Sens. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), and Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.), a chance to advance their arguments that Congress can give the vote to 18-year-olds.

Although Goldwater and Kennedy agree on this, they differ on whether it should be made part of legislation to prevent denial of voting rights because of race.

The legislation is embroiled in a dispute between senators who want to continue the 1965 Voting Rights Act, applying to seven Southern states, and a nationwide bill urged by President Nixon and already passed by the House.

An amendment to lower the voting age to 18 already has been offered by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. One of the co-sponsors is Kennedy, the assistant Democratic leader.

But Goldwater says the proposal should be handled as a separate measure rather than entangled in the already sharp controversy over the voting rights legislation.

Many senators maintain the voting age can be lowered to 18 only by a constitutional amendment.

A proposed constitutional amendment lists 67 senators as co-sponsors and hearings on it already have been held by the Judiciary subcommittee, headed by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

However, Bayh signed up last week as one of 10 co-sponsors of Mansfield's amendment to the voting rights bill. An aide to Sen. Marlow W. Cook (R-Ky.), a subcommittee member, said he also has concluded the voting age can be lowered by statute and plans to introduce a separate bill.

In the Senate, where debate on the voting rights legislation began a week ago, supporters of a straight-out extension of the 1965 act have kept the upper hand so far.

A motion to tabi. the extension bill was rejected, as were two amendments offered by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., to ease the law's impact on the South.

The 1956 act suspended voter literacy tests and authorized the use of federal registrars in six Southern satates and parts of a seventh. It also requires these states to obtain advance approval for voting law changes from the U.S. attorney general.

The administration bill, which Southern senators prefer as the lesser of evils, drops this pre-clearance requirement and provides for uniform nationwide application of other parts of the 1965 act.

Kidnap Victim Says Guerrillas Eying Hostages

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — Sean Michael Holly's kidnapers told them they have other American diplomats in mind for use as hostages to exchange for imprisoned Communist terrorists.

Holly, the labor attache and second secretary at the U.S. embassy, was freed at 5 a.m. Sunday in exchange for two jailed guerrillas, Jose Manuel Aguirre Monzon and Vidalina Monzon Soto.

His abductors had demanded the release of four jailed comrades by 2:30 p.m. Sunday or said Holly would be killed. It turned out one of the four already had fled to Mexico and another was freed earlier in the week and had taken refuge in the Costa Rican embassy.

Aguirre and Miss Monzon joined Lionel El Cid in the Costa Rican diplomatic enclave and all three were granted safe conduct passes to Mexico.

Holly, 39, told an impromptu news conference he would not recognize the men who seized him from his car Friday at an intersection because they wore hats and masks throughout the ordeal.

"They said they had their eye on other officers in the embassy and that they would have killed me if I had tried to run," he said.

He said they took his glasses and blindfolded him before beginning the journey to a mountain hideout by car, on foot and on horseback. The abductors carried machine guns.

Once Aguirre and Miss Monzon were freed, the kidnapers brought Holly back to Guatemala City early Sunday and left him in the Church of the Divine Providence with instructions not to call anyone for an hour.

The hour up, "The first thing I did was to call my wife, Rebecca," Holly said. The couple has five children. He spoke to newsmen at the U.S. embassy following a tearful reunion with the family.

Peace Plan Ignores Arab Land Demand

PARIS (UPI) — Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann said today the Big Four were working on a new Middle East peace formula that no longer calls for unconditional Israeli evacuation of territories it seized from the Arabs in the 1967 war.

Schumann, addressing a foreign press luncheon, said he hoped the Big Four would agree on the formula, which also would send United Nations troops into the area again and create a demilitarized zone between Israeli and Arab forces.

In the past, the Soviet Union and France have demanded total withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied territories before there can be any negotiations — the position the Arabs have taken. Israel maintains it cannot withdraw until there are negotiations.

Authoritative diplomatic sources in Cairo said today France had proposed a plan which called for Israeli withdrawal linked with a pledge by the Arab nations to maintain peace. A second part of the plan deals with the Palestinian refugee problem and with setting up recognized frontiers, the sources said.

Schumann made a sweeping review of world problems and results of the visit he and President Georges Pompidou made to the United States. In the review he said President Nixon admitted that France might play a specific role in helping to bridge differences over the Vietnamese conflict.

5 Russ Advisers Killed in Egypt

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

A reliable Beirut publication reported during a weekend of Arab-Israeli clashes on three fronts that five Russian advisers serving with Egyptian troops have been killed in Israel air strikes.

In Cairo today, memorial services were held for Gen. Abdel Moneim Riad who was killed exactly one year ago by Israeli mortar fire on the second day of Egypt's "war of attrition" against Israel.

The steady increase in air and ground actions since has brought the Middle East to the brink of a new all-out war. The situation was worsened recently by accelerated Arab guerrilla activities from Lebanon.

Tells GOP Backing

Scott Predicts Carswell OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott says most of the Senate's 43 Republicans will vote to confirm Judge G. Harrold Carswell for the Supreme Court. He predicted the appointment will be approved with fewer than 30 "no" votes.

"I do not believe him to be a racist. I believe that his experience as a U.S. attorney and as a circuit court judge qualifies him for the bench for the Supreme Court," Scott said in defense of the 50-eyear-old appeals court judge from Tallahassee, Fla.

He said "most of" the Senate's GOP members will be behind the nomination when it reaches the floor. Asked about estimates that Carswell opponents now number about 30, Scott replied:

"I have heard that figure. I myself think that it will probably be in the 20s."

He said some of the opposition to Carswell has been "regional" and some of it comes from "a fear of his decisions."

"I would share that fear to some extent if I were not familiar with the record of Mr. Justice (Hugo) Black, who was appointed to the court after he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan (but) who became one of the court's great liberals."

He added "you can't tell what a judge is going to do when he gets on the bench. I think Judge Carswell, having undergone the usual traumatic experience of Senate confirmation — which is something equivalent to a four-car collision at a busy street intersection — will surely benefit and I think the country will benefit from his experience."

The Carswell nomination may reach the Senate this week, if the Senate finishes work on voting rights legislation.

Doctors Say Johnson In Excellent Spirits

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson was improved and "in excellent spirits" Sunday, but doctors gave no word when he might be released from Brooke General Hospital.

Johnson entered the hospital a week ago today, suffering pains in his chest and left arm. Doctors said he had a form of hardening of the arteries, but that there were no signs of a heart attack.

"We are satisfied with the President's progress and continued improvement," said Drs. Robert L. North and Glen K. Arney in a statement. It was the first time doctors had used the word "improvement."

The medical statement said the former President's vital signs remain normal and an electrocardiogram taken Sunday was unchanged from one taken Saturday.

Regular doses of drugs have been administered to thin Johnson's blood and smooth out his heart beat, which was erratic when he first entered the hospital.

For the past week the hospital has issued two bulletins each day on Johnson's condition. He was doing so well Sunday doctors decided to issue only one bulletin a day this week.

Another indication of official confidence in Johnson's condition was the fact the former President's executive assistant, Tom Johnson, spent Sunday in Austin.

Tom Johnson, no relation, had been staying near the former President in San Antonio all last week.

Johnson continued to have a temperature of 97, slightly below normal but about the same as he had when he entered the hospital.

Romney's Wife Seeks Senate Post

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Lenore Romney, who gave up an acting career to get married in 1931, gets to take her own show on the road this year.

Mrs. Romney — wife of George Romney, secretary of Housing and Urban Development and former Michigan governor — has been designated as the favored candidate of Michigan's Republican leadership for the party's U.S. Senate nomination. She will spend the next eight months campaigning for the post.

The designation came Saturday in Lansing at a meeting which had been carefully programmed by Gov. William G. Milliken to assure Mrs. Romney of party backing.

The vote was 278-25, a majority of 91.7 percent, well above the 75 percent required by the rules governing the selection of a consensus candidate.

But when it appeared her husband was more interested in his cabinet post than in running for the Senate, the GOP leadership began talking about Mrs. Romney as a candidate. The talk culminated in Saturday's vote.

Robbery No Tale

Boy, 5, Used as Hostage

SOLANA BEACH (AP) — Why was 5-year-old Michael Karnes an hour late for dinner?

He was a hostage in a bank robbery, he told his grandmother.

Two men, he explained, "took me by the hand and we went into the bank and stealed almost all their dollars and put them in a pillow case."

His grandmother and guardian, Petra Stout, sent Michael to bed with a scolding and told him he couldn't ride his bike for the next two weeks. That would teach him to lie, she said.

But Michael hadn't told a whopper.

The FBI agents and San Diego County sheriff's deputies who showed up at Mrs. Stout's door late Friday had a picture of the boy.

It was snapped by a hidden camera as he was towed around by two robbers who took $8,800 that day from the Bank of America branch in this seaside town 25 miles north of San Diego.

The robbers are still at large. The boy's unwilling part in the robbery was disclosed Sunday.

Michael was identified in the photo by neighbors. The bank is two blocks from his grandmother's home.

The boy told officers he was riding his bike in a vacant field when two men drove up and forced him into their car.

They took him to the bank, already closed for the day. The men got in by stopping two women tellers outside and saying they had the boy's brother and were going to kill him if they were not allowed in.

Holding on to Michael — "They held my hand real tight," he said — the men stuffed the money into a pillow case and fled in a bank employe's car, dropping Michael off at the field where his bike was.

"They told me to go right home or they'd kill me," he said. The boy picked up his bike and pedalled home.

Mrs. Stout said she regretted not believing Michael's story but "he does tell some tall tales sometimes."

Cong Call GIs 'Stubborn'

Captured Document Reports No Willing Surrenders

SAIGON (UPI) — A captured Viet Cong document, released today, reports that not one American GI has surrendered willingly to Communist forces in the Vietnam war.

It describes the typical U.S. serviceman as a stubborn individual who has been brainwashed about the South Vietnamese government and who refuses, when captured, to cooperate with his captors.

Yet it adds that because of "our increasing victories, they have become demoralized, thus creating a favorable condition for us to capture many prisoners."

The document was captured three weeks ago. It said:

"U.S. servicemen are basically very stubborn in combat. There has not been a single U.S. serviceman who has surrendered (sic) to friendly (Viet Cong) forces so far (in South Vietnam).

"U.S. servicemen now remain deaf to our appeals to them to surrender. Sometimes they respond to it with fire.

"When captured, they refuse to move and display a negative attitude and contempt against friendly (Communist) forces.

"They even spit at them."

7,000 More Marines Set For Return

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. Marine Corps relinquished command of South Vietnam's five northernmost provinces to the Army today and 7,000 more leathernecks prepared to leave for home.

Most of the departing leathernecks have been in Vietnam at least nine months. All will have departed by March 20 for bases at Camp Pendleton and Twenty-Nine Palms.

The troop withdrawal reduced American strength in Vietnam by 2,650 last week. U.S. military spokesmen said there were 464,700 American servicemen in the war zone as of March 6.

We could lease you any new car for $10 a month.

But we won't.

The reason we won't—benefits you. The lower your monthly payments, the more likely you'll have to pay a big chunk at the end. That's because at the end of your lease there's a balance due. If your car's worth more on the open market than the balance—great—you get money back. Otherwise you make up the difference. At First Western Bank we set monthly payments realistically and you benefit. To find out how much we save you, you have to compare not only the sum of the monthly payments, but also the amount you may have to pay at the end of the lease period.

We can save you up to $300. That's because, unlike most car leasing firms, we're the source of cash—the money factory. And we don't have to pay sales commissions. Remember, if anyone claims they can give you a lower payment, be sure to ask how much you'll owe at the end.

Take a look at our low bank rates. Each car below is loaded with extras. The payments are realistic, based on a 36 month lease, plus tax. Naturally, we can lease you almost any make and model with the equipment you desire: Ford Maverick $56, Chevrolet Impala $81 and Buick Skylark $74.

We're interested in helping whether you lease or buy. The lower interest on our direct bank loans cuts the cost of new (or used) car buying as much as $200. You see, as a $950 million bank with over 90 offices throughout the state, we want you to get the best deal on your car, loan or lease.

Reagan's Tax Reform

Governor Reagan's $1 billion tax reform program is in the Assembly hopper.

It appears to be pretty carefully designed to accomplish two things: to provide some genuine, long-overdue shifting of tax burdens and to give the Democrats little chance to top it or tear it apart.

Its major thrust would be to shift $1 billion from local property taxes by 1973 to sales, income and business-oriented taxes.

Assembly Speaker Bob Monagan claims it will provide tax relief for about two-thirds of California's taxpayers. He calls for bi-partisan support because the bills are "carefully drawn, excellent and merit such backing." That support is likely to be hard to come by in an election year.

Monagan reports the average savings for all homeowners under the property tax relief features of the program will be approximately $154 per household. He asserts that more than 95 percent of all homeowners and their dependents will get "substantial reductions in their total state and local taxes."

Keys to the package:

— Approximately $150 million will be raised annually through compulsory withholding of state income taxes. This would end the evasions by workers who leave without paying any income tax.

— The sales tax would be increased one percent.

— Bank and corporation taxes would be increased, and about three percent of the state's income taxpayers will pay higher rates.

Monagan's figures on net reductions in homeowner tax reductions are theoretical and not necessarily valid even in most cases, it should be pointed out. Wide variations in property tax rates and to a lesser extent assessment ratios over the state make impossible any exact figures or even close estimates.

Another part of Reagan's tax package, which would require two-thirds vote support from both houses of the Legislature, would:

— Give the homeowner a direct tax break by increasing the present $750 homeowners' property tax exemption to $1,000, plus 20 percent of the remaining assessed value of the home.

— Cause the state to pay 70 percent of present county expenditures for "categorical aid" welfare programs in excess of the amount the county raises from 25 cents per $100 of assessed value on the county property tax rate.

The package has numerous other features which appear to have been well thought out, and to be, if enacted, a deterrent to both tax initiatives on the June ballot and much Democratic Party hay-making in an election year.

Proposition 7–YES

Just about everyone is aware of the anti-inflation tight money situation. And of the resultant rise in loan interest rates.

Bond issues voted by the required two-thirds of the voters in school districts in the past have been stymied by the 5 percent legal ceiling on interest the districts can pay.

The problem is crucial to the state in its sales of state water bonds and bonds for other state building needs. The state constitution sets the limit at 5 percent.

The state water project is in jeopardy as a result. Proposition 7 on the June primary ballot would permit the Legislature to authorize higher interest payments.

Proposition 7 should receive a strong YES vote in June.

UP FROM THE SEWER

Irrelevant to Election Prospects

Disorganized Democrats

Richard Wilson

WASHINGTON — The commonest — and loosest — talk in Washington political circles concerns the disorganized condition of the Democratic party. The party is disorganized but that is irrelevant to its prospects for gaining more strength in Congress this fall and challenging President Nixon for reelection in 1972.

This depends on other more important factors than the state of order or disorder in the national organization, which is familiar in both parties after either has lost a presidential election.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, the late President Kennedy's campaign manager, at first refused, then accepted the chairmanship of the Democratic party. He will be good at reducing the party's $8 million deficit.

If the Democratic party should improve its majority in Congress this fall, which is not at all unlikely, interest will be revived in making Richard M. Nixon the Republican party's fourth one-term president in this century.

REPUBLICANS HAVE not been too good in reelecting their presidents. Taft failed, so did Hoover, Harding died in office in his first term and Coolidge was elected once, leaving Eisenhower as the only Republican since McKinley to be elected to two full terms, and even McKinley fell short of serving two terms when he was assassinated in 1901.

This 70-year record should be the less heartening to Republicans in such troublesome and contradictory times as the present. In addition, in every mid-term election since the Civil War the President's party has lost strength in Congress, except in 1944 when Franklin D. Roosevelt was at the peak of his popularity. Five out of seven house elections were won by Democrats since the 1968 presidential election, increasing Democratic strength by three seats over the majority it held when Nixon was elected.

THE EFFORTS OF Spiro Theodore Agnew need to be examined in this contect, for upon his shoulders has fallen the difficult task of arresting and reversing historical political trends. Agnew is doing for Nixon what Nixon tried to do for Eisenhower and failed. Agnew is also doing what Barry Goldwater later tried to do and succeeded, at least to the extent that he made himself the Republican nominee.

In general, however, neither Nixon nor Goldwater was able to project the Republican party into a winning position in congressional elections, and it was not until the anti-Johnson reaction had built to its peak that the Republicans could come back to power. Even then the Republican organization was unable to provide its newly elected president with a majority in Congress, which is usually the case in a successful first-term presidential election.

IN PERSPECTIVE, Agnew is making a stronger run for the Republicans than either Nixon or Goldwater in their time. That is to say, he has commanded more continuous public attention nationally but his rhetoric is getting a bit repetitious and he could fail, too.

In the process he is raising a good deal of money for Republican candidates. They will need it. The Republican organization is not in fact structurally strong and relies too much on the leadership of the President and the continuing effort of Agnew to rally the silent majority behind candidates who in some cases (New York, for example) cannot accept his support. There are numerous districts and states in which candidates for the House and Senate find it expedient to associate with Agnew at arms length, or in some cases not at all.

A CONGRESSIONAL election is different from a presidential election. Congressmen do not find it wise to run solely on the question of their support or lack of it for the administration in power. There will be an added dilemma this fall because Nixon will not have been able to live up to his 1968 implication that he would wind up the Vietnam war before the end of 1970.

It is commonly thought in Washington political circles that Republicans will have a hard time winning control of the House but might capture the Senate. The first part of this assumption is easier to understand than the second. State-by-state, there are many reasons why Republicans may not be able to pick up the eight seats they need for Senate control. Gaining 30 seats needed for House control will be even more difficult.

On balance, therefore, the Republican problem even with a President in the White House, a Vice President on the road and against disorganized opposition is a very large one. If we go into the fall with the economy at its present standstill the size of the Republican problem will be increased.

'Forthright, Conscientious, Trustworthy'

Mailbox

To the Editor:

In defense of free speech and the American right to petition, and even protest, I suppose one should sit back and ignore Mr. (Anthony) Tarantino and Mr. (Paul) Carpenter in their ridiculous efforts to defame Supervisor Alton Allen and Mr. John Killefer, his assistant.

I have tried, and I just cannot. My temper rises above all my intelligent determination not to reply in kind. Perhaps that is Mr. Tarantino's purpose . . . to insult, and twist facts beyond bearability. If so, he may find it back-firing on him.

THAT SO MUCH publicity, newspaper space, discussion time, and precious "private thought" time has necessarily been expended on the issue is enough to make my blood boil.

I personally know of no finer, more honest, forthright, conscientious, trustworthy person anywhere than Mr. John Killefer. It has been obvious since the outset of this libelous campaign from Mr. Tarantino, and his ghost writers and backers, that his arrow has been aimed at the Killefer family heart. I resent it with all of MY heart, and have run out of cheeks to turn.

IN A WELL-WORN word, we "silent-majority"-ites make terrible enemies when we reach the end of our silent patience. I am at the end of mine. I am not sure just what I can do to stop this nonsense but this letter is a beginning. I would implore those friends who know and respect Mr. Allen and Mr. Killefer and his family to begin their own loud majority support of them.

And, in case Mr. Tarantino should inquire, this is NOT a solicited opinion.

The Homophone Gives Us Trouble

Sydney J. Harris

A "homophone" is a word that is pronounced the same as another, but differs in spelling or meaning, like "pair" and "pear" and "pare." There are many of these in the English language, and in most cases the wrong word is written for the right one.

Even so literate a journal as the New York Review of Books, in a large headline offering special holiday subscriptions, wrote "Christmas Doesn't Phase Me," when the word it meant was "faze." It is a common error; most people think "phase" is proper in this usage, and "faze" is only a slang variant, but they are totally different words.

THE NEW YORK TIMES, which also should know better, not long ago reported in a story that a person was "hailed into court." The homophone that should have been used is "haled," which means "drawn by force." To be "hailed" into court is to be shouted for, which was not meant. Yet "hailed" has almost driven out "haled" in this kind of context.

Recently I read a story in which one character was described as being "hair-brained." This is a common homophonic mistake for "hare-brained," which means giddy or nutty behavior, such as associated with the March hare and other rabbits that seem to go wild in some seasons. The notion of "hair" has nothing whatever to do with the case.

EVERY LANGUAGE has such problems. Cinderella's famous "glass" slipper is the result of a homophonic mistake in French. The original title of Perrault's "Cinderella" was La Petite Pantoufle de Vair, or "The Little Fur Slipper," but the sound of "vair" was confused with "verre," meaning glass, and the mistake is now ineradicable.

But English is especially burdened with this problem. Some 50 years ago, Robert Bridges, the pet and scholar, wrote an essay on English homophones with a list of 835 entries involving nearly 1800 words. These words are troublesome and self-destructive; also, because we are careless in speech and smudge the vowels, words originally different begin to sound alike, and we lose important distinction.

ALMOST EVERYONE calls it "Welsh rarebit," when it should be "welsh rabbit"; all children refer to "cole slaw" as "cold slaw," and I have seen it printed as such on some menus; "buttonhold" long ago lost out to "buttonhole"; "sweetheart" has nothing to do with the "heart," but is a corruption of "sweetard," like "dotard" and "coward."

If I recall my "Alice" correctly, it was the Gryphon who remarked that school-hours in the sea grew shorter every day. "That's why they're called 'lessons,'" you know," he said to Alice, "because they lessen each day." Alice knew there was something wrong with this explanation, but a 7-year-old girl can hardly handle a homophone.

Men Make Love With Eyes

Charles McCabe

There's this chap I know who lives in Santa Barbara. He sells land and the buildings thereon, which makes him a realtor, or something.

He is a handsome duck, and has given no small amount of thought to the subject of the ladies, and of love-making in general. He has distilled all his wisdom into a theory which is known in some quarters as Bromfield's Law. It goes like so:

"Men make love with their eyes; women with their ears."

When first I heard this, I regarded it as a pretty facile formulation, and gave no more thought to the matter. But I found it was one of those things that would not go away.

WHAT THE LAW states, in other words, is that when the chase is on a man never hears anything, and a woman never sees anything.

Perhaps these are two necessary deceptions, as the whole process of courtship is a necessary deception.

In my brief and inconclusive experience in these matters, I think it incontrovertible that the lady cares far less about how you look, than what you tell her about how she looks, and how heavenly she is in other matters.

You tell her that the sun, the moon and the stars revolve about her pretty little head, and no matter who she is or where she is, you're in like Flynn. It is only when you stop making these pretty little asseverations that you're in trouble.

BLARNEY IS THE greatest aphrodisiac in the world.

With a woman, you can talk your way into anything. Talking yourself out is another matter, and not nearly so interesting or so easy.

One of the most successful lovers in English history was also one of the ugliest men of his time, the great political agitator of the 18th century, John Wilkes. Johnny Boy used to say:

"Give me a half hour, and I will overcome the handsomest face in Europe."

And he proved it, over and over again, with the most beautiful women of his time. You can make a woman forget a wooden leg, or a most sinister aspect by a few thousand well-chosen words on the wonders of her character, and the distinction of her mind.

YOU EMPHASIZE her character and mind, of course, if she has a beautiful body. If she doesn't, emphasize her beautiful body.

Man, conversely, gobbles up the lady's looks, doubtless for the sound biological reason that he wishes to improve the species, and that his wonderful looks compounded with those of the lady he is serenading at the moment, will result in a race of supermen.

He is obsessed by her ankles, by the way she crosses a room, by the way she wrinkles her nose, the way she sits into and rises from a chair, by the way her breast heaves when he has delivered a particularly successful period. He is obsessed, in fact, by every physical nuance of the woman he has chosen as his divine prey.

HE NEVER HEARS a word she says, which too often leads to small bits of trouble. It leads, for one thing, to the dangerous illusion that a beautiful woman is something like a beautiful horse — just a beautiful animal. This is a mistake. Horses don't go to lawyers.

Make Any Sense?

Press Comments

Coos Bay, Ore., Empire Builder: "Smoking and its hazards are getting lots of attention these days, not the least from government. Last year the federal government, in addition to subsidies, spent $7.6 million to help tobacco farmers improve their product. Of that sum, $240,000 was spent to help sell American tobacco overseas. At the same time the government spent $4.2 million in advertising and research aimed at getting people to stop smoking. Does this make any sense — regardless of which side of the argument you are on?"

Beach Haven, N.J., Times: "Perhaps the least praiseworthy part of the American way of life, these days, is the conclusion of psychiatrists, doctors and health experts in all fields, that the fast pace of living in the United States is one of our most serious problems."

Miller to Head NLRB

Allen-Goldsmith

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Senate will decisively confirm Edward Boone Miller as the new chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

The 48-year-old Chicago attorney, a leading specialist in labor law and management-labor relations, is being opposed by George Meany, head of the AFL-CIO. He has assailed Miller's appointment as "unfriendly to organized labor."

Notwithstanding this disapproval, Miller will be confirmed by the Senate by a big majority.

A backstage poll by administration leaders shows the nominee for the NLRB chairmanship has the support of all but a few of the 43 Republican senators, and nearly one-half of the 57 Democrats. This insures him an impressive bipartisan majority.

SIGNIFICANTLY, while Meany has criticized Miller's selection, other labor chiefs are saying nothing.

Reason for their silence is the high personal regard in which Miller is held in labor quarters. Illustrative of this widely held private attitude is the laudatory comment of Sheldon Charone, who has represented the machinists and teamsters in cases involving clients of Miller's.

"He is a decent and honorable craftsman," said Charone, "and very reasonable and practical to deal with."

A top AFL-CIO official, who asked not to be identified, said organized labor felt compelled to oppose Miller's appointment "as a matter of principle." But the union leader added, "He's a square shooter, moderate and fair. If the President felt he had to appoint someone who wasn't from our ranks, he couldn't have picked a nicer guy than Ed Miller."

BORN, REARED and educated in Wisconsin, Miller served in the Navy in World War II, and is a member of one of Chicago's most prominent law firms. His wife, Anne, also a lawyer, is on the legal staff of the NLRB office in Chicago.

His appointment to the Labor Board is his first public office. Miller has participated in hundreds of labor cases, acting as impartial referee in many instances, but has never been a government official. While prominent in his home area, he is virtually unknown nationally.

As chairman of the NLRB, he will head a five-member agency that was created during the Roosevelt Administration. It has wide powers to supervise labor-management relations, including plant and industrywide elections to determine union membership and representation.

Egg, Grapefruit Diet Here at Last

SLEEP — A contemporary claims the wives sleep about an hour longer than do their husbands nationwide. That's pretty close. Yearround wives get an average of 53 more minutes sleep. What's noteworthy about this, I think, is women actually need less sleep than men.

IT IS KNOWN the divorce rate is three times higher among couples who sleep in twin beds. . .COURTS in New York City have ruled that a man has legal right to slap a woman, once, if she slaps him first . . . CHANCES ARE one in four that any woman picked up for shoplifting once will be picked up for shoplifting twice.

CUSTOMER SERVICE — Q. "Have co-stars ever both won the top Academy Awards for the same moving picture?" A. Not since Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert did it for "It Happened One Night" in 1934, the record shows. If you don't know who Claudette Colbert is, young fellow, ask your dad.

OH, YES, THAT egg-and-grapefruit menu, billed as the world's best reducing diet — here it is:

DIET

Breakfasts are the same every day. Grapefruit. An egg or two. Black coffee.

Monday: Lunch — two eggs, tomatoes, black coffee. Dinner — two eggs, combination salad, a piece of dry toast, grapefruit, coffee.

Tuesday: Lunch — two eggs, grapefruit, coffee. Dinner — steak, tomatoes, celery, cucumbers, olives, coffee.

Wednesday: Lunch — two eggs, spinach, tomatoes, coffee. Dinner — two lamb chops, celery, cucumbers, tomatoes, coffee.

Thursday: Lunch — two eggs, spinach, tomatoes, coffee. Dinner — two eggs, cottage cheese, cabbage, a piece of dry toast, coffee.

Friday: Lunch — two eggs, spinach, coffee. Dinner — fish, combination salad, a piece of dry toast, grapefruit, coffee.

Saturday: Lunch — fresh fruit salad, any kind, as much as you want, and coffee. Dinner — plenty of steak, celery, cucumber, tomatoes, coffee.

Sunday: Lunch — cold chicken, tomatoes, grapefruit, coffee. Dinner — chicken, tomatoes, grapefruit, carrots, cooked cabbage, coffee.

THAT'S IT. No substitutions. No snacks. No cream or sugar in the coffee. No salad oil. No butter. No booze. No nothing.

But eat it all. Don't do without. Basis of the diet is chemical, the experts say. You're supposed to stick to it two weeks only — after you get your doctor's OK to try it. And if your chemistry is predictable, you'll drop 20 pounds.

4 Waifs Found On Train

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — Four small and wide-eyed waifs struggled in pidgin-English and Spanish Friday to cooperate with the police, who don't know who they are or where they're going.

The youngsters, Jose Colon, 10, and his brother and sisters, Angelo, 9, Gladys, 7, and Denise, 6, were taken off a New York-bound New Haven train Thursday night, penniless and with no tickets.

Detective Paul Jeegan said they were neatly dressed in winter clothing, and appeared to be in good physical condition. Although they speak mainly Spanish, they managed to convey in English at the outset of their interrogation that they were hungry. Hamburgers and soft drinks solved this problem.

Then, through an interpreter, officers sought to unravel the mystery of how the children happened into their predicament. The youngsters gave their names and said an older sister put them on the train at Stamford, Conn., about 9 p.m. Wednesday to go to their grandmother's house.

Unfortunately, however, they didn't know where the grandmother lived. They gave a street address, but a check in the New York metropolitan area drew a blank.

Meanwhile, the children have been temporarily lodged in two private homes here through the efforts of the city's Department of Social Services.

CDC Endorses Unruh

Jesse Ends Feud, Gets Campaign Support

FRESNO (UPI) — Assemblyman Jess Unruh today claimed the endorsement and campaign assistance of the 10,000-member California Democratic Council in his challenge to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Unruh and Rep. George Brown of Monterey Park were the overwhelming choices for the CDC's gubernatorial and U.S. Senatorial endorsements Sunday at its annual convention.

Brown, a self-described liberal and longtime favorite of the volunteer organization, smothered fellow Democratic congressman John V. Tunney in endorsement balloting, 644 to a mere 52.

Aides to Tunney, whom latest polls show running ahead of Brown in their Senate race, said the candidate did not really expect to get the CDC nod.

Tunney after the convention issued a bittersweet statement saying "My candidacy and my campaign would not have been affected if I had received the endorsement and it is not affected by not getting it."

The son of former World Heavyweight Boxing Champion Gene Tunney added that he hoped "CDC members will join my campaign in June after I have won the nomination of the entire party."

Brown, an early critic of the Vietnam War, which endeared him to the CDC, challenged Tunney to a debate. Tunney conditionally accepted. Brown sneered at his opponent:

"John is very proud of the fact that he is the son of a great fighting champion and would like to see him win his own spurs by being a great fighting politician instead of a lightweight contender."

Unruh, who feuded bitterly with the CDC in past years but buried the hatchet in 1969, was roundly applauded by delegates in his pre-endorsement speech seeking their support.

Unruh, the only major Democratic gubernatorial candidate, criticized both violent student militants and Reagan, who is expected to announce his re-election candidacy Tuesday.

The assembly Democratic leader said campus turbulence was an "indispensible element in the political survival" of the governor.

"If it had not existed, he would have had to invent it," Unruh said. "The plain and simple and brutal fact is that Ronald Reagan has sponsored the war on our campuses, either by deliberate design or simple stupidity.

The grassroots group endorsed State Sen. Alfred E. Alquist (D-San Jose) for lieutenant governor, 457 to 161, over Cecilia Padroza, a Los Angeles travel agent.

Alquist had not yet announced his candidacy, but is expected to do so Wednesday. He won the not without attending the convention and earlier endorsed Unruh's bid for governor.

Reagan Machine Oiled For Re-election Fight

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan says voters in 1966 "sent us to Sacramento to do something about that leaky old barge" of state government.

Tuesday, he embarks on a re-election campaign which he says is dedicated to finish the job of turning that old barge into a smoothly running, efficient ship of state.

The Republican governor formally is expected to announce for a second term Tuesday afternoon in a news conference at a Sacramento hotel across the street from the Capitol. Reagan himself has declined to acknowledge his re-election plans but he already has a campaign organization oiled and ready to go and party leaders say there is no doubt that he is, in fact, already running.

Wednesday, he sets off in a chartered plane for a two-pronged, two week campaign tour to: 1. raise money for his campaign, and 2. display his programs, accomplishments and unfinished business for the voters.

Reagan is not expected to have any opposition in the June 2 primary.

The only major Democratic candidate so far is Assembly Democratic leader Jess Unruh of Inglewood, Reagan's chief antagonist in the legislature the past three years.

The 59-year-old governor gave Republicans a probable preview of his major campaign planks during an address to the party's spring convention in San Francisco last week.

First came the accomplishments.

"'We've straightened out most of the mess we inherited . . . instituted economies and introduced fresh, creative thinking so that the winds of change are clearing the air in the halls in Sacramento," Reagan said.

Demo Group Endorses Brown Over Tunney

FRESNO (AP) — Rep. George E. Brown Jr. carried the endorsement today of California's largest liberal Democratic group in his uphill fight against Rep. John V. Tunney for the party's U.S. Senate nomination.

Brown said he valued the endorsement of the volunteer California Democratic Council because the money and manpower put forth by its 10,000 members can "make the difference between success and failure for the man they endorse."

Tunney, in a written statement after the vote Sunday, said his loss didn't surprise him, wouldn't have affected his campaign if he had received the endorsement, "and it is not affected by my not getting it."

He again emphasized his theme that only a "moderate," as he labels himself, can hope to beat Republican Sen. George Murphy in November. Tunney had noted that he is leading Brown in public opinion polls, and said he hopes he gets CDC help "after I have won the nomination of the entire party."

The 35-year-old Riverside congressman had told the nearly 1,000 delegates and alternates Saturday night that their endorsement meant very little, that the CDC represented only a narrow "posh liberalism of the drawing room."

He had angered CDC by refusing to support the boycott of California table grapes by organized farm workers. Brown, a 50-year-old congressman from Monterey Park, supports the boycott and is admired by the volunteers because of his long opposition to the Vietnam war and stand with CDC on most issues.

Brown beat Tunney 644 to 52 in the balloting.

Busing Favored

CDC Likes Integration Idea

FRESNO (UPI) — The California Democratic Council has gone on record favoring the busing of children to achieve racial integration of public schools.

During a weekend endorsing convention the CDC unanimously approved a resolution stating "school boundaries must be immediately redrawn to desegregate schools and that in some cases busing will be necessary and desirable to achieve racial balance in schools."

The measure also urged local CDC clubs to work against proposals that would ban the busing of children.

The liberal grassroots organization also adopted a resolution condemning the Nixon administration for its prosecution of the "Chicago 7" on riot conspiracy charges.

It said the administration violated the constitutional rights of the defendants "to exert political power through the use of criminal prosecutions."

Five of the seven persons on trial were recently convicted of inciting a riot at the 1968 Democratic national convention in Chicago. Other resolutions adopted:

—Would withhold CDC support from any candidate for public office who does not fully support the grape boycott.

—Said the state water project was of "dubious value" and opposed construction of the peripheral canal to channel water around the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta to Southern California.

—Endorsed Proposition 8 on the June 2 primary ballot that proponents say will lower property taxes by increasing homeowners' exemptions and requiring the state to finance a greater amount of the cost of welfare and local schools.

—Urged the U.S. Senate to rescind its Gulf of Tonkin resolution, which the CDC said was the measure "upon which the present war in Vietnam is based."

—Demanded an immediate ceasefire in Vietnam, withdrawal of all U.S. forces from the Southeast Asian nation and an end to American involvement in Laos.

—Registered the group's opposition to deployment of the Nixon administration's Safeguard Antiballistic Missile System.

—Recommended abolition of a peace time military draft.

Abortion Bill Author Asks More Freedoms

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Removal of all restrictions on abortions was proposed today by the author of California's present liberalized abortion law.

"We must stop forcing women to have children they do not want," said Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson (D-Beverly Hills) in a statement prepared for a news conference he called for today to announce a package of bills aimed at reducing population growth.

He termed the having of large families "a socially irresponsible act."

Beilenson authored the 1967 law allowing abortion when a woman's health is in danger or when pregnancy results from rape or incest. Previous law allowed abortion only when her life was threatened.

His new proposal, similar to one under consideration by the New York legislature, would "provide that abortions are illegal only when they are not performed by a physician or surgeon."

5 Boy Scouts Found Safe

PALMDALE (AP) — Five Boy Scouts were back home today after spending six hours lost in a snow-covered area of the Angeles National Forest 20 miles east of here.

The five were identified as Bruce Bauer, 14, Hacienda Heights; Craig Moribato, 11, Ken Lindauer, 14; David Arroyas, 12, and Paul Almado, 14, all of Montebello.

Manson's Records Sell Fast

CHATSWORTH (AP) — A record album of 13 songs by Charles Manson, the man accused of masterminding the murders of actress Sharon Tate and six others, is selling briskly, say members of Manson's hippie-style "family."

Entitled "The Love and Terror Cult," the album sells for $4.50 a copy through a mailorder house. Proceeds will go to a defense fund for Manson, 35, and five other defendants facing trial on murder and conspiracy charges.

Six members of the "family" talked to newsmen over the weekend at the Spahn movie ranch 25 miles north of Los Angeles, where Monson and his followers lived at the time of the seven murders last Aug. 9 and 10. Several still live there among the old movie locations.

The songs were recorded by Manson over a three-year period, said members of the group, and about 750 albums have been sold since it became available a week ago.

County Building Slowdown Sought

SANTA ANA — Building projects for the County of Orange currently are averaging 9.6 percent of the annual budget for county government, says W. C. Ennis of the county administrator's office.

Ennis said county administrators are trying to lower the figure to five percent of the total budget, but are having difficulty reaching this goal because demands for county services and, thus, demands for facilities continue to grow.

He cited the county Welfare Department as one which continually needs more space. It had 27,192 square feet of space in 1965 and now occupies 59,336 square feet in 10 locations under the county's decentraliaztion program.

Ennis said the department would add 30,000 square feet this year including 9,500 feet in the Costa Mesa Civic Center.

By 1975 welfare will be occupying 164,406 square feet of space, Ennis said.

Probation was cited by Ennis as another department suffering from growing pains. It now uses 50,037 square feet and the figure will climb ultimately to 100,637, he said.

The future expansion plans include a 20,000 square foot facility in the Trabuco Road area, site of a proposed second Juvenile Hall.

Ennis said plans were well-under way for new federal and state buldings in the civic center and that the engineering-finance addition should be completed by mid-summer 1971.

Next to be built will be the new law library.

Escape Try Brings Man 10 Years

SANTA ANA — A man who bolted for freedom while he was awaiting arraignment in Costa Mesa municipal court has been sentenced to one to 10 years in state prison for the unsuccessful attempt and has received an identical prison term for the charges that put him in the courtroom.

Superior Court Judge James F. Judge ruled, however, that James W. Needs, 29, of Azusa, can serve the two terms concurrently.

Needs added the escape charge to his file last June 27 when he broke free from bailiffs in the Costa Mesa court and sprinted down an alley at the rear of the building. He was thwarted as he seemed to be in the clear by a well aimed bullet from a deputy.

Needs had been involved in a scuffle nine days earlier when he pulled a gun on security guards at Sears Roebuck's South Coast Plaza department store. Witnesses said Needs drew the weapon when a cashier refused to cash checks and was disarmed by employes and onlookers after a struggle in which he used the gun as a club.

That scuffle brought charges of assault with a deadly weapon and the prison term he received from Judge Judge.

Votes Cost $2.28 Each

SANTA ANA — It cost county taxpayers $2.28 per vote to elect a new member of the Orange County Board of Education in a special election last August.

The election was held to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Lyle Guipre from the Fourth District seat. Dr. Doris M. Araujo defeated Richard L. Acton by nearly 1,200 votes to win the seat.

A total of 9,634 voters participated in the election that cost taxpayers $22,000.

ORANGE COUNTY

Pins Given For Service

SANTA ANA — Nine residents of the Orange Coast area have been awarded service pins by the county Bord of Supervisors.

Receiving 15-year emblems were Lawrence "Ted" McConville, road department, Balboa Island; Lucile E. Price, medical center, Newport Beach; Elois W. Stewart, welfare, Cosa Mesa, and Chester C. Shelden, assessor, Dana Point.

Those receiving 10-year pins included Gilbert B. Davis, sheriff, Huntington Beach; Esther M. Goodson, recorder, Huntington Beach; Bernice F. Jarrett, recorder, Westminster; George E. Kelley, flood, Huntington Beach, and Ronald E. Seymour, building services, Costa Mesa.

County Sets Limit

Don't Dig Sand Too Deep

SANTA ANA — County supervisors are making it tougher to take sand and gravel out of the ground in Orange County.

For the first time, for example, the county Board of Supervisors has placed a limit on how deep pit operators can dig for sand and gravel.

The limit — 150 feet — is contained in an amendment to the county's Sand and Gravel Extraction Code passed unanimously by supervisors.

The new ordinance also provides:

— That petitions for zone changes to permit pit operations must be accompanied by a plan for ultimate use of the property.

— That rehabilitation of pits must begin within two years after extraction ceases and, if it doesn't, the county will order the work done and bill the owners.

— That established sand and gravel operations must comply with the new regulations within five years.

A proposal to limit the hours of trucking operations to and from sand and gravel pits was dropped from the amendment after industry representatives pointed out that any change in hours would not alter the demand for sand and gravel. To limit the hours would only mean an increase in trucking during those hours, industry spokesmen said.

Violations of the ordinance, explained Stuart Bailey the county's assistant planning director, are considered misdemeanors subject to fines and jail sentences. Violations, he said, should be reported to the county Building and Safety Department.

Salt Lake Clean Up Proposed

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Not only swimmers float atop the briny waters on Utah's Great Salt Lake. So does sewage, millions of gallons of which flow daily into the massive lake.

How many polluting organisms survive in the salty water, or whether there is any danger to swimmers, are issues the experts are yet to resolve.

But after nearly 20 years of sewage dumping, there is growing concern over the consequences.

"The cleanup of the Great Salt Lake must be Utah's No. 1 environmental priority," says Gov. Calvin L. Rampton.

Three major rivers, the Jordan, Bear and Weber, bring in sewage from many communities, including Salt Lake City.

Dr. Grant K. Borg, head of civil engineering at the University of Utah, estimates that up to 200 million gallons of waste-laden water pours daily from the Jordan River alone, on the lake's eastern fringe.

Tests from the estuary show coliform or human intestinal bacteria in numbers "consistent with that of raw sewage," he says.

But most of the swimming areas are well away from the sewage inlets, and the beaches have remained open. Still, officials are uneasy.

The assistant state director of environmental health, Howard Hurst, says "We just don't have the money or manpower to make the studies needed."

And until the studies are made, he says, the state won't advise whether the beaches should close.

"Fortunately, since it's salty, the swimmers aren't inclined to drink the water," notes Hurst.

The flow of treated sewage into the 75-mile-long lake began in the early 1950s, the result of the Utah Water Pollution Control Act.

The law prompted many municipalities to construct new sewage systems and treatment plants, with the effluent dumped into the three main rivers which flow into the lake.

Hurst says the treatment plants destroy only about 85 percent of the disease-carrying organisms in the waste.

With 400,000 residents in the area, the raw sewage equivalent of 60,000 persons still gets through to the lake each day.

Of some comfort, says Hurst, is that sooner or later "the briney lake water destroys the organisms and pickles the organic matter. It becomes harmless and inoffensive."

But what has Hurst and the others worried is the question of how long it takes for the salt to destroy the waste.

The problem is that the sewage water is lighter, and thus spreads atop the brine, becoming a dangerous film.

And as the layer of lighter water grows larger, it presumably will take longer and longer for the disease organisms to be destroyed by the salt.

Hurst insists that sewage treatment plants will have to be converted to 100 percent efficiency, even though that could cost double or triple the present investment in them.

"But if we don't do it, the pollution will well up to the point that it'll be impossible to reverse," he says.

'Maggie' Tales Mean Triumph for Author

SEATTLE (AP) — Twelve little stories of Maggie, the good witch, have come from the mind of Perri Reinhart.

They have taken three years to produce.

For Perri, each word was a personal triumph.

Born 26 years ago with cerebral palsy, Perri never has walked or been able to talk normally.

Lying motionless on a padded table, she has dictated the adventures of Maggie in sounds hard to understand.

With pencil, paper and patience, Mrs. Lura Colburn has taken down the stories word after laborious word. Out have come Maggie the Cowboy, Maggie and Mr. Wind, Maggie and the Christmas Tree, Maggie Goes Fishing, and others.

Mrs. Colburn, white-haired activity director at the nursing home where Perri lives in suburban Burien, spoke today of Perri's courageous determination.

"Perri," she said, "can't even brush a fly off her nose."

Maggie and her friends are based on bedtime stories Perri heard from her father when she was a child. Her dream is that her stories might be illustrated and published someday for children.

In "A Visit from Maggie, the Witch," Perri relates that she was sitting outside in her wheel chair when an old woman she didn't know came along and said, "My name is Maggie. I have been for a walk and cannot find my way back to Gray Mountain."

Exercise, Ecology Prompt Cycling

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bicycle riding is gaining in popularity across the nation, both for its exercise value and the fact that bikes don't pollute the air, a cycling club director reports.

Pedaling is "spreading like wildfire and the increase is mainly among adults," says Clifford L. Franz, California director of the reborn League of American Wheelmen.

The group, which broke up in 1942, was reorganized in 1964 as biking began making a comeback as a health fad under the encouragement of Dr. Paul Dudley White, the cycling surgeon who treated the late President Eisenhower, and other physicians.

"Now the antipollution preachers have jumped on the bandwagon and what used to be a little exercising of ours, bringing either frowns or bemused smiles from motorists and pedestrians, is now a real going thing," Franz said.

Ray Balter, manager of Ecology Center, coordinating agency for environmental groups springing up in the Bay Area, said many of his 300 staffers ride bicycles to work.

So do some lawyers and businessmen, "rolling along in their neat suits with their attache cases gripped firmly to the handle bar," said Franz.

Surveys show that the number of American cyclists "has gone up from 57 million to 60 million very recently," he reports.

Franz told of Ralph Halvorsen of Crystal Lake, Ill. "He and some other commuters began riding bikes to catch the trains to Chicago and they wrote to the Chicago Northwestern Railroad asking for parking racks.

"They received a quick reply from H. A. Lenske, director of the line's commuter and passenger service, not only granting the request but asking where he might join a cycling club."

A San Francisco Bay Area bikeway being developed now extends from north of Sausalito in suburban Marin County across the Golden Gate Bridge to Lake Merced near San Francisco's southern city limit. The Bridge path opened last Sunday.

Franz said LAW will celebrate its booming membership with a coastal tour beginning in Portland, Ore., Aug. 16 and ending at Asilomar, Calif., for a three-day convention Aug. 28-30 and the event will attract cyclists from distant points.

"I had a letter today from Howard Chambers of Hampton, Va., asking for maps and cross-county directions for pedaling all the way to Portland," he said.

"Yes, it's a real going thing."

Safety Rulings Due for Recaps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Transportation Department plans to issue a rule requiring that all recapped passenger car tires meet the same safety and performance standards as new tires.

The final rule would not become effective until Aug. 1, 1971, the department said Wednesday.

Heavy Cruiser Now Mothballed

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The cruiser Galveston has finished her last voyage and steamed into San Diego Bay to join the mothball fleet.

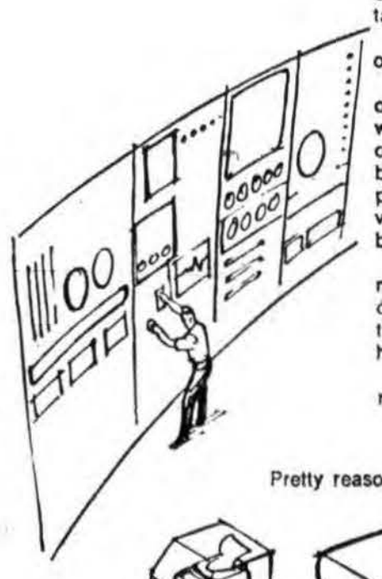

The ship, the second Navy warship named for the Texas city, entered the harbor Wednesday with most of her 1,000-man crew lining the railings. She is one of 48 ships ordered last January to be deactivated.

The City Clerk shall schedule said hearing on the agenda for the first available regular Council meeting occurring not less than 30 days following the date on which the application is submitted.

(b) Notice of the hearing shall be published in the official newspaper of the City at least once, not less than 10 days prior to the date scheduled for the hearing. In addition, written notice shall be given to each person holding a certificate for the operation of an ambulance service, at least 10 days prior to the date of the hearing.

6706. Issuance of Certificate. After consideration of all evidence which it deems relevant at the public hearing, the City Council shall determine whether the applicant has proven a need and necessity for additional service and may then issue or deny the requested certificate of public convenience and necessity. In reaching a decision, the City Council shall consider the following factors:

(a) Whether the applicant is qualified on the basis of moral character, experience in the ambulance business, and financial responsibility;

(b) Whether the number of ambulances already operating within the City is adequate to meet the public need;

(c) The probable effect that approval of the application would have on the level and quality of service available to the public;

(d) Whether the facilities, personnel and equipment which the applicant proposes to use are adequate.

6707. Form of Certificate. If the City Council determines that the public convenience and necessity requires the proposed ambulance service, a certificate authorizing such service shall be issued to the applicant. In granting a certificate, the City Council shall specify the number of ambulances that may be operated pursuant to said certificate and the certificate shall contain a description of each ambulance which the certificate holder will be permitted to operate within the City. A certificate shall not be issued to any person who shall not have fully complied with all the requirements of this Chapter.

6708. Duration of Certificate. A certificate of public convenience and necessity for the operation of an ambulance service issued pursuant to this Chapter shall be valid for an indefinite period of time, unless such certificate is suspended or revoked.

6709. Periodic Inspection. Subsequent to the issuance of a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to this Chapter, the Chief of Police shall cause to be inspected each licensed ambulance, its equipment and the premises of the certificate holder whenever the Chief of Police deems such inspection to be necessary, but in any event at least once each year.

6710. Grounds for Revocation. Any certificate or permit granted pursuant to the provisions of this Chapter may be revoked by the City Council, either in whole or in part, after five days prior written notice to the certificate or permit holder, directing him to appear at a certain time and place to show cause why the certificate should not be revoked, on any of the following grounds:

(a) That the certificate holder has not filed adequate evidence of liability insurance coverage with the City Clerk, or has allowed its insurance coverage to lapse or be canceled;

(b) For the violation of any rule, regulation or condition set forth in or authorized by this Chapter, or made a condition of the certificate of public convenience and necessity.

(c) For the violation of any laws of the State or City with respect to the operation of the business by any certificate holder, or repeated violations by employees of the certificate holder.

(d) For failure to maintain satisfactory service to the public, or for failure to keep any ambulance in a safe and sanitary condition, or for deviation from the schedule of rates approved by the City Council.

6711. Transfer of Certificate. No certificate issued pursuant to the provisions of this Chapter shall be transferable, either by assignment, sale, hypothecation, operation of law, or otherwise, without the permission of the City Council having been first obtained. Application for transfer of any certificate shall be subject to the same terms, conditions and requirements as in an application for an original certificate. In approving the transfer of an existing certificate, the City Council may impose such conditions as it may determine are in the public interest.

6712. Additional Vehicles. Any person holding a certificate to operate one or more ambulances pursuant to this Chapter, who desires to add to the number of such vehicles, shall do so only after first obtaining the consent of the City Manager, which shall be granted if the City Manager determines that the approval of such additional ambulance or ambulances would be in accord with the public convenience and necessity under the standards set forth in subsections (b), (c) and (d) of Section 6706.

6713. Substitution of Vehicles. Any person holding a certificate to operate one or more ambulances, as provided in this Chapter, who desires to substitute a different vehicle for a vehicle authorized under such certificate, shall do so only after obtaining the approval of the Chief of Police, which shall be granted only upon written application by the certificate holder, and upon a satisfactory report being made by the Chief of Police concerning the suitability and mechanical condition of the vehicle, a copy of which shall be furnished to the certificate holder. If the certificate helder is dissatisfied with any decision of the Chief of Police made pursuant to this Section, he may appeal to the City Council.

6714. Public Liability Insurance. No holder of a certificate to operate an ambulance service shall drive or operate an ambulance, or cause the same to be driven or operated, in the City unless there is on file with the City Clerk, and in full force and effect at all times while such ambulance is being operated, a policy of insurance approved by the City Attorney and the Finance Director, evidencing that the certificate holder is insured under a policy of liability insurance providing minimum coverage in the following amounts:

Death or injury of one person, $300,000; death or injury of two or more persons, $500,000; damage to property, $50,000. Said policy shall further provide that the City shall be given 30 days prior written notice of any cancellation, termination or change in the amount of such insurance coverage. Failure of any certificate holder to maintain the insurance required by this Section shall constitute grounds for revocation of its certificate of public convenience and necessity.

6715. Rates for Ambulance Service. Each holder of a certificate of public convenience and necessity for the operation of an ambulance service shall file with its application for a certificate a proposed schedule of rates to be charged for the transportation of patients in all ambulances operated by said certificate holder. After approval by the City Council, said rates shall not be changed or modified in any manner without the prior approval of the City Council. No certificate holder shall charge rates other than those so approved. The City Council may on its own motion hold a hearing at any time for the purpose of determining whether previously approved rate structures are established at a level which will result in a reasonable degree of competition among the certificate holders operating within the City, provide a fair return to said certificate holders on their investments, and provide a high quality ambulance service to the public. Prior to changing any schedule of rates previously approved for an existing certificate holder, the City Council shall hold a public hearing after giving 10 days prior written notice to all certificate holders and/or applicants, and publication of said proposed rate changes in the official newspaper of the City at least once, not less than 10 days prior to the date of said hearing. Every certificate holder shall post in a conspicuous place in the interior of each ambulance operated by said certificate holder the approved rate schedule in a form and location approved by the Chief of Police.

6716. Standards for Ambulance Equipment; Rules and Regulations. (a) Each ambulance shall be equipped with a two-way radio and such equipment as the City Manager shall determine to be adequate for dressing wounds, splinting fractures, controlling hemorrhage and providing oxygen.

(b) The City Manager shall have the authority to make rules and regulations not inconsistent with this Chapter concerning standards for required equipment in ambulances. Prior to adoption of such rules and regulations by the City Manager, the holders of all certificates of public convenience and necessity for the operation of ambulance services shall be furnished with a copy of the proposed rules and regulations, and shall be advised in writing by United States mail of the time and place at which the City Manager will hold a public hearing to consider the adoption of said rules at least 10 days prior to the date of said public hearing. Following adoption by the City Manager, said rules and regulations shall be filed with the City Clerk and shall constitute enforceable provisions of this Chapter. In determining the adequacy of equipment, the Chief of Police shall take into consideration the current list of minimal equipment for ambulances adopted by the American College of Surgeons or its duly authorized Committee on Trauma. Each holder of an ambulance operator's permit shall comply with such regulations as may be adopted by the City Manager.

6717. Permit for Drivers and Attendants. (a) No person shall drive, or serve as an attendant of, an ambulance subject to the requirements of this Chapter without first obtaining a permit in writing to do so from the Chief of Police.

(b) No person shall operate an ambulance for hire unless he shall hold a valid chauffeur's license and an ambulance driving certificate issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

6718. Application for Driver's and Attendant's Permit. An applicant for an ambulance driver's or ambulance attendant's permit shall file his application with the Finance Director on forms furnished by the City, together with an application fee of $7.50. Each applicant shall submit with his application three (3) recent photographs of himself of a size designated by the Finance Director. To be eligible for either type of permit, an applicant must be at least 21 years of age.

6719. Issuance of Permit. The Chief of Police shall conduct an investigation of each applicant for an ambulance driver's or ambulance attendant's permit, and may refuse to issue such permit, and may suspend or revoke a permit previously granted, on any of the following grounds:

(a) If the applicant is addicted to the use of alcoholic beverages, dangerous drugs or narcotics, or is not of good moral character.

(b) If the applicant for a driver's permit has been convicted three or more times within the past year for violation of any law or ordinance regulating the operation of motor vehicles, other than non-moving violatons, such as parking;

(c) If the applicant has been convicted within the past three years of a crime involving moral turpitude, the use or possession of narcotics, or for operating a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquors, or reckless driving;

(d) If the applicant does not possess either an Advanced American Red Cross First Aid Certificate, or an Advanced First Aid Certificate issued by the United States Bureau of Mines;

(e) If the applicant is unable to produce at any time, and not less frequently than once a year, a certificate of a duly licensed physician stating that the applicant is, in the opinion of such physician, free of communicable disease and physical disability which would impair his ability to perform his duties.

6720. Form of Driver's and Attendant's Permit. The permit shall be in the form of a card which shall bear the signature, photograph, and fingerprints of the applicant. Such card shall be issued in duplicate, and one copy shall be placed on file with the Police Department. The other card shall be carried on the person of the permittee at all times while on duty as an ambulance driver or attendant. Inter-city agreement that ambulance drivers and attendant permits will be recognized in cities utilizing uniform ordinance.

6721. Revocation of Permit. The Chief of Police may revoke any permit issued by him when, in his opinion, the permittee is unfit to serve as an attendant or driver of an ambulance, on the basis that (a) he obtained the permit by fraud or misrepresentation; (b) he has violated the provisions of this Chapter or any other State or municipal law relating to his duties; or (c) he has ceased to meet the requirements that justified the original issuance of the permit. Any permittee who is dissatisfied with the decision of the Chief of Police in suspending or revoking his permit may file a written notice of appeal with the City Council within 30 days after receiving notice of the action of the Chief of Police.

6722. Standard of Service. Any person holding a certificate of public convenience and necessity to operate an ambulance service within the City shall provide ambulance service on a 24-hour basis, seven days a week. A certificate holder must respond to a call received within 15 minutes on normal calls, and five minutes on an emergency call, or otherwise inform the requesting party of his approximate delay.

6723. File Reports with Police. Within one-half hour after conveying any injured, or sick or disabled persons who die en route to any public or private hospital, or removing any such person or persons from any place within the City to another place within the City or beyond its limits, a person owning or operating an ambulance hereunder, his agent or employee, shall notify the Police Department of such operation. Such notice shall give the name and address of such injured, sick or disabled person, when such information is available, and the place to and from which such person was removed. The Chief of Police, in his discretion, may establish a policy requiring that any person owning or operating an ambulance hereunder, his agent or employee, shall, within 24 hours after removal of any such injured, sick or disabled person, file a written report to the Police Department giving the information required above, and any other relevant information which the Police Department may require. The Police Department shall provide forms upon which the information required under this section shall be written.

6724. Existing Ambulance Operators. Each person holding a valid certificate of public convenience and necessity to operate an ambulance service issued by the City Council prior to effective date of this Chapter shall be automatically granted a new certificate of public convenience and necessity to continue to operate the same number of ambulances within the City as authorized under its existing certificate without being required to pay the fees set forth in Section 6704, provided, however, that all existing certificate holders and their employees shall be required to comply with all of the other provisions of this Chapter.

6725. Violations. No person shall violate any provision or fail to comply with any of the requirements of this ordinance. In addition to the provisions of this ordinance providing for suspension or revocation of any permit issued pursuant to this Chapter, any person found guilty of violating any provisions of this Chapter shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine of not more than $500, or by imprisonment in the County jail for not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Each such person shall be guilty of separate offenses for each and every day during any portion of which any violation of any provision of this ordinance is committed, continued or permitted by such person."

SECTION 2. Section 6700 through and including 6715 or adopted by Ordinance 224, are hereby replaced.

SECTION 3. This ordinance shall be published once in the official newspaper of the City, and the same shall be effective 30 days after the date of its adoption.

This ordinance was introduced at a regular meeting of the City Council of the City of Costa Mesa held on the 16th day of February, 1970, and was adopted on the 2nd day of March, 1970 by the following vote, to wit:

Highway Delays Bring Odd Images

WASHINGTON (AP) — The protests halting work in 16 major cities on critical links of the nationwide superhighway system have produced some extraordinary image-mending efforts by federal road officials.

Consider this ode, disguised as a news release from an anonymous wordsmith in the Department of Transportation:

"The budding basketball star of tomorrow could be a kid who learned to dribble, pass and shoot because an interstate highway came through his neighborhood.

"And this same youth, who whiled away hours of his life wondering what to do next, can now cavort on a basketball court laid out under a structurally modern viaduct."

The handout's ostensible purpose was to describe the federal aid program for recreational uses of highway right-of-ways.

But it was also beamed at critics who have roadblocks standing — some temporary, some permanent — against interstate road projects from New York City in the East to San Francisco in the West.

Their objections? Parks would be severed, historical buildings and monuments destroyed, cities clogged with more cars creating further noise and air pollution, neighborhoods disrupted, and poor families — often black — rendered homeless.

A single one of these complaints, a combination, or sometimes all apply in the urban areas where interstate links are in contention or halted permanently. But the single most important objection — cited in 11 of the 16 cities — is displacement.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe moved to meet this recently by decreeing suitable housing at reasonable cost must be provided for any person forced to move by the construction of an interstate highway. This amounts to 50,000 people a year by official estimate.

Volpe said the short-term effect of the new requirement will be to slow further the already-dragging program. But department officials also believe it will erase a major criticism and lead to long-term acceleration for the projected 42,500-mile system.

Angela Rooney, executive secretary of the National Coalition on the Transportation Crisis, an antifreeway group, isn't placated, however.

"The Transportation Department is famous for promising everything but giving only freeways," she said.

John E. Jacob, deputy director of the Washington Urban League, was kinder to Volpe and his new policy.

"He is recognizing an intolerable problem — having white men's roads run through black men's homes," Jacob said.

The interstate system, begun in 1956 by the Eisenhower administration, is more than two-thirds complete.

But delays or cancellations experienced on 133.8 miles of road in major cities have pushed the completion date from the original 1971 goal to 1977.

Projects have been scratched permanently from federal maps in Newark, N.J., New Orleans and San Francisco. State and local officials have said they will ask similar deletions in Cleveland and New York City.

Group Finds That Flying Can Be Fun

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — "I'll sit next to anyone else," the nervous gentleman wearing a carnation, told the stewardess, "but a bass fiddle — that's going too far."

The man, one of 20 carnation-bearing members of the "Fly Without Fear" club, would probably have liked a sympathetic hand to hold or a shoulder to cry on if his newly conquered fears of planes got the best of him on his return trip from Puerto Rico to New York.

The 20 New Yorkers had gathered up courage last Wednesday for their first airplane flight and 20 others who had been frightened by earlier flights returned to air travel after preparing with a series of seminars, lectures and gorup therapy.

"We drew strength from each other," said Bill Sherr whose Puerto Rican excursion was his first flight in six years. "Just being together has helped us a great deal. If we see someone who is tight we try to calm them."

"Six years ago," he said, "I had a rough flight from Acapulco on New Years Day and I made a New Year's resolution to never fly again."

Those on the trip answered newspaper ads to join Fly Without Fear because, Nathan Colt, leader of the group, said, they felt their fear of air travel was interfering with their business and personal lives.

Stirring Day

Cooks Mix Food Fair

Girl Scouts and Brownies dressed in costumes of many lands will conduct an International Food Fair next week.

As a means of acquainting the girls with neighbors and friends close to home and learning about people far away, the food fair will be staged by troops from Laguna Beach, Laguna Niguel and Dana Point.

Booths will be set up at the Festival of Arts grounds in Laguna Canyon on Saturday, March 14, from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Each troop will provide a varied display of food representative of many nations. All is available for sale to the public.

Laguna's troop plans German chocolate cakes, French pastries, Mexican tortillas and guacamole, and Japanese fortune cookies.

Recipes will be available for those interested.

Arranged under the guidance of the Girl Scout Council of Orange County, the fair will be enlivened by skits and dances of different countries.

Girls will set up and decorate their own booths and provide for cleanup following closing.

Weather permitting, between 15 and 25 Scout and Brownie troops will participate in the three-hour sale.

Ballet for Children

Toys Come to Life In Magical Moment

The little toymaker arranges a demonstration of his toys for wealthy people.

As he winds up toy soldiers, ballet dancers and dolls, they come to life and perform with mechanical precision. The audiences leaves and the toyshop is closed for the night.

Suddenly a fairy doll comes to life and touches her companions with a magic wand. The toys again come to life and dance until the break of day when the toymaker returns to find them lifeless but in a strange disarray.

This is the story of "The Enchanted Toyshop" by Joseph Bayer which will be staged as the second ballet for children by members of the Laguna Beach Civic Ballet.

Companion ballet will be a bright and happy offering by Delibes, the "Delibiana."

Made possible by a $1,000 grant from the Festival of Arts, the ballet series for children was launched last month with a sold-out performance of Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf."

This month's program will be staged on Sunday, March 15, at 2:30 p.m. in the Festival of Arts Forum on the festival grounds.

Taking part in the production will be Kristi Moorhead, Odile deWitte, Hope and Joy Sogawa, Damara Bennett, Charles Colgan, Hal O'Neal, Barbara Byrnes, Kathy Jo Kahn, Billy Sircello, Gregory Osborne, Louise Frazer and Bonnie Thompson.

According to artistic director Mrs. Lila Zali, the series was conceived in order to expose children to ballet they can readily understand and instill in them a love of dance.

The remaining programs will be April 26 and June 28 and will include "Tubby the Tuba" and the "Festival of Nations."

Tickets for the March 15 program may be purchased at the Ballet Center, 1863 S. Coast Highway, at a cost of $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

There are no reserved seats, so parents are advised to purchase tickets early.

In addition to the children's series, young people may take advantage of the regular ballet season with a junior membership which entitles the holder to attend all programs at a cost of $4 per year.

Dog Gone Laziness Replaces Bonnie's True Puppy Love

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 16-year-old daughter begged us for a puppy for her birthday. Bonnie promised to train him, walk him, feed him and be totally responsible for all his needs. So we bought Bonnie a Boxer puppy. She named him Plato.

Plato chews everything in sight and vomits all over. He has spotted the sofa, the living room chairs and ruined every rug in the house. The place smells like a kennel and no amount of airing seems to help.

Plato cries all night and no one can sleep — no one except Bonnie, that is. Nothing bothers her. She is in school all day so I'm the one who walks Plato and cleans up after him. When Bonnie does come home she is too busy on the telephone to feed her puppy so I have to do that, too.

Last night we had a heated argument and I told Bonnie I was giving Plato away. She became hysterical and made me feel like a murderer. I love my daughter and I don't want to break her heart. Please tell me what to do.

—NERVIS RECK

DEAR RECK: Do yourself, Plato and Bonnie a favor and give the puppy to people who will care for it properly. Bonnie has not kept her word. If you let her hysterics trap you into keeping the pup, you've got a geranium in your cranium, Lady.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's bookkeeper quit last May after working for him for five years. I was not unhappy about her leaving because she was such a trouble-maker and I never liked her.

Two weeks after Jennie quit, her husband came to the house on his lunch hour to tell me "something important." I almost died of shock when he told me Jennie was pregnant by my husband—and he was thrilled because he always had wanted a family and was physically unable to father a child. He then admitted it was HIS idea—that he had talked his wife into seducing my husband and he thought I ought to know the facts.

The baby is four months old now and from what I hear she is a very beautiful child.

I told my husband about the visit that very night. He denied everything—called the guy "nuts," and said Jennie was involved with another man in the company and that he had fathered the child.

The whole thing has made me physically ill. I believe my husband, but I keep wondering how much gossip there is. I want to leave town but my husband has a good job and it would mean starting over. We have three young children and I don't want them hurt by this. What should we do?—RICHMOND

DEAR RICHMOND: If you don't feel better in 60 days, I suggest you and your husband seriously consider moving to another city. Whatever he loses financially will be worth it in terms of your health and peace of mind for your family.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHAT TO DO?: It's time your neighbor found an unmarried "humanitarian" to cry on. Hand your husband the names of a counselor, a clergyman and a therapist and suggest that he give the list to the lady.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents . . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged by Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the DAILY PILOT, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Sagittarius: Forces Scattered

TUESDAY
MARCH 10

By SYDNEY OMARR

Scorpio is called the sexiest of the zodiacal signs. But if that is true, Leo runs a close second.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Money areas activated. Pay and collect debts. But not wise to lend. One who is aggressive makes numerous promises but may be covering up unfavorable points. Act accordingly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You asked for action — today you get plenty of it. There is change, variety, attention from others. You are in spotlight and cycle is high. Drive forward. But take care in traffic.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): One who is usually shy speaks up. Be cooperative. Realize some tempers are on edge. You may be the individual in the middle — one others regard as peacemaker. Play that important role.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Some friends appear hot-tempered. Realize clash of ideas is exciting but maintain self-control. Important issue can be settled without hurling of insults.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You get action through writing, publishing, advertising. Prestige rises; Aries individual can prove valuable ally today. Accept responsibility and you will gain reward.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Some ideas concerning vacation, long journey need further development. Give logic equal space with impulse. Then you avoid entanglement in embarrassing situation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Avoid argument with mate, partner over finances. Neither of you may have authority to do a thing. Realize this and be civil. Set example of maturity. Then you will be happy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Break indicated in relationship that previously survived severe bumps. Key is to realize fatigue might have much to do with emotions. Measure words, actions. Study Libra message.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Forces are scattered. People you depend upon could be absent. Some details are better left for another day. Watch diet. Take care of yourself. Pacing is important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Good lunar aspect today coincides with intense emotional reactions. Some young persons could make unjust accusations — has nothing to do with chronological age. Don't compound error.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friction indicated at home base. Be ready to contribute ideas. But also express willingness to listen. Member of opposite sex may be false-flattering you with definite motive in mind.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Please do not rush — not in writing, driving, giving answers to important questions. You exhibit tendency to be careless. Seek steadying influence — comes from family member.

Ford Shows 'Thrifty Swifty'

By CARL CARSTENSEN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A new Maverick described by Ford Division general manager John Naughton as a "thrifty swifty" is now on sale at local Ford dealers. Joining the newest Maverick, called the Grabber, is a similar Mustang powered by Ford's smallest V-8.

"We are offering these Grabber offsprings of the '70 Maverick and Mustang for the buyers who prefer a lot of show but not so much go in their sport cars," Naughton said. Advertising slogans describe the attributes of the Maverick Grabber as going "zero to sixty in under three cents" and "for $1,995 it's a little gas . . . For a little more, it's a grabber."

Distinctive features of the Grabber are dual racing mirrors, bodyside tape stripes, black painted hood and cowl, deck lid spoiler, woodgrain trimmed steering wheel, six-cylinder engine and five lively exterior colors — Grabber blue, Grabber orange, Grabber green, vermilion and bright yellow.

Grabber Mustang is a SportsRoof model with added features highlighted by Boss Mustang "C" tape stripes, dual racing mirrors, black-painted lower back panel, hub cap and trim rings, F70 white sidewall tires, Maverick's Grabber's five lively colors and Ford's 302 2V eight-cylinder engine.

Most options available with the 302-powered Mustang SportsRoof are available with Mustang Grabber.

Other dress-up features with Maverick Grabber include bright drip moldings, bright window frames; deluxe fuel cap; wheel trim rings; color keyed carpets; all vinyl black interior seat trim; black-painted lower back panel and black painted grille.

Options available with Maverick Grabber include Ford's largest six cylinder engine — the economical 250-cubic-inch version, automatic transmission, optional axle ratios, power steering, vinyl roof, convenience group, air conditioning, tinted glass and AM radio.

Cal State Fullerton Using New Computer

Instructional, research and administrative programs that rely on electronic data processing have advanced a generation at California State College, Fullerton with the installation of a new computer system.

Dr. Kenneth R. Doane, director of institutional research, said the new CDC 3150 system replaces an IBM 1620 and represents a jump from a second to third generation computer.

Valued at approximately $500,000, the system was acquired from Control Data Corp. of Minneapolis, Minn., under a long-term lease agreement that also involves nine other campuses of the California State Colleges.

Considered approximately 25 times more powerful than the 1620, the new system owes its superior performance to a combination of characteristics.

Featuring a magnetic tape capability, the CDC 3150 was activated this month when Dr. William B. Langsdorf, CSCF president, pressed a button starting the processing of a series of student-written programs in quantiative methods, physics and engineering.

"Our 1620, in use since 1964, was a workhorse, and hundreds of students learned computer techniques on it," Doane said. "But the increasing complexity of computer programs, coupled with the growing instructional and administrative workload on a rapidly expanding campus, necessitated an advance in hardware."

While the 3150 in itself is such an advance, another far-reaching aspect of the installation is its telephonic link with a new California State Colleges computer network that extends from Humboldt on the north to San Diego on the south.

Spring Fever On Wall St.

NEW YORK (AP) — A stripteaser with a white sweater tighter than the money supply caused an intense short-interest situation on Wall Street Thursday.

The touch of spring brought what is now getting to be a recurrent warm-weather phenomenon in the financial district—a girl with measurements to make any bear bullish. This one was Ronnie Bell, 44-24-35.

"Now that's a real conglomerate," remarked a knowledgeable messenger.

South Coast Repertory

'Spoon River Anthology' Fine Ensemble Production

By TOM TITUS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

In its excellent production of "Spoon River Anthology," South Coast Repertory once again demonstrates its mastery of ensemble staging, bringing Edgar Lee Masters' collection of Midwestern nostalgia full blown to the stage of the company's Costa Mesa theater.

ENTERTAINMENT

"SPOON RIVER ANTHOLOGY"
An evening of song and narrative by Edgar Lee Masters, directed by Ron Thronson, lighting by Les Zellan, visuals by Kenneth Shearer, presented Thursdays through Sundays until March 22 at South Coast Repertory Third Step Theater, 1827 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa.

THE CAST
James Baxes, Martha McFarland, Charles Hutchins, Toni Douglass, Larry Harbison, Toni Shearer, Musician: Ron Thronson.

This is no hastily mounted piece of readers' theater, but a full fledged production under the craftsmanlike direction of Ron Thronson who as onstage guitarist also controls the tempo of the evening. It has been staged with tender and loving hands, preserving the poetic beauty of the work.

The show's cast of six exhibits a coordinate style unequaled since the company's frenzied production of "America, Hurrah" two seasons ago, an unusual point of comparison, but one relevant in the area of ensemble approach. Intricate lighting effects and countless mood slides well documented by Kenneth Shearer contribute overwhelmingly to the success of the production.

Presented as the combined recollections of the citizens of one small Illinois community more than a century ago, "Spoon River Anthology" is narrated from the graveyard, a sometimes bitter, often humorous chronology of rural America. Emptiness and loneliness are major ingredients, but interspersed throughout are occasional winks of the eye, a gentle comic balance in a mood of general dejection and resignation.

It is a show which demands versatility, and this is served up in heaping helpings by a splendid cast of singing actors and actresses — James Baxes, Martha McFarland, Charles Hutchins, Toni Douglass, Larry Harbison and Toni Shearer.

Each is called upon to create a number of unrelated character vignettes, and none is more skilled at this art than is Baxes, who exhibits an astonishing aptitude for capturing impressions of the elderly. Baxes possesses a strong, rich voice which can shift smoothly from the fervor of a pulpit-pounding preacher into the creaking uncertainty of an old codger whom life and love have forsaken.

Another pair of resonant vocal cords belong to Hutchins, who handles the chores of the public speaker in several sequences with ringing authority. Harbison, an impressive newcomer to the SCR stage, invokes an affinity for rustic comedy which provides much of the show's spice.

Musically, much of the evening's enjoyment is due to the melodic tones of Toni Shearer, who takes over the more difficult solo arrangements. Miss Shearer, one of the more dynamic of local musical actresses, makes her debut on the SCR stage a memorable one.

Martha McFarland brings poignancy mixed with an occasional fillip of broad comedy to her varied assignments. And Toni Douglass adds a strong dose of feminine charm to her convincing interpretations.

Music, lighting and visual effects blend skillfully with top notch ensemble performance in this skillfully constructed presentation which will stir a responsive chord in anyone with a small town background. Characters and circumstances are ageless, and author Masters has penned his work with indelible ink.

Only two more weekends remain for "Spoon River Anthology" at the SCR Third Step Theater, 1827 Newport Blvd. in downtown Costa Mesa.

Banned in Greece

Georges Foundas turns out to be the right man for Melina Mercouri in "Never on Sunday," the motion picture which may be seen on Channel 9 tonight at 7:30. Miss Mercouri was picked as best actress at Cannes Film Festival for this movie.

Original Musical Set For Premiere at GWC

"Irving," an original two-act musical comedy about a computer with a John Wayne-sounding dialect, will be produced at Golden West College, April 10-11 and 16-18.

It is the first musical on a major scale to be staged at Golden West, and to accommodate both props and large audiences it will be held in the College Center, with the curtain going up at 8:30 p.m.

General admission tickets are $1.00, and may be purchased in advance through the college book store.

"Irving" is the product of the composer-writer team of Glen Wescott and Stewart Rogers, two artists who have three prior musical comedy successes to their credit.

Wescott, the composer, wrote the music and lyrics to "The Golden Knight" and the highly acclaimed "Little Man in Search of His Serious Side." The latter ran six months at the Orange Studio Theater and two months in Hollywood.

Rogers, a member of the Golden West faculty, wrote the script and is directing. He has written nine shows and directed more than 50, including "Calico," his first musical which was well received in its debut at Santa Ana College.

Cast Listed For 'Clowns' In Anaheim

Casting has been completed for "A Thousand Clowns," the first adult production of the Ana-Modjeska Players of Anaheim.

The comedy by Herb Gardner will be pesented April 10 and 11 only at the Anaheim High School auditorium under the direction of Mary Eastman.

Joe Del Rosso will play the leading role of Murray Burns. Del Rosso recently starred in "Goodbye Charlie" at the Costa Mesa Civic Playhouse and "A Smile is a Frown Turned Upside Down" at the Open End Theater.

Others in the cast are Susan Kampe as Sandra; Don Jordan as Albert, Frank Utzmann as Arnold, William Verderber as "Chuckles" and Dennis Wheeler as the youngster, Nick.

Reservations for "A Thousand Clowns" may be made by calling 528-6623 or by contacting the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce.

Patton Scott's Hero

General's 'Gigantic Stature' Lauded

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It is rare for a U.S. Marine to pick an army officer as his hero.

But the late Gen. George S. Patton has become something of a personal hero to actor George O. Scott as the result of playing the title role in "Patton," a $15 million roadshow film by 20th Century-Fox.

Scott, who rose to the rank of sergeant during a four-year hitch in the Marines, became fascinated with the personality of the famed U.S. 3rd Army commander who achieved notoriety by slapping a shellshocked private and later won renown for his march across France.

"I think I could write a book about Patton now," he said. "My biggest difficulty was to avoid the popular cliche of him — to show him not as a swaggering bully with a gun but as he actually was, a complex, multifaceted man.

"Patton had gigantic stature as a human being."

Like Patton, Scott has had a stormy and controversial career. He once refused an Academy Award nomination and by the time he was 30 he had been thrice-married and had his nose broken five times. But time and a happy third marriage have mellowed his impetuous nature.

"I don't have a definition of controversial," he said mildly. "If it means I like to live my own life, then I suppose I am. But I'm not meddlesome, I despise gossip, and I don't stick my nose into other people's business."

Scott is a six-footer with cloudy eyes and an imperious profile. Admired by other actors for his dedication and skill at his craft, he says he became an actor because "it's the only thing I can do successfully.

"That's a left-handed thing to say, but it's true. Acting has its gratifications and rewards. But it is rather like gambling luck — you can kill it by talking about it.

"You can make a mistake by trying to overanalyze either a performance or your own life. It'll lead you on the road to the laughing academy. Better leave it to the critics—that's their job."

The key word in Scott's philosophy is distinction.

"It is unforgivable for a man not to aspire to distinction in everything he does," he said. "You also have to prize individuality very highly. It's one of the things that make man a higher animal — if he is."

Scott feels his own worst fault is intellectual laziness.

"I know I could be a better person," he said, "if I laid on the sweat and tears it takes. It's like a good marriage: you have to slave at it to get the best results."

His best trait, he feels is that he likes people individually, but not in crowds.

"I'm really gregarious," he said, "although some people might not think so."

Scott's biggest professional goal is to play "Macbeth" with his actress wife, Colleen Dewhurst, as costar.

TELEVISION VIEWS

Viewers Get Show Preview

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dial Hot Line," a two-hour film feature on ABC Sunday night, gave viewers a king-size preview of a series scheduled for the network next season.

Vince Edwards starred as a sort of super social worker, handling the assignment as if Ben Casey had switched from neurosurgery to psychiatry. He operated a telephone service for young people who needed to talk out their problems.

THE "HOT LINE" was handled by young volunteers on the idea that the young want to talk to the young. Presumably we met the volunteers assigned as regulars for the series. The pilot show encompassed a number of cases — a boy threatening suicide and carrying out his threat; a psychotic youth who attacked a Hot Line volunteer; a runaway boy; and a rebellious 16-year-old girl who hated everybody, particularly her mother.

The show, in spite of all the plots and subplots, crept along at a snail's pace. There were too many characters to get to know any, and Edwards was aloof, grim and remote without any compensating human qualities.

TELEVISION has not seen many social workers since the demise a few seasons back of "East Side, West Side," in which George C. Scott played a social worker. Post mortems of the series' short run usually included a diagnosis that the social worker as hero was a mistake. He was forced to be a spectator of other people's problems instead of a protagonist. This ABC pilot suggests the same trouble will plague "Dial Hot Line."

The three networks turned out with a will to permit viewers, no matter where situated, to enjoy the spectacle of a total eclipse of the sun — the type event television can cover superbly.

They scattered reporters and cameras from Mexico to Nova Scotia. They set up animal experiments — most of which did not work. They interviewed scientists and they spent a lot of time warning the public not to look at the eclipse with unprotected eyes.

THE MOST effective camera coverage came from Mexico; the least effective was from a plane.

CBS premiered a new series, "Adventure," on Friday night with a sketchy account of a 2,000-mile voyage on the Pacific from Peru to Central America in a primitive craft made of bundles of reeds.

The project, dreamed up by an American adventurer named Gene Savoy, was to test a theory that the early Indian civilization of Central America had its roots further south.

The program was a colorful hour with handsome mountain and ocean scenery but it seemed more of a TV stunt than a real scientific experiment.

Cal State Gets Shot at Bruins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For UCLA and Long Beach State, conference basketball action is over and the Bruins and 49ers are headed for a headon crash Thursday night in Seattle. But for Santa Clara and University of the Pacific, the entire season depends on tonight's game.

The Uclans' Pacific-8 Conference play ended Saturday night on a note of victory — and revenge — as they managed Southern California, 91-78, getting even for Friday night's upset by the Trojans.

And in Provo, Utah, Long Beach showed why it finished atop the Pacific Coast Athletic Association with an unblemished record as it bombed Weber State's big Sky Conference champion Wildcats, 92-73, in Saturday night's opening round of the NCAA Western Regionals.

UCLA, 24-2, will be aiming for an unprecedented fourth straight national championship when it opposes the 49ers, 24-3 and winners of 18 straight.

Balance was the key to the 49ers' triumph as center George Trapp scored 17 and guard Shawn Johnson and forward Billy Jankans added 16 apiece.

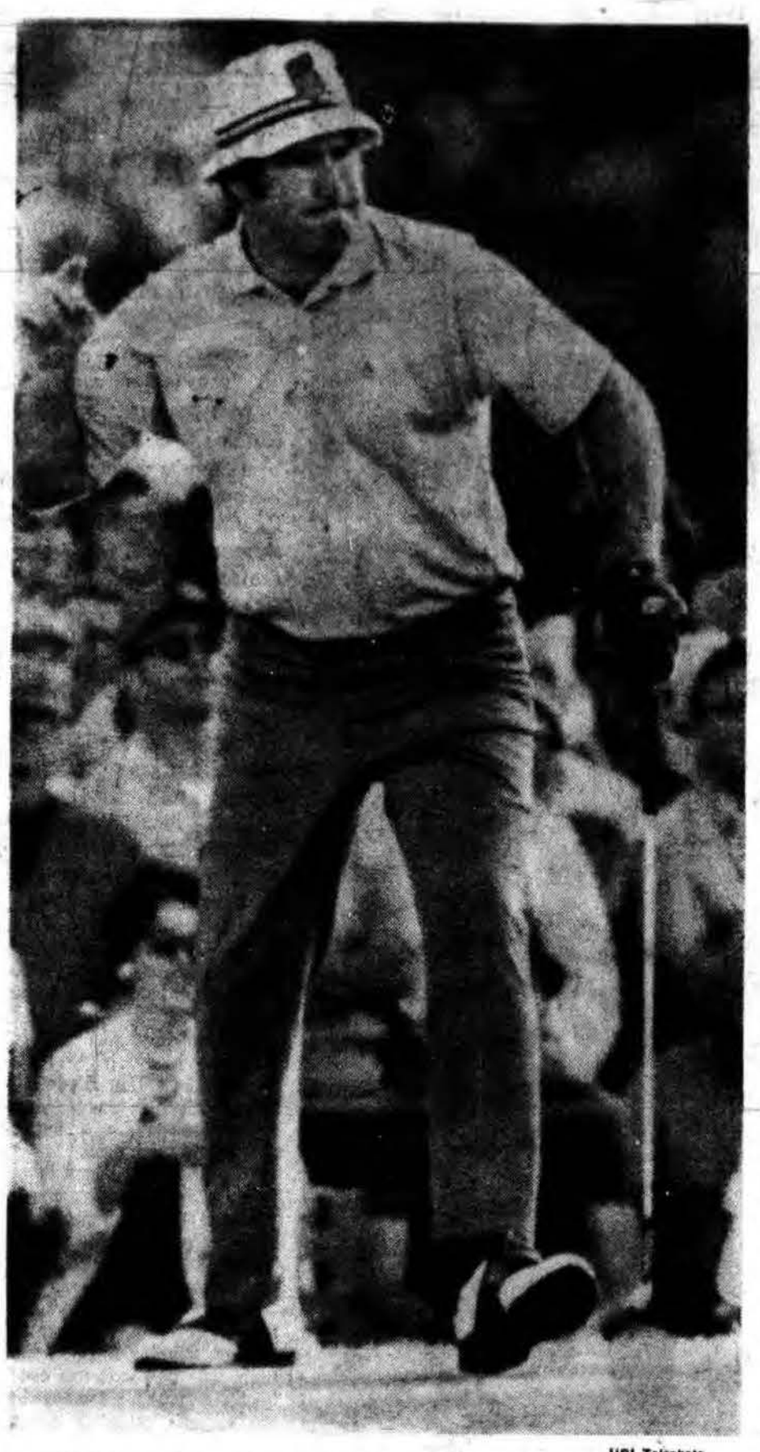

Whether Santa Clara or UOP goes to the regionals for a Saturday night contest will be decided in tonight's playoff, at the University of San Francisco.

It was necessitated by Pacific's 71-60 victory over the Broncos last Saturday night which threw the two teams into a deadlock for the West Coast Athletic Conference crown with 11-3 records.

UOP's Bill Stricker scored 15 of his game-high 23 points in the first half to lead the Tigers. Santa Clara was paced by Ralph Odgen with 22. But the Broncos' brilliant Dennis Awtrey was held to just 13.

The Bruins, 12-2 dropped the Trojans into a second-place Pac-8 tie with Washington State, each at 9-5, although the Cougars' over-all record is 19-7, one game better than Southern Cal's 18-8.

Filling out the conference are Oregon, 8-6 and 17-9; Washington, 7-7 and 17-9; California, 5-9 and 11-15; Oregon State, 4-10 and 10-16, and Stanford, 2-12 and 5-20.

BODY ENGLISH — Bob Lunn of Sacramento snaps his fingers as he watches his ball edge the cup on the 18th green during the final round of the Florida Citrus Invitational Sunday. Lunn made his next shot to win the tournament with a 271, 17 under par.

Palmer's Putt In and Out; Lunn Captures Citrus Open

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — "I thought I had made the putt," said Arnold Palmer. "It was in the cup and out."

"I thought he'd made it," said Bob Lunn. "I just couldn't imagine Arnold Palmer three-putting from that distance."

But Palmer did. A national television audience watched while the golfing idol of millions blew a four-foot putt on the final hole and let Lunn escape with the $30,000 first prize Sunday in the weather-plagued Florida Citrus Invitational golf tournament.

"Well," said an obviously dejected Palmer, "we had it going for a while. It's the way I like to play. Only I don't like to lose."

Palmer and the bull-strong Lunn, 16-years younger and 30 pounds heavier than Arnie, were locked in a head and head duel for 36 holes on the gruelling final day.

Palmer had a 64, eight under par, in the morning round and moved into the lead, with Lunn just one stroke back after a 67.

Palmer had a final 72 and Lunn a 70 for 271, 17 under par. The double round was forced by the rained-out first round Thursday.

The lead see-sawed back and forth between Palmer and Lunn all day, and no more than a single stroke ever separated them. And, going into the final 18 holes, it became a two-man race.

Palmer took the lead with a birdie on the 13th, then bogeyed the 15th from a trap and it was all even again. He made a bad second shot, blasted out strong and missed a 25 foot putt.

"If I hadn't made a mistake there, that might have done it," he said.

But the high drama was saved for the 18th. They came to it all even. Lunn put his drive in the trees on the right. Palmer was down the fairway.

Arnie pitched on about 35 feet from the pin while Lunn bent a beautiful shot around the trees but left himself a 70-footer.

"I thought, 'Bob, if you're going to do something, now's the time,'" said the balding, soft-spoken Lunn. He missed by four inches and tapped in for the par.

Palmer ran his 35-foot birdie putt four feet by the hole, then missed it coming back and had to settle for a tie for second with Australian Bob Stanton, who had a final 68 for 272.

Dick Lotz had a final 68 and was alone at 275. Tied at 276 were Tom Weiskopf, Tom Shaw and Dick Crawford, with Bruce Crampton, Bruce Devlin and Howie Johnson at 277. Jack Nicklaus finished well back at 280.

"This was my greatest moment in golf," said Lunn, who had won three previous tour titles and has been on the tour since 1967.

"I'm just so pleased," he said.

"Arnold Palmer is the king. I was just fortunate to have some fans in the gallery. I didn't play him. I played the course. My putting was excellent. That's probably what won for me.

"Palmer played just the greatest. He only made two bogeys in 36 holes. I just love to watch that man play. You can learn a lot watching him."

And it appeared that Lunn had learned enough.

Former OCC Student Savors Alaskan Living

There are certainly a number of ways to get one's goat, what with the normal pressures that frequently make everyday living a bit on the hellish side.

However, Walter Ormasen, a former Orange Coast College student, trekked all the way to Juneau, Alaska to get his goat.

And a beauty it was .... an old goat

WHITE WASH

with near-trophy sized 9½-inch horns and meat strong enough to make a starving cannibal turn pale.

Actually Ormasen went to Alaska as a permanent resident, accepting a job with the Ketchikan Police Department in 1967.

The native New Yorker wanted to be somewhere where he could hunt and fish without being jostled about by a million other people.

So our 49th state was his choice.

Ormasen, now a state trooper, tells a bit of the great hunting and fishing he's encountered in his three years up north.

He tells of traveling some 70 miles north of the capital — Juneau — going most of the way by boat, up the inland water ways. Two days after he started out, he bagged his goat, plodding about in the glacier country.

"You've got to be careful up there with the avalanches, falling rocks and crevices," he warns. "But most hunters can get their goat by working the alpine meadows around the glaciers."

As for hunting moose, Ormasen says if you go up river some 15 miles from Juneau, you are in good hunting grounds. "It can take anywhere from 20 minutes to forever to get one," he says, "depending on whether you're hunting for meat or trophy horns."

There's plenty of bear to be had but Ormasen has not tried that venture as yet.

He also tells of bagging a nice mess of trout, ranging from 17-20 inches in size. "Most people seem to go for ocean fishing and salmon so there is very little pressure on fresh water fish," he explains.

Hunting licenses for residents are cheap — like $13 for anything.

But for non-residents you have a basic $10 license fee, plus charges for tags on separate game. For example, goat tags are $25, moose $50, polar bear $150, sheep $75, brown bear $100.

On top of that, you are required to employ a guide to hunt bear or sheep.

Non-resident fishing license is much more reasonable — $5 — says Ormasen.

He points out that winter in Juneau is a rather mild season since the city is coastal. There is some snow but mostly it's rain forest area and the sea waters are warmed by a Japanese current.

Obviously if a guy wants to really get his goat, Alaska is the place to do it.

Petty Survives Mishaps for Victory

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Richard Petty, winner of $708,254 in 10 years as a stock car racing driver, says his job is getting harder each year but retirement has never entered his mind.

The 32-year-old son of Lee Petty, a famed driver in his own right in the 1950's, had just pocketed a check for $18,215 after romping home far in front of the field in Sunday's Carolina 500.

"Sure, driving is getting harder with each race. I don't know whether it is me," he said, "or whether everybody else is getting better. Anyway, when you win one like this, you really count your blessings."

Petty had survived two spinouts and a near wreck to come home more than three miles ahead of close friend Cale Yarborough's Mercury in a wreck-marred race that drew a record crowd of 38,000 to North Carolina Motor Speedway.

Petty's blue Plymouth, fitted with a sharp nose cone and a 24-inch high stabilizer on the rear deck, spun out of control on the speedway's steep banking early in the race and almost rammed the concrete guard rail headon. Only expert driving saved the car from being demolished.

The 6-3 veteran from Randleman, N.C., kept the machine in contention during the middle stages as other top drivers fell by the wayside, and charged into the lead for good at the 406-mile mark.

Then, with about 50 miles to go, he tangled with Yarborough's Mercury coming off the fourth turn and spun wildly again.

"I thought I was a goner," Petty said later. "But then I got it (the car) pointed straight again and it handled o.k. So I put my foot into the floorboard and kept going."

Yarborough, running second at the time and in the same lap as Petty, was forced to the pits to have a damaged fender removed.

The Timmonsville, S.C., resident never was a threat again but managed to hold on for second place and a $10,540 payoff period.

Richard Brooks of Spartanburg, S.C., the 1969 NASCAR rookie of the year, came in third in a Plymouth, eight miles back while fourth place went to Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., in a Dodge.

Petty's teammate, 27-year-old Pete Hamilton of Charlotte, N.C., winner of the rich Daytona 500 two weeks ago, was fifth.

What's Left for UCI After No-hit Win?

By HOWARD L. HANDY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

There are few encores left for the UC Irvine baseball team this first season.

The Anteaters have defeated two top Pacific-8 nines, UCLA and USC.

Complete game victories and home runs abound and the season record is 8-3-1 against all competition.

So what happens Saturday?

Dave Wollos turns in a seven-inning perfecto for Irvine over Cal Tech of Pasadena, facing only 21 batters. He didn't allow a base hit, didn't walk a batter and struck out seven. The Anteaters won, 8-0 in the first game of a doubleheader on the Irvine campus diamond.

The lone Cal Tech base runner reached first on an error and was promptly erased on a double play.

Wollos' pitching mastery was so complete, the visitors didn't get a ball out of the infield. There were 11 infield outs, two popups and seven whiffs as he faced a minimum of 21 batters.

Taking their cue from Wollos, three Irvine hurlers combined talents for a two-hitter in the nightcap as Irvine won, 6-0.

Starter Ben Wetzler gave up both safeties in five innings with Bob Barlow working the sixth and Tom O'Connor the seventh. Barlow struck out two and O"connor retired the side on strikeouts.

Next action for coach Gary Adams' high-flying Anteaters is Saturday when they entertain Cal Poly (Pomona) in a twin bill.

Rocky Craig and Mike Sykora have been elected co-captains of the first-ever baseball team at UC Irvine.

Craig plays center field for the Anteaters and is the leading hitter with a .444 mark in 12 games.

Sykora is a junior college transfer and starts at second base. He bats in the second spot in the lineup and has a .231 average.

The Anteaters, in their first season of baseball, have compiled an enviable 8-3-1 record.

Vikes, Lions Win

Tourney Action Continues Today

Action continues in the Huntington Beach baseball tourney today with a full round of four tilts scheduled following Saturday's pair of makeup games involving Westminster and Marina.

Marina's Ed Anderson turned in a strong one-hit performance to lead the Vikings to a 4-0 win over invading Foothill while Westminster got back on the winning track with a 3-1 verdict over visiting Pacifica.

Mater Dei lost a 7-3 tiff to Garden Grove in a non-tournament game at Santa Ana Valley High Saturday to round out weekend action for Orange Coast area nines.

Foothill's only safety off Anderson came in the first inning on a ground ball off an infielder's glove.

The six-foot, 205-pound righthander struck out seven in going the route for the win. Pat Curran led the Vikes in hitting with a pair of doubles.

Westminster erupted for a trio of runs in the sixth inning to pull it out over Pacifica.

Doug Price boomed a double to centerfield to score the first Lion tally and Gary Clendenning came up with the key hit, a two-run single.

It was the only fireworks of the day for Westminster after being no-hit by Pacifica junior Jerry Maras through five innings.

The Mariners' ace was pulled at that point and Westminster took full advantage against second-line pitching.

Steve Buckland was the winning pitcher. He struck out the side in the final enemy frame.

BOTTLED IN — Monrovia's John Parker feels the squeeze of three Westminster High defenders during Saturday night CIF playoff battle at Long Beach Arena. Hemming in the Wildcat are Dan Broderick (30), Terry Meisenheimer (31) and Steve McLendon (25).

Lions Praised In Loss

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

LONG BEACH — Casually checking over Westminster High School's varsity basketball roster one would assume the Lions would be in good shape next year, considering two sophomores have started for coach Don Leavey's Sunset League championship quintet during Sunset warfare and three CIF AAAA playoff encounters.

However, there will be a rather large gap to fill when December rolls around again.

Coach Tony Stillson of Monrovia High's winning Wildcats perhaps summed it up best following his team's 54-49 triumph Saturday night at the Long Beach Arena in the quarterfinals of the AAAA eliminations before a crowd of 6,009.

"We had to gamble a little bit tonight because Westminster's Dan Broderick is super. Double-teaming and triple-teaming him didn't seem to do much good.

"We decided the best thing to do was to put as much pressure as possible on the ball before he gets it.

"Boy, is he a prospect," exclaimed the Wildcat boss.

Broderick, the Lions' 6-6 senior player of the year in Orange County, finished the night with 28 points and over his three-game performance in the playoffs netted 90 for a 30.0 average.

But it wasn't enough Saturday night as Leavey's chaps went down to defeat, ending their school's finest basketball season.

The Lions came close — trailing only 51-49 with 51 seconds to go. But Monrovia came up to a couple of nice plays in the final moments to put it out of reach.

An offensive foul on Broderick with 25 seconds to go signaled the end of the show for Westminster with his shooting, rebounding strength and defensive ability to limit the Wildcats' effectiveness inside.

Broderick was the whole Lions' trail.

Earlier, the Keith Wilkes-led Santa Barbara Dons had little trouble in disposing of Notre Dame, 74-52. Wilkes scored 25. The Dons will play Millikan while Monrovia meets Palos Verdes in a doubleheader Friday at the LA Sports Arena.

Horpel Honored; Barons Place 4th

By JOHN CASS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Chris Horpel of Newport Harbor High was acclaimed the most outstanding wrestler in Saturday night's CIF championships at Cal State (Fullerton).

Fountain Valley finished fourth in team standings — the highest placement by an Orange Coast area school, as Brawley ran away with the crown.

While on his way to the 148-pound title, Horpel pinned four opponents to gain the award as the outstanding wrestler of the year for the CIF.

Horpel's record, throughout the year, was amazing. He failed to pin only two of 36 opponents.

Horpel moved into the quarterfinals with a pin over Calvin Williams of San Gorgonio after 1:52 of the third wrestling period. Ed Lopez of Lawndale was the next grappler to have his shoulders pushed against the mat by Horpel.

He fell aside after 20 seconds of the third period.

Horpel moved into the finals when he pinned Camarillo's Mark Spiro in the final second, then piled up a huge point advantage over Bruce Livingston of Burroughs, Ridgecrest before gaining a pin with two seconds left in the match.

Fountain Valley placed fourth on the strength of a second place finish by George Valbuena and third place finishes by Mike Hollinden and Dan Lewis.

Other area award winners were Steve Wade of Corona del Mar, who finished second at 98 pounds, Westminster's Dave Wommack, runnerup at 123 pounds and Estancia's Tom Foss with a fourth place award in the 123 pound division.

There was little doubt as to the identity of the proud defending team champions from Brawley.

Much of their effort was noticed because the team showed great pride in its previous championship. Every Brawley contestant wore a T-shirt proclaiming that he was a member of the defending championship team.

JULES GAGE

Gage to Be Honored

Newport Harbor High School's athletic director Jules Gage will be honored in ceremonies at the CIF basketball championships March 14 at the Los Angeles Sports Arena for his contributions to the prep coaching profession and to the game of basketball.

The Southern California Interscholastic basketball coaches association will make the presentation of the Coaches Merit Award to Gage, one of three recipients of the honor.

Gage spent 17 seasons at Newport Harbor and Costa Mesa High School guiding the basketball fortunes before a heart attack in 1965 ended his record at six league titles.

Presentations include a certificate and a medallion.

Other winners are Chuck Clustka of Harvard School and Douglas Brown of San Jacinto High.

Huntington Beach High's Lee Mossteller won a similar award several years ago.

Cops' Team Set to Test Pilot Five

The Fuzz, also known as the cops, revealed the personnel which will be thrown at the undefeated (0-0) DAILY PILOT basketball team Wednesday night at Costa Mesa High when the two forces collide in a 7:15 benefit game for paralyzed wrestler Justin Ogata. Admission is 35 cents.

The Fuzz, which figures to cop out before the DAILY PILOT onslaught, claims it will triumph on numbers.

The Fuzz has 17 players (?) on the roster.

However, reliable inside sources say the cops have been shirking workouts. Meanwhile, the undefeated (0-0) DAILY PILOT has been burning the hardwoods twice a week in an all out effort to avenge the many traffic citations handed out by Wednesday's foe.

The police have two men with fairly good size in Dick (The Big Dummy) Frederiksen, 6-5, and Matt Collett, 6-4. Collett, however, reputedly has never shot anything other than his .38 special.

Helicop Carl Hackson and Crazy Owen Kreza are each 6-2 while Gary Barwig, Phil Donohue and Al "The Animal" Muir are 6-1 apiece.

Other cops on the roster are Chan Camarillo (5-10), Sam Cordeiro (5-9), Tom Lazar (5-11), Roger Neal (5-11), Ron Palmer (5-10), Pat Rodgers (5-10), Austin Smith (5-9), Ed Sutton (5-11) and Max Wilson (5-11).

Orange Coast, Saddleback Split Circuit Twin Bills

Area junior college baseball hits a high pitch this week with a rash of games scheduled.

In last Saturday's action, Orange Coast and Saddleback colleges split doubleheaders.

OCC trimmed Fullerton, 3-0, in the first game at FJC on Steve Pinter's five-hitter and then fell, 3-2, in the nightcap. Both were South Coast Conference games.

In Desert Conference play, Saddleback lost its opener, 8-4, to Victor Valley at San Clemente High and then won the second game, 6-2, on Greg Pennington's two-hitter.

In action this week, Golden West has three Southern California Conference tilts slated, traveling to LA Harbor Tuesday, LACC Thursday and hosting Rio Hondo Friday. All are 2:30 games.

OCC faces unbeaten Cerritos (10-0) on the Falcons' diamond Wednesday at 2:30 and hosts San Diego in a twin bill Saturday. The opener is scheduled for noon.

Saddleback travels to Mira Costa Saturday for a doubleheader with the first game also slated to get under way at noon.

In OCC's pair of games with Fullerton, Pinter was in complete control in blanking the Hornets. He struck out five and walked two.

The Pirates got two runs in the third inning on singles by Pinter, Dan Clark and Mike Powell and two FJC errors. They added a run in the seventh on a walk, a sacrifice and Bob Leavy's double.

In the second game, OCC, trailing 3-0 in the ninth, scored two runs after one out on a double by Clark, singles by Powell and Leavy and an FJC error. A force out at the plate and a strikeout ended the game.

For Saddleback, Pennington struck out 13 and did not walk a batter in leading the Gauchos to their first conference win in four outings. Pennington has now struck out 30 in two games.

Eric Christensen, out just one week after the completion of the basketball season, went five for six in the twin bill and scored four runs.

UC Irvine Swimmers Face Dons

It's tuneup time for the UC Irvine swimming machine and driver Ed Newland will test all parts Tuesday afternoon as the Anteaters tangle with the Santa Ana College Dons in the latter's pool beginning at 3:30.

Currently boasting a modest 7-7 dual meet record, the Anteaters will be heading for the motor capital of the world March 19-21 to defend their NCAA College Division championship.

Newland looks on the dual meet season as nothing more than a tuneup and points his entire operation for the big one each season. Detroit University will host the NCAA event.

Distance ace Mike Martin has been swimming the individual medley and the 500 freestyle in recent weeks, leaving the longer races to teammates. In Detroit he will compete in the 200, 500 and 1650 freestyle events along with relay races. He holds the national record in all three events.

Rich Eason will handle the shorter freestyle races in the nationals and balance of the team will be determined in the near future by Newland.

Tars Win Invitational Net Title

Newport Harbor High's tennis aggregation added the 13th annual Orange Coast College Invitational tennis tourney title to its collection for the third straight year Saturday behind the doubles team of Bruce Charles and Robbie Cunningham, along with overwhelming balance.

The Sailors more than doubled the nearest competition with 22 points to runnersup Estancia and Fountain Valley. The latter could pull into undisputed second depending on Wednesday's final singles match between the Barons' Joe Shaw and Newport Harbor's Tim O'Reilly.

Art Rosetti of Estancia showed good form in winning the individual singles title with a 6-1, 6-1 conquest of Newport's Kim Perino.

Coast Guard Auxiliary Berths Open

Young men in their junior year in high school interested in entering a service academy have the opportunity to see one first hand through the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Academy Introduction Mission.

Through this program the CGA sends a limited number of boys to the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn. for four days in July. The students must be recommended by their school counselors and must meet strict requirements.

The Coast Guard Academy is unique among service academies, being the only one to which entrance is solely on personal and scholastic qualification, and not by appointment.

The CGA, which sponsors the AIM program, is the civilian arm of the Coast Guard, comprised of boatmen who work with the Coast Guard to promote recreational boating safety.

Interested applicants may call the U.S. Coast Guard, Long Beach (213) 432-5771, extension 217 for information.

Western Boat Show To Open in Anaheim

H. Werner Buck's second annual Western National Boat and Marine Show opens a 10-day run this Friday evening at Anaheim Convention Center.

"This will be the largest indoor expo of boats in the west," says Buck. "We'll use some 300,000 sq. ft. of space in the big complex. The Exhibit Hall will be devoted to power boats, the arena to sailboats under full rigging and the Grand Lobby to marine accessories and related boating products."

Buck said only one boat will be displayed outdoors. That's the big Columbia 50, which will stand on the Katella Ave. side of the parking lot. The mast is too high to clear the Arena doors. However, because the Arena ceiling is 85 ft. high, all sailboats displayed there, including other Columbias, Kettenbergs and Coronados, will have sails fully hoisted.

Everything from dinghies to luxury sail craft and posh power boats will be on display. But there'll also be plenty of smaller boats to inspect.

"We'll have boats to fit any pocketbook or need, salt or fresh water," Buck says. "For example, the Orange County Marine Dealers Association members have taken some 27,000 sq. feet of space. They'll show craft running the gamut of power, from trailered outboards to sleek sportfishers and family cruising boats."

The show opens Friday at 7 p.m., 2 p.m. other week days and noon on weekends, closing March 22. Admission is $1.50, youngsters 75 cents with kids free.

Chris-Craft Dealership Open in Marina del Rey

Chris-Craft Industries, Inc., the nation's largest boat builder, has opened its first wholly factory-owned and operated dealership. Named Chris-Craft Pacific, Inc., it is a multi-million-dollar development at Marina Del Rey and constitutes one of the largest marine sales and service facilities on the West Coast.

The dealership offers boatmen, in one of the biggest pleasure boat complexes in the nation, some $2 million worth of yachts, cruisers, houseboats, sailboats and sport boats in addition to engine repair and service plus mooring and storage facilities. A full display of Chris-Craft merchandise, from the company's newest division, is also a part of the dealership.

The repair and service facilities of Chris-Craft Pacific include more than 20 fully trained mechanics direct from the factory, plus all parts and equipment necessary to serve the hundreds of Chris-Craft owners in the area. The facility will maintain the largest inventory of Chris-Craft parts and accessories in the country.

Two Travelifts — 30-ton and 40-ton — are capable of launching up to 40 boats a day at the new dealer location. All of its 120 slips are made of floating concrete to accommodate a variety of tidal conditions. A large percentage of its 7.2 acres is devoted to storage capable of holding more than 1000 boats.

"Of great importance to the company," according to John A. Gale, president of Chris-Craft Pacific, and also the vice president of the parent corporation, "is that we can provide strong support to area dealers whose inventory of boats and parts, as well as service facilities, are not as complete as ours. We hope, too, that we will become a major link between the boating public and the company's marketing and production departments."

The dealership will be used as a testing area for Chris-Craft's marketing, promotion and dealer research programs, according to company officials.

Chris-Craft Pacific occupies a prime spot on Fiji Way at Marina Del Rey, which serves some 6,600 boats and reported ly is the largest man-made pleasure boat harbor in the country. Started approximately eight years ago, it is being developed as one of California's "harbors of refuge," a string of safe ports spaced every 20 miles along the coast.

The Southern California area is "potentially the greatest boating community in the world," Mr. Gale said, "with 270,000 pleasure boats in operation today and with an estimated 420,000 by 1975."

Chris-Craft Pacific is now in full operation. A formal grand opening celebration will be held all day on Sunday, March 8, to which the entire boating public is invited.

U.S. Medal Chances Good

Tempest Choice Gives U.S. Good Olympics Hope

United States chances for a gold medal in the Tempest Class in the 1972 Olympics at Kiel, Germany, are excellent, according to Andrew Kostanecki, chairman of the U.S. International Tempest Association.

At the annual meeting of the International Yacht Racing Union last November the Tempest was chosen as the sixth class in the Olympic yachting games.

The Tempest, a high performance two-man dinghy, was designed in 1965 by British designer Ian Proctor.

Writing in the U.S. Olympic Committee newsletter, Kostanecki noted that competition in the Tempest Class at the moment is broader in the U.S. than anywhere else in the world — despite mediocre U.S finishes in the world championships held last fall in Italy.

"The current world champion, Cliff Norbury of England, is the strongest competitor outside of the U.S.," said Kostanecki. Norbury is a member of the firm of Ian Proctor Metal Masts, the current suppliers of all the masts and rigs for the Tempests throughout the world.

"Because of the nature of the boat, the rig is not only sophisticated, but also the most important single part affecting the relative speed, and Norbury has already demonstrated his understanding of it," said Kostaecki.

"Approximately 25 Tempests are raced actively in the U.S., and now with Olympic selecton we expect to add many new top sailors to the class in the next year or so," the class chairman continued.

Kostanecki said the strongest competition in the class today lies in the established racing areas on the East Coast where fleets exist at Marblehead, Mass.; Marion, Mass.; Noroton, Conn.; Larchmont, N.Y.; and Annapolis, Md.

Midwest fleets exist in Rochester, Detroit and Chicago, and West Coast fleets are located in San Francisco, Santa Cruz, Fresno and Los Angeles.

Fleets are expected to spring up in the Gulf Coast states of Florida and Texas.

"Despite the Tempest's relatively light weight, one can predict that major class activity will exist on the Great Lakes and coastal bodies of water where its excellent offshore rough water capabilities are used to advantage," Kostanecki said.

There have been three national championships in the class in the U.S. The first in 1967 was won by Charles Ulmer, a sailmaker and past national champion in the Mobjack Class and Olympic trial finalist in the Finn Class.

The 1968 national championship was won by William Kelly Jr., of Larchmont, N.Y. with ace crew Bob Connell as his teammate. Kelly, also an Olympic trial finalist in the Finn Class, was a member of the 12-meter Intrepid crew, along with Connell, during the 1967 America's Cup defense.

Kostanecki himself won the 1969 Tempest nationals.

OCC Takes Collegiate Resail Race

Orange Coast College sailing skippers Peter Parker and Peter Wilson won the resail of the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association Series No. 1 Saturday at Vail Lake.

The series was resailed because fog made the original series at Newport Beach last month inconclusive.

Nine schools were involved in the Saturday series which was followed Sunday by the scheduled Southern Series No. 5. Winner in this series was USC with skippers Argyle Campbell and Tim Hogan.

Final results:

Southern Series No. 1 — (1) OCC, Parker & Wilson, 25 pts; (2) San Diego State, Ed Butler & Paul Hunrichs, 33; (3) USC, Campbell & Hogan, 36.

Southern Series No. 5 — (1) USC, Campbell & Hogen, 12 pts.; (2) San Diego State, Butler & Hunrichs, 16; (3) tie between UCI Jeff Allen & Jeff Justice and UCSB Bill Lippincott & Mike Walker.

Active Sailor, Sportsman

Douglas Chairs Cup Race

Donald Douglas Sr., a pioneer leader in the development of the world's commercial and military aviation industries — and an ardent West Coast yachtsman — has accepted Long Beach Yacht Club's invitation to serve as honorary chairman of the sixth annual Congressional Cup series March 19-22.

Leading skippers from all over North America will compete in a series of match races in Columbia-50 sloops on a course outside Long Beach Harbor for the huge silver trophy which has become one of the most coveted in yachting.

Douglas, founder of Douglas Aircraft Co. and now honorary chairman of the board of McDonnell Douglas Corp., has long been an active sailor and sportsman. He is a member of Los Angeles Yacht Club and resides in Rolling Hills.

At the helm of his 75-foot schooner Endymion, Douglas captured a number of blue-water sailing honors during the 1930s. His son, Donald Douglas Jr., has also been an active yachtsman and is the donor of another important match race trophy, the Douglas Cup, for intercollegiate racing.

In addition to viewing each day's racing from the bridge of his present yacht, the power cruiser Fair Lady, the senior Douglas will also take part in the presentation of the traditional crimson Congressional champion's blazer on the final night of the series. He will also be the featured speaker at LBYC's March 20 yachtsman's luncheon.

Island Race Of Whitney On March 14

The Santa Barbara Island Race, second of Los Angeles Yacht Club's Whitney Series, will start from LAYC on Saturday, March 14.

Immediately after the start of the Santa Barbara Island Race, the Midget Ocean Racing Fleet will get away on the Ship Rock race, marking the second start of the Little Whitney Series.

Eligibility for both races is by invitation to members of recognized yacht clubs. Ocean racing yachts must comply with the minimum racing requirements of the Southern California Ocean Racing Fleet. This means essentially that man-overboard poles must be carried. Membership in SCORF is not a requirement, however.

The Whitney Series consists of six races, of which one can be thrown out for final scoring.

First class in the Santa Barbara Island Race will be Class A starting at 11 a.m. Classes B, C and D will start in that order at five minute intervals.

The MORF race will start at 11:20. Also receiving a start at 11:00 a.m. will be catamarans affiliated with the Ocean Racing Catamaran Association.

'Title Drive'

New Motion Picture On Outboard Racing

"Title Drive," a 20-minute motion picture on the world outboard championship, and racing internationally, has been produced by Evinrude Motors, Milwaukee. The film is available, without cost, for screening by clubs and fraternal organizations.

The new motion picture shows Cesare Scotti, Nesso, Italy, capturing the world outboard title at Lake Havasu City, Arizona, last November. Scotti drove a Molinari boat powered with twin 115 hp Evinrudes. He set a new record for his eight hour endurance contest by covering 584 miles at an average speed of 73 miles-an-hour.

Also shown in the world championship is the single engine victory of "Jimbo" McConnell, Victorville, California. McConnell covered 548 miles at a speed of 68.5 mph.

Unlike many racing films, "Title Drive" puts emphasis on the color and human interest in these events. Scenes show the frenzy of pit activity, the glamour of racing as personified in the wives and girl friends of drivers and their crews and the reaction of spectators to speed on the course.

"Title Drive" leads to the world championship by covering four well-known events: the Gold Coast Marathon, Miami, Florida; the Elsinore "500," Lake Elsinore, California, and the Six Hours of Paris and the Six Hours of Berlin. The latter are the best-known European "enduro" contests. Scotti competed in four out of five of these races.

"Title Drive" is believed the first motion picture, for U.S. distribution, showing both the Paris and Berlin events. The Paris race is held on the river Seine, the Berlin contest on Lake Havel.

The film is also believed the first to show extensively the so-called Molinari "tunnel" hulls. This is the name applied to the design of Molinari race boats in which the under portion of the hull, between the sponsons, forms a "tunnel." Air passing through this tunnel helps support the weight of the boat, giving it more lift than usually encountered with the conventional hydroplane. Molinari boats are shown racing in all events covered by the motion picture.

"Title Drive" is a 16mm, color, sound motion picture. Prints may be obtained on request from: Solana Studios, Naples, Florida.
