Guard Hit, Weapons Cache Gone

A trio of assailants clubbed a guard at a Camp Pendleton armory late Friday night and fled with an armload of weapons and ammunition touching off an investigation joined by the U.S. Secret Service from the Western White House at San Clemente and the FBI.

Marine spokesmen said the assault on the armory guard in the staging battalion area of Camp Margarita occurred at 10:30 p.m. Friday night.

The guard, who was not identified by authorities, was only slightly hurt in the incident which netted the thieves nine M-16 Vietnam combat rifles, an M-79 grenade launcher, a .45-caliber automatic pistol and five rounds of ammunition.

The theft caused an immediate sealing off of the exits from the huge military complex and detailed searches of cars leaving the base.

Preliminary reports said the three or four suspects were Negroes. The armory is located near the main gate in the Oceanside area.

The assault on the arms storehouse occurred almost simultaneously with the landing of the President at El Toro Marine Air Station, thus creating more than ordinary interest by Secret Service agents.

Sources in San Clemente said the agents joined the FBI and base police in the investigation.

The suspects, all believed to be Marines, apparently clubbed the guard unconscious, then stole the weapons and fled on foot.

Base sources said it was believed that the thieves and their loot still are on the base.

A systematic barracks-to-barracks search was begun immediately, they added.

The guard, who lay unconscious for five minutes after the clubbing, came to and called base security office to report the theft.

Automotive Bomb Kills President Of Phone Firm

ST. LOUIS, MO. (UPI) — Philip J. Lucier, president of the Continental Telephone Corp., was killed Friday when he turned the ignition of his car and set off a pipe bomb planted beneath the seat.

Two vice presidents of the firm, who were returning from lunch with Lucier, were uninjured although they had just opened the doors of the black Fleetwood Cadillac to enter.

Lucier, 49, had jumped in ahead of the vice presidents to "cool it off," apparently meaning he would start the air conditioning in the car.

The vice presidents were James L. Robb and James V. Napier, both of the St. Louis area.

Major Herbert Johnston, assistant chief of the Clayton Police Department said the victim "was damn near cut in two. It looked like he sat on a stick of dynamite."

The explosion ripped a hole in the floorboard under the driver's seat, sent the back portion of the seat through the rear window and shattered the windshield and side front windows. Two holes were punctured in the roof.

Johnston said the device was wired to the ignition and apparently went off when Lucier turned the ignition switch. He said the bomb was what is usually called a "pipe bomb," galvanized pipe filled with black powder.

It was placed under the front seat on the driver's side, Johnston said.

"It probably took no longer than five minutes to install," he said. "It was apparently a professional job."

The car was parked in a lot at the Pierre LaCade Building, a few blocks from the Continental Telephone Building in the suburban Clayton business district. The three had been eating at the St. Louis Club in the building.

Mesa Sky Officers Rush Drugged Baby to Medics

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

In the most dramatic rescue since Costa Mesa's police helicopters took to the air, a pilot and his observer Friday night saved the life of a tiny toddler who swallowed a deadly dose of LSD.

And shortly after the crew of Eagle 1 dropped into the Costa Mesa neighborhood to snatch up little Thomas David McKnight, 20 months old, officers on the ground arrested the baby's 15-year-old brother for allegedly furnishing the hallucinogenic drug.

Police pilot Carl Jackson swooped the chopper into the street in front of a house at 967 Denver Ave., shortly after 6 p.m. after receiving a call that a baby had stopped breathing.

As Jackson sped toward Costa Mesa

Memorial Hospital an observer aboard, Ron Palmer, administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to the unconscious boy.

After the chopper landed moments later at Costa Mesa Memorial Hospital Palmer bolted from the machine with the baby in his arms. In that hospital's emergency room preliminary treatment was administered, then the race against death took to the highways.

A patrol car carrying the baby, a physician and a hospital aide sped with red light and siren toward Hoag Memorial Hospital where further treatment for overdoses of the dangerous drug was available.

The unidentified doctor and his aide kept the baby breathing by artificial means en route to the Newport Beach hospital.

Cassius KO'd Speeding Champ Fined

MECHANICVILLE, N.Y. (UPI) — Cassius Clay was picked up for speeding in his purple Cadillac Eldorado Friday as he barreled down the scenic New York State Northway at 90 m.p.h. The magistrate who slapped him with a $50 fine thought he was "a real gentleman."

The former world heavyweight boxing champion, on his way from Saranac Lake to New York City with two other men, was stopped by State Trooper Joe Mach and taken to the home of Clifton Park Town Justice of the Peace Robert Jerome to face charges of driving without a license and registration as well as speeding.

Jerome set ball at $75 apiece for the license and registration violations, which Clay promptly paid. "When he left, he thanked my husband for being so nice to him and then he shook hands with him and the trooper. And then he shook hands with me," said Jerome's wife, Ethel.

Clay, dressed in green pullover and tan slacks, had been speaking at a Adirondack Mountain boys camp.

After paying the $200 he climbed behind the wheel of the car — with a black name plate with silver initials "MA" for Mohamed Ali on the front bumper — and drove off.

"It was just another case to me," said Jerome. "He was a real gentleman, though. I'll have to say that for him."

A Nudie Dancer By Other's Name Spells Trouble

A nude performer covered by nothing but her demure cousin's stolen identification is sought by police today, as the young nurse wrongly identified in the sexy dance case tries to see the humor in it.

The first time Mrs. Sharron A. Katt Gimbell, 21, learned she had been arrested at the Firehouse, 177 E. 17th St., was when she read it in the paper.

But she hadn't been near police headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kimbell quickly changed that by reporting the case of mistaken identity to Costa Mesa Police Sgt. John Regan, one of the original arresting officers.

They didn't look far for a likely suspect, since the teenaged dancer had been staying with them.

"We have corrected our reports and we are looking for Nancy L. Kimbell," said Sgt. Regan Friday.

Miss Kimbell, who reportedly goes by the last name Morin, was too young at 18 to become a nude dancer.

So, she borrowed identification belonging to her cousin's wife police theorize, and had a job until the night of July 10 when she was arrested.

"She is now wanted for theft and forgery," said Sgt. Regan, noting the shapely redhead booked as Sharron Katt is due in Harbor Judicial District Court Aug. 18 on other charges.

She is free on $625, awaiting trial on charges of lewd conduct and indecent exposure as a result of her manner of dancing, and police are waiting to see if she shows up for trial.

Police booked her under the name on her borrowed identification and the real Sharron Kimbell (nee Katt) began to feel the cool stares of neighbors and hear talk among her co-workers.

Murder Charged

Huntington Pair Held For Death of Baby, 1

A Huntington Beach woman and her Marine companion, both out on bail for two days on child neglect charges, were booked on murder charges late Friday afternoon in the death of the woman's one-year-old son.

Huntington Beach detectives arrested Mrs. Carmelita Louise Reynolds, 21, and her companion, Gary Wayne Rapp, 21, at the Reynolds home at 2222 Delaware St.

The couple had been arrested earlier this week on the child neglect charges after Myron L. Reynolds, 12 months, was pronounced dead of undisclosed causes at Huntington Intercommunity Hospital.

The boy was dead on arrival at the hospital on July 10 and the couple arrested soon afterwards.

Police early today would only say that "new evidence and information" sparked the second arrests.

The couple was held without bail today awaiting issuance of a complaint early next week charging murder.

Checks this morning with coroner's investigators shed little light on the death of the boy.

No indications whatsoever were released on the circumstances surrounding the alleged slaying. The original arrest on the child neglect charges against the couple was a felony booking, officers said.

The pair, officers said, bailed out soon after they were arrested last Wednesday.

Former Playmate Serves Sentence, Now Ex-con, Too

ATHENS (UPI) — Gloria Root, former Playboy Magazine "Playmate of the Month," headed for the United States today at the completion of a 10-month prison sentence for smuggling hashish into Greece.

Miss Root, 22, was released from Averooff Prison in Athens Friday and taken to the airport by an aliens police officer. She and her brother Raymond, who had flown to Athens to meet her, caught a plane for Amsterdam en route home.

Miss Root, of Flossmoor, Ill., and Corbin Parker of Chicago were arrested last October on charges of smuggling 40 pounds of hashish into Greece from Turkey in Parker's car.

A court sentenced her to 18 months in jail in December, the month her picture appeared in Playboy. The sentence was later reduced to 10 months, including the time she spent in jail awaiting trial.

Parker received a five-year sentence which was reduced in March to three and a half years. Shortly afterward he escaped prison.

Selective Service -Numbers Game

By FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

TURNING 18 can be a good and bad experience. It kind of makes you almost half legal. And starting Jan. 1, you can vote. But for boys, something as traditional as mom, apple pie, and the Flag, 18 means registering for the draft.

I dreaded having to go up to the Selective Service Office in Santa Ana. And I put it off. In fact, I didn't go up there until I had been 18 for two weeks. But I wasn't worrying — a good friend told me that I had 30 days in which to register.

Taking a long lunch hour, on what I would imagine to have been the hottest day of the summer so far, I set my sights on Santa Ana. Things started bad — I couldn't find the center, until I caught it out of the corner of my eye — a small green stucco and glass facade situated in what didn't seem to be the most active shopping center in Santa Ana.

WALKING IN the door, I was surprised to find the place air conditioned. Somehow I didn't see my comfort as the first objective of the armed forces. A large sign hung above a long center where sign-ups were taken. It read: Take a Number and Be Seated. I did just that and stationed myself at a desk where three other guys were talking.

"Man, if you got the bread, and get an attorney, you can get out on all kinds of little things," said one, who had hair falling down his back.

"Right on, brother," replied his friend. "I gonna try to appeal it first, as a CO."

"THAT SHOULD be easy now, with the new Supreme Court ruling," replied his friend. I assumed they were referring to the decision which says that a person may go conscientious objector on grounds other than religious one.

I imagined that such a ruling gave the college brights in sociology and history and edge on some of those who are not so sharp in liberal arts.

Meanwhile my number came up and I went to the window, was told to sit down and asked when my 18th birthday was.

I promptly replied: "June 22."

"YOU ARE DELINQUENT in filing for your selective service designation," she told me sharply. "Go fill out this card, and on this form explain why you were late in filing."

I did as she told me, and stated in clear terms that some of my friends often get the facts out of line. (In reality, for any of you who are soon to turn 18, you have five working days in which to register.)

I returned to the window, both with my registration card, and my form. But the lady was gone, so I sat down and waited, noticing that the two windows next to me were doing a great business.

IT WAS OBVIOUS that the new ruling was hitting more than just a few isolated people. One guy — with a crew cut, no less — turned in a five or six page letter, appealing his 1-A classification, explaining that he was opposed to the war in Vietnam and all other wars.

Two other guys standing behind me were plotting what to do if they couldn't get out of the military. They were going to dispose of their files via the toilet when they showed up for the physical examination. Others were asking to see their files. You could tell they were plotting against Uncle Sam, too.

PROBABLY THE most bothersome thing was the number. It has become the only identity in the system. They want your draft number, or your social security number, then your birthdate, and on it goes. Seldom did I hear a name mentioned.

A lady finally returned to get my card and process my name, so that I could get my number. She was a talkative gal, and was nice enough to tell me that nothing would happen to me, even though I registered late.

As I left, I was handed an Army booklet, titled: "It's YOUR Choice." It is?

Things Looking Up For Laguna Tourism

Several of the "big" indicators of Laguna's tourism — the large motels on Coast Highway, report that business couldn't be better for July and that by August there won't be a room in town that isn't occupied.

Stanford Deverill, desk clerk at the landmark Hotel Laguna, 425 S. Coast Highway, said that "on weekends we are packed solid." He noted that a few are lucky if they can pick up one of the two or three available rooms during the week.

"This summer is fantastic to say the least," exclaimed Steve Vargo at the Laguna Rivera Motel, 825 S. Coast Highway. "I'd attribute it to the good weather this summer."

Vargo said the only problem is that many people want to get tickets to the Pageant of the Masters, which is sold out for the season.

"People are begging for them down here," he noted.

The 116 units at the Vacation Village, 647 S. Coast Highway, are packed on the weekends, but many rooms are available during the week, according to owner Loren Haneline.

Much the same came from James Butler, at the Inn at Laguna, 211 N. Coast Highway. "We're going one-half to three-quarters during the week and full up on the weekends. Our reservations show a good August."

Merrill Johnson, owner of the Surf and Sand Motel, 1555 S. Coast Highway said, "we are running just about 100 percent all the time."

Guard Beaten

Huntington Pair Held In Slaying

A Huntington Beach woman and her Marine companion, both out on bail for two days on child neglect charges, were booked on murder charges late Friday afternoon in the death of the woman's one-year-old son.

Huntington Beach detectives arrested Mrs. Carmelita Louise Reynolds, 21, and her companion, Gary Wayne Rapp, 21, at the Reynolds home at 2222 Delaware St.

The couple had been arrested earlier this week on the child neglect charges after Myron L. Reynolds, 12 months, was pronounced dead of undisclosed causes at Huntington Intercommunity Hospital.

The boy was dead on arrival at the hospital on July 10 and the couple arrested soon afterwards.

No indications whatsoever were released on the circumstances surrounding the alleged slaying. The original arrest on the child neglect charges against the couple was a felony booking, officers said.

The pair, officers said, bailed out soon after they were arrested last Wednesday.

Huntington Man Burns to Death In Freeway Crash

A 41-year-old self-employed welder from Huntington Beach was burned to death behind the wheel of his demolished truck early today in a crash on the Garden Grove Freeway.

Coroner's investigators withheld identification of the dead man until his family is notified.

The victim, driving alone in the east-bound center lane of the freeway, apparently swerved as if to go onto the Fairview Avenue off-ramp, but the truck collided with a guard rail and sign standard.

Witnesses said the crash was followed immediately by a huge ball of flame.

The man died before he could be aided by passerby.

No signs of skids were found, investigators said.

The victim was declared dead at the scene.

Consumer Folks Hope For Grain of Truth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's Consumer Advisory Council said Friday that congressional testimony about low-nutrient cereals "emphasizes the need for truthful and meaningful advertising."

"Our children's food should never take second priority to promotional gimmicks," the council said in a statement. "We cannot afford to give our youth what amounts to an empty bowl at the breakfast table."

'Easy Rider' Star Faces Assault Rap

TAOS, N.M. (UPI) — Movie actor-director-producer Dennis Hopper, who played a motorcycle pilgrim in "Easy Rider," faces a preliminary hearing here next month on charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

Hopper and three others were arrested last month and released on $2,000 bond each. They were accused of bandishing guns during an incident near Taos June 16.

Taos County District Attorney John Hobbes said Friday the hearing, originally set for this week, was postponed until Aug. 4 because Hopper was in New York disclaiming a magazine article said he used narcotics.

A Nudie Dancer By Other's Name Spells Trouble

A nude performer covered by nothing but her demure cousin's stolen identification is sought by police today, as the young nurse wrongly identified in the sexy dance case tries to see the humor in it.

The first time Mrs. Sharron A. Katt Gimbell, 21, learned she had been arrested at the Firehouse, 177 E. 17th St., was when she read it in the paper.

But she hadn't been near police headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kimbell quickly changed that by reporting the case of mistaken identity to Costa Mesa Police Sgt. John Regan, one of the original arresting officers.

They didn't look far for a likely suspect, since the teenage dancer had been staying with them.

"We have corrected our reports and we are looking for Nancy L. Kimbell," said Sgt. Regan Friday.

Miss Kimbell, who reportedly goes by the last name Morin, was too young at 18 to become a nude dancer.

So, she borrowed identification belonging to her cousin's wife police theorize, and had a job until the night of July 10 when she was arrested.

"She is now wanted for theft and forgery," said Sgt. Regan, noting the shapely redhead booked as Sharron Katt is due in Harbor Judicial District Court Aug. 18 on other charges.

She is free on $625, awaiting trial on charges of lewd conduct and indecent exposure as a result of her manner of dancing, and police are waiting to see if she shows up for trial.

The unidentified doctor and his aide kept the baby breathing by artificial means en route to the Newport Beach hospital.

Nurses at Hoag this morning said

Tommy remained in serious condition and in a semi-coma through the night. He was still under intensive care early today.

Meanwhile, police at the home investigated the ingestion of the acid and possibly other dangerous drugs.

Officers said the brother, whose name was not released, told them he saw the baby stumbling and choking as yellow fluid dripped down the toddler's chest.

The teenager then assertedly ran to a "stash" of drugs and found it in disarray with several quantities of drugs missing.

It was then that police were called. The youth, awaiting juvenile charges of furnishing dangerous drugs to a minor child, is being held in Juvenile Hall.

Wife Beats Rap In Berkeley Tower Bombing

SAN PABLO (AP) — A Municipal Court judge has dismissed charges against the wife of a man who admits bombing a power tower in the Berkeley hills.

Judge Wilson Locke dismissed Friday a felony charge of possession of explosives against Sue Tankersley, 27, of Richmond after both prosecution and defense attorneys agreed she had no knowledge of her husband's activities.

Her husband, Richard Tankersley, 29, a former University student, is currently undergoing psychiatric testing at California Medical Facility, Vacaville.

After he pleaded guilty to the possession charge, his sentencing was set for Sept. 25.

Simon's Wife Says Marriage at an End

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The wife of millionaire industrialist Norton Simon filed a petition for divorce after 37 years of marriage.

In the petition filed Friday, Lucille Simon, 58, said she and her husband, 63, had been separated since June 10, eight days after he lost to incumbent George Murphy in the Republican U.S. Senate primary.

Soviet Nuclear Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission said Friday seismic signals indicate the Soviet Union set off an underground nuclear explosion of between 20 and 200 kilotons at about 9 p.m. PDT Thursday.

President Hour Early At El Toro

After a campaign-style day of bucking demonstrators, talking with governors and church leaders and even dropping in a Rocky Mountain rodeo, a weary President Richard Nixon arrived at San Clemente late Friday for 10 days of rest. And that's exactly what the Chief Executive, his wife, Pat, and elder daughter, Tricia, will do today at the Western White House after a hectic zig-zag hop across the continent aboard Air Force One Friday.

The Nixons arrived an hour earlier than originally expected at the El Toro Marine Air Station, and at 9:31 p.m. immediately boarded their helicopter for the short flight downcoast.

The wearisome day began in Fargo, N.D., where Nixon touched down for a conference with five governors amid loud, friendly crowds and campaign banners proclaiming "Nixon in '72".

After a brief chat planeside, the President sped toward talks with the governors on ways of turning back migration from the farms.

The governors and several mavors who came with them heard the President pledge along with several members of his cabinet that the federal bureaucracy would be streamlined to make it more responsive to the needs of local communities.

"I have the conviction that it will be better if we have a strong rural America because it's part of the American character," he said.

The governors of the Dakotas, Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska attended the talks.

From Fargo, the President hopped on to Salt Lake City, Utah, where noisy — but small — groups demonstrators appeared.

On the steps of the headquarters of the Mormon Church the President talked of pioneer spirit as he was flanked by leaders of the church.

After the public statements the President spoke with Joseph Fielding Smith, 94-year-old head of the church which was celebrating the 122nd anniversary of its founding by Joseph Smith.

It was before the Mormon office building that the demonstrators loudly chanting "Peace Now" and "Power to the people" irked the Chief Executive somewhat.

Threat to Nixon Ends in Jail Cell

An itinerant in Stockton was taken into custody by the Secret Service late Friday and charged with making an oral threat to the life of President Richard Nixon.

The man, 52-year-old John M. Woolf, was arrested in Stockton after police in Healdsburg — a small city to the north — alleged the man made the threats.

A .22-calibre rifle and four boxes of ammunition were seized in Woolf's trailer home.

The threat allegedly was made last July 13, Secret Service spokesmen said.

PILOT
LOGBOOKSelective Service
—Numbers GameBy FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

TURNING 18 can be a good and bad experience. It kind of makes you almost half legal. And starting Jan. 1, you can vote. But for boys, something as traditional as mom, apple pie, and the Flag, 18 means registering for the draft.

I dreaded having to go up to the Selective Service Office in Santa Ana. And I put it off. In fact, I didn't go up there until I had been 18 for two weeks. But I wasn't worrying — a good friend told me that I had 30 days in which to register.

Taking a long lunch hour, on what I would imagine to have been the hottest day of the summer so far, I set my sights on Santa Ana. Things started bad — I couldn't find the center, until I caught it out of the corner of my eye — a small green stucco and glass facade situated in what didn't seem to be the most active shopping center in Santa Ana.

WALKING in the door, I was surprised to find the place air conditioned. Somehow I didn't see my comfort as the first objective of the armed forces. A large sign hung above a long center where sign-ups were taken. It read: Take a Number and Be Seated. I did just that and stationed myself at a desk where three other guys were talking.

"Man, if you got the bread, and get an attorney, you can get out on all kinds of little things," said one, who had hair falling down his back.

"Right on, brother," replied his friend. "I gonna try to appeal it first, as a CO."

"THAT SHOULD be easy now, with the new Supreme Court ruling," replied his friend. I assumed they were referring to the decision which says that a person may go conscientious objector on grounds other than religious one.

I imagined that such a ruling gave the college brights in sociology and history and edge on some of those who are not so sharp in liberal arts.

Meanwhile my number came up and I went to the window, was told to sit down and asked when my 18th birthday was.

I promptly replied: "June 22."

"YOU ARE DELINQUENT in filing for your selective service designation," she told me sharply. "Go fill out this card, and on this form explain why you were late in filing."

I did as she told me, and stated in clear terms that some of my friends often get the facts out of line. (In reality, for any of you who are soon to turn 18, you have five working days in which to register.)

I returned to the window, both with my registration card, and my form. But the lady was gone, so I sat down and waited, noticing that the two windows next to me were doing a great business.

IT WAS OBVIOUS that the new ruling was hitting more than just a few isolated people. One guy — with a crew cut, no less — turned in a five or six page letter, appealing his 1-A classification, explaining that he was opposed to the war in Vietnam and all other wars.

Two other guys standing behind me were plotting what to do if they couldn't get out of the military. They were going to dispose of their files via the toilet when they showed up for the physical examination. Others were asking to see their files. You could tell they were plotting against Uncle Sam, too.

PROBABLY THE most bothersome thing was the number. It has become the only identity in the system. They want your draft number, or your social security number, then your birthdate, and on it goes. Seldom did I hear a name mentioned.

A lady finally returned to get my card and process my name, so that I could get my number. She was a talkative gal, and was nice enough to tell me that nothing would happen to me, even though I registered late.

As I left, I was handed an Army booklet, titled: "It's YOUR Choice."

It is?

Things Looking Up
For Laguna Tourism

Several of the "big" indicators of Laguna's tourism — the large motels on Coast Highway, report that business couldn't be better for July and that by August there won't be a room in town that isn't occupied.

Stanford Deverill, desk clerk at the landmark Hotel Laguna, 425 S. Coast Highway, said that "on weekends we are packed solid." He noted that a few are lucky if they can pick up one of the two or three available rooms during the week.

"This summer is fantastic to say the least," exclaimed Steve Vargo at the Laguna Rivera Motel, 825 S. Coast Highway. "I'd attribute it to the good weather this summer."

Vargo said the only problem is that many people want to get tickets to the Pageant of the Masters, which is sold out for the season.

"People are begging for them down here," he noted.

The 116 units at the Vacation Village, 647 S. Coast Highway, are packed on the weekends, but many rooms are available during the week, according to owner Loren Haneline.

Much the same came from James Butler, at the Inn at Laguna, 211 N. Coast Highway. "We're going one-half to three-quarters during the week and full up on the weekends. Our reservations show a good August."

Merrill Johnson, owner of the Surf and Sand Motel, 1555 S. Coast Highway said, "we are running just about 100 percent all the time."

Supervisors See 3-cent Tax Cutback

Orange County supervisors turned an anticipated 8-cent increase in the county tax rate for 1970-71 into a 3-cent cut late Friday with a last ditch assault on proposed capital projects.

A welter of last minute cuts and adjustments made accurate assessment of the new budget total impossible, but it was pegged late Friday by administrative officials at $212,420,748. That tally is $7 million below the first general fund figure offered to the board by County Administrative Officer Robert Thomas.

The budget total does not include an estimated $23 million supplementary budget for flood control, harbor district, library, fire protection and special districts.

Several bitterly defended facilities fell by the wayside in the last day of a full week of budget hearings.

Final budget figures will be made available Monday. But board Chairman Alton Allen said late Friday that next year's county tax rate will be $1.64 per $100 of assessed valuation, 3 cents below the 1969-70 mark.

County building officials and department heads looked on grimly Friday as four projects were dropped from the budget.

They included the proposed $1 million second site for a juvenile hall, the $1.5 million building for the county superintendent of schools, $650,000 for the construction of the plaza in the Civic Center Mall in Santa Ana and $600,000 for construction of municipal courts in the Santa Ana County Courthouse.

Supervisors noted in chopping the mall budget that $400,000 of the construction costs will be picked up during the coming year by the City of Santa Ana.

Further cuts imposed by the board included more than 60 posts in several county departments. The biggest casualty in that board attack was the welfare department which has been compelled to reduce its personnel budget by 31 positions for a saving of nearly $100,000.

The biggest casualty in financial terms was the capital projects program which was cut 50 percent to $4,092,000.

Earlier assessments by County Administrative Officer Thomas had indicated the probable increase of the 1969-70 general tax rate of $1.67 to somewhere between $1.73 and $1.76.

That adjustment has now become a 3-cent cut and it was estimated late Friday that similar budget reductions will bring about a 10-cent decrease in the flood control district rate and a 3-cent cut in the harbor district rate.

One of Our Satellites Is Missing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $13 million telecommunications satellite was lost in Space Friday after ground controllers fired a small motor to nudge the spacecraft into a stationary orbit.

The spacecraft belonged to the International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium (INTELSAT) and was designed as one of a network of space stations that relay telephone and television signals.

A spokesman for the Communications Satellite Corporation, (COMSAT), INTELSAT's manager and U.S. representative, said the casualty occurred shortly after the spacecraft's apogee motor was fired at 8:15 P.M. PDT.

"All attempts to detect spacecraft signals have been unsuccessful," the COMSAT spokesman said. "The period of burn was to have been 27 seconds. Data was received for 14.5 seconds. At that point, all signals were lost."

The satellite, launched Thursday night from Cape Kennedy, was being tracked by controllers at Paumotu, Hawaii and Canarvon, Australia when the casualty occurred. The controllers were attempting to switch the spacecraft from a transfer orbit to a highly elliptical path around the earth, to a synchronous orbit, a fixed position 22,300 miles above the equator.

The cylindrical satellite weighed 332 pounds and measured 56 inches in diameter by 41 inches high. It was built by TRW Systems, Inc. of Redondo Beach. The apogee motor was subcontracted to Aerojet General.

Atlanta Gunplay Leaves 6 Hurt

ATLANTA (AP) — A man who had been standing for several minutes in the driveway of a midtown parking garage suddenly pulled a pistol and began firing for no apparent reason, police said.

Six persons were wounded, none seriously, and dozens of late-night strollers and nightclub patrons were sent diving for cover about midnight Friday.

One man was grazed on the hand; the others suffered bullet wounds in the arms and hands.

Minutes after the shooting, police arrested Harry Mitchell Camp, 29, of suburban Riverdale and charged him with six counts of aggravated assault and with carrying a pistol without a license.

Onetime Caltech Leader Succumbs

GUERNEVILLE (AP) — Albert Billings Ruddock, former diplomat and board chairman of the California Institute of Technology, died Friday of an apparent heart attack.

Ruddock, who lived near Santa Barbara, had suffered a heart attack Thursday night at the exclusive Bohemian Grove resort in Monte Rio. He was stricken the second time while being taken to a San Francisco hospital.

Ruddock served in diplomatic posts in Europe, China and Washington from 1912 to 1924, when he resigned from the Foreign Service to enter business.

He became president of the Southwestern Development Co. of Pasadena and the Universal Consolidated Oil Co. He was board chairman at Caltech from 1954 to 1961.

Two sons survive.

Poor Radio Manner

SEATTLE (UPI) — A Seattle police officer who ran unsuccessfully for mayor last year was suspended from the force for three days Friday for using the word "nigger" over the police radio.

Acting Police Chief Charles R. Gain of Oakland, Calif. said Ross "Tex" Roddam used the word twice Thursday to describe four men whom Roddam had stopped while on patrol.

Five Persons Murdered By Berserk LA Gunman

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A family argument apparently triggered a knifing and shooting spree that ended with five persons dead and two children wounded Friday.

Sherriff's deputies said the incident began when Cleve Van Metcalf, 34, fatally stabbed his wife, Jonnie, 28, during a family quarrel. Their daughter, Mary Ann, 13, was wounded when she tried to intervene.

Deputies said the argument began when Mrs. Metcalf ordered him out of the home. They said the argument apparently stemmed from Metcalf's arrest July 16 on suspicion of molesting his children. Mrs. Metcalf refused to prosecute.

Then, authorities speculated, Metcalf grabbed a revolver and ran to a nearby home where he shot and killed Mattie Wilson, 22, and Linda Walker, 14.

KIDNAP THREAT HITS ONASSIS

LONDON (UPI) — Detectives arrested a 38-year-old man Friday night in connection with an alleged kidnap threat against Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis and his wife, the former Jacqueline Kennedy.

A City of London police spokesman said the man, identified as a British electronics engineer, had been charged with blackmail following a demand for $2.4 million.

The spokesman said police were called Wednesday to investigate a telephone threat made to a director of Lambert Brothers Insurance. The company represents some Onassis investments in Britain, he said.

According to the police spokesman, the insurance director was warned Onassis and his wife would be kidnaped if the ransom demand were not met.

The police spokesman declined to give any further details.

Assembly Passes Bill to Curb Smog-producers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill establishing a special committee to advise the Public Utilities Commission on the environmental impact of proposed power plants was approved Friday by the Assembly.

The bill cleared the lower house on a 41 to 2 vote, the bare minimum needed to send it to the senate.

Opponents charged the measure added an "unnecessary" layer of government and paved the way for construction of additional smog-producing power plants.

"We don't know what we're doing or what we're talking about," said Assemblyman John Dunlap, (D-Napa). "I can't look upon this bill as doing anything but encouraging the development of power plants."

But Assemblyman John V. Briggs, (R-Fullerton), the author, said the bill was designed to protect the natural environment.

It would create a 14-member committee to consider the impact a proposed plant would have on the environment and make a recommendation to the PUC. The PUC would retain the final authority to determine if the plant would be built.

Meet Attacks

B-52s Challenge Communist Drive

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. Command sent an armada of B52 bombers today against what was described as the beginning of a North Vietnamese attempt to drive American troops out of another gun base near the Laotian border.

Paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division abandoned fire support base Ripcord in South Vietnam's far northwest corner Thursday after losing 61 men killed and 345 wounded since July 1.

Now, military sources said, the North Vietnamese have turned their attention to another 101st gun base, Codenamed Veghel, 16 miles southeast of Ripcord. Like Ripcord, it commands a view of Communist infiltration routes into the A Shau Valley from Laos.

Spokesmen for the U.S. Command said B52 bombers came in this morning and dropped up to 150 tons of 500- and 750-pound bombs into a target area four miles west of Veghel, where the guerrillas were believed massing.

Geghel and a third gun base along the valley, Katherine, were spared serious attack during the 23-day North Vietnamese drive against Ripcord.

Hanoi radio said the abandonment of Ripcord was a "heavy defeat" for the American paratroopers.

The bombing near Veghel marked a continuation of a steady stream of aerial attacks against the Communist supply lines in Laos and in the A Shau Valley as the Allies strive to prevent an expected guerrilla offensive in the northern war zone.

Tactical fighter-bombers flew strike after strike Thursday and Friday against North Vietnamese positions around the abandoned Ripcord base and then the B52s came in and dumped heavier bombloads on the camp to render it useless to the guerrillas.

Ground fighting in South Vietnam and Cambodia was reported light this morning, with spokesmen listing two battles from Friday in which U.S. infantrymen killed 59 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese. One American died and six were wounded in the fighting.

Reagan Miffed In Restoring Welfare Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, abandoning a controversial plan to slash welfare spending by $25 million, today sought an alternative "which cannot be sabotaged by arrogant social workers."

Meantime, Democratic legislators and representatives of two welfare worker organizations cheered the repeal of "emergency" regulations Reagan ordered to cut back attendant care for the blind, aged and disabled.

"He has been caught in his incompetence," said Coleman Blease, spokesman for the 5,000-member Social Workers Union, AFL-CIO.

Faced with the threat of a court suit by a federally financed legal aid group for the poor, Reagan Friday ordered the cancellation of the rules. He bitterly assailed social workers who he accused of sabotaging and subverting his campaign to reduce welfare costs.

At a hastily called extraordinary news conference, the Republican governor charged social workers with "terrorizing" the most needy recipients by ordering their aid stopped.

He insisted the rules, scheduled to take effect Aug. 1, were not intended to force any truly deserving recipient out of his home and into a county hospital or other nursing institution.

"Apparently, the regulation was worded in such a way they (social workers) could claim they were adhering to the letter while they violated the spirit," he angrily told newsmen.

But Only Goad Made Can Tree

HERMOSA BEACH (AP) — City officials are pondering a prominent esthetic problem. Is the aluminum can tree in Dick Goad's front yard art or rubbish?

Goad lovingly mounted more than 1,000 beer and soft drink cans in radiating clusters on the points of a cactus-like plant. The critics' reaction was mixed.

"We were cited by a Fire Department rescue and salvage unit for dumping refuse on private property," Goad complained to the City Council. The Fire Department told him to get rid of it by Aug. 1.

It's not junk or refuse at all, Goad insisted. "We think we should be receiving a beautification award."

Councilman Ben Valentine agreed. "I've even brought friends by to see it," he said. "It's really terrific." At night Goad illuminates the shiny, flip-top tree with blue lights.

Palisades Folk Cry 'No Oil'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Occidental Petroleum Corporation was granted permission Friday to begin drilling a test well in Pacific Palisades despite complaints from residents that the area has a history of earthslides.

A group in the plush Los Angeles suburb calling itself "No. 0."

No oil strongly protested against Occidental's drilling plans at a public hearing two weeks ago.

The protesters have 15 days to file an appeal.

Los Angeles Petroleum Administrator Arthur Spaulding said the proposed well would be located in a remote area of Pacific Palisades about 600 feet from the nearest home.

Claims $112 Million Vatican Denies Wealth Rumors

By DAVID MAZZARELLA
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The newspaper that investment Vatican declared Tuesday it is not as wealthy as some people think it is.

It said through its official newspaper that investment capital inside and outside Italy totals about $112 million to $128 million.

Some estimates, now termed wrong by the Vatican, has put its wealth in the billions of dollars.

The unprecedented disclosure shed some light on how much money the Vatican has to run the city-state and the activities strictly related to it, including synods and the Ecumenical Council.

It added no substantial clues, however, to the total worth of the Roman Catholic Church or of the many Church agencies and religious orders in Rome.

The statements came in a 1,500-word lead article in the L'Osservatore Romano. Unsigned, the article obviously originated in, or was thoroughly checked by, high officials running the Vatican's finances.

The article specifically was a rebuttal to a book about the Vatican's wealth by American Nino, Lo Bello, "The Gold of the Vatican," and to Swiss, German and Austrian publications that recently ran reviews and comments on it.

"It is truly deplorable," L'Osservatore said, "what for some time has been written in too many periodicals about the finances of the Holy See, giving as truth what does not correspond to the reality of the facts."

The Vatican's revelations were skimpily sandwiched between a long procession of denials in the article.

It denied as "fantastic exaggeration" the claim that the Vatican's "productive capital" totaled between $11.2 billion and $12.8 billion.

"In reality," it said, "the productive capital of the Holy See, including both bank deposits and investments, in Italy and abroad, is far reaching a one-hundredth part of that sum."

The Vatican apparently was

including land and other revenue-producing holdings in its own name in addition to deposits and the stock portfolio.

Since it had been widely assumed that the Vatican's holdings were considerably greater, the statement came as a surprise.

Only three years ago, the Italian government estimated Vatican holdings in Italian companies alone at $160 million, and last year an economic monthly said the Vatican had controlling interest in 11 Italian companies.

The article claimed the Vatican did not have "majority participation" in any Italian or foreign company.

It stated that it owned less than one percent of the giant Montedison Chemical Co., one of Italy's biggest concerns, a one percent interest would be worth $2 million at current market prices.

One possibility was that the Vatican had got rid of substantial Italian stock holdings over the past three years.

Another possibility of the divergence between the Vatican's announced and presumed wealth may rest in the definition of the "Vatican" economic observers in Rome said.

L'Osservatore specifically excluded from its capital estimates the wealth of "institutions having aims of their own." It gave as an example the Institute for the Works of Religion, a bank in which priests and nuns and other religious groups deposit funds.

The bank, which is located in the Vatican, holds and invests the funds for the depositors.

The article also did not include in its discussion of Vatican City wealth contributions such as "Peter's Pence," made by Catholics to the Pope for the running of the Holy See.

It also did not include the artistic treasures of the Vatican, which are priceless and to a great extent unsalable.

It did reveal that the Vatican's Congregation for the Evangelization of Peoples had distributed about $50 million in worldwide missions in 1968, the money coming from contributions in parish churches around the world.

Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meyer of Costa Mesa.

There will be a morning prayer service at 7:30 and 9:30 a.m. at St. John the Divine Church, 2043 Orange Ave., Costa Mesa. Sunday school classes will meet at 9:30 a.m. and nursery care provided. The EYC will meet at 7 p.m.

Rev. William Henry Hobbs, superintendent of the Santa Ana District, continues preaching in the Laguna Beach United Methodist Church pulpit. Dr. Gary James Herbertson continues his tour of So. America with the Methodist Student Team. At present they are in Santiago, Chile, working with Bishop Valenzuela, upon his personal invitation.

"Is There Commotion Among Us?" a personal assessment of the nature of Jewish congregational life in these times, will be the subject of the sermon at Friday evening services, at 8 p.m. in Temple Beth Shalom of Santa Ana. The sermon will be delivered by Dr. Joseph Kalir, professor of religious studies at California State College, Fullerton. Prior to his appointment to the state college system, Dr. Kalir served as Dean of Adult Studies and Temple Educator at Temple Beth Shalom. The Temple is located at 13031 Tustin Avenue in Santa Ana. For further information, call 532-6724.

The Rev. Richard M. Bush will preach this Sunday at The Presbyterian Church of the Covenant, 2850 Fairview Road, Costa Mesa. His topic will be "Spiritual Acrophobia." Mr. Bush is pastor of the Presbyterian Church of the Master in Mission Viejo. An informal worship service will be held at 8 a.m.; the traditional service will be held at 9:30 a.m. Church school through eighth grade will be held at 9:30 a.m.

"Forgive and Be Forgiven" is the topic sermon by Rev. Albert Burke of the United Church of Religious Science, 2600 Fairview Road, Sunday, July 26, at 9:45 a.m. at the Ebell Club, 515 W. Balboa Blvd. A recorded message by Ernest Holmes, Founder of the Institute of Religious Science precedes Rev. Burke's services for adults and teenagers while pre-teens meet for Sunday school in an adjoining room.

The Rev. Lothar Tornow will return to the pulpit of Christ Lutheran Church, 760 Victoria, Costa Mesa on Sunday to bring a sermon on the theme, "A Great Discovery" at both the 8:15 and 11 a.m. services. Vicar Ray Schiefelbein conducts the Bible study class that meets at 9:30. Sunday school classes are also held at 9:30 a.m.

Rev. Melvin Taylor of the Fairview Baptist Church, located at Fairview Road and Fair Drive, Costa Mesa, will speak on "Good And Wealthy?" at the 10 a.m. worship service. At 2 p.m. there will be an all-church picnic in TeWinkle Park.

Guest minister at the Corona del Mar Community Church, Congregational Sunday will be Rev. John C. Heal of Normandy Park Church in Seattle, Wash. At the 10 a.m. worship service, he will speak on "Faith is Like the Tide." The church is located at 611 Heliotrope Ave.

Laugh It Off Wit Relieves Race Tension

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

Humor is a great lubricant for social frictions. But it is seldom applied these days to the abrasive subject of race relations.

Fortunately, there are occasional exceptions. And one of them is now at hand in the form of a delightful little paperback book entitled, "The Care and Feeding of White Liberals." (Published by Paulist Press.)

The author is a black minister of the United Church of Christ, the Rev. Hubert G. Locke, director of the Office of Religious Affairs at Wayne State University in Detroit.

Locke does not think racism is a laughing matter, but he demonstrates in this book that wit is still a deadlier weapon than angry bombast.

He proceeds on the premise that 98 percent of all "causoids" are afflicted with the "psychological disease of racism." Some are untroubled by the ailment — they are forthright, well-adjusted bigots. Others, however, are bowed down with guilt, because they like to think of themselves as liberals but their fear of black people causes them to behave in racist ways.

The most "hysterical," Locke says, are found "within the ranks of the church." White liberals are found "within the ranks of the church," Locke says. And black militants have developed great skill in playing on the fear-guilt syndrome of white churchmen.

"It is significant that the demand for reparations (made in James Foreman's 'Black Manifesto') was not tacked to the door of the Chase Manhattan Bank or the gates of Fort Knox," he said.

"If the Foreman Manifesto had demanded that churches and synagogues castrate their clergy as reparation for the rape of black women during the slave era, some theologian, bishop or enlightened liberal layman would have striven to discover a theological rationale for accepting the legitimacy of the demand."

Locke offers several tips to militants bent upon exploiting white anxiety by being "as abrasively black as possible." His advice:

"Develop the art of looking mean. . . wear dark sun glasses at all times (this adds to the overall sinisterism of your appearance) . . . whenever engaged in conversation with whitey, keep your hands in constant motion (whitey will expect a razor to flash forth from those moving hands at any moment, and you can be certain he will not move a muscle until you have finished your argument.)"

All this is said tongue-in-cheek, of course. Locke's real aim is not to play upon the fears of white liberals, but to banish those fears by satirizing them. For the crux of racism, as he points out in a serious moment, is the pervasive white belief that black people are "different."

Despite his needling, Locke recognizes the "basic decency" of the white liberal, and sympathizes with their confusion when they find that the goal of integration, to which they've paid such fervent lip service, is no longer a top priority with blacks, who are now more concerned with achieving control over their own lives and communities.

Locke concludes on a hopeful note: The liberal white churchman may yet play a useful role in achieving social justice in America, if he can bring himself to admit that he, even he, is afflicted with the disease of racism. The resources for a cure, he suggests, already lie close at hand in "the tenets of prophetic Judaism and historic Christianity."

Taken seriously, they're great "shock therapy" for personal hangups and social ills.

Stirring Up Feuds

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A rough-house feud has broken out between an anti-leftist Catholic weekly, Twin Circle, and a Roman Catholic bishops' committee.

"Arbitrary and high-handed tactics," the paper charged regarding the committee, accusing it of usurping power in the long struggle between west-coast grape growers and pickers.

The committee fired back that the newspaper had perpetrated a "gross fraud on the Catholic community," had fanned the flames of prejudice and mistrust and has done a grave disservice to the cause of truth and justice.

Besides the run-in with the bishops' committee, the paper also was in a tussle with a noted priest-lawyer, now running for Congress, and also with a Jewish group.

Assailing the candidacy of the Rev. Robert F. Drinan, of Boston, in Massachusetts' third congressional district, an article in the current issue of Twin Circle calls him a "militant anti-anti-Communist" and says:

"If there's a radical, left-wing point of view to be expounded, Father Drinan will expound it."

Asked for comment, Father Drinan, dean of the Boston College Law School, a Catholic institution, dismissed the attack as "smear tactics," misrepresenting his position, and said "it shouldn't be dignified with a reply."

He cited statements by several noted Catholic scholars praising his credentials and his willingness to run for office.

The paper's editor, the Rev. Daniel Lyons, a hard-hitting anti-Communist and advocate of using more force in the Vietnam war, said he opposed any priest seeking public office — in line with a general bishops' policy.

Father Lyons also came under criticism of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. Its bulletin accused him of "stark anti-Semitic innuendo," quoting him as saying directors of the major broadcasting networks are dominated by persons "with very Jewish names" who "discriminate against Christians."

These are "misquotations," attributed to me falsely," Father Lyons commented from his offices in Los Angeles. "The only thing I've written editorially on this was to say that the major faiths should be equally represented on the boards of directors of the networks."

He called the anti-Semitic charge "completely false. Forty percent of my employees are Jewish." He said that the paper is strongly pro-Israel.

The national weekly, founded in 1967 to combat alleged departures from orthodoxy Catholicism, is owned by a subsidiary of the Schick Investment Corp., an arm of the enterprises of west coast millionaire Patrick J. Malloway, a backer of various conservative causes.

The main conflict with Father Lyons' own church leaders involved an editorial he turned out denouncing the role of the U.S. Bishops' Ad Hoc Committee on the Farm Labor Dispute between California grape growers and workers.

The committee of five bishops earlier this year had managed to bring some growers and union representatives together for the first time, resulting in several contractual agreements, the first break in the prolonged deadlock.

Father Lyons charged that the workers are not behind the organizing efforts of union leader Cesar Chavez and have no vote on the matter, but that they and the employers are being coerced into it, with the aid of the bishops committee.

"That the name of the U.S. Bishops is being used in the campaign to organize the table grape industry is unprecedented," he wrote. "We have also found it bitterly resented."

He said the committee "intends to dedicate its efforts to organizing all the farm workers in America. There is no indication that the rest of the bishops had this in mind . . . As far as we can determine it is a power the committee simply usurped."

Last week the committee, headed by Auxiliary Bishop Joseph F. Donnelly of Hartford, Conn., struck back, saying "it is incredible that a publication calling itself 'Catholic' should publish such a collection of untruths, innuendos, distortions and plain inaccuracies . . ."

Its "crude attempts" to isolate the committee from "their brother bishops with the insulting accusation" that it has usurped power is "totally at variance" with the committee's work and "misinformed about its role of mediation and conciliation," the committee said.

BIBLE THOUGHTS
BARNES & SIN: Jesus said, "—Suffer (perish) the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; of such is the kingdom of God." Mk. 10:14. Again, he said, "—except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of Heaven." Matt. 18:3. Can anyone read these statements of Jesus and STILL say a baby, or little child is SINFUL and SEPARATED FROM GOD?
A baby is born SINLESS, I Jn. 3:4 says, "—sin is transgression of the law." Has a BABY ever transgressed law? Isa. 59:2 says, "But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you that he will not hear." And your sins grow up and commit SINFUL acts, he remains a child of God, as he was born, SINFUL ACTS separate one from GOD. A baby cannot REPEL (BIBLE has no sin to repent off). A baby does not NEED to return to God; he has never been separated from God by SIN.
A baby will not be lost eternally for the sins of OTHER people. Eek. 18:20 states, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die. The son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither shall the father bear the iniquity of the son: the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon him. In Eek. 20:5, we find that the innocent will suffer on earth due to the sins of OTHERS because of environmental factors. A drunken father causes his whole family to suffer on earth, but NOT ETERNALLY.

America's Dream of the Great Outdoors: Just a Myth, or the Magic Elixir?

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
UPI Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — There is a still hardy belief in American folklore that the way to make a law-abiding, productive citizen out of a dead end kid is to move him from the slums to the great outdoors.

This faith in the uplifting properties of fresh air probably reflects nostalgia for the hardy self-sufficiency of the frontier and the feeling of country folk that evil lurks in the cities.

More than a nation's foreign policies are shaped by its myths. The Job Corps was created in 1964 in large part because many members of Congress believed 16 to 21-year-old ghetto youngsters needed to get out of the city as much as they needed remedial education, medical and dental attention and job training.

FOR MANY lawmakers there was a precedent in the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) of the 1930s. The late Ernest Swift, a nationally-known conservationist, recalled the CCC in 1968 this way — "Three million boys, working and playing, breathing the pure sweet air of a Great America, and learning to swagger in the fierce joy of accomplishment and coming manhood. Thousands of youngsters who commenced as enlistees grew up as doctors, lawyers, engineers and professional conservationists."

Robert A. Levine, a former assistant director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), wrote recently that "many legislators had fine memories of the Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s and wanted to apply the concept to the new antipoverty program."

"IN FACT, the needs of the 1960's for vocational training did not relate too well to CCC types of programs because conservation work provides little such vocational training," Levine wrote in "The Poor Ye Need Not Have With You," a book reviewing the war on poverty.

"The lack of training fit the 1930's, when many boys needed training less than they simply needed jobs from an economy that couldn't provide them," Levine wrote. "In the sixties, the problem was different."

BUT THE MYTH overcame what few warnings were offered against the Job Corps concept by manpower experts. Suggestions that experience with pick, shovel and axe would do a young man little good in the mechanized modern job market were waved aside.

Although specific skills for which jobs existed were taught in the larger Job Corps centers, 82 conservation camps also were set up and more than half of the male corpsmen were sent to them to work and attend school.

Job Corps costs were high: $8,000 plus a year per man in some centers. The dropout rate also soared: 65 percent of recruits never made it to graduation, nearly 40 percent didn't last 90 days. During the Johnson Administration, criticism of the Job Corps centered on the cost ("more than it takes to send a boy to Harvard," opponents liked to announce,) and periodic scandals and violence in the centers.

PRESIDENT NIXON all but promised to wipe out the Job Corps during his 1968 campaign, but his objections were standard — high costs and poor results. He didn't say anything about the fresh air theory.

And Nixon didn't kill the Job Corps when he took office. Instead, he took it away from OEO and told Labor Secretary George P. Shultz to fix it. Inciting a major congressional flap, Shultz closed down more than half of the conservation centers.

He also took a mild swipe at the myth with the suggestion "the premise that all enrollees should be assigned to centers away from their home community rather than in or near it has proven questionable." But he stressed efficiency and economy in defending his decision.

A YEAR LATER, Shultz was gone from Labor and the Job Corps still was spending $6,500 per trainee year and still losing a high percentage of recruits. Department officials close to the Corps feel improvements they have made are substantial, but privately complain they still are hampered by the political necessity to continue operating the remaining conservation centers in isolated locations while trying to give the corpsmen useful training for real jobs when they get out.

The Labor Department, however, remains committed to the "residential" concept of the Job Corps — the idea that the program is dealing with young men and women who are so deprived that they cannot make progress unless they leave their homes and are given decent living quarters, food, health care, schooling and job training as part of a single package. That, of course, is why the Job Corps remains as the most expensive government manpower program.

BUT IT IS falling back from the idea that it is necessary to transplant a kid from Harlem to Idaho to achieve results. Shultz came up with the idea of Job Corps centers in and near big cities — which means close to but not part of the street life most recruits are leaving, and, more important, close to the job markets and training opportunities of the cities.

It may seem odd to many Americans that anyone would be upset about having to leave a ghetto. But for a lot of job corpsmen, their neighborhood was the only world they know and can deal with. That might be a reason that 26 percent of recruits never showed up at the Job Corps centers they were assigned to.

Apparently, the time has not arrived when Congress will accept any suggestion that fresh air does not make good citizens.

SHULTZ TOOK every opportunity to push Job Corps centers close to the cities, but always was careful to tell members of Congress the conservation camps were safe in his department's hands.

In May, 1970, he testified before the House Appropriations Subcommittee that controls Labor Department funds and got this response from Chairman Dan Flood (D-Pa.), a Wilkes-Barre lawyer with a real devotion to small town and rural America.

He complimented Shultz and noted, "A lot of people who were concerned about the Job Corps were very uneasy about its future. It was being bruited about that this transfer (to Labor) was a transparent kiss of death."

"IT WAS ALSO being suggested that what was going to happen if the program did survive was that the centers would sooner or later be centered in the ghetto," Flood said. "Everything in the ghetto, the ghetto again. Some of us have gotten a little bored with the ghetto."

"There are many other parts of the country where these centers, the good ones, have a service to perform and in many instances have certainly been effective."

Saving Our Environment

Nixon Administration Moves in the Fight for Life

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

Mid-year of 1970 brought two major events that could shape much of the fight to save the American environment throughout this decade, and beyond.

One of them, President Nixon's sweeping attempt to coordinate the federal environmental effort, holds the promise of making the fight more effective.

But the other, the discovery of widespread and dangerous mercury poisoning of many American waters, promises that the struggle will be even more difficult than many had feared.

WHILE ANY benefits to come from the President's proposed reorganization are some time away, making this a potential gain, the mercury pollution is an immediate reality and a major loss on any scorecard of man's antipollution race.

In pulling together a variety of pollution control efforts now scattered throughout government into one new agency, the Environmental Protection Agency, the President hopes to overcome the present system, which he said "often defies effective and concerted action."

One phase of the reorganization plan should please environmentalists — removing from the Atomic Energy Commission the authority for setting radiation exposure standards. Environmentalists have long charged the AEC with a conflict of interest, promoting the use of atomic energy while being responsible for regulating it.

THE PRESIDENT also proposes combining air and sea research under a new National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration within the Commerce Department. It is being called "Noah." Unless Congress objects, the entire plan goes into effect in 60 days from the July 9 announcement. Observers expect controversy over the AEC proposal.

The discovery of significant amounts of mercury in waters of at least 17 states takes on even more importance because it appears most people did not suspect the problem even existed. Just how widespread, how serious, and what damage to human health may already have occurred, is unknown. And what of all the other chemicals in the environment?

Mercury, the liquid inside ordinary thermometers, is a heavy metal that is poisonous to humans. It finds its way to water, federal officials say, in waste from industry, from paper, chlorine, sodium and plastics operations.

It can cause progressive brain damage, blindness, kidney damage, death. It can persist in water for 100 years, experts say. Industrial pollution experts previously believed that mercury did not dissolve in water, but sank harmlessly to the bottom of rivers and lakes.

"NOW, EVERY place we look we are finding significant amounts of mercury," said one government official. "We're only seeing the beginning of this problem."

The mercury problem had ecologists looking to literature, noting that Lewis Carroll's portrait of the Mad Hatter in "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" was inspired by the insanity that afflicted some 19th century hat makers who used mercury to shrink materials.

Ecologists also refer to another work of literature in discussing water pollution — Henrik Ibsen's 1882 play "An Enemy of the People," in which a doctor is considered an enemy of the community because he calls attention to local water pollution that could cause economic damage to the community.

Now, the ecologists say, things have changed and the new awareness of the need to fight pollution and its causes is reflected in a remark by the modern fictional character, Walt Kelly's Pogo:

"We have met the enemy and they are us."

But for all the awareness, there is still a lot of adverse ecological news.

—THE GOVERNMENT'S effort to ban lead from gasoline is in trouble in Washington and the 1970 cars on the road have failed to meet exhaust reduction standards.

—If everybody stopped polluting Lake Erie today it would take at least 12 years for the lake to regenerate naturally.

—The Seminole and Miccosukee Indians have leased exploration rights to 100,000 acres of their land in the heart of the Florida Everglades to major oil companies, posing a new threat to the ecology of the Everglades.

—Further, Florida faces pollution problems of "catastrophic proportions" in the 1970s, according to a state report. Plans for coping with the problem are

Looking at Law For Improving Enforcement

From a speech by John Finlator, deputy director, U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs

WE IN LAW enforcement must have the intestinal fortitude to change previously held ideas and beliefs, and to support new ideas and approaches even though it may not be politically expedient and may actually displease some segments of our own profession.

President Nixon in his State of the Union message observed that, "Occasionally there comes a time when profound and far-reaching events command a break with tradition." Our belief in the efficacy of severe penalty as a solution to all our social problems appears to be one such tradition.

THE BELIEF that the growing tide of lawlessness may be stemmed by merely increasing penalties has not been borne out. Mere users arrested in possession of small amounts of drugs are frequently not convicted or are given suspended sentences. Even where strong laws are applied, the incidence of abuse continues to increase.

THIS SHOULD not in any way deter us from demanding the swift and certain imposition of misdemeanor-type sentences for the drug abuser and first offender, and realistic long-term felony prison sentences for the criminal engaged in drug traffic.

The Controlled Dangerous Substances Act now before the Congress provides a more rational approach to the problem and we hope that its enactment will give us an effective tool, the better to control the drug problem.

termed "grossly inadequate and ineffective."

ELSEWHERE IN the world, Egypt's Aswan High Dam is altering the marine ecology of the eastern Mediterranean Sea, for the worse. In Greece, Athens has been warned by a study group that residents will have to abandon the city in 10 years unless radical measures are taken to combat air pollution.

Of the positive steps taken, many, like the President's reorganization plan, require time before they can produce results. But as an indication of the changing times and attitudes, there is the new policy of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers — a group often considered as "an enemy of the people" by conservationists because of the engineers' preoccupation with construction.

Lt. Gen. F. J. Clarke, chief of the Army engineers, unveiled the policy statement in Washington, committing the corps to "give full consideration to environmental values along with economic, social and technical factors" in projects such as dam building.

In Eugene, Ore., a vote on a nuclear electric plant demonstrated growing public resistance to the Atomic Energy Commission's promotion of nuclear energy.

BY 11,750 to 10,892, the voters ordered a four-year delay in building a proposed plant. The voters did allow spending for safety and environmental studies. Two years ago, the voters of Eugene approved a $225-million bond issue for the plant.

The rejection involved issues that are springing up across the country — are nuclear electric plants really as safe from radiation and other hazards and as inexpensive as their supporters have long maintained?

Also on the plus side of the environmental scorecard, some beginnings are being made on recycling materials rather than junking them.

—Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., for example, is building a pilot plant in Akron, Ohio, for converting used tires into usable materials. If it works, Firestone says it will set up 10 plants around the country.

—THE DEPARTMENT of Health, Education and Welfare has awarded a $364,000 grant to the National Association of Secondary Material Industries, Inc., to do a study of possible uses of solid wastes. It will focus on scrap copper, aluminum, lead, zinc, nickel alloys and stainless steel, precious metals, paper stock and textiles.

—On noise pollution, Citizens for a Quieter City, a group of business and professional people in New York City, has designed a project aimed at substantially reducing the noise from jackhammers, automobile horns, sirens and garbage trucks in a 60-block area of Manhattan. The group, with a $300,000 Ford Foundation grant, will study how the noise reduction affects the attitudes and well-being of the people who live in the area.

They Trapped the Jury, And Costs Got Elevated

SAN FRANCISCO — A Superior Court jury, trapped 30 minutes in a City Hall elevator, marched back to court and awarded $100,000 to Atty. Arne Werchick's client — a man who'd lost an arm in an elevator. A prominent localite who suffered a severe heart attack is off to Israel — much to the displeasure of his insurance company whose moguls were NOT mollified when his doctor tried to explain: "Look, for him that's like a trip to Lourdes!"

U.S. CUSTOMS, here and elsewhere, is now giving cash awards to employees for "exceptional efforts." For instance, reads the announcement, "a four-pound heroin seizure made without prior knowledge, which required the dismantling of an automobile or removal of the sides of a tape recorder, would qualify as a seizure of exceptional value (award: $200-$400). However, the detection of several marijuana cigarettes loose in a handbag would be of minor value and would not qualify for a cash award." ... Not even if the bag was being carried by a man?

Novelist Irwin Shaw, in the midst of a stormy divorce, upon being asked his age in a radio interview: "Well, I'm 54—unless my wife is taking half of it." ... Bob Grison, the Van Ness restaurateur whose steaks are aged like fine wine, is in Switzerland, turning down the top honor in his business: Pres. of that Int'l Restaurant Association. Like most San Franciscans, he doesn't care all that much about traveling. ... John Reynolds of Fremont, getting a State income tax refund, was doubly charmed to note that the Chief of the Div. of Collection and Refund is named Elvin L. Funder, who giveth as well as taketh.

THE ANNUAL Celebrity Tennis Tournament at America's greatest resort, Del Monte Lodge, was a real blowout: a big box of fireworks exploded and blew off the end of the pier on July Fourth. Aside from that, nothing much happened except that an international movie star ripped off her clothes and ran across the 18th green, vowing to End It All in the drink; she was stopped in time and appeared next day in her tennies, just as though nothing had happened. Emcee Paul Lippmann introduced Claudine Longet as "a French chanteuse," carefully avoiding any mention of her husband, Andy Williams; that's because Claudine was there with Efram Zimbalist Jr., looking like the cat who ate the canary.

The weekend affair(s) was a benefit for the National Council on Alcoholism, which will net about $15,000 from the $50,000 worth of alcohol that was consumed, all for good purpose. And the official program featured a full-page ad for Old Fitzgerald, named for Barry or Ella, I forgot which. As for the brand of tennis, generally, it kept the fans busy at the bar.

MEL CORVIN updates the story about a pilot asking S.F. Airport tower for a time check, and hearing "Well, if you're TWA, it's 1 p.m. If you're United, it's 1300 hours. If you're PSA the big hand is on 12 and the little hand is on 1 — and if you're Air West, it's Tuesday." Of course, this was before Howard Hughes took over.

UNCLE LEN'S CORNER

Hello, again boys and girls and welcome to another Saturday morning of fun and learning with Uncle Len and his friends Carol and Andy.

The old sack was really slim again this week, but I guess most of you are on vacation so you just don't have a lot of time.

Poor Carol didn't get a single riddle so I guess that Kennedy half dollar won't go to anyone this week. Uncle Len did get some excellent drawings, though.

You boys and girls are not only good artists, but you can draw good artists, too.

Remember, the Festival of Arts in Laguna Beach is still going on so be sure and go see it. Who knows, you may get a few tips on how to make your work even better.

I'll bet most of you have seen the movies where the cavemen fought against the ferocious dinosaurs. Did you know that fight could never have taken place?

No human being has ever seen a dinosaur, and none ever did — even in the cavemen's day. But it makes exciting material for imaginative films.

Actually, the dinosaurs, whose bones and teeth are the only remains left to us, disappeared from the earth over 60 million years ago.

The first lizard-type animals appeared on the earth almost a quarter of a billion years ago but lasted only about 150 million years.

The dinosaurs, when they roamed the earth, were huge and very ferocious creatures. Most of them, though did not eat meat, they were called herbivores and ate only vegetation.

There were many species of the great beasts and they roamed far and wide. It is a mystery how they all disappeared. The most common belief is that during one period of time, the food supply became so low that there was not enough to feed them and they simply slowly died of starvation. But no one knows for sure.

HAPPY THOUGHTS

When you're all by yourself
And you feel kinda low
Think happy thoughts;
Picture icy cold snow.
Think of warm, burning fire
On a cold winter night;
Or the sun coming up
To give of its light.
Think of warm, cuddly kittens;
Sing a gay summer song.
And the sadness inside you
Won't stay there for long.

A Kennedy half dollar goes to Virginia Murphy, 8222 Mandeville Dr., Huntington Beach, for the winning entry in the story and poem contest. Mail your poem or story to Uncle Len, Box 1560, Costa Mesa, California.

It will be a very enlightening you.

'Fusel Oils' May Cause Hangovers

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Rutgers University scientists think they've put their finger on the cause of the hang-over and it's not alcohol.

It is Cogeners, a largely ignored ingredient in liquor that determines the severity of hangovers, scientists at Rutgers' Center of Alcohol Studies said today.

Cogeners — sometimes called "fusel oils" — are complex chemicals produced during the distilling and ageing process. The entire current issue of the Quarterly Journal of Alcohol Studies, published here, is devoted to them.

Chemically, Vodka and Bourbon are at the opposite end of the Cogeners scale: Vodka with none, Bourbon with the most.

That means, the researchers said, that while the doing of simple tasks is hampered equally by liquor of identical alcohol content, drinkers of high-Cogeners spirits remain impaired after the alcohol has disappeared from the blood stream.

Lottery

Doing Well

NEW YORK (AP) — About 800,000 $3 tickets have been sold in the state's special million-dollar lottery. The state Tax Department said Tuesday it was pleased with the pace of sales since the tickets were offered June 10.

The tickets will be on sale for three months, with the drawing to be held late in September.

Under the prize-and-profit structure of the lottery, ticket sales must bring in $3,787,000 to that $1,515,000 — or 40 percent — can be returned in prizes, including a $1 million top prize.

The "summer special" lottery is being conducted alongside the state's regular monthly lottery.

Send your questions to Ask Andy, c/o Orange Coast Daily Pilot, Box 1560, Costa Mesa, Calif.

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Mark McLeod, age 9, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, for his question:

How do they measure all those miles to the stars?

My, how we all loved that TV program Star Trek. It whisked our imaginations around and around the vast oceans of outer space. We stretched our minds to grasp the enormous distances between one star and the next. Even when the stories were a bit fanciful, this part of the program came from real facts that we know to be true. Naturally we wonder how our astronomers measured all those miles to the faraway stars.

It is hard to grasp the number of miles to the sun's nearest starry neighbor. Astronomers tell us that it is about 27 million million miles. This is the figure one with a tail of 12 zeros. The starship Enterprise has not been invented yet. So we cannot use it to measure the mileage to the stars. But astronomers know all sorts of clever math tricks. They use a geometry trick to measure the distance of a star — without even leaving the earth. What they use is a triangle. Any triangle, of course, has three straight sides and three pointed corners. The corners are called angles.

This star measuring triangle is special because it is stupendous. It is much too big to draw on a piece of paper. Its two sides reach all the way to the star they wish to measure. But this giant acts like all other triangles. When you know a few things about it, you can figure out the rest of it. That is, if you already know a bit about geometry. Astronomers carefully plot the base line at the bottom of their super triangle from the distance between the sun and the earth. Then they plot the two sides.

There they form a pointed corner which is an angle. This angle is always very, very narrow. It tells how tall the triangle is and this tells how far away the star is. If the corner angle is extra narrow, the star is very, very far away. If it is just a hair's breadth wider, the star is quite a bit closer to us. Scientists have their own special names for things. This angle that tells the distance of a star is called the parallax.

Astronomers also have special yardsticks for measuring sky distances — because our tiny miles get lost in outer space. Sometimes they use the light year. This is the distance that a beam of light travels in one earth year. It equals about six million million earth miles. The crew of the Enterprise may use light years to measure the distance from one star to the next. But astronomers use something else to measure the distance of a star from the earth. It is called the parsec — and it is related to the parallax angle at the top of that stupendous triangle. One parsec is a bit longer than three and a quarter light years. It equals about 20 million million earth miles. The nearest star to our solar system is one of the Alpha Centauri triplets. Its distance is 4.3 light years — which is about seven million million miles more than one parsec.

Angles are related to circles. When you cut a circle in pie-shaped sections, the angles are the pointed corners in the center. We measure angles in degrees. They match the 360 equal degrees around the edge of a circle. For finer work, each degree is divided into 60 angles called minutes. And each minute angle has 60 small angles called seconds. A star parallax is always less than a tiny second angle

Holy 'Father' May Leave California

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An Indian "Holy Man" from Calcutta who lives with seven young men and women in a Haight-Ashbury dwelling may have to leave the country after overstaying his visa.

A hearing on the case of Chiranjiva Roy, 57, will be held next Thursday, according to the Immigration Service. A service spokesman said the likelihood is that Chiranjiva will be allowed to "Depart voluntarily," if he has the money.

Roy, who has a flowing white beard and a Messianic view of himself as spiritual leader, seems calm over the prospect of leaving his new land for his old, but his followers seem crushed.

"I'm a teacher," said Roy. "Thousands of people all over the world know me. I don't want anything. I have no preference where I live. If they make me go back to India, I'll go. I have a wife, a mother, two daughters and a son living near Calcutta. Wherever I go, wherever I am, it's all the same. I have no problems."

Roy once had 20 hippies living with him in a mud-hut village outside Calcutta. He came to California last August under the sponsorship of folk-singer-turned-hippie landlord Lou Gottlieb.

"I'm here to serve, free of cost. I don't charge for my services. I only eat one meal a day, sometimes only one meal every two days. I teach all the subjects you can conceive of. Knowledge with a capital K. I am power. Everything that is going to happen to everybody I know. That is knowledge."

One follower said that Roy, whose young followers call him "Father," "is never sick, never tired. 'We were chaotic people when we came here. Now we're off drugs. He takes back the escape routes and shows how hippies can control their existence.'"

Teacher, 71, Creates Urge To Learn

SANTEE, Calif. (AP) — Ethel Reusnow was 18 when the Yanks went to war in 1917 and the people of Paxton, Ill., turned over their one-room schoolhouse to her.

She hasn't stopped teaching since.

An operation for cataracts was done away quickly one summer, restoring her sight right in time for school.

The age limit of 65 for Santee school teachers is waved aside routinely for Mrs. Reusnow, a disciplinarian who delights her second-grade pupils. She drills and drills — and disguises it all.

The boys and girls leap eagerly into competitive teams, winning points for learning English.

"I think you're going to make it, boy!" she cries out when a 7-year-old gropes for the right word.

"You made it, honey!" she smiles a minute later.

Says Ethel Reusnow: "Children like excitement."

Says Carl Metz, her principal:

"She proves you can be strict and still create the darndest desire to learn I've ever seen in kids. She's the Babe Ruth of teachers."

Teachers themselves crowd 40 at a time into the summer teachers workshop which she conducts for San Diego State College. Said one: "The phonics system which Mrs. Reusnow has devised — laying stress on recognizing letter combinations which depict key sounds — is being used around the country now."

None of them has more desire than Ethel Reusnow, who spent nights earning her degree at DePaul University in Indiana while teaching in Chicago schools. By choice, she spent 17 years in a low-income Negro school and once took a loaded pistol from a girl who had threatened to kill another teacher.

In her 54 years of teaching, her pupils also have been the children of rich, but she reflects "they all come out about the same."

Her husband is an invalid, but their son lives nearby.

"I love teaching and never want to quit," Ethel Reusnow said Wednesday. "Besides, I'm young."

City Ordinance Full of Hot Air

GULF SHORES, Ala. (AP) — A town ordinance makes it unlawful "for any hurricane to enter in, upon, across or over the corporate limits of the Town of Gulf Shores, its police jurisdiction, or the air space above it."

The law was enacted in 1967, one year after the coastal resort town was incorporated. The penalty on conviction is a fine of $1 to $100 or six months at hard labor.

Flower Child?

Chancellor, a 165 pound Great Dane, sees nothing unusual about his love for flowers — especially carnations. His owner Jack Davis of Wheat Ridge, Colo., owns part of a wholesale florist and Chancellor often goes to the office for a tidbit or two. Davis says Chancellor has his own sofa and can eat all the flowers he wants. Davis didn't say how much he weighs.

Homeowners Chagrined Over LA Airport's New Runway

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Children hold their ears when jets take off and some children visiting the area and not used to it cry and scream," complains a blonde miniskirted mother of five.

"When that big 747 came over last week my white Persian cat was frightened and ran right out into a motorcycle and was killed," says another mother. "Evidently she didn't hear the motorcycle."

"Our dog Schatzie, a German Shepherd, used to whine," adds the first mother. "When the planes went by she'd cower and shake."

A 12-year-old girl down the street chips in, "It bothers my dog Trampy. He whimpers and cries, and he didn't used to."

These are the dire reports from 94th Street about the new north runway which was opened this summer in their "backyard" at Los Angeles International Airport.

To the rest of the world L.A. International may be a jet-age marvel where 360-passenger Boeing 747s and other jetliners handle millions of travelers each year. As airport commission president Lemoine Blanchard puts it: "It's important to transportation centers back East and to the people of Los Angeles."

But to 94th Street it's just a noisy neighbor and about as welcome as a mufferless hotrod tooling down their child-filled shady streets.

Residents blame it for everything for causing oncoming couples to consider divorce, to driving noise-terrorized field rats to seek refuge in their kitchens.

Jet noise, the residents asserted is causing headaches, keeping hard-working men awake at night, making babies cry and puppy dogs whine, and bringing unwelcome and scary rumbles and vibrations.

"A lot of couples are snapping at each other and maybe there will even be some divorces," thinks Esther Schauer, who says her family of four is going to move to a quieter location.

The airport defends itself by pointing out it's been at its site near the Pacific Ocean for a long time — ahead of most residents. And the airport commission president says homeowners must realize one thing: "Los Angeles International Airport is going to continue to operate."

But 94th Street residents fire back that the airport used to be two miles away from them and cater to more sedate propeller-driven planes.

"Nobody ever thought of jets when we moved in 15 years ago," laments Mrs. Roy C. Niebuhr, who says otherwise families love their ranch-style homes close to schools and shopping centers and usually graced by sunny skies and refreshing sea breezes.

"When we first moved here six years ago watching the planes was a source of entertainment," recalls Mrs. Ronald J. Govey. "People put out lounge chairs."

The new runway puts the busy airport's jetliners 750 feet closer to 94th Street and only about 500 feet from their backyards. The runway strip, running parallel to the backyards of the south side of 94th Street, replaced what

Mrs. Govey now fondly remembers used to be a beach field.

Airport officials say they needed the new runway to handle increased volume and provide safety, not daring to crowd older runways much more.

Mrs. Govey, the blonde miniskirted mother mentioned earlier, says the shudders rev up the city health department's noise meters to 106 decibels in her backyard. That's a jackhammer-level clatter that hearing experts say could cause ear damage over sustained time.

"Some of the dogs around here are even on tranquilizers," Mrs. Govey relates.

Because they like the schools, climate and neighbors most residents are reluctant to leave — even though that has largely been an academic question. They say they haven't seen a real estate agent in five years willing to buy or try to sell their noise-plagued homes.

And soundproofing of homes — a help inside — doesn't help kids who want to play outside or men who want to mow the lawn, they say.

But an offer from the Los Angeles Airport Commission to buy 680 homes on 94th Street and the surrounding neighborhood appeared to bring more howls than sighs of relief.

"Condemn the runways, not our homes," many homeowners yelled at the airport commission meeting. The reference to condemning noted that the commission wants to do more than just give homeowners an option to move; they want them forced out.

Airport commissioners say they'll pay fairly appraised prices for the homes — discounting the noise factor in the appraisals — and use the land as a buffer zone between the airport and further-away homes, putting the acquired property to an undetermined commercial use.

Figuring he'll never get another buyer, Jack Schauer thinks he'll probably sell to the airport. "There's no other way," he sighs.

Question: Zoning regulations are unfair. I own a piece of this good earth and should be allowed to use it (within reason) as I choose.

Is it true that some cities don't have zoning laws? Why do we have to have them?

Do you need some city official to tell you what you can do with your property?

C. B. — Costa Mesa

Answer: The right to use one's real estate as he wishes is deeply imbedded in the common law and tradition of the Western world. Zoning regulations, agreeing that certain land should be restricted to certain use, regardless of the owner's wishes, represents a compromising of that tradition. Naturally, it has caused argument. Some cities still have no zoning laws, Houston, Texas, being one.

Putting up a cattle yard in the midst of a residential district may be good land use for the cattle yard owner in some circumstances, but obviously it is not good use from the view point of the homeowner just over the fence. Nor would it be just for a developer to put in a tract of houses and then demand that an existing cattle herd be abandoned because it affects the saleability of his houses.

Instead of punching each other in the nose over such disputes, or taking the case to court, it became custom to delegate the decision powers to a zoning commission. At best, the arrangement is an uneasy one. It can only have power over the proposed use of land. If there is objection, there is provision for a hearing to present all sides of the question, and if controversy still rages, for a vote of the people of the area.

Zoning principles need reviewing occasionally. Someone buying or owning property on a busy boulevard, for instance, should realize that a combination of convenient transportation, traffic noise, and location could bring a zoning change from single family residential to apartments, commercial, or even industrial. Indeed, seeking a zoning change may be advantageous and a reason for buying the property in the first place.

While zoning changes represent growth and are usually healthy for an area, it is important to remember that any property owner who does not agree may protest. He can round up support for his views among other property owners affected, and if the support is strong enough, prevail.

One additional fact should be made clear. Zoning applies to the property, not the owner. If he wants to keep cattle and lives in a forbidden zone, he can always sell and move where it is allowed.

Lower Interest Rates On Homes Foreseen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA) says the mortgage market is beginning a turnaround that will eventually mean lower interest rates on home loans.

The official, Oakley Hunter, based his prediction on recent increases in the volume of savings going into thrift institutions — savings and loan associations and mutual savings banks.

"Beneath the surface of the turbulence that has beset us the basis for a turnaround is developing," Hunter said in a speech. "Now that short-term interest rates are down a point or more from their peak... thrift institutions are showing some recovery."

"Indeed, we wonder how much in mortgages FNMA will buy during the fourth quarter this year. We anticipated buying some $6 billion in 1970. If the turnaround which already has occurred is reinforced by a further decline in market interest rates as the present demand for funds abates, then the thrift institutions may come alive and bid some mortgages away from us.

"That would mean that the mortgage market was beginning to see the light of day, that buyers would ultimately pay somewhat lower interest rates on mortgages and that our whole position with regard to financing housing would enter a stage of marked improvement."

Hunter's association, often called Fannie Mae because of its initials, is a privately-owned corporation spawned by the government to buy and sell FHA and VA mortgages in an effort to stabilize the market.

Hunter's view was reinforced by a report from the U.S. Savings and Loan League that savings deposits at the nation's S & L's in May exceed withdrawals by $650 million, compared to $642 million in May of 1969.

It was the third straight month in which the S & L Savings flow was better than a year earlier.

The League said S & L's made loans totaling $1.7 billion in May, a greater than seasonal growth over the $1.4 billion lending reported in April.

High interest rates have been blamed for a prolonged slump in home building. Private housing starts were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.2 million units in May, far below the 1.9 million rate recorded in January, 1969, the month before the slide began.

Home building is limping along at far below the pace needed to fulfill the nation's goal of 26 million new or rehabilitated homes in the 10 years between 1968 and 1978.

Mobile Homes Take Lead With 46 Percent of Market

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mobile homes will probably constitute more than half of all the new homes sold in the United States this year, a leading mortgage banker predicts.

J. Philip Gilligan, president of the Southern California Mortgage Bankers Association, says that in 1969 mobile homes captured 46 percent of the single family residential market with sales of 396,500 units.

"With the traditional housing market still knee deep in the doldrums, the odds are quite in favor of mobile homes taking at least 50 percent of new home sales this year," says Gilligan.

Mobile home parks are sprouting in Southern California, some of them perched on magnificent seashore or mountain locations with elegant furnishings surpassing many permanent structures.

A mobile home is no longer really mobile. It bears no resemblance to the trailers of just a few years ago. The occupants don't own the land so they don't have to pay property taxes but, in California, you do have to have an auto-type license on your home even though it has no wheels.

Another aspect is that it is virtually impossible to get a regular mortgage on a mobile home. They are largely still classified in the same category as automobiles, home appliances and other personal property for financing.

Gilligan says that while many mortgage banking firms are arranging financing through their institutional investors for mobile home parks, "none to my knowledge are financing individual mobile homes."

"By 1971 it is estimated that some $3 billion in financing will be needed for mobile home loans," Gilligan says.

"And along with other credit demands throughout the economy, it will obviously compete against mortgages."

"On the other hand, mobile homes have become a major part of our total housing picture. Right now, they represent a very practical answer to our pressing need for quality low cost housing."

DeVere H. Anderson has been promoted to director of engineering for Larwin Southern California, national housing producer and land developer. The announcement was made by Lee J. Goldin, Larwin senior vice president and director of community development.

Anderson, who joined Larwin in 1968 as assistant director of engineering, will direct production and field engineering of new home construction in Los Angeles, Ventura and Orange counties.

"DeVere's talents and capabilities will be a major assistance in our continued growth," said Goldin.

Prior to 1968, Anderson was president of Golden West Engineering, Inc. Earlier, he was vice president of Dutch Holzhauer Engineering, Inc., and senior civil engineering assistant at Los Angeles County Flood Control District.

Village Near Freeway

Pacific Island Homes Easily Accessible

Orange County's famous vacation features are leading to increased numbers of visitors to Pacific Island Village, according to Paul Martin, sales agent at the active adult development atop Laguna Niguel.

"We're seeing many people who have read about us, but haven't been to the beach areas until now," Martin claimed. "This type of traffic does us a favor, though, as more and more people realize that it isn't necessary to live a million miles from nowhere to have the wonderful year-round climate the South Coast has to offer."

Commuting to work is an easy matter, Martin explained, adding that "Owners here find that the surroundings are totally relaxing when they get home from work. This development is designed for people who children are now grown, and who have found that they don't need a large home with all its chores."

All homes are situated for permanent views over the Pacific Ocean or the mountain canyons to the east. The complex has its own club and recreational facilities including a swimming pool, Jacuzzi whirlpool, putting green and clubhouse.

The homes are available with two bedrooms or two bedrooms and den, each with two baths. Medallion kitchens are complete with the new "counter that cooks", with extra-capacity automatic dishwashers, fluorescent ceiling lights and natural-finish hardwood cabinets. Separate utility rooms hold the washer and dryer.

The homes of Pacific Island Village are available at prices from $36,900 to $48,900. An annual rate of 7½ percent financing is available with normal down payment.

Furnished models are open daily from 10 a.m. until dark, and are easily reached from the entire area. Take the Santa Ana-San Diego Freeway south to Crown Valley Parkway and turn right, following the parkway to Pacific Island Drive. For a more leisurely and scenic approach travel via the Pacific Coast Highway to the Laguna Niguel entrance at Crown Valley Parkway and turning left to Pacific Island Drive.

Keep Time Colorfully In Kitchens

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many types of "show-off" clocks are replacing appliance-type clocks in America's kitchens.

Cordless decorator wall models, electronic table styles and compact self-powered models that silently "flip digits" have all entered the kitchen. Following development — starting in the 1960s — of the completely equipped decorator-style kitchen.

The once all-white kitchen has been revolutionized by color, creating the need for appropriately matching clocks, Bulova researchers report.

Last year, a large number of the estimated 6 million "show-off" clocks sold entered the kitchen for the first time.

Air Heating Systems To Blame for Dust

Ask a housewife what part of her daily routine irritates her most, and it is a safe bet that she will say, "cleaning."

The National Better Heating-Cooling Council got that answer when it conducted a survey recently. According to the survey, most of the ladies felt that their heating systems were to blame for a good deal of the dust and dirt that accumulate in the house. If it were up to the women of America, clean and maintenance-free heat would be their first concern when selecting a new heating system.

Some complained that their heating systems were equipped with fans and blowers which, they claimed, spread dust and dirt whenever the thermostat called for heat. Others felt the fuel was to blame for smudges found on walls around the heating registers.

Although the complaints are real, the Council advises that a properly installed heating system does not create dirt. Daily home activities (cooking, tracking dirt in from outside) are responsible. However, dust and dirt can be stirred up by the heating system if it blows or moves air too forcefully.

Moreover, as the air is heated, its movement increases, and a faulty heating system operating at excessively high temperatures will "raise" a greater amount of dust and dirt which clings to walls, draperies and furniture, the Council points out.

One of the cleanest heating units is hydronic (modern hot water) baseboard because it operates at moderate temperatures and circulates the air gently.

A NEW STATE OF HAPPINESS

Woman Architect Designs Huge Medical Center

NEW HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Petite and pale-haired Nancy Copley looks almost too fragile to lift a brick. But in work clothes and hard hat she appears very much at home on the construction site of the vast medical-geriatric-psychiatric institution here for which she is project architect.

Just 10 years out of Pratt Institute, where she studied both interior design and architecture, she was in charge of developing the working drawings for the $25 million Jewish Institute for Geriatric Care, one of the largest facilities of its kind in the nation designed by a woman.

"There's no problem with either the workers or sub-contractors. They accept me," says Miss Copley, who for a year has been visiting the five-acre site to supervise construction. But there was a time, she vividly recalls, when she was looking for a job but couldn't get one because of her sex.

"I'm not a member of Women's Lib, but I'm very sympathetic to their program," she declares. "I combat discrimination on a personal level, meeting it on a day-to-day basis. Any woman entering the profession has got to be convinced that this is really what she's interested in doing because there are so many obstacles."

"Many architectural firms don't hire women — they don't say so in so many words but they find many ways of getting around the law, like leaving you waiting for an hour when they find out it's a woman applying."

Miss Copley, who studied structural engineering at Columbia University after graduating from Pratt, found interior design much too limiting — "you can do little more than shift around partitions." Consequently she stays as far away from that field as possible.

"It's awfully easy for a female to be labeled and pushed into minor jobs," she explains. "Women architects are competing with the most mediocre male in the office. You have to keep fighting these guys to prevent them from giving you some stupid job."

Fortunately she escaped the rut. After joining a firm with two women among its partners, Miss Copley was asked to plan a new kind of building. The objective was to house more than 500 residents and provide out-patient services for 2,500 more, and to create a prototype for new concepts of total care, research and teaching in geriatrics.

"There was no reference point for this type of program: everything had to be developed," explains the 5 foot 3 Miss Copley who, upon receiving the assignment three years ago, began an intensive study of changing patterns in geriatric care.

She visited many institutions and found a unique source of ideas in a Communal Planning Conference for the Aged, held in 1967. About 250 outstanding representatives of the country's leading health and welfare organizations had been invited to come "dream out loud" about the best way to meet the physical and human needs of the elderly.

"All degrees of disability had to be provided for in the development — the ambulatory patient, the physically ill and the mentally impaired," Miss Copley explains in the soft accents of her native Virginia. "The problem is to create an environment that's alive — that gives the patient the motivation to get back to friends, family and community."

"The main thing is to treat these people as human beings who have their own needs," she continues. "If a person is uprooted from home you want the trauma to be as slight as possible. You don't want the feeling of an institution."

With this goal in mind she developed the "living cluster" arrangement where six patients are in a "family" group; two are in private rooms and four in two double rooms. They share a sitting area which becomes, by means of its large glass panel, a place to view the activity in the corridor outside. Three residents of one unit share a balcony with three in an adjoining unit to broaden their contacts.

"This arrangement makes it very difficult for the resident to withdraw, though privacy is available when he needs it," Miss Copley points out.

"On each floor there is a carpeted dining area where 40 patients will eat at tables for four. It will have the feeling of a restaurant rather than an institutional dining room. Food will be served in courses so that people don't have to look at their entire meal sitting before them on a tray," she adds.

Pantries on patient floors will be equipped so that residents can prepare their own breakfasts as they did at home, and can offer tea and snacks to guests. There will even be a combination coffee shop and cocktail lounge for those wanting a late snack or a nightcap.

The nonsectarian Institute, scheduled for occupancy by fall 1971, is adjacent to the Long Island Jewish Medical Center. The Institute will be connected by tunnel to the hospital to facilitate moving of geriatric patients when necessary. Hillside Hospital, a major psychiatric institution located nearby, will provide psychiatric services. All three cooperating institutions are members of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York.

Miss Copley, who has an apartment in mid-town Manhattan, owns 65 acres in upstate New York, where she is rebuilding a house on weekends, doing the stonework and other construction herself. "You should be involved in actual building if you design," she says.

BRINGING THE OUTDOOR MOOD INSIDE AT GARDEN HOMES IN LAKE FOREST

Garden Homes Boost Outdoor Living

"Enlarging the home's interior, and implanting more natural living qualities, was our aim in creating the original Garden Homes," said Ron Walker, general sales manager.

Since the opening of this master-planned community by Occidental Petroleum Land and Development Corp., the Garden Homes, he reports, have had particular appeal.

In recent weeks, increasing numbers of visitors to Lake Forest have come to see these model homes, because, in his words, "city dwellers are hungry for nature, and these homes express the naturalness they're seeking."

"Bringing the natural open feeling of the outdoors inside the home itself," he says, "was accomplished by a mating of nature's light, sky, and the greenery of the land with the interior design of the home."

Distinctive in their mood of quiet privacy, the model Garden Homes of Lake Forest are distinguished by yard-surrounding walls that at once "invite in the outward natural scene, yet insure completely private sanctuaries from within."

Garden Kitchens, (atrium entries) and garden bathrooms are examples of the natural garden theme of these homes.

Typical of the charming Garden Kitchen are the slide-open glass-walled vistas opening upon inner-outer serving counters for dining under blue skies. The grain of wood finish cabinetry surrounding built-ins adds a further natural touch.

Continuing the gardenlike feeling of openness throughout the home, quaint windows in a bay, luxuriant garden bathrooms with covert private views, and green-growing planters overhead, patioside and at entries to family rooms add their informal note of charm and hospitality unlimited.

Huge timbered living rooms, with soaring vaulted beam ceilings, and massive brick or hearth-warm adobe and cedar mantled fireplaces carry out the motif of naturalness that is everywhere.

Lake Forest Garden Homes are easily reached within an hour's drive from Los Angeles via the San Diego or the Santa Ana freeways south to the El Toro Road turnoff.

Villa Brea 'Showcase' to Be Open on Weekend

SUNKEN LIVING ADDS UNUSUAL TOUCH TO SHOWCASE HOME

Although the models are still receiving the finishing touches and the grass has just started growing, there will be a special sneak preview showing of the unusual Villa Brea Homes this weekend. Built by William J. Krueger, famous for his Showcase series of homes, the Villa Brea models will be opened to the public this weekend, according to Dick Kurth, of Kurth & Associates, sales agent.

"We have the furniture in, but we won't be ready for dressed-up showing for two or three weeks. However, these homes are so new and different, we wanted to allow the public to see them as soon as we could," Kurth said.

These new homes will allow for total indoor-outdoor living, since the entire lot will be utilized due to a revolutionary concept which eliminates wasted side yard space and incorporated it into the total home.

"We expect that most families will have up to 5,000 square feet of living space here," Kurth noted.

Not Sugar-coated

Julie Andrews Trading Image?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Julie Andrews made three memorable contributions to the Broadway theater.

First, there was the vivacious but innocently romantic heroine of the original New York production of "The Boy Friend."

Then came her unforgettable Eliza Doolittle in the record-making "My Fair Lady."

Followed by her Queen Guinevere in "Camelot." There was a little hankypanky here between the Queen and Lancelot, but, after all, this had the sugar-coating of a musical. No damage to image.

When she went to Hollywood for cinematic stardom, Miss Andrews achieved the maximum of nice-girl image in "The Sound of Music" and "Mary Poppins." "The Americanization of Emily," which was a little daring, didn't erase that.

Now, she comes in a major new movie, "Darling Lili," just reaching the public, and Miss Andrews isn't worrying about whether it shelves her old image with the public.

"Actually, I'm not conscious of any sort of image until someone happens to mention it," the star said in an interview before the opening of her picture at the Radio City Music Hall which is certainly a showcase where an image can be lost or retailed.

"Certainly, I'm not influenced by it in my work. I've done other pictures in which I've managed, due to the script, to cut up a caper or two. But the impact in those cases couldn't overcome the conception of me created so strongly by 'The Sound of Music' and 'Mary Poppins.'"

"I'm not discounting the old image. It brought me where I am today. But you can't stay in a rut. One has to expand, no matter how successful you may have been in a certain area. That's where I am now. I'm looking for new roads to take."

Husband Blake Edwards,

BREAKING IMAGE?
 Julie Tries on 'Lili'

one of Hollywood's most successful producer-directors, who also wrote the "Darling Lili" story especially for his wife, said he felt the "new" Julie Andrews will be a pleasant surprise to her fans.

"This is a stylized, romantic comedy with music with something of the Ernst Lubitsch flavor," Edwards explained. "Lili is chic, poised, a sophisticated woman who moved in smart circles; the epitome of high fashion as a night club entertainer."

"Sex is the name of the game as she operates as a German spy in World War I trying to pry secrets out of a handsome allied airplane pilot (Rock Hudson). She does a striptease, gets kissed by the pilot while she's taking a shower and has a bedroom seduction scene that will make you forget Mary Poppins."

Stern Earns Salute

Marks Birthday With Rousing Show

By TOM BARLEY
 Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Isaac Stern's 50th birthday will be long remembered at the Hollywood Bowl and not just because an enthusiastic Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra and an equally delighted audience saluted this gifted violinist with a rousing rendition of "Happy Birthday to You."

That departure from concert tradition offended no one and was an unabashed and uninhibited tribute to a brilliant artist whose demeanor on and off stage has done much to endear him to fellow artists and audiences alike—and, let it be noted, to music critics.

Stern is his own most fervent critic but we'll wager right now that he has, in his own rigid self-analysis, been unable to find fault with what we found to be a superb rendition of one of the most glorious violin works in the concert repertoire—Brahms' glittering and tremendously demanding Concerto in D Major.

Its shattering final movement is, of course, the piece de resistance of all violin works and it gave Stern every opportunity to display a virtuosity and elan that have made this unassuming man a household word in many nations.

His great achievement in the Brahms is to preserve that rich phrasing while indulging in the sharp harmonies and massive codas that so richly ornament this moving work. No one does it, for our money, quite like Stern—at least in the Brahms—and we heard nothing Tuesday night that could persuade us to amend that judgment.

We were intrigued by the reaction of one very lovely blonde member of the audience who stood silently and bright-eyed for a moment while the Bowl audience broke into a tremendous ovation. Hands clasped, she murmured, "Oh, that was so beautiful" and it seemed, to this critic, to be the ideal review of a memorable performance.

This splendid performance was memorable in many other respects and only that superb effort by Stern ensured him top billing over conductor Andre Previn's dedicated, driving extraction of Ralph Vaughan Williams' Symphony No. 4.

To be sure, the applause was scattered in comparison to what greeted Stern. But the record must show that this was the finest delivery of this sweetly scored hymn to romanticism since this critic, in a much younger day, heard Sir John Barbirolli draw much the same reading from a Halle Orchestra that was in the height of its considerable glory.

We like to think that Previn's present sojourn in London (he conducts, most capably, the London Symphony Orchestra) has led him to a deep understanding and love for this most British of composers. It is, in any event, impossible to escape the conclusion that he has learned you can not hurry Vaughan Williams if you wish to extract every ounce of ecstasy and pure joy to be found in his moving scores.

We have, in our time, witnessed two Andre Previn's. We remember vividly the gauche, young conductor who did his best to destroy Beethoven's Fourth with some ill-timed work from the podium and who merited, for his efforts, a scathing review.

The Previn we watched and admired Tuesday night has matured and progressed to the point that he delivered a Vaughan Williams Fourth to at least one onlooker who demands, in terms of that composer, nothing short of perfection. That was what Previn and his capably led orchestra delivered.

We wondered at the time of his London appointment but we wonder no longer. The London Symphony knew what it was doing when it hired Andre Previn and it is indicative of its regard for this fine conductor that it has extended his contract through 1975.

THE STRANGE WORLD OF MR. MUM

DENNIS THE MENACE

My Dad says the trouble with the world is people. Mr. Wilson, the guy next door, says the trouble with the world is kids. I say the trouble with the world is NIGHT!

What GOOD is it? It's so dark ya can't see nothin'. So ya gotta stay in the house. An' half the time ya can't bring your dog with you 'cause he's gotta stay in HIS house. An' burglars are always walkin' around in the night. An' the boogymen. Which is the same thing, only worse. 'Cause burglars are just after your stuff, but the boogymen is after YOU!

An' then ya hafta take a BATH! An' then go to bed. An' finally the sandman comes an' sprinkles sand in your eyes. Or that's what they say. I mean, I've never really SEEN the guy. An' then ya go to sleep. An', boy, is THAT ever a waste of time! But what else IS there? Your folks turn off the lights. An' it's dark outside. So ya just hafta lay there 'til it gets light in the mornin'. BUT NOT A SECOND LONGER!

Ask Them Yourself

FOR HERBERT THOMPSON, Press Secretary to Vice President Agnew

Mr. Agnew seems to be quite politically different from Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York. Yet he once was pushing Mr. Rockefeller for the Presidency. Why?—R.L., Utica, N.Y.

● Mr. Agnew never thought Governor Rockefeller was as "liberal" as some of his critics in the party did. He admired the Governor's administrative abilities, and when he (Agnew) was Governor of Maryland, he used some of the procedures Mr. Rockefeller had used in New York State.

FOR GEORGE P. CRESSMAN, director, U.S. Weather Bureau

Where and when was the heaviest rainfall recorded in the U.S.?—George H. Bowen, Nokomis, Fla.

● During an extraordinary cloudburst at Unionville, Md., July 4, 1956, 1.23 inches of rain was recorded in one minute (3:23 p.m. 3:24 p.m.). This set a new world record for rainfall intensity.

FOR DR. MARIE A. HINRICH, American Medical Association

During the summer months, many articles warn against prolonged exposure to the sun and its harmful results. Just how much exposure is too much?—Karen Morris, San Luis Obispo, Calif.

● We could not answer your question because the limits of safety for prolonged exposure to sunlight must take into account some other factors such as the time of year, altitude, time of day, and skin characteristics. We suggest that this would be best determined by conference with your physician.

FOR LOUIS R. BRUCE, Commissioner of Indian Affairs

Do we have a statue of an Indian on top of our national Capitol?—Irene Rohr, Devils Lake, N. D.

● The bronze statue atop the Capitol in Washington, D.C., is not an Indian, but many are under the impression it is. The figure, known as the Statue of Freedom, is that of a woman clad in flowing draperies with her right hand resting upon the hilt of a sheathed sword and her left hand holding a wreath and grasping a shield.

FOR CURT GOWDY, network sportscaster

When was the first baseball game televised, and who played?—Mrs. H.P. Jensen, Brenford, S.D.

● In the spring of 1935 a baseball game between Princeton and Columbia Universities was televised at Columbia in New York.

FOR MAE WEST

If a movie is made of your life, and you do not star in it, whom could you imagine for the title role?—R.D., Lancaster, Pa.

● In order that it be done properly I would have to do it myself. My millions of fans have always demanded the Mae West!

FOR ALDEN BARBER, Chief Scout Executive, Boy Scouts of America

Has a former Boy Scout ever become a President of the United States?—Mrs. Betty Barbera, Pueblo, Colo.

● Yes. John F. Kennedy was a Boy Scout in Troop 2, Bronxville, New York, from 1929 to 1931. Although many other Presidents have been active adult Scout leaders, President Kennedy is the only one to have had scouting experience.

FOR JIM NABORS

Is it true that you call your mother in Alabama every night?—Lou McDonald, Tuscumbia, Ala.

● We don't have any special arrangement. I call her to tell her something or ask her something, and she does the same. So do my two sisters who have families of their own in Alabama.

What in the World!

Fly In/Camp Out Camping enthusiasts can now camp out in areas as distant as Alaska, Hawaii, and Canada—or in previously inaccessible areas of the U.S. The Fly In/Camp Out program of Camp America has a new program which combines air travel and fully equipped camper rentals. Pioneered by Eastern Air Lines, a reservation can now be placed with any major airline or travel agent for the combination. Arriving at their destination-airport, the camping families have the option of following a preplanned itinerary or going off on their own. The campers, ranging from $250-per-week motor homes to $135-mini-vans, are all equipped with built-in stoves, ovens, sinks, water supply, refrigerator, dinette, storage areas, and toilet facilities. And for the adventurous folk who don't want to be burdened with their own gear, Camp America will even supply bedding, utensils, and maps and guides.

Flying in to new camping areas

Create a Time Island Do you come home from work "dead tired?" It may not be more rest you need but more exercise. As psychoanalyst Dr. Erika Freeman reminded a gathering of the Family Fitness Council (in cooperation with Sears), "Motivation to keep fit is necessary to start but insufficient to keep going. It must become a recuperating habit." One of the best and fastest ways to establish the habit is to give exercise a "time island" of its own (meaning a time interval devoted to a specific activity such as a coffee break—which has the psychological effect of getting away from it all). Another aid is having a "gadget" such as an exercise machine because it reminds you to start. Then the habit takes over. Once it is established, physical fitness produces a look of "totally infectious radiance," thus making the exercise habit very hard to break.

Closet Tips When putting a seldom-worn hat away on the closet shelf, turn the brim up all the way around to keep the hat in better shape for the next wearing. And for the wrinkled suits hanging therein, try a dampened turkish towel, wrung out and draped over a hanger overnight. It can supply enough moisture to help remove some of the wrinkles.

Peaceful Shoot-Out Some 700 shotgun marksmen from throughout the U.S., Canada, and parts of Europe will begin gathering in Savannah, Ga., this week for the opening on Saturday, Aug. 1, of the World Championship Skeet Shoot. In skeet, participants fire from eight different stations around a semi-circle at clay targets propelled across their line of vision. At Savannah, male, female, junior, and senior contestants will compete in events for .410, 28, 20, and 12-gauge shotguns. Some $20,000 in prize money will be distributed. Officials say this one may be the biggest world skeet event yet held.

NEW CHAIRMAN OF THE JOINT CHIEFS DECLARES:

"Downgrading the Military Will Weaken Us"

By WILLIAM O'NEILL

Joint Chiefs of Staff include (l. to r.) Gen. John B. Ryan, Air Force Chief of Staff; Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, former Chief of Naval Operations and newly appointed Chairman; Gen. Earle Wheeler, retiring Chairman; Gen. William Westmoreland, Army Chief of Staff, and Gen. Leonard F. Chapman, Commandant of the Marine Corps. Not shown is Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, Jr., new Chief of Naval Operations.

Admiral Thomas H. Moorer, 58, became Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff on July 2. He is the second Navy man to hold this position. The other was Admiral Arthur W. Radford, who retired in 1957. Admiral Moorer granted FAMILY WEEKLY this exclusive interview shortly after his appointment to his important new post.

Q: What do you see as the greatest problem facing you as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff?

A: I'm very much concerned with a problem facing our country which has a great bearing on the morale of our young people in the armed forces. I'm disturbed by the general attitude of some persons—particularly as expressed in the press in terms of cartoons and so on—that has the effect of degrading the serviceman. There are roughly three million young Americans in uniform today—a uniform that is a new-found target for groups that deal in discredit. This concerns me deeply.

Q: Is this something that has to be tackled by the Joint Chiefs, the government, or by the press?

A: It confronts us all, for it poses difficulties and dangers for everyone in the United States. The biggest danger is the effect it can have on our young people, who see these slurs on military service and start to wonder whether they want a career in the military. And if this reaches the point where we do not get the very highest type young men, the best-qualified young men, to seek military careers, then by 1980, 1990, and 2000, we're going to be faced with a "leadership gap," which will significantly weaken our country.

Q: Why do you think this situation has arisen? Isn't it because of disagreement over the war in Indochina?

A: That's a big part of it, of course. This conflict against a ruthless foe in Southeast Asia has been described as immoral, unnecessary, and unjust. I happen to believe that these descriptions are more appropriately applied to militant communism—the militant communism our servicemen overseas are facing and coping with. The objective of our Government in this conflict is simple: to stop the aggressive spread of communism.

Q: Do you feel that the press is being unfair?

A: Not intentionally, no. It's always been the nature of things that something bad that happens, because it is the exception, is more likely to be deemed newsworthy than something good. Unfortunately, this means that the good things that happen, and the progress brought about by good people who work hard, observe the law, and raise God-fearing families, are being given short shrift in favor of a small minority who advocate, and sometimes produce, dissension and destruction. They aren't typical of the American people, and it's important to keep this in mind. Pessimism has a bad characteristic, even a dangerous characteristic, in that it can be self-defeating. It would be a tragedy if the United States were to sell its capability and determination short in these crucial times through negative thinking.

Q: Do you think that this might happen?

A: There is always that risk, but let me make it clear that I personally am not a pessimist. I've worn the uniform for 41 years, and because I know that the sort of attitude we are seeing today is a kind of recurring cycle, I'm pretty thick-skinned. It goes on all the time with our country's military forces. At some point, everyone is for you, then everyone seems to be against you. It has been a part of our history.

Q: Then I gather you feel the critical mood will pass. What do you think will have to be done to bring about a change?

A: Well, I hope and believe that it is a passing phase because we have much more going for us than many people seem to realize or appreciate. We hear a lot just now about demonstrations and noisy protesters. I think it's time we made some noise of our own about what I like to call the Quiet Generation—which includes members of our armed forces—who are not prone to seizing the stage, an act that has become the hallmark of some of their contemporaries.

The youth of this country are holding the line against a determined foe, and they are containing the spread of communism. They are meeting it head-on in Vietnam, and they are the heart of the deterrent forces we have elsewhere. By any standard of history, no soldier, sailor, or airman ever faced more of a challenge.

In spite of what I would define as a negative minority attitude, our servicemen overseas have performed with courage and a great professionalism, and I'd like to see them receive some of the recognition and attention that is being misdirected elsewhere.

This is what I mean by saying that, at the moment, many people are get-

Admiral Thomas H. Moorer, the new Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Adm. Moorer says protest marches degrade GIs, but morale is still high.

In this exclusive interview, Admiral Thomas H. Moorer discusses the implications of the current antiwar sentiment ting only a distorted image that needs to be corrected. And I think it's time we stopped calling the Government "they" all the time, as though it were our enemy, and remembered that we—the people—are the Government and quit berating the alleged existence of a so-called evil military-industrial complex.

Q: But it was former President Eisenhower, back in 1961, who warned of the danger that might arise from a military-industrial complex. Do you think we have, in fact, such a complex today?

A: President Eisenhower's fine speech, which enjoined us to remain strong against a hostile and determined enemy has been quoted entirely out of context. As a result, the phrase "military-industrial complex" has become so loaded with warped connotations that it has become a semantic trap. In my opinion, if we didn't have close cooperation between industry and Government, we would not have the capability we now possess to use the advancements of science for the over-all benefit of our country. An outstanding example of this is our successful landing of men on the moon.

Q: Is the dissent at home and the difficulties of the war in Southeast Asia having an adverse effect on morale among servicemen?

A: They are concerned, of course. A man in uniform wants and needs the support of the people at home. But I have visited our servicemen in Vietnam, in Europe, and at bases in the United States, and their morale remains high. They know that although bad news and controversy may attract the headlines, the majority are behind them.

As I've said before, I know that "good news is no news" on many of the mass media's events yardstick, since it may not capture the public's attention. But though we have seen a number of stories about American servicemen who choose to absent themselves without leave, giving the impression that our military morale is suspect, here are some facts that didn't make the news: less than five percent of American servicemen ever go absent without leave—or A.W.O.L.—less than one-tenth of one percent of our men in uniform have sought asylum in Sweden; yet more than 73,000 military personnel have volunteered for second or subsequent duty tours in Vietnam.

Q: You are taking office when the United States is engaged in essentially a land war, which the President has pledged will be scaled down. Do you foresee a smaller role for the Navy?

A: No, for a number of reasons. The United States is an island that sits between two oceans. This makes us a maritime nation. During our lifetime, we have had free use of the seas for so long that the average American citizen takes it for granted. But this is not the case. The Russians have seen how use of the sea by the United States and her allies has facilitated our military, economic, and political viability. They know that in four major wars and on several lesser occasions we have projected U.S. power through the seas.

These lessons have not been lost. The Soviet Union has set out to build the world's largest and best navy. They see it as a means of exerting economic pressure and establishing a worldwide presence.

We are embarked on an overdue program of shipbuilding to modernize our Navy—many of our vessels have been active since World War II. We are moving more of our nuclear deterrent to sea, aboard nuclear submarines for wider dispersal.

Q: Defense costs have been the subject of growing criticism, in Congress and out. Do you think you will get from the Congress the funds you need, or will there be some belt-tightening?

A: There already has been substantial belt-tightening. For instance, the Navy has inactivated many ships and aircraft squadrons and curtailed several modernization programs. Large numbers of reservists have been granted early discharges as an economy measure. Similar steps have been taken in the other services. Also, the number of military bases here and abroad is being reduced.

It's worth bearing in mind that the $71.8 billion Department of Defense budget for fiscal 1971 represents 34.6 of Federal spending, while in 1960 it was $43 billion—which was 46 percent of Government spending. So despite a costly war and the increasing costs of more technically advanced weapons systems, our investment in national security today is actually 11.4 percent smaller than it was during a time of relative peace.

Proposed defense spending will take seven percent of our Gross National Product in fiscal 1971—or about three percent less than the percentage Americans spend annually on all forms of insurance. So despite the hue and cry, we are making very major cuts, and I believe Congress is aware of this.

Q: There is speculation that the decision to enter Cambodia was a high-water mark for the Joint Chiefs, and that their influence in decision-making may never be as strong again. Do you think this is the case?

A: I do not. You should remember that the Joint Chiefs of Staff recommend various courses of action to our civilian superiors. We do not make policy, approve budgets, or approve force levels. I confess to being less than happy when I read accounts that the military has done this wrong or that wrong. It shouldn't be necessary to say it again, but we are advisers; we make the recommendations, not the decisions.

Under the U.S. Constitution we have civilian control of our military forces, and, consequently, decisions are made by the civilian leaders in the executive and legislative branches of our Government. Speaking for myself and the other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, we fully support this concept which is inherent in a democracy. We wouldn't have it any other way. *

How Sharp a Shopper Are You?

QUIZ

This true-false quiz might separate the savers from the losers when it comes to shopping

Most of us shop for something every day. And we probably consider ourselves fairly knowledgeable in the fine art of tracking down a bargain or reading a label or getting a good buy on certain products. This true-false quiz will test your skill in what every keen-eyed shopper knows—or ought to know.

1. All cuts of meat are graded.
2. If an advertisement gives a "list price" or the manufacturer's "suggested price," you can be sure that this is the actual price of the item.
3. A sweater that is labeled "full-fashioned" means that the garment was knitted in a special way.
4. When buying kitchen pots and pans, it's better to purchase them in sets rather than individually.
5. A wise parent should frequently allow a child with a picky appetite to help shop for his own foods.
6. You can't judge a transistor radio by the number of transistors it has.
7. Lower grades of meat have more fat to the pound than the expensive cuts.
8. A good shopper always buys large or economy-size cans and packages of food.
9. The words "League" or "Professional" on a piece of sports equipment mean that the equipment was made according to official rules of the sport.
10. The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) specifies that white eggs and brown eggs must be cartoned separately because of the difference in their nutritional value.

ANSWERS

1. False. Meat grading is a voluntary service provided by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service to meat packers and others who request and pay for the grading.

2. False. Some manufacturers set high "list" or "suggested" prices on their merchandise so that retailers can offer greater "bargains" by selling items for less.

3. True. Full-fashioned means that the sweater was knit to shape.

4. False. Every pot and pan has its own uses, and your best bet is to purchase each one separately according to your requirements.

5. True. A child with a picky appetite has more interest in food if he's allowed to make some of his own selections at the market.

6. True. Some big sets have only 10 transistors, and smaller sets, claiming many transistors, may have dummy connections.

7. False. The more expensive cuts have a higher proportion of fat to the pound, which makes them taste better, although there is less lean meat.

8. True. For the large family, this is definitely true, although a single person or couple may save by buying the smaller cans or packages.

9. False. The word "Official," not "Professional," means the equipment was made according to official rules of the sport.

10. False. The color of an egg has nothing to do with its nutritional value. In some sections of the country, brown eggs are valued over white eggs or vice versa.

The Promise of Skin Beauty—from Lemons

The beautifying properties of lemons have been recognized for centuries. Women knew even way back in ancient times that the pure juices of the lemon could accomplish wonders in softening, smoothing and clearing their complexions, and could bring the golden-bright look of shimmery sunshine to their hair when used as a rinse.

Today, women are rediscovering this most valuable of nature's gifts to feminine loveliness and utilizing all the remarkable beautifying properties of lemons in the easy-to-use form of a skin freshener.

Lemon Jelvyn Skin Freshener is exceptional in its ability to promote a smooth, fine-grained texture because it stimulates the circulation and helps melt out clogging grime and impurities that cause blemishes and sallow complexions. This unique lemon lotion encourages the natural "flaking" processes of skin cells at the most propitious time, when they outgrow their usefulness. The old, clinging, complexion-dulling particles of scarf skin are gently coaxed away by the mild, tingling lemon freshener, so that new cells can take their place and the wonderful beauty of a fresh, radiantly clear complexion can be fully admired.

The natural toning and invigorating qualities of lemons become immediately appreciable when Lemon Jelvyn Freshener is applied to your skin with a cotton pad, for the complexion benefits in every way from these clearing, bracing properties that bring a soft, fine bloom to your skin.

Because this luxury freshener helps discourage an over-zealous oil flow and aids also in clearing the skin of blemish-inducing impurities, it is invaluable to the teenage complexion as well as those complexions with an inherent tendency to be oily in character.

Lemon Jelvyn Freshener is used by the world's most beautiful women for skin beauty and is ideal for quick cleansing or to prevent a greasy shine developing on the nose. In America it is obtainable from druggists.

MICHAEL COLE:

Out of Tune and Outspoken

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

Michael Cole, one of the three youthful stars of "Mod Squad," is a paradox. He's Establishment and anti-Establishment at the same time. He's young and he's old—at 28. He's been married, divorced, starved, jailed, loved, and neglected. Yet he holds no one but himself responsible for what he was, what he is, and what he will become.

Along with Peggy Lipton and Clarence Williams, Michael helps policeman Tige Andrews solve all sorts of problems on the weekly ABC-tv show. Yet he points out heatedly, "We don't work for the Los Angeles Police Department! The series has nothing to do with that. The moment I feel like a cop, I'll quit. In the show, Peggy, Clarence, and I are working with a man who is in the police department. I'm not 'Dudley Doright.' I hate it when ABC says we're three cops—one white, one black, one girl. The main reason for the success of the show is the relationship among us."

His feelings were so strong that he almost talked himself out of getting the part in the first place. "Originally the inclusion of guns, cop cars, and all that nonsense was discussed. When I had this first interview with Aaron Spelling, the producer of the show, I ranted and raved and did a lot of screaming against such a concept—and probably made quite a fool of myself—until he explained what he felt the show was really about."

Cole could have some reason for disliking the law. "When I was 15, I ran away from home, and got into trouble. (He wouldn't explain what the trouble was.) The police picked me up. I got in trouble with the police a couple of other times, too. But I was never put away for any length of time."

Cole thinks he ran away from home because of a terrible insecurity within himself. "I simply wasn't comfortable with whatever I did because I didn't contribute anything worthwhile to anybody, including myself. Yet I can't blame anyone for what happened. Not my mother who loved me. Not my brother. Not my teacher. Not even my stepfather, although we didn't get along at first. We did eventually. I simply felt unfulfilled and without purpose. But I'll never forget the day my mother came all the way from home in Madison, Wis., to get me out of jail. She cried. I knew then that what I'd done was very wrong."

Michael didn't like school, although his grades were quite good, and he excelled in competitive sports. "I quit when I was 15. It was the worst decision I ever made. Education is everything. I wish I had more of it." Michael never caught up with his schooling. "I was too busy running around at night, drinking, and going out with the chicks."

He worked in a pizza parlor, as a dishwasher. He was a bartender and handy man in a theatre workshop. The job he liked best was in a bookstore. "I would read periodically," he recalled, "and I still do. Except my tastes have changed. For a while, I was interested in nothing but comics. After a while, I learned to enjoy poetry. I'd read it primarily to see whether I could understand it. When I did, I felt I'd accomplished something."

When he was 19, Michael left home with a friend and headed for the West Coast. "We wound up in San Francisco, but not until after this ding-a-ling friend of mine blew all the money we had gambling in Las Vegas. Luckily, I had a little stashed away in my shoe. When we got to San Francisco, we had the names of some cats who we could stay with until I got a job in a bookstore again, and my buddy started to work for an insurance company."

Michael became interested in acting after he moved to Los Angeles and attended a Little Theatre performance. He felt he could do as well as the actors he watched and enrolled at Estelle Harmon's workshop, which he still attends once in a while. He studied with her for two years before he tried out for his first acting job. He survived during this time in a vagabond existence of odd jobs.

"Miss Harmon helped me get an agent and my first job," Michael recalled—"A featured role in the pilot film for ABC's 'The Felony Squad.' Although the original format was canceled, casting directors saw it, and before long Michael had his chance to play in 'Gunsmoke,' 'Run For Your Life,' and two motion pictures—Arch Oboler's 'The Bubble' and 'Chuka,' with Rod Taylor, before becoming Pete Cochran of 'The Mod Squad.'"

When conversing with Michael, you have to be careful because he can fly off the handle rather easily. Certain subjects are tabu, even though once in a while he slips into them of his own accord. Among them is his own father, whom he can't remember, and his stepfather, whom he hated at first but then learned to like.

He also won't discuss the woman he married at a very young age, nor his two children, a boy and a girl he no longer sees, and to whose support he doesn't contribute for reasons known best to himself. He does admit, however, that he supports his mother and two sisters (he also has an older brother), for whom he bought a house in the San Fernando Valley, while he remains in a small apartment in Laurel Canyon.

Michael insists he has no idea about money. He has a business manager and an agent to invest for him. "If it weren't for them, I'd probably put any extra money in an old shoe box. I was so broke for so long, I simply couldn't hold on to money once I got it. And I trust these people."

He claims money doesn't matter to him as long as he can live fairly comfortably, which includes his one luxury, a silver-gray Jaguar. Yet a few days before we met, he'd gone to Hawaii to look after three parcels of real estate he owns there, including one that contains a successful hotel.

Michael's constant tension is apparent in the way he walks, talks, and thinks. But he doesn't believe in drugs. Nor does he believe in rebellion for the sake of rebellion or, in spite of his earlier outburst about playing a cop on tv, of hating cops simply because they are cops. "You can't lock them all up in one group. I hate some of them, but I also know a lot of honest-to-goodness cops who devote their lives to their work."

Michael is both aware and disturbed by what's going on today. "There are too many problems which seem to have no solution. I am scared because I don't have an understanding of so many things that are going on."

What does Michael want out of life? "To be involved," he says. On the other hand, asked about his personal future, he insists, "I never think about it. Sometimes I don't even care. It all depends upon the mood I am in."

The Squad: Clarence Williams, Peggy Lipton, Tige Andrews, Michael Cole.

Arthritis Cholesterol

New Discovery Reveals A Common Cause

TASTY FRESH FOOD DIET BRINGS HELP FOR BOTH

New scientific studies show how cholesterol and fat choke the arteries only when eaten in aged and stored form as in bacon or ham, but are harmless when FRESH as in beef or shell eggs. Cholesterol and fat slowly dry and harden like paint when aged in many stored foods, and can form deposits only when changed in this way. This tested research finding comes as a welcome surprise, at last solving the agonizing riddle of choked arteries and cholesterol.

Recently published in booklet form, these findings also cast new light on the arthritis problem. A network of fine arteries in the membrane and porous bone around the joint nourishes the moving parts. When these arteries are choked by hardened fatty materials from stored foods, the joints are starved and arthritis develops. Fully explained in the new booklet (third edition) with large clear drawing. Shows the beautiful self-repairing natural design of our joints, and how we hurt them with the wrong food and drink.

Best of all, it is shown that powerful natural forces in our bodies gradually attack and remove non-living matter. It has long been known that these natural cleaning forces cleared fatty deposits from choked arteries in prisoners fed scanty diets in wartime Europe. Now we have the bountiful and tasty fresh food diet to obtain the same natural cleaning action without hardship, by avoiding only the deposit-forming stored foods. Far from a hardship diet, people are saying they have never eaten so well, or cooked so easily.

Now you can read all about it in a new easily understood booklet through which thousands have found relief. It explains wonderful findings in simple words. Tells how to use the tasty FRESH FOOD DIET to stop this internal pollution and help the body heal itself. For example, Mr. John Landridge said with a happy smile: "Sixty days ago I needed plastic arteries. But I went on the new diet instead, and now I mow my whole yard without resting. My heart and leg pains are gone. Blood pressure and cholesterol dropped to normal. And those fatty yellow lumps in my eyelids faded away!"

This booklet gives clear instructions on the delicious FRESH FOOD DIET. How to relieve suffering, save on food, and reduce kitchen work. Effects of better food on face and figure. New easy ways to cook well for one or two. Diabetes control. Real sweets for diabetics. Ear noises, deafness, and dizziness. Indigestion, acid stomach, and general health aids. Pictures of arteries and joints. A new practical approach that really works. Fully guaranteed: may be returned for refund if you are not satisfied. Over 35,000 satisfied customers. Very popular, now in a new third edition with four pages added. Special prices on quantity orders.

3. Spoon ¼ cup of the tomato aspic into each of four 6- to 7-oz. parfait or cocktail glasses. Layer ¼ cup crab mixture over each; then another ¼ cup tomato aspic. Garnish with reserved crab pieces and parsley.

QUIPS AND QUOTES

A girl who had just accepted her first teaching job was spending most of her salary for new clothes. Her father urged her to put the money into a savings account instead, arguing that thrift is a virtue. The girl insisted that clothes make the woman.

When the discussion reached a stalemate, she turned to her brother and asked, "What do you think I should do—put my money into clothes or put it into a savings account?"

Came his quick reply, "Put it into whichever draws the most interest."

When Harry returned to the office looking tanned and rested, his secretary asked about his vacation. "Well," he replied, "a friend of mine invited me up to his hunting lodge—a quiet, secluded place. No night life, no parties, not a woman within a 100 miles."

"Did you enjoy yourself?" the secretary asked.

"Yes," Harry replied, "I didn't go."

THROW AWAY YOUR OLD SPARK PLUGS!
AND SAVE UP TO $100 A YEAR!

NEW JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS

can spark your engine up to 30 more horse power and 5 more miles per gallon! using only your regular gas!

AND—THEY'RE GUARANTEED FOR THE LIFE OF YOUR CAR!

JET-FIRE IGNITERS KEEP ENGINES YOUNG AND STRONG!

Instead of the weak, unreliable spark that accompanies the aging of ordinary spark plugs... Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters "walk" a strong, sure swath of flame from one electrode to another, across a semi-conductor bridge — to fire each cylinder with absolute reliability, even under the most rugged conditions of temperature and speed. Built-in "scavenging" action keeps the Jet Fuel Igniter clean... prevents fouling... assures perfect combustion every time! And, because there is no spark gap, carbon deposits don't foul up performance, but actually improve by heightening conductivity! That's why you never have to adjust or replace Jet-Fire Igniters.

WHY CONVENTIONAL SPARK PLUGS ARE OBSOLETE!

Even after only 100 miles of driving, conventional spark plugs start to become eroded and caked with carbon. Their electrodes begin to burn away. The spark has to jump across a wider and wider gap to explode the gasoline vapor in the cylinder — becomes less and less reliable. So the cylinders "miss" and the plugs foul even more. Your engine runs at lower and lower efficiency. You wonder where the car's pep and pick-up have gone. You can't understand why your gas mileage is so poor. Before you know it, your mechanic tells you you need a new set of plugs. And your engine has grown old long before its time!

Pat. No. 2899585

When you install JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS, you say "goodbye" forever to spark plug problems! They deliver sure-fire performance conventional spark plugs can't match — for more efficient, more economical performance... mile after mile... month after month... year after year — in any kind of weather... and any kind of driving! It's all a matter of design!

By their very design, conventional spark plugs must deteriorate in use. Each time your cylinders fire, they erode the electrode of your spark plug, and cake it with carbon. Because the spark then has to jump across a continuously wider gap, it weakens and becomes less efficient. So your cylinders often misfire, and foul the plug even more. Especially with today's "hot" high-compression engines, plugs often "conk out" in a few months of hard use.

Designed for Sure-Fire Ignition!

JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITER's patented design eliminates this problem before it starts! The electrodes are solid, not wire — so they don't burn away! The firing tip is a semiconductor — so carbon can't foul it! There is no gap to adjust — so the spark is a strong, constant swath of flame! You get the same reliable ignition every time — for easier, faster starts... even in the coldest weather! Your battery won't be drained and run-down by slow starting — and you won't have to turn the key and pray, whenever the temperature drops! What's more, JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS make your engine run more powerfully and efficiently — and on less gas — than the conventional spark plugs you have in your car right now. And you can prove it for yourself... on your car.

"On-the-level" Driving Test Proves Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters Out up to 30 More Horsepower out of Your Engine!

When you receive your set of JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS, make this "before-and-after" test yourself... on your car.

1. Run your car until the engine is fully warmed up.
2. Stop on a perfectly level stretch of road.
3. Put the car in Drive (1st gear with manual transmission) and see exactly what speed the car rolls at with your foot off the gas (idling speed).
4. Turn off your engine, remove the plugs, and screw Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters into the plug sockets, following the simple directions (a 10-minute job).
5. Start the engine, warm it for a minute, put the car in Drive again, with your foot off the gas. Now see how much faster it rolls at idling speed — probably 4 to 6 miles per hour faster without touching the gas pedal! In-use proof that Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters increase engine RPMs by 100 to 120 with no increase in gas consumption. (At high speeds, the increase will actually be 300 to 350 RPMs!)

Right then and there, you can adjust the idling screw to cut down on your gas flow and your gas

ACROSS THE U.S.A., USERS REPORT AMAZING RESULTS WITH JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS!

"Had Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters installed in my car—a 1966 Country Squire with a 390 engine. Immediately I noticed great difference in performance and economy — automatically gained 2½ miles to the gallon." J.L. Glencoe, Mo.

"(Owner) says he never saw a plug so good. In the last 5,000 miles it cost him $68.00 for plugs (in a '65 Corvette with a 13-1 ratio engine). I told him about Jet-Fire Igniters and he bought a set and has run them 700 miles and says they are wonderful. He wants another set to have on hand." F.L. Downey, Calif.

 "Immediately performance, pick-up, and top speed (of '57 VW) were increased." M.H. Cambridge, Mass.

WILSON FORD

Here's an interesting little item from our neighbors in Canada . . . A visiting American motorist appearing before a local magistrate on charges of driving 74 m.p.h. offered this explanation. Considering that the Canadian gallon is bigger than a U.S. gallon, miles were no doubt longer too. He reasoned that in order to cover 60 Canadian miles his speedometer should read at least 70 m.p.h. The judge however didn't interpret it the same way. He promptly fined him in Canadian dollars . . . which are smaller than U.S. dollars. Speaking of small dollars . . . How about the best dollar buy on the automobile market today? Fords Falcon for example. Here at Wilson Ford Sales in Huntington Beach we have an outstanding collection of Falcons. Take the Falcon Futura. The 4-door sedan is the top of the Falcon lineup. It is the last word in compact luxury and big-car ideas. Ideas like big-car ride . . . smooth, quiet, soft. But handling that is definitely compact. Ideas like the 200-cu. in. Six, which gives such big power for quick passing and freeway cruising. But which is pure compact-car in gas mileage. Ideas like the big-car spaciousness with generous seating for six adults plus 12.2 cu. ft. of trunk space for a vacation load of luggage. And it's all on a compact wheelbase of 111 inches so turning is quick and easy. Ideas like the plushness of cloth and vinyl trim, comfortable foam-padded full-width seats and rich loop-pile carpeting . . . It's all just part of Ford's new Better Ideas for 1970. Why not stop in at 18255 Beach Blvd. and see the great Ford Falcon line for yourself.

Code of Behavior for Students

ABC News commentator Howard K. Smith suggested recently that with school out, "now is the time for college administrations to agree on simple, nationwide rules of behavior" for students.

The full text of Smith's commentary on the ABC Evening News with Frank Reynolds and Howard K. Smith follows:

"Too much of the news fits one miserable, frightening pattern. Authority everywhere is dissolving amid small civil wars of minorities who reject any conciliation."

"Catholics and Protestants slaughter and burn in Northern Ireland. Small guerrilla bands kidnap and kill at will in Latin-American countries. In Italy yesterday, arson and beating marked riots over which town was to be regional capital."

"Governments seem helpless against beings of the same rational species behaving more savagely than beasts in the jungle."

"In the U.S. we have a relative lull in our similar strife, mainly because school is out. But our own last year's experience, and the news from the rest of the world, should make us use the lull to reestablish authority."

"Now is the time, for example, for college administrations to agree on simple, nationwide rules of behavior. They would be easy to write, for they would be based on the Bill of Rights and the criminal code."

"Dissent and protest would be absolutely free. But violence, arson, riots are criminal—to be punished by automatic expulsion and prosecution."

"Print the rules on one sheet of paper. Let each student sign them in September, or not be enrolled. Then enforce them uniformly throughout the nation, calling in police when needed."

"The word 'authority' has been given an evil connotation. Well, it is not evil. It is simply the minimal agreed discipline required for humans to live together. It has got to be reestablished, or there isn't going to be any civilization."

Ace animal trainer Charly Baumann doesn't mind a playful pat—as long as it's from Kismet, the huge tiger he raised from a cub.

COME TO THE

CIRCUS

A century of mirth and merriment will be brought to light by KCOP, Channel 13 at 7:30 PM Tuesday with the premier performance of the 100th anniversary of Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus at The Forum.

Bill Burrud and Hobo Kelly will co-host the 60-minute preview of the "Greatest Show on Earth" as it prepares for a 29-performance stay at The Forum through August 10.

They will cover the entire spectre of the circus world from the arrival by train early that morning, through the Animal March from the railroad station to The Forum and the exciting opening performance.

A special feature will be interviews with stars of the show including Emanuel Zacchini, Jr., who collided with his wife in mid-air after they both were shot from a cannon during the Circus' February 4, 1970 performance.

The freak accident in Jacksonville, Florida, broke the neck and left leg of Zacchini's wife, Linda, and left him with severe sprains and lacerations.

While Mrs. Zacchini is recovering slowly from the injuries and is confined to a wheelchair, Emanuel has come back to the show and is still performing the death-defying act.

Other interviewees will be such stars as Tito Gaona, the 22-year-old trapeze artist who is the first aerialist in history to perform the triple somersault while blindfolded.

Featured in this year's all-new Centennial Edition are 25 international circus super-stars making their American debuts, along with a host of all-time favorites in the most magical three rings on earth.

The world's most acclaimed wild animal trainer, the bold and daring Charly Baumann presents the largest group of performing tigers ever assembled; blonde, beautiful Evy Althoff displays the internationally acclaimed horseback-riding tiger, that most sensational of animal training accomplishments. From Ireland, the world's greatest performing dogs, trained and presented by the Stephenson Family, cut convulsively clever canine capers.

America's most famous clown, Otto Griebing is one of the featured funnymen of the circus.

Elvin Bale is one of the featured aerial stars.

Baby John, the youngest performing pachyderm gets set for a swim with momma and "friends."

Mexico's Flying Gaonas are aerial stars of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

COVER CLOSE-UP

ECHOES OF A BYGONE ERA

We hear a door creak open in a deserted ballroom left over from the 1930s. A shaft of light streaks across the dusty floor, and Louis Nye in white top hat and tails walks in past a litter of discarded big-band posters.

"I am the '30s," he announces. "And welcome to those Happy Days."

The once-familiar voice of President Franklin D. Roosevelt intones "We have nothing to fear but fear itself" on the sound track. We hear Clem McCarthy calling a Louis-Schmeling fight, then Eddie Cantor singing "I love to spend each Sunday with you."

With those echoes from a bygone decade, the new summer series Happy Days goes on the air from Television City in Los Angeles each Thursday (8:00-9:00 PM) in color on CBS. The show reprises the style of comedy and swing music that began in the 1930s and never lost favor with millions of Americans.

Bob (Elliott) and Ray (Goulding), Chuck McCann and host Louis Nye head the comedy line-up of old-time favorites like "Knock-Knock" jokes, comic-strip characters, spoofs of radio soap operas, bits from old movies, a dance marathon and recordings of classic radio routines by Jack Benny, Fibber McGee and Molly, Bing Crosby, Fred Allen and others.

Powerhouse names from the big-band circuit who are guest stars from week to week include Duke Ellington, Harry James, Lionel Hampton, Helen O'Connell, Helen Forrest, Bob and Ray Eberle, Tex Beneke and Buddy Rich.

Three attractive youngsters who weren't even born in the 1930s sing and tap-dance their way into your heart each week with their impressions of 1930s musical numbers and snappy patter. They are Laara Lacey, from the Los Angeles stage production "Dames at Sea"; Julie McWhirter, fresh out of DePauw University, and Clive Clerk, actor-singer-dancer from Trinidad, Toronto and New York.

Other regulars are Alan Copeland and his Happy Days Singers; comedians Bill Oberlin, Jerry Dexter and Jim McGeorge; the Happy Days Band with Jack Elliott and Allyn Ferguson, and the Wisa D'Orso Dancers with the most dated-but-updated routines this side of Busby Berkeley.

Triple-threat men Jack Burns and George Yanok produce the series, supervise the writing and also do comedy turns, notably Burns conducting the dance marathon and Yanok "interviewing" Edward G. Robinson, Charles Laughton, Henry Fonda and other stars in old movie clips.

Executive producers are Frank Peppiatt and John Aylesworth of Yongestreet Productions, the shop that also turns out Hee Haw on the Network.

On the Cover: (clockwise from lower left.) Duke Ellington; the dance marathons (with Jack Burns as emcee); Louis Nye; Bob (Elliott) and Ray (Goulding); Harry James; Bob Eberle and Helen O'Connell; Tex Beneke; Lionel Hampton; The Happy Days Singers; Chuck McCann; Jack Burns; and Jerry Dexter with Chuck McCann (as Little Orphan Annie).

ON THE FENCE—Homer (Tony Fraser) is free to fly, but Benjy (Kevin Herron) is grounded in the Monday Theatre colorcast of "Me and Benjy" over NBC, Monday at 8 PM.

'THE HIPPEST ACTRESS IN TOWN'

When you're bogged down in heavy traffic and find yourself being passed by a lithe and lively lady riding a souped up Honda and waving a scarf in the breeze, what can you assume? That she's an escapee from Camarillo? Or could it perhaps be one of those far out movies being filmed on location on the freeways?

It is, in fact, Florence Lake. And if she looks familiar, you might remember the little lady who daily tried to smuggle Laura Scudder Tortilla Chips across the border on a donkey. Or perhaps you recall that innocent looking little woman whose conversation Johnny Carson once "bleeped" (making it seem, in the omissions, rather risqué) to prove a point about network censorship.

You'll be seeing a lot more of Florence this season when CBS airs its new show, Headmaster. The series stars Andy Griffith and Jerry Van Dyke. Florence plays the part of the head clerk in the attendance office of the school. She rides to work with Jerry Van Dyke on the back seat of a motorcycle. "You meet the nicest people on a chopper," she says.

Florence has been in show business literally all her life. She is a third generation actress, born on tour, raised in vaudeville, frolicking through the 30's and 40's on radio and in movies, arriving in the 50's and 60's with television, and still going strong. She just completed a co-starring role in an independent feature, "Comeback," playing opposite two other legendary actresses, Miriam Hopkins and Gale Sondergaard. She has appeared regularly on such television series as The Red Skelton Show, Dick Van Dyke, and The Doris Day Show.

Florence is a mischievous, energetic, and humorous woman. While what she does in front of the camera is "strictly acting," she can't hide that twinkle in her eye that reveals her true zest for life. She's popular with today's younger generation because she really identifies more with them than with any generation. She can hold her own in a discussion of rock music or miniskirts and can fill you in on their "Roaring Twenties" counterparts. Florence is forever open-minded and has that sense of the "now" that comes from always living in the present.

"It's kind of crazy that the kids of today dig me," she says, "but I identify with a lot of things about the modern generation. I can't hang on to the past. You can't live in the past when we've got a man walking on the moon. I'm glad I'm living in this era. Things are moving faster every day, and it's exciting to see all these things happen."

Florence lives in the present, but she's lived enough in the past to fill ten books with friends, experiences and wisdom. A life-long resident of Santa Monica, she has a beach house off the Pacific Coast Highway that's a veritable museum of memories and memorabilia from the high style era of the 30's. She was then close friends with Ginger Rogers, Margaret Sullivan, Mae Clark and Marion Davies and spent many an unforgettable weekend at William Randolph Hearst's legendary San Simeon.

As far as being an actress goes, it's just part of Florence's day to day living. "I do one part and then think about the next one," she reflects. "I never decided to become an actress. I just always was one, since my earliest memories. It never occurred to me to be anything else." Thus, acting is as natural to Florence Lake as living, or swimming, or anything else that she enjoys—and that's what's happening today.

So if that "little old lady" you meet in heavy traffic looks familiar, it's probably Florence Lake. If it is, don't be surprised. She gets around.
