

March on DC

By United Press International Three local draft boards resigned, at least three mass marches on Washington were being planned, and the White House was swamped with telegrams and telephone calls as Americans expressed their feelings about the conviction of Lt. William Calley.

Calley was convicted of the premeditated murder of 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai. He was sentenced Wednesday to life in prison.

Reaction continued to mount around the nation as Calley waited in the Ft. Benning stockade for a transfer to federal prison.

The White House, according to Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, had received more than 5,000 wires and 1,500 telephone calls concerning the conviction. They were running almost 100-1 in favor of clemency for Calley, he said.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., real estate man Walter J. Dilbeck said Wednesday he and 100 "coordinators" around the nation were laying plans for a mass march on Washington July 4 on behalf of all GIs charged in the My Lai incident. "We intend to have one million people in Washington that day and we intend to stay there until these men are released," Dilbeck said.

E. Thomas Cammarota, commander of the Pennsylvania American Legion, called on President Nixon to heed those urging clemency.

"If President Nixon sees fit not to listen to the thousands of telegrams that already have been sent to him,

It may not be quite so warm along the Coast Friday, but the morning fog will still be with us. Look for temperatures in the 67 to 77-degree range.

Sex Book Dealer Facing Appeal In Jail Again

Special to the DAILY PILOT LOS ANGELES — A sex book publisher whose Costa Mesa conviction is due for review by the U.S. Supreme Court on constitutional grounds was handed another one here in federal court.

Marvin Miller, of Covina, was slapped with a $45,000 fine and a two-year term in federal prison Tuesday by U.S. District Court Judge William P. Grey.

The head of Covina Publishing Inc., was convicted on 15 counts of mailing obscene materials, the same charge upheld 51 weeks ago in Costa Mesa:

Challenging constitutionality of California law establishing standards of obscenity and other related aspects. Miller appealed that case in Orange County Superior Court.

His conviction was upheld, but his attorneys went right to the U.S. Supreme Court with an appeal that it agreed to hear this fall during its next regular session.

Miller's contention is that obscenity charges are intended to be heard at the federal level and thus defendants are treated on an unequal basis in state cases.

By establishing obscenity and community standards of good taste from state to state, he further argues, the flow of materials through the mails can be hampered.

This, Miller argues, poses possible effects on even the most innocent materials, such as mail order catalogues. His Costa Mesa conviction involved advertising brochures for sexy books and movies which attorneys argue are readily seen and read by reputable book store patrons.

Suspect Seized On 1969 Count

A Monterey Park man is in custody today in Newport Beach following his arrest in connection with a two-year-old credit card case.

Detectives arrested Jerry Richard McClard, whom they claim is also known as Terry McClard, Wednesday afternoon in Monterey Park.

Detective Robert Brockle said he has been working on the case since 1969 when McClard, 31, allegedly used a stolen credit, card to purchase more than $250 worth of goods from Newport businesses.

"I've been looking for him ever since,". Brockie said, "and it was just recently that we were able to trace him to the Monterey Park address."

Inyo County Officials Have Restraining Order

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A federal official said today a planned rock festival in the California desert could cause both human suffering and environmental damage.

The caution came from J. R. Penny, California director for the U.S. Bureau of Land Management which is the landlord for most of the Southern California desert region.

Penny said BLM officials had been advised that 300,000 to 500,000 young people might gather in the Panamint Valley west of Death Valley for the festival over Easter weekend.

Penny said Inyo County officials had obtained a temporary restraining order in an effort to halt the festival, but that neither the county nor the BLM had the forces to stop large numbers of people from going into the area.

Some young people, from as far away as New York and Chicago, already had begun camping on the scene, BLM officials said today. Law officers and federal officials were to meet in the Inyo County town of Independence to map strategy.

Penny cautioned that young people risked a threat to their health by attending the festival, if it comes off as planned. He cited poor access to the area over 25 miles of poor desert roads, blowing sand, extreme temperatures and the lack of water and shelter.

Landmark

By JOHN VALTERZA

With a stroke of his pen Wednesday President Nixon shook the sanctity of the Camp Pendleton lands, opening up six nules of beaches and more than 3,000 acres of a prime valley for public use.

And later the chief executive declared the landmark decision in favor of open space was only the beginning of a vast federal program for housecleaning of surplus government real estate.

The affected area is within sight of the Western White House.

The blockbuster decision involves a coveted enlisted man's beach club and a private surfing club—long the object of criticism, along with the shoreline in front of the San Onofre nuclear generating complex and the new San Onofre Bluffs State Beach south of that a

Besides the prime coastal land-described by the President as "one of the country's last great swimming beaches" — the directive covers 3,000 acres of San Mateo Valley immediately south of the San Clemente City limits and the Orange-San Diego County line.

The new public beach will start about 1,000 feet south of the Presidential complex, bounded downcoast by the county boundary. The Trestles beach will be the buffer zone requested by the Secret Service—a no-man's land for security purposes.

Immediately south of that area the boundary begins for the new public beach.

Almost adjacent to that boundary is the enlisted man's club, a complex of Spanish-style buildings and permanent beach use structures — all of which will be given to the state of California for recreational or office use as it sees fit.

The San Onofre Surfing Club area is next, situated on a point well known for its excellent surf.

The next downcoast facility is the San Onofre Nuclear reactor complex, with its one existing station (two more are proposed for next door). The reactor land area will be closed to the public, but the shoreline seaward of the towering sea wall will be open.

Directly south of that complex lies the line where the new San Onofre Bluffs State Beach begins. It will be dedicated Saturday.

That section, leased to the state of California last year after tough negotiations with the Marine Corps, is 313 miles long.

Computing the 3.5 miles of that beach and blufftop with the new areas-opened up by the Presidential order, the length of the new public beach will be spit miles long—exactly one-third of the err tire Camp Pendleton coastline which (See BEACHES, Page 2)

Aftershocks Jiggle LA Basin Today

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL of the Daily Pilot Staff

Just two years after various visionaries predicted a great earthquake would tumble the whole sinful Southland into the sea, two more aftershocks of the major February tremor struck early today.

They were preceded Wednesday by a temblor that rattled up to 4.0 on the Richter Scale and caused heavier damage in some San Fernando Valley areas than the Feb. 9 quake.

Today's aftershocks came at 3:48 a.m., with a 2.7 rating, and at 7:03 a.m., with a 3.7 mark.

Some Orange County residents reported noticing the later, stronger jolt, which was strongest in the Northridge and Devonshire areas of the hard-hit San Fernando Balley.

The heavy aftershock that came at 5:54 p.m. Wednesday, about eight miles from the epicenter of the disaster two months ago, was the worst yet.

The epicenter was directly under a heavily populated area, according to Caltech seismologist Dr. John Nordquist. Six persons suffered minor injuries, while canned goods and bottles tumbled from store shelves, glass windows shattered and plaster fell from ceilings.

The Los Angeles Police Department's Devonshire Division suffered extensive damage.

"If it had happened five minutes later, we might have had some injuries," said Lt. Dan Sullivan, noting the roll call room would have been full of patrolmen at muster.

Six minor fires were also reported, along with some new but minor damage to the county's 48-inch Granada Trunk Line carrying water into the area.

One of the hardest-hit homes was that of Hal Sanders, who escaped with minor damage in the Feb. 9 quake that killed 65 persons and caused millions of dollars in damage.

"What we didn't lose then was pretty well totaled today," Sanders remarked. "This time the inside of the house

"This time the inside of the house was wrecked. It toppled over three television sets and broke them all. The glass doors broke. A china cabinet full of my wife's crystal fell over on the dining room table."

The Feb. 9 earthquake was recorded at 6.6 on the Richter Scale and has been followed by well over 200 aftershocks, some too small for humans to feel.

Such tremors in the wake of a major quake are almost always lesser in intensity, but several have been recorded at over 3.0 on the Richter Scale. Precisely two years ago to this week Southern Californians were moved to react with everything from panic to amusement when a jolt centered in an uninhabited part of San Diego County rattled the earth.

CALVES BELLOW FOR THEIR MOTHERS AND MOMS BELLOW BACK DURING ROUNDUP Tradition Practiced For More Than 100 Years Continues As It Did in Old West

By BARBARA DUARTE

Early Wednesday morning as the sun began to warm gently sloping hills still green from spring rains, the sound of a lone bird mingled with the shrill cry of a cowboy.

Following the sound to the hills to the south, spectators watched several dots multiply as trainhands from Rancho Mission Viejo herded cows and calves toward corrals nestled in a canyon lined with shade trees and a long-dry creek bed.

And the old West came to life again almost within carshot of traffic traveling the San Diego Freeway to the west and Ortega Highway to the north. But civilization seemed far away as more than 500 cows and calves halted in midstride, en route to corrals, to record a guttural protest at a group of photographers and reporters perched on the canyon hillside. In a tradition practiced for more than 100 years on the 50,000-acre spread, cowboys soon were busy roping, branding, castrating and dehorning more than 200 calves. Cows bellowed at their offspring and offspring bellowed back as they were wrestled to the ground for a two-minute session ending with a king-size shot of antibiotics and vitamins. Cowboys, including movie personality Monte Montana who joins the roundup each year, swung lassos over hind legs of game 300-pounders and dragged them to small bands of wranglers. In a quick ceremony, a hot branding iron stamped the ranch logo on the calf's rump, an ear was clipped for identification, horns were lopped off by a hacksaw, the castrated area was smeared with creosote, and the unhappy youngster disappeared into the herd for motherly consolation. Participating in morning activity was Gil Aguirre, ranch superintendent who has posed for Marlboro ads; Mrs. Alice O'Neill Avery, a partner in O'Neill Properties, and her hard-working rancher sons, Jerome and Tony Moiso. Singled out for recognition and a lifetime slot on the ranch by Mrs. Avery were 63-year-old Cecil Martinez who was born on the ranch and lassos with the best of them, and Joe Tew who has been with the operation 40 years.

Calves from O'Neill Ranch, mainly a steer operation, will be weaned in July and shipped to feedlots for 200 days to gain market weight.

Cattle buyers for the new herd already have selected lots, Aguirre disclosed. And in the true tradition of the West, buying and selling is done by oral agree-

Guns Captured Viet Fire Base Overrun by Reds

SAIGON (UPI) — A North Vietnamese regiment overran a South Vietnamese fire base in the central highlands today and sent the defenders fleeing, leaving their artillery behind, military sources reported. Field dispatches said seven Americans were killed, one a helicopter crewman.

Military sources said two American helicopters were shot down in the attack on fire base 6 near the junction of the borders of Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam and that one crewman was killed, another wounded and that two Americans were wounded.

The Viet Cong news agency, in a report issued in Paris, said guerrillas "wiped out" an entire South Vietnamese battalion and captured several Saigon troops and a U.S. military adviser.

The government rushed in reinforcements to fire base 6 and spokesmenin Saigon said fighting continued there late today. The spokesman also reported the South Vietnamese had disabled their artillery pieces but front dispatches said the Communists apparently captured them intact or had repaired them because they were fired against the South Vietnamese later today.

An elite South Vietnamese Black Panther commando group ended a 24hour foray into Laos today and returned to South Vietnam. Government spokesmen said it had achieved "remarkable results" in killing one North Vietnamese and destroying several tons of supplies deep inside Laos. The raiders said they found the bodies of 85 Communists killed by U.S. air force strikes.

The Communist attack near the Laos-Cambodian border, 160 miles below the recent Laotian operation, was the fourth major Communist attack in the south this week. A spokesman refused to say whether it was the beginning of a Red offensive but said good weather could bring more attacks. He said the North Vietnamese apparently staged the attacks to offset the bad propaganda of

The renewed North Vietnamese assaults came as the U.S. Navy formally ended its direct role in water combat in South Vietnam by turning over command of its last operational area in the Mekong Delta area to the South Vietnamese Navy.

Fighting last week in the area just below the demilitarized zone (DMZ) also increased American casualties for the fourth consecutive week. The U.S. Command said 58 Americans were killed and 542 were wounded. Another 23 Americans died from other causes, including accidents, drugs and nonbattlefield incidents.

The South Vietnamese base attacked by a unit of North Vietnamese regulars was the first ever totally overrun by the Communists in the area near where the borders of Laos and Cambodia meet halfway between Saigon and the DMZ.

Calley Sympathy Calls Pour In To White House

President Nixon has received thousands of telegrams and telephone calls running almost 100-to-1 in favor of clemency for Lt. William Calley.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said in San Clemente that as of noon Pacific Time Wednesday the White House was swamped with some 5,000 wires and 1,500 telephone calls.

Asked whether Nixon would have the power to give clemency, Ziegler replied, "that would not be a procedure that would be taken at this time."

He said the President could eventually be involved in a Calley appeal, but not at this stage.

Ziegler declined to give the president's personal reaction to the verdict or the sentencing to life imprisonment.

Asked whether it was an unusual bombardment of public sentiment, Ziegler said with a smile: "It's a very large number of telegrams for the White House to receive — almost as high as the Presidential address."

The jolt came one day off one of several dates set by assorted soothsayers who claimed California and its bottomless bars would crumble and fall into the sea.

The festival is planned on an 80-acre plot of private land near the historical ghost mining town of Ballarat, Penny said, "but in fact would be largely held on public land because of the numbers of people expected."

The injunction was against the landlord, a promoter identified only as "Zamora" and 15 John Does.

Fluorides Urged

Environment Unit Endorses Action

The environmental Council of Hunttington Beach is recommending that the city go ahead with the plan to fluoridate the water supply.

The recommendation and the report of the environmental group's study will be considered by councilmen Monday.

The council already has authorized the addition of fluorides to the water supply but delayed implementation of the program to allow the environmentalists time to study it.

But another call to delay the program and submit the question to the electorate will be made Monday night. Jerry Bogart, head of the Huntington Beach Citizens for Pure Water, said today he will ask for a public vote.

His group, collected 4,480 signatures on a petition requiring a referendum on fluoridation. The total was more than the 10 percent of the electorate required to put the issue on the general election ballot, but the petition was declared invalid because it did not meet a legal deadline

"I still believe we have shown that a sufficient number of people want to vote on it," Bogart commented.

He also disclosed that the pure water group has filed an intention to circulate petitions again if the request for the referendum is denied by the council.

Mrs. Margaret Carlberg, chairman of the Environment Council, said that her group considered the merits of fluorida-) tion outweighted the disadvantages.

She explained that the Environmental Council had not planned to take a position on the issue, but at a meeting this week Dr. James Mason, head of the water quality committee, asked that one and the recommendation for

THEY'LL TAKE TO THE BOARDS FOR TINA'S BENEFIT Andrew McClure, Vicky Scavo and Margaret McClure

Kids Perform Benefit Aids Tina Kysella Fund

A benefit performance of "Fractured Fairy Tales" will be given next Thursday by the Fountain Valley Community Theater for the Tina Kysella Fund.

The children's musical comedy will start at 1 p.m. in the community center, 10200 Slater Ave. Tickets are 50 cents with all proceeds helping to pay hospital expenses for the 12-year-old Tamura School girl.

While the special hospital fund is growing - it's now over the $1,500 mark - Tina is still listed in critical condition at Hoag Memorial Hospital.

She was hospitalized March 18 with a hemorrhage near the brain stem. Doctors at the hospital said she came out of her coma this week, but is still under intensive care.

For ticket information on the "Fractured Fairytale" performance phone Mrs. Richard Gillium, 847-1475. Tickets can also be obtained at the door.

The Tina Kysella Fund was set up by the Tamura School PTO, the Jaycees and the Women's Club. The money will help the family pay heavy medical expenses not covered by health insurance.

the go-ahead was approved by a majority vote.

Among the plus factors, the council learned, were that increasing the fluoride content in city water from its present level of .45 part per million to one part per million would bring nearly a 30 percent improvement in the reduction of tooth decay in children.

Mrs. Carlberg said that the council also found that mottling from fluoridation occurs in less than one percent of the cases where there is one part per million in the water, and that mottling does not harm teeth. The council also found that fish life in the ocean would not be affected by the addition of fluoride in local supplies.

he negative aspects were that care would be needed in handling the chemical and that because of the nature of the city's water system, injection of the fluorides would have to be monitored at 12 points rather than at one central point.

President Meets With Aerospace Industry Chiefs

President Nixon met this morning with more than a dozen leaders in the aerospace industry and members of the scientific community in a concerted effort to stave off the massive unemployment which has hit that profession in recent months.

эспоог эпрегішениені Outlines District Cuts

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Jack Roper, superintendent of the 52square-mile Huntington Beach Union High School District, today outlined cuts that will go into effect this July if the district is unsuccessful in passing a tax increase by then.

He said students at Westminster, Huntington Beach, Fountain Valley, Edison and Marina high schools will have to go with as many as eight fewer semester courses and face a reduced choice of electives.

By law, the school district's tax rate will revert to the state minimum of 85 cents unless voters approve the $2.08 rate in an election scheduled June 15. The district has already twice failed to gain voter approval of the $2.08 rate, up 69 cents from the current $1.39 tax rate.

Roper further said the 85-cent rate would compel the district to cut to five the maximum number of class periods a student may take.

Under, the current budget, students are allowed a maximum of six periods per day, with some able to take as many as seven periods' by combining classes with work-experience hours. Lowering the maximum of daily periods allowed each student means that the graduation requirements also will be lowered from 220 units to 200 units, said Roper.

"If we're forced to operate on the 85-cent tax rate for much time, I can easily see our having to reduce still further the maximum number of periods a student may take to 190 units," Roper predicted.

One unit of credit is given for each hour a week a class meets within one semester.

Yet another move the district plans to make if it is forced to work with the 85-cent budget, is to eliminate current requirements of three years of English and one year each of mathematics and science.

In addition, the four-year social studies requirement would be reduced to a yearand-a-half. It would then consist of one year of U.S. history and one half year of U.S. government.

Both U.S. history and U.S. government are required by state law, as are four years of physical education, according to Roper.

"Without this reduction in specific course requirements, students would be left without opportunities to take electives in other fields," the superintendent explained.

"A student seriously interested, in say, music or graphic arts would be frustrated in his attempts to pursue such an interest in a meaningful way."

In addition, Roper said the students will have fewer courses to choose from. He pointed out that the economics of running the district with an 85-cent tax rate would require cutting out courses which do not attract a substantial enrollment at any of the high schools.

"Exactly what the minimum enrollment would have to be, we don't know yet, but some courses are bound to be dropped," said Roper.

Hearing Delayed

An Orange County Superior Court hearing into lawsuits filed by the Huntington Beach police and firemen's associations was delayed Wednesday until April 12.

Presiding Judge William C. Speirs ordered the delay after learning that Judge Robert Banyard could not work what is expected to be a lengthy hearing into his limited law and motion calendar. A courtroom will be assigned for the hearing April 12.

Both associations want the court to set aside a City Council resolution of last Sept. 1 in which an 8.25 percent pay hike was ordered for all city employes. Both police and firemen want an 11 percent raise and they argue that the city should have continued discussions on the issue.

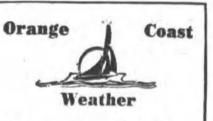

Both writs of mandate claim that City Council action violates a long standing agreement between the city and both associations and the Police Officers Association also asks for $650,000 in damages.

150-year Sentences

On Pushers Defeated

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) - A measure which would have provided 150year prison terms for drug sellers on a second conviction was killed Wednesday by the Nevada assembly.

"Pushers should be put away completely," said sponsor Dave Branch, adding that 1,700 years wasn't too long in jail for someone who would "sell drugs to our children." The measure was killed on a 19-15 vote.

It may not be quite so warm along the Coast Friday, but the morning fog will still be with us. Look for temperatures in the 67 to 77-degree range.

College Candidates Speak

Six of the eight candidates for three seats on the Coast Community College District board of trustees Wednesday night addressed an audience of about 70 in the Estancia High School Forum, Costa Mesa.

The Coast College candidates joined a panel of hopefuls in the Newport-Mesa Unified School District trustee race in a candidates' forum arranged by the Orange Coast League of Women Voters and the American Association of University Women.

Each candidate was allotted five minutes to speak. A question period followed the prepared remarks. The Coast Community College District

Campaign to Slow Huntington Apartments Pushed

By ALAN DIRKIN of the Daily Pilot Staff

A vast project to revise the master plan and slow the spread of apartments in Huntington Beach is being hurried along by the planning commission.

The change will involve reclassifying numerous apartment zones in the city to single family home areas and slashing the maximum densities in apartment developments.

The mater plan revision could reduce population goals for the city, presently projected at 300,000.

The commission already has adopted new standards for apartment zones that will cut the number of units that can be built per acre by about one third. The standards als are designed to improve the appearance of apartments by increasing setbacks and open space.

In the R2 apartment zone the maximum units per acre has been chopped from 21.8 to 14.5 and in the R3 zone

Classroom Staffing

Ocean View Selected To Test New Concept

Ocean View School District officials today learned that they are among five California school districts chosen to test a new concept in classroom staffing.

The five-year study, approved by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles, will allow four of the schools to use combinations of teachers, teacher aides and persons from the community to reduce the adult-learner ratio.

District Superintendent Clarence Hall said the pilot program will actually allow the participating schools to dispense with state-mandated staff requirements.

Other districts named to participate in the experiment are N e w p o r t - M e s a Unified, San Jose, Cupertino and Fresno.

"With the waiver of these restrictions, we will be able to place as many adults in the classroom as we consider effective," said Dr. Hall. "At the moment we do not know exactly how many per average classroom."

The new system will allow these schools to exceed the state required ratio of 30 students per teacher by making use of additional help.

This may be done by using part-time teachers, teacher aides, aide coordinators and volunteers.

Volunteer duties will range from implementing teacher-planned activities to making up specific lessons for people.

Another school plays host to sprightly 82-year-old grandmother who comes to school two hours a day to tutor fifth grade math. Also present are college students who work with teachers in preparing classes ranging from physical education to drama.

"What a wealth of talent we have found in our school community," said Ocean View Trustee Robert Zinngrabe. "Being able to bring these people into our classrooms in increasing numbers will be of untold benefit for our children.

"Our California school districts have been operating under rather rigid staffing requirements. For four Ocean View schools the waiver of these requirements will allow them to enrich the curriculum with people as well as subject matter," he added.

Supt. Hall will announce the schools to participate in the program this June.

urging clemency.

"If President Nixon sees fit not to listen to the thousands. of telegrams that already have been sent to him, we are prepared to march on Washington," Cammarota said.

Robert Cadle, a retired Army sergeant who says the verdict was "a lot of bull," said Wednesday he and a "Free Calley Committee" with branches in all states but Hawaii will lead 50,000 people in a march on Washington after a petition drive. 'This whole thing has boomeranged all out of proportion," Cadle said. "People call in and they cuss, cuss, cuss. Are they mad. I've never seen anything like this verdict in my life." All the members of local Selective Service Boards in Elizabethton, Tenn., and Athens and Blairsville, Ga., resigned. Members of the Quitman, Ga., board wired Nixon they would not induct any more men. "This is the worst thing that's ever happened in the United States," said Robert E. Caldwell, chairman of the Blairsville board. Sam Mottern, chairman of the Elizabethton Board, said after the Calley verdict he could no longer perform his dutles "without a complete surrender of principle and conviction." In Richlands, Va., response to a radio station's poll on Calley's guilt was so heavy Wednesday that telephone circuits broke down temporarily. Some listeners then drove to the station to vote. The total showed only three of 688 votes favored Calley's conviction. A Davenport, Iowa, television station conducted a 90-minute poll on the verdict. Twenty-three of 981 persons responding favored the court martial decision. The Indiana House of Representatives passed a resolution Wednesday calling for steps "to correct the injustice that we firmly believe has been perpetrated. . ." a resolution asking the President for clemency was before the Illinois legislature and the Salt Lake City Commission approved a resolution, with a copy to the President, condemning the conviction. High school students in southeast Kentucky began circulating petitions protesting the conviction and 250 Belleville, Ill., high school students marched five miles with signs comdemning the verdict. Veterans organizations around the nation protested the decision and requested various actions, including clemency and an investigation of the court martial verdict. In Washington, the nation's elected representatives joined the chorus of comment.

These new standards cover all complexes in non-ocean oriented property. They also apply only to the larger complexes, those over 15,000 square feet or about six units.

Assistant Planning Director Dick Harlow said today that these standards are presently being used as "guidelines" for apartment developments but the commission has asked for them to put into ordinance form.

technological society and general courses of interest to the community at large." Oliver urged bilingual counseling for culturally disadvantaged students, expanded programs for returning student veterans, 1 m p r o v e d administrative services for the evening division, development of short courses leading to job skills and retraining and career counseling for the unemployed.

Robert L. Humphreys, 44, an attorney, of 1500 Adams Ave., Costa Mesa is seeking his third term.

He noted that the district's state aid share has shrunk since 1948, when he was a student at Orange Coast College and when the district was the wealthlest in California.

"The statewide property tax proposal certainly gets our support in view of the facilities and school finance problems we've faced in the past 10 years," Humphreys said. "It's difficult to cut costs without cutting quality."

Enriqueta L. Ramos, 38, a Fountain Valley High School teacher, of 17294 Peppertree St., Fountain Valley, called for a "more diversified board" — one that includes a woman. She is challenging incumbent William Kettler in Huntington Beach - Fountain Valley.

She said the most important goal of the college district is to bring the college closer to the community and find ways to "stretch the dollars to serve everybody in the community."

Mrs. Ramos urged development of child care centers on the campus which would allow young mothers to enroll.

Donald G. Hoff, 52, quality assurance specialist of 14842 Harper St., Midway City, said the colleges "should prepare students so that he or she is equipped to meet life's problems as he knows them." Hoss is the incumbent representing the Westminster area.

He cited the education code strictures the board must live within concerning finance. Despite these, the district has "maintained a low per student cost but built an educational program that has attracted national attention and is a model for others in the nation," he said. Charles Dagion, 24, a Golden West student, of 15225 Jackson St., Midway City, said the colleges "are not servicing the students or the community as well as they could." He is challenging Hoff. Although he is "an ecology nut" Dagion said the district could not afford development of an environmental working model, a job he said should be handled by state colleges or the university system. Dagion said "taped lectures" don't allow students to ask questions. He urged combining the day and evening administrations. The district's television station development also should be handled by the state colleges, Dagion said. William Kettler, of 623 Seventh St., Huntington Beach, said that compared to the 68 community college districts in California in 1969-70 whose per student costs average $806, oCast College District spends $755 per student. Kettler is the incumbent in area three (Huntington Beach - Fountain Valley). He cited the value of his having grown up in Huntington Beach as being of importance "particularly since financial decisions affecting the college are largely political. I have come to know most of the people making those decisions," Kettler said. -The two teacher candidates, Mrs. Ramos and Oliver both agreed tenure should be abolished. The three incumbents noted that finding a way of instituting accountability for performance is difficult.

"They will come up for a public hearing and possible adoption on April 20," he said.

The new standards and promised review of the master plan grew out of recommendations of the city's multi density committee, headed by Planning Commissioner Henry Duke.

They also follow months of pressure from homeowners at council and planning commission meetings who have steadily protested new apartment developments and high density problems.

Residents in east and southeast Huntington Beach have been the most vocal. This sector, called the Talbert Valley, will be the first area studied in the master plan revision.

Revision of the master plan has been adopted as the commission's priority project for 1971.

For the moment, the commission is excluding a mile-deep ocean-oriented area stretching from the adopted r o ut e of the Pacific Coast Freeway to the Coast Highway and from Beach Boulevard to Huntington Harbour from the revision.

But the commissioners have set up a list of other areas where the land use will be revised.

First will be the heavily populated Talbert Valley east of Beach Boulevard and from Garfield Avenue south; second will be the land west of Edwards Street and north of the Coast Freeway route and third will be the area east of Edwards Street and north of the freeway line. The coastal zone will be looked at after the other studies have been completed.

The commission will hold a study session on revising the master plan for Talbert Valley in the "very near" future, possibly April 13, according to Harlow. The commission also has drawn up a whole range of projects for 1971.

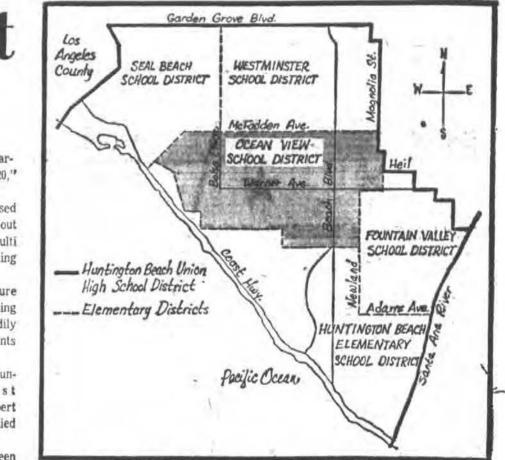

They include: —Setting up provisions for a special use permit, instead of a conditional exception, to cover applications for churches, day schools and zero sideyards on apartment complexes.

-Reviewing and replanning the central industrial area.

-Establishing multiple family standards and traffic patterns downtown. -Improving the street scene with new appearance standards for walls along tracts.

-Reviewing the future role of "factory built" modular housing in the city. There are presently no low-cost housing zones in Huntington Beach. -Studying new guidelines for housing tracts to avoid "stereotype_development" and grid street patterns. -Establishing areas for larger, R1 single family lots.

Voter Service

Pilot to Present Profile Series on Board Hopefuls

As a service to voters, the DAILY PILOT will publish profiles of candidates in the local school board elections.

The special, "Know Your Candidates" series will represent a cooperative effort between the DAILY PILOT and the League of Women Voters of Huntington Beach.

The league, a nonpartisan organization, asked the candidates in the high school and elementary district elections for their views on four topics.

The series will cover the races in the Fountain Valley, Huntington Beach City and Ocean View elementary districts and the Huntington Beach Union High School District. Separate analyses of the contests in the Seal Beach and Westminster elementary districts and the Coast Community College District will be published before the April 20 trustee elections.

The series will begin Friday with profiles of the three Ocean View candidates. It will continue Monday and Tuesday, April 5-6, with the answers of the five candidates in the Fountain Valley race followed April 7-8 with a breakdown of the six contestants in the Huntington Beach City district. The series on the 17 runners in the Huntington Beach Union High School District race will begin Friday, April 9 and continue through Friday, April An average of three candidates a day will be presented. The series will not run on Saturdays. In addition to this detailed coverage, the DAILY PILOT is also reporting the issues that emerge at the several candidates' nights being held in West Orange County. As the campaigns near their close, the editorial board of the newspaper will weigh the information gathered and endorse candidates. These recommendations to voters will be printed in editorials on Page 6. The League of Women voters does not support or oppose candidates, or political parties. It prepared the questionnaire simply to give each candidate the opportunity to state his views and to promote citizen participation in government, according to Mrs. Ann Moreland, who headed the project this year.

The questions which candidates were asked to answer in 500 words or less are:

-What specific changes in program or policy would you like to see undertaken by the school board during the next four years?

-What are your feelings on unification?

-What are your feelings on teacher tenure?

--What are your feelings on how either the voucher system or statewide property tax or both of these financing proposals would affect local school districts?

Unification means combining elementary and high school districts into one administration and board. School district territories not in a unified district must hold an election on the reorganization of boundaries for the purpose of unification by June 1972.

Teacher tenure relates to the system whereby a teacher can become a permanent employe after serving a probationary period of three years. Tenured teachers may be dismissed for cause only. The voucher system refers to a proposal in which the federal or state government would give the parents of students a check to be spent only on education but at the school of the parents' choice, either private or public. A proposed statewide property tax would be levied equally between all property taxpayers to be distributed to school districts on the basis of need to equalize support between the rich and poor districts.

Bank Lowers Rates

LONDON (AP) — Britain today relaxed its tight money policy and lowered the Bank of England's lending rate from 7 percent to 6 percent. The rate had been the second highest in Europe, exceeded only by Denmark's 8 percent. The British rate had stood at 7 percent since last April 15. The reduction was seen as an attempt to stimulate the flagging economy, which has resulted in nearly 800,000 unemployed.

Walk on Beach Spawned Decision by Nixon

Nixon Considers Freeing Beach

President Nixon was reported Wednesday in San Clemente to be preparing shortly to open for public use a strip of Waikiki Beach in Hawaii, which is now run by the Navy as a recreation area for Vietnam servicemen.

The beachfront, owned by the federal government at an estimated cost of $100 million, is located at Fort De Russy and lies between the Hawaiian Village and the Reef Hotel.

John Ehrlichman, the President's

President Nixon said fondly Wednesday that a walk on his beach at Cotton's Point spawned his decision to open onethird of Camp Pendleton shoreline to public use.

"I remember that walk, and thinking about the millions of residents of California who don't have enough beaches to walk on," he related.

Then, he said his mind turned downcoast to Camp Pendleton-a stretch of shoreline clearly visible from Cotton's Point.

"Here is a beach within an hour's driving distance for 10 million residents of Southern California," he added. A year ago, he related, his office launched a plan through the General Services Administration and a property review board which he established after taking office to sift over the thousands of deeds of federal land.

The land better used for public recreation, he said, would be turned over to public use.

And the Camp Pendleton decision, he said, would be the first of many similar ones he added.

President Nixon, and his aides joined a pool of press representatives for a 20 minute flight by helicopter over the new public beaches Wednesday morning and termed the area "simply wonderful," During the flyover he offered sug-

But he also gave some opinions on the environmental preservation of the tidelands and beaches themselves.

The President turned to domestic policy coordinator John Erlichmann and asked about the prowess of the California Department of Parks and Recreation in the field of environmental preservation.

Erlichmann responded that the reputation of that agency was good.

"Then I'm sure they won't clutter

it up," the President said.

Looking over the area of the new San Onofre Bluffs State Beach, he predicted thousands of visitors to the rough, undeveloped area during this weekend's dedication rites.

The beach, which forms more than half of the land planned for public use at Pendleton, will open for one week only during Easter Week.

The President's decision Wednesday marked what easily could be the most significant deed immediately affecting the San Clemente area coastline since he bought the old Cotton Estate in 1969.

"Just think," he mused, "if I hadn't taken that walk, maybe nothing would have happened today."

Beach Giveaway Just the Beginning

By JOHN VALTERZA Of the Daily Pilot State

With a stroke of his pen Wednesday President Nixon shook the sanctity of the Camp Pendleton lands, opening up six miles of beaches and more than 3,000 acres of a prime valley for public use.

And later the chief executive declared the landmark decision in favor of open space was only the beginning of a vast federal program for housecleaning of surplus government real estate.

The affected area is within sight of the Western White House.

The blockbuster decision involves a coveted enlisted man's beach club and a private surfing club-long the object of criticism, along with the shoreline in front of the San Onofre nuclear generating complex and the new San Onofre Bluffs State Beach south of that.

Besides the prime coastal land-described by the President as "one of the country's last great swimming beaches" - the directive covers 3,000 acres of San Mateo Valley immediately south of the San Clemente City limits and the Orange-San Diego County line.

The new public beach will start about 1.000 feet south of the Presidential complex, bounded downcoast by the county boundary. The Trestles beach will be the buffer zone requested by the Secret Service-a no-man's land for security purposes.

Immediately south of that area the boundary begins for the new public beach.

Almost adjacent to that boundary is the enlisted man's club, a complex of Spanish-style buildings and permanent beach use structures - all of which will be given to the state of California for recreational or office use as it sees fit.

The San Onofre Surfing Club area is next, situated on a point well known for its excellent surf.

The next downcoast facility is the San Onofre Nuclear reactor complex, with its one existing station (two more are proposed for next door). The reactor land area will be closed to the public, but the shoreline seaward of the towering sea wall will be open.

Directly south of that complex lies the line where the new San Onofre Bluffs State Beach begins. It will be dedicated Saturday.

That section, leased to the state of California last year after tough negotiations with the Marine Corps, is 3.5 miles long.

Computing the 3.5 miles of that beach and blufftop with the new areas opened up by the Presidential order, the length of the new public beach will be six miles long.

$ $ $ 23 23 2 Big Questions Follow Glee at Beach Turnover

Reaction from the city of San Clemente and the state of California to President Nixon's offer of six miles of new beach and an entire valley amounted to surprise and glee followed swiftly by some vexing questions.

City Manager Ken Carr termed the offer of the 3,000-acre San Mateo Canyon to San Clemente an "exciting idea." But because of no prior knowledge of the Presidential order offering the prime Marine base land, - Carr could not elaborate much farther.

The offer from the Federal Government is good only if either the city or the state use the land for public use.

As for the state reaction to the offer of the canyon and the huge chunk of Camp Pendleton beach, it is one of pleasure mixed with a tinge of bitterness and uncertainty.

What the President has done, said one top state parks official, is give a large chunk of obviously prime beach land to an agency whose budget is being decimated year by year.

"It's wonderful, but. . ." said Mervyn Filipponi, a state parks consultant from Sacramento.

"All of a sudden we have six miles of beach, some very attractive buildings and absolutely no money from the governor to use in its development," he said.

He stressed the irony of new windfalls of land from the federal government while state officials are cutting the parks and recreation budget to the bare bone.

State parks spokesmen repeatedly have said that money does not exist for the initial 3.5-mile San Onofre bluffs beach.

In fact, next week's seven-day inaugural use of the beach is the only way to raise enough funds to keep the park open.

Campers are being charged fees to use the virgin beach-the funds to go into a special account to cover expenses. If the state will have its fiscal problems with the six miles of beach, San Clemente would find itself, apparently, in a heavyweight tangle of legalities if it were to accept the San Meteo Canyon land.

Carr explained that under federal law, annexations of land across county lines are forbidden.

"If we were to try to annex the land, even for public use," Carr explained," then it would take an act of the State Legislature to make it legal." Judicial boundaries, and county boundaries would have to be changed as well. Both Carr and Filipponi said the news of the President's decision came as an "absolute, total surprise."

Local Park Plan Okayed

After more than a year of discussion, county supervisors Wednesday adopted a plan for the establishment of local neighborhood parks in developing unincorporated areas but admitted that the ordinance they approved could stand some future changes.

The plan fundamentally calls for four acres of local parks per 1.000 population but 1.5 acres can be provided by schools. The developer is required to provide the other 21/2 acres or money to purchase the property.

Principal objections to the plan came from Laguna Hills Leisure World and Mission Viejo developers. They mainlained that they should be given credit for private facilities provided in their planned communities.

Such credit is not provided for in the ordinance and will probably be the subject of future changes.

Supervisor David L. Baker said that where private recreation facilities are provided if the county requires an additional public neighborhood facility it would amount to a double burden on the property owners.

Supervisor Ronald Caspers agreed this was true if it was 100 percent mandatory that property owners finance and maintain recreational facilities "but where it is a 25 percent membership factor I don't think it suffices."

Mission Viejo executive Phil Charlton said his organization had three voluntary recreation facilities with about a 25 percent membership and in addition had installed seven neighborhood parks which average about 12.5 acres per 1,000 population.

He said he felt his company should have credit for these facilities in assessing the 21/2 acres per 1,000 formula.

Fulbright's Charge To White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), said "unless we are willing to go all the way" to the White House in seeking to assign blame for any Vietnam war atrocities by Americans, there is "a very serious question of going down this road."

Fulbright said "we are now being caught" by the same principles applied in trials of some Nazi and Japanese leaders on war crimes charges following World War II.

Many defendants in those trials contended they were following higher orders, or that they were unaware of atrocities committed by subordinates.

Lt. William L. Calley Jr., in his trial at Ft. Benning, Ga., on murder charges for the slaying of civilians at My Lai, South Vietnam, relied largely on the argument that he was following orders. The military jury convicted him and sentenced him to life imprisonment Wednesday.

Fulbright was asked about the Calley case and its implications today.

He was interviewed on the CBS morning news program on CBS-TV.

"The princpple that we applied to Yamashita should be applied here," Fulbright said.

During further questioning, he remarked: "I'm saying there's a very serious question of going down this road unless we are willing to go all the way. . .that means bringing in the commander in chief."

He said it was "quite questionable" to pick out one man - "if he's going to be the only one" - to bear principal responsibility for actions such as My Lai.

Egypt Units Fire Salvo Across Suez

By United Press International Egyptian troops opened fire across the Suez Canal, Israeli officials said Wednesday, but there were no injuries and Israeli troops did not fire back. It was the first shooting along the truce line since Aug. 12.

An Israeli spokesman said the Egyptians opened up with short bursts of machinegun fire Monday across the canal near the northern end of the waterway. There was no comment from Cairo on the incident, but only the Aug. 12 shopting has been reported since the Arab-Israeli cease-fire began Aug. 5.

In Amman, Jordan's King Hussein called for an urgent Arab summit conference to discuss the Palestinian issue and the overall situation in the Middle East. He cabled his proposal to leaders of the Arab nations Wednesday night as Jordan recovered from six days of renewed clashes between government troops and Palestinian guerrillas.

In the message, Hussein offered Jordan as a meeting site to discuss "the gravity of the situation and the serious circumstances besetting the Palestinian case." He said the conference also should be used to make a thorough study and to define responsibilities in the Middle East.

In Paris, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad ended his official visit to France by meeting President Georges Pompidou. Egyptian officials said he was happy with the results of the conference held with 18 Egyptian ambassadors to Europe held in Paris during the week and was encouraged by European support for Cairo's Middle East policies.

As an indication of the sentiment for ending the draft, the House Tuesday came within two votes of limiting the President's induction authority to just one more year.

The 200 to 198 vote was also an indication of increasing impatience in the House for an end to the Vietnam war.

'Fox' Crusader Strikes Again

BATAVIA, Ill. (UPI) - A clandestine antipollution crusader known as "The Fox" wants a local soap plant scrubbed clean Stickers signed by "The Fox" have turned up on bars of Dial soap at local stores, police said Wednesday.

The stickers read: "Armour Dial pollutes our air" and "Armour Dial pollutes our water.

Police said a clerk remembered a tall, slim man asking where the bar soap was stocked but could not give a more complete description.

In the past, "The Fox" has concentrated on plugging factory drains and otherwise harassing those he feels are guilty of fouling the environment.

tack Police said they found a gray wig, believed dropped by the assailant, on a landing on the staircase. The outgoing, consul, Robert Quintanilla Pereira, about 40, died from two pistol bullet wounds in the chest shortly after his admission to a city hospital. The Brazilian Embassy in Bonn said he had served as consul general in Hamburg from May 19, 1970, until Feb. 28, 1971. He was continuing to carry out consular duties at the consulate, which was also his residence, pending the arrival of a replacement. Quintanilla was living in the consulate with his 36-year-old wife and three children.

Soviet Party Leader Rips Into Chinese

MOSCOW (UPI) - A Soviet Communist Party leader, in a speech to the 24th Party Congress released today, condemned attempts by non-Soviet Communists to modify Marxist theory or set up "models" of socialist states different from the Soviet Union.

Pyotr M. Masherov, first secretary of Byelorussia's party organization, mentioned only Communist China by name. "Particularly repulsive is the anti-Soviet line of the Chinese leaders who calling themselves Communists have made their principal occupation the defamation of our Leninist Party and the Soviet experience of building Socialism."

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said the conference agreed on the importance of improving economic relations with West European nations.

Al Ahram also said Egypt has accused the Jordanian government of violating its peace agreements with the Palestinian guerrillas. The Egyptian viewpoint, delivered to Jordan by Egyptian ambassador Osman Nouri in Jordan, also urged an immediate end to bloodshed between the guerrillas and the army.

Calley Verdict Prompts Widespread Protest

By United Press International Three local draft boards resigned, at least three mass marches on Washington were being planned, and the White House was swamped with telegrams and telephone calls as Americans expressed their feelings about the conviction of Lt. William Calley.

Calley was convicted of the premeditated murder of 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai. He was sentenced Wednesday to life in prison.

the nation as Calley waited in the Ft. Benning stockade for a transfer to federal prison.

The White House, according to Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, had received more than 5,000 wires and 1,500 telephone calls concerning the conviction. They were running almost 100-1 in favor of clemency for Calley, he said.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., real estate man Walter J. Dilbeck said Wednesday

Reaction continued to mount around he and 100 "coordinators" around the nation were laying plans for a mass march on Washington July 4 on behalf of all GIs charged in the My Lai incident. "We intend to have one million people in Washington that day and we intend to stay there until these men are released," Dilbeck said.

> But another call to delay the program and submit the question to the electorate will be made Monday night. Jerry Bogart, head of the Huntington Beach Citizens for Pure Water, said today he will ask for a public vote.

His group collected 4,480 signatures on a petition requiring a referendum on fluoridation. The total was more than the 10 percent of the electorate required to put the issue on the general election ballot, but the petition was declared invalid because it did not meet a legal deadline

"I still believe we have shown that a sufficient number of people want to vote on it," Bogart commented.

He also disclosed that the pure water group has filed an intention to circulate petitions again if the request for the referendum is denied by the council.

Mrs. Margaret Carlberg, chairman of the Environment Council, said that her group considered the merits of fluoridation outweighted the disadvantages.

She explained that the Environmental Council had not planned to take a position on the issue, but at a meeting this week Dr. James Mason, head of the water quality committee, asked that one be made and the recommendation for the go-ahead was approved by a majority

Kids Perform Benefit Aids Tina Kysella Fund

A benefit performance of "Fractured Fairy Tales" will be given next Thursday by the Fountain Valley Community Theater for the Tina Kysella Fund.

The children's musical comedy will start at 1 p.m. in the community center, 10200 Slater Ave., Tickets are 50 cents with all proceeds helping to pay hospital expenses for the 12-year-old Tamura School girl.

While the special hospital fund is growing - it's now over the $1,500 mark - Tina is still listed in critical condition at Hoag Memorial Hospital.

She was hospitalized March 18 with a hemorrhage near the brain stem. Doctors at the hospital said she came out of her coma this week, but is still under intensive care

For ticket information on the "Fractured Fairytale" performance phone Mrs. Richard Gillium, 847-1475. Tickets can also be obtained at the door.

The Tina Kysella Fund was set up by the Tamura School PTO, the Jaycees and the Women's Club. The money will help the family pay heavy medical expenses not covered by health insurance.

Among the plus factors, the council learned, were that increasing the fluoride content in city water from its present level of .45 part per million to one part per million would bring nearly a 30 percent improvement in the reduction of tooth decay in children.

Mrs. Carlberg said that the council also found that mottling from fluoridation occurs in less than one percent of the cases where there is one part per million in the water, and that mottling does not harm teeth. The council also found that fish life in the ocean would not be affected by the addition of fluoride in local supplies.

The negative aspects were that care would be needed in handling the chemical and that because of the nature of the city's water system, injection of the fluorides would have to be monitored at 12 points rather than at one central point.

President Meets With Aerospace Industry Chiefs

President Nixon met this morning with more than a dozen leaders in the aerospace industry and members of the scientific community in a concerted effort to stave off the massive unemployment which has hit that profession in recent months.

No immediate results of the meeting were available at mid-morning from Nixon aides.

Included in the group which met with the President in his San Clemente office were members of large western colleges and universities, manufacturers, and representatives of the hard-hit aerospace industry itself.

Outlines District Cuts

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI the Daily Pilot Staff

Jack Roper, superintendent of the 52square-mile Huntington Beach Union High School District, today outlined cuts that will go into effect this July if the district is unsuccessful in passing a tax increase by then.

He said students at Westminster, Huntington Beach, Fountain Valley, Edison and Marina high schools will have to go with as many as eight fewer semester courses and face a reduced choice of electives.

By law, the school district's tax rate will revert to the state minimum of 85 cents unless voters approve the $2.08 rate in an election scheduled June 15. The district has already twice failed to gain voter approval of the $2.08 rate, up 69 cents from the current $1.39 tax rate.

Roper further said the 85-cent rate would compel the district to cut to five the maximum number of class periods a student may take.

Under the current budget, students are allowed a maximum of six periods per day, with some able to take as many as seven periods by combining classes with work-experience hours.

Lowering the maximum of daily periods allowed each student means that the graduation requirements also will be lowered from 220 units to 200 units, said Roper

"If we're forced to operate on the 85-cent tax rate for much time. I can easily see our having to reduce still further the maximum number of periods a student may take to 190 units," Roper predicted.

One unit of credit is given for each hour a week a class meets within one semester

Yet another move the district plans to make if it is forced to work with the 85-cent budget, is to eliminate current requirements of three years of English and one year each of mathematics and science.

In addition, the four-year social studies requirement would be reduced to a yearand-a-half. It would then consist of one year of U.S. history and one half year of U.S. government.

Both U.S. history and U.S. government are required by state law, as are four years of physical education, according to Roper.

"Without this reduction in specific course requirements, students would be left without opportunities to take electives in other fields." the superintendent explained.

"A student seriously interested, in say, music or graphic arts would be frustrated in his attempts to pursue such an interest in a meaningful way."

In addition, Roper said the students will have fewer courses to choose from. He pointed out that the economics of running the district with an 85-cent tax rate would require cutting out courses which do not attract a substantial enrollment at any of the high schools.

"Exactly what the minimum enrollment would have to be, we don't know yet, but some courses are bound to be dropped," said Roper.

Hearing Delayed

UPI Telephot

An Orange County Superior Court hearing into lawsuits filed by the Huntington Beach police and firemen's associations was delayed Wednesday until April 12.

Presiding Judge William C. Speirs ordered the delay after learning that Judge Robert Banyard could not work what is expected to be a lengthy hearing into his limited law and motion calendar. A courtroom will be assigned for the hearing April 12.

Both associations want the court to set aside a City Council resolution of last Sept. 1 in which an 8.25 percent pay hike was ordered for all city employes. Both police and firemen want an 11 percent raise and they argue that the city should have continued discussions on the issue.

Both writs of mandate claim that City Council action violates a long standing agreement between the city and both associations and the Police Officers Association also asks for $650,000 in damages.

6 of 8 Tell Views College Candidates Speak

Six of the eight candidates for three seats on the Coast Community College District board of trustees Wednesday night addressed an audience of about 70 in the Estancia High School Forum, Costa Mesa.

The Coast College candidates joined a panel of hopefuls in the Newport-Mesa Unified School District trustee race in a. candidates' forum arranged by the Orange Coast League of Women Voters and the American Association of University Women.

Each candidate was allotted five minutes to speak.

A question period followed the prepared remarks

The Coast Community College District is made up of the Huntington Beach Union High and Newport-Mesa Unified School Districts. It operates two, twoyear college campuses, Golden West College in Huntington Beach and Orange Coast College in Costa Mesa.

Three of the district's five trustee areas are listed on the April' 20 ballot area two (Westminster Elementary School District) area three (Hunfington Beach and Fountain Valley Elementary districts) and area four (the efty of Costa Mesa).

While candidates must reside in the area they seek to represent, trustees are elected at large by all voters in the district.

The two candidates not in attendance were Barbara Bell, an advertising representative of 5031 Quail Circle, Huntington Beach, who is challenging incumbent Wiliiam Kettler in area three (Huntington Beach-Fountain Valley) and William T. Unger Jr., a student, who lists his address as 2211 Rutgers Drive. Costa Mesa. Unger is seeking the area four seat (Costa Mesa) held by Robert L. Humphreys.

Campaign to Slow Huntington Apartments Pushed

A vast project to revise the master plan and slow the spread of apartments in Huntington Beach is being hurried along by the planning commission.

The change will involve reclassifying numerous apartment zones in the city to single family home areas and slashing the maximum densities in apartment developments.

The mater plan revision could reduce population goals for the city, presently projected at 300,000.

The commission already has adopted new standards for apartment zones that will cut the number of units that can be built per acre by about one third. The standards als are designed to improve the appearance of apartments by increasing setbacks and open space. In the R2 apartment zone the maximum units per acre has been chopped from 21.8 to 14.5 and in the R3 zone

Classroom Staffing

Ocean View Selected To Test New Concept

Ocean View School District officials today learned that they are among five California school districts chosen to test a new concept in classroom staffing.

The five-year study, approved by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles, will allow four of the schools to use combinations of teachers, teacher aides and persons from the community to reduce the adult-learner ratio.

District Superintendent Clarence Hall said the pilot program will actually allow the participating schools to dispense with state-mandated staff requirements.

Other districts named to participate in the experiment are Newport-Mesa Unified, San Jose, Cupertino and Fresno.

"With the waiver of these restrictions, we will be able to place as many adults in the classroom as we consider effective," said Dr. Hall. "At the moment we do not know exactly how many per average classroom."

The new system will allow these schools to exceed the state required ratio of 30 students per teacher by making use of additional help.

This may be done by using part-time teachers, teacher aides, aide coordinators and volunteers.

Dads Slate Visit To Kindergarten

Some awfully big kids are going to fill the tiny chairs tonight dergarten classrooms of LeBard School in Huntington Beach. Fathers of the school's 109 kindergarten tots will take their places at the chalk boards for two hours to see if they can fill their children's shoes. Class starts at 6:30 p.m. and the dads had better be on time. Three kindergarten teachers are going to put them through the paces of a regular class day. From finger painting to group singing the dads are going back to school way back.

One school, already has a volunteer father who comes in twice weekly to instruct a seventh grade drafting class. Another school plays host to sprightly 82-year-old grandmother who comes to school two hours a day to tutor fifth grade math. Also present are college students who work with teachers in preparing classes ranging from physical education to drama.

"What a wealth of talent we have found in our school community," said Ocean View Trustee Robert Zinngrabe. "Being able to bring these people into our classrooms in increasing numbers will be of untold benefit for our children.

"Our California school districts have been operating under rather rigid staffing requirements. For four Ocean View schools the waiver of these requirements will allow them to enrich the curriculum with people as well as subject matter," he added.

Supt. Hall will announce the schools to participate in the program this June.

urging clemency.

"If President Nixon sees fit not to listen to the thousands of telegrams that already have been sent to him, we are prepared to march on Washington," Cammarota said.

Robert Cadle, a retired Army sergeant who says the verdict was "a lot of bull," said Wednesday he and a "Free Calley Committee" with branches in all states but Hawaii will lead 50,000 people in a march on Washington after a petition drive. "This whole thing has boomeranged all out of proportion," Cadle said. "People call in and they cuss, cuss, cuss. Are they mad. I've never seen anything like this verdict in my life." All the members of local Selective Service Boards in Elizabethton, Tenn. and Athens and Blairsville, Ga., resigned. Members of the Quitman, Ga., board wired Nixon they would not induct any more men. "This is the worst thing that's ever happened in the United States," said Robert E. Caldwell, chairman of the Blairsville board. Sam Mottern, chairman of the Elizabethton Board, said after the Calley verdict he could no longer perform his duties "without a complete surrender of principle and conviction." In Richlands, Va., response to a radio station's poll on Calley's guilt was so heavy Wednesday that telephone circuits broke down temporarily. Some listeners then drove to the station to vote. The total showed only three of 688 votes favored Calley's conviction. A Davenport, Iowa, television station conducted a 90-minute poll on the verdict. Twenty-three of 981 persons responding favored the court martial decision. The Indiana House of Representatives passed a resolution Wednesday calling for steps "to correct the injustice that we firmly believe has been perpetrated. ... " a resolution asking the President for clemency was before the Illinois legislature and the Salt Lake City Commission approved a resolution, with a copy to the President, condemning the conviction. High school students in southeast Kentucky began circulating petitions protesting the conviction and 250 Belleville, Ill., high school students marched five miles with signs comdemning the verdict. Veterans organizations around the nation protested the decision and requested various actions, including clemency and an investigation of the court martial technological society and general courses of interest to the community at large." Oliver urged bilingual counseling for culturally disadvantaged students, expanded programs for returning student veterans, improved administrative services for the evening division, development of short courses leading to job skills and retraining and career counseling for the unemployed.

Robert L. Humphreys, 44, an attorney, of 1500 Adams Ave., Costa Mesa is seeking his third term.

He noted that the district's state aid share has shrunk since 1948, when he was a student at Orange Coast College and when the district was the wealthiest in California.

"The statewide property tax proposal certainly gets our support in view of the facilities and school finance problems we've faced in the past 10 years," Humphreys said. "It's difficult to cut costs without cutting quality."

Enriqueta L. Ramos, 38, a Fountain Valley High School teacher, of 17294 Peppertree St., Fountain Valley, called for a "more diversified board" - one that includes a woman. She is challenging incumbent William Kettler in Huntington Beach - Fountain Valley.

She said the most important goal of the college district is to bring the college closer to the community and find ways to "stretch the dollars to serve everybody in the community."

Mrs. Ramos urged development of child care centers on the campus which would allow young mothers to enroll. Donald G. Hoff, 52, quality assurance specialist of 14842 Harper St., Midway City, said the colleges "should prepare students so that he or she is equipped to meet life's problems as he knows them." Hoss is the incumbent representing the Westminster area. He cited the education code strictures the board must live within concerning finance. Despite these, the district has "maintained a low per student cost but built an educational program that has attracted national attention and is a model for others in the nation," he said.

"They will come up for a public hearing and possible adoption on April 20," he said.

The new standards and promised review of the master plan grew out of recommendations of the city's multi density committee, headed by Planning Commissioner Henry Duke.

They also follow months of pressure from homeowners at council and planning commission meetings who have steadily protested new apartment developments and high density problems.

Residents in east and southeast Huntington Beach have been the most vocal. This sector, called the Talbert Valley, will be the first area studied in the master plan revision.

Revision of the master plan has been adopted as the commission's priority project for 1971.

For the moment, the commission is excluding a mile-deep ocean-oriented area stretching from the adopted r o ut e of the Pacific Coast Freeway to the Coast Highway and from Beach Boulevard to Huntington Harbour from the revision.

But the commissioners have set up a list of other areas where the land use will be revised.

First will be the heavily populated Talbert Valley east of Beach Boulevard and from Garfield Avenue south; second will be the land west of Edwards Street and north of the Coast Freeway route and third will be the area east of Edwards Street and north of the freeway line. The coastal zone will be looked at after the other studies have been completed.

The commission will hold a study session on revising the master plan for Talbert Valley in the "very near" future, possibly April 13, according to Harlow.

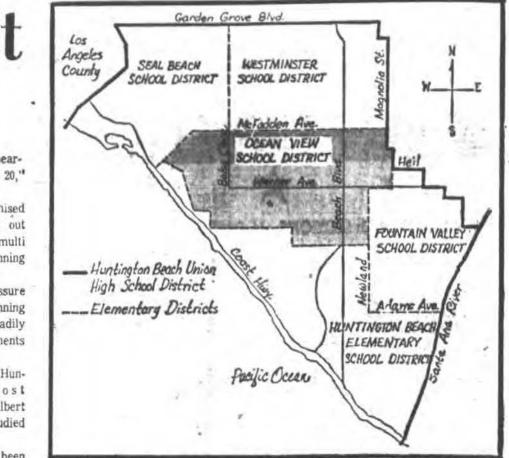

The commission also has drawn up a whole range of projects for 1971. They include:

-Setting up provisions for a special use permit, instead of a conditional exception, to cover applications for churches, day schools and zero sideyards on apartment complexes.

-Reviewing and replanning the central industrial area. -Establishing multiple family standards and traffic patterns downtown. -Improving the street scene with new appearance standards for walls along tracts.

-Reviewing the future role of "factory built" modular housing in the city. There are presently no low-cost housing zones in Huntington Beach.

Pilot to Present Profile Series on Board Hopefuls

PILOT will publish profiles of candidates in the local school board elections.

The special, "Know Your Candidates" series will represent a cooperative effort between the DAILY PILOT and the League of Women Voters of Huntington Beach.

The league, a nonpartisan organization, asked the candidates in the high school and elementary district elections for their views on four topics.

The series will cover the races in the Fountain Valley, Huntington Beach City and Ocean View elementary districts and the Huntington Beach Union High School District. Separate analyses of the contests in the Seal Beach and Westminster elementary districts and the Coast Community College District will be published before the April 20 trustee elections.

The series will begin Friday with profiles of the three Ocean View candidates. It will continue Monday and Tuesday, April 5-6, with the answers of the five candidates in the Fountain Valley race followed April 7-8 with a breakdown of the six contestants in the Huntington

As a service to voters, the DAILY Moreland, who headed the project this vear.

> The questions which candidates were asked to answer in 500 words or less are:

> -What specific changes in program or policy would you like to see undertaken by the school board during the next four years?

-What are your feelings on unification?

-What are your feelings on teacher tenure?

-What are your feelings on how either the voucher system or statewide property tax or both of these financing proposals would affect local school districts?

Unification means combining elementary and high school districts into one administration and board. School district territories not in a unified district must hold an election on the reorganization of boundaries for the purpose of unification by June 1972.

Teacher tenure relates to the system whereby a teacher can become a permanent employe after serving a probationary period of three years. Tenured leachers may be dismissed for cause only. The voucher system refers to a proposal in which the federal or state government would give the parents of students a check to be spent only on education but at the school of the parents' choice, either private or public. A proposed statewide property tax would be levied equally between all property taxpayers to be distributed to school districts on the basis of need to equalize support between the rich and poor districts.

verdict. In Washington, the nation's elected representatives joined the chorus of comment.

Charles Dagion, 24, a Golden West student, of 15225 Jackson St., Midway City, said the colleges "are not servicing the students or the community as well as they could." He is challenging Hoff. Although he is "an ecology nut", Dagion said the district could not afford development of an environmental working model, a job he said should be handled by state colleges or the university system.

Dagion said "taped lectures" don't allow students to ask questions. He urged combining the day and evening administrations.

The district's television station development also should be handled by the state colleges, Dagion said.

William Kettler, of 623 Seventh St., Huntington Beach, said that compared to the 68 community college districts in California in 1969-70 whose per student costs average $806, oCast College District spends $755 per student. Kettler is the incumbent in area three (Huntington Beach - Fountain Valley).

He cited the value of his having grown up in Huntington Beach as being of importance "particularly since financial decisions affecting the college are largely political. I have come to know most of the people making those decisions," Kettler said.

The two teacher candidates, Mrs. Ramos and Oliver both agreed tenure should be abolished. The three incumbents noted that finding a way of instituting accountability for performance is difficult.

BULLETIN

President Nixon sent a personal order to officials at Fort Benning, Ga., this afternoon ordering Lt. William Calley taken from the base stockade and confined to quarters for a period which could last for a month.

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Ziegler said the measure was not a "legal step" but instead was a personal choice made by the President at 12:30 p.m.

By United Press International

Three local draft boards resigned, at least three mass marches on Washington were being planned, and the White House was swamped with telegrams and telephone calls as Americans expressed their feelings about the conviction of Lt. William Calley.

Calley was convicted of the premeditated murder of 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai. He was sentenced Wednesday to life in prison.

Reaction continued to mount around the nation as Calley waited in the Ft. Benning stockade for a transfer to federal prison.

The White House, according to Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, had received more than 5,000 wires and 1,500 telephone calls concerning the conviction. They were running almost 100-1 in favor of clemency for Calley, he said.

with a 3.7 mark. Some Orange County residents reported noticing the later, stronger jolt, which was strongest in the Northridge and Devonshire areas of the hard-hit San Fernando Balley.

The heavy aftershock that came at 5:54 p.m. Wednesday, about eight miles from the epicenter of the disaster two months ago, was the worst yet.

The epicenter was directly under a heavily populated area, according to Caltech seismologist Dr. John Nordquist. Six persons suffered minor injuries, while canned goods and bottles tumbled from store shelves, glass windows shattered and plaster fell from ceilings.

The Los Angeles Police Department's Devonshire Division suffered extensive damage

"If it had happened five minutes later, we might have had some injuries," said Lt. Dan Sullivan, noting the roll call room would have been full of patrolmen at muster. - A. MINA.

Six minor fires were also reported, along with some new but minor damage to the county's 48-inch Granada Trunk Line carrying water into the area.

While candidates must reside in the area they seek to represent, trustees are elected at large by all voters in the district.

The two candidates not in attendance were Barbara Bell, an advertising representative of 5031 Quail Circle, Huntington Beach, who is challenging incumbent Wiliiam Kettler in area three (Huntington Beach-Fountain Valley) and William T. Unger Jr., a student, who lists his address as 2211 Rutgers Drive. Costa Mesa. Unger is seeking the area four seat (Costa Mesa) held by Robert L. Humphreys.

Here is some of what the candidates had to sav:

Richard L. Oliver, 45, of 149 E. Bay St., Costa Mesa, a systems analyst and evening college instructor is challenging Humphreys.

Oliver said the community college should provide "general academic core programs for two-year training in a trade to match the increasingly technological society and general courses of interest to the community at large."

Oliver urged bilingual counseling for culturally disadvantaged students, expanded programs for returning student veterans, improved administrative services for the evening division, development of short courses leading to job skills and retraining and career counseling for the unemployed.

Robert L. Humphreys, 44, an attorney, of 1500 Adams Ave., Costa Mesa is seeking his third term.

He noted that the district's state aid share has shrunk since 1948, when he was a student at Orange Coast College and when the district was the wealthiest in California.

One of the hardest-hit homes was that of Hal Sanders, who escaped with minor damage in the Feb. 9 quake that killed 65 persons and caused millions of dollars in damage.

Such tremors in the wake of a major quake are almost always lesser in intensity, but several have been recorded at over 3.0 on the Richter Scale.

more than a dozen leaders in the aerospace industry and members of the scientific community in a concerted effort to stave off the massive unemployment which has hit that profession in recent months.

No immediate results of the meeting were available at mid-morning from Nixon aides.

Included in the group which met with the President in his San Clemente office were members of large western colleges and universities, manufacturers, and representatives of the hard-hit aerospace industry itself.

Dr. Ruben Mettler, president of TRW Systems, which owns a plant near San Clemente, was among those attending. Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson sat at the President's side during the talks.

'Huge Success'

The one-day-old "Free Calley" petition drive is "an instant, astounding success," the Newport Beach ex-soldier who started it said today.

"We already have more than 2.000 signatures on the 200 petitions we've been able to distribute so far," said Ron Hickman, a 29-year-old Balboa Island liquor store clerk.

Hickman said he started the petition drive after Lt. William J. Calley, Jr., was convicted of 22 counts of premeditated murder in a decision he said "that makes me and every American sick."

Hickman said he has also been in contact with representatives of Orange County's association of patriotic organizations, the Democratic and Republican State Central Committees, the Orange County Young Republicans and the Federation of Republican Women.

"All have promised their all-out help." he says.

He said U.S. Rep. John Schmitz (R-Tustin) has agreed to personally deliver the petitions to President Nixon, Hickman said Rep. Schmitz will be given the petitions at a dinner climaxing the drive April 24.

"By then we hope to have more than 50,000 signatures on them." Hickman said.

Hickman said that a number of other organizations have also expressed interest in helping, but said "I just haven't had the time to talk to them yet."

He asked that any other groups interested contact him at the Island Liquor Store, 220 Marine Avenue,

He said 20 individuals and organizations came to the store just last night to get copies of the petitions.

"Young and old alike came in," he said, "long-haired hippies and old establishment types.

"This thing hasn't touched just any one group," he said.

Hickman said the petitions say only. "Free Lt. Callev" and are so written "to give President Nixon all the latitude he needs to carry out the wishes of the American people.

All five candidates for the Newport-Mesa Unified School District board of trustees appeared before an audience of 70 at a candidates forum Wednesday night in Estancia High School, Costa Mesa.

The candidates for the three Newport-Mesa board seats joined with six of the eight persons vying for three seats on the Coast Community College Board. The program was set up by the League of Women Voters and the American Association of University Women.

Each candidate was granted five minutes to tell why he is running, to outline qualities he would seek for students and detail views on sound business management

Among issues discussed were accountability and how to achieve it, school finance and the statewide property tax, the need for board continuity in the face of the administration change due to the resignation of the superintendent and the need to provide job skills to all graduates.

Newport-Mesa Unified School District serves the cities of Costa Mesa and Newport Beach. It operates 26 elementary. six intermediate, four high schools, a continuation high school and a school for the mentally retarded.

Three of the district's seven trustee areas are on the April 20 ballot; area one is northwest Costa Mesa, area three is made up of portions of Newport Beach and Costa Mesa northeast of Dover Drive, 21st Street and the Newport Freeboth cities between Pacific Coast Highway, Dover Drive, 21st Street and Newport Boulevard.

While candidates may reside in the area they seek to represent, trustees are elected at large by all voters in the district.

Here, in the order of the candidate's appearance, are some of their views: Herb Stricker, 41, safety equipment salesman, of 445 Redlands Ave., Newport Beach, who described his platform as a call for "fiscal responsibility and econ omy." Stricker is seeking to represent trustee area six.

Bettence ift Newport's Pick for City Manager?

By L. PETER KRIEG the Daily Pilot Staff

NOBODY, BUT nobody, is committing himself on the story, but insiders are saying that Phil Bettencourt can have his boss' old job if he wants it. Phil Bettencourt is assistant city manager. Harvey L. Hurlburt is his boss, or will be until Monday when his resignation becomes effective.

It is known, however, that several councilmen have privately expressed their liking, and more than that, their respect for Bettencourt's ability, and his performance with the city the past two years.

ONE PROBLEM is that he's only 28 years old. But that may be all he has going against him. There will be support for him if he applies for the

And that is something he first said he would be renctant to do.

As of the weekend, he had insisted he wouldn't.

FOR THE RECORD, he said this morning, "I can only say that I have not ruled out the possibility."

Bettencourt is personable, and as important as having the respect of the council, he has the respect of those he works with day-in, day-out and city hall.

IN DISCUSSION with various councilmen, they stop one sentence short of saying they would give Bettencourt the job. But they admit they have urged him to apply for it.

Their reluctance to commit themselves is understandable. They don't want to discourage other candidates, to keep them from applying by making it look like the job is locked up.

But in reality, at least a majority of them, in the opinion of this observer, want the kid to take a crack at it of residents voting, they asked the council to rescind the existing agreement and at the same time approved a charter amendment requiring city-wide votes before future agreements could be signed. The charter amendment has been forwarded to the state legislature for ratification.

McInnis, who arranged the meeting, said the councilmanic committee will not take any staff personnel with it for the opening session.

"They will undoubtedly enter into the talks at a later point in time," he said. McInnis said he does not know who Moe will bring to the meeting with him.

Solon Tees Off on Course

Special to the DAILY PILOT SACRAMENTO - State Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter (R-Newport Beach) today launched what you might call a Sell American, rather than a Buy American campaign.

He issued a blistering broadside statement on purchase of Costa Mesa's Mesa Verde Country Club from Boise-Cascade Corporation by a Japanese firm.

with only a 1,400-pupil increase, "most of which," he said, "was due to raw land annexation."

Last year the district gained only four students but increased the budget by $7 million. Stricker called for easing the burden on the property taxpayer by "sound money management."

Marian C. Bergeson, 43, housewife and former teacher, of 1721 Tradewinds Lane, Newport Beach, wants schools that instill in students a "high regard for responsibility and the values of good citizenship." She is the incumbent representing area three.

Besides helping students to master basic skills such as reading and computation, schools should teach children how to learn. Mrs. Bergeson said the district has taken steps to guarantee every graduate a saleable skill.

She said the planning, programming budget system adopted by the district would lead to fiscal accountability in time.

"A new superintendent must possess management skills including skills in finance. Since the district is now in an era of evaluation he must possess a keen perception to evaluate the programs already developed."

Donald E. Smallwood, 42, an attorney. of 1981 Kornat Drive, Costa Mesa, called for improved special education and counseling. He is unopposed in area one.

He urged programs that "teach at an age when a child is ready to learn" including reading instruction at an earlier age. The district should not be satisfied with an eighth grade reading level of skill for its graduates but should seek an 11th grade reading level as a minimum.

Smallwood urged the district to seek "the best for the least amount of money" and cautioned against "building new fering to let the Mesa Verde Homeowners Association buy it.

"After negotiations from January through February, the members had put together a sufficient number of people and pledged sufficient monies to meet the offer," Carpenter charged.

He emphasized the fact the picturesque course is entirely surrounded by the Mesa Verde development, whose more costly homes directly border the greens. Calling the sale to Japanese interests appalling, unneccessary and uncalledfor, Sen. Carpenter accused Boise-Cascade of acting in bad faith and without regard for the community. He said he conferred with both the Humphreys said. "It's difficult to cut costs without cutting quality."

Enriqueta L. Ramos, 38, a Fountain Valley High School teacher, of 17294 Peppertree St., Fountain Valley, called for a "more diversified board" - one that includes a woman. She is challenging incumbent William Kettler in Huntington Beach - Fountain Valley.

She said the most important goal of the college district is to bring the college closer to the community and find ways to "stretch the dollars to serve everybody in the community."

Mrs. Ramos urged development of child care centers on the campus which would allow young mothers to enroll.

Donald G. Hoff, 52, quality assurance specialist of 14842 Harper St., Midway City, said the colleges "should prepare students so that he or she is equipped to meet life's problems as he knows them." Hoss is the incumbent representing the Westminster area.

He cited the education code strictures the board must live within concerning finance. Despite these, the district has "maintained a low per student cost but built an educational program that has attracted national attention and is a model for others in the nation," he said.

Charles Dagion, 24, a Golden West student, of 15225 Jackson St., Midway City, said the colleges "are not servicing the students or the community as well as they could." He is challenging Hoff. Although he is "an ecology nut", Dagion said the district could not afford development of an environmental working model, a job he said should be handled by state colleges or the university system.

Dagion said "taped lectures" don't allow students to ask questions. He urged combining the day and evening ad-

Robert E. Caldwell, chairman of the Blairsville board. Sam Mottern, chairman of the Elizabethton Board, said after the Calley verdict he could no longer perform his duties "without a complete surrender of principle and conviction."

Donald T. Bull, 28, business coordinator of 2548 Westminster Place, Costa Mesa, called for improved vocational training. He is running for the area three seat.

He noted that only 15 percent of high school graduates go on to college. He urged continuing education of vocational teachers and use of persons from business and industry to provide up to date information to vocational students.

Bull urged there is a need for accountability for teaching performance and that it could be measured by getting "in-/ puts from staff, parents and students." Selim S. "Bud" Franklin, 41, attorney, of 1928 Santa Ana Ave., Costa Mesa, stressed the need for continuity on the board in light of the superintendent's resignation. He is the incumbent board president and represents area six.

Franklin received the only spontaneous applause of the evening for his stand on accountability.

He said education is a long way "from having the tools to evaluate teacher or student performance. Not all good teachers can teach every student well." Franklin said. Admitting there is need to "eliminate those teachers who don't care" he suggested a system to shift "students to teachers with whom they can relate and from whom they can learn" might be preferable.

"We are still in a subjective world," Franklin concluded.

The focal point for the moment, however, is the Earth Day event which, as yet according to Hemstreet, has no name or designation.

"We will ride from Corona del Mar High School to Costa Mesa High School then down to the Newport Pier where we'll spend the rest of the day cleaning the beach," he said.

Hemstreet said the exact route will be determined at tonight's meeting, to which representatives of a number of police departments have been invited. He said the riders will definitely take Pacific Coast Highway for a part of the route, however, so motorists can

The Indiana House of Representatives passed a resolution Wednesday calling for steps "to correct the injustice that we firmly believe has been perpetrated. " a resolution asking the President for clemency was before the Illinois legislature and the Salt Lake City Commission approved a resolution, with a copy to the President, condemning the conviction.

High school students in southeast Kentucky began circulating petitions protesting the conviction and 250 Belleville, Ill., high school students marched five miles with signs comdemning the verdict.

Veterans organizations around the nation protested the decision and requested various actions, including clemency and an investigation of the court martial verdict.

In Washington, the nation's elected representatives joined the chorus of comment.

The district's television station development also should be handled by the state colleges, Dagion said. William Kettler, of 623 Seventh St., Huntington Beach, said that compared to the 68 community college districts in California in 1969-70 whose per student costs average $806, oCast College District spends $755 per student. Kettler is the incumbent in area three (Huntington Beach - Fountain Valley). He cited the value of his having grown

Nixon Orders Calley Freed From Stockade

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) - President charges of murdering civilians at My Nixon today ordered that Lt. William Calley be removed from the stockade at Ft. Benning, Ga., and confined instead to quarters while a review of his life sentence is under way.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said the President called Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and ordered that Calley be removed from the stockade in which he was put following his conviction on

Lai

"This is not a legal step. It is a step taken at the President's discretion," Ziegler said.

"He just personally felt Lt. Calley should not be put in the stockade or sent to Leavenworth while the review is taking place."

Ziegler confirmed that the White House has received an unprecedented deluge of communications on the Calley conviction, virtually all of them seeking clemency for the young lieutenant.

Ziegler, however, gave no indication of whether the President would personally review the Calley case.

Three local draft boards resigned, at least three mass marches on Washington were being planned, and the White House was swamped with telegrams and telephone calls as Americans expressed their feelings about the conviction of (See CALLEY, Page 2)

18-year Vote OK'd Assemblymen Burke, Badham Say No

SACRAMENTO (UPI) - The Assembly today overwhelmingly approved a proposed State Constitutional amendment to allow 18-year-olds to vote in state and local elections.

The measure by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr. (D-San Francisco), was sent to the Senate on a 60-9 vote, which has approved similar legislation. All nine "no" votes were cast by Republicans. Assemblyman Robert Badham (R-Huntington Beach) cast two of the dissenting votes.

Newport Beach) and Robert Burke (R-

Before approving the proposal, the Assembly defeated amendments which also would give 18-year-olds all the rights and responsibilities of adults - including drinking liquor.

Opponents of lowering the legal age of adulthood argued that most of the changes could be made without amending the Constitution.

They also said that the effect of universally lowering the "age of majority" could eliminate certain benefits, such as financial aid to college students whose fathers were killed in wars.

President Meets With Aerospace Industry Chiefs

President Nixon met this morning with more than a dozen leaders in the aerospace industry and members of the scientific community in a concerted effort to stave off the massive unemployment which has hit that profession in recent months.

No immediate results of the meeting were available at mid-morning from Nixon aides.

Included in the group which met with the President in his San Clemente office were members of large western colleges and universities, manufacturers, and representatives of the hard-hit aerospace industry itself.

Dr. Ruben Mettler, president of TRW Systems, which owns a plant near San Clemente, was among those attending. Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson sat at the President's side during the talks.

Newport-Mesa Race

The Coast Community College District is made up of the Huntington Beach Union High and Newport-Mesa Unified School Districts. It operates two, twoyear college campuses, Golden West College in Huntington Beach and Orange Coast College in Costa Mesa.

Three of the district's five trustee areas are listed on the April 20 ballot area two (Westminster Elementary School District) area three (Huntington Beach and Fountain Valley Elementary districts) and area four (the city of Costa Mesa).

While candidates must reside in the area they seek to represent, trustees are elected at large by all voters in the district.

The two candidates not in attendance were Barbara Bell, an advertising representative of 5031 Quail Circle, Huntington Beach, who is challenging incumbent Wiliiam Kettler in area three, (Huntington Beach-Fountain Valley) and William T. Unger Jr., a student, who lists his address as 2211 Rutgers Drive, Costa Mesa. Unger is seeking the area four seat (Costa Mesa) held by Robert L. Humphreys.

Here is some of what the candidates had to say

Richard L. Oliver, 45, of 149 E. Bay St., Costa Mesa, a systems analyst and evening college instructor is challenging Humphreys.

Oliver said the community college should provide "general academic core programs for two-year training in a trade to match the increasingly technological society and general courses of interest to the community at large."

Oliver urged bilingual counseling for culturally disadvantaged students, expanded programs for returning student veterans, improved administrative services for the evening division, develop-ment of short courses leading to job (See COAST, Page 2)

The law is a direct result of a longtime probe of the 18-story retirement skyscraper built with aid of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Councilman Alvin L. Pinkley conferred during a 'recent Washington, convention with HUD officials on Costa Mesa Fire Department findnngs about Bethel Towers.

City leaders do not wish to cause undue alarm to residents of the senior citizens' facility at 666 W. 19th St., but the 1967-occupied tower has certain hazards

-No sprinkler system was required. -Elevator service is not sufficient.

-Window construction poses a danger. "Our biggest worry is fire," Councilman Pinkley said upon his return from a less-than-satisfying interview with William Hughes, chief of HUD's senior citizens project division.

He said Hughes agreed in principle with Costa Mesa's urgings that greater fire safety factors be built into HUD projects, now numbering 316 built or under construction across the nation.

But he indicated during the 90-minute discussion that the philosophy of low-cost housing for the elderly may go up in smoke if HUD construction costs rise as a result.

"There should be some safety built in for these old folks," Pinkley said.

"We feel if the government is going to finance these things, they should build in some safety."

Fire Department Battalion Chief Ed Lewis has been conducting a study of Bethel Towers since even before construction began in 1966, leading to the recent conclusive findings.

Sprinkler systems should be mandatory (See SAFETY, Page 2)

Fund Started in Orange County

Orange County veteran organizations are raising funds to aid in the defense of Lt. William Calley who was convicted Monday of slaying civilians at My Lai, South Vietnam.

Andrew J. Callanan of Santa Ana is acting as chairman of the combined veteran organizations sponsoring the drive. He said money should be sent to the Lt. William Calley Fund. United California Bank, 1018 N. Main St., Santa Ana.

If Calley should be freed by presidential order or his conviction reversed, Callanan said all funds collected would be given to veterans hospitals in Southern California for the purchase of television sets and other recreational items.

Watered-down Injunction Issued to Firehouse Bar

District Attorney Cecil Hicks today got the preliminary injunction he asked for against the Firehouse bar in Costa Mesa but Orange County Superior Court Judge Robert L. Corfman's ruling is watered down considerably in what was sought in the state-county lawsuit.

Judge Corfman's order, issued at noon after an overnight study of a televised performance of the Firehouse company's "Joy to the World", specifically bans lewdness and "definite sexual orientation" from the bar's activities but it does not ban the type of dancing demonstrated Wednesday in the courtroom.

That dancing, suggests the judge, should be "erect dancing with the hands

He makes it clear in his written order that "Hawaiian and Tahitian" and "bumps and grinds" styles of dancing are perfectly acceptable to him.

But he also warns the tavern's operators that he will not permit any female entertainer at the Costa Mesa bar to get within three feet of a patron whatever her performance might entail. Judge Corfman's ruling today left district attorney's officers convinced that they will have to take their lawsuit to the trial court to effectively close the Firehouse

Hicks had asked for an order that would allow him to sell the premises and its contents at public auction an action that had been successfully applied to two Santa Ana taverns.

But Judge Corfman issued today's ruling after hearing testimony to the effect that entertainment at the Firehouse was not lewd and obscene and bore comparison with similar entertainment being offered at taverns and roadhouses throughout California.

Anaheim Cyclist Killed by Auto

An Anaheim bicycle rider died early this morning of injuries received when he was struck by a car driven by a Huntington Beach man.

The driver, Larry Galvin, 34, of 8452 Tradewinds Circle. Huntington Beach, was not cited in the accident in which his car going west on Lemon Street and Ball Road struck bicyclist Chester Wafford, 54.

Wafford was taken to the Orange County Medical Center following the 7:40 p.m. accident. He died at 1 a.m. of head injuries and fractures.

Rally Attempt

SAN DIEGO (UPI) - An 18-year-old girl organizing a rally to protest the conviction of Army Lt. William Calley, was suspended from school Thursday.

UPI Telephote

Kathryn Armstrong, one of nine children of Mrs. Sarah Brugler, said she told Midway adult school principal Vance Stewart of her plans rather than "be sneaky about it." He told her a rally on campus would disrupt classes and could not be allowed.

When she said she would do it anyhow, he suspended her until such time "as she could abide by the school rules."

Miss Armstrong, who previously received police permission to hold a protest march ih the downtown area Sunday, said the planned rally at school would include a television interview with organized support.

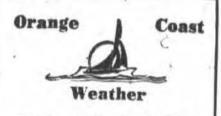

After the principal's decision, she said, "if I called off the interview it would tell people and servicemen that I wasn't truthful. People go so far with their beliefs and then get talked out of backing them."

The girl's mother told newsmen that a cousin of her daughter, Johnny Myers, was killed during the Korean War.

A son-in-law. Curtis Fountain, is in the Marine Corps at San Pedro.

The girl criticized President Nixon and urged more cards and letters be sent to the President protesting the Calley action.

"We hope to accomplish with the voice of the people that Lt. Calley wasn't the man, as the court said, who killed all those people," Miss Armstrong said.

It may not be quite so warm along the Coast Friday, but the morning fog will still be with us. Look for temperatures in the 67 to 77-degree range.

All Five Candidates Show

All five candidates for the Newport-Mesa Unified School District board of trustees appeared before an audience of 70 at a candidates forum Wednesday night in Estancia High School, Costa Mesa.

The candidates for the three Newport-Mesa board seats joined with six of the eight persons vying for three seats on the Coast Community College Board. The program was set up by the League of Women Voters and the American Assoclation of University Women.

Each candidate was granted five minutes to tell why he is running, to outline qualities he would seek for students and detail views on sound business management ability and how to achieve it, school finance and the statewide property tax, the need for board continuity in the face of the administration change due to the resignation of the superintendent and the need to provide job skills to all graduates.

Newport-Mesa Unified School District serves the cities of Costa Mesa and Newport Beach. It operates 26 elementary, six intermediate, four high schools, a continuation high school and a school for the mentally retarded.

Three of the district's seven trustee areas are on the April 20 ballot, area one is northwest Costa Mesa, area three is made up of portions of Newport Beach and Costa Mesa northeast of Dover Drive, 21st Street and the Newport Freeway, and area six contains portions of both cities between Pacific Coast Highway, Dover Drive, 21st Street and Newport Boulevard.

While candidates may reside in the area they seek to represent, trustees are elected at large by all voters in the district.

Here, in the order of the candidate's appearance, are some of their views: Herb Stricker, 41, safety equipment salesman, of 445 Redlands Ave., Newport Beach, who described his platform as a call for "fiscal responsibility and econ omy." Stricker is seeking to represent trusiee area six. He cited a 75 percent increase in the district's budget in the last four years

Robert L. Humphreys, 44, an attorney, of 1500 Adams Ave., Costa Mesa is seeking his third term.

He noted that the district's state aid share has shrunk since 1948, when he was a student at Orange Coast College and when the district was the wealthiest in California.

"The statewide property tax proposal certainly gets our support in view of the facilities and school finance problems we've faced in the past 10 years." Humphreys said. "It's difficult to cut costs without cutting quality."

Enriqueta L. Ramos, 38] a Fountain Valley High School teacher, of 17294 Peppertree St., Fountain Valley, called for a "more diversified board" - one that includes a woman. She is challenging incumbent William Kettler in Huntington Beach - Fountain Valley.

She said the most important goal of the college district is to bring the college closer to the community and find ways to "stretch the dollars to serve everybody in the community."

Mrs. Ramos urged development of child care centers on the campus which would allow young mothers to enroll.

Donald G. Hoff, 52, quality assurance specialist of 14842 Harper St., Midway City, said the colleges "should prepare students so that he or she is equipped to meet life's problems as he knows them." Hoss is the incumbent representing the Westminster area.

He cited the education code strictures the board must live within concerning finance. Despite these, the district has "maintained a low per student cost but built an educational program that has attracted national attention and is a model for others in the mation," he said.

Charles Dagion, 24, a Golden West student, of 15225 Jackson St., Midway City, said the colleges "are not servicing the students or the community as well as they could." He is challenging Hoff. Although he is "an ecology nut", Dagion said the district could not afford development of an environmental working model, a job he said should be handled by state colleges or the university system.

Dagion said "taped lectures" don't allow students to ask questions. He urged combining the day and evening administrations.

The district's television station development also should be handled by the state colleges, Dagion said.

William Kettler, of 623 Seventh St., Huntington Beach, said that compared to the 68 community college districts in California in 1969-70 whose per student costs average $806, oCast College District spends $755 per student. Kettler is the incumbent in area three (Huntington Beach - Fountain Valley).

He cited the value of his having grown up in Huntington Beach as being of importance "particularly since financial decisions affecting the college are largely political. I have come to know most of the people making those decisions," Kettler said. The two teacher candidates, Mrs. Ramos and Oliver both agreed tenure should be abolished. The three incumbents noted that finding a way of instituting accountability for performance is difficult.

Shark Attack? No, Porpoises Some surfers out for early morning rides today at Newport Pier in Newport Beach thought they were being attacked by sharks. Police units were rushed to the scene armed and prepared to protect the surfers from the denizens of the deep. "When we got there, we found out there weren't any sharks at all," said Lt. Kelson McDaniel. "It was just a small school of porpoises having a good time."

McDaniel said the mammals frolicked in the surf - charging the surfers, then veering off for several minutes before moving on.

Jury Retires To Mull Fate Of Hartelius

Eight men and four women who must rule on the guilt or innocence of Dr. Ebbe Hartelius of Corona del Mar were locked into their Orange County Superior Court jury room today to mull the arsonfraud charges debated in four weeks of trial.

They got their final instructions late Wednesday from Judge James F. Judge after hearing more than five hours of final arguments from opposing lawyers in the bitterly fought action.

The jury must now decide if Dr. Hartelius, 50, actually planned the burning of his offices at 2345 E. Coast Highway last April 9 and if he faked the theft of his car nine days earlier.

They were warned by defense attorney Matthew Kurilich that they should put little reliance on the testimony of two key prosecution witnesses: blonde Reba Vaughn, the shapely Costa Mesa woman who shared her home with Hartelius for more than four years, and her brother Jim Blevins.

Both in testimony pinned responsibility for the fire and the auto theft on Hartelius and both testified that Hartelius later bribed Blevins to leave the state when investigation into the offenses mounted.

Deputy District Attorney Al Novick agreed that both witnesses were convicted felons but he reminded the jury Wednesday that Hartelius' attacks on Reba Vaughn's character only began when his mistress rejected the physician's pressure and decided to testify against him.

"He never at any time before that decided that her reputation was so bad he couldn't live with her," Novick said. "Whatever Reba was it didn't persuade Hartelius to move out of her Costa Mesa home." Each lawyer delivered personal attacks on the other in what many court observers feel has been one of the hardest fought Orange County trials in recent years. Kurilich bitterly complained to the jury that Novick called him a "mugwump". Novick denied the accusation but in turn accused Kurilich of making "a series of misrepresentations" in his address to the jury.

Solon Tees Off on Course

Special to the DAILY PILOT SACRAMENTO - State Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter (R-Newport Beach) today launched what you might call a Sell American, rather than a Buy American campaign.

He issued a blistering broadside statement on purchase of Costa Mesa's Mesa Verde Country Club from Boise-Cascade Corporation by a Japanese firm.

CALLEY

Lt. William Calley.

Calley was convicted of the premeditated murder of 22 Vietnamese civilians at-My Lai. He was sentenced Wednesday to life in prison.

Reaction continued to mount around the nation as Calley waited in the Ft. Benning stockade for a transfer to federal prison.

The White House, according to Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, had received more than 5,000 wires and 1,500 telephone calls concerning the conviction. They were running almost 100-1 in favor of clemency for Calley, he said.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., real estate man Walter J. Dilbeck said Wednesday he and 100 "coordinators" around the nation were laying plans for a mass march on Washington July 4 on behalf of all GIs charged in the My Lai incident. "We intend to have one million people in Washington that day and we intend to stay there until these men are released." Dilbeck said.

E. Thomas Cammarota, commander of the Pennsylvania American Legion, called on President Nixon to heed those urging clemency.

"If President Nixon sees fit not to listen to the thousands of telegrams that already have been sent to him, we are prepared to march on Washington," Cammarota said.

Robert Cadle, a retired Army sergeant who says the verdict was "a lot of bull," said Wednesday he and a "Free Calley Committee" with branches in all states but Hawaii will lead 50,000 people in a march on Washington after a petition drive.

Sex Book Publisher Gets Fine, Two Year Jail Term

Special to the DAILY PILOT

LOS ANGELES - A sex book publisher whose Costa Mesa conviction is due for review by the U.S. Supreme Court on constitutional grounds was handed another one here in federal court.

Marvin Miller, of Covina, was slapped with a $45,000 fine and a two-year term in federal prison Tuesday by U.S. District Court Judge William P. Grey.

The head of Covina Publishing Inc., was convicted on 15 counts of mailing obscene materials, the same charge upheld 51 weeks ago in Costa Mesa.

Challenging constitutionality of California law establishing standards of obscenity and other related aspects, Miller appealed that case in Orange County Superior Court.

His conviction was upheld, but his attorneys went right to the U.S. Supreme store patrons.

Miller's contention is that obscenity charges are intended to be heard at the federal level and thus defendants are treated on an unequal basis in state cases.

By establishing obscenity and community standards of good taste from state to state, he further argues, the flow of materials through the mails can be hampered.

He said Boise-Cascade was probably within its legal rights, but totally ignored the moral and public relations aspect of the apparent change in choice of buyers.

Carpenter said he learned through officers they had no idea why the Japanese corporation - owner of several other golf courses - wanted the Mesa Verde club.

He said he has concluded there was no justification for its handling of the matter nor its wanton desregard for community interest.

In all structures over 60 feet, or five stories, as stipulated in the fire safety code revisions now in the works.

Pinkley notes the study shows reduced fire insurance rates through sprinkler installation would be 2.5 percent of the total construction costs.

Experts calculate the investment in a Bethel Towers-type facility would pay for itself within a five-year period based on the insurance reduction.

A second finding is that windows rising vertically story by story are also conducive to rapid spread of flames, but sprinkler installation would eliminate this hazard.

One critical point on elevator service is now being remedied in Bethel Towers by city demand, through installation of a so-called demand key.

Firemen responding to a blaze or rescue call with oxygen for a senior citizen stricken by a heart attack, for example, have been required to wait while one or both elevators were in transit.

Quite often in Bethel Towers history, the passenger elevator has been out of order, Pinkley noted.

Daily Pilot Sets Special Listing Of Church Rites

The DAILY PILOT is planning a special story to run Wednesday announcing special services scheduled by Orange Coast churches and temples marking the primary days of Holy Week, Easter Sunday and the Passover.

The final deadline for all material to run in this story will be Monday at 5 p.m. Any material received after that time will probably not be included. The items should include name of the church, address, service times, pastor or rabbi's name, sermon and any other material essential to the services. Please be brief.

The articles can be submitted to any DAILY PILOT office. Addresses include; 330 W. Bay St., Costa Mesa; 2211 W. Balboa Blvd., Newport Beach; 222 Forest Ave., Laguna Beach; 17875 Beach Blvd., Huntington Beach; 305 N. El Camino Real, San Clemente.

"This is the worst thing that's ever happened in the United States." said Robert E. Caldwell, chairman of the Blairsville board.

Sam Mottern, chairman of the Elizabethton Board, said after the Calley verdict he could no longer perform his duties "without a complete surrender of principle and conviction."

In Richlands, Va., response to a radio station's poll on Calley's guilt was so heavy Wednesday that telephone circuits broke down temporarily. Some listeners then drove to the station to vote. The total showed only three of 688 votes favored Calley's conviction.

A Davenport, Iowa, television station conducted a 90-minute poll on the verdict. Twenty-three of 981 persons responding favored the court martial decision.

The Indiana House of Representatives passed a resolution Wednesday calling for steps "to correct the injustice that we firmly believe has been perpetrated. ." a resolution asking the President for clemency was before the Illinois legislature and the Salt Lake City Commission approved a resolution, with a copy to the President, condemning the conviction.

High school students in southeast Kentucky began circulating petitions protesting the conviction and 250 Belleville, Ill., high school students marched five miles with signs comdemning the verdict.

Veterans organizations around the nation protested the decision and requested various actions, including clemency and an investigation of the court martial verdict.

In Washington, the nation's elected representatives joined the chorus of comment.

'Cycology' Boom Thousands of Bicyclists Poised

Between 3,000 and 5,000 bicyclists flying who owns Balboa Bikes. the banner of "cycology" will converge on the streets of Newport Beach and Costa Mesa in a mammoth Earth Day bike ride.

A meeting to outline plans for the event is scheduled tonight at Newport Harbor High School. The event itself may take place Earth Day April 24 or one week after on May 1.

Originally proposed by students at Newport Harbor High School, the event quickly mushroomed to the four Harbor Area secondary schools under the leadership of Robert Fry, a Harbor High science teacher.

"But it's gone way beyond that now." says Bob Hemstreet, another organizer

"Almost nobody is going to miss it," he said, noting that just about every bicycle club in Orange County has expressed interest in participating.

"And people have told me that they don't have bicycles, but they are going to get them.

He said the idea has also expanded to include other, long-range goals.

"It has become a full-fledged 'cycology' movement that will unite bicyclists in common causes such as uniform city bicycle laws and the creation of additional bike trails."

The focal point for the moment, however, is the Earth Day event which, as yet according to Hemstreet, has no name or designation.

Besides helping students to master basic skills such as reading and computation, schools should teach children how to learn. Mrs. Bergeson said the district has taken steps to guarantee every graduate a saleable skill.

She said the planning, programming budget system adopted by the district would lead to fiscal accountability in time.

"A new superintendent must possess management skills including skills in finance. Since the district is now in an era of evaluation he must possess a keen perception to evaluate the programs already developed."

Donald E. Smallwood, 42, an attorney, of 1981 Kornat Drive, Costa Mesa, called for improved special education and counseling. He is unopposed in area one.

He urged programs that "teach at an age when a child is ready to learn" including reading instruction at an earlier age. The district should not be satisfied with an eighth grade reading level of skill for its graduates but should seek

Bull urged there is a need for accountability for teaching performance and that it could be measured by getting "inputs from staff, parents and students." Selim S. "Bud" Franklin, 41, attorney, of 1928 Santa Ana Ave., Costa Mesa, stressed the need for continuity on the board in light of the superintendent's resignation. He is the incumbent board president and represents area six.

Franklin received the only spontaneous applause of the evening for his stand on accountability.

He said education is a long way "from having the tools to evaluate teacher or student performance. Not all good teachers can teach every student well." Franklin said. Admitting there is need to "eliminate those teachers who don't care" he suggested a system to shift "students to teachers with whom they can relate and from whom they can learn" might be preferable. "We are still in a subjective world," Franklin concluded.

discussed at this stage. But Rev. Harley Murray, spokesmen for the Baptist layman's group promoting the project, pledges that it will include a sprinkler system whether required by new city law or not. City officials say the proposals affecting virtually every type of public building in town, based on the Bethel Towers study, are designed to cut general costs as well as promote safety.

"We want to put the burden of solving these problems on those who cause them," says Battalion Chief Lewis, summing it up.

One of those burdens - besides an estimated $7,000 spent in responding to Bethel Towers fires and rescue calls alone - is purchase of a $55,000 fire truck otherwise not needed.

During the period since the 270-unit skyscraper was built, it has experienced three major fires totaling well over $25,000 in damage and on Feb. 26 killing an elderly woman.

City, State Surprised Over Beach Giveaway

Reaction from the city of San Clemente and the state of California to President Nixon's offer of six miles of new beach and an entire valley amounted to surprise and glee followed swiftly by some vexing questions.

City Manager Ken Carr termed the offer of the 3,000-acre San Mateo Canyon to San Clemente an "exciting idea." But because of no prior knowledge of the Presidential order offering the prime

Marine base land, Carr could not elaborate much farther. The offer from the Federal Government is good only if either the city or the state use the land for public use. As for the state reaction to the offer of the canyon and the huge chunk of Camp Pendleton beach, it is one of pleasure mixed with a tinge of bitterness. and uncertainty.

What the President has done, said one top state parks official, is give a large chunk of obviously prime beach land to an agency whose budget is being decimated year by year.

"It's wonderful, but. . ." said Mervyn Filipponi, a state parks consultant from Sacramento.

"All of a sudden we have six miles of beach, some very attractive buildings and absolutely no money from the governor to use in its development," he said.

He stressed the irony of new windfalls of land from the federal government while state officials are cutting the parks and recreation budget to the bare bone.

State parks spokesmen repeatedly have said that money does not exist for the initial 3.5-mile San Onofre bluffs beach.

In fact, next week's seven-day inaugural use of the beach is the only way to raise enough funds to keep the park open.

Campers are being charged fees to use the virgin beach-the funds to go into a special account to cover expenses. If the state will have its fiscal problems with the six miles of beach, San Clemente would find itself, apparently, in a heavyweight tangle of legalities if it were to accept the San Meteo Canvon land. Carr explained that under federal law, annexations of land across county lines are forbidden.

"If we were to try to annex the land, even for public use," Carr explained," then it would take an act of the State Legislature to make it legal." Judicial boundaries, and county boundaries would have to be changed as well.

Both Garr and Filipponi said the news of the President's decision came as an "absolute, total surprise."

Nixon Tells Vast Federal Program

By JOHN VALTERZA Of the Daily Pilot Staff

With a stroke of his pen Wednesday President Nixon shook the sanctity of the Camp Pendleton lands, opening up six miles of beaches and more than 3,000 acres of a prime valley for public use.

And later the chief executive declared the landmark decision in favor of open space was only the beginning of a vast federal program for housecleaning of surplus government real estate.

The affected area is within sight of the Western White House.

The blockbuster decisio

Immediately south of that area the boundary begins for the new public beach.

Almost adjacent to that boundary is the enlisted man's club, a complex of Spanish-style buildings and permanent beach use structures - all of which will be given to the state of California for recreational or office use as it sees fit.

The San Onofre Surfing Club area is next, situated on a point well known for its excellent surf.

The next downcoast facility is the San Onofre Nuclear reactor complex, with its one existing station (two more Calley was convicted or premeditated murder of 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai. He was sentenced Wednesday to life in prison.

Reaction continued to mount around the nation as Calley waited in the Ft. Benning stockade for a transfer to federal prison.

The White House, according to Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, had received more than 5,000 wires and 1,500 telephone calls concerning the conviction. They were running almost 100-1 in favor of clemency for Calley, he said.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., real estate man Walter J. Dilbeck said Wednesday he and 100 "coordinators" around the nation were laying plans for a mass march on Washington July 4 on behalf of all GIs charged in the My Lai incident. "We intend to have one million people in Washington that day and we intend to stay there until these men are released." Dilbeck said.

E. Thomas Cammarota, commander of the Pennsylvania American Legion, called on President Nixon to heed those urging clemency.

'If President Nixon sees fit not to listen to the thousands of telegrams that already have been sent to him, we are prepared to march on Washington," Cammarota said.

Robert Cadle, a retired Army sergeant who says the verdict was "a lot of bull," said Wednesday he and a "Free Calley Committee" with branches in all states but Hawaii will lead 50,000 people in a march on Washington after a petition drive.

"This whole thing has boomeranged all out of proportion," Cadle said. "People call in and they cuss, cuss, cuss. Are they mad. I've never seen anything like this verdict in my life.'

All the members of local Selective Service Boards in Elizabethton, Tenn., and Athens and Blairsville, Ga., resigned. Members of the Quitman, Ga., board wired Nixon they would not induct any more men.

Salt Creek Open On Trial Basis

Salt Creek beach will be open to the public on a trial basis from Saturday to April 18.

Through an agreement arranged by county supervisor Ronald Caspers the public will be allowed to use the much debated strand between Monarch Bay and Dana Point from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. each day during the Easter vacation period.

Supervisors approved the agreement Wednesday with Avco Community Developers Inc. owners of the property. A four-acre dirt parking lot on the inland side of Coast Highway with an access path to the beach will be graded by Avco.

The county will reimburse the company for the cost of lifeguards, sanitary facilities and beach maintenance and will operate the parking lot. San Clemente lifeguards are expected to man the beach.

Jar San Fernando Valley

More Quake Aftershocks

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Just two years after various visionaries predicted a great earthquake would tumble the whole sinful Southland into the sea, two more aftershocks of the major February tremor struck early today

They were preceded Wednesday by a temblor that rattled up to 4.0 on the Richter Scale and caused heavier damage in some San Fernando Valley areas than the Feb. 9 quake.

Today's aftershocks came at 3:48 a.m., with a 2.7 rating, and at 7:03 a.m., with a 3.7 mark.

Some Orange County residents reported noticing the later, stronger jolt, which was strongest in the Northridge and Devonshire areas of the hard-hit San Fernando Balley.

The heavy aftershock that came at 5:54 p.m. Wednesday, about eight miles from the epicenter of the disaster two months ago, was the worst yet.

The epicenter was directly under a heavily populated area, according to Caltech seismologist Dr. John Nordquist. Six persons suffered minor injuries, while canned goods and bottles tumbled from store shelves, glass windows shattered and plaster fell from ceilings.

The Los Angeles Police Department's Devonshire Division suffered extensive damage.

"If it had happened five minutes later, we might have had some injuries," said Lt. Dan Sullivan, noting the roll call room would have been full of patrolmen at muster.

Six minor fires were also reported, along with some new but minor damage to the county's 48-inch Granada Trunk Line carrying water into the area.

One of the hardest-hit homes was that of Hal Sanders, who escaped with minor damage in the Feb. 9 quake that killed 65 persons and caused millions of dollars in damage

'What we didn't lose then was pretty well totaled today," Sanders remarked. "This time the inside of the house was wrecked. It toppled over three television sets and broke them all. The glass doors broke. A china cabinet full of my wife's crystal fell over on the dining room table." The Feb. 9 earthquake was recorded at 6.6 on the Richter Scale and has been followed by well over 200 aftershocks, some too small for humans to feel coveted enlisted man's beach club and a private surfing club-long the object criticism, along with the shoreline of in front of the San Onofre nuclear generating complex and the new San Onofre Bluffs State Beach south of that.

Besides the prime coastal land-described by the President as "one of the country's last great swimming beaches" - the directive covers 3,000 acres of San Mateo Valley immediately south of the San Clemente City limits and the Orange-San Diego County line.

The new public beach will start about 1.000 feet south of the Presidential complex, bounded downcoast by the county boundary. The Trestles beach will be the buffer zone requested by the Secret Service-a no-man's land for security purposes.

are proposed for next door). The reactor land area will be closed to the public, but the shoreline seaward of the towering sea wall will be open.

Directly south of that complex lies the line where the new San Onofre Bluffs State Beach begins. It will be dedicated Saturday.

That section, leased to the state of California last year after tough negotiations with the Marine Corps, is 3.5 miles long.

Computing the 3.5 miles of that beach and blufftop with the new areas opened up by the Presidential order, the length of the new public beach will be six miles long-exactly one-third of the entire Camp Pendleton coastline which stretches 18 miles from San Clemente to Oceanside.

The upland area involved in the declaration of surplus is acreage known as San Mateo Canyon, an area used for years as leased agricultural land. Christianitos Creek runs the length of the valley, sometimes flowing to the sea during wet months.

The property, under terms of the executive order, would have to remain available for suitable public uses, said the President's Domestic Policy Coordinator John D. Erlichmanm.

The initial offer will be to the State of California and the city of San Clemente. Curiously, the county of San Diego, where the land in question lies, was not mentioned in the offer.

No charge would be made if either or both of the named entities took the territory.

If neither decides to make it, Erlichman explained, then the federal government would sell it to private interests and place the money into a special trust fund to pay for purchases of other land in the United States suitable for public recreational uses.

Rock Fest Ecology Peril?

SACRAMENTO (AP) - A federal official said today a planned rock festival in the California desert could cause both human suffering and environmental damage.

The caution came from J. R. Penny, California director for the U.S. Bureau of Land Management which is the landlord for most of the Southern California desert region.

Penny said BLM officials had been advised that 300,000 to 500,000 young people might gather in the Panamint Valley west of Death Valley for the festival over Easter weekend.

Penny said Inyo County officials had obtained a temporary restraining order in an effort to halt the festival, but that neither the county nor the BLM had the forces to stop large numbers of people from going into the area. Some young people, from as far away as New York and Chicago, already had begun camping on the scene. BLM officials said today. Law officers and federal officials were to meet in the Invo County town of Independence to map strategy.

Penny cautioned that young people risked a threat to their health by attending the festival, if it comes off as planned. He cited poor access to the area over 25 miles of poor desert roads, blowing sand, extreme temperatures and the lack of water and shelter.

"The sheer numbers of people also pose a real threat to the fragile ecological balance of the desert itself," Penny said.

The festival is planned on an 80-acre plot of private land near the historical ghost mining town of Ballarat, Penny said, "but in fact would be largely held on public land because of the numbers of people expected.

The injunction was against the landlord, a promoter identified only as "Zamora" and 15 John Does.

Penny said the nearest hospital is 50 miles away and "obtaining treatment for ill or injured persons would be virtually impossible if a crush similar to those of similar festivals at Woodstock, N.Y. or Altamont, Calif., were to develop."

SD Freeway Widening Begins Soon

A freeway widening project along the San Diego Freeway near San Juan Capistrano will begin six months ahead of schedule, according to James A. Moe, state director of public works.

The project calls for the widening of a 1.5-mile section from six to eight lanes between De La Camino Estrella in San Clemente to Camino Las Ramblas in San Juan Capistrano.

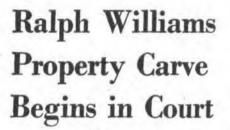

The estimated cost of the construction is $4.4 million.

The project will be paid for with part of $40 million the Federal Highway Administration made available to the state this week. The funds, which are matched by the state, will be used on State Highway construction in areas such as Orange County, where a high unemployment rate exists.

The projects funded with these monies had already been identified by the state for construction, Moe said. Funds earmarked for these projects will be used in turn to advance other projects now further off in the construction ·schedule.

The San Juan project was scheduled for advertising in January, 1972. Bids will now be sought in June of this year.

In addition to the freeway widening, the project includes widening of Pacific Coast Highway from its connection with the freeway to the Camino Capistrano undercrossing and construction of an interchange to connect the highway with Camino Las Ramblas.

West Relived

Cattle Branded in Viejo

By BARBARA DUARTE Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Early Wednesday morning as the sun began to warm gently sloping hills still green from spring rains, the sound of a lone bird mingled with the shrill cry of a cowboy.

Following the sound to the hills to the south, spectators watched several dots multiply as trainhands from Rancho Mission Viejo herded cows and calves toward corrals nestled in a canyon lined with shade trees and a long-dry creek bed.

And the old West came to life again -almost within earshot of traffic travel-ing the San Diego Freeway to the west and Ortega Highway to the north.

But civilization seemed far away as more than 500 cows and calves halfed in midstride, en route to corrals, to record a guttural protest at a group of photographers and reporters perched on the canyon hillside.

In a tradition practiced for more than 100 years on the 50,000-acre spread, cowboys soon were busy roping, branding, castrating and dehorning more than 200 calves.

Cows bellowed at their offspring and offspring bellowed back as they were wrestled to the ground for a two-minute session ending with a king-size shot of antibiotics and vitamins.

Cowboys, including movie personality Monte Montana who joins the roundup each year, swung lassos over hind legs of game 300-pounders and dragged them to small bands of wranglers.

In a quick ceremony, a hot branding iron stamped the ranch logo on the calf's rump, an ear was clipped for identification, horns were lopped off by a hacksaw, the castrated area was smeared with creosote, and the unhappy youngster disappeared into the herd for motherly consolation.

Participating in morning activity was Gil Aguirre, ranch superintendent who has posed for Marlboro ads; Mrs. Alice O'Neill Avery, a partner in O'Neill Properties, and her hard-working rancher sons, Jerome and Tony Moiso.

Singled out for recognition and a lifetime slot on the ranch by Mrs. Avery were 63-year-old Cecil Martinez who was

President Meets With Aerospace Industry Chiefs

President Nixon met this morning with more than a dozen leaders in the aerospace industry and members of the scientific community in a concerted effort to stave off the massive unemployment which has hit that profession in recent months.

No immediate results of the meeting were available at mid-morning from Nixon aides.

Included in the group which met with the President in his San Clemente office were members of large western colleges and universities, manufacturers, and representatives of the hard-hit aerospace industry itself.

Dr. Ruben Mettler, president of TRW Systems, which owns a plant near San Clemente, was among those attending. Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson sat at the President's side during the talks.

Funeral services for the Newport Beach resident are pending today at Pacific View Mortuary.

Federal examiners also checked the flight recorder which was found undamaged in the rubble of the $5 million air-craft which was scattered over 10,000 square vard area. It will be used to determine what caused the crash.

The fatal crash at 6:31 a.m. was the first involving a commercial airliner in the 42-year history of Ontario International Airport.

The four-engine jet was on a routine training mission when it came down in a vineyard about 3,000 feet short of runway 25.

The victims, all Western pilots with at least seven years experience, were taking one of the airline's periodic proficiency check flights. The dead were Raymond E. Benson, 49, Palos Verdes Estates: Schumacher: Henry L. Coffin, 39, Palos Verdes; Kent M. Dobson, 32, Canoga Park; and Harold A. McMillan. 48, South Gate.

Paralyzed Man Saved From Ravine Bottom

HAYWARD (UPI) - A 21-year-old paralyzed youth was rescued Wednesday after spending 12 hours at the bottom of a ravine yelling for help.

Jeffrey Langley was en route to mail letters late Tuesday when his wheelchair rolled down an' old hiking trail and over a 25-foot embankment into Sulphur Creek Ravine. A passing high school student finally heard Langley's cries and summoned firemen, who hauled the youth to safety in an hour-long operation.

Of Church Rites

The DAILY PILOT is planning a special story to run Wednesday announcing special services scheduled by Orange Coast churches and temples marking the primary days of Holy Week, Easter Sunday and the Passover.

The final deadline for all material to run in this story will be Monday at 5 p.m. Any material received after that time will probably not be included.

The items should include name of the church, address, service times, pastor or rabbi's name, sermon and any other material essential to the services. Please be brief.

The articles can be submitted to any DAILY PILOT office. Addresses include: 330 W. Bay St., Costa Mesa; 2211 W. Balboa Blvd., Newport Beach; 222 Forest Ave., Laguna Beach; 17875 Beach Blvd., Huntington Beach; 305 N. El Camino Real, San Clemente.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said in San Clemente that as of noon Pacific Time Wednesday the White House was swamped with some 5,000 wires and 1,500 telephone calls.

Asked whether Nixon would have the power to give clemency, Ziegler replied, "that would not be a procedure that would be taken at this time."

He said the President could eventually be involved in a Calley appeal, but not at this stage.

Ziegler declined to give the president's personal reaction to the verdict or the sentencing to life imprisonment.

Asked whether it was an unusual bombardment of public sentiment, Ziegler said with a smile: "It's a very large number of telegrams for the White House to receive - almost as high as the Presidential address."

Shark Attack? No, Porpoises

Some surfers out for early morning rides today at Newport Pier in Newport Beach thought they were being attacked by sharks.

Police units were rushed to the scene armed and prepared to protect the surfers from the denizens of the deep.

"When we got there, we found out there weren't any sharks at all," said Lt. Kelson McDaniel. "It was just a small school of porpoises having a good time."

McDaniel said the mammals frolicked in the surf - charging the surfers, then veering off for several minutes before moving on

Laguna School Board Hears Growth Report

By PATRICK BOYLE Of the Daily Pilet Staff

Based on the present growth rate, the Laguna Beach schools could operate with existing facilities until 1983, according to a special report presented Tuesday to the school board.

The growth analysis was prepared by the staff of the Laguna Beach Unified School District under the direction of Superintendent William Ullom. In making the analysis, Dr. Ullom not only made his own predictions of actual student increases, but also included for comparison past predictions made by hired consulting firms. Board of trustee members lauded the school district staff for the high quality of the report.

"The city would pay $50,000 for this type of study, and not get as good a job," Dr. Norman Browne told Ullom.

The growth predictions for school enrollment are based on the three percent yearly growth rate which the district has experienced for the past 18 years, Ullom said.

Using a series of graphs and tables to explain the implications of this three percent increase, the report said the three elementary schools will not reach capacity enrollment of 2,050 students until 1983. Likewise, Thurston Intermediate school, which now has 455 students, will be filled in 1985 with slightly over 700 students.

Laguna Beach High School, which now has just over 1,000 students, will reach its 1.350 capacity in 1979. However, instruction superintendent Dr. Robert Reeves said another 500 students could be "squeezed in" by having eight periods rather than seven per day and by using all available space, such as having classes in the auditorium.

The report noted the past studies of district growth has been "totally unrealistic" in their predictions. The 1959 Laguna Beach General Plan predicted a student population of 14,700 by 1990, making it necessary to have 13 elementary, four intermediate and three high schools. Ullom's report forecast only 5,221 students by 1990.

Another study, done by Melbo and Associates in 1961 (for the district), projected an enrollment of almost 10,000 students by 1970, which the writer of the report called "conservative." The report based its prediction on total "saturation" of the land with a population of 75,000 housed in "multi-storied apartment buildings of considerable height."

Although the district will not grow at a phenomenal rate, Ullom's report did note that the increase could be greater than the annual three percent of past years. He said one indicator of an increase in growth was that in the last 10 years annual school enrollment increases have been about 50 percent greater than the increase of new dwelling units.

In discussing the report, school trustees voiced concern about finding open land on which to build new schools. Based on the growth figures, the board indicated another elementary school would be needed in the next 10 years and probably another high school.

But board president Larry Taylor noted that in 1958, the high school was only supposed to last for five more years and he urged caution in hurrying to construct a new facility. He also pointed out that a new high school would cost about $7 million.

Nixon Tells Vast Federal Program

By JOHN VALTERZA Of the Daily Pilot Staff

With a stroke of his pen Wednesday President Nixon shook the sanctity of the Camp Pendleton lands, opening up six miles of beaches and more than 3,000 acres of a prime valley for public use.

And later the chief executive declared the landmark decision in favor of open space was only the beginning of a vast federal program for housecleaning of beaches" - the directive covers 3,000 acres of San Mateo Valley immediately south of the San Clemente City limits and the Orange-San Diego County line.

The new public beach will start about 1,000 feet south of the Presidential complex, bounded downcoast by the county boundary. The Trestles beach will be the buffer zone requested by the Secret Service-a no-man's -land for security purposes.

Immediately south of that area the boundary begins for the new public beach. Almost adjacent to that boundary is the enlisted man's club, a complex of Spanish-style buildings and permanent beach use structures - all of which will be given to the state of California for recreational or office use as it sees fit.

a.m. Wednesday from the Little Ingot, a small shop in the Art Center at 1450 S. Coast Highway. Owner Heri Hoff told investigators two men had come into his store and while he was waiting on one, the second apparently lifted the lid on a glass display case and removed the rings.

Hoff, visibly saddened by the loss of the rare stones, described the suspect to police and provided officers with color photographs of four of the five rings. He said he did not notice the theft until several minutes after the suspect had left his shop, as he was distracted while showing a necklace to the second man, who later was questioned by police.

He described one of the rings as having an "explosion of marquis-shaped diamonds." Another was a rare cinnamon pink diamond set in a gold floral design. A third ring was described as having seven elongated or rectangular diamonds set on end in the gold pattern.

Salt Creek Open On Trial Basis

Salt Creek beach will be open to the public on a trial basis from Saturday to April 18.

Through an agreement arranged by county supervisor Ronald Caspers the public will be allowed to use the much debated strand between Monarch Bay and Dana Point from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. each day during the Easter vacation period.

Supervisors approved the agreement Wednesday with Avco Community Developers Inc. owners of the property. A four-acre dirt parking lot on the inland side of Coast Highway with an access path to the beach will be graded by Avco.

It may not be quite so warm along the Coast Friday, but the morning fog will still be with us. Look for temperatures in the 67 to 77-degree range, Laguna Gals Outlive Guys?

Census Count Shows Women Outnumber Men in Town

The theory that women outlive men is borne out by 1970 census figures for the Laguna Area.

In the general population, women outnumber men by only a slight margin, but that margin increases as age levels go up, with elderly women outnumbering elderly men by more than two to one.

The census gives Laguna Beach a total population of 14,550, of whom 6,896 are male and 7,654 remale, a difference of a mere 758.

However, in the age bracket of 65 or over, the census takers counted only 886 Laguna men, as opposed to 1,736 women.

The plethora of women, especially elderly women is considerably more marked in the Laguna Hills area, which encompasses Leisure World.

Of a total Laguna Hills population of 13,676, the census takers counted 8,149 females and 5.527 males, the ladies leading by a tidy, 2,622.

In the over-65 bracket the difference was even more pronounced, with a count of 3,834 males and 5,638 females.

Both areas are predominantly white, the census figures show. Laguna has a count of 90 Negro inhabitants and 170 of other non-white races.

In Laguna Hills, the census man counted only one Negro and 23 members of other non-white races.

Desert Rock Fest Dangers Revealed

SACRAMENTO (AP) - A federal official said today a planned rock festival in the California desert could cause both human suffering and environmental damage.

The caution came from J. R. Penny, California director for the U.S. Bureau of Land Management which is the landlord for most of the Southern California desert region.

Penny said BLM officials had been advised that 300,000 to 500,000 young people might gather in the Panamint Valley west of Death Valley for the festival over Easter weekend.

Penny said Inyo County officials had obtained a temporary restraining order in an effort to halt the festival, but that neither the county nor the BLM had the forces to stop large numbers of people from going into the area.

Some young people, from as far away as New York and Chicago, already had begun camping on the scene, BLM officials said today. Law officers and federal officials were to meet in the Inyo County town of Independence to map strategy.

Penny cautioned that young people risked a threat to their health by attending the festival, if it comes off as planned. He cited poor access to the area over 25 miles of poor desert roads, blowing sand, extreme temperatures and the lack of water and shelter.

"The sheer numbers of people also pose a real threat to the fragile ecological balance of the desert itself," Penny said.

The festival is planned on an 80-acre plot of private land near the historical ghost mining town of Ballarat, Penny said, "but in fact would be largely held on public land because of the numbers of people expected."

The injunction was against the landlord, a promoter identified only as "Zamora" and 15 John Does.

Penny said the nearest hospital is 50 miles away and "obtaining treatment for ill or injured persons would be virtually impossible if a crush similar to those of similar festivals at Woodstock, N.Y. or Altament, Calif., were to develop.

The San Onofre Surfing Club area is next, situated on a point well known for its excellent surf.

The next downcoast facility is the San Onofre Nuclear reactor complex, with its one existing station (two more are proposed for next door). The reactor land area will be closed to the public, but the shoreline seaward of the towering sea wall will be open.

· Directly south of that complex lies the line where the new San Onofre Bluffs State Beach begins. It will be dedicated Saturday.

That section, leased to the state of California last year after tough negotiations with the Marine Corps, is 3.5 miles long.

Computing the 3.5 miles of that beach and blufftop with the new areas opened up by the Presidential order, the length of the new public beach will be six miles long-exactly one-third of the entire Camp Pendleton coastline which stretches 18 miles from San Clemente to Oceanside.

The upland area involved in the declaration of surplus is acreage known as San Mateo Canyon, an area used for years as leased agricultural land. Christianitos Creek runs the length of the valley, sometimes flowing to the sea during wet months.

The property, under terms of the executive order, would have to remain available for suitable public uses, said the President's Domestic Policy Coordinator John D. Erlichmanm.

The initial offer will be to the State California and the city of San Clemente. Curiously, the county of San Diego, where the land in question lies, was not mentioned in the offer.

No charge would be made if either or both of the named entities took the territory.

If neither decides to make it, Erlichman explained, then the federal government would sell it to private interests and place the money into a special trust fund to pay for purchases of other land in the United States suitable for public recreational uses.

Man Hit by Nudie; Files Huge Lawsuit

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) - Alvin Glasky says he was hit by a falling nude and wants $403,700 in damages for internal and external injuries. Glasky filed a suit in district court against the Stardust Hotel on the Las Vegas "strip."

He said he was at the "Lido de Paris" show April 5, 1969, when a topless showgirl was lowered from the ceiling in the gambling spa's show room. The suit said the topless showgirl fell from the platform and landed on Glasky.

Laguna Beach police will go onto the with other beach communities. In earlier years it was customary to beef up the local police force with Sheriff's deputies for Easter Week, but this has not been deemed necessary lately. Last year the holiday was so peaceful 12-hour police shifts were canceled in mid-week.

The fact that colleges and different school districts are on varying spring vacation schedules this year is helping to spread out the holiday traffic, Schopen noted

Promotion of an Easter "happening" in the Death Valley area also is expected

2 DAILY PILOT

A freeway widening project along the San Diego Freeway near San Juan Capistrano will begin six months ahead of schedule, according to James A. Moe, state director of public works.

The project calls for the widening of a 1.5-mile section from six to eight lanes between De La Camino Estrella in San Clemente to Camino Las Ramblas in San Juan Capistrano.

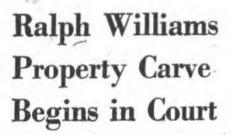

The estimated cost of the construction is $4.4 million.

The project will be paid for with part of $40 million the Federal Highway Administration made available to the state this week. The funds, which are matched by the state, will be used on State Highway construction in areas such as Orange County, where a high unemployment rate exists.

The projects funded with these monies had already been identified by the state for construction, Moe said. Funds earmarked for these projects will be used in turn to advance other projects now further off in the construction schedule.

The San Juan project was scheduled for advertising in January, 1972. Bids will now be sought in June of this year.

In addition to the freeway widening, the project includes widening of Pacific Coast Highway from its connection with the freeway to the Camino Capistrano undercrossing and construction of an interchange to connect the highway with Camino Las Ramblas.

West Relived

Cattle Branded in Viejo

By BARBARA DUARTE

Early Wednesday morning as the sun began to warm gently sloping hills still green from spring rains, the sound of a lone bird mingled with the shrill cry of a cowboy.

Following the sound to the hills to the south, spectators watched several dots multiply as trainhands from Rancho Mission Viejo herded cows and calves toward corrals nestled in a canyon lined with shade trees and a long-dry creek bed.

And the old West came to life again -almost within earshot of traffic traveling the San Diego-Freeway to the west and Ortega Highway to the north.

But civilization seemed far away as more than 500 cows and calves halted in midstride, en route to corrals, to record a guttural protest at a group of photographers and reporters perched on the canyon hillside.

In a tradition practiced for more than 100 years on the 50,000-acre spread, cowboys soon were busy roping, branding, castrating and dehorning more than 200 calves.

Cows bellowed at their offspring and offspring bellowed back as they were wrestled to the ground for a two-minute session ending with a king-size shot of antibiotics and vitamins.

Cowboys, including movie personality Monte Montana who joins the roundup each year, swung lassos over hind legs of game 300-pounders and dragged them to small bands of wranglers.

In a quick ceremony, a hot branding iron stamped the ranch logo on the calf's rump, an ear was clipped for identification, horns were lopped off by a hacksaw, the castrated area was smeared with creosote, and the unhappy voungster disappeared into the herd for motherly consolation.

Participating in morning activity was Gil Aguirre, ranch superintendent who has posed for Marlboro ads; Mrs. Alice O'Neill Avery, a partner in O'Neill Properties, and her hard-working rancher sons, Jerome and Tony Moiso.

Singled out for recognition and a lifetime slot on the ranch by Mrs. Avery were 63-year-old Cecil Martinez who was

That agreement was condemned by Mrs. Williams' attorney during the trial as "unrealistic." Judge Steiner was urged to include more generous provisions pending a settlement that could give Mrs. Williams half of the substantial estate.

Assets listed by Williams in the court file include his Ford dealerships at Encino and Clovis, property holdings throughout the Southland and the couple's $275,000 home in Newport.

of telegrams and telephone calls running almost 100-to-1 in favor of clemency for Lt. William Calley. Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said in San Clemente that as of noon Pacific Time Wednesday the White House was swamped with some 5,000 wires and 1,500 telephone calls.

Asked whether Nixon would have the power to give clemency, Ziegler replied, "that would not be a procedure that would be taken at this time."

He said the President could eventually be involved in a Calley appeal, but not at this stage.

Ziegler declined to give the president's personal reaction to the verdict or the sentencing to life imprisonment.

Asked whether it was an unusual bombardment of public sentiment, Ziegler said with a smile: "It's a very large number of telegrams for the White House to receive - almost as high as the Presidential address."

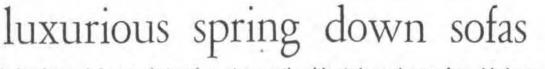

Shark Attack? No, Porpoises

Some surfers out for early morning rides today at Newport Pier in Newport Beach thought they were being attacked by sharks.

Police units were rushed to the scene armed and prepared to protect the surfers from the denizens of the deep.

"When we got there, we found out there weren't any sharks at all," said Lt. Kelson McDaniel. "It was just a small school of porpoises having a good time."

McDaniel said the mammals frolicked in the surf - charging the surfers, then veering off for several minutes before moving on.

City, State Súrprised Over Beach Giveaway

Reaction from the city of San Clemente and the state of California to President Nixon's offer of six miles of new beach and an entire valley amounted to surprise and glee followed swiftly by some vexing questions.

City Manager Ken Carr termed the offer of the 3,000-acre San Mateo Canyon to San Clemente an "exciting idea." But because of no prior knowledge of the Presidential order offering the prime

ment is good only if either the city or the state use the land for public use

As for the state reaction to the offer of the canyon and the huge chunk of Camp Pendleton beach, it is one of pleasure mixed with a tinge of bitterness and uncertainty. What the President has done, said

one top state parks official, is give a large chunk of obviously prime beach land to an agency whose budget is being decimated year by year. "It's wonderful, but. . ." said Mervyn

Filipponi, a state parks consultant from Sacramento.

"All of a sudden we have six miles of beach, some very attractive buildings and absolutely no money from the governor to use in its development," he said.

He stressed the irony of new windfalls of land from the federal government while state officials are cutting the parks and recreation budget to the bare bone.

State parks spokesmen repeatedly have said that money does not exist for the initial 3.5-mile San Onofre bluffs beach.

In fact, next week's seven-day inaugural use of the beach is the only way to raise enough funds to keep the park open.

Campers are being charged fees to use the virgin beach-the funds to go into a special account to cover expenses. If the state will have its fiscal problems with the six miles of beach, San Clemente would find itself, apparently, in a heavyweight tangle of legalities if it were to accept the San Meteo Canyon land.

Carr explained that under federal law, annexations of land across county lines are forbidden.

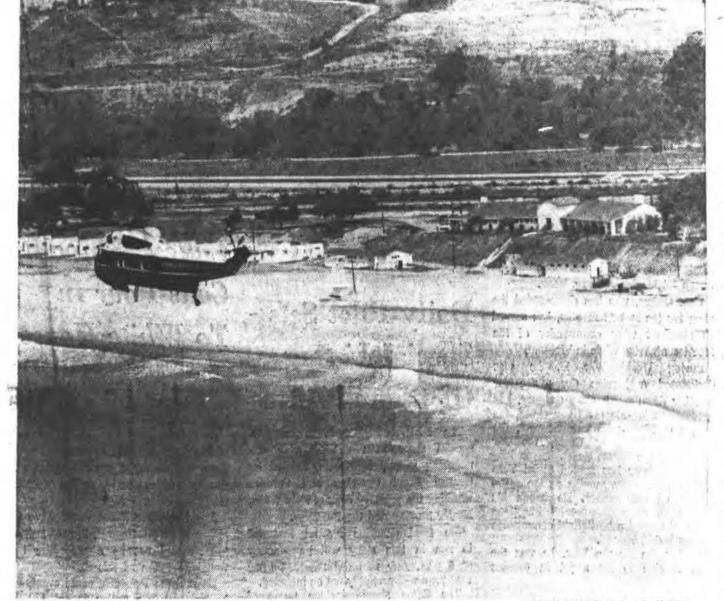

"If we were to try to annex the land, even for public use," Carr explained," then it would take an act of the State Legislature to make it legal." Judicial boundaries, and county boundaries would have to be changed as well

Both Carr and Filipponi said the news of the President's decision came as an "absolute, total surprise."

Nixon Tells Vast Federal Program

By JOHN VALTERZA

Of the Dally Pilot Staff With a stroke of his pen Wednesday President Nixon shook the sanctity of the Camp Pendleton lands, opening up six miles of beaches and more than 3,000 acres of a prime valley for public use.

And later the chief executive declared the landmark decision in favor of open space was only the beginning of a vast federal program for housecleaning of surplus government real estate.

The affected area is within sight of the Western White House.

Immediately south of that area that boundary begins for the new public beach.

Almost adjacent to that boundary is the enlisted man's club, a complex of Spanish-style buildings and permanent beach use structures - all of which will be given to the state of California for recreational or office use as it sees fit.

The San Onofre Surfing Club area is next, situated on a point well known for its excellent surf.

The next downcoast facility is the San Onofre Nuclear reactor complex, with its one existing station (two more

Calley was convicted of the premeditated murder of 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai. He was sentenced Wednesday to life in prison.

Reaction continued to mount around the nation as Calley waited in the Ft. Benning stockade for a transfer to federal prison.

The White House, according to Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, had received more than 5,000 wires and 1,500 telephone calls concerning the conviction. They were running almost 100-1 in favor of clemency for Calley, he said.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., real estate man Walter J. Dilbeck said Wednesday he and 100 "coordinators" around the nation were laving plans for a mass march on Washington July 4 on behalf of all GIs charged in the My Lai incident. "We intend to have one million people In Washington that day and we intend to stay there until these men are released." Dilbeck said.

E. Thomas Cammarota, commander of the Pennsylvania American Legion, called on President Nixon to heed those urging clemency.

"If President Nixon sees fit not to listen to the thousands of telegrams that already have been sent to him. we are prepared to march on Washington." Cammarota said.

Robert Cadle, a retired Army sergeant who says the verdict was "a lot of bull," said Wednesday he and a "Free Calley Committee" with branches in all states but Hawaii will lead 50,000 people in a march on Washington after a petition drive.

"This whole thing has boomeranged all out of proportion," Cadle said. "People call in and they cuss, cuss, cuss, Are they mad. I've never seen anything like this verdict in my life."

All, the members of local Selective Service Boards in Elizabethton, Tenn. and Athens and Blairsville, Ga., resigned. Members of the Quitman, Ga., board wired Nixon they would not induct any more men.

Salt Creek Open On Trial Basis

Salt Creek beach will be open to the public on a trial basis from Saturday to April 18.

Through an agreement arranged by county supervisor Ronald Caspers the public will be allowed to use the much debated strand between Monarch Bay and Dana Point from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. each day during the Easter vacation period.

Supervisors approved the agreement Wednesday with Avco Community Developers Inc. owners of the property. A four-acre dirt parking lot on the inland side of Coast Highway with an access path to the beach will be graded by Avco

The county will reimburse the company for the cost of lifeguards, sanitary facilities and beach maintenance and will operate the parking lot. San Clemente lifeguards are expected to man the beach.

More Quake Aftershocks Jar San Fernando Valley

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Just two years after various visionaries predicted a great earthquake would tumble the whole sinful Southland into the sea, two more aftershocks of the major February tremor struck early today.

They were preceded Wednesday by a temblor that rattled up to 4.0 on the Richter Scale and caused heavier damage in some San Fernando Valley areas than the Feb. 9 quake.

Today's aftershocks came at 3:48 a.m., with a 2.7 rating, and at 7:03 a.m., with a 3.7 mark.

Some Orange County residents reported noticing the later, stronger jolt, which was strongest in the Northridge and Devonshire areas of the hard-hit San Fernando Balley.

The heavy aftershock that came at 5:54 p.m. Wednesday, about eight miles from the epicenter of the disaster two months ago, was the worst yet.

The epicenter was directly under a heavily populated area, according to Caltech seismologist Dr. John Nordquist. Six persons suffered minor injuries, while canned goods and bottles tumbled from store shelves, glass windows shattered and plaster fell from ceilings.

The Los Angeles Police Department's Devonshire Division suffered extensive damage.

"If it had happened five minutes later, we might have had some injuries," said Lt. Dan Sullivan, noting the roll call room would have been full of patrolmen at muster.

Six minor fires were also reported, along with some new but minor damage to the county's 48-inch Granada Trunk Line carrying water into the area.

One of the hardest-hit homes was that of Hal Sanders, who escaped with minor damage in the Feb. 9 quake that killed 65 persons and caused millions of my wire's crystal fell over on the tershocks, some too small for humans to feel.

Such tremors in the wake of a major quake are almost always lesser in intensity, but several have been recorded at over 3.0 on the Richter Scale.

The blockbuster decision involves a coveted enlisted man's beach club and a private surfing club-long the object of criticism, along with the shoreline in front of the San Onofre nuclear generating complex and the new San Onofre Bluffs State Beach south of that.

Besides the prime coastal land-described by the President as "one of the country's last great swimming beaches" - the directive covers 3,000 acres of San Mateo Valley immediately south of the San Clemente City limits and the Orange-San Diego County line.

The new public beach will start about 1,000 feet south of the Presidential complex, bounded downcoast by the county boundary. The Trestles beach will be the buffer zone requested by the Secret Service-a no-man's land for security purposes.

are proposed for next door). The reactor land area will be closed to the public, but the shoreline seaward of the towering sea wall will be open.

Directly south of that complex lies the line where the new San Onofre Bluffs State Beach begins. It will be dedicated Saturday.

That section, leased to the state of California last year after tough negotiations with the Marine Corps, is 3.5 miles long.

Computing the 3.5 miles of that beach and blufftop with the new areas opened up by the Presidential order, the length of the new public beach will be six miles long-exactly one-third of the entire Camp Pendleton coastline which stretches 18 miles from San Clemente to Oceanside.

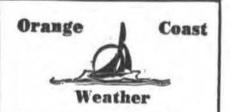

The upland area involved in the declaration of surplus is acreage known as San Mateo Canyon, an area used for years as leased agricultural land. Christianitos Creek runs the length of the valley, sometimes flowing to the sea during wet months.

The property, under terms of the executive order, would have to remain available for suitable public uses, said the President's Domestic Policy Coordinator John D. Erlichmanm.

The initial offer will be to the State of California and the city of San Clemente. Curiously, the county of San Diego, where the land in question lies, was not mentioned in the offer.

No charge would be made if either or both of the named entities took the territory.

If neither decides to make it, Erlichman explained, then the federal government would sell it to private interests and place the money into a special trust fund to pay for purchases of other land in the United States suitable for public recreational uses.

It may not be quite so warm along the Coast Friday, but the morning fog will still be with us. Look for temperatures in the 67 to 77-degree range.

Rock Fest Ecology Peril?

SACRAMENTO (AP) - A federal official said today a planned rock festival in the California desert could cause both human suffering and environmental damage.

The caution came from J. R. Penny, California director for the U.S. Bureau of Land Management which is the landlord for most of the Southern California desert region.

Penny said BLM officials had been advised that 300,000 to 500,000 young people might gather in the Panamint Valley west of Death Valley for the festival over Easter weekend.

Penny said Inyo County officials had obtained a temporary restraining order in an effort to halt the festival, but that neither the county nor the BLM had the forces to stop large numbers of people from going into the area. Some young people, from as far away as New York and Chicago, already had begun camping on the scene. BLM officials said today. Law officers and federal officials were to meet in the Inyo County town of Independence to map strategy.

Penny cautioned that young people risked a threat to their health by attending the festival, if it comes off as planned. He cited poor access to the area over 25 miles of poor desert roads, blowing sand, extreme temperatures and the lack of water and shelter.

"The sheer numbers of people also pose a real threat to the fragile ecological balance of the desert itself," Penny said. The festival is planned on an 80-acre plot of private land near the historical ghost mining town of Ballarat, Penny said, "but in fact would be largely held on public land because of the numbers of people expected."

The injunction was against the landlord, a promoter identified only as "Zamora" and 15 John Does.

Penny said the nearest hospital is 50 miles away and "obtaining treatment for ill or injured persons would be virtually impossible if a crush similar to those of similar festivals at Woodstock, N.Y. or Altamont, Calif., were to develop."

2 DAILY PILOT SD Freeway Widening Begins Soon

Thursday, April 1, 1971

A freeway widening project along the San Diego Freeway near San Juan Capistrano will begin six months ahead of schedule, according to James A. Moe, state director of public works.

. The project calls for the widening of a 1.5-mile section from six to eight lanes between De La Camino Estrella in San Clemente to Camino Las Ramblas in San Juan Capistrano.

The estimated cost of the construction is $4.4 million.

The project will be paid for with part of $40 million the Federal Highway Administration made available to the state this week. The funds, which are matched by the state, will be used on State Highway construction in areas such as Orange County, where a high unemployment rate exists.

The projects funded with these monies had already been identified by the state for construction, Moe said. Funds earmarked for these projects will be used in turn to advance other projects now further off in the construction schedule.

The San Juan project was scheduled for advertising in January, 1972. Bids will now be sought in June of this year.

In addition to the freeway widening, the project includes widening of Pacific Coast Highway from its connection with the freeway to the Camino Capistrano undercrossing and construction of an interchange to connect the highway with Camino Las Ramblas.

Daily Pilot Sets Special Listing

West Relived

Cattle Branded in Viejo

By BARBARA DUARTE Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Early Wednesday morning as the sun began to warm gently sloping hills still green from spring rains, the sound of a lone bird mingled with the shrill cry of a cowboy.

Following the sound to the hills to the south, spectators watched several dots multiply as trainhands from Rancho Mission Viejo herded cows and calves toward corrals nestled in a canyon lined with shade trees and a long-dry creek bed.

And the old West came to life again -almost within earshot of traffic traveling the San Diego Freeway to the west and Ortega Highway to the north.

But civilization seemed far away as more than 500 cows and calves halted in midstride, en route to corrals, to record a guttural protest at a group of photographers and reporters perched on the canyon hillside.

In a tradition practiced for more than 100 years on the 50,000-acre spread, cowboys soon were busy roping, branding, castrating and dehorning more than 200 calves.

Cows bellowed at their offspring and offspring bellowed back as they were wrestled to the ground for a two-minute session ending with a king-size shot of antibiotics and vitamins.

Cowboys, including movie personality Monte Montana who joins the roundup each year, swung lassos over hind legs of game 300-pounders and dragged them to small bands of wranglers.

In a quick ceremony, a hot branding iron stamped the ranch logo on the calf's rump, an ear was clipped for identification, horns were lopped off by a hacksaw, the castrated area was smeared with creosote, and the unhappy youngster disappeared into the herd for motherly consolation.

Participating in morning activity was Gil Aguirre, ranch superintendent who has posed for Marlboro ads; Mrs. Alice O'Neill Avery, a partner in O'Neill Properties, and her hard-working rancher sons, Jerome and Tony Moiso.

Singled out for recognition and a lifetime slot on the ranch by Mrs. Avery were 63-year-old Cecil Martinez who was Cattle buyers for the new herd already have selected lots, Aguirre disclosed. And in the true tradition of the West, buying and selling is done by oral agreement.

President Meets With Aerospace Industry Chiefs

President Nixon met this morning with more than a dozen leaders in the aerospace industry and members of the scientific community in a concerted effort to stave off the massive unemployment which has hit that profession in recent months.

No immediate results of the meeting were available at mid-morning from Nixon aides.

Included in the group which met with the President in his San Clemente office were members of large western colleges and universities, manufacturers, and representatives of the hard-hit aerospace industry itself.

Dr. Ruben Mettler, president of TRW Systems, which owns a plant near San Clemente, was among those attending. Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson sat at the President's side during the talks.

That agreement was condemned by Mrs. Williams' attorney during the trial as "unrealistic." Judge Steiner was urged to include more generous provisions pending a settlement that could give Mrs. Williams half of the substantial estate.

Assets listed by Williams in the court file include his Ford dealerships at Encino and Clovis, property holdings throughout the Southland and the couple's $275,000 home in Newport.

Williams and his wife married March 9, 1957 and parted Dec. 4, 1969. Mrs. Williams has custody of the two children.

Flight Records Found in Probe Of Jet Rubble

National Transportation Safety Board examiners today probed the ruins of a Boeing 720B jet transport which claimed the life of a Newport Beach man when it crashed Wednesday at Ontario International Airport.

Richard E. Schumacher, 53, of 1501 Mariners Drive, was among five Western Airlines pilots killed when the plane crashed in a fiery ball.

Funeral services for the Newport Beach resident are pending today at Pacific View Mortuary.

Federal examiners also checked the flight recorder which was found undamaged in the rubble of the $5 million aircraft which was scattered over 10,000 square yard area. It will be used to determine what caused the crash.

The fatal crash at 6:31 a.m. was the first involving a commercial airliner in the 42-year history of Ontario International Airport.

The four-engine jet was on a routine training mission when it came down in a vineyard about 3,000 feet short of runway 25.

The victims, all Western pilots with at least seven years experience, were taking one of the airline's periodic proficiency check flights. The dead were Raymond E. In the late 1950s a letter written by George Washington saying that the President should be the "slave" of the people rather than their master sold for $500. A decade later this letter was auctioned for $25,000 - an all-time record for a letter.

Utterly fascinating has been the upspiral over the years in prices paid for autographs, letters, manuscripts and other documents signed by famous people. The rises, in fact, have dramatically outpaced gains in many other traditional investments.

Estimates Charles Hamilton, head of Charles Hamilton Galleries, Inc., in New York, the nation's largest dealer in autographs: "This year alone, Americans will invest and gamble something like $50 million in autographs. Prominent among the buyers will be major libraries and universities. Buyers will pay a full 20 percent more than the prices they paid last

by TERRY GRANT, R.Ph

When a medicine does not require a prescription, we commonly call it an O-T-C, or over the counter drug. However, this does not mean that it cannot be harmful if taken incorrectly or to excess.

The most important con-sideration for any drug in this category is common sense. Do not expect it to cure anything but simple ailments. Be aware that if the symptoms for which you take such a drug recur that you should seek the advice of your physician. We stock and sell a great many O-T-C products and are pleased to give you guidance for their safe use.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deand charge accounts.

Walk on Beach Spawned Decision by Nixon

PRESIDENT PREPARES TO TAKE AERIAL VIEW OF BEACH Chief Executive Aired Views On Land For The People

Nixon Considers Freeing Beach

President Nixon was reported Wednesday in San Clemente to be preparing shortly to open for public use a strip of Waikiki Beach in Hawaii, which is now run by the Navy as a recreation area for Vietnam servicemen.

The beachfront, owned by the federal government at an estimated cost of $100 million, is located at Fort De Russy and lies between the Hawaiian Village and the Reef Hotel.

John Ehrlichman, the President's assistant for domestic-affairs, said the President Nixon said fondly Wednesday that a walk on his beach at Cotton's Point spawned his decision to open onethird of Camp Pendleton shoreline to public use.

"I remember that walk, and thinking about the millions of residents of California who don't have enough beaches to walk on," he related.

Then, he said his mind turned downcoast to Camp Pendleton-a stretch of shoreline clearly visible from Cotton's Point

"Here is a beach within an hour's driving distance for 10 million residents of Southern California," he added.

A year ago, he related, his office launched a plan through the General Services Administration and a property review board which he established after taking office to sift over the thousands of deeds of federal land.

The land better used for public recreation, he said, would be turned over to public unc.

And the Camp Pendleton decision, he said, would be the first of many similar ones he added.

President Nixon, and his aides joined a pool of press representatives for a 20-minute flight by helicopter over the new public beaches Wednesday morning and termed the area "simply wonderful," During the flyover he offered suggestions that perhaps some parts of the blufftops involved in the transfer could be used as sites for restaurants to provide visitors "with that spectacular view."

But he also gave some opinions on the environmental preservation of the tidelands and beaches themselves.

The President turned to domestic policy coordinator John Erlichmann and asked about the prowess of the California Department of Parks and Recreation in the field of environmental preservation.

Erlichmann responded that the reputation of that agency was good.

"Then I'm sure they won't clutter

it up," the President said.

Looking over the area of the new San Onofre Bluffs State Beach, he predicted thousands of visitors to the rough, undeveloped area during this weekend's dedication rites.

The beach, which forms more than half of the land planned for public use at Pendleton, will open for one week only during Easter Week.

The President's decision Wednesday marked what easily could be the most significant deed immediately affecting the San Clemente area coastline since he bought the old Cotton Estate in 1969.

"Just think," he mused, "if I hadn'l taken that walk, maybe nothing would have happened today."

County OKs Plan for Local Parks

After more than a year of discussion, county supervisors Wednesday adopted a plan for the establishment of local neighborhood parks in developing unincorporated areas but admitted that the ordinance they approved could stand some future changes.

The plan fundamentally calls for four acres of local parks per 1,000 population but 1.5 acres can be provided by schools. The developer is required to provide the other 21/2 acres or money to purchase the property.

Principal objections to the plan came from Laguna Hills Leisure World. and Mission Viejo developers. They mainfor private facilities provided in their planned communities.

Such credit is not provided for in the ordinance and will probably be the subject of future changes.

Supervisor David L. Baker said that where private recreation facilities are provided if the county requires an additional public neighborhood facility it would amount to a double burden on the property owners.

Supervisor Ronald Caspers agreed this was true if it was 100 percent mandatory that property owners finance and maintain recreational facilities "but where tained that they should be given credit it is a 25 percent membership factor I don't think it suffices."

> Mission Viejo executive Phil Charlton said his organization had three voluntary recreation facilities with about a 25 percent membership and in addition had installed seven neighborhood parks which average about 12.5 acres per 1,000 population.

He said he felt his company should have credit for these facilities in assessing the 21/2 acres per 1,000 formula.

Robert Linberg, Rossmoore Leisure World executive, said his firm provided 220 acres of developed recreation facilities for 14,000 residents and felt they should have credit for them.

Discussion brought out the fact that once the park land was acquired by the county it would be developed and maintained through assessments on local county service area residents.

County Administrative Officer Robert E. Thomas said no supervised playground activities were planned.

Ten of Orange County's 25 cities have similar park ordinances with most requiring a donation of land or equivalent cash for 2.5 acres per 1,000 persons.

The cost of such provisions is estimated at about $1,000 per home on the original cost.

Many Residents Remain In Homes Hit by Quake seriously damaged in the Feb. 9 earthquake are not being abandoned in large numbers as feared, say officials for two major savings and loan firms holding mortgages in the badly shaken San Fernando-Sylmar area.

Only three of about 800 dwellings his company holds mortgages on in that area have been abandoned, John S. Fuller, secretary-treasurer of the San Fernando Valley Federal Savings and Loan Association told the Los Angeles County Earthquake Commission on Wednesday.

Of the 800, Fuller said, about half sustained some damage but for only 40 to 50 did it exceed $5,000.

Fullerton speculated that many homeowners facing massive rebuilding and heavy debt following the quake "have now realized that they don't like living in a trailer, an apartment or with their cousins and are moving back in.

Fuller and Kenneth D. Johnson, a vice president of California Federal Savings and Loan Association, said most loan companies are automatically allowing owners of damaged homes to defer mortgage payments three months.

The companies also are refinancing

Ecology Trip Site Changed

A charter bus taking Laguna housewives on an "ecological" shopping trip to the San Fernando Valley Friday will leave from the Festival of Arts grounds rather than the Chamber of Commerce office as stated earlier.

Luisa Hyun, chairman of Pro-environment-People (PEP) which is sponsoring the trip, said that although the PEP office is located at Chamber headquarters, the bus will leave from the Festival grounds because of parking problems in the Chamber area. Departure is scheduled at 9 a.m.

The shopping trip will take ecology minded Lagunans to Alexander's Market in Encino, first major chain to feature environmentally acceptable goods throughout its stores.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Homes existing loans over a longer period so homeowners can meet mortgage payments in addition to a 51/2 percent Small Business Administration loan for repairs, the two men said.

> Johnson also noted that his firm is making "interim" loans at lower-thannormal interest rates for persons who wish to rebuild at once and don't want to wait until their SBA money comes.

When the cost to repair quake damage exceeds what a person already has invested in a home, the two men said, the loan companies in some cases are absorbing part of the loss as an incentive to keep owners from merely allowing a foreclosure.

Mayor Sam Yorty, meanwhile, at his weekly news conference Wednesday, said he has asked state Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger if the state could legally subsidize disaster insurance and make it retroactive to the first of the year.

If Younger says yes, Yorty said, he will submit such a plan to Gov. Reagan.

Yorty also said there is "some substance" to the federal government's contention that since it is paying for $500 million to repair damage to public facilities, Californians should finance repairs on private property.

The Democratic mayor said, "We're not getting very far" in requests for outright grants, from the state or federal governments. Yorty said Reagan has rejected the idea of grants for earthquake victims because the state then would have to provide the same kind of assistance in all disasters.

Fuller said the average homeowner, hoping for federal aid in the way of grants and three percent loans "has been sitting back waiting to see what was going to happen." With the uncertain prospect of grants, "we are now encouraging them to go a head and seek assistance from the SBA so we can get down to solving these problems," he added.

The Greater Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has complained that SBA loans are not being processed fast enough. Of 4,000 applications filed since the earthquake, the chamber said, only 314 residential and nine business loans have been approved.

A chamber spokesman said that Thomas S. Kleppe, national administrator of the SBA, in a meeting in Los Angeles today, was to ask banking and savings and loan firms to provide loan officers, loan clerks, appraisers and other staff to help processing the federal loans.

Nixon Barely Wins House Draft Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Nixon Administration, by a razor thin margin, has won House approval for a two-year extension of the draft, but backers of a volunteer army hope to approve a military pay package that will speed up the President's timetable for ending the draft.

The $2.7 billion pay and quarters allowance increase is three times more expensive than Nixon requested. It would grant in one year starting July 1 the raises Nixon had planned to extend over two years to achieve a zero draft call by mid-1973.

Fulbright's Charge To White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), said "unless we are willing to go all the way" to the White House in seeking to assign blame for any Vietnam war atrocities by Americans, there is "a very serious question of going down this road."

Fulbright said "we are now being caught" by the same principles applied in trials of some Nazi and Japanese leaders on war crimes charges following World War II.

Many defendants in those trials contended they were following higher orders, or that they were unaware of atrocities committed by subordinates.

Lt. William L. Calley Jr., in his trial at Ft. Benning, Ga., on murder charges for the slaying of civilians at My Lai, South Vietnam, relied largely on the argument that he was following orders. The military jury convicted him and sentenced him to life imprisonment Wednesday.

Fulbright was asked about the Calley case and its implications today.

He was interviewed on the CBS morning news program on CBS-TV. "The principle that we applied to Yamashita should be applied here," Fulbright said.

During further questioning, he remarked: "I'm saying there's a very serious question of going down this road unless we are willing to go all the way. . . that means bringing in the commander in chief."

He said it was "quite questionable" to pick out one man - "if he's going to be the only one" - to bear principal responsibility for actions such as My Lai.

"If we're going down that road, we

Egypt Units Fire Salvo Across Suez

By United Press International Egyptian troops opened fire across the Suez Canal, Israeli officials said Wednesday, but there were no injuries and Israeli troops did not fire back. It was the first shooting along the truce line since Aug. 12.

An Israeli spokesman said the Egyptians opened up with short bursts of machinegun fire Monday across the canal near the northern end of the waterway. There was no comment from Cairo on the incident, but only the Aug. 12 shooting has been reported since the Arab-Israeli cease-fire began Aug. 5.

In Amman, Jordan's King Hussein called for an urgent Arab summit conference to discuss the Palestinian issue and the overall situation in the Middle East. He cabled his proposal to leaders of the Arab nations Wednesday night as Jordan recovered from six days of renewed clashes between government troops and Palestinian guerrillas.

In the message, Hussein offered Jordan as a meeting site to discuss "the gravity of the situation and the serious circumstances besetting the Palestinian case." He said the conference also should be used to make a thorough study and to define responsibilities in the Middle East.

In Paris, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad ended his official visit to France by meeting President Georges Pompidou. Egyptian officials said he was happy with the results of the conference held with 18 Egyptian ambassadors to Europe held in Paris during the week and was encouraged by European support for Cairo's Middle East

As an indication of the sentiment for ending the draft, the House Tuesday came within two votes of limiting the President's induction authority to just one more year.

The 200 to 198 vote was also an indication of increasing impatience in the House for an end to the Vietnam war.

Soviet Party Leader Rips Into Chinese

MOSCOW (UPI) - A Soviet Communist Party leader, in a speech to the 24th Party Congress released today, condemned attempts by non-Soviet Communists to modify Marxist theory or set up "models" of socialist states different from the Soviet Union.

Al Ahram also said Egypt has accused the Jordanian government of violating its peace agreements with the Palestinian guerrillas. The Egyptian viewpoint, delivered to Jordan by Egyptian ambassador Osman Nouri in Jordan, also urged an immediate end to bloodshed between the guerrillas and the army.

Deadly Cargo Nazi Sub Poses Peril

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) - A modern Flying Dutchmana sunken German submarine which apparently has drifted under water for nearly 30 years and 400 miles-reportedly is threatening the Florida coast with a deadly cargo of mercury and munitions, federal officials say.

The vessel is believed to contain nearly 200 tons of mercury, a potent contaminant, and explosives including TNT, torpedoes and other armaments.

Howard Zeller, Southeastern chief of water quality standards for the Environmental Protection Agency -EPA -said he was ordered to investigate the situation after a commercial salvage operator reported finding the sub in 25 to 50 feet of water near Tampa Bay on Florida's West Coast.

The salvage operator was identified only by the last name of Gaddy from the Bahama Islands.

Zeller said he notified the government that the sunken hulk bore the number U166.

Another federal official said military records indicate that a U-boat of that number, reportedly a model 1XC, was sunk off New Orleans in 1942.

"It's apparently the same submarine," the official said. "The only explanation we have is that it, like the legendary Flying Dutchman, just drifted aimlessly with the ocean currents.

The Flying Dutchman, a traditional sea story, involves a captain doomed to sail a ghost ship eternally.

Zeller said the EPA concern stems from the fact that the model 1XC submarine, built in the late 1930s, reportedly carried some 200 tons of mercury as ballast.

The Food and Drug Administration has recognized a mercury concentration of .5 parts per million as the danger level in fish and seafood A federal spokesman said however, the government, had "no way to estimate the effect if 200 tons of mercury were suddenly dumped into the Gulf of Mexico."

"All I can say is that it's damn dangerous stuff," an official said.

Denial of Parole May End

Hoffa, serving an eight-year jury tampering sentence, will retain the title of union president for several more months, but Teamsters sources said he will almost certainly be replaced at the union's July convention in Miami Beach, Fla.

A parole would have almost certainly put Hoffa back in the driver's seat of the world's largest, richest, most powerful labor union, in the view of most Teamsters sources.

"If he is out of prison, there is no argument he will be reelected president," said Teamsters Vice President Harold Gibbons recently. But Gibbons added that if parole were denied, he and most other members of the union's 15-man Executive Board would oppose Hoffa's running from behind bars.

The Calley Conviction

The My Lai case can only be termed a national tragedy.

Americans reacted in disbelief when the My Lai "incident" was first revealed.

Now a great many Americans are reacting with disbelief that one man, Lt. William Calley Jr., apparently is to carry the primary burden of guilt for the sorry affair.

As Lt. Calley himself has suggested, the My Lai incident brought together in one place and dramatized for millions all the horrors of war in a way never seen before.

This is the first war that the American people saw literally first-hand through the lens of the TV cameras. And yet it is the least understood of any of the wars in which America has participated.

Part of the problem is the nature of an enemy to whom human lives — those of his own people as well as those of the enemy — mean little or nothing. The atrocities so routinely and systematically committed by the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese were big news in the early days of the war some eight years ago. But they became so frequent and so routine that they have long since ceased to be anything new or different. They have been relegated to the backs of our minds as what is to be expected from this kind of an enemy.

Even when the mass graves of victims of Communist terror were opened at Hue in 1968, there was momentary revulsion. But that, too, faded out of consciousness quickly — perhaps because the victims were not Americans.

Easily forgotten, too, is the fact that this is our first real encounter with guerrilla warfare in which not merely the peaceful-looking rice farmer but even the women and children of all ages all too often have become deadly guerrilla killers when backs were turned or when darkness fell.

In modern wars, civilians — men, women and children — increasingly become the greatest victims. But this is the first war for us in which the civilians have also had to be regarded as active enemy combatants.

In these circumstances, and more that could be recited, the conviction by a military court of Lt. Calley and his sentencing to life imprisonment raises a hard question that is still to be answered:

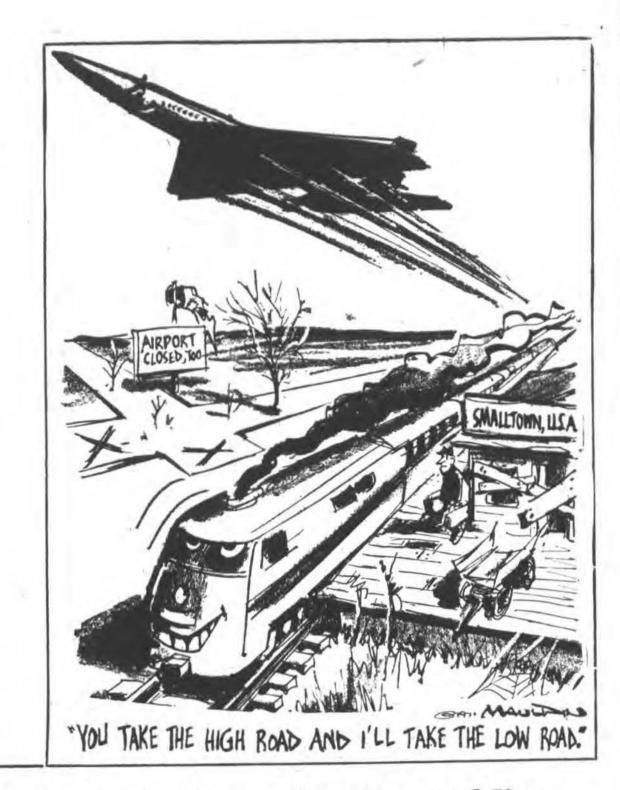

In wars against guerrillas is it possible to draw a meaningful, understandable distinction between "right" and "wrong" killing of civilians? The men who judged Lt. Calley, all combat veterans themselves, apparently felt that such a judgment could be made.

There is the inescapable feeling that someone above Calley shares responsibility for Calley's actions that bloody day and that Calley alone should not bear the whole burden of guilt.

There also is the inescapable feeling that there are extenuating circumstances in this case which make the life sentence imposed upon Calley too harsh.

Considering the great lenience shown convicted murderers in our civilian courts when it can be shown that they were under the least bit of emotional stress, and considering the emphasis placed on giving them another chance, it seems clear that the sentence against Calley is more severe than warranted.

The whole episode will long hang heavily on the conscience of a nation which prides itself as humanitarian and as the defender of the right of the individual of whatever color or station to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Criminal Acts Preceded Exposure, Prosecution Then and Now Facts vs. Fiction on 'McCarthy Era'

WASHINGTON — It was bound to come sooner or later. The political left is eager to pin the McCarthy (Joseph R.) label on the Nixon administration and tries to do so at every opportunity. A scholarly author, who was 17 years old when Senator McCarthy flourished, now compares the red-hunting Wisconsin

An influential State Department adviser was convicted of lying in denying he had supplied a Communist courier with significant documents for transmission to Moscow. Critical American atomic secrets were stolen and handed over to the Russians in a plot first exposed by a thorough-going and to this day unchallenged royal Canadian commission. A Justice Department stenographer was found to be turning over documents to a Communist courier, and convicted in court. There was convincing evidence of Russian collaboration by a prominent sub-cabinet officer, who denied it but died before the evidence could be tested out. A Communist cell with links to Moscow admittedly existed in one government department. A high official denied this, recanted and publicly confessed he had been a Communist and member of the group all along.

in congressional hearings. Television carried the terrible monstrosity of it to the public, leading to his disgrace and death.

But that does not change the fact that there were established and significant instances of Communist penetration and espionage in which American officials participated, as well as terribly bad judgment on the part of others who were duped and used.

So, there was a lot more to the "McCarthy era" than McCarthy, and that should not be lost sight of now regard by Hoover for avoiding intimidation and repression. He was after those who were planning riots and bombings.

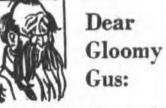

Certainly by now it should be admitted that Hoover also has ample cause to investigate Black Panthers who kill each other and police officers in line of duty more often than police officers kill them. The point is raised that Hoover has been investigating any organization containing the name "freedom" in a militant context. And why not? Such organizations have a long and unenviable record of

New Social Mechanisms Can End War

Thoughts at Large:

To suggest that war will end only when "human aggression" is subdued is to fail to understand both the nature of man and the nature of war: aggression is biological, but war is social, and new social mechanisms can eliminate war, just as the older mechanisms eliminated cannibalism, slavery, and the burning of witches. Bad horsemen use the whip because they have no skill in using the reins, the same is true of parents.

Word of their discontent reached Bob Haldeman, guardian of President Nixon's door, who tipped off the President how they felt. These are criminal acts. It is also a criminal act to try to immobilize the operation of government departments and kidnap a high White House official as a hostage.

THE STOLEN FBI documents, however, are being presented to the public as revealing a sinister plot by J. Edgar Hoover to repress justifiable public dissent. The criminal acts which Hoover is investigating, including the Nor does he like to be reminded today that scores of bombings and extensive violence have preceded the investigations the FBI is making.

As for Agnew, his political expletives are no more McCarthy-like than those of opponents who are currently trying to rival him.

Perspective Needed on SST Project

To the Editor:

As you well know, Mr. President, Railroad carriages are pulled at the enormous speed of 15 m.p.h. by engines which in addition to endangering life and limb of passengers, roar and snort their way through the coumtryside, setting fire to the crops, scaring the livestock and frightening women and children. The Almighty certainly never intended that people should travel at such breakneck speed.

Martin Van Buren (While Governor of New York)

There seems to be some similarity between Van Buren in his letter to President Andrew Jackson and the recent action on the SST by the U.S. Congress. Too many of the arguments against the SST came out sounding like "there might be a problem."

It seems to me that a key element in the great progress that has been made in this country has been the willingness to solve problems not to avoid them. If every possible innovation in the past had been prevented in the presence of some risk or possible problems, we certainly would still be living literally in the dark ages.

THE ANTI-SST ARGUMENTS regarding effects in the upper atmosphere, skin cancer, the boom killing all the fish, etc., should be viewed as technical questions to be investigated and answered but not as reasons to kill the project.

Another anti-SST argument and one that is used frequently against aerospace projects in general, is that we should spend the money on earth to solve our many human problems rather than wasting our resources on airplanes or for these reasons.

Inspectors used to go from door to door checking buildings for health, fire, or other violations. Until recently, they could enter buildings without a warrant.

But now, if the occupant refuses entry, our courts require them to get a warrant to look around inside. But to get a warrant is fairly simple. An inspector merely files an affidavit stating why he wants it. He need not show why he believes there are violations inside.

Unless the owner consents, even after a fire, say, in one part of a house, the inspector, who might find evidence of arson, must get a warrant to inspect the place.

OFFICERS INSPECT some businesses such as pawn shops every day. Their owners keep records open and "consent" to inspection as a condition for staying in business.

An emergency always allows inspection without a warrant. For example, where there is not time for a warrant, an inspector may seize unwholesome food or make a health quarantine where health and safety demand action at once. Public interest may justify regular inspections for fire, health, and safety, but not entry into one's home to "inspect." Our Constitution for bids "unreasonable" searches and seizures.

THE LAW PERMITS random inspection of cars at roadside to detect same period of time we've spent $340 billion on health and welfare (just at the federal government level).

IN FISCAL 1971, we're spending $3.3 billion on all space programs and $77.2 billion on social programs. In other words, we could take all the money we're spending on space programs and add it to the social programs and it only adds 4 percent. The SST ap-

I think it would be hard to deny the many advances in medicine, metals, plastics, power sources, communications and many other fields that have directly resulted from the various aerospace programs. The SST as a research vehicle might well also have made significant contributions to our overall progress.

I HOPE THAT THIS action by Congress doesn't mean that we are afraid to face and solve problems and that we are content to leave the leadership in aerospace to someone else. There are few enough areas left in this world where we are the leaders. We should be seeking to strengthen these positions, not weaken them. It would be tragic if we sacrificed progress and our national vitality for ecological paranoia.

SHELL Announcing TCP –an improvement TCP/2/ helps keep your good mileage and fewer

TCP/2/ helps keep your car in tune. This helps hold down exhaust emissions

2TCP/2/ keeps new carburetors clean, and in newer cars, reduce emissions in many older cars – and helps keep your mileage up.

TCP/2/ is Shell's name for a new combination of ingredients. It's not just an additive, but what petroleum chemists call an "additive package." It is an improvement over TCP, > the famous gasoline additive developed by Shell years ago.

> > Less than a halfteaspoon per gallon is enough TCP/2/ to do the job.

Today almost all gasolines contain additive packages. They differ somewhat in what they do and how well they do it. TCP/2/ is an effective additive package that provides an improvement in the performance of Shell gasolines.

How TCP/2/ can affect two major pollutants.

The overall effect of TCP/2/ can be summed up as helping to keep your car in tune.

Two of the main pollutants in your exhaust are unburned hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide. Both are undesirable, and both can go up when your car goes out of tune. In fact, it would not be unusual for these emissions to soar as much as 50 percent before you even suspect it. And by the time your car tells you it needs a tune-up, emissions can be extremely high.

By helping your car stay in tune, TCP/2/ helps stave off that serious increase in emissions.

How TCP/2/ can affect your gasoline mileage.

TCP/2/ can also have a favorable effect on gasoline mileage. When your car goes out of tune your mileage tends to go down. TCP/2/ works to keep that from happening.

TCP/2/ can also actually reduce emissions from many cars – and improve their mileage. These are older cars that are, in effect, out of tune as a result of deposits that have built up in their carburetors.

helps clean up dirty ones. Works to hold emissions down and mileage up.

When excessive deposits build up on the "throat" of your carburetor, your engine is no longer in tune. Emissions can rise dramatically, and mileage usually goes down.

If your car is several years old or more, deposits may have built up on your carburetor "throat." Although most of today's gasolines contain a detergent that keeps clean carburetors clean, not all of today's detergents can cut down on these deposits once they've formed. TCP/2/ does have that ability. It contains a new detergent combination that can start to clean up a dirty carburetor with just a few tankfuls of any Shell gasoline.

DAILY PILOT

3TCP/2/ in both Shell and Super Shell helps extend spark plug life. This helps hold emissions down and keep your mileage up. Good mileage and fewer emissions

When your spark plugs misfire, a lot goes wrong. Emissions go up, mileage goes down, acceleration is reduced — and you have to buy new plugs.

One of the components of TCP/2/ works to prevent spark plug misfire. It combines chemically with certain deposits that build up on your plugs, and keeps those deposits from interfering with the normal spark. Result: no misfiring caused by deposits to send emissions up and your mileage down. (Not to mention the good effects on spark plug life and acceleration.)

Shell pioneered components of this type and Shell gasolines were the first to contain them.

And one of its components is a special anti-icing ingredient. It helps prevent an annoying form of stalling caused by carburetor icing before your engine is fully warmed up on cool, damp days.

4 TCP/2/ in non-leaded Shell of the Future helps protect against valve wear.

One reason Shell of the Future can be made with no lead at all is a chemical element in TCP/2/. This element works to protect your engine against possible valve wear. Shell could have left some lead in Shell of the Future for the same purpose. But thanks to TCP/2/ Shell has been able to remove all the lead.

- Probably the most important thing you can do to help is get a tune-up.
 - Over half of all cars on the road need a tune-up. If they all gotone, total exhaust emissions in the U.S. would be reduced significantly (and in most cases the effect on mileage would be favorable). You probably should get a tune-up if your car is hard to start, runs rough—or if you haven't had one in 12 months.
- To help your car stay in tune, use Shell, Super Shell, or nonleaded Shell of the Future – all with new TCP/2/.

This will work to hold your emissions down - and to keep your mileage up.

As this trend among men in their late fifties goes on, he figures, one in every six will be out of work by his 65th birthday. MAYBE ANOTHER REASON women tend to talk more than men is merely physical. Their vocal cords are shorter. Re-

Federal revenue sharing is much in the news these days and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is hard at work promoting the Nixon Administration's concept of it.

The philosophy was first advanced seriously during the Administration nearly a decade ago.

Capitol Hill observers in Washington are pessimistic about Congress passing the program that will channel funds back to cities with less control over how they are spent.

Costa Mesa's representatives to the U.S. Congressional-Cities Conference in the Capitol this week returned with their own observations.

Vice President Agnew was primary speaker at the twoday conference of about 1,000 municipal managers and leaders from throughout America.

Mayor Robert M. Wilson is a staunch proponent of the program but has expressed doubts Congress will approve It, for several reasons.

Co-delegate Councilman Alvin L. Pinkley, a local politician and civic leader since 1933, holds a different view. "In my opinion, we will have

Democrats View 1972 With Confidence High

Peking Seen Frustrating U.S. Feelers

By STEWART HENSLEY UPI Diplomatic Corresponden

WASHINGTON - President Nixon's efforts to improve relations with Peking are doomed to failure, at least for the immediate future, judging from recent statements attributed 10 Premier Chou En Lai.

And if Chou means what he said, it will make little difference whether the United Nations votes to admit Red China to the world organization next fall since his conditions for joining are not likely to be met.

terviews with an American author, Edgar Snow, The statements to Snow were put together in an article published in the magazine New Republic. Snow is a long time retired friend of Chou, having known him and Mao Tse-Tung since 1936 when the Communists pulled back to northwestern China to build their strength for the ultimate takeover of the country, which they accomplished in 1949.

Nixon's moves to try to improve relations with Peking during the past 18 months have consisted of removal of known in two recent in- trade and removal of all mitment is embodied in a restrictions against travel to the mainland by U.S. citizens. These steps were designed to persuade the Communists that the United States wanted to move toward a less acrimonious relationship, but there is no evidence whatever that they have softened at all the tough attitude of Chou on the big issue separating the two nations: The future of the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan. The United States is committed to defend the Nationalists against attack from mainland. This com-

mutual- security treaty concluded in 1954, and President Nixon has stressed repeatedly that he will honor that pledge. Chou made it clear, in his talks with Snow, that the United States must end its "armed protectorate" over Taiwan before there could be any real diplomatic communication between Washington 'and Peking.

The United States, Maced with mounting U.N. sentiment for the admission of Red China, is moving toward the adoption of what is called a "Two-China" policy.

WASHINGTON (UPI) -Democrats already starting to plan for their 1972 campaign are finding the climate favorable for their sunburst of confidence about their chances of reclaiming the White House.

But they are watching political barometers which indicate the political weather is subject to sudden changes. The 1970 elections gave the Democrats a lift by maintaining their majorities in the House and Senate, giving them a net gain of 11 governorships and increased power in the state legislatures.

Now they are reading public opinion polls indicating that President Nixon's administration is in trouble.

The latest Harris Poll showed the percentage of voters rating his performance at good to excellent had dropped to 43 percent, the lowest point since he took office in 1969.

And the same polling organization indicated that Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine at least was favored Sover the President by a sixpoint margin, up three points from January.

At the same time, the Gallup Poll showed Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Min-I nesota, the 1968 loser to Nixon, moving ahead of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts as the favorite among Democrats and Independents but still trailing far behind Muskie.

have long indicated that public opinion is fickle. Harris Poll ratings of Nixon as good-to-excellent fell from 58 percent in February, 1970, to 48 in August, then crept back to 54 in October, a month before the elections.

The Democrats still are banking on economic issues to help them win in 1972. However, their meetings last week suggested that they feel the Vietnam war issue will be working for them if their principal spokesmen succeed in moving the party 180 degrees from the position occupied when Lyndon B Johnson was President.

Control of Congress also is at stake next year and this is the season for the Republicans to talk of winning House and Senate majorities. a goal they have attained only twice in the past 40 years.

When 25 Democratic and 10 Republican Senate seats were to be filled last year, the GOP could show a net gain of only one. They go into 1972 with 19 Republican and 14 Democratic Senate seats at stake.

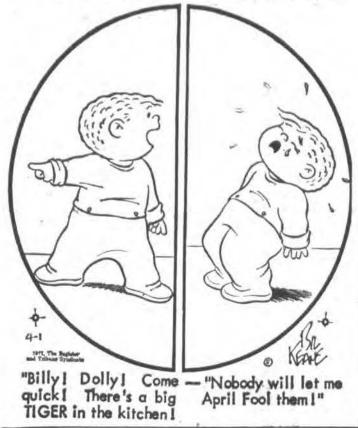

Republican realists are claiming no more than a chance to win control of the Senate next year. Their early choice of targets includes seats held by Democratic Sens. David Gambrell. Ga. Lee Metcalf, Mont., Clinton P Anderson, N.M., B. Everett Jordan, N.C., Thomas J. Mc-Intyre, N.H., Fred Harris, Okla., and William B. Spong,

It's a transformation in name only.

The new Junior League of Newport Beach will continue the record of outstanding volunteer service it established when it was known by its more familiar title of the Newport Harbor Service League.

Today the incoming officers of the Junior League - which has become the 218th member of the Association of Junior Leagues of America formerly were installed at a luncheon in the Newporter Inn.

Headed by Mrs. John Killefer as president, they include the Mment Lee Sammis, vice president; Timothy Haidinger, recording secretary; A Merrill Brown III, corresponding secretary, and Philip Doane, treasurer. Chairmen of the standing committees complete the board of directory

They are the Mmes. Don R. Adkinson, Wellington Bonner Jr., Robert Davis, James M. Dodds, Sydney Lucas, Bradford Miller, L. Kent Wanlass, Lionel M. West, John M. Wilson Jr. and Donald Winter.

NOTABLE ACHIEVEMENT

During its four-year orientation period after applying for member ship in the Association, the Newport Harbor Service League has enlarged its programs to comply with the Junior League standards across the country Notable among its achievements was the supplementary art apprecia tion program developed in 1966 for the fourth and fifth grades in the New port-Mesa School District. In 1970, more than 300 community volunteers from all over Orange County met in the Anaheim Convention Center to learn more about the assembling of visual kits and lectures for Project Schooltine.

Community volunteers and league members now are giving the art appreciation series in six Orange County school districts.

Volunteers also are continuing to lead information sessions on drug abuse for students in several area school districts, a project begun in 1969. The league also has sponsored evening forums on the drug situation feature ing experts in the fields of law, medicine, psychology and counseling.

OTHER EFFORTS

Past efforts of the league to contribute to community service also have included such accomplishments as the forming of the Volunteer Bureau of Southern Orange County, a Philharmonic Committee and the Children's Art Workshop.

Most well-known among the league's activities is its Coffee Garden and Art Gallery, which this year is to be changed in name - appropriately timed with the new Junior League name change - to the Sherman Foundation Center Gallery. Funds for its support are provided by the Sherman Foundation.

Wife Skirts Issue by Not Accepting Name of the Game

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last May my husband asked me if he could wear one of my housedresses while painting the kitchen. He said it would be more comfortable. I said. "OK" He did look awfully cute and I told him so. Ever since that time he has been wearing my dresses and wigs and makeup when we are alone. He has asked me to call him Linda when we "play girl friends," as he calls it.

I can truthfully say I don't mind. The only thing that bothers me is that he is prettier than 1 am. If we went out in public together he would get more whistles. Yesterday I read an article on sex deviation. It said men who enjoy dressing up in women's clothes are transvestites. I do not consider my husband abnormal. He is very manly in every way. He just happens to enjoy playing this little game. Is there anything wrong with it? I'd like your opinion - HAPPY WOMAN WHO LOVES HER HUSBAND

DEAR WOMAN: My opinion is of no consequence. The only thing that matters is what you think, and apparently you think it is just fine. If you and your husband enjoy "playing girl friends," it's nobody's business. Just make sure the doors are locked and the shades down. And say hello to Linda.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: 1'm a secretary who shares a lovely apartment with two airline stewardesses. Last night the lights went out suddenly. We knew it was a fuse because two of us were ironing, the electric coffee pot was on, and when I plugged in the mixer to make cookies the whole place went dark.

I went down and told the landlord. He very nicely said he'd put in a new fuse if I would accompany him to the basement and hold the flashlight. To make a long story short, he made a pass at me in the stairwell and I belted him in the chops. I cannot get over the nerve of him - with his lovely wife sitting upstairs in the living room! This morning we received a note saying the rent would be raised $40 a month. What should we do? - SAD TRIO

DEAR TRIO: Write him a note saying YOU are not April Fooling - that if he is serious about the raise you'll be glad to discuss the matter with his wife - in detail.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a boy 16 and miserable. I have terrible acne.

For two years I've been going to a dermatologist but the acne is not better. My dad is sick of paying bills and I am sick of looking at myself.

The other day some kid mentioned "sandpaper surgery." Can you tell me what it is? Will it help me? Is it expensive? Is it dangerous? Please, Ann, check this out with your experts and let me know - BARNEY FROM BOISE

DEAR BARN: Sandpaper surgery (or abrasive planing) will not help a person who has active acne. It is useful only after the acne has been cured. This surgery removes the top layer of skin and with it the blemishes, pitting and scars. Planing is not dangerous when done by a competent dermatologist. In incompetent hands, however, it can be a mess. But this is true of any surgery.

The price varies, depending on the doctor. A top-notch dermatologist in Washington who serves as one of my principal consultants charges $600. The operation can be performed in the doctor's office but it is advisable to have it done in a hospital.

Remember this procedure is NOT for active acne. In your case, perhaps your doctor should try some type of radiation - ultra-violet or x-ray.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of the DAILY PILOT, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Clinic's Sized for Shape

By JEAN WILLIAMS

Women of all heights, weights, shapes — and perhaps out of shape — had a chance to pick up a panty hose prescription during a three-day clinic in Huntington Center.

"Too many women buy completely the wrong size in panty hose," commented Miss Sally Wood, who was in charge of the try-on clinic situated in a sporty blue and white tent that resembled a beach cabgua

The who paused often were surprising customers and received surprising aid -like the 75-year-old lady who was looking for maternity panty hose to fit herself because she had such an am-ple childsection.

"She simply didn't know how to put pantyhose on properly," Missi Wood explained. After a) lesson in fitting, the customer went away with an average-sized pair.

PROPER TECHNIQUE

What is the proper way to put on panty hose? The technique thas only one vital ingredient, and that is the one practically no one likes to hear about - time.

"We think nothing of spending 30 minutes or more putting make up on our faces, Miss Wood commented, "using perhaps 30 cents worth of our cosmetics, and yet we'll take only two or three minutes to yank on a pair of panty hose which costs two or three dollars!"

timost everyone is in too grath rush. "Some people up and pull on panty hose like a pair of trousers," Mine Wood said indignantly.

A person should always sit down to put on panty hose. The tilea is to roll one leg be panty hose down and get snug fit first on one foot then proceed to the other foot and leg. Alternate from foot pulling hose out and up.

To avoid snagging the panty hose, a woman really should wear either hosiery gloves or an old pair of white cotton gloves.

As far as fit is concerned, many women wear too large a size in panty hose because they are not willing to take the care and time needed for putting them on snugly.

Also women sometimes err by following charts for length. One short woman who measured 5 feet 3 inches tall took the same extra-long size in panty hose as the tall woman who measured six feet one inch. The reason? The short woman weighed 155 pounds, a lot more for her height than the taller woman, who tipped the scales at 165. Tall, extra thin people should size down the panty hose that they buy, while women with heavy legs might profitably choose a bikini style.

OLDER CUSTOMER

What about the ages of women panty hose wearers? The young women were present, of course, but Miss Wood had one customer dashing in to buy a pair of panty hose for her 50th wedding anniversary party.

As for care of the panty hose once they are purchased, Miss Wood advocated laundering in a smooth bowl rather than the wash basin - even there, a rough area could lurk. Also, she discouraged hanging panty hose over the shower rod to dry - advice which some husbands may be happy to hear.

Not only should panty hose be towel dried and placed on a flat surface, but the wearer should consider owning two pair and alternating them the yarn benefits from a day's rest after washing and drying. All in all, the clinic, at Penney's, advocated for panty hose what the doctor might foot, ankle to ankle, prescribe for any patient care and common sense.

22 DAILY PILOT Recycling Business Can Boom

Thursday, April 1, 1971

By LOUIS CASSELS UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON - The trash which piles up in American cities at a rate of 200 million tons a year can become an economic asset instead of a costly liability.

This fact, long ago iscovered by European cities, is at last gaining widespread recognition in the United States. And that's good news for taxpayers, for all concerned about the reckless speed with which we are depleting our natural resources, and for those who hate to see an evergrowing portion of our land covered with unsightly refuse dumps.

The collection and disposal of solid wastes is one of the more expensive chores performed by the modern municipality. Altogether upwards of $4 billion a year on this one function.

Included in our mountains of trash are many types of materials-including glass (from bottles), aluminum (from cans) and celluoise (from paper)-that can be reclaimed and reused.

This "recycling" of refuse, as technicians call it, can sharply reduce the cost of trash handling and may even enable citites to begin making a profit on the operation.

Moreoever, it will relieve the drain on our mines and forests resulting from our profligate habit of using a material once and then throwing it away.

Glass bottles, for example, when pulverized, may be used either as a raw material for making more glass, or mixed with asphalt and used as a paving material.

The aluminum in cans can be melted down and reused. Paper-which constitutes about 80 percent of all urban trash-can be processed into fertilizer or burned in special incinerators as fuel for elec-· tric power generating stations. Many cities in the Netherlands are now making agricultural fertilizer from converted wastes. Refuseburning power plants are in operation in France, Germany, Sweden and Denmark. In the United States, Chicago and Atlanta recently have installed large scale plants for separation and recycling of trash. Other cities are preparing to follow suit. To encourage the trend. Congress last year enacted the "resource Recovery Act of 1970" which authorizes $460 million in federal grants to help cities devise less wasteful means of handling waste. One American firm, the combustion power Co., is developing a unit that will consume 400 tons of garbage a day, and from it produce enough electricity to supply the needs of about 25,000 persons. In Brooklyn, another private company called Ecology, Inc. is operating a plant which "digests" trash and turns it into a crumbly powder which makes an excellent vehicle for chemical fertilizers. Its officials think they can do this at a profit, purely as a commercial operation. The recycling movement also could be the answer to the problem of what to do about ugly graveyards of junked automobiles now burdening the American landscape. The Automobile Manufac turers Association reports that 9 million cars were dismantled and converted into useable steel scrap in 1968. Since only 8 million cars were junked that year, we seem to have taken a modest bite out of the huge backlog that accumulated during the years when U.S. industry couldn't be bothered with reclaiming steel for reuse. Now that really is progress.

Bank Pledges Olympic Aid

NEW YORK (UPI) - Bank of America has announced that, beginning today and continuing for a period of 18 months, a percentage of the commission it receives on all domestic sales of its travelers' cheques will be donated to the United States Olympic Committee for Aline of the 1972 games.

Ernest J. Young, vice presiient of Bank of America and head of its world-wide travelers' cheques operation. said that an initial contribution of $130,000 has already been submitted to the USOC to meet part of its operating expenses in the selection of athletes for the 1972 games.

Israel's Demands On Map

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst

When Israeli Premier Golda Meir drew her "peace map" for the London Times in her March 13 interview, it was less a map than an expression of maximum territorial demands, most of which had been expressed before.

Uppermost in her mind, it is believed, were two considerations. One was the pressure being brought on Israel by the big powers to soften Israel's stand or risk diplomatic isolation. Another was the pressure from the hawks at home who realize that any final settlement must contain certain compromises.

These considerations remain valid as she considers her reply to U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers' reported request for a map of what Israel wants as future borders with her Arab neighbors, presumably in considerably greater p i n p o i n t detail than supplied in her March 13 interview.

In her consideration of maximums and minimums, Israel is said to have set up three committees to work on details. A senior army officer reportedly headed one. Another was made up of government officials and the third of international law ex-

Laos 'Victory and Defeat'

By MICHAEL PUTZEL

QUANG TRI, Vietnam (AP) - Lam Son 719, the U.S.-supported invasion of the Ho Chi inh trail complex in Laos, pitted the Saigon command's best units against an enemy tougher, perhaps, than any comparable allied force has faced in South Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese threw their 1st Infantry Division, airborne division, rangers, marines and armored cavalary - all topnotch units and backed by formidable American air power — against five seasoned North Vietheavy artillery and a devastating antiaircraft defense system. The enemy

Full-scale Probe Of War Acts Urged

NEW YORK (UPI) - A respondent who spent three years in Vietnam says that increasing documentation of alleged war crimes by the U.S. military and their civilian superiors should induce Congress to undertake a full-scale investigation that might prevent such incidents in the future.

The correspondent Neil Sheehan of the Times Washington Bureau, wrote that if only a fraction of the information in 33 recently published books on the conduct of the U.S. military in Vietnam is factual, "Then the Preliminary studies indicate a 17-acre park next to Fountain Valley High School would be the best location. This has been recommended by the city parks commission.

"I don't think we should call it a central park though,' warned June Boykin, parks commission chairman. "We're really suggesting more of a recreational center."

Mrs. Boykin also outlined a five-step priority list developed by her commission. She said the number one priority is to buy the land. The next priority is to develop The third item on her priority list is construction of a multi-purpose gymnasium on the 17-acre site. "It would not be built along the lines of the current community center," she explained. "It would have gymnasium facilities, space for theater programs and a large area for community dances.

"If we can move all of our recreation-oriented programs into it, the community center could then handle all the meeting commitments." The fourth priority would be total development of the recreation building. Expansion of the current community center - once considered a necessity - is on the bottom of the commission's priority list.

"We also want to get away from the idea this is just a big park," Mrs. Bovkin added. "We need a concentrated recreation area."

The city is looking for tor George Hyde. money from the federal department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to help develop the park and recreational facilities.

Two public hearings will be held - one before the planning commission, one before the city council - to place the central park on the city's master plan of parks. Neither "Your proposal would increase our population by 4,000 to 5,000 people," Mayor Edward Just added.

"That's the school's concern not ours," Harper retorted. "The property owners can't do anything with their land."

"Then we ought to spend our time finding interim uses for the land," suggested Carrol Mohr, a planning commissioner.

"We can set ourselves up as the epitome of intelligence pressing his point angrily.

"We ought to give them tax relief for farming. That would help property owners and preserve a little more open space for awhile," Dick offered.

"But there are problems in that tax relief too," Harper replied.

He was overruled, however, by the other four councilmen who asked the staff to bring in an expert on tax relief for farm land for future discussion on it.

Land Cut Apartments have become the problem child of Fountain

Valley. City councilmen spent nearly three hours haggling over them in a special study session Tuesday night.

The result was further reductions in the amount of land which will be allowed for apartment construction.

The council agreed on master plan cuts which could eliminate as many as 984 potential apartments and 1,003 condominiums.

But they also agreed to be flexible on each individual parcel in the event good plans are drawn for apartments or condominiums.

Mayor Edward Just opposed the reductions, but lost. "There's nothing magical about the new figures," he said. "I can buy part of these, but part I can't.'

Councilman Al Hollinden, a strong supporter of the cuts, said, "I'm only disappointed that it will reduce the city's ultimate population by a mere 4,000."

Clinton Sherrod, the city's planning director, said it wouldn't make a great difference to the city's balance whether the cuts were made or current planning was kept.

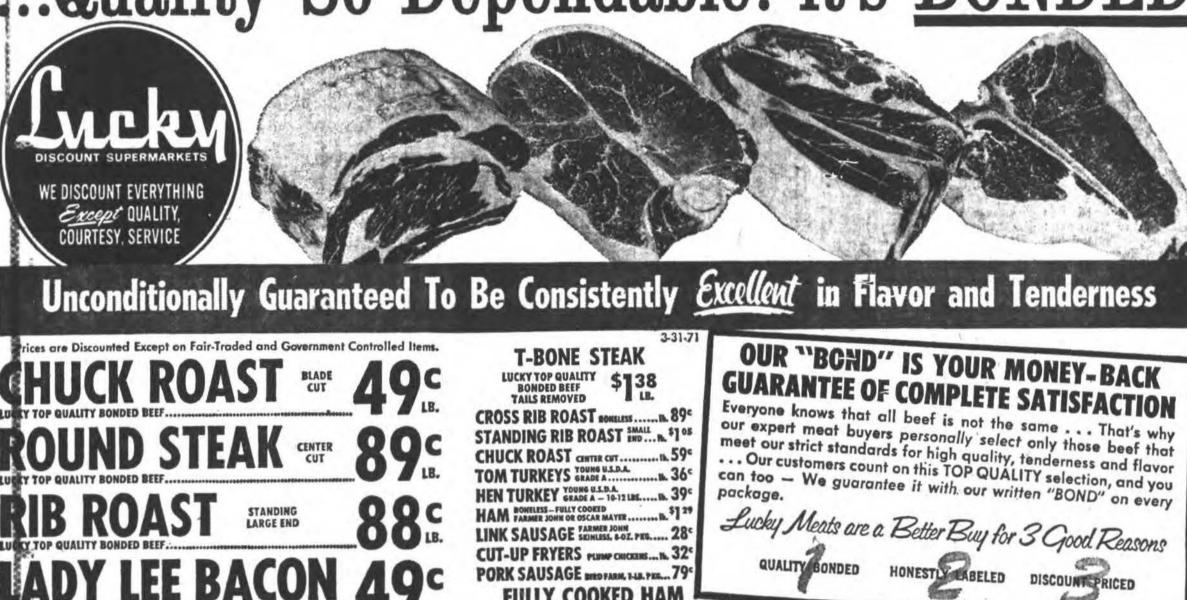

Hollinden, however, debunked the idea of a balanced community. "I don't believe all this balanced stuff. We've followed the planners' rules for years and look what a mess the world is in."

Councilmen George Scott and Ron Shenkman both supported the apartment cuts, though they disagreed over one piece of property.

John Harper, the fifth councilmen, opposed the apartment cuts on the grounds the city was getting too specific in its planning.

"We're forgetting the property owner and the free enterprise system," Harper charged. "We shouldn't take such a mercenary attitude about planning."

Councilmen spent an hour of their discussion arguing over a 48-unit apartment pro-

Autograph Hunters Making Big Business for Collectors

By SYLVIA PORTER

and the second

A mere 10 years ago, a document signed by President Thomas Jefferson and his Secretary of State James Madison sold for $25. This year the same document fetched $400.

Also 10 years ago, a commission of an Army officer signed by President Lincoln sold for $75. The same document recently brought $450.

In the late 1950s a letter written by George Washington saying that the President should be the "slave" of the people rather than their master sold for $500. A decade later this letter was auctioned for $25,000 - an all-time record for a letter.

Utterly fascinating has been the upspiral over the years in prices paid for autographs, letters, manuscripts and other documents signed by famous people. The rises, in fact, have dramatically outpaced gains in many other traditional investments

Estimates Charles Hamilton, head of Charles Hamilton Galleries, Inc., in New York, the nation's largest dealer in autographs: "This year alone, Americans will invest and gamble something like $50 million in autographs. Prominent among the buyers will be major libraries and universities. Buyers will pay a full 20 percent more than the prices they paid last year " And he is certain they'll reap big profits later, when they sell, if they buy well today

Today, letters, signatures and related material of a startling range of notables are being bought and sold by collectors. To illustrate, the list includes H. L. Mencken, Rube Goldberg. Andrew Carnegie, Helen Keller, Amelia Earhart, Max Beerbohm, Jane Addams, Harry Houdini and Pat Garrett, the sheriff who shot Billy the Kid.

Among today's most soughtalter autographs and letters are those of Presidents Washington and Lincoln; authors Mark-Twain, Edgar Allan Poe, Herman Melville, Emily Dickinson and Walt Whitman: modern authors Ernest Hemingway, William Faulkner, James Joyce, T. S. Eliot. Thomas Wolfe, Eugene

USE COMMON SENSE FOR O-T-C- MEDICINE

by TERRY GRANT, R.Ph

When a medicine does not require a prescription, we commonly call it an O-T-C, or over the counter drug. However, this does not mean that it cannot be harmful if taken incorrectly or to excess.

The most important consideration for any drug in this category is common sense. Do not expect it to cure anything but simple ailments. Be aware that if the symptoms for which you take such a drug recur that you should seek the advice of your physician. We stock and sell a great many O-T-C products and are pleased to give you guidance for their safe use.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

MICHIYO ARITO OF THE TOKYO ORIONS BARELY MAKES IT SAFELY BACK TO FIRST BASE DURING WEDNESDAY'S GAME WITH THE ANGELS. THE ORIONS SCORED FOUR IN THE 10TH TO WIN, 5-1.

Benefit's for Rojas but Angels Need Help

By ROGER CARLSON Of the Daily Pilot Staff

It was billed as a benefit exhibition game between the California Angels and the Lotte Orions of Tokyo to aid stricken ex-Angels relief ace Minnie Rojas.

But considering the shape manager Harold "Lefty" Phillips' Angels are in, perhaps it's the Halos who are in need of help.

"We were in better physical shape last year at this point and we really haven't hit a lick this spring," lamented the Halo skipper following his team's 5-1 10-inning loss before 8,085 at the Big A.

The major problem of late has been the flu, which has hampered Jim Fregosi, Syd O'Brien, Tony Gonzalez and a couple of others, according to Phillips. They'll try again Friday night at Anaheim Stadium when Clyde Wright opposes Los Angeles Dodgers hurler Don Sutton "We'll start Tom Murphy and Andy Messersmith Saturday and Sunday against the Dodgers, but no one will go over six innings," says Phillips. Wright's start Friday puts him in rotation to take the mound in the 1971 opener Tuesday night against the Kansas City Royals.

Despite the loss Phillips was pleased with the pitching of Rudy May, Lloyd Allen and Dave LaRoche.

"One of the few good spots tonight was from our first three pitchers. They pitched well - as good as I've seen this spring," said Phillips afterwards.

May toiled six innings and was responsible for one run on five hits while Allen pitched two innings of hitless ball and LaRoche faced three batters in the ninth.

The Angels appeared to have things going their way in the bottom of the ninth against the Orions.

But a leaping stab by second baseman Hiroyuki Yamazaki stopped what appeared to be a game-winning rbi single by John Stephenson and sent the game into extra innings.

Ray Jarvis, the fourth Angel pitcher, was unable to stem the tide in the extra frame, allowing four runs on three hits.

Deaf Player Top Scoring Kentucky Prep

DANVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Ernie Epps averaged 37.7 points a game this season - tops in Kentucky prep ranks - yet no college basketball scouts are knocking at his door.

The handsome, 18-year-old blond is going to college, however, and continue to do the thing he loves most - play basketball.

Ernie, who also has been a high jumper and a starting quarterback for the past two seasons, attends the Kentucky School for the Deaf.

Totally deaf since birth, he is a topnotch student and president of his class. Hitting 56 percent of his field goal attempts and grabbing 20 rebounds a game, Ernie, a guard, was the No. 1 player on his team.

"Ernie could play college ball easily." says Edward Hyden, his coach. "He's smart and he's easy to coach."

"But, it would be just about impossible for Ernie to play ball at a regular collegé and get his education, too," Hyden said. "Ernie and his parents (Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Epps of Benton, Ky.) feel the same way. He wants to get an education "

"A few schools expressed interest in him," said Hyden. naming Tennessee, New York University, Maryland, Oklahoma, Memphis State and Ohio University.

"But he's going to attend Gallaudel." Hyden said. "It has a full-fledged athletic program and Ernie probably will get a scholarship on his grades.

Nearly all the 330 students at Ernie's school turn out for games - clapping, yelling and signalling encouragement to players in sign language.

"They cheer all the time." Hyden said, "and, of course, they get excited every time Ernie does something.'

Ernie scored 56 points in one game. He has spent the better part of 12 vears at the 148-year-old institution ocated in this Bluegrass town of 13,000. Pe started playing basketball when he was nine. Since then, he has practiced M average of two hours a day, every looks for all the world like most of the Halos' other 10 major league seasons at this juncture of the embryonic campaign.

They are next to last in Cactus League (exhibition) standings. Pitching? Well, it looks like the bat boy has done most of that so far. The Angel mound staff has given up an earned run average of 5.02 per game for the exhibition season.

Batting? That's .251 for the team hardly what you'd call healthy. The guy the Angels swapped the potentially great Aurelio Rodriquez for is again looking like he needs a transfusion of hitting fluid.

Ken McMullen is hitting at a .217 clip and probably is going to be watching a lot of games from the dugout with Syd O'Brien his replacement.

Defense? The Angels should be much better, what with Ken Berry in from the White Sox and a tremendous outfielder. But even the multi-talented Berry can't save Alex Johnson.

Making one believe the '71 Angels are going to have to fight for their lives to stay in the first division was Wednesday night's game with the Tokyo Orions as Johnson dropped a fly ball, was nearly picked off base later in the game and also got the Angels' first 1971 hit in the Big A.

Whatever the Angels' destiny this season, they surely deserve a second helping of credit for putting on Wednesday night's benefit game for Minnie Rojas.

And so do a number of others. The Angels kicked in the gate receipts to the Rojas cause. The Orions contributed $1,000. Sixteen Anaheim policemen donated their wages for the night to Roias.

A Japanese manufacturer gave Minnie a portable color television set. And the 8,085 fans on hand gave Rojas a standing

The Lakers, as the home team, draw the favorite's role and most of the pressure, since the teams return to Chicago Sunday for the sixth game in the best-of-seven series that now stands 2 - 2

Thus far the Lakers have relied on the rebounding, shot-blocking and intimidating of Wilt Chamberlain and the shooting of Gail Goodrich and rookie Jim McMillian.

The Bulls have countered with the medium-range marksmanship of Bob Love and the all-round play of Jerry Sloan and Bob Weiss.

Chamberlain, the 7-foot-1 center whose scoring has been modest but whose board work and defense have been awesome, credits Weiss with leading Chicago back from a two-game deficit.

"Weiss has been the difference." Chamberlain said after Tuesday night's 112-102 Bulls victory. "He has had two exceptional games.

The balding 6-foot-2 guard, normally a reserve, is a likely starter tonight after his 19-point, 13-assist take-charge performance Tuesday

Meanwhile, the Lakers must contend with Love, the 6-foot-8-all-star forward.

He has averaged 30 points in each of the four games, mostly by taking his man in close, faking him off balance, and releasing a head-high jump shot.

The Laker with the most success in stopping Love has been reserve Rick Roberson, but coach Joe Mullaney has felt the Lakers would sacrifice too much speed and shooting if Roberson started. Bulls coach Dick Motta, also aiming for more speed, has elevated center Jim Fox to the starting lineup and also used former Laker Jim King at guard.

King was also a parttime coach after Motta was kicked out in the third game for arguing with the referee and refusing to leave the court. On Wednesday, NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy fined Motta $1,500.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) -It was 40 years ago Wednesday that a tiny airliner crashed in a Kansas cornfield killing legendary Notre Dame football coach Knute Rockne.

"News of Rock's death shocked the world," says former Rockne assistant Hunk Anderson. "It was like the President dving.

Anderson, now 72, succeeded Rockne as Irish head coach. Now' retired, he talked Wednesday about the man who was the cornerstone of Notre Dame's golden football tradition.

'Notre Dame had just won two national championships in 1929-30," he said. "Rockne was at his pinnacle. The world was about set to give him just financial rewards."

Rockne was flying from South Bend, to California to take a movie offer when the pioneer Ford Trimotor plunged into the quiet of that Kansas countryside on March 31, 1931.

'Rock had a 10-year contract at $10,000," recalled Anderson, who started as a $500-a-year parttimer on the Notre Dame staff in 1922.

"The legendary George Gipp got me to go to Notre Dame as a 170-pound guard," he said.

"That was 1918. I played one year of high school football with the Gipper in our hometown of Calumet, Mich."

Rockne's greatest coaching asset, according to Hunk's active memory, "was his ability to handle men. He knew when to pour on the heat or pat their fannies: He knew what it took to motivate every man."

Anderson, who won 67 percent of his Notre Dame games after Rockne's death, went on to coach lines at North Carolina State, Michiga, Cincinnati and in the pros with Detroit and Chicago.

"I think Rock would win big today," he said. "His fiery speeches turned us State, Michigan, Cincinnati and in the on back then. He'd find the right method today. He was brilliant and a man with his mind just doesn't become a loser."

Anderson said Rockne, a wiry 170-pounder, would "show his ends how to play by ming into the scrimmage himself, lett : halfbacks try to block him. They usually missed

"Rockne was tough," s a i d Anderson, "But he never cussed much. He wasn't like Vince Lombardi, but his words still got to the Notre Dame players ... he was a motivator without equal."

Hard Work Keyed Pijl's Improvement

By CRAIG SHEFF

Two years ago Pete Pijl was just an average baseball player at Estancia High.

And when he matriculated at Orange Coast College last season, things didn't change. As a part-time outfielder on the Pirates' freshman-dominated squad, Pijl (pronounced Pile) batted a meager .192

But Pijl's batting and fielding has been vastly improved in the last year - and OCC coach Barry Wallace says it's mostly a matter of hard work.

Pijl currently leads the Pirates in hitting with a .449 average, and also paces the Bucs in runs scored (15), hits (32) and is second in the rbi category (12).

"He's 100 percent better than he was last year," says Wallace, "and it's due to extreme hard work and dedication.

"He's spent a lot of time in the batting cage and he has worked real hard with weights and improving his throwing arm. Since last season he's concentrated on baseball nearly 100 percent, working real hard in the summer and winter months."

The 5-11, 165-pounder has gone hitless in only two of the Pirates' 17 games this season - and that's one reason why Wallace has made him the leadoff batter

"Actually he should probably bat second or third, but he gives us such a big lift by getting on base so much that we've left him in the leadoff spot,"

CdM's Rose Combines Desire, Talent

By PHIL ROSS Of the Daily Pilet Staff

Thursday, April 1, 1971

A guy can work for years as a high school track coach and only find the mediocre type of athlete who'll give much extra effort.

Occasionally, though, that same coach will inherit the kind of high school runner who is not only dedicated and willing to exert what he has in reserve but who is talented to boot.

to Rose's desire and competitive edge at the drop of a feather.

Says Blair, "Nick is the very good type of self-disciplined athlete who always gives it that something extra.

"He runs his workouts very strongly and always runs faster than what we ask of him or his particular group.'

Blair should know, for he's been tutoring Rose on the finer points of middle distance running for the past three years OF SO.

However, the amiable Sea King mentor shrugs off any of his own teaching prowess and gives most of the credit for Rose's success to Rose himself.

"Let's face it, a good athlete makes a good distance coach," Blair says, "and it's quite amazing what a good kid will do for you.

"Nick is very quiet and doesn't say too much. But he certainly gets the job done well."

A job well done in Rose's case is running the 880 in the vicinity of 1:55 or lower.

The native of Eugene, Ore. who has his sights set on the track-conscious University of Oregon in that city. Rose has yet to be beaten in 1971 and he claims first place medals in the half from both the Southern Counties meet at Huntington Beach and the Beach Cities invitational at Newport Harbor High, where the Sea Kings won the team title.

Blair doesn't foresee Rose losing to ficulties) at least, possibly, until the CIF semifinals or finals in May.

'The only kid in our league who's really close to Nick is the one from Santa Ana Valley and Nick already has beaten him badly in our dual meet with them." Blair mentions.

Although his '71 best of 1:55.8 is 1.1 seconds slower than his lifetime top clocking, set last season, the bespectacled Corona senior is hoping to dip down into the 1:52 range in time for the CIF finals.

Last year, Rose finished seventh in the section and just missed making the state finals in Berkeley by two places.

As a sophomore two years ago, he didn't necessarily set the world afire.

anyone (barring injuries or other dif- But Rose was able to go below two minutes (1:59.7 to be exact) in varsity 880 competition before dropping down to run the Bee 1320 in CIF confabs.

He placed third in the section in the 1320 at 3:08 and has been a consistent varsity sparkplug, both in track and cross country, ever since.

Apparently the type who also gives the extra effort in the classroom, Rose boasts a B-plus average in a rugged college prep curriculum and has eventual aspirations of going into the medical research field.

However, in spite of his shyness, Rose makes no secret of his next immediate ambitions - the state 880 crown and then a four-year stay from whence he originally came in green Eugene.

Bob Pomeroy, head coach at Chapman College, says invitations have been sent "Arizona State has indicated a desire to play in our tournament" Pomeroy says. "And Stanford is ready to switch to Anaheim from Riverside.

"We also will probably add Cal State (Los Angeles) and Loyola University as area teams."

This means that Cal Poly (Pomona) is out and under the format of the

The Cub shortstop is none other than the young son of former Chicago Cub and Philadelphia Phillie infielder of 10 years duration, Roy Smalley.

Harold "Doc" Anderson, former trainer for the Dodgers, was a regular at the Anabeim collegiate tournament last week.

Doc spent many years in the training room, working on such greats as Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and other pitching stars of the Dodgers before hanging up his livery in favor of a more relaxed (?) profession in public relations.

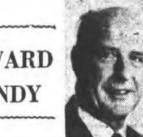

Currently he is a resident of Fountain Valley and spends his time as a PR man for Carroll Pallet Company. Says he would like to get back into training on the college level.

Ed Newland, coach of the CINA AAU water polo teams from this area with UC Irvine players as a backbone, will be without the services of one of his top players from last summer. Bill Leach, a graduate of UCI and one of four CINA team members to tour Europe with Newland and a U.S. all-star squad last summer, has decided to forego water polo in a bid to make the Olympic team as a kayak specialist. Don't shed too many tears for Newland, however, as the CINA team has Ferdy Massimino and his brother John Henry (Stanford), Mike Martin, Bruce Black, Rich Eason, Dale Hahn and most of the other members of the NCAA championship team.

savs Wallace.

Although Pijl's biggest improvement has been in the hitting department, Wallace says his outfield play has also been great.

"We've moved him from right to center field this year because he's such a take charge guy out there. He's a great leader in the outfield and he's always talking. Plus he's got the strongest arm of any of our outfielders."

One added factor for Pijl's overall improvement is his attitude.

"That's why he's improved so much He decided to become a better ball man and he's a real winner. He's half the reason why we're playing better ball this year.'

Pijl is planning to attend Cal State (Hayward), but that idea could change if the right offer comes his way following the 1971 campaign.

20-game Stars Boswell, Tiant Out to Pasture

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - Dave Boswell and Luis Tiant, a pair of former 20-game winners, were given their outright release Wednesday when they didn't measure up to expectations at the Minnesota Twins baseball training camp.

"I tried to make a deal for both of them but couldn't," said Twins President Cal Griffith.

He added that all other American League clubs had passed on Boswell when waivers were asked earlier in the week.

Boswell said he planned to try out with Detroit; Tiant, with Boston.

Boswell is 26 and Tiant 30. Both are right-handers who had injury problems last season.

Boswell, who posted a 20-12 won-lost record and 3.23 earned run average with the Twins in 1969, slipped to 3-7 last season. He had painful swellings of the ankles in spring training and nagging arm and back troubles during the regular season.

The temperamental 6-foot-3 fastballer also slit a tendon on his hand while fileting a fish and lost some pitching time for that.

During his top season two years ago. he was out about 10 days after a fight by then Minnesota Manager Billy Martin.

Tiant pitched for Cleveland 1964-69 and posted a 21-9 record with 1.60 ERA in 1968. He dropped to 9-20 the following year and was acquired by the Twins.

The stocky Cuban started with a blaze in 1970, running up five victories without loss before he felt his pitching shoulder "pop" in a May 28 game. He returned to action Aug. 3 but couldn't find his former effectiveness and was 7-3 for the year.

The Twins also recalled pitcher Sal Campisi from the minor leagues Wednesday, raising their roster to 25, the regular season limit.

The Monarchs (3-2) remain a game behind co-leaders Bishop Amat (4-1) and St. Anthony (4-1), victors Wednesday over Servite and St. Paul.

Mater Dei posted single runs In the second, fourth and seventh innings and enjoyed its biggest explosion with three tallies in the sixth.

Tom Cottage led off the sixth for the winners with a single but was erased as Gary Simpson got aboard on a fielder's choice.

After a single by Jerry Linnert advanced Simpson one base, Mike Kemmesat socked a base hit to score the latter.

Both Linnert and Kemmesat were chased across the plate on a double by sophomore Mark Stanbra.

Mater Dei's initial run, in the second, was produced on Linnert's double and a single by Simpson.

Simpson powered a homer for the Monarchs' fourth inning scoring while winning pitcher Chuck Adams was knock-

Viejo Country Club, fired a 73 to win the pro portion of a pro-amateur tournament at Irvine Coast Country Club this week

Martinez, recently returned from the pro tour to handle a teaching assignment at Mission Viejo, defeated host pro Ralph Evans by one stroke.

A total of 10 PGA pros and 40 amateurs participated in the event.

Bob Blum matched Martinez to win the amateur segment of the affair with a gross score of 73 followed by Arthur Doherty with a 74.

In the pro-am best ball of partner's competition, Howard E. Smith of Diamond Bar teamed with Irvine's Forrest Smith for a score of 63 while Pinky Stevenson of Virginia CC (Long Beach) teamed with Bart McHugh for the same score.

Mesa Verde

John Farrow is the new president's cup champion at Mesa Verde Country Club but not without a struggle.

Farrow and Kevin Wheeler took 22 holes to complete the match before a winner was determined.

In the only other match completed over the weekend. Bob Littleton defeated Dick Mieske for the vice president's flight crown.

In a best ball of foursome tournament at Mesa Verde Country Club of Costa Mesa, Jim and Peggy Henderson teamed with Paul and Doris Buckles on one squad to tie with Julie and Mike Rapport with Darlene and Tom Bouse for top honors. Both teams had 60s.

Rancho SJ

In a women's club least putts tournament at Rancho San Joaquin, Jeanne Griffin was the winner with 27 followed by a three-way tie for between Zola second Bartholomew, Sue Ewers and Virginia Ide at 32.

Richard Martinez of Mission club at Meadowlark Country Club this week. Dottie Mulligan was the B winner with Jean Hight the C flight victor.

> Next big event on the men's club calendar is a memberguest shotgun affair April 17. The next day the group will travel to Rancho Bernardo by chartered bus for a day-long tournament.

El Toro

In a women's golf association three-ball match tournament at El Toro Country Club recently, a tie resulted for first place honors.

On one squad were Mrs. Chuck Abrahams, Mr. Everett Vaughan and Mrs. Ralph Maxfield with Mrs. Floyd Haxton, Mrs. William Lear and Mrs. Alfred Dibella on the other. A tie also resulted for second place between one team composed of Mrs. Len Saks, Mrs. Al Tunnecliffe and Mrs. Richard Martin with Mrs. Carl Metten, Mrs. J. S. Remy and Mrs. William Cauther on the Designer Robert Trent Jones is well known in this area as the designer of Mission Viejo Country Club among others. He is America's foremost golf course designer and his latest venture into layout is taking place at Murietta Hot Springs where an 18-hole, 7200yard course is under construction.

One group that will be on hand for completion of the course is the Hollywood Hackers who visited the spa for ground breaking ceremonies and a tournament at Rancho California Supday.

The Green Acres television show was well represented by Frank Cady (Mr. Druckers) and Alfy Moore (Hank). Curt Massey and Claude Akins tied for first place among the Hackers in the low gross com-

Easter week is the holiday of the year for many families and students. For skiers there is plenty of snow. Storms dropped new powder last week to add to an excellent ski base.

Though the ski areas were not favored by the storms, the rest of the West has a bounty of snow for vacationers.

At Mammoth Mountain skiing is rated good to excellent. Trail crews (new this season), shovel ramps, groom snow, side slip the cornice lip, trim branches, fill in holes, chip ice off steps, regulate lift access and generally try to do everything they can to make skiing more enjoyable.

June Mountain just north is an especially good area for family skiing, with short lift lines a special feature.

Off Night for 'Music Hall'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) Producers of NBC's weekly "Music Hall" Wednesday night started with the idea of kidding the annual presentation of the movies' Oscar awards, a subject which invites satire.

Something, obviously, happened between the idea and the execution - probably something like the fact that NBC will be broadcasting the awards show in about two weeks.

At any rate, Oscar survived without a bruise and the program was a long series of sight gags, mostly about actors and the Hollywood life style. For instance, an actor was declaiming about hating phoneyness, all the while chewing an apple. A colleague interrupted to inform him he acted as hostess but beyond ENTERTAINMENT little to the hour.

'Selling President' Opens as Musical

"The Selling of the President," a red, white and blue musical spool based on a book about the 1968 presidential campaign, opened in San Francisco Tuesday night with hopes of moving to Broadway. The production bore a caricatured resemblance to Joe McGinniss' best-seller with the same title, a nonfiction account of how advertising and television techniques were used to help elect Richard M. Nixon.

ing.

The critics were in sharp disagreement about the play. The San Francisco Knickerbocker found the musical "at once satiric. sardonic and surprisingly funny as it turns the unblinking bright light on television's seductive hypocrisy."

Some have publicly vowed not to produce or distribute films which might get that restrictive tag, which bars it to viewing by those 17 years old and younger. Others have no such announced policy, but say privately they "probably wouldn't" now make a picture that would get that kind of rating.

The apparent trend is aided by two significant facts.

- X-rated films, by their very nature lots of nudity or rough language appeal to a minority audience and aren't making a lot of money. Only two of the top 30 grossing films of 1970 were rated X.

New interpretations by the Motion Picture Association of America rating board as to what constitutes an X film leaves the classification pretty much to the out-and-out nudie films. Even "Midnight Cowboy," one of the first respected major films to get an X, has since been re-rated R making it okay to youngsters if accompanied by an adult.

It must also be noted that the majors never really opted for this kind of fare, but aimed for the larger mass audience.

When the rating system began in November 1968, the major companies would

AID FOR PAKISTAN

The cyclone which struck East Pakistan on the night of Nov. 12-13, 1970, caused one of the greatest disasters in recorded history. Fifty countries responded with emergency help, the U.N. Secretary-General has called for further help and the World Bank has planned extensive reconstruction.

Supplies are brought into the stricken areas by helicopter and truckbut the final stage of distribution is often by ox-cart.

Illiterate farmers leave thumb print as a record of receiving rice during distribution of relief food in community centers.

Unloading of supplies flown in by U.S. helicopter painted with the American flag so that Delta people could identify its nationality.

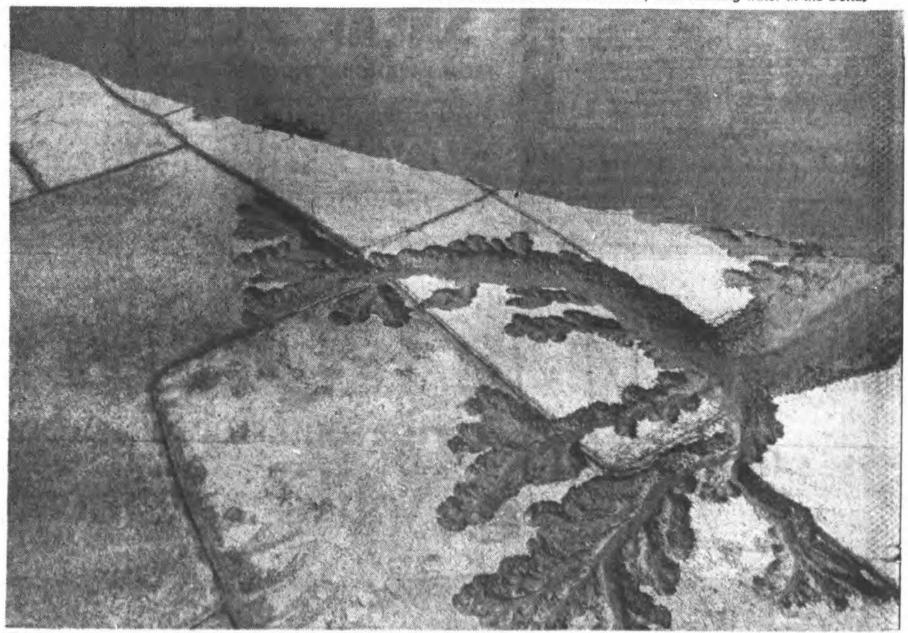

U.S. assistance has played a major role in relief work. The Agency for International Development (A.I.D.) had already been at work in the area, and A.I.D.-financed coastal embankments and cyclone shelters, for example, saved thousands of lives. After the disaster, A.I.D. provided emergency relief, including the use of ten helicopters which in 25 days flew more than 1,250 sorties and delivered more than a million pounds of supplies to the helpless survivors.

The emergency relief phase is now over. Looking ahead, to help Pakistani farmers to recover from the loss of rice crops, the U.S. has allocated 200,000 tons of wheat and rice. A.I.D. airlifted 21,000 pounds of fast-growing vegetable seeds to the area in time for January planting, and A.I.D. financing is expected to help with some of the major works of the Pakistan government's rebabilitation plans. Altogether, A.I.D. has allocated $28 million in U.S. dollars and food to help the people of East Pakistan in their recovery from the cyclone.
