Ford's Running Mate a Black?

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — President Ford indicated today he would consider a black running mate on the 1976 Republican presidential ticket.

"Certainly, Sen. Ed Brooke, by his record, is a person who ought to be considered," Ford said.

Ford made the statement during a questioning session with students at North Carolina Central University.

His reference was to Sen. Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass.), who is black.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller has withdrawn from consideration as Ford's running mate.

Ford praised Brooke, the junior senator from Massachusetts, as a capable public official with qualifying experience as state attorney general and in the Senate.

"I like him personally," Ford said, "and he has an enviable record."

The President had been asked what blacks, if any, he was considering for a running mate.

The brief exchange came in a meeting with about a dozen student leaders.

Reporters were not able to ask the President for elaboration.

However, earlier in his visit to the black college, Ford expressed a general interest in finding better positions for blacks and women.

Asked about a possible black appointment to the Cabinet, Ford mentioned William Coleman, already secretary of Transportation, but added "there are no more anticipated changes in the

OC Assessor Application List Sliced

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A special screening committee has narrowed the field of applicants for Orange County assessor down to six candidates, eliminating acting assessor Elmer Zimmer.

Left in the running for the job vacant since mid-September when former assessor Jack Vallerga was sentenced following his felony conviction are:

—Stanley Krause, director of Orange County's Real Property Services.

—George Cormack, assistant to Krause.

—Gary Cottrell, once an official in the Orange County assessor's office and now Riverside County assistant assessor.

—Bradley Jacobs, an ex-executive with Commercial Products Company.

—Peter Ulrich, a private consultant.

—Ralph King, San Diego County assistant assessor.

It is from these six candidates that the board of supervisors, perhaps as early as next week, will select Vallerga's successor.

Whoever is selected for the post will serve the three years remaining on Vallerga's initial four-year term and have all the rights and prerogatives of an elected official including the right to seek election as an incumbent.

What the six remaining applicants for county assessor survived was a two-day screening of 20 candidates by an 11-member committee appointed by the Board of Supervisors.

Originally, there were 114 applicants for the job. But in preliminary eliminations county Administrative Officer Robert Thomas and Personnel Director Bert Scott pared the list to 20.

And it was from those 20 that the committee selected the six

Gregg Allman Asks Divorce From Cher

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Rock star Gregg Allman filed a court petition today asking that his four-month marriage to television entertainer Cher be dissolved.

The petition filed in Bibb Superior Court says the marriage is "irretrievably broken." It says the couple were separated on Nov. 11.

Cher, star of a variety show, and Gregg, singer and songwriter with the Allman Brothers band, were married in Las Vegas on June 30.

The marriage, which came just three days after Cher's divorce from her longtime husband and singing partner Sonny Bono, has been stormy despite its brevity.

Cher, 29, announced nine days after they were married that she was filing for a divorce, saying, "Gregg and I made a mistake." But she withdrew the action on Aug. 1.

A spokesman for Allman, 27, said later that he thought the whole thing had been a misunderstanding.

Builder Citation Pending

Industrial safety experts are probing a second fatal crane accident in 13 days at the Corona del Mar Freeway construction site in Costa Mesa, where a novice workman was decapitated Thursday.

A spokesman for the California State Division of Industrial Safety said, meanwhile, the general contractor on the job will be issued a citation for the Oct. 31 fatal accident.

"Definitely," declared Gene Cresci, when asked if the Novo-Rados Construction Company of Whittier will be charged with safety violations as a result of the previous incident.

No specific details were available on specific charges to be included in the citation, which could result in revocation of the firm's state contractor's license.

Cresci said they will be announced when the citation is formally issued.

Thursday morning, Michael Clinton Wakefield, 26, of 1303 S. Bristol St., Santa Ana, was killed instantly when his head was crushed between a 10-ton counterweight that swung against the side of a crane it helped support.

Police Officer George Yezbick said crane operator Tony Cordasco, of Upland, had already shouted warnings to the apprentice oiler three times in about one hour to be more careful.

Suddenly, while swinging the

Mesans Lose Brawl With Newport Cops

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What began as a routine traffic arrest degenerated into a brawl early today when two Newport Beach police officers and two Costa Mesa brothers battled it out in the arrestees' home.

The brothers, police said, lost.

Donald John Jacobi, 23, and his brother, Fred, 21, both of 476 Walnut Ave., were arrested at 1 a.m. after two separate alleged battles with police at the family home.

Patrolman Steve Vance was the first to mix it up with the brothers, he alleged today, and at one point said he was choked unconscious.

Vance said that the series of incidents began when he noticed a pickup truck speeding and skidding in the Newport Heights area and traced the truck to the Jacoby residence.

Vance said that moments after contacting the father of the house, he noticed one of the brothers in a driveway.

His attempts at an arrest, he said, were greeted with oaths and threats. Seconds later both men were on the ground. Vance managed a squirt of chemical Mace, but said it did little good.

Vance said that the other brother then appeared and choked the officer while demanding that the sibling be let free.

The officer lost consciousness, then came to as both brothers assertedly ran into the home.

The next round, police said, took place in a bedroom. The ranks by then were two to two and Vance and Patrolman Michael Deladuranty arrested the pair after another match.

Donald was treated for minor hurts at Orange County Medical Center before being booked on a charges of battery on a police officer. His bail was set at $2,500.

His brother's bail, police said, was $1,000. He did not require medical treatment.

As for the officers, the only injuries were minor cuts, scrapes and bruises.

Explosive It Wasn't

There it was, stuck atop a mailbox at the Park Lido medical building, arousing the suspicion of passersby this morning.

Newport Beach police soon arrived to gaze at it too — a small, shiny tube lashed to the box with the word "BOMB" printed boldly on the outside.

Gingerly, they removed it.

And soon they identified it.

It was a urine sample.

Patrolwoman Held in Bank Holdup Try

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — A woman highway patrol dispatcher, a pistol tucked in the waistband of her trousers, was arrested while trying to rob a bank, police said. She is also suspected of two other bank robberies within eight days.

The president of the Bank of Commerce in suburban Jenks wrestled Jo Ann Alexander, 25, to the floor of the bank Thursday, after she allegedly handed a teller a note demanding money.

Mrs. Alexander, a dispatcher in the patrol's Tulsa District headquarters 18 months and the mother of a 3-year-old boy, became the third patrol employe arrested in two weeks. One trooper was discharged for allegedly operating a prostitution ring and another was apprehended driving a stolen car.

She was arraigned Thursday before U.S. Magistrate Claudine Barnes on a charge of bank robbery in connection with the Jenks holdup. Cash bond was set at $50,000 and a preliminary hearing scheduled for Nov. 20.

An FBI spokesman said federal authorities planned to file two additional bank robbery charges today, accusing Mrs. Alexander of the Nov. 5 holdup of the United Bank of Tulsa and the Nov. 7 robbery of the Citizens Security Bank of Bixby.

"She has been a very good employe as far as dispatching

Wiggins Mentioned As Court Nominee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bar Association is screening a list of fewer than 12 potential U.S. Supreme Court nominees submitted by the Ford administration, but the President's spokesman indicated today Ford will not be bound by its recommendations.

The bar association expects to report on the qualifications of those on the list early next week. Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi sent the list to the ABA Thursday.

A high-ranking official called it "a very small list" of fewer than a dozen persons under consideration for President Ford's nomination to succeed retired Justice William O. Douglas.

The New York Times today reported that Administration sources said the list submitted to the ABA included, among others, Rep. Robert Griffin (R-Mich); Solicitor General Robert Bork; Rep. Charles E. Wiggins (R-Calif.); Judge Arlin M. Adams of the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia; and four other federal appeals court judges — Paul H. Roney of the 5th Circuit in New Orleans, John Paul Stevens of the 7th Circuit in Chicago, William H. Webster of the 8th Circuit in St. Louis and J. Clifford Wallace of the 9th Circuit in San Francisco.

Some new names surfaced as lawyers and government officials continued to speculate about the possible candidates. Women figuring most prominently in the speculation included Soia Mentschikoff, dean of the University of Miami (Fla.) Law School; Betty Southard Murphy, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board; Carla A. Hills, sectetary of Housing and Urban Development; and U.S. Circuit Court Judge Shirley Hufstedler, of Los Angeles.

Among the men considered leading candidates were Levi, Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman and Assistant Senate Republican Leader Robert Griffin (R-Mich.).

Wiggins of Fullerton, who is reportedly being considered for the appointment, says his voting record — not his defense of former President Nixon — may be his greatest obstacle.

Wiggins was a staunch defender of Nixon during the House impeachment proceedings last year.

"I think the people who know me here on the Hill really know that that was not an exercise in politics on my part as much as conviction," he said.

The congressman is a senior member of the House Judiciary Committee and regarded as an excellent constitutional lawyer.

Wiggins told the Los Angeles Times in Washington that he would be "utterly thrilled, obviously" to be considered.

"I don't see any sense in being coy about that," he said. "I feel myself to be primarily a lawyer rather than a legislator or a politician."

He said he sees his voting record as his great obstacle to a possible seat on the court bench.

"I voted against the Equal Rights Amendment," he said. "I have voted against various sections of the Voting Rights Act, too, for reasons that have nothing to do with any insensitivity to the right to vote."

Man Files Charges In Assault

A 19-year-old Newport Beach resident filed charges of battery against a retired Los Angeles policeman Thursday after a fist fight that followed an argument in the balcony of the Balboa Pussycat Theater.

Newport Beach police said they were summoned by a battered George Nash, 1810 King's Road, who alleged that he was beaten up before midnight.

Officers booked Charles Vance McCarty, 48, of San Pedro, who is a retired Los Angeles police officer.

Nash alleged in a report to officers that as he passed McCarty on the way to the lobby, the retired officer said, "There goes the third pervert."

Some arguing allegedly ensued, then a fight. McCarty, police said, left for a nearby restaurant where he was contacted by officers.

Officers said they interceded, acting on Nash's citizen's arrest. The charge, police said, carried a bail of $150, which was posted by the arrestee later.

Nash, police said, was not seriously hurt in the alleged altercation.

Hatless Cops Suspended

PARLIER (AP) — Failure to wear hats on duty has resulted in suspension of two policemen here and their chief who failed to make them obey the hat rule.

Two-week suspensions against officers Tom Lehman and Andre Hardcastle and Chief John Martinez were announced Thursday. Martinez also was placed on probation for three months with an evaluation every 30 days, said City Manager Joe Rodriguez.

The officers "were suspended for lack of being in full uniform," Rodriguez said. "It is a policy that you are supposed to wear a hat on duty."

IRS Charges Face Solon?

DETROIT (AP) — Federal officials have charged Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., (D-Mich.), with failure to pay $36,223 in taxes for 1968, the Detroit News reported today.

The Detroit congressman denied through his lawyers that he owes that amount in the case, which involves the estate of his father, Charles C. Diggs Sr., who died in April 1967.

Diggs, who has served in Congress since 1954, said Thursday that the case was "too sensitive" for him to comment, the paper reported.

80-ton crane's boom carrying an empty cement container. Cordasco said, he felt it lurch to a stop as though something was jamming the apparatus.

"He stated he looked out to see what was wrong and saw the victim's skull and hair between the bottom of the counterweight and the front disc of the crane," said Officer Yezbick.

Coroner's deputies pronounced Wakefield, who had been on the job six months, dead at the scene.

Harold G. Morris, 28, of 5306 Franklin Circle, Westminster, was killed instantly Oct. 31 across the freeway route from Thursday's fatal accident scene and three co-workers were seriously injured.

Morris was being carried inside a huge steel reinforcing rod assembly for a freeway support pillar when it slipped from a crane and plunged to earth, collapsing on impact.

He was crushed inside it, while has co-workers now hospitalized in Newport Beach, Wilmington and Corona were apparently hit by flying debris.

The accident site is at what will be the interchange of the Newport and Corona del Mar freeways, near Baker and Bristol streets in northest Costa Mesa.

State Division of Industrial Safety spokesmen in San Francisco also clarified today exactly which firm is involved as general contractor on the job which also involves sub-contractors.

The Novo-Rados Construction Company, a major freeway and highway building firm, is in charge, but some of its equipment carries signs identifying it as another defunct company.

Novo-Rados has leased or rented cranes and other heavy equipment from the Polich-Benedict Construction Company which was based in the San Gabriel Valley.

The California Contractors' License Board, a division of the State Department of Consumer Affairs, revoked that firm's license last July 1, for its history of negligence resulting in workers' deaths and injuries.

The firm was the general contractor on the job in 1973 when the towering Arroyo Seco overpass of the Foothill Freeway near Pasadena collapsed, killing several men and injuring many more.

Ford began his visit to two Southern states today by receiving an honorary degree from the black college and calling for the day "when all the children of God are brothers and sisters."

Ford was greeted by hundreds of persons and waded into the crowd shaking hands as he arrived on campus to accept an honorary doctor of laws degree at the university's 50th annual convocation.

Later in the day, he planned to fly to Atlanta for a GOP fundraising dinner.

At Durham, the college choir sang "We Shall Overcome" as about a half-dozen white hecklers from the stands of the gymnasium waved placards protesting the presence of 93 prisoners on North Carolina's death row.

A chant of "93 Lives in Your Hands" was shouted as North Carolina Gov. James Holshouser rose to introduce Ford. Holshouser paused in his introduction and said, "I would never intervene and perhaps damage the rights of those defendants."

At the Raleigh-Durham airport, Ford was greeted by several hundred persons and then was cheered by crowds lining both sides of the street at the university.

Just 90 minutes before Ford's airport arrival, work crews completed clearing away the wreckage of an Eastern Airlines 727 jet which bellylanded short of the runway during a thunderstorm Wednesday night. Four of the 139 persons on board were injured in the incident.

ability," said Lt. Van Hoy, public information officer for the patrol.

Asked whether her arrest was a surprise to patrol officials, he said, "After 10 years on the patrol, nothing comes as a complete surprise. It was unexpected."

Hayden Hyde, president of the Bank of Commerce, said Mrs. Alexander aroused suspicions of bank employes when she visited the bank Thursday morning.

When she returned about noon, the bank official followed her to a teller's post where she allegedly presented a demanding note to a teller.

"I walked up behind her to see what she was doing," he said. "When I saw what was going on, I jumped her."

He said the woman bit and struggled as he wrestled her to the floor, but other employes helped him subdue her.

Brainwashed?

Expert Summoned by Hearsts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A British psychologist considered an expert on brainwashing techniques says he is flying here from London today to examine Patricia Hearst at the request of her parents.

Dr. William W. Sargent said in England that he would spend about three days visiting Miss Hearst in her cell at the San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City south of here. Miss Hearst, 21, faces trial on federal bank robbery charges.

Dr. Sargent, 68, is a consulting psychiatrist at St. Thomas' Hospital in London. He has written many books, including "Battle for the Mind."

Miss Hearst's lawyers filed an affidavit in court shortly after the newspaper heiress was arrested Sept. 18 in which she claimed she was tortured and driven to the verge of insanity by Symbionese Liberation Army captors.

Police Seeking 'Polite Rapist'

A "polite, gentlemanly and courteous" rapist is sought today by Laguna Beach and Newport Beach police who believe the moon-faced man is responsible for a string of sexual attacks in both cities.

The latest victim was a 28-year-old Laguna Beach woman attacked in her own home Thursday. On departing, the rapist told his victim he would lock the door for her so she didn't have to get up.

That kind of courtesy is a trademark of the rapist police believe may be responsible for four to five rapes and several attempted rapes in Laguna Beach and for three to four rapes and several attempts in Newport Beach.

The Laguna rapist is armed with a large caliber blue steel automatic pistol. The man responsible for the Newport Beach attacks was armed with a knife.

He told his victims in Newport he was named Jerry and that he was a Vietnam veteran. The Laguna rapist told his lafest victim his name was "Pete" just before he told her "I'm going to rape you."

Laguna Beach Det. Gene Brooks said he firmly believes the same man is responsible for three attacks within the past week.

Last Friday, a 19-year-old woman was raped during the early morning hours at her home by a man who forced open a window. Then Sunday, a 55-year-old woman was awakened by an armed man who fled when she began screaming and refused to stop.

Det. Brooks said there are other unsolved rapes in residential areas which appear to match the method of operation used by this one man. Descriptions too are similar.

"In fact, I would go out on a limb and say that all the residential rapes we've had since the first of the year, with the exception of one, this guy is possibly responsible," Det. Brooks said.

He said in each case, the rapist was polite and did no physical harm to his victims. Some victims described him as gentlemanly.

"This is only theory on my part, but I believe it is a good possibility that this is also the same guy, 'Jerry,' who plagued Newport this spring," Brooks said.

Newport Beach Det. Ken Smith agreed that the women's descriptions of their attacker matched that of the Laguna rapist.

According to victims, the rapist has a "baby or moon-face," is of stocky build, of average height and weighs about 170 pounds. He has short sandy colored hair and is clean shaven.

Reports Eyed On Sara Jane

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two psychiatric reports on Sara Jane Moore, accused of trying to assassinate President Ford, have been flown to Southern California so that U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti can study them.

The judge was in Long Beach attending a legal conference.

The reports on the mental condition of the 45-year-old twice divorced mother were requested by Conti to determine whether she is mentally competent to stand trial. A competency hearing has been set for next Monday.

Zaire Kidnap Victims Owe Ransom?

By HILARY KAYE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Stanford University student newspaper reported Thursday that parents of the four students kidnaped in Africa last May may be forced to pay back most of the $400,000 to $500,000 ransom money used to free the students.

However, today in Garden Grove, the mother of one of the freed students called the report "just speculation."

"We haven't been contacted by any school officials to pay back money, so I don't think the writer of that story knew what he was talking about," said Mittie Smith, mother of Stephen Smith, 22.

In the event the report turns out to be true, Mrs. Smith said her family is in big trouble.

"We don't have any money. We certainly couldn't pay back our share of the loan," said Mrs. Smith. Each student would be responsible for a little more than $100,000.

Mrs. Smith said that her husband, Joseph, is employed as a longshoreman. She previously worked as a cook in a convalescent hospital, but is no longer employed.

Stephen Smith and three other students from the Palo Alto campus were whisked away from the Gombe Stream Research Center in Tanzania while they were studying chimpanzees.

Their captors, Zaire guerrillas, kept the graduate students for nine weeks before their release were negotiated.

According to the article in the Stanford Daily, the loan for the ransom money must be paid back by Jan. 1 of next year. However, the article did not say who loaned the ransom money, nor would university officials comment on the terms of the secret agreement.

Mrs. Smith also said she did not know who had loaned the money for the students' ransom.

However, she said it was clear at the time that no pay-back was expected from the parents.

The article also said that a private fund-raising campaign to collect money to pay back the loan was mostly unsuccessful.

It said only $80,000 had been collected and glamed the small amount on the fact that the university refused to help out in the fund-raising efforts.

Mrs. Smith said she also doubted the validity of the article because she has not yet heard from Stephen, who is currently a teaching assistant at the Stanford Primate Center.

"Stephen would have telephoned to tell us the news if they really expected us to pay," she said.

Mrs. Smith, who says Stephen "loves his current work" at Stanford, said her son is just about back to nrmal after the ordeal.

"At first he was pretty nervous all the time, but he's getting back to the way he was before," she said.

Pear Peril

DEAR PAT: My son gave me some beautiful pears to can and I bought new jars with lids and rings complete. After canning the pears, I read that some of these lids were not sealing properly. I was particular about getting all air out of the jars before sealing and processing in the hot water bath. But now I see bubbles of air coming from the bottom of the jar. Is this a sign that the fruit is spoiling?

G.J., Newport Beach

You have been advised to contact the home adviser's office of the Agricultural Extension Service. Exact processing information will be required before it can be determined if your canned pears are safe to eat. Other readers having questions about home-canned foods may contact this office by phoning 774-7050, or writing to 1000 S. Harbor, Anaheim, CA 92805.

'Casual Labor'

DEAR PAT: My husband and I have started a new small business. What is the tax rule for what is called "casual labor," meaning workers who come in for a few hours occasionally and do not have anything withheld from their wages? Some say that if they earn $600 a year, you deduct. Others say deductions are necessary if they earn $50 in 24 days. We've tried for days to get through to a state office that could answer, but we always get put on hold until we finally hang up.

J.R., Newport Beach

If an employe is paid $100 in wages during any calendar quarter, his wages are subject to deductions. There are exceptions, however. You can outline your employes' duties and receive specific information from the California Employment Tax Office, 28 Civic Center Plaza, Room 755, Santa Ana, CA 92701. If you care to try another phone inquiry, contact the auditing section by calling 558-4216.

Phone Survey

DEAR PAT: I called the long distance information operator in New Jersey today and was asked for my area code and the first three digits of my phone number. Why was this information requested? Is "Ma Bell" about to start charging for information calls?

K.B., San Clemente

This information request was a local survey probably undertaken to determine the volume of long distance information calls made to the particular office you contacted, according to a Pacific Telephone Co. spokesman, who added that information call charges are not anticipated for at least two years.

Blankenbricker, a gasoline station attendant, told police Thursday he had just closed for the night and was walking to his car when he was jumped from behind by a young man.

The man rabbed the bag Blankenbricker was carrying, apparently thinking it contained the day's receipts. It was Blankenbricker's lunch.

Deadly Toys

Ex-OSS Agent Recalls Job

By ANNE COOPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Former OSS agent Tom Moon sat in a Saddleback Valley office recently, thumbing through a catalogue of "toys."

The OSS was the Office of Strategic Services (the World War II precursor to the CIA) and the "toys" were nothing for children.

"Here's the exploding coal we used," Moon said. "It was made to various specifications, so that it could be mixed in with coal anywhere in the world and not be spotted.

"These tiny gelatin capsules were botulism toxin. They were made small so that Chinese prostitutes could wet them and stick them behind their ears until they had a chance to drop one in a Japanese officer's drink. Those girls could dish out lethal doses even in the nude.

Moon was 19 years old when he was dropped 120 miles behind Japanese lines in Burma, where he and "four or five" other Americans led more than a thousand guerrillas in sabotage against the Japanese. All OSS operations in the area were under the direction of Col. Carl Eifler, the subject of a book by Moon called "The Deadliest Colonel."

Eifler, who weighed more than 250 pounds and kept a pet bear as a wrestling companion, is portrayed in Moon's book as a tough-minded American patriot who would stop at nothing to carry out an assignment.

His assignments, according to Moon, included the assassination of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, the kidnaping of Germany's top atomic scientist and the infiltration of Japanese-occupied Korea to foment revolution.

Chiang's assassination was postponed and then dropped. The Manhattan project gave the U.S. the atomic bomb without the kidnaping of the German scientist. Japan surrendered before Korea had time to organize for revolution. But the groundwork for each of these secret operations had been laid by Carl Eifler.

PENS OSS TALE
Author Tom Moon

Newport Beach and San Clemente were "invaded" by Korean nationals working for Eifler, according to Moon's book. They were practicing for their infiltration of Japanese-held Korea. The FBI and other policing authorities were not alerted to these practices, yet the Koreans successfully "infiltrated" as far inland as Anaheim and Santa Ana without detection.

"Things haven't changed much," Moon commented. "The CIA is fighting a cold war. The OSS was fighting a hot war. That's the only difference."

At a recent reunion of OSS agents, 20 of the 70 attending, said Moon, were working for the CIA.

"The congressional investigations of the CIA have been very damaging," said Moon, who lives in Orange and works as an insurance broker. "Foreign informants are worried now that their cover will be blown.

"Certainly, there have been excesses," Moon acknowledged. "The problem is not with the agency, however, but with the individual agent. These men are trained to commit acts of sabotage, including murder. They make judgments in the field as to how best to apply their training. Sometimes they make mistakes."

Moon will discuss his war experiences and his book Saturday at a Saddleback Friends of the Mission Viejo Library meeting. His talk will begin at 2 p.m. at the library, 24851 Chrisanta.

Two Brothers Hang Selves

ALEXANDRIA, Minn. (AP) — Two young brothers committed suicide just one day apart, both by hanging themselves with belts, authorities say.

Michael Yager, 13, was found Thursday hanging by a belt in the basement of his rural Alexandria home, said Douglas County Coroner C.E. Carlson, who ruled the death a suicide.

John Yager, 16, was found hanging by his own belt at a juvenile detention center at Moorhead, Minn., Wednesday night, Clay County officials said. The youth had been confined at the center since Nov. 7 on an order by the Douglas County Juvenile Court, pending a hearing.

Sahara Resolved

MARRAKESH, Morocco (AP) — Spain, Morocco and Mauritania reportedly reached a gentlemen's agreement in Madrid today on the future of Spanish Sahara. Moroccan Premier Ahmed Osman flew home declaring all difficulties have been surmounted.

'Smarter' Burglar Lost Out

A man who admitted committing between 800 and 1,000 burglaries in Orange County during the past five years because he "tried to be smarter than the police" drew a one-year jail term and 10 years probation Thursday in Orange County Superior Court.

Judge Kenneth Williams rejected a probation department recommendation that cabinet maker Philip Emerson Hathaway, 37, of Tustin, be sent to state prison for not less than five years.

The jurist ordered the lesser commitment after accepting Hathaway's plea of guilty to two burglary counts. He further ordered that the confessed burglar be allowed to serve his one-year spell in Costa Mesa city jail.

Court officers explained that the jail location decision stemmed from Hathaway's cooperation with Tustin police since his arrest in that city early this year. Officers said 600 unsolved burglaries were cleared as a result of the woodworker's cooperation.

"The boys in the big jail don't call it cooperation," a jail deputy commented as Hathaway was led away. "They have their own way of rewarding such as Hathaway."

Hathaway, employed by Harden Enterprises, 815 W. 18th St., Costa Mesa, for eight years from 1966 to 1974, was described Thursday by Judge Williams as a man with "special talents."

Judge Williams was told that Hathaway did not commit his 800 to 1,000 burglaries from economic need and that his arrest in Tustin "lifted a burden from his shoulders."

Wife Slayer Gets Death

SUSANVILLE (AP) — Frank Cruz, 45, listened impassively, his head bowed and his hands in his lap, when he was sentenced to death for the murders of his 75-year-old wife and two teen-age step-grandchildren.

Lassen County Superior Court Judge Arthur Peterson announced the sentence Thursday and rejected defense motions for a new trial and reduction of the penalty.

Noise Pact Weighed by Supervisors

Orange County Supervisors will be asked Tuesday to select a consultant to update the noise contours around El Toro Marine Corps Air Station.

The board ordered the County Environmental Management Agency last summer to begin screening companies to perform the task.

Supervisors will be handed a list of three companies Osborne said are all able to "competently complete the required work."

They include:

— Bolt, Beranek and Newman, Inc., charging a fee of from $14,000 to $18,600.

— Olson Laboratories, Inc., with a fee of $13,000 to $16,000.

— Ultrasystems, Inc., with a $12,900 fee.

In a letter to Supervisors, EMA Director H.G. "George" Osborne said it has been determined through recent measurements around the jet fighter base that noise levels exceed those represented on noise contour maps developed in 1972.

The most excessive noise levels are recorded in the Lake Forest and Laguna Hills areas, but not all the sound comes from jets, according to county officials. Some noise is made by helicopters flying low over residential areas.

Osborne speculated that the noise increase since 1972 could have been caused by a new mix of aircraft at the Marine base or new takeoff and landing patterns.

Peanuts to Zionism Are Sunday's Best

Here are some of the weekend stories and features you'll count among "Sunday's Best" in the Daily Pilot:

SUNDAY'S BEST

FRAUD BY MAIL — Some of the most popular "con jobs" are as near as your mailbox. Daily Pilot Staff Writer Hilary Kaye lists some of the most popular fraud-by-mail schemes and tells readers where to get a complete list of them. Scheduled as lead story for YOU Section.

ANTI-SEMITISM? — Zionism is an explosive issue at the United Nations (and elsewhere) since the vote to equate it with racism. What is zionism and what do local Jewish leaders have to say about it? Staff Writer Jackie Hyman compiles the story for Daily Pilot editorial pages.

PEANUTS IDEAS — Charles Schulz delves into his own childhood to recall the beginnings of some of the funniest and most poignant stories he has told in his world popular comic strip, Peanuts. It's the fourth part of a five-part series of articles.

STILL FIGHTING — Playwright Lillian Hellman, who suffered financially and emotionally when she was blacklisted in the '50s, is finally receiving some of the honor due her. But she's still struggling to insure civil liberties, according to Rex Reed, who tells about the struggle in his column.

SPLIT TO DOUBLE — If you could "split" your auto engine—just use half its cylinders — you'd probably double your gas mileage, right? But how can you make an engine work like that. One Orange County inventor says it can be done and Daily Pilot Staff Writer Rudi Niedzielski, himself a motor freak, thinks it's practical. The story is scheduled as the Sunday Special.

The Crack Of Dawn

FIRST LIGHT DEPT.— Normally, I am not one of those Dawn Patrol people. I do not leap out of the sack into the morning chill, bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, whistling Yankee Doodle and clapping my hands.

I figure you only see these kinds of people in the movies.

My approach to mornings is to worry first about getting awake even just a little bit. This can be accomplished with an alarm clock about the size of a Chinese gong or maybe a clock radio with Dick Whittinghill set to come on full blast.

Even then, I greet the dawn with caution. Try to open only one eye. Grope for the floor with just a single foot to make sure it hasn't moved during the night. Try to move slowly so that my tired blood won't slosh around too violently.

Eventually I make it.

ALL THIS ASIDE, this morning was an exception. I popped from slumber hearing the sound of pounding surf and twittering birds. Flinging covers, I leaped up, snapped open bedroom curtains, whistled, scrubbed teeth and even got my shoes on the correct feet.

At the risk of destroying my image, I want you to know it was all worth it.

Off easterly behind the coastal range, the sun was taking a run at the morning. Recent Santa Ana winds had vacuumed our atmosphere, leavint a crystal-like powder blue sky that Mother Nature had brushed with wispy clouds and cottonballs of delicate pink hues.

The old Pacific was grumbling, rumbling and popping out there, like an early morning stomach demanding breakfast. Viewing it, however, you could tell that the sea was just giving you audio theatrics. All that noise was provided by little tiny waves, rising only a foot or so at the last moment and then slapping the sand with loud thumps.

OLD PACIFIC, you love morning jokes by making large roars with little waves. We'll watch you with more concern, however, when your sea sounds become a deep, throaty rumble, steady for minutes at a time, like a distant cannonade.

Then we know you mean business.

Now in the dawn's early light, time for the race upcoast. But at this hour you can enjoy a solitary highway. No cop cars with signs on the back proclaiming "Radar Patrol." No commuters to dodge. No pedestrians jitterbugging across the highway through Corona del Mar.

SILENCE IS BROKEN only by the hum of an engine and the whistle of the wind. Below, the surf meets the curve of the coastline and the lights of the Newport-Balboa Peninsula still twinkle in the distance against a lightening sky.

Indeed, this is the best of all possible coasts. You have to see it at dawn to appreciate it.

Every once in a while, anyway.

Oil Firm 'Payoffs' Revealed

NEW YORK (AP) —The Exxon Corp.'s Italian subsidiary made $27 million in secret political payments in Italy over a 23-year period and another $29 million to $32 million was siphoned from the company's funds for unknown uses, the Wall Street Journal said today.

The newspaper said some $21 million in dummy invoices were used to make the secret political payments and 40 secret bank accounts were involved in the siphoning of funds from the subsidiary Esso Italiana.

No one at Exxon is quite sure where the siphoned funds went, the Journal said.

Ship Wreckage Found

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) —The Coast Guard plans to use sonar equipment today to determine if a newly spotted wreck at the bottom of Lake Superior is the remains of the sunken ore carrier Edmund Fitzgerald.

A P3 Navy plane located the wreck with a magnetic scanner late Thursday, the Coast Guard said. The 729-foot Fitzgerald sank Monday in a storm with 29 men aboard. There are no known survivors.

Peron In Showdown

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Isabel Peron has returned home from the hospital amid widespread expectation that a showdown after five months of political crisis is imminent.

Before Mrs. Peron went back to her suburban residence Thursday night, she met with her cabinet at the clinic where she had spent 11 days. It was the first known official contact with her eight ministers since she went to the hospital.

Bomb Kills 6 Youths

JERUSALEM (AP) — Police questioned Arab suspects today about a bomb that killed six Israeli teenagers outside an ice cream shop in Jerusalem.

Armed police patrolled the city and security forces checked cars at roadblocks following the explosion Thusrsday night that also wounded 42 persons, including an American and a Dutch tourist.

Veto or Sign?

President Studies Gas Price Rollback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford faces divided Republican opinion in Congress on whether to veto or sign a long-range energy policy bill now supported by his top energy adviser. He has not tipped his hand.

The drafted bill would roll back gasoline prices for now and then allow gradual oil price increases. In the absence of legislation, current controls lapse Saturday night.

CONGRESSIONAL Republican leaders met with Ford for two hours Thursday night, along with Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and President Ford's top advisers in energy, security, Congressional liaison and the economy.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the Congressmen requested the meeting to "report to the President on what the conferees had done."

A House-Senate conference committee came to terms on a bill Wednesday night, leaving only the formal language to be written up before each House of Congress considers the measure.

NESSEN SAID "there were variations of opinion" at the meeting in the White House. "There was a lack of precision as to people's memory of what the conferees had agreed to. Until the provisions are clarified, he is going to reserve judgment."

Nessen did not make clear whether Ford will decide to accept or reject the bill before final Congressional action.

In an interview with Scripps-Howard newspaper editors, the President said: "Congress has come a long, long way since January, when some members were talking of a 20 cent gasoline tax and some were talking of quotas. It appears that it (legislation) does approach the phased decontrol program I proposed. If so, it has a lot of appeal."

THE ENERGY policy legislation would force an initial rollback of fuel prices, then let them increase gradually over a 40-month period. It would also authorize gasoline rationing in emergencies.

Wells to Egypt

Israeli Troops Leave Oil Field

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel withdrew its troops from the Ras Sudr oil fields today and handed over the desert wells to the United Nations emergency force for return to Egypt.

The pullback was the first for Israeli military forces under the September Israeli-Egyptian agreement worked out by U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Egyptian technicians were to move into the oil zone on the Gulf of Suez Saunday.

ISRAEL MOVED its oil technicians from the Ras Sudr fields five weeks ago, giving the wells to three American oilmen representing Egypt, but Israeili soldiers stayed in place until today.

Under the Kissinger agreement, the United States is to pay Israel $350 million this year for the loss of the Abu Rudeis oil revenues, and Israel expects similar compensation in the years ahead.

For Israel, which captured the installations in the 1967 Middle East war, surrendering the Ras Sudr fields meant a loss of 3,000 barrels of vital fuel per day by the end of this month.

THE ISRAELIS are to evacuate the main fields at Abu Rudeis and the entire Sinai oil corridor which has yielded 224 million barrels since its capture eight years ago.

Reporting from the Gulf of Suez, Radio Israel said the handover ceremony was brisk and modest. A voice called to an Israeli soldier in Hebrew, "Okay, Benny, it's 12 o'clock — get the flag down," and the blue and white Israeli flag was lowered at noon for the last time.

MISSILE BOATS from the Israeli navy saluted by spewing jets of water into the air from the nearby gulf, the radio said.

Indonesian troops from the United Nations force took control of Ras Sudr and were to guard the fields for 36 hours before turning them over to Egypt.

Israel's military command said that under the agreement, Israeli forces would keep control over checkpoints on the nearby road, and at the port and airfield on the gulf coast.

In other Middle East developments:

—A Liberian freighter carrying Israeli cargo to Iran started through the Suez Canal, maritime sources in Port Said, Egypt, said. The load of irrigation pipe was the second shipment of Israeli goods allowed through the canal under the latest Sinai disengagement pact between Israel and Egypt.

—In Jerusalem police questioned Arab suspects following Thursday's explosion of a bomb that killed six Israeli teen-agers and wounded 42 other persons outside an ice cream shop. Armed police patrolled the city and security forces check cars at roadblocks following the explosion. Two Arab guerrilla groups in neighboring Lebanon said the blast had been the work of their agents to mark the anniversary of Palestine guerrilla chief Yasir Arafat's appearance at the U.N.

Lisbon Calm As Strikers Lift Siege

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Shouting "Victory! Victory!" thousands of striking construction workers lifted their siege of Premier Jose Pinheiro Azevedo early today after keeping him a prisoner in his official residence for 37 hours. The capital was reported calm.

But 175 miles north in Oporto, 12 men were wounded by gunfire in a wave of mob attacks on Communist-run installations. Demonstrators from several non-Communist parties sacked the Communist-run Trade Union Federation offices and had running gun battles at two other sites.

About 5,000 demonstrators were chased away from the Intersindical union offices by police and soldiers using teargas after union files were burned in a bonfire and furnishings and windows were wrecked.

THE MOB then attacked the Communist student office where it started fires with firebombs. Defenders inside the building opened fire with shotgun and the attackers returned the fire. Four persons were wounded, including one man in critical condition, before troops restored order.

Long Wait Hinges On 'Sanitation'

MENA, Ark. (UPI) — A judge has ordered sanitation conditions checked at a house in Grannis where about 25 persons have been waiting for 1½ months for the arrival of Jesus Christ.

Judge J.B. Stevenson said sanitation would not be used as an excuse to break up the vigil. Asked what would happen if health violations were discovered, Stevenson said, "We'll solve that when we get to it."

"I wish something would break it up and they would take their children back, but that's their business," Stevenson said. "If that's their religious belief, they can go on with it, but I can't see how they can continue with this."

The judge said a health officer inspected conditions at the house two weeks ago and found nothing wrong. "But with that many people cooped up in one house with one bathroom, it makes you wonder if everything is all right. After all, there are some children there under 18 I have an interest in."

"We've had complaints about sanitation," he said. "They might be cranks but we're going to check to see if everything is all right. We're not doing it to harass the people in any way. It's just a health precaution."

California

High cloudiness and subsiding Santa Ana winds slightly lowered Southern California temperatures today but forecasters expect clear skies and summery 80-degree weather through the weekend.

Los Angeles was mostly sunny despite variable high cloudiness. There will be some fog and low clouds near the coast tonight but Saturday should be clear in the afternoon, even though a little cooler.

Highs Saturday will be near 75, while lows tonight will be about 55. There was no smog in the Basin.

The mountain resorts will have mostly sunny days ahead, with the exceptinon of some high clouds in the early hours. The readings will dip to 34 to 44 tonight but climb back to 55 to 65 Saturday.

Sunny skies prevailed over the deserts despite a few clouds. Locally gusty afternoon and evening winds were predicted in the northern deserts Saturday, when highs will be 66 to 73. The lower areas will be 78 to 84.

U.S. Summary

By The Associated Press

Snow has fallen in the central and southern Appalachians, including parts of Tennessee, the Carolinas, Virginia, West Virginia and Georgia. Atlanta reported light snow during the night.

Other snow showers continue over portions of Michigan, Ohio and New York.

Travelers warnings of hazardous driving conditions in the snow areas of Virginia remained in effect today. A flash flood watch was in force for sections of New Hampshire and Maine. Rain in New England threatened to get heavier as a low pressure center south of Cape Cod moved northward.

In the south and southeast, freeze warnings were in effect from Louisiana and Arkansas through the Carolinas and Georgia.

The midwest still had the coldest readings east of the Rockies with temperatures in the teens across the upper Great Lakes region and 20s in the mid-Mississippi Valley.

On the Pacific Northwest coast a frontal system brought more precipitation. Gale or storm warnings along the Oregon and Washington coasts remained posted.

Skies were clear over most of California, the southern portions of the plateau and Rockies and the central and southern Plains through the eastern Gulf Coast states.

The outlook for today calls for rain in New England with snow or snow flurries over the remainder of the north Atlantic Coast states into the northern and central Appalachians and northeastern Ohio.

Coastal Weather

Extended outlook Sunday through Tuesday shows some coastal low clouds and fog likely. Cooler Sunday but warmer again Monday and Tuesday. Light variable winds becoming west to southwest 8 to 12 knots in the afternoon.

Water temperature 59.

1,200 Jobs Saved

'Chicken of Sea' Cannery Sold

From Wire Services

LOS ANGELES — Two major fish canning firms have reached tentative agreement on the sale of a large harbor area cannery that will preserve more than 1,200 jobs, spokesmen said.

Van Camp Sea Food Co., a subsidiary of Ralston Purina Co., has agreed to sell its Terminal Island cannery to CHB Foods, Inc., Van Camp president Stephen A. Brennen said Thursday.

The transition will begin in August, 1976, and should be completed by August of the following year, Robert Pasarow, CHB president, said.

THE AGREEMENT with Pan Pacific marked the end of a year-long search by Van Camp, packer of Chicken of the Sea brand tuna, for a buyer that would insure continuous employment of its work force, said Stephen Brennen, Van Camp president.

"The changeover has been designed to provide employment for all or most of the persons now employed by Van Camp," Pasarow said.

The Los Angeles Harbor Commission must approve Pan Pacific as lessee of the current Van Camp Terminal Island site before the sale can be finalized. The board of directors of both companies must also endorse the arrangement.

"WE ANTICIPATE no problems in working out the remaining details and wanted to quiet the speculation that all of the employes would not have jobs," Brennen explained.

Pasarow said CHB will transfer its world headquarters, currently located in Pico Rivera, to the three-story Van Camp office building on the nearly 14-acre harbor site.

The cannery will be operated by CHB's Pan Pacific Division and would continue to process 150 to 200 tons of tuna per day for canning, spokesmen said.

Pan Pacific also will convert an additional Terminal Island plant to the canning of such seafoods as mackerel and squid, and a pet food facility would be installed nearby, company officials added.

Riles Says Help Needed in Schools

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The plunging test scores of California's high school seniors show the need for more money in programs for older students, says state schools chief Wilson Riles.

"We started in 1965 deliberately concentrating on the primary grades, and those test scores have gone up," Riles said in an interview Thursday.

"But we haven't done a damn thing in high school."

HE SPOKE after test scores were announced showing that California 12th graders had done poorer than last year in reading, language use and mathematics, while three other grade levels had improved or held steady.

The worst score was in language use, where seniors fell to 18 points on a scale of 100 below a national average established several years ago. They were nine points below the average in both reading and mathematics.

There is no up-to-date national average for the test taken by California students, and a state education official said it was possible other states had fared worse.

SECOND-AND third-grade pupils remained slightly above average, with little change, in reading tests, the only ones they took. Sixth-graders showed a sharp improvement in reading, language use and mathematics but stayed slightly below the established averages.

"I don't think it was a mistake to stress the early grades," said Riles.

Quake Shakes North Coast

EUREKA (UPI) — A large earthquake centered under the Pacific Ocean shook residents out of their beds at 1:30 A.M. today and caused a tidal wave alarm, but no damage was reported.

The quake was felt in coastal cities stretching from just north of San Francisco into Oregon.

The University of California seismographic station said it was centered under the ocean 400 miles northwest of Berkeley and had a Richter magnitude of 6.7, which would be strong enough to cause damage in a populated area.

Filled With Pot

Gulped Bag Proves Fatal

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A 17-year-old youth who tried to swallow a plastic sandwich bag full of marijuana died as a result of the incident, police said today.

A nursing supervisor at UCLA Medical Center said Robert Mendez, San Fernando, died Thursday.

Police stopped a car Mendez was riding in last Sunday when it reportedly began weaving across Sunset Boulevard in Westwood. Officers said when they went over to question Mendez, the youth attempted to swallow the bag, but accidentally inhaled it into his lungs.

Mendez got out of the car, gasping and choking, and police called an ambulance. He was rushed to the hospital, where doctors removed the bag from his lung.

Girl, 12, Bleeds To Death

FREMONT (UPI) — A 12-year-old girl, her throat torn open by a jagged shard from a broken restroom wash basin, staggered into the adjacent restaurant and bled to death, the Alameda County Coroner's Office reported.

Deputies said Carol A. Zoeter entered the restaurant restroom Wednesday as she was walking home from school. They said she staggered into the restaurant, bleeding profusely from the throat, and fell dead.

Investigators said she apparently sat on the basin and it pulled away from the wall, crashing to the floor.

'Rub Out' For Wife

BERKELEY (UPI) — Housewives are picketing outside East Bay massage parlors these days, but one of them is inviting them inside for a free rubdown.

The Xanadu in Berkeley has a sign which says "Get your wife rubbed out free as long as she is accompanied by her husband."

A spokesman insisted the phrase "rubbed out" referred to a free massage.

Friend Told

SLA Linked To Bombing

SAN RAFAEL (UPI) — James Kilgore, 28, believed to be a Symbionese Liberation Army associate, was identified by a friend as having bombed two Marin County sheriff's cruisers on Aug. 20, according to the San Rafael Independent-Journal.

The newspaper said in a copyrighted story Thursday that the friend had attended high school with Kilgore and — as he was riding his motorcycle — saw him just before the bombing at the Civic Center. The bombing occurred on the fourth anniversary of the death of San Quentin Prison convict George Jackson, who was shot during an escape attempt.

Mastermind Foiled

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Richard Keats, the accused mastermind of a plot to bilk the Los Angeles city treasury out of millions of dollars in a stolen check scheme, was arrested Thursday by FBI agents.

Keats, named in a federal warrant last January, was arrested in San Juan, Puerto Rico as he tried to re-enter the United States, agents said.

Gun Kits Seized

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Six men have been arrested on suspicion of conspiring to export to Mexico 10,000 kits that could turn M-1 carbines into automatic machine guns, it was reported Thursday.

The converter kits, which were reportedly to be sold to Guadalajara for $81,000, were confiscated at Los Angeles International Airport.

Prof's Wife Shot

SHERMAN OAKS (UPI) — The wife of a Cal State Northridge music professor was found shot to death in the couple's apartment Thursday.

Police said the body of Andrea Marta Granat, 44, was found in the living room by her husband, Endre, when he returned home from the university.

Suspect Booked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police have booked a 17-year-old youth for investigation of murder in the sex slaying of a 6-year-old boy in the south-central section of the city.

Officers said Thursday the unidentified teenager had been seen near an abandoned house in which the body of Richard Clady was found and, during questioning, he had made statements "tying in with physical evidence at the scene."

A Good Investment

Orange County supervisors have agreed to a scheme that will put the county in the role of paying the state's share of a major Ortega Highway improvement project in San Juan Capistrano.

The state has informed the county that the project is high on its priority list but because of serious cash flow problems, money for the work might not be available for years.

Without the matching state money, federal highway funds available to pay for 85 percent of such projects would normally have been lost unless local government agreed to fill the gap.

In the case of Ortega Highway, only $300,000 of the $1.5 million project cost will come from county and city gasoline tax reserves.

Supervisors voiced fears that agreeing to such an arrangement could set a precedent the state will use to its own advantage in the future. But if each project is considered on its own merits that should not be a problem.

In cases where work on state highways is vital for safety reasons the county must always consider stepping in to protect its citizens.

The Family Doctor

The complexities of medical development in recent decades have persuaded more and more physicians to move into specialty areas where they not only can demand higher fees, but can better keep up with new techniques.

But a patient, seeking medical help for minor or less specific ailments, can well find himself wandering amid a maze of costly specialists who may, or may not, be able to meet solve his problem.

A new specialty, officially titled "family practice," may be the answer. Since it was recognized in 1970, almost 9,000 physicians have undertaken the three years of special study and passed the two-day examination that certifies them as "family practice" specialists.

In medical schools, UC Irvine among them, the doctors are exposed to many fields of specialization and given training in the behavioral sciences to enable them to practice modern medicine In something resembling the old family doctor style.

But they will have to keep abreast of the times in order to retain their status. The family physicians are the first specialists to make periodic reexamination mandatory for renewal for their certification.

This in itself is a major medical breakthrough, and one that well could be adopted in other areas of specialization.

Assessor Choice

Cheers for County Administrative Officer Robert Thomas and Personnel Director Bert Scott.

When screening applicants for the job of Orange County Assessor, Thomas and Scott endorsed executives from private industry as well as candidates experienced in government.

As a result, the special county screening committee that will sift the number of assessor applicants down to five was handed a list of 20 candidates heavy with executive and administrative ability.

Those qualities, adding up to the ability to manage, are what is needed for a smooth functioning assessor's office. And they are just as likely to be found in private industry as within government.

It may well be that the man handed the assessor's job will come from a government background. But the fact that Thomas and Scott left the door open for a qualified person from private industry is refreshing.

Dear Captain Ford – After much thought, I have decided that I do not wish to be your first mate on the next voyage!
Yours truly, Rocky

Non-Jewish People Should Speak Now

MAILBOX

Letters from readers are welcome. The right to condense letters to fit space or eliminate libel is reserved. Letters of 300 words or less will be given preference. All letters must include signature and mailing address but names may be withheld on request if sufficient reason is apparent. Poetry will not be published.

To the Editor:

I write this with shaking hand and bitten lip. I want with all my heart to argue cogently and vociferously against the recent U.N. resolution equating Zionism with racism. My impulse is to underscore each and every defense of Israel's aversion to all forms of racist conduct from its treatment of its indigenous Arab population to its selfless outreach programs costing fortunes and energy spent aiding the emerging nations of Afria and Asia. I want to write letters to editors, Congressmen, the President of our nation, urging a serious re-evaluation of this country's continued participating in such an international forum as the U.N.

BUT I believe that the time has come for the non-Jewish population of our land and our world to raise its collective voice. I would pray that countless local clergy, local lay leaders, local community leaders would join the Daniel Moynihans in an unequivocal rejection of anti-semitism even in the guise of anti-Zionism.

The world stood morally mum hardly a generation ago. I believe with all my being that the world must have learned the lessons of Auschwitz and Nazism.

It is now time for me to lower my voice and listen for my non-Jewish brethren to begin to be heard. If not now, my dear friends of goodwill, then when?

Re: Senator Whetmore of Anaheim: I think such arrogance in a public servant is despicable, and furthermore trying to get a nice girl fired from her job, when jobs are hard to come by is pretty low. I'll put his name on my list of people not to vote for.

'Biker Type'

To the Editor:

I would appreciate a definition for a term used in the story about the Sunset Beach murders as published in the Daily Pilot for Sunday, Nov. 9.

What, pray tell, is a "biker type" . . . particularly one who drives "either a Mercury or Oldsmobile"? How would you distinguish a "biker type" from say, a "surfer type" or an "airplane type" or even an "automobile type"? Do we have such things as "Baptist types" or "college types" or "elderly types" or "artist types"? And from whence comes the term — a "cop type" or a "reporter type" . . . or was it an "editor type" or perhaps a "publisher type"?

So far as that goes, who would understand the term — apart from, of course, a "bigot type"?

Deserves Support

To the Editor:

Thank you for your Nov. 6 article on the Mardan Center of Educational Therapy. We have been readers of your newspaper for seven years and have long respected the work of Allison Deerr. The tone of the article was warm and sensitive and the reporting intelligent and accurate.

WE PARENTS of children at Mardan know personally of the effectiveness of the team approach at Mardan and the multiplicity of ways in which each child is helped. We are grateful that Mardan is here now when we need it. The community at large, it seems to us, also needs Mardan both now and in the future as a place which services some special needs of children.

We are personally appealing for the help of the community now. A contribution, small or large, will help Mardan through the present critical financial crisis. Mardan's address is 695 W. 19th St., Costa Mesa, CA 92627.

Press Coverage

To the Editor:

How very sad it is to see a week's worth of front page newsprint devoted to the trial of Lt. Mary Niflis! Although the trial has been averted, and Lt. Niflis has received an honorable discharge, few people will entirely forget her name and face.

Was it really that newsworthy that her picture should appear on the front page, and that the last article receive an inch-high banner headline? I believe that, in giving Lt. Niflis such fervent and diligent coverage, the Daily Pilot has done her as great a hurt as the Navy in making the trial public.

Romantic Island Holiday

ART HOPPE

Honolulu

I am hard at work on my book, "A Travel Guide for Stay-at-Homes."

Every other travel guide makes stay-at-homes unhappy they aren't seeing all the exotic places described therein. My travel guide, however, is uniquely designed to make stay-at-homes delighted they stayed at home.

Most appealing to stay-at-homes will be the chapter on beautiful, romantic Waikiki. Excerpts follow.

Beautiful, romantic Waikiki is visited by more than two million carefree tourists a year, all of whom will arrive on the same day you do.

Be sure you have confirmed reservations at your Waikiki high-rise hotel. This will enable you to shout more loudly at the desk clerk when he explains that overbooking certainly is a problem, isn't it? And it's too bad you didn't come last week when he had a room.

BUT, with luck, you may find a generous soul willing to share his room and private bath with you and six others for only $10 a day plus $50 a night.

Before going down to sport in the waves, check the timetable to determine when an elevator may stop at your floor. (Light figures indicate a.m., black figures, p.m.) The elevator will be jammed full of stout ladies with blue hair, white knitted cardigans and see-through plastic purses who are going to take hula lessons because their late husbands had good friends who sold life insurance. They are having a great time.

Once on the beach, locate the maitre de plage. Slip him $10 and he will unsnap the velvet rope and escort you to your very own two-by-four expanse of golden sand. (Slip him $20 and you'll get a view of the water.)

On leaving, you might try to take a swim. Should you make it to the water, don't be pushy, be polite. Ask, "Would you mind sidling three inches to your left so that I could get one knee wet?" If there's no response, be pushy.

Following your swim, you might like to stroll down the sidewalk in front of your hotel to buy authentic puka shell necklaces (many made of genuine Japanese plastic) for only twice what the five-and-ten charges back home. Be sure, however, to reserve a place on the sidewalk at least a week in advance.

WELL, there's more. But I made the mistake of flying off to the neighboring island of Kauai. And all it's got is lush vegetation, secret waterfalls and empty beaches — nothing that would gladden the heart of a stay-at-home.

A Loose Cannon in the Administration

Rockefeller's New Role

EVANS-NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Although Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's stunning withdrawal from the 1976 ticket was a concession to political reality, it also signalled his private conviction of rapid and dangerous deterioration within the Ford administration.

The concession to reality was long overdue. For six months, White House chief of staff Donald Rumsfeld had left no particle of doubt he was using his recognized talents for political infighting to remove Rockefeller as vice-presidential candidate next year. In Washington, Rocky was viewed as having joined the walking dead.

For the Vice President himself, the moment of truth came with the President's hardline position against a federal bail-out of New York City. To Rockefeller, this was political stupidity that capped his growing doubt about Gerald Ford's inherent ability to run the country. As one of Rockefeller's intimates in New York told us: "Nelson was coming reluctantly to an unhappy conclusion that the top man down there (Mr. Ford) just isn't bright." In that frame of mind, the lame-duck Vice President may be a loose cannon in the Ford administration.

Rumsfeld's anti-Rockefeller campaign, which infuriated the Vice President but left him no weapons to strike back with, began during the summer. Rumsfeld's hand-picked Ford campaign chairman, Howard (Bo) Callaway, called for Rockefeller's replacement on the 1976 ticket as his first order of business.

THAT LED three months ago to a Dutch-uncle talk to Rockefeller by Dr. William Ronan, his longtime confidant. Ronan strongly urged the Vice President to announce his unavailability for a spot on the 1976 ticket.

But Rockefeller, ebullient and optimistic, refused to admit the wisdom of Ronan's advice. Instead, he set out all over again, as he had so many times before, to woo and win the old Rockefeller nemesis of conservative Republicans, concentrating in the South where anti-Rockefeller sentiment is most shrill. He failed, utterly and flatly, as he had always failed before.

That failure coincided with alarming reports to Rockefeller from political intimates, including New York Republican state chairman Richard Rosenbaum. They told Rockefeller that Mr. Ford's campaign committee was still semi-moribund, with Callaway seemingly out of his depth. One alarmed pro-Rockefeller Republican told the Vice President last week that he, not Callaway or Rumsfeld, was going to get the blame.

"They'll cut you up and you will be the first one thrown to the dogs after New Hampshire goes for Reagan," Rockefeller was told. That warning typified the advice flooding his office.

EVEN SO, buoyed by an ambition which had survived grievous wounds in 16 years of national politics, Rockefeller almost surely would have given himself another six months of hope had it not been for the harsh rhetoric in Mr. Ford's speech on New York City last week.

To Rockefeller and his inner circle, the speech was an insulting demand for his political scalp. Of all the President's men, only Rockefeller publicly bucked the White House tide and lobbied for federal bond guarantees for New York. Moreover, privately joined by such impeccable fiscal conservatives as Dr. Arthur Burns, Rockefeller was astonished and angered that Mr. Ford would excoriate New York with language that might come back to haunt him in the aftermath of default.

The result: Rockefeller's markedly reduced assessment of President Ford's abilities, as relayed to his intimates.

Sour grapes or not, Rockefeller concluded early last week he was locked into a no-win position. One Southern Republican leader, long a friend, quietly confided he could not support him as Mr. Ford's running-mate and begged him not to come into Florida before the March 9 presidential primary election. Rockefeller reacted with unaccustomed mildness. He had already made up his mind.

NOW unshackled from the White House, Rockefeller's vice presidency may be entering its most interesting period, which is suggested by his conduct last Sunday night after Newsweek's leak of the coming massacre. With his own letter written and ready for submission to the President the next morning, Rockefeller placed telephone calls to senior officers in the administration.

HIS MESSAGE: the scalping of Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger was no doing of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger but the apparent brainchild of Don Rumsfeld.

Whether to protect intimate friend Henry or exact sweet revenge from bitter enemy Rumsfeld, this is evidence that Nelson Rockefeller may become a loose cannon in election-year Washington. The prospect is not calming the turbulent waters in the Ford White House.

Friendship or Love

SYDNEY HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

The reason friendship so often outlasts love was succinctly put by Arsene Houssaye, when he said, "Friendship lives on its income, while love devours its capital."

It's a toss-up as to which are finally the most exasperating — the dull people who never talk, or the bright people who never listen.

Boards of directors of large companies consist of those few insiders who know what is going on and won't tell, plus those outsiders who have implicit confidence in their own ignorance.

If the Devil could be persuaded to write a Bible, he would title it, "You Only Live Once."

The preening of the newly rich is not really so irritating as the pontificating of the newly educated; a man showing off his recent wealth may be excused on the grounds of ignorance; a man showing off his recent knowledge has automatically forfeited that excuse.

It is only the top dog who proclaims society to be a matter of "dog eat dog"; when he becomes the underdog, he promptly begins barking about "humanity, decency, and justice."

The most distasteful words in the modern vocabulary are "glamorous," "luxurious," "gimmick," "know-how," "pitch," and any hybrid word ending in "-wise."

To most people, a "good critic" is one who makes us feel that those beneath us in taste are common, while those above us in taste are pretentious.

Everyone accepts the maxim that "money makes money," but few grasp the emotional corollary that "love makes love" — that in the economics of the heart, it is only by making a commited investment that we can expect any real return, and that the very abundance itself generates more of the same.

A weekend house guest who won't help is a pleasure compared to the pest who insists on helping and only succeeds in turning the household routine upside down.

Possibly the soundest advice for marriage ever given was William James's remark in another context: "The art of being wise is the art of knowing what to overlook."

Whom the gods wish to destroy, they give energy without tact.

Wisconsin Controversy

'Vision' Divides Catholic Church

NECEDAH, Wis. (AP) — "I stood at the door waiting, but none of them showed up," said the Rev. James Barney, pastor of St. Francis of Assisi Church in this tiny central Wisconsin community. "I wasn't going to let them in if they did."

"They" are the "Van Hoofers" or "shriners" — followers of Mary Ann Van Hoof, a 66-year-old widow who claims to have had visions of the Blessed Virgin since 1949.

FATHER BARNEY'S decision to bar her followers from attending Mass at his church has increased the split between the Roman Catholic Church and Mrs. Van Hoof's disciples.

It is a split which the priest estimates has cut parish membership of about 750 by more than half; has caused parish income to drop by 44 percent from the first to the third quarter; and has some "Van Hoofers" talking about building their own church.

THE DIVISION began when a former bishop of the Diocese of La Crosse denounced her claims as false in 1955. Then early this year Mrs. Van Hoof and six of her key followers were placed under interdict by the current bishop, the Most Rev. Frederick Freking. Interdict, a rarely invoked censure, forbids access to any church sacraments except confession.

Despite the opposition from the official church, Mrs. Van Hoof contends that she has continued to receive visions and messages from heaven. Her followers have erected a series of shrines on her former farm, several hundred persons have moved to Necedah and others make regular pilgrimages to pray there.

MRS. VAN HOOF and her followers continued to attend Mass at St. Francis after Bishop Freking issued his letters of interdict in April. But since August Father Barney has refused communion to all persons unwilling to demonstrate their public renunciation of the Necedah shrine and its related activities.

The priest, who has been in the parish since 1974, had hinted at plans to keep the shriners out of the church entirely, and on Sunday announced the new policy in his sermon and parish bulletin advising the Van Hoofers to look for another church to attend.

ON TUESDAY, AFTER kneeling in silent prayer for about 15 minutes, Father Barney asked Mrs. Van Hoof's followers to leave the church before Mass began.

"It wasn't an order," he said. "I just asked them to leave quietly, and after about a minute they did."

Castration Requested For Rapist

HEARLDSBURG (UPI) — Janet Maxwell says it's a tough decision but she'll go along with her rapist husband's offer to the state of California to be castrated in exchange for freedom from jail.

"I am willing to do anything if I can get out and be with my wife — anything," Gerald Dean Maxwell, 21, wrote to his attorney, A. G. Rizzo.

RIZZO HAD TO tell the pregnant Mrs. Maxwell, 21, crippled by cerebral palsy since birth, that the offer included castration for the confessed rapist.

"I'm not going to stop Gerry from doing what he wants," she said Thursday at the family's ranchhouse south of here.

But though Mrs. Maxwell won't stop her husband, the law apparently will. Superior Judge Joseph P. Murphy Jr. turned him down.

"LOGICALLY, WHAT he's proposing — castration — is, heaven knows, a medical procedure," Murphy said. "From a legal standpoint, the judge doesn't have the option to authorize it."

Under the law, judges can order castration only in extraordinary cases of child molestation and violent sex crimes.

Maxwell entered guilty pleas to one count of forcible rape and another of assault to commit rape.

IN A RECENT San Diego case, a judge ordered a man to either undergo castration or go to jail. But the man was unable to find a urologist who would perform the operation.

Maxwell, whom Murphy ordered transferred from the Sonoma County jail to Atascadero State Hospital after hearing judgments by two court-appointed psychiatrists, was told by Rizzo:

"You got a hell of a lot of years ahead, a hell of a lot, to be without a sex drive."

BUT RIZZO SAID the unemployed carpenter "is terrified of institutions. He's decided he would rather be castrated than spend another day in jail or a mental institution."

Sex Hormones Cancer Link?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration will convene a committee of outside experts next month to discuss four new studies that suggest heavy use of female sex hormones may contribute to a higher uterine cancer rate in older women.

An estimated 25 million prescriptions for the hormone estrogen were filled last year, primarily to ease women through the discomfort of menopause.

DR. DONALD Austin, who heads the California Tumor Registry, reported last month that the uterine cancer rate in his state has increased by about 35 percent the last seven years.

Noting the rise in female hormone use, Austin said his data "support the hypothesis that estrogen given to postmenopausal women might be the cause."

TWO OTHER studies to be published Dec. 2 in the New England Journal of Medicine will suggest a statistical link between estrogens and uterine cancer, according to drug experts who have read the papers.

The authors are Drs. Harry K. Kiel and William D. Finkle of the Kaiser Foundation Health Plan Inc. in Los Angeles, and Dr. Donald C. Smith of the Mason Clinic in Seattle.

THE FDA also has requested unpublished data from another tumor registry study by Dr. Edgar L. Kamowski of the University of Colorado School of Medicine in Denver.

The agency said in an internal document called a "talk paper," distributed to its regional and district offices, that the FDA "is now aware of several studies in this country which are reporting a relationship between estrogen therapy in postmenopausal women and endrometrial cancer (cancer of the lining of the uterus)."

Suit Filed Over Movie About Darin

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Claiming the "right of publicity" as a property right, the estate of singer Bobby Darin has sued NBC, Inc. and Alan Landsburg Productions for $1 million in damages.

Attorney Gerald Lipsky noted in the Superior Court suit that an unauthorized motion picture about the singer would diminish the value of his estate.

Lipsky, executor of Darin's estate, also sought a court order to prevent the defendants from using the singer's "name, likeness or voice" without authorization.

Drunk Driving Arrests Soar

SANTA ANA —The problem of drinking drivers and the havoc they can cause on streets and freeways is getting worse in Orange County and the rest of the state.

That observation was made Thursday by a California Highway Patrol spokesman and officials of the county Alcoholism Council.

The council has declared next week Alcoholism Action Week in an effort to promote programs designed to work with the drinking drivers and reduce some of the traffic accidents they cause.

Council Program Director H.W. Holly said the council will try to highlight in particular some of its educational offerings used by traffic court judges as referrals for arrested drunken drivers.

Highway Patrol Community Relations Officer Gerald Maxwell said local enforcement efforts are proving more effective than the statewide average for drunken driving arrests.

He said the 5,000 to 6,000 drinking drivers arrested by the CHP in the county during a given year have average blood alcohol levels of .17 compared to .22 for the state average.

"That means perhaps that our detection or our efforts are stronger in Orange County than in the rest of the state," he said.

Maxwell noted that 29 percent of all fatal accidents in the state last year involved drinking drivers with blood alcohol levels above .10.

Maxwell also observed that, while eight percent of California drivers are in the 15 through 18 year-old age bracket, that same group is involved in 16 percent of all fatal accidents where alcohol was blamed.

He speculated that the youngsters may drink to increase status or as an alternative to other drugs deemed more harmful by adults.

He said the popularity of vans has created a new and "hidden social atmosphere" that the CHP can't do anything about without using "police state tactics."

Sand, Gravel 'Top Priority'

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

SANTA ANA — As much as 18 million tons of high-grade sand and gravel may lie beneath Caspers Regional Park and could return $90,000 in annual extraction royalties to county government.

That contention is made by one of three environmental consulting firms vying for a contract to draft longrange development plans for the 5,500-acre wilderness park 14 miles from San Juan Capistrano.

Orange County Supervisors will be asked by the county Environmental Management Agency to choose one of the three finalists for the contract.

The three potential contractors include:

— Reynolds and Associates, which made the sand and gravel estimates and offered to do the planning for $80,000.

—EDAW Inc. of Newport Beach, which has performed planniug for numerous major parks around the state.

—The consortium of Raub, Bein and Frost and Kammeyer and Lynch Corporation.

The latter firms also vowed to address the sand and gravel potential, which is deemed by several supervisors one of the most crucial components of any long-range plans for the park.

Both EDAW and the Raub, Bein and Frost consortium have offered to do the planning for about $45,000.

At least one supervisor, Ralph Diedrich of Fullerton, said he will not vote for any consultant that puts the sand and gravel at the bottom of his priority list.

Diedrich said in an interview last week he thinks the potential of extraction must be fully explored and, if it is found harmful to the park's environment, it can be abandoned.

It was Diedrich who delayed acquisition of the huge park site two years ago when the former owners, a group of charity organizations, tried to retain control over 50 percent of any sand and gravel royalties earned in the future.

The charities relinquished that demand and the county paid them $4.4 million for the park land, which is about half of the old Starr Ranch.

Diedrich raised the matter of sand and gravel operation at the park two weeks ago when he agreed to support a move to put county funds into an Ortega Highway improvement project in San Juan Capistrano.

He said at the time he expects the city to be less willing to oppose sand and gravel work in the park in exchange for the county assistance.

Of the three proposals supervisors will consider Tuesday for park planning, the Reynolds and Associates document is most detailed in its discussion of natural resource recovery.

The Reynolds proposal states that its surveys show that between 13 million and 18 million tons of sand and gravel lie within park boundaries.

The consultant also says deposits range from a depth of 10 to 15 feet up to depths of 40 to 60 feet.

In commercial terms, the consultant estimated the county could extract 750,000 tons of material a year from the park and earn at least $90,000 in royalties from its sale.

New Law Controls Dumping of Metal

Directors of the Orange County Sanitation District have passed an ordinance curtailing industrial discharges of heavy metals into the ocean.

The first stage of the ordinance will take effect next July.

The Sanitation District ordinance will put limits on the amount of cadmium, chromium, copper, nickel, silver, lead and copper to be pumped through the sewer lines.

For example, a firm discharging 4,000 pounds of cadmium into the ocean per year would be limited to 1,000 pounds under the new law, a spokesman for the Sanitation District said.

This could be brought about, he said, by cleaning up shop and in "good housekeeping techniques.

Firms which produce electronic circuitry or do metal plating are affected.

A second stage calling for stricter controls is scheduled to be in force in mid-1978 and would result in the removal of additional metals.

The spokesman said that pre-treatment at industrial firms is expected to be necessary at this stage.

Greg Tamson, director of the Sanitation District laboratory, said that adverse effects on sealife by metal has yet to be detected.

"There seems to be no species that are diminished or dying off because of contamination from metals," he said.

He said there seems to be higher metal content in the sediment near the outfall, but that fish don't seem to be bothered.

"Our mercury content is very low; we've never had a problem with that," he added.

Aerial Mapping Success

ANAHEIM — Successful aerial mapping of the ocean floor with an airborne laser was described here Wednesday by three researchers from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) research center at Wallops Island, Va.

The new technique "promises great savings in time and expense over the usual sounding techniques," reported Hongsuk H. Kim of NASA, and Peter O. Cervenka and Charles B. Lankford of Computer Sciences Corp.

The NASA research was presented to the Electro-optics/International Laser 75 Conference here.

Chapman Funded

ORANGE — The James Irvine Foundation has made a $300,000 grant to Chapman College. It's the largest sum given the institution in the 20-year relationship between the two entities, according to college President Donald C. Kleckner.

Guess who's responsible for conserving natural gas.

If you get the feeling somebody's pointing the finger at you, you're right.

We've got a serious situation in Southern California. Our current supplies of natural gas are dwindling, and it's going to take time to develop new sources.

We at the Gas Company realize it's our problem. But you should know it's also your problem. Here's why.

We're already unable to supply many of our larger "interruptible" industrial customers and if all of us don't make a serious effort to conserve natural gas, we're going to have to start curtailing supplies to small businesses as early as 1978. That means some businesses are going to be hurt, and people will lose jobs. The resulting effects on the economy are depressing to contemplate. Everyone will be affected.

We're asking your help at home and at work. Please conserve natural gas.

If you don't know the many ways you can save this valuable resource, fill in the coupon and send it to us.

We have a program for everyone, because conserving energy is everyone's concern.

But it's got to start with one person. You.

Outhouse a Castle? Groups Clash on Privy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The backwoods folks, who favor outhouses, and their neighbors, who don't, collided again in a confrontation over individual American freedom.

The encounter occurred at a hearing called by the State Department of Housing and Community Development which is considering exempting from state building codes small rural homes built by occupants.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who has voiced concern about creeping government intrusion into the private affairs of Californians, has indicated he favors some relaxation of rigid building code standards.

SUPPORTERS seek codes that would allow outdoor privies instead of indoor plumbing, rough hewn wood instead of graded lumber and kerosene lanterns instead of electricity.

Housing and Community Development Director Arnold Sternberg said adoption of new rules affecting rural residences would occur before spring when the "homebuilding season" starts.

"THE ISSUE here is not whether you pay taxes or how much hair you have on your head or the bottom of your chin," he said. "The issue is not your safety, but the impact on your neighbors and their health and safety."

"Six American presidents were born in log cabins witnout services of a structural engineer," declared Anon Forest, leader of Mendocino county-based United Stand.

BUT ANNE Mason, who lives in a fashionable woodsy housing development near Grass Valley, warned that property values would decline and the tax base would be eroded by construction of low-cost homes built by people she said would live on food stamps.

"We're hosts and we have too many parasites," she asserted. "My husband arose every morning at 5:30. He had the guts and determination to use the American free enterprise system to work for himself and he eventually employed 150 people."

ASSEMBLYMAN Michael Wornum (D-Mill Valley) defended log cabins and outdoor privies as part of the "build-it-yourself" American tradition, but expressed some trepidation about venturing out in the cold to visit a water closet.

EL CENTRO (AP) — A 53-year-old congressman says he'll parachute out of an airplane for the first time Nov. 25 "to get it out of my system before I get too old."

FIRST JUMP
Rep Burgener

"I've had a lifelong ambition to make a parachute jump," said Rep. Clair W. Burgener, (R-Calif.), a former Air Force navigator.

The plane will be one of the Navy's multi-engine craft used at the National Parachute Test Range operated west of El Centro for all military services. It is in Burgener's district.

Once in World War II, he came close to a jump, Burgener said Thursday, but "I lined up in the B17 and the emergency ended before I had to go."

Deaths Elsewhere

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — Richard Paul Pavlick, 88, the man accused of plotting to turn himself into a human bomb to kill John F. Kennedy in 1960, died Tuesday at the Veterans Administration Hospital. Pavlick, a former postal worker, spent six years in county jails, federal prisons and finally, the New Hampshire State Mental Hospital, for allegedly threatening the life of Kennedy, then president-elect, in Palm Beach, Fla., in December, 1960.

LYNCHBURG, Va. (UPI) — Despite a coroner's verdict of suicide, police said they still are investigating the death of Alexandra Bruce Michaelides, the daughter of David K. E. Bruce, U.S. ambassador to NATO. Police said Mrs. Michaelides, 29, was found lying unconscious on the grass between the main house and the swimming pool of her estate near here Nov. 7.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Marty May, 77, whose song and comedy career spanned over a half century in vaudeville, broadway, radio and television, died Tuesday of a heart attack.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. William B. Kouwenhoven, 89, an electrical engineer who helped develop basic cardiac treatment devices and procedures employed around the world, died Monday.

WARE, Mass. (UPI) — Mrs. Katherine Mary Nolen, 25, wife of state Rep. James P. Nolen, was to be flown home from Bermuda today for burial. They were married July 16. Mrs. Nolen was killed Monday when her rented minibike collided with a flatbed truck.

ARCADIA (UPI) — Memorial services will be held today for Walter J. Hamming, an engineer who was first to theorize that the smog over Los Angeles was caused mainly by photochemical reaction on fumes from automobiles. Hamming, 64, died Tuesday of cancer.

NEW YORK (AP) — David Ross, 84, a poet and freelance radio announcer who was best known for his recitations on network radio in the 1930s and 1940s, died Wednesday.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A private funeral was arranged for Marie Fox, 79, youngest daughter of German actor Paul Schumann and operatic star Ernestine Schumann-Heink. Mrs. Fox, widow of a San Diego surgeon, died in a hospital Monday.

Honored Grandma Convicted

BAINBRIDGE, Ga. (UPI) — A grandmother, once a "Woman of the Year" in Decatur County, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the shooting death of her 61-year-old husband's girlfriend as the two left a dance floor.

A Decatur County Superior Court jury deliberated eight hours before returning a verdict against Mrs. Eula Birdsong, 57, mother of eight children. She could be sentenced to from one to 20 years in prison.

MRS. BIRDSONG was tried for the shooting of Mrs. Dorothy McDaniel, 58, a nurse at a Thomasville hospital, as she danced with the convicted woman's husband at a local veterans' club June 18.

Birdsong, a prominent local farmer, admitted under oath that he dated Mrs. McDaniel frequently the past two years and received gifts from her, such as a quilt, afghan and pillow.

"I HAVE NO knowledge of shooting Mrs. McDaniel," she said. "I don't deny it. But I have no knowledge of it."

She said she loved her husband but found pictures and other personal items in her husband's car which belonged to the victim, whose husband lives in Jacksonville, Fla.

TOY GUNS CONVERTED

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese toy manufacturers have agreed to stop producing model guns that can be converted into real weapons, a spokesman for the industry said.

AMPUTEE BUDDY

PEN PALS
Ted Kennedy, Jr.

They're Still Pen Pals

MIAMI (AP) — The son of a U.S. senator and the son of a Dade County policeman, bonded by their battles against bone cancer, are still pen pals even though the illnesses of both have all but been licked.

"I don't have any (other) friends who are amputees," Teddy Kennedy Jr., 14, eldest son of Sen. Edward Kennedy, (D-Mass.) wrote to Steve Southerland, 15, of South Miami. "It's good to hear from a pen pal."

IT'S BEEN almost two years since Teddy his right leg amputated four inches above the knee. Doctors said the radical surgery was needed to halt the life-threatening spread of a malignancy in the tissue next to the bone.

In March 1974, Steve's left leg was amputated to halt the spread of a similar cancer. At the time, Steve, the third child in his family to suffer from cancer, was given a slim chance of survival. But he has gained weight, grown four inches and is doing well in school.

WHEN TEDDY learned of Steve's disease a little more than a year ago, he wrote the Florida youth to offer encouragement and understanding. A P.S. to the note read, "I am going skiing tomorrow."

A month ago, Teddy wrote again to tell Steve that he was finished with chemotherapy — a procedure that sometimes made him sick — and "now things are going pretty well."

"I KNOW how much it means to you and your family" to have passed the two-year milestone, Steve wrote back. "I am beginning to adjust well to my artificial leg . . . and I know how great it is to be off therapy."

Steve took the drugs for 19 months. He ended up with a peptic ulcer and also suffered with liver and kidney problems.

"THE WORST part of the whole thing is the medication," he said. "It makes you depressed and grouchy, and you don't know when you're going to throw up."

Steve has outgrown two artificial limbs and is working on a third.

AND HE SAYS he fell in school the other day.

"A girl caught me," he added. "It was fun."

TV Cleanup Bid Nets 600,000 Letters

NEW YORK (AP) — A Missouri evangelist has accused the three major television networks of "jamming the minds of the American people" with programs unsuitable for the home, and says he has 600,000 letters to prove it.

The Rev. Cecil Todd, founder and director of the Revival Fires Ministry of Joplin, Mo., also said Thursday he planned to deliver the "unprecedented avalanche" of letters from his nationwide "Clean-up TV Campaign" to the heads of the ABC, CBS and NBC networks here this week.

Todd, 42, told a news conference at the Belmont Hotel, "These letters are calling for the elimination of the foul language, sexual suggestiveness, barnyard humor, excessive violence, etc., on the network programs, and a return of TV programs the entire family can view together without fear of embarrassment or future repercussions."

He said he had the active participation in the campaign of television's Pat Boone, Dale Evans Rogers and Dean Jones and the interest of a variety of national political figures.

Programs he generally approved of included the "Mary Tyler Moore Show," "The Little House on the Prairie," "The Waltons," "The Lawrence Welk Show," and "Marcus Welby, M.D."

He read a 10-point summary of recommendations from the letters for consideration by the networks which included more family-style programs and those which "give an accurate and balanced presentation" of American life.

Bra Brouhaha

No Support for No Support

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Esther Pena has been thrown off the Texas A&I University volleyball team because school officials say she refused to wear a brassiere.

Betty Brewer, woman's athletic director, described the 21-year old former volleyball captain as "probably the best woman athlete ever to compete at Texas A&I University."

BUT MISS PENA said that Mrs. Brewer won't abide by her desires not to wear a bra and other coeds have failed to support her.

The dispute arose Oct. 22 when Mrs. Brewer told Miss Pena to put on a bra or get off the volleyball squad.

"Esther always used a bra in past seasons," Mrs. Brewer said.

Miss Pena disagrees.

"I'VE NEVER WORN a bra in competition. They know that."

The three-year veteran volleyball player says the bra issue began after she made some complaints about Mrs. Brewer and a male coach.

"The whole thing was designed to keep me quiet. I'm not a woman's libber. I'm just myself," Miss Pena said.

EX-CONVICT KILLS 17

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A 25-year-old ex-convict killed 17 persons in two months, slaying one couple for 36 cents and the others for a total of $55, police said.

The ex-convict, identified as Kim Dae-doo, confessed to all the murders, police said.

Resort Delays

Disney Puts Halt on Plan

TRUCKEE (UPI) — Walt Disney Productions has suspended plans for a multi-million dollar year-round recreation resort north of Lake Tahoe because of land exchange delays with the U.S. Forest Service, a company spokesman says.

Because of land swap problems, Disney officials said Thursday they have held up all planning of the resort near Independence Lake, 25 miles north of Lake Tahoe.

JIM STEWART, a Disney vice president, said the delays have come about because of the Forest Service's failure to adopt a master land use plan for the area where the project is planned.

Disney planned a joint venture with the Southern Pacific Land Co. and the Sierra Pacific Power Co., which would provide the land for the resort project while Disney would provide the capital for the development of the project.

IN ALL, about 19,500 acres of private and public land would be involved, with only a fraction of that actually being developed.

The resort would include facilities for skiing, ice skating, boating, hiking, horse back riding and tennis.

STEWART SAID Southern Pacific Land and Sierra Pacific Power have been unsuccessful in trying to exchange private land for U.S. Forest Service land to consolidate the project area.

Walter B. Hicks, a Disney productions spokesman, said the company has already spent $1 million for environmental studies.

"Our management has determined that it would not be prudent to make any further investment in either master planning or environmental studies until we receive a decision from the Forest Service," said Hicks.

Hepatitis Increase In Blood

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration has proposed that hepatitis warning labels be placed on blood collected from paid donors to let doctors and their patients know they run a risk of death and disease if they use such blood.

Blood sold by derelicts and others in need of quick money has been linked to at least 17,000 new cases of hepatitis — 850 of them fatal — every year. The risk of getting hepatitis is believed to be up to six times higher from bought blood as it is from that collected voluntarily.

UNDER THE proposal, if the blood comes from a paid donor, the label would have to say so, along with a warning that such blood is associated with a higher risk of hepatitis.

The agency also said it has completed new rules to make the collecting, processing and storing of blood and blood products safer.

THE RULES will affect, for the first time, some 7,000 to 8,000 blood banks which operate within the boundaries of the states and were not previously under federal jurisdiction.

Blood banks will be required under the new rules to test all blood donors from hepatitis; to report fatal reactions from donated blood promptly to the FDA, and to keep adequate records.

AN OPEN LETTER to our NON-JEWISH NEIGHBORS

I write this with shaking hand and bitten lip. I want with all my heart to argue cogently and vociferously against the recent U.N. resolution equating Zionism with racism. My impulse is to underscore each and every defense of Israel's aversion to all forms of racist conduct from its treatment of its indigenous Arab population to its selfless outreach programs costing fortunes and energy spent aiding the emerging nations of Africa and Asia. I want to write letters to editors, Congressmen, the President of our nation, urging a serious re-evaluation of this country's continued participation in such an international forum as the U.N.

But I believe that the time has come for the non-Jewish population of our land and our world to raise its collective voice. I would pray that countless local clergy, local lay leaders, local community leaders, would join the Daniel Moynihans in an unequivocal rejection of anti-semitism even in the guise of anti-Zionism.

The world stood morally mum hardly a generation ago. I believe with all my being that the world must have learned the lessons of Auschwitz and Nazism.

It is now time for me to lower my voice and listen for my non-Jewish brethren to begin to be heard. If not now, my dear friends of goodwill, then when?

Balboa's Greeter

Smiling Jack Leads the 'Pack'

By HILARY KAYE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Clad in a bright orange windbreaker, white duck pants and a black-billed white hat, the "Balboa Greeter" bids motorists and pedestrians a good morning each school day.

Those traveling past Newport Elementary School, at the corner of Balboa Boulevard and 14th Street, during the afternoon receive the same greeting from the popular school crossing guard.

IN RETURN, JACK Egan gets beeps, smiles, waves and yells of hello from motorists. He's also kept busy during slack moments with conversation from pedestrians who make a special point of stopping by to chat.

Egan, who won't reveal his age but is somewhere past the age of retirement, has been the Newport Elementary School crossing guard five years.

During those years, Egan has come to know only the youngsters he helps cross the boulevard, but also parents, neighbors and just passersby.

EGAN'S NORMALLY tanned and weathered face turns a bit rosy when the nickname "Balboa Greeter" is mentioned.

"Oh no, no way. . . . not me," insists Egan, who says he does not seek publicity.

But even if Egan shies from recognition, those who know the crossing guard consider him Balboa's answer to Eiler Larsen, the popular, bearded man who greeted visitors and residents in Laguna Beach for many years.

Egan moved to Costa Mesa 10 years ago from his native Jersey City, where he was in the construction business.

"BUT, I COULDN'T stand retirement and I love kids. So, this was the perfect job," says the crossing guard, who is employed by the Newport Beach Police Department

"It's a happy job. I get a lot of laughs from these kids," says Egan, rumpling the shaggy hair of a little 6-year-old pal named Teddy.

Hardly a car goes by that Egan dosen't wave or nod to. And few autos pass without the driver waving, honking or just nodding hello.

School officials insist Egan is "Mr. Personality of Balboa Boulevard."

A CUSTODIAN AT the school says Egan's moods are "100 percent even with the children. He's always smiling."

And principal Al Zeidman says there's always a lot of "beeping and waving" in front of the school, just cause Egan is on the job.

Dolores Bowles, a teacher at Newport Elementary since 1953, has nothing but praise for the slender crossing guard, who sports a sparse, silver mustache that matches his hair.

MRS. BOWLES, WHO probably coined the phrase "Balboa Greeter", insists she's never seen another crossing guard like Egan.

Pointer Sister Retires

LOS ANGELES (AP) — June Pointer, the youngest of the four Pointer Sisters, has retired from concert performances because of extreme mental and physical exhaustion, a spokesman for the group announced.

Pat Faralla, publicity agent for the Pointer Sisters, said the 20-year-old singer retired on the recommendation of her physician.

Faralla said Miss Pointer may continue recording songs with her sisters, Anita, 27; Ruth, 29, and Bonnie, 25, if her health permits.

Concorde Jet Study

Noise, Pollution Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Concorde supersonic passenger jet will sound twice as loud and create five times as much structural vibrations in houses under its takeoff path than the loudest conventional passenger jet, a government study concludes (See related story B4).

THE CONtroversial airplane also will produce slightly more pollution at airports than conventional jets and will have enough of an impact on the stratosphere to possibly create 200 new cases of non-fatal skin cancer each year in the United States, Thursday's report found.

The conclusions were contained in the final environmental impact statement on the 1,400-mile per hour jet being built by the British and French governments.

THE STATEMENT was drafted after Air France and British Airways asked the federal government for permission to use the Concorde on commercial flights from London and Paris to New York City and Washington starting early next year.

Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. said he would use the results of the massive study in deciding whether to allow the plane to land in the United States. However, he added that other factors, such as diplomatic considerations and the effect on international trade if the plane were barred from the U.S. also would be considered.

Students Plan Fitness Course

By FRED SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Joggers along the South Coast will run just about anywhere they can: along the beach, along highways, around the high school track.

A group of Dana Hills High School students wants to change that.

Cathy Barger

THE STUDENTS WANT to construct a "joggers' park" at the Dana Point campus patterned after what the Swiss call a "parcours."

A parcours is a circuit between one and two miles long that includes fitness stations every 100 or 200 yards. The idea is to run, perform some exercises, run some more, and so on, until completing the circuit.

Signs placed at the stations explain exercises and indicate the par. The par — the number of times a person should repeat the exercise — varies on what fitness level a person wants to achieve.

CATHY BARGER, student commissioner of health and welfare at Dana Hills, is heading up the parcours project. She outlined the idea to community leaders and a similar presentation recently made to Capistrano Unified School District trustees was warmly received.

Miss Barger said the proposed parcours at Dana Hills would cost about $4,000 — an amount students will attempt to raise by through fund-raising activities and donations.

She said current thinking is to have the parcours run around the perimeter of the campus, a distance of about 1.5 miles.

"WE'RE DOING THIS because a lot of people have a hard time going out and jogging by themselves. With this setup, they can come here with other people and have fun," said Miss Barger.

"It's also a step by the associated students to do something for the community," said Kathy Copenhaver, student liason to school district trustees.

Parcourses were introduced in Switzerland in 1968 and are now operated in more than 170 cities.

IN THE UNITED States, there are now parcourses in San Francisco, Honolulu, Portland and Carlsbad.

Miss Barger visited the latter last weekend as part of her preparation for the presentation to community leaders.

Marine NCO Guilty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI — Marine Gunnery Sgt. Edgar Post has pleaded guilty to charges of negligent homicide and dereliction of duty resulting from a grenade explosion which killed a young security guard in Merced.

Post, 38, a veteran of 20 years in the Marines, entered his plea Thursday before the start of his special court-martial at the Treasure Island Navy Base. He was fined $1,500 and will be given a letter of reprimand.

Lewis Anderson, 18, died a week after a white phosphorus grenade exploded as he examined it in a storage shack behind the shopping mall July 26. The grenade had been part of a Marine recruiting display.

Ted Kennedy Gives Thanks For 'Splash'

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — A newspaper reporter who fell into a swimming pool while covering Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) has been offered a chance by the senator to repeat the performance along the campaign trail.

"You were indeed the hit of the affair," Kennedy wrote Providence, R.I., Journal-Bulletin reporter Lester C. Boyd. "Even my press conference was anticlimactic.

"Your walk into the pool was so effective in fact, that I am sending you all my travel schedules throughout Massachusetts," the tongue-in-cheek letter said. "It is a slick attention grabber and certain to draw crowds wherever I go. You have my promise of dry towels at every stop, each with the embroidered message, 'Re-elect Kennedy.'

"I am especially proud to know one reporter who was willing to prove an incapability of walking on water."

Surfing has come a long way since redwood boards, peroxide blondes, baggies and woodies. What is the state of the art today? Booming.

Surfers Follow Endless Summer

By DENNIS McLELLAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

In the early days only a few hardy souls braved the breakers with their cumbersome redwood surfboards. For most, surfing was some strange practice seen only in picture postcards from Hawaii.

Lighter foam and fiberglass boards were perfected in the late '50s. But amateur surfing historians pinpoint the release of the first "Gidget" movie as the beginning of the craze that became a way of life for thousands of Southern California youths.

Whatever gave it momentum, the early '60s was the turning point. Bleached-blond surfers suddenly appeared in droves tooling up and down Pacific Coast Highway in wood-paneled station wagons (woodies) searching for waves.

"Surf's Up" became the battle cry. And knots on the knees formed from hours spent kneeling on wax-coated boards became their badge of honor.

LIFESTYLE

Youthful surfers jammed high school auditoriums to see the latest Bruce Brown surfing epic. The Beach Boys were at the top of the record charts. And everyone who was anyone sported the surfer look: Peroxided hair, baggies, huarache sandals and tee shirts with surfboard shop emblems on the back.

That was 15 years ago.

Today Bruce Brown is living comfortably off profits from "The Endless Summer" (It grossed $10 million). The Beach Boys and surfing music are labeled nostalgia (When was the last time you did the Surfer Stomp?). And peroxide-streaked hair (more often on males than females) is as dated as sock hops and panty raids.

But one thing has remained constant: Surfing, minus many of its fad accouterments, is as popular as ever.

Shops in Huntington Beach reportedly sell about 20,000 new surfboards a year; a not so astounding statistic when it is learned there is an estimated 600,000 active surfers in California.

RARE SIGHT

Danny Brawner, who started surfing in the pre-Gidget days of 1951, remembers when a surfer was a rarity. "If you saw a guy with a surfboard going down the road, you knew the guy."

Brawner, manager of the Hobie Surfboards plant in Capistrano Beach, said 18 employes turn out 50-60 boards a week, which are shipped throughout the world.

The Hobie retail shop in Dana Point, where the foam board was perfected in 1956, was one of the first surfboard shops on the coast.

Randy Etherton, a 15-year surfing veteran, explained that during the peak years (mid-'60s) the Hobie plant was churning out about 250 boards a week.

"It was a fad, mostly surf bums who cared about surfing and nothing else," he recalled. "Surfers now have more of a place in the community. It has come around a lot since those days. Surfing went from more of a fad to a sport."

SPORT

That observation is echoed by other surfers who feel surfing is considered more as a sport today. Many high schools now include surfing in their list of campus clubs. And although surfers still are predominantly male, more women are taking up the sport. (The Womens International Surfing Association was formed last March with 100 members.).

Styles in boards, like cars have changed in 15 years. Once heavy and awkward to handle (averaging 9-feet-6 and 25 pounds) they now are lighter and shorter (7-feet-2 and 10 pounds) and easier to maneuver.

And because surfboards are made out of petroleum-based products, prices which averaged $95 in 1960 now range between $140 and $200.

The shorter boards with pointed rather than rounded noses became popular about 1968, an influence from the Australians.

"Fifteen years ago guys were more in tune to surfing the board rather than the wave," explained Richard Casperson, assistant manager at Russell Surfboards in Newport Beach. Now it's re-reversed, he said.

SELF-EXPRESSION

"These lighter boards allow much more self-expression and freedom. A wave is moving constantly. With a little board you can react more rapidly and as such more effectively."

Keath Lauderdale, co-owner of Robert August Surfboards in Huntington Beach, feels the development of better and warmer wetsuits has contributed to the popularity of surfing as a year-round sport.

"Fifteen years ago it was more seasonal," he said adding, "It's actually an inexpensive sport. A board and wetsuit is about a $200 investment and that's it."

It is not uncommon, shop owners agree, for those who are heavily involved in surfing to own boards in a variety of shapes and sizes.

"Once you've adapted your style to a board you stagnate," believes Casperson. "You want to keep evolving in your abilities by trying new boards.

"Some buy three boards a year. Each surfer has his own idea of what makes the ideal board. That's what pushes surfboard sales."

ALL AGES

Lauderdale feels the average age of a surfer today is 19, although it is not uncommon for a 55-year-old to come in and buy a board. "There is no surfer look today. Guys that wear suits and ties all day end up in the water after work."

It is, however, the younger surfers, like their teenaged counterparts of the '60s, that you see hanging out at the many surfshops that dot beach towns up and down the coast.

They come in to look over the new boards, but mostly they come in to be among friends.

"We're like their big brothers or something," said Lauderdale. "Everyone is accepted here. It's like hanging around a baseball field almost. It keeps a lot of them off the streets and out of trouble.

"They feel by being here all the time they can talk surf. They get one good wave and you hear about it for three hours."

POPULARITY KEY

That seems to be the key to the continued popularity of surfing. Some have trouble putting into words the feeling they get when riding that one good wave. Others come close.

Casperson describes surfing as an art-sport. By art, he said, he means body expression and free-form dance.

"Every wave has a different tempo, a different speed. You've got to feel it out and adjust yourself to it. You forget everything. You relate and interact with the wave. It's just you and the wave and the challenge."

Lauderdale puts it this way:

"It's such a thrill. It's like something you don't forget, like climbing a mountain. You have to share the ocean but there are a lot of individuals out there. It's also a relaxing thing. I work all day and go in the water to relax."

He added: "I can't visualize moving to Nebraska. No way could I do that."

Mei Bickner, Cal State Fullerton, quotes some startling job statistics.

Employment Gap Widens

By ALLISON DEERR
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

"If you want to be a change agent, you must first be armed with the unemotional facts and figures about what's happening to women in the labor market."

And, despite all the word to the contrary, the gap between men and women in employment is widening, not closing, said Mei Bickner, assistant professor of industrial relations, Cal State Fullerton.

Dr. Bickner told members of the Elizabeth Cady Stanton-Huntington Beach Chapter of NOW, that since 1920 the percentage of women in the labor force increased from 20 to 40 percent.

Half are age 40 or older and the largest increase has been among mature women, age 35 and older. Some 35 percent fill clerical jobs and 30 percent are working mothers.

Patterns in employment have changed dramatically since World War II, Dr. Bickner said.

In the '30s, a woman entered the work force in her late teens, peaked in her 20s and left to marry and have children.

Gradually women began to return to work after their children entered school. By 1980, it is predicted that the time lost from the job for child-bearing will scarcely be noticeable.

Quoting other statistics from the U.S. Department of Labor and the Census Bureau, she noted that the number of women working in the United States between 35-44 doubled between 1940 and 1968.

Those 45-55 have tripled; 55-64, quadrupled. Two-thirds of all working women are married today, as opposed to 30 percent in 1940, "when it was definitely frowned upon."

She went about quickly debunking some commonly used observations.

"A college education is wasted on women. All they need to do is marry and have children."

Not so, she said, of all women with PhDs, 97 percent are working, about the same percentage as for men.

INVOKED SELECTIVELY

"Women only work to supplement income, not because of economic necessity. So, if two qualified applicants, male and female, are being considered, the man should get the job."

Spurious reasoning. Statistics as of March 1973 show that more than 50 percent of working women do so out of economic need. A majority are single, widowed, divorced or "supported" by a man who earns less than $3,000 a year.

If your husband earned less than $3,000 in 1973, you felt an economic need to get a job," Dr. Bickner asserted.

Another large number earned only $3,000-$7,000.

She added that "economic necessity" has never been used to deny a man a job. "It is one of those rules that is invoked selectively, such as publish or perish."

"It is too costly to hire women. They represent higher labor costs, have a higher absenteeism rate, turnover and mobility."

Evidence is inconclusive about sick leave and turnovers. No good studies have been made.

Even the National Association of Manufacturers agrees, however, that men have a higher geographic mobility than women.

Dr. Bickner added, if there is a higher rate of absenteeism and turnover among women, it is more likely to relate to level of job skills than sex.

"Because of physiological differences, women don't belong in certain jobs."

Quoting a physiologist employed by Kodak, Dr. Bickner noted that most modern factories have redesigned so that jobs could be held by "anyone in average health, male or female."

BRICKLAYERS

There are obvious physical differences, she said, but most sex typing of jobs is culturally determined. In Southeast Asia, where she was born, the women do the heavy road construction. The men are the skilled bricklayers.

"Men and women are now paid 'about the same' for equal work."

Don't believe it. Noting arguments are offered that any discrepancies are due to differences in education, experience, and job stability, Dr. Bickner said that the median income for women still is (as of 1970) 60 percent of men's.

In 1954, women earned 64 percent of men's median income; by 1972, the figure was 59 percent.

If one wants to consider more specific figures, the lowest was 43 percent in sales, the highest, 66.7 percent in the professions.

"The difference in income is

Books Child-tested

By ALLISON DEERR
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

"Hobo Kelly" first aired on a Sunday.

By Monday, most of the cast and crew had been fired.

Everything went wrong on that premiere broadcast.

The sets were still wet, "in fact, they were still painting them when we went on," said Sally Baker, the green-eyed redhead who created the Irish bum character.

"The lion cub we were supposed to have turned out to be a full-grown male. And the sponsor's new product, a drip proof milk carton not only dripped, it leaked, spilled, poured.

"I needed Claudette Colbert for that milk bath."

Before Miss Baker could be fired, a tap came on the producer's door. In one day, a flood of mail had come in, a flood that was not to stop for 12 years, averaging 300,000 pieces a year.

"The children saw something, zeroed in, so we kept on going." Her temporary acting stint as the hobo lasted 12 years.

Her new book, "Color Me Love," is the first in a series of juvenile books drawing from her television series and the mountains of letters she received.

HOBO'S TRUSTED

"Children trust Hobo Kelly. She is safe, not a threat. So, they'll tell her things they won't tell anyone else."

Youngsters have written her about incest, broken homes, isolation within a family, the joy of making a present for Mom, their plans for the future.

Miss Baker told the audience at the South Coast Alumnae of Pi Beta Phi Celebrity Book Review Series that "children need something positive to help them grow and develop.

"Their letters are a reflection of tomorrow. They need our help in becoming capable people."

Commenting on the "family hour" concept currently causing battles in TV circles, she asserted, "it used to be that every hour was family hour.

"Am I the only one who remembers 'Father Knows Best,' 'Hit Parade,' and 'Make Room for Daddy?'

"I think it is time for us to look at our own values as an industry," Miss Baker said.

Her credentials for criticism are good ones.

AIR TIME

She has put in more than 5,000 hours of on-air time, and been nominated eight times for an Emmy, winning a coveted statuette for "In Search of Identity."

Miss Baker's credits began as a child actress and run the gamut from weather broadcaster to writer to talk show hostess.

Her "Hobo Kelly" has collected more than 100 awards and she was once named Woman-of-the-year by the American Women in Radio and Television.

"Color Me Love" is yet another facet.

It is no ordinary child's book. Many of the illustrations are left uncolored in black and white, so that the child can fill in as he imagines with non-toxic colors which come with the book.

"It's based on the premise that a book does not belong to a child until he puts something of himself into it," she said.

The storyline is simple. Hobo Kelly, her friend the giraffe and Mr. Leprechaun are coloring pages in a coloring book.

A dispute ensues about a missing crayon and the giraffe decides he'd like the whole world to be blue, the color he's using.

LEARNING TOLERANCE

Hobo and the leprechaun oblige. Somehow the world isn't as pretty. The moral: maybe that's why people come in different colors, to make the world more beautiful.

"And why can't children make the trees yellow or the sky green if it makes the world a prettier place?"

The series, she explained, will be a new concept of encyclopedias for children.

Instead of A is for apple, it will feature C is for Care, H is for Help, L is for Love and so on.

Blanche Greer is an artist in oils turned author of juvenile books.

Sally Baker, TV's Hobo Kelly, has begun a series of books drawing on the program.

Another writer with an affinity for children is Blanche Greer, whose first of a hoped-for series of books is entitled, "The Black Swan and the Green See Saw."

Mrs. Greer is an artist in oils who has traveled widely and always been a storyteller.

She has worked for years with spastic and underprivileged children and donates all proceeds from her paintings to charitable children's organizations.

Often donating her time to read to groups of children, she soon composed a large repertoire of her own stories and was urged to have them published so they could be more widely enjoyed.

CHILD TESTED

Her grandchildren and the neighbor's children are her testing ground. If they find something worth hearing again it stays. If it's "all right I guess" it goes.

Ten more books are waiting for publication, all like "Swan" and "See Saw" the story of three small children, two boys and a girl, Jeremiah the most adventuresome of the lot.

He does a lot of riding rainbows and weathering storms while learning the value of what he has and the beauty the world has to offer.

Mrs. Greer was motivated to compose her own stories after paying $8.95 (quite a few years ago) for a book by a famous Russian children's writer.

"My grandson found it boring and the illustrations flat and lifeless. I decided a lay person could do better."

From B1

. . . Gap Widens

due to higher education levels among men."

No, says Dr. Bickner. Women with less than eight years of schooling earn 62.8 percent of what men earn. Those with 5 years of college, earn only 65 per cent.

BIG GAP

As of 1970, women with four years of high school earn less than men with less than eight years of schooling. Women with 5 years or more of college earn with $20 per month of what men earn with a high school diploma.

Dr. Bickner cited some of the "prejudicial practices" that lead to discrimination against women.

Occupational segregation. "This is one I hope is being scratched from the list. Women were given different job titles and pay scales for the same work, for example, claims clerk vs claims adjuster."

The "women don't belong in that kind of work attitude" still persists. She cited the example of the women and minorities trained as labor relations arbiters. Not one woman has been asked to do a single arbitration.

Under-utilization of skills. "Sixty-nine percent of women with 1-3 years of college are employed in clerical/sales/ factory work.

"Nineteen percent of those with 4 years, and 5 percent with 5 years are in similar occupations."

Higher qualifications required of female applicants.

More subtle practices, such as basing the hiring of all future employes on the performance of one incompetent woman.

One incompetent male reflects badly on himself. One incompetent woman reflects badly on every woman who applies after her."

She also noted that discrimination has a cumulative effect. "Take for example the 22-year-old male graduate and his female counterpart.

"If he is hired as a management trainee and she as his secretary, by the peak of his career he'll be earning five times what she does.

"It isn't just one discriminatory act. It is one that will alter the course of her career. It is cumulative. After 20 years, who'll have the experience required for the executive post that opens up?"

Ann Landers

Contentment Redefined

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you expressed serious doubts that unmarried singles could live together without sex. Well, I'm one who is now involved in such an arrangement and it CAN work.

Jim and I were married four years. Our sex life was very unsatisfactory but we stayed together because we thought we loved each other. I was shocked when Jim told me he wanted a divorce to marry someone with whom he was completely compatible. I gave him his freedom at once.

Three months later, Jim's affair fell through and he asked me to move back with him. I did, although we were no longer married.

We agreed it would be a brother-sister relationship with each of us dating others, but no fair bringing a bed-partner to the house.

We plan to live this way until one of us decides to remarry. It may sound strange, Ann, but it works. And it certainly makes a lot of sense financially. Sign me — CONTENT IN CONNECTICUT

DEAR FRIEND: So — contentment is living with an ex-husband in Connecticut. To each his own, dearie, but your testimony does nothing to alter my original stand.

The reason you and Jim enjoy a platonic relationship is because you both know you are sexually incompatible. How long do you think you could keep the brother-sister act going if you two had just met? See what I mean?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 22-year-old daughter was married last year to a very bright young man she met at college. They are both working on their PhDs and are extremely serious about their studies.

Two weeks ago our daughter told us she is in her fifth month of pregnancy. She and her husband have decided to put the baby up for adoption. My husband and I were horrified. It seems they have talked it over and decided they don't want a family — at least not now. The doctor told her she is too far along to have an abortion.

We offered to take the baby but they said no — if they saw the child they might want to keep it and their lives would be disrupted.

Ann, these two people SHOULD have children. They are both healthy and bright and would make wonderful parents. What can we do to persuade them not to do this awful thing? — SAD MOM AND DAD

DEAR M & D: Just because a couple is healthy and bright doesn't mean they would make wonderful parents. More important, they should WANT the child.

I agree they are making a big mistake and they'll probably regret it, but it's their decision to make, not yours. You've expressed your feelings — now drop it.

Taurus Shakes Fears

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may feel "boxed in," restricted. Key is to gain cooperation of those who can open doors, cut red tape.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Shake off fears, doubts. A secret will be kept — and your position is more solid than might be imagined.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): What appears serious could be a form of "lover's quarrel." Friend with "problem" confides in you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You learn what is real, what is imagined, what to do about ambitions which seem out of reach. You receive news which vindicates views.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Creativity is highlighted. Your ability to express receives spotlight of attention. Offer is received — it could enable you to bridge distance, to get views across in unique manner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Finish what you start. Completion of assignment now is more important than usual.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Routine may be upset. Strive to maintain emotional balance. Do plenty of observing, listening. Highlight willingness to start anew.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Much that happens is clandestine, behind the scenes. If you expect everything to be out in open, you invite disillusionment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Travel, writing and publicity could be featured. Accent is on love, impulse, excitement of discovery. Popularity increases.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Specifics, details, red tape, past obligations may appear to converge. Key is to pace yourself, to handle one situation at a time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You find that weight is lifted — and you could be deceptively "light." Strive for timing, balance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Money picture brightens; you could locate genuine luxury bargain to make home more comfortable, beautiful.

Early November

Auto Sales Climb 45 Percent

DETROIT (AP) — Domestic car sales in early November jumped 45 percent from the dismal levels of a year ago, marking the sharpest year-to-year improvement for an industry selling period since 1972.

All four major U.S. car producers reported strong sales gains compared with the first 10 days of November 1974, when the industry was reeling from a recession-triggered sales slump.

GENERAL MOTORS Corp. was up 56 percent from a year ago, Ford Motor Co. posted a 22 percent increase, Chrysler Corp. reported a 47 percent jump and American Motors Corp. said its sales rose 100 percent.

Total domestic car sales in the period were 198,948, stronger than most industry analysts expected. Sales of 136,921 in the year-ago period were the lowest for a nonstrike early November in 15 years.

Analysts said the 45 percent increase was the highest for a period since the final 10 days of July 1972, when sales jumped 46 percent. But they noted the big increase in the latest period was more the result of anemic levels last year than of current strength.

THE LATEST SELLING rate was still weak when compared with other recent early-November tempos, analysts said. Sales were down 11 percent from early-November 1973, when the Mideast oil embargo sent the industry into a two-year slump, and off 22 percent from the period record established in 1971.

However, analysts also said the early November figures, following a good performance in traditionally strong October, continued to pace an industry recovery from its worst slump in 40 years.

October car sales, normally buoyed each year by the introduction of new models, were up 23 percent from a year ago and the strongest in 17 months.

ANALYSTS SAID THE latest selling tempo was off only 13 percent from a robust October, compared with a normal decline of 18 percent, to indicate the industry's recovery might even be accelerating.

For the year-to-date, the companies have sold 4,994,828 cars, down 10 percent from last year's already depressed levels.

SST Still Flies On NASA Boards

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The supersonic transport jet, which died an early death in the United States, is alive on the drawing boards.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration researchers told an international conference of aviation experts here this week that NASA has made strides since 1972 in designing an improved "second generation" SST.

CONSUMER

THEY CLAIM IT would fly better, make less noise and carry commercial passengers for less than the premium first-class fares that will be charged by the British and French Concorde when that supersonic plane begins service in January.

The 108-seat Concorde is expected to charge passengers 20 percent above first-class fares for flights between Paris and Rio de Janeiro and between London and the Middle East.

A one-way first-class ticket from Paris to Rio de Janeiro on a commercial airline such as Air France now costs about $1,170. That would make the Concorde fare about $1,404 for the same trip.

American officials have yet to sanction scheduled Concorde flights in this country. (Related story, A-15)

VINCENT R. MASCITTI, assigned to NASA's SST project at the Langley Research Center in Hampton, Va., claimed NASA has found that a new, larger SST would charge 25 percent more than tourist fares.

Air France's one-way tourist fare between Paris and Rio is about $770, which would make the estimated fare on the new SST about $952.

Congress killed the controversial SST development program in 1971 after spending $600 million.

Aid to NY?

Shapiro Has New 'Poetic' Watch

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Abe Shapiro, the man who brought America the Spiro Agnew and Richard Nixon watches, has a new product to offer just in time to save New York City.

His "Let it Begin With Me" watch goes on the market this month, and Shapiro says he will donate 10 percent of his first three months' profits to help save New York from default.

"It was New York City that gave me a future and has allowed me to prosper for 16 years in Los Angeles," Shapiro, 58, who lived 42 years in New York before moving West, explained.

"I FEEL THAT by what I am doing I am saying, 'Thank you, New York City.'"

What Shapiro has done already is develop a timepiece featuring the "Symbol of Life" — a blue dove and a white dove embracing within a circle.

The symbol was created in 1971 by Christopher Harris, a public relations specialist from Los Angeles, who said it suggests that "the changes we desire in human understanding will come only when we change ourselves."

Beneath the drawing is the final line of a poem by Janis De Stefans of Vallejo, Calif., "Let it Begin With Me."

SHAPIRO HAS already sent samples of the watch to President Ford, New York Gov. Hugh Carey and New York City Mayor Abe Beame.

He is also urging other American businessmen "who have profited from New York City to contribute a portion of their advertising budgets to the city in its time of desperation."

Shapiro has developed several novelty watches in the past — two of them based on former President Richard Nixon.

One timepiece carried the slogan, "I'm for Nixon and the U.S.A." The other watch was the "I'm Not a Crook" edition, which featured a mechanism that made Nixon's eyes shift once each second.

HIS BEST-KNOWN timepiece was one of his first, the Spiro Agnew watch.

American Pacesetter Income Up

American Pacesetter of Newport Beach reported net income of $1,089,768, or 16 cents per share, after extraordinary income of $19,000, on revenues of $18,372,039 for the nine months ended Sept. 30.

John W. Klug, president, said this contrasts with net income of $1,099,427, or 16 cents, after income from discontinued operations less applicable income taxes of $83,902, and extraordinary income of $538,500, on revenues of $19,268,609 for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1974.

There were an average 6,914,014 common shares outstanding during the period.

Frugal Trend

Return-to-Land Effort Not Easy

By SYLVIA PORTER

At the core of the highly publicized movement of the U.S. population out of the cities and into the rural areas are the back-to-the-landers — individual Americans attempting to earn their livelihood off the land, to grow their own vegetables and fruits, raise their own poultry and meats, and perhaps chalk up a small surplus. Non-typical of the overall movement and numbering only in the thousands, they have dominated the headlines and focused the world's attention on an upheaval in U.S. economic-social values.

And an upheaval they do indeed represent — despite the reluctance so far of the demographers to identify their activities as a "trend," let alone calling it a lasting one.

THEY ACTUALLY ARE living a hard and frugal existence, radically different from the way most of us live or try to live in the U.S. in this era. They have a minimal concern with financial security, are contemptuous of the traditional American goals of a high-paying job with benefits, pensions, etc.

"Money," as such, is clearly not the reason for their exodus from the city to exurbia and beyond. In fact, despite record food prices, less than four out of 10 U.S. farmers gross an annual $20,000 or more — the bottom line for making a profit by farming, says the Department of Agriculture.

Yet, the pulls are undeniable. Among them:

—Better highways have opened up rural areas, enhanced the attractiveness of small towns, and the towns in turn have been luring newcomers with their broadening choices of cultural and sports events, the like.

—Hundreds of light industries — ranging from shoe factories to scientific laboratories — have moved into the rural areas, offering job opportunities to residents and outsiders, diminishing the reliance of the community on agriculture for incomes.

—THE GROWTH OF colleges and technical schools in rural areas has both drawn young people and encouraged youngsters born in the communities to stay in them.

—The development of whole new towns in rural regions to meet the demands of elderly citizens has brought this age category in increasing numbers to the towns and with them workers to cater to their needs.

—Other key factors have been the flight from crimes associated with central cities, the appeal of many rural public schools, the urge to become an activist in the politics of a small area — and, of course, the yearning for relatively clean air and water.

But what about the back-to-the-landers themselves? How are these scattered individuals trying to reach their tough objective of self-sufficiency in an economy so geared to the machine as ours?

To queries on this, the unanticipated answer I received was that back-to-the-landers divide themselves into two groups:

(1) THE INDIVIDUALISTS drawn by rural aesthetics, trying to preserve the traditional American farm, willingly and gratefully using the economy's services to help them succeed and planning to remain "inside" the economic structure.

(2) The extremists — economic counterparts of the anti-Vietnam activists of the 1960s — opposing the American economic system, and deliberately refusing to use services ranging from electricity to telephone to inside plumbing.

These are the rural newcomers who boastfully and invariably use animal energy for farming, compost rather than flush toilets. These are the new farmers who shun chemical fertilizers and abhor pesticides, advocate physical labor and downgrade "desk" work.

The extremists seek to attain self-sufficiency from the land itself, to cease any consumption of U.S. goods and services, to live entirely "outside" America's economic institutions.

IN SUM, THE BACK to the rural areas movement is also a movement certain to destroy the rural areas by populating them to the point where the wilderness first becomes an exurb, then a suburb, then a new urban community. Within the back-to-the-landers also are distinct, conflicting categories — one that would fundamentally strengthen our economic structure, the other that would gloat over its destruction and a turn of the economic clock way, way back.

Tiny School Runs Up Big Scores

RIVESVILLE, W. Va. (AP) — Overtime high school football games are becoming commonplace in many states that have adopted sudden death rules. But a tiny West Virginia school may have one of the few teams anywhere that plays undertime games.

Rivesville High School, located in the heart of central West Virginia's coal fields, has developed such a powerhouse that three of the Rams' eight games this season have failed to go the regulation four quarters.

The Rams walloped Circleville High School 59-0 in a game stopped at halftime by "mutual consent" of the coaches — though Circleville's coach, faced a four-hour bus ride home, simply wanted to keep from getting any more of his players injured.

A 54-0 shutout of Clay-Dattelle saw the second half consist of just six-minute quarters. The same thing occurred in a 65-0 smashing of Mastontown Valley, so the games actually consisted of just three quarters.

But that's just indicative of the way coach Martin "Sonny" Bartic's team has played all season.

A star linebacker on the nearby Fairmont State College team of 1967 that was the NAIA national grid champion, Bartic is used to being with a winner. But the team he has produced at his alma mater has even the delighted home folks amazed.

The Rams, paced by the 'backfield brother' trio of Jim, Tim, and Ken Underwood, outscored their first eight opponents by 413-6 while averaging over 51 points per game.

The Underwood brothers — who combined for five touchdowns and 338 rushing yards in a 64-0 rout of Morgantown St. Francis — are cousins of the head coach.

Only arch-rival Mannington, which dropped a 15-6 decision for its only loss, has scored so far against the Rams. And that was on a punt return. The Rams' defense has yet to be scored upon.

The fourth smallest high school playing football in the state, Rivesville with less than 75 males in the entire school — yielded only one first down by its regular defense the first six games of the season. That one lone first down came on a penalty.

Yet Bartic's team rarely "runs it up" on an opponent. Some of the first teamers barely have enough quarters to earn letters, since Bartic freely substitutes for his regulars.

In fact, the Rams have scored only 86 of their 413 points in the second half, totaling only 19 points in the fourth quarter.

That is, the games that have had fourth quarters.

Widing Sparks Kings

INGLEWOOD — Center Juha Widing scored with 5:07 left to play Thursday night to lead the Los Angeles Kings to a comeback 4-3 National Hockey League victory over the New York Islanders.

The Kings struck for three goals in the final period to gain their first victory over the Islanders in four outings.

Trailing 2-1 going into the final period, the Kings evened the score with 55 seconds gone in the stanza on a goal by defenseman Larry Brown from 45 feet out.

Rookie Bryan Trottier of New York put the Islanders ahead again at 2:23 when he lifted a shot over Kings' goalie Gary Edwards for a 3-2 lead by the visitors.

But veteran Bob Nevin's fourth goal of the season, a rebound from in close, tied it up 3-3 for the Kings with 12:17 left, setting up the winning goal by Widing.

Lakers Play

INGLEWOOD—The Los Angeles Lakers bid for their eighth victory in 13 games tonight, hosting the Phoenix Suns in National Basketball Association action at the Forum. It begins at 8 o'clock.

LA trails Golden State (7-2) by 1½ games in the Pacific Division while Phoenix is in third place with a 4-4 mark.

Soviets Win

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Mihail Korkia scored 12 points and picked off eight rebounds to lead a taller, more experienced Russian National Basketball team past Syracuse University 71-58 in an exhibition game Thursday night.

Award to Nolan

DAYTON, OHIO — "To be able to help the club win the championship fulfilled my greatest comeback hopes," Cincinnati Reds pitcher Gary Nolan said after being named Thursday as the 1975 recipient of baseball's Hutch Award.

The award is presented annually in memory of former major league pitcher and manager Fred Hutchinson, who died of cancer in 1964. It goes to a player who overcomes adversity and best exemplifies the spirit, competitiveness and character of Hutchinson.

Board Named

QUEBEC — Construction and financing of installations for the 1976 Olympic Games, now officially estimated to cost $1 billion, will be controlled by a government-appointed board, the Quebec national assembly was told today.

Solicitor-general Fernand Lalonde said an Olympic Installations Board would be responsible for overseeing construction of a main stadium but the future role of the City of Montreal remained uncertain.

Evert Signs

PHOENIX—Chris Evert has signed with the Phoenix Racquets on the World Team Tennis beat for reportedly $160,000.

She becomes the highest paid player on the circuit and the contract is for two years.

Trevino Fourth

MEXICO CITY — Bob Payne and Lee Trevino, two of the American entries, finished among the leaders Thursday in the opening day of the $40,000 Mexican Open golf tournament.

Payne shot a three-under-par 68 for second place and Trevino wound up fourth with a 70 over the 7,157-yard course.

Mexico's Victor Regalado claimed the lead with a blazing 65.

Connors In Semis; Ashe Upset

LONDON—Arthur Ashe, the 1974 Wimbledon champion, was upset in the quarterfinals of the Dewar Cup tennis tourney Thursday as Eddie Dibbs posted a 6-4, 6-2 triumph.

Another upset victim was Jan Kodes, who lost to Buster Mottram, 6-0, 6-1, while Jimmy Connors mowed down Bernie Mitton, 6-1, 6-1. Connors met Dibbs in today's semis while Mottram was scheduled to face Ilie Nastase.

Connors, who qualified for the Masters tourney with his victory, declined the invitation to play at Stockholm Nov. 30.

"I can give you an answer right now," said Connors. "I can't play. I'm going home."

Connors pulled out of last year's Masters after qualifying. On that occasion he produced a medical certificate saying he was unfit to play, and no action was taken against him.

Okker Upset

HONG KONG — Second-seeded Tom Okker of Holland and John Newcombe, No. 3 seed, were eliminated today by a pair of Americans in the quarterfinals of the $50,000 Citizens Tennis Classic.

Tom Gorman defeated Okker 6-4, 6-4 and Brian Gottfried beat Newcombe, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 to advance into the semifinals.

In other quarterfinals singles matches, Mexico's Raul Ramirez beat Spain's Juan Gisbert 7-5, 6-0, and Alex Mayer defeated Australian Bob Carmichael, 6-4, 8-6.

Panatta Wins

BUENOS AIRES — Adriano Panatta of Italy eliminated Chilean Patricio Cornejo 6-4, 7-6 Thursday and advanced to the quarterfinals of the eighth annual Argentine Tennis Open.

In women's singles, Chris Kemmer qualified for the semifinals, eliminating Michelle Rodriguez of France 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

Argentine Beatriz Araujo downed Chilean Ana Pinto Bravo Thursday, 7-6, 6-4.

In other singles action, Argentine ace Guillermo Vilas beat compatriot Lito Alvarez, 6-4, 7-5; Yugoslavian Zeljko Franulovic defeated Hans Pohman of West Germany, 6-0, 6-7, 6-2, and Jaime Fillol of Chile eliminated Argentine Julian Ganzabal, 6-3, 6-2.

Irvine's Serna Bids for Crown

By ED BURGART
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When Ralph Serna was a freshman at Loara High, he didn't know what cross country was.

Four years later as a freshman at UC Irvine, Serna is one of the favorites to win the individual title in the NCAA, Division II cross country championships Saturday morning at Irvine Coast Country Club.

One of the country's outstanding cross country runners, Serna has already won four invitationals this year, setting a course record at Chapman where he ran five miles in 24:08.5.

Lacking size — Serna stands 5-5, weighs 115 pounds — he nevertheless set many records in cross country and track while at Loara.

"And I didn't know what a cross country team was until I got to Loara," says the soft-spoken Serna.

Serna quickly adapted to cross country, though. Winning one race after another —including the CIF 4-A finals twice — Serna became widely known and his name is currently a topic of conversation.

But acting modestly, Serna prefers to talk about the UC Irvine cross country team instead of himself.

"Coach (Len) Miller had us write up our goals the other day," says Serna, "and my first one was to have our team win the title. Secondly, I would like to win the race."

And Serna has an excellent chance to win. His high school background proves his ability — he has run the mile in 4:07 and the two mile in 8:45.9 — and he has shown steady improvement since arriving at Irvine.

"I am running a lot more hills now than I ever did before," says Serna. "Everything was flat in Anaheim."

It seems as though Serna has improved with each hill. An easy winner in the Biola Invitational two weeks ago, Serna posted a 24:36 over the five-mile course.

He credits Miller for the steady improvement.

"I never did the distances as much as I'm doing now," says Serna, "and Miller is one of the coaches who can motivate you. He is really a hustler.

"His philosophy is like my high school coach's. A lot of coaches will run you till you are dead, but if you don't feel like running, you can tell him. He is easy to talk to and takes an interest in every guy on the team."

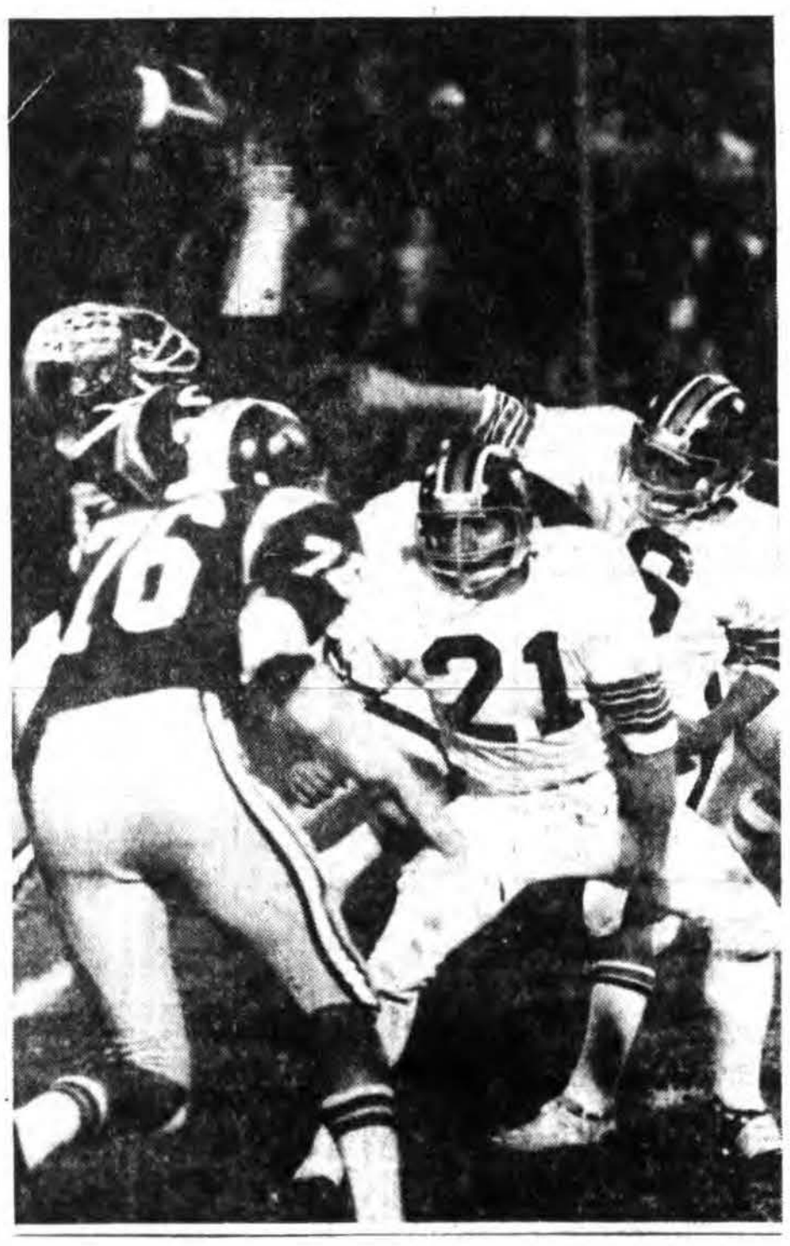
Miller took an interest in Serna not only for his cross country ability but also for his track potential.

"I am really hoping to run a good two mile in track this year," says Serna. "I'm hoping to run somewhere under 8:40."

Serna is also looking forward to the indoor season which is one reason why he chose UC Irvine over the University of Kansas.

"I like running indoors because of the tight turns and because the fans are so close," says the fine arts major. "That's one factor why I came here.

"Another is because Miller's philosophy is the same as my high school coach. Also, I wanted to be running in similar weather and I knew we were going to have a good team."



Michigan Gridders Seek Prep Record

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Coach Tom Saylor insists his Hudson football players "are really hungry" for a victory Saturday over Kalamazoo Hackett in the first high school football playoffs in modern Michigan history.

The first question might be, have the Tigers ever not been hungry for a victory?

They already have equalled the national record of 71 consecutive triumphs. Should they beat tough Hackett in the Class C semifinal they'll own the record alone. Jefferson City, Mo., set the 71-game mark from 1958-66.

"We are really fired," said Saylor, whose teams have compiled an 85-4-1 record in his 10 years as Hudson's head coach. "Our kids want to win it. We want to prove it hasn't been a fluke."

Apparently there are those who believe the top-ranked Tigers haven't had tough enough schedules. Among them are coach Dick Soisson of fifth-ranked Hackett.

"All I've said is that Hudson would never have won 71 in a row if it had played our schedule the last eight years," Soisson said. "I feel it's a great honor, a great challenge, to play Hudson.

"Win or lose we'll be famous. If we lose we'll be like the guy who threw Roger Maris his 61st home run pitch."

Saylor doesn't appreciate any jabs at the Tigers' schedule.

"All I know is that our schedule is as tough for us as Hackett's is for them," he said. "Hackett gets to draw players from all over Kalamazoo, population about 85,500, and we only have a small town about 2,500 to draw from."

Although the Michigan High School Athletic Association briefly prevented Hackett from practicing on artificial turf this week, it changed its decision after learning that Hudson was practicing on it.

UCI, Pirates Row Saturday

Crews from UC Irvine and Orange Coast College will be among 18 varsity eights competing in the Newport Cup Regatta Saturday morning in the West Lido Channel, Newport Beach.

The first of 18 elimination races will begin at 10 and UC Berkeley is favored to win the championship.

Each elimination race will feature two crews competing over the short distance of 500 meters. A crew is eliminated after one loss and the two undefeated eights will vie for the title.

In addition to Berkeley, UC Irvine and Orange Coast, other top schools competing are USC, UCLA and Cal State Long Beach. Also, some top rowing clubs are entered.

End of Road for USC?

Trojans Face Elimination Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pacific-8 football race is at least a week away from being settled, but coach John McKay's Southern California Trojans could be out of it this weekend, win or lose.

Another conference race could be decided Saturday in the regionally televised game between San Diego State and San Jose State, both unbeaten in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. The winner will have a 9-1 overall record for the various bowl game committees to consider.

McKay's chances of taking Southern Cal to the Rose Bowl for a ninth and final time, before he leaves for Tampa and the National Football League, will vanish if Stanford beats lowly Oregon in one of three Pac-8 games on Saturday's schedule.

Or, the Trojans could take themselves out of the race by losing their third straight game. They're on the road to face the dangerous Washington Huskies who upset UCLA two weeks ago and lost a narrow 27-24 decision to Pac-8 leader California last weekend.

Cal's Bears are 5-1, with a nonconference game at Air Force Saturday before their season-ending date with Standford, which takes a 4-1 conference record against Oregon, 1-4, at Stanford Stadium. UCLA, also 4-1, is at home against Oregon State, 1-4.

Washington State will be home, seeking to break its seven-game losing streak by beating Utah. Several other nonconference games are scheduled, with Pacific of the PCAA having the toughest assignment with its Saturday night game at eighth-ranked Arizona State.

"We're in control of the Pac-8 right now," UCLA coach DIck Vermeil said after USC lost to Stanford last week and dropped to 3-2. If the Bruins beat OSU Saturday and the Trojans on Nov. 28, they'll go to the Rose Bowl no matter how Cal and Stanford finish.

"After we beat USC, we were kind of counting on them beating UCLA. But the Trojans have lost two in a row and it's pretty obvious they're human," California coach Mike White said.

The Bears have the nation's leading college football offense, featuring tailback Chuck Muncie and the passing combination of Joe Roth and Steve Rivera. White is hoping that fact and a possible 8-3 final record would attract a bowl invitation from elsewhere if there's no Rose Bowl trip.

Edison Bids for Co-title Tonight

Edison High's Chargers, with a shot at their first varsity football championship since 1970 when the Edison Express won the CIF 3-A crown with a 13-0 record, invade Newport Harbor High tonight.

Kickoff is at 8 and if the Chargers of coach Bill Workman are victorious, they can do no worse than tie for the Sunset League crown with Westminster, a team Edison whipped earlier, 20-11.

Regardless of the outcome the Chargers are billed for further action in the CIF 4-A playoffs a week hence.

Rick Bashore has been the rallying point for the Chargers and the senior quarterback is again expected to be the key factor with his running and passing.

The Chargers are ranked No. 1 in Orange County 4-A circles and No. 7 in the CIF. Newport Harbor, expected to be in serious contention for the crown at this point, has disappointed with a 3-5 overall record.

Win or lose, the Sailors of coach Bill Pizzica can not escape the second division in final standings. "We're going into this one with one last chance of respectability," says Pizzica.

Bashore has passed for 1,090 yards with 76 completions in 132 attempts. His big tarets are Don Whan and Jim Bogart, although tight end Vic Rakhshani also has the good hands with the short passes.

The running game, with Rob Romeo at tailback and Romney Fuga at fullback, has improved, but the key to Edison's game is Bashore with his passing and his running. His keepers over tackle and around the flanks murdered rival Fountain Valley.

His counterpart for Newport is quarterback Gordon Adams, strictly a dropback passer with 62 completions in 137 tires for 993 yards.

Steve Foley is at tailback. The 205-pounder has scored 11 touchdowns and has averaged 5.0 yards per carry. He is the Newport ground game with Dan Christy's blocking assisting.

Over Western

Rankin's 2 Scores Pace Vikes, 21-14

By LAURENE KEYS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Senior Jim Rankin finished his high school football career with a flourish.

The Marina High fullback ran for two touchdowns to lead the Vikings past the Western Pioneers, 21-14, Thursday night in a Sunset League season finale.

Rankin's 36-yard run capped a 68-yard drive late in the fourth quarter to put the game out of reach for the Pioneers.

Twice in the march Rankin was responsible for key plays that kept the drive alive. He caught a 10-yard pass from quarterback Dave Wallach, and then two plays later took a pitchout from Wallach for another 16 yards.

His touchdown romp left Western bodies strewn about, as he broke three tackles to score. The PAT by Stan Sutton, his third of the night, was good and it was 21-6.

It was Rankin for the first Marina score late in the second period. His one-yard plunge ended a 67-yard drive. Earlier in that drive he was in big on plays, catching a 33-yard pass from Wallach and rushing for good yardage.

The 5-11, 180-pounder carried 16 times for 115 yards and an impressive 7.1 average.

But Western, under the leadership of quarterback Terry Hess, was not out of it yet.

An 80-yard kickoff return by Scott Brunner with 4:48 remaining in the game put the Pioneers right back in the game.

But this time it was the Marina secondary that did the damage. Defensive back Bob Craft intercepted a Hess pass and Western's hope of a comeback was over. Craft also had another interception in the first period.

In the first series of the third quarter, Wallach hit split end Randy Cleghorn with a 22-yard touchdown toss.

Marina ended its season with a 4-5 mark overall.

Grossmont Point of View

Jordan Calls OCC Awesome

EL CAJON — Grossmont College football coach Dave Jordan has been spending many hours this week viewing Orange Coast College films—and he says he's sick of it.

"I watch them about a half hour, then I go outside and think about it," says Jordan whose Griffins test the unbeaten Pirates Saturday night (7:30) at San Diego State College.

"Orange Coast is awesome, as everyone knows. I haven't seen a JC team like that in a long time.

"Their offense can do so many things, they have all that experience and the defense has some very good players and the best coach I've come across. "They just don't make mistakes," says Jordan, who once was an assistant at Corona del Mar High before moving on to St. John Bosco and Cal State (Fullerton).

Grossmont has had its problems in jumping from the Mission to the South Coast Conference —but basically because the Griffins are so young.

"We only have three offensive starters and two defensive players back from last year. It's a young team and when they win, they don't know how to take it.

"That's why we've been on a roller coaster this year. After we win, the kids think we've won the world championship and we have a hard time getting up for the next game," says Jordan.

The best Grossmont player, says Jordan, is 6-4, 235-pound defensive tackle Chris Malmgren. He was a starter at Kansas State as a freshman last season, but became disenchanted and transferred to Grossmont.

The Griffins also have a very good receiver in Don Kramer. He leads the conference with 49 catches for 559 yards and three touchdowns.

Grossmont comes into the game with a 1-3 circuit record and a 4-4 season mark.

Grid Finale For Eagles

Estancia High's Eagles, with a shot at finishing their best football campaign since the glory days of 1970 when the Eagles were 9-2 and 15-14 losers to Bonita in the CIF 3-A playoffs, play Villa Park tonight.

It's an 8 o'clock kickoff at Orange Coast College and victory would give coach Ken Kiefer's Estancia's Eagles a tie for third place with Villa Park in Century League circles and a 6-3 overall mark.

The task for Estancia begins with stopping tailback Bruce Ben Ben, a a 175-pounder with subtle and deceiving moves. Ben Ben, an all-league star for Villa Park in 1974, usually carries the ball 35-40 times a game and is consistently over the 100-yard mark.

And while Villa Park's chief threat is Ben Ben with his running and the occasional passing to receivers Brad Igou (6-5, 215) and flanker Robbie Martin, the Eagles counter with a balanced offense.

Quarterback Kevin LaRue gets the nod to start for Estancia, according to Kiefer, while Kirk Langdale will be in the wings and Larry Hall at fullback.

Hall has carried 41 times for 157 yards (3.8 average) at fullbaek, although he's a threat to pass on the option play, too.

Oilers Fall, 42-8

Colonists Runners Too Much for HB

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huntington Beach High's 1975 football season came to an unhappy end Thursday night as the Anaheim Colonists took the Oilers apart, 42-8, in Empire League action before 4,800 at La Palma Park.

It was all Anaheim as the Colonists ground attack chewed huge chunks of yardage from the outset. Joe Ramirez, a 5-6 junior, ran for 192 yards through three quarters and scored his 14th and 15th touchdowns of the season to pace the winners.

If there was a turning point in a 42-8 rout it came late in the second quarter with Huntington Beach still very much alive, trailing 7-0.

The Oilers put together a decent drive behind the combination of quarterback Bill Holst and receiver Steve Samperi as the Oil City marched to the Anaheim 12.

Samperi, who ignited the drive with the first of two interceptions, caught passes of 11, 14 and 9 yards, but the Colonists stiffened to toss the Oilers for a couple of losses and forced two incompletions with 1:44 left in the half.

Then the backbreaker — with the ball at the Huntington Beach 43 and one second left on the clock. Anaheim went to a spread and tossed a 13-yard pass to Morrie Carmichael.

Carmichael was clobbered at the 30 — but spun off his would-be assassins and raced the remaining distance.

Down 14-0, the defensive exploits of Toby Bonwell, Keith Dionne, Roger Smith and Samperi were down the drain.

Anaheim blitzed to three touchdowns in the third quarter, aided by a blocked punt recovered at the HB 1, a recovered fumble at the HB 10 and a 54-yard drive.

The Oilers had only one way to go and Anaheim defenders took advantage by pressuring Holst, who still managed to complete 13 of 31 passes for 173 yards.

The only Oilers score was a 24-yard strike from Holst to Alan Wilson and a two-point pass from Holst to Samperi in the fourth quarter to avert a shutout.

Anaheim's Benji Ariz added a pair of one-yard TD plunges, and Lou Chambrone had a six-yard scoring run to complete the scoring.

Monarchs' CIF Hopes Gone, 13-7

By ED BURGART
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Their ball control offense couldn't be stopped in the first half and their tenacious defense caused Mater Dei's Monarchs problems all night.

As a result, the Servite High Friars clinched at least second place in the Angelus League, defeating the Monarchs, 13-7, before 9,000 football fans Thursday night at the Santa Ana Bowl.

The win leaves Servite with a 4-1 league mark — unbeaten St. Paul (4-0) meets Bishop Amat tonight — while Mater Dei concluded circuit action with a 2-3 record and doomed to no better than fourth place in the final standings.

Because of an offense that consumed much time, the Friars rolled to a 13-0 halftime lead and their defense continually stopped the Monarchs in the second half.

The turning point, though, may have come late in the first half when Marty Fuentes grabbed the ball from a Monarchs' back and ran 21 yards for a TD. When Paul Millard converted with 3:04 left before halftime, the Friars led, 13-0.

The Friars' defense was rugged throughout the second half and if it hadn't been for a sparkling 69-yard punt return by Bob Meacham in the third quarter, the Monarchs probably wouldn't have scored.

Meacham's return to Servite's eight set up Mark Drazba's one-yard TD strike to Pat Pritzl with 6:30 left in the third period. When George McGowan converted, the Monarchs trailed 13-7.

But Mater Dei never came close again. It turned the ball over twice after its touchdown and a fumble by a Monarchs' running back late in the third quarter particularly hurt. It came after a 21-yard gain and Servite recovered near midfield.

The Monarchs' defense, led by tackle Eric Winter, held Servite to five first downs in the second half but was unable to contain the Friars in the first quarter when they marched 74 yards in 16 plays for a TD.

Duel El Toro

Dolphins Seek Playoff Spot

Apparently out of consideration for a CIF 2-A playoff berth two weeks ago, the Dana Hills Dolphins could end up in a tie for second place in the South Coast League and a likely playoff spot if they defeat the El Toro Chargers tonight.

Kickoff is 7:30 at San Clemente High in the final league game for both football teams.

The Dolphins put together their best offensive game in defeating Mission Viejo 30-12. That win improved Dana Hills' league mark to 2-2 and a Dolphins victory tonight combined with a University loss to San Clemente Saturday would leave Dana Hills and University tied for second.

El Toro is not in contention but Mac Moore's Chargers (1-7) are improving every week and only lost to University, 7-0.

El Toro's big task will be in trying to stop Dana Hills' veer offense, led by running backs John Gill, Keith King and Kerry Crabb.

Gill has rushed for 577 yards on 115 carries; King has picked up 347 on 72 attempts; Crabb has gained 317 on 70 rushes.

They will be running against a Chargers defense that has given up 20 points in El Toro's last two games.

The Chargers' top offensive threats are quarterback Scott Key and fullback Pat Hunstiger.

Key, only a sophomore, has been improving each week and completed 6-of-14 for 87 yards against University.

Hunstiger saw little action earlier this year but has rushed for 117 yards on 24 carries in his last two games.

El Toro also has one of the league's best linemen in 227-pound guard Tony Lundy who missed the first six games because of an ankle injury.

Corona del Mar Tackles Magnolia

The Corona del Mar High Sea Kings clash with the Magnolia Sentinels at Anaheim's La Palma Park in Century League football action tonight at 8.

The Sentinels, 1-7 on the year and winless in league, are not expected to give the Sea Kings much of a battle.

Senior quarterback Ron Hunt will be directing the Magnolia offense with Randy Discoe and Lance Doty doing much of the running.

The Sea Kings, who edged past Tustin 13-12 last week, will be trying to make it two in a row to end what has been a rather disappointing season (2-6).

Corona quarterback Gary Guisness, despite the losing season, has drawn a good deal of praise from opposing coaches, and will be a big factor tonight.

The 6-1, 175-pound senior has been responsible for nine touchdowns this season, six of them coming through the air.

Guisness has completed 51 passes out of 122 attempts for 716 yards and a .418 completion average. He has been intercepted 13 times.

Running back Rob Elson should add some balance to the Corona assault. The 5-9, 165-pound junior is the Sea Kings' leading rusher with 497 yards and three touchdowns on 95 carries for a 5.2 average.

Elson's best game of the season came against Costa Mesa when he rushed for 197 yards on 26 carries.

Junior tailback Gary Turner, who has two touchdowns to his credit, is expected to see some action also.

Despite the Sea Kings small size, with no player listed at more than 190 pounds, and most of them hovering around the 170 mark, the defense has done a creditable job.

Sunset League Champs

Edison Harriers Roll

It's becoming more apparent that the Edison High Chargers are headed towards winning the CIF 4-A varsity cross country title.

Putting together another outstanding performance, the Chargers — ranked No. 1 in the CIF 4-A poll — easily won the team title in the Sunset League finals at Huntington Beach Central Park Thursday afternoon.

With their harriers finishing 1-2-4-5-7, the Chargers finished with 19 points, 46 more than second place Marina.

Collin McConnell, seventh in the CIF 4-A finals last year, was an easy winner, running the two-mile course in 10:15. Teammate Charlie Christensen was five seconds behind in second place.

Charlie Walczak (10:29), John Hogan (10:34) and Jon Goldstein (10:42) were fourth, fifth and seventh.

Both Edison and Marina advance to the CIF preliminaries on Nov. 22 at Mt. San Antonio College. It was at Mt. SAC where Edison's harriers scored a convincing victory over some of the state's top teams in an invitational last month.

Other area runners stood out Thursday. In the varsity division, Marina's Steve Arlow (10:38), Tomm Gallup (10:50) and Jeff Endicott (10:52) wound up 6th, 10th and 11th.

Gary Ertz of Newport Harbor ran 10:49 to finish 9th while Fountain Valley's Rick Nolan was 13th in 10:54.

Fountain Valley took the junior varsity team title. Its runners finished 2-3-9-10-11, but Edison's Ben Putman (11:09) was the winner, defeating Fountain Valley's Jim Strickland (11:14).

Mesans Wind Up Tonight

The Costa Mesa High Mustangs take on the host El Modena Vanguards of Orange (8) at Kelly Field in Century League football action.

The league leading Vanguards, 7-1 overall and 6-0 in league play, are considered solid favorites to defeat the 4-4 Mustangs.

El Modena, whose offense is directed by senior quarterback Steve Cody, is expected to put the ball in the air often, but then so is Costa Mesa.

Cody, a leading contender for all-league honors, has completed 72 of 136 passes for 1,088 yards and 10 touchdowns. The 6-3, 185-pound senior has a .529 completion average.

The Costa Mesa defense, which had its troubles with Sauta Ana quarterback Chuck Hogg last week, will have a different type of problem with Cody.

Cody, a drop-back type passer, throws better than Hogg, but is not as likely to break away for the long gain as did the scrambling Hogg.

But the Mustangs also have one of the better passers in the league in Tim Rosauer.

Rosauer has completed 106 passes out of 193 attempts for 1,361 yards and six touchdowns for a .549 completion average. He has been intercepted 11 times, while Cody has had only four picked off.

Rosauer has a fleet of fine receivers in Dan Byers, Mike Snow, Dan Valentine and Doug Dysart.

Snow has caught three touchdown tosses and Byers has two to his credit.

Augmenting the Mustangs' offense is fullback Dan Duddridge. The 5-8, 150 pound junior has carried the ball 111 times for 517 yards and two touchdowns. Duddridge has exceeded the 100-yard mark in the last two games.

Against Santa Ana, the Mustangs rolled up good yardage on the ground in the first half, taking some of the pressure off Rosauer.

Diablos Battle Laguna

MV Eyes Chance for Playoffs

The Laguna Beach High Artists will be trying for their first league win and the Mission Viejo Diablos will be trying to stay in contention for a CIF playoff berth when the two teams clash tonight at Mission Viejo High.

Kickoff is at 7:30 for the South Coast League football finale and John Murio's Diablos are favored over an Artists team that came within two points of upsetting unbeaten San Clemente.

In fact, the Artists have only lost their last two games by three points but are 0-4 in league and 2-6 overall.

The Diablos, 2-2 in leaque, are coming off a 30-12 setback to Dana Hills and must win if they hope to tie for second. University (3-1) meets San Clemente (4-0) Saturday.

Because of a balanced offense, a stingy defense and the return of Mark Merwin, the Diablos figure to present problems for an Artists team that didn't show any offensive consistency until last week.

The Diablos could have some offensive problems though. Their leading ball carrier, Scott Spear, has a minor leg injury and won't start. The sophomore has picked up 623 yards on 128 carries.

Doug Reeves, who has completed 45 of 83 aerials for 807 yards, will not open at quarterback. Murio will start Mike Sweazy but indicated Reeves will see action.

Reeves will start at safety and Merwin returns to the lineup at defensive tackle. With Merwin, Mission Viejo has recorded two shutouts but without hm against Dana Hills, the Diablos gave up 30 points.

Laguna Beach could win if it plays like it did against San Clemente.

Laguna Beach's top threats are running back Kevin Pike—he has gained 340 yards—and flanker Vince McCullough who has scored three touchdowns.

And Bill Gompf proved he is a capable quarterback, completing 5-of-12 for 55 yards in his first starting role last week.

Cross Country

MV Ace Looms As Top Runner

By ED BURGART
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

He won't admit it, but Mission Viejo High's Mike Walterhouse has to be somewhat discouraged about competing in the same league with Laguna Beach's Eric Hulst.

One of the most promising cross country runners in the CIF, Walterhouse figures to do no better than second during Saturday's South Coast League cross country and track finals despite setting some high goals.

"I plan to run 8:54 in the two-mile and under 4:10 in the mile," says the Mission Viejo High junior. "And I want to run under 10 minutes at Mt. SAC."

Of course, Hulst is one of the nation's premier high school distance runners but Walterhouse isn't discouraged.

"It kind of helps me to run against Eric," says the lanky 6-1, 135-pounder. "I've probably run my two best races against him."

Those two best races came in the 1975 league track finals and in a Mission Viejo-Laguna Beach dual meet. Walterhouse ran 9:14 in finishing second in the league finals and was runnerup to Hulst earlier in the year when the Laguna Beach star ran 9:13.7.

Walterhouse has already indicated he is ready to run some nine-minute two miles when track begins this spring. In the Mission Viejo Invitational—it was eight laps around UC Irvine's track—Walterhouse posted a 9:09 in defeating Foothill's Mark Spillsbury.

The curly-haired junior has been impressive in every cross country invitational he has entered this year, winning races at the Costa Mesa and Orange County Invitationals.

Both Walterhouse and his coach, Gene Gurule, credit different training methods for Walterhouse's success.

"During the summer before my sophomore year," says Walterhouse, "I ran around 1,000 miles. But I slacked off this past summer. I only ran about 70 miles a week and worked out with weights more."

Says Gurule, "He really trained hard before his sophomore year but had a more relaxed attitude this past summer. Every time he ran last year, he had to race Jon Cook."

Cook, a top distance runner at Mission Viejo for three years, is now enrolled at UC Irvine.

"No one is threatening Mike in workouts now," says Gurule. "He is more relaxed and has more confidence."

Along with confidence, Walterhouse is optimistic.

"I improved my times 20 seconds from my freshman to sophomore years and would like to do the same thing this year," he says.

Although talking more about track than cross country, Walterhouse still plans to do well at the cross country championships this November at Mt. San Antonio College.

"I had problems there last year," says Walterhouse who only ran 10:45 over the hilly, two-mile course. "I was having trouble running down hills but I've spent a lot of time at Laguna this year running them.

"I'm coming down to my heels more now and I'm letting my momentum carry me so I can stride out more."

MIKE WALTERHOUSE

Area Girls Open CIF

Undefeated Laguna Beach heads a group of six Orange Coast area girls volleyball teams into the CIF 4-A playoffs Saturday.

Laguna Beach (22-0) will entertain Loara at 7:30 and is seeded fourth in the playoffs. Corona del Mar, the fifth seeded school, meets Thousand Oaks at home in a 4 o'clock outing. Newport Harbor, seeded eighth, battles Mater Dei at home at 7:30.

Beach Cities runnerup Costa Mesa travels to Bellflower High to face St. Joseph High at 2:30 and San Clemente, second place in the South Coast circuit, is at Mira Costa at 7:30.

Laguna Beach has won 13 dual matches in a row and was champion of the Rolling Hills and San Clemente tournaments. The Artists breezed to the South Coast League title, undefeated.

Corona del Mar, under coach Kathy Bulmer, posted a 15-2 overall and 8-0 league record. Losses were to Laguna Beach and No. 3 seeded Santa Monica.

Newport Harbor won the Beach Cities League with a 7-0 record under coach Judy Fogt and was 8-2 overall. Losses were to Laguna Beach and Corona del Mar.

Rustlers' Powell Dependable

Mark Davis just broke the 1,000 yard rushing mark, but the other running back at Golden West College is having a pretty fair season, too.

His name is Mike Powell and the 5-10, 179-pound sophomore halfback has contributed heavily to the Rustlers' 4-0 Southern California Conference football record.

While Davis has rushed for 1,506 yards in two years—second best in Rustlers history—Powell has gained 832 yards.

He picked up 114 of those yards against Cypress last week when he was named offensive player of the game.

"He's a very dependable back," says Rustlers football coach Ray Shackleford. "He's a good runner and has good quickness. He has never fumbled in two years and is usually the lead blocker for Davis."

When not blocking for Davis, Powell is normally picking up big yardage from his left halfback slot. Averaging 6.8 yards per carry this season, Powell has gained 537 yards on 79 attempts, fifth highest in the conference.

"And when our premier back last year, Paul Fiskness, missed three games," says Shackleford, "Powell replaced him. And in two of those games, Powell ran for 100 yards."

Powell will have to be at his best Saturday night when the Rustlers meet the Los Angeles Harbor Seahawks in a conference game at Orange Coast College.

Saddleback Foe

Knights Defense Key

SAN DIEGO—Saddleback College's defense figures to get its toughest test of the season when the Gauchos face San Diego City College Saturday night at Balboa Stadium, here.

The Mission Conference football clash precedes Saddleback's title showdown with Citrus the following week at Mission Viejo High.

Sophomore quarterback Chris Petitte gears the San Diego (3-2) offense. He threw for 1,224 yards last season and already has passed for 1,493 yards this year—completing 103 of 206 aerials and nine touchdowns for the Knights.

Against Southwestern last week, Petitte had five interceptions which led to a 21-20 setback for San Diego and ousted it out of title consideration.

"Three of those interceptions were deflections that should have been caught," says SDCC coach Harry West, "and another one was actually a fumble, but was called an interception."

Petitte's No. 1 target has been sophomore Frank Henry (6-0, 170), who has caught 43 passes for 560 yards and two TDs.

But the Knights' strength has been defense.

"Yes, our defense has played well all season," says West, "although we really didn't play well last week."

One of the reasons the defense let down, says West, was the absence of middle linebacker Gary Block (6-0, 210), who was sidelined with a knee injury. He'll be back Saturday.

The Knights' No. 1 defensive star is Eddie Imo (5-10, 220), a first team all-conference selection a year ago. Imo goes both ways, playing offensive guard.

West believes Saddleback is as good as any team in the conference—and he includes powerful Citrus.

"We're kind of hoping Saddleback will overlook us and be looking ahead to the Citrus game. But we just hope we can score on them. Saddleback has a very potent defense and our kids will have to play with more intensity than they did last week if we are win," says West.

Dolphins' Defense Doing It

With three straight shutouts paving the way for a South Coast League football title showdown with unbeaten San Clemente, clearly it's the defense at University High School that is the dominant factor.

Coach Dick Roche's University Trojans will be putting that same defense on the line Saturday in a noon struggle at Tustin High School against the CIF 2-A's No. 2 rated San Clemente unit on Southland television (Channel 4).

And with the exception of a second half letdown against Esperanza in non-league play, the Trojans have not allowed any opponent to score in double figures.

"Our two best on defense are Dave Scroggins at linebacker and Sergio Delgadillo up front," says Roche. "But it's been an overall effort with a good secondary and a good team effort up front.

"Our secondary has 11 interceptions in league and overall Scroggins has four interceptions and each of our defensive backs—Art Heise, Eric Springer, Sean Graham and Dan Hill have a pair."

Up front, where University's defense has not allowed the big gainer, it's Cliff Nelson and R. J. Schwichtenberg, Rick Baxter, Mark Moody and Jon Ney who figure to give San Clemente's run-run-run offense its stiffest test.

Quick Patterson Top FV Lineman

Fountain Valley High football coach Bruce Pickford says that Kevin Patterson is the best noseman in the league, and he's not apt to make rash statements.

Patterson will be out there trying to live up to that estimate Saturday night (8) when the Barons tangle with the Loara Saxons in Sunset League action at La Palma Park.

"He is extremely aggressive, and durable," says Pickford. "Kevin is probably our outstanding lineman."

Pickford believes that it's Patterson's quickness that makes him one of the best.

"Some of our opponents have double teamed, even triple teamed him to keep him out of their backfields," he says. "So even when he is not in on a tackle, he has freed up someone else to do the job."

The 5-10, 185-pounder is the leading defensive player based on the Fountain Valley coaches' grading system.

Tackles, assists, fumble recoveries and sacks are all taken into consideration when the points are figured.

Patterson, a three-year letterman, was twice selected as Fountain Valley's defensive player of the week.

In addition to playing defense, Patterson has also started at offensive guard.

"He is as close to a 48-minute man as we have," says Pickford. "He is one of our most consistent individuals."

And what does Pickford expect of Patterson against the Saxons?

"Nothing but his usual performance," he says. "There's no reason why he should change after eight games, and he has not really played a bad game all year.

"Kevin has the physical and mental toughness to make him a very good football player."

Collegiate Sailors Class Off Newport

USC sailors will be out to defend their collegiate team racing title Saturday and Sunday when they take on seven other schools in the elimination for the Southern Area championship.

Racing will be in Newport Harbor from the Intercollegiate Sailing base in Lido-14s. The top two teams in the eliminations will sail the following weekend against the two top schools from the Northern Area.

SKIPPERS FOR USC will be Benny Mitchell, Don Jesberg, Charlie Cummings, Tracy Albert and Dick Dezler. Teams most likely to stop USC's winning streak are UCI and OCC.

The Balboa Yacht Club will be host to the yacht racing buffs this weekend with its annual Turkey Day Regatta scheduled Saturday and Sunday for all classes. Racing will be on courses inside the bay and in the ocean off Balboa Pier.

AS A SIDEBAR to the main event, the Mothers Sabot group will have their own competition over bay courses Saturday and Sunday.

The racing calendar is light throughout most of the other yachting areas in Southern California, with action confined mostly to series races that continue over several weekends.

The Southern California Yachting Association calendar:

Los Angeles-Long Beach

CABRILLO BEACH YACHT CLUB — Fall Series No. 3, all classes, Sunday

Santa Monica Bay

SOUTH COAST CORINTHIAN YACHT CLUB — Ladies At the Helm regatta (MORF, PHRF) Saturday.

WINDJAMMER YACHT CLUB — Competitive start seminar, Sunday.

KING HARBOR YACHT CLUB — Fall Series No. 2, all classes, Sunday.

San Diego

SAN DIEGO NAVY SAILING CLUB — Bill Bunce Memorial Regatta, open invitational, all classes, Saturday, Sunday.

How to Be a Real Sea Monster

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Boating Editor

There's a lot of fiction about "sea monsters," but there's hardly anyone who has ever seen one eyeball to eyeball — unless you consider those you occasionally encounter on the surface.

Yes, there is a sea monster. In fact, there is a fictitious organization of them, recognized by almost any responsible boat operator who ventures out on the bay or ocean.

They are easily recognizable by the creed to which they adhere when afloat. Hardly any of them have ever attended a United States Power Squadron Class, a Coast Guard Auxiliary class, nor do they heed the precautions of the Coast Guard or other boating agencies.

FORTUNATELY THEY are a minority group. Their creed runs along these lines:

Don't bother to learn the rules of the road. You've been driving your boat for about three years and have had only three collisions.

That jive about sharp turns at high speed causing your boat to capsize is a lot of bunk. The Coast Guard likes to exaggerate. Nothing like that can happen to you.

Don't worry about 11 people and a Great Dane overloading your 12-foot boat. They can all fit in if they stand up.

WANT TO GIVE a water skier a thrill? Tow him under a bridge right close to the pilings. As soon as he gets out of the hospital he will tell you how exciting it was.

Don't turn off a collision course until the other guy does. That's chicken. And besides, you can't let people push you around like that.

Don't worry about having Coast Guard approved flotation devices aboard. If one of the kids falls overboard he can hang onto a piece of driftwood or something until you can come around and pick him up.

NEVER MIND checking your boat before launching. Sure you put the drain plug in. That water in the bilge is probably just rainwater.

That 100 horsepower outboard is okay for a 12-foot boat. The dealer who tells you different is probably trying to scare you into buying a bigger boat.

That barge with a tow dead ahead. Never mind giving way to him. After all, you have the right of way. Besides, he doesn't own the ocean.

NEXT TIME you see a water skier, roar up close behind him. It's a blast to see the look of terror on his face when he looks back at you.

See that crowd of boats at the launch ramp or gas dock? Come in full bore. Show 'em you are a real tiger.

See that guy drifting out there in a fishing boat. Pass him close aboard at full speed. He'll probably enjoy being cooled off.

Don't pay any attention to that underwater obstruction buoy up ahead. It was put there by the Corps of Engineers. What do they know about the draft of your boat.

DON'T GET those nice clean seat cushions all messed up. There's plenty of other places to sit — like on the transom, along the gunwales or, best of all, the bow.

Taking your portable gas tanks out at the fuel dock to fill them is a lot of work and a waste of time. Leave them in the boat. If you spill a little gasoline in the bilge, it will dry out in a little while.

Following the above creed can make you a bonafide "sea monster" in good standing. No dues to pay. Only the hospital and damage bills — if you should live so long. That is, if you have any bread left after paying off all those citations for boating law violations.

Best Climate For Working

At what air temperature do people do their best work? So inquires a client. Depends on the sort of work. Mental, around 40 degrees F. Physical, about 65 degrees. F. That's what the medicos report, at any rate. Already mentioned that they say human fertility is highest when the air temperature stands at 64 degrees F.

Q. "HOW LONG have the police been writing speeding tickets to car drivers?"

A. About 71 years. The record shows the first motorist so ticketed was pulled over in 1904 at Newport, R.I., for zipping along at 20 m.p.h., which was 4 m.p.h. over the limit. That driver was jailed for five days, please note.

MOTHER RAT

If a mother rat washes her newborn baby, she'll care for it thereafter, lovingly. If you wash it, she'll eat it, promptly. Now let's say no more about it.

IT IS THE WOMAN over age 55, not the man, who is most inclined to speak charitably of her enemies. Or so a lengthy study of such matters indicates. That was the same study which purported to prove that men over age 55 are the greatest animal lovers.

CASTILLE

Q. "What's so special about soap that's called Castille?"

A. Used to mean it was made with 100-percent olive oil. That's how the Spaniards did it in ancient Castille. In recent years, though, a lot of soaps made with various other vegetable oils are labeled Castille.

EACH SUIT in a deck of cards originally designated an occupational class. Hearts, the churchmen. Spades, the soldiers. Diamonds, the merchants. Clubs, the farmers. You'd think the soldiers would have been the clubs and the farmers the spades, what? Wasn't the case, however.

"CAN INFRARED RAYS pass through smog and clouds, water and glass?" asks a customer. Smog and clouds, yes. Water and glass, no.

THE ORIGINAL PLANS for the Washington monument called for it to be five feet taller than it is now. And it was supposed to be ringed with an enormous Greek temple. The builders kept running out of funds. They finally gave up on the temple altogether. Took them 29 years to cap the thing.

Cartoons Alive

GWC Play Based on Feiffer Satire

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What happens when a 4-year-old gets drafted, Cinderella goes Hollywood and a game show turns out to be more than the contestants bargained for?

The answers and, more importantly, the questions are provided in the satiric comedy "Feiffer's People," at 8:30 o'clock tonight through Saturday and Nov. 20-22, and at 5 p.m. Nov. 16 and 23 at Golden West College.

The play, drawn from characters in Jules Feiffer's comic strips, is being presented in the college Actor's Playbox behind the Community Theater adjacent to the Gothard Street parking lot at the Huntington Beach campus.

MOST OF what coast audiences will be seeing has been added to the script by director Michael Leddy, who drew the material from Feiffer's latest cartoons.

"A lot of the (original) script is outdated, a lot of the concerns, the Vietnam war, some of the racial conflicts... no longer concern us," he said.

Leddy, a directing graduate of GWC and Cal State Long Beach, is guest director of the production, part of an expanded program of drama at the college this year.

The original play, he said, was compiled by students at UC Berkeley and went on to New York and London performances.

DIRECTOR MICHAEL LEDDY

"I totally redid the script — I mean, of course you had to stay with Feiffer — so basically I've reorganized the production with stuff I felt would work within our means," Leddy said.

"Feiffer writes humor but his cartoons have a message behind them. He's a social satirist...Feiffer stated that he doesn't offer a solution but he points things out so we're aware of them. We laugh through the pain," Leddy said.

Among the 92 characters, played by a 10-member ensemble group, are Munro, a 4-year-old boy drafted into the Army by mistake; Passionella, a buxom Cinderella who becomes a movie star; Superman and a rescued damsel who wonders why he feels the need to run around in skin-tight blue leotards; and a parody of game shows.

"You've got to constantly go back and say, 'We're getting so funny you're losing the satire,'" Leddy commented in discussing acting concerns. He said he believes some other Feiffer productions erred by getting away from "the diamond-hard wit."

The set, which uses blow-ups of Feiffer cartoons, and the costumes were designed by guest designer Pamela Tallman-Leddy, also a graduate of Golden West and Cal State Long Beach.

Feiffer, whose cartoons first gained attention in "The Village Voice," is syndicated in 50 newspapers in the U.S. and several dozen abroad. His animated cartoon "Munro" won an Academy Award in 1961.

Tickets to "Feiffer's People" are $2 general admission, $1.50 for GWC students, senior citizens and children 12 and under. Tickets are available at the college bookstore and at the door. Ticket information is available weekdays from 892-7711 at the bookstore.

Members of the cast are Richard Armstrong, Don Shagam, Laurie Sondag, Delia Rose, Craig Davies, Barbara Masters, Christopher Bent, Diane Doherty, Sandy Fremen and Ray Brightbrill.

Feminist Painter Fights Obstacles

By CAROL MOORE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

To hear a Renaissance woman such as Judy Chicago describe how hard it was to find her roots is both humbling and alarming.

The Los Angeles artist, poet and founder of Womanhouse was reliving portions of her autobiography, "Through the Flower," during a Writer's Series lecture at Saddleback College.

"In painting, I had to move away from my female origins to be taken seriously," she said. "I couldn't be all that I was, with all talents operating together.

"My work could be understood accurately only against the background of women's history. That idea had to be incorporated along with line, form and color.

"WRITING a book helped me to identify what I was after in art. But trying to trace that heritage was like seeking knowledge in a vacuum."

Encouragement came during a lunch with philosopher-writer Anais Nin.

"She urged me to write, to try out paths and act out what I couldn't live out. Artists were supposedly mute and inarticulate.'"

Deemed "the first full-scale work of feminism and art written from the perspective of a practicing artist," Ms. Chicago's story tells of an often violent struggle to establish an equal relationship with a man in her personal life and a positive medium of expression for emerging women artists.

"Once the book was published, I was more protected (by royalties) than I had ever been as a painter," she said. "I was more oppressed as an artist than as a woman.

"Culturally, females have been the nondominant class, unable to shape perception of reality. It's as true in art as politics."

In 1972, Ms. Chicago began adding statements of intent to her paintings representing great ladies who transcended the feminine role to great achievement.

Soon the scripted messages began encircling the canvases and filling the wall space in her one-woman shows across the country.

'Culturally, females have been the nondominant class, unable to shape perception of reality. It's as true in art as politics.'

"I could reach out beyond the art world and say, 'Don't feel intimidated; here's a handle toward demystification.' I wanted to confront viewers, not just content them," she said.

"IT ALSO worked as a bridge toward feminists who relegated culture and emphasized politics.

"Art is a repository of dreams and positive images. We must rediscover and accentuate the continuum of what every woman does.

"Now the activists are coming to me for art to express where they have come to." One of her recent posters refers to "streaming. . .the unfinished, unbegun and possible."

"There is very little art from a woman's point of view. I don't often relate to the expressions in men's paintings, except for a few and those by my husband.

"Men deny women, like weakness and death, because we are so close to the life process. Instead of a schism in what's real, we should aim for a more holistic vision."

Ms. Chicago showed slides of her artwork, documenting a multiple nature of expressiveness.

Pencil lithographs of contorted, undulating rainbows depicted six compressed women who yearned to be butterflies.

They were transcendentalist Margaret Fuller, author Mary Lamb, literary characters Lily Bart and Madame Deronda and artists Elisabet Ney and Paula Modersohn-Becker whose lives were cut short or hindered by ship sinking, a famous brother, murder, immigration and childbirth.

Ms. Chicago said she progressed from floral to cavernous to vaginal to butterfly imagery to show feminism as a more active principle.

WHEN CHALLENGED on the fragility of butterflies, she replied, "Nobody lasts forever."

This year she changed her medium to china-painting because porcelain is "delicate yet firm" and more sympatico with her new designs and metaphorical phrasings.

An earlier series of blocked sunbursts, in colors resembling paper fan flowers once the rage for party centerpieces, spoke graphically of Marie Antoinette, Catherine the Great and Queens Victoria of England and Christine of Sweden.

"I chose them for the irony. They had power but couldn't use it," Ms. Chicago explained. "Queen Victoria, for instance, (in reddish tones and grays) was flesh and steel but spent half her life in mourning."

Various petal arrangements in the "Rejection Quintet" expressed the final breakthrough for both sexes, all minorities.

Her comments, like the Womanhouse gallery in Santa Monica, created an appreciation for women artists and challenged the values of a male-oriented art establishment.

How many more generations will it take to transform the world?

"If we work full tilt, about 100 years. But only about a third of us are working to turn around the powerless image, control our lives and implement beliefs. I'm too greedy to wait."

Judy Chicago: 'In painting, I had to move away from my female origins to be taken seriously.'

Watch Out!

Steve Gray and James Boress enact a tense moment from "The Wager" by playwright Marc Medoff. The serio-comedy, directed by Martin Benson, will run for four performances only: 3 p.m. Saturday and Nov. 22 and 8 p.m. Nov. 17 and 24, at South Coast Repertory Theater, 1827 Newport Blvd, Costa Mesa. Tickets at $3.50 general admission and $2.75 for students are now available by calling 646-1363. The drama is the first in the theater's Expedition Series, offering unusual works and approaches and presenting some new performers in the theater company.

Holiday Dining Planned

Out 'n About
Norman Stanley

Less than two weeks remain before the Thanksgiving holiday arrives. That means it's anything but too early to start planning the way you're going to enjoy the traditional feast, doubly so if you're inclined to follow the modern trend-setters and bypass home eating to partake of an all-the-trimmings meal at a favorite restaurant.

In recent years Thanksgiving has become a day of record crowds at most places — a condition that frequently leads those scrambling for last-minute reservations to settle for something less than first or even second choice.

So a little coordination prior to Thursday, Nov. 27, will put you in your preferred restaurant at the wished-for hour. Most of the area's fine dining spots are already prepared to entertain your inquiry or request.

IN THE MEANTIME, as a kind of warm-up for the main event, you might find it profitable to direct the youngsters' attention to Uncle Len's Corner in Saturday's Daily Pilot.

The grand prize winner in Uncle Len's drawing contest will be able to take Mom and Dad out to a first-class restaurant for a complete turkey dinner, with all the trimmings.

The young and future artist, together with the lucky parents, will be dining at Bob Burns restaurant, 37 Fashion Island, Newport Center, Newport Beach. And since the dinner will be served on Thanksgiving Eve, Wednesday, Nov. 26, some fortunate family hereabouts is going to strike it rich on turkey for two days running.

THIS MONTH marks the beginning of the third year for the Magic Pan in South Coast Plaza, Costa Mesa, the popular French country-style restaurant that specializes in a wide variety of crepes.

Celebrating the occasion, manager Ed Wary tells us there's a brand-new specialty on the menu — southern praline crepes. This dish features vanilla ice cream wrapped in a crepe and covered with bubbling hot praline sauce, spiced whipped cream and toasted pecans.

On the north side of the Bullock's wing of the shopping center, with entrances both inside and outside the mall, the Magic Pan is open from 11 a.m. through late supper every day, and from 10 a.m. on Sundays. Cocktails are served at all hours too.

BE ON THE lookout for the 20th Century Limited, but don't start referring to train timetables. Instead, be on track in South Coast Plaza for the late November arrival of a dazzling new restaurant.

With a promise to recapture the excitement of Grand Central Station and its luxury dining cars of the early 1900s, 20th Century Limited — owned by William Morrow and Paul Waite — is in the final stages of completion prior to joining the lineup of Orange County showplaces.

Conceived by restaurant designer Leo Dardarian, the new spot will open with a construction cost in excess of $600,000. In brief, the place has been described as a dining car restaurant and station saloon.

Actually, the complex will embrace three dining cars, separated by a 56-foot concourse which leads to a reception area modeled after early New York's Grand Central Station.

Topped by a wood-coffered beam ceiling, the spacious station-lounge will exhibit another Victorian touch with a wide, ornate bar dominating one end. There will be seating for 120 in this area, which includes a chowder and sandwich bar for lunch.

CAPACITY of the three dining cars is somewhat larger. They total more than 130 with each car presenting a different mood and decor, one with moveable tables and chairs, another with banquette seating and the largest providing fixed booths.

The food? Served in the dining cars will be dishes representative of various parts of this country as the train might have moved across America.

These include New England clam chowder, Lake Superior

(See DINING, Page C6)

Talks of Art

Actor Sterling Holloway will appear in an informal evening of talk about art and artists at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Newport Harbor Art Museum, 2211 W. Balboa Blvd., Newport Beach. Tickets are $3 and reservations may be made by phoning 675-3866.

Shows Abound on Coast

Intermission
Tom Titus

It's Bonanza Weekend for Orange Coast theatergoers with four new shows going on the boards to join four other productions already in progress.

The curtain went up Thursday on "Feiffer's People" at Golden West College and "The Drunkard" at the San Clemente Community Theater. Tonight's openers are "My Fair Lady" at UC Irvine and "Dear Friends" at the Huntington Beach Playhouse.

The Feiffer revue, a collection of skits from cartoonist Jules Feiffer's bag, is opening an eight-performance engagement at GWC's Actor's Playbox Theater. It'll be presented for two weekends, Thursdays through Saturdays at 8:30 and Sundays at 5 p.m. Reservations 892-7711, ask for the bookstore.

THE VILLAIN is being foiled again in San Clemente with "The Drunkard" at the Cabrillo Playhouse, 202 Avenida Cabrillo. Chuck Roberts directs the classic melodrama which features Patrick O'Reilly as the heavy, David Paulson as the hero, Sue Sebring as the heroine and Harvey Dabling in the title role.

Curtain time is 8:30 Thursday through Saturday for "The Drunkard," which runs for four weekends at the San Clemente theater. Reservations 492-0465.

In 'Dear Friends'

"MY FAIR LADY," one of America's most popular musicals, launches a six-performance engagement tonight at UC Irvine's Fine Arts Village Theater under the direction of Clayton Garrison. Stuart Duckworth and Mariana Rence take the starring roles of Professor Henry Higgins and his lowly protege Eliza Doolittle.

Also featured are Jefferson Walling as Colonel Pickering and UCI drama professor Robert Cohen as Alfred P. Doolittle. Performances will be given tonight, Saturday and Nov. 19-22 at 8 o'clock in the UCI Village Theater. Reservations 833-6617.

REGINALD ROSE'S teleplay "Dear Friends" comes to the stage again tonight at the Huntington Beach Playhouse where Austin Peay directs the domestic drama. Performances will be given Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 through Dec. 13 at the playhouse, 2110 Main St., Huntington Beach.

Portraying the four couples are Pat Burson and Alex Koba, Mary Ann Volta and Joe Carr, Lois Farah and Stanton Pritchard and Peter McAllister and Maureen Shrubsole. 842-5421.

DINING CAR ELEGANCE REVIVED . . .

white fish, Maryland breast of chicken, prime rib, lobster thermidor, charbroiled steaks and Chesapeake Bay scallops.

"Passengers" will step up into dining cars with crushed leather ceilings, warm woods and a nostalgic feeling. They will enter either through the plaza, past a bootblack and newsstand in the station, or through a simulated baggage area on the streetside.

From the latter approach, customers will walk down the concourse flanked by the stately dining cars with steam puffing up from below.

In its day, the 20th Century Limited was widely regarded as "the greatest train in the world." From all indications of our pre-opening preview, the new version getting ready to pull into South Coast Plaza will bring back some of the splendor of that era.

Art for Blind, Deaf

Two new types of tours for the blind and partially sighted and for the deaf and hard-of-hearing are being offered by the Docent Council of the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. Both tours are available free of charge.

Included in the tours for the blind and partially sighted will be talks given by docents for small groups of children and adults. Approximately 20 sculptures from Africa, China, Egypt, Latin America and Europe in a variety of materials such as wood, marble, bronze and baked clay will be provided by the museum for participants of the tour to handle and from which they can learn about form and texture.

The tours, which are approximately one hour in length, will be held in the museum's workshop. The museum is located at 5905 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

TYPED SCRIPTS of recorded gallery talks for special exhibitions are now available for deaf and hard-of-hearing visitors to the museum. This service, offered in conjunction with those exhibitions that have recorded gallery talks, allows the deaf to follow the same tour as given on the tape recording.

Scripts are available for the current exhibition, "European Painting in the Seventies: New Work by Sixteen Artists," through Nov. 23, at the membership-information desk in the museum's Frances and Armand Hammer Wing.

A refundable deposit of $1 is requested for the script. No reservations are required. Docent tours in sign language featuring highlights of the Ahmanson Gallery may also be scheculed on request.

To arrange one of these special tours contact the Museum's Docent Office at (213) 937-4250, ext. 217.

Quartets Sing

An evening of barbershop harmony is planned by the San Clemente Chapter of the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc.) at the Straw Hat Pizza Palace, 32095 Camino Capistrano in San Juan Capistrano from 7 to 10 p.m.

The public is invited and admission is free.

Fiery Dance

Tani Okalani, a dancer specializing in flaming poi balls, will be featured along with many other groups in an international music and dance festival tonight through Sunday at South Coast Plaza in Costa Mesa. Performances will be at 7:30 o'clock tonight, 11 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Saturday and 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Three Plays Seek Actors

Actors and actresses will be in demand on Monday, Nov. 24, when three community theater groups along the Orange Coast hold auditions for their next productions.

Tryouts are scheduled that night by the Irvine Community Theater and Golden West College for their combined production of "That Championship Season," by the Costa Mesa Civic Playhouse for "The Happiest Millionaire" and by the San Clemente Community Theater for "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running."

Readings for "Championship Season" will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Theater on the Golden West campus for a cast of five men, four in their late 30s and one in his late 50s. Tom Titus will direct the Jason Miller drama, which won Broadway's top three prizes in its New York production.

Costa Mesa resident director Pati Tambellini will be seeking eight men and six women in playing ranges from 18 to 50 for "Happiest Millionaire" at 7:30 p.m. in the Recreation Center at the west gate of the Orange County Fairgrounds. The play is the story of the eccentric Drexel Biddle family of Philadelphia prior to World War I.

"Water's Running" is an evening of four one-acts by Robert Anderson, all centering on the subject of sex. Director Tony Brandt will be looking for seven men and six women of various ages at 7 p.m. Nov. 23 and 8 p.m. Nov. 24 at the Cabrillo Playhouse, 202 Avenida Cabrillo, San Clemente.

Further information may be obtained by phone on "Championship Season" at 557-7297, on "Happiest Millionaire" at 556-5391, and on "Water's Running" at 492-0465.

Sand's Story Told

The story of George Sand, the 19th century novelist whose life was an international scandal, will be told in a seven-part dramatization when "Masterpiece Theatre" presents "Notorious Woman," Sunday at 9:15 p.m. on KCET, Channel 28.

Rosemary Harris plays George Sand, born Amandine Aurore Lucille Dupin, who was the subject of controversy almost all her life. She smoked cigars, wore trousers, lived wherever and with whomever she pleased and was one of the first women to write and talk frankly about sex and the double standard for men and women.

George Sand has been variously described as "this appalling rebel" (Andre Marois); "my breathless ideal" (Victor Hugo); "my eternal soul" (Chopin), and she was Franz Liszt's "dear, dangerous, brilliant friend."

Soul Music
The Hues Corporation, who recorded the hit song "Rock the Boat," will give concerts at 6, 7:30 and 9 p.m. Nov. 15 at Knott's Berry Farm, 8039 Beach Blvd., Buena Park, in the Good Time Theater. Information is available by calling 827-1776.

OC Smut Discussed On 'Focus'

"Pornography: This County Is Rated X" will be discussed on "Focus Orange County" Monday at 7:30 p.m. on KOCE-TV, Channel 50.

Discussing pornography will be Bob McDaniels, Orange County attorney for Stanley Fleishman Associates, which is presently involved in a court case concerning the film "Deep Throat."

Ken Rich, owner and operator of Costa Mesa adult film rental store, will also be a guest on the show.

"A superlative, spellbinding film which deserves a standing ovation."

'Eiger' Plot Unconvincing

FLICK FARE

THE EIGER SANCTION — Clint Eastwood is his typical brave-bull self in a mountainside chiller that leaves audiences cold. It's pseudo-CIA all the way. (R)

LET'S DO IT AGAIN — The idea of casting beanpole Jimmy (J.J.) Walker in the role of a professional boxer is enough to make you start laughing before the lights dim. Walker is dynamite, as are costars Sidney Poitier and Bill Cosby, who may well be the Hope-Crosby team of the '70s. (PG)

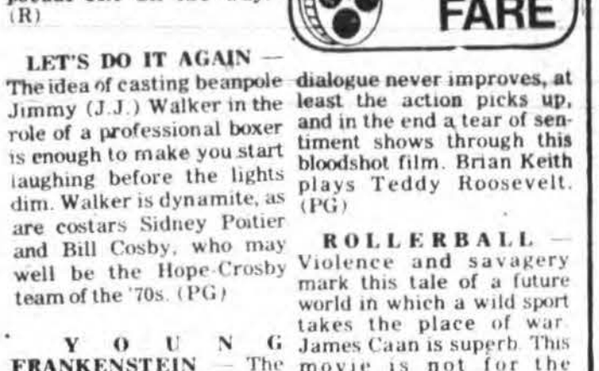
YOUNG FRANKENSTEIN — The humor is juvenile and the parody is heavy-handed, but Mel Brooks' take-off on the classic horror tale emerges as a refreshing journey into absurdity and irreverence. Some topnotch performances even succeed in introducing subtlety where none appears to have been written. (PG).

THE WIND AND THE LION— Candice Bergen is always stiff, but even more so as a woman of rank in this fictionalized account of the kidnap of an American by the last of the Barbary Pirates (Sean Connery) in Morocco. If it starts amateurishly and the dialogue never improves, at least the action picks up, and in the end a tear of sentiment shows through this bloodshot film. Brian Keith plays Teddy Roosevelt. (PG)

ROLLERBALL — Violence and savagery mark this tale of a future world in which a wild sport takes the place of war. James Caan is superb. This movie is not for the squeamish. (R)

3 DAYS OF THE CONDOR — Robert Redford's acting almost matches his looks in Sydney Pollack's timely thriller of CIA plots, subplots and counterplots. A maze of intentions and motivations deflects attention from the trite Redford-Faye Dunaway relationship and Redford's patriotic naivete. (R)

THE WAY WE WERE— Barbra Streisand and Robert Redford are beautiful in this sentimental tale of a romance and marriage from beginning to end. (PG)



New Orleans, 1933. In those days words didn't buy much.

Sixth Wife

Rex Harrison Faces Divorce

From Wire Services

Rex Harrison, 67-year-old actor and film star, is being sued for divorce by his sixth wife, Elizabeth, whom he married in New York in 1971.

Mrs. Harrison's petition, filed in London divorce court, gives no reason. Under British law, an irretrievable breakdown of a marriage is regarded as sufficient reason for divorce.

Mrs. Harrison is the daughter of Lord Ogmore, a liberal member of the House of Lords. Harrison's previous wives were Marjorie Noel, Collette Thomas and actresses Lilli Palmer, Kay Kendall and Rachel Roberts.

★

Ugandan President Idi Amin denounced as a "drunkard" a British lecturer he once sentenced to die for calling him a village tyrant.

Amin's denunciation, broadcast by Radio Uganda, was in response to the recent publication of an allegedly anti-Uganda book by British lecturer Denis Hills.

Amin described the book as "more malicious propaganda against Uganda" and described Hills as a "sex maniac" who mixed with prostitutes during his stay in Uganda.

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis is upset by reports of the partygoing lifestyle of her 18-year-old daughter, Caroline, and wants her to ease up, The London Mirror said.

Mirror gossip columnist Paul Callan said Mrs. Onassis "has burned up the telephone lines across the Atlantic" telling Caroline that she "must not overdo it."

"Her last two calls particularly were lengthy sermons which can be summed up in two words, 'Cool it.'" he said.

PEOPLE

Since Caroline came to London for a three-month art course at Sotheby's, the art auctioneers. "An evening has hardly passed without some party — dancing at clubs, late dinners in chic restaurants, not to mention lively country weekends," Callan said.

★

Producer Adolph Zukor, 102, and ageless Mae West were there.

So were Zsa Zsa Gabor, Rhonda Fleming, Jackie Coogan, Cesar Romero, Jack Carter, Hugh O'Brian, Rory Calhoun and other stars who appear in the upcoming movie.

GABOR

But the star of the end of the production party on the Paramount Studios sound stage was the star of the film — Won Ton Ton himself.

Won Ton Ton, a male German shephard, sat on a throne for much of the party for the cast of his first film. "Won Ton Ton: The Dog that Saved Hollywood."

★

President Ford will make a four-day visit to Peking next month that will be stripped of sightseeing features, a spokesman announced.

Press secretary Ron Nessen disclosed that Ford will reach Peking Dec. 1, and leave Dec. 5, for homeward-bound visits to Indonesia and the Philippines. Nessen said sightseeing is unnecessary because the President had toured China as House Republican leader.

"It will be largely a working visit," Nessen reported.

Jerry Dean Michael, the self-admitted transsexual and promoter of the three-wheeled Dale automobile, lost a bid for a separate trial on charges of conspiracy, grand theft and violation of state corporate securities laws.

Superior Court judge Glenn M. Pfau ruled in Los Angeles that Michael must stand trial Dec. 5, along with his wife, Vivian, and five others. All were indicted May 29 by the Los Angeles County grand jury.

★

Miss South Africa, the country's white contender for the 1976 Miss World beauty title, was disqualified from the competition because she really is a Rhodesian.

Helga Vera Johns, a 25-year-old blonde, failed to meet contest rules requiring at least five years residence in the country she represented, a spokesman for the organizers said.

★

The Senate Commerce Committee killed the nomination of Isabel A. Burgess for a second term on the National Transportation Safety Board, dealing President Ford his third defeat over a nomination.

Her defeat came following the committee's approval of Air Force Secretary John L. McLucas to head the Federal Aviation Administration.

BURGESS

Mrs. Burgess was rejected by the committee, 11-7, as a result of charges that she failed to publicly disclose ownership in Allegheny Airline stock as required by law and later participated in board cases involving the airline.

★

Joan Little, acquitted of a murder charge this year in a highly publicized North Carolina trial, will speak at the University of Cincinnati Tuesday.

Appearing on the speaker's platform for the first time with Ms. Little will be her two attorneys, Jerry Paul and Karen Bethea Galloway.

Ms. Little was charged in the 1974 slaying of a white jailer while in the Beufort, N. C., jail. She contended she acted in self-defense after the jailer allegedly tried to rape her.

A Massachusetts judge allowed the broadcast of a two-hour television documentary based on the trial of Dr. Kenneth E. Edelin, convicted of manslaughter in a legal abortion.

Judge James P. Lynch turned aside a move by Asst. Dist. Atty. Newman Flanagan to bar the broadcast Flanagan claimed there was a "clear and present danger of an immediate prejudicial effect" on potential jurors if Edelin were to be retried.

Flanagan prosecuted Ebelin in a six-week trial. Edelin, a Boston City Hospital obstetrician, has appealed his manslaughter conviction to the high court.

Students To Assist Families

An open-house party and a door-to-door campaign to collect canned food items for needy families in Santa Ana barrios will be conducted by UC Irvine students beginning Tuesday.

"Bring a Canful of Christmas" will be the theme of the on-campus party that begins the third annual canned food drive sponsored by Escuelita, a UCI student volunteer group. Members of Escuelita (little school house) tutor elementary students in Santa Ana barrio schools.

The party, open to students and members of the community, will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Escuelita office, Trailer 306, located behind the humanities buildings on campus.

A door-to-door campaign to gather canned food items will be conducted in Irvine on Wednesday evening. Collection bins for canned food donations also will be placed in front of the Alpha Beta and Albertson's markets.

More information about the canned food drive may be obtained by calling the Escuelita office at 833-7188.

Dr. Goodall To Speak In County

Dr. Jane Goodall, internationally known expert on the behavior of chimpanzees, will speak at UC Irvine Monday.

Dr. Goodall's talk, entitled "Chimpanzees; Relationship with neighboring Communities," will be presented at 8 p.m. in Crawford Hall under sponsorship of the UCI Biological Sciences Students Association and the UCI Associated Students as part of a campus observation of Biology Week.

Dr. Goodall, whose career as an ethologist was aided by study under Dr. Louis Leakey, has engaged in a long-term study of wild chimpanzees at the Gombe Stream Research Center in Tanzania. She is a visiting professor in psychiatry and human biology at Stanford University and an honorary professor of zoology at the University of Dares Salaam, Tanzania.

Tickets at $2 for general admission and $1 for UCI students are available from all Ticketron outlets and the UCI Associated Students Box Office, first floor of Gateway Commons.

Weekend Office Class Set

A course in office management is being offered as part of Saddleback College's "weekend college," which offers classes on Friday evenings and Saturdays, during the winter quarter beginning Dec. 6.

Organizing and planning office services, staffing clerical personnel and establishing office policies and standards for operations will be emphasized in the four-unit course.

The class will meet from 8 a.m. to noon on Saturdays.

Interested persons should file an application with the admissions office prior to Dec. 1.

Tests Gun Foes

Firearm Law Takes Effect

By THOMAS D. ELIAS

A new law that will test for the first time some of the fundamental arguments of the forces opposing gun control appears to have insured that no tough firearms-registration measure will be accepted in California for at least a year.

For years, those vocal interests have said that since most violent crime is committed by repeat offenders, putting criminals in prison after their first offenses would sharply reduce crime rates.

AS OF JAN. 1, CALIFORNIA will have a law going a long way in that direction. It requires prison sentences for persons convicted of selling heroin or crimes involving firearms.

If indeed "guns don't kill people, people kill people," a lot of potentially lethal persons should be taken off the streets by this law.

The argument many legislators and others are using against the latest state handgun-registration proposal, put forward by Democrat Sen. Nate Holden of Los Angeles, is that the mandatory prison theory should be tested before gun controls affecting non-criminals are imposed.

THE "GET-CRIMINALS, NOT guns, off the streets" argument, however, arouses a lot of resistance today as anxiety over the lack of firearms control grows every time an assassination attempt is made on a public figure.

But gun advocates maintain that potential assassins would find ways to get guns even if there were new legal restrictions.

Republican State Sen. H.L. Richardson of Arcadia, an avid hunter and a board member of the National Rifle Association, is one who makes that argument.

Richardson says he has interviewed inmates of Folsom and San Quentin prisons and found that inmates felt they would have no trouble obtaining handguns inside the prisons.

"If we can't keep criminals from obtaining and using weapons inside prisons, what makes anybody think the control of guns is going to keep them away from criminals on the outside?"

AND FRANK BARNYAK OF THE Los Angeles-based Firearm and Individual Rights Committee adds that gun dealers who belong to his group report that large smuggling operations into countries like England and Ireland, where handguns are illegal, already exist.

"If it's possible to import large quantities of narcotics today, we'd have a situation like Prohibition if we tried to outlaw handguns," he said.

Richardson predicts the new mandatory-prison law will be at least a partial solution. He cites a 10-year-old study by the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee that found 60 percent of murderers who used guns had been arrested earlier for violent crimes.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA FOCUS

His implication is clear: If these people had been jailed the first time, likely they would have committed no murders.

NONE OF THESE ARGUMENTS, of course, speaks to the problem of crimes of momentary passion committed by normally law-abiding persons. But many anti-gun control groups maintain that "If they couldn't use guns, they'd use frying pans or baseball bats."

It's a complete unknown whether the new law will have the deterrent effect advocates predict.

What's known is that virtually no public officials seriously believe passing handgun-restriction laws would result in a large-scale turning in of illegal weapons.

On record with their disbelief in this notion are law enforcement figures like state Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger, Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess, Los Angeles Police Chief Ed Davis and San Diego County Sheriff John Duffy.

FTC To Tighten Drug Marketing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The familiar "plunk, plunk" in a glass of water may sound in board rooms of the nation's drug companies under a new Federal Trade Commission decision affecting advertising of over-the-counter drugs like antacids.

The FTC announced a unanimous vote to issue regulations barring claims on behalf of products that the Food and Drug Administration does not allow on the product label.

FOR EXAMPLE, under the FTC regulation — subject to a period of public review and comment — advertising that claims antacids can cure hangovers or emotional disturbances would be banned.

The FDA has been reviewing over-the-counter drugs, which number up to a half-million products, including soaps and deodorants. About $305.2 million a year is spent advertising these goods, according to estimates. The FDA review led to ratings of each product or class of ingredients by safety and effectiveness.

A FINAL report on antacid products said that manufacturers could not claim they helped relieve nervous or emotional distrubances, problems relating to the consumption of alcoholic beverages or morning sickness.

The next evaluation is expected to focus on sedatives and sleep aids and other reports are due next year.

The FTC told the Senate in hearings Oct. 30 that the FDA evaluations "will not sufficiently remedy the deceptions" about product claims.

Dramatics Methods Offered

A creative dramatics class, designed to assist people working in youth activities, will begin at Saddleback College Dec. 1.

Research has shown that orientation to creative dramatics for young children aids in vocabulary building, oral communication and reading skills, according to Bonnie Cogbill and Karlene van Szeliski, course instructors.

Their class will emphasize developing plays based on children's stories to build an atmosphere where children can express themselves.

Two sections of the class are being offered during the winter quarter. One will meet from 9 to 10 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and the other Wednesday evenings from 6 to 9.

Further information can be obtained by calling the college's Office of Community Information.

Legal Battle

Jeb Stuart Magruder, former No. 2 man on Committee to Reelect the President, said he still dosen't understand 'why it cost $100,000 in legal fees to plead guilty.'

Schools Report Damage

The Saddleback Valley Unified School District lost $7,747 to vandals last year but the damage was significantly lower than in other Orange County school districts.

A study released by the school district shows that the loss, grouped under the general term of vandalism, included $3,181 in thefts, $1,975 in damage to school property, $317 in arson, and $2,274 in burglaries.

The Capistrano Unified School District was the next lowest district with an $11,649 loss to vandalism in the 1974-75 fiscal year.

Other school districts and their vandalism totals for the same period are:

Irvine Unified, $15,677; Placentia Unified, $29,965; Tustin Unified, $34,993; Orange Unified, $38,122; Santa Ana Unified, $77,903 and Garden Grove Unified, $88,931.

Among the high school districts Tustin had the lowest vandalism figure at $19,740, followed by Huntington Beach, $31,157, and Anaheim, $83,500.

Junior Misses Line Up

Ten senior girls from Dana Hills and San Clemente high schools have been named semi-finalists in the South Coast Jaycees' Junior Miss contest.

Dana Hills High School finalists are Diane Bentley, Anita Bea Mueler, Cynthis O'Neil, Lisa Heim and Allyson Becktel.

San Clemente High School finalists are Jan Cheatum, Wendy Romagnino, Mary Springer, Francine Douglas and Sandy Rickly.

The girls will compete for a $500 scholarship Nov. 23 at the San Clemente Community Clubhouse.

The local winner will participate in state competition scheduled in January at Santa Rosa.

Drafting Classes Scheduled

Two drafting courses will be offered through Saddleback College at El Toro High School beginning Dec. 2.

Both classes will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6 to 10 p.m. in Room 605 of the high school and be taught by Frank Henry, a draftsman and designer who also teaches a beginning drafting course in the high school's vocational curriculum.

Registration will be taken at the college prior to Dec. 1 or at the high school during the first two weeks of December.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING RELATING TO THE URBAN MASS TRANSPORTATION ADMINISTRATION CAPITAL GRANT PROJECT OF THE ORANGE COUNTY TRANSIT DISTRICT

Re: Purchase of transit buses and supportive equipment; Purchase of land and design for a Maintenance and Operations facility.

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the Orange County Transit District, at the Board of Supervisors' Hearing Room, fifth floor, 515 North Sycamore, Santa Ana, California, on December 15, 1975, at 9:00 a.m. for the the purpose of considering a project for which financial assistance is being sought from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, pursuant to the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, generally described as follows:

1. Purchase of 50 new 40-foot, 51 passenger and 25 new 40-foot, 44 passenger air-conditioned, diesel transit buses to be operated throughout the County.
2. Purchase of 15 small 17-24 passenger air-conditioned, diesel transit buses to be operated throughout the County.
3. Purchase of Administration Facility Equipment to be utilized at the District administration building.
4. Purchase of equipment for two temporary Maintenance and Operations Facilities. The temporary Maintenance and Operations facilities will be located in Anaheim on Via Burton Street near State College Boulevard and in Irvine on Sand Canyon Avenue north of the Santa Ana Freeway.
5. Purchase of 171 registering, locked fareboxes to be installed on the District's transit buses and to be used throughout the County.
6. Purchase of 121 two-way mobile radios to be installed on the District's transit buses and to be used throughout the County.
7. Purchase of eight service vehicles to include six autos and two service trucks to be used throughout the County.
8. Purchase and installation of Dial-A-Ride control room equipment for one module.
9. Purchase of 30 passenger waiting shelters to be installed throughout the County.
10. Purchase of 2,000 bus stop signs and posts, and 9,000 route designation signs to be installed throughout the County.
11. Purchase of 7,000 bus benches to be installed throughout the County.
12. Purchase of land and design for a permanent Maintenance and Operations Facility to be located approximately 100 yards northeast of the Santa Ana Freeway at 14600 Sand Canyon Avenue in the City of Irvine.

The net project cost of the above items is estimated to be $11,504,733. 80% of the proposed project will be financed by a Federal Capital Grant under Section 3 of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended. The remaining 20 percent will be financed by the District from funds made available by the Transportation Development Act of 1971, State of California Stats. 1971, Chap. 1400.

No person, families or businesses will be displaced by this project.

The proposed project will have no significant adverse social, economic or environmental impacts upon Orange County.

This project is in conformance with comprehensive land use and transportation planning in this area and is currently being reviewed by the Southern California Association of Governments and the State Clearinghouse (A-95 Clearinghouse and 204 Review Agency).

The elderly and handicapped will benefit from the passenger waiting shelters, bus benches and route designation signs which will facilitate bus usage.

At the hearing, the Orange County Transit District will afford an opportunity for interested persons or agencies to be heard with respect to the social, economic, and environmental aspects of the project. Interested persons may submit orally or in writing, evidence and recommendations with respect to said project.

A copy of the application for a Federal grant for the proposed project, together with an environmental analysis and the transit development plan for Orange County, is currently available for public inspection at the Orange County Tranait District, Administrative Office, 1200 North Main Street, Suite 900, Santa Ana, CA.

WANTED FOR RAPE
Police Draw Suspect

Laguna Hunts 'Polite Rapist'

A "polite, gentlemanly and courteous" rapist is sought today by Laguna Beach and Newport Beach police who believe the moon-faced man is responsible for a string of sexual attacks in both cities.

The latest victim was a 28-year-old Laguna Beach woman attacked in her own home Thursday. On departing, the rapist told his victim he would lock the door for her so she didn't have to get up.

That kind of courtesy is a trademark of the rapist police believe may be responsible for four to five rapes and several attempted rapes in Laguna Beach and for three to four rapes and several attempts in Newport Beach.

The Laguna rapist is armed with a large caliber blue steel automatic pistol. The man responsible for the Newport Beach attacks was armed with a knife.

He told his victims in Newport he was named Jerry and that he was a Vietnam veteran. The Laguna rapist told his lafest victim his name was "Pete" just before he told her "I'm going to rape you."

Laguna Beach Det. Gene Brooks said he firmly believes the same man is responsible for three attacks within the past week.

Last Friday, a 19-year-old woman was raped during the early morning hours at her home by a man who forced open a window. Then Sunday, a 55-year-old woman was awakened by an armed man who fled when she began screaming and refused to stop.

Det. Brooks said there are other unsolved rapes in residential areas which appear to match the method of operation used by this one man. Descriptions too are similar.

"In fact, I would go out on a limb and say that all the residential rapes we've had since the first of the year, with the exception of one, this guy is possibly responsible," Det. Brooks said.

He said in each case, the rapist was polite and did no physical harm to his victims. Some victims described him as gentlemanly.

"This is only theory on my part, but I believe it is a good possibility that this is also the same guy, 'Jerry,' who plagued Newport this spring," Brooks said.

Newport Beach Det. Ken Smith agreed that the women's descriptions of their attacker matched that of the Laguna rapist.

According to victims, the rapist has a "baby or moon-face," is of stocky build, of average height and weighs about 170 pounds. He has short sandy colored hair and is clean shaven.

Det. Brooks urged anyone with information about the man to contact police but not to attempt to restrain or capture the armed man.

OC Assessor List Narrows to Six

Council Shelves Gay Bid

The Laguna Beach City Council has deferred action on a request by the city's social committee that it be included to interview police chief candidates.

Two members of that committee have pressed for official recognition of the city's homosexual community in the city's social needs element of the general plan.

Specifically, they asked that the section of the element dealing with law enforcement contain language stating that hiring and promotion in public safety departments not be dependent on an individual's sexual orientation.

The council meeting Wednesday did approve the committee's request for $300 to cover secretarial service but held off action on the committee's request that applicants for the chief's position be interviewed by a quorum of the social committee.

There are now 22 persons on the social committee.

In making its application to the council, the committee said "We feel the variety of viewpoints represented on the committee will provide extra feedback to the council and also assist applicants in better understanding the diversity of our city."

Present plans call for chief applicants to be screened by the city manager, by an oral interview board appointed by the council, and by the city council. It is hoped he can be hired by Jan. 26. Chief Frank Schopen is retiring Jan. 4.

The job description for the chief's position calls for the new chief to be "friendly, open, and community-minded."

Beach in November

It's hard to tell who is having a better time — Nicole Collins, 6, Irvine, or the sea gulls she is feeding. Nicole and her family were among the Orange Coast residents who are taking advantage of the "beach weather" in November. Enjoy it while you can, weather fans, it may not last.

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A special screening committee has narrowed the field of applicants for Orange County assessor down to six candidates, eliminating acting assessor Elmer Zimmer.

Left in the running for the job vacant since mid-September when former assessor Jack Vallerga was sentenced following his felony conviction are:

—Stanley Krause, director of Orange County's Real Property Services.

—George Cormack, assistant to Krause.

—Gary Cottrell, once an official in the Orange County assessor's office and now Riverside County assistant assessor.

—Bradley Jacobs, an ex-executive with Commercial Products Company.

—Peter Ulrich, a private consultant.

—Ralph King, San Diego County assistant assessor.

It is from these six candidates that the board of supervisors, perhaps as early as next week, will select Vallerga's successor.

Whoever is selected for the post will serve the three years remaining on Vallerga's initial four-year term and have all the rights and prerogatives of an elected official including the right to seek election as an incumbent.

What the six remaining applicants for county assessor survived was a two-day screening of 20 candidates by an 11-member committee appointed by the Board of Supervisors.

Originally, there were 114 applicants for the job. But in preliminary eliminations county Administrative Officer Robert Thomas and Personnel Director Bert Scott pared the list to 20.

And it was from those 20 that the committee selected the six applicants who will be considered for the post by the supervisors.

Among the prominent applicants who didn't survive the screening committee cut were Zimmer, San Diego County Assistant Assessor C. J. Templeton and Glenn County Assessor Mike McCullough.

Ventura County Assessor Ed Shiner reportedly withdrew from the running early this week.

The six applicants who are still in the running were graded on a point basis by the blue ribbon selection committee.

It is reported that Krause accumulated the highest number of points and was followed in order by Cottrell, Ulrich, Jacobs, Cormack and King.

Gregg Allman Asks Divorce From Cher

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Rock star Gregg Allman filed a court petition today asking that his four-month marriage to television entertainer Cher be dissolved.

The petition filed in Bibb Superior Court says the marriage is "irretrievably broken." It says the couple were separated on Nov. 11.

Cher, star of a variety show, and Gregg, singer and songwriter with the Allman Brothers band, were married in Las Vegas on June 30.

The marriage, which came just three days after Cher's divorce from her longtime husband and singing partner Sonny Bono, has been stormy despite its brevity.

Cher, 29, announced nine days after they were married that she was filing for a divorce, saying, "Gregg and I made a mistake." But she withdrew the action on Aug. 1.

A spokesman for Allman, 27, said later that he thought the whole thing had been a misunderstanding.

Munro Quits Social Post On 'Issues'

David A. Munro, a member of the Laguna Beach city social committee, quit his position Thursday with criticism of two fellow members whom he accused of tying the committee to "explosive" but minor issues.

Munro, a retired university professor, did not name the other committee members.

However, members Jay Murley and Anthony Sacco recently pressed for official approval of the hiring of homosexuals by city public safety departments.

Munro declined to elaborate on his letter of resignation to Mayor Roy Holm, but when asked if he was referring to Murley and Sacco, he said "that's a good assumption."

The social committee now has 22 council-appointed mombers. It is set up to provide advice for the council on matters affecting Lagunans' welfare to include police policies.

"Because two members of the social committee. . .speak to the city council on matters not agreed upon by the committee, thus inadvertently involving the rest of us, I would like you to accept my resignation from it effective immediately," Munro wrote.

"By this action, I do not mean to imply that I necessarily disagree with whatever pleas my fellow committee members may have addressed to you.

"The point I make here is both narrower and broader: 1) It is unfair to seem to commit the rest of us to actions we had not taken, and 2) it is tactically unwise to introduce minor issues so explosive they endanger the major issues," Munro said.

Girl, 6, Killed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police searched today for the driver of a hit-run car that struck and killed a 6-year-old girl while she was crossing a street near her home to buy ice cream from a truck. Witnesses told police the car was exceeding the speed limit Thursday when it struck Tammy Sanders.

Ford to Consider Black as VP Pick

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — President Ford indicated today he would consider a black running mate on the 1976 Republican presidential ticket.

"Certainly, Sen. Ed Brooke, by his record, is a person who ought to be considered," Ford said.

Ford made the statement during a questioning session with students at North Carolina Central University.

His reference was to Sen. Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass.), who is black.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller has withdrawn from consideration as Ford's running mate.

Ford praised Brooke, the junior senator from Massachusetts, as a capable public official with qualifying experience as state attorney general and in the Senate.

"I like him personally," Ford said, "and he has an enviable record."

The President had been asked what blacks, if any, he was considering for a running mate.

The brief exchange came in a meeting with about a dozen student leaders.

Reporters were not able to ask the President for elaboration.

However, earlier in his visit to the black college, Ford expressed a general interest in finding better positions for blacks and women.

Asked about a possible black appointment to the Cabinet, Ford mentioned William Coleman, already secretary of Transportation, but added "there are no more anticipated changes in the Cabinet."

Ford began his visit to two Southern states today by receiving an honorary degree from the black college and calling for the day "when all the children of God are brothers and sisters."

Ford was greeted by hundreds of persons and waded into the crowd shaking hands as he arrived on campus to accept an honorary doctor of laws degree at the university's 50th annual convocation.

Later in the day, he planned to fly to Atlanta for a GOP fund-raising dinner.

At Durham, the college choir sang "We Shall Overcome" as about a half-dozen white hecklers from the stands of the gymnasium waved placards protesting the presence of 93 prisoners on North Carolina's death row.

A chant of "93 Lives in Your Hands" was shouted as North Carolina Gov. James Holshouser rose to introduce Ford. Holshouser paused in his introduction and said, "I would never intervene and perhaps damage the rights of those defendants."

At the Raleigh-Durham airport, Ford was greeted by several hundred persons.

Judge Nixes Participation

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Los Angeles judge decided not to preside over a case involving an alleged underworld figure because the judge reportedly said he was introduced to the man by Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, the Sacramento Bee reports.

The newspaper Thursday quoted sources who were at a meeting in Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Benjamin Landis' chambers on Oct. 20. At the meeting were attorneys in the case of a lawsuit filed by Moe Morton against Hollywood Park race track.

Landis told attorneys for Morton and the race track that Younger, then Los Angeles County district attorney, introduced him to Morton in 1970 at an Acapulco hotel, the newspaper said.

'Dip Dinner' Set for AFS

A "double dime" dip supper to boost the coffers of the Laguna Beach chapter of the American Field Service will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. next Thursday at the Laguna Beach High School cafeteria.

Each serving will cost 20 cents. During the supper, travelers will speak on foreign countries.

The supper will immediately precede the school play, "Tom Jones," which will be performed in the auditorium. American Field Service is an international organization that sends students to foreign countries for a year's study.

Game on Television

A noon football game Saturday between San Clemente High School and University High school will be televised live on "Prep Sports World" on channel 4. The game will be played at Tustin High School.

Orange Coast Weather

Variable high cloudiness Saturday but mostly sunny skies. Some fog along the coast in the morning hours. Cooler, with beach highs at 68 rising to 78 inland.

NEXT JUSTICE?
Rep. Charles Wiggins

Wiggins On ABA List

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bar Association is screening a list of fewer than 12 potential U.S. Supreme Court nominees submitted by the Ford administration, but the President's spokesman indicated today Ford will not be bound by its recommendations.

The bar association expects to report on the qualifications of those on the list early next week, Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi sent the list to the ABA Thursday.

A high-ranking official called it "a very small list" of fewer than a dozen persons under consideration for President Ford's nomination to succeed retired Justice William O. Douglas.

The New York Times today reported that Administration sources said the list submitted to the ABA included, among others, Rep. Robert Griffin (R-Mich); Solicitor General Robert Bork; Rep. Charles E. Wiggins (R-Calif.); Judge Arlin M. Adams of the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia; and four other federal appeals court judges — Paul H. Roney of the 5th Circuit in New Orleans, John Paul Stevens of the 7th Circuit in Chicago, William H. Webster of the 8th Circuit in St. Louis and J. Clifford Wallace of the 9th Circuit in San Francisco.

Some new names surfaced as lawyers and government officials continued to speculate about the possible candidates.

Skiing Equipment Sale Set Saturday

The Laguna Beach High School Ski Club will hold a skiing equipment sell or swap meet from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the high school cafetorium.

The club will collect five percent of an article's selling price for items sold for cash. There will be no fee charged for swapped items. The meet is open to the public.

Metal Pipe Corrals Taken From Stable

Orange County sheriff's deputies are investigating the theft of five metal pipe horse corrals from a San Juan Capistrano stable.

Owners of the Lone Pine Stables on Ortega Highway said the 18-foot-square corrals were apparently dismantled and hauled away by truck. There were no horses in the enclosures, which were valued at $100 apiece.

District Salaries Studied

Reports by fact-finding committees investigating salary disputes between the Capistrano Unified School District trustees and two employe groups will be made public Monday night.

The committees were established in September after district teachers and bus drivers declared "persistent disagreement" in salary negotiations with the school board.

Teachers are holding out for a seven percent salary increase. The board's most recent offer was 3.5 percent.

Bus drivers similarly are seeking seven percent and have been offered 5.5 percent.

The difference in the two offers is due to a reclassification study adopted by the board that boosted the pay of bus drivers and most other non-teaching employes in the district.

The fact-finding committee reports will be outlined at the school board meeting at 7:30 p.m. at San Juan Elementary School, 31642 El Camino Real, San Juan Capistrano.

During separate fact-finding processes, consultants hired by the district and the employe groups investigated the district's $20 million budget, the progress of past negotiations and other factors relating to employer-employe relationships.

Each committee will deliver a "statement of facts" on what its investigation has revealed. School district policy by which the committees were established does not require that the panels recommend specific salary increases.

Supt. Jerome Thornsley has recommended that the board review the statements publicly, then retire to secret session to give direction to him for future negotiations with the two groups.

In a related salary matter, the board will receive a letter from an organization representing the district's secretaries, custodians and aides requesting a 7.5 percent salary increase.

Indications are that the California School Employes' Association will request a fact-finding committee be established if the request is rejected.

Marine Faces Insurance Fraud Charges

A Camp Pendleton Marine was scheduled to be arraigned today on the charge that he deliberately ordered his car destroyed so he could collect $1,500 in insurance money.

Thomas Daniel Damato, 18, a cook, was arrested at the base Thursday by Don Hodgson, San Clemente fire marshal.

The arrest followed a two-month long investigation by Hodgson into the burned hulk of a 1969 Ford Mustang found in August in Trafalgar Canyon.

Hodgson alleged that shortly after the car was paid off, Damato asked two fellow Marines "to steal the car and destroy it."

Hodgson said the car was pushed into the canyon and set afire. Ownership of the car was traced to Damato through license plate number, he said.

Interviews with companions of Damato led to issuance of a warrant charging him with arson with intent to defraud, Hodgson said.

Damato was held at San Clemente Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail pending arraignment at South Orange County Municipal Court.

Hodgson said warrants have been issued against the two Marines suspected of starting the fire. He said both deserted the corps shortly after the incident.

The fire marshal noted that there have been several suspicious car fires in San Clemente in recent months and that investigation into other cases is continuing.

Reds Pouring Into Angola

LUANDA, Angola (UPI) — Thousands of Russian and Cuban troops are pouring into Angola to help defend a new Marxist regime fighting rival forces backed by China, Zaire, and the United States, Diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said the mission of the Russians was to man tanks and MIG21 jets as well as advise the hard pressed, 25,000-man army of the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Angola.

Brainwashed?

Expert Summoned by Hearsts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A British psychologist considered an expert on brainwashing techniques says he is flying here from London today to examine Patricia Hearst at the request of her parents.

Dr. William W. Sargent said in England that he would spend about three days visiting Miss Hearst in her cell at the San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City, south of here. Miss Hearst, 21, faces trial on federal bank robbery charges.

Dr. Sargent, 68, is a consulting psychiatrist at St. Thomas' Hospital in London. He has written many books, including "Battle for the Mind."

Miss Hearst's lawyers filed an affidavit in court shortly after the newspaper heiress was arrested Sept. 18 in which she claimed she was tortured and driven to the verge of insanity by Symbionese Liberation Army captors.

Planners Request Tough Sign Stand

The San Clemente Planning Commission has recommended that the city council abandon a proposed ordinance that would clamp tight controls on the size and location of business signs.

The commission, in a 4 to 1 vote, called for stricter enforcement of the city's existing sign ordinance for a year. If improvement in the city's sign situation is not shown, then consideration could be given to a tougher law, commissioners said.

The city council will receive the recommendation Wednesday.

The council already has ordered that the city's Building Department take a tougher stand on illegal signs as part of a program to clean up the city.

Merchants turned out in force at the planning commission meeting. Paul Snider, a spokesman for the group, pledged that merchants would police their own ranks for violations of the existing sign ordinance.

The current law allows each business two square feet of signage per each foot of street frontage. It also permits roof signs and large signs along the San Diego Freeway.

The proposed ordinance, patterned after one adopted in Costa Mesa in 1974, would allow only one square foot of signage per front foot, prohibit roof signs and limit the height of freeway-oriented signs.

The proposed ordinance also would require that owners remove non-conforming signs over a period of one to five years, depending on the original cost of the sign. The existing ordinance contains no removal provision.

Clemente OKs Surf Classes —At a Price

If you live in San Clemente and are hung up about learning how to hang ten, fret no longer.

City councilmen this week gave their blessing to a program to teach would-be surfers of any age the ins and outs and ups and downs of board surfing.

The program was proposed by Richard Hazard, marine safety director, at the request of the city's parks and recreation commission.

Beginning, intermediate, advanced and competitive surfing instruction will be offered. Each phase will cost $10.

The eight-session beginners' course will include the history of surfing, safety and the elements of paddling and riding. The final two classes will be devoted to in-water practice.

Those who complete the beginners' course may go on to an eight-session intermediate program and then onto an ongoing advanced program that will include surfing trips and competitions.

Surfers who sign up for the competition program may participate in local and national surfing events and could serve as volunteer instructors in the lower levels of the surfing program.

Bank Officer Pays Ransom

DETROIT (UPI) — A gunman kidnaped a bank manager's wife Thursday and held her prisoner until her husband ransomed her for a reported $100,000, one-tenth the amount the abductor demanded.

It was the second such incident involving branch managers of the Manufacturers National Bank in 18 days.

In the latest case, police said, a man seized Mrs. George Zedan at her home in suburban Grosse Pointe Farms, then telephoned Zedan at his office.

Laguna Democrats To Hear Lobbyist

The Laguna Beach Democratic Club will discuss "Issues for 1976" at a general meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Laguna Federal Savings community room, 260 Ocean Ave., Laguna Beach.

James Pino, executive secretary for the Southern Section of the Friends Committee on Legislation, will speak and provide materials for discussion. Pino has been a lobbyist for liberal causes in both Sacramento and Washington. The meeting is open to the public.

Stolen Jeep Found

Laguna Beach Lifeguards have their jeep back today after a citizen called police and complained the vehicle had been parked in his driveway for two days and he wanted it out, pronto.

The jeep, equipped with red lights and siren for emergency use, was stolen Sunday morning from the home of lifeguard Mike Dwinell.

A Laguna Beach police officer reported seeing the vehicle southbound on Pacific Coast Highway at about 2:30 a.m. but didn't stop it. The driver reportedly was wearing a blue jacket similar to those worn by Laguna guards and was youthful appearing.

Lifeguard Capt. Jim Stauffer speculated the jeep had been stolen for a "joy ride." Nothing was taken from the vehicle.

2 Companies Hit by SEC Desist Orders

As a result of a complaint filed by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), two companies in Newport Beach and Irvine were ordered to stop violations of securities regulations.

The order was issued to International Securities Corp., 2121 San Joaquin Hills Road, Newport Beach, and Intertie, Inc., 2081 Michelson Drive, Irvine. Also mentioned in the order was Jack E. Glassford, 30171 Silverspur Road, San Juan Capistrano, president of International Securities.

Officials from the two securities companies and Glassford agreed to the federal court order to cease their activities, which were said to be in violation of securities regulations.

The complaint by the SEC accused them of illegally selling limited partnership interests in cable television facilities since Dec. 1, 1972.

Indians Sought For San Juan Meet

The Indian Advisory Committee of the Capistrano Unified School District is seeking students, teachers or parents who are of American Indian ancestry to attend a meeting at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Old Mission gym in San Juan Capistrano.

Jasper Hostler, committee chairman, said that new courses in Indian studies, music, art and culture will be discussed.

PIE FACE—Is that a homecoming queen behind all that cream pie, or just another casualty in Dana Hills High pie-throwing preliminary to homecoming?

Paul Revere Rides Again In Clemente

Paul Revere will ride again during halftime at tonight's football clash between the Dana Hills High School Dolphins and the El Toro High School Chargers at the San Clemente High School stadium.

The horseman will deliver the envelope containing the name of the senior girl elected homecoming queen by Dana Hills students.

Vying for the crown are Allyson Becktel, Linda Brothwell, Nicole Brown, Amy Day, Hollie Engen and Debbie Thomason.

Halftime homecoming activities will include a fireworks display. The traditional homecoming dance will follow the game, in the Dana Hills gym.

Students have been gearing up for homecoming this week with a dress up days and water balloon toss, pie toss and log sawing contests.

Profits 'Gel' at Lever

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ

Lever Bros., U.S. subsidiary of the Anglo-Dutch giant, Unilever, has spent many frustrating years here battling the titan of the laundry room and bathroom, Procter and Gamble (P&G) — and finally it has something to crow about.

Aim, Lever's new fluoride gel toothpaste, has turned out to be a winner. In less than two years it has captured 10 percent of the $450 million toothpaste market, which is good enough for third place behind Crest and Colgate Dental Cream.

TWO OTHER LEVER entries, Close-up and Pepsodent, hold 13 percent of the market between them. The result is to give Lever Bros. a 23 percent slice of the toothpaste dollars, its biggest cut since the days when Pepsodent was riding high.

Aim is the only gel on the market, and it has capitalized on this feature with the advertising claim that you can get a toothpaste and a mouthwash in one product. This claim may have registered. Latest reports from the drugstore field show that mouthwash sales are down 6 percent this year.

If that relationship holds up, then Lever will really have a P&G fighter in Aim. For not only is it hurting P&G in the toothpaste market, it's also impacting the mouthwash business, where P&G fields Scope, the runner-up brand to Listerine.

The success of Aim confirms, though, that the lock to the toothpaste market is opened by cavity-fighting fluoride. Fluoride brands — Crest, Gleem and Colgate — all have this ingredient. Now 70 percent of the toothpaste business has it.

THE ORIGINAL FLUORIDE brand, P&G's Crest, is still resting comfortably in first place, a position it has held ever since it was endorsed by the American Dental Association in 1960. But Crest's share is currently 36 percent, down from the 38 percent it had a year ago. P&G's other brand, Gleem, owns a 6 percent share.

Colgate Dental Cream, the pre-fluoride leader, is taking 20 percent of the toothpaste dollars — and that may well be its lowest share in modern history. The brand has been on a downward slope since the ascendancy of Crest.

Another Colgate brand, Ultra Brite, is also traveling downhill. This is a toothpaste sold as a whitener (helps you to get the girl or the guy). Its market share has dropped to 5 percent and it's being outsold easily by Lever's whitener, Closeup, which holds 9 percent of the market.

AIM IS A BRAND that's still on the upswing. Surprisingly, no one has countered it with another gel. But if Crest's market share continues to drop, Lever Bros. will be sure to hear from its longtime nemesis, Procter and Gamble.

Grant Store Goods On Auction Block

LONG BEACH (AP) — "Going once, going, twice — sold: a W. T. Grant Store" came the auctioneer's cry as a piece of the financially troubled department chain went on the block.

Permanent fixtures, such as sales counters and overhead lights, were up for auction on a store by store basis for 56 W. T. Grant stores being closed in the West by the financially-troubled firm.

The one-day auction this week, however, didn't include any goods and durables and also excluded the store structures themselves. An estimated 100 bidders packed the place like a fire sale.

Bidding, held at one of the stores being closed, covered all permanent fixtures within each individual store. The auctioneer took bids on each store one at a time going down a list in a prepared brouchure served in lieu of transporting the goods from the stores in the states, which included California, Arizona, Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Montana, Nevada and Texas.

Keenan Now In Santa Ana

Keenan Pipe and Supply Co. of Los Angeles has opened a warehouse and yard in Santa Ana.

The announcement was made by Fred V. Keenan, President of the company. A grand opening is scheduled for Nov. 20. The new facility, located at 3535 Garry Ave. replaces the current Costa Mesa branch.

Citibank Predicts Economic Slowdown

NEW YORK (UPI) — Economic growth in the next six to nine months will not keep pace with the 11.2 percent rise in the nation's third quarter Gross National Product, First National City predicts.

"If inflation runs at a five to eight percent annual rate over the next two quarters," Citibank economists said, the rate of real economic growth, or real GNP growth, should be less than five percent, quite possibly less than three percent, and conceivably zero or less in a single quarter."

THE ECONOMY'S performance over the next two or even three quarters is likely to disappoint businessmen geared up for substantial growth after the third-quarter GNP figures, the bank observed in its monthly audio cassette service.

Citibank economist Leif Olson noted that earlier this year "We said that when the economic recovery came, it would be largely a statistical phenomenon — that is, businessmen would find it difficult to parallel the experience in their own companies and their own industries with the GNP numbers released by the government."

PART OF THE divergence between government figures and industrial performance can be attributed to the slowdown in the rate of inventory decline which accounted for 7 percent of the 11.2 percent the increase in real output, Olson said. A sharp rise in real final demand made up the remainder, or nearly five percent, the economist noted.

The bank economists predicted the economy will pick up steam again next spring and summer with real growth averaging about five to seven percent in the second half of 1976. These growth projections depend on a moderate inflation rate, however, of between four and six percent, they said.

OLSON CAUTIONED that price inflation has not stabilized and "extraordinary swings" in prices should be expected from one month to the next.

Tiny School Runs Up Big Scores

RIVESVILLE, W. Va. (AP) — Overtime high school football games are becoming commonplace in many states that have adopted sudden death rules. But a tiny West Virginia school may have one of the few teams anywhere that plays undertime games.

Rivesville High School, located in the heart of central West Virginia's coal fields, has developed such a powerhouse that three of the Rams' eight games this season have failed to go the regulation four quarters.

The Rams walloped Circleville High School 59-0 in a game stopped at halftime by "mutual consent" of the coaches — though Circleville's coach, faced a four-hour bus ride home, simply wanted to keep from getting any more of his players injured.

A 54-0 shutout of Clay-Dattelle saw the second half consist of just six-minute quarters. The same thing occurred in a 65-0 smashing of Mastontown Valley, so the games actually consisted of just three quarters.

But that's just indicative of the way coach Martin "Sonny" Bartic's team has played all season.

A star linebacker on the nearby Fairmont State College team of 1967 that was the NAIA national grid champion, Bartic is used to being with a winner. But the team he has produced at his alma mater has even the delighted home folks amazed.

The Rams, paced by the 'backfield brother' trio of Jim, Tim, and Ken Underwood, outscored their first eight opponents by 413-6 while averaging over 51 points per game.

The Underwood brothers — who combined for five touchdowns and 338 rushing yards in a 64-0 rout of Morgantown St. Francis — are cousins of the head coach.

Only arch-rival Mannington, which dropped a 15-6 decision for its only loss, has scored so far against the Rams. And that was on a punt return. The Rams' defense has yet to be scored upon.

The fourth smallest high school playing football in the state, Rivesville with less than 75 males in the entire school — yielded only one first down by its regular defense the first six games of the season. That one lone first down came on a penalty.

Yet Bartic's team rarely "runs it up" on an opponent. Some of the first teamers barely have enough quarters to earn letters, since Bartic freely substitutes for his regulars.

In fact, the Rams have scored only 86 of their 413 points in the second half, totaling only 19 points in the fourth quarter.

That is, the games that have had fourth quarters.

Widing Sparks Kings

INGLEWOOD — Center Juha Widing scored with 5:07 left to play Thursday night to lead the Los Angeles Kings to a comeback 4-3 National Hockey League victory over the New York Islanders.

The Kings struck for three goals in the final period to gain their first victory over the Islanders in four outings.

Trailing 2-1 going into the final period, the Kings evened the score with 55 seconds gone in the stanza on a goal by defenseman Larry Brown from 45 feet out.

Rookie Bryan Trottier of New York put the Islanders ahead again at 2:23 when he lifted a shot over Kings' goalie Gary Edwards for a 3-2 lead by the visitors.

But veteran Bob Nevin's fourth goal of the season, a rebound from in close, tied it up 3-3 for the Kings with 12:17 left, setting up the winning goal by Widing.

Lakers Play

INGLEWOOD—The Los Angeles Lakers bid for their eighth victory in 13 games tonight, hosting the Phoenix Suns in National Basketball Association action at the Forum. It begins at 8 o'clock.

LA trails Golden State (7-2) by 1½ games in the Pacific Division while Phoenix is in third place with a 4-4 mark.

Soviets Win

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Mihail Korkia scored 12 points and picked off eight rebounds to lead a taller, more experienced Russian National Basketball team past Syracuse University 71-58 in an exhibition game Thursday night.

Award to Nolan

DAYTON, OHIO — "To be able to help the club win the championship fulfilled my greatest comeback hopes," Cincinnati Reds pitcher Gary Nolan said after being named Thursday as the 1975 recipient of baseball's Hutch Award.

The award is presented annually in memory of former major league pitcher and manager Fred Hutchinson, who died of cancer in 1964. It goes to a player who overcomes adversity and best exemplifies the spirit, competitiveness and character of Hutchinson.

Board Named

QUEBEC — Construction and financing of installations for the 1976 Olympic Games, now officially estimated to cost $1 billion, will be controlled by a government-appointed board, the Quebec national assembly was told today.

Solicitor-general Fernand Lalonde said an Olympic Installations Board would be responsible for overseeing construction of a main stadium but the future role of the City of Montreal remained uncertain.

Evert Signs

PHOENIX—Chris Evert has signed with the Phoenix Racquets on the World Team Tennis beat for reportedly $160,000.

She becomes the highest paid player on the circuit and the contract is for two years.

Trevino Fourth

MEXICO CITY — Bob Payne and Lee Trevino, two of the American entries, finished among the leaders Thursday in the opening day of the $40,000 Mexican Open golf tournament.

Payne shot a three-under-par 68 for second place and Trevino wound up fourth with a 70 over the 7,157-yard course.

Mexico's Victor Regalado claimed the lead with a blazing 65.

Connors In Semis; Ashe Upset

LONDON—Arthur Ashe, the 1974 Wimbledon champion, was upset in the quarterfinals of the Dewar Cup tennis tourney Thursday as Eddie Dibbs posted a 6-4, 6-2 triumph.

Another upset victim was Jan Kodes, who lost to Buster Mottram, 6-0, 6-1, while Jimmy Connors mowed down Bernie Mitton, 6-1, 6-1. Connors met Dibbs in today's semis while Mottram was scheduled to face Ilie Nastase.

Connors, who qualified for the Masters tourney with his victory declined the invitation to play at Stockholm Nov. 30.

"I can give you an answer right now," said Connors. "I can't play. I'm going home."

Connors pulled out of last year's Masters after qualifying. On that occasion he produced a medical certificate saying he was unfit to play, and no action was taken against him.

Okker Upset

HONG KONG — Second-seeded Tom Okker of Holland and John Newcombe, No. 3 seed, were eliminated today by a pair of Americans in the quarterfinals of the $50,000 Citizens Tennis Classic.

Tom Gorman defeated Okker 6-4, 6-4 and Brian Gottfried beat Newcombe, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 to advance into the semifinals.

In other quarterfinals singles matches, Mexico's Raul Ramirez beat Spain's Juan Gisbert 7-5, 6-0, and Alex Mayer defeated Australian Bob Carmichael, 6-4, 8-6.

Panatta Wins

BUENOS AIRES — Adriano Panatta of Italy eliminated Chilean Patricio Cornejo 6-4, 7-6 Thursday and advanced to the quarterfinals of the eighth annual Argentine Tennis Open.

In women's singles, Chris Kemmer qualified for the semifinals, eliminating Michelle Rodriguez of France 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

Argentine Beatriz Araujo downed Chilean Ana Pinto Bravo Thursday, 7-6, 6-4.

In other singles action, Argentine ace Guillermo Vilas beat compatriot Lito Alvarez, 6-4, 7-5; Yugoslavian Zeljko Franulovic defeated Hans Pohman of West Germany, 6-0, 6-7, 6-2, and Jaime Fillol of Chile eliminated Argentine Julian Ganzabal, 6-3, 6-2.

Irvine's Serna Bids for Crown

By ED BURGART
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When Ralph Serna was a freshman at Loara High, he didn't know what cross country was.

Four years later as a freshman at UC Irvine, Serna is one of the favorites to win the individual title in the NCAA, Division II cross country championships Saturday morning at Irvine Coast Country Club.

One of the country's outstanding cross country runners, Serna has already won four invitationals this year, setting a course record at Chapman where he ran five miles in 24:08.5.

Lacking size — Serna stands 5-5, weighs 115 pounds — he nevertheless set many records in cross country and track while at Loara.

"And I didn't know what a cross country team was until I got to Loara," says the soft-spoken Serna.

Serna quickly adapted to cross country, though. Winning one race after another —including the CIF 4-A finals twice — Serna became widely known and his name is currently a topic of conversation.

But acting modestly, Serna prefers to talk about the UC Irvine cross country team instead of himself.

"Coach (Len) Miller had us write up our goals the other day," says Serna, "and my first one was to have our team win the title. Secondly, I would like to win the race."

And Serna has an excellent chance to win. His high school background proves his ability — he has run the mile in 4:07 and the two mile in 8:45.9 — and he has shown steady improvement since arriving at Irvine.

"I am running a lot more hills now than I ever did before," says Serna. "Everything was flat in Anaheim."

It seems as though Serna has improved with each hill. An easy winner in the Biola Invitational two weeks ago, Serna posted a 24:36 over the five-mile course.

He credits Miller for the steady improvement.

"I never did the distances as much as I'm doing now," says Serna. "and Miller is one of the coaches who can motivate you. He is really a hustler.

"His philosophy is like my high school coach's. A lot of coaches will run you till you are dead, but if you don't feel like running, you can tell him. He is easy to talk to and takes an interest in every guy on the team."

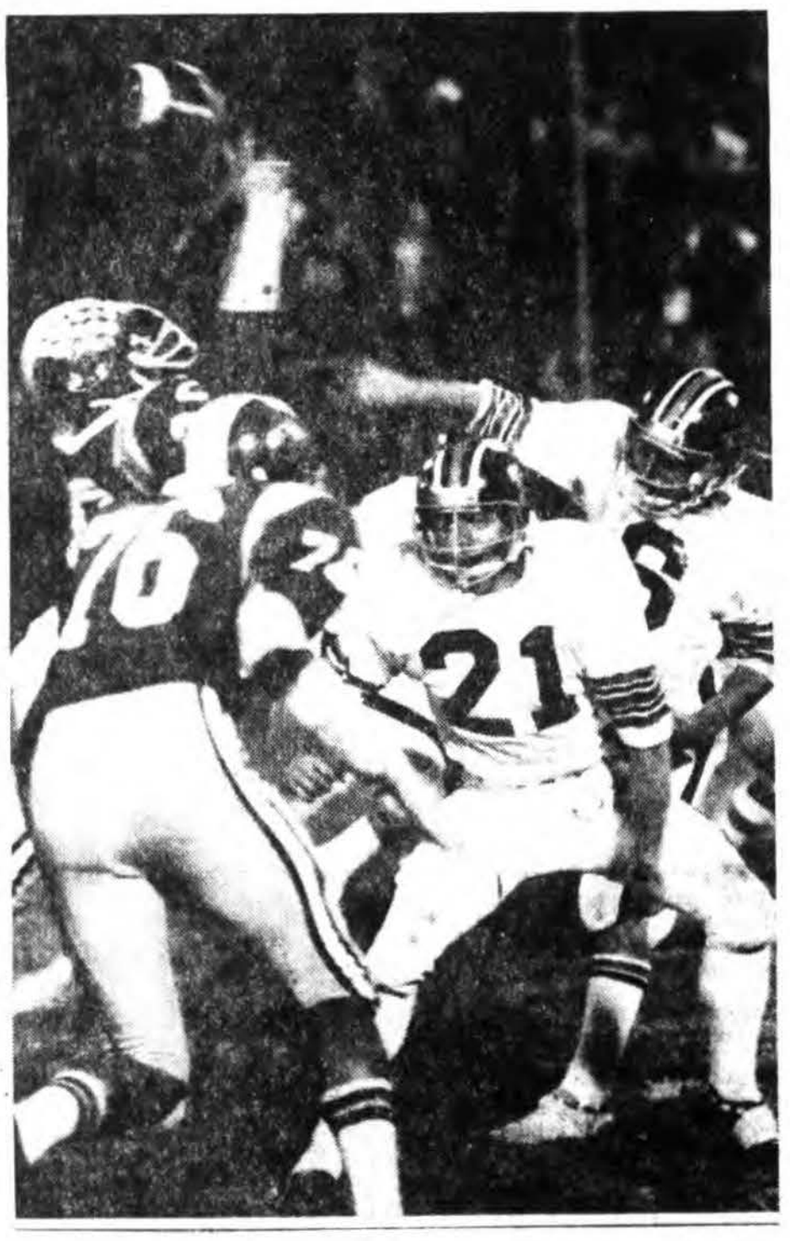
Miller took an interest in Serna not only for his cross country ability but also for his track potential.

"I am really hoping to run a good two mile in track this year," says Serna. "I'm hoping to run somewhere under 8:40."

Serna is also looking forward to the indoor season which is one reason why he chose UC Irvine over the University of Kansas.

"I like running indoors because of the tight turns and because the fans are so close," says the fine arts major. "That's one factor why I came here.

"Another is because Miller's philosophy is the same as my high school coach. Also, I wanted to be running in similar weather and I knew we were going to have a good team."



Michigan Gridders Seek Prep Record

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Coach Tom Saylor insists his Hudson football players "are really hungry" for a victory Saturday over Kalamazoo Hackett in the first high school football playoffs in modern Michigan history.

The first question might be, have the Tigers ever not been hungry for a victory?

They already have equalled the national record of 71 consecutive triumphs. Should they beat tough Hackett in the Class C semifinal they'll own the record alone. Jefferson City, Mo., set the 71-game mark from 1958-66.

"We are really fired," said Saylor, whose teams have compiled an 85-4-1 record in his 10 years as Hudson's head coach. "Our kids want to win it. We want to prove it hasn't been a fluke."

Apparently there are those who believe the top-ranked Tigers haven't had tough enough schedules. Among them are coach Dick Soisson of fifth-ranked Hackett.

"All I've said is that Hudson would never have won 71 in a row if it had played our schedule the last eight years," Soisson said. "I feel it's a great honor, a great challenge, to play Hudson.

"Win or lose we'll be famous. If we lose we'll be like the guy who threw Roger Maris his 61st home run pitch."

Saylor doesn't appreciate any jabs at the Tigers' schedule.

"All I know is that our schedule is as tough for us as Hackett's is for them," he said. "Hackett gets to draw players from all over Kalamazoo, population about 85,500, and we only have a small town about 2,500 to draw from."

Although the Michigan High School Athletic Association briefly prevented Hackett from practicing on artificial turf this week, it changed its decision after learning that Hudson was practicing on it.

UCI, Pirates Row Saturday

Crews from UC Irvine and Orange Coast College will be among 18 varsity eights competing in the Newport Cup Regatta Saturday morning in the West Lido Channel, Newport Beach.

The first of 18 elimination races will begin at 10 and UC Berkeley is favored to win the championship.

Each elimination race will feature two crews competing over the short distance of 500 meters. A crew is eliminated after one loss and the two undefeated eights will vie for the title.

In addition to Berkeley, UC Irvine and Orange Coast, other top schools competing are USC, UCLA and Cal State Long Beach. Also, some top rowing clubs are entered.

End of Road for USC?

Trojans Face Elimination Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pacific-8 football race is at least a week away from being settled, but coach John McKay's Southern California Trojans could be out of it this weekend, win or lose.

Another conference race could be decided Saturday in the regionally televised game between San Diego State and San Jose State, both unbeaten in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. The winner will have a 9-1 overall record for the various bowl game committees to consider.

McKay's chances of taking Southern Cal to the Rose Bowl for a ninth and final time, before he leaves for Tampa and the National Football League, will vanish if Stanford beats lowly Oregon in one of three Pac-8 games on Saturday's schedule.

Or, the Trojans could take themselves out of the race by losing their third straight game. They're on the road to face the dangerous Washington Huskies who upset UCLA two weeks ago and lost a narrow 27-24 decision to Pac-8 leader California last weekend.

Cal's Bears are 5-1, with a nonconference game at Air Force Saturday before their season-ending date with Standford, which takes a 4-1 conference record against Oregon, 1-4, at Stanford Stadium. UCLA, also 4-1, is at home against Oregon State, 1-4.

Washington State will be home, seeking to break its seven-game losing streak by beating Utah. Several other nonconference games are scheduled, with Pacific of the PCAA having the toughest assignment with its Saturday night game at eighth-ranked Arizona State.

"We're in control of the Pac-8 right now," UCLA coach Dick Vermeil said after USC lost to Stanford last week and dropped to 3-2. If the Bruins beat OSU Saturday and the Trojans on Nov. 28, they'll go to the Rose Bowl no matter how Cal and Stanford finish.

"After we beat USC, we were kind of counting on them beating UCLA. But the Trojans have lost two in a row and it's pretty obvious they're human," California coach Mike White said.

The Bears have the nation's leading college football offense, featuring tailback Chuck Muncie and the passing combination of Joe Roth and Steve Rivera. White is hoping that fact and a possible 8-3 final record would attract a bowl invitation from elsewhere if there's no Rose Bowl trip.

Trustees to View Spanking, Smoking

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Trustees of the Saddleback Valley Unified School District will be confronted with two sensitive issues Monday night: spanking and smoking.

It has been proposed by school district officials that corporal punishment of students, although rarely used, should be formally abolished.

At the same time, the governing board is being asked to consider establishing student smoking areas at the Mission Viejo, El Toro, and Silverado high school campuses.

Both issues, subject of considerable community interest, will be aired publicly when the board meets at 8 p.m. in the Los Alisos Intermediate School multipurpose room, 25171 Moor Ave., Mission Viejo.

Supt. Richard Welte, who has been leaning in the direction of abolishing corporal punishment, will make a recommendation on both proposals at Monday night's session.

The spanking issue was brought to public attention earlier this year when a Mission Viejo High School student alleged abuses of the paddle policy on his campus.

Joseph Platow, the district's director of pupil personnel services, has recommended that the Saddleback district follow the lead of the Los Angeles Unified School District in giving up spanking at all grade levels.

He has pointed out that corporal punishment has been abolished by California's penal institutions, the Navy, and juvenile correction centers yet has been allowed to remain in practice by school officials.

In Platow's opinion, inflicting pain as punishment is not an effective means of correcting behavior and, in many cases, produces results opposite those which are intended.

Several district principals, although admitting that corporal punishment is infrequently used, have recently stated their preference for leaving the paddle only as a last resort measure.

The question of whether smoking should be allowed in designated areas of high school campuses has been the subject of a survey involving about 400 parents, teachers, students and school employes.

The results of that survey will be given to the governing board

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A special screening committee has narrowed the field of applicants for Orange County assessor down to six candidates, eliminating acting assessor Elmer Zimmer.

Left in the running for the job vacant since mid-September when former assessor Jack Vallerga was sentenced following his felony conviction are:

—Stanley Krause, director of Orange County's Real Property Services.

—George Cormack, assistant to Krause.

—Gary Cottrell, once an official in the Orange County assessor's office and now Riverside County assistant assessor.

—Bradley Jacobs, an ex-executive with Commercial Products Company.

—Peter Ulrich, a private consultant.

—Ralph King, San Diego County assistant assessor.

It is from these six candidates that the board of supervisors, perhaps as early as next week, will select Vallerga's successor.

Whoever is selected for the post will serve the three years remaining on Vallerga's initial four-year term and have all the rights and prerogatives of an elected official including the right to seek election as an incumbent.

What the six remaining applicants for county assessor survived was a two-day screening of 20 candidates by an 11-member committee appointed by the Board of Supervisors.

Originally, there were 114 ap-

Gregg Allman Asks Divorce From Cher

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Rock star Gregg Allman filed a court petition today asking that his four-month marriage to television entertainer Cher be dissolved.

The petition filed in Bibb Superior Court says the marriage is "irretrievably broken." It says the couple were separated on Nov. 11.

Cher, star of a variety show, and Gregg, singer and songwriter with the Allman Brothers band, were married in Las Vegas on June 30.

The marriage, which came just three days after Cher's divorce from her longtime husband and singing partner Sonny Bono, has been stormy despite its brevity.

Cher, 29, announced nine days after they were married that she was filing for a divorce, saying, "Gregg and I made a mistake." But she withdrew the action on Aug. 1.

A spokesman for Allman, 27, said later that he thought the whole thing had been a misunderstanding.

2 MAC Incumbents to Run Again

Although the filing deadline is more than a month away, two of three members up for re-election on the Mission Viejo Municipal Advisory Council have announced their intentions to run again.

The third, John Noble, said he isn't sure, but "more than likely, I will."

Council members up for re-election March 2, in addition to Noble, are Jeanne Gagnebin, a realtor, and Cal Neve, a deputy sheriff.

Both Neve and Mrs. Gagnebin announced their intentions to seek re-election this week, but in Mrs. Gagnebin's case it almost didn't happen.

"I was not firm in my mind that the Mission Viejo Company was responsible to the needs of the people in the enforcement of C, C and Rs (codes, covenants and restrictions)," she said.

Mrs. Gagnebin added that she considered moving elsewhere if the deed restrictions were not properly being enforced.

"If they were not living up to their program, I wasn't too sure if that's where I wanted to live," she said.

However, the councilwoman said she now is convinced that the development firm is "exceedingly sincere" in enforcing its control standards and that "every measure is being taken" to ensure that Mission Viejo will continue to remain beautiful.

Neve already has reportedly received offers from people willing to work on his campaign and described it as "a good sign."

Councilman Noble said he is still "kicking around" the question of whether he should run in view of the time required to fulfill the obligations of the office.

Those considering a challenge to the incumbents may pick up their nomination papers from the Orange County Registrar of Voters beginning Dec. 5. The deadline for returning papers is Dec. 26.

Laguna Hills School Site Offer Okayed

Aliso Hills Developers have accepted an offer of $1.88 million from the Saddleback Valley Unified School District for a 50.3-acre school site in south Laguna Hills.

The site, at the intersection of Paseo de Valencia and Alicia Parkway, will be used for the construction of the district's fourth high school.

School district officials noted that the accepted offer lies midway between the two appraisal values of 1.91 million and 1.86 million.

Plans are to begin construction on the 2,200-student campus next May.

Capo District

Teacher Pay Probe Will Be Revealed

Reports by fact-finding committees investigating salary disputes between the Capistrano Unified School District trustees and two employe groups will be made public Monday night.

The committees were established in September after district teachers and bus drivers declared "persistent disagreement" in salary negotiations with the school board.

Teachers are holding out for a seven percent salary increase. The board's most recent offer was 3.5 percent.

Bus drivers similarly are seeking seven percent and have been offered 5.5 percent.

The difference in the two offers is due to a reclassification study adopted by the board that boosted the pay of bus drivers and most other non-teaching employes in the district.

The fact-finding committee reports will be outlined at the school board meeting at 7:30 p.m. at San Juan Elementary School, 31642 El Camino Real, San Juan Capistrano.

During separate fact-finding processes, consultants hired by the district and the employe groups investigated the district's $20 million budget, the progress of past negotiations and other factors relating to employer-employe relationships.

Each committee will deliver a "statement of facts" on what its investigation has revealed. School district policy by which the committees were established does not require that the panels

WHAT'S THIS I'M SIGNING?

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — High school history students circulated the Declaration of Independence as a petition and asked 690 persons to sign it.

They reported Thursday that more than 60 percent did not recognize it. Most refused to sign it because they did not want to get involved.

However, 259 did recognize the document and most of them signed it. They included an elderly woman who recited it from start to finish.

Saddleback Social Aids Get Review

A review of social services available to south Orange County residents will be undertaken Wednesday night by the Saddleback Area Coordinating Council.

The council meets at 7:30 p.m. in the community room of People's Federal Savings and Loan, 23688 El Toro Road, El Toro.

Among the services to be spotlighted are mental health, private counseling, alcoholism and learning disabilities.

Also scheduled is a presentation on the new Youth Service Center at Mission Community Hospital which aims to divert minor offenders from the juvenile justice system.

Two-week suspensions against officers Tom Lehman and Andre Hardcastle and Chief John Martinez were announced Thursday. Martinez also was placed on probation for three months with an evaluation every 30 days, said City Manager Joe Rodriguez.

Brainwashed?

Expert Summoned by Hearsts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A British psychologist considered an expert on brainwashing techniques says he is flying here from London today to examine Patricia Hearst at the request of her parents.

Dr. William W. Sargent said in England that he would spend about three days visiting Miss Hearst in her cell at the San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City south of here. Miss Hearst, 21, faces trial on federal bank robbery charges.

Dr. Sargent, 68, is a consulting psychiatrist at St. Thomas' Hospital in London. He has written many books, including "Battle for the Mind."

Miss Hearst's lawyers filed an affidavit in court shortly after the newspaper heiress was arrested Sept. 18 in which she claimed she was tortured and driven to the verge of insanity by Symbionese Liberation Army captors.

Signal Light Due in Viejo

Orange County traffic officials estimate that a signal light will be installed at the intersection of La Paz Road and McIntyre Street in Mission Viejo by early spring.

The light will interrupt traffic flow on La Paz Road, allowing easier access to the Wild West shopping center, the Laguna Hills Hilton Inn and Saddleback Valley Unified School District offices.

County officials are in the process of designing the light system for the busy intersection and are about to select an engineer for the project.

Woman Officer Arrested

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — A woman highway patrol dispatcher, a pistol tucked in the waistband of her trousers, was arrested while trying to rob a bank, police said. She is also suspected of two other bank robberies within eight days.

The president of the Bank of Commerce in suburban Jenks wrestled Jo Ann Alexander, 25, to the floor of the bank Thursday, after she allegedly handed a teller a note demanding money.

Mrs. Alexander, a dispatcher in the patrol's Tulsa District headquarters 18 months and the mother of a 3-year-old boy, became the third patrol employe arrested in two weeks. One trooper was discharged for allegedly operating a prostitution ring and another was apprehended driving a stolen car.

She was arraigned Thursday before U.S. Magistrate Claudine Barnes on a charge of bank robbery in connection with the Jenks holdup. Cash bond was set at $50,000 and a preliminary hearing scheduled for Nov. 20.

An FBI spokesman said federal authorities planned to file two additional bank robbery charges today, accusing Mrs. Alexander of the Nov. 5 holdup of the United Bank of Tulsa and the Nov. 7 robbery of the Citizens Security Bank of Bixby.

"She has been a very good employe as far as dispatching ability," said Lt. Van Hoy, public information officer for the patrol.

Asked whether her arrest was a surprise to patrol officials, he said, "After 10 years on the patrol, nothing comes as a complete surprise. It was unexpected."

Hayden Hyde, president of the Bank of Commerce, said Mrs. Alexander aroused suspicions of bank employes when she visited the bank Thursday morning.

When she returned about noon, the bank official followed her to a teller's post where she allegedly presented a demanding note to a teller.

"I walked up behind her to see what she was doing," he said. "When I saw what was going on, I jumped her."

He said the woman bit and struggled as he wrestled her to the floor, but other employes helped him subdue her.

Ford to Consider Black as VP Pick

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — President Ford indicated today he would consider a black running mate on the 1976 Republican presidential ticket.

"Certainly, Sen. Ed Brooke, by his record, is a person who ought to be considered," Ford said.

Ford made the statement during a questioning session with students at North Carolina Central University.

His reference was to Sen. Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass.), who is black.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller has withdrawn from consideration as Ford's running mate.

Ford praised Brooke, the junior senator from Massachusetts, as a capable public official with qualifying experience as state attorney general and in the Senate.

"I like him personally," Ford said, "and he has an enviable record."

The President had been asked what blacks, if any, he was considering for a running mate.

The brief exchange came in a meeting with about a dozen student leaders.

Reporters were not able to ask the President for elaboration.

However, earlier in his visit to the black college, Ford expressed a general interest in finding better positions for blacks and women.

Asked about a possible black appointment to the Cabinet, Ford mentioned William Coleman, already secretary of Transportation, but added "there are no more anticipated changes in the Cabinet."

Ford began his visit to two Southern states today by receiving an honorary degree from the black college and calling for the day "when all the children of God are brothers and sisters."

Ford was greeted by hundreds of persons and waded into the crowd shaking hands as he arrived on campus to accept an honorary doctor of laws degree at the university's 50th annual convocation.

Later in the day, he planned to fly to Atlanta for a GOP fund-raising dinner.

At Durham, the college choir sang "We Shall Overcome" as about a half-dozen white hecklers from the stands of the gymnasium waved placards protesting the presence of 93 prisoners on North Carolina's death row.

A chant of "93 Lives in Your Hands" was shouted as North Carolina Gov. James Holshouser rose to introduce Ford. Holshouser paused in his introduction and said, "I would never intervene and perhaps damage the rights of those defendants."

At the Raleigh-Durham airport, Ford was greeted by several hundred persons and then was cheered by crowds lining both sides of the street at the university.

House Cites Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Intelligence Committee voted today to cite Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for contempt of Congress for refusing to turn over documents on covert intelligence operations and on Soviet compliance with arms agreements.

The committee approved three contempt citations, two by votes of 10 to 2 and a third by a vote of 10 to 1.

Chairman Otis G. Pike (D-N.Y.), said he will ask the full House to approve the contempt citations next month. If approved, the citations would be turned over to a U.S. attorney for prosecution.

Wiggins On ABA Court List

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bar Association is screening a list of fewer than 12 potential U.S. Supreme Court nominees submitted by the Ford administration, but the President's spokesman indicated today Ford will not be bound by its recommendations.

The bar association expects to report on the qualifications of those on the list early next week. Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi sent the list to the ABA Thursday.

A high-ranking official called it "a very small list" of fewer than a dozen persons under consideration for President Ford's nomination to succeed retired Justice William O. Douglas.

The New York Times today reported that Administration sources said the list submitted to the ABA included, among others, Rep. Robert Griffin (R-Mich); Solicitor General Robert Bork; Rep. Charles E. Wiggins (R-Calif.); Judge Arlin M. Adams of the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia; and four other federal appeals court judges — Paul H. Roney of the 5th Circuit in New Orleans, John Paul Stevens of the 7th Circuit in Chicago, William H. Webster of the 8th Circuit in St. Louis and J. Clifford Wallace of the 9th Circuit in San Francisco.

Some new names surfaced as lawyers and government officials continued to speculate about the possible candidates. Women figuring most prominently in the speculation included Soia Mentschikoff, dean of the University of Miami (Fla.) Law School; Betty Southard Murphy, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board; Carla A. Hills, sectetary of Housing and Urban Development; and U.S. Circuit Court Judge Shirley Hufstedler, of Los Angeles.

Among the men considered leading candidates were Levi, Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman and Assistant Senate Republican Leader Robert Griffin (R-Mich.).

Wiggins of Fullerton, who is reportedly being considered for the appointment, says his voting record — not his defense of former President Nixon — may be his greatest obstacle.

Wiggins was a staunch defender of Nixon during the House impeachment proceedings last year.

Police Worker Arrested

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — A woman highway patrol dispatcher, a pistol tucked in the waistband of her trousers, was arrested while trying to rob a bank, police said. She is also suspected of two other bank robberies within eight days.

The president of the Bank of Commerce in suburban Jenks wrestled Jo Ann Alexander, 25, to the floor of the bank Thursday, after she allegedly handed a teller a note demanding money.

Mrs. Alexander, a dispatcher in the patrol's Tulsa District headquarters 18 months and the mother of a 3-year-old boy, became the third patrol employe arrested in two weeks. One trooper was discharged for allegedly operating a prostitution ring and another was apprehended driving a stolen car.

She was arraigned Thursday before U.S. Magistrate Claudine Barnes on a charge of bank robbery in connection with the Jenks holdup. Cash bond was set at $50,000 and a preliminary hearing scheduled for Nov. 20.

An FBI spokesman said federal authorities planned to file two additional bank robbery charges today, accusing Mrs. Alexander of the Nov. 5 holdup of the United Bank of Tulsa and the Nov. 7 robbery of the Citizens Security Bank of Bixby.

"She has been a very good employe as far as dispatching ability," said Lt. Van Hoy, public information officer for the patrol.

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A special screening committee has narrowed the field of applicants for Orange County assessor down to six candidates, eliminating acting assessor Elmer Zimmer.

Left in the running for the job vacant since mid-September when former assessor Jack Vallerga was sentenced following his felony conviction are:

—Stanley Krause, director of Orange County's Real Property Services.

—George Cormack, assistant to Krause.

—Gary Cottrell, once an official in the Orange County assessor's office and now Riverside County assistant assessor.

—Bradley Jacobs, an ex-executive with Commercial Products Company.

—Peter Ulrich, a private consultant.

—Ralph King, San Diego County assistant assessor.

It is from these six candidates that the board of supervisors, perhaps as early as next week, will select Vallerga's successor.

Whoever is selected for the post will serve the three years remaining on Vallerga's initial four-year term and have all the rights and prerogatives of an elected official including the right to seek election as an incumbent.

What the six remaining applicants for county assessor survived was a two-day screening of 20 candidates by an 11-member committee appointed by the Board of Supervisors.

Originally, there were 114 applicants for the job. But in preliminary eliminations county Administrative Officer Robert Thomas and Personnel Director Bert Scott pared the list to 20.

And it was from those 20 that the committee selected the six applicants who will be considered for the post by the supervisors.

Among the prominent applicants who didn't survive the screening committee cut were Zimmer, San Diego County Assistant Assessor C. J. Templeton and Glenn County Assessor Mike McCullough.

Ventura County Assessor Ed Shiner reportedly withdrew from the running early this week.

The six applicants who are still in the running were graded on a point basis by the blue ribbon selection committee.

It is reported that Krause accumulated the highest number of points and was followed in order by Cottrell, Ulrich, Jacobs, Cormack and King.

Kidnaping Tale Hoax For FBI

The 15-year-old girl originally thought to have been forced by her former boyfriend from Westminster to travel 2,400 miles cross-country went willingly, federal agents confirmed today.

Investigators who questioned the alleged kidnaping victim sought for three days between Fort Lauderdale and Orange County said she was not abducted at all.

Katherine Ball, a student at exclusive Pine Crest School, a private girls' academy, failed a lie detector test administered Tuesday.

"She was deceptive in her answers," said Assistant State Attorney Jeffery Smith, who also announced criminal charges against Thomas J. Gregory, 19, of Westminster, are being dropped.

The FBI entered the case after Miss Ball left a note in the ladies' room of a Waverly, Tenn., service station Nov. 4 claiming she was being kidnaped and forced to go to California.

Authorities mounted a nationwide search for the missing girl and the former boyfriend she met in Saudi Arabia where their parents are oil company employes, leading to apprehension in Kingman, Ariz., eight days ago.

She will be charged with nothing, because she is a juvenile, said Assistant State Attorney Smith.

Ford to Consider Black as VP Pick

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — President Ford indicated today he would consider a black running mate on the 1976 Republican presidential ticket.

"Certainly, Sen. Ed Brooke, by his record, is a person who ought to be considered," Ford said.

Ford made the statement during a questioning session with students at North Carolina Central University.

His reference was to Sen. Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass.), who is black.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller has withdrawn from consideration as Ford's running mate.

Ford praised Brooke, the junior senator from Massachusetts, as a capable public official with qualifying experience as state attorney general and in the Senate.

"I like him personally," Ford said, "and he has an enviable record."

The President had been asked what blacks, if any, he was considering for a running mate.

The brief exchange came in a meeting with about a dozen student leaders.

Reporters were not able to ask the President for elaboration.

However, earlier in his visit to the black college, Ford expressed a general interest in finding better positions for blacks and women.

Mother Nature Was Cheaper In First Place

Faced with a potentially skyrocketing landscape maintenance budget as the number of city parks and median strips increases, Irvine councilmen have set up a test area for native plants that could cut maintenance costs by two thirds.

In the long run, manicured landscapes will cost $600 per acre per month to maintain, while "natural landscape" will cost $200 to $300, according to Public Works Director Brent Muchow.

Trees like sycamore, oak and pine, and a wide range of ground covers could be used instead of other, more exotic trees or grass that is not native to the area.

The native plants, said Muchow, require less watering, less maintenance, and they last longer.

Freeway Builder Faces Safety Rap

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Industrial safety experts are probing a second fatal crane accident in 13 days at the Corona del Mar Freeway construction site in Costa Mesa, where a novice workman was decapitated Thursday.

A spokesman for the California State Division of Industrial Safety said, meanwhile, the general contractor on the job will be issued a citation for the Oct. 31 fatal accident.

"Definitely," declared Gene Cresci, when asked if the Novo-Rados Construction Company of Whittier will be charged with safety violations as a result of the previous incident.

No specific details were available on specific charges to be included in the citation, which could result in revocation of the firm's state contractor's license.

Cresci said they will be announced when the citation is formally issued.

Thursday morning, Michael Clinton Wakefield, 26, of 1303 S. Bristol St., Santa Ana, was killed instantly when his head was crushed between a 10-ton counterweight that swung against the side of a crane it helped support.

Police Officer George Yezbick said crane operator Tony Cordasco, of Upland, had already shouted warnings to the apprentice oiler three times in about one hour to be more careful.

Suddenly, while swinging the 80-ton crane's boom carrying an empty cement container, Cordasco said, he felt it lurch to a stop as though something was jamming the apparatus.

"He stated he looked out to see what was wrong and saw the victim's skull and hair between the bottom of the counterweight and the front disc of the crane," said Officer Yezbick.

Police, Brothers Brawl

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What began as a routine traffic arrest degenerated into a brawl early today when two Newport Beach police officers and two Costa Mesa brothers battled it out in the arrestees' home.

The brothers, police said, lost.

Donald John Jacobi, 23, and his brother, Fred, 21, both of 476 Walnut Ave., were arrested at 1 a.m. after two separate alleged battles with police at the family home.

Patrolman Steve Vance was the first to mix it up with the brothers, he alleged today, and at one point said he was choked unconscious.

Vance said that the series of incidents began when he noticed a pickup truck speeding and skidding in the Newport Heights area and traced the truck to the Jacoby residence.

Vance said that moments after contacting the father of the house, he noticed one of the brothers in a driveway.

His attempts at an arrest, he said, were greeted with oaths and threats. Seconds later both men were on the ground. Vance managed a squirt of chemical Mace, but said it did little good.

Vance said that the other brother then appeared and choked the officer while demanding that the sibling be let free.

The officer lost consciousness, then came to as both brothers assertedly ran into the home.

'Fundamental' School Eyed In Irvine Poll

The Irvine school district plans to survey parents on whether they want a "fundamental" school in the district.

The district also plans to set up a committee studying the traditional three-Rs approach to education.

The survey asks whether the recipient is interested in serving on the committee, is interested in the idea, or would like to receive a copy of the committee's report.

Whether the district should establish a "fundamental" alternative school has been an issue for more than a year. The school board has promised to "respond to expressed community interests for a fundamental education program."

Wiggins On ABA Court List

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bar Association is screening a list of fewer than 12 potential U.S. Supreme Court nominees submitted by the Ford administration, but the President's spokesman indicated today Ford will not be bound by its recommendations.

The bar association expects to report on the qualifications of those on the list early next week, Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi sent the list to the ABA Thursday.

The New York Times today reported that Administration sources said the list submitted to the ABA included, among others, Rep. Robert Griffin (R-Mich); Solicitor General Robert Bork; Rep. Charles E. Wiggins (R-Calif.); Judge Arlin M. Adams of the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia; and four other federal appeals court judges — Paul H. Some new names surfaced as lawyers and government officials continued to speculate about the possible candidates. Women figuring most prominently in the speculation included Soia Mentschikoff, dean of the University of Miami (Fla.) job six months, dead at the scene.

Harold G. Morris, 28, of 5306 Franklin Circle, Westminster, was killed instantly Oct. 31 across the freeway route from Thursday's fatal accident scene and three co-workers were seriously injured.

Morris was being carried inside a huge steel reinforcing rod assembly for a freeway support pillar when it slipped from a crane and plunged to earth, collapsing on impact.

He was crushed inside it, while has co-workers now hospitalized in Newport Beach, Wilmington and Corona were apparently hit by flying debris.

The accident site is at what will be the interchange of the Newport and Corona del Mar freeways, near Baker and Bristol streets in northest Costa Mesa.

State Division of Industrial Safety spokesmen in San Francisco also clarified today exactly which firm is involved as general contractor on the job which also involves sub-contractors.

The Novo-Rados Construction Company, a major freeway and highway building firm, is in charge, but some of its equipment carries signs identifying it as another defunct company.

Novo-Rados has leased or rented cranes and other heavy equipment from the Polich-Benedict Construction Company which was based in the San Gabriel Valley.

The California Contractors' License Board, a division of the State Department of Consumer Affairs, revoked that firm's license last July 1, for its history of negligence resulting in workers' deaths and injuries.

The firm was the general contractor on the job in 1973 when the towering Arroyo Seco overpass of the Foothill Freeway near Pasadena collapsed, killing several men and injuring many more.

Irvine Father Suing Over School Mishap

An Irvine father who claims his 10-year-old son became permanently disabled after he was catapulted from a springboard used at El Camino Real Elementary School sued the Irvine Unified School District and the city Thursday for damages that will be assessed in trial court.

Daryle D. Bailey, 15361 Normandie Ave., also names Columbia Cascade Timber Corp., William Wakefield Associates and American Spring and Wire Specialty Company in the Orange County Superior Court action filed for his son, Christopher Duane, 10.

He claims that negligence in the construction and installation of the springboard led to the accident last Feb. 18 when his son was hurled from the apparatus installed in the Presley Park playground, 4782 Karen Ann Lane.

There it was, stuck atop a mailbox at the Park Lido medical building, arousing the suspicion of passersby this morning.

Gingerly, they removed it.

And soon they identified it.

It was a urine sample.

Retired Cop Held In Pussycat Fight

A 19-year-old Newport Beach resident filed charges of battery against a retired Los Angeles policeman Thursday after a fist fight that followed an argument in the balcony of the Balboa Pussycat Theater.

Newport Beach police said they were summoned by a battered George Nash, 1810 King's Road, who alleged that he was beaten up before midnight.

Officers booked Charles Vance McCarty, 48, of San Pedro, who is a retired Los Angeles police officer.

Nash alleged in a report to officers that as he passed McCarty on the way to the lobby, the retired officer said, "There goes the third pervert."

Some arguing allegedly ensued, then a fight. McCarty, police said, left for a nearby restaurant where he was contacted by officers.

Officers said they interceded, acting on Nash's citizen's arrest. The charge, police said, carried a bail of $150, which was posted by the arrestee later.

Nash, police said, was not seriously hurt in the alleged altercation.

Wife's Truck Shot By Irate Husband

Norman M. Sinclair of Norwalk remained in Costa Mesa City Jail today following his 3 a.m. arrest on charges of shooting his wife's pickup truck. She was not in it.

Sinclair, 29, allegedly told police he was angry because Mrs. Margaret Sinclar, 26, staying at 1337 Conway Ave., refused to let him borrow the truck.

He assertedly stalked out, took careful aim and fired a .45 caliber automatic pistol into its right front fender, whereupon Mrs. Sinclair's horrified hostess who heard the shot called police.

Patrol Sgt. Dick DeFrancisco took Sinclair, an aviation mechanic, into custody without incident and he was booked on charges of brandishing a firearm and discharging a firearm inside city limits.

Investigators said Sinclair was calmly carrying the gun when he approached Sgt. DeFrancisco's patrol car to see what he wanted.

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Rock star Gregg Allman filed a court petition today asking that his four-month marriage to television entertainer Cher be dissolved.

The petition filed in Bibb Superior Court says the marriage is "irretrievably broken." It says the couple were separated on Nov. 11.

Cher, star of a variety show, and Gregg, singer and songwriter with the Allman Brothers band, were married in Las Vegas on June 30.

The marriage, which came just three days after Cher's divorce from her longtime husband and singing partner Sonny Bono, has been stormy despite its brevity.

Cher, 29, announced nine days after they were married that she was filing for a divorce, saying, "Gregg and I made a mistake."

Job Unsafe, County Employe Charges

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An electrician with the Orange County Sanitation District has charged the district with unsafe and hazardous working conditions in plants at Fountain Valley and Huntington Beach.

Dick Moulders, who has been employed with the district for 14 months, says he submitted a list that alleged 26 infractions to the State Division of Industrial Safety office in Santa Ana Thursday.

Moulders says he nearly slipped into a sewage line this past week and could have been swept out to sea when a hole cover gave away.

He said he managed to grab hold of the side but suffered a twisted knee and bruised muscles and missed a day's work because of the injuries.

Other alleged conditions that Moulders said he presented to the Industrial Safety panel were claims of poor working conditions, injuries suffered by employes, waste dripping on employes and high-voltage lines lying in water and serving as potential electrocution hazards.

Fred Harper, general manager of the sanitation district, said today that if there are problems, they'll be investigated.

"We have a fantastic safety record," Harper said. "I'd stack our record against any other operation of a comparable size," he added.

"We have lots of machinery, mammoth tanks and large digesters. We haven't lost anybody in 20 years," he said.

Moulders said a representative of the Industrial Safety panel told him the agency would look into the charges at the plants early next week.

Moulders said that he has brought his concerns to the attention of superiors, "but they wouldn't do anything about them. They think I'm a rabble rouser," he said.

Moulders was recently transferred from Plant Number 1 at 10844 Ellis Ave. in Fountain Valley to Plant Number 2 at 22212 Brookhurst Ave. in Huntington Beach.

It was at Huntington Beach, he said, where he had his brush with the sewer line.

Moulders is a resident of Orange.

Pair Rob Fountain Valley Savings

Bewigged Bandits Hunted

A pair of gunmen — one wearing a long, black, curly wig and waving a long-barreled handgun — looted a Fountain Valley savings and loan branch of hundred-dollar bills before noon today, then fled.

Fountain Valley police declined to discuss the case, but it was learned that the apparent holdup pair strode into Fullerton Savings and Loan at Brookhurst Street and Talbert Avenue before noon and demanded cash.

An undetermined amount of C-notes went out with the pair, apparently in a leather satchel.

Witness accounts of the morning bandits indicated that one man, the bewigged gunman, may have been of Latin descent. He had a ruddy complexion and was between 35 and 40 years old. His weight was about 160 pounds and he wore the wig, sunglasses, a blue jacket and denim pants.

The second description was that of a male Caucasian about 23 or 24 years old, standing five-feet, eleven-inches tall and weighing about 160 pounds,.

He wore long, brown hair and also was dressed in all-blue denim clothing.

He was seen carrying the satchel, witnesses said.

Neither Fountain Valley police, nor FBI agents would discuss the details of the 10:30 a.m. holdup. Apparently, no shots were fired and no injuries resulted in the robbery.

Field of 6 Up For Assessor

TOP CANDIDATE?
Property Chief Krause

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A special screening committee has narrowed the field of applicants for Orange County assessor down to six candidates, eliminating acting assessor Elmer Zimmer.

Left in the running for the job vacant since mid-September when former assessor Jack Vallerga was sentenced following his felony conviction are:

—Stanley Krause, director of Orange County's Real Property Services.

—George Cormack, assistant to Krause.

—Gary Cottrell, once an official in the Orange County assessor's office and now Riverside County assistant assessor.

—Bradley Jacobs, an ex-executive with Commercial Products Company.

—Peter Ulrich, a private consultant.

—Ralph King, San Diego County assistant assessor.

It is from these six candidates that the board of supervisors, perhaps as early as next week, will select Vallerga's successor.

Whoever is selected for the post will serve the three years remaining on Vallerga's initial four-year term and have all the rights and prerogatives of an elected official including the right to seek election as an incumbent.

What the six remaining applicants for county assessor survived was a two-day screening of 20 candidates by an 11-member committee appointed by the Board of Supervisors.

Originally, there were 114 applicants for the job. But in preliminary eliminations county Administrative Officer Robert Thomas and Personnel Director Bert Scott pared the list to 20.

And it was from those 20 that the committee selected the six applicants who will be considered for the post by the supervisors.

Among the prominent applicants who didn't survive the screening committee cut were Zimmer, San Diego County Assistant Assessor C. J. Templeton and Glenn County Assessor Mike

Car Mystery Deepens in Huntington

The whereabouts of a car that was impounded by police and later vanished from a Huntington Beach storage lot remained unknown today.

The vehicle, belonging to Mrs. Alice Loftis, was either accidentally crushed or was stolen by thieves who would have had to tow it away.

Police said there was nothing new to report on it today.

Mrs. Loftis said she is involved in negotiations with an insurance company for the towing and storage firm.

She says she's been offered $300 for the loss but she wants about twice that much.

The 1965 station wagon was impounded Sept. 23 when it hadn't been moved for several days and was declared an abandoned vehicle.

Judge Nixes Participation In Trial

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Los Angeles judge decided not to preside over a case involving an alleged underworld figure because the judge reportedly said he was introduced to the man by Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, the Sacramento Bee reports.

The newspaper Thursday quoted sources who were at a meeting in Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Benjamin Landis' chambers on Oct. 20. At the meeting were attorneys in the case of a lawsuit filed by Moe Morton against Hollywood Park race track.

Landis told attorneys for Morton and the race track that Younger, then Los Angeles County district attorney, introduced him to Morton in 1970 at an Acapulco hotel, the newspaper said.

HB Bond Sales Set For School Gear

Officials of Huntington Beach's Ocean View School District plan to sell $425,000 worth of bonds to purchase classroom equipment and pay for some school renovation during the next year.

Dr. James Jones, assistant superintendent for business services, said today the bond sale itself probably won't take place until mid-December, although trustees approved the plans two weeks ago.

The funds will finance about $138,000 worth of building improvements, including folding doors and soundproofing at some schools and the purchase of food service equipment.

The rest of the money will be spent generally for library reference materials, audio-visual equipment and physical education and music programs, Jones noted.

The $425,000 is part of a $7.2 million bond package approved by Ocean View voters in 1969, Jones noted.

The district is still holding $4.8 million worth of those bonds, Jones said.

In addition to the $425,000 in equipment purchase and renovation, he noted, district trustees plan to spend much of the rest to improve facilities for seventh and eighth graders.

Eleven of the district's 24 schools currently are designed only for kindergarten through sixth grades, and a study is being completed this year to add the final two grades to some of those facilities.

Jones said trustees also may want to retain part of the bonds in the event an additional elementary school is needed as vacant

Hatless Cops Suspended

PARLIER (AP) — Failure to wear hats on duty has resulted in suspension of two policemen here and their chief who failed to make them obey the hat rule.

Two-week suspensions against officers Tom Lehman and Andre Hardcastle and Chief John Martinez were announced Thursday. Martinez also was placed on probation for three months with an evaluation every 30 days, said City Manager Joe Rodriguez.

Report Cards Due In HB District

Parents in the Huntington Beach Union High School District should be receiving their children's first quarter report cards next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

District officials said today teachers will be turning in their grade reports today, the district's data processing department will compile them over the weekend and cards should be placed in the mail by Tuesday.

Funeral Set For Youth In Drowning

Funeral services were conducted this morning for Mark Anthony Antonelli, the 18-year-old Huntington Beach resident who drowned in a hunting accident earlier this week near the Santa Ana River.

The rites were held at Sts. Simon and Jude Catholic Church in Huntington Beach under direction of the Neptune Society.

The resident of 10202 Constitution Lane drowned in a small, water-filled quarry as he waded out Monday evening to retrieve a coot he had just shot.

Mr. Antonelli leaves his father, Anthony, of the family home on Constitution Lane; his mother, Mrs. George Allen of La Palma; brothers Matthew and John; a sister, Kathryn, and grandparents Mr. and Mrs. August Antonelli of New York.

Following this morning's Roman Catholic rites, Mr. Antonelli's remains were scattered at sea.

Kidnap Hoax

Girl Wasn't Abducted

The 15-year-old girl originally thought to have been forced by her former boyfriend from Westminster to travel 2,400 miles cross-country went willingly, federal agents confirmed today.

Investigators who questioned the alleged kidnaping victim sought for three days between Fort Lauderdale and Orange County said she was not abducted at all.

Katherine Ball, a student at exclusive Pine Crest School, a private girls' academy, failed a lie detector test administered Tuesday.

"She was deceptive in her answers," said Assistant State Attorney Jeffery Smith, who also announced criminal charges against Thomas J. Gregory, 19, of Westminster, are being dropped.

The FBI entered the case after Miss Ball left a note in the ladies' room of a Waverly, Tenn., service station Nov. 4 claiming she was being kidnaped and forced to go to California.

Authorities mounted a nationwide search for the missing girl and the former boyfriend she met in Saudi Arabia where their parents are oil company employes, leading to apprehension in Kingman, Ariz., eight days ago.

Gregory, who had been staying in Fort Lauderdale and allegedly threatened to kill himself if she wouldn't see him again, was charged with false imprisonment.

He was flown back to Florida with bail set at $50,000, then freed when authorities determined Miss Ball apparently went with him willingly and made up the kidnap tale.

She will be charged with nothing, because she is a juvenile, said Assistant State Attorney Smith.

Gregg Allman Asks Divorce From Cher

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Rock star Gregg Allman filed a court petition today asking that his four-month marriage to television entertainer Cher be dissolved.

The petition filed in Bibb Superior Court says the marriage is "irretrievably broken." It says the couple were separated on Nov. 11.

Cher, star of a variety show, and Gregg, singer and songwriter with the Allman Brothers band, were married in Las Vegas on June 30.

The marriage, which came just three days after Cher's divorce from her longtime husband and singing partner Sonny Bono, has been stormy despite its brevity.

Cher, 29, announced nine days after they were married that she was filing for a divorce, saying, "Gregg and I made a mistake."

Police Worker Arrested

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — A woman highway patrol dispatcher, a pistol tucked in the waistband of her trousers, was arrested while trying to rob a bank, police said. She is also suspected of two other bank robberies within eight days.

The president of the Bank of Commerce in suburban Jenks wrestled Jo Ann Alexander, 25, to the floor of the bank Thursday, after she allegedly handed a teller a note demanding money.

Mrs. Alexander, a dispatcher in the patrol's Tulsa District headquarters 18 months and the mother of a 3-year-old boy, became the third patrol employe arrested in two weeks. One trooper was discharged for allegedly operating a prostitution ring and another was apprehended driving a stolen car.

She was arraigned Thursday before U.S. Magistrate Claudine Barnes on a charge of bank robbery in connection with the Jenks holdup. Cash bond was set at $50,000 and a preliminary hearing scheduled for Nov. 20.

An FBI spokesman said federal authorities planned to file two additional bank robbery charges today, accusing Mrs. Alexander of the Nov. 5 holdup of the United Bank of Tulsa and the Nov. 7 robbery of the Citizens Security Bank of Bixby.

"She has been a very good employe as far as dispatching ability," said Lt. Van Hoy, public information officer for the patrol.

Asked whether her arrest was a surprise to patrol officials, he said, "After 10 years on the patrol, nothing comes as a complete surprise. It was unexpected."

Hayden Hyde, president of the Bank of Commerce, said Mrs. Alexander aroused suspicions of bank employes when she visited the bank Thursday morning.

When she returned about noon, the bank official followed her to a teller's post where she allegedly presented a demanding note to a teller.

"I walked up behind her to see what she was doing," he said. "When I saw what was going on, I jumped her."

He said the woman bit and struggled as he wrestled her to the floor, but other employes helped him subdue her.

The next round, police said, took place in a bedroom. The ranks by then were two to two and Vance and Patrolman Michael Deladuranty arrested the pair after another match.

Donald was treated for minor hurts at Orange County Medical Center before being booked on a charges of battery on a police officer. His bail was set at $2,500.

His brother's bail, police said, was $1,000. He did not require medical treatment.

As for the officers, the only injuries were minor cuts, scrapes and bruises.

NEXT JUSTICE?
Rep. Charles Wiggins

Wiggins Mentioned For Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bar Association is screening a list of fewer than 12 potential U.S. Supreme Court nominees submitted by the Ford administration, but the President's spokesman indicated today Ford will not be bound by its recommendations.

The bar association expects to report on the qualifications of those on the list early next week, Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi sent the list to the ABA Thursday.

A high-ranking official called it "a very small list" of fewer than a dozen persons under consideration for President Ford's nomination to succeed retired Justice William O. Douglas.

The New York Times today reported that Administration sources said the list submitted to the ABA included, among others, Rep. Robert Griffin (R-Mich); Solicitor General Robert Bork; Rep. Charles E. Wiggins (R-Calif.); Judge Arlin M. Adams of the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia; and four other federal appeals court judges — Paul H. Roney of the 5th Circuit in New Orleans, John Paul Stevens of the 7th Circuit in Chicago, William H. Webster of the 8th Circuit in St. Louis and J. Clifford Wallace of the 9th Circuit in San Francisco.

Some new names surfaced as lawyers and government officials continued to speculate about the possible candidates. Women figuring most prominently in the speculation included Soia Mentschikoff, dean of the University of Miami (Fla.) Law School; Betty Southard Murphy, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board; Carla A. Hills, sectetary of Housing and Urban Development; and U.S. Circuit Court Judge Shirley Hufstedler, of Los Angeles.

Among the men considered leading candidates were Levi, Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman and Assistant Senate Republican Leader Robert Griffin (R-Mich.).

Wiggins of Fullerton, who is reportedly being considered for the appointment, says his voting record — not his defense of former President Nixon — may be his greatest obstacle.

Wiggins was a staunch defender of Nixon during the House impeachment proceedings last year.

"I think the people who know me here on the Hill really know that that was not an exercise in politics on my part as much as conviction," he said.

The congressman is a senior member of the House Judiciary Committee and regarded as an excellent constitutional lawyer.

Wiggins told the Los Angeles Times in Washington that he would be "utterly thrilled, obviously" to be considered.

"I don't see any sense in being coy about that," he said. "I feel myself to be primarily a lawyer rather than a legislator or a politician."

Chamber President Selected

Lee Schatz, assistant vice president and manager of Barclay's Bank, has been elected president of the Fountain Valley Chamber of Commerce.

He replaces Fred Roberson, assistant vice president and branch manager of Union Federal Savings and Loan Association, who served the past two years.

The formal installation ceremony will take place at a Dec. 5 dinner and dance at South Coast Plaza Hotel in Costa Mesa.

Schatz, who served this year as first vice president in charge of internal affairs, has been a chamber member for two years.

He also has served as chairman of the industrial committee and on the membership committee, according to Chamber Manager Joan Warner.

Schatz and his wife, Sandy, live in Garden Grove with their children, Danielle, 13, and Kimberly, 9.

Other officers, chosen by the chamber board of directors last week, include: Mike Schute, of Thompson, Schute and Associates, first vice president; Bill DeFraga of Valley Printing, second vice president; Oscar Hook, Industrial Associates, third vice president, and Don Evans, Crocker Bank, treasurer.

Directors, elected by the general membership last month include:

Dick Gordon, Pinky's Locksmith; Jim Jenkins, Classic Carpets; John Kelly, C. P. Badger and Company; Darol Paulsen, M. H. Deckard and Co., and Roberson, all for three-year terms.

Other directors and their terms ar Merritt Ellis, CPA, and Walt Hammond, Red Carpet Realty, two-year terms, and Vonna Butler, Jason Best Employment Agency, and Jim Kuhlman, Mile Square Florist, each one-year terms.

Returning directors are Bob Grebel, Fountain Valley Stationers and Gifts, and Jim Kennedy, Southern California Edison Company.

And soon they identified it.

It was a urine sample.

Brainwashed?

Expert Summoned by Hearsts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A British psychologist considered an expert on brainwashing techniques says he is flying here from London today to examine Patricia Hearst at the request of her parents.

Dr. William W. Sargent said in England that he would spend about three days visiting Miss Hearst in her cell at the San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City south of here. Miss Hearst, 21, faces trial on federal bank robbery charges.

Dr. Sargent, 68, is a consulting psychiatrist at St. Thomas' Hospital in London. He has written many books, including "Battle for the Mind."

Miss Hearst's lawyers filed an affidavit in court shortly after the newspaper heiress was arrested Sept. 18 in which she claimed she was tortured and driven to the verge of insanity by Symbionese Liberation Army captors.

RUNNING MATE?
Sen. Edward Brooke

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — President Ford indicated today he would consider a black running mate on the 1976 Republican presidential ticket.

"Certainly, Sen. Ed Brooke, by his record, is a person who ought to be considered," Ford said.

Ford made the statement during a questioning session with students at North Carolina Central University.

His reference was to Sen. Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass.), who is black.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller has withdrawn from consideration as Ford's running mate.

Ford praised Brooke, the junior senator from Massachusetts, as a capable public official with qualifying experience as state attorney general and in the Senate.

"I like him personally," Ford said, "and he has an enviable record."

The President had been asked what blacks, if any, he was considering for a running mate.

The brief exchange came in a meeting with about a dozen student leaders.

Reporters were not able to ask the President for elaboration.

However, earlier in his visit to the black college, Ford expressed a general interest in finding better positions for blacks and women.

Asked about a possible black appointment to the Cabinet, Ford mentioned William Coleman, already secretary of Transportation, but added "there are no more anticipated changes in the Cabinet."

Ford began his visit to two Southern states today by receiving an honorary degree from the black college and calling for the day "when all the children of God are brothers and sisters."

Ford was greeted by hundreds of persons and waded into the crowd shaking hands as he arrived on campus to accept an honorary doctor of laws degree at the university's 50th annual convocation.

Zaire Kidnap Victims Owe Ransom?

By HILARY KAYE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Stanford University student newspaper reported Thursday that parents of the four students kidnaped in Africa last May may be forced to pay back most of the $400,000 to $500,000 ransom money used to free the students.

However, today in Garden Grove, the mother of one of the freed students called the report "just speculation."

"We haven't been contacted by any school officials to pay back money, so I don't think the writer of that story knew what he was talking about," said Mittie Smith, mother of Stephen Smith, 22.

In the event the report turns out to be true, Mrs. Smith said her family is in big trouble.

"We don't have any money. We certainly couldn't pay back our share of the loan," said Mrs. Smith. Each student would be responsible for a little more than $100,000.

Mrs. Smith said that her husband, Joseph, is employed as a longshoreman. She previously worked as a cook in a convalescent hospital, but is no longer employed.

Stephen Smith and three other students from the Palo Alto campus were whisked away from the Gombe Stream Research Center in Tanzania while they were studying chimpanzees.

Their captors, Zaire guerrillas, kept the graduate students for nine weeks before their release were negotiated.

According to the article in the Stanford Daily, the loan for the ransom money must be paid back by Jan. 1 of next year. However, the article did not say who loaned the ransom money, nor would university officials comment on the terms of the secret agreement.

Mrs. Smith also said she did not know who had loaned the money for the students' ransom.

However, she said it was clear at the time that no pay-back was expected from the parents.

The article also said that a private fund-raising campaign to collect money to pay back the loan was mostly unsuccessful.

It said only $80,000 had been collected and blamed the small amount on the fact that the university refused to help out in the fund-raising efforts.

Mrs. Smith said she also doubted the validity of the article because she has not yet heard from Stephen, who is currently a teaching assistant at the Stanford Primate Center.

"Stephen would have telephoned to tell us the news if they really expected us to pay," she said.

Mrs. Smith, who says Stephen "loves his current work" at Stanford, said her son is just about back to nrmal after the ordeal.

"At first he was pretty nervous all the time, but he's getting back to the way he was before," she said.

Pear Peril

DEAR PAT: My son gave me some beautiful pears to can and I bought new jars with lids and rings complete. After canning the pears, I read that some of these lids were not sealing properly. I was particular about getting all air out of the jars before sealing and processing in the hot water bath. But now I see bubbles of air coming from the bottom of the jar. Is this a sign that the fruit is spoiling?

G.J., Newport Beach

You have been advised to contact the home adviser's office of the Agricultural Extension Service. Exact processing information will be required before it can be determined if your canned pears are safe to eat. Other readers having questions about home-canned foods may contact this office by phoning 774-7050, or writing to 1000 S. Harbor, Anaheim, CA 92805.

'Casual Labor'

DEAR PAT: My husband and I have started a new small business. What is the tax rule for what is called "casual labor," meaning workers who come in for a few hours occasionally and do not have anything withheld from their wages? Some say that if they earn $600 a year, you deduct. Others say deductions are necessary if they earn $50 in 24 days. We've tried for days to get through to a state office that could answer, but we always get put on hold until we finally hang up.

J.R., Newport Beach

If an employe is paid $100 in wages during any calendar quarter, his wages are subject to deductions. There are exceptions, however. You can outline your employes' duties and receive specific information from the California Employment Tax Office, 28 Civic Center Plaza, Room 755, Santa Ana, CA 92701. If you care to try another phone inquiry, contact the auditing section by calling 558-4216.

Phone Survey

DEAR PAT: I called the long distance information operator in New Jersey today and was asked for my area code and the first three digits of my phone number. Why was this information requested? Is "Ma Bell" about to start charging for information calls?

K.B., San Clemente

This information request was a local survey probably undertaken to determine the volume of long distance information calls made to the particular office you contacted, according to a Pacific Telephone Co. spokesman, who added that information call charges are not anticipated for at least two years.

Former OSS agent Tom Moon sat in a Saddleback Valley office recently, thumbing through a catalogue of "toys."

The OSS was the Office of Strategic Services (the World War II precursor to the CIA) and the "toys" were nothing for children.

"Here's the exploding coal we used," Moon said. "It was made to various specifications, so that it could be mixed in with coal anywhere in the world and not be spotted.

"These tiny gelatin capsules were botulism toxin. They were made small so that Chinese prostitutes could wet them and stick them behind their ears until they had a chance to drop one in a Japanese officer's drink. Those girls could dish out lethal doses even in the nude.

Moon was 19 years old when he was dropped 120 miles behind Japanese lines in Burma, where he and "four or five" other Americans led more than a thousand guerrillas in sabotage against the Japanese. All OSS operations in the area were under the direction of Col. Carl Eifler, the subject of a book by Moon called "The Deadliest Colonel."

Eifler, who weighed more than 250 pounds and kept a pet bear as a wrestling companion, is portrayed in Moon's book as a tough-minded American patriot who would stop at nothing to carry out an assignment.

His assignments, according to Moon, included the assassination of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, the kidnaping of Germany's top atomic scientist and the infiltration of Japanese-occupied Korea to foment revolution.

Chiang's assassination was postponed and then dropped. The Manhattan project gave the U.S. the atomic bomb without the kidnaping of the German scientist. Japan surrendered before Korea had time to organize for revolution. But the groundwork for each of these secret operations had been laid by Carl Eifler.

Newport Beach and San Clemente were "invaded" by Korean nationals working for Eifler, according to Moon's book. They were practicing for their infiltration of Japanese-held Korea. The FBI and other policing authorities were not alerted to these practices, yet the Koreans successfully "infiltrated" as far inland as Anaheim and Santa Ana without detection.

"Things haven't changed much," Moon commented. "The CIA is fighting a cold war. The OSS was fighting a hot war. That's the only difference."

At a recent reunion of OSS agents, 20 of the 70 attending, said Moon, were working for the CIA.

"The congressional investigations of the CIA have been very damaging," said Moon, who lives in Orange and works as an insurance broker. "Foreign informants are worried now that their cover will be blown.

"Certainly, there have been excesses," Moon acknowledged. "The problem is not with the agency, however, but with the individual agent. These men are trained to commit acts of sabotage, including murder. They make judgments in the field as to how best to apply their training. Sometimes they make mistakes."

Moon will discuss his war experiences and his book Saturday at a Saddleback Friends of the Mission Viejo Library meeting. His talk will begin at 2 p.m. at the library, 24851 Chrisanta.

Two Brothers Hang Selves

ALEXANDRIA, Minn. (AP) — Two young brothers committed suicide just one day apart, both by hanging themselves with belts, authorities say.

Michael Yager, 13, was found Thursday hanging by a belt in the basement of his rural Alexandria home, said Douglas County Coroner C.E. Carlson, who ruled the death a suicide.

John Yager, 16, was found hanging by his own belt at a juvenile detention center at Moorhead, Minn., Wednesday night, Clay County officials said. The youth had been confined at the center since Nov. 7 on an order by the Douglas County Juvenile Court, pending a hearing.

'Smarter' Burglar Lost Out

A man who admitted committing between 800 and 1,000 burglaries in Orange County during the past five years because he "tried to be smarter than the police" drew a one-year jail term and 10 years probation Thursday in Orange County Superior Court.

Judge Kenneth Williams rejected a probation department recommendation that cabinet maker Philip Emerson Hathaway, 37, of Tustin, be sent to state prison for not less than five years.

The jurist ordered the lesser commitment after accepting Hathaway's plea of guilty to two burglary counts. He further ordered that the confessed burglar be allowed to serve his one-year spell in Costa Mesa city jail.

Court officers explained that the jail location decision stemmed from Hathaway's cooperation with Tustin police since his arrest in that city early this year. Officers said 600 unsolved burglaries were cleared as a result of the woodworker's cooperation.

"The boys in the big jail don't call it cooperation," a jail deputy commented as Hathaway was led away. "They have their own way of rewarding such as Hathaway."

Hathaway, employed by Harden Enterprises, 815 W. 18th St., Costa Mesa, for eight years from 1966 to 1974, was described Thursday by Judge Williams as a man with "special talents."

Judge Williams was told that Hathaway did not commit his 800 to 1,000 burglaries from economic need and that his arrest in Tustin "lifted a burden from his shoulders."

Wife Slayer Gets Death

SUSANVILLE (AP) — Frank Cruz, 45, listened impassively, his head bowed and his hands in his lap, when he was sentenced to death for the murders of his 75-year-old wife and two teen-age step-grandchildren.

Lassen County Superior Court Judge Arthur Peterson announced the sentence Thursday and rejected defense motions for a new trial and reduction of the penalty.

Noise Pact Weighed by Supervisors

Orange County Supervisors will be asked Tuesday to select a consultant to update the noise contours around El Toro Marine Corps Air Station.

The board ordered the County Environmental Management Agency last summer to begin screening companies to perform the task.

Supervisors will be handed a list of three companies Osborne said are all able to "competently complete the required work."

They include:

— Bolt, Beranek and Newman, Inc., charging a fee of from $14,000 to $18,600.

— Olson Laboratories, Inc., with a fee of $13,000 to $16,000.

— Ultrasystems, Inc., with a $12,900 fee.

In a letter to Supervisors, EMA Director H.G. "George" Osborne said it has been determined through recent measurements around the jet fighter base that noise levels exceed those represented on noise contour maps developed in 1972.

The most excessive noise levels are recorded in the Lake Forest and Laguna Hills areas, but not all the sound comes from jets, according to county officials. Some noise is made by helicopters flying low over residential areas.

Osborne speculated that the noise increase since 1972 could have been caused by a new mix of aircraft at the Marine base or new takeoff and landing patterns.

Peanuts to Zionism Are Sunday's Best

SUNDAY'S BEST

Here are some of the weekend stories and features you'll count among "Sunday's Best" in the Daily Pilot:

FRAUD BY MAIL — Some of the most popular "con jobs" are as near as your mailbox. Daily Pilot Staff Writer Hilary Kaye lists some of the most popular fraud-by-mail schemes and tells readers where to get a complete list of them. Scheduled as lead story for YOU Section.

ANTI-SEMITISM? — Zionism is an explosive issue at the United Nations (and elsewhere) since the vote to equate it with racism. What is zionism and what do local Jewish leaders have to say about it? Staff Writer Jackie Hyman compiles the story for Daily Pilot editorial pages.

PEANUTS IDEAS — Charles Schulz delves into his own childhood to recall the beginnings of some of the funniest and most poignant stories he has told in his world popular comic strip, Peanuts. It's the fourth part of a five-part series of articles.

STILL FIGHTING — Playwright Lillian Hellman, who suffered financially and emotionally when she was blacklisted in the '50s, is finally receiving some of the honor due her. But she's still struggling to insure civil liberties, according to Rex Reed, who tells about the struggle in his column.

SPLIT TO DOUBLE — If you could "split" your auto engine—just use half its cylinders — you'd probably double your gas mileage, right? But how can you make an engine work like that. One Orange County inventor says it can be done and Daily Pilot Staff Writer Rudi Niedzielski, himself a motor freak, thinks it's practical. The story is scheduled as the Sunday Special.

The Crack Of Dawn

FIRST LIGHT DEPT.— Normally, I am not one of those Dawn Patrol people. I do not leap out of the sack into the morning chill, bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, whistling Yankee Doodle and clapping my hands.

I figure you only see these kinds of people in the movies.

My approach to mornings is to worry first about getting awake even just a little bit. This can be accomplished with an alarm clock about the size of a Chinese gong or maybe a clock radio with Dick Whittinghill set to come on full blast.

Even then, I greet the dawn with caution. Try to open only one eye. Grope for the floor with just a single foot to make sure it hasn't moved during the night. Try to move slowly so that my tired blood won't slosh around too violently.

Eventually I make it.

ALL THIS ASIDE, this morning was an exception. I popped from slumber hearing the sound of pounding surf and twittering birds. Flinging covers, I leaped up, snapped open bedroom curtains, whistled, scrubbed teeth and even got my shoes on the correct feet.

At the risk of destroying my image, I want you to know it was all worth it.

Off easterly behind the coastal range, the sun was taking a run at the morning. Recent Santa Ana winds had vacuumed our atmosphere, leavint a crystal-like powder blue sky that Mother Nature had brushed with wispy clouds and cottonballs of delicate pink hues.

The old Pacific was grumbling, rumbling and popping out there, like an early morning stomach demanding breakfast. Viewing it, however, you could tell that the sea was just giving you audio theatrics. All that noise was provided by little tiny waves, rising only a foot or so at the last moment and then slapping the sand with loud thumps.

OLD PACIFIC, you love morning jokes by making large roars with little waves. We'll watch you with more concern, however, when your sea sounds become a deep, throaty rumble, steady for minutes at a time, like a distant cannonade.

Then we know you mean business.

Now in the dawn's early light, time for the race upcoast. But at this hour you can enjoy a solitary highway. No cop cars with signs on the back proclaiming "Radar Patrol." No commuters to dodge. No pedestrians jitterbugging across the highway through Corona del Mar.

SILENCE IS BROKEN only by the hum of an engine and the whistle of the wind. Below, the surf meets the curve of the coastline and the lights of the Newport-Balboa Peninsula still twinkle in the distance against a lightening sky.

Indeed, this is the best of all possible coasts. You have to see it at dawn to appreciate it.

Every once in a while, anyway.

Oil Firm 'Payoffs' Revealed

NEW YORK (AP) —The Exxon Corp.'s Italian subsidiary made $27 million in secret political payments in Italy over a 23-year period and another $29 million to $32 million was siphoned from the company's funds for unknown uses, the Wall Street Journal said today.

The newspaper said some $21 million in dummy invoices were used to make the secret political payments and 40 secret bank accounts were involved in the siphoning of funds from the subsidiary Esso Italiana.

No one at Exxon is quite sure where the siphoned funds went, the Journal said.

Wells to Egypt

Israeli Troops Leave Oil Field

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel withdrew its troops from the Ras Sudr oil fields today and handed over the desert wells to the United Nations emergency force for return to Egypt.

The pullback was the first for Israeli military forces under the September Israeli-Egyptian agreement worked out by U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Egyptian technicians were to move into the oil zone on the Gulf of Suez Saunday.

ISRAEL MOVED its oil technicians from the Ras Sudr fields five weeks ago, giving the wells to three American oilmen representing Egypt, but Israeili soldiers stayed in place until today.

Under the Kissinger agreement, the United States is to pay Israel $350 million this year for the loss of the Abu Rudeis oil revenues, and Israel expects similar compensation in the years ahead.

For Israel, which captured the installations in the 1967 Middle East war, surrendering the Ras Sudr fields meant a loss of 3,000 barrels of vital fuel per day by the end of this month.

THE ISRAELIS are to evacuate the main fields at Abu Rudeis and the entire Sinai oil corridor which has yielded 224 million barrels since its capture eight years ago.

Reporting from the Gulf of Suez, Radio Israel said the handover ceremony was brisk and modest. A voice called to an Israeli soldier in Hebrew, "Okay, Benny, it's 12 o'clock — get the flag down," and the blue and white Israeli flag was lowered at noon for the last time.

MISSILE BOATS from the Israeli navy saluted by spewing jets of water into the air from the nearby gulf, the radio said.

Indonesian troops from the United Nations force took control of Ras Sudr and were to guard the fields for 36 hours before turning them over to Egypt.

Israel's military command said that under the agreement, Israeli forces would keep control over checkpoints on the nearby road, and at the port and airfield on the gulf coast.

Lisbon Calm As Strikers Lift Siege

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Shouting "Victory! Victory!" thousands of striking construction workers lifted their siege of Premier Jose Pinheiro Azevedo early today after keeping him a prisoner in his official residence for 37 hours. The capital was reported calm.

But 175 miles north in Oporto, 12 men were wounded by gunfire in a wave of mob attacks on Communist-run installations. Demonstrators from several non-Communist parties sacked the Communist-run Trade Union Federation offices and had running gun battles at two other sites.

About 5,000 demonstrators were chased away from the Intersindical union offices by police and soldiers using teargas after union files were burned in a bonfire and furnishings and windows were wrecked.

THE MOB then attacked the Communist student office where it started fires with firebombs. Defenders inside the building opened fire with shotguns and the attackers returned the fire. Four persons were wounded, including one man in critical condition, before troops restored order.

Veto or Sign?

President Studies Gas Price Rollback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford faces divided Republican opinion in Congress on whether to veto or sign a long-range energy policy bill now supported by his top energy adviser. He has not tipped his hand.

The drafted bill would roll back gasoline prices for now and then allow gradual oil price increases. In the absence of legislation, current controls lapse Saturday night.

CONGRESSIONAL Republican leaders met with Ford for two hours Thursday night, along with Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and President Ford's top advisers in energy, security, Congressional liaison and the economy.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the Congressmen requested the meeting to "report to the President on what the conferees had done."

A House-Senate conference committee came to terms on a bill Wednesday night, leaving only the formal language to be written up before each House of Congress considers the measure.

NESSEN SAID "there were variations of opinion" at the meeting in the White House. "There was a lack of precision as to people's memory of what the conferees had agreed to. Until the provisions are clarified, he is going to reserve judgment."

Nessen did not make clear whether Ford will decide to accept or reject the bill before final Congressional action.

In an interview with Scripps-Howard newspaper editors, the President said: "Congress has come a long, long way since January, when some members were talking of a 20 cent gasoline tax and some were talking of quotas. It appears that it (legislation) does approach the phased decontrol program I proposed. If so, it has a lot of appeal."

THE ENERGY policy legislation would force an initial rollback of fuel prices, then let them increase gradually over a 40-month period. It would also authorize gasoline rationing in emergencies.

Long Wait Hinges On 'Sanitation'

MENA, Ark. (UPI) — A judge has ordered sanitation conditions checked at a house in Grannis where about 25 persons have been waiting for 1½ months for the arrival of Jesus Christ.

Judge J.B. Stevenson said sanitation would not be used as an excuse to break up the vigil. Asked what would happen if health violations were discovered, Stevenson said, "We'll solve that when we get to it."

"I wish something would break it up and they would take their children back, but that's their business," Stevenson said. "If that's their religious belief, they can go on with it, but I can't see how they can continue with this."

The judge said a health officer inspected conditions at the house two weeks ago and found nothing wrong. "But with that many people cooped up in one house with one bathroom, it makes you wonder if everything is all right. After all, there are some children there under 18 I have an interest in."

"We've had complaints about sanitation," he said. "They might be cranks but we're going to check to see if everything is all right. We're not doing it to harass the people in any way. It's just a health precaution."

California

High cloudiness and subsiding Santa Ana winds slightly lowered Southern California temperatures today but forecasters expect clear skies and summery 80-degree weather through the weekend.

Los Angeles was mostly sunny despite variable high cloudiness. There will be some fog and low clouds near the coast tonight but Saturday should be clear in the afternoon, even though a little cooler.

Highs Saturday will be near 75, while lows tonight will be about 55. There was no smog in the Basin.

The mountain resorts will have mostly sunny days ahead, with the exceptinon of some high clouds in the early hours. The readings will dip to 34 to 44 tonight but climb back to 55 to 65 Saturday.

Sunny skies prevailed over the deserts despite a few clouds. Locally gusty afternoon and evening winds were predicted in the northern deserts Saturday, when highs will be 66 to 73. The lower areas will be 78 to 84.

U.S. Summary

By The Associated Press

Snow has fallen in the central and southern Appalachians, including parts of Tennessee, the Carolinas, Virginia, West Virginia and Georgia. Atlanta reported light snow during the night.

Other snow showers continue over portions of Michigan, Ohio and New York.

Travelers warnings of hazardous driving conditions in the snow areas of Virginia remained in affect today. A flash flood watch was in force for sections of New Hampshire and Maine. Rain in New England threatened to get heavier as a low pressure center south of Cape Cod moved northward.

In the south and southeast, freeze warnings were in effect from Louisiana and Arkansas through the Carolinas and Georgia.

The midwest still had the coldest readings east of the Rockies with temperatures in the teens across the upper Great Lakes region and 20s in the mid-Mississippi Valley.

On the Pacific Northwest coast a frontal system brought more precipitation. Gale or storm warnings along the Oregon and Washington coasts remained posted.

Skies were clear over most of California, the southern portions of the plateau and Rockies and the central and southern Plains through the eastern Gulf Coast states.

The outlook for today calls for rain in New England with snow or snow flurries over the remainder of the north Atlantic Coast states into the northern and central Appalachians and northeastern Ohio

Coastal Weather

Extended outlook Sunday through Tuesday shows some coastal low clouds and fog likely. Cooler Sunday but warmer again Monday and Tuesday. Light variable winds becoming west to southwest 8 to 12 knots in the afternoon.

Newport-Mesa Students 'Below Par'

By HILARY KAYE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Sixth graders in the Newport-Mesa Unified School District scored below expectations for the district in all four categories tested in May of this year, according to results just released from Sacramento.

Sixth grade students who were involved in the testing are now seventh graders.

District Supt. John Nicoll said today, "I'm definitely not very pleased with those scores and we'll be trying to find out why it happened."

Students tested in grades two, three and 12 scored within expectations for the district, but there were no categories in any grade in which students scored above expectations.

Nicoll said that scores for Newport-Mesa students fell within the top quarter of the state's school districts in every category in every grade.

However, school districts are judged in relation to districts with similar statistics in the areas of socio-economic status and education of parents, size of schools and bilingual makeup of schools.

Based on comparisons with similar school districts, Nicoll admitted Newport-Mesa has fallen down from past years.

Mathematics was the only area in which sixth graders improved over 1973-74. They had scored in the 66th percentile in 1973-74, but boosted their scores to the 80th percentile this year.

However, even the 80th percentile, which means students were within the top 80 percent of California students, was below expectations for the Newport-Mesa district.

In the other areas for sixth graders, Newport-Mesa scored: reading, 1973-74, 87th percentile, 1974-75, 79th; written expression, 1973-74, 87th, 1974-75, 80th; spelling, 1973-74, 84th, 1974-75, 75th.

"We're pleased that the sixth graders turned the corner in math, but we're now looking into the other areas," Nicoll said.

"We're not particularly ashamed of our scores, but we realize that sixth grade is an area we need to bolster. So, we'll look at our present fifth grade," the superintendent continued.

Second and third graders were tested only in reading and they scored within the expectations and showed little change from

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A special screening committee has narrowed the field of applicants for Orange County assessor down to six candidates, eliminating acting assessor Elmer Zimmer.

Left in the running for the job vacant since mid-September when former assessor Jack Vallerga was sentenced following his felony conviction are:

—Stanley Krause, director of Orange County's Real Property Services.

—George Cormack, assistant to Krause.

—Gary Cottrell, once an official in the Orange County assessor's office and now Riverside County assistant assessor.

—Bradley Jacobs, an ex-executive with Commercial Products Company.

—Peter Ulrich, a private consultant.

—Ralph King, San Diego County assistant assessor.

It is from these six candidates that the board of supervisors, perhaps as early as next week, will select Vallerga's successor.

Whoever is selected for the post will serve the three years remaining on Vallerga's initial four-year term and have all the rights and prerogatives of an elected official including the right to seek election as an incumbent.

What the six remaining applicants for county assessor survived was a two-day screening of 20 candidates by an 11-member committee appointed by the Board of Supervisors.

Originally, there were 114 applicants for the job. But in preliminary eliminations county Administrative Officer Robert Thomas and Personnel Director Bert Scott pared the list to 20.

And it was from those 20 that the committee selected the six applicants who will be considered for the post by the supervisors.

Among the prominent applicants who didn't survive the screening committee cut were Zimmer, San Diego County Assistant Assessor C. J. Templeton and Glenn County Assessor Mike McCullough.

Ventura County Assessor Ed Shiner reportedly withdrew from the running early this week.

The six applicants who are still in the running were graded on a point basis by the blue ribbon selection committee.

It is reported that Krause accumulated the highest number of points and was followed in order by Cottrell, Ulrich, Jacobs, Cormack and King.

Police Seeking 'Polite Rapist'

Police Draw Suspect

A "polite, gentlemanly and courteous" rapist is sought today by Laguna Beach and Newport Beach police who believe the moon-faced man is responsible for a string of sexual attacks in both cities

The latest victim was a 28 year-old Laguna Beach woman attacked in her own home Thurs day On departing, the rapist told his victim he would lock the door for her so she didn't have to get up

That kind of courtesy is a trademark of the rapist police believe may be responsible for four to five rapes and several attempted rapes in Laguna Beach and for three to four rapes and several attempts in Newport Beach

The Laguna rapist is armed with a large caliber blue steel automatic pistol The man responsible for the Newport Beach attacks was armed with a knife

He told his victims in Newport he was named Jerry and that he was a Vietnam veteran The Laguna rapist told his lafest victim his name was "Pete" just before he told her "I'm going to rape you."

Laguna Beach Det. Gene Brooks said he firmly believes the same man is responsible for three attacks within the past week.

Last Friday, a 19-year-old woman was raped during the early morning hours at her home by a man who forced open a window. Then Sunday, a 55-year-old woman was awakened by an armed man who fled when she began screaming and refused to stop.

Det. Brooks said there are other unsolved rapes in residential areas which appear to match the method of operation used by this one man. Descriptions too are similar.

"In fact, I would go out on a

CdM Radar Zaps Speeders

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What was that Newport Beach motorcycle officer doing this morning in Corona del Mar with that funny thing that looked like a camera?

And why was his cycle so dinky?

Eighteen zapped speeders soon found out.

It was a new radar technique tailored for what officers insist is a serious traffic situation on a stretch of Marguerite Avenue — especially when youngsters are traveling to and from school.

The "camera" was traffic radar — a sophisticated and highly portable gun; the motorcycle was small, because it had to fit into a skimpy space where a car can't go.

And Traffic Division Capt. Don Oyaas said after this morning's trial run that the plan worked better than anything ever tried in the area.

The problems with enforcing speed laws V along the winding stretch near the entrance to the new Jasmine Creek develop%%uent are several, he said.

The winding roadway, a hill and a bike lane made it impossible to station a regular radar car in the area.

So Oyaas borrowed the new portable radar unit and assigned Traffic Investigator Jim Donaldson to use a small 90 c.c. department cycle usually used for summer parking enforcement.

Donaldson started monitoring at 7 a.m. as the first kids headed for school.

Two hours later 18 speeders had been cited and hundreds more exhibited distinct and visible surprise — or chagrin — when they made the curve and saw Officer Donaldson.

Besides the written "reminders" to the offenders, Oyaas said, the inauguration had a side benefit.

Youngsters traveling to Lincoln Middle School demonstrated the growing awareness of safety being stressed on the camupus in a separate program and Donaldson said many of the students were fascinated by the experiment.

"We scored some good public relations points with the students today," the officer said.

As for a repeat performance, Oyaas promises many.

"The situation down there is serious, and we've found a way to change it," he said.

Dog Lovers To Regroup In Newport

Newport Beach dog lovers who have been fighting to keep city councilmen from enacting a doggie ban at city beaches plan to meet next week to organize.

Justin Marshall, a spokesman for the group, said persons on both sides of the dog ban issue are welcome to join when the Pet Owners Advisory Association of Newport Beach is formed next Wednesday night.

The formative session, he said, with four key agenda items, will start at 7:30 at Ensign School.

He added that the aim of the group on Wednesday will be to approve a set of bylaws, set up a roll of officers, recruit new members and to draft a list of suggestions for city officials.

The group began forming after councilmen moved toward passage of an ordinance that would end current city rules allowing pets on ocean beaches and adjacent sidewalks on mornings and evenings in the fall, winter and spring.

Several weeks ago, as councilmen were poised to approve the new law, pet owners filled council chambers and won a 90-day delay.

In the interim, councilmen ruled, the group would have to come up with workable compromises and examples that a problem situation was being alleviated by dog owners.

The dog owners have insisted that the current codes are sufficient if enforcement is stepped up and that an outright ban of the pets from beaches should be scrapped.

2 Companies Hit by SEC Desist Orders

As a result of a complaint filed by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), two companies in Newport Beach and Irvine were ordered to stop violations of securities regulations.

The order was issued to International Securities Corp., 2121 San Joaquin Hills Road, Newport Beach, and Intertie, Inc., 2081 Michelson Drive, Irvine. Also mentioned in the order was Jack E. Glassford, 30171 Silverspur Road, San Juan Capistrano, president of International Securities.

Officials from the two securities companies and Glassford agreed to the federal court order to cease their activities, which were said to be in violation of securities regulations.

Ex-policeman Faces Charge In Beating

A 19-year-old Newport Beach resident filed charges of battery against a retired Los Angeles policeman Thursday after a fist fight that followed an argument in the balcony of the Balboa Pussycat Theater.

Newport Beach police said they were summoned by a battered George Nash, 1810 King's Road, who alleged that he was beaten up before midnight.

Officers booked Charles Vance McCarty, 48, of San Pedro, who is a retired Los Angeles police officer.

Nash alleged in a report to officers that as he passed McCarty on the way to the lobby, the retired officer said, "There goes the third pervert."

Some arguing allegedly ensued, then a fight. McCarty, police said, left for a nearby restaurant where he was contacted by officers.

Officers said they interceded, acting on Nash's citizen's arrest. The charge, police said, carried a bail of $150, which was posted by the arrestee later.

Nash, police said, was not seriously hurt in the alleged altercation.

Blaze Quelled In Newport

Newport Beach and Orange County firemen doused a small brush fire that flared up about 6:15 p.m. Thursday behind Pacific Telephone facilities on Ford Road near MacArthur Boulevard.

Fire officials said the blaze, which charred only some vacant property between the telephone company building and the Urbanus Square offices of architect William Pereira, may have been set deliberately.

The fire was put out in about 15 minutes and firemen reported no damage. Firemen said witnesses told them an auto left the area just before the flames shot skyward.

STOCKS WAIT ON NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market bided its time today, drifting sluggishly as it waited for further word on New York City's financial outlook.

Trading slowed considerably from Thursday's active pace.

The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 stocks gained 2.44 points to 853.67. (Tables, B5)

Another Ford Alert Issued

ATLANTA (AP) — Police said the Secret Service issued an alert today for a man reportedly concealing a rifle under his coat near the Marriott Motor Hotel, just an hour and a half before President Ford's scheduled arrival there.

A spokesman for the Secret Service Atlanta office would only say: "We've got an investigation under way." Atlanta police units scrambled to the area around the downtown motel, where Ford was scheduled to meet with state Republican leaders at 3:30 p.m. and then address a fund-raising dinner at 8:30.

"The Secret Service has issued a lookout for a person supposed to be armed with a rifle," an Atlanta police spokesman said.

Explosive It Wasn't

There it was, stuck atop a mailbox at the Park Lido medical building, arousing the suspicion of passersby this morning.

Newport Beach police soon arrived to gaze at it too — a small, shiny tube lashed to the box with the word "BOMB" printed boldly on the outside.

Gingerly, they removed it.

And soon they identified it.

It was a urine sample.

Accident Probed In Mesa

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Industrial safety experts are probing a second fatal crane accident in 13 days at the Corona del Mar Freeway construction site in Costa Mesa, where a novice workman was decapitated Thursday.

A spokesman for the California State Division of Industrial Safety said, meanwhile, the general contractor on the job will be issued a citation for the Oct. 31 fatal accident.

"Definitely," declared Gene Cresci, when asked if the Novo Radds Construction Company of Whittier will be charged with safety violations as a result of the previous incident.

No specific details were available on specific charges to be included in the citation, which could result in revocation of the firm's state contractor's license.

Cresci said they will be announced when the citation is formally issued.

Thursday morning, Michael Clinton Wakefield, 26, of 1303 S. Bristol St., Santa Ana, was killed instantly when his head was crushed between a 10-ton counterweight that swung against the side of a crane it helped support.

Police Officer George Yezbick said crane operator Tony Cordasco, of Upland, had already shouted warnings to the apprentice oiler three times in about one hour to be more careful.

job six months, dead at the scene.

Harold G. Morris, 28, of 5306 Franklin Circle, Westminster, was killed instantly Oct. 31 across the freeway route from Thursday's fatal accident scene and three co-workers were seriously injured.

Morris was being carried inside a huge steel reinforcing rod assembly for a freeway support pillar when it slipped from a crane and plunged to earth, collapsing on impact.

He was crushed inside it, while has co-workers now hospitalized in Newport Beach, Wilmington and Corona were apparently hit by flying debris.

The accident site is at what will be the interchange of the Newport and Corona del Mar freeways, near Baker and Bristol streets in northest Costa Mesa.

Gregg Allman Asks Divorce From Cher

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Rock star Gregg Allman filed a court petition today asking that his four-month marriage to television entertainer Cher be dissolved.

The petition filed in Bibb Superior Court says the marriage is "irretrievably broken." It says the couple were separated on Nov. 11.

Cher, star of a variety show, and Gregg, singer and songwriter with the Allman Brothers band, were married in Las Vegas on June 30.

The marriage, which came just three days after Cher's divorce from her longtime husband and singing partner Sonny Bono, has been stormy despite its brevity.

Cher, 29, announced nine days after they were married that she was filing for a divorce, saying, "Gregg and I made a mistake."

limb and say that all the residential rapes we've had since the first of the year, with the exception of one, this guy is possibly responsible," Det. Brooks said.

He said in each case, the rapist was polite and did no physical harm to his victims. Some victims described him as gentlemanly.

"This is only theory on my part, but I believe it is a good possibility that this is also the same guy, 'Jerry,' who plagued Newport this spring," Brooks said.

Newport Beach Det. Ken Smith agreed that the women's descriptions of their attacker matched that of the Laguna rapist.

According to victims, the rapist has a "baby or moon-face," is of stocky build, of average height and weighs about 170 pounds. He has short sandy colored hair and is clean shaven.

Det. Brooks urged anyone with information about the man to contact police but not to attempt to restrain or capture the armed man.

Judge Nixes Participation In Trial

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Los Angeles judge decided not to preside over a case involving an alleged underworld figure because the judge reportedly said he was introduced to the man by Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, the Sacramento Bee reports.

The newspaper Thursday quoted sources who were at a meeting in Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Benjamin Landis' chambers on Oct. 20. At the meeting were attorneys in the case of a lawsuit filed by Moe Morton against Hollywood Park race track.

Landis told attorneys for Morton and the race track that Younger, then Los Angeles County district attorney, introduced him to Morton in 1970 at an Acapulco hotel, the newspaper said.

NEXT JUSTICE?
Rep. Charles Wiggins

Wiggins Mentioned For Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bar Association is screening a list of fewer than 12 potential U.S. Supreme Court nominees submitted by the Ford administration, but the President's spokesman indicated today Ford will not be bound by its recommendations.

The bar association expects to report on the qualifications of those on the list early next week, Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi sent the list to the ABA Thursday.

A high-ranking official called it "a very small list" of fewer than a dozen persons under consideration for President Ford's nomination to succeed retired Justice William O. Douglas.

The New York Times today reported that Administration sources said the list submitted to the ABA included, among others, Rep. Robert Griffin (R-Mich); Solicitor General Robert Bork; Rep. Charles E. Wiggins (R-Calif.); Judge Arlin M. Adams of the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia; and four other federal appeals court judges — Paul H. Roney of the 5th Circuit in New Orleans, John Paul Stevens of the 7th Circuit in Chicago, William H. Webster of the 8th Circuit in St. Louis and J. Clifford Wallace of the 9th Circuit in San Francisco.

Cross-nation Kidnap Case A Hoax—FBI

The 15-year-old girl originally thought to have been forced by her former boyfriend from Westminster to travel 2,400 miles cross-country went willingly, federal agents confirmed today.

Investigators who questioned the alleged kidnaping victim sought for three days between Fort Lauderdale and Orange County said she was not abducted at all.

Katherine Ball, a student at exclusive Pine Crest School, a private girls' academy, failed a lie detector test administered Tuesday.

"She was deceptive in her answers," said Assistant State Attorney Jeffery Smith, who also announced criminal charges against Thomas J. Gregory, 19, of Westminster, are being dropped.

The FBI entered the case after Miss Ball left a note in the ladies' room of a Waverly, Tenn., service station Nov. 4 claiming she was being kidnaped and forced to go to California.

Authorities mounted a nationwide search for the missing girl and the former boyfriend she met in Saudi Arabia where their parents are oil company employes, leading to apprehension in Kingman, Ariz., eight days ago.

Brainwashed?

Expert Summoned by Hearsts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A British psychologist considered an expert on brainwashing techniques says he is flying here from London today to examine Patricia Hearst at the request of her parents.

Dr. William W. Sargent said in England that he would spend about three days visiting Miss Hearst in her cell at the San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City, south of here. Miss Hearst, 21, faces trial on federal bank robbery charges.

Dr. Sargent, 68, is a consulting psychiatrist at St. Thomas' Hospital in London. He has written many books, including "Battle for the Mind."

Miss Hearst's lawyers filed an affidavit in court shortly after the newspaper heiress was arrested Sept. 18 in which she claimed she was tortured and driven to the verge of insanity by Symbionese Liberation Army captors.

Police, Brothers Brawl

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What began as a routine traffic arrest degenerated into a brawl early today when two Newport Beach police officers and two Costa Mesa brothers battled it out in the arrestees' home.

The brothers, police said, lost.

Donald John Jacobi, 23, and his brother, Fred, 21, both of 476 Walnut Ave., were arrested at 1 a.m. after two separate alleged battles with police at the family home.

Patrolman Steve Vance was the first to mix it up with the brothers, he alleged today, and at one point said he was choked unconscious.

Vance said that the series of incidents began when he noticed a pickup truck speeding and skidding in the Newport Heights area and traced the truck to the Jacoby residence.

Vance said that moments after contacting the father of the house, he noticed one of the brothers in a driveway.

His attempts at an arrest, he said, were greeted with oaths and threats. Seconds later both men were on the ground. Vance managed a squirt of chemical Mace, but said it did little good.

Vance said that the other brother then appeared and choked the officer while demanding that the sibling be let free.

Rites Pending For Freeway Crane Victim

Funeral arrangements were still pending today for construction crane oiler Michael Clinton Wakefield, 26, killed Thursday in the second Corona del Mar Freeway job fatality in 13 days.

Spokesmen at Bell Broadway Mortuary said the victim's widow, Vicki, of the home, 1303 S. Bristol St., Santa Ana, had not yet made plans with them.

A counterweight device on the crane where Mr Wakefield was working as an apprentice oiler crushed his head as it swung around, killing him instantly.

Coroner's deputies said they had no other next-of-kin listed except his wife.

Ford to Consider Black as VP Pick

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — President Ford indicated today he would consider a black running mate on the 1976 Republican presidential ticket.

"Certainly, Sen. Ed Brooke, by his record, is a person who ought to be considered," Ford said.

Ford made the statement during a questioning session with students at North Carolina Central University.

His reference was to Sen. Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass.), who is black.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller has withdrawn from consideration as Ford's running mate.

Profits 'Gel' at Lever

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ

Lever Bros., U.S. subsidiary of the Anglo-Dutch giant, Unilever, has spent many frustrating years here battling the titan of the laundry room and bathroom, Procter and Gamble (P&G) — and finally it has something to crow about.

Aim, Lever's new fluoride gel toothpaste, has turned out to be a winner. In less than two years it has captured 10 percent of the $450 million toothpaste market, which is good enough for third place behind Crest and Colgate Dental Cream.

TWO OTHER LEVER entries, Close-up and Pepsodent, hold 13 percent of the market between them. The result is to give Lever Bros. a 23 percent slice of the toothpaste dollars, its biggest cut since the days when Pepsodent was riding high.

Aim is the only gel on the market, and it has capitalized on this feature with the advertising claim that you can get a toothpaste and a mouthwash in one product. This claim may have registered. Latest reports from the drugstore field show that mouthwash sales are down 6 percent this year.

If that relationship holds up, then Lever will really have a P&G fighter in Aim. For not only is it hurting P&G in the toothpaste market, it's also impacting the mouthwash business, where P&G fields Scope, the runner-up brand to Listerine.

The success of Aim confirms, though, that the lock to the toothpaste market is opened by cavity-fighting fluoride. Fluoride brands — Crest, Gleem and Colgate — all have this ingredient. Now 70 percent of the toothpaste business has it.

THE ORIGINAL FLUORIDE brand, P&G's Crest, is still resting comfortably in first place, a position it has held ever since it was endorsed by the American Dental Association in 1960. But Crest's share is currently 36 percent, down from the 38 percent it had a year ago. P&G's other brand, Gleem, owns a 6 percent share.

Colgate Dental Cream, the pre-fluoride leader, is taking 20 percent of the toothpaste dollars — and that may well be its lowest share in modern history. The brand has been on a downward slope since the ascendancy of Crest.

Another Colgate brand, Ultra Brite, is also traveling downhill. This is a toothpaste sold as a whitener (helps you to get the girl or the guy). Its market share has dropped to 5 percent and it's being outsold easily by Lever's whitener. Closeup, which holds 9 percent of the market

AIM IS A BRAND that's still on the upswing Surprisingly, no one has countered it with another gel But if Crest's market share continues to drop, Lever Bros. will be sure to hear from its longtime nemesis, Procter and Gamble

Grant Store Goods On Auction Block

LONG BEACH (AP) — "Going once, going, twice — sold: a W. T. Grant Store" came the auctioneer's cry as a piece of the financially troubled department chain went on the block.

Permanent fixtures, such as sales counters and overhead lights, were up for auction on a store by store basis for 56 W. T. Grant stores being closed in the West by the financially-troubled firm

The one-day auction this week, however, didn't include any goods and durables and also excluded the store structures themselves. An estimated 100 bidders packed the place like a fire sale.

Bidding, held at one of the stores being closed, covered all permanent fixtures within each individual store. The auctioneer took bids on each store one at a time going down a list in a prepared brouchure served in lieu of transporting the goods from the stores in the states, which included California, Arizona, Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Montana, Nevada and Texas.

Tiny School Runs Up Big Scores

RIVESVILLE, W. Va. (AP) — Overtime high school football games are becoming commonplace in many states that have adopted sudden death rules. But a tiny West Virginia school may have one of the few teams anywhere that plays undertime games.

Rivesville High School, located in the heart of central West Virginia's coal fields, has developed such a powerhouse that three of the Rams' eight games this season have failed to go the regulation four quarters.

The Rams walloped Circleville High School 59-0 in a game stopped at halftime by "mutual consent" of the coaches — though Circleville's coach, faced a four-hour bus ride home, simply wanted to keep from getting any more of his players injured.

A 54-0 shutout of Clay-Dattelle saw the second half consist of just six-minute quarters. The same thing occurred in a 65-0 smashing of Mastontown Valley, so the games actually consisted of just three quarters.

But that's just indicative of the way coach Martin "Sonny" Bartic's team has played all season.

A star linebacker on the nearby Fairmont State College team of 1967 that was the NAIA national grid champion, Bartic is used to being with a winner. But the team he has produced at his alma mater has even the delighted home folks amazed.

The Rams, paced by the 'backfield brother' trio of Jim, Tim, and Ken Underwood, outscored their first eight opponents by 413-6 while averaging over 51 points per game.

The Underwood brothers — who combined for five touchdowns and 338 rushing yards in a 64-0 rout of Morgantown St. Francis — are cousins of the head coach.

Only arch-rival Mannington, which dropped a 15-6 decision for its only loss, has scored so far against the Rams. And that was on a punt return. The Rams' defense has yet to be scored upon.

The fourth smallest high school playing football in the state, Rivesville with less than 75 males in the entire school — yielded only one first down by its regular defense the first six games of the season. That one lone first down came on a penalty.

Yet Bartic's team rarely "runs it up" on an opponent. Some of the first teamers barely have enough quarters to earn letters, since Bartic freely substitutes for his regulars.

In fact, the Rams have scored only 86 of their 413 points in the second half, totaling only 19 points in the fourth quarter.

That is, the games that have had fourth quarters.

Widing Sparks Kings

INGLEWOOD — Center Juha Widing scored with 5:07 left to play Thursday night to lead the Los Angeles Kings to a comeback 4-3 National Hockey League victory over the New York Islanders.

The Kings struck for three goals in the final period to gain their first victory over the Islanders in four outings.

Trailing 2-1 going into the final period, the Kings evened the score with 55 seconds gone in the stanza on a goal by defenseman Larry Brown from 45 feet out.

Rookie Bryan Trottier of New York put the Islanders ahead again at 2:23 when he lifted a shot over Kings' goalie Gary Edwards for a 3-2 lead by the visitors.

But veteran Bob Nevin's fourth goal of the season, a rebound from in close, tied it up 3-3 for the Kings with 12:17 left, setting up the winning goal by Widing.

Lakers Play

INGLEWOOD—The Los Angeles Lakers bid for their eighth victory in 13 games tonight, hosting the Phoenix Suns in National Basketball Association action at the Forum. It begins at 8 o'clock.

LA trails Golden State (7-2) by 1½ games in the Pacific Division while Phoenix is in third place with a 4-4 mark.

Soviets Win

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Mihail Korkia scored 12 points and picked off eight rebounds to lead a taller, more experienced Russian National Basketball team past Syracuse University 71-58 in an exhibition game Thursday night.

Award to Nolan

DAYTON, OHIO — "To be able to help the club win the championship fulfilled my greatest comeback hopes," Cincinnati Reds pitcher Gary Nolan said after being named Thursday as the 1975 recipient of baseball's Hutch Award.

The award is presented annually in memory of former major league pitcher and manager Fred Hutchinson, who died of cancer in 1964. It goes to a player who overcomes adversity and best exemplifies the spirit, competitiveness and character of Hutchinson.

Board Named

QUEBEC — Construction and financing of installations for the 1976 Olympic Games, now officially estimated to cost $1 billion, will be controlled by a government-appointed board, the Quebec national assembly was told today.

Solicitor-general Fernand Lalonde said an Olympic Installations Board would be responsible for overseeing construction of a main stadium but the future role of the City of Montreal remained uncertain.

Evert Signs

PHOENIX—Chris Evert has signed with the Phoenix Racquets on the World Team Tennis beat for reportedly $160,000.

She becomes the highest paid player on the circuit and the contract is for two years.

Trevino Fourth

MEXICO CITY — Bob Payne and Lee Trevino, two of the American entries, finished among the leaders Thursday in the opening day of the $40,000 Mexican Open golf tournament.

Payne shot a three-under-par 68 for second place and Trevino wound up fourth with a 70 over the 7,157-yard course.

Mexico's Victor Regalado claimed the lead with a blazing 65.

Connors In Semis; Ashe Upset

LONDON—Arthur Ashe, the 1974 Wimbledon champion, was upset in the quarterfinals of the Dewar Cup tennis tourney Thursday as Eddie Dibbs posted a 6-4, 6-2 triumph.

Another upset victim was Jan Kodes, who lost to Buster Mottram, 6-0, 6-1, while Jimmy Connors mowed down Bernie Mitton, 6-1, 6-1. Connors met Dibbs in today's semis while Mottram was scheduled to face Ilie Nastase.

Connors, who qualified for the Masters tourney with his victory, declined the invitation to play at Stockholm Nov. 30.

"I can give you an answer right now," said Connors. "I can't play. I'm going home."

Connors pulled out of last year's Masters after qualifying. On that occasion he produced a medical certificate saying he was unfit to play, and no action was taken against him.

Okker Upset

HONG KONG — Second-seeded Tom Okker of Holland and John Newcombe, No. 3 seed, were eliminated today by a pair of Americans in the quarterfinals of the $50,000 Citizens Tennis Classic.

Tom Gorman defeated Okker 6-4, 6-4 and Brian Gottfried beat Newcombe, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 to advance into the semifinals.

In other quarterfinals singles matches, Mexico's Raul Ramirez beat Spain's Juan Gisbert 7-5, 6-0, and Alex Mayer defeated Australian Bob Carmichael, 6-4, 8-6.

Panatta Wins

BUENOS AIRES — Adriano Panatta of Italy eliminated Chilean Patricio Cornejo 6-4, 7-6 Thursday and advanced to the quarterfinals of the eighth annual Argentine Tennis Open.

In women's singles, Chris Kemmer qualified for the semifinals, eliminating Michelle Rodriguez of France 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

Argentine Beatriz Araujo downed Chilean Ana Pinto Bravo Thursday, 7-6, 6-4.

In other singles action, Argentine ace Guillermo Vilas beat compatriot Lito Alvarez, 6-4, 7-5; Yugoslavian Zeljko Franulovic defeated Hans Pohman of West Germany, 6-0, 6-7, 6-2, and Jaime Fillol of Chile eliminated Argentine Julian Ganzabal, 6-3, 6-2.

Irvine's Serna Bids for Crown

By ED BURGART
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When Ralph Serna was a freshman at Loara High, he didn't know what cross country was.

Four years later as a freshman at UC Irvine, Serna is one of the favorites to win the individual title in the NCAA, Division II cross country championships Saturday morning at Irvine Coast Country Club.

One of the country's outstanding cross country runners, Serna has already won four invitationals this year, setting a course record at Chapman where he ran five miles in 24:08.5.

Lacking size — Serna stands 5-5, weighs 115 pounds — he nevertheless set many records in cross country and track while at Loara.

"And I didn't know what a cross country team was until I got to Loara," says the soft-spoken Serna.

Serna quickly adapted to cross country, though. Winning one race after another —including the CIF 4-A finals twice — Serna became widely known and his name is currently a topic of conversation.

But acting modestly, Serna prefers to talk about the UC Irvine cross country team instead of himself.

"Coach (Len) Miller had us write up our goals the other day," says Serna, "and my first one was to have our team win the title. Secondly, I would like to win the race."

And Serna has an excellent chance to win. His high school background proves his ability — he has run the mile in 4:07 and the two mile in 8:45.9 — and he has shown steady improvement since arriving at Irvine.

"I am running a lot more hills now than I ever did before," says Serna. "Everything was flat in Anaheim."

It seems as though Serna has improved with each hill. An easy winner in the Biola Invitational two weeks ago, Serna posted a 24:36 over the five-mile course.

He credits Miller for the steady improvement.

"I never did the distances as much as I'm doing now," says Serna, "and Miller is one of the coaches who can motivate you. He is really a hustler.

"His philosophy is like my high school coach's. A lot of coaches will run you till you are dead, but if you don't feel like running, you can tell him. He is easy to talk to and takes an interest in every guy on the team."

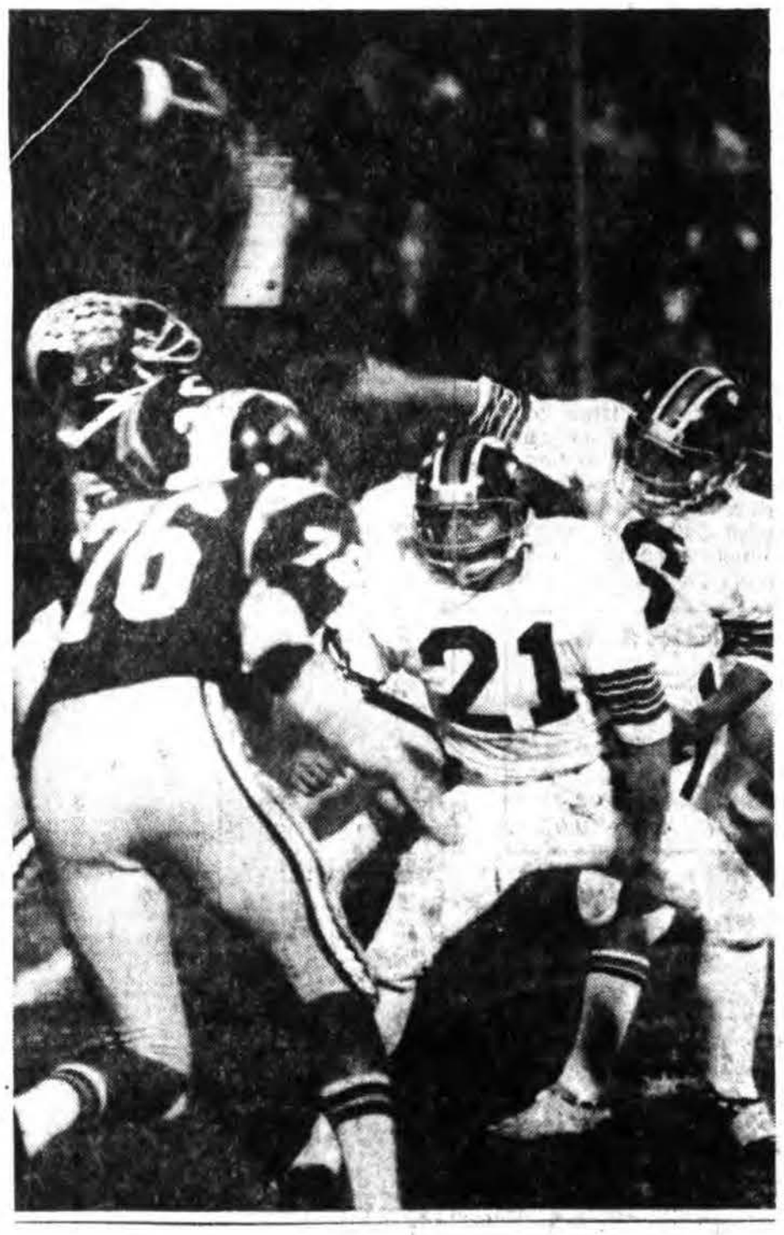
Miller took an interest in Serna not only for his cross country ability but also for his track potential.

"I am really hoping to run a good two mile in track this year," says Serna. "I'm hoping to run somewhere under 8:40."

Serna is also looking forward to the indoor season which is one reason why he chose UC Irvine over the University of Kansas.

"I like running indoors because of the tight turns and because the fans are so close," says the fine arts major. "That's one factor why I came here.

"Another is because Miller's philosophy is the same as my high school coach. Also, I wanted to be running in similar weather and I knew we were going to have a good team."



Michigan Gridders Seek Prep Record

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Coach Tom Saylor insists his Hudson football players "are really hungry" for a victory Saturday over Kalamazoo Hackett in the first high school football playoffs in modern Michigan history.

The first question might be, have the Tigers ever not been hungry for a victory?

They already have equalled the national record of 71 consecutive triumphs. Should they beat tough Hackett in the Class C semifinal they'll own the record alone. Jefferson City, Mo., set the 71-game mark from 1958-66.

"We are really fired," said Saylor, whose teams have compiled an 85-4-1 record in his 10 years as Hudson's head coach. "Our kids want to win it. We want to prove it hasn't been a fluke."

Apparently there are those who believe the top-ranked Tigers haven't had tough enough schedules. Among them are coach Dick Soisson of fifth-ranked Hackett.

"All I've said is that Hudson would never have won 71 in a row if it had played our schedule the last eight years," Soisson said. "I feel it's a great honor, a great challenge, to play Hudson.

"Win or lose we'll be famous. If we lose we'll be like the guy who threw Roger Maris his 61st home run pitch."

Saylor doesn't appreciate any jabs at the Tigers' schedule.

"All I know is that our schedule is as tough for us as Hackett's is for them," he said. "Hackett gets to draw players from all over Kalamazoo, population about 85,500, and we only have a small town about 2,500 to draw from."

Although the Michigan High School Athletic Association briefly prevented Hackett from practicing on artificial turf this week, it changed its decision after learning that Hudson was practicing on it.

UCI, Pirates Row Saturday

Crews from UC Irvine and Orange Coast College will be among 18 varsity eights competing in the Newport Cup Regatta Saturday morning in the West Lido Channel, Newport Beach.

The first of 18 elimination races will begin at 10 and UC Berkeley is favored to win the championship.

Each elimination race will feature two crews competing over the short distance of 500 meters. A crew is eliminated after one loss and the two undefeated eights will vie for the title.

In addition to Berkeley, UC Irvine and Orange Coast, other top schools competing are USC, UCLA and Cal State Long Beach. Also, some top rowing clubs are entered.

End of Road for USC?

Trojans Face Elimination Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pacific-8 football race is at least a week away from being settled, but coach John McKay's Southern California Trojans could be out of it this weekend, win or lose.

Another conference race could be decided Saturday in the regionally televised game between San Diego State and San Jose State, both unbeaten in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. The winner will have a 9-1 overall record for the various bowl game committees to consider.

McKay's chances of taking Southern Cal to the Rose Bowl for a ninth and final time, before he leaves for Tampa and the National Football League, will vanish if Stanford beats lowly Oregon in one of three Pac-8 games on Saturday's schedule.

Or, the Trojans could take themselves out of the race by losing their third straight game. They're on the road to face the dangerous Washington Huskies who upset UCLA two weeks ago and lost a narrow 27-24 decision to Pac-8 leader California last weekend.

Cal's Bears are 5-1, with a nonconference game at Air Force Saturday before their season-ending date with Standford, which takes a 4-1 conference record against Oregon, 1-4, at Stanford Stadium. UCLA, also 4-1, is at home against Oregon State, 1-4.

Washington State will be home, seeking to break its seven-game losing streak by beating Utah. Several other nonconference games are scheduled, with Pacific of the PCAA having the toughest assignment with its Saturday night game at eighth-ranked Arizona State.

"We're in control of the Pac-8 right now," UCLA coach DIck Vermeil said after USC lost to Stanford last week and dropped to 3-2. If the Bruins beat OSU Saturday and the Trojans on Nov. 28, they'll go to the Rose Bowl no matter how Cal and Stanford finish.

"After we beat USC, we were kind of counting on them beating UCLA. But the Trojans have lost two in a row and it's pretty obvious they're human," California coach Mike White said.

The Bears have the nation's leading college football offense, featuring tailback Chuck Muncie and the passing combination of Joe Roth and Steve Rivera. White is hoping that fact and a possible 8-3 final record would attract a bowl invitation from elsewhere if there's no Rose Bowl trip.

Newport-Mesa 6th Graders 'Below Par'

By HILARY KAYE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Sixth graders in the Newport-Mesa Unified School District scored below expectations for the district in all four categories tested in May of this year, according to results just released from Sacramento.

Sixth grade students who were involved in the testing are now seventh graders.

District Supt. John Nicoll said today, "I'm definitely not very pleased with those scores and we'll be trying to find out why it happened."

Students tested in grades two, three and 12 scored within expectations for the district, but there were no categories in any grade in which students scored above expectations.

Nicoll said that scores for Newport-Mesa students fell within the top quarter of the state's school districts in every category in every grade.

However, school districts are judged in relation to districts with similar statistics in the areas of socio-economic status and education of parents, size of schools and bilingual makeup of schools.

Based on comparisons with similar school districts, Nicoll admitted Newport-Mesa has fallen down from past years.

Mathematics was the only area in which sixth graders improved over 1973-74. They had scored in the 66th percentile in 1973-74, but boosted their scores to the 80th percentile this year.

However, even the 80th percentile, which means students were within the top 80 percent of California students, was below expectations for the Newport-Mesa district.

In the other areas for sixth graders, Newport-Mesa scored: reading, 1973-74, 87th percentile, 1974-75, 79th; written expression, 1973-74, 87th, 1974-75, 80th; spelling, 1973-74, 84th, 1974-75, 75th.

"We're pleased that the sixth graders turned the corner in math, but we're now looking into the other areas," Nicoll said.

"We're not particularly ashamed of our scores, but we realize that sixth grade is an area we need to bolster. So, we'll look at our present fifth grade," the superintendent continued.

Second and third graders were tested only in reading and they scored within the expectations and showed little change from

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A special screening committee has narrowed the field of applicants for Orange County assessor down to six candidates, eliminating acting assessor Elmer Zimmer.

Left in the running for the job vacant since mid-September when former assessor Jack Vallerga was sentenced following his felony conviction are:

—Stanley Krause, director of Orange County's Real Property Services.

—George Cormack, assistant to Krause.

—Gary Cottrell, once an official in the Orange County assessor's office and now Riverside County assistant assessor.

—Bradley Jacobs, an ex-executive with Commercial Products Company.

—Peter Ulrich, a private consultant.

—Ralph King, San Diego County assistant assessor.

It is from these six candidates that the board of supervisors, perhaps as early as next week, will select Vallerga's successor.

Whoever is selected for the post will serve the three years remaining on Vallerga's initial four-year term and have all the rights and prerogatives of an

CdM Route Site Death Studied

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL

Industrial safety experts are probing a second fatal crane accident in 13 days at the Corona del Mar Freeway construction site in Costa Mesa, where a novice workman was decapitated Thursday.

A spokesman for the California State Division of Industrial Safety said, meanwhile, the general contractor on the job will be issued a citation for the Oct. 31 fatal accident.

"Definitely," declared Gene Cresci, when asked if the Novo-Rados Construction Company of Whittier will be charged with safety violations as a result of the previous incident.

No specific details were available on specific charges to be included in the citation, which could result in revocation of the firm's state contractor's license.

Cresci said they will be announced when the citation is formally issued.

Thursday morning, Michael Clinton Wakefield, 26, of 1303 S Bristol St., Santa Ana, was killed instantly when his head was crushed between a 10-ton counterweight that swung against the side of a crane it helped support

Police Officer George Yezbick said crane operator Tony Cordasco, of Upland, had already shouted warnings to the apprentice oiler three times in about one hour to be more careful.

Suddenly, while swinging the 80-ton crane's boom carrying an empty cement container Cordasco said, he felt it lurch to a stop as though something was jamming the apparatus.

Harold G. Morris, 28, of 5306 Franklin Circle, Westminster, was killed instantly Oct. 31 across the freeway route from Thursday's fatal accident scene and three co-workers were seriously injured.

Morris was being carried inside a huge steel reinforcing rod assembly for a freeway support pillar when it slipped from a crane and plunged to earth, collapsing on impact.

He was crushed inside it, while has co-workers now hospitalized in Newport Beach, Wilmington and Corona were apparently hit by flying debris.

The accident site is at what will be the interchange of the Newport and Corona del Mar freeways, near Baker and Bristol streets in northest Costa Mesa.

State Division of Industrial Safety spokesmen in San Francisco also clarified today exactly which firm is involved as general contractor on the job which also involves sub-contractors.

The Novo-Rados Construction Company, a major freeway and highway building firm, is in charge, but some of its equipment carries signs identifying it as another defunct company.

Novo-Rados has leased or rented cranes and other heavy equip-

Gregg Allman Asks Divorce From Cher

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Rock star Gregg Allman filed a court petition today asking that his four-month marriage to television entertainer Cher be dissolved.

The petition filed in Bibb Superior Court says the marriage is "irretrievably broken." It says the couple were separated on Nov. 11.

Cher, star of a variety show, and Gregg, singer and songwriter with the Allman Brothers band, were married in Las Vegas on June 30.

The marriage, which came just three days after Cher's divorce from her longtime husband and singing partner Sonny Bono, has been stormy despite its brevity.

Two Girls Found Safe In Mesa

Fearing the worst, Costa Mesa police initiated a foot and helicopter search Thursday for two preschool-age girls missing near the pond where a drowned youth's body was recovered less than 24 hours before.

However, this search ended happily and, for the two frightened youngsters, even included a short ride in a police helicopter.

Lisa Winger, 3, of 906 Dogwood St., and Jennifer Dowling, 4, of Manhattan Beach, who was visiting the Winger home, were discovered about 2:30 p.m., safe, but scared.

They had gone wading in a mudhole and got stuck in it.

Spotting the little girls from aloft, helicopter pilot Sgt. Carl Jackson landed at the scene just off Victoria and Brookhurst streets below the Santa Ana River bluffs.

Officer Frank Veloz said Sgt. Jackson waded into the muck to rescue the unhappy wanderers, who were apparently in no real danger.

They were then given a ride in the police chopper up to nearby Victoria School, where they were reunited with Lisa's mother, Mrs. Priscilla Winger and taken home for a bath.

Investigators said the Wingers'

Funeral Set For Youth In Drowning

Funeral services were conducted this morning for Mark Anthony Antonelli, the 18-year-old Huntington Beach resident who drowned in a hunting accident earlier this week near the Santa Ana River.

The rites were held at Sts. Simon and Jude Catholic Church in Huntington Beach under direction of the Neptune Society.

The resident of 10202 Constitution Lane drowned in a small, water-filled quarry as he waded out Monday evening to retrieve a coot he had just shot.

Mr. Antonelli leaves his father, Anthony, of the family home on Constitution Lane; his mother, Mrs. George Allen of La Palma; brothers Matthew and John; a sister, Kathryn, and grandparents Mr. and Mrs. August Antonelli of New York.

Following this morning's Roman Catholic rites, Mr. Antonelli's remains were scattered at sea.

Another Ford Alert Issued

ATLANTA (AP) — Police said the Secret Service issued an alert today for a man reportedly concealing a rifle under his coat near the Marriott Motor Hotel, just an hour and a half before President Ford's scheduled arrival there.

A spokesman for the Secret Service Atlanta office would only say: "We've got an investigation under way." Atlanta police units scrambled to the area around the downtown motel, where Ford was scheduled to meet with state Republican leaders at 3:30 p.m. and then address a fund-raising dinner at 8:30.

"The Secret Service has issued a lookout for a person supposed to be armed with a rifle," an Atlanta police spokesman said.

Mesans Lose Brawl With Newport Cops

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What began as a routine traffic arrest degenerated into a brawl early today when two Newport Beach police officers and two Costa Mesa brothers battled it out in the arrestees' home.

The brothers, police said, lost.

Donald John Jacobi, 23, and his brother, Fred, 21, both of 476 Walnut Ave., were arrested at 1 a.m. after two separate alleged battles with police at the family home.

Patrolman Steve Vance was the first to mix it up with the brothers, he alleged today, and at one point said he was choked unconscious.

Vance said that the series of incidents began when he noticed a pickup truck speeding and skidding in the Newport Heights area and traced the truck to the Jacoby residence.

Vance said that moments after contacting the father of the house, he noticed one of the brothers in a driveway.

His attempts at an arrest, he said, were greeted with oaths and threats. Seconds later both Brainwashed?

Expert Summoned by Hearsts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —A British psychologist considered an expert on brainwashing techniques says he is flying here from London today to examine Patricia Hearst at the request of her parents.

Dr. William W. Sargent said in England that he would spend about three days visiting Miss Hearst in her cell at the San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City south of here. Miss Hearst, 21, faces trial on federal bank robbery charges.

Dr. Sargent, 68, is a consulting psychiatrist at St. Thomas' Hospital in London. He has written many books, including "Battle for the Mind."

Miss Hearst's lawyers filed an affidavit in court shortly after the newspaper heiress was arrested Sept. 18 in which she claimed she was tortured and driven to the verge of insanity by Symbionese Liberation Army captors.

Mate Held For Shooting Wife's Truck

Norman M. Sinclair of Norwalk remained in Costa Mesa City Jail today following his 3 a.m. arrest on charges of shooting his wife's pickup truck. She was not inat.

Sinclair, 29, allegedly told police he was angry because Mrs. Margaret Sinclar, 26, staying at 1337 Conway Ave., refused to let him borrow the truck.

He assertedly stalked out, took careful aim and fired a .45 caliber automatic pistol into its right front fender, whereupon Mrs. Sinclair's horrified hostess who heard the shot called police.

Patrol Sgt. Dick DeFrancisco took Sinclair, an aviation mechanic, into custody without incident and he was booked on charges of brandishing a firearm and discharging a firearm inside city limits.

Investigators said Sinclair was calmly carrying the gun when he approached Sgt. DeFrancisco's patrol car to see what he wanted.

Pair Sought In CM Thefts

A fat man of Latin descent and an extremely pretty young woman were listed as suspects today in the $900 burglary of a Costa Mesa home Thursaday.

Investigators said evidence at the home of Louie A. Garcia, of 2541 Elden Ave., indicates the fat man and his attractive accomplice crawled through a pet door to gain entry.

Garcia told police his loss included a radio and television set in addition to other household items.

Whoever stole the belongings did not take them out through the doggie door, but unlocked the regular door from the inside, police said.

Mesa Swimming Program Slated

Wounded Mesan Moved

Longtime Harbor Area resident, real estate broker and bail bondsman Frank Downes, wounded in an ambush murder attempt 16 days ago, has been transferred to a new hospital.

The victim, 69, was taken from Costa Mesa Memorial Hospital to Hoag Memorial Hospital in Newport Beach Thursday for further examination with more extensive X-ray equipment available there.

He was listed in satisfactory condition today, slowly recovering from bullet wounds in the arm and face, the latter just under the left eye.

The slug that struck him in the face, tearing through his sinus cavity and severing an artery to the brain remains lodged at the back of his skull.

Authorities said had it not been for immediate arrival of the Costa Mesa Fire Department paramedic team which went into service less than a month before, he would have died at the scene from loss of blood.

The well-known Costa Mesan, of 2453 Orange Ave., was ambushed by an assailant who apparently studied his daily habits and hid in his garage that Wednesday night.

Downes was shot as he arrived home about 7:45 p.m. after having cocktails with friends at the Marquis Restaurant, which he frequented.

The victim has said he did not know or even recognize the man, reportedly about 25, who emerged from the darkness and fired four shots, two of which hit him.

The search immediately centered on the pond area, both due to the Antonelli tragedy and the fact Lisa's and Jennifer's shoes and socks were found beside the gate.

Investigators suspected they might have wandered off intending to do some wading.

Mesa's Sears Store Gets Bomb Threat

Security personnel and police conducted a search of Sears Roebuck & Company at Costa Mesa's South Coast Plaza Thursday following a dynamite bomb threat, but found nothing.

The store at 3333 S. Coast Plaza was not evacuated during the hunt for a time bomb an anonymous caller said would explode in a trash bin at 5 p.m. He called at 3:45 p.m.

Security Officer Robert Hunter casually asked the caller warning of the alleged bomb for his name during the conversation, hoping he might blurt it out without thinking.

"That would be stupid," the caller reportedly snapped.

Investigators said store officials were worried over the incident because of a recent wave of malicious mischief including $2,000 damage to store windows.

Harris Victims Unafraid

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Attorneys for William and Emily Harris disclosed today that key witnesses called before a grand jury that indicted the traveling companions of Patricia Hearst said they did not fear their kidnapers.

Attorney Leonard Weinglass further revealed that the police had one kidnap victim hypnotized by a psychologist before he testified.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Samuel Mayerson conceded at a court hearing that kidnap victims Frank Sutter and Tom Matthews, allegedly abducted by the defendants in May 1974, testified, "After they had been with the defendants a period of time they did not feel an imminent danger."

However, the prosecutor denied that authorities sought to coerce a witness through hypnosis into giving more incriminating testimony against the avowed members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

But Weinglass declared, "The police made the appointment for the witness and brought the witness to the psychologist's office.

"The entire session dealt with the facts of this case . . . the reason for taking this witness to the psychologist was the same problem the prosecution has throughout this case — some of these so-called victims show a bias to the defendants which the prosecution does not understand.

"Some of these so-called victims do not see themselves as victims," Weinglass said.

He didn't identify the hypnotized kidnap victim.

What the six remaining applicants for county assessor survived was a two-day screening of 20 candidates by an 11-member committee appointed by the Board of Supervisors.

Originally, there were 114 applicants for the job. But in preliminary eliminations county Administrative Officer Robert Thomas and Personnel Director Bert Scott pared the list to 20.

And it was from those 20 that the committee selected the six applicants who will be considered for the post by the supervisors.

Among the prominent applicants who didn't survive the screening committee cut were Zimmer, San Diego County Assistant Assessor C. J. Templeton and Glenn County Assessor Mike McCullough.

Ventura County Assessor Ed Shiner reportedly withdrew from the running early this week.

The six applicants who are still in the running were graded on a point basis by the blue ribbon selection committee.

It is reported that Krause accumulated the highest number of points and was followed in order by Cottrell, Ulrich, Jacobs, Cormack and King.

Kidnap Hoax

Girl Wasn't Abducted

The 15-year-old girl originally thought to have been forced by her former boyfriend from Westminster to travel 2,400 miles cross-country went willingly, federal agents confirmed today.

Investigators who questioned the alleged kidnaping victim sought for three days between Fort Lauderdale and Orange County said she was not abducted at all.

Katherine Ball, a student at exclusive Pine Crest School, a private girls' academy, failed a lie detector test administered Tuesday.

"She was deceptive in her answers," said Assistant State Attorney Jeffery Smith, who also announced criminal charges against Thomas J. Gregory, 19, of Westminster, are being dropped.

The FBI entered the case after Miss Ball left a note in the ladies' room of a Waverly, Tenn., service station Nov. 4 claiming she was being kidnaped and forced to go to California.

Authorities mounted a nationwide search for the missing girl and the former boyfriend she met in Saudi Arabia where their parents are oil company employes, leading to apprehension in Kingman, Ariz., eight days ago.

Ford: Black VP Fine

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — President Ford indicated today he would consider a black running mate on the 1976 Republican presidential ticket.

"Certainly, Sen. Ed Brooke, by his record, is a person who ought to be considered," Ford said.

Ford made the statement during a questioning session with students at North Carolina Central University.

His reference was to Sen. Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass.), who is black.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller has withdrawn from consideration as Ford's running mate.

Ford praised Brooke, the junior senator from Massachusetts, as a capable public official with qualifying experience as state attorney general and in the Senate.

"I like him personally," Ford said, "and he has an enviable record."

The President had been asked what blacks, if any, he was considering for a running mate.

The brief exchange came in a meeting with about a dozen student leaders.

Reporters were not able to ask the President for elaboration.

However, earlier in his visit to the black college, Ford expressed a general interest in finding better positions for blacks and women.

RUNNING MATE?
Sen. Edward Brooke

Asked about a possible black appointment to the Cabinet, Ford mentioned William Coleman, already secretary of Transportation, but added "there are no more anticipated changes in the Cabinet."

Ford began his visit to two Southern states today by receiving an honorary degree from the black college and calling for the day "when all the children of God are brothers and sisters."

Ford was greeted by hundreds of persons and waded into the crowd shaking hands as he arrived on campus to accept an honorary doctor of laws degree at the university's 50th annual convocation.

Later in the day, he planned to fly to Atlanta for a GOP fundraising dinner.

At Durham, the college choir sang "We Shall Overcome" as about a half-dozen white hecklers from the stands of the gymnasium waved placards protesting the presence of 93 prisoners on North Carolina's death row.

A chant of "93 Lives in Your Hands" was shouted as North Carolina Gov. James Holshouser rose to introduce Ford. Holshouser paused in his introduction and said, "I would never intervene and perhaps damage the rights of those defendants."
