Cause: Possible careless smoking.

Tumble Into Bay

4 Whale-watching Kids Hurt as Plank Breaks

Four young students, among 50 youngsters on a whalewatch cruise, suffered minor injuries at Dana Harbor Wednesday when a gang plank separated from its pinnings and fell into the bay.

None of the four was seriously hurt in the freak mishap, occurring at the sportfishing docks of the new harbor.

"We still don't know how the thing separated. It was a county-inspected ramp and we have it apart this morning trying to find out exactly why it broke," said Sportfishing owner Don Hansen.

The incident occurred, he said, shortly before noon as the youngsters from Crown Valley School in Laguna Niguel returned from a whale cruise.

The first group debarked and started up the ramp when the fastening at the bulkhead separated.

The ramp fell eight feet to a rocky area at the base of the wall.

One youngster fell into the water but was immediately picked up by a deckhand. Several others landed on rocks and suffered bruises.

The most severe injury, said Crown Valley Principal John Hopkins, was a cut suffered by a boy. The wound required two stitches, he said.

The names of the youngsters were not released by school officials.

Hansen said the mishap was the first injury in seven years of operating the whale-watch cruises and other scientific trips for schools.

"We have had at least 70,000 kids on the boats without any serious incident during that time," Hansen said.

"We just can't figure out why this happened. That ramp was new and it just shouldn't have separated," he added.

Hopkins said that after the emergency treatment at San Clemente General Hospital the four children returned to school.

'Hasty Decision'

Dentist Cancels Beach Evictions

By JOHN ZALLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dr. Robert Beauchamp, the widely known family credit dentist, has canceled all eviction notices to the nearly 100 families in his Huntington Vista apartment complex.

Just one week after the mass eviction notices were sent out, Dr. Beauchamp has admitted that "our original decision was rather hastily conceived" and asked all families to cooperate in straightening out the complex's problems.

"Dr. Beauchamp is really a very compassionate man," said Mrs. Lillian Wolf, manager of the apartments. "The more he thought how many children would have their schooling disrupted and how upset the parents were, the more he reconsidered what he had ordered."

The decision to switch Huntington Vista to all-adult apartments was made because of high rate of vandalism damage from children in the complex. In announcing his change of mind, Dr. Beauchamp pleaded with parents to help weed out the troublesome children.

"It will benefit everyone to eliminate expensive destruction," said Dr. Beauchamp in a letter to his tenants. "We can improve conditions to the point where Huntington Vista is an exemplary development," he added.

Jean Waddell, leader of a parent group fighting the eviction, said today that "his decision has restored my faith in humanity, which was wavering a bit."

However Mrs. Waddell was not in complete agreement with the management.

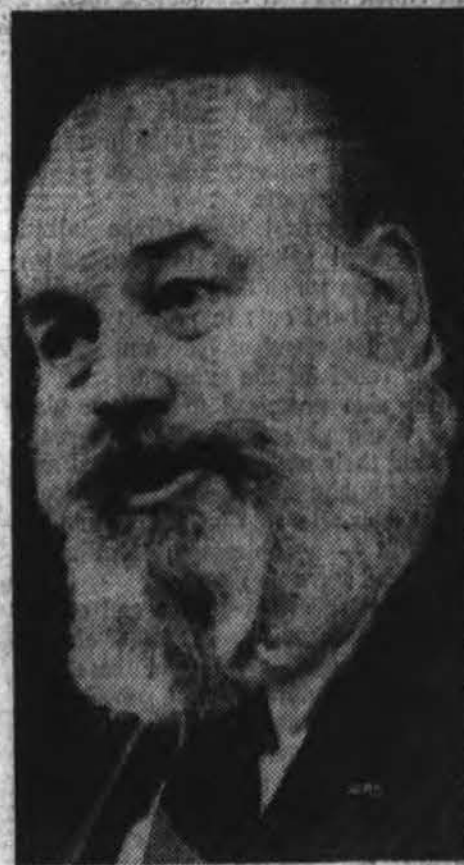

"Obviously we've got to control the vandalism," said Mrs. Waddell. "But I think some of the damage reports may have been exaggerated."

Mrs. Waddell went on to say that "I think all the parents realize now the need to cooperate with the management in doing whatever we can."

A meeting of all tenants has been called for Sunday to discuss vandalism problems in the complex. Mrs. Wolf said that past meetings of this type have not always been productive, but she felt the Sunday gathering would have better results.

"I think people realize now that they have to become involved in how the apartments are kept up or they won't be kept up," she said. "I think they realize now that the management is not their private baby-sitting service."

Mrs. Wolf said that she would be working hard to identify troublesome children and families either to "straighten them out" or to evict them.

DIES IN PALM SPRINGS
Winthrop Rockefeller

W. Rockefeller, Former Arkansas Governor, Dead

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, the former Arkansas governor and one of six children of multimillionaire John D. Rockefeller Jr., died today at Desert Hospital, a family spokesman said. He was 60.

Rockefeller was admitted to the hospital a week ago with a chest ailment. Immediate cause of death was not announced. Doctors have refused to discuss details of the illness except to say it might be related to an operation he underwent last year in New York for removal of a malignant cyst on his back.

Rockefeller was the brother of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Their mother was Abby Green Aldrich Rockefeller.

In 1966, after one unsuccessful race for governor, Winthrop — then a robust, 6-foot-3, 235 pounds — became the first Republican elected governor of Arkansas since reconstruction.

He ignited a wave of reform that led to Arkansas' first state minimum wage, tightened restrictions on securities dealers, and restrictions on what he termed "fly-by-night" insurance companies.

One of his first official acts was to make public the report compiled by the state police in their investigation of brutality and torture in the state's prisons.

Police Slay U.S. Flier On Runway

ENSENADA, Mexico (AP) — An American pilot from Las Vegas was shot to death and a California attorney taken into custody during what Mexican authorities described today as a gun battle in a marijuana smuggling raid.

They said Phillip Murrell Barton, 29, was shot to death by federal judicial police and by Mexican soldiers when he drove his plane directly at them and fired a weapon.

"They had no choice but to open fire to keep from being killed," said a spokesman in the office of Carlos M. Roncalia Gonzales, federal district attorney.

The attorney, identified as Robert Lee Grimes of San Diego, was jailed in Ensenada for arraignment later this week. Grimes was wounded in the left arm, according to his attorney, Marcus Felgado of Ensenada, when a flurry of 10 shots were fired into Grimes' airplane as it also was landing at the remote mountain airstrip 30 miles north of here.

Details of the shooting and arrest, which took place late Monday afternoon, were disclosed Wednesday.

Semi-sunny Sky Seen on Weekend

Mostly sunny skies will prevail over the Orange Coast today and Friday, with some variable clouds butting in, the National Weather Service predicts.

Highs will reach 68 degrees on the coastline and 74 inland.

Predicted weekend weather will follow the same trend, with possible showers Sunday.

Monkey Loose?

Airlines Deny Sick Pet Ran Free

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two commercial airlines today disputed a report from the Colorado Health Department that a pet monkey which later died of tuberculosis was allowed to scamper in their passenger cabins during flights.

A spokesman for American Airlines in New York said, "We don't carry monkeys in the passenger cabin... We don't have any record of that happening."

A United Airlines spokesman in Chicago said that airline also has rules against animals in the passenger cabin.

Dr. Martin D. Baum, chief of veterinary services for the Colorado Health Department, said Wednesday the monkey was allowed to mingle with passengers on an American flight from Rochester, N.Y. to Cleveland Dec. 22, and on a United flight from Cleveland to Grand Junction, Colo. the next day.

He said that although it was in a carrying case it was released during the flight, thus exposing the passengers to the disease.

Orange Coast Weather

Mostly sunny on Friday, with early morning high clouds along the coast. Beach temperatures should reach 64, rising to 75 inland. Overnight lows in the 40s.

U.S., Peking Set Up Liaison Offices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and China announced today they will establish governmental liaison offices in Washington and Peking to speed normalization of relations between the countries.

The development was announced in a joint communique issued in Washington and Peking.

Presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger said the offices will serve as the principal contact points on the expansion of trade "as well as all other matters except the strictly formal diplomatic aspects" of ties between the countries.

Kissinger said the liaison offices will have full diplomatic privileges but will in no way imply establishment of formal diplomatic relations.

Kissinger, who returned Tuesday from four days of extensive talks in Peking with Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai also disclosed that:

—Two American airmen held prisoner by China since being shot down over Chinese territory will be released in the next few weeks. They are Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith of Victorville, Calif., a prisoner since Sept. 20, 1965, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn of Salt Lake City, held since Aug. 21, 1967.

—The life sentence of John Thomas Downey, a Central Intelligence Agency employee held since the Korean conflict, will be reviewed in the last half of the year. Kissinger said he had been told Downey's sentence could be shortened for good behavior and that he was informed Downey's conduct as a prisoner had been exemplary.

—The United States has no immediate plans to withdraw its remaining military forces from the Chinese Nationalist island of Taiwan but the subject will be reviewed periodically, with decisions based principally on Washington's assessment of the danger of war in the area.

—Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei will begin discussions in Paris next week on settlement of private American claims against China, totalling some $250 million, and some $78 million of blocked Chinese assets in the United States. The aim will be to resolve the issues quickly through negotiations.

The agreement to establish liaison offices in each other's capitals apparently was the most significant development to come out of Kissinger's Peking talks. He said the two governments felt the existing formal channel for contact through their Paris embassies "was inadequate."

The communique said Kissinger and the Chinese "agreed that the time was appropriate for accelerating the normalization of relations."

Kissinger reported that, as part of the exchange effort, China will send to the United States next year its priceless exhibit of archeological artifacts housed in Peking's Forbidden City. In addition, three scientific groups and a gymnastics team will visit the United States this year.

The United States, he said, will send the Philadelphia Orchestra, groups of doctors, scientists and elementary school teachers, Congress members and athletic teams to China during 1973.

Asked if the talks envisioned exchanges of journalists, Kissinger said he felt there was "an understanding in principle" on the subject but that details would have to be worked out.

Responding to another question, Kissinger said there was no discussion of possible American visits by Mao, Chou or other Chinese leaders.

Nixon Address

Tax Plan Listed In Economy Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told Congress today he will ask this year for (1) tax reforms, (2) a program to relieve old people of the burden of property taxes, and (3) a tax break for families whose children attend parochial schools.

Nixon listed his tax plans in an economic message to Congress, the third section of his State of the Union message. But he did not spell out the details.

The message confirmed that Nixon would ask for broad authority to both raise and lower tariffs as a weapon in negotiating international monetary and trade problems with U.S. trading partners.

Such power is necessary, the President said, because the nation's imbalance of trade — an unprecedented $6.5 billion last year — "could threaten the mounting prosperity of our people."

Nixon defended to an increasingly restive Congress the slashes in social programs that he proposed in his fiscal 1974 budget.

While some programs have appealing names, they are failures, he said.

"Behind a fancy label can lie a dismal failure," he said, "and unless we cut back now on the programs that have failed, we will soon run out of money for the programs that succeed."

Among those which he said "can no longer be justified" are some housing, health, education, and welfare programs.

The 5,000-word message gave no details on what tax reforms Nixon would propose. But it committed him to deal with that matter — a commitment that was in doubt because Administration sources played down tax reform as just another name for increasing the taxes of the wealthy.

All Nixon said on the subject was: "I shall recommend a tax program that builds further reforms on those we achieved in 1969 and 1971."

He said he would send a bill to Congress "for alleviating the crushing burdens which property taxes now create for older Americans."

Late in his first term Nixon talked about federal subsidies to the states and localities which could make possible across-the-board cuts in property taxes, but toward the end of his campaign he stressed relief for the elderly.

Nixon also promised to back a plan which would give tax relief to parents who send their children to parochial and other nonpublic elementary and secondary schools. He said he had in mind a tax credit — a subtraction from taxes owed — but gave no figures.

Some civil liberties groups and others concerned about the separation of church and state oppose tax relief for those who send their children to private schools.

But those schools, Nixon argued, "are a valuable national resource, relieving the public schools system of enrollment pressures, injecting a welcome variety into our educational process and expanding the options of millions of parents."

Diamond Bar Man

Huntington to File Rape Charges Naming Suspect

Huntington Beach police say they expect to file formal rape charges later this week against a Diamond Bar man arrested as a suspect in at least nine southern California sexual assaults.

Detective Luis Ochoa said Ralph David Utley, 28, will be arraigned today in Long Beach on four rape charges stemming from attacks in that city.

Utley was arrested Monday night at his home by detectives from Long Beach and Anaheim who had been tracking him for nearly eight months.

Investigators said Utley, married and the father of three, has a record as a sex offender and has spent time at Atascadero State Hospital on a conviction for a sex crime.

Ochoa alleged that Utley attacked

Alvarez' Lawyer Claims 'Divorce' May Be Illegal

OAKLAND (UPI) — An attorney for Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez Jr. said there was a "quite serious question" whether the returned war prisoner had been legally divorced.

Attorney William Dunbar Wednesday termed it a "legal mess."

Tangee Alvarez, 32, filed for a dissolution of marriage in 1970 while the pilot was in a North Vietnamese prison camp but Alameda County Superior Court never issued such a decree.

Alvarez, 35, is a Navy pilot whose plane was shot down in 1964 and who spent more time in North Vietnamese prison camps than any other American. He is now in Oakland Naval Hospital.

Before seeking the dissolution in California, the wife applied for one in Mexico.

Farmer Gets Award

FRESNO (AP) — Soledad farmer Alfred H. Clark received the California Farm Bureau Federation's annual award for distinguished service to agriculture at the organization's 54th annual convention banquet here Wednesday night.

Women Who Were Alone in Laundromats

In most of the cases, he assertedly found the woman alone, late at night, and would kidnap her at knifepoint, take her to an isolated spot, rape her and then return her to the laundromat.

The detective said he is reviewing other unsolved rape cases in Huntington Beach dating back over two or three years to determine if Utley could be a suspect in those old cases.

He will seek a formal complaint against Utley for one laundromat rape case which occurred earlier this month. Ochoa said Utley may have been the suspect in a recent attempted rape case that was never formally reported.

Israeli Pilot's View

Pilot 'Botched' Forced Landing

TEL AVIV (UPI) — One of the F4 Phantom jet pilots who shot down a Libyan Boeing 727 airliner said today he was only trying to force the plane to land after it had flown over a top-secret Israeli airfield in the Sinai Desert and that the French pilot apparently botched the attempt.

Israeli officials said 99 persons were known dead in the crash on the Sinai Desert Wednesday and that there were seven survivors, two in serious condition. The death toll could go higher. Libya said there were 113 persons aboard, which would indicate a death toll of 106, but a sandstorm blocked a search of the wreckage today. Two of nine original survivors died during the night.

The newspaper Yedioth Aharonoth said the copilot, identified as el Khadifa el Mahadi, a Libyan, told the men who rescued him from the wreckage that he and the pilot were frightened and did not follow the orders of Israeli interceptors to land after wandering over the Sinai.

In Cairo, Egyptian aviation authorities said the last recorded words from the French pilot of the Libyan airliner clearly showed that Israeli fighters shot his aircraft down without warning.

Egypt said "Israel will pay a high price at the hands of the Arabs for this cowardly, monstrous and barbaric crime."

The Israeli pilot of the American-built Phantom was identified only as Uri. He told a news conference he fired brief cannon bursts across the nose of the Libyan plane and, when it continued heading toward Egypt, he aimed at the wingtip. The 727 continued westward, he said.

"He was now one minute from the canal (Egypt), so we decided to shoot at the wing to cause more serious damage to force him down before he reached the canal," Uri said.

"But the plane began to burn," he said. "There was red flames and black smoke. The pilot tried to make a forced landing but hit the ground and burst into flames."

"It looked like an attempted forced landing not done very well."

The air force commander, Maj. Gen. Mordechai Hod, told the same news conference that the 727 had flown over the secret Bir Gafgafa Air Base in the Sinai and was acting suspiciously as if it might be on a spy mission.

"The more he tried to escape, the more suspect he became," Hod said, noting that the Israeli pilots first tried hand signals and then dipped their wings in front of the 727 — the order to land.

"We tried desperately to force him down and not shoot him down," Hod said. "We were unsuccessful in this."

Tustin Marine Held in Murders Of Spouse's Kin

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A Marine from Tustin, who followed his estranged teenage wife to her grandparents' home here is being held on suspicion of murdering the elder couple with a shotgun.

Complaints charging Cpl. Joseph Zaerr, 22, in connection with the Tuesday shooting spree were expected to be issued today.

He is held in connection with the shootings of George Wass, 65, who died immediately and his wife Mary, 63, who succumbed Wednesday in a hospital.

Investigators interrogating Mrs. Mary Zaerr, 18, about incidents leading up to the slayings said she and her grandfather came home from an errand to find Zaerr waiting.

He apparently was holding her grandmother at shotgun point, or at least held the weapon at the time, police said.

The young woman said she went into a bedroom and then heard the weapon fired.

Detective Sgt. Sam Howe said that following the fatal shootings, Cpl. Zaerr escorted his wife about a block down the street.

She called police from a pay phone and then the couple waited for their arrival.

Rockefeller ran in 1970 for a third term, but had been overwhelmed by his Democratic foe, Dale Bumpers.

Weeks after he left office, Rockefeller was quietly divorced by Jeannette Edris Rockefeller, formerly of Seattle, after nearly 15 years of marriage.

He was first married to Barbara "Bobo" Sears, daughter of a Lithuanian coal miner, but that "Cinderella romance" ended in divorce in 1954, after he moved to Arkansas from New York.

The settlement reportedly totaled a third of his fortune, then estimated at $18 million.

Rockefeller also was chairman of the boards of Colonial Williamsburg, continuing his family's interest and multi-million-dollar funding of the restoration of the 18th century Virginia town.

Rockefeller was educated at the Lincoln School of Columbia University's Teachers College in New York City, the Loomis School in Windsor, Conn., and Yale University, which he left in his junior year.

Rockefeller was, even to those who closely advised him, a puzzle and a bit of a maverick.

The only one of the Rockefeller children to fail to complete college, he rough-necked three years in the Texas oilfields and enlisted as a private in the Army in World War II. Rockefeller became a captain in December 1942 and a major in 1943.

His brothers are Nelson A. Rockefeller, Laurence Rockefeller, David Rockefeller, and John D. Rockefeller. His sister, Mrs. Jean Mauze, lives in New York.

Police said more than six tons of marijuana had been flown into the United States during "15 or 20" flights, quoting J. Matilde Patron Tirado, 66, foreman of the ranch where the mountain airstrip was located.

Patron was arrested for investigation of narcotics traffic, along with Felipe Rosas Osuna, 26, and Martin Enciso Heredia, 20, both of Mazatlan, Sinaloa.

The two were waiting at the airstrip with 749 bricks of marijuana, or about three-quarters of a ton, when Grimes landed his plane, police said. At the time, police and soldiers were hidden nearby.

"He put his hands up and came out," Delgado said of Grimes.

He said the San Diego lawyer told him that he flew to Mexico to pick up three acquaintances. His plane had been rented from Golden State Flying Club at Gillespie Field in El Cajon.

The plane used by Barton was virtually destroyed by gunfire. Inside were found cans of gasoline.

The plane's owner was not determined immediately.

In San Diego, the U.S. Air Flight Service said no flight plan to Mexico had been filed by Barton.

Food Skyrockets Overall Monthly Prices Rise .3%

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food prices took their biggest monthly leap in a generation last month, the Labor Department said today. But lower prices for clothing and used cars kept the overall rise in the cost of living to a relatively modest 0.3 percent.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said overall food prices rose 2.1 percent in January, the largest one-month increase since January 1951, when they rose 2.5 percent.

The increase was even steeper for food purchased in grocery stores, which went up 2.5 percent, the biggest monthly jump since the Labor Department began tabulating home food prices in 1952.

Because food prices usually go up this time of year, the increase in all food prices was 1.9 percent when adjusted for seasonal variations. Still, this was the biggest seasonally adjusted monthly gain since March 1958, when they also rose 1.9 percent.

Prices for commodities other than food dropped 0.5 percent. Such a decrease is normal for this time of year, and so on a seasonally adjusted basis these prices showed no change at all.

Stakes High

Amarillo Slim, Pals Try Hands

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Amarillo Slim, Pug, Toughie and the Sailor — among the world's best poker players — each have put up a minimum of $10,000 to buy into a high-stakes game that could be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to the winner.

Egghead, Goodie and the Mysterious Doctor waited in the wings for a chance to play.

The game started Wednesday with 10 players and $130,000 in $100 and $25 chips on a green felt table at the Golden Nugget Casino.

The game — no-limit "hold-em," a variety of seven-card stud — is the biggest ever sponsored by a casino, says Bill Boyd, a Nugget casino executive playing with his own money.

"We're all friends; but, when you sit down, the friendship ceases," drawled Thomas "Amarillo Slim" Preston. "We try to trap a guy and skin him. I want some hide. I want to skin somebody."

Preston said he expects the table stakes to reach $300,000 and the game to last more than one day. Individual pots should go as high as $70,000, he said.

Part of the lure of the game is the opportunity to beat Preston, a professional gambler who won the so-called "world series of poker" here last May in a playoff against Walter Clyde "Pug" Pearson of Las Vegas.

"They'd rather beat me out of $40 than somebody else out of $2,000," Slim said.

"I'd give $10,000 just to beat him," said W. H. "Egghead" Perry of Odessa, Tex., who is waiting for a chance to play.

"At those prices, I'll even tell everybody you did it," Slim responded.

In "hold-em," players are dealt two cards down and five common cards are put face up in the center of the table. The best five-card hand wins.

Unlike some marathon games, players are allowed to buy more chips if they run low. Six gamblers are ready to replace any players who drop out.

Most of the players are Texans who contest each other regularly, but a few are less well known by the veteran gamblers, and of those Slim said: "I look for them to suffer extreme misfortune."

Simple Method Of Execution?

LINCOLN, England (AP) — A Conservative candidate for Parliament today demanded the return of capital punishment but said razor blades should be left in the cells of convicted murderers so they could execute themselves.

"Hanging is sadistic," Jonathan Guinness told a news conference.

Newsman told the 42-year-old member of the brewing family that death by razor cuts could be slower and less certain than the hangman's rope.

"Well, perhaps a pill or a revolver," he said. "I haven't thought this out very carefully."

Bank Robber, 13, Requires Help, Teacher Asserts

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — A 13-year-old boy accused of holding up a bank and escaping with $700 needs psychiatric help, not reform school, his teacher says.

The boy, whose identity has been withheld because of his age, was scheduled to appear in Family Court today.

The Buffalo office of the FBI said he may be the youngest person ever charged with bank robbery in the United States.

The robbery occurred Valentine's Day at the Seneca-Emslie branch of the Marine Midland Bank Western. Police said a boy armed with a pistol walked into the bank and ordered a teller to fill a bag with money. When the teller started stuffing dollar bills into the bag, he said, "Never mind the ones. Put in the twenties."

Police said many people in the bank were not aware of what happened until the bandit fled.

"He's not a candidate for reform school or jail," said Susan Pritchard, the boy's teacher at the junior high school he attended. "He is a candidate for psychiatric help."

The boy was one of many "mixed-up kids" she has seen since coming to school four years ago, Miss Pritchard said. She said that at one point she considered taking him into her home but school authorities advised against it.

Department Revision

Planning Proposals Due

Recommendations from a five-member advisory committee on a proposed major reorganization of the Orange County Planning Department are due before the county Board of Supervisors March 28.

A study of the planning department, by Urban Research Institute (URI) at Cal State Fullerton was presented to the board Wednesday.

URI developed the suggested changes under a $39,000 management study grant from the supervisors who Wednesday said they hadn't had enough time to look at the results.

They appointed a steering committee composed of Robert Thomas, county administrative officer; Forest Dickason, County planning director; William Hart, personnel director; H. G. Osborne, flood control engineer; and Gerri Commons, chairman of Citizens Direction Finding Commission.

That committee is supposed to report back March 28 with some reaction to the URI study and an included sub-study of the county's general planning program

by consultants Barton, Aschman and Associates.

Some of the major URI proposals include:

—Change in department name to "Environmental Analysis and Planning Department."

—Division of the department, which now splits into land use and general plan work, into five sections. One would serve as support to the supervisors on policy, strategies and projects.

A second division would support with forecasts, data bases, planning and economic analyses the county administrative office (CO).

A third group would interact with regional activities like Southern California Association of Governments, South Coast Regional Conservation Committee and federal agencies.

A fourth would work with cities, special districts, the Local Agency Formation Commission and other groups to coordinate programs.

The final division would work with the county planning commission on area plans and land use regulations.

—Increase in staff of 29 new employees over three years, including two economists, a second assistant director, an illustrator and information specialists.

—Adoption of a $2.7 million budget for the county general planning program, which this year was budgeted $1.03 million. Consultants said the increased money would allow a broader, more efficient planning process.

Dr. Jay Krasner of the URI Cal State staff told supervisors that a reorganization would bring clearer accountability in general and area plans and less fragmentation and duplication of efforts.

Dr. Krasner said the changes could take place over a three-year period with some top management reorganizing in the first 60 days.

"In Orange County," the URI report reads in part, "planners, governmental officials and various constituencies have perceived that the planning process seems to entail an uncoordinated set of relatively isolated procedures and practices."

Only at UCI Can Player Score a 'Whirl-in-one'

It's an 18-hole course designed by William Pereira not Robert Trent Jones.

It's amidst the greenery in the open spaces between buildings at UC Irvine and to all but frisbee enthusiasts is invisible.

The "course" is a frisbee fancier's collection of campus landmarks — buildings, light poles or other non-moving targets.

Its presence on campus was revealed Wednesday by Chancellor Daniel G. Aldrich Jr.

Although he was involved in the design of the campus he has headed since it opened in 1964, Dr. Aldrich admitted that until Tuesday, he was unaware of the presence of the frisbee course.

Yesterday, the School of Engineering held its frisbee tossing contest and the august academicians and Senior Olympics discus hurler joined in.

The contact with the campus' top frisbee experts and a couple of "professional ringers" who seemed to win most events, he said, increased the chancellor's understanding of the sport which pits a plastic disc against the winds. Two persons most often are seen hurling the concave discs at each other on the beach or in Campus Park.

But, Aldrich said he learned Tuesday some students walk about the campus headed for the as yet uncharted "holes" counting the number of huris or "strokes" it takes to get from pillar to post, so it speaks.

To those who previously were not hip to frisbee golf parlance, the campus Commons eatery's recent designation as the "19th hole" immediately becomes apparent.

Marines Facing Trial in Beating Of Two Privates

Two Marine Corps non-commissioned officers at Camp Pendleton face court-martial trials on charges that they ordered a detail of seven Marines to beat two privates.

A Camp Pendleton spokesman said gunnery Sgt. Miguel H. Tostado, 41, of Oceanside, and Cpl. Garry G. Hutton, 22, of San Clemente, have been charged with conspiring to commit assault.

A general court-martial trial for Tostado was to begin today.

The spokesman said Hutton is accused of forming a working party of seven black Marines last October, at Tostado's order, to beat two white privates, Alan L. Forgeson and H. E. Bradley, on two occasions. The privates reportedly had gotten into some sort of trouble at the base, the spokesman said.

The seven members of the working party testified at a pretrial hearing that they administered the beatings on Hutton's order. They were not charged.

Tostado, a Marine for more than 20 years, faces a maximum sentence of two years' confinement at hard labor and a dishonorable discharge if convicted. Hutton, who faces a special court-martial next week, could get six months' imprisonment at hard labor, fines and a bad-conduct discharge.

MacArthur Flooding Seen Ended by $7 Million Plan

The end of the habitual flooding of MacArthur Boulevard near University Drive, when it rains more than a quarter of an inch, is in sight.

State Division of Highways engineers predict an estimated $7 million realignment of MacArthur Boulevard between Bonita Canyon and Jamboree Roads will be completed in the fall of 1975.

A spokesman today said the "first stage" project related to the Corona del Mar Freeway — Route 73 — will go to bid this fall.

Senior Design Engineer Robert Tomlinson noted the project will include a major bridge project carrying the newly aligned MacArthur across the San Diego Creek and flood control channel.

Since 1969, when the bridge serving northbound lanes was washed out by heavy winter rains, culverts have served as a temporary bridge.

Because the culvert pipes are too small to carry storm runoff which collects in San Diego Creek, the route is frequently closed to traffic. Several times each rainy season the flooding affects commuters from Newport Beach, Irvine and Costa Mesa who may be wanting to drive to the airport, shopping centers or UC Irvine.

For this reason, Tomlinson said, the first stage construction of the Corona del Mar Freeway has "first priority" of all state projects in Orange County.

The program approved by the state Highway Commission calls for realignment of MacArthur, bridging and construction of the earth fill embankment which will ultimately carry the freeway. That fill must settle at least two years, Tomlinson explained. The contract for the second stage construction is thus not expected to go to bid until late 1976, he said.

Bastion Captured in Laos After Cease-fire

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — A cease-fire between the Laotian government and the Communist Pathet Lao began at noon today (9 p.m. PST Wednesday night), halting U.S. air strikes in the country. But fighting continued and hours after the cease-fire began the Communists reportedly seized the key bastion of Pak Song.

There still was no word on the possible release of U.S. war prisoners who are to be freed within 90 days of the cease-fire. American officials are in contact with Pathet Lao leaders, but there was no indication of the results of the contacts.

U.S. sources reported that Pak Song, the last major government stronghold in the Bolovens Plateau near the southern tip of the Laotian panhandle, was attacked by North Vietnamese troops before dawn today.

At mid-afternoon, the Central Intelligence Agency-backed irregulars "lost control of Pak Song," the sources said. At least some of the irregulars were reported retreating westward along Highway 23 toward Pakse, site of a major government air base just east of the Mekong River.

The U.S. sources said North Vietnamese

reinforcements poured into the area throughout the day despite continuous American air strikes during the morning. The air strikes ended when the cease-fire took effect and the Communist Pathet Lao radio broadcast an order to its troops to stop fighting "simultaneously and completely."

Laotian air strikes continued and Royal Laotian Air Force T28 fighter-bombers with 250 pound bombs slung beneath their wings continued to take off from the Pakse air strip, 30 miles west of Pak Song, until dark.

Although U.S. Air Force and Marine Corps strikes halted, American private contract air carriers continued to evacuate the wounded and make supply drops to the CIA-supported units and advisers continued their roles, military sources said. The advisers are not ruled out at this point under the cease-fire agreement.

The North Vietnamese who attacked at Pak Song were spotted Wednesday night moving in from the north in 50 trucks. A U.S. Air Force AC130 Spectre gunship was called in and reported knocking out seven of the trucks.

Half an hour after the truce took effect, acting Defense Minister Sisouk Na Champassak went on national radio to order all government troops to strictly observe the agreement. At the same time, the Communist Pathet Lao radio ordered its troops to "simultaneously and completely" stop fighting.

But Sisouk also warned Laotian troops to prepare themselves to resist any Communist offensive and to hold territory under their control at any cost.

"This cease-fire is not peace although it is the key to peace and national reconciliation," he said. But the major military and political problems have not been settled. As long as foreign troops are not totally withdrawn from our territory, a lasting peace is yet to be born."

Military field commanders throughout Laos were summoned to Vientiane Wednesday for an urgent meeting following the signing of the cease-fire pact. The sources said the commanders received instructions regarding operations before and after the cease-fire became effective. No other details were given.

100 POWs to Be Released

Exchange Expected to Take Place in Five Days

SAIGON (UPI) — Military and diplomatic sources said today the next exchange of American prisoners of war, numbering about 100, may take place in the next five days. Hanoi has released 163 Americans and still holds 320.

A North Vietnamese official said earlier this week the next release would be around next Tuesday, although the United States has asked the Joint Military Commission to release the American POWs before then.

In addition, 1,000 South Vietnamese POWs are to be exchanged for 7,000

North Vietnamese POWs by Tuesday.

THE NUMBER OF truce violations reported by the South Vietnamese command dropped by one-third today to the lowest number in two weeks. The South Vietnamese accused the Communists of violating the truce 137 times in the 24 hours ending at dawn today, down 67 from the previous day.

The delayed investigation of last week's downing of an unarmed American helicopter on temporary loan to the JMC appeared to move forward slightly today when the Communist members of the truce-keeping commission agreed to interview the pilot of the helicopter.

Five Americans were wounded in the incident north of Saigon. Of the five, only the pilot remains in South Vietnam. One crewman was sent to Okinawa for treatment of burns and three others were sent to the United States for medical treatment.

MEANWHILE, WITH THE aid of minefield maps from the U.S. Navy, more than a third of the Communist bloc freighters trapped since May in Haiphong Harbor have navigated the American mine blockade and slipped safely out to sea during the past two weeks.

Pentagon officials considered it a dangerous feat. The mines are still lethal, they said, and although the maps showed where the underwater explosives were dropped no one knows where they might have drifted.

Defense Department sources said the freighters — riding high because they were empty — avoided the mines by sailing at high tide and hugging the shore along the 10-mile waterway linking Haiphong with the Tonkin Gulf.

A TOTAL OF 10 merchant ships have departed Haiphong, the Pentagon announced Wednesday. A spokesman said the exodus started Feb. 9 — shortly after the minefield maps were given to the North Vietnamese — and that the 10th ship steamed out Tuesday.

In Washington, it was announced that the Navy has ordered two aircraft carriers home from Asian waters, the first significant cutback in U.S. air-sea power there since the Vietnam cease-fire.

The Midway is due back at Alameda, Calif., in early March and the America at Norfolk, Va., late in March.

Departure of the carriers reduces the number of U.S. bombers and attack planes deployed near Indochina by approximately 100.

Americans Make Cambodia Raids

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — American fighter-bombers have carried out raids south of Phnom Penh in efforts to turn back a Communist Khmer Rouge offensive in the heaviest fighting in the on-off official war left in Southeast Asia.

Cambodian high command said more than 200 government troops were killed or captured Wednesday as the Khmer Rouge offensive pushed to within 13 miles of the Cambodian capital.

The fighting coincided with a cease-fire in neighboring Laos and slackening in the post-truce action in South Vietnam.

"We are the forgotten people," said one army major as he scanned the lengthy list of military activities in progress.

"We have moved too slowly and now peace has eluded us."

The heaviest fighting flared on Highway 2 where Khmer Rouge troops overran three Cambodian positions, killing or capturing 200 government soldiers and wounding another 50 troops. Heavy fighting was reported spreading south.

'Disastrous' Trend Seen For Newsmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frank Stanton, vice chairman of CBS, predicted today the "disastrous trend" toward jailing of journalists will continue unless Congress passes strong legislation to assure free flow of information to the public.

Stanton said that too frequently reporters "are being jailed because they carried out their responsibility to inform the public and met their moral and historic obligation not to disclose certain information or sources."

In remarks prepared for a Senate Judiciary subcommittee hearing, Stanton urged enactment of a bill to shield newsmen from forced disclosure before state and federal proceedings of unpublished and confidential material and sources.

"PROTECTING THE NEWS media from an enforced role as investigatory arms of the government or of private litigants is vital to the preservation and effectiveness of a free press," Stanton said.

The network executive noted the jailing of five newsmen for refusing to reveal confidential information and its sources and cautioned that reporters across the country were now weighing stories to determine if they are worth a jail sentence.

"Both as a communications executive and as a citizen interested in a robust and independent press," added Stanton, "I believe such conditions come dangerously close to undermining and destroying a fundamental ingredient of a free society."

DESPITE ACTIONS taken against reporters, Stanton predicted that "because professional journalists are not likely to abandon or lower their professional standards, there will be more jailings if subpoenas continue to be served. CBS sees no alternative to strong remedial legislation if this disastrous trend is to be arrested."

Urging adoption of less sweeping newsmen privilege legislation, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. (R-Conn.) told the subcommittee Congress should not preempt the states in enacting a new law.

Brezhnev on Tour

PRAGUE (AP) — Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev was welcomed at Czechoslovakia's eastern border today by Czechoslovak Communist party president Vasil Bilak, Prague Radio announced. Brezhnev is in Czechoslovakia to take part in the 25th anniversary observance of the Communists' coming to power here.

Diahann Weds Not to Frost-to Businessman

LAS VEGAS WEDDING
Diahann Carroll

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Singer Diahann Carroll, who earlier this month ended her engagement to television personality David Frost, has married the owner of a chain of clothing shops.

Miss Carroll, 33, married Freddie Glusman, 39, at his home here Wednesday night, according to a spokesman for the entertainer. It was the second marriage for both.

Miss Carroll portrayed a black nurse in the television series "Julia."

She was regarded as the girl friend of Frost, the British-born talk show host who works in both London and New York, for some time before they announced their engagement last November, saying they would be married at Easter. Less than four months later they announced the end of the engagement, saying they would remain good friends.

Glusman owns shops that sell expensive men's and women's clothing. The best man was Alex Shoofey, former president of the Hilton hotel here.

The ceremony was piped over an open phone line to Miss Carroll's home in Beverly Hills, so that her 12-year-old daughter by her previous marriage, Suzanne, could hear it.

Possible Botulism Foods Off Shelves, Says Firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only one-sixth of 85,000 cases of frozen food containing mushrooms that possibly contain botulism toxin reached wholesalers, Stouffer's Food Co. has informed the federal government.

And these 14,000 cases of frozen green beans and mushrooms, escalloped chicken and noodles, and tuna-noodle casserole have been taken from retail shelves, Stouffer's told the Food and Drug Administration.

"Stouffer's told us that no more is on retail shelves anywhere in the United States," an FDA spokesman said Wednesday.

Fabrizi Family Foods of Ossineke, Mich., expects by the end of February to be able to say that none of its frozen pizza is on the retail market, the FDA said.

The firms were the only two known to have purchased canned mushrooms that may have contained botulism toxin from United Canning Co., East Palestine, Ohio, the FDA said.

The toxin has not been confirmed in any products of either of the two firms, the FDA said, but was found in five lots involving 18,475 cans of mushrooms produced by United Canning.

Missing WACs On 'Honeymoon'

FT. ORD (AP) — The case of two young Army women brought before their commanding officer on charges of being absent without leave "paled into insignificance" when it was learned they had been married to each other.

The Army quickly shelved the AWOL charges and began proceedings to discharge the two as "undesirables" because regulations do not permit "any real choice," Maj. J. D. Coleman, information officer, said Wednesday.

McGovern, Rogers Debate Amnesty Before Senators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern said the administration should grant amnesty to the men who refused to serve in the Vietnam War in the same spirit it was forgiving its former enemies in the war.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said draft evaders should "suffer the views during a confrontation at a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing Wednesday.

Tax Help Promised

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says there will be sympathetic, prompt and trouble-free resolution of income tax problems of returning U.S. prisoners of war and families of servicemen killed or missing in action.

In addition, the Treasury Department is asking Congress to give special tax breaks for hospitalized servicemen and for men missing in action and their wives.

Blast Victims Hunted

COOPERSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Rescue crews, using a crane and bulldozers, searched the ruins of a demolished three-story apartment house today for possible additional victims of an apparent gas explosion and fire which killed at least five persons.

At least 17 other persons were injured when the explosion shattered the six-unit dwelling in this southeastern Pennsylvania community Wednesday, trapping some residents under burning debris. Many of the injured suffered serious burns.

Aid Limits Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright has asked the Senate Appropriations Committee to limit emergency funding of the foreign-aid program to one month in the latest chapter of the Congress-White House battle over spending.

The Arkansas Democrat's request became known shortly after the House Wednesday ratified 311 to 73 its Appropriations Committee's recommendation that the stop-gap funding be extended for four months for foreign aid and the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

Hijack Bill Okayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The senate has unanimously approved a bill to create and equip a federal antihijacking security force at a cost of $40.5 million.

The legislation, which was approved on an 89-0 vote Wednesday, would also allow the President to suspend the right of any foreign air carrier to land in the United States if he determines the other country is encouraging air piracy.

Two 'Police Hit' Suspects Held

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Chicago policeman and a former policeman — alleged leaders of a "police hit squad" — have been arrested by FBI agents on charges of murdering two suspected narcotics dealers. Other arrests were expected.

Arrested were Stanley B. Robinson, 36, who resigned from the Chicago police force last year after being charged with official misconduct, and William H. Tolliver, 46, indicted by a county grand jury last July for bribery and official misconduct but acquitted Nov. 21.

No Aid for Oxnard

Quake Damage Bad-But Not Bad Enough

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Residents of the coastal city of Oxnard, hardest hit by a rolling, rumbling earthquake, faced the prospect today of repairing property damage without state aid.

The earthquake struck Southern California Wednesday, shattering windows, cracking plaster, toppling dishes and bottles from shelves and causing other property damage.

OXNARD, A COASTAL city of 70,000 persons 60 miles northwest of Los Angeles, absorbed the heaviest damage to buildings, most of them old structures.

A spokesman for city, county and state officials who held a news conference in Oxnard after touring the city said a preliminary survey indicated damages could reach $1 million.

Herbert R. Temple Jr., director of the state Office of Emergency Services, said some state aid might be provided to repair damaged roads, highways and public buildings. But he said he doubted that damage was extensive enough to qualify private citizens for state aid.

The quake jolted the California coast from Santa Barbara to San Diego and as far inland as the desert resort of Palm Springs.

ORIGINATING about 10 miles under the Pacific shoreline off Pt. Mugu, near Oxnard, the earthquake began rumbling at 6:46 a.m. and lasted about 20 seconds.

"It was a rumbling quake," said Bob Holt of Ventura, also near Oxnard. "First there was a rumbling, then the house began to creak and shake."

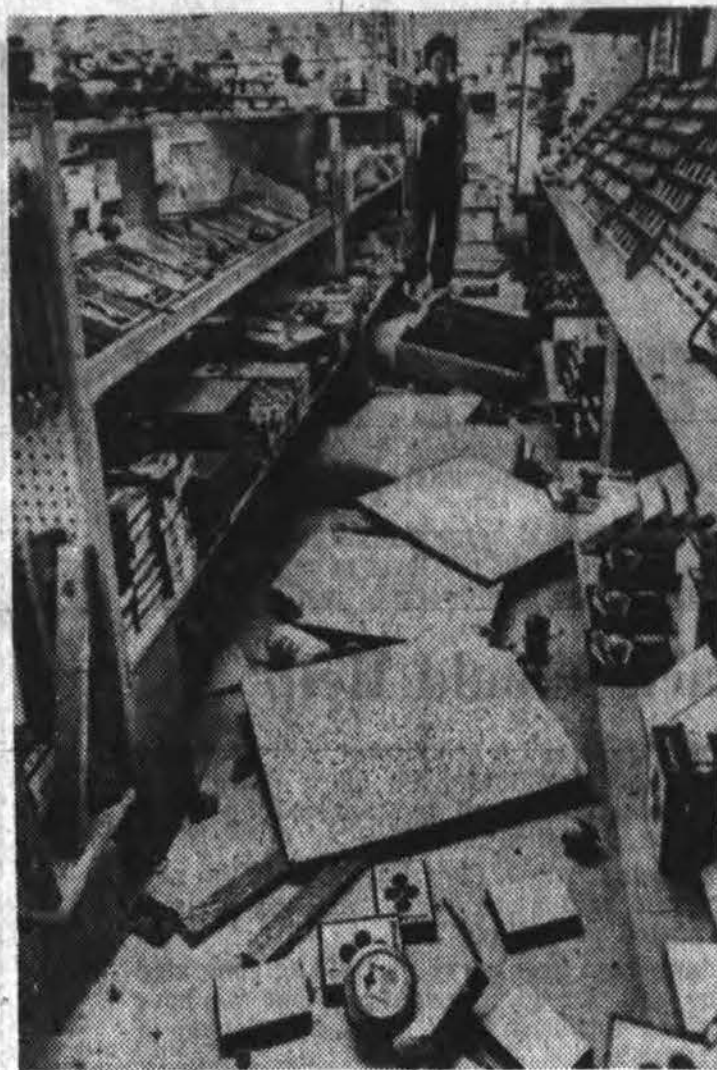

Holt added, "It was like someone was holding the house and shaking it back and forth."

However, the tremor did not approach the force of the one which hit Southern California on Feb. 9, 1971, killing 64 persons and causing hundreds of millions of dollars in damage. The 1971 earthquake, centered in the San Fernando Valley north of Los Angeles, measured 6.4 on the Richter scale.

Wednesday's quake registered 5.75 on the Richter scale at the California Institute of Technology seismic lab in Pasadena. The U.S. Geological Survey in Washington, D.C. measured the quake at 5.5 on the Richter scale. Such discrepancies in early measurements are not unusual.

U.S. GEOLOGICAL Survey scientists reported that the latest earthquake originated at a much deeper point — 10 miles — than the San Fernando temblor. The depth of the quake might have saved the area from more severe damage, they said.

In Oxnard, the most serious damage was at the Esplanade Shopping Center and in the older downtown area. A false ceiling in a department store collapsed, setting off a sprinkler system that covered the floor with about an inch of water.

Jury Convicts Four Manson Followers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four former followers of Charles Manson have been convicted by a Superior Court jury of armed robbery in what the prosecution said was an attempt to obtain money and guns to help Manson escape from prison.

The seven-women, five-man jury deliberated four days before reaching a verdict Wednesday.

THE FOUR had been in the "family" of Manson before his arrest and conviction in the murders of actress Sharon Tate and six others. Manson currently is serving a life term after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled the death penalty — which he had received — was unconstitutional.

The four were Catherine "Gypsy" Share, 30, Mary Brunner, 29, Kenneth Como, 32, and Lawrence Bailey, 23.

They were charged with the 1971 robberies of a suburban Hawthorne gun store and a Covina beer distribution firm. The defendants were captured shortly after the Hawthorne holdup and a gun battle with 30 police officers.

A PHASE OF their trial to determine their sanity was to begin today.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Harland Braun theorized during the trial that the defendants stole 143 weapons from the Hawthorne gun shop and $2,000 from the Covina firm to bolster their efforts to help Manson break out of prison.

Judge Arthur Alarcon ordered the jury sequestered during the latter stages of the trial after two jurors said they had received death threats. The jurors, a man and a woman, were excused from the panel by Alarcon.

LSD-using California Man Charged in Grisly Murders

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — Authorities have charged Herbert W. Mullin with 10 murders, are preparing a complaint for an 11th and investigating the possibility he is linked with the deaths of a half dozen hitchhiking coeds.

Santa Cruz County District Attorney Peter Chang filed an official complaint late Wednesday accusing Mullins, 25, an LSD user from Felton, Calif., of slaying four teenagers found shot to death last weekend in a makeshift tent in the Santa Cruz Mountains.

CHANG FILED six other murder charges against Mullin last week.

Police across the mountains in Los Gatos said state experts confirmed that Mullin's fingerprints were found in the confessional where a Catholic priest was slain last November. Detectives said he would be charged when a background investigation was completed.

Lt. Chuck Scherer of the Santa Cruz Police Department said no evidence has been uncovered linking Mullin to the slayings of six hitchhiking college coeds in the past year.

"But, of course, we are investigating the possibility," he said.

SCHERER SAID the "neatly done" dismemberment of two Santa Cruz coeds whose headless bodies were found last week appears identical to the slaying of a third coed whose remains washed up in pieces on local beaches last month.

The bodies of Alice Liu, 21, Torrance, Calif., and Rosalind Thorpe, 23, Carmel, Calif., both students at the University of California at Santa Cruz who were last seen Feb. 5, were found in hills above San Francisco Bay about 60 miles from here. Both had been beheaded and Miss Liu's hands were missing.

"Their dismemberment appears identical to that of Cynthia Schall," said Scherer.

Reapportionment Plan Gets Push

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Backers of a Senate reapportionment plan which would create a so-called "Chicano seat" in East Los Angeles say they may attempt to send the once-killed plan to the Senate floor today.

THE REDISTRICTING plan was revived Wednesday just a few hours after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled 5-3 in a Virginia case that state legislatures do not have to meet an "absolute equality test" in drawing new district lines.

Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally (D-Los Angeles), author of the reapportionment plan, said the move to revive his bill was not related to the high court ruling, which he called "a bad decision."

At the same time, the author of a rival redistricting measure, Sen. George N. Zeno (D-Fresno), said the Supreme Court ruling gave the Senate the leeway to create the new Mexican American district without taking away the seat of any incumbent senator in Los Angeles County.

ZENO SAID he put his staff to work revising his plan under the new court guideline to create the Chicano seat as soon as the court ruling was announced Wednesday.

Both Dymally and Zeno said their plans were "incumbent's bills" intended to preserve the present 19-19 party split in the Senate.

In last session's defeated draft of the Dymally plan the proposed new East Los Angeles district would be created by squeezing the district of incumbent Democrat Lawrence E. Walsh of Huntington Park southward toward Republican strongholds in Orange County.

Flip Wins Paternity Suit in LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Flip Wilson is not the father of a baby boy, as alleged by dancer Mabel Robinson, a Superior Court judge has ruled.

Judge Harry L. Hupp ruled Wednesday against the woman, who had contended that Wilson was the father of her 8½-month-old son. The judge did not explain the reasons for his ruling other than to say it was based "on the evidence submitted to me."

On Tuesday, Roslyn "Roz" Taylor said she and Wilson planned to marry in about six months.

Expanding Education

A variety of efforts are being made to enable people who have neither the time nor the money to become full time students to pursue college degrees in their spare time.

UC Irvine's Academic Senate now has approved an Extended University experiment to enable part time students to attain bachelor's and master's degrees. This goes beyond University Extension, which offers only short-term credit and non-credit lectures and classes.

The first part time offering will be a degree in social ecology. Other studies will be added later. The Extended University will be open to all. Those who attain the degree eventually will have to complete all university requirements, but at their own pace.

A move also is under way to extend state financing to an "open college" concept now being used successfully at several private institutions. It would offer maximum flexibility for persons who desire further education but cannot meet rigid entrance, attendance and progress requirements. Some eastern colleges also are experimenting with "weekend" degree courses for working people.

All this is very much to the good. As educators learned from GI bill experience, the benefits of higher education often can be substantially greater for older students who have had time to determine their life direction.

Judicial Honor

For the first time since the State Judicial Council was formed in 1926, an Orange County Superior Court Judge has been appointed to its membership.

Judge Bruce Sumner of Laguna Beach, presiding judge of the Orange County Superior Court, is one of 15 judges named to the state's policy making organization by California Supreme Court Chief Justice Donald R. Wright. He is one of seven judges appointed this year.

The former Republican assemblyman also served the state as chairman of the Constitutional Revision Commission and was honored by the Legislature for his role in guiding revision of the state constitution.

As a member of the Judicial Council, he will help establish rules for court administration, practice and procedure.

Orange County should be proud of Judge Sumner's achievements. He has raised the level of our court system while elevating the framework of justice.

Facts Would Help

The viewers with alarm are always with us. Sometimes they're right, but they'd be more welcome if their gloomy predictions were accompanied by occasional constructive suggestions.

Now it's freshman Rep. Clair Burgener of the new 42nd District who says we're facing "a fiscal crisis of grave, unparalleled proportions."

The Congressman says the crisis is being generated both at home and abroad, commenting that we have "made Japan and Germany rich" but are in danger of going broke ourselves.

He pins the blame on the "goofing off" habits of the American worker, noting that we can't very well tell other nations how much to pay their workers, and that protective tariffs will only produce economic war.

This is all very informative and may be partially right. However, the case would be sharpened by citing some specific "how to fix it" examples.

The California steelworkers' volunteer efforts to figure out ways to increase production would be one. Another might be the apparent inclination of some Hollywood unions to yield some of the featherbedding practices established in balmy days and pitch in to help bolster sagging local movie production.

Pontification could become inspiration if the doom-viewers would get down to actual cases instead of scattering general predictions of disaster.

How Could We Forget Snowshoes?

SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of my favorite columnists in the country is not a newspaperman at all, but a naturalist named Roy Lukes, who does a weekly piece for the Door County (Wisc.) Advocate. During much of the year, Lukes spends his time working in the field of environmental education with school children in the county.

Not long ago, he brought a pair of snowshoes to a third-grade class, and held them up. The kids had learned about snowshoes when studying the Eskimos or American Indians, and a few had seen them used in a TV movie. Surprisingly enough, only five out of nearly 150 rural kids had ever seen a real pair of snowshoes.

"I SHOWED them how they were strapped on," writes Lukes, "how one walked on them and turned around, how nicely they trailed in the snow behind you, and mentioned the fact that snowshoes of today have changed relatively little since the Indians invented them. A good pair, complete, would cost about $40, and with reasonable care they very likely would last a lifetime."

He went on: "I assured them they would not have to worry about the models changing in a year or two, and that it was nearly impossible to injure yourself while using them."

Of course, he added, the beautiful part of using snowshoes is that one can be perfectly silent while walking on them, so that one can easily approach wild animals to study and enjoy them. They

Dear Gloomy Gus

To what "educated" level have we sunk that we hear and see on TV a high bank officer, an expert, tell us how the dollar has been "devaluated" and in the same week read a theatre critic mention a "dramatical" actress. Is there no sense of editorial responsibility to keep such murder of the language from being aired or publicized?

N. R. W.

This feature reflects readers' views. Not necessarily those of the newspaper. Send your pet peeve to Gloomy Gus, Daily Pilot.

use no gas or oil and provide splendid exercise. Combined with a good camera and a pair of binoculars, "what a way to open these children's eyes to the wonders of winter," especially in so beautiful a natural setting as they live in.

THEN LUKES asked the children, "How many of you boys and girls ride snowmobiles?" and from 70 to 90 percent of the hands went up, accompanied by pleasant smiles of recognition. After class, all the way home, Lukes kept asking himself, "How could this have happened? Why has this happened? Will it ever change?" He reflected that "for the price of one noisy, smelly, gas-wasting you-know-what, one could equip an entire class with snowshoes."

Schools spend millions for all kinds of sophisticated "equipment," and yet no one would think of investing in three dozen good pairs of snowshoes, which would do them far more good — both in learning and in fitness — than anything to be found in the cluttered gymnasiums. And what better form of "environmental education" than following what the Indians and Eskimos knew and practiced hundreds of years ago?

Instead, more and more trails everywhere are being made available to the snowmobiles. Snowshoe manufacturers, alas, don't keep a lobby in the state capitals — but it's time the naturalists moved in.

The Threat of TV Ads

WASHINGTON — Robert Choate, the consumer advocate who blew the whistle on non-nutritional breakfast foods, has now moved to ban the advertising of over-the-counter drugs on television shows with large children's audiences.

In a private letter to Federal Trade Chairman Miles Kirkpatrick and Food and Drug Commissioner Charles Edwards, Choate charges that Dr. Dean, Anacin, foot sprays, Lysol and Geritol Tablets "are unsuitable for the use of children or pose serious dangers in the hands of children."

HE URGES that commercials for these products be "banned from television programs which attract substantial juvenile audiences."

Choate has discovered these commercials on 10 of the most popular shows on television, ranging from "The Partridge Family" and "Bridget Loves Bernie" to "The Wonderful World of Disney." Each show has an estimated weekly audience of five million youngsters.

"Television advertising," he writes, "represents the child's (and perhaps the adult's) basic source of product information. The child bases his or her decision on whether to use or feel safe with a product primarily, if not exclusively, upon what television advertising tells him about it."

THE GOVERNMENT, of course, requires that restrictive warnings be inscribed on the containers. But not one of the major manufacturers repeats the warnings in the TV commercials, so they can be understood by the under-12 viewers who cannot yet read.

Here are a couple of typical warnings that the children never hear on television and can't read on the containers:

— Mennen E Deodorant — "Keep out of children's reach . . . Caution. Use only as directed. Intentional misuse by deliberately inhaling aerosol contents can be harmful or fatal. . . . Keep product away from eyes."

— Arrid Extra Dry Anti-Perspirant — "Keep out of child's reach . . . Never spray towards face or open flame."

PLEADS CHOATE: "We do not believe that the American public understands the dangers of inhaling aerosol propellants . . . (or) the relationship between age, body weight and drug dose . . . (or) the 'flame thrower' characteristics of an aerosol can containing a pressurized oil-based liquid."

The Health, Education and Welfare Department reports between 300 and 400 aerosol accidents a month, requiring emergency-room treatment.

Active Role in '74 Elections Seen Nixon Seeks New Strength for GOP

RICHARD WILSON

Republican congressional and gubernatorial candidates, Nixon was criticized within his own party for not doing as much of that as he should have in 1972.

Bush signifies something different in Republican political organization, a relatively new and fresh face and attitude. He is eminently presentable on television as an exponent of the "new majority" and as an Easterner, via Texas, he represents the tone of moderation Nixon is trying to exploit in many different, and sometimes conflicting, ways.

BUSH, unaligned with conservative or liberal elements in the party, can take his place with Defense Secretary Elliot Richardson, Welfare Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Treasury Secretary George Shultz as a new kind of Republican bearing little resemblance to the political images of the past.

Bush is certainly the most polished and cerebral Republican national chairman since Senator Hugh Scott, though as yet unproved as a political operator with the skills of Herbert Brownell.

Modern Version of an Old Role

year doing nothing — but don't bother to apply for that. They seek out those recipients themselves and just drop the money on them.

Even the Point Foundation must placate the Internal Revenue Service so Stef is required to hand in reports on what she's doing (as Julie de Lespinasse most certainly didn't in her un-bureaucratic times). Stef's reports give you the impression of the wide variety of people she has to her twice-weekly dinners: ecologists, literateurs, politicians, Zen abbots, movie makers, and free-floating free thinkers who refuse ordinary categorization.

STEF ISN'T ONE for filling out forms so her reports may not convey the full flavor of her dinners. For instance, there was the evening that The Whale Lady, the head of Project Jonas, a cetacean preservation society, took a shine to the San Francisco Sheriff's badge. It's a unique badge with the peace symbol in the middle of it, and The Whale Lady was almost out the door with it before the sheriff got tough and made her give it back.

But more often Stef simply aims at introducing people who might otherwise never meet, and hopes for the best. But that is antithetical to the spirit of cost-benefit analysis, black ink on the bottom line, and let's see the results. It doesn't bother Stef, who at 24 has learned to wait and look askance at too many results. Four years ago she caused a minor national furor when she gave her college valedictory speech and said she'd never give birth to a child that would have to live on this planet. Since then she's worked in ecology and population control and has come to the idea of the salon: not only because she knows things work slowly but because she doubts her competency to give lectures and to lead movements.

Having been an editor, speechmaker and activist, Stef has found a way of blending the very oldest and the very newest notions of a woman's role and if she can't know what will come of it she does know they helped hatch the French Revolution in Julie de Lespinasse's living room.

Teen Drinking Trends

authorities. Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, says: "Studies have shown that younger drivers who drink are more likely to become involved in traffic crashes than older, more experienced drinking drivers — even though the young persons have fairly low blood-alcohol concentrations." During the first six months of 1972, after Michigan lowered the drinking age, the number of fatal accidents involving 18-21 year-old drivers was 33 percent higher than the January-June 1971 figures.

REPORTS from college campuses around the country indicate that alcohol is staging a comeback among the under-21 crowd. To many adults, the switch from marijuana and hallucinogenic drugs to beer and wine seems a healthy and welcome change. However, the British Medical Council on Alcoholism, after studying the increase in teenage alcoholism, warned: "The potential teenage drinking problem should give far more cause for alarm than drug addiction."

LONG AGO and far away in the ancient Hebrew land, when a man's father or mother died, he ripped his coat. Symbolically, To show his bereavement. He did not sew it up again. That was the sign of his mourning. Christian tailors didn't even know why, but over the ages, they continued to cut slits in the lapels of men's jackets. That's how that style thing got started.

Q. "WHO WAS the heavyweight boxer who knocked himself out?"
A. You must mean C. D. "Bigboy" Blalock. Of Louisiana State. He was a 6-foot-5 heavyweight with an exceedingly long reach. Back in the '30s, during the second round against a powerhouse fighter from Mississippi State, Bigboy swung. The other fighter stepped inside the blow, butting Blalock's elbow joint. The fist went all the way around the fellow's head and landed on Blalock's own jaw. He staggered, walked a few steps, then fell, out cold.

MARTIN RAGAWAY reports this classified ad turned up in that publication known as the Sexual Freedom League Quarterly: "Couple into sadism, masochism, fetishism, pederasty, onanism, necrophilia, macrame and lollipops wants to meet like couple. No weirdoes, please!"

ABOUT THE DIVORCED — A study of recent census figures shows those three professional gentlemen most apt to be divorced are the actor, the bartender and the traveling salesman. Predictable, maybe.

NO ACCOUNTANT should forget that double-entry bookkeeping was first devised as a system exactly two years after Columbus discovered America.

IT ALSO HAS been determined by the researchers that 66 percent of the executives who carry briefcases don't open said bags once they get them home.

THAT MONTH wherein the most divorce cases are filed is January. Why is a matter of debate. Some students of life among the married contend the new year suggests new beginnings. But our Love and War man believes the Christmas holidays strain most matrimonial bonds, so snap the weaker of same.

Snag in Law Their Rumps Too Big

ROMEIO, Mich. (AP) — The U.S. government may have to change proposed safety-belt guidelines for school buses because students may surpass federal standards.

The Romeo School Board hit a snag at a meeting while discussing the purchase of six new buses and the federal guidelines for seat belts, transportation supervisor Chris Holmes reported.

He said the federal requirement for three safety belts per seat is based on "the measurement of a 13-inch rump per student."

"However," Holmes said, "many students probably surpass federal standards."

Portrait Removed

Agnew Depicted in Wrinkled Suit

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A portrait of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, commemorating his two years as Maryland's 53rd governor, was removed from the State House by three aides before it could be officially unveiled, it was disclosed here.

State House sources said Wednesday the aides removed it because it showed him with discolored knuckles and a wrinkled suit.

AGNEW'S PRESS secretary, Marsh Thompson, denied that the vice president was unhappy with the painting and wanted it touched up.

"I liked it," he said. "The portrait really captures him." Thompson said aides Jean Spencer, Tom Manger, and Mary Ellen Werner took the painting Tuesday from the governor's reception room where it was hanging behind a white curtain, so that Agnew could see it before it was unveiled.

HOWEVER, SOURCES in Gov. Marvin Mandel's office said the three aides went to Annapolis to arrange a date for the unveiling and only decided to remove the painting after they saw that his suit was wrinkled and the flesh tones of his knuckles were too pink.

"The thing that stood out," a Mandel aide said, "was the way he was sitting. One arm of his suit was wrinkled. That's not like him."

When artist Robert Tollast, who was paid $2,000 by Maryland for the official portrait, was asked if anything was wrong with the painting he said it was finished. But later, after talking with Agnew's office, he said "patching up some spots was needed."

THE BODY of David

Suicide Note 'Injustice'

GREEN RIVER, Wyo. (AP) — A Utah man whose son committed suicide along Interstate 80 near here has written letters to law enforcement agencies saying he felt "an injustice" had been done to passing motorists and the Wyoming Highway Patrol.

Jesse L. Huffstetler of Woods Cross, Utah said his son's suicide note "was a final comment on his life, not a condemnation of thoughtless motorists as many people read it."

Huffstetler, 25, was discovered in a rented car west of here Feb. 3. He had shot himself with a .11-caliber pistol.

Next to the body was a note reading: "I have been waiting for 11 hours for someone to stop. I can't stand the cold any longer. They just keep passing by."

HUFFSTETLER'S car was found in the parking lane along the highway and was out of gas. But the Highway Patrol claimed he couldn't have been stranded 11 hours as indicated in the note because a patrolman had body was found and hadn't driven along the stretch of road two hours before the said the weather was mild.

Ted Likes Being Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reflecting on his 41st birthday, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said today the advantages of being a member of America's best known political family outweigh the disadvantages.

"There are disadvantages to being a Kennedy," he said. "The disadvantages come from the high expectations of people that worked with John Kennedy, or with Robert Kennedy, or with my mother or my father."

"BUT THERE are tremendous advantages. I'm happier being a Kennedy, the advantages outweigh the disadvantages."

Kennedy, born Feb. 22, 1932, made the comments in a "Panorama" interview on Washington TV Station WTTG. He said the Kennedy family "as a unit" has had the greatest impact on his life, rather than any single individual.

"My family, each member, has had a different impact on me," he said. "Each worked to bring out a quality in me. That's something that's disappearing today in America," he said. "I hope, or at least I'm trying, to maintain it in my family with the children."

KENNEDY, WHO is also celebrating his first decade in the Senate, denied that his brothers discouraged him to run for the seat originally.

"They wanted me to make up my own mind," he said. "They wanted me to travel throughout the state, meet the people and get their reactions."

"There were some of their political advisers who thought it was too much to have another Kennedy in government. But my brothers supported me, and they voted for me."

Sidestepping questions about a possible presidential bid in the future, Kennedy acknowledged that like his brothers he is sometimes restless in the Senate, but would not mind serving another decade.

Jet Baby Mother Located

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Federal authorities say the woman who gave birth to a girl and then abandoned her in the commode of a United Air Lines jet will be charged under the umbrella heading of crimes committed aboard an aircraft.

The 5½-pound full-term baby was found Monday night stuffed in an airplane toilet minutes after the plane touched down in Youngstown, Ohio, following a 37-minute flight from Greater Pittsburgh International Airport.

A nurse said Wednesday night that the child appeared in good health.

Ian D. MacLennan, special agent in charge of the local FBI office, said the mother had been located and that arrest was forthcoming today.

MacLennan said the woman boarded the Boeing 737 jet in New Orleans Monday evening and flew here. She then changed planes for Youngstown.

United officials said the infant was discovered alive in the commode about 15 minutes after the plane landed.

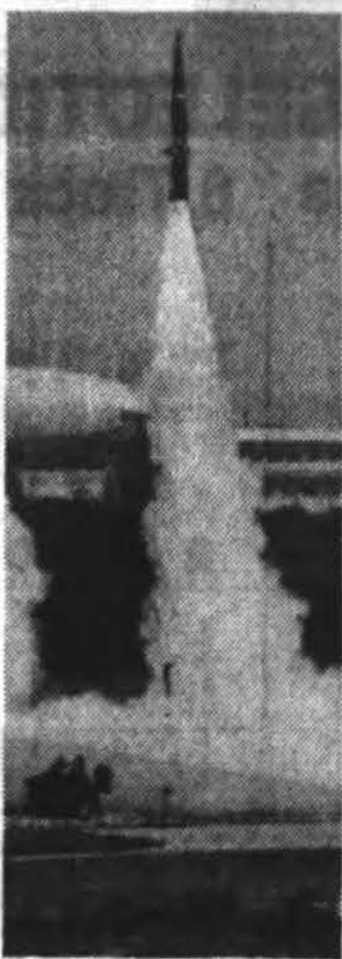

Wayne to Lead Humane Drive

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Wayne of Newport Beach today was named "National Kindness Chairman" for 1973 by the American Humane Association.

Wayne's time as chairman begins May 6, the start of "Be Kind to Animals Week."

Pétain's Remains Returned

PARIS (AP) — A military plane returned the flag-draped coffin of Marshal Philippe Pétain to his traitor's tomb on a lonely island off the Atlantic Coast today even though it may cost the French government rightists' votes in the National Assembly elections next month.

The coffin was found Wednesday night in a garage in a northern suburb of Paris. It had been left there by a group of rightists who stole it from the Ile d'Yeu Sunday, hoping to force the government to bury it in the national military cemetery at Douaumont with the other defenders in the World War I Battle of Verdun.

POLICE ARE holding at least six men suspected of complicity in the plot, including Herbert Massol, an ultrarightist candidate for the assembly, and Francois Boux de Cassan, a minister of information in Pétain's Vichy government.

Jacques Isorni, Pétain's lawyer at his treason trial, accused President Georges Pompidou's government of getting the old marshal's remains back by duplicity. He said the government had intimidated Pétainist circles that, when the coffin was found, "it would be placed in a location of honor while the family decided on the location of the grave. It was a deliberately false indication."

REFLECTIONS

by Reyn Sheffer

"The first recipe for happiness is: Avoid too lengthy meditations on the past..."
Andre Maurels

The past and its record serves the doors of today with a guidepost. Looking back at what has transpired gives anyone perspective and a sense of direction. It is important, however, that the emphasis be on the future and how consideration of the past may make the future even better.

Over-long meditation on the past may start us living in a dream world that never existed save in our memories or possibly, by highlighting missed opportunities, shatter our confidence in a way that limits our future.

You can always be sure that our service will be completely appropriate. We serve all faiths and creeds. At Sheffer Mortuary, service is measured not by gold but by the Golden Rule.

Dentists Pulling Things

Insurance Official Assails Too Many Jerks

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Six million teeth are pulled unnecessarily each year, state Insurance Commissioner Herbert Denenberg said today in issuing "32 rules on how to keep your 32 teeth — or however many you may have left."

Denenberg's 24-page booklet is entitled "A Shopper's Guide to Dentistry" — the seventh publication he's put together covering insurance and health care.

The guide also lists high, low and average fees paid in the state for commonly performed dental services.

"If a physician wanted to take off a finger or a toe, you'd think twice," he said. "But many people don't bat an eye when a dentist starts extracting teeth."

At least 10 percent of all dentists are incompetent or dishonest, said Denenberg, who was criticized by doctors for a similar statement he made when issuing "A Shopper's Guide to Surgery."

"Quality review of dental care is worse than that of medical care, and there is still no requirement in Pennsylvania or most states for continuing education," he added. "In addition, the dentists' official code of ethics actually makes it unethical for a dentist to criticize the bad work of his colleagues."

The guide warns against using dentists who are quick to pull teeth, won't talk fees or give estimates, overcharge or don't provide emergency care.

It also says "look out for the capping racket" and suggests consultation beforehand with a periodontist.

"Remember teeth are not supposed to look like Chiclets," Denenberg said.

How do you find a good dentist? The guide recommends asking the experts like faculty at dental schools or doctors "or better yet try to find out where dentists tend to go when they need dental work."

What are the signs of a good dentist? The booklet notes the polishing of fillings, use of aprons to protect against X-rays, neat offices and continuing education.

The guide says a good dentist should have a well equipped office, but it warns to "look out for Dr. Rube Goldberg: Beware of strange and expensive dental contraptions."

Mellon Relative Indicted by Jury

From Wire Services
William Mellon Hitchcock, grandson of the founder of Gulf Oil Corp., has been indicted by a federal grand jury in Pittsburgh on charges he failed to report more than $500,000 in income from a Swiss bank account to the Internal Revenue Service for 1966-68.

PEOPLE

According to U.S. Attorney Richard L. Thornburgh, Hitchcock, 33, lives in Tucson, Arizona.

Maximum penalty for conviction on all counts, Thornburgh said, is 24 years in prison and a fine of $45,000.

Hitchcock's grandfather was the late William Larimer Mellon, nephew of Andrew W. Mellon, an architect of the famed Mellon family fortune and secretary of the Treasury under President Warren Harding.

Thornburgh said Hitchcock was a onetime associate of drug advocate Dr. Timothy Leary and maintained a country estate in Millbrook, N.Y., for disciples of Leary and his League of Spiritual Discovery.

The opening of the Broadway musical "A Little Night Music" was to be postponed to March 5 when British actress Glynnis Johns entered a New York hospital for tests.

But no serious disorders were found and she returned to previews. With the star back, spokesman said the postponement is off and the show will open as originally scheduled Sunday night.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace returned home after four weeks in a Montgomery hospital for an operation which he described as a complete success.

"I'm feeling fine. It's good to be back," Wallace told newsmen at the airport in Montgomery. "I should have had it done before. I feel good."

The governor underwent surgery Jan. 26 in a Birmingham hospital to aid his bladder drainage. It was his sixth operation since he was wounded and left paralyzed in both legs in an assassination attempt May 15.

The son of Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis was buried in a marble tomb on his father's private island of Skorpios, a family spokesman said.

Neither Onassis nor his wife Jacqueline, widow of U.S. President John F. Kennedy, attended the burial of 24-year-old Alexandros Onassis, killed last month in a plane crash, witnesses said.

They said the mourners included Tina Turner, Onassis' first wife and Alexandros' mother, and baroness Fiona Von Thyssen, his close companion.

Russian ballet dancer Valery Panov complained that he is being prevented from immigrating to Israel because of objections from his mother-in-law.

Panov was rated one of the Soviet Union's most gifted character dancers until his dismissal from the Kirov Ballet company last year for saying he wanted to live in Israel. His wife, who is not Jewish, was also expelled from the company for wishing to leave with her husband.

Chauffeur in a 1940 Lincoln convertible, Liza Minnelli rode through the Harvard University campus, trailed by antique fire engines.

It was part of a campus carnival sponsored by the Hasty Pudding Theatricals, who earlier named the star of "Cabaret" as their "Woman of the Year."

Miss Minnelli was the star of the carnival, which featured costumed players from the Theatricals' upcoming play, "Bewitched Bayou."

Elvis Hits Interloper During Show

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Singer Elvis Presley used a karate-like blow to send an interloper crashing from the stage after the man swung at him during a show at a Las Vegas hotel, a hotel spokesman said.

Four men took to the stage as 1,700 persons watched Presley's performance at the Hilton Hotel Monday, the spokesman said.

Presley knocked one off the stage, receiving a standing ovation, a member of his band tackled another and the two others retreated, the spokesman said. No injuries were reported.

Clark county sheriff's deputies said Presley did not press charges.

Panel Halts Sale of Drug

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A drug that has caused tumors in laboratory dogs has been injected in low-income women in Tennessee as a three-month contraceptive and in Tennessee mental patients to regulate their menstruation, a Senate subcommittee was told.

The testimony Wednesday by two state health officials prompted Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.), the subcommittee chairman, to obtain a promise from Upjohn Co., sole manufacturer of the drug, to stop selling it for such unauthorized purposes.

DR. CHARLES C. Edwards, commissioner of the Ford and Drug Administration FDA, said the drug, Depo-Provera, has been used in other countries for a number of years as a contraceptive requiring injection only once every three months.

Computer Louses Up

OAKLAND (UPI) — Three women who were handcuffed and jailed because a computer erroneously reported they were using a stolen car have filed suit for $300,000.

Jacqueline Metcalfe, 26, Maggie Coleman, 27, and Barbara Fisher, 34, said they spent hours in jail before the computer error was discovered.

But its use in the United States has been limited to investigation among "a very restricted patient population" — women who have tried all other birth control methods without success — because of the discovery in 1972 that Depo-Provera caused mammary tumors in beagle dogs.

USE OF Depo-Provera in Tennessee was disclosed by Dr. James S. Brown, superintendent of the Arlington Hospital and School, a facility for the mentally retarded, and Dr. Robert H. Hutcheson, assistant state public commissioner.

Hutcheson testified that 942 women received Depo-Provera under the state family planning program.

Brown said it was being given to 181 women at his hospital, primarily to control menstruation and promote personal hygiene among patients generally unable to care for themselves.

Despite Risks FDA to Approve 'Morning Pill'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says it plans to approve the drug DES for use as a "morning-after" birth control pill despite the possibility of a cancer risk to newborn infants.

FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards told the Senate Wednesday that "there is no evidence for a significant risk" to women under prescribed dosages.

"HOWEVER," he added, "because the possibility of a harmful effect on the fetus either from a pregnancy existing at the time of treatment, from a previous (sexual) exposure, or resulting from a patient failure during treatment, an early abortion induced by conventional means should be seriously considered even though an action of this kind on the fetus is not known to exist."

Edwards was the lead-off witness at extensive hearings on biomedical research and human experimentation by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Senate health subcommittee.

Diethylstilbestrol (DES) was banned as an animal feed additive last year because it causes cancer, and illegal residues remained in the liver of slaughtered beef cattle.

THE DRUG also has been linked to scores of cases of vaginal and cervical cancer in young women whose mothers took it during pregnancy to prevent miscarriages. Its effectiveness for that purpose later was disproven.

Edwards told the subcommittee that DES has been available to physicians for more than 30 years in the treatment of gynecological disorders.

But within the last few years, he said, it has enjoyed increasing popularity as a post-coital contraceptive although the FDA has not approved that use.

ITS USE is especially widespread on certain college campuses. Consumer groups have charged that university health centers often prescribe it to coeds without warning them of the risk to themselves or their possible offspring, and without taking adequate patient histories.

Edwards said an FDA advisory committee determined that DES is effective in preventing pregnancy if 25 milligram doses are taken twice daily for five days, beginning within 72 hours of intercourse.

AT THAT regime and dosage he said, there appears to be no significant risk to women except for "some immediate minor side reactions." He said the carcinogenic potential has not been proven.

New labeling will reflect the approval, he said, and warn that DES should be considered "an emergency only" and not for routine birth control.

'I'd Take It' Muskie Looking Ahead 4 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie says his "appetite for leadership" remains and that he won't foreclose another try for presidency in 1976.

The Maine Democrat said in an interview Wednesday that he doesn't intend to devote his energies now to a new presidential bid but that his intentions may change "given the right combination of circumstances."

HIS PARTY'S FRONT-RUNNER for three years until his candidacy collapsed in last spring's primaries, Muskie said he plans to devote full time to his Senate work and won't repeat his busy pre-1972 national speaking schedule.

But he conceded he still finds the thought of national office attractive and that, "if four years from now, someone came with the power to arrange it and said you could have the nomination, I would take it."

MUSKIE SEES SEN. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts as the early 1976 Democratic leader, as he was four years before the Chappaquiddick incident, and said his presence might keep the party's presidential field small.

"What's in his mind, nobody knows," Muskie said. "I'm not sure that he does."

Corona's Attorney Indicted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Convicted slayer Juan Corona's attorney, Richard E. Hawk, has been charged with failing to file U.S. income tax returns for years 1966 to 1969.

Hawk, 40, was charged Wednesday by the U.S. Attorney's office in a criminal information complaint with wilfully failing to file his tax returns for a four-year period during which his total gross income was alleged as $94,297.

THE INFORMATION contends Hawk's gross income was $11,824 in 1966; $24,753 in 1967; $28,736 in 1968, and $28,962 in 1969.

Convictions on the misdemeanor counts carry a sentence of a year in prison and $1,000 fine. If convicted of all four counts, he could face a total maximum of four years in prison and a $40,000 fine.

ANICE THING ABOUT NEWSPAPERS: YOU NEVER HAVE TO ASK SOMEONE TO TURN DOWN THE VOLUME

Traffic Threatens Catalina

CATALINA ISLAND (AP) — Sparkling bays, inland mountains and grassy lowlands where wild swine and goats graze are all a part of Catalina Island.

Much of the 21-mile-long island has been kept in its natural state, but automobile and jeep traffic on the island's 200 miles of roadway has steadily increased. The natural quality of Catalina has attracted many tourists and more than 1,500 full-time residents.

'The entire flat part of island could become one big parking lot.'

AND THEY have brought their cars.

There are many cars on the island now, and traffic snarls and choked streets are a definite possibility, says Jack Osten, city manager of Avalon.

To prevent that, the city persuaded the Legislature to give Catalina a unique power — regulation of the size and number of vehicles on the island.

"There are nearly 800 vehicles on the island now, most of them here in Avalon," Osten said.

"AND AVALON is only one square mile in size. What with more cars being brought to the island all the time, we needed legislation to avert future traffic and parking problems. Without the help of legislation, the entire flat part of the island could become one big parking lot."

After holding hearings, the City Council will establish general rules limiting the size and number of vehicles on the island.

Besides allowing Catalina to regulate the size and number of vehicles on the island, the legislation, effective March 9, also prohibits the use of private vehicles on streets not designed to accommodate automobile traffic.

VEHICLES ARE used by tourists to travel the roads leading into the interior of the island. These roads are privately owned by the Santa Catalina Island Co., which owns all of the island except for 30 percent of Avalon.

Osten detailed the steps the city would take in using the new legislation.

"First, we plan to take inventory of the vehicles here. We will want to know makes, models, numbers, owners, locations, and uses of vehicles on the island.

"SECONDLY, WE want the cooperation of the Highway Patrol in performing certain safety checks provided by existing laws. These steps should give us adequate information about the vehicles here to plan effective vehicle regulations."

Catalina was discovered by Spanish explorers in 1542, purchased in 1919 by business tycoon William Wrigley for $3.9 million and now is largely owned by a corporation headed by Wrigley's son Philip.

200,000th Filing

County's Clerk Past Milestone

SANTA ANA — Officials of a Westminster firm may never know it, but their demand for a $73,000 judgment

Wednesday — as routine a filing as you'll find in the county clerk's office — made Orange County Superior Court history. The Collins and Aikman Corporation's lawsuit made a new milestone for County Clerk William E. St. John's bustling division. It is recorded as filing number 200,000.

A CHECK OF microfilmed records by Chief Supervisor Robert E. Carrillo revealed that Orange County's first Superior Court filing was July 31, 1889 — a guardianship action involving four members of the Buck family.

Many of the documents filed in that year bear the title "Los Angeles County," Carrillo noted. "That was the jurisdiction before we took over," he said.

"BUT WE HAVE to bear in mind that this is filing number 200,000 in terms of civil filings only," Carrillo pointed out. "In 1889, civil, divorce and probate were all lumped together and they have, over the years, been placed in separate divisions."

Divorce filings alone, since their segregation some years ago from civil filings, have totalled nearly 68,000, Carrillo said. Civil filings are averaging more than 50 a day with divorce filings running at about the same rate.

Ex-city Hall To Become New Bank

SANTA ANA — Santa Ana's former city hall will become a Mexican-American bank.

The only bidder for the structure Tuesday was Hector Godinez, board chairman of Banco del Pueblo. He bid $125,000.

Godinez, Santa Ana's postmaster, said the structure built in 1935 as a federal public works project will be given a Spanish motif on the exterior and renovated at a cost of $250,000 to $400,000.

The two-year-old Banco del Pueblo is now located at the southeast corner of 5th and Sycamore Streets in downtown Santa Ana. The old city hall is three blocks away at Main and 3rd Streets. It was vacated November when city offices were moved to a new $3.5 million eight-story building in the City-County Civic Center.

In addition to the bank the old hall will be used for office space by Mexican American organizations, Godinez said.

ORANGE COUNTY

Ex-Westminster Aides Awarded Delay in Trial

SANTA ANA — Former Westminster mayor Derek McWhinney and planning commissioner Tad Fujita have won a delay of their Orange County Superior Court trial on charges stemming from leases at Mile Square Park in Fountain Valley.

Judge James Turner cancelled the previously scheduled trial date of March 5 on a motion by two defense lawyers and ordered both men to return for trial May 21.

McWHINNEY, 40, and Fujita, 34, were ordered to return to his courtroom March 23 for a pretrial session. Both men are free on bail.

The two city officials were indicted by the Grand Jury last year on allegations that they were involved in a plan to extract $10,000 from farmer George Murai in return for their cooperation on the extension of his lease at the park.

It is alleged that Murai was pressured into paying Fujita $5,000 in cash and was later ordered to make a further $5,000 payment in the form of a check made payable to county Supervisor Robert Battin's campaign fund.

BATTIN, WHO testified before the Grand Jury, has been cleared of any involvement in the alleged conspiracy.

Tax Session

SANTA ANA — The monthly meeting of Taxpayers Incorporated will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Santa Ana Public Library. A discussion on the Orange County Welfare Department will be led by William Erickson, the county's chief deputy welfare director, during the session at 502 W. Civic Center drive.

Grand Jury Charges

Trio Indicted in Porsche Thefts

SANTA ANA — A trio allegedly involved in a car theft ring that specialized in Porsches has been indicted by the Orange County Grand Jury on multiple charges including grand theft, auto theft, receiving stolen property and conspiracy.

Already in custody are James Darryl Witt, 23,

Rosemead, and Gilbert Armenta, 19, also of Rosemead.

LAWMEN ARE looking for Hank Coleman Oswald, 19, Rosemead, in a search that, they said Wednesday, may put a few more names on the Grand Jury indictment.

Superior Court Judge James Turner has delayed the arraignments of Armenta and Witt to Feb. 27 and March 13, respectively. Both men are held in Orange County Jail. The Grand Jury named the three on 25 felony counts after hearing testimony that they were involved in the theft of at least 25 Porsche autos, all of which were stripped and left in south county orange groves.

MOST OF THE stripped cars recovered from the groves had been stolen in the Newport Beach area, lawmen told the Grand Jury.

Investigators said the first real break in a long investigation of the case came with the arrest last Dec. 19 of Armenta in Newport Beach.

Lawmen said information they got that night led them to an Anaheim location where sports car parts valued at about $50,000 were found. They said the garage had been leased by Witt.

INVESTIGATORS said Wednesday they believe at least 10 other persons are involved in the alleged auto theft ring.

San Diego Initiates Public Sign Control

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "Congratulations for putting us out of business," commented an officer of the San Diego Sign Contractors Guild after the city council's 6-1 vote to control public signs.

Thus, San Diego became the largest U.S. city to approve a law restraining signs, prescribing even how often a rotating sign may revolve — six times a minute — officials said.

The new law approved Tuesday applies only to on-premise signs. Another passed last year to regulate billboards in San Diego — a growing tourist city with the outdoor hotel and restaurant advertising to go with it — is being tested in court.

Cocaine Sale

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two persons were in custody today for investigation of possessing five pounds of cocaine for sale with an estimated street value of $1.5 million, sheriff's narcotics officers said.

Pedro E. Izquierdo of Hollywood and Maria Malave of San Pedro, both 30, were booked Wednesday after deputies said they paid the two $50,000 for the illegal drug.

Pentagon Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The government moved to wind up its case in the Pentagon Papers trial today with the judge and the Justice Department again at odds over the government's refusal to provide evidence demanded by the judge.

The center of the latest conflict is a report by a CIA analyst that says some Army reports from Vietnam were deliberate lies.

The prosecution was expected to wind up its case today after presenting 10 witnesses in five weeks of testimony aimed at convicting Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo of theft, conspiracy and espionage in connection with the leak of the Pentagon Papers.

Tax Plan Hit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposal for a permanent ceiling on state taxes would impose tighter budget restrictions on future California governors than Reagan has imposed on his own "cut, squeeze and trim" administration, says the legislature's top fiscal consultant.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post strongly denounced Reagan's plan as "impractical" Wednesday and said it would shift the tax burden back to the property taxpayer and undo years of "progressive tax reforms" in California.

Rain Ruling

SAN RAFAEL (UPI) — The Marin County board of supervisors, despite its

UPI Telephoto

FILES SUIT — Singer Ann-Margret is seeking $5 million in a suit against the Sahara-Tahoe Corp., accusing the firm of negligence that led to 25-foot fall last September at Lake Tahoe.

recognition that the field has been preempted by higher authority, has gone on record against more rain.

The board, noting 47.61 inches of rainfall this winter has resulted in the county being declared a disaster area, passed a resolution declaring its "fervent hope for a rainfall moratorium."

Sailor Guilty

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Airman Apprentice Lawrence Wommack Wednesday was sentenced to a reduction in rank, confinement at hard labor and fined for his part in the racial disturbance aboard the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk.

A four-man military jury found Wommack, 20, of Louisiana, Mo., guilty Tuesday of a single count of riot after dismissing another count of riot and two of assault.

Wommack was to be reduced to the lowest enlisted grade, fined $500 and confined for 60 days. The jury recommended, however, that the loss of rank and confinement be suspended if Wommack stays out of trouble.

Poker Club

ADELANTO (AP) — City councilmen have given permission to a group headed by Richard L. Bisine of Gardena, Calif., to build San Bernardino County's first poker club here.

Councilmen approved the plan Wednesday night which also includes a 30-room motel and lounge. No opening date was announced.

Adelanto is on U.S. 395, about 35 miles north of San Bernardino.

Phase Out

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state's plan to phase out mental hospitals in favor of smaller, local treatment has won the support of the State Health Planning Council.

The 22-member council voted Wednesday to endorse the principle of community health services, said Thomas M. McMurray, chairman. The vote came after Dr. William Mayer, state director of mental hygiene, explained the department's plans.

Tossed Green

SAN RAFAEL (AP) — A waitress at the Deer Park Villa in nearby Fairfax figures one of the restaurant's tossed salads is worth $20,000.

Barbara Valentine filed suit in Marin County Superior Court Wednesday seeking that amount from owner Harry Ghiringhelli because he allegedly tossed a salad at her "without provocation" last Nov. 4.

Miss Valentine contended the incident caused her "mental anguish," "emotional harm" and "humiliation."

Teacher Out

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Peter Bohmer, a former San Diego State University teacher, has been freed on probation after spending 51 days in prison for a conviction stemming from an antiwar protest.

Superior Court Judge Charles W. Froehlich Jr. sentenced Bohmer Wednesday to 45 days in jail but gave him credit for the time he spent in Chino State Prison undergoing psychiatric tests after his conviction.

Finding the Fun of Giving

If you're going to raise funds, why not have a lot of fun doing it?

This is the philosophy of three Orange Coast organizations which have planned three different kinds of funding events.

The Tuesday Club of Newport Harbor has planned a "Repeat Performance" for Tuesday, Feb. 27, with proceeds again going to Services for the Blind in Santa Ana.

Following a special luncheon at 11:30 a.m. in the Newport Inn, a fashion show will be staged with Mrs. Robert Speed coordinating.

Following the fashion show, tables of four for bridge will be formed and groups will gather for conversation.

Also on Feb. 27, Cherish members of Las Almas de Mardian will be honored during a 10:30 a.m. brunch in the Newport Beach home of Mrs. Norman Watson.

Cherish members have the privilege of never attending any meetings but of cherishing the opportunity of helping provide opportunities for children with learning disabilities.

Their financial gifts provide scholarships for students to attend Mardian School of Educational Therapy, Costa Mesa.

Speaking at the brunch will be Mara Schiff, coordinator of services for the school, who will describe benefits received by the students who attend the school.

Other special guests will be David Eisenman, director of Mardian Center, and Robert Perkins, school board president.

Mrs. Sayre Foerster, Cherish chairman, was assisted in planning the brunch by the Mmes. Hal Lehman, Harrison Sharp, Charles S. Lockman, Robert B. Moore, Harry E. Westover and Ray W. Olson.

On Saturday, Feb. 24, a Las Vegas Night party will be given by International Orphans Inc. to raise funds for its newest project, an International Village for battered and abused children.

The Balboa Bay Club will be the setting for the gala, which will include a Baron of Beef buffet, gaming tables and an auction.

Put on the auction block by Robert Guggenheim will be a Cadillac, two months' use of a yellow submarine, a sable hat, painting, weekend cruise aboard a luxury yacht and other items.

Planning the party are the Mmes. Walter King, chairman, Earl Fusselman and Guggenheim.

Father 'Nose' Best: Open for Debate

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 18-year-old son wants to have his nose done. You read right, Ann. I said son, not daughter.

My wife swears she didn't talk him into it, but I'm sure she planted the idea in his head and let him think it was his. He got the notion two years ago when she took a snapshot of him (profile) and penciled in his nose the way it would look if it were shorter and straighter.

My son looks like me and I made it with the nose God gave me. I see no reason for him to have an operation just to look a little better. Also there are some disadvantages if a guy looks too good. This kid has too many phone calls as it is.

Last night my wife asked me if I would be willing to pay for the surgery. I told her I'd think about it. He really wants the operation but I'm against it. What is your opinion? — FATHER NOSE REST

DEAR FATHER: It's not how your son's nose looks to you that matters, but how it looks to him.

You bothered it with your nose because it never bothered you. Your boy, however, is bothered by his nose so help him feel better about himself and say yes.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why is there so much hassling between parents and children about eating all the food on their plates? I can remember my own dear mother saying to my little brother when he was seven years old, "The starving children in India would love to have the food you are leaving on your plate." His stock answer was, "Send it to 'em."

We have a rule in our house that has eliminated the problem. It goes like this: "Take as much as you want, but you must eat whatever you take." This has taught our children (1) how to be independent, (2) not to be greedy, (3) they are accountable for their decisions and must accept the consequences.

So you see, Ann, many important lessons can be taught at the table. Spread the word, please. — Peace — IT'S BEAUTIFUL

DEAR BEAUTIFUL: Your letter contains some sterling counsel.

Often the table is the battlefield on which many wars are fought. An eating problem is usually the manifestation of other problems. Show me a chicken soup Mama and I'll show you some hidden trouble.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been cool to my husband since New Year's Eve. The reason for my coolness is because he did the same thing to me two New Year's Eves in a row. Please tell me if I am right or wrong.

Three couples decided to go bowling and we ended up at our house at 11:30 p.m. to see the old year out and the new year in. After a few drinks I noticed my husband was keeping his eyes on the clock and inching forward to my sister-in-law. Suddenly he shouted, "It's midnight!" ran over to his brother's wife, mumbled something in her ear and she replied, "Why not?"

Then he gave her a kiss full on the mouth. I was so mad I could have chewed nails. Last year at the stroke of midnight, he did the same thing even though I was standing right next to him.

It took me several weeks to get over it. We've been married 14 years and so far as I know he has stayed in his own corral. What do you think about this? — BOLD LANG SYNE

DEAR B.L.S.: If it's important to you that your husband give you the first kiss of the year, keep your eye on the clock and grab him at 11:59 and hold it. To stay mad for seven weeks is childish. Make up — and grow up.

What's prudish? What's OK? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet, "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of the DAILY PILOT, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Venereal Disease: Crippler No One Claims

By LAURIE KASPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Venereal disease — "No one ever claims it... It's always somebody else's gift to them." Throughout history, societies have blamed VD on other societies, referring to it as the French disease, Spanish disease, Mexican disease, Indian disease or white man's disease.

Even some doctors today are unprepared to treat a venereal disease, according to a spokesman for a local Free Clinic, and have been known to wrongly diagnose it as a yeast infection.

And some people, especially homosexuals, are afraid to seek medical treatment and admit that they might have VD.

However unacceptable venereal disease may be in today's American society, the fact is that there has been a "tremendous upsurge" of syphilis and gonorrhea, especially among teenagers, during the last few years, said Dr. Robert D. Lynch, a La Jolla psychiatrist speaking during a recent weekend seminar on Youth and Venereal Disease at UCL.

HISTORY OF VD

The history of VD naturally follows the history of sexuality, he explained. VD occurred frequently when there was an interest in free sexuality before the Roman decline and during the reign of Charles II of England.

He rated VD with drug addiction, alcohol and sexual permissiveness as "problems of a society where people don't play by the rules."

It is, he explained, a desire for "instant gratification" and an attitude of "Do it now. Don't wait for it."

But it is "not an unusual situation," he said, for a girl to get both pregnant and venereal disease from her first act of intercourse.

So he stressed to his audience, most of whom were teachers and nurses, the dangers of their counseling. "It has often turned people off sexually," he explained. "Your attitude toward VD can change their attitude toward sexuality."

It is important, he said, that a counselor not destroy a person's love, human dignity or interest in sex. Some marriages have ended after VD was discovered, he said. And drugs, alcohol and a "great many other problems" are often involved when a person has VD.

An infected person also is required by law to reveal his contacts. Although this information is supposed to be confidential, the psychiatrist pointed out, it could well be embarrassing and hazardous to his family and social relationships.

UNAWARE WOMAN

It might also be helpful to the female contacts since the woman doesn't have the same telling symptoms as the man and may not know she has gonorrhea, which the doctor called "the great sterilizer."

Destroying the myth that it can be picked up from a toilet seat (the carrier of germs is killed on contact with air), Dr. Lynch defined a venereal disease as "something that is communicated by contact through the mucus membrane." Of the two types, gonorrhea and syphilis, the first is most common.

This type cannot be determined by a blood test, the doctor said, although a smear may be taken routinely in a clinic.

While the woman may continue ignorant of having the disease for quite awhile, perhaps spreading it to others while it progresses into serious complications, the man will have a burning urination and discharge of pus.

Untreated gonorrhea in the man may cause infertility. If untreated in the woman, it can cause sterility, pelvic disorders requiring major surgery and even arthritis.

SYPHILIS STAGES

While gonorrhea remains the most common venereal disease, syphilis has increased 500 percent since 1958, Dr. Lynch said. Originally a disease of the tropics, it progresses through three stages.

Although it can be diagnosed from a Wasserman blood test, indications of syphilis are slight during the primary stage. A small sore does appear where the spirochete, the germ causing syphilis, enters the body.

And though a man may notice the sore, few women see it, Dr. Lynch explained, because "the vagina doesn't really belong to many women. They don't feel it's theirs to own, to look at..."

A couple of weeks later, he said, the secondary stage will be indicated by a red itching rash which may appear anywhere on the body, including the soles of the feet and the palms of the hands.

The rash will disappear, he said, ushering in a dormant period until a person reaches the final stage and becomes more determined in his thinking and habits.

After several years without treatment, the beginnings of insanity, crippling paralysis, heart disease, blindness or deafness are likely to develop.

KNOWLEDGE

But the doctor told the students, most of whom indicated more of an interest in the physical rather than psychological aspects of VD, that knowledge of venereal disease is most important.

Counselors, he reiterated, have to know what they are dealing with — that VD is a serious disease related closely with sexuality.

And people should be taught that although VD can be treated — and it should be done immediately — it can also be gotten again. Also, a person who has VD without knowing it can give it to someone else everytime he has sex.

Orange District, California Home Economics Association will learn about Consumer Trends in Eating Patterns when members meet at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 28, in Jerico's Restaurant, Huntington Beach.

Extensive research has been conducted by Pillsbury Co. on such subjects as:

How do Californians differ from New Yorkers, Kansans and Alabamians in the foods they eat? Or do they?

Do the consumer trends in eating patterns indicate that we as home economists have been doing our jobs in relating our knowledge to today's consumer?

Based on these eating trends can we predict what the foods of the future might be?

Lynda Anderson, manager, public relations who will be conducting the National Pillsbury Bake-off in Los Angeles, will share information learned by research.

CARIH

Pacesetter Chapter members of the Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital will be knocking on doors and asking for contributions for research during the month of March, which is designated as the March for Breath month.

Motivation From Within

U.S. Greatness Defended

By JO OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Members of the Newport Harbor Republican Women, Federated, were given a triple treat during their annual Sweetheart Luncheon in the Newport Inn.

Instead of one speaker there were three — Orange County's two freshman congressmen and a noted trial attorney.

Andrew Hinshaw, representing the 39th Congressional district, and Claire Burgener, the new 42nd district emissary, preceded and followed Charles Earl Lloyd at the podium.

Lloyd, grandson of a freed slave, was born in the South and was chopping cotton by the time he was 8.

He named his pet roosters after famous Americans and climbed mulberry and pecan trees to dream of being an attorney.

The Lloyd family came to Los Angeles in 1952 after Lloyd had graduated from Indiana Colored High School. He arrived with "12 cents in his pocket, one pair of pants and a burning ambition to become a lawyer."

POLICE ACADEMY

He was accepted for the Los Angeles Police Academy at the age of 21 and graduated with the highest honors in his class. While working full-time as a police officer he earned his law degree at the University of Southern California.

After serving as a deputy attorney for the Los Angeles City Attorney's Office, he became senior partner in the firm of Lloyd, Bradley, Burrell and Associates.

Lloyd's message to the women was that "motivation is the key to success" and "we need to go to the disadvantaged Americans and tell them they are someone — they don't have to rely on the paternalism of welfare."

"We must increase their opportunities and encourage people to do more for themselves."

He was unswerving in his praise for America:

"We live this afternoon in the greatest country in the world. This country is just like we are. It's not perfect but it's the best."

FILTHY NIGGER

Lloyd said he remembered being called a "filthy nigger" and having children spit on him from a school bus.

His father told him at 16 that he was wasting his time going to school because he would never be anything but a dishwasher.

"None of us are limited because of the statements of another person, though," he said. "This is a great country."

He added that his high school was so impoverished it had a Bunsen burner without a wick.

Lloyd praised Lincoln and described him as illuminative. "I wish every American had this kind of love. I wish every American had an equal opportunity. So often we're so busy building foreign countries to the neglect of our own."

"I'm going to love America and stay here and make it better within the framework of organized society and law and order."

THREE BROTHERS

"I have had three brothers and four uncles in the Armed Services and yet I stand here a loyal and dedicated American knowing there are places I can't live and places I can't eat. I say it unequivocally: I know that's wrong."

"It's time for the good people in this country to stand up."

"We must say to the millions of impoverished Americans, 'Look within yourself. Believe in individual responsibility. That is what has made this country great. People must work. Welfare is wrong."

"Great men have done the impossible throughout history because they didn't know it couldn't be done."

"I'm an American. Are the opportunities equal for me? That's the question. We have to inspire our people. Motivation is the key to success. It doesn't matter so much what happens to you — it's how you react to it."

He challenged the men and women to "keep the U.S. great. This is just the beginning."

"This will not be on the 6 p.m. news," he added, "because I have not insulted you and you have not insulted me."

His final plea was that Americans count their blessings. "Radiate love — then you can't hate. You can't do both at once."

PAMELA MYERS

Couple To Wed

First Congregational Church, Corona del Mar will be the setting for the March 31 nuptials of Pamela Myers and Mike Roberts.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mrs. June Myers of Balboa Island and the late Mr. John Myers. Her fiancé is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Roberts.

Miss Myers is a graduate of Corona del Mar High School, attended Chapman College's World Campus Affiliat, University of the Americas in Mexico City and received her BS from San Diego State University.

The future bridegroom is a graduate of Westchester High School, Los Angeles and earned a BA in psychology from the University of Heidelberg. He also served in the Air Force.

Teachers To Marry

School teachers Janis Gay Moffett and David Winkler are planning to be married in Los Angeles Temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. A reception in Westminster will follow the April 14 rites.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Moffett of Huntington Beach and Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Winkler of Mt. Pleasant, Utah are parents of the affianced pair.

The bride-to-be graduated from Huntington Beach High School and Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah. Her fiancé graduated from high school in Mt. Pleasant and Utah State University at Logan.

FRIDAY FEBRUARY 23

By SYDNEY OMARR

Actor Chad Everett, a Gemini, exemplifies the intellectual curiosity displayed by many born under this zodiacal sign. He recently told me of his interest in psychic phenomena, related subjects — and astrology. Another Gemini who has expressed fascination with "my" subjects is actor Vincent Price. Curiosity is a trademark of this zodiacal sign. Gemini is restless, attractive and not afraid to ask questions. Travel and meaningful changes are featured for Gemini in 1973, with the month of May spotlighted as a time for a significant, new start in a new direction.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Emphasis on productive, new deal which brings you greater benefits. Your efforts can be repaid if you are willing to shake off status quo. Leo is in picture. Joint effort leads to success. Get an accounting.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20):

Defer judgment. You have choice of two directions. Key is to wait for counsel from one who has proved ability. Study track records. Avoid rushing. Read between lines where legal document enters picture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Emotions loosen; you are able to reach beyond current situation. Dilemma will be resolved. Key now is to relax, to go with the tide. Expand. Accept social invitation. Broaden horizons. New contacts prove beneficial.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): What you feel can now be expressed. There are restrictions but these act as challenges rather than actual obstacles. Stick to the practical despite temptation to do otherwise. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio are involved.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Strive for greater communication with family. One who cares for you does not know how to talk to you. Realize this and help break the ice. Gemini, Virgo individuals figure prominently. Eliminate safety hazard from home.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Relatives could be on the move. There are requests, messages, calls concerning neighbors, home appliances, luxury items. Taurus, Libra persons are apt to be in picture. Be diplomatic, but get basic points across in meaningful manner.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be selective. Don't jump at first offer. One who makes lovely promise may be dreaming. Ask for facts. Analyze information. Money is involved. Protect your interests. Cooperate with Virgo. Listen, learn and act on knowledge received.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): This is power cycle. Assert yourself. You get needed backing. Older individual is in your corner. Know it and proceed accordingly. Assume financial responsibility. Investments now pay solid dividends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Round out project. Finish what you start. Look to future. You draw persons to you with their problems, questions. By lending helping hand you set stage for personal gain. Humanitarian approach spells success.

Horoscope: Aries Shakes Status Quo

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accent on new, creative approach. One you are attracted to returns compliment. You feel better, more alive, dynamic. Highlight greater independence — and humor. Self-esteem returns. Be grateful. You are worthwhile — know it and act like it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Rise above the petty — you are in position to make significant strides. Look to individual whose past record is successful. Room will be made for you. Show that you can contribute. Be a self-starter.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Reach beyond current expectations. You will be surprised at favorable reception. Social contact can be transformed into meaningful professional assist. Sagittarian could play key role. Read and learn.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are analytical, vibrant, fond of travel, able to understand opposite sex. You complete major cycle, and August could be your most significant month of 1973. Your home life will be more stable. You attract to you many born under Gemini and Virgo. You are sensitive, versatile and artistic.

Snow Given Icy Reception

By ERMA BOMBECK

There is only one school day out of the year when my kids get up without the help of a cattle prod aimed at their backsides.

This is a snowy morning when they are all grouped around the radio waiting for the list of school closings to be announced.

The first day of inclement weather, I am as excited about having the kids home as they are excited to be there. We make trains out of oatmeal boxes, get sleds out of the attic, bake cookies and all those things you never have time to do 'like' check for cavities.

The second day schools are closed, I am a little less enchanted with the boots dripping all over the hallway, frozen milk that some unemployed child forgot to bring in, a wet dog that smells like a wet dog and the discovery that one child is wearing six pairs of Daddy's orthopedic socks for mittens.

By the third day, something has snapped and I find myself calling the mayor of the city and demanding to know whether or not this city is open seven days a week. If it isn't, I am going to move my family elsewhere.

I also call my priest and ask him to forgive me for what I am about to do, my husband who started this whole mess, and for a finale I dial, "Dial-a-Prayer" and hang up on them.

On the fourth day, the house looks like a summer cabin that has gone to the squirrels. I sit by the radio listening to weather news bulletins.

"Boy, it sounds terrible," says my son. "The roads are closed, snow has blown into house-high drifts, power lines are down, traffic is paralyzed and the temperatures are making breathing impossible."

"So a little fresh air never hurt anyone," I say guiding them to the door.

On the morning of the fifth day, I am a basket case. I have 18 loads of laundry (that's only the wet things on the porch), the kids have brought a piano box into the middle of the living room, there's a 4-foot snowman in the freezer and my garbage can lids that were used for sleds will not appear again until after the spring thaw.

"Hey, Mom," says my daughter, "did you hear on the radio? An 11-year-old boy tried to palm himself off as a priest and close the schools again Monday, and a 40-year-old mother tried to disguise her voice as the State Superintendent and open them . . . MOM! YOU DIDN'T!"

If I hadn't cried on the phone, they'd have bought it.

Microwave Oven

-A Real Cooker

By SYLVIA PORTER

Phyllis, an excellent short-order cook and mother of a typically always starving 12-year-old boy, thinks they're sensational. Lydia, a loving creator of gourmet meals and traditionalist in the kitchen, looks at them with dismay and distrust. As for me, I'm not enough of a cook to have a judgment worth printing and even a regular stove's control panels seem to me overwhelmingly complicated and frightening.

No matter what any one of us thinks, though, the microwave oven is moving ever more strongly into the kitchen range market of the U.S. — so much so that the industry predicts the oven will account for one-fourth of our kitchen range purchases by 1976, that we'll be buying 1,500,000 units a year and our annual investment will soar way past the half-billion-dollar mark.

existing or incomplete except on large items which can be left in for 15 minutes or more. Although some ovens may come with special cookware for browning and other manufacturers have taken major steps to solve the problems, to gourmet Lydia this is pure "ugh."

* Metal pots and dishes are generally unusable in microwave ovens and some foods, such as bread, cannot be cooked at all in them.

ASSUMING YOU opt for the advantages, here are a half dozen points to watch for when you shop for a microwave oven:

(1) Warranty provisions and availability of a competent service to back up an appliance which still is unfamiliar to most repairmen. Typical warranties are for one to two years, though some makers provide longer warranties with substantial restrictions on parts covered or on the manner in which you are permitted to use the oven (e.g., you may not be able to run the oven empty).

(2) Oven capacity. Most microwave ovens are too small to cook whole meats for whole families, although larger sizes are also available.

(3) Power needs. Try to get an oven which works on regular house current for greatest versatility. Otherwise, inquire about cost of installing special wiring.

(4) A "COOKING pattern" of microwaves which minimizes hot and cold spots inside the food being cooked. A cake is probably the best test of this pattern; it should come out uniformly firm throughout. Ask the sales person to demonstrate with a cake mix — it won't take long.

(5) A good instruction manual, possibly including a cookbook, to ease the transition from conventional cooking. While there is no temperature setting on a microwave oven, length of cooking time is crucial (especially on small items), and a few seconds can make or break a culinary masterpiece.

(6) A label certifying compliance with federal standards in effect since Oct. 6, 1971, limiting microwave leakage from ovens. Leaking microwaves are hazardous because they can cook you as well as the food. The federal standards eliminate any danger at the time of manufacture, but it is still up to you to maintain a microwave oven safely after you buy it. And that fundamentally means: faithfully follow your instruction manual and have the oven serviced regularly by a qualified serviceman.

COMPLETE NEW YORK STOCK LIST

Market Slumps; General Retreat

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, which had a small rally going in two preceding sessions, hit the skids Wednesday in a general retreat.

Declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange, lagging at the start, gradually opened up a lead of nearly 2 to 1 over gaining stocks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had a plus of 2.26 points at the start, sank virtually without a pause for the rest of the day, recording the fact that blue chip issues were in trouble.

"The market lost its rally," said Eldon A. Grimm of Walston & Co., "but the volume has been fairly light. There was no real selloff."

Lincoln Center Chief Fed Up, Steps Down

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Opening night began with a fierce traffic jam outside the tent. Somebody forgot to tell the police.

Looking back, the mess aptly boded the emotional, financial and artistic snarl in which the Lincoln Center Repertory Company has been relentlessly entangled since.

The chronic turmoil, besetting what hoped to be a glistering model of resident theater enterprise, entered what some observers feel could be a terminal convulsion with the recent resignation of Director Jules Irving.

"I made a decision that was totally inevitable," says Irving. "Nobody was listening and nobody could understand," he sums up the crucial financial crunch.

'NOBODY LISTENING' Lincoln's Irving

IRVING HAS been operating chief of the repertory since the 1965-66 season when, after the first of the many crises, the troupe moved into swankily marbled permanent quarters in Lincoln Center, alongside the Metropolitan Opera, New York Philharmonic and New York City Ballet.

The only culture unit created by Lincoln Center, the troupe camped through two prior seasons in a temporary structure. The first production, scene on opening night of aforementioned, spectacular vehicular confusion, was Arthur Miller's "After the Fall," on Jan. 23, 1964.

Since then there have been 57 other plays presented to a total audience of 2 1/4-million spectators. A galaxy of famous players have participated.

Irving's with drawal precipitated agonized reappraisal by the troupe's self-perpetuating 21-member board of directors — which Irving himself does not belong to. A planning committee was formed and formed another committee.

JUST WHAT long-term plan for use of the facilities will evolve is still a guess.

The only decision thus far has been for an interim season next year of guest productions created by resident companies elsewhere, or from other sources. Meanwhile, search for a new firm commander goes on.

The most pessimistic onlookers foresee ultimate switch from sustained, subsidized thespic activity to just a policy of booking commercial productions, in competition with all the new skyscraper and old Shubert houses that cluster a mile down Broadway at Times Square. Which would demolish the original dream.

Careful consideration of all aspects of LCR's record over the years strongly suggests that the present predicament results from inability by the board to fulfill the prime duty of all such artistic agencies, fund-raising.

THE BOARD is still trying to clean up all of last year's operating deficit of $690,000, also collect $666,000 for the current semester's anticipated shortfall.

Irving's resignation was triggered when the harassed bashaws canceled activities in the company's small Forum Theater, to curtail costs. Untouched in the cutback was the four-play subscription season in the main showcase, the Beaumont Theater.

For Irving the decision had tragic irony.

"Tremendous economic limitations dictate the choice of plays in the Beaumont, where you have to try to be successful all the time. The Forum allowed innovative, experimental work, and the right to fail.

"I'm sure there will be a lot of candidates for this job. But if they don't come in with their eyes open if won't matter. I don't care who sits in this seat. Unless this theater is properly funded, I have to question its future."

Music Show for Insomniacs Paying Off

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Burt Sugarman is a bright young man who decided to explore television's no-man's-land, the hours after midnight — and is making it pay off.

Sugarman is the producer of "Midnight Special," a 90-minute musical-variety-talk show that follows Johnny Carson's gabfest at 1 a.m. every Friday night.

"The only alternatives to our show on the tube are old, old movies, radio and sleep," he said, buoyant with the first ratings returns.

"Forty-eight percent of everyone watching television tuned us in our first night, Feb. 3. We followed Johnny and picked up his huge audience."

BEFORE LAUNCHING his wee hours show, Sugarman's research indicated that normally 8-10 million homes in the United States are available for viewing after midnight on Fridays.

"NNC told us that we may have had 12 million sets tuned in," he said. "So we're getting new viewers in addition to regulars.

"We're on 200 stations now and all of our first 13 shows are fully sponsored."

Asked who would be watching television from 12:30 a.m., Sugarman said the audience consisted of a variety of individuals, including insomniacs, those who have off-beat work hours and music fans.

IN THE beginning we were going to be youth oriented," he expalined. "Now we discover the typical profile of our audience is a 23-year-old married couple with two kids, high school graduates and $12,000 annual income."

Sugarman, who also produces "Johnny Mann's Stand Up and Cheer" and "The Mancini Generation," tapes his shows on Tuesdays.

He has a rotating group of hosts, including Mac Davis, Neil Diamond, Johnny Cash, Johnny Rivers, Helen Reddy, Albert Hammond, Billy Paul, Johnny Nash, Bobby Womack and other musical stars.

"But we're not just hard rock music," he hastened to say. "We play standards, country and Western. All of it."

"THE HOSTS sit around and rap with the guests and we try to work in two or three comedy acts during the 90 minutes. There's a nice feeling of informality about the show that suits the hour of the morning," Sugarman initiated the show last August when a New York advertising agency thought a post-midnight show would make an interesting one-shot special.

He agreed to bankroll the project but went a step further, envisioning a weekly series.

"We discovered that our ratings remain almost the same from 1 a.m. until 2:15," Sugarman said. "Then there's a 15 percent drop in viewers between 2:15 and 2:30. We don't know how to account for that — except maybe people begin to get sleepy."

"When you stop to think about it, there's no point in letting all that good television time go by without putting something on the air. And we think we're presenting a very fine show."

Leukemia-stricken Shortstop Tries to Forget

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Danny Thompson, 26-year-old shortstop for the Minnesota Twins, has a form of leukemia. But he'll continue to man his position when the 1973 baseball season gets under way.

"I don't want sympathy," said Thompson. "I don't want people feeling sorry for me if I go 0-for-4 or make an error. I don't want this thing to become an alibi."

When Thompson left his home Jan. 31 to take his annual physical for spring training, he felt fatigued.

He wasn't concerned, though. After all, he had been working 66 hours a week as a car salesman and speaking three or four nights a week to groups of baseball fans in Minnesota.

The following day, his 26th birthday, he was asked to return to the office of Dr. Leonard Michienzi, a Twins' physician. The doctor had explained over the telephone that his white-cell count was high and another blood test was needed.

When a second test produced the same result, Michienzi told Thompson a bone marrow test would be required. That's when Thompson became suspicious.

"I asked him what they thought was wrong," Thompson related. "Doc said, 'We suspect you have leukemia.'"

Two days later, Dr. Michienzi called to ask Thompson and his wife, Jo, to go to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester for more tests.

"They told me I had granulocytic leukemia and I couldn't bring myself to believe them," he said. "I felt great. They said I was in great condition. I kept thinking they had to be making a mistake in their diagnosis. I think I still feel that way."

Granulocytic leukemia was described to Thompson as a chronic blood disease, one that might not affect him for five or six years, if ever.

"When I first heard the word leukemia, I thought of Ernie Davis," he said, a former Heisman Trophy winner from Syracuse who died from leukemia in the early 1960s. "But his wasn't diagnosed until it was acute. I'm not even receiving treatment now."

After accepting his illness, Thompson's concern was for his baseball career.

"I asked the doctors if it would affect my playing, if I was going to be on the field or someone else," he said. "They said it wouldn't affect me at all, that I was as healthy as anyone in the league."

"I'm glad the baseball season is near. It will give me something to think about and take my mind off the illness. I try to put it out of my mind. Jo and I don't talk about it at home, but it's tough to forget."

"If everyone else would forget it, it would be easier for me not to think about."

But since his illness became public, Thompson is being constantly reminded of it through questions by teammates, friends and reporters.

"I was sorry the story got out," he said. "I had hoped to keep it quiet because I want to be treated like any other player. I want people thinking about me because of my baseball playing, not because of my illness."

Fight Stops Cage Game At Halftime

GENESEO, N.Y. — A basketball game between Geneseo State and Rochester Tech was called at half-time Tuesday night because of a fight involving players and fans.

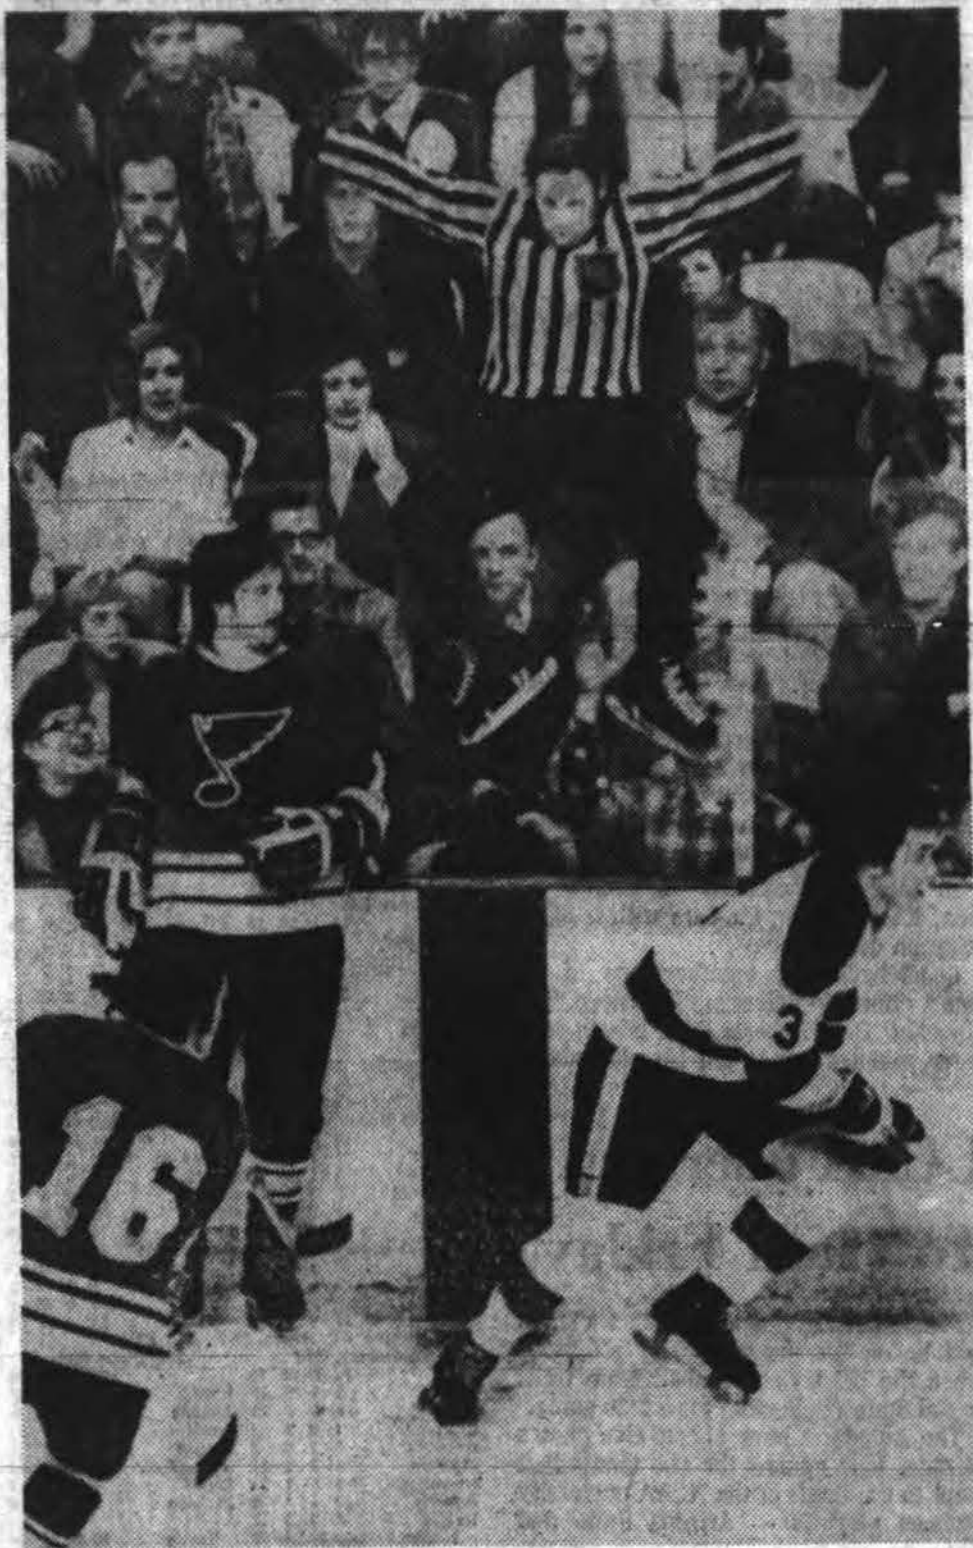

Officials said George Jenkins, a Rochester forward, was ejected early in the game for allegedly taking a swing at a Geneseo player.

By halftime, officials said, Jenkins was in street clothes and standing in a gymnasium corridor where he encountered some Geneseo players. Words were exchanged and the fighting began.

About a dozen fans joined in the melee, which ended several minutes later with no reported injuries.

Rochester coach Bill Carey and coach Tom Pope of Geneseo said they called the game, fearing that fighting might resume after the intermission.

Rochester Tech was leading 37-31 when the game was called.

Trojans Face Beavers; UCLA, Ducks Square Off

By The Associated Press

The Pacific-8 Conference basketball race for second place focuses on Eugene and Corvallis, Ore., tonight when UCLA and three mathematical contenders meet.

Mathematical, not probable, as coach Bob Boyd of the University of Southern California has conceded the title to top-ranked UCLA, 9-0 in the league and 21-0 overall.

Boyd's Trojans, 7-2, play at Oregon State, 5-4, while the Bruins are at surprising Oregon, 6-3.

Friday night, Washington State, 1-8, is at California, 2-7, and Washington, 3-6, is at Stanford, 3-6. The California teams swap opponents Saturday, with all games at night except the regionally televised Washington State - Stanford afternoon game.

Boyd admitted this week that last Saturday's 73-70 loss to Washington caused him to start thinking of a second-place finish, which this year could mean more than any other Pac-8 season — a possible bid to the National Invitational Tournament. In the past, the league allowed only the champion to take part in post-season play.

"For our team to win two games and perhaps give us second place in the conference," Boyd said, "we'll have to play our very best."

Oregon's Ducks have made a great tournament from last season when they went 0-14 in league play.

Oregon lost to UCLA 64-38 and Southern Cal 66-65 in earlier meetings, and Ducks coach Dick Harter said:

"It is very difficult to say anything that hasn't already been said about UCLA. The Bruins are a great basketball team. USC has outstanding talent. The Trojans played poorly in their loss to Washington and will likely be coming to Oregon all fired up now."

The Bruins, with big Bill Walton leading Pac-8 scorers and rebounders, seek their 67th consecutive victory against Oregon, paced by freshman guards Ron Lee and Mark Barwig, and senior forward Doug Little.

Assuming UCLA sweeps its pair of games, Boyd could take the Trojans home with a two-game cushion in the runner-up race by splitting, as long as the victory is over Oregon.

"If we had our druthers, we'd aim for Oregon, because if we split we still come back two games ahead — if we split the right way," Boyd said.

But he added that Oregon State, with big Neal Jurgenson, is capable of "running and shooting the ball freely, and when they do that, they can beat anybody."

Davis Finds New Life In Religion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willie Davis signed a contract for $100,000, reaching a goal he says he knew he would obtain, and then voiced a hope the Los Angeles Dodgers would be more cohesive in 1973.

He also admitted he had set a goal of 51 home runs and 51 stolen bases for himself in his 14th major league season.

"George Williams, who is director of our faith, told me, 'I'll give these to you as something to work on.'"

And, said Davis, "If someone else has faith in me, I sure as hell have faith in myself."

He has become a member of the Nichiren Shoshu Academy of the Buddhist faith and Williams is the director in the United States. The religion includes chanting and Davis declares this has helped him in establishing himself.

Davis visited Japan for eight days starting on Jan. 7 and saw the Sho-Hondo Shrine near the foot of Mt. Fuji.

"The organization encompasses nine million families with about 300,000 in the Americas taking part," the center fielder said. "They look over here because they feel world peace must start here."

For himself, Davis feels the religion has provided new strength and direction.

"I know I haven't had my best baseball season," says the speedy star who has a lifetime batting average of .278 and ranks among the top seven of all-time Dodgers in most batting categories.

And in signing his $100,000 pact, he joins Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale, Maury Wills and Frank Robinson in that category. The latter, however, was with Los Angeles only last season.

"I feel good about the $100,000 but I knew that eventually I would get it," Davis told newsmen. "A couple of years ago I thought about the money thing. Maybe that held me back. Now I have a new outlook to make me do my best."

He referred to his Buddhism. And then, referring to the Dodgers, he said, "We have to get the togetherness feeling. It was lacking, very definitely, last year. It was something we had before that seemed to fall out the window."

On his religion, he commented, "By practicing you find out if you go too much for material things. . . you get them but you lose them. You should get the idea of winning the game for the fans and for your teammates and that brings out the best in you."

Davis said the Dodgers a year ago had the players to win the National League title with the exception of a third baseman.

"We didn't have anybody to play that position day after day. With the acquisition of Ken Mullen, we don't have that problem."

And on problems in general, the veteran declared, "If a guy has a problem, you should try to cheer him up, hit him some batting practice, throw him some balls. Don't make the problem worse."

On Visit to U.S. Russian Athletes Convert Quickly

NEW YORK (AP) — Valery Borzov blushed and fidgeted when a brash Yankee newsman asked him if it was true that after the Munich Olympics he had bragged that he was "The World's Fastest Human."

"I never said that," the tall, handsome Soviet sprinter replied through an interpreter. "It is not for me to say who is the world's fastest human. The people must decide that."

If Borzov didn't say it, others did after the Soviet cannonball ended America's long-time Olympic sprint supremacy by scoring a gold medal double in the 100 and 200 meters.

Borzov is in New York with three Russian teammates to compete in Friday's AAU track and field championships at Madison Square Garden.

Once you could spot a visiting Russian easily. He wore baggy pants, frayed shirts and squeaking shoes. When he smiled, he would almost blind you with gleaming steel teeth.

No more.

Borzov, a 182-pound six-footer, was attired in blue jeans, button-down shirt and fur-lined suede jacket. His hair was modishly long. His teammates could be mistaken for young Americans.

They are Yevgeny Arzhanov, silver medalist behind Dave Wottle in the Olympic 800; Vladimir Abramov, a gangling high-jumper who has done 7-3½, and attractive Lumila Bragina, world record-holder and Olympic gold medalist in the women's 1,500 meters.

Lumila, 29, wearing a Jane Fonda shag hair-do, showed a good portion of her shapely thighs beneath a blue miniskirt.

The country is being invaded by peaceful Reds. The Soviet boxing team already has been here. Little Olga Korbut and her gymnasts are due any day now. They will be followed by the basketball team and later in the spring a team of beefy Soviet wrestlers.

But they are a new breed, these Russian athletes — sharply dressed, articulate, with many speaking several languages, and with a good sense of humor.

The things they like most about the United States, they admit quite openly, are hot dogs, blue jeans, cowboy hats and the wide choice of television channels.

They spent most of Tuesday evening with eyes glued on a horror show.

"It was about castles and monsters," said Abramov. "We thought it was very funny. It was so scary we had to laugh."

Borzov confessed that he didn't care much for Uncle Sam's ear-splitting rock'n'roll and country music.

"I like music soft and slow," he said. "Like Andy Williams." The visitors were asked if they would like to see a hockey game Wednesday night. Hockey is big in the Soviet Union.

"No," said Borzov. "We would like to see the Roller Derby."

They were asked what souvenirs they would prefer to take home from America.

"The Statue of Liberty," quipped Arzhanov.

The Russians bent double with laughter.

Shane Gould Starts School In California

LOS ALTOS HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Australian swimming star Shane Gould enrolled at St. Francis High School here Wednesday after settling down for her five-month stay in America.

"I came here to get experiences in life that I wouldn't get in Australia because living in America is different," said the 16-year-old athlete who holds five world swimming records.

She is living with the Paul Mariani Jr. family, who befriended her and her family during the 1971 Santa Clara International Invitational. Miss Gould made her first U.S. appearance in the meet at nearby Santa Clara and set a world record in the women's 400-meter freestyle.

The 5-foot-7 blonde said she "Hopes to enrich my education" during the term in the U.S. school, "and I hope to help my swimming by competing."

She arrived in the country last week and competed in a Los Angeles meet, winning three events.

Her schedule for this year will include the national indoor championships in Cincinnati in early April, the Crystal Palace International meet in London in late April and the Santa Clara meet in late June.

"I will stay here until the middle of July when I hope to return to Australia and attend a training camp to prepare for the world championships in September," she said.

The girl who won three gold medals at the 1972 Olympics isn't looking ahead as far as the 1976 Games yet.

Campbell Dies

LOS ANGELES — Gilly Campbell, a major league catcher for the Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers, died Wednesday after a long illness at a local hospital. He was 65.

Campbell caught for the Cubs in 1933, the Reds in 1935-37 and the Dodgers in 1938, achieving a lifetime batting average of .263 in 295 games. He also played for Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

Hadl No. 1, Says Gabe

DURANGO, Colo. (AP) — Los Angeles Rams quarterback Roman Gabriel said Wednesday he has learned that John Hadl, acquired from San Diego, will be the Rams' No. 1 quarterback.

Gabriel also said coach George Allen of the Washington Redskins was actively trying to acquire him through a trade with the Rams.

"I have learned from inside sources that Hadl will be the No. 1 quarterback," Gabriel said, discounting recent statements by Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom that Gabriel would retain his starting job. Gabriel said Rosenbloom's remarks were merely for the benefit of the news media.

"All I want is a fair shake," the 32-year-old veteran said in an interview. "I feel like I can beat out Billy Kilmer and Sonny Jurgenson," the Redskins' current quarterbacks.

He reiterated that he would not play for the Rams and said he would retire if no trade was arranged. He added he might have something lined up in college coaching, but gave no specifics.

Gabriel was here as part of a tour promoting his football camp for high school players in June at Grand Junction.

Foe Is Tough

LONG BEACH — Coach Bill Fraser of Long Beach Wilson isn't looking forward to playing Marina in the opening round of the CIF basketball playoffs.

But his Moore League champion Bruins have shown they can play with anyone in amassing a 21-6 overall record and 9-1 loop record.

"I know Marina is an awfully strong team, and I'm not overjoyed with the pairing," Fraser says. "They matched the Moore League with the Sunset League, two of the strongest leagues around."

Fraser, a graduate of Michigan State University, saw his Bruins pull a bit of a surprise in winning the championship this season.

"We felt the league was strong from top to bottom, and our team could finish just about anywhere at the start of the season," Fraser says. "But the team has played well together all along, and that's been the key to our success. We don't have a real standout, but everybody has played well."

The Bruins' only loss in league play came against defending champion Millikan. Four times they were sent into overtime and they won out in each instance.

The only returning starter from last season for the Bruins is 6-3 senior Percy Collins, a superb leaper and overall team leader. He has averaged nearly 12 points a game.

Junior forward Tom Caserman has been the leading scorer and at 6-6 is the most dangerous rebounder. Caserman has averaged 15.4 points per game this season.

Center Eric Wintermute (6-3) completes the front line, while guards Mark Radford (6-1) and Dean Decker (5-9) are the playmakers. Radford has averaged 11 points per game.

The game is scheduled for the Long Beach City College gym Friday with tipoff at 7:30.

Aides Chosen

Pacific High's Art Michalik and his aides will assist Corona del Mar High football coach Dave Holland in this summer's 14th annual North-South All-star football game.

Holland and his aides Al Calónico, Mike Murphy and Russ Purnell will handle the defensive side of the game along with the kicking phase.

Michalik and aides will concentrate on the offensive phase, according to Holland.

Playoff Opponents

Redondo Parallels CdM In Style, Personnel

REDONDO BEACH — Sharp shooting from the outside, a respectable front line of 6-6, 6-4 and 6-3 and a superior overall record.

That sounds like Corona del Mar High's Irvine League champion Sea Kings but the same label could be attached to the Sea Hawks of Redondo, Corona's first-round visitor in the CIF AAAA basketball playoffs Friday.

Coach Harry Dinnel's Sea Hawks have fashioned a 20-6 overall mark and finished second to Morningside High in the Sky

Pressure Off As Sea Kings Host Redondo

Corona del Mar High's Sea Kings are in the CIF basketball playoffs again—for the third time in coach Tandy Gillis' four-year term at CdM.

This time it's as undisputed Irvine League champions and although Friday's foe, Redondo, had a chance to take a first hand look at the Sea Kings Tuesday night, the visitors from Redondo are not expected to do anything radically different from what Corona players have already seen.

"It's a little tough for us to prepare for a team we've never seen," says Gillis, "but frankly I don't think anyone can throw anything at us that we haven't already seen."

If there was pressure involved in Corona's long win streak there is none now after Magnolia snapped a 23-game skid Friday.

And in addition to Corona's firepower there is the marked improvement in the play of 6-6 center Bob Clark and 6-3 forward Marc Attlesley.

"Attlesley's board strength and defensive ability are instrumental in our success," says Gillis, who adds All-CIF AAAA returnee Casey Jones, Jeff Wharton and Matt Keough to the starting five.

Attlesley missed the entire season as a junior with a broken leg. As for defensive assignments against the Sea Hawks it'll be Wharton on Redondo's No. 1 player in the front line—probably 6-6 Greg Crow.

Jones takes the best ball handler (Brian Cox) and Keough will try to contain 6-3 forward Mike Dooley.

Corona del Mar figures as the favorite with the home court advantage. But upmost in Gillis' mind is the burning question:

Can Corona del Mar rebound with the Sea Hawks? If not it could be a long night for the Sea Kings.

League championship race. Morningside is the No. 1 seeded team in the AAAA eliminations.

"We feel like we're somewhat like Corona del Mar," says Dinnel, "we are fairly deliberate and have a balanced effort. In fact our sixth man, Gary KrcMarik, plays as much as any of our players."

Brian Cox is the man at the controls for the Sea Hawks. The 5-10 guard averages 8.1 points per game, but more than that he quarterback's the offense.

Four Sea Hawks earned All-Sky League honors with Cox and Tim Meyers (6-4 forward) on the first team. Meyers averaged 12.5 points per game.

Second team honors went to Ken Greenleaf (6-4 guard) and Greg Crow (6-6 center).

Greenleaf averaged 12.3 per outing and Crow hits at an 11.5 clip.

Another player in double figures is reserve KrcMarik, a 5-10 guard.

Still more balance is realized in Mike Dooley, a 6-3 forward who sports a 9.1 average.

Five of Redondo's first six are back from last year's 7-16 club with only Dooley muscling into the lineup from the '72 junior varsity.

Meyers is a three-year starter for Dinnel.

This is Dinnel's third year at Redondo and the first of his teams to gain the playoffs. He sees Friday's contest as a low-scoring issue.

Coast Rangers In 5-2 Setback

The Coast Rangers soccer club returned to action at TeWinkle Park in Costa Mesa Sunday afternoon but found a long layoff due to inclement weather too much of a handicap and as a result dropped a 5-2 decision to the Olympics of Santa Ana.

Colin West scored a penalty goal in the first half to keep the Rangers within striking distance at 3-1 but the Olympics scored a fourth goal early in the second half to clinch the victory.

West scored a second time on an excellent pass from Jimmie Taylor in the second half for the final Rangers goal. Coach George Harrison praised the play of Stan Moss at center-half and Brian Gallagher at right-half in addition to the two men involved in scoring.

Eagles Suffer 39-35 Loss, Magnolia in CIF Playoffs

By CRAIG SHEFF

Magnolia High held off a determined bid by Estancia to defeat the Eagles, 39-35, in a third place Irvine League playoff game at Edison High Wednesday night.

The victory put Magnolia into the CIF AAAA first round basketball playoffs at California High Friday night. The playoff with Estancia came about when both teams finished with 7-7 records.

It was not an easy victory for the Sentinels with Estancia holding the upper hand through most of the third quarter.

Then with coach Dave Carlisle's Eagles on top (27-24) Sentinels center Brian Coin hit six of his team's eight straight points and Magnolia shot ahead, 32-27.

Magnolia kept the margin the rest of the way.

Coin hit a short jumper and added a pair of free throws at the end of the third quarter, then quickly hit a baseline jump shot as the final quarter began. Teammate Max Delfin fired an outside shot and Magnolia had a three-point lead.

Estancia cut the margin to one (34-33) four minutes later when Todd Collins fired in a turn around jumper and Tim Pirtle added a 20-footer.

But the Sents went into a stall, forcing Estancia to pressure more and in the process Magnolia went to the foul line for five points in a row and with just 25 seconds left had a 39-33 advantage.

Estancia's passing game kept the tilt at a slow pace and cut down Magnolia's fast break attack.

JC Basketball

Gauchos Snap Streak; Pirates, Rustlers Fall

Saddleback College snapped a seven-game losing streak while Golden West and Orange Coast colleges dropped their basketball finales Wednesday night in JC action.

Saddleback's Gauchos downed host San Diego CC, 90-88, behind Mike Neiswender's 24 points; visiting OCC fell to Cerritos, 77-62; and Golden West lost to invading Rio Hondo, 63-52.

The victory by Cerritos, coupled with Santa Ana's 93-79 win over Fullerton left the two teams tied for the South Coast Conference championship. A playoff at a neutral site is set for Saturday.

In Southern California Conference action, East LA won the title with a 103-89 triumph over Cypress.

to stay, 82-80.

Cerritos grabbed a 13-0 lead and stayed ahead all the way, although OCC's Pirates came within two (49-46) with 11:05 left in the second half.

But Cerritos hit 13 of 17 free throws in the final nine minutes of play to win going away.

Meanwhile, Golden West, behind the play of guard Taras Young, fought back from a 27-20 halftime deficit to tie Rio Hondo (40-40) with 10:50 to go.

Then with the score 48-46 in favor of the Roadrunners, the winners outscored Golden West, 9-2, to take a comfortable lead.

Clementean Reopens Attacks on Police Force

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A pier-area apartment owner who has been a bitter critic of San Clemente's police department for years renewed his attack Wednesday, asserting before city councilmen that officers do nothing to stop "longhairs and hairy faces" who have turned the Bowl area into "a Haight-Ashbury."

Asserting that he "hates this city," Richard Gardiner, the owner of the Seashore apartments at 630 Avenida Victoria, charged that police have done little to curb "rowdiness" in the pier area. Councilmen listened for nearly a half hour, then referred the issue to the city staff for a detailed report.

Gardiner and a fellow apartment owner charge that police could not effectively curb problems with "people who call themselves pier rats" in the area of the beach entrance.

Under tense questioning from City Manager Kenneth Carr, Gardiner charged that three types of incidents occurred repeatedly in the area — frisbee-throwing, leash law violations and the abundant use of foul language.

Gardiner's frontal assault on the department was the latest in six years of sparring during which the complaints have gone to two grand juries and to the office of the Orange County District Attorney.

Councilmen were given copies of the lengthy correspondence.

The agencies each time told Gardiner that the issue was strictly a municipal matter.

"I could go on for weeks," Gardiner complained, "detailing the hundreds of times I've called police and how few times anything was done down there."

Gardiner also flayed his fellow apartment owners in the bowl area for "renting piggies" that don't even qualify under the state housing codes.

One nearby building, he asserted, rents small "storage and storefront rooms to those bums and the quarters are like filthy pigsties.

Accompanying the irate apartment owner was a tenant of his own storefront portion, Mrs. Cindy Benjamin of Oceanside.

The woman told councilmen she opened a tackle shop only a few weeks ago, but recent incidents have caused her to become alarmed.

She cited "gangbangers" in the area and asserted that police have done little to stop the incidents. Her fears, she added, have "prompted me to buy a gun."

"It sounds ridiculous, but what else can I do," she said. The subject of pier area problems has plagued the city for years, Mayor Arthur Holmes replied.

"Right now we're seriously trying to remedy the situation with a new entrance that might solve a lot of the problems."

"A lot of situations you describe are matters that today's law enforcement can't take care of."

"After listening to the complaints, I can't lay a great deal of blame on the police department," Holmes added.

Gangplank Falls; Four Kids Hurt

Four young students, among 50 youngsters on a whalewatch cruise, suffered minor injuries at Dana Harbor Wednesday when a gang plank separated from its pinnings and fell into the bay.

None of the four was seriously hurt in the freak mishap, occurring at the sportfishing docks of the new harbor.

"We still don't know how the thing separated. It was a county-inspected ramp and we have it apart this morning trying to find out exactly why it broke," said Sportfishing owner Don Hansen.

The incident occurred, he said, shortly before noon as the youngsters from Crown Valley School in Laguna Niguel returned from a whale cruise.

The first group debarked and started up the ramp when the fastening at the bulkhead separated.

The ramp fell eight feet to a rocky area at the base of the wall.

One youngster fell into the water but was immediately picked up by a deckhand. Several others landed on rocks and suffered bruises.

The most severe injury, said Crown Valley Principal John Hopkins, was a cut suffered by a boy. The wound required two stitches, he said.

The names of the youngsters were not released by school officials.

Hansen said the mishap was the first injury in seven years of operating the whale watch cruises and other scientific trips for schools.

"We have had at least 70,000 kids on the boats without any serious incident during that time," Hansen said.

"We just can't figure out why this happened. That ramp was new and it just shouldn't have separated," he added.

Hopkins said that after the emergency treatment at San Clemente General Hospital the four children returned to school.

U.S., China Say Liaison Offices To Be Created

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and China announced today they will establish governmental liaison offices in Washington and Peking to speed normalization of relations between the countries.

The development was announced in a joint communique issued in Washington and Peking.

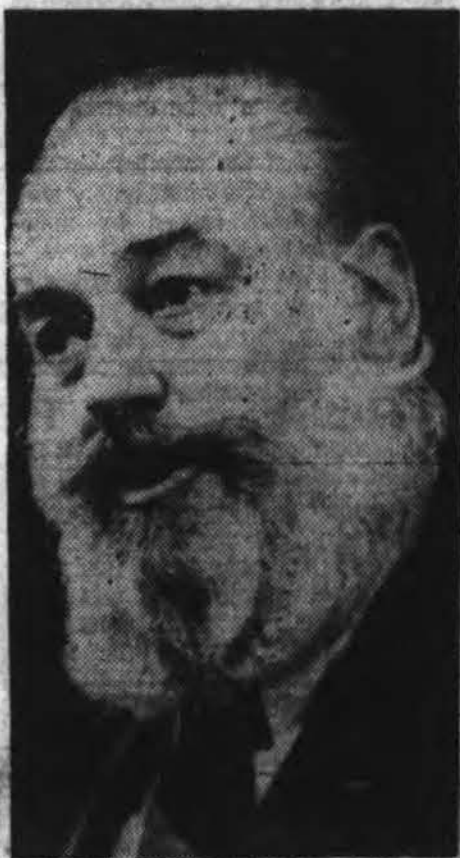

Presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger said the offices will serve as the principal contact points on the expansion of trade "as well as all other matters except the strictly formal diplomatic aspects" of ties between the countries.

Kissinger said the liaison offices will have full diplomatic privileges but will in no way imply establishment of formal diplomatic relations.

Kissinger, who returned Tuesday from four days of extensive talks in Peking with Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai also disclosed that:

—Two American airmen held prisoner by China since being shot down over Chinese territory will be released in the next few weeks. They are Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith of Victorville, Calif., a prisoner since Sept. 20, 1965, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn of Salt Lake City, held since Aug. 21, 1967.

Winthrop Rockefeller

W. Rockefeller, Former Arkansas Governor, Dead

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, the former Arkansas governor and one of six children of multimillionaire John D. Rockefeller Jr., died today at Desert Hospital, a family spokesman said. He was 60.

Rockefeller was admitted to the hospital a week ago with a chest ailment. Immediate cause of death was not announced. Doctors have refused to discuss details of the illness except to say it might be related to an operation he underwent last year in New York for removal of a malignant cyst on his back.

Rockefeller was the brother of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Their mother was Abby Green Aldrich Rockefeller.

In 1966, after one unsuccessful race for governor, Winthrop — then a robust, 6-foot-3, 235 pounds — became the first Republican elected governor of Arkansas since reconstruction.

He ignited a wave of reform that led to Arkansas' first state minimum wage, tightened restrictions on securities dealers, and restrictions on what he termed "fly-by-night" insurance companies.

One of his first official acts was to make public the report compiled by the (See ROCKEFELLER, Page 2)

Nixon Lists Tax Reform Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told Congress today he will ask this year for (1) tax reforms, (2) a program to relieve old people of the burden of property taxes, and (3) a tax break for families whose children attend parochial schools.

Nixon listed his tax plans in an economic message to Congress, the third section of his State of the Union message. But he did not spell out the details.

The message confirmed that Nixon would ask for broad authority to both raise and lower tariffs as a weapon in negotiating international monetary and trade problems with U.S. trading partners.

Such power is necessary, the President said, because the nation's imbalance of trade — an unprecedented $6.5 billion last year — "could threaten the mount-

Woman Sentenced In Hit-run Death Of Cyclist, 16

A Capistrano Beach woman booked on manslaughter charges March 31 after her car struck and killed a 16-year-old boy cyclist in the San Clemente area has been given a six-month county jail term after pleading guilty to reduced charges.

Superior Court Judge William Murray ordered the jail time and three years probation for Sharon Madeline Rogers, 30, after she pleaded guilty to charges of felony hit and run. Her license was revoked.

Miss Rogers, of 26206 Via Serra, was arrested at her home a few days after her car knocked Eugene W. Crawford, 16, from his bicycle near the intersection of Pacific Coast Highway and Camino Capistrano.

Crawford's companion, Paul Elliott Simon, 17, said the victim was hurled from his machine "in a shower of sparks" and that Miss Rogers stepped on the gas and sped from the scene. Crawford was dead on arrival at South Coast Community Hospital.

Up The Ladder

Costa Mesa firemen find it a ladder job upon arrival at lot on Albert Place Wednesday afternoon on a structure fire alarm. Smoke from the blazing treehouse was visible at their headquarters station three miles away. The penthouse was a total loss. The fire report said: Occupants: None. Loss: Unknown. Cause: Possible careless smoking.

Hillside Housing Project 'Diluted' in Clemente

A packed house of bitter critics of a proposed housing project in hills above San Clemente High School won some compromises before city councilmen Wednesday.

Scores of residents dissatisfied with a project proposed by the Landmark Financial Corporation applauded as city councilmen agreed not to allow any deviations from city codes in the plans for the project on a section of the Santa Margarita subdivision.

Councilmen ruled that the Balboa Island development firm would have to conform with street widths as set forth by the city codes.

The development firm had hoped to gain approval for narrower street widths to allow for a greater lot size.

Yet another concession hammered out Wednesday was a promise that along the periphery of the tract no two-story houses would be built, thus preserving views from adjacent houses, in established neighborhoods.

Yet another concession granted by the firm was the promise that pedestrian access trails would be built to Ole Hanson Elementary School to allow children in the new project to walk to the campus.

The project, calling for slightly more than 200 houses, still requires zoning and consultant studies to evaluate independently the geology of the affected (See HILLSIDE, Page 2)

Councilmen To Revamp City Force

San Clemente city councilmen Wednesday totally scrapped an idea of a county contract for fire department service, vowing instead to upgrade the city force.

In a swift and unanimous action the council capped several months of study on the issue and thanked county fire officials present at the meeting for conducting studies on a proposal for county service.

The action ends the sometimes tough negotiations over a possible fire protection package sought by the council last year.

At a special session last week councilmen heard suggestions that the county could assume all firefighting functions, lease the city fire headquarters and bring in its own men and new equipment.

Later, said County Fire Chief Carl Downs, the county would construct necessary substations.

The county's suggested costs for the service averaged $284,000 a year, paid through a 40-cent tax rate.

The city-public safety staff did not endorse the county proposals and during last week's session Public Safety Director Clifford Murray said that the county plan offered no significant change in the city's problem areas of Shorecliffs and the hospital zone.

Councilman Thomas O'Keefe agreed Wednesday.

"I really don't see where they have much to offer us," he said.

"I think the city should simply thank the county for its trouble and start a program of steadily improving fire protection on its own."

The first step in building a larger department is expected within a matter of days as City Manager Kenneth Carr announces the name of the city's new full-time fire chief.

Carr called for a personnel session after Wednesday's meeting to apprise councilmen of the latest developments.

Thus far, however, he has declined to disclose his choice for the post.

In a second area of improvement, councilmen within the next few months will cast a final decision on Carr's recommendations that revenue-sharing money be used to fill the finance gap in plans for a north-area substation. It would be manned by a small squad of men using a new attack pumper similar (See FIRE, Page 2)

Waiting For Swallows?

It seems the Fiesta de Las Golondrinas is in the air at San Juan Capistrano. The tiny swallows are expected to dart back to the eaves of the historic mission next month in a tradition that is the underpinning of an annual community celebration. The fiesta will include a parade March 24 headed by actor Andy Devine. Shown by quiet pool are Minnie Alarcon, white dress, and Valerie Villegas.

PILOT LOGBOOK

Those Who Need Schools Now Hold Upper Hand

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

LITTLE MORE THAN a decade ago, the mere mention of a school bond issue to help ease a crisis in education along the South Coast sent chills up everyone's spine.

For at that point in time, anyone could predict the outcome almost to the vote.

There was that one single, solid block of built-in no votes that could kill the best of bond issues.

For example, in the now disbanded Capistrano Union High School District, entire blocks of school buildings were reduced to rubble because of potential earthquake danger, yet voters killed one bond issue after another.

Only when the district absorbed new residents — after unification and during a growth crisis in the early 1960s — was a bond issue finally passed.

SUPT. TRUMAN BENEDICT recalls that election and mused this week that one factor really passed the 1965 bond issue.

"It was a honeymoon period, I guess, and that's probably why we were able to pass the bonds."

But this week, the honeymoon had long ended.

Old South Coast school hands such as Benedict held their breath and waited to see how the votes came in. Why did they constitute a landslide? Certainly the need for the bonds was evident.

But it had been evident before.

IN THE LATE 1950s Benedict, himself, was principal of Las Palmas School in San Clemente, and overcrowding was so severe that pupils attended classes in war-surplus tents.

Need, as many schoolmen know, sometimes isn't enough.

There still exists that totally predictable bloc of voters, in the older areas of the district, where voters theorize that they paid long ago for their family's education. They vote no because they believe they don't need schools any more.

But this week's returns showed that the bloc had lost its real muscle. It is the newcomer who is winning the power these days.

THE ENTIRE COMPLEXION of the South Coast area has changed.

It is the recent arrival — the young working man with a growing family and new home — who seems to hold the deck of cards.

And last Tuesday he had a chance to deal for the first time.

Saddleback Council Backs Water Management Unit

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Saddleback Area Coordinating Council unanimously endorsed the Aliso Water Management Agency joint powers agreement involving eight South Orange County communities, Wednesday night.

A resolution favoring the agreement came with the recommendation of a seven-member SACC committee headed by Chuck Bennett.

The only condition placed on SACC endorsement was that the project incorporate engineering concepts limiting the population served to 190,000 people.

The population figure was added after a new formula for population growth projected from 7,000 present residents came from state environmental agencies last week.

When the AWMA issue first came up, SACC members were badly split.

Proponents warned the joint agreement to improve sewage treatment and install water mains was needed and — if not approved — would create a water crisis as growth continued in the Valley.

Opponents feared the AWMA program would open the way for excessive development, bringing in more people than the area should support.

Original projected population for the area by the year 2000 ran as high as 360,000, a figure unacceptable to environmentalists in the area.

Before last week, the estimate had been lowered to 230,000, but those wary of the AWMA project were still unsatisfied.

The last estimate, based on a 2.1 person increase per family and influx of 1,000 people per month to California reduces the planned ocean outfall, and consequently the number of people the AWMA should be planned to serve.

SACC is a group of concerned citizens and community representatives of the Unincorporated Saddleback Valley. SACC currently has no authority to prohibit or initiate actions.

However, the group studies proposed developments affecting their area and makes recommendations to the county.

Under the leadership of president Bart Spendlove, SACC has been gaining growing credibility in county offices.

Nance North of El Toro, an SACC member originally opposed to AWMA endorsement, said: "There is a crisis and it's a good plan. Since the figures are down we should now give the AWMA our support."

Author Visits OCC

Bach, 'Seagull' Creator, Addresses 1,200

By RUDI NIEDZIEMSKI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Nearly 1,200 Orange Coast College students gave up their lunch hour Wednesday to sit in a crowded auditorium and hear what most of them already knew.

It's something that has been discussed widely by philosophers, recommended by psychologists, and immortalized by rock-and-roll.

Do what you want to.

It's a simple formula for personal happiness; still difficult for some to follow. But hearing Richard Bach, author of "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," explain, it becomes just about the most important lesson in life.

"Find your love and follow it," is the way the bestselling author re-cast the formula for OCC students. "And it doesn't matter if it's making surfboards or roller skates."

Bach, on campus at the invitation of French teacher Elmo Shawer, reminded the students that they should be selfish and pursue what they love, no matter what others think.

"If you follow your love you will go through a period of loneliness and ostracism," he said. It may be difficult to earn a living, but Bach promised that if you stick to it, the personal happiness will stay and the difficulties will vanish.

That not only was the pattern established by "that crazy guy with a machine on his back," Jacques Cousteau, inventor of the aqualung, but also surf movie impresario Bruce Bowin, a fellow Bach remembers as being so nutty about the sport that he carried his board to classes at Long Beach Wilson High School.

And it was also true of Bach's own career as a writer who shot from anonymity to the top of Time magazine's bestseller list with a weird story about a seagull that wanted to become something special.

Bach remembers collecting rejection slips from magazine publishers all over the country, but he stuck out the times of adversity until success struck.

He told the students he was walking around in Belmont Shores when a voice calmly said to him, "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" and nothing else.

"I went immediately home and locked the door and asked, 'What is this Jonathan Livingston Seagull?' I had no idea what it meant and so I said, 'Voice, are you sure you aren't looking for somebody at the end of the block?'"

Shortly after that he claims to have had a visionary dream about the seagull which he wrote about in his book. Part of the story was written immediately, but Bach found it impossible to write the end and put it in his "Manuscripts Unfinished" file.

Not until eight years later, 1,500 miles away, at 5 a.m., did the second part of the dream unfold in Bach's mind and be written and sold as three separate stories to Private Pilot, an aviation magazine.

At the suggestion of the editor, the three stories were combined into a book which was offered to several publishers who wouldn't take it, and put on the bestseller list by the one who did.

The fact that the unusual story is being read by thousands is testimony to Bach's prediction that to be selfish and follow one's love in the face of adversity will ultimately bring reward.

He said there is a monster that lives in the world which feeds on the bones of crushed idealists. It's a monster which says, "Who cares about you? There are 4 1/2 billion in this world and you are only one. Who cares what you think?"

But it can be defeated if you prove to the world that you are someone, that your ideas are worthwhile.

And one proof — as materialistic as it is — is cash, according to Bach. "No one is kidding when cash is involved," he says.

No one is kidding at the bookstores, where a fairy tale about a seagull with a mind of its own is ringing up dollar after dollar.

state police in their investigation of brutality and torture in the state's prisons.

One of his final official acts came in the waning days of his second two-year term when he commuted to life or less the terms of all 15 men on Death Row in Arkansas.

Rockefeller ran in 1970 for a third term, but had been overwhelmed by his Democratic foe, Dale Bumpers.

Weeks after he left office, Rockefeller was quietly divorced by Jeannette Edris Rockefeller, formerly of Seattle, after nearly 15 years of marriage.

He was first married to Barbara "Bobbie" Sears, daughter of a Lithuanian coal miner, but that "Cinderella romance" ended in divorce in 1954, after he moved to Arkansas from New York.

The settlement reportedly totaled a third of his fortune, then estimated at $18 million.

Rockefeller also was chairman of the boards of Colonial Williamsburg, continuing his family's interest and multi-million-dollar funding of the restoration of the 18th century Virginia town.

Rockefeller was educated at the Lincoln School of Columbia University's Teachers College in New York City, the Loomis School in Windsor, Conn., and Yale University, which he left in his junior year.

Rockefeller was, even to those who closely advised him, a puzzle and a bit of a maverick.

The only one of the Rockefeller children to fail to complete college, he rough-necked three years in the Texas oilfields and enlisted as a private in the Army in World War II. Rockefeller became a captain in December 1942 and a major in 1943.

His brothers are Nelson A. Rockefeller, Laurance Rockefeller, David Rockefeller, and John D. Rockefeller. His sister, Mrs. Jean Mauze, lives in New York.

CHINA . . .

Downey, a Central Intelligence Agency employee held since the Korean conflict, will be reviewed in the last half of the year. Kissinger said he had been told Downey's sentence could be shortened for good behavior and that he was informed Downey's conduct as a prisoner had been exemplary.

The United States has no immediate plans to withdraw its remaining military forces from the Chinese Nationalist island of Taiwan but the subject will be reviewed periodically, with decisions based principally on Washington's assessment of the danger of war in the area.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei will begin discussions in Paris next week on settlement of private American claims against China, totalling some $250 million, and some $78 million of blocked Chinese assets in the United States. The aim will be to resolve the issues quickly through negotiations.

The agreement to establish liaison offices in each other's capitals apparently was the most significant development to come out of Kissinger's Peking talks. He said the two governments felt the existing formal channel for contact through their Paris embassies "was inadequate."

The communists said Kissinger and the Chinese "agreed that the time was appropriate for accelerating the normalization of relations."

Capo Beach Association Hears Plans

Representatives of a development firm planning to build hundreds of condominiums in the Palisades — on land which recently was annexed to the city of San Clemente — will present details of the project to the Capistrano Beach Community Association next week.

Association president Frank Rainey said today that the firm offered to make the presentation at Wednesday's meeting as a gesture to residents of the county area concerned over the development of the Estates section of the Palisades.

Thus, aides of the Grant Land Company of Anaheim will show drawings and maps of the planned community proposed for 80 acres.

The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. at the Board of Realtors office on Camino de Estrella. The firm's program will start at 8 p.m.

Rainey emphasized that any resident of the Palisades is welcome whether a member of the group or not.

The developer's talk is but one of several major issues to be discussed by the group Wednesday.

Rainey said that the membership will have to come to grips immediately with the financial drain caused by maintenance fees for the Estrella Mall area.

He said that the group will be asked to concur with a suggestion that the Capistrano Bay Parks and Recreation District join in underwriting the costs for maintaining the median strip along Camino de Estrella.

"The association has born the costs for the maintenance of the landscaping for years and the costs are eating deeply into the treasury," Rainey said.

"We could be using those funds for other worthwhile projects. At this point we seem to think that there must be a better way of paying for the maintenance," he added.

Any resident interested in joining the association is urged to attend next week's meeting, Rainey said.

Thursday's Closing Prices—Complete New York Stock Exchange List

Comeback Fails On Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP) — Although blue chips issues tried to make a comeback, prices in the stock market Thursday were generally lower for the second session in a row.

Declining issues at the New York Stock Exchange opened up a lead of more than 2 to 1 over gainers in the early hours, and gave up only a little ground in the afternoon.

"Inflation at home, the dollars' weakness abroad, rising prices for gold, and trouble in the Middle East" were the market's major depressants, said Newton D. Zinder of E. F. Hutton & Co.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An upsurge in savings by Americans occurred in the fourth quarter of 1972, reaching an above-average rate of 7.6 percent of disposable personal income.

A Commerce Department report Tuesday said the third quarter savings rate was 6.4 percent and the average for all of 1972 was 6.9 percent.

Economists believe people save more when they fear economic difficulties such as inflation or loss of a job, or are worried about domestic and international upsurges.

The average savings rate is about 6 percent.

Recreation
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Recreation Corp., operator of the Stardust and Fremont hotels in Las Vegas, Nev., reports its earnings were up in 1972 and predicts another increase this year.

Recreation said Wednesday that 1972 earnings will amount to at least $1 a share, compared with $1.55 in 1971. No estimate was made for earnings this year, but the company said it thinks they will be substantial.

Economy
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. economy grew at an 8 percent clip in the last three months of 1972, the Commerce Department said Tuesday. That was slightly less than the government estimated a month ago but enough to keep the current business expansion lasting well into 1973.

Lincoln Center Chief Fed Up, Steps Down

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Opening night began with a fierce traffic jam outside the tent. Somebody forgot to tell the police.

Looking back, the mess aptly boded the emotional, financial and artistic snarl in which the Lincoln Center Repertory Company has been relentlessly entangled since.

The chronic turmoil, besetting what hoped to be a glistening model of resident theater enterprise, entered what some observers feel could be terminal convulsion with the recent resignation of Director Jules Irving.

"I made a decision that was totally inevitable," says Irving. "Nobody was listening and nobody could understand," he sums up the crucial financial crunch.

IRVING HAS been operating chief of the repertory since the 1965-66 season when, after the first of the many crises, the troupe moved into swankily marbled permanent quarters in Lincoln Center, alongside the Metropolitan Opera, New York Philharmonic and New York City Ballet.

The only culture unit created by Lincoln Center, the troupe camped through two prior seasons in a temporary structure. The first production, scene on opening night of aforementioned, spectacular vehicular confusion, was Arthur Miller's "After the Fall," on Jan. 23, 1964.

Since then there have been 57 other plays presented to a total audience of 2 1/4-million spectators. A galaxy of famous players have participated. Irving's withdrawal precipitated agonized reappraisal by the troupe's self-perpetuating 21-member board of directors — which Irving himself does not belong to. A planning committee was formed and formed another committee.

JUST WHAT long-term plan for use of the facilities will evolve is still a guess.

The only decision thus far has been for an interim season next year of guest productions created by resident companies elsewhere, or from other sources. Meanwhile, search for a new field commander goes on.

The most pessimistic onlookers foresee ultimate switch from sustained, subsidized thespian activity to just a policy of booking commercial productions, in competition with all the new skyscraper and old Shubert houses that cluster a mile down Broadway at Times Square. Which would demolish the original dream.

'NOBODY LISTENING' Lincoln's Irving

Careful consideration of all aspects of LCR's record over the years strongly suggests that the present predicament results from inability by the board to fulfill the prime duty of all such artistic agencies, fund-raising.

THE BOARD is still trying to clean up all of last year's operating deficit of $690,000, also collect $666,000 for the current semester's anticipated shortfall.

Irving's resignation was triggered when the harassed bashaws canceled activities in the company's small Forum Theater, to curtail costs. Untouched in the cutback was the four-play subscription season in the main showcase, the Beaumont Theater.

For Irving the decision had tragic irony.

"Tremendous economic limitations dictate the choice of plays in the Beaumont, where you have to try to be successful all the time. The Forum allowed innovative, experimental work, and the right to fail.

"I'm sure there will be a lot of candidates for this job. But if they don't come in with their eyes open it won't matter. I don't care who sits in this seat. Unless this theater is properly funded, I have to question its future."

Music Show for Insomniacs Paying Off

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Burt Sugarman is a bright young man who decided to explore television's no-man's-land, the hours after midnight — and is making it pay off.

Sugarman is the producer of "Midnight Special," a 90-minute musical-variety-talk show that follows Johnny Carson's gabfest at 1 a.m. every Friday night.

"The only alternatives to our show on the tube are old, old movies, radio and sleep," he said, buoyant with the first ratings returns.

"Forty-eight percent of everyone watching television tuned in our first night, Feb. 3. We followed Johnny and picked up his huge audience."

BEFORE LAUNCHING his wee hours show, Sugarman's research indicated that normally 8-10 million homes in the United States are available for viewing after midnight on Fridays.

"NAC told us that we may have had 12 million sets tuned in," he said. "So we're getting new viewers in addition to regulars.

"We're on 200 stations now and all of our first 13 shows are fully sponsored."

Asked who would be watching television from 1-2:30 a.m., Sugarman said the audience consisted of a variety of individuals, including insomniacs, those who have off-beat work hours and music fans.

IN THE beginning we were going to be youth oriented," he explained. "Now we discover that the typical profile of our audience is a 22-year-old married couple with two kids, high school graduates and $12,000 annual income."

Sugarman, who also produces "Johnny Mann's Stand Up and Cheer" and "The Mancini Generation," tapes his shows on Tuesdays.

He has a rotating group of hosts, including Mac Davis, Neil Diamond, Johnny Cash, Johnny Rivers, Helen Reddy, Albert Hammond, Billy Paul, Johnny Nash, Bobby Womack and other musical stars.

"But we're not just hard rock music," he hastened to say. "We play standards, country and Western. All of it."

"THE HOSTS sit around and rap with the guests and we try to work in two or three comedy acts during the 90 minutes. There's a nice feeling of informality about the show that suits the hour of the morning," Sugarman initiated the show last August when a New York advertising agency thought a post-midnight show would make an interesting one-shot special.

He agreed to bankroll the project but went a step further, envisioning a weekly series.

"We discovered that our ratings remain almost the same from 1 a.m. until 2:15," Sugarman said. "Then there's a 15 percent drop in viewers between 2:15 and 2:30. We don't know how to account for that except maybe people begin to get sleepy."

"When you stop to think about it, there's no point in letting all that good television time go by without putting something on the air. And we think we're presenting a very fine show."

Nixon Lists Tax Plans in Economic Message

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told Congress today he will ask this year for (1) tax reforms, (2) a program to relieve old people of the burden of property taxes, and (3) a tax break for families whose children attend parochial schools.

Nixon listed his tax plans in an economic message to Congress, the third section of his State of the Union message. But he did not spell out the details.

The message confirmed that Nixon would ask for broad authority to both raise and lower tariffs as a weapon in negotiating international monetary and trade problems with U.S. trading partners.

Such power is necessary, the President said, because the nation's imbalance of trade — an unprecedented $6.5 billion last year — "could threaten the mounting prosperity of our people."

Nixon defended to an increasingly restive Congress the slashes in social programs that he proposed in his fiscal 1974 budget.

While some programs have appealing names, they are failures, he said.

"Behind a fancy label can lie a dismal failure," he said, "and unless we cut back now on the programs that have failed, we will soon run out of money for the programs that succeed."

Among those which he said "can no longer be justified" are some housing, health, education, and welfare programs.

The 5,000-word message gave no details on what tax reforms Nixon would propose. But it committed him to deal with that matter — a commitment that was in doubt because Administration sources played down tax reform as just another name for increasing the taxes of the wealthy.

All Nixon said on the subject was: "I shall recommend a tax program that builds further reforms on those we achieved in 1969 and 1971."

He said he would send a bill to Congress "for alleviating the crushing burdens which property taxes now create for older Americans."

Late in his first term Nixon talked about federal subsidies to the states and localities which could make possible across-the-board cuts in property taxes, but toward the end of his campaign he stressed relief for the elderly.

Nixon also promised to back a plan which would give tax relief to parents who send their children to parochial and other nonpublic elementary and secondary schools. He said he had in mind a tax credit — a subtraction from taxes owed — but gave no figures.

Some civil liberties groups and others concerned about the separation of church and state oppose tax relief for those who send their children to private schools.

But those schools, Nixon argued, "are a valuable national resource, relieving the public schools system of enrollment pressures, injecting a welcome variety into our educational process and expanding the options of millions of parents."

Gangplank Falls; Four Kids Hurt

Four young students, among 50 youngsters on a whalewatch cruise, suffered minor injuries at Dana Harbor Wednesday when a gang plank separated from its pinnings and fell into the bay.

None of the four was seriously hurt in the freak mishap, occurring at the sportfishing docks of the new harbor.

"We still don't know how the thing separated. It was a county-inspected ramp and we have it apart this morning trying to find out exactly why it broke," said Sportfishing owner Don Hansen.

The incident occurred, he said, shortly before noon as the youngsters from Crown Valley School in Laguna Niguel returned from a whale cruise.

The first group debarked and started up the ramp when the fastening at the bulkhead separated.

The ramp fell eight feet to a rocky area at the base of the wall.

One youngster fell into the water but was immediately picked up by a deckhand. Several others landed on rocks and suffered bruises.

The most severe injury, said Crown Valley Principal John Hopkins, was a cut suffered by a boy. The wound required two stitches, he said.

The names of the youngsters were not released by school officials.

Hansen said the mishap was the first injury in seven years of operating the whale watch cruises and other scientific trips for schools.

"We have had at least 70,000 kids on the boats without any serious incident during that time," Hansen said.

"We just can't figure out why this happened. That ramp was new and it just shouldn't have separated," he added.

Hopkins said that after the emergency treatment at San Clemente General Hospital the four children returned to school.

Retiring Laguna Policeman Cited For Long Service

George Pletts, Laguna Beach police officer retiring after 30 years of service, was commended for his dedication and devotion to the city by a resolution of the Laguna Beach City Council approved unanimously Wednesday.

Pletts was lauded for his service to the citizens of Laguna Beach and his achievements in the police profession.

The resolution recognized the veteran officer's leadership in the Laguna Beach Police Association, the Orange County Peace Officers Association and the International Association for Identification.

Pletts has served as the departmental identification officer. He retires Wednesday. The council extended best wishes for a pleasant retirement.

"It's going to be awful hard to say goodbye after 30 years as a public servant," Officer Pletts told the council.

A retirement dinner honoring the peace officer will be held at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the Outrigger Restaurant.

Taste Of High Life

Jon Brand and his wife Joanna obviously plan to be on hand for the fine wine and art Friday evening at the Laguna Beach art museum. Sponsored by the Laguna Beach Civic League, the event is a wine of

Laguna Hearing

Zone Limitation Studied

First public hearing on a zone specifically limiting land use to agricultural and recreational purposes was held Wednesday by the Laguna Beach City Council.

The A-R zone would be an addition to the city's zoning laws. The council continued the public hearing to its March 7 meeting for further information.

Under terms of the zone, building parcels would be required to be 10 acres in area, and land use could include farming, horticulture, grazing, small animal farms.

Conditional uses are golf courses, country clubs, riding clubs, tennis and swimming clubs as well as parks, athletic fields, commercial stables, and riding and hiking trails.

Purpose of the zone is said to be protection and preservation of park lands, wilderness areas, open spaces, beach preserves, scenic areas and historic sites, open ranges, watersheds conservation of fish and wildlife and promotion of forestry, farming and grazing.

No application of the zone to a specific piece of property is under consideration now, only creation of the zone. Public hearings on the zone have been held by the Planning Commission, which recommended approval.

The council was addressed by Howard Miller, vice president of Newport Investments, Inc., owner of the Sycamore Hills area, now undeveloped, but site of a proposed 2,000-unit residential development.

Shootout in Ensenada

American Pilot Killed During Pot Smuggling Raid

ENSENADA, Mexico (AP) — An American pilot from Las Vegas was shot to death and a California attorney taken into custody during what Mexican authorities described today as a gun battle in a marijuana smuggling raid.

They said Phillip Murrell Barton, 29, was shot to death by federal judicial police and by Mexican soldiers when he drove his plane directly at them and fired a weapon.

"They had no choice but to open fire to keep from being killed," said a spokesman in the office of Carlos M. Roncalia Gonzales, federal district attorney.

The attorney, identified as Robert Lee Grimes of San Diego, was jailed in Ensenada for arraignment later this week. Grimes was wounded in the left arm, according to his attorney, Marcus Felgado of Ensenada, when a flurry of 10 shots were fired into Grimes' airplane as it also was landing at the remote mountain airstrip 30 miles north of here.

Details of the shooting and arrest, which took place late Monday afternoon, were disclosed Wednesday.

The plane piloted by Grimes landed 10 minutes before Barton's plane, the federal attorney's office said. Delgado called it a coincidence that Grimes arrived at the time of the government's stake-out.

Police said more than six tons of marijuana had been flown into the United States during "15 or 30" flights, quoting J. Matilde Patron Tirado, 66, foreman of the ranch where the mountain airstrip was located.

Patron was arrested for investigation of narcotics traffic, along with Felipe Rosas Osuna, 26, and Martin Enciso Heredia, 20, both of Mazatlan, Sinaloa.

The two were waiting at the airstrip with 749 bricks of marijuana, or about three-quarters of a ton, when Grimes landed his plane, police said. At the time, police and soldiers were hidden nearby.

"He put his hands up and came out," Delgado said of Grimes.

He said the San Diego lawyer told him that he flew to Mexico to pick up three acquaintances. His plane had been rented from Golden State Flying Club at Gillespie Field in El Cajon.

The plane used by Barton was virtually destroyed by gunfire. Inside were found cans of gasoline.

Government Liaison Offices Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and China announced today they will establish governmental liaison offices in Washington and Peking to speed normalization of relations between the countries.

The development was announced in a joint communique issued in Washington and Peking.

Presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger said the offices will serve as the principal contact points on the expansion of trade "as well as all other matters except the strictly formal diplomatic aspects" of ties between the countries.

Kissinger said the liaison offices will have full diplomatic privileges but will in no way imply establishment of formal diplomatic relations.

Kissinger, who returned Tuesday from four days of extensive talks in Peking with Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai also disclosed that:

—Two American airmen held prisoner by China since being shot down over Chinese territory will be released in the next few weeks. They are Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith of Victorville, Calif., a prisoner since Sept. 20, 1965, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn of Salt Lake City, held since Aug. 21, 1967.

—The life sentence of John Thomas Downey, a Central Intelligence Agency employee held since the Korean conflict, will be reviewed in the last half of the year. Kissinger said he had been told Downey's sentence could be shortened for good behavior and that he was informed Downey's conduct as a prisoner had been exemplary.

—The United States has no immediate plans to withdraw its remaining military forces from the Chinese Nationalist island of Taiwan but the subject will be reviewed periodically, with decisions based principally on Washington's assessment of the danger of war in the area.

—Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei will begin discussions in Paris next week on settlement of private American claims against China, totalling some $250 million, and some $78 million of blocked Chinese assets in the United States. The aim will be to resolve the issues quickly through negotiations.

The agreement to establish liaison offices in each other's capitals apparently was the most significant development to come out of Kissinger's Peking talks. He said the two governments felt the existing formal channel for contact through their Paris embassies "was inadequate."

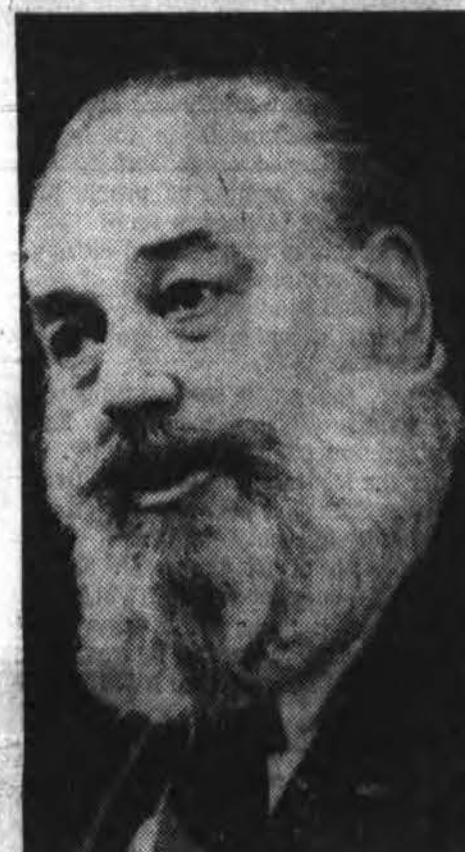

The communique said Kissinger and the Chinese "agreed that the time was appropriate for accelerating the normalization of relations."

"To this end, they undertook to broaden their contacts in all fields. They agreed on a concrete program of expanding trade as well as scientific, cultural and other exchanges."

Kissinger reported that, as part of the exchange effort, China will send to the United States next year its priceless exhibit of archeological artifacts housed in Peking's Forbidden City. In addition, three scientific groups and a gymnastics team will visit the United States this year.

The United States, he said, will send the Philadelphia Orchestra, groups of doctors, scientists and elementary school teachers, Congress members and athletic teams to China during 1973.

Asked if the talks envisioned exchanges of journalists, Kissinger said he felt there was "an understanding in principle" on the subject but that details would have to be worked out.

DIES IN PALM SPRINGS
Winthrop Rockefeller

W. Rockefeller, Former Arkansas Governor, Dead

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, the former Arkansas governor and one of six children of multimillionaire John D. Rockefeller Jr., died today at Desert Hospital, a family spokesman said. He was 60.

Rockefeller was admitted to the hospital a week ago with a chest ailment. Cancer was listed as the cause of death. Doctors have refused to discuss details of the illness except to say it might be related to an operation he underwent last year in New York for removal of a malignant cyst on his back.

Rockefeller was the brother of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Their mother was Abby Green Aldrich Rockefeller.

In 1966, after one unsuccessful race for governor, Winthrop — then a robust, 6-foot-3, 235 pounds — became the first Republican elected governor of Arkansas since Reconstruction.

He ignited a wave of reform that led to Arkansas' first state minimum wage, tightened restrictions on securities

Saddleback Group Backs Water Unit

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Saddleback Area Coordinating Council unanimously endorsed the Aliso Water Management Agency joint powers agreement involving eight South Orange County communities Wednesday night.

A resolution favoring the agreement came with the recommendation of a seven-member SACC committee headed by Chuck Bennett.

The only condition placed on SACC endorsement was that the project incorporate engineering concepts limiting the population served to 190,000 people.

The population figure was added after a new formula for population growth projected from 7,000 present residents came from state environmental agencies last week.

When the AWMA issue first came up, SACC members were badly split.

Proponents warned the joint agreement to improve sewage treatment and install water mains was needed and — if not approved — would create a water crisis as growth continued in the Valley.

Opponents feared the AWMA program would open the way for excessive development, bringing in more people than the area should support.

Original projected population for the area by the year 2000 ran as high as 360,000, a figure unacceptable to environmentalists in the area.

Before last week, the estimate had been lowered to 230,000, but those wary of the AWMA project were still unsatisfied.

The last estimate, based on a 2.1 person increase per family and influx of 1,000 people per month to California reduces the planned ocean outfall, and consequently the number of people the AWMA should be planned to serve.

SACC is a group of concerned citizens and community representatives of the Unincorporated Saddleback Valley. SACC currently has no authority to prohibit or initiate actions.

However, the group studies proposed developments affecting their area and makes recommendations to the county.

Under the leadership of president Bart Spendlove, SACC has been gaining growing credibility in county offices.

Nance North of El Toro, an SACC member originally opposed to AWMA endorsement, said: "There is a crisis and it's a good plan. Since the figures are down we should now give the AWMA our support."

Funds for the project will be unavailable if the AWMA application is not in by June.

Sewer District Formation Set In Laguna Beach

Laguna Beach city councilmen Wednesday ordered city officials to take the preliminary steps toward forming a Laguna Canyon sewer assessment district.

The proposed district would include about 55 parcels between the 200 block of Laguna Canyon Road and the city limits at the VFW post.

If all goes smoothly, the system could be complete in about a year and a half, Al Theal, public works director, said.

The council action was taken on the recommendation of the county health officer. He advised the city that the present individual sewage disposal systems in the area could represent a hazard to public health.

The project calls for a 15-inch sewer line. With the cooperation of the Orange County Board of Supervisors, the district could be extended out to nearby county areas, Theal said.

However, the line would not be large enough to serve the Sycamore Hills area, he told the council.

SIGNAL LIGHTS—Installation of traffic lights at the intersection of Broadway and Forest Avenue was approved, but with a request that a further effort be made to save as many parking spaces as possible. Presently five or six spaces are to be removed from the east side of the road near the Edison facility. The project will cost $47,000 with the city paying $6,000, and includes flashing yellow warning lights near the Festival of Arts crosswalk. The intersection, now controlled by stop signs, has a high accident incidence.

SEWER FEES—An amendment to the sewer connection fee ordinance was passed to a second reading March 7. The law change, designed primarily to offer relief to residents of Arch Beach Heights assessment district 69-1, would allow owners of existing dwellings to connect to city lines without payment of the fees (average $360) up until April 1, 1974. The ordinance is applicable to all city residences built before July 21, 1971.

CANYON SEWERS—Initial steps toward forming a sewer assessment district extending from the 200 block of Laguna Canyon Road to the Veterans of Foreign Wars post were ordered by the council. The district is without sanitary sewers, and the subject of a letter from the county health officer recommending construction of sewers for public health. Areas further up the canyon toward El Toro Road in county territory could be involved if the Board of Supervisors agrees.

AGRICULTURE-RECREATION—Consideration of an Agriculture-Recreation zone was continued to March 7 in the first public reading of the proposed addition to the city's zoning ordinance. The council directed staff members to bring copies of similar county laws for comparison.

'Seagull' Author Speaks To 1,200 at Coast College

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Nearly 1,200 Orange Coast College students gave up their lunch hour Wednesday to sit in a crowded auditorium and hear what most of them already knew.

It's something that has been discussed widely by philosophers, recommended by psychologists, and immortalized by rock-and-roll.

Do what you want to.

It's a simple formula for personal happiness; still difficult for some to follow. But hearing Richard Bach, author of "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," explain it, becomes just about the most important lesson in life.

"Find your love and follow it," is the way the bestselling author re-cast the formula for OCC students. "And it doesn't matter if it's making surfboards or roller skates."

Bach, on campus at the invitation of French teacher Elmo Shawer, reminded the students that they should be selfish and pursue what they love, no matter what others think.

"If you follow your love you will go through a period of loneliness and ostracism," he said. It may be difficult to earn a living, but Bach promised that if you stick to it, the personal happiness will stay and the difficulties will vanish.

That not only was the pattern established by "that crazy guy with a machine on his back," Jacques Cousteau, inventor of the aqualung, but also surf movie impresario Bruce Bowin, a fellow Bach remembers as being so nutty about the sport that he carried his board to classes at Long Beach Wilson High School.

And it was also true of Bach's own career as a writer who shot from anonymity to the top of Time magazine's bestseller list with a weird story about a seagull that wanted to become something special.

Bach remembers collecting rejection slips from magazine publishers all over the country, but he stuck out the times of adversity until success struck.

He told the students he was walking around in Belmont Shores when a voice calmly said to him, "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" and nothing else.

"I went immediately home and locked the door and asked, 'What is this Jonathan Livingston Seagull?' I had no idea what it meant and so I said, 'Voice, are you sure you aren't looking for somebody at the end of the block?'"

Shortly after that he claims to have had a visionary dream about the seagull which he wrote about in his book. Part of the story was written immediately, but Bach found it impossible to write the end and put it in his "Manuscripts Unfinished" file.

Not until eight years later, 1,500 miles away, at 5 a.m. did the second part of the dream unfold in Bach's mind and be written and sold as three separate stories to Private Pilot, an aviation magazine.

At the suggestion of the editor, the three stories were combined into a book which was offered to several publishers who wouldn't take it, and put on the bestseller list by the one who did.

The fact that the unusual story is being read by thousands is testimony to Bach's prediction that to be selfish and follow one's love in the face of adversity will ultimately bring reward.

He said there is a monster that lives in the world which feeds on the bones of crushed idealists. It's a monster which says, "Who cares about you? There are 4½ billion in this world and you are only one. Who cares what you think?"

But it can be defeated if you prove to the world that you are someone, that your ideas are worthwhile.

And one proof — as materialistic as it is — is cash, according to Bach. "No one is kidding when cash is involved," he says.

No one is kidding at the bookstores, where a fairly tale about a seagull with a mind of its own is ringing up dollar after dollar.

dealers, and restrictions on what he termed "fly-by-night" insurance companies.

One of his first official acts was to make public the report compiled by the state police in their investigation of brutality and torture in the state's prisons.

One of his final official acts came in the waning days of his second two-year term when he commuted to life or less the terms of all 15 men on Death Row in Arkansas.

Rockefeller ran in 1970 for a third term, but had been overwhelmed by his Democratic foe, Dale Bumpers.

Laguna Council Action

These are the major actions taken by the Laguna Beach City Council at its regular meeting Wednesday night.

SIGNAL LIGHTS—Installation of traffic lights at the intersection of Broadway and Forest Avenue was approved, but with a request that a further effort be made to save as many parking spaces as possible. Presently five or six spaces are to be removed from the east side of the road near the Edison facility. The project will cost $47,000 with the city paying $6,000, and includes flashing yellow warning lights near the Festival of Arts crosswalk. The intersection, now controlled by stop signs, has a high accident incidence.

SEWER FEES—An amendment to the sewer connection fee ordinance was passed to a second reading March 7. The law change, designed primarily to offer relief to residents of Arch Beach Heights assessment district 69-1, would allow owners of existing dwellings to connect to city lines without payment of the fees (average $360) up until April 1, 1974. The ordinance is applicable to all city residences built before July 21, 1971.

CANYON SEWERS—Initial steps toward forming a sewer assessment district extending from the 200 block of Laguna Canyon Road to the Veterans of Foreign Wars post were ordered by the council. The district is without sanitary sewers, and the subject of a letter from the county health officer recommending construction of sewers for public health. Areas further up the canyon toward El Toro Road in county territory could be involved if the Board of Supervisors agrees.

AGRICULTURE-RECREATION—Consideration of an Agriculture-Recreation zone was continued to March 7 in the first public reading of the proposed addition to the city's zoning ordinance. The council directed staff members to bring copies of similar county laws for comparison.

Planners View Future

Sycamore Hills Plans Spur Consideration

"Imminent" submittal of development plans for Sycamore Hills has spurred Laguna Beach Planning Commission consideration of future steps which may be taken in the now undeveloped territory.

Commissioners, meeting recently in a study session, were told by staff planners that an application by the land owner, Newport Investments, Inc. was imminent. A 2,000-unit community with commercial development has been envisioned by the company.

Sycamore Hills is located generally in the area east of the junction of El Toro and Laguna Canyon Roads.

Proposals presented previously by Newport Investments called for a 10-year development plan with construction of 200 units per year.

Ultimate population was believed to be about 5,000. Construction was to be along level areas only with the slopes left undeveloped.

Sycamore Hills also forms the heart of the Laguna Greenbelt, and has been termed a vital watershed area. Laguna Beach has fought Rossmore Corporation plans for development of housing within the area maintaining that construction represents an increased flood danger to the city.

Commissioners set the discussion of rezoning of the area over their March 5 study session, when all parties involved in the project could appear.

Michael Easley, associate planner, told the commission that questions of fees involved in formulating a specific plan for the area, the use of a specific plan approach to Newport Investment's project, and other large scale development in Laguna were raised by the project.

John McDowell, commission chairman, said that consideration of a rezone for the area should be isolated from all the other matters, and considered independent of the applications by Newport Investments.

He said the area should be considered for a zone which conforms with the open space and conservation elements of the general plan, which have identified the area as an open space buffer between Laguna Beach and inland areas.

Roger Lanphear, commissioner, said any rezoning would have to give the landowner a reasonable use for the property.

"It doesn't have to be homes; there are several alternatives that would give the landowner a return," he said.

Lanphear suggested that the area could be identified for 5-acre estates, or for a recreational use.

"We want to avoid in any way we can giving the impression that we're blocking anything," McDowell said. He said a moratorium on development placed on the area was done only to allow time for planning, and receipt of input from the community.

McDowell said the area could create problems for the existing community if adequate planning isn't done.

The area is now zoned for hillside residential use. Newport Investments has said in the past that their development would depend on receiving a zone change allowing cluster housing, not now permitted under the present zone. That would call for formulation of a specific plan.

2,000-unit Sycamore Hills Project May Be Proposed

Applications for a 2,000-unit, 5,000 population residential-commercial project in Sycamore Hills may be made at Laguna Beach City Hall by Monday, according to the developer.

Howard Miller, vice president of Newport Investments, Inc. said his proposals were ready and he anticipated application by the first of next week.

"I have the check for the filing fee in my pocket," Miller said.

The Sycamore hills development would be essentially the same as the proposal his company made before the Planning Commission several months ago, he said. A traffic study has been added to the $50,000 package of reports on the project.

As presented to the Planning Commission, the Sycamore Hills Community would be a 10-year project, with construction of 200 units every year. Miller said that the community was designed to leave about 72 percent of the area's 522 acres in open space.

Construction would be confined to the level lands with the slopes being left natural. Presently the area is zoned as residential-hillside property. Miller's plan requires a specific plan rezoning allowing clustering of the housing.

Included in the plans is a cultural center with an auditorium and am-

tial-commercial project.

Miller cited press reports of previous discussions which suggested that the zone could be applied to Sycamore Hills, as well as other areas within the city's boundaries and sphere of influence.

Miller said the zone would be in-applicable to the Sycamore Hills area. The region lies to the east of the intersection of El Toro and Laguna Canyon Roads.

He hit the 10-acre building site requirement and said that it was even more restrictive than the county requirement of 4 acres.

"Our intent is to have the zone, there is no intent as to where it could apply," Roy Holm, vice mayor said.

The council directed the staff to bring the county ordinances to the continued public hearing March 7 where an amendment of the 10-building site requirement could be made.

Jim Dille, president of Laguna Greenbelt, Inc., called the Sycamore Hills area a vital watershed and said the zone could be applied there.

He said he supports the new zone, as far as it goes, but said that it should be even more restrictive. He cited the value to the town of the water absorption characteristics of the virgin lands.

Roger Lanphear, planning commissioner, told the council that the zone was a necessary addition to the city's code and noted that there are areas within the city's sphere of influence where the A-R requirements would fit.

Dentist Cancels 100 Evictions At Apartments

By JOHN ZALLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dr. Robert Beauchamp, the widely known family credit dentist, has canceled all eviction notices to the nearly 100 families in his Huntington Vista apartment complex.

Just one week after the mass eviction notices were sent out, Dr. Beauchamp has admitted that "our original decision was rather hastily conceived" and asked all families to cooperate in straightening out the complex's problems.

"Dr. Beauchamp is really a very compassionate man," said Mrs. Lillian Wolf, manager of the apartments. "The more he thought how many children would have their schooling disrupted and how upset the parents were, the more he reconsidered what he had ordered."

The decision to switch Huntington Vista to all-adult apartments was made because of high rate of vandalism damage from children in the complex. In announcing his change of mind, Dr. Beauchamp pleaded with parents to help weed out the troublesome children.

"It will benefit everyone to eliminate expensive destruction," said Dr. Beauchamp in a letter to his tenants. "We can improve conditions to the point where Huntington Vista is an exemplary development," he added.

Jean Waddell, leader of a parent group fighting the eviction, said today that "his decision has restored my faith in humanity, which was wavering a bit."

However Mrs. Waddell was not in complete agreement with the management.

"Obviously we've got to control the vandalism," said Mrs. Waddell. "But I think some of the damage reports may have been exaggerated."

Mrs. Waddell went on to say that "I think all the parents realize now the need to cooperate with the management in doing whatever we can."

A meeting of all tenants has been called for Sunday to discuss vandalism problems in the complex. Mrs. Wolf said that past meetings of this type have not always been productive, but she felt the Sunday gathering would have better results.

"I think people realize now that they have to become involved in how the apartments are kept up or they won't be kept up," she said. "I think they realize now that the management is not their private baby sitting service."

Irvine Trustees Scurry for New School Site

By CANDACE PEARSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Concerned that passage of the Village of Valley View by the Irvine City Council "doesn't look positive," Irvine Unified School District trustees have intensified their efforts to get another school site in the area ready for state funding.

Irvine Superintendent Stan Corey and planning consultant Dave King are investigating how fast preliminary engineering data could be developed on a Greentree school site in north Irvine, at the southwest corner of Walnut Avenue and Culver Drive.

Engineering work on a school site is necessary for the subsequent appraisal and both steps are required to get state aid funding approval.

Corey and King will report back to trustees Monday or Tuesday. A special meeting will be called if action is planned.

The San Joaquin School District has qualified for $1.7 million in state aid which it has said will be spent on an elementary school in Irvine.

The Village of Valley View school site in north Irvine has been held up by city delays of the Irvine Company proposed plan.

Low-priced housing and high densities proposed in the Valley View project created controversies. Irvine planning commissioners last week revised the plan to lower some densities, but Irvine Company officials said they aren't pleased with the result.

The city council will hear the Valley View planned community zoning request March 1. Because of procedural rules, the first time the council could act on the project is March 13.

The school district needs information on the street alignments and utility locations before it can proceed with designs of the Valley View School.

The San Joaquin School District goes out of business June 30, after which Irvine Unified takes over schools in the area. State funding must take place in June.

To get that aid, all applications must get to the state in early April.

Irvine Unified trustees aren't sure that's going to happen.

Trustee Dean Olson Wednesday repeatedly urged that the district seek other alternatives now.

Corey said it is his "impression we can't do it," referring to the possibility of getting another site ready in time.

Preliminary engineering data usually takes 90 to 120 days to complete, King told trustees.

"I don't want to hear about the past," Olson responded.

Trustees said they would be willing to pay bonuses or overtime to engineers out of the Irvine budget to meet the state's (See NEW SITE, Page 2)

Crimes Charged Adventuress Wyn Sargent Speaks

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The woman called Mama Wyn by 10,000 Stone Age Indonesian tribesmen has come home to tell her story of terror to the world.

Wyn Sargent, the tall Huntington Harbour woman whose marriage to a West Irian cannibal chieftain made world headlines, said today she was run out of Indonesia by government officials who feared her knowledge of brutalities allegedly inflicted on the tribe by police and local government officials.

The statuesque redhead told nearly 100 newsmen in a soft voice that often cracked with emotion of her marriage to chief Oboharok and subsequent deportation from Indonesia.

She charged that it was never her intention to make an anthropological study of the primitive Dani tribe, nor was she there to conduct a sex survey, "though I'm flattered that they think anyone my age (she's 46) is capable of doing something like that."

"I did not run naked in the jungle nor did I reduce my western clothing to native dress and I had no desire to do so," she said.

Miss Sargent, of 4001 Morning Star Drive, Huntington Beach, said she suffered from malaria in her five-month stay in the tropical jungle, had lost 18 pounds and described her health as "low grade."

She charged Indonesian police and government officials with inflicting "murder, rape, theft and beatings on a people they were supposed to be helping."

She said she believes chief Oboharok is hiding from authorities in fear of his life.

New China Links

Washington, Peking Tell Liaison

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and China announced today they will establish governmental liaison offices in Washington and Peking to speed normalization of relations between the countries.

The development was announced in a joint communique issued in Washington and Peking.

Presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger said the offices will serve as the principal contact points on the expansion of trade "as well as all other matters except the strictly formal diplomatic aspects" of ties between the countries.

Kissinger said the liaison offices will have full diplomatic privileges but will in no way imply establishment of formal diplomatic relations.

Kissinger, who returned Tuesday from four days of extensive talks in Peking with Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai also disclosed that:

—Two American airmen held prisoner by China since being shot down over Chinese territory will be released in the next few weeks. They are Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith of Victorville, Calif., a prisoner since Sept. 20, 1965, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn of Salt Lake City, held since Aug. 21, 1967.

—The life sentence of John Thomas Downey, a Central Intelligence Agency employe held since the Korean conflict, will be reviewed in the last half of the year. Kissinger said he had been told Downey's sentence could be shortened for good behavior and that he was informed Downey's conduct as a prisoner had been exemplary.

—The United States has no immediate plans to withdraw its remaining military forces from the Chinese Nationalist island of Taiwan but the subject will be reviewed periodically, with decisions based principally on Washington's assess-

Nixon Gives Priorities On Tax Reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told Congress today he will ask this year for (1) tax reforms, (2) a program to relieve old people of the burden of property taxes, and (3) a tax break for families whose children attend parochial schools.

Nixon listed his tax plans in an economic message to Congress, the third section of his State of the Union message. But he did not spell out the details.

The message confirmed that Nixon would ask for broad authority to both raise and lower tariffs as a weapon in negotiating international monetary and trade problems with U.S. trading partners.

Such power is necessary, the President said, because the nation's imbalance of trade — an unprecedented $6.5 billion last year — "could threaten the mounting prosperity of our people."

Nixon defended to an increasingly restive Congress the slashes in social programs that he proposed in his fiscal 1974 budget.

While some programs have appealing names, they are failures, he said.

"Behind a fancy label can lie a dismal failure," he said, "and unless we cut back now on the programs that have failed, we will soon run out of money for the programs that succeed."

Among those which he said "can no longer be justified" are some housing, health, education, and welfare programs.

The 5,000-word message gave no details on what tax reforms Nixon would propose. But it committed him to deal with that matter — a commitment that was in doubt because Administration sources played down tax reform as just another name for increasing the taxes of the wealthy.

All Nixon said on the subject was: "I shall recommend a tax program that builds further reforms on those we achieved in 1969 and 1971."

Saddleback Council Backs Water Management Unit

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Saddleback Area Coordinating Council unanimously endorsed the Aliso Water Management Agency joint powers agreement involving eight South Orange County communities Wednesday night.

A resolution favoring the agreement came with the recommendation of a seven-member SACC committee headed by Chuck Bennett.

The only condition placed on SACC endorsement was that the project incorporate engineering concepts limiting the population served to 190,000 people.

The population figure was added after a new formula for population growth projected from 7,000 present residents came from state environmental agencies last week.

When the AWMA issue first came up, SACC members were badly split.

Proponents warned the joint agreement to improve sewage treatment and install water mains was needed and — if not approved — would create a water crisis as growth continued in the Valley.

Opponents feared the AWMA program would open the way for excessive development, bringing in more people than the area should support.

Original projected population for the area by the year 2000 ran as high as 360,000, a figure unacceptable to environmentalists in the area.

Before last week, the estimate had been lowered to 230,000, but those wary of the AWMA project were still unsatisfied.

The last estimate, based on a 2.1 person increase per family and influx of 1,000 people per month to California reduces the planned ocean outfall, and consequently the number of people the AWMA should be planned to serve.

SACC is a group of concerned citizens and community representatives of the Unincorporated Saddleback Valley. SACC currently has no authority to prohibit or initiate actions.

However, the group studies proposed developments affecting their area and (See WATER, Page 2)

Irvine Planners Will Give Views On Town Center

Irvine planning commissioners tonight will relay their thoughts on five architects' visualizations of the future development of Irvine Town Center to Irvine Company planners.

The commissioners' views on Town Center and discussion of the city's proposed interim parks and open space plan are the only items set for tonight's study session agenda. The city commissioners meet at 7:30 in city hall, 4201 Campus Drive.

In previous public meetings with the Irvine Company, commissioners have been shown drawings and land use maps suggested by four new architects competing for the land development firm's bid to complete the final design for the 200-acre planned community across Campus Drive from UC Irvine.

Along with the four new proposals, commissioners have been studying the original William Pereira plan program for a formal, highly commercial development of Town Center.

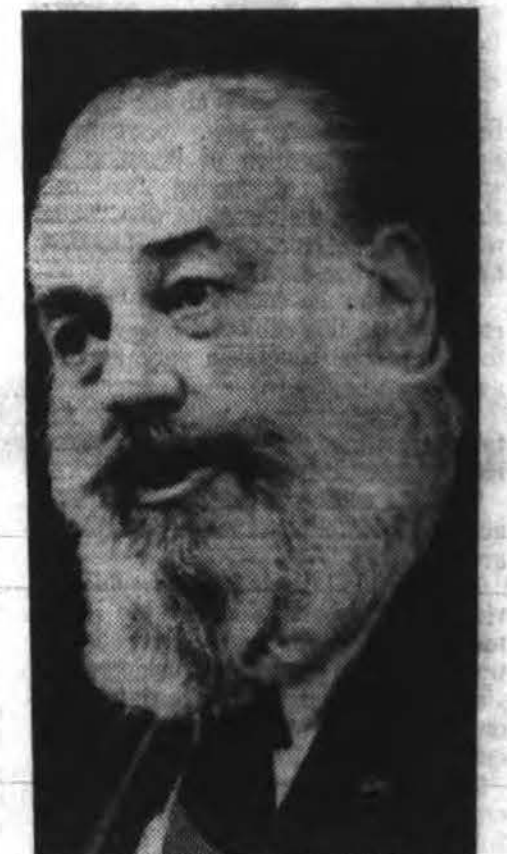

All the proposals provide for a mix of single-family, apartments, apartments over stores, and commercial uses within the parcel bounded by University, Campus and Culver Drives and University Regional Park.

Boy, 5, Strangled By Jacket in Tree

A 5-year-old boy died in Santa Ana Wednesday when he fell while climbing a tree and was strangled by his jacket.

Jeffrey Wayne Haire of 2828 N. Bristol St., died at the scene of the accident, the Orange County Coroner's Office reported.

Police said the boy, son of Mrs. Sandra Ann Stewart strangled when his jacket caught on a branch. He was removed from the tree by a neighbor in the apartment complex where he lived.

Winthrop Rockefeller

W. Rockefeller, Former Arkansas Governor, Dead

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, the former Arkansas governor and one of six children of multimillionaire John D. Rockefeller Jr., died today at Desert Hospital, a family spokesman said. He was 60.

Rockefeller was admitted to the hospital a week ago with a chest ailment.

Cancer was listed as the cause of death. Doctors have refused to discuss details of the illness except to say it might be related to an operation he underwent last year in New York for removal of a malignant cyst on his back.

Rockefeller was the brother of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Their mother was Abby Green Aldrich Rockefeller.

In 1966, after one unsuccessful race for governor, Winthrop — then a robust, 6-foot-3, 235 pounds — became the first Republican elected governor of Arkansas since Reconstruction.

He ignited a wave of reform that led to Arkansas' first state minimum wage, tightened restrictions on securities dealers, and restrictions on what he termed "fly-by-night" insurance companies.

One of his first official acts was to make public the report compiled by the state police in their investigation of brutality and torture in the state's prisons.

One of his final official acts came in the waning days of his second two-year term when he commuted to life or less the terms of all 15 men on Death Row in Arkansas.

Shootout in Ensenada American Pilot Killed During Pot Smuggling Raid

ENSENADA, Mexico (AP) — An American pilot from Las Vegas was shot to death and a California attorney taken into custody during what Mexican authorities described today as a gun battle in a marijuana smuggling raid.

They said Phillip Murrell Barton, 29, was shot to death by federal judicial police and by Mexican soldiers when he drove his plane directly at them and fired a weapon.

"They had no choice but to open fire to keep from being killed," said a spokesman in the office of Carlos M. Roncaglia Gonzales, federal district attorney.

The attorney, identified as Robert Lee

Grimes of San Diego, was jailed in Ensenada for arraignment later this week. Grimes was wounded in the left arm, according to his attorney, Marcus Felgado of Ensenada, when a flurry of 10 shots were fired into Grimes' airplane as it also was landing at the remote mountain airstrip 30 miles north of here.

Details of the shooting and arrest, which took place late Monday afternoon, were disclosed Wednesday.

The plane piloted by Grimes landed 10 minutes before Barton's plane, the federal attorney's office said. Delgado called it a coincidence that Grimes arrived at the time of the government's stake-out.

Police said more than six tons of marijuana had been flown into the United States during "15 or 30" flights, quoting J. Matilde Patron Tirado, 66, foreman of the ranch where the mountain airstrip was located.

Patron was arrested for investigation of narcotics traffic, along with Felipe Rosas Osuna, 28, and Martin Enciso Heredia, 20, both of Mazatlan, Sinaloa.

The two were waiting at the airstrip with 749 bricks of marijuana, or about three-quarters of a ton, when Grimes landed his plane, police said. At the time, police and soldiers were hidden nearby.

"He put his hands up and came out," Delgado said of Grimes.

Mostly sunny on Friday, with early morning high clouds along the coast. Beach temperatures should reach 64, rising to 75 inland. Overnight lows in the 40s.

Rossmoor Addition Approved

Orange County Planning Commissioners have approved a 93.9 acre multi-family residential addition to Rossmoor Leisure World in Laguna Hills after finding that an alleged "monstrous" invasion of the Laguna greenbelt didn't exist.

The project is phase four in the Rossmoor Corporation's 2,420 acre walled retirement community. It includes a 10-acre lake.

Plans call for 954, one, two and three story units with the one-story units closest to the lake, which will be maintained by the Leisure World Golden Rain Foundation.

No portion of the tract on the south side of Santa Maria Avenue will drain into Laguna Canyon and none of it is within the watershed area of the Laguna greenbelt map approved by the county Board of Supervisors, Ken Dykes, Rossmoor representative, said Tuesday.

Stuart Bailey, assistant county planning director, confirmed that the greenbelt boundaries approved last November by supervisors excluded Rossmoor properties, although original proposals hadn't.

Jim Dilley, president of the Laguna Beach Greenbelt, Inc., accused Rossmoor Corporation of invading the watershed and of having "no consideration" for the residents who "stand with us in horror of what Rossmoor Corporation has done."

After saying he couldn't help "getting emotional on this subject," Dilley added that Rossmoor has taken park acreage away from residents.

"They come in here with all this flip talk — that lake," Dilley shouted. "They have grabbed it from the people."

The lake will be private, as will a five-acre park with a waterfall and picnic areas.

Because the lake and park would provide recreational uses for the community's residents and theoretically would decrease the use of outside parks, planning commissioners agreed to payment by Rossmoor of one-quarter of required local park fees.

The Rossmoor Sanitation District plant expansion will be completed in September and will be more than sufficient to serve the new tract, Dykes said Tuesday.

Grading and siltation problems of the lake will be worked out with the county building department.

Under the leadership of president Bart Spendlove, SACC has been gaining growing credibility in county offices.

Nance North of El Torro, an SACC member originally opposed to AWMA endorsement, said: "There is a crisis and it's a good plan. Since the figures are down we should now give the AWMA our support."

Funds for the project will be unavailable if the AWMA application is not in by June.

The eight water districts involved are the Santa Ana Mountain District, El Toro, Aliso, part of the Irvine Ranch, Laguna Beach, South Laguna, Emerald Bay, and Moulton-Niguel.

Carl Kyma, director of the Moulton-Niguel Water District, said, "That's great," when told of the SACC endorsement of the Aliso Water Management Agency project.

"The need is now and the money is available," he added. AWMA is high on the priority list for funding from the state water resources control board, with $18 million available to it.

If the contracts for the project are not out by July 1, Kyma said Aliso would have to reapply for a grant next year, when competition will be much greater for the same amount of funding.

"We've always said that we will abide by the population estimate determined by the state," said Kyma regarding the new 190,000 person projection.

'Seagull' Author Speaks To 1,200 at Coast College

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Nearly 1,200 Orange Coast College students gave up their lunch hour Wednesday to sit in a crowded auditorium and hear what most of them already knew.

It's something that has been discussed widely by philosophers, recommended by psychologists, and immortalized by rock-and-roll.

Do what you want to.

It's a simple formula for personal happiness; still difficult for some to follow. But hearing Richard Bach, author of "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," explain, it becomes just about the most important lesson in life.

"Find your love and follow it," is the way the bestselling author re-cast the formula for OCC students. "And it doesn't matter if it's making surfboards or roller skates."

Bach, on campus at the invitation of French teacher Elmo Shawer, reminded the students that they should be selfish and pursue what they love, no matter what others think.

"If you follow your love you will go through a period of loneliness and ostracism," he said. It may be difficult to earn a living, but Bach promised that if you stick to it, the personal happiness will stay and the difficulties will vanish.

That not only was the pattern established by "that crazy guy with a machine on his back," Jacques Cousteau, inventor of the aqualung, but also surfer movie impresario Bruce Bowin, a fellow Bach remembers as being so nutty about the sport that he carried his board to classes at Long Beach Wilson High School.

And it was also true of Bach's own career as a writer who shot from anonymity to the top of Time magazine's bestseller list with a weird story about a seagull that wanted to become something special.

deadline. Olson suggested the use of a ready-made architectural plan that would meet all trustees' acceptance and specifically mentioned the Blue Hills School in the Cupertino School District near San Jose.

Designed by Dana Point architects Kai Porter and Associates, the award-winning Blue Hills School was built while Corey was superintendent of the Cupertino District.

Corey said he would report to the board Monday or Tuesday on the feasibility of getting a new site ready.

At present there are no schools in north Irvine area except the Irvine School on Sand Canyon Avenue.

Trustees are trying to abandon that site because part of the school is not earthquake safe and it lies under the flight path of jets from El Toro Marine Corps Air Station.

The Valley View elementary school would house 730 students. An intermediate school site has been planned adjacent to the elementary school. Trustees also have discussed making the area an educational-cultural complex by addition of a library, theater and nursery school.

Facility Costs

Irvine Trustees Accept Proposal

Irvine Unified School District trustees Wednesday agreed to an Orange County counsel's proposal for determining replacement costs of existing school facilities, if the Irvine School is not considered in the computations.

After an hour-long executive session, trustees also conditioned their agreement to the proposal on a county counsel investigation of a possible conflict of interest by the appraiser.

The Anaheim firm of Davis-Duhaime is suggested in the county counsel's proposal to appraise all school facilities in the San Joaquin Elementary and Tustin Union High School districts.

Davis-Duhaime has also been hired to do architectural work on El Toro High School in the Saddleback Valley Unified School District.

The appraisal of the cost of replacing existing facilities with equal ones will be used to determine the apportionment of bonded indebtedness new unified districts will inherit from San Joaquin and Tustin Union districts.

Saddleback Valley Unified, along with Irvine and Tustin Unified, are those new unified districts.

Irvine trustees are questioning the validity of Davis-Duhaime's involvement in the appraisal and the Saddleback school architectural design.

Another main concern is the inclusion of the Irvine School, which trustees want to abandon, in figuring replacement values.

Irvine School is under the flight path of jets from nearby El Toro Marine Corps Air Station. Part of the school was built in 1928 and was built before the Field Act setting earthquake safety standards.

Trustees have said they don't want to try to educate children in a school troubled by jet noise and safety factors.

They are exploring with the state the means to abandon and replace or abandon and condemn the site in the 1973-74 school year.

Meanwhile, they don't want to inherit extra bonded indebtedness for a school they don't want.

Saddleback Unified School District trustees have approved the county counsel's replacement value agreement.

Irvine Aide Says Tax Law No Problem

A new state law limiting cities to the same tax rates they levied last year is expected to have little impact on the new city of Irvine's budget.

City administrative services director James Harrington said today the new law poses "no problems for us at all for the coming year."

He noted there are four provisions within the law which would allow cities to increase tax rates anyway. One means is by a vote of the residents.

Irvine's tax rate presently is 33 cents per $100 of assessed value. City residents pay that levy for city services and another 39 cents per $100 for services the county continues to provide, notably fire protection and libraries.

The city tax rate and even the combined rate is well below the $1 per $100 maximum tax rate which for some time has been the limit for California's general law cities, Harrington explained.

Because Irvine is continuing to grow and much of that growth is new industrial development which demands little in the way of city services when compared to residential neighborhoods, Harrington predicted it will be some time before Irvine "feels the pinch" from the new state law.

As the budget process for next year moves along — perhaps by April or May — however, the picture might be different.

Harrington noted that a large capital improvement or land acquisition program could force a rate increase. If such a program is a voter-approved bond issue, the increase, under terms of the new law, would be automatic, Harrington said.

During last year's budget rounds, Councilman Henry Quigley observed that the city might want to consider a massive bond program to acquire park lands or permanent open space, while land is less expensive than it will be as development of the city proceeds. Such a bond program would, Harrington suggested, likely result in pressure to raise the rate above the present 33 cents per $100.

Saddleback Unit Gets New Office

The Saddleback Area Coordinating Council (SACC) will open its new office Monday in Room 205 of the Royal Savings and Loan Building in El Toro.

Hours of the office will be 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. The phone number will be the same.

Bert Spendlove, SACC president, said the office will be available for use by all homeowners groups and in liaison work with county offices.

Funding for the new office and a part-time secretary has been provided by the county.

Nixon Supports Rights Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said today he supports the equal rights amendment before the states for ratification and declared that expansion of economic opportunity for women is essential.

Nixon, who had not taken any public position on the amendment previously, voiced support for it in an economic report sent to Congress.

His statement came at a time when some women's groups have been expressing fears that the amendment might not be able to muster support from the 38 states necessary. Vermont became the 28th state to ratify the proposed amendment this week.

Wyn Sargent Lashes Out at Indonesia

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The woman called Mama Wyn by 10,000 Stone Age Indonesian tribesmen has come home to tell her story of terror to the world.

Wyn Sargent, the tall Huntington Harbor woman whose marriage to a West Irian cannibal chieftain made world headlines, said today she was run out of Indonesia by government officials who feared her knowledge of brutalities allegedly inflicted on the tribe by police and local government officials.

The statuesque redhead told nearly 100 newsmen in a soft voice that often cracked with emotion of her marriage to chief Oboharok and subsequent deportation from Indonesia.

She charged that it was never her intention to make an anthropological study of the primitive Dani tribe, nor was she there to conduct a sex survey, "though I'm flattered that they think anyone my age (she's 46) is capable of doing something like that."

"I did not run naked in the jungle nor did I reduce my western clothing to native dress and I had no desire to do so," she said.

Miss Sargent, of 4001 Morning Star Drive, Huntington Beach, said she suffered from malaria in her five-month stay in the tropical jungle, had lost 18 pounds and described her health as "low grade."

She charged Indonesian police and government officials with inflicting "murder, rape, theft and beatings on a people they were supposed to be helping."

She said she believes chief Oboharok is hiding from authorities in fear of his life. "I still live with the fear that Oboharok and his people are dead. That they were killed by the police for telling what they (See SARGENT, Page 2)

U.S., China Open Doors

Two Countries to Establish Liaison Offices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and China announced today they will establish governmental liaison offices in Washington and Peking to speed normalization of relations between the countries.

The development was announced in a joint communique issued in Washington and Peking.

Presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger said the offices will serve as the principal contact points on the expansion of trade "as well as all other matters except the strictly formal diplomatic aspects" of ties between the countries.

Kissinger said the liaison offices will have full diplomatic privileges but will in no way imply establishment of formal diplomatic relations.

Kissinger, who returned Tuesday from four days of extensive talks in Peking with Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai also disclosed that:

—Two American airmen held prisoner by China since being shot down over Chinese territory will be released in the next few weeks. They are Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith of Victorville, Calif., a prisoner since Sept. 20, 1965, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn of Salt Lake City, held since Aug. 21, 1967.

—The life sentence of John Thomas Downey, a Central Intelligence Agency employee held since the Korean conflict, will be reviewed in the last half of the year. Kissinger said he had been told Downey's sentence could be shortened for good behavior and that he was informed Downey's conduct as a prisoner had been exemplary.

—The United States has no immediate plans to withdraw its remaining military forces from the Chinese Nationalist island of Taiwan but the subject will be reviewed periodically, with decisions based principally on Washington's assessment of the danger of war in the area.

—Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei will begin discussions in Paris next week on settlement of private American claims against China, totalling some $250 million, and some $78 million of blocked Chinese assets in the United States. The aim will be to resolve the issues quickly through negotiations.

The agreement to establish liaison offices in each other's capitals apparently was the most significant development to come out of Kissinger's Peking talks. He said the two governments felt the existing formal channel for contact through their Paris embassies "was inadequate."

TED GRUSSING LAUNCHES GLIDER FOR A FLIGHT OVER THE SANTA ANA RIVER
Mechanized Seagull Provides Relief Valve From Pressures of Business and Law School

Concerns Put to Flight

Busy Coast Businessman Relaxes With Glider

By RUDI NIEDZIENSKI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When the pressures of his business and of law school exams threaten to become overbearing, Ted Grussing bottles them up and sends them soaring high over the banks of the Santa Ana River.

He will stand alone in the lush meadow atop the bluff overlooking Huntington Beach with not a single sound in the air and nothing in the blue sky except a large seagull which, wings outstretched, glides gracefully through the air.

Grussing can make the seagull dip, turn, climb and land at his feet. He has absolute control over all its movements because the seagull is in reality a radio controlled glider.

The president of a food brokerage and ballpoint pen and marker distributing company, Grussing, 35, often comes to seek refuge from the bustling world on top of the Costa Mesa bluff.

"It's a nice, peaceful thing. You might say I'm under a lot of pressure and this gives me a way to cork off," he says.

An unconventional man with a college degree in ancient Greek, Grussing, 21332 Compass Lane, Huntington Beach, founded his successful business in Costa Mesa after coming out west from Minnesota.

Not afraid to start on an entirely new career in his 30s he now also goes to night school with the intent of becoming a corporate lawyer.

His workload creates more tension than he sometimes cares for and that's why he took up radio control glider flying about two months ago.

His plane, built from a kit at home, is launched into the air from a catapult consisting of surgical tubing and nylon fishing line. The tubing is tied to a post, stretched out, and the glider released into the air.

When it attains sufficient altitude, the catapult line releases and drifts to earth by parachute, and the glider is on its own.

Using a transmitter with a miniature control stick, Grussing will send it soaring over the edge of the bluff to attain lift. The air blowing in from the Pacific Ocean curls up as it strikes the steep bank and this is the invisible force which holds the glider in the air.

On warmer days it may become possible for Grussing's seagull to hitch a ride with a thermal, a warm and rising layer of air. If it's good enough it can carry the plane more than 1,000 feet above the bluff.

"Finding a thermal is a hunt-and-seek system. You have to pay close attention to it. When you watch it fly over the riverbed and one wing suddenly kicks up, you're usually in one. Then you bring the plane into a tight circle and let it climb," he explains.

Huntington Poll

Bond Facing Uphill Fight

The $27 million bond election of the Huntington Beach Union High School District may face an uphill battle for passage, according to results of a DAILY PILOT telephone survey.

A random sampling of registered voters conducted Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons showed 43 percent of the voters in favor, 26 percent against, and 31 percent undecided.

Of those who had made up their minds, the poll showed 62 percent in favor and 38 percent opposed. To pass the bonds, 67 percent of the voters must approve.

The results are based on a survey of 73 persons who said they were registered voters in the Huntington Beach Union High School District.

The telephone poll and interview revealed myriad reasons why voters either favor or oppose the bonds. The following five comments are typical:

—"I've got three children in elementary schools," said a Fountain Valley woman. "We're voting yes because we want to be sure there are decent schools ready when they get to high school."

—"I've always believed in schools," said an elderly Westminster woman. "But we don't have much money now and we just have to be selfish."

—"We don't feel the schools are doing that good a job," said a Huntington Beach mother of three. "But if we don't vote for the bonds, it'll be even worse."

—"If they'd managed all the money they've got decently, they wouldn't need more schools," said a Huntington Beach man. "They're wasting way too much money on bad courses and administrators and I don't see any point in pouring more money down the rat hole."

—"You see the need for more schools," said a Huntington Beach mother of two, "so you have to give in. But you sure wish the money could come from somebody else."

The comments, although widely diverse, seemed to support two basic generalizations.

First, even opponents admitted that the schools probably are overcrowded. But they blamed school administrators for allowing the situation to develop by mismanaging the funds they do have, and felt that more money wouldn't help much.

Second, many bond supporters made negative comments about the quality of (See BONDS, Page 2)

'Very Compassionate'

Dentist Cancels Renters' Eviction in Huntington

By JOHN ZALLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dr. Robert Beauchamp, the widely known family credit dentist, has canceled all eviction notices to the nearly 100 families in his Huntington Vista apartment complex.

Just one week after the mass eviction notices were sent out, Dr. Beauchamp has admitted that "our original decision was rather hastily conceived" and asked all families to cooperate in straightening out the complex's problems.

"Dr. Beauchamp is really a very compassionate man," said Mrs. Lillian Wolf, manager of the apartments. "The more he thought how many children would have their schooling disrupted and how upset the parents were, the more he reconsidered what he had ordered."

The decision to switch Huntington

Vista to all-adult apartments was made because of high rate of vandalism damage from children in the complex. In announcing his change of mind, Dr. Beauchamp pleaded with parents to help weed out the troublesome children.

"It will benefit everyone to eliminate expensive destruction," said Dr. Beauchamp in a letter to his tenants. "We can improve conditions to the point where Huntington Vista is an exemplary development," he added.

Jean Waddell, leader of a parent group fighting the eviction, said today that "his decision has restored my faith in humanity, which was wavering a bit."

However Mrs. Waddell was not in complete agreement with the management. "Obviously we've got to control the vandalism," said Mrs. Waddell. "But I (See DENTIST, Page 2)

Nixon Lists Tax Plans In Speech to Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told Congress today he will ask this year for (1) tax reforms, (2) a program to relieve old people of the burden of property taxes, and (3) a tax break for families whose children attend parochial schools.

Nixon listed his tax plans in an economic message to Congress, the third section of his State of the Union message. But he did not spell out the details.

The message confirmed that Nixon would ask for broad authority to both raise and lower tariffs as a weapon in negotiating international monetary and trade problems with U.S. trading partners.

Such power is necessary, the President said, because the nation's imbalance of trade — an unprecedented $6.5 billion last year — "could threaten the mounting prosperity of our people."

Nixon defended to an increasingly restive Congress the slashes in social programs that he proposed in his fiscal 1974 budget.

While some programs have appealing names, they are failures, he said.

"Behind a fancy label can lie a dismal failure," he said, "and unless we cut back now on the programs that have failed, we will soon run out of money for the programs that succeed."

"Among those which he said 'can no longer be justified' are some housing, health, education, and welfare programs. The 5,000-word message gave no details on what tax reforms Nixon would propose. But it committed him to deal with that matter — a commitment that was in doubt because Administration sources played down tax reform as just another name for increasing the taxes of the wealthy."

All Nixon said on the subject was: "I shall recommend a tax program that builds further reforms on those we achieved in 1969 and 1971."

He said he would send a bill to Congress "for alleviating the crushing burdens which property taxes now create for older Americans."

Late in his first term Nixon talked about federal subsidies to the states and localities which could make possible across-the-board cuts in property taxes, but toward the end of his campaign he stressed relief for the elderly.

Nixon also promised to back a plan which would give tax relief to parents who send their children to parochial and other nonpublic elementary and secondary schools. He said he had in mind a tax credit — a subtraction from taxes owed — but gave no figures.

Some civil liberties groups and others concerned about the separation of church and state oppose tax relief for those who send their children to private schools.

Mostly sunny on Friday, with early morning high clouds along the coast. Beach temperatures should reach 64, rising to 75 inland. Overnight lows in the 40s.

Huntington Preparing Rape Case

Huntington Beach police say they expect to file formal rape charges later this week against a Diamond Bar man arrested as a suspect in at least nine southern California sexual assaults.

Detective Luis Ochoa said Ralph David Utley, 29, will be arraigned today in Long Beach on four rape charges stemming from attacks in that city.

Utley was arrested Monday night at his home by detectives from Long Beach and Anaheim who had been tracking him for nearly eight months.

Investigators said Utley, married and the father of three, has a record as a sex offender and has spent time at Atascadero State Hospital on a conviction for a sex crime.

Ochoa alleged that Utley attacked women who were alone in laundromats in Huntington Beach, Long Beach and Anaheim.

In most of the cases, he assertedly found the woman alone, late at night, and would kidnap her at knifepoint, take her to an isolated spot, rape her and then return her to the laundromat.

The detective said he is reviewing other unsolved rape cases in Huntington Beach dating back over two or three years to determine if Utley could be a suspect in those old cases.

He will seek a formal complaint against Utley for one laundromat rape case which occurred earlier this month. Ochoa said Utley may have been the suspect in a recent attempted rape case that was never formally reported.

know."

It is the authors' contention that the $720,000 United Nations loan to Indonesia for a program to upgrade the primitive standard of living in West Irian has "only fattened the bank accounts of government officials and police."

Miss Sargent cited a "72-hour reign of terror" prior to her departure from Jakarta last week as proof of the government's fear of her knowledge.

She also said she was constantly followed and that her telephone and hotel room in Jakarta were bugged. She said she was afraid of becoming a political prisoner.

Most of her film and her notes were left behind in Indonesia, she said. "I did manage to smuggle nine rolls of film out of the country in the jungle boots that I was wearing," Miss Sargent added.

She said she has appealed to the State Department to investigate both her case and the alleged corruption in the U.N.-backed project.

"I gave all of this information to the U.S. embassy in Jakarta on Feb. 15," she said.

The Huntington Harbour resident says she has "no plans to go on any television talk shows."

"I went to West Irian to write a book about a primitive people and now I want to work on that book," she said.

Miss Sargent discounted all the previous publicity that her marriage had generated, saying the police fabricated the story in order to have her expelled from the country.

She said she first heard of her alleged sexual survey on Feb. 7 from a German journalist.

As her voice cracked with emotion and tears filled her eyes Miss Sargent related how she told of her plight to the Dani people.

"I was too embarrassed to tell them about the sex survey," she said. "All I could tell them was that Momma Wyn would have to leave."

DIES IN PALM SPRINGS
Winthrop Rockefeller

W. Rockefeller, Former Arkansas Governor, Dead

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, the former Arkansas governor and one of six children of multimillionaire John D. Rockefeller Jr., died today at Desert Hospital, a family spokesman said. He was 60.

Rockefeller was admitted to the hospital a week ago with a chest ailment.

Cancer was listed as the cause of death. Doctors have refused to discuss details of the illness except to say it might be related to an operation he underwent last year in New York for removal of a malignant cyst on his back.

Rockefeller was the brother of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Their mother was Abby Green Aldrich Rockefeller.

In 1966, after one unsuccessful race for governor, Winthrop — then a robust, 6-foot-3, 235 pounds — became the first Republican elected governor of Arkansas since Reconstruction.

He ignited a wave of reform that led to Arkansas' first state minimum wage, tightened restrictions on securities dealers, and restrictions on what he termed "fly-by-night" insurance companies.

One of his first official acts was to make public the report compiled by the state police in their investigation of brutality and torture in the state's prisons.

One of his final official acts came in the waning days of his second two-year term when he commuted to life or less the terms of all 15 men on Death Row in Arkansas.

Rockefeller ran in 1970 for a third term, but had been overwhelmed by his Democratic foe, Dale Bumpers.

Weeks after he left office, Rockefeller was quietly divorced by Jeannette Edris Rockefeller, formerly of Seattle, after nearly 15 years of marriage.

He was first married to Barbara "Bobo" Sears, daughter of a Lithuanian coal miner, but that "Cinderella romance" ended in divorce in 1954, after he moved to Arkansas from New York.

The settlement reportedly totaled a third of his fortune, then estimated at $18 million.

Rockefeller also was chairman of the boards of Colonial Williamsburg, continuing his family's interest and multi-million-dollar funding of the restoration of the 18th century Virginia town.

Rockefeller was educated at the Lincoln School of Columbia University's Teachers College in New York City, the Loomis School in Windsor, Conn., and Yale University, which he left in his junior year.

Rockefeller was, even to those who closely advised him, a puzzle and a bit of a maverick.

The only one of the Rockefeller children to fail to complete college, he rough-necked three years in the Texas oilfields and enlisted as a private in the Army in World War II. Rockefeller became a captain in December 1942 and a major in 1943.

His brothers are Nelson A. Rockefeller, Laurence Rockefeller, David Rockefeller, and John D. Rockefeller III. His sister, Mrs. Jean Mauze, lives in New York.

Author Visits OCC Bach, 'Seagull' Creator, Addresses 1,200

By RUDI NIEDZIEMSKI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Nearly 1,200 Orange Coast College students gave up their lunch hour Wednesday to sit in a crowded auditorium and hear what most of them already knew.

It's something that has been discussed widely by philosophers, recommended by psychologists, and immortalized by rock-and-roll.

Do what you want to.

It's a simple formula for personal happiness; still difficult for some to follow. But hearing Richard Bach, author of "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," explain, it becomes just about the most important lesson in life.

"Find your love and follow it," is the way the bestselling author re-cast the formula for OCC students. "And it doesn't matter if it's making surfboards or roller skates."

Bach, on campus at the invitation of French teacher Elmo Shawer, reminded the students that they should be selfish and pursue what they love, no matter what others think.

"If you follow your love you will go through a period of loneliness and ostracism," he said. It may be difficult to earn a living, but Bach promised that if you stick to it, the personal happiness will stay and the difficulties will vanish.

That not only was the pattern established by "that crazy guy with a machine on his back," Jacques Cousteau, inventor of the aqualung, but also surf movie impresario Bruce Brown, a fellow Bach remembers as being so nutty about the sport that he carried his board to classes at Long Beach Wilson High School.

And it was also true of Bach's own career as a writer who shot from anonymity to the top of Time magazine's bestseller list with a weird story about a seagull that wanted to become something special.

Bach remembers collecting rejection slips from magazine publishers all over the country, but he stuck out the times of adversity until success struck.

He told the students he was walking around in Belmont Shores when a voice calmly said to him, "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" and nothing else.

"I went immediately home and locked the door and asked, 'What is this Jonathan Livingston Seagull? I had no idea what it meant and so I said, 'Voice, are you sure you aren't looking for somebody at the end of the block?'"

Shortly after that he claims to have had a visionary dream about the seagull which he wrote about in his book. Part of the story was written immediately, but Bach found it impossible to write the end and put it in his "Manuscripts Unfinished" file.

Not until eight years later, 1,500 miles away, at 5 a.m. did the second part of the dream unfold in Bach's mind and he written and sold as three separate stories to Private Pilot, an aviation magazine.

At the suggestion of the editor, the three stories were combined into a book which was offered to several publishers who wouldn't take it, and put on the bestseller list by the one who did.

The fact that the unusual story is being read by thousands is testimony to Bach's prediction that to be selfish and follow one's love in the face of adversity will ultimately bring reward.

He said there is a monster that lives in the world which feeds on the bones of crushed idealists. It's a monster which says, "Who cares about you? There are 4 1/2 billion in this world and you are only one. Who cares what you think?"

But it can be defeated if you prove to the world that you are someone, that your ideas are worthwhile.

And one proof — as materialistic as it is — is cash, according to Bach. "No one is kidding when cash is involved," he says.

No one is kidding at the bookstores, where a fairy tale about a seagull with a mind of its own is ringing up dollar after dollar.

Costa Mesan, Son Named In Narcotics Indictment

A Costa Mesan and his son are two of six persons indicted today by the Orange County Grand Jury on multiple drug charges including the allegation that the group has sold four tons of marijuana and more than 10 million amphetamine tablets.

Vaudra Dewey Nunley, 49, of 2358 N. Harbor Blvd., Costa Mesa and Vaudra Dewey Nunley II, 28, are accused with four codefendants of conspiracy to transport, import, possess and sell narcotics and restricted dangerous drugs.

Additional charges include possession for sale and possession of restricted dangerous drugs and narcotics.

Superior Court arraignments are being scheduled today for all six defendants.

They were arrested by Orange police who said the local warehouse used by the group was a cover for a concealed laboratory specializing in the manufacture of a wide range of dangerous drugs.

Police said they also seized documents related to the alleged sale of vast quantities of marijuana, one of them in the amount of $180,000.

Investigators tabbed the elder Nunley as the mastermind of the operation and said the warehouse belonged to a business operated in his name.

Investigators said a portion of an eight-ton cargo of marijuana seized recently by U.S. Customs officers in San Pedro Harbor was scheduled for delivery to Nunley and his organization.

Named with the two Nunleys as defendants are Rue E. Steele, 28, Dennis Dean Swiden, 30, Collette Rigena Cone, 19, and Jonathan James Lowry, 23, all of Fullerton.

Alvarez' Lawyer Claims 'Divorce' May Be Illegal

OAKLAND (UPI) — An attorney for Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez Jr. said there was a "quite serious question" whether the returned war prisoner had been legally divorced.

Attorney William Dunbar Wednesday termed it a "legal mess."

Tangee Alvarez, 32, filed for a dissolution of marriage in 1970 while the pilot was in a North Vietnamese prison camp but Alameda County Superior Court never issued such a decree.

Alvarez, 35, is a Navy pilot whose plane was shot down in 1964 and who spent more time in North Vietnamese prison camps than any other American. He is now in Oakland Naval Hospital.

Before seeking the dissolution in California, the wife applied for one in Mexico.

Alvarez never was personally served with legal notification of his wife's actions.

Waitress Identifies Suspect, 22

A pretty waitress at a Newport Beach restaurant today identified Camp Pendleton Marine Mark David Bell, 22, as the man who kidnaped her at gunpoint, forced her to drive to Huntington Beach and then raped her in the parking lot of the Southern California Edison Company building.

The 21-year-old Costa Mesa girl told an Orange County Superior Court jury that Bell was waiting for her with a gun last Nov. 19 as she left her job at the Pacific Coast Highway restaurant and prepared to start her van.

She said she weaved her vehicle from side to side to attract police attention as they drove to Huntington Beach. But, she said, Bell grabbed the wheel, forced her to turn off the road and then pushed her out of the driver's seat and drove the rest of the way himself.

The witness, the mother of a 2-year-old girl, said Bell forced her to draw the curtains in the van after they entered the parking lot and then raped her.

She said Bell also took $38 from her purse but later refunded $10 when she pleaded for money to pay her baby sitter.

The witness told the panel in Judge Herbert Herlands courtroom that Bell then drove her back to the Newport restaurant where she contacted police after advising her husband of the incident.

Bell is charged with kidnap, rape and robbery in connection with the alleged Nov. 19 incident.

The Marine is also on trial for the alleged rape and kidnapping 14 days earlier of an 18-year-old Santa Ana girl who claims Bell took her to Laguna Canyon Road and sexually assaulted her.

The first alleged victim told the jury that Bell warned her that her body would be found in a nearby marshy area "if you're not good."

think some of the damage reports may have been exaggerated."

Mrs. Waddell went on to say that "I think all the parents realize now the need to cooperate with the management in doing whatever we can."

A meeting of all tenants has been called for Sunday to discuss vandalism problems in the complex. Mrs. Wolf said that past meetings of this type have not always been productive, but she felt the Sunday gathering would have better results.

"I think people realize now that they have to become involved in how the apartments are kept up or they won't be kept up," she said. "I think they realize now that the management is not their private baby sitting service."

Mrs. Wolf said that she would be working hard to identify troublesome children and families either to "straighten them out" or to evict them.

S. Coast Panel Meeting Tonight

A closed session to discuss employment of an executive director is on tonight's agenda of the South Coastal Zone Conservation Commission, which meets at 7 o'clock in the Santa Monica Civic Center Auditorium.

The civic auditorium is at the corner of Main and Pico Streets in Santa Monica.

The South Coastal Commission, created by Proposition 20 last November, has jurisdiction over building within 1,000 yards of the mean high tide line of Orange and Los Angeles counties.

Lou Jobst Jr., director of marine development at the Port of Long Beach, has been acting as interim secretary.

ARMY'S CHANGES NOT ALL VISIBLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another Army tradition has fallen by the wayside.

After years of offering only boxer shorts to basic trainees in their initial clothing issue, the Army uniform board says new soldiers now will have the option of wearing briefs.

Gliding Through Air at UC Irvine

Engineering Week at UCI took to the air as students launched their paper airplane creations. Flights were judged on distance and duration aloft. The winner, at right, was James Anderson, 22, of Anaheim. His type of engineer, won a roundtrip ticket to San Francisco. Another student constructed a glider of matzos but it eventually crumbled. Brisk winds complicated the launchings and many saw their hopes dashed.

Pilot Killed In Ensenada Drug Raid

ENSENADA, Mexico (AP) — An American pilot from Las Vegas was shot to death and a California attorney taken into custody during what Mexican authorities described today as a gun battle in a marijuana smuggling-raid.

They said Phillip Murrell Barton, 29, was shot to death by federal judicial police and by Mexican soldiers when he drove his plane directly at them and fired a weapon.

"They had no choice but to open fire to keep from being killed," said a spokesman in the office of Carlos M. Roncilla Gonzales, federal district attorney.

The attorney, identified as Robert Lee Grimes of San Diego, was jailed in Ensenada for arraignment later this week. Grimes was wounded in the left arm, according to his attorney, Marcus Felgado of Ensenada, when a flurry of 10 shots were fired into Grimes' airplane as it also was landing at the remote mountain airstrip 30 miles north of here.

Details of the shooting and arrest, which took place late Monday afternoon, were disclosed Wednesday.

The plane piloted by Grimes landed 10 minutes before Barton's plane, the federal attorney's office said. Delgado called it a coincidence that Grimes arrived at the time of the government's stake-out.

Police said more than six tons of marijuana had been flown into the United States during "15 or 30" flights, quoting J. Matilde Patron Tirado, 66, foreman of the ranch where the mountain airstrip was located.

Patron was arrested for investigation of narcotics traffic, along with Felipe Rosas Osuma, 26, and Martin Enciso Heredia, 20, both of Mazatlan, Sinaloa.

The two were waiting at the airstrip with 749 bricks of marijuana, or about three-quarters of a ton, when Grimes landed his plane, police said. At the time, police and soldiers were hidden nearby.

"He put his hands up and came out," Delgado said of Grimes.

He said the San Diego lawyer told him that he flew to Mexico to pick up three acquaintances. His plane had been rented from Golden State Flying Club at Gillespie Field in El Cajon.

The plane used by Barton was virtually destroyed by gunfire. Inside were found cans of gasoline.

The plane's owner was not determined immediately.

Food Skyrockets Overall Monthly Prices Rise .3%

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food prices took their biggest monthly leap in a generation last month, the Labor Department said today. But lower prices for clothing and used cars kept the overall rise in the cost of living to a relatively modest 0.3 percent.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said overall food prices rose 2.1 percent in January, the largest one-month increase since January 1951, when they rose 2.5 percent. (Related story, Page 22).

The increase was even steeper for food purchased in grocery stores, which went up 2.5 percent, the biggest monthly jump since the Labor Department began tabulating home food prices in 1952.

Because food prices usually go up this time of year, the increase in all food prices was 1.9 percent when adjusted for seasonal variations. Still, this was the biggest seasonally adjusted monthly gain since March 1958, when they also rose 1.9 percent.

Prices for commodities other than food dropped 0.5 percent. Such a decrease is normal for this time of year, and so on a seasonally adjusted basis these prices showed no change at all.

Israeli Pilot's View

Pilot 'Botched' Forced Landing

TEL AVIV (UPI) — One of the F4 Phantom jet pilots who shot down a Libyan Boeing 727 airliner said today he was only trying to force the plane to land after it had flown over a top-secret Israeli airfield in the Sinai Desert and that the French pilot apparently botched the attempt.

Israeli officials said 99 persons were known dead in the crash on the Sinai Desert Wednesday and that there were seven survivors, two in serious condition.

The death toll could go higher. Libya said there were 113 persons aboard, which would indicate a death toll of 106, but a sandstorm blocked a search of the wreckage today. Two of nine original survivors died during the night.

The newspaper Yedioth Aharonoth said the copilot, identified as el Khadifa el Mahadi, a Libyan, told the men who rescued him from the wreckage that he and the pilot were frightened and did not follow the orders of Israeli interceptors to land after wandering over the Sinai.

In Cairo, Egyptian aviation authorities said the last recorded words from the French pilot of the Libyan airliner clearly showed that Israeli fighters shot his aircraft down without warning.

Egypt said "Israel will pay a high price at the hands of the Arabs for this cowardly, monstrous and barbaric crime."

The Israeli pilot of the American-built Phantom was identified only as Uri. He told a news conference he fired brief cannon bursts across the nose of the Libyan plane and, when it continued heading toward Egypt, he aimed at the wingtip. The 727 continued westward, he said.

"He was now one minute from the canal (Egypt), so we decided to shoot at the wing to cause more serious damage to force him down before he reached the canal," Uri said.

"But the plane began to burn," he said. "There was red flames and black smoke. The pilot tried to make a forced landing but hit the ground and burst into flames."

"It looked like an attempted forced landing not done very well."

The air force commander, Maj. Gen. Mordechai Hod, told the same news conference that the 727 had flown over the secret Bir Gafaga Air Base in the Sinai and was acting suspiciously as if it might be on a spy mission.

"The more he tried to escape, the more suspect he became," Hod said, noting that the Israeli pilots first tried hand signals and then dipped their wings in front of the 727 — the order to land.

"We tried desperately to force him down and not shoot him down," Hod said. "We were unsuccessful in this."

"We have reason to suspect it was not just a mistake," Hod said.

Boy, 5, Strangled By Jacket in Tree

A 5-year-old boy died in Santa Ana Wednesday when he fell while climbing a tree and was strangled by his jacket. Jeffrey Wayne Haire of 2828 N. Bristol St., died at the scene of the accident, the Orange County Coroner's Office reported.

Police said the boy, son of Mrs. Sandra Ann Stewart strangled when his jacket caught on a branch. He was removed from the tree by a neighbor in the apartment complex where he lived.

Department Revision

Planning Proposals Due

Recommendations from a five-member advisory committee on a proposed major reorganization of the Orange County Planning Department are due before the county Board of Supervisors March 28.

A study of the planning department, by Urban Research Institute (URI) at Cal State Fullerton was presented to the board Wednesday.

URI developed the suggested changes under a $39,000 management study grant from the supervisors who Wednesday said they hadn't had enough time to look at the results.

They appointed a steering committee composed of Robert Thomas, county administrative officer; Forest Dickason, County planning director; William Hart, personnel director; H. G. Osborne, flood control engineer; and Gerri Commons, chairman of Citizens Direction Finding Commission.

That committee is supposed to report back March 28 with some reaction to the URI study and an included sub-study of the county's general planning program

by consultants Barton, Aschman and Associates.

Some of the major URI proposals include:

—Change in department name to "Environmental Analysis and Planning Department."

—Division of the department, which now splits into land use and general plan work, into five sections. One would serve as support to the supervisors on policy, strategies and projects.

A second division would support with forecasts, data bases, planning and economic analyses the county administrative office (CO).

A third group would interact with regional activities like Southern California Association of Governments, South Coast Regional Conservation Committee and federal agencies.

A fourth would work with cities, special districts, the Local Agency Formation Commission and other groups to coordinate programs.

The final division would work with the county planning commission on area plans and land use regulations.

—Increase in staff of 29 new employees over three years, including two economists, a second assistant director, an illustrator and information specialists.

—Adoption of a $2.7 million budget for the county general planning program, which this year was budgeted $1.03 million. Consultants said the increased money would allow a broader, more efficient planning process.

Dr. Jay Krasner of the URI Cal State staff told supervisors that a reorganization would bring clearer accountability in general and area plans and less fragmentation and duplication of efforts.

Dr. Krasner said the changes could take place over a three-year period with some top management reorganizing in the first 60 days.

"In Orange County," the URI report reads in part, "planners, governmental officials and various constituencies have perceived that the planning process seems to entail an uncoordinated set of relatively isolated procedures and practices."

Amarillo Slim, Pals Try Hands

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Amarillo Slim, Pug, Toughie and the Sailor — among the world's best poker players — each have put up a minimum of $10,000 to buy into a high-stakes game that could be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to the winner.

Egghead, Goodie and the Mysterious Doctor waited in the wings for a chance to play.

The game started Wednesday with 10 players and $130,000 in $100 and $25 chips on a green felt table at the Golden Nugget Casino.

The game — no-limit "hold-em," a variety of seven-card stud — is the biggest ever sponsored by a casino, says Bill Boyd, a Nugget casino executive playing with his own money.

"We're all friends; but, when you sit down, the friendship ceases," drawled Thomas "Amarillo Slim" Preston. "We try to trap a guy and skin him. I want some hide. I want to skin somebody."

Preston said he expects the table stakes to reach $300,000 and the game to last more than one day. Individual pots should go as high as $70,000, he said.

Part of the lure of the game is the opportunity to beat Preston, a professional gambler who won the so-called "world series of poker" here last May in a playoff against Walter Clyde "Pug" Pearson of Las Vegas.

"They'd rather beat me out of $40 than somebody else out of $2,000," Slim said. "I'd give $10,000 just to beat him," said W. H. "Egghead" Perry of Odessa, Tex., who is waiting for a chance to play.

"At those prices, I'll even tell everybody you did it," Slim responded. In "hold-em," players are dealt two cards down and five common cards are put face up in the center of the table. The best five-card hand wins.

Unlike some marathon games, players are allowed to buy more chips if they run low. Six gamblers are ready to replace any players who drop out.

Bastion Captured in Laos After Cease-fire

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — A cease-fire between the Laotian government and the Communist Pathet Lao began at noon today (9 p.m. PST Wednesday night), halting U.S. air strikes in the country. But fighting continued and hours after the cease-fire began the Communists reportedly seized the key bastion of Pak Song.

There still was no word on the possible release of U.S. war prisoners who are to be freed within 90 days of the cease-fire. American officials are in contact with Pathet Lao leaders, but there was no indication of the results of the contacts.

U.S. sources reported that Pak Song, the last major government stronghold in the Bolovens Plateau near the southern tip of the Laotian panhandle, was attacked by North Vietnamese troops before dawn today.

At mid-afternoon, the Central Intelligence Agency-backed irregulars "lost control of Pak Song," the sources said. At least some of the irregulars were reported retreating westward along Highway 23 toward Pakse, site of a major government air base just east of the Mekong River.

The U.S. sources said North Vietnamese

reinforcements poured into the area throughout the day despite continuous American air strikes during the morning. The air strikes ended when the cease-fire took effect and the Communist Pathet Lao radio broadcast an order to its troops to stop fighting "simultaneously and completely."

Laotian air strikes continued and Royal Lao Air Force F4U fighter-bombers with 250 pound bombs slung beneath their wings continued to take off from the Pakse air strip, 30 miles west of Pak Song, until dark.

Although U.S. Air Force and Marine Corps air strikes halted, American private contract air carriers continued to evacuate the wounded and make supply drops to the CIA-supported units and advisers continued their roles, military sources said. The advisers are not ruled out at this point under the cease-fire agreement.

The North Vietnamese who attacked at Pak Song were spotted Wednesday night moving in from the north in 50 trucks. A U.S. Air Force AC130 Spectre gunship was called in and reported knocking out seven of the trucks.

Half an hour after the truce took effect, acting Defense Minister Sisouk Na Champassak went on national radio to order all government troops to strictly observe the agreement. At the same time, the Communist Pathet Lao radio ordered its troops to "simultaneously and completely" stop fighting.

But Sisouk also warned Laotian troops to prepare themselves to resist any Communist offensive and to hold territory under their control at any cost.

"This cease-fire is not peace although it is the key to peace and national reconciliation," he said. But the major military and political problems have not been settled. As long as foreign troops are not totally withdrawn from our territory, a lasting peace is yet to be born.

Military field commanders throughout Laos were summoned to Vientiane Wednesday for an urgent meeting following the signing of the cease-fire pact. The sources said the commanders received instructions regarding operations before and after the cease-fire became effective. No other details were given.

100 POWs to Be Released

Exchange Expected to Take Place in Five Days

SAIGON (UPI) — Military and diplomatic sources said today the next exchange of American prisoners of war, numbering about 100, may take place in the next five days. Hanoi has released 163 Americans and still holds 330.

A North Vietnamese official said earlier this week the next release would be around next Tuesday, although the United States has asked the Joint Military Commission to release the American POWs before then.

In addition, 1,000 South Vietnamese POWs are to be exchanged for 7,000

North Vietnamese POWs by Tuesday.

THE NUMBER OF truce violations reported by the South Vietnamese command dropped by one-third today to the lowest number in two weeks. The South Vietnamese accused the Communists of violating the truce 137 times in the 24 hours ending at dawn today, down 67 from the previous day.

The delayed investigation of last week's downing of an unarmed American helicopter on temporary loan to the JMC appeared to move forward slightly today when the Communist members of the truce-keeping commission agreed to interview the pilot of the helicopter.

Five Americans were wounded in the incident north of Saigon. Of the five, only the pilot remains in South Vietnam. One crewman was sent to Okinawa for treatment of burns and three others were sent to the United States for medical treatment.

MEANWHILE, WITH THE aid of minefield maps from the U.S. Navy, more than a third of the Communist bloc freighters trapped since May in Haiphong Harbor have navigated the American mine blockage and slipped safely out to sea during the past two weeks.

Pentagon officials considered it a dangerous feat. The mines are still lethal, they said, and although the maps showed where the underwater explosives were dropped no one knows where they might have drifted.

Defense Department sources said the freighters — riding high because they were empty — avoided the mines by sailing at high tide and hugging the shore along the 10-mile waterway linking Haiphong with the Tonkin Gulf.

A TOTAL OF 10 merchant ships have departed Haiphong, the Pentagon announced Wednesday. A spokesman said the exodus started Feb. 9 — shortly after the minefield maps were given to the North Vietnamese — and that the 10th ship steamed out Tuesday.

In Washington, it was announced that the Navy has ordered two aircraft carriers home from Asian waters, the first significant cutback in U.S. air-sea power there since the Vietnam cease-fire.

The Midway is due back at Alameda, Calif., in early March and the America at Norfolk, Va., late in March.

Departure of the carriers reduces the number of U.S. bombers and attack planes deployed near Indochina by approximately 100.

Americans Make Cambodia Raids

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — American fighter-bombers have carried out raids south of Phnom Penh in efforts to turn back a Communist Khmer Rouge offensive in the heaviest fighting in the only official war left in Southeast Asia.

Cambodian high command said more than 200 government troops were killed or captured Wednesday as the Khmer Rouge offensive pushed to within 13 miles of the Cambodian capital.

The fighting coincided with a cease-fire in neighboring Laos and slackening in the post-truce action in South Vietnam.

"We are the forgotten people," said one army major as he scanned the lengthy list of military activities in progress.

"We have moved too slowly and now peace has eluded us."

The heaviest fighting flared on Highway 2 where Khmer Rouge troops overran three Cambodian positions, killing or capturing 200 government soldiers and wounding another 50 troops. Heavy fighting was reported spreading south.

McGovern, Rogers Debate Amnesty Before Senators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern said the administration should grant amnesty to the men who refused to serve in the Vietnam War in the same spirit it was forgiving its former enemies in the war.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said draft evaders should "suffer the views during a confrontation at a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing Wednesday.

Tax Help Promised

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says there will be sympathetic, prompt and trouble-free resolution of income tax problems of returning U.S. prisoners of war and families of servicemen killed or missing in action.

In addition, the Treasury Department is asking Congress to give special tax breaks for hospitalized servicemen and for men missing in action and their wives.

Blast Victims Hunted

COOPERSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Rescue crews, using a crane and bulldozers, searched the ruins of a demolished three-story apartment house today for possible additional victims of an apparent gas explosion and fire which killed at least five persons.

At least 17 other persons were injured when the explosion shattered the six-unit dwelling in this southeastern Pennsylvania community Wednesday, trapping some residents under burning debris. Many of the injured suffered serious burns.

Aid Limits Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright has asked the Senate Appropriations Committee to limit emergency funding of the foreign-aid program to one month in the latest chapter of the Congress-White House battle over spending.

The Arkansas Democrat's request became known shortly after the House Wednesday ratified 311 to 73 its Appropriations Committee's recommendation that the stop-gap funding be extended for four months for foreign aid and the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

Hijack Bill Okayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The senate has unanimously approved a bill to create and equip a federal antihijacking security force at a cost of $40.5 million.

The legislation, which was approved on an 89-0 vote Wednesday, would also allow the President to suspend the right of any foreign air carrier to land in the United States if he determines the other country is encouraging air piracy.

'Disastrous' Trend Seen For Newsmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frank Stanton, vice chairman of CBS, predicted today the "disastrous trend" toward jailing of journalists will continue unless Congress passes strong legislation to assure free flow of information to the public.

Stanton said that too frequently reporters "are being jailed because they carried out their responsibility to inform the public and met their moral and historic obligation not to disclose certain information or sources."

In remarks prepared for a Senate Judiciary subcommittee hearing, Stanton urged enactment of a bill to shield newsmen from forced disclosure before state and federal proceedings of unpublished and confidential material and sources.

"PROTECTING THE NEWS media from an enforced role as investigatory arms of the government or of private litigants is vital to the preservation and effectiveness of a free press," Stanton said.

The network executive noted the jailing of five newsmen for refusing to reveal confidential information and its sources and cautioned that reporters across the country were now weighing stories to determine if they are worth a jail sentence.

"Both as a communications executive and as a citizen interested in a robust and independent press," added Stanton, "I believe such conditions come dangerously close to undermining and destroying a fundamental ingredient of a free society."

DESPITE ACTIONS taken against reporters, Stanton predicted that "because professional journalists are not likely to abandon or lower their professional standards, there will be more jailings if subpoenas continue to be served. CBS sees no alternative to strong remedial legislation if this disastrous trend is to be arrested."

Urging adoption of less sweeping newsman privilege legislation, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. (R-Conn.), told the subcommittee Congress should not preempt the states in enacting a new law.

Brezhnev on Tour

PRAGUE (AP) — Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev was welcomed at Czechoslovakia's eastern border today by Czechoslovak Communist party presidium member Vasil Bilak, Prague Radio announced. Brezhnev is in Czechoslovakia to take part in the 25th anniversary observance of the Communists' coming to power here.

Diahann Weds Not to Frost—to Businessman

LAS VEGAS WEDDING
Diahann Carroll

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Singer Diahann Carroll, who earlier this month ended her engagement to television personality David Frost, has married the owner of a chain of clothing shops.

Miss Carroll, 33, married Freddie Glusman, 39, at his home here Wednesday night, according to a spokesman for the entertainer. It was the second marriage for both.

Miss Carroll portrayed a black nurse in the television series "Julia."

She was regarded as the girl friend of Frost, the British-born talk show host who works in both London and New York, for some time before they announced their engagement last November, saying they would be married at Easter. Less than four months later they announced the end of the engagement, saying they would remain good friends.

Glusman owns shops that sell expensive men's and women's clothing. The best man was Alex Shofey, former president of the Hilton hotel here.

The ceremony was piped over an open phone line to Miss Carroll's home in Beverly Hills, so that her 12-year-old daughter by her previous marriage, Suzanne, could hear it.

Possible Botulism Foods Off Shelves, Says Firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only one-sixth of 85,000 cases of frozen food containing mushrooms that possibly contain botulism toxin reached wholesalers, Stouffer's Food Co. has informed the federal government.

And these 14,000 cases of frozen green beans and mushrooms, escalloped chicken and noodles, and tuna-noodle casserole have been taken from retail shelves, Stouffer's told the Food and Drug Administration.

"Stouffer's told us that no more is on retail shelves anywhere in the United States," an FDA spokesman said Wednesday.

Fabrini Family Foods of Ossineke, Mich., expects by the end of February to be able to say that none of its frozen pizza is on the retail market, the FDA said.

The firms were the only two known to have purchased canned mushrooms that may have contained botulism toxin from United Canning Co., East Palestine, Ohio, the FDA said.

The toxin has not been confirmed in any products of either of the two firms, the FDA said, but was found in five lots involving 18,475 cans of mushrooms produced by United Canning.

Missing WACs On 'Honeymoon'

FT. ORD (AP) — The case of two young Army women brought before their commanding officer on charges of being absent without leave "paled into insignificance" when it was learned they had been married to each other.

The Army quickly shelved the AWOL charges and began proceedings to discharge the two as "undesirables" because regulations do not permit "any real choice," Maj. J. D. Coleman, information officer, said Wednesday.

Two 'Police Hit' Suspects Held

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Chicago policeman and a former policeman — alleged leaders of a "police hit squad" — have been arrested by FBI agents on charges of murdering two suspected narcotics dealers. Other arrests were expected.

Arrested were Stanley B. Robinson, 36, who resigned from the Chicago police force last year after being charged with official misconduct, and William H. Tolliver, 46, indicted by a county grand jury last July for bribery and official misconduct but acquitted Nov. 21.

Mostly sunny and warmer days with light coastal breezes are forecast for Southern California Friday.
The National Weather Service issued the prediction after an erratic storm system spanned the southern half of the state Wednesday.
The light rains damaged crops and some western areas as brisk winds swept through coastal canyons and mountain passes.

Stations in southeastern Riverside County reported rainfall of .92 inches after two days of showers from the meandering storm.
Friday's high temperature in Los Angeles will be 77, forecasters said, with an overnight low of 60 expected.

Wyn Sargent Lashes Out at Indonesia

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The woman called Mama Wyn by 10,000 Stone Age Indonesian tribesmen has come home to tell her story of terror to the world.

Wyn Sargent, the tall Huntington Harbour woman whose marriage to a West Irian cannibal chieftain made world headlines, said today she was run out of Indonesia by government officials who feared her knowledge of brutalities allegedly inflicted on the tribe by police and local government officials.

The statuesque redhead told nearly 100 newsmen in a soft voice that often cracked with emotion of her marriage to chief Obohok and subsequent deportation from Indonesia.

She charged that it was never her intention to make an anthropological study of the primitive Dani tribe, nor was she there to conduct a sex survey, "though I'm flattered that they think anyone my age (she's 46) is capable of doing something like that."

"I did not run naked in the jungle nor did I reduce my western clothing to native dress and I had no desire to do so," she said.

Miss Sargent, of 4001 Morning Star Drive, Huntington Beach, said she suffered from malaria in her five-month stay in the tropical jungle, had lost 18 pounds and described her health as "low grade."

She charged Indonesian police and government officials with inflicting "murder, rape, theft and beatings on a people they were supposed to be helping."

She said she believes chief Obohok is hiding from authorities in fear of his life. "I still live with the fear that Obohok and his people are dead. That they were killed by the police for telling what they

U.S., China Open Doors

Two Countries to Establish Liaison Offices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and China announced today they will establish governmental liaison offices in Washington and Peking to speed normalization of relations between the countries.

The development was announced in a joint communique issued in Washington and Peking.

Presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger said the offices will serve as the principal contact points on the expansion of trade "as well as all other matters except the strictly formal diplomatic aspects" of ties between the countries.

Kissinger said the liaison offices will have full diplomatic privileges but will in no way imply establishment of formal diplomatic relations.

Kissinger, who returned Tuesday from four days of extensive talks in Peking with Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai also disclosed that:

—Two American airmen held prisoner by China since being shot down over Chinese territory will be released in the next few weeks. They are Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith of Victorville, Calif., a prisoner since Sept. 20, 1968, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn of Salt Lake City, held since Aug. 21, 1967.

—The life sentence of John Thomas Downey, a Central Intelligence Agency employee held since the Korean conflict, will be reviewed in the last half of the year. Kissinger said he had been told Downey's sentence could be shortened for good behavior and that he was informed Downey's conduct as a prisoner had been exemplary.

—The United States has no immediate plans to withdraw its remaining military forces from the Chinese Nationalist island of Taiwan but the subject will be reviewed periodically, with decisions based principally on Washington's assessment of the danger of war in the area.

—Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei will begin discussions in Paris next week on settlement of private American claims against China, totalling some $250 million, and some $78 million of blocked Chinese assets in the United States. The aim will be to resolve the issues quickly through negotiations.

The agreement to establish liaison offices in each other's capitals apparently was the most significant development to come out of Kissinger's Peking talks. He said the two governments felt the existing formal channel for contact through their Paris embassies "was inadequate."

Drug Indictment

Names 6—Mesa

Father and Son

A Costa Mesa man and his son are two of six persons indicted today by the Orange County Grand Jury on multiple drug charges including the allegation that the group has sold four tons of marijuana and more than 10 million amphetamine tablets.

Vaudra Dewey Nunley, 49, of 2358 N. Harbor Blvd., Costa Mesa and Vaudra Dewey Nunley II, 26, are accused with four codefendants of conspiracy to transport, import, possess and sell narcotics and restricted dangerous drugs.

Additional charges include possession for sale and possession of restricted dangerous drugs and narcotics.

Superior Court arraignments are being scheduled today for all six defendants.

They were arrested by Orange police who said the local warehouse used by the group was a cover for a concealed laboratory specializing in the manufacture of a wide range of dangerous drugs.

Police said they also seized documents related to the alleged sale of vast quantities of marijuana, one of them in the

'Very Compassionate'

Dentist Cancels Renters' Eviction in Huntington

By JOHN ZALLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dr. Robert Beauchamp, the widely known family credit dentist, has canceled all eviction notices to the nearly 100 families in his Huntington Vista apartment complex.

Just one week after the mass eviction notices were sent out, Dr. Beauchamp has admitted that "our original decision was rather hastily conceived" and asked all families to cooperate in straightening out the complex's problems.

"Dr. Beauchamp is really a very compassionate man," said Mrs. Lilian Wolf, manager of the apartments. "The more he thought how many children would have their schooling disrupted and how upset the parents were, the more he reconsidered what he had ordered."

The decision to switch Huntington

Vista to all-adult apartments was made because of high rate of vandalism damage from children in the complex. In announcing his change of mind, Dr. Beauchamp pleaded with parents to help weed out the troublesome children.

"It will benefit everyone to eliminate expensive destruction," said Dr. Beauchamp in a letter to his tenants. "We can improve conditions to the point where Huntington Vista is an exemplary development," he added.

Jean Waddell, leader of a parent group fighting the eviction, said today that "his decision has restored my faith in humanity, which was wavering a bit."

However Mrs. Waddell was not in complete agreement with the management. "Obviously we've got to control the vandalism," said Mrs. Waddell. "But I

Nixon Lists Tax Plans

In Speech to Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told Congress today he will ask this year for (1) tax reforms, (2) a program to relieve old people of the burden of property taxes, and (3) a tax break for families whose children attend parochial schools.

Nixon listed his tax plans in an economic message to Congress, the third section of his State of the Union message. But he did not spell out the details.

The message confirmed that Nixon would ask for broad authority to both raise and lower tariffs as a weapon in negotiating international monetary and trade problems with U.S. trading partners.

Such power is necessary, the President said, because the nation's imbalance of trade — an unprecedented $6.5 billion last year — "could threaten the mounting prosperity of our people."

Nixon defended to an increasingly restive Congress the slashes in social programs that he proposed in his fiscal 1974 budget.

While some programs have appealing names, they are failures, he said.

"Behind a fancy label can lie a dismal failure," he said, "and unless we cut back now on the programs that have failed, we will soon run out of money for the programs that succeed."

Among those which he said "can no longer be justified" are some housing, health, education, and welfare programs.

The 5,000-word message gave no details on what tax reforms Nixon would propose. But it committed him to deal with that matter — a commitment that was in doubt because Administration sources played down tax reform as just another name for increasing the taxes of the wealthy.

All Nixon said on the subject was: "I shall recommend a tax program that builds further reforms on those we achieved in 1969 and 1971."

He said he would send a bill to Congress "for alleviating the crushing burdens which property taxes now create for older Americans."

Late in his first term Nixon talked about federal subsidies to the states and localities which could make possible across-the-board cuts in property taxes, but toward the end of his campaign he stressed relief for the elderly.

Nixon also promised to back a plan which would give tax relief to parents who send their children to parochial and other nonpublic elementary and secondary schools. He said he had in mind a tax credit — a subtraction from taxes owed — but gave no figures.

Some civil liberties groups and others concerned about the separation of church and state oppose tax relief for those who send their children to private schools.

SUE WINKLER AND OTHERS AID NEWPORT BEACH MOTORCYCLE OFFICER THOMAS SMITH
Patrolman Thrown Under Parked Car in Crash Wednesday on Balboa Boulevard

3rd Newport Officer Hurt

Cycle Policeman 'Serious' After Balboa Accident

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach motorcycle officer T. B. Smith is still in serious condition today at Hoag Memorial Hospital with multiple injuries suffered when he was hit by a car in Balboa Wednesday.

Smith is the third motor officer hurt in traffic accidents in the last three weeks, but police commanders said today they plan to stick by their use of patrolmen on cycles.

"Nothing is planned in the way of changing our use of motor patrolmen," said Lt. James Spears acting patrol division commander. "We went two years without an accident and all of a sudden we had three, but that won't change our policy."

Spears said the motorcycle division is operating at less than half strength because there are only five men in the whole division. One of the injured officers is due back on duty Monday.

In the most recent motorcycle mishap Smith was hit by a car that was turning left across Balboa Boulevard at 11th Street.

Investigators said Smith apparently careened off the front of the car and skidded about 100 feet down Balboa Boulevard lodging underneath a parked car. He suffered a broken leg, three broken ribs and a broken collarbone and is in intensive care today.

A little more than three weeks ago motor officer Richard Ellingham was struck by a car he tried frantically to avoid, Spears said.

He actually jumped from his cycle at the Jamboree Road-Pacific Coast Highway intersection and went over the back of the car sustaining scrapes and bruises.

Spears said Ellingham will be back on his cycle next week if he is cleared by doctors who have been treating him.

The third mishap took place about 10 days ago when motor officer Don Follett took a spill at the same intersection

Newport Budget

Official Views Increase

By L. PETER KRIEG
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

City Manager Robert L. Wynn said today he expects to submit a $16.4 million budget to Newport Beach councilmen for the 1973-74 fiscal year.

That's almost exactly $2 million higher than the current budget.

Wynn says he doesn't plan to spend it all, however. He said he will comply with council orders to create a "stabilization fund" equaling 10 percent of the general fund portion of the budget.

That means he'll tuck away about $900,000 in case of emergency.

Wynn pointed out that the city's property tax rate will remain at $1.20 per $1,000 assessed valuation, but conceded taxes will go up depending on how much Orange County increases the assessments of individual properties.

Wynn says the new budget, which won't be submitted to the council until April, accomplishes one of his major goals in city administration.

"We'll bring the outlay for salaries and wages below 50 percent of the total budget for the first time," Wynn said.

He said salaries accounted for 54 percent of the budget in 1971-72 and 52 percent last year, his first full year as Newport Beach city manager.

This year he expects they will be only 46 percent of the total.

In dollars, Wynn said, the city spent $7.4 million to pay its 560 employees last year.

He said it will pay them a total of $7.6 million next year.

Employees this year are expected to fight for major salary hikes because federal wage controls have been lifted.

List of Problems

Newport Softens Trailer Attack

Newport Beach Wednesday softened its attack on allegedly hazardous living conditions in the Bay Shore Trailer Park, 112 W. Coast Highway.

Last week city officials declared that 40 bungalows in the park are illegal and unsafe and said they would give the owner of the park, the Irvine Company, 90 days to tear them down.

But today, Community Development Director Richard V. Hogan said he has asked the Irvine Company and its leasee, Marshall Duffield, what they are going to do to fix the place up.

"We gave them a list of discrepancies for them to go over and have asked them to propose solutions," Hogan said.

He said no condemnation order was given because "they ought to have a chance to look at the problems — to see what they are."

The Irvine Company today had no comment other than to say it is "reviewing" the list.

But Duffield, who's held the lease on the park on the shores of Upper Newport Bay for 20 years, says he's looked, and isn't about to do anything about the bungalows without a direct condemnation order.

He also said he's not even sure they are illegal. "It's not quite correct to call them illegal," he said, "sure, they are illegal today, but that doesn't mean they were illegal when they were built."

Duffield says there may not have been any zoning laws governing the structures when they were erected over old tent sites back in the 1940's.

"But if the city wants to condemn them, that's their province," he said, "I'll carry out any orders they give me."

Duffield said he intends to make the other corrections of violations listed by the city, although he feels they're asking for an awful lot, awfully fast.

"We'll do what we've done every year following inspections," Duffield said, "we'll correct them."

"There's always a list of things that people do around the trailers each year. They have to be corrected before we get out annual operating permit," he said.

"This year the city apparently is trying to upgrade the whole thing, and that's proper, but maybe they're moving too fast. They want it done overnight and it's going to cause a lot of hardships, but that's their province."

Duffield also said he had full responsibility for maintaining the park, that the Irvine Company only owns the land and has no control over buildings on it.

Among the things on the city's list of discrepancies that Duffield said he'll take care of:

— Inspection showed that raw sewage was flowing through the park last week and winding up in the bay because of plugged drains.

— A hot wire is pulled loose and is laying on top of the ground behind one unit.

— The entire park sewage system is in "poor condition."

— The entire plumbing system is non-conforming.

— All overhead electrical wiring is substandard.

— Gas lines are above ground and gas connections are illegal.

Duffield said he thinks the city should be more reasonable and allow phased improvements and a phasing out of the uses of the bungalows, themselves.

"We hope we can work something out over a period of time, rather than abruptly casting out 40 - 50 families," he said.

"These nice people here should be given more time," he said.

Irvine Company officials said the approximate 100 actual house trailers in the park will be allowed to stay for an indefinite period of time, provided that city codes can be satisfied.

"We will continue the use of the park on an interim basis after the lease expires May 30 if the codes can be satisfied," the spokesman said.

know."

It is the authoress' contention that the $720,000 United Nations loan to Indonesia for a program to upgrade the primitive standard of living in West Irian has "only fattened the bank accounts of government officials and police."

Miss Sargent cited a "72-hour reign of terror" prior to her departure from Jakarta last week as proof of the government's fear of her knowledge.

She also said she was constantly followed and that her telephone and hotel room in Jakarta were bugged. She said she was afraid of becoming a political prisoner.

Most of her film and her notes were left behind in Indonesia, she said. "I did manage to smuggle nine rolls of film out of the country in the jungle boots that I was wearing," Miss Sargent added.

She said she has appealed to the State Department to investigate both her case and the alleged corruption in the U.N.-backed project.

"I gave all of this information to the U.S. embassy in Jakarta on Feb. 15," she said.

W. Rockefeller, Former Arkansas Governor, Dead

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, the former Arkansas governor and one of six children of multimillionaire John D. Rockefeller Jr., died today at Desert Hospital, a family spokesman said. He was 60.

Rockefeller was admitted to the hospital a week ago with a chest ailment.

Cancer was listed as the cause of death. Doctors have refused to discuss details of the illness except to say it might be related to an operation he underwent last year in New York for removal of a malignant cyst on his back.

Rockefeller was the brother of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Their mother was Abby Green Aldrich Rockefeller.

In 1966, after one unsuccessful race for governor, Winthrop — then a robust, 6-foot-3, 235 pounds — became the first Republican elected governor of Arkansas since Reconstruction.

He ignited a wave of reform that led to Arkansas' first state minimum wage, tightened restrictions on securities dealers, and restrictions on what he termed "fly-by-night" insurance companies.

One of his first official acts was to make public the report compiled by the state police in their investigation of brutality and torture in the state's prisons.

One of his final official acts came in the waning days of his second two-year term when he commuted to life or less the terms of all 15 men on Death Row in Arkansas.

Rockefeller ran in 1970 for a third term, but had been overwhelmed by his Democratic foe, Dale Bumpers.

Weeks after he left office, Rockefeller was quietly divorced by Jeannette Edris Rockefeller, formerly of Seattle, after nearly 15 years of marriage.

He was first married to Barbara "Bobo" Sears, daughter of a Lithuanian coal miner, but that "Cinderella romance" ended in divorce in 1954, after he moved to Arkansas from New York.

The settlement reportedly totaled a third of his fortune, then estimated at $18 million.

Rockefeller also was chairman of the boards of Colonial Williamsburg, continuing his family's interest and multi-million-dollar funding of the restoration of the 18th century Virginia town.

where Ellingham was hit. Investigation showed he hit a patch of oil in the road and lost control of his cycle.

He is still recuperating from bruises and cuts.

The rash of injuries hasn't had any effect on the morale of the men who ride the bikes on city streets.

"Most of the guys who ride motors don't really want to get off them — even when they go down like this," said Lt. Ed Cibbarelli.

"The first two injured say they are looking forward to riding again," Cibbarelli said.

Spears said the cycle officers are badly needed in Newport Beach because of the naturally crowded streets and difficult traffic enforcement.

"We could put them in cars but they would probably lose half the violators in traffic jams," he said. "On cycles they can get right to the spot they want with little difficulty."

But Spears said that extra mobility means the motorcycles are more dangerous to use.

"Sure they're vulnerable," he said. "That just means they have to drive a heck of a lot more defensively."

Spears said the department has one spare cycle that will be used by Ellingham if he comes back to work Monday. But if Follett comes back next week, he may not have a bike to ride.

Spears said all three cycles involved in the accidents were badly damaged and won't be repaired for some time.

Author Visits OCC

Bach, 'Seagull' Creator, Addresses 1,200

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Nearly 1,200 Orange Coast College students gave up their lunch hour Wednesday to sit in a crowded auditorium and hear what most of them already knew.

It's something that has been discussed widely by philosophers, recommended by psychologists, and immortalized by rock-and-roll.

Do what you want to.

It's a simple formula for personal happiness; still difficult for some to follow. But hearing Richard Bach, author of "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," explain, it becomes just about the most important lesson in life.

"Find your love and follow it," is the way the bestselling author re-cast the formula for OCC students. "And it doesn't matter if it's making surfboards or roller skates."

Bach, on campus at the invitation of French teacher Elmo Shawer, reminded the students that they should be selfish and pursue what they love, no matter what others think.

"If you follow your love you will go through a period of loneliness and ostracism," he said. It may be difficult to earn a living, but Bach promised that if you stick to it, the personal happiness will stay and the difficulties will vanish.

That not only was the pattern established by "that crazy guy with a machine on his back," Jacques Cousteau, inventor of the aqualung, but also surf movie impresario Bruce Brown, a fellow Bach remembers as being so nutty about the sport that he carried his board to classes at Long Beach Wilson High School.

And it was also true of Bach's own career as a writer who shot from anonymity to the top of Time magazine's bestseller list with a weird story about a seagull that wanted to become something special.

Bach remembers collecting rejection slips from magazine publishers all over the country, but he stuck out the times of adversity until success struck.

He told the students he was walking around in Belmont Shores when a voice calmly said to him: "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" and nothing else.

"I went immediately home and locked the door and asked, 'What is this Jonathan Livingston Seagull?' I had no idea what it meant and so I said, 'Voice, are you sure you aren't looking for somebody at the end of the block?'"

Shortly after that he claims to have had a visionary dream about the seagull which he wrote about in his book. Part of the story was written immediately, but Bach found it impossible to write the end and put it in his "Manuscripts Unfinished" file.

Not until eight years later, 1,500 miles away, at 5 a.m. did the second part of the dream unfold in Bach's mind and be written and sold as three separate stories to Private Pilot, an aviation magazine.

At the suggestion of the editor, the three stories were combined into a book which was offered to several publishers who wouldn't take it, and put on the bestseller list by the one who did.

The fact that the unusual story is being read by thousands is testimony to Bach's prediction that to be selfish and follow one's love in the face of adversity will ultimately bring reward.

He said there is a monster that lives in the world which feeds on the bones of crushed idealists. It's a monster which says, "Who cares about you? There are 4½ billion in this world and you are only one. Who cares what you think?"

But it can be defeated if you prove to the world that you are someone, that your ideas are worthwhile.

And one proof — as materialistic as it is — is cash, according to Bach. "No one is kidding when cash is involved," he says.

No one is kidding at the bookstores, where a fairy tale about a seagull with a mind of its own is ringing up dollar after dollar.

than was spent on capital projects last year and represents about 23 percent of the total budget. Last year, capital improvements accounted for 15 percent of the budget.

Wynn disclosed that in preparation of the budget, he trimmed more than $1 million in requests from department heads. He did not say what departments were most affected by those cuts.

Last year Wynn and Police Chief B. James Glavas clashed over a police proposal to spend about $200,000 more for additional personnel and equipment to create a new traffic division.

Wynn won council support to try to get the money from a federal grant, but that plan has apparently fallen through because of the impound of federal funds by President Nixon.

Wynn explained that it is impossible to tell exactly how the city spending program will affect property taxes because new assessment figures don't come from the county until next August, nearly two months after the budget will have to be adopted.

"And because of Proposition 20 (the coastal initiative) we're going to be very conservative," Wynn said. "We don't know what kind of tax breaks the assessor may give people whose property has been tied up because of Proposition 20."

He said he would like to project an increase of about 13 percent in the assessed valuation — from $379 million to $428 million — but he may pare that down.

MacArthur Flooding Seen Ended by $7 Million Plan

The end of the habitual flooding of MacArthur Boulevard near University Drive, when it rains more than a quarter of an inch, is in sight.

State Division of Highways engineers predict an estimated $7 million realignment of MacArthur Boulevard between Bonita Canyon and Jamboree Roads will be completed in the fall of 1975.

A spokesman today said the "first stage" project related to the Corona del Mar Freeway — Route 73 — will go to bid this fall.

Senior Design Engineer Robert Tomlinson noted the project will include a major bridge project carrying the newly aligned MacArthur across the San Diego Creek and flood control channel.

Since 1969, when the bridge serving northbound lanes was washed out by heavy winter rains, culverts have served as a temporary bridge.

Because the culvert pipes are too small to carry storm runoff which collects in San Diego Creek, the route is frequently closed to traffic. Several times each rainy season the flooding affects commuters from Newport Beach, Irvine and Costa Mesa who may be wanting to drive to the airport, shopping centers or UC Irvine.

For this reason, Tomlinson said, the first stage construction of the Corona del Mar Freeway has "first priority" of all state projects in Orange County.

The program approved by the state Highway Commission calls for realignment of MacArthur, bridging and construction of the earth fill embankment which will ultimately carry the freeway. That fill must settle at least two years, Tomlinson explained. The contract for the second stage construction is thus not expected to go to bid until late 1976, he said.

Airlines Protest

Golden West Airways

Won't Buy Commuter

Golden West Airways has decided not to buy the presently defunct Los Angeles Airways helicopter commuter service, company officials announced Wednesday.

The decision comes in the wake of protest by three other airlines and a recommendation by a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing officer to the CAB that the acquisition be denied.

A letter announcing Golden West's decision to drop its plans was filed last week with the CAB in Washington.

The recommendation by the CAB hearing officer to deny the acquisition request was based on the fact that Golden West was serving in most places previously served by the helicopter service.

The merger was opposed by Hughes Airwest, Pacific Southwest Airlines and Western Airlines. They alleged that C. Arnold Smith, a San Diego financier, continued to control Golden West through complex financial arrangements despite a 1969 CAB ruling which ordered him to divest his interest.

Another Smith-owned company, Westgate-California Inc., owns controlling interest in Newport Beach-based Air California.

Los Angeles Airways, which once operated helicopter flights between Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim, the Newport Inn and Los Angeles International Airport, went into receivership in October, 1970.

In July 1971, Golden West offered to acquire the airway's assets and operating rights for a reported $500,000 and 550,000 shares of Golden West common stock.

Earl L. Banta

Succumbs at 86

Earl L. Banta, a retired lawyer and 20-year Newport Beach resident, died Tuesday.

Mr. Banta, 86, of 1805 W. Balboa Blvd., was a private attorney in Los Angeles for 30 years until his retirement to live in Newport Beach.

A World War I veteran, he is survived by his wife, Mary, of the family home; a son, Arthur, of Imperial Beach; a brother, George, of Newport Beach and three grandchildren.

Graveside services will take place Friday at 2 p.m. at Harbor Rest Memorial Park in Costa Mesa and the family asks no flowers be sent. They have asked any donations be made to the Children's Home Society of Orange County.

The statuesque redhead told nearly 100 newsmen in a soft voice that often cracked with emotion of her marriage to chief Oboharok and subsequent deportation from Indonesia.

She charged that it was never her intention to make an anthropological study of the primitive Dani tribe, nor was she there to conduct a sex survey, "though I'm flattered that they think anyone my age (she's 46) is capable of doing something like that."

"I did not run naked in the jungle nor did I reduce my western clothing to native dress and I had no desire to do so," she said.

Miss Sargent, of 4001 Morning Star Drive, Huntington Beach, said she suffered from malaria in her five-month stay in the tropical jungle, had lost 18 pounds and described her health as "low grade."

She charged Indonesian police and government officials with inflicting "murder, rape, theft and beatings on a people they were supposed to be helping."

She said she believes chief Oboharok is hiding from authorities in fear of his life.

"I still live with the fear that Oboharok and his people are dead. That they were killed by the police for telling what they

U.S., China Open Doors

Two Countries to Establish Liaison Offices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and China announced today they will establish governmental liaison offices in Washington and Peking to speed normalization of relations between the countries.

The development was announced in a joint communique issued in Washington and Peking.

Presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger said the offices will serve as the principal contact points on the expansion of trade "as well as all other matters except the strictly formal diplomatic aspects" of ties between the countries.

Kissinger said the liaison offices will have full diplomatic privileges but will in no way imply establishment of formal diplomatic relations.

Kissinger, who returned Tuesday from four days of extensive talks in Peking with Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai also disclosed that:

—Two American airmen held prisoner by China since being shot down over Chinese territory will be released in the next few weeks. They are Air Force Maj. Phillip E. Smith of Victorville, Calif., a prisoner since Sept. 20, 1965, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn of Salt Lake City, held since Aug. 21, 1967.

—The life sentence of John Thomas Downey, a Central Intelligence Agency employee held since the Korean conflict, will be reviewed in the last half of the year. Kissinger said he had been told Downey's sentence could be shortened for good behavior and that he was informed Downey's conduct as a prisoner had been exemplary.

—The United States has no immediate plans to withdraw its remaining military forces from the Chinese Nationalist island of Taiwan but the subject will be reviewed periodically, with decisions based principally on Washington's assessment of the danger of war in the area.

—Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei will begin discussions in Paris next week on settlement of private American claims against China, totalling some $250 million, and some $78 million of blocked Chinese assets in the United States. The aim will be to resolve the issues quickly through negotiations.

The agreement to establish liaison offices in each other's capitals apparently was the most significant development to come out of Kissinger's Peking talks. He said the two governments felt the existing formal channel for contact through their Paris embassies "was inadequate."

Nixon Gives Priorities On Tax Reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told Congress today he will ask this year for (1) tax reforms, (2) a program to relieve old people of the burden of property taxes, and (3) a tax break for families whose children attend parochial schools.

Nixon listed his tax plans in an economic message to Congress, the third section of his State of the Union message. But he did not spell out the details.

The message confirmed that Nixon would ask for broad authority to both raise and lower tariffs as a weapon in negotiating international monetary and trade problems with U.S. trading partners.

Such power is necessary, the President said, because the nation's imbalance of trade — an unprecedented $6.5 billion last year — "could threaten the mounting prosperity of our people."

Nixon defended to an increasingly restive Congress the slashes in social programs that he proposed in his fiscal 1974 budget.

While some programs have appealing names, they are failures, he said.

"Behind a fancy label can lie a dismal failure," he said, "and unless we cut back now on the programs that have failed, we will soon run out of money for the programs that succeed."

Among those which he said "can no longer be justified" are some housing, health, education, and welfare programs.

The 5,000-word message gave no details on what tax reforms Nixon would propose. But it committed him to deal with that matter — a commitment that was in doubt because Administration sources played down tax reform as just another name for increasing the taxes of the wealthy.

All Nixon said on the subject was: "I shall recommend a tax program that builds further reforms on those we achieved in 1969 and 1971."

He said he would send a bill to Congress "for alleviating the crushing burdens which property taxes now create" (See TAXES, Page 2)

Costa Mesa firemen find it a ladder job upon arrival at lot on Albert Place Wednesday afternoon on a structure fire alarm. Smoke from the blazing treehouse was visible at their headquarters station three miles away. The penthouse was a total loss. The fire report said: Occupants: None. Loss: Unknown. Cause: Possible careless smoking.

Dentist Cancels Renters' Eviction in Huntington

By JOHN ZALLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dr. Robert Beauchamp, the widely known family credit dentist, has canceled all eviction notices to the nearly 100 families in his Huntington Vista apartment complex.

Just one week after the mass eviction notices were sent out, Dr. Beauchamp has admitted that "our original decision was rather hastily conceived" and asked all families to cooperate in straightening out the complex's problems.

"Dr. Beauchamp is really a very compassionate man," said Mrs. Lilian Wolf, manager of the apartments. "The more he thought how many children would have their schooling disrupted and how upset the parents were, the more he reconsidered what he had ordered."

The decision to switch Huntington Vista to all-adult apartments was made because of high rate of vandalism damage from children in the complex. In announcing his change of mind, Dr.

Beauchamp pleaded with parents to help weed out the troublesome children.

"It will benefit everyone to eliminate expensive destruction," said Dr. Beauchamp in a letter to his tenants. "We can improve conditions to the point where Huntington Vista is an exemplary development," he added.

Jean Waddell, leader of a parent group fighting the eviction, said today that "his decision has restored my faith in humanity, which was wavering a bit."

However Mrs. Waddell was not in complete agreement with the management. "Obviously we've got to control the vandalism," said Mrs. Waddell. "But I think some of the damage reports may have been exaggerated."

Mrs. Waddell went on to say that "I think all the parents realize now the need to cooperate with the management in doing whatever we can."

A meeting of all tenants has been called for Sunday to discuss vandalism problem. (See DENTIST, Page 2)

Coast Waitress Calls Marine Her Assailant

A pretty waitress at a Newport Beach restaurant today identified Camp Pendleton Marine Mark David Bell, 22, as the man who kidnapped her, at gunpoint, forced her to drive to Huntington Beach and then raped her in the parking lot of the Southern California Edison Company building.

The 21-year-old Costa Mesa girl told an Orange County Superior Court jury that Bell was waiting for her with a gun last Nov. 19 as she left her job at the Pacific Coast Highway restaurant and prepared to start her van.

She said she weaved her vehicle from side to side to attract police attention as they drove to Huntington Beach. But, she said, Bell grabbed the wheel, forced her to turn off the road and then pushed her out of the driver's seat and drove the rest of the way himself.

The witness, the mother of a 2-year-old girl, said Bell forced her to draw the curtains in the van after they entered the parking lot and then raped her.

She said Bell also took $38 from her purse but later refunded $10 when she pleaded for money to pay her baby sitter.

The witness told the panel in Judge Herbert Herlands courtroom that Bell then drove her back to the Newport restaurant where she contacted police after advising her husband of the incident.

Bell is charged with kidnap, rape and robbery in connection with the alleged Nov. 19 incident.

The Marine is also on trial for the alleged rape and kidnapping 14 days earlier of an 18-year-old Santa Ana girl who claims Bell took her to Laguna Canyon Road and sexually assaulted her.

The first alleged victim told the jury that Bell warned her that her body would be found in a nearby marshy area "if you're not good."

Drug Indictment Hits Costa Mesa Man, Son

A Costa Mesa man and his son are two of six persons indicted today by the Orange County Grand Jury on multiple drug charges including the allegation that the group has sold four tons of marijuana and more than 10 million amphetamine tablets.

Vaudra Dewey Nunley, 49, of 2358 N. Harbor Blvd., Costa Mesa and Vaudra Dewey Nunley II, 26, are accused with four codefendants of conspiracy to transport, import, possess and sell narcotics and restricted dangerous drugs.

Additional charges include possession for sale and possession of restricted dangerous drugs and narcotics.

Superior Court arraignments are being scheduled today for all six defendants.

They were arrested by Orange police who said the local warehouse used by the group was a cover for a concealed laboratory specializing in the manufacture of a wide range of dangerous drugs.

Police said they also seized documents related to the alleged sale of vast quantities of marijuana, one of them in the amount of $186,000.

Investigators tabbed the elder Nunley as the mastermind of the operation and said the warehouse belonged to a business operated in his name.

Investigators said a portion of an eight-ton cargo of marijuana seized recently by U.S. Customs officers in San Pedro Harbor was scheduled for delivery to Nunley and his organization.

Named with the two Nunleys as defendants are Rue E. Steele, 28, Dennis Dean Swiden, 30, Collette Rigena Cone, 19, and Jonathan James Lowry, 23, all of Fullerton.

'Seagull' Creator Addresses 1,200

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Nearly 1,200 Orange Coast College students gave up their lunch hour Wednesday to sit in a crowded auditorium and hear what most of them already knew.

It's something that has been discussed widely by philosophers, recommended by psychologists, and immortalized by rock-and-roll.

Do what you want to.

It's a simple formula for personal happiness; still difficult for some to follow. But hearing Richard Bach, author of "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," explain it, becomes just about the most important lesson in life.

"Find your love and follow it," is the way the bestselling author re-cast the formula for OCC students. "And it doesn't matter if it's making surfboards or roller skates."

Bach, on campus at the invitation of French teacher Elmo Shaver, reminded the students that they should be selfish and pursue what they love, no matter what others think.

"If you follow your love you will go through a period of loneliness, and ostracism," he said. It may be difficult to earn a living, but Bach promised that if you stick to it, the personal happiness will stay and the difficulties will vanish.

That not only was the pattern established by "that crazy guy with a machine on his back," Jacques Cousteau, inventor of the aqualung, but also surf movie impresario Bruce Brown, a fellow Bach remembers as being so nutty about the sport that he carried his board to classes at Long Beach Wilson High School.

And it was also true of Bach's own career as a writer who shot from anonymity to the top of Time magazine's bestseller list with a weird story about a seagull that wanted to become something special.

Bach remembers collecting rejection slips from magazine publishers all over the country, but he stuck out the times of adversity until success struck.

Nixon Supports Rights Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said today he supports the equal rights amendment before the states for ratification and declared that expansion of economic opportunity for women is essential.

Nixon, who supported the amendment previously but has made no comment on it since November's election, voiced support for it in an economic report sent to Congress.

His statement came at a time when some women's groups have been expressing fears that the amendment might not be able to muster support from the 38 states necessary. Vermont became the 28th state to ratify the proposed amendment this week.

Simple Method Of Execution?

LINCOLN, England (AP) — A Conservative candidate for Parliament today demanded the return of capital punishment but said razor blades should be left in the cells of convicted murderers so they could execute themselves.

"Hanging is sadistic," Jonathan Guinness told a news conference. "Newsmen told the 42-year-old member of the brewing family that death by razor cuts could be slower and less certain than the hangman's rope."

"Well, perhaps a pill or a revolver," he said. "I haven't thought this out very carefully."

Mesa Aides Will Confer On Freeway

Mayor Jack Hammett and Councilman Alvin L. Pinkley will travel to San Diego March 13 to request state officials to settle the technical details of the Newport Freeway extension through Costa Mesa.

The two Costa Mesa representatives say they will ask the State Highway Commission to initiate environmental impact studies and to determine the precise route and precise design for Route 55 to its terminus at the Newport Beach city limits.

It is estimated by Pinkley that the technical matters can be completed within one year, leaving the project ready to go once financing becomes available.

The Newport Freeway currently ends at Bristol Street.

Plans are to extend it along Newport Boulevard to Bay Street, bend it in a westerly direction toward Costa Mesa City Park, and then run it along Superior Avenue toward Newport Beach.

Lack of state freeway construction funds may push completion of the extension into the late 1970's, but Pinkley says knowledge of the precise route would assist with plans to redevelop the downtown area between 17th and 19th Streets.

Tustin Marine Held in Murders Of Spouse's Kin

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A Marine from Tustin who followed his estranged teenage wife to her grandparents' home here is being held on suspicion of murdering the elder couple with a shotgun.

Complaints charging Cpl. Joseph Zaerr, 22, in connection with the Tuesday shooting spree were expected to be issued today.

He is held in connection with the shootings of George Wass, 65, who died immediately and his wife Mary, 63, who succumbed Wednesday in a hospital.

Investigators interrogating Mrs. Mary Zaerr, 18, about incidents leading up to the slayings said she and her grandfather came home from an errand to find Zaerr waiting.

He apparently was holding her grandmother at shotgun point, or at least held the weapon at the time, police said. The young woman said she went into a bedroom and then heard the weapon fired.

Detective Sgt. Sam Howe said that following the fatal shootings, Cpl. Zaerr escorted his wife about a block down the street.

She called police from a pay phone and then the couple waited for their arrival.

W. Rockefeller Dead at Age 60

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, the former Arkansas governor and one of six children of multimillionaire John D. Rockefeller Jr., died today at Desert Hospital, a family spokesman said. He was 60.

Rockefeller was admitted to the hospital a week ago with a chest ailment. Cancer was listed as the cause of death. Doctors have refused to discuss details of the illness except to say it might be related to an operation he underwent last year in New York for removal of a malignant cyst on his back.

Rockefeller was the brother of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Their mother was Abby Green Aldrich Rockefeller.

In 1966, after one unsuccessful race for governor, Winthrop — then a robust, 6-foot-3, 235 pounds — became the first Republican elected governor of Arkansas since Reconstruction.

He ignited a wave of reform that led to Arkansas' first state minimum wage, tightened restrictions on securities dealers, and restrictions on what he termed "fly-by-night" insurance companies.

One of his first official acts was to make public the report compiled by the state police in their investigation of brutality and torture in the state's prisons.

One of his final official acts came in the waning days of his second two-year term when he commuted to life or less the terms of all 15 men on Death Row in Arkansas.

Rockefeller ran in 1970 for a third term, but had been overwhelmed by his Democratic foe, Dale Bumpers.

Weeks after he left office, Rockefeller was quietly divorced by Jeannette Edris Rockefeller, formerly of Seattle, after nearly 15 years of marriage.

He was first married to Barbara "Bobo" Sears, daughter of a Lithuanian coal miner, but that "Cinderella romance" ended in divorce in 1954, after he moved to Arkansas from New York.

The settlement reportedly totaled a third of his fortune, then estimated at $18 million.

Rockefeller also was chairman of the boards of Colonial Williamsburg, continuing his family's interest and multi-million-dollar funding of the restoration of the 18th century Virginia town.

Rockefeller was educated at the Lincoln School of Columbia University's Teachers College in New York City, the Loomis School in Windsor, Conn., and Yale University, which he left in his junior year.

Rockefeller was, even to those who closely advised him, a puzzle and a bit of a maverick.

The only one of the Rockefeller children to fail to complete college, he rough-necked three years in the Texas oilfields and enlisted as a private in the Army in World War II. Rockefeller became a captain in December 1942 and a major in 1943.

His brothers are Nelson A. Rockefeller, Laurence Rockefeller, David Rockefeller, and John D. Rockefeller III. His sister, Mrs. Jean Mauze, lives in New York.

Rockefeller also is survived by his only son, Winthrop Paul Rockefeller; his daughter-in-law, Deborah Sage Rockefeller; and his daughter, Deborah Sage Rockefeller.

Jury Selection In Police Ambush Trial Under Way

A judge today ordered jury selection to begin in the Orange County Superior Court trial of a Hessian motorcyclist accused of ambushing an Irvine patrolman. The judge denied three defense motions aired in three days of pretrial arguments.

Judge Lester Van Tatenhove set the stage for the trial of Leslie Robert Peters, 22, of Orange, by rejecting motions including the plea that all testimony offered in lower court action be barred from the current jury trial.

Peters is charged with assault with a deadly weapon and assault on a police officer.

The charges were contained in a Grand Jury indictment issued after the panel heard testimony that Peters planned the ambush shooting last Oct. 23 of patrolman Stephen Nash, 24.

Nash said Peters leaped to his feet and shot at him as the officer slowed his car at the intersection of Jeffrey and Baranca roads to investigate Peters' apparent illness.

Nash has now recovered from wounds received when slug fragments struck him in the face.

"I think people realize now that they have to become involved in how the apartments are kept up or they won't be kept up," she said. "I think they realize now that the management is not their private baby sitting service."

Mrs. Wolf said that she would be working hard to identify troublesome children and families either to "straighten them out" or to evict them.

know. It is the authors' contention that the $720,000 United Nations loan to Indonesia for a program to upgrade the primitive standard of living in West Irian has "only fattened the bank accounts of government officials and police."

Miss Sargent cited a "72-hour reign of terror" prior to her departure from Jakarta last week as proof of the government's fear of her knowledge.

She also said she was constantly followed and that her telephone and hotel room in Jakarta were bugged. She said she was afraid of becoming a political prisoner.

Most of her film and her notes were left behind in Indonesia, she said. "I did manage to smuggle nine rolls of film out of the country in the jungle boots that I was wearing," Miss Sargent added.

She said she has appealed to the State Department to investigate both her case and the alleged corruption in the U.N.-backed project.

"I gave all of this information to the U.S. embassy in Jakarta on Feb. 15," she said.

The Huntington Harbour resident says she has "no plans to go on any television talk shows."

"I went to West Irian to write a book about a primitive people and now I want to work on that book," she said.

Miss Sargent discounted all the previous publicity that her marriage had generated, saying the police fabricated the story in order to have her expelled from the country.

She said she first heard of her alleged sexual survey on Feb. 7 from a German journalist.

As her voice cracked with emotion and tears filled her eyes Miss Sargent related how she told of her plight to the Dani people.

"I was too embarrassed to tell them about the sex survey," she said. "All I could tell them was that Momma Wyn would have to leave."

for older Americans." Late in his first term Nixon talked about federal subsidies to the states and localities which could make possible across-the-board cuts in property taxes, but toward the end of his campaign he stressed relief for the elderly.

Nixon also promised to back a plan which would give tax relief to parents who send their children to parochial and other nonpublic elementary and secondary schools.

Kissinger Says Red Aid Investment, Not Ransom

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger said today that reconstruction aid to North Vietnam would not be a ransom, war reparations or a handout, but "a long-term investment in a structure of peace" in Asia.

Briefing reporters on his two-week mission to Hanoi and Peking, Kissinger indicated that North Vietnamese leaders are aware of U.S. congressional opposition to the aid plan.

But he said the issue was overshadowed by broader concerns during his two days of talks in Hanoi.

Both sides concentrated instead on implementing the peace agreement, including arrangements for a cease-fire in Laos, and ways to improve relations between Hanoi and Washington, he said.
