Laguna in Buff?

Beachgoers Favor Nude Sections

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Beachgoers in Laguna Beach are overwhelmingly in favor of setting aside areas for nude swimming and sunbathing.

This was one of the findings in a recent study by UC Irvine Social Scientist Ruth Wallace, conducted for the Kalos Kagathos Foundation of Laguna Beach.

"Frankly, I was surprised," said Ms. Wallace after finding that 83 percent of the 575 beachgoers questioned approved of nude beaches.

Ms. Wallace noted, however, that those who disapproved of nude beaches "disapproved very strongly."

"I would say this is a controversial issue," she said.

A list of 13 questions was handed out to beachgoers during the first three weekends in September, Ms. Wallace said. She found that 37 percent of those queried were Laguna Beach residents and of these, 63 percent were property owners.

About half of those questioned have children, the study showed.

Asked if they would go to a nude beach, 46 percent said yes, 29 percent no, and the rest perhaps or don't know.

Ms. Wallace said she was surprised to find that 43 percent of those queried said they would take their children to a nude beach.

Other significant findings, Ms. Wallace said, were that 75 percent of those queried would like to see a nude beach in Laguna Beach.

She found that younger people, males and Laguna Beach residents were more approving of nude beaches than others "but I haven't tested the significance of those figures yet."

Ms. Wallace said she used a questionnaire rather than a face-to-face interview because she believed people would be more honest.

She stressed that she herself is not a member of a nude beach movement but undertook the study as a researcher for the Kalos Kagathos Foundation, a health and water sports promoting organization.

The issue arose after several nude sunbathers were arrested early this summer at South Laguna's 1,000 Steps Beach.

Ms. Wallace, who said her study was conducted on six beaches in Laguna Beach and South Laguna, said she will present her findings to the city council at an unspecified future date.

Victim of Rape Invites 2 Men Back, Slays One

From Wire Services

LONG BEACH — A young woman, who was raped by two men, asked them to a return date and then killed one with a shotgun as her family looked on, police said today.

Deborah Kantaeng, 19, was booked on suspicion of murder.

Police said she told them that she was abducted by two men as she left work in a Cerritos shopping center Wednesday and they drove her to a park in Santa Ana and raped her.

In return for releasing her without further harm, she said, she promised not to call police and to give them her telephone number so they could reach her again.

They called Thursday afternoon, and it was agreed they would come to her home, investigators said.

Police said when the two walked in, they found themselves confronted by Miss Kantaeng, who was holding a shotgun. The woman's father, two brothers and girlfriend were also present, police said.

He was identified as Danny Charles Allen, 21, of Santa Ana.

The other man fled. Police later arrested Carl Tice, 21, of Santa Ana. He was held for investigation of murder and rape.

When the men arrived at the home, police said, Allen knocked on the open door, walked through it and was hit by a single shotgun blast fired by Miss Kantaeng.

Her father was in the room at the time but told police he did not see the shooting.

Tice, who was not hit, fled but returned later to find out how Allen was and was arrested, police said.

Tice was booked under a California law that says a person participating in a criminal act in which murder occurs may be charged with that murder.

Bags of Manure Hide Marijuana

SAN YSIDRO (AP) — Border patrolmen say they seized 1,111 pounds of marijuana from the bed of a pickup truck which appeared to be filled with bags of manure.

The officers noticed the tailgate was off as the truck arrived from Mexico, revealing packages under the manure bags.

'Joking' Suspect Seized

It was only a joke, officer.

That's what Samuel Lamont, 33, Glendale, told two Fountain Valley policemen early this morning as they arrested him on an armed robbery charge.

Police said Lamont entered the 7-11 market at Euclid Street and Warner at 6:15 a.m. today with a meat cleaver and fishing knife tucked in his belt.

He first approached the clerk and allegedly asked him if he'd ever realized how simple it would be for someone to rob him. Then, police said, he told the clerk he was robbing him and ordered him to empty the cash register.

But when a customer entered the store, the reluctant bandit backed off and told the clerk he was "only kidding," police said.

Lamont's joke only lasted a little while, police said. After the customer left, he pulled out his knife and told the clerk he was "serious," and was going to rob him after all.

But his efforts were foiled when two policemen who'd been watching the whole thing through the window, came inside and arrested Lamont, who then claimed again he was only kidding, police reported.

Officers Steve Nichols and Dale Herzog went to the market after the police dispatcher reported receiving an anonymous phone call "that a man in a blue shirt was going to rob a market."

The officers said Lamont matched the description, and they arrested him when they saw him pull the knife.

Lamont told police his wife had dropped him off at a cousin's house in Fountain Valley at 4 a.m. because he and the cousin planned to leave today for Lake Tahoe.

As police were taking him to Orange County Jail this morning, officers said, Lamont still claimed "He was only kidding."

BART Trains Stalled

OAKLAND (UPI) — The brakes on a Bay Area Rapid Transit train locked Thursday, halting all trains for about 30 minutes. A spokesman for the system said the "hold" was necessary to tow the crippled car out of the way.

Policy to Mean 'Bite The Bullet'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has ruled out any gasoline tax increase and is firmly opposed to gas rationing but will ask Americans to "bite the bullet" in an anti-inflation program with mandatory features, his spokesman said today.

White House press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will disclose "proposals to help alleviate problems with credit and interest rates" in an address to a joint session of Congress at 1 p.m. (PDT) Tuesday.

Nessen would neither confirm nor deny widespread speculation that Ford would seek some form of tax increase as part of his inflation-fighting package.

But he quoted Ford as telling Republican congressional leaders today that there are "hard choices we and the American people have to make as we bite the bullet on curbing inflation."

Nessen also quoted Treasury Secretary William Simon as telling the GOP congressional leaders that the Ford program "in its most general terms will

Nation's Top 2 Banks Drop Lend Rate

By United Press International

Bank of America of San Francisco and First National City Bank of New York, the nation's two largest banks, today lowered their prime lending rate from 12 percent to 11¾ effective Monday, joining some major banks across the nation in reducing interest for business loans.

But at the same time, Citibank, the nation's third largest bank, said it was raising slightly its internal formula for computing its floating prime interest rates.

Citibank said "hereafter its base rate will be computed at a spread of ¾ of 1 percent over the 90-day commercial paper rate instead of ⅝ of 1 percent as heretofore.

"This change is consistent with money market conditions and its own policy of credit restraint," the bank said.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip stocks, which Thursday dropped below the 600 mark for the first time in 12 years, closing at 587.61, was off another 6.81 in early trading today.

Mercantile Trust of St. Louis, a major Midwest bank, also said it was lowering its rate.

In lowering the prime rate, the banks join several banks that reduced the interest rate by ¼ percent two weeks ago in the first easing of business loan credit since early in July when rates soared to an historic high of 12 percent.

The decline in the prime, the interest banks charge for loans to best corporate customers, followed an easing of the tight-money policy imposed by the Federal Reserve Bank which began pouring money into the banking system.

The Bank of America acknowledged this in its statement lowering the rate. It said it "is lowering its rate in support of recent modest adjustments in Federal Reserve policies which have led to some declines in money market rates and in the marginal cost of funds and not as a result of reducing loan growth."

The bank said its loan growth has "slowed only moderately."

The high prime rates were a result of efforts to check inflation by reducing business credit and by the high demand for loans.

Wounded Boyfriend Questioned

Orange County Sheriff's officers today resumed their questioning of a young man who has repeatedly told them that his girlfriend shot him in the arm moments after they met in Capistrano Beach and then shot herself through the head.

Investigators would only comment today that they have not yet reached a determination in the death of Dora Rodriguez, 22, of 31796 El Camino Real, San Juan Capistrano.

Her boyfriend, John Reyes, 19, of 4017 Calle Juno, San Clemente, remains in San Clemente General Hospital where he is being treated for a bullet wound that shattered his right arm.

"He may go home later today," an investigator commented. "But he is aware that we have not yet completed our inquiries into the death of Miss Rodriguez."

The body of Miss Rodriguez, one of nine children, was found early Thursday slumped between two cars parked at Via de Agua and Camino Los Ramblas in Capistrano Beach.

The two autos parked on the dead end street were identified as belonging to Reyes and Miss Rodriguez.

Reyes, who remained on the scene, immediately gave sheriff's officers the account of the incident that he has repeated several times before and after surgery — that she shot him and then put the .38-caliber revolver to her own head and fired.

Sheriff's officers said deputies who patrol the Capistrano Beach area reported seeing the couple parked at several occasions in the area in recent months.

Offshore Drill Plan 'Assured'

By FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A week's trip to the nation's capital has convinced the chairman of the regional coastal commission that offshore oil drilling along the Orange County coast is a "foregone conclusion."

Dr. Donald Bright, head of the 12-member state panel preparing a plan to guide the future of the coast, made the remark following a Town Hall of California luncheon Thursday in Anaheim.

Responding to a question, Bright said, "I think it's t foregone conclusion we're going to have offshore oil drilling."

Bright said he recently spent a week in Washington D. C. meeting with officials in various sections of the Department of the Interior, the agency that has proposed 1.6 million acres of offshore waters between Santa Barbara and Dana Point be opened for drilling.

The department has defended the proposal as one means of helping increase oil production to meet the country's energy needs.

Bright said that, although it appears the offshore drilling plan will go into effect, it is not too late to demand sufficient safeguards to avoid adverse environmental impacts from drilling operations.

"It can happen with more thought and constraint," the Cal State Fullerton biologist said.

Technology is being developed for subsurface drilling and new safety mechanisms that can help prevent oil spills such as the one that occurred in Santa Barbara in 1969, Bright said.

He said the exact timing of the leases will depend on the outcome of "Project Blueprint," an Interior Department study to determine precisely what the country's energy needs are.

The commission chairman asserted that the environmental impact statement prepared by the Bureau of Land Management for the offshore drilling proposal falls far short of dealing with alternate energy sources.

"We need a proper — and I stress the word proper — environmental impact report from the bureau," Bright said.

Official Orders Offshore Lease Plan Prepared

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top Interior Department official has ordered the government to prepare a plan to lease 10 million acres of potential offshore oil sites next year in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said that it obtained an internal Interior Department memo written by Undersecretary John C. Whitaker ordering development of a plan for leasing of "all the promising areas of the Atlantic" as well as for a sale next year of the leases for drilling sites on the bottom of the Pacific. The Pacific site was identified as off Alaska.

Whitaker confirmed he had written the Sept. 10 memo, in a telephone interview with the newspaper Thursday night, the Post said. The plan was to have been ready Sept. 30, but is expected to be finished next week, according to the Post.

The plan, strongly opposed by environmentalists, would open as much as 13 million acres of ocean bottom to exploration by oil and gas companies next year, including the promising Baltimore Canyon site — a deep sea trench about 60 miles off the New Jersey-Delaware coast, the paper said.

The memo read in part:

"The undersecretary (Whitaker) wants a firm leasing schedule laid out that definitely includes the following items: (1) 10 million acres leased in 1975 — not just 10 million acres offered; (2) a sale in 1975 in both Alaska and the Atlantic; (3) an alternative, if No. 2 fails, which will still allow leasing of 10 million acres.

"On the same time schedule, the undersecretary wants a plan for a lease sale on the Atlantic in 1975 that would include some leases in all the promising areas of the Atlantic, rather than just the sale limited to Baltimore Canyon."

The newspaper said the memo was signed by Jared G. Carter, a deputy undersecretary, who sent it to the directors of the department's Bureau of Land Management and Geological Survey.

The Bureau of Land Management manages the leasing of offshore oil tracts, while the Geological Survey estimates how much oil there is in a given area.

Mesan Wounded In Shooting Out of Hospital

A Costa Mesan, gravely wounded nine days earlier when gunned down by two bandits who confronted him on a Santa Ana street, was released from Orange County Medical Center Thursday.

Kenneth M. Pride, 26, who gave a Victoria Street address, underwent surgery to remove a bullet from his stomach following the Sept. 24 attack.

He was also hit by a shotgun blast in the back when the two bandits attempted to kill him for refusing to hand over his money and pulling a knife on them in self-defense. Pride told police the gunmen caught him in a crossfire, the shotgun-wielder dropping to one knee to take aim.

A 19-year-old youth living in the Windsor Park area where attempted robbbery and attempted murder occurred was arrested, but released when Pride could not identify him.

Report of Boat Disaster In North Possibly Hoax

JENNER (UPI) — A report that eight persons were washed overboard when a boat sank in the Pacific Thursday night may have been a hoax, the Coast Guard said today.

However, two cutters and four aircraft continued their search in the ocean off this small Northern California fishing village.

"There are a lot of discrepancies," a Coast Guard spokesman said. "It might be a hoax."

The first SOS call, via a citizens band radio channel, was received at 8 p.m. when the skipper, who identified himself as Robert Patterson, said his boat was skinging and that eight persons were aboard, including six children.

At 11 p.m. another message was received, saying the people were abandoning the boat for a four-man rubber life raft.

According to the Coast Guard spokesman, one of the discrepancies was the three-hour interval between messages — from a 16-foot motorboat sinking four miles offshore with six persons aboard.

There were no reports of a missing boat in the area, the Coast Guard said. A search throughout the night and early today turned up no evidence of the missing craft.

The presence of a four-foot rubber raft aboard a 16-foot boat with eight persons aboard also suggested the boat would have been too heavily loaded to get four miles out among 8 to 10-foot waves.

The Coast Guard spokesman said search craft would remain in the area while an "investigative search" is undertaken to determine the source of the report.

The boat's homeport was not immediately known.

Defendant Says She Was Raped By Her Victim

MONTEREY (AP) — A jury of seven women and five men is in its third day of deliberations today on the guilt or innocence of Inez Garcia, being tried for the slaying of a man she says helped rape her.

The jury deliberated for nearly eight hours Thursday without reaching a verdict. They reviewed testimony by two teen-age witnesses to the fatal shooting and pored over the instructions of Judge Stanley Lawson, specifically for the difference between voluntary and involuntary manslaughter.

Mrs. Garcia, 30, and Fred Medrano, 25, are accused of slaying Miguel Jimenez, 21, last March. Mrs. Garcia said Jimenez and Luis Castillo, 17, raped her and tried to kill Medrano.

Nessen gave few details of Ford's proposals, saying only tentative decisions have been made and that additional review is required.

But, responding to newsmen's questions at a White House briefing, Nessen said, "The proposals will contain no request for an increase in the gasoline excise tax."

Thus, Nessen firmly rejected proposals that the current four-cent-per-gallon federal excise tax on gasoline be increased by 10 to 20 cents to reduce fuel consumption and increase federal revenue.

Nessen said Ford "has been and remains opposed to gasoline rationing."

Nessen said Ford's program "will require strong public participation" and said in response to questions that the package will contain some mandatory features.

He would not elaborate, but acknowledged that some of Ford's proposals would require action by Congress this year.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who attended the White House meeting between Ford and GOP congressional leaders, said the program could include some tax revisions.

The Pennsylvania Republican said everything that was outlined to GOP congressional leaders at the 90-minute meeting with Ford and top economic advisers was tentative.

Deputy Seeking House Arrests Laguna Resident

An Orange County deputy marshal who stopped at a Laguna Beach house Thursday to ask directions ended up arresting the resident on suspicion of intent to sell marijuana.

He also liscovered that the occupant was wanted on 27 warrants issued in south Orange County, chiefly for parking tickets.

"And that's a lot," commented Lt. Al Olson of the Laguna Beach police department.

John Lawrence Klein, 21, of 447 Cypress Drive, was arrested and released on $5,000 bail.

Police said they suspected intent to sell because 179 grams of marijuana were found on the premises.

Gary Parks, deputy Orange County marshal, told police he was looking for a nearby house to serve a civil warrant when noticing a gap in the numbering he knocked on Klein's door to ask directions.

Parks said he then smelled marijuana smoke and searched the premises.

Even Children Feeling Pinch

OAKLAND (AP) — Galloping inflation has hit even the children's pony rides.

The East San Francisco Bay Regional Park District announced Thursday that it will cost 45 cents instead of 35 cents to ride any of the 17 Shetland ponies in the Tilden Park children's area.

Unbridled inflation has increased the costs of alfalfa, hay and veterinary services, say pony ride operators David and Frances Horn.

Wet Wedding

Not a Dry Eye in the Place

En route to the altar in a canoe, the bride and groom took a dunking.

As the craft nosed into a landing, groom Gene Tubbs waved to a friend, and the canoe tipped. Tubbs, bride Kay Gorman, the paddler and a dog called Smokey were dumped into the river.

The nervous bridegroom, who doesn't swim and has always been afraid of water, groped for the canoe as the wedding's arranger, Archie Marlin, dove into the river to rescue him.

Hair Fob

DEAT PAT: Can you find anyone in or around the Los Angeles area who could take a switch of human hair and weave it into a watch fob chain like my grandfather used to wear on his vest? I think they used to call them "horse hair watch fob chains." These fobs were worn on men's vests with a gold ring at each end of the woven hair holding the watch at one end and a cigar cutter or pen knife on the other. In the center of this chain was a gold attachment which was hooked into a vest button hole. I have a switch of grandmother's hair and grandfather's watch. Since the original fob was burned in a devestating fire at my son's home last year, I know its replacement would mean a lot, especially since his grandparents were so dear to him.

A. S., Sherman Oaks

Researching your request took some doing, but Jensen's, 1536 N. Highland Ave., Los Angeles, can fashion the old-fashioned (circa 1870) watch fob you desire. Jensen's explained the braided switch would be undone and wefted onto three layers of string to form the chain, to which the appropriate attachments can be affixed.

Slow Delivery

DEAR PAT: I ordered a book on Tai Chi exercises from Good News Publishing Co. with the understanding that I could get a refund if I, or my doctor, were dissatisfied with the book. I was not impressed and returned it immediately after delivery in April, requesting my refund. I'm still waiting.

M. F., Costa Mesa

Good News has returned your $6.95, explaining that "due to the huge volume of mail business we do daily, sometimes it is totally unexplainable as to what has transpired." The Canton, Ohio, Better Business Bureau has an explanatiin, however. Its files contain hundreds of slow delivery complaints about this firm, which apparently is not equipped to handle the volume of business its ads generate. BBB records indicate delivery of Good News publications takes from 8 to 14 weeks.

News for Seniors

DEAR PAT: Although I've been a Daily Pilot subscriber for years and plan to remain so, I'd like to know if there are any small newspapers specifically for Senior Citizens?

G. C., Laguna Hills

Yes, the Senior Citizens News, 4205 Euclid, Anaheim, and Senior Peoples Press of Orange County, 5821 Beach Blvd., Buena Park, both cater exclusively to Senior Citizens' news interests.

Horsemeat Label

DEAR PAT: Are any statistics available on how many horses were slaughtered last year in the United States for pet and human consumption? I'd also like to know if horsemeat for human consumption is labeled in any special way to distinguish it from beef.

J. H., Huntington Beach

In 1973, 88,000 horses were slaughtered for meat in the U.S., mostly for export and pet food, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Federal Meat Inspection Program. Horsemeat can be sold for human consumption in this country only if labeled as horsemeat. The appropriate inspection sticker is colored green.

Refund Coming

DEAT PAT: I can't get anywhere with American Image Corp. in New York. After months of waiting last spring, a sauna suit I'd ordered finally arrived, but it was defective and I returned it immediately, requesting either replacement or a refund. It's been three months now and I still haven't heard from the company. It this a reliable outfit?

J. M., Garden Grove

Neither the Metropolitan New York Better Business Bureau nor the Council of Better Business Bureaus in Washington, D.C. give a good recommendation to American Image in view of numerous unresolved complaints. The firm also has been charged with false representation in advertising by the U.S. Postal Service for two of its products. The postal service also has obtained changes in advertising for two other items offered by American Image. Your refund is being processed, however.

AS PRICES CLIMB EVER HIGHER, MANY ELDERLY MUST EAT DOG FOOD TO SURVIVE
Federally Funded Free Lunch Is Being Provided For Anyone Over 60 by Laguna Beach Group

'Needs Desperate'

Laguna Elderly Said Suffering

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

There may be as many as 90 elderly people in Laguna Beach in desperate need of food, money and clothing.

This is the estimate of Si Slavin, chairman of the Over 60 Community Center Association of Laguna Beach.

"Poverty is increasing daily as prices go up," he said. "It's the obscene sin of our generation that there are elderly people who live on cat and dog food."

"Many of them have to do without telephones, which are a necessity due to their heart conditions and other ailments," Slavin said. "And they can't afford the repairs if their television breaks, so that leaves them without any entertainment whatsoever."

"People have got to realize that the elderly are not a special group like labor or medical interests," Slavin said. "They come from every stratum."

"The younger generation in time will become those people," he said. "We're getting ready for them now."

One of the ways Slavin and others are helping the elderly is through a federally funded free lunch program called Project TLC (Transportation, Lunch and Counseling) for anyone over 60.

Hot lunches of easy-to-eat meat, poultry or fish, vegetables and desserts are provided at noon every weekday at the Community Presbyterian Church at the intersection of Forest Avenue and Second Street.

The program accommodates about 50 people a day, of whom Slavin estimates that about one third are in dire need.

In addition to food, Project TLC arranges for counseling and referrals, transportation to and from lunches, occasional guest speakers at meals, classes in macrame and sketching, and birthday parties.

Also, Project TLC makes available a crisis fund, donated by the Ebell Club, to help older people in urgent need of money.

The Laguna Beach site of Project TLC, which has its Orange County headquarters in Santa Ana, began in December.

It is directed in Laguna Beach by Betty Maxick of San Juan Capistrano.

Slavin and his wife Jane, a retired social worker, helped start the local chapter and work there as volunteers.

Slavin cited the cases of two individuals who were in particularly dire need when discovered.

"One lady was 90 years old, unable to care for herself and malnourished," he said. "Someone told her about the program and she called us to bring her in."

"In addition to lunches, we gave her extra food and assistance," he said.

"One day she told me that when her husband died, she buried herself and didn't come alive again until she joined the program," he said.

He also mentioned an engineer, comparatively young at 62, who lost his job and was unable to get another because of his age.

"A neighbor told us about him," Slavin said. "He had no money for telephone or lights and was about to lose his house because he was behind on the payments.

"Some of our retired social workers were able to raise money to take care of his immediate payments, and after he got straightened out physically and mentally he was able to get a part-time job," Slavin said.

He said the Over 60 organization is looking for a permanent headquarters for Project TLC and for more funds to continue the program after federal seed money runs out.

"We hope the city will be able to provide more for us," Slavin said. "They definitely have to become more involved with their senior citizens."

Last summer the city donated $250 to the program and the Soroptimists Club gave $600. Soroptimists have also pledged $150 a month starting this month through March.

Anyone interested in helping with the program, or who knows an elderly person in need, can contact Mrs. Maxick at 497-2702 or 493-2684, or Helen Adams at 494-9815.

Nixon Backed on Tapes

GOP Chiefs Try to Stall Bill Calling for Custody

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Appropriations Committee today agreed with a House-passed measure that cut from $850,000 to $200,000 the money to be provided former President Nixon's transition to private life.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior Republicans are attempting to head off Senate passage of a bill giving the government custody of former President Nixon's official tapes and papers.

The Senate formally went on record Thursday urging President Ford to make all the facts of Watergate available to the public.

But Republican opposition blocked a quick vote on a bill designed to nullify a Nixon-Ford agreement giving the former president custody of his documents. They would be stored at Laguna Niguel.

Republican leaders agreed to allow a final vote today if their motion to send the bill to the Judiciary Committee for consideration of constitutional implications is rejected.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska, senior Republican on the Judiciary Committee, also prepared a substitute bill that would declare the papers of all recent presidents, vice presidents and members of Congress to be public property.

A similar attempt Thursday by Republican whip Robert P. Griffin, applying to congressmen and future presidents, failed 58 to 23.

The bill being debated is aimed at blocking destruction of any of Nixon's papers and tapes, which are deemed to contain evidence necessary for Watergate trials and for providing the public the full story of the scandal.

Under terms of the Nixon-Ford agreement, which was disclosed when Nixon was pardoned, the former president would control access to the documents. He could destroy any of his papers after three years and his tapes after five years.

But the tapes would have to be destroyed immediately upon Nixon's death, and under no circumstances any later than Sept. 1, 1984.

Such destruction would deprive the courts of evidence and "conceal forever the full truth about the Watergate scandals," Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.), told colleagues.

But Hruska said the public's right to know must be weighed against Nixon's rights of privacy, free speech and property.

By tradition, "those papers are the former president's property," Hruska said, accusing sponsors of the bill of seeking what amounts to a lynch law.

Not only would the bill violate the concept of executive privilege, but also it amounts to an unconstitutional attempt to punish an individual without trial, Hruska said. He said any bill dealing with custody of the papers of public officials should not be limited to Nixon.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.), said the measure does not seek to punish Nixon but only strives to protect what rightfully belongs to the public.

El Toro, Pendleton

Marines, Employes Get Pay Hikes at 2 Bases

Approval of pay raises for federal civilian and military employes recently will affect an estimated 36,000 military personnel and 2,500 civilian workers at the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station and Camp Pendleton.

Spokesmen at both bases acknowledged that the 5.52 percent, across-the-board increases will have a measurable effect on the overall economy of the area.

While Camp Pendleton is in San Diego County, many of its employes live in Orange County.

Rough calculations by base personnel showed that the surges in annual payroll will amount to $2.8 million at El Toro and more than twice that much at Camp Pendleton.

The approval for the raises for military and regular civilian employes at the bases came from the U.S. Senate over the objection of President Ford, who had sought to delay the raise for three months.

Ford had contended that the three-month delay would save $700 million in time of serious inflation. However, the Senate action left him no choice but to set the size of the increase and order it into effect.

The effect on El Toro's 10,000 military personnel will amount to a total payroll this fiscal year of $63,775,616, up from about $61 million last year.

For the 350 civilians with official "graded" status as employes, the payroll will jump from $9 million to about $9.5 million.

At Camp Pendleton, the figures are greater.

The base currently has a military population of 26,600 and a graded civilian roster of 2,250 workers.

The total military payroll there for a fiscal year is in the area of $117 million and the boost in wages will mean that Pendleton Marines will earn about $5.5 million more this fiscal year.

Civilians there will earn about $1.2 million more this year with a total payroll reaching about $26 million.

The raises — retroactive to Oct. 1 — probably will begin to show on paychecks at midmonth and the end of this month, said official spokesmen, and that will amount to checks with greater than usual figures.

Sunday's Pilot Offering Test for Breast Cancer

Politics and political figures seem to dominate everything everyone is doing in this year of trauma and turmoil. Among "Sunday's Best" in the Daily Pilot will be a health feature stemming from Mrs. Gerald Ford's mastectomy, plus other "political" offerings.

Layoffs Push Jobless Level to 5.8%

Lot of Talk, But no Action

RICKY TICKY POLITIX: We've had a lot of smoke and hot air blowing out of Sacramento over the past two days as the California Legislature finally collapsed its session. The results, however, produced very little thunder or lightning.

Under the rules of the way we run our state government, you see, the lawmakers get to pass a lot of spending bills and the governor can them cancel them with vetoes.

This is precisely what Gov. Reagan did. He set a record in wiping things out, as a matter of fact. He killed 198 measures which had previously cleared the Legislature.

THEN, OVER THE past couple of days, the Legislature, dominated by Democrats, had a chance to get back at the governor. They could vote to "override" his vetoes.

Thus it develops that the lawmakers took votes to override Reagan on a whole passel of bills, including some for aid to the elderly, aid to schools, aid to mobile home owners, aid to people choking on food in restaurants — aid to almost everybody.

Trouble was, in order to override you've got to have most of the lawmakers paying attention to business and at their desks in the legislative hall.

AND THE TROUBLE with this is, the lawmakers are notorious this time of year for playing hooky.

So the Senate Wednesday kept taking votes to override Gov. Reagan's vetoes and they kept coming up short of voters.

"What are the sergeants-at-arms doing to find these missing members?" fumed Senator Joseph M. Kennick, the Democrat from Long Beach.

Well, those sergeants scurried about and did find Senator Alan Robbins, the Democrat from Van Nuys. He wasn't too far away. He had just sort of drifted down the hall to see what the Assembly was doing.

THEY DID NOT find the aforementioned Senator Petris, who is in Greece. Senator Ralph Dills, the Democrat from Gardena, volunteered to take a subpoena to Greece and fetch Petris back. But nobody took him up on his kind offer.

Meanwhile, Senator Mervyn Dymally, who is running on the Democratic side for lieutenant governor, was miffed at Republican John L. Harmer, who was absent and here in Southern California.

Dymally wanted the solons to haul Harmer back to Sacramento. This was because Harmer was here in the south, campaigning for lieutenant governor against Dymally. Also, Harmer was getting sworn in as the new lieutenant governor, which sure could give him a leg up in the current campaign.

CLEARLY, YOU CAN see there was some politics in all this searching for people to come vote on veto overrides.

In the end, however, the senators failed to find enough votes to override even one single veto out of the 198 bills that Gov. Reagan struck down. So they all quit and went home.

And that's your California Legislature for today, folks.

U.S. Reports Rate Highest In 2½ Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Widespread layoffs pushed the nation's unemployment rate up to 5.8 percent of the work force last month, the highest level in 2½ years, the government reported today.

Another 440,000 workers joined unemployment rolls in September, bringing the total to a seasonally adjusted 5.3 million, the Labor Department said.

The increase in jobless rate, from 5.4 percent in August, was the largest monthly increase since last January when it also rose four-tenths of one percent.

UNEMPLOYMENT HAS been creeping up gradually for the past several months and is expected to rise above six percent late this year or in early 1975. Last October the jobless rate had dropped to a 3½-year low of 4.6 percent. Since then the number of unemployed persons has risen by 1.2 million.

President Ford, who will send his economic program to Congress next week, has indicated he will propose an expanded public service jobs program using federal funds to enable state and local government to hire the unemployed.

Most of the unemployment last month took place among women aged 25 and older and among teen-agers, particularly males 18 to 19 years old. Declining college attendance among young men, coupled with the slower growth in jobs, contributed to the higher joblessness among youth, the government said.

TOTAL EMPLOYMENT was reported up by 350,000 from August to September. Over the past year, total employment has climbed by 1.4 million, half the year-to-year gain recorded in the previous year. The increase was negated in the unemployment picture by additional job seekers.

Both white and blue collar workers felt the effects of the slowing economy. Both categories registered increases in joblessness. Heavy layoffs were reported in manufacturing, construction and wholesale and retail trade. Construction's unemployment rate, at 12.4 percent, rose to its highest level in four years.

Within goods-producing industries, employment gained slightly in September due to a reduction in strike activity.

In September, the average work week of factory workers remained at 40.1 hours while factory overtime fell by two tenths of an hour. The average hourly pay for a manufacturing worker last month rose eight cents to $4.51, while weekly earnings averaged $181.75, up from August's $177.64, the department said.

AMONG THE MAJOR labor-force groups, the jobless rate for full-time workers was reported up from 4.8 percent in August to 5.3 percent in September, while the rate for household heads moved up from 3.1 to 3.4 percent. The unemployment rate for married men was listed at 2.8 percent in September compared with 2.6 percent in August. The teen-aged jobless rate rose from 15.3 to 16.7 percent.

Top Mormon Urges Battle Against Sex

From Wire Services

SALT LAKE CITY — The president of the Mormon Church urged his 3.3 million followers today to fight against the sexual revolution — from streaking and pornography to unisex styles and homosexuality.

Spencer W. Kimball, 79, the "prophet, seer and revelator" of the Mormons, opened the church's fall conference by warning that permissiveness may be destroying the moral fabric of a generation.

"We live in a culture which venerates the orgasm, streaking and similar crazes," Kimball told 8,000 persons jammed into the Salt Lake Tabernacle and thousands more watching on television.

Refunds Ordered In Spray Paint Cancer Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers can begin demanding full refunds Monday for millions of new or used cans of spray paint containing the cancer-causing chemical vinyl chloride.

But since the chemical is not listed on labels, it may be almost impossible to determine whether the aerosol paint you own contains vinyl chloride.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission said today it has denied requests by several paint manufacturers to revoke the federal refund order. Retailers will be required to post lists in their stores of vinyl chloride-containing paints they have sold during past years.

THE INDUSTRY HAD warned the commission that it produced tens of millions of cans of spray paint with vinyl chloride, and that repurchase at $1.50 to $2.00 each would put many companies out of business.

They also said the 24 liver cancer deaths attributed to vinyl chloride occurred among workers who had been exposed to heavy concentrations for years. They said there was no proof that limited exposure from use of aerosol paints would cause cancer.

Rust-Oleum Corp., which discontinued use of vinyl chloride in April 1972, said it was not arguing that it is "more important to save a business than to save a life," but it felt the repurchase order was not backed up by proof of a health hazard.

THE FIRM SAID aresosel paints and varnishes generally are used outdoors or in well-ventilated areas and any potential risk is greatly minimized.

Plastic-Kote Co., a division of Consolidated Foods Inc., said it stopped using vinyl chloride in some products in December 1971 and altogether in June 1973.

The company said it makes 20 million cans of spray paint a year, under its own five brands and 100 private labels.

Thirty million cans have been produced without vinyl chloride, but they are not readily distinguished from the others, Plasti-Kote said.

Thousands Seek Shelter In Massive Peru Quake

LIMA (UPI) — Authorities said today dozens of persons died and thousands were injured by an earthquake that jolted Peru's central coast, pushed back Pacific Ocean waters and demolished adobe huts and brick buildings.

Rescue workers provided temporary shelters and supplies today for tens of thousands of persons left homeless by the tremor that shook Lima for more than two minutes Thursday, sending thousands of panicked residents into the streets.

Casualty figures from police, hospitals and civil defense centers totaled 44 dead, more than 2,000 injured and an estimated 70,000 homeless around Lima alone.

THE MILITARY government of President Juan Velasco Ivarado, marking its sixth anniversary in office today, met in emergency session late Thursday to coordinate rescue operations.

The National Geophysical Institute said the epicenter of the earthquake was in the Pacific Ocean 30 to 50 miles southwest of Lima. The tremor registered 7.8 on the 10-point Richter scale.

It shook the capital of 3.5 million persons violently for two minutes and 15 seconds and was felt in Lima more strongly than a 1970 quake that devastated the northern half of the country and left 67,000 dead.

Peru, situated on one of the largest geological faults in the world, experiences same 200 earth tremors a year, most of them too small to be felt by all except the most sensitive instruments.

FIFY PERCENT OF the houses in large suburbs of Lima like Chorillos and Molinas were reported destroyed or heavily damaged.

"Chorillos is like a devastated city," a photographer said.

The earthquake struck at 9:21 a.m. PDT and was felt in the heart of the Andes Mountains at Cuzco, 350 miles away.

In small cities to the South, like Canete, Incan Chinca, hundreds of old adobe homes were reduced to rubble.

The waters receded 150 yards from the coast in the southern port of Pisco and in Callao, overturning or beaching fishing boats and a freighter.

Pregnant Bookkeeper Flees From Kidnapers

Betty Ison, 21, whose baby is due in five weeks, pulled off her ropes and walked out of the room five hours after the robber and his accompolice abandoned her.

The FBI said it was looking for James Herbert Fultz, 45, and Raymond Clifford Hall, 29, both from Kentucky, who were charged today in the $14,000 robbery of the Peoples Bank of Sandy Hook, Ky., 160 miles south of here.

THE TWO MEN were charged previously in a Sept. 6 bank robbery in Salt Lick, Ky., the FBI said.

Mrs. Ison was abducted at lunchtime Thursday from the Sandy Hook bank by a gunman.

A cousin in Columbus said Mrs. Ison told police that two men left her in a small motel room on the city's south side about seven hours after the robbery.

Mrs. Robert Fraley said her cousin told police the men tied her and warned her not to attempt to escape. About five hours later she walked out of the room and told her story to the motel manager, who called police.

Mrs. Ison told police she was "treated very well." She declined a medical examination, police said.

U.S. Summary

Frost reached into the South today and residents of central New York were without electricity following a record-breaking snowfall which dumped as much as eight inches in some areas of the state.

Freezing cold wreached into Georgia and the Carolinas. Frost or freeze warnings were posted from the northern two-thirds of Georgia and the interior portions of the Carolinas northward into Massachusetts and the inland portions of Rhode Island and northeastern Ohio.

Freezing temperatures also were expected in eastern New York and scattered light frost was predicted for eastern Kentucky and frost or freezing temperatures were forecast for eastern Tennessee.

About 5,000 customers were still without electrical power Thursday night in central New York state following record-breaking October snowfalls which closed schools and made highways a nightmare.

The National Weather Service said snow depths ranged from three inches in downtown Syracuse to eight inches in some Syracuse suburbs.

Many schools were closed and power lines were downed by the heavy snow.

More than 10,000 customers of the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. had service disrupted by the Wednesday night-Thursday morning storm and workmen spent the day tending to downed lines and attempting to restore power to areas completely blacked out by the storm.

California

Continued mild temperatures and generally fair weather will prevail over Southern California through the weekend, except for low clouds during the night and early morning over coastal areas.

The National Weather Service predicted that the high in downtown Los Angeles, which reached 72 Thursday will continue in the 70s.

Elsewhere, highs will be in the 70s in coastal sections, in the low 80s in inland valleys, in the 60s in the mountains and in the 80s and 90s in the deserts.

Overnight lows will range from the 30s and 40s in the mountains to the 50s at the beaches.

New York Erotic Circus Debuts

NEW YORK (AP) — A disco-cabaret called the Erotic Circus made its debut with simulated sex on stage, strobe-lit dancers and peanut shells underfoot.

"This is the biggest dance hall in the world," proclaimed its owner, Jerry Brandt, who said he has sunk $300,000 in the venture.

Invitations to the Thursday night debut in the renovated ballroom of an aging Manhattan hotel urged "elegant" dress, and the hundreds of curious who climbed two flights of stairs to the hall wore everything from feathers to frocks.

If anyone was turned on by the pounding, music, the flashing lights or the performers on stage, however, he or she kept it private.

DESPITE NEIGHBORS' fears that the dim West Side street will get noisy and dangerous, the 2,400-capacity disco opens to the public tonight with a $5 admission charge and $1.50 for the cheapest drink.

To quell their fears, Brandt invited area residents Thursday and established a policy of free admission to senior citizens — anyone over 55.

"We're here tonight to find out exactly what his show consists of, and what's going to happen afterward," said one neighbor, actress Rohda Cranton.

Five minutes after the dance hall opened its doors, one of the waiters, or waitresses — they all wore black leotards and tights — spilled a tray of New York State champagne inside the entrance. But no one seemed to mind.

There was Adrian, a man who does a dance of seven veils. There was Mr. Jiggs, a chimpanzee with fingers that like to pinch. There were Lillian and Karen, too, who wore, respectively, flesh-colored tights and a coral camisole while undulating together on the stage.

CHARGES DROPPED
Attorney Bugliosi

Bugliosi's Out; Shinn Trial Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A defense attorney in the 1970 Charles Manson case is scheduled to stand trial for perjury though similar charges against Manson prosecutor since Bugliosi have been dismissed.

On Thursday, special prosecutor Theodore Shield said he had decided to proceed with a Nov. 18 trial for Daye Shinn, the Manson defense attorney.

Shinn was indicted with Bugliosi on charges they lied by denying they gave newsman Bill Farr information for a story during the Manson trial while a judge's gag order was in effect.

Shield dropped the charges against Bugliosi Thursday, saying Farr's refusal to testify had "dealt a fatal blow" to his case.

But he moved to proceed against Shinn, again raising the possibility that Farr will be asked on the witness stand to name the sources for his news account.

The Los Angeles Times reporter spent 46 days in jail and faces five more for contempt because he refused Superior Judge Charles Older's request to supply the names.

11 Arrested In Airport Pot Raids

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sheriff's deputies arrested 11 men and seized more than a ton of marijuana worth about $1 million in a series of raids at Mojave Desert air strips and in suburban El Monte, authorities said.

Officials said Thursday the raids culminated a two-month undercover investigation.

Booked for investigation of state and federal narcotics laws violations were:

Jon C. Phillips, 29, Manhattan Beach; William A. Serantoni, 25, North Hollywood; John A. Reuck, 28, Lakewood; Gerald D. Hong, 45, Arcadia; Robert L. Pruitt, 57, Alhambra; Karl D. Peterson, 25, Davis, and Darla L. Jenkins, 28, Philip M. Bourchier 27, and Dwayne D. Walker, 23, all of Modesto.

Also, Neil L. Temple, Orangeville, Utah, and Glenn A. Lemaster, 28, Gresham, Ore.

Authorities said the raids were carried out Wednesday.

Four persons were arrested at Fox Field near Lancaster, five others at an airstrip on a dry lake bed in San Bernardino County and two more after they landed at El Monte Airport, trailed by deputies in another plane.

Smog Bad For Folks –LA Study

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Smog is bad for people, a $230,000 study financed by the California Air Resources Board says.

A state official said the 177-page report released Thursday on laboratory produced and regulated smog is one of the first to pin down the health effects of smog in scientific terms.

Among the major conclusions, the report said air pollution equal to second and third smog alert levels produces "significant decrement in pulmonary function, symptons sufficient to restrict normal activity, and oxidative changes in erythrocytes."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A $2.8 million suit was filed against a San Francisco book publisher on behalf of a 12-year-old girl who thought she was going to be in the movies, but instead wound up on the cover of a book about marijuana with a cigarette butt in her mouth.

Lillian Haddad was only seven when a photographer approached her in Golden Gate Park and asked her if she wanted to be in films, said her mother, Emily Fagell.

"SHE WAS thrilled, of course, and so she said 'Yes,' and th man started taking pictures," said Marvin E. Lewis, Mrs. Fagell's attorney.

Straight Arrow Books, Inc. published a book entitled "A Connoisseur's Handbook on Marijuana." On the cover was a picture of Lillian, a cigarette butt in her mouth.

Near the picture, said the suit, was a caption that read:

"The danger in illegalizing marijuana is that you make criminals out of the most intelligent, sensitive people in the country" — Allen Ginsberg.

LEWIS' SUIT, filed in Superior Court Thursday, contends Straight Arow — a branch of Rolling Stone magazine — has "disgraced" both Lillian and her mother, causing Mrs. Fagell to suffer "hatred, ridicule and obloquy, causing her to be shunned and voided."

LA Streak Disruptive

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Robert Opel, 33, who streaked the Academy Awards this year, was found innocent Thursday of indecent exposure for doing the same thing to a city council meeting.

But a municipal court jury found Opel guilty on charges of disrupting a public meeting. Opel appeared in the buff during a heated council debate over allowing nudity on public beaches.

Police Chief Jailing 'Loose' Illegal Aliens

KERMAN (UPI) — Saying he was afraid "they will kill themselves or local citizens if allowed to run wild loose," Kerman police chief Olen McDaniel has defended his policy of jailing illegal aliens and making them post a $65 bond.

McDaniel said Thursday his department's policy was to arrest illegal aliens who cannot properly identify themselves, put them in jail and then set them free if they post the $65 bond.

He said that in the past his department called border patrol agents and turned the illegal aliens over to them for deportation, but he said that policy was changed when area farmers complaining that the practice was depleting their work force.

Playgirl Subject Suing

APPLE VALLEY (AP) — Playgirl Magazine nude centerfold Lou Zivkovich says "I don't have any regrets over" posing in the nude — even though he's been fired and his wife is angry with him.

He plans to sue Playgirl, whose June unfolding described him as a "superbly trim 33" and then let the reader make up her mind by showing him in full frontal view.

With not a fig leaf in sight.

"I don't have any regrets over posing but I wish the article had been done in better taste," he sighed, adding that he was soon off to a meeting with his lawyers.

"I've got three lawyers for two different cases," he declared. One suit is aimed at Playgirl, which couldn't be reached for comment. The other is aimed at his ex-employers.

So far, he says, he doesn't need a third attorney for his wife. But he adds, she "is not too pleased with the whole thing."

The Price Looks High

Unanswered questions are posed by proposed development of the 10,000 acre Moulton Ranch — a project which will have a profound influence on surrounding Saddleback, Laguna Niguel and Laguna Beach communities.

A major concern is the absence of hard data on what it will cost taxpayers to cope with these developments.

Will all major roads, new schools, flood control, sewage treatment and police and fire facilities come from taxpayers' pockets?

Assumptions have been made which should not have been. One is the proposed road system, a system the county road department says does not exist and may never exist.

Forecast but unresolved traffic congestion wrought by the 31,000 population foreseen for the area hangs like a sword.

At public meetings, spokesmen declare either Saddleback or Laguna is "going to have to bite the bullet," and put up with the congestion.

That's another question: Does anyone really have to bite the bullet?

'Supercity' Again

San Clemente city officials sent up a balloon recently in an effort to elevate the "supercity" concept along the South Coast, and one has to wonder how well the signal will soar.

The idea, broached then buried four years ago, involves the potential merger of two cities and two county-controlled communities into one municipality.

The cities are San Clemente and San Juan Capistrano, plus unincorporated Dana Point and Capistrano Beach.

Although the concept is engaging, past experience has proved that traditional rivalries and bitterness are too strong among communities along the South Coast.

Every major annexation by a city and every attempt at possible incorporation of county areas has spawned open hostility in the past.

Perhaps a secondary suggestion aired during discussion of the supercity at a recent session of San Clemente and San Juan councilmen may have merit, however.

The suggestion calls for the sharing of costly and specialized equipment between the two cities, and delegates at the joint session agreed that such a move could at least be a modest beginning. We agree.

Designing Protection

At first glance it may have appeared odd for the Laguna Beach City Council to have requested that the planning commission undertake a study of ways of preventing burglaries.

But the commission can, through its powers to regulate building codes and set standards for residential development, have a great deal of influence in stopping burglars before they get in the door or through the window.

Laws are enacted to protect the health, safety and welfare of the citizens. Protecting trees, requiring landscaping and measuring building height have been seen as a commission duty. What about the very real peril to life and property that burglary poses?

Laguna Beach Police Chief Frank Schopen noted recently, "Crime is on the rise and law enforcement has not solved it. Most departments know at this time we can't win the battle alone. Therefore, it's prevention."

CIA Expert Trained Chileans

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — International Telephone and Telegraph dispatched one of America's top bugging experts into the homes and government palace of Chilean president Salvador Allende in 1971.

The alleged purpose of this mysterious mission was to "debug" Allende's rooms and to train Chilean police and army men in electronic de-bugging techniques. Interestingly, it was the military which later overthrew Allende.

The visit of master-bugger John Ragan came as ITT, the CIA and the U.S. Embassy in Santiago were busily seeking information to help them get the socialist Allende out of office. Allende was nationalizing American companies in Chile, including ITT.

RAGAN, an ex-FBI electronic specialist, is best known as the man called in by the White House "plumbers" to bug the home of columnist Joseph Kraft. But in the "business," Ragan is respected as an awesome pro: a specialist called in to de-bug the quarters of such notables as Richard Nixon, former Attorney General John Mitchell, Charles "Bebe" Rebozo and others.

On his trip to turbulent Chile, Ragan took along a load of "offensive" bugging equipment. Secret Watergate documents show he was accompanied down by ITT's assistant security director, Russell Tagliareni.

THE DOCUMENTS reveal that Ragan stayed in Chile from April 28, 1971, to May 5, 1971, and was paid $200 a day by ITT. While there, Ragan, at the invitation of the army and police, entered Allende's homes at Valparaiso and Santiago, and his presidential palace.

According to Ragan, he and Allende once sat down and had coffee. There the Chilean leader learned that Ragan worked for ITT. Ragan describes the conversation as "cordial."

No one seems to know why ITT, a relentless enemy of Allende's, was allowed in his dwellings, much less why the Chilean president let an ITT agent conduct "electronic sweeps" of his rooms at a time when planting of bugs was widely feared in Chile. Allende cannot explain: He died from gunshot wounds in the coup.

But as we reported on March 21, 1972, ITT had made approaches "to select members of the Armed Forces in an attempt to have them lead some sort of uprising" in late 1970, only a few months before ITT and the Chilean army helped arrange Ragan's visit.

THE ITT electronics mission is even more puzzling in view of a secret ITT memo dated Sept. 29, 1970, from ITT Vice President E. J. Gerrity to ITT President Harold Geneen. In the memo, Gerrity advises "We should withdraw all technical help (to Chile) and should not promise any technical assistance in the future."

Yet, within months, ITT's deputy security chief and its $200-a-day electronics consultant were dispatched to give "technical assistance" to the army, police and to at least one Chilean telephone company official.

Through a trusted intermediary, we have been given a summary of Ragan's notes on the visit. They do not shed much light on the subject, but simply tell of meetings with the Chilean police and army officials. Some of them appear to be in code.

AFTER the Chilean excursion, Ragan continued to have high-paying dealings with ITT. His private logs show such curious listings as "6/2/71 — ITT test hi-power tmitter. . . 6/7/71—ITTw/tmitter. . .6/10/71—Call Jack Caulfield. . ." "Tmitter," in this case, is a tiny bugging transmitter. And Caulfield was the White House dirty trickster of the Watergate era.

Ragan also ran an ITT de-bugging seminar and has done de-bugging work for Geneen and lesser ITT officials such as Dita Beard, John Ryan and William Marriam.

Footnote: Ragan spoke with my associate Les Whitten at length. The "tmitter" was used only at the seminar, he said, not for bugging. The Chilean mission, he insisted, was "open and above board" and no bugs were planted while in Chile, nor were any found. The bugs he took with him, he said, were left in Chile only for training purposes.

The Issue Is Far From Closed

Nixon Will Be Heard From Again

RICHARD WILSON

WASHINGTON — It should be borne in mind that Herbert Hoover lived articulately into his 90s, some 30 years beyond his moment of greatest political distress. Harry Truman rose from the lowest state of political disregard to high esteem upon his death.

This is not to say that Richard M. Nixon will someday be elevated to the pantheon of revered past presidents, but it is to say that those who think the Nixon issue will go away are fooling themselves. It will be with us for many years.

There are even now enough people who think that Nixon's offenses, while regrettable, were justifiable under the circumstances and in the whole context of his presidency. Among them are those who thought he should have resigned and those who thought he should not have.

THESE PEOPLE, while now in a minority, number into the millions and thus are not an inconsiderable part of the aware public. They cannot, furthermore, be shouted down by the roaring disapproval of the ex-President's pardon, nor the continuing cry for the last drop of his blood and the death-wish reports of his illness.

A decent assumption based upon Nixon's past record can be made that Nixon will survive this period of great physical and mental stress, with the usual caveat that death can come to any man at any time. If he so survives, at least a decade is left to him of alert physical and mental response, and maybe much more.

The practical meaning of the pardon, therefore, is that Richard M. Nixon, admitting no guilt, is free to use his unquestioned talents not only to rehabilitate himself as best he can but to encourage the nascent belief that he was hounded out of office by cruel and implacable enemies with no regard for the long-range interests of the nation.

SOME SUCH intuition may lie beneath the ferocity of the continuing attack on Nixon and on President Ford for having pardoned Nixon. The tone of this attack clearly seeks to establish the historical base that Nixon's offenses were so enormous that they threatened the continuance of free government, for which he should have been made to pay by public trial, conviction and sentence to prison, even if he never served a day.

More mature consideration may focus on the hysterical exaggeration of such conclusions, taking into consideration that the chief impeachable offense, Article I of the Bill of Impeachment, grew from a ludicrous act about which Nixon knew nothing in advance, the placing of a listening device on the telephone of the Democratic National Chairman during a political campaign.

Assuming Nixon's survival, those who think he will crawl back into a luxurious hole somewhere to live on his pension and brood himself into his grave must be ignoring his record. They would do better to recognize the tone of his public apology, with its intimation of penance to be followed by resurgence.

NIXON will write. In time he will probably talk. In time those who transgressed with him, and still think they did no wrong, will have paid the legal price, and they will talk and write.

Without the complete and utter destruction of these men the innate sense of a good many millions that justice was not done could not be wholly stifled. There will long be those wondering why equal justice under law should send John Ehrlichman to prison while Daniel Ellsberg goes free, or hold Nixon liable for shielding a political scandal not of his own making.

All such moral and ethical problems would have been wrapped into a horrific bundle and cast into the vaults of history by the criminal conviction of Nixon. The end would have been written in a different way than President Ford tried to write it. A judgment so conclusive would have been rendered against the Nixon era that history could never challenge it.

BUT it is not to be that way. President Ford could not write the end to Watergate. The House Judiciary Committee could not do so, however persuasive President Ford might have found its unanimous action. And the courts will not be permitted to do so.

This is not because the events and actions did not take place. It is because the gravity and import of those actions and the circumstances under which they took place are seen in different ways by different people. At the moment, the most furious of the critics are acting as if their case may be slipping out of their hands and so have renewed their fury lest the future should forget.

To the Editor:

I've been reading with interest and dismay about the Mexican-Americans complaining about the new TV series, "Chico and the Man." They say it is demeaning, belittling, etc. The episodes I've seen so far has Chico far in the lead over the bumbling white garage owner. I don't recall blacks screaming about "Sanford and Son" or "Good Times." I just don't get it.

STANFORD University had to change their "Indians" to "Cardinals" some time back. Why didn't the Indians push to change the Cleveland Indians to something else? Aha! I've got the answer. The San Francisco and New York Giants should get large complaints from the midgets of our country.

Let's rename all the ball clubs: The Los Angeles Ewes, the New England Revolutionaries, The Atlanta Doves, the Miami Minnows, the Detroit Mice. The Cincinnati Reds (who years ago tried Redlegs, but to no avail) should be re-named the Right-Wingers. How about the New Orleans Sinners? The New York Props? The Denver or Baltimore Shetland Ponies? Buffalo Williams? Philadelphia Sparrows? The list could go on and on.

We are living in a time of absurdity and nit-picking.

Noise Battle

To the Editor:

Your Sunday, Sept. 30 feature on noise pollution relates to a battle waged for a year now by families here in Fountain Valley against noise pollution in Mile Square Regional Park.

WHEN MODEL airplane clubs were ousted by construction from isolated fields along Harbor Boulevard in Costa Mesa, they laid claim to an area in the heart of Mile Square Park. The noise they produce there is not only an affront to the noise control standards of Mile Square's host city, Fountain Valley, the noise also degrades the recreational environment of the park. Picnicking families, golfers and neighboring residents complain about the buzz-saw noise which rasps day-long from 9 am to 7 pm. In terms of total park usage, the modelers are a very small percentage of the public who want to enjoy the park, yet the modelers persist in annoying people who come to the park to escape the motorized noise of our mechanized world.

THIS SITUATION shows the inadequacy of linking noise pollution standards only to decibel levels. The noise of model planes, motorcycles, saws and other noise sources do not necessarily produce high decibel levels — but their noise is psychologically very annoying because of its frequency and pitch.

Give the motorcyclists, modelers and others who need noise to have fun their own isolated area where they can't bother the majority of people who just want to relax in some peace and quiet.

Rape Interest

To the Editor:

I am writing to protest the lack of coverage given the conference on rape sponsored by the Golden West College—American Association of University Women in your newspaper.

Over 300 women attended the daylong event highlighted by state Sen. Alan Robbins' remarks in the late afternoon.

The women of Orange County are interested in events of this nature, not just weddings, luncheons and fashion shows!

Funeral Alternatives

To the Editor:

Many years ago, so the story goes, a new steak house opened its doors in Kansas City, an area long noted for its fine steaks. Before long they were outselling all their competitors. When asked to explain the secret behind this fantastic success, the owner replied, "I buy the same beef everyone else does. The only difference is that when I serve a steak the customer gets it on a sizzling hot platter. Hell, man, I'm not selling steaks — I'm selling the sizzle."

THAT STORY popped into my mind when I read Tom Barley's article titled "The Viking Way" in the Sunday, September 29, edition of the Pilot. The quoted comments of a representative of the Neptune Society implied that their founder, Dr. Charles W. Denning, Jr., was unique in feeling it "was high time someone offered an alternative to the costly, involved mortuary-funeral-cemetery system that today is costing families at least $2,000."

The fact is that Neptune is too closely patterned after Telophase to be coincidental. Dr. Thomas B. Weber, entrepreneur in the field of bypassing the mortuary by providing direct cremation, founded Telophase in 1971. And, he readily declares, his brain child was conceived when he was a member of the non-profit San Diego Memorial Society. Founded in 1958, this is one of a number of such non-profit organizations located throughout the state, of which the Tri-County Memorial Funeral Society in Orange County is one. Together they comprise the California Federation of Memorial and Funeral Societies, which functions largely in the capacity of legislative watchdog in Sacramento.

THESE societies, by seeking out and contracting with selected funeral directors, those with a social awareness and a willingness to meet community needs, provide their members with a full range of mortuary service from which to choose. No "sizzle" in the form of a 100' ocean going vessel is offered, but immediate cremation with scattering at sea costs $215, and a traditional funeral can be had for $395.

We felt your readers should know that we have been serving the community since 1961, by providing this alternative to expensive funerals.

ALLACE KUNZ, Secretary
Tri-County Memorial Funeral Society

Essays on T. S. Eliot

THE BOOKMAN

T. S. Eliot, the seventh volume in the Contemporary Studies in Literature Series by McGraw-Hill Paperbacks ($1.95), presents nine critical essays on one of the key poets of the twentieth century, along with an extensive bibliography.

Edited by Linda W. Wagner, it contains essays by such figures as Arthur Mizener, whose introduction to the poet, "To Meet Mr. Eliot" is one of the best ever written. Subsequent chapters include an article by Leonard Unger — a critic whose work on Eliot has always been admired for its sanity; Ezra Pound's note on the 1917 Prufrock & Other Poems; Bernard Bergonzi and Helen Gardner's essays on Eliot's early poems; M. L. Rosenthal's contribution, placing The Wasted Land in a new perspective — as an "open," suggestive poem; Daniel R. Schwarz's question on the accepted reading of "Gerantion"; William T. Moynihan's direction for much of Four Quartets.

Professor of English at Michigan State University, Linda Wagner has published two books on William Carlos Williams, and studies of Ernest Hemingway, William Faulkner, Denise Levertov, and Phyllis McGinley. She is currently completing a study of contemporary poetics.

Health Members Dropped

SANTA ANA — The Orange County Health Planning Council, which will undergo a radical membership change next month, has already dropped 12 of its 74 members for non-attendance of meetings.

Last week, the controversial panel dropped two of its member-critics, Santa Ana clinic owner Dr. Louis Cella and Municipal Court Judge Paul Mast.

This week, the ousted members included Josie Hernandez and Walter Evans.

Stanley Matek, executive director of the planning unit, said Cella and Mast attended only two of the council's eight meetings so far this year.

Both men have raised objections to the council's activities, leading in turn to sanctions against the panel by the county Board of Supervisors.

Mast and Cella were appointed to the council by Supervisors Ralph Clark and Robert Battin, respectively, who are the council's biggest detractors on the board.

On Nov. 26, the planning council will undergo major revisions that will include a reduction in membership to 27.

A special assembly of delegates will pick 23 of the members and the other four will include a supervisor, a physician, a hospital administrator and a representative of the Orange County League of Cities.

The rearrangement already has triggered heated criticism from supervisors, who now hold sway over at least 15 appointees to the council.

'Red Flag' Fire Alert Prepared

ORANGE — Orange County fire and forestry officials are readying this year's "Red Flag Alert" citizen warning system in preparation for autumn's fire-spawning Santa Ana winds.

When the hot, dry winds are predicted by the weatherman, the red flag system goes into effect.

During such an alert, the fire department activates patrols in critical fire areas such as Laguna Canyon, Santa Ana Canyon and Carbon Canyon.

Red flags are flown from all fire stations and fire vehicles and an information center is set up at the department headquarters in Orange.

"When a Red Flag Alert is in effect, we ask that radio stations and television stations announce the extremely critical fire danger and for everyone to use utmost caution with fire," said department information officer Bruce Turbeville.

"If a major fire should occur, the media may be asked to advise all off-duty firemen to return to their stations," Turbeville said.

The Red Flag Alert concept was initiated during the latter part of the 1973 fire season. Turbeville said it appeared to be successful because there were no major fires during the alert period.

"The concept of an alert system is to discover and prevent fires at an early stage," he said.

Tacoma Rabbit Chased Dogs

Am asked the whereabouts now of that once-famqus rabbit that chased dogs. Gone to his Maker, no doubt. Can't even report the whereabouts now of said rabbit's owner, Mr. Clifford Bach, once of Tacoma, Wash. Early in World War II, the rabbit Peter, then age 10, was pursued under a house by a passing pup. In a fit of anquish, Peter kicked rocks at the dog, startling it into flight. A fast learner, the rabbit gave chase. Thereafter, it imposed its remarkable will on just about every canine in the neighborhood, racing after them at random. How that particular Peter rabbit finally met its end I do not know and am afraid to guess.

Q. "WHAT are the chances of throwing a seven or an 11 on the first roll of the dice?"

A. A seven, one chance in six. An 11, one chance in 18.

COFFEE

The record shows that Persian Sultan Selim I hanged two doctors simply because they advised him to stop drinking so much coffee . . . MAYBE you already suspected what the psychology experts say they've now proved. Namely, that men are less moody than women . . . THOSE SPORTS statisticians report the pheasant hunter pays an average of $18 for each such bird he kills now.

IT IS THE YOUNGSTER who started smoking before age 14 who has so much more trouble trying to quit later on. About twice as much trouble, in fact, as the smoker who began at an older age. Or so contends a scholar who has looked into the matter.

TITLES

Long before the Women's Libbers created "Ms." pronounced "Miz," that old cynic Ambrose Bierce wrote: "Miss is a title with which we brand unmarried women to indicate that they are in the market. Miss, Missis (Mrs.) and Mister (Mr.) are the three most distinctly disagreeable words in the language, in sound and sense. Two are corruptions of Mistress, the other of Master. In the general abolition of social titles in this our county, they miraculously escaped to plague us. If we must have them, let us be consistent and give one to the unmarried man. I venture to suggest Mist. Abbreviated to Mst."

A BABY'S BRAIN is about 15 percent of said baby's overall size. But a grownup's brain is only 2.5 percent of that grownup's overall size. Got that?

Transport Study Due In Month

SANTA ANA — The Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG) will unveil the first draft of its $13.7 million regional transportation study Nov. 6.

The regional plan, which has been in the development process for nearly two years, must still undergo about five more months of workshops, study sessions and public hearings before it can be adopted.

TAD WIDBY, SCAG's assistant director oftr ansportation planning, said the $13.7 million spent so far on the plan included participation by numerous governmental agencies. Nearly $300,000 in Orange County government funds went into the plan.

The plan's adoption process will include public workshops in each of the six SCAG counties and two public hearings in Los Angeles on Dec. 9 and Jan. 15.

It will examine various modes of travel, including cars, buses, trains, airplanes and mass rapid transit vehicles, according to Widby.

It is also expected to outline alternatives involving construction of new highways and airports that will include a "no construction recommended" alternative.

"OUR FIRST hearing will look at the choices before us and the consequences of those choices," he said.

The first public hearing will be devoted to considering complaints and objections to the preliminary draft of the plan. The second hearing will involve incorporation of county plans into a final document.

Widby said final adoption of the plan is expected at the SCAG general meeting of Feb. 13 or March 13.

Receiver Gets County Jail Term

SANTA ANA — A Costa Mesan arrested after he allegedly paid an undercover Huntington Beach officer $275 for a consignment of stolen guns and television sets has been sentenced to six months in Orange County Jail.

Superior Court Judge Everett E. Dickey ordered the jail term and three years probation after Hans Joachim Schroeder, 32, of 3367 Wisteria Circle, pleaded guilty to charges of receiving stolen property.

The German-born defendant was arrested last Feb. 1 at his place of employment in Costa Mesa after what police said was a long investigation of his activities.

A Huntington Beach officer testified that he was present when Schroeder accepted and paid for a rifle, six hand guns and two television sets.

Countians Warned to Brace For Invasion of New Flu

SANTA ANA — Orange County will be invaded this year by a new strain of influenza that could be as widespread and virulent as the London flu of two years ago, county health officers have predicted.

More than 38,000 doses of flu vaccine will be made available at special clinics over the next two months for senior citizens or people with chronic diseases who can't fully resist the effects of the disease.

County health officials have labeled this year's flu "Port Chalmers Type A," which has been characterized as a fast-moving and highly contagious flu bacteria.

MOST HEALTHY adults and children have strong body defenses that can shake off the disease after a few days of illness so health officials are discouraging flu shots in those cases.

But people over 65 and those with respiratory or heart ailments can develop serious complications from the flu.

The flu vaccination is in the form of a single shot and cannot be administered to anyone who is allergic to eggs, health officials said. The vaccine is made from infected chicken egg albumen..

In addition to the group-sponsored clinics listed below, immunizations will be available this month and during November at the county Health Department in Santa Ana from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and Tuesdays from 5 to 7:30 p.m.

THE HEALTH department annex at 1011 S. East St. in Anaheim will be open Mondays from 1 to 4 p.m. and Fridays from 8 to 11 a.m. All county-sponsored clinics are free of charge but some of the others may ask for donations of $1.

Orange Coast clinics and dates include:

Child Abuse Sends Pair To Prison

SANTA ANA — A San Clemente man has been sent to state prison and his wife ordered to serve a 60-day Orange County Jail term after separate Superior Court actions on child abuse charges filed last Dec. 19.

Judge Raymond Vincent ordered a state prison term of one to 10 years for Johnnie Bernell Lessley, 21, after a jury found him guilty of mistreatment of a child likely to produce injury or death and assault with force.

Karras Permanent

He'll Be Monday TV Game Regular

By FRANK S. SWERTLOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — Football funnyman Alex Karras, clearing himself of any involvement in a sports betting sheet, has been signed as a permanent member of the ABC-Sports broadcast team for the Monday night NFL games.

Karras, the ex-Detroit Lions lineman, had been appearing as a guest announcer on the game for three weeks.

KARRAS WILL join Howard Cosell and Frank Gifford "immediately" as the third member of the team. Karras replaces Fred "The Hammer" Williamson.

TV REVIEW

Karras had been suspended by the NFL for the 1963 season for betting on games. A spokesman for the NFL said Thursday the league would have "no comment" on the signing.

ABC acknowledged the signing of Karras was delayed while the network investigated the former University of Iowa All-American's involvement with a New York-based sheet, "Winning Action."

ROONE ARLEDGE, president of ABC-Sports, said, "It's no secret that one reason for our delay was his previous association with a publication specializing in information on NFL football games, which is useful in gambling.

"Before we could consider him, we had to be assured that he totally severed any connection with this or any publication of a similar nature.

"I have been assured by Alex, his attorney and the publishers of the magazine that Alex voluntarily decided to terminate that association and is no longer affiliated with it."

ACCORDING TO Jack Cohen, the publisher of "Winning Action," Karras asked to be let out of his contract with the tip sheet last July.

Cohen said the agreement was reached "more or less", three weeks ago. "Winning Action" had been called "Alex Karras' Winning Action."

Tom Vance, Karras' spokesman, said in an interview three weeks ago that "Winning Action" bought the former footballer's name "like any other endorsement. He had nothing to do with it. He couldn't pick a team if his life depended on it."

KARRAS'S COMMENTARY during his three appearances was marked by a series of humorous exchanges with Cosell as well as some astute analysis of key plays. He has appeared in several films, most notably "Paper Lion" and "Blazing Saddles."

Although the ABC game has been successful in the past, especially with Don Meredith as a commentator, the program is running behind CBS in the Monday night ratings. "Maude," "Rhoda" and "Medical Center" are in the lead.

Arms, Legs Bound

LaLanne Finishes Swim at Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Despite pesky sharks and treacherous waters, physical culturist Jack LaLanne, his hands and legs shackled, celebrated his 60th birthday by swimming from Alcatraz Island to San Francisco.

"It was doggone rough out there," LaLanne said Thursday after completing the two-mile swim at the city's Aquatic Park in an hour and 26 minutes. "But nobody was going to pull me out of there — not even with a boat hook."

LA LANNE'S hands were handcuffed, his legs shackled with a chain, and as an added handicap, a 1,000-pound boat was tied to a belt on his waist by a rope.

Sheriff's deputies accompanied him in another boat to ward off sharks. LaLanne said they spotted two about 20 feet away.

BUT THE MOST serious threat came when the current pushed LaLanne into a pier as he was completing the swim. The boat he was pulling got tangled and it looked for a moment that someone would have to go to his rescue.

But LaLanne refused all aid, and in about six minutes pulled himself free and completed the swim.

"It is a dream come true," LaLanne said. "I never had any doubts that I would make it. But the tides are so tricky, it adds a little glamor to it."

WHAT STUNTS will he do in the future?

"For my 61st birthday, I'm going to do something in New York harbor, but I won't say what. For my 62nd, I'm going to take 200 rocks in a rocking chair.

"I'm just going to try to keep proving my philosophy. I just want to get more people to eat and exercise better."

Different Beat

Bandleader Lyle C. "Skitch" Henderson has asked for dismissal of tax evasion charges against him on grounds that similar allegations against former President Richard Nixon were not prosecuted.

2 Arrested In Rape, Robbery

FAIRFIELD (UPI) — Two suspects were in custody today following the robbery of a tavern and the kidnap-rape of a cocktail waitress.

The suspects were Dennis R. Peterson, 20, and Donald D. Holmes, 18, both of Sacramento, police said Thursday.

Police said two men, one carrying a shotgun, held up the Skylane Club shortly before midnight Wednesday. They took $200 in cash and a 38-year-old hostess at gunpoint. The woman was raped and was released near Vacaville.

Early Exit

Actress Named in Suit

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Actress Shirley MacLaine's one-night stand in the second performance of her "If They Could See Me Now" revue has resulted in a $125,000 suit.

A local theater group, Virgina Entertainment Corp., brought suit here this week, charging the Hollywood actress broke her contract by her widely publicized departure from the week-long performance after only one show.

Miss MacLaine stormed out of the summer theater production in a feud with local officials over the sound system at the theater.

Her opening night performance at the city-operated theater had been marred by sound troubles so severe that she threatened not to go on with the second show.

WORK GOES ON AT NEW $5 MILLION BECKMAN FACILITY IN IRVINE
Employe Pours Liquid Nitrogen Into Tube Processing Apparatus

Beckman Instruments Opens Production Unit

Beckman Instruments, Inc., has moved into its newly-completed $5-million development and production facility in the Irvine Industrial Complex.

The 200,000-square foot plant houses Beckman's scientific instruments division which employs 550 people, most of who transferred from the company's Fullerton headquarters.

Dr. William F. Ballhaus, Beckman's president, said the new facility provides space for expansion of Beckman's Orange County operations and consolidation at Fullerton of activities which were conducted in leased facilities.

BECKMAN'S SCIENTIFIC istruments division developes and manufactures analytical instruments for medical research, clinical testing, drug screening, scientific and industrial research, and environmental pollution measurement and control.

Designed and built by the Austin Company, Beckman's two concrete and steel, air-conditioned buildings feature overhead utility services and an underfloor grid system for effluents.

According to William G. Newton, Beckman's director of manufacturing, the overhead services and underfloor grid system make the buildings truly flexible.

"IT IS POSSIBLE to convert wet labs to manufacturing or office areas, as operating requirements dictate," said Newton. "With changing technology, we can't be sure what our future space requirements will be for each function. We might need more manufacturing area and less space for offices. be a simple procedure with these buildings."

1974 marks Beckman's 20th year in Orange County. Founded in 1935 by its chairman, Dr. Arnold O. Beckman, of Corona del Mar, the company moved to its Fullerton headquarters in 1954. More than 3,500 of Beckman's 8,000 employes are located in Orange County.

In addition to corporate offices, Beckman's Fullerton plant houses the company's biological and fine chemicals, clinical instruments, process instruments and Helipot divisions and Beckman diagnostics operations. Other Orange County installations include the company's advanced technology operations, Anaheim, and Western regional sales headquarters in Buena Park.

Poor Catch Brunt Of Slumpflation

Who are America's poor in this era of slumpflation — in which business slump is coinciding with inflation to create an economic nightmare in our land?

—The elderly, the blacks, women heads of households. It is among these groups that poverty is most widespread as we approach the second half of the Sad Seventies. If two or more of these characteristics apply, the probability of poverty soars.

Money's Worth

AMONG ELDERLY black women, for instance, Fabian Linden of the Conference Board finds that four out of 10 qualify as poor. In contrast, the proportion of our total population qualifying as poor is one of every nine, or about 23 million.

—The uneducated. Three out of every 10 Americans who have not completed elementary school live in poverty. If the household is headed by a black woman and there are three or more children present, the likelihood is that more than seven out of 10 are living at substandard levels.

—Children. For the simple reasons that children make up so important a proportion of our entire population, more than 40 percent of all persons living at the poverty level are children. Persons over 65 represent under 15 percent of the poor.

ON TOP OF ALL the other consequences of spiraling living costs in a declining economy is the fact that slumpflation has slowed our progress toward eliminating poverty in America, Linden finds in a major study of the poor.

Most of the gains we show in comparison with the early 1960s were accomplished before 1968 and, Linden emphasizes, the lag since then goes "beyond the issue as to whether public policy has been sufficiently dedicated."

For one thing, as economic growth has become more sluggish, it has become tougher to pull up the underprivileged. For another, while inflation has slashed the real incomes of broad segments of the population, "inflation almost always hits the poor hardest," for many live on fixed incomes and are in jobs where wages do not not respond to rising living costs.

Then, there is the inescapable fact that as the proportion of Americans living in poverty shrinks, those of you who have the ability to work are most likely to improve your status. Those left at the poverty level increasingly become the "hard core."

HOW DO WE define "poverty?" By totaling up some elaborate measurements which dictate, for instance, that among perxons living alone the poor are those with incomes of less than $2,300. For a family of six, the "entrance" income is roughly $6,000. the figures are arbitrary and loaded with imperfections, but they do provide "reasonable benchmarks," Linden concqudes.

The point the Conference Board economist makes is that we're not only making slower progress toward eliminating poverty but we're also permitting the gap between the "haves" and "have nots" to widen in our society. As this occurs, it intensifies the sense of being deprived which the poor obviously have.

Also, poverty is being concentrated more and more among women, especially among young women with children.

One out of every three families headed by a woman is in the low-income brackets. The educational achievements of the poor female family head are modest. In the single-parent home, the mother often finds it hard to go to work and in the overwhelming majority of cases of the four out of 10 such women who do, it is part-time work only.

ONLY 7 PERCENT of these women are employed full-time and, when they are, they earn relatively low wages and have little left over after child care and other expenses. Their motivations are understandably very low.

Against this background, we must face the brutal probability that as the number of women under 35 grows rapidly -- and it will — progress toward controlling poverty among women will become harder to achieve. This, in turn, dramatizes a second fact that as poverty becomes more concentrated among these women, it will become, in Linden's words, "principally a social rather than an economic issue."

We'll not be able to duck the challenge so we had better tackle it. For the longer we delay, the more explosive the social problem will become and the more expensive will be any possible solution.

Composer's Gravesite Enshrined

NEW YORK (AP) — A grave that for years went unnoticed and unattended received a simple bronze plaque in an autumn chill. It belongs to Scott Joplin, the ragtime composer who died in 1917.

"The songwriters of America take care of their own," Walter Wager, public relations director of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP), said Thursday.

WITH MORE PUFFING than pomp, four workers at St. Michael's Cemetery in Queens lowered the plaque mounted on a rectangular cement block.

Until recently, they said, they had never heard of this kind of ragtime music, whose popularity has soared again through the soundtrack of the film, "The Sting."

Wager placed 18 white chrysanthemums on the grave in stark contrast to the overhead leaves of a chestnut tree and a maple tree that must have been mere sprouts 57 years ago.

"I knew there'd be a maple," he said, referring to Joplin's first big hit, in 1899, "The Maple Leaf Rag."

Wager said ASCAP spent $800 for perpetual upkeep of the plot and for the marker, which carries Joplin's name and reads: "American Composer, Nov. 24, 1868 - April 1, 1917."

Freshly raked but ragged, the plot lies between the granite headstones of a Mary Shrine and a Henry Appel. And the remains of four other individuals, their names hidden in the cemetery's old records, occupy graves beneath Joplin's.

Flights Dip At Air Cal For Month

Air California flew an estimated 37,902,700 revenue passenger miles in September compared to 38,197,400 in September 1973, a decrease of 0.8 percent.

Available seat miles for the Newport Beach-based carrier were up slightly to 57,903,000 in 1974 from 57,652,00 in 1973. Revenue passenger miles for the first nine months of 1974 were 396,773,400 vs. 337,447,600 in 1973 for a 17.6 percent increase, said Joseph E. Walker, assistant vice president-sales.

A total of 105,376 passengers were carried in its satellite markets during September, a decrease of 1.9 percent from last year.

Coast Award

Congressman Andrew Hinshaw announced the award of a Bureau of Mines contract to Ultrasystems, Inc. of Newport Beach. The award is for $139,608 and the work will be done at the Ultrasystems plant in Irvine.

SOUTH AMERICA'S VENEZUELA INCREASING EXPORT OIL TAX
Extra Cost to U.S. Oil Firms Will Go On to Consumer

Venezuela Increases Taxes on Export Oil

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Venezuela is raising the tax it collects on exported oil, and a spokesman says the increase will add $440 million to its oil earnings this year.

Mines and Hydrocarbons Minister Valentin Hernandez announced that the tax on oil produced in Venezuela, mostly by American companies, is being increased 41 cents a barrel — from $8.65 to $9.06 — retroactive to last Jan. 1.

THE COMPANIES include Shell, Gulf, Mobil, Texaco, Sun Oil and Exxon's Creole Petroleum.

Kuwait has taken a series of moves that will mean a net increase of 75 cents a barrel in the average cost of oil produced in the Persian Gulf sheikdom in the last quarter of this year by Gulf and British Petroleum, a Gulf spokeman announced in New York this week. The two companies account for the bulk of Kuwait's oil production.

Kuwait increased taxes and royalties on oil owned and sold by Gulf and BP, and decreased the price of government-owned oil that the companies must buy. However, the government required the companies to increase the amount of oil they buy. As a result, the government will collect an average cost of $9.44 a barrel.

HERNANDEZ SAID the Venezuelan increase was "aimed at checking the oil companies' excessive profits without increasing the export values." He said the oil companies "are not expected to pass on the new tax increase to consumers because they are being taxed for oil they already sold."

However, when the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries recommended a 3.5 percent increase in oil taxes last month at a meeting in Vienna, oil company representatives said the increase would be passed on because most contracts with consumers provide for that to be done automatically.

Cigarette Sales Up

Puffers Enjoying It More These Days

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ
Chronicle Features

The U.S. Surgeon General warned American smokers ten years ago that cigarettes are dangerous to their health. That was followed five years later by an outright ban on the promotion of cigarettes on radio and TV. Meanwhile, the price of smoking went up sharply as states and cities across the nation increased their taxes on tobacco.

Anti-smoking lobbies have also been effective in their efforts to segregate or ostracize smokers. Airplanes and railroad cars are now separated into smoking and non-smoking sections. Many doctors and dentists will not allow an ashtray in their waiting rooms. New York City has just outlawed smoking in elevators.

AND WHAT HAS been the result of this massive drive to curtail cigarette smoking? The Federal Trade Commission has just reported that cigarette consumption went up last year for the fifth consecutive year. And last year's increase of nearly four percent was the biggest jump since the Surgeon General's 1964 report.

American smokers puffed their way through 585 billion cigarettes last year.

Rather than shrinking, the cigarette market has been expanding, not just in sheer volume but in types of cigarettes and brands. Some of you may recall when the marketplace broke down simply into a choice of Camel, Lucky Strike, Chesterfield and Philip Morris. Today you are confronted with a bewildering variety of brands and each brand is likely to be splintered into different versions — menthol, low-tar-and-nicotine, long size.

A NUMBER OF new cigarette brands are being tested today in various parts of the county. In San Francisco, Philip Morris and Liggett & Myers are both trying to gain a toehold for an elegantly-packaged cigarette with an international aura. The brands are Philip Morris International, "the filter cigarette for people who live internationally," and St. Moritz, a filter with a gold band that is touted as "elegant, luxurious, supremely rich in taste." Both of these brands were introduced first outside the United States.

American Tobacco, the Lucky Strike-Pall Mall-Tareyton company, has yet to come up with a winner in the menthol category and it's trying again now with Super M. It's also marketing a brand called Safari.

Lorillard, whose mainstay is Kent, has Luke in the field. And Brown & Williamson, the British-owned company which makes Viceroys, Kools and Raleighs, is working the nostalgia route. It has brought into Fort Wayne, Ind., and Wichita, Kans., a new brand called Tramps — a cigarette whose package features a likeness of the "Little Tramp" character from the Charlie Chaplin movies.

Winston, the longtime top seller in the cigarette business, is about to be displaced by the surging Philip Morris brand, Marlboro, but R. J. Reynolds, the Winston maker is recouping smartly with Vantage, its major entry in the fastest-growing segment of the cigarette market: low-tar-and-nicotine brands.

WHEN HEALTH questions were first raised about cigarettes it touched off the movement to filter-tips. Now the swing is to cigarettes which have relatively low tar and nicotine levels.

Reynolds is riding this boom with Vantage, which jumped into 18th place in the sales standings in 1973. It increased its sales another 30 percent in the first half of 1974 to move up to 15th place.

In promoting Vantage, Reynolds is employing the same tactics it used to propel Winston to the top. It told smokers wary of filters that Winston allowed the taste to come through. It's now telling smokers who are worried about their health that most of the new low-tar-and-nicotine brands "taste like a lot of hot air." Vantage, claims Reynolds, cuts down on the tar and nicotine "without compromising flavor."

Martin Adds New Learjet To Fleet

Martin Aviation headquartered at Orange County Airport, has added a second Learjet to its fleet of charter aircraft, Ned Goodhue, chairman of the board, has announced.

The jet, valued at more than $1 million, is a six-passenger Lear 24D. In May, Martin added a Lear 25 — the first jet based at the Orange County Airport — to its fleet and became the first operator west of the Rockies to meet airline standards with the aircraft.

Goodhue said the Lear customers primarily have been medium and large corporations with a need to send top executives either to locations not conveniently served by airlines or on a fast trip to many cities.

Cal Data's 'Milestone'

Santa Ana-based California Data Processors has shipped its one thousandth core memory.

According to Ray Ball, president, the milestone was passed only eight months after the company began its first production year. He added that Cal Data had shipped 50 minicomputers in the same period of time.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Don't ask me why I smoke. Ask me why I smoke Winston.

I smoke Winston because I smoke for taste.
Taste is what smoking's all about.
And that's what Winston's all about:
real taste and real pleasure.
Smoking for any other reason is just playing games.
Winston is for real.

Home Team Advantage:

Mom on Sidelines

'Mike Ferraro scored from one yard out to cap a 28-yard march after Steve Marowitz set the Sea Kings up with a 44-yard return of an intercepted pass.'

Roger Carlson, writing in the Daily Pilot

By JO OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

If there is one person in the world without frustrations, it has to be Marie Ferraro of Corona del Mar.

She goes to so many football games—and yells for all she's worth—that she couldn't possibly have any pent-up feelings left.

On the other hand, with five men in her family playing football, there are bound to be moments when the tension is near the breaking point for her.

But Marie Ferraro takes it all in easy stride as she unpacks her thermos of coffee and settles down to watch her twin sons, Mike and Marty, play for the Corona del Mar High School Sea Kings.

She and her husband, Bob, a physical education teacher who now owns a health spa, never miss the high school games, and they join their daughter, Janean, to watch her husband, Bill Chapman play at Golden West College.

Also, they plan to travel to the University of the Pacific three times this season to see their son Bob's football team in action (he is a running back).

In addition, they spend Saturday mornings watching their youngest son, Vince, as he makes his debut with Junior All-American football.

As a capper, the Ferraros have season tickets to the Rams, but this is where Mrs. Ferraro bows out. She gladly lets her husband and sons go by themselves to watch the pros at work.

Mrs. Ferraro admits she is not an expert on the game, but her cheering is peppered with lively comments as her sons take to the field in jerseys with 22 and 44 across the back (Vince's number is 33).

"Come on Mike," she yells. "All right!

"Why is he going down the middle?

"Come on, Marty! Where is it (the ball)?"

All the while, she is keeping a watchful eye on Mike and Marty to see that they make it out of the pileup for the next play.

Injury has not plagued her family, for which she is thankful. Bob suffered a chipped ankle bone and was out for a year, and Marty once sprained the ligaments in his knee, but otherwise the Ferraro squad has come through its various games unscathed.

The fear of an accident is a constant worry, Mrs. Ferraro said, but she does not let it bother her. If she did see one of her sons knocked unconscious on the field, she would wait to be summoned by the coach or doctor.

"I wouldn't want to embarrass them," she said.

Though Mrs. Ferraro would not be overjoyed if any of her sons elected to go on to pro football, she believes this choice should be theirs.

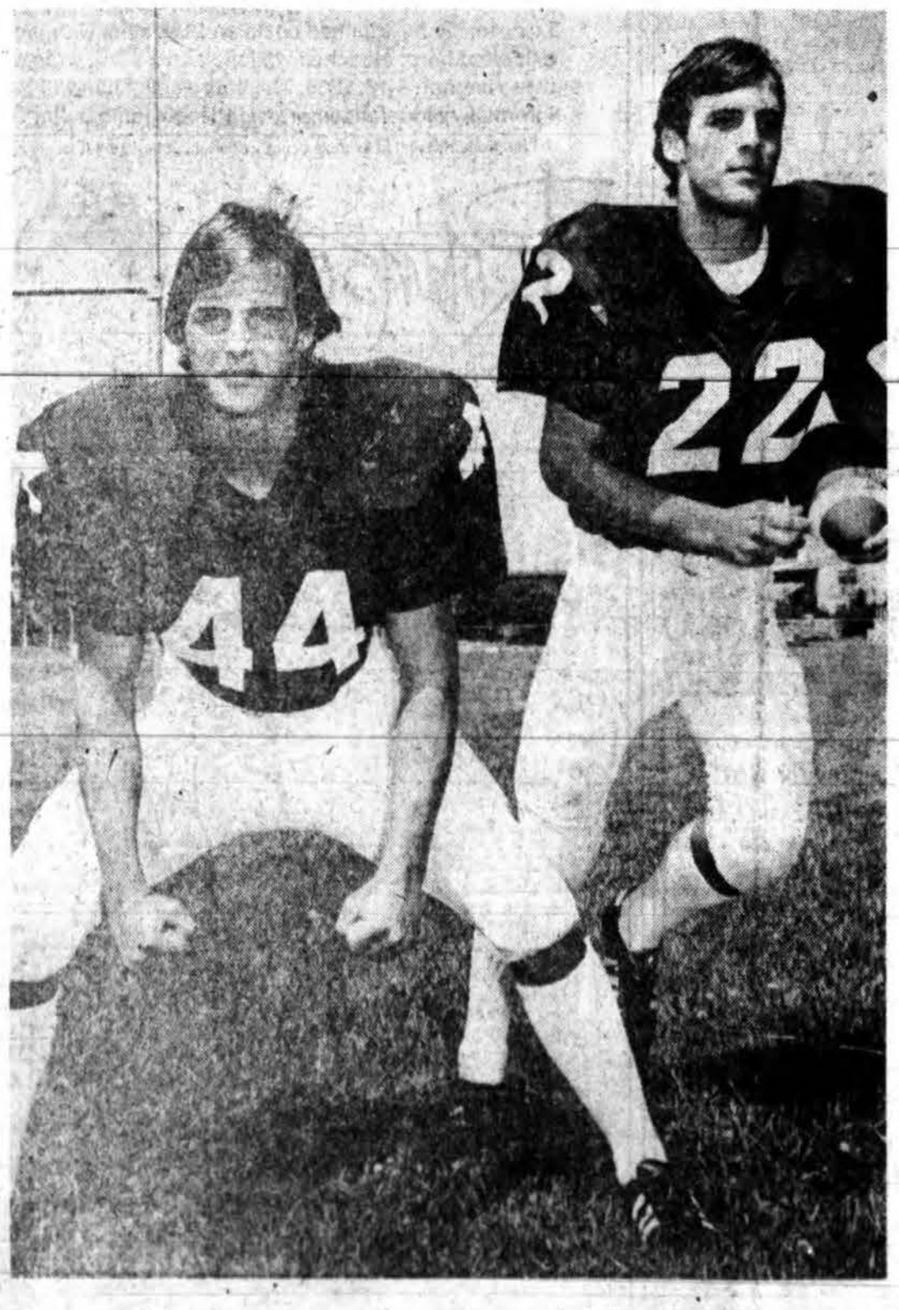
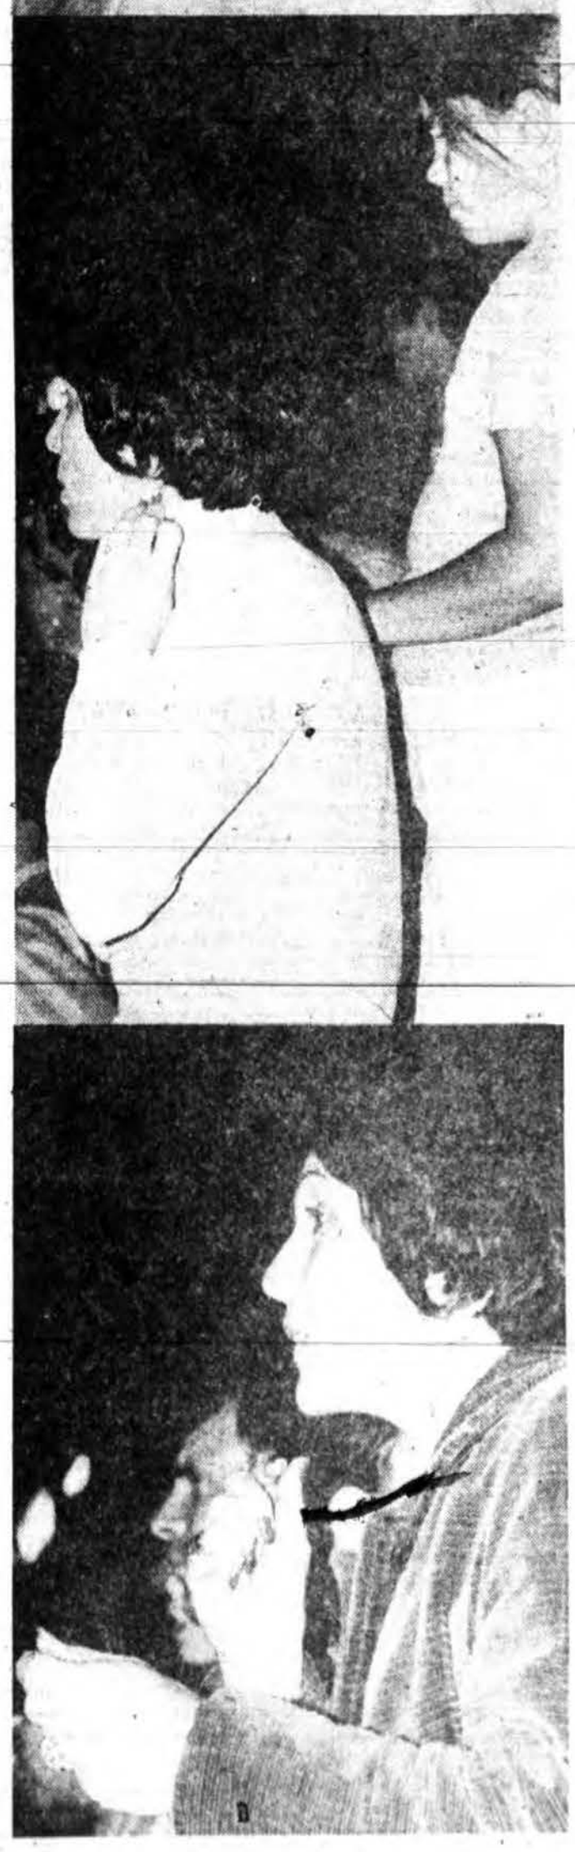
Why was Marie Ferraro so accepting when her sons announced that they wanted to go out for the team?

"Because anything that kids can get interested in is good for them," she answered.

Besides, if she made a big fuss over football, she'd just have to turn around and protest against their involvement in basketball, baseball and who knows what else.

"It's always some season at our house," she sighed.





Old-fashioned Barbecue and Bargains

Excuse Won't Wash

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My question is a simple one and it requires only a simple answer. Is it unnatural for a well-developed, 18-year-old girl to invite her father into the bathroom to keep her company while she takes a bath?

I am not a prude or a Puritan but it seems to me that this sort of thing is out of line. It's been going on for about five years.

When I expressed myself I was told whole families bathe together in Japan and think nothing of it. What about this, Ann? — UNEASY ON THE EAST COAST

DEAR UNEASY: Neither the girl nor her father have to excel in geography to know this isn't Japan. In our culture, an 18-year-old girl should not be inviting her father into the bathroom and he shouldn't be accepting such invitations. It's not only "unnatural" but indecent.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am dumb because I can't play the piano like his sister or cook the way his mother did. You are smart because you live in Chicago and hand out advice. This is what my husband says.

And now, because he thinks you have so many brains, will you please say something in your column about a man who must have a couple of beers at lunch, a couple of beers with his supper and four or five beers in the evening while he reads the paper and watches TV?

Anyone who looks at him can see he has a weight problem. He doesn't realize, however, that he also has a drinking problem. When I mentioned this to him last night he said, "Beer has so little alcohol in it that a person would have to drink a tankful to get drunk."

In the meantime the kids don't even try to talk to him after his fourth beer because he makes no sense.

I hope you will print my letter and say something about this.— BEER BELLY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Many people try to fool themselves (and others) into believing they have no drinking problem because they drink "only beer" or "only wine," or they never touch liquor until five o'clock. All these people may be alcoholics.

Your husband is a beer drunk if he makes no sense after the fourth. The sooner he admits it and does something about it the better for him and his family. I suggest AA—but don't nag him. It only works when the drunk goes on his own.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am one of those fortunate women who became a mother through adoption. Hundreds of times I've wanted to say, "Thank you, dear girl," to that wonderful young mother who gave up her baby because she knew it would be best for the child. How better to reach her than through Ann Landers? May I?

DEAR MOTHER OF OUR CHILD: You have made our lives worth living. You have given us the most precious gift in the world. If you ever wonder if you did the right thing, please know the answer is "yes."

Because of your unselfishness and mature judgment, your little one will get a great deal of love from a mom and dad and two sets of doting grandparents. And, because she is so loved and cherished, she will grow up straight and strong and secure. God bless you. - ANOTHER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I am not printing the name of your city. Let thousands of young women believe this letter was for them.

Family Honors Rosses

MR. AND MRS. GENE ROSS

On hand to mark the occasion at the Coco Palms Hotel on Kauai were Dr. and Mrs. John Roberts of Amherst, Mass., Messrs. and Mmes. Philip McCormick of Fullerton and Gene Ross Jr. of Lido Isle and their children who garlanded the grandparents with leis as the orchestra played Hawaiian Wedding Song.

That song also was dedicated to the Rosses on an international broadcast of Hawaii Calls.

Table decorations included the invitations issued for the 1924 nuptials and golden bells used at the 50th anniversary of Ross's parents more than 30 years ago.

The honorees have lived in Southern California since 1904. A well-known land developer and photographer, he opened one of the first businesses in Westwood Village in 1929.

Their 22 years in Westwood Hills were marked by leadership of community projects for youth, especially scouting, YMCA and YWCA.

Horoscope: Cancer Wary

SATURDAY
OCTOBER 5

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent is on distillation of ideas. You refine techniques. You seek to discover yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): What you intend to do about money becomes more important than in recent past. Questions scream to be answered.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Cycle is high and your personality "sparkles." You are restless, intuitive. Your natural qualities are more appreciated than in recent past.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You get inside information. You learn now that all is not Mom and apple pie. Means the practical side of life falls in your lap.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent is on how you relate to friends, how you use recent windfall and how you decide on what is needed, what should be discarded.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You get offer which requires family consultation. Keep peace at home without foregoing genuine, professional opportunity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be aware of potential, more so than usual. Refuse to sell yourself short. Disregard persons who suffer from "emotional plague."

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Money, partnership, taxes, insurance policies — these areas are spotlighted. Check with one close to you regarding savings, payments, interest rates.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): What was supposed to be permanent could be temporary. Know it and be ready for surprises. Avoid wishful thinking.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): New approach to work, to associates is indicated. Those who have been imposing their views should be informed that a new day has dawned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be ready for change, variety, contacts with stimulating people. Your hunches pay dividends.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Experiment — ask questions. Find ways to expand activities. Build for future instead of brooding about what might have been in past.

If Today Is Your Birthday you are perceptive, perhaps musical, capable of appealing to many persons and you are very attractive to opposite sex. You have personal magnetism, will complete major project this year and begin new lifestyle in 1975.

Wedding Song Only Prelude

By JOAN RIVERS

When Edgar and I married eight years ago, planning our wedding was easy. All we did was invite several close friends, have a simple ceremony followed by a small sandwich-and-champagne reception, and end up with a little money and a 25-year supply of Tupperware.

Nowadays, unfortunately, weddings in my family have become complicated and costly—and all the rules have changed.

To begin with, the simple organist of yore is gone. Replacing him is The Wedding Band. Usually it's Sid Glick and his Mirthmakers. (You've all seen Sid's band. It consists of two clarinetists, a drummer in a tuxedo and a girl singer who wears a perma-press black sequined dress.) Sid Glick's specialty is the "accordion extraordinaire" on which he plays "The Lady of Spain" polka.

The main emphasis, now, is on the food. There is, of course, the usual buffet featuring a food statue. (This is usually a chopped liver bust of the bride complete with pimiento spit curls and a black olive nose.)

But now a new buffet has been added for dieters. This consists of a huge table loaded with fruit and which features as a centerpiece, a Sweet and Lo sculpture of Jean Neiditch.

No matter how good the food is at the buffet, a smart guest does not overeat because dinner is still forthcoming.

Dinner, though delicious, can be a traumatic experience for some people, for the table they are seated at tells them just where they stand in the family hierarchy.

The two worst tables are the Teenage and Relatives tables. Whenever I'm seated at the Teenage Table, I try to fit in by pretending I wear braces. (I do this by wrapping a fork around my mouth.)

But when I find myself seated at the Relatives Table, I know that for the next two hours I will have no one to talk to except my uncle in the foundations business who truly believes that corsets will come back in, his dimwit daughter who keeps playing footsie with the table leg, and a dentist cousin from Dayton, Ohio, who had no idea what the ushers were going to wear and came dressed in the same aqua velvet tuxedo.

One thing I do know is that no matter where I sit, I will eat well. After the fruit cup, steaks, lobster and soup, the main course is announced with a fanfare by the band.

The lights dim and 23 waiters appear with 23 flaming platters. Prime ribs (the parents of the bride repeat this several times: "It's prime ribs, first cut, and NOT roast beef") is served—laden with potatoes, tomatoes and candied fruit.

For dessert, an Austrian sweet table the size of Vienna is wheeled out by three waiters with hernias and to keep things on an international level, Irish coffee is next.

As the majority of my relatives are still hungry, two hours later there's a compulsory sunrise breakfast. The bride and groom never get to see this as they are long since gone on their honeymoon.

However, it's not to Acapulco or Hawaii like normal people—if they're part of my family, they're off for a romantic two-week stay at a milk farm!

And we wonder why one out of three marriages ends in divorce!

Clubs Present Study Topics

College Night

Fountain Valley High School seniors and their parents are invited to a College Night on Campus when representatives from 31 colleges will be on hand to distribute literature and answer questions.

The program is planned for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 10, in the student cafeteria.

Series

Beginning Thursday, Oct. 10, the sessions will be held weekly at 9:30 a.m. in the Costa Mesa Women's Clubhouse.

Singletarians

A social hour, potluck dinner and a speaker will highlight the next meeting of Orange Coast Singletarians.

The session will begin at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 11, at the Costa Mesa Unitarian Church. Speaker will be Charles Levilon, psychologist.

Thrift Sale

Dana Point residents once again will present a two-day thrift sale to benefit the Community House.

Hours and dates are 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Friday Oct. 11, and 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 12, in the facility.

Fabric Fair

Orange Coast College will present the annual Fall Fabric and Fashion Fair from 9:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 12, in the Applied Science building.

Co-sponsored by the California Home Economics Association, the program will feature demonstrations, lectures, displays and a fashion show.

Some of the topics to be discussed include Fabric and Pattern Coordination, Is the Picture Really You, What's New in Interior Design and Fabrics and What the Fabric Care Label Doesn't Tell You.

LA Has Had Little Luck With Bucs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates slugger Bob Robertson had a prediction about the National League championship playoffs between his team and the Los Angeles Dodgers. At least he had a prediction about predictions.

"The sports writers are going to look at Los Angeles' record and our record and say we don't have a chance."

That record shows the Dodgers with 102 wins and 60 losses — the best in baseball this year — compiled in the tough NL West Division. The Pirates were 88-77 — the lowest total of victories by any first-place club — in the NL East where only one other team finished above .500.

Those numbers didn't phase Robertson, though.

"We beat them here and we beat them out there during the year. In a five-game series it's a dog-eat-dog situation and anything can happen."

In the regular season, the Pirates were 8-4 against the Dodgers, sweeping all six games in Pittsburgh and going 2-4 in Los Angeles. Against all clubs in the Western Division, Pittsburgh was 44-28, encountering much rougher sledding in the East with a 44-46 mark.

But there are some other numbers floating around that tend to favor the Dodgers. Take 19-9 and 20-6.

Those are the won-lost records of Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith who will be starting the first two games for Los Angeles. Toss in their earned run averages of 3.22 and 2.59 and stack them up against their opponents on the mound.

Jerry Reusse, who had more triumphs than anyone on the Pirates staff with a 16-11 record, will carry a 3.50 e.r.a. into the playoffs Saturday. Jim Rooker takes a 15-11 record and a 2.77 e.r.a. into Sunday's game.

Further, Messersmith struck out 221 batters, second in the league, while Rooker led the Pirate staff with 139. So the numbers look like they favor Los Angeles.

That's on paper. On the field, there were some other numbers. Specifically, Sutton was 1-2 and Messersmith 1-1 against the Pirates. Reuss was 2-1 and Rooker 1-1 versus Los Angeles.

The numbers also show the different roads the clubs took in winning their division titles. Los Angeles got off to the best start in the majors and was able to coast through a late charge by the Cincinnati Reds. The Dodgers won when necessary.

Pittsburgh got off to the worst start in the majors and climbed past five clubs to a September-long dogfight with St. Louis that went to the last day of the season. The Pirates, too, won when they had to.

Last May 26, the Pirates hit their worst percentage record at 14-26 or .350. The Dodgers, at that time were 13-13 or .717. Looking at the rest of the season from that perspective, that means the Pirates subsequently won 74 and lost 48 while the Dodgers were winning 69 and losing 47.

Big-10 Rivalry

Long Saturday Ahead For Pac-8 Grid Teams

By Associated Press

The intersectional football rivalry between the Pacific-8 and Big 10 conferences will wind up West 2, Midwest 3 unless there are some surprises Saturday.

Only two Pac-8 teams — Southern Cal and UCLA — go into final "preseason" games rated as favorite. Nevada odds-makers, like the USC Trojans by four touchdowns against Iowa in Los Angeles. The Bruins, after romping to a 56-14 victory over Michigan State, are prohibitive favorites at Utah of the Western Athletic Conference.

That rout of Michigan State was the Pac-8's first victory over a Big 10 foe in five games this fall, and five of the games Saturday match the conferences that produce Rose Bowl foes.

If oddsmakers are right, it will be a long Saturday for the Pac-8, particularly Washington State 1-2, and Stanford, 0-2-1.

The Cougars of Washington State, who play top-ranked Ohio State at Seattle, are four touchdown underdogs. At Palo Alto, coach Jack Christiansen's Stanford Cardinals, tied by San Jose State last week, rate three touchdowns under fourth-ranked Michigan, Ohio State's chief rival in the Big 10 race.

Illinois, which used a late touchdown pass to nip Washington State, 21-19, last week after steamrolling Stanford, 41-7, is favored by two TDs against California, 2-1, at Champaign, Ill. Northwestern is only a slight favorite against Oregon, 2-1, in Evanston, Ill.

Washington's Huskies, 2-1, travel to Texas as big underdogs, and 0-3 Oregon State, the only Pac-8 team without a win or tie, is at Dallas as more than a one-touchdown underdog against SMU.

In any event, the Pac-8 will have been well-tested going into next week's conference openers in the race for the roses.

UCLA-Utah and Washington-Texas are scheduled for night games.

The 1-1 Trojans of coach John McKay rebounded from a 22-7 defeat at Arkansas to whip then eighth-ranked Pitt worse than the 16-7 score indicates. Anthony Davis romped for 149 yards as USC gained 402 yards on the ground.

Coach Dick Vermeil of UCLA, now 1-1-1, said his junior quarterback John Sciarra by mid-season will be "the best college quarterback in the country." He ran for two scores and completed 9 to 11 passes against Michigan State.

Ohio State, 3-0, is the nation's top-ranked team, and coach Jim Sweeney of Washington State, 1-2, said the Buckeyes have even more to prove.

Sweeney said he believes the goal of tailback Archie Griffin and other Buckeyes is to force coach Woody Hayes to admit this is his best team ever. They "also know Woody won't do this unless they have a perfect season," Sweeney noted.

"We'll probably be at least 40-point underdogs," Christiansen said of the Michigan game.

Old Playoff Rivals

Pitching Plays No.1 Role In Oakland-Orioles Clash

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland A's nd Baltimore Orioles are matched in e American League playoffs for the ird time in four years — and very ell matched in pitching talent.

"Pitching wins these games," says Alvin Dark, the new man in charge of the Oakland club Dick Williams managed to world baseball championships the past two seasons.

"We've got three top-flight pitchers ready to go, and they've got four. Actually, in a short series, you can't use more than three," he added.

Right-hander Jim "Catfish" Hunter, who shut out the Orioles in the final game of the 1973 playoffs, posted a 25-12 record this year and will start the 1974 opener Saturday. Baltimore manager Earl Weaver will go with lefty Mike Cuellar, 22-10.

A crowd of about 40,000, the biggest in four years of playoff action here, is expected for the game.

"Our pitching has been fantastic all season," said Dark after the A's clinched a fourth consecutive Western Division title a week ago. The hitting, at best, could be called erratic, although the team produced a league-high 689 runs with a .245 batting average. The A's were near the league lead in home runs, with Reggie Jackson, Gene Tenace, Sal Bando and Joe Rudi hitting more than 20 apiece.

Baltimore's pitching was more than fantastic down the stretch, with five consecutive shutouts helping the Orioles overhaul the New York Yankees in the final month of the Eastern Division race.

"The Orioles could still win it if they get Jim Palmer back," A's captain Sal Bando predicted in August when Baltimore was far off the lead.

Right-hander Palmer, a 20-game winner from 1970 through 1973, was on the disabled list for 54 days with arm trouble this year and finished 7-12. But he was 4-4, with a 2.53 earned run average, after his Aug. 12 return.

Palmer is scheduled to face the A's Vida Blue, 17-15, next Tuesday when the series moves to Baltimore. Southpaw Dave McNally, 15-10, will oppose the A's Ken Holtzman, 19-17, here Sunday in the second game of the best-of-five game playoff.

The Orioles' fourth starter, Ross Grimsley, 18-13, will be in the bullpen for the weekend games but could get a start if five games are necessary.

Baltimore, as Oakland, has no hitters among the league leaders in average. The Orioles' two oldest regulars, third baseman Brooks Robinson and hitter Tommy Davis were the only batters over the .280 mark.

The American League's division champions split their 12-game season series this year, each playing better away from home. The Orioles were 4-2 here, the A's 4-2 at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

Hunter was 2-0 against the Orioles and hurled a seven-hit shutout the last time he faced them.

Blue shut out the Orioles the last time the team met, in a July series the A's swept in Baltimore, and Grimsley blanked the A's in a game here earlier in July.

BID WITHDRAWN BY VANCOUVER

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Vancouver, B.C. today withdrew its bid for the 1980 Olympic Winter Games, leaving Lake Placid, N.Y., as the only applicant, the International Olympic Committee announced.

No reason for Vancouver's withdrawal was given.

"Although Lake Placid is now the only applicant, this in no way exempts it from presenting its candidature officially . . . and from fulfilling all the necessary conditions to be awarded the Winter Games," an IOC statement stated.

My Kids Didn't Think Daddy Was Best--West

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jerry West has retired because he doesn't feel he can play the way he wants, but West still can be winning basketball games for the Los Angeles Lakers.

"Although he won't be playing, he can help us in so many ways that he'll be winning more games for the Lakers," declared coach Bill Sharman who envisions West working with younger players.

The Lakers had expected their superstar to perform one more season but after 14 campaigns, the veteran called it quits Thursday. It was his own decision but his own youngsters had a part.

"It got to a point where the kids didn't think their daddy was the best," West said in announcing his decision.

At 36 and an All-star selection 13 of his 14 seasons, West explained, "Physically I was sound and would have been able to play this year, but not able to play the way I would want to play. If you sacrifice standards, you are not being honest with yourself."

General manager Pete Newell declared West was "the greatest guard who has played the game . . . the most totally skilled back court man this game has seen."

Sharman, a star guard in his own era, added, "There has never been a guard who has come close to doing all the things Jerry West has done."

West will remain with the Lakers although his exact duties have not been spelled out.

He made the NBA All-star team 13 years and for 12 he was named to the All-NBA team, 10 as a first team selection.

He finishes his career as the third highest regular season scorer with 25,192 points. In 1969-70 he was the top scorer with an average of 31.2 points per game.

He scored 63 against the New York Knicks on Jan. 17, 1962, the most scored by a guard in one game.

From Cabin Creek, W. Va., West started at the University of West Virginia before being drafted on the first round by the Lakers who were just moving from Minneapolis to Los Angeles.

Standing 6-foot-3, he seemed to reach peaks in playoff competition. He has tallied the most points in playoff history for a career with 4,457 and for a single season with 562 in 1970. His average of 40.6 points per game in the 1965 playoffs is also a record.

In 1971-72, when the Lakers won their only NBA championship, West won the league's assist title with a 9.7 average.

"I still feel he would be the best guard in the league," said Sharman.

West said, "My basketball playing career is definitely over. I wish I could play for another 10 years. I know myself more than anybody else knows me and I know it is the time to retire.

"It will be hard to wake up in the morning and not be employed as a player . . .I don't even have a coach now."

West does have a lifetime contract with the Lakers should he want it, but he says, "I really haven't thought about what to do in the future."

For Robinson

President, Halos' Dalton Among Well-wishers

By United Press International

From Gerald R. Ford in the White House to James Newman grilling streaks in a New York restaurant, the fans of America Thursday greeted the first black manager in baseball history — Frank Robinson — with pride and hope and good wishes.

President Ford was the first to establish direct contact with Robinson, wiring him in Cleveland that his selection to manage the Indians was "a tribute to you personally, to your athletic skills and to your unsurpassed leadership. I know millions of Americans join me in sending you warmest good wishes for every success."

Jim Newman didn't wire Robinson, but the 55-year-old chef mopped his brow and shared in the success of a fellow black man.

"I've been a baseball fan all my life," Newman said. "I saw Frank Robinson almost every time he played in New York. I'm an old Dodgers fan, and now I root for the Mets. I cheered Willie Mays when he was around, and always tried to see Larry Doby when he'd be in town. And let me tell you, Frank Robinson rates right there with them. He was one of the best, and he'll show 'em in Cleveland."

Monte Irvin, the hall of famer who works in commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office, said the elevation of Robinson made him "as happy as Frank is that it finally happened. He might have a problem here or there crop up, but it's going to be a manager's problem rather than a black-white problem."

But Hank Aaron had a word of warning for Robinson among his words of congratulation. "Frank will have no more trouble than any other manager with the players," Aaron said in Atlanta. "His problems will probably come from the press, who will be watching his every move, putting him under a microscope. A lot of people will be expecting him to walk on water and that's going to be unfair. But I think Frank Robinson is going to do all right."

Away from the baseball inner circle, the naming of Robinson also was greeted enthusiastically. Vernon E. Jordan Jr., executive director of the Urban League, saw the appointment as "long overdue but it is a recognition of ability and experience. I'm pleased that baseball has finally gotten around to believing that if we can play baseball we can manage it as well.

In Anaheim, the man who made Robinson available to Cleveland said he was happy for Frank. Harry Dalton, general manager of the California Angels, said that when he let Robinson go to Cleveland for the $20,000 waiver price several weeks ago, he had no idea the Indians were after Frank to manage.

"Cleveland indicated they just wanted him as a player," Dalton said. "Frank deserved a shot at managing. He's played 19 seasons and he's managed in Puerto Rico. He knows the job well. No one would think anything about it if he weren't the first black manager. To me, he's just an excellent baseball man who's been given a chance."

Miller Five Down In Vegas Tourney

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Bobby Heins, an obscure, longshot rookie, surprised even himself with a five-under-par 66 that staked him to the first-round lead Thursday in the $135,000 Sahara Invitational golf tournament.

A hooking tee shot already had gone out of bounds when it hit a tree, carromed back in bounds and let Miller escape with a par.

J. C. Snead and Dave Eichelberger matched 67s and behind them are Chi Chi Rodriguez, Mike Hill, Ken Still and John Schroeder with 68s. John Mahaffey is bunched with others at 69.

South Africa Conceded Davis Cup

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — South Africa eliminated Italy today and apparently won the Davis Cup when India announced it would not meet the South Africans in the final of the world tennis competition.

"We're not playing them," R. K. Khanna, the secretary of the All-Indian Lawn Tennis Federation announced in New Delhi shortly after South Africa had taken a 3-0 lead in its best-of-five match semifinal by winning the doubles from Italy.

India's action was a protest of South Africa's apartheid policies.

If the Indian tennis federation sticks to its refusal to play, then South Africa would be the Cup champion by default.

Bob Hewitt and Frew McMillan clinched South Africa's semifinal against Italy by beating Adriano Panatta and Paolo Bertolucci 7-5, 6-4, 10-8 in a gruelling doubles match.

Early in the day, Ray Moore gave South Africa a 2-0 lead when he took less than two minutes to complete a 4-6, 6-0, 6-3, 6-4 victory over Panatta.

● Dodgers Favored

LAS VEGAS — Las Vegas oddsmakers have made the Los Angeles Dodgers and Oakland A's favorites to win the National and American league pennants.

The Churchill Downs sports book said Thursday that Los Angeles was favored over Pittsburgh, 6-5. Oakland was the choice over Baltimore also at 6-5.

● Hockey Brawl

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union whipped Team Canada 5-2 Thursday night in a savage sixth game of their eight-game series that ended with a bloody brawl involving most of the players.

The Soviets now hold an unbeatable 3-1 edge in the series with two games drawn. If Canada wins the final two contests here Saturday and Sunday, it can at best only tie the series.

The Soviets ran all over the Canadian team with superior team work, speed and coordination. Canadian coach Billy Harris tried new tactics to bounce back from the 3-2 defeat in Tuesday's Moscow opener, but they did not work.

As the final whistle blew, several players lunged at Valery Kharlamov, a half-Spanish forward whom the Canadians consider to be the dirtiest player on the Soviet side.

Kharlamov left the ice with his face streaming blood. Soviet coach Boris Kulagin said the Canadian who allegedly started the fight, Rick Ley, should be jailed for 15 days under the Soviet penal code for brawling after the whistle.

● Stars Triumph

CHICAGO — Quarterback Tom Sherman hurled touchdown passes of 63 and 45 yards and scored on a short smash in a 33-point Charlotte first half as the Stars outlasted the Chicago Fire, 41-30, Thursday night to keep alive their World Football League divisional title hopes.

● Tapie Leading

SANTA CRUZ—Alan Tapie of Newport Beach shot six birdies on the way to a score of 66 and the first round lead in the $30,000 California state open golf championship Thursday.

Tapie has a two-stroke lead over four others.

● Stockton Advances

Stockton ousted Ray Ruffels, 7-5, 6-1.

In other singles action Thursday, Roscoe Tanner defeated Jim Osborne 6-4, 7-6; Colin Dibley beat Dick Dell 6-1, 3-6, 6-3; Sherwood Stewart outplayed Charles Pasarell, 7-5, 6-3, and Onny Parun turned back Mike Estep, 6-3, 7-6.

● Attendance Down

NEW YORK — Major League baseball attracted more than 30 million fans during the 1974 season, according to figures released Thursday.

The unofficial total for the two leagues was 30,027,063, down from last year's 30,108,926.

The National League attracted 16,964,350 and the American League 13,062,713.

Of the 24 major league teams, 17 drew more than one million fans, including Cleveland, Texas and San Diego, each of whom were under 700,000 last year.

Reds' Anderson Taking Defeat Hard

"We have to find the answer," said Anderson, reflecting on the frustration of finishing out of the money for the fifth straight year.

The man who has more victories to his credit than any other baseball manager in the last five years is taking defeat hard. But his confidence in the Reds remains unwavering.

"Time beats you down a little," said Anderson before heading for his California home, "but we have a team that should win the World Series. And I think before it's all over or I pass on we'll have a World Series."

One of baseball's most colorful and most-quoted field generals, Anderson figures to spend a restless winter of discontent.

"Maybe it was too much bragging on my part. Maybe it hurt. Maybe they — the Reds — thought they could just throw their glove on the field and win.

"We played bad the first half of the last two years. We're just not getting out the gate. From July on it's a day-by-day thing of playing catch up."

He says the improvement will have to come in being mentally-prepared at the outset of the 1975 season.

"Defense and base-running killed us. Our defense just has to improve. Our pitching has always managd to keep us in the game, but most of the time our errors made for terrible conditions for a pitcher.

"And we can't have any more of this wait until June or July to get moving," he said.

A year ago the Reds spotted the Los Angeles Dodgers an 11-game lead and swept past them for the pennant by winning 59 o ftheir last 86 games.

Edison, FV Open Sunset Warfare

Two of Orange County's leading prep football teams, each with explosive offenses, clash tonight at Orange Coast College in their Sunset League debut.

It's Edison and Fountain Valley, intense Huntington Beach School District rivals, colliding for the sixth time in a series dominated by Edison. Edison is No. 3 in county rankings, Fountain Valley is No. 10 with a 10-point loss to St. Paul.

Kickoff is at 8 and the Chargers of Edison coach Bill Workman are one-point favorites to avenge last year's 28-24 defeat to Fountain Valley—the only Edison loss in the series.

At stake is the inside track to the Sunset League championship—although when these two meet the stakes are high regardless of any championship aspirations.

Coach Bruce Pickford's Fountain Valley Barons have an awesome offensive thrust, starting with quarterback Chris Dove

Dove has passed for 156 yards in two games for three touchdowns.

Backs Steve Thompson, Dave Kruetzer and Vince Bienek give the Barons an offensive attack with no weak links—and in addition, the Barons have Mitch Chambers ready for running duty.

Edison's defense has allowed next to nothing on the ground to its two non-league foes and if Fountain Valley is to run on the Chargers it'll have to click in the passing game.

Ching has thrown a pair of TD passes among his 252 yards rolled up in two outings, in addition to burning the opposition on the ground with his power keeps around end.

El Toro Goes After First Win

El Toro High's Chargers, a disappointment thus far with one loss and one tie in their first two non-league football games, clash with Esperanza High's Aztecs tonight at Mission Viejo High.

Kickoff is at 8 and for the Chargers, who have never lost at Mission Viejo, it's a chance to even their slate before tackling El Dorado a week hence.

The Chargers are 7½-point favorites to dump Esperanza, a team that has yet to score in falling to Dana Hills and San Clemente.

Saucido was injured early in the Dana Hills loss and Esperanza's offense was permanently defused.

El Toro, on the other hand, has a number of different weapons on hand.

Vikes' Passing Concerns Tucker

Long Beach City College has dropped its first two football games of the 1974 season and Orange Coast College coach Dick Tucker is concerned about this fact on the eve of a meeting between the two schools at Long Beach Veterans Stadium Saturday.

The OCC Pirates' secondary has been suspect this year and it will be facing one of the toughest assignments of the year in the game with Long Beach.

Tereschuk completed 10 of 21 attempts for 217 yards against Cerritos last week, but Tucker remembers him more for his performance against the Pirates a year ago.

At that time, he threw for 181 yards and except for a 99-yard return of an interception by OCC's Mike Lacy for a touchdown, the LBCC Vikings would have won the game.

While Tereschuk draws the attention of the defensive secondary, Tucker is also concerned about his own team's inability to move the football inside the 10-yard line.

"We're working on our goal line attack this week," Tucker admits. "I don't think we have put in as much time on this phase of the game as we have in the past.

Jim Meehan, a sophomore defensive tackle, suffered a broken foot in last week's game and will be sidelined for about three weeks.

Tucker was also high in praise of his two kicking specialists, Woody Tressler on field goals and Mark Schrupp on punting.

NH, Lions Lock Horns In Crucial

Past performances go out the window tonight when the Westminster Lions host the defending champion Newport Harbor High Tars in opening Sunset League football action. Kickoff is at 8.

The series has been one of the most evenly matched in the Sunset circuit and the Tars are favored by one point this time around.

Westminster has lost twice while the Tars have won a pair of early season non-league outings.

Coach Bill Pizzica of Newport has built a sturdy defense while Westminster is in a rebuilding year on offense and this could be the key to the outcome.

"We've gone against two pretty good teams (Fullerton and Corona del Mar) and our defense has stood up to the task," Pizzica says.

Newport has given up one touchdown in the two games, that to the Sea Kings after a pass interception return of 44 yards.

While the defense has been a bright spot for the Sailors, the offense has also come through with a top field goal kicker and a junior tailback who has replaced CIF 440 champion Brian Theriot at the tailback spot this week.

Steve Foley moved into the running back position last week when Theriot was stopped and did an outstanding job. The junior tailback ran for 135 yards in 18 carries for a 7.5 average. Kicker Art Sorce had one of 52 yards last week.

Theriot will also see action despite giving up the starting role to Foley.

Westminster will have size over the Tars but coach Bill Boswell of the Lions doesn't feel this is an advantage.

"I don't think size is a determining factor on the high school field," he says.

Kayaking Finals Lures Area Trio

By HOWARD L. HANDY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Kayaking is very much like swimming, only it's fun.

That's the belief of former UC Irvine water polo and swimming star Bill Leach, now a teacher at Corona del Mar High School.

Leach is one of three area residents who will represent the United States in Mexico City Oct. 16-20 in the senior world canoeing and kayaking championships.

The others include his kayaking partner Mike Johnson, a Huntington Beach fireman, and Julie Jones, 18, a student at Corona del Mar High School.

"I played water polo and swam for Ed Newland at UCI and then played for him after I graduated until 1970," Leach says.

"I went into kayaking to stay in shape and after I was with it for awhile, I decided to make the switch."

The trio left for Mexico City Thursday with the balance of the U.S. team for advance, high-altitude training. The races will be staged on the Olympic course of 1968.

All three gained their spots on the national team by doing well in the nationals and also the North American trials at Cambridge, Ohio recently.

"You know, I lived in Newport Beach for 20 years before I discovered the bay," Leach says. "I used to go out in the ocean and surf and swim but never used the bay.

"In the early morning hours, this is one of the few places in the area where you can go and things haven't changed in the last 10 years. It's really nice out here in the early morning."

Jones became interested in kayaking along with two classmates several years ago when she was a student in Leach's social studies class.

"The other two didn't stay with it past the first year but Jones is doing well and finished first in K-2 competition in the North American races.

"She's also the junior national champion this year and if they had as many women on the Olympic team as men, she'd be a cinch to make the U.S. team in 1976 at Montreal," he adds.

The team of Leach and Johnson won the nationals in 1971 but didn't qualify in '72, an Olympic year, and consequently missed the trip to the Games.

"Things are better organized now than they were then and we have a national team. Everyone can train as a group rather than as individuals or as club teams.

"Kayaking is set up similar to other sports and I think Mike and I have a good chance to make the '76 Olympics," Leach says.

"The Europeans dominate the sport right now but I think 1976 will be different.

"It takes about four to six years to reach your peak in the sport and we will be just about right in '76."

The trio belong to the Rusty Pelican Rowing Association of Newport Beach and Pete Siracusa has been a big help to them financially and giving them a place to store their shells.

Johnson is also interested in a new sport that is rapidly moving into favor along the ocean beaches.

"Kayak surfing is the coming sport," Mike says. "You strap yourself on these surf skis and use a paddle to keep upright and to catch the waves," he explains.

But right now the trio is working on speed more than endurance in workouts preparatory to the Mexico City competition.

During a regular workout they will go between 15,-20 000-meters a day. Currently that has been cut to 3,000-meters daily in order to pick up speed.

Estancia, Villa Park Collide

Estancia's Eagles embark on the role of giant-killers tonight when they tangle with last year's Crestview football champions from Villa Park in opening action of the new Century League at El Modena High's field. Kickoff is at 8.

Villa Park advanced to the semifinals of the 3-A playoffs last season before losing and the Spartans have been installed as 2½-point favorites over Ken Kiefer's Eagles.

"I'm worried about Estancia's offense," Villa Park coach Ted Mullen says. "It's different and you don't see it that often. They also have a fine quarterback."

Each team has won a decision by one point and dropped a second game in pre-league action. Estancia defeated Marina, 7-6, while Villa Park stopped La Quinta, 14-13.

Kiefer is looking for the Spartans to use a lot of screens and draws with good timing on execution.

"They don't sweep that much but they do throw well, especially into the corners."

Powers Meet

MV Tests Hawks; Ratings on Line

It is the biggest football game of the young season for coaches John Murio of Mission Viejo High and Glen Hastings of El Dorado.

It is No. 1 vs. No. 3. Dave Schmidt vs. Bob Farra. A bomb offense vs. a stingy defense. Two unbeaten teams.

All this 2-A action begins at 8 tonight, when No. 1 Mission Viejo and No. 3 El Dorado clash in a non-league battle at Valencia High.

Says Murio about El Dorado's Farra: "He is an experienced, outstanding athlete. And I am always afraid to oppose a good athlete."

Says Hastings about Mission Viejo's Schmidt: "Their quarterback gives me nightmares. He even gives me daymares."

Both quarterbacks have been impressive. Farra has completed 21 of 41 passes for 227 yards and has carried 10 times for 26 yards.

Schmidt has even been more dynamic, dropping one bomb after another to such fleet-footed receivers as brother Eric Schmidt and Ron Freed. Schmidt has connected on 23 of 30 passes for 513 yards, averaging 22 yards per completion. He has run 16 times for 43 yards.

But Mission Viejo may have a weaker rushing attack than El Dorado and the Diablos' defense has been leaky thus far.

If the Golden Hawks' tight defense, which has allowed 23 points in two games, can contain Schmidt, then the Diablos face a crisis. Their leading runner, tailback John Montgomery, has rushed for only 71 yards in 21 carries.

The Golden Hawks' tailback, Jim Haney, has more than doubled Montgomery's figure, carrying 33 times for 158 yards. Henry Arambula has run 18 times for 82 yards.

And the Diablos defense has given up 44 points to two opponents whose combined record is 0-4.

Empire Opener

Oilers Favored Over Saddleback

Huntington Beach High opens the new Empire League football season tonight at 8, hosting Saddleback High in the first-ever meeting between the two schools.

Huntington is seeking its first league title since 1966 when it won the Irvine League.

The Oilers could rever really put things together in the Sunset League, but coach Roy Brummett is confident his team will be a contender in the new circuit.

The Oilers are 6½ point favorites to defeat Saddleback. Huntington and the Roadrunners enter the game winless, coming off close setbacks in last week's action. Saddleback lost a 12-10 decision to Garden Grove and the Oilers dropped a 25-14 contest to Marina in a game which could have gone either way.

Both teams will probably be sticking to what they do best, not knowing that much about the opposition. Huntington likes to stay on the ground behind its veer attack and Saddleback likes to plow up the middle from its power I-formation.

Rick Sater has taken over as the starting quarterback for the Oilers and for good reason. He is an excellent ball handler, important for a veer attack, and can throw. He had only one completion against Marina, but Brummett feels he has the arm to get the job done. He can also execute the sprint out very well.

Starting behind Sater will be Loren Micklin and Greg Nitzkowski. Micklin is a threat to break away any time while Nitzkowski has become an outstanding kickoff and punt return man. Micklin is averaging 8.8 yards per carry.

The Oilers will operate against a Saddleback defense which has vastly improved since yielding 42 points to Mission Viejo in its opener. The Roadrunners made several changes after that embarrassing effort and they seemed to have paid off.

Led by Toby Bonwell, who is developing into an outstanding linebacker, Huntington's defense will have to stop the running of speedy tailback Clarence Jackson.

Mater Dei, Lakewood Tangle

LONG BEACH — In what figures to be one of the top CIF 4-A football games this weekend, Mater Dei and Lakewood tangle tonight at 7:30 at Veterans Stadium, here.

The hosting Lancers and Mater Dei are both undefeated and rated in the CIF poll. Lakewood climbed to seventh this week after blanking North Torrance, 15-0, and Mater Dei is 14th and is coming off a 37-0 win over Santa Ana.

Both teams are excellent defensively, having given up one touchdown each in two games.

On offense the Monarchs and Lancers figure to present different attacks. Behind the running of Pat McKeon, Mater Dei will probably stick to the ground again while Lakewood will use the arm of Bill Raine to move the ball through the air.

Lakewood coach John Ford has always had passing clubs and this year doesn't figure to be an exception. Raine hasn't developed into a top passer as yet, but Ford plans to have him put the ball up until he develops.

The Monarchs ground attack will miss starting fullback Jim Ridge, who will be out with a broken thumb. Another backfield starter, Martin Sundy, has a knee injury. Bob Macauley will replace Ridge and McKeon will start in place on Sundy.

McKeon, although not a starter before tonight, is the leading rusher on the team with 174 yards in 30 carries for a 5.8 average.

CdM, Magnolia Mix; Defenses in Spotlight

Corona del Mar High's Sea Kings will find out in a hurry tonight whether their chances for gaining the Century League football crown are for real or not.

The Sea Kings of coach Dave Holland vie with Magnolia at Newport Harbor in the league opener and the Sea Kings are one-point favorites.

Kickoff is at 8 for what figures to be a defensive oriented collision.

Corona del Mar enters with its tough, 4-3 defensive alignment—the same that has blanked Magnolia for the past two years.

Corona del Mar appears to have the edge offensively. The Sea Kings operate behind quarterback Gary Guisness, a 170-pound junior who has proved he can move the offense.

His stats are somewhat tarnished due to the Sea Kings' first two opponents — rugged Mater Dei and Newport Harbor.

However, in Century League play, Guisness is a potential all-league candidate.

He can run and pass with authority. And Corona del Mar has Marty and Mike Ferarro in the same backfield as its chief runners.

Magnolia's offense is not up to 100 percent, with Don Kindred's availability as the starting tailback unknown.

While he didn't reveal any secrets, Kiefer did indicate he would make some changes in his defensive alignment.

"There are a lot of things you can do like splitting the line out."

The Estancia offense will be geared to the charge of the offensive line.

"You don't win football games if your offensive line doesn't do the job. So much depends on our blockers and how they handle the defensive charge."

Loop Outlook

Villa Park Picked For Century Title

Picking a winner out of Century League football may be the toughest task of any Orange County circuit forecast.

It's a super-balanced setup. No team, in fact, was able to win both its practice games.

Villa Park was considered the favorite early, and the Daily Pilot is sticking with it despite Villa Park's 19-7 loss to Foothill, the same team that beat Costa Mesa, 20-7.

El Modena, too, was bumped by unheralded Orange.

Here's how the Daily Pilot precariously sees the 1974 Century League:

1. Villa Park. Coach Ted Mullen's Spartans are green due to the loss of almost the entire starting unit from the Crestview League championship team of '73.

2. El Modena. The Vanguards, too, have fallen somewhat short of expectations, especially a 21-14 loss to Orange, which is not expected to come up to the usual standards of Orange elevens.

However, El Modena coach Bob Lester has eight returning starters in the fold, bolstered by All-Crestview League tackle Scott Johnson (217).

3. Corona del Mar. The Sea Kings are 0-2 going into league combat, but may be the team to beat with their tough defense and a potentially tough offense around quarterback Gary Guisness.

Corona del Mar is solid on defense in every category and seems to lack only the KO punch. Still, it's hard to evaluate CdM due to the rugged competition involved in non-league play.

4. Magnolia. The Sentinels will fall from this echelon if tailback Don Kindred doesn't get back in the lineup in a hurry after suffering a shoulder injury in the opener with Orange—a 13-0 victory for Magnolia.

Magnolia appears improved over last year—a season of frustration that included losses to Edison (20-14), Los Alamitos (21-20), Costa Mesa (14-13) and Estancia (9-7).

5. Costa Mesa. Coach Tom French has installed a lot of offense into the Mustangs' game and although the Mesans have lost twice in non-league tilts, this could be the year Costa Mesa assumes respectability in football.

Wayne Vering gives Mesa a solid running attack and if Tim Rosauer can come through in the passing department, the Mustangs could be the surprise of the year.

6. Santa Ana. The Saints are under a new coach in Bob Larson and have not come around yet. Through two games Santa Ana has failed to score in absorbing 7-0 and 37-0 defeats to Buena Park and Mater Dei.

7. Estancia. The Eagles are also under a new coach (Ken Kiefer) and they'll be throwing the football from every angle out of their multiple offense.

Estancia could do a lot better than seventh—perhaps win it all. Non-league play included battles with Sunset League toughies Fountain Valley and Marina and the Eagles more than held their own against Westminster in a scrimmage. The only question is whether the Eagles operate without fumbles and interceptions. Big guns in Estancia's attack include Mark Deven in the secondary and QB Larry Hall.

8. Tustin. Tustin hasn't displayed the expected savvy in 17-0 and 15-8 losses to University and La Habra.

New coach Jeff Jespersen has four returning starters, however, and are by no way doomed for the cellar.

Tritons Menaced By Hawks

San Clemente High's football team tries to rebound from an upset loss a week ago against visiting Redondo tonight, but the obstacle may be more than the host Tritons can handle.

The first kickoff is at 8 o'clock.

Coach Allie Schaff's Tritons were burned by turnovers and inconsistency last week in a 12-6 setback and the San Clemente head man says his club can ill-afford to do that against a rugged Sea Hawks outfit.

Redondo has rebounded from an 0-9 mark of a year ago to top Torrance and nearly upset Palos Verdes in its two starts this season—and Schaff says the Sea Hawks are a solid unit.

Redondo's strength is in its running game with Don Leonard and Jim Hardesty both averaging over 80 yards per game. The Sea Hawks also have a capable quarterback in 6-2, 170-pound senior John McIntosh and a fine receiver in Randy Kunkle.

"Redondo runs the power play quite well and it has good size. I think we'll probably spot them 20-30 pounds a man. Redondo figures to be among the best teams we've played this season," says Schaff.

Meanwhile, the Tritons have made some offensive backfield changes, hoping to beef up a sagging unit that has been riddled with injuries.

Schaff is moving slotback Randy Adams, a sophomore, to tailback and inserting Vince Herman at slotback.

The two regular starters—Brian Wood and Ron Wade— are sidelined for the year with injuries.

Soling Races Top Feature

Soling sailors will see action Saturday and Sunday in Bahia Corinthian Yacht Club's annual Padalak Memorial Trophy regatta to be sailed on courses outside the harbor.

The Podalak series was originally sailed in 10-meter sloops, the favorite craft of the late Walter Podalak who died at the helm of his 10-meter Coquille during an Alamitos Bay Argosy race. The series later was switched to the Soling, one of the Olympic classes.

Other regatta action in Newport this weekend will be Lido Isle Yacht Club's Fall Regatta, Saturday and Sunday; Balboa Yacht Club's Singlehanded race on Saturday; Newport Harbor Yacht Club's regatta for Lehman-12s and Lasers Sunday, and Southshore Sailing Club's Pomeroy Classic, one of the races in the High Point Series for Midget Ocean Racing Fleet yachts on Sunday.

Southern California Yachting Association calendar:

Newport - Balboa

BAHIA CORINTHIAN YACHT CLUB — Podlak Memorial Regatta, Saturday, Sunday.

LIDO ISLE YACHT CLUB — Fall Regatta, Saturday, Sunday.

BALBOA YACHT CLUB — Singlehanded race, Saturday.

BOATING

3 Newport Boats Sail In Vallarta

Thirty-three of the West Coast's top sailing yachts have made application for entries in Del Rey Yacht Club's 3rd biennial Marina del Rey to Puerto Vallarta race.

Closing date for entries has been set for Oct. 31.

Three of the prospective entries are from Newport Beach. They are Bob Beauchamp's Columbia-57 Dorothy O, NHYC, a veteran of all three PV races plus other Mexico races; George Tooby's one-ton America Jane II, NHYC, and Dan Elliotts's Starwagon.

A number of the yachts planning to a make the race will have returned from the upcoming Los Angeles to Mazatlan race just in time for the Puerto Vallarta downwind slide.

Interest in the race was sparked by the possibility that Mark Johnson's 73-foot ketch Windward Passage, and the 62-foot sloop Ragtime, sailed by a Long Beach Yacht Club syndicate will again be matched in a duel for line honors.

In the 1973 Transpac (Los Angeles to Honolulu) Ragtime edged Passage by 4½ minutes over the 2,225-mile-course.

Also seeking first to finish honors will be Fred Preiss' converted 12-meter Anitra, Pacific Mariners Yacht Club, and John Scripps' 79-foot ketch Miramar, San Diego Yacht Club.

Out for corrected time honors will be such veterans as Stuart Cowan's 35-foot sloop Chutzpah, handicap winner of the 1973 Transpac; Witchcraft, Art Biehl's 35-footer (sistership to Chutzpah); Dick Kelton's Kari II, Los Angeles Yacht Club; Roderic Park's ultra light displacement 40-footer Panache, and America Jane.

Reference Book Puts New Rules in Order

Sea lawyers in the yacht racing fraternity will be interested to learn that a new rules handbook for racing sailors is just off the presses and ready to take its place in the pockets of skippers.

"The Yacht Racing Rules Interpreted," Jack H. Feller Jr., is designed for quick reference and is annotated to the North American Yacht Racing Union decisions on appeal. It incorporates all rules revisions through the present date.

The new pocket book has rearranged the rules in logical order and tells the yachtsman not only what the rules say but what they mean in contemporary terms.

The book is published by Spyglass Catalog Co., 2415 Webster St., Alameda, valif.

Sunset Ford Football FORECAST

Bob Heusser
President, Sunset Ford
PREDICTS:

Los Angeles 23
Detroit 6

Rams back on track this weekend. Look for them to win big against rather punchless Detroit.

Sunday, October 6

NEW YORK GIANTS.....21 ATLANTA.....20
Meeting of two clubs having opening season blues. Falcons scored all of ten points in first two games. Giants just not jelling enuf to win. Toss-up with toss to New York.

BUFFALO.....20 GREEN BAY.....13
Interconference match-up that should put another game in win column for Bills. Packers playing at home, but don't think they can stop a healthy O. J. Simpson.

PHILADELPHIS.....23 SAN DIEGO.....21
The odds in this struggle between two upsetters have leaned closer and closer each week of new season. Chargers surprised Bengals and Eagles shocked Cowboys. Philly by two.

CHICAGO.....17 NEW ORLEANS.....16
Battle between quarterbacks who are young and learning and also giving opposing defenses problems. Gary Huff of Bears favored over Archie Manning of Saints. Closer

SAN FRANCISCO.....24 ST. LOUIS.....23
Another game that could be decided by difference of a shoelace. Both surprisingly 2 and 0 after first two games. With 1 point that could go either way, we lean to 49ers.

OAKLAND.....27 CLEVELAND.....13
Browns just might catch Raiders in let-down after biggie with Steelers. However, Cleveland had toughie with Cards. Don't look for upset here . . . Oakland to win by 14.

PITTSBURGH.....31 HOUSTON.....7

CINCINNATI.....20 WASHINGTON.....17
Thought when season started that these two were invincible. Chargers & Cards quickly proved otherwise. Have to give three-point nod to Bengals and not because of home field.

DENVER.....30 KANSAS CITY.....17
Broncos, coming off Monday nighter against Skins, face KC in Chiefs' back yard. AFC West game that could be seond loss for Kansas City to closest division rivals.

NEW ENGLAND.....27 BALTIMORE.....10
QB Jim Plunkett and his group of surprisers should squash Colts in this AFC East matchup. Baltimore rookies will come around as season progresses . . . too soon yet.

Monday, Oct. 7

MIAMI.....24 NEW YORK JETS.....13
Jets' offense rolled big in first two outings against Chiefs and Bears. Dolphins slow in getting started. Miami defense will give Namath and crew rough time. Dolphs by 11.

Average dropped notch to .680 off totals of 17-8-1 thro games of Sept. 23rd. Teams like Pats, Cards, Eagles, and Bills making early season enjoyable for "favorite-haters!"

HIGHLIGHTS (for Oct. 5th)

We still haven't quite finished licking our wounds from "Black Saturday" a couple of weeks ago. Can't remember when ten members of our Elite Twenty all took their lumps on the same day.

The Top Twenty again was the scene of a lot of scrambling up and down the national ladder as upsets and below par performances made quite a few changes. Okla took over the top spot with both Alabama and Michigan moving ahead of Ohio State. Texas Tech and Auburn moved into the group after their big wins over Texas and Tennessee respectively.

It might just be another game of destruction by the Oklahoma Sooners. After tromping Utah State last week, the Sooners meet Wake Forest Saturday. The spread is the threat of another mis-match . . . 64 points.

Michigan takes on an uncertain assignment in potentially dangerous Stanford. The Indians almost upset Penn State in their opener, but were jarred by Illinois two weeks ago. It looks as though Michigan will remain undefeated, winning by about 33 points.

And Mississippi is the next target on the shedule for undefeated Alabama. The Rebels have been a bit of a disappointment so far, and will have to make quite a turn-around to stem the Tide. Akabana wukk beat Mississippi by twenty-six.

The Ohio State Buckeyes will be the second Big Ten team in succession to meet Washington State. Illinois nipped the Cougars last week and the Bucks will beat them Saturday by 23 points. The Illini meet the California Bears in Champaign, and hope to hold their position in the national rankings. California will lose by 20 points.

In the Southwest Conference, there are—at least this week—the Big Three . . . Texas Tech, Texas A & M, and Arkansas. The Razorbacks are the only one of three involved in a conference game. They'll bump T.C.U. by 27 points. The Aggies meet a heal heavy in Kansas, and in the game of the week, Texas Tech plays Oklahoma State #6 against #12. The Red Raiders were tied by New Mexico two weeks ago, and the Cowboys were unceremoniously upset by Baylor last week. However, it'll be a fantastic game . . . Tech by five. And Texas A & M will nudge Kansas by the same margin.

ATTACKS SYSTEM
George C. Scott

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor George C. Scott has offered a money-back guarantee to parents who find his new R-rated movie objectionable entertainment for their children.

Scott held a news conference Thursday to attack the rating system of the Motion Picture Association of America for rating his "The Savage Is Loose" film as restricted rather than for parental guidance.

SCOTT SAID THE MPAA found the movie, which he produced and directed as well as stars in, thematically involved with incest.

"There is no incest in the picture," Scott said.

He explained the story deals with a cast of three on a deserted island without hope of rescue — father, mother, and son. In the course of 17 years, the son grows to maturity.

At the end, he said, the audience can conclude that incest does take place "after the picture ends."

AFTER FAILING to successfully appeal for a change in rating, Scott said he will release his picture next month in three large cities, three medium sized cities and in three rural areas.

"I am offering a money-back guarantee from me personally in those theaters to any parent who during the first week takes his child to see the film and agrees to the R rating," Scott said.

"I EXPECT a certain percentage of payoffs to wags and ripoff artists but I'm willing to chance that."

Scott, who wants to see the motion picture rating code changed said he tested "The Savage Is Loose," among wide ranging audiences and found that 61 percent rated the film PG (Parental Guidance) or G (General audience).

Callgirl Measures Challenged

OAKLAND (UPI) — Three women associated with the American Civil Liberties Union have filed a taxpayers' suit challenging the California anti-prostitution code.

The suit directed against the cities of Oakland, Berkeley and Emeryville names the Alameda County district attorney and director of health care services as defendants.

THE PLAINTIFFS are Mrs. Louise Riemer, incoming president of the Alameda County ACLU; Catherine Noonan, a Hastings Law School student, and Kay Nolenburger, Berkeley artist and activist.

They charge in the suit that taxpayers' money is wasted in the prosecution of prostitutes, who suffer the loss of free speech, privacy and their rights to due process of law.

The suit further charges that state and Penal Code section 647 is unconstitutional because it subjects women solicitors to "cruel and unusual punishment" while men solicitors for sexual conduct for money are not arrested.

Actress Cleared

MIAMI (UPI) — Carol Connors, co-star of the X-rated movie "Deep Throat," has been cleared of disorderly conduct charges stemming from a topless beach appearance last winter.

A second charge of improperly changing clothing on the beach also was dismissed this week in Dade County Circuit Court.

"Taking off the top of your bathing suit doesn't constitute disorderly conduct," said defense attorney Louis Beller.

Law Would Halt Abortion Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation before Congress would abolish federally-financed abortions for rape victims, pregnant women with potentially dangerous German measles and low-income mothers, HEW officials have concluded.

Dr. Louis Hellman, in an "impact" statement requested by congressional conferees, also said Thursday that deaths from illegal abortions could total 125 to 250 a year under the measure.

THE MEASURE, a Senate amendment to a $33 billion appropriations bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare, says: "No part of the funds appropriated under this act shall be used in any manner directly or indirectly to pay for or encourage the performance of abortions except such abortions as are necessary to save the life of the mother."

The HEW statement said the provision would "severely constrain" medical schools in teaching abortion techniques and prohibit counseling on the availability of abortion services by any agency receiving federal funds.

Hellman, HEW's top population affairs officer and a noted obstetrician-gynecologist, went even further in what he said was a personal, backup statement requested by the conferees.

HE ESTIMATED additional welfare costs alone would be $451 million to $565 million during the first year if all low-income women who were no longer eligible for federally funded abortions went ahead and had their babies.

But the human toll would be even greater, he said, listing these effects:

—Women who have had rubella (German measles) during the early stages of pregnancy, when the possibilities of an abnormal child is greatest, could not obtain abortions through HEW-supported programs.

—Rape victims could not be provided abortions by HEW-funded institutions.

—Welfare case workers could not refer recipients to abortion counseling agencies.

MEDICAID, HELLMAN said, is currently paying for up to 278,000 abortions a year at a cost of $50 million. If these abortions are eliminated, he added, the poor will resort to illegal or self-induced abortions or will deliver babies that taxpayers will end up supporting.

Hellman noted that women who can afford legal abortions also would be continuing to get them.

Carradine's Attorney Sees Terms

LOS ANGELES (AP) — David Carradine's lawyer says he expects a civil settlement of a recent incident in which the 37-year-old star of television's "Kung Fu" allegedly ransacked a neighbor's home.

But the lawyer, Richard Caballero, who won a three-week continuance Thursday in Municipal Court, said the performer will plead innocent to attempted burglary, malicious mischief and trespass if the criminal charges are not dropped.

"We believe this case will be resolved civilly and that all charges will be dropped. If there were any damages, they will be paid for."

Carradine allegedly smashed windows, rifled a bathroom medicine cabinet and overturned furniture in the Laurel Canyon home of Michael Loebner. Police said the actor left a trail of blood from Loebner's home to his own house a half block away.

Caballero added the two "are very friendly — they are neighbors, and this whole thing will be settled out of court."

Bad Word Bites Dust

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — James Ray Houston, the independent American Party candidate for governor, has agreed to eliminate a cussword used in some of his radio advertisements.

A spokesman for radio station KPTL said a flood of protesting phone calls were received after the ad was run using the word "Bull . . ."

The spokesman said the Federal Communications Commission rules prohibit the station from editing any political advertisement copy. But he said representatives from Houston contacted the candidate who agreed to have the word deleted.

KCET'S Fall Schedule Diverse, Inviting

The three shows highlighting the new lineup of broadcasts are a new 13-week sports retrospective series, "The Way It Was"; the return of "Masterpiece Theatre" which this season will feature 13 new episodes of the popular "Upstairs, Downstairs"; and the return of KCET's "Hollywood Television Theatre" with nine presentations not seen before on the television showcase.

KCET's 1974-75 fall and winter program schedule also includes outstanding series and specials which will air later in the season such as the 13-part BBC series, "The Ascent of Man," with the late Dr. Jacob Bronowski set for January. The series chronicles man's rise from prehistory through his technological and scientific progress.

"FEELING GOOD," a new weekly health series for adults produced by Children's Television Workshop, creators of "Sesame Street" and "Electric Company," debuts in November; and a series of classic contemporary Japanese film features begins in January.

The return premiere of Hollywood Television Theatre Wednesday, Oct. 23, at 9 p.m. marks the fifth season of the award-winning series produced by KCET and aired nationally over PBS. The season's opener stars Dame Judith Anderson in Enid Bagnold's "The Chinese Prime Minister."

The second production of the new season stars Richard Chamberlain in Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not For Burning," which airs Monday, Nov. 18, at 8 p.m.

Hollywood Television Theatre Executive Producer Norman Lloyd also has set a play by William Faulkner; Dorothy Parker's "Ladies Of The Corridor;" Oliver Hailey's "For The Use Of The Hall;" and a new adaption of Ibsen's "The Master Builder." Additional acquisitions for the 1974-75 season will be announced soon.

"The Way It Was," a 13-week sports series which revives great moments in American sports while the men who made them history relive and recall the events, premiered at 8 p.m. Thursday. Curt Gowdy hosts the weekly series which features film clips of the actual events, from baseball and football to boxing and hockey.

APPEARING in the series, remembering the way it was are scores of legendary sports figures such as Casey Stengel, Leo Durocher, Joe DiMaggio, Ralph Branca, Bobby Thompson, Sugar Ray Robinson, Joe Louis, and Glenn Davis.

The series is made possible by a grant from Mobil Oil Corporation, and is produced by Gerry Gross Productions at KCET in association with Syndicast Services, Inc.

"Masterpiece Theatre" opens the season with "Murder Must Advertise," a four-part series starring Ian Carmichael as the late Dorothy Sayers' fictional hero Lord Peter Wimsey. The first episode begins Sunday, Oct. 6, at 8:30 p.m. on KCET.

On Sunday, Nov. 3 "Upstairs, Downstairs" returns with 13 all-new episodes. Co-created by Jean Marsh and Eileen Atkins, the series was one of the most popular offerings on "Masterpiece Theatre" last season.

"Drink, Drank, Drunk," a 90-minute special starring Carol Burnett, airs Monday, Oct. 21, at 8 p.m. The program is part of a nationwide campaign to provide information and aid for families, friends, and employers of America's nine million "problem drinkers."

FOLLOWING THE special KCET will switch to live, local programs offering immediate help and information to viewers through the use of telephone banks and professionals on the subject. Channel 28 will broadcast live from the headquarters of the Alcoholism Council of Greater Los Angeles.

Alcoholism Awareness Week on KCET also will feature an open-ended family counselling session Oct. 22 at 10 p.m.; Tiger By The Tail at 8 p.m. Oct. 23; a special employer assistance program Oct. 24 at 8 p.m.; followed by a special Citywatchers on the issue of alcoholism in Los Angeles; and at 10:30 p.m. the showing of Fallen Angels.

On Friday, Oct. 4, at 8 p.m. KCET will debut its locally produced "Los Angeles News Review" series. Each week the program will probe local issues as interpreted by Southern California journalists. Nick Williams, former editor of The Los Angeles Times, is moderator of the series which will include four guest reporters on each program. This is the first of many new public affairs and news programs planned for KCET during the forthcoming months.

MUSIC BUFFS are offered a wide range of classical and contemporary programs this season on Channel 28. Classical presentations include seven outstanding operas and concerts beginning Monday, Oct. 14, at 8 p.m. with "In Performance At Wolf Trap." The programs originate from Wolf Trap Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

Other music series are "Canada Week at Chautauqua," Sunday, Oct. 6, at 7:30 p.m., and at 9:30 p.m. the Boston Symphony Orchestra's first of 12 concerts airs under the title of "Evening at Symphony."

Contemporary performances include six jazz concerts in "At The Top," from the "Top of the Plaza" restaurant in New York, and a 15-part jazz-blues-country music series from Chicago, entitled "Soundstage." It's slated for a November debut.

KCET's "Accion Chicano" began airing nationally last Tuesday, with a concert by the El Chicano rock group. The specially selected six, half hour programs air weekly at 10 p.m. and showcase Mexican American art, music, poetry and drama.

Returning with a new series of programs this year are the popular children's broadcasts "Sesame Street," "The Electric Company," "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood," "Zoom," and "Carrascolendas." A new addition to the children's category is "Villa Alegre," a bilingual, bi-cultural series designed for children ages four to eight.

Who's Zoo? And What Do They Say?

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Author Nancy McIntyre of Laguna Beach believes the expression "a pride of lions" may mean just what it says.

"I think animals have emotions just like humans do," Mrs. McIntyre, the author of a new photocaption book called "Wild Animals at Home," explained.

"For example, if you go to Lion Country Safari on a Sunday afternoon and look at a family of lions, you can see that they look just like any human family on a Sunday afternoon," she said.

In addition to pride, Mrs. McIntyre declared she's observed boredom, humor and anxiety in animals.

BUT SHE admitted her new book isn't really intended to show what the animals in the photographs were feeling.

For example, an Indian peafowl wouldn't be likely to gaze wistfully at its peacock-like fantail and remark, "I bought it on sale and I can't return it."

Nor is it probable that a lion cub would nuzzle its mother's ear and whisper, "Mama, were you ever a teenager?".

Instead, the author explained the book was intended to produce an emotion in its human readers—good humor.

"We decided there was a need for a humor book not about Watergate, inflation, pornography or the ecology," said Mrs. McIntyre, who published the book with her husband William, owner of Gala Books.

THE TWO, who have lived in Laguna Beach for 14 years, also publish a line of cookbooks, most of them by Mrs. McIntyre. The books are distributed through gift shops and bookstores nationwide.

Both have backgrounds in fields related to writing, editing and art. Mrs. McIntyre has written, in addition to her cookbooks, a guidebook to Italy and articles on food for the New York Times Magazine.

Her husband is a former cartoon editor for True and Esquire and a former Walt Disney cartoonist who worked on "Fantasia."

"I can't say we've had any exotic pets through the years, although we did have a friend in New York who had a llama and a wombat," said Mrs. McIntyre. "He trained animals for television."

SHE ADDED that their daughter Magan has had ducks, racoons, hamsters and lizards and once tried to tame a possum.

And Mrs. McIntyre said that since doing her photocaption book she's become fascinated with animals.

She explained that she decided on the book eight months ago and began sorting through hundreds of photographs provided by Lion Country Safari and the Los Angeles and San Diego zoos.

"I found that some animals like hippos, lions and the primates are very expressive," she said. "Others, like zebras, gazelles and most hooted animals, just aren't."

She also attributes conservative and liberal attitudes to different creatures, saying that to her an ostrich looks like a Republican and a hippopotamus looks like a Democrat.

"In fact, maybe I should do a book about that..." Mrs. McIntyre mused.

Belinda Smith and Roger Faubel assume positions for Ballet Pacifica's version of "Chopin Concerto," choreographed by Michael Panaieff for performances in Newport Beach and Laguna Beach.

Company in 13th Season

Ballet Pacifica to Give Newport, Laguna Shows

Following a successful presentation of "The Seasons" and "Carmina Burana" in Irvine Bowl last month, Ballet Pacifica is now launching its 13th season with performances in Newport Beach and Laguna Beach.

On Saturday, Oct. 12, at 2:30 p.m. in Newport Harbor High School Auditorium, 600 Irvine, the company will present Strauss' "Graduation Ball," choreography by David Lichine; "Fugitive Visions," choreography by Lila Zali, artistic director of Ballet Pacifica; and "Chopin Concerto," choreography by Michael Panaieff.

Slated for Sunday, Oct. 13 at 4 p.m. in the Laguna Moulton Playhouse, 606 Laguna Canyon Road, is the first membership program featuring two of the works that will be performed the previous day in Newport: "Chopin Concerto" and "Fugitive Visions", plus "Moldavian Dances," choreographed by Victor Moreno.

A champagne reception (donation $1) in the picnic area next to the Playhouse parking lot will follow this performance.

Ballet Pacifica's lead dancers include Belinda Smith, Cynthia Tosh, Mary Sayers, Joan Ross Gair, Kristi Stephens, David Panaieff, Paul Maure, Louise Frazer, Roger Faubel, Victor Moreno, Molly Lynch, Carrie Kneubuhl, Benjamin Sperber, Randy Barnett, Lisa Robertson, Billie Pulliam, Caroll Stasney, Louis Carver, Charles Colgan and Glenn Smith.

Tickets for the Saturday program in Newport Beach are $4 for adults and $3 for children under 12. They are on sale at the Music Hall, 61 Fashion Island.

For the Sunday performance in Laguna, tickets are $4 for the center section of the Laguna Moulton Playhouse and $3 for the side sections. These are available from the Ballet Center, 1863 South Coast Highway, Laguna Beach. Tickets will also be available at the respective box offices one hour before each performance.

For information and reservations for either show, and also for information on obtaining membership in Ballet Pacifica, call 494-7271.

Chuck Cecil 'Drops in'

Turning on Scott Manchester

Chuck Cecil, famous all over Southern California for his "Swingin' Years," brings the show and himself to Orange County Saturday to broadcast live and direct on San Clemente's KAPX from the Town and Country Shopping Center in Orange.

The KAPX helicopter will drop Mr. "Swingin'Years" at the center at 10:30 a.m. to sign autographs and greet fans prior to signing on for the hour-long show beginning at 11 a.m. on the KAPX spot on the dial (108 stereo FM).

"SOMETIMES they send me a dollar or two in the mail with a note saying something to the effect that they appreciate our almost continuous music, but we could probably use some money to keep our station going," KJOI General Manager Gordon Mason laughingly told me at a meeting not too long ago.

Mason who has been with KJOI since April of this year is a longtime figure on the local broadcasting scene, having amassed 20 years with such outlets as KBIG, KTLA, KMPC and KNX; still with all that broadcasting background he considers KJOI "a phenomenon in modern day radio . . . It came from relative obscurity as KCBH less than four years ago to being among the top five or six stations in the Southland today."

If you're a KJOI listener you're aware that some hours there are no commercials at all, there are never more than six spots in any given hour. Add to that the very finest in stereo equipment and you might have the formula for KJOI's success

However, equipment and relatively few commercials alone wouldn't build another KJOI. You'd also have to have the talents of Music Program Director Jim Schulkey who "orchestrates" the KJOI sound as well as the sound for other ABLE Communications-owned stations in Seattle, Atlanta and Dallas.

Mason went on to explain that once a format like KJOI is successful that includes the limited commercial concept, you're then able to charge the advertiser a little more for their message. Sounds simple and makes sense, still, others have tried and failed where KJOI has succeeded. Must have something to do with Schulkey . . .

LEONIE Rynsnek will be the featured performer in R. Strauss' opera, "Salome," tonight at 7:50 on KFAC, in that stations's continuous series of opera braodcasts being aired live from the San Francisco Opera House.

That station's program director Gerry Peterson is to be congratulated for securing such names as Alice Cooper, Elton John, Cheech and Chong and John Lennon, to sub for KHJ's morning man, Charlie Van Dyke, while Van Dyke vacationed this past week.

Best Parts of 'Old World' Available at Crossroads

Out 'n' About
Norman Stanley

Ever wondered what dining out is like in Bavaria, or Austria, or Italy? Or perhaps you remember a restaurant in one of those romantic locales and have always wanted to revisit it?

Now either as veteran traveler or stay-at-home dreamer you can experience "Old World Charm" at the Crossroads restaurant here in Orange County. This new Fountain Valley spot brings far away places to our very doorstep.

The Crossroads embraces four very large dining rooms, each in a different European style. The ambiance of each is relaxing and pleasant. When you enter there is an air of comfort, charm and warmth which demands a leisurely pace.

Waitresses in dirndl-style costumes served us a cocktail as we pondered the menu and decided on an appetizer. We chose the ceviche de pescado, $3.25, which is fresh poached fish and shrimp marinated in a delicious Latin American sauce. Other appetizers include chilled smoked salmon, $2.95; shrimp cocktail, $2.95; crab cocktail, $3.25; melon in season with proscuitto, $2.25.

FROM THE continental selections on the menu we chose scampi ala Roma, $7.95, giant Mediterranean shrimp, sauteed with a hint of garlic and herbs. Further adorning the plate was a superb risotto. The garlic was just right: not too strong but definitely there.

The other dinner we ordered was "from France". Young game hen Parisienne, $5.25, roasted to a beautiful brown, stuffed with rice dressing and covered with an orange sauce was the center of this entree.

Carrots vichy were a delicious and colorful complement. The game hen was moist, tender and succulent, and the herbs in the rice dressing were especially pungent.

From Austria you may choose traditional Vienna schnitzel, $6.95, which is Eastern veal lightly breaded and served with Lyonnaise potatoes. Or, you may light up with sarma, $4.95, from Yugoslavia.

THIS TEMPTING entree is cabbage leaves stuffed with chopped beef, pork, rice and herbs. The whole thing is then simmered with sauerkraut and served with boiled parsleyed potatoes.

Two specialties from England include roast prime ribs of beef, $7.50, which has been settled in rock salt in the true British manner. It is roasted and served with Yorkshire pudding and, of course, natural beef juices. A roast rack of baby lamb, $6.95, is the other English entree.

From Russia comes a dish called Shashlik, $7.95. Tender cubes of marinated baby lamb skewered with peppers, onions and mushrooms are then broiled to your specifications and served on a bed of kasha.

All entrees include hot bread and butter and salad or soup du jour. The latter the night of our visit was a very tasty vegetable and barley. A la carte soup selections include onion or two types of clam chowder, 95 cents.

The Crossroads also serves from a large broiler menu. Australian lobster with drawn butter, $9.50; broiled Catalina swordfish almandine, $5.25; double cut Iowa pork chops, $6.95; filet mignon, $8.25; are some of the entrees available. All are served with soup du jour or salad, stuffed baked potato, and hot bread and butter.

SOME SPECIAL salads and vegetables will tempt you as well. Try the beefsteak tomato and red onion salad, $1.50, sauteed mushroom caps, $1.50, or perhaps asparagus with Hollandaise, $1.50.

If you happen in late (after midnight) and are feeling a bit empty, the restaurant provides a small but very nice late supper menu. You can choose top sirloin steak sandwich, $4.25; shrimp or crab Louie, $3.50; or an Ortega chile and cheese omelette, $2.95.

Crossroads has a well-rounded luncheon menu with two daily specials. Typical of the latter is baked pork chop and sauerkraut with lyonnaise potatoes, $1.95, or Hungarian beef tips, butter noodles and vegetables, $2.35.

REGULARLY, a large selection of sandwiches, omelettes and plate luncheons, ranging in price from $1.95 to $3.25, will more than get you through to dinner. The lunch diet corner has a cold prime rib plate, $2.95, and a ground sirloin lo-cal, $2.25, served with cottage cheese and sliced tomatoes.

Luncheon salads include Crossroads salad bowl, $2.75, and the secretaries delight, $2.75. This last is a special open faced shrimp sandwich on rye bread with avocado, tomatoes and thousand island dressing.

As the menu announces, Crossroads has indeed selected famous traditional and continental foods to excite the palates of many nationalities. Lunch is served daily, Monday through Friday, and dinner Sunday through Thursday, 5 to 11 p.m., and on Friday and Saturday, 5 p.m. to 12 midnight.

A Sunday champagne buffet brunch is served from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Banquet facilities are available and there's dancing and entertainment seven nights a week.

Crossroads is located at 18050 Brookhurst (corner of Talbert, one block south of the San Diego Freeway), Fountain Valley. Reservations at 963-6711.

'Seagull,' 'Alice' At UCI

Anton Chekhov's "The Seagull" will be presented at UC Irvine Thursday.

The Manhattan Project, a New York-based experimental theater group under the direction of Andre Gregory, will showcase its version of the classic in the Fine Arts Village Theatre at 8 p.m.

The following night the company will present its Freudian-Kakaesque version of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland."

"ALICE" was developed by the Manhattan Project during two years of rehearsals at the New York University School of Fine Arts and in performance at theaters and festivals in the United States and Europe. The audience will be seated on the UCI stage and, due to the unusual style of production, there will be no late seating.

"Seagull" will be presented as a work-in-progress following recent theater festival performances. The company is working directly with a Russian scholar on a new translation of the Chekhow play exploring the mores and fears of a Russian family in changing times.

The two performances are sponsored by the UCI Committee for Arts with the cooperation of the UC Intercampus Cultural Exchange Committee.

Tickets at $4.50 for each production are available at the Associated Students Ticket Office on the first floor of Gateway Commons weekdays between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. and at the Fine Arts Box Office in Fine Arts Village after 7 p.m. the evenings of the performances. For further information call the Committee for Arts (714) 833-6587.

Bay Area Ballet In Trouble

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Ballet, reported in severe financial straits, is mounting a public campaign to raise $500,000 by the end of this month.

The San Francisco Chronicle reported today the troupe, the oldest surviving American ballet company, faces immediate extinction unless it can get the needed half million dollars. It said a plan to raise the funds will be unveiled at a news conference today.

About $15,000 already has been raised in contributions and the dancers themselves have volunteered for a personal telephone and door-to-door campaign.

The Chronicle said a budget of $1.4 million is required for fiscal 1974-75, but the troupe's deficit reportedly runs into six figures.

Eleven major dancers, including Rudolf Nureyev, had been announced for the 1975 season.

Festival Honors China, Culture

Seven films about contemporary life in China, with commentary led by Southern California China authorities, will be one of the highlights of a U.S.-China friendship festival at Golden West College, Saturday.

The day-long festival, opening at 10 a.m. in the theater patio, will feature food and product booths, art exhibits, martial arts demonstration, the Chinatown Chorus, and dance group.

Co-sponsoring the event are Golden West's social science division and the Orange County chapter of the U.S.-China Peoples' Friendship Association. Anaheim, a nonprofit organization seeking better understanding between the two nations.

PRODUCED by British journalist Flexis Greene, the 15-minute color films show China's communes, current developments in agriculture, industry, education, medicine, including dramatic footage on acupuncture treatment, and a look at the Chinese army.

Film showings will begin at 10 a.m. and run hourly through 4 p.m.

In addition, there will be a continual showing of slides by the recent returnees from China.

The martial art demonstrations will begin at noon, starting with Kung Fu, instructed by Ted Sias, a second degree black belt; judo, at 1 p.m., by John C. Kim, former All-Asia champion; kendo, 3 p.m., by Akira Miyazaki, second degree black belt; and aikido, 3:30 p.m., by Harry Isizaka.

Ten members of the 20-voice Chinatown Chorus, one of the hits at a Los Angeles Convention Center program in August, will present a medley of Chinese folk songs, at 11 a.m., followed by a Chinatown dance group at 11:30 a.m.

Booths will display Chinese products, including toys, clothing, posters, music records, and confectioneries, along with arts and crafts.

Series Looks At Artists

"Pioneers of Modern Painting," a new film series written and narrated by Lord Kennth Clark, will be shown free to the public at two times and locations in Orange County.

The series will be shown at Hashinger Hall, Chapman College Science Center on Grand Avenue, north of Palm Street, at 7 p.m. Tuesdays through Oct. 29.

Bowers Museum, 2002 N. Main St., Santa Ana, is the site of the second series which will be shown at 1 p.m. Wednesdays in the museum auditorium, through Oct. 30.

The series is a look at the life and works of Edouard Manet, Paul Cezanne, Claude Monet, George Seurat, Henri Rousseau and Edvard Munch. All of the artists exeept for Munch, were impressionists and post-impressionists.

Last Tuesday, the Manet film initiated the series, which was produced by Colin Clark, Lord Clark's son, and distributed with a grant made possible by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

For information, call the Bowers Museum at 834-4024 or Chapman College at 633-8821.

Schedules Announced

Coast Season Firming Up

The new season of living theater on the Orange Coast is becoming a bit more solidified with the announcements of completed or semi-completed schedules by a handful of local producing groups.

Previously, the only companies announcing a full season were the Huntington Beach Playhouse and the Irvine Community Theater, both of which traditionally have their seasonal slates firmed up before the first fall auditions are held.

Today we have the official word on all but two plays of South Coast Repertory's season, all but the finale for the Laguna Moulton Community Playhouse and the complete schedules for the Westminster Community Theater and Orange Coast College's drama department.

SOUTH COAST repertory, which bills its 10th anniversary season as featuring "the fines plays in the world," opens the new schedule tonorrow night with Tom Stoppard's "The Real Inspector Hound." Following will be the first exposures of two more long-awaited dramas, "That Championship Season" and "The Hot L Baltimore," by a par of hot young playwrights, Jason Miller (of "The Exorcist") and Lanford Wilson.

Intermission
Tom Titus

Then in February, a full decade after SCR first appeared on the Orange Coast, we'll have another look at "Tartuffe," the play that introduced the repertory company to local audiences. Negotiations are under way for the last two shows of the season, one of which may be the nostalgic comedy classic "You Can't Take It With You."

Laguna, which previously announced "Mister Roberts" and "The Matchmaker" to follow its current opener, "A Majority of One," has added two new releases already being pounced on by other groups to its list. These would be "No Sex, Please, We're British" and the play everyone's ganging up on "6 Rms Riv Vu." The final slot remains a question mark.

THERE'S SOME exciting news at Westminster, now in rehearsal for "6 Rms." The third show will be "Stop the World — I Want to Get Off" with Kent Johnson at the helm, the closest thing to a guaranteed success you can find in local theater. Winding up the Westminster season will be the superheavy Archibald MacLeish drama "J. B." and the new Neil Simon comedy "The Prisoner of Second Avenue."

Speaking of theatrical excitement, Orange Coast College has "Godspell" and "Lenny" as its first two productions. "Godspell" just finished rewriting the record books at South Coast Repertory, while "Lenny" is the high-voltage biographical drama of Lenny Bruce, for which Ron Christie has been cast in the title role.

OCC's schedule takes a somber turn after the first of the year, with Chekhov's "The Sea Gull" and Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot" on the calendar. "Godot," by the way, will be offered next month at Golden West College.

BACKSTAGE Three well-known local performers are featured in the cast of "Steambath," now on the boards through Oct. 19 at the La Mirada Playhouse . . . . . Ron Filian, LaDonna deBarros and Arvid Maalna appear in the show, the "swan song" for director Fred West (of Westminster summer musical fame) . . . . . West and his wife Rita will be leaving soon for Germany for at least three years.

Baseball's Best Pitchers And FAMILY WEEKLY's All America High School Football Forecast

FAMILY WEEKLY asked baseball's best hitters to rate the best pitchers and seven college talent scouts and coaches to choose the 1974 high school All-Stars.

This week FAMILY WEEKLY's panel of baseball's best hitters rate who they think are the best pitchers. Learn from the fellows at bat who they think are tops on the mound pitching fast balls and curves. Seven great batters from both the American League and the National League selected seven top pitchers in each league. And FAMILY WEEKLY also announces its 1974 High School All-America Forecast with 30 players selected by a panel of college talent scouts and coaches. Today's high school players' skills and statistics are hard to tell from those of college players.

What Makes People Live Dangerously?

True or False? People who risk their lives in sports that involve extreme hazards — sky-diving, etc. — are the most susceptible to the charms of the opposite sex.

This week our People Quiz asks five questions about taking risks with your money and your life. Learn who the real risk-takers are, when they take risks and why. You'll find that there's a little bit of risk-taking in all of us.

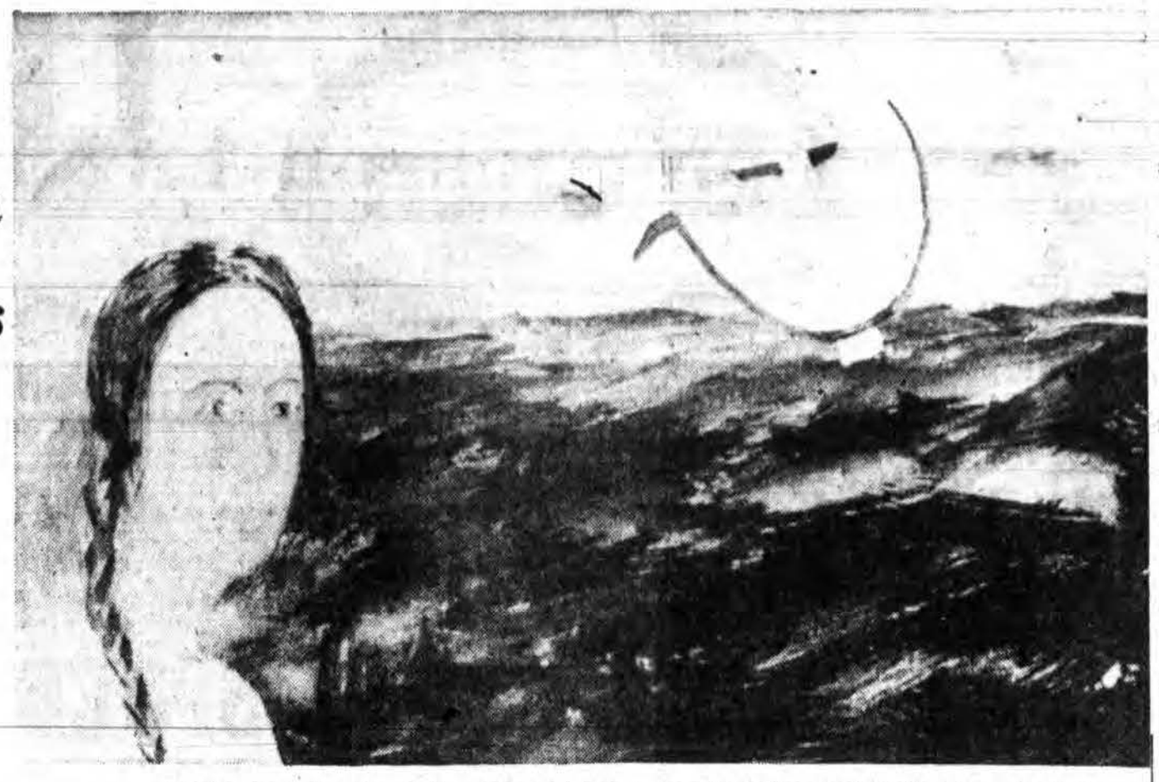
Soviet Sock Art Looks at Russian World of Slogans

Editor's Note: Two non-conforming Soviet artists, Alexander Melamid and Vitaly Komar, were among the sock artists who participated in the Moscow art exhibit which was violently disrupted on a recent Sunday afternoon. Novelist Herbert Gold's account of his meeting with these two artists is excerpted here from the October issue of "Playboy."

By HERBERT GOLD
Distributed By United Press International



Typical sock art painting: Huge hammer and sickle upside down UPI Telephoto

"Pop art," explained my friend Sasha, "represents the excess of things — soup cans, jell-o boxes. Sock art represents the excess of ideology — slogans, poster messages."

Sock art?

Sasha explained that they do these satirical pictures of slogans and poster styles, not really satirical, they don't mean to be funny, they mean to be true. Yes, the artists were desperate for a window to the West and would be pleased to have a visit, even with my police tails. Sasha and I took a cab and another cab followed us.

Sock art, socialist pop art, is the creation of two young men, Alexander Melamid, very skinny, married, wife pregnant, and Vitaly Komar, divorced, watchful. They used to be Soviet painters. Now they have been expelled from their painters union for ideological degradation and they are not Soviet painters anymore. They are forbidden underground painters. The two men work in a tiny apartment . . . Melamid, goggle-eyed behind his galasses, was the patient explainer. The sturdier Komar, a bit of the soccer player in his style, carried and propped paintings in corners for me to examine.

WISPY, worn-out, a frail boy, Melamid remarks very precisely: "The mass culture which surrounds you is tomato soup can. The mass culture which surrounds us is poster about maternity, is slogan about party and people united, is portrait of Solzhenitsyn as dog with fangs, is Moshe Dayan with swastika for eye patch."

What surrounds us in this small room with its shades drawn, the closed down opposite of an artist's loft in, say, New York or San Francisco, is a succession of visions of Soviet reality. "In our dreams we cannot get rid of posters," Komar remarks. "So when we paint girls, they have this cubist look. It is not always so sad."

"They say we are crazy and maybe we need shock treatment. That is a little bit sad," says Melamid. "It is an interesting diagnosis."

We all think a bit on this, and then Melamid proceeds with what interests him more than his fate at this moment — to make sure I begin to understand the vision he has come to as he works here in the dark, with bare bulbs, with shades drawn, with spying neighbors.

"Totalitarianism, you see, creates privacy instead of making public men. Man is driven into himself by the pressure of mass. We want to show how men are made alone and we paint together, Komar and I, to eliminate personal fact and show only fact."

He notices that I am uncomfortable about this small-group effort. "We work not in art but in ideas about art. Art is a tool for us."

"PAINTING is your form of, uh, the word we use in the United States, it's almost a cliche now . . . dissidence?"

"We've heard the word. No. We are not dissidents, we are artists and we make ideas. We express a certain inertia, active inertia."

Komar sets up a conventional setting-sun painting, only the setting sun is a Hammer and Sickle. They are taking the psychology of their time and expressing it as if it is reality, because, indeed, it fills the air they breathe, and not with inertia.

During the worst days of Stalinism, the painters who made their careers on repeated heroic expressions of Stalin speaking, Stalin thinking, Stalin sympathetic, Stalin steel-like also produced an avalanche of landscapes, by some comfortable reflex action. Komar and Melamid have parodied these lobotomized landscapes without the glorification of sloganized abstraction. Under their bare light bulbs they have been very busy and very productive, undistracted by gallery owners, buyers, exhibits or public discussion.

TO BE expelled from their union for violating the principles of socialist realism means that these two young men are now outlaw artists. This is a contradiction in terms. If you're not a member of the union, you're not an artist. They write letters of protest to officialdom; officialdom does not stop to answer outlaws.

Officialdom has more important papers to shuffle. They know that the K.G.B. is gathering information about them. Sock art must seem insane to cops. What can happen? What happens when only cops are free?

They are not dissidents or revolutionaries or heroes. They are only artists with several good jokes and a certain intensity. All they have is talent and stubbornness. They have some playful visions and some poignant ones, and they seek time and space, paints, canvas and freedom to work

The world will not protect unknown artists. If they are declared crazy, who can argue for them? No trial is necessary. As Melamid says mildly, "the average Soviet psychiatrist will certify us."

Tickets Available

Single tickets for the opening concert of the Glendale Symphony's 52nd season go on sale Monday.

The orchestra's first concert is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 26, at 8:30 p.m. in the Music Center Pavilion and features pianist Leonard Pennario, performing the Second Piano Concerto by Rachmaninoff with Music Director Carmen Dragon conducting the Second Symphony and the Vocalise in an all-Rachmaninoff program.

This season the orchestra celebrates the 10th anniversary of Carmen Dragon as music director in addition to the 10th anniversary of the Music Center Pavilion itself.

For tickets, call the Music Center Box Office (626-7211) and all branches of the Mutual (627-1248) and Liberty (246-3300) ticket agencies. Tickets are priced from $5.75 to $2.50.

Glidden LIGHTS UP

SPECIAL OFFER

FREE 4-PAK OF GENERAL ELECTRIC LITE BULBS (40, 60, 75 or 100 WATT) WITH EACH GALLON OF GLIDDEN BRAND PAINT PURCHASED. 1.48 VALUE

SPRED SATIN

Still the best latex, scrubbable paint made. And you can get this rich, velvety paint in over 2,000 colors and shades. Dries quickly, no unpleasant painty odor, no lap marks, you can retouch months later and it blends in. Perfect uniformity. Could say much more, but one use will convert you.

6.67 GAL.

SPRED GLIDE-ON

Years and years of good looking service. Thick and rich. A breeze to brush or roll-on. Thousands of colors and shades to choose from. Smog, fog, rain, or sun, it holds up and delivers what you expect from a good paint.

6.67 GAL.

LATEX ANTIQUE KITS

Now you can antique furniture, frames, railings, or any wood surface in one day. Kit is complete. You supply the time and pay yourself the refinishing cost.

3.97

GLID-STRIP PAINT-REMOVER

Wipe or brush on and, in a few seconds, you can wash it and the old paint right off. Gets those difficult curves and hollows faster and easier than sanding. Take it right down to the natural wood this easier way.

8.97 GAL.

NATIONAL INTERIOR LATEX WALL PAINT

2.99 GAL.

Inflation has made this good price even better. Choice of eight pastel colors. Good paint, read the analysis on the label, it's got stuff in it.

NATIONAL 7-YEAR LATEX WALL PAINT

3.99 GAL.

Sounds like a long guarantee. No risk for us, we know what's in it and who makes it for us. Choice of thousands of colors and shades. Fast drying, easy applying with brush or roller.

NATIONAL 7-YEAR EXTERIOR STUCCO PAINT

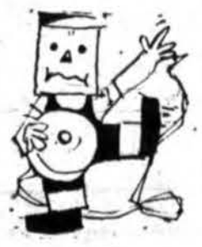
4.99 GAL.

We can darn near match any shade you ask for. Rich, thick, and one coat covers almost any color. For all exterior stucco, masonry, or brick. Clean up spills with plain water. Seven year guarantee.

SPRED GLOSS AEROSOL PAINT

For wood or metal. Resists rust. Plenty of pigment, finely ground, to cover better with less waste. We can't talk Glidden without talking quality, they go together.

1.47 CAN



MASKING TAPE

We'll get you into the job saving money on paint and on accessories too.

Stay away from Newport Crest unless you are an architecture freak

The clipped eave, shingled roof, saltbox style done entirely in wood, wood, wood will turn you on. Or off. But, if spectacular hilltop townhomes utterly unlike any others, perched above the rest of Newport Beach, stroke your psyche, whiz right in for a leisurely stroll-through (or super golf cart tour). See 2, 3, 4 bedrooms, decks, balconies, note luxury, feel the graciousness, have affluent feelings and the urge to whip out your check book. At $53,000 and up, you gotta love the architecture and swimming and tennis. Newport Beach: Coast Highway to Superior and second gear up the hill.

Master Plan for Parks Coming to Clemente

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

San Clemente city officials — reacting to the healthiest financial picture in many years — are poised for a massive parks development program in coming months.

With a special parks purchase and development account swelling as never before, the city has the capacity of committing about $400,000 to the development of existing and future parklands.

"It is a situation which we always have dreamed about, but only now do we finally have the cash to do some real development," City Manager Kenneth Carr said today.

The bulk of the cash is the accumulation of fees paid by developers who chose to pay, instead of granting land as their parks commitment. Added to those funds was the $100,000 in revenue-sharing cash which the council committed earlier this year.

Thus far the city has ordered up a master plan of development for three city parks which already are acquired, plus a larger parcel which could be purchased from the State of California.

And in recent weeks yet another possible site has emerged as an option to the city.

Plans for a 10-million-gallon, underground reservoir on property near Civic Center have been firmed up by the Tri Cities Municipal Water District. The city plans to negotiate for a lease to use the land over the reservoir as a park.

City Councilmen heard an initial report from Carr this week on the cheerful parks situation, but thus far have not acted on a suggestion by the city staff that a parks planner become part of the city's permanent payroll.

If the extra employe is not hired, the council has indicated that it might contract with a private planning firm to supervise the actual construction of improvements at the new parks.

Among the parcels on the top of the list for developmnet are:

—Bonita Canyon, a major existing park surrounding the Boys Club along Calle Valle, where major improvements are proposed.

—Linda Lane, a small parcel near the city beach, where a neighborhood park concept would be used in improving the barren ground.

—San Gorgonio, the large piece of acreage, measuring more than 20 acres, which could be bought from the California Department of Transportation. The only hitch to this one is a bitter dispute between the city and state agency on the price for the parcel. Special legislation, opposed by the transportation department, calls for the purchase of the land in Shorecliffs at the original price paid when the parcel was earmark-

Gas Tax Out, Says President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has ruled out any gasoline tax increase and is firmly opposed to gas rationing but will ask Americans to "bite the bullet" in an anti-inflation program with mandatory features, his spokesman said today.

White House press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will disclose "proposals to help alleviate problems with credit and interest rates" in an address to a joint session of Congress at 1 p.m. (PDT) Tuesday.

Nessen would neither confirm nor deny widespread speculation that Ford would seek some form of tax increase as part of his inflation-fighting package.

But he quoted Ford as telling Republican congressional leaders today that there are "hard choices we and the American people have to make as we bite the bullet on curbing inflation."

Nessen also quoted Treasury Secretary William Simon as telling the GOP congressional leaders that the Ford program "in its most general terms will require and encourage Americans to save more, reduce waste and produce more."

Nessen gave few details of Ford's proposals, saying only tentative decisions have been made and that additional review is required.

But, responding to newsmen's questions at a White House briefing, Nessen

Clemente Gas Station Robbed By 'Marine'

A bandit simulating a gun and emphasizing that his victim should tell police that he was robbed by a Marine made off with $125 in cash from a San Clemente service station late Thursday.

Employes at the Fill-Em-Up-Quick budget station at 910 S. El Camino Real said the man appeared at the station at 9:02 p.m.

After simulating a pistol in his blue jacket, the holdup man demanded cash, took it and fled into the darkness on foot. Police searched the city for several hours without spotting a suspect

The robber was described as a male in his late 20s, with medium-length blond hair. He wore a blue jacket and light blue pants, officers said.

Oil Drilling OK Assured, Aide Warns

By FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A week's trip to the nation's capital has convinced the chairman of the regional coastal commission that offshore oil drilling along the Orange County coast is a "foregone conclusion."

Dr. Donald Bright, head of the 12-member state panel preparing a plan to guide the future of the coast, made the remark following a Town Hall of California luncheon Thursday in Anaheim.

Responding to a question, Bright said, "I think it's a foregone conclusion we're going to have offshore oil drilling."

Bright said he recently spent a week in Washington D. C. meeting with officials in various sections of the Department of the Interior, the agency that has proposed 1.6 million acres of offshore waters between Santa Barbara and Dana Point be opened for drilling.

The department has defended the proposal as one means of helping increase oil production to meet the country's energy needs.

Bright said that, although it appears the offshore drilling plan will go into effect, it is not too late to demand sufficient safeguards to avoid adverse environmental impacts from drilling operations.

"It can happen with more thought and constraint," the Cal State Fullerton biologist said.

Technology is being developed for subsurface drilling and new safety

10 Million Acres

Oil Leasing Plan Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top Interior Department official has ordered the government to prepare a plan to lease 10 million acres of potential offshore oil sites next year in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said that it obtained an internal Interior Department memo written by Undersecretary John C. Whitaker ordering development of a plan for leasing of "all the promising areas of the Atlantic" as well as for a sale next year of the leases for drilling sites on the bottom of the Pacific. The Pacific site was identified as off Alaska.

Whitaker confirmed he had written the Sept. 10 memo, in a telephone interview with the newspaper Thursday night, the Post said. The plan was to have been ready Sept. 30, but is expected to be finished next week, according to the Post.

The plan, strongly opposed by environmentalists, would open as much as 13 million acres of ocean bottom to exploration by oil and gas companies next year, including the promising Baltimore Canyon site — a deep sea trench about 60 miles off the New Jersey-Delaware coast, the paper said.

The memo read in part:

"The undersecretary (Whitaker) wants a firm leasing schedule laid out that definitely includes the following items: (1) 10 million acres leased in 1975 — not just 10 million acres offered; (2) a sale in 1975 in both Alaska and the Atlantic; (3) an alternative, if No. 2 fails, which will still allow leasing of 10 million acres.

"On the same time schedule, the undersecretary wants a plan for a lease sale on the Atlantic in 1975 that would include some leases in all the promising areas of the Atlantic, rather than just the sale limited to Baltimore Canyon."

The newspaper said the memo was signed by Jared G. Carter, a deputy undersecretary, who sent it to the directors of the department's Bureau of Land Management and Geological Survey.

The Bureau of Land Management manages the leasing of offshore oil tracts, while the Geological Survey estimates how much oil there is in a given area.

'Rape Victim' Invites 2 Men to Home, Slays 1

Girl Tells Of Assault In County

From Wire Services

LONG BEACH — A young woman, who was raped by two men, asked them to a return date and then killed one with a shotgun as her family looked on, police said today.

Deborah Kantaeng, 19, was booked on suspicion of murder.

Police said she told them that she was abducted by two men as she left work in a Cerritos shopping center Wednesday and they drove her to a park in Santa Ana and raped her.

In return for releasing her without further harm, she said, she promised not to call police and to give them her telephone number so they could reach her again.

They called Thursday afternoon, and it was agreed they would come to her home, investigators said.

Police said when the two walked in, they found themselves confronted by Miss Kantaeng, who was holding a shotgun. The woman's father, two brothers and girlfriend were also present, police said.

The other man fled. Police later arrested Carl Tice, 21, of Santa Ana. He was held for investigation of murder

SIDEBURN LAWS DISCRIMINATORY

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Rules against long sideburns discriminate illegally against men, a state hearing examiner has ruled.

The ruling was in the case of Ben Klokow and Vernon Gerber, both of Watertown, and Robert Werner, Jefferson, former employes of Wollin Silos and Equipment, Inc.

The examiner recommended that the state ordered the firm to lift its ban on long sideburns and pay the three wages they lost when they quit in a dispute over the regulation.

Laguna in Buff?

Beachgoers Favor Nude Sections

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Beachgoers in Laguna Beach are overwhelmingly in favor of setting aside areas for nude swimming and sunbathing.

This was one of the findings in a recent study by UC Irvine Social Scientist Ruth Wallace, conducted for the Kalos Kagathos Foundation of Laguna Beach.

"Frankly, I was surprised," said Ms. Wallace after finding that 83 percent of the 575 beachgoers questioned approved of nude beaches.

Ms. Wallace noted, however, that those who disapproved of nude beaches "disapproved very strongly."

"I would say this is a controversial issue," she said.

A list of 13 questions was handed out to beachgoers during the first three weekends in September, Ms. Wallace said. She found that 37 percent of those queried were Laguna Beach residents and of these, 63 percent were property owners.

About half of those questioned have children, the study showed.

Asked if they would go to a nude beach, 46 percent said yes, 29 percent no, and the rest perhaps or don't know.

Rocket Racer To Be on View

Speed enthusiasts and racing fans may view the ArmorAll rocket car, which can reach 326 miles per hour in 4.82 seconds, Saturday at Newport Beach's Fashion Island.

The pencil-like vehicle which broke the world record for speed in the quarter-mile may be seen from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at Penney's Auto Center.

Officers Resume Questioning of Man in Shooting

Orange County Sheriff's officers today resumed their questioning of a young man who has repeatedly told them that his girlfriend shot him in the arm moments after they met in Capistrano Beach and then shot herself through the head.

Investigators would only comment today that they have not yet reached a determination in the death of Dora Rodriguez, 22, of 31796 El Camino Real, San Juan Capistrano.

Her boyfriend, John Reyes, 19, of 4017 Calle Juno, San Clemente, remains in San Clemente General Hospital where he is being treated for a bullet wound that shattered his right arm.

"He may go home later today," an investigator commented. "But he is aware that we have not yet completed our inquiries into the death of Miss Rodriguez."

The body of Miss Rodriguez, one of nine children, was found early Thursday slumped between two cars parked at Via de Agua and Camino Los Ramblas in Capistrano Beach.

The two autos parked on the dead end street were identified as belonging to Reyes and Miss Rodriguez.

Reyes, who remained on the scene, immediately gave sheriff's officers the account of the incident that he has repeated several times before and after surgery — that she shot him and then put the .38-caliber revolver to her own head and fired.

Sheriff's officers said deputies who patrol the Capistrano Beach area reported seeing the couple parked at several occasions in the area in recent months.

Anonymous Callers Hit San Clemente Officials

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

FOR MANY YEARS, there seemed to be a gentleman's attitude toward city government in San Clemente, and elected officials frequently would take criticism delivered in a traditional honorable fashion.

Their critics seemed to make themselves clearly seen, heard and identified.

VALTERZA

But something has caused a change in that style in recent weeks, and the results are disturbing.

City councilmen these days in San Clemente are finding that evening — and sometimes predawn — phone callers are making life miserable.

In recent weeks most members of the council have found themselves vilified by anonymous callers. During some periods, the calls keep up well beyond the normal sleeping hours and no one says a word once the recipient picks up the phone.

The issue which has brought this malice to the four is the appointment of a fifth member of the panel.

AT LEAST THREE of the four initial members of the council — as well as the appointee — report they have been subjected to the nuisance calls since Charles Fox won appointment to the council.

Councilman Tony DiGiovanni, who offered Fox as a nominee, was among the first to receive the harassing calls.

One caller became so vicious, that his comments prompted the councilman to notify police.

The same has happened with City Councilman B. Patrick Lane.

He, too, has reported the incidents to police investigators.

Mayor Thomas O'Keefe, the obvious veteran of the council who is in his third term, has reported the same.

"I'm pretty used to it by now," O'Keefe said recently. "After being the lone dissenter on the council votes for years, that sort of stuff just slides off."

THE RECIPIENTS OF the recent harassing calls insist the effect is not one of fear or intimidation.

None is so naive to think that because you are a public servant that the whole world likes you.

What is irksome, obviously, is the effect of such tactics on a man's family.

And a secondary effect — just as important — is the possibility that city officials will declare that they and the members of the family have had enough of the pranks and annoying accusations on the other end of the line.

AND IF THEY FEEL compelled to order an unlisted number, it will mean that the cowardly dimwits who resort to anonymous phone pranks will have successfully killed a prime ingredient in local government and control by its citizens.

It will mean that citizens with genuine concerns and a serious reason to phone an elected official will have lost access to that person.

And when officials are forced to shut off that access, local government suffers.

If the tactics continue in San Clemente, that could occur.

Even Children Feeling Pinch

The East San Francisco Bay Regional Park District announced Thursday that it will cost 45 cents instead of 35 cents to ride any of the 17 Shetland ponies in the Tilden Park children's area.

Unbridled inflation has increased the costs of alfalfa, hay and veterinary services, say pony ride operators David and Frances Horn.

Clementean Finds He's Clay Pigeon

San Clemente developer Al Wulfeck couldn't be classified as a foe of firearms, but when the buckshot starts to land on his doorstep, he figures the best way to stop it is with a few potshots of his own.

The shot, says the San Clemente resident, comes from the muzzles of shotguns fired at clay pigeons at the city's trap and skeet range.

And when a novice is at the trigger and fires too soon at the "bird", the shot pelts Wulfeck's new house on a knoll 150 yards away.

Wulfeck brought the matter before city councilmen last Wednesday and demanded some sort of relief.

His next-door neighbor has found bird shot on his doorstep as well.

"I don't know if it comes that far with any velocity, but to be frank, I don't want to test it out, either," he said.

After a brief presentation, Wulfeck won council promises of a thorough and immediate staff examination of the effects of shooting at the range near Vista Bahia Park.

Wulfeck added a second request of councilmen — the banning of shooting on Sundays.

"Hell," he said Wednesday, "in this town I can't order a ready-mix truck or fire up a saw on Sunday. I figure that six days a week of shooting is sufficient."

University Study

Laguna Niguel: White and Happy

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

White, upper-income, and contented: that's Laguna Niguel, according to a sociological study released recently by the University of North Carolina.

Laguna Niguel was one of 13 new, planned communities in the U.S. picked by the New Community Development Project for a research study. The findings were based on 208 interviews conducted here in the spring of 1973.

The survey showed that 56 percent of the community commute more than a half hour to work each day, and more than 50 percent drive 25,000 miles a year or more.

Ninety-two percent work outside the community, and automobile transportation is almost exclusively the law of the land. One percent said they use public transportation, and 73 percent said they have two or more cars.

Asked what facility they wanted most in their neighborhood, the residents gave the highest rating to a library, with an outdoor swimming pool, a quiet place to sit and walk, and a playground coming close behind.

(The county announced recently it is sifting through possible sites for a library in Laguna Niguel, and has narrowed the choices to five locations.)

Probed for their attitudes on racial mix, 50 percent of the Laguna Niguel residents said they felt "moderate-income white families" would harm their neighborhood. In addition, 62 percent said "moderate income black families" would harm the community.

Rating lower were low-income families—either black or white, which more than 80 percent of the residents felt would do the neighborhood harm.

The reasons most often cited for moving to Laguna Niguel were climate, nearness to the natural environment, and because it appeared to be a good place to raise children.

Overwhelmingly, the respondents believe that their life in Laguna Niguel is better than it was before they moved here.

They gave high ratings to the community's school system, overall planning, layout and space of the housing, climate, and natural envirnoment.

What they like least, according to the study, is the difficulty in finding a job in the community and the cost of living here. A total of 70 percent of the residents make over $15,000 a year; 21 percent make over $25,000.

Residents were also queried about their opinion of the developer, AVCO Community Developers, Inc. Only 13 percent said they feel AVCO "does what the citizens want."

Thirty-one percent said they believe the developer has too much control of the homeowners association and 43 percent said they are inadequately informed about future plans for the community.

In the center of a highly mobile community, 71 percent of Laguna Niguel's residents plan to stay where they are, the survey shows.

Of those who are thinking of moving, housing and physical environment problems were given most often as the reasons. The social environment and job transfers were also mentioned.

mechanisms that can help prevent oil spills such as the one that occurred in Santa Barbara in 1969, Bright said.

He said the exact timing of the leases will depend on the outcome of "Project Blueprint," an Interior Department study to determine precisely what the country's energy needs are.

The commission chairman asserted that the environmental impact statement prepared by the Bureau of Land Management for the offshore drilling proposal falls far short of dealing with alternate energy sources.

"We need a proper — and I stress the word proper — environmental impact report from the bureau," Bright said.

NUDE . . .

Ms. Wallace said she was surprised to find that 43 percent of those queried said they would take their children to a nude beach.

Other significant findings, Ms. Wallace said, were that 75 percent of those queried would like to see a nude beach in Laguna Beach.

She found that younger people, males and Laguna Beach residents were more approving of nude beaches than others "but I haven't tested the significance of those figures yet."

Ms. Wallace said she used a questionnaire rather than a face-to-face interview because she believed people would be more honest.

She stressed that she herself is not a member of a nude beach movement but undertook the study as a researcher for the Kalos Kagathos Foundation, a health and water sports promoting organization.

The issue arose after several nude sunbathers were arrested early this summer at South Laguna's 1,000 Steps Beach.

Ms. Wallace, who said her study was conducted on six beaches in Laguna Beach and South Laguna, said she will present her findings to the city council at an unspecified future date.

—A park to be located in the Mira Costa Villas area which was one of the commitments made by developers of recently annexed land in the Palisades.

Yet another financial option open to the city, and as yet untapped, is the award of county grants made possible through revenue-sharing for projects in the city with a regional flavor.

So far, the city has not formally applied for any of those grant funds, despite strong recommendations by the parks and recreation commission.

The major concern by the council about the grant program is to determine a potential project that would fit the requirements that stress that the improvements should benefit more persons that simply residents of the city.

That rule has caused councilmen to ponder some beach-related acquisition or development as a likely candidate for the grant program.

GAS TAX . . .

said, "The proposals will contain no request for an increase in the gasoline excise tax."

Thus, Nessen firmly rejected proposals that the current four-cent-per-gallon federal excise tax on gasoline be increased by 10 to 20 cents to reduce fuel consumption and increase federal revenue.

Nessen said Ford "has been and remains opposed to gasoline rationing."

Nessen said Ford's program "will require strong public participation" and said in response to questions that the package will contain some mandatory features.

He would not elaborate, but acknowledged that some of Ford's proposals would require action by Congress this year.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who attended the White House meeting between Ford and GOP congressional leaders, said the program could include some tax revisions.

The Pennsylvania Republican said everything that was outlined to GOP congressional leaders at the 90-minute meeting with Ford and top economic advisers was tentative.

"I suppose we heard as many as 50 proposals of which obviously only some will survive," Scott said.

The GOP leader said he was unsure if Ford would include specific proposals for cutting federal spending in the current fiscal year.

House Republican Whip Les Arends of Illinois, who also attended the meeting, said Ford apparently has not made final decisions on the anti-inflation proposals he will present to Congress next week. But he would give no details of the Cabinet room meeting between Ford and the GOP leaders.

Irish Worker Slain

BELFAST (UPI) — A Protestant workman who planned to flee Northern Ireland's violence on Saturday was shot and killed today as he left for his last day of work. Police said Jimmy Willis, 30, probably was killed because he was married to a Catholic and did not confine his friendship to fellow Protestants.

Farewell Party Set for Weidner

A farewell party for San Juan Capistrano's city manager, Donald G. Weidner, will be held Thursday at the San Juan Hills Country Club.

The no-host cocktail party, sponsored by the city and the chamber of commerce, will begin at 6 p.m.

Weidner, who has served the city for four years, will leave at the end of next week for his new post as city manager of Pacifica, a city south of San Francisco. He announced his resignation early last month.

The public is welcome, sponsors said.

Forster Ranch

Serious Pall Cast Over Annexation by Clemente

The absence of a city councilman from a regular session this week and the budding plans for joint master planning of three ranch acreages have cast a serious pall over proposals to annex the Forster ranch into the city of San Clemente.

City councilmen — minus Tony DiGiovanni — imposed another delay Wednesday on a tract map offered by the Condor International development company for more than 870 dwellings on portions of the ranch already in city territory.

But the two-week postponement to allow for the return of DiGiovanni would bring consideration beyond an escrow deadline faced by the development firm which seeks to merge the entire ranch into the city.

Councilmen agreed that they might be inclined to meet in special session, perhaps next week, to deal with the tract in time to meet the deadline.

But the issue of approval of a master plan remains unsettled.

Condor spokesman Richard Hallmark first unveiled the firm's plans to develop the acreage at a session last March, and among the factors was the potential for oil drill ing on more than 400 acres.

Under current county control, the land already has approval for oil exploration.

Since then, the Forster plans have been tossed into the same category as master planning for the Reeves and Visbeek ranches. Councilmen have delayed any major approvals of master plans or specific developments until all three ranches are blended into a single planning effort.

At the council session Wednesday, the desperation for approval before the mid-October deadline was keen.

Hallmark even offered to build a new sanitation plant to serve the developed ranchlands if the council would finally pave the way for the initial development.

The offer of a new sanitation plant came as a developer's alternative to proposals by the city to add an $850 surcharge on each unit built in inland ranchlands as a means of paying for improvements to the city waste system.

Hallmark made it clear that the development firm does not oppose the surcharge.

Planning for the entire gearing up for stresses to the sanitation system for the city has yet to be complete, however, and thus far the surcharge idea has not been completely explored.

As a means of clearly establishing the adequacy of the levy, councilmen agreed to hire the firm of Bartle Wells to conduct a complete study of the matter and update the city's master plan of sanitation which the same firm developed a dozen years ago.

The cost for the new study, councilmen agreed, would be in the range of $5,000.

Vasquez, Author Of 'Chicano' Due At Saddleback

Richard Vasquez, author of the novel "Chicano," is scheduled to speak at 10 a.m. Wednesday at Saddleback College.

Vasquez, who has just completed his second novel, is currently negotiating over the film rights to "Chicano."

His appearance at the college—in the lecture hall of the new math-science complex—is second in a series of morning appearances by California authors and poets.

Vasquez has long been active in the La Raza movement and formerly covered the Mexican-American community for the Los Angeles Times. He does free-lance work.

All the Wednesday morning programs are free. The series is cosponsored by the Division of Languages and the office of community information and services.

Group reservations are welcome, according to a campus spokesman. More information may be obtained by calling the school at 831-9700 or 495-4950.

Wet Wedding

Not a Dry Eye in the Place

THE ALPS, Wash. (AP) — A funny thing happened on the way to the wedding.

En route to the altar in a canoe, the bride and groom took a dunking.

As the craft nosed into a landing, groom Gene Tubbs waved to a friend, and the canoe tipped. Tubbs, bride Kay Gorman, the paddler and a dog called Smokey were dumped into the river.

The nervous bridegroom, who doesn't swim and has always been afraid of water, groped for the canoe as the wedding's arranger, Archie Marlin, dove into the river to rescue him.

Detente Sets Boom

Red, U.S. Trade Still a Little Shaky

BRUSSELS (UPI) — In early 1973, the American Fairchild Corporation signed an $18 million deal to sell integrated circuits to a Polish firm named Unitra.

This summer, in one of his last foreign policy acts, then-President Nixon vetoed the sale after the Pentagon ruled that the circuits, meant for calculators, also could be used in Soviet missiles.

THIS SORT OF thing not only causes problems for the growing number of U.S. firms doing business with the Communists but sends chills through the Communist nations themselves. For the kind of super-sophisticated American technology that the Communists need to modernize their economies is precisely the sensitive gear most likely to fall under a Pentagon security embargo.

The U.S.-Soviet political detente brought a business boom in its wake. A new trade center for Western businessmen is being built in Moscow. The United States will do $1 billion in trade with the six East European nations this year, up nearly 400 percent in six years.

Soviet sources say their government's new 15-year plan, being prepared now, will institutionalize detente by making Soviet development until 1990 dependent on U.S. investment and know-how.

But Western and Soviet diplomats and Western businessmen dealing with the Communists report that the course of detente, like true love, seldom runs smooth.

ONE MUCH-publicized problem is political — the limits which the U.S. Congress has put on trade with Russia in an attempt to win emigration rights for Soviet Jews.

Another reflects the internal Soviet situation. Western businessmen say the Soviet domestic crackdown has increased secret police interference in business deals and limited their contacts with Russian businessmen.

"Doors that used to be open wide are barely ajar now," one American electronics executive complained.

Gold-rich Russia has top credit rating but other Communist nations, particularly Poland and Romania, find it hard to get loans and impossible to pay sky-high interest rates when they find them. Western businessmen say Poland has been seeking medium-term loans at 6 percent interest, at a time when commercial banks charge 15 percent or more and even the U.S. Export-Import bank wants at least 7 percent.

BUT EXPORT embargoes on high technology for security reasons pose perhaps the greatest long-term threat.

This is ironic, because the so-called "export list" has been trimmed down in recent years from thousands of "strategic" items to a relative handful. Both businessmen and government officials agree that the trend toward fewer restrictions and liberalized trade in once-sensitive items is continuing.

But what few export controls remain are mostly on top-level, highly sophisticated technology, largely in electronics. And, as a U.S. diplomat here explained, the Communist countries are most interested in just this kind of technology, as their own economies become more sophisticated.

Soviet production in this area is still relatively primitive, businessmen say. Westerners who have toured Soviet factories and laboratories report that Soviet technology lags years behind America in such fields as electronics, computers, miniaturization and communications.

Makers of Wine Crossing Fingers

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ
LA Times Syndicate

C. Mondavi & Sons is a California vintner that ships 1 million cases of wine a year. That represents about 1 percent of the wine produced in the United States — not an overpowering share of the market but probably good enough to rank Mondavi as one of the industry's top 12 producers.

The wine industry is a study in contrasts. While it's dotted with a legion of small vintners, most of whom produce far less wine than Mondavi, the giants at the top control huge chunks of the business.

ONE VINTNER, E. & J. Gallo of Modesto, now has close to 40 percent of the market. Another, United Vintners, which sells under the Inglenook, Italian Swiss Colony and Petri labels, among others, holds another 20 percent.

Located in the wine-drenched Napa Valley, Mondavi reports that it's selling more wine this year than last year but it has its fingers crossed. Wine sales have turned sluggish, and some observers believe the industry is headed for a severe crunch.

Sales of table wine tripled between 1960 and 1972. The boom prompted California growers to plant many more acres with grapes. It also precipitated a corporate invasion of the vineyards. United Vintners and Beaulieu fell to Heublein. Beringer was absorbed by Nestle. Almaden sold out to National Distillers. Pillsbury took over Souverain.

WINE IS NOT a product that can be turned off and on with a faucet. It takes time to produce. And the wine that's now in the pipeline was predicated on a steady increase in American consumption.

That increase is not occurring this year, which raises the question: What's going to happen to all that wine? In the apparel industry, a huge inventory is the signal for markdowns. The vintners are saying they cannot reduce prices.

Rockwell Gets Navy Contract

Rockwell International's Newport Beach plant has been awarded a $1,598,404 contract, by the Navy's Electronic Systems Command, Congressman Andrew Hinshaw (R-Newport Beach) reports.

The contract covers work on advance development models of communication security systems.

Air Merger?

TWA, Pan Am in Huddle

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Trans World Airlines, faced with a financial crisis due to rising fuel costs and dwindling overseas business, has begun merger talks with Pan American World Airways.

BOTH AIRLINES EARLIER this year asked the federal government for emergency subsidies to replace sizable losses encountered from Trans-Atlantic operations.

The government denied the requests, and it suggested that Pan American and TWA should study the feasibility of a consolidation or merger.

TWA board chairman Charles C. Tillinghast said in a letter to employes that soaring fuel costs and decreasing passenger loads across the Atlantic could result in a loss of $62 million for the airline by the end of the year.

TILLINGHAST SAID TWA had intended to worry about its own business without becoming involved in Pan American's problems, but the situation has worsened so that some form of merger may be the only solution.

Hospital Board and Doctors Reach Accord

In a step toward healing wounds, the South Coast Community Hospital Board of Directors met informally with the hospital's medical staff Thursday to discuss grievances.

Physicians told the board they were upset about recent shouting matches during board meetings.

"I was shocked at the high school behavior and the factionalism I saw when I attended a recent board meeting," one doctor said.

Another complaint by physicians was that resulting bad publicity on heated board meetings and the hospital's financial difficulties has caused some patients to hesitate about entering the hospital.

"It is embarrassing to have to defend this hospital to my patients," a doctor commented.

However, doctors expressed their approval of indications by board members that they would welcome nominations of physicians to fill three vacant board positions.

In addition to voicing complaints, several doctors said they are willing to pledge their own funds to help the hospital out of its financial difficulties.

An audit recently revealed a $186,000 operating deficit at the hospital in the past year. In addition, the hospital is 120 days behind in its payments to creditors.

However, a representative from Herman Smith and Associates, a consulting firm hired to take over the hospital's finances, said the firm already has found several ways to cut costs and collect on long overdue accounts.

Also, Marie Cook, the hospital's acting assistant administrator, described a reorganization of the nursing staff under her direction.

Doctors had previously complained of inadequate nursing supervision.

At the conclusion of the meeting, board members said they welcome the communication with doctors.

"I think everything the doctors have said here was most apropos," said board member Robert Thatcher.

A nominating committee is expected to present the names of possible new board members at the board's next formal meeting.

Guaranteeing doctors a seat on the board would involve a change in the hospital bylaws and, if recommended by the nominating committee, would require a vote of the community hospital's membership in January.

Gas Tax Out, Says President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has ruled out any gasoline tax increase and is firmly opposed to gas rationing but will ask Americans to "bite the bullet" in an anti-inflation program with mandatory features, his spokesman said today.

White House press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will disclose "proposals to help alleviate problems with credit and interest rates" in an address to a joint session of Congress at 1 p.m. (PDT) Tuesday.

Nessen would neither confirm nor deny widespread speculation that Ford would seek some form of tax increase as part of his inflation-fighting package.

But he quoted Ford as telling Republican congressional leaders today that there are "hard choices we and the American people have to make as we bite the bullet on curbing inflation."

Nessen also quoted Treasury Secretary William Simon as telling the GOP congressional leaders that the Ford program "in its most general terms will require and encourage Americans to save more, reduce waste and produce more."

Nessen gave few details of Ford's proposals, saying only tentative decisions have been made and that additional review is required.

But, responding to newsmen's questions at a White House briefing, Nessen said, "The proposals will contain no request for an increase in the gasoline excise tax."

Thus, Nessen firmly rejected proposals that the current four-cent-per-gallon federal excise tax on gasoline be increased by 10 to 20 cents to reduce fuel consumption and increase federal revenue.

Nessen said Ford "has been and remains opposed to gasoline rationing."

Nessen said Ford's program "will require strong public participation" and said in response to questions that the package will contain some mandatory features.

He would not elaborate, but acknowledged that some of Ford's proposals would require action by Congress this year.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who attended the White House meeting between Ford and GOP congressional leaders, said the program could include some tax revisions.

The Pennsylvania Republican said everything that was outlined to GOP congressional leaders at the 90-minute meeting with Ford and top economic advisers was tentative.

"I suppose we heard as many as 50 proposals of which obviously only some will survive," Scott said.

The GOP leader said he was unsure if Ford would include specific proposals for cutting federal spending in the cur-

SEES OFFSHORE DRILLING
Coastal Commission's Bright

Oil Drilling OK Assured, Aide Warns

By FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A week's trip to the nation's capital has convinced the chairman of the regional coastal commission that offshore oil drilling along the Orange County coast is a "foregone conclusion."

Dr. Donald Bright, head of the 12-member state panel preparing a plan to guide the future of the coast, made the remark following a Town Hall of California luncheon Thursday in Anaheim.

Responding to a question, Bright said, "I think it's a foregone conclusion we're going to have offshore oil drilling."

Bright said he recently spent a week in Washington D. C. meeting with officials in various sections of the Department of the Interior, the agency that has proposed 1.6 million acres of offshore waters between Santa Barbara and Dana Point be opened for drilling.

The department has defended the proposal as one means of helping increase oil production to meet the country's energy needs.

Bright said that, although it appears the offshore drilling plan will go into effect, it is not too late to demand sufficient safeguards to avoid adverse environmental impacts from drilling operations.

"It can happen with more thought and constraint," the Cal State Fullerton biologist said.

Technology is being developed for subsurface drilling and new safety mechanisms that can help prevent oil spills such as the one that occurred in Santa Barbara in 1969, Bright said.

Girl Tells Of Assault In County

From Wire Services

LONG BEACH — A young woman, who was raped by two men, asked them to a return date and then killed one with a shotgun as her family looked on, police said today.

Deborah Kantaeng, 19, was booked on suspicion of murder.

Police said she told them that she was abducted by two men as she left work in a Cerritos shopping center Wednesday and they drove her to a park in Santa Ana and raped her.

In return for releasing her without further harm, she said, she promised not to call police and to give them her telephone number so they could reach her again.

They called Thursday afternoon, and it was agreed they would come to her home, investigators said.

Police said when the two walked in, they found themselves confronted by Miss Kantaeng, who was holding a shotgun. The woman's father, two

Beachgoers' Poll

Nude Swim Beach Urged in Laguna

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Beachgoers in Laguna Beach are overwhelmingly in favor of setting aside areas for nude swimming and sunbathing.

This was one of the findings in a recent study by UC Irvine Social Scientist Ruth Wallace, conducted for the Kalos Kagathos Foundation of Laguna Beach.

"Frankly, I was surprised," said Ms. Wallace after finding that 83 percent of the 575 beachgoers questioned approved of nude beaches.

Ms. Wallace noted, however, that those who disapproved of nude beaches "disapproved very strongly."

"I would say this is a controversial issue," she said.

A list of 13 questions was handed out to beachgoers during the first three weekends in September, Ms. Wallace said. She found that 37 percent of those queried were Laguna Beach residents and of these, 63 percent were property owners.

About half of those questioned have children, the study showed.

Asked if they would go to a nude beach, 46 percent said yes, 29 percent no, and the rest perhaps or don't know.

Ms. Wallace said she was surprised to find that 43 percent of those queried said they would take their children to a nude beach.

Other significant findings, Ms. Wallace said, were that 75 percent of those queried would like to see a nude beach in Laguna Beach.

She found that younger people, males and Laguna Beach residents were more approving of nude beaches than others "but I haven't tested the significance of those figures yet."

Ms. Wallace said she used a questionnaire rather than a face-to-face interview because she believed people would be more honest.

She stressed that she herself is not a member of a nude beach movement

Deputy Seeking House Arrests Laguna Resident

An Orange County deputy marshal who stopped at a Laguna Beach house Thursday to ask directions ended up arresting the resident on suspicion of intent to sell marijuana.

He also liscovered that the occupant was wanted on 27 warrants issued in south Orange County, chiefly for parking tickets.

"And that's a lot," commented Lt. Al Olson of the Laguna Beach police department.

John Lawrence Klein, 21, of 447 Cypress Drive, was arrested and released on $5,000 bail.

Police said they suspected intent to sell because 179 grams of marijuana were found on the premises.

Gary Parks, deputy Orange County marshal, told police he was looking for a nearby house to serve a civil warrant when noticing a gap in the numbering he knocked on Klein's door to ask directions.

Parks said he then smelled marijuana smoke and searched the premises.

SIDEBURN LAWS DISCRIMINATORY

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Rules against long sideburns discriminate illegally against men, a state hearing examiner has ruled.

The ruling was in the case of Ben Klokow and Vernon Gerber, both of Watertown, and Robert Werner, Jefferson, former employes of Wollin Silos and Equipment, Inc.

The examiner recommended that the state ordered the firm to lift its ban on long sideburns and pay the three wages they lost when they quit in a dispute over the regulation.

WON'T RUN AGAIN
Laguna's Boyd

Boyd, 'Battling' City Councilman, Won't Run Again

By JACK CHAPPELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Laguna Beach Councilman Charlton Boyd, self-professed thorn in the side of officialdom, will be pulling out at the end of this term.

Boyd, colorful, controversial and wordy, has been a friend and foe to just about every organization and political viewpoint in Laguna Beach since his election to the council in 1968.

A liberal on human rights and related issues, he appears to be a conservative on economic issues.

He's been mayor, battled the former city manager and police chief to knockouts and survived verbal altercations with former Councilman Ed Lorr, recalled in 1972, that have become legend.

Now, Boyd says he's not going to run again.

Furthermore, although Boyd has been on what could be the more conservative and losing end of a number of viewpoints and votes recently, he says he hasn't changed.

"I began as a problem solver and will go out that way. The person who sticks on a problem is apt to be called things.

"People tried to relate me to the environmental groups and to the economic groups. My position is and it always has been to solve the problem in the most reasonable manner and that accounts for what appears to be swings," he said.

"I have always been a middle-of-the-road person, but sometimes it takes quite an amount of 'attention getting' on either side to retain that middle of the road."

"I don't believe I've changed one whit.

"If you have no recreation and you ask for it, if you have too much regulation and you oppose it and that makes you a radical, so be it.

"If you see government rolling on, headed to do just what it has set out to do and without seeking a middle ground and you oppose it, try to bring it back, hammer it back, and that makes you a conservative, so be it," Boyd said.

He said two terms—Boyd was reelected in 1972—are ahe ideal.

Nixon Leaves For Clemente

Nixon, accompanied by his wife, Pat, and daughter Tricia, shook hands with nurses and a doctor as he lifted himself from the wheelchair to seat himself in a black limousine that was to take him to his seaside villa in San Clemente 50 miles away.

Nixon, wearing a dark blue suit, took no notice of a group of reporters, photographers and hospital personnel standing near the rear entrance by which Nixon left.

10 Million Acres

Oil Leasing Plan Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top Interior Department official has ordered the government to prepare a plan to lease 10 million acres of potential offshore oil sites next year in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said that it obtained an internal Interior Department memo written by Undersecretary John C. Whitaker ordering development of a plan for leasing of "all the promising areas of the Atlantic" as well as for a sale next year of the leases for drilling sites on the bottom of the Pacific. The Pacific site was identified as off Alaska.

Whitaker confirmed he had written the Sept. 10 memo, in a telephone interview with the newspaper Thursday night, the Post said. The plan was to have been ready Sept. 30, but is expected to be finished next week, according to the Post.

The plan, strongly opposed by environmentalists, would open as much as 13 million acres of ocean bottom to exploration by oil and gas companies next year, including the promising Baltimore Canyon site — a deep sea trench about 60 miles off the New Jersey-Delaware coast, the paper said.

The memo read in part:

"The undersecretary (Whitaker) wants a firm leasing schedule laid out that definitely includes the following items: (1) 10 million acres leased in 1975 — not just 10 million acres offered; (2) a sale in 1975 in both Alaska and the Atlantic; (3) an alternative, if No. 2 fails, which will still allow leasing of 10 million acres.

"On the same time schedule, the undersecretary wants a plan for a lease sale on the Atlantic in 1975 that would include some leases in all the promising areas of the Atlantic, rather than just the sale limited to Baltimore Canyon."

The newspaper said the memo was signed by Jared G. Carter, a deputy undersecretary, who sent it to the directors of the department's Bureau of Land Management and Geological Survey.

The Bureau of Land Management manages the leasing of offshore oil tracts, while the Geological Survey estimates how much oil there is in a given area.

University Study

Laguna Niguel: White and Happy

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

White, upper-income, and contented: that's Laguna Niguel, according to a sociological study released recently by the University of North Carolina.

Laguna Niguel was one of 13 new, planned communities in the U.S. picked by the New Community Development Project for a research study. The findings were based on 208 interviews conducted here in the spring of 1973.

The survey showed that 56 percent of the community commute more than a half hour to work each day, and more than 50 percent drive 25,000 miles a year or more.

Ninety-two percent work outside the community, and automobile transportation is almost exclusively the law of the land. One percent said they use public transportation, and 73 percent said they have two or more cars.

Asked what facility they wanted most in their neighborhood, the residents gave the highest rating to a library, with an outdoor swimming pool, a quiet place to sit and walk, and a playground coming close behind.

(The county announced recently it is sifting through possible sites for a library in Laguna Niguel, and has narrowed the choices to five locations.)

Probed for their attitudes on racial mix, 50 percent of the Laguna Niguel residents said they felt "moderate-income white families" would harm their neighborhood. In addition, 62 percent said "moderate income black families" would harm the community.

Rating lower were low-income families—either black or white, which more than 80 percent of the residents felt would do the neighborhood harm.

The reasons most often cited for moving to Laguna Niguel were climate, nearness to the natural environment, and because it appeared to be a good place to raise children.

Overwhelmingly, the respondents believe that their life in Laguna Niguel is better than it was before they moved here.

They gave high ratings to the community's school system, overall planning, layout and space of the housing, climate, and natural envirnoment.

What they like least, according to the study, is the difficulty in finding a job in the community and the cost of living here. A total of 70 percent of the residents make over $15,000 a year; 21 percent make over $25,000.

Residents were also queried about their opinion of the developer, AVCO Community Developers, Inc. Only 13 percent said they feel AVCO "does what the citizens want."

Thirty-one percent said they believe the developer has too much control of the homeowners association and 43 percent said they are inadequately informed about future plans for the community.

In the center of a highly mobile community, 71 percent of Laguna Niguel's residents plan to stay where they are, the survey shows.

Of those who are thinking of moving, housing and physical environment problems were given most often as the reasons. The social environment and job transfers were also mentioned.

Asked about the prospects for the future of Laguna Niguel, 44 percent said they feel it will not be as good a place to live.

BOYD . . .

Before running for council, Boyd said he had talked with a valued friend, who told him that he "didn't think I could do anything in the first, and didn't think I could be effective after the second."

The councilman said a point of diminishing return is reached in government service.

He said from the outset he had decided he would not attempt to continue with a third four-year term as a councilman.

"I've geared my business plans accordingly.

"It has always been a source of great amusement to me when people would suggest I wanted to be city manager or some such wwhen I had rearranged my business to do these government jobs.

"The press of my own business is such that I don't have any such ideas, nor have I in the past nor will I have in the future'" he said.

Boyd is owner of Adventure Travel which he runs with his wife Jane, who is a member of the Laguna Beach school board.

A former systems man with an aerospace firm, Boyd is a leading proponent for reorganization of the way government deals with the needs of the citizens.

Boyd's proposals would mold government into an assembly line program of problem-solving of the sort adapted by the large space firms.

The reorganization has caused friction, but, in a modified form, is working.

Boyd said he still has many concerns and will work to resolve problems he sees. Two are provisions for addition of an element to the city's general plan and a cultural landmarks preservation element.

"I intend to work up to the deadline to the extent of my time and strength. My interest is just as good as it ever was. I have no intention to step down from lack of interest or quitting."

He said he would continue to work to bring government "closer to the people."

Water Color Display At Laguna Museum

The reception is scheduled from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. At 8 p.m., awards will be presented to outstanding artists participating in the exhibit.

The exhibit will be in place through Oct. 30. Museum hours are 1:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily and admission is free.

NEW LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR HARMER STUMPS IN IRVINE
Discusses Issues with Mrs. Louis Zejda at GOP Reception

New Lieutenant Governor Makes Irvine Appearance

By DOUGLAS FRITZSCHE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Within hours of being appointed California's 40th Lieutenant Governor, John Harmer stepped back into the campaign harness to visit with Orange Coast supporters in Irvine.

About 150 people attended the reception at the home of Irvine Councilman and Harmer campaign director Henry Quigley for a chance to meet the lanky 40-year-old Mormon.

In an interview, Harmer discounted broadsides from opponent Sen. Mervyn Dymally (D-Los Angeles) that the appointment by Gov. Ronald Reagan was an attempt to "fix" the race for the state's number two post.

"I would hardly expect him to support it," Harmer said of Dymally, a fellow senator for the past eight years. "But its a straw man tactic for Dymally to assert that it was an unfair move."

If the situation were reversed and Dymally received the appointment, Harmer said he would have been "delighted, with one stipulation and that would be equal time in the media."

His appointment to fill the term of Ed Reinecke, deposed and given an 18-month suspended sentence for perjury in the investigation into ITT offers to finance the 1972 Republican convention, would focus attention on the race, he said.

The lieutenant governor's race has received relatively little attention, he said, "and the same polls Dymally is so fond of quoting also show that 60 percent of the people don't know who either of us are."

A California Poll in early September showed Dymally with 37 percent of the vote, Harmer with 29, others 6 and 28 percent undecided.

As in no other statewide race, Harmer said, the voters have a clear choice between the philosophies of the lieutenant governor candidates.

Frequently described as one of the most conservative members of the state Senate, Harmer said his basic philosophy is limiting state government to give more power to local governments which are "more responsive, efficient and humane."

He opposes the Women's Rights constitutional amendment, early childhood education, lowering marijuana penalties, and busing for racial equality.

Harmer supports the death penalty and has developed a reputation as author and supporter of anti-pornography legislation.

Dymally, generally considered a liberal, has taken the opposite position on those issues.

As lieutenant governor, Harmer will sit on the state Lands Commission which, among other duties, regulates leases for off-shore oil drilling within the three-mile limit of California's waters.

Harmer said he would support moves to resume drilling for off-shore oil "subject to new technological safeguards which would minimize the danger of a blowout like we had a few years ago."

"I have always felt that we need some balance between ecology and the economy," Harmer said.

Harmer said he sees a "great opportunity" in the 15 commissions on which the lieutenant governor sits.

On the Economic Development Commission, he said, he would be able to provide "the leadership needed to improve the state's sluggish economy."

The principal villain in present inflation, he said, has been the cumulative effect of years of increasing government debt through deficit financing practices.

Regarding the general political climate, Harmer said, "this is not a year for arch-reactionary concepts."

But concern over the economy, he said, will bring support to the conservative camp.

Harmer said he viewed his predecessor's ouster with "great sadness. Ed Reinecke is a good friend of mine, a very honorable and decent man.

"It would have been an unspeakable tragedy if Ed Reinecke had been put in jail.

"I am really sorry that I have had to take the office under these conditions. I will miss having Ed in public life. He was a fine, honorabble public servant."

From Page A1

BRIGHT . . .

He said the exact timing of the leases will depend on the outcome of "Project Blueprint," an Interior Department study to determine precisely what the country's energy needs are.

The commission chairman asserted that the environmental impact statement prepared by the Bureau of Land Management for the offshore drilling proposal falls far short of dealing with alternate energy sources.

"We need a proper — and I stress the word proper — environmental impact report from the bureau," Bright said.

You Can Belly Up To YMCA Classes

Belly dancing and bridge instruction are among classes being offered by the South Coast YMCA beginning next week.

Belly dancing class begins at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the YMCA, 31000 Crown Valley Parkway in Laguna Niguel. The class is taught by Anna Marie Kadane, an entertainer.

Bridge begins at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the YMCA and is taught by Dan Brandon, a tournament player and champion.

Registration may be made by calling the YMCA at 831-9622.

Babysitting Course Offered

The South Coast YMCA and the Laguna Niguel Women's Club will offer a five-week babysitting training course beginning at 7 p.m. Monday at the Laguna Niguel Community Center, 31000 Crown Valley Parkway.

The course deals with child care, emergency situations, first aid and police and fire aids. Upon graduation, sitters will be certified and their names made available to residents of the area. The class is open to students in the sixth through ninth grades.

Registration will be taken at the first class session. Fee is $4. Further information is available from the YMCA office, 831-9622.

Councilmen To Support Transit Tax

The Laguna Beach City Council has promised to support the Orange County Transit District in its bid for voter approval of a one cent sales tax increase for expanded facilities and services.

The council unanimously agreed Wednesday to lend its weight in a drive for voter approval of Proposition A on the November ballot. Formal action on a resolution of support will be taken Oct. 16.

The agreement followed a presentation by transit district General Manager G.J. Fielding who told the council that adequate rapid transit provisions would ease pains associated with the growth of the south Orange County.

Fielding said a complete transit system was needed, not a piecemeal project. If th tax measure is successful he envisioned a system of fixed track, bus and dial-a-ride carriers throughout the county and links to Los Angeles County.

The project cost was pegged at $1 billion for the the master plan of a "total transit system."

The cost and the assumption that mass transit could solve land use and growth problems was addressed by Councilman Jon Brand who questioned some of the claims for the system.

"Rapid transit is not a panacea, it cannot solve all our problems in transportation and we should realize that if not done as part of a total program can create problems of its own," Brand said.

Brand said growth was a serious problem facing the county and the district rapid transit district.

"Such growth clearly has the capacity to overwhelm the technology, no matter how advanced, of any rapid transit system.

"We are asking the voters to approve a system that will cost over a billion dollars, a system that will take 10 to 15 percent of the drivers off the freeways, a system that will rely primarily on the bus. It is a system that is needed, but I hope it is not doomed to failure from the beginning by the growth that is occurring and will continue to occur in the future," Brand said.

He said if a billion dollars is to be spent, it might be wiser to put it in a program of land acquisition and keep large portions of the county in open space and greenbelts.

He said where development already has occurred, rapid transit may be a help, but that in the South county where development has not taken place, rapid transit could spur unwanted development.

Brand said he would support the transit issue as part of a solution to a complex problem.

Fielding noted that controls guaranteeing efficient land use were not politically acceptable.

"Laguna is looked on as a leadership community," Fielding said.

"On critical issues people in the county look to Laguna," Fielding said to a beaming council.

The other man fled. Police later arrested Carl Tice, 21, of Santa Ana. He was held for investigation of murder and rape.

When the men arrived at the home, police said, Allen knocked on the open door, walked through it and was hit by a single shotgun blast fired by Miss Kantaeng.

Her father was in the room at the time but told police he did not see the shooting.

Tice, who was not hit, fled but returned later to find out how Allen was and was arrested, police said.

Tice was booked under a California law that says a person participating in a criminal act in which murder occurs may be charged with that murder.

Ford Policy Rules Out Gas Tax or Rationing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has ruled out any gasoline tax increase and is firmly opposed to gas rationing but will ask Americans to "bite the bullet" in an anti-inflation program with mandatory features, his spokesman said today.

White House press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will disclose "proposals to help alleviate problems with credit and interest rates" in an address to a joint session of Congress at 1 p.m. (PDT) Tuesday.

Nessen would neither confirm nor deny widespread speculation that Ford would seek some form of tax increase as part of his inflation-fighting package.

But he quoted Ford as telling Republican congressional leaders today that there are "hard choices we and the American people have to make as we bite the bullet on curbing inflation."

Nessen also quoted Treasury Secretary William Simon as telling the GOP congressional leaders that the Ford program "in its most general terms will require and encourage Americans to save more, reduce waste and produce more."

Nessen gave few details of Ford's proposals, saying only tentative decisions have been made and that additional review is required.

But, responding to newsmen's questions at a White House briefing, Nessen said, "The proposals will contain no request for an increase in the gasoline excise tax."

Thus, Nessen firmly rejected proposals that the current four-cent-per-gallon federal excise tax on gasoline be increased by 10 to 20 cents to reduce fuel consumption and increase federal revenue.

Nessen said Ford "has been and remains opposed to gasoline rationing."

Nessen said Ford's program "will require strong public participation" and said in response to questions that the package will contain some mandatory features.

He would not elaborate, but acknowledged that some of Ford's proposals would require action by Congress this year.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who attended the White House meeting between Ford and GOP congressional leaders, said the program could include some tax revisions.

The Pennsylvania Republican said everything that was outlined to GOP congressional leaders at the 90-minute meeting with Ford and top economic advisers was tentative.

"I suppose we heard as many as 50 proposals of which obviously only some will survive," Scott said.

The GOP leader said he was unsure if Ford would include specific proposals for cutting federal spending in the current fiscal year.

House Republican Whip Les Arends of Illinois, who also attended the meeting, said Ford apparently has not made final decisions on the anti-inflation proposals he will present to Congress next week. But he would give no details of the Cabinet room meeting between Ford and the GOP leaders.

NEW LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR HARMER STUMPS IN IRVINE
Discusses Issues with Mrs. Louis Zeida at GOP Reception

New Lieutenant Governor Makes Irvine Appearance

By DOUGLAS FRITZSCHE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Within hours of being appointed California's 40th Lieutenant Governor, John Harmer stepped back into the campaign harness to visit with Orange Coast supporters in Irvine.

About 150 people attended the reception at the home of Irvine Councilman and Harmer campaign director Henry Quigley for a chance to meet the lanky 40-year-old Mormon.

In an interview, Harmer discounted broadsides from opponent Sen. Mervyn Dymally (D-Los Angeles) that the appointment by Gov. Ronald Reagan was an attempt to "fix" the race for the state's number two post.

"I would hardly expect him to support it," Harmer said of Dymally, a fellow senator for the past eight years. "But its a straw man tactic for Dymally to assert that it was an unfair move."

If the situation were reversed and Dymally received the appointment, Harmer said he would have been "delighted, with one stipulation and that would be equal time in the media."

His appointment to fill the term of Ed Reinecke, deposed and given an 18-month suspended sentence for perjury in the investigation into ITT offers to finance the 1972 Republican convention, would focus attention on the race, he said.

The lieutenant governor's race has received relatively little attention, he said, "and the same polls Dymally is so fond of quoting also show that 60 percent of the people don't know who either of us are."

A California Poll in early September showed Dymally with 37 percent of the vote, Harmer with 29, others 6 and 28 percent undecided.

As in no other statewide race, Harmer said, the voters have a cear choice between the philosophies of the lieutenant governor candidates.

Frequently described as one of the most conservative members of the state Senate, Harmer said his basic philosophy is limiting state government to give more power to local governments which are "more responsive, efficient and humane."

He opposes the Women's Rights constitutional amendment, early childhood education, lowering marijuana penalties, and busing for racial equality.

Harmer supports the death penalty and has developed a reputation as author and supporter of anti-pornography legislation.

Nixon Leaves For Clemente

Nixon, accompanied by his wife, Pat, and daughter Tricia, shook hands with nurses and a doctor as he lifted himself from the wheelchair to seat himself in a black limousine that was to take him to his seaside villa in San Clemente 50 miles away.

Nixon, wearing a dark blue suit, took no notice of a group of reporters, photographers and hospital personnel standing near the rear entrance by which Nixon left.

Hospital To Receive Facelift

Orange County Medical Center, sold to UC Irvine by Orange County supervisors this week, is in for a facelift and a name change.

At a breakfast today, UCI-California College of Medicine Dean Stanley van den Noort and UCI Chancellor Daniel Aldrich described the charity hospital as part of a complex medical system of teaching and health care.

With the major hurdle of buying the facility past, UCI is preparing to make it a part of the medical system which also includes operations at the Long Beach Memorial Hospital, Fairview State Hospital and the Children's Hospital of Orange County.

Community clinics designed to treat some ailments and refer people with more severe problems to the Medical Center would also become part of the system. In addition to an existing clinic in Santa Ana, two new clinics are to be built in the northern part of Orange County.

University plans include an initial $8 million renovation of the Medical Center, purchased by the medical school for $5.5 million.

By the time the university takes title to the Medical Center next summer, Dr. van den Noort said, a new name reflecting the new ownership will be attached to the sprawling hospital.

The Medical Center purchase, required under a state mandate before other medical school building could take place, opens the way for the construction program.

Adding medical school construction will double the UCI building activity, Aldrich said.

The school, with $43 million in state funds and federal grants, plans to expand

Pilot Programs To Be Discussed For Saddleback

Pilot programs in mathematics and mini-courses for Mission Viejo High School are among the items to be discussed Monday at the regular meeting of the Saddleback Valley Unified School District board of trustees.

The meeting, open to the public, is set for 7:30 p.m. in Room F-5 of Los Alisos Intermediate School, 25171 Moor Avenue, Mission Viejo.

Other items on the agenda include:

—Progress report on the Marine Corps Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps, El Toro High School.

—Discussion on the screening procedures for administrative openings, related to the recent resignation of El Toro High School Principal Robert Bosanko.

—Progress report on district building and portable units purchase for La Paz Intermediate School, where a $500,000 fire last summer destroyed seven classrooms.

Girl Tells Of Assault In County

From Wire Services

LONG BEACH — A young woman, who was raped by two men, asked them to a return date and then killed one with a shotgun as her family looked on, police said today.

Deborah Kantaeng, 19, was booked on suspicion of murder.

Police said she told them that she was abducted by two men as she left work in a Cerritos shopping center Wednesday and they drove her to a park in Santa Ana and raped her.

In return for releasing her without further harm, she said, she promised not to call police and to give them her telephone number so they could reach her again.

They called Thursday afternoon, and it was agreed they would come to her home, investigators said.

Police said when the two walked in, they found themselves confronted by Miss Kantaeng, who was holding a shotgun. The woman's father, two brothers and girlfriend were also

Irvine May Buy Rural Paintings

The city of Irvine is considering buying three paintings now on loan to the city which preserve some of the rural scenes of the rapidly developing community.

Acrylics of the Irvine Store, the Irvine grain elevator and pepper pickers working in a field in North Irvine have been offered to the city by local artist Steve Goetz for $750.

Goetz said he has had other offers for the paintings which have hung in city hall for over a month, but would prefer selling them to the city because of their historical value.

Laguna in Buff?

Beachgoers Favor Nude Sections

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Beachgoers in Laguna Beach are overwhelmingly in favor of setting aside areas for nude swimming and sunbathing.

This was one of the findings in a recent study by UC Irvine Social Scientist Ruth Wallace, conducted for the Kalos Kagathos Foundation of Laguna Beach.

"Frankly, I was surprised," said Ms. Wallace after finding that 83 percent of the 575 beachgoers questioned approved of nude beaches.

Ms. Wallace noted, however, that those who disapproved of nude beaches "disapproved very strongly."

"I would say this is a controversial issue," she said.

A list of 13 questions was handed out to beachgoers during the first three weekends in September, Ms. Wallace said. She found that 37 percent of those queried were Laguna Beach residents and of these, 63 percent were property owners.

About half of those questioned have children, the study showed.

Asked if they would go to a nude beach, 46 percent said yes, 29 percent no, and the rest perhaps or don't know.

Ms. Wallace said she was surprised to find that 43 percent of those queried said they would take their children to a nude beach.

Other significant findings, Ms. Wallace said, were that 75 percent of those queried would like to see a nude beach in Laguna Beach.

She found that younger people, males and Laguna Beach residents were more approving of nude beaches than others "but I haven't tested the significance of those figures yet."

Ms. Wallace said she used a questionnaire rather than a face-to-face interview because she believed people would be more honest.

Old Aviator Ken Nichols Dies at 71

Kenny Nichols, a post-World War I barnstorming flyer and longtime Harbor Area businessman, is dead.

Nichols, who walked the wings of J-4D Jenny biplanes in stunt shows across the country, died in a hospital bed and was buried Tuesday at Pacific View Memorial Park, Corona del Mar.

He was 71. He had lived with his wife, Alice, in Laguna Hills Leisure World for the past nine years. They resided at 132 Avenida Majorca.

The Nichols' came to Orange County in 1944 and opened the Cottage Waffle Shop on Balboa Island, later selling out to new owners who changed it to the first Bob's Big Boy restaurant in the county.

He and his late son, Gene, also operated K & G Numismatists, a Costa Mesa coin shop. At the time of his death, Mr. Nichols was still listed in the phone book as a coin dealer.

His greatest recognition, however, came as founder and participant in the Black Cats aerial stunt team which flew between 1924 and 1929, appearing at shows around the country. Their wing-walking antics and acrobatics appeared in many Hollywood films.

Besides his wife, with whom he celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in February, Mr. Nichols leaves a son, Leon of Washington; his mother, Mrs. Cora Nichols of Laguna Hills; a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Cook, also of Laguna Hills; two grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Vasquez, Author Of 'Chicano' Due At Saddleback

Richard Vasquez, author of the novel "Chicano," is scheduled to speak at 10 a.m. Wednesday at Saddleback College.

Vasquez, who has just completed his second novel, is currently negotiating over the film rights to "Chicano."

His appearance at the college—in the lecture hall of the new math-science complex—is second in a series of morning appearances by California authors and poets.

Vasquez has long been active in the La Raza movement and formerly covered the Mexican-American community for the Los Angeles Times. He does free-lance work.

All the Wednesday morning programs are free. The series is cosponsored by the Division of Languages and the office of community information and services.

Group reservations are welcome, according to a campus spokesman. More information may be obtained by calling the school at 831-9700 or 495-4950.

CIA Military Drops

BANGKOK (UPI) — A civilian airline with links to the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency has begun parachuting military supplies to beleaguered Cambodian garrisons, officials said today. Even Children Feeling Pinch

The East San Francisco Bay Regional Park District announced Thursday that it will cost 45 cents instead of 35 cents to ride any of the 17 Shetland ponies in the Tilden Park children's area.

Unbridled inflation has increased the costs of alfalfa, hay and veterinary services, say pony ride operators David and Frances Horn.

Judge Makes Public Leary Testimony

Orange County Superior Court Judge James K. Turner today released to the public testimony by Joanna Harcourt-Smith Leary that led to the indictment by the Grand Jury of Costa Mesa trial lawyer George Chula.

Judge Turner took the action just two days after he refused to make public testimony offered in the same Grand Jury session by imprisoned LSD advocate Timothy Leary, 51.

That decision was based on the fact that Leary's testimony did not contribute to any of the 15 felony drug counts filed against Chula, 49, of 1138 El Camino, Costa Mesa.

The testimony of the former Harvard psychologist was removed from the transcript today by Superior Court clerks immediately after Judge Turner's ruling.

Leary's testimony had been blasted in the courtroom by defense attorney Matthew Kurilich as "absolutely incredible lies."

Kurilich pleaded with Judge Turner in the same bitterly fought pretrial hearing to additionally ban Joanna Leary's testimony since it was offered "in her determination to free Leary."

Chula is accused of possessing and furnishing cocaine and possessing and furnishing marijuana to Joanna Leary several times in June and July of this year.

Chula, who represented Leary in the trial that ended with his imprisonment, has been ordered to plead to the allegations Oct. 17.

Joanna Leary, the niece of millionaire British publisher Cecil Harcourt-Smith, legally changed her name to Leary last year to establish an even closer bond with the man she first met after he escaped from San Luis Obispo men's colony.

She was with Leary when he was arrested in Afghanistan in January of 1973 and deported to the United States.

She was with him when he returned to Orange County for court action that sent him back to prison with a 25-year sentence.

Leary has recently been testifying before Grand Juries throughout the nation in a bid to reduce or expunge his sentence.

Much of the testimony by the former "Brotherhood of Eternal Love" founder is being investigated in several jurisdictions including Orange County.

'Feeling Fantastic'

Joann Leary Says Chula Told Her About Hashish

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Joanna Leary told the Orange County Grand Jury that her first knowledge that accused attorney George Chula had access to drugs came when he supplied hashish to Timothy Leary in the LSD advocate's county jail cell.

She testified last month that Chula joined her in the parking lot outside the jail in January of 1973 and told her when she inquired about Leary: "Oh, he's feeling fantastic because I just gave him some hashish and he's going to have a nice evening."

The former British socialite admits several times in her testimony that she was working for the Orange County district attorney's office and associated anti-drug agencies when she next saw Chula in June and July of this year.

Several Grand Jury members asked her why she had been so willing to cooperate with law enforcement agencies.

Denying that she had been paid for her work, Mrs. Leary at first told the Grand Jury that she lived in San Francisco after Leary's imprisonment and became disillusioned with what she called the drug culture.

"I found 99.9 percent of them to be dishonest," she told the Grand Jury adding that she liked the Orange County officers she had worked with.

But she admitted under further questioning that her main aim in contacting Chula at the urging of local officers was to help Leary and free him, if possible, from his 25-year prison term.

Testimony by Mrs. Leary and the agents who worked with her from adjacent rooms in the several hotels she used during June and July indicates that there were no drugs on her person when she met Chula on those occasions.

After those meetings, she turned over to the agents quantities of cocaine and marijuana which were held as exhibits and displayed to the Grand Jury.

Women agents testified that Mrs. Leary had been stripped and carefully searched before each meeting and could not possibly have hidden the drugs.

Joanna Leary testified that Chula on at least one occasion pulled a $100 bill from his pocket, produced a quantity of cocaine and told her: "Let's make lines."

She explained that "making lines" is breaking the lumpy, white cocaine powder down into narrow parallel lines which are then inserted in the rolled up bill and sniffed up the nose by the drug user.

She testified that Chula did this and encouraged her to participate. She testified that he also smoked marijuana on several occasions and gave her and his wife, Dorothy, marijuana to smoke.

Agents testified that they heard several of the conversations from nearby rooms including a conversation in which Joanna Leary gave Chula $700 of the agent's money to buy cocaine for her.

Joanna Leary testified that the meeting with Chula took place in June and July in Newport Beach, Costa Mesa, Santa Ana and Long Beach.

She testified that she came very close to discovery last July 7 when Chula met her and told her that his son, Steve, had been warned by a lifeguard in San Juan Capistrano that four police cars were following his father's car.

She quotes Chula as telling her on that occasion: "I just came to see you to look into your eyes to see if it is you or if you are involved in this and I have to know and I am very courageous."

Chula also told her that he was sure he could get bail in Orange County but was not sure if he could get it in Los Angeles County, Mrs. Leary testified.

She also testified that on one occasion she found Chula to be in possession of a number of white pills which she said were "speed" (methamphetamines).

Study Made Of Niguel In Project

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

White, upper-income, and contented: that's Laguna Niguel, according to a sociological study released recently by the University of North Carolina.

Laguna Niguel was one of 13 new, planned communities in the U.S. picked by the New Community Development Project for a research study. The findings were based on 208 interviews conducted here in the spring of 1973.

The survey showed that 56 percent of the community commute more than a half hour to work each day, and more than 50 percent drive 25,000 miles a year or more.

Ninety-two percent work outside the community, and automobile transportation is almost exclusively the law of the land. One percent said they use public transportation, and 73 percent said they have two or more cars.

Asked what facility they wanted most in their neighborhood, the residents gave the highest rating to a library, with an outdoor swimming pool, a quiet place to sit and walk, and a playground coming close behind.

(The county announced recently it is sifting through possible sites for a library in Laguna Niguel, and has narrowed the choices to five locations.)

Probed for their attitudes on racial mix, 50 percent of the Laguna Niguel residents said they felt "moderate-income white families" would harm their neighborhood. In addition, 62 percent said "moderate income black families" would harm the community.

Rating lower were low-income families—either black or white, which more than 80 percent of the residents felt would do the neighborhood harm.

The reasons most often cited for moving to Laguna Niguel were climate, nearness to the natural environment, and because it appeared to be a good place to raise children.

Overwhelmingly, the respondents believe that their life in Laguna Niguel is better than it was before they moved here.

They gave high ratings to the community's school system, overall planning, layout and space of the housing, climate, and natural envirnoment.

What they like least, according to the study, is the difficulty in finding a job in the community and the cost of living here. A total of 70 percent of the residents make over $15,000 a year; 21 percent make over $25,000.

Residents were also queried about their opinion of the developer, AVCO Community Developers, Inc. Only 13 percent said they feel AVCO "does what the citizens want."

Thirty-one percent said they believe the developer has too much control of the homeowners association and 43 percent said they are inadequately informed about future plans for the community.

In the center of a highly mobile community, 71 percent of Laguna Niguel's residents plan to stay where they are, the survey shows.

Wet Wedding

Not a Dry Eye in the Place

THE ALPS, Wash. (AP) — A funny thing happened on the way to the wedding.

En route to the altar in a canoe, the bride and groom took a dunking.

As the craft nosed into a landing, groom Gene Tubbs waved to a friend, and the canoe tipped. Tubbs, bride Kay Gorman, the paddler and a dog called Smokey were dumped into the river.

The nervous bridegroom, who doesn't swim and has always been afraid of water, groped for the canoe as the wedding's arranger, Archie Marlin, dove into the river to rescue him.

Interior Department

Offshore Oil Leasing Plan Ordered Drawn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top Interior Department official has ordered the government to prepare a plan to lease 10 million acres of potential offshore oil sites next year in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said that it obtained an internal Interior Department memo written by Undersecretary John C. Whitaker ordering development of a plan for leasing of "all the promising areas of the Atlantic" as well as for a sale next year of the leases for drilling sites on the bottom of the Pacific. The Pacific site was identified as off Alaska.

Whitaker confirmed he had written the Sept. 10 memo, in a telephone interview with the newspaper Thursday night, the Post said. The plan was to have been ready Sept. 30, but is expected to be finished next week, according to the Post.

The plan, strongly opposed by environmentalists, would open as much as 13 million acres of ocean bottom to exploration by oil and gas companies next year, including the promising Baltimore Canyon site — a deep sea trench about 60 miles off the New Jersey-Delaware coast, the paper said.

The memo read in part:

"The undersecretary (Whitaker) wants a firm leasing schedule laid out that definitely includes the following items: (1) 10 million acres leased in 1975 — not just 10 million acres offered; (2) a sale in 1975 in both Alaska and the Atlantic; (3) an alternative, if No. 2 fails, which will still allow leasing of 10 million acres."

from its present facilities in two low brown buildings on California Avenue on the campus.

Plans include reducing the Medical Center from 500 to 300 beds and building a 200-bed hospital on the university grounds.

Additionally, the medical school plans two teaching and laboratory buildings on campus.

Construction on the hospital and the first teaching building could begin within a year, Aldrich said, and should be completed during 1977.

Back-to-school Program Shelved

The "Back-To-School" program at El Toro High School originally scheduled for an evening during the last week of October has been postponed, a school spokesman said today.

The summer construction strike caused delays that make the campus unsafe for a large night-time activity, he said.

Campus lighting, rails, and other needed facilities for night use have not yet been installed.

Tentative plans are to combine the "Back To School Night" with formal dedication of the $6 million campus in early December.

You Can Belly Up To YMCA Classes

Belly dancing and bridge instruction are among classes being offered by the South Coast YMCA beginning next week.

Belly dancing class begins at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the YMCA, 31000 Crown Valley Parkway in Laguna Niguel. The class is taught by Anna Marie Kadane, an entertainer.

Bridge begins at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the YMCA and is taught by Dan Brandon, a tournament player and champion.

Registration may be made by calling the YMCA at 831-9622.

HARMER . . .

Dymally, generally considered a liberal, has taken the opposite position on those issues.

As lieutenant governor, Harmer will sit on the state Lands Commission which, among other duties, regulates leases for off-shore oil drilling within the three-mile limit of California's waters.

Harmer said he would support moves to resume drilling for off-shore oil "subject to new technological safeguards which would minimize the danger of a blowout like we had a few years ago."

"I have always felt that we need some balance between ecology and the economy," Harmer said.

Harmer said he sees a "great opportunity" in the 15 commissions on which the lieutenant governor sits.

On the Economic Development Commission, he said, he would be able to provide "the leadership needed to improve the state's sluggish economy."

The principal villain in present inflation, he said, has been the cumulative effect of years of increasing government debt through deficit financing practices.

Regarding the general political climate, Harmer said, "this is not a year for arch-reactionary concepts."

But concern over the economy, he said, will bring support to the conservative camp.

Harmer said he viewed his predecessor's ouster with "great sadness. Ed Reinecke is a good friend of mine, a very honorable and decent man.

"It would have been an unspeakable tragedy if Ed Reinecke had been put in jail.

"I am really sorry that I have had to take the office under these conditions. I will miss having Ed in public life. He was a fine, honorable public servant."

The other man fled. Police later arrested Carl Tice, 21, of Santa Ana. He was held for investigation of murder and rape.

When the men arrived at the home, police said, Allen knocked on the open door, walked through it and was hit by a single shotgun blast fired by Miss Kantaeng.

Her father was in the room at the time but told police he did not see the shooting.

Tice, who was not hit, fled but returned later to find out how Allen was and was arrested, police said.

Tice was booked under a California law that says a person participating in a criminal act in which murder occurs may be charged with that murder.

The Price Looks High

Unanswered questions are posed by proposed development of the 10,000 acre Moulton Ranch — a project which will have a profound influence on surrounding Saddleback, Laguna Niguel and Laguna Beach communities.

A major concern is the absence of hard data on what it will cost taxpayers to cope with these developments.

Will all major roads, new schools, flood control, sewage treatment and police and fire facilities come from taxpayers' pockets?

Assumptions have been made which should not have been. One is the proposed road system, a system the county road department says does not exist and may never exist.

At public meetings, spokesmen declare either Saddleback or Laguna is "going to have to bite the bullet," and put up with the congestion.

That's another question: Does anyone really have to bite the bullet?

A Good Investment

Irvine's teen center has proved itself a worthwhile addition to city services, a merit recognized when the city council voted this week to continue the operation through next June.

The center was originally set up as a 13-week experimental program to see how it was accepted by teens and what effect it had on youth activities.

As a recreation center, the facility has attracted an average of 107 teen patrons a day. It has also been a focus for dances, sports events and trips — more than just an officially sanctioned hangout.

Most rewarding has been a lessening of tensions between teens and police in the community. Informal chats at the center and volleyball games between police and teens are among the avenues used to provide better relations.

No one pretends that the center is a cure-all for teen problems or the general lack of nearby commercial recreation, but the experience so far easily justifies spending $20,655 to keep the center open.

Boundary Dilemma

Little fault can be found with the premise that it's best for children to attend schools located nearest their homes.

Trustees of both the Newport-Mesa and Irvine unified school districts have done more than pay lip service to that principle. They've permitted students living in Newport Beach but within Irvine school district boundaries to attend closer Newport-Mesa schools.

Problem area for districts having a stake in the issues involved since 1966 is Spyglass Hill in Newport Beach.

About 95 of 107 Spyglass Hill students who live within Irvine Unified School District boundaries now attend Newport-Mesa schools under a special agreement.

But Newport-Mesa trustees last week said their schools cannot absorb more out-of-district students.

That means future students in the new residential developments will probably ride buses to distant Irvine schools.

No one likes that alternative as an answer to the long-standing boundary problem. But proposed trades, past boundary adjustments and the inter-district agreement cannot be looked on as permanent solutions.

CIA Expert Trained Chileans

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — International Telephone and Telegraph dispatched one of America's top bugging experts into the homes and government palace of Chilean president Salvador Allende in 1971.

The alleged purpose of this mysterious mission was to "de-bug" Allende's rooms and to train Chilean police and army men in electronic de-bugging techniques. Interestingly, it was the military which later overthrew Allende.

The visit of master-bugger John Ragan came as ITT, the CIA and the U.S. Embassy in Santiago were busily seeking information to help them get the socialist Allende out of office. Allende was nationalizing American companies in Chile, including ITT.

RAGAN, an ex-FBI electronic specialist, is best known as the man called in by the White House "plumbers" to bug the home of columnist Joseph Kraft. But in the "business," Ragan is respected as an awesome pro: a specialist called in to de-bug the quarters of such notables as Richard Nixon, former Attorney General John Mitchell, Charles "Bebe" Rebozo and others.

On his trip to turbulent Chile, Ragan took along a load of "offensive" bugging equipment. Secret Watergate documents show he was accompanied down by ITT's assistant security director, Russell Tagliareni.

THE DOCUMENTS reveal that Ragan stayed in Chile from April 28, 1971, to May 5, 1971, and was paid $200 a day by ITT. While there, Ragan, at the invitation of the army and police, entered Allende's homes at Valparaiso and Santiago, and his presidential palace.

According to Ragan, he and Allende once sat down and had coffee. There the Chilean leader learned that Ragan worked for ITT. Ragan describes the conversation as "cordial."

No one seems to know why ITT, a relentless enemy of Allende's, was allowed in his dwellings, much less why the Chilean president let an ITT agent conduct "electronic sweeps" of his rooms at a time when planting of bugs was widely feared in Chile. Allende cannot explain: He died from gunshot wounds in the coup.

But as we reported on March 21, 1972, ITT had made approaches "to select members of the Armed Forces in an attempt to have them lead some sort of uprising" in late 1970, only a few months before ITT and the Chilean army helped arrange Ragan's visit.

THE ITT electronics mission is even more puzzling in view of a secret ITT memo dated Sept. 29, 1970, from ITT Vice President E. J. Gerrity to ITT President Harold Geneen. In the memo, Gerrity advises "We should withdraw all technical help (to Chile) and should not promise any technical assistance in the future."

Yet, within months, ITT's deputy security chief and its $200-a-day electronics consultant were dispatched to give "technical assistance" to the army, police and to at least one Chilean telephone company official.

Through a trusted intermediary, we have been given a summary of Ragan's notes on the visit. They do not shed much light on the subject, but simply tell of meetings with the Chilean police and army officials. Some of them appear to be in code.

AFTER the Chilean excursion, Ragan continued to have high-paying dealings with ITT. His private logs show such curious listings as "6/2/71 — ITT test hi-power tmitter. . . 6/7/71—ITTw/tmitter. . .6/10/71—Call Jack Caulfield. . ." "Tmitter," in this case, is a tiny bugging transmitter. And Caulfield was the White House dirty trickster of the Watergate era.

Ragan also ran an ITT de-bugging seminar and has done de-bugging work for Geneen and lesser ITT officials such as Dita Beard, John Ryan and William Marriam.

Footnote: Ragan spoke with my associate Les Whitten at length. The "tmitter" was used only at the seminar, he said, not for bugging. The Chilean mission, he insisted, was "open and above board" and no bugs were planted while in Chile, nor were any found. The bugs he took with him, he said, were left in Chile only for training purposes.

The Issue Is Far From Closed

Nixon Will Be Heard From Again

RICHARD WILSON

WASHINGTON — It should be borne in mind that Herbert Hoover lived articulately into his 90s, some 30 years beyond his moment of greatest political distress. Harry Truman rose from the lowest state of political disregard to high esteem upon his death.

This is not to say that Richard M. Nixon will someday be elevated to the pantheon of revered past presidents, but it is to say that those who think the Nixon issue will go away are fooling themselves. It will be with us for many years.

There are even now enough people who think that Nixon's offenses, while regrettable, were justifiable under the circumstances and in the whole context of his presidency. Among them are those who thought he should have resigned and those who thought he should not have.

THESE PEOPLE, while now in a minority, number into the millions and thus are not an inconsiderable part of the aware public. They cannot, furthermore, be shouted down by the roaring disapproval of the ex-President's pardon, nor the continuing cry for the last drop of his blood and the death-wish reports of his illness.

A decent assumption based upon Nixon's past record can be made that Nixon will survive this period of great physical and mental stress, with the usual caveat that death can come to any man at any time. If he so survives, at least a decade is left to him of alert physical and mental response, and maybe much more.

The practical meaning of the pardon, therefore, is that Richard M. Nixon, admitting no guilt, is free to use his unquestioned talents not only to rehabilitate himself as best he can but to encourage the nascent belief that he was hounded out of office by cruel and implacable enemies with no regard for the long-range interests of the nation.

SOME SUCH intuition may lie beneath the ferocity of the continuing attack on Nixon and on President Ford for having pardoned Nixon. The tone of this attack clearly seeks to establish the historical base that Nixon's offenses were so enormous that they threatened the continuance of free government, for which he should have been made to pay by public trial, conviction and sentence to prison, even if he never served a day.

More mature consideration may focus on the hysterical exaggeration of such conclusions, taking into consideration that the chief impeachable offense, Article I of the Bill of Impeachment, grew from a ludicrous act about which Nixon knew nothing in advance, the placing of a listening device on the telephone of the Democratic National Chairman during a political campaign.

Assuming Nixon's survival, those who think he will crawl back into a luxurious hole somewhere to live on his pension and brood himself into his grave must be ignoring his record. They would do better to recognize the tone of his public apology, with its intimation of penance to be followed by resurgence.

NIXON will write. In time he will probably talk. In time those who transgressed with him, and still think they did no wrong, will have paid the legal price, and they will talk and write.

Without the complete and utter destruction of these men the innate sense of a good many millions that justice was not done could not be wholly stifled. There will long be those wondering why equal justice under law should send John Ehrlichman to prison while Daniel Ellsberg goes free, or hold Nixon liable for shielding a political scandal not of his own making.

All such moral and ethical problems would have been wrapped into a horrific bundle and cast into the vaults of history by the criminal conviction of Nixon. The end would have been written in a different way than President Ford tried to write it. A judgment so conclusive would have been rendered against the Nixon era that history could never challenge it.

BUT it is not to be that way. President Ford could not write the end to Watergate. The House Judiciary Committee could not do so, however persuasive President Ford might have found its unanimous action. And the courts will not be permitted to do so.

This is not because the events and actions did not take place. It is because the gravity and import of those actions and the circumstances under which they took place are seen in different ways by different people. At the moment, the most furious of the critics are acting as if their case may be slipping out of their hands and so have renewed their fury lest the future should forget.

How Far Can the Nit-picking Go?

To the Editor:

I've been reading with interest and dismay about the Mexican-Americans complaining about the new TV series, "Chico and the Man." They say it is demeaning, belittling, etc. The episodes I've seen so far has Chico far in the lead over the bumbling white garage owner. I don't recall blacks screaming about "Sanford and Son" or "Good Times." I just don't get it.

STANFORD University had to change their "Indians" to "Cardinals" some time back. Why didn't the Indians push to change the Cleveland Indians to something else? Aha! I've got the answer. The San Francisco and New York Giants should get large complaints from the midgets of our country.

Let's rename all the ball clubs: The Los Angeles Ewes, the New England Revolutionaries, The Atlanta Doves, the Miami Minnows, the Detroit Mice. The Cincinnati Reds (who years ago tried Redlegs, but to no avail) should be re-named the Right-Wingers. How about the New Orleans Sinners? The New York Props? The Denver or Baltimore Shetland Ponies? Buffalo Williams? Philadelphia Sparrows? The list could go on and on.

We are living in a time of absurdity and nit-picking.

Noise Battle

To the Editor:

Your Sunday, Sept. 30 feature on noise pollution relates to a battle waged for a year now by families here in Fountain Valley against noise pollution in Mile Square Regional Park.

WHEN MODEL airplane clubs were ousted by construction from isolated fields along Harbor Boulevard in Costa Mesa, they laid claim to an area in the heart of Mile Square Park. The noise they produce there is not only an affront to the noise control standards of Mile Square's host city, Fountain Valley, the noise also degrades the recreational environment of the park. Picnicking families, golfers and neighboring residents complain about the buzz-saw noise which rasps day-long from 9 am to 7 pm. In terms of total park usage, the modelers are a very small percentage of the public who want to enjoy the park, yet the modelers persist in annoying people who come to the park to escape the motorized noise of our mechanized world.

THIS SITUATION shows the inadequacy of linking noise pollution standards only to decibel levels. The noise of model planes, motorcycles, saws and other noise sources do not necessarily produce high decibel levels — but their noise is psychologically very annoying because of its frequency and pitch.

Give the motorcyclists, modelers and others who need noise to have fun their own isolated area where they can't bother the majority of people who just want to relax in some peace and quiet.

Rape Interest

To the Editor:

I am writing to protest the lack of coverage given the conference on rape sponsored by the Golden West College—American Association of University Women in your newspaper.

Over 300 women attended the daylong event highlighted by state Sen. Alan Robbins' remarks in the late afternoon.

The women of Orange County are interested in events of this nature, not just weddings, luncheons and fashion shows!

Funeral Alternatives

To the Editor:

Many years ago, so the story goes, a new steak house opened its doors in Kansas City, an area long noted for its fine steaks. Before long they were outselling all their competitors. When asked to explain the secret behind this fantastic success, the owner replied, "I buy the same beef everyone else does. The only difference is that when I serve a steak the customer gets it on a sizzling hot platter. Hell, man, I'm not selling steaks — I'm selling the sizzle."

THAT STORY popped into my mind when I read Tom Barley's article titled "The Viking Way" in the Sunday, September 29, edition of the Pilot. The quoted comments of a representative of the Neptune Society implied that their founder, Dr. Charles W. Denning, Jr., was unique in feeling it "was high time someone offered an alternative to the costly, involved mortuary-funeral-cemetery system that today is costing families at least $2,000."

The fact is that Neptune is too closely patterned after Telophase to be coincidental. Dr. Thomas B. Weber, entrepreneur in the field of bypassing the mortuary by providing direct cremation, founded Telophase in 1971. And, he readily declares, his brain child was conceived when he was a member of the non-profit San Diego Memorial Society. Founded in 1968, this is one of a number of such non-profit organizations located throughout the state, of which the Tri-County Memorial Funeral Society in Orange County is one. Together they comprise the California Federation of Memorial and Funeral Societies, which functions largely in the capacity of legislative watchdog in Sacramento.

THESE societies, by seeking out and contracting with selected funeral directors, those with a social awareness and a willingness to meet community needs, provide their members with a full range of mortuary service from which to choose. No "sizzle" in the form of a 100' ocean going vessel is offered, but immediate cremation with scattering at sea costs $215, and a traditional funeral can be had for $395.

We felt your readers should know that we have been serving the community since 1961, by providing this alternative to expensive funerals.

ALLACE KUNZ, Secretary
Tri-County Memorial Funeral Society

Essays on T. S. Eliot

THE BOOKMAN

T. S. Eliot, the seventh volume in the Contemporary Studies in Literature Series by McGraw-Hill Paperbacks ($1.95), presents nine critical essays on one of the key poets of the twentieth century, along with an extensive bibliography.

Edited by Linda W. Wagner, it contains essays by such figures as Arthur Mizener, whose introduction to the poet, "To Meet Mr. Eliot" is one of the best ever written. Subsequent chapters include an article by Leonard Unger — a critic whose work on Eliot has always been admired for its sanity; Ezra Pound's note on the 1917 Prufrock & Other Poems; Bernard Bergonzi and Helen Gardner's essays on Eliot's early poems; M. L. Rosenthal's contribution, placing The Wasted Land in a new perspective — as an "open," suggestive poem; Daniel R. Schwarz's question on the accepted reading of "Gerantion"; William T. Moynihan's direction for much of Four Quartets.

Professor of English at Michigan State University, Linda Wagner has published two books on William Carlos Williams, and studies of Ernest Hemingway, William Faulkner, Denise Levertov, and Phyllis McGinley. She is currently completing a study of contemporary poetics.

Graham's Wife in Hospital

From Wire Services

The wife of evangelist Billy Graham has been hospitalized in Milwaukee for nearly a week with injuries suffered in a fall, doctors confirmed.

In a statement issued by Lutheran Hospital, Dr. Basil Jackson said Ruth Graham, 54, suffered a broken left heel bone in a fall last week. Although he did not give details of the accident, it was known that at the time Mrs. Graham was visiting her daughter, Virginia Tchividjian.

CHARGES DROPPED
Attorney Bugliosi

Bugliosi's Out; Shinn Trial Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A defense attorney in the 1970 Charles Manson case is scheduled to stand trial for perjury though similar charges against Manson prosecutor since Bugliosi have been dismissed.

On Thursday, special prosecutor Theodore Shield said he had decided to proceed with a Nov. 18 trial for Daye Shinn, the Manson defense attorney.

Shinn was indicted with Bugliosi on charges they lied by denying they gave newsman Bill Farr information for a story during the Manson trial while a judge's gag order was in effect.

Shield dropped the charges against Bugliosi Thursday, saying Farr's refusal to testify had "dealt a fatal blow" to his case.

But he moved to proceed against Shinn, again raising the possibility that Farr will be asked on the witness stand to name the sources for his news account.

The Los Angeles Times reporter spent 46 days in jail and faces five more for contempt because he refused Superior Judge Charles Older's request to supply the names.

11 Arrested In Airport Pot Raids

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sheriff's deputies arrested 11 men and seized more than a ton of marijuana worth about $1 million in a series of raids at Mojave Desert air strips and in suburban El Monte, authorities said.

Officials said Thursday the raids culminated a two-month undercover investigation.

Booked for investigation of state and federal narcotics laws violations were:

Jon C. Phillips, 29, Manhattan Beach; William A. Serantoni, 25, North Hollywood; John A. Reuck, 28, Lakewood; Gerald D. Hong, 45, Arcadia; Robert L. Pruitt, 57, Alhambra; Karl D. Peterson, 25, Davis, and Darla L. Jenkins, 28, Philip M. Bourchier 27, and Dwayne D. Walker, 23, all of Modesto.

Also, Neil L. Temple, Orangeville, Utah, and Glenn A. Lemaster, 28, Gresham, Ore.

Authorities said the raids were carried out Wednesday.

Four persons were arrested at Fox Field near Lancaster, five others at an airstrip on a dry lake bed in San Bernardino County and two more after they landed at El Monte Airport, trailed by deputies in another plane.

Smog Bad For Folks –LA Study

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Smog is bad for people, a $230,000 study financed by the California Air Resources Board says.

A state official said the 177-page report released Thursday on laboratory produced and regulated smog is one of the first to pin down the health effects of smog in scientific terms.

Among the major conclusions, the report said air pollution equal to second and third smog alert levels produces "significant decrement in pulmonary function, symptons sufficient to restrict normal activity, and oxidative changes in erythrocytes."

● Oil Leakage

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — The Coast Guard says it will keep watching conditions along a 12-mile stretch of picturesque beach which was blackened by oil globules, and meet with local officials to formulate cleanup plans.

Coast Guard spokesman Del Horton announced the action Thursday, a day after the oil balls, apparently from natural seepage in the Santa Barbara Channel, washed ashore and sparked fears of a huge spill like the one that blackened the channel and beaches in 1969.

IN SHORT...

● Seafood Strike

SAN PEDRO (AP) — Striking workers have voted to end a 17-day walkout at Van Camp seafood cannery, after winning a contract agreement that guarantees they can transfer in their jobs when the facility moves to San Diego.

The union said Thursday that the 1,700 striking cannery workers approved a new three-year contract virtually unanimously. Officials said it expected workers could be back on the job sometime today.

● Scuba Deaths

OXNARD (UPI) — The Coast Guard will test equipment used by two scuba divers who drowned in separate incidents near Anacapa Island in the Santa Barbara channel Wednesday, authorities report.

Air Force Capt. Frank Dugan, 34, stationed at Edwards Air Force Base near Palmdale, was dead on arrival at a naval hospital in Port Hueneme.

Mark Inouye, 23, Gardena, was found at a 35-foot depth by fellow divers. He was a commercial diver for a firm in Oxnard and reportedly was diving for sea urchins when he drowned.

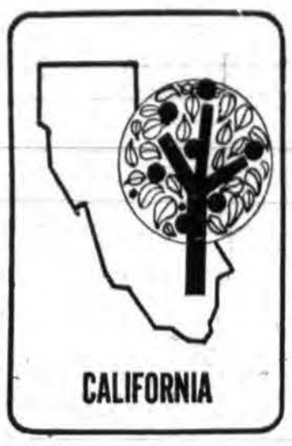
Car Rigged For Rape, Kidnaping

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A man who police say had electric door locks on his expensive automobile pleaded guilty Thursday to two counts of rape and one of kidnaping.

The man, William H. Wires, of suburban Carmichael, is owner of X-ray businesses in Sacramento and Portland, Ore.

Fifteen other counts were dismissed and Wires was ordered examined by psychiatrists.

Police said Wires usually picked up women hitchhiking or waiting for a bus. They said the doorknobs on the inside of Wires' car were removed and, with the electric locks, the victims couldn't get out.



Girl Found Near Death

CALEXICO (AP) — A 15-year-old girl reported "an hour from death" in the desert when she was rescued is reported recovering from exposure and exhaustion.

A joint party of U.S. and Mexican volunteers found Maria Ibarra-Ortega lying among rocks at the foot of Mt. Signal, about 10 miles west of Calexico.

Mother 'Disgraced'

Publisher Sued For 'Cover Girl'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A $2.8 million suit was filed against a San Francisco book publisher on behalf of a 12-year-old girl who thought she was going to be in the movies, but instead wound up on the cover of a book about marijuana with a cigarette butt in her mouth.

Lillian Haddad was only seven when a photographer approached her in Golden Gate Park and asked her if she wanted to be in films, said her mother, Emily Fagell.

"SHE WAS thrilled, of course, and so she said 'Yes,' and th man started taking pictures," said Marvin E. Lewis, Mrs. Fagell's attorney.

Straight Arrow Books, Inc. published a book entitled "A Connoisseur's Handbook on Marijuana." On the cover was a picture of Lillian, a cigarette butt in her mouth.

Near the picture, said the suit, was a caption that read:

"The danger in illegalizing marijuana is that you make criminals out of the most intelligent, sensitive people in the country" — Allen Ginsberg.

LEWIS' SUIT, filed in Superior Court Thursday, contends Straight Arow — a branch of Rolling Stone magazine — has "disgraced" both Lillian and her mother, causing Mrs. Fagell to suffer "hatred, ridicule and obloquy, causing her to be shunned and voided."

LA Streak Disruptive

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Robert Opel, 33, who streaked the Academy Awards this year, was found innocent Thursday of indecent exposure for doing the same thing to a city council meeting.

But a municipal court jury found Opel guilty on charges of disrupting a public meeting. Opel appeared in the buff during a heated council debate over allowing nudity on public beaches.

Police Chief Jailing 'Loose' Illegal Aliens

KERMAN (UPI) — Saying he was afraid "they will kill themselves or local citizens if allowed to run wild loose," Kerman police chief Olen McDaniel has defended his policy of jailing illegal aliens and making them post a $65 bond.

McDaniel said Thursday his department's policy was to arrest illegal aliens who cannot properly identify themselves, put them in jail and then set them free if they post the $65 bond.

He said that in the past his department called border patrol agents and turned the illegal aliens over to them for deportation, but he said that policy was changed when area farmers complaining that the practice was depleting their work force.

Playgirl Subject Suing

APPLE VALLEY (AP) — Playgirl Magazine nude centerfold Lou Zivkovich says "I don't have any regrets over" posing in the nude — even though he's been fired and his wife is angry with him.

He plans to sue Playgirl, whose June unfolding described him as a "superbly trim 33" and then let the reader make up her mind by showing him in full frontal view.

With not a fig leaf in sight.

"I don't have any regrets over posing but I wish the article had been done in better taste," he sighed, adding that he was soon off to a meeting with his lawyers.

"I've got three lawyers for two different cases," he declared. One suit is aimed at Playgirl, which couldn't be reached for comment. The other is aimed at his ex-employers.

So far, he says, he doesn't need a third attorney for his wife. But he adds, she "is not too pleased with the whole thing."

Valley Could Have Its Own School District

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An Orange County education official confirmed today that Fountain Valley residents can petition to form a single unified school district within city boundaries.

But chances of the State Board of Education approving such a plan were labeled "not very feasible" by Dewey Hillman, assistant superintendent of the Orange County Department of Education.

Carl "Bud" Jones, a shoe retailer and importer who lives in the portion of Fountain Valley in the Garden Grove Unified School District, this week launched a petition drive to form new high school and elementary districts in Fountain Valley.

Jones said he has decided to take matters "out of the hands of the politicians," adding he hopes to have the new school district in operation by 1976.

Meanwhile, Fred Voss, president of the Fountain Valley (elementary) school board, said he doesn't know much about the petition drive and has some questions to ask before he decides whether or not to back it.

Hillman confirmed Jones' claim that the State Education Code allows 25 percent of the registered voters to take a plan for new high school and elementary districts directly to the state, bypassing local governing bodies.

And, he said it is true the state code stipulates that an elementary and high school district sharing the same boundaries are automatically unified into one kindergarten to 12th grade system.

But Hillman said it is not very likely the state would approve Jones' plan for Fountain Valley because of effects on the Garden Grove Unified and Huntington Beach Union High School Districts.

"Anything is possible," he added. "The state is receptive to solving the Fountain Valley High School overcrowding problem."

Voss said the Fountain Valley school board considered a similar move about a year ago but dropped efforts when school officials learned the state code doesn't provide for giving the new district a share of the high school district's cash reserve.

In addition, he said, he has questions regarding the portion of the district which lies within Huntington Beach, as well as the housing of Huntington Beach and Garden Grove students who now attend Fountain Valley and Los Amigos High Schools.

But Jones claims these problems can be solved through special legislation and agreements, saying political bodies have complicated what should be a simple issue.

Jones said at least 60 petitions are being circulated within the city now. He added he and the other organizers of the drive hope to gather the more than 5,000 signatures they need as soon as possible.

Those wishing petitions or information, he added, may contact Pam Cupin, 9569 Nightengale Ave.

NEW LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR HARMER STUMPS IN IRVINE
Discusses Issues with Mrs. Louis Zejda at GOP Reception

New Lieutenant Governor Makes Irvine Appearance

By DOUGLAS FRITZSCHE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Within hours of being appointed California's 40th Lieutenant Governor, John Harmer stepped back into the campaign harness to visit with Orange Coast supporters in Irvine.

About 150 people attended the reception at the home of Irvine Councilman and Harmer campaign director Henry Quigley, for a chance to meet the lanky 40-year-old Mormon.

In an interview, Harmer discounted broadsides from opponent Sen. Mervyn Dymally (D-Los Angeles) that the appointment by Gov. Ronald Reagan was an attempt to "fix" the race for the state's number two post.

"I would hardly expect him to support it," Harmer said of Dymally, a fellow senator for the past eight years. "But its a straw man tactic for Dymally to assert that it was an unfair move."

If the situation were reversed and Dymally received the appointment, Harmer said he would have been "delighted, with one stipulation and that would be equal time in the media."

His appointment to fill the term of Ed Reinecke, deposed and given an 18-month suspended sentence for perjury in the investigation into ITT offers to finance the 1972 Republican convention, would focus attention on the race, he said.

The lieutenant governor's race has received relatively little attention, he said, "and the same polls Dymally is so fond of quoting also show that 60 percent of the people don't know who either of us are."

A California Poll in early September showed Dymally with 37 percent of the vote, Harmer with 29, others 6 and 28 percent undecided.

As in no other statewide race, Harmer said, the voters have a cear choice between the philosophies of the lieutenant governor candidates.

Frequently described as one of the most conservative members of the state Senate, Harmer said his basic philosophy is limiting state government to give more power to local governments which are "more responsive, efficient and humane."

He opposes the Women's Rights constitutional amendment, early childhood education, lowering marijuana penalties,

Rape Suspect Shot Dead

Long Beach 'Victim' Lures Pair Into Home Trap

From Wire Services

LONG BEACH — A young woman, who was raped by two men, asked them to a return date and then killed one with a shotgun as her family looked on, police said today.

Deborah Kantaeng, 19, was booked on suspicion of murder.

Police said she told them that she was abducted by two men as she left work in a Cerritos shopping center Wednesday and they drove her to a park in Santa Ana and raped her.

In return for releasing her without further harm, she said, she promised not to call police and to give them her telephone number so they could reach her again.

They called Thursday afternoon, and it was agreed they would come to her home, investigators said.

Police said when the two walked in, they found themselves confronted by Miss Kantaeng, who was holding a shotgun. The woman's father, two brothers and girlfriend were also present, police said.

The other man fled. Police later arrested Carl Tice, 21, of Santa Ana. He was held for investigation of murder and rape.

When the men arrived at the home, police said, Allen knocked on the open door, walked through it and was hit by a single shotgun blast fired by Miss Kantaeng.

Her father was in the room at the time but told police he did not see the shooting.

Tice, who was not hit, fled but returned later to find out how Allen was and was arrested, police said.

Tice was booked under a California law that says a person participating in a criminal act in which murder occurs may be charged with that murder.

7 Huntington Residents Suing Police

Seven Huntington Beach residents who claim they were "beaten, battered and humiliated" by arresting officers last Dec. 8 sued the city and the officers Thursday for $700,000.

Named as plaintiffs in the Orange County Superior Court action are Donald Ashcraft, Steve Bedrosian, Vernon Calderon, Dave and Sue Odle, Lynne Reed and John Thomas. Named as defendants are Officer C. Poe and officers "Does one through 20."

The plaintiffs claim that they were falsely accused of possessing marijuana and jailed by the arresting officers on what are stated to be unfounded charges.

It is alleged in the lawsuit that the city knew of the "excitable, violent and belligerent" natures of the arresting officers long before the arrest of last Dec. 8. All seven plaintiffs state that their alleged ordeal led them to seek medical treatment.

Joke Goes Sour

Valley Police Didn't Buy Story

It was only a joke, officer.

That's what Samuel Lamont, 33, Glendale, told two Fountain Valley policemen early this morning as they arrested him on an armed robbery charge.

Police said Lamont entered the 7-11 market at Euclid Street and Warner at 6:15 a.m. today with a meat cleaver and fishing knife tucked in his belt.

He first approached the clerk and allegedly asked him if he'd ever realized how simple it would be for someone to rob him. Then, police said, he told the clerk he was robbing him and ordered him to empty the cash register.

But when a customer entered the store, the reluctant bandit backed off and told the clerk he was "only kidding," police said.

Lamont's joke only lasted a little while, police said. After the customer left, he pulled out his knife and told the clerk he was "serious," and was going to rob him after all.

But his efforts were foiled when two policemen who'd been watching the whole thing through the window, came inside and arrested Lamont, who then claimed again he was only kidding, police reported.

Officers Steve Nichols and Dale Herzog went to the market after the police dispatcher reported receiving an anonymous phone call "that a man in a blue shirt was going to rob a market."

The officers said Lamont matched the description, and they arrested him when they saw him pull the knife.

Lamont told police his wife had dropped him off at a cousin's house in Fountain Valley at 4 a.m. because he and the cousin planned to leave today for Lake Tahoe.

As police were taking him to Orange County Jail this morning, officers said, Lamont still claimed "He was only kidding."

Nixon Leaves Hospital for San Clemente

Nixon, accompanied by his wife, Pat, and daughter Tricia, shook hands with nurses and a doctor as he lifted himself from the wheelchair to seat himself in a black limousine that was to take him to his seaside villa in San Clemente 50 miles away.

Nixon, wearing a dark blue suit, took no notice of a group of reporters, photographers and hospital personnel standing near the rear entrance by which Nixon left.

Staff members who treated Nixon on the sixth floor of Memorial Hospital Medical Center of Long Beach followed him out of the hospital.

Mrs. Nixon and Tricia said goodbye to them, and Nixon himself shook hands with Grace Hollenbeck, head nurse of the floor, and her assistant, Tina Shaw.

As the limousine pulled away, it was escorted by a Long Beach police car, two motorcycle policemen and two cars of Secret Service guards.

Dr. John C. Lungren told newsmen Thursday that he would issue a final report today, after his patient's departure, and outline his diagnosis of the illness, future treatment and the

MARKET ERASES ITS EARLY LOSSES

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, erasing most of a wide early loss with a gradual technical comeback in the afternoon.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.05 points at 584.56, and losers and gainers were closely in balance in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow was down more than 10 points at its low point of the day amid what brokers described as continued concern over the implications of inflation and the oil squeeze.

'Bite the Bullet'

Ford Rules Out Gas Tax Hike in Inflation Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has ruled out any gasoline tax increase and is firmly opposed to gas rationing but will ask Americans to "bite the bullet" in an anti-inflation program with mandatory features, his spokesman said today.

White House press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will disclose "proposals to help alleviate problems with credit and interest rates" in an address to a joint session of Congress at 1 p.m. (PDT) Tuesday.

Nessen would neither confirm nor deny widespread speculation that Ford would seek some form of tax increase as part of his inflation-fighting package.

But he quoted Ford as telling Republican congressional leaders today that there are "hard choices we and the American people have to make as we bite the bullet on curbing inflation."

Nessen also quoted Treasury Secretary William Simon as telling the GOP congressional leaders that the Ford program "in its most general terms will require and encourage Americans to save more, reduce waste and produce more."

Senate Panelists Vote Huge Cuts In Nixon Funds

From Wire Services

WASHINGTON — The Senate Appropriations Committee today agreed with a House-passed measure that cut from $850,000 to $200,000 the money to be provided former President Nixon's transition to private life.

The committee voted unanimously to trim its proposed $328,000 figure to conform to the House version.

But the Senate committee measure went one step further than the House by placing a $220,000 ceiling on salaries for government personnel who can assist Nixon through Feb. 9, 1975.

The ceiling was calculated on the salaries of the 74 employes assigned by the government to help Nixon. But it excluded payment for Nixon's valet and maid, Mr. and Mrs. Manola Sanchez, whom he took to San Clemente with him when he resigned the presidency Aug. 9.

Sen. Edward Brooke (R-Mass.), said he warned the committee during the closed session to be careful that it complied with the law governing expenses for former presidents.

Real Estate Tax Election OK Seen

By TERRY COVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A March 4 election on the controversial real estate transfer tax will be authorized Monday night, if Huntington Beach Councilmen hold to their previous commitment.

On a 4-1 split vote Sept. 16, they agreed to hold an early tax election as requested by the Huntington Beach-Fountain Valley Board of Realtors.

A formal resolution establishing that election is on the council agenda for the 7 p.m., Monday, business meeting.

But the issue may not be as one-sided as it seemed Sept. 16. Two council members — Mayor Al Coen and Harriett Wieder — missed that session.

If they join Henry Duke, the lone dissenter April 16, and cast negative votes Monday, the election would be called on a narrow 4-3 vote. If just one council member switched support, the March 4 election could be killed.

Neither Coen nor Mrs. Wieder could be reached today for comment on how they will vote Monday. Coen has previously stated he is opposed to any election before April 1976.

Even the councilmen who called for the March 4 contest were not happy about it, but admitted they were bowing to public pressure.

The ballot, if approved, will contain a charter amendment question. Voters will be asked to mark a simple "yes" or "no" to determine the future of the real estate transfer tax.

If they vote against the tax, the city will not be able to impose any future transfer tax, without first asking permission from the voters through an election.

This is the measure backed by more than 6,000 registered voters who signed petitions asking for a special election on the transfer tax.

It differs considerably from the measure the city council had already authorized to go on the Nov. 5 ballot.

In November, voters will be asked to choose between the half percent transfer tax now in effect, and a possible monthly trash collection fee combined with an increase in the city's utility tax.

The November ballot is purely advisory. Councilmen are not obligated to do anything about it, though they have promised to follow the will of the voters.

But in March, if voters turn down the transfer tax, the city charter will be amended and the council will have to eliminate the tax.

The half percent real estate transfer tax — a tax on the sale of any real property in the city — is still in effect until the March election, or until the council changes its status.

It had been expected to raise about $1.2 million in a year's time to help balance the city budget.

Offshore Drill Plan 'Assured'

By FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A week's trip to the nation's capital has convinced the chairman of the regional coastal commission that offshore oil drilling along the Orange County coast is a "foregone conclusion."

Dr. Donald Bright, head of the 12-member state panel preparing a plan to guide the future of the coast, made the remark following a Town Hall of California luncheon Thursday in Anaheim.

Responding to a question, Bright said, "I think it's a foregone conclusion we're going to have offshore oil drilling."

Bright said he recently spent a week in Washington D. C. meeting with officials in various sections of the Department of the Interior, the agency that has proposed 1.6 million acres of offshore waters between Santa Barbara and Dana Point be opened for drilling.

The department has defended the proposal as one means of helping increase oil production to meet the country's energy needs.

Bright said that, although it appears the offshore drilling plan will go into effect, it is not too late to demand sufficient safeguards to avoid adverse environmental impacts from drilling operations.

"It can happen with more thought and constraint," the Cal State Fullerton biologist said.

Technology is being developed for subsurface drilling and new safety mechanisms that can help prevent oil spills such as the one that occurred in Santa Barbara in 1969, Bright said.

He said the exact timing of the leases will depend on the outcome of "Project Blueprint," an Interior Department study to determine precisely what the country's energy needs are.

The commission chairman asserted that the environmental impact statement prepared by the Bureau of Land Management for the offshore drilling proposal falls far short of dealing with alternate energy sources.

"We need a proper — and I stress the word proper — environmental impact report from the bureau," Bright said.

Master Plan Coastline 'Possible'

Planning for the 1,000-mile California coastline is like gingerly stepping through a thicket — there are thorny problems everywhere.

The problems involve boundaries, overlapping jurisdiction by government agencies, private property rights and communication.

Bright addressed the subject Thursday at an afternoon meeting of Town Hall of California held at the Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim.

The commission Bright chairs is one of six regional panels rushing to complete a master coastline plan for submission to the state legislature by 1976. The plan was mandated by Proposition 20, the coastal conservation act passed by California voters in 1972.

Despite the tight time, Bright told Town Hall members that four elements of the plan have been approved, three are in the public hearing stage, one has just be released for review and one is in the drafting stage.

"Milestones" of the approved plans, Bright said, include recommendations that would:

— Create a marine resources management agency.

— Require coastal land be set aside to insure coastal plants and animals "not only survive but thrive."

— Prohibit any form of development on the beach, tidelands or the immediate shoreline, if no beach exists.

— Establish a public trust to acquire all coastal land from the water's edge to the first road parallel to it. Bright said this proposal would have a major effect on the Irvine Coast property between Cameo Shores in Newport Beach and Irvine Cove in Laguna Beach.

— Mandatory procedures for energy conservation, including expanded use of solar energy.

Bright said the plan ultimately submitted to legislature must be easily understood.

"If the plan goes to them as a four foot thick document, all it will do is collect dust," Bright said.

Bright said initial resistance to the coastal commission's jurisdiction over land within 1,000 yards of the shoreline from coastal cities has eased.

He said cooperation from the cities will result in a more workable plan.

Results of tests for cancer have been negative, the physician said Thursday in his daily written bulletin.

Phlebitis, a painful vein inflammation affecting Nixon's left leg, can be a sympton of cancer in the stomach, lungs or pancreas but it can also be caused by inactivity.

Nixon, 61, underwent further tests Thursday, and came out on top in a confrontation with a photographer who waited outside a laboratory entrance to take his picture.

The photographer, Kent Henderson of the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram, said he missed the shot when Nixon spotted him, shouted, "You goddamn son-of-a-bitch" and was wheeled back into the lab in his wheelchair.

Lungren has advised Nixon to take a one to three-month "restricted convalescence," avoiding travel during that period.

Harmer supports the death penalty and has developed a reputation as author and supporter of anti-pornography legislation.

Dymally, generally considered a liberal, has taken the opposite position on those issues.

As lieutenant governor, Harmer will sit on the state Lands Commission which, among other duties, regulates leases for off-shore oil drilling within the three-mile limit of California's waters.

Harmer said he would support moves to resume drilling for off-shore oil "subject to new technological safeguards which would minimize the danger of a blowout like we had a few years ago."

"I have always felt that we need some balance between ecology and the economy," Harmer said.

Harmer said he sees a "great opportunity" in the 15 commissions on which the lieutenant governor sits.

On the Economic Development Commission, he said, he would be able to provide "the leadership needed to improve the state's sluggish economy."

The principal villain in present inflation, he said, has been the cumulative effect of years of increasing government debt through deficit financing practices.

Regarding the general political climate, Harmer said, "this is not a year for arch-reactionary concepts."

But concern over the economy, he said, will bring support to the conservative camp.

Harmer said he viewed his predecessor's ouster with "great sadness. Ed Reinecke is a good friend of mine, a very honorable and decent man.

"It would have been an unspeakable tragedy if Ed Reinecke had been put in jail.

"I am really sorry that I have had to take the office under these conditions. I will miss having Ed in public life. He was a fine, honorable public servant."

Classes Offered In Gymnastics At 2 Schools

Evening classes in gymnastics are still open at Marina and Edison high schools, according to the Huntington Beach recreation department.

Gymnastics at Marina began last Monday, but recreation officials say there is still room for beginners ages 7-13.

For Marina classes, register at Murdy Community Center, 7000 Norma Drive. The fee is $6 for beginners.

Classes for beginners and intermediates will start at Edison High School Oct. 16. Register at the Edison Community Center, 21377 Magnolia St., from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The fee for beginners is $6 and $12 for intermediates. Classes will be offered Wednesday nights for eight weeks.

All gymnastics classes are sponsored by the city recreation department.

FUNDS . . .

Two separate laws provide for funding of a president's transition to private life. President Ford requested $850,000 to fund the provisions spelled out in those laws, but it was quickly reduced.

"The general idea was to give the President everything he's entitled to by law and not a nickel more," Brooke said.

Sources said Nixon, who has been hospitalized in California, has complained of the government's "begrudging" attitude about the money.

Meanwhile, the Senate today passed and sent to the House a bill that would give the government custody of Nixon's official tapes and papers.

Before passing the bill, 56 to 7, the Senate rejected three attempts by the Republican leadership to delay or modify the measure, which is designed to nullify an agreement giving Nixon custody of the documents. They are to be stored at Laguna Niguel.

A 51-15 vote defeated a motion by Sen. Roman L. Hruska (R-Neb.), to send the bill to the Judiciary Committee for hearings.

On a 52-14 roll call, the Senate defeated a substitute bill by Hruska that would have declared the papers of all recent and future presidents and of vice presidents and members of Congress to be public property.

Then, Hruska's amendment simply preventing destruction of Nixon's papers and tapes failed, 49 to 15.

In another development, Rep. John Moss (D-Calif.), charged that Nixon is a "security risk" and should no longer be given classified briefings by the government.

In a letter to Ford, Moss, chairman of a subcommittee dealing with government information policies, said Nixon was guilty of illegal acts and therefore is eligible for the secret briefings which he has been receiving since he resigned.

"It is my opinion that, due to the circumstances which led to the resignation of your predecessor, and his subsequent acceptance of a pardon, that Mr. Nixon is guilty of illegal acts," Moss wrote.

Girl Bicyclist Clings to Life; 'Very Critical'

A 15-year-old Costa Mesa girl struck broadside by a car Tuesday as she crossed a busy street with her bicycle against a red light was still clinging to life today.

Karen C. Moeller, of 1781 Bahama Place, suffered major head injuries and bled severely from a neck cut caused when she was hurled into the car's windshield.

"Very, very critical," is the way one Costa Mesa Memorial Hospital spokesman described the girl's condition today.

Motorist Michael J. Schroeder, 19, of 8211 Indianapolis Ave., Huntington Beach, was not cited following the accident on Adams Avenue at Royal Palm Drive. Fireman Frank Fantino raced out of the Costa Mesa Fire Department headquarters station at that corner and gave Miss Moeller immediate first aid.

Banks Dip Lend Rate

BofA, Citibank Drop Prime to 11¾%

By United Press International

Bank of America of San Francisco and First National City Bank of New York, the nation's two largest banks, today lowered their prime lending rate from 12 percent to 11¾ effective Monday, joining some major banks across the nation in reducing interest for business loans.

But at the same time, Citibank, the nation's third largest bank, said it was raising slightly its internal formula for computing its floating prime interest rates.

Citibank said "hereafter its base rate will be computed at a spread of ¾ of 1 percent over the 90-day commercial paper rate instead of ⅝ of 1 percent as heretofore.

"This change is consistent with money market conditions and its own policy of credit restraint," the bank said.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip stocks, which Thursday dropped below the 600 mark for the first time in 12 years, closing at 587.61, was off another 10 in early trading today. Later it rallied.

Mercantile Trust of St. Louis, a major Midwest bank, also said it was lowering its rate. United California Bank also followed.

In lowering the prime rate, the banks join several banks that reduced the interest rate by ¼ percent two weeks ago in the first easing of business loan credit since early in July when rates soared to an historic high of 12 percent.

The decline in the prime, the interest banks charge for loans to best corporate customers, followed an easing of the tight-money policy imposed by the Federal Reserve Bank which began pouring money into the banking system.

The Bank of America acknowledged this in its statement lowering the rate. It said it "is lowering its rate in support of recent modest adjustments in Federal Reserve policies which have led to some declines in money market rates and in the marginal cost of funds and not as a result of reducing loan growth."

The bank said its loan growth has "slowed only moderately."

The high prime rates were a result of efforts to check inflation by reducing business credit and by the high demand for loans.

Festival Slated On U.S., China At Golden West

Seven films about contemporary life in China will be one of the highlights of a U. S.-China Friendship Festival at Golden West College all day Saturday.

The event, opening at 10 a.m. in the theater patio, will feature food and product booths, art exhibits, martial arts demonstrations and a Chinese chorus and dance group.

Co-sponsoring the event are Golden West's social science division and the Orange County chapter of the U. S.-China Peoples' Friendship Association of Anaheim, a non-profit organization seeking improved understanding between the two nations.

The 25-minute color films show China's communes, agriculture, industry, education, medicine, including acupuncture and a look at the Chinese Army.

Dr. Ho Sun, a Pasadena economist who completed his doctorate on Chinese communes, will be one of the commentators.

Others, all visitors to China last summer, are Michael Lustig, doctoral candidate at UC, San Diego; Dr. Shirley Cereseto, associate professor at Cal State Long Beach; Wendy Lance, teacher in Asian studies at Beverly Hill High Schools; Dr. Sidney Bob, Los Angeles podiatrist, and Linda Sullivan, UCLA graduate in Chinese history.

Film showings will begin at 10 a.m. and run hourly through 4 p.m.

In addition, there will be a continual showing of slides by the recent returnees from China.

The martial arts demonstrations will begin at noon, starting with Kung Fu, followed at 1 p.m. with judo; 3 p.m. kendo and aikido at 3:30.

A Chinatown choral group will present Chinese folk music at 11 a.m., followed at 11:30 with a Chinatown dance troupe.

Booths will display Chinese products, including toys, clothing, posters, music including toys, clothing, posters, music arts and crafts.

A menu of sweet and sour pork, almond chicken and fried rice will be prepared in a cooking demonstration and adult and child plates will be for sale at $2 and $1.25.

There will be a $1 donation for admission to the festival or 50 cents with a student body card.

Fulltime Officer?

Fountain Valley Seeking Better Animal Control

City officials are planning to meet with county animal control officers to try to improve service to Fountain Valley.

Assistant City Manager James Beck said he will contact the county health department, as well as animal control officials, to discuss assigning a fulltime officer to Fountain Valley.

"Another thing we would like to see is shelter facilities available to people here in Fountain Valley," he added.

Beck said he'll discuss how much this kind of service might cost.

At present the city pays nothing for animal control, but the county supports its service through the $5 dog license and impounding fees.

Dr. W. E. Dieterich, veterinary public health officer, said he has recommended the fee be hiked to $10 for un-neutered dogs and $5 for neutered, but so far the Board of Supervisors hasn't acted.

He said his agency provides as efficient service to Fountain Valley as it can, but added the increased fee will allow for the hiring of additional personnel and better service.

In addition, he said, a local shelter could be built if the city gets permission from the county supervisors. A similar effort is being made in the southern part of the county, near San Juan Capistrano, but so far no site has been picked.

The city three months ago discussed switching contacts to California Animal Control but decided against it.

The city staff had strongly recommended switching to CAC, the agency which provides similar service to Huntington Beach and Seal Beach.

But Beck said the staff has no recommendation now as to whether the city should reconsider.

School Teaches Notehand Class

Notehand, a new class designed to teach students how to take better notes, begins Monday in the Fountain Valley School District's Community School.

The unique class covers a combination of longhand and shorthand writing techniques designed to speed note taking. It also includes outline technique.

Fee for the eight-week class is $8. The class is open to all students regardless of age or educational background.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the Fountain Valley School District at 842-6651, extension 217.

Area 4-H Clubs Display Projects In Center's Mall

Members of the Cloverdales 4-H Club of Huntington Beach and Fountain Valley will join other area 4-H club members this weekend in a display of projects in Huntington Center Mall.

Members will be showing clothes they have made, cakes they've decorated and perhaps some of the rabbits they raised, 4-H Club Week next week.

About 100 items will be included in the weekend showing, held to launch 4-H Climb Week next week.

Persons interested in joining 4-H may contact the Cloverdales by calling Mrs. Jan Tubbiola at 962-6917. The club meets the first Tuesday of each month at the Community Methodist Church, 6662 Heil Ave., Huntington Beach.

Hair Fob

DEAT PAT: Can you find anyone in or around the Los Angeles area who could take a switch of human hair and weave it into a watch fob chain like my grandfather used to wear on his vest? I think they used to call them "horse hair watch fob chains." These fobs were worn on men's vests with a gold ring at each end of the woven hair holding the watch at one end and a cigar cutter or pen knife on the other. In the center of this chain was a gold attachment which was hooked into a vest button hole. I have a switch of grandmother's hair and grandfather's watch. Since the original fob was burned in a devestating fire at my son's home last year, I know its replacement would mean a lot, especially since his grandparents were so dear to him.

A. S., Sherman Oaks

Researching your request took some doing, but Jensen's, 1536 N. Highland Ave., Los Angeles, can fashion the old-fashioned (circa 1870) watch fob you desire. Jensen's explained the braided switch would be undone and wefted onto three layers of string to form the chain, to which the appropriate attachments can be affixed.

Slow Delivery

DEAR PAT: I ordered a book on Tai Chi exercises from Good News Publishing Co. with the understanding that I could get a refund if I, or my doctor, were dissatisfied with the book. I was not impressed and returned it immediately after delivery in April, requesting my refund. I'm still waiting.

M. F., Costa Mesa

Good News has returned your $6.95, explaining that "due to the huge volume of mail business we do daily, sometimes it is totally unexplainable as to what has transpired." The Canton, Ohio, Better Business Bureau has an explanatiin, however. Its files contain hundreds of slow delivery complaints about this firm, which apparently is not equipped to handle the volume of business its ads generate. BBB records indicate delivery of Good News publications takes from 8 to 14 weeks.

News for Seniors

DEAR PAT: Although I've been a Daily Pilot subscriber for years and plan to remain so, I'd like to know if there are any small newspapers specifically for Senior Citizens?

G. C., Laguna Hills

Yes, the Senior Citizens News, 4205 Euclid, Anaheim, and Senior Peoples Press of Orange County, 5821 Beach Blvd., Buena Park, both cater exclusively to Senior Citizens' news interests.

Horsemeat Label

DEAR PAT: Are any statistics available on how many horses were slaughtered last year in the United States for pet and human consumption? I'd also like to know if horsemeat for human consumption is labeled in any special way to distinguish it from beef.

J. H., Huntington Beach

In 1973, 88,000 horses were slaughtered for meat in the U.S., mostly for export and pet food, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Federal Meat Inspection Program. Horsemeat can be sold for human consumption in this country only if labeled as horsemeat. The appropriate inspection sticker is colored green.

Refund Coming

DEAT PAT: I can't get anywhere with American Image Corp. in New York. After months of waiting last spring, a sauna suit I'd ordered finally arrived, but it was defective and I returned it immediately, requesting either replacement or a refund. It's been three months now and I still haven't heard from the company. It this a reliable outfit?

J. M., Garden Grove

Neither the Metropolitan New York Better Business Bureau nor the Council of Better Business Bureaus in Washington, D.C. give a good recommendation to American Image in view of numerous unresolved complaints. The firm also has been charged with false representation in advertising by the U.S. Postal Service for two of its products. The postal service also has obtained changes in advertising for two other items offered by American Image. Your refund is being processed, however.

Poll Shows People Want Nude Beaches

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Beachgoers in Laguna Beach are overwhelmingly in favor of setting aside areas for nude swimming and sunbathing.

This was one of the findings in a recent study by UC Irvine Social Scientist Ruth Wallace, conducted for the Kalos Kagathos Foundation of Laguna Beach.

"Frankly, I was surprised," said Ms. Wallace after finding that 83 percent of the 575 beachgoers questioned approved of nude beaches.

Ms. Wallace noted, however, that those who disapproved of nude beaches "disapproved very strongly."

"I would say this is a controversial issue," she said.

A list of 13 questions was handed out to beachgoers during the first three weekends in September, Ms. Wallace said. She found that 37 percent of those queried were Laguna Beach residents and of these, 63 percent were property owners.

About half of those questioned have children, the study showed.

Asked if they would go to a nude beach, 46 percent said yes, 29 percent no, and the rest perhaps or don't know.

Ms. Wallace said she was surprised to find that 43 percent of those queried said they would take their children to a nude beach.

Other significant findings, Ms. Wallace said, were that 75 percent of those queried would like to see a nude beach in Laguna Beach.

She found that younger people, males and Laguna Beach residents were more approving of nude beaches than others "but I haven't tested the significance of those figures yet."

Ms. Wallace said she used a questionnaire rather than a face-to-face interview because she believed people would be more honest.

She stressed that she herself is not a member of a nude beach movement but undertook the study as a researcher for the Kalos Kagathos Foundation, a health and water sports promoting organization.

Joanna Leary Testifies

Claims Mesa Lawyer Gave Leary Hashish in Jail

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Joanna Leary told the Orange County Grand Jury that her first knowledge that accused attorney George Chula had access to drugs came when he supplied hashish to Timothy Leary in the LSD advocate's county jail cell.

She testified last month that Chula joined her in the parking lot outside the jail in January of 1973 and told her when she inquired about Leary: "Oh, he's feeling fantastic because I just gave him some hashish and he's going to have a nice evening."

The former British socialite admits several times in her testimony that she was working for the Orange County district attorney's office and associated anti-drug agencies when she next saw Chula in June and July of this year.

Several Grand Jury members asked her why she had been so willing to cooperate with law enforcement agencies.

Denying that she had been paid for her work, Mrs. Leary at first told the Grand Jury that she lived in San Francisco after Leary's imprisonment and became disillusioned with what she called the drug culture.

"I found 99.9 percent of them to be dishonest," she told the Grand Jury adding that she liked the Orange County officers she had worked with.

But she admitted under further questioning that her main aim in contacting Chula at the urging of local officers was to help Leary and free him, if possible, from his 25-year prison term.

Testimony by Mrs. Leary and the agents who worked with her from adjacent rooms in the several hotels she used during June and July indicates that there were no drugs on her person when she met Chula on those occasions.

After those meetings, she turned over to the agents quantities of cocaine and marijuana which were held as exhibits and displayed to the Grand Jury.

Women agents testified that Mrs. Leary had been stripped and carefully searched before each meeting and could not possibly have hidden the drugs.

Joanna Leary testified that Chula on at least one occasion pulled a $100 bill from his pocket, produced a quantity of cocaine and told her: "Let's make lines."

She explained that "making lines" is breaking the lumpy, white cocaine powder down into narrow parallel lines which are then inserted in the rolled up bill and sniffed up the nose by the drug user.

She testified that Chula did this and encouraged her to participate. She testified that he also smoked marijuana on several occasions and gave her and his wife, Dorothy, marijuana to smoke.

Agents testified that they heard several of the conversations from nearby rooms including a conversation in which Joanna Leary gave Chula $700 of the agent's money to buy cocaine for her.

Joanna Leary testified that the meeting with Chula took place in June and July in Newport Beach, Costa Mesa, Santa Ana and Long Beach.

She testified that she came very close to discovery last July 7 when Chula met her and told her that his son, Steve, had been warned by a lifeguard in San Juan Capistrano that four police cars were following his father's car.

New Name Scheduled At Facility

Orange County Medical Center, sold to UC Irvine by Orange County supervisors this week, is in for a facelift and a name change.

At a breakfast today, UCI-California College of Medicine Dean Stanley van den Noort and UCI Chancellor Daniel Aldrich described the charity hospital as part of a complex medical system of teaching and health care.

With the major hurdle of buying the facility past, UCI is preparing to make it a part of the medical system which also includes operations at the Long Beach Memorial Hospital, Fairview State Hospital and the Children's Hospital of Orange County.

Community clinics designed to treat some ailments and refer people with more severe problems to the Medical Center would also become part of the system. In addition to an existing clinic in Santa Ana, two new clinics are to be built in the northern part of Orange County.

University plans include an initial $8 million renovation of the Medical Center, purchased by the medical school for $5.5 million.

By the time the university takes title to the Medical Center next summer, Dr. van den Noort said, a new name reflecting the new ownership will be attached to the sprawling hospital.

The Medical Center purchase, required under a state mandate before other medical school building could take place, opens the way for the construction program.

Adding medical school construction will double the UCI building activity, Aldrich said.

The school, with $43 million in state funds and federal grants, plans to expand from its present facilities in two low brown buildings on California Avenue on the campus.

Plans include reducing the Medical Center from 500 to 300 beds and building a 200-bed hospital on the university grounds.

Additionally, the medical school plans two teaching and laboratory buildings on campus.

Construction on the hospital and the first teaching building could begin within a year, Aldrich said, and should be completed during 1977.

El Toro, Pendleton

Marines, Employes Get Pay Hikes at 2 Bases

Approval of pay raises for federal civilian and military employes recently will affect an estimated 36,000 military personnel and 2,500 civilian workers at the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station and Camp Pendleton.

Spokesmen at both bases acknowledged that the 5.52 percent, across-the-board increases will have a measurable effect on the overall economy of the area.

While Camp Pendleton is in San Diego County, many of its employes live in Orange County.

Rough calculations by base personnel showed that the surges in annual payroll will amount to $2.8 million at El Toro and more than twice that much at Camp Pendleton.

The approval for the raises for military and regular civilian employes at the bases came from the U.S. Senate over the objection of President Ford, who had sought to delay the raise for three months.

Ford had contended that the three-month delay would save $700 million in time of serious inflation. However, the Senate action left him no choice but to set the size of the increase and order it into effect.

The effect on El Toro's 10,000 military personnel will amount to a total payroll this fiscal year of $63,775,616, up from about $61 million last year.

For the 350 civilians with official "graded" status as employes, the payroll will jump from $9 million to about $9.5 million.

At Camp Pendleton, the figures are greater.

The base currently has a military population of 26,600 and a graded civilian roster of 2,250 workers.

The total military payroll there for a fiscal year is in the area of $117 million and the boost in wages will mean that Pendleton Marines will earn about $5.5 million more this fiscal year.

Civilians there will earn about $1.2 million more this year with a total payroll reaching about $26 million.

The raises — retroactive to Oct. 1 — probably will begin to show on paychecks at midmonth and the end of this month, said official spokesmen, and that will amount to checks with greater than usual figures.

Sunday's Pilot Offering

Test for Breast Cancer

Politics and political figures seem to dominate everything everyone is doing in this year of trauma and turmoil. Among "Sunday's Best" in the Daily Pilot will be a health feature stemming from Mrs. Gerald Ford's mastectomy, plus other "political" offerings.

Here's a rundown on some of them:

BREAST CANCER—INFORMATION compiled by the Daily Pilot's People Section staff will be pulled together into a definitive guide on self examination of the breast which women can use to help in early detection of possibly dangerous symptoms. It's part of a national focus on a health problem the average woman can do something abbout, scheduled for YOU section.

Sunday's Best

HICKEL'S TURN — Fired ignominiously from his position in the Nixon cabinet as secretary of the interior, Walter Hickel apparently went home to Alaska to wait for his time to come. It has come and he tells an inside story of President Nixon as seen from the other end of the office couch and across the conference table that is, to say the least, a rare view of the very private person of Richard Nixon.

AMERICAN DREAM — Second of the 18 installments in the college-course-by-newspaper the Daily Pilot is publishing is scheduled for YOU Section Sunday. The new feature will be listed each Sunday under "American Dream" in the index published on Page A1. Check the Index Sunday for page number of "In Search of the American Dream—Part 2."

HOW WE DO IT — The often-asked question of "who writes the editorials" for the Daily Pilot is answered in a special Editorial Page article to be published as part of the newspaper's observance of International Newspaper Week.

Layoffs Push Jobless Level to 5.8%

Lot of Talk, But no Action

RICKY TICKY POLITIX: We've had a lot of smoke and hot air blowing out of Sacramento over the past two days as the California Legislature finally collapsed its session. The results, however, produced very little thunder or lightning.

All of this involved our good Gov. Reagan and his recent penchant for vetoing money bills.

Under the rules of the way we run our state government, you see, the lawmakers get to pass a lot of spending bills and the governor can them cancel them with vetoes.

This is precisely what Gov. Reagan did. He set a record in wiping things out, as a matter of fact. He killed 198 measures which had previously cleared the Legislature.

THEN, OVER THE past couple of days, the Legislature, dominated by Democrats, had a chance to get back at the governor. They could vote to "override" his vetoes.

Thus it develops that the lawmakers took votes to override Reagan on a whole passel of bills, including some for aid to the elderly, aid to schools, aid to mobile home owners, aid to people choking on food in restaurants — aid to almost everybody.

Trouble was, in order to override you've got to have most of the lawmakers paying attention to business and at their desks in the legislative hall.

AND THE TROUBLE with this is, the lawmakers are notorious this time of year for playing hooky.

For example one of them, Senator Nicholas Petris, the Democrat from Oakland, had split for Greece. Others just drifted off here or there.

So the Senate Wednesday kept taking votes to override Gov. Reagan's vetoes and they kept coming up short of voters.

"What are the sergeants-at-arms doing to find these missing members?" fumed Senator Joseph M. Kennick, the Democrat from Long Beach.

Well, those sergeants scurried about and did find Senator Alan Robbins, the Democrat from Van Nuys. He wasn't too far away. He had just sort of drifted down the hall to see what the Assembly was doing.

THEY DID NOT find the aforementioned Senator Petris, who is in Greece. Senator Ralph Dills, the Democrat from Gardena, volunteered to take a subpoena to Greece and fetch Petris back. But nobody took him up on his kind offer.

Meanwhile, Senator Mervyn Dymally, who is running on the Democratic side for lieutenant governor, was miffed at Republican John L. Harmer, who was absent and here in Southern California.

Dymally wanted the solons to haul Harmer back to Sacramento. This was because Harmer was here in the south, campaigning for lieutenant governor against Dymally. Also, Harmer was getting sworn in as the new lieutenant governor, which sure could give him a leg up in the current campaign.

CLEARLY, YOU CAN see there was some politics in all this searching for people to come vote on veto overrides.

In the end, however, the senators failed to find enough votes to override even one single veto out of the 198 bills that Gov. Reagan struck down. So they all quit and went home.

And that's your California Legislature for today, folks.

U.S. Reports Rate Highest In 2½ Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Widespread layoffs pushed the nation's unemployment rate up to 5.8 percent of the work force last month, the highest level in 2½ years, the government reported today.

Another 440,000 workers joined unemployment rolls in September, bringing the total to a seasonally adjusted 5.3 million, the Labor Department said.

The increase in jobless rate, from 5.4 percent in August, was the largest monthly increase since last January when it also rose four-tenths of one percent.

UNEMPLOYMENT HAS been creeping up gradually for the past several months and is expected to rise above six percent late this year or in early 1975. Last October the jobless rate had dropped to a 3½-year low of 4.6 percent. Since then the number of unemployed persons has risen by 1.2 million.

President Ford, who will send his economic program to Congress next week, has indicated he will propose an expanded public service jobs program using federal funds to enable state and local government to hire the unemployed.

Most of the unemployment last month took place among women aged 25 and older and among teen-agers, particularly males 18 to 19 years old. Declining college attendance among young men, coupled with the slower growth in jobs, contributed to the higher joblessness among youth, the government said.

TOTAL EMPLOYMENT was reported up by 350,000 from August to September. Over the past year, total employment has climbed by 1.4 million, half the year-to-year gain recorded in the previous year. The increase was negated in the unemployment picture by additional job seekers.

Both white and blue collar workers felt the effects of the slowing economy. Both categories registered increases in joblessness. Heavy layoffs were reported in manufacturing, construction and wholesale and retail trade. Construction's unemployment rate, at 12.4 percent, rose to its highest level in four years.

Within goods-producing industries, employment gained slightly in September due to a reduction in strike activity.

In September, the average work week of factory workers remained at 40.1 hours while factory overtime fell by two tenths of an hour. The average hourly pay for a manufacturing worker last month rose eight cents to $4.51, while weekly earnings averaged $181.75, up from August's $177.64, the department said.

AMONG THE MAJOR labor-force groups, the jobless rate for full-time workers was reported up from 4.8 percent in August to 5.3 percent in September, while the rate for household heads moved up from 3.1 to 3.4 percent. The unemployment rate for married men was listed at 2.8 percent in September compared with 2.6 percent in August. The teen-aged jobless rate rose from 15.3 to 16.7 percent.

Top Mormon Urges Battle Against Sex

From Wire Services

SALT LAKE CITY — The president of the Mormon Church urged his 3.3 million followers today to fight against the sexual revolution — from streaking and pornography to unisex styles and homosexuality.

Spencer W. Kimball, 79, the "prophet, seer and revelator" of the Mormons, opened the church's fall conference by warning that permissiveness may be destroying the moral fabric of a generation.

"We live in a culture which venerates the orgasm, streaking and similar crazes," Kimball told 8,000 persons jammed into the Salt Lake Tabernacle and thousands more watching on television.

● Arab Forces Rev Up

Egypt threatened today to launch a surprise attack against Israel if new war breaks out in the Middle East. Syrian troops fought mock battles along the Golan Heights.

Egyptian war minister Ahmed Ismail said in Cairo "the next battle — should it be our lot to wage it — will be completely different from the last war."

● Prison Terms Urged

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. — Attorney General William B. Saxbe said today price gougers and tax evaders should go to prison along with muggers and car thieves instead of being let off with light fines and a "slap on the wrist."

Saxbe urged federal judges to stop accepting pleas of no contest or guilty from white collar criminals and giving them suspended sentences so they can "be back on the golf course the next day."

● Aid Ban Repealed

WASHINGTON — House-Senate conferees eliminated a ban on U.S. military aid to Turkey from pending foreign aid legislation Thursday.

The conferees approved a "continuing resolution" which would permit arms aid to Turkey if the President confirmed that the Turks were making "good faith" efforts to settle the dispute with Greece over Cyprus.

Refunds Ordered In Spray Paint Cancer Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers can begin demanding full refunds Monday for millions of new or used cans of spray paint containing the cancer-causing chemical vinyl chloride.

But since the chemical is not listed on labels, it may be almost impossible to determine whether the aerosol paint you own contains vinyl chloride.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission said today it has denied requests by several paint manufacturers to revoke the federal refund order. Retailers will be required to post lists in their stores of vinyl chloride-containing paints they have sold during past years.

THE INDUSTRY HAD warned the commission that it produced tens of millions of cans of spray paint with vinyl chloride, and that repurchase at $1.50 to $2.00 each would put many companies out of business.

They also said the 24 liver cancer deaths attributed to vinyl chloride occurred among workers who had been exposed to heavy concentrations for years. They said there was no proof that limited exposure from use of aerosol paints would cause cancer.

Rust-Oleum Corp., which discontinued use of vinyl chloride in April 1972, said it was not arguing that it is "more important to save a business than to save a life," but it felt the repurchase order was not backed up by proof of a health hazard.

THE FIRM SAID areosel paints and varnishes generally are used outdoors or in well-ventilated areas and any potential risk is greatly minimized.

Plastic-Kote Co., a division of Consolidated Foods Inc., said it stopped using vinyl chloride in some products in December 1971 and altogether in June 1973.

The company said it makes 20 million cans of spray paint a year, under its own five brands and 100 private labels.

Thirty million cans have been produced without vinyl chloride, but they are not readily distinguished from the others, Plasti-Kote said.

Thousands Seek Shelter In Massive Peru Quake

LIMA (UPI) — Authorities said today dozens of persons died and thousands were injured by an earthquake that jolted Peru's central coast, pushed back Pacific Ocean waters and demolished adobe huts and brick buildings.

Rescue workers provided temporary shelters and supplies today for tens of thousands of persons left homeless by the tremor that shook Lima for more than two minutes Thursday, sending thousands of panicked residents into the streets.

Casualty figures from police, hospitals and civil defense centers totaled 44 dead, more than 2,000 injured and an estimated 70,000 homeless around Lima alone.

THE MILITARY government of President Juan Velasco Ivarado, marking its sixth anniversary in office today, met in emergency session late Thursday to coordinate rescue operations.

The National Geophysical Institute said the epicenter of the earthquake was in the Pacific Ocean 30 to 50 miles southwest of Lima. The tremor registered 7.8 on the 10-point Richter scale.

It shook the capital of 3.5 million persons violently for two minutes and 15 seconds and was felt in Lima more strongly than a 1970 quake that devastated the northern half of the country and left 67,000 dead.

Peru, situated on one of the largest geological faults in the world, experiences same 200 earth tremors a year, most of them too small to be felt by all except the most sensitive instruments.

FIFY PERCENT OF the houses in large suburbs of Lima like Chorillos and Molinas were reported destroyed or heavily damaged.

The earthquake struck at 9:21 a.m. PDT and was felt in the heart of the Andes Mountains at Cuzco, 350 miles away.

In small cities to the South, like Canete, Incan Chinca, hundreds of old adobe homes were reduced to rubble.

The waters receded 150 yards from the coast in the southern port of Pisco and in Callao, overturning or beaching fishing boats and a freighter.

Pregnant Bookkeeper Flees From Kidnapers

Betty Ison, 21, whose baby is due in five weeks, pulled off her ropes and walked out of the room five hours after the robber and his accompolice abandoned her.

The FBI said it was looking for James Herbert Fultz, 45, and Raymond Clifford Hall, 29, both from Kentucky, who were charged today in the $14,000 robbery of the Peoples Bank of Sandy Hook, Ky., 160 miles south of here.

THE TWO MEN were charged previously in a Sept. 6 bank robbery in Salt Lick, Ky., the FBI said.

Mrs. Ison was abducted at lunchtime Thursday from the Sandy Hook bank by a gunman.

A cousin in Columbus said Mrs. Ison told police that two men left her in a small motel room on the city's south side about seven hours after the robbery.

Mrs. Robert Fraley said her cousin told police the men tied her and warned her not to attempt to escape. About five hours later she walked out of the room and told her story to the motel manager, who called police.

Mrs. Ison told police she was "treated very well." She declined a medical examination, police said.

U.S. Summary

Frost reached into the South today and residents of central New York were without electricity following a record-breaking snowfall which dumped as much as eight inches in some areas of the state.

Freezing cold stretched into Georgia and the Carolinas. Frost or freeze warnings were posted from the northern two-thirds of Georgia and the interior portions of the Carolinas northward into Massachusetts and the inland portions of Rhode Island and northeastern Ohio.

Freezing temperatures also were expected in eastern New York and scattered light frost was predicted for eastern Kentucky and frost or freezing temperatures were forecast for eastern Tennessee.

About 5,000 customers were still without electrical power Thursday night in central New York state following record-breaking October snowfalls which closed schools and made highways a nightmare.

The National Weather Service said snow depths ranged from three inches in downtown Syracuse to eight inches in some Syracuse suburbs.

Many schools were closed and power lines were downed by the heavy snow.

More than 10,000 customers of the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. had service disrupted by the Wednesday night-Thursday morning storm and workmen spent the day tending to downed lines and attempting to restore power to areas completely blacked out by the storm.

California

Continued mild temperatures and generally fair weather will prevail over Southern California through the weekend, except for low clouds during the night and early morning over coastal areas.

The National Weather Service predicted that the high in downtown Los Angeles, which reached 72 Thursday will continue in the 70s.

Elsewhere, highs will be in the 70s in coastal sections, in the low 80s in inland valleys, in the 60s in the mountains and in the 80s and 90s in the deserts.

Overnight lows will range from the 20s and 40s in the mountains to the 50s at the beaches.

(Coastal weather information will be found today on Page B-7.)

It's Show Biz

New York Erotic Circus Debuts

NEW YORK (AP) — A disco-cabaret called the Erotic Circus made its debut with simulated sex on stage, strobe-lit dancers and peanut shells underfoot.

"This is the biggest dance hall in the world," proclaimed its owner, Jerry Brandt, who said he has sunk $300,000 in the venture.

Invitations to the Thursday night debut in the renovated ballroom of an aging Manhattan hotel urged "elegant" dress, and the hundreds of curious who climbed two flights of stairs to the hall wore everything from feathers to frocks.

If anyone was turned on by the pounding, music, the flashing lights or the performers on stage, however, he or she kept it private.

DESPITE NEIGHBORS' fears that the dim West Side street will get noisy and dangerous, the 2,400-capacity disco opens to the public tonight with a $5 admission charge and $1.50 for the cheapest drink.

To quell their fears, Brandt invited area residents Thursday and established a policy of free admission to senior citizens — anyone over 55.

"We're here tonight to find out exactly what his show consists of, and what's going to happen afterward," said one neighbor, actress Rolida Cranton.

Five minutes after the dance hall opened its doors, one of the waiters, or waitresses — they all wore black leotards and tights — spilled a tray of New York State champagne inside the entrance. But no one seemed to mind.

There was Adrian, a man who does a dance of seven veils. There was Mr. Jiggs, a chimpanzee with fingers that like to pinch. There were Lillian and Karen, too, who wore, respectively, flesh-colored tights and a coral camisole while undulating together on the stage.

CHARGES DROPPED
Attorney Bugliosi

Bugliosi's Out; Shinn Trial Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A defense attorney in the 1970 Charles Manson case is scheduled to stand trial for perjury though similar charges against Manson prosecutor since Bugliosi have been dismissed.

On Thursday, special prosecutor Theodore Shield said he had decided to proceed with a Nov. 18 trial for Daye Shinn, the Manson defense attorney.

Shinn was indicted with Bugliosi on charges they lied by denying they gave newsman Bill Farr information for a story during the Manson trial while a judge's gag order was in effect.

Shield dropped the charges against Bugliosi Thursday, saying Farr's refusal to testify had "dealt a fatal blow" to his case.

But he moved to proceed against Shinn, again raising the possibility that Farr will be asked on the witness stand to name the sources for his news account.

The Los Angeles Times reporter spent 46 days in jail and faces five more for contempt because he refused Superior Judge Charles Older's request to supply the names.

11 Arrested In Airport Pot Raids

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sheriff's deputies arrested 11 men and seized more than a ton of marijuana worth about $1 million in a series of raids at Mojave Desert air strips and in suburban El Monte, authorities said.

Officials said Thursday the raids culminated a two-month undercover investigation.

Booked for investigation of state and federal narcotics laws violations were:

Jon C. Phillips, 29, Manhattan Beach; William A. Serantoni, 25, North Hollywood; John A. Reuck, 28, Lakewood; Gerald D. Hong, 45, Arcadia; Robert L. Pruitt, 57, Alhambra; Karl D. Peterson, 25, Davis, and Darla L. Jenkins, 28, Philip M. Bourchier 27, and Dwayne D. Walker, 23, all of Modesto.

Also, Neil L. Temple, Orangeville, Utah, and Glenn A. Lemaster, 28, Gresham, Ore.

Authorities said the raids were carried out Wednesday.

Four persons were arrested at Fox Field near Lancaster, five others at an airstrip on a dry lake bed in San Bernardino County and two more after they landed at El Monte Airport, trailed by deputies in another plane.

Smog Bad For Folks —LA Study

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Smog is bad for people, a $230,000 study financed by the California Air Resources Board says.

A state official said the 177-page report released Thursday on laboratory produced and regulated smog is one of the first to pin down the health effects of smog in scientific terms.

Among the major conclusions, the report said air pollution equal to second and third smog alert levels produces "significant decrement in pulmonary function, symptons sufficient to restrict normal activity, and oxidative changes in erythrocytes."

● Oil Leakage

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — The Coast Guard says it will keep watching conditions along a 12-mile stretch of picturesque beach which was blackened by oil globules, and meet with local officials to formulate cleanup plans.

Coast Guard spokesman Del

IN SHORT...

Horton announced the action Thursday, a day after the oil balls, apparently from natural seepage in the Santa Barbara Channel, washed ashore and sparked fears of a huge spill like the one that blackened the channel and beaches in 1969.

● Seafood Strike

SAN PEDRO (AP) — Striking workers have voted to end a 17-day walkout at Van Camp seafood cannery, after winning a contract agreement that guarantees they can transfer in their jobs when the facility moves to San Diego.

The union said Thursday that the 1,700 striking cannery workers approved a new three-year contract virtually unanimously. Officials said it expected workers could be back on the job sometime today.

● Scuba Deaths

OXNARD (UPI) — The Coast Guard will test equipment used by two scuba divers who drowned in separate incidents near Anacapa Island in the Santa Barbara channel Wednesday, authorities report.

Air Force Capt. Frank Dugan, 34, stationed at Edwards Air Force Base near Palmdale, was dead on arrival at a naval hospital in Port Hueneme.

Mark Inouye, 23, Gardena, was found at a 35-foot depth by fellow divers. He was a commercial diver for a firm in Oxnard and reportedly was diving for sea urchins when he drowned.

Car Rigged For Rape, Kidnaping

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A man who police say had electric door locks on his expensive automobile pleaded guilty Thursday to two counts of rape and one of kidnaping.

The man, William H. Wires, of suburban Carmichael, is owner of X-ray businesses in Sacramento and Portland, Ore.

Fifteen other counts were dismissed and Wires was ordered examined by psychiatrists.

Police said Wires usually picked up women hitchhiking or waiting for a bus. They said the doorknobs on the inside of Wires' car were removed and, with the electric locks, the victims couldn't get out.

Girl Found Near Death

CALEXICO (AP) — A 15-year-old girl reported "an hour from death" in the desert when she was rescued is reported recovering from exposure and exhaustion.

A joint party of U.S. and Mexican volunteers found Maria Ibarra-Ortega lying among rocks at the foot of Mt. Signal, about 10 miles west of Calexico.

Mother 'Disgraced'

Publisher Sued For 'Cover Girl'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A $2.8 million suit was filed against a San Francisco book publisher on behalf of a 12-year-old girl who thought she was going to be in the movies, but instead wound up on the cover of a book about marijuana with a cigarette butt in her mouth.

Lillian Haddad was only seven when a photographer approached her in Golden Gate Park and asked her if she wanted to be in films, said her mother, Emily Fagell.

"SHE WAS thrilled, of course, and so she said 'Yes,' and th man started taking pictures," said Marvin E. Lewis, Mrs. Fagell's attorney.

Straight Arrow Books, Inc. published a book entitled "A Connoisseur's Handbook on Marijuana." On the cover was a picture of Lillian, a cigarette butt in her mouth.

Near the picture, said the suit, was a caption that read:

"The danger in illegalizing marijuana is that you make criminals out of the most intelligent, sensitive people in the country" — Allen Ginsberg.

LEWIS' SUIT, filed in Superior Court Thursday, contends Straight Arow — a branch of Rolling Stone magazine — has "disgraced" both Lillian and her mother, causing Mrs. Fagell to suffer "hatred, ridicule and obloquy, causing her to be shunned and voided."

LA Streak Disruptive

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Robert Opel, 33, who streaked the Academy Awards this year, was found innocent Thursday of indecent exposure for doing the same thing to a city council meeting.

But a municipal court jury found Opel guilty on charges of disrupting a public meeting. Opel appeared in the buff during a heated council debate over allowing nudity on public beaches.

Police Chief Jailing 'Loose' Illegal Aliens

KERMAN (UPI) — Saying he was afraid "they will kill themselves or local citizens if allowed to run wild loose," Kerman police chief Olen McDaniel has defended his policy of jailing illegal aliens and making them post a $65 bond.

McDaniel said Thursday his department's policy was to arrest illegal aliens who cannot properly identify themselves, put them in jail and then set them free if they post the $65 bond.

He said that in the past his department called border patrol agents and turned the illegal aliens over to them for deportation, but he said that policy was changed when area farmers complaining that the practice was depleting their work force.

Playgirl Subject Suing

APPLE VALLEY (AP) — Playgirl Magazine nude centerfold Lou Zivkovich says "I don't have any regrets over" posing in the nude — even though he's been fired and his wife is angry with him.

He plans to sue Playgirl, whose June unfolding described him as a "superbly trim 33" and then let the reader make up her mind by showing him in full frontal view.

With not a fig leaf in sight.

"I don't have any regrets over posing but I wish the article had been done in better taste," he sighed, adding that he was soon off to a meeting with his lawyers.

"I've got three lawyers for two different cases," he declared. One suit is aimed at Playgirl, which couldn't be reached for comment. The other is aimed at his ex-employers.

So far, he says, he doesn't need a third attorney for his wife. But he adds, she "is not too pleased with the whole thing."

An Important Choice

Huntington Beach Union High School trustees have started a careful search to fill a vacant seat on the school board.

Although trustees said they hope to appoint a new member soon, they acted wisely in not rushing the matter, in opening the position to as many applicants as possible, then carefully studying their qualifications and interviewing candidates.

Trustee George Logan resigned the post last week, saying he no longer had time to devote to board duties and felt he wasn't carrying his share of the load. While Board President Ron Shenkman said he had differed with Logan on some issues, he praised his decision to resign when he realized he couldn't give the job the attention it deserved.

Serving on a school board isn't an easy job. It carries with it responsibility and requires, as Logan put it, time to study the issues and come up with solutions. The board deserves credit for giving the new trusteeship such a high priority.

Valley Tributes

Two community-spirited Fountain Valley residents recently put the way they feel about their city into music and verse. Their compositions have now been adopted by the city council as Fountain Valley's official city poem and song.

"Fountain Valley, USA," the song, was written ty Jacke Carr, a retired school teacher, who moved to the city two years ago. The song came to him, he said, while he was working with the Bicentennial Committee.

Clara Schultz, a teacher in the Fountain Valley School District, wrote the poem "to paint a picture of Fountain Valley," saying she's devoted to the city and plans to remain there the rest of her life.

While the compositions may not go down in history as classics, it's refreshing that residents of a community, sometimes known best for its block-walled housing tracts, feel moved enough to put their devotion into artistic form.

Their efforts may help bring citizens together and create a new city identity.

New Dimensions

The Huntington Beach Boys Club is offering bus service this year to three elementary schools where civic leaders believe there is demand for a Boys Club program. The buses will be picking up young boys at Oka, Bushard and Oak View schools at least twice a week in the late afternoon.

Many of the youngsters in these neighborhoods are from low-income or single-parent families. They don't have many outlets for their youthful energy, but the Boys Club is going to add another dimension to their lives.

The Boys Club offers a variety of activities, including instructional programs in such things as judo, karate and wrestling; competition in basketball and other sports; and various games like pool and carroms.

Beach City Dodge donated a 25-passenger van to the Boys Club for the busing service. The extension of the club's influence to more distant neighborhoods should prove to be quite a service to the families of those neighborhoods.

CIA Expert Trained Chileans

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — International Telephone and Telegraph dispatched one of America's top bugging experts into the homes and government palace of Chilean president Salvador Allende in 1971.

The alleged purpose of this mysterious mission was to "de-bug" Allende's rooms and to train Chilean police and army men in electronic de-bugging techniques. Interestingly, it was the military which later overthrew Allende.

The visit of master-bugger John Ragan came as ITT, the CIA and the U.S. Embassy in Santiago were busily seeking information to help them get the socialist Allende out of office. Allende was nationalizing American companies in Chile, including ITT.

RAGAN, an ex-FBI electronic specialist, is best known as the man called in by the White House "plumbers" to bug the home of columnist Joseph Kraft. But in the "business," Ragan is respected as an awesome pro: a specialist called in to de-bug the quarters of such notables as Richard Nixon, former Attorney General John Mitchell, Charles "Bebe" Rebozo and others.

On his trip to turbulent Chile, Ragan took along a load of "offensive" bugging equipment. Secret Watergate documents show he was accompanied down by ITT's assistant security director, Russell Tagliareni.

THE DOCUMENTS reveal that Ragan stayed in Chile from April 28, 1971, to May 5, 1971, and was paid $200 a day by ITT. While there, Ragan, at the invitation of the army and police, entered Allende's homes at Valparaiso and Santiago, and his presidential palace.

According to Ragan, he and Allende once sat down and had coffee. There the Chilean leader learned that Ragan worked for ITT. Ragan describes the conversation as "cordial."

No one seems to know why ITT, a relentless enemy of Allende's, was allowed in his dwellings, much less why the Chilean president let an ITT agent conduct "electronic sweeps" of his rooms at a time when planting of bugs was widely feared in Chile. Allende cannot explain: He died from gunshot wounds in the coup.

But as we reported on March 21, 1972, ITT had made approaches "to select members of the Armed Forces in an attempt to have them lead some sort of uprising" in late 1970, only a few months before ITT and the Chilean army helped arrange Ragan's visit.

THE ITT electronics mission is even more puzzling in view of a secret ITT memo dated Sept. 29, 1970, from ITT Vice President E. J. Gerrity to ITT President Harold Geneen. In the memo, Gerrity advises "We should withdraw all technical help (to Chile) and should not promise any technical assistance in the future."

Yet, within months, ITT's deputy security chief and its $200-a-day electronics consultant were dispatched to give "technical assistance" to the army, police and to at least one Chilean telephone company official.

Through a trusted intermediary, we have been given a summary of Ragan's notes on the visit. They do not shed much light on the subject, but simply tell of meetings with the Chilean police and army officials. Some of them appear to be in code.

AFTER the Chilean excursion, Ragan continued to have high-paying dealings with ITT. His private logs show such curious listings as "6/2/71 — ITT test hi-power tmitter. . . 6/7/71—ITTw/tmitter. . .6/10/71—Call Jack Caulfield. . ." "Tmitter," in this case, is a tiny bugging transmitter. And Caulfield was the White House dirty trickster of the Watergate era.

Ragan also ran an ITT de-bugging seminar and has done de-bugging work for Geneen and lesser ITT officials such as Dita Beard, John Ryan and William Marriam.

Footnote: Ragan spoke with my associate Les Whitten at length. The "tmitter" was used only at the seminar, he said, not for bugging. The Chilean mission, he insisted, was "open and above board" and no bugs were planted while in Chile, nor were any found. The bugs he took with him, he said, were left in Chile only for training purposes.

The Issue Is Far From Closed

Nixon Will Be Heard From Again

RICHARD WILSON

WASHINGTON — It should be borne in mind that Herbert Hoover lived articulately into his 90s, some 30 years beyond his moment of greatest political distress. Harry Truman rose from the lowest state of political disregard to high esteem upon his death.

This is not to say that Richard M. Nixon will someday be elevated to the pantheon of revered past presidents, but it is to say that those who think the Nixon issue will go away are fooling themselves. It will be with us for many years.

There are even now enough people who think that Nixon's offenses, while regrettable, were justifiable under the circumstances and in the whole context of his presidency. Among them are those who thought he should have resigned and those who thought he should not have.

THESE PEOPLE, while now in a minority, number into the millions and thus are not an inconsiderable part of the aware public. They cannot furthermore, be shouted down by the roaring disapproval of the ex-President's pardon, nor the continuing cry for the last drop of his blood and the death-wish reports of his illness.

A decent assumption based upon Nixon's past record can be made that Nixon will survive this period of great physical and mental stress, with the usual caveat that death can come to any man at any time. If he so survives, at least a decade is left to him of alert physical and mental response, and maybe much more.

The practical meaning of the pardon, therefore, is that Richard M. Nixon, admitting no guilt, is free to use his unquestioned talents not only to rehabilitate himself as best he can but to encourage the nascent belief that he was hounded out of office by cruel and implacable enemies with no regard for the long-range interests of the nation.

SOME SUCH intuition may lie beneath the ferocity of the continuing attack on Nixon and on President Ford for having pardoned Nixon. The tone of this attack clearly seeks to establish the historical base that Nixon's offenses were so enormous that they threatened the continuance of free government, for which he should have been made to pay by public trial, conviction and sentence to prison, even if he never served a day.

More mature consideration may focus on the hysterical exaggeration of such conclusions, taking into consideration that the chief impeachable offense, Article I of the Bill of Impeachment, grew from a ludicrous act about which Nixon knew nothing in advance, the placing of a listening device on the telephone of the Democratic National Chairman during a political campaign.

Assuming Nixon's survival, those who think he will crawl back into a luxurious hole somewhere to live on his pension and brood himself into his grave must be ignoring his record. They would do better to recognize the tone of his public apology, with its intimation of penance to be followed by resurgence.

NIXON will write. In time he will probably talk. In time those who transgressed with him, and still think they did no wrong, will have paid the legal price, and they will talk and write.

Without the complete and utter destruction of these men the innate sense of a good many millions that justice was not done could not be wholly stifled. There will long be those wondering why equal justice under law should send John Ehrlichman to prison while Daniel Ellsberg goes free, or hold Nixon liable for shielding a political scandal not of his own making.

All such moral and ethical problems would have been wrapped into a horrific bundle and cast into the vaults of history by the criminal conviction of Nixon. The end would have been written in a different way than President Ford tried to write it. A judgment so conclusive would have been rendered against the Nixon era that history could never challenge it."

BUT it is not to be that way. President Ford could not write the end to Watergate. The House Judiciary Committee could not do so, however persuasive President Ford might have found its unanimous action. And the courts will not be permitted to do so.

This is not because the events and actions did not take place. It is because the gravity and import of those actions and the circumstances under which they took place are seen in different ways by different people. At the moment, the most furious of the critics are acting as if their case may be slipping out of their hands and so have renewed their fury lest the future should forget.

To the Editor:

I've been reading with interest and dismay about the Mexican-Americans complaining about the new TV series, "Chico and the Man." They say it is demeaning, belittling, etc. The episodes I've seen so far has Chico far in the lead over the bumbling white garage owner. I don't recall blacks screaming about "Sanford and Son" or "Good Times." I just don't get it.

STANFORD University had to change their "Indians" to "Cardinals" some time back. Why didn't the Indians push to change the Cleveland Indians to something else? Aha! I've got the answer. The San Francisco and New York Giants should get large complaints from the midgets of our country.

Let's rename all the ball clubs: The Los Angeles Ewes, the New England Revolutionaries, The Atlanta Doves, the Miami Minnows, the Detroit Mice. The Cincinnati Reds (who years ago tried Redlegs, but to no avail) should be re-named the Right-Wingers. How about the New Orleans Sinners? The New York Props? The Denver or Baltimore Shetland Ponies? Buffalo Williams? Philadelphia Sparrows? The list could go on and on.

We are living in a time of absurdity and nit-picking.

Noise Battle

To the Editor:

Your Sunday, Sept. 30 feature on noise pollution relates to a battle waged for a year now by families here in Fountain Valley against noise pollution in Mile Square Regional Park.

WHEN MODEL airplane clubs were ousted by construction from isolated fields along Harbor Boulevard in Costa Mesa, they laid claim to an area in the heart of Mile Square Park. The noise they produce there is not only an affront to the noise control standards of Mile Square's host city, Fountain Valley, the noise also degrades the recreational environment of the park. Picnicking families, golfers and neighboring residents complain about the buzz-saw noise which rasps day-long from 9 am to 7 pm. In terms of total park usage, the modelers are a very small percentage of the public who want to enjoy the park, yet the modelers persist in annoying people who come to the park to escape the motorized noise of our mechanized world.

THIS SITUATION shows the inadequacy of linking noise pollution standards only to decibel levels. The noise of model planes, motorcycles, saws and other noise sources do not necessarily produce high decibel levels — but their noise is psychologically very annoying because of its frequency and pitch.

Give the motorcyclists, modelers and others who need noise to have fun their own isolated area where they can't bother the majority of people who just want to relax in some peace and quiet.

Rape Interest

To the Editor:

I am writing to protest the lack of coverage given the conference on rape sponsored by the Golden West College—American Association of University Women in your newspaper.

Over 300 women attended the daylong event highlighted by state Sen. Alan Robbins' remarks in the late afternoon.

The women of Orange County are interested in events of this nature, not just weddings, luncheons and fashion shows!

Funeral Alternatives

To the Editor:

Many years ago, so the story goes, a new steak house opened its doors in Kansas City, an area long noted for its fine steaks. Before long they were outselling all their competitors. When asked to explain the secret behind this fantastic success, the owner replied, "I buy the same beef everyone else does. The only difference is that when I serve a steak the customer gets it on a sizzling hot platter. Hell, man, I'm not selling steaks — I'm selling the sizzle."

THAT STORY popped into my mind when I read Tom Barley's article titled "The Viking Way" in the Sunday, September 29, edition of the Pilot. The quoted comments of a representative of the Neptune Society implied that their founder, Dr. Charles W. Denning, Jr., was unique in feeling it "was high time someone offered an alternative to the costly, involved mortuary-funeral-cemetery system that today is costing families at least $2,000."

The fact is that Neptune is too closely patterned after Telophase to be coincidental. Dr. Thomas B. Weber, entrepreneur in the field of bypassing the mortuary by providing direct cremation, founded Telophase in 1971. And, he readily declares, his brain child was conceived when he was a member of the non-profit San Diego Memorial Society. Founded in 1958, this is one of a number of such non-profit organizations located throughout the state, of which the Tri-County Memorial Funeral Society in Orange County is one. Together they comprise the California Federation of Memorial and Funeral Societies, which functions largely in the capacity of legislative watchdog in Sacramento.

THESE societies, by seeking out and contracting with selected funeral directors, those with a social awareness and a willingness to meet community needs, provide their members with a full range of mortuary service from which to choose. No "sizzle" in the form of a 100' ocean going vessel is offered, but immediate cremation with scattering at sea costs $215, and a traditional funeral can be had for $395.

We felt your readers should know that we have been serving the community since 1961, by providing this alternative to expensive funerals.

ALLACE KUNZ, Secretary
Tri-County Memorial Funeral Society

Essays on T. S. Eliot

THE BOOKMAN

T. S. Eliot, the seventh volume in the Contemporary Studies in Literature Series by McGraw-Hill Paperbacks ($1.95), presents nine critical essays on one of the key poets of the twentieth century, along with an extensive bibliography.

Edited by Linda W. Wagner, it contains essays by such figures as Arthur Mizener, whose introduction to the poet, "To Meet Mr. Eliot" is one of the best ever written. Subsequent chapters include an article by Leonard Unger — a critic whose work on Eliot has always been admired for its sanity: Ezra Pound's note on the 1917 Prufrock & Other Poems; Bernard Bergonzi and Helen Gardner's essays on Eliot's early poems; M. L. Rosenthal's contribution placing The Wasted Land in a new perspective as an "open," suggestive poem. Daniel R. Schwarz's question on the accepted reading of "Gerantion"; William T. Moynihan's direction for much of Four Quartets.

Bright Says Coast Master Plan 'Possible'

Planning for the 1,000-mile California coastline is like gingerly stepping through a thicket — there are thorny problems everywhere.

The problems involve boundaries, overlapping jurisdiction by government agencies, private property rights and communication.

Bright addressed the subject Thursday at an afternoon meeting of Town Hall of California held at the Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim.

The commission Bright chairs is one of six regional panels rushing to complete a master coastline plan for submission to the state legislature by 1976. The plan was mandated by Proposition 20, the coastal conservation act passed by California voters in 1972.

Despite the tight time, Bright told Town Hall members that four elements of the plan have been approved, three are in the public hearing stage, one has just be released for review and one is in the drafting stage.

"Milestones" of the approved plans, Bright said, include recommendations that would:

— Create a marine resources management agency.

— Require coastal land be set aside to insure coastal plants and animals "not only survive but thrive."

— Prohibit any form of development on the beach, tidelands or the immediate shoreline, if no beach exists.

— Establish a public trust to acquire all coastal land from the water's edge to the first road parallel to it. Bright said this proposal would have a major effect on the Irvine Coast property between Cameo Shores in Newport Beach and Irvine Cove in Laguna Beach.

— Mandatory procedures for energy conservation, including expanded use of solar energy.

Bright said the plan ultimately submitted to legislature must be easily understood.

"If the plan goes to them as a four foot thick document, all it will do is collect dust," Bright said.

Bright said initial resistance to the coastal commission's jurisdiction over land within 1,000 yards of the shoreline from coastal cities has eased.

He said cooperation from the cities will result in a more workable plan.

Offshore Drill Plan 'Assured'

By FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A week's trip to the nation's capital has convinced the chairman of the regional coastal commission that offshore oil drilling along the Orange County coast is a "foregone conclusion."

Dr. Donald Bright, head of the 12-member state panel preparing a plan to guide the future of the coast, made the remark following a Town Hall of California luncheon Thursday in Anaheim.

Responding to a question, Bright said, "I think it's a foregone conclusion we're going to have offshore oil drilling."

Bright said he recently spent a week in Washington D. C. meeting with officials in various sections of the Department of the Interior, the agency that has proposed 1.6 million acres of offshore waters between Santa Barbara and Dana Point be opened for drilling.

The department has defended the proposal as one means of helping increase oil production to meet the country's energy needs.

Bright said that, although it appears the offshore drilling plan will go into effect, it is not too late to demand sufficient safeguards to avoid adverse environmental impacts from drilling operations.

"It can happen with more thought and constraint," the Cal State Fullerton biologist said.

Technology is being developed for subsurface drilling and new safety mechanisms that can help prevent oil spills such as the one that occurred in Santa Barbara in 1969, Bright said.

He said the exact timing of the leases will depend on the outcome of "Project Blueprint," an Interior Department study to determine precisely what the country's energy needs are.

Official Orders Offshore Lease Plan Prepared

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top Interior Department official has ordered the government to prepare a plan to lease 10 million acres of potential offshore oil sites next year in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said that it obtained an internal Interior Department memo written by Undersecretary John C. Whitaker ordering development of a plan for leasing of "all the promising areas of the Atlantic" as well as for a sale next year of the leases for drilling sites on the bottom of the Pacific. The Pacific site was identified as off Alaska. But Sen. John Tunney (D-Calif.) feared some of the site could be off Southern California.

Whitaker confirmed he had written the Sept. 10 memo, in a telephone interview with the newspaper Thursday night, the Post said. The plan was to have been ready Sept. 30, but is expected to be finished next week, according to the Post.

The plan, strongly opposed by environmentalists, would open as much as 13 million acres of ocean bottom to exploration by oil and gas companies next year, including the promising Baltimore Canyon site — a deep sea trench about 60 miles off the New Jersey-Delaware coast, the paper said.

The memo read in part:

"The undersecretary (Whitaker) wants a firm leasing schedule laid out that definitely includes the following items: (1) 10 million acres leased in 1975 — not just 10 million acres offered; (2) a sale in 1975 in both Alaska and the Atlantic; (3) an alternative, if No. 2 fails, which will still allow leasing of 10 million acres."

MARKET ERASES ITS EARLY LOSSES

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, erasing most of a wide early loss with a gradual technical comeback in the afternoon.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.05 points at 584.56, and losers and gainers were closely in balance in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow was down more than 10 points at its low point of the day amid what brokers described as continued concern over the implications of inflation and the oil squeeze.

Bof A, Citibank Lower Prime Lending Rates

By United Press International

Bank of America of San Francisco and First National City Bank of New York, the nation's two largest banks, today lowered their prime lending rate from 12 percent to 11¾ effective Monday, joining some major banks across the nation in reducing interest for business loans.

But at the same time, Citibank, the nation's third largest bank, said it was raising slightly its internal formula for computing its floating prime interest rates.

Citibank said "hereafter its base rate will be computed at a spread of ¾ of 1 percent over the 90-day commercial paper rate instead of ⅝ of 1 percent as heretofore.

"This change is consistent with money market conditions and its own policy of credit restraint," the bank said.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip stocks, which Thursday dropped below the 600 mark for the first time in 12 years, closing at 587.61, was off another 10 in early trading today. Later it rallied.

Mercantile Trust of St. Louis, a major Midwest bank, also said it was lowering

'Bite the Bullet'

Ford Against Increase in Gas Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has ruled out any gasoline tax increase and is firmly opposed to gas rationing but will ask Americans to "bite the bullet" in an anti-inflation program with mandatory features, his spokesman said today.

White House press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will disclose "proposals to help alleviate problems with credit and interest rates" in an address to a joint session of Congress at 1 p.m. (PDT) Tuesday.

Nessen would neither confirm nor deny widespread speculation that Ford would seek some form of tax increase as part of his inflation-fighting package.

But he quoted Ford as telling Republican congressional leaders today that there are "hard choices we and the American people have to make as we bite the bullet on curbing inflation."

Nessen also quoted Treasury Secretary William Simon as telling the GOP congressional leaders that the Ford program "in its most general terms will require and encourage Americans to save more, reduce waste and produce more."

Nessen gave few details of Ford's proposals, saying only tentative decisions have been made and that additional review is required.

But, responding to newsmen's questions at a White House briefing, Nessen said, "The proposals will contain no request for an increase in the gasoline excise tax."

Thus, Nessen firmly rejected proposals that the current four-cent-per-gallon federal excise tax on gasoline be increased by 10 to 20 cents to reduce fuel consumption and increase federal revenue.

Nessen said Ford "has been and remains opposed to gasoline rationing."

Nessen said Ford's program "will require strong public participation" and said in response to questions that the package will contain some mandatory features.

He would not elaborate, but acknowledged that some of Ford's proposals would require action by Congress this year.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who attended the White House meeting between Ford and GOP congressional leaders, said the program could include some tax revisions.

The Pennsylvania Republican said everything that was outlined to GOP congressional leaders at the 90-minute meeting with Ford and top economic advisers was tentative.

"I suppose we heard as many as 50 proposals of which obviously only some will survive," Scott said.

The GOP leader said he was unsure if Ford would include specific proposals for cutting federal spending in the cur-

New Lieutenant Governor Makes Irvine Appearance

By DOUGLAS FRITZSCHE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Within hours of being appointed California's 40th Lieutenant Governor, John Harmer stepped back into the campaign harness to visit with Orange Coast supporters in Irvine.

About 150 people attended the reception at the home of Irvine Councilman and Harmer campaign director Henry Quigley for a chance to meet the lanky 40-year-old Mormon.

In an interview, Harmer discounted broadsides from opponent Sen. Mervyn Dymally (D-Los Angeles) that the appointment by Gov. Ronald Reagan was an attempt to "fix" the race for the state's number two post.

"I would hardly expect him to support it," Harmer said of Dymally, a fellow senator for the past eight years. "But its a straw man tactic for Dymally to assert that it was an unfair move."

If the situation were reversed and Dymally received the appointment, Harmer said he would have been "delighted, with one stipulation and that would be equal time in the media."

His appointment to fill the term of Ed Reinecke, deposed and given an 18-month suspended sentence for perjury in the investigation into ITT offers to finance the 1972 Republican convention, would focus attention on the race, he said.

The lieutenant governor's race has received relatively little attention, he said, "and the same polls Dymally is so fond of quoting also show that 60 percent of the people don't know who either of us are."

A California Poll in early September showed Dymally with 37 percent of the

3 Coastal Race Leaders Expected In NB Today

Three of the 19 yachts in the 385-mile California Coastal race from San Francisco to Newport Beach were expected to finish about noon today off the Newport Pier.

The leaders were Ragtime, Miramar and Sorcery in that order. They were reported off the Los Angeles Harbor breakwater at 8 a.m.

George Tooby's 35-foot one-tonner, America Jane, appeared to be the most likely handicap winner. She was reported off Point Vicente at the 8 a.m. rollcall.

Henry Grandin's 35-foot Tinsley Light was dismasted and was bbeing towed to the Channel Islands Marina by the Coast Guard.

The race started Tuesday at noon from St. Francis Yacht Club just inside the Golden Gate Bridge. Co-sponsors of the race are St. FYC and Newport Harbor Yacht Club.

Newport Beach Sign Law Sent Back for Revise

A proposed Newport Beach sign ordinance survived a blistering attack Thursday night but was sent back to the drawing boards by the city's Planning Commission.

Mounting the assault on the proposed ordinance was the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

In a letter from sign committee chairman Harold Joanning, the chamber charged the new regulations would "place unreasonable restrictions on businessmen" and force them to spend an "unreasonable" amount revamping existing signs.

"We know of no groundswell of opinion adverse to the current signing condition in Newport Beach nor of any demand for revision of the current ordinance," Joanning's letter said.

"In the absence of arguments that evidence the need for additional restrictions . . . we are opposed to the inclusion of the increased restrictions and limitations of the proposed new sign ordinance," the chamber letter concluded.

As city staff members asked for direction from the commission to make changes that would make the proposed ordinance palatable to the business community, it was Planning Commissioner Jackie Heather who threw down the gauntlet.

"It distresses me that you men just lie down and play dead," Mrs. Heather said to her fellow commissioners.

She charged that the chamber critics had been "primed and programmed" to oppose the new regulations.

The major bone of contention in the ensuing debate was a proposed provision calling for existing nonconforming signs to be torn down on a schedule ranging from six months to five years.

'Rape Victim' Invites 2 Men Home, Kills 1

From Wire Services

LONG BEACH — A young woman, who was raped by two men, asked them to a return date and then killed one with a shotgun as her family looked on, police said today.

Deborah Kantaeng, 19, was booked on suspicion of murder.

Police said she told them that she was abducted by two men as she left work in a Cerritos shopping center Wednesday and they drove her to a park in Santa Ana and raped her.

In return for releasing her without further harm, she said, she promised not to call police and to give them her telephone number so they could reach her again.

They called Thursday afternoon, and it was agreed they would come to her home, investigators said.

Police said when the two walked in, they found themselves confronted by Miss Kantaeng, who was holding a shotgun. The woman's father, two brothers and girlfriend were also present, police said.

He was identified as Danny Charles Allen, 21, of Santa Ana.

The other man fled. Police later arrested Carl Tice, 21, of Santa Ana. He was held for investigation of murder and rape.

When the men arrived at the home, police said, Allen knocked on the open door, walked through it and was hit by a single shotgun blast fired by Miss Kantaeng.

Her father was in the room at the time but told police he did not see the shooting.

Tice, who was not hit, fled but returned later to find out how Allen was and was arrested, police said.

Tice was booked under a California law that says a person participating in a criminal act in which murder occurs may be charged with that murder.

Old Aviator Ken Nichols Dies at 71

Kenny Nichols, a post-World War I barnstorming flyer and longtime Harbor Area businessman, is dead.

Nichols, who walked the wings of J-4D Jenny biplanes in stunt shows across the country, died in a hospital bed and was buried Tuesday at Pacific View Memorial Park, Corona del Mar.

He was 71. He had lived with his wife, Alice, in Laguna Hills Leisure World for the past nine years. They resided at 132 Avenida Majorca.

The Nichols' came to Orange County in 1944 and opened the Cottage Waffle Shop on Balboa Island, later selling out to new owners who changed it to the first Bob's Big Boy restaurant in the county.

He and his late son, Gene, also operated K & G Numismatists, a Costa Mesa coin shop. At the time of his death, Mr. Nichols was still listed in the phone book as a coin dealer.

His greatest recognition, however, came as founder and participant in the Black Cats aerial stunt team which flew between 1924 and 1929, appearing at shows around the country. Their wing-walking antics and acrobatics appeared in many Hollywood films.

Besides his wife, with whom he celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in February, Mr. Nichols leaves a son, Leon of Washington; his mother, Mrs. Cora Nichols of Laguna Hills; a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Cook, also of Laguna Hills; two grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Wet Wedding

Not a Dry Eye in the Place

THE ALPS, Wash.,(AP) — A funny thing happened on the way to the wedding.

En route to the altar in a canoe, the bride and groom took a dunking.

As the craft nosed into a landing, groom Gene Tubbs waved to a friend, and the canoe tipped. Tubbs, bride Kay Gorman, the paddler and a dog called Smokey were dumped into the river.

The nervous bridegroom, who doesn't swim and has always been afraid of water, groped for the canoe as the wedding's arranger, Archie Marlin, dove into the river to rescue him.

its rate. United California Bank also followed.

In lowering the prime rate, the banks join several banks that reduced the interest rate by ¼ percent two weeks ago in the first easing of business loan credit since early in July when rates soared to an historic high of 12 percent.

The decline in the prime, the interest banks charge for loans to best corporate customers, followed an easing of the tight-money policy imposed by the Federal Reserve Bank which began pouring money into the banking system.

The Bank of America acknowledged this in its statement lowering the rate. It said it "is lowering its rate in support of recent modest adjustments in Federal Reserve policies which have led to some declines in money market rates and in the marginal cost of funds and not as a result of reducing loan growth."

The bank said its loan growth has "slowed only moderately."

The high prime rates were a result of efforts to check inflation by reducing business credit and by the high demand for loans.

OIL . . .

"On the same time schedule, the undersecretary wants a plan for a lease sale on the Atlantic in 1975 that would include some leases in all the promising areas of the Atlantic, rather than just the sale limited to Baltimore Canyon."

The newspaper said the memo was signed by Jared G. Carter, a deputy undersecretary, who sent it to the directors of the department's Bureau of Land Management and Geological Survey.

The Bureau of Land Management manages the leasing of offshore oil tracts, while the Geological Survey estimates how much oil there is in a given area.

The Interior Department said today that it would like to open up the Atlantic to offshore oil drilling with a lease sale in 1975.

"I don't think it ever has been any secret that we'd like to lease those tracts," said a spokesman. "But it will depend on whether environmental studies say that it is safe.

The memo also said the department wants to begin moving toward a sale of Pacific tracts off Alaska next year. There already has been extensive offshore drilling in the Pacific off the coast of California.

However, the Atlantic has not yet been opened for exploration. Most offshore drilling in the United States is concentrated in the Gulf of Mexico off the coasts of Louisiana and Texas.

Mesan Wounded In Shooting Leaves Hospital

A Costa Mesan, gravely wounded nine days earlier when gunned down by two bandits who confronted him on a Santa Ana street, was released from Orange County Medical Center Thursday.

Kenneth M. Pride, 26, who gave a Victoria Street address, underwent surgery to remove a bullet from his stomach following the Sept. 24 attack.

He was also hit by a shotgun blast in the back when the two bandits attempted to kill him for refusing to hand over his money and pulling a knife on them in self-defense. Pride told police the gunmen caught him in a crossfire, the shotgun-wielder dropping to one knee to take aim.

A 19-year-old youth living in the Windsor Park area where attempted robbbery and attempted murder occurred was arrested, but released when Pride could not identify him.

Nixon Fund Cut OK'd

Senate Panel Votes Unanimously on Bill

From Wire Services

WASHINGTON — The Senate Appropriations Committee today agreed with a House-passed measure that cut from $850,000 to $200,000 the money to be provided former President Nixon's transition to private life.

The committee voted unanimously to trim its proposed $328,000 figure to conform to the House version.

But the Senate committee measure went one step further than the House by placing a $220,000 ceiling on salaries for government personnel who can assist Nixon through Feb. 9, 1975.

The ceiling was calculated on the salaries of the 74 employes assigned by the government to help Nixon. But it excluded payment for Nixon's valet and maid, Mr. and Mrs. Manola Sanchez, whom he took to San Clemente with him when he resigned the presidency Aug. 9.

Sen. Edward Brooke (R-Mass.), said he warned the committee during the closed session to be careful that it complied with the law governing expenses for former presidents.

Two separate laws provide for funding of a president's transition to private life. President Ford requested $850,000 to fund the provisions spelled out in those laws, but it was quickly reduced.

"The general idea was to give the President everything he's entitled to by law and not a nickel more," Brooke said.

Sources said Nixon, who has been hospitalized in California, has complained of the government's "begrudging" attitude about the money.

Meanwhile, the Senate today passed and sent to the House a bill that would give the government custody of Nixon's official tapes and papers.

Before passing the bill, 56 to 7, the Senate rejected three attempts by the Republican leadership to delay or modify the measure, which is designed to nullify an agreement giving Nixon custody of the documents. They are to be stored at Laguna Niguel.

A 51-15 vote defeated a motion by Sen. Roman L. Hruska (R-Neb.), to send the bill to the Judiciary Committee for hearings.

On a 52-14 roll call, the Senate defeated a substitute bill by Hruska that would have declared the papers of all recent and future presidents and of vice presidents and members of Congress to be public property.

Then, Hruska's amendment simply preventing destruction of Nixon's papers and tapes failed, 49 to 15.

In another development, Rep. John Moss (D-Calif.), charged that Nixon is a "security risk" and should no longer be given classified briefings by the government.

In a letter to Ford, Moss, chairman of a subcommittee dealing with government information policies, said Nixon was guilty of illegal acts and therefore is eligible for the secret briefings which he has been receiving since he resigned.

"It is my opinion that, due to the circumstances which led to the resignation of your predecessor, and his subsequent acceptance of a pardon, that Mr. Nixon is guilty of illegal acts," Moss wrote.

Nixon Leaves Hospital After 12-day Treatment

Nixon, accompanied by his wife, Pat, and daughter Tricia, shook hands with nurses and a doctor as he lifted himself from the wheelchair to seat himself in a black limousine that was to take him to his seaside villa in San Clemente 50 miles away.

Nixon, wearing a dark blue suit, took no notice of a group of reporters, photographers and hospital personnel standing near the rear entrance by which Nixon left.

Staff members who treated Nixon on the sixth floor of Memorial Hospital Medical Center of Long Beach followed him out of the hospital.

Mrs. Nixon and Tricia said goodbye to them, and Nixon himself shook hands with Grace Hollenbeck, head nurse of the floor, and her assistant, Tina Shaw.

As the limousine pulled away, it was escorted by a Long Beach police car, two motorcycle policemen and two cars of Secret Service guards.

Dr. John C. Lungren told newsmen Thursday that he would issue a final report today, after his patient's departure, and outline his diagnosis of the illness, future treatment and the course of his recovery.

Results of tests for cancer have been negative, the physician said Thursday in his daily written bulletin.

Phlebitis, a painful vein inflammation affecting Nixon's left leg, can be a sympton of cancer in the stomach, lungs or pancreas but it can also be caused by inactivity.

Nixon, 61, underwent further tests Thursday, and came out on top in a confrontation with a photographer who waited outside a laboratory entrance to take his picture.

Wiggins Claims Delay on Rocky Political Move

From Wire Services

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Confirmation of Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president is being stalled for political reasons, Rep. Charles E. Wiggins (R-Fullerton) told a student group at the University of Missouri Thursday night.

The Orange County legislator claimed that Rep. Peter J. Rodino (D-N.J.), has taken it upon himself to delay the confirmation hearings until after next month's election.

"In my opinion, that was done for a political reason, namely to discourage Nelson Rockefeller from getting out on the stump and campaigning for Republican candidates," said Wiggins, a member of the Judiciary Committee.

He called the delay "an example of politics in living color. It is at odds with the public interest."

Wiggins charged that Rodino is "shooting craps on the health and endurance of Gerald R. Ford. What if something should happen? We'd have genuine political upheaval. Why take the risk?"

Wiggins said Ford's decision to grant a pardon to former President Richard Nixon was right "but the timing was rotten. Ten days after the election might have been a good time," he said.

Proposal Too Late

If this were 1905, some merit might be found in the Federal Insurance Administration's decision to indirectly impose unlikely building requirements on the Newport Beach waterfront.

But it isn't 1905. For better or worse, the waterfront is already developed. And the jack hasn't been built that can raise the ground 10 feet to accommodate a tidal wave supposedly likely to occur once every 100 years.

As Newport Beach City Manager Robert Wynn points out, loan restrictions imposed by the policy can only discourage property owners from making needed overhauls. And blight is sure to follow.

Other problems are bound to develop: What, for example, is the impact on the city's building height code? Will resale buyers find their borrowing power curtailed? And will sellers be able to find financially able buyers if normal loan sources are dried up?

By any measure, it's far too late to assign the elevation commandment to the Newport Beach waterfront. That could someday prove to be an unfortunate fact. But it is a fact.

Recognition Earned

Newport Harbor American Legion Post 291 last week added luster to its annual law and order dinner celebration.

In addition to honoring the year's two outstanding men in the Newport Beach police and fire departments, the legionnaires paid tribute to an Orange County Harbor Patrol officer.

It was the first time in the eight-year history of the awards dinner that a representative of the Harbor Patrol was honored.

Between Sunset Beach, Newport Harbor and Dana Point, the Harbor Patrol is responsible for the safety and wellbeing of thousands of pleasure craft and the persons aboard them, some of them experienced sailors and others not so experienced.

The Harbor Patrol's record in the three harbors is good and recognition of its service by the legionnaires was well deserved.

Dual Benefit

The dedicated efforts of a group of senior citizens who spend four hours a day helping patient-clients at Fairview State Hospital have not gone unnoticed.

Two of the 65 foster grandparents who work with mentally retarded children at the hospital — along with their foster grandchildren — were luncheon guests recently of Gov. and Mrs. Ronald Reagan.

Grandparents help youngsters learn to do things most of us take for granted — eating, dressing, cleaning up.

It's a program that helps the mentally retarded build self sufficiency. And it gives senior citizens often left by the wayside - a productive role.

CIA Expert Trained Chileans

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — International Telephone and Telegraph dispatched one of America's top bugging experts into the homes and government palace of Chilean president Salvador Allende in 1971.

The alleged purpose of this mysterious mission was to "debug" Allende's rooms and to train Chilean police and army men in electronic de-bugging techniques. Interestingly, it was the military which later overthrew Allende.

The visit of master-bugger John Ragan came as ITT, the CIA and the U.S. Embassy in Santiago were busily seeking information to help them get the socialist Allende out of office. Allende was nationalizing American companies in Chile, including ITT.

RAGAN, an ex-FBI electronic specialist, is best known as the man called in by the White House "plumbers" to bug the home of columnist Joseph Kraft. But in the "business," Ragan is respected as an awesome pro: a specialist called in to de-bug the quarters of such notables as Richard Nixon, former Attorney General John Mitchell, Charles "Bebe" Rebozo and others.

On his trip to turbulent Chile, Ragan took along a load of "offensive" bugging equipment. Secret Watergate documents show he was accompanied down by ITT's assistant security director, Russell Tagliareni.

THE DOCUMENTS reveal that Ragan stayed in Chile from April 28, 1971, to May 5, 1971, and was paid $200 a day by ITT. While there, Ragan, at the invitation of the army and police, entered Allende's homes at Valparaiso and Santiago, and his presidential palace.

According to Ragan, he and Allende once sat down and had coffee. There the Chilean leader learned that Ragan worked for ITT. Ragan describes the conversation as "cordial."

No one seems to know why ITT, a relentless enemy of Allende's, was allowed in his dwellings, much less why the Chilean president let an ITT agent conduct "electronic sweeps" of his rooms at a time when planting of bugs was widely feared in Chile. Allende cannot explain: He died from gunshot wounds in the coup.

But as we reported on March 21, 1972, ITT had made approaches "to select members of the Armed Forces in an attempt to have them lead some sort of uprising" in late 1970, only a few months before ITT and the Chilean army helped arrange Ragan's visit.

THE ITT electronics mission is even more puzzling in view of a secret ITT memo dated Sept. 29, 1970, from ITT Vice President E. J. Gerrity to ITT President Harold Geneen. In the memo, Gerrity advises "We should withdraw all technical help (to Chile) and should not promise any technical assistance in the future."

Yet, within months, ITT's deputy security chief and its $200-a-day electronics consultant were dispatched to give "technical assistance" to the army, police and to at least one Chilean telephone company official.

Through a trusted intermediary, we have been given a summary of Ragan's notes on the visit. They do not shed much light on the subject, but simply tell of meetings with the Chilean police and army officials. Some of them appear to be in code.

AFTER the Chilean excursion, Ragan continued to have high-paying dealings with ITT. His private logs show such curious listings as "6/2/71 ITT test hi-power tmitter. . . 6/7/71—ITTw/tmitter. . .6/10/71 Call Jack Caulfield. . ." "Tmitter," in this case, is a tiny bugging transmitter. And Caulfield was the White House dirty trickster of the Watergate era.

Ragan also ran an ITT de-bugging seminar and has done de-bugging work for Geneen and lesser ITT officials such as Dita Beard, John Ryan and William Marriam.

Footnote: Ragan spoke with my associate Les Whitten at length. The "tmitter" was used only at the seminar, he said, not for bugging. The Chilean mission, he insisted, was "open and above board" and no bugs were planted while in Chile, nor were any found. The bugs he took with him, he said, were left in Chile only for training purposes.

The Issue Is Far From Closed

Nixon Will Be Heard From Again

RICHARD WILSON

WASHINGTON — It should be borne in mind that Herbert Hoover lived articulately into his 90s, some 30 years beyond his moment of greatest political distress. Harry Truman rose from the lowest state of political disregard to high esteem upon his death.

This is not to say that Richard M. Nixon will someday be elevated to the pantheon of revered past presidents, but it is to say that those who think the Nixon issue will go away are fooling themselves. It will be with us for many years.

There are even now enough people who think that Nixon's offenses, while regrettable, were justifiable under the circumstances and in the whole context of his presidency. Among them are those who thought he should have resigned and those who thought he should not have.

THESE PEOPLE, while now in a minority, number into the millions and thus are not an inconsiderable part of the aware public. They cannot, furthermore, be shouted down by the roaring disapproval of the ex-President's pardon, nor the continuing cry for the last drop of his blood and the death-wish reports of his illness.

A decent assumption based upon Nixon's past record can be made that Nixon will survive this period of great physical and mental stress, with the usual caveat that death can come to any man at any time. If he so survives, at least a decade is left to him of alert physical and mental response, and maybe much more.

The practical meaning of the pardon, therefore, is that Richard M. Nixon, admitting no guilt, is free to use his unquestioned talents not only to rehabilitate himself as best he can but to encourage the nascent belief that he was hounded out of office by cruel and implacable enemies with no regard for the long-range interests of the nation.

SOME SUCH intuition may lie beneath the ferocity of the continuing attack on Nixon and on President Ford for having pardoned Nixon. The tone of this attack clearly seeks to establish the historical base that Nixon's offenses were so enormous that they threatened the continuance of free government, for which he should have been made to pay by public trial, conviction and sentence to prison, even if he never served a day.

More mature consideration may focus on the hysterical exaggeration of such conclusions, taking into consideration that the chief impeachable offense, Article I of the Bill of Impeachment, grew from a ludicrous act about which Nixon knew nothing in advance, the placing of a listening device on the telephone of the Democratic National Chairman during a political campaign.

Assuming Nixon's survival, those who think he will crawl back into a luxurious hole somewhere to live on his pension and brood himself into his grave must be ignoring his record. They would do better to recognize the tone of his public apology, with its intimation of penance to be followed by resurgence.

NIXON will write. In time he will probably talk. In time those who transgressed with him, and still think they did no wrong, will have paid the legal price, and they will talk and write.

Without the complete and utter destruction of these men the innate sense of a good many millions that justice was not done could not be wholly stifled. There will long be those wondering why equal justice under law should send John Ehrlichman to prison while Daniel Ellsberg goes free, or hold Nixon liable for shielding a political scandal not of his own making.

All such moral and ethical problems would have been wrapped into a horrific bundle and cast into the vaults of history by the criminal conviction of Nixon. The end would have been written in a different way than President Ford tried to write it. A judgment so conclusive would have been rendered against the Nixon era that history could never challenge it.

BUT it is not to be that way. President Ford could not write the end to Watergate. The House Judiciary Committee could not do so, however persuasive President Ford might have found its unanimous action. And the courts will not be permitted to do so.

This is not because the events and actions did not take place. It is because the gravity and import of those actions and the circumstances under which they took place are seen in different ways by different people. At the moment, the most furious of the critics are acting as if their case may be slipping out of their hands and so have renewed their fury lest the future should forget.

To the Editor:

I've been reading with interest and dismay about the Mexican-Americans complaining about the new TV series, "Chico and the Man." They say it is demeaning, belittling, etc. The episodes I've seen so far has Chico far in the lead over the bumbling white garage owner. I don't recall blacks screaming about "Sanford and Son" or "Good Times." I just don't get it.

STANFORD University had to change their "Indians" to "Cardinals" some time back. Why didn't the Indians push to change the Cleveland Indians to something else? Aha! I've got the answer. The San Francisco and New York Giants should get large complaints from the midgets of our country.

Let's rename all the ball clubs: The Los Angeles Ewes, the New England Revolutionaries, The Atlanta Doves, the Miami Minnows, the Detroit Mice. The Cincinnati Reds (who years ago tried Redlegs, but to no avail) should be re-named the Right-Wingers. How about the New Orleans Sinners? The New York Props? The Denver or Baltimore Shetland Ponies? Buffalo Williams? Philadelphia Sparrows? The list could go on and on.

We are living in a time of absurdity and nit-picking.

Noise Battle

To the Editor:

Your Sunday, Sept. 30 feature on noise pollution relates to a battle waged for a year now by families here in Fountain Valley against noise pollution in Mile Square Regional Park.

WHEN MODEL airplane clubs were ousted by construction from isolated fields along Harbor Boulevard in Costa Mesa, they laid claim to an area in the heart of Mile Square Park. The noise they produce there is not only an affront to the noise control standards of Mile Square's host city, Fountain Valley, the noise also degrades the recreational environment of the park. Picnicking families, golfers and neighboring residents complain about the buzz-saw noise which rasps day-long from 9 am to 7 pm. In terms of total park usage, the modelers are a very small percentage of the public who want to enjoy the park, yet the modelers persist in annoying people who come to the park to escape the motorized noise of our mechanized world.

THIS SITUATION shows the inadequacy of linking noise pollution standards only to decibel levels. The noise of model planes, motorcycles, saws and other noise sources do not necessarily produce high decibel levels — but their noise is psychologically very annoying because of its frequency and pitch.

Give the motorcyclists, modelers and others who need noise to have fun their own isolated area where they can't bother the majority of people who just want to relax in some peace and quiet.

Rape Interest

To the Editor:

I am writing to protest the lack of coverage given the conference on rape sponsored by the Golden West College—American Association of University Women in your newspaper.

Over 300 women attended the daylong event highlighted by state Sen. Alan Robbins' remarks in the late afternoon.

The women of Orange County are interested in events of this nature, not just weddings, luncheons and fashion shows!

Funeral Alternatives

To the Editor:

Many years ago, so the story goes, a new steak house opened its doors in Kansas City, an area long noted for its fine steaks. Before long they were outselling all their competitors. When asked to explain the secret behind this fantastic success, the owner replied, "I buy the same beef everyone else does. The only difference is that when I serve a steak the customer gets it on a sizzling hot platter. Hell, man, I'm not selling steaks — I'm selling the sizzle."

THAT STORY popped into my mind when I read Tom Barley's article titled "The Viking Way" in the Sunday, September 29, edition of the Pilot. The quoted comments of a representative of the Neptune Society implied that their founder, Dr. Charles W. Denning, Jr., was unique in feeling it "was high time someone offered an alternative to the costly, involved mortuary-funeral-cemetery system that today is costing families at least $2,000."

The fact is that Neptune is too closely patterned after Telophase to be coincidental. Dr. Thomas B. Weber, entrepreneur in the field of bypassing the mortuary by providing direct cremation, founded Telophase in 1971. And, he readily declares, his brain child was conceived when he was a member of the non-profit San Diego Memorial Society. Founded in 1958, this is one of a number of such non-profit organizations located throughout the state, of which the Tri-County Memorial Funeral Society in Orange County is one. Together they comprise the California Federation of Memorial and Funeral Societies, which functions largely in the capacity of legislative watchdog in Sacramento.

THESE societies, by seeking out and contracting with selected funeral directors, those with a social awareness and a willingness to meet community needs, provide their members with a full range of mortuary service from which to choose. No "sizzle" in the form of a 100' ocean going vessel is offered, but immediate cremation with scattering at sea costs $215, and a traditional funeral can be had for $395.

We felt your readers should know that we have been serving the community since 1961, by providing this alternative to expensive funerals.

ALLACE KUNZ, Secretary
Tri-County Memorial Funeral Society

Essays on T. S. Eliot

THE BOOKMAN

T. S. Eliot, the seventh volume in the Contemporary Studies in Literature Series by McGraw-Hill Paperbacks ($1.95), presents nine critical essays on one of the key poets of the twentieth century, along with an extensive bibliography.

Edited by Linda W. Wagner, it contains essays by such figures as Arthur Mizener, whose introduction to the poet, "To Meet Mr. Eliot" is one of the best ever written. Subsequent chapters include an article by Leonard Unger — a critic whose work on Eliot has always been admired for its sanity; Ezra Pound's note on the 1917 Prufrock & Other Poems; Bernard Bergonzi and Helen Gardner's essays on Eliot's early poems; M. L. Rosenthal's contribution, placing The Wasted Land in a new perspective — as an "open," suggestive poem; Daniel R. Schwarz's question on the accepted reading of "Gerantion"; William T. Moynihan's direction for much of Four Quartets.

Professor of English at Michigan State University, Linda Wagner has published two books on William Carlos Williams, and studies of Ernest Hemingway, William Faulkner, Denise Levertov, and Phyllis McGinley. She is currently completing a study of contemporary poetics.

Graham's Wife in Hospital

From Wire Services

The wife of evangelist Billy Graham has been hospitalized in Milwaukee for nearly a week with injuries suffered in a fall, doctors confirmed.

In a statement issued by Lutheran Hospital, Dr. Basil Jackson said Ruth Graham, 54, suffered a broken left heel bone in a fall last week. Although he did not give details of the accident, it was known that at the time Mrs. Graham was visiting her daughter, Virginia Tchividjian.

The wife of a Colorado bank president who foiled an apparent extortion attempt by grabbing a gun away from her elderly woman assailant says she was too scared to do anything else.

Mrs. Julie Luoma of Leadville said she became suspicious when the "saleslady", at her front door told her to call her husband and began reaching into an attache case.

"My husband is a bank president and you always read about this sort of thing," said Mrs. Luoma, 34.

PEOPLE

The dancing white stallions paused momentarily when chief horseman Col. Hans Handler fell dead from the saddle. But then the show went on.

"It was the finest death he could dream of," said his deputy, Lt. Col. Kurt Albrecht. "He dedicated his whole life to the horses."

A judge has denied efforts to block child support payments to Leslie Bacon, 23, an antiwar activist questioned about the bombings of a New York bank and the U.S. Capitol.

Superior Court Judge Spurgeon Avakian of Oakland ordered Alameda County to pay Ms. Bacon, daughter of a wealthy Atherton businessman, retroactive child support payments for her daughter.

The county sued the state to block the payments on grounds Ms. Bacon was living with a man when Ariel Sage Albion Bacon was conceived in November 1972 in New York.

CHARGES DROPPED
Attorney Bugliosi

Bugliosi's Out; Shinn Trial Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A defense attorney in the 1970 Charles Manson case is scheduled to stand trial for perjury though similar charges against Manson prosecutor since Bugliosi have been dismissed.

On Thursday, special prosecutor Theodore Shield said he had decided to proceed with a Nov. 18 trial for Daye Shinn, the Manson defense attorney.

Shinn was indicted with Bugliosi on charges they lied by denying they gave newsman Bill Farr information for a story during the Manson trial while a judge's gag order was in effect.

Shield dropped the charges against Bugliosi Thursday, saying Farr's refusal to testify had "dealt a fatal blow" to his case.

But he moved to proceed against Shinn, again raising the possibility that Farr will be asked on the witness stand to name the sources for his news account.

The Los Angeles Times reporter spent 46 days in jail and faces five more for contempt because he refused Superior Judge Charles Older's request to supply the names.

11 Arrested In Airport Pot Raids

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sheriff's deputies arrested 11 men and seized more than a ton of marijuana worth about $1 million in a series of raids at Mojave Desert air strips and in suburban El Monte, authorities said.

Officials said Thursday the raids culminated a two-month undercover investigation.

Booked for investigation of state and federal narcotics laws violations were:

Jon C. Phillips, 29, Manhattan Beach; William A. Serantoni, 25, North Hollywood; John A. Reuck, 28, Lakewood; Gerald D. Hong, 45, Arcadia; Robert L. Pruitt, 57, Alhambra; Karl D. Peterson, 25, Davis, and Darla L. Jenkins, 28, Philip M. Bourchier 27, and Dwayne D. Walker, 23, all of Modesto.

Also, Neil L. Temple, Orangeville, Utah, and Glenn A. Lemaster, 28, Gresham, Ore.

Authorities said the raids were carried out Wednesday.

Four persons were arrested at Fox Field near Lancaster, five others at an airstrip on a dry lake bed in San Bernardino County and two more after they landed at El Monte Airport, trailed by deputies in another plane.

Smog Bad For Folks. –LA Study

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Smog is bad for people, a $230,000 study financed by the California Air Resources Board says.

A state official said the 177-page report released Thursday on laboratory produced and regulated smog is one of the first to pin down the health effects of smog in scientific terms.

Among the major conclusions, the report said air pollution equal to second and third smog alert levels produces "significant decrement in pulmonary function, symptons sufficient to restrict normal activity, and oxidative changes in erythrocytes."

● Oil Leakage

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — The Coast Guard says it will keep watching conditions along a 12-mile stretch of picturesque beach which was blackened by oil globules, and meet with local officials to formulate cleanup plans.

Coast Guard spokesman Del Horton announced the action Thursday, a day after the oil balls, apparently from natural seepage in the Santa Barbara Channel, washed ashore and sparked fears of a huge spill like the one that blackened the channel and beaches in 1969.

IN SHORT...

● Seafood Strike

SAN PEDRO (AP) — Striking workers have voted to end a 17-day walkout at Van Camp seafood cannery, after winning a contract agreement that guarantees they can transfer in their jobs when the facility moves to San Diego.

The union said Thursday that the 1,700 striking cannery workers approved a new three-year contract virtually unanimously. Officials said it expected workers could be back on the job sometime today.

● Scuba Deaths

OXNARD (UPI) — The Coast Guard will test equipment used by two scuba divers who drowned in separate incidents near Anacapa Island in the Santa Barbara channel Wednesday, authorities report.

Mark Inouye, 23, Gardena, was found at a 35-foot depth by fellow divers. He was a commercial diver for a firm in Oxnard and reportedly was diving for sea urchins when he drowned.

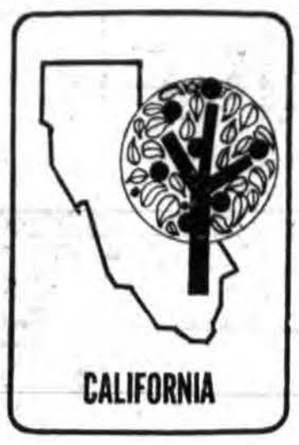
Car Rigged For Rape, Kidnaping

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A man who police say had electric door locks on his expensive automobile pleaded guilty Thursday to two counts of rape and one of kidnaping.

The man, William H. Wires, of suburban Carmichael, is owner of X-ray businesses in Sacramento and Portland, Ore.

Fifteen other counts were dismissed and Wires was ordered examined by psychiatrists.

Police said Wires usually picked up women hitchhiking or waiting for a bus. They said the doorknobs on the inside of Wires' car were removed and, with the electric locks, the victims couldn't get out.



Girl Found Near Death

CALEXICO (AP) — A 15-year-old girl reported "an hour from death" in the desert when she was rescued is reported recovering from exposure and exhaustion.

Mother 'Disgraced'

Publisher Sued For 'Cover Girl'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A $2.8 million suit was filed against a San Francisco book publisher on behalf of a 12-year-old girl who thought she was going to be in the movies, but instead wound up on the cover of a book about marijuana with a cigarette butt in her mouth.

Lillian Haddad was only seven when a photographer approached her in Golden Gate Park and asked her if she wanted to be in films, said her mother, Emily Fagell.

"SHE WAS thrilled, of course, and so she said 'Yes,' and th man started taking pictures," said Marvin E. Lewis, Mrs. Fagell's attorney.

Near the picture, said the suit, was a caption that read:

"The danger in illegalizing marijuana is that you make criminals out of the most intelligent, sensitive people in the country" — Allen Ginsberg.

LEWIS' SUIT, filed in Superior Court Thursday, contends Straight Arow — a branch of Rolling Stone magazine — has "disgraced" both Lillian and her mother, causing Mrs. Fagell to suffer "hatred, ridicule and obloquy, causing her to be shunned and voided."

LA Streak Disruptive

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Robert Opel, 33, who streaked the Academy Awards this year, was found innocent Thursday of indecent exposure for doing the same thing to a city council meeting.

But a municipal court jury found Opel guilty on charges of disrupting a public meeting. Opel appeared in the buff during a heated council debate over allowing nudity on public beaches.

Police Chief Jailing 'Loose' Illegal Aliens

KERMAN (UPI) — Saying he was afraid "they will kill themselves or local citizens if allowed to run wild loose," Kerman police chief Olen McDaniel has defended his policy of jailing illegal aliens and making them post a $65 bond.

McDaniel said Thursday his department's policy was to arrest illegal aliens who cannot properly identify themselves, put them in jail and then set them free if they post the $65 bond.

He said that in the past his department called border patrol agents and turned the illegal aliens over to them for deportation, but he said that policy was changed when area farmers complaining that the practice was depleting their work force.

Playgirl Subject Suing

APPLE VALLEY (AP) — Playgirl Magazine nude centerfold Lou Zivkovich says "I don't have any regrets over" posing in the nude — even though he's been fired and his wife is angry with him.

He plans to sue Playgirl, whose June unfolding described him as a "superbly trim 33" and then let the reader make up her mind by showing him in full frontal view.

With not a fig leaf in sight.

"I don't have any regrets over posing but I wish the article had been done in better taste," he sighed, adding that he was soon off to a meeting with his lawyers.

"I've got three lawyers for two different cases," he declared. One suit is aimed at Playgirl, which couldn't be reached for comment. The other is aimed at his ex-employers.

So far, he says, he doesn't need a third attorney for his wife. But he adds, she "is not too pleased with the whole thing."

Council Hypnotized by 'Gypsy Lawyer'

By FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Mystifying practices such as phrenology, necromency, cartomancy, etherealization and augury left the Costa Mesa City Councill spellbound this week.

The arts are among many fortunetelling techniques outlawed in a 14-year-old city law that was the subject of an eloquent and often amusing dissertation by an Irvine attorney who represents gypsies.

"The boy who delivers a newspaper containing the daily horoscope technically is in violation of the statute," lawyer Boris J. Baranowski told councilmen.

He further suggested that persons who spend a couple of cents for bubble gum which has a fortune printed on the wrapper also are violating the statute.

The ordinance, Title 11-11 of the city code, states no persons shall "carry on, practice or profess to practice" the fortunetelling arts for a fee.

It prohibits phrenology, the practice of predicting a person's future by laying hands on his head; necromancy, communication with dead persons; cartomancy, fortunetelling through the use of playing cards; etherealization, a spiritualization technique, and augury, a soothsaying art.

The law also makes it a crime to practice the better known arts of handwriting analysis, palmistry, magic and clairvoyance for money.

"If Jesus Christ came for the first or second time — depending on your belief — he would be in violation of the ordinance," the attorney continued.

The basis of his complaint, Baranowski said, is that he has a client, Charles Stevens of Los Angeles, who wishes to move to Costa Mesa and practice fortunetelling.

Baranowski has appeared on the same subject before the city councils in Anaheim, Santa Ana and Newport Beach.

Gypsies, the lawyer said, are dedicated to their families and their communities. "They do not, however, have a dedication to a national government. I can't argue with that. The family is where it's at," Baranowski said.

The lawyer told that council that permitting a gypsy to live in the city, but refusing to let him practice fortunetelling is like letting an Italian Catholic move into the city but not let him go to church.

"You have been represented as being a conservative body," Baranowski said. "You respect the right of the individual and not excessive government."

"I have sat up here as a planning commissioner and councilman for a number of years; I am not only enthralled by your presentation, but it is one of the most eloquent I've heard," said

'Bite the Bullet'

Ford Against Increase in Gas Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has ruled out any gasoline tax increase and is firmly opposed to gas rationing but will ask Americans to "bite the bullet" in an anti-inflation program with mandatory features, his spokesman said today.

White House press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will disclose "proposals to help alleviate problems with credit and interest rates" in an address to a joint session of Congress at 1 p.m. (PDT) Tuesday.

Nessen would neither confirm nor deny widespread speculation that Ford would seek some form of tax increase as part of his inflation-fighting package.

But he quoted Ford as telling Republican congressional leaders today that there are "hard choices we and the American people have to make as we bite the bullet on curbing inflation."

Nessen also quoted Treasury Secretary William Simon as telling the GOP congressional leaders that the Ford program "in its most general terms will require and encourage Americans to save more, reduce waste and produce more."

Nessen gave few details of Ford's proposals, saying only tentative decisions have been made and that additional review is required.

But, responding to newsmen's questions at a White House briefing, Nessen said, "The proposals will contain no request for an increase in the gasoline excise tax."

Thus, Nessen firmly rejected proposals that the current four-cent-per-gallon federal excise tax on gasoline be increased by 10 to 20 cents to reduce fuel consumption and increase federal revenue.

Nessen said Ford "has been and remains opposed to gasoline rationing."

Nessen said Ford's program "will require strong public participation" and said in response to questions that the package will contain some mandatory features.

He would not elaborate, but acknowledged that some of Ford's proposals would require action by Congress this year.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who attended the White House meeting between Ford and GOP congressional leaders, said the program could include some tax revisions.

The Pennsylvania Republican said everything that was outlined to GOP congressional leaders at the 90-minute meeting with Ford and top economic advisers was tentative.

Nation's Two Top Banks Lower Prime Lend Rates

By United Press International

Bank of America of San Francisco and First National City Bank of New York, the nation's two largest banks, today lowered their prime lending rate from 12 percent to 11¾ effective Monday, joining some major banks across the nation in reducing interest for business loans.

But at the same time, Citibank, the nation's third largest bank, said it was raising slightly its internal formula for computing its floating prime interest rates.

Citibank said "hereafter its base rate will be computed at a spread of ¾ of 1 percent over the 90-day commercial paper rate instead of ⅝ of 1 percent as heretofore.

"This change is consistent with money market conditions and its own policy of credit restraint," the bank said.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip stocks, which Thursday dropped below the 600 mark for the first time in 12 years, closing at 587.61, was off another 10 in early trading today. Later it rallied.

Mercantile Trust of St. Louis, a major Midwest bank, also said it was lowering its rate. United California Bank also followed.

In lowering the prime rate, the banks join several banks that reduced the interest rate by ¼ percent two weeks ago in the first easing of business loan credit since early in July when rates soared to an historic high of 12 percent.

MARKET ERASES ITS EARLY LOSSES

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, erasing most of a wide early loss with a gradual technical comeback in the afternoon.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.05 points at 584.56, and losers and gainers were closely in balance in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow was down more than 10 points at its low point of the day amid what brokers described as continued concern over the implications of inflation and the oil squeeze.

Police Purchase 2 New Choppers With Less Chop

The Costa Mesa Police Department plans to buy two new helicopters next month to replace police whirlybirds city officials say are wearing out.

The new choppers, according to city aides, will make more horsepower, but less noise than present police helicopters.

The city council this week appropriated $74,000 for lease-purchase of the new Hughes 300-C helicopters. City police currently fly Hughes 300-B models.

City Manager Fred Sorsabal said the two existing helicopters are wearing out.

He predicted it would take another 30 days for the financial details of the lease-purchase to be worked out with a local bank.

As soon as the new copters are delivered and pilots checked out, the old ones will be sold by the city.

Sorsabal said one source of potential customers is New Zealand. Ranchers there use helicopters to round up grazing stock, he explained.

"Only problem is, they seem to crash one about once a week. They could use ours for parts," Sorsabal said.

Coastal Panelist Says Sea Drilling 'Assured'

A week's trip to the nation's capital has convinced the chairman of the regional coastal commission that offshore oil drilling along the Orange County coast is a "foregone conclusion."

Dr. Donald Bright, head of the 12-member state panel preparing a plan to guide the future of the coast, made the remark following a Town Hall of California luncheon Thursday in Anaheim.

Responding to a question, Bright said, "I think it's a foregone conclusion we're going to have offshore oil drilling."

Bright said he recently spent a week in Washington D. C. meeting with officials in various sections of the Department of the Interior, the agency that has proposed 1.6 million acres of offshore waters between Santa Barbara and Dana Point be opened for drilling.

The department has defended the proposal as one means of helping increase oil production to meet the country's

Thief Ransacks Music Locker

A thief who could go on the road as a one-man band has looted a music locker at Costa Mesa's Southern California College of $620 worth of instruments.

Jack Thallander, a spokesman for the college, told police the grand theft occurred between mid-July and Wednesday, when it was discovered.

He said the loss includes a flute, a clarinet, a baritone horn and a bass drum.

3 Coastal Race Leaders Expected In NB Today

Three of the 19 yachts in the 385-mile California Coastal race from San Francisco to Newport Beach were expected to finish about noon today off the Newport Pier.

The leaders were Ragtime, Miramar and Sorcery in that order. They were reported off the Los Angeles Harbor breakwater at 8 a.m.

George Tooby's 35-foot one-tonner, America Jane, appeared to be the most likely handicap winner. She was reported off Point Vicente at the 8 a.m. rollcall.

Henry Grandin's 35-foot Tinsley Light was dismasted and was bbeing towed to the Channel Islands Marina by the Coast Guard.

The race started Tuesday at noon from St. Francis Yacht Club just inside the Golden Gate Bridge. Co-sponsors of the race are St. FYC and Newport Harbor Yacht Club.

'Rape Victim' Invites 2 Men Home, Kills 1

From Wire Services

LONG BEACH — A young woman, who was raped by two men, asked them to a return date and then killed one with a shotgun as her family looked on, police said today.

Deborah Kantaeng, 19, was booked on suspicion of murder.

Police said she told them that she was abducted by two men as she left work in a Cerritos shopping center Wednesday and they drove her to a park in Santa Ana and raped her.

In return for releasing her without further harm, she said, she promised not to call police and to give them her telephone number so they could reach her again.

They called Thursday afternoon, and it was agreed they would come to her home, investigators said.

Police said when the two walked in, they found themselves confronted by Miss Kantaeng, who was holding a shotgun. The woman's father, two brothers and girlfriend were also present, police said.

The other man fled. Police later arrested Carl Tice, 21, of Santa Ana. He was held for investigation of murder and rape.

When the men arrived at the home, police said, Allen knocked on the open door, walked through it and was hit by a single shotgun blast fired by Miss Kantaeng.

Her father was in the room at the time but told police he did not see the shooting.

Tice, who was not hit, fled but returned later to find out how Allen was and was arrested, police said.

Tice was booked under a California law that says a person participating in a criminal act in which murder occurs may be charged with that murder.

Routes Planned

Starred lines indicate bicycle routes to be developed this fiscal year by the city of Costa Mesa. The $16,500 first phase of an eventual 40-mile bikeways system will provide bicycle routes to local high schools and Orange Coast College. City council adopted master plan of bikeways this week. Estimated cost of 140-mile system is $200,000.

BRIGHT . . .

Bright said that, although it appears the offshore drilling plan will go into effect, it is not too late to demand sufficient safeguards to avoid adverse environmental impacts from drilling operations.

"It can happen with more thought and constraint," the Cal State Fullerton biologist said.

Technology is being developed for subsurface drilling and new safety mechanisms that can help prevent oil spills such as the one that occurred in Santa Barbara in 1969, Bright said.

He said the exact timing of the leases will depend on the outcome of "Project Blueprint," an Interior Department study to determine precisely what the country's energy needs are.

The commission chairman asserted that the environmental impact statement prepared by the Bureau of Land Management for the offshore drilling proposal falls far short of dealing with alternate energy sources.

"We need a proper — and I stress the word proper — environmental impact report from the bureau," Bright said.

Official Orders Offshore Lease Plan Prepared

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top Interior Department official has ordered the government to prepare a plan to lease 10 million acres of potential offshore oil sites next year in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said that it obtained an internal Interior Department memo written by Undersecretary John C. Whitaker ordering development of a plan for leasing of "all the promising areas of the Atlantic" as well as for a sale next year of the leases for drilling sites on the bottom of the Pacific. The Pacific site was identified as off Alaska. But Sen. John Tunney (D-Calif.) feared some of the site could be off Southern California.

Whitaker confirmed he had written the Sept. 10 memo, in a telephone interview with the newspaper Thursday night, the Post said. The plan was to have been ready Sept. 30, but is expected to be finished next week, according to the Post.

NEW LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR HARMER STUMPS IN IRVINE
Discusses Issues with Mrs. Louis Zejda at GOP Reception

New Lieutenant Governor Makes Irvine Appearance

By DOUGLAS FRITZSCHE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Within hours of being appointed California's 40th Lieutenant Governor, John Harmer stepped back into the campaign harness to visit with Orange Coast supporters in Irvine.

About 150 people attended the reception at the home of Irvine Councilman and Harmer campaign director Henry Quigley for a chance to meet the lanky 40-year-old Mormon.

In an interview, Harmer discounted broadsides from opponent Sen. Mervyn Dymally (D-Los Angeles) that the appointment by Gov. Ronald Reagan was an attempt to "fix" the race for the state's number two post.

"I would hardly expect him to support it," Harmer said of Dymally, a fellow senator for the past eight years. "But its a straw man tactic for Dymally to assert that it was an unfair move."

If the situation were reversed and Dymally received the appointment, Harmer said he would have been "delighted, with one stipulation and that would be equal time in the media."

His appointment to fill the term of Ed Reinecke, deposed and given an 18-month suspended sentence for perjury in the investigation into ITT offers to finance the 1972 Republican convention, would focus attention on the race, he said.

The lieutenant governor's race has received relatively little attention, he said, "and the same polls Dymally is so fond of quoting also show that 60 percent of the people don't know who either of us are."

A California Poll in early September showed Dymally with 37 percent of the vote, Harmer with 29, others 6 and 28 percent undecided.

As in no other statewide race, Harmer said, the voters have a cear choice between the philosophies of the lieutenant governor candidates.

Frequently described as one of the most conservative members of the state Senate, Harmer said his basic philosophy is limiting state government to give more power to local governments which are "more responsive, efficient and humane."

He opposes the Women's Rights constitutional amendment, early childhood education, lowering marijuana penalties, and busing for racial equality.

Harmer supports the death penalty and has developed a reputation as author and supporter of anti-pornography legislation.

Dymally, generally considered a liberal, has taken the opposite position on those issues.

As lieutenant governor, Harmer will sit on the state Lands Commission which, among other duties, regulates leases for off-shore oil drilling within the three-mile limit of California's waters.

Harmer said he would support moves to resume drilling for off-shore oil "subject to new technological safeguards which would minimize the danger of a blowout like we had a few years ago."

"I have always felt that we need some balance between ecology and the economy," Harmer said.

Harmer said he sees a "great opportunity" in the 15 commissions on which the lieutenant governor sits.

On the Economic Development Commission, he said, he would be able to provide "the leadership needed to improve the state's sluggish economy."

The principal villain in present inflation, he said, has been the cumulative effect of years of increasing government debt through deficit financing practices.

Regarding the general political climate, Harmer said, "this is not a year for arch-reactionary concepts."

But concern over the economy, he said, will bring support to the conservative camp.

Harmer said he viewed his predecessor's ouster with "great sadness. Ed Reinecke is a good friend of mine, a very honorable and decent man.

"It would have been an unspeakable tragedy if Ed Reinecke had been put in jail.

"I am really sorry that I have had to take the office under these conditions. I will miss having Ed in public life. He was a fine, honorable public servant."

Mesan Wounded In Shooting Leaves Hospital

A Costa Mesan, gravely wounded nine days earlier when gunned down by two bandits who confronted him on a Santa Ana street, was released from Orange County Medical Center Thursday.

Kenneth M. Pride, 26, who gave a Victoria Street address, underwent surgery to remove a bullet from his stomach following the Sept. 24 attack.

He was also hit by a shotgun blast in the back when the two bandits attempted to kill him for refusing to hand over his money and pulling a knife on them in self-defense. Pride told police the gunmen caught him in a crossfire, the shotgun-wielder dropping to one knee to take aim.

A 19-year-old youth living in the Windsor Park area where attempted robbbery and attempted murder occurred was arrested, but released when Pride could not identify him.

Child Succumbs After Battering

AUBURN (AP) — A 2-year-old Auburn boy who authorities said was burned on his feet and "bruised from head to toe" died at Placer General Hospital.

The child was identified Thursday as Curits Lee Atkins.

Sheriff's inspector Arthur Ables said the child's mother, Carleen Atkins, 19, and her boyfriend, Joseph Vlott, 18, were arrested for investigation of murder. He said they refused to say what happened to the child.

"The boy's body was bruised from head to toe, and the burns on his feet looked like two red socks," Ables said.

GYPSY . . .

Vice Mayor Jack Hammett at the conclusion of the attorney's remarks.

"It is extremely difficult to take umbrage with what you say," he added.

Hammett said, however, that the courts should determine the constitutionality of similar ordinances in other cities before Costa Mesa considers what to do with its.

Baranowski, who is handling one of the constitutional tests in Northern California, said he couldn't agree more.

The attorney said he would like to see a new ordinance requiring fortunetellers to be photographed, fingerprinted and pay a license fee of $400 to $500.

He said those requirements would keep the charlatans out of the city.

"They should also be required to post their prices. After all this is the age of consumer protection."

"I am fascinated by this," commented Councilwoman Norman Hertzog. Learning that Baranowski has defended a number of gypsies, she added, "I guess you've been called the gypsy lawyer."

Mayor Robert Wilson said he was curious what astrological sign the attorney was born under.

"Mr. Mayor, I am a Gemini," Baranowski said.

"I knew it," replied Wilson.

Nixon Fund Cut OK'd

Senate Panel Votes Unanimously on Bill

From Wire Services

WASHINGTON — The Senate Appropriations Committee today agreed with a House-passed measure that cut from $850,000 to $200,000 the money to be provided former President Nixon's transition to private life.

The committee voted unanimously to trim its proposed $328,000 figure to conform to the House version.

But the Senate committee measure went one step further than the House by placing a $220,000 ceiling on salaries for government personnel who can assist Nixon through Feb. 9, 1975.

The ceiling was calculated on the salaries of the 74 employes assigned by the government to help Nixon. But it excluded payment for Nixon's valet and maid, Mr. and Mrs. Manola Sanchez, whom he took to San Clemente with him when he resigned the presidency Aug. 9.

Sen. Edward Brooke (R-Mass.), said he warned the committee during the closed session to be careful that it complied with the law governing expenses for former presidents.

Two separate laws provide for funding of a president's transition to private life. President Ford requested $850,000 to fund the provisions spelled out in those laws, but it was quickly reduced.

"The general idea was to give the President everything he's entitled to by law and not a nickel more," Brooke said.

Sources said Nixon, who has been hospitalized in California, has complained of the government's "begrudging" attitude about the money.

Meanwhile, the Senate today passed and sent to the House a bill that would give the government custody of Nixon's official tapes and papers.

Before passing the bill, 56 to 7, the Senate rejected three attempts by the Republican leadership to delay or modify the measure, which is designed to nullify an agreement giving Nixon custody of the documents. They are to be stored at Laguna Niguel.

A 51-15 vote defeated a motion by Sen. Roman L. Hruska (R-Neb.), to send the bill to the Judiciary Committee for hearings.

On a 52-14 roll call, the Senate defeated a substitute bill by Hruska that would have declared the papers of all recent and future presidents and of vice presidents and members of Congress to be public property.

Then, Hruska's amendment simply preventing destruction of Nixon's papers and tapes failed, 49 to 15.

In another development, Rep. John Moss (D-Calif.), charged that Nixon is a "security risk" and should no longer be given classified briefings by the government.

In a letter to Ford, Moss, chairman of a subcommittee dealing with government information policies, said Nixon was guilty of illegal acts and therefore is eligible for the secret briefings which he has been receiving since he resigned.

"It is my opinion that, due to the circumstances which led to the resignation of your predecessor, and his subsequent acceptance of a pardon, that Mr. Nixon is guilty of illegal acts," Moss wrote.

Pat, Tricia Accompany

Nixon Leaves Hospital After 12-day Treatment

Nixon, accompanied by his wife, Pat, and daughter Tricia, shook hands with nurses and a doctor as he lifted himself from the wheelchair to seat himself in a black limousine that was to take him to his seaside villa in San Clemente 50 miles away.

Nixon, wearing a dark blue suit, took no notice of a group of reporters, photographers and hospital personnel standing near the rear entrance by which Nixon left.

Staff members who treated Nixon on the sixth floor of Memorial Hospital Medical Center of Long Beach followed him out of the hospital.

Mrs. Nixon and Tricia said goodbye to them, and Nixon himself shook hands with Grace Hollenbeck, head nurse of the floor, and her assistant, Tina Shaw.

As the limousine pulled away, it was escorted by a Long Beach police car, two motorcycle policemen and two cars of Secret Service guards.

Dr. John C. Lungren told newsmen Thursday that he would issue a final report today, after his patient's departure, and outline his diagnosis of the illness, future treatment and the course of his recovery.

Results of tests for cancer have been negative, the physician said Thursday in his daily written bulletin.

Phlebitis, a painful vein inflammation affecting Nixon's left leg, can be a symptom of cancer in the stomach, lungs or pancreas but it can also be caused by inactivity.

Girl Bicyclist Clings to Life; 'Very Critical'

A 15-year-old Costa Mesa girl struck broadside by a car Tuesday as she crossed a busy street with her bicycle against a red light was still clinging to life today.

Karen C. Moeller, of 1781 Bahama Place, suffered major head injuries and bled severely from a neck cut caused when she was hurled into the car's windshield.

"Very, very critical," is the way one Costa Mesa Memorial Hospital spokesman described the girl's condition today.

Motorist Michael J. Schroeder, 19, of 8211 Indianapolis Ave., Huntington Beach, was not cited following the accident on Adams Avenue at Royal Palm Drive. Fireman Frank Fantino raced out of the Costa Mesa Fire Department headquarters station at that corner and gave Miss Moeller immediate first aid.

Wiggins Claims Delay on Rocky Political Move

From Wire Services

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Confirmation of Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president is being stalled for political reasons, Rep. Charles E. Wiggins (R-Fullerton) told a student group at the University of Missouri Thursday night.

The Orange County legislator claimed that Rep. Peter J. Rodino (D-N.J.), has taken it upon himself to delay the confirmation hearings until after next month's election.

"In my opinion, that was done for a political reason, namely to discourage Nelson Rockefeller from getting out on the stump and campaigning for Republican candidates," said Wiggins, a member of the Judiciary Committee.

He called the delay "an example of politics in living color. It is at odds with the public interest."

Wiggins charged that Rodino is "shooting craps on the health and endurance of Gerald R. Ford. What if something should happen? We'd have genuine political upheaval. Why take the risk?"

Wiggins said Ford's decision to grant a pardon to former President Richard Nixon was right "but the timing was rotten. Ten days after the election might have been a good time," he said.

A judge has denied efforts to block child support payments to Leslie Bacon, 23, an antiwar activist questioned about the bombings of a New York bank and the U.S. Capitol.

Superior Court Judge Spurgeon Avakian of Oakland ordered Alameda County to pay Ms. Bacon, daughter of a wealthy Atherton businessman, retroactive child support payments for her daughter.

The county sued the state to block the payments on grounds Ms. Bacon was living with a man when Ariel Sage Albion Bacon was conceived in November 1972 in New York.

CHARGES DROPPED
Attorney Bugliosi

Bugliosi's Out; Shinn Trial Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A defense attorney in the 1970 Charles Manson case is scheduled to stand trial for perjury though similar charges against Manson prosecutor since Bugliosi have been dismissed.

On Thursday, special prosecutor Theodore Shield said he had decided to proceed with a Nov. 18 trial for Daye Shinn, the Manson defense attorney.

Shinn was indicted with Bugliosi on charges they lied by denying they gave newsman Bill Farr information for a story during the Manson trial while a judge's gag order was in effect.

Shield dropped the charges against Bugliosi Thursday, saying Farr's refusal to testify had "dealt a fatal blow" to his case.

But he moved to proceed against Shinn, again raising the possibility that Farr will be asked on the witness stand to name the sources for his news account.

The Los Angeles Times reporter spent 46 days in jail and faces five more for contempt because he refused Superior Judge Charles Older's request to supply the names.

11 Arrested In Airport Pot Raids

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sheriff's deputies arrested 11 men and seized more than a ton of marijuana worth about $1 million in a series of raids at Mojave Desert air strips and in suburban El Monte, authorities said.

Officials said Thursday the raids culminated a two-month undercover investigation.

Booked for investigation of state and federal narcotics laws violations were:

Jon C. Phillips, 29, Manhattan Beach; William A. Serantoni, 25, North Hollywood; John A. Reuck, 28, Lakewood; Gerald D. Hong, 45, Arcadia; Robert L. Pruitt, 57, Alhambra; Karl D. Peterson, 25, Davis, and Darla L. Jenkins, 28, Philip M. Bourchier 27, and Dwayne D. Walker, 23, all of Modesto.

Also, Neil L. Temple, Orangeville, Utah, and Glenn A. Lemaster, 28, Gresham, Ore.

Authorities said the raids were carried out Wednesday.

Four persons were arrested at Fox Field near Lancaster, five others at an airstrip on a dry lake bed in San Bernardino County and two more after they landed at El Monte Airport, trailed by deputies in another plane.

Smog Bad For Folks –LA Study

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Smog is bad for people, a $230,000 study financed by the California Air Resources Board says.

A state official said the 177-page report released Thursday on laboratory produced and regulated smog is one of the first to pin down the health effects of smog in scientific terms.

Among the major conclusions, the report said air pollution equal to second and third smog alert levels produces "significant decrement in pulmonary function, symptons sufficient to restrict normal activity, and oxidative changes in erythrocytes."

● Oil Leakage

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — The Coast Guard says it will keep watching conditions along a 12-mile stretch of picturesque beach which was blackened by oil globules, and meet with local officials to formulate cleanup plans.

Coast Guard spokesman Del

IN SHORT...

Horton announced the action Thursday, a day after the oil balls, apparently from natural seepage in the Santa Barbara Channel, washed ashore and sparked fears of a huge spill like the one that blackened the channel and beaches in 1969.

● Seafood Strike

SAN PEDRO (AP) — Striking workers have voted to end a 17-day walkout at Van Camp seafood cannery, after winning a contract agreement that guarantees they can transfer in their jobs when the facility moves to San Diego.

The union said Thursday that the 1,700 striking cannery workers approved a new three-year contract virtually unanimously. Officials said it expected workers could be back on the job sometime today.

● Scuba Deaths

OXNARD (UPI) — The Coast Guard will test equipment used by two scuba divers who drowned in separate incidents near Anacapa Island in the Santa Barbara channel Wednesday, authorities report.

Air Force Capt. Frank Dugan, 34, stationed at Edwards Air Force Base near Palmdale, was dead on arrival at a naval hospital in Port Hueneme.

Mark Inouye, 23, Gardena, was found at a 35-foot depth by fellow divers. He was a commercial diver for a firm in Oxnard and reportedly was diving for sea urchins when he drowned.

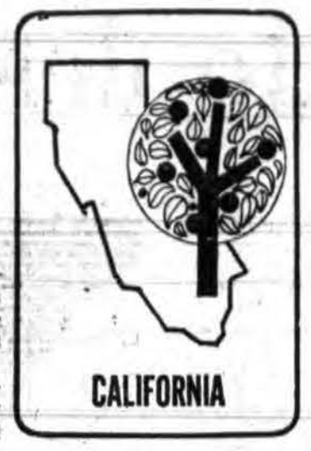
Car Rigged For Rape, Kidnaping

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A man who police say had electric door locks on his expensive automobile pleaded guilty Thursday to two counts of rape and one of kidnaping.

The man, William H. Wires, of suburban Carmichael, is owner of X-ray businesses in Sacramento and Portland, Ore.

Fifteen other counts were dismissed and Wires was ordered examined by psychiatrists.

Police said Wires usually picked up women hitchhiking or waiting for a bus. They said the doorknobs on the inside of Wires' car were removed and, with the electric locks, the victims couldn't get out.



Girl Found Near Death

CALEXICO (AP) — A 15-year-old girl reported "an hour from death" in the desert when she was rescued is reported recovering from exposure and exhaustion.

A joint party of U.S. and Mexican volunteers found Maria Ibarra-Ortega lying among rocks at the foot of Mt. Signal, about 10 miles west of Calexico.

Mother 'Disgraced'

Publisher Sued For 'Cover Girl'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A $2.8 million suit was filed against a San Francisco book publisher on behalf of a 12-year-old girl who thought she was going to be in the movies, but instead wound up on the cover of a book about marijuana with a cigarette butt in her mouth.

Lillian Haddad was only seven when a photographer approached her in Golden Gate Park and asked her if she wanted to be in films, said her mother, Emily Fagell.

"SHE WAS thrilled, of course, and so she said 'Yes,' and th man started taking pictures," said Marvin E. Lewis, Mrs. Fagell's attorney.

Straight Arrow Books, Inc. published a book entitled "A Connoisseur's Handbook on Marijuana." On the cover was a picture of Lillian, a cigarette butt in her mouth.

Near the picture, said the suit, was a caption that read:

"The danger in illegalizing marijuana is that you make criminals out of the most intelligent, sensitive people in the country" — Allen Ginsberg.

. LEWIS' SUIT, filed in Superior Court Thursday, contends Straight Arow — a branch of Rolling Stone magazine — has "disgraced" both Lillian and her mother, causing Mrs. Fagell to suffer "hatred, ridicule and obloquy, causing her to be shunned and voided."

LA Streak Disruptive

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Robert Opel, 33, who streaked the Academy Awards this year, was found innocent Thursday of indecent exposure for doing the same thing to a city council meeting.

But a municipal court jury found Opel guilty on charges of disrupting a public meeting. Opel appeared in the buff during a heated council debate over allowing nudity on public beaches.

Police Chief Jailing 'Loose' Illegal Aliens

KERMAN (UPI) — Saying he was afraid "they will kill themselves or local citizens if allowed to run wild loose," Kerman police chief Olen McDaniel has defended his policy of jailing illegal aliens and making them post a $65 bond.

McDaniel said Thursday his department's policy was to arrest illegal aliens who cannot properly identify themselves, put them in jail and then set them free if they post the $65 bond.

He said that in the past his department called border patrol agents and turned the illegal aliens over to them for deportation, but he said that policy was changed when area farmers complaining that the practice was depleting their work force.

Playgirl Subject Suing

APPLE VALLEY (AP) — Playgirl Magazine nude centerfold Lou Zivkovich says "I don't have any regrets over" posing in the nude — even though he's been fired and his wife is angry with him.

He plans to sue Playgirl, whose June unfolding described him as a "superbly trim 33" and then let the reader make up her mind by showing him in full frontal view.

With not a fig leaf in sight.

"I don't have any regrets over posing but I wish the article had been done in better taste," he sighed, adding that he was soon off to a meeting with his lawyers.

"I've got three lawyers for two different cases," he declared. One suit is aimed at Playgirl, which couldn't be reached for comment. The other is aimed at his ex-employers.

So far, he says, he doesn't need a third attorney for his wife. But he adds, she "is not too pleased with the whole thing."

Too Much, Too Soon

The Costa Mesa City Council this week found itself eyeball to eyeball with the biggest single development project in the city's 21-year history — more than $55 million in office structures, stores and athletic facilities on Segerstrom family property around South Coast Plaza.

The council had little choice but to give a qualified "no" to the project.

Councilmen had been aware of the complex proposal for a scant four weeks — hardly long enough to assess just what is was, let alone determine its impact on the community.

Because the sweeping plan called for formation of a redevelopment district, the council was faced with a Jan. 1 deadline to have all planning completed. City Manager Fred Sorsabal said the schedule might be impossible.

Rather than move ahead, the council urged the Segerstroms to work with the city staff and left the door open to a new look at the proposal next year. Given the situation, it was a logical action.

Inflation Bite

Inflation extracted another pound of flesh last week when Newport-Mesa Unified School District trustees approved a $508,893 project at Costa Mesa High School.

The badly needed project covered refurbishing the physical education facility at the school and two campus drainage jobs.

It was originally planned that available funds would cover more, including updating an aged transportation building now used as an auto shop and placing a cover over a student eating area.

But between the time the project was conceived and specifications drawn for bids, costs zoomed out of sight.

So, the trustees had to be satisfied with three-quarters of a loaf because of inflation's impact.

Nontheless, what the district could afford will be welcome at Costa Mesa High School and help the school keep pace with more recently built schools.

Dual Benefit

The dedicated efforts of a group of senior citizens who spend four hours a day helping patient-clients at Fairview State Hospital have not gone unnoticed.

Two of the 65 foster grandparents who work with mentally retarded children at the hospital — along with their foster grandchildren — were luncheon guests recently of Gov. and Mrs. Ronald Reagan.

Grandparents help youngsters learn to do things most of us take for granted — eating, dressing, cleaning up.

It's a program that helps the mentally retarded build self sufficiency. And it gives senior citizens — often left by the wayside — a productive role.

CIA Expert Trained Chileans

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — International Telephone and Telegraph dispatched one of America's top bugging experts into the homes and government palace of Chilean president Salvador Allende in 1971.

The alleged purpose of this mysterious mission was to "debug" Allende's rooms and to train Chilean police and army men in electronic de-bugging techniques. Interestingly, it was the military which later overthrew Allende.

The visit of master-bugger John Ragan came as ITT, the CIA and the U.S. Embassy in Santiago were busily seeking information to help them get the socialist Allende out of office. Allende was nationalizing American companies in Chile, including ITT.

RAGAN, an ex-FBI electronic specialist, is best known as the man called in by the White House "plumbers" to bug the home of columnist Joseph Kraft. But in the "business," Ragan is respected as an awesome pro: a specialist called in to de-bug the quarters of such notables as Richard Nixon, former Attorney General John Mitchell, Charles "Bebe" Rebozo and others.

On his trip to turbulent Chile, Ragan took along a load of "offensive" bugging equipment. Secret Watergate documents show he was accompanied down by ITT's assistant security director, Russell Tagliareni.

THE DOCUMENTS reveal that Ragan stayed in Chile from April 28, 1971, to May 5, 1971, and was paid $200 a day by ITT. While there, Ragan, at the invitation of the army and police, entered Allende's homes at Valparaiso and Santiago, and his presidential palace.

According to Ragan, he and Allende once sat down and had coffee. There the Chilean leader learned that Ragan worked for ITT. Ragan describes the conversation as "cordial."

No one seems to know why ITT, a relentless enemy of Allende's, was allowed in his dwellings, much less why the Chilean president let an ITT agent conduct "electronic sweeps" of his rooms at a time when planting of bugs was widely feared in Chile. Allende cannot explain: He died from gunshot wounds in the coup.

But as we reported on March 21, 1972, ITT had made approaches "to select members of the Armed Forces in an attempt to have them lead some sort of uprising" in late 1970, only a few months before ITT and the Chilean army helped arrange Ragan's visit.

THE ITT electronics mission is even more puzzling in view of a secret ITT memo dated Sept. 29, 1970, from ITT Vice President E. J. Gerrity to ITT President Harold Geneen. In the memo, Gerrity advises "We should withdraw all technical help (to Chile) and should not promise any technical assistance in the future."

Yet, within months, ITT's deputy security chief and its $200-a-day electronics consultant were dispatched to give "technical assistance" to the army, police and to at least one Chilean telephone company official.

Through a trusted intermediary, we have been given a summary of Ragan's notes on the visit. They do not shed much light on the subject, but simply tell of meetings with the Chilean police and army officials. Some of them appear to be in code.

AFTER the Chilean excursion, Ragan continued to have high-paying dealings with ITT. His private logs show such curious listings as "6/2/71 — ITT test hi-power tmitter. . . 6/7/71—ITTw/tmitter. . .6/10/71—Call Jack Caulfield. . ." "Tmitter," in this case, is a tiny bugging transmitter. And Caulfield was the White House dirty trickster of the Watergate era.

Ragan also ran an ITT de-bugging seminar and has done de-bugging work for Geneen and lesser ITT officials such as Dita Beard, John Ryan and William Marriam.

Footnote: Ragan spoke with my associate Les Whitten at length. The "tmitter" was used only at the seminar, he said, not for bugging. The Chilean mission, he insisted, was "open and above board" and no bugs were planted while in Chile, nor were any found. The bugs he took with him, he said, were left in Chile only for training purposes.

The Issue Is Far From Closed

Nixon Will Be Heard From Again

RICHARD WILSON

WASHINGTON — It should be borne in mind that Herbert Hoover lived articulately into his 90s, some 30 years beyond his moment of greatest political distress. Harry Truman rose from the lowest state of political disregard to high esteem upon his death.

This is not to say that Richard M. Nixon will someday be elevated to the pantheon of revered past presidents, but it is to say that those who think the Nixon issue will go away are fooling themselves. It will be with us for many years.

There are even now enough people who think that Nixon's offenses, while regrettable, were justifiable under the circumstances and in the whole context of his presidency. Among them are those who thought he should have resigned and those who thought he should not have.

THESE PEOPLE, while now in a minority, number into the millions and thus are not an inconsiderable part of the aware public. They cannot, furthermore, be shouted down by the roaring disapproval of the ex-President's pardon, nor the continuing cry for the last drop of his blood and the death-wish reports of his illness.

A decent assumption based upon Nixon's past record can be made that Nixon will survive this period of great physical and mental stress, with the usual caveat that death can come to any man at any time. If he so survives, at least a decade is left to him of alert physical and mental response, and maybe much more.

The practical meaning of the pardon, therefore, is that Richard M. Nixon, admitting no guilt, is free to use his unquestioned talents not only to rehabilitate himself as best he can but to encourage the nascent belief that he was hounded out of office by cruel and implacable enemies with no regard for the long-range interests of the nation.

SOME SUCH intuition may lie beneath the ferocity of the continuing attack on Nixon and on President Ford for having pardoned Nixon. The tone of this attack clearly seeks to establish the historical base that Nixon's offenses were so enormous that they threatened the continuance of free government, for which he should have been made to pay by public trial, conviction and sentence to prison, even if he never served a day.

More mature consideration may focus on the hysterical exaggeration of such conclusions, taking into consideration that the chief impeachable offense, Article I of the Bill of Impeachment, grew from a ludicrous act about which Nixon knew nothing in advance, the placing of a listening device on the telephone of the Democratic National Chairman during a political campaign.

Assuming Nixon's survival, those who think he will crawl back into a luxurious hole somewhere to live on his pension and brood himself into his grave must be ignoring his record. They would do better to recognize the tone of his public apology, with its intimation of penance to be followed by resurgence.

NIXON will write. In time he will probably talk. In time those who transgressed with him, and still think they did no wrong, will have paid the legal price, and they will talk and write.

Without the complete and utter destruction of these men the innate sense of a good many millions that justice was not done could not be wholly stifled. There will long be those wondering why equal justice under law should send John Ehrlichman to prison while Daniel Ellsberg goes free, or hold Nixon liable for shielding a political scandal not of his own making.

All such moral and ethical problems would have been wrapped into a horrific bundle and cast into the vaults of history by the criminal conviction of Nixon. The end would have been written in a different way than President Ford tried to write it. A judgment so conclusive would have been rendered against the Nixon era that history could never challenge it.

BUT it is not to be that way. President Ford could not write the end to Watergate. The House Judiciary Committee could not do so, however persuasive President Ford might have found its unanimous action. And the courts will not be permitted to do so.

This is not because the events and actions did not take place. It is because the gravity and import of those actions and the circumstances under which they took place are seen in different ways by different people. At the moment, the most furious of the critics are acting as if their case may be slipping out of their hands and so have renewed their fury lest the future should forget.

To the Editor:

I've been reading with interest and dismay about the Mexican-Americans complaining about the new TV series, "Chico and the Man." They say it is demeaning, belittling, etc. The episodes I've seen so far has Chico far in the lead over the bumbling white garage owner. I don't recall blacks screaming about "Sanford and Son" or "Good Times." I just don't get it.

STANFORD University had to change their "Indians" to "Cardinals" some time back. Why didn't the Indians push to change the Cleveland Indians to something else? Aha! I've got the answer. The San Francisco and New York Giants should get large complaints from the midgets of our country.

Let's rename all the ball clubs: The Los Angeles Ewes, the New England Revolutionaries, The Atlanta Doves, the Miami Minnows, the Detroit Mice. The Cincinnati Reds (who years ago tried Redlegs, but to no avail) should be re-named the Right-Wingers. How about the New Orleans Sinners? The New York Props? The Denver or Baltimore Shetland Ponies? Buffalo Williams? Philadelphia Sparrows? The list could go on and on.

We are living in a time of absurdity and nit-picking.

Noise Battle

To the Editor:

Your Sunday, Sept. 30 feature on noise pollution relates to a battle waged for a year now by families here in Fountain Valley against noise pollution in Mile Square Regional Park.

WHEN MODEL airplane clubs were ousted by construction from isolated fields along Harbor Boulevard in Costa Mesa, they laid claim to an area in the heart of Mile Square Park. The noise they produce there is not only an affront to the noise control standards of Mile Square's host city, Fountain Valley, the noise also degrades the recreational environment of the park. Picnicking families, golfers and neighboring residents complain about the buzz-saw noise which rasps day-long from 9 am to 7 pm. In terms of total park usage, the modelers are a very small percentage of the public who want to enjoy the park, yet the modelers persist in annoying people who come to the park to escape the motorized noise of our mechanized world.

THIS SITUATION shows the inadequacy of linking noise pollution standards only to decibel levels. The noise of model planes, motorcycles, saws and other noise sources do not necessarily produce high decibel levels — but their noise is psychologically very annoying because of its frequency and pitch.

Give the motorcyclists, modelers and others who need noise to have fun their own isolated area where they can't bother the majority of people who just want to relax in some peace and quiet.

Rape Interest

To the Editor:

I am writing to protest the lack of coverage given the conference on rape sponsored by the Golden West College—American Association of University Women in your newspaper.

Over 300 women attended the daylong event highlighted by state Sen. Alan Robbins' remarks in the late afternoon.

The women of Orange County are interested in events of this nature, not just weddings, luncheons and fashion shows!

Funeral Alternatives

To the Editor:

Many years ago, so the story goes, a new steak house opened its doors in Kansas City, an area long noted for its fine steaks. Before long they were outselling all their competitors. When asked to explain the secret behind this fantastic success, the owner replied, "I buy the same beef everyone else does. The only difference is that when I serve a steak the customer gets it on a sizzling hot platter. Hell, man, I'm not selling steaks — I'm selling the sizzle."

THAT STORY popped into my mind when I read Tom Barley's article titled "The Viking Way" in the Sunday, September 29, edition of the Pilot. The quoted comments of a representative of the Neptune Society implied that their founder, Dr. Charles W. Denning, Jr., was unique in feeling it "was high time someone offered an alternative to the costly, involved mortuary-funeral-cemetery system that today is costing families at least $2,000."

The fact is that Neptune is too closely patterned after Telophase to be coincidental. Dr. Thomas B. Weber, entrepreneur in the field of bypassing the mortuary by providing direct cremation, founded Telophase in 1971. And, he readily declares, his brain child was conceived when he was a member of the non-profit San Diego Memorial Society. Founded in 1958, this is one of a number of such non-profit organizations located throughout the state, of which the Tri-County Memorial Funeral Society in Orange County is one. Together they comprise the California Federation of Memorial and Funeral Societies, which functions largely in the capacity of legislative watchdog in Sacramento.

THESE societies, by seeking out and contracting with selected funeral directors, those with a social awareness and a willingness to meet community needs, provide their members with a full range of mortuary service from which to choose. No "sizzle" in the form of a 100' ocean going vessel is offered, but immediate cremation with scattering at sea costs $215, and a traditional funeral can be had for $395.

We felt your readers should know that we have been serving the community since 1961, by providing this alternative to expensive funerals.

ALLACE KUNZ, Secretary
Tri-County Memorial Funeral Society

Essays on T. S. Eliot

THE BOOKMAN

T. S. Eliot, the seventh volume in the Contemporary Studies in Literature Series by McGraw-Hill Paperbacks ($1.95), presents nine critical essays on one of the key poets of the twentieth century, along with an extensive bibliography.

Edited by Linda W. Wagner, it contains essays by such figures as Arthur Mizener, whose introduction to the poet, "To Meet Mr. Eliot" is one of the best ever written. Subsequent chapters include an article by Leonard Unger — a critic whose work on Eliot has always been admired for its sanity; Ezra Pound's note on the 1917 Prufrock & Other Poems; Bernard Bergonzi and Helen Gardner's essays on Eliot's early poems; M. L. Rosenthal's contribution, placing The Wasted Land in a new perspective — as an "open," suggestive poem; Daniel R. Schwarz's question on the accepted reading of "Gerantion"; William T. Moynihan's direction for much of Four Quartets.

Professor of English at Michigan State University, Linda Wagner has published two books on William Carlos Williams, and studies of Ernest Hemingway, William Faulkner, Denise Levertov, and Phyllis McGinley. She is currently completing a study of contemporary poetics.
