5 Nabbed In Dana Pot Haul

Laguna Beach narcotics detectives and U.S. Customs Agents seized 700 pounds of marijuana at Dana Point Harbor Sunday and arrested five men on charges of possession of marijuana for sale.

The arrests concluded a month-long investigation. Authorities placed the value of the contraband at $160,000.

A 30-foot sailboat was impounded at the harbor. Police said they recovered, besides the marijuana stashed in large gunny sacks, a shotgun, walkie-talkie and a rental van.

Arrested were:

—John A. Metheany, 52, of 1104 Miramar St., Laguna Beach, who works as a restaurant manager.

—Jerry A. Metheany, 25, his son, of Anaheim, an accountant for a Dana Point restaurant.

—David M. Poley, 27, described by police as a transient, self-employed jack of all trades.

—Paul B. Meyerhof, 23, of 245 San Joaquin St., Laguna Beach, an unemployed cook.

—Joseph R. McConnell, 23, of 34042 Malaga Drive, Dana Point, an unemployed waiter.

All were held on $5,000 bail. Arraignments are set for Tuesday.

Police Capt. Neil Purcell said surveillance of the sailboat began Saturday morning, when a team under the direction of Laguna Beach investigator Don Barney began a long wait for the craft, the Ambush III.

Purcell said the boat slipped past Harbor Patrol lookouts because its operators had changed the lettering of the name at sea so that it read Bush II upon its return.

Purcell said officers watched from behind cover as several large bags were unloaded at the dock into several vehicles. McConnell's arrest came after Barney trailed one of the vans.

Followup investigation led to the other arrests, Purcell said.

Police believe the marijuana was smuggled from Mexico.

Purcell said the sailboat was registered to the younger Metheany.

Terrorist Unit Gets Train

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Two groups of heavily armed South Moluccan extremists, striking two days before the Dutch general election, seized an elementary school and hijacked a train in the northern Netherlands today, authorities reported.

Police said six gunmen were believed holding 105 children and six teachers in the school and seven terrorists had about 50 hostages aboard the train.

It was the second terrorist action by members of the Asian immigrant group in The Netherlands in 18 months.

South Moluccan activists demand that the Dutch intervene to help them win independence from Indonesia for their homeland, part of the former Dutch East Indies. The Dutch have called the demand unrealistic.

The Moluccan islands, the former Spice Islands, are situated between the Celebes and New Guinea.

Three Watergate Convictions Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court upheld today the Watergate cover-up convictions of former Atty. Gen. John D. Mitchell and one-time White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

Mitchell and Haldeman have remained free pending the outcome of this appeal. Ehrlichman already is in prison. The court's action today means Mitchell and Haldeman likely will be imprisoned soon.

The justices rejected the claims by the three powerful officials of former President Nixon's administration that the three-month trial that ended in their convictions Jan. 1, 1975 was unfair.

The justices made no comment in refusing to review the case. There were no recorded dissents, but Justice William H. Rehnquist noted that he took no part in deciding the case.

Normally it takes about 10 days for a Supreme Court refusal to review a conviction to go back down to district court, which then tells a defendant the date when he must begin serving his sentence.

All three were convicted in the court of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who will set the imprisonment date for Mitchell and Haldeman.

Reached at his home in Los Angeles, Haldeman said he would have "nothing to say" on the court's decision.

John J. Wilson, attorney for Haldeman, said he will ask the high court again to hear the case.

A request for reconsideration would delay the imprisonment date.

Attorneys for Mitchell were out of their office and not reachable immediately.

On April 21, National Public Radio reported that the court voted 5-3 at its private conference April 15 to turn down the appeals but that Chief Justice Warren E. Burger held up announcing the decision in an attempt to muster enough votes to grant review. The votes of four justices are needed to grant review of such cases.

Lawyers for the cover-up defendants asked the court for permission to argue that the justices should reverse the convictions because of the news leak. The attorneys said the report tainted the court's deliberations, adversely affecting the rights of their clients.

The court denied that request May 2.

Mitchell and Haldeman were sentenced to 30 months to eight years in prison for conspiracy, obstruction of justice and giving false testimony under oath in what prosecutors said was an attempt to conceal governmental

Nixon: Watergate Pardons Weighed

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Nixon says that in the final days of his presidency he considered granting pardons to everybody involved in Watergate but decided not to because it would "in-flame the situation," according to published reports.

Nixon's comments from an interview with David Frost that will be aired Wednesday night are quoted in the current issue of Newsweek magazine.

The magazine said the former president had calls and letters from White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman recommending he couple a Watergate pardon with amnesty for draft evaders in the Vietnam war.

"The second part of it was totally out of the question as far as I was concerned," Nixon was quoted as saying.

"As for the first part, I would like to have been able to have found a way to help... but I was resigning office for primarily the reason that I wanted to get the whole Watergate obsession, which had then reached fever heat, cooled down."

"If my last act was to pardon everybody who was in Watergate... that would inflame the situation and also would obviously look like the ultimate coverup."

Mayaguez Crew Sues

Cambodian Seizure Blamed for Troubles

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Frank Conway began to drink heavily. Raymond Friedler had nightmares. Albert Minichiello's hair fell out. Darryl Kastl couldn't keep his hands from shaking.

All four say their problems date from May 12, 1975, when the merchant ship Mayaguez was seized in the Gulf of Thailand by Cambodian forces. In a lawsuit on today's schedule in San Francisco Superior Court, the four Mayaguez crewmen are asking $6.4 million in damages against Sea-Land Services, Inc., owner of the ship. Similar suits by two other Mayaguez crewmen were settled by Sea-Land for $85,000 and $48,000.

The ship's captain was Charles Miller of Fountain Valley. The crewmen say in their suit that the seizure of the Mayaguez and their own three days of terror can be traced to negligence on the part of the ship owner.

The suit also blames what their lawyer calls Sea-Land's "evil" scheme to "reap excessive profits... at the expense of the health and safety of the crew."

Sea-Land's lawyer calls the charge "irrelevant mudslinging." The Mayaguez incident coming shortly after the Khmer Rouge communists took power in Cambodia, was regarded as an important test of U.S. willingness to protect its interests in the area. President Ford's popularity soared after he ordered U.S. forces to intervene and the crew returned safely.

The Cambodians held the 39 Mayaguez crew members for three days after seizing the boat on the Thailand-Hong Kong run, then released them as Marines launched an attack on the Cambodian island of Koh Tang. Forty-one servicemen were killed in the operation.

In court documents written with emotion and flamboyance, Martin Jarvis, attorney for the four crewmen, recounts the story of the capture two years ago.

He tells how the Americans were herded onto Thai fishing boats for a trip to the Cambodian mainland and how the fishing boats came under air attack by American forces trying to rescue the crewmen.

"The crew was shattered by broken glass from the shrapnel and the bombs. There was no place to run or hide."

"Plaintiffs... were blinded, nauseated and burned by the gas."

"Along with the hot tropical sun beating down on them in the open boat, each suffered considerable pain and distress for many days thereafter."

Jarvis also describes their night ashore, after which some of the crewmen fell ill with malaria.

"Half the crew had obtained mattresses from the guards' quarters, but the remainder had to sleep on the bamboo floors, under which were pools of stagnant water where all the waste and off-fal was dumped."

"Sleep was impossible, with jungle animals and pigs crawling over the bodies of the confined crew members, and the nervous tension kept building."

Even the rescue is depicted as an assault on the senses.

"The joy of the rescue was dampened... by the sight of mortally wounded Marines, hardly out of their teens, one dying with half his back shot away, which lives and lingers on in the nightmares of the Mayaguez crew."

In a statement filed with the court during settlement negotiations, attorney Jarvis claimed the ship was carrying "military cargo destined to be used against the vital interests of the people of Indochina, including Cambodia."

Sea-Land concedes the ship was carrying drug and toilet supplies for a U.S. military installation in Thailand, but insists there were no armaments aboard.

waters, according to Gordon Cribbs of the State Department of Fish and Game.

Lockabey said the porpoise attracted a large crowd of beachgoers when it was first spotted close to shore near the pier because it looked like a killer whale.

"Some of those people wanted to get into the water and touch it. We really had a time keeping them away," said the lifeguard.

Lockabey said the young porpoise had a wound on its underside which apparently led to its death.

Cribbs explained that the Dall porpoise does not have a beak like the more familiar southern porpoises, the Pacific striped and the Baird dolphin. "It also has a white underside and white on its dorsal, which makes it look a lot like a killer whale," he explained.

The department has referred the matter to the sheriff and to the Federal Aviation Administration for investigation.

Prosecution Cases

Court Upholds Obscenity Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court ruled today that individuals may be prosecuted under federal obscenity laws in states which abolish laws regulating pornography for adults.

The 5-4 ruling came in a case from Iowa which passed a law in 1974 prohibiting the distribution of obscene material only to minors. It was not a crime to sell pornography to adults.

But federal charges were brought against Jerry Lee Smith for mailing copies of a magazine called "Intrigue" and films titled "Lovelace" and "Terrorized Virgin" from Des Moines to persons who requested the material in Mount Ayr and Guthrie Center. The persons who ordered the material were postal inspectors using fake names.

Smith was prosecuted under a 1973 federal law making it a crime to send obscene material through the mail. The Supreme Court has upheld the constitutionality of that law.

But the high court in 1974 issued a major decision requiring that obscenity prosecutions under both federal and state laws must be governed by the "contemporary community standards."

Challenging his conviction, Smith argued that the 1974 Iowa law should have been proof that the states' "community standard" did not prohibit the sale of pornography to adults. Rejecting that argument, the court majority said jurors may be told about the state law but still must determine for themselves what the community standard is.

However lenient a state or local obscenity law may be, it does not "force the federal government to allow the mail... to be used for the purpose of sending obscene material into the permissive state," the court said.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Byron R. White, Lewis F. Powell and William H. Rehnquist joined Harry A. Blackmun in the majority.

Justices William J. Brennan, Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall dissented, repeating their previously stated views that the federal statute is unconstitutional.

Justice John Paul Stevens dissented and issued a separate opinion complaining that the "community standard" rule is unfair.

misconduct in the Watergate scandal.

Ehrlichman, also convicted of conspiracy in connection with the 1971 "plumbers" burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, last October chose to begin serving his prison terms pending appeals of both convictions.

He also was sentenced to 30 months to eight years for his role in the Watergate cover-up, and drew a 20-month to five-year prison term for the burglary conspiracy case, the sentences to be served concurrently. Ehrlichman is a prisoner at the Swift Trail Federal Prison camp at Safford, Ariz.

On Feb. 22, the Supreme Court turned down his appeal of the burglary conspiracy conviction. In their appeals, Mitchell, Haldeman and Ehrlichman said their trial should have been postponed to allow the "massive and extraordinarily extensive" publicity surrounding it to die down.

The train was halted near the village of Onnen, just north of this city, and the school is in the village of Boven-Smilde, just south of here. Assen is about 130 miles northeast of Amsterdam.

A government official said the gunmen forced their way into the school, situated near a housing complex where some 500 South Moluccans reside, at the start of morning lessons. They quickly released about 15 South Moluccan children.

The gunmen covered the inside of windows in two rooms with paper, police said. When local South Moluccans tried to talk to them, the terrorists opened a window and fired a few shots, police said.

Shortly after noon, a group of anxious parents tried to rush the school but were held back by police.

Hans Uffing, a spokesman for the Dutch railway system, said the engineer and conductor of the commandeered four-car train reported that about 50 of its 100 passengers escaped after the gunmen hijacked it during the morning rush-hour.

Police said the submachine gun-armed hijackers, who fired shots through the roof of one car as they climbed aboard, later released some elderly persons.

The two crewmen either were forced to leave the train or escaped when it was stopped, Uffing said.

Fired Fairview Boss Plans Fight

By GARY GRANVILLE

Dr. Michael Levine said today he will "take legal action" to gain reinstatement as director of Fairview State Hospital.

Levine was fired abruptly last week after eight stormy months at the helm of the 1,600-patient mental hospital in Costa Mesa.

Levine said today his motive for challenging his ouster is to keep programs he has started alive and to stop what he called the "developmental death" of Fairview patients.

The ousted director lashed out at State Department of Health officials for failing to comply with standards established by the Federal Handicapped Bill of Rights (Public Law 94-103).

"I have been literally battling for my patients' rights in the face of consistent, unreasoning opposition," from Department of Health officials, Levine said.

He called his firing last week "as capricious and flimsy as the state's administration of its own state hospital system."

Levine said misdirected state officials are jeopardizing $300 million in federal funds by failing to provide adequate programs for the developmentally disabled.

It was his insistence as director of Fairview that implementation of the federal program begin that eventually caused his ouster, Levine said.

He charged, for example, that under his administration $30,000 in drug costs had been saved by encouraging patients to awaken from drug-induced helplessness.

And, he added, his administration had taken steps to prepare some developmentally disabled persons to begin training for community-based care.

However, Levine said, "I think it improper then that I be fired simply because I am too outspoken for the bureaucrats."

He said that through legal societies there will be an attempt made to determine if it is legally (See LEVINE, Page A2)

Levine Ouster Backed

The president of the Fairview Families and Friends, Inc. said today his group supports the dismissal of Fairview administrator Dr. Michael Levine.

The statement by FFF president Matthew J. Guglielmo came just hours after Levine publicly announced he will challenge the state Department of Health's action.

Guglielmo said he was speaking for the executive staff of the organization, which he claims is comprised of nearly 1,600 members.

"We feel the state was justified in what it did," Guglielmo said. "We have found in him (Levine) a total disregard for state directives."

"He was difficult to work with, abrasive, brash and did not consider the parents' viewpoints in trying to achieve his purposes," he said.

Guglielmo continued, "I'm sure he had the clients' welfare in mind, but so do the parents. We believe in the state hospital system."

He said a small but vocal parent advocacy group "which could not get along with the major body of parents," has been supporting Levine, and said he feared the community would confuse that group with his larger organization.

"It's just a small offshoot making a lot of noise," he said. "Frankly, we think the state department was very generous with Levine," Guglielmo said.

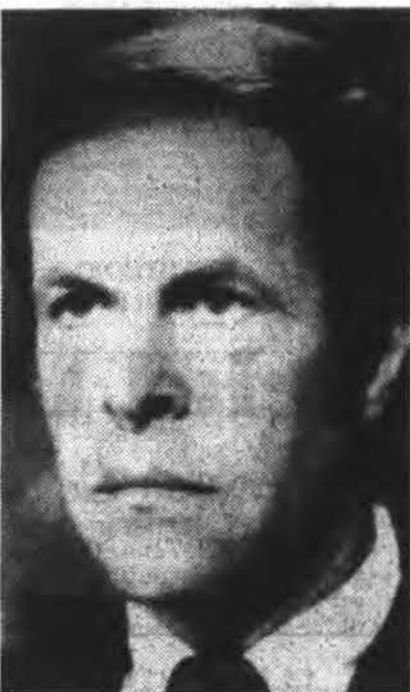

"We think the state is being kicked around for what we feel was a good move on their part." Guglielmo said his group has contacted Governor Brown's office and the State Department of Health, "to tell them of our support."

He said the Fairview group is very pleased with new acting executive director, Dr. Francis M. Crinella.

TeWinkle Facelift Plan Eyed in Mesa

By STEVE MITCHELL

Costa Mesa officials may take another crack at getting some federally funded facelifting for TeWinkle Park.

City councilmen were to meet today to discuss the possibilities of sprucing up an 11-acre portion of the park surrounding a dirt hill.

Last week the council turned down the $1.3 million project because it felt the park plan was too grandiose, calling the $120,000 per acre landscaping program far too expensive.

City Manager Fred Sorsabal said this morning he will ask the council to hire a new architect to come up with a revised program by mid-June at a price tag of $850,000.

And he wants things to get under way before a June 12 deadline imposed by the federal government.

To get around the deadline to get a shovel into the ground, Costa Mesa councilmen may recommend the transplanting of existing trees on the parcel by that date.

"We went to the EDA (Economic Development Administration) in Seattle and told them the original project went over our estimates," Sorsabal said.

He said city efforts in Seattle, and the city's lobbyist in the nation's capital, were able to explain the city's plight and win an extension on the federal grant. "We told them we were trying to meet the requirement of the grant (put unemployed people to work) and said we'd have to redo our plans for TeWinkle hill."

Federal officials said that by transplanting existing trees, the city would be able to meet the June 12 deadline.

Sorsabal said a program he was to present to council members today shows the planting of 100 to 125 trees purchased for the (See PARK, Page A2)

LIFEGUARD JACK LINCKE WITH DALL PORPOISE THAT BEACHED ITSELF
Porpoise Resembling a Killer Whale Drew Crowds Sunday in Newport Beach

Rare Porpoise Dies at Newport

A young porpoise that beachgoers mistook for a killer whale, attracted large crowds Sunday near the Newport Pier until it beached itself and died, lifeguards reported today.

Lifeguard Lt. Logan Lockabey said the marine mammal has since been identified as a rare Dall porpoise. He said the remains will be turned over to the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History for study.

The Dall porpoise, which inhabits the Pacific coast from the Gulf of Alaska to Baja California is rarely seen in the southern waters, according to Gordon Cribbs of the state Department of Fish and Game.

Lockabey said the porpoise attracted a large crowd of beachgoers when it was first spotted close to shore near the pier because it looked like a killer whale.

"Some of those people wanted to get into the water and touch it. We really had a time keeping them away," said the lifeguard.

Lockabey said the young porpoise had a wound on its underside which apparently led to its death.

Cribbs explained that the Dall porpoise does not have a beak like the more familiar southern porpoises, the Pacific striped and the Baird dolphin. "It also has a white underside and white on its dorsal, which makes it look a lot like a killer whale," he explained.

A second part of the legal challenge will center on first amendment freedom of speech rights, Levine said.

The ex-Fairview director cited praise for his abilities contained in his dismissal letter as an indication of the "bizarre behavior" of state officials.

Singled out for criticism by Levine at a well attended press conference in Santa Ana were Don Z. Miller, a state deputy director, and William C. Keating, a state health official.

Tool Box Stolen

Sex Guide Under Fire

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Four students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology face censure, probation or dismissal following the publication of a guide to the sexual prowess of MIT men.

The two women who conducted the survey, the editor of the campus paper "Thursday," and a "Thursday" staff member, went before a university disciplinary committee.

The authors of the article, "Consumer Guide to MIT Men," Roxanne Ritchie and Susan Gilbert, named 36 men and rated their sexual performance on a scale from zero to four stars.

Police Grab Two Suspects In Robbery

Two Los Angeles men who allegedly walked off with $1,500 from a San Juan Capistrano gas station Sunday were captured in Costa Mesa by Irvine police.

Police officer Gary West said he spotted the black and brown Lincoln Continental on the San Diego Freeway and followed it to Newport Boulevard and Mesa Drive.

West said after he stopped the car, Sheriff's deputies arrived and made the burglary arrests. The men were identified as Charles Leon Cooks, 22, of Inglewood, and Victor Lee Allen, 23, of Los Angeles.

Both Sides Mum

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Both sides are reluctant to say why Sandra Andrews is being fired from her $20,000 job as executive director of the San Diego chapter of the National Council on Alcoholism. "When I refused to submit a resignation, I was told to consider myself terminated," Ms. Andrews said.

COVER-UP...

The votes of four justices are needed to grant review of such cases.

Lawyers for the cover-up defendants asked the court for permission to argue that the justices should reverse the convictions because of the news leak. The attorneys said the report tainted the court's deliberations, adversely affecting the rights of their clients.

The court denied that request May 2.

Mitchell and Haldeman were sentenced to 30 months to eight years in prison for conspiracy, obstruction of justice and giving false testimony under oath in what prosecutors said was an attempt to conceal governmental misconduct in the Watergate scandal.

3 Mesa Girls Junior Event Finalists

Three Costa Mesa coeds have been named Junior Achievement finalists following an awards ceremony last weekend in Los Angeles.

Denise Renton, Linda Van Yur and Debbie Beach participated as management trainees during the year as part of the Junior Achievement Business program.

Miss Renton, a 15-year-old Costa Mesa High School student, was named officer of the year for purchasing managers. Miss Van Yur, 15, of Marywood High School in Orange, was quality control manager of the year and 18-year-old Costa Mesa High School senior Debbie Beach was runner-up in the banking executives field.

Mesa Teen Injured in Irvine Crash

A 19-year-old Costa Mesa man suffered cuts and bruises early Sunday when his car ran off the road in Irvine and smashed into a utility pole, a bus stop sign, a bench and no parking sign.

Irvine Police said Kevin Peter Arbuckle, 911 Victoria St., was pinned inside his small car and had to be cut out. He was treated at Tustin Community Hospital and released.

Police said Arbuckle was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving following the 3 a.m. crash on Culver Drive near Ferris Street. Officers said his car was a total wreck.

Top Spender $5 a Vote for Winner

MARY PHILLIPS spent nearly $5 per vote to get elected to the Saddleback Valley Unified School District board, county records show.

That's more than her four closest competitors combined, and the top vote getter said most of the $17,311 came from her own pocketbook.

County Registrar of Voters officials said they did not know if Mrs. Phillips war chest total was a record or not. County education officials also do not keep such records.

Mrs. Phillips, who had planned her campaign for two years, said the money spent on the hustings was worth it.

"I WAS COMMITTED to try to help get a better education for the kids and that's what it took," she said this morning.

She said it has become expensive to run for any public office, adding, "We were fortunate we had the money. We were blessed enough to have it, and we could use it to get what we wanted."

The second highest spender among the 14 candidates seeking two seats was Juneanne DeCasas, who spent $4,521 on her unsuccessful campaign.

PARK...

project as the second step in the plan.

A third phase calls for a new parking lot to cost $10,000 on the site. Work crews should have that lot completed by July 18, Sorsabal said, and park construction should begin by July 25, 25.

Sorsabal said he has been warned that "if everything doesn't fall into line, and on time, we won't get another extension."

The city manager will recommend the council hire another landscape architect at $27,000 and expend another $12,000 for consultants for the revised project.

The new architectural plans should show a project costing no more than $850,000, Sorsabal said, a substantial drop from the $1.3 million figure turned down by the council last week.

That would mean a city expenditure of $300,000 in addition to the federal grant. Sorsabal said that amount was set aside in last year's capital improvement fund.

Gunman Robs Bowling Alley In Costa Mesa

A gunman who waited for early morning bowlers to pay their bills escaped with approximately $275 from a cash register at Kona Lanes in Costa Mesa.

A clerk at the bowling alley, 2699 Harbor Blvd., told police the sandy-haired gunman approached the register at about 5:30 a.m. Sunday, just after several patrons had left the lanes.

The man displayed a fancy silver automatic handgun with white grips and elaborate sights.

Police are seeking a white adult in his mid-20s standing six feet tall and weighing 170 pounds. Witnesses said the man was wearing a brown windbreaker and denim trousers and fled south on foot following the holdup.

Woman Saved From Mishap

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A woman whose car stalled on Santa Fe Railroad tracks in suburban Highland Park was rescued by two police officers just seconds before a freight train demolished her vehicle, authorities said.

A police spokesman said Officers Jerry Rowe and Richard Mercado were on routine patrol Sunday night when they spotted the car with its woman driver slumped behind the steering wheel.

The spokesman said the two officers pulled the woman from the car about 30 seconds before the freight train, moving at 30 miles per hour, smashed into the car and hurled it 50 feet into the air.

The gunmen covered the inside of windows in two rooms with paper, police said. When local South Moleucans tried to talk to them, the terrorists opened a window and fired a few shots, police said.

Shortly after noon, a group of anxious parents tried to rush the school but were held back by police.

Hans Uffing, a spokesman for the Dutch railway system, said the engineer and conductor of the commandeered four-car train reported that about 50 of its 100 passengers escaped after the gunmen hijacked it during the morning rush-hour.

SCOPES' STUDENTS RECALL 'MONKEY TRIAL'

Trial Recalled Scopes Court Facelifted

DAYTON, Tenn. (AP) — The site of the famous Scopes monkey trial is getting a facelift, thanks to preservationists who fought an attempt to replace the historic building with a steel-and-glass courthouse.

IN FACT, A FORMER waterboy at the trial is one of those responsible for making sure the courthouse look just as it did that hot week in July 1925 when Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan argued evolution versus the Bible.

A gallery of reporters — six for The Associated Press alone — and more than 500 spectators hung on every word. A Chicago radio station broadcast proceedings live from the 350-seat courtroom.

"FEELINGS RAN very high," said Giles Ryan, then a 17-year-old student of John Scopes who fetched soft drinks and water for Darrow and Bryan. "The sheriff and the judge were so worried that a riot might break out in the courtroom that they forbid me to bring in Coke bottles for the lawyers."

Ryan, now a retired Navy captain and vice president of the Rhea County Historical Society, remembers Scopes talking about stirring things up in the sleepy southeastern Tennessee town.

"We weren't even to that chapter in 'Hunter's Biology,'" said Ryan. "But he skipped halfway through the book to teach us that chapter and create the episode they needed to create a test case."

The lesson didn't make much of an impression on some students.

"I HONESTLY couldn't tell you whether he taught us evolution that day or not," said Harry J. Shelton, who was in the same class. "I was about as interested in evolution then as I am now."

Shelton was a witness in the trial which led to Scopes' conviction for teaching evolution.

"I wasn't what you'd call a brilliant witness," he said. "Darrow asked me if Scopes' teaching had any effect on my religious beliefs and I said no — I'd never really given it any thought."

"It was the old people who really thought they were attacking the Bible," said Ryan. "Feelings ran quite high around here. Why, my father would almost have joined in a mob to defend the Bible."

N-M School Board Faces Grad Tests

Trustees of the Newport-Mesa Unified School District will find out Tuesday whether they are qualified to graduate from high school.

Dr. Norman Loats, deputy superintendent, is slated to give board members the graduation competency test that he and a committee of citizens, students and staff members are developing.

Use of the test was mandated last year by a new state law which requires each district to identify minimal skills in reading, writing and mathematics that students must master in order to graduate.

The test the committee is working on will be administered to all potential graduates beginning in 1980. No students will receive diplomas without first passing the test.

Loats said the committee members still have "considerable work to do," but will make a progress report and give trustees the test they've got so far at Tuesday's 7:30 p.m. meeting in the Costa Mesa city council chambers.

After giving the test to trustees Tuesday night, Loats said, he will read the correct answers. "Scoring will be optional," he added.

Cyclist Hurt In Mesa Crash

An accident at Newport Boulevard and Mesa Drive in Costa Mesa Sunday morning left a Costa Mesa motorcyclist with bumps and scrapes.

Police said Marvin E. Cobb, Jr., 32, of 2615 Santa Ana Ave., refused transportation to a hospital following the crash at 2:40 a.m. Sunday.

Cobb's motorcycle collided with a car driven by Nancy Anne Cowardin, 29, of Mission Viejo in the northbound lanes of Newport Boulevard.

The woman was uninjured in the crash, police said.

Karen Quinlan Still Defies Science

MORRIS PLAINS, N.J. (AP) — Karen Anne Quinlan, whose death-with-dignity case prompted a landmark court ruling, is still defying medical experts one year after her respirator was unplugged.

Doctors testified before the New Jersey Supreme Court last year that she would die within hours after being removed from the respirator. But her condition has been stable since she was weaned from the life-support equipment last May 23.

Miss Quinlan's father, Joseph, says he believes her condition is "very slowly deteriorating." But he says he cannot detect any changes in her appearance when he visits her bedside daily.

Quinlan and his wife, Julia, recently denied a statement by their family priest that Mrs. Quinlan said her daughter's condition had changed because she was holding her neck a "a little stiffer."

Attending physician, Richard Watson, says anyone bedridden for two years will become stiff, according to a spokesman for Morris View Nursing Home, the county facility for welfare patients where the 23-year-old Miss Quinlan lives.

Quinlan says his daughter is in the same semi-fetal position she has been in since lapsing into a coma April 14, 1975, from a combination of drugs and alcohol. Other sources say her body is contorted, but her face is unchanged. Her dark hair has been clipped short.

"She does have periods when she is more active than others," said nursing home director Fred Swanson. Others say she makes involuntary reflex reactions to touch and sound.

The Quinlans asked doctors to disconnect their daughter's respirator in July 1975 after their priest assured them that Roman Catholic doctrine did not require keeping their daughter alive mechanically.

"I was the last to hold out," Quinlan said at the time. "But after a lot of prayers I became convinced this is what God's will was, and that Karen was being called by him."

As the world watched and the Quinlans waited, the state Supreme Court last March ruled that Miss Quinlan and others in a similar condition had a constitutional right to die based on their right to privacy.

The court said the decision would be accepted by a society whose members would "under similar circumstances exercise such a choice in the same way for themselves or for those closest to them."

The National Broadcasting Company is planning a television movie about the Quinlans' ordeal, with Brian Keith and Jane Wyatt to play the parents. The Quinlans are cooperating with an author writing a book about their experience. The film and the book are due for release this fall, and the Quinlans plan to donate their share of the profits to the Paterson Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church.

Singing at Last For These Heroes

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL

THE POSTMAN may keep his appointed rounds through sleet and snow and dark of night but Odetta Spada represents an army of unsung heroes: the familiar, friendly neighborhood school crossing guard.

Her photograph does not appear with this small tribute suggested by Huntington Beach Police Department School Crossing Guard Supervisor Joe Caporicci.

Brazilian by birth, the white-haired, engaging Mrs. Spada, 52, refused to allow me — in a very nice way — to shoot her picture.

VINSEL

SUCH WOMEN TEND to regard all children as their God-given responsibility 24 hours a day. Holding up a little red Stop sign and walking them across a busy street is just a job that pays.

Odetta Spada would surely do it for nothing if asked.

"She knows all the kids in the neighborhood by name," says Caporicci, who learned of the act Mrs. Spada claims was nothing from other sources who called him.

THE LITTLE GIRL involved might say it was everything when she is old enough to understand and will surely remember Mrs. Spada at high points of life, such as high school graduation and her wedding.

"The morning it happened, there was a heavy rainfall the night before," Caporicci says of the incident during the recent storm.

"We had a report of a kindergartener who hadn't shown up for school," says Caporicci, adding that Mrs. Spada was off duty at busy Newland Street and Norfolk Drive so she joined the search.

CRUISING SURROUNDING housing tract streets, Mrs. Spada spotted a small boy standing by a small storm drain full of rushing runoff from the previous night's storm.

"He was about 3 and he kept saying this name. I thought maybe his puppy had fallen in. I asked him and he said: 'My sister. . . my sister. . .,'" Mrs. Spada explained.

"And there, a little way down, was this little girl clinging to the side with her head barely above water," says Caporicci. "She was about to go under and drown."

"ALL I DID WAS pull her out," says the diminutive Mrs. Spada. "I don't know. Maybe she would have drowned but I just did what anybody would do. It was nothing. . ."

"She's a very modest lady," says Caporicci.

Police say they do not have the little girl's identity because no formal report was taken. They only learned of Mrs. Spada's action third-hand from anonymous sources.

They believe, however, that she pretty much typifies their school crossing guard force, the unsung older citizens who block your way to work in the morning with little red Stop signs.

Countian Held in Shooting

An El Toro Marine who was shot and killed early Sunday after he reportedly quarreled with another man near an Anaheim area bar has been identified by Orange County Sheriff's officers as Harry L. Patterson Jr., 31, who lived at the base.

Sheriff's officers arrested Roy James Berry, 44, of Anaheim on suspicion of murder following the incident in the parking lot of a bar on Katella Avenue.

Berry was arrested by two sheriff's officers who were patrolling in the area of the bar and heard the sounds of gunfire. They said Patterson was dead on arrival at a nearby hospital.

Investigators said Berry told them he was asleep in his carjacker which was parked in a lot adjacent to the bar when Patterson left the tavern and began to rock Berry's vehicle.

They said Berry told them he and Patterson fought after he told the marine to leave the area and that the gun went off during the struggle between the two men.

Cypress Teen Loses Life In Cliff Fall

Ken Olson, 17, of Cypress, was fatally injured Sunday afternoon when he fell from a 75-foot cliff in Black Star Canyon, a coroner's report said.

Orange County Fire Department paramedics who clambered through the rugged canyon in a vain attempt to rescue the stricken youth were unable to revive him.

They did succeed, however, in lifting him to a cleared area where a Marine helicopter from nearby El Toro Marine Air Station carried him to a waiting ambulance.

But the coroner's report said the injured youth was dead on arrival at a nearby hospital.

Officials said the victim was hiking with three teenage companions when he fell from a ledge of what once was a waterfall.

Trio Saved After Boat Burns, Sinks

Three people, including a Huntington Beach man identified as the operator of a 48-foot commercial fishing vessel, were rescued by the Coast Guard Saturday night after the craft burned and sank off Santa Barbara Island.

The Coast Guard identified the trio as Don DeBoe, 64, of Huntington Beach, operator of the vessel owned by the Brothers Fishing Enterprises of San Pedro; Charles Singler, 47, of San Pedro, and Richard Derosett, 24, of Lemon Grove.

The three had abandoned the burning vessel in life jackets after radioing the Coast Guard of their plight. A Coast Guard helicopter located the burning vessel within a half-hour.

The three victims were hoisted aboard the chopper and taken to Torrance Memorial Hospital where they were treated for exposure and released.

HB Youth, 20, Dies in Crash

Huntington Beach resident, Larry Raskin was killed early Sunday when the truck in which he was a passenger overturned near Grants Pass, Ore.

The 20-year-old Raskin was pinned under the truck after the driver lost control on a curve and flipped the vehicle.

The driver, Robert Henry Russell, 21, of Grants Pass, was not hurt.

THIS IS AERIAL VIEW OF WATER FACTORY 21 IN FOUNTAIN VALLEY Orange County Water District Facility is at Ellis Avenue and Ward Street

Recycler Looks Ahead Water Factory Aims at 21st Century Needs

By RAYMOND ESTRADA JR.

The Orange County Water District's latest facility to re-use treated sewage water won't solve California's drought-heightened water problems.

But technology like the new reverse osmosis demineralizing facility at Water Factory 21 in Fountain Valley is needed to prevent Southern California from drying up in the 21st Century, according to district president Preston K. Allen.

The new $3 million demineralizer provides five million gallons of reclaimed waste water that are pumped into the ground each day.

Allen said reclamation facilities at Water Factory 21 like the demineralizer are forerunners of units which could end the need for importing water over long distances in the future.

In the not too distant future, Southern California will no longer have the luxury of depending upon water that is imported from a distant watershed, Allen said.

Most of Southern California's water supply normally is imported from the north by way of the State Water Project or from the Colorado River Aqueduct. Supplies to Orange County are being curtailed because of the drought.

In the future Southern California also will no longer have the luxury of disposing into the ocean more than half its total water supply, Allen added, noting that reclaimed water will be a must in the future.

Water now reclaimed through Water Factory 21 is pumped into the ground each day. This process builds a hydrologic barrier to prevent the intrusion of sea water into Orange County's underground basins.

Water Factory 21 also produces water which meets all U.S. public health drinking standards.

But for now Orange County Water District officials say, they are allowed only to inject the reclaimed water in the underground storage basin.

UFO Stops Clock During Chile Patrol

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — It was 4:15 a.m. in Chile's far north desert country. Six members of an army patrol were bedded down around a campfire while two men stood guard. Suddenly, two bright objects began descending from the sky.

One dropped into the Andes foothills out of direct sight, but the men in the patrol, now fully awake, could see the glow of its light.

The second, they said, lowered almost to the ground about 500 yards away from the camp. The men said it shone with a violet light with two points of intense red.

Cpl. Armando Valdes, the patrol leader, ordered the soldiers to take up their weapons. Then he set out alone to investigate and, according to the men, simply vanished. Fifteen minutes later, they said, he reappeared, tried to speak and passed out.

They said he regained consciousness about 7 a.m. but that his watch showed only 4:30, the approximate time he reappeared. They also said the date on the watch had been advanced five days, and that Valdes now had about a week's growth of beard.

According to his comrades, when Valdes was beginning to regain consciousness he said: "You do not know who we are, nor where we come from. But I tell you that we will soon return."

This purported sighting occurred April 25, and since the soldiers' tale was publicized dozens of other unidentified flying objects have been reported up and down the 2,700-mile length of Chile.

Valdes says he does not recall anything that happened during the 15 minutes he was missing. Some skeptics said the soldiers may have seen a desert mirage.

Spray Can Studier Wins Academy Nod

Dr. F. Sherwood Rowland, UC Irvine chemistry professor noted for his research into the dangers of fluorocarbons, has been elected to membership in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Rowland was among nine UC faculty members elected to the prestigious academy earlier this month. There are 2,300 nationwide members, including 222 from UC.

The academy is a national honorary society of mathematicians, physical and biological scientists, members of the legal profession, social scientists, artists and humanists.

Rowland, named a Gugenheim Fellow in 1962, has been at UCI since 1964. He served as chairman of the chemistry department from 1964 until 1970.

His latest research on the dangers of fluorocarbons used in aerosol sprays, such as deodorants and hair sprays, has brought him the most fame.

It was his research, along with that of colleague Mario Molina, that triggered the proposed bans on aerosol sprays.

Rowland has done research in numerous fields, including the chemical effects of nuclear transformations, chemical kinetics, radiation chemistry, tracer reactions and isotopes applied to geochemistry.

QUIZ WHIZ: For most of the young people in our region, the time has come to start burning the midnight oil and sweating over final examinations. I have joined the group.

Don't get me wrong. I don't have to take any final exams this year. But I have to give one. Tonight's the night, as a matter of fact.

Through circumstances that even today remain somewhat mysterious to me, I happen to teach this class in newswriting up at the university in Long Beach. And when you teach a class, you are expected to give some kind of final test.

Students seem to react in different ways to this final evaluation of their learning process. Some chew on pencil stubs a lot. Some get the jitters.

OTHERS ARRIVE for the final in a very loose condition. They nod off while you are giving the test instructions.

Students also seem to allocate their time in great variance while taking final exams. Maybe you give them what you figure will be a two-hour test. Some students charge into it like they have only 50 minutes to live. They rattle through the pages like the building was on fire and turn the thing in after 30 minutes.

OTHERS PONDER. They mull page titles. They investigate the inside works of their ballpoint pens. They study each question like it had seven tricks in it.

At the end of the test period, you have to wrench the papers from their closed-fist, white-knuckled grasp.

Somestimes back, I learned that as the instructor, you do not attempt to give a farewell speech on the night you administer the final examination.

Those students do not want to hear what a wonderful class they have been. They do not care to know how much pleasure it gave you to spend three hours with them every Monday night.

What they want is to get the final exam over with and get the devil out of there.

IN THE END, you have to really wonder what the value of a final examination is after all.

It was thus with some interest that over the weekend I heard one Dr. Roy H. Forbes, who is director of our National Assessment of Educational Progress. You might say he is the head U.S. tester for our young people.

Dr. Forbes delivered a paper titled, "Americans — The Great Score Keepers." He noted that like it or not, Americans are test-takers.

"We often start taking tests before we enter the first grade and we continue to take tests throughout life. We take tests to apply for a driver's license. We most often take a test to get our first job."

He noted, "Someone once said, 'Americans are a nation of scorekeepers. They want to know just exactly how they are doing in everything from sexual performance to their children's third-year reading achievements.'"

SO WE MUST do it. We are compelled to do it. We can't continue to inhale and exhale without test results.

So I'll do it too. All right, class, turn to the first page.

Begin Heart Attack Fear Quelled

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Menachem Begin, expected to become Israel's next prime minister, was admitted to a hospital cardiac section early today for observation. But his doctor said Begin had not suffered a heart attack.

Begin, 63, suffered a heart attack in late March and was hospitalized for three weeks. He was released April 13 and was active in the Likud bloc's final drive to victory at the polls last Tuesday.

"There is not any evidence of a heart attack," Dr. Shlomo Laniado, head of Ichilov hospital's cardiac wing, told reporters nine hours after Begin was admitted.

The director of the hospital,

Dr. Yerachmiel Soloveichik, said Begin's condition was good.

BEGIN'S DAUGHTER, Asiya, spent a few minutes with her father and told reporters, "thank God, he's feeling excellent."

"Begin now feels okay," Dr. Laniado said. "But it is too early to decide if there are any significant changes in his condition."

Laniado told The Associated Press he would keep Begin under observation and recommended he receive no visitors and drop all thoughts of work for a few days.

THE DOCTOR SAID Begin reported feeling unwell about midnight after a busy day. "So we thought we had better admit him to see if there was anything wrong," Laniado said.

The doctor said Begin would remain in hospital for two or three days under observation.

After his election victory, Begin told reporters he felt fine and planned to "work night and day, and I pray that God gives me the strength."

LANIADO SAID Begin was released in good condition after his last heart attack, which he said "was not severe."

Begin appeared thin and weakened in the last days of the campaign but maintained a driving pace, enduring a lot of excitement in the past week.

He was up most of the night watching election results early Wednesday. Thursday he traveled to the West Bank of the Jordan River for an emotional gathering with Jewish settlers at Camp Kaddum. He was mobbed at the settlement by journalists asking clarification of his statements that the West Bank land seized in the 1967 Middle East war should remain under Israeli sovereignty.

One Held In Death Of Doctor

MURRAY, Utah (AP) — A Colorado woman has been arrested in Carrollton, Tex., on a warrant charging her with criminal conspiracy in the shooting death of polygamist leader Dr. Ron C. Allred.

The arrest of Nancy L. Chynoweth, 28, was announced Sunday. She was held in the Dallas County Jail in lieu of $150,000 bail.

POLICE CHIEF Calvin G. Gillen declined to give details of the arrest, including whether Mrs. Chynoweth was a member of a polygamist group and whether there were other suspects.

Police said last week they were questioning members of the Church of the Lamb of God and that they were looking for its leader, Ervil LeBaron.

Salt Lake City television station KUTV quoted a source as saying Mrs. Chynoweth is one of four wives of Victor Chynoweth and described him as a leader of the Church of the Lamb of God, a polygamist group in the Denver area.

ALLRED, A naturopathic physician, was shot six times by two women, who entered his office here the afternoon of May 10. Police said several persons witnessed the killing.

Allred was an excommunicated Mormon whose followers numbered several thousand in Utah and other western states. He had not been publicly recognized as a religious leader before his May 14 funeral.

Allred had at least six wives — police sources say the number is 11 — and more than 40 children. He had several homes in the area.

GILLEN WOULD only say that Mrs. Chynoweth "was arrested by Murray Detective Gary Pedersen and Salt Lake County investigator Richard Forbes, assisted by Carrollton City Police, Texas Rangers, Texas Public Safety and Dallas City police."

Mrs. Chynoweth's bail was set on a warrant signed Saturday by Sgt. Paul W. Forbes before City Court Judge L. H. Griffiths.

Allred's group has not claimed any name or faith separate from Mormonism and is believed to be one of the nation's largest polygamist groups.

POLICE SAID there had never been any violence in connection with Allred's group.

Top Aides to Open Korea Troop Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — After sacking an Army major general for questioning his Korea policy, President Carter has sent two top aides to Seoul for talks on his controversial troop withdrawal plan.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. George Brown, and the State Department's top political officer, Philip C. Habib, left Andrews Air Force Base near here this morning on a flight to the Korean capital to begin intensive consultations.

There are 33,000 ground troops in South Korea, about the same as the number of Americans who died in the Korean war a quarter-century ago. Carter's plan is to withdraw ground troops over four to five years. But it is understood Habib and Brown will inform the Koreans about the withdrawal strategy for only the first two or three years.

Young Backs Stand

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young, who ended a two-day visit to South Africa with a call for a black boycott, defended the non-violent approach to solving southern Africa's racial problems before a sometimes hostile audience of 1,500 students.

He arrived from Johannesburg Sunday and went straight to the University of Zambia to address nearly the entire student body. "Coming to free Zambia is a breather after our trip to South Africa," Young said.

Dues Backed In Courtroom

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public employees who choose not to join a union that bargains for them may be required to support that union financially, the United States Supreme Court ruled today.

By a unanimous vote, the justices ruled that so-called agency shops are just as valid for public employees as for workers in the private sector. An agency shop is a union set-up in which all employees benefiting from the union's collective bargaining are required to pay dues, even if they don't join the union.

However, the court said a non-union employee who is forced to pay dues can require that his or her dues not be used to advance political or other causes undertaken by the union with which the employee does not agree.

But dues collected from non-union workers can be used to help finance activities such as contract administration and grievance procedures, the court said.

Puns Picket Bryant Sings at Fruit Center

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — About 450 gay rights supporters picketed with pun-scratched signs while singer Anita Bryant, an opponent of gay rights legislation, gave a concert to dedicate a new fruit warehouse.

The concert, a promotional stunt to open the Minneapolis Fruit and Produce Center Saturday, was moved indoors when rain drenched the outdoors stage and eventually dispersed the protesters.

GAY RIGHTS proponents proclaimed the event "National Fruit Day" and carried signs lettered with the slogan, "Squeeze a fruit for Anita," using the word "fruit" as a slang term for homosexual.

Other signs, referring to an advertising slogan Miss Bryant uses in commercials for the Florida Citrus Association, suggested that "A day without human rights is a day without sunshine."

Miss Bryant, a former Miss America pageant runner-up and paid promoter of Florida orange juice, is campaigning in Florida for the repeal of a Dade County (Miami) ordinance that bans discrimination against homosexuals.

SHE SAID SHE was in Minnesota solely as an entertainer, and "not to use the performance for a platform."

But a spokesman for a coalition of groups supporting gay rights legislation disagreed. "She is building a national movement in this country and we are not going to let her," said Ann Richtman of the Lesbian-Feminist Organizing Committee.

Promising a campaign of continued ridicule, the protesters said they opposed Miss Bryant's use of "false patriotism, distorted religious argument, irresponsible emotionalism and the unethical use of Vitamin C."

U.S. Summary

A front reaching from Minnesota to Michigan through the mid-Mississippi Valley to the southern plains continued to produce thunderstorms over a wide area today. The storms were accompanied by strong winds, hail and heavy rain. Winds gusting to 70 miles per hour in Mansfield, Ohio, on Sunday. Trees were blown down in Sullivan, Ohio, and in St. Joseph, Mo. Hailstones up to two and a half inches in diameter fell in Belton, Tex., and a number of cities in Texas and Kansas were pelted with large hailstones. Tornadoes died down at Higgins and Laredo, Tex., during the evening. Another one early today struck Blue Grove, Tex. The heaviest rainfall in the Midwest was over south central Kansas, where the slow-moving thunderstorms dumped two to three inches on the upper reaches of the Kansas River. The river was expected to go above flood stage today. Strong thunderstorms also were reported over northeast and east central Kansas. Other slow-moving thunderstorms brought the heaviest rainfall in the nation to the Laredo and Eagle Pass areas of south Texas.

California

The skies will be cloudy over most sections of Southern California through Tuesday, with some chance of slight showers. Winds gusting at 40 miles per hour at times are expected to rake desert areas. The National Weather Service said the high in downtown Los Angeles, which reached 71 Sunday, will be in the upper 60s Tuesday.

Elsewhere, highs will be in the 60s along the coast and in inland valleys, in the 50s and low 60s in the mountains and in the 70s and 80s in the deserts.

Coastal Weather

Drenching Forecast

Drought End Seen in Long Outlook

BERKELEY (AP) — If a new long-range weather forecasting method under study at the University of California holds water, abundant rains should drench drought plagued Northern California next year.

The study compares weather patterns in Northern California with weather patterns in a section of western Mexico reaching from Mazatlan to Salina Cruz.

By this reckoning, rainfall during the next rainy season—Nov. 1, 1977, through April 30, 1978—will total 160 percent of normal, said climatologist Orman Granger.

Then, for the next two years, Granger's figures show, rainfall will be about normal.

GRANGER SAID THE research shows that weather patterns here follow patterns in the Mexican area by seven years.

Granger claims the system, when checked against past experience, boasts an accuracy rating of 95 percent. But he is quick to add that next year could be one of the "five times in 100 we are wrong."

The system compares weather patterns in similar areas. The latest research, to be published in the American Monthly Weather Review, matches rainfall figures for most of California against those for western Mexico.

THE STUDY WAS triggered by research comparing a North African drought area with one near the Mediterranean.

Granger's thesis was based on the supposition that the earth's atmospheric system operates as a whole, and therefore there must be some long-range connections.

"We looked for parallels elsewhere and we found a strong relationship between what was happening in western Mexico and what is happening in California," he said. "But there was a time lag that lets us foreshadow what's going to happen."

LONG-RANGE FORECASTING is still a matter of hit and miss, and Granger insists his technique is "foreshadowing," not "predicting" weather.

The National Weather Service now issues long-range forecasts for as far ahead as three months, but their success record is spotty.

Bill Arvola, meteorologist for the state Department of Water Resources, said Granger's work is "very interesting, and something that should be pursued."

If Granger is right, rainfall more than one and a half times the normal next year would ease the state's water problems, but not end them. Officials say another year or perhaps two of normal precipitation would be needed to bring the lakes, groundwater and reservoirs back to capacity.

From State Surplus

Double Tax Relief Slated

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edroun Brown Jr. says he's ready to nearly double his $480-million property tax relief plan and can finance it without new taxes from a budget surplus that may top $2.4 billion.

The Democratic governor gave a preview of his plans in an interview Sunday.

Brown said revised estimates of the budget surplus are at least $600 million higher than predicted in January.

That will allow him to increase his proposed renter and homeowner tax relief plan to about $850 million, Brown added.

"The revenues are higher and the expenditures are less. The economic climate in this state is good — better than the national average," Brown said.

He said the biggest revenue increase is in the sales tax, but that business and income tax revenues are also up.

He said the surplus in the state's general fund, to be announced later today, would be "around $1.5 billion" by this coming June 30, and about $2.4 billion by June 1978.

He added that none of those figures includes California's $277 million in federal revenue sharing funds. When that money is added, the surplus at the end of June 1978 would be around $2.7 billion — double the highest surplus figure of former Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration.

Man Held In Killing of Fresno Girl, 17 Sentence Satisfied

FRESNO (AP) — A 31-year-old Fresno man faces murder charges today in the strangulation-rape of a 17-year-old newspaper girl, sheriff's deputies said.

Municipal Court arraignment was scheduled for David McGown, who was booked Saturday for investigation of murder, deputies said.

The body of Janet Herstein, an 11th grade student, was found near Mendota Dam last Wednesday. Lt. Ken Hogue of the sheriff's department said one of the customers on her newspaper route was McGown, who lived a few blocks from her home.

Hunter Slain

ACTON (AP) — An Altadena hunter was shot fatally in the back of the head when his companion's shotgun discharged accidentally while they were walking single file in the Aliso Canyon area, authorities said.

The victim, Jack Benza, 24, died Sunday night in Antelope Valley County Hospital.

Authorities said Benza was shot when his hunting companion, David

Breece, 26, of Pasadena, was startled by a snake and jumped, pulling the trigger of his 12-gauge shotgun accidentally.

Soldier Killed

SAN DIEGO (AP) — An Army medical technician attached to a Texas reserve unit was killed when a falling rock struck her on the head during a training exercise here, an Army spokesman said.

The victim was identified as Spec. 5 Rebecca J. Ballard, 27, of Burbank.

The spokesman said Miss Ballard's unit was training with the San Diego-based 129th Combat Support Hospital Sunday when the accident occurred.

Wife Ads By Owens Halted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Country music singer Buck Owens must stop placing advertisements in newspapers asking his new wife to return to him, a Superior Court commissioner has ruled.

Jana Jae, 33, won a temporary restraining order against Owens, 47. She also filed a petition to annul their marriage, which began May 2 and got off to a shaky start when Owens fell off a horse and left her two days later.

Since then, Owens said he has changed his mind and wants her to return, but she has turned him down. The singer placed an advertisement in a Los Angeles newspaper saying, "Jana Jae Owens I Need You, Matt and Katy! Buck." Matt and Katy are her children by an earlier marriage.

Miss Jae, a fiddler in Owens' band, said his actions since the wedding "are holding me up to ridicule and scorn by implying that I am a cruel, unfeeling and heartless person."

Miss Jae's attorney said she "has made it clear she has no desire to be a fiddler on or under Buck Owens' roof anymore."

State Telephone Book Approved

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's new state telephone book is off the presses, now that the attorney general has concluded it doesn't violate the state constitution.

The book's publication was delayed more than a month to get a legal opinion on the cover design selected by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

It features a two-color satellite photograph of the earth and a quotation from Genesis 1:2,3.

"AND THE SPIRIT of God moved upon the face of the waters."

"And God said: Let there be light; and there was light."

Brown, a Democrat, asked Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, a Republican who plans to run against him next year for governor, to clear the Biblical quotation.

Younger, who by law is Brown's attorney, replied, in part:

"OUR CONCLUSION is that the competing considerations make the issue a very close one and the answer cannot be predicted with great certainty," Younger said.

5 Schools Shut in SF

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Despite impassioned pleas by students and parents, the Board of Education has voted to close five public schools.

Board member Billy Maher, in urging his colleagues to adopt the resolution, said: "We run half empty buildings. I want to see money in children and programs, not in half empty buildings."

Well Running Dry

Some Orange County water agencies succeeded in meeting the Metropolitan Water District's order for a 10 percent cutback in water use last month.

But penalty fees are in store for those that failed to meet the new allocation ceiling—and consumers can be fairly sure a portion of those penalties eventually will filter down to their bills if excessive consumption continues.

The Environmental Management Agency told county supervisors last week that reservoirs are slowly going dry. And since most of south county depends on imported water, lacking resources for pumping groundwater, there's no relief in sight.

The supervisors responded by imposing an immediate 10 percent cutback on water used to irrigate county parks and landscaping. The next step almost certainly will be an ordinance prohibiting such wasteful water uses as hosing sidewalks and driveways and excessive lawn watering.

The wise householder will start heading off penalties and possible fines right now by getting the water conservation habit firmly established in all daily routines.

The alternative will have to be even more severe restrictions in water use. It's already too late to hope for rain.

Awareness Test

The first major federal law protecting the civil rights of handicapped persons has been passed by Congress.

Its impact will be felt not only by the country's 35 million handicapped citizens—blind, deaf, crippled or mentally retarded—but by those more fortunate who share the nation's public buildings, schools, housing and recreational facilities.

The law provides that all recipients of federal funds must henceforth provide barrier-free facilities, readily accessible to the handicapped, along with programs, activities, education and jobs on an equal basis with the non-handicapped.

In many areas steps already have been taken to remove physical barriers to persons confined to wheelchairs. The new law will greatly expand this effort.

It has by now been established that, given the right assistance and opportunities, most of America's handicapped citizens can lead productive lives for themselves and their communities.

That it is not always easy was learned first-hand last week by a group of Orange County officials—three supervisors and three mayors—who accepted a challenge to navigate wheelchairs through an "obstacle course" at the county's Rehabilitation Institute.

They found out about high curbs, narrow doors, steep ramps, difficult parking and many of the other hazards that confront the handicapped.

It was more than a stunt. Their new awareness will help identify the obstacles that now must be removed.

Practical Move

A state-supported job training program approved by Orange County supervisors last week will help provide new careers for 27 local residents now supported by welfare payments.

The $214,242 state Work Incentive-Career Opportunities Development Program will pay the 27 workers' salaries during a six- to 12-month training period. After that, the county departments training them will give permanent jobs to all workers who perform satisfactorily.

Twenty-five of the new posts will be within the county Department of Social Services, the county agency which handles welfare payments and has established the program. Two other jobs will be in the county Assessor's Department.

The program sounds like a good way to reduce welfare caseloads by training recipients for gainful jobs at no cost to local government. Supervisors should be encouraged to expand it to other county departments where possible. They should also make certain the positions used in the program are ones that are necessary, however, and should avoid simply creating new jobs just because the state training money is available.

The Diplomatic Scene

Carter Appointments Fall Short of Pledge

WASHINGTON — During his election campaign, Jimmy Carter denounced "fat, bloated, ignorant, rich" American ambassadors who had been chosen because they bankrolled presidential candidates. And he promised that his appointments would be made on a "strict basis of merit."

But judging from his selections until now, it seems to me that Carter is falling short of his pledge. While his diplomatic list contains some first-rate names, it also includes a number of mediocrities.

The prospect, therefore, is that his envoys overseas are not going to be substantially better as a group than those who served previous administrations. So Carter may have, once again, raised expectations that he cannot fulfill.

THE GENERAL decline in the status of diplomats is probably inevitable, given the development of rapid communications.

An ambassador in London or Bonn becomes superfluous when the President can lift up the telephone and chat directly with the British or German leaders.

He loses whatever shreds of

prestige he has when the Secretary of State flies into his capital to conduct business behind his back, as frequently happened on Henry Kissinger's lightning trips to Moscow and Peking.

IN MANY AREAS then, diplomats have been reduced to minor functionaries. Or as a U.S. embassy man in Israel put it not long ago: "We reserve hotel rooms, move baggage and make other arrangements for high-level visitors. We are essentially a service organization. Any resemblance to diplomacy is merely coincidental."

Ambassadors can be significant in certain places, however.

In Asia, Africa and Latin America, for example, they not only set a tone that sways local attitudes toward the United States, but their policy recommendations can carry weight. John Kenneth Galbraith proved this when he was John Kennedy's envoy in India.

A diplomatic mission also can perform a vital role in shaping strategy at a particular moment in a particular situation. Frank Carlucci, the U.S. representative in Lisbon, contributed considerably to the sensible American approach to Portugal during its recent upheavals.

THE NOMINATION of ambassadors, consequently, is a serious matter. To some extent, the smaller the country involved the more serious is the choice of a competent figure.

Consistent with his taste for innovation, Carter introduced a new process for picking envoys. He created a panel of 20 members to review candidates, and in line with his populist style, the board featured women and blacks along with Averell Harriman, Dean Rusk and other dignitaries.

But the best that can be said for the panel, in my opinion, is that it has prevented the appointment of outright dunces like Perle Mesta, who got lost somewhere in Europe while en route to her assignment as President Truman's envoy to Luxembourg, and Maxwell Gluck, who could not identify the prime minister of Ceylon, where he was being sent as President Eisenhower's ambassador.

THE REVIEW board failed to screen out obvious political payoffs even though Carter vowed last year that he would use government positions as a "dumping ground" for loyal partisans in quest of work.

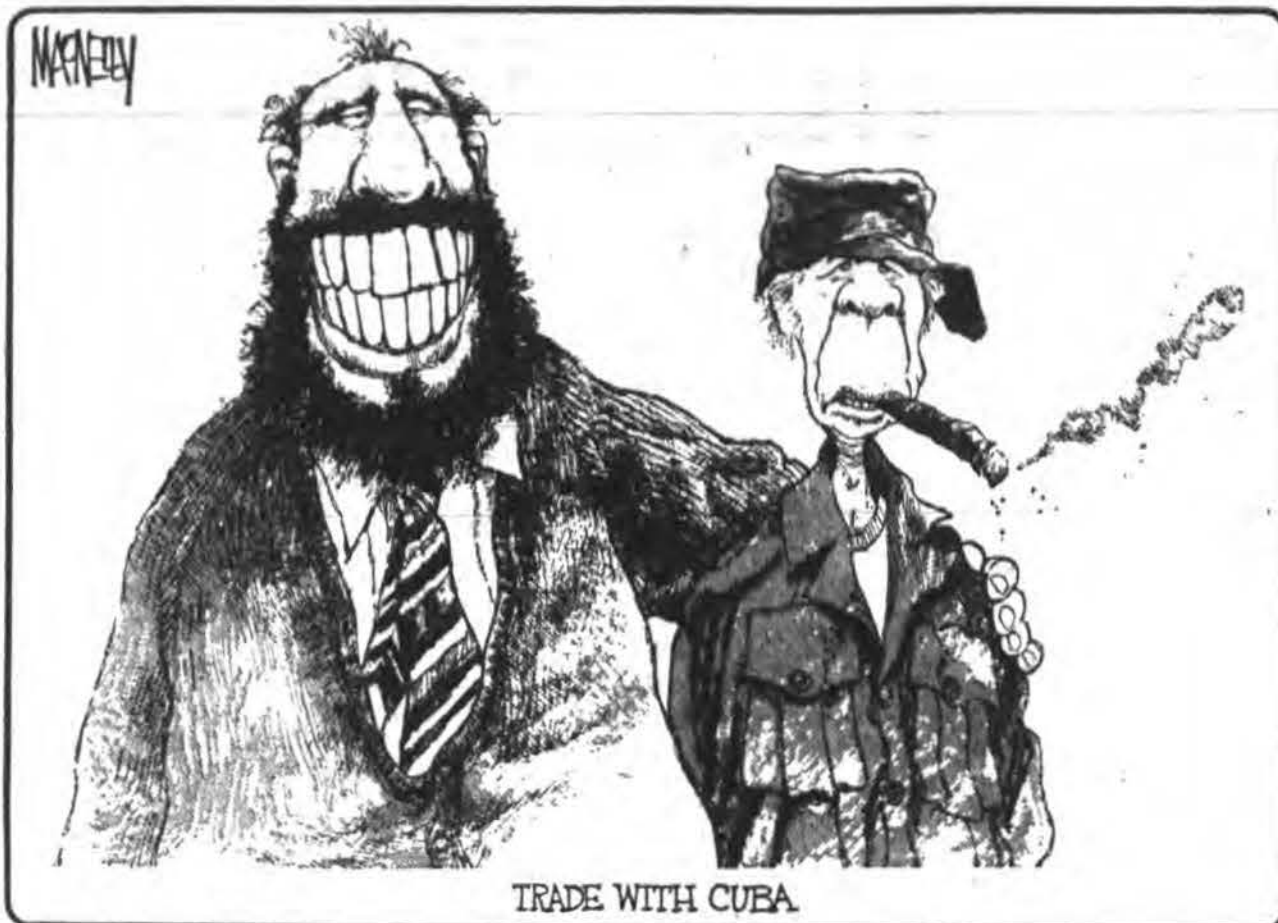

Accordingly, Atlanta publisher Anne Cox Chambers is going to Belgium as ambassador and Atlanta lawyer Philip Alston has been named envoy to Australia, while Gale McGee, the former Democratic senator from Wyoming, has been made representative to the Organization of American States.

Moreover, the panel was not enfranchised to express itself on the qualifications of State Department professionals. As a result, it was unable to stop the appointment to Iran of William Sullivan, who played an unsavory part in the illegal bombing of Cambodia during the Nixon administration.

I suppose it is too much to hope in this day and age, with power so centralized and government so computerized, that men of the calibre of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson can be attracted to ambassadorships.

On the other hand, a good deal of progress has been made since the middle of the 19th century, when plush posts abroad were handed out to political party hacks as part of the spoils system.

But Carter contended that he would strive for "the best." The evidence suggests that, in the realm of diplomatic appointments at least, he has not lived up to that superlative.

TRADE WITH CUBA

The Viet Aid 'Promise'

NICK THIMMESCH

WASHINGTON — There is much drum-beating here and in Hanoi about how that ogre, Richard M. Nixon, promised the North Vietnamese Communist government some $3 billion in postwar aid, and that the United States has reneged on the agreement.

Now that the Carter Administration is cozying up to Hanoi, the Communist regime is demanding that the United States keep its word on aid.

We're fortunate that Henry A. Kissinger got his backbone and mind together, stood up and put this so-called promise in correct context.

The story being prattled about here, in one of those periodic fits of masochism, is that Nixon-Kissinger made the pledge, then backed off because Hanoi wouldn't help stop the war in Cambodia. This American treachery, the way the soft-headed describe it, caused the war in Vietnam to worsen and eventually led to the collapse of South Vietnam.

So when Kissinger was challenged at a public gathering here about the Nixon "pledge" letter, he answered, "...it was pointed out in writing to the North Vietnamese at the time that (the possibility of American aid)...would have to follow the American constitutional processes. In other words, they would have to be voted by Congress. It was pointed out repeatedly that these were in the context of the operation of the Paris agreement."

BOILED DOWN, this meant that the Nixon administration would consider spending up to $3 billion on the rehabilitation of all of Vietnam, providing the U.S. Congress voted for such aid and the communist regime lived up to the Paris peace agreement of January, 1973, and committed no more aggression.

"It was always in the context of the American constitutional processes and maintenance of the agreement," Kissinger emphasized.

There was a commission in Paris of Americans and North Vietnamese studying how the details of economic rehabilitation might work out, Kissinger explained, "but it became increasingly apparent that practically every provision of the (Paris peace) agreement was being violated by the North Vietnamese, and therefore the economic commission was abandoned."

In fact, the violations by the Communists of the peace agreement were so gross that Nixon-Kissinger seriously considered a resumption of bombing North Vietnam in March and April of 1973.

Then Watergate began to bubble, and the Nixon Administration's ability to work its will in foreign policy was steadily weakened. Melvin Laird, a special counselor to the White House, brokered the legislation of August, 1973, which cut off the Administration's ability to bomb in Southeast Asia.

THROUGH 1973 and 1974, the North Vietnamese stepped up their military attacks, resupplied themselves with generous aid from the Soviet Union and took advantage of the Nixon Administration's scandal-ridden crisis at home. By the time President Ford got a hold on the White House, it was too late. Congress was steadily cutting aid to South Vietnam and then came the collapse.

Even this great victory for Hanoi didn't satisfy the Communist regime. It continued to stonewall in the matter of the American missing-in-action list, refused to let the next-of-kin back here know if their loved ones were dead or alive. Even nations which opposed us on the Vietnamese war accused Hanoi of cruelty for its actions on MIA's.

Gather Hanoi's record together, look at it and then it's understandable why the Ford Administration also refused to recognize that Communist regime or allow it to enter the United Nations. Now the Carter Administration, through its Assistant Secretary for East Asian and Pacific Affairs Richard Holbrooke, is working to give Hanoi what it wants, the reparations money excepted. At this point, the Carter Administration won't give aid to Hanoi.

KISSINGER says he would "violently object to basing it on any implied American commitment growing out of the (1973) agreement which the North Vietnamese have brutally violated."

He did allow that at some future time, if it served American interests, the subject of U.S. aid to Communist Vietnam would warrant discussion. But then Kissinger, employing his useful sense of humor, remarked:

"I would have to say that today, with many claims on American resources, I would put those on Vietnam in alphabetical order."

Religious Renaissance

PAUL HARVEY

The professional football players you see on TV close-ups play rough and appear fierce.

Each season a few make noisy news with some intemperate or violent misbehavior off the playing field.

Now, less noisy but more significant is the growing number of athletes, amateur and professional, who are identifying themselves with such organizations as the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the Professional Athletes Outreach.

The contagion of the religious experience is traceable as the Old Testament begats.

Among the Green Bay Packers Bart Starr begat Carol Dale, Carol Dale begat Mike McCoy — and soon.

There is now a player group which meets regularly for prayer and Bible study in each of the major league football teams.

Before every game, at home and on the road, an inspirational speaker is invited to lead a pregame worship service.

FOLLOWING Super Bowl XI in Pasadena last year, the huge middle guard Dave Rowe of the Oakland Raiders told a nationwide TV audience, "This is a great moment for me, but I have so many greater blessings for which to be thankful to the

Asked by the TV reporter to identify those blessings, Rowe quietly headed the list with, "A personal relationship with Jesus Christ."

His Raider Teammate, George Buehler, told the same NBC reporter that having committed himself to Christ was "a far greater personal victory."

And on the losing side — in the Viking locker room Amos Martin — after his third Super Bowl defeat — said, "The human side of me does not want to accept what's happened. But I have turned everything over to the Lord and, win or lose, I can accept His will."

The player group with which he regularly shares prayer includes Vikings Jeff Siemon and Robert Miller and Wes Hamilton.

SIMILARLY, on the professional golf tour, a prayer group of players meets each week. It includes such longtime front-runners as Gary Player. It includes such other top money winners as Rik Massengale, Bob Gilder, Kermit Zarley, Lynn Litt, Wally Armstrong, Howard Twitty and Larry Nelson.

And with a committed Christian in the White House, observers are entitled to wonder about this conspicuous upthrust of evangelical religion. Is it a fad or a genuine religious renaissance?

Evidence: Nationally, book sales increased last year 7.8 percent; religious book sales increased 18.4 percent.

Nationally, church membership, after being in decline for two decades, increased a fraction last year.

George Gallup's pollsters find that one person in three now says that he or she has been "born again."

And Chairman Richard Wiley of the Federal Communications Commission says, "The United States is experiencing a renaissance of morality and religion; a real revival is beginning to permeate our society."

Emotion and Cancer

YOU CAN FIGHT FOR YOUR LIFE: Emotional Factors in the Causation of Cancer. By Lawrence LeShan. Evans. 204 Pages. $7.95.

The medical profession long has separated mind and body in the causation and treatment of disease. Increasingly, though, awareness is growing that mind and body form an entity, that the emotions affect how the body behaves and physical conditions influence the emotions.

The psychosomatic aspects of ulcers, headache, asthma and a number of other diseases have become better known in recent years.

In "You Can Fight For Your Life," Dr. Lawrence LeShan, a psychologist, discusses how the emotions may play a role in the development of cancer, a role which many health professionals might deny. He reports his own research in this area and describes the psychotherapy he uses in trying to help patients overcome cancer, which he sometimes seems to do successfully.

HIS is a portion of research on this subject dating back centuries. It is known that psychological factors can alter the body's hormonal balance. Might this, then, not create the physical conditions in which cancer could develop?

Research by LeShan and others has shown that cancer often develops in persons who feel despairing and lonely, hopeless and helpless; who are unable to express their anger; who feel they do not amount to much in life and that there is no reason anybody should love them. They are rigid, isolated, self-contained, "bottled up."

LeShan reports on a number of cancer patients who have come to him for psychotherapy and how it has helped some of them conquer the disease.

But he points out that, "We are a long way from solving the mysteries of cancer, in all its complexities." He has, though, once again brought a neglected aspect of this disease to public attention.

Budget Cutters Eyed

Loritz Offers Transit District Alternatives

By GARY GRANVILLE

Orange County Transit District (OCTD) General Manager Ed Loritz has offered the district director's demand that he slice at least 10 percent from his proposed spending package.

Cornerstone of each of the three spending reduction plans is a delay in starting three new routes next May.

The planned startup would require hiring driving trainees in fiscal year 1977-78. Now, Loritz proposes setting the three routes' start-up date back to September, alleviating the need to hire the additional driver-trainees in the coming fiscal year.

That move would slice $2 million off OCTD's proposed $29.9 million operating budget.

LORITZ ALSO HAS SUGGESTED reducing costs in planning, engineering, marketing and employee relations. The most substantial of those cuts would be in employee relations, $412,018.

Another cut suggested by the general manager was $185,353 in his own budget.

THOSE MAJOR FIGURES IN MARKETING, employee relations and the general manager's budgets reflect a sharp cut in traveling expenses.

Along with Loritz, the heavy traveling spending drew fire from the directors two weeks ago when they ordered an across-the-board 10 percent slash.

Transit Board OKs Building

Final plans for the Orange County Transit District's (OCTD) $2.6 million administration building have won the unanimous approval of district directors.

The building is to be located at 11222 Acacia Parkway, Garden Grove, on slightly less than an acre of land donated by Garden Grove city officials.

The three-story, 44,000-square-foot building is expected to be under construction by mid-summer and completed in July 1978.

Of the total cost, OCTD will pay $540,000, with located at 11222 Acacia

Let Us Help

....A father discovers his adolescent daughter is experimenting with drugs. He doesn't know what to do.
....A lonely wife sobs into a pillow. Her marriage is breaking up. Her elderly parents have become a burden. She can't cope.
....A middle-aged man with a good job shakes uncontrollably as he reaches for a bottle of booze. He tried to stop drinking, but failed.

These scenes are common everyday experiences. All of us have problems and we search for their solutions. Sometimes we succeed. Other times we can't. Then we need professional help. Where to find this help can become a problem. PROBLEM TALK SHOP helps people find answers to their problems.

PROBLEM TALK SHOPS are free counseling and referral services located in Orange County.

PROBLEM TALK SHOPS are here to offer you help through counseling and referral. There is no charge for our service to you. We refer to both public and private agencies in Orange County. Facilities to care for individuals are available on a 24-hour basis. That means we can help you whenever you need help. Appointments are not necessary. If you prefer to make an appointment, day and evening hours are available. (Office hours: 8:30 a.m. — 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. In extreme emergencies, a counselor can be reached after 5:00 p.m., and on weekends.)

Let Us Help With:

Crisis Intervention — When a problem is so big or complex that you are unable to see alternatives, talking with a professional may help.

Marital Discord — A counselor helps establish a starting point and guidance for husband and wife.

Adolescent Problems — The years 14 through 18 are trying for the young person as well as his parents, learning to communicate is one of the basic steps a counselor can help bring about.

Single Parent Problems — The single parent may often feel ignored in a couple-oriented society. Trying to be two people, mother and father, can be too difficult for one person to handle.

Geriatric Problems — Sometimes a senior citizen parent needs tender loving care away from the family, specialized nursing care, or a place to live with others near his or her own age, and the children who make these decisions must learn how to cope with their feelings of guilt.

Alcohol and Drug Problems — More and more people are becoming dependent on alcohol and other drugs. Specialized medical care and a treatment program are needed.

Individual Psychiatric Problems — Sometimes we feel that our world is caving in on us. Tension, anxiety, and fear may keep us from coping effectively with everyday life. Psychiatric help may be your first step toward healthy living.

Joggers Huff, Puff Their Way to Slimming

By the Associated Press
Huffing and puffing a bit as they go, thousands of Americans are jogging their way to what they hope will be better health and slimmer figures. The National Jogging Association in Washington says it has 10,000 members, up from only 3,500 three years ago. The association's Rory Donaldson predicted that membership will double again within two years.

WHAT IS JOGGING and how does it differ from walking or running? "During a walk, one foot is always in contact with the earth," said Donaldson. "During a run, both feet break contact with the earth. Jogging is a type of running."

According to Donaldson, the major difference between jogging and running is speed.

One of the advantages of jogging is that it requires the body to use a lot of oxygen...and helps put the heart and circulatory system in shape.

"Commonly, a gait which has you going seven minutes a mile or faster is a run," he said.

A slower gait is a jog.

ANOTHER JOGGER HAD a less scientific explanation.

"Jogging is what you do when you're fat and you want to express yourself."

One advantage of jogging, said Donaldson, is that it requires the body to use a lot of oxygen over a relatively long time. That helps put the heart and circulatory system in shape.

You don't need a lot of fancy equipment to jog, but you will want a good pair of shoes. Tennis or gym shoes aren't the best because they don't offer the support, cushioning and stability needed.

DONALDSON SAID GOOD jogging shoes range from $19 to $40 a pair.

"Nineteen dollars will buy a very good shoe," he said.

The most common material for jogging shoes is nylon. Leather shoes also are popular, Donaldson said, but tend to be more expensive.

Once you get a pair of jogging shoes, use them only for running to prevent them from wearing out too quickly. Worn-out shoes can throw you off balance and cause pain in the feet, knees or lower back.

HERE ARE SOME basics of buying jogging shoes, according to the association:

— Look for soles that have a tough outer layer of rubber and a softer midsole that runs the full length of the shoe. The soles should be flexible, but the section under the arch should provide firm support. You might want to consider built-in arch supports.

— Make sure the heel is wide and stable and provides a slight lift, similar to the lift given by the heels in street shoes.

— DON'T TRY ON the shoes in an air-conditioned room. Your feet may swell from the heat during jogging.

— Ask about re-soling; most good shoes can be re-soled.

Some joggers like a special suit for running; others are just as happy with a T-shirt and shorts. Either way, you should avoid tight fitting garments. Don't wear rubberized or plastic clothing since it doesn't give sweat a chance to evaporate. High socks also prevent adequate heat loss.

THE NINE-YEAR-OLD jogging association says the sport is not necessarily for everyone. If you're over 30, the association says, you should check with your doctor before you begin an exercise program. If you're over 40, you should take a treadmill stress test to make sure you're in shape for jogging.

"The basic rules of the jogging road are quite straightforward," Donaldson wrote in an association publication. "Take it easy, have fun doing what you're doing, don't hurt yourself."

One of the best ways to tell if you're overdoing it is to take the "talk test." If you cannot carry on a conversation while jogging, the chances are you are trying to go too fast or pushing yourself too hard.

THE ASSOCIATION recommends starting slowly and building up the exercise program a little at a time. Under the association's recommended schedule, a jogger exercises on six days — alternating between long and short runs — and a rest on the seventh day. Plan to allow about an hour a day, including time for changing your clothes, warming up and relaxing with a post-run period of walking.

Further information, including a basic 12-week exercise schedule, is available in "Successful Jogging," a joint publication from the association and the President's Council on Physical Fitness. It is available at no charge from Consumer Information Center, Dept. 641E, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

Bandits Rob Ex-band Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — Skitch Henderson, former band leader for the "Tonight" show and now a restaurateur, has been held up to the tune of $10,000, according to police.

Police said two gunmen entered Henderson's East Side bistro, Daly's Dandelion, shortly after 10 a.m. Sunday while the maestro was counting Saturday night's receipts.

Nine employees were herded into the men's room and Henderson, a .45-caliber automatic pushed into his side, was ordered to turn over the cash.

A short time after the duo fled on foot the bar opened for brunch.

Medical Students, Faculty Lauded

Three faculty members of the UC Irvine California College of Medicine have been honored along with 35 students, at annual honors ceremonies at the UCI Medical Center.

Dr. Nosratollah Vaziri of Newport Beach was given two awards: the senior class' Golden Apple Award for outstanding teaching and the Kaiser Permanente Faculty Award for outstanding teaching in the clinical sciences. Dr. Vaziri is an assistant professor of medicine.

HONORED BY THE MEDICAL students was Dr. Lyle Dearden of Fountain Valley, a professor of anatomy and radiological sciences. He was given the students' Silver Beaker Award for outstanding teaching in the basic sciences.

A third faculty member to be honored was Dr. James Watson of Irvine, who was given the Kaiser Permanente Faculty Award for outstanding teaching in the basic sciences. He is an associate professor of medical microbiology.

Students who received key awards included Dr. Steven Goldberg of Newport Beach, who was named resident-of-the-year. He is a third year resident in internal medicine at the UCI Medical Center.

THE SENIOR AWARD WENT TO Calvin B. Wheeler of Arkadelphia, Ark., in honor of his contributions to the prestige and morale of the medical school.

John Troth Morrison of Palo Alto was given the dean's award for over-all excellence by a senior. The award was sponsored by the Upjohn Pharmaceutical Company.

Students from the Orange Coast area who also received awards include:

Phyllis Agran, Irvine, the Orange County Pediatric Society award; William Ruess, freshman from Huntington Beach, a Lange Book award for clinical excellence and a basic science certificate of excellence; and Richard Pesavento, a freshman from Fountain Valley, a basic science certificate of excellence.

Four Area Drivers In Indy 500 Field

INDIANAPOLIS — A quartet of drivers with Orange Coast area flavored background will be taking their shots at winning the Indianapolis 500 Sunday as Dick Simon of San Juan Capistrano and John Mahler of Newport Beach added their names to the list Sunday in qualifying work.

Getting in at the outside position of the 10th row is Simon, who clocked 185.615 mph, while Mahler is a notch behind, in the inside lane of the last row after a 185.242 performance.

Already clinching a berth earlier was Costa Mesa's Danny Ongais, who has the inside position on the third row with a 193.040 effort.

Also in the race is former Marina (Huntington Beach) High student Pancho Carter, who is starting aside Ongais in the third row.

Carter's qualifying speed was 192.452.

The quartet of area aces will be chasing a front row consisting of Tom Sneva (198.884), Bobby Unser (197.618) and Al Unser (195.950).

One of the hot items out of the qualifying rounds was Janet Guthrie's qualification Sunday, the first woman to ever qualify for the Indy 500.

"From about the second lap, I thought it was going to blow," Guthrie said. "The engine was making those kind of noises it has in the past just before it's going to let go."

"The oil pressure gauge was going crazy, back and forth all the way down to zero, and there was this terrific rattling noise behind my head. I was just waiting. I never thought it would make it."

But Guthrie, the 39-year-old former astronaut candidate who jumped from little league sports car racing to big time speedway driving last year, kept her green and white Lightning racer together for a sizzling 188.403 miles per hour 10-mile qualifying average Sunday.

Guthrie's best lap of 188.957 is a woman's closed course speed record, but she chafes at the mention of anything but "ultimate" records. "My folks brought me up not to think women can't do things because they are women," she said.

Her average speed was the fastest for any qualification run made the final week of time trials for Sunday's speed classic, even though it earned her only 26th starting position.

"It was running through my mind that when the engine blew, we could haul it back to the garage, swap it for a new Herb Porter Offenhauser that's sitting right this minute on the workbench, and be out to try again before 6 o'clock," Guthrie recalled.

"I can't describe the feeling I had when I saw the checkered flag."

Still, hours afterward, Guthrie found her accomplishment hard to comprehend.

The starting lineup for Sunday's Indianapolis 500, based on four-lap qualifying averages:

Kusick Leads Win

Twins Star Thrives On Halos Pitching

Minnesota's American League Western Division-leading Twins run into the tough part of their schedule, 19 straight games against the contenders, after salvaging the final game Sunday of their four-game series with the Angels.

Craig Kusick's three-run pinch-hit homer in the sixth inning powered the Twins to an 8-5 victory over California.

"We might not have known how to act if we had lost four has produced 24 runs-batted-in against Angels pitching in only 88 at-bats.

"After three straight losses I was depressed," said Kusick. "I felt I wasn't contributing. I sensed we were flat."

"I think the home run might have jolted us, given us the shock we needed."

The Angels built a 4-1 lead before Minnesota scored five unearned runs in the sixth inning.

Bobby Bonds was credited with one of the most unusual triples in Angels history in the fourth inning. His ground ball up the middle was deflected by second baseman Rob Wilfong in front of the outstretched glove of shortstop Roy Smalley.

When Bonds arrived at second base he noticed third wasn't being covered and kept running. He scored on a single by Willie Mays Aikens.

Games in a row," admitted Twins' manager Gene Mauch. "What we have coming up won't be any tougher than we have faced the last four days. We handled Baltimore very well."

"We know we have to score on Boston and New York because they are going to score on us."

The Angels were leading 4-3 when Kusick hit reliever Don Kirkwood's first pitch far over the wall in right-center.

California finished its home stand with a 7-4 record.

The Angels open a two-game series at Detroit Tuesday night. Nolan Ryan, 6-4, will oppose John Hiller, 1-4, in the opener. Frank Tanana, 7-1, will hurl for California Wednesday night against Dave Roberts, 3-5.

"When we came into the series we said if we could win three of the four it would be a helluva series for us," said Angels' skipper Norm Sherry. "When you win the first three games and have the lead it hurts a little bit to lose it."

Kusick, who has a .500 career batting average against Tanana,

Pro QB's Boat Netters Kills Girl, 13

LIBERTY, Tex. — An investigation was under way today into the cause of a speed boat accident involving Houston Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini whose craft ripped into a crowd Sunday killing a girl and injuring seven persons.

While drag racing against another boat, Pastorini's craft lost its engine power while going 120 miles per hour, went out of control and plowed through a crowd of spectators estimated at 4,000, police said.

The boat's steering mechanism failed after the loss of power causing the craft to swerve onshore about 66 feet past the time trap on Lake Fizzel in Liberty, 30 miles northeast of Houston.

Pastorini's boat traveled about 100 feet on the ground and stopped after hitting three vehicles.

Wallace said Sherry Jaskins, believed to be 3 years old, of Houston, was killed as the boat tore through the cars and the spectators. Her mother suffered a broken arm, internal injuries and a possible broken spine.

Liberty County Sheriff Buck Eckols said that Pastorini was not injured although shaken up.

Firing Due?

CLEVELAND — Cleveland Indians manager Frank Robinson will be fired within the week, the Cleveland Plain Dealer has reported.

Although no official of the American League club was quoted as confirming the dismissal plans, the newspaper said Robinson, the major league's first black manager, would be replaced by coach Jeff Torborg, who will be named interim manager.

Aztecs Win, 7-1

LOS ANGELES — Steve David had more than a little bit to do with the Los Angeles Aztecs' 3-1 North American Soccer League victory over the Vancouver Whitecaps Sunday.

David tallied his team's first two goals and assisted on the third as the Aztecs moved to within one point of NASL Southern Division leader Dallas.

Boy Murdered

MIAMI — The coach of an amateur baseball team was charged with first-degree murder Sunday in the shooting death of a 15-year-old player on his team.

Police said Willie Knight Jr. was shot once in the head during a victory party in coach Dante Dino Jr.'s house Saturday night.

Dino, 31, an electrical contractor, had threatened Knight earlier in the night because of a practical joke Knight had played on Dino's wife, police said.

Fibak Rolls

DUESSELDORF, West Germany — Wojtek Fibak beat Ray Moore, 6-1, 5-7, 6-2 Sunday to win the Duesseldorf Grand Prix tennis championship.

A's Swap

OAKLAND — The swap of two veteran major leaguers was announced by the Oakland A's, Sunday, who are giving up pitcher Stan Bahnsen to the Montreal Expos for infielder Mike Jorgensen.

Hrabosky Back

ST. LOUIS — The indefinite suspension of St. Louis Cardinals relief pitcher Al Hrabosky, a Savannah (Anaheim) High product, was lifted today by manager Vern Rapp.

A spokesman for the club said the incidents which led to the suspension had been discussed and a satisfactory solution was achieved.

Second

UC Irvine, along with western regional champ USC, Stanford and California, advanced to the WIAW national tennis tournament June 6-11 at Louisiana State University following Sunday's final salvo of the western regionals at Newport Beach Tennis Club.

The Trojans of Southern Cal completed the annexation of the crown they clinched Saturday with an all-SC final in singles.

Sheila McInerney rallied from a one-set deficit to top teammate Barbara Hallquist, 6-7, 6-4, 6-3.

In doubles tandem, the UC Irvine tandem of Lindsay Morse and Jean Nachand went the same route as Hallquist, taking the early lead, then falling.

Stanford University's Sue Hagey and Diane Morrison, the top-seeded doubles team in the tourney, rallied past the unseeded UCI duo, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3.

SC finished atop the team standings with a 4½-point bulge over runner-up UC Irvine.

CdM Faces Tough Test Tuesday

BEVERLY HILLS — The Normans of Beverly Hills High, the last team to stop a Corona del Mar High outfit in the CIF 4-A tennis playoffs three years ago, tangle with the two-time CIF champion Corona del Mar High Sea Kings Tuesday.

It's billed for 2 o'clock at Beverly Hills and the Normans of coach Susan Stevens, in her first year at the helm after Hal Siehling retired from a 30-year rein at Beverly Hills, has a solid unit to toss at the Sea Kings. Beverly Hills eliminated Newport Harbor Friday, 15-13 with sophomores Jim Agate and Jerome Jones, Stacy Margolin, Richard Kraft and freshman David Romm leading the way.

Margolin is USC-bound, won the girls Ojai singles as a junior and is slated second to Glendora High's Lea Antonopolis in girls circles.

Others in the Beverly Hills camp are Dana Schwartz, Scott Gerber and Jeff Gunter. "We know Corona del Mar beat Newport Harbor badly," says Stevens, "but anything can happen on a given day with these tennis players."

"When you see scores such as 25-3, 28-0 and 27-1, you know Corona del Mar is a tremendous powerhouse. We're strong and deep, but Corona del Mar appears a bit stronger."

Corona del Mar, beaten only by Fullerton's Sunny Hills in a non-league match, rolled to those impressive scores on the road to the semis and it's been a combination of Lance Good, Kevin Forbes, Jim Curley, Jordan Otterbein, Danny Saltz, Craig Thomas, Mike Federly and Greg Washer.

"We feel like we're peaking and we should be ready," says CdM coach Dennis Trout. "Agate is a good player for Beverly Hills and they are fairly deep. Beverly Hills doesn't have any bad players and that's how it beat Newport Harbor."

Beverly Hills, 20-2 for the season, presents a scene with doubles action on the school campus in two separate areas, with singles play at nearby Roxbury Park.

Directions to Beverly Hills High: Take San Diego Freeway (405) north to Santa Monica Blvd. East on Santa Monica Blvd. to Century Park East. Right on Century Park East to Olympic Blvd. Left on Olympic, left on Moreno Drive. School located at 2411 Moreno Drive.

HB Duels Millikan

Huntington Beach High's gymnastics team, Sunset League champions and one step away from the CIF team finals, duels Long Beach Millikan Tuesday night (7) at Huntington Beach.

Pacing the Oilers of HB coach Ira Toibin is Randy Weaver, an all-round threat who won five individual and the all-round Friday as the Oilers destroyed visiting Alhambra.

Long Beach Millikan eased past Sunset League representative Fountain Valley in the first round to qualify for the second round.

Weaver, who has been credited with 9.0 scores in vaulting and tumbling, is also tough in other events, gaining an 8.85 in the high bar, 8.7 in the parallel bars and 8.2 in the rings. He's headed for USC on a scholarship.

Top seeded Huntington Beach High School girls gymnastics team will host Sunny Hills while second seeded Edison High (Huntington Beach) and runnerup in the Sunset League, will travel to University High (Irvine) for quarterfinal round matches Tuesday (3).

The field of 24 teams was cut to eight after first-round triangular meets with balance of the schedule on a head-to-head basis.

Semifinals will be held Thursday with the finals the following Thursday (June 2).

CIF Softball Pairings Set

Marina High School's Vikings of Huntington Beach, undefeated in 12 games, have been seeded third in the CIF 4-A girls softball playoffs that begin Thursday with the Vikes hosting Angelus League runnerup Bishop Amat in opening round action.

Mater Dei of Santa Ana, co-champions of the Sunrise League, will host Covina in another 4-A first round encounter.

San Clemente and University (Irvine) finished in a tie for the South Coast League championship. San Clemente will be at home to Neff (La Mirada) Thursday. University is at home playing Anaheim, runnerup in the Freeway League in 3-A action.

Huntington Valley Christian (Newport Beach), runnerup in the Academy League, will journey to Walnut High for an opening round game in 2-A play.

Gold, Silver Medals Commemorate Hughes

From Associated Press Dispatches
 Nearly 1,000 gold and silver medallions commemorating Howard Hughes are in safe-keeping in Las Vegas awaiting distribution to friends and associates.

It was not known who will receive the medals or when they will be distributed, said Arlo Sederberg, a spokesman for the Summa Corp., which ordered the 999 medals struck by the Danbury Mint.

Seventy-five medallions are made of gold from the former Hughes mines at Manhattan, Nev., and the rest are made of sterling silver. The medallion is about three inches in diameter.

Nelson Rockefeller did not know Charles Bluhdorn, his downstairs neighbor at a Fifth Avenue address, was suing him because of a broken water pipe last winter.

Moreover, Bluhdorn, chairman of the Gulf & Western Corp., was unaware of his claim for $27,858 against the former vice president for damaged drapes and furnishings.

It seems the claim had been filed by Bluhdorn's insurance company, said Donald Oresman, who added that the neighbors saw no reason to go to court after learning of the action so they struck a gentleman's agreement out of court.

A man who claimed 200 withholding exemptions has been convicted by a jury in San Francisco of failing to file federal income tax returns and supplying false information on withholding exemption forms.

William J. Blattner, 50, Union City, was found guilty of failing to file returns for 1973, 1974 and 1975 when he allegedly had a total gross income for the three years of $57,799.

A longtime employee of Union Can Co. of Hayward, he also was convicted of providing his employer with three certificates claiming 50, 99 and then 200 withholding exemptions, respectively, for income tax purposes in 1974 and 1975.

PEOPLE

"We only met yesterday when I got off the plane from New York and it only took minutes for me to love Melina," said Oscar-winning actress Ellen Burstyn, who will co-star with Melina Mercouri in a film based on the Greek tragedy "Medea."

Miss Burstyn, who won an Oscar for her role in the film "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" said she prepared for her role by studying Medea at the Actors Studio in New York.

Director Jules Dassin, who emerged from 10 years of self-imposed exile from the industry to direct the film, says he will use flashbacks to combine modern and ancient versions of the tragedy. Miss Mercouri is his wife.

A retired Navy admiral, assessed more than $5,000 for using Navy planes for personal purposes, told the Navy he does not intend to pay, and the Navy has no way to make him pay, according to documents released in Denver.

The Navy has turned the case over to the General Accounting Office "for consideration," according to the documents released by Rep. Patricia Schroeder (D-Colo.). Mrs. Schroeder said she asked the GAO what it intends to do about the case of retired Vice Adm. Malcolm Cagle. He was to be assessed $5,728 "pre-terminated upon a total of 53 flights which were determined by the Navy to be improper in whole or in part."

Assemblyman Vincent Thomas proved his dedication to the war on big government by sponsoring a successful resolution to abolish an Assembly committee he chairs.

The Intergovernmental Relations Committee, which formerly handled such topics as interstate compacts and the Commission of the Californians, has had no budget or duties recently.

After straight-faced comments by Thomas about the "prestigious" committee, the Assembly voted 74-0 to abolish it.

"In Washington," said former Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, "the hanging of Simon would probably sell out RFK Stadium."

Simon made the remark as he explained why he wanted a low-key ceremony to receive the Treasury Department's "Alexander Hamilton Award." The ceremony included an unveiling of his portrait.

Simon also was a onetime head of the nation's energy program.

For about $10, people with telephone answering machines in the Bay area can have their phone answered by a voice sounding a lot like former President Richard Nixon. Or callers could hear a voice similar to Tony Bennett's telling them to leave their name and number to the tune of "I Left My Heart in San Francisco."

"This is going to be a big novelty item," Ron Rosberg, sales manager of Repo Depo, said in an interview.

Margaret Trudeau, Canada's First Lady, told companions at a dinner in Washington that she is enjoying her new role as a professional photographer.

Mrs. Trudeau confided to a companion that the switch in her lifestyle has made her happier than she has ever been, the Washington Star reported.

Mrs. Trudeau was attending the annual White House News Photographers Association dinner with a group from People magazine, which employs her as a free-lance photographer.

A UCLA professor of paleobiology and geology has been named the 1977 recipient of the National Science Foundation's Alan T. Waterman Award. J. William Schopf, whose research has extended the origins of life back three billion years earlier than previously thought, will receive a medal and a $150,000 grant for continuing research.

Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Inc., is considering "establishing some Sea World parks overseas," a vice president of the New York publishers says.

"The most likely country right now is Japan, but we haven't done any feasibility studies yet," Robert R. Hillebrecht said.

How to Get Better Job

By JOYCE L. KENNEDY

Dear Joyce: I am grossly underpaid and looking for a better job at a higher salary. When employers find out I make peanuts, they apparently decide I'm cheap labor and their offers reflect this evaluation. Do you think I should claim I earn more than I do to improve my bargaining position?

— C.W., San Francisco, Calif.

Fudging one's salary upward as a negotiating tactic is pretty common, but there's a better way. Mendacity is not without risk.

Personnel directors usually have a pulse on salary ranges, and some employers do check such data. Frequently you must sign an application saying you told the whole truth, and if an employer knows or discovers you are fiddling with the facts, you may not get the job. Or if you get the job, you may lose it.

AT MINIMUM, your credibility will be in question.

Instead of lying, try this approach: switch-hit the conversation like a politician who doesn't want to blurt out a candid answer to a hot-potato question. Stall salary discussion by swinging away from your weakness (low current salary) and to your strengths (skills and experience).

On an application form, write "will discuss" in spaces for salary earned. If you're feeling assertive, write "not applicable," or simply, "N.A."

SHOULD THE PRESENT earnings question pop up early in a job interview, respond along these lines: "Oh, the normal range. While opportunity is more important than money to me, the opportunity I seek has not, unfortunately, developed as I expected where I work now and this is a major reason for wanting to make a change. I don't have any worries about being able to agree on a figure if you decide you want me. Your firm is well-known for recognizing ability. But before we get into pay, could I ask you some questions about the job?"

If you do a good job of selling yourself, chances are the interviewer will forget about the irrelevant question of what you're earning, because that measure of your worth (which really is a stupid measure) will be replaced by fuller knowledge of the skills and experience you can bring to the job being discussed.

IF NOT, AND IF later the interviewer does pin you to the wall, you can respond: "I love my job but am terribly underpaid, and that's why I'm here. I think your firm will reward my efforts more fairly. Don't you think the abilities I can contribute to the job you have — as we've discussed them — are worth (name a figure)?"

Delay money talk until you've had time to make your strengths known, and then, if you must, be diplomatically direct.

Send career questions for this column to Joyce L. Kennedy at this newspaper. Sorry, the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

 IRVINE UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT'S INITIAL PROPOSAL ON COMPENSATION AND RELATED BENEFITS
 INTRODUCTION
 The Irvine Unified School District's Initial Proposal for Compensation and Related Benefits for 1977/78, 1978/79, and 1979/80 embodies a significant change in the philosophical direction of the District's Certified Salary Structure. Based upon the year long study by the Task Force on Alternative Compensation, it offers a phased program of performance compensation eliminating the present salary variable of colosse units in the 1978/79 year (substituting tuition reimbursement), with a salary reopener on the merit pool in the 1979/80. It establishes the category of Master Teacher in 1978/79, encouraging outstanding teachers to remain in the teaching profession rather than pursuing alternative careers for financial reasons. Its long term goal is to fairly compensate all employees while rewarding outstanding performance in a fiscally responsible manner.
 PHASE I 1977/78 Compensation Proposal
 During the 1977/78 school year, each certificated employee would have their present salary augmented by $300. In addition, the District would assume $40,000 of the additional cost for a existing fringe benefit cost.
 PHASE II 1978/79 Compensation Proposal
 Phase Two assumes:
 (1) that compensation should reflect employee performance.
 (2) that the present salary structure is inequitable.
 (3) that good teachers should make professional salaries.
 (4) that the beginning years of experience reflect accelerated growth and should, therefore, receive more salary recognition.
 (5) that assessing performance is difficult and should, at least initially, reflect major differences in performance.
 (6) that no current employee should make less than their 1977/78 salary in 1978/79.
 (7) that the system should be implemented in gradual stages.
 (8) that all future raises must be tied to additional District revenues.
 BASE SALARY SCHEDULE 1978/79
 YEARS OF EXPERIENCE
 1 11,000
 2 12,360
 3 13,500
 4 14,500
 5 15,500
 6 16,500
 7 17,500
 8 18,500
 9 19,500
 Master Teacher
 In addition to the above salary placement, a certificated employee shall be eligible for participation in a merit pool, the total of which shall be determined by the most recent negotiated process beginning no later than February 15, 1978. No employee shall be paid less in 1978/79 than their contract salary in 1977/78.
 The employee's merit award shall be determined by his/her evaluation rating score. Those employees receiving rating scores within one standard deviation of the mean would be entitled to a proportionate share of 50% of the merit pool total. Those employees receiving rating scores more than one standard deviation above the mean would be entitled to a proportionate share of the remaining 50% of the merit pool total.
 Two percent of the District's certificated employees would be designated as Master Teachers for the 1977/78 school year. The merit pool shall be determined by their 1977/78 rating score and previous record of service to the District.
 Seventy-five percent of the fringe benefit cost shall be borne by the District in 1978/79.
 To encourage teachers to continue their education, the District will pay up to $300 a year for tuition on approved classes at accredited colleges and universities.
 EVALUATION SYSTEM PRECIS
 All teachers shall be rated for their share of the 1978/79 merit pool based upon their performance during the 1977/78 school year. The Evaluation System shall assess a teacher's product, process, environment, adjunct duties and professional growth. The total possible score would be 100 points.
 —with 40 points earned for designing and meeting goals and objectives consistent with school and district goals.
 —with 20 points earned for exhibiting the following teaching process behaviors, structuring, questioning, listening, clarifying, facilitating data acquisition, writing, and modeling.
 —with 20 points earned for classroom management, discipline, record keeping, and communication with parents.
 —with 20 points earned for adjunct duties and professional growth as evidenced by college training and service at the school and district level.
 Each teacher would rate themselves and be rated by their appropriate administrator. Following the rating, a conference shall be held to reconcile the two scores. A final rating shall be prepared by the administrator subject to review by the superintendent or his designee whose sole judgment shall be final and binding. No evaluation rating shall be subject to the grievance procedure.
 PHASE III 1979/80 Compensation Proposal
 The sole variable for consideration in 1979/80 shall be the amount of the merit pool. However, no employee shall receive less than his/her 1977/78 contract salary in 1979/80.
 One hundred percent of the fringe benefit cost shall be borne by the District. The merit pool shall be determined by the most recent negotiated process beginning no later than February 15, 1979 to determine the amount of the merit pool.
 To encourage teachers to continue their education, the District will pay up to $300 a year for tuition on approved classes at accredited colleges and universities.
 SUMMARY
 The above shall be supplemented by an appendix of necessary procedures to fulfill the requirements of the California Education Code, and unconditionally implement the philosophical commitment to quality education, fair compensation, and fiscal responsibility.

One Man, Many Faces

Frank Gorshin is known primarily for his verbal impersonations, but in "Record City," a new comedy, his talents include appearing in a series of costumed guises. They include a Hindu, a Sherlock Holmes-like detective, a nun and an orthodox rabbi.

'Star' Voted Worst

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Harvard Lampoon has declared "Star Is Born" the worst picture of the year, and its star, Barbra Streisand, worst actress.

Announcing the results of a poll, the campus humor magazine said "Star" won by thousands of votes over "The Enforcer" and earned its condemnation "for attempting to pass off Barbra Streisand as a singer."

New Awards Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's the Oscar, the Emmy, the Grammy and now there's still another awards show scheduled for television. No one knows what it's to be called yet, but NBC has announced it will air the awards show Sept. 11.

The new awards program is a spinoff of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences' Emmys. NBC canceled the Emmy awards show earlier this month because the show was boycotted by top actors and actresses who said the national academy was unresponsive to its Hollywood chapter.

Malden's View Contrast

Star Relaxed Despite Cancellation

By JAY SHARBUTT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actors tend to be insecure, even when pulling down big bucks in a long-run TV series. They scramble for other roles when their show takes a break. Not Karl Malden when his series was on.

"Streets of San Francisco" would finish its even-month, six-day-a-week shooting schedule in the City by the Bay, he'd repair to his hillside home in suburban Brentwood here and commence loafing.

"I did nothing," grinned the 63-year-old actor, whose series finally was axed by ABC after five seasons. "I came home immediately put on some old clothes and went back to my garden."

"AND I JUST started to weed and pull and plant, anything to get away from using" — he tapped his head — "this."

Malden, a tall, friendly man who somehow seems both relaxed and intense when he talks, currently is laboring on his first

TV effort since the cancellation of "Streets."

He's playing the sea captain's role in a made-for-ABC version of Rudyard Kipling's "Captains Courageous," to air next season.

MALDEN IS AN alumnus of New York's Actors Studio. But unlike many who emerged from that emporium years ago, he doesn't claim he got started in the Golden Age of TV drama in New York in the early 1950s.

He did exactly three shows there, then promptly fled back to film and theater work, winning an Oscar for his film acting in "A Streetcar Named Desire." He didn't return to TV until "Streets" in 1972.

"Sure, it was the Golden Age when everything was live, but it also was the age when many mistakes were being made and panic reigned," said the Chicago-born son of a Yugoslavian immigrant.

HE CITED ONE early TV drama he did, "Animal Kingdom," in which he had a small role and Wendell Corey the lead.

"The night of the final dress rehearsal, I saw him running from one set to another. He was changing his shirt, a wardrobe guy was running after him."

"Then he comes on with this girl as if nothing were happening, but he's wringing wet. I said, 'My God, this is ridiculous.'"

"I WAS DOING some movie work at the time, and I thought, 'Well, why beat my brains out doing this when I'm doing films?'"

He said now that "Streets" is over, he's had offers to do other series, but wants none of that for at least a year. He was asked if he'll be doing other acting after he finishes "Captain Courageous."

"I don't know," Malden said in his soft tenor voice, a quietly confident man in a most insecure profession. "The next couple of months, I guess, I won't do anything. I'll go back to the yard again and start putting away."

Black Alice Due

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Producers Sid and Marty Krofft have announced they plan a two-hour black version of "Alice in Wonderland" to be telecast by ABC next December.

The production will use standard song hits rather than an original score, the Kroffts said.

Study Finds Skills

By DENNIS McLELLAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dr. Laurence Peter, a 35-year veteran of the teaching profession, for years has been interested in what makes a competent teacher.

He took hundreds of courses on teaching but was never any closer to the answer.

He took a class in Methods of Instruction thinking it would be useful. The students ended up making "projects."

He took another course from a teacher who spent class time "reminiscing" and demonstrating Indian dances he had learned on vacation.

At one school where Peter taught, the principal's primary concern was that nobody step on his rose bushes. Peter's primary concern was to get out of "the hotbed of incompetence I was entrapped in."

He also became increasingly haunted by the question, "What is it that teachers do that causes children to learn?"

Of course he heard the clichés: Teachers are born, not made —

"You can't deny it, he says. 'You find a teacher who wasn't born and you've got a breakthrough.'"

THE TALL, BEARDED Canadian-born professor was providing a humor-laden account of his successful search for an answer to his question at a conference sponsored by the California Association for Neurologically Handicapped Children.

The two-day event at the Registry Hotel in Irvine was for parents and professionals concerned with children who have learning or behavior problems.

In 1955 Peter obtained a fellowship in mental health work and started a project to try to identify effective teaching methods through classroom observation.

He researched for nine years, and in the process developed a competency-based teacher-training program.

While gathering data on teacher competence, however, he accumulated reams of information on teachers who were incompetent.

Out of this "waste product" of his research grew his best-selling book, "The Peter Principle." ("In a hierarchy, every employee tends to rise to his level of incompetence.")

IN THE BOOK a teacher named Miss Ditto—and there are many Miss Dittos in the world, he notes—had been a good student, and was outstanding in college.

She was the perfect consumer of knowledge who reached her level of incompetence by becoming a teacher.

"Just because she was a good consumer of knowledge didn't mean she would be a good dispenser of knowledge," he observed.

"There she was — she was a bore. She was so well educated she could bore you with any subject in the curriculum. She could light up a room simply by leaving it."

And there was the principal who "once he made up his mind, was full of indecision." Over the PA system he once announced: "No teacher should leave the classroom until the next teacher arrives."

THE POPULAR SATIRE, along with its companions — "The Peter Prescription" and "The Peter Plan" — made its point.

And while the professor failed repeatedly to obtain research grants, the success of his books and lectures made it possible for him to continue his work.

His "Competencies in Teaching" system includes a series of questions a teacher should ask in order to be effective.

Peter believes it is important to learn what a student's maximum performance is. Labeling a child educationally handicapped, for example, does not Orphans aboard the first babylift flight.

As Vietnam was falling two years ago, AP special correspondent Peter Arnett rode the first babylift flight of orphans from Saigon to the United States. Here is how he found them getting along today.

Waking Up to U.S. Dream

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Lua's American soldier father had long gone home, her Vietnamese mother had died in childbirth, and she, as a grown up 4-year-old, was caring for two younger children in an orphanage.

Nam, 4, was a despondent half-black American child fighting for his survival in another Vietnamese orphanage.

And Lan was a tiny, abandoned 3-year-old with big brown eyes, a distended belly, body sores from malnutrition and shrapnel scars on her neck.

But in a few well-publicized hours, life for these children and 51 others just like them changed from a nightmare into the American dream.

They were the orphans of the Vietnamese storm blown to the United States in the closing weeks of the war by World Airways' Ed Daley, a swashbuckling, whisky-swilling aviation millionaire with a contempt for foot-dragging bureaucracy and the gall to do something about it.

HIS DRAMATIC 25-hour night flight from Saigon to Oakland, launched despite the threat of being shot down, opened the door for the general orphan exodus in the last weeks of the war. Today, the 54 children he flew across the Pacific "have all settled down beautifully," said Cherie Clark, of Denver, a worker for the Friends of Children in Vietnam organization that arranged their adoptions.

The Associated Press interviewed several families and found that the former orphans are now little Americans living all over the country. Their food tastes range from lox and bagels to mashed potatoes to Rice-a-Roni. They are hooked on television and all seem deliriously happy.

"I like America because there are mommies and daddies and pillows," said the once-despondent Nam as he rode a tricycle around the suburban Denver home where he lives with the Clark's three blonde children and three other adopted Vietnamese.

Lan is now Robyn Lan Kolinski of Spring Valley, N.Y., lovingly watched over by her fiercely protective three older brothers and parents, her favorite possession a poodle named Tiny Tim. Mrs. Adele Kolinski said "the important thing for a Jewish mother is to have a daughter to pass on the recipes to. I have one now."

And grown-up Lua is six, flourishing in the sun of Santa Barbara and still resisting being treated like a child, said her mother Mary Palmer. "She competes with her teacher for the attention of the class. She's a tough little survivor," said Mrs. Palmer as Lua busily played with a hula hoop in the backyard.

PARENTS WERE waiting for nearly all the children on the first babylift flight, and there was shock at shafts of criticism.

"Nobody dreamed anyone would say we were wrong to do this, to give a child a home," said Mrs. Palmer who with her computer scientist husband, Richard, had flown to Vietnam to find the little girl they had seen only in a picture taken by a friend.

They found the shaven-headed unsmiling Lua in a Qui Nhon orphanage. Watching the same girl laughing gleefully in the sun recently, Mrs. Palmer said, "We were criticized for taking children from their culture. The culture of an orphanage?"

The Palmers and many other parents were concerned about a class action suit brought in California asking that all Vietnamese orphans be returned to their home country. The suit was thrown out and is being appealed.

The parents all remember the cliff-hanger days when Vietnam was collapsing and there was the real possibility the adopted children would never get out. The Kolinskis harassed their congressman and the state department.

"It was much tougher than my wife's three earlier deliveries," said druggist Ben Kolinski. His wife said, "I was in control the three previous times. Not this one. I lost seven pounds in two days worrying."

WHAT DO the children remember of their Vietnam years?

"Lua refuses to remember anything. She has forgotten all her Vietnamese language. She is apparently trying to wipe it all out of her mind," said Mrs. Palmer. When Vietnamese friends visited, "Lua was rude to them. She was afraid."

Nam Clark is less reserved. He remembers his parents arriving at a Vung Tau orphanage and the Catholic nun saying to him, "These are your American parents. Do you wish to go with them?" He rushed forward into Tom Clark's arms.

The Kolinskis are raising Nam as a Jew "and she still doesn't realize she looks different from us," said Adele Kolinski. "We have a Chinese friend and when he visits she pushes her eyes into slits to imitate him. She hasn't really seen herself in the mirror yet."

The Clarks intend to keep their children aware of their heritage. The Palmers say "we will always remind Lua who she really is." The Kolinskis are more protective. "Lan is a Kolinski first and everything else after that," said one of her elder brothers.

Once a despised, half-black American, Nam Clark, 7, now rides a tricycle with three other Clark children (left to right), Danny, Ronnyll and Beth.

Women Find 'Real' Place: Selling Homes

By MARCIA FORSBERG
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The residential sales aspect of real estate is "terribly important" to realtor Jane R. Boyd.

"The nesting instinct is almost primeval. There has to be a base, and the home is where everything starts," she said.

She and four other successful Orange County realtors will present a one-day seminar titled Opportunities for Women in Real Estate on Saturday, June 4.

The program, sponsored by UC Irvine Extension, will present an overview of the field, focusing on specializations as well as sales techniques and client needs.

Mrs. Boyd pointed out that "hordes of women are selling homes, and they really seem to fit into this field."

She believes the reason is because "a woman almost instinctively knows if a house is good and if it has redeeming qualities."

"When a man looks at a house, he's thinking about how great the den is, but he usually doesn't give a damn about the kitchen."

"And if the kitchen is bad, well..." she said, shrugging.

Mrs. Boyd has been selling homes for the past 12 years. She noted that young and middle-aged women have been involved in real estate for many years and lately have been recognized for their expertise.

The 59-year-old president of the Women's Council of Newport Harbor-Costa Mesa Board of Realtors said that the field is opening up to older women.

At the real estate seminar, Mrs. Boyd will include her viewpoint on the business as a means for self employment.

"A basic American desire is to be your own boss, and real estate offers this opportunity. All the people who work in our office are independent contractors, so to speak," said the Corona del Mar resident.

"They work under auspices of our broker's license," she explained. She and her husband, John T. Boyd, "work together, list together and sell together."

She said that the expenditure for obtaining a real estate sales license is minimal, and added that preparation classes are offered at junior colleges as well as real estate schools.

"One of the great challenges in the business for men and women is that the rewards are in direct proportions to the amount of effort and enterprise you expend. You get out of it just exactly what you put in to it."

"By being your own boss, you are not dependent on the corporate structure," she said.

Mrs. Boyd believes that selling homes "can become a 24-hour-a-day thing — it's quite addictive."

"You don't forget the people you're working with and what their needs are. You tend to remember a house you saw that would be perfect for one of your clients."

"If you like becoming involved with a family, you work closely with them, solving financial problems and searching for a house."

"You gain new friends, and certain ones become almost part of your own family," she asserted.

A minor drawback might be that "when you're needed, you're needed. Even if you're having a dinner party, be prepared to put the food on the back burner."

"Nobody can solve a problem as well as somebody who has been dealing with it," she remarked.

Her advice to women embarking on the world of real estate includes "have your own home life organized, be a self-starter and have the discipline to make the call that you don't want to make the first thing in the morning."

The well-equipped salesperson or realtor associate should have "a large pocketbook, sturdy shoes, a full tank of gas, dimes for telephone calls, a tape measure, screw driver, map and alok-boxkey," said Mrs. Boyd. She pointed out that "it's a seller's market right now, so it's possible to make a very good living wage. A woman in the real estate business can easily make the Million Dollar Club (selling or listing a million dollar's worth of residential property)."

The seminar program coordinator will be Helene Joy, real estate broker who was named Realtor of the Year in 1975. She will speak on property management and income investments.

Other topics include property exchange for tax shelters, discussed by Nancy Cassube and Madge Davis, Broker Virginia Cleck will speak on land and development.

More information regarding the course is available from UC Extension, 833-5414.

Picture Not a Pretty One

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing to you because I know you reach millions of people. Our government is busy preserving our "natural resources." We have TV programs to promote the protection of wildlife, trees and waterways. Campaigns are waged to fight pollution. All of this is very important. But our children are this country's most valuable natural resource and they need protection.

I heard Dr. Judianne Densen-Gerber of New York speak at a church in my neighborhood recently. Her subject was child abuse. I am not talking about battered children, although there are thousands of those.

I am talking about another kind of abuse. Dr. Densen-Gerber showed pornographic literature which contained pictures of children in lewd positions and told how to discipline your child physically.

It was apparent that the discipline was designed to give sexual stimulation to the parent. These children — some as young as six years of age — must be protected against parents who sell them as models for sex magazines.

We need laws to protect our children. Such legislation will be written only if there is pressure from the public. Will you please print this letter and make some comments? Something must be done. — JENNIFER G. OF

CHICAGO

DEAR MRS. G.: I visited with Dr. Judianne Densen-Gerber privately and was shown the same literature and pictures you saw. It made me sick.

I immediately contacted Ilana Diamond Rovner, the chief of public protection at the U.S. Attorney's office in Chicago. She told me that due to the recent publicity there has been heightened interest, not only by sickles who want to buy the stuff, but pressure groups eager to prosecute the dealers and put an end to the whole rotten business. Consequently, "kid porn" has gone underground. But eventually, the dealers will be caught.

Mrs. Rovner said the Illinois state legislature is now working on laws which would classify this horror not as pornography, but child abuse — which it most certainly is.

Another reassuring note: U.S. Customs, in conjunction with the U.S. Attorneys and the federal courts, is now destroying tons of "kid porn" as it arrives from foreign countries.

Anyone who knows of shops where kid porn is being sold should contact the local police or the U.S. Attorney's office in their district at once.

DEAR ANN: Please say something about dinner guests who bring along a friend or relative at the very last minute. What I mean is they show up at the door and say, "I know you won't mind. One more doesn't make any difference."

It can make a lot of difference when you have eight dining room chairs, eight individual desserts made up, service for eight in your good china, silver and glassware.

This happened to me last night and I am boiling. The one extra that "didn't make any difference" ruined the looks of my table and threw off the seating plan I had slaved over for an hour. Print this, please, and you will be applauded by every hostess in America. — BURNED IN WESTCHESTER

DEAR BURNED: You took the words right out of my mouth. Yours is a letter I can identify with, and I thank you on behalf of every hostess — everywhere.

Date Marked

Frank and Helen Achten of Costa Mesa celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with their eight children at a party in a Fountain Valley restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. Achten, who also have 20 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren, were married May 23, 1927, in Butte, Mont., where Achten worked in the copper mines.

They lived in Montana for more than 60 years before moving to Huntington Beach, where they lived for six years.

... Skills Found

say what he can really do, he said.

Learning skills vary tremendously with children of the same IQ, he noted, adding the child's IQ does not tell what the learning problem is.

The teacher should ask what he wants the child to be able to do as a result of instruction. "If we leave it vague there is no way of really knowing what he has achieved."

The next step is to get the child from one point to the other. The teacher must ask what are the best things (teaching aids etc.) he can provide to elicit these progressive changes.

The teacher must also ask, How do we assume the child will use this information?

Peter said there are students, for example, who learn enough to pass math. But they never want to use it again because they learned it under such duress that there was no transfer.

Finally, the teacher must ask where the child is in relation to the objectives established for him.

Peter said knowledge and performance skills usually are taught through lectures, which can be inspiring and entertaining, but are inadequate ways to teach.

Teaching courses are unrelated to the actual practice of teaching, he claims.

He noted that in British Columbia the public school added a folk dancing class to the PE curriculum. Members of the Mennonites objected to it on religious grounds and started their own private school, which was unaccredited.

But their students, taught by instructors who didn't have degrees and hadn't taken teacher education courses, received the highest test scores in the province.

A study of an Amish school in the United States showed the same results, he said, adding the research supports his own contention that teacher education is ineffective.

He said studies of his teaching method show that it is "significantly better than the teacher education program."

An independent study was made of a group of 25 educationally handicapped children taught by teachers who used his system.

After eight weeks — one hour a day — the children's reading level improved by six months to two years, nine months.

"We found that through this precise kind of teaching tremendous progress could be made," he said. "If a teacher is a master of a process of instruction, every child can achieve his potential."

"If we insist children come to school, we must insist that teaching be meaningful. If teacher education is going to be valid, it should be developing skills lay people don't have."

Libra: Be Diplomatic

TUESDAY, MAY 24
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Finish project, expand operations, streamline procedures. Become more aware of costs — in energy and money. Young person confides emotional desire.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Creative juices flow; your style is imprinted, your personality is magnified. Nothing is halfway — it is all or zero. Know it and prepare accordingly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Take special care during trips that involve traffic, "upset" neighbors and relatives. Steer clear of senseless disputes, avoid scattering efforts. Confused thinking is the enemy.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): If you spread expenditures too thin, you could come up empty-handed. Know it and bring priorities, investments into clear focus.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): What is delayed or tied up in litigation is soon to be "released." Lunar cycle is high and your judgment, intuition will strike home — on time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You get "free" from recent depression or premonition. Means avoid causing foreboding to become self-fulfilling prophecy. Report will bring cheer, not sadness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Adjustment in home situation is necessary. Be open-minded, loving, diplomatic. Accent on desire, need, ability to make a profit by following through on creative urge.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Answers are to be found within. You get on more solid footing once you are rid of fantasies. Creative imagination is fine.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Past obligations "catch up." You're doing better than might be apparent. Strive to go your way, not to be a camp follower. Don't abandon principles.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your views are vindicated. Psychic income increases. You're flattered by one who means much to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Lie low — play waiting game.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Go slow. You require additional information. Know it and act accordingly. Sudden moves, changes do not benefit you. Finish project, tie loose ends.

Weddings and Engagements

To avoid disappointment, prospective brides are reminded to have their wedding stories with black and white glossy photographs to the Daily Pilot People Department one week before the wedding.

Pictures received after that time will not be used.

For engagement announcements it is imperative that the story, also accompanied by a black and white glossy picture, be submitted six weeks or more before the wedding date; otherwise it will not be published.

To help fill requirements on both wedding and engagement stories, forms are available in all Daily Pilot offices. Further questions will be answered by People Department staff members at 642-4321.

How Much Should I Pay to Have My Carpet Cleaned?

When people phone to ask for an estimate, a common question is: "What do you charge per square foot?" Your carpet is a major investment. The lowest price is not always best. Many factors are involved:

- How old is carpet?
- What material?
- How often cleaned?
- Is there any major damage to it?

A reputable, professional carpet cleaner may need to see it before giving an estimate, to be fair to you... and to himself. CCI members pledge to give high quality, professional workmanship. Call us... we'll be glad to give you a free estimate!

HB Water Wasters to Face Penalty

Water wasting in Huntington Beach soon will officially become a misdemeanor violation under a new city ordinance effective in early July.

Public Works Director H.E. "Bill" Hartge emphasized today that such an infraction could mean a lump sum $500 water bill for repeated violators.

The new law enacted by the City Council provides for citations to be issued which would carry a fine of up to that amount, to be determined by a municipal court judge.

Hartge said today the measure is aimed primarily at careless gardeners, who, for example, turn on lawn sprinklers, then leave them running while engaged in other chores.

"No person shall waste water furnished by the city of Huntington Beach to his property by allowing said water to run or escape from any hose, pipe, valve, faucet, sprinkler, or irrigation device into any gutter, drainage system, body of water or over any private property not owned by such person or over any public property," Hartge explained, quoting the letter of the law.

"This prohibition against wasting water is a good one, whether there is a water shortage or not," he added.

Hartge said the law will have to be applied judicially and that citizens needn't fear instant punishment for a slight and perhaps explainable and unavoidable wastage incident.

A husband watering patio plants for his wife in her absence, for example, might sprint into the house to answer a telephone and a planter box could become full and overflow before he could return.

"If a person violates the ordinance once, I doubt it would be the end of the world for him. He would probably just get a warning," Hartge said.

He said it is the chronic weekend gardeners whose saturated lawns send water cascading over curbs and into gutters sometimes for two blocks down their streets who are the real targets.

"It's something we are going to have to get into slowly," the public works director said of the actual prosecution of real water wasters.

The law was passed following an earlier request by Hartge for all citizens to try to cut water use by 15 percent.

He said if voluntary conservation does not work out for Southern California then we all face mandatory rationing such as Northern California communities have.

Huntington Council To Meet on Budget

Huntington Beach City Council members will take their first glimpse of a proposed $31.2 million city budget tonight.

A special study session on the document will begin at 7 p.m. in council chambers.

The budget recommended by City Administrator Bud Belsito calls for the hiring of 30 new employees, including 20 police officers.

The spending proposal is $2.4 million higher than the current budget, an increase of 8.6 percent.

Belsito said there is a chance that the city will drop its tax rate from the current $1.62 per $100 assessed valuation should there be a sizable jump in assessed valuation. He said county officials have indicated the city will get a 15 percent increase but he expects it to be around 20 percent.

He said that, in the event of the higher figure, the city is likely to drop the tax rate to $1.55.

Other new employees proposed in the budget include three firemen, one data processing worker, a building department inspector and five full-time and one part-time public works department workers.

Belsito said that the addition of the 20 police officers alone will come to $534,000 including salaries, equipment and fringe benefits.

Supreme Court Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court upheld today the Watergate cover-up convictions of former Atty. Gen. John D. Mitchell and one-time White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

Mitchell and Haldeman have remained free pending the outcome of this appeal. Ehrlichman already is in prison. The court's action today means Mitchell and Haldeman likely will be imprisoned soon.

The justices rejected the claims by the three powerful officials of former President Nixon's administration that the three-month trial that ended in their convictions Jan. 1, 1975 was unfair.

The justices made no comment in refusing to review the case. There were no recorded dissents, but Justice William H. Rehnquist noted that he took no part in deciding the case.

Normally it takes about 10 days for a Supreme Court refusal to review a conviction to go back down to district court, which then tells a defendant the date when he must begin serving his sentence.

All three were convicted in the court of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who will set the imprisonment date for Mitchell and Haldeman.

Reached at his home in Los Angeles, Haldeman said he would have "nothing to say" on the court's decision.

John J. Wilson, attorney for Haldeman, said he will ask the high court again to hear the case.

A request for reconsideration would delay the imprisonment date.

Nixon Studied Pardons Such Action Seen as 'Inflammatory'

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Nixon says that in the final days of his presidency he considered granting pardons to everybody involved in Watergate but decided not to because it would "in-flame the situation," according to published reports.

Nixon's comments from an interview with David Frost that will be aired Wednesday night are quoted in the current issue of Newsweek magazine.

The magazine said the former president had calls and letters from White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman recommending he couple a Watergate pardon with amnesty for draft evaders in the Vietnam war.

"The second part of it was totally out of the question as far as I was concerned," Nixon was quoted as saying.

"As for the first part, I would like to have been able to have found a way to help... but I was resigning office for primarily the reason that I wanted to get the whole Watergate obsession, which had then reached fever heat, cooled down.

"If my last act was to pardon everybody who was in Watergate... that would inflame the situation and also would obviously look like the ultimate coverup."

Nixon made no reference to impeachment proceedings in Congress in discussing his resignation.

Newsweek said Nixon admitted he and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger had a tear-filled prayer session on their knees at the height of Watergate, and that he swore Kissinger to secrecy.

The incident was previously disclosed in the book "The Final Days."

Hotel Plan Scrapped in HB

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huntington Beach's flirtation with the idea of going into the hotel business apparently has ended.

City Council members voted unanimously last week to look into the possibility of bidding for the lease of the financially troubled Huntington Beach Inn.

However, city officials have now indicated that acquisition of the lease and property would not be feasible because financing would be available only for a year. They said the city is barred from borrowing money for longer than a year.

Instead, the city filed action

Friday to block a bankruptcy judge from awarding a lease offer that has already been entered on the property for approximately $4 million.

Mayor Pro Tem Ron Shenkman, who heads a two-member council sub-committee looking into the Inn's operation, said the city is not questioning the financial ability of the group of businessmen seeking the lease.

He said he felt the plan wouldn't necessarily accommodate the alleged existing debts and encumbrances accumulated from previous operators of the hotel.

The businessmen seeking the lease say they are thoroughly miffed with the city council's actions.

Dave Thomas, one of three partners of the Structure Investment and Development Company of Costa Mesa, said Friday that the city had learned all details of the group's financial studies "and then decided to bid against us."

Thomas said he and his partners are concerned that there was no open meeting by city officials before they decided to enter bidding on the property along Pacific Coast Highway which includes a nine-hole golf course and the Driftwood Mobile Home Park.

"In a vague, five-minute dis-assertion, they decided to go ahead on action that involves a $5 million investment," he said.

"At no time did they mention a price total or how they were going to get the money," he said.

Shenkman said that innuendoes that the city pirated the results of the investment company's financial findings were absurd.

Dutch School Seized Train Hijacked by Terrorists

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Two groups of heavily armed South Moluccan extremists, striking two days before the Dutch general election, seized an elementary school and hijacked a train in the northern Netherlands today, authorities reported.

Police said six gunmen were believed holding 105 children and six teachers in the school and seven terrorists had about 50 hostages aboard the train.

It was the second double terrorist action by members of the Asian immigrant group in The Netherlands in 18 months.

South Moluccan activists demand that the Dutch intervene to help them win independence from Indonesia for their homeland, part of the former Dutch East Indies. The Dutch have called the demand unrealistic.

The former Spice Islands, the former Moluccan islands, are situated between the Celebes and New Guinea.

There was no report of casualties in today's twin strikes, which came at about the same time and about 10 miles apart. The attackers made no immediate demands.

The train was halted near the village of Onnen, just north of this city, and the school is in the village of Boven-Smilde, just south of here. Assen is about 130 miles northeast of Amsterdam.

A government official said the gunmen forced their way into the school, situated near a housing complex where some 500 South Moluccans reside, at the start of morning lessons. They quickly released about 15 South Moluccan children.

The gunmen covered the inside of windows in two rooms with paper, police said. When local South Moluccans tried to talk to them, the terrorists opened a window and fired a few shots, police said.

Shortly after noon, a group of anxious parents tried to rush the school but were held back by police.

Fired Director Plans Action

By GARY GRANVILLE

Dr. Michael Levine said today he will "take legal action" to gain reinstatement as director of Fairview State Hospital.

Levine was fired abruptly last week after eight stormy months at the helm of the 1,600-patient mental hospital in Costa Mesa.

Levine said today his motive for challenging his ouster is to keep programs he has started alive and to stop what he called the "developmental death" of Fairview patients.

The ousted director lashed out at State Department of Health officials for failing to comply with standards established by the Federal Handicapped Bill of Rights (Public Law 94-103).

"I have been literally battling for my patients' rights in the face of consistent, unreasoning opposition," from Department of Health officials, Levine said.

He called his firing last week "as capricious and flimsy as the state's administration of its own state hospital system."

Levine said misdirected state officials are jeopardizing $300 million in federal funds by failing to provide adequate programs for the developmentally disabled.

It was his insistence as director of Fairview that implementation of the federal program begin that eventually caused his ouster, Levine said.

He charged, for example, that under his administration $30,000 in drug costs had been saved by encouraging patients to awaken from drug-induced helplessness.

And, he added, his administration had taken steps to prepare some developmentally disabled persons to begin training for community-based care.

However, Levine said, "I think it improper then that I be fired simply because I am too outspoken for the bureaucrats."

He said that through legal societies there will be an attempt made to determine if it is legally

HE'LL FIGHT OUSTER

possible to fire a director simply because that director is critical of state policies.

A second part of the legal challenge will center on first amendment freedom of speech rights, Levine said.

The ex-Fairview director cited praise for his abilities contained in his dismissal letter as an indication of the "bizarre behavior" of state officials.

Single out for criticism by Levine at a well attended press conference in Santa Ana were Don Z. Miller, a state deputy director, and William C. Keating, a state health official.

the Dutch railway system, said the engineer and conductor of the commandeered four-car train reported that about 50 of its 100 passengers escaped after the gunmen hijacked it during the morning rush-hour.

Police said the submachine gun-armed hijackers, who fired shots through the roof of one car as they climbed aboard, later released some elderly persons.

The two crewmen either were forced to leave the train or escaped when it was stopped, Uffing said.

HOTEL...

"We have our own set of records on the hotel and to think we had to use someone else's figures is absolutely ridiculous."

"I haven't even seen their offer," he said.

The award of the lease had been scheduled Tuesday in the Federal Bankruptcy Court in Santa Ana.

The city council is expected to deal with the matter more fully tonight at a meeting at 7 p.m. at council chambers.

COVER-UP...

Attorneys for Mitchell were out of their office and not reachable immediately.

On April 21, National Public Radio reported that the court voted 5-3 at its private conference April 15 to turn down the appeals but that Chief Justice Warren E. Burger held up announcing the decision in an attempt to muster enough votes to grant review. The votes of four justices are needed to grant review of such cases.

Lawyers for the cover-up defendants asked the court for permission to argue that the justices should reverse the convictions because of the news leak. The attorneys said the report tainted the court's deliberations, adversely affecting the rights of their clients.

The court denied that request May 2.

Mitchell and Haldeman were sentenced to 30 months to eight years in prison for conspiracy, obstruction of justice and giving false testimony under oath in what prosecutors said was an attempt to conceal governmental misconduct in the Watergate scandal.

Ehrlichman, also convicted of conspiracy in connection with the 1971 "plumbers" burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, last October chose to begin serving his prison terms pending appeals of both convictions.

He also was sentenced to 30 months to eight years for his role in the Watergate cover-up, and drew a 20-month to five-year prison term for the burglary conspiracy case, the sentences to be served concurrently. Ehrlichman is a prisoner at the Swift Trail Federal Prison camp at Safford, Ariz.

On Feb. 22, the Supreme Court turned down his appeal of the burglary conspiracy conviction.

In their appeals, Mitchell, Haldeman and Ehrlichman said their trial should have been postponed to allow the "massive and extraordinarily extensive" publicity surrounding it to die down.

HB Cyclist Killed Near Victorville

A 46-year-old Huntington Beach man was fatally injured near Victorville Saturday afternoon when he was thrown 200 feet from his motorcycle, San Bernardino County Coroner's officials reported.

Kenneth Arlan Brady, 46, of 16551 Marie Lane, was pronounced dead on arrival at 5:19 p.m. at Victor Valley Hospital. Officials said Brady died of multiple head injuries in the accident even though he wore a protective helmet.

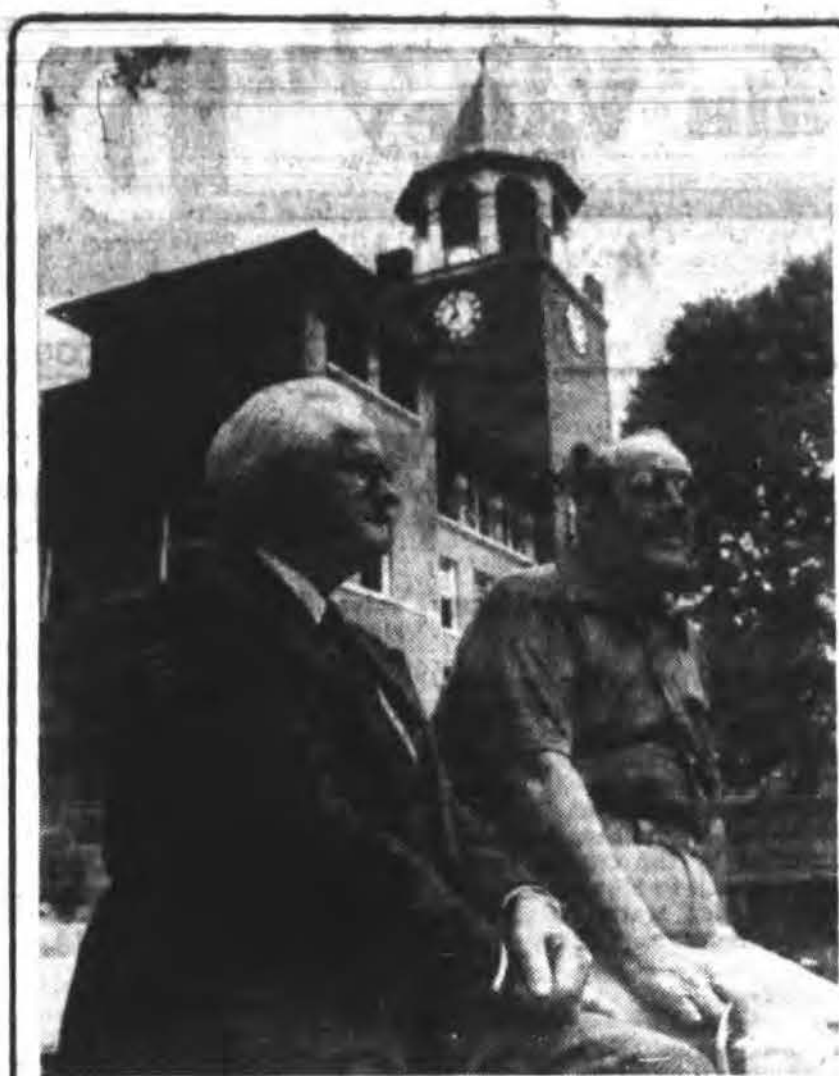

Brady was reportedly on a weekend outing with his family at El Mirage Dry Lake.

Investigators said Brady apparently lost control of his motorcycle when it hit a berm in the lake.

An autopsy will be performed today. Funeral services are pending.

Trial Recalled Scopes Court Facelifted

DAYTON, Tenn. (AP) — The site of the famous Scopes monkey trial is getting a facelift, thanks to preservationists who fought an attempt to replace the historic building with a steel-and-glass courthouse.

IN FACT, A FORMER waterboy at the trial is one of those responsible for making sure the courthouse look just as it did that hot week in July 1925 when Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan argued evolution versus the Bible.

A gallery of reporters — six for The Associated Press alone — and more than 500 spectators hung on every word. A Chicago radio station broadcast proceedings live from the 350-seat courtroom.

"FEELINGS RAN very high," said Giles Ryan, then a 17-year-old student of John Scopes who fetched soft drinks and water for Darrow and Bryan. "The sheriff and the judge were so worried that a riot might break out in the courtroom that they forbid me to bring in Coke bottles for the lawyers."

Ryan, now a retired Navy captain and vice president of the Rhea County Historical Society, remembers Scopes talking about stirring things up in the sleepy southeastern Tennessee town.

"We weren't even to that chapter in 'Hunter's Biology,'" said Ryan. "But he skipped halfway through the book to teach us that chapter and create the episode they needed to create a test case."

The lesson didn't make much of an impression on some students.

"I HONESTLY couldn't tell you whether he taught us evolution that day or not," said Harry J. Shelton, who was in the same class. "I was about as interested in evolution then as I am now."

Shelton was a witness in the trial which led to Scopes' conviction for teaching evolution.

"I wasn't what you'd call a brilliant witness," he said. "Darrow asked me if Scopes' teaching had any effect on my religious beliefs and I said no — I'd never really given it any thought."

"It was the old people who really thought they were attacking the Bible," said Ryan. "Feelings ran quite high around here. Why, my father would almost have joined in a mob to defend the Bible."

Nude Visitor Jailed in HB

A visiting Pennsylvanian, who allegedly wore nothing but an Orange County street map when he asked a woman for directions, was told exactly where he was going by Huntington Beach police Saturday.

They stopped his older, aqua-colored compact sedan at 16th

Street and Orange Avenue, just minutes after the shocked victim ran to a telephone to report the episode.

Investigators who booked the suspect on misdemeanor indecent exposure charges at city jail could offer no reason for his nudity.

Trustees To Study 'Impasse'

Trustees of Huntington Beach's Ocean View School District are expected to respond tonight to a Friday impasse declaration by district teachers over 1977-78 contract negotiations.

District and teacher negotiators currently are far apart on salary demands. The district is offering a 4.1 percent pay raise for the next school year.

Teachers, represented by the Ocean View Teachers Association, are seeking a 15 percent raise for 1977-78 and an additional 6.5 percent raise for 1978-79, a district spokesman said today.

Other issues still to be settled include teacher requests for binding arbitration and teacher transfer and evaluation policies.

Tonight's school board meeting begins at 7 p.m. at district offices, 7972 Warner Ave.

Huntington Cyclist Rites Slated Today

A funeral procession of motorcyclists was scheduled to escort the body of a Huntington Beach man killed in a chopper bike crash Thursday to his final resting place today.

Rites for Kenneth Alan Helm, 26, of 16875 Nichols St., were scheduled for 2 p.m. at Dilday Brothers Mortuary, with interment to follow at Rose Hills Memorial Park in Whittier.

Police confirmed they anticipated large numbers of motorcyclists for the funeral itself, although Mr. Helm's family planned private interment ceremonies.

Complaining neighbors sent police to the Helm home Sunday night, investigators said, after biker friends staging a wake observance about 11 p.m. became a bit too boisterous.

Accident Investigator Officer John Berens said today, meanwhile, that it is still undetermined what caused the crash that claimed Mr. Helm's life Thursday evening.

Friends had just given him a push to start his customized 1948 Harley-Davidson motorcycle, which was low on fuel, at the Main Street Saloon, on Main Street near the city pier.

The victim proceeded north and after less than two blocks, the slowly-moving machine swerved into the curb between Orange and Olive avenues.

He was hurled headfirst into a concrete street light standard, sustaining almost instantly fatal head injuries. He wore no safety helmet.

Mortuary spokesmen said today Mr. Helm leaves his wife Frances, a son, Kenneth Jr., a daughter, Tracy, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Helm of Whittier, a brother Steve and a sister, Drena.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The FBI swooped down on two flea markets and seized 2,600 allegedly pirated eight-track commercial tape recordings valued at $18,000. No arrests were made.

Fatal Fire Cause Sought In Seal Beach

Seal Beach fire investigators today sought the cause of a Saturday morning blaze which took the life of a 41-year-old woman in her two-story hillside home.

Orange County Coroner's officials identified the woman as Charlene L. Brunson. The fire began in her home at 1235 Catalina Ave. at about 4:40 a.m.

Mrs. Brunson's 8-year-old son, Charles, pushed his brother, Kile, 6, out a bathroom window to safety only to be overcome by smoke, fire officials said.

A passerby, Chris Mates, saw the young boy attempting to escape and pulled Charles from the burning house.

Charles and Kile were treated and released from Los Alamitos Hospital, officials said.

Damage to the Seal Beach home was estimated at $115,000 by fire investigators.

Northern Area Due Showers

By The Associated Press
A chance of showers has been forecast for most of Northern California, according to the National Weather Service.

Skies should be mostly cloudy and temperatures a bit cooler.

High temperatures are expected in the 60s and 70s and low temperatures should be in the 40s.

Snow could fall in the mountains above 6,000 feet.

Ex-Siberian Prisoner Awaits Family 'They Won't Believe' Country

DETROIT (AP) — An American imprisoned for 18 years in the Soviet Union and allowed to return to the United States only last year, 19 years after he was freed, can hardly wait for the arrival of the two daughters he left behind.

When they get to New York on Wednesday and see this country for the first time, "they won't believe it," says Victor Herman. The oldest daughter, Svetlana, now 25, was a baby when the family survived by eating rats in Siberia.

Svetlana and Janna, 20, will be moving in with him in a Detroit suburb. His fight to get them to the United States took more than a year, but it wasn't nearly as long as his own battle to come home.

Herman, 61, was born in Detroit. In 1931, he sailed to Russia with his parents and 300 other Detroit families to help build an automobile plant under the auspices of the Russian government and Ford Motor Company.

"I was working part time at Ford, and my boss told me if I went and stayed in Russia a few years and got a good education I could come back to a good future."

But after he became well known as an athlete and stunt pilot in the Soviet Union, he decided to remain there.

He said that in 1938, when he was 22, he was arrested without explanation.

He spent the next 18 years imprisoned in Siberia.

Herman remembered being beaten for 54 consecutive nights, and said he avoided starvation at his labor camp by trapping and eating rats. He and his wife, Galina, and infant daughter lived in a dugout, and during the blizzards, he told his family what he remembered of America.

"The rats helped me survive," he said. One day they also inspired his resolve to return to the United States.

He had captured a rat for the day's meal and saw two guards eating American rations.

"My heart began crying," he said. "I could feel the blood dripping inside. I thought, I am an American citizen standing here with a rat in my hand — and glad to have it — and they had American food. It was then I knew that I would live."

"I had a surge of energy, and I knew I would go back someday and tell people what happened."

In 1956, Herman said, he was sent to another slave labor camp in the southwest Soviet Union.

He was released a year later, then spent almost 20 years trying to get back to the United States.

He won permission in March 1976 and boarded a plane in Moscow, leaving his family behind. His wife divorced him "to avoid government censure as the wife of a man who chose to leave Russia," he said.

From the day he returned, he tried to get his daughters to join him. About a month ago, after he contacted the U.S. State Department, the American Embassy in Moscow and the Committee for Soviet Jewry, Svetlana and Janna were told they could join their father.

"They won't believe it when they see the A&P with shelves stocked with food and the market not crowded with thousands of people trying to buy goods," said Herman, who has written a book about his experience and is looking for a job that will use his skills in Russian.

His daughters are expected to arrive in New York on Wednesday. They will move with their father into a brick duplex in Oak Park, a suburb of Detroit. Herman said Ford had promised to help his daughters get training as computer programmers.

"When the girls get here," Herman said, "they will try to bring their mother over."

Quick Irvine Act Backs Housing Bill

By HILARY KAYE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

After a quickly called meeting at Irvine city hall Sunday night, city officials flew to Sacramento today to support a bill that opposes requiring cities to pay for subsidized housing.

The emergency meeting ended with a 3-2 split on the council, with Councilwoman Mary Ann Gaido and Gabrielle Pryor voting against the majority.

The majority voted to authorize council and staff members to support any legislation in Sacramento that would ease the subsidized housing burden on cities and counties.

"It was a vote to determine if we favored local agencies supplying subsidized housing, and we clearly said no," Mayor David Sills remarked after the meeting.

Sills explained he called the special meeting when he learned that all five council members did not agree on the issue of who should provide subsidized housing.

He said the council voted unanimously Jan. 25 to support bills that would ease the burden on cities, but that some council members had changed their minds.

Sills was expected to be the Irvine spokesman at today's local government subcommittee hearing, when Sen. Paul Carpenter's SB 1058 will be argued.

Carpenter's bill, if passed, would eliminate a state requirement that cities and counties generate local revenue to pay for subsidized housing for low and moderate income residents.

City Attorney Jim Erickson said Irvine officials were instrumental in persuading Carpenter to introduce his bill.

Sills was accompanied today by City Manager Bill Woollett and by Erickson. Councilman John Burton was also in Sacramento on business and said he might attend the hearing, too.

Councilwoman Mary Ann Gaido flew to Sacramento on the same plane today, but no one was certain what her purpose was.

Burton said he assumed she would represent the council's minority view, but said she had not told anyone of her intentions. Sills commented that Carpenter's bill has an "excellent chance" of being approved.

"It has bipartisan support. Few cities are willing to bite the (See HOUSING, Page A2)

Fired Director Plans Action

HE'LL FIGHT OUSTER
Dr. Michael Levine

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dr. Michael Levine said today he will "take legal action" to gain reinstatement as director of Fairview State Hospital.

Levine was fired abruptly last week after eight stormy months at the helm of the 1,600-patient mental hospital in Costa Mesa.

Levine said today his motive for challenging his ouster is to keep programs he has started alive and to stop what he called the "developmental death" of Fairview patients.

The ousted director lashed out at State Department of Health officials for failing to comply with standards established by the Federal Handicapped Bill of Rights (Public law 94-103).

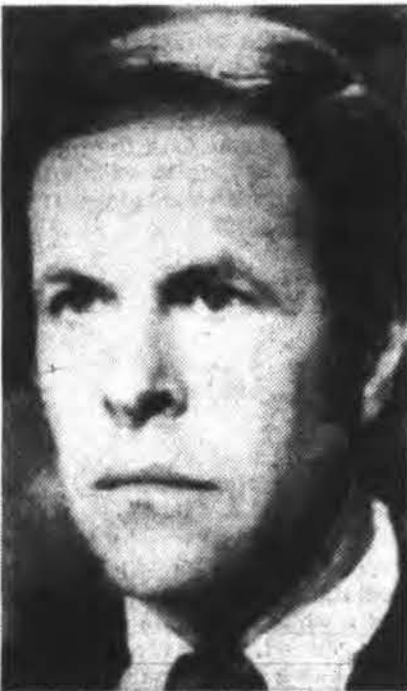

"I have been literally battling for my patients' rights in the face of consistent, unreasoning opposition," from Department of Health officials, Levine said.

He called his firing last week "as capricious and flimsy as the state's administration of its own state hospital system."

Levine said misdirected state officials are jeopardizing $300 million in federal funds by failing to provide adequate programs for the developmentally disabled.

It was his insistence as director of Fairview that implementation of the federal program begin that eventually caused his ouster, Levine said.

He charged, for example, that under his administration $30,000 in drug costs had been saved by (See LEVINE, Page A2)

'NOTHING TO SAY'
LA Resident Haldeman

'Unfair' Claims Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court upheld today the Watergate cover-up convictions of former Atty. Gen. John D. Mitchell and one-time White House aide H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

Mitchell and Haldeman have remained free pending the outcome of this appeal. Ehrlichman already is in prison. The court's action today means Mitchell and Haldeman likely will be imprisoned soon.

The justices rejected the claims by the three powerful officials of former President Nixon's administration that the three-month trial that ended in their convictions Jan. 1, 1975 was unfair.

The justices made no comment in refusing to review the case. There were no recorded dissents, but Justice William H. Rehnquist noted that he took no part in deciding the case.

Normally it takes about 10 days for a Supreme Court refusal to review a conviction to go back down to district court, which then tells a defendant the date when he must begin serving his sentence.

All three were convicted in the court of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who will set the imprisonment date for Mitchell and Haldeman.

Reached at his home in Los Angeles, Haldeman said he would have "nothing to say" on the court's decision.

John J. Wilson, attorney for Haldeman, said he will ask the high court again to hear the case.

A request for reconsideration would delay the imprisonment date.

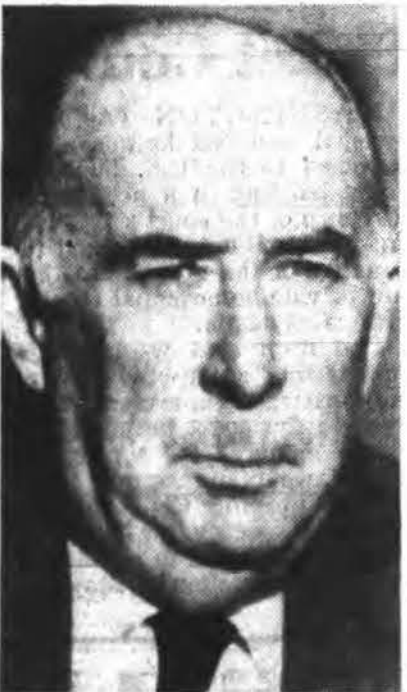

Attorneys for Mitchell were out of their office and not reachable immediately.

On April 21, National Public Radio reported that the court voted 5-3 at its private conference April 15 to turn down the appeals but that Chief Justice Warren E. Burger held up announcing the decision in an attempt to muster enough votes to grant review. The votes of four justices are needed to grant review of such cases.

Lawyers for the cover-up defendants asked the court for permission to argue that the justices should reverse the convictions because of the news leak. The attorneys said the report tainted the court's deliberations, adversely affecting the rights of their clients.

The court denied that request May 2.

Railroad Project Probed in Irvine

Irvine transportation commissioners will meet tonight at Irvine City Hall to discuss a railroad lowering project, priorities for CalTrans projects and the bicycle committee.

The meeting, open to the public, will begin at 7:30 p.m. None of the items are action items but commissioners are expected to discuss and update each topic.

Concert Slated By Guitarists

One hundred and fifty guitar students will entertain students and parents Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at Rancho San Joaquin Intermediate School in Irvine.

The guitar presentation, "Guitar Goes Continental," is the culmination of the interdepartmental study of Europe by the Fine Arts and Language Departments.

Students will see the show Tuesday and Wednesday, with parents and the general public scheduled for a 7:30 p.m. presentation Thursday. All shows are free of charge.

Blaze Hits Irvine Trees

Flames swept through a dozen eucalyptus trees in the Northwood area of Irvine Sunday morning, apparently the result of a still-smoldering campfire.

County fire officials said the blaze caused no appreciable damage. Two of the trees had to be cut down, but those were already scheduled to be toppled due to the new Ponderosa Homes development in Northwood.

The site was on Perez Road, north of Irvine Boulevard, an isolated area, firemen said. The fire was spotted by an Irvine Ranch deputy.

Police Grab Two Suspects In Robbery

Two Los Angeles men who allegedly walked off with $1,500 from a San Juan Capistrano gas station Sunday were captured in Costa Mesa by Irvine police.

Police officer Gary West said he spotted the black and brown Lincoln Continental on the San Diego Freeway and followed it to Newport Boulevard and Mesa Drive.

West said after he stopped the car, Sheriff's deputies arrived and made the burglary arrests. The men were identified as Charles Leon Cooks, 22, of Inglewood, and Victor Lee Allen, 23, of Los Angeles.

Terrorists Seize Classrooms, Train

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP)

Two groups of heavily armed South Moluccan extremists, striking two days before the Dutch general election, seized an elementary school and hijacked a train in the northern Netherlands today, authorities reported.

Police said six gunmen were believed holding 105 children and six teachers in the school and seven terrorists had about 50 hostages aboard the train.

It was the second double terrorist action by members of the Asian immigrant group in The Netherlands in 18 months.

South Moluccan activists demand that the Dutch intervene to help them win independence from Indonesia for their homeland, part of the former Dutch East Indies. The Dutch have called the demand unrealistic.

The Moluccan islands, the former Spice Islands, are situated between the Celebes and New Guinea.

There was no report of casualties in today's twin strikes, which came at about the same time and about 10 miles apart. The attackers made no immediate demands.

The train was halted near the village of Onnen, just north of this city, and the school is in the village of Boven-Smilde, just south of here. Assen is about 130 miles northeast of Amsterdam.

A government official said the gunmen forced their way into the school, situated near a housing complex where some 500 South Moluccans reside, at the start of morning lessons. They quickly released about 15 South Moluccan children.

The gunmen covered the inside of windows in two rooms with paper, police said. When local South Moluccans tried to talk to them, the terrorists opened a window and fired a few shots, police said.

Shortly after noon, a group of anxious parents tried to rush the school but were held back by police.

Hans Uffing, a spokesman for the Dutch railway system, said the engineer and conductor of the commandeered four-car train reported that about 50 of its 100 passengers escaped after the gunmen hijacked it during the morning rush-hour.

Police said the submachine gun-armed hijackers, who fired shots through the roof of one car as they climbed aboard, later released some elderly persons.

The two crewmen either were forced to leave the train or escaped when it was stopped, Uffing said.

Top Spender $5 a Vote for Winner

MARY PHILLIPS spent nearly $5 per vote to get elected to the Saddleback Valley Unified School District board, county records show.

That's more than her four closest competitors combined, and the top vote getter said most of the $17,311 came from her own pocketbook.

County Registrar of Voters officials said they did not know if Mrs. Phillips war chest total was a record or not. County education officials also do not keep such records.

Mrs. Phillips, who had planned her campaign for two years, said the money spent on the hustings was worth it.

"I WAS COMMITTED to try to help get a better education for the kids and that's what it took," she said this morning.

She said it has become expensive to run for any public office, adding, "We were fortunate we had the money. We were blessed enough to have it, and we could use it to get what we wanted."

The second highest spender among the 14 candidates seeking two seats was Juneanne DeCasas, who spent $4,521 on her unsuccessful campaign.

Dana Point

700-pound Pot Cache Grabbed

Laguna Beach narcotics detectives and U.S. Customs Agents seized 700 pounds of marijuana at Dana Point Harbor Sunday and arrested five men on charges of possession of marijuana for sale.

The arrests concluded a month-long investigation. Authorities placed the value of the contraband at $160,000.

A 30-foot sailboat was impounded at the harbor. Police said they recovered, besides the marijuana stashed in large gunny sacks, a shotgun, walkie-talkie and a rental van.

Arrested were:
—John A. Metheany, 52, of 1104 Miramar St., Laguna Beach, who works as a restaurant manager.

—Jerry A. Metheany, 25, his son, of Anaheim, an accountant for a Dana Point restaurant.

—David M. Poley, 27, described by police as a transient, self-employed jack of all trades.

—Paul B. Meyerhof, 23, of 245 San Joaquin St., Laguna Beach, an unemployed cook.

—Joseph R. McConnell, 23, of 34042 Malaga Drive, Dana Point, an unemployed waiter.

All were held on $5,000 bail. Arraignment is set for Tuesday.

Police Capt. Neil Purcell said surveillance of the sailboat began Saturday morning, when a team under the direction of Laguna Beach investigator Don Barney began a long wait for the craft, the Ambush III.

Purcell said the boat slipped past Harbor Patrol lookouts because its operators had changed the lettering of the name at sea so that it read Bush II upon its return.

Purcell said officers watched from behind cover as several large bags were unloaded at the dock into several vehicles. McConnell's arrest came after Barney trailed one of the vans.

Followup investigation led to the other arrests, Purcell said.

Police believe the marijuana was smuggled from Mexico.

Purcell said the sailboat was registered to the younger Metheany.

Pair Slug Woman in Robbery

Two men who broke into a Lake Forest home Sunday night clubbed the woman occupant with a gun after tying and gagging her 35-year-old son, Orange County Sheriff's officers said today.

Deputies said the two intruders apparently entered the home via a rear sliding glass window and attacked the two occupants who were told to produce any money and jewelry they might have in the home.

Officers said Jerry Bernheimer, 35, was left bound upstairs in the home at 22715 Isla Mere, but managed to free himself and reach his rifle while the intruders were ransacking the downstairs rooms.

Officers said Bernheimer fired two shots through the bedroom window in a bid to summon help to the home. They said the intruders then abandoned their search and fled from the home leaving Mrs. Veronica Onstead, in the living room.

Mrs. Onstead was taken to a local hospital and allowed to return home after medical treatment. Officers said nothing of value was taken from the home.

encouraging patients to awaken from drug-induced helplessness.

And, he added, his administration had taken steps to prepare some developmentally disabled persons to begin training for community-based care.

However, Levine said, "I think it improper then that I be fired simply because I am too outspoken for the bureaucrats."

He said that through legal societies there will be an attempt made to determine if it is legally possible to fire a director simply because that director is critical of state policies.

A second part of the legal challenge will center on first amendment freedom of speech rights, Levine said.

The ex-Fairview director cited praise for his abilities contained in his dismissal letter as an indication of the "bizarre behavior" of state officials.

Singled out for criticism by Levine at a well attended press conference in Santa Ana were Don Z. Miller, a state deputy director, and William C. Keating, a state health official.

Sex Guide Under Fire

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Four students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology face censure, probation or dismissal following the publication of a guide to the sexual prowess of MIT men.

The two women who conducted the survey, the editor of the campus paper "Thursday," and a "Thursday" staff member, went before a university disciplinary committee.

The authors of the article, "Consumer Guide to MIT Men," Roxanne Ritchie and Susan Gilbert, named 36 men and rated their sexual performance on a scale from zero to four stars.

Mesa Teen Injured in Irvine Crash

A 19-year-old Costa Mesa man suffered cuts and bruises early Sunday when his car ran off the road in Irvine and smashed into a utility pole, a bus stop sign, a bench and no parking sign.

Irvine Police said Kevin Peter Arbuckle, 911 Victoria St., was pinned inside his small car and had to be cut out. He was treated at Tustin Community Hospital and released.

Police said Arbuckle was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving following the 3 a.m. crash on Culver Drive near Ferris Street. Officers said his car was a total wreck.

MOAB, Utah (AP) — a Fullerton woman missing nearly 44 hours in Canyonlands National Park, was found in good condition by park rangers.

Lisa Lane became separated from a group of 40 geology students on Thursday while hiking in the park's Salt Creek area.

She apparently wandered through the area while the group searched for her for 24 hours before notifying park officials.

Found Saturday by Rangers, she was taken to Moab for a checkup and released in good condition.

Rare Porpoise Dies at Newport

A young porpoise that beachgoers mistook for a killer whale, attracted large crowds Sunday near the Newport Pier until it beached itself and died, lifeguards reported today.

Lifeguard Lt. Logan Lockabey said the marine mammal has since been identified as a rare Dall porpoise. He said the remains will be turned over to the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History for study.

The Dall porpoise, which inhabits the Pacific coast from the Gulf of Alaska to Baja California is rarely seen in the southern waters, according to Gordon Cribbs of the state Department of Fish and Game.

Lockabey said the porpoise attracted a large crowd of beachgoers when it was first spotted close to shore near the pier because it looked like a killer whale.

"Some of those people wanted to get into the water and touch it. We really had a time keeping them away," said the lifeguard.

Lockabey said the young porpoise had a wound on its underside which apparently led to its death.

Cribbs explained that the Dall porpoise does not have a beak like the more familiar southland

Nixon's comments from an interview with David Frost that will be aired Wednesday night are quoted in the current issue of Newsweek magazine.

The magazine said the former president had calls and letters from White House aides H.R.

Haldeman and John Ehrlichman recommending he couple a Watergate pardon with amnesty for draft evaders in the Vietnam war.

"The second part of it was totally out of the question as far as I was concerned," Nixon was quoted as saying.

"As for the first part, I would like to have been able to have found a way to help... but I was resigning office for primarily the reason that I wanted to get the whole Watergate obsession, which had then reached fever heat, cooled down.

"If my last act was to pardon everybody who was in Watergate... that would inflame the situation and also would obviously look like the ultimate coverup."

Nixon made no reference to impeachment proceedings in Congress in discussing his resignation.

The Supreme Court upheld Virginia's sodomy law on March 29, 1976. It refused to reconsider that ruling the following May 19.

A gallery of reporters — six for The Associated Press alone — and more than 500 spectators hung on every word. A Chicago radio station broadcast proceedings live from the 350-seat courtroom.

"FEELINGS RAN very high," said Giles Ryan, then a 17-year-old student of John Scopes who fetched soft drinks and water for Darrow and Bryan. "The sheriff and the judge were so worried that a riot might break out in the courtroom that they forbade me to bring in Coke bottles for the lawyers."

Ryan, now a retired Navy captain and vice president of the Rhea County Historical Society, remembers Scopes talking about stirring things up in the sleepy southeastern Tennessee town.

"We weren't even to that chapter in 'Hunter's Biology,'" said Ryan. "But he skipped halfway through the book to teach us that chapter and create the episode they needed to create a test case."

The lesson didn't make much of an impression on some students.

"I HONESTLY couldn't tell you whether he taught us evolution that day or not," said Harry J. Shelton, who was in the same class. "I was about as interested in evolution then as I am now."

Shelton was a witness in the trial which led to Scopes' conviction for teaching evolution.

"I wasn't what you'd call a brilliant witness," he said. "Darrow asked me if Scopes' teaching had any effect on my religious beliefs and I said no — I'd never really given it any thought."

"It was the old people who really thought they were attacking the Bible," said Ryan. "Feelings ran quite high around here. Why, my father would almost have joined in a mob to defend the Bible."

Prisoner's Family To Meet

DETROIT (AP) — An American imprisoned for 18 years in the Soviet Union and allowed to return to the United States only last year, 19 years after he was freed, can hardly wait for the arrival of the two daughters he left behind.

When they get to New York on Wednesday and see this country for the first time, "they won't believe it," says Victor Herman. The oldest daughter, Svetlana, now 25, was a baby when the family survived by eating rats in Siberia.

Svetlana and Janna, 20, will be moving in with him in a Detroit suburb. His fight to get them to the United States took more than a year, but it wasn't nearly as long as his own battle to come home.

Herman, 61, was born in Detroit. In 1931, he sailed to Russia with his parents and 300 other Detroit families to help build an automobile plant under the auspices of the Russian government and Ford Motor Company.

"I was working part time at Ford, and my boss told me if I went and stayed in Russia a few years and got a good education I could come back to a good future."

But after he became well known as an athlete and stunt pilot in the Soviet Union, he decided to remain there.

He said that in 1938, when he was 22, he was arrested without explanation.

He spent the next 18 years imprisoned in Siberia.

Herman remembered being beaten for 54 consecutive nights, and said he avoided starvation at his labor camp by starving at his home. He and his wife, Galina, and infant daughter lived in a dugout, and during the blizzards, he told his family what he remembered of America.

"The rats helped me survive," he said. One day they also inspired his resolve to return to the United States.

He had captured a rat for the day's meal and saw two guards eating American rations.

"My heart began crying," he said. "I could feel the blood dripping inside. I thought, I am an American citizen standing here with a rat in my hand — and glad to have it — and they had American food. It was then I knew that I would live."

"I had a surge of energy, and I knew I would go back someday and tell people what happened."

In 1956, Herman said, he was sent to another slave labor camp in the southwest Soviet Union.

He was released a year later, then spent almost 20 years trying to get back to the United States.

He won permission in March 1976 and boarded a plane in Moscow, leaving his family behind. His wife divorced him "to avoid government censure as the wife of a man who chose to leave Russia," he said.

From the day he returned, he tried to get his daughters to join him. About a month ago, after he contacted the U.S. State Department, the American Embassy in Moscow and the Committee for Soviet Jewry, Svetlana and Janna were told they could join their father.

Fatal Fire Cause Sought In Seal Beach

Seal Beach fire investigators today sought the cause of a Saturday morning blaze which took the life of a 41-year-old woman in her two-story hillside home.

Orange County Coroner's officials identified the woman as Charlene L. Brunson. The fire began in her home at 1235 Catalina Ave. at about 4:40 a.m.

Mrs. Brunson's 8-year-old son, Charles, pushed his brother, Kile, 6, out a bathroom window to safety only to be overcome by smoke, fire officials said.

A passerby, Chris Mates, saw the young boy attempting to escape and pulled Charles from the burning house.

Charles and Kile were treated and released from Los Alamitos Hospital, officials said.

Damage to the Seal Beach home was estimated at $115,000 by fire investigators.

Fired Fairview Boss Plans Fight

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff
Dr. Michael Levine said today he will "take legal action" to gain reinstatement as director of Fairview State Hospital.

Levine was fired abruptly last week after eight stormy months at the helm of the 1,600-patient mental hospital in Costa Mesa. Levine said today his motive for challenging his ouster is to keep programs he has started alive and to stop what he called the "developmental death" of Fairview patients.

The ousted director lashed out at State Department of Health officials for failing to comply with standards established by the Federal Handicapped Bill of Rights (Public Law 94-103). "I have been literally battling for my patients' rights in the face of consistent, unreasoning opposition," from Department of Health officials, Levine said.

He called his firing last week "as capricious and flimsy as the state's administration of its own state hospital system." Levine said misdirected state officials are jeopardizing $300 million in federal funds by failing to provide adequate programs for the developmentally disabled.

It was his insistence as director of Fairview that implementation of the federal program begin that eventually caused his ouster, Levine said. He charged, for example, that under his administration $30,000 in drug costs had been saved by encouraging patients to awaken from drug-induced helplessness.

And, he added, his administration had taken steps to prepare some developmentally disabled persons to begin training for community-based care. However, Levine said, "I think it improper then that I be fired simply because I am too outspoken for the bureaucrats." He said that through legal societies there will be an attempt made to determine if it is legally possible to fire a director simply because that director is critical of state policies.

A second part of the legal challenge will center on first amendment freedom of speech rights, Levine said. The ex-Fairview director cited praise for his abilities contained in his dismissal letter as an indication of the "bizarre" (See LEVINE, Page A2)

Supreme Court OKs Watergate Convictions

'Unfair' Claims Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court upheld today the Watergate cover-up convictions of former Atty. Gen. John D. Mitchell and one-time White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman. Mitchell and Haldeman have remained free pending the outcome of this appeal. Ehrlichman already is in prison. The court's action today means Mitchell and Haldeman likely will be imprisoned soon.

The justices rejected the claims by the three powerful officials of former President Nixon's administration that the three-month trial that ended in their convictions Jan. 1, 1975 was unfair.

The justices made no comment in refusing to review the case. There were no recorded dissents, but Justice William H. Rehnquist noted that he took no part in deciding the case.

Normally it takes about 10 days for a Supreme Court refusal to review a conviction to go back down to district court, which then tells a defendant the date when he must begin serving his sentence.

All three were convicted in the court of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who will set the imprisonment date for Mitchell and Haldeman.

Reached at his home in Los Angeles, Haldeman said he would have "nothing to say" on the court's decision.

John J. Wilson, attorney for Haldeman, said he will ask the high court again to hear the case. A request for reconsideration would delay the imprisonment date.

Attorneys for Mitchell were out of their office and not reachable immediately.

On April 21, National Public Radio reported that the court voted 5-3 at its private conference April 15 to turn down the appeals but that Chief Justice Warren E. Burger held up announcing the decision in an attempt to muster enough votes to grant review. (See COVER-UP, Page A2)

Board Okays New Water Rate System

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Moulton-Niguel Water District directors have established a fixed charge for water use and an inverted rate structure for water consumption to encourage conservation by large users.

The board vote was 5-1. Director James G. Toepfer, a Mission Viejo Company vice president, dissented on grounds the new rates would be unfair to larger-than-average families.

The fixed charge would be $6 per bimonthly billing period, plus a rate of 20 cents per 100 cubic feet of consumption up to 1,000 cubic feet.

The new rate schedule increases to 30 cents per 100 cubic feet for the next 1,000 cubic feet and works up to 42 cents per 100 cubic feet for consumption greater than 4,000 cubic feet during a billing period.

Yielding somewhat to Toepfer's objections, the board agreed to review the matter in three months to determine if the desired water conservation objectives were being attained or if there were any undue hardships. (See WATER, Page A2)

5 Nabbed in Huge Pot Haul at Dana

Laguna Beach narcotics detectives and U.S. Customs Agents seized 700 pounds of marijuana at Dana Point Harbor Sunday and arrested five men on charges of possession of marijuana for sale. The arrests concluded a month-long investigation. Authorities placed the value of the contraband at $160,000.

A 30-foot sailboat was impounded at the harbor. Police said they recovered, besides the marijuana stashed in large gunny sacks, a shotgun, walkie-talkie and a rental van.

Arrested were: —John A. Metheny, 52, of 1104 Miramar St., Laguna Beach, who works as a restaurant manager.

—Jerry A. Metheny, 25, his son, of Anaheim, an accountant for a Dana Point restaurant.

—David M. Poley, 27, described by police as a transient, self-employed jack of all trades.

—Paul B. Meyerhof, 23, of 245 San Joaquin St., Laguna Beach, an unemployed cook.

—Joseph R. McConnell, 23, of 34042 Malaga Drive, Dana Point, an unemployed waiter.

All were held on $5,000 bail. Arraignment is set for Tuesday.

Police Investigate Alleged SC Rape

San Clemente police are investigating the reported kidnapping and rape of a 16-year-old Capistrano Beach girl.

The victim told Orange County Sheriff's deputies she was abducted from the pier area of San Clemente Saturday by a man and woman. She said she was drugged and raped "more than once" by the man with the assistance of the woman.

The girl was dropped off in Capistrano Beach Sunday night after being held captive in an unknown San Clemente house overnight, deputies reported.

The hysterical girl told deputies she was given some kind of drug in a drink provided by the couple. She said she blacked out shortly after getting into the couple's auto at the beach.

The crime will be investigated by city police because it was initiated in San Clemente, although the initial report was taken by the Sheriff's Department.

The woman described her assailants as being in their early 20s. The man was reported to be six feet tall and weighing about 170 pounds, with long blond-brown hair and beard.

The woman was slight in build and had frosted hair, the girl said.

Aside from the trauma of the experience, the girl was not seriously injured.

Davette Reynolds, 5, says she knows what to expect next September when she goes to kindergarten, because she has older sisters.

"In kindergarten, you color, play with toys, play outside — and I'm going to tell the teacher not to hit me," Davette said. "I can already write my name. I guess in kindergarten I'll learn how to read, but I don't know what good that will do."

Davette is one of about 20 children at San Clemente Preschool, who will be starting kindergarten in the fall. Most of the children attend the preschool while their parents are at work. Davette's mother is a waitress in San Clemente.

Kirk Smith said he is very proud of his dad, a San Clemente fireman. Kirk wants to be a fireman too. Asked what he does best, Kirk said he's a really good sleeper.

Pardons Considered

Nixon Claims He Studied Move

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Nixon says that in the final days of his presidency he considered granting pardons to everybody involved in Watergate but decided not to because it would "in-flame the situation," according to published reports.

Nixon's comments from an interview with David Frost that will be aired Wednesday night are quoted in the current issue of Newsweek magazine.

The magazine said the former president had calls and letters from White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman recommending he couple a Watergate pardon with amnesty for draft evaders in the Vietnam war.

"The second part of it was totally out of the question as far as I was concerned," Nixon was quoted as saying.

"As for the first part, I would like to have been able to have found a way to help... but I was resigning office for primarily the reason that I wanted to get the whole Watergate obsession, which had then reached fever heat, cooled down.

"If my last act was to pardon

everybody who was in Watergate... that would in-flame the situation and also would obviously look like the ultimate coverup."

Nixon made no reference to impeachment proceedings in Congress in discussing his resignation.

Newsweek said Nixon admitted he and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger had a tear-filled prayer session on their knees at the height of Watergate, and that he swore Kissinger to secrecy.

The incident was previously disclosed in the book "The Final Days."

COVER-UP. .

The votes of four justices are needed to grant review of such cases.

Lawyers for the cover-up defendants asked the court for permission to argue that the justices should reverse the convictions because of the news leak. The attorneys said the report tainted the court's deliberations, adversely affecting the rights of their clients.

The court denied that request May 2.

Mitchell and Haldeman were sentenced to 30 months to eight years in prison for conspiracy, obstruction of justice and giving false testimony under oath in what prosecutors said was an attempt to conceal governmental misconduct in the Watergate scandal.

Ehrlichman, also convicted of conspiracy in connection with the 1971 "plumbers' burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, last October chose to begin serving his prison terms pending appeals of both convictions.

He also was sentenced to 30 months to eight years for his role in the Watergate cover-up, and drew a 20-month to five-year prison term for the burglary conspiracy case, the sentences to be served concurrently. Ehrlichman is a prisoner at the Swift Trail Federal Prison camp at Safford, Ariz.

On Feb. 22, the Supreme Court turned down his appeal of the burglary conspiracy conviction.

In their appeals, Mitchell, Haldeman and Ehrlichman said their trial should have been postponed to allow the "massive and extraordinarily extensive" publicity surrounding it to die down.

$5 a Vote for Winner

MARY PHILLIPS spent nearly $5 per vote to get elected to the Saddleback Valley Unified School District board, county records show.

That's more than her four closest competitors combined, and the top vote getter said most of the $17,311 came from her own pocketbook.

County Registrar of Voters officials said they did not know if Mrs. Phillips was the only one who did not keep such records.

Mrs. Phillips, who had planned her campaign for two years, said the money spent on the hustings was worth it.

"I WAS COMMITTED to try to help get a better education for the kids and that's what it took," she said this morning.

She said it has become expensive to run for any public office, adding, "We were fortunate we had the money. We were blessed enough to have it, and we could use it to get what we wanted."

The second highest spender among the 14 candidates seeking two seats was Juneanne DeCasas, who spent $4,521 on her unsuccessful campaign.

Development Uncertain

No Decision Reached on Sycamore Hills

Supporters of a drive to keep the Sycamore Hills in Laguna Beach free of housing development caucused in Saturday and Sunday meetings and appeared to back away from an initiative drive to zone the property for open space.

Dr. Thomas Alexander, president of Laguna Greenbelt, Inc., and chairman of the ad hoc Save Sycamore Hills committee, said the joint meeting with Village Laguna Sunday ended in no firm decisions.

"We will continue to explore the possibilities to save the Greenbelt," he said.

The Sycamore Hills is located in a V formed above the intersection of Laguna Canyon Road and El Toro Road. Last week the City Council voted approval of a zoning ordinance that would allow up to 156 houses to be built there.

The ordinance also allows agricultural or recreational uses. A final vote is scheduled at the council's June 1 meeting.

The decision and debate that led to it were heatedly discussed in the community, with warnings of recalls of councilmen and a threat to petition for a vote of the people to forbid housing in the Sycamore Hills.

Alexander had said he favored the initiative procedure.

But this weekend, Alexander said, Greenbelt backers "revealed a feeling there probably was no urgency in taking any action at the present time."

"There is no hurry for an initiative," he said. "Time is on our side — time to explore it in depth."

The time Alexander referred to is the six months there are before a scheduled January Superior Court trial of a $37 million lawsuit for inverse condemnation brought against the city by property owner Rancho Palos Verdes Corp. —

Greenwall, Chase Join Plan Panel

The San Clemente City Council named William Greenwall, a former member of the Parks and Recreation Commission, to the city planning commission, and reappointed Planning Commissioner James Chase to a new four-year term on the panel in action recently.

The two were among 14 persons who sought appointment to the planning commission.

Greenwall has been a parks and recreation commissioner for seven years, a resident of San Clemente for 27 years and is part owner of a plumbing and heating firm.

Chase, an architect, was first appointed to fill a vacancy created on the commission when then-Commissioner Donna Wilkinson was elected to City Council.

The council set interviews for positions on the Parks and Recreation Commission and other civic panels at 6:30 p.m. June 1 at city hall chambers.

The kids said they'd just seen the movie "Rocky" and were caught up in the spirit of the thing.

She is a native of Lincoln, Ill., where she worked as assistant recreation director. More recently, she was a partner with her late husband in a land research and development firm.

Mrs. Maurice said she looks forward to her new responsibilities, which she described as coordinating business-related information for local retailers, businessmen and residents.

She said she also expects a heavy volume of inquiries to continue coming in to the San Juan chamber.

She will continue Mrs. Olsen's practice of acquainting people from around the world with San Juan's mission, swallows and other unique historical features, she said.

"I also like to play outside at school and play with toys," Robert said, "but sometimes I do real funny things."

Robert wasn't sure what he wants to be when he grows up. While he was thinking about becoming a bank teller like his mom, his friend Kirk had an idea.

"If you are a policeman, then you can come see me every time, because I'll be a fireman," Kirk said.

Rickey Servantes, 5, said kindergarten won't be hard.

Senior Center Showdown Due Tonight

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Supporters of the Carden School will meet head-on tonight with supporters of the Newport Beach senior citizens center in a showdown over who gets control of the buildings at Fifth and Marguerite Avenues.

City councilmen are slated to finalize a one-year lease renewal for the school at their meeting at

The agreement to be voted on by councilmen calls for renewal of the lease with a $300-a-month increase in rent to $2,176 and use of one room for the senior citizen center.

Councilmen approved the concept of joint use of the site from Aug. 1, 1977, to Aug. 1, 1978, at a meeting Feb. 28. Tonight's vote would be on the terms of that lease agreement.

Senior citizens and supporters of the center who have been working for three years on the federal grant used to buy the site and develop it have indicated they don't want to share the facility with the private school.

Meanwhile, county Supervisor Thomas Riley has made it clear that administration of the federal grant will not be turned over to the city by the county unless city officials agree to move the school out and the senior citizens in this summer as originally planned.

According to a schedule prepared by the city's Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department, the school lease expires Aug. 1 and the center would be ready to open by Sept. 16.

There have been some informal indications from both the county's grant administrator and the granting agency, the Department of Housing and Urban Development, that joint use of the property could jeopardize the $522,000 the city expects to receive this year and possibly the $522,000 it has received for the two preceding years.

An additional provision of the joint use plan would be to put a trailer or relocatable building on the site, giving the senior citizens space in addition to the one classroom.

City Councilman Ray Williams, the one who suggested joint use, says he believes the 1,200-square foot classroom could be used for several activities at one time.

He also said he believes a four-room trailer could be used to (See SCHOOL, Page A2)

LIFEGUARD JACK LINCKE WITH DALL PORPOISE THAT BEACHED ITSELF
Porpoise Resembling a Killer Whale Drew Crowds Sunday in Newport Beach

Rare Porpoise Dies at NB; Study Planned

A young porpoise that beachgoers mistook for a killer whale, attracted large crowds Sunday near the Newport Pier until it beached itself and died, lifeguards reported today.

Lifeguard Lt. Logan Lockabey said the marine mammal has since been identified as a rare Dall porpoise. He said the remains will be turned over to the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History for study.

The Dall porpoise, which inhabits the Pacific coast from the Gulf of Alaska to Baja California is rarely seen in the southern waters, according to Gordon Cribbs of the state Department of Fish and Game.

Lockabey said the porpoise attracted a large crowd of beachgoers when it was first spotted close to shore near the pier because it looked like a killer whale.

"Some of those people wanted to get into the water and touch it. We really had a time keeping them away," said the lifeguard.

Terrorists Seize Classrooms, Train

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Two groups of heavily armed South Moluccan extremists, striking two days before the Dutch general election, seized an elementary school and hijacked a train in the northern Netherlands today, authorities reported.

Police said six gunmen were believed holding 105 children and six teachers in the school and seven terrorists had about 50 hostages aboard the train.

It was the second double terrorist action by members of the Asian immigrant group in The Netherlands in 18 months.

Laguna Beach narcotics detectives and U.S. Customs Agents seized 700 pounds of marijuana at Dana Point Harbor Sunday and arrested five men on charges of possession of marijuana for sale.

The arrests concluded a month-long investigation. Authorities placed the value of the contraband at $160,000.

A 30-foot sailboat was impounded at the harbor. Police said they recovered, besides the marijuana stashed in large gunny sacks, a shotgun, walkie-talkie and a rental van.

Arrested were: —John A. Metheany, 52, of 1104 Miramar St., Laguna Beach, who works as a restaurant manager. —Jerry A. Metheany, 25, his son, of Anaheim, an accountant for a Dana Point restaurant.

—David M. Pooley, 27, described by police as a transient, self-employed jack of all trades.

—Paul B. Meyerhof, 23, of 245 San Joaquin St., Laguna Beach, an unemployed cook.

—Joseph R. McConnell, 23, of 34042 Malaga Drive, Dana Point, an unemployed waiter.

All were held on $5,000 bail. Arraignment is set for Tuesday. Police Capt. Neil Purcell said surveillance of the sailboat began Saturday morning, when a team under the direction of Laguna Beach investigator Don Barney began a long wait for the craft, the Ambush III.

Purcell said the sailboat was registered to the younger Metheany.

Supreme Court Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court upheld today the Watergate cover-up convictions of former Atty. Gen. John D. Mitchell and one-time White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

Mitchell and Haldeman have remained free pending the outcome of this appeal. Ehrlichman already is in prison. The court's action today means Mitchell and Haldeman likely will be imprisoned soon.

The justices rejected the claims by the three powerful officials of former President Nixon's administration that the three-month trial that ended in their convictions Jan. 1, 1975 was unfair.

The justices made no comment in refusing to review the case. There were no recorded dissents, but Justice William H. Rehnquist noted that he took no part in deciding the case.

Normally it takes about 10 days for a Supreme Court refusal to review a conviction to go back down to district court, which then tells a defendant the date when he must begin serving his sentence.

All three were convicted in the court of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who will set the imprisonment date for Mitchell and Haldeman.

Reached at his home in Los Angeles, Haldeman said he would have "nothing to say" on the court's decision.

John J. Wilson, attorney for Haldeman, said he will ask the high court again to hear the case.

A request for reconsideration would delay the imprisonment date.

Attorneys for Mitchell were out of their office and not reachable immediately.

On April 21, National Public Radio reported that the court voted 5-3 at its private conference April 15 to turn down the appeals but that Chief Justice Warren E. Burger held up announcing the decision in an attempt to muster enough votes to grant review.

The votes of four justices are needed to grant review of such cases.

Lawyers for the cover-up defendants asked the court for permission to argue that the justices should reverse the convictions because of the news leak. The attorneys said the report tainted the court's deliberations, adversely affecting the rights of their clients.

The court denied that request May 2.

Mitchell and Haldeman were sentenced to 30 months to eight (See COVER-UP, Page A2)

Nixon Studied Pardons

Such Action Seen as 'Inflammatory'

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Nixon says that in the final days of his presidency he considered granting pardons to everybody involved in Watergate but decided not to because it would "inflammatory the situation," according to published reports.

Nixon's comments from an interview with David Frost that will be aired Wednesday night are quoted in the current issue of Newsweek magazine.

The magazine said the former president had calls and letters from White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman recommending he couple a Watergate pardon with amnesty for draft evaders in the Vietnam war.

"The second part of it was totally out of the question as far as I was concerned," Nixon was quoted as saying.

"As for the first part, I would like to have been able to have found a way to help... but I was resigning office for primarily the reason that I wanted to get the whole Watergate obsession, which had then reached fever heat, cooled down.

"If my last act was to pardon everybody who was in Watergate... that would inflame the situation and also would obviously look like the ultimate coverup."

Nixon made no reference to impeachment proceedings in Congress in discussing his resignation.

Newsweek said Nixon admitted he and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger had a tear-filled prayer session on their knees at the height of Watergate, and that he swore Kissinger to secrecy.

The incident was previously disclosed in the book "The Final Days."

Ousted Director To Fight

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dr. Michael Levine said today he will "take legal action" to gain reinstatement as director of Fairview State Hospital.

Levine was fired abruptly last week after eight stormy months at the helm of the 1,600-patient mental hospital in Costa Mesa.

Levine said today his motive for challenging his ouster is to keep programs he has started alive and to stop what he called the "developmental death" of Fairview patients.

The ousted director lashed out at State Department of Health officials for failing to comply with standards established by the Federal Handicapped Bill of Rights (Public law 94-103).

"I have been literally battling for my patients' rights in the face of consistent, unreasoning opposition," from Department of Health officials, Levine said.

He called his firing last week "as capricious and flimsy as the state's administration of its own state hospital system."

Levine said misdirected state (See LEVINE, Page A2)

Parents Unit Backs Firing Of Levine

The president of the Fairview Families and Friends, Inc. said today his group supports the dismissal of Fairview administrator Dr. Michael Levine.

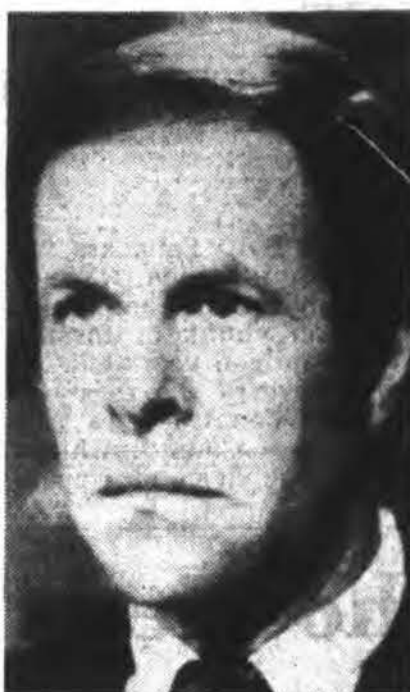

The statement by FFF president Matthew J. Guglielmo came just hours after Levine publicly announced he will challenge the state Department of Health's action.

Guglielmo said he was speaking for the executive staff of the organization, which he claims is comprised of nearly 1,600 members.

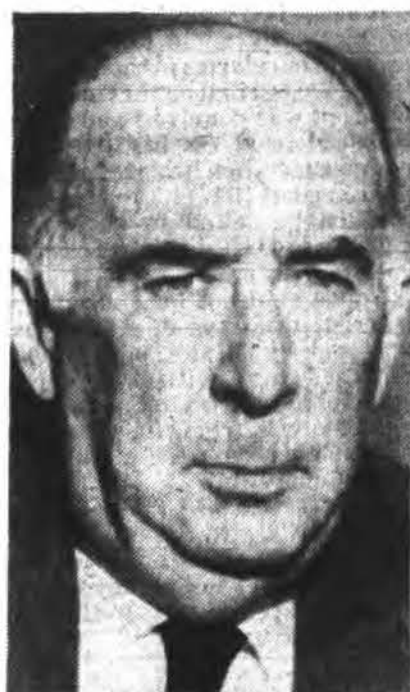

"We feel the state was justified in what it did," Guglielmo said. "We have found in him (Levine) a total disregard for state directives."

"He was difficult to work with, abrasive, brash and did not consider the parents' viewpoints in trying to achieve his purposes," he said.

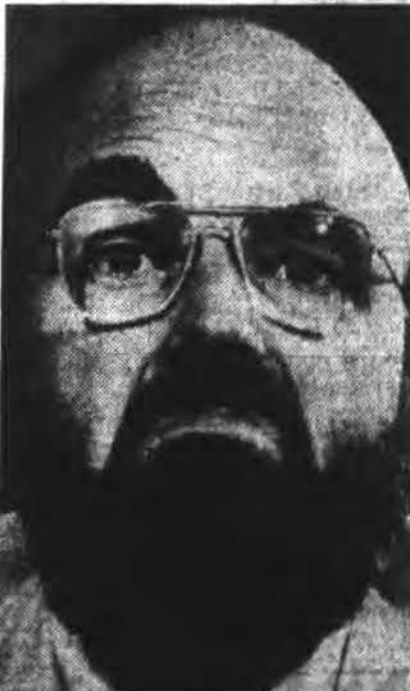

Guglielmo continued, "I'm sure he had the clients' welfare in mind, but so do the parents. We believe in the state hospital (See PARENTS, Page A2)

A Peek at the Rock

Bay View School students (from left) Buffy Saunders, 9, April Head, 12, Ben Hufbauer, 12, Bob Gagnon, 11, and John Roberts, 11, admire latest addition to Santa Ana Heights campus. It is a four-ton chunk of fossil-embedded rock estimated to be 18 million years old. A Dana Point development firm uncovered the rock on ranch land near Laguna Hills and donated it to the Natural History Museum of Orange County, which shares the Bay View campus at the head of Upper Newport Bay with school.

Suspect Who Fled County Returned

A man who allegedly fled the Orange Coast last fall rather than face court charges of burglary came back Sunday afternoon, under police escort.

Frank Joseph Allen, 27, is held today on a $10,000 warrant charging him with burglary and failure to appear in court.

Allen was originally arrested on a burglary warrant by Newport Beach police in September of last year. They alleged he was responsible for 20 commercial burglaries in their city.

The $10,000 bail on that original warrant was removed and Allen was released on his own recognizance when he agreed to appear in court Oct. 12.

When he failed to show up, another $10,000 warrant was issued for his arrest.

Police said not long after the warrant was issued, Allen was arrested by Miami police who charged him with two commercial burglaries in the Florida city. He was tried, found guilty and sentenced to six months in Dade County Jail.

He was released Sunday to a waiting Newport Beach officer who brought him back to the Orange Coast where today he once again faces charges in Harbor Judicial District Court.

Glavas Roast Set for June At Newporter

A retirement dinner to honor — and roast — Newport Beach Police Chief B. James Glavas has been set for June 9 at the Newporter Inn.

The dinner will open at the hotel's Monte Carlo Room with a 6:30 p.m. cocktail hour.

Tickets at $20 per person are available through the Newport Harbor Area Chamber of Commerce, 644-8211. Proceeds from the ticket sales will be used to purchase a present for the retiring chief, a chamber spokesman said.

Glavas, who has headed the city's police department since 1961, is expected to leave his post on June 30.

His replacement should be appointed by mid-July, according to city officials.

Tapes Confiscated

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The FBI swooped down on two flea markets and seized 2,600 allegedly pirated eight-track commercial tape recordings valued at $18,000. No arrests were made.

Prisoner's Family To Meet

DETROIT (AP) — An American imprisoned for 18 years in the Soviet Union and allowed to return to the United States only last year, 19 years after he was freed, can hardly wait for the arrival of the two daughters he left behind.

When they get to New York on Wednesday and see this country for the first time, "they won't believe it," says Victor Herman. The oldest daughter, Svetlana, now 25, was a baby when the family survived by eating rats in Siberia.

Svetlana and Janna, 20, will be moving in with him in a Detroit suburb. His fight to get them to the United States took more than a year, but it wasn't nearly as long as his own battle to come home.

Herman, 61, was born in Detroit. In 1931, he sailed to Russia with his parents and 300 other Detroit families to help build an automobile plant under the auspices of the Russian government and Ford Motor Company.

"I was working part time at Ford, and my boss told me if I went and stayed in Russia a few years and got a good education I could come back to a good future."

But after he became well known as an athlete and stunt pilot in the Soviet Union, he decided to remain there.

He said that in 1938, when he was 22, he was arrested without explanation.

He spent the next 18 years imprisoned in Siberia.

Herman remembered being beaten for 54 consecutive nights, and said he avoided starvation at his labor camp by trapping and eating rats. He and his wife, Galina, and infant daughter lived in a dugout, and during the blizzards, he told his family what he remembered of America.

"The rats helped me survive," he said. One day they also inspired his resolve to return to the United States.

He had captured a rat for the day's meal and saw two guards eating American rations.

"My heart began crying," he said. "I could feel the blood dripping inside. I thought, I am an American citizen standing here with a rat in my hand — and glad to have it — and they had American food. It was then I knew that I would live."

"I had a surge of energy, and I knew I would go back someday and tell people what happened."

In 1956, Herman said, he was sent to another slave labor camp in the southwest Soviet Union.

He was released a year later, then spent almost 20 years trying to get back to the United States.

He won permission in March 1976 and boarded a plane in Moscow, leaving his family behind. His wife divorced him "to avoid government censure as the wife of a man who chose to leave Russia," he said.

From the day he returned, he tried to get his daughters to join him. About a month ago, after he contacted the U.S. State Department, the American Embassy in Moscow and the Committee for Soviet Jewry, Svetlana and Janna were told they could join their father.

Top Spender $5 a Vote for Winner

MARY PHILLIPS spent nearly $5 per vote to get elected to the Saddleback Valley Unified School District board, county records show.

That's more than her four closest competitors combined, and the top vote getter said most of the $17,311 came from her own pocketbook.

County Registrar of Voters officials said they did not know if Mrs. Phillips war chest total was a record or not. County education officials also do not keep such records.

Mrs. Phillips, who had planned her campaign for two years, said the money spent on the hustings was worth it.

"I WAS COMMITTED to try to help get a better education for the kids and that's what it took," she said this morning.

She said it has become expensive to run for any public office, adding, "We were fortunate we had the money. We were blessed enough to have it, and we could use it to get what we wanted."

The second highest spender among the 14 candidates seeking two seats was Juneanne DeCasas, who spent $4,521 on her unsuccessful campaign.

Trial Recalled Scopes Court Facelifted

DAYTON, Tenn. (AP) — The site of the famous Scopes monkey trial is getting a facelift, thanks to preservationists who fought an attempt to replace the historic building with a steel-and-glass courthouse.

IN FACT, A FORMER waterboy at the trial is one of those responsible for making sure the courthouse look just as it did that hot week in July 1925 when Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan argued evolution versus the Bible.

A gallery of reporters — six for The Associated Press alone — and more than 500 spectators hung on every word. A Chicago radio station broadcast proceedings live from the 350-seat courtroom.

"FEELINGS RAN very high," said Giles Ryan, then a 17-year-old student of John Scopes who fetched soft drinks and water for Darrow and Bryan. "The sheriff and the judge were so worried that a riot might break out in the courtroom that they forbid me to bring in Coke bottles for the lawyers."

Ryan, now a retired Navy captain and vice president of the Rhea County Historical Society, remembers Scopes talking about stirring things up in the sleepy southeastern Tennessee town.

"We weren't even to that chapter in 'Hunter's Biology,'" said Ryan. "But he skipped halfway through the book to teach us that chapter and create the episode they needed to create a test case."

The lesson didn't make much of an impression on some students.

"I HONESTLY couldn't tell you whether he taught us evolution that day or not," said Harry J. Shelton, who was in the same class. "I was about as interested in evolution then as I am now."

Shelton was a witness in the trial which led to Scopes' conviction for teaching evolution.

"I wasn't what you'd call a brilliant witness," he said. "Darrow asked me if Scopes' teaching had any effect on my religious beliefs and I said no — I'd never really given it any thought."

"It was the old people who really thought they were attacking the Bible," said Ryan. "Feelings ran quite high around here. Why, my father would almost have joined in a mob to defend the Bible."

N-M School Board Faces Grad Tests

Trustees of the Newport-Mesa Unified School District will find out Tuesday whether they are qualified to graduate from high school.

Dr. Norman Loats, deputy superintendent, is slated to give board members the graduation competency test that he and a committee of citizens, students and staff members are developing.

Use of the test was mandated last year by a new state law which requires each district to identify minimal skills in reading, writing and mathematics that students must master in order to graduate.

The test the committee is working on will be administered to all potential graduates beginning in 1980. No students will receive diplomas without first passing the test.

Loats said the committee members still have "considerable work to do," but will make a progress report and give trustees the test they've got so far at Tuesday's 7:30 p.m. meeting in the Costa Mesa city council chambers.

After giving the test to trustees Tuesday night, Loats said, he will read the correct answers. "Scoring will be optional," he added.

LEVINE..

officials are jeopardizing $300 million in federal funds by failing to provide adequate programs for the developmentally disabled.

It was his insistence as director of Fairview that implementation of the federal program begin that eventually caused his ouster, Levine said.

He charged, for example, that under his administration $30,000 in drug costs had been saved by encouraging patients to awaken from drug-induced helplessness.

And, he added, his administration had taken steps to prepare some developmentally disabled persons to begin training for community-based care.

However, Levine said, "I think it improper then that I be fired simply because I am too outspoken for the bureaucrats."

He said that through legal societies there will be an attempt made to determine if it is legally possible to fire a director simply because that director is critical of state policies.

A second part of the legal challenge will center on first amendment freedom of speech rights, Levine said.

The ex-Fairview director cited praise for his abilities contained in his dismissal letter as an indication of the "bizarre behavior" of state officials.

Singled out for criticism by Levine at a well attended press conference in Santa Ana were Don Z. Miller, a state deputy director, and William C. Keating, a state health official.

He said a small but vocal parent advocacy group "which could not get along with the major body of parents," has been supporting Levine, and said he feared the community would confuse that group with his larger organization.

"It's just a small offshoot making a lot of noise," he said. "Frankly, we think the state department was very generous with Levine," Guglielmo said. "We think the state is being kicked around for what we feel was a good move on their part."

Guglielmo said his group has contacted Governor Brown's office and the State Department of Health, "to tell them of our support."

He said the Fairview group is very pleased with new acting executive director, Dr. Francis M. Crinella.

realistic.

The Moluccan islands, the former Spice Islands, are situated between the Celebes and New Guinea.

There was no report of casualties in today's twin strikes, which came at about the same time and about 10 miles apart. The attackers made no immediate demands.

The train was halted near the village of Onnen, just north of this city, and the school is in the village of Boven-Smilde, just south of here. Assen is about 130 miles northeast of Amsterdam.

A government official said the gunmen forced their way into the school, situated near a housing complex where some 500 South Moluccans reside, at the start of morning lessons. They quickly released about 15 South Moluccan children.

The gunmen covered the inside of windows in two rooms with paper, police said. When local South Moluccans tried to talk to them, the terrorists opened a window and fired a few shots, police said.

Shortly after noon, a group of anxious parents tried to rush the school but were held back by police.

Hans Uffing, a spokesman for the Dutch railway system, said the engineer and conductor of the commandeered four-car train reported that about 50 of its 100 passengers escaped after the gunmen hijacked it during the morning rush-hour.

Police said the submachine gun-armed hijackers, who fired shots through the roof of one car as they climbed aboard, later released some elderly persons.

The two crewmen either were forced to leave the train or escaped when it was stopped, Uffing said.

Winner's Votes Cost Almost $5 Each

By LAURIE KASPER

Mary Phillips spent more money on her successful campaign for election to the Saddleback Valley Unified School District Board of Education than her four closest competitors combined.

According to campaign finance statements filed recently with the Orange County Registrar of Voters, Mrs. Phillips, who was the top vote getter in the March election, spent $17,311 on her campaign.

It cost a little less than $5 for each of the 3,564 votes she received in the election. There were 14 candidates for the two seats available.

Most of the campaign costs were covered by the new school trustee herself. She reported receiving only $4,326 in cash contributions and $75 in non-monetary contributions.

Developers and business associates contributed most heavily to her campaign. Canada Rockfield Company, Pacesetter Homes, Daon Corporation and M & Q Pacific each added $500 to her campaign. Hon Development Company of Laguna Hills gave her $300.

Smaller amounts were given by mobile home park owners and suppliers (Mrs. Phillips is vice president of her husband's mobile home park management firm), insurance firms, other developers and an automobile dealership.

The money went for two computer letters, postage, brochures, precinct work, telephones, signs and entertainment of her campaign workers.

Mrs. Phillips, who had planned the campaign for two years, said that the money spent on her campaign was worth it. "I was committed to try to help get a better education for the kids and that's what it took," she said.

She said getting herself into a decision-making position on the school board, where she can have some influence on education, was a commitment both she and her family made.

Noting that it has become expensive to run for any public office, she said, "We were fortunate we had the money, we were blessed enough to have it, and we could use it to get what we wanted."

The financial statements for two candidates, Marvin Silver and Gerald Klein, have not been filed yet despite the fact that the deadline was last week. A spokesman for the registrar's office said both candidates have said their statements were in the (See FUNDS, Page A2)

Police, Agents Seize Pot At Dana Point

Laguna Beach narcotics detectives and U.S. Customs Agents seized 700 pounds of marijuana at Dana Point Harbor Sunday and arrested five men on charges of possession of marijuana for sale.

The arrests concluded a month-long investigation. Authorities placed the value of the contraband at $160,000.

A 30-foot sailboat was impounded at the harbor. Police said they recovered, besides the marijuana stashed in large gunny sacks, a shotgun, walkie-talkie and a rental van.

Arrested were: —John A. Metheany, 52, of 1104 Miramar St., Laguna Beach, who works as a restaurant manager.

—Jerry A. Metheany, 25, his son, of Anaheim, an accountant for a Dana Point restaurant.

—David M. Poley, 27, described by police as a transient, self-employed jack of all trades.

—Paul B. Meyerhof, 23, of 245 San Joaquin St., Laguna Beach, an unemployed cook.

Pair Club Woman In Home Robbery

Two men who broke into a Wake Forest home Sunday night clubbed the woman occupant with a gun after tying and gagging her 35-year-old son, Orange County Sheriff's officers said today.

Deputies said the two intruders apparently entered the home via a rear sliding glass window and attacked the two occupants who were told to produce any money and jewelry they might have in the home.

Officers said Jerry Bernheimer, 35, was left bound upstairs in the home at 22715 Isla Mere, but managed to free himself and reach his rifle while the intruders were ransacking the downstairs rooms.

Officers said Bernheimer fired two shots through the bedroom window in a bid to summon help to the home. They said the intruders then abandoned their search and fled from the home leaving Mrs. Veronica Onstead, in the living room. Mrs. Onstead was taken to a local hospital and allowed to return home after medical treatment. Officers said nothing of value was taken from the home.

Suit Dumped

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge has tossed out an antitrust suit against the late Howard Hughes' Summa Corp. and others, ruling against Hank Greenspun's newspaper, the Las Vegas Sun. It was not improper or anticompetitive for Hughes' interests to remove their advertising from the newspaper, the judge said.

Tool Box Stolen

MISS SADDLEBACK

Valley's Crown Goes To 'Miss'

Before a standing room only crowd at El Toro High School Sunday, 18-year-old Janice Emerson became the fifth girl to wear the crown of Miss Saddleback Valley.

The brown-eyed brunette, who will graduate in June from El Toro High, is the daughter of Sheldon and Irene Emerson, of 23465 Duryea Drive in El Toro.

Miss Emerson won the talent portion of the pageant as well with a medley of Bill "Bojangles" Robinson tap dance numbers. After graduation, she plans to attend Saddleback College and UC Irvine, majoring in dance and fine arts.

Runners up in the pageant, which is the first step toward the Miss Orange County, Miss California and Miss America crowns, were Debbie Luebke, 18, and Lisa MacDonald, 16.

The new Miss Saddleback Valley is an honor roll student and has been active in drill team, marching band and varsity cheerleading.

She also plays the flute, has been listed in Who's Who for high school students and has served as a volunteer for the Special Olympics.

The master of ceremonies for this year's pageant was Roy Englebrecht, director of promotion for the Forum in Inglewood.

Special guests at the Saddleback Valley Chamber of Commerce event included the reigning Miss Orange County, visiting beauty queens from other communities and the first four Miss Saddleback Valley pageant winners.

Ousted Director To Fight

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dr. Michael Levine said today he will "take legal action" to gain reinstatement as director of Fairview State Hospital.

Levine was fired abruptly last week after eight stormy months at the helm of the 1,600-patient mental hospital in Costa Mesa.

Levine said today his motive for challenging his ouster is to keep programs he has started alive and to stop what he called the "developmental death" of Fairview patients.

The ousted director lashed out at State Department of Health officials for failing to comply with standards established by the Federal Handicapped Bill of Rights (Public Law 94-103).

"I have been literally battling for my patients' rights in the face of consistent, unreasoning opposition," from Department of Health officials, Levine said.

He called his firing last week "as capricious and flimsy as the state's administration of its own state hospital system."

Levine said misdirected state officials are jeopardizing $300 million in federal funds by failing to provide adequate programs for the developmentally disabled.

San Juan Man Sentenced for Manslaughter

Thomas Edwin O'Sullivan of San Juan Capistrano has been sentenced to 60 days in Orange County Jail after pleading guilty to manslaughter charges stemming from the traffic death of a young El Toro motorcyclist.

Superior Court Judge James H. Walsworth placed O'Sullivan, 20, of 26426 Evergreen St., on three years probation and revoked his driver's license.

O'Sullivan was booked on manslaughter and drunken-driving charges Dec. 28 when his car smashed into a motorcycle driven by Jeffrey Enda, 17, of 22595 Dunkinfield Circle, El Toro.

Officers said Enda and his passenger were waiting for the light to change at the intersection of El Toro and Serrano roads when O'Sullivan's car plowed into their machine.

Enda's passenger was thrown 165 feet into the intersection. He has since recovered from his injuries.

Terrorists Seize Classrooms, Train

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Two groups of heavily armed South Moluccan extremists, striking two days before the Dutch general election, seized an elementary school and hijacked a train in the northern Netherlands today, authorities reported.

Police said six gunmen were believed holding 105 children and six teachers in the school and seven terrorists had about 50 hostages aboard the train.

It was the second double terrorist action by members of the Asian immigrant group in The Netherlands in 18 months.

South Moluccan activists demand that the Dutch intervene to help them win independence from Indonesia for their homeland, part of the former Dutch East Indies. The Dutch have called the demand unrealistic.

The Moluccan islands, the former Spice Islands, are situated between the Celebes and New Guinea.

There was no report of casualties in today's twin strikes, which came at about the same time and about 10 miles apart. The attackers made no immediate demands.

The train was halted near the village of Onnen, just north of (See TERROR, Page A2)

Big Water Users Get Inverted Rate

OF THE DAILY PILOT STAFF

Moulton-Niguel Water District directors have established a fixed charge for water use and an inverted rate structure for water consumption to encourage conservation by large users. The board vote was 5-1. Director James G. Toepfer, a Mission Viejo Company vice president, dissented on grounds the new rates would be unfair to larger-than-average families.

The fixed charge would be $6 per bimonthly billing period, plus a rate of 20 cents per 100 cubic feet of consumption up to 1,000 cubic feet.

The new rate schedule increases to 30 cents per 100 cubic feet for the next 1,000 cubic feet and works up to 42 cents per 100 cubic feet for consumption greater than 4,000 cubic feet during a billing period.

Yielding somewhat to Toepfer's objections, the board agreed to review the matter in three months to determine if the desired water conservation objectives were being attained or if there were any undue hardships.

It was also decided that any consumer who believed he was being unfairly charged by reason of his family's size could ask for a special case review.

Carl Kyma, district general manager, said the new rate system departs from traditional ones in replacing the minimum charged with a fixed charge.

He said the effects of the change "will be to more equitably distribute fixed costs, such as billing, meter reading, service maintenance, administration and the like."

At the same time, Kyma added, the inverted consumption rates are based on the assumption that "the more you use, the more it costs."

The district manager, whose agency serves much of Mission Viejo, Laguna Hills, Laguna Niguel and part of Dana Point, said the aim is to reduce consumption by 10 percent over last year.

"If the new rates fail to accomplish such a reduction, it may be necessary to impose progressively more severe penalties and restrictions as time goes on," he said.

The rate adjustments are "phase one" of a four-phase reduction proposal.

The second phase would involve additional rate changes and restriction of such water usage as car washing and driveway cleaning.

The third phase would involve penalty rates and allocation of water on a "per dwelling unit and per capita" basis.

The final phase, to be initiated only if all others fail, would include installation of pressure and flow restrictors on users who exceed volume allocations, Kyma said.

Bob Hendrickson, 16, and Teri Hildreth, 17, were only two of the people who enjoyed a fieldcrest Saturday at Dana Hills High School. The breakfast was organized to raise money for uniforms and supplies for the 1977-78 pep squad. The group's next fundraiser, a rummage sale and swap meet, is scheduled for June 11.

Mayaguez Crewmen Sue Over Seizure

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Frank Conway began to drink heavily. Raymond Friedler had nightmares. Albert Minichiello's hair fell out. Darryl Kastl couldn't keep his hands from shaking.

All four say their problems date from May 12, 1975, when the merchant ship Mayaguez was seized in the Gulf of Thailand by Cambodian forces.

In a lawsuit on today's schedule in San Francisco Superior Court, the four Mayaguez crewmen are asking $6.4 million in damages against Sea-Land Services, Inc., owner of the ship. Similar suits by two other Mayaguez crewmen were settled by Sea-Land for $85,000 and $48,000.

The ship's captain was Charles Miller of Fountain Valley.

The crewmen say in their suit that the seizure of the Mayaguez and their own three days of terror can be traced to negligence on the part of the ship owner.

The suit also blames what their lawyer calls Sea-Land's "evil" scheme to "reap excessive profits... at the expense of the health and safety of the crew."

Sea-Land's lawyer calls the charge "irrelevant mudslinging."

The Mayaguez incident coming shortly after the Khmer Rouge communists took power in Cambodia, was regarded as an important test of U.S. willingness to protect its interests in the area.

President Ford's popularity soared after he ordered U.S. forces to intervene and the crew returned safely.

The Cambodians held the 39 Mayaguez crew members for three days after seizing the boat on the Thailand-Hong Kong run, then released them as Marines launched an attack on the Cambodian island of Koh Tang.

Forty-one servicemen were killed in the operation.

In court documents written with emotion and flamboyance, Martin Jarvis, attorney for the four crewmen, recounts the story of the capture two years ago.

Purcell said the boat slipped past Harbor Patrol lookouts because its operators had changed the lettering of the name at sea so that it read Bush II upon its return.

Purcell said officers watched from behind cover as several large bags were unloaded at the dock into several vehicles. McConnell's arrest came after Barney trailed one of the vans.

Followup investigation led to the other arrests, Purcell said.

Police believe the marijuana was smuggled from Mexico.

Purcell said the sailboat was registered to the younger Metheany.

Board Okays 8 for Early Graduation

Saddleback Valley Unified School District trustees have agreed to allow eight high school juniors to graduate next month.

District officials said each of the students will have completed all graduation requirements except two semesters of attendance at school and one semester of physical education.

Early graduates from Mission Viejo High School are Russell Adair, Janice Britten, Lisa Dominguez, Lili Fernandez, Robb Nimmo, Lori Ragan and Julie Vandereems.

Karen Holland is the only early graduate from El Toro High School.

Each of the students said they plan to continue their education by attending college or a professional school.

Summer Swim Signups Set

Registration for the Saddleback Valley Unified School District Recreation Department's summer aquatics program will be held from 9 a.m. to noon today at El Toro and Mission Viejo High Schools.

The program offers instructional swimming for children and adults of all ages as well as life saving and diving.

A course is being offered for mothers with children aged six months to two years. A women's swim gym class also is being offered. The pools will be opened at scheduled times throughout the summer for recreational swimming.

Stereo Equipment Stolen in Viejo

Stereo equipment and a color television set with a total value of $1,713 were stolen from a Mission Viejo home by a burglar who broke the kitchen window to gain entry.

Juneanne DeCasas, who placed fifth in the race, was the second highest spender among the candidates whose statements have been filed.

Her committee reported spending $4,521 on her campaign. About $2,200 was paid to SVEA for Better Education, the political arm of the district's teachers' association which supported her.

She received $3,000 from the Association for Better Citizenship, the California Teachers Association's political committee, and $400 from the local teachers' group. She also received $100 from the classified employees association. Other contributions apparently were less than $50, which did not need to be specifically reported.

William Kohler, who was successful in his bid for reelection, was the third highest spender in the race. He reported spending $4,446 in the campaign.

The incumbent candidate received contributions totaling $1,980. The Mission Viejo Company donated $900 to his campaign. Earl Carraway, an El Toro real estate broker, contributed $850 worth of printing and loaned him $2,100 which is still listed as unpaid.

Incumbent Dennis Smith, who lost the election, reported spending $4,294. With contributions totaling $4,029, his committee still lists a deficit, which is owed to Smith, of $264.

Smith also received $900 from the Mission Viejo Company. Builders and contractors who have done work for the school district were among the other larger contributors to his campaign. Shirley Brothers Inc. of Pasadena, a firm which is doing work on Mission Viejo High School, contributed $200 to his campaign. The J. Ray Construction Company and contractors Dowlton Berry and Bill Buckley, all of whom have done work for the district, each contributed $100.

Hon. Development Company and Saddleback Maintenance Company also contributed $100 each. R.J. Harris, a printer in Whittier, donated his labor for printing, valued at $300.

William L. Kelly, who placed fourth in the race, reported spending $2,343. With contributions totaling $2,361, he was left with a surplus of about $17.

Most of Kelly's contributions were under $50. However, he received $50 from Donna Berry, a trustee at Saddleback College where Kelly is an administrator. He also received $200 from Arthur Kraus, who had withdrawn from the school board race.

Kelly also repaid Kraus a loan of $323.

James T. Manion reported spending and receiving $977 for his campaign. Over $200 was given him by George Henry, a district trustee.

Michael Patrick Clancey reported receiving no contributions. His only expense, $322, was to have his statement of qualifications printed in the sample ballot.

The remaining candidates who filed statements — Gregory Brebner, George Bennett, Steven Hackbarth, Warren Kessler and Arthur Kraus — said they neither received nor spent more than $200 in the campaign.

The election in Saddleback proved to be a much more expensive race than that in the neighboring Capistrano Unified School District.

Bill Manahan and Bob Bachlor, two candidates in the Capistrano race, have not yet filed their statements. In previous statements, the two said they had neither spent nor received more than $200.

Since that statement was filed, however, Manahan was given $2,000 by the political arm of the California Teachers Association.

Jan Overton, who was reelected to the school board, reported spending $87 on her campaign. She said she received $75 in contributions.

Her committee reported receiving a $300 contribution from the Mission Viejo Company. While some of this money was spent on the campaign, she returned $94, which was not used, to the company.

Former Prisoner, Daughters to Meet

DETROIT (AP) — An American imprisoned for 18 years in the Soviet Union and allowed to return to the United States only last year, 19 years after he was freed, can hardly wait for the arrival of the two daughters he left behind.

When they get to New York on Wednesday and see this country for the first time, "they won't believe it," says Victor Herman. The oldest daughter, Svetlana, now 25, was a baby when the family survived by eating rats in Siberia.

HE'LL FIGHT OUSTER

LEVINE...

It was his insistence as director of Fairview that implementation of the federal program begin that eventually caused his ouster, Levine said.

He charged, for example, that under his administration $30,000 in drug costs had been saved by encouraging patients to awaken from drug-induced helplessness.

And, he added, his administration had taken steps to prepare some developmentally disabled persons to begin training for community-based care.

However, Levine said, "I think it improper then that I be fired simply because I am too outspoken for the bureaucrats."

He said that through legal societies there will be an attempt made to determine if it is legally possible to fire a director simply because of state policies.

A second part of the legal challenge will center on first amendment freedom of speech rights, Levine said.

The ex-Fairview director cited praise for his abilities contained in his dismissal letter as an indication of the "bizarre behavior" of state officials.

Singled out for criticism by Levine at a well attended press conference in Santa Ana were Don Z. Miller, a state deputy director, and William C. Keating, a state health official.

Club Awards Scholarships

To 3 Students

The Rancho Viejo Woman's Club has awarded scholarships to three "outstanding students" at Mission Viejo and El Toro High Schools.

Winners of the scholarships are Jeffrey William Laakso, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Laakso of Mission Viejo; Dawn Melissa Mundy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mundy of El Toro, and Robert Don Mosbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mosbaugh of El Toro.

Laakso, an honor student at Mission Viejo High School, was awarded the club's vocational award of $200. He plans to obtain a degree in industrial arts from Cal State Long Beach and become a high school or college teacher.

Miss Mundy, an athlete who has worked with the YMCA, was given a $400 award as the outstanding student. She plans to continue her studies at Cal State Fullerton.

Mosbaugh, president of El Toro High School's student body, was awarded $400 as student of the year. He plans to study ecology at Cal State Humboldt.

Honors Due For Serrano

Band Boosters

Serrano Intermediate School's Student-Teacher-Parent Organization will be accepted into the school's Conquistador Club during a joint meeting of the two groups at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the school's multipurpose room.

The Conquistador Club is composed of individuals and businesses in the community who have contributed the cost of at least one complete band uniform to the school's marching band, according to Ray Garuba, principal.

During the joint meeting, Judy Duarte, STPO president, will present a check to purchase two uniforms to Sherree Walleit, Music Booster president.

The Conquistador Band also will provide entertainment during the meeting.

Lawyers for the cover-up defendants asked the court for permission to argue that the justices should reverse the convictions because of the news leak. The attorneys said the report tainted the court's deliberations, adversely affecting the rights of their clients.

The court denied that request May 2.

Trial Recalled Scopes Court Facelifted

DAYTON, Tenn. (AP) — The site of the famous Scopes monkey trial is getting a facelift, thanks to preservationists who fought an attempt to replace the historic building with a steel-and-glass courthouse.

IN FACT, A FORMER waterboy at the trial is one of those responsible for making sure the courthouse look just as it did that hot week in July 1925 when Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan argued evolution versus the Bible.

A gallery of reporters — six for The Associated Press alone — and more than 500 spectators hung on every word. A Chicago radio station broadcast proceedings live from the 350-seat courtroom.

"FEELINGS RAN very high," said Giles Ryan, then a 17-year-old student of John Scopes who fetched soft drinks and water for Darrow and Bryan. "The sheriff and the judge were so worried that a riot might break out in the courtroom that they forbid me to bring in Coke bottles for the lawyers."

Ryan, now a retired Navy captain and vice president of the Rhea County Historical Society, remembers Scopes talking about stirring things up in the sleepy southeastern Tennessee town.

"We weren't even to that chapter in 'Hunter's Biology,'" said Ryan. "But he skipped halfway through the book to teach us that chapter and create the episode they needed to create a test case."

The lesson didn't make much of an impression on some students.

"I HONESTLY couldn't tell you whether he taught us evolution that day or not," said Harry J. Shelton, who was in the same class. "I was about as interested in evolution then as I am now."

Shelton was a witness in the trial which led to Scopes' conviction for teaching evolution.

"I wasn't what you'd call a brilliant witness," he said. "Darrow asked me if Scopes' teaching had any effect on my religious beliefs and I said no — I'd never really given it any thought."

"It was the old people who really thought they were attacking the Bible," said Ryan. "Feelings ran quite high around here. Why, my father would almost have joined in a mob to defend the Bible."

Service Grows

Dirty Work Pays Profits

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ

If you know a company that cleans buildings, exterminates bugs, parks cars or does any of the other assorted "dirty" jobs associated with modern civilization, have it contact American Building Maintenance Industries (ABMI) of San Francisco. ABMI may want to buy it.

ABMI scoops up five to 10 companies a year, as it moves along, city by city, consolidating its leadership in the nether world of the service industry. Since 1962 it has made more than 120 acquisitions — and it's still looking.

WHAT IS IT LOOKING FOR? Basically small well-managed local firms that have contracts to do what companies don't want to do for themselves: Wash windows, clean carpets, scrub floors, empty ashtrays. In short: a janitorial service.

This area is traditionally the province of the local entrepreneur, who begins by getting one building contract and then crosses the street to solicit another. That's how ABMI started in San Francisco 68 years ago. It has been cleaning Stanford University in nearby Palo Alto for 52 years.

In business, as in life, one thing always leads to another. Cleaning buildings has drawn ABMI into a bunch of related service operations. And success in California has prompted the company to expand and develop a national capability.

Today, ABMI has operations in 60 of the country's 100 major metropolitan areas. It wields mops and brooms in 24 states.

ABMI CLEANS Bank of America offices all over California. It parks cars at Garvey Center in Wichita, Kan. It provides linen service to hotels and restaurants in Las Vegas. It maintains elevators at the William Beaumont Hospital in Detroit. It provides guard services at the Greenway Plaza development in Houston.

As long as there are dirt and bugs, ABMI has a brilliant future. Writing to his shareholders last month, Sydney J. Rosenberg, president of ABMI, reported that the company had bought two small pest control companies in Phoenix, adding them to its Rose Exterminator operation in the West. "Bugs enjoy and grow healthy in the hot weather," exulted Rosenberg, "so Rose Pet Control goes to the bugs."

Another recent acquisition was the Jones Building Maintenance Company, a janitorial service in Memphis. This gave ABMI its first installation in Tennessee.

ABMI HAS GRADUALLY MOVED eastward from its western base. It's already cleaning a number of buildings in Chicago and New York and it's hoping to break into Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Baltimore.

How much money can you make in the janitorial business? Well, ABMI, now the nation's No. 1 janitor, is currently logging sales of $150 million a year, bringing home $3.5 million in profits after taxes.

This is not what you call a capital-intensive industry. ABMI has 17,000 employees, 5,000 more than Getty Oil needs to pump out sales of $3 billion. It's also not a high-paying industry. ABMI's breakdown of its labor costs shows that the average wage per employee is $5,300 a year.

Truckers Step Up Fuel Saving Work

By the Associated Press

With President Carter's energy plans expected to bring higher fuel prices, the nation's trucking industry is intensifying a fuel saving program started months ago.

Some truckers are installing air foils that deflect wind and cut down resistance. Other fuel saving measures include radial tires, modified engines, lower gear ratios and fan clutches that save power.

"SOME COMPANIES REPORT FUEL savings of 20 to 25 percent with these and other conservation measures," said Bennett C. Whitlock, president of the Washington-based American Trucking Associations (ATA).

"We certainly support the principle of energy conservation," said William F. Richardson, president of the 3,000 member Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association, one of the biggest in the country.

"Petroleum fuel is the heartbeat of the industry. Without it, we don't move."

Other than waiving the fuel consumption requirements on vehicles weighing more than 6,000 pounds, the President did not mention trucks. But the administration's proposal to bring the price of domestic crude oil in line with world prices would jack up the pump price of diesel fuel, which now costs about 45 cents a gallon and has risen steadily since the 1973 oil embargo.

A FULLY LOADED TRUCK AVERAGES between four and five miles per gallon, so any fuel cost adds millions of dollars to the trucking industry's costs.

"The trucking industry recognizes that it, as well as other segments of American society, will have to make sacrifices," said Whitlock, whose organization represents 16,000 trucking firms.

Another big saver is the 55 miles per hour speed limit, which became national law in early 1974 but has been flaunted by some truckers. The Federal Energy Administration calls it the most effective energy conservation measure ever introduced in the country.

FOR EXAMPLE, FRED CURREY, chairman of Continental Trailways, said his trucking fleet saved 1.2 million gallons of diesel fuel last year by observing the 55 mile an hour limit. At 45 cents per gallon, that's a savings of $540,000.

The ATA, which supports strict compliance with the speed law, also is pushing for uniform load limits of 80,000 pounds and longer trailers that will increase load capacity.

Carrying a bigger load would eliminate extra trips, the ATA says. At present, 12 states have load limits below 80,000 pounds.

"THE NATION COULD SAVE almost 240 million gallons of fuel a year — enough to heat hundreds of thousands of homes annually — if all states allowed the permissible gross weight of 80,000 pounds and if nationwide operation of twin trailer combinations were permitted," said Whitlock, citing a Stanford Institute study prepared for the FEA.

The industry also supports the President's plans for alternative sources of energy wherever possible. But so far, no useful substitute for petroleum fuels has been found for trucks.

Pavilion Gets Aid

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The R.L. Burns Company has given $120,000 to help San Diego cultural programs and restore the organ pavilion in Balboa Park.

The gift was announced by Richard L. Burns, president of the oil, gas and coal exploration and production firm. Burns recently moved to San Diego from San Bernardino.
