Secret grand jury transcripts show that the testimony of a woman scorned was vital to the investigation leading to the recent indictment of Orange County Supervisors Ralph Diedrich and Philip Anthony.

The woman whose testimony wrapped a band of circumstantial evidence around Diedrich. Anthony and their four alleged co-conspirators in a purported plot to undermine state campaign regulations is Donna Doughty.

Mrs. Doughty was indicted Fullerton attorney Michael Remington's chief secretary and office manager for 11 years.

In testimony before the grand jury, emington admitted having a "close relationship" with Mrs. Doughty that underwent a dramatic change when he married another woman last Oct. 1.

Thus, Remington said, "a few months ago" things became uncomfortable around the office and, by mutual agreement, Mrs. Doughty left his employ.

On June 20, Mrs. Doughty was before the grand jury as a witness into an eight-month probe into county political practices that would end in 11 days with the indictment of Diedrich, Anthony, Remington and three others.

State Jobless Rate Falls to 6.9 Percent

SACRAMENTO (AP) California's unemployment rate fell to 6.9 percent in June, the lowest in three years and the first time in seven years that the state has been below the national rate, officials said today.

The jobless rate had been 7.8 percent in May. For the third straight month, total employment set a record, nearly 9.3 million, up 136,000 since May.

The national unemployment rate, which has been running as much as two percentage points below California's, was 7.1 percent in June, up from 6.9 percent in May.

State Employment Development Director Martin Glick said employment records were set in numerous industries, including construction, which has gained 16 percent in jobs over a year

He said the figures were further indication that California is outpacing the rest of the nation in speed of turnaround

But he cautioned that they reflected mid-June totals, before President Carter announced that he opposed development of the B1 bomber, a move already causing layoffs in Southern

The items were found in a black bag several miles from the Portola Valley estate belonging to the family of defendant Frederick N. Woods, 25.

Merrill, attorney for Richard Schoenfeld, 24, said the bag contained items belonging to some of the children and bus driver Ed

Ray and the youngsters were abducted at gunpoint July 15, 1976, and transported 100 miles north to a rock quarry where they were kept captive in a buried van. They dug their way to freedom 17 hours later.

Merrill said the bag contained "white socks, baseball caps, tennis shoes and even an Evel Knievel motorcycle, a toy one."

The defense is attempting to have the search warrant of the Woods estate thrown out and the evidence suppressed. Herbert Yanowitz, lawyer for Woods, argued that (1) authorities illegally obtained evidence for the warrant. (2) it was excessive in scope and execution and (3) it contained "substantial errors."

Woods, Schoenfeld, and Schoenfeld's 25-year-old brother, James, are charged with 27 counts of kidnaping and 18 counts of robbery, mostly dealing with the children's personal items.

B1 Funds Cut OK'd By Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Appropriations Committee voted today to cut funds for the B1 bomber from the defense appropriations bill.

The vote to support President Carter's decision not to go ahead with production of the bomber was 9 to 5.

The vote came after Carter asked the Senate to carve more than $1 billion from the Pentagon budget because of his decision against producing the warplane. Carter asked for a reduction of

$1,017,400 for the 1978 fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. The appropriations bill, passed by the House before Carter announced his decision, included $1.5 billion to build five planes. The bill is scheduled for action by the full Senate later this week.

Backers of the B1 have indicated they will fight to keep funds for the bomber in the bill in an effort to force Carter to continue the program.

However, Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., have said they would support the President's decision. O'Neill, who supported the B1, predicted after Carter's announcement that the House would reverse its decision to ap- . propriate money for the plane. The White House said scrapping the B1 and an associated SRAM-V air-to-ground missile would produce savings of nearly $1.4 billion.

The cutback, however, will be partially offset by Carter's companion decision to speed up cruise missile programs and upgrade the capabilities of the B52 bomber fleet.

Carter caught members of Congress by surprise when he announced at a news conference June 30 that "my decision is that we should not continue with deployment of the B1.

Most members of Congress were predicting that the President would decide to order production of at least a limited number of the bombers.

Instead, Carter said he decided in favor of the older B52 bomber armed with cruise missiles.

Trim 2 Cents Off Tax Rate

By JOANNE REYNOLDS

Trustees of the Newport-Mesa Unified School District agreed Tuesday night to shave two cents off the district's tax rate in an effort to counteract the nearly 19 percent increase in assessed values in the district.

"The increases in assessed valuation are going to cause a great deal of hardship among district taxpayers," said Trustee Marian Bergeson, who asked for the rate cut. "This is a good way to provide some relief.

The two cents will come off a portion of the tax rate known as the civic center tax, a tax of up to 10 cents that can be levied over and above the general fund tax without permission of voters.

The money raised by the tax pays for community-oriented projects such as recreational facilities that are used in city programs after school hours.

OC Workers Get 5.85% Pay Hike, Ceiling

Orange County supervisors gave themselves and most of the county's other 9,600 employes a 5.85 percent pay raise Tuesday.

Instead, they told Bostrum the group should petition through routine county channels for a separate bargaining unit.

The supervisors' own 5.85 per-cent pay raise, from $28,246 to $29,898, prompted Supervisor Laurence Schmit to suggest that next year the pay issue be placed on the ballot.

$50,000 Fire Guts Mesa Shop

Firefighters were still sifting through a building full of melted electronics equipment and smouldering television sets this morning, three hours after flames were discovered shooting from windows of an electronics shop in downtown Costa Mesa.

Battalion Chief Ed Lewis said the blaze at Marvac Electronics, 1870 Harbor Blvd., caused an estimated $50,000 damage.

Deno Vaccher of Fullerton, owner of Marvac, told fire officials that he and several other employes were remodeling the large electronics supply building at about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday when the flames broke out.

They tried to put the fire out themselves," Lewis said, "but it got way beyond them with all that plastic wiring.

Lewis said cause of the blaze is still under investigation, adding that he expects an analysis of the fire later today.

Marvac employes were in the process of expanding the large electronics supply store at the time of the blaze. Lewis said carpenters had removed a fire wall between Marvac and an adjacent building and were working late Tuesday when the fire broke out.

'Flames were shooting out the windows and extending way above the top of the building,"

Lewis said. He said firefighters from two engine companies and a truck company played water on the (See FIRE, Page A2)

California's Jobless Lowest in 3 Years State Employment Develop- . SACRAMENTO (AP) -

California's unemployment rate fell to 6.9 percent in June, the lowest in three years and the first time in 17 years that the state has been below the national rate, officials said today.

The jobless rate had been 7.8 percent in May. For the third straight month, total employment set a record, nearly 9.3 million, up 136,000 since May.

The national unemployment rate, which has been running as much as two percentage points below California's, was 7.1 percent in June, up from 6.9 percent

ment Director Martin Glick said employment records were set in numerous industries, including construction, which has gained 16 percent in jobs over a year

He said the figures were "further indication that California is outpacing the rest of the nation in speed of turnaround from the recent recession.'

Rut he cautioned that reflected mid-June totals, before President Carter announced that he opposed development of the B1 bomber, a move already causing layoffs in Southern California.

The impact ripped the left side car door from the vehicle as the car careened into a brick wall

Jones worked for a year and a half for General Motors Acceptance Corp. in Long Beach. Company officials said he once was a member of the Buffalo Bills professional football team.

Investigator Morris said police believe there was a lone witness to the early morning crash who left the scene shortly after officers arrived. He asks that anyone who may have seen the accident contact the traffic bureau at the Costa Mesa police department.

Employes at the Long Beach firm said Jones was married and had a young son who is visiting relatives in Buffalo, N.Y.

Costa Mesa police, coroner's deputies and hospital Executive Director Dr. Francis J. Crinella all agreed there was no evidence to indicate any foul play.

The child appeared to have slid down in the wheelchair-possibly due to an epileptic seizure -and was choked by the restraint device, authorities said.

The ward personnel had its usual required number of staff members on duty when the child was found about 8:30 p.m., Dr. Crinella said.

OC Tax Money Earns Bundle

Investments by Orange County Tax Collector-Treasurer Robert Citron earned $43.3 million for county government, cities, school districts and other taxing agencies last year.

Citron told supervisors Tues-day that during the 1976-77 fiscal year his department was responsible for $782.5 million in tax money raised by various agencies through property taxes. an increase over the $665.3 million a year earlier

And interest earned by investments was up $1.2 million over the previous year, Citron said.

Citron, dressed in a bright yellow jacket and white trousers, said, "As they say in Napa County, this has truly been a vintage year in the treasurer's office.'

Citron also told supervisors that his investments for county government earned $2 million more than the $3 million he had estimated for the year.

In addition, he said, invest-ments in the 1977-78 fiscal year are expected to earn $4.5 million for county government, rather than the $3.2 million he estimated earlier.

As a result, supervisors will have $3.3 million more for county expenses than expected earlier, Citron said.

Since one penny in property tax now raises $974,709, Citron continued, the extra investment earnings translates to roughly 3.3

dicap on ULDBs. Nevertheless, a similar boat, Chutzpah did win the race two years in a row. "This year they placed all of the light displacement boats in a separate division rather than impose further time penalties."

That, explained Lee, was when he came up with the design of Merlin for one specific purpose— to win on elapsed time and set a new record.

"Besides the elapsed time record in the Honolulu race we were aiming at the record set by Eric Tabarly's 73-foot trimaran Pen Duick when he sailed unofficially in the 1969 race and made the crossing a day and a half ahead of the monohull fleet. "We beat Pen Duick's record by more than two hours."

Lee said there were no exotic materials used in the construction of Merlin.

"She is just a good, strong fiberglass boat, and there was no attempt to strip out her interior to save weight. In addition to the eight pipe berths, Merlin has a double bunk, a four burner stove with oven and two coolers. One of the coolers holds eight cases of beer. I know."

Lee said the boat could be sailed easily with a crew of eight as opposed to the 12 to 15-man crew needed on conventional yachts of a comparable size.

From a performance standpoint Merlin was easy to handle. Lee said. "There were times when we would plunge into the back of a wave ahead at 20 knots and come out on the other side still doing 20 without anything worse than a flood of white water coming down the deck.

"We built her comfortably because we want to keep her around a long time for some cruising, snoozing and boozing,' Lee said.

About the name Merlin? "A merlin," says Lee, "is a bird, a little falcon, of northern latitudes which devours birds twice its size. He paused, grinned and reminded his listeners that his Merlin had just eaten up yachts five times her weight in crossing 2,225 miles of stormy ocean. "But we actually named our vessel after the Fifth Century Merlin, a so-called magician who was actually a very talented engineer of his day and who helped King Arthur run England for a number of years."

Lee also recalled that when . Rolls Royce built engines for the P-51 airplanes in World War II they named them Merlins.

Despite his casual, appearance, 34-year-old Bill Lee comes on as a clear-thinking, even-talking sailor who is comfortable with all the numbers of yacht design, including the complicated International Offshore Rule.

knows how to beat the old adage, 'you can push a block of wood through the water only so fast."

Lee is pushing his blocks of fiberglass through the water at faster speeds than was dreamed of not more than a decade ago. and making them hold together under extreme conditions.

Lee brings his designs to fruition in his own plant called Bill Lee Yachts Inc. at a little town called Soquel just outside Santa

If you want a Merlin-type yacht, Lee figures he can build you one for about $10 a pound. At 22,000 pounds that figures out to be nearly a quarter of a million dollars to be first to finish in the Transpac and have the opportunity to get in on all the dockside finishing parties.

DIAMONDS IN THE ROUGH and the men who make them smooth

A "diamond in the rough" is a classic example of basic quality which must be improved to reach its potential. Diamond cutters are the special breed of men who bring diamonds through the metamorphosis from rough to ready. There are about 800 of the world's best work in what has been described as old-fashioned sweatshops in a two-block area of Manhattan. They rent space at workbenches in manufacturing plants and pay their rent by turning out a certain amount of work for the landlord. Most have no fringe benefits of any kind. Yet, they have been classified as being among the world's great artisans. Cutting a rough diamond is among the most exacting feats on earth. A tiny mistake could cost thousands of dollars.

Most cutters are Orthodox Jews with long beards and longer family traditions of diamond cutting. The trade has been passed on to them by generations in their families. They are fiercely independent. The diamond business could not survive 30 YEARS IN THE SAME LOCATION without them.

Town Evacuated

Truck Crash Spills Deadly Chemical

ROCKWOOD, Tenn. (AP) Officials said they hoped the 5,259 evacuated residents of this steel mill town could return home today as the danger began passing from 900 gallons of potentially deadly chemical that spilled from a wrecked tank

As crews turned the truck up right today, it sprung a small new leak of liquid bromine, but officials said residents should be able to return after the truck was removed and state air quality officials took samples to make sure the area was safe

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN finished evacuating the last of Rockwood's residents early this morning, including 55 patients in a hospital. Some 1,500 people had refused to move and had to be forcibly evacuated.

Officials said most of the noxious fumes spilled in the crash which killed the driver - had been dispersed by morning breezes and that there should be no toxic residue in the town.

'I can't overemphasize the danger involved in breathing this chemical," said Col. Russell Newman of the National Guard. when the fumes were at their strongest. Forty persons were treated at area hospitals and released following the spill Tues-

THE NEW LEAK developed in the damaged portion of the truck's 30-foot-long tank as it was being placed on another trailer to be taken to a more remote area of the county, Newman said.

"It's just coming out in droplets now," he said. "We're applying ammonia to the leaking bromine to neutralize the chemical.

W.A. Barnes, national sales manager for Dow Chemical Co., which owns the tanker, said it would be moved to an isolated area at the Rockwood airport, sealed, and the remaining liquid bromine would be transferred to another truck.

BARNES SAID the original leak was through a valve sheared off in the wreck. He said the truck's tank had been bent into the shape of a banana but did not rupture in the crash

"Once we've got it over there and we have all the safeties on it, I'd say you could bring the town back," Barnes said.

Steve Webster, a Civil Defense officer from Knoxville who helped coordinate the evacuation, said the "bromine can be fatal when it vaporizes, and it vaporizes under normal atmospheric conditions. The liquid will burn and the vapor can kill

By early morning, Civil Defense officials said, the gas was rising to the upper at-mosphere and dispersing. The cloud that had covered the entire town late Tuesday diminished during the night into several small pockets.

THE TRUCK CRASHED Tues day afternoon during a thunderstorm on Interstate 40 overlooking the town. Its driver, Sue Simms Thompson, 43, was killed. Her husband, Robert, 42, was in the intensive care unit at a Knoxville hospital suffering from acute respiratory problems as a result of inhaling the fumes

TENNESSEE THUCK WRECK SPREADS TOXIC BROMINE GAS

BOSTON (AP) - If the McDonald's hamburger chain resumes selling decorative promotional glasses, it would be a "clear violation of the law," says Massachusetts Public Health Commissioner Jonathan E. Fielding.

THE CONTROVERSY over the glasses has also moved into McDonald's and glass manufacturers filed suit in U.S. District Court here Tuesday against the state Health Department, which has warned that children could be poisoned from lead paint used on the outside of the glasses.

THE SUIT WAS filed the same day the U.S. Food and Drug Administration said it found no evidence that lead from the decals on the outside of the glasses can contaminate liquid inside them.

However, the FDA said it is continuing tests of these and other glasses to see if there are other possible health hazards, including the possibility of children gnawing the paint off as they drink

FIELDING SAID the state Health Department would order Mc-Donald's to cease distribution of the glassware if it is resumed

"We were never worried that the decals would contaminate the food that comes in the glasses," Fielding said, "but that they be gnawed off or chipped off and the chips fall into the food.

FIELDING SAID the presence of lead in the decal paints -18times what the state allows - could combine with other leaded exhaust fumes or lead paint in the home to raise poisonous lead levels

"I am very concerned that this is a potential problem for kids," Fielding said. "It's an unnecessary kind of exposure."

Cancer Unit 'Agonizing' Two Nurses Guilty Over Laetrile

WASHINGTON (AP) National Cancer Institute is "not near" a decision on whether to test the controversial substance Laetrile on human victims of cancer, federal health officials Dr. Guy R. Newell, acting director of the federal institute. said today that the agency is 'still agonizing' over the ethical questions involved in testing Laetrile on humans.

But, he quickly added. "We've got to stop agonizing and make a decision soon." In testimony Tuesday before a Senate sub committee, opponents of Laetrile agreed that government sponsored clinical tests are needed to settle the raging dispute over the substance's value in the fight against cancer. Both sides said they would abide by the results of such government testing

Newell, however, said a decision on whether to sponsor human Laetrile tests still is a few months away. "But if we're going to move in this direction, we should do it as soon as possible."

MORE THAN 6,000 pages of testimony were compiled from 100 witnesses called during the trial. More than 50 exhibits were entered as evidence.

GOVERNMENT ATTORNEYS said their case rested on two questions: were the breathing failures caused by a rapid injection of Pavulon and if so, who was there to inject the drug at the critical Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Delonis said testimony proved the injections were rapid.

The prosecution presented testimony placing one or both defendants near each victim's bedside minutes before they stopped breathing. But no witnesses ever testified seeing either of the nurses ac-

3 Inmates Die in Clash

'Tense' Atmosphere Prevails at San Quentin

SAN QUENTIN (AP) - Black Muslim and Nazi inmates battled with clubs and knives in racial clashes that killed three convicts and injured five in an honor block at San Quentin prison. authorities said.

Inmates were confined to their cells in a prison-wide lockdown

"The lid's flying off," Mike Luxford, acting prison informa-tion officer, said after the conflict Tuesday.

The hospital looks like a battleground. There was blood and people everywhere. It's an incredible mess."

Prisoners are being kept in their cells in a lockdown that of-ficials say will probably last a Luxford said there have have been three major racial fights in the last 10 years at the prison. But when three people are killed, it's a pretty large scale incident. . Anytime somebody loses their life over the color of their skin, nobody wins," he said.

"The climate here is all tension."

Inmates attacked each other along corridors in the prison's north and west wings with makeshift knives and clubs before guards firing rifle shots quelled the disturbances.

The deaths and injuries came in two separate attacks by members of the American National Socialists on members of a Black Muslim prison sect, officials said. The fights took place in the prison's west wing "honor block," which houses 364 men, as prisoners lounged outside their cells after meals, officials said.

THE FIRST fight, two white inmates attacking a black prisoner, was broken up in the morning when guards spotted them and fired a warning shot. Prisoners were ordered into cells, but Charles Jack Captain, 31, a black inmate from San Francisco, was stabbed in a stairwell

Captain, serving a two-year-tolife sentence for assault with a deadly weapon, died a few hours later of wounds in the back and

Some nine hours later, at about 5:30 p.m., members of the Nazi group "made a move against the Black Muslims, who were superior in arms and numbers. Violence resulted," Luxford

A WHITE inmate was hurled to his death from a third-story prison tier and a second was stabbed to death. Neither was immediately identified.

Two whites and three blacks were injured, three of them seriously. One injured black, identified as Jimmy Louis Hunt. 24, of San Francisco, suffered superficial stab wounds, Luxford

The prison by San Francisco Bay holds 2,308 inmates, about 33 percent black and 41 percent white, Luxford said.

According to Charles McKinnon, special agent-in-charge here, 15-year-old Norma Milligan of Santa Cruz remembered under hypnosis that during her 96-hour ordeal, during which she was raped, her abductor made a stop in Southern California to fix his car's air conditioner.

With that clue, investigators linked the repaired car to Barbosa.

McKinnon said-Barbosa lured Norma and her 7-year-old cousin, Christina Alcorn of Reedley, into his car at a Fresno shopping mall on June 28.

Norma told police their abductor told them her mother had been been hurt in a traffic accident and that he would take them to the hospital. They accepted his offer.

NORMA, SENSING SOMETHING was amiss, after Barbosa drove them around town, asked him to let them out. He displayed a knife and said they were being kidnaped. He said he wanted to drop off the younger girl, but Norma refused. Fresno police said Norma was raped during the kidnaping.

Sign Report Unfair

Several Costa Mesa businessmen have called city hall regarding an unsigned note being circulated in

The note, bordered top and bottom with the word "Urgent," says, in part, "At this very moment your city planning department has a proposal that was just recently approved unanimously by your planning commission to take down your sign.

The note says the city council will review the proposal next Monday night.

The council is going to meet Monday night, not for the purpose of "taking down business signs," but to discuss a method for determining the value of nonconforming signs in the city.

This is not a surprise move. Costa Mesa's sign ordinance has been in effect for more than three years. The council now is trying to determine a schedule of amortization for nonconforming signs — based on value - in order to place deadlines on businesses that do not yet conform with the law.

An anonymous note raising the specter of signs being torn down by the city is misleading and unfair. Businessmen with nonconforming signs should attend Monday night's meeting to find out where their signs might stand in the proposed schedule.

Water Warning

The Costa Mesa County Water District has made it clear it will not tolerate water waste during the current drought.

The five-member panel approved the district's first-ever ordinance earlier this month which places stiff penalties on district water users who waste it.

The tough, four-step enforcement procedure allows wasters many opportunities to mend their ways, and as such, is a necessary, equitable and fair or-

District officials said they hope there will be widespread voluntary compliance by water users, but quickly add they are ready to step in when customers flagrantly ignore the law.

Violators face initial warnings, then fines and, finally, complete water shutoff under the ordinance.

The district is relying on water-conscious neighbors to report offenses, which include washing down sidewalks, sprinkling lawns in the heat of the day, or allowing water to run into the gutters.

Asking Too Much

Older Costa Mesans, especially those on fixed incomes, should get all the breaks the city can afford to give them.

That goes for older golfers too. And the city council is considering a resolution which would allow senior golfers to play on weekday afternoons on the city's golf course for only $15 a month.

Considering a golfer could spend $90 a month in greens fees if he played every weekday, that is quite asaving.

But some older citizens are still not satisfied They want to be able to play during the morning hours, when the course is the busiest - and want to enjoy the reduced rates also.

That is where the city staff would like the council to draw the line. Recreation officials claim the course is barely breaking even this year, and that allowing senior citizens with reduced rates on the course in the morning might chase off those paying the full $30

The purpose behind the proposed low rate for seniors was to insure that those with limited incomes

It isn't unreasonable that the city stipulate the hours those low rates should apply.

Dissident Groups Create Prejudice

To the Editor

I wish to reply to Mr. Feldsott's letter to the editor of July 7 in which he took umbrage with my June 29 letter, concerning the Anita Bryant-homosexual dissension. At no time did I imply that anyone should be denied housing, employment or education, nor did I once side with Anita Bryant on this ridiculous issue. My point in writing my letter was to state how I (and many, many more) feel concerning any group of people banding together, parading the streets with placards, demanding their so called "rights." (The tax-payers pay for the policing during, and cleaning up after, each demonstration.)

I too have felt what he refers to as prejudice, when I was denied housing during World War II because I had a small child. The difference between us is that I chose to call it the landlord's prerogative to rent his property to anyone whom he pleased. As to education, I attended schools with Chicanos, Blacks, Orientals, etc., and they had the same teachers as I and were assured of the same learning procedures. As to employment, I have worked and am working with a conglomerate of colors and nationalities. But we consider ourselves Americans, not individuals looking for personal causes to champion.

AS FOR homosexuals not being able to receive equal opportunities in the above mentioned categories, I have yet to see where any application to enter school, rent or buy a home or obtain employment asks for your preference in sexual partners. That definitely would be an invasion of privacy and in that they would have a legitimate cause for court action.

Abortion Tragedies

To the Editor:

The "Humane Choice" editorial of July 5 receives my support. As a Public Health Nurse and past government hospital R.N. I have seen the terrible tragedies resulting from illegal, unsafe abortions.

You are absolutely correct to assert that the abortion issue does not belong back in the political arena. Abortion is not a politically negotiable issue!

The right for any woman, regardless of her financial status. to have an abortion if she so chooses definitely should continue to be the rule in our state.

Refugee Flight Goes On

The Tragic 'Boat People'

WASHINGTON - President Carter and the State Department want the United States to bring in more Indochinese refugees, especially the "boat people," stranded after escaping their homelands which have become Communist.

Oppression by Communist regimes in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, plus the hope of a better economic life. moved scores of thousands of people to Thailand or put to sea in pitifully small boats, hoping that a ship would take them

The plight of the "boat people" is particularly sad because many ship captains, wanting to avoid inconvenience or even trouble back in home port, ignore the traditional law of the sea, and don't pick up the refugees. Since the U.S. leadership in dealing with the problem (which largely belongs to us) has lagged, other nations which might be receptive have also turned the Indochinese away. Hence, the Carter Administration's tentative move to act out of a sense of duty and commitment to human rights.

But there is strong opposition in the Congress to increasing the number of Indochinese allowed to enter the United States above the present figure of 100 per month. Some 145,000 have come here since the fall of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia in 1975.

THE MOST negative reaction to any proposal to admit more refugees comes from Rep. Joshua Eilberg (D-Pa.), Chairman of the Judiciary Subcommittee on Immigration. He is dead set against allowing any more Indochinese refugees, without special legislation, something he knows Congress probably won't

"It is one thing for the Justice Department to allow these peo-ple to come in on an individual basis," Eilberg says, "but large groups, say 400 or 500 a month, or the 15,000 mentioned, are something else. We have unemployment in the U.S. and a problem with illegal aliens. Additional Indochinese refugees would impact on our welfare system, health services and schools."

Now, Joshua Eilberg is a practicing Jew. He is sensitive to what happened to Jewish refugees from Hitler's Europe and from concentration camps, who also set out in ships to find sanctuaries somewhere.

ONE SUCH ship, later called 'The Ship of the Damned," actually roamed the high seas just as World War II broke out, and was turned away by the U.S. government of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, no less. The ship wound up in Holland, and a third of its passengers eventually perished in concentration camps. In 1947, another ship loaded with Jewish refugees sailed into Tel Aviv, was turned back by the British and had to dock at Cyprus, That incident became

"There is a rough parallel

between the Jewish refugees and these people,'' admits Congressman Eilberg, who might still change his mind.

Recently, an Israeli freighter rescued 66 Vietnamese refugees floundering around the Pacific in a leaky fishing boat. They had been turned away by several Asian nations, but the Israelis accepted them. Ironically, it was a German Lufthansa plane which eventually landed with the 66 people in Tel Aviv.

"JEWS KNOW what it is to be a refugee, with every door being closed in one's face," said Prime Minister Menahem Begin. The Israelis deserve a salute for this

So here we are, big, fat, U.S.A., with a Congress ready to turn away suffering people who are refugees because of our actions in Indochina. The war had scarcely ended there, when all manner of selfish people here began protesting any plans to bring refugees to the United

The Seattle City Council even passed a resolution against admitting Indochinese refugees. Cartoonist Pat Oliphant, himself an Australian emigrant, drew scathing cartoons depicting the Vietnamese as a collection of gangsters. Somehow, the brown people of Indochina suddenly became very unpopular.

Well, they are not low-life people. They are people who went hrough years and years of bloody war, saw many members of their own families killed, and feared the tyranny that moves in with communism. Like all people in such a fix, they fled.

THEY DIE on the high seas, and they die in refugee camps. When they do manage to get to the United States or France (which is generous), they live. It takes a while to adjust but the Indochinese actually have made a fairly good record here. Some 86 percent of the breadwinners in Indochinese refugee families in the United States are working. full or part-time. They organized 139 Indochinese associations, try to help each other find jobs and maintain their culture.

The United States should guarantee the admission of 15,000 of the 80,000 refugees living in poor conditions in Thailand.

Bringing 15,000 Indochinese refugees to our country will not break us. It will make us stronger in the long run. It will demonstrate our integrity. Are we a nation of people who sit up late watching refugee ships being turned away in World War II movies, and remarking how awful that was? How about that, Congressman Eilberg?

What turns many people off on "good English" is prissy English that slavishly follows rules for their own dumb sake. For instance, I was sent a review copy of a new book called "Word Watcher's Handbook.

On the very first page of the introduction, the author presents us with a young man who lost a date with a pretty girl because he said to her, Well, I'd etter get back to work now. I just snuck out to the phone for a minute." What a frightful prig that little author, to my mind. "Snuck" is a marvelous past tense for the verb "sneak" — "I snuck out" is far more vivid and idiomatic than "I sneaked out." Fifty years from now it may be standard English. I am a stickler for "correct" English when it makes sense and conveys sensibility, not merely when it abjectly follows some obsolete Latin structure that SYDNEY HARRIS

'Good English' Not All Rules

used to be a sign of learning and social status. Bad teachers of "good" English have probably done more harm to our language habits than any other single class

IT IS astonishing how many letters I get admonishing me for having ended a sentence with a preposition, — this is one of the two or three foolish rules people remember from their schooling, and they imagine it has something to do with proper syntax, which it doesn't.

(Everyone recalls the story of Winston Churchill, that master of our tangue, admonished in the. Commons by a pipsqueak for ending one of his sentences with a reposition, "Young man," full replied, "that is the kind of nonsense up with which I will not put.")

The same people also fret about splitting infinitives, when in many sentences the only possible way to achieve a minimum of grace and meaning is by doing so. They also dislike slang, imagining it to be debasing to the language, when in point of fact slang continually evivifies and animates a language.

BY OBSCURING the difference between what is important and what is unimportant in grammar, the prigs and pedants have succeeded in making most people uneasy about their speech, and finally indifferent to real lapses. as opposed to merely formal

Who but a stuffy grammarian ould ever say, "It is we," would ever say, "It is we," instead of "it's us"? The first is technically correct, but indefensible in speech; while the latter has a noble lineage dating back to 1489. Robert Louis Stevenson, an elegant stylist if there ever was one, wrote: "It's us must break the treaty when the time comes."

Don't construe this, by any means, as a defense of the sloppy, semi-articulate English most people use today. But it's hardly their fault. They were taught the subject so badly that, as they say, they could care less.

Moonies Find Hard to Cope

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -- Four young "Moonies" whose parents battled in court last spring to pry their children from the Unification Church are struggling today to cope outside the strictly regimented faith.

A fifth, 24-year-old John Hovard Jr., is back on the streets, selling flowers and seeking converts to the controversial fold of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon.

LAST MARCH THE PARENTS OF Hovard and four young women initiated a courtroom fight which pitted their right to protect their children from brainwashing against the Moonies' call for freedom of religion.

A Superior Court judge here decided in favor of the parents, who based their argument on a temporary conservatorship law.

Nineteen days later, an appeals court tentatively stayed the lower court's decision and freed the five. The court has not made a final decision on the case but the tribunal indicated it is not likely to alter the decision.

FOR THE FOUR YOUNG WOMEN - Jacqueline Katz, 22, Leslie Brown, 24, Janice Kaplan, 24, and Barbara Underwood, 25 - the 19 days away from the church was long enough for deprogram-

Only Hovard returned to his Moonie ways. His parents spent nearly $10,000 during their fight to deprogram him. "Mostly, I feel sorry for them and they feel sorry for me," said Hovard, whose status in the church has risen because of publicity surrounding the case and his return to the fold.

"I THINK THEY (THE FOUR WOMEN) will be happy initially, for the first two or three years, he said. "But I don't think they'll find really deep meaning in their lives. I think people all want to live by ideals and when they find they don't have the inspiration, I think they will become unhappy again.'

The four women, who view Hovard as an innocent but confused follower, spent a month together after the trial at a Tucson, Ariz., deprogramming center. They then separated.

Today, the four have unlisted telephone numbecause they fear Moon for them. Miss Brown's father was even afraid to say in which city his daughter lives.

DR. TOM BROWN SAID Leslie was so accustomed to working 20-hour days after her years as a Moonie that she at first found life outside the church slow. She gradually is settling "into a normal routine" and works part-time for the state of Washington as a physiotherapist, he said.

Miss Katz is back with her family in Wolcott, N.Y., but her parents have noticed she has trouble making decisions.

We would take her out to dinner and she would try to decide what to have. She couldn't," said her

Toddlers Turn to Teddy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - There's good news for mothers and the makers of teddy bears: it's "perfectly normal" for toddlers to cling to security objects like blankets and stuffed toy animals.

That's the word from Dr. Ellen Gay, a clinical psychologist who, after studying young children and their treasured objects, concluded that children who tote blankets like Linus in the cartoon strip "Peanuts" are simply taking a helpful anxiety

"A TODDLER'S PROBLEMS - an affront from a playmate, inability to master a new toy, a harsh word from mother - may seem minor to an adult, but to the child they are terribly upsetting," says Dr. Gay, who wrote about kids and their fuzzy friends in her Ph.D. thesis at Bryn Mawr

Contact with something soft and comforting, something that may have originally been a substitute for mother's closeness and warmth duranteer than the child been an ing infancy, can help the child keep an even keel through his difficult times. she says. "It's a chance to rebuild his confidence. It's perfectly normal.

IN HER RESEARCH, Dr. Gay, who works with Delaware Guidance Services for Child and Youth in Wilmington, found that "stress indications rose sharply just before the child went to his blanket.

"While he held it, regressive behavior dropped sharply," she said. The child was refreshed and ready once again to explore and master his said children often take to blankets because they encounter them shortly after birth and are soft like skin.

SHE SAID LITTLE boys tend to show a greater amount of stress and regressive behavior than little girls, but that it may not mean that little girls are less upset.

"It may be that they just don't show it as much," she said. "After all, girls are expected to be nicer than boys.

She said most youngsters seem to give up their fuzzy friends by age 5 because by then they've learned to handle most of their stresses mentally rather than physically.

ASKED WHAT ADVICE she had for parents with toddlers who hugged blankets and teddy bears, she replied:

"A child's desire to be atttached to them (the security items) should be accepted and even encouraged. It allows the children to become independent of other people - to use the blanket instead of holding on to mother all the time. They can go off by themselves and be independent."

Asked at what age a child should give up security blankets and teddy bears, she replied:

"I DON'T THINK you should put an age on it. However, if a child appears to be using it too much, and pulling away from people, or not playing with other kids, this could be a sign of maladjustment. If a child is 10 and still wants to sleep with, say, a blanket, I'd say that's okay, but if he drags it to school, there's obviously going to be problems. . . It depends on the child and the situation."

No After Effects to Heat Exhaustion

By DR. STEINCROHN

Dear Dr. Steinerohn: My Uncle was marching in a parade. During a rest period he got dizzy, fainted and was removed to the hospital. It was a hot, humid day.

At first we thought it might be a heart attack. But studies showed that he was suffering from heat exhaustion. They discharged him two days later. He has been all right since case, extremely hot weather and humidity contribute to heat exhaustion. Primarily it is due to excessive depletion of salt and

Will you explain heat exhaus tion" Will it leave any after effects? Mr. V.

Recently, some studies in-dicate that some symptoms may also be due to a complicating hyperventilation. Such patients breathe rapidly and produce what is called a respiratory alkalosis. This exacerbates to the problem. But it is soon overcome with the simple measures I have suggested

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I don't know whether it's coincidence or not, but I've been losing my hair since I went on a crash diet a few months ago. After I lost 30 pounds within six weeks there was definite hair loss. Can this be possible? - Mrs. U.

COMMENT: I have always believed that some part of the body must show its resentment when deprived suddenly of its, normal food content. The scalp is no exception.

According to a recent report in the Journal of the American military physicians in Letterman Army Medical Center, San Francisco, nine patients lost most of their hair two to five months after beginning a vigorous weight reduction program.

Pair Charged in Kidnap Indictment Just Beats Statute of Limitations

From AP Dispatches

Two men have been indicted in the $1 million Virginia Piper kidnaping of 1972, just 16 days before the statute of limitations would have expired on the Minnesota case considered the most expensive unsolved kidnaping in the country.

Only $4,000 of the $1 million ransom was recovered.

A federal grand jury in St. Paul handed down a one-page indictment that named Donald Floyd Larson, 51, a Stillwater Prison inmate from Willow River, Minn., and Kenneth James Callahan, 52, a carpenter from Cumberland, Wis.

Mrs. Piper, 54, was abducted from her home in Orono, Minn., by two masked men July 27, 1972. She was released unharmed two days later in woods near Duluth after her husband, Harry Piper Jr., paid the ransom.

Piper is board chair of Piper, Jaffray & Hopwood, a Minneapolis brokerage firm.

the story of Operation Market-Garden during World War II, the airborne Allied assault on Nazioccupied Holland.

The assault took place Sept. 17, 1944, and involved more than 5,000 fighters, bombers and transports, and more than 2,500 gliders. One of the pilots was Maj. Howard Cannon.

Cannon's plane was shot down shortly after the paratroopers on board bailed out. Cannon and Lt. Col. Frank Krebs bailed out behind enemy lines. Cannon and Krebs, who is on the senator's staff, evaded capture for 42 days and finally reached Allied lines.

Heart Attack Rx: Aspirin?

NEW YORK (AP) - A medicine that may be used to prevent heart attacks in the 1980s probably is sitting on a bathroom shelf in your home today. It is commonly called aspirin.

'Studies published to date are favorable toward aspirin, or unable to rule it out," says Dr. Stephen Scheidt of the Cornell University College of CORNELL CONDUCTS ONE OF THE 30 clinics around the country involved in a $17 million federal trial of aspirin as a heart attack preventive. A total of 4,500 patients are used in the trial.

The notion that aspirin has something to do with preventing heart attacks began to appear in medical literature about 20 years ago. But there was no laboratory work to back up the educated guesses of physicians.

MEDICINE

"Part of the reason we are able to begin the aspirin trial with some confidence was that recent theoretical work seemed to be pointing to aspirin," says Dr. Marvin Segal of Mt. Sinai Hospital in Minneapolis.

RESEARCH ON HEART ATTACKS has led to a complex description of cause-and-effect. A chemical substance in the blood known as a thromboxane causes blood platelets to clump together, leading to blood clots which in turn contribute to heart attacks

Aspirin helps block formation of the thrombox-

However, aspirin also helps block formation of another blood substance, a prostaglandin, which had already been found to balance out the thromboxane by breaking up platelets and preventing

The two discoveries have researchers wondering what role aspirin plays in the complicated

"OUR ASPIRIN TRIAL IS NOT interested in explaining why aspirin works, ' says Dr. William Friedewald of the sponsoring National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute. "We merely want to see if it works. The explanation will ultimately be provided by workers in the laboratory.

All the patients in the federal experiment have had heart attacks. They are divided into two groups: one that takes the equivalent of three aspirins each day and another that takes a placebo - a substance that doesn't do anything.

For everyday aches and pains, aspirin substitutes are dispensed.

THE PATIENTS, RANGING IN age from 30 to 69, are not told which group they are in. The doctors who examine them at least three times each year are not told which of their patients are taking aspirin and which are getting the placebo. The technique is called a "double blind."

"We are very proud of the way in which the trial was set up. Monitoring is very strict," says Dr. James Schoenberger, chairman of the study's steering committee and a researcher at Rush Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago.

washington (AP) — The federal government is proposing changes in the definition of a financially "independent" student to make it tougher to get this classification and qualify for additional collegical.

The Department of Health Education and Welfare says the proposedretion and Welfare says the proposedretion with the plug loopholes by which increasing numbers of students are being declared independent. The

"The basis for student financial programs is the assumption that parents are responsible for the education of their children," Voigt said.

"IN SEVEN YEARS in a number of areas of the country, particularly the coasts, there has been an increasing trend in the number of children being declared independent," Voigt said. "There is a general unease among those in financial aid that parents and students are planning ahead not to declare the student as a dependent so that he is eligible for more aid," he

The rewards for being declared independent and in need can be substantial. Under the federal basic grants program, funded for $1.5 billion during the 1976-77 school year, a student can get up to $1,400 a year depending upon family contributions to his or her education.

DURING THE LAST-school year, 1.9 million students received basic aid student's total education costs.

Under the proposed revisions which would go into effect for the 1978-79 year, an independent student could not be claimed as a federal income tax deduction by parents for two years prior to applying for aid. This is one year longer than the current exemption rule.

Current regulations limit residency of an independent student with parents to two consecutive weeks yearly. Under the proposal, the student could not have lived with parents for more than a total of six weeks during any year in which aid is requested for the prior year.

Twins' Bulling Lucky to Be Alive After Shootil

By CRAIG SHEFF

Three seasons ago Terry (Bud) Bulling didn't know if he'd ever play baseball again. He had been shot in the stomach in an accident just two weeks after reporting in his first professional season. He had spent three days in intensive care and another nine days trying to get his strength

But today he is a member of the Minnesota Twins.

And the bullet remains lodged in his pelvic bone.

The shooting accident occurred at Wisconsin Rapids, Wisc., while Bulling and some of his teammates were sitting around in an apartment. One of the youths was showing the others a gun, thinking it was on safety.

It was not, it went off and the bullet struck Bulling, who was sitting on a couch between two

It hit him in the stomach, dam aging the colon and the intestines. It narrowly missed the main arterial trunk, lodging in the back portion of Bulling's pelvic bone.

Wisconsin Rapids, Bulling hiked his season mark to .310 and was placed on the Twins' 40-man spring roster.

But there were three other catchers at spring training this past March-including Butch Wynegar, called by some one of the top young prospects in the game.

"I got a pinch hit single against the Yankees and I caught two innings against the Astros, getting a hit my only time up. So I had a pretty good spring," says Bulling. But not good enough. He was ticketed for Orlando's minor league club.

Then last month Bulling was called up - quite unexpect-

Second string catcher Glenn Borgman tore ligaments in a knee and the Twins' triple A receiver had just broken a finger. Bulling got the call.

"I was really, really shocked when they told me. . .I thought they were teasing me," recalls Bulling.
"We had just come off a long trip and I had gotten to bed at 6:30 in the morning. At 11 they knocked on the door to tell me I was called up and that not flight was at 1. When I got there I rushed right to the ball park," says Bulling.

Thus far the 24-year-old right-hander has seen action in just two games.

But Bulling isn't worried about not playing. He believes his time will come. "All I've been doing is warming up pitchers in the bull pen and giving lots of moral support. When the doubleheaders come around, they told me I might get in.

'But I'm not worried about it. . . my chance will come."

His teammates didn't provide much hitting support, but two unearned runs in the first inning and an insurance run in the sixth were enough for the Angels to record a 3-0 victory over the Twins before 19,139 fans at Anaheim

"I didn't give the record a thought," Ryan said. "I knew I didn't have many strikeouts and my stuff wasn't too good tonight didn't have command of the fastball, either. I guess control was my biggest asset."

Ryan's win was his 12th of the season, tying him for the league lead with teammate Frank Tanana. It was also manager Dave Garcia's second straight win since taking over for Norm Sherry, who was fired Monday.

Robinson Scrutinizes Weak Angels Hitting

By DAVE CUNNINGHAM

Standing behind the batting cage before Tuesday night's game, Frank Robinson was studying the California Angels hitters. He was making mental notes on stance, stride, swing . . . the little things that can mean the difference between a slump and a hot streak.

Robinson is the newest Angel, hired Monday at the same time manager Norm Sherry was fired and replaced by coach Dave Garcia.

Garcia had served as a coach at Cleveland when Robinson was manager, and Garcia's first request after being handed the Angels' managerial reins was to have Robinson hired 'Specifically I'm a hitting instructor," Robinson says. "Actually, Garcia has given all the coaches a free hand to work with the players as we see fit. My job is to pass on the knowledge I've gained with my 24 years of experience."

Garcia could hardly have picked a man with more expertise in the art of hitting. Robinson's achievements fill three pages in the media book.

Among the more notable milestones were MVP awards in both leagues (the only player to ever do that) and a triple crown in 1966 when he had 49 homers, .316 average and 122 rbi.

Robinson also holds a major league record for homering in 32 different ballparks. He ranks fourth on the all-time homer list behind Hank Aaron, Babe Ruth and Willie Mays.

This is Robinson's second time around with the Angels. In 1973 he was traded to California by the Dodgers after spending one season in a Los Angeles uniform. He hit 30 homers and had a .266 average for the Angels but was dealt to the Cleveland Indians midway through the 1974 season.

At Cleveland Robinson made baseball history by becoming the first black manager in the major leagues. After two seasons at the helm, Robinson's club was still playing mediocre ball and he was fired this season.

"I enjoyed the two years I managed," Robinson says. "I left with a good feeling about managing and if the right offer came along I would get back into "Sure, I'd like to manage the Angels because it would be like working at home (he lives in Bel Air). But you can't select a club to manage. They select you,"

Robinson says.

"Right now my thoughts are not on managing," he continues.
"I just want to do the best job I can as a hitting instructor and try to make this a winning ball club. I want to help make Dave Garcia a successful manager.'

"We've had a lot of injuries but a good ball club can pick up the pieces," Robinson answers. You can't go around feeling sorry for yourself.

"The players who are in there just have to go a little harder, reach for that something extra. Nine games isn't too much to make up at this point of the season. If we can stay close until some of our guys get back, we'll have a chance.

Brown Quits As Barons Cage Coach

By ROGER CARLSON

Dave Brown has resigned his position as Fountain Valley High basketball coach to assume a similar job at David Douglas High in Portland, Ore.

Brown, 36, led the Fountain Valley Barons to six CIF playoff berths and three league championships in his eight-year stint as head coach.

Chosen Orange County coach of the year after guiding his Barons to a 26-2 record in 1977, his quintet was eliminated in the CIF 4-A quarterfinals by Compton High (and All-American Purvis Miller), 57-46,

His overall record is 145 wins, 64 losses. No replacement has been chosen, but sources close to the FV scene indicate junior varsity coach Dennis Timmer. who has had five JV championship teams, is first in line for the post.

"It's an area that I've always wanted to locate in and an opportunity I've been looking for, says Brown. "You reach a point where you've accomplished most of what you set out to do and now this presents a new opportunity.'

Douglas High, with an enrollment of 2,400, is one of the largest high schools in Oregon and has been noted for a strong athletic program, although basketball has suffered in the recent years.

"It's terribly hard to leave Fountain Valley," says the El Toro resident, whose wife, Janet, is an Oregon native.

Among the standouts at Fountain Valley under Brown have been Dan Malane, Scott Ryder. Bill Miller, George Barrios and Ken Shibata.

A Redondo High, El Camino College and Cal State (Long Beach) product, Brown assumed the reins at Fountain Valley where the three previous years netted 31 wins, 43 losses.

BOSTON — Rod Laver of Newport Beach and Cliff Drysdale won in men's doubles then reeled off victories in overtime and the super tiebreaker to give the San Diego Friars a come-from-behind 28-27 victory over the Boston Lobsters in World Team Tennis Tuesday night,

The Lobsters led 27-26 at the end of regulation play but Laver's and Drysdale's 6-3 vic-tory over Boston's Mike Estep and Roy Emerson, a Newport Beach resident, sent the game in-to overtime under a WTT rule that requires the winning team to take the final match. Estep and Emerson dropped the overtime point to Laver and Drysdale to tie the score, and then after pushing the super tiebreaker to 6-6, lost the match and game for the Lobsters.

"I turned my ankle earlier this year and I have to have it wrapped before each game," said Rau. "The trainer wrapped it tighter than usual tonight, and I think that helped because it enabled me to pitch in more of an upright position.

The shutout was the seventh of the left-hander's career and Houston has been the victim in four of them.

"That's the best game Doug's pitched all year," said Los Angeles manager Tom Lasorda. We really needed a good effort from him tonight to order to rest our bullpen."

Carew Tops Voting For All-star Game

NEW YORK (AP) - Maybe it was Rod Carew's near . 400 batting average. Perhaps the close races in both American League divisions caused it. Or maybe major league baseball is just more popular than ever.

Whatever the reasons, more than 121/2 million fans cast votes in All-star balloting and that enabled five American League players to top the three million mark in votes. The biggest beneficiary of the voting increase was Carew.

The Minnesota first baseman, having his greatest season in an already-illustrious career. gathered 4,292,740 votes, more than any player in the eight-year history of the fan balloting, according to the final tabulations released Tuesday by Baseball Commissioner Bowle Kuhn.

Carew easily outdistanced first base runnerup Chris Chambliss of New York, nearly doubling Chambliss' 2,373,906 votes. Carew received 15,005 votes more than National Leagueleader Steve Garvey,

Dickmann's Final Goal: Alamitos Compete in '80 Games

By ROGER CARLSON

The 1977 AAU National water polo championships unfold this weekend at Newport Harbor High with action beginning Friday and among the squads competing for honors is Newport Irvine - Mesa Aquatics under UC Irvine coach Ed Newland

And if NIMA, indeed, finds itself atop the heap when the waves subside Sunday, one of the real keys to success, if not the player with the actual combination to the lock, is Jack Dickmann, a 6-4½, 200 pound 26-year-old Dana Hills High School teacher.

Dickmann, who is also aquatics coach at Dana Hills High in addition to duties as a science and math teacher, is a UC Irvine product under Newland after prepping at Whittier's La Serna High and he admits there are things beyond this week's endeavors that also occupy his mind.

The United States failed to qualify for a berth at the 1976 Montreal Olympics—but Dickmann wasn't involved, he was sitting things out with a broken eardrum.

It happened in a U.S. Hungarian match in 1975 and as Dickmann recalls, "There's no question, it was deliberate. I was set up. I was coming down on a man-to-man situation against a pick. The Hungarian player simply moved out and let me have it in the ear with his foot.

Dickmann, who'll be 29 when the Moscow Olympics are held in 1980, concedes this is the final goal: To compete and compete well at an Olympic Games. "This is it," says Dickmann. "It's strictly a make or break situation now, although even at this point, I realize I'm in a year-to-year situation.

Following this AAU action, Dickmann, Jim Kruse (former Corona del Mar High athlete and current coach), ex-University High (Irvine) ace Nick Baba and 11 others, along with national coach Monte Nitzkowski of Long Beach, embark for training in Yugoslavia and Romania, then the pre-World Games at Berlin in early August and a bit more competition in Amsterdam.

The World Championship Games, which will qualify teams for the Moscow Olympics, are set for Berlin in 1978.

Four Stars Gain Honors

Four players from the Orange County Stars - more than from any other team - have been selected to play in the first International Volleyball Associa tion (IVA) all-star match Sunday in Denver

Orange County's all-star selections are Wilt Chamberlain, Jon Roberts, Hilary Johnson and Dodge Parker. The Stars' Miles Pabst was chosen as a co-coach for the Western Division allstars.

All-star squads were chosen by vote of the IVA players, who could only pick players from their own division.

The all-star match will be taped for a broadcast July 23 on CBS. The all-stars:

JACK DICKMANN

Dickmann is not the type in the water polo tank that does a lot of scoring-rather he's called on for his defensive prowess and he says he enjoys that aspect of the game.

"My game is the counteratsays Dickmann. "I have size, strength and speed (he swam in the 48s and 1:48s in the 100 and 200-yard freestyles while at UCI) and there are not a whole lot of people who can stay with me the full 30 meters on a and Dickmann rates him as his toughest competition among American poloists.

"He's as big as me and really fast, almost in the high 45s in the 100 free. Quick and strong, Svendsen is a tremendous all-round player."

Players from the tournament will be selected for the World Student Games, but standouts such as Dickmann, Kruse, Baba and Svendsen won't be consideredalready committed for the national team.

Still, Dickmann says the competitive edge will be more than just a national team title on the line. "Gaining a berth on the student games team provides tremendous developmental experience," says Dickmann.

Dickmann, a Laguna Niguel resident, was at his competitive peak in 1975 when he lost out to the eardrum injury, but he says although he may not be as fast or strong, he's a smarter player with Moscow and 1980 approaching

"It's the only reason I'm still playing," says Dickmann. It's not just an ambition to compete at the Olympics. I don't want to be there as a token entity.

Smoke Eater

Invention Clears Air

CHICAGO (AP) — Norbert Kirk, a former vacuum cleaner salesman, has been inventing things for 20 years and thinks he finally has a bit hit - an ash tray that eats

The ash tray, small enough to fit into the palm of a hand and carried in pocket or purse, has a tiny, silent motor powered by two small batteries.

WHEN A CIGARETTE IS placed in it, the smoke is drawn into and through a replaceable filtering pad made of activated charcoal and a polymer.

The filter deodorizes as well as filters the smoke and expels the faint, inoffensive remains. A sliding cover activates the motor when opened. The ashes are contained when it is

"I thought up the idea when I was eating in a restaurant and smoke from a burning cigarette in an ash tray was getting in my face." said Kirk, a silver-haired man of 50 who once was a boxing instructor at Illinois College.

CLEVELAND (AP) - When Ohio Bell Telephone Company workers walked off the job for a few days last year, one woman's voice worked on, handling thousands of calls 24 hours a day, answering each with the same impeccable voice:

The number you have called. . . has been changed. The new number is. . . Please make note of it." Or one of a score of other messages, coupled with precise, instantaneous information on the number you dialed.

IN ADDITION TO making AIS recordings "in bits and pieces that the computer puts together," she said, she does time and temperature recordings, commercials and service information recordings for other agencies, including one for television

For the AIS system put together by Western Electric, the Bell system's technical arm. Mrs. Barbe records individual numerals, one to zero, plus a series of message fragments such as "in the 614 area," "in the Canton area," and so forth.

These are recorded on electronic chips mounted in two 20inch computer drums.

MARTIN SVENSEN, WHO watches over the AIS in the Ohio Bell equipment center in Cleveland, plugged a phone in one of the chips.

"One, one, one, one, one. . ., Jane's voice says over and over. He switches in another chip that says "one, one, one," but with a dropping inflection - used when the numeral is at the end of a

And it does it so smoothly, it almost sounds as though Mrs. Barbe is on the phone talking to you. The only thing missing is the Southern accent, which she doesn't let creep into recordings.

Ohio Bell public relations executive Charles Day said Mrs. Barbe's voice provides all the information a live operator could.

"IF YOU STAY on the line, a live operator will come in," he said, "but all she can do is look in the records and give you the same information that's in the AIS memory

"You know," Day observed, "they say if the telephone companies hadn't changed from cord boards to dial phones there wouldn't be enough women in the country to handle all the boards."

The spread of AIS - eliminating hundreds of intercept operators - can be measured by the amount of work Mrs. Barbe does at Audichron.

"I'M RECORDING messages for new installations constantly,"-she said. Svensen said recordings in the Long Talkers To Pay More

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The California Public Utilities Commission has approved a plan to charge long-winded residential telephone customers extra for the extra minutes they spend talking.

The new rate structure, called single message rate timing (SMRT), affects all Pacific Telephone Company customers except those with lifeline service or residential customers who pay a flat rate.

THE PUC SAID the controversial rate structure "is the most equitable way to price telephone service."

SMRT has been in operation since last year in Orange County. the east San Francisco Bay Area and San Diego.

Under the SMRT plan, residential users pay a flat rate for the first five minutes of a call and 1 cent a minute thereafter.

Spending Tally: Food Costs Fall

By SYLVIA PORTER

True or false: As the costs of food have skyrocketed, the share of the family's budget going for this item has soared too, and a greater proportion of after-tax dollars is spent for food today than in the past. The same trend applies to health care, which is absorbing a large share of family income.

False. Astounding as it may seem, the latest family spending figures, taken from Carsus Bureau surveys.

spending figures, taken from Census Bureau surveys and published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, underline the point. To document:

FROM 1950 to 1960-61, THE relative importance of food in the American family's budget declined from 29.7 to 24.4 percent, and kept dropping until it had reached 20.1 percent at latest reporting date, 1972-73. Even if the explosion in food prices in 1974-75 raised the percentage a bit, it could not have lifted it back to the proportion food took in 1950.

— In 1960-61, the share of living expenses going to personal care and health costs was 9.6 percent. By 1972-73, that was down to 8.4 percent. (Some explanation follows.)

— Meanwhile, the proportion of a typical family's budget going for clothing has dwindled, from 11.5 percent in the early 1950s to 10.9 percent in the early 1960s to 7.8 percent in 1972-73.

Simultaneously, of course, other essentials and luxuries have been taking larger shares.

Homes and utilities have been eating more and more into incomes. The proportion going for shelter and utilities has jumped from 15.6 percent in 1950 to 17.0 percent 10 years later to 21.3 percent in 1972-73.

IN MORE THAN ANY OTHER single category, spending for transportation — particularly for buying, maintaining, financing and fueling our cars — has rocketed. The climb has been from 15 percent of family spending in the 1960s to 21 percent in the 1970s.

The average family spent $5,054 on consumer goods and services in the early 1960s; the same family spent $8,282 at the opening of the 1970s.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics says it shows a decrease in dollars going to health care, because medical costs reported by the survey refer only to out-of-pocket family expenses. The do not include health insurance premiums paid by employers or the U.S. government.

FAMILY SPENDING FOR RECREATION and education has remained virtually unchanged for decades, with a shift from 9.3 percent of living expenses in 1960-61 to 9.4 per-

The following chart sums up major changes in basic consumer spending patterns between the 1960s and 1970s. Note that less is being spent for essentials and more for luxuries - the key sign of a continuingly affluent society.

City Tries to Get Girl's Goat Neighborhood Backs Teen in Her Fight to Keep Her Pet

CONCORD (AP) - Young Michele od has a little goat with fleece as hite as snow. City officials have in-ormed her the goat is against the rules. Michele, a 15-year-old animal lover, keeps her purebread Saanen goat named Keema on her family's quarter-acre lot. the recently received word from the Concord city attorney's office that regulations require a minimum of one-half acre to raise livestock.

The Woods decided not to let city hall get their goat and took the matter to court. They circulated a petition around the neighborhood in an attempt to shepherd support in the wooly battle.

Some 50 people have signed the peti-tion and Michele said Concord Mayor Richard LaPointe has expressed his backing.

With the mayor and the neighborhood on their side, the Woods hope to resolve the matter before their next court appearance in early August.

"There isn't a law in town that restricts the number of dogs a family can own," said Michele's mother, Helgard Wood, "which means that some people can own 20 Great Danes and another family can't even own a goat it's discriminatory."

Church Women Said 'Pushy'

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Church leaders say they organized Mormon women in 10 states and the District of Columbia to attend International Women's Year conferences and vote to "strengthen the family."

The Mormon women were accused in some states after last weekend's conferences of taking over the meetings and forcing through resolutions against abortion and the Equal Rights Amendment, both of which are opposed by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon).

CHURCH SPOKESMAN DON LeFevre admitted that the Mormon women had been sent to the conferences but denied that the 3.8 million-member church was trying to orchestrate the meetings.

'There is nothing wrong with being or ganized," he said.

"The first prophet and president of the church, Joseph Smith, said it is our duty to concentrate all our influence to make popular that which is sound and good and unpopular that which is unsound. That is precisely what the church and its members have been doing in regards to the International Women's

Keeping Up With Jones? Know Your Fiber Facts

Jeanne Jones has a case for fiber. Just like she has a case for health and longevity. peace of mind and body through conscious

She could be, for some, the Julia Child of health food gourmets, and her three cookbooks, "The Calculating Cook," "Diet for a Happy Heart" and "Fabulous Fiber" seem to remind its readers that their cause celebre is, as she puts it, "simply a matter of knowing the nutrient values of foods.

Hence, she has included in all the books a breakdown in terms of caloric values for all known natural foods - a handy kitchen

In her latest book, "Fabulous Fiber," Ms. Jones extols the benefits of an adequate, fiber-rich diet that would include, for the average eater, some seven to 15 grams of fiber a day.

She also includes in her list of foods and caloric equivalents, a breakdown of the fiber grams they contain; and a seven-day diet of fiber-filled menus, allowing no more than 1,000 calories a day. (It works, she savs.)

Born Jean Castendyck in Newport Beach - 40 years ago, she admits but doesn't show - Ms. Jones says her interest in dietary fiber grew out of awareness that she never seemed to feel "deprived" in order to keep her weight at a happy minimum.

"When I was growing up, my family had a fabulous cook who fixed meals on our boat in the summer and at home in the winter. I grew up on elegant dining, ate a lot of natural foods, lots of vegetables and homemade, whole-grain breads, cereals and salads, then later cooked a lot of them

FIBER, she explains, is a shorthand term for a family of complex chemical substances known as polymers, which include cellulose and non-cellulosic polysac-

"Fiber acts as a tough, natural protection against obesity in its ability to speed the transit time of food waste in the body," Ms. Jones says.

Since it cannot be digested by human digestive juices, fiber accumulates as "roughage" or "bulk" or what she calls "softage," swelling with liquids and waste products as they travel through the intestine until dispelled through the colon.

"People don't like to talk about anything that relates to bathroom habits, yet then they spend millions of dollars a year on laxatives," says Ms. Jones. "A fiber-rich diet is really all they need, and that means a common-sense diet, no drastic changes in lifestyle or gimmicks.

Like anyone who has successfully made a transition from processed to natural foods can attest, she says, "There is a certain transition time for the body to acclimate to taste and texture. Then, after a while, icky white bread and overcooked vegetables become repulsive.'

Still, Ms. Jones says she's amazed by the numbers of shoppers who seek out refined foods in preference to those with greater high fiber content. Everyone had a high-fiber diet until 1870 when the roller mill was invented," she "Only recently have doctors and nutritionists finally got their heads together in attributing the causes of such diseases as colitis and gallstones to an overconsumption of refined sugars and cereals.'

WHEAT BRAN, which forms the outer shell of the wheat berry of the grain, is one of the richest known sources of fiber and is used widely in recipes throughout her book. The wheat germ, she explains, contains lit-tle fiber, but is considered hardy for its nutrient value (it also contains fat); the stuff around it, from which flour is hulled, she says, is "worthless."

She draws an example: A breakfast of two three-inch pancakes made from white flour or commercial pancake mix provides a trace of fiber. Pancakes made from a recipe she has devised for "Gingerbread Pancakes" uses whole wheat flour and provides 1.4 grams of fiber in a comparable serving.

An added bonus, she says: "Whatever's left over from breakfast can double as cookies for lunch. You get instant snacks in-stead of wasted batter." (The recipe is given below.)

But Ms. Jones takes her case beyond breakfast. While a half-cup of unprocessed wheat bran (sold as miller's bran) contains 3.2 grams of fiber, she says a person should also become familiar with other foods that provide fiber and slack off the refined foods

In "Fabulous Fiber," she shows how bran can be used in making sauces and gravies, delicate pie crusts - even salad

"THE ADVANTAGE of using bran in salad dressings is that raw bran acts much in the same way as croutons do. It absorbs the flavor, so it takes much less dressing to flavor a salad and dieters can cut way back," she said.

A few years back, Ms. Jones was diagnosed with a diabetic condition, and was placed on a restricted diet. "It didn't take me long to learn that a diabetic diet is nothing more than a perfectly balanced

The recipes she devised in order for her to continue to entertain in a gourmet style became the basis for her first cookbook, "The Calculating Cook," which was published in 1972.

A new, revised edition of the book is scheduled to be released later this year, she says, and will include recipes revised according to the American Diabetes Association's new dietary exchange list, and eliminates all uses of sugar substitutes.

Instead of sugar or saccharin, I use fructose, which is sweeter than sugar, so dieters get an automatic caloric reduction because they use less."

THERE IS NO LOSS in the quality of the food she said, adding that fructose activates yeast and contributes to the texture of baked goods just as refined sugars do.

In Fabulous Fiber, the majority of recipes that call for sweetening use date 'sugar," a form of fructose combined with pulverized dried dates.

"The reason I use date sugar is that it contains half a gram of fiber per tables-poon," she said. "You could use fructose or anything else, if you wanted, but you wouldn't get the benefits of fiber.

At the present time, fructose and date sugar can be purchased in health food stores, however, Ms. Jones predicts, that with the banning of saccharin, fructose will soon become available in supermarkets.

ITALIAN FIBER DRESSING

11/2 teaspoons salt 1/4 cup red wine vinegar

1/4 cup dry red wine

1/2 teaspoon date sugar

1/2 teaspoon oregano 1/4 teaspoon sweet basil

¼ teaspoon tarragon

1/2 teaspoon dry mustard 1/4 teaspoon black pepper

34 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce 1 garlic bud, crushed

1/4 cup unprocessed wheat bran 1/2 cup corn oil

Dissolve salt in the vinegar and red wine. Add all other ingredients, except corn oil, and mix well, then slowly stir in the oil. Pour in a jar with a tight-fitting lid and shake vigorously for a full minute. Store tightly covered in the refrigerator.

Makes 11/2 cups; 2 tablespoons contain .2 grams of fiber and 96 calories.

GINGERBREAD PANCAKES 1 cup strong brewed coffee (or use 2 teaspoons instant decaffeinated coffee and 1 cup hot water)

34 cup date sugar 1 cup whole wheat flour 34 teaspoon baking soda

1/2 teaspoon-ground ginger 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon

1/4 teaspoon ground cloves

1 egg, beaten 4 tablespoons butter or margarine,

Combine coffee and date sugar and allow to stand for 10 minutes. Combine flour, baking soda, ginger, cinnamon, salt and cloves in a large mixing bowl. In another bowl, combine the beaten egg, melted butter or margarine and coffee-date sugar mixture.

Add the liquid ingredients to the dry ingredients and mix just enough to moisten all dry ingredients. Batter should remain lumpy. Drop by spoonfuls onto a hot greased griddle or skillet. Cook until the top of each pancake is covered with tiny bubbles and the bubbles begin to break, making little holes all over the top of the pan-cake. Turn pancakes and brown on the other side.

Makes 12 pancakes, each containing .7 grams of fiber and approximately 125 calories.

PIZZA CHICKEN

2 cups tomato juice 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar

4 cup unprocessed wheat bran 1/4 teaspoon salt

1 medium onion, thinly sliced 1 teaspoon oregano

4 whole chicken breasts, boned, halved, skinned and all visible fat removed 1 tablespoon butter or margarine

> Ground black pepper 1/2 cup chicken stock

1 cup grated mozzarella cheese

Put the tomato juice in a large saucepan. Add the vinegar, bran, salt and onion and mix thoroughly. Bring the mixture to a boil and reduce the heat. Simmer uncovered for I hour. Add the oregano and continue to simmer uncovered for 30 minutes.

Preheat the oven to 400°. Put the chicken breasts in a baking dish large enough not to overlap them. Rub a little butter or corn oil margarine evenly on each piece of chicken, then sprinkle salt and freshly ground black pepper over the tops. Pour the chicken stock in the baking dish. Cover the dish tightly with a lid or aluminum foil and place it in the preheated oven for 20

Remove the chicken from the oven and pour off the liquid. Spread the tomato sauce evenly over the chicken and place it back in the oven, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Remove from the oven and sprinkle the rated cheese evenly over the chicken. Place it under the broiler until the cheese is melted and lightly browned.

Makes 8 servings, each containing approximately .6 grams of fiber and 293

In her latest cookbook, fiber fan Jeanne Jones of La Jolla, formerly of Newport Beach, shows how gourmet cooks can replace refined products with wheat bran and other whole-grain foods in making soups, sauces, even salad dressings.

Papayas: Sweet Luxury

Papaya salad boats make wholesome, fiber-rich meals.

Anyone who has ever cut a calorie knows what bliss it is to find something that tastes luxurious, velvety smooth and sweet, with a mere 78 calories for a good 7-ounce half papaya. This same size serving also provides 3,500 units of vitamin A, 112 milligrams of vitamin C. 468 milligrams of potassium and is an excellent plant source of calcium. While all these nutrients are necessary in the day-to-day scheme of things, the papaya also offers in rich abundance something that many foods do not — fiber. One-half provides about 1.5 Papayas can be served hot or cold, although

When in India,

Feast 'til Noon

I had an Indian breakfast the other day, if you can call a six-course banquet breakfast.

The meal was prepared for me by Hansraj Kapotra, veteran chef from the Asian subcontinent, hours before he began his cay cooking at New York's Raga Restaurant.

Kapotra has been chef in many kitchens over the past three decades, including the Indian Pavilion at the 1964 New York World's Fair and Canada's Expo '67. He has prepared delicacies for Indira Gandhi, Jacqueline Onassis and Britain's Princess Margaret.

His love of good food amounts to a passion and the dishes he described made me realize that most Americans know very little about India's cuisine, except for the curry

Of course, most Indians do not start their day with any such lavish fare, but I was told a surprising number of the more affluent fo. In fact, some morning meals whipped up in the heyday of the rajahs featured 30 or more dishes.

Centerpiece of my breakfast was akuri, a mixture of scrambled eggs, garlic, ginger and other spices. This was accompanied by Alu Bhaji, which consisted of potato bits swimming in liquid curry with tomato and onion slices.

The little room was left on my plate for Channa Bindi, a rich mixture of chick peas, turmeric and other herbs. All three dishes had a distinct curry flavor.

Indians accompany this rib-sticking meal with two kinds of bread — Bhatu, an inflated globe of thin crust and flat disks of Aloo Pratha.

When I finished, Kapotra served me portions of pickled apple and carrot topped with a dollop of yogurt. Then came a serving of pickled chicken bits plus more spiced carrots.

If you are still able to eat after this, an Indian host will probably ply you with a multicolored assortment of sweets with a heavy accent on shredded coconut. The food is usually washed down with milk or buttermilk Indians are great tea drinkers, but don't start on it till midmorning

Lobtained this recipe for Akuri from Chef Kapotra.

Onion, minced, 6 ounces Tomatoes, diced, 6 ounces Ginger, chopped, 1.5 ounces Garlic, minced, (1 clove) Green pepper, chopped (4 cup) Butter, 3 ounces Cumin seeds, 1/2 teaspoon 12 eggs. Paprika to taste Salt to taste Black pepper to taste Heavy cream, 2 tablespoons Fresh coriander, a few sprigs, chopped Chop finely the onion, tomatoes, ginger, garlic and green pepper. Melt butter in frying pan, add cumin seeds and saute first 5 ingredients.

Beat eggs with paprika, salt and pepper and cream and set aside. When vegetables are light brown after being sauteed in the butter, add beaten eggs and whisk over medium heat till they are scrambled. Garnish with chopped coriander and serve. Serves 6.

Fresh plum halves perk up morning muffins.

GRUMBLE FUMBLES

Plums Are Bun-derful!

Down with the morning grumblies. Up with sweet starts, like this one, made in a jiffy with the help of nature's plums and refrigerated biscuit dough.

BREAKFAST PLUM BUNS

8 fresh plums, halved and pitted

½ cup brown sugar 1 package (11 ounces) quick cinnamon

Danish rolls or plain cinnamon rolls 1/2 cup sour cream

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Toss plums with brown sugar.

Place rolls on greased cookie sheet, 2 inches apart. Pat out each roll to a 3-inch round, keeping edge thick and forming depression in center. Spread a tablespoon of sour cream in each. Place 2 plum halves together and set into depression. Bake 10 minutes. Serve at once, with additional sour cream. Makes 8

It's a dessert! Use a bag full of fresh, sweety pulpy fruit to make it. Serve after dinner or as first course for Sunday brunch. Pass the sour cream.

31/2 cups diced fresh plums "

1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind 2 tablespoons cornstard (blended with 2 tablespoons cold

In a large saucepan bring to boil the plums, water, sugar and lemon rind; cook until fruit is soft and sugar is dissolved. Strain through a fine-mesh sieve or cheesecloth.

Return purce to saucepan and stir in cornstarch mixture and . Stirring constantly, bring again to a boil and boil 2 minutes.

RECYCLING CHEESE

Look for a Whey With Wine

Technician at Foremost-McKesson lab in Dublin checks three stages of whey wine.

By JOHN C. EAGAN DUBLIN (AP) — It won't win any blue ribbons in judging against fine vintages, but fruitflavored whey wine compares favorably with the "pop wines" that are growing in popularity.

And that's good news for dairies across America which in July will be banned from using sewers to dispose of 116 million gallons of liquid whey, the high-protein residue from cheese-making

In large dairies, about half of the whey in America's cheese industry is already converted to a dry powder which is valuable as a nutritional additive to many food products, ranging from bread to ice cream.

The ban on disposing of the balance in sewers is being imposed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency because whey overloads sewage treatment plants. To help dairies, the EPA has financed research on turning the problem into profit by making whey wine cheaply and easily.

Dairies can use ordinary plant equipment to turn some of their whey into wine, says Gaylord M. Palmer, head of the EPA research project being conducted at the Foremost-McKesson Research and Development Center in this Oakland suburb.

Palmer said the work is incomplete, but it appears certain whey wine could compete successfully with pop wines. Dairies could use the profits to help pay for proper disposal of their unused whey, he added.

Whey wine production remained a laboratory curiosity until EPA-financed research at until EPA-financed research at Oregon State University indicated on a small scale that it could be made with equipment common in the cheese industry. The $113,458, two-year research project here, begun in the fall of 1975, is aimed at proving the concept on a production scale that would apply at an actual dairy plant. Palmer said he expects the project will be completed and the results published by next spring, when the details will be available to any dairy.

Meantime, the berry-flavored wine Foremost has developed will be tested on several hundred people, to see how they like it compared to Annie Green Springs Berry Frost, a similar product that is already one of the top seven selling pop wines.

Like other pop wines, whey wine will have 8 to 9 percent alcohol, well below the alcoholic content of grape wines.

The only additional equipment a cheese plant will need to make whey wine is a special filtration device and an ion exchange or electrodyalisis device for removing some of the whey salt to improve taste.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department is requiring more detailed and descriptive labels on food it buys for programs such as school lunches, and officials say they hope the move will help other consumers as well.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman announced, "We are taking this lead because consumers have told us they want more than simply a list of ingredients by order of importance. They also need to know how much of each ingredient is in the product and why additives are present, said Ms. Foreman, a former director of the Consumer Federation of America.

The new rules specify ingredients, tell how much of each is present and explain why additives are included.

As an example, Ms. Foreman said the department will shortly be purchasing turkey rolls for the school lunch program. An acceptable sample list of ingredients would read: turkey, more than 94 percent; water, less than 2.6 percent, dissolved added ingredients; soy protein concentrate or isolated soy protein, less than 2.5 percent, binder; iodized salt, less than 1 percent, flavor; sodium phosphate, less than 0.5 percent, to retain juices and soluble nutrients; pepper, less than 0.3 percent flavor.

Krill in Your Future?

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) - There is probably some krill in your future.

The tiny Antarctic crustacean, now on sale in Santiago supermarkets as breaded krill sticks, is supposed to be good for your health and pocketbook and plentiful enough to feed much of Chile's Institute of Fishing Promotion developed krill sticks, which are packaged similarly to fish sticks in the United States, and launched a six-month tryout on the Chilean public last May.

Assuming krill is a hit at the dinner table, the institute plans to find a private company to market krill products around the world.

Besides krill sticks, the institute says it has invented krill soup, krill cheese, krill pudding, krill pate, krill salami and more. Krill flavor is usually compared to shrimp and some other local shellfish.

The Soviet Union and Japan have also been fishing the Antarctic waters for krill and selling it to the public as paste.

But Roberto Cabezas, director of planning for the fishing institute, says Chile is the first country to develop commercial products ready to put in the skillet or on the plate without mixing them with other things.

Three tons of krill sticks — 12,000 boxes were put on sale in the stores of one chain on the first day of the trying. They sold out in less than two hours. The institute says there will be a new

The sticks are breaded, precooked and frozen. The instructions say to fry them in a little cooking oil for three minutes.

A box of 10 krill sticks, weighing slightly more than half a pound, sells for about 80 U.S.

Cabezas said the institute is still studying the price factor but that any change will be slight. The price outside Chile would also be affected by transportation costs and any tariffs.

A krill is basically a tail about 11/2 to 21/2 inches long. It is an off-white color and has two black eyes. Many krill, eyes and all, go into one Krill was the principal food of whales until man nearly wiped out whales, causing an abundance of krill. The largest known mass of krill extends from the southern tip of South America east to the tip of Africa.

Chilean fishing officials say it is possible to harvest 200 million tons of krill a year without causing ecological damage. By comparison, they say all of the world's fishing fleets now take a total of only 70 million tons of fish and seafood from the oceans annually. For this reason, a number of international studies have concluded that krill is the "food of the future.'

The studies say krill has a protein content as good as or better than any meat or fish, that it contains all the essential amino acids, and that the two black eyes are pure vitamin A.

Vhat You're Nibbling or Junk

By DOROTHY WENCK ispesity of California Sperative Extension

Salty, starchy. runchy foods have become our most popular choice for snacks.

Witness the consumption of potato chips. pseudo potato chips packed in cans, corn chips, tortilla chips, cheese puffs, pretzels. popcorn, and a vast variety of snack crackers in various shapes and forms.

Are these foods a good nutritional value?

The chief ingredients that you get are fat. starch, and salt. Fat, of course, is a source of many calories (214 times more than from starch).

POTATO CHIPS and other types of chips are 40% fat. Ten potato chips have 115 calories - 75 of which come from the fat and as much as 20 milligrams of sodium (from the salt).

The typical snack cracker ranges from 20 to 30% fat. This means that 40-50% of the calories in these crackers comes from fat. Some examples:

Cheese crackers 21% fat - 10 crackers, or calories and 325 milligrams of sodium.

"Round" crackers 21% fat — 10 crackers weighing about 1.2 oz. have 165 calories and 357 milligrams sodium.

One inch square "wheat" crackers — 21% fat — 10 crackers weighing just over 13 ounce have 52 calories and 112 milligrams

SALTINES - 12% fat 10 square crackers weighing 1 oz. have 123 calories and 312 milligrams of sodium.

Even the crackers that are labeled "whole wheat" can be loaded with calories if fat is a main ingredient. Read the label to see if fat usually in the form of vegetable oil - is present on the list of ingredients. (Ingredients are listed in order of predominance by weight so the one listed first is there in greatest amount, and so on down most have only 2-40 fat. Ten thin pretzel sticks each 3" long will have only 23 calories; 10 of the ring type (three rings) would weigh five times as much and have 117 calories.

PRETZELS are another choice if you want to cut down on fat

Since pretzels are very salty, their sodium content is high - 101 milligrams sodium in the 10 thin sticks, 504 milligrams in the 10 threering pretzels.

Caution: Water Drowns

A frequently asked question is how much nutrient loss occurs when fresh vegetables are cooked. Some nutritionists estimate that the vast majority of cooks (professional and nonprofessional) allow onethird of the nutrients to be lost in the cooking water.

The truth is, vegetables should be cooked in as little water and for as short a time as pessible. When they are just-tender to the prick of a fork, drain off water but not down the drain!

Even though fastcooking minimizes nutrient loss, some vitamins and minerals still manage to escape into the water. And in this day of short water supply, a wise cook will save this cooking water, in a covered jar in the refrigerator, to be used in sauces, soups, stews and other kinds of cooked entrees that require liquids.

For example, save the liquids from vegetables, pour into a single container, and use it, seasoned, to steam rice. . .a smart, thrifty way of gleaning extra nutrients "free!"

On the Road? Pack With Care

Campers can rely on a bag of fruits and vegetables for many of their meals, if they buy and pack with care. And compact packages of dehydrated salad seasoning mixes can help make them interesting.

For these two vegetarian main-dish ideas, you'll need to pack vegetable oil (fill a plastic bottle with a screw cap), 1 package of Italian dressing mix. 2 grapefruit, 3 medium-sized zucchini, 1 green pepper, 1 ripe avocado (pack it on top. please!), 1 onion, and a can of garbanzo beans.

In your cooler, next to the beer, pack a brick of Swiss cheese (or, if you like, cut it up into bite-size cubes and pack in a plastic bag, before you leave) and a package of frozen peas. The peas will stay frozen if kept in an ice chest or ice box with ice, and add cold power, too.

At home, Hot Summer Salad can be garnished with chopped walnuts. Come to think of it, walnuts make good munching on the road, too.

In some cases, excess amounts of essential minerals can be toxic. Thus it is important that we get minerals in our diets in properly balanced amounts.

Calcium is the best known of the minerals because of its role in forming the structure of makes up about 2 per-cent of the body. Calcium is also involved in the regulation of body processes such as bloodclotting, nerve stimulation, muscle contraction - including heart muscle — and is necessary for good mus-

The main source of calcium is milk and such as cheese, yogurt, sources are green leafy vegetables (except dried peas and beans.

Phosphorus goes hand in hand with calcium in forming bones and teeth. It's also an important part of every tissue and is necessary for the storage and release of energy. It facilitates the absorption of many materials by combining with them.

Calcium and phosphorus should be present in the diet in nearly equal proportions. Phosphorus is widely distributed in all foods, but is especially high in meat, poultry, fish, eggs, and whole ception of organ meats

Minerals are elements grain cereals. A high-n our diets that are es-meat, low-milk diet can result in excess phosphorus in proportion to calcium and this can be detrimental to maintaining healthy bones.

Bones Brittle?

Something few of us seem to realize is that we continue to need calcium throughout our lives in order to avoid weak, brittle bones as we grow

One of the reasons calcium is deficient in the diet of many older persons may be their intolerance to lactose, a sugar found in milk. Lactose intolerance due to a lack of the enzyme that "digests" lactose, seems to increase with age and often results in prolonged bouts of diahrrea.

Sometimes fermented milk products, such as yogurt, or kefir, may be more easily tolerated -Sulfur is present in all or milk in the form of creamed soups. If no form of milk is tolerated, you may have to resort to a calcium supplement.

Seafood Scarce

Growing demand for seafood could lead to a worldwide shortage within a decade, a government report has stated.

A study released to Associated Press by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric administration says current landings of 63 million metric tons annually are edging toward the maximum world output of 150 million metric tons, which the report said, could be the annual harvest in 10

Glude estimateshat approximately 10 percent of the world fishery production comes from aquaculture.

Public aquaculture of salmon, and private aquaculture of oysters, trout, shrimp, catfish and clams account for 65,000 metric tons, or about 3 percent of U.S. production.

Good Game Plan: Don't Play

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is to the three 16-year-old girls who spend all their spare time fantasizing, "What if we got pregnant?"

What kind of roulette are you playing, girls? The stakes are higher than you think. Abortion is now considered safer than childbirth, but it is still 100 percent fatal for the fetus. Do the unborn have a voice in the game?

Releasing a child for adoption may not be your decision alone. Courts are now recognizing the rights of the father. You'd better call in the unlisted players.

If you opt for raising the child alone, can you raise the "bread?" Are you ready to take on the responsibility for the daily care of another human being? Or are you assuming that your family or society will pick up the tab? If so, they too should be consulted. The right to "do your own thing" does not include the right to impose on others.

Marriage may not be the answer either. If you are a minor you would need parental consent in some states. What is your boyfriend's gut reaction? Have you consulted him? Will he scuttle school and career plans for a menial job to support you and the baby? Or will he be a rabbit and run? If he stays and "takes his punishment," remember that a captive mate often slips the noose when he gets fed up. What will you do then?

There are two ways of ending the gamble: Stay away from sex altogether or learn how to use contraceptives responsibly. Perhaps these should be the topics of your next gab-fest, girls. — FANTASY CHILD'S MOTHER IN DES MOINES

DEAR MOTHER: Thank you for some sensible advice. I couldn't have done better myself. In fact, probably not as well.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My boyfriend Hal and I just had a fight over something stupid. We have known each other for several years and are now considering marriage.

President Carter stated recently that he might start the "draft" again. Hal says he will not have to go because of his police record. Five years ago he was involved in burglary and grand larceny. Six months ago he was arrested for the possession of an ounce of marijuana.

Please give us the correct information. - MAD IN NEW

DEAR MAD: At this writing a new draft is being considered but there is no draft law on the books at present. So quit fighting, already. (P.S. Hal sounds like a real winner.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is for "Tomato Face" the girl who was miserable because the men in the office told off-color jokes and used shocking language - they loved to watch her blush

Ann Landers

Honey, I'm a 33-year-eld male who used to be a blusher, too. A friend proved to me that involuntary responses can be controlled. If you will do some programming you can prevent the blush mechanism as I did. An appropriate message to repeat to yourself might be: "CANCEL THE BLUSH, I WILL NOT PUT ON A SHOW FOR THESE JERKS."-V-8

DEAR V-8: In technical language your suggested anproach is called "bio-feedback." If it can lower one's blood pressure (and it can), it certainly should be able to squelch a blush. The technique must be learned from a professional, however, Check with a physician.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Lan-ders's completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, selfaddressed, stamped envelope (13 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill.

Nonagenarian Fay Feed Christian has "so much he still wants to do."

Ol' Rockin' Chair

For Selling Only

MOUNT CARROLL, III. (AP) - At age 92 the only thing a rocking chair means to Fay Freed Christian is something to sell in his furntiture store. He doesn't have time to stop and rock.

ruddy Christian is a complexioned, sportily dressed little man who has been in business in downtown Mount Carroll since 1911.
"I believe in mixing and agreeing instead of arguing," he says.

"Having a good thought of others. That's kept me going."

In addition to selling and repairing furniture, Christian is an undertaker. He also frames pictures under a system he patented that gives a three-dimensional effect, sells old-time sheet music, enjoys his 61st year in the Masons and corresponds as past president of the Illinois Society of Sons of the Revolution.

His only television interest is the one hour a day he spends watching the soap opera "As the World Turns," which he began watching before his wife died several years ago.

Christian runs everything himself, no employes

"I don't get much funeral business anymore - don't advertise or anything like that. People know where I am if they want to come in," he said.

"These days the high cost of dying is really something. . . . ! always have looked out for people's interests and will still put on a dandy funeral - metal casket, embalming, hearse service, chapel services - for less than $1,000 . . . And I still would make a little bit on it."

Christian finds much of his leasure with his granddau and three great-grandchildren who live in town.

He also enjoys walking. In a parade last year, "I walked more than a mile to the start of the parade, then marched downtown and back again. After the parade, I started to walk back home, but someone stopped and gave me a ride.

"I like plenty of exercise but by that time I was starting to get a little tired."

When he leaves his store he selects from a dozen different handwritten notes to hang on the door: "I'm at the former Grimm's Cafe on Rapp Street now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ward Rogers;" "At Elsie's Cafe on Highway 64 at Lanark, 7 miles. The food is good;" or "I'm walking through Point Rock Park and then to the cemetery."

"The whole clan is buried there but me," he said. "My greatgreat-grandfather who was in the Revolutionary War is there. So are my great-grandfather who was in the War of 1812, my grandfather, my father and my mother. Undoubtedly, I'll join join 'em some day, but I never think about it. Jury Hears 'Woman Scorned show that the testimony of a woman scorned was vital to the investigation leading to the recent indictment of Orange County Supervisors Ralph Diedrich and Philip Anthony.

The woman whose testimony wrapped a band of circumstantial evidence around Diedrich, Anthony and their four alleged co-conspirators in a purported plot to undermine state campaign regulations is Donna

Doughty.
Mrs. Doughty was indicted Fullerton attorney Michael Rem-

Witness Links Checks in County Probe ington's chief secretary and office manager for 11 years.

In testimony before the grand jury, emington admitted having a "close relationship" with Mrs. Doughty that underwent a dramatic change when he married another woman last Oct. 1.

Thus, Remington said, "a few months ago" things became uncomfortable around the office and, by mutual agreement, Mrs. Doughty left his employ.

On June 20, Mrs. Doughty was before the grand jury as a witness into an eight-month probe into county political practices that would end in 11 days with the indictment of Diedrich, Anthony, Remington and three others.

The 42-year-old woman had been before the jury two weeks earlier.

In that appearance she responded to questions asked her about bookkeeping operations in Remington's office with a standard "Privileged."

By privileged, Mrs. Doughty meant that, as an employe of lawyer Remington's she was bound to keep her boss' deadlings with his clients, including Diedrich, confidential.

But in her appearance before the jury June 20, Mrs. Doughty had been relieved of compulsion to remain silent by a Superior

Then, for more than three hours she answered Assistant District Attorney Michael Capizzi's questions.

Mrs. Doughty's replies to Capizzi's questions clearly linked Diedrich checks to Remington with Remington checks to various political candidates, including Anthony and indicted Anaheim City Councilman

William Kott.

That's because Anthony, Kott and other candidates showed the Remington money coming into their campaigns as personal loans from themselves.

And neither Remington nor Diedrich filed major campaign donor statements showing their alleged financial role in the campaign.

But Mrs. Doughty's testimony tended to indicate the ink was barely dry on Diedrich checks to her former boss before the Fullerton attorney passed similar amounts on to the candidates.

Her words also coincided with bank records either seized by district attorney investigators armed with search warrants or surrendered voluntarily.

Jobless Toll Dips

Lowest June on Record for County

Orange County's unemployment rate dipped to its lowest point since 1972 last month when it reached 4.4 percent, according to figures released today by the State Employment Development Department (EDD).

An EDD spokesman said June's unemployment rate was 'the lowest on record since the department began its labor study series in 1972."

The 4.4 percent unemployment rate is down from 4.6 percent in May and from 5.8 percent in June, 1976.

'Unemployment always rises in June because of graduating high school and college seniors, said EDD labor analyst Alta Yet-

"However," Mrs. Yetter said, "the increase this year was far less than anticipated and that is why the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate is so low."

She noted that county amusement parks and restaurants added 4,500 workers to their payrolls last month. And, Mrs. Yetter said, Orange County's construction boom continued when 1,300 workers were added to construction payrolls. Mrs. Yetter pointed out that the county's civilian work force reached 875,000 persons in June, a record high.

She also noted that private firms within the county employed 658,800 workers in Government employment during the month was buoyed by 600 jobs, including lifeguards hired to safeguard bathers at county beaches.

Mrs. Yetter said some firms have reported small cutbacks in employment since the reporting day in mid June.

However, she added, other firms have reported "strong, steady expansion." The EDD labor analyst said the recent cancellation of the B1 bomber plans will have little effect on employment in Orange

California's Jobless Lowest in 3 Years

SACRAMENTO (AP) -California's unemployment rate fell to 6.9 percent in June, the lowest in three years and the first time in seven years that the statehas been below the national rate, officials said today.

The jobless rate had been 7.8 percent in May. For the third straight month, total employment set a record, nearly 9.3 million, up 136,000 since May.

The national unemployment rate, which has been running as much as two percentage points below California's, was 7.1 percent in June, up from 6.9 percent

State Employment Development Director Martin Glick said employment records were set in numerous industries, including construction, which has gained 16 percent in jobs over a year ago.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Appropriations Commit-tee voted today to cut funds for the BI bomber from the defense appropriations bill,

The vote to support President Carter's decision not to go ahead with production of the bomber was 9 to 5.

The vote came after Carter asked the Senate to carve more than $1 billion from the Pentagon budget because of his decision against producing the warplane. Carter asked for a reduction of

$1,017,400 for the 1978 fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. The appropriations bill, passed by the House before Carter an-nounced his decision, included $1.5 billion to build five planes. Ore.), planned to carry their fight to the floor of the Senate, where a vote was scheduled late today on deleting funds for production of the weapons from a public works appropriation bill.

Baker said he had not taken a formal head count of how the Senate will vote, but added, "It is my guess that Hatfield probably would lose."

Before the vote, Senate leaders met to decide how to limit debate on the weapons, which critics say would mark a dangerous leap in the arms race.

Hatfield has said the funds should not be approved, at least until Carter has provided a legally required assessment of the neutron weapons' impact on arms proliferation.

One Senate source said today Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), attempted to work out an agreement with Carter under which a Senate decision on the neutron weapons would be put off pending the arms control study. At a news conference Tuesday, Carter urged the Senate to approve funding for further de-velopment of the weapons.

Neutron weapons, implanted in artillery shells and Lance missiles, are designed to kill with concentrated radiation rather than explosives or heat used in more conventional nuclear armament. While Carter urged continued development of the weapons, he left open the question of actually deploying them.

"I have not yet decided whether to approve a neutron bomb, but I think it should be one of our options," the President

In a letter to neutron supporter Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.), Carter said the weapons "are in this nation's security interest."

Carter told Stennis, "We are not talking about some new kind of weapon, but of modernization of nuclear weapons.

The President said the neutron warheads might be needed "for discreet application of force" against NATO enemies. Neutron weapons, he said, would keep potential adversaries in Europe uncertain whether nuclear weapons might be used against their "forward echelons."

Carter said two detailed studies on the weapons are due Aug. 15 from the Pentagon and the Arms Control and Disarma-

Mistrial Ruled for HB Man

Orange County Superior Court Judge Everett W. Dickey was forced to declare a mistrial Tuesday in the three-week-old murder trial of Daniel Ray Buyher of Huntington Beach.

The motion by Deputy Public Defender James Brustman was granted when it was learned that clerk Marion Burgman had included with the evidence handed to the deliberating jury records related to Buyher's prior felony

Judge Dickey had ruled during the trial and in the absence of the jury that Buyher's prior criminal record had no bearing in the cur-rent case and could not be revealed to the jury.

Judge Dickey discharged the jury after learning of his clerk's error and set Sept. 6 as the new trial date. Buyher will be returned to the same courtroom Aug. 5 for pre-trial action.

The jury had been asked to find Buyher, 23, of 5441 Hendricksen Drive, guilty of first degree murder for the alleged killing of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Muriel

It is alleged that he shot and killed Mrs. Norton, 50, in her home at 15161 Davis Lane, Huntington Beach, last Dec. 6 because she refused to reveal the whereabouts of her daughter, Buyher's estranged wife, Linda, former office manager said she had no knowledge of a so-called Diedrich bank trust held by Remington except what she had read in the newspapers

In the end, the grand jury thought enough of the bank evidence and linking testimony to hand down its felony conspiracy indictments.

In the closing stages of the investigation, the Grand Jury heard from some of Orange County's most controversial political figures, including former county Democratic Party chairman Richard O'Neill, political consultant Arnold Forde and lobbyist Frank Michelena.

O'Neill figured into the probe because of a $100,000 loan guarantee he and Dr. Louis Cella posted in 1974 at a Santa Ana bank for Diedrich.

When Capizzi on June 28 asked O'Neill about the background of the guarantee, the self-described 'financier-ranch-restaurateur''testified:

"Well, Mr. Diedrich requested a loan. At that particular time he told me he had high interest rates having a little trouble refinancing some property and requested a loan to hold him over 80, 120 days at the most.

"With whom did you discuss the continuing guarantee?' Capizzi asked.

Dr. Cella asked me to support - to go along with this loan. "And it is with Dr. Cella that you discussed the loan?"

Capizzi asked O'Neill. Yes," the financier-rancherrestauranteur answered.

As things turned out on the $100,000 Cella-O'Neill loan guarantee: -The bank made demand for payment from O'Neill when Diedrich initially failed to repay the loan on time and to respond to dunning phone calls and letters.

—The 80, 120 days turned out to be 16 months before Diedrich made payment in two installments.

 Diedrich was indicted on perjury charges for failing to show the loan on economic disclosure statements filed in 1976 and 1977, though it did show on two earlier statements.

Political consultant Arnold Forde testified June 28, the same day O'Neill appeared before the Grand Jury.

Yes, Forde said, he and partner William Butcher had managed Anthony's primary campaign in June, 1976.

In the general election, Anthony was more interested in run-ning the campaign himself," Fordesaid.

'So what we agreed to do in the Anthony campaign is that he (Anthony) would be in charge of

"He would be in charge of it and we would be in charge of developing a direct mail package,' Forde testified. The political consultant put more distance between his firm and the general election campaign fundraising for Anthony when he said:

"That wasn't our responsibility any more. We almost came to a total parting of the ways in the campaign because, in one sense, Anthony wanted to do that . . . he was going to be totally in charge of the campaign. Had Forde told Anthony that it vas okay to accept campaign loans as personal loans and then to show the money coming into the campaign as loans from the candidate?

"There was certainly no talk about a third party giving money surreptitiously or anything like that." Forde testified.

It is Diedrich's alleged failure to list the value of the purported Las Vegas gratuities on his economic disclosure statements that resulted in a second perjury count included in the indictments

The transcripts' most colorful reading comes from a written record of a tape recorded conversation between Conrad and Las Vegas showman Joe Agosta.

In conversation liberally sprinkled with four-letter words, Conrad bragged of the inroads he had made into Orange County political circles.

Busnaper Price-fixing 'Robbed' Children

OAKLAND (AP) - Some of the 26 Chowchilla school children kidnaped nearly one year ago lost glasses, sneakers and trinkets to their abductors, it was disclosed in a pretrial hearing.

Attorney Ted Merrill, representing one of the three young defendants in the case, read a portion of the inventory in court Tuesday.

The items were found in a black bag several miles from the Portola Valley estate belonging to the family of defendant Frederick N. Woods, 25.

Merrill, attorney for Richard Schoenfeld, 24, said the bag contained items belonging to some of the children and bus driver Ed

Ray and the youngsters were abducted at gunpoint July 15, 1976, and transported 100 miles north to a rock quarry where they were kept captive in a buried van. They dug their way to freedom 17 hours later.

Halt Urged To Aliens Medical Plan

At least two Orange County supervisors are ready to call a halt to a new county policy ask-ing indigent illegal aliens to sign up for Medi-Cal benefits for their care at UCI Medical Center.

"We tried to beat the system . . . and it backfired on us," Supervisor Phil Anthony complained. While both Anthony and Supervisor Laurence Schmit were ready Tuesday to suspend the policy, they agreed with fellow board members to put off their decision for a week.

Meanwhile, county health officials and members of a new advisory panel on illegal aliens were asked to submit reports about the policy.

Both Anthony and Schmit said they had heard reports the policy was keeping illegal aliens from seeking medical care they need because they fear the Medi-Cal application will lead to their deportation.

County officials imposed the new policy in mid-June in an effort to shift the estimated $4.4 million yearly cost of medical care for indigent illegal aliens from the county general fund to County Health officer J.R. Elpers said Tuesday he has not yet been able to determine whether the policy was reducing county costs or keeping those in need from seeking treatment.

"We are getting some reimbursement." Elpers said. Whether it is enough to justify the problem is a very valid ques-

County officials earlier did not believe illegal aliens were eligible for Medi-Cal benefits. But under a new legal interpretation, they believe aliens are entitled to benefits while federal officials check into their backgrounds to learn if they are under an order of deportation.

Dry Wall Strike Official

Orange County dry wall con-struction workers' wildcat walkout became an officially sanctioned strike Tuesday night when management rejected labor's final offer.

"To my knowledge, there was only one vote in favor of the union's proposed pay package," said John Mullin, Southern California Dry Wall Contractors Association president.

Mullin said management's failure to ratify the proposal means the strike becomes official.

Involved in the dispute is a disparity between commercial dry wall jobs, which pay $11.86 per hour, and home jobs, which pay 3.25 cents per square foot.

Commercial dry wall jobs average $474.40 per week and the increase home workers are seeking would pay $315 for dry wall work on an average house.

Workers said an average house takes three days to complete. The dispute involves dry wall

'tapers,' workers who do the finishing work on plasterboard wall panels used in home construction. They are separate from workers who actually hang or nail the dry wall. The wildcat walkout of tapers occurred after a June 24 rejection of a proposed increase in wages to 3.38 cents per square foot of dry wall work. The strike was not sanctioned until today, however, because union bargaining agents ex-tended the contract hoping to negotiate a settlement.

That extension was terminated after the management rejection

Union sources said the rejected proposal called for a wage increase to four cents per square foot. George Hartman, District Council 48 representative for the tapers, said the proposal still would have had to go before the union membership. "Even if

Hears 'Woman Scorned'

By GARY GRANVILLE

Secret grand jury transcripts show that the testimony of a woman scorned was vital to the investigation leading to the re-cent indictment of Orange County Supervisors Ralph Diedrich and Philip Anthony.

The woman whose testimony wrapped a band of circumstantial evidence around Diedrich, Anthony and their four alleged co-conspirators in a purported plot to undermine state campaign regulations is Donna Doughty. Mrs. Doughty was indicted

In testimony before the grand jury, Remington admitted having a "close relationship" with Mrs. Doughty that underwent a dramatic change when he married another woman last Oct. 1.

Thus, Remington said, "a few months ago" things became uncomfortable around the office and, by mutual agreement, Mrs. Doughty left his employ.

On June 20, Mrs. Doughty was before the grand jury as a witness into an eight-month probe into county political practices that would end in 11 days with the indictment of Diedrich, Anthony, Remington and three others.

The 42-year-old woman had been before the jury two weeks

In that appearance she responded to questions asked her about bookkeeping operations in Remington's office with a standard "Privileged."

By privileged, Mrs. Doughty meant that, as an employe of lawyer Remington's she was bound to keep her boss' dealings with his clients, including Diedrich, confidential.

But in her appearance before the jury June 20, Mrs. Doughty had been relieved of compulsion to remain silent by a Superior Court judge.

Then, for more than three hours she answered Assistant District Attorney Michael Capizzi's questions.

Mrs. Doughty's replies to Capizzi's questions clearly linked Diedrich checks to Remington with Remington checks to various political candidates, including Anthony and indicted Anaheim City Councilman William Kott.

Attorney Probe Ordered

Public Vote Urged On Water Directors

By HILARY KAYE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Irvine City Council de-cided unanimously Tuesday to have the city attorney investigate ways of forcing the Irvine Ranch Water District directors to be publicly elected.

The council agreed with Councilwoman Gabrielle Pryor's view that the IRWD board of directors should be elected by registered voters, not by large landowners.

City Attorney Jim Erickson will look into ways of forcing public election in the IRWD, including the possibility of state legislation to change the IRWD rules, litigation, and negotiations with IRWD officials. He will report back on July 26. IRWD Board President Lansing Eberling told the council he does not oppose a gradual shift from landowner to public voting.

But he insisted the changeover should be phased, rather than occur suddenly, as demanded by the council.

Council members told Eberling they believe residents should have control on the board since they pay the largest portion of the monthly water bills.

However, Eberling argued that landowners account for about three-quarters of the water district's revenues, since they pay for most of the capital improvements. They also use about three-quarters of the water, even though it is less expensive, untreated water, Eberling said.

On Nov. 8, the current five-member board will be expanded to seven members, with the two newest directors elected by voters, rather than landowners.

Orange County supervisors gave themselves and most of the county's other 9,600 employes a 5.85 percent pay raise Tuesday.

They also set a $52,000-a-year ceiling on the salaries of the six highest-paid county workers, who would have gone higher than the $52,000 mark with the pay

Supervisors also rejected a re-quest from Russell Bostrum of the Orange County Association of Deputy Sheriffs that the association be immediately allowed to represent deputies.

instead, they told Bostrum the group should petition through routine county channels for a separate bargaining unit.

The supervisors' own 5.85 per cent pay raise, from $28,246 to $29,898, prompted Supervisor Laurence Schmit to suggest that next year the pay issue be placed on the ballot.

He voted in favor of the pay raise for this year. His motion to place next year's raise on the ballot died for lack of a second, but Schmit said he would bring it

Jerry LeRoy Opson, 46, a Santa Ana resident who tended bar in a Costa Mesa beer tavern for a living, is named in a $50,000 bail arrest warrant.

But, if apprehended in another state, he cannot be extradited to California to serve the sentence in the Harbor Area case because he negotiated a guilty plea to a misdemeanor crime.

Opson and Public Defender Mac DeLiems, along with prosecuting attorney Stuart Grant, had earlier negotiated the charges down to the one misdemeanor count from the three felony counts filed against him in May by Newport Beach police.

In return for his guilty plea, Opson was released on his promise to appear in Harbor Judicial District Court rather than posling the $10,000 bond originally set on the felony of misdemeanor child molestation under a subdivision of section 288 of the California Penal Code. Authorities said they could have used a short jail sentence followed by probation to keep track of Opson's whereabouts

He faced a likely sentence of three months in Orange County Jail and three years' probation for the admitted offense.

If Opson had been convicted of the original three felony counts of child molestation and forced to undergo psychiatric evaluation, he might have been certified as a mentally disordered sex offender and confined to a state facility.

But Deputy District Attorney Grant said several weeks ago he feared that Opson couldn't be convicted if he demanded a jury trial on the original charges. "We have news, Your Honor and it is not good,"

Significantly, Remington's former office manager said she had no knowledge of a so-called Diedrich bank trust held by Remington except what she had read in the newspapers

In the end, the grand jury thought enough of the bank evidence and linking testimony to hand down its felony conspiracy

In the closing stages of the investigation, the Grand Jury heard from some of Orange County's most controversial political figures, including former county Democratic Party chairman Richard O'Neill. political consultant Arnold Forde and lobbyist Frank Michelena.

O'Neill figured into the probe because of a $100,000 loan guarantee he and Dr. Louis Cella posted in 1974 at a Santa Ana bank for Diedrich.

When Capizzi on June 28 asked O'Neill about the background of the guarantee, the self-described financier-ranch restaurateur" testified:

Dr. Cella asked me to support to go along with this loan.

Eberling estimated that residents would have board control by 1983 or 1984, when the population is large enough. Councilman David Sills charged that the reason the board is being expanded from five to seven members is that none of the directors wanted to give up their seats and that they did not believe they could get reelected by the public.

Eberling agreed that none of the directors wanted to relinquish their seats, but said that was only part of the reason. He said that since the district has gotten so big, the workload is greater and that more directors are needed.

One Irvine resident, Wesley Marx, addressed the council and called the Nov. 8 election a sham.

By GARY GRANVILLE

Secret grand jury transcripts show that the testimony of a woman scorned was vital to the investigation leading to the recent indictment of Orange County Supervisors Ralph Diedrich and Philip Anthony.

The woman whose testimony wrapped a band of circumstantial evidence around Diedrich, Anthony and their four alleged co-conspirators in a purported plot to undermine state campaign regulations is Donna Doughty.

Mrs. Doughty was indicted Fullerton attorney Michael RemWitness Links Checks in County Probe

fice manager for 11 years. In testimony before the grand jury, emington admitted having a "close relationship" with Mrs. Doughty that underwent a dramatic change when he married another woman last Oct. 1.

On June 20, Mrs. Doughty was before the grand jury as a witness into an eight-month probe into county political practices that would end in 11 days with the indictment of Diedrich, Anthony, Remington and three others.

The 42-year-old woman had been before the jury two weeks earlier.

In that appearance she responded to questions asked her about bookkeeping operations in Remington's office with a stan-dard "Privileged."

By privileged, Mrs. Doughty meant that, as an employe of lawyer Remington's she was bound to keep her boss' deadlings with his clients, including Diedrich, confidential.

But in her appearance before the jury June 20, Mrs. Doughty had been relieved of compulsion to remain silent by a Superior Court judge.

Then, for more than three hours she answered Assistant District Attorney Michael Capizzi's questions.

Mrs. Doughty's replies to Capizzi's questions clearly linked Diedrich checks to Remington with Remington checks to various political candidates, including Anthony and indicted Anaheim City Councilman William Kott.

With former police informer Gene Conrad thrown into the middle of some transactions, the basis for the felony conspiracy indictments was formed.

That's because Anthony, Kott and other candidates showed the Remington money coming into their campaigns as personal loans from themselves.

And neither Remington nor Diedrich filed major campaign donor statements showing their alleged financial role in the cam-

But Mrs. Doughty's testimony tended to indicate the ink was barely dry on Diedrich checks to her former boss before the Fullerton attorney passed similar amounts on to the candidates. Her words also coincided with bank records either seized by district attorney investigators armed with search warrants or surrendered voluntarily.

Construction of a $36,000 permanent Laguna Beach animal shelter on the city's former dump site in Laguna Canyon was recommended Tuesday by the planning commission. The city has been given until Oct. 3 to get out of leased facilities run by Dr. Rose Ekeberg.

The commission refused to recommend a temporary solution to the animal shelter problem. Consensus seemed to be that temporary solutions tend to become permanent ones

It narrows the location down to the dump site after giving lengthy consideration to positioning a shelter on the ACT-5 summer festival parking lot on Irvine

Orange County's unemployment rate dipped to its lowest point since 1972 last month when it reached 4.4 percent, according to figures released today by the

State Employment Development Department (EDD). An EDD spokesman said June's unemployment rate was "the lowest on record since the department began its labor study series in 1972." The 4.4 percent unemployment rate is down from 4.6 percent in May and from 5.8 percent in June, 1976.

"Unemployment always rises in June because of graduating high school and college seniors," said EDD labor analyst Alta Yet-

Tax Trim Slated Cut Due by Laguna Schools

A 26.1 percent increase in the assessed value of the Laguna Beach Unified School District will enable the school board to cut the district's tax rate 67 cents to $1.81 per $100 assessed value.

The school budget for fiscal 1977-78 is $6.9 million, up 7.8 percent over the last year. Final adoption of the budget is scheduled for August after public hearings

The 67-cent tax reduction will occur automatically as a result of state law requiring school districts to reduce their tax rates as the assessed value of property within the district increases.

One purpose of the measure is to level out the amount of money spent per student by rich and poor school districts.

That law has put some of the wealthy districts in a pinch as they try to cope with inflation pressures. Additional legislation pending in Sacramento would lift the amount Laguna could spend per student.

Should that amount be increased, Clyde Lovelady, district business manager, said the projected 67-cent cut may not come about. The matter hangs until the final adoption of the Orange County supervisors gave themselves and most of the county's other 9,600 employes a 5.85 percent pay raise Tuesday.

They also set a $52,000-a-year ceiling on the salaries of the six highest-paid county workers, who would have gone higher than the $52,000 mark with the pay raise.

Included in the salary resolution was a two-year contract with county general and supervisory personnel. The proposal, already approved by the employes, grants them a 5.85 percent pay hike retroactive to July 1 and a 5.5 percent increase for next vear. Supervisors also rejected a request from Russell Bostrum of the Orange County Association of Deputy Sheriffs that the association be immediately allowed to represent deputies.

Firm Hired For Niguel Park Design

The South Laguna firm of Lang and Wood was hired by Orange County supervisors Tuesday to design a $450,000 expansion project at Laguna Niguel Regional Park.

Regional Park.

The expansion calls for development of camping areas, group picnic grounds and a trail connecting the park to the nearby Crown Valley Community Park, a report to supervisors said.

County officials said since the park was opened in August 1973 it has attracted 570,630 visitors including 176,390 during 1976.

The park is located along La Par Road near Alicia Parkway in Laguna Niguel.

In addition to the general purpose tax, the school levies a community service tax rate of up to 10 cents per $100 assessed value (about $20 a year to the owner of an $80,000 home).

Last year the district fixed a tax rate of 9.5 cents and raised $181,000 through that community service tax. This year the district has the potential to raise $240,000. Lovelady said the school board will be discussing that rate when it meets July 20. The community service rate is unaffected by the tax limit law. It is restricted to providing use of school facilities for community groups and recreation.

Value Jumps

Capo School Tax Rate to Decrease

By ANNE COOPER

The 28.1 percent jump in assessed valuation in the Capistrano Unified School District will mean a 75 to 90-cent decrease in the district's general purpose tax rate to $3.33 per $100 assessed value.

Sam Chicas, assistant superintendent for general services, said the district has no choice but to lower the tax rate, since it is set according to a formula established by Sentae Bill 90.

The amount deemed necessary to run district schools is based on average daily student atten-dance, he said. Called the "total revenue limit," that amount for 1977-78 for the Capistrano district is $23.2 million.

After that figure is adjusted to reflect state aid, collection of delinquent taxes during the previous year and other factors, it is divided by the district's assessed valuation and multiplied by 100 to determine the tax rate.

'School districts don't operate like city governments," said Chicas. "We can only adjust the tax rate down from what the formula allows - never up. Chicas will be making a presentation on the 1977-78 budget and tax rate to the district's governing board Monday at 7:30 p.m. in district offices, 32792 Calle Perfecto in San Juan Capistrano. 'I hope I can make the situation clear to the trustees," Chicas said. "School financing is very complicated — you have to take it step by step."

In addition to the general purpose tax of $3.33, Chicas said the following also figure in the total tax rate for 1977-78:

-Adult education, also set by the state, six cents

-Community services, 10 cents (the maximum allowed) -Meals for needy pupils, 1/4

-State building loan repayment, nine cents -Regional Occupation Program, ½ cent

Added SJC Council Districts Sought

A group of San Juan Capistrano homeowners soon will begin circulating petitions calling for creation of seven councilmanic districts in the city. There are currently five councilmen elected at large.
"We've studied the situation and believe the city should be divided into seven districts with a councilman elected from each area," explained Bernie Matthey, Alto Capistrano resident and Concerned Citizens for Responsive Government Responsive Government more responsive.

"If a councilman is elected from a neighborhood, he will know his constituents better and be able to represent their views,"

According to City Clerk Mary Ann Hanover, the petitioners must secure signatures from 10 percent of the city's voters to have the issue placed on the

If 15 percent of the voters' signatures are obtained, it would require the city to hold a special election.

That means Matthey's group would only need 1,205 signatures to require a special election on

"We circulated an informal petition through the mail a while back and got 1,000 signatures," Matthey claimed.

He said the new petition drive would begin July 29 with representatives of the concerned citizens going door to door throughout the city.

Famed Hammersmith Farm Put on Auction

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) - Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis' childhood home where her romance with John F. Kennedy bloomed, has been put on the auction block because the former First Lady's mother needs the money.

"I don't want you to sell it," Janet Auchincloss quoted her famous daughter as saying when she broke the news that the 58acre Hammersmith Farm was for sale for

"All my children hate it, and I hate it, but it is absolutely necessary," Mrs. Auchincloss said Tuesday.

SHE EXPLAINED that her late husband. Hugh D. Auchineloss, devoted his personal fortune to try to save his Washington brokerage firm, Auchincloss, Redfern and Parker, before his death in December 1976,

"I was very proud of him for doing it," she said, "even though I knew it wouldn't work."

Hammersmith, one of the oldest working farms in Newport, is alive with memories. The children called the cottage The Castle and the name has stuck to this day. Mrs. Auchincloss now lives in The Castle.

LEADING A REPORTER on a tour of the grounds, Mrs. Auchincloss marveled at how well they are kept. She has had to make do with four gardeners on grounds once tended by 32 workers.

Mrs. Auchincloss says that her daughters by her first husband, John Bouvier - Jackie and Lee Radziwill - and her children by Auchincloss were reluctant to see the place go because they liked it "to be here for whenever they happened to feel like dropping in.

Caroline Kennedy was here Friday and Saturday and I never know when the others are coming.

Her youngest daughter, Janet, 31, explained over a hamburger at Bailey's Beach the feelings the children have.

She reminisced about her life with Mrs. ' Onassis, who is 16 years older.

"The year I was 18 she showed me how to lie," said Janet, remembering that she wasn't allowed to date then.

Jackie, she says, told her to tell Auchincloss that her mother said it was all right, while telling her mother that her father had given permission.

'I never saw him so mad in my life - oh, well, she was married to a president — I should have known better," Janet said.

MRS. AUCHINCLOSS SHOWED her visitors through the 18-bedroom main house, which largely has been dismantled. It is now home to members of the Swedish yacht team here for the trials of the America's Cup, which will be run next month.

She showed the bedroom where Mrs. Onassis spent the last night before her wedding, a third-floor yellow and white room with windows looking out to sea.

She also showed the room that Kennedy used as an office when he stayed at Hammersmith Farm during his presidency.

WITNESS ANSWERS.

Significantly, Remington's former office manager said she had no knowledge of a so-called Diedrich bank trust held by Remington except what she had read in the newspapers.

In the end, the grand jury thought enough of the bank evidence and linking testimony to hand down its felony conspiracy

indictments
In the closing stages of the in vestigation, the Grand Jury heard from some of Orange County's most, controversial political figures, including former county Democratic Party chairman Richard O'Neill, political consultant Arnold Forde and lobbyist Frank Michelena

O'Neill figured into the probe because of a $100,000 loan guarantee he and Dr Louis Cella posted in 1974 at a Santa Ana bank for Diedrich.

When Capizzi on June 28 asked O'Neill about the background of the guarantee, the self-described 'financier-ranch restaurateur" testified.

Well, Mr. Diedrich requested a loan. At that particular time he told me he had high interest rates having a little trouble refinancing some property and requested a loan to hold him over 80, 120 days at the most."

"With whom did you discuss he continuing guarante Capizzi asked. "Dr. Cella asked me to support

-to go along with this loan. "And it is with Dr. Cella that you discussed the loan?" Capizzi asked O'Neill.

As things turned out on the $100,000 Cella-O'Neill Ioan guarantee:

-The bank made demand for payment from O'Neill when Diedrich initially failed to repay the loan on time and to respond to dunning phone calls and letters.

-The 80, 120 days turned out to be 16 months before Diedrich made payment in two installments

 Diedrich was indicted on perjury charges for failing to show the loan on economic disclosure statements filed in 1976 and 1977, though it did show on two earlier statements

Political consultant Arnold Forde testified June 28, the same day O'Neill appeared before the Grand Jury.

Yes, Forde said, he and partner William Butcher had managed Anthony's primary campaign in June, 1976.

"In the general election, Anthony was more interested in running the campaign himself," Fordesaid.

"So what we agreed to do in the Anthony campaign is that he (Anthony) would be in charge of

"He would be in charge of it, and we would be in charge of de-veloping a direct mail package," Forde testified.

The political consultant putmore distance between his firm and the general election campaign fundraising for Anthony when he said: "That wasn't our responsibility any more We almost came to a total parting of the ways in the campaign because, in one sense, Anthony wanted to do that he was going to be totally in charge of the campaign '

Had Forde told Anthony that it was okay to accept campaign loans as personal loans and then to show the money coming into the campaign as loans from the candidate?

"There was certainly no talk about a third party giving money surreptitiously or anything like that, 4 Forde testified

Michelena spent most of his time before the Grand Jury explaining why he had provided a member of the county Assessment.Appeals Board with the use of a leased Cadillac and one-time Republican state senate canaidate with $3,800 Michelena said the auto and gasoline credit card provided to Newport Beach attorney Frank Waters was, in effect, a retainer for Waters' services

And he denied that he or any of his clients had business before the board

As for the money paid then candidate Norton, Michelena said it was for investigative services.

The checks were made payable to Norton's former crony Gary Newmyer because Michelena believed the two were collaborating in their investigative adven-

Those adventures ended in April with Norton being indicted on perjury charges and Newmyer acting as the recorderequipped turncoat that gathered the evidence against Norton.

Drifting in and out of the secret transcripts leading to the indictments is testimony centering around the Las Vegas casino

Frank Watts, controller of the Riviera Hotel, testified that hotel records indicate Diedrich lost $30,000 in 12 hours last Oct. 1 and 2 while testing his skill at two crap tables.

And, Watts added, as what the casino calls "a good player," Diedrich was given complimentary rooms, meals and beverages during his Las Vegas v

In conversation liberally sprinkled with four-letter words, Conrad bragged of the inroads he had made into Orange County political circles.

California's Jobless Lowest in 3 Years

SACRAMENTO (AP) -California's unemployment rate fell to 6.8 percent in June, the lowest in three years and the first time in 17 years that the state has been below the national rate, officials said today.

The jobless rate had been 7.8 percent in May, For the third straight month, total employment set a record, nearly $.3 million, up 136,000 since May.

Bomb OK Expected In Senate

Minority Leader Howard Baker predicted today the Senate will approve funds for controversial neutron weapons which President Carter says are needed for the defense of Western Europe.

Neutron warheads are designed to kill enemy soldiers with radiation while inflicting minimal explosive destruction in the blast area.

Opponents of the weapons led by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield (R-Ore.), planned to carry their fight to the floor of the Senate, where a vote was scheduled late today on deleting funds for production of the weapons from a public works appropriation bill.

Before the vote, Senate leaders met to decide how to limit debate on the weapons, which critics say would mark a dangerous leap in the arms race.

Hatfield has said the funds should not be approved, at least until Carter has provided a legally required assessment of the neutron weapons' impact on arms proliferation.

One Senate source said today Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), attempted to work out an agreement with Carter under which a Senate decision on the neutron weapons would be put off pending the arms control study.

'I have not yet decided whether to approve a neutron bomb, but I think it should be one of our options," the President

May said the city has an average daily population of about 25 impounded dogs. He said were the city to contract with Orange County Animal Control for service, the yearly cost would be $36,000 a year for shelter alone.

In addition, the city animal control officers and truck would have to drive to Orange to the county shelter, thus taking time away from city patrolling. Two trips would be needed weekends and three weekend days. A round trip and kennel time is about two hours. Lagunans would then have to go to Orange to pick up their impounded animals as well.

Gay estimated a 500 square foot office and cat holding facility would cost about $36,000. Construction of 20 dog runs would be another $16,000. Utility costs and site improvements were not figured in those estimates and depend on conditions at the site.

Hears 'Woman Scorned'

By GARY GRANVILLE

Secret grand jury transcripts show that the testimony of a woman scorned was vital to the investigation leading to the recent indictment of Orange County Supervisors Ralph Diedrich and Philip Anthony.

The woman whose testimony wrapped a band of circumstantial evidence around Diedrich, Anthony and their four alleged co-conspirators in a purported plot to undermine state campaign regulations is Donna Doughty.

Mrs. Doughty was indicted Fullerton attorney Michael RemWitness Links Checks in County Probe

In testimony before the grand jury, Remington admitted hav-"close relationship" with Mrs. Doughty that underwent a dramatic change when he married another woman last Oct. 1.

Thus, Remington said, "a few months ago" things became uncomfortable around the office and, by mutual agreement, Mrs. Doughty left his employ.

On June 20, Mrs. Doughty was before the grand jury as a witness into an eight-month probe into county political practices that would end in 11 days with the indictment of Diedrich, Anthony, Remington and three others.

The 42-year-old woman had been before the jury two weeks earlier.

By privileged, Mrs. Doughty meant that, as an employe of lawyer Remington's she was bound to keep her boss' dealings with his clients, including Diedrich, confidential.

But in her appearance before the jury June 20, Mrs. Doughty had been relieved of compulsion to remain silent by a Superior Court judge.

Then, for more than three hours she answered Assistant District Attorney Michael Capizzi's questions.

By JOANNE REYNOLDS

Trustees of the Newport-Mesa Unified School District agreed Tuesday night to shave two cents off the district's tax rate in an effort to counteract the nearly 19 percent increase in assessed values in the district.

"The increases in assessed valuation are going to cause a great deal of hardship among district taxpayers," said Trustee Marian Bergeson, who asked for the rate cut. "This is a good way to provide some relief.

The two cents will come off a portion of the tax rate known as the civic center tax, a tax of up to 10 cents that can be levied over and above the general fund tax without permission of voters.

The money raised by the fax pays for community-oriented projects such as recreational facilities that are used in city programs after school hours.

The district currently levies an eight-cent civic center tax. Superintendent John Nicoll told trustees he believes the total district tax rate — $4.23 in Costa Mesa and $3.93 in Newport Beach last year — can be dropped by 66 cents "under the existing rules of school finance." But, he predicted, the 66-cent drop may be whittled down by pending finance legislation in Sacramento.

Those tax rates consist of three types of levies — a $3.60 general fund levy, the eight-cent civic center tax and the remainder

County's Jobless Lowered

Orange County's unemploy-ment rate dipped to its lowest point since 1972 last month when it reached 4.4 percent, according to figures released today by the State Employment Development Department (EDD).

An EDD spokesman said June's unemployment rate was the lowest on record since the department began its labor study series in 1972.

The 4.4 percent unemployment rate is down from 4.6 percent in May and from 5.8 percent in Unemployment always rises in June because of graduating high school and college seniors, said EDD labor analyst Alta Yet-'However,' Mrs. Yetter said,

"the increase this year was far less than anticipated and that is why the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate is so low.' She noted that county amuse-

County's construction boom continued when 1,300 workers were added to construction payrolls. Mrs. Yetter pointed out that the county's civilian work force reached 875,000 persons in June, a record high. She also noted that private firms within the county employed 658,800 workers in June.

Government employment during the month was buoyed by 600 jobs, including lifeguards hired to safeguard bathers at county beaches

Mrs. Yetter said some firms have reported small cutbacks in employment since the reporting day in mid June.

Newport to Study Pier Parking Plan

A group of Newport Beach businessmen want the city to buy at least two pieces of property near the Newport Pier and put a two-story parking structure on them.

The committee says it wants to form a parking district which would issue bonds to raise money to buy and operate parking lots. Paul Carlson, committee spokesman and general manager of Lido Village, said the committee wants the city to buy the land now and the district, when formed, would buy it back.

If the parking district fails to materialize, he said, the city could then either sell the property or operate the parking facilities itself.

The committee wants the city to buy two lots on 22nd Street owned by Dr. Carl Ackerman and the building on 23rd Street now occupied by the Newport Harbor Art Museum.

Neutron warheads are designed to kill enemy soldiers with radiation while inflicting minimal explosive destruction in the blast area.

Significantly, Remington's former office manager said she had no knowledge of a so-called Diedrich bank trust held by Remington except what she had read in the newspapers.

In the end, the grand jury thought enough of the bank evidence and linking testimony to hand down its felony conspiracy indictments.

In the closing stages of the investigation, the Grand Jury heard from some of Orange County's most controversial political figures, including former county Democratic Party chairman Richard O'Neill, political consultant Arnold Forde and lobbyist Frank Michelena.

O'Neill figured into the probe because of a $100,000 loan guarantee he and Dr. Louis Cella posted in 1974 at a Santa Ana bank for Diedrich.

When Capizzi on June 28 asked O'Neill about the background of the guarantee, the self-described 'financier-ranch-restaurateur"testified:

"Well, Mr. Diedrich requested a loan. At that particular time he told me he had high interest rates having a little trouble refinancing some property and re-quested a loan to hold him over

Golf Cart Stolen

A golf cart valued by its 82year-old woman owner at $375 has been stolen from its Laguna Hills Leisure World parking spot. Orange County sheriff's officers said the theft of the cart was reported by Mildred Heber Bates of 2400 Via Mariposa West. They believe it was driven off by agreement with Carter under which a Senate decision on the neutron weapons would be put off pending the arms control study.

At a news conference Tuesday, Carter urged the Senate to approve funding for further de-velopment of the weapons.

Neutron weapons, implanted in artillery shells and Lance missiles, are designed to kill with concentrated radiation rather than explosives or heat used in more conventional nuclear armament.

In a letter to neutron supporter Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.), Carter said the weapons "are in this nation's security interest." Carter told Stennis, "We are not talking about some new kind of weapon, but of modernization of nuclear weapons. The President said the neutron warheads might be needed "for discreet application of force' against NATO enemies. Neutron weapons, he said, would keep potential adversaries in Europe uncertain whether nuclear weapons might be used against their "forward echelons.

Carter said two detailed studies on the weapons are due Aug. 15 from the Pentagon and the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Once he has received those reports, Carter said, "I intend to make a final production de-

No action will be taken to reduce the general fund tax rate until Aug. 9 when the assessment figures have been finalized. Preliminary figures showed the district's assessed value is up about 19 percent, but public utility assessments aren't complete Nicoll told trustees the 66-cent drop in the tax rate would equal nearly 18 percent, thus offsetting most of the increase in assessed values. Trustees decided to take action

Tuesday on the civic center tax rate as "an act of faith," demonstrating their desire to keep tax bills from rising by meeting increases in assessed value with decreases in the tax rate.

The district's $49.4 million budget includes $900,000 in expenditures for civic center projects. By dropping the tax rate two cents, trustees said they will take the $216,000 that tax would have raised from the district's capital improvement fund to make up the difference.

The move received the unanimous support of the seven trustees who termed it "appropriate and a "step in the right direction."

By GARY GRANVILLE

Secret grand jury transcripts show that the testimony of a woman scorned was vital to the investigation leading to the recent indictment of Orange County Supervisors Ralph Diedrich and Philip Anthony.

The woman whose testimony wrapped a band of circumstantial evidence around Diedrich.

Mrs. Doughty was indicted Fullerton attorney Michael RemWitness Links Checks in County Probe

ington's chief secretary and office manager for 11 years.

In testimony before the grand jury, emington admitted having a "close relationship" with Mrs. Doughty that underwent a dramatic change when he married another woman last Oct. 1.

Thus, Remington said, "a few months ago" things became uncomfortable around the office and, by mutual agreement, Mrs. Doughty left his employ.

On June 20, Mrs. Doughty was before the grand jury as a witness into an eight-month probe into county political practices that would end in 11 days with the indictment of Diedrich, Anthony, Remington and three others.

The 42-year-old woman had been before the jury two weeks

In that appearance she responded to questions asked her about bookkeeping operations in Remington's office with a standard "Privileged.

By privileged, Mrs. Doughty meant that, as an employe of lawyer Remington's she was bound to keep her boss' deadlings with his clients, including Diedrich, confidential.

But in her appearance before the jury June 20, Mrs. Doughty had been relieved of compulsion to remain silent by a Superior Court judge.

Then, for more than three hours she answered Assistant District Attorney Michael Capizzi's questions.

Mrs. Doughty's replies to Capizzi's questions clearly linked Diedrich checks to Remington with Remington checks to various political candidates, including Anthony and indicted Anaheim City Councilman William Kott.

With former police informer Gene Conrad thrown into the middle of some transactions, the basis for the felony conspiracy indictments was formed.

That's because Anthony, Kott and other candidates showed the Remington money coming into their campaigns as personal loans from themselves.

And neither Remington nor Diedrich filed major campaign donor statements showing their alleged financial role in the campaign.

But Mrs. Doughty's testimony tended to indicate the ink was barely dry on Diedrich checks to her former boss before the Fullerton attorney passed similar amounts on to the candidates.

Her words also coincided with bank records either seized by district attorney investigators armed with search warrants or surrendered voluntarily.

All but the latest, caught in one of several traps ringing the airport, were found in commercial planes arriving in San Diego from Washington, D.C. An agriculture official said the trapped beetle was the first found this year in San Diego outside an aircraft.

The live beetle found Tuesday in front of the Fresno air terminal was sent to state agricultural offices in Sacramento. The bug overcame tremendous odds in evading precautions to keep beetles out of Fresno, airport officials said.

The discovery prompted six airport managers to set five new beetle traps at baggage areas and other points through which the bugs would be likely to enter. The additional traps bring the total number at the airport to eight and the total in Fresno County to almost 100.

Rate Falls to 6.9 Percent

SACRAMENTO (AP) -California's unemployment rate fell to 6.9 percent in June, the lowest in three years and the first time in 17 years that the state has been below the national rate, officials said today.

The jobless rate had been 7.8 percent in May. For the third straight month, total employment set a record, nearly 9.3 million, up 136,000 since May.

The national unemployment rate, which has been running as much as two percentage points below California's, was 7.1 percent in June, up from 6.9 percent in May.

State Employment Development Director Martin Glick said employment records were set in numerous industries, including construction, which has gained 16 percent in jobs over a year ago.

He said the figures were "further indication that California is outpacing the rest of the nation in speed of turnaround from the recent recession.

But he cautioned that they reflected mid-June totals, before President Carter announced that he opposed development of the B1 bomber, a move already causing layoffs in Southern California.

Capo School Tax Rate to Decrease

By ANNE COOPER

The 28.1 percent jump in assessed valuation in the Capistrano Unified School District will mean a 75 to 90-cent decrease in the district's general purpose tax rate to $3.33 per $100 assessed value.

Sam Chicas, assistant superintendent for general services, said the district has no choice but to lower the tax rate, since it is set according to a formula established by Sentae Bill 90. The amount deemed necessary to run district schools is based on average daily student atten-dance, he said. Called the "total revenue limit," that amount for 1977-78 for the Capistrano district $23.2 million.

After that figure is adjusted to reflect state aid, collection of delinquent taxes during the pre-vious year and other factors, it is divided by the district's asse valuation and multiplied by 100 to determine the tax rate.

"School districts don't operate like city governments," said Chicas. "We can only adjust the tax rate down from what the formula allows—never up."

Chicas will be making a presentation on the 1977-78 budget and tax rate to the district's governing board Monday at 7:30 p.m. in district offices, 32792 Calle Perfecto in San Juan Capistrano.

Capistrano.
"I hope I can make the situa-tion clear to the trustees," Chicas said. "School financing is very complicated - you have to take it step by step." In addition to the general purpose tax of $3.33, Chicas said the following also figure in the total tax rate for 1977-78:

-Adult education, also set by the state, six cents

-Community services, 10 cents (the maximum allowed) -Meals for needy pupils, 1/4

-State building loan repayment, nine cents -Regional Occupation Program, & cent

-Bonded interest and redemption rate, 45 cents

Adding the general purpose, adult education and bond interest and redemption taxes and permissive overrides would bring the total Capistrano tax rate to $4.04, down from $4.94 in (See TAX RATE, Page A2)

Significantly, Remington's former office manager said she had no knowledge of a so-called Diedrich bank trust held by Remington except what she had read in the newspapers

In the end, the grand jury thought enough of the bank evidence and linking testimony to hand down its felony conspiracy indictments

In the closing stages of the investigation, the Grand Jury heard from some of Orange County's most controversial political figures, including former county Democratic Party chairman Richard O'Neill, political consultant Arnold Forde and lobbyist Frank Michelena.

O'Neill figured into the probe because of a $100,000 loan guarantee he and Dr. Louis Cella posted in 1974 at a Santa Ana bank for Diedrich.

When Capizzi on June 28 asked O'Neill about the background of the guarantee, the self-described 'financier-ranchrestaurateur" testified:

"Well, Mr. Diedrich requested a loan. At that particular time he told me he had high interest rates having a little trouble refinancing some property and requested a loan to hold him over 80, 120 days at the most.'

'With whom did you discuss the continuing guarantee?" Capizzi asked.

"Dr. Cella asked me to support to go along with this loan.

"And it is with Dr. Cella that you discussed the loan? Capizzi asked O'Neill.

Yes," the financier-rancherrestauranteur answered.

As things turned out on the $100,000 Cella-O'Neill loan guarantee:

-The bank made demand for payment from O'Neill when Diedrich initially failed to repay the loan on time and to respond to dunning phone calls and letters.

The 80, 120 days turned out to be 16 months before Diedrich made payment in two install-

-Diedrich was indicted on perury charges for failing to show the loan on economic disclosure statements filed in 1976 and 1977, though it did show on two earlier statements.

Political consultant Arnold Forde testified June 28, the same day O'Neill appeared before the Grand Jury

Yes, Forde said, he and partner William Butcher had managed Anthony's primary campaign in June, 1976.

'In the general election, Anthony was more interested in running the campaign himself," Fordesaid.

'So what we agreed to do in the Anthony campaign is that he (Anthony) would be in charge of

"He would be in charge of it and we would be in charge of developing a direct mail package," Forde testified.

The political consultant put more distance between his firm and the general election campaign fundraising for Anthony when he said:

"That wasn't our responsibility any more. We almost came to a total parting of the ways in the campaign because, in one sense, Anthony wanted to do that . . . he was going to be totally in charge of the campaign.

Had Forde told Anthony that it was okay to accept campaign loans as personal loans and then to show the money coming into the campaign as loans from the candidate?

"There was certainly no talk about a third party giving money surreptitiously or anything like that," Forde testified.

Michelena spent most of his time before the Grand Jury explaining why he had provided a member of the county Assessment Appeals Board with the use of a leased Cadillac and one-time Republican state senate cangidate with $3,800.

Michelena said the auto and asoline credit card provided to Newport Beach attorney Frank Waters was, in effect, a retainer for Waters' services.

And he denied that he or any of his clients had business before the board.

As for the money paid then candidate Norton, Michelena said it was for investigative services.

The checks were made payable to Norton's former crony Gary Newmyer because Michelena believed the two were collaborating in their investigative adventures.

Those adventures ended in April with Norton being indicted on perjury charges and Newmyer acting as the recorderequipped turncoat that gathered the evidence against Norton.

Drifting in and out of the secret transcripts leading to the indictments is testimony centering around the Las Vegas casino trade.

Frank Watts, controller of the Riviera Hotel, testified that hotel records indicate Diedrich lost $30,000 in 12 hours last Oct. 1 and 2 while testing his skill at two

And, Watts added, as what the casino calls "a good player," Diedrich was given complimentary rooms, meals and beverages during his Las Vegas stays.

It is Diedrich's alleged failure to list the value of the purported Las Vegas gratuities on his economic disclosure statements that resulted in a second perjury count included in the indict-

The transcripts' most colorful reading comes from a written record of a tape recorded conversation between Conrad and Las Vegas showman Joe Agosta.

In conversation liberally sprinkled with four-letter words, Conrad bragged of the inroads he had made into Orange County political circles.

What does an aging Frisbee champion who came within a flick of the wrist of becoming world champion do after retirement?

Chris Johnson, last year's first runner-up in the world championships held in Atlanta, Ga., is coaching other Frisbee flickers for Costa Mesa's recreation department.

The 16-year-old Corona del Mar High School senior says he can't compete in the Whammo Company competition anymore because he's too old.

'They don't want kids who have placed before in their contests, either," the saucer expert shrugged.

So he applied for a job as assistant recreation leader in Costa Mesa last month.

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) - Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis' childhood home where her romance with John F. Kennedy bloomed, has been put on the auction block because the former First Lady's mother needs the money.

"All my children hate it, and I hate it, but it is absolutely necessary," Mrs. Auchincloss said Tuesday.

SHE EXPLAINED that her late husband, Hugh D. Auchincloss, devoted his personal fortune to try to save his Washington brokerage firm, Auchincloss, Redfern and Parker, before his death in December 1976.

"I was very proud of him for doing it," she said, "eventhough I knew it wouldn't work."

Hammersmith, one of the oldest working farms in Newport, is alive with memories.

Neutron Bomb OK Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker predicted today the Senate will approve funds for controversial neutron weapons which President Carter says are needed for the defense of Western Europe. Neutron warheads are designed to kill enemy soldiers with radiation while inflicting minimal explosive destruction in the blast area.

Opponents of the weapons led by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield (R-Ore.), planned to carry their fight to the floor of the Senate. where a vote was scheduled late today on deleting funds for production of the weapons from a public works appropriation bill.

Baker said he had not taken a formal head count of how the takes three days to complete. The dispute involves dry wall 'tapers,' workers who do the finishing work on plasterboard wall panels used in home construction. They are separate from workers who actually hang or nail the dry wall.

The wildcat walkout of tapers occurred after a June 24 rejection of a proposed increase in wages to 3.38 cents per square foot of dry wall work.

The strike was not sanctioned until today, however, because union bargaining agents ex-tended the contract hoping to negotiate a settlement.

That extension was terminated after the management rejection Tuesday. Union sources said the rejected proposal called for a wage in-crease to four cents per square

George Hartman, District Council 48 representative for the tapers, said the proposal still would have had to go before the union membership. "Even if management had accepted the agreement, our membership would still have to vote on the offer," he explained.

Several union members con-tacted said they did not believe the membership would agree to. the four cents per square foot figure.

One Senate source said today Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), attempted to work out an agreement with Carter under which a Senate decision on the neutron weapons would be put off pending the arms control study. At a news conference Tuesday, Carter urged the Senate to approve funding for further development of the weapons.

Neutron weapons, implanted in artillery shells and Lance missiles, are designed to kill with concentrated radiation rather than explosives or heat used in more conventional nuclear armament.

In a letter to neutron supporter Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.), Carter said the weapons "are in this nation's security interest." Carter told Stennis, "We are not talking about some new kind of weapon, but of modernization of nuclear weapons. The President said the neutron warheads might be needed "for discreet application of force" against NATO enemies. Neutron weapons, he said, would keep potential adversaries in Europe uncertain whether nuclear weapons might be used against their "forward echelons. Carter said two detailed studies on the weapons are due Aug. 15 from the Pentagon and the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Once he has received those reports, Carter said, "I intend to make a final production decision." Golf Cart Stolen

Spending Tally: Food Costs Fall

True or false: As the costs of food have skyrocketed, the share of the family's budget going for this item has soared too, and a greater proportion of after-tax dollars is spent for food today than in the past. The same trend applies to health care, which is absorbing a large share of family income.

False. Astounding as it may seem, the latest family spending figures, taken from Census Bureau surveys and published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, underline the

— FROM 1950 to 1960-61, THE relative importance of food in the American family's budget declined from 29.7 to 24.4 percent, and kept dropping until it had reached 20.1 percent at latest reporting date, 1972-73. Even if the explosion in food prices in 1974-75 raised the percentage a bit, it could not have lifted it back to the proportion food took in 1950.

In 1960-61, the share of living expenses going to personal care and health costs was 9.6 percent. By 1972-73, that was down to 8.4 percent. (Some explanation follows.)

— Meanwhile, the proportion of a typical family's budget going for clothing has dwindled. from 11.5 percent in the early 1950s to 10.9 percent in the early 1960s to 7.8 percent in 1972-73.

Simultaneously, of course, other essentials and luxuries have been taking larger shares. Homes and utilities have been eating more and more into incomes. The proportion going for shelter and utilities has jumped from 15.6 percent in 1950 to 17.0 percent 10 years later to 21.3 percent in 1972-73.

IN MORE THAN ANY OTHER single category, spending for transportation — particularly for buying, maintaining, financing and fueling our cars — has rocketed. The climb has been from 15 percent of family spending in the 1960s to 21 percent in the 1970s.

The average family spent $5,054 on consumer goods and services in the early 1960s; the same family spent $8,282 at the opening of the 1970s.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics says it shows a decrease in dollars going to health care, because medical costs reported by the survey refer only to out-of-pocket family expenses. The do not include health insurance premiums paid by employers or the U.S. government.

FAMILY SPENDING FOR RECREATION and education has remained virtually unchanged for decades, with a shift from 9.3 percent of living expenses in 1960-61 to 9.4 per-

The following chart sums up major changes in basic consumer spending patterns between the 1960s and 1970s. Note that less is being spent for essentials and more for luxuries - the key sign of a continuingly affluent society.

'It Works Good'

Inventor Makes 'People-catcher'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - David Gutman finally perfected his pedestrian-catching bumper. He doesn't own a car, so Gutman bolted the bumper to a kitchen table and ran headlong into the object.

"It works. It works good. It pushes in, then pushes right back out," Gutman said.

GUTMAN, 66, IS ONE OF thousands of backyard inventors, people with ideas for doing something and the mechanical ability to carry them out. Many of these latterday Thomas Edisons troop to the U.S. Patent Office to register their creations as officially their own. Gutman is a Russian who moved here 25 years ago from

New York, where he worked in a machine shop. His inventions include a fire escape that lowers a person to the ground, a nail that prevents battered thumbs and two car bumpers designed to protect pedestrians. "I don't drive,"

WHAT'S NEW

Gutman said, explaining why he spends so much time on bumpers to protect pedestrians. "I used to, but I'd get lost or I'd lose the car or something. So now I walk."

Gutman's inventions, like many designed in backyard workshops, are unusual in appearance. Take the car

THE FIRST ONE, PATENTED IN 1960, was a complicated system of springs and rods that ran out and embraced the pedestrian struck by a car. Although Gutman approached several companies, no one bought the idea.

The latest bumper is simpler, consisting of two tempered steel rods that curve down and out from the bumper. The rods are connected by a crosspiece that theoretically acts as a "cow-catcher," scooping the pedestrian up and onto the hood.

His fire escape, which can also be used as a window washer, drops down one side at a time, with a cam arrangement preventing it from coming down out of control. Gutman tested the crude-looking prototype by descending on it from the roof of his house.

THE ONLY INVENTION TO MAKE him any money is the nail holder. It is designed primarily for small nails and tacks that can't be held and hammered without damage to the fingers, and Gutman put those into production himself. He said he made about $1,000 - just enough to pay the cost of getting the patent.

An official of the U.S. Patent office said that about a quarter of the patents issued go to people like Gutman. "The independent inventor is still a force to be reckoned with," said Isaac Fleischmann, director of Information of Services for the U.S. Office of Patents and Trademarks. "There are some who do make money," he said. "They wouldn't do it if there weren't the promise of some remuneration. There is still a need for inventions."

FLEISCHMANN SAID THE PATENT office employes 1,000 engineers to investigate 102,000 applications each year. It takes about 18 months to get a patent, although they can be granted in as few as nine months for environmental and energy-saving products.

"All an invention has to do to be patented is to meet our three criteria: It must be new. It must be an invention, that is, the inventor must know what he is doing. And the invention must have some practical use," Fleischmann axid.

A simple patent like Gutman's would cost around $1,000. More complicated patents cost more to get because of lawyer's fees. The Patent office charges $230 per patent, Fleischmann said.

When Howard Cannon (D-Nev.) sees the movie "A Bridge Too Far," he reacts differently than most viewers. The movie tells the story of Operation Market-Garden during World War II, the airborne Allied assault on Nazioccupied Holland.

The assault took place Sept. 17, 1944, and involved more than 5,000 fighters, bombers and transports, and more than 2,500 gliders. One of the pilots was Maj. Howard Cannon.

Cannon's plane was shot down shortly after the paratroopers on board bailed out. Cannon and Lt. Col. Frank Krebs bailed out behind enemy lines. Cannon and Krebs, who is on the senator's staff, evaded capture for 42 days and finally reached Allied lines.
