CALM TEEN TESTIFIES ON ATTACK, SHOOTING

Girl, 16, Points to Accused

By GARY GRANVILLE

An attractive Dana Hills High School coed sat calmly in an Orange County Superior Court witness box Tuesday and identified the man who last December shot her five times and then beat her with a hammer.

"Do you see the man who assaulted you in this courtroom?" prosecutor Paul Meyer asked.

"Him," Juli Michelle Gonzalez said as she quickly nodded toward attempted murder defendant Charles Huber Guenther, 33, of Irvine.

Miss Gonzalez went on to describe her ordeal the afternoon of Dec. 8 after she was picked up while hitchhiking home from school.

"Did anything unusual happen when you were driving along?" Meyer asked the girl.

"He, ah... he shot me," Miss Gonzalez replied.

"Did you see a gun in his hand?"

"No," the girl answered. "I was turned in the opposite direction. I just heard a strange noise in my head. It was all black but I could see lights and things. But it was all black."

"What happened after the shooting?" Meyer then asked.

"He took out a hammer and started hitting me on the head with it," Miss Gonzalez said.

"How many times did he hit you?" Meyer wanted to know.

"I don't know. It just kept going on and on," the now 16-year-old high school coed replied.

She went on to describe her escape from Guenther's flashy sports car when its driver pulled into a construction road in the Dana Point area.

Miss Gonzalez' testimony came on the opening day of Guenther's trial on multiple charges related to the near deadly assault on her as well as a non-shooting attack on another high school coed nine months earlier.

Guenther, a juvenile hall counselor from 1969 until his arrest last December, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason (See COED, Page A2)

Texas Nuke Plant Safety Questioned

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) — Untested concrete has been used in construction of portions of the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant in north-central Texas, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

For at least three years, concrete inspectors at the plant periodically failed to properly perform certain quality control tests related to the composition of the concrete and its strength, the newspaper said.

In some cases, the results of the tests were forged, the newspaper reported.

Nurse Testifies 'Didn't See Waddill Strangle Baby'

By KATHY CLANCY

As television cameras made an unprecedented appearance Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court, a key defense witness insisted she didn't see Dr. William Waddill strangle an alleged infant abortion survivor.

The testimony of nurse Elizabeth Kennedy came as Judge Byron McMillan broke with tradition at the start of Tuesday's afternoon session in Waddill's murder retrial and allowed two TV crews to film 25 minutes of court testimony.

The filming was allowed with the stipulation that neither the "60 Minutes" film crew or the KABC cameramen would use the trial segment until the end of the murder retrial.

McMillan first sought permission to allow the filming from attorneys in the case, witness Kennedy and the five-man, seven-woman jury.

The judge said he also may permit television filming of final arguments in the trial.

One day during the jury selection process in the Waddill retrial, McMillan allowed a radio broadcaster to tape record the session.

But he reimposed a no-tape, no-film ban after attorneys objected.

Nurse Kennedy, of Huntington Beach, was on the witness stand for the second straight day Tuesday.

She had refused to testify in the first murder trial but took the stand Monday when Judge McMillan granted her immunity from any possible prosecution.

Waddill is accused of strangling

ing a two-pound, 15-ounce infant known as Baby Girl Weaver after she allegedly survived a saline abortion two years ago.

Defense Attorney Charles Weedman has insisted, however, the infant was already dead or irreversibly on the verge of death when Waddill examined her in the Westminster Community Hospital nursery.

Mrs. Kennedy, a friend of the mother's family, testified she was in and out of the nursery after the baby's delivery.

And her statements from the witness stand conflicted on several key points with those of prosecution witness Dr. Ronald Cornelsen.

"At any time while you were there did you see Dr. Waddill strangle the baby?" Weedman asked.

"No, I did not," Mrs. Kennedy replied.

Cornelsen had testified he saw Waddill's head at the infant's throat four times as the physician allegedly complained that the baby would not stop breathing.

He also testified that Waddill asked Mrs. Kennedy to get potassium chloride to inject in the baby's heart to stop its breathing, but Mrs. Kennedy said Tuesday no such request was made.

And while Cornelsen said Waddill later asked Mrs. Kennedy (See WADDILL, Page A2)

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Edgar Buchanan, who abandoned a medical career to take up acting, died early today while recovering from brain surgery, a spokesman for Eisenhower Memorial Hospital said.

Buchanan, 76, never recovered from the operation Jan. 29 to remove a tube placed in his brain four years earlier to help overcome poor circulation of spinal fluids, said a spokesman.

The exact cause of death was not immediately announced.

In a film career that spanned three decades, Buchanan appeared as a character actor in more than 80 movies and 150 television dramas before landing a steady role as Uncle Joe in CBS-TV's "Petticoat Junction" series in the 1960s.

He took pre-med and drama courses at the University of Oregon, then, at the urging of his father, went to North Pacific Dental College in Portland, where he married a classmate. But he kept busy with summer stock companies and local playhouses.

For 10 years, Buchanan practiced dentistry in Eugene and was an assistant drama professor at the University of Oregon. Then he moved his office to Altadena, Calif., and became involved in the Pasadena Playhouse, which was frequented by scouts from the Hollywood movie studios.

At age 38, Buchanan landed his first part, turned his dental office over to his wife and began a second career.

Medicine Probed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Investigators will examine medicine given to some of the 25 residents killed Monday in a boarding house fire to see if it could have hindered their attempts to escape, authorities said. "We want to find out how much the dosages were," state Rep. Steve Vossmeier, D-St. Louis, said Tuesday. "We're just trying to piece things together."

Boy, 14, Arrested In Rape

A 14-year-old Huntington Beach boy was arrested by police Tuesday and charged with the rape of a 48-year-old woman, seven indecent exposures and a string of laundry room burglaries over the past six months.

Police today said an investigation is continuing that could lead to the arrest of other juveniles in connection with the burglaries, but not the alleged sex crimes.

Investigators said the youth was arrested Tuesday after his fingerprints matched those left at the scene of a laundry coin box burglary at an apartment complex in the northwest section of town.

Sgt. Luis Ochoa said investigators noted a similarity between the youth and a police composite drawing released following the Jan. 12 rape of a Huntington Beach resident.

Under questioning by police, the high school student reportedly confessed to the rape.

In that incident, the victim was accosted as she was getting out of her car near her home. The attacker reportedly choked her and forced her into the backyard where the rape occurred.

Police also are linking the youth to seven cases of indecent exposure that have been reported by residents in the northwest (See RAPE, Page A2)

Catastrophe Ends?
Governor, Authorities Disagree

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Dick Thornburgh declared an end today to the threat of "immediate catastrophe" in the nation's most serious nuclear accident. But authorities still waited for Three Mile Island's disabled reactor core to reach a cold shutdown.

Only then, they said, would they declare all danger past.

"We can have a sigh of relief," Thornburgh said on NBC's "Today" show.

"The threat of any immediate catastrophe is over," he said. "Now we must face up to the long-term consequences of this event — we have serious public health problems, environmental problems and economic problems to grapple with."

The governor continued his advisory that pregnant women and young children stay at least five miles from Three Mile Island, and federal officials say there remains the slight risk of more trouble.

In the meantime, there were reports today that last Wednesday's accident may have been the result of a human error and that the cleanup may take several years and cost up to $40 million.

The Chicago Tribune said the break-down has been traced to a backup cooling system valve inadvertently left closed several days before the accident. The Allentown (Pa.) Call-Chronicle carried a similar report Sunday.

The New York Times said officials of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission estimate it might be as long as four years before the crippled plant was decontaminated, overhauled and placed back on line.

The Washington Post said nuclear experts likened the cleanup operation to scrubbing a highly radioactive ring out of a giant bathtub and said it would cost at least $40 million.

"First, you drain out the dirty water, and then you scrub it down," the newspaper quoted Robert Bernero of the NEC as saying.

But the technicians first have to cool down the reactor.

"There is still a potential that some loss of cooling mechanism might still cause the core to become uncovered," said Harold Denton, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's chief of operations in Harrisburg.

"We are developing and looking at plans for the most effective way to bring the reactor to a cold shutdown without an increased leakage from the plant," he added at a Tuesday briefing.

A gas bubble that had threatened to displace the reactor's cooling water, exposing the core and raising the possibility of a catastrophic melt-down, was eliminated by engineers. This advanced their efforts to reach a cold shutdown — bringing the reactor to a point where it could no longer pose any risk of escaping control.

Meanwhile, thousands of people trickled back to their homes, and schools outside the five-mile radius reopened. Civil Defense officials estimated that as many as one-fourth of the region's 950,000 residents may have fled.

U-2s to Monitor Soviet Missiles?

NEW YORK (AP) — The Carter administration will try to compensate for the loss of bases in Iran by using a modified version of the high-flying U-2 spy airplane to monitor missile tests in the Soviet Union. The New York Times reported today.

The Times quoted administration officials as saying the U-2 plan was a stopgap measure until new satellites can be developed to verify Soviet compliance with any new treaty limiting offensive nuclear weapons.

Until CIA agents were forced to leave listening posts in Iran last month when the government of that country changed hands, they were able to monitor radio signals broadcast by missiles launched from the Soviet Union's main rocket base at Tyuratam, some 600 miles north of the Iranian border.

The U-2 plan reportedly is the result of a hurried study to collect Soviet missile test data by other means after losing the posts in Iran.

The Times said Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, gave private warnings to the administration that the Senate would be unlikely to approve any new arms treaty without a plan to compensate for the loss of the facilities in Iran.

The U-2 has a maximum altitude of 90,000 feet, would fly over areas close to the Soviet Union's southwest border but would not be used over Soviet territory, according to The Times.

The Times said officials refused to say where the planes would be based or what countries they would fly over, but U-2s have used a British air base on Cyprus for Mideast reconnaissance missions.

The officials noted that the U-2 plans were in an early stage and permission had not been asked of the government that would be involved.

Fire Hits Sheik's Home

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — The gaudily decorated Sunset Boulevard home of a young sheik from Saudi Arabia was scorched by a brief fire, officials said.

Five companies of firefighters responded Tuesday night to the call at the 56-room mansion of Sheik Mohammed Al Fassi, and the blaze was put out quickly, fire spokesman Jim Smith said. No injuries were reported.

It was not known who was at home when the fire occurred.

Mesa Ditch 'No Menace'

Rain Erodes Gaping Chasm Along Newport

The gaping earthen chasm that has become a landmark of sorts along Newport Boulevard in Costa Mesa has eroded slightly because of recent heavy rains but apparently is no menace to motorists.

So say officials for the city Public Services Department and the state Department of Transportation.

The ditch, which was excavated for the laying of the roadbed of the Newport Freeway extension, is maintained by CalTrans and a spokesman there said he is unaware of any serious erosion problems.

A Daily Pilot photographer found an eroded section on Fair Avenue where it crosses Newport. A portion of a chain link fence is dangling over the ditched.

But officials minimized the dangers.

The CalTrans spokesman said maintenance crews keep a close eye on the ditch.

He said the crews would take care of the yawning chasm until a final decision is made on whether to extend the freeway through Costa Mesa, as it was once meant to be.

Costa Mesa Public Services Director Bruce Mattern said the only problem the ditch poses is to motorists who may plow through the fence and tumble to the bottom.

Mattern said he is unaware of any serious problems caused by erosion.

An environmental report on the possible extension of the freeway will take until late 1980 to complete, officials have said.

Song Gets Car?

Slang Backfires for Toyota

MANCHESTER, Conn. (AP) — A television commercial says you can get a Toyota "for a song," so Cheryl Hyland thought she'd try it.

She walked into Lynch Toyota on Tuesday and sang "Happy Birthday" to puzzled sales manager William Lockwood. Neither Lockwood nor owner Michael Lynch said they had seen the commercial.

Lynch called a Hartford television station, heard the ad and then called Toyota's U.S. headquarters in New Jersey. He was told the phrase "for a song" is used as a slang expression and has been cleared by company lawyers.

But Lynch, ever the smiling salesman, promised to check further.

"If you've got a car coming, then you've got a car coming," he told Ms. Hyland, who says she owns a Toyota and would sell the free one if she gets it.

Defense attorney William Dougherty told the jury in his opening statement that he will not dispute many of the facts in the case.

The defense will attempt to prove that Guenther's mental condition at the time of the assaults made it impossible for him to understand or control his actions, Dougherty said.

Nonetheless, as Meyer rapidly called prosecution witnesses to the stand, the two lawyers were in obvious conflict over at least some of the charges lodged against the defendant.

Dougherty, for example, asked both victims if they hadn't voluntarily gotten into Guenther's auto — an apparent attempt to discount kidnap charges against his client.

In turn, Meyer asked Miss Gonzalez if she wanted to be in the same car with the defendant after the shooting started.

"Of course not," the girl answered.

Dougherty also attempted to put down any suggestion that rape might have been a motive behind the attack.

But the defense attorney made it clear to the jury in Judge Richard Beacom's courtroom that he will concentrate his efforts on the sanity portion of the trial and its accompanying "not guilty by reason of insanity" plea.

Talks Resume In Air Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for United Airlines and the striking machinists union are resuming contract talks with the help of federal mediators in hopes of reaching a settlement acceptable to the union's rank and file, who have rejected two earlier agreements.

The two sides agreed to a request from federal mediator Robert O. Harris to meet today, their first session since a strike shut down the nation's largest air carrier last Saturday.

The walkout by 18,600 members of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers forced United to cancel flights through April 12 and lay off about 13,300 pilots and flight attendants.

In those cases, the offender would ride by on a bicycle while exposing himself, police said.

Burglary investigators have set losses between $100 and $140 in change in the laundry room burglaries at area apartment complexes.

The youth remained in custody today at Orange County Juvenile Hall. Sgt. Ochoa noted that because of the nature of the alleged crimes, the youth wouldn't be released to his parents. No bail has been set.

Boston Lights Go Back On

BOSTON (AP) — Coffee perked in electric pots and plug-in shavers hummed again in Boston's Back Bay this morning. But after three days of on-again, off-again blackout, some 30,000 customers of the Boston Edison Co. were warned not to be throwing out the instant coffee and the razor.

"Power is coming back house by house," an Edison spokesman said. "We're not sure it will stay."

"If everybody starts to use everything," said Edison's Priscilla Korell, "it will go off."

Edison crews restored power to a section of better hotels and expensive red-brick apartment houses at 6:32 a.m. local time today, ending an intermittent three-day power outage that left 30,000 residents without power.

Taft-Hartley Effort Nixed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration says it has no plans to try to force a swift end to the shutdown of major trucking firms, responsible for a swelling wave of production cutbacks in the auto industry.

"We are not contemplating any Taft-Hartley Act action at this point," Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said Tuesday in outlining a hands-off policy in a dispute between industry and the giant Teamsters union.

The law gives the government authority to seek a back-to-work order from a federal judge.

Fewer Back Law on Pot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Barely one-third of California adults favor strict enforcement of marijuana laws, compared with three-quarters of the state's public a decade ago, The California Poll reported today.

A primary cause of the liberalization trend is the relatively widespread — and growing — use of marijuana, the poll by the Mervin D. Field organization shows.

Some 42 percent of the public acknowledged marijuana use, the poll said, compared with 35 percent three years ago and 28 percent in 1975.

UCI Student Senate to Halt New U?

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

UC Irvine student senators Tuesday voted 14-6 to withdraw student funding of the heavily criticized UCI student newspaper, the New U.

But New U Editor Richard Clucas said he would continue to publish the journal anyway. He said advertising revenues have made the newspaper self-supporting.

It was unclear today among student government authorities whether Clucas and the staff of the new U would be prevented from using offices and a photography lab located on campus.

Dennis Hampton, student government business manager, said the equipment and facilities are the property of UCI's Associated Students. Clucas, he said, would have to gain council approval to continue to use them independently.

The attempt to shut down the New U came after months of controversy generated by the publication's use of stories, photos and advertising considered by many students to be offensive to women or minority groups.

Contributing to the affair were coverage of a wet T-shirt contest at a Santa Ana bar, bogus advertisements mocking Iranian student demonstrators, and a humor supplement that attempted ethnic whimsy with an ad for a magazine, "The Jew U."

Several students—some of them editors of the competing student newspaper, the Real U—reacted to the article and photographs about the T-shirt contest by disposing of thousands of copies of the new U in the trash.

The same thing happened to copies of the newspaper that carried the humor supplement.

Karen Bjorneby, student government executive vice president—and leader of the first group of trashcan censors—said today that publication of the humor supplement was "the final straw."

"It was an insult to so many students on this campus," said Miss Bjorneby, who helps edit the Real U.

Carl Toups, author of the bill to cancel the remaining $10,000 in the fund to publish this year's last nine editions of the weekly campus paper, agreed.

"We've just had a lot of problems with (Clucas) and the whole staff," Toups said.

Matt Hodson, 22, had the day off from work Tuesday. It was a nice day so he decided to run from Anaheim to Costa Mesa. He was doing fine until he decided to take a short cut across the mudflats of Upper Newport Bay. As they say, it seemed like a good idea at the time. "I'd say he made it 99 percent of the way across," observed Newport Beach fire Capt. Jerry Strom. It took some large pieces of plywood, a stout line and six firemen to help Hodson make the last 10 feet. "He was stuck so hard," Strom commented. "that he couldn't even turn around. It seems pretty funny, but if he'd been a kid, he would have died." Other than some bruising to his pride, Hodson, a Garden Grove resident, escaped injury in the early afternoon incident near Santa Isabel Avenue on the west side of the bay.

Beef May Cost 20% More by Summer's End

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beef prices, already setting records, will rise about 20 percent this year, probably reaching their highest point in the summer, the Agriculture Department estimates.

The department said Tuesday the rise in beef prices "probably will peak sometime during the summer," when an increase in pork and poultry supplies is expected to help stem the rise.

But that still means the all-cut beef price used by economists probably will be about $2.18 a pound by year's end—compared to last year's record average of $1.82 a pound.

The all-cut average, $1.62 a pound in February 1978, soared to $2.14 a pound this February, when the average price was 32.3 percent higher than the same month in 1978 and 4.4 percent above the average price in January of this year.

In New York, meanwhile, state and city officials urged consumers today to eat beef one time less a week than they normally would.

"This kind of cutting back in demand will respond to cattlemen's cutting back in their stock," said Rosemary Pooler, executive director of the New York State Consumer Protection Board.

She and Bruce Ratner, New York City's commissioner of consumer affairs, called for what they dubbed "beefless Wednesdays."

Killer Suggests Taping Execution

ATMORE, Ala. (AP) — Condemned murderer John Lewis Evans III proposed today that his electrocution Friday be taped to demonstrate "the barbarity of capital punishment and as a lesson to young criminals."

Meanwhile, in New Orleans, attorneys for Evans' mother filed a petition to block the electrocution. And in Montgomery, she appealed to Gov. Fob James to spare her son's life.

Evans reportedly said he will change his stand and "fight for my life" if the electrocution is called off by a court.

In his five-minute statement read on the lawn of Holman Prison, Evans said he asked Attorney General Charles Graddick to approve the filming of his death for later replay.

He said the tape must not be used for "commercial or political purposes." There was no immediate response from Graddick.

Evans also said to young people who may be headed toward lives of crime: "If you think you can beat the system, you're wrong, dead wrong."

Evans decried deprivations on death row in the prison system generally and said his "dying wish" is that James will carry out his campaign promise to clean up the prison system.

James' office said the governor took no immediate action on the request by Evans' mother but was deliberating whether to have a clemency hearing which Evans could attend.

Holding such a hearing could make it necessary to postpone the electrocution.

The Rev. Kevin Duignan, a Roman Catholic priest who visits Evans daily, said the condemned man told him he will reverse his stand if the mother's request is approved.

Duignan also described Evans as "a very confused individual" who in recent days has at times been "on the verge of breaking."

On Tuesday, Duignan told reporters that Evans "says he is tranquil now with his soul."

'Holy War' Case Opens In Court

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A courtroom battle over possession of an Irvine Lutheran church opened Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court.

St. Matthew Lutheran Church's so-called "holy war" centers on a split among the church congregation—those loyal to the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and those who want to join a less conservative group, the Lutheran Church in America.

The dispute thickened in November when the majority membership voted to sever ties with the Missouri Synod and renege the church's Synod-held debt.

But the rest of the congregation minority wants to retain affiliation with the Missouri Synod and filed suit to seek possession of about $300,000 in church property.

"The case doesn't involve any attempt by the court to inject itself into a religious question," Mike Brennan, attorney for the minority membership, said in his opening courtroom statement Tuesday.

"We are going to ask the court to decide which group stays and which group goes," Brennan told Superior Court Judge Robert Todd.

"There is no question that the majority of the congregation voted to leave (Missouri Synod)," he continued.

But Brennan said a contract for purchase of the church property stipulated that it be for a Missouri Synod congregation.

Hearings Continue By FAA

Under questioning by an Air California attorney, Federal Aviation Administration official Jerry Dallas today suggested a lottery could solve Orange County Airport's alleged discrimination problem.

Dallas resumed testifying this morning in the second day of the FAA hearing into allegations of discrimination against air carriers not granted leases at Orange County Airport.

His remark was made in reply to a question from Jack Fudge representing Air Cal, one of 10 parties to the fact finding hearing.

But as quickly as he made the suggestion, Dallas backed off when pressed by Mike Gatzke, an attorney for Orange County.

"There are many ways to solve the space problem," Dallas said to Gatzke. "A bid system may or may not solve the discrimination problem though."

Dallas added that available airport space might be divided among as many carriers that hold Orange County routes.

"In our era of deregulation," Gatzke replied, "you could be talking about as many air carriers as the federal government has certified."

The cross examination of Dallas by Fudge and Gatzke was a continuation of Tuesday's effort on the part of county and Air Cal officials to get the FAA official to concede that space limitations and not discrimination are the key issues at the local airport.

However, as was the case Tuesday, Dallas never agreed with the two attorneys.

At the conclusion of Dallas' testimony he was followed on the witness stand by Michael Wandrick, Orange County Airport tower chief.

Wandrick's testimony under questioning by David Brickson, attorney for Airlines brought objections from Fudge and Gatzke.

Hearing officer DeWitte Lawson Jr. of the FAA staff overruled the objections and allowed Brickson to question Wandrick about private jets using

Plant's Testing 'Forged'

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) — Untested concrete has been used in construction of portions of the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant in north-central Texas, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

For at least three years, concrete inspectors at the plant periodically failed to properly perform certain quality control tests related to the composition of the concrete and its strength, the newspaper said.

In some cases, the results of the tests were forged, the newspaper reported.

The Star-Telegram interviewed former and current workers at the plant, 45 miles southwest of Fort Worth, and examined Nuclear Regulatory Commission inspection reports dating to 1973.

Ten persons, most of them former quality control inspectors, said they participated in or personally witnessed inspections that in one way or another violated NRC standards.

Officials of companies involved in the plant construction denied there are any quality control problems.

But officials at Texas Utilities Generating Co., charged with final approval of the quality assurance program at the construction site, acknowledged there were "management problems" with the Robert W. Hunt Co. of Chicago, which ran the concrete testing laboratory until mid-1978.

TUGCO is a subsidiary of Texas Utilities Inc., the parent company of Texas Electric Service Co., Dallas Power & Light and Texas Power & Light.

TUGCO assumed responsibility for the concrete testing lab in July. Officials said any difficulties which existed previously have been solved.

Quality Assurance Manager Ron Tolson denied that quality control problems had been widespread under Hunt management or that safety had been compromised in any way.

But independent experts contacted by the Star-Telegram stressed that it is unlikely the situation at the plant poses a danger to the public.

Authorities Search for Laguna Pilot

Aviation authorities are searching today for a 47-year-old Laguna Beach man who disappeared Monday after he took off to do "aerobatic maneuvers."

Lt. Peggy Beelby of the Civil Air Patrol said Dalip Saund, 560 Flora St., was last seen when he left Van Nuys Airport at 9 a.m. Monday.

Saund's father, the late D. S. Saund, was the first native of India elected to Congress.

He was piloting a high-wing, single-engine Bellanca Super Decathlon, which is designed for aerobatic stunts.

Lt. Beelby said Civil Air Patrol pilots set up a base at San Fernando Airport early today to conduct a search for the missing pilot. They planned to survey several aerobatic flying areas located along the Los Angeles county coastline.

"He didn't file a flight plan, so we're not sure which area he went to," Lt. Beelby said. "We'll just start looking until we cover all of those areas."

There was no known radio contact with the plane, she said.

The pilot's father, an Imperial Valley farmer, served the three terms from a Congressional district in Riverside and Imperial counties from 1956 to 1962. He suffered a stroke in 1962 and died in 1973.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Plaintiffs in rape cases couldn't be forced by trial judges to take psychiatric examinations, under a bill approved by the state Senate Judiciary Committee.

The 5-2 vote Tuesday sent SE 395 by Sen. Diane Watson, D-Los Angeles, to the Senate floor.

Backers of the bill said the psychiatric exam authorized by a decade-old state Supreme Court decision humiliates and intimidates rape victims. Under it, an examination may be requested by the defense and can be ordered by the judge as evidence of whether the victim is telling the truth.

U-2s to Monitor Soviet Missiles?

NEW YORK (AP) — The Carter administration will try to compensate for the loss of bases in Iran by using a modified version of the high flying U-2 spy airplane to monitor missile tests in the Soviet Union, The New York Times reported today.

The Times quoted administration officials as saying the U-2 plan was a stopgap measure until new satellites can be developed to verify Soviet compliance with any new treaty limiting offensive nuclear weapons.

Until CIA agents were forced to leave listening posts in Iran last month when the government of that country changed hands, they were able to monitor radio signals broadcast by missiles launched from the Soviet Union's main rocket base at Tyuratam, some 600 miles north of the Iranian border.

The U-2 plan reportedly is the result of a hurried study to collect Soviet missile test data by other means after losing the posts in Iran.

The Times said Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, gave private warnings to the administration that the Senate would be unlikely to approve any new arms treaty without a plan to compensate for the loss of the facilities in Iran.

The U-2 has a maximum altitude of 90,000 feet, would fly over areas close to the Soviet Union's southwest border but would not be used over Soviet territory, according to The Times.

The Times said officials re-oversees the newspaper and other campus publications.

The new policies were to have been designed to prevent publication of ads, real or imagined, that would be offensive to ethnic groups.

"The money to operate this newspaper comes from student funds," Toups said. "We feel it should be responsive to students."

Toups' resolution was added to the student council agenda without prior notice. No member of the New U staff was present to respond.

Clucas said the action "caught everyone on our staff off guard. Nobody knew it was coming up."

Clucas himself had been under heavy council criticism. However, the existence of the newspaper had not been called into question before.

"We want to continue to publish," Clucas said. "We're going to try and figure out how, today."

Toups said a committee of student senators has been formed to plan the purpose, goals, and structure of "a new New U."

Miss Bjorneby was more adamant. "It will not be the New U," she said.

FAA 'Sham'

County Blasts Plane Hearing

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An attorney representing Orange County in the hearings on the county airport called by the Federal Aviation Administration said Tuesday the agency's star witness was evasive and labeled the proceedings a sham.

Mike Gatzke, special counsel hired to represent the county in the hearings, leveled those charges at the opening session Tuesday.

The FAA is charging Orange County with discrimination at the airport in preventing some air carriers from operating there.

The hearings, conducted by an FAA counsel, are being held as part of the investigation of those charges.

Much of Tuesday's hearing involved Jerry Dallas of the Los Angeles office of the FAA, the man Gatzke said was evasive.

Gatzke, state attorney Ed Connor and Dennis O'Neil, Newport Beach city attorney, attempted in roughly four hours of cross examination to get Dallas to acknowledge that there are constraints on the airport in terms of its size, the strength and length of its runways and the noise standards enforced upon it by the state.

The attorneys also attempted to elicit a concession from Dallas that the FAA has long been aware of the constraints. Their point was that the agency made grant money available to the airport knowing in advance that the county in effect would be discriminating against some air carriers because it could not grant them a space at the airport because of the constraints.

But in his four hours on the witness stand, Dallas, the FAA's chief grand administrator for Southern California airports, answered few questions directly.

It was after a series of questions was re-read, re-stated and clarified that the frustrated Gatzke told hearing officer DeWitte Lawson, Jr. he considered Dallas' answers evasive.

The session that opened Tuesday at the Holiday Inn in Laguna Hills included testimony from Congressman Robert Badham, R-Newport Beach, who read a statement into the record and left without being cross-examined.

Badham contended that if the FAA forces the county to take on more air carriers at the airport, the result would be to make all air routes there unprofitable and would mean the loss of commercial jet service.

Badham's appearance was followed by the entering of several written documents into the record, including a statement from Gatzke in which he claimed the FAA had prejudged the issue and said the hearing was a sham.

His contention was based on an article in Aviation Daily, an FAA publication, which said current airport operations "violate a section of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 and the Airport Development Program grants."

The FAA's contention is based on the restriction by county authorities of jet operations at the airport.

Only two jet airlines, Air California and Hughes Airwest, are allowed limited numbers of flights at the airport.

the airport.

Wandrick said there were nearly as many private jet operations at the facility as there were commercial jet operations. The Continental attorney said he elicited the testimony to show that commercial restrictions don't really address the airport's noise problem.

Wandrick was followed by former airport manager Robert Bresnahan who was expected to remain on the stand for the balance of the day.

Girl Injured In Bicycle, Auto Crash

A 12-year-old girl was reported in good condition today after the bicycle she was riding collided with a car on Newport Boulevard in Costa Mesa Tuesday afternoon.

Taken to Costa Mesa Memorial Hospital with head injuries was Bernadette Louise Shirley of 2401 Orange Ave., Costa Mesa.

Police said the collision occurred at the intersection of southbound Newport Boulevard and Vanguard Way.

Feiver Back Law on Pot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Barely one-third of California adults favor strict enforcement of marijuana laws, compared with three-quarters of the state's public a decade ago, The California Poll reported today.

A primary cause of the liberalization trend is the relatively widespread — and growing — use of marijuana, the poll by the Mervin D. Field organization shows.

State Gets County's Coast Plan

Orange County Supervisors have decided to forward their plan for development of the 9,400-acre Irvine Coast to the California Coastal Commission.

And because of differing opinions as to whether the plan has or has not been approved by the regional commission, supervisors are sending along three different resolutions with their plan.

The regional commission refused to consider the county plan Feb. 15 and could muster too few votes to approve a substitute offered by the commission staff.

As a result, one county resolution asks the state body to approve the county plan as is, contending the regional commission approved it Feb. 15 by default.

If that approach fails, a second resolution is an appeal of the regional commission's rejection of the county's development plan.

The third is a request that the state pay for any changes required in the county-drafted proposal.

So far, county officials have spent about $55,000 to develop and process the plan, with less than 10 percent being reimbursed by the state.

The county plan would allow the Irvine Co. to build about 12,000 homes on about one-quarter of the acres between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach.

The remainder of the land would be left in open space.

While county officials have proposed that part of the open space acreage be left in Irvine Co. ownership, the staff of the regional commission has insisted the company dedicate all open land to the county.

A second bone of contention between the commission staff and county officials has been over plans for Sand Canyon Road, a street the county envisions as four lanes wide. The regional commission staff sees it as a two-lane road.

Teen Arrested In Rape, Thefts

A 14-year-old Huntington Beach boy was arrested by police Tuesday and charged with the rape of a 48-year-old woman, seven indecent exposures and a string of laundry room burglaries over the past six months.

Police today said an investigation is continuing that could lead to the arrest of other juveniles in connection with the burglaries.

Toro Rancher Prothero Dies After Illness

Funeral services were scheduled today for pioneer El Toro rancher and farmer Raymond H. Prothero, who died Saturday after a long illness. He was 80.

Mr. Prothero was instrumental in a battle among El Toro farmers to bring precious Colorado River water to the Saddleback Valley in the 1950s. He helped form the El Toro Water District and later served on its board of directors.

The Santa Ana-born rancher watched the sprawling valley turn from a collection of small citrus farms to a massive suburban area.

Mr. Prothero's father, John M. Prothero, moved to the valley in 1900, becoming a tenant farmer on the old Moulton Ranch.

The site of the home where Mr. Prothero spent his childhood is now located in Leisure World. In 1922, he moved to the home that would be his for most of his lifetime.

Mr. Prothero began his farming career with apricots, but the onset of World War I diminished the market for the fruit and he turned to walnut growing.

Sgt. Luis Ochoa said investigators noted a similarity between the youth and a police composite drawing released following the Jan. 12 rape of a Huntington Beach resident.

Under questioning by police, the high school student reportedly confessed to the rape.

In that incident, the victim was accosted as she was getting out of her car near her home. The attacker reportedly choked her and forced her into the backyard where the rape occurred.

Police also are linking the youth to seven cases of indecent exposure that have been reported by residents in the northwest area of town since November.

In those cases, the offender would ride by on a bicycle while exposing himself, police said.

Burglary investigators have set losses between $100 and $140 in change in the laundry room burglaries at area apartment complexes.

The youth remained in custody today at Orange County Juvenile Hall. Sgt. Ochoa noted that because of the nature of the alleged crimes, the youth wouldn't be released to his parents. No bail has been set.

Boston Lights Go Back On

BOSTON (AP) Coffee perked in electric pots and plug-in shavers hummed again in Boston's Back Bay this morning. But after three days of on-again, off-again blackout, some 30,000 customers of the Boston Edison Co. were warned not to be throwing out the instant coffee and the razor.

"Power is coming back house by house," an Edison spokesman said. "We're not sure it will stay."

"If everybody starts to use everything," said Edison's Priscilla Korell, "it will go off." Edison crews restored power to a section of better hotels and expensive red-brick apartment houses at 6:32 a.m. local time today, ending an intermittent three-day power outage that left 30,000 residents without power.

Cameras Record Waddill Evidence

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

As television cameras made an unprecedented appearance Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court, a key defense witness insisted she didn't see Dr. William Waddill strangle an alleged infant abortion survivor.

The testimony of nurse Elizabeth Kennedy came as Judge Byron McMillan broke with tradition at the start of Tuesday's afternoon session in Waddill's murder retrial and allowed two TV crews to film 25 minutes of court testimony.

The filming was allowed with the stipulation that neither the "60 Minutes" film crew or the KABC cameramen would use the trial segment until the end of the murder retrial.

McMillan first sought permission to allow the filming from attorneys in the case, witness Kennedy and the five-man, seven-woman jury.

The judge said he also may permit television filming of final arguments in the trial.

One day during the jury selection process in the Waddill retrial, McMillan allowed a radio broadcaster to tape record the session.

But he reimposed a no-tape, no-film ban after attorneys objected.

Love Flies In Abecedarian Seeking Office

By STEVE MITCHELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Love 22 flew into Los Angeles Airport from Hawaii last week, and it's only right that he was on United Airlines flight No. 22.

You see, Love 22 (that's the legal name on his Rhode Island driver's license) has this thing about the number 22.

He's an abecedarian—a person who studies the alphabet, and he's also a numerologist of sorts, giving numerical values to letters.

So where does the number 22 fit in?

"It is the master number of the secrets of the universe," Love 22 will tell you.

That's why the former Laguna changed his name to Love 22 seven years ago after leaving a lucrative public relations job where he was pulling down $40,000 a year, he said.

He walked out of his executive offices just off the Garden Grove freeway (Highway 22) to become an evangelist on the subject of the number 22.

So now, words whose letters add up to the number 22 have a special significance to Love 22.

For instance, he was shocked to learn upon his return, that the Laguna Beach School of Art was hit by a $500,000 fire earlier this year.

He had a special affection for the building. The address is 2222 Laguna Canyon Road.

And the fact the SLIDE (that adds up to 22) in Bluebird Canyon destroyed 22 homes also strikes him as awesome.

Now that you know where Love 22 is coming from, you should know the bearded philosopher is running for President of the United States.

That explains the funny Uncle Sam hat he wears.

His campaign platform is a little more difficult to explain.

His slogan reads "A Vote for Love is a Vote for You Yabba-dabb-dieu."

Love 22 ties his campaign in with Proposition 22, the AX TAXES initiative, which, of course, adds up to the magic numbers.

"There's no gold or silver behind the bucks," he says mystically. "Just paper."

My message is, "Hey, America, wake up. You're asleep," 22 says. He's also against POLLUTION (A double 22 word), powerplants.

"No nukes, they're flukes," he recites.

And he wants to have a woman for a running mate, saying he's all for the Equal Rights Amendment.

Incidentally, March 22 was the deadline for the ERA, before it was extended," he said.

22 is no newcomer to politics, either. He ran for governor of Rhode Island last year, garnering "less than one percent of the votes."

And now, it's off to the EAST COAST to pick up his 22-foot long converted school bus. Then it's on to the New Hampshire primaries where he'll toss his Uncle Sam hat into the ring.

To raise money for his campaign, he's selling $22 bills, with his likeness on the front.

He had to cut up more than $80 in real money to come up with his bogus bill, which he reproduced.

"I'm literally making money," he said, adding he's not afraid of federal repercussions from his money mutilations.

"It's all for a good cause," he said.

The national promotion of the nuances of numbers.

Nuclear Threat At End?

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Dick Thornburgh declared an end today to the threat of "immediate catastrophe" in the nation's most serious nuclear accident. But authorities still waited for Three Mile Island's disabled reactor core to reach a cold shutdown.

Only then, they said, would they declare all danger past.

"We can heave a sigh of relief," Thornburgh said on NBC's "Today" show.

"The threat of any immediate catastrophe is over," he said. "Now we must face up to the long-term consequences of this event — we have serious public health problems, environmental problems and economic problems to grapple with."

The governor continued his advisory that pregnant women and young children stay at least five miles from Three Mile Island, and federal officials say there remains the slight risk of more trouble.

In the meantime, there were reports today that last Wednesday's accident may have been the result of a human error and that the cleanup may take several years and cost up to $40 million.

The Chicago Tribune said the break-down has been traced to a backup cooling system valve inadvertently left closed several days before the accident. The Allentown (Pa.) Call-Chronicle carried a similar report Sunday.

The New York Times said officials of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission estimate it might be as long as four years before the crippled plant was decommissioned, overhauled and placed back on line.

The Washington Post said nuclear experts likened the cleanup operation to scrubbing a highly radioactive ring out of a giant bathtub and said it would cost at least $40 million.

"First, you drain out the dirty water, and then you scrub it down," the newspaper quoted Robert Bernero of the NEC as saying.

But the technicians first have to cool down the reactor.

"There is still a potential that some loss of cooling mechanism might still cause the core to become uncovered," said Harold Denton, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's chief of operations in Harrisburg.

"We are developing and looking at plans for the most effective way to bring the reactor to a cold shutdown without an increased leakage from the plant," he added at a Tuesday briefing.

A gas bubble that had threatened to displace the reactor's cooling water, exposing the core and raising the possibility of a catastrophic melt down, was eliminated by engineers. This advanced their efforts to reach a cold shutdown bringing the reactor to a point where it could no longer pose any risk of escaping control.

Meanwhile, thousands of people trickled back to their homes, and schools outside the five-mile radius reopened.

'Uncle Joe' Actor Dies At Age 76

PALM SPRINGS (AP) Edgar Buchanan, who abandoned a medical career to take up acting, died early today while recovering from brain surgery, a spokesman for Eisenhower Memorial Hospital said.

Buchanan, 76, never recovered from the operation Jan. 29 to remove a tube placed in his brain four years earlier to help overcome poor circulation of spinal fluids, said a spokesman.

The exact cause of death was not immediately announced.

In a film career that spanned three decades, Buchanan appeared as a character actor in more than 80 movies and 150 television dramas before landing a steady role as Uncle Joe in CBS-TV's "Petticoat Junction" series in the 1960s.

He took pre-med and drama courses at the University of Oregon, then, at the urging of his father, went to North Pacific Dental College in Portland, where he married a classmate. But he kept busy with summer stock companies and local playhouses.

For 10 years, Buchanan practiced dentistry in Eugene and was an assistant drama professor at the University of Oregon. Then he moved his office to Altadena, Calif., and became involved in the Pasadena Playhouse, which was frequented by scouts from the Hollywood movie studios.

At age 38, Buchanan landed his first part, turned his dental office over to his wife and began a second career.

Taft-Hartley Effort Nixed

The E. Hadley Stuart Hall of Gems and Minerals has opened as a part of the Los Angeles Museum of Natural History. It is the only such permanent museum display in the Western United States, and is said to surpass similar gem museum facilities in New York and Washington. A wide assortment of the world's minerals is on display in lighted cases in a dimly-lighted hall. The F. C. Hixon precious gem collection is also shown. It is augmented by stones given by other donors. The Hixon collection is so impressive, it is being used as part of a course of instruction conducted by the prestigious Gemological Institute of America. Students are taken to Stuart Hall to see, first-hand, outstanding examples of all precious stones and common minerals. The Los Angeles display will undoubtedly attract gifts from other important collections. It is worth a visit, whether or not you are intimately concerned with gems and minerals.

SAVING GRACES DEPT. Political savants of our coastal cities may have learned something from our County Seat's city elections yesterday and then again, maybe they didn't.

Anyway, it developed that Santa Ana did have a municipal vote and this time the turnout wasn't quite the embarrassment that visited our inland metropolis when it tried the same thing two years ago.

In Santa Ana's city election of 1977, the turnout was a ghastly 12.7 percent of the registered voters.

Yesterday, they got almost 20 percent to travel to the polls. The late count was showing that 11,713 of the city's 62,621 registered voters had showed up at the ballot box.

DESPITE THE ELECTION of four councilmen, probably the most watched issue on the Santa Ana ballot was an item called Proposition A. This was a budget limitation that flew in the face of nasty old inflation.

If adopted, Proposition A would have limited Santa Ana's city budget growth to 5 percent per year.

It wasn't adopted. The populace rejected it by roughly 1,000 votes.

"Sorry, Sir, You're Too Late to Get Help From the Paramedics"

This came as considerable surprise to many observers of the political scene at the County Seat, in view of what happened recently when our statewide voters got a shot at a tax limitation measure famously known as Proposition 13.

THUS FEAR AND DISMAY were rampant at Santa Ana City Hall before the votes got counted up yonder.

Now the anti-tax limit campaigners of Santa Ana may indeed have struck upon a theme that we may see repeated in some of our coastal jurisdictions. They used a fairly heavy ad campaign suggesting that paramedics might not be around to aid stricken citizens should a budget crimp hit City Hall.

Maybe that did it. It is clear that the citizenry strongly supports paramedic programs.

IN OUR COASTAL REGION, we've seen several defensive tactics used by public officials when the outcry came to cut spending. School trustees usually threatened to cut the music and band program first, and maybe even eliminate the football team. This brought out the band boosters and parents of athletes and thus saved the budget.

Now we may have entered the dawn of a new era for defensive budgeting by our municipal governments. Now when the populace begins beating on City Hall doors for budget cuts, the bureaucrats inside can call for help.

They can cry out, "Paramedic! Paramedic!"

Hen Hithes Long Ride

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) Workers at the Doco Packaging plant were startled when a chicken hopped down from underneath a tractor-trailer rig that had just arrived from Moxee via Moses Lake.

The mud-spattered fowl is believed to have huddled above the axle for four hours through rain and snow from a chicken farm near Yakima, a distance of about 110 miles.

When a forklift driver bumped the truck, the bird apparently decided it was time to get off. Despite its scraggly appearance, the hen's courage won the hearts of Doco employees, who promptly handed it over to Carl Dourte of East Wenatchee. Dourte has 11 other hens and a rooster.

Pakistan Hangs Bhutto

Bloody Riots Erupt Over Leader's Death

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Bloody riots broke out in India's Kashmir province and club-swinging police broke up groups of angry, chanting demonstrators here today hours after the hanging of former Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto. Three persons were reported killed in Kashmir.

Bhutto, who led Pakistan from 1971-1977, was hanged at Rawalpindi central jail at 2 a.m. on charges of ordering the murder of a political opponent. The hanging, carried out despite clemency pleas to President Mohammed Zia-ul-Haq from world leaders, was greeted with shock and dismay in foreign capitals.

THREE PERSONS were killed and seven were hurt in clashes between pro-Bhutto demonstrators and police in several parts of India's Kashmir Valley, police inspector D.N. Kaul said. The state of Kashmir borders Pakistan, but it was not immediately clear why the rioting broke out there.

Police with bamboo clubs dispersed a crowd of nearly 500 Bhutto supporters in Rawalpindi who shouted anti-government slogans after gathering for prayers for Bhutto.

THEY SHOUTED "Shame, shame Zia the dog" and "Long live Bhutto our leader" before the police moved in. Reports from Peshwar in northeastern Pakistan said a pro-Bhutto procession dispersed when police arrived.

Zia, who ousted Bhutto in a July 1977 coup and installed a strict Moslem penal code, refused to commute the sentence despite pleas from the United States, Britain, China, the Soviet Union, the Vatican and others.

Zia's government said the body of the 51-year-old leader of the Pakistan People's Party was flown by the air force to Naurdro, his birthplace in southern Pakistan, where it was buried in the presence of two uncles and one of his two wives eight hours after the execution.

A HELICOPTER brought Bhutto's shroud-wrapped body to one of the uncle's houses where the women in the family viewed it briefly. Cries of anguish came from the house.

For Bhutto's first wife, Shirin Amir Begum, who had visited him in jail Sunday, the arrival of the body may have been the first word of the execution. She was reportedly surprised and shocked at the arrival.

The body went to a mosque for final prayers and was carried to the family graveyard.

Carter Sets TV Address On 'Energy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter makes a nationally broadcast address Thursday night to outline a plan which is expected to let domestic oil prices rise to world levels while taxing away from oil companies most of the resulting profit.

The president also is considering announcing formation of a presidential commission to investigate the nuclear accident at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania, a mishap that further complicates Carter's already uncomfortable energy dilemma.

CARTER'S DECISION to seek about 20 minutes of broadcast time at 6 p.m. PST Thursday, prime evening television viewing time, was announced Tuesday at the White House.

The immediate impact of Carter's expected action will be further upward pressure on the already soaring prices of gasoline, home heating oil and other petroleum fuels. Gasoline could go up 7 cents, to 15 cents per gallon during the next 2½ years, according to various unofficial estimates.

White House officials, who asked not to be named, said Carter also will ask Congress to enact a tax plan vaguely similar to his "wellhead tax" proposal that Congress refused to enact last year.

THE TAX PROPOSAL would funnel most of the proceeds from the increase in domestic oil prices into several areas. The annual proceeds are estimated at $3 billion to $5 billion by 1981.

Carter said in Dallas March 24 that such a tax would be used in part to promote solar energy, alcohol fuel and other renewable energy sources.

Australian Cops Kill Hijacker

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Police fatally shot a would-be hijacker today when he tried to set off a beer can full of gunpowder aboard a Pan American jumbo jet that was scheduled to fly to Los Angeles, authorities said.

The hijacker, identified as Dimicias Speranzo, had held a woman at knifepoint for more than two hours before releasing her. She reportedly suffered minor throat lacerations and shock.

A policeman who tried to rescue her was stabbed in the head but was reported in satisfactory condition.

Police said Speranzo, a 34-year-old Italian immigrant carpenter, demanded to be flown to Italy for meetings with Pope John Paul II and communist leader Enrico Berlinguer and then on to Moscow.

Speranzo was taken from Sydney International Airport to Royal Prince Henry Hospital where he died several hours later while undergoing surgery.

West Texas to California enjoyed mild temperatures. The Pacific Northwest was cold and damp. Temperatures early today ranged from 10 in Hibbing, Minn., to 76 in Fort Lauderdale and Key West, Fla.

California

The weatherman predicts a slight cooling trend Thursday from the pleasant springtime weather in Southern California. Variable high clouds and morning coastal fog should return to most inland areas. National Weather Service forecasters say, along with temperatures reading in the lower 70s, the metropolitan Los Angeles area is expected to have a high near 70 Thursday.

The valleys are expected to remain warm, the service predicts, with highs Thursday of 72 to 78. Mountain areas can expect high temperatures in the 50s and overnight lows mostly in the 30s. The upper deserts will have daytime temperatures of 68 to 75. Low deserts will have highs Thursday of 78 to 85.

Coastal Weather Low clouds Thursday morning and partly cloudy in the afternoon. Light variable winds night and morning hours. Highs Thursday 68 to 74.

Coastal temperatures will range between 50 and 64. Inland temperatures will range between 50 and 71. The water temperature will be 60.

U.S. Summary

Booming thunderstorms produced heavy rain across southern Louisiana and Mississippi, spawning tornadoes and gusty winds in New Orleans suburbs and generating possible flood conditions along much of the Gulf Coast.

Late Tuesday, police said three twisters damaged buildings and downed power lines in Thibodaux, Schriever and Luling. No injuries were reported.

The heaviest rainfall occurred in Mississippi, with almost 2 inches in Ark. Comb. Nearly 4 inches fell in Hattiesburg.

The National Weather Service said the storm had expanded as far inland as Arkansas early today. Rivers in southeastern Louisiana were reported on the rise.

Forecasters said the danger of flooding continues over most of Louisiana, southern Mississippi and northern Alabama. A tornado watch was also issued for portions of Mississippi and Alabama early today.

Meanwhile, more rain spread into the middle Mississippi Valley and snow fell over eastern Kansas, northwestern Missouri and southern Iowa. The winterlike conditions continued to spread across the northern plains.

Cold weather reached from the Great Lakes region to New England.

Nuke Plant Backed

Rancho Seco Continues to Operate

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The nearby Rancho Seco nuclear plant, a near twin to the troubled one in Pennsylvania, is still producing power.

Meanwhile, The Republican leader of the state Senate said Tuesday it should not be shut down without proof that an accident could happen there.

—THE AUTHOR OF A BILL to overturn California's nuclear power plant moratorium said he won't drop it despite what happened in Pennsylvania.

The Yolo County Board of Supervisors failed by one vote in nearby Woodland to adopt a resolution asking for a shutdown.

The operators of the plant, the Sacramento Municipal Utility District, scheduled a hearing for Thursday at which persons favoring closure are expected to testify.

THE REPUBLICAN LEADER, William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, told a news conference, "I believe closure would be a precipitous action at this point. I think what we need more than anything else is some moderation on the whole issue of nuclear power."

Campbell's stand counters that of Democratic Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who is calling for a "precautionary and temporary" closure. Brown is supported by Republican Lt. Gov. Mike Curb and some legislative leaders.

The U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission has ordered Rancho Seco and six other plants built by Babcock & Wilcox Co. to run safety checks.

FRESHMAN ASSEMBLYMAN Richard Mountjoy, R-Monrovia, author of SB 1270 to overturn the nuclear moratorium, issued a statement saying the Pennsylvania incident "is proof that even with the worst possible nuclear accident, they were able to control it with present methods."

"We cannot afford not to move ahead with nuclear energy in California. They are safe."

In Woodland, a resolution to request shut-down received two "aye" votes and there were two abstentions, with one supervisor absent. Such a proposal needs three votes to pass.

But the supervisors passed two other resolutions. One requests an immediate safety review by the federal Nuclear Safety Commission, and the other asks the Yolo-Solano Air Pollution Control District to review the impact of any possible radiation from Rancho Seco.

Parents Dispute Stripping

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The parents of two high school girls, forced to undergo a strip search after another student reported $53 stolen from her purse, have filed a $200,000 civil rights damage claim against the school district.

School officials said Tuesday that the two were among six to eight girls in a Clairemont High School Spanish class who were forced to disrobe Jan. 10 for a search conducted by a city policewoman. Another source put the number of girls searched at two dozen.

THE STRIP SEARCHES were requested by Andre LaCorbiere, the school's campus security officer, who conducted "pat down" searches of the boys in the class, school officials said.

The missing money was recovered the next day in a boys' restroom, indicating the girls were not implicated, according to school principal William Burroughs. He said he was unaware the searches were being conducted.

The legal claims, the first step toward a lawsuit, were filed with the San Diego Unified School District by Tom Adler, attorney for the parents of Coral Tusinski and Geraldyn Varga.

'Store' Protest

Comic Pays New Talent

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A strike by comedians against a Sunset Strip comedy club over its policy of not paying new entertainers has prompted comedian Jackie Mason to open a competing nightspot where even unknown performers will share in the profits.

"I don't think comedians should work for nothing," Mason said Tuesday in a telephone interview from the set of "The Jerk," a movie in which he stars with Carl Reiner and Steve Martin.

"TO ME, PEOPLE COME TO see the comedians, so it's not a valid excuse to not pay a comedian because he's new."

"If a guy's selling peanuts, do I have the right to claim I should get the peanuts for nothing because it's the first time he's selling them?" Mason added.

The 120-member Comedians for Compensation struck the Comedy Store a week ago Tuesday after negotiations with club owner Mitzi Shore broke down. The performers want 50 percent of the $4.50 cover charge.

A spokeswoman for Ms. Shore said she had no comment on Mason's plans, but added that parties in the Comedy Store dispute are to meet at the end of the week in an effort to resolve the conflict.

The Store re-opened Monday night after being closed for four days, said the spokeswoman, who asked that her name not be used.

IN DEFENDING THE COMEDY Store's no-pay policy, Ms. Shore has said that comedians use it to learn their craft and break in new material, a kind of school for comics.

"I think that concept is preposterous," said Mason, a long-time critic of Hollywood's hiring and paying systems.

Arson Ruins Wax Displays

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Officials assessed damage today from an arson-set blaze that destroyed the Beatles and melted the features of Raquel Welch, Josef Stalin and other figures at the Hollywood Wax Museum.

Fire officials said the noon blaze, which forced the 15-year-old museum to close Tuesday, destroyed the entire Beatles display and damaged 80 to 100 other wax figures.

There was no immediate word on how long it would take to repair the remaining figures and reopen the Hollywood Boulevard tourist attraction. According to early estimates, the displays suffered about $250,000 damage. Damage to the structure was set at $50,000.

Pan Am Strike Looms

BURLINGAME (AP) — Flight attendants for Pan American Airways have voted overwhelmingly to strike the airline Sunday unless a last-minute contract agreement is reached, union officials said today.

Results of a secret mail ballot show members of the Independent Union of Flight Attendants voted 3,064-84 to strike, said Mary Ellen King, president of the 4,500-member union based here.

LA Voters Stay Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The lowest voter turnout in Los Angeles election history left several major races undecided, with five run-off elections scheduled to be held next May to fill City Council, Board of Education and community college board seats.

Los Angeles City Clerk Rex Layton predicted final voter turnout figures for Tuesday's election would be about 20 percent. That figure would be nearly 8 percent below the previous record, set in the city's 1945 election, he said.

Royer Wins Ryan's Seat

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Voters have chosen Republican developer Bill Royer to fill the 11th District seat of slain Democrat Leo J. Ryan in a surprising vote over Ryan's top aide, Joe Holsinger.

Royer, 58, defeated Holsinger in a special runoff election Tuesday. It was an abrupt turnabout for voters in San Mateo County, who traditionally have elected Republicans but returned the liberal Ryan to Congress three times before his death.

Friend Given Probe Role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite protests from conservatives, a Superior Court judge has given the longtime girlfriend of an elderly real estate tycoon permission to participate in an investigation of whether a $150 million estate is being mishandled.

Tuesday's order by Judge Arthur K. Marshall allows 55-year-old Laura Winston to object to all conservatorship matters that come before the court in the case of Ben Weingart.

OCTD to Promote Fuel-saving Plan

Directors of the Orange County Transit District (OCTD) agreed this week to embark on a two-year, $700,000 marketing effort aimed at encouraging people to move about the county in the most fuel-economical manner.

Joined with OCTD in the program was Commuter Computer Inc., the firm that seeks to unite travelers in car pooling arrangements that cut down on pollution and fuel waste.

Under the joint marketing program, OCTD representatives who call at major employment and education centers will promote car pooling as well as bus travel.

By the same token, Commuter Computer agents, calling on other employers and educational institutions will promote bus travel as well as car pooling.

As long as OCTD is in charge of the marketing effort and if it is agreed that the project is worth an investment of $700,000 in grant funds, the joint OCTD/Commuter Computer program seems like a reasonable way to go.

However, inasmuch as no one has yet been able to accurately measure Commuter Computer's effectiveness, it might have been better for OCTD to have gone the marketing program route by itself.

Curb Needs Guidelines

There seems little doubt that Lt. Gov. Mike Curb's appointment of an appellate court judge in the absence of Gov. Brown was a deliberate attempt to focus the spotlight on the governor's out-of-state wanderings—and to get some clarification of what the lieutenant governor is supposed to do under such circumstances.

Section 10, Article V of the state constitution states that the lieutenant governor "shall act as governor" during the governor's absence from the state.

And Attorney General George Deukmejian, queried by Curb about the legality of the judicial nomination, told him, "The lieutenant governor has the power to make the appointment. He is acting as the governor and has the powers of the governor."

Since all such appointments must be confirmed by the Commission on Judicial Appointments, and since Curb's nomination has been withdrawn by Brown in favor of his own candidate, that issue remains in the air.

However, the subsequent donnybrook did reveal 35 unfilled court vacancies throughout the state.

Gov. Brown, planning to leave again to address New Hampshire legislators—who, it turned out, didn't want to hear him—on his balanced budget proposal, at first said he would make all the court appointments over the weekend.

This drew immediate protest from Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy and lawyers, who pointed out it would mean bypassing the customary screening of candidates by local and state bar associations.

Brown settled for making only 17 appointments before his departure, after obtaining Curb's guarantee that there would be no more surprises.

This is all very fine. But if, as Curb contends, Brown does intend to spend up to 100 days out of the state this year pursuing his as yet unofficial presidential campaign, someone should decide just how much power the lieutenant governor is entitled to assume in his effort to keep the home fires burning.

Drug Costs Eyed

Hearings on a Food and Drug Administration proposal to help consumers save money on prescription drugs are winding up this week in Washington.

Because of the enormous difference in the cost of brand-name drugs as opposed to generic versions of the same substance, the FDA wants to supply pharmacists with a list of its approved prescription drugs, including a therapeutic evaluation of each.

This would enable a pharmacist to compare the cost to the patient of various brand-name and generic versions of the same drug and to supply the least costly type unless the prescribing physician orders no substitution.

One widely prescribed tranquilizer is cited as an example of the cost differential. The best-known and heavily advertised brand-name edition of the drug costs $8 for 50 tablets. The generic version sells at $4 for 100 tablets.

Not surprisingly, drug manufacturers are strongly opposed to the FDA plan. Their argument is that the higher prices on brand-name drugs are needed to fund ongoing pharmaceutical research and that wider use of generic drugs will reduce these research funds.

There's no doubt the industry has been outstanding in researching and developing new and improved drugs. But it's hard to accept quadrupling of the price even for that worthy purpose.

The FDA proposal is clearly in the interest of the consumer—and especially of those on a modest income who may be dependent upon more or less continuous medication to maintain good health.

Does Iran Deserve 'Bad Press'?

WASHINGTON — The new revolutionary regime in Iran has been getting a bad press in the United States, and it appears to be as undeserved as the adulatory treatment that was given the lately deposed shah for so many years.

Most of the American correspondents in Iran — and the pundits in this country — completely missed the story of what was going on in Iran. This was partly because they were blinded by the shah's slick, multi-million dollar public relations campaign, which often included royal treatment of reporters and editors.

And it was partly because they bought the official Pentagon-State Department-Central Intelligence Agency line that the shah was one of our few dependable anti-Soviet bulwarks in the Middle East, as well as a source of oil.

NOW, AFTER years of protecting the shah, the U.S. press is determinedly and none too subtly attacking the Ayatollah Khomeini, whose Muslim activists shoved the shah off his Peacock Throne. In the process, the American media are winning few friends for this country among the people who are now running Iran.

Our diplomatic sources tell us that officials of Khomeini's revolutionary government are incensed over what they consider the "scandalous distortions" that have appeared in the American press.

At the very beginning of the revolution, for example, the shah was depicted as a loyal ally being attacked by communists, fanatics and ignorant mobs. When this canard didn't hold up, it was said that Khomeini would be done in by either the leftists, the military or both.

None of this, it is now clear, was true.

THE AYATOLLAH easily won over the common soldiers, contrary to alarmist predictions in the American press that a bloody civil war was in the works. One of Khomeini's associates told us: "I personally advised the State Department of the folly of depending on the soldiers to defend the shah. I advised them not to incite any military coup, such an act would create enmity that would last for years. I told them that Iranian soldiers are first Muslims, then they are soldiers."

The trumpeted communist threat to Khomeini's power has never materialized either. There have been leftist demonstrations, but they were sparsely attended, our sources believe many participants were "curious spectators," and others were pro-shah people who would support any anti-Khomeini movement. At any rate, one insider told us, the ayatollah's followers deliberately let the leftists have their say to avoid making martyrs out of them.

Iranian officials deeply resent their portrayal in the American press as religious zealots and know-nothings who have no programs and no ability to govern.

They acknowledge there has been a certain amount of lawlessness and confusion. But this, they say, is the inevitable result when a nation breaks free after years of suppression. "It happens anywhere a despot is overthrown," one source told us.

KHOMEINI'S defenders point convincingly to the fact that 98 percent of the Iranian workers returned to their jobs at the ayatollah's request. And the oil fields were back in production in four weeks — instead of the eight weeks minimum predicted by foreign experts.

As evidence of the "chaos" in Iran today, news correspondents have cited the public disagreements between Khomeini and his prime minister, Mehdi Bazargan, who has traveled twice to the holy city of Qom to take issue with the ayatollah's edicts. There was even one report that Bazargan has resigned an outright lie, our sources say.

Far from indicating confusion, one official told us, the differences between Khomeini and Bazargan reveal the health of the new system. One insider eloquently compared the ayatollah's role with that of the Supreme Court in this country: He advises, interprets, sets rules and shapes policy. It is his job to criticize. "This is our type of democracy," one official said. "We tried the western solution and it didn't work. Now we are trying our solution, and it is working."

THE BIGGEST distortion of all, the Iranians told us, is the persistent theme in the American press that the new government is suppressing women.

They point out that Iranian women have been "liberated" for years; they have the vote and the right to divorce their husbands. Yet this has been lost sight of in American press reports on the ayatollah's controversial order that women dress modestly.

Khomeini's primary concern, our sources told us, was that civil servants reflect the traditional tone of the new government and help to remove the class barrier that had existed between the bureaucrats and the devoutly Muslim peasants they serve.

As for American feminist Kate Millett's celebrated visit in support of her Iranian "sisters," one angry Iranian official said, "It is another form of chauvinistic imperialism. These people like Kate Millett are trying to force their values on our traditional society."

MILLETT HAD the bad manners to refer to the Iranians' revered holy man Khomeini as a "male chauvinist," and was finally kicked out of the country. Two other American women activists, Gloria Steinem and Bella Abzug, made plans to go to Iran. Steinem later changed her mind. Abzug's visa was revoked after she demonstrated at the Iranian consulate in New York.

Footnote: Steinem told our associate Joe Spear she had planned to go to Iran to help get police protection for demonstrating Iranian women. But Millett accomplished this, Steinem said, so she changed her mind. We could not reach Bella Abzug for comment.

London Crime Rise Can Be Election Issue

Editorial Research Reports

LONDON — Gone are the days, perhaps forever, when this city could claim to be one of the world's safest capitals. Metropolitan Police Commissioner Sir David McNee created a stir last June when he told Parliament that reported crime in London had soared to a record number of 568,952 cases in 1977 — more, he said, than New York City's 517,554 felonies for that year.

Piccadilly Circus, once the vibrant hub of the empire, now is a good place to avoid at night. The chances of a criminal confrontation there are about what one might expect on New York's 42nd Street. Elsewhere in formerly staid old London town, the incidence of crime has risen to such an extent that old people think twice about going out unescorted after dark.

A spokesman for Scotland Yard told Editorial Research Reports that auto thefts in London rose from 6,611 in 1967 to 73,286 in 1977. Between 1976 and 1977 the number of robberies and other violent thefts rose by 23 percent. In the country as a whole, the crime rate has been rising by a 4 percent a year, compounded annually, since 1959.

DEPUTY Police Commissioner Richard Chitty predicted as long ago as 1969 that violent crime in London would soon surpass that in New York. "The leniency of the courts," he said then, "is a major factor working in favor of the violent criminal." The Criminal Justice Act of 1947 forbade corporal punishment for crimes of violence, while the death penalty was phased out in two stages in 1955 and 1960.

Employees of Scotland Yard look back nostalgically on the days when a violent robbery was headline news. "If the villain was convicted," a former police official recalled, "he got a whacking good sentence and was then dispatched to Dartmoor (prison). He broke stones and sewed mail bags. After he was released he seldom came back for more. Prison then was a real deterrent. Today they offer TV."

Veteran police officers firmly believe that corporal punishment — usually administered with a cat o' nine tails or a birch rod — instilled fear into the criminal. Its absence, they feel, partly explains the sharp rise in violent crimes against the person in England and Wales from 1,287 cases in 1935 to 23,443 cases in 1970, and to 52,690 cases in 1974.

THE UNARMED bobby on the beat is becoming an endangered species in more ways than one. According to Commissioner McNee, 84 percent of the robberies of London banks, betting shops and security guards in 1976 involved the use of firearms. The result is that more police officers have been assigned to carry guns while on duty.

Moreover, London's police force is now nearly 5,000 officers below strength. At 22,000 men and women, it is the same size it was in 1929. Last year, the force lost more officers than it recruited.

THE CRIME problem is likely to be a leading issue in this year's general election campaign, which is expected to take place sometime in the spring. Many Britons see the "left" as being lax in punishing the thug, the mugger and the terrorist. But for all the talk of "law and order," few people here harbor the illusion that reducing the crime rate will be anything but a long and difficult undertaking.

Maybe Peace Treaty Is Just Another Wedding

My Israeli friend, Mordecai Shalom, was celebrating over a nice glass of tea in Dopperman's cafe in Jerusalem when old Isaac Ben-Dove shuffled up and plunked himself down with a weary sigh.

"Isaac!" cried Mordecai. You are not celebrating the signing of our glorious new treaty with Egypt which will usher in a new era of peace?"

Isaac shook his head. "When Sadat came here 16 months ago, everybody says his historic peace mission will usher in a new era of peace. So I celebrated. And what did it usher in? An old era of arguments, name-calling and kvetching. Kvetch, kvetch, kvetch."

"BUT, ISAAC, Sadat's historic peace mission led to the historic peace conference at Camp David."

"Exactly," said Isaac. For weeks these great leaders historically confer. At last they throw their arms around each other and announce they have negotiated a historic peace pact which will usher in a new era of peace. So I celebrated. And what did it usher in? An old era of arguments, name-calling and kvetching. Kvetch, kvetch, kvetch."

"Ah but Isaac, that historic peace pact led to this historic peace treaty which we have now just signed."

"Have you read it, Mordecai?" asked Isaac. "All we have negotiated is another agreement to negotiate still another agreement which, if we ever negotiate it, will usher in yet one more new era of peace."

"Isaac, you are a born pessimist."

Bank, will then make a fine Palestinian state."

"Don't worry, Isaac," said Mordecai reassuringly. "Our fine Prime Minister Begin has promised us he will never surrender an inch of this sacred Israeli soil. All he has promised the Egyptians is that he will talk about it."

"Talk about what? We can't even agree with them in this peace treaty what the name of the place is."

"That will give us all the more to talk to them about. Come, Isaac, celebrate this historic moment."

Quotes

"The normalization of Sino-U.S. relations is only a new beginning for the development of our trade. We have a lot of things to do in the political, cultural, trade and other fields in the years ahead." Chinese Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping (Teng Hsiao-ping).

Isaac folded his arms. "God forbid," he said, "that I should once again celebrate the ushering in of another old era of arguments, name-calling and kvetching."

"BUT ISAAC," said Mordecai, "you must admit that things are better now than they were before Sadat's historic peace mission which led to Camp David's historic peace pact which led to this historic peace treaty. After all, as long as we keep negotiating we aren't killing each other."

"Maybe so," Isaac grudgingly agreed. "But I wouldn't call it a peace treaty. I'd call it... Well, I don't know what I'd call it."

"And how is Mrs. Ben-Dove?" asked Mordecai slyly.

"That woman!" replied Isaac automatically. "For 52 years we've been married and she has not given me one moment of..."

He suddenly smiled. "You win, Mordecai," he said. "I will celebrate. A peace treaty we have not got. What we have got is a wedding."

Simple Steps Can Minimize Risk

By The Associated Press

How much radiation are you absorbing every day? How much of it could you avoid? The accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant near Harrisburg, Pa., points up the need to weigh the benefits and the risks of radiation and to eliminate unnecessary exposure.

THE AVERAGE AMERICAN GETS 100 to 120 millirems of natural background radiation a year. This includes radiation from elements in the earth, from outer space and from substances like potassium-40 in the body.

We also are exposed to man-made radiation, most of it in the form of medical and dental X-rays. Television sets emit a tiny amount of radiation and some smoke detectors contain radioactive materials.

We face a different, but still potentially dangerous, kind of radiation from the sun and from microwaves like the ones in ovens.

The risks from everyday, low-level radiation are minimal compared to the threat posed by a nuclear accident. But scientists do not know whether there is any level of radiation, no matter how small, which is absolutely safe.

"SHORT OF WEARING A RADIATION badge, there is no way of determining what level you've been exposed to," says Allan McGowan of the Scientists Institute for Public Information.

Dr. Solomon Michaelson of the University of Rochester Medical Center adds: "We're always surrounded by radiant energy. You have to put the danger in perspective as to what society really wants."

Here is a look at some radiation sources and ways to minimize risk:

SUN

Radiation from the sun's infrared and ultraviolet rays is particularly dangerous because it is directly absorbed in the skin. The Food and Drug Administration says radiation from the sun is the leading cause of skin cancer. A study by the National Cancer Institute showed that a sunny, southern area — Dallas-Fort Worth — had more than double the skin cancer rate of a less sunny, northern one — Minneapolis-St. Paul. Scientists say 60 percent of the ultraviolet rays striking the Earth reach the surface between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. If you must get a tan, try to do so before 10 or after 2.

X-RAYS

Experts say 90 percent of the man-made radiation we face comes from diagnostic X-rays. You can absorb up to 20 millirems from a dental X-ray and 30 from a chest X-ray. To be safe, the FDA suggests:

— Don't decide on your own to have an X-ray like the ones you get at a mobile unit for detecting tuberculosis. There are safer and more effective tests for the disease and the mobile units often expose you to more radiation than necessary.

— Don't insist on an X-ray when you visit your doctor or dentist. Let him or her be the judge. Tell your doctor or dentist all previous X-rays; you may not need a fresh set.

— If you are a woman and are pregnant or think you're pregnant, tell your doctor or dentist. Radiation may affect the fetus. If you're male and of child-producing age or younger, ask for a lead shield to protect the reproductive organs.

SMOKE DETECTORS

Ionization chamber detectors contain small amounts of radioactive material. This does NOT mean they are dangerous, says the National Fire Prevention and Control Administration. The Nuclear Regulatory Commission performs a radiation safety analysis on all new models.

TELEVISION SETS

X-rays may be produced when electrons, accelerated by high voltage, strike an obstacle while traveling in a vacuum such as the one in a TV tube. Most TV sets do not give off any measurable level of radiation and a federal standard limits allowable TV radiation to about one-fourth-hundredth the amount emitted by a dental X-ray.

Look at the back of the TV before you buy for a label or tag certifying that the set meets the federal standard. When your set needs repairs, call a qualified serviceman. The primary cause of increased X-ray emission from TV sets is adjustment of operating voltages to levels above the manufacturer's recommendation.

MICROWAVE OVENS

The microwaves in an oven are generated by an electron tube inside the cabinet. They bounce back and forth and are absorbed by the food, causing water molecules in the food to vibrate and produce heat.

The FDA sets a strict limit on the amount of radiation permitted to leak from the oven wall. It also requires ovens to have two interlock systems to prevent them from operating if the door is not securely fastened. The minute the door is opened or the latch is released, the microwaves stop. There is no residual radiation.

To avoid trouble, do not have the oven rewired so that the interlock system will not operate. If you suspect your oven is leaking, contact your state health department for a possible test. Do not try to test the oven yourself. The FDA says that a number of the devices sold for do-it-yourself tests "are inaccurate and unreliable."

Treaties

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In the first such move in 10 years, the Vatican has condemned a book written by a French Dominican priest on the grounds it violates church teaching and God's revelations.

An announcement Tuesday by the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, the former Holy Office, said the decision has been approved by Pope John Paul II.

THE BOOK put under review by the powerful congregation, which deals with the protection of matters of faith and morals, is entitled "Quand Je dis Dieu" — When I Say God — by the Rev. Jacques Pohier. It was published in 1977.

The congregation said that after examination of what it called the errors contained in the book Pohier was "asked to publicly retract his opinions" last year.

Story on Bachelors Stirs Estranged Wife

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — A judge has quashed a subpoena that demanded San Francisco Magazine reveal its sources for a story on eligible bachelors — one of whom has an estranged wife seeking a hefty support payment.

Superior Court Judge pro tem James Browning threw out the subpoena, saying the wife "failed to demonstrate that the desired information cannot be obtained from sources other than the press."

His Idea?

Gen. Alexander Haig, former White House chief of staff, was first to suggest a blanket pardon for Richard Nixon, according to former President Gerald Ford in an article in The Nation magazine.

THE THREE-PARAGRAPH blurb about Dr. Arthur Bosworth included among the city's 100 most eligible bachelors. The gynecologist "keeps himself busy skunk, playing racquetball, collecting wine, cooking and restoring his '68 Aston Martin."

The magazine's January issue singled out Bosworth as among the top 10 of the city's eligible men. It said he spends much of his time at tending the symphony, ballet, "and his favorite disco."

BOSWORTH'S ESTRANGED wife, Cynthia, subpoenaed magazine editor Thomas Shess Jr., who said Mrs. Bosworth apparently "believes I have information that would be valuable in convincing a judge that Arthur has a lot of money."

Shess called the subpoena silly and said the story itself was "a total lark." He said he didn't know Bosworth was in the process of a divorce but even so, "We never said eligible for what. We didn't even use the word bachelor."

BOSWORTH'S ATTORNEY noted in court that his financial declarations showed he spends only $100 a month on entertainment, certainly far less than a man-about-town would.

"Maybe he's very discriminating in the wines he drinks and the discos he frequents," Judge Browning replied, tongue in cheek.

Aid Softens Tragedy

LA PUENTE (AP) — "There are always others who care..." That phrase, from one of the many notes of hope being sent to the children of Jose Salcido, sums up the generosity and encouragement being offered the members of a family that has had more than its share of tragedy.

Jose Salcido died March 22 when his delivery truck rolled from where it was parked and crushed him.

HE LEFT 13 ORPHANS who already had lost their mother to cancer, a brother to drowning and another brother to the gunfire of a roving gang.

But a news story about the family brought scores of sympathetic calls, notes and letters — many with donations for the financially strapped family, said the oldest Salcido daughter, Gloria Salcido Vera.

"THE DAY AFTER my father was killed, a man came to our house after driving from Beverly Hills," she said. "He gave us $300. People have been so kind."

Sadly, one of the first uses for the money was for funeral expenses for Salcido. And on the way back from the services, the family pickup truck broke down.

Starvation Sickness Needs Psychotherapy

By DR. STEINCROHN

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Our daughter, who is only 22, was starving herself to death. I am not exaggerating. Our own doctor called it starvation sickness. She was a healthy, normal girl until her last year in college. When she came home for the Christmas holidays we could hardly recognize her. She had wasted away to only 75 pounds from about 120. Instead of allowing her to return to school, the doctor admitted her to the hospital. He could find nothing else physically wrong. He said it was an emotional illness. Now she is under the care of a psychiatrist. Her weight has gradually climbed back up to about 90 pounds. We're trying to find the explanation for it all. Can you help us? Mrs. E.

DEAR MRS. E.: If you had asked your doctor for the scientific definition of your daughter's illness it's likely he would have called it "anorexia nervosa." But starvation sickness describes it more vividly. I recall one young woman who actually starved herself to death. Be thankful that your daughter is responding to treatment. Most patients recover.

ONLY A VERY small percent of such patients are male. The girls come from middle or upper-income families and may be well-behaved, intelligent, and model children in every other way — except that they stubbornly refuse to eat enough to keep them from losing tremendous amounts of weight.

For some puzzling reason they develop a disturbing image of themselves and their body. Some think they are fat when they are actually becoming skin and bones. Their menstrual periods may stop; they become depressed or agitated; are anemic and complain of the cold.

AS IF THEY can't wait to lose quickly, many patients — in addition to starving themselves, take strong laxatives and induce vomiting. They want to be "super-thin."

In the process of losing, they put their lives on the line.

Be thankful that you have taken the right course, Mrs. E. Your daughter's improvement indicated that you faced up to her need of psychiatric care in time.

Learn how to stop short of fatigue, says Dr. Steincrohn in his booklet, "How To Live With Less Tension At Home." For a copy write to him at Box 1560, Costa Mesa 92626, enclosing 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Nuclear Scare Continues to Take Human Toll

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Mental health officials expect many of the people living near the Three Mile Island nuclear plant to seek psychiatric help in coming weeks. Many probably will suffer from anxiety, acute stress and acute depression, the experts say.

At least two persons already may "have become very depressed and possibly psychotic" as a result of the accident that damaged one of the plant's nuclear reactors, said Bob Davis, case work supervisor for the Dauphin County Crisis Intervention Program.

HUNDREDS HAVE CALLED THE CRISIS center since last Wednesday's accident — some from 20 miles away.

"Almost all have been people that we have never talked to before," Davis said.

About 45 percent were poor or old people without transportation who were concerned about the possibility of an evacuation, he said.

An equal amount, Davis said, "just needed reassurance that they would be kept informed, that what they were hearing... was accurate and that the government officials were concerned for their safety and not hiding something from them."

"RIGHT NOW EVERYONE'S VERY BUSY with their plans, what they're going to do," Davis said. "I think when this is over, then they're going to sit down and think about it — about what they went through, about what they could have gone through, about what could have happened."

Anne Marie Grayson, administrator of the North Dauphin Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center here, said the experience from past crises, such as the Hurricane Agnes flood in 1972, "is that we'll get the crunch immediately after the situation is over."

"Then I think a lot of people will be suffering from some form of anxiety," she said. "If their lives have been marginally adjusted, they may become agitated, worried. They may need to talk to someone to put their life back into some kind of a good perspective."

SHE SAID IT WAS IMPERATIVE that these people be told "that it's alright to be upset."

Although Mrs. Grayson said her center expected new patients, she said all inquiries thus far had been from those previously registered.

"Many of them called to say they were leaving. That says to us, 'Look out when they come back'," Mrs. Grayson said.

At the Harrisburg Hospital Mental Health Center, which covers the southern half of the county, Dr. Joseph Adlestein said, "Most experience in the mental health field is that people mobilize their resources within themselves and seem to handle their crisis fairly well during the times of acute stress."

Mesa Eyes West Side Redevelopment

Costa Mesa City Council members are giving serious consideration to establishing a redevelopment project area on the west side of town in a neighborhood bounded by Placentia Avenue, Hamilton Street, Pomona Avenue and 19th Street.

The council voted unanimously this week to have officials look into the possibility of setting up a redevelopment zone and the financial alternatives available to the city.

THE AREA in question is one of the older sections of Costa Mesa which has been rezoned in the past in hopes of prompting regeneration of the neighborhood.

The area covers about 75 acres and has a mixture of residential, industrial, commercial and institutional uses.

However, several property owners from the area warned councilmen Monday night not to equate quality with quantity of development.

One homeowner said strict quality controls on apartments would be necessary in addition to creation of a neighborhood park to improve the area.

JOHN REDFIELD, who owns property at 1916 Placentia, said he didn't want to see the area become a "high density ghetto" by having the city permit an increase in residential density in an already high density area.

He was referring to a part of a specific plan for the area that says incentives could be offered to encourage parcel combination for development because of small lots.

"If residential properties were combined in order to qualify for the highest density zoning possible, up to 1,130 units could be constructed," the specific plan says.

THE PLAN details improvement that can be made in traffic circulation, water facilities and housing.

"I don't think any of us want any more density than we have to," Councilman Donn Hall said.

Hall said he wanted to get more of a feeling from the residents of the area about how they would like to see changes made.

There is a long series of steps the city must take to set up a redevelopment zone. By June 4, the council must adopt a resolution designating a survey area or adopt one which delegates the designation of the survey area to the Commission or to the Redevelopment Agency.

HALL SAID the city needed to find a way to provide the area with a "little shot in the arm to help the west side on its way up."

The council will consider the specific plan for the area again in May.

Panel Approves Laguna Eatery

Plans to turn a dress shop across from Main Street Beach in Laguna into a fast food seafood restaurant were unanimously approved by South Coast Regional Commissioners.

Newport Beach resident Terrance Bane will pay the city $25,175 in parking fees to make up for a lack of parking, partly caused by an outdoor deck that will be built at the rear of the restaurant.

DURING THE commission's meeting in Huntington Beach, they increased the number of off site spaces he must pay for from 13 to 19. Each space costs $1,325 in one time payments to the city to help solve its parking problems.

Bane said he will spend another $125,000 to transform the "Purple Plum" clothing store at 329 Pacific Coast Highway into the "Laguna Bayou Seafood Company."

Commissioners agreed with Bane who said the quick food stand would benefit beachgoers at Main Street Beach.

THE DECK at the rear of the restaurant will measure 395 square feet, forcing the removal of two of the three private parking spaces now being used there.

Laguna Beach officials asked Bane to pay for 13 off-site parking spaces to meet customer needs, but the commission upped that number to 19.

10-kilometer Run Benefits Girls' Club

A 10 kilometer run to benefit the Girls' Club of Laguna Beach will be held Saturday in Laguna Niguel.

The 6.2 mile run begins at the Ziggurat building and winds through Laguna Niguel Regional Park and neighboring streets.

Registration cost is $5 before Thursday, and $6 between 7 and 8 a.m. race day. Fee includes a souvenir T shirt and refreshments.

The Spring Scenic Run begins at 8:30 a.m. at the Ziggurat parking lot on La Paz Road.

Holocaust Remembered

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has proclaimed April 28 and 29 — the 34th anniversary of the liberation of the Dachau death camp — as days of remembrance of victims of the Holocaust.

Calling for prayers and other appropriate observances, the president recalled that during his visit to Israel last month, he visited the Yad Vashem memorial to 6 million Jews and others murdered by the Nazis during World War II.

"I vowed then, and I repeat now, that the world must never permit such events ever to occur again," Carter said.

Vegetarian Diet 'Checks Disease'

CHICAGO (AP) — Diseases which cause the most deaths among the nation's children can be prevented by a vegetarian diet, says a California health authority. He says the diseases are coronary heart disease, strokes and other ailments related to clogged or hardened arteries.

Studies have shown that these diseases begin in infancy, says Dr. J. A. Scharffenberg, director of community health education at San Joaquin Community Hospital, Bakersfield, and associate professor of applied nutrition at Loma Linda University.

SCHARFFENBERG AND OTHER vegetarians have objected to reports published in the American Journal of Diseases of Children implicating some vegetarian diets in the development of rickets and other diseases of nutritional deficiency in children.

Alex Hershaft of the Vegetarian Information Service Inc., Washington, D.C., said the journal reports and news accounts "are grossly misleading and can pose a serious threat to public health."

He cites some of the same studies noted by Scharffenberg to substantiate his claim that vegetarian diets may be nutritionally adequate and healthy.

PAUL OBIS OF VEGETARIAN Times, New York, notes that vegetarian diets cover a range of practices. Some vegetarians consume milk and eggs and even fish while others consume only grains, fruits, vegetables and nuts. A small number consume only grain.

Scharffenberg presented a paper at the 1978 annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science putting forth the arguments for vegetarian diets and citing the health hazards of diets containing meats and animal fats, particularly in large amounts.

He said in response to the AMA publication that "recent scientific studies have demonstrated that a dramatic reduction in heart attack rates can be accomplished through vegetarianism."

A STUDY OF SEVENTH-DAY Adventist men who are strict vegetarians, eating no milk, eggs or meat, showed that they have only 23 percent of the expected death rate from coronary heart disease for men their age.

Those who use milk and eggs but no meat were found to have 40 percent of the expected rate, he said, while those who use meat have 64 percent of the expected mortality rate from coronary heart disease.

Scharffenberg said the most recent study of this group showed the rate for strict vegetarians to be only 12 percent of the expected.

MEMBERS OF THIS RELIGIOUS denomination also engage in other practices, such as not smoking, which are considered to be beneficial to good health and longer life.

Scharffenberg acknowledges that those on macrobiotic diets, in which only grains are consumed, risk disease because this diet is deficient in such nutrients as vitamins C and A.

It is possible, he said, for strict vegetarians who use no meat, milk or eggs, to do well with careful management of diet.

Coast Panel Mulls Map Revision

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH

Regional coastal commissioners want to redraw the map of land under their control in the coastal strip between Huntington Beach and San Clemente.

They decided Monday that they should take 22 acres of bluff land in Newport Beach and abandon control of all land east of the San Diego Freeway in San Clemente.

Still undecided are proposals to vacate commission control over portions of county territory in Capistrano Beach, Dana Point and Laguna Beach.

The commission also delayed action on plans to expand its control over marshlands near the UC Irvine campus and to release controls on five areas of Huntington Beach.

Other undecided proposals, including a county request that could free up to 5,000 acres of Aliso Viejo for land above Laguna Beach from commission control, have been held over for a special meeting in Huntington Beach April 18.

By city, the commission decided this week it should.

SAN CLEMENTE: Delete controls on a portion of acreage east of San Diego Freeway from El Camino Real south to the city limits.

That would make alignment of the freeway the coastal zone boundary for the entire city. Residents west of the freeway still would need permit approval from the commission for all new construction.

NEWPORT BEACH: The commission voted to bring 22 acres of land along Pacific Coast Highway between the Versailles development and Hoag Memorial Hospital into the coastal zone.

Citing potential view impacts from new construction and "the worst traffic problem in the city," the commission staff recommended the takeover of the vacant property which is owned by CalTrans.

Newport Beach Councilwoman Jackie Heather, a commission alternate, voted in favor of the move.

COSTA MESA: Four areas near the future site of Fairview Regional Park on the city's west side should be released from the coastal zone, the commission said.

The commission staff said the areas already were approved for their maximum development plans and there would be no further need for commission scrutiny.

The deleted areas include two properties near the end of Canyon Drive where construction is under way on an 83-unit condominium development, a nearby retail nursery, and parcels at the end of Republic Avenue and Gleneagles Terrace.

The regional commission's decisions on these additions and deletions will be forwarded to the state Coastal Commission for review. Action by the state Legislature is required before coastal boundaries can be altered.

By city, here are coastal commission proposals to be considered on April 18:

HUNTINGTON BEACH: The commission staff is recommending that five developed areas of the city be eliminated from the coastal zone.

However, the staff has rejected city requests that the Old Town Redevelopment area be excluded because "this area is subject to recycling pressures and contains significant low/moderate housing resources."

The staff also recommends an expansion of Huntington's coastal zone to include a "restorable" wetland area at the northeast corner of Beach Boulevard and Hamilton Avenue.

Homes in Huntington Harbour would be removed from coastal zone control with the exception of the first row of residences fronting the channels.

The nearly completed development on the east side of the dike separating homes from the Bolsa Chica State Beach lowlands would be eliminated from commission control, as would homes adjacent to Seacrest Country Club.

Remaining areas that could be deleted from commission control are homes north of the Talbert Channel between Magnolia Street and Hamilton Avenue, and the nearby Ring Brothers property near Brookhurst Street.

The rationale behind the commission staff's recommendation is that the areas already are developed and can be controlled by city ordinances.

IRVINE: The commission staff wants to expand its coastal boundary beyond Upper Newport Bay to include the San Joaquin Marsh off University Drive near UC Irvine.

The boundary would extend east from Campus Drive to Michelson Drive. The university and the Irvine Co. own the marsh, which the commission staff wants protected because it drains into the Upper Newport Bay Ecological Preserve.

There is commission concern over potential impacts of development on waterfowl and plant life in the marsh.

The staff has recommended that a completed industrial park at the intersection of MacArthur and Jamboree boulevards be eliminated from the present coastal zone. The industrial park was developed under commission guidelines.

LAGUNA BEACH: The commission staff has made no recommendation regarding a county request that up to 5,000 acres of Aliso Viejo Co. land east of Laguna be released from the coastal zone.

The request from the county's Environmental Management Agency (EMA) would shrink the present coastal zone up to two miles and free the land development company from any control by commissioners.

The company has won approval from Orange County Supervisors to build homes on a portion of its 6,023 acres near Laguna.

EMA assistant director Dick Munsell believes the county has included enough planning safeguards to protect the coastal area without the intervention of coastal commissioners.

LAGUNA NIGUEL/DANA POINT: Excluding the first row of commercial lots and one large vacant parcel on the inland side of Pacific Coast Highway, the commission staff would relinquish control over the inland area from La Primavera in Dana Point north to Niguel Road.

Vacant land bounded roughly by Pacific Coast Highway, Selva Road, La Cresta and Chula Vista would remain in the coastal zone as would all lots on the ocean side of Pacific Coast Highway.

The commission staff says the mostly developed inland areas are being served by county planning guidelines.

CAPISTRANO BEACH: The area west of the San Diego Freeway between El Camino Real on the north and Camino de Estrella on the south is now under coastal zone control.

Because the inland plateau area is about 94 percent developed, the commission is being asked to move the zone line towards the ocean along the general route of Camino Capistrano.

Blufftop parcels on the ocean side of Camino Capistrano should remain in the coastal zone because of "geological problems," according to the commission staff.

Mexico Diesel Fuel Price 'Fantasy'

REYNOSA, Mexico (AP) — The Texas woman whose husband regularly crosses the border to pay almost sinfully low prices for one of life's necessities talked as though she is engaged in international intrigue.

"The more said about it, the more chance they'll try to stop it," she said, asking not to be identified. "I think we should let a sleeping dog lie."

WHAT HER HUSBAND DOES — about twice a week — is cross the international bridge and drive to one of the seven service stations here that sell diesel fuel.

In the clear light of day and fully within the law, he pulls into one of the Pemex stations and fills the tank of his diesel automobile.

The fuel costs just over a peso a liter. That translates to the fantasyland price of about 16 cents a gallon.

"Oh, yes, it is a savings," she said, an understatement.

MATEO SALINAS, PRESIDENT of the local association of gas station managers, said the Mexicans don't mind selling the inexpensive diesel to U.S. customers as long as the visitors from across the river don't haul it away in oversized tanks.

Salinas said the nationalized oil industry in Mexico subsidizes diesel fuel to keep the price down. While prices for gasoline are about the same as across the border, the diesel fuel has remained at antique prices.

"Diesel moves the country," Salinas said. Indeed, Mexico is a nation that depends on its diesel-powered buses and trucks.

JOHNNY SALINAS, MATEO'S brother and partner, agrees. "If diesel goes up everything goes up."

The Salinas brothers said many U.S. citizens fill their diesel tanks here. Some are tourists headed south and others are regular customers who live in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas.

While the Mexicans do not resent pumping a tankful of diesel into U.S. passenger cars, they have taken steps to prevent big trucks from having a field day at the peso a liter pumps.

About a year ago the 100-liter per purchase limit was placed on U.S. vehicles.

"WE JUST DON'T HAVE THE capacity to supply all those trucks," one service station manager here said. "They used to come all night long."

He recalled that back when diesel was about 11 cents a gallon here he pumped 10,000 gallons of it in one night.

Mateo Salinas said some U.S. buyers were purchasing thousands of liters of diesel and reselling it across the border at large profits.

The Mexican diesel supply is also protected by the often-crowded bridges that span the Rio Grande.

DR. ANTONIO DIAZ, A BROWNSVILLE physician who owns a diesel car, said he would rather pay U.S. diesel prices than cross the border. He said diesel in Brownsville sells for about a nickel less than regular gasoline.

"I hate to go over there and wait 30 minutes at the bridge and another 30 minutes coming back. I'd rather pay the extra dollar or so and not waste the time," he said.

He recalled that when he first got the car he did make the crossing and paid less than a dime per gallon.

Dr. Adele Bromiley of Brownsville agreed her time is more valuable than a few dollars per tank. "My husband hates to go to Matamoros," she said.

SHE ADDED THAT SHE DEVELOPED some doubts about the quality of Mexican diesel after leaving a bucket of it out overnight. She said the fuel developed a "horrible dirty sludge."

Mateo Salinas agreed that the Mexican diesel is sometimes "heavier and dirtier" than the U.S. fuel.

Several U.S. diesel owners who fill up in Mexico said they keep a close eye on their engines for signs of the dirty fuel.

Saddleback Sets 'Awareness Day'

An assortment of discussion topics, a chance to take a walk blind and an opportunity to move through a wheelchair obstacle course will highlight Saddleback College's "Handicapped Awareness Day" April 16.

The program begins at 9:30 a.m. in the Fine Arts Theater with speakers discussing acts of blindness, deafness and impaired mobility.

At 11:30 a.m. the simulated experience portion of the day's activities begins with the obstacle course, blind walk and a seeing-eye dog exhibition at the bookstore quad.

'Monster' Hunters

Dolphins Susie and Sammy do a leap while training for possible camera search for Nessie, famed Loch Ness monster in England. The dolphins are being trained at the Theater of the Sea in Islamorada, Fla. Some controversy developed when it became known the dolphins were to be used in fresh water but a pen is being considered which would hold salt water to keep the dolphins safe and warm between sessions.

Aliso Beach Outfall Project Honored

The 8,300-foot ocean outfall off Aliso Beach has been named Engineering Project of the Year by the Orange County chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

The outfall, completed late last year, is the first part of a $50 million regional wastewater system being constructed by the Aliso Water Management Agency to serve homes in south Orange County.

The project was selected for its "outstanding" civil engineering achievement in both construction and design.

Lobster Thefts Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has confirmed it ordered a formal "pre-trial investigation," similar to a civilian grand jury proceeding, into allegations of lobster poaching by crewmen of the submarine rescue ship USS Petrel off Rhode Island last August.

The Navy said Cmdr. E. A. Hasselman, the Petrel's skipper at the time, and Lt. M. H. Tavares, its executive officer, were named as "parties to the investigation" and will be represented by military lawyers.

No other members of the Petrel's crew of 105 officers and enlisted men were so designated after informal investigations, the Navy said.

The inquiry will probe allegations that members of the Petrel's crew pulled a number of lobster traps aboard the ship and removed about 50 of the shellfish before dumping the empty traps back into the ocean, about 100 miles off the Rhode Island coast.

The traps reportedly belonged to Karl Ek, a fisherman from North Kingston, R.I.

Convincing Triumph For Merit 100's.

—National Smoker Study

Actually taste as good as—or better than—higher tar brands, majority of smokers say.

Does the 'Enriched Flavor'™ tobacco of low tar MERIT provide taste satisfaction in a greater length cigarette as well? Recent nationwide research confirms it.

Confirmed: Majority of 100's smokers rate MERIT 100's taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar 100's tested! Cigarettes having up to 70% more tar.

Confirmed: Majority of 100's smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT 100's.

And in interviews conducted among current MERIT 100's smokers:

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT 100's smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT 100's smokers not considering other brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT 100's smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

This ability to satisfy former high tar smokers over a long period of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is the first major alternative to high tar smoking.

Garvey: He Bends, but Never Breaks

Dodger Star Speaks Out on Highs, Lows of Baseball

By JOHN SEVANO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

PHOENIX Steven Patrick Garvey is truly a rare species in professional sports today. He's an All-American type who really believes in baseball, mom and apple pie.

This 30-year-old four-time Golden Glove winner has worked hard to maintain his image, both on and off the field, despite constant criticism by his teammates.

A MODEL OF CONSISTENCY, his emergence as a starter in 1975 has been a dream come true for the Dodgers. Five of the last six years he's carried a .300 average or better. He's won every MVP award conceivable and his public relations work for the club is unsurpassed.

He's clean, wholesome, honest. The kind of individual almost any parent would love to have their daughter marry.

And yet, despite all his success, Garvey isn't impervious to his share of problems.

A World Series championship has somehow eluded this All-star and Garvey didn't help his cause by hitting a paltry .208 in the Dodgers' 1978 battle with the New York Yankees.

HE OFTEN HAS BEEN criticized by his teammates, one incident leading to a much publicized fist fight with Don Sutton last year.

Nothing seems to faze Garvey though. His makeup is such that he bends, but never breaks.

In Arizona this week, Garvey talked candidly about his highs and lows, the World Series, his relationship with his teammates, and his future.

What has your winter been like?

"Each of my winters is basically hectic. They vary a little in as far as the things I do. I've always done a lot of speaking engagements, but this year I've done more lectures as far as college is concerned. I've been able to do a lot of residual work which is the benefit of playing in two World Series. I passed on the Superstars. I was Superstarred out. This year I forsake that to get more involved with the Olympic Development. I also got involved in a 22-part syndicated series dealing with our Olympic hopefuls. It's been very rewarding for me."

Were you tired of answering the question "What happened to the Dodgers in the World Series?"

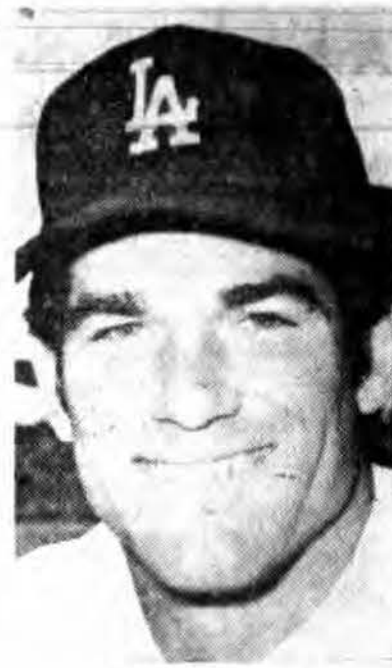

"During the first part of the winter the question isn't asked too often.

Then, in February, you begin to hear the question more and in May you hear it quite a bit. It dies down though by April 5 because people have other things to write about."

Are you tired of answering "What happened to Steve Garvey in the World Series?"

"There were a few and I answered them as truthfully as I could. They pitched to me very, very well the last three games of the series. I WAS hitting .333 then the last three games they pitched me very well. When I was hitting, it was at somebody. They mixed it up and more-or-less pitched around me to a point where I tried to make something happen. Again, I wasn't particularly pleased with my offensive performance. I gave it everything I had, but you

Tanana Faces Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Mariners, who hope to avoid the embarrassment of another last-place finish, meet the California Angels, who are determined to wrest the West Division title from Kansas City, in the 1979 American League opener tonight.

The Mariners will send righthander Glenn Abbott against the Angels' hard-throwing Frank Tanana and baseball's premier hitter, Rod Carew.

A CROWD OF 35,000 is expected in the Kingdome for the 7:35 game.

The 6-6 Abbott is intent on bouncing back from a 7-15 campaign last season. He says improved concentration will be the key.

"My concentration is better. It has to be for me to be able to win," said Abbott, who beat the Minnesota Twins 3-2 on opening night here last season.

Tanana, 18-12 in 1978, has never lost to Seattle. The lefthander is 5-0, including four shutouts, in two seasons against the Mariners. His nine-hit, 7-0 victory spoiled Seattle's debut in 1977.

Backing up Tanana's pitching will be the newest and richest Angel, Carew, the seven-time AL batting champion who was traded to California after 12 seasons with the Twins. The addition of Carew is a big reason the Angels figure they have a shot at winning their first AL pennant in 19 seasons.

THE ANGELS, who finished five games behind the Royals, should be one of the better hitting teams in the game with Carew, Don Baylor, Joe Rudi, Bobby Grich, Carney Lansford and Dan Ford. Ford was acquired from Minnesota to replace outfielder Lyman Bostock, who was shot to death in Gary, Ind., last September.

A year ago, after a 64-98 expansion season, Manager Darrell Johnson predicted the Mariners would win at least 75 games in 1978. But several key injuries and batting slumps by the club's four best hitters of the year before ruined all that.

This season he's vowed, "No more predictions." Instead, Johnson simply says, "It can't get any worse, can it?"

THE MARINERS do have some talented players. Julio Cruz, 24, led all major league second basemen in fielding last season and stole 59 bases in 69 attempts. Outfielder Leon Roberts batted .301 with 22 (See ANGELS, Page B2)

PERRY PITCHES AGAINST HOOTON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers begin their attempt for a third straight National League pennant and the San Diego Padres start what they hope will be their first year of serious contention in a 1979 baseball season-opener at Dodger Stadium Thursday at 1 o'clock.

Ageless Gaylord Perry, 21-6 last year and winner of the NL's Cy Young Award, hurled for the Padres against Burt Hooton, 19-10 in 1978 and runnerup to the 40-year-old Perry in the Cy Young voting.

A crowd of about 45,000 is expected. Veteran actor Cary Grant will throw out the ceremonial first pitch.

Roadies: America's New Cult

10-kilometer Events Turn Runners Into Racers

By ERNIE CASTILLO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

(Second of a Four-part Series)

A day at the races, a tradition as American as apple pie, has taken on a different look these days. No longer are the masses spectators, but participants. Instead of horses and cars, the new breed of racers are driving themselves.

It is the final evolutionary step of the craze that is sweeping the country. As more and more Americans become joggers, more joggers become runners and more runners develop into road racers.

UNTIL RECENTLY, only a small minority of runners could truly be called roadies. But their weekend fun runs have given way to 10-kilometer races. The hard-core runners have stepped up to the marathon (26.2 miles) and the ultimate is now the ultramarathon (62.2 miles) and 24-hour runs.

Road races have replaced the basic jog around the block as the "in" thing to do for the estimated 10 to 25 million Americans who have taken up running seriously. 10-K races are so commonplace, crowds are no longer measured by the hundreds but by the thousands.

Like most events, part of the intrigue at a road race is just being there. If running is, as some claim, a social event, then a 10-K race is a grand party.

FOR MANY, THOUGH, it is a typical family weekend excursion. Some husbands race with their wives, some fathers with their sons. The elite—the polished few that form the nucleus of the road running circuit—race against the half dozen in their class as much as they race against themselves and the clock.

Even for the non-runner, the scene is a sight to behold. The myriad of different colored shirts and shorts form a kaleidoscope at the starting line, where equipment and training tips are exchanged as freely as sewing circles swap recipes. Talk is of the weather, the newest Nikes or the personal record that got away.

Organizers offer group yoga stretching exercises while others seek solitude and meditate as part of their warm-up routine. There are people on their back, peddling their feet in the air, while others strain as they push against an immovable tree.

EVEN THOUGH the multitude is staggered so the fastest runners are at the front of the starting line, it usually takes several minutes before the back of the pack is on its way and the thick clump has thinned into a long ribbon.

But when it's all over, the last runner to limp across the finish line draws as much applause as the first one to speed by it. For there is a sense of camaraderie among runners that has no equal, a sense of closeness that comes from experiencing the same pain and joy etched on so many twisted faces at the chute.

Nowhere is the scene becoming as commonplace as in Orange County, where the climate and atmosphere qualify it as the newest running mecca of the U.S. During March, there were nine road races in Orange County, the biggest being a 10-K race in Irvine that attracted over 5,000 runners to usually placid Mason Park.

THEY CAME IN ALL shapes and sizes and for all reasons and excuses.

Bob Lee, for one, believes that the family that runs together stays together. When the 32-year-old businessman from Mission Viejo crossed the finish line, he was closely followed by sons Bobbie, 8, and Jeffrey, 6.

"We run together all the way," he beamed. "When I decided to start running, they said they wanted to join me. It's a good relationship. We train in the hills and it brings me closer to the boys."

"I could do this again next week," said Bobbie. "I love it. We talk and it

Lakers Shooting For Home Edge

CHICAGO (AP) — Be it ever so humble, the Los Angeles Lakers like to believe there's no place like home.

The Lakers, who already have sewn up a National Basketball Association playoff spot, are scrambling for enough victories to earn the home-court advantage when the playoffs begin. And Tuesday night, they won their 45th game of the season by scrambling from a 27-point deficit to edge the Chicago Bulls 97-95.

RESERVE FORWARD KENNY CARR scored seven crucial points in the final 3½ minutes to spark Los Angeles.

"Tonight, I did not concentrate on shooting, but on defense, because as Coach (Jerry West) pointed out, young players in the league should concentrate on other parts of the game to be a good player," said Carr, who hit the go-ahead basket with 43 seconds and finished with 16 points. "Our big game will come Wednesday night against Kansas City because we want that home-court advantage in the playoffs."

The Bulls, leading 61-34 early in the third period, went cold and the Lakers reeled off 11 straight points, ending the quarter 10 points behind 75-65.

WITH KAREEM ABDUL-JABBAR hitting hook shots, and Norm Nixon, who scored 21 points, and Jamaal Wilkes shooting well from the outside, the Lakers closed the gap to 87-79 with four minutes remaining.

"Yes, I outscored (Bulls' center Artis) Gilmore tonight and he missed a lot of shots, but I don't think it was my defense that did it," said Abdul-Jabbar, who finished with a game-high 27 points. "I think, rather, it was because he had an off night and he did not appear as strong as in other games."

"Even though I played all 48 minutes, I had saved something until the end in case we were going to go into overtime."

CONSECUTIVE BASKETS by Abdul-Jabbar, Wilkes and Carr cut the lead to two points before Reggie Theus gave the Bulls a four-point advantage, 89-85, by scoring with 3:49 remaining.

Carr's slam-dunk with 1:40 to go gave the Lakers their first lead of the night at 92-91, but Wilbur Holland's jumper gave the Bulls a one-point lead.

RELIEF AT LAST — The pained expression of an unidentified runner (left) sums up the agony of a 10-kilometer road race; the joy is symbolized by Bob Lee hugging sons Bobbie, 8, and Jeffrey, 6, after the Mission Viejo family's version of a weekend excursion.

A Capsule Report From the World of Sports

Babashoff's Old Nemesis Awaits U.S. Swimmers

From AP Dispatches

MIAMI — Shirley Babashoff expects big things from her successor as the great hope of the U.S. women's swimming Olympic team, but she warns that both the home pool Soviets and her old nemesis, the East Germans, will be hard to beat in 1980.

Babashoff, now 22, retired and married, set 15 world records during an 11 year career. As an eight time medalist in the last two Olympics and a Fountain Valley High and Golden West College product, she qualifies as an expert on the keys to Olympic success.

Since she began promoting a sleek new suit called the "Flyback" over a year ago, Babashoff has seen a lot of teen aged sensations Tracy Caulkins and Cynthia Woodhead.

"Tracy is just amazing," Babashoff said while on a swing through South Florida. "She has shown the best talent in years in American swimming. She's strong on many strokes, she's just tremendous overall."

Babashoff doesn't expect Caulkins, age, 15, to wilt in the Olympic pressure cooker.

"I think she's very, very dedicated to swimming. She is strong past her years both physically and mentally," she said. "She and Cynthia Woodhead and the others have been smashing American records all over the place. I would be surprised if they don't do well."

Babashoff said that when she went to the World Games last year, "I missed the competition, but I don't miss the training at all. I like sleeping. I don't miss swimming six hours a day, seven days a week."

Quote of the Day

Colorado Governor Richard Lamm, reacting to the University of Colorado's original intent to keep secret its deal with the New England Patriots: "I, like a lot of other Coloradans, was upset by reading the newspaper, thinking the citizens were being treated like mushrooms, kept in the dark and having a bunch of manure spread on us."

Bullets Favored to Win NBA Title

Looking for a good bet in the upcoming NBA playoffs? According to Harrah's Reno Race and Sports Book, one would be to take Washington over Seattle in rematch of the 1978 title series, won by Washington. The Bullets are 12-5 choices to repeat, just ahead of Seattle at 3-1. San Antonio is 7-2, Philadelphia 6-1, Phoenix 8-1 and Los Angeles 10-1.

Brett Vroman, the 7-0 center from Nevada-Las Vegas who transferred from UCLA, was signed by the Philadelphia 76ers. Vroman will report to the 1979-1980 training camp.

George Gervin scored 46 points to lead the San Antonio Spurs to a 116-112 victory over Cleveland Tuesday night.

Tom Owens scored 24 points including a five-footer over Jack Sikma with 36 seconds remaining to pace the Portland Trail Blazers to a rugged 106-102 victory over Seattle.

Tom Abernethy and Nate Williams carried the scoring load down the stretch for the Golden State Warriors as they beat Detroit Pistons, 104-100.

Elvin Hayes scored 29 and the Washington Bullets rallied behind Bob Dandridge and Kevin Grevey for a 112-108 victory over Milwaukee.

Spencer Haywood and Gail Goodrich scored 26 points each to lead New Orleans past Boston, 141-125.

Calvin Murphy scored 29 points and Houston reeled off nine points in a row late in the fourth quarter to defeat New York, 116-115.

Dan Issel pumped in 25 points and Bobby Wilkerson added 18 to lead Denver to a 110-97 win over New Jersey.

Dodgers Lose; Angels' Barlow Injured

The Los Angeles Dodgers dropped their fourth straight exhibition baseball game Tuesday as Ken Holtzman doubled in the second inning to drive in two runs to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 4-1 victory.

The Angels placed pitcher Mike Barlow on the 21-day disabled list due to a sprained ankle.

Bernie Carbo drove in two runs in the seventh inning to give St. Louis a 7-6 win over Cincinnati.

Ken Landreaux smashed a two-run homer for Minnesota in the first inning to launch the Twins to a 5-2 victory over Philadelphia.

Baltimore scored five times in the seventh, three on Billy Smith's home run, and defeated Texas, 6-2.

Pittsburgh, behind six shutout innings by Bruce Kison, stopped the New York Mets, 6-2.

Alan Trammell led a 15-hit attack as Detroit whipped Boston, 8-2.

Former Corona del Mar High star Matt Keough pitched three scoreless innings for Oakland in a 3-2 victory over Cleveland.

Tony Perez belted a home run and a triple to lead Montreal to a 7-5 triumph over Houston.

Jorge Orta slammed a pair of doubles and Ralph Garr collected two hits to boost his average to .432 to lead the Chicago White Sox past Atlanta, 6-1.

Outfielder Steve Kemp of Detroit was hit on the head by a pitch and carried from the field on a stretcher. He is in satisfactory condition.

Davis' Goal Sparks Penguins

Left wing Kim Davis, playing in his first National Hockey League game, scored the decisive goal at 8:58 of the third period to give the Pittsburgh Penguins a 3-2 victory over St. Louis Tuesday night.

Bill Harris, flat on his back after being tripped by an Atlanta defenseman, scored with 7:21 remaining, capping a New York comeback and giving the Islanders a 3-2 win over the Flames.

Captain Don Lever's power play goal in the first period and Jere Gillis' tie-breaking score in the second period gave Vancouver a 2-1 victory over Colorado.

Al MacAdam's goal 40 seconds into the third period gave Minnesota a 4-3 win over Chicago.

Confident Capitals Dominate

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Washington Coach Danny Belisle says the Capitals have a "contagious" disease that has given them an "emotional high" — it's called the winning bug.

The Capitals, coming off a surprising 6-4 victory Sunday over the Patrick Division-leading New York Islanders, scored a 6-2 National Hockey League triumph over the Los Angeles Kings Tuesday night.

"THEY DESERVE so much credit for the way they've been playing," Belisle said. "You lose two or three games and you start pressing. Things don't go your way and you can't get out of it. The same thing happens when you win."

"We feel so confident even being down 2-0. We've been down 2-0 before and started pressing, and then we're down 4-0. Confidence is such a thing when you see it, it's the only way to show them and the only way to get their confidence is by seeing the results," he added.

Charlie Simmer and David Taylor scored in the first period, giving the Kings a 2-0 lead.

THE CAPITALS dominated the next two periods, however, scoring six straight goals. Rolf Edberg scored twice and Blair Stewart and Paul Mulvey tallied once each in the second period. Then Jack Lynch and Dennis Maruk connected in the final period.

"The big thing in the last two games is that we're playing together," said Maruk, who had his 31st goal and two assists for a season's total of 89. "We've gotta show promise for next year."

Los Angeles goalie Ron Grahame said his team has the end-of-the-season plague.

"It's the end of the season and you know you've only got a couple games left. There's no pressure on you and you don't play as you usually do," Grahame said.

"You put the pressure on yourself by not getting points when you should. The Capitals have nowhere to go and some of those guys won't be playing here next year, but they played really well tonight," he added.

Odds makers Rate Phillies, Dodgers Even

RENO (AP) — Harrah's Reno Race and Sports Book has picked the New York Yankees as better than even money to take the American League pennant this year, but rates the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Philadelphia Phillies a tossup in the National League.

Harrah's revised league odds, issued Tuesday, make the Yankees 2-3 favorites in the American League. The Dodgers and the Phillies both are rated 2-1 in the National League.

The legal sports book puts the California Angels at 3-1 in the American League, followed by Kansas City at 4-1, Boston at 5-1, Milwaukee at 10-1, Texas at 20-1, Baltimore at 40-1 and Detroit at 50-1. Longshots are Cleveland at 100-1, Minnesota at 150-1, Oakland at 200-1, Seattle and Chicago at 300-1 and Toronto at 500-1.

In the National League, Harrah's makes the San Francisco Giants 7-2 to take the pennant, followed by Pittsburgh at 9-2 and Cincinnati at 5-1. San Diego and Montreal are in at 25-1, Chicago and St. Louis are 60-1, Houston is 75-1, Atlanta is 200-1 and New York is 300-1.

Some other new faces are likely to be at the game. The major league umpires have refused to work since the start of spring training in a demand for more money. The two major leagues had sought an injunction to get the umpires to return to work, but a judge said he had no authority to end the walkout since the umpires had refused to sign individual contracts for the 1979 season.

Unless the situation is resolved before the game, substitute umpires were to be called in to work the start of the season. The Northwest Umpires Association is expected to provide arbiters for the Seattle-California game.

RUNNING, RUNNING...

gives us a chance to get together."

ISADORE AND RUTH Smith, a middle-aged couple from Monterey Park, were competing in their first race and judging from their feelings afterwards, it won't be their last.

"Running keeps me young," said Ruth, 49. "It's something we can do together. We finished in 1:13, not what you would call sizzling but for us, it was a great time."

"I just wanted to enter a race," said Isadore, 55. "And for our first race, I'd say we did pretty good. We've run six miles before but this was a little rough."

"What's important is to do your own thing. The main object is finishing. That's the main satisfier."

KAREN SPEED, a 28-year-old piano teacher from Costa Mesa, was also running her first race as part of a Cal State Fullerton fitness class taught by Steve Rommel, 25. They were holding hands most of the race but expressed different feelings after the race.

"I'm glad it's over. I hated that sun," laughed Speed, struggling to catch her breath.

"It's a great way to express yourself," added Rommel. "It's really neat because you don't see any cigarette smoke out here. You get a lot of athletes together and you're bound to have a healthy environment."

DICK NEWELL of Los Angeles was one of those getting off on the environment. "This is healthy fun," says Newell, who has been running road races for 10 of his 42 years. "This is a social event. All the drunks go to bars and all the runners come here to have a good time."

"Me? I come down here to look at all the pretty girls."

For Edwina Hussman of El Monte, running is foremost in life. "I came here because I love it. Running comes before my husband and kids," said the 35-year-old.

"I enter races because the competition is challenging. I also forget all my problems when I run. It's like a tranquilizer."

Chipped in Hussman's neighbor, 42-year-old Yolanda Munoz. "My tongue is hanging down to my knee caps but I feel good. This is just the greatest natural high."

THERE WERE ALSO several serious runners in the crowd, including Irvine's Steve Scott, a world-class miler who ran to get in some mileage and competition at the same time and finished the 6.2-mile course in 29:48.

But as quick as his winning time was, the biggest cheers were for 13-year-old Tania Fischer, the top female finisher who was timed in 37:29.

"I just ran this one because I didn't have any AAU track meets this weekend," said Fischer, who has clocked 4:44 for 1,500 meters and 10:05 for the 3,000.

"They pushed me around a bit," she said of the older and larger males at the starting line. "I got shoved at the beginning so I didn't get a good start and didn't run as fast as I could have."

"But this was fun. They all are."

Rustlers, Bucs Roll To Wins

Orange Coast College mounted a 10-hit attack to beat visiting San Diego Mesa, 6-2, and Golden West nipped host Cypress, 5-4, but Saddleback was dealt an 8-3 loss at the hands of visiting Citrus in JC baseball action Tuesday.

Larry Dotson and Mike Soddors each unloaded home runs to pace the Orange Coast attack as the Pirates improved their South Coast Conference record to 5-2 (14-5 overall).

Dotson was two-for-three, scored twice and had two RBI. Soddors was two-for-four with three RBI and has now hit safely in 16 straight games.

FRESHMAN SOUTHPAW Gary Brahs limited San Diego Mesa to five hits and struck out six as he lifted his record to 4-1.

Soddors' fourth-inning home run enabled Orange Coast to overcome a 2-0 deficit. The blast to center field was Soddors' third homer of the season.

Golden West moved to within half a game of Cypress in the Southern Cal Conference race with its narrow victory over the conference leaders.

TIM INNES SLASHED a two-run double to highlight a four-run fourth inning for Golden West. Innes went three three-for-four.

Frank Meraz also swung a potent bat. He collected three hits in five trips to the plate and has now hit in 13 straight games.

Cypress didn't give up easily. It loaded the bases with two out in the ninth before a grounder to first ended the suspense.

Saddleback's Mission Conference record dropped to 5-6 as pitcher Mike O'Sullivan absorbed his second loss of the year.

Steve Carroll, Mark Stowell and Bruce Weiz each got two hits, but Citrus scored five runs over the last three innings.

Anteater Rally Too Much For Waves

MALIBU — Jim Dawson singled home Dennis Kause in the top of the ninth to break a 2-2 deadlock and give UC Irvine a 3-2 upset victory over host Pepperdine in a Southern California Baseball Association game Tuesday.

Pepperdine was riding a 12-game win streak going in and boasted a 28-6 record, while UCI entered with a 1-3 conference slate, 12-18 overall.

The upset was made possible when Eric Frolander singled home the tying run in the seventh inning. Mike Nagle, who was two-for-four, had singled in the first run back in the third inning.

Kause drew a walk to start the ninth, was balked to second, and Pete Bethea sacrificed him to third, setting up Dawson's game-winning hit.

Bob Frishette went the distance on the mound for UCI.

A 6-0 right-hander from Burbank, Frishette now has five victories on the season, surpassing his 1978 season total.

Giants Favored Will It Be Dodger Black and Blue?

By HAL BOCK

AP Sports Writer

Dodger blue could turn black and blue this season in the National League West.

The occasionally leaky Los Angeles infield was exposed in the World Series last October and the departure through free agency of pitcher Tommy John and handymen Lee Lacy and Bill North could put a dent in the Dodgers.

Add to that the ailing arm of reliever Terry Forster, who'll begin the season on the disabled list, and Manager Tommy Lasorda has some problems.

THAT'S GOOD NEWS up and down the California coast because both San Francisco and San Diego think they can overhaul the Dodgers.

Last in a Series who are shooting for a third straight NL West title.

The Giants spent a good chunk of last season leading the division before fading in September, and with one of the strongest starting pitching staffs in the league, they must be considered a contender.

San Diego has some of the best young talent in the league and may be ready to make a move. Cincinnati will be battling age and the absence of Pete Rose and Sparky Anderson, the heart and soul of the team. Houston and Atlanta bring up the rear.

1978 Finish — Los Angeles, Cincinnati, San Francisco, San Diego, Houston, Atlanta.

1979 Prediction — San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Cincinnati, Houston, Atlanta.

LASORDA, THE ETERNAL optimist, figures a couple of pitching retreats, Pete Broberg and Andy Messersmith, will replace John's 17 victories for Los Angeles. Until Forster is 100 percent, the bullpen will be in the hands, or rather knuckles, of Charlie Hough. Lacy's utility role goes to Derrel Thomas, who came over as a free agent, while Gary Thomason or Von Joshua replace North as the extra outfielder.

Don Sutton and Burt Hooton are Lasorda's top starters with Doug Rau, Rich Rhoden and Bob Welch right behind. Whatever help Messersmith and Broberg can contribute will, of course, be welcome.

LASORDA HAS HIGH HOPES for 1979. "We're looking forward to bringing Los Angeles another National League pennant but we're also going to bring home a World Championship," the manager said.

The San Francisco Giants, the Dodgers' neighbors to the north, have other ideas. Manager Joe Altobelli loves his pitching and most pilots would.

"When you can select a starter from the ranks of Vida Blue, Bob Knepper, John Montefusco and Ed Halicki, you're in pretty good shape," said Altobelli. Knepper is the only one of the four without a major league no-hitter to his credit.

Gary Lavelle and Randy Moffitt handle the Giant bullpen with help from John Curtis.

THERE ARE SOME POTENT bats in Altobelli's lineup, led by outfielder Jack Clark and (See DODGER, Page B3)

Vikes Make Most of Three Hits, Stun Barons

Marina High knocked Fountain Valley out of a first-place tie in the Sunset League baseball race Tuesday night as the Vikings scored a 3-2 upset over the Barons at Mile Square Park.

Marina scored three runs in the second inning, two of them unearned, and pitcher Bob Judge made them stand up.

FOUNTAIN VALLEY outthrew Marina 6-3 and got a leadoff triple by Kevin Romine in the sixth while trailing, 3-2. But Romine was doubled off third on the subsequent play, and the Barons were unable to cash in the tying run.

Romine and John Devich each got two hits but Fountain Valley couldn't put them together at the right times, and the Barons' three errors proved costly.

Marina's three-run rally came with the benefit of only one hit, a single by Jim Warburton. Contributing to the rally were two errors, a walk and a sacrifice bunt.

In other baseball action Tuesday:

Westminster 8, Newport Harbor 5

Chris Johnson hit a three-run homer for Newport Harbor but Westminster struck for five runs in the top of the last inning to erase a 5-3 Sailor lead in the only other Sunset clash.

Like Marina, Westminster was able to capitalize on errors to pull out victory. Newport Harbor committed two errors, one walk and one wild pitch in the disastrous seventh inning.

Dana Hills 18, Laguna Beach 6

In the South Coast League battle to see who stays in the cellar, Dana Hills clobbered Laguna Beach by turning 12 hits and four Laguna errors into 18 runs.

The Dolphins and Artists entered the game with identical 1-5 records, but Dana Hills wasted no time in taking the initiative. It scored nine times in the first three innings.

Third baseman Bob Brown was the defensive star with several sparkling plays, while Brian Kinney led the offense. Kinney knocked in three runs with two singles.

Los Alamitos 8, Ocean View 5

Kevin Olson and Mike Moore each hit a two-run homer to help Los Alamitos drop Ocean View's Empire League record to 0-6.

"We had plenty of opportunities but we just came up short," said Seahawks Coach Bill Gibbons. "A couple of bad pitches meant the difference."

Liberty Christian 6, Inland Christian 3

Ken Parker struck out 11 and carried a no-hitter through six innings before tiring in the seventh as Liberty Christian defeated Inland Christian in a Christian League game.

DODGER BLACK? . . .

second baseman Bill Madlock. Outfielder Terry Whitfield is a consistent hitter and Mike Ivie at first base and Darrell Evans at third are long ball threats.

"I feel we have the talent to record an additional six or seven victories," said Altabelli. "Combine that with the other changes in your division and I think that could make us a pennant winner in 1979."

Those other changes, besides John's departure from the Dodgers, involve Cincinnati's loss of Rose and dismissal of Anderson. Around the NL West, the consensus of opinion is that the Reds just won't be the same without them. Don't tell that to Manager John McNamara though.

"YOU LOOK AND LOOK for a job like this one and then, all of a sudden, there it is," he said. "I know there are some problems that have to be solved. If there were no problems, I wouldn't be here."

The No. 1 problem, of course, is finding someone to replace Rose at third base. The top candidates are Ray Knight and Harry Spilman. But if he gets depressed, McNamara can always look at the rest of the Reds' lineup.

"It is certainly a comforting feeling for me to know that Johnny Bench is going to be my catcher, that George Foster and Ken Griffey are going to be in the outfield, that Joe Morgan, Dave Concepcion and Dan Driessen are going to be in the infield and that I've got a man like Tom Seaver ready to pitch."

What might be less comforting is the fact that of that group, only Driessen and Griffey are under 30. Also the pitching after Seaver is slim, as usual for Cincinnati.

SAN DIEGO'S WINTER TRADE of Oscar Gamble to Texas for Mike Hargrove helped straighten out a couple of problems for the Padres. First of all, Hargrove is an accomplished first baseman and a solid hitter whose bat helps the attack. And the deal opens an outfield job for Jerry Turner, who joins Dave Winfield and Gene Richards to give San Diego three talented flycatchers.

Ozzie Smith, runnerup in the rookie of the year balloting, is the shortstop, with Bill Almon at second base and rookie Barry Evans penciled in at third. Gene Tenace is the catcher with Cy Young Award winners Gaylord Perry and Randy Jones the key pitchers.

GARVEY GIVES VIEWS. . .

have to give credit where credit is due, the Yankee pitchers did a fine job.

Many claimed that Graig Nettles' play in the third game was the turning point in the Series. Don't you feel Steve Garvey's and Reggie Smith's (200 average) sub-par performances were the main keys?

"Most definitely. When you talk about keys, it's tough to talk about one specific play. I think if there was one key play it was Reggie Jackson's in the fourth game that was the turning point. I know both Reggie and I would have liked to have done better, but I also know we gave it all we had. For some reason, it just wasn't in the cards. Maybe they had a little bit more destiny on their side than we did."

How has what's happened the past two World Series affected you and the rest of the ball club?

"I know it hasn't affected me and I don't think it's affected the ball team. We've had excellent seasons the last two years and you just can't write off 165, 166 games because of a World Series and what happened. Of course, that's the ultimate of a team sport, to win a world championship. And I know each and every player is hungry to win that. But then again, you just can't throw away a season because of a World Series."

The Dodgers this season, more than any other, have gone through some drastic changes. Tommy John is in New York, Bill North is with San Francisco and Lee Lacy is playing at Pittsburgh. In their place the Dodgers have acquired Andy Messersmith, Pete Broberg, Gary Thomasson and Darrell Thomas. Has everything evened itself out, or is that something you won't know until you're in to the season?

"In this situation you have to use as much foresight as possible, but Tommy John is going to be a tough person to replace. I think Andy Messersmith can fill that void. I think the void left by Lee Lacy and Bill North have been capably replaced. I feel we have a stronger bench now, hopefully our pitching can remain the same."

What goals are left for you to accomplish?

"Well, I really don't like to go out and set too many goals. I strive to maintain consistency. I just strive for the same effort and I feel the awards will fall into place. I think if I had one wish it would be to stay healthy and be able to play every day. I feel very confident in doing the same things I've done for the past five years."

How much longer do you want to play?

"Well, we're in '79 and I still have four years left on this contract. I imagine I would sign one more. I'm 30 now and I feel in as good a shape or better than any of the other previous years. I'll continue to play until I can't live up to the expectations of the people."

In other words, Steve Garvey won't be a hanger-on?

"No. I've got too much pride and I'll know at the right time when I should step on to my next career."

Have you ever thought, with the escalated salaries nowadays, how much you would bring in on the open market?

"Yes. It's always interesting food for thought. It would be more interesting for you to speculate what my statistics and consistency, and what I've done from a team standpoint, would compare with the other people. I can't tell you I'm making a good salary and income now."

Your image is one that kids idolize and get some of your teammates criticize. Have the incidents you've had with them been forgotten?

"I think it's only human nature not to totally forget. I think our memories dull, but we learn through the years. To use the word forget is an all encompassing thing which means we forget what we've learned, too. I've learned from the experiences I've had. I've grown and I think I've become a more rounded person. I don't want to forget completely, either because maybe I'll be able to help somebody in a similar situation."

What has been in the game of baseball meant to you?

"It's like a dream come true, especially with my background of being a Brooklyn Dodger fan. I feel it's great to be playing with the Dodgers and playing the position of a man I've always idolized — Gil Hodges. And there's a lot of satisfaction in doing something well. I feel everybody wants to do well in something. It's been very satisfying, not only to do something well but to be able to deal with the people as a residual of that."

Would you like to end your career with the Dodgers?

"Oh yes. I think for anybody it would be nice to start and end a career in the same place. I think that way somebody can develop not only as a player but as a person, too. The last couple of years I've been able to build a strong relationship with the people in the front office and, at the same time, develop my skills. It's been a nice way to mature and grow and I hope it can keep going another seven or eight more years."

Tritons Outlast Laguna

San Clemente High's Tritons, ranked No. 1 in Orange County and No. 1 in the CIF Southern Section, were extended to five games Tuesday night by South Coast League rival Laguna Beach before leaving with a 15-8, 15-13, 7-15, 13-15, 15-10 decision.

The Tritons brought a 25 game winning streak into the match before Laguna Beach stopped the streak with a victory in the third and fourth games.

San Clemente's starting setter, Brian White, was out of the lineup with illness, forcing Tony McGraw, normally a power hitter, into service as a setter.

McGraw's performance helped the Tritons overcome Laguna Beach, a two-time CIF champion, but in the rebuilding stages this year after losing three All-CIF stars to graduation.

The victory gives San Clemente a stranglehold on the South Coast League leadership.

The big battle in the Sea View League involved University and Corona del Mar and it was University, which trailed 14-12 in the final game of the match, winning it behind the setting of Jim Hooper and Scott Richardson.

Hidden Fact: Market's Up

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

You may not have noticed it, but stocks are up this year. Shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange rose 10.5 percent through March. American Stock Exchange shares rose 18.5 percent.

You may not have noticed because, as Merrill Lynch points out, 45 percent to 50 percent of the investment services have been bearish through much of the period. But there are other reasons too. Many

MID-EAST DISCORD was interpreted as negative for the market. So was China's Vietnam offensive. And the acceleration of inflation. And the failure so far of the guidelines. And the oil and nuclear setbacks.

Market activity itself might have given a negative impression. The big mutual funds accumulated cash rather than stocks. And many individuals did too, they stored more than $13 billion in money market funds.

Still, as Interactive Data Corp. found in a computer analysis, those first quarter gains on the two major exchanges were bigger than for all of 1978, when prices rose, respectively, 5.4 percent and 17.3 percent.

The over the counter market also fared well, with gains averaging 15.3 percent for the first three months of the year, just slightly below the 15.9 percent increase for all of 1978.

OF COURSE YOU can go too far with these statistics. Yes, they do show that the first quarter outperformed all of last year, but you cannot forget that the stock market is always an up-and-down affair.

Last year, for example, wasn't a poor market year at least until the final quarter. Then prices dipped sharply, setting the stage for this year's first-quarter upturn. The two moves offset each other.

Still, the latest move is the one that carries hopes with it, and a lot of people have their hopes up.

If the market could advance against such odds, they say, it must be built on a solid base.

WRIGHT INVESTORS

Service believes the strength reflects feelings that a moderation of inflation and interest rates will accompany an economic slowdown and prove beneficial to stocks later this year.

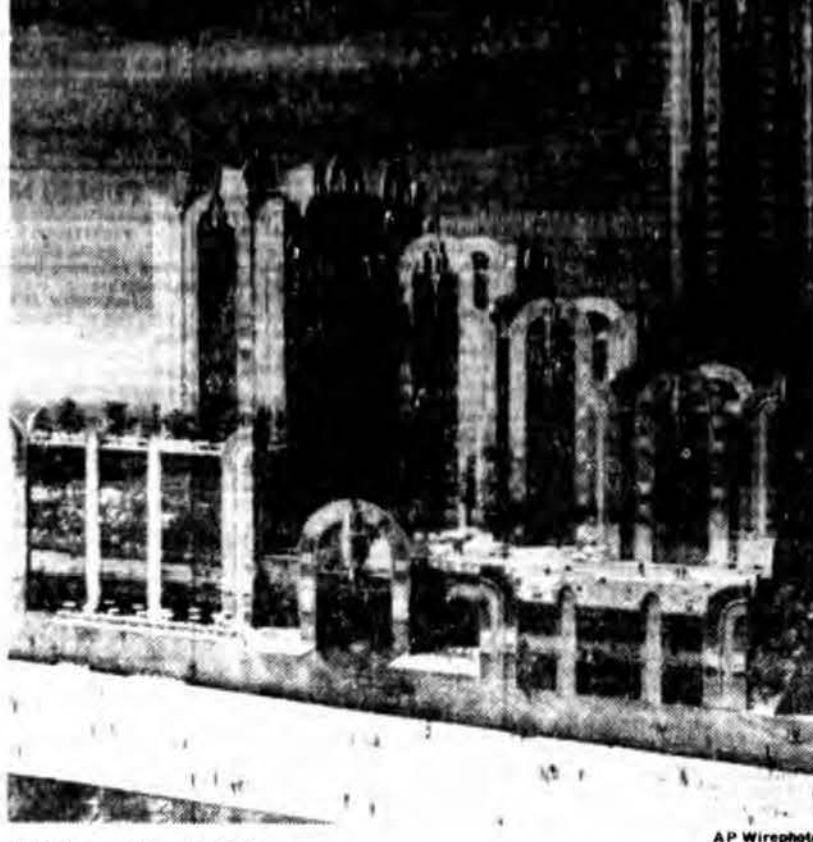

Agreeing, other analysts point to the bullish potential of those billions that individuals hold in money market funds, plus more billions that mutual funds have yet to commit to stocks.

There is little doubt that the strength of dividend growth, and the current levels being paid, have had a positive impact on prices. Some shares, including those of General Motors, pay in double digits.

WITH PRICES

considered low in relation to earnings, and with dividends high enough to nearly negate the impact of inflation, many investors seem to have concluded that market risk is relatively low.

Is their assessment correct? Or are they over-discounting the potential of the oil shortage, inflation, mid-east discord, the nuclear breakdown, big debt, the upcoming downturn, bearish analysts.

It's Not Vegas

Achieving what architects say is a break from the "Las Vegas" style, operators released this drawing of the proposed Ritz Hotel and Casino to be built at Atlantic City.

AFS Reports Gains

Avco Financial Services Inc., Newport Beach, has reported record operating results.

The company attributed results to continued consumer loan demand, lower credit losses from its consumer loan activities, increased written premiums and higher investment income from insurance operations.

NET RECEIVABLES increased 18 percent to $2.6 billion from $2.2 billion in the first quarter of last year. The volume of business was $434.8 million in 1979, compared with $376.3 million in the first quarter of 1978.

While receivables have been increasing, collection ratios continue to run at satisfactory levels, the company said. Earnings of the Paul Revere Life Insurance Co. and the Avco Financial Insurance Group are included.

CONSOLIDATED earnings totalled $22.4 million, including foreign exchange losses of $2.5 million, up from $21.5 million in the first 1978 quarter.

Savings Rates

Alternates Offer Higher Interest

If you have idle cash in a regular passbook savings account, you are losing buying power rapidly.

The inflation rate is way above the fixed maximum interest rate that financial institutions can pay regular savings account customers. The rate is nearly 100 percent below what you can earn by investing savings in such market-sensitive instruments such as U.S. Treasury securities and money market mutual funds.

THE LARGEST MONEY MARKET FUNDS are yielding an average around 9.9 percent; U.S. Treasury notes that mature in four years pay around 9¼ percent annually.

This discrepancy has sparked debate in Washington on whether and how to change federally imposed interest-rate ceilings.

"The whole regulatory structure has been outpaced by the market," said Lawrence Connell, head of the National Credit Union Administration. "The problem is devising a new formula that results in a gradual, not radical, shift of funds into higher yielding accounts."

UNDER THE BANNER, "SAVINGS deposits may be hazardous to your wealth," the Gray Panthers, a group of elderly activists, have proposed that small depositors be permitted to earn market rates on their funds and that the minimum deposit required for purchase of short-term certificates (returning roughly 9.5 percent) be lowered from $10,000 to $500.

But small depositors need not wait until changes have been instituted to earn more than the regular passbook rate.

Here is a rundown on two alternative investments.

(1) MONEY MARKET FUNDS. There are 50 of these funds in operation. It takes as little as \$1,000 to buy a variety of short-term and high yielding money market instruments. Many offer check writing privileges. Most impose a management fee of about $\frac{1}{2}$ of 1 percent on their total assets.

The Investment Company Institute, 1775 K St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, and United Mutual Fund Selector, 212 Newbury St., Boston, Mass. 02116 will provide lists of funds.

(2) U.S. Treasury notes: If you have at least $1,000 in cash, you can earn 9 percent a year or more by buying a four-year Treasury note. Interest is exempt from state and local taxes. Note maturities range from two to 10 years, with the short-term issues usually requiring higher minimum deposits (generally $5,000).

Stock Market Rally Gathers More Steam

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market chalked up another gain in heavy trading today, extending the rally it began Tuesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 13.08 points Tuesday, added 1.47 to 869.80 today.

Confrontation

Darlene Carr, right, who portrays an unmarried mother on "Miss Winslow and Son," confronts her straight-laced aunt, played by Irene Tudrow, in tonight's episode at 8:30, Channel 2.

High Court Axes Cable Timetable

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's cable television industry is free to develop at its own pace, spared by the U.S. Supreme Court from meeting government deadlines for lending part of its operations to the public.

The high court ruled that the mission exceeded its authority three years ago when it confronted cable TV operators with broad, new requirements that Federal Communications Commission included setting aside channels for public access.

UNLESS SPECIFICALLY ordered by Congress, the FCC can not require such channel set-asides, the justices said by a 6-3 vote.

The 1976 rules broke down into three related categories:

Cable systems with 3,500 or more subscribers had to have the capacity by 1986 to provide 20 television channels.

Such systems would have to designate four channels for public, governmental, educational and leased-access, respectively.

Each system with 3,500 or more subscribers would have to make available "equipment for local production and presentation of cable-cast programs."

Barrio's Patrols Increased

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the wake of a controversial movie about Mexican-American gang violence, police have more than doubled their patrols along Whittier Boulevard, a popular barrio thoroughfare where thousands of teen-agers gather to see and be seen.

And officers say the increased show of force is paying off.

MUCH OF THE movie "Boulevard Nights" was filmed along Whittier Boulevard, where barrio youths congregate to meet girls and show off their cars. But the tension and violence of gang activity is never far below the surface.

At least 10 persons — including two Marines attacked with a tire iron and ax — have been injured in shootings or stabbings following showings of the movie, and several theaters have hired armed guards to protect patrons.

"The Boulevard has never died down, really," said Capt. Kenneth Smith, commander of the East Los Angeles sheriff's substation.

BUT HE SAID increasing the routine weekend patrol force on the street from six or eight to about 18 had produced results.

'Holocaust' Use Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. did not violate the fairness doctrine in its broadcast of the miniseries "Holocaust," the Federal Communications Commission says.

The FCC turned aside a complaint that the network unfairly portrayed "a controversial issue of public importance" in its series on the extermination of six million Jews during World War II.

Freidrich P. Berg, corresponding secretary of an organization calling itself the Ridgewood Group, alleged the fairness doctrine required the network to present the viewpoint that there "did not exist a German policy of extermination during World War II."

'Mork' Stars As 'Popeye'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Well, blow me down! That man from Ork, Robin Williams, is going to play "Popeye" in the movies.

Williams, the star of ABC's "Mork and Mindy," will play the sailorman in the movie for Paramount beginning in January.

Jules Feiffer wrote the script, adapted from the famous comic strip. Robert Evans will produce.

She's Doing It All

Film, Stage, Recording Star Tries Vegas

By PATRICK ARNOLD

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Rita Moreno has pretty much done it all in show business, winning an Oscar, an Emmy, a Grammy and a Tony. Why then, would she want to create a nightclub act and go into a different facet of the business?

"It's certainly not for money," she says. "It's to feed my soul."

"It's the only place where you can do an act that is really you, it's the essence of you, whatever you think that is. That's what's scary about it, when you haven't done it before, because you're saying, 'This is me, I hope you share my vision.' It's very frightening," she said of the night club stage.

Star Rita Moreno

"IT'S A VERY naked place, the nightclub, more than any other experience I've ever had, because you really are presenting yourself."

Miss Moreno, 47, made her Las Vegas debut at the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel recently, doing a 35-minute stunt as the opening act for headliner Bill Cosby.

done this act for blue-collar workers... They stood up. Now you can't get less sophisticated than that."

Miss Moreno, who lives in Los Angeles with her physician husband, turned to night clubs last year and has contracts with a number of clubs, both here and in a half-dozen other cities.

"I was scared to death on the opening night," she said of her first appearance with the act in Denver. "You are so alone — you don't have a playwright to help you. There's no potted palm in the world that's going to replace a solo performer."

EVENTUALLY, SHE said, she hopes to do a one-woman show in concert, and "for two solid hours sing all the songs I've ever loved."

In addition to the Oscar for her role as Anita in "West Side Story," Miss Moreno received the Tony in 1955 for her comic Googie Gomez — "She can't do anything right, but she does it with such panache" — in "The Ritz."

The Grammy came for her 1972 performance on "Electric Company Album." Her first Emmy was in 1977 for a variety appearance on "The Muppets," while the second came last year for a dramatic appearance on "The Rockford Files."

A native of Puerto Rico, Miss Moreno moved to New York when she was 5 and by the time she was 17 she had appeared on Broadway and was signed to a motion picture contract.

She opened with "Something's Coming" from the film "West Side Story," which won her an Oscar as best supporting actress in 1962. Following with a medley from "I Love My Wife," she made good use of three supporting dancers, the stage and the lighting. She switched to a stool and pinpoint spot for a torchy version of "Happiness Is Just A Thing Called Joe."

THE ACT IS very sophisticated, perhaps too much for the varied audiences attracted to the Las Vegas clubs.

Not so, she said. "We have

NBC Gets Rating Boost But Still Lags

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC got a boost from a basketball game and a repeat broadcast of "Jesus of Nazareth," but it was hardly enough to push the troubled network out of the ratings cellar. Figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. for the week ending April 1 show.

NBC dipped to a season's low two weeks ago, and since then has managed to regain some lost ground — from a rating of 13.6 to 14 last week and now 15. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute last week, 15 percent of the homes in the country with TV were tuned to NBC.

There is still plenty of distance between NBC and frontrunner ABC — and No. 2 CBS, for that matter. ABC's rating for the week was 20.2, with CBS just over a point behind at 18.9.

An estimated 18 million people watched Michigan State defeat Indiana State in the NCAA championship basketball game.

Maestro Ormandy To End 44 Years

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Eugene Ormandy, 79, has asked to be relieved of his post as music director of the Philadelphia Orchestra at the end of the 1979-80 season.

The maestro said he will end his 44 year term at an August concert at Saratoga, N.Y., in 1980.

"After my 80th birthday season I have agreed to participate in a number of weeks of subsequent Philadelphia Orchestra seasons and will appear with other orchestras in the United States and abroad," Ormandy said Tuesday.

The orchestra's board of directors, acting on Ormandy's advice, already has been in discussion with principal guest conductor Riccardo Muti, the first to hold his title and "their apparent" to Ormandy's baton.

IF YOU ARE STILL SMOKING...

Schick has helped over 50,000 people to become non-smokers. We're so sure of the effectiveness of our stop smoking method that we actually guarantee you will stop smoking in five days after starting our program. With over 35 permanent centers nationwide you can be sure we're always there to back our guarantee.

WHY DO OTHER STOP SMOKING PROGRAMS FAIL?

Other stop smoking programs spend most of their time trying to TALK you out of your habit. After $6 million invested in research on the formation and control of habits, Schick pioneered and developed the only method which works on the source of the problem, the subconscious memory.

Notice how you feel when you smoke. There are external 'touch' sensations when you pick up a cigarette, and internal 'feel' sensations when you take a drag. In time these sensations program your subconscious memory, the same way you learn by repetition how to play tennis or drive a car. Try changing your tennis game by just talking about it.

Remember, touch/feel sensations, the strongest of the senses, caused your smoking habit. Habits caused by these touch/feel sensations can not be changed by talk.

"Schick Avoidance Conditioning is not a speculative method. It's effective."

tiveness can be demonstrated and duplicated repeatedly. This is the most predictable method for changing habits."

Dr. Alton Ochsner, former President, American Cancer Society

Many corporations have invited Schick to institute programs for their employees (a partial list):

Borough's Corp. Pasadena Fire Dept.
FMC Corp. L.A. Water and Power
U-Haul Corp. Home Savings & Loan

Recipes for a Sweeter Passover

Food for 'festival of festivals'

Spring marks one of the most joyful holidays on the Jewish calendar — Passover, or Pesach, a word sometimes translated as "festival of festivals."

Celebrating the liberation of the Israelites from bondage in Egypt, it is a time of great warmth and hospitality.

SINCE Passover lasts for eight days, there is ample opportunity to enjoy entertaining family and friends. And on occasions from the ceremonial Seder to the many casual visits exchanged during the season, food has a prominent place in the celebration.

Invite guests to share a convivial evening in your home.

Along with a steaming pot of tea and cups of rich coffee, serve our marvelous desserts and then savor the gusto with which friends fork in.

ACTUALLY, our Passover Grapefruit Latkes may also be offered as a luncheon main dish, so satisfying they are. Although latkes are traditionally made with potato meal, these lovely little pancakes call for matzoh meal, which has special significance on the holiday that commemorates the flight of the Israelites before their leavened bread had time to rise.

That's not the only difference, though. Bite into the latkes and you'll find ground nuts and a remarkable flavor that comes from the Florida grapefruit juice used as the liquid in the batter.

TOP THEM with Spicy Grapefruit Sauce, golden fresh citrus sections shimmering in a lively syrup.

We doubt that there will be many left over, but if there are, they may be reheated and enjoyed for breakfast the next day.

The busy host or hostess might also prepare the latkes ahead and reheat them just before serving to save time better spent with guests.

Equally festive are our Passover Orange Fritters. Many Jewish people cherish childhood memories of the fresh whole oranges served at the holiday, and these treats are likely to evoke future nostalgia in today's children.

Fresh orange sections wrapped in a crisp sweet batter, then honey dipped or sugar-dusted, the fritters may well become the newest Passover tradition in your home.

PASSOVER ORANGE FRITTERS

3 eggs, separated
3 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup matzoh cake meal
1 cup Florida orange juice
3 Florida oranges, peeled, pulled apart in sections with membrane
Vegetable oil for frying
Confectioners' sugar or honey
In medium bowl, beat egg yolks with rotary beater until light. Beat in sugar, cinnamon and salt.
Add matzoh cake meal alternately with orange juice, beating until smooth.
Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry; beat 1/4 of egg whites into yolk mixture fold remaining whites into batter.

For a sweeter Passover, try chocolate Fruit-Nut Balls made with pure peanut oil.

Dip orange sections, one at a time, into the batter.
Heat 2 inches oil in saucepan or deep fat fryer. Drop orange sections in hot fat (325 F.). Brown on all sides, about 4 minutes. Repeat until all batter and oranges are used. Drain on paper towel.
To serve, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar or dip into honey, if desired. Yield: 30 fritters.

PASSOVER GRAPEFRUIT LATKES

4 eggs, separated
1/4 cup matzoh meal
1/4 cup chopped almonds, walnuts or pecans

1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup Florida grapefruit juice
Vegetable oil for frying
Spicy Grapefruit Sauce
In small bowl, beat egg yolks with rotary beater until very light. Mix together matzoh meal, nuts, sugar and salt.

Add the dry ingredients alternately with the grapefruit juice to the beaten egg yolks; beat until smooth. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; fold into batter.

In large skillet heat 1 tablespoon oil. Drop batter by spoonfuls into skillet. Fry on one side until lightly brown, turn and brown other side.

Drain on paper towel. Serve with Spicy Grapefruit Sauce. Yield: 24 Latkes.

SPICY GRAPEFRUIT SAUCE

1 cup Florida grapefruit juice, divided
1 tablespoon honey
1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 tablespoon potato starch
1 Florida grapefruit, peeled and sectioned
In small saucepan, combine 3/4 cup grapefruit juice, honey and cinnamon; bring to a boil. Dissolve potato starch in remaining 1/4 cup grapefruit juice; add to saucepan.
Cook, stirring constantly until mixture is clear and slightly thickened. Remove from heat, add grapefruit sections. Yield: 1 1/2 cups.

PLEASANT MEMORIES:

Fragrance of Jewish Kitchen

The fragrance of a Jewish kitchen before Passover is one of the pleasantest of memories. There is wine to be made, ...russell, the special Passover vinegar made from beets must be started, ...and meals for the eight days of Passover must be planned.

Each family has its own favorite recipes which have been passed down from generation to generation.

PASSOVER MENUS are unique in that no form of leavened bread may be consumed. Creative Jewish cooks use matzo, matzo meal and potato flour to replace the usual wheat flours.

Eggs replace baking powder, baking soda or yeast as leaveners in Passover recipes. Cookies and cakes take on extra richness with the addition of fruits and nuts — symbolic foods of the Seder.

Desserts are the happy finale to any holiday meal. Chocolate Fruit-Nut Balls made with matzo meal and pure Peanut Oil are special Passover treats. Spiced with cinnamon and ginger, and filled with raisins and walnuts, they're deliciously festive.

JEWISH COOKS prefer peanut oil because its light, delicate flavor enhances the flavors of special holiday dishes. Peanut oil is the only oil that is kosher and pareve every day of the year, including Passover. Moreover, peanut oil is a completely natural oil with nothing artificial added.

CHOCOLATE FRUIT-NUT BALLS

1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon ground ginger
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup hot water
1 bar (6-ounce) Passover bittersweet chocolate, chopped
2 tablespoons peanut oil
3/4 cup seedless raisins
2 1/2 cups matzo cake meal
3/4 cup finely chopped walnuts
Sugar or finely chopped walnuts
Combine 1 cup sugar, cinnamon, ginger, honey and water in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat until the syrup spins a thread (234 F.).
Remove from heat and stir in the chocolate and oil. Quickly stir in the raisins and 3/4 cup walnuts, then thoroughly blend in the cake meal.
Form into balls about 1 1/4 inches in diameter and roll them in sugar or finely chopped nuts until coated.
Chill in refrigerator until firm. Store in a covered tin. Makes 35 to 40 cookie balls.

Try Blueberry Casserole

It's a treat from the Midwest

Everybody knows that a casserole is a deep heavy dish in which food is baked and served. Usually, the food is a main dish or a meal-in-a-dish, and a favorite of the family.

Here's another potential family favorite, also a casserole dish, and one you probably never thought of. Who thinks of bread-baking in a casserole?

The recipe comes from Midwest blueberry-growing country where, it seems, people have been casserole-bread-baking for a long time. Since the utensil doesn't make the dish but the ingredients do, it's time we gave "casserole" a broader base.

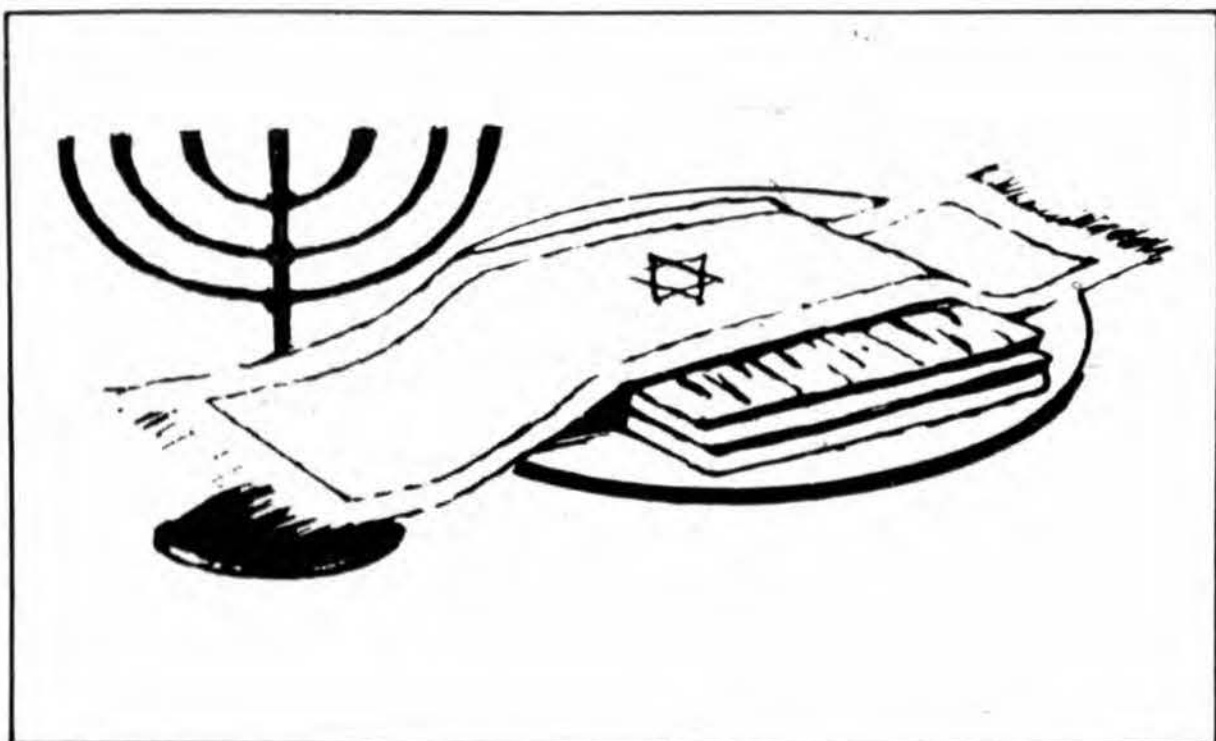

This is a hearty old-fashioned blueberry bread. It's a treat adults and teens will love for breakfast with a cup of coffee, and the kids will like before (or after) they go out for sports in the afternoon. The blueberries make the bread moist, delicious and nutritious.

Serve this in broad slices with butter or margarine. On other occasions, such as afternoon tea, slice the bread very thinly and offer it with marmalade. Since it has a character of its own, this casserole bread adapts itself to many uses.

BLUEBERRY CASSEROLE BREAD

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
1 cup fresh or frozen dry-pack blueberries
3/4 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons shortening
Combine flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda, salt, orange rind, cheese and blueberries. Add orange juice, shortening and egg. Beat until smooth. Pour into a well-greased 1 1/2 quart casserole. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 F.) 55 to 65 minutes or until bread feels firm to the touch. Serve spread with butter.

Kosher for Passover; Kosher for Dieters, too

BY BARBARA GIBBONS

If you see somebody eating a sandwich on a matzoh, you know it's either (a) Passover, or (b) that person is on a diet. A plain one-ounce matzoh has only 109 calories, so that makes it "kosher" for dieters as well as for Passover!

No leavening — no fat, sugar, salt, eggs or additives, either — a matzoh is simply flour and water, bread in its purest form. Matzoh dates back to the Jewish flight from Egypt when they left in such a hurry that quickly baked, unleavened bread was about all they could prepare. So, the unleavened matzoh has been symbolic of Passover ever since.

Matzoh sweets and treats are a tradition during this season. With our decalorized versions, anyone who's calorie conscious can join in, Jewish or not.

PASSOVER NO-BAKE FRUIT CAKE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
2 tablespoons honey or sugar
3 apples, peeled, cored, sliced optional: 1 table-spoon sweet red wine 16-ounce can apricot halves in light syrup or juice optional: 6 fresh strawberries
3 matzohs
pinch of salt

Sprinkle gelatin over water in saucepan, wait 2 minutes until softened. Add honey or sugar and apple slices. Heat, stirring occasionally, until gelatin is completely dissolved and apples are tender. Stir in wine, if desired. Chill until partially set.

Meantime drain apricots, reserve liquid. Blot with a paper towel to remove moisture. Cut a circle of waxed paper to fit the bottom of a non-stick casserole or baking dish. Spray the dish with cooking spray; fit in waxed paper.

Place apricots (and strawberries) on the waxed paper, upside-down, in a decorative pattern. Spoon partially set apple mixture evenly over the apricots.

Break matzohs into small pieces. Mix with reserved apricot liquid and salt. Place over apple layer. Cover with waxed paper and chill several hours or overnight, until firmly set.

To remove from pan: run a knife around the edge of pan. Invert onto cake plate. Peel off waxed paper carefully.

Egg Beating Hints

Can you imagine life without an egg beater?

It used to take a strong arm and a hickory rod on a flat platter and later a fork and bowl to incorporate air into an egg white foam.

It wasn't until 1870 that the first egg beater was patented. Around that time Marion Harland, author of Common Sense in the Household, testified that, after buying an egg beater, she could turn out whipped egg whites in just five minutes — quite a change from the hickory rod and platter.

To "beat" egg whites until they're stiff but not dry means the whites are at their highest volume but not cracked and brittle.

The peaks should stand upright but fold over softly at the tips. Separate eggs when cold, but allow whites to come to room temperature — they'll beat to greater volume.

Be sure to use a clean glass or metal bowl and beaters — even a small bit of grease, such as in a plastic bowl, will keep the whites from foaming.

When you tilt the bowl and the whites no longer slide the whites are at the perfect stage.

(Garnish with mint leaves, if desired.) Makes eight servings, 135 calories each.

DIETETIC SUGAR-FREE VERSION — Use unsweetened apricots packed in juice or water. Omit honey or sugar and sweet wine. If desired, sweeten gelatin mixture with sugar substitute equal to 6 teaspoons sugar, after the gelatin is melted and removed from heat. Sweeten the apricot juice with sugar substitute equal to 2 teaspoons sugar. Has 105 calories per serving.

FRUITED MATZOH KUGEL

2 matzohs
½ cup skim milk
4 eggs, lightly beaten
8-ounce can juice-packed crushed pineapple, undrained
2 unpeeled red apples, cored, finely diced
4 tablespoons golden raisins

¼ teaspoon salt
apple pie spice or cinnamon and nutmeg Optional: ½ teaspoon grated orange or lemon rind

Soak matzohs briefly in lukewarm water; squeeze out water. Combine matzohs with remain ingredients and mix lightly. Spoon into a non-stick pan; bake, uncovered, in a preheated 350-degree oven until set, about 45 minutes. Makes four servings, 245 calories each.

CINNAMON ALMOND MINI-MACAROONS

1 egg white
pinch of salt
5 tablespoons sugar
¾ cup matzoh meal
¾ cup ground almonds

1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
optional: 1 teaspoon confectioners' sugar
Beat egg white and salt until stiff. Gradually, but thoroughly, beat in sugar. Fold in meal, almonds and cinnamon. Drop by teaspoonful on non-stick cookie tin, sprayed for no-fat baking.

Bake in a preheated 275-degree oven for 30 minutes. Turn off heat; let cookies cool in oven 1 hour. (When completely cooled, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar, if desired.) May be kept in tightly sealed tins.

Note: Best to bake meringue recipes on dry days. Makes about 40, with 15 calories each.

PROTEIN PUFFS — For a delicious (but non-Passover variation) substitute one-third cupful high-protein cereal for the matzoh meal. Makes 40, with 5 calories each.

Cooking Techniques to Cut Calories

Special Diets

By June Roth

Sometimes it is not what you cook, but the way you cook it that adds calories to your meals. There are several techniques you can use to produce excellent flavor and yet reduce caloric intake.

The best way to prepare vegetables for instance, is to steam them in a perforated container over a small amount of boiling water. The amount of boiling water used depends on the length of time it will take the vegetables to become tender.

If you gauge it right, you will be able to refrigerate and save the small amount of remaining water that has absorbed some of the flavor and vitamins of the vegetables. Add it to soup and nothing will be wasted.

If you prefer to cook vegetables in a pan with a small amount of water, it's even more important to save the liquid or you will be throwing good nutrients down the drain. Some people pour this liquid into a container in the freezer for later use.

Scrambled eggs can be prepared without a bit of fat if you use a new skillet with a premium non-stick surface. The eggs solidify and can be pushed around and removed with ease. This surface does not scratch the way earlier special lined skillets did, and requires the briefest of washings to come clean.

Fish, poultry, and meat may be baked, broiled, braised (cooked covered in a small amount of liquid) or grilled over an open fire. Fried foods are not recommended for any weight reduction diet because fat in any form—butter, oil, or margarine—has about 100 calories in each tablespoonful. That can add up to several hundred calories a day if you are not careful.

Remember that each extra pound on your body represents 3,500 unnecessary calories that your body did not burn up. Five tablespoons of excess fat a day can put that pound on in one week.

Don't worry about getting your daily minimum of fat in your diet, it is in the yolks of eggs, salad dressings, the fine marbling streaks in meat (trim excess outer fat off), in nuts and in dairy products.

The Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs recommends reducing fat consumption to 30 percent of calories eaten, with 10 percent of that in saturated (animal source) fats and the remaining 20 percent in unsaturated (vegetable source) fats. The average American is now eating over 45 percent of fats in their caloric intake each day. It contributes to overweight problems.

Here are several fat-free methods of cooking lower calorie recipes. Study them so you can convert some of your own favorite dishes to these slimmer methods of cooking.

POACHED DILLED SCALLOPS

1 pound fresh scallops
1/2 cup dry white wine
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon fresh chopped dillweed, or 1 teaspoon dried dillweed

Wash scallops and pat dry. Place scallops in a skillet and pour white wine over all. Sprinkle with lemon juice and dillweed. Cover tightly and cook over low heat for 5 to 8 minutes, or until cooked through. Do not overcook or the scallops will get tough. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

BAKED VEAL AND PEPPERS

1 can (35-ounce) tomatoes in sauce

2 tablespoons tomato paste
1 onion, sliced
4 sweet green peppers, seeded and cubed
2 pounds veal, cubed
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon rosemary
1/4 teaspoon basil

Empty tomatoes into a Dutch oven or similar covered casserole. Add tomato paste and stir. Add onion, green peppers, veal, salt, pepper, rosemary, and basil. Mix well. Cover tightly and bake 1 hour, or until tender, in a 350 F. oven. Makes 8 servings.

Note: Beef cubes may be substituted for veal, if desired. Notice that the meat is not browned in oil first. You may prepare bite-size meatballs with this same method of baking in sauce in a tightly covered casserole.

BROILED CHICKEN L'ORANGE

1 broiler chicken, quartered
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon onion powder
3 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate

1 teaspoon dried parsley
1/2 teaspoon brown sugar
Sprinkle chicken with salt, paprika, and onion powder, arrange in a broiling pan and broil for 10 minutes, skin side down.

Meanwhile, combine orange juice concentrate, parsley, and brown sugar in a small saucepan, heat and stir until juice is melted.

Brush chicken lightly with half the mixture during the first 10 minutes of broiling, then turn and broil other side, about 10 minutes more or until done. Brush with remaining orange mixture about 3 minutes before removing from broiler. Makes 4 servings.

Many people with tooth and gum problems suffer from poor nutrition due to chewing difficulties. It's important to plan meals for them that are soft in texture but high in protein and vitamins.

Some people are too embarrassed to admit their problem, which may be temporary, and seem to subsist on soups and mashed vegetables when they can't chew the meat that is served. The pity is that it is not necessary to suffer tough food needlessly, if poaching and braising methods of soft cooking can be learned.

White-fleshed fish, tender young chickens, and tender cuts of beef and veal are the best choices for soft-cooking. The French method of making stews in the oven, whereby the heat surrounds a tightly covered pot of meat and vegetables for many hours until fork tender, is a sensible choice.

Potatoes may be boiled or baked, and then mashed with butter, margarine, or milk, to remove all lumps. Rice may be cooked extra soft by adding more water to the pot and cooking a little longer. Pasta may be cooked past the al dente stage until soft and easily chewed.

For chewing difficulties, choose vegetables that can be cooked until the consistency is very soft or that can be mashed. A good choice of vegetables would be carrots, peas, spinach, winter squash, green beans, wax beans, and tender asparagus tips.

Be sure to serve at least one green and one yellow vegetable daily. Omit lettuce and leafy greens, forget about salads, and avoid members of the cabbage family unless they can be pureed.

It's helpful to make a special effort to make the food tasty and to plan a colorful platter, even if the contents have to be softer than usual. Now may be the time to serve on your nicest china plates to lend a festive air to what might otherwise be a painful experience.

Desserts may be soft puddings, applesauce, ice cream, sherbet, or fruit-flavored gelatin.

Festive Recipe

Every holiday has its symbols, but what makes Passover symbols special is that so many of them are edible.

The following recipe for the unleavened Passover Popovers is just one of many recipes to be found in The Jewish Party Book: A Contemporary Guide to Customs, Crafts, and Foods, by Mae Shafter Rockland.

Passover Popovers give a special touch to the Sabbath meal the week of Passover, and are so light and delicious, they can be enjoyed all year-round.

POPOVERS

3/4 cup water
1/4 cup salad oil
3 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup matzah meal (regular or cake meal)
3 eggs

Combine the water, salad oil, sugar, and salt in a large saucepan and bring to a boil. Remove from the heat and stir in the matzah meal. Beat the eggs, one at a time, and add each to the matzah-meal mixture, mixing well after each addition.

Wet your hands and form the very sticky dough into six large balls. Place them on a lightly greased baking sheet, leaving 2 inches between each ball. Bake in a pre-heated 400 degree oven on the center rack. They puff up nicely. If desired, they can of course be made smaller. You can make them with honey instead of sugar, and they taste good but become heavier.

In her book, Ms. Rockland tells the story of Passover, how it has been celebrated through the ages, how to prepare the Seder table and how to choose a Haggadah.

Does Shopping Cart Contain Time Bomb?

How many potentially poisonous products did you buy at the supermarket this week? How many of the containers bore labels warning that the contents might be harmful or lethal — if swallowed?

An estimated 250,000 potentially hazardous household products and medicines line pharmacy and supermarket shelves, so the shopping cart you load every week can contain a potential time bomb for your family yourself as well as small children, warns the Department of Safety and Research of the Combined Insurance Co. of America.

A LARGE number of the items you buy that can be dangerous are not so marked. Among these are alcoholic beverages, a few swigs of which can kill a child. Other possibly lethal poisons that may not bear warnings are nail polish, shampoo, face and hand creams, liniments and other everyday items that are often left on dressing tables and open shelves.

The company's safety researchers report that at least 500,000 children will ingest these and other poisonous substances this year — 90 percent of them under five years of age. Many will die, while thousands will be damaged for life. Aspirin has been most frequently involved in accidental overdoses, while substances such as drain cleaner and antifreeze have been among the most damaging.

THE NATIONAL Safety Council notes that while small children constitute the largest group of victims of household poisonings, accidental poisoning is the number one cause of home deaths among people 15 through 44. These tragedies result from such mishaps as mixing drugs without consulting a doctor, washing down a prescription medicine with alcoholic drinks, reaching for the wrong bottle of medicine in the dark, failure to read labels and instructions, gulping down poison stored in pop bottles and unintentional overdoses of drugs.

In the few years since the federal government has required "child proof" caps on medicine bottles, the mortality rate among small children from ingesting poisons has declined. But not enough, say the insurance company's safety monitors.

The following safety rules are offered:

NEVER PLAY doctor by taking someone else's medicine, prescribing your medicine for another person or giving one child a dosage prescribed for another without consulting your physician or pharmacist.

KEEP SAFELY out of the reach of babes even the most seemingly harmless cosmetics such as lotions and creams. It should be obvious that nail polish and remover and perfume are dangerous substances when swallowed.

PLACE UNDER lock and key poisons such as insect killers, weed sprays and powders, cleansers, furniture polish, paint and paint thinners.

STORE ALL potentially dangerous substances in their original containers or clearly label them for what they are; no poisons should ever be put in containers that once held food, beverages or water.

FORBID CHILDREN, particularly young ones, to put anything in their mouths without permission.

BEFORE ADMINISTERING medicine to children — or any other member of the family — read the label carefully and follow the directions. Discard leftover prescription drugs when no longer needed and purge your medicine chest of all unused prescriptions every six months.

NEVER TAKE medicine in front of children, who tend to imitate what their elders do.

NEVER TRY to persuade a child that taking medicine is pleasant or a game and do not give them medicine that tastes good.

Recipe For High Morale

Recipe for high morale: a good food to munch to your appetite's content, with very few calories. Have another crunchy bite of celery.

Celery adds texture and subtle flavor to a wide variety of dishes that includes appetizers, salads, sandwich fillings and casseroles.

One eight-inch outer stalk of celery contains only seven calories. A whole pound contains only fifty-six. A cup of diced cooked celery contains twenty-four calories.

You would never count on celery for great nutritional value but it does contain a little calcium, a little vitamin A, a little vitamin C and small amounts of the B-vitamins... and fiber.

In the food market, a bunch of celery may look too big. But when washed, dried, plastic wrapped and refrigerated, it will keep up to two weeks. Yes, get celery ready for eating before storing it in the refrigerator.

CELERY BROTH

3 cups chopped celery with leaves
1/2 cup minced celery
1 quart chicken broth/bouillon
2 tablespoons chopped chives
1/2 teaspoon salt
Pinch of pepper
Combine celery leaves and stalks with chicken broth. Cover and cook very slowly for an hour. Strain the stock and season with one tablespoon chives, salt and pepper. Add minced celery. Cover and simmer until celery is tender but not mushy. Sprinkle with the other tablespoon chives and serve. Makes about one quart.

'New' Drink Actually is Ancient Potion

By TOM HOGE
AP News Features Writer

Americans are being exposed to a "new" drink that is actually one of the oldest potions known to man. I refer to mead, that product of fermented honey that archaeologists believe may date back to the dawn of civilization.

Often referred to erroneously as an early kind of beer, mead is actually a wine. Fermented as mead, it can in fact, be carried a step further and be distilled to become honey brandy.

Notes on Omelets And Pie

Chiffon Pie gets its title from the light and fluffy filling of egg whites and gelatin. When the egg whites are beaten to their highest volume the gelatin mixture is folded in to stabilize the airy filling.

When baking a quiche (say it keesh) you can save time by using a frozen pie shell. Be sure it's a 9-inch deep dish frozen pie shell, otherwise you may have too much filling. You can use your own homemade 9-inch pie shell with no problem.

Omelets are a quick and easy nutritious breakfast, lunch or supper. Fill them with leftovers like vegetables, sliced roast beef or ham.

At breakfast, crispy hash brown potatoes and cheese would make a satisfying omelet. For dessert, an omelet with fresh or canned fruit topped with a dollop of whipped cream makes a fancy treat.

sure you are not adding another booby trap to your home in the form of poisonous Jerusalem cherry, holly, azalea, dieffenbachia, poinsettia, soleandor or elephant's ear. Children tend to like to munch on leaves when no one is looking.

Now, you may ask, What does one do if the damage is done, if the child or adult has already made the mistake of consuming a dangerous substance? Here are a few emergency steps.

CALL YOUR physician or the nearest poison control center (their numbers should be posted by every telephone in your house) and report what has happened. Have the container in hand, read the label on the offending substance over the phone and then do as you are told.

IF YOU ARE instructed to rush the victim to a hospital emergency room or doctor's office, take the container with you so the medical experts will know what they are dealing with.

KEEP SYRUP of pectin on hand for poison emergencies—if vomiting is called for. But never induce vomiting unless your doctor, the label on the container or the poison control center recommends it.

Those who are confronted by the mounting number of accidental poisonings that occur every year, are convinced that the best prescription is prevention. And prevention can be achieved, say insurance safety researchers, by mixing a few simple precautions with a daily dose of vigilance.

"It's a prescription that doesn't cost a cent," they declare.

one of the early English classics, the folk epic Beowulf, the hero's triumph over a monster called Grendel was celebrated by the quaffing of mead from jeweled cups.

The Norsemen drank mead at ritual feasts from horns and sometimes from skulls. The Druids a Celtic or der of priests, soothsayers and poets, used to down a few belts of mead during their conclaves.

MEAD became increasingly popular throughout Europe during the latter Middle Ages. More than a century later, it is said to have become the traditional tipple in Elizabethan England, and now it is being launched in this country.

The mead I sampled is a sweet blend of honey and grape wines that its sponsors recommend as an aperitif on the rocks or as a dessert wine.

WINE LOVERS may not be enchanted with the sweetness of mead, but remember Lambrusco, that fruity, rather cloying wine of Italy that many purists compared to soda pop? Today it is a big seller in this country.

Because of its sweetness, any attempt to cook with mead should be limited to desserts, such as this recipe for cranberry chiffon pie. 1 one-pound can jellied cranberry sauce 1 three-ounce package orange-flavored gelatin

1/2 cup mead 1 tablespoon grated orange peel Dash salt Dash nutmeg 2 egg whites 2 tablespoons sugar

1 cup heavy cream 1 9-inch baked pastry shell Place cranberry sauce in pan and crush with fork. Simmer while adding gelatin. Stir till dissolved.

Remove from heat and add mead, orange peel, salt and nutmeg. Chill till mixture starts to thicken. Beat egg whites till stiff, gradually beating in sugar. Fold into cranberry mixture.

Whip half cream and blend in. Spoon into pastry shell. Chill till firm. Decorate with rest of cream, whipped and slightly sweetened. Serves 6-8. Try with goblet of mead, chilled or on rocks.

Delicious Recipes for all Occasions Noted

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

What to serve for a late supper after the theater, a movie or a TV program?

Whenever the question comes up I think of the Gay '90s. Those were the days when late suppers were in their heyday and "Diamond Jim" Brady was known for giving them lavishly after taking friends to Broadway shows.

ONE OF his favorite dishes was said to be Soft Clams a la Newburg — a rich combination of clams, truffles, Madeira, egg yolks and cream.

Today, taste in general is a far cry from Diamond Jim's.

Friends tell me that now one of the best late supper dishes is a Noodle Salad the recipe in Florence Lin's Chinese Regional Cookbook, published by Hawthorn in hardcover several years ago and now out in softcover.

MRS. LIN'S book is a treasure; her Noodle Salad and her other recipes are delicious, interesting and practical.

FLORENCE LIN'S NOODLE SALAD

Drop a pound of fresh egg noodles from an Oriental food store into 3 to 4 quarts of boiling water and stir to separate them. Boil for 4 to 5 minutes or until as tender as you like. Or use regular, very thin egg noodles and cook according to package directions.

Rinse under cold water and drain thoroughly.

Toss with 2 tablespoons sesame oil and 1 tablespoon soy sauce.

Cover and chill for no more than two hours.

Thoroughly beat 2 eggs with a pinch of salt and set aside for 10 minutes. Remove the foam on top of the eggs.

Heat an 8-inch skillet until very hot. Turn heat down to low and let the pan cool off.

Lightly grease the pan. Pour in 1/4 of the beaten egg and tip the pan around so the egg spreads into a thin, even layer.

Cook over low heat until the egg coagulates. Lift up and flip over and let cook briefly on the other side.

Repeat procedure to make 3 more sheets. Cool, then shred into very fine, 2-inch-long strips.

Mix together in a sauce bowl 1/4 cup each light soy sauce and wine vinegar, 2 tablespoons sesame oil and 2 teaspoons sugar.

Serve each person about a cupful of noodles in a soup or salad bowl.

Pass a help yourself platter of the egg strips, pork or ham strips, cooked chicken or turkey strips, shredded cucumbers, sliced scallions and blanched, fresh mung-bean sprouts. Then pass the soy sauce and vinegar mixture.

NEW DREAMS

Now you can make these popular cookies in an electric food processor.

1 cup all-purpose flour

1/2 cup cornstarch

1/2 cup confectioners' sugar

1 1/2 quarter-pound sticks from refrigerator, (not freezer) butter, cut into 16 pats 3/4 cup

Insert steel blade in processor; add flour, cornstarch and sugar; dot with butter; process just until blended. Using 1 tablespoon for each, shape into balls.

On ungreased cookie sheets, place about 1 1/2 inches apart. With a lightly floured fork, flatten in crisscross fashion so each is 2 inches in diameter.

Bake in a preheated 300-degree oven until edges are lightly browned — 20 minutes. Makes about 2 dozen.

RASPBERRY GLEAM

Rich color and true fruit flavor.

10-ounce package frozen raspberries in syrup, thawed

1 cup cold water

1 envelope unflavored gelatin

1/4 cup sugar

A few grains of salt

In an electric blender whirl the raspberries until liquified, with a wooden spoon force through a fine mesh strainer, pour 1/4 cup of the water over the residue and force through to release pulp around seeds, discard seeds.

In a 1-quart saucepan sprinkle the gelatin over the remaining 3/4 cup water and let soften for several minutes, heat gently, stirring with a spatula, especially around the sides and over the bottom of the pan until the gelatin melts.

Off heat, stir in the sugar and salt until dissolved. Add the raspberry puree and stir well. Pour into 6-ounce custard cups or molds.

Chill to set; cover. Before serving, unmold. Delicious served with custard sauce. Makes 4 servings.

BEAN AND SPROUTS

Any leftover is savory served cold.

1 pound snap beans, tipped and washed

1/4 cup boiling water

2 tablespoons peanut oil

2 tablespoons bland, pale sesame oil

1 pound fresh mung bean sprouts

1/2 cup loosely packed thin strips Spanish onion

25-cent-size slice of fresh ginger, minced

1 large clove garlic, minced

3 tablespoons soy sauce mixed with 2 teaspoons sugar

Cut the beans, with the wide slicing blade of a food processor or with a knife, into 1/4 to 1/2-inch lengths.

Turn into a wok with the water and oils; cover and simmer until the beans are tender-crisp and the water has evaporated — 5 to 8 minutes.

Add the bean sprouts, onion, ginger, garlic and soy-sauce mixture; stir constantly over high heat to cook the bean sprouts and onion slightly — a minute or so. Makes 8 servings.

Salaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women faculty members at the nation's colleges and universities continue to lag behind their male counterparts in salaries, according to a government report.

The report issued Friday said faculty salaries at colleges and universities rose 6.2 percent for the 1978-79 academic year, with teachers on nine-month contracts averaging $19,266.

Boss Offers Prayer

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In response to your "Prayer for Secretaries," how about printing this one — from a boss?

"Dear Lord, help me to be a patient man. Let me be calm when my secretary comes in late and tells me her third grandmother died and she had to go to the funeral. Help me to remain cool when I see she has typed the carbon copies of six letters on the back of the originals.

"Help me to not lose my temper when the annual report didn't get done because the typewriter broke down and she didn't want to break a nail or get her hands dirty."

What I'm trying to make clear is that there is something to be said on both sides. I'm a 26-year-old liberal male who believes in ERA. I like my secretaries, but I must put up with less than perfection as does every boss I know. So far I haven't met any perfect secretaries, so let's all try to be a little bit tolerant — B.J.H. IN BAKERSFIELD described slow learner) said "Retarded people would prefer to be thought of as just human beings — not special." He is SO right. I'd call him a sharp learner, even though he may be a little slow. He put into words what I could not.

It is nice when an attempt is made to "up-grade" the person who is deficient in one area or another, but calling him "special" only puts a spotlight on him and he doesn't want it. The true meaning of the word "special" is "something extra," and we have a hard enough time making it when people expect us to be average. How interesting that it took a "slow learner" to teach me. NO NAME IN ST. CLOUD, MINN.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: At the risk of incurring the wrath of readers who like the word "special" to describe the handicapped, I agree with you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this letter to my doctor. Dear Doctor: When I bring my gray hair, false teeth, sagging breasts, sick stomach, slipped disc, arthritic knees, varicose veins and fallen arches to your office, my self-esteem is so low I could trip on it. I would be a lot more comfortable if you all called me by my married name.

It heightens my self-esteem to be called "Mrs. Hollanpeiffer." When you call me "Dorcas," as I stand there in a cotton gown open at the back from neck to floor, I am a half-clad nobody, stripped of identity. I don't think you should add to the indignity.

I wonder if this "Dorcas" business is designed to downgrade me. Do you want me to start addressing your nurses and technicians as "Ma'am"? I really don't want to. I have a strong urge to greet you with "Hi, Timmy," at next Thursday's appointment. D.H.

DEAR D.H.: Speak up, woman. Tell the doctor you don't want him to call you by your first name. It's as simple as that. My guess is he's trying to make you feel comfortable. He'll never know your true feelings unless you tell him!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in the "Dying Person's Bill of Rights." While it has great merit, may I suggest a couple of alterations?

(1) "I have the right to die in peace and dignity."

appropriate, since it implies that the patient deserves to be as comfortable as possible during that period.

(2) "I have the right to expect that the sanctity of the human body will be respected after death."

Respect for "the sanctity of the human body after death" may be interpreted by some to mean that the body must be buried intact. This would reduce the availability of organs such as corneas and kidneys, which would enable the blind to see or the person with kidney failure to be free of a cumbersome dialysis unit.

Furthermore, this statement implies an objection to an autopsy, which can be an invaluable contribution by the deceased. An autopsy can provide knowledge to confirm a diagnosis or lead to the discovery of unrecognized conditions which could be a boon to medical science and promote better care for future patients.

I believe the patient should have options such as the one expressed in the following statement:

"I have the right to expect that the sanctity of the human body will be respected after death, but this does not preclude the post-mortem examination or the donation of any bodily organs which may benefit others." — M.D., ROCHESTER, MINN.

DEAR M.D.: Both suggestions are excellent. Thank you for writing.

Middle Class Marriage Best

CHICAGO (AP) — Marriages of rich and of poor couples are more likely to dissolve than those of the middle class, reports Gary Becker, a University of Chicago economist who has been doing research on the family for the past seven years. Becker, who conducts a weekly workshop on the family and related subjects for students and faculty members in economics, says these couples are most likely to remain married.

Those who don't marry too young or too old — the mid 20s is a good age — who share the same religion, who have children, where the husband earns a reasonably high salary — $20,000 — $40,000 — and where the wife does not work.

Wedding and engagement announcements run on Sunday in the Daily Pilot. Forms are available at all Daily Pilot offices or by calling the Features Department 642-4321. To avoid disappointment, prospective brides are reminded to have their wedding stories with a black and white glossy of the bride of the couple to the Features Department one week before the wedding.

Reunions Set

"I wonder what Jane is doing now."

It could be Fred, Susie, Ted or Bob. They were your high school classmates and you haven't seen them for 10, 15 or even 25 years. Here are several opportunities to find out "whatever happened to"

LOARA HIGH SCHOOL. Class of 1969, is having its 10 year reunion Aug. 11, 1979. Members should call Linda Ferrell or Mike Mendez, 898-8045, or Chris Lave, 894-1556, or write to Class of 69, P.O. Box 1092, Brea, 92621.

MARINA HIGH SCHOOL. Class of 1969, will gather May 26 at the South Coast Plaza Hotel at 7 p.m. Class members may call Wendy Weber (213) 822-0533, or Pam Srykin, 644-9908.

Balboa Pavilion. Information is available from Dan Guinness, 592-2629, or Louise Fazio Boyd, 968-1963.

SAN LUIS OBISPO SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL. The 20th reunion is being planned for the Class of 1959 at the San Luis Obispo Country Club, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Saturday July 14. Information is available by calling 772-9118 or 960-3910.

WARREN HIGH SCHOOL. Downey is looking for 1969 graduates for a gathering July 7 in the Anaheim Sheraton. Information is available from Margaret Carter Stapp, 497-3979.

FULLERTON UNION HIGH SCHOOL. It will be 25 years for the Class of 1954, which is meeting May 26 at the Saddleback Inn, Santa Ana. For further information, call 675-5150.

Housing Needed

Youth Exchange Service (YES) is in need of housing for exchange students from three to nine months beginning in late August.

At this time the students, ages 15 to 19, may complete their enrollment in American schools.

The host program is open to individuals, couples or families, according to Dorothy Fuller of San Clemente. Hosts have no legal, medical or financial responsibilities and are eligible for a monthly tax deduction while the students are with them.

Anyone interested in being a host may call YES at 922-7807 or write to YES International Headquarters, P.O. Box 1020, San Clemente, 92672.

Low Meat Costs Started Price Hike

By The Associated Press
Why are meat prices so high? Because they used to be so low.

That may sound ridiculous, but it's true. Today's high prices are, in large part, a legacy of the low prices of 1976 and 1977.

The steady increases 4.9 percent in February alone, according to the Consumer Price Index — are due to the fact that we have less beef and veal.

Smaller supplies mean higher prices.

In 1976, a record 42.6 million cattle were slaughtered. Per capita beef supplies on a retail weight basis — the amount available for purchase in the store — reached a record 95.7 pounds, according to the National Cattlemen's Association.

The average retail price of a pound of choice beef dropped from $1.55 in 1975 to $1.48 in 1976. But the large supplies meant low prices for cattlemen. So they cut back their herds and sold animals they normally would have kept for breeding. In 1978, only 39.5 million cattle were slaughtered. Per capita supplies were 88.8 pounds. The average retail price of a pound of choice beef was $1.82.

The cattlemen are getting high prices for their animals again and are rebuilding their herds. But it will take several years. And, meanwhile, they are keeping animals for breeding that otherwise might go to market.

This year's cattle slaughter is expected to be only 36.2 million — the lowest level since 1973. Per capita beef supplies are expected to be 83.6 pounds.

Pork producers are increasing their herds and that will take some of the pressure off beef prices. But total red meat production this year is still expected to be slightly smaller than last year. And that means prices will keep going up.

Tips on Eggs Given

Eggs are an important ingredient in many recipes. Their leavening property helps popovers and souffles rise; they add color and flavor to baked goods; hold together ingredients for meat loaf; coat chicken, fish, or French toast for frying; and clarify soups or coffee.

Many recipes direct you to beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored.

This step helps incorporate air into the yolks and makes them light and golden. It takes about 5 minutes on high speed of an electric mixer.

When you're counting calories fry eggs in a non-stick pan or spray your fry pan with a non-stick coating for greaseless cooking. Add a small amount of water and cover the pan for tender, steamed-fried eggs.

If properly stored in the refrigerator, in their original carton, large end up, eggs will stay fresh for four or five weeks.

... Special

CHICKEN IN THE POT

1 chicken, about 3½ to 4 pounds, cleaned
2 cups chicken broth
2 sprigs dillweed
2 sprigs parsley
½ teaspoon salt
4 carrots, scraped and cut into chunks
1 large onion, sliced
1 package (10-ounce) frozen peas
Soft cooked noodles
Preheat oven to 350° F. Place chicken in a small baking pot with tight lid. Add chicken broth, dillweed, parsley, and salt. Place carrots and onion around chicken. Cover and bake 1½ hours. After 45 minutes, add frozen peas. Finish baking and serve on a bed of soft cooked noodles. Makes 4 servings.

BAKED BEEF STEW

2 pounds beef chuck, cut into 1" cubes
2 cups tomato juice
1 bay leaf
3 potatoes, peeled and quartered
4 carrots, scraped and cut into chunks
1 onion, sliced thin
1 package (10-ounce) frozen green beans
1 teaspoon salt
Preheat oven to 350° F. Place beef in a small baking pot with a tight lid. Add tomato juice, bay leaf, potatoes, carrots, onion, green beans, and salt. Cover tightly and bake 1½ hours, adding additional water or tomato juice if needed. Bake longer if meat is not very soft. Makes 6 servings.

POACHED FISH ROLLS

4 fillets of sole
1 package (3½-ounce) cream cheese
2 tablespoons milk
1 cup cream, ¼ teaspoon salt
1 sprig fresh dillweed, cut fine
¼ teaspoon salt, dash paprika
Spread fillets with cream cheese mashed with milk. Roll up fillets and place in a small skillet. Pour cream over fish rolls and sprinkle with dillweed and salt. Cover tightly and cook over low heat for 15 to 20 minutes, or until fish flakes easily. Sprinkle fish rolls with paprika. Makes 4 servings.

UCI Sets Seminar

Women artists, educators and therapists will speak at a conference on Women, Culture and Theory. Bread and Roses and a Critical Perspective Friday through Sunday, April 6 through 8.

The conference will include panel discussions, films and artistic presentations dealing with topics such as women and the arts, the existence of a feminine nature and relationships of class, race and sex.

The three-day event is sponsored by the Women's Program Board and several other UCI campus offices.

Keynote speakers are Juliet Mitchell, a British feminist, historian and theorist, who is a Regents Lecturer at UCI, and Hilary Rose, chair of postgraduate and undergraduate schools of applied science at the University of Bradford, England.

UCI students may attend the conference free. Students from other institutions and unemployed persons will be charged $7.50 for the three days and others from the public will be charged $15. To pre-register, phone 833-6874 or 494-4910 or write to Dr. Emily Hicks, English and Comparative Literature Department, UCI.

Horoscope

THURSDAY, APRIL 5

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You attract more-than-usual attention. Now is time to take a chance on you. Make known desires, views. Creative juices flow. Distribute and display. Be ready for swift changes, discoveries, children who "break the rules."

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Spotlight on solid base, land, security, home front. Older individual makes intentions clear. Be cooperative, not subservient. Express your own ideas. Illustrate meanings, beliefs. Leo, Aquarius individuals figure prominently.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Directions, in connection with packages, trips, could be confusing. Take time to gain sense of direction. Follow through on lessons recently learned. Someone, who wants you to make an error, is doing plenty of pushing, cajoling, chiding. Know it and protect yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Luck rides with you. Funding becomes available. Time to plan ahead, to communicate, to widen horizons. Gemini, Sagittarius persons figure prominently. Be confident — display versatility and humor.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Cycle is such that you can be more independent, original. Take lead, locate "escape hatch." You need no longer be confined, restricted, trapped. Elements of intuition, timing are in your corner. Another Leo and a Scorpio figure prominently.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You gain access to "private and confidential" information. Be analytical — gain by being precise, by evaporating clouds of fear, doubt. Scorpio, Aquarius persons figure as part of intriguing scenario. A "teacher" makes timely appearance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Win rather than attempting to force your way. Wishes are fulfilled — popularity increases. Taurus, Scorpio and another Libra play outstanding roles. Yes, now is time for remodeling, home improvement, purchase of art object or luxury item.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasis on career, ability to convince those in authority to make room for you at top. Define terms, perfect methods, techniques. Pisces, Virgo persons figure prominently. Be sure you are reaching for brass ring, not a slug.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent on communication, education, getting production underway, accepting responsibility, getting money's worth, establishing special relationship on firm ground. Capricorn, Cancer persons are in picture.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis on digging deep, facing facts unafraid, being interested in the occult without crossing border to superstition. You are on brink of being rid of burden. Money and love pictures will be brighter.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Emphasis on contractual obligations, getting story across, throwing light on areas previously dark. New contact proves valuable. Leo is in picture. Be open to concept proffered by partner, mate.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Follow through on hunch — teach and learn. Accent on work, service, dependents and health. Cancer, Capricorn, Aquarius persons figure prominently. Go slow enough to capture subtle nuances, to smell the flowers. Yes, you will understand!

Sewing Hints

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Plan ahead for home sewing by doing homework before shopping for a pattern and fabric, suggests Marjorie Baker, Extension clothing specialist at Oklahoma State University.

Look through fashion and sewing magazines to see what is new and what fires your imagination, she says, adding these tips:

Study ready-to-wear departments. Notice how fashions you like are influenced by fabrics.

See how the fabrics drape and tailor.

Note how textures add surface interest and how different prints affect designs and the total look.

While looking at ready-made garments, study the labels to learn about the fabric and fiber content. Also look at the trim used and how the seams are finished.

If you're not reading the little ads in Classified, you're missing a lot of newsy information as well as some great buys.

Starting a New Business
 According to California Business and Professions Code (Sec. 17900 to 17930) all persons doing business under a fictitious name must file a statement with the County Clerk and have it published four times in a newspaper serving the area in which the business is located.
 The statement is required by law and is necessary in protecting your business name. Most banks require proof of filing to open commercial accounts.
 The DAILY PILOT provides both filing and publication services. We have all the necessary forms and maintain a daily service to the Orange County Courthouse. Either stop by one of our convenient offices or phone the LEGAL DEPARTMENT 642-4321, Ext. 332 for more information and forms.

Summer Remedial School in Limbo

By JERRY CLAUSEN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

High School students in the Huntington Beach, Fountain Valley and Westminster area who will require summer school programs to make up graduation credit requirements may have a problem.

Huntington Beach Union High School District trustees introduced three motions Tuesday night dealing with remedial summer programs for the district's six comprehensive high schools.

All motions failed by votes of 2 to 2, in the absence of vacationing Trustee Doris Allen.

Proposed by the district staff is a $63,684 summer-school program to aid an estimated 900 class of 1980 students who are deficient in language arts, reading, social studies, science and mathematics.

Board President Zita Wessa and Trustee Helen Dittie supported the plan while Trustees Stephen Smith and Brian Lake opposed it.

They cited district requirements to trim $800,000 from next year's school operations budget as the primary reason for their objections.

"I don't think the students who don't need summer school should suffer for those who do,"

Lake said, noting that regular school year curricula would lose funds to glean money required for the summer program.

Lake said he knows students and their parents will be upset with no summer school but they must "realize our money situation. They are going to know you can't buy $1.50 worth (of education) for 50 cents."

Proposed budget cuts follow last year's passage of the property-tax-cutting Proposition 13 and uncertainty surrounding legislative funding of state schools.

Mrs. Wessa and Mrs. Dittie argued that many students counted on summer programs to graduate in 1980. They said the students knew nothing of Proposition 13 and its impact on summer programs and those who can't afford special schooling should not be penalized this summer.

Also remaining up in the air are plans proposed by Chapman College to offer summer school sessions for students who can pay $55 to $60 this year for (See REMEDIAL, Page A2).

Cameras Record Evidence

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

As television cameras made an unprecedented appearance Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court, a key defense witness insisted she didn't see Dr. William Waddill strangle an alleged infant abortion survivor.

The testimony of nurse Elizabeth Kennedy came as Judge Byron McMillan broke with tradition at the start of Tuesday's afternoon session in Waddill's murder retrial and allowed two TV crews to film 25 minutes of court testimony.

The filming was allowed with the stipulation that neither the "60 Minutes" film crew or the KABC cameramen would use the trial segment until the end of the murder retrial.

McMillan first sought permission to allow the filming from attorneys in the case, witness Kennedy and the five-man, seven-woman jury.

The judge said he also may permit television filming of final arguments in the trial.

One day during the jury selection process in the Waddill retrial, McMillan allowed a radio broadcaster to tape record the session.

But he reimposed a no-tape, no-film ban after attorneys objected.

Nurse Kennedy, of Huntington Beach, was on the witness stand for the second straight day Tuesday.

She had refused to testify in (See WADDILL, Page A2)

CLAIMS 'BIG BROTHER' LOOKING OVER HIS SHOULDER
Golden Bear's Babiracki Makes Waves on Earthquake Law

Huntington Quake Proposal Blasted

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A proposed ordinance aimed at bringing buildings up to present-day earthquake standards was attacked Tuesday as a plan to demolish downtown Huntington Beach.

Rick Babiracki, a co-owner of the Golden Bear restaurant-nightclub, said the ordinance is another step to tear down the city's oldest business section.

"When we defeated the redevelopment plan in 1976, we expected something like this," he said.

"Now they will have the so-called moral reason of doing this to protect the public."

Babiracki charges that city officials want to get rid of the buildings in order to attract new businesses which would bring lucrative tax revenues to the city.

"There is a move to get total control of the area from the Coastal Commission. The city would have free rein then to make deals with anyone it wants," he asserted.

The City Council Monday night decided to hold off the ordinance until more information is received regarding low interest loans for rehabilitation of the buildings.

City Administrator Bud Belsito said today evidence of deficiencies were brought out in the redevelopment hearings.

"If we didn't attempt to correct conditions, others could point fingers at us for not taking action," he said.

Belsito declared the ordinance would be applied uniformly throughout the city, but pointed out that most of the oldest buildings are located downtown.

Councilwoman Ruth Bailey said it is not the intention to demolish the buildings but to upgrade them.

"We have a responsibility to enforce codes all over the city and are responsible for the safety of the public," she said.

Belsito added that the Golden Bear offers the kind of business that is needed in the city. He said he believes there is a feeling that the nightclub should remain.

Habiracki said the ordinance is "wrong and immoral whether the decision is made to leave us alone or not."

"They'd like nothing better than to tear down the buildings. The decision is based on economics and has nothing to do with safety," he asserted.

The proposed ordinance would take into account the buildings' ability to withstand earthquakes. Owners would have up to five years to correct deficiencies (See QUAKE, Page A2)

Woman, 48, Victim

Huntington Teen Charged in Rape

A 14-year-old Huntington Beach boy was arrested by police Tuesday and charged with the rape of a 48-year-old woman, seven indecent exposures and a string of laundry room burglaries over the past six months.

Police today said an investigation is continuing that could lead to the arrest of other juveniles in connection with the burglaries, but not the alleged sex crimes.

Investigators said the youth was arrested Tuesday after his fingerprints matched those left at the scene of a laundry room burglary at an apartment complex in the northwest section of town.

Sgt. Luis Ochoa said investigators noted a similarity between the youth and a police composite drawing released following the Jan. 12 rape of a Huntington Beach resident.

Under questioning by police, the high school student reportedly confessed to the rape.

In that incident, the victim was accosted as she was getting out of her car near her home. The attacker reportedly choked her and forced her into the backyard where the rape occurred.

Police also are linking the youth to seven cases of indecent exposure that have been reported by residents in the northwest area of town since November.

In those cases, the offender would ride by on a bicycle while exposing himself, police said.

Burglary investigators have set losses between $100 and $140 in change in the laundry room burglaries at area apartment complexes.

The youth remained in custody today at Orange County Juvenile Hall. Sgt. Ochoa noted that because of the nature of the alleged crimes, the youth wouldn't be released to his parents. No bail has been set.

NEW VALLEY MAYOR
Bernie Svalstad

Valley Elects Svalstad to Mayor's Post

Bernie Svalstad is Fountain Valley's mayor for the second time in his council career today following his selection by fellow councilmen Tuesday night.

The 42-year-old shopping center developer replaces Marvin Adler who became councilman Adler again following the secret balloting at council chambers.

Also during the routine annual council reorganization, Councilman Ben Nielson was selected as the city's mayor pro tem. He replaces Roger Stanton.

Svalstad said he would continue to take "a conservative outlook on city finances."

The 13-year city resident first joined the city council in 1969, serving a six-month partial term until 1970.

He did not seek a four-year term and left city politics until 1972 when he was re-elected to the council.

Svalstad served as city mayor in 1975-76 and won re-election to the council along with Adler in 1976.

Svalstad has served as a director of the Fountain Valley Boys Club and as a director of the Orange County Sanitation District.

"I will do everything in my power to see that the city will continue to be run in an open manner," he said following his selection as mayor Tuesday.

Medicine Probed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Investigators will examine medicine given to some of the 25 residents killed Monday in a boarding house fire to see if it could have hindered their attempts to escape, authorities said. "We want to find out how much the dosages were," state Rep. Steve Vossmeier, D-St. Louis, said Tuesday. "We're just trying to piece things together."

Nuclear Threat At End?

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Dick Thornburgh declared an end today to the threat of "immediate catastrophe" in the nation's most serious nuclear accident. But authorities still waited for Three Mile Island's disabled reactor core to reach a cold shutdown.

Only then, they said, would they declare all danger past.

"We can have a sigh of relief," Thornburgh said on NBC's "Today" show.

"The threat of any immediate catastrophe is over," he said. "Now we must face up to the long term consequences of this event — we have serious public health problems, environmental problems and economic problems to grapple with."

The governor continued his advisory that pregnant women and young children stay at least five miles from Three Mile Island, and federal officials say there remains the slight risk of more trouble.

In the meantime, there were reports today that last Wednesday's accident may have been the result of a human error and that the cleanup may take several years and cost up to $40 million.

The Chicago Tribune said the break-down has been traced to a backup cooling system valve inadvertently left closed several days before the accident. The Allentown (Pa.) Call-Chronicle carried a similar report Sunday.

326 Workers Get 5 Percent Pay Increases

Classified employees in the Huntington Beach City (elementary) School District received a five percent pay raise Tuesday night, matching wage increases granted previously to all other district employees.

Total cost of the pay raise for the 326 employees, many of whom are part-time, will be about $75,000, district officials said.

Classified employees include teacher aides, bus drivers, custodians, secretaries and clerks.

Money for the increases, retroactive to July 1, had been held up until a freeze on wages of public employees was overturned by the state Supreme Court.

A representative for the classified employees Tuesday night also gave trustees proposals for reopening negotiations for the 1979-80 contract.

Employees are seeking a 15 percent pay raise and increased insurance coverage.

21,000 Lose Phone Service

A faulty computer was responsible for intermittent phone service problems that affected nearly 21,000 customers in Huntington Beach Tuesday, a General Telephone Co. spokesman said today.

A number of residents reported trouble making outgoing phone calls shortly after 2:45 p.m., said company spokesman Hal Compton.

Company employees tracked down the computer problem and full service was restored by 11 p.m.

Compton said the problem was citywide, affecting customers with phone prefixes of 842, 847 and 848.

Plastic Surgeon

Small OKs Suspension

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Midway through his fight to save his license to practice plastic surgery, Dr. Ralph Small of Santa Ana agreed Tuesday to accept a one-year suspension.

In addition to surrendering his license, Small agreed to undergo a 10-year probation period when he resumes practice, according to his lawyer, Terry Giles.

Terms of that probation are not yet firm, Giles said.

Small's capitulation came at the mid-point in a state Board of Medical Quality Assurance hearing in which the 29-year-old plastic surgeon was charged with negligence and incompetence.

The non-criminal charges lodged against Small in a complaint filed by the state attorney general's office were the outgrowth of two incidents that occurred in his clinic, Plastic Surgery Medical Group, Inc., last year.

In one, a 33-year-old mother of three children died five days after undergoing breast implant surgery in Small's office.

The second incident was related to the searing and infection of a Laguna Beach woman who had thigh lift surgery in the clinic.

Additionally, the complaint charged the John Hopkins University Medical School graduate with falsely advertising surgeries in his clinic were performed by certified surgeons.

And, the complaint alleged, technicians used by Small were not properly licensed.

Through Giles, Small had contended that he was being singled out by the board because of his advertising practices and so-called economy prices.

The state board hearing in Santa Ana was at the start of its fourth week when Small yielded to what Giles said was "a sure thing" rather than run the risk of "losing everything."

Victim Retells Ordeal

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An attractive Dana Hills High School coed sat calmly in an Orange County Superior Court witness box Tuesday and identified the man who last December shot her five times and then beat her with a hammer.

"Do you see the man who as saulted you in this courtroom?" prosecutor Paul Meyer asked.

"Him," Juli Michelle Gonzalez said as she quickly nodded toward attempted murder defendant Charles Huber Guenther, 33, of Irvine.

Miss Gonzalez went on to describe her ordeal the afternoon of Dec. 8 after she was picked up while hitchhiking home from school.

"Did anything unusual happen when you were driving alone?" Meyer asked the girl.

"He, ah, he shot me," Miss Gonzalez replied.

"Did you see a gun in his hand?"

"No," the girl answered. "I was turned in the opposite direction. I just heard a strange noise in my head. It was all black but I could see lights and things. But it was all black."

"What happened after the shooting?" Meyer then asked.

"He took out a hammer and started hitting me on the head with it," Miss Gonzalez said.

"How many times did he hit you?" Meyer wanted to know.

"I don't know. It just kept going on and on," the now 16-year-old high school coed replied.

She went on to describe her escape from Guenther's flashy sports car when its driver pulled into a construction road in the Dana Point area.

Miss Gonzalez' testimony came on the opening day of Guenther's trial on multiple charges related to the near deadly assault on her as well as a non-shooting attack on another high school coed nine months earlier.

Guenther, a juvenile hall counselor from 1969 until his arrest last December, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Defense attorney William Dougherty told the jury in his opening statement that he will not dispute many of the facts in the case.

The defense will attempt to prove that Guenther's mental condition at the time of the assaults made it impossible for him to understand or control his actions, Dougherty said.

Nonetheless, as Meyer rapidly called prosecution witnesses to the stand, the two lawyers were in obvious conflict over at least some of the charges lodged against the defendant.

Dougherty, for example, asked both victims if they hadn't voluntarily gotten into Guenther's auto — an apparent attempt to discount kidnap charges against his client.

In turn, Meyer asked Miss Gonzalez if she wanted to be in the same car with the defendant after the shooting started.

"Of course not," the girl answered.

Dougherty also attempted to put down any suggestion that rape might have been a motive behind the attack.

But the defense attorney made it clear to the jury in Judge Richard Beacom's courtroom that he will concentrate his efforts on the sanity portion of the trial and its accompanying "not guilty by reason of insanity" plea.

Song Gets Car?

Slang Backfires for Toyota

MANCHESTER, Conn. (AP) — A television commercial says you can get a Toyota "for a song," so Cheryl Hyland thought she'd try it.

She walked into Lynch Toyota on Tuesday and sang "Happy Birthday" to puzzled sales manager William Lockwood. Neither Lockwood nor owner Michael Lynch said they had seen the commercial.

Lynch called a Hartford television station, heard the ad and then called Toyota's U.S. headquarters in New Jersey. He was told the phrase "for a song" is used as a slang expression and has been cleared by company lawyers.

But Lynch, ever the smiling salesman, promised to check further.

"If you've got a car coming, then you've got a car coming," he told Ms. Hyland, who says she owns a Toyota and would sell the free one if she gets it.

classes operated in the Huntington Beach district schools and using regular district teachers.

Supt. Frank J. Abbott said he must research reports that the Orange County Counsel's office has opined that schools offering such classes must rent district classrooms at "fair market value" and that sponsoring organizations such as Chapman must provide books and materials.

Such a program, administrators agreed, would result in higher summer school tuition.

The only remedial program authorized by trustees Tuesday is one designed to aid Ocean View High School students with graduation credit deficiencies.

Trustees okayed $3,000 for staffing existing resource labs where students with three or fewer credit deficiencies may make up work.

That plan was passed unanimously.

85-year-old SC Man Dies In Crash

Eighty-five year-old San Clemente resident Cyril Maure died in a grinding crash with a pickup truck near his home on Pacific Coast Highway Tuesday morning.

Police Sgt. Bill Trudeau said Maure, of 266 Avenida Victoria, was making a U-turn at 11:45 a.m. when his compact sedan was struck broadside by a passing truck about a half mile north of Avenida Pico.

The truck carried the smaller auto about 40 feet down the highway. Paramedics arrived at the scene and found the vehicles locked together with the stricken Maure trapped inside.

The victim was in full cardiac arrest and had both his legs smashed, said Paramedic Capt. Nick Maule.

It took firemen about 30 minutes to free the man and rush him to San Clemente General Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Police said no charges were filed against the pickup truck driver.

Talks Resume In Air Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for United Airlines and the striking machinists union are resuming contract talks with the help of federal mediators in hopes of reaching a settlement acceptable to the union's rank and file, who have rejected two earlier agreements.

The two sides agreed to a request from federal mediator Robert O. Harris to meet today, their first session since a strike shut down the nation's largest air carrier last Saturday.

The walkout by 18,600 members of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers forced United to cancel flights through April 12 and lay off about 13,300 pilots and flight attendants.

Jury Weighs Evidence in Insanity Plea

An Orange County Superior Court jury was trying to decide today if a Mission Viejo locksmith was insane when he posed as a Mafia chieftain to arrange two killings.

Joseph Serino, 50, was found guilty by the same jury Tuesday of conspiracy to commit second degree murder and murder solicitation.

Serino, who has wept openly during his two-week trial, pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to charges stemming from the aborted murder-for-hire schemes.

He was convicted of hiring undercover Newport Beach police Sgt. John Simon, who posed as "hit man" Tony DeMarco, to kill Seattle attorney Roger Leed.

In addition he was convicted of soliciting the murders of both Leed and the new wife of his co-defendant, Joseph Bogg.

Both murder contracts were foiled by police.

Sgt. Simon contacted Leed in Seattle and he agreed to pose for faked blood-spattered photos which Simon brought back to Serino to collect $5,000 of a $15,000 murder contract.

Jurors Tuesday afternoon viewed a videotape of Serino under hypnosis, the same tape during the trial's first phase.

On the tape, Serino said he posed as a Mafia "big shot" because his sister, Elaine, asked him to, then continued to play the role of a murder contractor at her behest.

The defense has contended Serino was to arrange the slaying of Mrs. Bogg so that his sister and Bogg could be married.

The defense also has contended Bogg sought the killing of Leed because of the attorney's role in a $1 million lawsuit judgment against an acquaintance of Bogg's.

Bogg, who faces charges only in the Leed case, faces trial April 16.

Rape Issue Supported

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Plaintiffs in rape cases couldn't be forced by trial judges to take psychiatric examinations, under a bill approved by the state Senate Judiciary Committee.

The 5-2 vote Tuesday sent SB 395 by Sen. Diane Watson, D-Los Angeles, to the Senate floor.

Backers of the bill said the psychiatric exam authorized by a decade-old state Supreme Court decision humiliates and intimidates rape victims. Under it, an examination may be requested by the defense and can be ordered by the judge as evidence of whether the victim is telling the truth.

Edgar Buchanan Succumbs at 76

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Edgar Buchanan, who abandoned a medical career to take up acting, died early today while recovering from brain surgery, a spokesman for Eisenhower Memorial Hospital said.

Buchanan, 76, never recovered from the operation Jan. 29 to remove a tube placed in his brain four years earlier to help overcome poor circulation of spinal fluids, said a spokesman.

The exact cause of death was not immediately announced.

In a film career that spanned three decades, Buchanan appeared as a character actor in more than 80 movies and 150 television dramas before landing a steady role as Uncle Joe in CBS-TV's "Petticoat Junction" series in the 1960s.

He took pre-med and drama courses at the University of Oregon, then, at the urging of his father, went to North Pacific Dental College in Portland, where he married a classmate. But he kept busy with summer stock companies and local playhouses.

For 10 years, Buchanan practiced dentistry in Eugene and was an assistant drama professor at the University of Oregon. Then he moved his office to Altadena, Calif., and became involved in the

At age 38, Buchanan landed his first part, turned his dental office over to his wife and began a second career.

Authorities Search for Laguna Pilot

Aviation authorities are searching today for a 47-year-old Laguna Beach man who disappeared Monday after he took off to do "acrobatic maneuvers."

Lt. Peggy Beelby of the Civil Air Patrol said Dalip Sand, 560 Flora St., was last seen when he left Van Nuys Airport at 9 a.m. Monday.

(Sand's father, the late D. S. Sand, was the first native of India elected to Congress.)

He was piloting a high wing, single-engine Bellanca Super Decathlon, which is designed for acrobatic stunts.

Lt. Beelby said Civil Air Patrol pilots set up a base at San Fernando Airport early today to conduct a search for the missing pilot. They planned to survey several acrobatic flying areas located along the Los Angeles county coastline.

"He didn't file a flight plan, so we're not sure which area he went to," Lt. Beelby said. "We'll just start looking until we cover all of those areas."

There was no known radio contact with the plane, she said. The pilot's father, an Imperial Valley farmer, served the three terms from a Congressional district in Riverside and Imperial counties from 1956 to 1962. He suffered a stroke in 1962 and died in 1973.

the first murder trial but took the stand Monday when Judge McMillan granted her immunity from any possible prosecution.

Waddill is accused of strangling a two-pound, 15-ounce infant known as Baby Girl Weaver after she allegedly survived a saline abortion two years ago.

Defense Attorney Charles Weedman has insisted, however, the infant was already dead or irreversibly on the verge of death when Waddill examined her in the Westminster Community Hospital nursery.

Mrs. Kennedy, a friend of the mother's family, testified she was in and out of the nursery after the baby's delivery.

And her statements from the witness stand conflicted on several key points with those of prosecution witness Dr. Ronald Cornelsen.

"At any time while you were there did you see Dr. Waddill strangle the baby?" Weedman asked.

"No, I did not," Mrs. Kennedy replied.

Cornelsen had testified he saw Waddill's head at the infant's throat four times as the physician allegedly complained that the baby would not stop breathing.

He also testified that Waddill asked Mrs. Kennedy to get potassium chloride to inject in the baby's heart to stop its breathing, but Mrs. Kennedy said Tuesday no such request was made.

And while Cornelsen said Waddill later asked Mrs. Kennedy for a bucket of water, allegedly to drown the infant, Mrs. Kennedy insisted Tuesday no such order was given her.

Plants Testing 'Forged'

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) — Untested concrete has been used in construction of portions of the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant in north-central Texas, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

For at least three years, concrete inspectors at the plant periodically failed to properly perform certain quality control tests related to the composition of the concrete and its strength, the newspaper said.

In some cases, the results of the tests were forged, the newspaper reported.

The Star-Telegram interviewed former and current workers at the plant, 45 miles southwest of Fort Worth, and examined Nuclear Regulatory Commission inspection reports dating to 1973.

Ten persons, most of them former quality control inspectors, said they participated in or personally witnessed inspections that in one way or another violated NRC standards.

Officials of companies involved in the plant construction denied there are any quality control problems.

But officials at Texas Utilities Generating Co., charged with final approval of the quality assurance program at the construction site, acknowledged there were "management problems" with the Robert W. Hunt Co. of Chicago, which ran the concrete testing laboratory until mid-1978.

TUGCO is a subsidiary of Texas Utilities Inc., the parent company of Texas Electric Service Co., Dallas Power & Light and Texas Power & Light.

TUGCO assumed responsibility for the concrete testing lab in July. Officials said any difficulties which existed previously have been solved.

Quality Assurance Manager Ron Tolson denied that quality control problems had been widespread under Hunt management or that safety had been compromised in any way.

But independent experts contacted by the Star-Telegram stressed that it is unlikely the situation at the plant poses a danger to the public.

Mile Square Bike Path Approved

Fountain Valley's 10-year push for a landscaped bicycle trail at Mile Square Park came to a close Tuesday night as city councilmen approved a $75,300 agreement with the county.

The Orange County Department of Harbors, Beaches and Parks will kick in $57,300 for the 30-foot wide bike trail that will be constructed along Brookhurst Street and Warner Avenue.

The city, utilizing $18,000 in Southern California Association of Government funding, will handle public bidding for the construction.

The county agency will maintain the bike trail after it is built, city officials said.

UCI Student Senate to Halt New U?

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

UC Irvine student senators Tuesday voted 14-6 to withdraw student funding of the heavily criticized UCI student newspaper, the New U.

But New U Editor Richard Clucas said he would continue to publish the journal anyway. He said advertising revenues have made the newspaper self-supporting.

It was unclear today among student government authorities whether Clucas and the staff of the new U would be prevented from using offices and a photography lab located on campus.

Dennis Hampton, student government business manager, said the equipment and facilities are the property of UCI's Associated Students. Clucas, he said, would have to gain council approval to continue to use them independently.

The attempt to shut down the New U came after months of controversy generated by the publication's use of stories, photos and advertising considered by many students to be offensive to women or minority groups.

Contributing to the affair were coverage of a wet T-shirt contest at a Santa Ana bar, bogus advertisements mocking Iranian student demonstrators, and a humor supplement that attempted ethnic whimsy with an ad for a magazine, "The Jew U."

Several students—some of them editors of the competing student newspaper, the Real U—reacted to the article and photographs about the T-shirt contest by disposing of thousands of copies of the new U

in the trash.

The same thing happened to copies of the newspaper that carried the humor supplement.

Karen Bjorneby, student government executive vice president—and leader of the first group of trashcan censors—said today that publication of the humor supplement was "the final straw."

"It was an insult to so many students on this campus," said Miss Bjorneby, who helps edit the Real U.

Carl Toups, author of the bill to cancel the remaining $10,000 in the fund to publish this year's last nine editions of the weekly campus paper, agreed.

"We've just had a lot of problems with (Clucas) and the whole staff," Toups said.

Lottery Landings Proposed

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Under questioning by an Air California attorney, Federal Aviation Administration official Jerry Dallas today suggested a lottery could solve Orange County Airport's alleged discrimination problem.

Dallas resumed testifying this morning in the second day of the FAA hearing into allegations of discrimination against air carriers not granted leases at Orange County Airport.

His remark was made in reply to a question from Jack Fudge, representing Air Cal, one of 10 parties to the fact finding hearing.

TESTIMONY—A2

But as quickly as he made the suggestion, Dallas backed off when pressed by Mike Gatzky, an attorney for Orange County.

"There are many ways to solve the space problem," Dallas said to Gatzky. "A bid system may or may not solve the discrimination problem though."

Dallas added that available airport space might be divided among as many carriers that hold Orange County routes.

"In our era of deregulation," Gatzky replied, "you could be talking about as many air carriers as the federal government has certified."

The cross examination of Dallas by Fudge and Gatzky was a continuation of Tuesday's effort on the part of county and Air Cal officials to get the FAA official to concede that space limitations and not discrimination are the key issues at the local airport.

However, as was the case Tuesday, Dallas never agreed.

Matt Hodson, 22, had the day off from work Tuesday. It was a nice day so he decided to run from Anaheim to Costa Mesa. He was doing fine until he decided to take a short cut across the mudflats of Upper Newport Bay. As they say, it seemed like a good idea at the time. "I'd say he made it 99 percent of the way across," observed Newport Beach fire Capt. Jerry Strom. It took some large pieces of plywood, a stout line and six firemen to help Hodson make the last 10 feet. "He was stuck so hard," Strom commented, "that he couldn't even turn around." "It seems pretty funny, but if he'd been a kid, he would have died." Other than some bruising to his pride, Hodson, a Garden Grove resident, escaped injury in the early afternoon incident near Santa Isabel Avenue on the west side of the bay.

Court Hears 'Holy War'

Lutherans Battle Congregation Split

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A courtroom battle over possession of an Irvine Lutheran church opened Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court.

St. Matthew Lutheran Church's so-called "holy war" centers on a split among the church congregation—those loyal to the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and those who want to join a less conservative group, the Lutheran Church in America.

The dispute thickened in November when the majority membership voted to sever ties with the Missouri Synod and renege the church's Synod-held debt.

But the rest of the congregation minority wants to retain affiliation with the Missouri Synod and filed suit to seek possession of about $300,000 in church property.

"The case doesn't involve any attempt by the court to inject itself into a religious question," Mike Brennan, attorney for the minority membership, said in his opening courtroom statement Tuesday.

"We are going to ask the court to decide which group stays and which group goes," Brennan told Superior Court Judge Robert Todd.

"There is no question that the majority of the congregation voted to leave (Missouri Synod)," he continued.

But Brennan said a contract for purchase of the church property stipulated that it be for a Missouri Synod congregation. And, he argued, possession should not be diverted "from what I would call a loyal minority."

The Rev. Herbert Niermann, founding pastor of the church, has been at the center of the dispute and on the side of the majority membership.

Milton Dahl, a member of the break-away group, has said the vote to leave the Missouri Synod came after the Synod's Southern California District demanded Niermann's resignation last fall.

A series of preliminary courtroom skirmishes followed the November vote when minority members of the congregation claimed they had been locked out of the church and refused admission to services.

As a result, interim court orders have set aside hours for worship services for the minority and have prohibited transfer of ownership for the church or refinancing, pending the trial, which is expected to last about two weeks.

Brennan told Judge Todd the church was created by the Missouri Synod district in 1968 when Rev. Niermann was sent to found the church.

Since then, he contended, most payments toward the building debt have been paid by the dis-

Plant's Test Of Concrete Said 'Forged'

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) — Untested concrete has been used in construction of portions of the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant in north-central Texas, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

For at least three years, concrete inspectors at the plant periodically failed to properly perform certain quality control tests related to the composition of the concrete and its strength, the newspaper said.

In some cases, the results of the tests were forged, the newspaper reported.

The Star-Telegram interviewed former and current workers at the plant, 45 miles southwest of Fort Worth, and examined Nuclear Regulatory Commission inspection reports dating to 1973.

Ten persons, most of them former quality control inspectors, said they participated in or personally witnessed inspections that in one way or another violated NRC standards.

Officials of companies involved in the plant construction denied there are any quality control problems.

But officials at Texas Utilities Generating Co., charged with final approval of the quality assurance program at the construction site, acknowledged there were "management problems" with the Robert W. Hunt Co. of Chicago, which ran the concrete testing laboratory.

TUGCO is a subsidiary of Texas Utilities Inc., the parent company of Texas Electric Service Co., Dallas Power & Light and Texas Power & Light.

Song Gets Car?

Slang Backfires for Toyota

MANCHESTER, Conn. (AP) — A television commercial says you can get a Toyota "for a song," so Cheryl Hyland thought she'd try it.

She walked into Lynch Toyota on Tuesday and sang "Happy Birthday" to puzzled sales manager William Lockwood. Neither Lockwood nor owner Michael Lynch said they had seen the commercial.

Lynch called a Hartford television station, heard the ad and then called Toyota's U.S. headquarters in New Jersey. He was told the phrase "for a song" is used as a slang expression and has been cleared by company lawyers.

But Lynch, ever the smiling salesman, promised to check further.

"If you've got a car coming, then you've got a car coming," he told Ms. Hyland, who says she owns a Toyota and would sell the free one if she gets it.

Girl, 16, Retells Ordeal

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An attractive Dana Hills High School coed sat calmly in an Orange County Superior Court witness box Tuesday and identified the man who last December shot her five times and then beat her with a hammer.

"Do you see the man who assaulted you in this courtroom?" prosecutor Paul Meyer asked.

"Him," Juli Michelle Gonzalez said as she quickly nodded toward attempted murder defendant Charles Huber Guenther, 33, of Irvine.

Miss Gonzalez went on to describe her ordeal the afternoon of Dec. 8 after she was picked up while hitchhiking home from school.

"Did anything unusual happen when you were driving alone?" Meyer asked the girl.

"He, ah, he shot me," Miss Gonzalez replied.

"Did you see a gun in his hand?"

"No," the girl answered. "I was turned in the opposite direction. I just heard a strange noise in my head. It was all black but I could see lights and things. But it was all black."

"What happened after the shooting?" Meyer then asked.

"He took out a hammer and started hitting me on the head with it," Miss Gonzalez said.

"How many times did he hit you?" Meyer wanted to know.

"I don't know. It just kept going on and on," the now 16-year-old high school coed replied.

She went on to describe her escape from Guenther's flashy sports car when its driver pulled into a construction road in the Dana Point area.

Miss Gonzalez' testimony came on the opening day of Guenther's trial on multiple charges related to the near deadly assault on her as well as a non-shooting attack on another high school coed nine months earlier.

Guenther, a juvenile hall counselor from 1969 until his arrest last December, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Defense attorney William Dougherty told the jury in his opening statement that he will not dispute many of the facts in the case.

The defense will attempt to prove that Guenther's mental

FAA 'Sham'

County Blasts Plane Hearing

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An attorney representing Orange County in the hearings on the county airport called by the Federal Aviation Administration said Tuesday the agency's star witness was evasive and labeled the proceedings a sham.

Mike Gatzke, special counsel hired to represent the county in the hearings, leveled those charges at the opening session Tuesday.

The FAA is charging Orange County with discrimination at the airport in preventing some air carriers from operating there.

The hearings, conducted by an FAA counsel, are part of an investigation of three charges.

Much of Tuesday's hearing involved Jerry Dallas of the Los Angeles office of the FAA, the man Gatzke said was evasive.

Gatzke, state attorney Ed Connor and Dennis O'Neil, Newport Beach city attorney, attempted in roughly four hours of cross examination to get Dallas to acknowledge that there are constraints on the airport in terms of its size, the strength and length of its runways and the noise standards enforced upon it by the state.

The attorneys also attempted to elicit a concession from Dallas that the FAA has long been aware of the constraints. Their point was that the agency made grant money available to the airport knowing in advance that the county in effect would be discriminating against some air carriers because it could not grant them a space at the airport because of the constraints.

But in his four hours on the witness stand, Dallas, the FAA's chief grant administrator for Southern California airports, answered few questions directly.

It was after a series of questions was re-read, re-stated and clarified that the frustrated Gatzke told hearing officer DeWitte Lawson, Jr. he considered Dallas' answers evasive.

The session that opened Tuesday at the Holiday Inn in Laguna Hills included testimony from Congressman Robert Badham, R-Newport Beach, who read a statement into the record and left without being cross-examined.

Badham contended that if the FAA forces the county to take on more air carriers at the airport, the result would be to make all air routes there unprofitable and would mean the loss of commercial jet service.

Badham's appearance was followed by the entering of several written documents into the record, including a statement from Gatzke in which he claimed the FAA had prejudged the issue and said the hearing was a sham.

His contention was based on an article in Aviation Daily, an FAA publication, which said current airport operations "violate a section of the Federal Aviation Act of 1953 and the Airport Development Program grants."

He claimed the New U editors failed to create new policies ordered by the campus Communications Board, which oversees the newspaper and other campus publications.

The new policies were to have been designed to prevent publication of ads, real or imagined, that would be offensive to ethnic groups.

"The money to operate this newspaper comes from student funds," Toups said. "We feel it should be responsive to students."

Toups' resolution was added to the student council agenda without prior notice. No member of the New U staff was present to respond.

"The church cannot function to the advantage of its members as it presently is constituted," Brennan continued.

"It presently is constituted with two pastors," he said. "The friction between the two groups has reached such a stage that old friends no longer speak to one another when they see each other in church."

Brennan said the dispute has sparked "petty complaints and vindictiveness" over such things "as one group complaining that the other group is mowing the lawn when it should be mowing the lawn."

Death Order Confirmed

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — The death penalty has been confirmed for what the judge called "an unprovoked slaughter of two relatively helpless individuals."

A Kern County Superior Court jury previously ordered the death penalty for Carl David Hogan, 24, of Bakersfield in the sledgehammer slayings May 16 of Theresa Holland, 24, and her son, Jeremy John Montoya, 5. Hogan also was convicted of attempted murder of Mrs. Holland's year-old son who was beaten but survived.

Judge Marvin Ferguson refused Monday to modify the jury's ruling and said "the circumstantial evidence is just overwhelming."

State to Approve Plan?

County Forwards Irvine Coast Development

Orange County Supervisors have decided to forward their plan for development of the 3,400-acre Irvine Coast to the California Coastal Commission.

And because of differing opinions as to whether the plan has or has not been approved by the regional commission, supervisors are sending along three different resolutions with their plan.

The regional commission refused to consider the county plan Feb. 15 and could muster too few votes to approve a substitute offered by the commission staff.

As a result, one county resolution asks the state body to approve the county plan as is, contending the regional commission approved it Feb. 15 by default.

If that approach fails, a second resolution is an appeal of the regional commission's rejection of the county's development plan.

The third is a request that the state pay for any changes required in the county-drafted proposal.

So far, county officials have spent about $55,000 to develop and process the plan, with less than 10 percent being reimbursed by the state.

The county plan would allow the Irvine Co. to build about 12,000 homes on about one-quarter of the acres between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach.

The remainder of the land would be left in open space.

While county officials have proposed that part of the open space acreage be left in Irvine Co. ownership, the staff of the regional commission has insisted the company dedicate all open land to the county.

A second bone of contention between the commission staff and county officials has been over plans for Sand Canyon Road, a street the county envisions as four lanes wide. The regional commission staff sees it as a two-lane road.

Jury Weighs Evidence in Insanity Plea

An Orange County Superior Court jury was trying to decide today if a Mission Viejo locksmith was insane when he posed as a Mafia chieftain to arrange two killings.

Joseph Serino, 50, was found guilty by the same jury Tuesday of conspiracy to commit second-degree murder and murder-solicitation.

Serino, who has wept openly during his two-week trial, pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to charges stemming from the aborted murder-for-hire schemes.

Saddleback Board Head To Resign

Citing the pressures of being chairman after a two-year stint in the job, Saddleback College Board President Lawrence "Larry" Taylor announced his resignation from the position today effective April 23.

Taylor, a 44-year Laguna Beach resident, said he would continue to serve on the Saddleback board as a regular member. His term of office expires in December.

"It's a tremendous commitment and responsibility serving as board chairman," Taylor said today. "I feel like if I wasn't president I could have more freedom."

"There's a lot of things my wife and I have wanted to do and I've been tied down by the presidency."

Taylor noted that his term as board chairman would usually end this time of year, but was extended after state legislation pushed school board elections back to November.

He said his decision to resign the chairmanship does not affect his intention to run for re-election in November.

Taylor served for 10 years on the Laguna Beach School board before running for the Saddleback board in 1974. His terms on the Laguna board were broken up during a period when the Lagunan worked on a committee trying to form Saddleback College in the sixties.

A college spokesman this morning noted that the state Education Code require the board vice president to ascend to the presidency. Robert Price of Laguna Hills is vice president.

A spokeswoman said board members would decide April 23 whether to elect another board president or to promote Price.

In addition to Taylor's board seat, terms of office for Norris Brandt of Irvine, John Connolly of Mission Viejo and Harriett Walther of Tustin expire in December.

Rape Issue Supported

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Plain tiffs in rape cases couldn't be forced by trial judges to take psychiatric examinations, under a bill approved by the state Senate Judiciary Committee.

The 5-2 vote Tuesday sent SB 395 by Sen. Diane Watson, D-Los Angeles, to the Senate floor.

Backers of the bill said the psychiatric exam authorized by a decade-old state Supreme Court decision humiliates and intimidates rape victims. Under it, an examination may be requested by the defense and can be ordered by the judge as evidence of whether the victim is telling the truth.

condition at the time of the assaults made it impossible for him to understand or control his actions, Dougherty said.

Nonetheless, as Meyer rapidly called prosecution witnesses to the stand, the two lawyers were in obvious conflict over at least some of the charges lodged against the defendant.

Dougherty, for example, asked both victims if they hadn't voluntarily gotten into Guenther's auto — an apparent attempt to discount kidnap charges against his client.

In turn, Meyer asked Miss Gonzalez if she wanted to be in the same car with the defendant after the shooting started.

"Of course not," the girl answered.

Dougherty also attempted to put down any suggestion that rape might have been a motive behind the attack.

But the defense attorney made it clear to the jury in Judge Richard Beacom's courtroom that he will concentrate his efforts on the sanity portion of the trial and its accompanying "not guilty by reason of insanity" plea.

Fire Hits

Sheik's Home

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — The gaudily-decorated Sunset Boulevard home of a young sheik from Saudi Arabia was scorched by a brief fire, officials said.

Five companies of firefighters responded Tuesday night to the call at the 56-room mansion of Sheik Mohammed Al-Fassi, and the blaze was put out quickly, fire spokesman Jim Smith said. No injuries were reported.

It was not known who was at home when the fire occurred. Following criticism of the renovated mansion, the sheik reportedly returned to Saudi Arabia last summer.

UCI Student Senate to Halt New U?

By PHILIP ROSMARIN

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

UC Irvine student senators Tuesday voted 14-6 to withdraw student funding of the heavily criticized UCI student newspaper, the New U.

But New U Editor Richard Clucas said he would continue to publish the journal anyway. He said advertising revenues have made the newspaper self-supporting.

It was unclear today among student government authorities whether Clucas and the staff of the new U would be prevented from using offices and a photography lab located on campus.

Dennis Hampton, student government business manager, said the equipment and facilities are the property of UCI's Associated Students. Clucas, he said, would have to gain council approval to continue to use them independently.

The attempt to shut down the New U came after months of controversy generated by the publication's use of stories, photos and advertising considered by many students to be offensive to women or minority groups.

Contributing to the affair were coverage of a wet T-shirt contest at a Santa Ana bar, bogus advertisements mocking Iranian student demonstrators, and a humor supplement that attempted ethnic whimsy with an ad for a magazine, "The Jew U."

Several students—some of them editors of the competing student newspaper, the Real U—reacted to the article and photographs about the T-shirt contest by disposing of thousands of copies of the new U

in the trash.

The same thing happened to copies of the newspaper that carried the humor supplement.

Karen Bjorneby, student government executive vice president and leader of the first group of trashcan censors, said today that publication of the humor supplement was "the final straw."

"It was an insult to so many students on this campus," said Miss Bjorneby, who helps edit the Real U.

Carl Toups, author of the bill to cancel the remaining $10,000 in the fund to publish this year's last nine editions of the weekly campus paper, agreed.

"We've just had a lot of problems with (Clucas) and the whole staff," Toups said.

Love Flies In Abecedarian Seeking Office

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Love 22 flew into Los Angeles Airport from Hawaii last week, and it's only right that he was on United Airlines flight No. 22.

You see, Love 22 (that's the legal name on his Rhode Island driver's license) has this thing about the number 22.

He's an abecedarian—a person who studies the alphabet, and he's also a numerologist of sorts, giving numerical values to letters.

So where does the number 22 fit in?

"It is the master number of the secrets of the universe," Love 22 will tell you.

That's why the former Laguna changed his name to Love 22 seven years ago after leaving a lucrative public relations job where he was pulling down $40,000 a year, he said.

He walked out of his executive offices just off the Garden Grove freeway (Highway 22) to become an evangelist on the subject of the number 22.

So now, words whose letters add up to the number 22 have a special significance to Love 22.

For instance, he was shocked to learn upon his return, that the Laguna Beach School of Art was hit by a $500,000 fire earlier this year.

He had a special affection for the building. The address is 2222 Laguna Canyon Road.

And the fact the SLIDE (that adds up to 22) in Bluebird Canyon destroyed 22 homes also strikes him as awesome.

Now that you know where Love 22 is coming from, you should know the bearded philosopher is running for President of the United States.

That explains the funny Uncle Sam hat he wears.

His campaign platform is a little more difficult to explain.

His slogan reads "A Vote for Love is a Vote for You." Yabbadabbadieu.

Love 22 ties his campaign in with Proposition 22, the AX TAXES initiative, which, of course, adds up to the magic numbers.

"There's no gold or silver behind the bucks," he says mystically. "Just paper."

"My message is, 'Hey, America, wake up. You're asleep,'" 22 says. He's also against POLLUTION (A double 22 word), power plants.

"No nukes, they're flukes," he recites.

And he wants to have a woman for a running mate, saying he's all for the Equal Rights

Crash Kills Clementean Cyril Maire

Eighty-five-year-old San Clemente resident Cyril Maire died in a grinding crash with a pickup truck near his home on Pacific Coast Highway Tuesday morning.

Police Sgt. Bill Trudeau said Maire, of 266 Avenida Victoria, was making a U-turn at 11:45 a.m. when his compact sedan was struck broadside by a passing truck about a half mile north of Avenida Pico.

The truck carried the smaller auto about 40 feet down the highway. Paramedics arrived at the scene and found the vehicles locked together with the stricken Maire trapped inside.

The victim was in full cardiac arrest and had both his legs smashed, said Paramedic Capt. Nick Maule.

It took firemen about 30 minutes to free the man and rush him to San Clemente General Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Police said no charges were filed against the pickup truck driver.

Funeral services for the victim are pending. Arrangements are being handled by Saddleback Mortuary in Tustin.

Youth, 14, Held on Rape Charge

A 14-year-old Huntington Beach boy was arrested by police Tuesday and charged with the rape of a 48-year-old woman, seven indecent exposures and a string of laundry room burglaries over the past six months.

Police today said an investigation is continuing that could lead to the arrest of other juveniles in connection with the burglaries, but not the alleged sex crimes.

Investigators said the youth was arrested Tuesday after his fingerprints matched those left at the scene of a laundry coin box burglary at an apartment complex in the northwest section of town.

Sgt. Luis Ochoa said investigators noted a similarity between the youth and a police composite drawing released following the Jan. 12 rape of a Huntington Beach resident.

Under questioning by police, the high school student reportedly confessed to the rape.

In that incident, the victim was accosted as she was getting out of her car near her home. The attacker reportedly choked her and forced her into the backyard where the rape occurred.

Woman Loses Necklace

A West Hollywood woman complained to Laguna Beach police that someone slipped a pearl necklace valued at $900 from her neck in a crowded restaurant.

Police said the woman was standing in the crowded restaurant when someone bumped into her. She believes the necklace was taken at that time.

Councilmen 'Mute' On Sycamore Hills

One Laguna Beach councilman complains he's been left in the dark on the city's progress in settling a $5.1 million debt for purchase of Sycamore Hills.

And a neighborhood association president asked the City Council what happened to the council promise to keep the citizens up to date on the land purchase from Rancho Palos Verdes Corp., which sold the 522-acre parcel to the city last April.

The answer, provided by Mayor Jack McDowell and City Manager Fred Solomon Tuesday night, was that there is nothing to report.

Laguna Beach has until June 15 to come up with the balance owed on the shrub-covered acreage out Laguna Canyon Road. The council promised last November to provide citizens with bi-weekly updates on the progress of the land deal.

Councilman Wayne Baglin said people come up to him on the street and ask him how things are going on the sale, "and I have to tell them, 'Hell if I know,'" he told fellow council members Tuesday.

He said it has been since last November that a detailed review of the acquisition was presented for the public, despite a promise the issue would be a regular agenda item.

Authorities Hunt Laguna Pilot, 47

Aviation authorities are searching today for a 47-year-old Laguna Beach man who disappeared Monday after he took off to do "aerobatic maneuvers."

Lt. Peggy Beelby of the Civil Air Patrol said Dalip Saund, 560 Flora St., was last seen when he left Van Nuys Airport at 9 a.m. Monday.

(Saund's father, the late D. S. Saund, was the first native of India elected to Congress.)

He was piloting a high-wing, single-engine Bellanca Super Decathlon, which is designed for aerobatic stunts.

Lt. Beelby said Civil Air Patrol pilots set up a base at San Fernando Airport early today to conduct a search for the missing pilot. They planned to survey several aerobatic flying areas located along the Los Angeles county coastline.

"He didn't file a flight plan, so we're not sure which area he went to," Lt. Beelby said. "We'll just start looking until we cover all of those areas."

There was no known radio contact with the plane, she said.

The pilot's father, an Imperial Valley farmer, served the three terms from a Congressional district in Riverside and Imperial counties from 1956 to 1962. He suffered a stroke in 1962 and died in 1973.

'Uncle Joe' Actor Dies At Age 76

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Edgar Buchanan, who abandoned a medical career to take up acting, died early today while recovering from brain surgery, a spokesman for Eisenhower Memorial Hospital said.

Buchanan, 76, never recovered from the operation Jan. 29 to remove a tube placed in his brain four years earlier to help overcome poor circulation of spinal fluids, said a spokesman.

The exact cause of death was not immediately announced.

In a film career that spanned three decades, Buchanan appeared as a character actor in more than 80 movies and 150 television dramas before landing a steady role as Uncle Joe in CBS-TV's "Petticoat Junction" series in the 1960s.

He took pre-med and drama courses at the University of Oregon, then, at the urging of his father, went to North Pacific Dental College in Portland, where he married a classmate. But he kept busy with summer stock companies and local playhouses.

For 10 years, Buchanan practiced dentistry in Eugene and was an assistant drama professor at the University of Oregon. Then he moved his office to Altadena, Calif., and became involved in the Pasadena Playhouse, which was frequented by scouts from the Hollywood movie studios.

At age 38, Buchanan landed his first part, turned his dental office over to his wife and began a second career.

Rape Issue Supported

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Plain tiffs in rape cases couldn't be forced by trial judges to take psychiatric examinations, under a bill approved by the state Senate Judiciary Committee.

The 5-2 vote Tuesday sent SB 395 by Sen. Diane Watson, D-Los Angeles, to the Senate floor.

Backers of the bill said the psychiatric exam authorized by a decade-old state Supreme Court decision humiliates and intimidates rape victims. Under it, an examination may be requested by the defense and can be ordered by the judge as evidence of whether the victim is telling the truth.

'Holy War' Opens Court Hears Church Split Issue

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A courtroom battle over possession of an Irvine Lutheran church opened Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court.

St. Matthew Lutheran Church's so-called "holy war" centers on a split among the church congregation — those loyal to the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod and those who want to join a less conservative group, the Lutheran Church in America.

The dispute thickened in November when the majority membership voted to sever ties with the Missouri Synod and re-finance the church's Synod held debt.

But the rest of the congregation minority wants to retain affiliation with the Missouri Synod and filed suit to seek possession of about $300,000 in church property.

The case doesn't involve any attempt by the court to inject itself into a religious question, Mike Brennan, attorney for the minority membership, said in his opening courtroom statement Tuesday.

"We are going to ask the court to decide which group stays and which group goes," Brennan told Superior Court Judge Robert Todd.

"There is no question that the majority of the congregation voted to leave (Missouri Synod)," he continued.

But Brennan said a contract for purchase of the church property stipulated that it be for a Missouri Synod congregation. And, he argued, possession should not be diverted "from what I would call a loyal minority."

The Rev. Herbert Niermann, founding pastor of the church, has been at the center of the dispute and on the side of the majority membership.

Milton Dahl, a member of the break away group, has said the vote to leave the Missouri Synod came after the Synod's Southern California District demanded Niermann's resignation last fall.

A series of preliminary courtroom skirmishes followed the November vote when minority members of the congregation claimed they had been locked out of the church and refused admission to services.

As a result, interim court orders have set aside hours for worship services for the minority.

ty and have prohibited transfer of ownership for the church or refinancing, pending the trial, which is expected to last about two weeks.

Brennan told Judge Todd the church was created by the Missouri Synod district in 1968 when Rev. Niermann was sent to found the church.

Since then, he contended, most payments toward the building debt have been paid by the district and the church congregation never has been self-supporting.

"The church cannot function to the advantage of its members as it presently is constituted," Brennan continued.

"It presently is constituted with two pastors," he said. "The friction between the two groups has reached such a stage that old friends no longer speak to one another when they see each other in church."

Brennan said the dispute has sparked "petty complaints and vindictiveness" over such things "as one group complaining that the other group is mowing the lawn when it should be mowing the lawn."

planned use and annexation of Irvine property adjacent to Sycamore Hills, our city manager has received proposals on possible use of Sycamore Hills itself, and an outside counsel has advised us of options or penalties which may face the city as a result of the payment due Rancho Palos Verdes in June."

He said he attended a planning commission meeting last month where a discussion of the purchase was scheduled, to hear a commissioner say that panel was not involved in the planning of Sycamore Hills.

Baglin said the planning commissioner was reassured by Marlene Roth, the city's planning director, that "the planning commission wasn't involved in anything because nothing of significance was taking place."

"If this is the case," he said, "our deadline looks more threatening than ever."

Baglin's remarks were preceded by a statement read by Linda Ristow, president of the Arch Beach Heights Neighborhood Association, who also complained of the lack of information provided on the Sycamore Hills settlement.

She said the last the public heard about the purchase was "an assurance from you, Mayor McDowell, that there would be no tax dollars expended for the settlement and no homes built."

Since that time, Mrs. Ristow said, discussions have been held with the Irvine Company for "annexation of the entire Laguna Canyon view corridor and some 4,000 homesites scattered around a proposed golf course."

"Thus it would appear the only participants in this scenario that remain in the dark are the public, the taxpayers citizens of this community."

But Mayor McDowell was adamant in maintaining that the information on the purchase would be forthcoming should there be anything to report.

But, he added, "I think it would be all wrong for them to get out in front on things that they are assigned to work on actions, Dougherty said. Nonetheless, as Meyer rapidly called prosecution witnesses to the stand, the two lawyers were in obvious conflict over at least some of the charges lodged against the defendant.

Dougherty, for example, asked both victims if they hadn't voluntarily gotten into Guenther's auto — an apparent attempt to discount kidnap charges against his client.

In turn, Meyer asked Miss Gonzalez if she wanted to be in the same car with the defendant after the shooting started.

"Of course not," the girl answered.

Dougherty also attempted to put down any suggestion that rape might have been a motive behind the attack.

But the defense attorney made it clear to the jury in Judge Richard Beacom's courtroom that he will concentrate his efforts on the sanity portion of the trial and its accompanying "not guilty by reason of insanity" plea.

Plant's Testing 'Forged'

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) — Untested concrete has been used in construction of portions of the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant in north-central Texas, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

For at least three years, concrete inspectors at the plant periodically failed to properly perform certain quality control tests related to the composition of the concrete and its strength, the newspaper said.

In some cases, the results of the tests were forged, the newspaper reported.

The Star-Telegram interviewed former and current workers at the plant, 45 miles southwest of Fort Worth, and examined Nuclear Regulatory Commission inspection reports dating to 1973.

Ten persons, most of them former quality control inspectors, said they participated in or personally witnessed inspections that in one way or another violated NRC standards.

Officials of companies involved in the plant construction denied there are any quality control problems.

But officials at Texas Utilities Generating Co., charged with final approval of the quality assurance program at the construction site, acknowledged there were "management problems" with the Robert W. Hunt Co. of Chicago, which ran the concrete testing laboratory until mid-1978.

Parking Issue Hearing Set

San Clemente council members tonight are to consider adopting a law that would restrict commercial vehicles, recreational campers, trailers and boats from parking more than two hours in residential areas.

Angry residents have complained for the past five years in letters to city officials that the parked commercial vehicles are noisy and unsightly near their homes.

The proposed law would not apply to private pickup trucks or vans. Violation of the law could result in a fine up to $10.

The council has scheduled a 7:30 p.m. public hearing at city hall, 100 Avenida Presidio.

Stuck on Jogging

Daily Pilot Photos by Richard Koehler

Matt Hodson, 22, had the day off from work Tuesday. It was a nice day so he decided to run from Anaheim to Costa Mesa. He was doing fine until he decided to take a short cut across the mudflats of Upper Newport Bay. As they say, it seemed like a good idea at the time. "I'd say he made it 99 percent of the way across," observed Newport Beach fire Capt. Jerry Strom. It took some large pieces of plywood, a stout line and six firemen to help Hodson make the last 10 feet. "He was stuck so hard," Strom commented, "that he couldn't even turn around. 'It seems pretty funny, but if he'd been a kid, he would have died.' Other than some bruising to his pride, Hodson, a Garden Grove resident, escaped injury in the early afternoon incident near Santa Isabel Avenue on the west side of the bay.

FAA 'Sham'

County's Counsel Assails Hearing

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An attorney representing Orange County in the hearings on the county airport called by the Federal Aviation Administration said Tuesday the agency's star witness was evasive and labeled the proceedings a sham.

Mike Gatzke, special counsel hired to represent the county in the hearings, leveled those charges at the opening session Tuesday.

The FAA is charging Orange County with discrimination at the airport in preventing some air carriers from operating there.

The hearings, conducted by an FAA counsel, are being held as part of the investigation of those charges.

Much of Tuesday's hearing involved Jerry Dallas of the Los Angeles office of the FAA, the man Gatzke said was evasive.

Gatzke, state attorney Ed Connor and Dennis O'Neil, Newport Beach city attorney, attempted in roughly four hours of cross examination to get Dallas to acknowledge that there are constraints on the airport in terms of its size, the strength and length of its runways and the noise standards enforced upon it by the state.

The attorneys also attempted to elicit a concession from Dallas that the FAA has long been aware of the constraints. Their point was that the agency made grant money available to the airport knowing in advance that the county in effect would be discriminating against some air carriers because it could not grant them a space at the airport because of the constraints.

But in his four hours on the witness stand, Dallas, the FAA's chief grand administrator for Southern California airports, answered few questions directly.

It was after a series of questions was re-read, re-stated and clarified that the frustrated Gatzke told hearing officer DeWitte Lawson, Jr. he considered Dallas' answers evasive.

The session that opened Tuesday at the Holiday Inn in Laguna Hills included testimony from Congressman Robert Badham, R-Newport Beach, who read a statement into the record and left without being cross-examined.

Badham contended that if the FAA forces the county to take on more air carriers at the airport, the result would be to make all air routes there unprofitable and would mean the loss of commercial jet service.

Badham's appearance was followed by the entering of several written documents into the record, including a statement from Gatzke in which he claimed the FAA had prejudged the issue and said the hearing was a sham.

His contention was based on an article in Aviation Daily, an FAA publication, which said current airport operations "violate a section of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 and the Airport Development Program grants."

The FAA's contention is based on the restriction by county authorities of jet operations at the airport.

Only two jet airlines, Air California and Hughes Airwest, are allowed limited numbers of flights at the airport. Two others, Continental and Frontier, have been granted route authority by the federal government, but have not been given leases by county government.

Pleas Denied

Calm Killer Awaits Death

ATMORE, Ala. (AP) — John Louis Evans III edges ever closer to his appointment with the executioner Friday, apparently content that frantic last-minute pleas by his mother, his former attorney and an international organization will be unable to block his death wish.

The 29-year-old Texan, who drifted away from home as a teen-ager and claims to have lived off crime most of his adult life, has said he would rather die in the electric chair than spend his life in prison.

On Tuesday, a federal judge rejected an appeal by the condemned man's mother, Betty Evans of Beaumont, Texas, which was filed by attorney John Carroll, U.S. District Judge W.B. Hand of Mobile ruled Mrs. Evans had no standing in the case.

After the denial, Carroll began preparing a petition to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans to be filed today. The petition asks for a delay to study Evans' mental state. Carroll said it would be filed by another attorney while he went to Washington in case an eleventh-hour appeal needed to be filed with the U.S. Supreme Court.

In London, Amnesty International said Tuesday that Alabama Gov. Forrest James refused to see a delegation from the human rights group seeking clemency for Evans. A group of Alabama ministers also said James refused to see them to discuss clemency.

"Our position is that Governor James doesn't have to allow Evans to make a sacrificial lamb out of himself for prison reform," said Amnesty International spokesman Richard Roach.

Evans, meanwhile, was reportedly restless but at peace with his fate as he answered letters, drafted his "final statement" to be read to reporters today and again told attorneys at Holman Prison he opposed his mother's intervention.

"He feels at peace," said the Rev. Kevin Duignan, a Roman Catholic priest at Atmore who visits Evans daily. "He says he is tranquil now with his soul."

Duignan said Evans, in a death row cell adjacent to the electric chair, is finding sleep difficult and lacks an appetite.

"He's not eating well. He refused supper Tuesday. He drinks a lot of coffee. He smokes cigarettes. Much of the time he spends writing. He's gotten hundreds of letters," said Duignan.

If the appeals fail, Evans will be the first person executed in the United States since Jan. 17, 1977, when Gary Gilmore died before a Utah firing squad and ended nearly a decade that saw the gas chambers, gallows and electric chairs across the nation unused.

Evans, 29, who shot a Mobile pawn shop owner to death in 1977 and during his trial took a cocky, unrepentant stand, has voiced remorse in recent months for a life he describes as "wasted."

Summer Beef Price Peak Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beef prices, already setting records, will rise about 20 percent this year, probably reaching their highest point in the summer, the Agriculture Department estimates.

The department said Tuesday the rise in beef prices "probably will peak sometime during the summer," when an increase in pork and poultry supplies is expected to help stem the rise.

But that still means the all-cut beef price used by economists probably will be about $2.18 a pound by year's end — compared to last year's record average of $1.82 a pound.

The all-cut average, $1.62 a pound in February 1978, soared to $2.14 a pound this February, when the average price was 32.3 percent higher than the same month in 1978 and 4.4 percent above the average price in January of this year.

In New York, meanwhile, state and city officials urged consumers today to eat beef one time less a week than they normally would.

"This kind of cutting back in demand will respond to cattlemen's cutting back in their stock," said Rosemary Pooler, executive director of the New York State Consumer Protection Board.

She and Bruce Ratner, New York City's commissioner of consumer affairs, called for what they dubbed "beefless Wednesdays."

The latest estimate of a 20 percent hike in beef prices for 1979 outdistances Agriculture Department estimates released in January. At that time, officials said beef prices might rise an additional 14 percent this year.

On a brighter note, Agriculture officials also reported Tuesday that retail pork prices "will decline, but the extent of their decline will be limited by the reduced beef supply."

Paid Scout Aide Required to Marry

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Boy Scouts of America, being honest and truthful, told Robert Henderson he must marry his live-in girlfriend or forget about a $1,000-a-month job with their organization.

The 23-year-old Henderson, who graduated in December from San Diego State with a degree in recreation administrative management, says he, too, is honest and told the scouts right off that he and his roommate weren't married.

Schlesinger Rapped

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Paul F. Orefice, president of Dow Chemical Co., has called for the resignation of Energy Secretary James Schlesinger and for strengthened ties with resource-rich Mexico and Canada as part of a reorganization of U.S. energy policy.

So Henderson has filed a complaint and the state Division of Fair Employment Practices is investigating.

State investigator Rachel Wong said Tuesday that denying employment because of marital status violates the state Fair Employment Practices Act, but at this point, "I still can't say whether it is a violation of the law."

Richard Iseminger, a spokesman for the San Diego Council of the Boy Scouts, admitted the Scouts do not hire unmarried persons living with someone of the opposite sex because "we're built around the family concept."

"If they got married, fine," he said, "but as long as they're working with youth, both boys and girls, in a family situation and to hire someone totally opposite of that . . . we just can't do that . . . unless we're forced to."

GEMS ON DISPLAY
at L. A. Museum

The E. Hadley Stuart Hall of Gems and Minerals has opened as a part of the Los Angeles Museum of Natural History. It is the only such permanent museum display in the Western United States, and is said to surpass similar gem museum facilities in New York and Washington. A wide assortment of the world's minerals is on display in lighted cases in a dimly-lighted hall. The F. C. Hixon precious gem collection is also shown. It is augmented by stones given by other donors. The Hixon collection is so impressive, it is being used as part of a course of instruction conducted by the prestigious Gemological Institute of America. Students are taken to Stuart Hall to see, first-hand, outstanding examples of all precious stones and common minerals. The Los Angeles display will undoubtedly attract gifts from other important collections. It is worth a visit, whether or not you are intimately concerned with gems and minerals.

SAVING GRACES DEPT. Political savants of our coastal cities may have learned something from our County Seat's city elections yesterday and then again, maybe they didn't.

Anyway, it developed that Santa Ana did have a municipal vote and this time the turnout wasn't quite the embarrassment that visited our inland metropolis when it tried the same thing two years ago.

In Santa Ana's city election of 1977, the turnout was a ghastly 12.7 percent of the registered voters.

Yesterday, they got almost 20 percent to travel to the polls. The late count was showing that 11,713 of the city's 62,621 registered voters had showed up at the ballot box.

DESPITE THE ELECTION of four councilmen, probably the most watched issue on the Santa Ana ballot was an item called Proposition A. This was a budget limitation that flew in the face of nasty old inflation.

If adopted, Proposition A would have limited Santa Ana's city budget growth to 5 percent per year.

It wasn't adopted. The populace rejected it by roughly 1,000 votes.

"Sorry, Sir, You're Too Late to Get Help From the Paramedics."

This came as considerable surprise to many observers of the political scene at the County Seat, in view of what happened recently when our statewide voters got a shot at a tax limitation measure famously known as Proposition 13.

THUS FEAR AND DISMAY were rampant at Santa Ana City Hall before the votes got counted up yonder.

Now the anti-tax limit campaigners of Santa Ana may indeed have struck upon a theme that we may see repeated in some of our coastal jurisdictions. They used a fairly heavy ad campaign suggesting that paramedics might not be around to aid stricken citizens should a budget crimp hit City Hall.

Maybe that did it. It is clear that the citizenry strongly supports paramedic programs.

IN OUR COASTAL REGION, we've seen several defensive tactics used by public officials when the outcry came to cut spending. School trustees usually threatened to cut the music and band program first, and maybe even eliminate the football team. This brought out the band boosters and parents of athletes and thus saved the budget.

Now we may have entered the dawn of a new era for defensive budgeting by our municipal governments. Now when the populace begins beating on City Hall doors for budget cuts, the bureaucrats inside can call for help.

They can cry out, "Paramedic! Paramedic!"

Hen Hithes Long Ride

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) Workers at the Doco Packaging plant were startled when a chicken hopped down from underneath a tractor-trailer rig that had just arrived from Mexico via Moses Lake.

The mud-spattered fowl is believed to have huddled above the axle for four hours through rain and snow from a chicken

When a forklift driver bumped the truck, the bird apparently decided it was time to get off. Despite its scraggly appearance, the hen's courage won the hearts of Doco employees, who promptly handed it over to Carl Dourte of East Wenatchee. Dourte has 11 other hens and a rooster

THE TAX PROPOSAL would funnel most of the proceeds from the increase in domestic oil prices into several areas. The annual proceeds are estimated at $3 billion to $5 billion by 1981.

Carter said in Dallas March 24 that such a tax would be used in part to promote solar energy, alcohol fuel and other renewable energy sources.

White House officials, who asked not to be named, said Carter also will ask Congress to enact a tax plan vaguely similar to his "wellhead tax" proposal that Congress refused to enact last year.

CARTER'S DECISION to seek about 20 minutes of broadcast time at 6 p.m. PST Thursday, prime evening television viewing time, was announced Tuesday at the White House.

The immediate impact of Carter's expected action will be further upward pressure on the already soaring prices of gasoline, home heating oil and other petroleum fuels. Gasoline could go up 7 cents to 15 cents per gallon during the next 2½ years, according to various unofficial estimates.

White House officials, who asked not to be named, said Carter also will ask Congress to enact a tax plan vaguely similar to his "wellhead tax" proposal that Congress refused to enact last year.

The president also is considering announcing formation of a presidential commission to investigate the nuclear accident at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania, a mishap that further complicates Carter's already uncomfortable energy dilemma.

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Bloody riots broke out in India's Kashmir province and club-swinging police broke up groups of angry, chanting demonstrators here today hours after the hanging of former Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto. Three persons were reported killed in Kashmir.

Bhutto, who led Pakistan from 1971-1977, was hanged at Rawalpindi central jail at 2 a.m. on charges of ordering the murder of a political opponent. The hanging, carried out despite clemency pleas to President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq from world leaders, was greeted with shock and dismay in foreign capitals.

THEY SHOUTED "Shame, shame Zia the dog" and "Long live Bhutto our leader" before the police moved in.

Reports from Peshwar in

Zia, who ousted Bhutto in a July 1977 coup and installed a strict Moslem penal code, refused to commute the sentence despite pleas from the United States, Britain, China, the Soviet Union, the Vatican and others.

Zia's government said the body of the 51-year-old leader of the Pakistan People's Party was flown by air force to Naurdro, his birthplace in southern Pakistan, where it was buried in the presence of two uncles and one of his two wives eight hours after the execution.

A HELICOPTER brought Bhutto's shroud-wrapped body to one of the uncle's houses where the women in the family viewed it briefly. Cries of anguish came from the house.

For Bhutto's first wife, Shirin Amir Begum, who had visited him in jail Sunday, the arrival of the body may have been the first word of the execution. She was reportedly surprised and shocked at the arrival.

The body went to a mosque for final prayers and was carried to the family graveyard.

U.S. Summary

Booming thunderstorms produced heavy rain across southern Louisiana and Mississippi, spawning tornadoes and gusty winds in New Orleans suburbs and generating possible flood conditions along much of the Gulf Coast.

Late Tuesday, police said three twisters damaged buildings and downed power lines in Thibodaux, Schriever and Luling. No injuries were reported.

The heaviest rainfall occurred in Mississippi, with almost 2 inches in McComb. Nearly 4 inches fell in Hattiesburg.

The National Weather Service said the storm had expanded as far inland as Arkansas early today. Rivers in southeastern Louisiana were reported on the rise.

Forecasters said the danger of flooding continues over most of Louisiana, southern Mississippi and northern Alabama. A tornado watch was also issued for portions of Mississippi and Alabama early today.

Meanwhile, more rain spread into the middle Mississippi Valley and snow fell over eastern Kansas, northwestern Missouri and southern Iowa. The wintry conditions continued to spread across the northern plains.

Cold weather reached from the Great Lakes region to New England.

West Texas to California enjoyed mild temperatures. The Pacific Northwest was cold and damp. Temperatures early today ranged from 10 in Hibbing, Minn., to 76 in Fort Lauderdale and Key West, Fla.

California

The weatherman predicts a slight cooling trend Thursday from the pleasant springtime weather in Southern California.

Variable high clouds and morning coastal fog should return to most inland areas, National Weather Service forecasters say, along with temperatures reading in the lower 70s. The metropolitan Los Angeles area is expected to have a high near 70 Thursday.

The valleys are expected to remain warm. The service predicts, with highs Thursday of 72 to 78.

Mountain areas can expect high temperatures in the 50s and overnight lows mostly in the 30s. The upper deserts will have daytime temperatures of 68 to 75. Low deserts will have highs Thursday of 78 to 85.

Coastal weather

Low clouds Thursday morning and partly cloudy in the afternoon. Light variable winds night and morning hours. Highs Thursday 68 to 74.

Coastal temperatures will range between 59 and 66. Inland temperatures will range between 50 and 71. The water temperature will be 60.

UCI Student Senate to Halt New U?

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

UC Irvine student senators Tuesday voted 11-6 to withdraw student funding of the heavily criticized UCI student newspaper, the New U.

But New U Editor Richard Clucas said he would continue to publish the journal anyway. He said advertising revenues have made the newspaper self-supporting.

It was unclear today among student government authorities whether Clucas and the staff of the new U would be prevented from using offices and a photography lab located on campus.

Dennis Hampton, student government business manager, said the equipment and facilities are the property of UCI's Associated Students. Clucas, he said, would have to gain council approval to continue to use them independently.

The attempt to shut down the New U came after months of controversy generated by the publication's use of stories, photos and advertising considered by many students to be offensive to women or minority groups.

Contributing to the affair were coverage of a wet T-shirt contest at a Santa Ana bar, bogus advertisements mocking Iranian student demonstrators, and a humor supplement that attempted ethnic whimsy with an ad for a magazine, "The Jew U."

Several students some of them editors of the competing student newspaper, the Real U, reacted to the article and photographs about the T-shirt contest by disposing of thousands of copies of the new U

in the trash.

The same thing happened to copies of the newspaper that carried the humor supplement.

Karen Bjorneby, student government executive vice president and leader of the first group of trashcan censors, said today that publication of the humor supplement was "the final straw."

"It was an insult to so many students on this campus," said Miss Bjorneby, who helps edit the Real U.

Carl Toups, author of the bill to cancel the remaining $10,000 in the fund to publish this year's last nine editions of the weekly campus paper, agreed.

"We've just had a lot of problems with (Clucas) and the whole staff," Toups said.

Victim Retells Ordeal

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An attractive Dana Hills High School coed sat calmly in an Orange County Superior Court witness box Tuesday and identified the man who last December shot her five times and then beat her with a hammer.

"Do you see the man who assaulted you in this courtroom?" prosecutor Paul Meyer asked.

"Him," Juli Michelle Gonzalez said as she quickly nodded toward attempted murder defendant Charles Huber Guenther, 33, of Irvine.

Miss Gonzalez went on to describe her ordeal the afternoon of Dec. 8 after she was picked up while hitchhiking home from school.

"Did anything unusual happen when you were driving along?" Meyer asked the girl.

"He, ah... he shot me," Miss Gonzalez replied.

"Did you see a gun in his hand?"

"No," the girl answered. "I was turned in the opposite direction. I just heard a strange noise in my head. It was all black but I could see lights and things. But it was all black."

"What happened after the shooting?" Meyer then asked.

"He took out a hammer and started hitting me on the head with it," Miss Gonzalez said.

"How many times did he hit you?" Meyer wanted to know.

"I don't know. It just kept going on and on," the now 16-year-old high school coed replied.

She went on to describe her escape from Guenther's flashy sports car when its driver pulled into a construction road in the Dana Point area.

Miss Gonzalez' testimony came on the opening day of Guenther's trial on multiple charges related to the near deadly assault on her as well as a non-shooting attack on another high school coed nine months earlier.

Guenther, a juvenile hall counselor from 1969 until his arrest last December, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Defense attorney William Dougherty told the jury in his opening statement that he will not dispute many of the facts in the case.

The defense will attempt to prove that Guenther's mental condition at the time of the assaults made it impossible for him to understand or control his actions, Dougherty said.

Nonetheless, as Meyer rapidly called prosecution witnesses to the stand, the two lawyers were in obvious conflict over at least some of the charges lodged against the defendant.

Matt Hodson, 22, had the day off from work Tuesday. It was a nice day so he decided to run from Anaheim to Costa Mesa. He was doing fine until he decided to take a short cut across the mudflats of Upper Newport Bay. As they say, it seemed like a good idea at the time. "I'd say he made it 99 percent of the way across," observed Newport Beach fire Capt. Jerry Strom. It took some large pieces of plywood, a stout line and six firemen to help Hodson make the last 10 feet. "He was stuck so hard," Strom commented, "that he couldn't even turn around. It seems pretty funny, but if he'd been a kid, he would have died." Other than some bruising to his pride, Hodson, a Garden Grove resident, escaped injury in the early afternoon incident near Santa Isabel Avenue on the west side of the bay.

'No Menace' Seen From Earth Chasm

The gaping earthen chasm that has become a landmark of sorts along Newport Boulevard in Costa Mesa has eroded slightly because of recent heavy rains but apparently is no menace to motorists.

So say officials for the city Public Services Department and the State Department of Transportation.

The ditch, which was excavated for the laying of the roadbed of the Newport Freeway extension, is maintained by CalTrans and a spokesman there said he is unaware of any serious erosion problems.

A Daily Pilot photographer found an eroded section on Fair Avenue where it crosses Newport. A portion of a chain link fence is dangling over the ditchbed.

But officials minimized the dangers.

The CalTrans spokesman said maintenance crews keep a close eye on the ditch.

He said the crews would take care of the yawning chasm until a final decision is made on whether to extend the freeway through Costa Mesa, as it was (See CHASM, Page A2)

Killer Suggests Taping Execution

ATMORE, Ala. (AP) — Condemned murderer John Lewis Evans III proposed today that his electrocution Friday be taped to demonstrate "the barbarity of capital punishment and as a lesson to young criminals."

Meanwhile, in New Orleans, attorneys for Evans' mother filed a petition to block the electrocution. And in Montgomery, she appealed to Gov. Fob James to spare her son's life.

Evans reportedly said he will change his stand and "fight for my life" if the electrocution is called off by a court.

In his five-minute statement read on the lawn of Holman Prison, Evans said he asked Attorney General Charles Graddick to approve the filming of his death for later replay.

He said the tape must not be used for "commercial or political purposes." There was no immediate response from Graddick.

Evans also said to young people who may be headed toward lives of crime: "If you think you can beat the system, you're wrong, dead wrong."

Evans decried deprivations on death row in the prison system generally and said his "dying wish" is that James will carry out his campaign promise to clean up the prison system.

James' office said the governor took no immediate action on the request by Evans' mother but was deliberating whether to have a clemency hearing which Evans could attend.

Holding such a hearing could make it necessary to postpone the electrocution.

The Rev. Kevin Duignan, a Roman Catholic priest who visits Evans daily, said the condemned man told him he will reverse his stand if the mother's request is approved.

Duignan also described Evans as "a very confused individual" who in recent days has at times been "on the verge of breaking."

On Tuesday, Duignan told reporters that Evans "says he is tranquil now with his soul."

'Holy War' Case Opens In Court

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A courtroom battle over possession of an Irvine Lutheran church opened Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court.

St. Matthew Lutheran Church's so-called "holy war" centers on a split among the church congregation — those loyal to the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and those who want to join a less conservative group, the Lutheran Church in America.

The dispute thickened in November when the majority membership voted to sever ties with the Missouri Synod and refinance the church's Synod-held debt.

But the rest of the congregation minority wants to retain affiliation with the Missouri Synod and filed suit to seek possession of about $300,000 in church property.

"The case doesn't involve any attempt by the court to inject itself into a religious question," Mike Brennan, attorney for the minority membership, said in his opening courtroom statement Tuesday.

"We are going to ask the court to decide which group stays and which group goes," Brennan told Superior Court Judge Robert Todd.

"There is no question that the majority of the congregation voted to leave (Missouri Synod)," he continued.

But Brennan said a contract for purchase of the church property stipulated that it be for a Missouri Synod congregation.

Hearings Continue By FAA

By JOANNE REYNOLDS

Under questioning by an Air California attorney, Federal Aviation Administration official Jerry Dallas today suggested a lottery could solve Orange County Airport's alleged discrimination problem.

Dallas resumed testifying this morning in the second day of the FAA hearing into allegations of discrimination against air carriers not granted leases at Orange County Airport.

His remark was made in reply to a question from Jack Fudge, representing Air Cal, one of 10 parties to the fact finding hearing.

But as quickly as he made the suggestion, Dallas backed off when pressed by Mike Gatzke, an attorney for Orange County.

"There are many ways to solve the space problem," Dallas said to Gatzke. "A bid system may or may not solve the discrimination problem though."

Dallas added that available airport space might be divided among as many carriers that hold Orange County routes.

"In our era of deregulation," Gatzke replied, "you could be talking about as many air carriers as the federal government has certified."

The cross examination of Dallas by Fudge and Gatzke was a continuation of Tuesday's effort on the part of county and Air Cal officials to get the FAA official to concede that space limitations and not discrimination are the key issues at the local airport.

However, as was the case Tuesday, Dallas never agreed with the two attorneys.

At the conclusion of Dallas' testimony he was followed on the witness stand by Michael Wandrick, Orange County Airport tower chief.

Wandrick's testimony under questioning by David Brickson, attorney for Airlines brought objections from Fudge and Gatzke.

Hearing officer DeWitte Lawson Jr. of the FAA staff overruled the objections and allowed Brickson to question Wandrick about private jets using

CALTRANS DITCH ALONG NEWPORT BOULEVARD BEGINS TO SPREAD OUT But Officials Say This Erosion Near Fair Drive Poses No Threat

FAA 'Sham'

County Blasts Plane Hearing

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An attorney representing Orange County in the hearings on the county airport called by the Federal Aviation Administration said Tuesday the agency's star witness was evasive and labeled the proceedings a sham.

Mike Gatzke, special counsel hired to represent the county in the hearings, leveled those charges at the opening session Tuesday.

The FAA is charging Orange County with discrimination at the airport in preventing some air carriers from operating there.

The hearings, conducted by an FAA counsel, are being held as part of the investigation of those charges.

Much of Tuesday's hearing involved Jerry Dallas of the Los Angeles office of the FAA, the man Gatzke said was evasive.

Gatzke, state attorney Ed Connor and Dennis O'Neil, Newport Beach city attorney, attempted in roughly four hours of cross examination to get Dallas to acknowledge that there are constraints on the airport in terms of its size, the strength and length of its runways and the noise standards enforced upon it by the state.

The attorneys also attempted to elicit a concession from Dallas that the FAA has long been aware of the constraints. Their point was that the agency made grant money available to the airport knowing in advance that the county in effect would be discriminating against some air carriers because it could not grant them a space at the airport because of the constraints.

But in his four hours on the witness stand, Dallas, the FAA's chief grand administrator for Southern California airports, answered few questions directly.

It was after a series of questions was re-read, re-stated and clarified that the frustrated Gatzke told hearing officer DeWitte Lawson, Jr. he considered Dallas' answers evasive.

The session that opened Tuesday at the Holiday Inn in Laguna Hills included testimony from Congressman Robert Badham, R-Newport Beach, who read a statement into the record and left without being cross-examined.

Badham contended that if the FAA forces the county to take on more air carriers at the airport, the result would be to make all air routes there unprofitable and would mean the loss of commercial jet service.

Badham's appearance was followed by the entering of several written documents into the record, including a statement from Gatzke in which he claimed the FAA had prejudged the issue and said the hearing was a sham.

His contention was based on an article in Aviation Daily, an FAA publication, which said current airport operations "violate a section of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 and the Airport Development Program grants."

the airport.

Wandrick said there were nearly as many private jet operations at the facility as there were commercial jet operations. The Continental attorney said he elicited the testimony to show that commercial restrictions don't really address the airport's noise problem.

Wandrick was followed by former airport manager Robert Bresnahan who was expected to remain on the stand for the balance of the day.

Fire Hits Church

CHULA VISTA (AP) — Fire believed to be of electrical origin caused an estimated $500,000 damage Tuesday at the Chula Vista Community Church. No one was hurt.

Girl Injured In Bicycle, Auto Crash

A 12-year-old girl was reported in good condition today after the bicycle she was riding collided with a car on Newport Boulevard in Costa Mesa Tuesday afternoon.

Taken to Costa Mesa Memorial Hospital with head injuries was Bernadette Louise Shirley of 2401 Orange Ave., Costa Mesa.

Police said the collision occurred at the intersection of southbound Newport Boulevard and Vanguard Way.

Song Gets Car? Slang Backfires for Toyota

MANCHESTER, Conn. (AP) — A television commercial says you can get a Toyota "for a song," so Cheryl Hyland thought she'd try it.

She walked into Lynch Toyota on Tuesday and sang "Happy Birthday" to puzzled sales manager William Lockwood. Neither Lockwood nor owner Michael Lynch said they had seen the commercial.

Lynch called a Hartford-television station, heard the ad and then called Toyota's U.S. headquarters in New Jersey. He was told the phrase "for a song" is used as a slang expression and has been cleared by company lawyers.

But Lynch, ever the smiling salesman, promised to check further.

"If you've got a car coming, then you've got a car coming," he told Ms. Hyland, who says she owns a Toyota and would sell the free one if she gets it.

Fewer Back Law on Pot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Barely one-third of California adults favor strict enforcement of marijuana laws, compared with three-quarters of the state's public a decade ago, The California Poll reported today.

A primary cause of the liberalization trend is the relatively widespread — and growing — use of marijuana, the poll by the Mervin D. Field organization shows.

Summer Beef Price Peak Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beef prices, already setting records, will rise about 20 percent this year, probably reaching their highest point in the summer, the Agriculture Department estimates.

The department said Tuesday the rise in beef prices "probably will peak sometime during the summer," when an increase in pork and poultry supplies is expected to help stem the rise.

But that still means the all-cut beef price used by economists probably will be about $2.18 a pound by year's end — compared to last year's record average of $1.82 a pound.

The all-cut average, $1.62 a pound in February 1978, soared to $2.14 a pound this February, when the average price was 32.3 percent higher than the same month in 1978 and 4.4 percent above the average price in January of this year.

In New York, meanwhile, state and city officials urged consumers today to eat beef one time less a week than they normally would.

"This kind of cutting back in demand will respond to cattlemen's cutting back in their stock," said Rosemary Pooler, executive director of the New York State Consumer Protection Board.

She and Bruce Ratner, New York City's commissioner of consumer affairs, called for what they dubbed "beefless Wednesdays."

Jury Weighs Evidence in Insanity Plea

An Orange County Superior Court jury was trying to decide today if a Mission Viejo locksmith was insane when he posed as a Mafia chieftain to arrange two killings.

Joseph Serino, 50, was found guilty by the same jury Tuesday of conspiracy to commit second degree murder and murder solicitation.

Serino, who has wept openly during his two-week trial, pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to charges stemming from the aborted murder-for-hire schemes.

He was convicted of hiring undercover Newport Beach police Sgt. John Simon, who posed as "hit man" Tony DeMarco, to kill Seattle attorney Roger Leed. In addition he was convicted of soliciting the murders of both Leed and the new wife of his co-defendant, Joseph Bogg.

Both murder contracts were foiled by police.

Sgt. Simon contacted Leed in Seattle and he agreed to pose for faked blood-spattered photos which Simon brought back to Serino to collect $5,000 of a $15,000 murder contract.

Jurors Tuesday afternoon viewed a videotape of Serino under hypnosis, the same tape during the trial's first phase.

On the tape, Serino said he posed as a Mafia "big shot" because his sister, Elaine, asked him to, then continued to play the role of a murder contractor at her behest.

The defense has contended Serino was to arrange the slaying of Mrs. Bogg so that his sister and Bogg could be married.

The defense also has contended Bogg sought the killing of Leed because of the attorney's role in a $1 million lawsuit judgment against an acquaintance of Bogg's.

Bogg, who faces charges only in the Leed case, faces trial April 16.

Authorities Hunt Laguna Pilot, 47

Aviation authorities are searching today for a 47-year-old Laguna Beach man who disappeared Monday after he took off to do "aerobatic maneuvers."

Lt. Peggy Beelby of the Civil Air Patrol said Dalip Saund, 500 Flora St., was last seen when he left Van Nuys Airport at 9 a.m. Monday.

(Saund's father, the late D. S. Saund, was the first native of India elected to Congress.)

He was piloting a high-wing, single-engine Bellanca Super Decathlon, which is designed for aerobatic stunts.

Lt. Beelby said Civil Air Patrol pilots set up a base at San Fernando Airport early today to conduct a search for the missing pilot. They planned to survey several aerobatic flying areas located along the Los Angeles county coastline.

"He didn't file a flight plan, so we're not sure which area he went to," Lt. Beelby said. "We'll just start looking until we cover all of those areas."

There was no known radio contact with the plane, she said.

The pilot's father, an Imperial Valley farmer, served the three terms from a Congressional district in Riverside and Imperial counties from 1956 to 1962. He suffered a stroke in 1962 and died in 1973.

CAMPUS PAPER...

He claimed the New U editors failed to create new policies, ordered by the campus Communications Board, which oversees the newspaper and other campus publications.

The new policies were to have been designed to prevent publication of ads, real or imagined, that would be offensive to ethnic groups.

"The money to operate this newspaper comes from student funds," Toups said. "We feel it should be responsive to students."

Toups' resolution was added to the student council agenda without prior notice. No member of the New U staff was present to respond.

Clucas said the action "caught everyone on our staff offguard. Nobody knew it was coming up."

Clucas himself had been under heavy council criticism. However, the existence of the newspaper had not been called into question before.

"We want to continue to publish," Clucas said. "We're going to try and figure out how, today."

Toups said a committee of student senators has been formed to plan the purpose, goals, and structure of "a new New U."

Miss Bjornehy was more adamant. "It will not be the New U," she said.

Plant's Test Of Concrete Said 'Forged'

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) — Untested concrete has been used in construction of portions of the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant in north central Texas, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

For at least three years, concrete inspectors at the plant periodically failed to properly perform certain quality control tests related to the composition of the concrete and its strength, the newspaper said.

In some cases, the results of the tests were forged, the newspaper reported.

The Star-Telegram interviewed former and current workers at the plant, 45 miles southwest of Fort Worth, and examined Nuclear Regulatory Commission inspection reports dating to 1973.

Savings Rates

Alternates Offer Higher Interest

If you have idle cash in a regular passbook savings account, you are losing buying power rapidly. The inflation rate is way above the fixed maximum interest rate that financial institutions can pay regular savings account customers. The rate is nearly 100 percent below what you can earn by investing savings in such market-sensitive instruments such as U.S. Treasury securities and money market mutual funds.

"The whole regulatory structure has been outpaced by the market," said Lawrence Connell, head of the National Credit Union Administration. "The problem is devising a new formula that results in a gradual, not radical, shift of funds into higher yielding accounts."

Here is a rundown on two alternative investments.

BERKELEY (AP) — Ralph Warner and his longtime companion, Toni Ihara, are lawyers who develop books for people who want to avoid lawyers.

With a friend, Ed Sherman, they created Nolo Press in 1971 and published a stapled pamphlet on how to handle a

The book moved at a snail's pace until a Sacramento lawyer saw the pamphlet, was outraged, and called a news conference to denounce the book as dangerous.

"SALES SKYROCKETED," chuckled Warner. The book has gone through nearly 30 printings, with updating as the law has changed, and has sold more than 200,000 copies in California.

Nolo Press, with more than a dozen books to its credit, has published what could be its best seller, a 193-page book called "The Living Together Kit," containing sample contracts for unmarried couples to sign to assure their rights if they decide to split.

In light of a 1976 California Supreme Court decision allow property settlement suits involving unmarried couples — and spawning the Lee Marvin trial in Los Angeles — Warner and Ms. Ihara say demand for the book is brisk.

"But most of the people we know are just nice, ordinary people who want to do right by each other."

THE BOOK IS WRITTEN IN plain language, avoiding what Warner calls "legal mumbo-jumbo," and is spiced with witty personal observations.

Nolo Press also has published "Everybody's Guide to Small Claims Court," "How to Form Your Own California Corporation," "How to Change Your Name" and "How to Adopt Your Stepchild"—all designed to guide the uninitiated through legal procedures without the assistance of a lawyer, thus saving hundreds of dollars on attorney fees.

Their living-together book includes chapters on insurance, credit, making a will, acknowledging paternity and a concluding chapter on determining when a lawyer is needed.

Ms. Ihara, for example, says most divorces consist of filling out certain papers that, in most cases, a secretary handles for the lawyer. "Of course, if it is a massive, complicated estate to be divided, a lawyer is sometimes necessary," she said.

WARNER AND MS. IHARA say the hostility they encountered from establishment attorneys in the early years of Nolo Press has lessened considerably. They contend that Watergate tarnished the image of establishment lawyers.

Warner's three-paragraph biography specifically says, "Ralph has a license to practice law. He doesn't use it."

Ms. Ihara's two-paragraph biography describes her as "an anthropologist turned lawyer who is totally at a loss

They have lived together for several years, writing books and giving lectures and workshops on how to get things done without having to consult a lawyer.
