Kitten Rescued From Tree — for $50

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Donna Rossington found out Tuesday that rescuing cats is costly.

After listening to the plaintive cries of a gray six-month-old kitten stuck in a neighbor's palm tree for 10 days, she began her almost-futile search for help.

The Huntington Beach woman's first thought after spotting K.C. the Kitty Cat nestled in the palm fronds was to call the fire department.

But fire department officials told her firemen only rescued cats in the movies and suggested she call police. The police referred her to the Humane Society.

"The Humane Society told me 'You've never seen a dead cat in a tree have you?' They said it would come down when it got hungry," she said.

Frustrated, she asked her husband to climb the palm and rescue the rain-soaked cat. He got part way up the Heil Avenue tree, she said, and fell.

She tried to coax the tiny beast down with every brand of cat food she could put her hands on. Her 4-year-old daughter, Trinity, attempted to arouse the cat by meowing, yelping and pleading.

"I finally got so upset I just called City Hall and asked to speak with a humanitarian," she recounted. "I told them someone down there must care about animals."

She was transferred to the tree-trimming supervisor at the city yard. He suggested the young woman hire somebody to untangle the cat.

"We haven't pulled cats down in a long time," reasoned city yard supervisor Don Kiser. "We rescued a hawk several years ago but not cats.

"There's no point in worrying about cats. If they can get up there, they can get down."

Mrs. Rossington was unconvinced.

"I was surprised the cat was still alive. I didn't know what to do. Was I supposed to cut the tree down or what?"

Thinking money might be a factor, she phoned Tip-Top Tree Service in Santa Ana and inquired about their cat-saving

Gold Price Soars Over $750 an Ounce

LONDON (AP) — Fearing a shortage of supply, investors poured money into gold today, sending the metal's price to record heights above $750 an ounce. The dollar was steady against major currencies.

In London, the price of gold jumped more than 10 percent in one day to a midmorning fixing of $765 an ounce, the highest gold price in history, and an $81 increase from Tuesday afternoon's $684 fixing. The afternoon fixing fell to $760 an ounce and it closed at $752.

Gold ended London trading Tuesday at $683.50.

In New York, gold opened at $770 an ounce but slid to $754, according to Republic National Bank.

In Zurich, Europe's major bullion center, the late price was $755 an ounce, up $70 from Tuesday's close, after trading as high as $763.

Silver also rocketed to a record afternoon fixing of $48.01 from $44 Tuesday. It was trading in New York at $47.

The spectacular leap was attributed to U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller's comment that further U.S. gold auctions were not appropriate at the moment because of the unsettled bullion market. Traders interpreted this as a squeeze on already tight supplies of gold.

The underlying reason for the New Year gold boom are the crisis building up over Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, the continued holding of the American hostages in Iran, the illness of Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito, higher oil prices and the threat of curtailed exports and the generally shaky state of the world economy.

Since Dec. 31, gold has soared more than $200 an ounce in London. A year ago, it closed at $197.95 in London.

Panama To Give Up Shah?

CHICAGO (AP) — The governments of Panama and Iran have entered into direct top-level discussions on the possible return of the deposed shah to Iran, the Chicago Tribune today quoted reliable sources as saying.

The Tribune, in a story filed from Tehran, said the sources reported that Panamanian President Aristides Royo telephoned Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh twice Tuesday to discuss Iran's official request for the shah's arrest.

Iran announced Saturday it would file a formal extradition request with Panama "within 60 days after his arrest."

The shah has been living under guard in Panama since leaving the United States following cancer and gallbladder treatments in a New York hospital.

In New York, the office of Robert Armao, a spokesman for the shah, declined to comment on the report and said no negotiations were known to be under way.

Ghotbzadeh, campaigning for Iran's presidential election Jan. 25, interrupted his campaign to return to the foreign ministry to take the day's second call from Royo just before midnight Tuesday, the Tribune reported the sources as saying.

Bamdad, a Tehran newspaper, reported Ghotbzadeh said the phone conversations "related to the letter of extradition," the Tribune said. No details were disclosed immediately.

The Tribune said, however, that the foreign minister is Youth Prison Or Hospital?

Two Westminster families — once friends and still neighbors — sat on opposite sides of an Orange County courtroom entrance Tuesday awaiting final disposition in the crime that separated them: the death of an 11-year-old girl at the hands of a 15-year-old boy.

On one side was Carl Meyer, father of young Julie Ann Meyer, who was strangled to death last June 25. Her body was left under a bush in a vacant lot.

On the other side of the doors to the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Alicemarie Stotler were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ijames, parents of Kent Ijames, the boy who pleaded no contest to voluntary manslaughter in connection with the death.

Not present at the sentencing hearing was Virginia Meyer, Julie Ann's mother. She is hospitalized at Fountain Valley Community Hospital with bleeding ulcers.

JUDGE STOTLER POSTPONED sentencing to Jan. 30 to allow for preparation of a new probation report to determine if young Ijames could benefit from hospitalization as opposed to commitment to the California Youth Authority.

Ijames entered the no contest plea Nov. 27 and was found sane following a two-day hearing in December.

The slight, blonde boy, dressed in a striped knit shirt, corduroy pants and tennis shoes, appeared nervous Tuesday as he was brought into Judge Stotler's courtroom, which was closed to members of the press and public.

IJAMES HAS GIVEN different stories to investigators on what preceded the strangulation. In his first statement to Westminster Police investigators, he said Julie Ann called him a slang word for homosexual, that he called her a similar slang word, that she kicked him in the groin and that he strangled her. There were no indications of sexual assault, investigators said.

The boy was arrested three days after the girl's body was found. The previous day, the boy's father was a pallbearer at Julie Ann's funeral.

Deputy District Attorney Bryan Brown said Ijames should be sentenced to the maximum term at the California Youth Authority. Under such a sentence, Ijames could be held six years, until he turns 21.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY THOMAS Brown said he wants to insure that Ijames receives "adequate treatment."

It was learned that Brown wants Ijames placed in a hospital for psychiatric treatment.

Brown said that, if Ijames is sentenced to the youth authority he probably would serve 18 months before his release and would be given credit for the 200 days he has spent at Orange County Juvenile Hall.

Asked if Ijames is remorseful over the girl's death, Brown replied, "Very . . . very."

Doctor Guilty in Rape Case

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Sacramento urologist, Dr. G. Kenneth West, has been convicted of forcible rape and false imprisonment of a female patient.

The verdict came Tuesday after six days of deliberation. The Superior Court jury deadlocked on other sex charges involving another woman patient.

Warning to Iran

Man Held in Assault Try Laguna Cops Spot Suspect Exiting Town

A man suspected of attempting to rape a 17-year-old Laguna Beach girl near the high school was arrested by police who spotted the suspect leaving town in his car Tuesday night.

Charles Leroy Sparks, 33, of Indiana was pulled to the side of Laguna Canyon Road after an off-duty officer spotted a car matching the description of the vehicle seen near Monday's attempted rape at Laguna Beach High School.

Police said Sparks matches the description of the suspect in Monday's assault on a high school girl near the school football stadium. The victim kicked the suspect and fled unharmed.

A man confronted the girl on the school grounds and threatened her with a folding knife.

After holding the knife to her throat, the assailant lifted her up to a brick wall and put his knife away.

It was at that point, police say, the girl kicked the man in the chest and face, cutting his nose.

The girl then ran toward the school gymnasium as the suspect fled.

Police received a description of the suspect's automobile from neighbors who reported seeing the vehicle shortly before the thwarted assault.

Officers also purportedly found a down vest near the scene of the assault with a bottle of prescription drugs inside a pocket.

The prescription was made out to Sparks, police said.

Police held Sparks at the scene of the car stop Tuesday until the victim could be driven to the canyon road to identify the suspect.

While officers held a flashlight in Sparks' face, police said the girl identified the suspect from the family car parked across the roadway.

Sparks, who was not wearing trousers at the time of his arrest, is being held on charges of attempted rape and assault with a deadly weapon.

Police said they do not know why the man was garbed only in underwear, shoes and a shirt.

Officer Danelle Adams followed Sparks after observing him get into the vehicle near the telephone company office on Third Street shortly after 6:30 p.m.

The off-duty officer flagged down Motor Officer Mark Miller, who pulled Sparks to the side of the road just past the Festival of Arts grounds.

Concern for Tito

Yugoslavia Threat Denied by Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass denied today that Yugoslavia faces any "Soviet threat," despite what it called the two countries' "differences in approach" to some world issues.

The Tass commentary came as concern grew for the health of 87-year-old Yugoslav President Tito, who has led his communist nation on a foreign policy course independent of Moscow since World War II. His hospitalization for a serious circulation problem has aroused renewed speculation about his country's future.

A Tass commentary, entitled "A New Bluff," attacked what it called "truly fantastic concoctions" in the Western press "trying to ascribe to the Soviet Union some anti-Yugoslav intention."

Tass said such claims were "crude, provocative and false," and that "relations between the Soviet and Yugoslav peoples are marked by profound friendliness."

Yugoslavia underlined its independent stand by supporting a United Nations resolution Monday that called for the withdrawal of foreign forces from Afghanistan.

The resolution, proposed after Soviet troops entered Afghanistan to back a new pro-Soviet government, drew the support of most non-aligned nations.

Tass said Western speculation about Soviet designs on Yugoslavia "gives away the covert but nonetheless obvious intentions of NATO to interfere in Yugoslavia's affairs and shows that this imperialist military bloc is obviously looking for and waiting for a pretext for such interference."

"Relations between the Soviet and Yugoslav peoples are marked by profound friendliness, by constant striving for extensive multifaceted cooperation," the agency said.

"The differences in approach to some international problems by no means obscure this fundamental fact."

The commentary added, "There is no doubt that the present NATO attempts to disrupt cooperation between our countries will be as futile as the previous ones."

Overthrow Plot

Iran Executes Army Officers

By The Associated Press
Firing squads have executed a number of Iranian army officers for plotting to overthrow Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime, the usually reliable Kuwait newspaper Al Rai Al Am reported today.

In another development, Iran's Foreign Ministry denied a report that U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim would be acceptable as a negotiator in the hostage crisis, calling it "an absolute lie," according to Tehran radio in a broadcast monitored in London.

Quoting unidentified diplomatic sources, the paper published in the Persian Gulf oil sheikdom said all the officers involved in the coup plot the Iranian Foreign Ministry sent a message to its U.N. ambassador, Mansour Farhang, stating Waldheim was now acceptable to the 79-year-old religious leader of the Iranian revolutionary regime.

The U.N. Security Council sent Waldheim to Tehran two weeks ago to try to secure the release of the 50 or so Americans held hostage by militant students in the U.S. Embassy since Nov. 4. He cut short his visit after Khomeini and the students refused to see him but his proposal for a U.N. commission to investigate the allegations of the revolutionary regime against Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi did find favor with Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh.

Meanwhile, the Iranian government opened a counter-offensive to combat the U.S. government's efforts to get allies to join in economic reprisals against Iran.

Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinefar said Iran would stop selling oil to any nation that took economic sanctions against it, and Kyodo, the Japanese news service, said he called in Japanese Ambassador Tsutomu Wada for a special warning.

MILITARY RECRUITMENT REMAINS STEADY — A3

had been arrested and were executed secretly to avoid adverse publicity for the revolutionary regime.

No confirmation of the report was available, and sources in Tehran, the Iranian capital, said they had heard nothing about such a plot.

The report said the plot was discovered accidentally when some of the Iranian regime's revolutionary guards stopped and searched the car of one of the officers at a roadblock.

The paper said the plotters were all medium-ranking army officers who planned to seize control of Tehran, the Iranian capital, and then lay siege to the holy city of Qom, Khomeini's headquarters 100 miles to the south.

The plotters expected other opponents of Khomeini and supporters of the deposed shah to join them after they launched their coup, the report said.

An ABC News report, now denied in Tehran, said that Khomeini was willing to accept Waldheim as an intermediary with the United States even though he refused to receive him in Iran this month.

The report quoted U.N. sources in New York as saying

Increase Asked Pacific Tel Seeks $2 Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pacific Telephone is asking for a $2 monthly rate increase from the average residential customer to avoid what the company calls a deterioration of service and the layoff of 4,000 employees.

PacTel's "poor financial situation" was outlined in a petition for a $345.1 million rate increase presented at hearing before the state Public Utilities Commission on Tuesday by Pacific Telephone's president, Theodore J. Saenger.

The amount sought by the telephone company has been reduced from $381 million initially sought in November.

Saenger said that if the increase is not granted, the shortage of money will mean periodic overloads of lines can be expected, the demands of thousands of customers will go unmet, repair service will be delayed and it will be necessary to lay off 4,000 from the company work force of 105,000.

District Exempts 5 Jobs

By JOANNE REYNOLDS

Directors of Sanitation District 5 in Newport Beach instituted a moratorium on new sewer connections in an area east of the Upper Newport Bay Tuesday.

However, the directors exempted five construction projects that are pending or under way. Those projects to which the moratorium won't apply are Sea Island condominiums, Harbor Hill, Harbor Ridge, the expansion of Pacific Mutual Insurance Co. and the expansion of the Ford Aeronautic plant.

In related moves, the directors, Supervisors Thomas Riley, Mayor Paul Ryckoff and Councilman Don Strauss, decided to renew an application for a coastal permit to build a gravity sewer line from Big Canyon along Back Bay Drive to Pacific Coast Highway.

They indicated they'd lift the moratorium as soon as a contract is let for the line.

They also decided to accept a $400,000 interest-free loan from Daon Southwest Corp. The Irvine Company will loan $600,000 on the same basis. The funds will pay for construction of additional sewer capacity.

The board also increased sewer connection fees by $600 to raise money to pay off the two loans.

In giving new life to the controversial gravity line which was killed by the state Coastal Commission two years ago, directors started an argument among themselves.

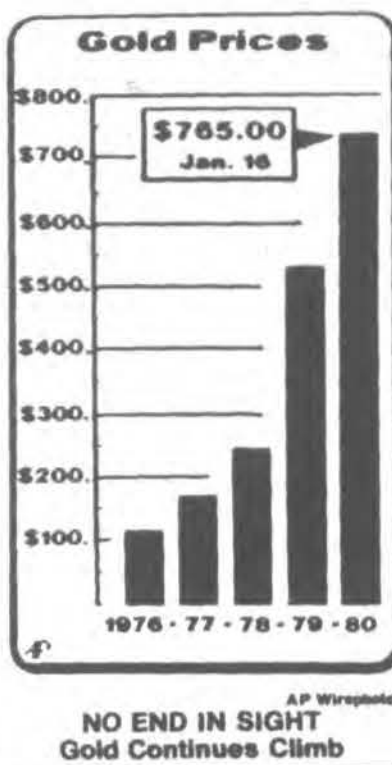

Riley labeled as "blackmail" the mayor's insistence that the Irvine Company give the 49-acre mouth of Big Canyon bordering the bay to the state before the district moves ahead with its application for the new sewer line.

Ryckoff denied the charge and said he doesn't think the proposal would get through the coastal commission without the land gift included. That issue was not resolved.

The line would serve the area roughly bounded by Jamboree Road, San Joaquin Hills Road and the eastern and northern city limits.

In 1976, sanitation district staff members warned that the existing system serving the area was at capacity and a new line or new pump station was needed to prevent an overflow.

Panama Planning Shah Deportation?

CHICAGO (AP) — The governments of Panama and Iran have entered into direct top-level discussions on the possible moorings in Newport Harbor should be raised, but they couldn't decide how much.

Supervisor Thomas Riley, who two weeks ago bitterly fought any raise beyond what Newport Beach charges for its 572 moorings, called an attempt to triple the present fee of $6 per vessel foot a "public ripoff."

With Supervisor Edison Miller out of town, board members deadlocked 2-2 over how much to hike the rates and put off a final decision until next Tuesday.

Although the county has jurisdiction over only 18 of the 590 tidelands moorings in the harbor, the decision next week by county supervisors could lead Newport Beach to revise its rate structure, City Manager Robert Wynn said Tuesday.

"It would be incumbent upon us to review our charges if the county increases theirs," he said.

The furor began when supervisors decided to update the $6 per foot mooring fees, something they had not done since 1972.

Increase Asked Pacific Tel Seeks $2 Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pacific Telephone is asking for a $2 monthly rate increase from the average residential customer to avoid what the company calls a deterioration of service and the layoff of 4,000 employees.

PacTel's "poor financial situation" was outlined in a petition for a $345.1 million rate increase presented at hearing before the state Public Utilities Commission on Tuesday by Pacific Telephone's president, Theodore J. Saenger.

The amount sought by the telephone company has been reduced from $381 million initially sought in November.

Saenger said that if the increase is not granted, the shortage of money will mean periodic overloads of lines can be expected, the demands of thousands of customers will go unmet, repair service will be delayed and it will be necessary to lay off 4,000 from the company work force of 105,000.

DAY IN BRIEF

Highlights from today's world and national news developments

Check Forged; Boy, 9, Cited

FRESNO (AP) — A 9-year-old Fresno boy — believed to be the youngest forger suspect in this city's history — has been cited by police for cashing a forged check.

"To my knowledge, we haven't had them any younger," said Lt. Maurice Regan, head of the police juvenile division. Police said the boy was cited in his home after he cashed a $2 check at a northeast Fresno store to buy a sandwich. The boy reportedly told a store clerk his father had been forced to return to work unexpectedly and was unable to cook dinner.

Light Rain in North State

By The Associated Press

Rain fell over most of Northern California today, but in much lighter amounts than the series of storms which caused emergencies to be declared in several Sierra Nevada counties.

Streams began receding Tuesday and forecasters predict a break in weather pattern which sent a relentless series of tropical storms over Northern California for more than a week.

The National Weather Service reported that the warm, moist tropical storm expected to move across Northern California today probably would be the last of a series of drenching storm fronts.

Pinto Fire Trial Opens

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — About 11 gallons of gasoline spilled from the ruptured fuel tank of a 1973 Pinto in which three teen-agers burned to death, the prosecution's first witness testified today in the criminal liability trial of Ford Motor Co.

Ford is charged with three counts of reckless homicide in the fiery crash of the car, which exploded when hit from behind by a van. The trial in Pulaski Circuit Court is the first criminal prosecution of a manufacturer in a products defects case.

Ford lawyers have said they will rebut prosecution charges that the automaker "chose profit over human life" in designing the Pinto with testimony from engineers of the car who bought the subcompact "for themselves, their wives and children."

Murder of Couple Probed

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Police are investigating the murder of an elderly couple who may have confronted a burglar in their high-rise apartment.

Otto Forst, 73, and his wife Gerda, 68, had apparently been dead for two days when their bodies, dressed in night clothes and badly beaten, were found by their daughter Tuesday, police said.

FEES...

County officials told supervisors that Orange County was charging substantially less than other harbor agencies along California's coast.

Those charges average from $11 to $18 per vessel foot per year, a county General Services Agency report said.

And Newport Beach, along with the county, remains at the lower end of the scale even after January's rate increase to $6.55 per vessel foot per year, the report said.

Supervisor Ralph Clark of Anaheim led the move to raise the rates to $18 per vessel foot, and was supported by Supervisor Harriett Wieder of Huntington Beach.

"These are very select people who get to utilize these slips. It's not out of line to ask this," Clark said.

Although Riley enlisted the support of Supervisor Philip Anthony of Westminster to deadlock the vote on the $18 fee, he was unable to convince the rest of the board to set the rate at $11.

"We've had a policy since Proposition 13 to make (user) fees realistic, but not out of line with services being offered," Anthony said.

Both Riley and Anthony contend that, unlike other harbors along the coast, neither Newport nor the county offer services to boat owners beyond the actual mooring site.

Newport Beach's Wynn agreed.

"It's important when you look at a comparison of charges that you look at services provided. In some cases the public agency also provides parking, restroom facilities or other services."

But both county and city officials said that, with a waiting list of 1,000 boat owners, the demand for moorings is so great that a rate hike isn't likely to result in vacant moorings.

IRAN...

Tehran, the Iranian capital, said they had heard nothing about such a plot.

The report said the plot was discovered accidentally when some of the Iranian regime's revolutionary guards stopped and searched the car of one of the officers at a roadblock.

The paper said the plotters were all medium-ranking army officers who planned to seize control of Tehran, the Iranian capital, and then lay siege to the holy city of Qom, Khomeini's headquarters 100 miles to the south.

The plotters expected other opponents of Khomeini and supporters of the deposed shah to join them after they launched their coup, the report said.

An ABC News report, now denied in Tehran, said that Khomeini was willing to accept Waldheim as an intermediary with the United States even though he refused to receive him in Iran this month.

The report quoted U.N. sources in New York as saying the Iranian Foreign Ministry sent a message to its U.N. ambassador, Mansour Farhang, stating Waldheim was now acceptable to the 79-year-old religious leader of the Iranian revolutionary regime.

The U.N. Security Council sent Waldheim to Tehran two weeks ago to try to secure the release of the 50 or so Americans held hostage by militant students in the U.S. Embassy since Nov. 4. He cut short his visit after Khomeini and the students refused to see him but his proposal for a U.N. commission to investigate the allegations of the revolutionary regime against Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi did find favor with Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh.

Meanwhile, the Iranian government opened a counter-offensive to combat the U.S. government's efforts to get allies to join in economic reprisals against Iran.

Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinefar said Iran would stop selling oil to any nation that took economic sanctions against it, and Kyoto, the Japanese news service, said he called in Japanese Ambassador Tsutomu Wada for a special warning. Kyoto said Moinefar also told the ambassador the Japanese should resume construction immediately of a $2.9 billion petrochemical complex on the Persian Gulf.

Equipment Stolen From Newport Firm

Woodview Properties at 1800 Dove St., Suite 338, reported to Newport Beach police Monday the theft of $4,245 in equipment during the weekend.

Taken were three calculators, a typewriter, a television set and currency, police said. There were no signs of forced entry.

Soviets Deny Threat

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass denied today that Yugoslavia faces any "Soviet threat," despite what it called the two countries' "differences in approach" to some world issues.

The Tass commentary came as concern grew for the health of 87-year-old Yugoslav President Tito, who has led his communist nation on a foreign policy course independent of Moscow since World War II. His hospitalization for a serious circulation problem has aroused renewed speculation about his country's future.

A Tass commentary, entitled "A New Bluff," attacked what it called "truly fantastic concoctions" in the Western press "trying to ascribe to the Soviet Union some anti-Yugoslav intention."

Tass said such claims were "crude, provocative and false," and that "relations between the Soviet and Yugoslav peoples are marked by profound friendliness."

Yugoslavia underlined its independent stand by supporting a United Nations resolution Monday that called for the withdrawal of foreign forces from Afghanistan.

The resolution, proposed after Soviet troops entered Afghanistan to back a new pro-Soviet government, drew the support of most non-aligned nations.

Tass said Western speculation about Soviet designs on Yugoslavia "gives away the covert but nonetheless obvious intentions of NATO to interfere in Yugoslavia's affairs and shows that this imperialist military bloc is obviously looking for and waiting for a pretext for such interference."

"Relations between the Soviet and Yugoslav peoples are marked by profound friendliness, by constant striving for extensive multifaceted cooperation," the agency said.

"The differences in approach to some international problems by no means obscure this fundamental fact."

Fish Fry Proceeds

Distributed

Proceeds from last summer's Costa Mesa Fish Fry, amounting to $47,000, were distributed Tuesday night by the Costa Mesa Newport Harbor Lions Club to 22 local charities and organizations.

It was the 34th annual Fish Fry, featuring a parade, carnival and fish dinners. This year's event is scheduled for June 6 to 8.

Recipients of the funds included American Youth Soccer, Bike Rodeo Police Safety, Boys Club of the Harbor Area, Braille Institute, City of Hope, Costa Mesa Junior Women's Club, Costa Mesa Newport Harbor Lionettes Club and District 4-LA Sight & Hearing Trainers.

Also receiving donations were High Hopes, Eagle Ranch Trail Blazers, Florence Crittenton Service, Girls Club Harbor Area, Lions Hearing Institute, Long Beach Youth Home, Newport Beach Fire Explorers Post, Orange Coast Aquatic Teams, Orange Coast College, Services for the Blind, Southern California Lions Eye Institute, Youth Employment Service, YSP Inc. and the YMCA.

Accusations Traded At NB Sewer Meet

Charges were traded today in the wake of Tuesday's meeting of Sanitation District 5 in which the controversial Back Bay Drive sewer line was debated.

Mayor Paul Ryckoff of Newport Beach, one of three district board members, charged Supervisor Thomas Riley with maneuvering to make Ryckoff look bad in the coming city election.

Riley, who is also a district director, charged Ryckoff with "blackmail" at Tuesday's meeting because the mayor wants to require the Irvine Co. to make a gift of the 49 acres at the mouth of Big Canyon to the state before the district moves ahead with a coastal commission application for the new line.

Until some form of additional sewer capacity is provided, there will be a moratorium on new sewer connections in the east bay side of Newport Beach where the Irvine Co. has pending developments.

A company spokesman said today the firm would be willing to consider such a gift if either the state Department of Fish and Game or the state Coastal Commission want the land.

The spokesman said the firm feels it's an inappropriate subject for the sanitation district to consider and said officials at the firm are distressed that Ryckoff apparently wants the land pledged before the district moves ahead with its application for a coastal commission permit.

But Ryckoff said he feels the commission won't approve the permit without the land gift and said he sees the gift as a way for the company to get undevelopable land off its tax rolls and get park dedication credit from the city.

"I think Riley sides with the Irvine Co., Ryckoff said. "The Irvine Co. has to cooperate a little."

Riley said he thinks the interest free $600,000 loan given the district for sewer construction by the company as well as the firm's willingness to discuss the dedication with the coastal commission is plenty of cooperation.

"I just feel uncomfortable that someone would know in advance what a coastal commission vote would be," he added.

SEWER...

In 1977, the proposal to build a gravity line running from Big Canyon along Back Bay Drive to Pacific Coast Highway was turned down by the state coastal commission. Commissioners said the environmental impact report was insufficient and the proposed environmental mitigation measures might not do enough to protect wildlife in the area.

Nothing has been done since then. Last winter, according to sanitation district staff member Ray Lewis, the pump station at Jamboree Road and Big Canyon overflowed.

This fall, the district informed city officials that no building permits should be issued for the area until more sewer capacity is provided. The city has not acted.

That set the stage for Tuesday's meeting at which the three directors unanimously enacted a temporary suspension of new sewer connections.

That suspension will remain in effect until a contract is let to provide more sewer service.

That additional service, according to Lewis, could be provided one of three ways — the gravity line, a new pump station or a tunnel.

The pump station or gravity line would cost the district an estimated $1 million. The tunnel could cost $2.5 million and isn't being considered because of its cost.

The three directors agreed the gravity line would be the best way to provide more capacity because it wouldn't require energy like a pump station.

Dacon and Irvine offered the loans because both firms have pending developments in the area served. Those projects can't move ahead until the sewer connection moratorium is lifted.

No 'John Wayne Fever' in County

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The current crises in Iran and Afghanistan may be inspiring fiery patriotic passion among many Americans, but there are no massive stampedes at local armed forces recruiting centers.

A survey of local recruiters disclosed that despite increasing cries for America to flex its military muscles, enlistment levels remain on par with previous years.

The only branch reporting a significant jump in enlistments is the Army, which signed up more than twice as many recruits in this district during the October to December period, 1979 as it did during the same period in 1978. Nationwide, the Army is 17,000 enlistments ahead, comparing those same two periods.

But Capt. Kenneth M. Wojcik, the Army's area commander for the Santa Ana Central Recruiting Area, maintains that this enlistment increase is not related to current international unrest.

The district recorded 488 enlistments during that three-month period in 1978 and 1,112 for the same time in 1979. Wojcik attributed this to the Army's new national advertising campaign and to a beefed up local recruiting staff.

Regarding the prospect of a military conflict, Wojcik said, "I have not heard anyone talking about the crises as a reason for interest or no interest in signing up."

He said recruits have directed more attention to the Army's technical training and educational opportunities.

For Marine recruiters, it's business as usual.

"As far as Orange County is concerned, they're making their quotas," reported Gunnery Sgt. Corty Cortez, public affairs chief with the 12th District Marine Corps. "But they attribute that to industrious recruiting, rather than to the international situation."

"I think the biggest change we in the military have noticed is in the civilian population," said Master Sgt. Paul Thomson of corps recruiting depot, San Diego. "People are more friendly to you now when you're out in uniform. They smile at you and say 'hi.' That hasn't always been the case, especially right after the war in Vietnam."

The Navy district that stretches from Dana Point to San Luis Obispo has had an irregular record of meeting recruitment goals lately, according to Journalist First Class Paul Versailles of the Los Angeles District office.

He said the district met Navy recruitment goals in October and December, but failed to do so in September and November. January recruitment, he said, is "on track" toward meeting this month's goal.

The Navy spokesman added that he has noticed no outbreaks of "John Wayne Fever" among young people, nor the type of mass enlistments that occurred immediately after Pearl Harbor was attacked.

Versailles added that there is talk in some recruiting circles about a backlash effect. Some people interested in a military stint for the technical education may be hesitant about enlisting now, with armed conflict a growing possibility.

Still, the figures do not indicate this trend is any more widespread than "John Wayne Fever."

Sgt. Allen Williamson, flight supervisor for Air Force recruiting in Orange County, said he possesses no statistical data to determine if the Air Force has attracted more local applicants as a result of the overseas crises.

But he stated that the majority of those who apply to the Air Force are rejected, in any event. Because of stiff entry standards and great interest in joining this branch, the Air Force currently rejects as many as four of five applicants, Williamson said.

This branch of the service, he said, traditionally has no trouble filling its ranks.

Elvis Had Problem

Doctor Carried Drugs to Concerts

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Elvis Presley underwent drug detoxification on two occasions before his death, and harmless placebos often were given to keep the entertainer's drug problems under control, his physician says.

Dr. George Nichopoulos, testifying Tuesday during a malpractice hearing that could result in loss of his medical license, also told the Tennessee Board of Medical Examiners that he packed three suitcases full of drugs and medical equipment whenever Presley went on a concert tour.

Nichopoulos is accused of illegally dispensing some 10,000 pills — painkillers, sedatives, amphetamines and barbiturates — to Presley between Jan. 1976, and the singer's death Aug. 16, 1977.

Presley's death was attributed to a heart attack, but some news reports have said it may have been drug related.

Neither the cause of death nor the reason Presley sought painkillers was raised during Tuesday's testimony.

The white-haired doctor admitted writing the prescriptions, but said many of the pills obtained through those written in Presley's name were actually dispensed to members of his touring group.

During most of Tuesday, Nichopoulos reviewed the medical records of more than a dozen of his patients, including entertainer Jerry Lee Lewis, explaining why he prescribed certain drugs.

He admitted over-prescribing drugs such as the sedative Quaalude for some patients, but he blamed the error on problems in record keeping.

Nichopoulos revealed that Presley was hospitalized in 1973 after the entertainer returned from California where he had consulted an acupuncturist for a back problem.

"But the acupuncturist wasn't a real acupuncturist," Nichopoulos said.

He said the acupuncturist had used syringes filled with demerol, a painkiller, and steroids.

"We thought he was addicted to demerol at that time," Nichopoulos said.

He said Presley underwent detoxification at Baptist Hospital in Memphis.

He said Presley later rejected the aid of two psychiatrists who had been called in on the case to help with his drug dependence. In 1975, he said the singer again underwent detoxification while hospitalized for another complaint.

Nichopoulos said Presley frequently demanded drugs to help him go to sleep, as well as for painkillers.

"As much as possible, we tried to place him when he asked for something," Nichopoulos said, explaining that harmless pills were frequently substituted for the real drugs.

"At times he was suspicious we were placeboing him," he said. "When he argued the drugs were not effective, we'd say 'You must be getting tolerant.'" Nichopoulos said many of the drugs in suitcases packed for concert tours were common cold remedies, decongestants and antibiotics.

County Fire Study Report Under Attack

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A $44,000 study to help Orange County set up its own fire department later this year came under attack Tuesday before the county Board of Supervisors.

Supervisor Harriett Wieder said she believes the county may not have received what it agreed to pay for.

She said the report, performed by the Laguna Management Institute, has met with widespread concern from city officials who have not been informed of costs of the reorganization.

She added that the report appears to deal with superficial measures rather than spelling out what kind of fire department the county really needs and what the rules should be in setting it up.

County supervisors ordered further study of the report. Leonard Marks, president of the company making the study, initially offered 74 recommendations for the supervisors to consider.

They include: —An increased use of volunteer firefighters to be integrated with full-time professionals. (There presently are about 450 volunteers, Marks proposed up to 600.)

—A requirement for water sprinklers to be installed in all new buildings.

—A requirement for smoke detectors to be placed in all buildings at the time of construction and in all existing buildings after one year.

—Elimination of a paid fire company in South Laguna and its consolidation with a station in Laguna Beach.

—Reorganization of fire service districts, chiefly affecting cities that use the county service including Irvine and San Juan Capistrano.

Orange County must take over operation of the fire department on or before June 30. The state terminated a contract that had run for 45 years as a cost savings measure after passage of Proposition 43.

Youth Said Wary

Marijuana 'Serious Hazard to Health'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top federal health official said today that marijuana is a "major and serious health hazard" and that high school seniors seem to be increasingly wary of smoking the weed.

Dr. William Pollin, director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse, told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee hearing that about 15 million people smoke at least one marijuana cigarette daily.

Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., who ran the hearing, said he is re-evaluating legislation drafted last year to lessen the penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana.

Mathias said all new evidence should be presented to his panel so that the Senate can "legislate rationally and effectively" on the question of marijuana laws.

Pollin said that research shows that marijuana impairs learning, memory and intellectual performance. He also said that continued use of marijuana interferes with the functions of the heart, lungs and immunity system.

He said medical researchers are proving wrong the once-popular view that marijuana does no harm to human health. He said he would particularly discourage use of marijuana in adolescents and teen-agers because their physical and mental processes are still being developed.

Over the past year, Pollin said, "there's been an increasingly negative attitude" among high school seniors toward the use of marijuana.

"There's a real pullback," He said this results from "a widespread awareness" that marijuana may indeed be harmful to the body and mind.

He said, however, that the numbers of teen-agers using marijuana have increased in five years.

In a nationwide survey five years ago of 20,000 high school seniors, one in 20 puffed marijuana daily — the same number that drank alcohol each day. Another survey taken two years ago showed up to one in nine high school seniors smoked marijuana daily. The students who drank daily remained at one in 20.

Another witness before the criminal justice subcommittee, a Columbia University medical professor, agreed with Pollin's assessment of the health risks of marijuana, but a Harvard professor disagreed.

The Senate will likely vote this year on an overall proposal to revise the federal criminal code, part of which contains a section softening the penalties for the possession of small amounts of marijuana.

Under current law, possession of small amounts of marijuana is punishable by up to a year in prison plus a $5,000 fine for the first offense. Subsequent offenses may bring up to two years in prison and a maximum $10,000 fine.

Campaigning Could Cost Brown Pay

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Senate is considering a bill to dock Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. $175 a day if he's out of the state campaigning for president for more than 21 days this year.

The bill, SB1251 by Sen. Paul Carpenter, D-Cypress, won a 5-3 vote Tuesday of the Senate Governmental Organization Committee.

The bill, an urgency measure that would go into effect immediately on the governor's signature, needs two-thirds approval of both houses. The thin committee victory indicated that it has a rough road.

Carpenter said the bill would apply to all state constitutional officers. The 21-day limit would not apply to out-of-state trips on official business. The governor could grant extensions to all the officers but himself. His extensions would be up to the Joint Legislative Rules Committee.

Brown was campaigning out of the state 81 days in 1979. If the bill had been law and the rules committee had refused an extension, it would have cost him $10,500. His salary is $48,100.

Brown has already been away from California eight days in January, and was away Tuesday.

ANIMAL CONTROL OFFICER BOB BARRY WITH PIT BULL One of Two Which Attacked 71-year-old Mistress

Woman, 71, Mauled By Two Pet Dogs

MIAMI (AP) — Fletcher Tiggs says he bought Elton and Snook, a pair of pit bull terriers, because "I understood they were good dogs to have around the house."

Tuesday the dogs turned on Tiggs' 71-year-old wife, ripped one of her ears in half, scored her body with bites and tore off her clothes before police bullets brought them down.

Ethel Tiggs was in satisfactory condition today at Anne Bates Leach Eye Hospital. Officials refused to disclose her injuries, but police said she was bitten on the face, head, arms, back, buttocks and legs.

Police officer Richard Wagner said he and his partner found Mrs. Tiggs in her back yard, screaming "Get them off me!" as the dogs snarled and bit her.

As Elton backed away, Wagner shot and killed him. "That one was biting the back of her leg," he said. "Then the other one, which was biting her on the hand, leaped at me. I leaned back with my arm up and officer Michael Danelli shot the dog as it was in the air."

Snook, wounded in the stomach, was taken by animal control officers, for quarantine. Officials said the dog would be destroyed unless Tiggs wanted it back.

The incident came less than two months after a youngster in Hollywood, Fla., was injured by a pit bull terrier — a compact, muscular breed often used in illegal dog fights.

Seven-year-old Frankie Scarbrough lost an ear and large sections of scalp in the Dec. 1 attack. Doctors say he faces years of reconstructive surgery.

Mrs. Tiggs told police she stepped into her yard to find that both dogs had escaped from a pen. She said Elton and Snook chased her until she fell, then pounced on her.

'Bleeping Weather'

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Every four minutes, for more than half an hour, the forecast on the national Weather Service's local FM radio station was followed by a salty expletive.

"It was very unfortunate and we're very embarrassed," said Des Moines office chief Perry Baker.

Baker said the forecaster making the tape for broadcast Sunday made a mistake in the recording, tried to correct and then cursed.

"He thought he had it erased, but he was making two tapes at the same time and the words got on the second tape," Baker said.

IMPERILED PEARLS
threatened by pollution

We can now add deep-sea pearls from the South Pacific to the list of things being threatened by pollution. According to a recognized expert on the bi-valve Mollusc Pinctada Maxima, otherwise known as the pearl oyster, the species is threatened with extinction. It's habitat areas, which include the Mergui Archipelago in Burma, the Indonesian Archipelago and the Torres Bay and Shark Bay areas of Australia, are on the main routes traveled by oil tankers. The female pearl oyster's eggs float on the surface of the sea waiting for a chance meeting with discharge of the male oyster. Such reproduction of the species is a gamble at best: when hampered by oil spills and other pollution, it is almost becoming impossible. Besides the oil tankers, other natural enemies include the wastes of cities and farms that flow into bays and passages along the coastlines. South Sea pearl oysters produce the largest and most beautiful natural salt-water pearls in the world. Let's hope man-made pollution doesn't destroy this great beauty.

The Cat's Meow

HOWARD JARVIS AND THE CAT: Howard Jarvis, the man credited with passage of the tax-cutting Proposition 13, and other action known as Jarvis II, has never met the cat named K.C.

But K.C. turns out to be a Jarvis ally in the campaign to take tax money away from local governments.

K.C. is a plain, ordinary Huntington Beach cat. Normally, this kitty just prowls around like other felines. But the other day, K.C. clawed his way to the top of a neighbor's 40-foot palm tree.

Once up there, K.C. cried and howled piteously because he couldn't figure out how to get back down. Or, if K.C. could get down, he wouldn't.

THE NEIGHBOR LADY became gravely concerned about K.C.'s plight. She called the police, the fire department, the Humane Society and all various similar agencies. None of them would accept the notion that they should come to the rescue of poor K.C. in the tree.

In desperation, the neighbor lady asked her husband to climb aloft and rescue K.C. The husband suffered a fall and that ended that effort.

The neighbor lady asserts that K.C. was up the palm tree for 10 days. She finally hired a tree trimming service to rescue the stranded kitten.

Fire department spokesmen in some jurisdictions have a standard answer for citizens who plead for firemen to come snatch a feline from tall trees or poles. They say, "Have you ever seen a cat's skeleton in a tree? The cat will come down eventually."

THIS MAY BE TRUE. Of course, you've never seen a human skeleton on a freeway, either. But you might suspect a few motorists have died out there.

What we have here, however, is what kind of an image local government wants to project. That's why K.C., when he climbed the tree, became an ally of Howard Jarvis.

Jarvis has been telling everybody that they're pouring a lot of tax dollars into local government for nothing. They aren't getting anything for it. Not even any help.

Meanwhile, you can ponder the fact that while most voters were balloting to cut local government spending, they were also passing new taxes to support paramedic units.

THAT'S BECAUSE the paramedics, aided by a couple of TV dramas, project the image of helping people. They come to the rescue. They are a helping hand in time of emergencies.

So K.C. was just an alley cat in a tree and he didn't mean a damned thing. He wasn't worth any trouble.

And all he did was once again underscore the notion in a lot of people's minds that government agencies won't lift a finger.

People like to believe we have tax-supported units out there that will come to the rescue of all creatures, large and small. When it turns out otherwise, it just adds a little more fuel to the tax revolt fires.

But government agencies won't ever learn that lesson.

Jetliner Robbed

$2.2 Million
Cash Stolen

ROME (AP) — Two daring thieves dressed in mechanics uniforms, carrying a two-way radio and driving a stolen airport truck today halted an outbound jetliner on the pretext of a fuel leak, opened its cargo area and stole two pouches containing nearly $2.2 million in cash, police reported.

The robbery was discovered after the Swissair DC-9, with 39 passengers aboard, arrived in Zurich, where an airline spokesman said police were questioning a courier hired to accompany the pouch from Rome.

THE SPOKESMAN SAID he did not know why the man did not hand carry the pouch and instead had it stored in the cargo hold. Another question was whether the bandits had been tipped off on the contents of the pouch and how they could know location and mechanism of the cargo hold door, the airline spokesman said.

A Rome airport security officer, who asked not to be named, told reporters the robbers may have been helped by "someone inside."

Rome airport sources said the stolen money was part of regular cash consignments. It was not Italian lire, but it was not immediately known what currencies were involved.

Police said the robbers, driving a small flat truck marked "A.R." for the Airport of Rome, radioed the pilot from the truck to halt its takeoff for an urgent check of leaking fuel. They then sped to the plane, opened the cargo hold and stole the bags.

APPARENTLY WITHOUT realizing what had happened, the plane took off after receiving a go-ahead from the robbers.

Police said the robbers drove their truck into the runway after breaking a lock in the service hangar and used the same route to escape.

They then abandoned the truck outside the airport and sped away in a waiting car, police said.

The sources said the pouches had been delivered to the plane by an Italian shipping agency specializing in the transport of foreign currency.

The plane was taxiing to take off when the pilot received the bandits' order to halt, the sources said.

"All okay," one of the robbers reportedly told the pilot over the two-way radio after removing the bags.

ONCE AIRBORNE, the pilot told the control tower he had just undergone a check of leaking gasoline, only to be told that none of the airport workers had been ordered to make such an inspection, the sources said.

Pot Bust

'Wings'

TOKYO (AP) — Former Beatle Paul McCartney was taken into custody for alleged possession of about a half-pound of marijuana after arriving at Tokyo International Airport today, Japanese customs officials said. A two-week Japanese concert tour by his group "Wings" was canceled as a result.

The officials quoted the 37-year-old rock star, who was led away in handcuffs, as saying he had "brought some hemp for my smoking." Japanese authorities use the term "hemp" for marijuana.

McCartney flew to Tokyo with his wife, Linda, four children and members of his singing group "Wings" to begin an 11-concert tour, his first in Japan since he visited here with the Beatles 14 years ago, at the height of that British rock group's worldwide success.

Customs officers said they found the marijuana in a plastic bag in one of McCartney's suitcases as he passed through the checkpoint at the airport in Narita, 40 miles east of Tokyo.

No immediate formal charges were brought against him. He was turned over to drug-control officials at the airport for questioning.

Teddy Denies Accusations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says he knew the issue of Chappaquiddick would be raised if he ran for president, "but I also knew there would be nothing new that could come up that would question my testimony because the way I testified is the way it happened."

Less than a week before his presidential bid faces its first popular test in Iowa, Kennedy's account of the fatal automobile accident a decade ago has been challenged again — this time by two major publications whose reports reached the streets within hours of each other.

THE LATEST REPORTS, Kennedy said at a briefing called to discuss in detail separate investigative reports published by the Washington Star and Reader's Digest, were not only inaccurate by contradicted each other.

The senator assembled a panel of three experts — two admiralty lawyers and an oceanographic engineer — to challenge the reports questioning Kennedy's testimony about his swim from Chappaquiddick Island to Edgartown on nearby Martha's Vineyard after his car plunged off a bridge. Mary Jo Kopechne, 29, was killed in the July 1969 accident.

Kennedy said the Star story, in particular, "is wrong, is wrong, is dead wrong."

The newspaper reported that because a natural channel between the two islands had largely silted in by the time the accident occurred, the tidal currents Kennedy described under oath actually would have been carrying him in the opposite direction from that to which he testified.

THE DIGEST, which hired a consultant to test the tidal current in the area where Kennedy said he swam the 500-foot harbor channel, concluded the current likely was slack or very weak at the time Kennedy said he feared it would pull him out to sea.

"There's a natural curiosity about incidents that affect peoples' lives, which I understand," said the Massachusetts Democrat.

FORECAST

along the northern and central Pacific Coast, over the Great Basin and over parts of the northern Rockies.

Temperatures around the nation before dawn ranged from 11 in Williston and Devils Lake, N.D., to 73 in Key West, Fla.

California

Predictions of more rain for tonight and early Thursday in Southern California means much of the spectacle for Sunday's Super Bowl game in Pasadena could be in the waterlogged parking lot of the Rose Bowl.

The National Weather Service said the chance of showers from a storm moving toward California from north of Hawaii would increase to 30 percent by tonight.

"Unless everything has a chance to dry out for the rest of the week, we'll probably only have about 4,000 of the usual 10,000 parking spaces available — and it just doesn't look like things are going to dry out," said Pasadena Police Department spokesman Rocky McAlister.

On Tuesday, forecasters said the storm would hit Southern California, but leave the Rose Bowl — site of the National Football League's championship game between the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Los Angeles Rams — dry through Super Sunday.

The forecast calls for fair and clearing skies by Thursday afternoon, with some cloudiness at times in deserts.

But the dry weather may be too late for the Rose Bowl parking area, which resembles a swamp.

Meantime, Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies said mud and rocks washed down Kanan Dune Road in the Malibu area north of the Pacific Coast Highway, blocking the area to all vehicles for an hour Tuesday evening.

No injuries were reported when two cars traveling along the major mountain road were hit by falling rocks.

Temperatures were expected to remain the mid to upper 60s during the day, dropping to overnight lows in the 50s for most areas.

Rentals Prejudice Illegal?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The City Council has approved on a 14-0 vote a draft ordinance that would make adult-only rental units almost illegal in the city.

"Our children are our future," Councilwoman Pat Russell said after Tuesday's vote. "If we drive them out of our city, we doom ourselves to a doubtful future."

Four Indicted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Municipal Court judge, a court clerk and two attorneys have reportedly been named in a secret indictment by the Los Angeles

STATE

County Grand Jury in connection with their handling of two drunken driving cases.

Named in the indictment were Municipal Judge Fred W. Gabourie, clerk Joe Eggleston, and attorneys Harry Weiss and Samuel Weiss, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

Bill Advances

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation to end California's own auto pollution standards and use those of the federal government has won approval of the state Senate's Transportation Committee. The bill went to the Finance Committee on a 6-2 vote Tuesday.

Guidelines Eyed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Superior Court Judge Paul Egly has suggested that federal guidelines for integration of teaching staffs may interfere with the effective staffing of the city's segregated minority schools.

At one point Tuesday, Egly suggested that he might issue an order calling for modification of the federal guidelines.

Studio to Grow

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Over the protests of a small group of neighbors, Music Corporation of America will go ahead with a $25-million dollar expansion of its Universal City Studios back lot.

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously on Tuesday to issue MCA a conditional use permit to move 1.88 million cubic yards of dirt on 68 acres of the 420-acre studio, said to be the world's largest.

SPCA Will Fight To Keep Pet Alive

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty says it will go to court to keep alive a pet dog whose elderly owner willed that it be killed after she died.

The widow, Mary Murphy, died shortly before Christmas. In her will, she ordered that her 6-year-old blonde and white Sheltie mix dog named Sido — who was in the apartment when she died — be put to death.

BUT RICHARD AVANZINO, president of the local SPCA chapter, said that his organization will fight that will.

"This is the first time this concept has been litigated," he said. "The law says a pet can be destroyed like a piece of furniture. We're saying that's wrong."

STUART WEIN, AN ATTORNEY representing Sido, said Tuesday he may argue that destruction of the dog constitutes mistreatment and should be disproved by the probate court.

While the legal battle continues, Sido is living with the Avanzino family in suburban Moraga.

"I'm willing to spend jail time to make sure this animal will not be killed," Avanzino said.

Gay Rights Bill Debated

Job Discrimination Ban Reaches Assembly

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation to ban job discrimination against homosexuals has again reached the floor of the California Assembly.

But the bill, which won an 11-5 vote Tuesday of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, has little chance for final passage, despite strong backing by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

A SIMILAR BILL died on the Assembly floor in the 1975-76 session. No such measure has ever been passed by either house.

The committee, which had killed a similar bill last year, heard Assemblyman Art Agnos, D-San Francisco, testify that his ABI would give gays and lesbians "freedom to live and work in peace and dignity."

Agnos said the right to work free from discrimination is "the most legitimate request that anyone can make."

HE SAID THAT if legislators aren't willing to pass such a bill, they should be willing to "create a category of welfare called aid to homosexuals" for those who lose their jobs.

SB1 would let homosexuals who believe they have been fired or denied a job or promotion because of their sexual preference file complaints with the state Fair Employment Practices Commission, like complaints that can now be filed on discrimination by race or sex.

The only present remedy is a lawsuit, Agnos said. The state Supreme Court last year prohibited public utilities from discriminating against homosexuals, and Brown signed an executive order covering state employees, but discrimination is allowed in other public and private employment.

THE BILL WOULD not apply to religious organizations or to persons who had been convicted of sex crimes with children and were applying for jobs involving children.

The bill would also rule out the preferential hiring of homosexuals as a remedy for discrimination, and would allow employers to enforce dress codes that applied to all workers.

Agnos said no one keeps statistics on job discrimination against homosexuals. But he said a National Institute of Mental Health survey found that one-sixth of all homosexuals reported such discrimination.

HE PRESENTED a witness, a 19-year-old woman who identified herself only as Susie, who said she had been fired from one job and pressured into leaving another after revealing, when asked by her bosses, that she was homosexual.

The woman said, sobbing: "I can do the job as well as any straight person. . . . Don't let people fire me because of something I do in my private life. It's none of their business."

AS USUAL, most of the opposition came from fundamentalist pastors. But one new opponent was the California Correctional Officers Association. Lobbyist Jeff Thompson said homosexual prison guards could cause "a great deal of problems among prison staff."

That comment puzzled Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, a supporter of the bill, who said Brown has already prohibited such discrimination among prison employees.

Replied Thompson, "He's also signed an executive order on odd-even gas," referring to the non-enforcement in many areas of Brown's statewide order on gasoline purchasing. He said a bill would be harder to ignore.

Fisherman Saved From Stormy Sea

LONG BEACH (AP) — After braving 33 hours aboard a 12-foot skiff in stormy seas, a wet and hungry Scott Johnson is finally safe.

The 26-year-old fisherman, sole occupant of a fishing boat that sank over the weekend, was rescued Tuesday from his lifeboat by seamen from the tanker American Lancer, said Coast Guard Petty Officer Joseph Davis.

AFTER JOHNSON radioed for help shortly before the 65-foot Roughneck sank, a search was initiated by Coast Guard and navy aircraft and vessels and all merchant ships in a 3,500-square-mile area from San Clemente and San Nicolas Island to Catalina and Santa Barbara.

Exhausted and relatively uninjured, Johnson was spotted nine miles south of Point Dume — some 40 miles northeast of San Nicolas Island, where the 65-foot vessel Roughneck sank Sunday, Davis said.

A COAST GUARD helicopter which flew Johnson to the Torrance Memorial Hospital emergency room was summoned by the tanker, he said.

"He was treated for injuries to the wrist and the knee and also for exposure," hospital spokeswoman Carmela Pantelena said. "He was discharged within an hour."

Panel Vote Split On Smoking Policy

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State Sen. Alan Sieroty says that if the head of every state agency were required to establish an office smoking policy, most would do something to protect non-smokers.

But the nine-member Senate Committee on Governmental Organization gave his bill only a 4-4 vote Tuesday.

THE BILL WOULD have required each state agency to establish a policy on smoking, including banning it, designating no smoking areas, or even permitting signs saying, "Smoking Allowed."

The bill originally applied to not only state, but also county and city agencies. But before the committee vote, Sieroty amended out the local agencies in a futile effort to save the bill. He also deleted criminal penalties for failure to establish policy and a requirement that each employee be given a written copy of it.

Sen. Bill Greene, D-Los Angeles, who did not vote on the bill, questioned a statement by a Sieroty witness that a state survey showed smokers had 40 percent more health absences than non-smokers. Greene said he was a smoker and had been sick only twice in his life.

OTHER SIEROTY bills to mandate non-smoking areas in privately owned restaurants and ban it in health facilities and clinics, were approved last week by the Senate Health and Welfare Committee, and are pending before the Senate Finance Committee.

Sieroty said he tried to salvage some elements of an anti-smoking initiative that was defeated in 1978. He said the initiative went too far, but his bills were reasonable and "mild."

Time to Resolve County-UCI Feud

Cheers were about the only sound heard a few years ago when the UCI Medical School bought Orange County Medical Center and contracted to care for the county's medically indigent.

County government's honeymoon with the university was short-lived. It's turned into a strange relationship at best.

Most recently, county Auditor-Controller Vic Heim recommended to the Board of Supervisors that the county withhold $250,000 owed UCI because he said medical center authorities were withholding certain background financial records.

Prior to Heim's recommendation, the county challenged $11 million worth of charges for patient services made by the medical center accountants.

Before that, there were issues in dispute involving pay for treatment provided to undocumented aliens and optional dental and preventive medicine programs. They went along with a lengthy list of other fiscal disputes.

Summed up, it seems the county government-university contract is a source of massive fiscal misunderstanding.

Obviously, the university is entitled to be paid a reasonable amount for its services. Just as obviously, county government and the taxpayers that support it should pay no more than what is fair and reasonable for those services.

It seems long past time for the two feuding factions to have ironed out their differences and to have put their fiscal houses in proper order.

Border Frustration

Border Patrol chief Donald Cameron may have cited "frustration" as his main reason for deciding to retire after 28 years with the patrol, but he's going down fighting.

In a tricky maneuver last week, Cameron fooled illegal alien smugglers by suddenly reopening the San Onofre Border Patrol checkpoint after its customary Sunday afternoon shutdown.

He had a special contingent of 40 immigration agents on hand to man the trap and in five evening hours they rounded up 518 illegal aliens and 35 suspected smugglers.

But even a successful operation like this won't change the 54-year-old patrol chief's decision to step down from the job he says he can't handle properly because of insufficient manpower, money and equipment.

The crowning blow came when the White House Office of Management and Budget killed a $14.5 million appropriation which, among other things, would have added 239 officers to the 310 now manning the Chula Vista sector Cameron heads.

The sector stretches from the Pacific to Calexico and north as far as San Luis Obispo. Busiest spot is the 12-mile stretch of border near Chula Vista, which Cameron says he has to patrol with an average of only 30 agents at any one time.

They've apprehended some 400,000 illegal border crossers since the major exodus from Mexico began, but Cameron estimates an equal number probably have made it across successfully.

For a man of Cameron's experience and knowledge of how the job should be done, that's frustration.

Generosity Misplaced

Federal government spokesmen have expressed surprise that their $400 million "energy relief" handout to 3.9 million recipients of supplemental security income (SSI) aid has stirred up some controversy.

Each of the recipients received a check from the government, purportedly to help them cope with increased winter heating costs. The checks were in amounts up to $250. Presumably the higher amounts went to residents of colder climates. But everyone, including those in the Sun Belt, was on the gift list.

SSI recipients are the elderly, blind and disabled poor. Certainly no one would want them to suffer from insufficient winter heating. But the fact is that a great many live in nursing homes or other facilities where the cost of heating is included in flat fees.

The government has specified that the energy checks are to be used as the recipients see fit, whether or not they have direct fuel costs, and are not supposed to be turned over to homes for the aged or other institutions where they may live.

Spokesmen say it would have been just too complicated to tailor the assistance to persons in varying living conditions, hence the decision to include everyone.

There's no doubt the elderly poor can use a few extra dollars, wherever they reside. But it seems unfortunate the bureaucrats couldn't have taken the trouble to channel all the energy relief to those who really need it this winter, instead of scattering their largess across the land in this grand gesture.

The smaller checks that went to Sun Belt renters might have made all the difference in real energy relief to frostbitten elderly householders up north.

They learned how to imitate the sound of the bugler's reveille so perfectly that they were waking up the troops hours too early. The currawongs have not mastered the bagpipe version. Presumably won't.

Testers set up a table in a supermarket on which they put two coffeemakers. In front of one they left a red can of coffee, in front of the other, a yellow can of coffee. But the coffee in the two automatic drippers was identical, poured previously from one machine. They asked passersby which tasted the stronger. Almost all said the one behind the red can.

Soviets Near Strategic Goals?

WASHINGTON — The grand Soviet strategy in lower Asia calls for the dismemberment of Afghanistan, Pakistan and Iran into separate ethnic states. Then the Soviets will pick up the pieces and absorb them, one by one, into the U.S.S.R.

This is the sobering, secret assessment of intelligence analysts who have watched the Soviet sweep into Afghanistan with deepening alarm. The Central Intelligence Agency saw the strategy developing long before Soviet troops roared into Afghanistan.

It would give the Russians frontage on both the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean — warm water ports that the czars merely dreamed about in past ages. But far more is at stake than mere seaports; the Russian bear would like to get its paws on Iran's fabulous oil fields.

THE PERSIAN GULF not only is the main source of Western oil; it is also the jugular vein which carries this lifeblood to the industrial world. The Russians have already moved into Afghan air bases, which are less than 500 miles from Hormuz Strait as the jet flies.

This narrow exit from the Persian Gulf is the choke point where the Soviets could block the Western jugular. Thus, they already have a powerful bargaining position in any future negotiations over Persian Gulf oil.

The Soviets, meanwhile, are expected to maneuver dangerously closer to the edge of world war, taking precautions all the while to avoid it. A secret CIA strategic review, analyzing the prospect of a future Soviet move against Iran, suggests:

"It is entirely possible that the Soviets would use the Afghans and the Parthians and Baluchis as proxy forces to form a surrogate army, thus avoiding the use of Soviet troops and a major confrontation with the United States.

"As such events escalated," the CIA scenario continues, "the United States as well as other (allies) would be called on to support both Pakistan and Iran... which would cause a further spread of the war."

"The United States, catering to Muslim interests in order to regain access to Mideast oil, to preclude Russian expansionism and to attempt to return stability to South Asia, would be required to commit military resources of some nature."

Already, the Soviets have risked destroying détente and antagonizing the Moslem world. They have driven their two most powerful adversaries, the United States and China, closer together. The sparks from a Russian-American confrontation over the Persian Gulf could also set off a nuclear powder keg.

In the opinion of the analysts, the Soviets would never have taken such enormous risks for the sake of Afghanistan — a bleak, arid, landlocked country abused by man and nature. It is a land of steep, jagged, snow-swirling mountains, of barren, brown, blazing desert, of primitive, mud-walled villages.

WITH PERVERSE pride, the Afghans call their country "the land of the fur and the fap" because it is bedeviled by extreme temperature variations. It is harsh country, poor in resources, and hardy people live there.

Their fighting men have scattered into the caves and crevices of mountains so rugged that they are called the Hindu Kush, meaning the "Killer of Hindus." One day, they may be renamed the "Killer of Russians," because a lot of Russians will surely die in those mountains before Afghanistan is tamed.

No, the Russian Bear did not bite off this indigestible piece of earth, with any idea that it would be a juicy plum. The plum lies beyond the towering mountains, beyond the dry deserts, beyond the dusty steppes of Afghanistan.

Intelligence specialists believe the Kremlin has already started to implement its grand strategy. As early as 1978, the Soviets sought to split off an independent Pushtunistan from Afghanistan and Pakistan.

Presumably, Soviet troops will now expedite the process that their puppet, Nur Mohammad Taraki, the late Afghan president, tried to initiate.

THIS WILL BE followed, it is anticipated, by attempts to carve up Afghanistan into other ethnic states, including an autonomous Baluchistan and Uzbekistan. The ethnic populations, of course, are spread across the borders into Iran, Pakistan and Russia itself.

Thus, the pressure will build up to include the ethnic minorities of Iran and Pakistan in the new autonomous states. Already, the Soviets are stirring up the ethnic minorities in Iran with clandestine radio broadcasts across the border.

The minorities, eager for autonomy, can be expected to play the Soviet game. But the Soviets have a different scenario than the minorities probably have in mind. Soviet cadres are waiting to guide and ultimately to control the ethnic movements. In the end, the Russians hope to absorb the autonomous states into the Soviet system.

Food as Weapon Sometimes Justified

How can anybody play politics with hunger?

The very idea that any nation would allow people to starve in order to accomplish diplomatic objectives!

Well, now, wait a minute. The recent situation in Iran has brought into sharp focus our lopsided disadvantage if we aid and comfort our enemies in the name of "humanity."

While they are willing even to kill people in the name of religion. Historically, our country has been disinclined to withhold food from anybody who's hungry.

RECENTLY, frequently, our generosity has been misused by dictators who diverted our shipments to their own profit — but we accepted that calculated risk in the hope that at least some of our gift-grain would filter down to starving babies.

Then came the tremendous grass-roots response to the song CHEAPER CRUDE OR NO MORE FOOD! Then came the sobering situation in Iran.

Then — President Allan Grant of the American Farm Bureau reversed his longstanding opposition to playing international politics with food. He said we are fools to strengthen the captors of our own people.

Then — American longshoremen's unions refused to load grain shipments bound for Iran.

It was then that President Carter quietly allowed an undeclared embargo on food for Iran.

The hordes who populate Iranian cities have depended on imports for half of what they eat and 80 percent of those imports have been supplied by U.S. farmers.

Our Agriculture Department (USDA) had earlier rejected the idea of "cheaper crude or no more food." Agriculture Secretary Bergland called the notion "impractical."

NOW, after you and the longshoremen and the Farm Bureau and others got riled up, suddenly the Department of Agriculture has reversed itself.

Now the USDA's Mideast expert, Michael Kurtzig, says a cutoff in shipments of American feed grains to Iran will create shortages there almost immediately.

Indeed, while the oil-drunk Ayatollah Khomeini has been urging his followers to arm themselves and prepare to use guns against the United States, Iranian merchants have been trying desperately to purchase 30,000 tons of Louisiana rice.

THERE ARE always mercenaries willing to try to complete such a deal through intermediaries — but some of us are watching.

The Iranians have been trying to purchase grain elsewhere. They tried to order 60,000 tons of barley from Canada; were refused.

Will this punish our farmers, depress grain prices, add more red ink to our trade imbalance?

It will not hurt us anything like as much as it will hurt them.

And it will benefit us if it motivates us to accelerate the conversion of surplus grain to alcohol fuel.

Earl Waters

OC Jurist Cited for 'High Principled Purpose'

In the midst of widespread public criticism of the California judiciary, brought about by Gov. Jerry Brown's appointments to the courts and the subsequent notoriety achieved by some of them, comes a remarkable and unusual tribute to one of the state's justices.

It is an article in the University of Santa Clara Law Review just off the presses.

Written by its board of editors, it singles out the Fourth District Court of Appeals Presiding Justice Robert Gardner, noting he provides "a radiant exception to the tedium of most legal writings."

While the article focuses attention on the "incomparable style" of Gardner's opinions which "combines flashes of wit with unbridled candor of emotion, creating vibrant and readable opinions," it inescapably points up the justice's philosophy.

What emerges is a picture of a "high spirited" jurist who "never balks at hard dilemma, nor cowers from an unpopular position" but attacks each issue with "refreshing candor."

It is clear that Newport Beach resident Gardner is a rare type, for his opinions spare neither the Legislature nor the supreme court. Citing a particularly incisive reflection on judicial opinions, Gardner is quoted as writing:

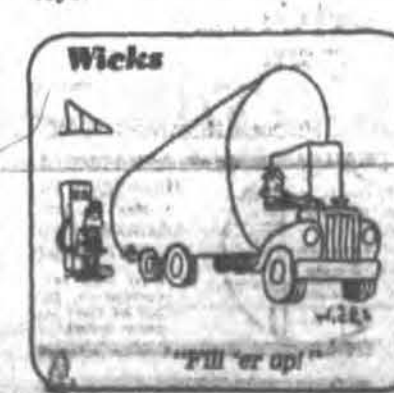

"Opinions written following established principles, tend to become prolix as the court attempts to vindicate or rationalize its new position. Such an opinion becomes a treasure trove of polemic minutiae embellished with mountains of friendly but sometimes redundant authorities."

"By a careful and restrictive selection of choice phrases, the opinion can be used for, and will give aid and comfort to, almost any given set of facts remotely resembling those on which the original opinion was based. Theoretically such an opinion gives us fixed and stable legal principles around which we can build our lives in what we call an orderly system. Actually, in the subsequent applications we give to these opinions we often find ourselves with capricious, erratic, almost whimsical results. Thus, it sometimes becomes necessary to step back and form an artful microscopic study of the words and phrases in an opinion in its broad aspects and ask what was the problem? What was the solution?"

NOT ALL the citations in the review are as lengthy. In providing an example of Gardner's humor the review quotes from a case involving standardized, mass produced adhesive contracts:

"Contracts of adhesion, most of which are editorial nightmares, proliferate. There is a dark suspicion that the same people who prepare these, prepare income tax forms and the directions as to how to put together packaged Christmas toys."

Gardner was born in Arlington, Washington and graduated from the University of Southern California. He served in the navy during WW II. He became a Newport Beach city judge following a stint in the Orange County District Attorney's office. He was appointed a superior court judge in 1947 and elevated to the district court in 1970.

The high tribute paid him by the law review editors concludes:

"JUSTICE GARDNER'S importance transcends his humor and his ability to turn a good phrase. There is a warm-hearted spirit and high principled purpose directing the words he writes. The cynical edge that can be detected in his frank and open manner reflects his frustration when bad laws engender hardship. Yet Gardner braves the constellation of human inequities that besiege the judiciary with courage and conviction. His deep respect for the intelligence of the jury, his sensitive performance of difficult judicial tasks, and his strong sense of common decency and simple justice reflect his faith in the intrinsic worth of humankind."

Student Pilots Backed

FAA Refuses to Ban Flights at Lindbergh

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration is refusing to ban student pilots from the airspace around Lindbergh Field where one was involved in a plane crash that killed 144 people in 1978.

In what was the worst domestic air crash in history at that time, a small Cessna making practice instrument approaches and a Pacific Southwest Airlines jetliner collided Sept. 25, 1978, and since then several "near misses" between commercial planes and small aircraft have been reported.

THE PORT DISTRICT, WHICH OWNS the airport, made public a letter from the FAA rejecting its request for a ban on instrument landing system (ILS) practice approaches to Lindbergh, the popular name for San Diego International Airport.

"We believe that aircraft making practice ILS approaches and touch-and-go landings do not degrade safety in a controlled situation," A. R. Frehse, the FAA's acting western director, said in the letter.

The instrument landing system, "a component of the National Airspace System, is under the jurisdiction of the FAA, and denial of its use for other than reasons of equipment malfunction or safety of flight are inappropriate," Frehse wrote.

ALTHOUGH THE FAA REFUSES to allow its air traffic controllers to become involved in such a ban, he said it had no objections to a "non-discriminatory ban on touch-and-go landings." Frehse said the FAA would publish the Port District's policies in its bulletins.

Louis Wolfsheimer, a port commissioner, called the FAA letter "arrogant."

The city of San Diego has hired Arvin Basnight, a retired FAA employee, as consultant to help plan safety controls over San Diego. He said he would meet with officials in Washington.

THE NATIONAL TRANSPORTATION and Safety Board called on the FAA last month to tighten air safety controls at Lindbergh, saying "serious danger continues to exist for a catastrophic aircraft collision."

Although the safety board urged that all private pilots entering San Diego airspace be required to get air traffic clearance, the FAA said that would "detract from safety, not add to it."

A half-dozen near collisions have been reported by airliner pilots since 1978. In the investigation of the 1978 disaster, an investigation said the PSA flight crew was largely at fault.

TV People 'ON' to Refund

DEAR PAT: We subscribed to ON Subscription Television for several months and then decided to cancel because we didn't care that much for the programs. The service was discontinued Nov. 8, but we are still waiting for the security refund of $25 on the box. It was supposed to be returned to us in two weeks, but many calls about this still haven't brought any results.

L.T., Fountain Valley
Paul Hamilton of ON Subscription Television told AYS that your subscription was arranged through Sears, and refund of the $25 was made to Sears Dec. 11. If you paid the $25 to Sears by check or money order, Sears should refund it to you by check, but if you charged the $25 on your account, a credit probably will appear on your next statement. If not, contact Sears.

Excess Tax Fully Refundable

DEAR PAT: Is the taxpayer who has had several employers entitled to a refund of part of the Social Security tax?

S.S., Newport Beach
If an individual worked for more than one employer, earned more than $22,900, and $1,403.77 or more was withheld in Social Security tax, then the individual is entitled to a refund. If a taxpayer qualifies, he should follow the instructions for claiming excess Social Security which are enclosed with his 1979 Individual Income Tax Forms.

All DES Livestock Use Ended

DEAR PAT: I recall reading that the government has banned the use of the chemical DES to fatten livestock. Does this ban also include ear implants of the drug in livestock?

E.G., Costa Mesa
Yes. After seven years of debate, the Food and Drug Administration has banned the use of DES in both ear implants and animal feed. FDA concluded that DES causes cancer in animals and that it has not been shown there is a safe level in animals.

No-wax Just a Glossy Claim?

DEAR PAT: I've been shopping for new vinyl flooring in my kitchen. How can you tell if a no-wax floor will retain its shine?

H.Q., Newport Beach
Many of the vinyl floors on the market today that are said to be "no-wax" have an ordinary vinyl surface with a shine that wears away soon after installation. Ordinary vinyl becomes scratched from the abrasive action of shoes on particles of grit and soil. The tiny scratches trap dirt and make the floor dull and hard to clean. Wax prevents that.

One clue to help you spot a real no-wax surface is its nubby, overall texture. Magnified, the surface of the floor would look like a landscape of hills and valleys. The hills remain relatively untouched. Even when the tips start to lose gloss, the valleys will shine through.

Gloss reduction on no-wax floors is gradual, but eventually you may have to use a special liquid finish from your flooring dealer to touch up the shine on heavy traffic areas. Although no-wax floors hold the dirt on the surface and stay clean-looking longer because of the shine, regular sweeping and cleaning is necessary for prolonging the life of the shine.

Crib Toys Could Be Dangerous

DEAR READERS: Children and infants can suffer harm playing with any number of small things given them in their cribs. Tying or hanging any playthings above or from the sides or frames of cribs and playpens could be dangerous if the infant can pull it down. The child may become entangled in the string or cord, resulting in a strangulation.

Here are a few safeguards suggested by the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Tying rattles or pacifiers with a long string, cord or ribbon to a crib slat or headboard or to the infant himself, could cause strangulation.

Make sure any rattle is large enough so that it cannot be put into an infant's mouth and become lodged in the throat. Check to see that the rattle is constructed so that it will not become separated into small pieces on which an infant might choke.

Most rattles now available on the market meet safety requirements established by CPSC in 1978. However, all rattles given to infants or small children — whether new, heirlooms, or hand-me-downs — should be examined to see if they are strong enough to withstand use.

CPSC regulations for pacifiers also require that they must be large enough so that an infant cannot choke on them. Check to see also that they cannot come apart.

WANTED: Reserve Deputy Sheriffs

If you're interested enough in law enforcement activities to donate a few hours of your time and talent each month, it could be you.

Over 200 Orange County citizens from all walks of life presently hold the position of Reserve Deputy Sheriff in addition to their regular jobs and professions. These Citizen Sheriffs volunteer part of their free time to assist the regular forces of the Orange County Sheriff's Dept. in Patrol duties, administration, mountain and harbor searches and rescues, aerial reconnaissance, transportation, recruiting, public relations and a broad spectrum of technical and professional services. They receive no wages for their work, but they do receive the satisfaction of deep involvement in a law enforcement job well done.

Sound like something you might be interested in? We're looking forward to explaining the whole program to you and answering all your questions on Saturday, January 19th at 9 a.m. For more information call Sgt. Larry Khune (714) 834-4493.

Nine Noses to Sniff Out Odors

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Succinctly put, Jacksonville often stinks.

On some days, the air in this coastal city in north Florida reeks with odors from chemical plants, paper mills, coffee manufacturers, perfume makers and sewage treatment plants.

Citizens often complain. One woman who lives near a chemical company that manufactures scents for soaps and perfumes said she has to wear a surgical mask when she goes outside.

BUT ONE PROBLEM is people don't always agree on what smells bad. And there are no machines to measure odors.

So in the first such project environmental officials remember, Jacksonville has selected nine noses from the city's pollution control board to sniff the various smells and decide which are objectionable.

"This is a real complex problem, and it's one that we have not unraveled," said Walter Honour, chief of the city's Bioenvironmental Services.

A $44,000, 15-MONTH study by a Gainesville environmental consulting firm was presented Monday night to the city's pollution control board.

It listed 13 industrial sources of odors. The report said the air is safe, even though it added that 50 residents complained that the air smelled so bad some days that it made them sick.

The report, however, didn't recommend a solution.

Honour said Tuesday that community standards on smells should be set. He wants the nine-member pollution board to do it.

"WE HAVE NINE people. We got a couple of engineers, a couple of doctors, a couple of lawyers and other mature, discreet citizens on the board," he said.

"What we intend to do is, in perhaps groups of three or five, expose them in a pristine, confined, or odorless chamber to the odorous emissions, then say, 'You tell us at what level you can't stand it, that it becomes objectionable.'"

"Then, for that compound, we'd establish a concentration level."

Officials at the Environmental Protection Agency in Atlanta said they knew of no other city trying for such small controls.

THE GAINESVILLE consultants said the smells contain some chemicals that may be harmful but they didn't find concentrations known to cause health problems.

But 50 of 246 residents responding to a survey claimed they felt some discomfort or illness because of the pungent odors in the air.

One woman, Mattie Browning, said she must wear a surgical mask on some days before going outside because the air is so thick with foul fumes.

"You don't know how miserable it gets, sometimes," said the 60-year-old woman who lives with her retired husband, Alvin. "Just Saturday night, I told Alvin that this mess is just about to stifle me, to take my breath away."

THE BROWNING'S LIVE near Union Camp, a chemical company that makes scents for colognes, perfumes, soaps, detergents and household cleaners. A company spokesman said $500,000 has been spent during the past few years to trap odors that arise from the plant.

Another Union Camp neighbor, Jan Hill, said the air sometimes smells "like an open septic tank. . . It seeps into your house and it gets caught in your furniture and upholstery and it stays there forever and ever."

Everyone agrees, however, that the air is better than it used to be. Some recall the Great Stocking Rot of 1949 when the air was so filthy that women's hosiery rotted on their legs.

HONOUR ANTICIPATES several problems before standards could be enforced.

"An odor is something like noise in that the louder or the stronger prevails. If you were to eliminate the stronger emission, you then uncover something underneath that may be just as bad, just as objectionable to some people," he said.

The weather is important too. Some days, and at night, conditions keep polluted air close to the ground. At other times, the foul smells are swept away.

"It's a stinky job," Honour said, referring to the complexity of the smelly issue.

Center Costs Double As Space Shrinking

The estimated cost of a biological sciences research center at UC Irvine has doubled while the amount of usable space in the proposed facility has shrunk, a report to University of California Regents discloses.

The original cost for the research center was put at $1.2 million when Regents included the project in their 1979-80 capital improvements budget last January.

BUT IN A REPORT to two regents committees which meets Thursday in San Francisco, officials say the original budgeted outlay won't come close to covering the full estimated costs.

Administrators now recommend $2.1 million be set aside for the project.

"This increase in project cost results from more detailed planning and updated cost estimates," a report to the Committee on Finance says.

Officials said that when the project was conceived, "the programmatic aspects had not been fully identified."

THE REPORT SAID added specialized laboratory facilities would be included in the plans, making the research center more costly, if somewhat smaller.

That's because the original proposal called for 12,000 square feet of space. The revised plans trim that size to 11,900 square feet, 7,500 square feet of which will be devoted to research laboratories, 2,900 square feet of which will go toward service and support space and 1,500 square feet for offices and conference space.

The proposed facility would provide space initially for two existing research groups within the School of Biological Sciences — one doing brain studies in the Department of Psychobiology and another doing research on age-related changes for the Center for Pathobiology.

MORE THAN HALF the funds for the center, about $1.1 million, would come from a designated Nuclear Science Fund. Another $900,000 will come from a legal settlement fund.

If the revised funding plans are approved by the committee on finance and grounds and buildings Thursday, the full Board of Regents would take the matter up Friday.

Gold 'Finder' Admits Story Publicity Gag

SIERRA MADRE (AP) — A struggling actor who claimed to have found four gold nuggets worth $1,000 in the hills above this San Gabriel Valley town admits that the story was a publicity gimmick.

"We wanted publicity for this little play we're putting on. We never meant to hurt anyone," said Herb Robins, 50, a CETA worker for the city who produces plays in the local park.

ON JAN. 11, Robins told The Associated Press and other news organizations that he and two friends had found the nuggets while hiking in Bailey Canyon in the Angeles National Forest, about 20 miles northeast of Los Angeles. (The story appeared Saturday in the Daily Pilot.)

Robins filed a mining claim for the land with the County Recorder's Office. Bill Homer, a spokesman for the recorder, said the claim was filed Jan. 10.

Robins got help from a local geologist in filling out the claim forms but never showed the nuggets to the geologist.

"I GOT THE nuggets from a jeweler friend of mine," said Robins. He had the nuggets appraised by Hugh Campbell, owner of Foothill Coin Center in Sierra Madre.

"We get people all the time coming down from the foothills with little tiny nuggets, usually flakes and dust like you'd get in panning," Campbell said. "But I'd never seen any that size before."

Campbell evaluated two kidney bean-sized nuggets Robins brought him at $799.26.

ROBINS SAID HE wanted the publicity for a play he wrote, produced and plans to star in. The play, a version of "The Treasure of Sierra Madre," also stars his two "hiking" friends, Al C. Ryan, 49, an Arcadia real estate agent, and James Doudna, 28, a West Hollywood carpenter and Robins' nephew.

"We're all professional actors and we could hardly keep a straight face in front of the network cameras," he said, describing the phony interviews he and his friends had given.

Rose Ryland, who runs the geology concern that Robins consulted, said a little gold has been found in the canyons around Robins' claim, but not in Bailey Canyon.

Venue Change Denied In Second Murder Trial

By FREDERICK SCHOEHL

Robert Edward Crane, convicted of the 1978 murder of a Seal Beach jeweler, must face a retrial on an unrelated murder charge in Orange County Superior Court. Judge James K. Turner has ruled.

Turner issued the ruling over Crane's objections that he could not receive a fair trial because of publicity that surrounded the 1979 trial in which he was convicted of the shooting death of Wayne Golin, 41, of Huntington Harbour, during a robbery at Golin's Seal Beach jewelry store.

The jury that convicted Crane of the Golin slaying was unable to reach a verdict on whether the tall, sandy-haired defendant also murdered Kenneth Cochran, 29, a police informant whose body was found in Huntington Beach in December 1977.

Crane asked that his retrial in the Cochran case be moved out of Orange County. He didn't specify where he wanted the trial moved.

Crane said he also objected to the fact that a deputy district attorney who opposed the change of venue motion is a candidate for a judgeship. The 30-year-old defendant also insisted jail personnel were blocking his requests for law books.

In issuing his ruling Monday, Judge Turner said he was not persuaded by any of Crane's arguments.

Crane has represented himself throughout his court proceedings.

HB Hosts Clash For Prep Hoofers

Eleven Orange County high schools will participate Friday and Saturday in the Choreographers' Winter Concert at Huntington Beach High School.

The show, sponsored by the Fountain Valley High Theater Dancers, includes modern dance, modern jazz, ballet and comedy dances during 10-minute presentations.

Donna Jones, program director, said the concert enables schools to share ideas, choreographing and performance with other schools.

The program also gives the public a chance to see the styles of dance, she said.

Five awards will be given students for outstanding performances Friday night. Saturday night, an award will be presented to the school with the outstanding level of choreography.

High schools scheduled to participate are Fountain Valley, Brea Olinda, Capistrano Valley, Corona del Mar, Dana Hills, Fullerton, Huntington Beach, Laguna Beach, Marina, University and Villa Park.

Tickets to the 8 p.m. performances may be purchased at the Huntington Beach High School auditorium door for $2.

Negative View

Elderly Often Ignore Illness

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The elderly often don't seek help for treatable illnesses because they, and sometimes their doctors, believe that to be old is to be sick, says a Harvard physician.

A British study, for example, found as many as five unreported problems in patients over 80 and "three were not fancy diseases," Dr. John Rowe said.

HIGH ON THE list were deafness because of ear wax, visual problems from glaucoma, nutritional deficiencies and an "incredibly alarming 30 percent rate of depression."

Even the old themselves have "this built-in negative view of the elderly," Rowe said, and doctors sometimes share it.

"Let's face it," Rowe said in an interview, "older patients have more illnesses... and some physicians look upon many symptoms of the aging as not really particularly worthy of their attention."

"They kind of say, 'You're 85 years old. You have to expect some aches and pains.'"

ROWE CONTENDS THAT older people who are healthy should feel well.

Rowe addressed the American Medical Association's winter scientific meeting here.

Rowe said the very old, especially those over 80, present special problems for physicians. Their symptoms often are different.

Landry, Miller: It Won't Be a Rout

By JOHN SEVANO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

To try to get an honest readout from the two coaches involved in Super Bowl Sunday regarding each other's teams and their own is nearly impossible.

Like in every game of this magnitude, both Ray Malavasi and Chuck Noll are quite content with patting each other's club on the back as well as their own. Each is going to do or say nothing to arouse the other. That's not unusual, it's expected.

ANOTHER QUALIFIED SOURCE for analysis might be the veterans of the media, who have been through this before. But even they have written the game off, with some wondering why the Rams are bothering to show at all.

A third judgment, however, might come from a pair of coaches who have not only been to the Super Bowl, but whose clubs have played Los Angeles and Pittsburgh this year.

Including exhibition and playoff games, the Rams and Steelers have five common opponents—New York Giants, St. Louis, Denver, Dallas and San Diego.

The Steelers are 4-2 this year against those teams, having split with Dallas. And the Rams are 4-3, having split with Dallas and San Diego.

THERE WAS SOME difficulty in getting these coaches to comment. Bud Wilkinson of St. Louis was job hunting and unavailable; Ray Perkins of New York was overlooked because Pittsburgh faced them early in the exhibition season; and Don Coryell of San Diego didn't want to rock the boat on either side saying through a team spokesman, "If I say something about Pittsburgh, I'm going to get them mad at me, and if I say something about the Rams, they're going to be mad at me. I'm better off not saying anything at all."

The two coaches who WERE willing to speak their minds, however, are probably the most qualified—Red Miller of Denver and Tom Landry of Dallas.

BOTH COACHES are veterans of playoff competition and both have seen this year's Super Bowl contestants enough to wish they were out of the league.

Right off the bat, both wanted to dispel one notion—that the game was going to be a rout for the Steelers. "It will be a lot closer than most people think," said Landry, debunking the wizards of odds who have installed Pittsburgh as a 10½-point favorite.

"Going into the game, and with all things considered, the Steelers would have to be the favorite," says Miller. "But it will be a lot closer than many people realize."

THE REASON the game will be close, they say, is the physical size of the Rams up front — where the Steelers have been known to dominate their opponents.

"There are a lot of good matchups for both sides," says Miller. "The Rams have tremendous strength up front and a very good defense. I don't know if they have the skilled people (quarterback, running backs, wide receivers) that Pittsburgh does, but they have a lot of bulk and strength."

Landry, who played the Steelers in a losing cause in Super Bowl XIII, says the Rams will definitely have their work cut out for them.

"THE STEELERS don't have any weaknesses," he says. "They are solid in all phases of the game, some more than others."

"The only thing weak about Pittsburgh is when they don't want to play. When they're bad, they're really bad. If you'll note, their turnovers all seem to come at once."

Believe it or not, the Steelers did lead the NFL in turnovers—52—and they were distributed evenly: 26 fumbles and 26 interceptions. But nine of those came in a loss to Cincinnati (34-10) and eight more during a defeat to San Diego (35-7).

"They play everything well," says (See LANDRY, Page B4)

Steelers' Pussycat

Lambert a Recluse Off the Field

By DAVE CUNNINGHAM
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Jack Lambert is finding it difficult to keep a straight face.

The Steelers' All-pro linebacker has been through this Super Bowl media circus before, so you'd think he would be used to dumb questions by now.

But sometimes he just can't bring himself to take it seriously.

REPORTER: "YOU'VE GOT the reputation of having a ferocious personality. Has that affected you on or off the field?"

Lambert: "Yeah, the ladies are scared of me. I've been trying to get married for the last two years. I've proposed to 227 ladies, and I can't get any of 'em to say yes."

Reporter: "No, I was being serious."

LAMBERT: "SO WAS I. I can't understand why none of 'em say yes. I'm not bad looking. I mean, I'm no day at the beach, but I'm not half as bad as Mean Joe Greene, and he's married."

Away from the crowd of reporters, Lambert told the Daily Pilot that his flippant attitude is an attempt to bring people back to reality.

"When the Super Bowl becomes the most important thing in the world, something's wrong somewhere," Lambert said. "Somebody's priorities are screwed up."

Lambert's opinions about football are as unique as his personality.

A MAN WHO MAKES his living as a linebacker is expected to rip open beer cans with his bare hands and snarl a lot. Not Jack Lambert.

"When the last game is over I'm gonna take a big case of lemonade and go lie on the beach," Lambert says. "Twenty-three games is a long season. It's like two college seasons put together. It takes its toll."

The playoffs have been an added burden on Lambert because Jack Ham, a six-time All-pro linebacker, has been sidelined with an ankle injury.

With Lambert in the middle and Ham on the outside, the Steelers had the finest linebacking crew in the NFL.

"DO WE MISS JACK HAM? That's another silly question," Lambert told another reporter. "How could you not miss Jack Ham? Just look at his record."

During Tuesday's press session at Cal State Fullerton, Lambert spent as much time chiding the media as he did answering serious questions.

"I don't mind you guys as long as you ask good questions," Lambert said. "But today somebody asked me what it feels like to hit somebody. Now how am I supposed to answer that?"

Lambert is likely to get questions about hitting people because, contrary to his off-the-field demeanor, he can be a bonecrusher in uniform.

"YEAH, THE REPUTATION gets me in trouble sometimes," Lambert admits. "That's why I have to become a recluse in the off-season. I can't go places like other people because I'll only run into trouble."

Lambert says it isn't unusual for him to be challenged to prove his manhood in a tavern or at a party.

"You mean you get challenged to fights a lot?" one reporter asked.

"WELL, THEY USUALLY don't give me much of a chance to fight," Lambert answered. "I

Rams to Use 8 Defensive Backs Sunday?

By a Daily Pilot Writer

Will the Rams use eight defensive backs in a passing situation Sunday against the Steelers?

It's not probable, but if they do, the Steelers will be ready for it, says Coach Chuck Noll.

"We have a great deal of respect for the Rams' secondary, especially on third and long situations," Noll said this morning at a press conference at the Newport Marriott Hotel. "We expect they'll throw five or six or seven defensive backs at us. Maybe eight, who knows? But we have confidence in our passing game."

Some other Noll comments: "Our main concern about the Rams offense is (Vince) Ferragamo's ability to go long, so we have to guard against the home run."

"(Rocky) Bleier and (Sidney) Thornton both will play considerably (at running back). I'll make the decision later as to which will start."

—Asked about long range goals, Noll said: "I had a professor in college at the University of Dayton who said always set goals that you can reach, so I'm only looking ahead to the next day."

The Steelers coach also said that guards Sam Davis and Steve Courson did not work out Tuesday. "We'll find out later in the week if they'll be able to play," said Noll.

In consideration of his four Super Bowl berths, Noll was asked if he ever thinks about his place in history next to the Lombardis and Shulas.

"Not really. It overwhelms me," Noll answered.

Magic on Ice, but Lakers Still Hot

INGLEWOOD (AP) — Even without standout rookie guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson the Los Angeles Lakers are one tough National Basketball Association team to beat on their home court.

Johnson, who will be the first rookie to start in an NBA all-star game since 1969, missed Tuesday night's game against Utah because of a groin injury, but the Lakers still rolled to an easy 112-99 victory over the Jazz.

IT WAS THE EIGHTH straight Laker victory at home and their 18th in their last 22 games.

"We used our one-guard offense extensively, due to the injury to Magic," said Lakers coach Paul Westhead. "Once we had Jamaal Wilkes at guard and on another occasion it was Don Ford."

Westhead didn't have long to worry. Against Utah, the last place team in the Midwest Division playing without team scoring leader Adrian Dantley, the hot-shooting Lakers mounted a 26-point lead late in the second half. They never let the Jazz get within 15 points the rest of the game.

KAREEM ABDUL-JABBAR had 16 of his team-high 34 points in the first two quarters when the Lakers shot 61 percent from the floor. On the game they shot 55.8 percent, connecting on 48 out of 86 attempts. Their season pace of 53.7 percent a game is well ahead of the NBA mark of 51.7 percent set by the Lakers last year.

"Our guys really come to play every night, and this is a sign that we are becoming a really good team," Westhead said. "The players are thinking 'I must play my best game every night' and that is a quality that takes time."

Utah's Dantley, an ex-Laker who is third in the NBA scoring race with a 29.3 average, missed his fourth straight game due to a strained left hamstring muscle. Dantley had averaged 30 points in the first three games with Los Angeles, all Laker victories.

Utah, which is now 4-21 on the road, lost its seventh game in its last eight starts. Terry Furlow led the Jazz with 24 points.

"WE DIDN'T PLAY as a team tonight at all," said Utah coach Tom Nissalke. "We are much more competitive now than we were at the start of the year. Because of some bad trades (Pete Maravich, Gail Goodrich, Truck Robinson) we are virtually an expansion team. The additions of Terry Furlow and Tom Boswell have really helped."

A Capsule Report From the World of Sports

McCormack Has Big Shoes To Fill as Colts' Coach

From AP Dispatches
BALTIMORE — The Baltimore Colts named Mike McCormack as their new head coach at a news conference today.
McCormack, an All-pro lineman in his playing days whose previous head coaching job wound up in a shambles, will replace Ted Marchibroda, who was fired as Colts' coach after two consecutive 5-11 seasons. The Colts won division titles in Marchibroda's first three years at the helm.
Colts owner Robert Irsay had called General Manager Dick Szymanski about McCormack Tuesday morning. McCormack met with Irsay and Szymanski in Irsay's Skokie, Ill., offices Monday. The Colts had been expected to announce the naming of a new coach Tuesday, but put off the announcement when Irsay said he wanted time to think about the choice.
Monday was the first time Irsay and McCormack had met.
McCormack became the front runner for the Colts' job last weekend as Szymanski soured on Frank Kush, the fired Arizona State coach and the man said to have been the early No. 1 choice for the NFL team's post.

Quote of the Day

"The Cowboys ain't the best team in the NFC this year. So we don't want to play them. We want to play the best. And the best is the LA Rams," says Pittsburgh's Joe Greene. "I'm tired of answering that damned question. The Rams are the best team in the NFC, you hear? They're here, ain't they?"

Rogers Accepts ASU Coaching Job

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Michigan State University football Coach Darryl Rogers will take the coaching job at Arizona State University, where Spartans' Athletic Director Joe Kearney already has accepted the athletic director's position, Rogers told his players today.
Rogers announced his departure at team running drills, said sophomore offensive tackle Scott Mazur.
Mazur said that coach C.T. Hewgley, who handles offensive linemen and is Michigan State's coordinator of recruiting, and Dan Underwood, coach of the outside linebackers, also said they were headed for Arizona State.
Mazur said it was his understanding that Rogers offered to take the entire coaching staff with him — if all the members wanted to go.

Johnson Sparks SuperSonics

Dennis Johnson scored 34 points in a brilliant all-around performance Tuesday night to lead Seattle to a 120-100 National Basketball Association victory over Washington, as the SuperSonics maintained their two-game bulge over the Lakers in the Pacific Division. Johnson hit 12 of 19 shots from the floor, had 10 assists, seven rebounds, two steals and two blocked shots. Cleveland got 35 points from Mike Mitchell and snapped a seven-game losing streak with a 129-110 win over the New York Knicks. David Greenwood sank a pair of free throws with 1:17 left to break a 105-105 tie and Chicago went on to post a 111-109 decision over Kansas City. Walter Davis, held to only seven points through three quarters, erupted for nine points in the late going to pace Phoenix past Denver, 107-99. San Antonio, behind George Gervin's 37 points and reserve forward Kevin Restani's 10 fourth-quarter points, edged New Jersey, 123-119.

Trotter, Bossy Lead Islanders

Bryan Trotter and Mike Bossy scored two goals apiece and Clark Gillies added three assists Tuesday night as the New York Islanders scored a 5-2 National Hockey League victory over Winnipeg, handing the losers their sixth consecutive loss on the road. Bob Dailey's unassisted goal ignited Philadelphia to four second-period scores as the Flyers defeated Washington 7-4. Reggie Leach scored twice to raise his season total to 29 as Philadelphia continued its unbeaten record at home, upping the totals to 17-0-6. Blair Chapman took a pass from Bernie Federko and scored directly from a faceoff to lift St. Louis to a 2-1 win over Minnesota. The NHL may institute a sudden-death overtime period to decide tie games if it is able to realign the league's four divisions along geographical lines and incorporate an unbalanced schedule to promote rivalries, NHL President John Ziegler says.

Irish, DePaul Squeak By

Forward Tracy Jackson hit a 30-foot jump shot at the buzzer Tuesday night to lift eighth-ranked Notre Dame to a 70-69 college basketball victory over Villanova. The Irish saw an 18-point lead evaporate and Villanova had a 69-68 lead with five seconds to go on Roy Sparrow's layup. Skip Dillard sank a 17-foot jump shot with three seconds left to lift top-ranked DePaul to a 61-59 squeaker over upset-minded Lamar. Dillard's shot came after Lamar had erased a nine-point deficit in the final nine minutes and tied the game with 37 seconds to go on Mike Oliver's three-point play.

Jones Quits SC Basketball Team

Southern California, fresh off an infrequent collegiate basketball victory over crostown rival UCLA, has lost the services of senior guard Dean Jones, Coach Stan Morrison said Tuesday. San Diego's Bill Walton could be back playing with the Clippers in a couple of weeks, an orthopedic specialist says. "He has no pain and he feels really strong," Dr. Tony Daly says. Eight soccer fans were being questioned by police after a man was stabbed to death before an F.A. Cup match between Swansea City and Crystal Palace in London. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said he expects a decision on a U.S. boycott of the Moscow Olympics to be made by mid-February if Soviet troops are still in Afghanistan.

A Toast to the Duke

FALLBROOK — It was just a little informal gathering of friends put on at the home of the man who enticed him to make Fallbrook his home in the mid-50s.
There were no guests of the baseball world except the honored guest and there were no prolonged speeches. Only a toast to the Duke, the man who had just been named to baseball's Hall of Fame.

YET THE GRAY-THATCHED Snider was there to relive many pleasant moments of his past — moments he cherishes. It brought to mind a statement he once made in his declining years as an active player when I visited him in the clubhouse:
"There's no use hurrying to get out of here after a game. It will all be gone too soon, anyway. A lot of these guys don't realize that."

The playing days may be gone for the Duke, but he looks healthy and has just signed a new three-year contract as a radio-TV broadcaster for the Montreal Expos.
Cliff Dapper, his partner when the two purchased 60 acres of raw land in the Fallbrook area at something like $450 an acre, was once a catcher in the Dodger organization.

He played with Duke at Montreal when it was the No. 1 farm team of the Brooklyn Dodgers in the 40s. Dapper still has his acreage in Fallbrook although the Duke has moved twice since he came to the area — both times in close proximity of the growing city. He now lives at the edge of the Fallbrook golf course.

DAPPER ALSO PLAYED with the Hollywood Stars with Chuck Stevens, Murray Franklin, Jack Salvesson and a host of others when Fred Haney was managing the team.

He tells one baseball story after another, remembering the first and last names of the players involved.
"We used to play tricks on each other and have fun in the game," Dapper says. "These days, if you play a trick on someone, they get mad and are ready to fight. Baseball was much more fun in our days even though we didn't make the money they are making today. I wouldn't trade."

The Duke will be honored by the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers of America later this month and was told he could bring one guest who had been instrumental in his life in the past. He chose his close friend and former teammate, Dapper.

WHEN THE DUKE is officially inducted into the Hall of Fame on Sunday, Aug. 3, he will probably have a number of his close friends and their families on hand for the occasion. Dapper is planning to get a group together to fly to the festivities that will include a dinner in the evening and an exhibition game on Monday.
Duke says the stations in Montreal are giving him time off to attend several old-timers games, including one in New York and one in Los Angeles, along with the induction dates.

"They are very nice to me and they know this year will be a special one," says Duke.

THE TELEPHONE in the Snider household has been ringing off the hook with calls from well-wishers and old friends.

One lady called to offer her congratulations and those of her departed husband. "He turned over in his grave for you when he found out," the caller stated.

Past times in being honored, including the Duke Snider Day at the Coliseum in 1959, are already among his memories. His baseball past will be relived many times over this coming year.

Yet, through it all he remains the same, unchanged friendly person he has always been.

HIS HIGH SCHOOL COACH, Bill Schleibaum, now lives about a block from his home and the two play golf whenever possible. Schleibaum also gave a helping hand to Pete Rozelle and in turn was an official in the NFL for many years.

But the Duke's captain in Brooklyn, Pee Wee Reese, put things in perspective when he called this week.

"Duke, you — you finally made it. I didn't ever doubt that you should be there."

McCormack Colts Savior?

LOS ANGELES — When the Colts decide to hire Mike McCormack as the man to replace Ted Marchibroda, it will be based on the success McCormack enjoyed with the Bengal offensive line and the way Cincinnati was able to move the football.

It is also felt that McCormack, who enjoyed some success in his early days at Philadelphia, has learned from the experience with the Eagles and will be somewhat more of a disciplinarian.

WHAT MAKES McCORMACK so interesting as a candidate for the Colt job is the fact that Paul Brown — who gave the Philadelphia brass a wholehearted endorsement of McCormack at the time Mike took over the Eagle job — has now passed over the former KU All-American a second time when making switches in the sideline command of his own team.

McCormack, who had been part of Bill Johnson's staff as well as a mainstay among Homer Rice's assistants, was available for the head coaching job in Cincinnati. And he certainly has the credentials when one reviews the performance in the area of his responsibility.

But Brown did not make the move. Instead, the Cincinnati owner, desperate for some quick improvement with one of the most talented rosters in the league, opted for Forrest Gregg.

THE REASON: DISCIPLINE. Gregg was noted for his. McCormack, whose reputation for communicating well with the Eagle players was disregarded when the team fell on hardtimes, was not.

Now the indication is that McCormack will have the opportunity to practice the lessons that he learned from his final mistakes in Philadelphia. As for Gregg, there can be no mistaking his ability to enforce discipline.

But the Bengals need more than just discipline. They need the kind of rapport that is apparent between Sam Rutigliano and his players in Cleveland.

GREGG, OF COURSE, fell out of favor with the Brown players even though he had developed somewhat of a relationship based on respect which had Brown fans so encouraged during the year. Cleveland went 9-5.

But that was prior to the tumultuous end of Gregg's reign which saw a fierce struggle between the coach and some of his players.

And, since that's the way Art Modell also said goodbye under similar circumstances to Paul Brown, the scene is set for 1980 as both teams will seek to make this rivalry even more of a grudge contest.

Vanguards Nip Foe, 104-100

In one of the more wild basketball games played at a site where many have been seen, Southern California College's Vanguards were victorious Tuesday night as visiting Cal Lutheran fell, 104-100.

Tied at the half at 54 and tied with 1:20 remaining at 100, the Vanguards held the ball for 62 seconds before Mike Roberts was fouled and proceeded to convert the situation into a 102-100 lead with two free throws.

The visitors missed from the field and Paul Anderson put it away with two more free throws with one second left.

Anderson, who scored 36 points, upped his season average to 30.6 points a game, while Michigan freshman Paul Hohmann added 19 points and senior Ernie Clayton tallied 20 counters.

Kevin Riley was also in double figures for the Vanguards, scoring 14.

The victory upped SCC's overall record to 8-10 and it was their fifth game in eight days after a split in four games in Hawaii last week.

Century Mark for Gauchos, Rustlers Anteaters Stumble

It wasn't a night for standing around Tuesday as both Orange Coast area junior college basketball teams hustled to 100 point-plus winning efforts.

The only difference was that Saddleback College's undefeated Gauchos won in a blowout for their 21st victory of the season, while Golden West's Rustlers had to hold off a fast-closing LA Southwestern crew in Southern California Conference play.

Golden West 104, LA Southwest 98

It wasn't really close until the final moments as Golden West saw a 102-92 lead with a minute left melt to 100-96 with 12 seconds left.

Truett Hutton, who saw his streak at the free throw line end at 33 in his bid to overtake Chris Thompson's 1970-71 record of 35 straight, hit a pair of free throws with seven seconds left to clinch the victory for GWC.

Walt Evans was Golden West's main scorer for the evening, hitting 12 of 21 from the field and finishing with 25 points.

Darin Bowen had a season high of 16 points and Jim Eldridge (15), Hatton (12) and Randy

JC BASKETBALL

Heidenreich were also in double figures for the Rustlers.

LA Southwest's 6-7 Tim Garrett scored 31 points and had 15 rebounds. Southwest dominated the boards, 55-40, but the Rustlers killed the visitors from the field, connecting on 39 of 75 (52 percent), compared to a 40 percent rate (34-of-85) by Southwest.

Saddleback 106, Rhode Island 58

Kevin Magee took his customary role as Saddleback's leading scorer, hitting 12 of 14 from the field to lead all scorers with 25 points.

Randy Wheldon hit all seven of his shots from the field and Tom McCluskey made nine of 14 in picking up 19 points as Saddleback burst to a 58-34 halftime lead.

The Rustlers salted it away with a 12-point run at the outset of the second half to make it 70-34 with 15:07 left.

Magee had 21 of his 25 points by halftime as the Rhode Island crew out of Warwick was no match for the unbeaten Gauchos.

Saddleback returns to Mission Conference action Saturday night with a home encounter with Southwestern.

INGLEWOOD — Cal State Northridge rallied from a 68-62 deficit in the last three minutes and expanded a 72-70 lead with 10 seconds left to capture a 74-70 Southern California Athletic Association victory over UC Irvine's women's basketball team Tuesday night.

UCI was paced by Katherine Hamilton's 24 points and nine rebounds and Diana Meier's 14 points.

Edison, Tars Vie

Preps Open League Play

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Sunset League championship challengers Edison and Newport Harbor square off tonight to highlight activity for Orange Coast area high school basketball teams as league action begins.

The openers for the Sunset, Sea View, Empire and South Coast leagues get under way at 7, while Mater Dei invades Servite at 7:30 in the second round of Angelus League play.

In the Sunset it's Edison at Newport Harbor, Marina at Fountain Valley and Huntington Beach at Westminster.

SEA VIEW LEAGUE PLAY includes Costa Mesa at defending champion Estancia, Corona del Mar at Irvine and El Toro at University.

Ocean View is at Cypress in the Empire League, while South Coast League play includes San Clemente at Dana Hills and Laguna Beach at Mission Viejo.

Edison Coach Barry Leigh says his Chargers will mix up defenses against the Sailors, but 6-6 senior Bruce Caldwell poses a major problem.

"I don't know how we're going to stop him," says Leigh. "Caldwell has good post moves and if we deny him the post, he can shoot from 15 feet out at the high post. We'll start with man-to-man, but we'll most likely play zone before it's over."

EDISON STARTS (8-5) 5-10 Keith Banks (7.7) and 6-2 Dudley Lee (12.3) at the guards, 6-5 center Mark Boyer (7.1), and forwards Paul Reagan (14.2) and 6-4 sophomore Richard Chang (9.0).

Newport Harbor (9-5) counters with Caldwell (17.5), 6-2 Cory Everhart (10.7), 6-4 Bill Yardley (9.2), 6-1 Bryan Linsky (12.2) and 6-0 Mal Durkee (3.0).

"Edison is dynamite on the boards and they play good man defense," says Newport Harbor Coach Jerry DeBusk. "They are taller and wider on the boards and fundamentally they don't make a lot of mistakes."

MARINA (12-3), THE FAVORITE to win the league title, invades Fountain Valley with 6-5 guard Keith Dawson a tentative starter after missing two games with an ankle injury. Fountain Valley awaits with a deceiving 7-7 record.

Jeff Christensen (6-3 junior) is Fountain Valley's main scoring threat with a 19.2 average.

Westminster (7-6) will be trying to slow down the Huntington Beach speed, which has paved the way to two straight 90-point-plus victories prior to league play. HB's Oilers are 5-6.

The key game in Sea View circles is at Estancia where Orange County's No. 2 ranked quintet boasts All-CIFer Steve Van Horn, a 6-5 star with a 23.0 scoring average.

COSTA MESA, 7-6 OVERALL, appears at a definite disadvantage in rebounding capabilities.

Corona del Mar (9-3) is a heavy favorite to win at Irvine (3-10) behind 6-5 Rich Kindorf (19.6 scoring average), while University will find out quickly if it is a bona fide contender for a playoff berth against Ron Holmes and El Toro.

Ocean View takes its No. 1 Orange County ranking and a 13-1 record to Cypress where 6-7½ Wayne Carlander and 6-1 Jeff Andrade will be trying to improve on 23.7 and 24.3 scoring averages.

San Clemente and Dana Hills square off in a backyard squabble, while Laguna Beach is at league favorite Mission Viejo, a team which came within one point of upsetting Ocean View Saturday night.

Mater Dei (12-2, 1-0 in league), is at Servite, which lost to the Monarchs in the Orange Tournament championship semifinals, 41-31.

Girls' Basketball

Easy Wins in Openers

Huntington Beach, Fountain Valley and Edison rambled to Sunset League victories and Estancia swept past Sea View League rival Costa Mesa Tuesday night to highlight Orange Coast area activity in girls basketball.

Huntington Beach upped its overall mark to 10-4 with its Sunset League opener against visiting Westminster, 53-27, as Jenny Townsend (16 points and eight rebounds) and Cindy Clinkenbeard (12 points and 10 assists) led the way.

LEE ANN MARGERUM scored 19 points and had 11 rebounds to pace

Eagles Top 3-A Poll

Estancia High's Eagles are the No. 1 rated team in the initial CIF 3-A basketball poll of the 1986 campaign.

The Eagles, 12-3 for the year, top the 3-A poll, with Santa Monica (12-0) and Sea View League rival Corona del Mar (9-3) third.

Ocean View High's Seahawks, Orange County's No. 1 ranked quintet, are third in the 4-A rankings behind Inglewood and Long Beach Poly.

Oil Wealth, Shipping at Stake

By The Associated Press
The focus of world tension — once embattled Berlin, later the hilly battlefields of Korea and then the jungles of Southeast Asia — has shifted to a string of states along the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean.

Turmoil in Iran. Soviet troops in Afghanistan. Unrest of varying degrees in Saudi Arabia, and in the Yemens — North and South. Iraq, India and Pakistan wracked in wary dispute with neighbors.

ALMOST TWO YEARS AGO, U.S. National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski coined the phrase "arc of instability" to describe the region. He put it in a dramatic historical perspective:

"If you look at the postwar era, the '50s were dominated by the struggle for the survival of Western Europe, and our greatest attainment was the creation of stability in Western Europe. The '60s and the early '70s were dominated by the aftermath of colonial revolution and of World War II in Asia.

"Today, the area of crisis is a group of states on the shores of the Indian Ocean — literally an arc of instability, which can be drawn on a map from Chittagong in Bangladesh through Islamabad, all the way to Aden.

"THEIR INTERNAL FRAGILITY, SOCIAL and political, could interact with the projection of Soviet power, and that together could create a problem as acute as the one that we faced even in the '50s or '60s, especially because of oil."

The turbulence that has struck the region since the Islamic uprising began in Iran in February 1979 has exacerbated regional and international rivalries: Iraq vs. Syria, India vs. Pakistan, the United States vs. the Soviet Union.

Ultimately at stake is the oil wealth of the Arabian peninsula and Iran, as well as the West's oil tanker routes.

Here is a nation-by-nation overview of the crisis areas along the "arc of instability":

Iran

Until the fall of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, Iran was regarded as the West's "policeman" in the Persian Gulf, providing a block between the Soviet Union and the oil fields to the south.

Iran also was the world's second-largest exporter of oil, producing up to six million barrels a day.

ITS PAMPERED 400,000-MAN ARMED forces were equipped with the West's most sophisticated weaponry, but when the shah was challenged last February, the army collapsed. Soldiers defected or deserted; hundreds of officers were slain or went before Islamic firing squads.

Amid the political upheaval, Iranian oil exports have been practically halved. Unemployment is rampant.

The unity that brought victory to the revolution led by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini quickly disintegrated as the aged religious leader grimly began to impose autocratic, Islamic rule.

Domestic violence continues to shake the predominantly Shiite Moslem nation. Kurdish, Baluchi, Arab and other minorities are clamoring — and sometimes fighting — for greater autonomy.

IRAN'S RELATIONS WITH ITS NEIGHBORS are strained. Tehran has clamped down on Marxists, lending at least moral support to Afghan insurgents fighting the Soviet-backed rulers in Afghanistan.

Arabs in Iran's neighboring states were angered by its suppression of the autonomy-seeking Arab minority in the oil-rich Khuzestan province and feared the spread of Islamic revolution to the western shores of the gulf, where Sunni-Moslems rule a sometimes restive Shiite minority. Furthermore, there are suspicions that Iran may attempt to reclaim the archipelago of Bahrain, site of the only U.S. naval support facility in the gulf.

Border clashes sporadically flare between Iran and Iraq, which Tehran has accused of supporting Kurdish and Ethnic Arab rebels. But Iran's most serious confrontation is with the United States, which Khomeini branded as "Satan" for its backing of the shah.

THE SHAH'S ADMITTANCE TO THE United States for medical treatment prompted the Nov. 4 takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by militant students demanding Pahlavi's extradition. Although Pahlavi has left the United States, militants continue to hold some 50 American hostages at the embassy.

The United States has reacted with a series of political and economic sanctions, but neither the sanctions nor the new threat posed by the Soviet intervention in neighboring Afghanistan has budged the militants. The Carter administration believe they are Marxists who may be beyond the control of Khomeini.

Khomeini still commands the popularity to maintain a tenuous hold on Iran. However, there is concern among neighboring Moslem states that if Khomeini stumbles, leftist will make their move.

Saudi Arabia

The wide belief in East and West that Islamic revolution "can't happen here" was shaken when 1,200 armed fanatics stormed the Grand Mosque in Mecca, Islam's holiest shrine, in November.

By the time the remnants of the invaders were overcome two weeks later, the official death toll had risen to 244, including 127 members of the Saudi security forces.

OF THE 143 GUNMEN REPORTEDLY captured alive, 63 were beheaded Jan. 9.

Arab sources say the mosque siege was part of a plot to overthrow the Saudi royal family and proclaim a government patterned after the early days of Islam. The attack surprised observers who regarded the kingdom as orthodox enough to avoid attacks from religious conservatives.

The Mecca incident led to a shake-up in the Saudi armed forces and replacement of a half-brother to King Khalid as governor of Mecca.

America's vital interests are at stake in the kingdom. The world's leading exporter of oil — nine million barrels a day — sits on a century's worth of oil reserves, up to 300 billion barrels.

RELATIONS BETWEEN RIYADH AND Washington have cooled because of U.S. sponsorship of the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty. Saudi disenchantment also stems from concern with the reliability of the Americans as allies following U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam, refusal to support Somalia-backed Moslem insurgents against Ethiopia, severance of U.S. diplomatic ties with Taiwan and failure of the United States to intervene to prevent the fall of the shah.

The Saudis hold that defense of the gulf is the business of local nations and are attempting to generate cooperation. As a deterrent to Soviet expansionism, the Saudis prefer to see U.S. military might just "over the horizon."

Although pro-Western Oman lies just next door, a Western diplomat said he thought the Saudis would regard it as an ideal location for an American base.

Iraq

The Arab socialist oil state packs the biggest military punch on the Persian Gulf. Its 212,000-man armed forces are largely Soviet supplied, boasting 1,900 Russian-built tanks and some 350 aircraft.

Ideally, Iraq could form the nucleus of an intergulf security force, but its revolutionary credentials and past links to the Soviet Union make it suspect to neighboring Arab rulers.

RECENTLY, IRAQ HAS COOLED TOWARD the Russians, with whom they concluded a 15-year treaty of friendship and cooperation in 1972. After purchasing more than $1 billion worth of Soviet arms, Iraq is diversifying its purchases and is shopping in the west.

President Saddam Hussein denounced the Soviet intervention of Afghanistan as an act that "should not be justified and for which no pretext should be found." At the same time, however, he accused the United States of exploiting the crisis to justify its own possible opposition to the Camp David peace treaty between Israel and Egypt.

Hussein assumed full power last July and tightened his grip on the nation of 12.5 million by executing 21 leading Iraqi politicians. He pointed the finger at Syria as being behind an abortive coup by renegade members of the ruling Baath Arab Socialist Party.

SYRIA IS RULED BY A RIVAL Baathist faction. Until the latest Iraqi ousting, the two neighboring Arab countries had been working toward unity following years of violent feuding.

Amid border clashes with Iran, Iraq is demanding that the Iranians evacuate three gulf islets — the greater and lesser Tunbs and Abu Moussa — seized by the shah in 1971.

The Yemens

The two Yemens — North Yemen and South Yemen — have been a frequent flashpoint, but they did not become the focus of superpower rivalry until their two-week border war last February.

After troops from Marxist South Yemen crossed the border at three points, the United States rushed in $383 million in military aid along with $200 million in backlogged orders to the north.

THAT SEEMED TO PUT NORTH YEMEN firmly in the Western camp, but last fall the Soviets sought to neutralize the north with a large-scale weapons deal of its own. Senior officials in North Yemen say they hope to balance competing interests to avoid future wars so that its backward economy can be developed.

Tribalism and political factionalism have kept North Yemen's central government so weak that it barely controls the major city, San'a.

The strategic significance of Yemen is its open desert borders with Saudi Arabia, and the one million Yemeni workers in the oil-rich kingdom. Western diplomats say that a Marxist guerrilla campaign into southern Saudi Arabia could threaten the oil fields.

NORTH-SOUTH UNITY TALKS HAVE continued for nearly a year without any practical results, though there have been periodic reports of a breakthrough.

Significantly, South Yemen became the first

Arab State to support the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

India and Pakistan

India and Pakistan, both recently wracked by domestic political turmoil, appear as much concerned about their own 33-year-old rivalry as they are about the implications of Russians on their doorstep.

An Indian political expert in New Delhi has said the Soviet move has added a new dimension to the region, where 300 million Moslems live in India, Pakistan, Bangladesh and Afghanistan.

NEVERTHELESS, BOTH THE CARETAKER government of Charan Singh and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi have been slow to judgment of their political ally, the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Gandhi, who denies pro-Soviet leanings, says a U.S. "global strategy" that includes firmer alliances with China and Pakistan "does pose a danger" to India.

Puzzled by India's reaction, U.S. Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher has said the Indian government "ought to see the action of the Soviet Union as a threat to India as well as other countries in the region."

PAKISTAN IS REACTING CAUTIOUSLY to President Carter's decision to speed military aid. Pakistani President Zia ul-Haq has made it clear he does not want American troops in his realm and has said that geography — meaning the proximity of the Soviets — dictates accommodation with his new "superpower neighbor."

Pakistan has had bitter experiences with U.S. aid, which was stopped in the war with India over Kashmir in 1965 and curtailed in 1971 during the Indo-Pakistan war over Bangladesh. More recently aid was stopped because of Pakistan's refusal to allow international inspection of its nuclear facilities.

The depth to which U.S.-Pakistani relations had sunk prior to the Soviet incursion into Afghanistan was dramatized by the sacking of the U.S. Embassy and cultural centers in Pakistan by angry mobs reacting to rumors that the armed attack on the Grand Mosque in Mecca was instigated by the United States and Israel.

New American arms sales to Pakistan can be expected to put new strains on U.S. relations with India, and there are fears the move might also set off a new East-West arms race in the area.

Southern Russia Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military strategists believe any Soviet thrust into Iran would be made from southern Russia where about 13 motorized divisions are deployed.

The military professionals say this would be the most logical route to Tehran and the major oil fields near the Persian Gulf.

BUT THEY say there is no evidence Moscow is planning any such move. The Soviets have maintained strong military forces above the Iranian border for many years.

The U.S. strategists, asking not to be named, said Tuesday they see no military sense in any Soviet drive westward into Iran from Afghanistan, where two Russian divisions are deployed within about 75 miles of Iran's eastern border.

"THERE'S NOTHING in eastern Iran worth having," said one military officer. "And the terrain makes lateral movement across Iran from Afghanistan virtually impossible."

State History Traced

A class tracing the multi-cultural, multi-national development of California will be offered by Orange Coast College in Costa Mesa this spring.

"The California Experience" will examine such topics as "The Indians," "Spanish Missions," "The Gold Rush," "Mexican Ranchos," and "Water Projects."

The course is recommended for those entering elementary education because it deals with curriculum materials taught at that level.

Registration runs through Feb. 8 in the OCC Admissions Building. For information, call 556-5772.

Collectors' Paintings On Display

Paintings, sculptures and works on paper, representing a view of 20th Century art collectors, are on exhibit at the Laguna Beach Museum of Art through Feb. 18.

"The Collector's Eye," offering insights to the variety of tastes of various collectors, includes work from artists such as Maurice de Vlaminck, Pierre Auguste Renoir, Andrew Wyeth, George Bellows and John Singer Sargent.

Examples of work from the cubist period will also be on display, as well as the art of Pablo Picasso, Armand Pomaodoro, Georges Rouault and Henry Moore.

The museum is open from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily except Tuesdays and admission is free.

The museum of Art is located at 307 Cliff Drive.

Concession

Deadline Set

Laguna Beach's summer festival season is still six months off, but the city is setting an April 23 deadline for applications from those who want to operate concessions near the festival grounds.

For information, call Jack Connors at City Hall at 497-3311, ext. 221.

Iran Oil Exports Trimmed in Half

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil exports from Iran have been cut in half in recent days, the industry newsletter Platt's Oilgram News said today.

The daily newsletter, in a dispatch from its correspondent in Tehran, said unidentified National Iranian Oil Co. spokesmen gave slow spot-market sales as a reason for the drop.

Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinefar denied the report, the newsletter said. The report could not be confirmed at the Iranian Embassy in Washington. Platt's said Iran's exports have dropped to between 900,000 and 1 million 42-gallon barrels a day — about what the country recently agreed to sell under long-term contracts to a group of European, Japanese and other Asian companies.

U.S. government estimates have said Iran was exporting about 2.3 million barrels daily in late December, and Iran itself has indicated its 1980 exports would be in the 2.1 million to 2.6 million range.

Woman Sues IUD Firm

$5 Million Sought From Manufacturer

The A.H. Robins pharmaceutical firm was named as the defendant in another lawsuit filed by a woman who claims she suffered pelvic inflammation after using a Robins-produced intrauterine device.

To date, 38 lawsuits have been filed against the firm in Orange County Superior Court over the Dalkon Shield IUD. The product no longer is on the market, according to a company spokesman. Susan A. Olson claims in the lawsuit filed Monday that she began using the Dalkon Shield in 1971. She alleges that she developed acute pelvic inflammatory disease in February.

She is demanding $5 million in monetary damages. John Van Dyke, a Newport Beach attorney representing the plaintiffs in the lawsuits, has estimated that about one million

Dalkon Shields still are in use.

Robins, of Richmond, Va., faces more than 600 lawsuits nationwide over the Dalkon Shield, according to Van Dyke. In August, a Denver woman won a $6.2 million judgment against the firm after testifying she suffered a miscarriage and was forced to undergo an emergency hysterectomy 10 months after she had been fitted with a Dalkon Shield.

Memorial Service Set For Student

A local memorial service will be conducted Friday for Newport Harbor High School graduate John David Jaenicke, who died Jan. 10 of cancer at the age of 21.

The service is scheduled for 2 p.m. in Estancia Park, 1900 Adams Ave., Costa Mesa. Mr. Jaenicke, who was active in dance performances at Newport Harbor High, attended the Academy of Dramatic Arts in Pasadena and was studying at the American Academy of Ballet in New York at the time of his death.

He leaves his parents, former Costa Mesa residents Gloria and Virgil Jaenicke of Chula Vista; his brother, Bill Jaenicke and his sister, Gloria Mullenix, both of Santa Ana.

The family has suggested memorial donations to the American Cancer Society.

Approval Sought For Triangle Annex

Newport Beach City Council members expect a decision by April on their application to annex an 80-acre island of county territory near Hoag Memorial Hospital.

The triangle of unincorporated territory is the source of traffic congestion, city officials say, because the county's zoning laws allow up to 40 units to the acre. City laws would allow a maximum of 12 units to the acre.

The annexation is being filed under a state law that allows such a move without approval of the affected property owners.

The measure must be approved by the county's Local Agency Formation Commission and the county Board of Supervisors.

Parent Class Set in Irvine

A course in Parent Effective ness Training will begin Jan. 2 at the Irvine Youth Service Center. It is co-sponsored by the City of Irvine and the Newport Harbor Counseling Center.

Lee Hachey, a licensed marriage and family counselor, will teach the class in communications skills for parents.

Meetings will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Wednesdays for eight weeks. The first session may be attended without charge. Tuition for the course, including a text book and workbook, is $75 per individual or $150 per couple.

Vietnam War Gets a Rerun

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Vietnam era, still "alive in controversy," will be explored in a detailed, 13-hour public television series financed in part by the U.S. government.

The project is intended to help the nation come to grips with one of the most divisive ventures in its history.

"The war is still alive," said veteran foreign correspondent Stanley Karnow, who will be chief interviewer for the project. "It's alive in controversy."

THE SERIES WILL feature interviews with such varied and pivotal characters as the victorious communists who rolled into Saigon, American foot soldiers, the U.S. diplomats who first involved the United States in Indochina after France's defeat at Dien Bien Phu, the defeated French, career soldiers frustrated by America's first lost war and the "boat people" who fled by sea.

The National Endowment for the Arts, a government agency that underwrites scholarly research, announced Monday that it will provide $1.2 million for the $4 million series. The programs are to be ready for viewing in the fall of 1981.

Interviews have already been conducted with former Ambassadors Henry Cabot Lodge and W. Averell Harriman, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor and Gen. Edward Lansdale.

KARNOW SAID the program will present "our view" of the conflict.

"It's going to be an attempt to be fair. We're not grinding any axes," he said, noting he found "a certain receptivity" in Hanoi toward interviewing some of the communist principals in the war.

Public television station WBGH in Boston will produce the series for public television, with assistance from Associated Television of Great Britain, Antenne Deux Television in France and the American Broadcasting Co., which provided $50,000 and access to its archives on the Vietnam conflict in exchange for the right to excerpt an hour's programming from the 13-hour series.

CBS Shows Its Sunday Punch

NEW YORK (AP) — The six shows in CBS-TV's Sunday night lineup and the three from its Friday night schedule were among the 28 highest-rated programs in the week ending Jan. 13, and the performance helped the network to first place in the ratings for the fourth straight week.

ABC, after dipping to third the week before, regained the No. 2 position from NBC. CBS' first-place finish, however, cut ABC's lead in the competition for the season so far to 1-10th of a point.

CBS, with six of the week's most-watched shows, compiled a rating of 20.9 to 19.3 for ABC and 17.2 for NBC.

THE NETWORKS SAY that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 20.9 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to CBS.

Six of the 10 highest-rated programs in the A.C. Nielsen Co.'s most recent survey were from CBS, including "The Dukes of Hazzard" in first place, "Dallas" second and "60 Minutes" third. "60 Minutes" leads off CBS' Sunday night programming, while the other two are broadcast Friday evening.

CBS HAS MOUNTED its challenge to ABC, last season's runaway winner, largely on the strength of four nights' programming. In addition to winning the competition Friday and Sunday, the network finished No. 1 Monday and Thursday, with the rest of the week going to ABC.

NBC did, however, list two shows in the Top 10, "Little House on the Prairie" in 8th place and "CHiPs" 10th. ABC's TOP 10 programs were "Three's Company" tied for fourth place with CBS' "Alice," and "Happy Days" in ninth place.

It was a bad week for specials. Four were among the week's five lowest-rated programs, company that included NBC's "Prime Time Saturday" newsmagazine in 62nd place.

OTHERS AT THE bottom were "Winter Olympics: The World Comes to America," from ABC, No. 60, an "ABC News Closeup," "Escape from Justice: Nazi War Criminals in America," No. 61, an NBC movie, "Two Minute Warning," 63rd, and NBC's "Live from Studio 8H" concert, No. 64.

The week's 10 highest-rated programs:

"Dukes of Hazzard," with a rating of 30.5 representing 21.1 million homes, "Dallas," 28.7 or 21.9 million, and "60 Minutes," 27.6 or 21.1 million, all CBS; "Alice," CBS, and "Three's Company," ABC, both 27.3 or 21 million; "The Jeffersons," 26.8 or 20.4 million, and "M*A*S*H," 26.7 or 20.3 million, both CBS; "Little House on the Prairie," 25.3 or 19.3 million, NBC; "Happy Days," 25 or 19.1 million, ABC, and "CHiPs," 24.6 or 18.8 million, NBC.

The next 10 shows: "Real People," NBC; "Eight is Enough," ABC; "House Calls" and "Savans: The Story of Kathy Morris," both CBS; "One in a Million," "Tall" and "Fantasy Island," all ABC; "Trapper John, M.D.," CBS; and "Charlie's Angels," ABC, tie, and "Vegas," ABC.

Programmer Named

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Brandon Tartikoff was named NBC's new chief of programming Tuesday, network president Fred Silverman announced. Tartikoff, who turned 31 Sunday, is the youngest division president in the network's history.

Close Shave for Otto

Director Digs Into Pocket to Finance Movie

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Why talk about money? It's only a necessary evil."
Otto Preminger can shrug off the matter now, but earlier this year he faced financial disaster with his film, "The Human Factor." The project had been the veteran producer-director's initial venture into the minefield of movie financing.

AP Wirephoto
AVERTED DISASTER
Director Preminger

"It is the first time that I attempted to make a picture without the financing of a major company," he said. "I had three men line up with a promise of $7.5 million. But all I got was promise. I never saw the money."

MEANWHILE, Preminger had commissioned a script by English playwright Tom Stoppard, based on the novel by Graham Greene. A cast had been committed: Nicol Williamson, Richard Attenborough, Robert Morley, John Gielgud, and the stunning New York model, Iman. Studio space had been arranged in England, plus a location in Kenya.

had just sold my house in the south of France. I also parted with two of my favorite paintings by Matisse."

HIS CONTRIBUTION amounted to $2.5 million of the $5 million budget. Payments to the actors and others were deferred — "I must say the unions and the creditors behaved very well in a very difficult situation."

own the picture now," he remarked. "So if it makes money after all the deferrals are paid, I'll be the one to make a profit."

"The Human Factor" centers on Nicol Williamson, an intelligent, fairly humdrum employee in the home office of the British Secret Service. A security officer (Attenborough) comes sniffing around and finds things lax. Williamson's partner, a swinging bachelor (Derek Jacobi), is suspected of being a mole (though counter-agents aren't called that in the film). As in Greene novels and spy movies, things aren't quite what they seem.

THE MELON-domed Preminger was in Hollywood for the opening of "The Human Factor" in a one-week run to qualify for the Academy Awards consideration. The national release will be in February. He bristled slightly when asked if he had lived up to his temperamental reputation during the filming.

"I'm always sweet-tempered," he insisted. "Actors love me."

At 73, he has no intention of quitting. He is preparing two subjects, one on the Israeli-Arab wars, another on Norman Bethune, the Canadian doctor who is a hero in China.

Hope for Laurieton?

LAURIETON, Australia (AP) — This small seaside village 240 miles north of Sydney has a message for comedian Bob Hope. Why not take the road to Laurieton?

The veteran entertainer has been to Laurieton, population 1,200 before.

made a forced landing on a local lake, later renamed Lake Hope in his honor.

Hope and his crew spent three days at a Laurieton inn while the plane was being repaired, and the older generation still recalls his friendliness, his impromptu shows, and an airdrop of hard-to-come-by cigarettes over the village after the plane left.

Now Laurieton businessman Kevin Sontor plans to contact Hope to invite him back to Australia for a television special which would benefit such charities as cancer research and the village's rugby team.

Among the greeters would be the man who took his boat out to rescue Hope from his crippled plane, Alan Wallace, 63.

SCORE WITH SUPER BOWL SUNDAY PARTY

Super Sunday Splash

Super Bowl Sunday — it may be only a matter of time until it's declared a national holiday. If you have a houseful of football fanatics, use some super strategy and have a special party this year to celebrate the day.

Here's an easy game plan for buffet entertaining that's easy on the hostess and fun for the fans.

Kick off the menu with a hearty main dish meat pie, "Souper Game Football." A savory ground beef mixture, zestily seasoned with onion soup mix, is encased in pastry to resemble a football. If you follow the recipe instructions, you'll have only quick turns in the kitchen before the kick-off, at half-time and the fourth quarter. If you prefer, you can make the football earlier, refrigerate and heat when ready to serve. And, for year-round enjoyment, you can also use the filling for a double crust meat pie made in a nine-inch pie pan.

AN EASY AND fun way to serve salad is "Punter's Point Salad." These delicious skewers of fresh winter vegetables feature a flavorful marinade of bottled real Italian dressing and a touch of parmesan cheese. You'll find that even those who usually ignore salads will be nibbling these unique pick-up salads, thanks to the zingy flavor of Italian dressing.

Armchair quarterbacks are always thirsty from calling the plays, so provide plenty of "Super Sunday Splash." This refreshing cooler uses orange and spice tea bags for a flavorful base, with grapefruit juice for tang and a vodka "kick." You'll really win points for serving this delightful beverage.

For the post-game finale, bring on "Victory Cheesecake Squares." Velvety-rich and creamy, the delicious flavors of cheesecake and chocolate are blended in this easy-to-do recipe, simply made in a blender or food processor. And, thanks to unflavored gelatine, there's no baking involved — just chill and serve.

Whether it's for Super Bowl Sunday or just a winter buffet, this delicious team-up of recipes will score a culinary touchdown!

- 2 cups boiling water
- 8 orange and spice flavor tea bags
- ¼ cup sugar
- 3 cups pineapple-pink grapefruit juice drink
- 1 cup vodka or orange juice

BEFORE KICKOFF:

In teapot, pour boiling water over orange and spice flavor tea bags; cover and brew 5 minutes. Remove tea bags; stir in sugar and cool.

In pitcher, combine tea, juice and vodka; chill. Serve in tall ice-filled glasses. Makes approximately 8 servings.

Punter's Point Salad

- ½ cup Italian dressing
- 1 tablespoon grated parmesan cheese
- 1 cup cauliflowerets
- 1 cup broccoli flowerets
- 1 cup sliced eggplant or zucchini, halved
- 4 large mushrooms, halved
- Carrot strips

MORNING OF THE GAME:

In large shallow baking dish, blend Italian dressing with cheese; add vegetables, except carrot strips. Cover and marinate in refrigerator, turning occasionally, 4 hours or overnight. On 6-inch wooden skewers, alternately thread vegetables and carrot strips. Brush with remaining marinade. Makes approximately 8 servings.

Victory Cheesecake Squares

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- ½ cup cold milk
- ½ cup milk, heated to boiling
- 2 packages (8 ounce each) cream cheese, softened
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 tablespoon unsweetened cocoa powder

MORNING OF THE GAME:

In 5-cup blender, sprinkle unflavored gelatine over cold milk; let stand 3 to 4 minutes. Add hot milk and process at low speed until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 2 minutes. Add cream cheese, sugar and vanilla; process at high speed until blended. Pour into prepared crust, reserving ¼ cup in blender. Add cocoa powder to blender and process at low speed until blended. Pour onto cheese layer and gently swirl with knife to marble. Chill until firm. To serve, cut into squares. Makes about 8 servings.

*CHOCONUT CRUMB CRUST: In small bowl, combine 1 cup chocolate cookie crumbs, ½ cup flaked coconut and ¼ cup softened butter or margarine. Press onto bottom of 8-inch square baking pan; chill.

Souper Game Football

- 2 pounds ground beef
- 1½ cups finely chopped green pepper
- 1 envelope onion or beefy onion soup mix
- ½ teaspoon oregano
- ¼ teaspoon crushed red pepper (optional)
- 1 can (8 ounce) tomato sauce
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese (approximately 6 ounces)
- Pastry for double-crust pie

BEFORE KICKOFF:

In large skillet, brown ground beef with green pepper; drain. Stir in onion soup mix, oregano, red pepper and tomato sauce. Cook, stirring occasionally, 5 minutes. Stir in cheese and chill.

AT HALF-TIME:

Divide pastry in half. Between 2 sheets of waxed paper, roll each half into 10- x 12-inch rectangle. Turn one rectangle onto ungreased cookie sheet. Spoon filling onto rectangle, leaving 2-inch border and mounding slightly in center. Top with remaining rectangle. Press pastry around base of filling to seal, forming oval (football) shape. Trim excess pastry and use as garnish, if desired, for "stripes" and "laces" on football.

AT FOURTH QUARTER:

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Bake football 30 minutes or until golden brown.

AFTER THE GAME:

Remove football to platter and serve. Makes about 8 servings.

NOTE:

Football may be completely prepared before the game and refrigerated. At half-time, remove and let stand at room temperature until fourth quarter. Bake as directed.

Hold the Mayo On This Slimming Pasta Salad

Macaroni salad doesn't have to be bland and boring and laden with mayonnaise calories. It can be slim and spicy if you make it Italian-style.

We call our version Pasta Salad Saporita. In Italian, "saporita" means zesty and savory. We think you'll find it delicious in any language — calorie-watching or not.

This macaroni salad is made without mayonnaise and with only 1 tablespoon of oil. You can vary it to suit yourself with additional crisp vegetable garnishes.

PASTA SALAD SAVORITA

1/2-pound protein-enriched elbow macaroni or shells
2 ribs celery, minced
1 large onion, minced
1/4 cup chopped red or green sweet pepper
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
2 tablespoons minced pickles or pickle relish
4 olives, pitted, sliced

2 teaspoons minced fresh basil or 1/4 teaspoon dried basil or oregano

Optional: 1 tablespoon capers

Optional: 1 anchovy fillet, minced, or dash of Worcestershire sauce

Optional: 2 tablespoons minced hot pepper, or generous pinch of pepper flakes

1 tablespoon olive oil

1/4 cup liquid (from olives or capers jar)

Salt, pepper, to taste
2 to 3 tablespoons wine vinegar

Cook pasta in salted water until tender. Rinse in cold water and drain. Combine with remaining ingredients, except vinegar. Add vinegar one tablespoon at a time, to taste. Refrigerate several hours for flavors to blend. (Garnish with ripe tomato wedges or shredded hard cooked egg before serving, if desired.) Makes eight servings, approximately 140 calories each.

This salad can be stored in the refrigerator for 3 or 4 days and used as the basis for quick meal-size luncheon salads, garnished with protein-rich ingredients like hard cooked egg wedges, chilled water-packed tuna or cold cooked seafood. Or, make the salad with shells instead of elbows, and turn it into an Italian-style Salade Nicoise:

SEASHELL SALADE NICOISE
Pasta Salad

Saporita (preceding recipe)

1 1/2 cups partially cooked or defrosted kitchen-sliced green beans (approximately 10 ounces)

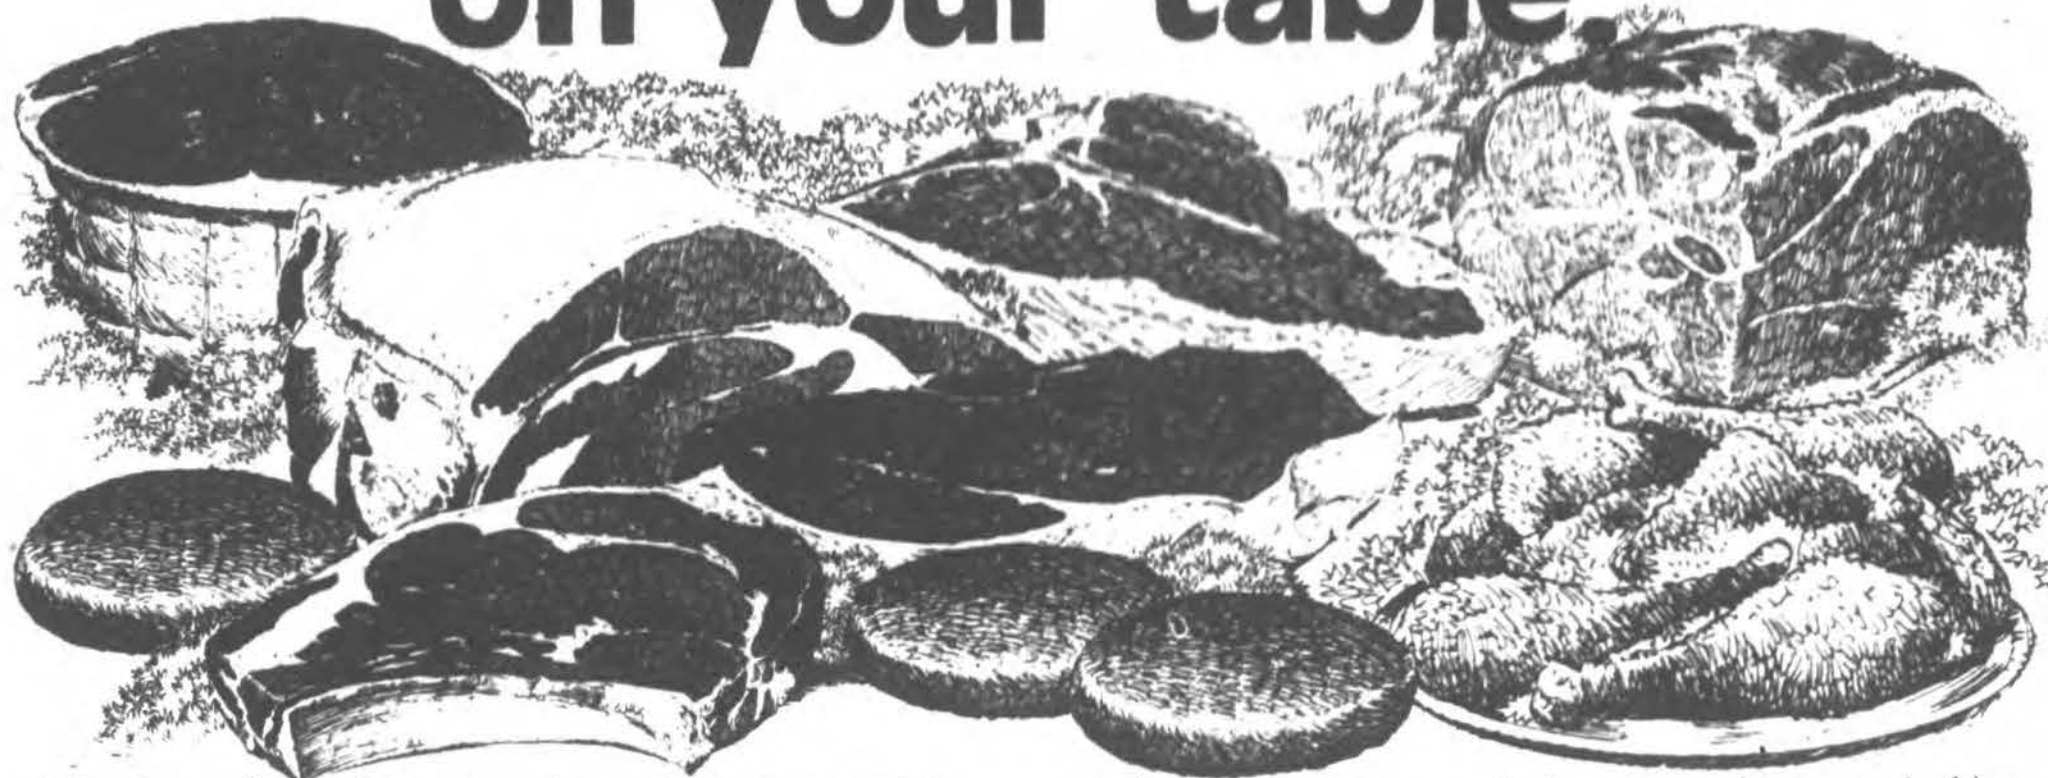

13 ounces canned water-packed solid white tuna

4 medium tomatoes, in wedges, or 24 cherry tomatoes

Lettuce leaves
Prepare Pasta

Salad Saporita several hours ahead of time using pasta shells rather than elbows; refrigerate. At serving time, stir green beans into the salad. Drain liquid from canned tuna into the salad. Arrange beds of lettuce and pile salad mixture on top of lettuce. Top with flaked tuna and tomatoes. Makes eight lunch-size servings, 225 calories each.

We're doing our best to put meat on your table

At Lucky, we're working every day to bring you carefully selected quality Bonded meats at lower overall prices. This means you'll find low prices throughout the meatcase, not just on a few selected items. Lucky holds your overall costs down by keeping its profit margin slim. So even when

Herbal Secrets

History provides hundreds of anecdotes that relate to the use of herbs and potions to therapeutic treatments throughout the ages.

In her most recent book, "Herbal Medicine: The Natural Way To Get Well And Stay Well," Dian Dincin Buchman, Ph.D., presents an organized and fascinating study of plant life remedies. It is a worthwhile reading adventure for those who ponder the possibilities of soothing herbal teas, ointments, and poultices.

LEST YOU THINK that herbal medicine belongs only to days gone by, Dr. Buchman states in her book, "History is studded with fascinating plant discoveries from primitive cultures, and some of these discoveries have even changed history and medicine. Ipecac, now used in the home as an emetic to disgorge poisons, once helped to control the savage dysentery that pervaded Europe. Quinine from the tropics, saved the world from the ravages of malaria. Curare arrow poison, another tropical discovery is now used to control breathing during some surgery."

Throughout her book, Dr. Buchman cautions her readers to consult a medical doctor if a chronic condition persists, but manages to give some first-aid kitchen remedy ideas for simple nausea, diarrhea and indigestion.

For nausea, she recommends a pinch of ginger to tea, or a cup of aromatic peppermint tea with a pinch of basil or ginger added, or the ingestion of bruised leaves of sweet basil. For diarrhea, she suggests a table tea called Agrimony that is popular in France, eating cooked barley or drinking barley water, or adding 1/4 teaspoon of freshly grated nutmeg to an herbal tea. For indigestion, relief may be had with a cup of sweet apple-seeded chamomile tea or a tea made of bruised fennel seeds that have been steeped for several hours in hot water and then strained out.

HERBAL MEDICINE lists common illnesses and specific herb preparations useful in trying to alleviate or prevent the illness. It also lists 89 herbs and details the health usefulness of each herb. Many of the ingredients can be found in your local health food store or may be obtained from a mail order list in the back of the book.

The Best FOR LESS

Low-Sodium Soup At Home; Healthy Alternative

The Senate Nutrition Committee and the surgeon general of the United States have proposed that sodium be reduced in the American diet.

This is a preventative medicine suggestion to reduce the possibility of degenerative disease in later years.

More than thirty million Americans now suffer from hypertension, with many undiagnosed and not on a salt-restricted diet, leading to unnecessary strokes, heart complications and kidney disorders.

THE HIGH amount of sodium in our fabricated foods suggests that we can lose control of our sodium intake and ingest more than is wise.

Low-sodium cooking demands the reduced use of salt and all the other sodium chemicals in our food. It takes approximately three weeks for your taste buds to adjust to the true flavor of food, but after that you will not miss it in most dishes.

One of the most difficult courses to prepare without salt is soup.

THE CANNED varieties of low-sodium soups leave much to be desired, but it's easy to perk them up by adding a pinch or two of compatible herbs during the heating time. It's much more delicious to start from scratch and let an old-fashioned soup pot simmer on the back burner over low heat, making a good quantity of home made soup at low cost.

Your grandmother probably knew how to make soup without a recipe and you can experiment without much chance of disaster.

START with a large pot half filled with water. Add several bones, preferably with some meat clinging to them. Put in a bay leaf or two, several peppercorns, and a clove. Add a sliced onion, garlic if you wish, sprigs of parsley or dill, several scraped carrots, some celery (including the leafy tops), any soft tomatoes that are in the refrigerator, and you are on your way to super soup.

From this point you can add shredded cabbage, leftover vegetables from last night's dinner, diced potatoes, lemon juice, a little brown sugar, even some diced peeled apple.

Later on you might want to add some pasta in the form of macaroni or pasta. Or you might prefer to add barley or to add a little farina cereal to thicken up the soup.

COVER and cook over low heat for several hours, tasting and correcting the seasoning until you like the flavor.

Some other herbs with distinctive tastes are rosemary, thyme, basil and oregano.

Remember that small amounts can give a lot of pungency and that dried herbs are concentrated and should be used sparingly.

Here are some flavorful low-sodium soups for hearty dining:

CABBAGE SOUP
4 meaty beef neck bones
2 quarts water
2 sliced onions
1 medium-sized cabbage, thinly sliced
4 large tomatoes, cut up
2 peeled and diced potatoes
2 bay leaves
1/4 cup white seedless raisins
1/4 cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar

Seafood

A new cookbook featuring seafoods of the Gulf and South Atlantic states has been published by the Gulf and Atlantic Fisheries Development Foundation.

Purchase information is available from the foundation, 5401 W. Kennedy Blvd., Suite 571, Tampa, Fla. 33609.

1/4 teaspoon pepper
Place meat bones and water in a large deep pot; bring to a boil. Skim surface with a large spoon to remove residue. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer, covered, 2 to 3 hours. Cut meat from bones and add to soup. Makes 8 servings.

TOMATO RICE SOUP
6 fresh tomatoes
3 beef marrow bones
1 1/2 quarts water

2 finely diced onions
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon dried basil
Juice of 1 lemon
3 tablespoons cream of rice cereal
1 cup cooked rice
Briefly dip tomatoes into boiling water and peel them. Cut them up and place in a deep pot. Add bones, water, onions, sugar, paprika, pepper, basil and the juice of 1 lemon. Simmer for 2 hours, covered. Stir some of the hot soup into the cream of rice cereal until smooth, then add this mixture to the soup, stirring as it thickens. Add cooked rice and heat through. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

SPLIT PEA SOUP
2 cups split peas
4 meaty beef neck bones
2 quarts water
2 finely diced onions
2 finely diced parsley sprigs
2 finely diced dillweed sprigs
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons cream of rice cereal
1/4 cup milk

Rinse and soak split peas for several hours or overnight. Place in a deep pot with the neck bones and water. Add onions, parsley, dillweed, bay leaf, sugar and pepper. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat and simmer for about 2 hours, stirring occasionally. Skim residue off the surface of the soup as it rises to the top. Remove the meat and the bones. Pour the soup through a sieve or a food mill, forcing through the vegetables. Return the soup to the pot. Mix the cream of rice cereal with the milk and add to the soup. Heat and stir constantly until soup thickens. Serve with cut-up pieces of cooked neck meat, if desired. Makes 8 servings.

Main-dish Supper

Canned Italian-style clam spaghetti sauce — both the red and white versions — are for more than spaghetti. With the addition of another ingredient or two, they can form the base for economical and easy main-dish suppers.

The Seafood and Egg Casserole (below) is a dish put together and baked in less than 1½ hour, assuming you've cooked the rice ahead.

THE RICE is spread in a greased baking dish, with poached eggs placed in little wells in the rice. Red clam spaghetti sauce is spooned over and shredded Cheddar cheese sprinkled on. The mixture is baked until hot and cheese is melted.

With a salad of tomatoes and tossed greens and some Italian bread, you're ready to mangia bene.

Fisherman's Pot is another good recipe for busy cooks. To a pound package of cooked macaroni shells, simply add a can of white clam spaghetti sauce, a package of frozen green peas and a can of tuna. That's all. Heat, uncovered, till hot, about 10 minutes.

Both canned clam sauces are available at the supermarket.

SEAFOOD AND EGG CASSEROLE

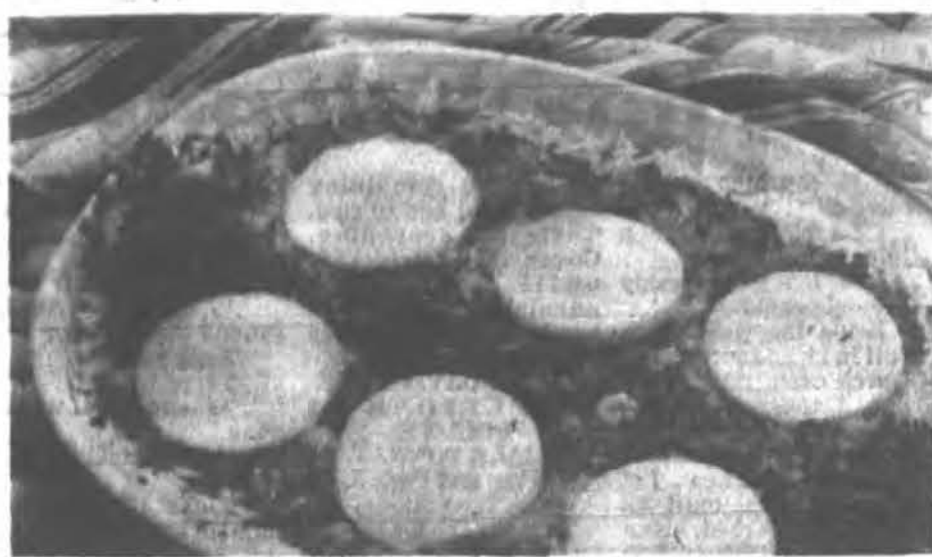

4 cups cooked white rice (1½ cups uncooked)
6 poached eggs
1 can (10½ ounces) red clam spaghetti sauce
½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In a greased 12-x 8-x 2-inch (2½ quart) baking pan spread rice. Make six wells in the rice; place an egg in each well. Spoon clam sauce over rice; sprinkle cheese over all. Bake, uncovered until hot and cheese is melted, about 10 minutes. Garnish with parsley, if desired. Yield: 6 portions.

FISHERMAN'S POT
1 box (1 pound) macaroni shells, cooked (8 cups)
1 can (10½ ounces) white clam spaghetti sauce
1 package (10 ounces) frozen green peas

1 can (7 ounces) tuna, drained and flaked
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
In a large saucepan combine shells, clam sauce, peas, tuna and black pepper. Heat, uncovered, stirring occasionally, until hot, about 10 to 15 minutes. Serve with a green salad and toasted Italian bread. Yield: 4 to 6 portions.

Seafood and Egg Casserole gets its Italian flavor from a can of Red Clam Spaghetti Sauce.

California Wines Are Investment

Some 1,200 bottles of red wine were recently locked in the new California wine vault at Morrell & Co., New York City's largest wine shop, marking the first time a wine merchant has made a major investment in aging California wines, according to a Morrell spokesman.

Peter Morrell the firm's president, trained in France under Peter Sichel and was part-owner of a Bordeaux wine chateau.

"CALIFORNIA is now producing many wines that equal or surpass their European counterparts. And you can buy the Californians for half the price. As these California wines improve with age and become scarce, they could double or even triple in value," Morrell told reporters and wine experts who gathered in the basement of Morrell's to see the new vault and to taste some of the 50 red wines in the collection.

The collection consists of 24 bottles each of 30 different Cabernet Sauvignons, Pinot Noirs, Petit Sirahs and Zinfandels, plus a few dozen older California varietals that already are rare. Current Morrell & Co. prices of the young red wines range from $3.59 for a Barengo Petit Sirah "Clarksburg," to $29.50 for a 1974 Mondavi Cabernet Sauvignon Reserve.

MORRELL told guests he planned to open the vault each fall, value the collection, and add new vintages to the cache.

Morrell's California wine vault is set, symbolically, alongside a similar air-cooled cellar that houses a valuable collection of rare French wines.

"I hope this will encourage consumers to age California's best alongside the great wines of France," Morrell said.

A complete list of the vault's inventory and a California vintage chart are available by writing to: Vintage Chart, Morrell & Co., 306 East 53rd Street, New York, N.Y. 10022.

Risotto For Friends

An elegant risotto dish is a favorite all over Italy, but especially in Rome, where risottos are customarily showcased as a first course before the entree.

Many of these traditional rice recipes have been handed down over generations, but the basic techniques for making the Italian risotto and pilafs remain unchanged.

To be authentic, risottos are cooked on top of the range, while pilafs are oven-baked, according to Jo Betteja and Anna Maria Cornetto, owners and co-directors of the internationally-renowned Lo Scaldavivande Cookery Club in Rome. Ms. Betteja, a native of Georgia, and Miss Cornetto, born outside of Rome, Italy, started the school three years ago, armed with a sheaf of traditional recipes collected from grandmothers, relatives, friends and cooks. Since that time, their school has proven popular with Romans as well as students from around the world.

AMONG the recipes they teach is a Risotto Rosso, a fragrant combination of onion, rice, Italian plum tomatoes, Parmesan cheese and other ingredients.

When teaching, Jo Betteja is careful to emphasize that the rice for risotto is all-important, as it must remain in firm, separate grains despite the extra stirring and cooking involved in the risotto preparation.

Risotto Rosso would traditionally be served as a first dish before the meat course of an Italian dinner.

A flavorful Insalata di Riso All'Italiana (Italian Rice Salad) is the traditional accompaniment for Vitello Tonnato or veal with tuna sauce. Lo Scaldavivande teaches an innovative chicken and pork variation on expensive veal in this classic dish. Called Polpettone di Pollo E Maiale Tonnata, it is ideal for entertaining as all preparation is done in advance.

LO SCALDAVIVANDE RISOTTO ROSSO

1/2 onion, finely chopped
8 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons water
2 cups rice
1 can (16 ounces) Italian plum tomatoes
2 beef bouillon cubes
20 fresh basil leaves or 1 tablespoon dried basil
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground black pepper
1/2 cup whipping cream
1/4 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese

Saute the onion in 2 tablespoons of the butter with 2 tablespoons water in large saucepan or Dutch oven over medium heat until onion is transparent, about 5 minutes. Add rice; cook and stir 3 minutes over low heat. Drain tomatoes, reserving liquid. Add enough water to measure 4 1/2 cups. Add tomato liquid to rice; bring to a boil. Cut up tomatoes; add tomatoes, bouillon, basil, sugar, salt and pepper. Reduce heat, cover tightly and simmer 20 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in remaining butter, the cream and the cheese. Let stand covered 5 minutes. Serve on heated platter decorated with fresh basil leaves, if desired. Serve with freshly ground pepper and additional Parmesan cheese. Makes 8 cups.

LO SCALDAVIVANDE INSALATA DI RISO ALL'ITALIANA (Italian Rice Salad)

4 1/2 cups water
2 cups rice
2 teaspoons salt
2 pounds ripe tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped 40 fresh basil leaves, broken into small pieces or 2 tablespoons dried basil
1/2 cup thickly sliced, pitted ripe olives
1/2 cup thickly sliced pimiento-stuffed green olives
1/4 cup capers, drained and rinsed

1/2 cup high quality olive oil
5 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
Bring the water to a boil in large saucepan or Dutch oven. Stir in rice and 1 teaspoon of the salt. Cover tightly and simmer 20 minutes. Remove from heat. Let stand covered until all water is absorbed, about 5 minutes. Spoon into large bowl and let cool.

Combine remaining ingredients; add to rice. Taste for seasoning. Cover and refrigerate until cold. Serve garnished with fresh basil, if desired. Makes 10 to 12 servings.
LO SCALDAVIVANDE POLPETTONE DI POLLO E MAIALE TONNATA (Chicken and Pork Roll with Tuna Sauce)
To make the loaves:
1 pound lean ground pork

2 pounds boned chicken breasts, ground
4 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground white pepper
2 egg yolks
3 cups water
1/2 cup dry white wine
1/2 cup thickly sliced gherkins
1 can (6 1/2 ounces) tuna, drained
2 1/2 tablespoons.

Tomatoes Popular, Economical

The Gershwins didn't know whether to call them to-mah-toes or to-may-toes. Even the experts are still undecided on whether it's fruit or vegetable but, regardless, all the world loves the rotund little fellow with the imposing name of Lycopersicon esculentum.

Tomatoes are nip and tuck with lettuce as the second most popular item at the produce counter, trailing only potatoes in dollar value among all vegetables. The variety of tomato species and its great versatility have undoubtedly accounted for its growth.

By cultivation and use, it is a vegetable. But, botanically, it is a berry, being pulpy and containing one or more seeds that are not stones. Thus it joins such true berries as bananas, cranberries and grapes. No wonder George and Ira said, "Let's Call The Whole Thing Off."

TOMATOES range in size from the huge beefsteak variety which grace the salad bowl, sitting colorfully beside lettuce and peppers, to the delicately proportioned cherry variety to the pear-shaped ones. The tart green tomatoes that are pickled in brine have a cult all their own, devoted to its acidulous taste.

Tomatoes are literally bursting in Vitamin A and C and the riper they get the more generous the supply of the latter.

The luscious tomato has added more to the already broad spectrum of foods than most others, and without spreading itself too thin. For example, we use it for paste, catsup, soup, relish and sauces. It can be eaten raw, stewed, baked or broiled. Canned tomatoes are always in demand and are used in many ways.

And what a boon to the tomato industry is America's current "Bloody Revolution." A transplanted Frenchman named Fernand L. Petiot began experimenting with vodka drinks while working at Harry's New York Bar in Paris, in the early '20s. Later he came to America to work as a bartender at the St. Regis Hotel and brought his recipe with him.

He called it a "Red Snapper" which in the last decades has come forth as a "Bloody Mary," vodka or gin with tomato juice. As you might expect with any drink as much called-for, new varieties have come along. In Canada a "Bloody Caesar" was created at the famed Calgary Stampede and has now surpassed "Mary" as No. 1. North of the Border, it's made with Clamato (tomato juice and clam broth) and is much "lighter" according to its devotees. Beefamato, a combination of beef and tomato juice, makes another ideal base to be "encouraged" by gin or vodka. It's just great as a brunch-time beverage.

The tomato made its first appearance along the Andes mountains dotting the hillsides from Peru, through Bolivia to Ecuador. Cultivated in Mexico, it became a staple in the diet of the earliest Indians. Different dialects labeled the tomato as "tomati," "tomatl," "tomatte" or "tomatas." By 1554, when the tomato reached European shores, it was called "Pomi D'Oro" or apple of gold and in Italy and Spain, "love apples" became a traditional dish, tomatoes boiled with pepper, salt and oil.

IN ENGLAND AND France, the "Pomme" (See TOMATOES, Page C3)

Quiche is Savory

Having originated in Lorraine, a province of eastern France bordering on Germany, the quiche is a savory baked custard tart always eaten as hot as possible.

While the best known quiche is Quiche Lorraine, there are a few varieties of quiches that make for excellent luncheons or as supper dishes or served in the traditional way as hot hors d'oeuvres.

NOW WITH such a variety of cheeses, here is a recipe for making a quiche that could rival the famous Quiche Lorraine. While this quiche calls for similar ingredients as the Quiche Lorraine, the major ingredient is a spicy cheese filled with cumin seeds and caraway.

QUICHE
Pastry for 9-inch pie
6 slices bacon
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded spicy cheese
¼ cup grated

...Tomatoes

D'Amor was grown purely for ornamental use and became a symbol of love. It is said that Sir Walter Raleigh presented a tomato as a token of his affection to the first Queen Elizabeth.

During Revolutionary times in America, the tomato carried the reputation of being poisonous with only a few hearty souls daring to taste its acidic sweetness. One of those who championed the cause of the tomato was none other than Thomas Jefferson who raised the plant for food and encouraged his neighbors to try some from his farm.

Today, the tomato is brighter, more nutritious and sweeter than ever, with test kitchens discovering more and more original uses for its flavor.

FRESH TOMATO SOUP
¼ cup butter
2 tablespoons each of finely chopped carrot, celery and onion
¼ clove garlic, crushed
¼ cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon mixed herbs (to taste)
Salt and pepper
6 peppercorns
½ bay leaf
5 cups beef stock or canned consommé (water and beef bouillon cubes may be substituted)

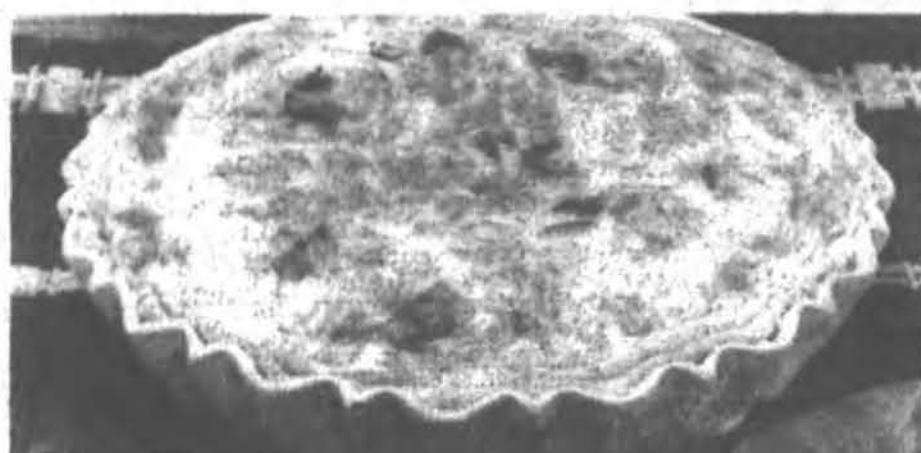

1 pound tomatoes, skinned and chopped
3 cloves
Melt butter in large pan, add carrot, celery, onion and garlic. Saute, covered on medium heat for five minutes. Stir in flour. Add mixed herbs, peppercorns and bay leaf. Cover and cook gently for 5 minutes. Add stock, tomatoes and cloves. Cover and simmer gently for one hour. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serves 6. (note: for variety add 2 tablespoons tomato paste or ½ cup cooked rice, or for creamed soup, stir in 23 cup cream before serving.)

FRESH TOMATO BAKE
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
2 onions, sliced
2½ cups soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
8 medium tomatoes, peeled and quartered
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dried leaf basil
Heat 2 tablespoons butter in large skillet; add onion and brown lightly; reserve. In 6 tablespoons butter, lightly brown bread crumbs; reserve. Mix tomatoes with salt, pepper, sugar and basil. In a buttered 1½ quart baking dish, layer the tomatoes and onions, starting with the tomatoes. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with remaining 2 tablespoons cheese over tomatoes and baked another 5 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

Parmesan cheese
4 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup heavy cream
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Line 9-inch quiche pan or 9-inch pie plate with pastry. Bake at 450 degrees for 5 minutes. Remove from oven and set aside. In skillet, cook bacon. Remove and crumble; set aside. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons drippings. Add onion, separated into rings and cook until translucent. Sprinkle cheese, onion and bacon into pastry shell. Combine eggs, cream, milk, salt and pepper. Pour over cheese in pastry shell. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 1 minutes longer or until knife inserted one inch from edge comes out clean. Serve immediately. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Quiches, which originated in eastern France, are savory baked custard tarts always eaten as hot as possible.

Mrs. Howard Salquist, left, and Mrs. Don Schmid review prizes for Tombola Gala

Tombola Gala Set

A Harry Winston 18 karat gold pin, an Aynsley hand-painted porcelain lamp and shade and vacations for two in Mexico are among prizes to be awarded Saturday, Jan. 19, at the fifth annual Tombola gala benefit dinner-dance.

The event, sponsored by the Orange County Council of the March of Dimes, will be held at the Jewel Court in South Coast Plaza.

Proceeds will benefit the March of Dimes to help support its research, education and counseling program on prevention of birth defects.

'High' Not Normal

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Does marijuana have any effect on the way a person's body burns up calories? I ask this question because my husband ran out of pot for a few days and dropped six pounds.

I should tell you that Bob has been smoking dope for about 10 years. He's had the daily habit for the last three. He smokes when he gets up, has a joint at lunchtime and usually does two more numbers after supper. I'd say he goes through an ounce every three weeks. The guy is a good husband and father, and I don't mind at all that he is into grass.

Bob is about 25 pounds overweight and seems to be in good health. He can work high, play high and drive high. He explains he is used to being "up there." It's like his normal state.

Please find out what you can about smoking dope and calories. We would like to know. — DAYTON, OHIO

Ann Landers

DEAR DAYTON: Normal state? My grandfather's mustache. I just hope when he's high behind the wheel you and the kids are in another car.

If Bob lost six pounds in a few days when he ran out of pot, the logical deduction is that he eats more when he's high — the same way most people put away more food after they've had a few belts. The reason: Alcohol and mind-altering drugs immobilize the "censoring agent," and a what-the-hell attitude takes over. Pot contains THC which is a mind-altering drug and don't let anyone tell you it isn't.

CONFIDENTIAL TO UP TO MY EYEBALLS AND CAN'T TAKE IT ANYMORE: You could hardly be considered an unprejudiced observer. I can't believe his record is as bad as you claim. Even a clock that isn't running is right twice a day. Give the guy a fighting chance. His life is no bed of roses, either.

Ancient Diet

Garlic and onions figured strongly in the ancient Egyptians' diet. It is said that a daily ration of the two gave workers the strength to build the great Pyramids and tombs of the Pharaohs.

Wave of Future

By LOUISE COOK

At least one household in five and possibly one in four will have a microwave oven by the end of 1980, according to industry predictions. And the increased use of microwaves for cooking has led to increased concern about their safety.

The Food and Drug Administration, which has regulated the manufacture of microwave ovens for nine years, says public fears are generally unfounded. "Ovens that meet the FDA standards and are used according to the manufacturer's instructions, are safe for home use," the agency says.

THE FDA ALSO says that there have been no documented cases of radiation injury from microwave ovens. All the injuries reported so far are things like burns that could just as easily have happened with conventional cooking appliances.

There are several rules to follow to avoid trouble. Among them:

- Check a new oven before you use it to make sure there has been no shipping damage.
- Never operate a microwave oven if the door does not close firmly or if it is bent, warmed or otherwise damaged.
- Never insert objects through the door grill or around the door seal.
- Do not turn the oven on when it is empty.

CLEAN THE OVEN cavity, the door and the seals frequently with water and a mild detergent. Do not use scouring pads, steel wool or other abrasives.

Check door seals periodically. Have them replaced by a qualified serviceman if they have deteriorated.

If you think your oven might be leaking, contact the manufacturer, a microwave service organization, your state health department or the FDA. Do not rely on do-it-yourself testing devices. The FDA says they are "generally inaccurate and misleading."

An FDA leaflet, "Microwave Oven Radiation," is available at no charge from Dept. 558G, the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

It explains that microwaves are a form of electromagnetic radiation — waves of electrical and magnetic energy moving together through space. They are produced in the oven by an electron tube.

INSIDE THE OVEN, the microwaves — which are reflected by metal — bounce back and forth until they are absorbed by food. They cause the water molecules in food to vibrate. The vibrations produce heat. The heat cooks the food.

Microwave ovens can be more energy efficient than conventional appliances because foods cook faster and because the energy heats only the food — not the entire compartment.

You usually cannot use metal containers or aluminum foil to cook in a microwave oven because the microwaves would bounce right off. You can, however, use glass, paper or ceramic as well as some plastics. The microwaves pass right through. If in doubt, check the manufacturer's instructions.

ALL MICROWAVE ovens made since October 1971 are covered by the FDA's radiation safety standard limiting the amount of microwaves that can leak from the oven throughout its lifetime. The standard also requires all ovens to be equipped with two interlock systems to stop the production of microwaves the minute the latch is released or the door is opened. There is no residual radiation once microwave production has stopped.

NOTE: There used to be concern that microwave ovens could interfere with the proper operation of certain electronic cardiac pacemakers. Electric shavers, auto ignition systems and other electronic products also were thought to interfere. The FDA says the problem has been largely resolved by a change in the design of pacemakers so they are shielded against electrical interference. It is a good idea, however, for people with pacemakers to consult their doctors before using a microwave oven.

THURSDAY, JAN. 17

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Opening occurs which enables you to gain greater degree of independence. Promotion could be on agenda. Leo, Aquarius persons figure prominently. One in authority flashes green light and you are able to express self in meaningful, profitable manner.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Emphasis on direction, knowing where you want to go and how to arrive at destination. Cancer, Aquarius persons figure in scenario. Be receptive, versatile, willing to make necessary revisions. One who taught you in past makes reappearance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Expand base of operations. If you display vigor, ambition, necessary funds will be made available. One close to you comes up with money surprise. Sagittarian figures prominently. Accent on savings, investments, willingness to delve beneath surface indications.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You make surprising progress by taking one step at a time. Means avoid attempting to skip essentials. Be willing to review, revise and to tear down for ultimate purpose of rebuilding on a more solid structure. An attorney may consult you — for no fee.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be analytical in connection with job, special request by one who depends upon you: Means find reasons — take nothing for granted. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons play key roles. Member of opposite sex confides, confesses and expects to be flattered.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Good lunar aspect coincides now with excitement of discovery, adventure and love. Important domestic adjustment occurs — there may be talk of change of residence. Taurus, Libra, Scorpio persons figure prominently. In matters of speculation, stick with number 6.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Define terms, avoid self-deception, look behind scene for valid answers. Emphasis on security, relations with older individual who is accustomed to giving orders. You are due to complete an important transaction. Get property appraisal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be flexible without scattering forces — what you need will practically be handed you on proverbial silver platter. Money picture is brighter than you originally anticipated. A short trip could result in locating "missing link."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Fulfill commitment; past obligation could actually prove a boon to progress. Puzzle pieces will fall into place. Aries, Libra persons figure prominently. Individual who cares for you proves it and your morale is elevated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis on new starts in new directions, more independence and involvement in creative project. Leo, Aquarius individuals figure prominently. Cycle high — you will be at right place at right time. Trust your own judgment, give full play to intuitive intellect.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Obtain valid hint by reading Capricorn message. Accent on story behind the story; subtle approach brings desired results. One you formerly regarded as a foe could now become an ally. Know it, and don't burn your bridges.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Social activities accelerate. Questions and answers dominate scenario. Accent on travel, writing, special communications from afar. Gemini, Sagittarius natives figure prominently. A wish is fulfilled and romantic aura prevails.

Museum Tours

Orange Coast College's Community Service Office is offering tours of the Huntington Library, Art Gallery and Botanical Gardens, the J. Paul Getty Museum and the Norton Simon Museum this spring.

The Huntington Library tour is set for Feb. 9, the J. Paul Getty tour is scheduled for Mar. 1 and the Norton Simon visit will be held Mar. 22.

Fees for the first two tours are $7.50 each, while the Norton Simon tour is priced at $10. Pre-registration is required.

SUPERMARKET SHOPPER Forms For Refunders

By MARTIN SLOANE

Many readers have written for refund forms to the addresses shown in our CLIP 'N' FILE listings of refund offers. Most of them have been disappointed upon receiving responses like this one from General Mills:

"Thank you for your recent inquiry regarding certificates required for our refund offers. Our special offers are advertised in newspapers, Sunday supplements, tear pads in grocery stores, magazines and on our products. We do not have a supply in our office."

"If you watch these sources, you will find many opportunities to save money on the purchase of our products."

THE ADDRESS THAT is a part of each refund listing is usually that of a clearing house employed by the manufacturer to process refund requests. In most cases, the manufacturer does not give the clearing house a supply of refund forms to distribute to people who request them.

But don't give up hope. Many considerate manufacturers set up special addresses where shoppers can write for forms that they cannot find in their stores.

These addresses are usually found on the cardboard backings under tear-off pads of refund forms. There you will find a notice similar to this one: "Sorry, all the forms are gone. You can obtain a form by writing to . . ."

ONCE A MONTH I publish a list of these special addresses to which you can write for refund forms. Especially if you are new to refunding and don't have many refund forms, it is worth spending 10 cents for a postcard if you think you can take advantage of one of these offers.

Ask for the refund form by specifically naming the offer. For example: "Please send me a refund form for the S'Mores $1.50 Refund Offer."

Valentine Hearts Still Popular

NEW YORK (AP) — They still say "I love you" — every Feb. 14 — on that you can rely. And you can also rely on the fact that to speak the eloquent language of love, "you gotta have heart," advises the Jewelry Industry Council.

A gift of a heart locket or pin has always been a Valentine's Day favorite, the council points out. This year, however, there are an abundance of hearts to choose from, ranging from mad to mod.

Select your own valentine from pendants in heart shapes that could be plain, fluted, cut out, filigreed, free form or embellished with gemstones. Most popular gemstone for Valentine's day is, of course, St. Valentine's own birthstone, the amethyst.

Ever since television star Arlene Francis started the "heart on a string" fad by wearing and never taking off the little diamond-studded heart given her by her husband, heart pendants have been "in," fashionably speaking, says Kae McCulloch, fashion consultant for the council.

Energy Audit Useful Tool.

By BARBARA MAYER

If you can tell how hard the wind is blowing before you step out of your own front door, you are a prime candidate for one of the newest tools in the arsenal against costly fuel bills. It's a home energy audit.

The phrase is up-to-date terminology for a thorough inspection by qualified individuals of the efficiency of your home in terms of its use of energy.

A qualified professional who checks the heating system, the amount and condition of insulation in floors, walls and ceiling, the condition of windows and doors and the location and setting of the thermostat will probably be able to spot potential trouble spots and methods of saving energy.

NEW YORK UTILITY COMPANIES, as a result of a law which went into effect last summer, are making home energy inspections for the nominal sum of $10.

The companies follow up with a written report estimating the cost and probable savings to be realized by making the suggested improvements.

Utility companies are not the only ones in the business. A growing number of private firms also makes audits for varying fees.

In some cases the estimates are free. The companies which do not charge for the survey, however, usually earn their money by doing the repairs they recommend.

TIGHT MONEY? WE HAVE THE ANSWER

A tight money market should not keep you from beginning an investment program or from adding to your present one. Today, owner provided financing is available on many properties — large & small. Some of ours are:

- Two units. 25% down. Assume 8% VA loan on AITD
- Duplex. Take over existing loan at 10 1/4%. Owner may carry 2nd at 11%.
- Triplex. Owner will carry on contract with 23% down.
- Four units. 20% down and owner will carry at 10%.
- Four units. Be creative-trade, contract or AITD. Owner will assist!
- Twelve units. Plus land for 6 more. 30% down. Owner will carry balance at 10%.
- Sixteen units. Owner will carry on contract of sale.
- Twenty-one units. 29% down. Owner will carry balance at 11%. Less than 8.5X gross.
- Thirty units. Owner financing at 10%.

Take the time today to set up an appointment with one of our highly trained staff to discuss your investment future.

Donna Rossington found out Tuesday that rescuing cats is costly.

woman's first thought after spotting K.C. the Kitty Cat nestled in the palm fronds was to call the fire department.

"You've never seen a dead cat in a tree have you?" They said it would come down when it got hungry," she said.

Food she could put her hands on. Her 4-year-old daughter, Trinity, attempted to arouse the cat by meowing, yelping and pleading.

She was transferred to the tree-trimming supervisor at the city yard. He suggested the young woman hire somebody to untree the cat.

Shah Deportation Plan Rumored

Girl, 11, Victim

Teen Slayer's Fate Weighed

By FREDERICKSCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Two Westminster families — once friends and still neighbors — sat on opposite sides of an Orange County courtroom entrance Tuesday awaiting final disposition in the crime that separated them: the death of an 11-year-old girl at the hands of a 15-year-old boy.

On one side was Carl Meyer, father of young Julie Ann Meyer, who was strangled to death last June 25. Her body was left under a bush in a vacant lot.

On the other side of the doors to the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Alicemarie Stotler were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ijames, parents of Kent Ijames, the boy who pleaded no contest to voluntary manslaughter in connection with the death.

Not present at the sentencing hearing was Virginia Meyer, Julie Ann's mother. She is hospitalized at Fountain Valley Community Hospital with bleeding ulcers.

JULIE MEYER

JUDGE STOTLER POSTPONED sentencing to Jan. 20 to allow for preparation of a new probation report to determine if young Ijames could benefit from hospitalization as opposed to commitment to the California Youth Authority.

Ijames entered the no contest plea Nov. 27 and was found sane following a two-day hearing in December.

The slight, blond boy, dressed in a striped knit shirt, corduroy pants and tennis shoes, appeared nervous Tuesday as he was brought into Judge Stotler's courtroom, which was closed to members of the press and public.

IJAMES HAS GIVEN different stories to investigators on what preceded the strangulation. In his first statement to Westminster Police investigators, he said Julie Ann called him a slang word for homosexual, that he called her a similar slang word, that she kicked him in the groin and that he strangled her. There were no indications of sexual assault, investigators said.

The boy was arrested three days after the girl's body was found. The previous day, the boy's father was a pallbearer at Julie Ann's funeral.

Deputy District Attorney Bryan Brown said Ijames should be sentenced to the maximum term at the California Youth Authority. Under such a sentence, Ijames could be held six years, until he turns 21.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY THOMAS Brown said he wants to insure that Ijames receives "adequate treatment."

It was learned that Brown wants Ijames placed in a hospital for psychiatric treatment.

Brown said that, if Ijames is sentenced to the youth authority he probably would serve 18 months before his release and would be given credit for the 200 days he has spent at Orange County Juvenile Hall.

Asked if Ijames is remorseful over the girl's death, Brown replied, "Very, very."

Iran Coup Plotters Executed

By The Associated Press
Firing squads have executed a number of Iranian army officers for plotting to overthrow Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime, the usually reliable Kuwait newspaper Al Rai Al Am reported today.

In another development, Iran's Foreign Ministry denied a report that U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim would be acceptable as a negotiator in the hostage crisis, calling it "an absolute lie," according to Tehran radio in a broadcast monitored in London.

Quoting unidentified diplomatic sources, the paper published in the Persian Gulf oil sheikdom said all the officers involved in the coup plot had been arrested and were executed secretly to avoid adverse publicity for the revolutionary regime.

No confirmation of the report was available, and sources in Tehran, the Iranian capital, said they had heard nothing about such a plot.

The report said the plot was discovered accidentally when some of the Iranian regime's revolutionary guards stopped and searched the car of one of the officers at a roadblock.

The paper said the plotters were all medium-ranking army officers who planned to seize control of Tehran, the Iranian capital, and then lay siege to the holy city of Qom, Khomeini's headquarters 100 miles to the south.

The plotters expected other opponents of Khomeini and supporters of the deposed shah to join them after they launched their coup, the report said.

An ABC News report, now denied in Tehran, said that Khomeini was willing to accept Waldheim as an intermediary with the United States even though he refused to receive him in Iran this month.

The report quoted U.N. sources in New York as saying the Iranian Foreign Ministry sent a message to its U.N. ambassador, Mansour Farhang, stating Waldheim was now acceptable to the 79-year-old religious leader of the Iranian revolutionary regime.

The U.N. Security Council sent Waldheim to Tehran two weeks ago to try to secure the release of the 50 or so Americans held hostage by militant students in the U.S. Embassy since Nov. 4.

County Rebelling Against Lawsuit

Orange County supervisors are considering a countersuit against the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in a legal battle over temporary feeding grounds for the California Least Tern at the mouth of the Santa Ana River.

While calling for a study on the feasibility of a countersuit, supervisors ordered County Counsel Adrian Kuyper to defend the county against the federal suit that was filed Dec. 7.

The Corps of Engineers and the Environmental Protection Agency are seeking damages of up to $25,000 per day after the county removed culverts leading to the temporary habitat last October.

The federal suit, which also names the county's Flood Control District, the County Environmental Management Agency and the K.E.C. Company, claims the county acted without securing proper permits.

The culverts were installed at a 15-acre marshland site that the county rented from CalTrans during flood control work at the mouth of the river which disturbed regular feeding grounds of the migratory bird that is on the endangered species list.

The culverts were designed to allow ocean tides to bring water into the feeding grounds to the nesting birds in the vicinity of Huntington Beach State Park.

They were removed, Environmental Management Agency Director George Osborne said, at the onset of the rainy season to prevent possible flooding at Pacific Coast Highway and Brookhurst Street.

The action was taken after the birds had migrated to Central America for the winter.

Supervisor Ralph Clark labeled the suit "a classic case of federal red tape that is totally unnecessary."

Osborne said work on the temporary feeding grounds cost $17,000 which he said translated to about $2,000 per pair of birds. (In 1978, 90 pairs of birds were estimated to be in the colony.)

Panama Confers With Iran

CHICAGO (AP) — The governments of Panama and Iran have entered into direct top-level discussions on the possible return of the deposed shah to Iran, the Chicago Tribune today quoted reliable sources as saying.

The Tribune, in a story filed from Tehran, said the sources reported that Panamanian President Aristides Royo telephoned Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh twice Tuesday to discuss Iran's official request for the shah's arrest.

Iran announced Saturday it would file a formal extradition request with Panama "within 60 days after his arrest."

The shah has been living under guard in Panama since leaving the United States following cancer and gallbladder treatments in a New York hospital.

In New York, the office of Robert Armao, a spokesman for the shah, declined to comment on the report and said no negotiations were known to be under way.

Ghotbzadeh, campaigning for Iran's presidential election Jan. 25, interrupted his campaign to return to the foreign ministry to take the day's second call from Royo just before midnight Tuesday, the Tribune reported the sources as saying.

Bamdad, a Tehran newspaper, reported Ghotbzadeh said the phone conversations "related to the letter of extradition," the Tribune said. No details were disclosed immediately.

The Tribune said, however, that the foreign minister is known to be pursuing a strategy involving creation of a United Nations commission to go to Iran to investigate Iran's charges against the shah, who left his country one year ago today.

Rites Set Thursday For Juana Aguirre

Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated Thursday, 10 a.m., at Westminster's Blessed Sacrament Church for long-time Orange County resident Juana Ruiz Aguirre, 81.

Mrs. Aguirre died Monday at Westminster Community Hospital. She had been living in Westminster with a daughter until hospitalized.

She immigrated to Placentia in 1918 with her husband, Marcial, and their three oldest of 18 children. Three of the 18 died in infancy, family members report, and three others died after reaching adulthood.

She is survived by six sons, Peter Aguirre of Anaheim; Julio, of Riverside; Alex, of Westminster; Ralph, of Santa Ana; Manuel, of Elsinore, and David, of Huntington Beach.

Also surviving are six daughters, Aurora Morse of Anaheim; Stella Felipe of Placentia; Esther Jurado of Santa Ana; Linda Magana of Huntington Beach and Rosa Ramirez and Vera Baumeister of Westminster.

Mrs. Aguirre also leaves 71 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Pierce Brothers Smith's Mortuary, Huntington Beach.

Father Bernard Tole will be celebrant at Thursday's Mass. Burial will be at Holy Sepulcher Cemetery, Orange.

Open House Slated By Valley Police

The Fountain Valley Police Department's annual open house is scheduled Feb. 10 between 10:30 a.m. and 4 p.m., according to Chief Marvin Fortin.

The event will include public tours of the department facilities at 10200 Slater Ave., motorcycles and canine demonstrations.

Here's Looking at You

'Mouse' in Ceiling Really Peeping Tom

SAN JOSE (AP) — It sounded like a mouse up there in the bedroom ceiling, thought Mandel Haynes and his wife, who told police they opened the attic crawl space cover and found themselves peering into a Police said a quick investigation disclosed an elaborate arrangement featuring an attic tunnel and tiny peepholes drilled into the bedroom and bathroom ceilings of six condominium units.

They said electronic equipment was found which was apparently to be used to wire bedrooms in order to alert the peeper when a couple was in bed; also found were boards on attic support beams for quick access.

"You got to look every time you're lying on your bed, thinking some — looking — you," Haynes complained to reporters. "You can't even use the bathroom in peace."

Haynes told policeman Mike Boggess that he, his wife and the intruder looked at one another for a moment, and the man disappeared somewhere in the attic.

port," said Boggess, when this guy walks up and the couple say, 'Hey, that's the guy.' He was in such a hurry to escape, he locked himself out of his condominium."

Police booked 33-year-old electronics technician Donald Anthony Carr for investigation of burglary and trespassing and released him without bail. He was ordered to show in court for arraignment Jan. 28.

Sgt. William Sims of the police sexual assault unit advised Haynes and his neighbors to "plug up the holes in their ceilings."

DAY IN BRIEF

Highlights from today's world and national news developments

Check Forged; Boy, 9, Cited

FRESNO (AP) — A 9-year-old Fresno boy — believed to be the youngest forger suspect in this city's history — has been cited by police for cashing a forged check.

"To my knowledge, we haven't had them any younger," said Lt. Maurice Regan, head of the police juvenile division.

Police said the boy was cited in his home after he cashed a $2 check at a northeast Fresno store to buy a sandwich. The boy reportedly told a store clerk his father had been forced to return to work unexpectedly and was unable to cook dinner.

Light Rain in North State

By The Associated Press

Rain fell over most of Northern California today, but in much higher amounts than the series of storms which caused emergencies to be declared in several Sierra Nevada counties.

Streams began receding Tuesday and forecasters predict a break in weather pattern which sent a relentless series of tropical storms over Northern California for more than a week.

The National Weather Service reported that the warm, moist tropical storm expected to move across Northern California today probably would be the last of a series of frenching storm fronts.

Pinto Fire Trial Opens

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — About 11 gallons of gasoline spilled from the ruptured fuel tank of a 1973 Pinto in which three teen-agers burned to death, the prosecution's first witness testified today in the criminal liability trial of Ford Motor Co.

Ford is charged with three counts of reckless homicide in the fiery crash of the car, which exploded when hit from behind by a van. The trial in Pulaski Circuit Court is the first criminal prosecution of a manufacturer in a products defects case.

Ford lawyers have said they will rebut prosecution charges that the automaker "chose profit over human life" in designing the Pinto with testimony from engineers of the car who bought the subcompact "for themselves, their wives and children."

Murder of Couple Probed

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Police are investigating the murder of an elderly couple who may have confronted a burglar in their high-rise apartment.

Otto Forst, 73, and his wife Gerda, 68, had apparently been dead for two days when their bodies, dressed in night clothes and badly beaten, were found by their daughter Tuesday, police said.

Yugoslav Threat Denied

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass denied today that Yugoslavia faces any "Soviet threat," despite what it called the two countries' "differences in approach" to some world issues.

The Tass commentary came as concern grew for the health of 87-year-old Yugoslav President Tito, who has led his communist nation on a foreign policy course independent of Moscow since World War II. His hospitalization for a serious circulation problem has aroused renewed speculation about his country's future.

A Tass commentary, entitled "A New Bluff," attacked what it called "truly fantastic concoctions" in the Western press "trying to ascribe to the Soviet Union some anti-Yugoslav intention."

Tass said such claims were "crude, provocative and false," and that "relations between the Soviet and Yugoslav peoples are marked by profound friendliness."

Yugoslavia underlined its independent stand by supporting a United Nations resolution Monday that called for the withdrawal of foreign forces from Afghanistan.

The resolution, proposed after Soviet troops entered Afghanistan to back a new pro-Soviet government, drew the support of most non-aligned nations.

The commentary added, "There is no doubt that the present NATO attempts to disrupt cooperation between our countries will be as futile as the previous ones."

Chimp Talk UCI Lecture Topic Tonight

A University of Oklahoma researcher will discuss his work with chimpanzees learning to communicate with sign language at a lecture program tonight at UCI Irvine.

Dr. Roger Fouts, associate professor of psychology and zoology, will speak at 8 p.m. in UCI's Science Lecture Hall.

Fouts worked at the University of Nevada, Reno, with chimps before moving on to Oklahoma, where the animals have been receiving sign language training. These experiments have raised scientific and philosophic questions about the origins of language and its acquisition by men.

Fouts is representing the L.S.B. Leakey Foundation.

Another lecture in the series will be given by anthropologist Ashley Montagu. His talk, Jan. 30, is entitled "The Nature of Human Evolution" and will focus on the evolutionary factors that led up to the appearance of humans.

A third lecture in the series, Feb. 20, will be given by Shirley Strum, assistant professor of anthropology at UC San Diego. She will talk on the parallels between primate and human behavior.

General series tickets are available for the Leakey lectures at $10. Tickets for each lecture are $4 for general admission, $2 for UCI students and $3 for other students, UCI faculty and staff and UCI Alumni Association members.

Thieves Loot Valley Home

Burglars used a glass cutter to enter a Fountain Valley home late Tuesday and escaped with more than $4,500 worth of belongings.

Police said the burglars reached through the hole to slide open a window at the home of Kent E. Keller, 10941 Edinger Ave.

Keller said he lost $750 in jewelry, $910 worth of guns and television and stereo equipment worth $2,930, in addition to an unknown amount of cash.

Classes Set In Therapy

Anyone interested in enrolling in Orange Coast College's new two-year certificate program in Radiation Therapy must enroll by Thursday for spring semester classes beginning Feb. 4.

The program is being offered in conjunction with the UC Irvine Medical Center. Classes will be taught at the center and are only open to registered radiologic technologists.

For information, call the center at 634-5651 or the school at 556-5725.

The handicapped signs don't appear to have carried much weight with the drivers of these two cars, photographed in South Coast Plaza. Neither the car at left, license plate 439 WCL, nor the one at right, number 125 JSD, gave any indication of being entitled to use one of the special spaces.

Injured Worker Wins Damages Suit

An Orange County jury awarded a 35-year-old Pomona man $1.2 million Tuesday for injuries he received when a scaffold collapsed at a Buena Park warehouse in March, 1976.

The award in favor of Carl Pasqua, an insulation installer who has been unable to work since the accident, was announced by the jury before Orange County Superior Court Judge Robert Green.

Pasqua said after the verdict that he was working atop the 25-foot tall scaffold when a wheel collapsed. Pasqua said bones in his foot were shattered and a vertebra fractured when he fell to the floor. He said he has undergone surgery six times and faces a seventh operation so he can walk without the use of braces.

The judgment was entered against the Wheelwright Corp., the manufacturer of the scaffold wheels.

The verdict followed five days of trial testimony and two days of deliberations. The vote in favor of the award was 10 to 2.

Pasqua's attorney, Herbert Hafif, with offices in Newport Beach and Claremont, said the two dissenting jurors favored a higher monetary award.

Donna Rossington found out Tuesday that rescuing cats is costly.

woman's first thought after spotting K.C. the Kitty Cat nestled in the palm fronds was to call the fire department.

'You've never seen a dead cat in a tree have you?' They said it would come down when it got hungry," she said.

Food she could put her hands on. Her 4-year-old daughter, Trinity, attempted to arouse the cat by meowing, yelping and pleading.

She was transferred to the tree-trimming supervisor at the city yard. He suggested the young woman hire somebody to untie the cat.

Shah Deportation Plan Rumored

Girl, 11, Slain

County Teen's Fate Weighed

By FREDERICKSCHOEMEHL

Two Westminster families — once friends and still neighbors — sat on opposite sides of an Orange County courtroom entrance Tuesday awaiting final disposition in the crime that separated them: the death of an 11-year-old girl at the hands of a 15-year-old boy.

On one side was Carl Meyer, father of young Julie Ann Meyer, who was strangled to death last June 25. Her body was left under a bush in a vacant lot.

On the other side of the doors to the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Alicemarie Stotler were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ijames, parents of Kent Ijames, the boy who pleaded no contest to voluntary manslaughter in connection with the death.

Not present at the sentencing hearing was Virginia Meyer, Julie Ann's mother. She is hospitalized at Fountain Valley Community Hospital with bleeding ulcers.

JULIE MEYER

JUDGE STOTLER POSTPONED

sentencing to Jan. 30 to allow for preparation of a new probation report to determine if young Ijames could benefit from hospitalization as opposed to commitment to the California Youth Authority.

Ijames entered the no contest plea Nov. 27 and was found sane following a two-day hearing in December.

The slight, blond boy, dressed in a striped knit shirt, corduroy pants and tennis shoes, appeared nervous Tuesday as he was brought into Judge Stotler's courtroom, which was closed to members of the press and public.

IJAMES HAS GIVEN different stories to investigators on what preceded the strangulation. In his first statement to Westminster Police investigators, he said Julie Ann called him a slang word for homosexual, that he called her a similar slang word, that she kicked him in the groin and that he strangled her. There were no indications of sexual assault, investigators said.

The boy was arrested three days after the girl's body was found. The previous day, the boy's father was a pallbearer at Julie Ann's funeral.

Deputy District Attorney Bryan Brown said Ijames should be sentenced to the maximum term at the California Youth Authority. Under such a sentence, Ijames could be held six years, until he turns 21.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY THOMAS Brown said he wants to insure that Ijames receives "adequate treatment."

He wants Ijames placed in a hospital for psychiatric treatment.

The defense attorney said that, if Ijames is sentenced to the youth authority he probably would serve 18 months before his release and would be given credit for the 200 days he has spent at Orange County Juvenile Hall.

Asked if Ijames is remorseful over the girl's death, his attorney replied, "Very... very."

Panama Confers With Iran

CHICAGO (AP) — The governments of Panama and Iran have entered into direct top-level discussions on the possible return of the deposed shah to Iran, the Chicago Tribune today quoted reliable sources as saying.

The Tribune, in a story filed from Tehran, said the sources reported that Panamanian President Aristides Royo telephoned Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh twice Tuesday to discuss Iran's official request for the shah's arrest.

Iran announced Saturday it would file a formal extradition request with Panama "within 60 days after his arrest."

The shah has been living under guard in Panama since leaving the United States following cancer and gallbladder treatments in a New York hospital.

In New York, the office of Robert Armao, a spokesman for the shah, declined to comment on the report and said no negotiations were known to be underway.

Ghotbzadeh, campaigning for Iran's presidential election Jan. 25, interrupted his campaign to return to the foreign ministry to take the day's second call from Royo just before midnight Tuesday, the Tribune reported the sources as saying.

Bamdad, a Tehran newspaper, reported Ghotbzadeh said the phone conversations "related to the letter of extradition," the Tribune said. No details were disclosed immediately.

The militants maintain that the Carter administration has the power to force Panama to release the shah.

Iran, Afghan Lecture Set

An expert on the cultures of Iran and Afghanistan will speak to the Irvine Breakfast Club Thursday when it meets at the Airport Inn.

Dr. James Reid, professor of history at UCLA, will be the speaker. He is the author of the book "Tribalism and Society in Islamic Iran."

The public is welcome to attend. For further information call Glen Woodmansee at 552-3334.

'Talking' Chimp UCI Lecture Topic

A University of Oklahoma researcher will discuss his work with chimpanzees learning to communicate with sign language at a lecture program tonight at UC Irvine.

Dr. Roger Fouts, associate professor of psychology and zoology, will speak at 8 p.m. in UCI's Science Lecture Hall.

Fouts worked at the University of Nevada, Reno, with chimps where the animals have been receiving sign language training. These experiments have raised scientific and philosophic questions about the origins of language and its acquisition by man.

Fouts is representing the L.S.B. Leakey Foundation.

Gold Price Soars Over $750 an Ounce

LONDON (AP) — Fearing a shortage of supply, investors poured money into gold today, sending the metal's price to record heights above $750 an ounce. The dollar was steady against major currencies.

In London, the price of gold jumped more than 10 percent in one day to a midmorning fixing of $765 an ounce, the highest gold price in history, and an $81 increase from Tuesday afternoon's $684 fixing. The afternoon fixing fell to $760 an ounce and it closed at $752.

Gold ended London trading Tuesday at $683.50.

In New York, gold opened at $770 an ounce but slid to $744, according to Republic National Bank.

In Zurich, Europe's major bullion center, the late price was $755 an ounce, up $70 from Tuesday's close, after trading as high as $763.

Silver also rocketed to a record afternoon fixing of $48.01 from $44 Tuesday. It was trading in New York at $47.

The spectacular leap was attributed to U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller's comment that further U.S. gold auctions were not appropriate at the moment because of the unsettled bullion market. Traders interpreted this as a squeeze on already tight supplies of gold.

Iran Thwarts Coup Attempt; Plotters Slain

By The Associated Press
Firing squads have executed a number of Iranian army officers for plotting to overthrow Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime, the usually reliable Kuwait newspaper Al Rai Al Am reported today.

In another development, Iran's Foreign Ministry denied a report that U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim would be acceptable as a negotiator in the hostage crisis, calling it "an absolute lie," according to Tehran radio in a broadcast monitored in London.

Quoting unidentified diplomatic sources, the paper published in the Persian Gulf said the officers involved in the coup plot had been arrested and were executed secretly to avoid adverse publicity for the revolutionary regime.

No confirmation of the report was available, and sources in Tehran, the Iranian capital, (See IRAN, Page A2)

Irvine Losing 2 Officials

Irvine is losing two key city officials through resignation and will temporarily fill their positions by juggling the duties of other administrators.

Leaving city government are James Harrington, director of administrative services for the past seven years, and Raye Harrington, city clerk for two years and Harrington's wife of seven months.

Harrington's resignation becomes effective Feb. 1 and Mrs. Harrington's some time in early March.

City officials said Harrington is leaving to take a job with a private consulting firm in the Sacramento area.

Assistant City Manager Paul Brady Jr. said the departing official was the eleventh employee hired by the fledgling city in 1972 and had the fourth longest tenure.

Mrs. Harrington came to Irvine two years ago from the post of a deputy city clerk of Carpinteria.

Since Harrington served as director of administrative services, city treasurer, director of finance, personnel officer and purchasing agent, the City Council will consider resolutions Tuesday night designating who will do what in the interim.

It is proposed that City Manager William Woollett Jr. serve as acting director of finance and that Barbara Henderson, manager of fiscal operations, be made acting treasurer.

Woollett also will serve as director of administrative services, a position which city ordinances allow him to assume. He will then appoint interim replacements for the positions of purchasing agent and personnel officer.

When Mrs. Harrington leaves in March, a resolution will be submitted to the council designating Brady as acting city clerk.

Brady said this morning it would probably take up to three months to find replacements for the Harringtons.

Irvine Park Site Dispute Continues

The Irvine Company and the city of Irvine should immediately resumed negotiations for sale of land in Bommer Canyon as a park site, Mayor David Sills has told company officials.

Doctor Guilty In Rape Case

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Sacramento urologist, Dr. G. Kenneth Washington, has been convicted of forcible rape and false imprisonment of a female patient.

The verdict came Tuesday after six days of deliberation. The Superior Court jury deadlocked on other sex charges involving another woman patient.

Washington, 63, was freed on bail until sentencing Feb. 15.

Peter Kremer asking for an explanation of why "certain understandings between the city and the Irvine Company have now been unilaterally abrogated."

The council, miffed that the company has seemingly changed its mind about selling 15 acres in the canyon area behind the village of Turtle Rock, said last week it would continue to push for sale of the land as a park site.

Aside from wishing to preserve the natural beauty of the canyon, the city is anxious to buy the land now before an authorization to use $200,000 in state park bond funds expires in 1981.

Kremer said that while his company does not believe it can "at this time proceed with a land appraisal and enter into a land acquisition program for a park site in Bommer Canyon."

Highlights from today's world and national news developments

Check Forged; Boy, 9, Cited

FRESNO (AP) — A 9-year-old Fresno boy — believed to be the youngest forger suspect in this city's history — has been cited by police for cashing a forged check.

"To my knowledge, we haven't had them any younger," said Lt. Maurice Regan, head of the police juvenile division.

Police said the boy was cited in his home after he cashed a $2 check at a northeast Fresno store to buy a sandwich. The boy reportedly told a store clerk his father had been forced to return to work unexpectedly and was unable to cook dinner.

Light Rain in North State

By The Associated Press

Rain fell over most of Northern California today, but in much higher amounts than the series of storms which caused emergencies to be declared in several Sierra Nevada counties.

Streams began receding Tuesday and forecasters predict a break in weather pattern which sent a relentless series of tropical storms over Northern California for more than a week.

The National Weather Service reported that the warm, moist tropical storm expected to move across Northern California today probably would be the last of a series of drenching storm fronts.

Pinto Fire Trial Opens

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — About 11 gallons of gasoline spilled from the ruptured fuel tank of a 1973 Pinto in which three teen-agers burned to death, the prosecution's first witness testified today in the criminal liability trial of Ford Motor Co.

Ford is charged with three counts of reckless homicide in the fiery crash of the car, which exploded when hit from behind by a van. The trial in Pulaski Circuit Court is the first criminal prosecution of a manufacturer in a products defects case.

Ford lawyers have said they will rebut prosecution charges that the automaker "chose profit over human life" in designing the Pinto with testimony from engineers of the car who bought the subcompact "for themselves, their wives and children."

Murder of Couple Probed

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Police are investigating the murder of an elderly couple who may have confronted a burglar in their high-rise apartment.

Otto Forst, 73, and his wife Gerda, 68, had apparently been dead for two days when their bodies, dressed in night clothes and badly beaten, were found by their daughter Tuesday, police said.

Nuclear Disposal At Halt

Officials of International Chemical and Nuclear Co. of Irvine are still awaiting response from operators of out-of-state disposal sites to letters which tell of improved inspection measures for shipment of low-level radioactive waste.

The Irvine firm, which collects already packaged waste materials from customers throughout Southern California, was hit with a ban on further shipments late last year when officials at the Beatty, Nev., disposal site claimed 27 steel drums of waste had leaked before burial.

The embargo on shipments has meant that about 10,000 cubic feet of the waste material from medical, industrial and educational establishments has been kept at the ICN storage facility at 2727 Campus Drive.

Al Baietti, radiological control director for the company, said today that progress is being made to have the embargo, imposed by Nuclear Engineering Co., lifted.

Baietti said that while the length of time it is taking to have the matter resolved is disturbing, he is certain service can be resumed, possibly by next month.

In two letters to NECO officials, the company describes new quality control and surveillance techniques to prevent shipment of any leaky drums or cartons of waste.

Meanwhile, local officials have conducted several inspections of the ICN facility while the waste has been sorted there and have reported no serious health or safety problems.

These picketers at a construction site in Irvine Tuesday were upset about two things — the level of pay from one of the contractors at the shopping center site on Walnut Avenue at Culver Drive, and Iran's continuing belligerence toward the United States. A spokesman for Laborers firm is "clearly in support of community park development within Bommer Canyon," he believed that "further planning should be undertaken."

That didn't sit well with city officials, who have held discussions with company representatives dating back to 1977 on sale of the land.

In September 1978, the city sent a letter to the company requesting a formal beginning to land site negotiations, Sills said. Subsequent talks were held on potential site studies, a work program and the need for the Irvine Company to obtain an appraisal for land the city was interested in, the mayor said.

"Recognizing the foregoing," he said, "the city is requesting that we pick up where we left off in late 1979 and resume our talks leading to a successful city acquisition of the appropriate acreage within Bommer Canyon."

At last week's council meeting, company vice president Tom

Nielson said his firm simply felt there were other priorities for park development in the city that came ahead of Bommer Canyon, especially in Woodbridge.

Irvine Festival Advisers Sought

An advisory committee is being formed to assist directors of the Irvine Harvest Festival plan the three-day event for this year.

A meeting is scheduled for Feb. 4 at the home of director Sharon Ellis.

The advisory committee's planned duties would include assisting the board of directors with fund-raising activities and other ideas and projects as well as helping with work at the festival site itself.

The committee would be comprised of between 20 and 30 people.

"We'd like to broaden community involvement in the festival," Mrs. Ellis said. "We're looking for people willing to make a commitment in terms of manpower, and to help with fundraising and public relations."

The harvest festival is an annual, non-profit event which allows service organizations to raise funds for their own charities. The festival is planned and directed by the Irvine Harvest Festival Inc., a non-profit organization comprised of 13 board members.

The 1979 festival was held in late October at Heritage Park.

Those interested in serving on the advisory committee can call 551-3553 or write to P.O. Box 18619, Irvine, 92713.

said they had heard nothing about such a plot.

The report said the plot was discovered accidentally when some of the Iranian regime's revolutionary guards stopped and searched the car of one of the officers at a roadblock.

The paper said the plotters were all medium-ranking army officers who planned to seize control of Tehran, the Iranian capital, and then lay siege to the holy city of Qom, Khomeini's headquarters 100 miles to the south.

The plotters expected other opponents of Khomeini and supporters of the deposed shah to join them after they launched their coup, the report said.

An ABC News report, now denied in Tehran, said that Khomeini was willing to accept Waldheim as an intermediary with the United States even though he refused to receive him in Iran this month.

The report quoted U.N. sources in New York as saying the Iranian Foreign Ministry sent a message to its U.N. ambassador, Mansour Farhang, stating Waldheim was now acceptable to the 79-year-old religious leader of the Iranian revolutionary regime.

The U.N. Security Council sent Waldheim to Tehran two weeks ago to try to secure the release of the 50 or so Americans held hostage by militant students in the U.S. Embassy since Nov. 4.

Surgeon Gets Jail

For Tax Evasion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Anaheim surgeon Dr. Richard R. Steinbroner will have to spend 90 days in jail and pay $10,000 fine for failing to file his 1975 federal income tax return.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne on Tuesday also placed Steinbroner, a former official of Anaheim Memorial Hospital, on five years' probation.

Self-defense

According to officers, thieves pried open a small bathroom window at the El Camino Real home of Osman Elims, ransacked the residence and made off with jewelry, a movie camera and a table clock.

Artists Given Laguna Festival Vote

By STEVE MITCHELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Exhibiting artists on the Laguna Beach Festival of Arts grounds will now be allowed to join as voting members of the organization, but a ballot measure seeking a limit on the number of years a board member may serve has been defeated.

directors announced the results of membership balloting on two amendments to the festival bylaws Tuesday night.

The ballots, which were tallied early Tuesday, show 88.8 percent of the members voting favor allowing artists on the festival grounds to join as voting members of the Festival of Arts.

But a second ballot measure, intended to limit the term of office for board members to two consecutive three year terms, was defeated by 58.6 percent of the members voting.

The controversial ballot proposal was authored by former board member Lee Childress.

"(The results) show that the membership has spoken clearly of the necessity for long-term board service," said board president James Schmitz following the announcement of results.

"It shows they have faith in the efficiency of this operation, and it shows that if the membership wants new blood on the board, they have the opportunity to elect new blood to the board."

And while she lost her bid to limit board terms, Mrs. Childress said today she is pleased with the results of the voting.

"It was a very impressive showing in view of the fact the festival sent out misinformation and downright lies," she said.

"I think if people would have known the truth, our motion would have passed."

A total of 497 festival members opposed the motion, with 351 voting for a limit on board service.

Mrs. Childress said her motion was doomed to failure when festival officials included a 160-word statement from festival attorney Richard Mudge opposing the motion.

That wording, along with another 150 words in opposition to the motion and 150 words supporting the board limitation from Mrs. Childress, were sent to voting members in (See ARTISTS, Page A2)

Shah Deportation Plan Rumored

County Teen's Fate Weighed

By FREDERICKSCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Two Westminster families — once friends and still neighbors — sat on opposite sides of an Orange County courtroom entrance Tuesday awaiting final disposition in the crime that separated them: the death of an 11-year-old girl at the hands of a 15-year-old boy.

On one side was Carl Meyer, father of young Julie Ann Meyer, who was strangled to death last June 25. Her body was left under a bush in a vacant lot.

On the other side of the doors to the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Alicemarie Stotler were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ijames, parents of Kent Ijames, the boy who pleaded no contest to voluntary manslaughter in connection with the death.

Not present at the sentencing hearing was Virginia Meyer, Julie Ann's mother. She is hospitalized at Fountain Valley Community Hospital with bleeding ulcers.

sentencing to Jan. 30 to allow for preparation of a new probation report to determine if young Ijames could benefit from hospitalization as opposed to commitment to the California Youth Authority.

Ijames entered the no contest plea Nov. 27 and was found sane following a two-day hearing in December.

The slight, blond boy, dressed in a striped knit shirt, corduroy pants and tennis shoes, appeared nervous Tuesday as he was brought into Judge Stotler's courtroom, which was closed to members of the press and public.

IJAMES HAS GIVEN different stories to investigators on what preceded the strangulation. In his first statement to Westminster Police investigators, he said Julie Ann called him a slang word for homosexual, that he called her a similar slang word, that she kicked him in the groin and that he strangled her. There were no indications of sexual assault, investigators said.

The boy was arrested three days after the girl's body was found. The previous day, the boy's father was a pallbearer at Julie Ann's funeral.

Deputy District Attorney Bryan Brown said Ijames should be sentenced to the maximum term at the California Youth Authority. Under such a sentence, Ijames could be held six years, until he turns 21.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY THOMAS Brown said he wants to insure that Ijames receives "adequate treatment."

It was learned that Brown wants Ijames placed in a hospital for psychiatric treatment.

Brown said that, if Ijames is sentenced to the youth authority he probably would serve 18 months before his release and would be given credit for the 200 days he has spent at Orange County Juvenile Hall.

Asked if Ijames is remorseful over the girl's death, Brown replied, "Very . . . very."

Panama Confers With Iran

CHICAGO (AP) — The governments of Panama and Iran have entered into direct top-level discussions on the possible return of the deposed shah to Iran, the Chicago Tribune today quoted reliable sources as saying.

The Tribune, in a story filed from Tehran, said the sources reported that Panamanian President Aristides Royo telephoned Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh twice Tuesday to discuss Iran's official request for the shah's arrest.

Iran announced Saturday it would file a formal extradition request with Panama "within 60 days after his arrest."

The shah has been living under guard in Panama since leaving the United States following cancer and gallbladder treatments in a New York hospital.

In New York, the office of Robert Armao, a spokesman for the shah, declined to comment on the report and said no negotiations were known to be underway.

Ghotbzadeh, campaigning for Iran's presidential election Jan. 25, interrupted his campaign to return to the foreign ministry to take the day's second call from Royo just before midnight Tuesday, the Tribune reported the sources as saying.

Bamdad, a Tehran newspaper, reported Ghotbzadeh said the phone conversations "related to the letter of extradition," the Tribune said. No details were disclosed immediately.

The Tribune said, however, that the foreign minister is known to be pursuing a strategy involving creation of a United Nations commission to go to Iran to investigate Iran's charges against the shah, who left his country one year ago today.

The militants maintain that the Carter administration has the power to force Panama to release the shah.

Doctor Guilty In Rape Case

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Sacramento urologist, Dr. G. Kenneth Washington, has been convicted of forcible rape and false imprisonment of a female patient.

The verdict came Tuesday after six days of deliberation. The Superior Court jury deadlocked on other sex charges involving another woman patient.

Kitten Rescued From Tree — for $50

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Donna Rossington found out Tuesday that rescuing cats is costly.

After listening to the plaintive cries of a gray six-month-old kitten stuck in a neighbor's palm tree for 10 days, she began her almost-futile search for help.

The Huntington Beach woman's first thought after spotting K.C. the Kitty Cat nestled in the palm fronds was to call the fire department.

But fire department officials told her firemen only rescued cats in the movies and suggested she call police. The police referred her to the Humane Society.

"The Humane Society told me 'You've never seen a dead cat in a tree have you?' They said it would come down when it got hungry," she said.

Frustrated, she asked her husband to climb the palm and

Man Held in Assault Try

Laguna Cops Spot Suspect Exiting Town

A man suspected of attempting to rape a 17-year-old Laguna Beach girl near the high school was arrested by police who spotted the suspect leaving town in his car Tuesday night.

Charles Leroy Sparks, 33, of Indiana was pulled to the side of Laguna Canyon Road after an off-duty officer spotted a car matching the description of the vehicle seen near Monday's attempted rape at Laguna Beach High School.

Police said Sparks matches the description of the suspect in Monday's assault on a high school girl near the school football stadium. The victim kicked the suspect and fled unharmed.

A man confronted the girl on the school grounds and threatened her with a folding knife.

After holding the knife to her throat, the assailant lifted her up to a brick wall and put his knife away.

It was at that point, police say, the girl kicked the man in the chest and face, cutting his nose.

The girl then ran toward the school gymnasium as the suspect fled.

Police received a description of the suspect's automobile from neighbors who reported seeing the vehicle shortly before the thwarted assault.

Officers also purportedly found a down vest near the scene of the assault with a bottle of prescription drugs inside a pocket.

The prescription was made out to Sparks, police said.

Police held Sparks at the scene of the car stop Tuesday until the victim could be driven (See RAPE, Page A2)

Many Challenging Clemente Recall

Orange County District Attorney's investigators are probing claims by at least 15 San Clemente residents who have charged irregularities in the current recall drive.

Deputy District Attorney Jean Rheinheimer said today an investigator has examined recall petitions against Councilwoman Karoline Koester and is interviewing San Clemente residents.

Mrs. Rheinheimer said it is not known when the probe into the petition signature gathering procedures will be completed.

Gale Howe, recall group leader, has denied any wrongdoing on the part of petition signature gatherers.

Recall backers started their attempt to oust Mrs. Koester and the late Councilwoman Myrtis Wagner seven months ago. The drive against Mrs. Wagner was halted Saturday when she died of a heart attack.

Before her death, Mrs. Wagner charged that recall petition circulators misled many signers by misrepresenting the intent of the initiative and confusing it with a rent control issue. She and Mrs. Koester requested an official investigation.

Fifteen San Clemente residents wrote letters to the District Attorney's office complaining that recall workers made untrue statements about the ouster drive and harassed them.

Recall backers charged Mrs. Wagner and Mrs. Koester with disrupting city government and harassing municipal employees.

Orange County Registrar of Voters officials ruled two weeks ago that almost two thirds of the recall signatures against Mrs. Wagner and Mrs. Koester were invalid after they were turned in to the City Clerk Dec. 14.

Many of the signatures were by non-registered San Clemente voters or were on petitions circulated by workers who were (See RECALL, Page A2)

Two-car Collision Fatal to Marine, 20

A 20-year-old Marine died in a two-car crash after he was thrown from his car that had been speeding along San Diego Freeway near San Clemente Tuesday night.

Military officials refused to release the name of the dead Marine who was stationed at Tustin's Marine Corps helicopter base.

San Clemente paramedics said the man was found dead at the scene north of Baseline Road at 8:25 p.m.

A passenger in the dead man's auto, Timothy Lamp, 19, an El Toro Marine, suffered numerous cuts and was treated at Camp Pendleton's base hospital.

California Highway Patrol officers said the auto in which the two Marines were riding struck the rear of a car driven by David Springer, 44, of Seal Beach. Springer and his wife, who was in the car, were uninjured.

CHP officers said Springer's auto was pushed across the freeway into the San Mateo Creek bridge railing. The dead man's auto was moving at about 100 miles an hour when it struck Springer's car, witnesses told an officer.

DAY IN BRIEF

Check Forged; Boy, 9, Cited

FRESNO (AP) — A 9-year-old Fresno boy — believed to be the youngest forger suspect in this city's history — has been cited by police for cashing a forged check.

"To my knowledge, we haven't had them any younger," said Lt. Maurice Regan, head of the police juvenile division.

Police said the boy was cited in his home after he cashed a $2 check at a northeast Fresno store to buy a sandwich. The boy reportedly told a store clerk his father had been forced to return to work unexpectedly and was unable to cook dinner.

Light Rain in North State

By The Associated Press

Rain fell over most of Northern California today, but in much higher amounts than the series of storms which caused emergencies to be declared in several Sierra Nevada counties.

Streams began receding Tuesday and forecasters predict a break in weather pattern which sent a relentless series of tropical storms over Northern California for more than a week.

The National Weather Service reported that the warm, moist tropical storm expected to move across Northern California today probably would be the last of a series of drenching storm fronts.

Pinto Fire Trial Opens

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — About 11 gallons of gasoline spilled from the ruptured fuel tank of a 1973 Pinto in which three teen-agers burned to death, the prosecution's first witness testified today in the criminal liability trial of Ford Motor Co.

Ford is charged with three counts of reckless homicide in the fiery crash of the car, which exploded when hit from behind by a van. The trial in Pulaski Circuit Court is the first criminal prosecution of a manufacturer in a products defects case.

Ford lawyers have said they will rebut prosecution charges that the automaker "chose profit over human life" in designing the Pinto with testimony from engineers of the car who bought the subcompact "for themselves, their wives and children."

Murder of Couple Probed

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Police are investigating the murder of an elderly couple who may have confronted a burglar in their high-rise apartment.

Otto Forst, 73, and his wife Gerda, 68, had apparently been dead for two days when their bodies, dressed in night clothes and badly beaten, were found by their daughter Tuesday, police said.

Education Unit Gets 'Surprise'

The Laguna Beach School District Educational Foundation was less than a minute old when it received a $500 contribution from one of its founders.

Dr. Ronald Chilcote, who was recently re-elected to the five member school board, contributed $500 in unspent funds from his campaign to the new foundation, which was formally incorporated last week.

"I had some money left over from my campaign for the school board," Chilcote said. "And I thought it appropriate to give it to the foundation."

The board's action last week paves the way for the beleaguered school district to raise funds for educational and building needs of the district.

The once wealthy district has been hard hit by Prop. 13, the Serrano-Priest state Supreme Court decision and declining enrollment, which affects state funding.

Task forces appointed by the school board formulated plans for an educational foundation, through which bequests and donations might filter for special projects such as building construction and renovation, program maintenance and other school related projects.

Last week's action saw the appointment of the school board as trustees of the foundation, and that panel will seek 20 local residents to serve on an advisory committee to seek funding for the foundation.

In addition, the board approved seeking a consultant to plan fund-raising events and coordinate activities of the foundation.

The foundation will seek funds through private and public foundations, businesses, government agencies, individuals through bequests and donations, local clubs and organizations, memorials and alumni groups.

The foundation trustees will establish subcommittees to coordinate fund-raising in special areas such as athletics, performing and fine arts, construction and building renovation.

Funds raised by the foundation will not be used for extra-curricular athletics, employee salaries or for basic school subjects.

District officials hope the foundation will lessen the financial pressure on the five-campus district, which has been forced to cut more than $1 million from the school budget over the past two years.

Those cuts have included eight teaching positions which were not refilled; a vacancy in the high school vice principal position; elimination of the elementary school counseling program and cuts in maintenance and operations of school buildings.

Rams 'Have A Chance'

Sunday's Super Bowl XIV will not be a Pittsburgh rout.

That's the opinion of Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry and Denver Broncos Coach Red Miller. In an exclusive interview with Daily Pilot staff writer John Sevano, the two coaches give their views on Sunday's game, and why they think it will be close.

not registered in the city by April, 1979.

Recall proponents were allowed another 10 days to gather petition signatures and turned in 3,455 signatures against Mrs. Koester Saturday.

City Clerk Max Berg said the petitions have been given to the Orange County Registrar's Office again for certification.

Berg said county officials will report back on the petition certification by Jan. 24.

'Final' Threat

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist guerrillas holding South African Ambassador Archibald Gardner Dunn demand that South Africa urge 102 countries to publicize their manifesto as a means of saving the ambassador's life. The Popular Liberation Forces said Dunn was "still alive," but threatened to kill him if their demands were not met. He was abducted Nov. 28.

recounted. "I told them someone down there must care about animals."

She was transferred to the tree-trimming supervisor at the city yard. He suggested the young woman hire somebody to untie the cat.

"We haven't pulled cats down in a long time," reasoned city yard supervisor Don Kiser. "We rescued a hawk several years ago but not cats."

"There's no point in worrying about cats. If they can get up there, they can get down."

Mrs. Rossington was unconvinced.

"I was surprised the cat was still alive. I didn't know what to do. Was I supposed to cut the tree down or what?"

Thinking money might be a factor, she phoned Tip-Top Tree Service in Santa Ana and inquired about their cat-saving policy.

Their policy was simple — $50 and the cat would be saved.

"I put up half the money and collected the rest from friends," she said.

The kitten officially put its paws on the ground for the first time in 10 days at 7:10 p.m. Tuesday.

"I was going to let my daughter keep the cat," Mrs. Rossington explained, "but as it turned out, it belonged to a neighbor."

"The festival limited my argument to 150 words but allowed 310 inaccurate words in opposition to be submitted to the membership," she charged.

"The only reason my motion was not passed was because the membership was not accurately informed of the truth and material was put out slanted in favor of that board remaining permanently," she said.

Mrs. Childress said she intends to pursue a new motion later this year supporting a limit to the terms of office.

"I think when the membership knows the truth and knows it would benefit the festival, the results of a new motion would be very favorable," she said.

Paul Griem, a former 15-year festival board member and current general manager of the Festival of Arts, at one time termed Mrs. Childress' proposal "ambiguous," and suggested that approval of the motion could mean ouster of seven board members next fall.

It was because Griem maintained that the motion was ambiguous that the festival attorney was asked to submit a statement in addition to 150 words in opposition to her motion.

A check with festival officials shows board member David Young has served the board the longest at 20 years—although not consecutively.

Other veteran board members include Helen Keely and O.E. "Bud" Schroeder, both 11 years; Emelie Schneeberger, and Glenn E. Vedder, eight years each; James J. Schmitz, seven years and Anne Chase, six years.

Middle East Trip Canceled

Saddleback College trustees canceled a student travel program to Egypt and Israel because of the mounting tensions in the Middle East.

Trustees agreed to scrap the Egypt-Israel pilgrimage set for spring after college aides provided information dealing with insurance coverage for such trips.

The trip was part of a college travel series that would have cost students about $2,000 each.

Dollar Steady

Gold Price Soars Over $750 an Ounce

LONDON (AP) — Fearing a shortage of supply, investors poured money into gold today, sending the metal's price to record heights above $750 an ounce. The dollar was steady against major currencies.

In London, the price of gold jumped more than 10 percent in one day to a midmorning fixing of $765 an ounce, the highest gold price in history, and an $81 increase from Tuesday afternoon's $684 fixing. The afternoon fixing fell to $760 an ounce and it closed at $752.

Gold ended London trading Tuesday at $683.50.

In New York, gold opened at $770 an ounce but slid to $744, according to Republic National Bank.

In Zurich, Europe's major bullion center, the late price was $755 an ounce, up $70 from Tuesday's close, after trading as high as $763.

Silver also rocketed to a record afternoon fixing of $48.01 from $44 Tuesday. It was trading in New York at $47.

The spectacular leap was attributed to U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller's comment that further U.S. gold auctions were not appropriate at the moment because of the unsettled bullion market. Traders interpreted this as a squeeze on already tight supplies of gold.

The underlying reason for the New Year gold boom are the crisis building up over Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, the continued holding of the American hostages in Iran, the illness of Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito, higher oil prices and the threat of curtailed exports and the generally shaky state of the world economy.

Since Dec. 31, gold has soared more than $200 an ounce in London. A year ago, it closed at $197.95 in London.

"It's a very nervous market," said a dealer at Sharps Pixley Ltd., one of London's five big gold trading houses. "The price reflects the higher level reached in Hong Kong but so far it's rather quiet. When you get to a new area like this, people are nervous about buying but no one wants to go short either."

Silver, which has more than doubled in price in a month, was trading at a record, up from $44 at the close Tuesday.

The price of platinum was set at a record $900 an ounce in early trading, up $40 from Tuesday's afternoon fixing.

While officers held a flashlight in Sparks' face, police said the girl identified the suspect from the family car parked across the roadway.

Sparks, who was not wearing trousers at the time of his arrest, is being held on charges of attempted rape and assault with a deadly weapon.

Police said they do not know why the man was garbed only in underwear, shoes and a shirt.

Officer Danelle Adams followed Sparks after observing him get into the vehicle near the telephone company office on Third Street, south of 6:30 p.m.

The off-duty officer flagged down Motor Officer Mark Miller, who pulled Sparks to the side of the road just past the Festival of Arts grounds.

HB Woman Thwarts Cat-astrophe

"There's no point in worrying about cats. If they can get up there, they can get down." Mrs. Rossington was unconvinced. "I was surprised the cat was still alive. I didn't know what to do. Was I supposed to cut the tree down or what?" Thinking money might be a factor, she phoned Tip-Top Tree Service in Santa Ana and inquired about their cat-saving policy. Their policy was simple — $50 and the cat would be saved. "I put up half the money and collected the rest from friends," she said. The kitten officially put its paws on the ground for the first time in 10 days at 7:10 p.m. Tuesday. "I was going to let my daughter keep the cat," Mrs. Rossington explained, "but as it turned out, it belonged to a neighbor."

Shah Deportation Plan Rumored

Girl, 11, Slain

County Teen's Fate Weighed

By FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Two Westminister families — once friends and still neighbors — sat on opposite sides of an Orange County courtroom entrance Tuesday awaiting final disposition in the crime that separated them: the death of an 11-year-old girl at the hands of a 15-year-old boy.

On one side was Carl Meyer, father of young Julie Ann Meyer, who was strangled to death last June 25. Her body was left under a bush in a vacant lot.

On the other side of the doors to the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Alicemarie Stotler were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ijames, parents of Kent Ijames, the boy who pleaded no contest to voluntary manslaughter in connection with the death.

Not present at the sentencing hearing was Virginia Meyer, Julie Ann's mother. She is hospitalized at Fountain Valley Community Hospital with bleeding ulcers.

JULIE MEYER

JUDGE STOTLER POSTPONED sentencing to Jan. 30 to allow for preparation of a new probation report to determine if young Ijames could benefit from hospitalization as opposed to commitment to the California Youth Authority.

Ijames entered the no contest plea Nov. 27 and was found sane following a two-day hearing in December.

The slight, blond boy, dressed in a striped knit shirt, corduroy pants and tennis shoes, appeared nervous Tuesday as he was brought into Judge Stotler's courtroom, which was closed to members of the press and public.

IJAMES HAS GIVEN different stories to investigators on what preceded the strangulation. In his first statement to Westminister Police investigators, he said Julie Ann called him a slang word for homosexual, that he called her a similar slang word, that she kicked him in the groin and that he strangled her. There were no indications of sexual assault, investigators said.

The boy was arrested three days after the girl's body was found. The previous day, the boy's father was a pallbearer at Julie Ann's funeral.

Deputy District Attorney Bryan Brown said Ijames should be sentenced to the maximum term at the California Youth Authority. Under such a sentence, Ijames could be held six years, until he turns 21.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY THOMAS Brown said he wants to insure that Ijames receives "adequate treatment."

He wants Ijames placed in a hospital for psychiatric treatment.

The defense attorney said that, if Ijames is sentenced to the youth authority he probably would serve 18 months before his release and would be given credit for the 200 days he has spent at Orange County Juvenile Hall.

Asked if Ijames is remorseful over the girl's death, his attorney replied, "Very...very."

Panama Confers With Iran

CHICAGO (AP) — The governments of Panama and Iran have entered into direct top-level discussions on the possible return of the deposed shah to Iran, the Chicago Tribune today quoted reliable sources as saying.

The Tribune, in a story filed from Tehran, said the sources reported that Panamanian President Aristides Royo telephoned Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh twice Tuesday to discuss Iran's official request for the shah's arrest.

Iran announced Saturday it would file a formal extradition request with Panama "within 60 days after his arrest."

The shah has been living under guard in Panama since leaving the United States following cancer and gallbladder treatments in a New York hospital.

In New York, the office of Robert Armao, a spokesman for the shah, declined to comment on the report and said no negotiations were known to be under way.

Ghotbzadeh, campaigning for Iran's presidential election Jan. 25, interrupted his campaign to return to the foreign ministry to take the day's second call from Royo just before midnight Tuesday, the Tribune reported the sources as saying.

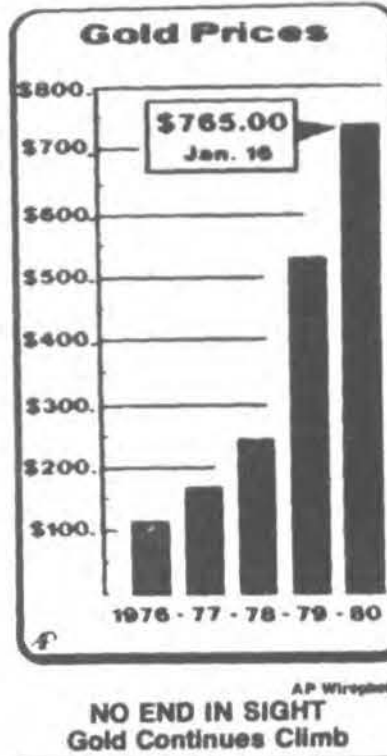

Bamdad, a Tehran newspaper, reported Ghotbzadeh said the phone conversations "related to the letter of extradition," the Tribune said. No details were disclosed immediately.

The Tribune said, however, that the foreign minister is known to be pursuing a strategy involving creation of a United Nations commission to go to Iran to investigate Iran's charges against the shah, who left his country one year ago today.

Return of the shah and his wealth are among demands of militants who have been holding Americans hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Nov. 4.

Shortage Feared

Gold Soars Above $750

LONDON (AP) — Fearing a shortage of supply, investors poured money into gold today, sending the metal's price to record heights above $750 an ounce. The dollar was steady against major currencies.

In London, the price of gold jumped more than 10 percent in one day to a midmorning fixing of $765 an ounce, the highest gold price in history, and an $81 increase from Tuesday afternoon's $684 fixing. The afternoon fixing fell to $780 an ounce and it closed at $752.

Gold ended London trading Tuesday at $683.50.

In New York, gold opened at $770 an ounce but slid to $744, according to Republic National Bank.

In Zurich, Europe's major bullion center, the late price was $755 an ounce, up $70 from Tuesday's close, after trading as high as $763.

Silver also rocketed to a record afternoon fixing of $48.01 from $44 Tuesday. It was trading in New York at $47.

The spectacular leap was attributed to U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller's comment that further U.S. gold auctions were not appropriate at the moment because of the unsettled bullion market. Traders interpreted this as a squeeze on already tight supplies of gold.

The underlying reason for the New Year gold boom are the crisis building up over Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, the continued holding of the American hostages in Iran, the illness of Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito, higher oil prices and the threat of curtailed exports and the generally shaky state of the world economy.

Since Dec. 31, gold has soared more than $200 an ounce in London. A year ago, it closed at $197.95 in London.

"It's a very nervous market," said a dealer at Sharps Pixley Ltd., one of London's five big gold trading houses. "The price reflects the higher level reached in Hong Kong but so far it's rather quiet. When you get to a new area like this, people are nervous about buying but no one wants to go short either."

Trials Cleared

SAN DIEGO (AP) — An agreement by the federal government and Pacific Southwest Airlines not to contest liability claims for the 144-victim PSA air disaster Sept. 25, 1978 sets the stage for a series of trials that will go directly to determining financial damages without lengthy trials.

Hall First Candidate in Mesa Contest

Costa Mesa City Councilman Donn Hall became the first candidate to file papers for the city's April 8 council election Tuesday.

City Clerk Eileen Phinney said no one has taken out papers this week. Last week, Mayor Ed McFarland and businessman Chris Steel picked up papers, but haven't returned them yet.

There are three vacancies on the five-member council. All candidates are elected at large.

Council member Dom Raciti said this week he hasn't decided whether he will seek a third term. Filing closes Jan. 31.

'Final' Threat

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist guerrillas holding South African Ambassador Archibald Gardner Dunn demand that South Africa urge 102 countries to publicize their manifesto as a means of saving the ambassador's life. The Popular Liberation Forces said Dunn was "still alive," but threatened to kill him if their demands were not met. He was abducted Nov. 28.

Soviets Deny Threat

called the two countries' "differences in approach" to some world issues.

The Tass commentary came as concern grew for the health of 87-year-old Yugoslav President Tito, who has led his communist nation on a foreign policy course independent of Moscow since World War II. His hospitalization for a serious circulation problem has aroused renewed speculation about his country's future.

A Tass commentary, entitled "A New Bluff," attacked what it called "truly fantastic concoctions" in the Western press "trying to ascribe to the Soviet Union some anti-Yugoslav intentions."

Tass said such claims were "crude, provocative and false," and that "relations between the Soviet and Yugoslav peoples are marked by profound friendliness."

Yugoslavia underlined its independent stand by supporting a United Nations resolution Monday that called for the withdrawal of foreign forces from Afghanistan.

Increase Asked Pacific Tel Seeks $2 Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pacific Telephone is asking for a $2 monthly rate increase from the average residential customer to avoid what the company calls a deterioration of service and the layoff of 4,000 employees.

PacTel's "poor financial situation" was outlined in a petition for a $345.1 million rate increase presented at hearing before the state Public Utilities Commission on Tuesday by Pacific Telephone's president, Theodore J. Saenger.

The amount sought by the telephone company has been reduced from $381 million initially sought in November.

Saenger said that if the increase is not granted, the shortage of money will mean periodic overloads of lines can be expected, the demands of thousands of customers will go unmet, repair service will be delayed and it will be necessary to lay off 4,000 from the company work force of 105,000.

DAY IN BRIEF

Highlights from today's world and national news developments

Check Forged; Boy, 9, Cited

FRESNO (AP) — A 9-year-old Fresno boy — believed to be the youngest forger suspect in this city's history — has been cited by police for cashing a forged check.

"To my knowledge, we haven't had them any younger," said Lt. Maurice Regan, head of the police juvenile division.

Police said the boy was cited in his home after he cashed a $2 check at a northeast Fresno store to buy a sandwich. The boy reportedly told a store clerk his father had been forced to return to work unexpectedly and was unable to cook dinner.

Light Rain in North State

By The Associated Press

Rain fell over most of Northern California today, but in much lighter amounts than the series of storms which caused emergencies to be declared in several Sierra Nevada counties.

Streams began receding Tuesday and forecasters predict a break in weather pattern which sent a relentless series of tropical storms over Northern California for more than a week.

The National Weather Service reported that the warm, moist tropical storm expected to move across Northern California today probably would be the last of a series of drenching storm fronts.

Pinto Fire Trial Opens

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — About 11 gallons of gasoline spilled from the ruptured fuel tank of a 1973 Pinto in which three teen-agers burned to death, the prosecution's first witness testified today in the criminal liability trial of Ford Motor Co.

Ford is charged with three counts of reckless homicide in the fiery crash of the car, which exploded when hit from behind by a van. The trial in Pulaski Circuit Court is the first criminal prosecution of a manufacturer in a products defects case.

Ford lawyers have said they will rebut prosecution charges that the automaker "chose profit over human life" in designing the Pinto with testimony from engineers of the car who bought the subcompact "for themselves, their wives and children."

Murder of Couple Probed

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Police are investigating the murder of an elderly couple who may have confronted a burglar in their high-rise apartment.

Otto Forst, 73, and his wife Gerda, 68, had apparently been dead for two days when their bodies, dressed in night clothes and badly beaten, were found by their daughter Tuesday, police said.

the Iranian Foreign Ministry sent a message to its U.N. ambassador, Mansour Farhang, stating Waldheim was now acceptable to the 79-year-old religious leader of the Iranian revolutionary regime.

The U.N. Security Council sent Waldheim to Tehran two weeks ago to try to secure the release of the 50 or so Americans held hostage by militant students in the U.S. Embassy since Nov. 4. He cut short his visit after Khomeini and the students refused to see him but his proposal for a U.N. commission to investigate the allegations of the revolutionary regime against Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi did find favor with Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh.

Historical Society Sets Mesa Banquet

The annual installation banquet of the Costa Mesa Historical Society will be held Friday, with Donald Dobemeier of the Orange County Historical Commission as guest speaker.

The event is slated for 6:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, 3131 Bristol St., Costa Mesa. Cost is $8.50, with reservations available by calling Joyce Martin at 545-7551.

To be installed as officers are Betty Jean Beecher, president; Trudy Ohlig, first vice president; Lucille Pinkley, second vice president; Ellie Evans, treasurer; Mildred Fisher, recording secretary, and Patricia Moore, corresponding secretary.

Those 18 or older who lack a high school diploma can remedy the situation through the Newport-Mesa Adult Education program, which begins its spring semester Feb. 4. Information is available by calling 760-3302.

Damages Awarded Worker

An Orange County jury awarded a 35-year-old Pomona man $1.2 million Tuesday for injuries he received when a scaffold collapsed at a Buena Park warehouse in March, 1976.

The award in favor of Carl Pasqua, an insulation installer who has been unable to work since the accident, was announced by the jury before Orange County Superior Court Judge Robert Green.

Pasqua said after the verdict that he was working atop the 25-foot tall scaffold when a wheel collapsed. Pasqua said bones in his foot were shattered and a vertebra fractured when he fell to the floor. He said he has undergone surgery six times and faces a seventh operation so he can walk without the use of braces.

The judgment was entered against the Wheelwright Corp., the manufacturer of the scaffold wheels.

The verdict followed five days of trial testimony and two days of deliberations. The vote in favor of the award was 10 to 2.

Pasqua's attorney, Herbert Hafif, with offices in Newport Beach and Claremont, said the two dissenting jurors favored a higher monetary award.

Supervisors Eye Suit Over Terns

Orange County supervisors are considering a countersuit against the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in a legal battle over temporary feeding grounds for the California Least Tern at the mouth of the Santa Ana River.

While calling for a study on the feasibility of a countersuit, supervisors ordered County Counsel Adrian Kuyper to defend the county against the federal suit that was filed Dec. 7.

The Corps of Engineers and the Environmental Protection Agency are seeking damages of up to $25,000 per day after the county removed culverts leading to the temporary habitat last October.

The federal suit, which also names the county's Flood Control District, the County Environmental Management Agency and the K.E.C. Company, claims the county acted without securing proper permits.

The culverts were installed at a 15-acre marshland site that the county rented from CalTrans during flood control work at the mouth of the river which disturbed regular feeding grounds of the migratory bird that is on the endangered species list.

The culverts were designed to allow ocean tides to bring water into the feeding grounds to the nesting birds in the vicinity of Huntington Beach State Park.

They were removed, Environmental Management Agency Director George Osborne said, at the onset of the rainy season to prevent possible flooding at Pacific Coast Highway and Brookhurst Street.

The action was taken after the birds had migrated to Central America for the winter.

Oil Wealth, Shipping at Stake

By The Associated Press
The focus of world tension — once embattled Berlin, later the hilly battlefields of Korea and then the jungles of Southeast Asia — has shifted to a string of states along the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean.

Turmoil in Iran. Soviet troops in Afghanistan. Unrest of varying degrees in Saudi Arabia, and in the Yemens — North and South. Iraq, India and Pakistan wracked in wary dispute with neighbors.

ALMOST TWO YEARS AGO, U.S. National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski coined the phrase "arc of instability" to describe the region. He put it in a dramatic historical perspective:

"If you look at the postwar era, the '50s were dominated by the struggle for the survival of Western Europe, and our greatest attainment was the creation of stability in Western Europe. The '60s and the early '70s were dominated by the aftermath of colonial revolution and of World War II in Asia.

Today, the area of crisis is a group of states on the shores of the Indian Ocean — literally an arc of instability, which can be drawn on a map from Chittagong in Bangladesh through Islamabad, all the way to Aden.

"THEIR INTERNAL FRAGILITY, SOCIAL and political, could interact with the projection of Soviet power, and that together could create a problem as acute as the one that we faced even in the '50s or '60s, especially because of oil."

The turbulence that has struck the region since the Islamic uprising began in Iran in February 1979 has exacerbated regional and international rivalries: Iraq vs. Syria, India vs. Pakistan, the United States vs. the Soviet Union.

Ultimately at stake is the oil wealth of the Arabian peninsula and Iran, as well as the West's oil tanker routes.

Here is a nation-by-nation overview of the crisis areas along the "arc of instability":

Iran
Until the fall of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, Iran was regarded as the West's "policeman" in the Persian Gulf, providing a block between the Soviet Union and the oil fields to the south.

Iran also was the world's second-largest exporter of oil, producing up to six million barrels a day.

ITS PAMPERED 400,000-MAN ARMED forces were equipped with the West's most sophisticated weaponry, but when the shah was challenged last February, the army collapsed. Soldiers defected or deserted; hundreds of officers were slain or went before Islamic firing squads.

Amid the political upheaval, Iranian oil exports have been practically halved. Unemployment is rampant.

The unity that brought victory to the revolution led by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini quickly disintegrated as the aged religious leader grimly began to impose autocratic, Islamic rule.

Domestic violence continues to shake the predominantly Shiite Moslem nation. Kurdish, Baluchi, Arab and other minorities are clamoring — and sometimes fighting — for greater autonomy.

IRAN'S RELATIONS WITH ITS NEIGHBORS are strained. Tehran has clamped down on Marxists, lending at least moral support to Afghan insurgents fighting the Soviet-backed rulers in Afghanistan.

Arabs in Iran's neighboring states were angered by its suppression of the autonomy-seeking Arab minority in the oil-rich Khuzestan province and feared the spread of Islamic revolution to the western shores of the gulf, where Sunni Moslems rule a sometimes restive Shiite minority. Furthermore, there are suspicions that Iran may attempt to reclaim the archipelago of Bahrain, site of the only U.S. naval support facility in the gulf.

Border clashes sporadically flare between Iran and Iraq, which Tehran has accused of supporting Kurdish and Ethnic Arab rebels. But Iran's most serious confrontation is with the United States, which Khomeini branded as "Satan" for its backing of the shah.

THE SHAH'S ADMITTANCE TO THE United States for medical treatment prompted the Nov. 4 takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by militant students demanding Pahlavi's extradition. Although Pahlavi has left the United States, militants continue to hold some 50 American hostages at the embassy.

The United States has reacted with a series of political and economic sanctions, but neither the sanctions nor the new threat posed by the Soviet intervention in neighboring Afghanistan has budged the militants. The Carter administration believe they are Marxists who may be beyond the control of Khomeini.

Khomeini still commands the popularity to maintain a tenuous hold on Iran. However, there is concern among neighboring Moslem states that if Khomeini stumbles, leftist will make their move.

Saudi Arabia
The wide belief in East and West that Islamic revolution "can't happen here" was shaken when 1,200 armed fanatics stormed the Grand Mosque in Mecca, Islam's holiest shrine, in November.

By the time the remnants of the invaders were overcome two weeks later, the official death toll had risen to 244, including 127 members of the Saudi security forces.

OF THE 143 GUNMEN REPORTEDLY captured alive, 63 were beheaded Jan. 9.

Arab sources say the mosque siege was part of a plot to overthrow the Saudi royal family and proclaim a government patterned after the early days of Islam. The attack surprised observers who regarded the kingdom as orthodox enough to avoid attacks from religious conservatives.

The Mecca incident led to a shake-up in the Saudi armed forces and replacement of a half-brother to King Khaled as governor of Mecca.

America's vital interests are at stake in the kingdom. The world's leading exporter of oil — nine million barrels a day — sits on a century's worth of oil reserves, up to 300 billion barrels.

RELATIONS BETWEEN RIYADH AND Washington have cooled because of U.S. sponsorship of the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty. Saudi disenchantment also stems from concern with the reliability of the Americans as allies following U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam, refusal to support Somalia-backed Moslem insurgents against Ethiopia, severance of U.S. diplomatic ties with Taiwan and failure of the United States to intervene to prevent the fall of the shah.

The Saudis hold that defense of the gulf is the business of local nations and are attempting to generate cooperation. As a deterrent to Soviet expansionism, the Saudis prefer to see U.S. military might just "over the horizon."

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Persian Gulf and northern Indian Ocean have become areas of instability at a time when American prestige and credibility in the region are at a low ebb. In this first part of a series, "Arc of Instability" — Otto Doelling, chief of Middle East services for The Associated Press, presents a nation-by-nation look at the region.

Although pro-Western Oman lies just next door, a Western diplomat said he thought the Saudis would regard it as an ideal location for an American base.

Iraq
The Arab socialist oil state packs the biggest military punch on the Persian Gulf. Its 212,000-man armed forces are largely Soviet supplied, boasting 1,900 Russian-built tanks and some 350 aircraft.

Ideally, Iraq could form the nucleus of an intergulf security force, but its revolutionary credentials and past links to the Soviet Union make it suspect to neighboring Arab rulers.

RECENTLY, IRAQ HAS COOLED TOWARD the Russians, with whom they concluded a 15-year treaty of friendship and cooperation in 1972. After purchasing more than $1 billion worth of Soviet arms, Iraq is diversifying its purchases and is shopping in the west.

President Saddam Hussein denounced the Soviet intervention of Afghanistan as an act that "should not be justified and for which no pretext should be found." At the same time, however, he accused the United States of exploiting the crisis to justify its own possible opposition to the Camp David peace treaty between Israel and Egypt.

Hussein assumed full power last July and tightened his grip on the nation of 12.5 million by executing 21 leading Iraqi politicians. He pointed the finger at Syria as being behind an abortive coup by renegade members of the ruling Baath Arab Socialist Party.

SYRIA IS RULED BY A RIVAL Baathist faction. Until the latest Iraqi charges, the two neighboring Arab countries had been working toward unity following years of violent feuding.

Amid border clashes with Iran, Iraq is demanding that the Iranians evacuate three gulf islets — the greater and lesser Tunbs and Abu Moussa — seized by the shah in 1971.

The Yemens
The two Yemens — North Yemen and South Yemen — have been a frequent flashpoint, but they did not become the focus of superpower rivalry until their two-week border war last February.

After troops from Marxist South Yemen crossed the border at three points, the United States rushed in $383 million in military aid along with $200 million in backlogged orders to the north.

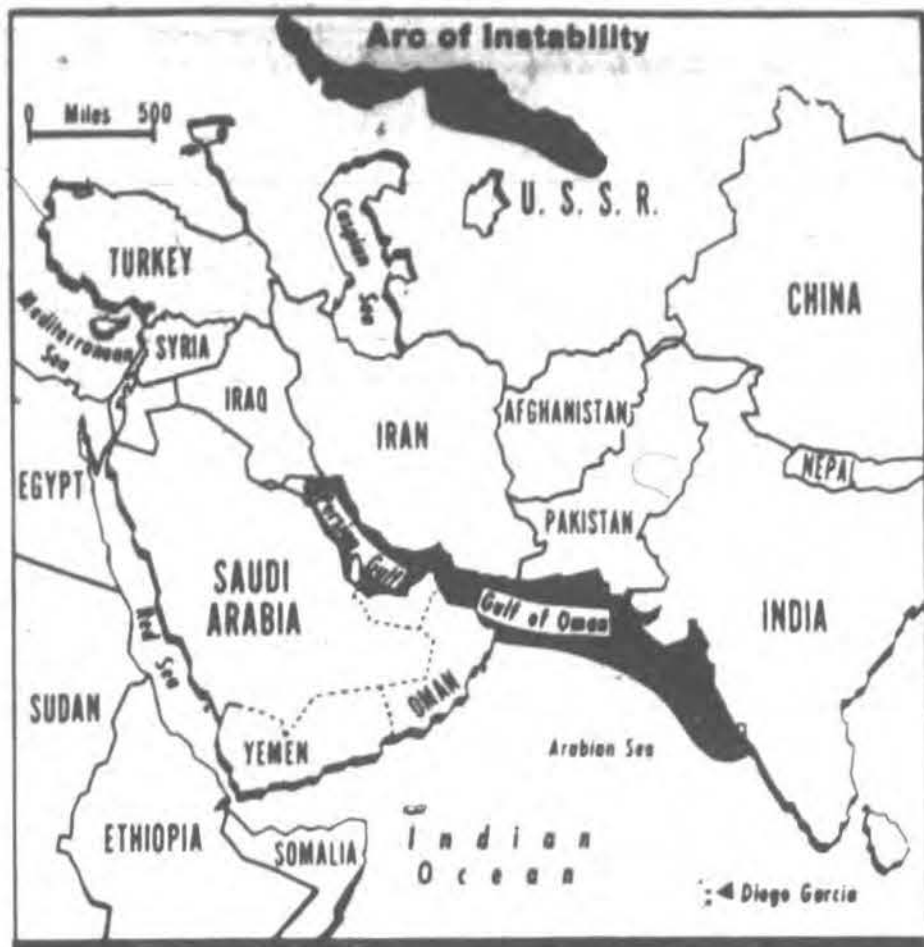

THAT SEEMED TO PUT NORTH YEMEN firmly in the Western camp, but last fall the Soviets sought to neutralize the north with a large-scale weapons deal of its own. Senior officials in North Yemen say they hope to balance competing interests to avoid future wars so that its backward economy can be developed.

Tribalism and political factionalism have kept North Yemen's central government so weak that it barely controls the major city, San'a.

The strategic significance of Yemen is its open desert borders with Saudi Arabia, and the one million Yemeni workers in the oil-rich kingdom. Western diplomats say that a Marxist guerrilla campaign into southern Saudi Arabia could threaten the oil fields.

NORTH-SOUTH UNITY TALKS HAVE continued for nearly a year without any practical results, though there have been periodic reports of a breakthrough.

Significantly, South Yemen became the first

Arab State to support the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

India and Pakistan
India and Pakistan, both recently wracked by domestic political turmoil, appear as much concerned about their own 33-year-old rivalry as they are about the implications of Russians on their doorstep.

An Indian political expert in New Delhi has said the Soviet move has added a new dimension to the region, where 300 million Moslems live in India, Pakistan, Bangladesh and Afghanistan.

NEVERTHELESS, BOTH THE CARETAKER government of Charan Singh and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi have been slow to judgment of their political ally, the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Gandhi, who denies pro-Soviet leanings, says a U.S. "global strategy" that includes firmer alliances with China and Pakistan "does pose a danger" to India.

Puzzled by India's reaction, U.S. Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher has said the Indian government "ought to see the action of the Soviet Union as a threat to India as well as other countries in the region."

PAKISTAN IS REACTING CAUTIOUSLY to President Carter's decision to speed military aid. Pakistani President Zia ul-Haq has made it clear he does not want American troops in his realm and has said that geography — meaning the proximity of the Soviets — dictates accommodation with his new "superpower neighbor."

Pakistan has had bitter experiences with U.S. aid, which was stopped in the war with India over Kashmir in 1965 and curtailed in 1971 during the Indo-Pakistan war over Bangladesh. More recently aid was stopped because of Pakistan's refusal to allow international inspection of its nuclear facilities.

The depth to which U.S. Pakistani relations had sunk prior to the Soviet incursion into Afghanistan was dramatized by the sacking of the U.S. Embassy and cultural centers in Pakistan by angry mobs reacting to rumors that the armed attack on the Grand Mosque in Mecca was instigated by the United States and Israel.

New American arms sales to Pakistan can be expected to put new strains on U.S. relations with India, and there are fears the move might also set off a new East-West arms race in the area.

Southern Russia Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)
U.S. military strategists believe any Soviet thrust into Iran would be made from southern Russia where about 13 motorized divisions are deployed.

The military professionals say this would be the most logical route to Tehran and the major oil fields near the Persian Gulf.

BUT THEY say there is no evidence Moscow is planning any such move. The Soviets have maintained strong military forces above the Iranian border for many years.

The U.S. strategists, asking not to be named, said Tuesday they see no military sense in any Soviet drive westward into Iran from Afghanistan, where two Russian divisions are deployed within about 75 miles of Iran's eastern border.

"THERE'S NOTHING in eastern Iran worth having," said one military officer. "And the terrain makes lateral movement across Iran from Afghanistan virtually impossible."

State History Traced

A class tracing the multi-cultural, multi-national development of California will be offered by Orange Coast College in Costa Mesa this spring.

"The California Experience" will examine such topics as "The Indians," "Spanish Missions," "The Gold Rush," "Mexican Ranchos," and "Water Projects."

The course is recommended for those entering elementary education because it deals with curriculum materials taught at that level.

Registration runs through Feb. 8 in the OCC Admissions Building. For information, call 556-5772.

Collectors' Paintings On Display

Paintings, sculptures and works on paper, representing a view of 20th Century art collectors, are on exhibit at the Laguna Beach Museum of Art through Feb. 18.

"The Collector's Eye," offering insights to the variety of tastes of various collectors, includes work from artists such as Maurice de Vlaminck, Pierre Auguste Renoir, Andrew Wyeth, George Bellows and John Singer Sargent.

Examples of work from the cubist period will also be on display, as well as the art of Pablo Picasso, Armand Pomodoro, Georges Rouault and Henry Moore.

The museum is open from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily except Tuesdays and admission is free.

The museum of Art is located at 307 Cliff Drive.

Concession Deadline Set

Laguna Beach's summer festival season is still six months off, but the city is setting an April 23 deadline for applications from those who want to operate concessions near the festival grounds.

For information, call Jack Connors at City Hall at 497-3311, ext. 221.

Woman Sues IUD Firm

$5 Million Sought From Manufacturer

The A.H. Robins pharmaceutical firm was named as the defendant in another lawsuit filed by a woman who claims she suffered pelvic inflammation after using a Robins-produced intrauterine device.

To date, 38 lawsuits have been filed against the firm in Orange County Superior Court over the Dalkon Shield IUD. The product no longer is on the market, according to a company spokesman.

Susan A. Olson claims in the lawsuit filed Monday that she began using the Dalkon Shield in 1971. She alleges that she developed acute pelvic inflammatory disease in February.

She is demanding $5 million in monetary damages.

John Van Dyke, a Newport Beach attorney representing the plaintiffs in the lawsuits, has estimated that about one million

Dalkon Shields still are in use.

Robins, of Richmond, Va., faces more than 600 lawsuits nationwide over the Dalkon Shield, according to Van Dyke. In August, a Denver woman won a $6.2 million judgment against the firm after testifying she suffered a miscarriage and was forced to undergo an emergency hysterectomy 10 months after she had been fitted with a Dalkon Shield.

Memorial Service Set For Student

A local memorial service will be conducted Friday for Newport Harbor High School graduate John David Jaenicke, who died Jan. 10 of cancer at the age of 21.

The service is scheduled for 2 p.m. in Estancia Park, 1900 Adams Ave., Costa Mesa.

Mr. Jaenicke, who was active in dance performances at Newport Harbor High, attended the Academy of Dramatic Arts in Pasadena and was studying at the American Academy of Ballet in New York at the time of his death.

He leaves his parents, former Costa Mesa residents Gloria and Virgil Jaenicke of Chula Vista; his brother, Bill Jaenicke and his sister, Gloria Muller, both of Santa Ana.

The family has suggested memorial donations to the American Cancer Society.

Approval Sought For Triangle Annex

Newport Beach City Council members expect a decision by April on their application to annex an 80-acre island of county territory near Hoag Memorial Hospital.

The triangle of unincorporated territory is the source of traffic congestion, city officials say, because the county's zoning laws allow up to 40 units to the acre. City laws would allow a maximum of 12 units to the acre.

The annexation is being filed under a state law that allows such a move without approval of the affected property owners.

The measure must be approved by the county's Local

Agency Formation Commission and the county Board of Supervisors.

Parent Class Set in Irvine

A course in Parent Effective ness Training will begin Jan. 2 at the Irvine Youth Service Center. It is co-sponsored by the City of Irvine and the Newport Harbor Counseling Center.

Lee Hachey, a licensed marriage and family counselor, will teach the class in communications skills for parents.

Meetings will be held from 7:10 p.m. Wednesdays for eight weeks. The first session may be attended without charge. Tuition for the course, including a text book and workbook, is $75 per individual or $120 per couple.

Iran Oil Exports Trimmed in Half

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil exports from Iran have been cut in half in recent days, the industry newsletter Platt's Oilgram News said today.

The daily newsletter, in a dispatch from its correspondent in Tehran, said unidentified National Iranian Oil Co. spokesmen gave slow spot-market sales as a reason for the drop.

Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinefar denied the report, the newsletter said. The report could not be confirmed at the Iranian Embassy in Washington.

Platt's said Iran's exports have dropped to between 900,000 and 1 million 42-gallon barrels a day — about what the country recently agreed to sell under long-term contracts to a group of European, Japanese and other Asian companies.

U.S. government estimates have said Iran was exporting about 2.3 million barrels daily in late December, and Iran itself has indicated its 1980 exports would be in the 2.1 million to 2.6 million range.
