BERKELEY (AP) — Two defectors from the doomed Peoples Temple, who established a center to help others fleeing from religious cults, were found shot to death in their home, police said today.

The bodies of Al Mills, 51, and his wife, Jeannie Mills, 40, were found Tuesday night in their small cottage located near a rest home, police said.

Their daughter, Daphene Mills, 15, also was found at the cottage, suffering from gunshot wounds in the head. She was listed in "very critical" condition at Alta Bates Hospital.

Police declined to speculate on whether the shootings were related to the Mills' connection with the Temple.

Penthouse Sues Kodak For Its Nude Photos

Penthouse Asks Kodak Photos

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — Penthouse has filed suit against Eastman Kodak claiming the company's processing plant does not have the right to withhold color slides of last year's Pet of the Year model posing in various states of undress.

The magazine filed suit against the photo giant in Superior Court, arguing Kodak should not have kept 239 exposures of Cheryl Rixon, submitted to the company for processing in August.

Kodak officials say the company would break obscenity laws if it returned the sexually explicit photographs.

The pictures were taken by Penthouse publisher Robert Guccione and sent to Kodak's plant in Fair Lawn for processing.

Penthouse claims in its suit that Kodak technicians do not have the right to determine whether the pictures are obscene.

"They might as well single out a transparency of a ribald Picasso etching as a still from 'Deep Throat'," said the suit.

The November edition of Penthouse contained a 12-page spread of Ms. Rixon, shots Kodak initially held back in July but returned to the magazine in August. But delivery was stopped on a second batch, which sparked the court action, and the pictures were never returned.

Penthouse lawyers say the pictures are not lewd, but Kodak says it would be "subjecting itself to criminal prosecution under state and federal obscenity statutes," if the shots were delivered.

Kodak must show cause March 22 before Superior Court Judge Sherwin D. Lester why the slides should not be returned to the magazine.

Officials Seize Drugs

U.S. Border Patrol agents seized 90 pounds of marijuana allegedly found in a nervous man's car trunk when he drove his low-riding auto into the San Onofre checkpoint Tuesday.

Agent John Wesson said the suspicious auto was searched because it was believed that there might have been smuggled illegal aliens hiding inside. This is a common occurrence, Wesson said.

But agents turned William Richard Denman, 29, of Lemon Grove, over to federal drug enforcement officials on charges of illegally transporting a controlled substance.

Wesson asserted that the marijuana was found wrapped in plastic bags and cloth in two boxes. Agents obtained a search warrant to unlock Denman's trunk, Wesson noted.

Wesson said Denman "appeared nervous" when ordered to open the trunk that appeared to have something heavy inside when agents told the motorist to pull over at the inspection station located about three miles south of San Clemente.

Reds Bomb Afghanistan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union bombed two Afghanistan villages for two days this month in retaliation for members of an Afghan army regiment killing 13 Soviet advisers in their sleep and defecting to the insurgents, intelligence sources say.

The incident occurred north of Jalalabad and was one of the few rumored attacks on Soviets troops that sources in Washington have been able to confirm.

The bombing in Laghman Province killed about 80 persons, the sources said Tuesday, but the Afghan army deserters escaped without casualties.

Citrus Queen's Pact Expires

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — More than a year after Florida oranges ended up in the middle of a controversy over homosexual rights, citrus spokeswoman Anita Bryant may be on the way out.

BRYANT

Miss Bryant's contract with the Florida Citrus Commission expires in August and agency marketing director Douglas Hoffer says no more commercials with the singer are planned. Her departure is "probably true if the commission goes along with it," Hoffer said.

The former beauty queen, who has represented citrus growers since 1968, began to lose favor last year after leading the 1978 campaign against homosexual rights in South Florida. Gay activists urged a boycott of Florida products and two industry lawyers, in arguing that Florida identification should not be required on product labels, told the state Supreme Court recently they did not necessarily want their products tied too closely to Miss Bryant.

Caffeine-cancer Link-up Suspected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Caffeine is the latest substance scientists say may cause damage to the human body.

Caffeine, the stimulant in coffee, tea, chocolate and some soft drinks, caused birth defects in rats, the Food and Drug Administration said Tuesday.

There's no immediate cause for alarm, the FDA said, but the agency has already begun considering options if the preliminary results are borne out by the final report, expected in about two months.

The options include warning

Captor Perishes In Fire?

NINE MILE FALLS, Wash. (AP) — Using a cigarette lighter for illumination and their hands for shovels, two men held captive beneath a house dug their way to freedom — an escape officials say may have caused the homeowner to burn down the house with himself inside.

The house, recently awarded to a credit union, burned Tuesday after the two credit union representatives held hostage six hours tunneled to freedom, officials said.

Stevens County Sheriff Chan St. Clair speculated that when the ashes cooled, firefighters — ordered to stay clear because of the threat of a boobytrap — would find the body of 40-year-old Don von Essen, who had been ordered to leave the house within a month.

Homes surrounding the lot where von Essen's $85,000 home stood were searched before residents were allowed to return to their homes in this small eastern Washington community, 40 miles northwest of Spokane.

The homes were evacuated when von Essen notified St. Clair and several reporters that he had taken attorney Terry Snow and Spokane Federal Credit Union manager H. Byron Edgett captive in the dispute over ownership of the home.

The men said they were placed in a three-foot-high crawl space under the home. Using a cigarette lighter for illumination, Edgett, 34, began digging in the soft dirt

No Parole Urged

2 Killers of Black Sentenced

OROVILLE (AP) — Two young white men who admitted stalking and killing a deaf black man when they couldn't find any animals to shoot were sentenced to 25 years to life in prison today, and the judge recommended they never be paroled.

"Marvin Dean Noor and James T. McCarter have demonstrated for some time. . . their total disregard for the rights of others," said Butte County Superior Court Judge Jean Morony.

"Their action in this case was callous and malicious. . .I recommend their terms be fixed at life and they be kept in prison for life without any possibility of parole."

But the state Board of Prison Terms could decide to grant paroles after the two have spent 16 years, eight months in prison, or two-thirds of the minimum 25 years.

Noor, 19, and McCarter, 20, admitted shooting Jimmy Lee Campbell, 22, from their car as he walked along a railroad track in nearby Chico Jan. 13, 1979. Authorities said the two had been drinking heavily.

The sentence imposed is the maximum for first-degree murder, to which the two pleaded guilty Jan. 30.

In a plea bargain with authorities, the pair avoided the possibility of the death penalty, which can be imposed for a racially motivated murder.

Noor and McCarter remained expressionless when the sentence was read to a quiet courtroom before about 30 spectators, one a black woman who wept. The men remained in county custody awaiting transfer to the state prison at Vacaville, while authorities decide where they will be housed permanently.

Black leaders expressed outrage when the guilty pleas were released last month, because a year-long gag order had been imposed, and because the plea bargain prevented the possibility of a death sentence.

The Butte County chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has held several meetings on the issue and threatened to seek federal charges against county officials for the handling of the case.

State Attorney General George Deukmejian has asked the county district attorney for a report.

The two men and Dani Lee Shope, 24, were arrested the day after the killing after police received anonymous telephone calls saying the three had bragged about the shooting.

They were charged Jan. 16, 1979, with murder under the special circumstances of killing a person because of his race, a death penalty charge. Two days later, Chico Municipal Judge Ann Rutherford imposed a gag order and no more information became public until the guilty pleas last month.

On July 23, 1979, Mrs. Shope, a mother of three who had left her husband and was Noor's girlfriend, pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and turned state's evidence. Last November, she was sentenced to 15 years to life in state prison.

She provided most of the story about what happened after the three had spent the day riding around, drinking and smoking marijuana.

They had a 30-30 Winchester hunting rifle and had unsuccessfully looked for deer or even a cow to shoot, she said.

"Dean and Jim started talking about getting dark meat," Mrs. Shope testified. "They were talking about getting blacks, otherwise niggers, critters, animals, dark meat."

Mrs. Shope said Noor spotted "a colored man" and told McCarter to shoot him and he did. The three then returned to Oroville, where Noor shot at but missed — a black woman.

"Jim said about it being a girl, and Dean said, 'What's the difference? Critters is critters'," Mrs. Shope testified.

District Attorney Will Mattly has defended his decision to plea bargain in the case. He said a death penalty conviction was unlikely because the three had been drinking so much.

The amount of caffeine given the rats was more than a human would normally consume, but an FDA spokesman said the gap between the two amounts was "not a comfortable difference."

Guilty Verdicts For Ex-Lagunans

Two former Laguna Beach men, considered the ringleaders in a massive drug smuggling operation uncovered by federal agents, have been convicted in Reno, Nev., of conspiracy to import cocaine.

Scheduled for sentencing next month are Samuel Cutkomp, 53, who lived in Laguna Beach and Laguna Niguel before moving to Lake Tahoe, and William Von Sultzer, who once operated the Orphanage restaurant and night club in the Art Colony.

Also found guilty of conspiracy charges in Reno's federal court were Robert W. Taylor and his wife Mary, both of El Toro and Daniel C. Bray of Dana Point and Santa Ana.

The Orange Countians were among 13 persons convicted after federal agents uncovered the high-flying international ring which smuggled an estimated 400 pounds of cocaine into the nation.

The elaborate ring included couriers and dealers in Huntington Beach, the south county area and Santa Ana, said Stephen Swanson, agent in charge of the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration in Reno.

Swanson said that Cutkomp hatched the organization in late 1974 when he traveled to South America and was introduced to a major cocaine dealer in Lima, Peru.

The former Laguna Beach man apparently had three methods of transporting money and drugs, Swanson said, including sealing cocaine in book bindings, using scuba equipment and a diplomatic courier from Costa Rica.

Swanson said women would fly to Lima with $100,000 to $200,000 in cash and meet Cutkomp and alleged drug dealer Edward Portugal Salazar.

After turning over the money, the women would fly with the drugs to Mexico City, proceed to Tijuana and pass the goods on to other couriers.

Eventually, Swanson said, the drugs were brought to Laguna with some distributed there and the rest transported to Tahoe City for distribution.

Suspect Nabbed

Marine Abducted While Hitchhiking

Irvine police took a 31-year-old man into custody early today after he allegedly abducted a hitchhiking El Toro Marine Corps private at gunpoint.

Police Lt. Gene Norden said Rex Kenneth Bicknell of 5118 Elksford was booked at Newport Beach City Jail on suspicion of kidnapping.

Norden said the Marine, David Wilder, 18, was hitchhiking on Jeffrey Road near the San Diego Freeway at about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday when the incident allegedly occurred.

Norden said Wilder told officers he was picked up by a man who pulled a gun on him in the car and drove him to a home in the village of El Camino Real.

The investigator said the private, whose hometown is unknown, managed to shove the suspect once inside the home and escape. Wilder told police he ran to the intersection of Culver Drive and Walnut Avenue, flagged down a car and was taken to the El Toro Marine Air Station.

Police took Bicknell into custody at his home at about 5:30 a.m. today without incident, Norden said. The reason for the alleged kidnapping was not apparent, police said.

Around 6:30 p.m., as negotiations between von Essen and St. Clair continued, the two crawled out from under the house.

"We just ran down the road until we saw a house with a light on," Edgett said.

For the next hour, von Essen's attorney, Richard Sperling, attempted to reach his client on the telephone. He said he could not get through because the line was busy.

St. Clair speculated that von Essen discovered the hostages gone, made one last, lengthy phone call, and set the house on fire.

Firefighters were ordered to stay away from the house because von Essen had told St. Clair the ground around it was boobytrapped, the sheriff said. A Special Weapons and Tactics team trained weapons on the home as it burned and consumed the hostages' cars.

Von Essen, a self-employed general contractor, co-chairman of the Greater Spokane Libertarian Party and a Universal Life Church minister, had been fighting for the home since 1974, officials said.

Priest Dies After Assault; Suspect Held

A Seal Beach priest died Tuesday of injuries suffered when he was assaulted Feb. 9 in St. Anne's Catholic Church, and police said the assailant, still at large, now faces a murder charge.

Seal Beach police are seeking public assistance in locating the man who struck Father Felix Doherty, 63, on the side of his head with a fist at the door of the rectory. The priest was assaulted without provocation, police said.

The priest was not hospitalized immediately but collapsed at the rectory Feb. 16, police said, and was rushed to St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica.

Loss Doesn't Deter Brown

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. has dismissed his poor showing in New Hampshire's leadoff primary, saying he would take his campaign on to Wisconsin.

Brown said earlier he would forego several primaries in Massachusetts and three Southern states to concentrate on building his campaign organization in Wisconsin, which holds its primary April 1.

Brown gathered only 10 percent of the vote in the state's Democratic primary, trailing far behind President Carter with 49 percent and Sen. Edward Kennedy with 38.

Schmitz to Fight

All-to-winner Initiative Dies

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The author of a proposal to repeal winner-take-all rules for the California Republican primary says his ballot initiative is dead but he'll carry on the fight in court. (Related story, Page A3).

The failure of state Sen. John Schmitz' initiative drive could give former Gov. Ronald Reagan's presidential campaign a victory worth six times as many delegates to the Republican National Convention as the 15 Reagan won Tuesday in New Hampshire.

That's because state law now gives all 168 California delegates to the winner of the Republican primary, instead of dividing them proportionately among all candidates in accord with the popular vote.

If the results of the June 3 California primary are the same as the latest California poll, in which Reagan led George Bush 49-21 with seven other Republicans splitting the rest, repeal of winner-take-all rules would cost Reagan 85 delegates — nearly 10 percent of the total needed for the GOP nomination.

California is the only state with a winner-take-all primary, and Reagan backers have fought hard to keep it that way for 1980.

"The initiative on the ballot is dead, but the issue isn't dead," Schmitz said after Los Angeles County reported that 39 percent of the 238,703 voter signatures filed there were either invalid or duplicates.

"Now we fall back on the court suit challenging winner-take-all on constitutional grounds. Ultimately, it will be up to the National Convention to decide," Schmitz said.

'Pet' Party Plan Nixed

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University fraternities have rejected an offer from Penthouse magazine for an all-expenses-paid party, featuring four Penthouse "Pets," 100 kegs of beer and a band.

A Stanford Inter-Fraternity Council took the action Tuesday after campus feminist groups argued that the university might appear to be supporting the magazine, which features photo layouts of nude women along with fiction, interviews and articles.

Inter-Fraternity Council president John Kinney said, "We don't agree with their (the feminists') viewpoint. Their concern is that Penthouse will be able to use Stanford's name. But our concern is that we may insult or offend some people."

Cyclists' Toy Run Still On?

PASADENA (AP) — A spokesman for a group of motorcycle clubs which annually ride into Pasadena with toys for needy children says the threat of jail would not dissuade him from coming again, even though the city has withdrawn permission for the event.

Police Chief Bob McGowan complained that the mingling of such groups as the Hell's Angels and Devil's Disciples created a situation too volatile for the police department to manage. The city Board of Directors voted last week not to renew the permit to hold the toy run here.

"I have not ruled out Pasadena as our Toy Run destination," said Ron Roloff, the Modified Motorcycle Association's business manager in Sacramento, in a telephone interview.

DeLatour said police had no suspects. He would not discuss details of the shootings, including the type of weapon used or the nature of the wounds.

Also at the scene was Dr. Chris Hatcher, a psychiatrist who has worked with Temple defectors and assisted police in a number of hostage situations.

A friend of the family, Ken Dagenais, 17, described the Millses as a "very open family," saying they often left their door unlocked so the children's friends could come and go with ease.

Archie Ijames, who assumed leadership of the remnants of the Temple, declined to comment, although he said he talked today to one of the sons, who called to tell him of the shootings.

A neighbor, Barbara Perry, said her family was home at the time police estimate the shootings took place.

"We didn't hear a thing," she said.

Mrs. Perry said she had seen Mrs. Mills early Tuesday evening and nothing appeared out of the ordinary. She described the Millses as "very nice people."

Newport Mayor Assails 2 Firms

By RICHARD GREEN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach Mayor Paul Ryckoff criticized Irvine Company and the Koll Company Tuesday, saying they are engaging in political tactics that "threaten to stymie the city's governmental process."

Spokesmen for the Irvine Company and the Koll Company denied it.

"We are presently in the throes of a well-organized and funded public relations and advertising campaign by developers to undermine public confidence in Newport Beach city government," Ryckoff said at an afternoon press conference.

Ryckoff cited a $7 million damage lawsuit filed by the Koll Company against Newport Beach and five council members as "a political gimmick, a paper tiger, a publicity stunt."

He said the lawsuit was filed in an attempt to harass and intimidate the City Council and to promote the Koll Company's special interests.

Koll Company Vice President Tim Strader said the lawsuit is in no way political.

"The lawsuit is based on the illegal acts embarked upon by the City Council over the past two years," Strader said. "We won't drop the suit until proper zoning is restored for our hotel and office building."

The City Council revised the city's general plan Dec. 11, 1979, in effect rezoning an 8.5-acre site near John Wayne Airport on which the Koll Company intended to build a hotel. The suit claims the company can't build the hotel under the terms of the revised zoning.

An Irvine Company-initiated lawsuit against the City Council for its Dec. 11, 1979, rezone decision was settled out-of-court Monday.

Ryckoff said that while the Irvine Company lawsuit was settled satisfactorily, it left the city with a legal expense.

When asked if he expected major landowners to legally retaliate after the Dec. 11, 1979, rezone, Ryckoff said, "I didn't expect that they would force the city to defend costly lawsuits."

Picking up the attack on the Irvine Company, Ryckoff said, "The company has mounted a campaign to discredit elected officials."

Ryckoff said the company published an inflammatory article in its "New Worlds" Magazine which stated that Newport Beach residents wanted continued growth as long as it was well-designed.

"It was a well-written piece of professional propaganda speaking with only its own authority," Ryckoff said.

Responding to Ryckoff's comments, Irvine Company spokesman Jerry Collins said, "We agree with the mayor in the sense that it was well-written."

Insulation Burns

A 10-story building under construction in Newport Beach near the county airport sustained little damage Tuesday afternoon when fire broke out on the third floor, but a lot of insulation material was ruined. Fire Investigator Jim Upton said the blaze at 1301 Dove St. may have been started by a smoldering cigarette, or a burning cinder from a welder's torch.

Priest's Injuries Fatal

A Seal Beach priest died Tuesday of injuries suffered when he was assaulted Feb. 9 in St. Anne's Catholic Church, and police said the assailant, still at large, now faces a murder charge.

Seal Beach police are seeking public assistance in locating the man who struck Father Felix Doherty, 63, on the side of his head with a fist at the door of the rectory. The priest was assaulted without provocation, police said.

The priest was not hospitalized immediately but collapsed at the rectory Feb. 16, police said, and was rushed to St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica.

At the hospital surgery was performed on a blood clot in the area where he was struck. The priest remained hospitalized until his death at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Seal Beach police Capt. Sam D'Amico said a parishioner has offered a $1,000 reward through Seal Beach police for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the priest's assailant.

The suspect was described as a white male in his mid to late 20s, clean shaven, about six feet tall and 150 pounds.

GETS SCHOOL POST
Appointee Franco

Judy Franco Appointed to Trustee Seat

Judy Franco, a former president of the Harbor Council PTA, was appointed Tuesday by Newport-Mesa school trustees to fill a vacancy on the seven-member school board.

Mrs. Franco, who lives on Lido Isle, was selected over four other applicants to represent Trustee Area 5, which includes Balboa, Lido and much of Newport's beach area.

Carol Martin resigned earlier this month for personal reasons. Her term expires in November, 1981.

During a public interview last week with the other applicants, Mrs. Franco said she would seek election in 1981 if appointed.

In selecting the 12-year Newport Beach resident, trustees cited her longtime participation in school-related activities and knowledge of school issues.

Mrs. Franco will be seated in 30 days, according to state law.

Schmitz Repeal Try Fails

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The author of a proposal to repeal winner-take-all rules for the California Republican primary says his ballot initiative is dead but he'll carry on the fight in court. (Related story, Page A3).

The failure of state Sen. John Schmitz' initiative drive could give former Gov. Ronald Reagan's presidential campaign a victory worth six times as many delegates to the Republican National Convention as the 15 Reagan won Tuesday in New Hampshire.

That's because state law now gives all 168 California delegates to the winner of the Republican primary, instead of dividing them proportionately among all candidates in accord with the popular vote.

If the results of the June 3 California primary are the same as the latest California poll, in which Reagan led George Bush 49-21 with seven other Republicans splitting the rest, repeal of winner-take-all rules would cost Reagan 85 delegates — nearly 10 percent of the total needed for the GOP nomination.

California is the only state with a winner-take-all primary, and Reagan backers have fought hard to keep it that way for 1980.

"The initiative on the ballot is dead, but the issue isn't dead," Schmitz said after Los Angeles County reported that 39 percent of the 238,703 voter signatures filed there were either invalid or duplicates.

"Now we fall back on the court suit challenging winner-take-all on constitutional grounds. Ultimately, it will be up to the National Convention to decide," Schmitz said.

Air Base Reunion Planned in Mesa

The Costa Mesa Historical Society will sponsor its annual Santa Ana Air Base reunion, in memory of World War II activities in Costa Mesa, from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Saturday.

The event, open to the public, will be held at the California Air National Guard station at 2651 Newport Blvd.

Osborne Plans Retirement From County

George Osborne, Orange County's first and only Environmental Management Agency director, is retiring April 1 after nearly 30 years of county service.

The 64-year-old Osborne said he will become manager of projects for the Warmington Group of Irvine, a development company.

One of his projects, he said, will be the development of the 2,700-acre Whiting Ranch in the foothills of southern Orange County.

Osborne, who first was employed in 1950 by the county as a flood control design engineer, will receive $58,800 from the county in accumulated sick leave when he steps down.

He also stands to receive $9,300 in vacation time unless it is used prior to his leaving.

He also is in line to receive an annual salary of $42,700 in retirement pay.

Personnel Director R.A. Scott said that the sick leave payoff is the largest in Orange County history.

The previous high of $41,000 went to former General Services Agency Director Cuba Morris upon his resignation in 1977.

In 1974, Osborne was appointed director of the Environmental Management Agency, a department that oversees all new county development, flood control, parks and recreation activities.

"It had been my hope to achieve 30 years of service with six years as director of the EMA later this year before considering this action," Osborne said in a letter to county supervisors.

"However, an attractive opportunity for post-retirement employment has presented itself requiring an earlier decision.

"I would be pleased to serve your board in such volunteer positions you might think fit my capabilities for contribution," he said.

Oil Spill Slows

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The flow of oil from Mexico's runaway oil well has been reduced to "substantially less" than 2,000 barrels a day, according to a spokesman for PEMEX, the national oil monopoly. That compares with 30,000 barrels a day when the Ixtoc Well in the Bay of Campeche first blew out on June 3, 1979.

N-M Board to Send Notices of Layoffs

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport-Mesa school trustees decided Tuesday to send layoff notices to about 116 teachers and 12 to 15 special education staff members, citing declining enrollment and the need to cut about $5 million from next year's budget.

Seven people spoke against the layoffs. Four of them expressed strong concern about the proposed cut of six primary reading teachers, saying that teaching youngsters to read is the basis of education.

Bill Cue, president of the Newport-Mesa Federation of Teachers, called the layoffs "the Ides of March" because of a state requirement that the notices be sent by March 15.

Cue noted that, according to staff members, all teachers receiving layoff notices in previous years have subsequently been offered re-employment with the district, and said he views the district, and said he views the notices as an undue hardship.

"The heartbreak and insecurity are unnecessary," Cue said. "Hundreds of career plans have been held in limbo, yet not one teacher has actually been involuntarily released from Newport-Mesa. It will happen again this year."

He also criticized district officials for bringing up the layoffs two weeks before the deadline and just two days before a three-member fact-finding panel opens hearings on stalemated teacher contract negotiations.

Those hearings are scheduled to begin Thursday.

School Board President Ken Wayman said Tuesday one of the reasons for the budget cuts and some of the layoffs is the cost of salary increases.

The layoffs are expected to save the district $2.6 million next year. Officials are continuing to examine the budget to trim an additional $2.4 million in other areas. They also are thinking about charging for bus transportation.

In response to the concerns about primary reading teachers, Deputy Superintendent Norman Loats said the district several years ago budgeted $250,000 a year extra for the reading teachers, who supplement the regular program.

He said state funding through the School Improvement Program next year is expected to help elementary schools keep up their reading programs.

To receive layoff notices, in order of reverse seniority, are about 45 temporary teachers, 40 regular teachers, 15 special education teachers, 12 to 15 special education support workers such as psychologists and speech therapists and teachers in the elementary school enrichment program and the six reading teachers.

Pilot Raps Airline

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A Pacific Southwest Airlines pilot has resigned after accusing the airline of unsafe flight crew scheduling which he said caused the Sept. 25, 1978 midair collision that claimed 144 lives. Capt. Bob Chapman, a 14-year PSA veteran, said Tuesday the airline does not allow its flight crew members adequate rest periods.

Teens Injured As Newport Truck Flips

Two teen-agers are recovering in Hoag Hospital from injuries they suffered Tuesday afternoon when the light pickup truck in which they were riding went out of control and flipped over on Irvine Avenue near Santa Isabel.

Paul Lewis Deguglielmo, 17, and Debbie Diblasi, 14, both of Irvine are in fair and good condition respectively in Hoag Hospital.

Robin ten Brummeler, 14, and Milly Starich, 11, both of Irvine, were treated and released from Costa Mesa Memorial Hospital.

Landing Scary

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — An Eastern Airlines jet carrying 86 persons landed here almost 80 minutes late after a sensor light failed, forcing officials to make visual checks to make sure the aircraft's landing gear was down. The DC-9 was forced into a holding pattern Tuesday until the pilot was assured the gear was locked.

CINCINNATI (AP) — A gunman commandeered a parked Greyhound bus and killed one person today before he was overpowered by other hostages and taken into custody, police said.

Police said Walter C. Atkins, 32, of St. Louis was arrested and taken to General Hospital.

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A dozen attackers shot their way into a reception at the embassy of the Dominican Republic today, wounding the U.S. ambassador and taking several diplomats hostage, police said.

One Colombian soldier was reported killed by the raiders, apparently leftist guerrillas, and at least five persons outside the embassy were reported wounded.

The American ambassador, Diego C. Asencio, was shot three times and was taken to Bogota's military hospital, a policeman near the besieged embassy told the radio station Caracol.

Mortgage Rate 14½ Percent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The nation's largest thrift lender has joined the largest federally chartered savings and loan institution in raising home mortgage rates to 14½ percent.

The increases by Home Savings & Loan Association and California Federal Savings reflected a record-breaking 13.629 percent rate paid for six-month Treasury Bills in Monday's auction, but lenders said funds available for mortgage were still tight.

The increase to 14½ percent followed the lead set Monday by Glendale Federal, Great Western Savings & Loan and American Savings.

SOUTH ORANGE COUNTY FLOOD VICTIMS APPLY FOR RELIEF IN LAGUNA BEACH
City Officials Dispense Information on Federal Loans, Grants, Benefits

Storm Victims Set Back

Laguna-based Aid Center Tries to Help

By JODI CADENHEAD
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Two weeks ago Shirley Kellogg was vacationing in Mexico, never dreaming that the rash of rains pounding the coast had crushed the roof of her Dana Point home.

Tuesday afternoon she was at the Disaster Assistance Center in Laguna Beach along with 80 other countians, hoping for state or federal aid to repair the roof resting on her bedroom floor.

Clutching a handful of state and federal forms, she estimates the damage to her home at $20,000. "Oh, it's not too bad. I can live in the back part."

Like many of the more than 200 flood victims who have poured into the center since Monday afternoon, Mrs. Kellogg had no flood insurance. Her homeowners insurance was canceled last July, she said, after her dog chewed up a neighbor's carpet.

She hopes to know by April 12, whether she qualifies for a federal disaster assistance loan at 3 percent.

Laguna Beach resident Maxine Pardee compares living in her home now, to living in a studio apartment since flooding forced her to move all of her belongings into a small corner of her living room.

"I had a premonition that something like this would happen. So I took out flood insurance," she laments. "But I didn't become eligible until five days after the flood."

Help may be available to both women, since the federal Disaster Assistance Administration and the state Emergency services office opened a center at Laguna Beach Boys Club, 1085 Laguna Canyon Road. The center will remain open until at least Sunday. It opens daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. through Saturday, and 1 to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Information is available on federal loans, state grants, unemployment assistance, social security benefits, federal tax assistance, temporary housing, and legal aid.

Most of the storm victims flooding the center have been from Laguna Beach, San Clemente, Orange, Huntington Beach, Newport Beach and Dana Point.

Damage to county property has been estimated at $5 million, according to the county Environmental Management Agency. No figure has been given yet for storm damage to private property.

NY Man Shot By Arrow

NEW YORK (AP) — A Brooklyn man was shot in the back with an arrow today by a bowman wearing a green, hooded sweater who jumped from a van and then sped off after the attack, police said.

The target of the attack was Alex Hudson, 36, police said. He was listed in critical but stable condition at Brooklyn Jewish Hospital where the arrow was removed.

There was no immediate information on what the bowman's motive may have been. But Transit Authority police said they were arranging protection for the hospitalized Hudson until more was learned.

PCP Actions Told

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Violent suspects under the influence of PCP are often oblivious to pain and have extraordinary strength, a behavioral psychologist said in an appearance for the Los Angeles County Deputy Sheriff's Association.

Fleecing Suspect Guilty on Drug Rap

South Laguna resident Michael Newman, facing multiple charges of fleecing individuals out of more than $300,000 in confidence schemes, has been sentenced to 180 days in Orange County Jail after pleading guilty to a cocaine possession charge.

Newman received the sentence Monday after entering the plea before Orange County Superior Court Judge Everett Dickey. Imposition of the sentence was stayed pending resolution of other court cases now pending against Newman, of 14 N. Stonington Road, in the Three Arch Bay private enclave.

A codefendant in the case, Christine Awada, 30, of Newport Beach, was fined $20,000 by Judge Dickey.

Newman and his female companion were alleged to have set up an attempt to sell one ounce of cocaine to an undercover Costa Mesa police officer.

Newman currently is facing charges in Orange County Superior Court, Los Angeles County Superior Court and U.S. District Court in Los Angeles over his alleged involvement in confidence schemes in which individuals lost money in rigged gambling games and loan procurement arrangements.

Absence of Sailors Stuns San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The day after the carrier Kitty Hawk and her support ships docked, spilling thousands of Navy men ashore for the first time in months, this city was wondering: Where have all the sailors gone?

At Broadway's bars and tawdry tattoo shops it's an amazing sight. So quiet. No sailors.

The Kitty Hawk alone carried 5,000 sailors into port Monday after an interminable nine months at sea, and they looked just like the gobs who since the 1930s have hit downtown San Diego with a lusty roar. But they are not the same.

In addition to the Kitty Hawk crew, thousands of other sailors left her support ships, which are just back from extended duty that included a tense vigil in the Persian Gulf following Iranian militants' takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Asked a streetwalker: "Where are all the boys?"

Undercover vice officer Lew Oberlies and his partner expected to haul in sailors all night. They checked 28 lower-downtown saloons but found only one drunk, a civilian. Asked Oberlies: "Where the hell are they all?" Police vice Lt. Dave Worden said "an influx of out-of-town girls with good intelligence network" arrived with the carrier's arrival but there were only two prostituition arrests. The Shore Patrol said its men found few sailors in town although shore leave was reported granted routinely and encountered hardly any problems. An ex-sailor, an older man, said there is a logical explanation in these times. "They're more self-disciplined than the old salts," he said.

Memorial Services Slated for Lagunan

Memorial services are scheduled March 8 for Orange County educator, writer, poet and critic David Curtis, 61, who died of a heart attack Feb. 2 in Bremen, Germany.

Mr. Curtis, who wrote for the Los Angeles Times, Christian Science Monitor and other publications, taught English and literature at Corona del Mar High School from 1959 until his departure for Germany last fall.

He had been awarded a Fulbright academic exchange to Bremen where he taught until his death.

Mr. Curtis, who also taught at UCI, Saddleback College and Orange Coast College was a resident of Laguna Beach since 1959.

Graduated Cum Laude with a bachelor of science degree from Columbia University, he earned master's degrees in education and English from USC and UCI.

He served during World War II in the China-Burma-India theater as a chief warrant officer.

Mr. Curtis is survived by his wife Annelore and two sons, Henry, of Los Angeles, and Charles, of New York.

Services are scheduled for 2 p.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 1190 Morningside Drive, Laguna Beach.

Disaster Systems Studied

Orange County supervisors stopped short of calling the county's emergency planning a disaster, but they did call Tuesday for a special committee to "review and update" those plans.

Supervisors also directed emergency plan coordinators to be able to prepare daily briefings during states of emergency.

Presently, a four-member team handles emergency preparations for the county. There is also an emergency council that includes major county department heads.

It was during last week's storm-caused state of disaster that Supervisor Harriett Wieder said she noticed "several gaps in our emergency system."

Mrs. Wieder, former mayor of Huntington Beach, was the supervisor most critical of the present emergency system.

She quoted a letter from Huntington Beach's emergency coordinator, George Thyden, in which he criticized the county's system.

"Disaster preparedness in the county is in a poor state overall," Thyden said in the letter to supervisors.

He called emergency coordination among the cities and the county "a failure."

But General Services Agency Director Tom Egan lauded the county's response to the storm problems. "The fact that the cities are not coordinated is of their own doing," he said.

Mrs. Wieder said she watered down her original list of recommendations to upgrade the emergency system in deference to the committee idea proposed by Philip Anthony.

The present disaster procedures, which include emergency telephone numbers, have had minimal updating since 1972, she asserted.

They are so outdated, she added, that when she was called in on a county holiday to sign the declaration of local emergency, officials even had her telephone number wrong.

Dr. Ehling Heads County Health Unit

Dr. Rex Ehling, 49, was appointed Tuesday as Orange County health officer by unanimous vote of the board of supervisors.

Ehling, who has been acting health officer since last October, officially takes over the county's top medical post March 7 at an annual salary of $54,990.

Ehling joined the county's Human Services Agency two years ago. Before that, the Irvine resident held other medical positions in Arizona and California and with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Chicago and Washington.

Ehling replaces Dr. Morton Nelson, who resigned last year after criticizing "bureaucratic red tape" in the county agency.

RONALD AND NANCY REAGAN REJOICE IN VICTORY
Former California Governor Swamps Rival Bush

Reagan Revitalized By Primary Win

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — After purging his top command and punishing his chief GOP rival with a runaway victory, Ronald Reagan promises to campaign just as he did in New Hampshire, affording the voters "an opportunity to question and talk."

Reagan, once criticized as an aloof and reluctant candidate, swamped former U.N. Ambassador George Bush and the rest of the Republican pack Tuesday with 50 percent of the vote in the Granit State's primary.

But the former California governor told The Associated Press it will take "several primaries yet before the race for the Republican presidential nomination settles down to even two contenders.

KENNEDY EXPERIENCES THRILL OF DEFEAT—A4

"When you get into the South, you may get a better indication of that," Reagan said in an interview Tuesday night.

He said today he was surprised by the size of his triumph.

"I don't know how to explain it," he said. "I was not prepared for the margin that we had."

Next Tuesday, two more New England states, Massachusetts and Vermont, hold presidential primaries. The following week, the race shifts into the South with contests in South Carolina on March 8 and Georgia, Alabama and Florida on March 11.

Here are the results of the primary:

	Votes	Percent	Delegates
Reagan	12,940	[illegible]	[illegible]
Bush	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Baker	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Anderson	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Crane	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Connally	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Dole	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Ford (write-in)	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

The size of Reagan's victory became clear a few hours after the candidate abruptly replaced the top ranks of his campaign staff.

Forced to resign was John Sears, Reagan's campaign manager and a longtime target of many conservative backers. Sears was replaced by William Casey, a former Securities and Exchange Commission chairman who has been active in GOP presidential campaigns 30 years.

The results here gave Reagan a victory far larger than he dared predict over Bush, who emerged in Iowa as the former film star's chief contender for the nomination.

With all of the vote counted, Reagan had 50 percent to 23 percent for Bush, 13 for Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee and 10 for Rep. John Anderson of Illinois.

Sears was manager of Reagan's bid to unseat incumbent Gerald Ford in 1976, a campaign that came within a whisker of success. His departure was no surprise, but the timing was startling.

Asked why Sears' ouster wasn't delayed until after the New Hampshire primary, one campaign source, who insisted on anonymity, said, "If we won, the governor felt we would look ungrateful. If we lost, we would look desperate."

Reagan said in the interview that he had great respect for Sears "and his strategic ability." But a disagreement over campaign organization led to the ouster, he explained.

Sears, whose home is in McLean, Va., could not be reached for comment.

FAKE FAKES
flatter the diamond

If imitation is, indeed, the sincerest form of flattery, then the diamond is among the most flattered of all substances. Over the centuries, man has tried all kinds of ways to cheat mother nature by producing synthetic or fake materials that look like diamonds. But the hardness and refractive qualities of the diamond have been hard to copy. The refractive quality is what gives the diamond its own unique "glitter." In recent years, cubic zirconia has been hailed as the newest pretender to the diamond's throne as king of all mineral substances. Cubic zirconia was "invented" by a Russian, who claims that what he is producing is really a synthetic or real zirconia which, occurs in nature. In other words, he might be said to be producing a fake copy of a real substance which is almost like a diamond. Cubic zirconia is, indeed, a glittering material, refracting ALMOST as much light as a diamond. But the diamond still reigns supreme as the most glittering of all.

Make a rare moment last a lifetime with a rare gift.

Up in the Air

HERE, THERE, EVERYWHERE: World Airways officials have just come up with a new way to call a press conference. They mail it to you.

The airline people call this a Do-It-Yourself press conference. A box arrives on your desk. The box contains the usual press releases, photographs and assorted facts sheets.

But it also contains a name tag, small bottles of bourbon and gin, a larger bottle of burgundy, glass, swizzle stick, napkin and a bag of Macadamia nuts.

Also, a tape recorder cassette.

Political Reform Horse as Envisioned by Lawmakers' Committee

some nuts and listen to the press conference as time permits.

THOUGHTFULLY, THEY EVEN provided a package of Alka-Seltzer for the post-press conference blahs.

Unthoughtfully, the person who packed the instant press conference that arrived at this sterling journal forgot to include a key ingredient — the tape cassette.

Maybe he'd been sampling some of the other liquid goods that were included.

Maybe he should have kept the Alka-Seltzer.

NOW THAT WE'VE ALL survived the tumult of the New Hampshire primaries, did you know that the 12th president of the United States was born in Orange County? That was "Old Rough and Ready," hero of the Mexican War, Zachary Taylor.

Of course his birthplace was Orange County, Virginia.

You are left to wonder how a man named Zachary would make out today running against people named Teddy and Jimmy or Ronnie and Jerry . . .

* * *

RIGHT NOW, OUR state lawmakers are pondering how they'll reshuffle our congressional districts after the 1980 census is completed. Along comes this thoughtful fellow, Assemblyman Robert Naylor, the Republican from up north at Menlo Park.

Naylor introduced a bill that would have established an independent commission to set the congressional district lines. Naylor's thought was that it's a clear conflict of interest having the lawmakers themselves mess with district boundaries.

Isn't that a good idea? Sure.

The measure got its first hearing just the other day before members of the Assembly's elections and reapportionment committee.

They killed the bill.

So much for reform

None Die In Fiery Jetliner

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A Taiwanese jetliner caught fire and was rocked by an explosion today after landing at Manila's international airport, but the airline said all but three of the 135 passengers aboard were known to have survived. A witness said an engine fell off just before the Boeing 707 touched down.

A stewardess was credited with saving lives by staying inside the plane although her arms and legs were severely burned.

THREE PERSONS WERE listed as missing. The chief of the Manila rescue center said because no bodies were found on the plane, officials speculated that the three may have survived but did not report to rescue workers.

China Air Lines said 93 of the passengers were Taiwanese, mostly tourists, and seven were Americans. The airline identified the Americans as Maxine Ambrogio, S. Coffman, J. Kamaras, Dwain Ray, L. Ropka, S. L. Way and Walter Williamson. No ages or hometowns were given.

THE AIRLINE'S MANAGER said 74 of the 124 passengers were treated for slight injuries and 37 passengers and four crew members were hospitalized, mainly for treatment of severe burns.

Witnesses said the four-engine 707 landed nose down, bounced at least twice, then skidded hundreds of yards before it stopped in front of the airport terminal and caught fire. The explosion followed.

Nuke Plant Flare-up Controlled

CRYSTAL RIVER, Fla. (AP) — New safety procedures ordered after last year's Three Mile Island nuclear accident "worked perfectly" when controls went awry and shut down a similar plant on the Gulf Coast, briefly blacking out parts of central Florida, utility officials say.

Emergency safety devices closed Florida Power Corp.'s Crystal River generator Tuesday and dumped 43,000 gallons of radioactive water on the reactor floor after the plant's control system lost power, a company spokesman said.

"THERE WAS NO DAMAGE to the reactor, no damage to the fuel rods, and no radiation released anywhere," said spokesman Bob South.

A Class B emergency — the second most serious by federal description — was declared shortly after the shutdown but was called off a few hours later.

By late Tuesday, normal conditions prevailed in the reactor coolant system and radiation inside the reactor building was at "the normal operating level," Florida Power spokesman Tracy Smith said.

Thrill of Defeat?

Teddy Claims 'Victory'

BOSTON (AP) — Though Sen. Edward M. Kennedy claims to know the thrill of defeat after finishing second once again, his top strategist says "a considerable number of changes" are in order to buoy a campaign that found thin ice in New Hampshire.

"We got almost 40 percent of the vote," Kennedy told several hundred supporters Tuesday night after absorbing his third straight loss at President Carter's hands.

"Four years ago, Jimmy Carter got 28 percent of the vote and he claimed victory (in New Hampshire) and we're claiming victory tonight." Nowhere in his brief speech did Kennedy concede the president's triumph.

ACTUALLY, THE FINAL results showed Kennedy with 38 percent, Carter with 49. Carter's edge was magnified by the fact that it came in a neighboring state to Kennedy's native Massachusetts.

Kennedy, who was to resume campaigning today in Massachusetts and Alabama, vowed to stay in the race and said he would continue to stress economic issues.

Kennedy is the heavy favorite to defeat Carter in the Massachusetts primary election next Tuesday. A substantial victory there would likely give Kennedy a temporary lead in Democratic convention delegates as well as break a string of losses that includes New Hampshire and caucuses in Iowa and Maine.

DESPITE KENNEDY'S defiant rhetoric, his brother-in-law and campaign manager, Stephen Smith, said: "We'll be making a considerable number of changes in the coming days" in both personnel and strategy. He declined to be more specific.

Smith also said that Kennedy's next "major effort" after Massachusetts will come in the Illinois primary, where 169 delegates are at stake on March 18. That means the senator is bypassing primaries in two weeks in Florida, Alabama and Georgia, where a total of 208 delegates are at stake in the president's native South.

Here are the final delegate allocations in the primary. With all 299 precincts reporting:

Carter	10
Kennedy	9
Brown	0

Shaky Claim

Thefts Told By Millionaire

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Millionaire builder Leroy B. Malouf, safe from prosecution because the statute of limitations is up, says he confessed to a dozen burglaries that netted $400,000 in jewelry "to make peace with God."

Rodger Golston, chief deputy Maricopa County attorney, said Tuesday he agreed not to try to press charges in the 1972 and 1973 burglaries, for which the statute of limitations is five years.

"I was convinced that the jewelry could not be recovered unless we agreed," Golston said. "The police had no clues. I felt it important that the victims regain their property. There was really nothing we could do in the way of prosecution anyway."

May Release Due Hostages?

By The Associated Press

A top Iranian official said today the fate of the American hostages in Tehran will not be decided by Iran's new Parliament until May at the earliest.

Mohammed Beheshti, first secretary of the ruling Revolutionary Council, said it would be that long — 10 weeks — before the Majlis, or parliament, would be sufficiently organized to deal with the issue. The two rounds of elections for the Parliament will be completed April 3.

Iranian revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said last weekend it would be up to the Parliament to decide whether to release the approximately 50 hostages at the occupied U.S. Embassy. Beheshti, speaking with reporters, conceded that a new ruling by Khomeini could quickly change the situation.

School Choices 'Cruel'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Integration of the city school system can best be achieved by adoption of a metropolitan plan, a court-appointed expert said as the plaintiffs opened their presentation Tuesday in the school integration case.

"There is no way to desegregate this city being fair to everyone All the choices are cruel," said Dr. Gary Orfield, an associate professor of political science at the University of Illinois, noting that any integration plan would have its critics.

Near-nude Dancing Faces Fremont Ban

FREMONT (AP) — After a heated public hearing exposing the good and bad side of male strippers, city council members have voted unanimously to draft an ordinance banning near-nude dancing – both male and female – in this suburban city.

Male strip acts, which prompted the hearing, were labeled everything from "prostitution" to "good clean fun" during Tuesday's two-hour hearing, attended by about 200 persons. The focus of the debate on men in bikini underwear gyrating before all-female audiences quickly changed to basic moral issues.

A STREAM OF CLERGYMEN, outraged citizens and strip act customers addressed the council, either urging the five members to save the city from sin or to keep its nose out of the private entertainment of adults.

The council agreed to draft an ordinance banning semi-nude dancing that would also declare support for the "high moral standards" of the city.

Council candidate Jan Stillwell said the effects of topless dancing are "devastating."

"WE GOT RID OF THE MASSAGE parlors," she said. "We shouldn't have too hard a time getting rid of this."

Earlier this month, semi-nude men began bumping and grinding at Harlow's, a popular disco in Fremont. Last week, they started doing the same thing at The Rendevous.

Harlow's manager Joe Faria said about 400 enthusiastic women, mostly in their 30s and 40s, have crowded into his club each Monday and Tuesday the last three weeks. Men aren't allowed inside once the strippers start shedding thieir garments.

"THE WOMEN COME IN EARLY and get a table, then they go shopping," said Faria. "I'm sold out by six o'clock. I do more business than on New Year's Eve, which usually is the biggest night of the year."

Retailer Faces Charges

Sears Indicted in 'Kickbacks' Conspiracy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sears, Roebuck and Co. faces federal grand jury charges of conspiracy and of making false statements to U.S. Customs officials in an alleged nine-year scheme to conceal $1.1 million in rebates from a Japanese television set manufacturer.

The indictment against the nation's largest retailer was issued Tuesday by a federal grand jury sitting in Los Angeles. It was the first of a series of true bills expected out of grand juries in Los Angeles and elsewhere that have been conducting a year-long probe of so-called "dumping" of Japanese television sets on U.S. markets.

SUCH ACTIONS MAY HAVE resulted in millions of dollars in unpaid customs duties by American retailers.

Dumping is the sale of foreign-made items in the U.S. at prices below those in the producing country. While the practice is not illegal, U.S. Customs requires that the importing retailer pay duties on the difference between the domestic and overseas retail price.

Such laws are designed to protect U.S. manufacturers and laborers from what is seen as unfair competition from cheap foreign imports.

THE INDICTMENT CHARGES Sears with understating on Customs forms the retail price in Japan of the television sets and of paying kickbacks to Japanese manufacturers.

Thus, the indictment alleges, Sears avoided paying Customs duties by making false declarations that did not disclose "kickbacks, rebates and credits privately arranged between Sears" and others.

On five occasions between June 1968 and August 1972, the indictment says, Sears received checks totaling more than $1.1 million from a Japanese television set manufacturer. The indictment alleges the retailer filed false Customs statements on 12 occasions in 1974 and 1975.

THE GRAND JURY CHARGES that Sears officials began top-level meetings in its Chicago headquarters around April 1966 to arrange importation of the Japanese sets. Various telegrams and ultimately a "memorandum of mutual intentions" was sent to the unidentified Japanese manufacturer.

Two Assaults Bring Pickets

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Parents picketed Pacoima Elementary School today to protest the school's handling of two recent assaults on school girls, and following the release of a report that an average of almost one sex crime a day occurs at district schools.

According to the Los Angeles school district report, 56 sex crimes were committed against students, most of them female, during the approximately 70 school days between Sept. 12 and Dec. 21.

ABOUT 60 PARENTS showed up at the Pacoima school, located in the northern tip of the city, said parents' spokeswoman Rose Castaneda.

Ms. Castaneda said parents are demanding the resignation of Principal Herbert Kanigher and are asking that children be kept out of school until he resigns.

"WE UNDERSTAND THERE is no funding for increased security," she said. "We aren't asking for more guards. We want a chance to do it ourselves. We will volunteer to watch the bathrooms and watch the halls."

The protest was sparked by two assaults on girls at the school. One of the incidents, on Jan. 30, was first termed an attempted rape but has since been reclassified as battery.

The other involved the sexual molestation of a 6-year-old girl, allegedly by a junior high school student, on Feb. 15.

Boycott Opponent On Wrong Track

In the afterglow of the Winter Olympics, it's understandable that many people might be thinking how nice it would be if the young athletes of the world could get together again this summer for a repeat of the festivities.

Unfortunately, the situation that brought about the Moscow Olympics boycott plan has not changed a bit.

But now we have an Orange Coast College professor, sports psychologist Richard Lister, trying to organize opposition to the summer Olympics boycott on grounds the athletes who trained for the games are suffering "emotional damage." He seems to feel this can only be cured by calling the games back on.

Of course it is disappointing to work hard toward a goal and then have that goal evaporate. It happened to the athletes who had trained for the games that should have taken place during two world wars.

If the professor believes that getting the athletes together in Moscow would contribute to world peace, his concern for his specialty must have dimmed his comprehension of the world scene.

To the Russians, lifting the boycott would simply mean that their military adventurism is condoned and they can go right ahead and collect their propaganda prize. And it's a safe bet the Russian people will be well protected from the visitors. So much for contributing to peace.

If Lister is truly concerned about the emotional vulnerability of the athletes, he could perhaps be trying to help them cope with their disappointment rather than encouraging them to wallow in it.

S1 Grandson Still Bad

The effort to consolidate and redefine the 3,000-plus laws in the federal Criminal Code has been going on for more than a decade.

The third major bill attempting to overhaul the code is heading for a Senate floor vote — and it's just about as dangerous to the average citizen's freedom as its predecessors.

The first effort, Senate Bill 1, sank after the Justice Department, at the behest of President Nixon and then Attorney General John Mitchell, demanded the insertion of a series of provisions, which, in the eyes of Constitutionalist Sen. Sam Ervin, would have created "a police state."

Sen. Edward Kennedy, as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, sponsored the next effort and produced Senate Bill 1437, informally known as Son of S1. It passed the Senate but foundered in the House, where it was considered almost as objectionable as the first measure.

Now we have the Grandson of S1, Senate Bill 1722, with Kennedy again the principal sponsor. And the defects are still there.

The 440-page document again tilts power away from the people and into the hands of the federal government.

It would, among other things:

— Permit judges to deny bail and confine accused persons prior to their trial, a violation of the "innocent until proved guilty" concept.

— Permit federal prosecutors to appeal a sentence they regard as too light, in violation of the Constitutional protection against double jeopardy.

— Provide federal penalties for the participants in a variety of protests and demonstrations, even peaceful demonstrations involving no more than 10 persons, and for the organizers of such demonstrations, even if the demonstration doesn't take place.

— Permit the prosecution of federal employees who reveal wrongdoing within the government, and of reporters who receive such information.

— Permit the prosecution of reporters who refuse to disclose news sources, who disclose "unauthorized" information given by a government official, or who interview demonstrators and refuse to turn over their notes to the police.

— Make it a crime to publish information that might be "to the advantage of a foreign nation" (whatever that means) or to publish news of a threat to commit violence — as a plane hijacking — if the threat is intended to "alarm" another person.

The list goes on.

Meanwhile in the House, a rival and more moderate criminal code revision bill is in the works, but the Justice Department already has complained it pays too much attention to civil liberties and promised to oppose it unless it is brought more in line with the Senate bill.

More practical members of Congress have been arguing for some time that the omnibus approach to recodifying federal criminal law simply will not work. They insist, with considerable logic, that the task can best be accomplished on a step-by-step basis, eliminating, modifying, tightening, or updating one segment of the code at a time.

If this process had been started 10 years ago, the Criminal Code already would be in better shape and a great deal of time and effort would have been spared.

The Grandson of S1 should be laid to rest in its entirety and the step-by-step process initiated promptly.

The Risk of Being an American

WASHINGTON — The tragic plight of American hostages held by foreign militants, most dramatically demonstrated by the months-long captivity of our embassy personnel in Tehran, has raised a serious question that Congress and the White House have so far failed to give serious attention to: How can American citizens abroad be protected from the violent whims of every anti-government militant group that comes along?

The United States' status as the most powerful nation in the world, far from serving as a protective umbrella for our citizens, has made them peculiarly vulnerable to the intrigues of desperate revolutionaries, who see a chance to use U.S. wealth and power for their own political goals.

The U.S. Embassy seizure in Tehran, and the humiliating spectacle of our country thwarted by an irresponsible collection of radical monomaniacs, made one thing depressingly clear: Our government is pitifully unprepared to deal with a type of situation that has been recurring more and more often in recent years.

White House and State Department policy advisers go their feckless way, making decisions that affect the lives and safety of Americans abroad without, apparently, giving a thought to the predicament they may be putting these citizens in.

THUS EVERY American stationed overseas, whether government employee or private citizen, has been transformed into a front-line soldier whose well-being depends on the latest brainstorm of the global strategists in Washington. It is not a role these Americans volunteered to play.

Having failed to protect our people overseas, the least the government can do is offer some token that the loyalty and dedication shown by our hostages in an impossible situation is appreciated by the American public.

I call upon Congress to establish a Congressional Certificate of Courage, to be awarded to every American hostage who has suffered the nightmare of captivity simply because he or she was an American. It would be little enough recognition for their individual ordeals.

I'VE HAD personal experience with two of the most agonizing and drawn-out hostage negotiations of recent years. I negotiated with leftist Venezuelan guerrillas who held Ohio business executive Bill Niehous captive in the jungle for more than 40 months. After the guerrillas cut off contact with Niehous' employer, Owens-Illinois, they were negotiating secretly with me for his release when he was rescued by a lucky chance last June.

More recently, I succeeded in obtaining the ransomed liberation of Richard Starr, a 32-year-old Peace Corps botanist, after six months of difficult negotiations with the Colombian terrorists who had held him captive for three years in the Andean wilderness.

My associate Jack Mitchell delivered the privately raised $250,000 ransom to intermediaries for the Revolutionary Armed Command of Colombia. Four days after a clandestine ransom exchange, a tired but grateful Starr was brought to Mitchell's hotel in the Colombian city of Neiva.

TO MY DISMAY, I discovered a double standard in the treatment accorded the families of American hostages abroad. While the publicity surrounding the U.S. Embassy captives in Tehran earned their families "red carpet" treatment by Washington officialdom, the Niehous and Starr families often had trouble even getting basic information on their loved ones' plights.

Our government's firm policy against ransom negotiations is a wise way of discouraging international blackmail. But surely it's not too much to ask that our bureaucrats provide what sympathy and support they can to the anxious families of every American hostage.

The most worthwhile step the government could take, of course, would be to provide the needed ounce of prevention that would minimize the likelihood of future hostage situations. Congress should launch an immediate investigation of the security lapses and bureaucratic snafus that endangered our fellow citizens overseas and lengthened the time they spent in captivity.

PLAYING GAMES: The Soviet invasion of Afghanistan — and the Carter administration's Olympic view of it — has given increased support to the idea of a permanent site for the Olympic Games in Greece.

But the International Olympic Committee has shown a certain hostility to the notion of returning the games to their historic site. Though the Greeks have publicly offered a permanent home for the summer games on at least two occasions since the Soviet invasion, not to mention a previous offer after the Montreal games in 1976, the IOC is pretending not to hear.

"WE HAD A report from somebody in Greece that Greece was not interested," an IOC member told my reporter Scott Benarde without saying whether the "somebody in Greece" was a government official or an Athens cab driver. The truth is, the Greek government has never rejected the idea of acting as permanent host to the games.

One source who has observed the IOC's shenanigans for many years suggested that the proposal of a permanent site in Greece constitutes a threat to the IOC members. "A permanent site would deprive the IOC of the authority to designate which country will be host," he explained. "It would deprive them of their junkets and meetings and a variety of their adventures."

An IOC spokesman said the latest Greek proposal "was heard and is being considered." But it may take a while: No one has yet been named to the five-member panel the IOC agreed to set up to look into the matter.

Do-nothing Energy Commission a Setback

This would be a funny story if it didn't so starkly reveal the total and ridiculous uselessness of the State Energy Commission. This agency, created in 1974 as the State Energy Resources, Conservation and Development Commission, for the purpose of finding new sources of energy, has been spending more than $20 million annually and Gov. Jerry Brown has proposed an 80 percent increase in its budget. The money is derived from a surtax on the utility bills of all users as well as other federal and state taxes.

Instead of developing any new sources, it has impeded the development of such by privately owned, as well as publicly owned, utility companies and brought industrial development to a near standstill and imperiled the comforts and pleasure of the public by creating a situation wherein critical power shortages are imminent.

Only recently it proposed a 50 percent surtax on a gallon of gasoline as a means of conserving energy thus disclosing it was more interested in making Californians do without than aiding the oil companies in drilling, refining and selling more oil.

About the only purpose the commission has served is to provide some high salaried positions to payroll some of Gov. Brown's political campaign workers while they planned his presidential campaign at the taxpayers expense.

THE PROOF that the commission hasn't done anything about developing new energy sources is self-evident. But proof that it doesn't know what to do arises in a recent request it made to a private organization.

It seems that with the advent of gasoline shortages the California Automobile Association (the AAA club) has been issuing weekly reports on the availability of gasoline, community by community, around the state for the benefit of the club's members but available to any motorist.

The other day the club was surprised by inquiries from the Energy Commission. It was seeking the details on how the club obtained its information and indicated they had in mind preparing the same kind of a report for public dissemination at the taxpayers' expense.

"BUT," said a spokesman, "we didn't feel like giving it to them because we could see no reason for a state agency to duplicate something that is being done by a private organization at no expense to the taxpayer."

To which it should be said "Bravo" for the AAA in refusing to aid a state agency in so idiotic and wasteful an undertaking. But the incident exposes how little the Energy Commission has to do that it seeks to duplicate a service already being provided by a private organization and draws the conclusion that the commission is an utter failure.

It is no whimsy that Senator Al Alquist, one of the co-authors of the legislation creating the commission, now proposes its abolition or that Senator Barry Keene authored a bill to do away with the commission.

"AS OF NOW," Keene said, "California has no overall energy policy."

Keene, however, would replace the commission with a new "department" accountable to the governor. "The present situation," he said, "is that Gov. Jerry Brown can say anything he wants about the energy problems without taking the responsibility for what he says because the commission is an independent agency."

If it isn't abolished by the Legislature one way or another the least that could be done is change its name to "Anti-Energy Commission" and admit the truth that its actions have done nothing to aid in the development of energy but instead served to block all development of any source, new or existing.

A Lesson for Today From Litigious Athenians

Politicians, preachers and propagandists of all sorts are forever pointing their fingers at ancient Rome and informing us how and why it "fell." The fall of Rome has been attributed to everything from excessive taxation to deficient diet — depending upon what particular ax the speaker happens to be grinding.

All these warnings, however, ignore a much more pertinent example for us — and that is the decline and disintegration of ancient Athens, a democracy with which we have far more in common than with the autocratic Roman regime.

Athens went to pieces, it is generally agreed by historians of that period, largely because its free citizens turned into the most quarrelsome and litigious people ever known to man. They ceased their bickering only in periods of war, and then barely.

THE ATHENIANS went to court over everything, spending more time and energy in fruitless arguments and capricious lawsuits than in producing, developing, or defending their city-state. By the time they were knocked over, they were nearly unconscious from internal feuding.

There seem to be some definite, and ominous, signs that modern-day America is taking the same contentious route. The other day I read about a tennis player who sued his opponent for injuring him in the eye with a ball during a friendly set. The appeals court had the sense to uphold the judge who had initially dismissed the suit.

This is only one — and by no means the most extreme — of tens of thousands of such cases that increasingly clutter our courts annually, as more and more Americans invoke the law to resolve some of the most frivolous, vain and greedy claims that can be imagined. (The connivance of motorists to rip off insurance companies alone mounts into the billions.)

From the U.S. Supreme Court down — all the way down — calendars are jammed with claimants suing other people or companies under the most strained, far-fetched and bizarre interpretations of their constitutional rights. There is hardly time or space to prosecute criminal cases.

The new "consumerism," healthful as it may turn out to be in the long run, has given fresh impetus to a throng of such suits, in which manufacturers and sellers are threatened with fine or punishment for the slightest technical infractions, which may be as much the result of conflicting government regulations as of their own negligence or cupidity.

CERTAINLY the consumer has every right to be protected, and to the full and prompt redress of his legitimate grievances, but this right is easily abused and distorted by turning the courts into mere collection agencies. Eventually, as folk-wisdom has long known and told us, the only ones to profit from this proliferation of suits and counter-suits will be the lawyers.

Boyd/Dreams

By L.M. BOYD

Your dreams, it's now believed, are unique to you. Like psychological fingerprints. A lot of people may dream of falling, but each handles each dream in an individual way. The details are different. Researchers claim they've learned enough by now to match up the unsigned written descriptions of dreams with the personalities of the dreamers.

That highly popular board game known as Monopoly is played in translation all over Western Europe. You recall the property on it named Marvin Gardens? In Germany, it's Goethestrasse. In France, it's Rue Lafayette. In England, it's Piccadilly. And in Spain, it's Plaza de Espana.

Noted Henry Ford: "You can't build a reputation on what you're going to do."

Behind in Work, Secretary Canned

MOLINE, Ill (AP) — Jodi Stutz says she had no idea that when she put her bare bottom on the Xerox machine, she was putting her job on the line.

"I can't believe I got fired over this," she said Tuesday. "I just can't believe it "

MISS STUTZ, a 21-year-old secretary, said that one night after work last month at Deere & Co. she decided to christen the copying machine on the floor by sneaking into the Xerox room and making a picture of her bottom.

"A lot of people were taking pictures of their hands and their faces and fooling around," she said. "So I decided I would take a picture of my bottom, thinking it would be kind of fun just to see what it would look like."

While another secretary stood watch at the door, Miss Stutz pulled down her pants, hopped up on the machine and pushed the "Print" button.

"IT WAS VERY, very funny," she said, giggling. "It borderlined on crude, maybe, but it was funny."

Her superiors, however, didn't think so. Word got around after Miss Stutz showed friends in the office her copy.

She said that her boss, Jack Fritts, asked her about rumors that she had thrown a party in the Xerox room, that three men helped her get undressed and then guarded the door, that she sent copies of her rear as an invitation to a birthday party.

She said she told him all those rumors were false, but when he asked if she had, in a moment of indiscretion, copied her bottom, she lied.

JIM COOGAN, Deere director of advertising, then reportedly got the secretary who had stood watch to confess and Miss Stutz was called on the carpet.

"They said something like it wasn't in the company's best interest to make a copy of my bottom," she said. "Of course, they never came right out and said it. They were too embarrassed to say what the incident was, but we all knew."

She said she expected a reprimand, but instead she was given two options — quit or be fired.

"I talked to them a long time to get them to change their mind or at least put me on probation," said Miss Stutz, who is working as a waitress. "My work record was excellent and they even admitted it was. I told them I was really sorry about it and everything."

A Deere spokesman declined comment.

County Transit Status 'Desperate'

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Building a San Joaquin Hills transportation corridor, widening all of Orange County's freeways and Laguna Canyon Road and expanding Pacific Coast Highway are essential to keep traffic moving during the next 15 years, the chairman of the Orange County Transportation Commission said Tuesday.

These were among the topics discussed by Al Hollinden at a lunch meeting of the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce transportation committee at the Costa Mesa Golf and Country Club.

He painted a dark picture of the county's transportation status.

"WE'VE HAD NO TRULY NEW facilities in this county in a long time," Hollinden said. "Our needs are desperate.

"If we do absolutely nothing, our projections show it will take twice as long to get anywhere in 10 years as it does now. There would be occasions where the transportation system breaks down entirely."

He noted that the commission Monday adopted a master plan for county transportation through 1995, which will be updated every two years.

"We haven't tried to improve the system, just to keep current," Hollinden said. "We figure it would cost us $16.5 billion just to stay current during that period."

He said county estimates show that about $6.5 billion will be available for improvements during that time.

Factors contributing to the problem, Hollinden said, are that Orange County receives less than its share of state transportation funds; present and proposed tax cuts such as Proposition 9 (Jarvis 2); and higher housing costs forcing more adults to live together, thus increasing the number of cars per household.

Also, Hollinden said, although Californians drove 10 percent more miles last year, they used 7 percent less gas because of more efficient cars. While that may be good news for foreign policy, it means less gas tax income, he said.

Hollinden said the master plan calls for at least two more regular lanes and two more high-occupancy vehicle lanes on each Orange County freeway, but the cost will be prohibitive.

The Century Freeway under construction in Los Angeles is costing $10 million a mile per lane, compared to the $1 million-per-mile total cost of the San Diego Freeway some years ago.

The plan also includes widening Laguna Canyon Road to four lanes, building a San Joaquin Hills transportation corridor to connect to Corona del Mar Freeway, widening Pacific Coast Highway to six lanes between Golden West Street and MacArthur Boulevard, and extending both the Orange and Costa Mesa Freeways southward.

HOLLINDEN SAID HIGHER gas taxes and charges for drivers' licenses are necessary to fund the improvements. Also needed, he said, are more ride-sharing, an expanded bus system already being planned, better synchronization of signal lights, and a rapid transit system from Stanton to the Irvine Industrial Complex.

He said he expects planning on such a transitway to begin by the end of the year.

Fire Protection Terms Approved

Orange County Supervisors Tuesday approved a series of agreements preparatory to the county takeover of fire protection services from the state.

The terms include:

— All state fire stations and property associated with fire protection in Orange County, valued at $2.7 million, to be turned over to the county at no cost. (The agreement is pending new state legislation. In the interim, the county can use the property for $1 a year).

— State fire vehicles with equipment, supplies and communication gear, valued at $390,000, to be given to the county at no cost.

— The state will assume total liability for accumulated vacation time, valued at $500,000. A state employee who accepts county employment will be paid accrued vacation time at time of transfer.

The county will assume all sick leave balances, valued at $1.6 million. Legislation is pending, however, so that sick leave can be used toward retirement credit for county employees.

— The county will agree to assume the state's responsibility for fire protection of the wildlife area and will be reimbursed at about 60 percent of the total cost.

The need to find a new form of fire protection by July 1 was created by the State Legislature in the aftermath of Proposition 13.

'Scare Our Cows'

Balloonists Enrage Farmers

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Complaints from farmers that low-flying balloons are stampeding their cattle and causing some to go dry have sparked a debate in the Kansas Legislature.

"I have a neighbor who had to sell three cows because they damaged their udders running from low-flying balloons," Marvin Smith, a Shawnee County farmer, told the House Transportation Committee. "I've heard other farmers say they had crops damaged by balloons that landed in their fields, also."

THE COMMITTEE IS considering a bill to force hot air balloons to fly higher over Kansas. It did not act on the proposal.

The bill, sponsored by state Rep. Tom Slattery, would require the balloons to fly at an altitude of not less than 1,000 feet over the highest obstacle within 2,000 feet of the craft.

Balloonists, however, contend the Federal Aviation Administration already has ample regulations.

Joyce Morrow, representing the Balloon Federation of America, said the 2,000 licensed balloons in the nation must comply with stringent federal regulations. The Kansas bill, she said, would only "single us out unfairly."

SMITH, WHO HAS a farm in northeast Kansas, said his primary complaint was with the low-flying balloon's use of gas burners. The burners, which are used to heat the air in the balloons and help regulate altitude, emit loud noises, he said, which frighten livestock and cause stampedes.

Ronald Regan, a commercial balloonist in Johnson County, questioned the constitutionality of the balloon bill, saying the FAA has the authority to govern all the nation's airways, and has adequate channels for people to register complaints.

Grave Marker Up for Sale

MAYS LANDING, N.J. (AP) — A 550-pound tombstone sits in Art Cranz's living room, right next to the television set. It's a conversation piece he would just as soon stop talking about.

The tombstone was intended for Cranz's sister-in-law, Marion, who recovered from an undisclosed serious illness two weeks ago and doesn't expect to need it for many years.

SO HE'S OFFERING THE PINK granite and marble monument for sale in classified ads: "Grave Monument Tombstone — didn't die, don't need it." So far, he's had few serious takers.

"One guy called and said his mother-in-law annoys him. We've gotten a lot of those types — wishful thinkers," Cranz said.

He tries to be philosophical.

"Everybody dies," he said. "Here's a chance to land a real bargain on something a person knows they'll use eventually. It's an $855 value and we're all but giving it away at $275. How can you lose?"

The tombstone became a morbid curiosity after his sister-in-law's recovery. She declined to discuss her recent illness, however.

"SHE MADE COMPLETE PREPARATIONS. The tombstone, the casket, the cemetery plot," said Cranz. "But then, thankfully, she got better. So we got stuck with all of this stuff.

"Now she's starting a new life — new house, new boyfriend, new everything. So she asked me to take the tombstone."

Cranz easily sold the cemetery plot. A magician bought the casket — "We didn't ask for details."

The monument has a cross, some scrollwork and a blank space for the name. It's not for pranksters.

"Basically, I want to find somebody who will put it to good use," he said.

"$250 IS ROCK BOTTOM. IF WE don't get that, we'll put it in storage. After all, everyone needs one eventually," he said.

Meanwhile, the memorial is giving Cranz the creeps — and an unexpected problem.

"It's right next to the TV, so it's hard to ignore," he said. "The toughest part is keeping the dog away. He thinks it's a fire hydrant or something."

Car Pools Spur Gas Surplus

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Two Colorado Springs service stations have a problem. They have too much gasoline on hand.

Dal Rymple, a spokesman for the two Exxon stations, said that the surplus gasoline — regular only — will be sold at $1.02 per gallon, eight cents less than the going price here.

He attributed the surplus to increased carpooling by Colorado Springs motorists.

Scientist Hopes for Shroud Test

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP) — A scientist hopes to get permission this year to conduct a test that would show whether the venerated Shroud of Turin is from the first century — the time in which Jesus Christ lived.

Robert Dinegar, a scientist at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratories, said determining the age of the shroud is a vital aspect of the investigation of the piece of cloth believed by some to be the burial wrapping of Christ.

HE SAID TESTS conducted by a group of 40 scientists in October 1978 produced evidence consistent with "the history and origin of cloth . . . in times and places traditionally associated with it" and that "no evidence has yet been uncovered that indicates the Shroud of Turin is a hoax."

The proposed test, he said, would involve use of sensitive carbon-14 dating techniques that, until recently, couldn't be performed without damaging the material being studied.

If the carbon-14 tests show the shroud is from the right century, then "we have a piece of cloth that could have been used as a burial shroud," he said. The cloth has an image on it that some believe is an outline of Christ's body created when he rose from the dead.

DINEGAR SAID, however, that positive results would not mean it was Christ's burial shroud.

"We will never be able to prove it was used to bury Jesus of Nazareth," he said.

The history of the shroud has been traced to 1353 when a man named Geoffrey de Charney built a church to hold it in Lirey, France. It is now kept in a silver box in Turin.

Dinegar said the Pontifical Academy of Sciences in Rome is considering the request. He said the Archbishop of Turin, who has custody of the relic, was inclined to grant permission, but the request was turned over to the academy because the archbishop wanted it to go to a higher authority.

In the February issue of an Episcopalian magazine, "The Living Church," Dinegar, an Episcopal priest, wrote that developments in the carbon-14 test enable researchers to use a smaller piece of the material than previously required while getting a more accurate date. Sufficient material already is available from swatches removed during repairs in 1973.

Confusing Situation? Not for Mulligan

BILL MULLIGAN

Saddleback Coach Says He'll Make a Decision in the Next Week

By JOHN SEVANO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Bill Mulligan saga continues . . .

For those of you who have been sleeping in a cave the past 48 hours, let's bring you up to date on what has transpired with Saddleback College's popular basketball coach:

— On Monday Mulligan supposedly accepted the head coaching job at Cal State Fullerton.

— ON TUESDAY MORNING he denied the story in the Los Angeles Times, saying he didn't talk to Cal State Fullerton on and had not accepted the post.

— By Tuesday night the feisty Irishman had taken himself out of the Cal State Fullerton picture all together.

Sound confusing? Maybe. But as Mulligan tells it there was really nothing confusing about the situation at all.

"I gave them a verbal, 'it looks good, I'll let you know,' " said Mulligan this morning, "and they (Cal State Fullerton) took that to mean yes."

CAL STATE FULLERTON, subsequently, put Mulligan in an awkward position by announcing he had accepted the post.

Mulligan then looked to be the "heavy" when he had to politely decline, making the refusal his second in a year (he had accepted the job at Loyola last summer only to quit four days later).

Needless to say, Mulligan was awfully tired of all the hoopla when contacted by the Daily Pilot this morning.

"I realize the press has to do their job," he says, "but I don't want to conduct my business through them.

"YEAH, I WAS SURPRISED that they did that," said Mulligan about Cal State Fullerton's release. "I wish they hadn't."

Even with Cal State Fullerton pushed aside, however, Mulligan isn't through hurdling barriers.

He is still looking for a head coaching position, and major colleges are still looking for his services.

"I got a brand new call from Nevada-Reno this morning," said Millugan. "I'm really getting tired of all this. I'm going to have to make a decision soon."

BY "SOON" MULLIGAN means before his team's first state playoff game at home March 8.

"I would just as soon have it settled by then," he says, stating UC Irvine, South Florida and Nevada-Reno are the candidates. "It's been very hard on my team and I want them to be able to concentrate in the playoffs."

Lakers' Sonic Boom

INGLEWOOD (AP) — It was billed as a showdown contest . . . playoff fever and all that jazz. It turned out to be a cakewalk.

Seattle, the defending National Basketball Association champion, came to the Forum in suburban Inglewood in a tie for the Pacific Division lead with the Los Angeles Lakers. The SuperSonics left with a fizzle.

THE LAKERS EXPLODED from a five-point lead midway in the second quarter to outscore the Sonics 18-9 during the rest of the first half and Los Angeles rolled from there to a ridiculously easy 131-108 victory.

It was the seventh straight triumph and 18th in the last 21 games for the red-hot Lakers, who are 47-18 on the season. The Sonics, who had won 18 of their last 22 games coming in, dropped to 46-19.

In addition, the victory was the 18th straight for the Lakers at the Forum, where a sellout crowd of 17,505 watched the carnage.

"I WANT THE TEAM to forget this game, however I personally won't forget it," said Seattle Coach Len Wilkens. "We played poorly, it was our worst transition game of the year.

"We were embarrassed and we will remember it and we won't let them forget it."

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 31 points and 11 rebounds. He scored 22 of his points in the first half as Los Angeles took a 66-52 lead at the intermission.

NORM NIXON HAD 24 points and 10 assists for the winners, rookie Earvin "Magic" Johnson added 18 points and was credited with 13 assists; Jim Chones contributed 16 points, and Jamaal Wilkes had 14 points and 11 rebounds.

OV Wins, 78-70

Coach Upset, Despite Victory

By JOHN SEVANO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

ENCINO — Usually a coach would be ecstatic if his basketball team had just reached the CIF 4-A quarterfinals.

But not Ocean View High's Jim Harris. Relieved might be a better word because Tuesday night he was anything but happy.

Harris was extremely disturbed by his team's 78-70 victory over Del Rey League representative Notre Dame at Crespi High. The usually mild mannered coach was visibly upset with his players throughout the game. And he hadn't calmed down much once he reached his club after the contest, either.

"I'M NOT OUT to embarrass any individuals," he told his team, "but I'm the coach out there come game time. There was no way they (Notre Dame) should have taken us out of our offense. We won this game on sheer guts."

Harris' concern for his Seahawks — the No. 1 ranked team in Orange County — became prevalent midway through the second quarter. That's when he found his team trailing the Knights, 29-22.

It was at this juncture Harris started to assert himself vocally and the Seahawks responded by starting to play team basketball.

WITH WAYNE CARLANDER and Jack Reinholtz providing the spark, Ocean View outscored the Knights, 14-4, over the final five minutes of the quarter to assume a 36-33 halftime advantage.

Reinholtz, a 6-2 senior, scored six points during the spree — two baskets from long range which seemed to open the inside lane for Carlander, who contributed four points.

Carlander, the Empire League's Player of the Year, then teamed with Jeff Andrade to stage quite a show in the third period. The two combined to score 17 of their team's 20 points in the quarter to expand the advantage to 56-43.

Still, even with the big bulge, Harris was not content. His team was playing sluggishly and his fears became a reality during the final eight minutes.

COMMITTING TURNOVER after turnover and looking totally disoriented on the floor, the Seahawks slowly allowed the Knights to get back into the ballgame.

With Carlander fouling out at the 2:20 mark, the Knights (19-5)

BASKETBALL

eventually whittled the lead to 68-64 with 1:12 remaining.

Desperate to get the ball back, the Knights were then forced to foul and it was only at this time the Seahawks displayed some of the composure that ran their record to 24-2 during the season.

FIRST ANDRADE hit both ends of a one-and-one and then, following a Notre Dame turnover, Reinholtz scored two of his 17 points to raise the lead to 72-64 with 31 seconds left.

Notre Dame proceeded to hit three field goals down the stretch, but the Seahawks countered by canning six straight from the charity stripe.

"I just felt I had to shake somebody up," explained Harris after his meeting with the players. "I know our first goal was to win league, which we did, but now we have to determine what we want to do in the playoffs.

"We're one of eight teams left and that's quite a feat. We have to decide now whether we're

Monarchs Need 4 OTs To Stun PV

It took four overtimes to accomplish it Tuesday night, but Mater Dei High's Monarchs upset sky-scraping Palos Verdes, 59-57, before a packed gym on the Servite High campus as Mike Swett tipped in the winning basket at the buzzer.

The victory for Coach Jerry Tardie's Angelus League champions makes this the most successful basketball season in the school's 29-year history as they prepare for Friday's CIF 4-A quarterfinals game against Ocean View.

Mater Dei, now 22-3, withstood Palos Verdes' 6-9, 6-7, 6-5, 6-5 height with a five-man effort that refused to cave in to the taller Sea Kings, runners-up in the Bay League to No. 1 seeded Inglewood.

Joe Hernandez, a 6-0 senior who averaged 8.6 points in league and didn't even play in Mater Dei's CIF opening victory over Compton, hit a 20-footer at the buzzer to send the game into its first overtime.

Palos Verdes went up by four points in the first overtime, but buckets by David Cook and Pete Bray and two free throws by Mark Shannon evened the count at 53.

Bray and the 6-3 Swett hit from the field in the second and third overtimes, then Palos Verdes took control of the fourth overtime, going for the last shot.

But the Sea Kings' attempt was off target. With 10 seconds to go, Cook missed from 20 feet out, but Swett maneuvered through Palos Verdes' timber to tip in the winner.

LAKEWOOD — Corona del Mar's Sea Kings, behind the shooting of Rich Kindorf and rebounding of Steve Moore, put another CIF 3-A basketball victory behind them as they beat the Cerritos Knights, 79-59, Tuesday night at Mayfair High, here.

Kindorf, the 6-5 senior forward for the Sea Kings, led the attack as he hit nine field goals and added eight free throws for a 26-point output.

MOORE HAD ANOTHER good night on the court as he led the Sea Kings in the rebound department with 11. He also added 12 points in leading Corona del Mar into Friday night's quarterfinal match against Mira Costa at a site to be determined.

"We're going to have to play our best game possible or we're not going to make it," CdM Coach Jack Errion said. "Right now we are playing good. This is a five-man game and each and every one of the guys is contributing in some fashion."

The way the Sea Kings played against Cerritos was almost a carbon copy of the first round victory they had against Foothill.

KINDORF AND MOORE'S strong game, along with the center play of Mark Spinn, enabled the Sea Kings to dominate the contest. Again, as it was against Foothill, reserve Jeff Pries was the key that made Corona del Mar a victor in 16 of its last 17 games.

"The other team usually underestimates the ability of Pries. They think, 'Here comes their substitute, we don't have to worry about him . . .' and bam, he scores," Errion commented. "But without him we wouldn't be where we are. He's so strong off the bench, I wish I had another like him."

Twice in the contest Pries demonstrated what Errion stated. With 50 seconds left in the first half he came in for a foul-troubled starter and scored right off the bat as Corona del Mar had eight points unanswered in leading 39-28 at half.

COMING INTO THE GAME in the fourth quarter with the Sea Kings leading 70-47, Pries hit a 15-foot jumper, stole the ball from Cerritos on the inbound play and then scored a layup within a few seconds.

Spinn had a good game, too, as he put 18 points in the Sea

Reviewing Season

The high school basketball season is nearing completion and it's definitely one to remember.

It's one that began with Ocean View rated No. 1 in Orange County and that's where the Seahawks are now as Empire League champions.

It's also one that saw Newport Harbor gain its first Sunset League championship in 23 years as the Sailors fulfilled early season expectations.

Surprises? Positive reflections find Fountain Valley returning to the upper echelon despite starting four juniors.

Disappointment starts with Marina, which missed the CIF 4-A playoffs with the help of four two-point losses in league play.

Although Huntington Beach has been in the CIF playoffs 12 times in the past 14 years and Marina 11 times in that span, this is the second time in four years the two have missed the eliminations.

Both missed the party in 1977.

OCEAN VIEW HIGH'S basketball program seems to be on solid footing. The Seahawks' freshman team has compiled a 78-10 record the past four years, including a 63-3 mark the last three seasons.

In league play the freshmen have recorded a 45-0 record.

This season's team, under Randy Karcher, went 21-1, while Gary McKnight's two-year freshman record at Ocean View was 42-2.

Ocean View's girls team is also a league champion, similar to the setup at Estancia where the boys and girls have collected league crowns.

IRVINE HIGH HAS TAKEN OVER as the wrestling power in Irvine League action.

Coach Gary DeBeaubien's Vaqueros were undefeated in all three divisions, going 8-0-0 in varsity, 15-0-1 in junior varsity and 16-0-0 in frosh-soph competition.

SAN CLEMENTE HIGH football coach Allie Schaff is looking for an opponent this fall to fill the void on Oct. 10. University dropped off the Tritons' schedule for the final non-league game. The Tritons need an opponent for all levels.

FOUR ORANGE COAST AREA athletes will be among a group of 16 to be honored Monday night at the 10th annual Scholar-Athlete banquet of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

They are Newport Harbor's Alan Gaddis, Mater Dei's Brian Drazba, Marina's Lee Knowles and Corona del Mar's Scott Carpenter.

All earned at least 3.25 grade point averages and were standouts on the football field.

Also honored will be outgoing UCLA athletic director J.D. Morgan, who ends a 42-year association with the Bruins.

THERE WAS AN INTERESTING combination at Los Alamitos High in the wild card game with Compton recently.

One of the officials was Cliff Hamlow, the head coach at Azusa-Pacific. An assistant on the junior varsity level at Azusa-Pacific is John Moore, who is the older brother of Los Alamitos High star Mike Moore.

Says Compton Coach Eddie Thomas: "I felt we were lucky to get out of Los Alamitos alive.

"I've had 12 years of experience officiating, but I've never had that kind of problem. I always made sure that wasn't a problem for me while officiating."

Thomas wasn't too crazy about the officiating in his game at Los Alamitos, but his major beef was with the CIF office, which did not have the coaches present for the coin flip to determine the site of the game.

victory by outscoring the Sonics 24-17 in the first six minutes of the third quarter to go ahead 90-69. It was no contest after that.

Dennis Johnson paced the Sonics with 30 points. Lonnie Shelton and Gus Williams added 21 and 19 points, respectively, for Seattle.

THE LAKERS MADE 60.4 percent of their field goal attempts to 44.7 percent for the Sonics and had an overwhelming 60-40 advantage in rebounding.

"Again our fast break was the difference in the beginning of the game," said Los Angeles Coach Paul Westhead. "We were rebounding great tonight, showing we are a team that can rebound with the heavyweights of the NBA.

"I want to compliment our guard play. Norm Nixon was obviously at the top of his game."

BELL PONDERS . . . AND PONDERS

Highly-touted Edison High running back Kerwin Bell announced Tuesday he has narrowed his list of prospective colleges to two — USC and Kansas.

Bell, a 5-9, 170-pounder, has been one of the most sought-after high school football players in the nation. His announcement Tuesday eliminated Nebraska and Texas from the list of possible colleges he'd attend next year.

Fake Paternity Suit Joke Isn't Funny to Holmes

From AP Dispatches

CLEVELAND — World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes is packing up and heading home to Easton, Pa., after a cruel practical joke left him sour on Cleveland.

Holmes had planned to remain here until March 8, training at Rocky Marciano's Gym for his March 31 title fight with undefeated Leroy Jones.

However, on Tuesday he received what looked like an official subpoena regarding a paternity suit from two men, both of whom were carrying badges with one appearing to have a gun, according to Holmes' brother Jake.

HOLMES

"He kind of opened his coat, you know, like he wanted us to know he had a gun," Jake Holmes said.

The champion told the men to leave when they said they could help him with the subpoena if he would "help some kids on the East Side."

They gave the boxer two sheets of paper and left. "I threw them on the floor," Holmes said.

The summons said that Holmes was to appear in court on March 8 regarding the paternity suit and a failure to appear at a child support hearing. One of the sheets had the official Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court seal on it, but the name of the clerk who signed it was phony, an address on it was false and the name of a street was misspelled.

Jinx Is Alive, Estancia Dead

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A five-year jinx continued intact Tuesday night as Estancia High's Eagles, co-champions in the Sea View League, exited the CIF basketball playoffs after absorbing a second round loss.

This time it was 6-8 junior John Rogers and his La Quinta High teammates who put the stops to another banner Estancia season as the Aztecs posted a 56-54 3-A victory at Edison High.

IT ALL BOILED down to who got the last shot and happily for the winners, not so happily for Estancia, it was the Aztecs' Max Trakh, a 6-0 senior guard, who had the opportunity as time was running out.

His 22-footer with five seconds left was true. Estancia's Tim Krohnfeldt got off a desperation shot from the corner with no time left that fell short and La Quinta escaped with the victory.

"WE SHOULD have had the last shot," said Sunderman. "It was a five-second situation and after three seconds you can't call time out. I think we got jobbed.

The Eagles, despite performing in their customary zone and experiencing little difficulty in total team fouls, were in dire foul trouble with still 5:39 left in the third quarter.

Steve Van Horn, the Eagles' franchise, was whistled for two personals in a six-second span and suddenly the air in Estancia's basketball was let out.

ESTANCIA RALLIED from a 15-5s deficit to take a 48-47 third quarter lead and later at 50-50 with 1:04 to play in order to protect Van Horn and 6-6 Rick Riley, who picked up his fourth personal foul with only 37 seconds spent in the fourth period.

Forced to play like underdogs, the Eagles missed twice in the next two minutes and La Quinta responded with two buckets, then got the ball and went to a four-corners itself to further frustrate Estancia.

Krohnfeldt and Kent Smith combined to force a La Quinta turnover and Smith converted two free throws into a 54-54 tie, but La Quinta got possession at that point and went to its four-corner offense in order to take the last shot.

IT ALMOST BACKFIRED as Estancia seemed to have the Aztecs tied up, but the decision went against the Eagles, and La Quinta set up for its final effort.

"It wasn't our plan to have Trakh shoot it," said La Quinta Coach Dick Katz. "I just told them to run the offense, either get a layup, go to one of our stars (Rogers or Bob Murray), or we'd settle for overtime.

"But kids who believe they're shooters shoot, and that's what he did."

Estancia had a 26-18 lead in the second quarter and missed several opportunities to expand on first half leads when the Eagles missed golden chances for easy buckets after beating La Quinta's press.

SEAHAWKS

here for the fun of it or to go all the way.

"IF WE PLAY like a team we can win this thing, but we played tonight like we've practiced — lethargically. Hey, I'm satisfied we won the league championship, but winning the CIF is our next role."

The Seahawks, who advance to meet Mater Dei Friday, got three fine individual performances from Carlander (28 points, 20 rebounds), Andrade (23 points, four steals, one assist) and Reinholtz (17 points). But it's the team aspect that has Harris concerned.

"You only get one shot," says Harris, "so if I have to shake them up, that's what I'm going to do.

"Don't get me wrong. These are great kids and I've been with some of them for four years. But by Friday we'll either have 15 guys and a coach working together, or I'll have 15 enemies," he added with a smile.

"One way or another, we'll be ready."

King net. Playing just as good defensively, he had six rebounds and a blocked shot. However, what the Corona del Mar and Cerritos fans will most remember of his evening's work is the dunked ball he had just before Errion pulled his starters.

"We played another good game. If Kindorf keeps playing back-to-back games at his constantly good pace like tonight we'll be in the thick of things," Errion said.

"We don't know much about Mira Costa, except that they are from the league Santa Monica is in and that's a tough league. We were a little tight on defense tonight, but we'll be ready Friday night."

Capitals Get an Assist From Kings

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — The Washington Capitals — losers of just two of their last 12 home games — have closed within two points of a final playoff spot after defeating the Los Angeles Kings 5-3.

"We are certainly keeping the ball rolling out there right now," Washington Coach Gary Green said of Tuesday night's victory.

THE CAPS JUMPED to an early lead at 3:54 of the first period as Wes Jarvis deflected Paul MacKinnon's shot from the left point. Washington's Ryan Walter scored his 19th goal of the season as Pat Ribble's shot deflected off of Walter's skate into the net to give the Caps a two-goal lead early in the second period.

The Kings quickly tied the score, however, as Charlie Simmer scored his 43rd and 44th goals of the season, both on power plays, just two minutes and 12 seconds apart in the second period.

Ribble gave the Caps the lead again as he scored on a shot from the point through a screen of players at 5:48 of the second period, but Marcel Dionne evened the score again for Los Angeles as he scored his 45th goal of the year on a 40-foot shot from the right side 13 seconds into the final period.

MARK LOFTHOUSE scored the game winner with 7:24 left in the game and Mike Gartner tallied an insurance goal into an open net with 27 seconds remaining.

"I thought we came out with a strong third period," Green said. "In the second period, we tended to gamble too much out there and we got caught a lot on three-on-two and two-on-one situations. But that tends to happen from time to time."

Los Angeles Coach Bob Berry said the Kings had some trouble with power plays — a problem which has bothered them all season.

"We almost had the power play killed off and they had maybe one rush left, but that's the way it has been all year," Berry said. "Walter's line did a good job on our big line, but we need to have more balanced scoring from the rest of the team."

Katella Reserve's Free Throws Sink Newport

By DAVE CUNNINGHAM
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Don Wagner didn't score during the first four quarters, but in overtime the Katella reserve calmly swished four straight free throws to help the Knights knock Newport Harbor out of the CIF 4-A basketball playoffs Tuesday night at Cal State Fullerton, 61-52.

Newport trailed by nine points midway through the fourth quarter, but a tenacious press ignited a rally which saw the Sailors finally tie the game at 49 with 1:14 on the clock.

Wagner had a chance to perform his heroics in regulation but missed a 22-foot shot at the buzzer.

"After regulation time was over, I told my kids we had the momentum," Newport Harbor Coach Jerry DeBusk said. "We wanted to make Katella play some defense. We wanted to take it to 'em."

But the Sailors missed all four of their field goal attempts in overtime, their only points coming on free throw attempts.

Katella, meanwhile, swished its first three shots. Wagner's free throws came at 1:19 and 0:59, each one pounding another nail into the Sailors' coffin.

"They hit a couple of quick baskets, and all of a sudden we were forced into a different style of play," DeBusk said. "We just couldn't catch up."

The Sailors could and did catch up in the fourth quarter, with a furious rally punctuated by key baskets from Corey Everhart, Bill Yardley and Bruce Caldwell.

Mal Durkee got the biggest point of all, hitting a pressure-packed free throw to tie the game at 1:14. He missed the second shot and a chance to go ahead.

Afterwards, DeBusk and Katella Coach Tom Danley sounded like they were forming a Mutual Admiration Society.

"Katella is the best team we've played, without a doubt," DeBusk said. "And Danley is probably the best coach in CIF."

When that comment was relayed to Danley, he returned the compliment.

"He's just being a nice guy. Jerry DeBusk has a lot of class, and his whole program has a lot of class. He took over a mediocre program and turned it into one of the best in Orange County.

"When you win the Sunset League," Danley continued, "It's saying a lot. There's a lot of talent down there."

Although DeBusk was visibly shaken by the defeat, he said the Sailors had no reason to hang their heads.

"We had a great year (19-7) and I'm really proud of what we did tonight," he said. "Katella beat us by 19 the first time, and they had to go overtime to beat us tonight."

Newport and Katella met early in the season for a non-league game, with the Knights breezing in their own gym, 65-46.

"We caught 'em on a down night the first time," Danley says. "They just lost a five-overtime game to Corona del Mar, and we got a big lead early. We knew it wasn't going to be as easy tonight."

It wasn't. Newport Harbor led by one at after the first quarter and went ahead by five points in the third quarter, overcoming a shooting drought (30 percent) in the second period.

The game was very tight in the first half with Golden West holding a 33-32 lead.

Eisenhart also pulled down 18 rebounds.

Girls Play Tonight

Estancia, OV, FV Have Home Games

By HOWARD L. LANDY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Estancia and Ocean View high schools are on a collision course if both win second round CIF girls basketball playoff games tonight in 3-A competition.

Estancia (23-1) is at home to Garden Grove (15-7) while Ocean View (19-2) will host Tustin (16-8). Both are 7:30 games. If both area teams win, they'll meet Saturday night in a quarterfinal round game at a site to be determined by a coin flip.

In other action tonight at 7:30 Fountain Valley (17-8) is at home to Pacific (25-1) while Edison (18-4) travels to Long Beach Poly (21-3) in 4-A action.

ESTANCIA WON the Sea View League title while Garden Grove is the champion of the Garden Grove circuit. The Eagles defeated Conelly, 66-41, in first round action while Garden Grove won over Garey High, 58-48.

The Eagles are paced by Kristen Frantsen, a 5-10 senior who is averaging 16.0 points a game. Other starters include Caryn Mark, Cari Francy, Lisa McNamee and Kathy Pridley. Francy is a junior and the others are all seniors.

OCEAN VIEW'S SEAHAWKS are led by Norma Leibfreid, a 5-11 senior who is averaging 18.3 points a game and 13 rebounds. Holly Marvin is scoring 16.2 per game and Tracy Mecurio 13. Stacy Stewart and either Debie Fiddler or Chris Olsen will be the other starters.

Greg Henry's Edison Chargers are led by Shannon Meyer, 5-9 junior who is averaging 18.7 points a game with 9.5 rebounds. Tracy Hanlo, also an all-Sunset League selection with Meyer, is averaging 14.3 points a game. Other starters include Sue Vartanian, Sue Randall and Lisa Sandviken.

FOUNTAIN VALLEY'S surprising Barons won their second decision of the year over Mater Dei in opening round action, 54-53. Pacific is the Citrus Belt champion and will be favored over the Sunset League third place finishers.

Starters for Coach Carol Strausberg's Barons include Lee Ann Margerum, who is averaging 17 points a game, Chris Wycinowski, Marianne Belgen, Courtney Dillon and Chris Eolin. Three of the starters (Wycinowski, Belgen and Dillon) are juniors.

Laguna Rally Falls Short; Irvine Wins

Irvine High scored four runs in the first inning and then repeatedly held off Laguna Beach rallies to take an 8-5 non-league baseball victory Tuesday.

Laguna committed three errors and Irvine had four hits in the first inning to jump to an early lead. Laguna bounced back with three runs in the bottom half of the second inning to make things interesting.

Irvine rebounded with two runs in the top of the fifth as Al Brownlee ignited the rally with one of his two hits in the game.

Mark Swander blasted a two-run homer to give the Vaqueros what appeared like a comfortable 6-3 lead in the fifth. But the Artists bounced back with two runs of their own to slice the margin to 6-5.

Irvine put the ball game away with two insurance tallies in the top of the seventh.

Laguna Beach's best opportunity came in the second inning when the Artists took advantage of four straight walks and a two-run single by third baseman Scott Magers for three runs.

"Even though we're a pretty young team, we're working well together," Artist Coach Hal Hensler said. "We gave up eight walks today and that's just too much."

In other non-league action, Westminster nipped visiting Corona del Mar, 2-1, Tuesday as Jeff Brown had a key rbi single in the fourth inning for the Lions.

Anteaters Win Easily; SCC Gets Bombed

Mike Mayeaux went three for four including a three-run home run in the fourth inning to lead UC Irvine to an 11-0 victory over host Claremont Tuesday in college baseball action.

Southern California College, meanwhile, wasn't so lucky, falling to UCLA, 11-3, in a game played at Pepperdine University.

For UC Irvine, the victory was the fourth in 12 outings this season and was also the fourth victory for pitcher Bob Frishette. Frishette came into the ballgame with an earned run average below one.

In five innings of work, he limited Claremont to three hits, while striking out two batters in the process. He also allowed just one fly ball out.

At Pepperdine, UCLA jumped on SCC pitchers for 11 runs, including a seven-run uprising in the fifth.

The Bruins parlayed two walks, a bunt single, an error, another walk and two more hits for four of their runs.

The Vanguards' Dan Jenkins was 2-for-2 at the plate while Hugh Austin picked up two hits in four at bats.

Next outing for UC Irvine is Saturday when the Anteaters host the same Claremont team in a doubleheader beginning at noon.

AIA Whips Chapman

Athletes in Action upped their season record to 39-12 and 37-8 against collegiate basketball competition Tuesday night, as host Chapman College fell, 81-61.

Ralph Drollinger led AIA with 16 points and 11 rebounds, while Derrick Jackson contributed 14 points.

Fratianne: Pro Future?

LOS ANGELES (AP) – The mother of figure skater Linda Fatianne says a news conference to anounce future plans for her daughte has been tentatively scheduled for Tuesday.

Virginia Fratianne would not, however, answer when asked Tuesday night if Linda plannd to turn professional and she would make no further statement on her daughter's future.

Earlier in the day, te mother of the 19-year-old figureskater from Northridge said her dughter may not defend her world campionship at Dortmund, Germany nxt month.

"As far as I'm concerned, I wouldn't put her through that again," Mrs. Fratianne said of last week's judging by an international panel in the Winter Olympics at Lake Placid.

Linda won a silver medal as she could not overcome a third ranking in the compulsory figures, which count 30 percent of the overall score. She finished second in women's figure skating behind Annette Poetzch of East Germany.

Fratianne had won the world title in 1977, and lost the world's championship to Poetzch in 1978.

Gauchos, Bucs Tumble

Joe Giffine of Cerritos lined a base hit with the bases loaded in the bottom of the 11th inning to give the Falcons a 2-1 victory over visiting Saddleback College Tuesday in JC baseball play.

Giffine's game-winning hit came off of losing Saddleback pitcher Joe Holdridge. Sophomore Dave Woodhead started the game for Saddleback and pitched nine strong innings, allowing a lone run in the third.

The Gauchos returned home today for a contest with Mira Costa and then host Fullerton College Friday at 2:30.

At Citrus College, three was the lucky number for the Owls. Citrus scored three runs on three hits and a triple in the third inning en route to an 8-4 verdict over Orange Coast College.

The Pirates actually outhit Citrus, 11-8. Mike Empting contributed three of those hits, including a double.

GWC Survives Harbor Tactics

WILMINGTON — Golden West College kept its bid for a berth in the state basketball championship tournament alive Tuesday night by knocking off LA Harbor, 50-46, in the loser's gym.

The game was the opener of the Shaughnessey playoffs, a mini-tournament to determine which teams will fill wild card berths in the state eliminations.

LA HARBOR WAS FAVORED to make it out of the Shaughnessey and into the tournament on the strength of its 16-11 record, despite a freshman-laden lineup.

But the Rustlers, 17-13 going into the game, got clutch hoops from Walt Evans and Darin Bowen in the final minutes to log the upset.

Harbor kept the score down by using a slowdown tactic which also served the purpose of keeping the score close. Neither team could open a sizeable lead.

EVANS FINISHED with 24 points, tops in the game, and Randy Heidenreich did a solid defensive job on Ron Knight, the Seahawks' leading scorer, who finished with 16.

Golden West shot 63 percent from the floor (24 of 38) while Harbor hit at a 60 percent clip (21 of 35).

The victory qualifies Golden West to meet LA Southwest on the Southwest court Friday night (7:30). Southwest upended Santa Monica, 84-70, Tuesday.

The winner of Friday's game will be designated the Southern California Conference runner-up, behind 27-5 Cypress.

GWC Wins On Shutout

Golden West College opened the women's softball season with an impressive 7-0 victory over Moorpark Tuesday afternoon as pitcher Kim Libell scattered five hits.

The Rustlers jumped on Moorpark for four runs in the first two innings and the rest was easy sailing for Libell.

Libell recorded 10 strikeouts in the victory.

In other action, Orange Coast scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to down Santa Monica, 6-4, on the Pirates' field. Orange Coast managed to score all six runs on just three hits, as Santa Monica was guilty of four errors in the contest.

Billboards Westernize China

PEKING (AP) — On a billboard towering over one of Peking's bustling shopping streets, an enormous astronaut strides across the surface of the moon. An offshore oil rig shimmers in the sunset.

"China is in the course of a modernization drive," says the billboard in red Chinese characters. "Kodak is proud it can make a contribution."

The new billboard is one of several purchased by American firms. SmithKline Corp., the pharmaceutical company, advertises along the capital's main avenue, pushing cold tablets, stomach medicine and medical testing equipment.

Some 30 foreign firms have rented billboard space in Peking, and about 70 Chinese enterprises are touting their wares to foreign buyers in prime locations.

China solicits foreign outdoor advertising through its Peking and Shanghai advertising companies, said Ling Wang Juan, a spokesman for the Peking enterprise.

"Any good businessman working abroad knows advertising is a very important part of his business," Ling said in an interview. "China is not much of an immediate market, but it is potentially a great market and that's why they are advertising here."

Foreign companies request their location and design their billboards. They are painted by chinese artists.

Kodak's billboard and those for several other companies are at least twice the average size. In full color, it touts the virtues of Kodak photographic equipment, processing, microfilm and industrial and medical photographic equipment.

Shelters Warning Told

Taxpayer, Lawyers Alerted on Abuses

(Last of a 10-part series on 1979 income taxes)

By SYLVIA PORTER

Money's Worth

If you are among the mounting numbers of Americans who have tried to save taxes or at least put off paying them, by investing in various so-called tax shelters, the Internal Revenue Service came up with some bad news for you in 1979. And if you are among the attorneys involved in shelter promotions, IRS gave you a loud signal: beware.

The IRS has been providing its examining agents with detailed Tax Shelter Guidelines for identifying and attacking abusive tax shelters of different types.

In 1979 alone, IRS issued Tax Shelter Guidelines covering oil and gas investments, farming, motion pictures, equipment leasing (such as buying and leasing railway cars, computers, etc.), coal investments and real estate investments.

These guidelines explain what makes a particular tax shelter "abusive" and what the IRS agent should do once he identifies an "abusive" tax shelter in order to bar the investor from getting his expected tax benefits from the shelter in the form of investment credits, depreciation deductions, etc.

IN THE CLOSING month of 1979, IRS cracked down specifically on the popular "art master" tax shelter in which many taxpayers have been investing. This shelter involves the investor's purchase of a master lithographic plate made by an artist, plus the right to run off and sell a limited number of prints made from the plate.

It works this way. Say you are the investor. You would pay for this with a small amount of cash plus a non-recourse note (a note for which you are not personally liable, so that the creditor can only collect it out of collateral if you don't pay).

The expected tax shelter from this investment would come from an investment credit based on the price of the master (including the amount of the note) and from certain depreciation.

IN ITS HARSH December 1979 ruling, IRS analyzed this shelter in such a way that the investor wound up with no investment credit and no depreciation — completely wiping out the anticipated shelter.

While the IRS concedes existence of various acceptable tax shelters, investors should be on the alert for the so-called "abusive" ones. If the IRS at a later date disallows the tax benefits of an abusive tax shelter in which you have put money, it will retroactively raise your income and the income tax due from the investor, plus 12 percent (no longer 6 percent) interest.

As part of its expanding program to crack down on abusive tax shelters, the IRS has formed a committee to expedite the issuance of rulings on shelters.

The committee, according to the Research Institute of America, consists of 16 tax law specialists under the IRS assistant commissioner (technical).

The committee will monitor advertising for tax shelters, obtain brochures from promoters and review the shelters proposed. If and when an abusive shelter is found, specialists will prepare and speed up issuance of a ruling.

INTENSE ATTENTION IS being given to tax attorneys involved in the shelter promotions. "One of the critical elements in promoting an abusive tax shelter scheme is the tax opinion supplied by the promoter's tax attorney," said Robert H. Mundheim, treasury general counsel. Mundheim describes four types of opinions:

— The intentionally false or totally incompetent opinion.

— The opinion which states the tax benefits will be obtained if the facts are as represented by the promoter, but disclaims knowledge of the accuracy of the facts, such as the high value placed on property purchased with a small amount of cash down.

— THE OPINION WHICH discusses the law applicable to tax shelters but doesn't relate the law to the facts of the particular transaction. These opinions lack analysis of the critical facts and do not really touch on the tax consequences of the transaction.

The "reasonable basis" opinion which points out that there is a reasonable basis for the claimed tax benefits but warns the taxpayer that if he is audited, his claims would be challenged and under existing law he probably would lose.

Attorneys who are found to be incompetent, disreputable or to have fraudulently misled a prospective claimant can be suspended or disbarred from practice before the IRS, Mundheim points out.

In addition, the Justice Department has indicated it "would be receptive to considering the prosecution of tax attorney misconduct in tax shelter cases."

Health Proposals Rapped

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The proposed state health plan won't improve health care in California because it is riddled with flaws, the California Medical Association testified here Tuesday night.

The proposal ignores the law that authorized it, was put together haphazardly and relies on opinion rather than on facts and the readily available expertise that could have made it a useful basis for state health planning, a spokesman for CMA testified.

Urgency Needed

Efficiency Dip, Inflation Match

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans have known for at least 15 years that they have been slipping behind other countries in the rate at which they improve their production efficiency.

They have known, but maybe haven't cared, though the steady decline — from 3.2 percent in the years 1948-1965, to 2.3 in 1965-1973, to 0.9 in 1973-1978 and to a minus last year — has coincided with inflation.

The relationship still may not be comprehended, even after Congress' Joint Economic Committee last year released to a people long accustomed to higher living standards a conclusion that was designed to startle.

Said the committee: "The average American is likely to see his standard of living drastically decline in the 1980s unless the United States accelerates its rate of productivity growth."

CUNNIFF

FOR MANY AMERICANS the process has begun: hourly workers in 1979 earned about 6 percent or 7 percent more than in 1978 in terms of dollars, but with inflation of 13.4 percent their takehome pay was less.

Still, says C. Jackson Grayson Jr., chairman and founder of the American Productivity Center, whose mission is to raise the efficiency of American output, millions might still not comprehend the message.

"Not enough people are listening," said Grayson. He conceded: "There is a greater degree of awareness among Congress, business and unions, but not among ordinary people."

CAN PEOPLE UNDERSTAND, he was asked? "If they're afraid enough," he replied. "Now they're afraid of inflation and afraid of unemployment, and they should be afraid of what is happening to productivity."

But, said Grayson, who was President Nixon's price commissioner, an experience that convinced him that controls don't work, too seldom is the connection made between inflation and low productivity.

The relationship is direct. If it costs less to turn out a product then everyone — shareholders, employees and purchasers benefit — without depriving the other of their share. The more it costs to produce a product the less competitive it is: the price is higher, the market is smaller, and that means less for shareholders and workers.

Stock Rally Falters; Dow Falls 9 Points

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned downward today, giving up on a weak early advance.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up about 3 points in the early going, was off 9.13 to 855.12.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 6-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted some anticipation of possible moves by the Carter administration in response to the continued surge in the inflation rate.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller confirmed Tuesday that such steps were being studied.

In the economic news the Labor Department said today productivity in private business declined at a 0.6 percent annual rate — a smaller drop than the 1.6 percent rate estimated earlier.

Rock, Disco Joining Grammys

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Disco has its own category — and so does rock'n'roll, again — as some of the biggest stars in the music industry meet for the 22nd Annual Grammy Awards ceremonies tonight.

Country singer Kenny Rogers is host of the two-hour CBS telecast, at 9 on Channel 2, that will include appearances by George Burns, Natalie Cole, Bob Dylan, Deborah Harry of Blondie, Isaac Hayes, Kris Kristofferson, Barbara Mandrell, Chuck Mangione and Sarah Vaughn.

AWARDS WILL BE made in a record 58 categories, but only 14 winners will be named on the air. The rest will be announced just before the telecast.

In keeping with what has become a virtual Grammy tradition, there were six new categories added this year — one in disco, one in jazz-fusion and four in rock.

The rock categories are more like reincarnations than innovations. In 1961, the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences first acknowledged the rock explosion by introducing a best rock recording award.

FOUR YEARS LATER, there were four rock categories, called contemporary R & R categories. Soon the "R & R" designation was dropped and by 1971 the term pop was substituted for contemporary. Until last year, the pop category encompassed pop, rock and folk.

Artists can be nominated in more than one category: Donna Summer, for example, is up for best female performance in the rock, pop and rhythm and blues sections.

Award winners are determined by balloting among some 4,500 NARAS members nationwide. All vote in the four general categories: best new artist, record and album of the year — which honor artists and producers — and song of the year, a songwriter's award.

BESIDES MISS SUMMER, top nominees this year include the Doobie Brothers, up for album of the year, record of the year and best pop vocal performance by a group. Doobie Brother Michael McDonald also is nominated for two songs he co-authored — "Minute By Minute" and "What a Fool Believes" and an arranging award.

Rogers is eligible for record and album of the year, best pop and country vocal performances by a male and, with sidekick Dottie West, best country vocal performance by a group.

'FACE THE MUSIC' PREMIERES MONDAY

KTLA's "Newlywed Game," which currently is in the time period, moves to 11 p.m. weeknights, also beginning Monday.

Suzanne '1980s Woman'

TV Actress in First Starring Role

AP Wirephoto
MOVIE STAR NOW
Suzanne Somers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Suzanne Somers says of her first starring role in a feature movie: "I'm playing the first 1980s woman to be seen on the screen. Until now, the liberated women in movies have been crying for equality. This woman has achieved it. She likes sex, and she gets along fine with men as well as women."

The movie is "Nothing Personal," which is being released this month by American International Pictures. Miss Somers stars as a Washington attorney who joins conservationist Donald Sutherland in a crusade to save a seal species endangered by the building of an air base. The script is by Robert Kaufman ("Love at First Bite").

THIS ISN'T MISS Somers' first film. While struggling to earn a living as an actress in San Francisco, she did walk-ons in such films as "Bullitt" and "Magnum Force." Her most memorable film role was in the 1972 "American Graffiti."

"I worked one night on the picture and got paid $136.72," she recalls. "I said three lines — or rather I mouthed the words, 'I love you,' as I was passing by in a car."

During those years she sometimes earned as little as $2,000 a year as an actress. All that changed three years ago with the debut of ABC's comedy series "Three's Company."

SUZANNE SOMERS was reflecting on the changes in her career during lunch break at CBS' Television City, where "Three's Company" is taped. She is refreshingly candid — sometimes, she fears, too much so.

Sample: "I did 'Nothing Personal' because I greatly admired the talent of Donald Sutherland, and I wanted to see if I could rise to his talent. Did I succeed? 'Yes'," she says modestly.

"Oh, I know that will sound arrogant in print. That's the trouble with me: The things I say in all innocence can appear blatant when they are repeated. People advise me to say less, to maintain some mystery about myself. Maybe I should but I can't."

THAT'S WHAT IS engaging about Miss Somers: her openness. She can even comment wryly about the nude layout in the recent Playboy: she admitted posing during her broke era.

"Jay Bernstein (her manager) asked me, 'Is there anything else?'," she said. "I told him, 'No, Jay, that's all'."

Such mishaps as the Playboy spread are far outweighed by the happy returns from the hit of "Three's Company." They include starring in TV specials and headlining in Las Vegas, as well as feature movies. She did two during the series break last summer.

"Right after the last show I left for Utah to emcee the 'College Cheerleaders Contest' special," she said. "Then I went to England to make 'Yesterday's Hero' with Ian McShane. I had never done a lead in a movie before, and I wanted to back into it — sort of experiment without being noticed too much. The picture is very British; in fact, I had trouble understanding some of the actors. I doubt if it will be released in this country, although it has done very well in Europe.

"THEN I WENT immediately into 'Nothing Personal,' which was made in Washington, D.C., and Toronto as a Canadian tax-shelter movie. To my surprise, I qualified as a Canadian member of the cast. I've been a member of the Canadian union for 14 years, having made a series, 'Man-trap,' up there. And I'm married to a Canadian (producer Alan Hamel).

"The character I played was a complete departure from what I'd done before. She was closer to my sense of humor, and woman who has been comfortable with men all her life. She certainly has more savvy than Crissy (of 'Three's Company')."

Dues Hike Not Fair

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board says Actors Equity cannot require Lynn Redgrave and Yul Brynner and other foreign actors to pay higher union dues than those charged American actors.

In a ruling, the board ordered Actors Equity to reimburse Brynner and Miss Redgrave the extra dues they have paid since April 8, 1976.

The decision affects other foreign actors who perform in the United States and are required to join the union as a condition of employment.

A California classic, fish and chips, can be updated for a savory summer snack. Just add potato chips to tuna and be glad your 'chip has come in.'

Crunchy Creation

When it comes to snacks, Americans are increasingly seeking quick, easy and healthy foods. As a result, lightweight vegetables and fruits, protein-rich fish and fiber foods are gaining popularity as snacks.

However, sensible eaters are learning potato chips still fit well into daily eating habits, especially when paired with other healthy foods.

In Southern California, snacks often include fish. San Diego has a flourishing fishing trade, including one of the largest tuna fleets and tuna processing industries in the country.

San Diego Tuna Pate is a local specialty served with crispy potato chips that offers appetizing flavor. This snack is convenient, economical and good for you.

According to a recently released nutritional report, potato chips have much to offer. Like the potatoes from which they're made, chips contain valuable vitamins, minerals and essential carbohydrates, including a good serving of vitamin C, niacin, B6, iron and fiber.

Laboratory studies indicate that, thanks to the quick and simple chip-making process, potato chips may actually retain more nutritional goodness than home-processed potatoes.

For example, potato chips are fried in cholesterol-free vegetable oil for only about two minutes, whereas even the simplest boiled potato loses nutrients as it cooks for at least 20 minutes.

As for calories, a one-ounce serving (snack size bag) of chips contains only 150, no more than a medium size potato flavored with 2½ teaspoons of butter.

There are caloric foods and then there are calorie-wise foods offering good nutritional value in return for calories. Potato chips are in the calorie-wise snack category, especially when teamed with pate of low-calorie, high-protein tuna.

This is only one of the recipes included in "America The Beautiful Potato Chip," a new potato chip recipe cookbooklet published by the Potato Chip Information Bureau.

To order this booklet containing 34 crunchy ideas for cooking with potato chips, send 25c (to cover postage and handling) to: Potato Chip Information Bureau, Department A, P.O. Box 7334, San Francisco, California 94105.

Microwave Them for a Maxi Meal

Microwave ovens are a real helping hand for cooks whose time is at a premium.

With a microwave, you can have elegant meals in minutes, a special plus for working couples. Not all foods take well to microwave cooking, but America's favorite vegetable, the potato, is a natural. A medium potato cooks in under 5 minutes and the flavor is sensational.

To microwave "bake" a potato, scrub, pat dry and prick in several places with a fork. Place single potato in oven center, on a double layer of paper toweling.

For two or more potatoes, place in spoke fashion with smaller ends toward center. Consult your oven manual, as cooking time varies with oven model, potato size and variety; usually 4 minutes for a medium/large potato (6 ounces) plus 1-2 minutes for each additional potato.

It's important to turn potato over halfway through baking. Before testing for doneness, allow 5 minutes "standing time" since potatoes and other microwave foods continue to cook after removal from the oven.

Microwave cooking is also a good way to preserve the storehouse of nutrients in a potato. The potato has a very special nutrition story.

A 100 calorie medium potato provides 35 percent of the US recommended daily allowances (US RDA) of vitamin C, 20 percent of vitamin B6, 15 percent of iodine and 10 percent of iron, niacin, and copper, along with significant amounts of other important vitamins and minerals.

The potato's nutrition story is so important that potatoes are the first vegetable to have a nutrition label. Look for it in your store.

For an easy and delicious microwave dish that's just right for two, try Micro Potatoes Parmesan. It's a flavorful and colorful combination of potatoes, green peppers, onions and cheese that's ready in minutes.

Leave the skins on the potatoes for extra nutrients and remember to always let this and any other microwave recipe rest before serving since foods cooked in the microwave continue to cook for several minutes after you remove them from the oven.

MICRO POTATOES PARMESAN

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 medium potatoes unpeeled (about 2/3 pound), sliced ¼ inch thick
⅓ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
½ cup 1-inch green pepper chunks
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
Paprika
Chopped parsley

Melt butter in shallow 9-inch dish in microwave oven. Add potatoes, onion and garlic; toss. Cover loosely with plastic wrap and place in microwave oven on full power for 5 minutes. Stir in green pepper, salt and pepper; toss, cover and microwave on full power 3 minutes.

Gently mix in cheese. Toss gently and dust with paprika. Microwave on full power, uncovered 3 minutes. Let rest 2 minutes. Sprinkle with parsley. Makes 2 or 3 servings.

HOT POTATO AND BROCCOLI VINAIGRETTE

4 medium potatoes (about 1⅓ pounds), peeled and cut in 1-inch cubes
1 bunch broccoli (1 to 1½ pounds), trimmed and broken into small branches
½ cup vegetable oil
¼ cup cider vinegar
1 clove garlic, finely minced
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon basil
⅛ teaspoon liquid hot pepper sauce
2 green onions, sliced
Cherry tomatoes

In saucepan over medium heat, cook potatoes, covered, in about 1 inch boiling water until just tender, 10 to 15 minutes. Drain thoroughly and keep hot.

In another saucepan over medium heat, cook broccoli, covered, in about 1 inch boiling water until crisp tender, about 10 minutes.

Drain thoroughly and keep hot. In small saucepan combine remaining ingredients except tomatoes. Bring just to boiling over medium heat, stirring.

Arrange hot potatoes and broccoli in serving dish; pour hot vinegar mixture over and toss gently. Garnish with cherry tomatoes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

A 'Love-ly' Meal

A loaf of bread, a dish cooked with wine and thou.

A birthday should be something special, something that shows how much you care — a thoughtful gift, the music you both enjoy, a candlelit dinner. Most of all, the spirit of love belongs in the meal, and that means a dish cooked with wine.

What could be more romantic than a juicy prime steak dramatically flambeed with cognac, sauteed in butter with chives, shallots, and freshly ground pepper and sublimely flavored with sherry cooking wine. It's called Steak Diane, and although it's a popular choice at romantic restaurants, it's surprisingly easy to fix at home. Here are a few key tips to keep in mind.

FIRST, your butcher should select steaks for you that are lean and free of gristle.

Second, Steak Diane must be cooked rapidly over a high heat and tastes best when served very rare.

Third, if you don't have a chafing dish, don't fret. Steak Diane can be quickly prepared in a skillet.

Finally, a few words about the wine. First, you don't need to buy an expensive sherry. Many sherries are fine for drinking but their delicate flavors are utterly lost during the cooking process.

WHENEVER you cook with wine, it's a good rule of thumb to choose wines especially selected and prepared for use in cooking. According to Sara Ellen Krinsk, consulting chef at Holland House Brands Co., cooking wines are an excellent choice because they're robust enough to stand up to high cooking temperatures and they don't vary from bottle to bottle.

If you don't often have table wines in the house, Mrs. Krinsk explains, you should also know that once opened, cooking wines keep well without refrigeration. One more bonus — they're conveniently available seven days a week in grocery stores and supermarkets.

Mrs. Krinsk points out that food taste tests, conducted at four major American universities known for their hotel and restaurant administration programs — Cornell, Purdue, City University of New York and Florida State — showed that in 9 out of 17 recipes, dishes prepared with cooking wine were preferred to the identical dishes prepared with fine beverage wines.

And those findings were confirmed recently, says Mrs. Krinsk, by a gourmet panel who took the same blind taste comparison test and judged dishes prepared with cooking wines to be as good as those made with fine table wines.

STEAK DIANE

4 sirloin steaks — 10 to 12 ounces each
Salt to taste
Freshly ground black pepper
Butter
½ cup Cognac
2 tablespoons shallots, chopped
2 tablespoons parsley chopped
2 tablespoons chives, chopped
⅓ cup sherry cooking wine

On a cutting board pound each steak with a meat mallet until it is no thicker than ¼ inch. Season with salt and freshly ground pepper to taste. Add enough butter to skillet to completely cover bottom and place over high heat. When butter reaches cooking temperature, very quickly brown steaks on both sides turning only once. Pour in Cognac, allow to warm, ignite and blaze. Remove steaks to heated platter. Add additional butter, shallots, parsley and chives to skillet and saute lightly. Add Sherry, mix well and pour hot sauce over steaks. Makes 4 servings.

RESEARCH PRECEDES NEW FOOD PRODUCTS

News for Consumer

Consumer food preferences, lifestyle trends, product cost and nutritive value are all important elements in the research conducted by food companies before a new product is considered for development. . .and that's only the beginning.

A revised booklet from the Consumer's Right To Know program, "A Food Product. . .from Concept to Consumer," details the many steps that precede the marketing of a quality food product. From the first idea straight through to consumer responsibility, the booklet outlines the story behind the satisfaction guaranteed label.

One of eight in a series of Consumer's Right To Know booklets offering the kind of information today's consumer needs and wants, single free copies of "A Food Product. . .from Concept to Consumer" are available by sending a post card to Food Product (L9), Department FE, P.O. Box 802, South Holland, Ill. 60473.

Other booklets include "More Than Just a Package," "Research and Development in the Food Industry," "Additives and Our Food Heritage," "Outsmarting the Cash Register," "Guidelines to Good Health," "Food and Nutrition Terms," and "Food Selection, Storage and Preparation."

Initiated in 1974, the Consumer's Right To Know program seeks to provide consumers with industry information and other facts necessary to make intelligent, independent purchasing decisions. The program also emphasizes the benefits of good nutrition and physical fitness in the daily lives of people of all ages. Newsletters, public service announcements, news releases and films are the other elements of this program directed to consumers, educators and communicators in academia, government, media and industry.

A salmon and noodle dinner at a price that's a winner.

Step1. How do you win extra compliments with a basic noodle casserole? Make it not-so-basic with the special taste of our budget-saving North Pacific salmon. Start with one 15½ oz. can or two 7¾ oz. cans.

Step2. Drain and flake the salmon, but save the liquid. In a saucepan, melt ¼ cup of butter, and stir in ¼ cup of flour. Take the salmon liquid and combine it with enough milk to make one cup. Then gradually add this to the saucepan, stirring constantly until you've made a smooth, thick sauce

Step3. In a second pan, boil water and cook four cups of egg noodles. Meanwhile, back at the saucepan, stir in a can of cream of celery soup, ¼ cup of green onions (finely chopped), 1½ cups of frozen peas (partially thawed), the salmon, and ¾ cup of sharp cheddar cheese (save another ¼ cup to put on top).

Step4. You're doing great. Continue to stir until the cheese is melted, then add the cooked noodles and mix well. Season to your taste, or the taste of any of the people who have now crowded around the stove, lured by the delicious aroma.

Step5. Pour into a buttered 9x13-inch casserole dish. Sprinkle reserved cheese on top. Bake in an oven for 30 minutes at 350 degrees and – hallelujah – you've just made a dinner that's a winner for six to eight people.

A Little Tenderness Goes a Long Way

Slim Gourmet

By Barbara Gibbons

If you're a beef-lover who's fighting both the battle of the budget as well as the bulge, you know that the best buys in meat can also be less than tender

Beef bottom round, for example. It has only 612 calories a pound (lean, choice), yet it offers more protein, less fat and waste than rib steak and porterhouse. But it sure can give your jaws a workout

Why not try a little tenderness? Today, we're going to review the ways you can "operate" on the cheaper, less-fattening cuts of meat to make them more steak-like in quality eating.

MEAT Tenderizers. These are sold under a variety of brand names, seasoned and unseasoned, as powders or liquids. The main ingredient is papain, a natural enzyme found in the papaya fruit. Papain helps soften the tough fibers of meat before cooking by partially digesting them. (Most tenderizers do contain added salt and some sugar.) Tenderizing action works best at warm temperatures; stops at high and low temperatures, so the action ceases once meat is either cooked or frozen

The package directions on most powders tell you to moisten the meat with water, sprinkle with tenderizer, then puncture the meat all over with the tines of a fork to spread the tenderizer deep into the meat. Some brands suggest that you cook the meat immediately, while others suggest waiting 30 minutes or more.

One brand, Tender Kiss, a liquid in a pump-spray can, suggests waiting two hours to give the tenderizer ample time to work.

It's a wise precaution to be certain that hands and implements are scrupulously clean, and that tenderized meat is cooked at least to a medium-rare stage.

ACID MARINADES can also help break down the tough tissue of less than tender meats, and add flavor as well. The business-end of a marinade is the acid liquid: vinegar, wine, salad dressing, lemon juice, other fruit juices not oil. The oil called for in most cookbook marinades does not promote tenderness, but it does add enormously to the calorie count, close to 1,000 per half-cupful. So why not simply omit the oil and replace it with water or additional juice or wine. Most low-caloric (low-fat) salad dressings work even better than regular salad dressings because they're generally more acidic.

FRESH OR frozen pineapple juice works even better than other fruit juices because the natural enzyme in pineapple has a pre-digesting effect similar to the papain in papaya.

Fresh or frozen papaya juice, where available, would also work. However, canned pineapple or canned papaya juice works only as well as any other fruit juice . because the enzyme has been destroyed by heat-processing.

MECHANICAL tenderizers can cut through tough meat fibers and create an easy-chewing texture. You can accomplish this by using a metal-studded meat mallet (available in housewares shops) or by buying machine-tenderized "minute steaks" from the supermarket. Incidentally, the same steel bladed equipment used by commercial butchers is now available in a small hand-tenderizing device for the home recently tested and written about by Consumer Reports magazine. At $25, the Jaccard Mini Meat Home Tenderizer is expensive. but effective.

Rice Recipes

If you think you have problems, consider what it would be like if you had an allergy to milk, eggs, wheat, and/or gluten. What you do is to spend lots of time in the market reading ingredient labels since these ingredients are included in just about every prepared food and occur naturally in others. If your child has one of these allergies, you find yourself running around the neighborhood to make sure that he doesn't join the other children in cookies and milk at a friends's house. Those who are well acquainted with the problem will be delighted to learn that the Rice Council has just prepared a leaflet of "Tasty Rice Recipes. . .for those with Allergies." The recipes are divided into four sections:

1. Wheat Free — 14 recipes
2. Wheat and Egg Free — 4 recipes
3. Wheat and Milk Free — 6 recipes
4. Wheat, Milk, and Egg Free — 5 recipes

Rice is classified as a non-allergenic food. This means that it can be eaten by most people who are allergic to other foods. And since rice and rice flour can be made into dishes that can be served for breakfast, lunch, dinner, or snacks, they are good ingredients to keep on hand

For free copies of the leaflet, write to: Rice Council, P.O. Box 22802, Houston, Texas 77027. Include a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope and ask for "Allergy Recipes."

Three Rules for Good Stomach Health

Special Diets
By June Roth

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, there are three simple rules to remember if you want to avoid unnecessary upset stomachs.

They are: Keep food clean, keep food cold, and keep food hot. By following these procedures, you can prevent food poisoning sicknesses that occur through careless handling in many family kitchens.

Besides using clean utensils, platters, countertops, and hands to prepare food, it's important to avoid spreading germs from raw food to cooked food.

Never place raw hamburgers on a platter, cook them, and return them to serve on the same platter — germs from the raw meat will be served with the cooked meat to cause possible trouble.

Never place raw chicken on a countertop then cut raw vegetables on the same surface without washing it thoroughly with soap and water or you will spread the chicken bacteria into your salad.

Cooking kills most germs that occur in food. Avoid eating raw ground beef or raw fish, no matter what gourmet leaves it may have. After cooking, keep food hot until it is served, then refrigerate leftovers at once. Germs multiply quickly in food that is permitted to come to room temperature, and yet rarely affects the taste, odor, or appearance of the food to give you warning of danger. If it is necessary to pre-cook food early in the day, refrigerate it until it is time to reheat and serve it mealtime.

Bacteria does not multiply very fast when the temperature is 40 degrees Fahrenheit or below. When you market, choose the items last that should be refrigerated, then get them home and put away as soon as possible.

Thaw meat and poultry in the refrigerator, rather than letting them sit at room temperature for many hours. Otherwise you are waiting for the interior of the meat to thaw enough to cook.

Be particular about refrigerating dairy products at all times, except when they are being served at meals. Don't use cracked eggs, and do wash eggs before use to prevent contaminating the raw egg with the dirty shell.

In restaurants, avoid ordering items with mayonnaise or dairy products that may be sitting at room temperature for too long.

When attending a buffet dinner, avoid the platters that are not kept hot or chilled — especially those that have been on the table for an hour or more.

Preventative medicine starts with your shopping cart and continues with your kitchen practices and serving techniques. You can stop a lot of upset stomachs by a few changes in your food preparation habits.

If symptoms such as diarrhea, stomach cramps, nausea, or fever occur within six hours of eating a suspected meal, call your doctor and get medical attention at once. Many a so-called virus or flubug, turns out to be a touch of food poisoning that could have been avoided.

The following recipes show techniques to avoid the formation and spread of bacteria in your food supply.

SAUTEED CURRIED DUCK

1 duck, about 5 pounds
¼ cup vegetable oil
½ cup cider vinegar
2 teaspoons ground curry powder
4 cloves garlic, minced fine
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon brown sugar

If duck is frozen, thaw completely in the refrigerator. Place duck in wrappings on a paper bag on a counter near the sink. Cut wrappings away and cut back into serving pieces.

Wash duck pieces and dry thoroughly with paper toweling; place in a clean deep bowl. Dispose of paper bag and wrappings. Heat oil in a skillet, add curry powder and stir until dark brown. Remove from heat.

Add garlic, vinegar, salt, pepper, and brown sugar; stir well. Pour over duck pieces in bowl. Refrigerate for several hours, covered tightly; stir occasionally to coat duck pieces well.

Pour marinade from the duck into a clean skillet; heat until hot. Brown the duck pieces, adding more oil if necessary.

Turn heat low, cover skillet, and simmer for 3 hours, or until duck is tender. Add a little water if necessary to keep duck from sticking to pan. Makes 4 servings.

HAMBURGERS CORDON BLEU

1½ pounds lean ground beef
1 tablespoon grated onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
4 slices ham, size of beef patty
4 slices Swiss cheese, size of beef patty

Break up meat in a mixing bowl, using a clean fork. Add onion, parsley, salt, and pepper. With clean hands, shape the meat into 8 thin flat patties; place on a clean platter.

Top 4 of the patties with a slice of ham and a slice of cheese each, then cover with 4 remaining patties and press edges together to seal.

Broil for 3 to 4 minutes on each side, or until done to your taste. Meanwhile, wash the used platter with soapy water, rinse and dry, or use a clean platter to place cooked burgers on for immediate serving. Makes 4 servings.

Clay Baker Adds Life to Food Budget

Is the rising cost of food making it ever more difficult to satisfy your family's taste for meat? Are they getting tired of your attempts at doing several dozen intriguing things with chicken wings and seventeen unique variations with ground beef that are still just hamburger, any way you cut it?

You'll be surprised and pleased to note that the cost of pork hasn't yet gone through the ceiling. This makes it an ideal choice for delicious and satisfying meals — within your budget — that will please everyone.

And if the thought of pork immediately brings to mind a couple of small, dry and unappealing chops, it's time to re-think pork. It's time to bring out the best that pork has to offer and there's no better, easier way to cook it than to cook it in clay!

Juicy and succulent, pork cooked in a clay baker retains all the luscious flavor locked in the meat. Moreover pork prepared in clay is less fatty and more digestible than it is when cooked by virtually any other method.

The delicious taste of food that's been cooked in clay is the result of the 'magic' of this ancient technique. After being soaked briefly in water, the clay pot is filled with the ingredients of the recipe and placed in the center of a cold oven.

As the oven is heated, the water that has been absorbed by the porous clay is released as tiny particles that penetrate the food and mingle with its natural juices.

Not only does this eliminate the need for adding unneccessary fat and oil, it helps retain vital nutrients, vitamins and minerals as well as the most delicious flavor the food can offer.

Meat is tenderized while vegetables never become soggy from overcooking. Clay bakers are the perfect vessel for popular one-pot meals and they're easy to clean. Even the oven remains spotless since the pot remains covered during cooking.

A free Seven Day Diet folder is available from Reco International containing a week's worth of delicious meals that are low in calories and easy to prepare. Spice Blends A Taste Boon

Spice blends — combinations of ground spices blended together like poultry seasoning, pumpkin pie spice and Italian seasoning — are a boon to the homemaker-in-a-hurry.

They save time in handling several different spices and they're combinations which are kitchen-tested and professionally blended.

In addition, their accessible flavors are good for seasoning many things — not just a few traditional dishes.

Chili powder, for example, not only spices chili con carne; try some with butter on a baked potato. Or sprinkle it on cheese sandwiches before toasting.

Curry powder needn't wait for an Indian meal; a dash gives a real zest to beef stews. And a pinch in the flour mixture makes fried chicken more interesting.

Italian seasoning doesn't just speak Italian to spaghetti sauce; try it in meat loaf and salad dressings.

And don't put off using pumpkin pie spice until Thanksgiving; it's great anytime with cooked squash or carrots.

For any of these spice blends, follow the same rule as with the individual spices: start with a quarter-teaspoon, taste, then add more if you like.

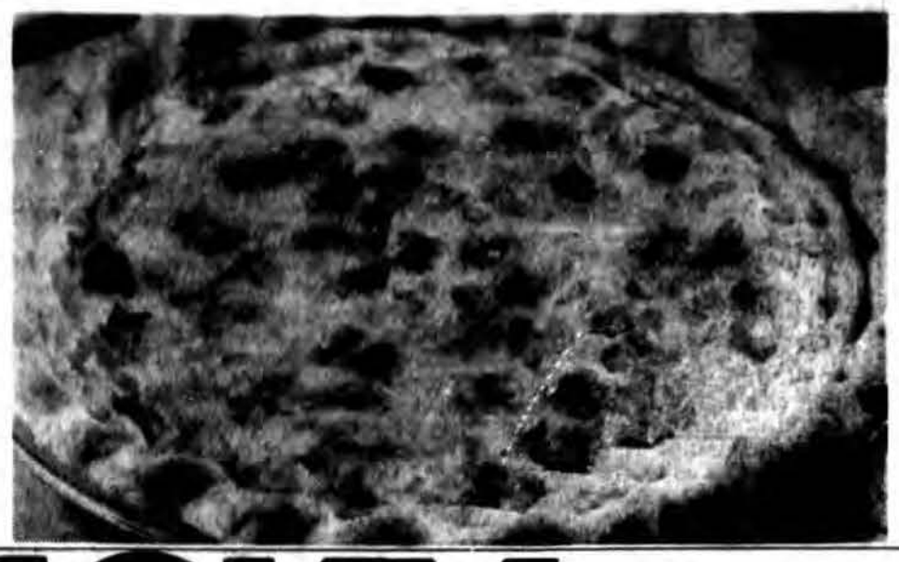
Fried Rice Quiche



An easy, elegant way to use up leftovers is to combine them with eggs in an economical quiche.

You wouldn't guess by looking at Fried Rice Quiche that it conceals dibs and dabs of whatever may be sitting in little plastic containers in your refrigerator. Tucking the leftovers into this creamy quiche elevates them from their lowly stature of "lost in the back of the refrigerator" to one of edible elegance.

In this quiche, the leftovers at hand, cooked rice, green pepper and ham, are combined with soy sauce and ginger to give a slightly Oriental flavor. They're cooked in butter first, then combined with an egg-milk mixture and poured into a pie shell (make your own or purchase a frozen, deep-dish style). You easily could add other ingredients — shredded cheese, leftover cooked vegetables, chopped, cooked chicken or roast beef.

Besides good flavor, one of the most appealing things about this easy entree is that it won't strain the budget. That's because it's based on economical eggs. At current prices, each Large egg costs seven or eight cents.

FRIED RICE QUICHE

(9-inch) pie shell,* unbaked
6 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup cooked rice
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup chopped cooked ham
2 teaspoons soy sauce
1 teaspoon ground ginger, divided
¾ teaspoon garlic salt, divided
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon instant minced onions
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Brush pie shell with small amount of the beaten eggs. Pierce bottom and sides with fork. If using metal pie pan, bake shell in preheated 450-degree oven until golden brown, about 5 minutes. If using pie plate, bake shell at 425 degrees. Cool on wire rack. Reduce oven temperature to 375 for metal pan or 350 for pie plate.

Melt butter in large skillet. Add rice, green pepper, ham, soy sauce, ½ teaspoon ginger and ¼ teaspoon garlic salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until rice is golden, about 10 minutes. Sprinkle rice mixture in pie shell.

Beat together eggs, milk, onions, pepper, remaining ½ teaspoon ginger and garlic salt. Pour into pie shell.

Bake in preheated oven until knife inserted halfway between center and outside edge comes out clean, 35 to 40 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Makes six servings.

*You can use a thawed frozen deep-dish style pie shell. Pre-bake shell in preheated 450-degree oven for 5 minutes. Bake filled quiche at 350 degrees.

Clean Plate Club

The "Clean plate club" can do more harm than good, cautioned Bob Keeshan on a recent broadcast of "The Subject is Young People." Parents who command that their children "clean their plates," explained Keeshan, are often confusing fat with good health and are teaching their children bad eating habits.

"Mange, mange! Ess, ess! Manga, manga! Eat, eat!" Whatever the language, it has been a command of mothers to children, I guess as long as there have been mothers and children. And now we know that mother was usually wrong in her culinary command.

"It was a club that admitted me to membership early in life. It was not very exclusive. Almost everyone belonged. It was the 'clean plate club' and my mother enrolled me in infancy.

My mother, like most of her peers, confused fat and healthy. She was wrong in that, probably the only thing she was ever wrong about, but she did insist I clean my plate, and don't forget your glass. Drink your milk.

"Medical advise is so much better now. We know much more than we knew in my mother's day. We know that it is more than the habit of eating that makes us fat. We know about fat cells, established early in life, when cleaning your plate. We know about insecurities and all that goes into the psychology of eating habits — much of it instilled by reward-oriented mothers. And, most important, we no longer confuse fat and healthy.

"I don't think any kid enjoys being fat. Your clothes don't fit; you can't make it to first base before the ball; gym class can be an embarrassment. They say fat people are jolly, but kids will tell you laughs are usually flowing in one direction — straight at a stretched belly button.

"Worst of all, when you know you resemble you-know-who's blimp hovering over the Super Bowl, you just don't feel good about yourself. And then you down another cake or candy bar to compensate for all those bad feelings and make matters worse.

Vegetables Dress Up

Commonly used vegetables need not look dull or taste flat at the dinner table. A little ingenuity and a few ingredients on hand can lift the bean, pea or carrot to new flavor heights.

Bear in mind that it's cheaper to buy packages of vegetables by themselves rather than in a cooking pouch or container with sauce, other vegetables or rice.

Also, a sauce or seasoning added at home will taste fresher. Consider the casserole of deviled beans.

AS FROZEN cut green beans cook on the range, saute some onion in peanut oil until tender. Then into the pan go mustard, peanut butter, tomato sauce, seasonings and cheddar cheese. The heated ingredients are popped into a casserole, and it is in the baking that the flavors blend together. Serve this piquant vegetable in side dishes to accompany beef, chicken or ham.

Vegetable patties made with leftover cooked peas or carrots go well with chicken or turkey. Onion and celery are first cooked in peanut oil — the light, practically flavorless oil so right for sauteing or frying. When tender, the vegetables are combined with peanut butter, potato, egg and peas or carrots. Shape into patties and roll in cornflake crumbs.

When shallow frying, the peanut oil need not be more than one-half inch deep in the skillet. Since the patties are not completely immersed in oil, turn for browning on the other side.

VEGETABLE PATTIES

¼ cup peanut oil
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup finely chopped celery
⅓ cup peanut butter
4 Idaho potatoes, cooked, peeled and mashed or diced
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup chopped cooked peas or carrots
1½ cups cornflake crumbs
Peanut oil for frying

In a skillet heat peanut oil and saute onion and celery until tender, about 5 minutes. Pour into a bowl with drippings. Stir in peanut butter, potatoes, egg and vegetables. Stir until well blended. Shape mixture into 6 patties. Roll patties in crumbs until completely coated. Fry patties in shallow preheated oil (approximately 350 degrees) until brown on one side. Turn with a pancake turner and brown on other side. Drain on absorbent paper. If desired, serve with your favorite tomato sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

DEVILED BEAN CASSEROLE

2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen cut green beans
¾ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons peanut oil
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
⅔ cup chunky peanut butter
2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Cook beans following label directions; keep warm. In a large saucepan cook onion in peanut oil until onion is tender. Stir in mustard, peanut butter, tomato sauce and salt and pepper. Add beans. Sprinkle with cheese. Heat through. Turn into a 2-quart casserole. Bake covered at 350 degrees for 20 minutes or until cheese is melted. Yield: 6 servings

Nutrition In Focus

Dietitians and nutritionists will support the slogan "To Hit Your Stride. . .Eat Smart" throughout March during National Nutrition Month.

"A sound diet and moderate exercise are basic to good health," said Barbara Woodruff, president of the Orange Dietetic Association, in a news release. "With optimal nutrition and regular exercise, you feel good about yourself. And chances are you're cutting health care costs at the same time."

National Nutrition Month is sponsored by the American Dietetic Association, with nutrition education programs planned in local communities.

The 8th annual event has grown this year to a month-long nutrition awareness campaign. The event was previously known as National Nutrition Week.

Dietitians and fitness students will display information on aerobic dancing, nutrition, diet and exercise programs.

The mall demonstrations will be featured from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday, March 9, at Anaheim Plaza and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday, March 16, at Huntington Center.

The Orange County Nutrition Council will present its 8th annual symposium on "Food for Physical Fitness" Saturday, March 15, at the Disneyland Hotel.

Featured speakers at the symposium will be Dr. Nathan Smith from the University of Washington and Reggie Edgerton, professor of kinesiology at UCLA.

Dr. Smith will discuss uses and abuses of carbohydrates. Edgerton will explore the relationship of mineral loss and exercise.

The day-long symposium will be held at the hotel's Embassy Room. There is a $30 Registration fee.

Rx for Entertaining; Informal Party

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

Two facts of life — inflation and informality — are having a decided effect on the way Americans set a party table.

Judging from remarks made by a decorating expert and a food specialist, the new ways are making entertaining easier. Yet, the lack of rules has some people confused about how to achieve the desired results.

Bebe Winkler, a New York interior designer who helps clients plan special parties, says entertaining is more informal today, even among the rich and wellborn.

"FEW PEOPLE have the help for formal dinners," she says. "So serve-yourself buffets and casual food that can be served cold or kept warm in a chafing dish are in demand."

Ms. Winkler advises dedicated party-givers to collect and save up some interesting accessories to go into a "party resource closet" to liven up the table.

"Sophisticated women wouldn't wear the same dress to entertain the same people. But they often think nothing of having the same dinner table," she says. "I like to eat well, but an interesting table can add to the overall party."

Coming from an opposite direction to arrive at more or less the same place is John Clancy, a food authority, writer and teacher of cooking at his Manhattan brownstone.

"The color at a dinner party should come from the food. The table setting, plates and glasses are a backdrop," Clancy says. "But I happen to be very traditional I love white tablecloths and damask napkins, flowers, silver and crystal."

AS A FOOD writer, gourmet cook and dedicated eater, Clancy is disturbed by some of the new tableware of violent hue and busy design. He picks his menu first, and then creates the atmosphere to enhance it.

Both authorities agree that old-fashioned rules on setting a table are out. Mix-and-match table settings are endorsed by both Clancy and Ms. Winkler.

"I always advise my clients to take what they have and mix it. As a guide to what is compatible, consider design, color, proportion and mood," she explains. "It helps to have a blend of patterned and plain things — two pattern sets or groups and one plain or two plain and one patterned."

A number of manufacturers are beginning to offer dinnerware collections that blend with one another. But few of us go out and buy all our china at once.

Clancy solves the problem by having a basic set of all-white china to which he has added unusual antique dishes collected over the years.

As an individual who cooks for a living as well as pleasure, he has virtually any sort of utensil or dish he needs to try any dish.

HOWEVER, he says, "Don't let the lack of a utensil keep you from trying something.

"If you want to poach a fish and don't have a poacher, use a roasting pan and a cake rack. Tie strings to the rack so you can lift the fish out of the poaching liquid."

One rule that many are glad to see disappearing is the elaborate ritual of specific glasses for specific drinks, says Ms. Winkler.

"I advise people to buy a large number of inexpensive, oversize wine glasses to use as a basic. It can contain any type of wine or other beverage and it can double as a dessert dish," she explains. "The overscaling of the wine glass is right at home in today's informal entertaining scheme."

Other usable ideas for distinctive parties from Ms. Winkier are to break up a large dinner party into smaller groups of four to six. If you have an extension table, don't open it. Instead, set it for four or six and then use a dummy table, rented or homemade with a wood board and a base.

COVER both with fabric to the floor, king-size sheets convert nicely for this purpose, and use some potted, flowering plants, she suggests.

Clancy, whose own dining table is long and narrow, hit upon a clever way to lengthen and widen it on occasion.

"I had a plywood board, one inch thick, cut to fit on top of the table.

It adds six inches at either end and 14 inches in width. Of course, the catch is that you have to have a place to store the board when not in use," he added ruefully.

Bebe Winkler's favorite party recently was a July 4 bash aboard a boat that went round Manhattan. "There was a mix of ages from children to grandparents, excellent food, an exotic setting and lots to do," she recalls.

"The real trick of a party isn't the food and it isn't the table," Clancy admits. "It's the people. If they are congenial, everything will be all right. If they aren't, nothing else matters."

Corn Bread

NEW YORK — Pastry Chef Willy Ritz is no relation to other Ritzes, but he knows how to put plenty of it on at The Waldorf-Astoria.

The Waldorf shares some of its recipes with homemakers.

WALDORF CORN BREAD WITH FRESH HERBS

4 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup cake flour
1 cup corn meal
3 tablespoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
½ pint buttermilk
4 tablespoons assorted fresh herbs (parsley, sage, etc.), chopped, of your choice.

Cream sugar and shortening, add all the dry ingredients, and mix with the eggs and half the buttermilk. Add rest of buttermilk and herbs. Pour into buttered muffin tins and bake at 400 degrees. Yield: 8.

HERB BUTTER (Serve With Bread)

Let butter stand at room temperature until very soft. Add chopped fresh herbs of your choice (mixing different varieties is fine), and cream into butter. Serve in a crock.

Humans Shouldn't Try to Be Salt of Earth

By DOROTHY WENCK
Orange County Home Advisor

One of the nutrition recommendations we hear from many sources is that Americans should eat less salt

Salt contains two mineral elements: sodium and chloride. Both are essential nutrients But we get a far higher level of them than we need.

The amount of sodium that we need depends to a great extent on the amount we lose when we perspire. Thus, when it's warm or when we've been exercising vigorously we perspire more and have a higher need for sodium

While the average person is thought to get sufficient sodium by using 3 grams of salt per day, the usual daily intake is about 10 to 12 grams of salt

A teaspoon contains 6 grams of salt, so a diet providing 12 grams of salt per day would contain the equivalent of 2 teaspoons of salt

Two teaspoons is a lot of salt! Where does it all come from? Surely we're not sprinkling that much salt on our food as we eat it

No, we're not — although many people have the "salt shaker habit." They automatically sprinkle salt on meats, vegetables, salads, casseroles -- perhaps without even tasting them first.

Often we can bring our salt consumption down to more reasonable levels simply by breaking the salt shaker habit

Another large source of salt in our diets is our snacks Think about them: salted nuts and popcorn, potato and corn chips, pretzels, specialty snack crackers and other nibbles They are all very salty

Other favorite salty foods are pickles and relishes, olives, sardines and anchovies, hotdogs bologna, ham, bacon salami and other sausages and lunchmeats.

Then there are the high-salt seasonings: season salt, garlic salt, steak sauce, barbecue sauce, soy sauce, teriyaki sauce, chili sauce, taco sauce, bouillon, and gravy.

If you become a label reader you will find that salt is included in the ingredient list on all of these products.

You will also find that salt is ubiquitous in just about every prepared food you buy: ready-to-eat breakfast cereals; all types of main dishes, soups, and casseroles — boxed, frozen and canned; canned vegetables and vegetable juices; baked products of all kinds — breads, rolls, cookies, cakes; butter and margarine; cheese, both natural and processed.

Currently, the nutrition labeling, which is mandatory for certain foods and voluntary for others, does not need to tell you the amount of sodium present in foods. Reading the ingredient list can tell you that salt is present, but not how much.

Sodium also is an ingredient in non-salt additives, many of which are very common: monosodium glutamate (MSG), sodium caseinate, disodium phosphate, sodium benzoate, sodium propionate, sodium sulfite, sodium alginate, baking powder, baking soda (sodium bicarbonate), and many others.

Sodium also is a natural ingredient in many foods of both plant and animal origin.

The important thing to remember is that we need some sodium, that we can easily get plenty in our daily diet, and that reducing the amount that we add to foods when we cook them or eat them is probably a good idea.

If we're on a low sodium diet, then we need to avoid the highly salty foods and use more fresh and home prepared foods so that we can avoid some of the sodium that is added to commercially prepared foods.

QUESTIONS WE ARE ASKED:

. . .Q. My father has heart disease and high blood pressure and has been placed on a strict low sodium diet. He constantly complains that food doesn't taste good without salt, can't stand the salt substitutes, and refuses to follow his diet. Any suggestions?

. . .A. Your father's doctor needs to convince him of the vital importance of following the diet in hopes that this will motivate him to make an effort to cut down on his sodium intake. Eating salty foods is a habit, and like all habits, can be changed if the person's motivation is strong enough.

In a recent experiment, taste testers were asked to eat foods that had been prepared without salt and to add just a little salt for flavor. It was found that once the taste testers got used to unsalted and lightly salted foods "highly salted foods" — those containing about one-half of the normal amount — tasted far too salty. The test demonstrated clearly that we acquire our taste for a given level of salt.

Grade Change

A proposed change by the U.S Department of Agriculture in the official grade standard for grapefruit juice would allow juice in a greater range of color to qualify for U S. Grade A

Carol Tucker Foreman, assistant secretary of agriculture for food and consumer services, said the proposed revision would change the standard for U.S Grade A grapefruit juice to include the juice from well-ripened fruit but would continue to exclude abnormally colored juice

The proposed revisions would also make this grade standard in line with USDA's policy of uniform grade nomenclature. Under that policy, a single letter grade designation of A or B replaces descriptive quality terms, such as Fancy or Choice

The revisions proposed by USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service would affect the following products. grapefruit juice, dehydrated grapefruit juice, concentrated grapefruit juice for manufacturing, grapefruit juice from concentrate and frozen concentrated grapefruit juice.

The proposal was printed in the Feb. 15 Federal Register and copies are also available from Fruit and Vegetable Quality Division, FSQS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Comments will be accepted until July 1, and should be sent in duplicate to the executive secretariat, Attn. Annie Johnson, FSQS, USDA, room 3807-S, Washington, D.C. 20250

FSQS establishes grade standards and provides official grading service for many food products under authority of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 Use of the standards and grading service is voluntary and paid for by the user

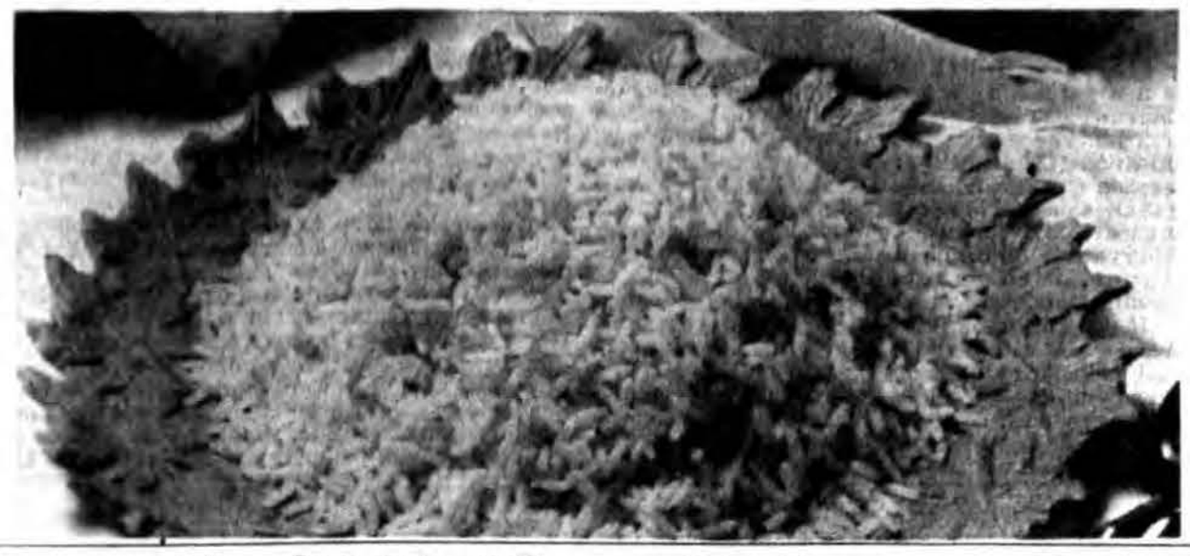
Mexican Touch



Mexican franks, beans, an easy meal to prepare.

In New England, a supper of franks and beans usually means that whole frankfurters are served with Boston-style beans. Sometimes a strip or two of bacon or salt pork is added.

The flavor combination is superb. It's an economical meal often anticipated on Sunday nights, a tradition that started when cooking on Sunday was not allowed. The beans were prepared the night before and cooked on back of the wood stove, ready to serve on the Sabbath.

Franks and beans are a favorite dish in the Southwest, too. The Mexican influence is noticeable in this recipe for Mexican Franks and Rice. Chili powder is the main seasoning and the beans are kidney beans. They, too, are cooked together. But because they are highly seasoned, this combination is then served over rice.

MEXICAN FRANKS AND RICE

1 cup chopped onions
1 medium green pepper, cut in ¾-inch squares
1 package (12 ounces) frankfurters, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 can (15 ounces) kidney beans
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups grated Cheddar cheese
3 cups hot cooked rice

Saute onions, green pepper, and franks in butter until vegetables are tender crisp. Stir in remaining ingredients except rice. Cook until hot and bubbly. Serve over beds of fluffy rice. Garnish with corn chips, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Each serving provides: 504 calories, 3-⅔ meat exchanges, 2 bread exchanges, 3 fat exchanges, 1 vegetable exchange.

Good Snack

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

There are all kinds of granola in this world, but of the many versions I have tried, the following recipe for Honey Nut Granola is my favorite. It's a basic formula that, served as is with sliced bananas or other fresh fruit plus milk, makes a delicious and nutritious breakfast or snack. And added to a batter, it produces some of the best muffins I have ever tasted.

Another plus: You can vary this Honey Nut Granola. After you have baked and cooled it, you may stir in some of the ingredients granola addicts often enjoy adding: raisins, chopped sugared dates or dried banana chips; sunflower, sesame or toasted pumpkin seeds; wheat germ.

HONEY NUT GRANOLA

3 cups quick-cooking oats
1 cup chopped medium-fine walnuts
⅓ cup butter, melted melted
½ cup honey
¼ teaspoon salt

In a large bowl thoroughly stir together the oats, walnuts, butter, honey and salt. Spread evenly in an ungreased 15 by 10-inch jellyroll pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven, stirring occasionally, until light golden brown — 25 minutes. At once spread mixture onto an ungreased cookie sheet or foil to keep granola from browning further; cool completely. Makes about 4 cups — enough for 4 batches of Honey Nut Granola Muffins.

HONEY NUT GRANOLA MUFFINS

1 cup Honey Nut Granola (see recipe)
1¼ cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter, soft
⅓ cup honey
1 large egg
½ cup plain yogurt

Prepare Honey Nut Granola; set aside 1 cup of it for use in this recipe; store the rest in a tightly covered container in the refrigerator.

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; stir in the 1 cup Honey Nut Granola. In a medium bowl beat together until blended the butter, honey, egg and yogurt; add the flour-granola mixture; with a spoon stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill muffin-pan cups each 2½ by 1 inch and ⅓ cup capacity ⅔ full. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 15 to 18 minutes. Makes 1 dozen.

Alcoholics: Bad News

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It has taken four years, but now you can say, "Ha, ha, I was right," to those folks who did that ridiculous study for the Rand Corporation and concluded that alcoholics CAN learn to drink moderately, with proper "conditioning."

You had the courage to take a strong stand against their findings and urged recovered alcoholics to stay on the wagon permanently.

I see in the national press that a new four-year study done by the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism revealed that less than eight percent of the alcoholics under observation were able to keep the number of drinks down to four a day. The study involved 900 people from several treatment centers. (These same people were in the first study that concluded alcoholics could drink moderately.)

According to my amateurish figures, if only eight percent were able to drink moderately, then 92 percent got into trouble.

Some people would rather be right than be president. How about you being both? — A.A. MEMBER AND ANN FAN

DEAR FAN: Thanks a lot but I have no interest in being president — or anything else. I like what I'm doing just fine.

In all fairness, you should be aware that this recent study was also done by the Rand Corporation. They used the same researchers who work for the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

I hope this reversal is given as much publicity as the one done four years ago. Alcoholics must be disabused of the notion that they can have one or two and then stop. They must be able to say, "I am powerless against alcohol. I cannot handle even one drop."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I were married in my parents' basement apartment 25 years ago. They didn't have a pot to cook in or a window to throw it out of. We had even less.

We have both worked hard to build a business. While we aren't multi-millionaires we are very comfortable. Problem: Our only daughter just became engaged to a wonderful young man. She wants a church wedding, bridesmaids, reception, formal dinner and the works. Very traditional. Her father thinks it's a waste of money and has been raising hell about it.

If we had to borrow the money, Ann, I'd say my husband is right, but we are well fixed and there is no reason our daughter shouldn't have the kind of wedding she has dreamed of all her life.

Will you give us your opinion? We've agreed to abide by what you say. My husband is sure you'll agree with him because he says you are a practical, down-to-earth woman with solid values. Please answer soon. — MOLLY AND ME

DEAR M. AND M.: Tell your husband this practical down-to-earth woman has never seen a Brink's money wagon in a funeral procession. If he can afford the kind of wedding his daughter wants she should have it.

Ten years ago, brides were getting married in meadows and barns, barefoot, wearing gunny sacks and sticking daisies in their hair. I, for one, am glad traditional weddings are back, and your husband should be, too.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on getting to heart of matters. Be direct, independent and put forth original concepts. Leo, Aquarius persons figure prominently. Hopes, wishes and romance are featured.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Highlight ability to sense what people are really thinking — dig beneath surface indications. Your natural talents, abilities are rewarded. You have opportunity to elevate prestige, to "make points" with superior.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are able to get message across in dynamic, dramatic fashion. Emphasis on philosophical concepts, travel, publishing and "spiritual enlightenment." Gemini and another Sagittarian figure prominently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Important to be thorough, specific and aware of "hidden meanings." Check special clauses — a contract might not be what it appears on surface.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be analytical. Don't be satisfied to know merely that something happened — find reasons. Member of opposite sex outlines plans, desires and expects you to do something about them.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Steer clear of controversy, confrontations. You get what you want through diplomatic approach. Family member, previously indifferent, becomes an ally and source of inspiration. Accent on nutrition, correcting past mistakes, resolving balance between work and recreation.

Bottle Speedy

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — Chris Lillibridge heaved a champagne bottle into the Pacific Ocean off Santa Cruz on New Year's Day. It took only a month for it to drift 2,300 miles to Anchorage, Alaska, and into the hands of a state assistant attorney general.

The eighth grader says Alaska Assistant Attorney General Larri Irene Spengler wrote back:

"I suppose we could both call this absolutely incredible. I live in Anchorage right near Cook Inlet and I found your note in the bottle. This has made my day. What a delightful thing to happen."

Lillibridge's sister also got results but they were hardly as spectacular. Her offering was found at Seacliff Beach, a few feet from where it was launched.

For the looks that get the looks™

Good looking hair. That gets noticed. That's a Command Performance haircut. A haircut that will hold its shape more than just a few days.

A haircut that won't try to force your hair into a style that's not right for it. We'll start with a careful study of your hair's natural inclinations. Our precision haircutters notice everything that's right (as well as everything that's wrong) with the way your hair has always grown. Then they'll give you your precision cut. One that adapts the style you want to the hair you have. So our precision haircut not only looks great the first day. It'll help to hold your hair in shape, even as your hair continues to grow. And you'll continue to get all the looks you're looking for.

No appointments necessary, ever. Just $16 for guys and gals.

SUPERMARKET SHOPPER

By MARTIN SLOANE

Many refunders complain that the hardest part of turning their trash into refund cash is removing obstinate labels from bottles and jars, especially those made of plastic.

The new "super" glue used by manufacturers to attach their labels has created a whole new category of home accidents that range from broken fingernails to cut and broken fingers.

In a previous column, I asked readers how they handled difficult-to-remove labels. Most suggested a method using water.

A READER FROM Birmingham, Ala., just fills the jar or bottle with very hot water. She finds that after a few minutes the glue usually melts; the label can then be carefully pulled off.

This method has the advantage of being fairly clean. And the label doesn't get wet and soggy.

But what if the label still won't budge?

A reader from Pawtucket, R.I., offers a method that she says works nine times out of 10:

"Soak a paper towel with hot water and place it over the label. Enclose the jar with the towel over it in a plastic bag or bread wrapper. Seal the bag and let it sit for an hour."

NINE TIMES OUT OF 10 isn't bad. But for that 10th label that remains defiantly hugging the jar, a reader from San Jose, Calif., says that she has the answer:

"I fill the jar or bottle with very hot water. Then I put it into a dishpan with enough hot water to completely cover the jar.

"I leave it overnight, and the next morning my label is floating in the water."

Sometimes it is difficult to tell whether there really is a label! Many manufacturers print their label information right on their plastic bottles.

Downhill Racers Beat All?

DEAR PAT: My brother claims that cross-country skiing is better exercise than downhill skiing. He says you use more calories and it's better for the heart. I disagree. Can you check into this for me?

K.L., Fountain Valley

Dr. Robert Leach of Boston University Medical Center, who writes a medical column for a skiing magazine and is an avid downhill and cross-country skier, agrees with your brother. He says that cardiovascular demands are far greater and many more calories are burned up by cross-country skiers than by downhill skiers. He explains that the expenditure of energy for a downhill skier is concentrated rather than sustained and that cross-country skiers use their arms as well as their legs. Another plus is the lower injury rate of cross-country skiing compared to the downhill variety.

Drug Guidelines Offered

DEAR PAT: Where can I get some general information about drugs commonly prescribed by doctors? I've read so much about the dangerous interaction of certain drugs to each other and to foods and other things that I would like some general information.

J.P., Costa Mesa

Check your favorite bookstore. There are several good paperback books available that provide the refence material you want. Also, the Pharmaceutical Manufacturer's Association (Consumer Service, 1155 15th St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005) offers two free publications: "Consumer Information About Drugs" kit and "The Medicines Your Doctor Prescribes — A Guide For Consumers."

This association also handles a complaint if it is of a general nature and related to the industry as a whole. If it is related to a specific product, the association will refer the complainant to the company that manufactures the product. The group provides written responses, detailing pertinent facts to the consumer. In some cases this may involve telephone responses, according to the association.

Law Backs Child Sharing

DEAR PAT: I understand there'a new law that encourages divorcing couples to share custody of their children. Would you explain the provisions of this law to me?

J.M., San Clemente

California law states that the overriding concern of the court in making a custody decision should be the best interests of the child. But until this year, a joint arrangement where custody is shared and the child has continuing contact with both parents was not officially on the "best interests" list. Now there is a law that says the court should favor joint custody when both parents request it. Should a request for joint custody be denied, the judge is required to state the reasons in his decision. The law also provides that a child's official records, including medical and school records, be accessible to both parents regardless of the custody arrangement.

Brake Failures Trigger Recall

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors is recalling some school bus chassis and trucks because of brake system problems that have caused a few minor accidents, the automaker announced.

GM spokesman Ed Lechtzin said that 55,000 1979 GMC and Chevrolet heavy-duty and medium-duty trucks would be recalled to replace front brake tubes that could fracture because of rattling in the system. He also said 3,500 1976 bus chassis would be recalled to replace defective push rod assemblies that could cause loss of braking power.

Repairs to all models will be free of charge, said Leohtzin.

2 Aided Ex-cult Members

BERKELEY (AP) — Two defectors from the doomed Peoples Temple, who established a center to help others fleeing from religious cults, were found shot to death in their home, police said today.

The bodies of Al Mills, 51, and his wife, Jeannie Mills, 40, were found Tuesday night in their small cottage located near a rest home, police said.

Their daughter, Daphene Mills, 15, also was found at the cottage, suffering from gunshot wounds in the head. She was listed in "very critical" condition at Alta Bates Hospital.

Police declined to speculate on whether the shootings were related to the Mills' connection with the Temple.

Some members of the Human Freedom Center, formed by the Millses in 1978 to help defectors from the Peoples Temple and other cults, said they feared "hit squads" had been organized to kill them after the mass murder-suicide of more than 900 of Jones' followers in Jonestown, Guyana, on Nov. 18, 1978.

The Millses followed Jones for more than six years before leaving the cult in 1975.

A son, Eddie Mills, about 17, was home at the time of the shootings but told police he didn't see or hear anything, according to Sgt. Michel deLatour of the Berkeley police. He was released after questioning by police.

Sgt. Jim Gaebe said the bodies were discovered by the children's grandmother, who lived next door. Her name was not released.

He said she found all three victims in the master bedroom and "ran screaming into Eddie's bedroom that his parents had been shot." She telephoned police.

All three victims had been shot in the head, police said.

Another son, Steve, returned home today on his motorcycle, deLatour said.

DeLatour said police had no suspects. He would not discuss details of the shootings, including the type of weapon used or the nature of the wounds.

Police emerged from the scene of the shootings about 8:30 a.m. carrying what appeared to be a rifle wrapped in brown paper.

Also at the scene was Dr. Chris Hatcher, a psychiatrist who has worked with Temple defectors and assisted police in a number of hostage situations.

Baseball Diamonds Due In Irvine Future

The city appears ready to play ball once again with youth groups competing for playing time on Irvine baseball diamonds.

That's because progress toward creation of three additional fields at Irvine High School has made it unnecessary for the city to consider a limit on the number of youth groups allowed to use presently overcrowded municipal diamonds.

City officials said Tuesday night the additional ball fields could be available by the time Little League baseball season starts in April.

The City Council earlier in February had indicated it would impose a moratorium on allocation of fields unless a proposal to use facilities at Irvine High School showed promise.

The Irvine Unified School District's Board of Education last week said it would support development of the three additional fields through cooperation with the city and private organizations.

Spearheading that effort had been Bil Butts, director of the Irvine Youth Athletic Association. Butts had suggested several weeks ago use of Irvine High School space to ease the playing field shortage.

Tuesday night, Butts said both the school district and Irvine Ranch Water District had pledged support for the project. He said the IRWD would aid in the removal of topsoil for creation of the new diamonds.

All that was needed, he said, was about $5,200 to buy brick dust — crushed brick — to make the base paths. He said the city could perhaps come up with the funds.

City officials were directed to study that request and report back to the council March 11.

Assistant City Manager Paul Brady Jr. said that with the new fields, no moratorium would be necessary for the upcoming season.

The city had been caught in a squeeze because its Community Services Department allocates field space to youth groups. Various organizations, including Little League, Pony Colt League, and girls softball league, had been competing for playing time on the city's limited number of diamonds. The Community Services Department's response was to propose a two-year moratorium on allocation of all athletic facilities to organizations or individuals who had not established a history of use with the city; to offshoot organizations of existing groups, and to new divisions in existing organizations.

That plan was modified by the council two weeks ago to call for a moratorium of one year if the playing field proposal did not work out.

Brady said it would take only about two weeks to get the new fields in playing shape.

Injuries Take Life Of Priest

A Seal Beach priest died Tuesday of injuries suffered when he was assaulted Feb. 9 in St. Anne's Catholic Church, and police said the assailant, still at large, now faces a murder charge.

Seal Beach police are seeking public assistance in locating the man who struck Father Felix Doherty, 63, on the side of his head with a fist at the door of the rectory. The priest was assaulted without provocation, police said.

The priest was not hospitalized immediately but collapsed at the rectory Feb. 16, police said, and was rushed to St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica.

At the hospital surgery was performed on a blood clot in the area where he was struck. The priest remained hospitalized until his death at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Seal Beach police Capt. Sam D'Amico said a parishioner has offered a $1,000 reward through Seal Beach police for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the priest's assailant.

'Hunters' Given 25 Years to Life

OROVILLE (AP) — Two young white men who admitted stalking and killing a deaf black man when they couldn't find any animals to shoot were sentenced to 25 years to life in prison today, and the judge recommended they never be paroled.

"Marvin Dean Noor and James T. McCarter have demonstrated for some time their total disregard for the rights of others," said Butte County Superior Court Judge Jean Morony.

"Their action in this case was callous and malicious. I recommend their terms be fixed at life and they be kept in prison for life without any possibility of parole."

But the state Board of Prison Terms could decide to grant paroles after the two have spent 16 years, eight months in prison, or two-thirds of the minimum 25 years.

Noor, 19, and McCarter, 20, admitted shooting Jimmy Lee Campbell, 22, from their car as he walked along a railroad track in nearby Chico Jan. 13, 1979. Authorities said the two had been drinking heavily.

The sentence imposed is the maximum for first-degree murder, to which the two pleaded guilty Jan. 30.

In a plea bargain with authorities, the pair avoided the possibility of the death penalty, which can be imposed for a racially motivated murder.

Noor and McCarter remained expressionless when the sentence was read to a quiet courtroom before about 30 spectators, one a black woman who wept. The men remained in county custody awaiting transfer to the state prison at Vacaville, while authorities decide where they will be housed permanently.

Black leaders expressed outrage when the guilty pleas were released last month, because a year-long gag order had been imposed, and because the plea bargain prevented the possibility of a death sentence.

The Butte County chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has held several meetings on the issue and threatened to seek federal charges against county officials for the handling of the case.

Marine Abducted While Hitchhiking

Police Lt. Gene Norden said Rex Kenneth Bicknell of 5118 Elksford was booked at Newport Beach City Jail on suspicion of kidnapping.

Norden said the Marine, David Wilder, 18, was hitchhiking on Jeffrey Road near the San Diego Freeway at about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday when the incident allegedly occurred.

Norden said Wilder told officers he was picked up by a man who pulled a gun on him in the car and drove him to a home in the village of El Camino Real.

The investigator said the private, whose hometown is unknown, managed to shove the suspect once inside the home and escape. Wilder told police he ran to the intersection of Culver Drive and Walnut Avenue, flagged down a car and was taken to the El Toro Marine Air Station.

Police took Bicknell into custody at his home at about 5:30 a.m. today without incident, Norden said. The reason for the alleged kidnapping was not apparent, police said.

Insulation Burns

A 10-story building under construction in Newport Beach near the county airport sustained little damage Tuesday afternoon when fire broke out on the third floor, but a lot of insulation material was ruined. Fire Investigator Jim Upton said the blaze at 1301 Dove St. may have been started by a smoldering cigarette, or a burning cinder from a welder's torch.

Iran Sit-in Staged By Afghan Students

By The Associated Press

A group of Afghan students living in Tehran occupied the Afghan Embassy in the Iranian capital, Iran's official Pars news agency reported today.

One student told the agency by telephone: "We, the Afghan students, who have staged a peaceful sit-in in the embassy, will issue a statement on the reasons for and motives of our action."

No other details were available, but the takeover apparently was to protest the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan which aims at crushing a 22-month-old Moslem rebellion against the communist Afghan regime.

Carter, Reagan 'Win' Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — President Carter and Ronald Reagan scored victories in Minnesota party caucuses, but the non-binding straw polls were only the first step in selecting that state's contingent.

Republican returns from about 2,000 of Minnesota's 4,024 precincts showed Reagan with 33 percent, George Bush with 30 percent and Rep. John Anderson of Illinois with 13 percent. They were followed by Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee with 7 percent; John Connally, 6 percent; Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, 3 percent, and Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, 1 percent. Six percent were undecided.

An Associated Press 80-precinct sample of Democratic delegates elected to county-unit conventions showed Carter had 54 percent, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts 6 percent and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. 1.7 percent. Another 38 percent were uncommitted.

Spousal Testimony Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court, altering a 22-year-old legal rule, said today that husbands and wives cannot be barred from testifying against each other in federal court.

"When one spouse is willing to testify against the other in a criminal proceeding, whatever the motivation . . . there is probably little in the way of marital harmony for the privilege against such testimony to preserve," Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote for a unanimous court.

The justices upheld the conviction of Otis Trammel Jr. of Los Angeles, a convicted heroin smuggler who contended that his trial was tainted by his wife's testimony against him.

Mortgage Rate 14½ Percent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The nation's largest thrift lender has joined the largest federally chartered savings and loan institution in raising home mortgage rates to 14½ percent.

The increases by Home Savings & Loan Association and California Federal Savings reflected a record-breaking 13.629 percent rate paid for six-month Treasury Bills in Monday's auction, but lenders said funds available for mortgage were still tight.

The increase to 14½ percent followed the lead set Monday by Glendale Federal, Great Western Savings & Loan and American Savings.

Gold Prices Dip; Dollar Steady

LONDON (AP) — Gold prices dipped in Europe today as the dollar held mostly steady on world currency markets.

Gold bullion lost $14 an ounce in trading on the big Zurich market and was selling for $628. In London, the afternoon fixing by five major dealers was $636, down $6 from Tuesday. In New York gold was trading at $643.

London silver prices eased to $33.25 an ounce from $33.50 Tuesday. But the metal traded at $33.60 in New York.

More Study Sought On Arts Theater

The Irvine City Council wants further study on sites for a proposed performing arts theater, momentarily bringing down the curtain on a Community Services Department suggestion to locate the facility in the city's future civic center.

The council voted 4-0 Tuesday night, with Mayor David Sills absent, to send the matter back to the city's Arts Committee and Community Services Commission for more analysis of sites for a theater.

The arts panel had conceded several weeks ago there was insufficient public and private donor interest in building a full-scale $6 million or $7 million performing arts center and suggested instead a $1.5 million amphitheater in county-owned Mason Park near University Town Center.

The amount needed for the amphitheater roughly matches the size of a voter-approved bond fund the city has been holding onto for theater construction.

However, community services officials urged the council Tuesday night to go for a civic center site, a recommendation that annoyed some arts committee members.

Shirley Palley, head of the arts panel, told the council that staff's proposal reflected little research. Mrs. Palley said the committee was never invited to offer its opinion on the recommendation and was unaware such a site was under consideration.

City officials, however, said efforts were made to let the arts panel know of the recommendation.

Councilman Bill Vardoulis said a consultant's report indicated the cost of building a theater in a civic center site near Saddleback College's new North Campus would exceed the bond fund because of the necessity to muffle noise from military jet overflights.

The committee had favored the Mason Park site because it was located near the original University Town Center location for a 750-seat theater. The site, the group felt, also was good because it was graded and planted in lawn with seating for about 1,500, a concrete stage with electrical service already existed and parking structures in Town Center once planned to serve the performing arts theater there could serve the amphitheater.

Community Services officials, however, felt the civic center site was best because the "utilization potential" was higher in such a locale and more fee-paying groups would be likely to use the facility for meetings, conferences and corporate meetings.

Though the council was unable to agree on a site, it did approve a request to direct City Attorney Roger Grable to file for non-profit status for a private corporation that would accept funds for theater design, construction and equipping.

Firms Hit By Mayor Of NB

By RICHARD GREEN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach Mayor Paul Ryckoff criticized Irvine Company and the Koll Company Tuesday, saying they are engaging in political tactics that "threaten to stymie the city's governmental process."

Spokesmen for the Irvine Company and the Koll Company denied it.

"We are presently in the throes of a well-organized and funded public relations and advertising campaign by developers to undermine public confidence in Newport Beach city government," Ryckoff said at an afternoon press conference.

Ryckoff cited a $7 million-damage lawsuit filed by the Koll Company against Newport Beach and five council members as "a political gimmick, a paper tiger, a publicity stunt."

He said the lawsuit was filed in an attempt to harass and intimidate the City Council and to promote the Koll Company's special interests.

Koll Company Vice President Tim Strader said the lawsuit is in no way political.

"The lawsuit is based on the illegal acts embarked upon by the City Council over the past two years," Strader said. "We won't drop the suit until proper zoning is restored for our hotel and office building."

The City Council revised the city's general plan Dec. 11, 1979, in effect rezoning an 8.5-acre site near John Wayne Airport on which the Koll Company intended to build a hotel. The suit claims the company can't build the hotel under the terms of the revised zoning.

Kodak Sued By Penthouse Over Nudies

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — Penthouse has filed suit against Eastman Kodak claiming the company's processing plant does not have the right to withhold color slides of last year's Pet of the Year model posing in various states of undress.

The magazine filed suit against the photo giant in Superior Court, arguing Kodak should not have kept 239 exposures of Cheryl Rixon, submitted to the company for processing in August.

Kodak officials say the company would break obscenity laws if it returned the sexually explicit photographs.

The pictures were taken by Penthouse publisher Robert Guccione and sent to Kodak's plant in Fair Lawn for processing.

Penthouse claims in its suit that Kodak technicians do not have the right to determine whether the pictures are obscene.

They were charged Jan. 16, 1979, with murder under the special circumstances of killing a person because of his race, a death penalty charge. Two days later, Chico Municipal Judge Ann Rutherford imposed a gag order and no more information became public until the guilty pleas last month.

Three More Eying Water Board Race

Three more prospective candidates have indicated they will run for a seat on the Irvine Ranch Water District board in the June 3 election, bringing to 10 those who have taken out nomination papers.

A spokeswoman for the county Registrar of Voters said this morning the three who have taken out papers are Susan Lomoureux, an Irvine resident who gave her occupation as planner; Michael Schwartze, an Irvine resident who said he is a plumber, and Howard Miller, an Irvine resident who also said he is a planner.

Prospective candidates have until March 7 to file their election papers with the county Registrar of Voters.

Two seats are up for election on the IRWD board, which has five members in all.

Osborne Retiring

County Official To Step Down

George Osborne, Orange County's first and only Environmental Management Agency director, is retiring April 1 after nearly 30 years of county service.

The 64-year-old Osborne said he will become manager of projects for the Warmington Group of Irvine, a development company.

One of his projects, he said, will be the development of the 2,700-acre Whiting Ranch in the foothills of southern Orange County.

Osborne, who first was employed in 1950 by the county as a flood control design engineer, will receive $58,800 from the county in accumulated sick leave when he steps down.

He also stands to receive $9,300 in vacation time unless it is used prior to his leaving.

He also is in line to receive an annual salary of $42,700 in retirement pay.

Personnel Director R.A. Scott said that the sick leave payoff is the largest in Orange County history.

The previous high of $41,000 went to former General Services Agency Director Cuba Morris upon his resignation in 1977.

In 1974, Osborne was appointed director of the Environmental Management Agency, a department that oversees all new county development, flood control, parks and recreation activities.

Search to Resume For Missing Boy

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The search for 19-year-old Michael Graveline, missing since last seen with his two brothers Feb. 20, is expected to continue today.

Graveline was last seen when he left his El Cajon home to go rafting with his brothers at the height of San Diego County's heavy storms and flooding.

Lagunans Found Guilty

By JERRY CLAUSEN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Two former Laguna Beach men, considered the ringleaders in a massive drug smuggling operation uncovered by federal agents, have been convicted in Reno, Nev., of conspiracy to import cocaine.

Scheduled for sentencing next month are Samuel Cutkomp, 53, who lived in Laguna Beach and Laguna Niguel before moving to Lake Tahoe, and William Von Sultzer, who once operated the Orphanage restaurant and night club in the Art Colony.

Also found guilty of conspiracy charges in Reno's federal court were Robert W. Taylor and his wife Mary, both of El Toro and Daniel C. Bray of Dana Point and Santa Ana.

The Orange Countians were among 13 persons convicted after federal agents uncovered the high-flying international ring which smuggled an estimated 400 pounds of cocaine into the nation.

The elaborate ring included couriers and dealers in Huntington Beach, the south county area and Santa Ana, said Stephen Swanson, agent in charge of the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration in Reno.

Swanson said that Cutkomp hatched the organization in late 1974 when he traveled to South America and was introduced to a major cocaine dealer in Lima, Peru.

Caffeine Said Harmful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Caffeine is the latest substance scientists say may cause damage to the human body.

Caffeine, the stimulant in coffee, tea, chocolate and some soft drinks, caused birth defects in rats, the Food and Drug Administration said Tuesday.

There's no immediate cause for alarm, the FDA said, but the agency has already begun considering options if the preliminary results are borne out by the final report, expected in about two months.

The options include warning labels and a consumer education program aimed at pregnant women.

The amount of caffeine given the rats was more than a human would normally consume, but an FDA spokesman said the gap between the two amounts was "not a comfortable difference."

Earlier studies linked caffeine to birth defects and the FDA has been asked to restrict its use. Several consumer groups have asked that label warnings be required on products where caffeine is a natural ingredient.

Last June, a panel of experts commissioned by the FDA recommended that caffeine be removed from the list of substances generally regarded as safe.

The group's concern was based on the possible link between caffeine and birth defects and the possibility caffeine may impair the development of children's nervous systems.

Delay Asked In Firing Job Agency

Orange County Manpower Commission members will be asked tonight to wait one more month before putting the firm that has been handling Huntington Beach's federal job training program out of business.

Earlier this month, manpower commissioners ordered all federal funds assigned to Western Institute of Careers Inc. cut off as of March 1.

That action came in the wake of mismanagement allegations leveled at the private, non-profit firm hired last Oct. 1 to manage Huntington Beach's $2.6 million training program.

Robert Nelson, chief administrator for the manpower commission, said Tuesday Western will have to remain in operation to give Huntington Beach officials time to decide what to do with the federal job program.

Three Huntington Beach City Council members — Ruth Finley, Ron Pattinson and Ruth Bailey — were asked earlier this month to find a new way to handle the city's job program.

Mrs. Bailey said the trio has yet to come up with a recommendation, but has agreed the city shouldn't be saddled with that responsibility.

Meanwhile, agents from the U.S. Department of Labor have stepped in to investigate the alleged misuse of federal funds by Western.

Lawsuit Charges Malice

HB Councilman Seeks $2.3 Million

Huntington Beach City Councilman John Thomas filed a $2.3 million lawsuit Tuesday alleging an oil company owner tried to derail his 1978 council campaign by bringing grand theft charges against him.

Thomas claims Thomas King, a Newport Beach attorney and owner of King Petroleum Co., maliciously filed grand theft, trespassing and vandalism charges against him in December, 1977.

The councilman, who won by a large margin in the council race, was cleared of the grand theft and trespassing charges in municipal court in 1978.

Thomas, though, was convicted on the vandalism charges and given two years informal probation. Last October, the councilman succeeded in having the vandalism conviction overturned.

King originally brought the charges against the councilman, claiming Thomas destroyed and then removed a shed and some oil drilling equipment.

The Newport Beach attorney said his equipment was legally stored at Thomas' Golden West Street trucking yard.

Thomas' suit also alleges King trespassed on the councilman's property, entered an office and tampered with confidential files and records.

Priest Dies After Assault; Suspect Held

A Seal Beach priest died Tuesday of injuries suffered when he was assaulted Feb. 9 in St. Anne's Catholic Church, and police said the assailant, still at large, now faces a murder charge.

Seal Beach police are seeking public assistance in locating the man who struck Father Felix Doherty, 63, on the side of his head with a fist at the door of the rectory. The priest was assaulted without provocation, police said.

The priest was not hospitalized immediately but collapsed at the rectory Feb. 16, police said, and was rushed to St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica.

At the hospital surgery was performed on a blood clot in the area where he was struck. The priest remained hospitalized until his death at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Seal Beach police Capt. Sam D'Amico said a parishioner has offered a $1,000 reward through Seal Beach police for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the priest's assailant.

The suspect was described as a white male in his mid to late 20s, clean shaven, about six feet tall and 150 pounds. He was wearing a silver motorcycle helmet, black leather jacket and gloves, orange spanish-type pants with gold conchos down the outside seam of the pant legs.

Persons who may have information about the suspect can call Seal Bach police, at (213) 431-2541. The information will be treated as confidential, police said.

Department Heads Flay HB's Council

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huntington Beach department heads told City Council members Tuesday that it was a loss of trust in the elected leaders that convinced them to join an employees bargaining unit.

"Our vehicle for negotiating was always in the feeling that the city administrator would take care of us," remarked Finance Director Ben Arguello during the informal gripe session.

"But when we see that the city administrator isn't being taken care of, what faith can we have in the system?"

The city's top brass joined the Management Employees Organization last year after all nine were passed over for pay hikes.

City Attorney Gail Hutton, who, as an elected official, was barred from joining the employee association, criticized the council for treating department heads unfairly.

"When I worked in Santa Ana, there was always the quiet assurance that department heads would be taken care of," she asserted. "There isn't that assurance here."

Mrs. Hutton has been prodding the council to grant her a cost of living raise. She claims her $45,000 a year salary has slipped below what city attorneys make in other Southern California cities.

Several other department heads directly and indirectly came to her rescue during the evening retreat at the Edison Community Center.

"I think the council had the opportunity to be fair," said Community Services Director Vince Moorhouse, "but what comes across to me is that in three cases, it hasn't been fair."

City Administrator Bud Belsito and City Clerk Alicia Wentworth were also passed over for raises.

Several council members fired back at Mrs. Hutton, pointing out she had started at the top of her salary range when elected in 1978.

Councilwoman Ruth Bailey said Mrs. Hutton convinced the council to grant her the top-end salary by getting them to sign a resolution the same night four new council members took office in 1978.

"I felt like we were hoodwinked," charged Councilman Robert Mandic, a 1978 council winner.

County OKs International Balloon Race

Orange County supervisors approved plans Tuesday for an international balloon race that is to start April 26 at Mile Square Regional Park in Fountain Valley.

The race, which is expected to attract about 20 balloons and crowds of up to 30,000, was approved unanimously despite previous criticism from Supervisor Edison Miller.

Miller had claimed that the event constituted a "balloondoggle" in that it may be costly to county and city taxpayers.

An aide said today that Miller was a reassured, however, after the Gordon Bennett Balloon Race Inc. of Rolling Hills, pledged to pay all local expenses.

The sponsors also posted liability insurance of $1 million and a performance bond of $85,000 to guarantee all financial obligations.

Iran Sit-in Staged By Afghan Students

By The Associated Press

A group of Afghan students living in Tehran occupied the Afghan Embassy in the Iranian capital, Iran's official Pars news agency reported today.

One student told the agency by telephone: "We, the Afghan students, who have staged a peaceful sit-in in the embassy, will issue a statement on the reasons for and motives of our action."

No other details were available, but the takeover apparently was to protest the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan which aims at crushing a 22-month-old Moslem rebellion against the communist Afghan regime.

Carter, Reagan Win' Wisconsin

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — President Carter and Ronald Reagan scored victories in Minnesota party caucuses, but the non-binding straw polls were only the first step in selecting that state's contingent.

Republican returns from about 2,000 of Minnesota's 4,024 precincts showed Reagan with 33 percent, George Bush with 30 percent and Rep. John Anderson of Illinois with 13 percent. They were followed by Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee with 7 percent; John Connally, 6 percent; Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, 3 percent, and Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, 1 percent. Six percent were undecided.

An Associated Press 80-precinct sample of Democratic delegates elected to county-unit conventions showed Carter had 54 percent, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts 6 percent and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. 1.7 percent. Another 38 percent were uncommitted.

Spousal Testimony Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court, altering a 22-year-old legal rule, said today that husbands and wives cannot be barred from testifying against each other in federal court.

"When one spouse is willing to testify against the other in a criminal proceeding, whatever the motivation . . . there is probably little in the way of marital harmony for the privilege against such testimony to preserve," Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote for a unanimous court.

The justices upheld the conviction of Otis Trammel Jr. of Los Angeles, a convicted heroin smuggler who contended that his trial was tainted by his wife's testimony against him.

Mortgage Rate 14½ Percent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The nation's largest thrift lender has joined the largest federally chartered savings and loan institution in raising home mortgage rates to 14½ percent.

The increases by Home Savings & Loan Association and California Federal Savings reflected a record-breaking 13.629 percent rate paid for six-month Treasury Bills in Monday's auction, but lenders said funds available for mortgage were still tight.

The increase to 14½ percent followed the lead set Monday by Glendale Federal, Great Western Savings & Loan and American Savings.

Gold Prices Dip, Dollar Steady

LONDON (AP) — Gold prices dipped in Europe today as the dollar held mostly steady on world currency markets.

Gold bullion lost $14 an ounce in trading on the big Zurich market and was selling for $628. In London, the afternoon fixing by five major dealers was $636, down $6 from Tuesday. In New York gold was trading at $643.

London silver prices eased to $33.25 an ounce from $33.50 Tuesday. But the metal traded at $33.60 in New York.

Owner Killed?

Captives Dig Out As House Burned

NINE MILE FALLS, Wash. (AP) — Using a cigarette lighter for illumination and their hands for shovels, two men held captive beneath a house dug their way to freedom — an escape officials say may have caused the homeowner to burn down the house with himself inside.

The house, recently awarded to a credit union, burned Tuesday after the two credit union representatives held hostage six hours tunneled to freedom, officials said.

Stevens County Sheriff Chan St. Clair speculated that when the ashes cooled, firefighters — ordered to stay clear because of the threat of a boobytrap — would find the body of 40-year-old Don von Essen, who had been ordered to leave the house within a month.

Homes surrounding the lot where von Essen's $85,000 home stood were searched before residents were allowed to return to their homes in this small eastern Washington community, 40 miles northwest of Spokane.

The homes were evacuated when von Essen notified St. Clair and several reporters that he had taken attorney Terry Snow and Spokane Federal Credit Union manager H. Byron Edgett captive in the dispute over ownership of the home.

The men said they were placed in a three-foot-high crawl space under the home. Using a cigarette lighter for illumination, Edgett, 34, began digging in the soft dirt with his hands and a curtain rod as Snow, also 34, kept watch for their captor.

Around 6:30 p.m., as negotiations between von Essen and St. Clair continued, the two crawled out from under the house.

"We just ran down the road until we saw a house with a light on," Edgett said.

For the next hour, von Essen's attorney, Richard Sperling, attempted to reach his client on the telephone. He said he could not get through because the line was busy.

St. Clair speculated that von Essen discovered the hostages gone, made one last, lengthy phone call, and set the house on fire.

Firefighters were ordered to stay away from the house because von Essen had told St. Clair the ground around it was boobytrapped, the sheriff said. A Special Weapons and Tactics team trained weapons on the home as it burned and consumed the hostages' cars.

Von Essen, a self-employed general contractor, co-chairman of the Greater Spokane Libertarian Party and a Universal Life Church minister, had been fighting for the home since 1974, officials said.

Caffeine Danger To Body?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Caffeine is the latest substance scientists say may cause damage to the human body.

Caffeine, the stimulant in coffee, tea, chocolate and some soft drinks, caused birth defects in rats, the Food and Drug Administration said Tuesday.

There's no immediate cause for alarm, the FDA said, but the agency has already begun considering options if the preliminary results are borne out by the final report, expected in about two months.

The amount of caffeine given the rats was more than a human would normally consume, but an FDA spokesman said the gap between the two amounts was "not a comfortable difference."

Earlier studies linked caffeine to birth defects and the FDA has been asked to restrict its use. Several consumer groups have asked that label warnings be required on products where caffeine is a natural ingredient.

Last June, a panel of experts commissioned by the FDA recommended that caffeine be removed from the list of substances generally regarded as safe.

County Juror Arrested on Bribery Count

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Los Angeles federal court juror from Anaheim is in custody on charges that he solicited more than $10,000 from a defendant in a cocaine distribution trial in exchange for a promise to get the defendant acquitted.

Joe Gabriel Leoni, 52, an oil company executive, sat on a jury in a cocaine case in which Roy Shapiro and four others were defendants. Leoni allegedly posed as a Lawrence Brennan when he contacted Shapiro, seeking $15,000, and on a second occasion, $10,222, for his acquittal.

Shapiro notified Drug Enforcement Administration agents, who arrested a man calling himself Brennan after the man picked up a package said to contain payoff money.

Cyclists' Toy Run Still On?

PASADENA (AP) — A spokesman for a group of motorcycle clubs which annually ride into Pasadena with toys for needy children says the threat of jail would not dissuade him from coming again, even though the city has withdrawn permission for the event.

Police Chief Bob McGowan complained that the mingling of such groups as the Hell's Angels and Devil's Disciples created a situation too volatile for the police department to manage. The city Board of Directors voted last week not to renew the permit to hold the toy run here.

"I have not ruled out Pasadena as our Toy Run destination," said Ron Roloff, the Modified Motorcycle Association's business manager in Sacramento, in a telephone interview.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union bombed two Afghanistan villages for two days this month in retaliation for members of an Afghan army regiment killing 13 Soviet advisers in their sleep and defecting to the insurgents, intelligence sources say.

The incident occurred north of Jalalabad and was one of the few rumored attacks on Soviets troops that sources in Washington have been able to confirm.

Osborne Plans Retirement From County

George Osborne, Orange County's first and only Environmental Management Agency director, is retiring April 1 after nearly 30 years of county service.

The 64-year-old Osborne said he will become manager of projects for the Warmington Group of Irvine, a development company.

Osborne, who first was employed in 1950 by the county as a flood control design engineer, will receive $58,800 from the county in accumulated sick leave when he steps down.

He also stands to receive $9,300 in vacation time unless it is used prior to his leaving.

He also is in line to receive an annual salary of $42,700 in retirement pay.

Personnel Director R.A. Scott said that the sick leave payoff is the largest in Orange County history.

The previous high of $41,000 went to former General Services Agency Director Cuba Morris upon his resignation in 1977.

In 1974, Osborne was appointed director of the Environmental Management Agency, a department that oversees all new county development, flood control, parks and recreation activities.

Penthouse Asks Kodak Photos

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — Penthouse has filed suit against Eastman Kodak claiming the company's processing plant does not have the right to withhold color slides of last year's Pet of the Year model posing in various states of undress.

The magazine filed suit against the photo giant in Superior Court, arguing Kodak should not have kept 239 exposures of Cheryl Rixon, submitted to the company for processing in August.

"They might as well single out a transparency of a ribald Picasso etching as a still from 'Deep Throat'," said the suit.

The November edition of Penthouse contained a 12-page spread of Ms. Rixon, shots Kodak initially held back in July but returned to the magazine in August. But delivery was stopped on a second batch, which sparked the court action, and the pictures were never returned.

Penthouse lawyers say the pictures are not lewd, but Kodak says it would be "subjecting itself to criminal prosecution under state and federal obscenity statutes," if the shots were delivered.

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University fraternities have rejected an offer from Penthouse magazine for an all-expenses-paid party, featuring four Penthouse "Pets," 100 kegs of beer and a band.

A Stanford Inter-Fraternity Council took the action Tuesday after campus feminist groups argued that the university might appear to be supporting the magazine, which features photo layouts of nude women along with fiction, interviews and articles.

Inter-Fraternity Council president John Kinney said, "We don't agree with their (the feminists') viewpoint. Their concern is that Penthouse will be able to use Stanford's name. But our concern is that we may insult or offend some people."

In a separate incident, Linda Lee Voss of Fountain Valley, told police someone apparently broke into her home Tuesday morning through a bathroom window and fled with two rings from a dresser drawer. She estimated the value of the rings at $800.

Terrified passengers run for safety as a four-engine jetliner carrying 135 people is enveloped in smoke after a crash landing at Manila International Airport. Three of the 135 passengers were presumed dead (see story, Page A4).

2 Aided Ex-cult Members

BERKELEY (AP) — Two defectors from the doomed Peoples Temple, who established a center to help others fleeing from religious cults, were found shot to death in their home, police said today.

The bodies of Al Mills, 51, and his wife, Jeannie Mills, 40, were found Tuesday night in their small cottage located near a rest home, police said.

Their daughter, Daphene Mills, 15, also was found at the cottage, suffering from gunshot wounds in the head. She was listed in "very critical" condition at Alta Bates Hospital.

Police declined to speculate on whether the shootings were related to the Mills' connection with the Temple.

Some members of the Human Freedom Center, formed by the Millses in 1978 to help defectors from the Peoples Temple and other cults, said they feared "hit squads" had been organized to kill them after the mass murder suicide of more than 900 of Jones' followers in Jonestown, Guyana, on Nov. 18, 1978.

The Millses followed Jones for more than six years before leaving the cult in 1975.

A son, Eddie Mills, about 17, was home at the time of the shootings but told police he didn't see or hear anything, according to Sgt. Michel deLatour of the Berkeley police. He was released after questioning by police.

Sgt. Jim Gaebe said the bodies were discovered by the children's grandmother, who lived next door. Her name was not released.

He said she found all three victims in the master bedroom and "ran screaming into Eddie's bedroom that his parents had been shot." She telephoned police.

All three victims had been shot in the head, police said.

Another son, Steve, returned home today on his motorcycle, deLatour said.

DeLatour said police had no suspects. He would not discuss details of the shootings, including the type of weapon used or the nature of the wounds.

Police emerged from the scene of the shootings about 8:30 a.m. carrying what appeared to be a rifle wrapped in brown paper.

Also at the scene was Dr. Chris Hatcher, a psychiatrist who has worked with Temple defectors and assisted police in a number of hostage situations.

A friend of the family, Ken Dagenais, 17, described the Millses as a "very open family," saying they often left their door unlocked so the children's friends could come and go with ease.

Archie Ijames, who assumed leadership of the remnants of the Temple, declined to comment, although he said he talked today to one of the sons, who called to tell him of the shootings.

Boy Blamed For $1,000 Laguna Fire

Fire that officials believe was started by a 4-year-old boy playing with matches in his room did an estimated $1,000 damage to the contents of a Laguna Beach home Tuesday.

Firemen said the blaze at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Fifer, 445 Dartmoor St., broke out at 9:38 a.m.

Crescent Bay Park Starting Rites Slated

Groundbreaking ceremonies for construction of Laguna Beach's Crescent Bay Park are scheduled for 4 p.m. Friday by City Council members.

The park, on three-quarters of an acre purchased for about $500,000 several years ago at the end of McKnight Drive, offers a panoramic view of the ocean.

Scheduled for construction by D.W. Contracting of Laguna Beach, low bidder at $109,594 on the project, the park is to feature a large wood viewing platform at cliff's edge.

The park property was purchased with state Land and Water Conservation funds, county revenue sharing money and city funds.

Laguna Candidates To Speak Monday

5 From County Guilty

Cocaine Smuggling Case Concludes

Two former Laguna Beach men, considered the ringleaders in a massive drug smuggling operation uncovered by federal agents, have been convicted in Reno, Nev., of conspiracy to import cocaine.

Scheduled for sentencing next month are Samuel Cutkomp, 53, who lived in Laguna Beach and Laguna Niguel before moving to Lake Tahoe, and William Von Sultzer, who once operated the Orphanage restaurant and night club in the Art Colony.

Also found guilty of conspiracy charges in Reno's federal court were Robert W. Taylor and his wife Mary, both of El Toro and Daniel C. Bray of Dana Point and Santa Ana.

The Orange Countians were among 13 persons convicted after federal agents uncovered the high-flying international ring which smuggled an estimated 400 pounds of cocaine into the nation.

The elaborate ring included couriers and dealers in Huntington Beach, the south county area and Santa Ana, said Stephen Swanson, agent in charge of the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration in Reno.

Swanson said that Cutkomp hatched the organization in late 1974 when he traveled to South America and was introduced to a major cocaine dealer in Lima, Peru.

The former Laguna Beach man apparently had three methods of transporting money and drugs, Swanson said, including sealing cocaine in book bindings, using scuba equipment and a diplomatic courier from Costa Rica.

Swanson said women would fly to Lima with $100,000 to $200,000 in cash and meet Cutkomp and alleged drug dealer Edward Portugal Salazar.

After turning over the money, the women would fly with the drugs to Mexico City, proceed to Tijuana and pass the goods on to other couriers.

Eventually, Swanson said, the drugs were brought to Laguna with some distributed there and the rest transported to Tahoe Ci-

Beach Closures Dismay Surfers

About 200 yards of north San Clemente city beaches and some 4,000 yards of San Clemente State Park shores remained closed today because of water polluted by fuel and sewage spills.

And Doheny State Beach and most Capistrano Beach shores also remained closed because of last week's sewage spill that poured from the San Juan Creek mouth into the ocean.

A section of beach from the Aliso Pier to Catalina Street in South Laguna also remained closed today after a sewage pipe burst in that area last week because of heavy rains.

The scattered beach closures have dismayed many local surfers who have to find other wave-riding areas. Surf along the south county coast was called "excellent" Tuesday and today with waves breaking from two to four feet.

State park chief ranger Jack Stowe said many surfers have heeded warnings not to touch the water from Doheny to San Clemente state beach because of the disease risk.

The 80,000-gallon jet fuel spill released Saturday from an inland pipeline that ruptured has been cleared up except near a 200-yard area south of Avenida Pico in San Clemente.

The odor of the jet fuel is still strong there today, lifeguards said. The fuel was carried down a storm drain channel near Avenida Pico. The fuel flow was stopped Saturday.

Meanwhile, county health officials have closed the area 2,000 feet north and south of a burst sewer pipe at the end of Avenida Calafia near San Clemente State Beach. The closure is expected to last through the weekend.

The Doheny beach closure is expected to last through next week, officials said. The area was first closed Jan. 29 when raw sewage was dumped into the ocean as a result of raging flood water that inundated a nearby Dana Point sewage plant.

Another sewage spill occurred last week in San Juan Capistrano that dumped more waste down the creek bed.

Squeezed Out?

Citrus Queen's Pact Expires

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — More than a year after Florida oranges ended up in the middle of a controversy over homosexual rights, citrus spokeswoman Anita Bryant may be on the way out.

BRYANT

Miss Bryant's contract with the Florida Citrus Commission expires in August and agency marketing director Douglas Hoffer says no more commercials with the singer are planned. Her departure is "probably true if the commission goes along with it," Hoffer said.

The former beauty queen, who has represented citrus growers since 1968, began to lose favor last year after leading the 1978 campaign against homosexual rights in South Florida. Gay activists urged a boycott of Florida products and two industry lawyers, in arguing that Florida identification should not be required on product labels, told the state Supreme Court recently they did not necessarily want their products tied too closely to Miss Bryant.

Pilot Raps Airline

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A Pacific Southwest Airlines pilot has resigned after accusing the airline of unsafe flight crew scheduling which he said caused the Sept. 25, 1978 midair collision that claimed 144 lives. Capt. Bob Chapman, a 14-year PSA veteran, said Tuesday the airline does not allow its flight crew members adequate rest periods.

Injuries Take Life Of Priest

A Seal Beach priest died Tuesday of injuries suffered when he was assaulted Feb. 9 in St. Anne's Catholic Church, and police said the assailant, still at large, now faces a murder charge.

Seal Beach police are seeking public assistance in locating the man who struck Father Felix Doherty, 63, on the side of his head with a fist at the door of the rectory. The priest was assaulted without provocation, police said.

The priest was not hospitalized immediately but collapsed at the rectory Feb. 16, police said, and was rushed to St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica.

At the hospital surgery was performed on a blood clot in the area where he was struck. The priest remained hospitalized until his death at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Seal Beach police Capt. Sam D'Amico said a parishioner has offered a $1,000 reward through Seal Beach police for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the priest's assailant.

The suspect was described as a white male in his mid to late 20s, clean shaven, about six feet tall and 150 pounds. He was wearing a silver motorcycle helmet, black leather jacket and gloves, orange Spanish-type pants with gold conchos down the outside seam of the pant legs.

Persons who may have information about the suspect can call Seal Beach police, at (213) 431-2541. The information will be treated as confidential, police said.

Iran Sit-in Staged By Afghan Students

By The Associated Press

A group of Afghan students living in Tehran occupied the Afghan Embassy in the Iranian capital, Iran's official Pars news agency reported today.

One student told the agency by telephone: "We, the Afghan students, who have staged a peaceful sit-in in the embassy, will issue a statement on the reasons for and motives of our action."

No other details were available, but the takeover apparently was to protest the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan which aims at crushing a 22-month-old Moslem rebellion against the communist Afghan regime.

Carter, Reagan 'Win' Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — President Carter and Ronald Reagan scored victories in Minnesota party caucuses, but the non-binding straw polls were only the first step in selecting that state's contingent.

Republican returns from about 2,000 of Minnesota's 4,024 precincts showed Reagan with 33 percent, George Bush with 30 percent and Rep. John Anderson of Illinois with 13 percent. They were followed by Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee with 7 percent; John Connally, 6 percent; Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, 3 percent, and Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, 1 percent. Six percent were undecided.

An Associated Press 80-precinct sample of Democratic delegates elected to county-unit conventions showed Carter had 54 percent, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts 6 percent and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. 1.7 percent. Another 38 percent were uncommitted.

Spousal Testimony Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court, altering a 22-year-old legal rule, said today that husbands and wives cannot be barred from testifying against each other in federal court.

"When one spouse is willing to testify against the other in a criminal proceeding, whatever the motivation . . . there is probably little in the way of marital harmony for the privilege against such testimony to preserve," Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote for a unanimous court.

The justices upheld the conviction of Otis Trammel Jr. of Los Angeles, a convicted heroin smuggler who contended that his trial was tainted by his wife's testimony against him.

Mortgage Rate 14½ Percent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The nation's largest thrift lender has joined the largest federally chartered savings and loan institution in raising home mortgage rates to 14½ percent.

The increases by Home Savings & Loan Association and California Federal Savings reflected a record-breaking 13.629 percent rate paid for six-month Treasury Bills in Monday's auction, but lenders said funds available for mortgage were still tight.

The increase to 14½ percent followed the lead set Monday by Glendale Federal, Great Western Savings & Loan and American Savings.

Gold Prices Dip; Dollar Steady

LONDON (AP) — Gold prices dipped in Europe today as the dollar held mostly steady on world currency markets.

Gold bullion lost $14 an ounce in trading on the big Zurich market and was selling for $628. In London, the afternoon fixing by five major dealers was $636, down $6 from Tuesday. In New York gold was trading at $643.

London silver prices eased to $33.25 an ounce from $33.50 Tuesday. But the metal traded at $33.60 in New York.

Clemente Recall Issue Clouded

By RAYMOND ESTRADA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A cloud of legal confusion hangs over the June 3 ballot issue to recall San Clemente Councilwoman Karoline Koester.

It now appears uncertain whether any litigation will remove the ouster issue, financed largely by developers, from the June ballot.

Norman Seldman, attorney for Mrs. Koester, has raised the latest legal issue on the recall by asserting that the petitions signed by 3,409 residents to qualify the issue for the ballot did not meet all the legal requirements.

The recall petitions did not include the place of execution, the city in which they were signed, as required by Section 2015.5 of the state Civil Procedure Code, Seldman asserts.

Seldman said today he intends to file a lawsuit to halt the recall unless the recall petitions are decertified or thrown out because of the "patent defect" in them.

Seldman has demanded that the City Clerk's Office and the Orange County Registrar of Voters decertify the petitions.

He accused officials in both offices of denying responsibility for the defective petitions. "There should be no more passing the buck games," Seldman said.

Shirley Dieton, a county registrar official, said today the Civil Procedure Section Seldman referred to may not apply to the recall petitions since the state Government Code spells out what requirements are applicable.

Upon the advice of a county counsel attorney, Mrs. Dieton said the place of execution is not one of the legal requirements for recall petitions listed in the Government Code.

Seldman said he still plans to file a lawsuit and called the registrar official's explanations "ridiculous."

Meanwhile, the other legal issue that clouds the attempt to oust Mrs. Koester involves an investigation by Orange County Deputy District Attorney Jean Rheimheimer who said Tuesday that her probe may not be completed for another month.

Mrs. Rheimheimer said her investigation had nothing to do with Seldman's case and would have nothing to do with the possible removal of the recall issue from the June ballot.

Mrs. Rheimheimer says the case her office is investigating involves charges by at least 15 San Clemente residents who claim recall workers misrepresented the issue when trying to gather petition signatures.

It has been learned that many of the developers of about 8,000 future homes in San Clemente's ranch country have donated $21,000 towards Mrs. Koester's recall. At least $18,000 of this money was paid to recall campaign workers.

Hunters Get Life In Killing

OROVILLE (AP) — Two young white men who admitted stalking and killing a deaf black man when they couldn't find any animals to shoot were sentenced to 25 years to life in prison today, and the judge recommended they never be paroled.

"Marvin Dean Noor and James T. McCarter have demonstrated for some time. . . their total disregard for the rights of others," said Butte County Superior Court Judge Jean Morony.

"Their action in this case was callous and malicious. . . I recommend their terms be fixed at life and they be kept in prison for life without any possibility of parole."

But the state Board of Prison Terms could decide to grant paroles after the two have spent 16 years, eight months in prison, or two-thirds of the minimum 25 years.

Noor, 19, and McCarter, 20, admitted shooting Jimmy Lee Campbell, 22, from their car as he walked along a railroad track in nearby Chico Jan. 13, 1979. Authorities said the two had been drinking heavily.

The sentence imposed is the maximum for first-degree murder, to which the two pleaded guilty Jan. 30.

In a plea bargain with authorities, the pair avoided the possibility of the death penalty, which can be imposed for a racially motivated murder.

Noor and McCarter remained expressionless when the sentence was read to a quiet courtroom before about 30 spectators, one a black woman who wept. The men remained in county custody awaiting transfer to the state prison at Vacaville, while authorities decide where they will be housed permanently.

Black leaders expressed outrage when the guilty pleas were released last month, because a year-long gag order had been imposed, and because the plea bargain prevented the possibility of a death sentence.

Border Cops Seize Huge Haul of Pot

U.S. Border Patrol agents seized 90 pounds of marijuana allegedly found in a nervous man's car trunk when he drove his low-riding auto into the San Onofre checkpoint Tuesday.

Agent John Wesson said the suspicious auto was searched because it was believed that there might have been smuggled illegal aliens hiding inside. This is a common occurrence, Wesson said.

But agents turned William Richard Denman, 29, of Lemon Grove, over to federal drug enforcement officials on charges of illegally transporting a controlled substance.

Wesson asserted that the marijuana was found wrapped in plastic bags and cloth in two boxes. Agents obtained a search warrant to unlock Denman's trunk, Wesson noted.

Wesson said Denman "appeared nervous" when ordered to open the trunk that appeared to have something heavy inside when agents told the motorist to pull over at the inspection station located about three miles south of San Clemente.

2 Sentenced In Narcotic Smuggling

Two men who once had ties to the Laguna Beach Hare Krishna temple were sentenced in federal court Monday to prison terms for their participation in a narcotics smuggling scheme, according to Assistant U.S. attorney Eric L. Doberteen.

Joe Davis, 30, of Laguna Beach, was sentenced to 14 years in prison and fined $50,000 for his association with a smuggling ring that sent couriers posing as businessmen between Pakistan and the United States carrying hashish oil in typewriter cases.

Douglas H. Snyder, 26, was sentenced to one year in prison and fined $1,000 for his part in the scheme.

Lawrence D. Montgomery, 30, also convicted of narcotics smuggling, was given five years of probation and a $250 fine. Roy C. Richard, 30, will undergo a 90-day diagnostic study before sentencing.

Home Burglarized In Laguna Beach

Taken from the home of Carol A. Jensen of Alta Laguna Boulevard were a phone answering machine, calculator, camera, silverware, antique chairs, lamps, jewelry and a mantel clock, officers reported.

DOPE . . .

Tuesday's convictions have launched the second phase of the federal government's probe into the cocaine smuggling operation, according to Assistant Deputy U.S. Attorney Leland Lufty.

Prosecutors said the case had been cracked from the top — reversing the usual procedure in which agents try to deal with low-level drug figures to reach major smugglers.

Cutkomp was trapped when Swanson impersonated a potential buyer for his lakeside home at Tahoe City and then agreed to help finance purchase of 100 pounds of pure cocaine.

Swanson said Cutkomp, who moved from Orange County to a $1.3 million home at Tahoe City, made millions while operating the ring.

Cutkomp's right-hand man, Von Sultzer, turned himself in to federal agents after an October, 1979, federal grand jury indictment named 20 suspects allegedly involved in the cocaine operation.

In all, 13 were convicted in Reno this week. Federal agents still seek several suspects, including Gerald Taylor of Huntington Beach.

Another indicted suspect, Edward Barbari of Huntington Beach, died of cancer about two months ago, Swanson said.

Among those also convicted this week were Roger and Russell Bramy of Tahoe City and Jack S. Scott of San Diego.

All of those convicted could face maximum sentences of 15 years in prison and a $25,000 fine, as well as a tough three-year minimum special probation period.

Osborne Retiring

County Official To Step Down

George Osborne, Orange County's first and only Environmental Management Agency director, is retiring April 1 after nearly 30 years of county service.

The 64-year-old Osborne said he will become manager of projects for the Warmington Group of Irvine, a development company.

One of his projects, he said, will be the development of the 2,700-acre Whiting Ranch in the foothills of southern Orange County.

Osborne, who first was employed in 1950 by the county as a flood control design engineer, will receive $58,800 from the county in accumulated sick leave when he steps down.

He also stands to receive $9,300 in vacation time unless it is used prior to his leaving.

He also is in line to receive an annual salary of $42,700 in retirement pay.

Personnel Director R.A. Scott said that the sick leave payoff is the largest in Orange County history.

The previous high of $41,000 went to former General Services Agency Director Cuba Morris upon his resignation in 1977.

Caffeine Said Harmful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Caffeine is the latest substance scientists say may cause damage to the human body.

Caffeine, the stimulant in coffee, tea, chocolate and some soft drinks, caused birth defects in rats, the Food and Drug Administration said Tuesday.

There's no immediate cause for alarm, the FDA said, but the agency has already begun considering options if the preliminary results are borne out by the final report, expected in about two months.

The options include warning labels and a consumer education program aimed at pregnant women.

The amount of caffeine given the rats was more than a human would normally consume, but an FDA spokesman said the gap between the two amounts was "not a comfortable difference."

Earlier studies linked caffeine to birth defects and the FDA has been asked to restrict its use. Several consumer groups have asked that label warnings be required on products where caffeine is a natural ingredient.

Last June, a panel of experts commissioned by the FDA recommended that caffeine be removed from the list of substances generally regarded as safe.

The group's concern was based on the possible link between caffeine and birth defects and the possibility caffeine may impair the development of children's nervous systems.

Oil Spill Slows

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The flow of oil from Mexico's runaway oil well has been reduced to "substantially less" than 2,000 barrels a day, according to a spokesman for PEMEX, the national oil monopoly. That compares with 30,000 barrels a day when the Ixtoc Well in the Bay of Campeche first blew out on June 3, 1979.

Priest's Injuries Fatal

A Seal Beach priest died Tuesday of injuries suffered when he was assaulted Feb. 9 in St. Anne's Catholic Church, and police said the assailant, still at large, now faces a murder charge.

Seal Beach police are seeking public assistance in locating the man who struck Father Felix Doherty, 63, on the side of his head with a fist at the door of the rectory. The priest was assaulted without provocation, police said.

The priest was not hospitalized immediately but collapsed at the rectory Feb. 16, police said, and was rushed to St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica.

At the hospital surgery was performed on a blood clot in the area where he was struck. The priest remained hospitalized until his death at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Seal Beach police Capt. Sam D'Amico said a parishioner has offered a $1,000 reward through Seal Beach police for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the priest's assailant.

The suspect was described as a white male in his mid to late 20s, clean shaven, about six feet tall and 150 pounds. He was wearing a silver motorcycle helmet, black leather jacket and gloves, orange Spanish-type pants with gold conchos down the outside seam of the pant legs.

Persons who may have information about the suspect can call Seal Beach police, at (213) 431-2541. The information will be treated as confidential, police said.

No Middle School For 6th Graders

This year's fifth graders in the Costa Mesa High School attendance area won't be going on to middle schools next year, Newport-Mesa school trustees decided Tuesday.

Sixth grade classes in that area will be returned to elementary schools to save money and because parents want it that way, trustees said.

Two parents, representing parent-teacher organizations at Bear and Paularino schools spoke at Tuesday's school board meeting. They said surveys of parents showed overwhelming support for returning sixth grades to the elementary schools.

Trustees also noted that the move will save about $50,000 a year in salaries and material costs.

About 40 parents in Tuesday's audience responded to the decision with applause. No one spoke against the move.

Trustees returned sixth grades to the elementary schools in the Corona del Mar High attendance area last year.

Deputy school chief Norman Loats said Tuesday that tests of basic skills on those sixth graders compared to others at middle schools showed no difference.

The sixth grades in the Newport Harbor High area are divided between elementary and middle schools. Trustees said to remove the sixth grades from middle schools in the Estancia High area would force the closure of a middle school.

However, Superintendent John Nicoli said that, because of the district's declining enrollment, "either way, I think you're looking at closing a middle school in September of 1981."

Bandit Hits Mesa Savings

A female bandit, who claimed to have a gun but didn't display it, fled with about $1,200 today from Glendale Federal Savings at 2300 Harbor Blvd. in Costa Mesa, police reported.

Officers said the woman, about 30 years old, entered the bank at 10:20 a.m. and gave the teller a note demanding money. No one was injured in the incident, police said.

The robber was described as having light brown hair, being about five feet, three inches tall and heavyset, and wearing a floppy straw hat with a scarf.

2 Aided Ex-cult Members

BERKELEY (AP) — Two defectors from the doomed Peoples Temple, who established a center to help others fleeing from religious cults, were found shot to death in their home, police said today.

The bodies of Al Mills, 51, and his wife, Jeannie Mills, 40, were found Tuesday night in their small cottage located near a rest home, police said.

Their daughter, Daphene Mills, 15, also was found at the cottage, suffering from gunshot wounds in the head. She was listed in "very critical" condition at Alta Bates Hospital.

Police declined to speculate on whether the shootings were related to the Mills' connection with the Temple.

Some members of the Human Freedom Center, formed by the Millses in 1978 to help defectors from the Peoples Temple and other cults, said they feared "hit squads" had been organized to kill them after the mass murder-suicide of more than 900 of Jones' followers in Jonestown, Guyana, on Nov. 18, 1978.

The Millses followed Jones for more than six years before leaving the cult in 1975.

A son, Eddie Mills, about 17, was home at the time of the shootings but told police he didn't see or hear anything, according to Sgt. Michel deLatour of the Berkeley police. He was released after questioning by police.

Sgt. Jim Gaebe said the bodies were discovered by the children's grandmother, who lived next door. Her name was not released.

He said she found all three victims in the master bedroom and "ran screaming into Eddie's bedroom that his parents had been shot." She telephoned police.

All three victims had been shot in the head, police said.

Another son, Steve, returned home today on his motorcycle, deLatour said.

DeLatour said police had no suspects. He would not discuss details of the shootings, including the type of weapon used or the nature of the wounds.

Police emerged from the scene of the shootings about 8:30 a.m. carrying what appeared to be a rifle wrapped in brown paper.

Also at the scene was Dr. Chris Hatcher, a psychiatrist who has worked with Temple defectors and assisted police in a number of hostage situations.

A friend of the family, Ken Dagenais, 17, described the Millses as a "very open family," saying they often left their door unlocked so the children's friends could come and go with ease.

Archie Ijames, who assumed leadership of the remnants of the Temple, declined to comment, although he said he talked today to one of the sons, who called to tell him of the shootings.

Firms Hit By Mayor Of NB

By RICHARD GREEN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach Mayor Paul Ryckoff criticized Irvine Company and the Koll Company Tuesday, saying they are engaging in political tactics that "threaten to stymie the city's governmental process."

Spokesmen for the Irvine Company and the Koll Company denied it.

"We are presently in the throes of a well-organized and funded public relations and advertising campaign by developers to undermine public confidence in Newport Beach city government," Ryckoff said at an afternoon press conference.

Ryckoff cited a $7 million-damage lawsuit filed by the Koll Company against Newport Beach and five council members as "a political gimmick, a paper tiger, a publicity stunt."

He said the lawsuit was filed in an attempt to harass and intimidate the City Council and to promote the Koll Company's special interests.

Koll Company Vice President Tim Strader said the lawsuit is in no way political.

"The lawsuit is based on the illegal acts embarked upon by the City Council over the past two years," Strader said. "We won't drop the suit until proper zoning is restored for our hotel and office building."

The City Council revised the city's general plan Dec. 11, 1979, in effect rezoning an 8.5-acre site near John Wayne Airport on which the Koll Company intended to build a hotel. The suit claims the company can't build the hotel under the terms of the revised zoning.

Judy Franco Appointed to Trustee Seat

Judy Franco, a former president of the Harbor Council PTA, was appointed Tuesday by Newport-Mesa school trustees to fill a vacancy on the seven-member school board.

Mrs. Franco, who lives on Lido Isle, was selected over four other applicants to represent Trustee Area 5, which includes Balboa, Lido and much of Newport's beach area.

Carol Martin resigned earlier this month for personal reasons. Her term expires in November, 1981.

During a public interview last week with the other applicants, Mrs. Franco said she would seek election in 1981 if appointed.

In selecting the 12-year Newport Beach resident, trustees cited her longtime participation in school-related activities and knowledge of school issues.

Mrs. Franco will be seated in 30 days, according to state law.

In Bogota Raid

Gunmen Hit U.S. Diplomat

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A dozen attackers shot their way into a reception at the embassy of the Dominican Republic today, wounding the U.S. ambassador and taking several diplomats hostage, police said.

One Colombian soldier was reported killed by the raiders, apparently leftist guerrillas, and at least five persons outside the embassy were reported wounded.

The American ambassador, Diego C. Asencio, was shot three times and was taken to Bogota's military hospital, a policeman near the besieged embassy told the radio station Caracol.

A spokeswoman for the U.S. Embassy said she could not immediately confirm the report, although the State Department confirmed in Washington that Asencio was in the Dominican mission at the time with other ambassadors for a reception marking the Dominican national holiday.

The policeman, who did not identify himself, said one of the ambassador's bodyguards also was wounded in helping Asencio to escape.

An estimated 30 diplomats, not all of them ambassadors, were believed to be in the embassy when it was attacked. The hostages were reported to include the Swiss, Austrian and Brazilian ambassadors, and the papal nuncio, the Vatican's envoy to Colombia.

Gunfire broke out twice in the vicinity of the embassy after hundreds of police surrounded the building, which is situated across the street from the National University.

The first volleys were believed to have been fired by snipers at the university, authorities said, and were answered by police gunfire. Police reported three passersby and two policemen wounded.

A Caracol broadcast quoted eyewitnesses as saying the attackers apparently were members of the leftist guerrilla group the Workers' Self-Defense Movement. The organization is Colombia's most active urban guerrilla group and aligns itself with Chinese communism.

He also stands to receive $9,300 in vacation time unless it is used prior to his leaving.

He also is in line to receive an annual salary of $42,700 in retirement pay.

Personnel Director R.A. Scott said that the sick leave payoff is the largest in Orange County history.

N-M Board to Send Notices of Layoffs

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport-Mesa school trustees decided Tuesday to send layoff notices to about 116 teachers and 12 to 15 special education staff members, citing declining enrollment and the need to cut about $5 million from next year's budget.

Seven people spoke against the layoffs. Four of them expressed strong concern about the proposed cut of six primary reading teachers, saying that teaching youngsters to read is the basis of education.

Bill Cue, president of the Newport-Mesa Federation of Teachers, called the layoffs "the Ides of March" because of a state requirement that the notices be sent by March 15.

Cue noted that, according to staff members, all teachers receiving layoff notices in previous years have subsequently been offered re-employment with the district, and said he views the district, and said he views the notices as an undue hardship.

"The heartbreak and insecurity are unnecessary," Cue said. "Hundreds of career plans have been held in limbo, yet not one teacher has actually been involuntarily released from Newport-Mesa. It will happen again this year."

He also criticized district officials for bringing up the layoffs two weeks before the deadline and just two days before a three-member fact-finding panel opens hearings on stalemated teacher contract negotiations.

Those hearings are scheduled to begin Thursday.

School Board President Ken Wayman said Tuesday one of the reasons for the budget cuts and some of the layoffs is the cost of salary increases.

The layoffs are expected to save the district $2.6 million next year. Officials are continuing to examine the budget to trim an additional $2.4 million in other areas. They also are thinking about charging for bus transportation.

In response to the concerns about primary reading teachers, Deputy Superintendent Norman Loats said the district several years ago budgeted $250,000 a year extra for the reading teachers, who supplement the regular program.

He said state funding through the School Improvement Program next year is expected to help elementary schools keep up their reading programs.

To receive layoff notices, in order of reverse seniority, are about 45 temporary teachers, 40 regular teachers, 15 special education teachers, 12 to 15 special education support workers such as psychologists and speech therapists and teachers in the elementary school enrichment program and the six reading teachers.

'Windfall' Tax Needs OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $227.3 billion "windfall" tax on the oil industry — a compromise congressional negotiators took two months to hammer out — is awaiting formal approval in the House and Senate. The Carter administration says the final bill is landmark legislation.

It earmarks about $136 billion, or 60 percent of the revenue the tax would produce in the 1980s, for across-the-board income-tax cuts for individuals and corporations. Any tax cut — which would have to be approved by Congress in a separate bill — could take effect as early as Oct. 1.

Poll Booths Busy

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Tens of thousands of Rhodesian blacks, under tight security and a steady drizzle, jammed polling booths today as they began three days of parliamentary elections. There was heavy foreign pressure for guerrilla leaders Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo to unite in a coalition government.

Iran Sit-in Staged By Afghan Students

By The Associated Press

A group of Afghan students living in Tehran occupied the Afghan Embassy in the Iranian capital, Iran's official Pars news agency reported today.

One student told the agency by telephone: "We, the Afghan students, who have staged a peaceful sit-in in the embassy, will issue a statement on the reasons for and motives of our action."

No other details were available, but the takeover apparently was to protest the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan which aims at crushing a 22-month-old Moslem rebellion against the communist Afghan regime.

Spousal Testimony Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court, altering a 22-year-old legal rule, said today that husbands and wives cannot be barred from testifying against each other in federal court.

"When one spouse is willing to testify against the other in a criminal proceeding, whatever the motivation . . . there is probably little in the way of marital harmony for the privilege against such testimony to preserve," Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote for a unanimous court.

Mortgage Rate 14½ Percent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The nation's largest thrift lender has joined the largest federally chartered savings and loan institution in raising home mortgage rates to 14½ percent.

The increases by Home Savings & Loan Association and California Federal Savings reflected a record-breaking 13.629 percent rate paid for six-month Treasury Bills in Monday's auction, but lenders said funds available for mortgage were still tight.

The increase to 14½ percent followed the lead set Monday by Glendale Federal, Great Western Savings & Loan and American Savings.

Gold Prices Dip; Dollar Steady

LONDON (AP) — Gold prices dipped in Europe today as the dollar held mostly steady on world currency markets.

Gold bullion lost $14 an ounce in trading on the big Zurich market and was selling for $628. In London, the afternoon fixing by five major dealers was $636, down $6 from Tuesday. In New York gold was trading at $630.

London silver prices eased to $33.25 an ounce from $33.50 Tuesday. But the metal traded at $33.60 in New York.

Billboards Westernize China

PEKING (AP) — On a billboard towering over one of Peking's bustling shopping streets, an enormous astronaut strides across the surface of the moon. An offshore oil rig shimmers in the sunset.

"China is in the course of a modernization drive," says the billboard in red Chinese characters. "Kodak is proud it can make a contribution."

The new billboard is one of several purchased by American firms. SmithKline Corp., the pharmaceutical company, advertises along the capital's main avenue, pushing cold tablets, stomach medicine and medical testing equipment.

Some 30 foreign firms have rented billboard space in Peking, and about 70 Chinese enterprises are touting their wares to foreign buyers in prime locations.

China solicits foreign outdoor advertising through its Peking and Shanghai advertising companies, said Ling Wang Juan, a spokesman for the Peking enterprise.

"Any good businessman working abroad knows advertising is a very important part of his business," Ling said in an interview. "China is not much of an immediate market, but it is potentially a great market and that's why they are advertising here."

Foreign companies request their location and design their billboards. They are painted by chinese artists.

Kodak's billboard and those for several other companies are at least twice the average size. In full color, it touts the virtues of Kodak photographic equipment, processing, microfilm and industrial and medical photographic equipment.

Shelters Warning Told

Taxpayer, Lawyers Alerted on Abuses

(Last of a 10-part series on 1979 income taxes)

By SYLVIA PORTER

Money's Worth

If you are among the mounting numbers of Americans who have tried to save taxes or at least put off paying them, by investing in various so-called tax shelters, the Internal Revenue Service came up with some bad news for you in 1979. And if you are among the attorneys involved in shelter promotions, IRS gave you a loud signal: beware.

The IRS has been providing its examining agents with detailed Tax Shelter Guidelines for identifying and attacking abusive tax shelters of different types.

In 1979 alone, IRS issued Tax Shelter Guidelines covering oil and gas investments, farming, motion pictures, equipment leasing (such as buying and leasing railway cars, computers, etc.), coal investments and real estate investments.

These guidelines explain what makes a particular tax shelter "abusive" and what the IRS agent should do once he identifies an "abusive" tax shelter in order to bar the investor from getting his expected tax benefits from the shelter in the form of investment credits, depreciation deductions, etc.

IN THE CLOSING month of 1979, IRS cracked down specifically on the popular "art master" tax shelter in which many taxpayers have been investing. This shelter involves the investor's purchase of a master lithographic plate made by an artist, plus the right to run off and sell a limited number of prints made from the plate.

It works this way. Say you are the investor. You would pay for this with a small amount of cash plus a non-recourse note (a note for which you are not personally liable, so that the creditor can only collect it out of collateral if you don't pay).

The expected tax shelter from this investment would come from an investment credit based on the price of the master (including the amount of the note) and from certain depreciation.

IN ITS HARSH December 1979 ruling, IRS analyzed this shelter in such a way that the investor wound up with no investment credit and no depreciation — completely wiping out the anticipated shelter.

While the IRS concedes existence of various acceptable tax shelters, investors should be on the alert for the so-called "abusive" ones. If the IRS at a later date disallows the tax benefits of an abusive tax shelter in which you have put money, it will retroactively raise your income and the income tax due from the investor, plus 12 percent (no longer 6 percent) interest.

As part of its expanding program to crack down on abusive tax shelters, the IRS has formed a committee to expedite the issuance of rulings on shelters.

The committee, according to the Research Institute of America, consists of 16 tax law specialists under the IRS assistant commissioner (technical).

The committee will monitor advertising for tax shelters, obtain brochures from promoters and review the shelters proposed. If and when an abusive shelter is found, specialists will prepare and speed up issuance of a ruling.

INTENSE ATTENTION IS being given to tax attorneys involved in the shelter promotions. "One of the critical elements in promoting an abusive tax shelter scheme is the tax opinion supplied by the promoter's tax attorney," said Robert H. Mundheim, treasury general counsel. Mundheim describes four types of opinions:

— The intentionally false or totally incompetent opinion.

— The opinion which states the tax benefits will be obtained if the facts are as represented by the promoter, but disclaims knowledge of the accuracy of the facts, such as the high value placed on property purchased with a small amount of cash down.

— THE OPINION WHICH discusses the law applicable to tax shelters but doesn't relate the law to the facts of the particular transaction. These opinions lack analysis of the critical facts and do not really touch on the tax consequences of the transaction.

— The "reasonable basis" opinion which points out that there is a reasonable basis for the claimed tax benefits but warns the taxpayer that if he is audited, his claims would be challenged and under existing law he probably would lose.

Attorneys who are found to be incompetent, disreputable or to have fraudulently misled a prospective claimant can be suspended or disbarred from practice before the IRS, Mundheim points out.

In addition, the Justice Department has indicated it "would be receptive to considering the prosecution of tax attorney misconduct in tax shelter cases."

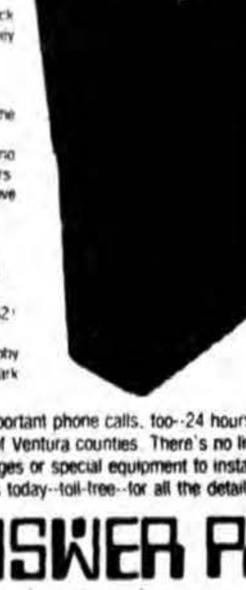
Health Proposals Rapped

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The proposed state health plan won't improve health care in California because it is riddled with flaws, 'the California Medical Association testified here Tuesday night.

The proposal ignores the law that authorized it, was put together haphazardly and relies on opinion rather than on facts and the readily available expertise that could have made it a useful basis for state health planning, a spokesman for CMA testified.

"I'M NOT GOING TO MISS DELIVERING A BABY..."
"I can relax outside of home and office knowing that I'm not going to miss delivering a baby when I'm 'between locations.'" --Eugene R. Sollman, M.D., Canoga Park
"DURING THE GASOLINE CRUNCH... WHAT MORE CAN I SAY? When I get paged 50 miles from the office and can be routed to another customer near that location, Answer Page pays off to its highest degree. And with my business... it happens almost daily. I'd be lost without it." --John S. Dimmick, Adobe Engineers, Inc., Downey
"EVEN WITH RADIOS IN THE TRUCK... It's like having someone tap you on the shoulder to say you are wanted." --Ray A. Cumberland, AC&R Air Conditioners, Refrigerators, Garden Grove
"MY PAGER AND I ARE PARTNERS. My business deals in service to the public, being available at all times is a must. Answer Page ensures this. My pager and I are partners, its salary--$2 a month. The rest is mine!" --H.C. Murphy, H.C. Murphy Pumping, Buena Park


"THANKS TO ANSWER PAGE... As a private consultant, operating without an office staff, I can now do personal errands without worrying about whether any calls have come in." --Gordon B. Weir, Allied Weather Consultants, Los Angeles
"WE HAVE GAINED ACCOUNTS... Answer Page has provided us instant contact with our men in the field. We have gained accounts by being able to get to emergency calls and give our customers quick service when they have a problem." --Jim Cronk, Hydrex Pest Control Co., Los Angeles
"THE ONE THING THAT SETS ME APART..." In real estate, your calls from clients are your lifeblood. One thing that sets me apart from others is that my calls get to me NOW!" --Ed Jones, Century 21 Real Estate, Lakewood Answer Page can alert you to important phone calls, too--24 hours a day in Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and parts of Ventura counties. There's no limit to the number of "beeps" you can receive, and no extra phone charges or special equipment to install. When someone wants you, they just dial. It's as easy as that! Call us today--toll-free--for all the details!

Urgency Needed

Efficiency Dip, Inflation Match

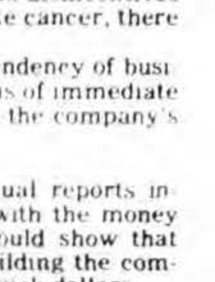
By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans have known for at least 15 years that they have been slipping behind other countries in the rate at which they improve their production efficiency.

They have known, but maybe haven't cared, though the steady decline — from 3.2 percent in the years 1948-1965, to 2.3 in 1965-1973, to 0.9 in 1973-1978 and to a minus last year — has coincided with inflation.

The relationship still may not be comprehended, even after Congress' Joint Economic Committee last year released to a people long accustomed to higher living standards a conclusion that was designed to startle.

Said the committee: "The average American is likely to see his standard of living drastically decline in the 1980s unless the United States accelerates its rate of productivity growth."



CUNNIFF

FOR MANY AMERICANS the process has begun; hourly workers in 1979 earned about 6 percent or 7 percent more than in 1978 in terms of dollars, but with inflation of 13.4 percent their takehome pay was less.

Still, says C. Jackson Grayson Jr., chairman and founder of the American Productivity Center, whose mission is to raise the efficiency of American output, millions might still not comprehend the message.

"Not enough people are listening," said Grayson. He conceded "There is a greater degree of awareness among Congress, business and unions, but not among ordinary people."

CAN PEOPLE UNDERSTAND, he was asked? "If they're afraid enough," he replied. "Now they're afraid of inflation and afraid of unemployment, and they should be afraid of what is happening to productivity."

But, said Grayson, who was President Nixon's price commissioner, an experience that convinced him that controls don't work, too seldom is the connection made between inflation and low productivity.

The relationship is direct. If it costs less to turn out a product then everyone — shareholders, employees and purchasers benefit — without depriving the other of their share. The more it costs to produce a product the less competitive it is — the price is higher, the market is smaller, and that means less for shareholders and workers.

PRODUCTIVITY GROWTH LAGS because of myriad reasons, all of which the center is examining at conferences and seminars, and then instituting remedies, working in-house with executives of specific companies.

Government intervention in the marketplace, some of it necessary, is one cause, Grayson says. Tax disincentives to investments are another, he believes. Like cancer, there are probably scores of causes.

He is disturbed, for one thing, by the tendency of business today to measure performance in terms of immediate return on equity, no matter what it does to the company's long-range strength.

GRAYSON WOULD LIKE to see annual reports include a productivity measurement along with the money measures. High productivity, he feels, would show that management was looking to the future, building the company's strength rather than squeezing out quick dollars.

He is distressed at how little business knows about productivity. "I keep telling business people they don't know as much about it as they think they do," he says. If they challenge him, he asks.

How do you measure productivity in your company? Could you give me a number? "Only 10 to 20 percent can," he says.

What is the relationship between productivity and profitability?

GENERALLY THE RESULT is chagrin, the fact is, says Grayson, they do not know productivity in its specifics. In fact, because many executive profit-sharing plans are based on immediate earnings, long-term strength sometimes is sacrificed.

A particular goal of Grayson's is to "restore the ability of people to influence their own work and permit them a greater say and influence on their jobs." And, he adds, to share in the rewards as well.
