NEWPORT BEACH — They already have the key to prime-time television success.

Tonight, cast members and producers of the Fox network's "The OC" will get a key to Newport Beach, the city that has provided the show with a backdrop, richly woven with drama and mystique.

The show has lent fame and notoriety to this city, enhancing its image as a popular tourist destination, said Gail Ossipoff, spokeswoman for the Newport Beach Conference and Visitors Bureau.

"This show has brought a lot of positive attention to the city," she said. "I was in New York City recently, and everybody was asking about this show. It's not just around here. It's across the country."

The bureau is realistic about the content of the show, which portrays the action-packed lives of pretty, young, rich Newport Beach men and women, complete with sex, drugs, revenge and betrayal. Ossipoff said.

"It's not a reality show," she said. "It's entertainment. You take it with a grain of salt just like 'Dallas' or 'Beverly Hills 90210'."

Newport Beach Mayor Tod Ridgeway, who has previously said the show is entertaining but an exaggerated version of the city, will present the key to cast members.

Tonight's event, starting at 6:30 p.m., will also feature a "cement ceremony," where "The OC" will be immortalized on Newport's newly created Walk of Fame at the Balboa Pavilion, Ossipoff said. To top it off, the mayor will make a proclamation in appreciation of "OC Thursdays," drawing attention to the fact that the show will now air Thursdays instead of Tuesdays. The Balboa Fun Zone will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. courtesy of the show. The show's season premiere will be Nov. 4.

Ridgeway was not available for comment on Wednesday, but his wife Kay said that as parents of a freshman in high school, they sense the show's popularity among local high school students.

"A lot of local high school students watch the show and find it entertaining, on the cutting edge and very cool," she said.

Her son and his friends are excited that the city is strengthening its relationship with the show, Kay Ridgeway said.

Councilman Steve Bromberg said he feels almost neutral on the issue. He declined an offer last year, when he was mayor, to go on the "Sharon Osborne Show" and present "The OC" with a key to

Three arrested in heist try

Police suspect the Los Angeles men thought they were breaking into a store housing a $2.3-million diamond. They were wrong.

CORONA DEL MAR — Three men wielding handguns robbed a jewelry store Wednesday morning and one barricaded himself in a nearby shop for two hours before surrendering, police said. The standoff closed the Corona del Mar Plaza at MacArthur Boulevard and Coast Highway for more than three hours Wednesday, after police received a silent-alarm call at 10:40 a.m. from Jewels by Joseph, Newport Beach Police Sgt. Steve Shulman said.

Police arrested two men, Los Angeles residents Herbert Nelson Kirkwood, 31, and Dominick Edwards, 32, as they ran out the back door. A third Los Angeles man, Kenney Dwayne Watkins, 27, ran into Gelato Paradiso next door, causing employees there to flee into Lingerie et Chocolat, on the other side of the jewelry store, police said.

"A man and a woman [from Gelato Paradiso] ran inside the store and right to the back," Lingerie et Chocolat employee Crystal Comstock said. "They said, 'There's a guy with a gun.'"

Comstock locked the front door and huddled in the back until officers evacuated workers from the stores. During the standoff, yellow police tape, patrol cars and SWAT officers with guns drawn filled the upscale center's parking lot.

"It was kind of nuts," New Balance store manager Michael Weisenburger said of the scene.

Officers used a bullhorn to coax Watkins out of the gelato store and threatened to send in a police dog, Shulman said. Watkins finally surrendered peacefully to police at 2:15 p.m., Shulman said.

It appeared that he had hidden in the ceiling and tunneled back toward the jewelry store in an attempt to escape, Shulman said. Police found a handgun and jewelry in a trash can inside the gela-

Lilia Cheron, allegedly shot to death by her father-in-law, is memorialized at a Russian church.

SANTA ANA — The sound of Russian Orthodox chants and the aroma of frankincense filled the air as friends and family bid farewell Wednesday to Lilia Cheron, shot to death last week in her Costa Mesa home.

Lilia Cheron

of the Orange County district attorney's office filed murder charges Friday against 84-year-old Theodore Cheron, hospitalized with a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head. He is in a coma and not expected to live, Deputy Dist. Atty. Matt Murphy said.

Wednesday's memorial, at a Santa Ana mortuary, was conducted almost entirely in Russian. A Russian Orthodox priest led prayers and chants in Russian as singers joined in somber, melodious Russian hymns.

"She was such a giving person," said a friend who identified herself only as Yoshiko.

Japanese-born Yoshiko knew Lilia Cheron for two years and took Russian lessons from her. After their lessons, they would hold Russian tea ceremonies together, she said.

In her native country, Cheron worked as an accountant, Yoshiko said. She worked part-time at the Bank of America in Corona del Mar and took classes at Orange Coast College in English and accounting.

Co-workers from her bank came to the memorial service en masse to pay their last respects. Workers from other branches worked in Corona del Mar Wednesday, so everyone there could attend the memorial, bank manager Mike Amaral said.

Her co-workers described Lilia Cheron as a bright, smiling spirit who was

THE BELL CURVE

This year's election most important ever

Sherry and I will be watching the election returns Tuesday at the home of close friends who share our political convictions. The joy or the agony of this night needs the companionship of soul mates, especially if you believe, as I do, that this is the most critical national election in my eight decades on this planet. I couldn't risk suffering it alone.

We had invited our hosts to our house, but they asked that we come there so they might watch with their two teenage sons who, said their mother, "are passionately concerned with how the election goes because it's the first time that they are really aware of the issues." I like the idea of watching this election with young people. I know my two 20-something grandsons in far-off places will be sweating it out, too. The kind of country they will live in will be deeply effected by the results posted on this night.

If they were here, I would tell them that protecting their right to speak out against their own government when they disagree with its policies is greatly at risk in this country today. Only the aggressive expression of contrary views can counter the tough guys now in Washington — many of whom have never seen a war or even military service, but who wield patriotism like a sledge hammer.

I would tell them that the attorney general of the United States, representing the Bush administration, told a Senate committee shortly after the tragedy of Sept. 11, 2001: "To those who scare peace-loving people with phantoms of lost liberty, my message is this: Your

Record rain leaves little damage

After today, weather patterns should return to normal, with sunny skies, meteorologists say.

Deepta Bharath

NEWPORT-MESA — Many Southern California cities, including Costa Mesa and Newport Beach, have seen record amounts of rainfall for October, meteorologists said on Wednesday.

Tuesday night's heavy rain helped the area get to that record-breaking level locally, said Chuck Doucot, a Costa Mesa weather-watcher for the National Weather Service.

He used his rain gauge to measure 2.72 inches of rain between 10 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. Wednesday, Doucot said.

"I've lived in Costa Mesa practically my whole life, and this is the most rain I've ever seen in October," he said.

More rain was expected Wednesday night, but it should all end by today, said Noel Isla, a meteorologist for the National Weather Service in San Diego. As of Wednesday evening, about .90 inches of rain was reported in John Wayne Airport and 1.77 in Newport Beach, he said.

"For many cities it's a record-breaker," Isla said.

After today, weather patterns should return to normal, with sunny skies, he said.

Both Costa Mesa and Newport Beach did not witness any major incidents or flooding as a result of the rain, city officials said.

Newport Beach workers have been hauling hundreds of tons of trash and debris that have washed up on the beaches after the storm, said city general services director David Neiderhaus.

"We didn't have any flooding this time," he said.

Two trees fell on city streets, but they were smaller trees, and no one was reported hurt, Neiderhaus said.

"We've had a few people come in to pick up sand bags," he said. "We also had some leaks in some of the city buildings. But that was it."

Costa Mesa escaped without much damage either, said City Engineer Ernesto Munoz.

"Two intersections were flooded [Tuesday] night, and we had to close them," he said.

Both intersections, 19th Street and Anaheim Avenue and 17th Street and Pomona Avenue, were reopened Wednesday morning, Munoz said.

It's surprising to some extent that the heavy downpour didn't cause more damage, he said.

"But then again, the rain didn't come down all at once," Munoz said. "It was extended over a long period of time. That's always easier to digest."

NEWPORT BEACH CITY COUNCIL MEETING WRAP-UP

INSIDE CITY HALL

Here are a few of the issues the council decided Tuesday.

ST. MARK PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The council approved a general-plan amendment for the church to allow it to build a new facility at San Joaquin Hills Road and MacArthur Boulevard, an amendment to the Big Canyon planned community, a use permit to allow for new construction, a traffic study and a tentative parcel map.

The project, in the works for more than a year, entails a 34,000-square-foot facility to replace the church's current site next to Our Lady Queen of Angels Roman Catholic Church in the Eastbluff neighborhood.

WHAT IT MEANS

Church officials can now progress with their working drawings and submit them to the building department for permits.

WHAT WAS SAID

"St. Mark's has created a low-density, environmentally sensitive site plan that does not generate substantial traffic, and it was unanimously supported because it was so environmentally sensitive and low-density, so it was terrific," Mayor Tod Ridgeway said. "It's really a nice project."

HOUSING REPORT

The council approved an annual performance report for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The report shows what the city accomplished with the funds it received from HUD, which are provided to help cities meet affordable housing and community development needs of their residents, especially those considered to have low or moderate levels of income.

The report summarizes the 2003-04 fiscal year, when the city received $426,000 from HUD. It spent about $408,000 of that amount.

WHAT IT MEANS

The council approved the report.

BRIDGE SEISMIC RETROFIT

The council will consider approving a contract with an engineering firm for the design and construction support of seismically retrofitting three city-owned bridges — the northbound and southbound Jamboree Road bridges over San Diego Creek and the Goldenrod Avenue pedestrian bridge over Bayside Drive. The contract would be for about $279,000.

Staff members are still evaluating whether to recommend the retrofit or replacement of the Little Island Bridge over Grand Canal to the council.

The council approved the contract.

Police to look for drunk drivers

Costa Mesa Police will conduct a sobriety checkpoint Friday night on Harbor Boulevard.

The checkpoint will be in place from 9 p.m. Friday to 2 a.m. Saturday, according to police. It will be at Harbor Boulevard and Gisler Street.

Officers from the Costa Mesa Police Department and California Highway Patrol will be checking drivers' licenses and looking for impaired drivers.

The checkpoint is designed to raise awareness of drunken-driving issues, police said. It is being funded by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety.

So far this year, four people have died and 51 have been injured in alcohol-related accidents in Costa Mesa, according to police.

to store, he said. Police also recovered diamonds in the pocket of one of the other suspects, Shulman said.

The three men had entered the store with handguns, Shulman said. When officers arrived, Kirkwood and Edwards tried to run out the back door, where police arrested them.

Kirkwood and Edwards each face one count of robbery, Shulman said. Watkins faces an additional robbery charge because he demanded the car keys of one of the gelato employees.

Kirkwood and Watkins were in custody Wednesday night and not eligible for bail because of parole violations, Shulman said. Edwards was being held on $100,000 bail.

Comstock speculated that the men may have been drawn to the store by reports that it was hosting a $2.3-million, 13.42-carat diamond. The diamond was on display through Saturday, Shulman said, and was long gone before the robbery.

Workers at the store were not available for comment, one employee said, "except to say that everyone's just fine."

The excitement of the standoff was an unusual sight, Weisenburger said.

"We were kind of scared," he said. "But at the same time, there was a big Suburban parked right out front with a guy holding a machine gun. So I figured if anyone tried to run, he'd get him."

tactics only aid terrorists, for they erode our national unity and diminish our resolve. They give ammunition to America's enemies and pause to America's friends."

President Bush and Vice President Dick Cheney put the same sentiment into one simplistic sentence: "If you aren't with us, you're against us."

To paraphrase the attorney general, I would respond: Those who scare peace-loving people with weapons that don't exist, vague warnings of impending dangers that can only cause fear and threats if they disagree with a government they didn't elect only aid terrorists, for they erode the underpinnings of democracy and give ammunition to America's enemies and consternation to America's friends.

I would tell these young people that 60 years ago when — along with millions of other citizen soldiers — I proudly gave four years of my life to serving my country in the U.S. Navy in World War II, I was fighting for the preservation of what John Ashcroft contemptuously called the "phantom of lost liberty."

It was no phantom to me — then or now — but a very real freedom of speech and action that I was determined no foreign oppressor would ever take from me. Now, I'm just as determined that my own government won't take it from me or my grandchildren, either. If we allow that to happen under the guise of patriotism, then the terrorists of Sept. 11 have truly won. And when our leaders in Washington who say they want to unite us begin to refer to free speech as a "phantom of liberty," then we are well on our way to compromising that liberty.

Through the eight decades and multiple wars of my life, I have never seen my country as divided as it is today. The only parallel is Vietnam, when families were torn apart and 50,000 Americans were killed fighting a war for reasons many of us — both at home and in battle — neither understood nor agreed with, rather like the growing reports from the families of our troops in Iraq today. It took Americans three decades to recover our national equilibrium after Vietnam. God knows how long it will take after Iraq.

That depends largely on who is running the country after Nov. 2. Whomever it is, the next time any of us are told to buy into this baloney that we are undermining our troops by not swallowing the Bush party line on Iraq, we should ask ourselves honestly how we would feel about sending a son or daughter or grandchildren to risk their lives in Iraq for the reasons — which change almost weekly — being floated by our present government for our presence there. As John Kerry — in one of his few successful attempts at humor — said in the second debate, attacking Iraq after the tragedy of Sept. 11 was rather like the U.S. attacking Mexico after the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor.

Never before — and quite possibly never again — will we have an opportunity to choose between national directions so disparate that will deeply affect the health and well-being of our young people for many years to come. The disaster of Iraq has clouded such vital domestic issues as an emphasis on conserving energy rather than despoiling our environment to produce more energy; pulling back from taxing policies that make the rich richer while the country goes deeper into debt; research based on the work of our finest scientists rather than religious beliefs that would prevent such advances as the cultivation of stem cells; protecting the hard-earned rights, now being threatened, of women to manage their own bodies; ruling in the open rather than secretly; and extolling reason in government rather than the rigidity that doesn't allow for either mistakes or changing one's mind.

Instead of being urged to think through such issues and vote our convictions, we get bumper stickers about patriotism and TV commercials about the ominous threat from the boogymen of liberalism. Meanwhile, the quicksand of indifference into which elections have been sinking steadily in this country for several decades is happily showing patches of solid footing.

There are strong signs in Newport-Mesa — as there are all over the country — that voters aren't going to sit this one out, either locally or nationally. And that young people will be tuning in at other homes besides the one I'll be visiting on election night.

That gives me hope. In my 83 years, I've watched this country taken many times to the edge of disaster. But in every crisis I can remember, we have always pulled back, even if sooner would have been better. We're there again, and — five days before a national election — I choose to look at history rather than polls.

I'll be voting to protect my right to free speech and to retire John Ashcroft and his views about "phantoms of lost liberty." I realize that in doing so, I'll be protecting his rights to free speech, also. That's the way it worked when I went off to war. It is also the way it should — no, must — continue to work in the years ahead for the young folks I'll be joining on Tuesday night and for my grandchildren who will be there in spirit.

CREELA BELLE WELCH DAVIS

Creela Belle Welch Davis, our beautiful mother, grandmother and great-grandmother who very courageously battled breast cancer for four years died Monday morning in Newport Beach. She was the light of our lives, the "Belle of the Ball" whose love of dancing and laughter filled each one of us. At 5'1", she stood tall in her own right as the grand matriarch and hub of our large family of 6 daughters, one son, 21 grandchildren and 8 great-grandchildren (with 2 more in the "oven as she would say). In her own words, "not bad for an only child." Mother was a true Southern "Belle." If you were privileged to have graced her home, you would not have left hungry. Her renown for gourmet southern cooking and gracious hospitality brought people together to share her love of family and friends. Her exquisite decor and her meticulous attention to detail made her gatherings unite like an artistic masterpiece. None was more apparent than her traditional Christmas extravaganza. She would often refer to herself as a "Georgia Peach," born in Georgia but raised mostly in Mississippi. She then lived in West Virginia for 3 years where her mother's family, the Creels, originated. She came to live with her mother in California when she was 15 where she eventually met our father, the late Nathaniel A. Davis, M.D., at a big band dance at the Rainbow Gardens in Los Angeles. Four years later they eloped and spent their honeymoon with Harry and Josephine Rothchild on their yacht, followed by a special wedding dinner at the Arches Restaurant in Newport Beach. Her life with our father was one of lavish parties, often entertaining prominent celebrities as our father began his medical practice as the physician for the Paramount Studios and deluxe world cruises with her girls in tow. Her travels enabled her to literally dance around the world. Mother had a passion and enthusiastic zest for life. She took great pride in her quick-wit one-liners and her ability to speak her mind, followed by a glimmering eye twinkle that only she could portray. She had a warm and loving sense of humor that made being in her presence a pure delight. She would often say, "I'm the wealthiest woman in the world. I've had it all. But my greatest achievement of joy and true wealth are my children and grandchildren — my family is the most important thing in the world." And in her memory, we thank her for giving us a rich legacy of beauty, humor, and stories to cherish and pass on to our children and grandchildren. But most importantly, we pass on our unconditional love she freely and abundantly gave each one of us.

She is our foundation on which we have built our families and the pillar of strength that we seek to carry with us through eternity.

Mom we miss you deeply and are so blessed to have had you as the keystone in our lives. Please watch over us with your love and adoration, and keep your spirit in our hearts forever.

With all our love, daughters, Creela Harris, Natalyn Bergougnan, Donna Kiskila, Ruth Gohlke, Justine Howard and Eileen Anderson.

Service: Services will be at the Crystal Cathedral Arboretum Chapel in Garden Grove on Friday, October 29 at 1 p.m. It will be followed by her interment at Pacific View Cemetery in Newport Beach and then upon Mother's instructions a big celebration of good food, music, dancing and laughter. She asks us to come in good spirits and family unity as we celebrate the wonderful life she lived.

Viewing Thursday, Oct. 28, 2004, from 4-7pm at Pacific View Memorial Park, Corona del Mar. In lieu of flowers, donations to Laura's House Organization, 27129 Calle Arroyo, Suite 1822, San Juan Capistrano 92675 or Children's Hospital San Diego are kindly requested.

infinitely proud of her 12-year-old daughter. Her daughter and 52-year-old husband, George Cheron, were not home at the time of the shooting.

Theodore and Lilia Cheron had difficulties in the past, according to police. He had emigrated from Russia to Costa Mesa in the 1950s but still held to old traditions, Costa Mesa Police Lt. Ron Smith said. Lilia Cheron, who lived in the home with her husband and daughter from a previous marriage, was more modern and progressive, which met with her father-in-law's disapproval, Smith said.

Investigators believe Theodore Cheron pursued her through the house the morning of the shooting and shot her three times, Murphy said. The last shot was heard on the 911 tape, he said.

When police arrived at the house, they found Lilia Cheron in an upstairs bedroom. Theodore Cheron was standing in a downstairs bedroom, clutching a handgun, with a self-inflicted gunshot wound to his head, police said. He surrendered with-Prosecutors dropped the $1-million bail set for Theodore Cheron because he is in a coma and not likely to survive, Murphy said. If he does, his bail status will be renewed, and he will be fully prosecuted.

Removing his bail allows the family, not the Orange County Sheriff's Department, to make life-support decisions and prevents a lengthy investigation into what police and prosecutors believe is a clear-cut case, he said.

"Based on the investigation, he was in command of all his faculties," Murphy said. "This was a cold-blooded murder."

Congressional race on familiar grounds

Democrat Jim Brandt is vying for a seat in what's historically been hostile territory for his party.

Dave Brooks
Daily Pilot

The Democratic challenger to 16-year incumbent Republican Rep. Dana Rohrabacher is hoping there is enough change in the political wind to sail him into the House of Representatives.

Democrat Jim Brandt is running an aggressive campaign against Rohrabacher for a the 46th Congressional District seat. Green Party candidate Tom Lash is also running for the seat, as is Libertarian Keith Gann.

Traditionally the coastal district — which begins in Palos Verdes, stretches past Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors down to parts of Costa Mesa — has been considered a safe district for Republicans.

Voter registration figures report 137,300 registered Republicans in the 46th district versus about 83,200 registered Democrats.

That's a large barrier Brandt said, but if he can win the vote of the 51,400 voters who have declined to state their party affiliation, he thinks he has a good chance of winning.

The retired Marine Corps aviator said his background in the military and business — he served as chief operating officer for a large banking corporation — could appeal to independents and moderate Republicans.

"To win this district, you can't tell voters they're not paying their fair share of taxes or try to convince them to go on some sort of humanitarian mission," he said. "You have to go after them with a business sense."

Brandt is also a strong supporter of Democratic presidential candidate John Kerry and thinks that an anti-Bush backlash might dig him up some votes.

"A lot of Republicans think it doesn't matter how they vote in California," because of the electoral college system, he said. "So they won't turn out."

Brandt, who opposes offshore drilling and supports stronger regulation, is hoping that the redistricting of the 46th Congressional area to include more coastal communities will be a boon, since Rohrabacher is typically considered weak on environment. The League of Conservation Voters recently issued a report on Rohrabacher's voting record, giving him one of its lowest possible ratings.

Still, in the face of so many challenges, Rohrabacher retains one key advantage over Brandt: Rohrabacher is the incumbent.

Political watchdog group Common Cause reports that incumbents beat their challengers 93% to 95% of the time, and their odds increase steadily each year in office.

Not only is Rohrabacher an incumbent, he's become something of a nationally known conservative, recently grabbing headlines for recommending a constitutional amendment that could pave the way for Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger to become U.S. president.

"Some of my right-wing friends got mad at me for that, but I wanted to show the public the difference between legal and illegal immigration," said Rohrabacher, who is also known on Capitol Hill as a fervent critic of American immigration policy. "Those who come here illegally should be deported and have no rights."

Rohrabacher also has raised about 10 times as much as Brandt, bringing in $668,000 since January 2003, finance disclosures show.

"I'm confident, but I'm not overly confident. The people of this district know who I am," said Rohrabacher, who agreed to two Wednesday debates with Brandt, the results of which were not available by deadline.

"I've always agreed to debate my opponents," he said. "I think it's the responsibility of everyone in public life."

The pair differ on most prominent national issues. In general, Rohrabacher has supported President Bush on the invasions of both Afghanistan and Iraq.

When asked whether he would have voted to authorize the president to go to war, Brandt said "right now my answer would have been no, but hindsight is 20-20," he said.

Now that the U.S. has troops in Iraq, it needs to do its best to ensure that civil warfare doesn't erupt, he said. Brandt added that he believes the country needs to refocus on internal efforts to protect the United States, and has called for a massive security initiative to protect the ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach from terrorists who might try to smuggle in a nuclear device.

"That's the worst nightmare," he said. "If something like that happens, nothing else matters."

Q:

My 4-year-old has reflux and medications don't seem to help.

What else can we do?

A:

Mustafa Kabeer, M.D.
Pediatric Surgeon
CHOC

Because symptoms of reflux can vary, it's important to have your child conclusively diagnosed by a physician in order to rule out any other problems. If medication options have been explored, but haven't been successful, Nissen Fundoplication surgery may be an option for your child. This procedure involves strengthening the valve between the esophagus and the stomach to stop acid from backing up. This procedure can be performed at Children's Hospital of Orange County (CHOC) using robotic surgery. With the help of robotics, the physician now has a 3-D view of the procedure, providing an edge over traditional 2-D laparoscopic methods. Robotic surgery allows for less invasive techniques and requires smaller incisions—which may result in better outcomes with less pain and discomfort and quicker recovery times. CHOC is one of the first hospitals in the nation, and first in Southern California, to offer this surgery in pediatrics.

At CHOC, we have nothing but expert pediatric professionals. For more information on either of any other pediatric-related topics, visit choc.org or talk to your CHOC-affiliated pediatrician.

THE RACE FOR COSTA MESA CITY COUNCIL

Counting on chance to serve the hometown

Alicia Robinson
Daily Pilot

After fighting to stay out of the shadow of the 1901 Newport condominium complex, Terry Shaw wants to move from the audience at City Council meetings to the dais.

A Newport Harbor High School graduate who grew up in Costa Mesa, Shaw is running for the City Council. His professional experience is in accounting and banking. He now works as an account manager for Orange County Business Bank, and he's been an accountant for local computer manufacturers.

"I like working with the numbers, and I like the people that I've been working with," he said. "It's been a good career overall."

Shaw said he's running for the council because he became interested in city government a year and a half ago and wants to get more involved.

"It goes back to when I was opposing the 1901 Newport Plaza condominium project," he said. "I started attending all the meetings after that, and there were just a number of decisions that I didn't concur with, and so I thought I'd give it a shot."

He lives across the street from 1901 Newport and encouraged the council to limit the buildings to three stories, but he wasn't happy with what was finally approved, he said.

If he is elected, one of his priorities will be "reasonable land development," he said. The city needs some growth, but it doesn't have to be high density, he said.

"I just don't buy into that philosophy [of high density]," Shaw said. "I don't think we need to be another high-rise town."

He's also concerned about the city using its fiscal reserves and thinks officials should cut costs, raise fees or a combination of both.

"If you have to draw from savings to meet your bills, and you're not getting it from current income, that's not balancing your budget," he said.

In his free time, Shaw's pursuits tend toward the physically active. He enjoys camping and has hiked Mount Whitney twice, he said. He's also a graduate of the Newport Beach Citizens Police Academy.

Shaw said the ideal City Council member should be a person of integrity who has an understanding of how city government works.

"I think they should be willing to listen to different points of view, and I think they should be someone that's going to seek solutions that, while it may not please everyone, it will answer most people's concerns," he said.

Solving problems and making things fit together is what Shaw likes about his job. Someone once told him what accountants do is put numbers in little boxes, and he said he applies that method to the city.

"I guess I look at the city as, the people are the numbers and the houses are the boxes and it's a matter of making everyone fit in the city and helping everyone find a spot where they feel comfortable," he said.

What's the most important issue facing the city?
I think the major issue at this point is land use/development/zoning. What we do concerning this has a trickle-down effect. It affects the whole city and for a very long time. We ought not to allow overdevelopment. We should encourage, where and when possible, single-family housing. When multi-family housing is called for, we should require the maximum in parking spaces and likewise for commercial projects. Parking, as well as traffic, has become a major problem in this city. Also, many neighborhoods are losing their character due to "super-sizing" new housing and remodels. We should encourage and obtain open space when financially feasible. It may be time to review the general plan, because we seem to be changing it piecemeal in its current form. All this affects the city financially, too, which I think is a very close-second issue.

What do you think of the city's joint-use agreement with the schools for use of playing fields?
I think the agreement is good in principle. However, it is apparent that both parties need a clearer understanding, or at least a refreshing, of what is required of each. This will help alleviate overzealous enforcement and scapegoats. There are apparently some ad hoc meetings taking place that should be open to the public. It will be informative to know what the recommendations and results are. Additionally, it has been indicated that the fields at Costa Mesa's high schools are in much poorer condition than the ones in Newport Beach.

ON THE ISSUES

KENT TREPTOW / DAILY PILOT

Terry Shaw is running for Costa Mesa City Council.

This is something that should be addressed.

What would be the most effective way to improve the Westside?

Probably the most effective immediate improvement would be infrastructure improvements. Many residents on the Westside complain their streets are terrible compared to other parts of the city. Granted, repairs and landscaping are taking place, and more are planned for 19th Street, but more needs to be done in the neighborhoods. Subpar housing should be looked at for code violations, and some of the shopping centers need face-lifts. Perhaps low-interest loans would help, but private investment should be encouraged first. A zoning overlay may be worth considering, but any new development would have to recognize the preexisting rights of those already there. The industrial component is grandfathered in, and while it might be nice to see it changed, I would not force condemnation. Noxious fumes, which I've heard complaints about, should be investigated and controlled. Also, halfway houses should be monitored to make sure they are not overly congregated and are run in an orderly manner.

Are city leaders doing a good job handling the budget and pressures on it from the state?
The city administrators have done a good job with what they have to work with. However, the City Council has some tough decisions ahead. The state's playing with the revenue stream has certainly muddied the waters, but our spending has outpaced revenue. We have drawn from reserves for the last three years to meet budget. Obviously, this cannot go on forever. The only time it might be warranted is when major capital projects are involved. Orange County just approved an enhanced retirement plan for its employees. This puts pressure on cities to adopt similar plans. We need to be very cautious in our negotiations with the Costa Mesa employees union. We do not want to join a growing list of bankrupt or near-bankrupt cities. Would I raise taxes or fees? Yes, but only after careful consideration. Some of them, such as the business-license fees, have not kept with the times.

Going for a second term after 22-year wait for his first

Deirdre Newman
Daily Pilot

The rabid, anti-communist sentiment in the 1950s permeated the world that Chris Steel grew up in, permanently shaping his political outlook on life.

He remembers watching the Joe McCarthy hearings on TV as a child and witnessing anti-communist fervor in his neighborhood and school.

"Joe was my kind of idol," Steel said. "That was the big thing."

Steel's conservative values were embedded young, and he hasn't wavered. The incumbent city councilman is running for reelection in November and is sticking to his core goals of trying to improve the city's environment, schools, security, property values and fiscal integrity.

"What I'm trying to do [on the council] is not being accomplished," Steel said. "If I win, I'm not sure I will have two more votes to do what I want to do."

And one of them is his familiar refrain of eliminating charities, like Save Our Selves, from the Westside.

"That charity is a major problem for why the Westside has an image problem," Steel said. "They're doing what everyone should be doing in the moral, scriptural sense, but it's incompatible with good schools, low crime and [high] property values because of conditions resulting from them being here."

He suggests removing Save Our Selves and the Soup Kitchen, another Westside charity, from the city and having them relocate to central Orange County "so everyone can benefit."

Steel was born in Pittsburgh and came to Costa Mesa in 1972. He has worked as an educational, political and financial consultant and as an East Coast admissions representative for Hiram Scott College in Nebraska. In 1969, he was assigned to California to oversee the college's western admissions program.

His first attempt at getting a seat on the council dais was in 1978. He proceeded to run every two years except 1986 and 1990. Twenty-two years after his first effort, he was finally elected.

DON LEACH / DAILY PILOT

Four years ago, he spent only $26,000 and did his own mailings.

"I'm my own campaign manager," Steel said.

On his campaign statement finance form, he declared that he will spend less than $1,000 and receive less than $1,000 in donations as well. One donation he did accept was for $125 from the Manufactured Housing Educational Trust, a Laguna Hills organization that represents owners of mobile-home parks in various issues relating to the parks.

"They said, 'We agree with you on rent control,'" he said. "Since [they] agree with me and not vice versa, I'll cash it."

CHRIS STEEL

AGE: 63

FAMILY: Single

EDUCATION: Bachelor's degree in clinical psychology, Parsons College, Iowa

COMMUNITY ACTIVITIES: Chamber of Commerce, Elks Club, Moose Lodge, Costa Mesa Tomorrow

Another goal he has been frustrated with not being able to accomplish is the job center, a place on the Westside where day laborers congregate and wait for people to hire them. He wanted to get rid of the job center, or at least limit it to day workers and businesses from Costa Mesa. But that didn't fly with the rest of the council.

"No other city, not even Santa Ana, has one," Steel said. "It's well-run, but no one wants to talk about these problems because they don't want to be depicted as racist."

Slumlords are another target Steel would like to see the city address more forcefully.

"We should do whatever it takes legally to expose slumlords," he said.

Despite what people may think about him, Steel wants it known that he does not harbor any racist feelings.

"Discrimination or racism is not in my background," he said. "It's not in my head, not in my heart. It's not in my heritage. Intolerance is growing in the electorate as a result of the City Council's ignoring current conditions."

ON THE ISSUES

What's the most important issue facing the city?

The need to elect three council members, devoid of special-interest obligations, who have conviction, courage, hindsight and vision to address, abate and remove, if necessary, the sources or magnet attractions of our growing conditions that are clearly affecting our public schools, our crime rate, our budget, environment, etc.

What do you think of the city's joint-use agreement with the schools for use of the playing fields?
The agreement is necessary, is good and will soon get better. The district and the city's staffs are making progress in developing standards for maintaining the turf and accessing the use and quality of all fields.

What would be the most effective way to improve the Westside?

Start with the removal of the magnet attractions that have given the Westside an unfair negative image. By continuing the status-quo, there has not been and there will not be any real improvement, in spite of any individuals or committee's good intentions and worthy visions.

Are city leaders doing a good job handling the budget and the pressures on it from the state?

The city staff, starting with City Manager Alan Rosales and director of Finance Marc Puckett, are doing an excellent job in handling the budget and the state's pressure on it. The council can always do a better job.

Proposition 59 vital to public information

Lost among the statewide propositions concerning Indian gaming and the race for the presidency of the United States is a little-known proposed amendment to the state's Constitution known as Proposition 59.

While it has been overshadowed by bigger and sexier campaigns, the truth is this initiative strikes a blow against those who would deny the people's right to know what the government is doing.

Proposition 59's passage would strengthen the Ralph M. Brown Act and the California Public Records Act and make it a state constitutional right for the public and journalists, acting on behalf of the public, to access governmental meetings and governmental documents.

No surprise here. We back Proposition 59, 100%.

Too often, members of the public and the press are denied access to government records, government institutions and government meetings at the whim of mostly well-meaning but often misinformed public officials. We are then forced to ask for the access and wait for the anticipated denial.

If this proposition passes, that access will be constitutionally protected, putting the onus on government agencies to explain more precisely why the information is not public.

According to the state attorney general's summary, the measure would:

- Provide right of public access to meetings of government bodies and writings of government officials.

- Provide that statutes and rules furthering public access shall be broadly construed, or narrowly construed if limiting public access.

- Require future statutes and rules limiting access to contain findings justifying necessity of those limitations.

- Preserve constitutional rights including rights of privacy, due process, equal protection; expressly preserve existing constitutional and statutory limitations restricting access to certain meetings and records of government bodies and officials, including law enforcement and prosecution records.

In fact, it was put on the ballot by a two-thirds vote of the state Legislature, although that very same Legislature is exempt from much of the law.

"The main reason it is needed is to prevent dilution of access rights by the courts," said Peter Scheer, the executive director of the California First Amendment Coalition, a Sacramento-based public access watchdog group. "Because it will be part of the constitution, it can't be altered by judges but only another amendment. And access rights have been watered down. This will put a stop to that."

Proposition 59 is supported up and down the state. Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger is in favor of it, as are the California Newspaper Publishers Assn., the California First Amendment Coalition, the League of Women Voters and city attorneys across the state.

Count us, and we hope the voters, among them.

COMMUNITY COMMENTARY

Marinapark plan would keep the Girl Scouts going

By Suzanne Huffman Esber

On behalf of the board of directors of the Girl Scout Council of Orange County, I want to express our appreciation to the city of Newport Beach. The city's long-standing support has helped to ensure that the council has a local facility in which to offer quality educational and recreational opportunities for Girl Scouts and adult volunteers.

Since 1947, the Neva B. Thomas Girl Scout House has provided a place where girls can enjoy troop meetings, camping, boating and other activities, and where volunteers can hold planning meetings and trainings. The unique location allows local Girl Scouts, as well as girls from other parts of the county, to enjoy affordable, beach-oriented experiences on the beautiful Balboa Peninsula.

The proposed Marinapark Resort & Community Plan ensures that girls continue to have these opportunities well into the future. The plan calls for a new, 6,200-square-foot Girl Scout facility and community center on the Balboa Peninsula in Newport Beach, to be built at no cost to the Girl Scout Council. This facility will be adjacent to, but completely separate from, the proposed hotel and will have a separate entrance on another side of the complex.

The council board carefully reviewed the proposal and has approved the organizational position of supporting this development. IRS regulations permit nonprofit organizations to lobby "to an insubstantial degree," which is certainly the case here. We want to state clearly that we believe this development is a means of ensuring that the council can continue to offer quality Girl Scout programs in a modern facility for many more years to come.

As volunteer directors, we have worked with local Girl Scout families and other volunteers in the Newport Beach area over the past several months to inform them about the Marinapark plan. Overall, we have received very enthusiastic support for the proposed Girl Scout facility.

• SUZANNE HUFFMAN ESBER is chair of the Girl Scout Council of Orange County Board of Directors.

MAILBAG

KENT TREPTOW / DAILY PILOT

A local walks his dog at the much-talked-about site of the proposed Marinapark resort on the Balboa Peninsula.

No on wrong picture of Marinapark resort plan

The "Yes on L" campaign is full of distorted facts, misinformation, half-truths, and in some cases, outright false statements.

The campaign mailer claims "no significant new traffic." However, the analysis by the Newport Beach city attorney presented in the sample ballot states that the proposed project will include "a 110-guest unit luxury resort . . . A pier and float would be installed adjacent to the American Legion marina and 200 on-site parking spaces [to] serve guests and employees." This would replace the existing Marinapark, "developed with 56 mobile homes, four tennis courts and other recreational facilities, a community center and 21 parking spaces."

If the project is to develop no new traffic, who is going to use the 200 on-site parking spaces for guests and employees? Perhaps they are planning to have their guests parachute into the resort as their plane flies into John Wayne Airport, or have all of their employees meet in a parking lot in south Santa Ana or north Costa Mesa and be transported in by buses, or bring in needed food and supplies for the "luxury resort" by way of barges loaded from trucks parked on the Coast Highway Bridge and towed across the bay to the resort pier.

The campaign mailer also contains misleading pictures and statements about boat-storage facilities and trailers loaded with jet skis in an attempt to frighten voters. This tactic is deliberately misleading in that the measure is only about amending two elements of the current Newport Beach general plan. As stated in the analysis: "A 'no' vote means the language in the Land Use Element and the Recreation and Open Space Element would not change." A "no" vote says nothing about future plans for this area. Why have a general plan if it is to be changed every time a developer comes in with a pet project that supposedly provides additional funds for the city at the expense of residents and visitors?

Our mayor, a majority of the City Council and the appointed planning commissioners seem more concerned with projects that would generate funds they can spend than with the welfare of the residents and visitors to Newport Beach or the inconveniences, difficulties, additional expenses and hardship that their pet projects create.

A note to those running for a position on the City Council: We will only vote for those candidates who specifically state that they oppose Measure L.

Ban on beach smoking lights a common-sense fire

Re: "Smoking ban takes effect on city sand." Oct. 15. That's one more freedom taken away in beautiful Newport Beach!

In the opening paragraph of the Pilot article, it states: "The sun was high and bright Thursday afternoon and one of the only things marring the beauty of the shore was a scattering of cigarette butts in the sand." What about all the other garbage that is left on the beach? What about 300 decals saying, "No smoking"? I think that is much more offensive and degrading than cigarette butts!

Talk about disgusting comments: "The cigarettes get washed into the ocean, and then the fish eat them, and we eat the fish . . . If you think about that, that's kind of disgusting." Is the school's Earth Resource Club going to put the fish on a special diet?

I think the City Council needs to have a citation of $500 for imposing such a law! Please let us live and enjoy ourselves and our beaches and community without such ridiculous laws. Where has common sense, consideration and respect for one another gone? Don't you think you have gone over the top?

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Marinapark neighbor pleads 'No on L'

I have lived on the Peninsula for more than 15 years. My house is directly across from Marinapark. Measure L, which would allow for a resort to be built on the Balboa Peninsula, is of great importance to me and my neighbors. I would like to weigh in and give a perspective from some local residents.

I am writing this letter to inform the public why they should oppose Measure L.

Traffic is a major concern for the residents of the peninsula. I believe the Marinapark traffic studies submitted to the City Council were flawed. The developer's data counted the cars that traveled on 18th Street, not the actual traffic that passed through the gates at Marinapark. I have a direct view from my living room, and I have never counted more than 20 cars per hour. The hotel has provisions for a ballroom from which to conduct weddings and other social functions. This will create more traffic than normal hotel operations. It is estimated that the hotel will bring an additional 1,000 cars onto the peninsula per day. This will serve only to increase our gridlock situation.

The American Legion has been offered an "incentive" of $500,000 to support the project. Developer Stephen Sutherland is a good politician, who promises something to achieve his goals, but will likely fall short on his promise. I ask: Where is the contract with the American Legion? Does support from the American Legion give him the right to say "Veterans support Yes on L"? Some veterans are fuming mad over his claim.

The Girl Scouts practically have exclusive use of this Newport jewel. They can use the beach area unencumbered. Once the hotel is built, the Girl Scouts will be competing with hotel guests for the beach. Would you want your daughter going to a location next to a busy hotel and sharing the facilities with strangers? I believe the hotel is bad for the Girl Scouts.

If the city would sell the land for residential use, they would have far more revenue than the hotel and have a tax base forever. The consensus of the citizens, whom I have had the chance to speak with, want more open space. I hear that resounding issue over and over. The citizens are tired of the government pillaging public resources for "progress."

As far as the reliability of the developer is concerned, the residents have done the research that the city did not do. At this time, Sutherland has no financial backing. He says he plans to announce a financial backer soon. That's just not good enough. His experience has been designing hotels in Mexico. I believe the residents need to know what a shaky deal this is with Sutherland. Sutherland has not been attacked; everyone has done their due diligence. Would a Hilton or Hyatt build a five-star hotel on leased land? Newport deserves more than an inexperienced operator with shallow promises.

By voting yes, you will effectively change the land use from open space to marine commercial whether Sutherland is the developer. I believe the residents will let their voice be heard Tuesday. Measure L will fail overwhelmingly. Then the residents will have the opportunity to decide the best use of the parkland — not a boat-launch ramp, boat storage or a soccer field. Those ideas were never considered. We would like to preserve the open space for this generation and many more to come. Please join me in voting "No on L."

THE CROWD

Cross-section of community comprises the top 103

Public servants, men of the cloth, purveyors of fish tacos, land developers and beach lifeguards came together Wednesday for a luncheon at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, Newport Beach for the 12th annual Daily Pilot "Top 103" celebration. What began in 1992 as part whim, part marketing tool, part community magnet, is now a tradition in the Newport-Mesa community garnering attention as well as criticism, with the list of names of the 103 most influential people in the community dissected and debated by readers of the Daily Pilot. Tom Johnson, publisher of the Daily Pilot, addressed the assemblage in the Hyatt dining room stating, "You may ask how we arrive at the list. I'm here to tell you that the criteria is based on the FOT or FOS scale." Johnson explained that FOT stands for friend of Tom [Johnson] and FOS is for friend of Steve [Cahn], managing editor of the Pilot. As the crowd applauded with laughter, Johnson added, "The folks on this list contribute to life in this community day in and day out. They have an impact on the way we live, and they all make a difference."

The luncheon, and the list itself, has become something of a roast over the years. Johnson recalled a past Top 103 list that honored a drug-sniffing Costa Mesa police dog as one of the high-ranking 103. Former Costa Mesa Police Chief Dave Snowden was also honored that year — however, with a higher number. Snowden was quick to call Johnson and relay his concern over being listed following the dog.

In this story lies the message and the meaning of the 103 list. It is a reflection of a diverse and vibrant community that celebrates the best of the human condition, in spite of differences of every variety. This year, the rector of St. James Church, Praveen Bunyan, was nominated as number five on the list. The controversial pastor, who led his Newport Beach congregation away from the Episcopal diocese over hot-button issues including the ordination of homosexual clergy and the divinity of Jesus Christ, was invited to say the invocation before the luncheon. Bunyan made no reference to his ongoing secession, offering instead a prayer over the food and the assemblage.

In a further effort to stir the pot, luncheon organizers led a sing-along, passing out song sheets labeled "Measure L" and "No on L." The lyrics were written pro and con over the measure facing Newport-Mesa residents on the Nov. 2 ballot, regarding the redevelopment of the bay-front, city-owned land on the Balboa Peninsula. Sung to the tune of the Christmas carol "Noel," the pro lyrics went as follows: "Measure L, Measure L, We sure think it's swell. We want to stay at this 110-room hotel." And now for the negative lyrics: "No on L, No on L, something fishy we smell. A sweeeeeet heart deal is the Stephen Sutherland 110-room hotel." Sutherland, the designer and developer of the project, was in the 103 audience, taking it all with grace and good cheer. Also present was legendary Newport citizen Paul Salata, fundraising expert Terry Callahan, Costa Mesa's Share Our Selves cofounder Karen McGlinn and big-time surfer Bill Sharp. Gregg Schwenk, Newport Beach investment banker and executive director of the Newport Beach Film Festival, joined Hoag Hospital executive Michael Stephens and Newport Mayor Tod Ridgeway at the luncheon event.

Costa Mesa Councilman Allan Mansoor did his best impression of Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger as the crowd dined on an exceptional three-course luncheon that began with an artistically prepared seafood salad displayed in a half coconut, followed by a mixed grill entrée and dessert.

Local political candidates were also present, including Bruce Garlich, chairman of the Costa Mesa Planning Commission, and Newport Beach Councilman Steve Bromberg. Tom Johnson roasted friend Del Heintz, Costa Mesa-based director of government affairs for AT&T Broadband. "I have absolutely no idea how Del Heintz made this list," mused Johnson. He did know why former California legislator and former State Education Secretary Marian Bergeson made the list. Also honored was Scott Paulson, retired school principal who headed five Newport-Mesa schools during his career. Paulson made a most unusual tribute.

"Over the past 10 years, 19 schools in the Newport-Mesa district have received $20 million in donations from a local couple you've never heard of," said Paulson. He added, "At first, I received checks in the mail that looked like throw-away marketing mail. One came for $1.2 million another for $7 million."

Paulson went on to share that a Newport couple named David and Monica Gelbaum always wanted to remain anonymous; however, their generosity has made such an impact on the community that it was time they were recognized. The Gelbaums did not attend the luncheon.

Spotted in the crowd was Gene Farrell, president of Orange Coast College; Gay Wassall-Kelly; Aviva Goelman; Trevor Murphy; the Rev. John Huffman; and Wing Lam, cofounder of Wahoo's Fish Tacos.

Carrying on a poignant tradition of retiring numbers beyond the 103, a memorial tribute was made to Randy Scheerer, number 117. A Newport Beach fire captain,

Scheerer, 53, passed away last year following a heart attack. His widow, Marilyn, was on hand to accept recognition.

Closing the event was Rabbi Mark Miller of Newport's Temple Bat Yahm, a reform Jewish congregation. Miller has led the closing benediction for the past 12 years, offering words of enlightened hope. He began offering a newspaper quote bemoaning the troubled state of the world. Miller said, "This is not from the New York Times or Newsweek; this is from Harper's Weekly, dated 1857." Miller continued, "The optimist says, 'Good morning God,' and the pessimist says, 'Good God, it's morning.' We must be optimists and stand for hope and trust. Americans are the most fortunate people who have ever lived. We are at the pinnacle of human possibility."

And so it was at the 2004 Daily Pilot 103 luncheon in Newport Beach.

• THE CROWD appears Thursdays and Saturdays

Monica and David Gelbaum, who have given more than $20 million to Newport-Mesa schools, continue to keep a low profile. However, their likenesses did appear Wednesday at the "Top 103" luncheon with former Newport-Mesa Principal Scott Paulsen.

NO PLACE LIKE HOME

Take to the street for artful fair

Tucked between plain office buildings and trendy bikini boutiques is a Balboa street filled with charm and character. Antique stores, art galleries, floral designers and unique eateries are the trademark of 31st Street, and their owners invite you to join them on Nov. 13 for an open-air open house.

The festivities will begin at 10 a.m. and continue until 3 p.m. In addition to the stores and galleries, there will be refreshments served, compliments of the Cannery Painters, a group of artists organized by Marilyn Poliquin of Cannery Paints. The painters will also have their easels filled with canvases, and if you're in the market for original art, this is the place to peruse and purchase.

And speaking of canvases, one of my favorite items to give and to get is the Cannery Painters flowers, pigs, chickens, sunflowers, geraniums and food. The recipes are straight out of the artists' recipe boxes — the book is a gift through and through.

The 2004 edition is filled with a section of new concoctions, so if you're lucky enough to already own one, it's time to get (and give) the latest version.

The antique stores will have their wares on display. Alta will be ready for the coffee crowd. Floral designer Oiseaux, a new addition to the street, will have open doors and, of course, South of France will have its usual fabulous inventory plus extras for the holiday season.

Marilyn tells me the Cannery Painters have also been working on their holiday paintings. I have one of Marilyn's Christmas creations. It depicts two children in front of a fireplace with a Christmas tree in full regalia. I love bringing it out of storage the day after Thanksgiving and displaying it through the holidays. It reminds me of the season's magic. I consider it priceless.

Mark your calendars for Nov. 13 and celebrate the season, do some shopping and share a nosh with the Cannery Painters on 31st Street: a true Newport treasure.

Sea Kings' title hopes still alive

Pacific Coast League title still in range if Corona del Mar knocks off Tesoro.

Rick Devereux
Daily Pilot

The Corona del Mar High football team is looking to regroup and resume its winning ways following a 27-14 Pacific Coast League loss to Northwood Friday.

It will not be an easy task for the Sea Kings (4-3, 1-1 in league), who face Tesoro (5-2, 2-0) Friday at Newport Harbor High at 7 p.m.

The Titans, ranked No. 2 in CIF Southern Section Division IX, lead the league in points scored (278) and have the second-most prolific passer, rusher and receiver in the league. Quarterback Nick Nelson has thrown for more than 1,100 yards. Only University's Steve Crooks, who has close to 1,400 yards, has passed for more yards this season.

Newport defense rising to challenge

Sailors lead the Sea View League in fewest points allowed this season as Irvine beckons Saturday.

Rick Devereux

The Newport Harbor High football team has made every Sea View League game a must-win situation, according to Coach Jeff Brinkley.

"That tie [against Foothill] means we need to win our remaining games in order to win the league championship," Brinkley said. "We have definitely put ourselves in a position where we can be part of the league title." The Sailors controlled previously unbeaten Aliso Niguel en route to a 21-7 league victory Friday. Newport Harbor (6-0-1, 1-0-1 in league) plays at Irvine (4-3, 1-1) at 7 p.m. Saturday. The Vaqueros

Arblaster shines in triumph

AYSO Region 97 boys under-13 squad, Newport-Mesa Infinity, tallies sixth win this season.

The Newport-Mesa Infinity boys under-13 team recorded its second consecutive shutout with a 2-0 win over Pacific Riptide on Saturday in AYSO Region 97 action. The game-winning goal was scored by Gavin Arblaster in the last minute of the first half.

The goal was a result of a well-placed cross from Rodri Ruvalcaba, which was redirected by Rory Kew before Arblaster flicked a header over the reach of the Riptide keeper. A reaction save by Jesse Perez earlier in the match preserved the shutout.

Juan Gonzalez scored the other goal. Strong performances were turned in by Sean Davis, Austin Wobrock, Austin Webster and Erickson Klein. Zac Chocok and Cameron Conway consistently stripped opponents of the ball. The Infinity improved to 6-2-1 in league play with 35 goals scored.

In girls under-12 play:

■ Purple Fanta 2, American Eagles 1

Madison Walsh capped the scoring late in the game as the Purple Fanta rallied back for a 2-1 victory over the American Eagles. Jordin Eakin, Corey Darling, Ani Harbottle and Kim Ficenec played solid team defense with strong support from midfielders Lauren Clemenace, Allison Sheppard and goalies Alex Kehoe and Laura Cavillo.

Andie Ward, Remy Pascine and Katie Hurlbut moved the ball effectively throughout the game, setting up both goals for the Purple Fanta. Biz Buckingham's goal gave the American Eagles an early 1-0 lead. Katie Noblett and Cece Beck also played well for the American Eagles.

In boys under-12 play:

■ Team Blue Star

Taylor Wildman, scoring a hat trick, led Blue Star to a 5-1 victory. Malcom Faigen and Griff Amies each contributed a goal apiece. Midfielders Marco Piazza, Raddon Gross and Tyler Luna all contributed a strong effort. Stopper Mathew Marlow and goalie Casey Bushong made several saves in anchoring the de-Gyulay, Wolker spark Corona del Mar's victory in AYSO Region 57 boys under-12 play.

The Corona del Mar AYSO Region 57 boys under-12 soccer team began the second half of the season with an 8-0 victory over Pacific South United on Saturday. Colton Gyulay started the scoring blitz with a goal in the opening minutes.

By the half, Kjell Wolker had scored one goal and Gyulay had two for a 3-0 lead. Precise passing by Brent Lawson, Blake Thomson, Wil Morrow, Jack Gorab and Mason Case controlled offensive action. Defensive plays by Brent Gray, Brennan Anderson, Jensen Rinehart, Nick Curci and goalie, Logan Newett — with four saves — helped in earning another shutout. Five more goals were tallied in the second, with goals by Taylor Ross and Steven Miller, Wolker and Gyulay.

■ Purpicious 3, Oreos 2

After a scoreless first half, Purpicious fell behind 2-0 early in the third quarter. Then Megan Otterbein broke open the scoring with a goal, followed by Bryn Hastings, who lofted one from more than 18 yards out, over the goalie's head.

With the game still tied 2-2 in the fourth, Kelly O'Connor also lofted one from beyond the penalty box to win the game.

Samantha Mangione and Jackie Crosson were strong on defense, while McKenna Caskey and Carlie Rinehart each had numerous saves in the goal for Purpicious.

In boys under-10 play:

■ Trojans 6, Tiger Sharks 2

Joseph Tatchell scored four goals to lead the Trojans. Tough defense by Montgomery Faigen, Callum Heasley and Nicky Heston put the pressure on for the opponents. Chris Heston assisted Kyle Flagg on a goal, while Garrett Byers had a solid game on offense and defense.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Consistently leading Mustangs by example

KENT TREPTOW / DAILY PILOT

The latest in a long line of athletes, senior Jeff Waldron is enjoying a stellar season for Costa Mesa.

Rick Devereux
Daily Pilot

Sometimes it's hard to appreciate something that is consistently good. No one notices until it turns bad.

And it's hard to notice someone on a losing football team that plays consistently well.

Such is the case with Costa Mesa High wide receiver/tight end/linebacker Jeff Waldron.

Waldron is the model for consistency, having caught a pass in 10 straight games, including the final two games of last year, the longest current streak of the Newport-Mesa schools.

He has had more prolific games than his five-catch, 107-yard performance against Ocean View Friday — he caught seven passes for 155 yards and two touchdowns against Huntington Beach in Week 3 — but his catches all resulted in first downs to keep scoring drives alive.

One reason Waldron, who is the Daily Pilot Athlete of the Week, has been overlooked has been the Mustangs' lackluster record.

Costa Mesa (2-6, 2-2 in the Golden West League) started the season 0-5 following the firing of head coach Dave Perkins six weeks before the opening game. But the Mustangs have bounced back, winning two of the last three, and

Estancia guards against runaway

Eagles' run defense has been porous, but they hope to stop Saddleback Friday.

Rick Devereux
Daily Pilot

One aspect of coaching is evaluating what your team's weaknesses are in order to predict what your opponent will try to exploit.

For Craig Fertig and the rest of his Estancia High coaching staff, the opponent's strategy has been clear: run the ball. When opponents rush for more than 200 yards, the Eagles lose. When opponents are held to fewer than 200 rushing yards, the Eagles win.

Estancia (3-4, 1-2 in the Golden West League) faces Saddleback (4-3, 2-2) Friday at the Santa Ana Bowl at 7 p.m. Last year the Roadrunners beat Estancia, 24-16, en route to a third-place finish in the Golden West League and a guaranteed CIF Southern Section VII playoff berth.

Luckily for the Eagles, Saddleback is not a dangerous running threat. The Roadrunners have rushed for close to 900 yards this year, the third-fewest in the league behind Ocean View (close to 820 rushing yards) and Estancia (792). But that doesn't mean the Eagles are expecting an aerial assault by Saddleback.

"I would assume [Saddleback] will look at tape and copycat what Westminster did to us," Fertig said. "We need to try to anticipate what they are going to try to exploit on offense and what our weaknesses are on defense."

Westminster rushed for 325 yards in Friday's 42-7 league loss. Saddleback runs a lot of single-back and three-receiver sets, including a lot of plays out of the shotgun. Chris Washington is the Roadrunners' leading rusher. He has rushed for close to 590 yards with five touchdowns.

The Saddleback defense has been stingy all year. In the Golden West League, only Westminster (69) has allowed fewer points than Saddleback (116). The Roadrunners usually employ four linemen and either three or four linebackers on defense. Though not a pressure defense, Saddleback is not afraid to blitz from time to time.

Estancia needs to win this week to stay within striking distance of a guaranteed CIF playoff spot. With a win, the Eagles could climb into a tie for third in the league with Costa Mesa. The Golden West League has three automatic berths into the CIF playoffs.

were league tri-champions last year and beat Harbor, 22-20.

But this year's Newport edition is on a roll, keeping opponents guessing with a balanced offense and pounding opponents with a dominating defense.

"I like the way we're playing right now," Brinkley said. "We're playing hard and you can see we care a lot and are giving forth a hard effort."

Newport Harbor, ranked No. 3 in CIF Southern Section Division VI, leads the league in fewest points allowed at 75. Teams average fewer than 86 rushing yards per game against the Sailor defense and fewer than 114 passing yards.

The Irvine offense runs primarily an I-formation, but in last week's 18-7 loss to Woodbridge, the Vaqueros sported a three-back attack for the first time all season. Whatever the formation, it is evident Irvine will try to run first and pass second.

"They will try to throw off of the running game and use a lot of play action," Brinkley said. "They have the ability to [run and pass] effectively."

When Newport has the ball, the Vaqueros will run a "Bear 46" alignment on defense, which means the Sailors will have a hard time running the ball.

"They give you a lot of different blitzes from a lot of different angles," Brinkley said. "We have to make sure we account for their blitzes."

Newport Harbor, after beginning the year with multiple starters sitting out due to injuries, is getting more and more people back every week.

Running back Ryan Rippon, who was sidelined with ligament damage to his right knee, saw his first action of the year in the Aliso Niguel game, gaining 3 yards on four carries in mostly short-yardage situations.

In Rippon's absence, Trevor Theriot took most of the rushing burden, gaining 663 yards and two touchdowns on 103 carries to lead the team.

When Theriot suffered a dislocated left elbow against Corona del Mar Sept. 23, Thomas Martin assumed the starting running back role and gained 226 rushing yards and two touchdowns on 36 carries in two games.

"We definitely have backs that can run the football," Brinkley said. "I'm pleased with what we've got. [Running backs coach Bill] Brown has done an excellent job. It is especially nice [to have Rippon back] because Theriot and Martin both start on defense, so when we need to give these guys a rest, it is nice to still be able to run the ball effectively."

Running back Evan Handa has close to 710 rushing yards. CDM's Wess Presson leads the league with 788 rushing yards and eight touchdowns.

Receiver Scott McNight has close to 35 receptions for more than 480 yards. Northwood's Sean Curtis has more than 590 receiving yards to pace all league counterparts in that category.

The multiple weapons have CDM Coach Dick Freeman concerned.

"They actually have three really good running backs and [Erik Hamren] is one of the best tight ends in the league," he said. "We need to play good defense and hold onto the ball on offense [in order to win]."

The Titans will run mostly a single-back offense, but they use a blocking back more than most teams CDM will face.

"They run more [I-formation] than Northwood did," Freeman said. "And they use a fullback about 30% of the time, which is more than anyone else in the league."

Freeman said he isn't too concerned about the defensive effort the Sea Kings will stage. CDM opponents have averaged 19.7 points per game.

"We've been defending the ball well all year," Freeman said. "We've just made big mistakes and turnovers [in our losses]."

The Sea Kings have turned the ball over five times in their four wins compared to eight turnovers in the three losses. That is one reason why Freeman said holding on to the ball is a key to victory.

Another reason is that the longer CDM has the ball, the less time Tesoro's offense has to work. In the last two losses, Sea King opponents have won the time-of-possession battle by an average of more than 4 minutes, 30 seconds.

A win is critical for the Sea Kings to keep their CIF playoff goal within reach.

"If we beat Tesoro we will be in a three-way tie for first [with Northwood]," Freeman said. "We are still working for a league championship. If we lose this one, we are almost guaranteed a third-place finish at best."

Another hurdle awaits Sage Hill

Lightning, in search of first-ever league win, face potent Brethren Christian.

Rick Devereux
Daily Pilot

The Sage Hill School football team has already surpassed multiple records this year.

Most rushing yards in a game by the team? Against Silver Valley, the Lightning rushed for 330 yards.

Most individual rushing yards in a game? Don Ayres gained 179 yards in the season opener against Midway Baptist and Keya Manshadi matched that total against Viewpoint.

Most points scored? Sage Hill downed Silver Valley, 62-19, to surpass the previous high of 42, which the Lightning scored against Midway Baptist in both 2002 and this season.

But the most important record to fall, so far, has been in the win column. Sage Hill (6-1) has bettered its combined win total (four) of the program since football gained varsity status two years ago.

But two more statistics still need to fall in order for the Lightning to take the proverbial "next step." Sage Hill has not beaten an Academy League opponent and has yet to qualify for the CIF Southern Section Division XIII playoffs.

Both records could fall Saturday as Sage Hill battles Brethren Christian (6-1) in the league opener at Clark Field in Long Beach at 7 p.m. But a win will not be easy.

First off, the Warriors, ranked No. 7 in Division XIII, have one of the best players in the Academy League if not Orange County. Jeremy Knepper is one of the top receivers in the entire Southern Section, gaining close to 800 yards thus far. Knepper also lines up at running back, where he has amassed more than 500 rushing yards this year.

"Knepper is the best player in the league, without a doubt," Coach Tom Monarch said. "They will try to get the ball in his hands as often as possible. He will line up in the backfield 15 to 18 times a game. They throw to him probably about another 15 to 18 times."

The task of beating the Warriors is made more difficult by a lingering calf-muscle strain to starting running back and cornerback Manshadi, who leads the team with 12 rushing touchdowns and two interception returns for touchdowns.

Manshadi did not play against Sherman Indian Friday and Monarch said he will evaluate the junior's condition as the week progresses.

"He said [Tuesday] that his leg felt better than it did [Monday]," Monarch said. "I want to hold him out until he is at least 95% or better. There is no need to risk re-injury or ruin the rest of his career for this game."

Monarch might have shown his strategy for winning without Manshadi in the Sherman Indian game, when the Lightning held onto the ball for nearly 72% of the contest, with Ayres carrying most of the load.

"Our goal is to take six minutes and then punch it in [for a touchdown]," Monarch said. "If we have four drives like that, it gives us 28 points and takes up half the game."

linebacker."

Waldron was the Newport-Mesa Defensive Player of the Year last fall.

Waldron means more to the Costa Mesa offense than any other player. His 35 receptions are 67% of the 52 completed passes. His 626 yards are 76% of the 824 total. And his six touchdown receptions are 100% of the aerial scores.

"I guess [quarterback] Ryan French favors me, even though he probably shouldn't," Waldron said. "There are other players on the team that can make plays."

Yeah, Waldron is humble, too. His 35 receptions are the most in the Golden West League, among the top eight in Orange County and the top 28 of the CIF Southern Section.

"I like receiving because it's fun," Waldron said. "Passing is one of the more difficult aspects of football, so it's fun to go out and do something that's hard."

Waldron is the eighth of 12 children. His older brothers excelled in sports at Costa Mesa, living a difficult legacy to uphold.

"There is kind of a pressure to live up to the Waldron name," he said. "I just want to be half of what they were. Luckily, I was always interested in the sports they played, so I got involved when I was young."

Waldron started playing baseball when he was 5 years old, basketball when he was in the sixth grade and football his freshman year. He has played all three sports throughout his high school career.

"It gets pretty tough," he said. "It seems like as soon as football season ends, I have one or two days off and then basketball starts. And it's the same from basketball to baseball."

On top of his busy athletic schedule, Waldron has maintained a 4.0 grade point average.

"He is just a super person, regardless of if he's a good athlete or not," Baldwin said. "He is one of the hardest working guys we have on our team."

When asked about a player he admires or tries to emulate in the collegiate or professional ranks, Waldron mentioned Tony Krikorian. Krikorian is Costa Mesa's starting cornerback and a junior.

"Even though he's younger than me, I really like the way he plays," Waldron said. "He's an inspiration because he is such a feisty player and he plays hard."

Waldron is a leader on the Costa Mesa team even though he isn't very vocal.

The Vipers got on the scoreboard first when Jack Menzies' penalty kick ricocheted off the goalie, and forward Jake Hastings punched it in for a goal, in a game played Oct. 16. Menzies had an assist later to Matt Elmajian for the Vipers' second goal.

■ Purple Piranhas 5, Orange Crush 1

The Orange Crush's defense was anchored by Claire Farmer, Shannon Barth, Nadine Lefler, Leah Van Dyke and Mady Avery. New goalie Tori Rojas and veteran Ellisia Schilling performed very athletically, but the wet conditions made dribbling difficult.

Schilling's strong kicking ability kept the ball on the other end and the pressure on the opponent. The offense, led by the hustle of Anna Newman, remained strong. Hailey Smith, Shannon Barth, Madeline Hal, and Abigail Griffith worked well together in passing the ball up the field and setting up Schilling's goal.

■ Rip Curl 3, Mama Mias 2

The Rip Curls won, 3-2, with the go-ahead goal scored in the final minutes of the fourth quarter. Roxanna Crane gave an assist to Madison Jabara, who booted it in for the score.

In girls under-8 play:

■ Pink Panthers vs. Green Geckos

Tough defense by Caroline Gels, Olivia Sever, Erin Barthard and Anna Hancock in goal kept the game scoreless until the second quarter. Erin Barth led the way, with a goal assisted by Sabrina Sanchez, and then added two more with assists from Mallory Gyalay. Gyalay also tipped in two goals of her own.

Olivia Sever scored with an assist from Gabby Mangano, while Logan Grove tallied an assist on a corner kick to Mallory Gyalay. Amanda Dupont and Hailey Mahaffey both played hard for the Pink Panther win.

Lauren Walker and Annie LaGrandeur played hard on defense, while Abby Pickett and Rowan Frederiksen were credited with the shutout.

■ Blue Dolphins vs. Wild Watermelons

Jordan Goldsberry played goalie for the Blue Dolphins, blocking several shots. Sofie Ber-caw, Taylor Matthew and Erin Wilson helped on defense by kicking the ball down the field, foiling many attempts by the Wild Watermelons.

Margaret Molloy, Sophie Smith and Claudia Davis led the team's offense, repeatedly charging the Wild Watermelons goal.

In boys under-8 play:

■ Red Eyed Dragon vs. Mustard and Ketchup

In boys under-7 play:

■ Predators

Shane Mitchell, playing one of his best games of the year, scored from long distance to even the game. Dillon Murphy and Avery Rowe came close several times before the Predators took the lead from a low, hard shot by Alex Forman.

After halftime, the Predator defense again gave up a goal to the Dragons. Alden Burke, Joey Mod-delmog and Davis Clement's tireless running paid off when the Predators' star defender Carter Scott forced home a goal from short range minutes before the final whistle.

■ Salty Sea Dawgs

Peter Harano, Jake Weyrich and J.D. Dennis played solid defense with good hustle. Kingston Mc Carthy, Jack Rapillo and Jordan Teisan turned in good play on both ends of the field, while Andrew Laidlaw, Sean Korkmaz and Jeremiah Sheldon scored goals.

In girls under-6 play:

■ Flamingos vs. Blue Dolphins

McKenzie Porteous received a booming defensive kick from Erika Ellis and scored first for the Flamingos on a breakaway. Porteous then returned the favor and assisted Erika Ellis on her first of three goals.

Julia Ackerman scored two and Porteous also added a second goal. Madeline Phillips positioned herself well and played tough on both offense and defense, while Kate McAllister and Mandy Tapfer played well throughout.

■ Pink Dolphins vs. Fire Flies
Charlie Toffel, Callie Govaars

and Claire Johnson each scored goals for the Dolphins. Natalie Capellini had numerous passes, while Kate Granoff had many pivotal steals. Marley Mais had a near miss on goal and was in the action for several key defensive maneuvers.

Fireflies' lead forward Sianna Siemonsma came on strong against the Pink Dolphins and scored several goals throughout the game, including a face-off goal in the third quarter.

Jenna Eakin and Allison Hanscom kept the ball in motion with aggressive defense, while Katie Ramm stayed active in the pack. Katie O'Hea snuck in her first goal of the season and added a defensive block.

■ Blue Sharks vs. Yellow Bumblebees

Multiple goals were scored by Taylor Craig, Lauren Vissman and Lily Woodall. Several attempts at goal were made by Melelani Fal-lasco and Danielle Wilson.

In boys under-6 play:

■ Cheetahs vs. Maroon Mon-sters

Although missing James Hodges due to a foot injury, the Cheetah offense played strategically, with consistent dribbling, multiple passes and tricky reverses. Lucas Hodges moved the ball down-field, while Chandler Siemonsma scored one goal on a pass from Jack McClintock, off another pass by Ashe Deering.

McClintock and Deering each continued their own scoring streaks — both had three goals. Josh Jenkins played solid defense, while Jon Hodges threw himself into the pack to fight for the ball.

■ Purple Dragons

Max Toffel and brother, Ben, played aggressive, while Dominic Loftus, seeing an open net and loose ball, scored first for the Dragons. Barron Banta was sliding all over the field, both defending and attacking for the Dragons. Chase Adelsohn and Nic Rimlinger worked hard advancing the ball and Malcolm Davis kept the pressure on the opponents.

■ Riding Giants

Corbin Joyce scored three goals for the Giants, while Connor Turnbow-Lindenstadt and Jacob Duehring had two each. Garth Blumenthal; Andrew Stoneman and Jake Smith also played well.

In boys under-5 play:

■ Blue Barracudas vs. Green Soccer-a-Saureas

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING FIVE YEAR CONSOLIDATED PLAN COMMUNITY MEETING

Pursuant to the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) regulations, the City of Newport Beach is in the process of preparing the draft Five (5) Year Consolidated Plan. The Consolidated Plan will set forth specific strategies to be implemented and how funds will be expended through the use of Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds that are received annually by the City. The Five Year document will cover the period of July 1, 2005 and will go through June 30, 2010. The City anticipates receiving approximately $450,000 annually in federal CDBG funds for each of the five years. This funding can be spent on a range of community development activities benefiting low- and moderate-income households including housing, community facilities and services, infrastructure improvements, and economic development.

A Community Meeting will be held to solicit public comment from interested citizens, non-profit public service organizations and other public agencies as to the needs of the community. The Community Meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 3, 2004 at 6:00 p.m. at the Newport Beach City Council Chambers located at 3300 Newport Blvd. Newport Beach, CA 92658-8915.

The City of Newport Beach encourages citizen participation in the CDBG process. If you are interested, please attend one of the meetings. If you are unable to attend the meeting, you may pick up a copy of the Needs Assessment Survey at the Newport Beach City Hall located at 3300 Newport Blvd. Newport Beach, CA 92658-8915. If you have any questions, please contact Daniel Trimble (949) 644-3230.

The bidding:

2♥ Pass NORTH 2♣ Pass
3♥ Pass EAST 3♥ Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♣

Ask any expert to name the world's best bridge player, and you would be sure to select Norway's Geir Helgemo. Here he is at work on this deal played on OK Bridge on the Internet.

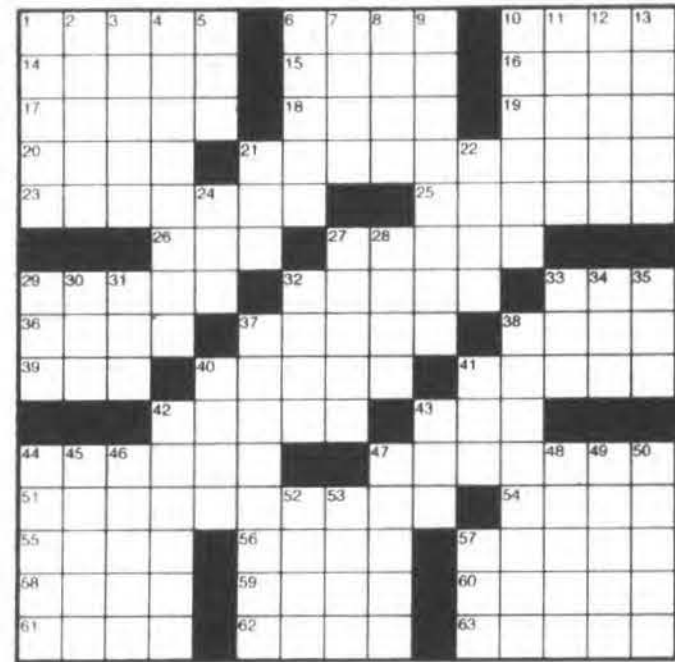

The auction was simple. With the probability of a partial misfit looming, Helgemo passed on the second round. When North announced a good hand with a heart fit by cue-bidding three diamonds, South did not get excited but simply rebid his hearts, and North's raise to game ended the auction.

West found the best opening lead of a trump, preventing declarer from getting a diamond ruff in dummy. South captured East's king with the ace and tested spades since a 4-3 break in that suit would have provided a parking space for a diamond loser. The ace and king of spades were led, and that plan was dashed when East discarded a club on the continuation of a low spade. Helgemo ruffed and played the jack of hearts. East took the queen and exited with a trump, won in the closed hand.

West had a difficult discard on this trick. He found the best defense of jetisoning the king of diamonds. Declarer countered brilliantly by leading the seven of diamonds from hand and, when West produced the ten, following with the two from dummy!

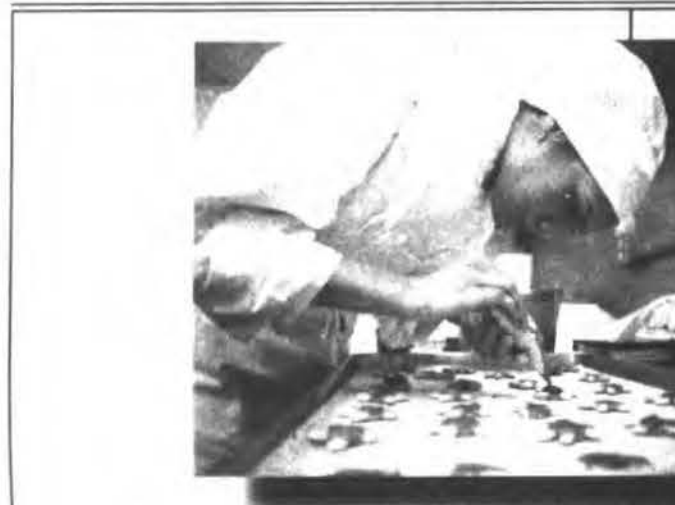

East overtook and, had he exited with a club, declarer would have played low from hand, trapping West in an endplay. However East continued with a diamond to the ace, removing dummy's only entry and allowing West to discard a spade. But there was still one arrow left in South's quiver. He ruffed a spade, extracting West's last card in that suit and then led a club to the ten. West would win with the jack, but the forced club return would allow declarer to win in dummy with the ten and claim the contract, winning four hearts, three clubs, two spades and a diamond.
