

Sirhan plot tied to county jail?

From Wire Services
SOLEDAD — Inmate Robert Bell, who said he first associated with a witness against Sirhan Sirhan in Orange County Jail, labeled the witness "a chronic liar" Thursday.

Bell testified to the parole board about witness Lawrence Eugene Wilson, who had told the board Sirhan had threatened to kill Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Bell was the second witness of the day to dispute the death threat claim.

Sirhan, convicted assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has denied allegations of threats against the second Kennedy brother.

Bell, a convicted burglar, told Sirhan's parole board that key witness Wilson is "a chronic liar" and "a prolific manipulator." The board is considering whether to rescind Sirhan's 1984 parole date.

Bell said Wilson approached him in 1978 and suggested he corroborate Wilson's story about the alleged Sirhan death threat. "He wanted me to say I overheard him and Sirhan talking about political figures and that I heard him say he was going to assassinate Edward Kennedy after his (Sirhan's) release," Bell said.

Initially, Bell said he did tell that story to authorities but now (See SIRHAN, Page A2)

U.S. cuts Argentina aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. announced economic sanctions and the suspension of military exports to Argentina today and said the United States would "respond positively to requests for material support" for Britain in the crisis over the Falkland Islands.

"There will of course be no direct U.S. military involvement," Haig said in announcing the sanctions ordered by President Reagan after Argentina on Thursday rejected anew U.S. efforts to mediate the dispute.

Haig said while he pressed the effort at mediation, the United States refrained from taking sides in the crisis, and Britain understood that position.

"Now, however, in light of Argentina's failure to accept a compromise, we must take concrete steps to underscore that the United States cannot and will not condone the use of unlawful force to resolve disputes," he said.

Argentina invaded the British-held islands April 2, and the British sent their fleet to the South Atlantic to mount a blockade that took full effect at 4 a.m., PDT today.

Even as he announced American support for Britain, "our closest ally," Haig said that in the end there will have to be a negotiated settlement of the territorial dispute over the sparsely populated islands 250 miles off the Argentina coast.

"Otherwise we will all face unending hostility and insecurity in the South Atlantic," Haig said.

He began by saying that the crisis was entering "a new and dangerous phase in which large-scale military action is likely."

He reviewed what he called an "extraordinary effort" by the United States to find a peaceful solution, an effort that sent him shuttling between London and Buenos Aires.

Haig said the United States had proposed "a fair and sound" settlement that would have included an end to hostilities, military withdrawal by both sides, creation of an interim British-Argentine-U.S. authority to administer the islands and the creation of a framework for negotiations to determine the final settlement.

He said the final arrangement would have had to take into account "the interests of both sides and the wishes of the inhabitants," most of them of British descent.

He said the administration had reason to hope the British would consider those terms, "but Argentina informed us yesterday that it could not accept" them. (See FALKLAND, Page A2)

Applicants swarm for aliens' jobs

More than 20 would-be workers showed up at the B.P. John furniture plant in Santa Ana today seeking to fill jobs formerly held by suspected undocumented workers removed Thursday by federal agents.

An employee said the firm's personnel office was busy handling applications this morning in the wake of the raid in which 130 workers were taken into custody.

Immigration and Naturalization Service and Border Patrol agents descended on the plant at 2001 E. Dyer Road as part of the week-long "Operation Jobs" campaign being conducted nationwide.

The purpose of the operation is to remove undocumented workers from jobs, thus making the positions available to people who (See JOB, Page A2)

HB woman rescued from crash, critical

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN
 Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A 65-year-old Huntington Beach woman who was pulled from a flaming Cadillac involved in a three-vehicle collision Thursday remained in critical condition today at UCI Medical Center.

A hospital spokeswoman said the victim, Selma Denktas, of 6811 Scenic Bay Lane, has second and third-degree burns over 35 percent of her body.

Huntington Beach police officer Randy Payne and several bystanders were credited with rescuing Mrs. Denktas from the vehicle after it flipped over and burst into flames during a mishap at 9:11 a.m. at Goldenwest Street and Garfield Avenue.

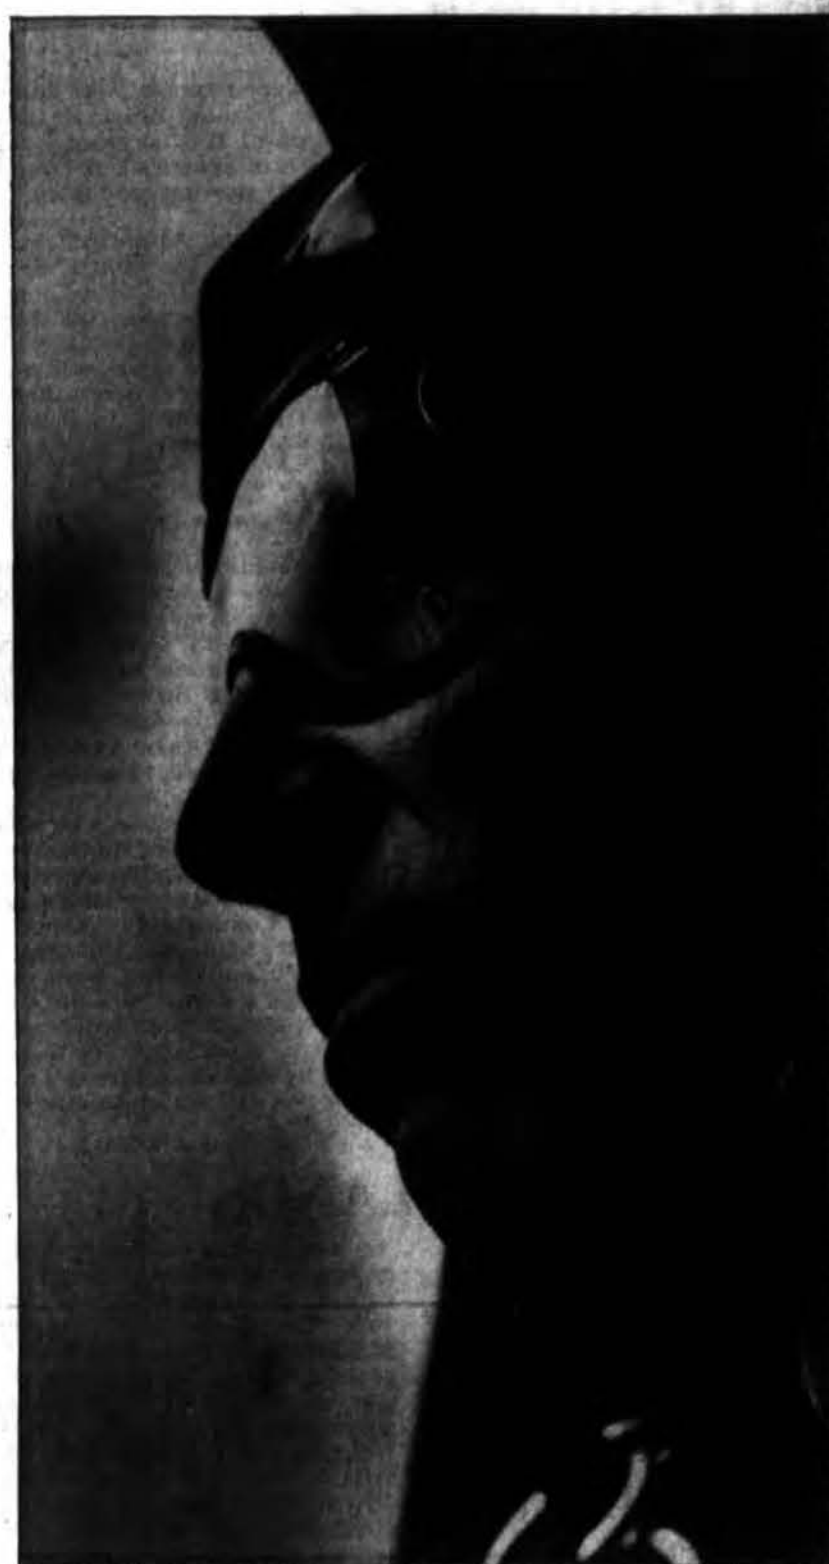

Four others received minor injuries in the collision, police said.

Huntington Beach traffic officer J. C. Dowling reconstructed the accident this way:

Esin Denktas, 29, was northbound on Golden West with her mother, Colingil Suat, 54, and her mother-in-law, Selma Denktas, as passengers in the Cadillac. All live at the same Scenic Bay Lane address.

Witnesses told police the Cadillac entered the intersection and was struck broadside by a Mercedes driven by Julia Marie Lammano, 36, of 5541 Ridgebury Drive, Huntington Beach.

Upon impact, the Cadillac (See CRITICAL, Page A2)

Carpenter's vote confirms gay regent

By JEFF ADLER
 Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The first openly homosexual person named as a University of California regent won confirmation in the state Senate Thursday when Sen. Paul Carpenter, D-Cypress, cast the deciding 21st vote.

Los Angeles attorney Sheldon Andelson, a 51-year-old gay activist, civic leader and bank chairman, won confirmation by the minimum 21 votes required after several earlier roll call votes fell short.

Carpenter, seeking the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate, said he reluctantly cast the deciding ballot so that Sen. Joseph Montoya, D-Whittier, would not have to leave his sickbed in order to vote.

Montoya had indicated he would vote "aye" on Andelson's appointment if he were present.

Of the 10 votes cast against Andelson, two came from Democrats and eight from GOP lawmakers. The two Democrats said they opposed the appointment because of Andelson's sexual preference.

Carpenter termed his vote a "courtesy vote" and said, "On the natural, I don't think I would (See GAY, Page A2)

Riverside, Imperial counties urge freeway on 'Killer 86'

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — A 68-mile stretch of highway that offers motorists a "white-knuckle trip" as passing truckdrivers muscle them onto the road's shoulder, should be a four-lane freeway, state highway officials have been told.

However, residents of Riverside and Imperial counties, making their pitch for a piece of the state transportation budget, also said they will settle for widening any portion of what they call the "killer" highway from Brawley to Indio, just to get the project under way.

"We'll take it anyway we can get it, piecemeal or whatever," said Bill Freeman, chairman of the Highway 86 Improvement Association. The group says there were six fatal accidents on the two-lane road last year.

But Michael Evanhoe, executive director of the California Transportation Commission, held out little hope for widening at least the Riverside County portion of the highway.

"It would be difficult to add anything," to highway improvement plans for the county because most of the funding allocated for Riverside County is slated for construction of Interstate 15, he said. He made no assessment for the Imperial County portion of Highway 86, the north-south connector between the east-west Interstates 8 and 10.

Highway 86 proponents were among representatives of various counties addressing the California Transportation Commission, which will decide in June what projects to fund in the state highway program, at its Wednesday meeting in the Beverly Hills City Hall.

"It's a white knuckle trip."

The Southern California Association of Governments is asking the commission to include in its 1982 five-year transportation program three separate stretches of Highway 86 for widening to four lanes. The projected cost would be $32.9 million, said Ginger Gherardi, program director for SCAG.

Breaking up the two-lane road with stretches of freeway will give drivers "a chance to relax" between harrowing sections heavily used by produce trucks, said Dave Pierson, Imperial County public works director.

Recent improvements widening bridges and improving shoulders have proved a hazard for motorists, Imperial County Supervisor Abe Seabolt told the commission.

"Truckers recognize that you can get off on the shoulder and they can use your lane to pass another truck," he said. "Generally this is the routine on Highway 86 for you to be forced off the road at least once by some large truck taking advantage of this wider pavement and using the opposing lane as a means to pass whether traffic is coming or not."

"It's a white knuckle trip" for the local motorists as well as those Mexico-bound and the recreational vehicles heading to snow vacations, said Pierson.

In addition to reducing the number of accidents on Highway 86, a four-lane divided road could cut down on the accident toll on Highway 111, which runs along the east side of the Salton Sea, roughly parallel to Highway 86 on the west side of the water, said Richard Jandt of the Improvement Association.

During the four-year period ending at the end of 1980, the two highways together saw 1,356 accidents, 74 of them involving fatalities with a total of 100 people killed, Jandt said.

According to the association's figures, 64 percent of the accidents on Highway 86 between January 1, 1977 and Aug. 31, 1980 involved trucks. Jandt said trucks were involved in 90 percent of the fatal accidents.

The three stretches recommended by SCAG for widening include seven miles in the Kane Springs area of Imperial County, 4.5 miles in the Salton City area of that county, and a 6.2 mile stretch that would cross the county line, three miles of it in Riverside County.

Space station is next

Orbiting platform topic at Space Congress

COCOA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A space platform that would unfold in orbit like a butterfly and grow giant solar wings was the hot topic at the 19th annual Space Congress.

"It's a natural outgrowth of the shuttle programs," Dr. Hans M. Mark of NASA told reporters Wednesday night before addressing 500 participants at the space conference at Patrick Air Force Base.

Mark said whether or not Congress commits funds for a space platform, "we're going to go out and do it."

Mark said he hopes a space platform would be placed in orbit in this decade.

He said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had not yet presented a firm proposal to Congress because "we don't know which way we're going to go yet."

The Soviet Union announced April 20 it had placed a new space station, Salyut-7, in orbit. An earlier space station, the Salyut-6, reportedly is slipping from orbit after having been closed down during the last manned Soviet mission in May 1981. It had been home to 16 cosmonaut teams, including Soviets Valery Ryumen and Leonid Popov, who set the space endurance record of 185 days in 1980.

Mark, who served as secretary of the Air Force from 1979 to 1981, found fault with the Soviet program, saying they should first develop a reusable space shuttle.

The Space Congress is an annual symposium dedicated to the exchange of space science and technological information. It draws NASA, military and private industry specialists who present technical papers, conduct panel discussions and give speeches.

Engineers for two NASA contractors, TRW Inc. and McDonnell Douglas Corp., discussed prototypes for the space platform, which could be used to launch, deploy, retrieve and maintain satellites.

Larry Morata of McDonnell Douglas said a basic space platform would go up on the shuttle while folded in a cocoon fashion. Once in orbit, the shuttle's robot arm would place it in space and help to unfold it "butterfly fashion," he said.

Additional shuttle flights then would bring more modules and "wings, legs and feet, which would be added to make the platform grow eventually into a manned space station," Morata said.

Marshall Norvick of TRW said space scientists are seeing "more and more interest in the commercialization of space." The platform would allow versatile operations such as Earth observation stations, an infrared telescope beam developed for the shuttle and astronomy and weather satellites, he said.

Paul Goldsmith of TRW and Martin Gerbasi of Lockheed Inc. presented a technical report on the development of "solar power wings" to be added to space platforms to provide the heavy power demands necessary for their different functions.

Gun control

Opponents lose court challenge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Efforts to block a gun control measure aimed for the November California ballot have been shot down by the California Supreme Court, which rejected arguments that typeface on gun control petitions was so small as to be illegal.

The court ruled without comment against State Sen. H.L. Richardson and eight other taxpayers who wanted a writ prohibiting the secretary of state from certifying the initiative and placing it before voters.

The measure would require registration of all handguns in California by Nov. 2, 1983. Importation and sale of new guns would be banned after April 30, 1983.

Justice Frank Richardson was the only one to vote to grant the petition.

Richardson and the other taxpayers had contended the three-point type for the text of the measure on the signature petitions was too small to read. Generally, the type in a word in a newspaper article is about three times that size.

Supporters pointed out the law only requires that the title and summary by the attorney general be in 12-point Roman boldface type but doesn't specify the size type for the text.

Richardson said that the secretary of state routinely advises an initiative's text should be printed in no less than six-point type.

Proponents said that by March 24, they had collected 300,000 of about 350,000 signatures needed. The signatures must be filed by today for verification. They said it cost about $225,000 to collect the signatures.

Air Force general relieved of post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Edward Dillon is being relieved as vice commander of the Air Force Reserve because of an "incompatible management style" with his boss, the Air Force said today.

Air Force headquarters said Dillon's relief results from a finding by an Air Force Management Assistance Group of a "lack of a cohesive command relationship" at Air Force Reserve headquarters at Robins Air Force Base, Ga.

Maj. Mike Gallagher, an Air Force spokesman, said Dillon, a reserve officer who has been on extended active duty, will be reassigned as a "mobilization augmentee" to the vice commander in chief of the Aerospace Defense Command at Peterson Air Force Base, Colo., effective June 1.

Gallagher said this means Dillon will return to civilian life but will spend brief periods on active duty in a job he would fill full time in the event of a national mobilization.

Until June 1, Gallagher said, Dillon will serve as a special assistant to the commander of the Air Logistics Center at Robins Air Force Base.

In response to questions, the Air Force said Dillon's relief is "designed to serve the best interests and improve the operations of the Air Force Reserve."

The Air Force declined to provide any details on what led up to Dillon's reassignment or what constituted an "incompatible management style."

His successor as vice commander of the Air Force Reserve has not yet been named, Gallagher said.

Dillon, who has been in the vice commander's post since April 1979, has the right to "submit any material he wishes" if he chooses to appeal "his release from extended active duty," the Air Force said.

The appeal would go to Air Force headquarters in the Pentagon, according to Gallagher.

Earlier, the Air Force said an investigation of anonymous allegations of improprieties at Air Force Reserve headquarters found no basis for the accusations but that the investigation had indicated a need for a review of management practices there.

As a result, the Air Force assigned the Management Assistance Group to study the situation. Gallagher said that group still has not completed its work.

AT YOUR SERVICE

Keep your tax records

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

DEAR PAT: When a taxpayer receives a refund check, does that mean the return has been accepted and there is no longer a need to worry about keeping receipts? Also, my refund check was not the amount I expected. Why is this?

K.E., Huntington Beach

Even if you have received your refund check, Internal Revenue Service says this does not mean the return has been accepted without question. It is still subject to audit for three years from the deadline for filing. For example, receipts and records for the return filed by April 15, 1982 should be kept until April 15, 1985.

The change in your refund check can be the result of a correction to arithmetic, or it could be because part of your refund has been applied to pay a balance due for another year. In any event, you will be receiving a letter from the Fresno Service Center within two weeks explaining the difference.

Both sides need to be aired

DEAR PAT: I'm a member of a special interest organization. I'm upset about a television program I saw which only represented the opinions of the other side. Isn't the station obligated to air opposing views?

K.E., Fountain Valley

Yes, stations are legally required to air opposing sides of controversial issues of public importance. However, there is no requirement that both points of view be included in the same program, or even the same program series, as long as a reasonable opportunity for contrasting views is provided.

Book offer questionable

DEAR PAT: In yesterday's mail I received a postal card offering "The (Our Last Name) Family Heritage Book" for a limited time only at $27.85. The card states: "This long lasting family treasure is hard leather texture bound, stamped and embossed in gold, serially numbered and registered to owner, and if not entirely pleased with her work, refund is guaranteed within 10 days." I realize our last name is unusual, but I wonder if this is a worthwhile offer.

E.T., Balboa

Similar offers that AYS has run across over the years turn out to be vinyl books with gold-colored lettering that contain a brief history of a family name. Usually they are not worth the price asked. If you are interested in the history of your family name, there are plenty of books in the library that can provide background.

Oregon 'deports' refugees

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's welfare chief has complained that Oregon advised 5,000 jobless Indochinese refugees to move to California where they could collect welfare, the Sacramento Union reported.

A telephone hot line told refugees in Oregon "if you want a job, go to Oklahoma City or Houston. If you want to go to school or go on welfare, go to California," according to Marion Woods, director of the California Department of Social Services.

He said the Oregon hot line also offered the refugees travel money.

The Union reported Thursday that Woods made the statement in Washington, where he attended a congressional hearing on refugee funding problems Wednesday.

He said the Oregon hot line message supplemented a letter sent to the Indochinese refugees April 1 by Keith Putnam, assistant director of human resources for Oregon.

The letter said: "I am sorry to say that for many of you, the best advice I can give you is to move to another state where your job prospects are better and where federal refugee program funding continues to be available to refugees who have been in the U.S. over 1 1/2 years."

It referred them to the hot line for more information.

The letter was sent two weeks ago after 2,000 Hmong tribesmen began moving from Oregon to California's Central Valley upon hearing that farm jobs were available.

Putnam, contacted by the Union in Salem, Ore., acknowledged that the letter and hot line message were too strong, and said the hot line message has been changed, the newspaper said.

In Sacramento, Shawn Ortiz, a spokesman for Woods, said a delegation of Hmong tribesmen from Oregon was scheduled to meet with state refugee officials.

Ortiz said part of the problem is that the federal government, which had been supporting refugees for the first 36 months, recently ruled that after 18 months employable adults would get federal help only in those states where they are eligible for local welfare.

California has a local welfare program, differing in each of the 58 counties, but Oregon does not.

Ortiz said that by law California cannot deny the refugees welfare or food stamps.

The factory, which gave this town its name, employs 175 people, most of whom will lose their jobs.

Kansas gets 'Yellow Brick Road'

A Kansas lawmaker has proved once again that when it comes to legislative priorities, there's no place like home.

With a touch of parliamentary wizardry, House Majority Leader Robert Frey convinced lawmakers to designate U.S. 54 across southern Kansas "The Yellow Brick Road." The route passes through Liberal, which Frey represents and where there is a tourist attraction called "Dorothy's House."

Kansas was the state where Dorothy, the young heroine of "The Wizard of Oz," caught a tornado and was whisked away to the land of wicked witches and munchkins.

Las Vegas hotel officials denied that a Seattle man who won a $400,000 jackpot was provided with girls or that he poured most of the earnings back into the hotel's slot machines. Cecil Burns, 56, who won the largest slot jackpot in the city's history April 3, surfaced in his hometown of Seattle saying he put $300,000 of his winnings back in the slots "trying to hit another $400,000."

Burns told The Seattle Times that bell captains at the Circus Circus Hotel in Las Vegas provided him with "the best-looking girls in the world."

Comedian Rodney Dangerfield's trademark white shirt and red tie soon will hang in a respectable place alongside Jimmy Durante's hat and Archie Bunker's armchair at the National Museum of American History.

The comic who claims he "don't get no respect" donated the shirt and tie to the Smithsonian Institution's collection of memorabilia from prominent American entertainers.

"This is a big thing. I only got two shirts, you know," quipped Dangerfield, who wore an open-collared green shirt with a black suit for the laugh-filled presentation ceremony at the museum.

Hawaii's representative to the Miss USA pageant had a $7,000 necklace and solid gold pendant ripped off her neck during a sightseeing tour of mid-Manhattan, police said.

Country music singer Shelly West has given birth to a 7-pound, 2-ounce girl named Tess Marie in Nashville.

The father is Allen Frizzell, lead guitarist in the band that plays for Miss West and her singing partner, David Frizzell. The Frizzells are brothers and younger brothers of the late singing star Lefty Frizzell. Miss West is the daughter of Dottie West, a singing partner of Kenny Rogers.

Several Hollywood actors, writers and producers are looking to the courts to prove their claim that studios cheat them when TV series or movies are syndicated, according to TV Guide.

Fess Parker, star of the "Daniel Boone" TV series, sued one studio for $48 million, alleging "there is a systematic, well thought out program of fraud and deceit" in a process used to determine if a syndicated show is profitable, said an article in the magazine.

James Garner, star of TV's "The Rockford Files," said he has not received any of the show's reported $52 million profit and is considering suing, according to the magazine.

Comedian Milton Berle, retired Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter Pitchess and other would-be poker parlor operators accuse City of Commerce officials of stacking the deck against them in favoring a Nevada corporation for the license.

The City Council still has to approve a club site and awaits results of a sheriff's department background check, but Commerce Club Inc. appears to hold the upper hand in the deal. Its officers include a blackjack dealer and card room manager at Las Vegas' MGM Grand Hotel.

Redford keeps license

BEDFORD, N.Y. (AP) — Robert Redford has held onto his Utah driver's license by getting 9 mph knocked off his eighth speeding violation in three years, officials said.

Redford, an actor who won an Oscar for directing "Ordinary People," did not attend Wednesday's hearing in Bedford Town Court. Lawrence Maffei, his lawyer, entered a guilty plea and paid a $25 fine after winning a change in the speeding charge.

Nov. 7, Redford was headed to actor Paul Newman's horse farm in North Salem, N.Y., when he was clocked at 73 mph in a 55 mph zone on Interstate 684 in Bedford. Maffei proposed that the charge be lowered to 64 mph, and Town Justice Kenneth Lange and a state trooper agreed.

It was Redford's eighth speeding ticket in six states in three years, and his driver's license would have been suspended if he were convicted of speeding 18 mph over the limit, the Utah Motor Vehicle Department said. The violation of 9 mph over the speed limit keeps Redford under a 200-point limit on violations, Utah officials said.

NBC to push comedy

Fall lineup includes 8 'funny' shows

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC, which experimented last season with prime-time series featuring stars from the past, will pursue in 1982-83 another tactic drawn from TV's history — a lineup heavy in comedy.

The network's fall schedule, announced Thursday, includes eight comedy series, the most it has presented since 1965-66.

NBC, No. 3 behind CBS and ABC in the recently completed TV year, was the first of the three networks to unveil its fall schedule.

The NBC schedule for 1982-83, the first drafted under Grant Tinker, who succeeded Fred Silverman as the network's chief executive 10 months ago, includes 11 new series and 13 returning programs.

At least three series introduced with fanfare in the recently completed season — "Bret Maverick," starring James Garner, Mickey Rooney's "One of the Boys," and "McClain's Law," starring James Arness — were not in the schedule unveiled by the network.

One series built around a veteran star, "The Devlin Connection" with Rock Hudson, was announced for last season but withdrawn because he became ill. That show will be introduced in the coming season Saturday nights, 10-11 p.m.

Yet another, "Love, Sidney" starring Tony Randall, enjoyed some success last season, and will remain a part of the NBC lineup.

"The Powers of Matthew Star," which was withheld last season after the star, Peter Barton, was injured on the set, will be in the lineup, Fridays 8-9.

NBC's enduring hit, "Little House on the Prairie," will be back, but with a new family and a new star, 19-year-old Leslie Landon. She is a daughter of Michael Landon, who is departing as star of the show but will continue as executive producer.

Other programs from this season that are not on the network's fall schedule include "Flamingo Road," "Chicago Story," "Harper Valley" and "Barbara Mandrell and the Mandrell Sisters."

Brandon Tartikoff, president of NBC's entertainment division, said the renewed emphasis on comedy is at least partly the result of the success of series like "Love, Sidney" and "Gimme a Break," introduced last season.

The new comedy programs are "Family Ties," starring Michael Gross and Meredith Baxter Birney, Wednesdays, 9:30-10; "Cheers," with Ted Danson and Shelly Long, Thursdays, 9:30-10; "Mama's Family," starring Vicki Lawrence and Ken Berry, Saturdays, 9-9:30, and "Silver Spoons," with Ricky Schroder, Saturdays 8:30-9.

New dramatic series include "Gavilan," with Robert Ulrich, Tuesdays 9-10; "St. Elsewhere," starring David Birney, Tuesdays 10-11; David Hasselhoff in "Knight Rider," Fridays, 9-10; "Remington Steele," with Stephanie Zimbalist, Fridays, 10-11, and Jon-Erik Hexum and Meeno Peluce in "Voyagers!" Sundays, 7-8.

Bill seeks to curb Congress pay tricks

A bill that would, among other things, end the sneaky congressional practice of slipping members' pay raises and tax breaks onto unrelated legislation has been introduced by Sen. William Proxmire.

The measure further would bar automatic cost-of-living pay increases for congressmen and prevent any pay raises from going into effect until a new Congress is seated.

All this is in response to the storm that arose when members raised the ceiling on outside income they may earn and gave themselves permission to deduct $75 a day for Washington living expenses without showing how the money was spent.

In the House, that benefit was tacked onto a bill raising the coal tax and passed without discussion.

Adverse public reaction to this maneuver already has resulted in attempts by some members to repeal the tax break.

The Proxmire bill would not address itself to this repeal, but it would specify that no future legislation affecting congressional pay or taxes could address any other issue, and that any such bill could be approved only by recorded vote.

It also would remove members' exemption from item-by-item justification of tax deductions for business expenses, putting them on the same footing as any other taxpayer.

And, as is done in many state legislatures, it provides that changes in compensation, tax benefits or outside earnings would be effective only when the next Congress takes office.

Proxmire says his reforms are designed to "force the Congress to deal with items of direct interest to members in a regular and open manner."

That's not only as it should be, it is long past due.

Legal but improper

Three justices of the California Supreme Court broke tradition last week by endorsing the candidacy of an Alameda County superior court judge who is facing an election challenge.

Until October 1978, judges were prohibited by the California Code of Judicial Conduct from endorsing candidates. The code has been changed to bar only endorsements for "non-judicial" offices.

So the justices' action is quite legal. But we find it troubling.

The endorsements of Justices Frank C. Newman, Allen E. Broussard and Cruz Reynoso, all of whom were appointed to the high court by Gov. Brown, appeared in campaign literature distributed by Judge Henry Ramsey Jr., who is being challenged by an Alameda County assistant district attorney.

Justice Broussard says he sees nothing wrong with the endorsement. Judges, he says, "ought to be able to turn to their fellow judges, people who know them and can say they're doing a good job and should be retained."

That sounds reasonable enough on the surface, especially in a period when incumbent judges find themselves increasingly involved in tough election races, instead of winning almost routine re-election as formerly was the case.

We don't doubt the sincerity of the justices who apparently have known Judge Ramsey for some time and think highly of his ability. And there should be little objection when judges at lower court levels support one another.

But, an election endorsement from members of the high court raises some difficult questions. Decisions made at the superior and appeals court levels frequently come before the Supreme Court in final appeal.

Fairly or not, the justices can be perceived as seeking to mold the lesser courts in their own image and meddling in local politics.

The Supreme Court is a highly visible and very powerful podium. It has become politicized in recent years as a result of controversial appointments or controversial decisions.

If California's high court wants to regain its once enviable position in public esteem and help restore confidence in the administration of justice to high levels, the justices should eschew even the hint of political involvement. It could come back to haunt them and hurt the court.

Immigration solution

"A simple and reliable and final documentation procedure for determining whether a job applicant is an illegal alien" is the major point of any effort to reform immigration law, California Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Manager Jim Van Varen told joint congressional subcommittees on immigration last week.

California firms oppose sanctions against employers for hiring illegal aliens unless such a documentation procedure can be implemented, he told committee members.

The employer, he said, should not have to be a policeman. Proper documentation would stop the wholesale movement of the Border Patrol into agricultural fields, and the law should require that before a worker could be removed from the property, his documents would be inspected by the Immigration and Naturalization Service to determine their legitimacy.

The current INS "Operation Jobs" maneuver further emphasizes the need for adequate, non-counterfeitable documentation for legally admitted aliens to protect them and their employers.

Following the wholesale roundups in small plants and factories, it developed that the INS was obliged to release up to one-third of those detained when they were able to establish their status as legal immigrants or citizens.

Much publicity was given the fact that hundreds of unemployed Americans applied for jobs at the plants following the raids. Less, however, was given the fact that many — as in the Orange County strawberry field raids — did not want the jobs offered. The proprietor of one fish cannery, for example, was unable to find candidates for fish-cleaning jobs. "They all want to be truck drivers," he explained.

The California Chamber representative testified in a hearing on the Simpson-Mazzoli bills that would give employers a warning during the first year if caught hiring illegal aliens, with fines or jail terms for succeeding offenses.

It would permit the use of multiple existing identification documents for the first three years, to allow time for the government to develop a new and secure system to verify eligibility for employment.

This, of course, is the only eventual solution — and it cannot come soon enough.

Soviets target Christians

WASHINGTON — Perhaps emboldened by the partial success of the Catholic Church in standing up to the Polish government in recent years, Christian sects have been giving their communist rulers a headache in the Soviet Union itself.

Astonishing reports seeping out of Russia recently indicate that the Christian "problem" has become serious enough to warrant a concerted crackdown by the authorities. The particular targets of their anti-religious zeal are the underground presses of various Christian churches.

SINCE 1979, Baptists and Seventh-day Adventists have managed to set up secret "publishing houses" to turn out religious literature. The Baptists have a clandestine publication called The Christian, while the Adventists have one called The True Witness.

In addition, the underground presses have been turning out everything from Bibles and hymnals to critiques of Soviet law.

This clearly has the Kremlin worried. Amnesty International estimates that at least 115 Baptists and 30 Adventists in the past two years have been imprisoned for "anti-Soviet slander" — an offense that includes any teaching of religion in this officially atheistic country.

While Western journalists have publicized the plight of Soviet Jews, more than half the prisoners of conscience in 1981 were Baptists, Adventists, Russian Orthodox, Jehovah's Witnesses or other Christian church members, sources told my reporter Jeff Nesbit. Most were convicted under the slander statute, which carries a maximum sentence of three years in prison.

Besides outright prosecution, the communists have other official weapons to use against Soviet citizens brave enough to practice their religion.

Belief in Christianity is defined by Soviet law as a form of schizophrenia. With a certain ironic Marxist logic, a Soviet citizen who dares to practice Christianity might reasonably be deemed crazy and out of touch with his environment. At any rate, this statute has been used to confine Christian leaders in mental hospitals for "treatment."

Even more frightening is the law concerning deprivation of parental rights. Soviet courts can take children away from their parents and ship them to another part of the country if the el-

Split roll initiative misses mark

Although the inequity in property taxation contained in the great tax revolt called Proposition 13 adopted by the voters in 1978 was well recognized by the legislators, four years have passed without their taking remedial action. This is not surprising since the homeowners had been crying for relief for 10 years before Proposition 13 became a fact without any aid from the lawmakers.

Now, as the inequities increase whereby post-Proposition 13 home purchases or constructions are being taxed at current market values while those who owned their homes prior to the 1978 initiative are paying taxes based upon 1975 valuations, another rebellion is brewing.

FOR THE INEQUITY of the different amounts of taxation upon homes which are similar in value has not only contributed greatly to the depression in real estate sales and slump in the building industry but is creating increasing resentment of the unfairness of the law by those who have acquired homes in the past four years.

As evidence of this, a group calling themselves "Taxpayers for California" has launched an initiative drive to provide tax relief for the victims of the Proposition 13 homeowner inequities. Since, instead of jogging the lawmakers into taking action to provide proper relief for these homeowners, it has spurred the resentful solons into a contrary action that would permit local governments to collect new unlimited amounts from the hapless homeowners under the guise of "assessments," the new initiative, referred to as the "Split Roll Property Tax Initiative," must be taken seriously.

While it addresses itself to the inequity problem, it actually provides much less than full equality. As Sacramento County Tax Assessor William Lynch, who agrees that the inequities are becoming a serious problem, states, "The proposed initiative doesn't do enough."

His reference is to the provision which allows only a 50 percent exemption of the difference between the previous owner's value and the market value when acquired by a new owner. It not only doesn't give the new owner the same break as the pre-Proposition 13 owner but increases the tax differences each time the home changes hands.

Not only is it a poor attempt to correct the inequity but its additional feature of establishing a separate and higher tax rate for business property is highly controversial and probably will insure its defeat.

The proponents justify the split roll provision by claiming Proposition 13 has shifted the property tax burden away from business and increased the share paid by homeowners. The California Taxpayers Association, while not yet taking a position against the initiative, cites figures refuting that claim. They show the assessed value of owner-occupied homes representing only 36.5 percent of the total statewide assessed property valuations, a drop from the 38.8 percent share which prevailed in 1976-77.

In a detailed report Cal-Tax analyzes all aspects of the proposed initiative. While conceding that there has been a slowing of home construction and sales since Proposition 13, the report is totally negative to the initiative proposal.

If the central interest of the proponents is to bring about equality for homeowners they might put their money to better use by bringing a lawsuit for equal protection of homeowners. In fact the state Supreme Court, in ruling on the validity of Proposition 13 at the time of its passage, left the door wide open for such litigation by specifically noting the inequity flaw. In any event their solution is not the answer.

Literary lions poor marital prospects

A new book, Life After Marriage, by the gifted poet and novelist A. Alvarez, deals with the travails of modern marriage and its aftermath. It is a thoughtful and poignant book, born out of personal experience, but I wonder how general an application it has.

For Alvarez is a writer, a creator, what used to be called a "free soul." Such men, in any of the arts, have long been noted as poor prospects for marriage and domestic stability. The old notion that the poet is "wedded to his muse" is more than a flowery figure of speech.

Considering only the field of literature, history shows us an almost unrelieved succession of broken liaisons and unhappy marriages, with the artist as the culprit in most instances. Perhaps the most flagrant, of course, is the case of Shelley's treatment of his wife, Harriet, followed not far behind by Byron's cruel waywardness.

One could almost go alphabetically down the list: Austen and the countless dowager of Warwick, Bacon and Miss Barnham, Dante and Gemma Donati, Dickens and Miss Hogarth, Dryden and Lady Elizabeth Howard, Milton and both of his wives, Shakespeare and Anne Hathaway, Wycherly and the Countess of Drogheda. All these literary men led miserable married lives, largely of their own making, or breaking.

FROM THIS melancholy recital, it seems evident that prudent mothers should protect their daughters from authors as they would from the warm embrace of the tarantula. Not only that, these fickle literary creatures invariably kiss and tell. They love to flaunt their amours in humorous or posthumous memoirs.

Think only of Coleridge and Mary Evans, Goethe and the Frau von Stein, Hazlitt and Sarah Walker, Samuel Johnson and Mrs. Thrale, Montaigne and Mlle. de Gourmay, Petrarch and Laura (who was the wife of Hughes de Sade), Spenser and Rosalind Kent, Voltaire and the "divine Emilie."

Rousseau is almost the paradigmatic case. He took Julie as his common-law wife, a maid-servant who could neither read, write nor tell time. He had five children. He wrote a brilliant book on education, Emile, among a number of modern theories about child-rearing, such as their need for fresh air and hygiene. His book liberated babies from those dreadful swaddling clothes — and then he sent his five offspring to a foundling home, and wandered off to greener fields.

Like Lord Darlington in Oscar Wilde's comedy, these men could resist everything but temptation. The standards they set for others, in their works, were high and severe; the standards they set for themselves were so flexible as to be virtually nonexistent. Those who have "once seen Shelley plain" may admire the poet, but cannot much respect the man.

Could it be that war is a natural instinct? WONDER

State punishes SoCal Gas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Southern California Gas Co. unwisely bought a lot of expensive natural gas — forcing it to pass up a bargain — say state regulators who won't let the company recover $34.8 million in costs.

"Imprudent" purchase of expensive Canadian gas from Northwest Pipeline Corp. and Pacific Gas & Electric Co. meant SoCal Gas lost out on the chance to buy the same amount of cheaper gas from El Paso Natural Gas Co. and Transwestern Pipeline Co., the state Public Utilities Commission said as it denied SoCal's request to recoup gas costs.

The PUC also scolded SoCal Gas for buying "unreasonably expensive" gas in the last quarter of 1980 after supplying gas from storage to electrical utilities during a high smog period.

Robert M. Loch, a SoCal Gas vice president, said in a statement that all gas purchases made in 1980 "were reasonable and necessary under circumstances then existing to assure our ability to maintain service to utility customers, including residential customers."

The PUC's denial of the company's request to recover $34.8 million "imposes an exorbitant and unfair penalty on a utility that instead deserves a commendation," Loch said.

Jacoby nixed in Jersey

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The law firm of Jacoby & Meyers advertises that "now you have a lawyer" — but the New Jersey Supreme Court has ruled that "your" lawyer can't be Jacoby & Meyers in New Jersey.

The justices upheld a state rule barring law firms from using the names of people not licensed to be lawyers in New Jersey. Jacoby & Meyers sought a rule interpretation as a prelude to the possibility of opening offices in New Jersey, the court noted.

Leonard Jacoby and Stephen Meyers founded the interstate firm in California in 1972 and watched it grow to a total of 75 law offices in California and New York.

The high court's 7-0 decision also noted a New Jersey ban on television advertising by lawyers. Jacoby & Meyers uses a media campaign that sometimes stresses that the rich can afford any attorney they want, the poor get free legal aid and the middle class should know about Jacoby & Meyers' rates.

Work — the curse of the surfing class

THE BEACH BUM BLUES: You can understand why, in the current budget battle, our President Reagan might be miffed at House Speaker Tip O'Neill. And you know the president has the jitters over Britain versus Argentina. And some people are nattering at him about unilateral nuclear disarmament.

But cripes, when it comes to Mr. Reagan getting ticked off, he doesn't have to take it all out on us coastal types.

Just consider the president's remarks as quoted in the public prints when he got back from Jamaica and Barbados and got talking about the ill effects of welfare.

TOM MURPHINE

He said, "There are some people out in my home state who prefer surfing to working . . ."

PRESIDENT REAGAN, alas, was talking about California. And from the tone of the remark, you are left to guess that when he said people prefer surfing to working, he meant it as a slur.

Now that's really a crushing blow to the old ego. I have to confess that I've always preferred surfing to working. The suspicion is here that I'm not alone. Scores of people reside in our region who would make the same preference.

Consider retired presiding Justice Robert Gardner of Corona del Mar, late of the Fourth District Court of Appeal. He'd rather surf than work. Sometimes he actually admits it. But he worked anyway and may again, one of these days.

Hobie Alter favored surfing to labor. But somehow he got into the habit of making surfboards; later funny looking boats called Hobie Cats, and ended up a multi-jillionaire.

SOME GUYS JUST naturally fall into a lot of work even when they'd rather be falling into some six-foot wave.

A friend of mine in Laguna Beach named Dave Morrison always said he'd rather be surfing. Instead, he's always been behind some counter in a business enterprise.

You'd be surprised how many surfers there are who have enormous difficulty getting anywhere near the water.

Consider my daughter. She's always entering some surfing contest in Carlsbad. Trouble is, she is 452 miles away at the University of California, Davis. Instead of studying cross-currents, she's studying how to cross-breed cows and talking about genes or chromosomes or other things nobody understands and won't ever do her a lick of good when she's on some 10-footer breaking off San Onofre.

SAME WAY WITH the son of our household who, when he isn't in classes at the university at Fullerton, is either flying airplanes for profit, lifeguarding at some beach where people from Buena Park are trying to drown, working in a public relations office or at some other similar odd job.

That's a great life for a championship-class surfer.

My eldest son was so good on a surfboard that he once got on TV in Panama whilst riding considerable surf in that region.

But then he came back to the U.S. and got married and went into business for himself and had a son and is now a real mess. He's hasn't loafed on a beach in so long his skin looks like the underbelly of a fish.

Personally, I'd rather be surfing but because I suffer this bad habit of eating, I had to find something that paid, short of a real job. So I got into the newspaper dodge.

PRESIDENT REAGAN demonstrated that he really doesn't understand when he equates surfers with welfare bums. Most surfers just can't stick with a good thing. They have a short attention span.

Next thing you know, they've abandoned all their values and have gone to work. It's really disgusting.

Precision jumpers form moving art on way to Earth

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Sky God.
That's how Marine Lt. Col. Roger Henry hailed the man in the white jumpsuit.

It sounded like a term of respect because the guy in white, Marine Capt. R. Gatewood Smith, has bailed out of planes and helicopters into the wild blue yonder nearly 2,000 times since 1966.

Thursday at the Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, he was ready to do it again along with 11 other members of the inter-service Precision Parachute Team.

The team, 11 Marines and one naval officer, led by Henry, was taking practice jumps in preparation for this weekend's annual Armed Forces Open House and Airshow at El Toro.

Billed as the largest free activity of its type in California, the event hosted more than 350,000 visitors last year.

Like his colorfully garbed teammates, Smith appeared calm, yet alert, prior to boarding a CH46 Sea Knight helicopter for the jump.

Smith said he's jumped so often that he doesn't get a lot out of it anymore but noted, "It used to be a real adrenaline rush."

He added, "Remember the first time you ever drove a car and how you feel now about driving? Well, it's like that."

Henry, who's a parachute jump instructor and veteran of 700 jumps, was less casual.

"It's a lot of fun," Henry said, "a challenge, gets the adrenaline flowing."

Describing a particular jump, called the Diamond Track, Henry said jumpers in that configuration move across the ground at 100 mph and vertically at 200 mph.

"You just boogie," he exclaimed, "just truckin'."

Another team member, Marine Gunnery Sgt. Lupe Gonzales, a jump instructor from Camp Pendleton, said, "It takes a sense of adventure and it's better than cutting grass on weekends."

The 12 teammates have accumulated approximately 15,000 jumps, Henry estimated, with Smith being the senior jumper. Henry said he and his teammates jump as often as they can. Smith said he used to make 16 or 17 jumps in a single weekend. "But, it gets old," he said, "and real costly." The team will perform four basic events Saturday and Sunday. The airshow is to begin at noon. In addition to performing the Diamond Track, Henry said the jumpers will do a "High-Low Demonstration" in which one jumper will spread out "and suck up all the air he can" while the other falls normally. The first jumper will fall at approximately 100 to 150 mph, Henry said, while the second will be going at 300 mph.

The team also will do the "Barber Pole" where they spiral around as they drop earthward and, for a finale, everyone will link up in a large formation.

"No," Henry said, he doesn't have a death wish. "It's a business."

Ol' Balboa ferry a Harbor fixture

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

It growls and rattles and chugs and with a sudden reversal in power, gently slides into port — another voyage across the hectic Newport Harbor completed.

Cars rumble off and others rumble on. Men in business suits, kids in swim trunks and others on roller skates or bicycles get aboard.

Another seven-minute trip begins.

The Balboa Island Ferry, ready for its 63rd summer of operation, is history in motion.

Since 1919, when a man named Joseph Beek took over the service and cut the cost of a trip from a dime to a nickel, the boats have been hauling man and machine across the busy bay, seven days a week.

The ferry boats are the workers of the harbor, used daily as a quick, convenient, scenic and cheap way to get from Balboa Island to the Balboa Peninsula and back again.

The flat-bottom contraptions have been used in movies, television commercials and for weddings, including one that was completed before the ferry reached the midway point in the harbor.

They've been used as launching pads by unsteady motorists who've ended up in the bay and as targets by amateur yachtsmen.

But the boats — the Admiral, the Commodore and the Captain — keep on chugging, 150 trips a day.

Since the day Beek first launched the operation in a dinghy named the Ark, the fleet has been forced to halt service only twice — once in the early 1950s for dock work and again early this month when a hotel fire spewed charred debris near the peninsula loading ramp.

Bob Snyder, manager of the service, started working for the Beek family ferry line 32 years ago as a ferry pilot. His dad did the same thing before that and his two sons worked on the boats several years ago.

"I wouldn't do anything else in the world," says Snyder, a well-tanned individual who still takes an occasional turn at the helm.

"I get to work where most people play. I've never hated coming to work."

He says he always has an ample stack of applications from young college students who want to spend a summer working on one of the boats. He says it's a more popular summer job in Newport Beach than being a lifeguard.

Allan Beek, one of the late founder's three sons, says the ferry operation has always pulled its own weight, financially speaking, but has never turned a great profit.

"At any one time," he suggests, "the most profitable thing would be to sell the boats, but nobody in the family has ever wanted to do that."

And, he says, he doubts they ever will.

He recalls the story his father used to tell on how he landed the service, which actually started in 1909 as a means of hauling prospective customers to Balboa Island where vacant lots were for sale.

"There were three potential operators who approached the town council. One said he could start in a month, another said he be coming soon.

"We've been trying to hold the line at 15 cents but with inflation and everything it may be time for an increase."

The present trio of boats, each of which can hold three average-sized vehicles, can accommodate up to 100 people including the pilot and money-collector.

"I get to work where most people play. I've never hated coming to work."

could start in a week and my dad said he could start the next day. He did.

"Dad told them he had a rowboat, a pair of oars and an outboard. He said the outboard didn't always work but the oars did."

Seymour Beek, another of the late founder's sons and now president of the ferry service, says his father got into the business to help out another business he was in — real estate.

"It was to his advantage, there's no doubt about that. He needed to get people to the island and that was the best way to do it."

In the early days, back when a ride was still a nickel, kids were charged to cross to the peninsula but were given free passage back on the assumption they probably would lose all their money at the Balboa Fun Zone.

As the years went by, boats with names like the Joker and the Squares Deal replaced the Ark. In an effort to haul cars as well as people, founder Beek instituted a wooden float for cars that was alternately pushed and pulled across the harbor by the ferry.

In 1953, the rate for a person minus car or bike was hiked up to a dime. In 1980, it was raised to 15 cents where it still stands. Beek, as president of the firm, says another rate increase might

On a hot August night, cars are lined up two and three blocks deep on either side of the harbor waiting to get aboard.

On a cool January day, though, the ferry may leave port with only a handful of passengers aboard.

From June 15 through Labor Day, the ferry operates around the clock. The rest of the year it runs from 6 a.m. to midnight on weekdays and until 2 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

A fulltime crew of 10 operates the service with extra help added during the summer months. It takes a person one full year of training to become a boat operator.

"It's a little trickier than it looks," cautions Snyder. "But passengers usually get a smooth ride. Sometimes when it's foggy, though, you may get a little twisting and turning."

"We've never lost anybody yet," he laughs. Seymour Beek, who conducted a public opinion poll on the ferry service 12 years ago, claims the boats are one of the most popular features in Newport Beach.

"It's largely nostalgia, I suppose," says Beek, "but what makes me happy is that most people say they like the ferry just the way it is."

"And nobody," he adds, "ever seems to complain about the price."

SHROUDED — A thick coastal fog envelops one of the three ferry boats that carry cars and pedestrians across Newport Harbor every day.

Farmers' drives: A protection of livelihood

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In your Washington Post column you implied that 55,000 rabbits had been cruelly clubbed to death in Idaho because farmers there had offered an 8-cent-a-head bounty.

Unfortunately, many of the protesters and publicizers of the jackrabbit drives in Idaho have had a knee-jerk reaction to the clubbing stories, with little insight into the larger issue at stake.

Contrary to the common perception, the jackrabbit is not a rabbit, but a hare. He belongs to the family of rodentia, along with mice and rats. They frequently carry lice and worms, as well as two diseases fatal to humans — Rocky Mountain spotted fever and tularemia. Unlike other rodents, hares are equipped with two sets of incisor teeth, making them capable of large-scale destruction of nearly every form of plant life — including orchards, vineyards, hay, grain and potato fields.

As crude and violent as the rabbit drives may seem, I have been told by Idaho farmers that this is the most humane and effective method of controlling the jackrabbit damage.

Alternatives to the drives have been proposed and discussed at great length, and I hope one day a less objectionable remedy will be found. Meanwhile, I think the Idaho farmers should not suffer a moral judgment because of their efforts to protect their crops and their livelihood. Sincerely — SEN. STEVE SYMMS (R-IDAHO)

DEAR SEN. SYMMS: I am printing your letter because it is informative and represents another point of view that deserves to be heard.

The "drives" you mention, however, seem like an extremely cruel, almost a sadistic way to deal with the problem. When 400 or more people — on foot, on horses and in snowmobiles — herd the hares into a funnel-shaped trap and beat them to death, one must surely wonder why gassing hasn't been considered. Will you look into this, please? Thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our backgammon club has chosen up sides and a bitter argument is raging. Will you express your opinion?

I am outraged that the Arkansas Supreme Court ruled that the parents in Mountain Home, Ark., are not entitled to the sum of money it would cost to raise and educate their unplanned child — born after the father underwent TWO vasectomies.

The couple had two children and did not want a third. The father knew his first vasectomy was not successful, so he went to another doctor and had a second one. That physician did not require the proper tests, and his wife subsequently became pregnant with a third child.

It seems to me the physician who goofed should be made to come up with the money it will cost to raise and educate that child. We all await your opinion. — BIG DEBATE IN LITTLE ROCK.

DEAR DEBATE: Sorry, I go along with the decision of the Arkansas Supreme Court. A malpractice suit, yes — but ordering the doctor who goofed to pay to raise and educate the child would, in my opinion, be excessive.

CONFIDENTIAL to Time Marches On and I Am Growing Weary: Tell him it's now or never. If he is waiting for the time when everything is "perfect," you both will be pushed down the wedding aisle in wheelchairs by a couple of attendants.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Writers' hope novel

NEW YORK (AP) — The news that a book publisher is restoring cuts, changes and a whole missing chapter to "The Red Badge of Courage" nearly 100 years after Stephen Crane wrote it gives hope that writers will win out over editors in the long run.

Score one for our side.

Of course in the long run, we're all dead, as are Crane and editor Ripley Hitchcock, who excised 5,000 words from the classic novel on the Civil War when it was published in 1895 to make it more palatable to the public and less gloomy.

Rumors are rife, as they always are (you seldom run into an unripe rumor in these suspicious times) that a whole slew of literary masterpieces are about to re-emerge in their original manuscripts, exactly as their authors wrote them. Publishers row is agog with the possibilities.

MAYBE THIS TIME around, we'll get the full story of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" which we all read in school without realizing it might have been a slick editor who stuck in that question mark to make the tale more palatable.

If you recall Frank R. Stockton's famous yarn, this semibarbaric king practiced a rough form of justice in which an accused perpetrator (as the TV version would have it) was led into the arena and given the choice of opening either of two doors. Behind one waited the fiercest, hungriest tiger in the kingdom. The other offered an immediate marriage to the fairest damsel in all the land, regardless of the culprit's current marital status. The door prizes were always switched to keep up audience interest in the arena.

HUGH MULLIGAN

Well, of course it came about that the king's daughter fell in love with a handsome courtier, who was sentenced to the double door bit for daring to rise above his station. There was this man-eating tiger licking his chops behind one door, and the loveliest lady in the court, whom the princess hated with a jealous heart, poised for marriage behind the other.

BY BRIBERY AND cunning the princess had found out which door held the tiger this time, and she shot a signal to her lover to pick the right-hand one. The editor, being a chicken, left it to the reader to decide whether the princess had sacrificed her lover to her detested rival or thrown him to the big cat.

Rumor is that in the original manuscript Stockton had the maiden emerge in wedding raiment, but the princess in fury jumped out of the royal box, tore her to shreds, then opened the door and kicked the slats out of the tiger, too. But that apparently was considered too violent for 19th century readers, so some little tin god in a green eyeshade and celluloid cuffs went to work with scissors and pasteput and turned the whole thing into an enigma.

I hear tell that pretty much the same thing happened to "Lady Chatterley's Lover." We never did get that last chapter, "Lady Chatterley's Lover's Lover," in which Constance finally goes off to live with the gamekeeper Mellors on a farm someplace and then one of his old boyfriends shows up. That was considered too 1980s for 1928, when D.H. Lawrence wrote the novel, but you can bet your ad budget the TV producers can't wait to get their hands on that original manuscript.

Maybe this time around, we'll get the original uncut, unedited version of the movie "Citizen Kane." There have been whisperings for years around the studios that the final scene where the kid's sleigh burns up with the word "Rosebud" on it was added as an afterthought to make some sense from heavy cuts in the plot.

THE REAL ROSEBUD, they whisper, was Rosebud Bonbon, one of Kane's kinky lady friends, a carnival geek with a heart of gold and a stomach like cast iron who got him kicked out of Harvard for biting the head off a frog in biology class. The Hays office wouldn't buy it.

If the scholars can find the manuscript, we might at long last catch up with that rumored fourth ghost in the Charles Dickens classic "A Christmas Carol." They say Dickens, who always had an eye for the cash register and posterity, scribbled a sizzling final chapter with as yet uninvited TV specifically in mind, but a prudish Victorian editor squelched it.

The fourth and final ghost supposedly was the Ghost of Christmas What Already? A number of years have passed. Bob Cratchit, surly as ever, gets drunk at the office Christmas Party and dumps a bowl of Smoking Bishop over Old Ebenezer. Tiny Tim is off at the methadone center. Nephew Fred gets caught shoplifting at Harrod's on Christmas Eve. The goose the kid went out and bought, the one as big as himself, is loaded with coccidiosis. Old Marley, it turns out, kept a double set of books all those years, and the Inland Revenue folk have a lien against the firm. And a morals charge has surfaced against old Fezziwig.

"Humbug" is supposedly the last word in the missing manuscript. Like all the rest of this column — or is it Rosebud?

Taurus: Spotlight on romance

Saturday, May 1

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You'll be approached by a shy individual who is a sincere admirer. Emphasis on basic issues, employment, dependents, pets and unique ways of getting job done.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Spotlight on romance, creativity, changes, adventure and speculation. Personal magnetism soars, people become aware of your views and abilities. You'll make new start in new direction, gain more independence and could fall in love.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You'll be dealing with property values, appraisals, future prospects and predictions of whether prices will rise or fall. Individual who seeks your counsel is sincere and will return favor.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Restrictions are removed, you gain greater freedom of thought and action. Intellectual curiosity is activated, you'll have many questions and you will obtain some substantial answers.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Financial questions can be settled. Lunar and numerical cycles highlight details, basic routines, working procedures and the obtaining of needed material.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Circumstances turn in your favor — timing improves, you make important contacts. Emphasize personal appearance, colorful apparel and communication with one who can aid in disseminating your views.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Special meeting involves domestic adjustment, possible remodeling of home and perhaps a discussion involving proposed change of residence. Look behind scenes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Separate

One of our more pleasant evenings was spent reading "Play a Swiss Teams of Four with Mike Lawrence" (by Mike Lawrence. Published by Max Hardy, 4680 W. 181st St., Hawthorne, Calif. 90250. Paperback, 99 pages, $6.95. Available from the publisher.) Here's your chance to sit next to one of the best players in the world and have him explain to you why he made a particular bid or play. You follow his fortunes through an eight-match Swiss team event of seven boards a match, see how he judges the progress of each match, and how it affects the many decisions he had to make as the event moves along. The hands are all interesting and the book will make you a better player, no matter what form of bridge you prefer.

Lawrence sat West on this hand. After South bids three spades, Lawrence comments: "I don't think they can make this, but I pass and LHO bids four spades. When this gets around to me, I double. Enough is enough. Note that this double is based primarily on strength in RHO's known suits. I do not expect to score a lot of heart tricks. Hoping that partner has short clubs, I start with the king of clubs and a somewhat discouraging dummy comes down.

"Partner plays the club two. It is not difficult to work out what is happening here. Declarer has six or seven spades, five clubs, else she would have rebid spades first and the ace and king of diamonds. This means she is 6-0-2-5. If I don't lead a trump, she will ruff three clubs in dummy and will lose two spade tricks. If I lead a trump, she will ruff two clubs and lose a club, and will have but one trump loser. Fortunately, there is an answer. By my leading the king of spades, sacrificing perhaps all my trump tricks, the defense will still come to four tricks. If declarer ruffs clubs, I will come to two trump tricks plus another club, and if declarer draws trumps, I get four club tricks. It turns out that the setting trick is the eight of spades."

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? ## GARDENERS CHECKLIST

• Prune your spring flowering shrubs as they finish blooming.

• No yard is too small for citrus trees. Those with limited space should consider the dwarf citrus which can be grown in tubs. They bear quickly and you'll soon be picking fresh oranges and grapefruit to serve at breakfast.

• When planting summer vegetable seeds and annuals, there's a tendency to plant more seeds than you need. Be sure to thin seedlings so you won't have crowded plants with spindly growth or distorted roots.

How to attract hummingbirds

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

How can you attract hummingbirds to your garden?

It isn't easy, but you can offer some inducements to these tiny birds which apparently visit only flowers from which they can get nectar.

There are about 300 species of hummingbirds and the family is found only in the Americas. Only one major species, the Rubythroat, lives in the northeast United States.

Flowers that lure hummingbirds include mock orange, butterfly bush, wisteria, honeysuckle, bee-balm, trumpet vine, lobelia, phlox, Sweet William, foxglove and columbine.

Other hummingbird favorites include loniceria, japonica vine, salvia pratensis or blue sage, a semi-shade perennial, aquilegia canadensis, American columbine, penstemon hybrids called beard tongue, delphinium formosum, or hardy larkspur, and silene, or catchfly.

They also enjoy cocksbur, coral bells, flowering tobacco, garden balsam, gladiolus, jasmine, morning glory, petunia, red hot poker, scabiosa, scarlet bush, scarlet sage and weigela.

The hummingbird depletes its energy so fast that it must visit many flowers to feed on nectar and tiny insects.

These active feeders, which visit flowers often, also are especially attracted by red or orange colored blooms.

Hummingbird feeders are available at garden shops or you can make them. Needed is a container to hold a sweet syrup and glass or plastic tubes from which the birds can feed. Colored flanges around feeding tubes that suggest flowers draw the birds.

A recipe for the hummingbird container: Fill it with a nutritious sweet solution of water and honey, syrup or other sweetener and red or orange food coloring.

Hummingbirds feed mostly at dawn and dusk, the females generally perch quietly while the male swoops and dives above her in a May courting ritual.

For nesting, hummingbirds prefer dense shrubbery shaded by taller plants, building diminutive nests of lichens and mosses stuck together with spider webs.

Check tools carefully

When buying gardening tools you may ask: long or short handles? Garden tools are extensions of your body for reaching, pulling, pushing, throwing, or shaping, cutting or for use as levers when turning over the soil. You use tools precisely when weeding or thinning, or when you are moving soil.

So, the best length of handle depends on your size and strength and whether the tools will be used lightly or roughly with lots of force. Spades and shovels need heavy, reinforced handles because you use them as levers.

Big, square hoes for chopping heavy soil need heavy handles. Iron rakes and the small hoes for weeding need long, strong and lightweight handles because they are used for reaching and precise work.

CHARGED — David Ruffin, former lead singer of the Temptations rhythm and blues group, has pleaded innocent to charges of failing to file federal income tax returns.

OCC teacher honored

Orange Coast College art instructor Gerald McCabe has received a national award in furniture design from the Home Furnishings Industry.

McCabe was honored at the Home Furnishings Industry's equivalent of Hollywood's Academy Awards ceremony. The HFI's "Daphne" awards were presented at a dinner at the Waldorf Astoria in New York.

McCabe received his Daphne in the retail bedroom category for his Ofman bed.

In addition to teaching at OCC, McCabe owns Erin Furniture in Venice, a limited-production shop.

FDA orders recall of Colorado firm's pacemakers

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Experimental pacemakers made by a Boulder company are being recalled because of a "reasonable probability that the use of or exposure to the product will cause death," says a Food and Drug Administration spokesman.

Bill Rados said that the federal agency ordered a recall of pacemakers distributed under the brand names Synthemed and Valleylab.

Pacemakers are battery-operated devices that regulate heartbeats by delivering electrical shocks at a predetermined rate. Synthemed's pacemakers have a reserve battery cell for backup power.

Rados said 34 of the pacemakers — 12 in the United States and 22 in Japan — are still in patients.

Ed Cheatham, president of Synthemed, said his company notified the FDA about the potentially defective pacemakers after one of the 108 devices the company has manufactured stopped working in a patient. He said the patient didn't suffer any immediate ill effects.

"We advised the physicians managing the patients about the problem," Cheatham said. "For a very great percentage of patients, it's not a lethal situation."

"It depends upon what their underlying heart problem might be," he said. "It's the doctor's decision whether it's in the patient's best interest to remove the pacemaker."

Letters warning of the defect were sent by the company in December, January and again last week, said Rados. He said the devices were distributed to physicians in Colorado, California, Missouri, New York, Oregon, Texas, Vermont and Washington, plus in Japan and Austria.

Closure of Fed Mart stores third blow to San Diego economy

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The planned shutdown of Fed Mart's discount department stores was the third blow in as many weeks to the economy of California's second largest city, where the Wickes Companies were going bankrupt and Bumblebee Tuna said it would close its cannery.

Wickes filed for bankruptcy in Los Angeles — and said it would move there from San Diego — just a week after Bumblebee told 900 workers they'd lose their jobs in May, when the cannery will shut down.

But the announcement Wednesday by San Diego-based Fed Mart, which likes to call itself "America's Greatest General Store" with 46 outlets and 8,000 employees in Southern California, Arizona and Texas, had the greatest impact.

"They're gonna kick me on the street with nothing," said a woman who would identify herself only as Martha L., assigned to children's clothing in Fed Mart's La Mesa store.

Bob L., in his mid-50s, said after 18 years with Fed Mart: "I'll go on unemployment and look for another job, but it looks pretty bleak right now."

A clerk in the Chula Vista store said a supervisor told her not to talk to reporters.

"If you used my name, they'd come to me in the morning and fire me on the spot," she said.

Others among Fed Mart's 3,500 San Diego employees said they too had been warned against public comment.

In Culver City, though, Bertha Isaacson said "no one was too shocked because the rumors have been going around for a long time."

In Alhambra, a 22-year-old clerk said business had been falling off in recent months.

"The good days were bad and the bad days were worse," commented David Ortiz.

The announcement by Fed Mart, which reported an $8 million loss in the first quarter of 1981 and losses the two years previously, said inventories would be liquidated and sold or leased to others. Its owner is West German multimillionaire Hugo Mann.

San Joaquin jobless climbs

By The Associated Press

Unemployment kept climbing in the San Joaquin Valley during March as the recession continued, and spring agricultural work was hampered by stormy weather, the state reported.

Kern County had the sharpest unemployment rate increase over February, 1.5 percent, followed by Tulare County with a 0.9 percent increase and Fresno County, up 0.8 percent.

Architects convene at museum

The Orange County chapters of the American Institute of Architects and Women's Architectural League will combine as sponsors of a meeting at Bowers Museum in Santa Ana on May 12.

Members and guests will view award-winning design entries from the 20th annual high school drawing and design competition.

Also on display will be an exhibit entitled, "People of the Sun." This show at the museum is of pre-Columbian art and artifacts.

The program will include a presentation of the architectural design for the museum's proposed expansion. This will be given by two architects from the firm of Daniel, Mann, Johnson and Mendenhall.

Dispute ended

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Western Growers Association has agreed that members of the state's agricultural research, marketing and advisory boards must disclose their financial interest in the crops they regulate. The settlement ends a four-year legal dispute.

Mercury heavy loss

Mercury Savings, Huntington Beach based federal stock savings and loan association, announced its unaudited after-tax adjusted loss for the first quarter was $4,229,000, or $1.09 per share.

Leonard Shane, chairman and managing officer, said the loss was the largest in the history of the company and resulted basically from the "continuation of extremely high costs of funds, the virtual halt in the normal real estate markets, and the usual seasonal slowdowns experienced during the first quarter of any year."

A year ago, Mercury had a $938,000 loss, or .24 cents per share.

T-M revenue up, profit down

Revenues of the Times Mirror Co. for the first quarter increased to $522.3 million from the $500.7 million reported in 1981.

However, net income decreased to $20.2 million from $26 million while earnings per share were 59 cents compared to 76 cents in the prior year.

The continued depressed wood products market was a major contributing factor to the earnings decline.

Times Mirror publishes the Los Angeles Times, Dallas Times-Herald, Newsday (Long Island), Denver Post, the Sporting News, Hartford Courant and two papers in Connecticut and the Daily Pilot, and has broadcast, cable television and publishing properties.

Baker earnings increase

Baker International Corp. of Orange announced earnings for the three months ended March 31 were $1.08 per share, an increase of 42.1 percent over the 76 cents per share in the year-earlier period.

Revenues for the three months were $678.4 million, an increase of 32.3 percent over the comparable quarter.

Earnings per share for the six months ended March 31 increased 52.9 percent to $2.14 compared to the $1.40 last year. Revenues for the six months were $1,302.9 billion, up 35.5 percent.

Revenues reported

San/Bar Corp. of Irvine had improved operating results for the first nine months of the fiscal year but lower third quarter results.

For the nine months ended March 31 total revenues rose to $18,841,550 from $13,481,138. Net income advanced to $1,156,243, equal to 64 cents per share, from $374,982, or 27 cents per share one year ago.

San/Bar Corp. is a major supplier of electronic equipment and components, microwave radio systems and service to the telecommunications industry.

Dividend declared

The board of directors of Swedlow Inc., Garden Grove, declared a regular quarterly cash dividend of 5 cents per share, payable June 4 to shareholders of record May 14.

Swedlow is a manufacturer of proprietary acrylic and armor products utilized for a variety of military and commercial applications.

PR banquet scheduled

The Public Relations Society of America, Orange County chapter, will hold its seventh annual PROTOS awards banquet May 14 at 6:30 p.m. at The Newporter Hotel.

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Bidders offered almost $55 million Wednesday to lease 21,000 acres of federal land in the largest coal auction in U.S. history, held over the opposition of environ-

Edison, Workman survive 'low blows'

Surprise! Surprise!
A state administrative law judge has found no evidence that Edison High football coach Bill Workman is a cheat and devious rascal. Nor, apparently, are any of Workman's aides.

What has transpired over the past few months has been one of the more remarkable stories of the Orange Coast area.

Edison High football became so strong that envy turned to hate. For many, the only good news was bad news if it pertained to Edison, which has rampaged to a 45-5 record over the past four years, including 32 straight victories before ending in the CIF playoffs in 1981.

There are always a lot of people ready to jump on a successful boat and sail with a winner — and Edison's tremendous reputation brought forth a few transfers, none the least one Kerwin Bell, in my judgment possessing the fastest initial burst of any high school back in Orange County history.

Kerwin came to Edison following Mike Dotterer's transfer from Mater Dei a year before and with him he brought a younger brother, Dino, who started for Edison at tailback after Kerwin's departure.

So, for three years the Chargers had a starting tailback who was a transfer and lo and behold, the 1981 season found Chatsworth High transfer Theo Langford starting in the backfield, too.

And, there were other transfers, some pretty good, some average. And, along with the power already present, the Chargers just kept winning despite being the primary target of every opponent's season.

Out of it all came a multi-paged document charging Edison with a lot of misdeeds. It was more of a statement than a charge, since it wasn't signed, but distributed to one and all, demanding an investigation.

The final resolution by the Sunset League was to have a law judge enter the issue, hear from all sides and give a judgment, to the ire of Workman and his associates.

Workman told me more than once he knew exactly what would come of it.

"They won't find anything wrong because there hasn't been anything wrong," said Workman. But he also knew this. The judgment is "not guilty." It isn't "innocent," but "not guilty" — and there is a big difference in that statement for someone who happens to be innocent.

"The case is closed. We'll not run after our tails anymore," said Huntington Beach District Superintendent Jake Abbott.

"It needs to be said loudly and clearly that the administration and coaches are honest and ethical and we are proud to have them."

This is one time I'd like to have a loudspeaker available, rather than this column.

The authors of the unsigned document, however, maybe did themselves some good. After being treated as an accused cheat for several months, chances are Workman will pack his bags one of these days and head off to somewhere where he's appreciated.

Once that's done inferior programs may find themselves doing better.

"They (Edison High) were dealt some pretty low blows," says Westminster High Coach Barry Waters.

You know, it's not like Workman and his crew are strangers to the league. Look around. Huntington Beach's football team is coached by Greg Henry, who replaced Bob Isherwood, both with experience under Workman.

Mike Henigan was Marina's coach and is now an assistant at Fountain Valley after a tour with Workman and Waters was an assistant to Workman for several years.

Ken Moats, Ocean View's coach until stepping down just recently, had nothing but admiration for Workman and his team, before and after getting (See ROGER, Page C4)

Derby is more than just a race

By the Associated Press

The Kentucky Derby lasts approximately two minutes. ABC's telecast of Saturday's race will be 88 minutes longer. Chuck Howard worries whether that will be enough time to tell the story of what he sees as a festive happening in America.

"That may sound ludicrous, that 90 minutes isn't enough time to do a two-minute race, but it's true," said Howard, who is producing the Derby show.

This will be ABC's eighth consecutive Run for the Roses, but the first time 1 1/2 hours is being set aside specifically for the race. The telecast starts at 1:30 p.m. PDT, approximately 1 hour and 10 minutes before posttime.

"We felt we just didn't do it justice in 60 minutes (the previous on-air time)," said Howard. "It had nothing to do with ratings; it was a matter of journalism. When you take away the race itself, plus the time we're live in the paddock and the replays and interviews afterward, plus the commercials, you have literally less than 15 minutes to fill in the background."

"The Kentucky Derby is not just a horse race, it attracts its own audience. And a majority of the people who watch it watch one race a year. They don't know about the horses, the tradition. We have to tell them the story of a festive happening in America."

"When we first proposed expanding to 90 minutes, we wondered if we could fill the time. But once we looked at the story possibilities, it became obvious we wouldn't have any trouble. The way the field is going this year, we may run out of time before we run out of material."

With injuries knocking out many of the early favorites, this year's Derby is expected to draw a wide-open field with the maximum 20 horses entered.

"Each of those 20 horses has an owner, a trainer and jockey who each have an interesting story," Howard said.

Malavasi taking some R&R

Rams coach heads for Hawaii after shoring up team, staff

On Sunday, Rams Coach Ray Malavasi will flee to the Hawaiian Islands for some marlin fishing and a well-earned five-day vacation.

Not since the season mercifully ended for the Rams last Dec. 20 has Malavasi enjoyed such a luxury. Eight hours a day, seven days a week, he's either been on the phone, changing play books, reviewing films, interviewing coaches, or preparing for the draft.

With the prospect of this being his final year with the club unless some dramatic changes unfolded, Malavasi feverishly attacked his task.

HE FIRED FIVE coaches who didn't share his philosophy, and hired five others who did. He also re-examined his offensive and defensive play books — page by page — to see what, if anything, he could change to make things better.

Finally, he thoroughly examined the Rams' strengths and weaknesses and proceeded — with a feeble NFL draft — in trying to fill some of the holes he found.

Now, with everything virtually completed, Malavasi is going to take a break. And, for the first time since he became head coach in 1978, he'll be vacationing with peace of mind.

"We're solid enough now to be competitive," says Malavasi as he leans back in his chair and looks over his depth chart on the wall. "We got a quarterback, a tight end and a running back. We also have a coaching staff now that's working together real well. Heck, I used to do most of the work and now they're doing it."

In analyzing the Rams, Malavasi contends there are few, if any, holes remaining. "This is the best we've been since I've been here," says Malavasi of the quarterback situation which finds Bert Jones, Jeff Rutledge and Pat Haden in competition.

Orange Coast reduces its 'magic number' to one

One more victory or a loss by Cerritos and Coach Mike Mayne's Orange Coast College baseball squad can claim at least a tie for the South Coast Conference championship.

The Pirates, coming off an emotional 3-2 victory over the Falcons Tuesday, had a much easier time Thursday in blanketing visiting Mt. San Antonio College, 6-0.

The win improves OCC's record to 13-3 in conference with just two games remaining.

In other action Thursday, East Los Angeles surprised Golden West, while Citrus used a ninth-inning uprising to top Saddleback.

Here's what happened:

Orange Coast 6, Mt. SAC 0

The Pirates jumped on Mt. San Antonio starter Mike Santiago for four runs in the first inning and then breezed to their 28th victory against six defeats behind the shutout pitching of Ken Santoro.

Santoro, a freshman out of Corona del Mar High, pitched his second consecutive complete game and earned the first shutout of the year for the OCC hurlers. He scattered nine Mountie hits while striking out three.

Jeff Brown contributed a two-run single in the first inning and knocked in another run with a sacrifice fly in the second to lead the offensive charge.

Scott Groot and Rick Hopkins each finished the day 2-for-3, with Groot scoring the Bucc's sixth run after opening the third inning with a double.

Meanwhile, first baseman Tom Dugan stretched his hitting streak to 17 games with an RBI single in the first.

Mt. San Antonio pitchers hit five OCC batters.

In fact, Pirate hitters have now been hit a total of 30 times this season, easily eclipsing the old mark for most hit batters in a season of 19.

The Pirates still maintain a one-game lead over second-place Cerritos which nipped Santa Ana, 5-3 Thursday at Santa Ana.

East LA 5, Golden West 0
The Rustlers, after a 14-0 first half, find themselves just one game over the 500 mark in round two of Southern Cal Conference play following their loss to the host Huskies.

East Los Angeles starter Chewy Martinez scattered six GWC hits to pick up the victory. One of those hits was an eighth-inning home run by catcher Chris Schulz who extended his hitting streak to 20 games with the blast.

The Huskies got all the runs they needed in the second inning with a four-run uprising against starter Lanny DeRose (5-2).

Scott Marsh relieved DeRose in the second inning and kept the Huskies quiet (See OCC, Page C4)

Yankees stifled Hooton by Zahn's junk in total command

He pitched super -- Righetti

NEW YORK (AP) — Geoff Zahn pitched a seven-hitter for his second shutout of the season and Bob Boone lined a tie-breaking single in the ninth inning to give the Angels a 2-0 victory over the New York Yankees Thursday night.

The victory was the fourth without a loss for the left-handed junkball pitcher, who said he throws so many off-speed pitches that he no longer has "any on-speed stuff."

"GEOFF HAS been pitching this way all year long," said Boone, the Angels' catcher. "He makes pitches when he has to. He's a frustrating type of pitcher to hit against."

Zahn consistently had the Yankee hitters off stride with his slow curve and changeup, which he said started to come around in spring training.

"That's when things started to fall in place," Zahn said. "This year has been very enjoyable, not just because I'm winning, but because the club has good spirit."

It's very different from last year."

The Angels, who had a 51-59 record last season, have won 12 of their last 15 games and their 15-6 record assures them of at least equaling the club's best-ever mark for the month of April.

Manager Gene Mauch says the difference in Zahn from last year has been the addition of a change-curve.

"LAST YEAR, he had only one way to get them out — front and back," Mauch said. "He got the hitters in front with his changeup and in back with his fast ball. Now he has that little curve in there."

Yankees starter Dave Righetti, who was locked in a scoreless duel with Zahn until he was lifted in the eighth, said Zahn "has got to be the best off-speed pitcher in baseball. He deserved to win this ballgame. He pitched super."

Righetti was relieved by George Frazier for the final two outs in the eighth, but Shane Rawley hit Reggie Jackson on the right hand with a pitch to start the ninth.

Fred Lynn sacrificed pinch runner Jose Moreno to second and Rawley, 1-1, walked Tim Lincecum intentionally. Boone had a 3-2 count when he lined a pitch up the middle with the runners moving, scoring Moreno and sending Foli to third. Brian Downing followed with a sacrifice fly to deep center.

ZAHN, 4-0, struck out four, walked two and worked out of trouble in three of the first four innings.

Righetti, who walked seven, threw 104 pitches through five innings and did not retire the Angels in order until the fifth. Zahn, meanwhile, stranded six Yankees in the first four innings.

LAKERS FACE SUNS TONIGHT

PHOENIX — The Lakers' Western Conference semifinal playoff game with the Phoenix Suns here tonight will be televised on a delayed basis beginning at 11:30 on Channel 2.

The game can also be heard live on KLAC radio (570) beginning at 8:30.

KHJ, Channel 9, which usually broadcasts Laker games, cannot televise the game because CBS owns the rights to it. Game four will be televised live Sunday beginning at 12:30 p.m. on Channel 2.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Burt Hooton says he's usually not at his best early in the season. Through most of April, the veteran right-hander lived up to that assessment. But he appeared to be in mid-season form, or better, in his latest outing.

Hooton limited Philadelphia to only one hit — a clean single by Ivan DeJesus in the fourth inning — as the Dodgers blanked the Phillies 4-0 Thursday night.

HOOTON, 1-1, allowed only three baserunners in the swift 1 hour, 52 minute game. After the first 10 Philadelphia batters were retired, DeJesus lined a 1-2 pitch to center and stole second. Pete Rose followed by drawing the only walk the Phillies got, but Hooton pitched out of trouble by getting Gary Matthews to ground into a forceout and Bo Diaz to pop up.

The only other Philadelphia baserunner was Julio Franco, who got aboard on an error by Los Angeles second baseman Steve Sax with one out in the eighth. However, pinch-hitter Greg Gross grounded into a double play to end the inning and Hooton retired the side in order in the ninth.

The one-hitter was the first in Hooton's big-league career and it was his first complete game in five 1982 starts. He pitched a no-hitter against the Phillies on April 16, 1972, in his fourth major league start.

"I'm just happy I got a good, solid game under my belt," said Hooton, who lowered his earned run average from 4.43 to 3.16. "I felt like I had things in control all the way. I felt like I was throwing consistently well all game."

"I'VE HAD games like this early in the season, but I haven't usually put them back-to-back until the second half of the year. I have been a notoriously slow starter."

"I haven't really been confident all year. When you aren't as confident as you should be, it throws your control off."

Los Angeles catcher Steve Yeager was effusive in his praise of Hooton.

"He was in command, had control of his pitches and didn't get them up in the strike zone," said Yeager. "Burt's had his trouble, but not tonight. He pitched some ball game."

Hooton, who struck out two, said the pitch DeJesus hit was a knuckle-curve that wasn't where he wanted it.

"It wasn't a pitch that I wanted to throw, I wanted to bounce it, but I didn't," he said. "I guess you'd call low and inside, a good pitch to a lot of hitters, but he chokes up a lot and can handle that pitch."

Lendl could suffer indefinite suspension

From AP dispatches
DALLAS — Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, the world's third-ranked player, faces a possible indefinite suspension after being charged Thursday with conduct detrimental to professional tennis by the Association of Tennis Professionals.

The organization also asked that Lendl be fined $10,000 for withdrawing from the World Team Cup at West Germany next week to compete in the WCT Tournament of Champions, which opens Sunday at Forest Hills in New York.

ATP Executive Director Earl "Butch" Buchholz Jr. recommended the action which must be voted on by Lendl's fellow players.

Lendl, who was in Madrid Thursday, and his agent were notified of the action by ATP field representatives. There was no immediate comment.

The New York tournament, in which Lendl and John McEnroe head the field, offers a winner's purse of $100,000. Though Lendl now is listed third in the computer rankings, many tennis experts rate him No. 1 after his fourth consecutive victory over McEnroe Monday night in the finals of the WCT Championship in Dallas.

Quote of the day
Joe Garagiola of NBC, talking about 43-year-old Gaylord Perry and his quest to win his 300th game with the Seattle Mariners: "The burning question isn't whether he'll win his 300th game this year. It's whether his spitball will dry out in the Kingdom."

Martinez burns his former mates

Buck Martinez, who spent five years catching Paul Splittorff before Kansas City traded him away, stung his old battery-mate with a three-run homer and an RBI single and Dave Stieb hurled a five-hit shutout, propelling the Toronto Blue Jays to a 7-0 whitewash Thursday of the Royals. Martinez hammered a 2-2 pitch over the left-field fence in the fourth inning to stake Stieb to a 4-0 lead. . . . Elsewhere in the American League, a bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Dwayne Murphy scored the first of three Oakland runs in the ninth inning as the A's defeated Baltimore, 9-6 after blowing a 6-1 lead. . . . Toby Harrah cracked his sixth home run and Andre Thornton rapped a two-run single to support Larry Sorensen's five-hit pitching as Cleveland topped Seattle, 5-1. . . . Ron LeFlore collected three hits, including a towering two-run homer, lifting Chicago to a 3-2 victory over Detroit. White Sox pitchers Dennis Lamp, 2-0, and Salome Barojas combined on a three-hitter.

Black Hawks pull even with Canucks

Denis Savard scored a pair of clinching third-period goals Thursday night and powered the Chicago Black Hawks to a 4-1 fight-marred victory over the Vancouver Canucks which evened their Stanley Cup semifinal series at one game each. The two teams drew 200 minutes in penalties including 150 in the final period. . . . Mike Bossy tallied twice and goalie Bill Smith made 35 saves, many from point-blank range, as the New York Islanders took a 2-0 lead in their series with a 5-2 victory over Quebec. Each series is scheduled to resume this Saturday.

Giants rough up Expos' Burris

Darrell Evans hit a three-run homer, climaxing a five-run first-inning rally against Ray Burris and propelling the San Francisco Giants to a 7-3 victory over Montreal Thursday night. Burris, 0-4, entered the game with a sparkling 1.17 earned run average, best in the National League, but it climbed to 3.12 after his three innings of work. . . . Elsewhere in the National League, Tim Lollar limited New York to five hits in hurling his first major-league shutout as San Diego rolled over the Mets, 6-0. . . . Tony Pena hit a three-run homer and Dave Parker added a solo shot over the wall in straightaway center to power Pittsburgh past Houston, 9-6. . . . Dale Murphy and Bob Horner cracked back-to-back homers for the second straight game to give Atlanta a 3-0 victory over Chicago. Atlanta rookie hurler Joe Cowley went seven innings, but had no decision as reliever Gene Garber, 2-1, was credited with the victory. Chicago's Ferguson Jenkins, 2-2, was tagged with the defeat after working seven scoreless innings.

Baseball today
On this date in baseball in 1969: Cincinnati's Jim Maloney hurled the third no-hitter of his career, striking out 13 in blanking the Houston Astros, 10-0. In 1965, Maloney no-hit the New York Mets for 10 innings and lost 1-0 to Johnny Lewis' 11th-inning homer. He later fired a 10-inning 1-0 no-hitter against Chicago.

On this date in 1961: San Francisco slugger Willie Mays belted four home runs off four different Braves pitchers (Lew Burdette, Seth Morehead, Moe Drabowsky and Don McMahon) in a 14-4 Giants victory at Milwaukee's County Stadium.

On this date in 1946: Cleveland fireballer Bob Feller struck out 11 Yankees en route to a 1-0, no-hit victory over New York. Feller's battery-mate, catcher Frankie Hayes, accounted for the game's only run with a solo homer. It was the second of Feller's three career no-hitters.

On this date in 1939: New York Yankees first baseman Lou Gehrig played in the last of his major league record 2,130 consecutive games.

Today's birthday: Houston infielder Phil Garner is 33.

Archer shoots to share of lead

Veteran George Archer used a new putter to good advantage, one-putting 10 times en route to a 5-under-par 65 and a share of the first round lead Thursday in the Byron Nelson Golf Classic in Dallas. Archer, now in his 19th year on the pro tour, had the lead alone until he recorded his lone bogey of the day, on the 18th hole, dropping back into a tie for the top spot with Curtis Strange, who scored a 31 on the front side.

Long Beach to hold Endurance race

The ruling body of auto racing has approved a 500-mile World Endurance Championship Race through the streets of Long Beach next year, it was announced in Casablanca Thursday. The race was set for March 27, a week before the regular Grand Prix held in the city. . . . Paul Ward from Westminster has been named a women's assistant coach for the United States-Canada Juniors international track and field meet in Houston July 24.

Boston a different cup of tea

Later starting time, weather can create problems

Running in the Boston Marathon is a whole new experience for the West Coast runner; a different cup of tea, so to speak.

Just ask George Arauz, the Daily Pilot's director of operations who made the trip east recently to try his second Boston Marathon.

"Most of the marathons here start at 6:30 or 7 in the morning," he explained. "But in Boston, they start at noon."

"And you don't know what kind of weather to expect in Boston. Last year, it was cold and this year it was dry and there was no moisture in the air."

Arauz, who had run a 3:04 the previous year, had set a personal goal of 2:50, but had to settle for a 3:05 this year.

"Not only was the weather difficult, there was no ERG (sugar substance) this year for the runners. And that made it even more difficult."

"Not very many people from Oregon, Washington or California fared very well this year."

Another distinctive aspect of the Boston Marathon is the crowd, not only in the race, but on the sidelines.

"They're all people everywhere," Arauz said. "They're in front of you, behind you, elbowing you all through the race. Some even talk with you, even if you don't want them to."

And the public is there in force, too. "They keep pushing you, they just don't want you to quit."

Does Arauz want to go back next year?

"You bet I do. It's become a bit of an obsession with me. And I'll be working more on downhill for next year because that was the toughest part of the race for me this year," he said.

THE SUBJECT of crowds, 16,000 runners are expected to participate in the London Marathon

RUNNING DENNIS BROSTERHOUS

May 9, a race official said. That would make it the biggest marathon field in history.

Entries have actually been accepted for 18,000, but the race official said, "We expect quite a few to pull out through injury or illness, as they did last year. If it comes down to 16,000, we will be pleased because that is about as many as we can cope with efficiently."

Some 16,000 were accepted for each of the last two New York City Marathons, but somewhat less than that started. There were 7,000 runners in last year's inaugural London Marathon.

THE SECOND ANNUAL "Spring Tune Up" 5 and 10k runs are set for Saturday, starting with a 6:30 check-in at the Ford Aerospace facility on Jamboree Road in Newport Beach.

The 5k run is slated to begin at 7:45 with the 10k run due to follow at 8:30. Runners will be competing for some 200 prizes and 250 awards.

The competition is open to children, and the youngest category is for boys and girls under 14 years of age.

The registration fees range from $10 for both races and a T-shirt to $4 for entry in a single race and no T-shirt.

Proceeds from the race will go to the Harbor Area Boys Club, the Harbor Area Girls Club, and the Irvine Boys & Girls Club. For more information, contact race coordinator Sam Johnson at 759-6535.

Handball play Estancia stops Mesa

McCarthy triples; Eagle women also win

The 1982 Cinco De Mayo 4-wall Handball doubles championships are scheduled for tonight, Saturday and Sunday at the Newport-Mesa Athletic Club, located at 254 Victoria St. in Costa Mesa.

The top handball players in the country are expected, along with players of various classes and skills.

Tonight's action begins at 6 and a 12-hour Saturday session begins at 9 a.m. before Sunday's 10:30 a.m. finals.

Competition is set for open, A, B, C, masters and golden masters.

Czechs tie, 0-0

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia played to a 0-0 tie in a lackluster finale of the World Hockey Championships Thursday night, preventing Canada from winning its first silver medal in 20 years.

The Soviet Union already had wrapped up its 18th world crown since 1954, while the Czechs needed at least a tie to overtake Canada and finish runner-up on goal difference.

TRACK

Estancia's Lisa Rossellini had a mark of 103-5 in the women's discus throw, her best effort of the season, and Sherri Rodriguez won both hurdle events.

Dates changed

Dates for the second pre-Olympic yacht racing regatta has been extended by one day, from July 31 through Aug. 7, according to the Olympic Classes Regatta Organizing Committee.

The change was made to give the competitors more sailing time on the courses which will be used in 1984. The original dates were July 31-Aug. 6.

Sea Kings in playoffs

The Corona del Mar High men's volleyball team clinched a CIF playoff berth Thursday night, its first since 1974, with a 15-5, 15-10, 15-6 victory over University.

CdM finished the Sea View campaign with a 10-4 record, while University fell to 8-6.

HAPPENINGS IN THE DAILY PILOT'S AUTO MARKET...

ANAHEIM ... Attendance at the Orange County International Auto Show was up more than 20% over last year, reported Jim Upp, executive director, Motor Car Dealers Association of Orange County. The show just completed a five-day run (April 21-25) at Anaheim Convention Center.

"The optimism expressed by the dealers prior to the show was certainly justified by the attendance figures," Upp said. "While the count isn't official, we estimate an increase of 20-25%, with dealers reporting that show visitors were taking advantage of the opportunity to comparison shop. The dealers anticipate seeing many of the contacts they made in their showrooms during the next few days and weeks."

Upp announced the result of the drawing for the auto show's grand prize, a trip for two anywhere on AirCal's route. The lucky registrant was Jonathan Mansor, Irvine. John D'Arc, Mills Ford, Anaheim, the salesman whose name was on the card that was drawn also won an AirCal trip.

***
ORANGE COUNTY ... A gallon of gas has just gotten larger.

The new fuel stretch is the Nissan Sentra, a fresh front-wheel-drive car from the maker of Datsuns which will be one of the highest mileage gasoline engine cars in California and the highest mileage in the rest of the United States.

Special technological and design elements give Nissan Sentra California models equipped with a standard 5-speed manual, overdrive transmission EPA estimates of 33 mpg in the city and 48 mpg on the highway.

NISSAN SENTRA

The new offering debuts in late April at more than 1,100 U.S. Datsun dealers including Dot Datsun in Huntington Beach, Costa Mesa Datsun, Quality Datsun in Orange, Target Datsun in Garden Grove, Zee Datsun in Fullerton, Irvine Datsun in Irvine, Brea Datsun in Brea, Barwick Datsun in San Juan Capistrano, Anaheim Datsun in Anaheim, Santa Ana Datsun in Santa Ana, Dick Barbour Datsun in Cypress and Newport Datsun in Newport Beach.

In addition to high mileage, the new car has better aerodynamics, driveability and interior room than the top-selling Datsun 210 model it replaces.

The 5-passenger Nissan Sentra comes with a 1.5-liter engine in a 2-door or 4-door sedan, a sporty hatchback coupe and a station wagon with standard, deluxe and XE (extra equipment) trim levels, depending on the model.

The new car also features four-wheel independent suspension, power-assisted front disc brakes, rack-and-pinion steering and rear window defroster as standard equipment on all models.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. ... A star-studded lineup, featuring a host of past champions of the world's largest and richest off-road race, are putting the finishing touches on their race cars in preparation for the 15th annual Mint 400 Desert Race April 29-May 2.

Well over 400 vehicles will compete for more than $250,000 in prize money and contingency awards in the annual classic sponsored and staged by Del Webb's Mint Hotel and Casino in Downtown Las Vegas.

The race will start at 9 a.m. Saturday, May 1 and the huge array of racing buggies, sedans and trucks will be battling one of the roughest off-road courses ever laid out, an approximately 100-mile course north of Las Vegas that the drivers will be required to cover four times.

Few will make it. Out of a record 518 vehicles starting last year's event, only 24 percent finished the four laps.

"It looked like the desert in North Africa after a meeting between Patton and Rommel," said Mint 400 Race Director K.J. Howe about last year's race route. Howe had first-hand experience the hard way. He drives his own two-seat race car in the event each year along with Andrew M. Zorne, Mint Hotel Executive Vice President. They didn't finish last year.

Among those that did, however, is Laguna Beach, Calif., dentist Ron Gardner, who teamed with Yucaipa, Calif., civil engineer Bernie Mayer to capture the Class 1 and overall title. Gardner has returned to share the driving in a Class 2, two-seat buggy with his longtime racing partner, Jerry Penhall, Newport Beach, Calif.

Heavy metal superstars Roger Mears, with his Class 4 long wheel base four-wheel drive Jeep Honcho and Walker Evans, in his Class 8, two-wheel drive Dodge pickup truck, are back to defend their crowns. Both Mears, Bakersfield, Calif., and Evans, Riverside, Calif., are not only past Mint 400 champions but they are conquerors of the infamous Baja races in Mexico. Evans has probably more major off-road titles than any other competitor.

Mears, the older brother of 1979 Indianapolis 500 champion and 1981 CART-Indy car national champion Rick Mears, is a veteran of a variety of motor sports and is currently a fulltime competitor, himself, on the Indy car circuit. Mears has enjoyed his greatest success on the off-road short courses and has won a record 15 classes titles at the annual SCORE Off-Road Championships at Riverside (Calif.) International Raceway.

Mears' No. 1 rival in the desert, Rodney Hall, Reno, Nev., a winner of four Mint 400 titles, will be out to strip the crown away from Mears at the Mint this year.

Norm and Steve Schmidt, La Mesa, Calif., are returning to defend their title in Class 5 for unlimited Baja Buggies as is Manny Esquerro, Parker, Ariz., in mini-pickups; Don and Bob Denault, Mission Viejo and San Juan Capistrano, Calif., in Class 9 for 1200 cc single-seaters; Bobby and Tom Neth, Costa Mesa, Calif., in Class 1-1600 cc; and Stan Gilbert, Cypress, Calif., in the stock sedan class. Jack Ramsay, Las Vegas, who won the stock Volkswagen class last year, has switched to the 1600 cc Baja Bug division this time around.

Some of the other top drivers to be reckoned with this year are former land-speed king Mickey Thompson; four-time Mint champion Rolf Tibblin of Sweden; two-time Mint overall winner Fritz Kroyer, Northridge, Calif.; 1980 overall champion Jack Johnson, Las Vegas; two-time overall titlist Bud Feldkamp, a Riverside, Calif., dentist; versatile Johnny Johnson, Lemon Grove, Calif., overall winner of the 1969 Mint 400; former Mint and Baja four-wheel drive champ Don Adams, Nathrop, Colo.; and rock star Ted Nugent, who has shaken the celebrity status he started with to become an accomplished off-roader.

Driver registration will take place in the Mint Hotel Thursday and Friday, April 29-30 and the famous technical and safety inspection will be held Friday, all day and night, along the brilliantly lit Fremont Street in front of the hotel.

The popular parade of race cars from the hotel to the start-finish site at Las Vegas Speedway will not take place this year because of the heavy traffic.

Spectators, which have been estimated by the Bureau of Land Management at around 60,000 along the race course in past year, are being urged to stay in designated spectator areas only this year.

Eddie Albert will host and narrate 'California Deams: Wilderness Man.'

Wilderness man

John Muir to be featured on KOCE

The life and writings of the father of Yosemite National Park, environmentalist John Muir, are chronicled in "California Dreams: Wilderness Man," airing Wednesday at 8 p.m. on KOCE (Ch. 50).

The special features actor and environmentalist Eddie Albert as host and narrator.

It is a production of KOCE-TV, Huntington Beach, and is made possible by a grant from First Interstate Bank of California Foundation, which has also distributed special educational materials free to California secondary and post-secondary schools and libraries.

"Wilderness Man" offers breathtaking footage of the Yosemite National Park from its inception in 1890 to the present day. The story focuses on Muir's struggle to educate the public about the natural beauties of the California wilderness and on his life-long efforts to preserve it.

Excerpts from Muir's prolific writings are delivered by Albert, who also offers a narrative on the environmentalist's personal and political life. The story follows Muir's life, from his family's arrival in the United States from Scotland, through his first trip to Yosemite and into his later life, when he became one of the first environmental lobbyists in America.

Vintage photographs of Muir with Presidents Taft and Theodore Roosevelt, with whom he "swapped tall tales around the campfire," highlight the telecast, as do classic stills of his home and family, of loggers and shepherds who were changing the Yosemite landscape in the early part of this century, and of the breathtaking Yosemite area which has lured environmentalists, businesses and the public for over 100 years.

The preservation of the Hetch Hetchy Valley, one of only three such natural wonders in the world and one of Muir's pet projects, is also examined in "Wilderness Man." Controversy over the damming of this magnificent area was heated and the arguments split the naturalists into two groups; the preservationists and the conservationists. This stormy issue brought the reticent Muir to the forefront as America's leading environmental lobbyist, but unfortunately it did not change the fate of the Hetch Hetchy.

"Wilderness Man"; will air as part of a special "California Dreams" series retrospective over KOCE, which includes the May 12 premiere of "The Valley," a program on the Salinas Valley, and encore telecasts of "The Dream of Don Guadalupe" and "Golden City."

Executive producer for the series is Patrick Griffin. "Wilderness Man" was written and directed by Griffin. See Wilderness, Page 31

Fisher Video Cassette Recorders

Fisher's advanced semiconductor technology makes a wealth of exciting and reliable functions and features possible which add a new dimension to your video/audio recording. Programmable timers transform Fisher video cassette recorders into automatic recording devices which will make unattended recordings while you are away from home. Built-in electronic tuners let you record one program while you are watching another program on your TV. 5 special playback modes let you find programs easily and quickly, so you can enjoy them at normal speeds, in slow motion, frame by frame, or freeze frame still pictures. Fisher also provides remote controls so that you may operate your Fisher VCR from the comfort of your viewing position.

Plus on the FVH520 only a 13-function hand-held remote control unit allowing record (REC), playback (PLAY), stop (STOP), rewind (REW), fast forward (FF), pause (PAUSE), fast playback (CUE), fast reverse (REVIEW), still picture (STILL), slow playback (SLOW), triple-speed playback (QUICK), frame playback (FRAME), and audio dubbing AUDIO DUB). Just sit back in your favorite chair and enjoy all that great Fisher color and sound.

Reagan vs. CBS: Who's the heavy?

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Pity the poor President.

Last week the Reagan Administration asked for 30 minutes of prime time on CBS to respond to a network documentary exploring how recent cut-backs in federal aid have hurt the needy and the handicapped.

White House officials said President Reagan was upset because the Administration hadn't been given a chance to present its side on the documentary, which was entitled "People Like Us."

In a rare display of network moxie, CBS said no.

The one-hour CBS documentary was reported by Bill Moyers. Although he is known as one of television's more distinguished journalists, Moyers also did a stint as White House press secretary under Lyndon Johnson, as his critics took pains to point out during last week's flap.

CBS described the program as "advocacy journalism," an examination of the so-called "victims" of Reaganomics, not a pro and con look at the President's fiscal theories.

Nevertheless, Reagan reportedly watched the broadcast and considered it unfair.

CBS responded to the White House request for equal time by saying the network had done extensive reporting on the President's economic views in the past. CBS "respectfully rejected" the Reagan request.

It has become obvious that the former actor in the White House is quite uncomfortable with one role that's sometimes been assigned to him: the villain.

Reagan has consistently rejected any attempts to make him a scapegoat for every American who is hungry or out of work.

Yet this stance runs directly counter to the traditional journalistic technique for covering stories such as poverty and widespread unemployment.

Reporting that thousands of people are out of work has little impact on a television viewer — or a newspaper reader, for that matter. Journalists overcome this by focusing on one or two individuals who have lost their jobs and then indicate there are thousands more out there in the same bind.

So while the President denies responsibility for every little shopkeeper who's had to close his doors, TV and print journalists keep zeroing in on such shopkeepers as symbols of a nationwide trend.

Reagan talks about bad-tasting medicine that will eventually improve the nation's health. But those pesky news reporters keep finding people who are choking on that medicine.

No wonder the President is upset!

Was CBS right to deny Reagan's request for 30 minutes to respond to the documentary?

Yes, for several reasons.

Giving in to the President would have set a bad precedent. The Administration might get into the habit of demanding TV time — or print news space — every time a report portrays him as anything less than a saint.

Such a habit could have a chilling effect on journalists. News people could begin to think twice before reporting stories critical of the Administration out of fear that the President would demand valuable air time or print media space.

This is not to say that all news should be reported in a one-sided fashion. The networks' regular nightly news broadcasts strive for balanced comments from the Administration and its critics.

But this is not always necessary in a more specialized documentary format, which often reflects a particular point of view and focuses on narrower subject matter.

In the case of "People Like Us," it was important to see how the little people outside the Washington spotlight are faring under the current Administration policies.

Though these little people may be forgotten by next week, the White House press corps will still be following Reagan around like a pack of hungry puppies.

The President will get plenty of time on the TV screen to sell his economic policies. In fact, Reagan uses television better than his recent predecessors.

Television was not kind to Richard Nixon, who always seemed to develop beads of sweat on his upper lip under the hot TV lights.

The same cameras caught Gerald Ford stumbling numerous times as he tried to board the Presidential jet.

Jimmy Carter could don a cardigan sweater and pose beside a fireplace, but he still came across as cool and distant on the home screens.

Whether it's his actor's training or not, Ronald Reagan comes across superbly on television.

The cameras have caught him on horseback. They've shown him passing sandbags during the recent Fort Wayne flood.

At press conferences, he employs a warm just-plain-folks tone and sounds like he knows what he's talking about — even when the White House has to issue corrections a few hours later.

CBS has turned him down this time, but the President shouldn't feel too sad. The next time he needs a few minutes of prime time for a news conference or a "major address," you can be sure the networks will give him whatever he needs.

And the people who are poor, hungry or out of work will probably be watching, too....

USA Network hits all sports

They don't want to be one of the best-kept secrets in the cable television market any longer. The USA Network is only 4 years old, but is already the No. 1 distributor of major prime-time sports, with 500 events broadcasted yearly. You name it — baseball, hockey, tennis, basketball, even rodeo — they cover it, and 70 percent of the programs are shown live.

'The Vengeance of Khan' name of Star Trek film

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Star Trek: The Vengeance of Khan" is the title of the second movie about the adventures of the Starship Enterprise and its crew.

Ricardo Montalban stars as Khan, a character first featured in a 1967 episode of the "Star Trek" television series. Bibi Beach, Merritt Buttrick and Paul Winfield also star.

Returning crewmen are William Shatner, Leonard Nimoy, DeForest Kelley, James Doohan, Walter Koenig, George Takei and Nichelle Nichols, plus newcomer Kirstie Alley as Lt. Saavik.

Nicholas Meyer directed from a script by Jack B. Sowards from a story by Harve Bennett and Sowards. Gene Roddenberry, who created "Star Trek," was consultant to the production.

The major casting has been completed for the Ladd Co.'s production of the movie adaptation of Tom Wolfe's "The Right Stuff."

The astronauts will be portrayed by Charles Frank as Scott Carpenter, Scott Glenn as Alan Shepard, Ed Harris as John Glenn, Dennis Quaid as Gordon Cooper, and Fred Ward as Gus Grissom. Sam Shepard plays Charles Yeager and Kim Stanley is Poncho.

The roles of Deke Slayton and Wally Schirra will be announced later.

Philip Kaufman will direct from his screenplay based on Wolfe's book. It will be filmed on location in various parts of the country, including Edwards Air Force Base.

 saved a life with Red Cross CPR.
 Could you?

Fifteen-year-old Brent Ragon had no idea how soon he'd be using CPR to save someone's life when he completed his Red Cross training at a Youth Safety Seminar.

But, while Brent was riding the train home from that seminar, a man collapsed two rows behind him.

"He wasn't breathing, and I couldn't find a pulse," Brent recalls. "I wasn't scared. I didn't have time to be scared. I knew what to do and I did it."

If you were in Brent's place, would you know what to do?

We'll teach you.

Natwick in new movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mildred Natwick has been signed to co-star with Sally Field, James Caan, Jeff Bridges, Claire Trevor and Paul Dooley in "Kiss Me Goodbye" for 20th Century-Fox.

Robert Mulligan is directing from a screenplay by Charlie Peters, from an original story by Mulligan.

Nell Carter stars in NBC's 'Ain't Misbehavin'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nell Carter will recreate her Tony award-winning role in "Ain't Misbehavin'" for a two-hour special for NBC.

Miss Carter, starring in the NBC series "Gimme a Break," also won an Obie and the New York Drama Critics award for her high-spirited performance in the collection of music by Fats Waller.

Oscar winner John Williams will compose and conduct the score for "Monsignor," a new film from 20th Century-Fox.

Christopher Reeve and Genevieve Bujold star in the Frank Yablans production.

Williams has been nominated for the Academy Award 14 times, winning Oscars in 1972 for "Fiddler on the Roof," in 1976 for "Jaws" and in 1978 for "Star Wars."

□ The European Way to Classic Beauty

There is a world here in Corona del Mar where your fondest dreams can come true, a place where you can become the person you have always wanted to be. No need for far away spas or health resorts.

Because there is ULTRASLIM, a place totally different from any other slimming studio anywhere, with its spaciousness & serenity, sophisticated equipment & skilled professional staff. ULTRASLIM is dedicated to the well-being of its clients, providing the latest & most miraculous treatment for cellulite control and slimming under the supervision of experts.

ULTRASLIM owners & founders JILL & ALLEN NICHOLSON, spent years researching and perfecting their unique techniques for body contouring.

"But, more than that," they say, "we have looked for natural ways to bring out the innate beauty in every woman. In our studios we have installed equipment unavailable anywhere else in the United States so that we can offer the best of rejuvenation & beautifying treatment for those men & women who really care about themselves."

"To do that we include cellulonics & nutritional guidelines to break down cellulite — that annoying mixture of fat, toxins, fluids and wastes that accumulate in the layers of connective tissue between the muscles and skin."

Cellulite is a malady that has plagued females for ages, and has been sometimes misconstrued as something the individual is unable to get rid of.

"At ULTRASLIM it can be controlled & eliminated," Jill continued. "Our total concept program combining nutrition, lifestyle guidance & ULTRASLIM electronic machines produces astonishing results."

Allen Nicholson states that he has been pleased with the wide acceptance of the ULTRASLIM program by men. "While not bothered as much by cellulite — men seem to appreciate the muscle tone & inch loss that our program provides — quickly & effortlessly."

Gary Russell, Manager of ULTRASLIM of Corona del Mar, invites you to visit our studio for a free nutritional consultation.

Larry Stewart—"I lost 3½ inches off my waist in only 8 treatments."

Heather McNair—"This is the only all-over effective cellulite & inch loss program that worked for me."

ON YOUR FEET

A public service of the doctors at Newport Podiatry Group

SIGNS OF TROUBLED FEET

If you're having a problem with your feet, you may think it's minor until the discomfort and foot fatigue get out of hand. Any limiting of activities on the job or at home can be a serious problem until your feet get the treatment they need.

There are many signs of troubled feet, and here are a few to watch for. CORNS AND CALLUSES are caused by friction and pressure that may be attributed to defects in the foot's bone structure. WARTS may be mistaken for calluses, but they are really quite different. A wart is a skin growth which has its own blood and nerve supply and tends to spread if left untreated. BUNIONS are caused by misaligned toe joints, usually the big toe, and can become swollen and tender. FUNGUS CONDITIONS, such as athlete's foot, tend to attack the feet in the warm, moist areas between the toes. TOENAIL INFECTIONS, sometimes caused by improperly trimmed nails, can also be caused by structural defects.

If you have any of these signs of troubled feet, see your foot specialist for examination and treatment.

'The Letter' on ABC ... a quiz

NEW YORK (AP) — The postal system may not seem particularly glamorous, but its contents — from love letters to fan mail to notes dashed off with poison pen — have fascinated filmmakers for more than four decades.

The most famous "billet doux" of them all may well be Somerset Maugham's "The Letter." Lee Remick stars in a special TV presentation of the steamy classic, to be broadcast Monday at 9 p.m. on ABC (Ch. 7). Jack Thompson, from the feature film "Breaker Morant," co-stars in the television production set in Malaya.

Before watching "The Letter," take this quiz by Janis Hirsch to see if your movie-memory is letter-perfect.

1. One popular TV series began each episode with the very special delivery of an envelope, but if there was no letter enclosed, no one seemed to mind. We'll tell you the contents were always the same — $1 million tax free. If you know the name of the series, you've got two easy points, and if you know who signed those checks, you've earned two more points — and a lot of interest.

2. Letters were precious cargo in an English flick called "The Go-Between." The leading lady was "darling" in "Dr. Zhivago," and her leading man is known to have an eye for the fair sex, including "women in love" and one "unmarried woman."

2:40 (H) MOVIE "The Other Love" (1947, Drama) David Niven, Barbara Stanwyck. A concert pianist and her doctor fall in love during her stay at a Swiss TB clinic. (2 hrs.)

NEWS

3:00 (H) MOVIE "What The Butler Saw" (1950, Comedy) Henry Millison, Edward Rigby. An elderly Englishman returns home with a chief's daughter. (1 hr., 30 min.)

JOE FRANKLIN

NEWS

GOLF HIGHLIGHTS "1974 U.S. Open"

SPORTSWOMAN

3:40 (H) MOVIE "Despair" (1979, Drama) Dirk Bogarde, Andrea Ferreol. A Russian confectioner living in Germany is faced with total ruin during the rise of Nazism. (1 hr., 59 min.)

3:45 (H) MOVIE "Death And The Maiden" (1973, Mystery) James Stewart, Strother Martin. A young woman, long suspected of mental imbalance, is charged with the shooting deaths of her father, stepmother and stepfather. (1 hr., 30 min.)

JIMMY SWAGGART

SPORTS CENTER

FUNTIME

VOYAGE TO THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA

JIM BAKKER

4:40 (H) MOVIE "The Man Who Fell To Earth" (1976, Science-Fiction) David Bowie, Candy Clark. A rock star from an alien planet, on an interplanetary search for water for his people, becomes an exploited millionaire on Earth. 'R' (1 hr., 58 min.)

Their names are worth three points each, and their mailing addresses even more.

3. Lee Remick is the star of the all-new production of "The Letter." For two points, can you remember the great actress who starred in the 1940 movie of the same name, and based on the same story. Hint: Her eyes were immortalized in a recent rock music hit.

4. Not all "letters" are as sophisticated as those written by Maugham, and if you can recall a television series from the 1953-54 season called "A Letter to Loretta," you'll agree. Name the long-necked beauty who starred and chalk up three points. If you remember the series' concept, you've won a whopping six more — though you're probably watching too much TV.

5. In the film "They Knew What They Wanted," an immigrant grape farmer carries on a courtship through the mail. Who played this letter-writing "most happy fella" — you don't have to know the "Private Lives of Henry VIII" to know his name. It's worth two points. For another pair, name his co-star, better known for her screwball comedies than her prowess as a pen pal. If you call her Mrs. Gable, we'll only give you half of the four points that the correct answer is worth.

6. In a 1949 movie, a woman sends "A Letter to See The Letter, Page 30"

CAROUSEL SWEET SHOP

You'll have to scrape the butterfat off the roof of your mouth — that will make us famous —

1. CAROUSEL — The original "Creamery" ice cream. All natural fruits, real cream & low air content! Fat! Fat! Fat! Plus real malted milk.
2. Our candies are made with real butter & real chocolate! Creamylicious, honest! Jelly Bellies too!
3. Petits Fours individually decorated. Strudels that will blow away in a light breeze. The cheesecake? Indescribable!
4. The cookies, brownies & fudge? You probably won't make it this far, but if you do, you'll be close enough to crawl out the front door.

CAROUSEL SWEET SHOP

Soon to be a household word in Southern California. Bring the kids too — we have a few video games to keep them busy. Like PacMan — Gorf — Phoenix.

"Three Wives," announcing her intention to run off with one of their husbands. If you can name each of the four women who starred, you'll earn four points apiece: One went on to be a "private secretary" named Susie McNamara; one was in the pink even though she was "Forever Amber," another was called "Pinky" by two great Ethels, Barrymore and Waters, and the fourth was a character actress who was the wisecracking lady of the day in comedies like "Pillow Talk" and "Move Over, Darling."

Answers:

1. "The Millionaire," John Beresford Tipton. 2. Julie Christie, Alan Bates. 3. Bette Davis. 4. Loretta Young, fans wrote in ideas and Miss Young starred in their dramatizations. 5. Charles Laughton, Carole Lombard. 6. Ann Sothern, Linda Darnell, Jeanne Crain, Thelma Ritter.

Scoring:

If you scored between 34 and 43, you can write your own ticket; 25-33, don't worry, the postman always rings twice; 15-24, maybe it's written on the envelope; 1-14, it's a letter from a long-lost friend.

ABC set to air Dr. Seuss again

By JEFF PARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dr. Seuss fans will be pleased to know that ABC will air "The Grinch and the Cat in the Hat" May 20. In this zany tale, the jaunty Cat in the Hat incurs the wrath of grouchy Grinch when he turns a light machine on him that turns the Grinch into a silly looking beast in plaid and polka dots.

The latest remake of Somerset Maugham's "The Letter" will appear Monday, May 3 on ABC. This version of the steamy tale will feature Lee Remick as the murderous lover and Christopher Cazenove as Officer Withers.

Phil Donahue, one of the nation's most entertaining interviewers will begin contributing his talents to the ABC Late-Night News this October. "He has a wonderful curiosity and perception," said ABC head Boone Arledge.

The grim tale of Albert Speer and his association in the Third Reich will be the topic of still another television show May 9, when ABC presents "Inside the Third Reich." According to the show's producer, E. Jack Neuman, Speer's greatest crime was in using slave labor to man his armament machinery and prolonging the war for two years longer than it should have gone. Speer was convicted at Nuremberg for war crimes. Neuman conducted some 50 hours of interviews with Speer in preparation for the show. Starring will be Rutger Hauer, Blythe Danner and Sir John Gielgud. Speer died in 1981, two months before filming on this production began.

Jack Palance will host "Ripley's Believe It or Not!" Sunday, May 2. Set for exploration are the eerie lands of the werewolf in Germany; the tragic site of ancient Pompeii where 2,000 people died in a volcano eruption; an "update" on the curse surrounding Tutankhamen's tomb; and of course a visit to Alaska to see a 70-pound cabbage.

Sugar Ray Leonard will defend his welterweight crown against third-ranked contender Roger Stafford on prime time television Friday, May 14 at 6 p.m. Stafford is 27 years old and moved into title contention with a 10-round decision over Pipino Cuevas in November of 1981. He last fought March 2 and knocked out challenger David Madrid in round one.

"An American Love Affair," a new movie for television, has begun shooting in Los Angeles for future broadcast on CBS. Victoria Principal will star as Dr. Diana Dawson, a marine biologist who is determined to stay celibate until she marries and Gil Gerard will star as the dashing young attorney who calls upon all his wit and charm to prevent her from this fate worse than death.

Don't miss this: on the May 16 "Archie Bunker's Place," Archie "comes down with a bad cold and Stephanie catches a severe case of jealousy when Archie's friend Katherine rushes to his side."

Former CBS News President Bill Leonard has been named the recipient of the coveted George Foster Peabody Award for journalistic excellence. Leonard began his CBS career in 1945 as a roving reporter for WCBS radio.

"Bill," a special about a retarded man; "G.E. Theater" and Danny Kaye are also winners of Peabody Awards.

Jean Stapleton has satisfied a longtime dream to portray Eleanor Roosevelt in "Eleanor, First Lady of the World," set for broadcast May 12. "I found growth in Eleanor and couldn't wait to show a part of it in this film," Miss Stapleton said. Her makeup as Mrs. Roosevelt includes a wig, "dental appliance for the First Lady's prominent overbite" and three-inch lifts in her shoes.

A trivial question: Who played Mr. Spock's wife in "Star Trek"? Charo's rival on "The Love Boat," Dennis Weaver's wife in "The Day the Loving Stopped," and a freckled frontierwoman in "Little House on the Prairie"? You're right! It was none other than Tasha Martell!

The unthinkable prospect of nuclear war sparked by a crisis in the Middle East, will become thinkable on the May 3 "Lou Grant." The terrifying threat to world peace has links with the burn ward Billie is covering and with Charlie Hume's sister, Claire, who is an expert on nuclear medical care.

Magnum has all the trouble he can handle in the May 13 "Magnum, P.I." when a beautiful girl, a Sumo wrestler and a dwarf gang up on him in a story of love and treachery.

A ruthless crew of drug smugglers pursue a trio of amateurs who dream of sudden wealth in "Who'll Stop the Rain" set for Wednesday, May 19. Nick Nolte stars along with Tuesday Weld and Michael Moriarty, Anthony Zerbe and Gail Strickland. The movie is based on a book by Robert Stone called "Dog Soldiers."

Also joining the list of Peabody Award winners was "Hill Street Blues," which seems to have won every award short of the middleweight crown, but then, it's really a heavyweight. Since its premiere on Jan. 15 of last year, the show has won some 23 awards and lost nary a one.

Quincy uncovers an ugly racket when a trained guard dog turns on the child it is supposed to protect and kills the toddler with dispatch. This story unfolds May 5.

"Smurfs," the most popular new Saturday morning program in 10 years, has led NBC to its biggest audience in five years in the Saturday morning audience race.

Eddie Albert has established an enviable reputation with his many fans throughout the world for the excellence and versatility of his performances, as well as for his dedication and contribution to humanitarian causes.

Albert's career as an entertainer began when, as a movie theater manager, he performed magic tricks before each film. Soon he started working with a singing trio and moved to New York where he sang in small clubs while living over a speakeasy on West 48th Street. A one-year singing engagement on NBC's radio show, "The Honeymooners — Grace and Eddie" with Grace Bradt, segued into a major part in Garson Kanin's "Brother Rat" and established Albert as a Broadway star.

It was not long before he caught the attention of movie scouts. Soon he was cast in the film version of his hit play which led to his being signed to a studio contract. Among his 60 feature film credits are "Roman Holiday" and "The Heartbreak Kid," both of which won him Oscar nominations. He also received the National Critic's Best Supporting Actor Award for "The Heartbreak Kid."

Additionally, Albert is remembered for roles in "The Teahouse of the August Moon," "Attack!" "I'll Cry Tomorrow," "The Longest Yard," "How to Beat the High Cost of Living," "Escape to Witch Mountain" and "Airport '79." His most recent film, "Yes, Giorgio!," with Luciano Pavarotti, is set for release soon.

The star of a pair of popular television series, "Green Acres" and "Switch," Albert has also starred in a number of movies for television including "Goliath Awaits," "Concorde," and "Rooster."

Albert's long list of stage credits include productions of "Seven-Year Itch," "Room Service," "The Music Man," "Say, Darling," and "The Boys from Syracuse," and a highly-acclaimed version of Thornton Wilder's American classic, "Our Town."

Albert has also ventured back to music in highly successful nightclub tours throughout the country, and as a recording artist on the albums "Miss Liberty," "Eddie Albert and Margo," "High Upon a Mountain," "The Nina, The Pinta and The Santa Maria," and "The Eddie Albert Album." In June, Albert will join Luciano Pavarotti on stage at the San Francisco Opera in a production of "Turandot."

Bill Bixby will host 'The Book of Lists'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bill Bixby will be the host of the new CBS series "The Book of Lists," which begins Tuesday.

The series is adapted from the best-selling books by David Wallechinsky, Irving Wallace and Amy Wallace. It will be telecast for four weeks.

Among the segments are 13 children raised by wild animals, the five most beautiful women in the world, the nine dumbest thieves, the five best ways to pick up girls and the eight most memorable kisses in movie history.

"Ain't Misbehavin'," the Tony award-winning Broadway musical featuring the music of Fats Waller, will be produced by Columbia Pictures Television as a two-hour special for NBC.

The show, which captured three Tony awards including Best Musical in 1978, is still running on Broadway after 1,500 performances.

Hamilton played Hank

COUNTRY QUERY — Please help me. When I was growing up in the early '60s, there was a movie made about the life and death of country and western singer Hank Williams Sr. If I remember right, Hank was played by George Hamilton. Is this true? Also, what was the name of the movie?

Hamilton did play Williams and gave what has turned out to be the best performance of his career to date. That was in 1964 and the picture was called "Your Cheatin' Heart," taken from Williams' biggest hit. The songs were dubbed by Hank Williams Jr.

NICE WORK — What is the name of Olivia Newton-John's boyfriend and what does he do for a living?

The young man, who has lived with Miss Newton-John for the past two years, is Matt Latanzi. Besides keeping his roomie happy, he works as an actor. His latest role was the teenage stud who seduced Jackie Bisset in "Rich and Famous."

THE FACE LIFTS — I have a $100 bet regarding Katharine Hepburn. I say she got caught shoplifting in a department store some years ago. Am I right?

No. Another leading lady of the '30s and '40s was involved in an unfortunate shoplifting incident, but revealing her name would not be in the best taste at this late date.

After he catches Di and Pete kissing, Steve insists she stop seeing Pete. Sandy frustrated because he has feelings for both Cecile and Blaine. Bob returns keys to Quinn's apartment. Elena, concerned about Cecile's strange behavior over the phone, plans return to Bay City.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Maggie badgers Margo into admitting she loves Tom. Annie tells Jeff she loves him and asks for fidelity, but Jeff isn't certain he can agree to those terms, since he has spent years watching Annie fall in love with other men. A jealous Karen pledges to come between Anne and Jeff. With Miranda in a prison that he cannot visit, Bob continues to miss her. James cracks several ribs in a horse-riding mishap, which is another parallel to Barbara's flashbacks.

CAPITOL: Gillian and Wally are unaware that the woman in Thomas' life is the ever-fickle Beth Bochman. Seeing Tyler and Sloane share innocent embrace, Julie is susceptible to Lawrence's advances. Myrna tells Lawrence she wants him to marry Julie, and he agrees. Tyler gets important position on security committee, nosing out a vengeful Trey. Myrna orders ex-FBI agent Phil Burgess to get dirt on security committee members; Phil, angered by Myrna's constant orders, vows to get even with her. Clarissa shocked when she spots Tyler and Sloane kissing. Mark tells Sloane he thinks Julie's wrong for Tyler and will help Sloane win Tyler. When asked to get his brother Matt to throw athletic event in return for being let off the hook for debt, Wally refuses. Wally borrows $5,000 from Judson, but instead of using it to pay half his $10,000 debt to the bookies, Wally withholds $2,000 for betting purposes.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: After Jessie breaks engagement with him and admits she loves Josh, Jake quits the Body Connection and gets Alex to give him position at hospital. Roman traces Liz to Florida and brings her back to Salem. To be closer to Neil, Liz takes volunteer post at hospital, but Neil wants more than stolen moments with Liz at hospital. Tony appalled when he and Renee check into adults-only motel. Marlana and Roman growing closer. Don intrigued when he learns Gwen Davies is broke and living in her law office. Noah and Anne learns Bradshaw did not prescribe birth control pills for Mrs. Newell. Joe nearly catches Heather coming on to Scotty.

GUIDING LIGHT: While trying to escape Lucien Goff, Alan realizes his pilot Wayne is also in on scheme. With Ivy's help, Mike learns Alan's whereabouts. As Alan tries to escape Goff and Wayne, Goff falls to his death and Mike frees Alan, who is happily reunited with Hope. Kelly Louise's condition improves, but she's still critical. Nola, Hillary and Morgan patch up their differences. Morgan is unhappy because she's been unable to conceive a child. Vanessa intrigued by Tony. When Jackie's father becomes ill, Carrie offers to watch Samantha. Jealous of Mark and Jennifer's friendship, Amanda sends her out of town.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Ivan plants an electrode in Ed and stops Ed's investigation. Under Ivan's spell, Ed tells Marco that he was wrong about his suspicions that Hugo and Ivan are the same man. Astrid tells Larry about Ivan's power over him, and Larry decides to fight. Larry wants to take Karen away with him, but when he arrives at Timberdark farm with Ed, Ivan is there and prepares to drag Karen off. Karen learns about Ivan's powers and agrees to go along with Ivan in exchange for Larry and Ed's safety, but as Ivan whisks Karen away, he locks Ed and Larry into room with time bomb about to explode. Asa's engineer Paxton is a spy for the unscrupulous Jupiter Co. Beau tells Dorian he knows she stole Georgina's solaramite plans and threatens to prosecute.

RYAN'S HOPE: Kim wants to back out of kidnapping scheme, but Orson assures her that plan to take Arley and get a million bucks is foolproof, and he rents an apartment in New Jersey. When Ox tells Roger he bullied Jane into giving the pearls, they have fistfight and Ox decides that Roger doesn't deserve Jane. Jane upset because Ox has made matters worse, while Roger believes Jane still has a yen for Ox. Roger seeks and gets comfort from Dee. Rae refuses to talk to Jack about her previous association with Hollis. When Jack is offered another job, Rae realizes Hollis is behind it to get Jack off "death-of-a-city" story about Hollis' destruction of impressive old riverside buildings. Siobhan captures a mugger in Central Park, and when Dee suggests she clean up in Joe's apartment, Siobhan is stunned when Joe walks in and heads for the shower and her.

SEARCH FOR TOMORROW: Following tire blowout and car crash while trying to get away from thugs, Brian sustains minor head injury and Suzi's injured knee puts her dancing career on hold. When Suzi overhears Joanne blaming Brian for accident she becomes angry and severs all relationships with Joanne. Stephanie tells Joanne she knew she'd get Suzi back one day. Thomas falling for Cathy. Dane decides to quit spy business and considers staying in Henderson. When Lee is obviously proud about Sunny's appearance on the "Today" show, Cissy sizzles with jealousy.

TEXAS: Rikki openly declares his love for Brette. Judith pretends to like Ruby, but plans to ruin her relationship with Mark. Rena puts foot down when Grant turns down invitation from her to have dinner with Judith. Telling Judith he has a business trip, Grant takes Rena away to Europe. Lurlene, smitten with Joel, is fearful when a young nurse applies for position to aid Joel and Lurlene decides to take on an older woman for the job. John showing romantic interest in Vivian, who is having hard time pleasing Judith.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Patti admits to Carl she is living with Jack. Snapper wants Chuckie to know he is the boy's father. Although her marriage is still in trouble, Chris wants Stuart to stop interfering. Robert warns Laurie her plan to get Prentiss Industries away from Victor and back into Lance's hands spells disaster. Nikki tells Kevin she wants to marry him, and still maintains her story that he is the father of her unborn child. Kaye wonders when Earle's wife will recall their college days.

Off the street and into 'Texas'

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Pam Long walked off the street — more or less — and into a leading part in "Texas" on NBC, and it's no wonder. "I think," she says, "I'm a female Burt Reynolds."

"We're both jocks from the South," Miss Long says, "both independent and funny and underrated as intelligent people, and I have the same goals as he does."

Miss Long, a self-described "late-bloomer," admits she's never met Burt Reynolds. "But," she adds with some haste, "I feel like I know him."

That kind of self-confidence has to count for something, and for Pam Long, Miss Alabama '74, it led directly to a role, as Ashley Linden, in NBC's struggling soap.

The "Texas" story, in its own way, is nearly as unlikely as Miss Long's. The series was introduced Aug. 4, 1980 in the 3-4 p.m. EST slot, opposite the daytime champion "General Hospital" on ABC.

The series, moderately successful at times, clobbered by "General Hospital" for the most part, has moved to 11 in the morning now.

Miss Long had virtually no acting experience — only one paying part, in a dinner theater production of "Play It Again, Sam" — when she walked onto the "Texas" set in Brooklyn just over a year ago. She'd done some commercials, and had been on TV before, in Alabama.

"But my very first stage kiss," she says, "was on "Texas." It was with Jerry Lanning, the guy who plays my husband and that's not very comforting when you find later that you've got to play a bed scene.

LATE BLOOMER — Pam Long, a self-described "late bloomer," relaxes aboard a sailing yacht in New York Harbor. She had practically no acting experience when she got a job on "Texas."

"My grandfather's a preacher back in Alabama," she says, "and when I read the script, I panicked."

Lanning and others on the set, including Beverlee McKinsey, the daytime star who has since left the show, helped her through the scene, Miss Long says, "and I'm a professional now. Those things don't bother me. Besides, how romantic can it be, with two or three cameras staring you in the face?"

Pam Long was 26 when she arrived in New York City in July 1980, looking for work in commercials. She'd done a few, locally, and had been host on three TV interview programs in Alabama, including "Montgomery A.M."

"I didn't know you couldn't just a walk in and see people," she says. "All I knew is I wanted to make commercials — take the money and run. I'd never really been an actor — there were the talk shows and I was a ventriloquist. I walked in and said, 'I want to be your spokesman.'"

"I think they thought I was a hoot," she says. "But I ended up getting a test for a commercial for a new shampoo." The product, apparently, never was marketed.

There were other, mostly small, jobs, and plenty of screen tests, and, almost by chance, an audition for "Texas."

"I couldn't believe it," she says of the day she was cast in the soap. "I thought I'd blown the test, and here I was, Ashley Linden, college graduate, career girl, from Savannah, Georgia."

"Of course, she was conniving and mean, and I'm nothing like that," the actress says. "She's changed since then, but she's had all kinds of things happen to her. She's been blackmailed, and Reena" — Reena Dekker, played by Carla Borelli — "is always out to make her look bad. She's always trying to keep her husband out of trouble, and she's got a son she can't acknowledge."

Miss Long says instinct and life experience make up for a lack of time on the stage — she was involved in politics in Alabama — and she's got something else that suits "Texas."

"All of the people I've worked with have said, 'You've got to get rid of the accent.' I do want to learn 'General American' as a dialect," she says, "but I don't want to talk that way. I think I sound just the way I should for the show."

Gordon Bennett Balloon Race set at Fountain Valley again

Flying high

Balloon race more than just hot air

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

On May 8, all eyes will turn to the skies above Fountain Valley.

For the third consecutive year, the city will host the Gordon Bennett Balloon Race on the central airfield at Mile Square Park. With an expanded array of aerial attractions, the event is also being billed as an "Aviation Faire."

Activities will include hot air balloon rides, a celebrity balloon race, Marine air search and rescue demonstrations, a sail plane demonstration, a flyover by antique bi-planes and parachute drops.

Bands, games and food booths also will be featured.

But the main focus will be the two major balloon competitions.

In the morning, 10 hot air balloons will take part in the Orange County Classic, a successor to last year's Fountain Valley Classic contest.

In this event, each pilot picks a target within 50 miles of the Mile Square Park launch site. Each pilot is required to land his balloon as close as possible to the predetermined target.

This feat is not as easy as it sounds because unlike conventional aircraft, a balloon cannot be steered. It must ride with the wind, moving with the prevailing weather conditions.

Hot air balloons rely on a propane burner to remain aloft for two to four hours.

Last year's hot air winner was Ken Frank of Redwood City, who landed on his predetermined target, the Imperial Golf Course in Brea.

This year, Orange County Classic pilots may lift off between 9 and 11 a.m.

From 1 p.m. to dusk, eight teams from the United States, Japan, Germany and France will lift off in the 1982 Gordon Bennett Race, a distance competition utilizing helium-filled balloons.

This contest will feature some of the world's most famous balloonists.

Last year's winners, Albuquerque businessman Ben Abruzzo and Japanese restaurant chain owner Rocky Aoki, will return to try for a second victory. (Abruzzo also won the 1979 Gordon Bennett with a different partner.)

Abruzzo was part of the three-man team that completed the first successful trans-Atlantic balloon flight in 1978. Last November, Abruzzo and Aoki took part in the first successful trans-Pacific balloon flight, flying nearly 8,000 miles from Japan to a crash landing in Northern California.

Also participating in this year's Gordon Bennett will be the father and son team of Maxie and Kris Anderson. Maxie Anderson was part of the 1978 trans-Atlantic balloon flight with Abruzzo.

In 1980, Maxie and Kris Anderson completed a transcontinental flight from San Francisco to Quebec, Canada. They reside in Albuquerque.

This year's Gordon Bennett Race will include the first American husband and wife team. John and Mari Shoecraft of Scottsdale, Ariz., will fly "Rodney the Jazz Bird."

Last October, John Shoecraft was half of the two-man Super Chicken III flight, which took off from the campus of Orange Coast College and landed off the coast of Georgia. This was the first non-stop balloon flight across the continental United States.

The Gordon Bennett Race is named for the New York Herald publisher who sponsored the first contest in 1908. The competition continued annually through 1939, when it was canceled because of the onset of World War II.

The race was revived in 1979 by Rolling Hills scientist Thomas Heinzelner. The 1979 event was See Balloon, Page 2

Showmanship

El Toro spruces up for big show

With more than 350,000 spectators expected to show up for this weekend's air show at Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, organizers are urging visitors to use public transportation or get an early start.

Gates will open at 9:30 p.m. both days, with visitors treated to a static display of Marine Corps aircraft and equipment.

The highlight both days is the air show, which runs from noon to 3 p.m., and features the Blue Angels Flight Demonstration Team.

Because of anticipated traffic congestion and parking problems, Marine Corps officials, along with local, county, and state agencies have organized programs to minimize congestion to and from the air station.

The best way to avoid the mass of vehicles, Marine officials say, is to leave the driving up to the Orange County Transit District.

As in previous years, OCTD is offering park and ride services from several locations.

Spectators may park near 6th and Flower Street in Santa Ana; the Laguna Hills Mall; the Irvine Meadows Amphitheater in Irvine; and the Marine Corps Air Station (Helicopter) in Tustin.

Buses will depart for the air show site from all four locations every half hour beginning at 9 a.m. until noon, returning every half hour from 3 to 5 p.m. both days.

One way fare is $1 and children under six ride for free.

BLUE ANGELS . . . Strutting their stuff

For those willing to brave the traffic and congestion, four entrances to the air show will be open to motorists.

The Main Gate and Gate No. 9 are located near the Santa Ana Freeway. A third entrance to the air station will be the gate near the picnic area on the northeast corner of the station, off Irvine Boulevard. The fourth gate is located along the station's southern perimeter, just above Gate No. 3 off Trabuco Road.

California Highway Patrolmen, Orange County Sheriff's deputies and Irvine police officers will be on hand to direct traffic, and signs will be posted to aid motorists.

C.M. skater had hard season

By JEFF PARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

After 10 months on the road, doing nine shows a week in the biggest cities around the country, the Ice Capades brings its season to a close this weekend at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

For featured performer Aimee Kravette of Costa Mesa, the last homestand brings to an end the shortest, hardest season of her professional skating career.

And if she were the complaining type, she might bring tears to your eyes with tales of the broken collar bone last July that sidelined her for five months, or the Ice Capades show in New York last February when she tried to kick a bobby pin off the ice at the same time someone else did, and got a 60-stitch slash on her shin for her trouble.

But a complainer is one thing she isn't, and when the 22-year old skater takes to the ice for the year's last four shows this weekend, no one will probably notice much more than a graceful champion skater who loves making her audience gasp in appreciation.

Kravette sums up her injury-prone season — her second with the Ice Capades in an otherwise injury-less career — with a laugh and a self-deprecating assessment:

"I'm so dumb. I was trying to walk my dog while riding my bike, and he crossed in front of me and down I went. I was lying there in the street thinking about everyone who would yell at me for being so dumb."

Eager to correct her "mistake," Kravette convalesced a short four weeks before hitting the ice again. The broken collar bone separated, and she was out again until December.

But bad luck wasn't to be outwitted. Kravette's first show in February was going without a hitch until she tried to kick the bobby pin off the ice. But in the flash of a partner's newly sharpened skate, it all changed.

"I remember kicking for the pin and someone else's skate hitting my leg," she said. "I didn't want to mess up the show, so I just held onto the people next to me, really leaning on them for support, before I had a chance to look down. I saw a little blood and skated off the ice. Then I saw the whole thing. I think I screamed for 10 minutes before they quieted me down."

And sitting in a New York City hospital emergency room didn't work wonders for her sense of serenity either.

"This is definitely not 'General Hospital,' I kept thinking. I kept wanting Rick Springfield to walk by, but no luck. Just a lot of bumps and here I am in my skating costume with blood running off my leg," she said, laughing again.

It may be that Kravette has used up all the bad luck of a career in just one season, because until this year, her rise to the top of figure skating showmanship has been sweeping and unfettered by such niggling things as injury.

held at the Queen Mary in Long Beach.

In 1980, the festivities moved to the more spacious Mile Square Park, attracting about 15,000 visitors. The event was expanded to two days in 1981.

This year's one-day festival will feature architect R. Buckminster Fuller as guest of honor. KABC radio personality Michael Jackson and Los Angeles Times cartoonist Paul Conrad will take part in the celebrity balloon race.

A balloon race photography contest has been established this year for amateurs and professionals, with cash prizes up to $500.

Admission to the festival is $3 for adults and $1.50 for children age 5 to 12. (Children under 5 are admitted free.) Discount advance tickets can be obtained from the Fountain Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Playwright likes to 'have written'

By JIMMY JOHNSON
Daily Pilot Feature News Editor

Like so many writers, Ted Tally ain't exactly bonkers over writing. He likes to "have written."

But you wouldn't know it by the way he has been grinding out plays since he decided that was the way he was going to put food on the table.

Tally was in town last week to help stage the South Coast Repertory's production of "Coming Attractions" for the Second Stage. This slick little one-act satire is scheduled to run through May 9.

"I'm very pleased with the way SCR has done the play," he said during a lunch break. "Paul Rudd is directing his first play and is doing a good job and there are seven very fine actors in a multitude of roles. They have done an excellent job with the play."

A native of Greensboro, N.C., Tally started out to be an actor, but the idea of writing continued to chew away at him. So, one summer, while still in high school and attending the summer school for arts, he penned his first play, an anti-war story, simply titled "V."

"Both my parents were teachers," the friendly playwright offered, "they always encouraged me to read a lot. As a result, I became a bookworm. When other kids were playing Little League baseball, I had my nose buried in a book. I'd take a book and a flashlight to bed with me and hide under the blankets and when I was supposed to be sleeping, I'd be reading."

"By reading so much, I came to love words and decided to write a novel while still in high school. I had no idea how it should be done, so I set to work. I thought a novel should be written like it is read — all at once. So I tried to write the whole thing at one setting in long hand. After about 40 pages of that I grew tired of it and decided to become an actor."

His first effort at play writing was quite successful and was turned into a TV special for local television in Greensboro. A second play, "Sand Creek," followed. It was about the Indian massacre at Sand Creek and it, too, was successful, going statewide.

"After that," Tally said with a smile, "I thought this is easy, but it hasn't been that easy since. That was before I discovered writing takes discipline and can be a very lonely profession. Words don't just jump on the paper and that's why I say I don't like to write, but have written."

Because of his first two plays, Tally was able to attend Yale and the Yale School of Drama, where he became a John Golden Fellow in playwriting and won the Kazan Award as well as the Theron Rockwell Field Prize.

While a senior at Yale, Tally wrote "Terra Nova" in 1977 to become a professional writer. Afterwards he was able to get a grant and a teaching position at the college.

"Terra Nova" has been a highly successful play, having been produced a number of times in the United States, as well as Great Britain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Spain and New Zealand.

A professional writer for the past five years, Tally wants to try his hand at all kinds of writing — screen plays, novels, short stories, etc.

"I have done some film scripts," he pointed out. "I've sold them, but none have been made into films. Writing for the camera is a lot different than writing for the stage. In film you have to think about camera angle and concentrate more on plot, story and action, while a stage play is more concerned with the language."

"So far, most of my money has been made in writing for the stage. Only about a third has been in film work."

Tally admits his dream is "to have a long and varied career as a writer. I hope I'll keep growing and writing vigorous plays until I'm 70. I see writing as a marathon and not a sprint."

"I've discovered that I make a different set of mistakes each time out," Tally volunteered. "But that's how I learn. If I made the same mistakes each time out, I wouldn't learn much. I just keep moving from one play to the next, hoping to learn something each time."

Tally openly admits that satirical writing is among the hardest. His "Coming Attractions" is a satire about media madness. It's funny and works very well.

HOWARD SHANGRAW . . . In 'Coming Attractions'

The SCR production is the third time it has been done. It opened off-Broadway and ran for six months. Just this past winter it was re-produced by the Indiana Repertory Theater in Indianapolis.

"A funny story came out of that Indiana production," Tally recalled with a chuckle. "I was talking on the phone with one of the production people about the play. I asked her how it was doing and she replied, 'Well, I've got some good news and some bad news. The good news is that the show is selling well, but the bad news is the theater burned down after the opening. We moved the play into the high school auditorium. It was a sell out, but the next day we were hit with 16 inches of snow. We've had the worst blizzard in the history of the state. Still, business is good.'"

Tally sighed and concluded, "But that's show biz."

Beethoven's music upbeat

By MARY JANE SCAR-
CELLO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff
Although Beethoven was portrayed as a brooding and unhappy man, he wrote some very inspiring music. Perhaps what we mistake for a gloomy expression in portraits was his intensity, which does come through in his works.

Saturday's performance of his Eighth and Ninth symphonies by the Pacific Symphony Orchestra with the Pacific Chorale showed an upbeat Beethoven to the crowd at the Santa Ana High School auditorium.

The concert, presented by the Orange County Philharmonic Society, also demonstrated to first-time listeners that the Pacific Symphony has potential to become a major musical force.

They're young (formed in 1977), energetic and beyond the status of new kid on the block.

Conductor Keith Clark led his group through a disciplined but happy Symphony No. 8 for the first half of the program, saving Symphony No. 9 (and the chorale) for last.

The result was an exciting performance, at times like a pipe organ played with all the stops out. The four soloists, Maurita Phillips-Thornburgh, Kathleen O'Brien, Frederic de Marseille and Richard Allen, joined the orchestra and chorale for the "Ode to Joy" finale which was just that — a joyous combination of religious inspiration and show business razzle-dazzle.

Whatever the orchestra's faults — a tendency to play a little too loud and too fast where the music calls for a quiet, thoughtful approach — they're typical of a young and enthusiastic group.

(The program's excellence only heightened the need for the new Orange County Performing Arts Center. The 80-piece orchestra and 140-voice chorale made things a bit crowded, especially for the soloists jammed onto the stage's front edge. No one should have to dodge violin and cello bows while trying to sing).

But everyone coped well, and the evening was a success. Perhaps more seasoning and a few more seasons will give the Pacific Symphony the wider recognition it deserves.

Beethoven concert

The 140-voice Pacific Chorale, formerly the Irvine Master Chorale, and the Pacific Symphony Orchestra will offer Orange County's premiere performance of Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis" on May 22.

John Alexander will conduct both groups for the concert, scheduled for 8:30 at the Santa Ana High School auditorium, and it will be the final presentation of the Pacific Chorale's concert season.

Soloists will be Lynn Cole-Adcock, soprano; Janet Smith, mezzo-soprano; Frederic de Marseille, tenor; and Michael Li-Paz, bass.

The concert is sponsored by the Irvine Company with a grant of $10,000 to the Pacific Chorale.

Tickets are priced at $5, $7 and $10 and are available by calling the chorale office at 542-1790 or can be ordered by mail through the Performing Arts Association of Orange County, P.O. Box 1891, Santa Ana, CA 92701.

... Costa Mesa skater

Kravette began skating at the age of 2, when her parents noted that she had "too much energy and no place to put it." She was competing by the age of 8, gradually working herself into the U.S. Figure Skating team.

That team, made up of this country's top 10 skaters, goes abroad each year to compete in the international games. She capped her competitive career in London in 1978, with a fifth place win in the world event.

In 1980 she tried out for the prestigious Ice

Capades show, and made it.

"I was really nervous during those try-outs," she remembers. "If I'd have known who was watching me, it would have been worse. It turned out to be the show's producer and the president of the company."

With the pressure of competition off, Kravette says she's enjoying skating more than ever.

"It's just great hearing a whole arena full of people responding to what you do," she said. "You can tell if you're bombing and you can tell if you're sweeping them off their feet. The best audiences are youth groups — Boy and Girl scouts — they go wild during our shows."

The Ice Capades show does some 360 shows during its 10-month touring season. The skaters live out of suitcases for the hectic season, sharing hotel rooms and eating on the run.

"When I get to another hotel room I just put up my posters and stuffed animals, and call it home. The travel is great. Sometimes I miss home and the suitcases get a little heavy. By the time Monday rolls around and you've done 10 shows that week, you want to sit in your room and vegetate. Behind the glamour of that show, there's a lot of work," she said.

Kravette is looking forward to her two months off when the show ends Sunday.

"I think I'll get a part-time job for the summer though," she said. "Last year I laid around on the beach and after a few weeks, well, it does get a little boring."

Good day for Irish set at UC Irvine

Irish pipe and harp musicians Joe and Antoinette McKenna will perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 5, at UC Irvine.

The husband-and-wife team plays the traditional ballads, jigs and laments of Ireland on uilleann pipes, tin whistle, harp and accordion.

Joe McKenna, two-time winner of the All-Ireland Pipers Championship, was raised in Dublin where he studied the Irish or uilleann bagpipe. His wife studied the harp and traditional singing styles in the Gaelic-speaking regions of the country.

Tickets are $5 general admission, $3 for UCI students and $4 for other students, senior citizens and UCI staff, faculty and alumni. For more information, call 833-6379.

H.B. artist wins watercolor award

By JEFF PARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huntington Beach watercolorist Linda Stevens accepted the American Watercolor Society's Gold Medal Award Saturday at an awards banquet in New York.

Her winning painting, a transparent watercolor called "Water Light No. 33," was chosen as the outstanding work from thousands of entries in the annual contest, the largest juried watercolor competition in the country.

The piece was originally shown in Orange County at the Laguna Beach Museum of Art in January and will return to the county in June for the Water Works invitational show at the Brea Cultural Center.

It is one of 36 works done by Stevens, dealing with the effects of light when it hits the water.

"I've been working on studies of ways that light interacts with water, the reflective and refractive properties of light," she said. "It's a representational piece that takes a little closer look at its subject than most paintings, a close-up of rocks and water and the way lights come off it."

Stevens was born in Michigan, moved to California with her family at the age of 6. She began taking art classes in Santa Ana public schools and was Art Yearbook Editor for Santa Ana High School as a senior.

Her first instruction in watercolor came at Occidental College. She was graduated from UCLA with a degree in art and later from Cal State Long Beach with a master's degree in fine arts.

She has been working in watercolors exclusively for six years and considers herself "hooked."

"Watercolor is considered to be one of the more difficult media," she said. "But once I started working in transparent watercolors I enjoyed the challenge and the beauty of the medium. I'm a methodical worker, and I think that helps in watercolor painting."

Studio Cafe offers good stuff inside

By JOEL C. DON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

STUDIO CAFE, 100 S. Main St., Balboa Peninsula. 675-7760. Dinner served from 5 to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 5 to 11 p.m. Friday through Sunday. Dinners from $7.95 to $11.95. Major credit cards.

The Studio Cafe has long been a favorite among jazz aficionados who appreciate an intimate pub featuring live entertainment seven nights a week.

Witness the lines that form outside on a Friday or Saturday evening and you'll have to figure there's good stuff inside.

It's a boisterous group and the management couldn't be more delighted that a strong following has emerged since the place opened six years ago.

If you arrive before 9 in the evening, there's quite a different scene. The music is classical (recorded) and the atmosphere quieter but just as casual.

The restaurant is in full swing serving up the Studio Cafe's rather simple but tasty menu offerings. You have a choice of four items: beef ribs, chicken breast, shrimp or a combination of ribs and chicken.

Manager Von Martt subsequently explained that the menu was planned for quality not quantity. But to give their bill of fare a little more variety, a fresh seafood offering is included in the Wednesday and Thursday evening menu. The catch ($8.95) can be red snapper, sand dabs, bluefish, scallops, scampi or Boston scrod — all, according to Martt, served fresh, not frozen.

The Studio Cafe puts special emphasis on an easygoing atmosphere. The waiters are clad in T-shirts and make special effort to have customers feel like good buddies rather than patrons. The interior is marked by stained glass, wood shingle walls and hanging plants.

Adjacent to the Balboa Peninsula boardwalk, the restaurant commands a picturesque view of Balboa Pier and beachgoers enjoying the return of the summer season.

Because of its prime peninsula location, parking can be a problem. On weekends, you should especially allow extra time to find a space.

My guest chose the beef ribs, ($8.95) cooked with a tangy barbecue sauce and served with a large crock of homemade baked beans. I chose the skewered shrimp ($11.95), marinated in soy sauce and ginger and served with raisin rice.

Dinner begins with a large serve-yourself bowl of salad with a creamy garlic dressing.

The ribs turned out to be the hit of the evening. I almost wished I'd changed my order upon seeing plates of succulent ribs served to others in the restaurant.

Martt explained the ribs, a house specialty always in popular demand, are trimmed of all exposed fat and boiled for three hours. They are then served to order, with last-minute baking in an oven with the barbecue sauce.

These are long beef-back ribs and a serving is generous enough to satiate even the largest of appetites.

The shrimp was lightly seasoned and broiled with onions, bell peppers and cherry tomatoes. Though I tasted the distinct flavor of soy sauce, I again missed out on the ginger.

— On canvas — Eidenberger in rare appearance

Josef Eidenberger, 83-year-old artist who is considered to be one of the world's foremost color etchers, will make a rare personal appearance in Orange County from 1 to 4 p.m., May 2.

The Austrian-born artist will be at Whitman's Galleries which is now exhibiting 200 of the prints he created by the intaglio multi-plate etching process. Whitman's is located at 3545 East Coast Highway in Corona del Mar.

Born in 1899 in Goisern, Austria, Eidenberger started his career as a landscape painter there. In 1923, he enrolled in the Graphic Academy of Art in Vienna and studied under some of the world's most accomplished artists.

Starting with copper engraving first, and then graduating to etching as a medium, Eidenberger's specialized studies soon brought him success, especially in the complicated process of color etching.

This will be his seventh visit to the United States. He has received many commissions here including the Bicentennial in Williamsburg, city commissions from Seattle, Denver, and New Orleans, and many of the nation's presidents' homes.

Eidenberger's art works capture the World charm and picturesque scenes of the European and American countryside. His softly-colored etchings can be found in countless galleries and print collections throughout the world.

For further information on Eidenberger's public appearance, contact Bonnie Whitman, (714) 675-2478.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE UNDER 30 TO LOVE PORKY'S

Mary Tradel, 32, Secretary
"I thought PORKY'S was really super. It was lighthearted and the good guys won."

Jack Clifton, 45, Mechanic
"I heard about PORKY'S from friends, but it was a lot funnier than I expected. And I think Porky got what he deserved."

Carole Steckley, 38 Savings Counselor
"I thought PORKY'S was great. I would take my 14-year-old to see it. And I'd recommend it to my friends."

Lyle Tradel, 38 Oil Company Manager
"I thought it was great from start to finish. I laughed all the way through it."

Country weekend slated

Knott's Berry Farm's "Academy of Country Music Awards Weekend" kicks off tonight through Saturday with country stars Eddy Raven and Terry Gregory topping the roster of performers.

Both country singers will perform in Knott's 2,100-seat Good Time Theater at 8 and 10 p.m. tonight and Saturday, with additional country entertainers appearing on the Cloud 9 stage throughout the weekend.

Among the singers will be Tex Williams, Eddie Dean, Billy Mize, Sue Thompson and Doye O'Dell, all performing their most popular country hits and backed by the award-winning Academy of Country Music All-Star Band.

Show times in the Cloud 9 will be 7:30 and 9:30 tonight and 7:30, 9 and 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

Knott's regular Townsfolk Country Band, along with wild west gunfighters and high-stepping cancan dancers will also entertain guests tonight and Saturday.

Operating hours for Knott's academy weekend will be until midnight tonight and from 10 a.m. to midnight Saturday.

Al Jarreau sets O.C. appearance

Jazz vocalist Al Jarreau will make his first Orange County appearance Sept. 10 at the Irvine Meadows Amphitheatre in Irvine.

Jarreau, who won two Grammy Awards this year, one for Best Pop Vocal Performance and one for Best Jazz Vocal Performance, will take the stage at 8 p.m.

Tickets go on sale Friday in the Irvine Meadows Box Office and at Ticketron agencies.

Others scheduled to appear at the Meadows this season include Eddie Rabbitt, Elton John, Lacey J. Dalton, Jimmy Buffet, Johnny Mathis, Barbara Mandrell and the Charlie Daniels Band.

AT CRAZY HORSE — Clyde and Bobbi Lucas will perform at the Crazy Horse Monday at 9:30 p.m. Backing them will be the Marine Kelp Cowboy Band. Appearing on the same program will be guest artist Charley D. Packard and Newport entertainer J.J. Mack.

Currently screening

A LITTLE SEX: Rated R, stars Tim Matheson, Kate Capshaw and Edward Herrmann in the story of a man who tries to be faithful but finds it hard. The R rating is for adult situations.

ATLANTIC CITY: Rated R, stars Burt Lancaster as an aging, bottom-rung ex-gangster who gets one last chance to make a big buck when he happens upon a large amount of cocaine, and one last chance at romance when he meets Susan Sarandon, a card dealer. Louis Malle directed this bit of whiney, written by John Guare. It's fresh, funny, and alive. The R rating is for violence and adult situations.

BODY HEAT: Rated R, starring William Hurt as a bungling, lovestruck attorney and Kathleen Turner as the femme fatale. This sexy, devious mystery takes place in a fictitious Florida town so hot that people in cafes order food two at a time. Directed by Lawrence Kasdan as an homage to film noir, the R rating comes from brief nudity, salty language and a general air of sleaziness.

CANNERY ROW: Rated PG, stars Nick Nolte and Debra Winger in a free-swinging film adaptation of John Steinbeck's stories "Cannery Row" and "Sweet Thursday." Shot on MGM sound stages, this movie has a sweet, enchanted look and fine performances by Nolte, Winger and Audra Lindley as the madame. Narrated by John Huston. The PG rating is for sexual adult situations.

CAT PEOPLE: Rate R, stars Nastassia Kinski and Malcolm McDowell in a tale of love, and the supernatural. Directed by Paul Schrader, music by Giorgio Moroder. The R rating is for sex and violence.

CHARIOTS OF FIRE: Rated PG and starring Ben Cross and Ian Charleson as runners in the 1924 Olympics, who run races for different reasons but manage to win just the same. The PG rating must be for its lofty themes: there is no nudity, no violence and very little offensive language.

DEATHTRAP: Rated PG, stars Christopher Reeve, Michael Caine and Dyan Cannon in a clever murder mystery about a washed up writer and a promising young author who pens a great mystery. The PG rating is for violence.

EVIL UNDER THE SUN: Rated PG, stars Peter Ustinov, Jane Birkin, Sylvia Miles, James Mason and Diana Rigg in Agatha Christie's tale of murder and intrigue. The PG rating is for adult situations.

THE FRENCH LIEUTENANT'S WOMAN: Rated R, stars Mary! Streep in the role of the heartbroken and heart-breaking French Lieutenant's woman and Jeremy Irons as the Victorian gentleman who gambles his love and reputation on her. The Victorian love story fable is intercut with another plot: the modern day film crew making a movie of "The French Lieutenant's Woman" has its own romantic dramas and downfalls which are meant to compare and contrast with the Victorian sequence. The R rating is for adult sexual situations.

MAKING LOVE: Rated R, stars Michael Ontkean, Kate Jackson and Harry Hamlin in a story about a woman, a man and his homosexual lover. The R rating is for adult situations and homosexuality.

MISSING: Rated PG, stars Jack Lemmon and Sissy Spacek as a man and his daughter in law who search for his missing son. The events are based on a true story in which a young American was apparently allowed to be killed in a Latin American country by forces friendly with the U.S. Government. The PG rating is for adult situations.

ON GOLDEN POND: Rated PG, stars Henry Fonda and Katharine Hepburn as an aging couple returning to live on Golden Pond. He's filled with anecdotes about death; she's interminably cheerful. They bicker politely until the arrival of their daughter (Jane Fonda), her latest boyfriend, Billy (played brilliantly by Debra Corman) and his 13-year-old boy. The PG rating is for language.

ONE FROM THE HEART: Rated R, takes place in a sound stage re-creation of Las Vegas and tells the story of 24 hours in the lives of two lovers. The film was directed by Francis Coppola, written by Amyrén Bernstein and Coppola, and stars Faye Dunaway, Teri Garr, Paul Julia and Nastassia Kinski. The R rating is for adult situations.

PERSONAL BEST: Rated R, stars Marcel Hinzberg and Patrick Dempsey in the story of two athletes vying for a bid in the 1980 Olympic bobsled team. It's a celebration of competition, friendship, good health and good looks, written, directed and produced by Robert Towne. The R rating is for nudity, homosexuality and adult situations.

PORETTY: Rated R, stars Kim Cattrall, Scott Colomby and Alex Kerria in a tale of boys growing up. The R rating is for nudity.

QUEST FOR FIRE: Rated R, is a look at prehistoric man and woman, complete with primitive language and a set of "body language" developed by anthropologist Desmond Morris. The film stars Everett McGill and Rae Dawn Chong. The R rating is for violence and sex.

REIDE: Rated PG, stars Warren Beatty as John Reed, the American journalist and Diane Keaton as Louise Bryant, who becomes his wife. This film runs well over three hours on a budget of over $20 million, and the loving care of Beatty, who also produced and directed, shows. The PG rating is for language and adult situations.

MASTERS: Rated PG, is an intelligent comic version of R. L. Stewards' 1975 novel, which features historical characters — Harry Shaw, Benedict Arnold, Evelyn Nesbit, J. P. Morgan — in 18th

the lives of what tries very hard to be a typical American family. Elizabeth McGovern gives a winning performance as the dreamy-eyed Nesbit and Howard E. Rollins is commanding as Coalhouse Walker, a black piano player who is abused by bigots and bureaucrats alike. The director, Milos Forman, had a difficult task in cutting the sprawling book into film shape, and he's done the job admirably. The PG rating is for nudity and some violence.

SHOOT THE MOON: Rated R, stars Albert Finney as George Dunlap, whose marriage to Faith (Diane Keaton) is on the rocks. They become involved with different people, and for the first time in years, seem to involve themselves again. It's an accurate, moving account of a break-up, more intuitive and precise than most movies on divorce. As their daughter, Sherry, Dana Hill is brilliant. Keaton gives the performance of a lifetime. The R rating is for adult situations.

SOME KIND OF HERO: Rated R, stars Richard Pryor as a down and out Marine who can't make his life go as he wants it to. The R rating is for language and adult situations.

VICTOR VICTORIA: Rated PG, stars Julie Andrews, Robert Preston and James Garner in a comedy about sexual identity and show biz. Directed by Blake Edwards, who also wrote the script. The R rating is for adult situations.

Witness labeled
'a liar'

From Wire Services
SOLEDAD — Inmate Robert Bell, who said he first associated with a witness against Sirhan Sirhan in Orange County Jail, labeled the witness "a chronic liar" Thursday.

Bell testified to the parole board about witness Lawrence Eugene Wilson, who had told the board Sirhan had threatened to kill Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Bell was the second witness of the day to dispute the death threat claim.

Sirhan, convicted assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has denied allegations of threats against the second Kennedy brother.

Bell, a convicted burglar, told Sirhan's parole board that key witness Wilson, is "a chronic liar" and "a prolific manipulator." The board is considering whether to rescind Sirhan's 1984 parole date.

Bell said Wilson approached him in 1978 and suggested he corroborate Wilson's story about the alleged Sirhan death threat.

"He wanted me to say I overheard him and Sirhan talking about political figures and that I heard him say he was going to assassinate Edward Kennedy after his (Sirhan's) release," Bell said.

Initially, Bell said he did tell that story to authorities but now claimed he was lying. When parole board member Loretta Collier referred to a previous statement by Bell quoting Sirhan as saying, "I ain't finished with him (Robert Kennedy) yet. I'll get his brother," Bell was adamant.

"He didn't say none of that," Bell said of Sirhan. Asked if he (See SIRHAN, Page A2)

Woman burned in crash

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A 65-year-old Huntington Beach woman who was pulled from a flaming Cadillac involved in a three-vehicle collision Thursday remained in critical condition today at UCI Medical Center.

A hospital spokeswoman said the victim, Selma Denktas, of 6811 Scenic Bay Lane, has second and third-degree burns over 35 percent of her body.

Huntington Beach police officer Randy Payne and several bystanders were credited with rescuing Mrs. Denktas from the vehicle after it flipped over and burst into flames during a mishap at 9:11 a.m. at GoldenWest

Street and Garfield Avenue.

Four others received minor injuries in the collision, police said.

Huntington Beach traffic officer J. C. Dowling reconstructed the accident this way:

Esin Denktas, 29, was northbound on Golden West with her mother, Colingil Suat, 54, and her mother-in-law, Selma Denktas, as passengers in the Cadillac. All live at the same Scenic Bay Lane address.

Witnesses told police the Cadillac entered the intersection and was struck broadside by a Mercedes driven by Julia Marie Lammano, 36, of 5541 Ridgebury Drive, Huntington Beach.

Upon impact, the Cadillac skidded out of control, struck a motorcyclist, sheared off a fire hydrant, sending a gusher 25 feet skyward, knocked over a traffic light pole, flipped on its roof and burst into flames.

Esin Denktas and Mrs. Suat were able to crawl out of the vehicle, but the elder Mrs. Denktas was trapped in the back seat until Officer Payne and some bystanders broke the windows and pulled her to safety.

Ms. Lammano, the driver of the Mercedes, Ronald Lee Stude, 24, of Huntington Beach, who was riding the motorcycle, and the two women who freed themselves from the Cadillac were all treated at local hospitals and released.

VICTIMS SAFE — Huntington Beach police officer Keith Nale examines the wreckage of a Cadillac which crashed and burned at Golden West Street and Garfield Avenue Thursday. Three women were pulled from the burning car, one of whom was critically injured.

Youth ruled
Little League

National Little League officials have ruled that 12-year-old Arri Buford is eligible to continue playing baseball in the Fountain Valley North league.

The decision is expected to end a residency dispute surrounding the youngster.

Mike Engel, president of Fountain Valley North, said national Little League officials in Williamsport, Pa., notified him late this week of their decision that Arri is eligible.

Thomas L. Brown, attorney for the Buford family, has indicated the family will drop its lawsuit against Little League as soon as written confirmation of the decision is received.

Arri is expected to be playing with his team the Astros on Saturday at the Lighthouse Lane field in Fountain Valley.

U.S. cuts export, aid to Argentina

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. announced economic sanctions and the suspension of military exports to Argentina today and said the United States would "respond positively to requests for materiel support" for Britain in the crisis over the Falkland Islands.

"There will of course be no direct U.S. military involvement," Haig said in announcing the sanctions ordered by President Reagan after Argentina on Thursday rejected anew U.S. efforts to mediate the dispute.

Haig said while he pressed the effort at mediation, the United States refrained from taking sides in the crisis, and Britain understood that position.

"Now, however, in light of Argentina's failure to accept a compromise, we must take concrete steps to underscore that the United States cannot and will not condone the use of unlawful force to resolve disputes," he said.

Argentina invaded the British-held islands April 2, and the British sent their fleet to the South Atlantic to mount a blockade that took full effect at 4 a.m., PDT today.

Even as he announced American support for Britain, "our closest ally," Haig said that in the end there will have to be a negotiated settlement of the territorial dispute over the sparsely populated islands 250 miles off the Argentina coast.

"Otherwise we will all face unending hostility and insecurity in the South Atlantic," Haig said.

He began by saying that the crisis was entering "a new and dangerous phase in which large-scale military action is likely."

He reviewed what he called an "extraordinary effort" by the United States to find a peaceful solution, an effort that sent him shuttling between London and Buenos Aires.

Haig said the United States had proposed "a fair and sound" settlement that would have included an end to hostilities, military withdrawal by both sides, creation of an interim British-Argentine-U.S. authority to administer the islands and the creation of a framework for negotiations to determine the final settlement.

SIRHAN HEARING . . .

heard a conversation about Kennedy, he said, "No, I didn't." Bell said he agreed to lie for Wilson when the two of them were together at the Orange County Jail because Wilson convinced him he had "juice" and could influence authorities to be lenient with Bell, who was then awaiting trial.

"He was always buddy-buddy and asked me if I needed anything," he said of Wilson. But later he said he learned that Wilson was known throughout the prison system as a liar.

"Everybody knows Larry Wilson is a chronic liar," he testified. Asked if Sirhan ever discussed politics, he said no.

"He didn't talk to hardly anybody," he said. "He was just by himself."

Asked who Sirhan's closest friend was, he said: "Himself."

Asked if he might be getting something for this testimony, he replied: "I ain't gettin' nothin'."

Earlier, William "Old Man" Kogan, 60, said Sirhan, whom he considered a friend, was the target of opportunistic prisoners who sought to make points for themselves by wheeling Sirhan's life story out of him and embellishing it.

ved temporarily to Detroit for medical treatment.

Arri, however, was living in Fountain Valley with a family friend during December and January, when Little League registration for the current season was conducted, Engel said.

With strong pitching and hitting, Arri helped the Astros reach first place.

The Veterans Administration recently relocated the Buford family to Garden Grove, and some rival coaches protested that Arri was not eligible to play in Fountain Valley North.

But league president Engel said the national decision apparently hinges on the fact that eligibility is determined by where a youth was living at the time of registration.

Now that the decision was reached, Engel said he hopes local Little League participants can return to concentrating on the game.

"I hate to see what this has done to our league," he said. "I'd like to get it behind us and just go back to playing baseball."

Onofre leak solved

Problems that caused a non-radioactive leak to a nuclear power plant in San Onofre have been identified and corrected, Southern California Edison Co. reported Thursday.

Water from the reactor's cooling system escaped Wednesday from Unit 2 of the San Onofre Nuclear Generating Station, which is undergoing startup testing. Such leakage is common to the startup procedure in any large power plant, company spokesman David Barron said.

County jobless rate expected to rise

Although Orange County's jobless rate remained unchanged through March, unemployment is expected to swell in the county by June when college graduates flood the job market, according to Employment Development Department figures released Thursday.

According to labor market analyst Alta Yetter, the county's 6.1 percent jobless rate "still compares very favorably" to the March unemployment rates for the state and the nation — 9.4 and 9 percent respectively.

The EDD figures indicated that 73,000 Orange County residents were out of work in March, compared to 72,000 in February. The unemployment rate remained unchanged because the size of the labor market increased.

The March 1982 rate compared to an unemployment rate of 4.3 percent posted in March of last year in Orange County.

Ms. Yetter said the outlook for the future isn't bright, predicting that the jobless rate will rise considerably in future months because of near-certain layoffs in manufacturing.

She said that the increased hiring in trade and service industries probably will not offset the layoffs.

'Alabama' tops country music

Mandrell, Haggard share best vocalist awards

By The Associated Press

The rocking country band called Alabama was the big winner at the 17th annual Academy of Country Music awards, taking two honors in addition to being named entertainers of the year.

Barbara Mandrell was named top female vocalist Thursday night, Merle Haggard won top male vocalist, and the duo of David Frizzell and Shelly West won top vocal duo and song of the year, for "You're the Reason God Made Oklahoma," in the ceremony at Knott's Berry Farm.

Alabama, which less than two years ago was playing a bar in Myrtle Beach, S.C., claimed "Hat" trophies for top vocal group and album of the year for their "Feels So Right." A year ago, the band won the top vocal group award.

"I think the academy just kind of leads the way," said lead singer Randy Owen. "It's a great honor. Last year we did 300 days on the road and we're glad all the people listened."

Miss Mandrell's top female vocalist award marked her fourth honor from the Los Angeles-based academy.

"You've been very, very good to me for a very long time," the singer told the audience of 2,000 at the Buena Park amusement park.

Haggard was not on hand to claim his best male vocalist trophy — his 14th Hat trophy and his sixth for male vocalist.

Juice Newton was another absentee winner in the best new female vocalist category. But Ricky Skaggs said, "Thank you, Lord" as he collected his award for best new male vocalist.

The Oak Ridge Boys, gospel singers turned country, won the single record of the year award for "Elvira." The song is the subject of a $10 million federal lawsuit by members and survivors of the Rivingtons, who claim that the "Oo-papa-mau-mau" refrain of "Elvira" was stolen from a Rivingtons hit.

However, in accepting the best single award, Oak Ridge Boy Joe Bonsall said without referring to the lawsuit that the band had first heard "Elvira" sung by a group in Texas a few years ago.

"If we knew the name of that little group in Texas we'd buy them a Cadillac," Bonsall said.

The Clint Eastwood film "Any Which Way You Can" became the first winner of the newly-created Tex Ritter award for country motion picture of the year. That award was presented by Ritter's sons, "Three's Company" star John Ritter and his brother Tom.

12 die in hotel fire

Several others injured in leap from windows

By The Associated Press

HOBOKEN, N.J. — A fire of suspicious origin raced through a four-story residential hotel before dawn today, killing 12 people and injuring several others who leaped from windows to escape the flames.

One woman at a top floor window tossed her baby into the arms of two men down below, before she jumped herself.

Deputy Fire Chief Edward McDonald said "an empty container of unknown substance was removed from the building. Something was there that shouldn't have been."

Officials said 31 people, including 13 children were in the Pinters Hotel at the time of the fire.

Economic index declines again

WASHINGTON — The government's Index of Leading Indicators, an important gauge of future economic activity, fell for the 11th straight month in March, the Commerce Department reported today.

The 0.5 percent decline in the index was the same as in February, hardly an encouraging sign that the recession might be nearing an end.

The index is designed to forecast economic trends one month or more in advance.

World's Fair opens Saturday

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Trucks and backhoes, painters and food vendors rushed around the grounds of the 1982 World's Fair early today, putting on the finishing touches for the weekend opening of the festivities expected to draw 100,000 people to town.

The first world's fair since 1975 and the first ever in the Southeast opens Saturday for a six-month run. President Reagan and his wife, Nancy, will be on hand.

Cop killer loses parole bid

SACRAMENTO — The state parole board has canceled the June 13 parole of "Onion Field" killer Gregory Powell, saying there is new evidence he would be dangerous if released.

Powell, 48, and a companion were convicted in the March 1963 slaying of Los Angeles police officer Dan Campbell in a field near Bakersfield. The killing and prolonged trial were dramatized in Joseph Wambaugh's book and film "The Onion Field."

The panel, in a unanimous decision, cited a new psychiatric evaluation of Powell last December and five escape attempts.

State closes San Diego bank

SAN DIEGO — Pacific Coast Bank, under investigation by banking examiners and the FBI for the past month, has been closed by the state, becoming San Diego County's first bank failure since 1973.

The closure came after week-long efforts for a merger fell through, forcing State Banking Superintendent Richard Dominguez to declare insolvency.

In announcing the closure, Dominguez said an examination disclosed the bank had "substantial losses which resulted in an impairment of capital."

Cranston protests immigration raids

LOS ANGELES — Suspected illegal aliens arrested during a week-long immigration crackdown are "scapegoats for the Reagan administration's failed economic policies," U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston charged, demanding the raids stop.

"There is evidence that the raids are sowing dangerous seeds of racial and ethnic conflict in California," the state Democrat said in a wire Thursday to U.S. Attorney General William French Smith.

IN COURT — Reginald and Margaret de la Cuesta of Huntington Beach are central figures in a landmark real estate mortgage case.

Huntington couple in landmark case

By ROBERT BARKER

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A Huntington Beach man and his wife are central figures in a court case that could have a big impact on the way Americans buy and sell real estate.

THEY ARE Reginald "Reg" and Margaret de la Cuesta. They have just returned from Washington D.C. after hearing opening arguments in their case Wednesday at the U.S. Supreme Court.

At stake, lawyers say, is the future of assumable mortgages. The case involves the purchase of the Yorktown shopping center on Beach Boulevard by the de la Cuestas in 1977.

The de la Cuestas intended to assume the existing loan of 9.25 percent from Fidelity Federal Savings & Loan of Glendale

HOWEVER, FIDELITY claimed that the balance of the trust deed was due on sale of the property.

When the de la Cuestas refused to pay the balance and take out a new loan at higher interest, Fidelity began foreclosure proceedings. The de la Cuestas got an injunction and the matter has been in the courts ever since.

An Orange County Superior Court judge supported Fidelity's due-on-sale demand, but California's 4th District Court of Appeal backed the Huntington Beach couple.

The California Supreme Court declined to hear the case and Fidelity appealed to the Supreme Court.

"WE SURE didn't know where this all would lead us 4½ years ago, but we have gone this far and we'll see it to the end," de la Cuesta said.

Mrs. de la Cuesta said they are carrying on the battle for other property owners and buyers.

"If we don't win, a person won't be able to sell property because of high interest rates."

"And even if people are willing, they probably won't qualify because of the higher rates," she said.

THE DE LA CUESTAS' attorney, Fred Crane, said the Supreme Court is ruling on whether a federally chartered savings and loan association can prevent a property buyer from assuming an existing, low interest mortgage on the property and instead force him or her to take out a new loan at higher interest. A decision is expected this summer.

State chartered associations have been forbidden to require a new loan when a home changes hands under a 1978 ruling by the California Supreme Court known as the Wellenkamp decision.

He wants phone in grave

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — After waiting 13 years, a 63-year-old man has given up hope of getting a telephone installed at home and asked the telephone company to put one in his grave instead.

The Daily Milliyet reported that Ahmet Dereboy first made his application for a telephone to the postal authority which handles such requests, 13 years ago. He was given a number — but no phone — and told to wait his turn.

Recently, he was told there would be opening for new phone exchanges in his neighborhood, but that earlier applicants had priority.

Gay LA regent seated

By JEFF ADLER

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The first openly homosexual person named as a University of California regent won confirmation in the state Senate Thursday when Sen. Paul Carpenter, D-Cypress, cast the deciding 21st vote.

Los Angeles attorney Sheldon Andelson, a 51-year-old gay activist, civic leader and bank chairman, won confirmation by the minimum 21 votes required after several earlier roll call votes fell short.

Carpenter, seeking the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate, said he reluctantly cast the deciding ballot so that Sen. Joseph Montoya, D-Whittier, would not have to leave his sickbed in order to vote.

Montoya had indicated he would vote "aye" on Andelson's appointment if he were present.

Of the 10 votes cast against Andelson, two came from Democrats and eight from GOP lawmakers. The two Democrats said they opposed the appointment because of Andelson's sexual preference.

Carpenter termed his vote a "courtesy vote" and said, "On the natural, I don't think I would have voted for him, although I think he's qualified to serve on the Board of Regents."

He added he did not expect his vote would help draw support for his U.S. Senate bid from the gay community.

Also approved by the Senate were attorney and former U.S. Rep. Yvonne Brathwaite Burke and San Francisco attorney Jeremiah Hallisey. Both were confirmed as regents by wider margins than Andelson.

The appointments were made by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. Andelson and Hallisey both are members of Brown's U.S. Senate Campaign steering committee.

In opposing Andelson's appointment to the board, Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-Chino, commented, "I was told this man should be admired because he came out of the closet when it was not popular. I don't think that it's popular now — at least not in my district."

On the other hand, Senate President Pro Tem David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, argued that it was "a shame that sex became the overriding consideration" in some senators' minds.

"If you look at his background, he would be the kind of person everybody would vote for," Roberti said.

Truck tips, clogs freeway

One of the most congested stretches of the Santa Ana Freeway was even more congested this morning after a delivery truck tipped over, forcing closure of a ramp to the southbound Newport Freeway.

The accident occurred about 7 a.m. and prompted the California Highway Patrol to issue a signal.

A CHP spokesman said northbound traffic along the freeway was backed up for several miles as a result of the accident.

The truck was loaded with wooden pallets and some plants, the spokesman said.

AT YOUR SERVICE

Keep your tax records

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

DEAR PAT: When a taxpayer receives a refund check, does that mean the return has been accepted and there is no longer a need to worry about keeping receipts? Also, my refund check was not the amount I expected. Why is this?

K.E., Huntington Beach

Even if you have received your refund check, Internal Revenue Service says this does not mean the return has been accepted without question. It is still subject to audit for three years from the deadline for filing. For example, receipts and records for the return filed by April 15, 1982 should be kept until April 15, 1985.

The change in your refund check can be the result of a correction to arithmetic, or it could be because part of your refund has been applied to pay a balance due for another year. In any event, you will be receiving a letter from the Fresno Service Center within two weeks explaining the difference.

Both sides need to be aired

DEAR PAT: I'm a member of a special interest organization. I'm upset about a television program I saw which only represented the opinions of the other side. Isn't the station obligated to air opposing views?

K.E., Fountain Valley

Yes, stations are legally required to air opposing sides of controversial issues of public importance. However, there is no requirement that both points of view be included in the same program, or even the same program series, as long as a reasonable opportunity for contrasting views is provided.

Book offer questionable

DEAR PAT: In yesterday's mail I received a postal card offering "The (Our Last Name) Family Heritage Book" for a limited time only at $27.85. The card states: "This long lasting family treasure is hard leather texture bound, stamped and embossed in gold, serially numbered and registered to owner, and if not entirely pleased with her work, refund is guaranteed within 10 days." I realize our last name is unusual, but I wonder if this is a worthwhile offer.

E.T., Balboa

Similar offers that AYS has run across over the years turn out to be vinyl books with gold-colored lettering that contain a brief history of a family name. Usually they are not worth the price asked. If you are interested in the history of your family name, there are plenty of books in the library that can provide background.

"Got a problem? Then write to Pat Horowitz. Pat will cut red tape, getting the answers and action you need to solve inequities in government and business. Mail your questions to Pat Horowitz, At Your Service, Orange Coast Daily Pilot, P.O. Box 1560, Costa Mesa, CA 92626. As many letters as possible will be answered, but phoned inquiries or letters not including the reader's full name, address and business hours' phone number cannot be considered."

Oregon 'deports' refugees

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's welfare chief has complained that Oregon advised 5,000 jobless Indochinese refugees to move to California where they could collect welfare, the Sacramento Union reported.

A telephone hot line told refugees in Oregon "if you want a job, go to Oklahoma City or Houston. If you want to go to school or go on welfare, go to California," according to Marion Woods, director of the California Department of Social Services.

He said the Oregon hot line also offered the refugees travel money.

The Union reported Thursday that Woods made the statement in Washington, where he attended a congressional hearing on refugee funding problems Wednesday.

He said the Oregon hot line message supplemented a letter sent to the Indochinese refugees April 1 by Keith Putnam, assistant director of human resources for Oregon.

The letter said: "I am sorry to say that for many of you, the best advice I can give you is to move to another state where your job prospects are better and where federal refugee program funding continues to be available to refugees who have been in the U.S. over 1 1/2 years."

It referred them to the hot line for more information.

The letter was sent two weeks ago after 2,000 Hmong tribesmen began moving from Oregon to California's Central Valley upon hearing that farm jobs were available.

Putnam, contacted by the Union in Salem, Ore., acknowledged that the letter and hot line message were too strong, and said the hot line message has been changed, the newspaper said.

In Sacramento, Shawn Ortiz, a spokesman for Woods, said a delegation of Hmong tribesmen from Oregon was scheduled to meet with state refugee officials.

Ortiz said part of the problem is that the federal government, which had been supporting refugees for the first 36 months, recently ruled that after 18 months employable adults would get federal help only in those states where they are eligible for local welfare.

California has a local welfare program, differing in each of the 58 counties, but Oregon does not.

Ortiz said that by law California cannot deny the refugees welfare or food stamps.

Kansas gets 'Yellow Brick Road'

A Kansas lawmaker has proved once again that when it comes to legislative priorities, there's no place like home.

With a touch of parliamentary wizardry, House Majority Leader Robert Frey convinced lawmakers to designate U.S. 54 across southern Kansas "The Yellow Brick Road." The route passes through Liberal, which Frey represents and where there is a tourist attraction called "Dorothy's House."

Kansas was the state where Dorothy, the young heroine of "The Wizard of Oz," caught a tornado and was whisked away to the land of wicked witches and munchkins.

Las Vegas hotel officials denied that a Seattle man who won a $400,000 jackpot was provided with girls or that he poured most of the earnings back into the hotel's slot machines. Cecil Burns, 56, who won the largest slot jackpot in the city's history April 3, surfaced in his hometown of Seattle saying he put $300,000 of his winnings back in the slots "trying to hit another $400,000."

Burns told The Seattle Times that bell captains at the Circus Circus Hotel in Las Vegas provided him with "the best-looking girls in the world."

Comedian Rodney Dangerfield's trademark white shirt and red tie soon will hang in a respectable place alongside Jimmy Durante's hat and Archie Bunker's armchair at the National Museum of American History.

The comic who claims he "don't get no respect" donated the shirt and tie to the Smithsonian Institution's collection of memorabilia from prominent American entertainers.

"This is a big thing. I only got two shirts, you know," quipped Dangerfield, who wore an open-collared green shirt with a black suit for the laugh-filled presentation ceremony at the museum.

Hawaii's representative to the Miss USA pageant had a $7,000 necklace and solid gold pendant ripped off her neck during a sightseeing tour of mid-Manhattan, police said.

Vanessa DuBois, Miss Hawaii, told police she and four other contestants were crossing Lexington Avenue at 49th Street at the time.

Country music singer Shelly West has given birth to a 7-pound, 2-ounce girl named Tess Marie in Nashville.

The father is Allen Frizzell, lead guitarist in the band that plays for Miss West and her singing partner, David Frizzell. The Frizzells are brothers and younger brothers of the late singing star Lefty Frizzell. Miss West is the daughter of Dottie West, a singing partner of Kenny Rogers.

Several Hollywood actors, writers and producers are looking to the courts to prove their claim that studios cheat them when TV series or movies are syndicated, according to TV Guide.

Fess Parker, star of the "Daniel Boone" TV series, sued one studio for $48 million, alleging "there is a systematic, well thought out program of fraud and deceit" in a process used to determine if a syndicated show is profitable, said an article in the magazine.

James Garner, star of TV's "The Rockford Files," said he has not received any of the show's reported $52 million profit and is considering suing, according to the magazine.

Comedian Milton Berle, retired Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter Pitchess and other would-be poker parlor operators accuse City of Commerce officials of stacking the deck against them in favoring a Nevada corporation for the license.

The City Council still has to approve a club site and awaits results of a sheriff's department background check, but Commerce Club Inc. appears to hold the upper hand in the deal. Its officers include a blackjack dealer and card room manager at Las Vegas' MGM Grand Hotel.

Clock plant to wind down

THOMASTON, Conn. (AP) — Workers reacted angrily to news that the Seth Thomas clock factory here will be closed in November and its operations consolidated with a Westclox factory near Atlanta.

E.T. Ryan, president of General Time Inc., called the Thomaston facility outdated and inefficient. He said operating costs would be lower in Georgia.

The factory, which gave this town its name, employs 175 people, most of whom will lose their jobs.

Mesa builder reports loss

Standard-Pacific Corp., a Costa Mesa-based homebuilding firm, announced the company's first quarterly operating loss in its 21-year history.

Net loss for the quarter ended March 31 was $1,145,594, or 29 cents per share, compared to net income of $900,962, or 23 cents, last year.

The company's board of directors reduced the quarterly cash dividend from 17 1/2 cents per share to 5 cents per share. The cash dividend will be paid July 15 to shareholders of record on July 5.

Fluor gets China coal deal

China National Coal Development Corp., a unit of the Ministry of Coal Industry, and Fluor Mining &amp; Metals Inc., a subsidiary of Fluor Corp., jointly announced the signing of a contract to modernize and expand the Fushun West open pit mine in Liaoning province.

The contract, the first of its kind for China's coal industry, calls for increasing production to 5 million tons per year of coal and 8 million tons per year of oil shale. The scope of Fluor's work includes engineering and design services associated with mine planning, equipment selection and modernization of materials handling.

Total value of the project would be approximately U.S. $50 million if performed in the United States. The value of FM&amp;M's services was not disclosed.

Bank directors named

A group of Orange County business and financial executives have been elected directors of Enterprise National Bank (in organization).

Elected were George S. McCan, M.D.; Roger C. Porter; Geoffrey L. Stack; Kathryn G. Thompson; and Ernest C. Wilson, Jr.

They will be joined on the board by President Timothy Peralta and Robert N. Manley, executive vice president. Enterprise National Bank plans to locate in the Warmington Plaza.

Crocker relocates

Crocker Bank has moved its Huntington Beach banking office to 19840 Beach Boulevard in the Newland Shopping Center.

Merger announced

American State Bank, Newport Beach, announced it executed a merger agreement for the previously announced sale of 100 percent of its outstanding stock to a newly formed company owned by Dr. Tsai Ming Yu of Tokyo, Japan.

The agreement will be submitted to shareholders for approval within 60 days.

The purchase price of $10.50 per share will be payable $6 in cash and $4.50 in promissory notes, bearing interest at 13 percent per annum.

Contract awarded

Business Parks/South Division of KACOR Development Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation, announced the award of a construction contract to Gentosi Bros., Inc. for the Huntington Plaza, the 25,000 square foot office building will be located at Boisa Avenue and Dan Lane in the Huntington Beach Business Park.

It is scheduled for completion in November.

NOTICE OF DEATH OF EFFIE C. MAHANY, AKA EFFIE CLAIRE MAHANY, AKA EFFIE C. WADE-MAHANY AND OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE NO. A113239.

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors and contingent creditors of Effie C. Mahany and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will and/or estate:

A petition has been filed by Jean T. McArthur in the Superior Court of Orange County requesting that Jean T. McArthur be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of Effie C. Mahany (under the Independent Administration of Estates Act). The petition is set for hearing in Dept. No. 3 at 700 Civic Center Drive, West, in the City of Santa Ana, California on May 26, 1982 at 9:30 a.m.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should either appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court or present it to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Section 700 of the Probate Code of California. The time for filing claims will not expire prior to four months from the date of the hearing noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are interested in the estate, you may file a request with the court to receive special notice of the inventory of estate assets and of the petitions, accounts and reports described in Section 7200.5 of the California Probate Code.

South Laguna annexation due?

By STEVE MITCHELL

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Laguna Beach City Council says it will consider bringing all of South Laguna into the city, including Three Arch Bay.

And the council will take another look at rezoning a portion of South Laguna from the current city limits at Dumond Drive to Aliso Creek as a prelude to annexation.

Several property owners in the area say they oppose both notions.

The smaller annexation was requested a year ago by residents of the Treasure Island Mobile Home Park. They fear they would lose their units should the county approve a high rise time-share project planned for the 24-acre parcel.

The county's Local Agency Formation Commission postponed a decision on the annexation proposal until this summer, saying the city's general zoning provisions are too restrictive.

The commission instructed the city to meet with developers at Treasure Island, and Hobo Canyon property owners, in an attempt to work out an agreement whereby the "integrity of county planning decisions" is preserved.

City zoning laws prohibit buildings higher than three stories. The plan for Treasure Island also includes grading provisions that do not match Laguna's ordinances.

In addition, a zone change for the proposed 700-unit project at Hobo Canyon also conflicts with city codes in relation to density and grading.

City officials have met with representatives of both developers and have proposed zoning which the city claims is compa-table to the existing county zoning.

City Manager Ken Frank said the city has even proposed guarantees that would see that comparable zoning remain in effect for three years after annexation.

But both developers have balked at the suggestion.

Frank will suggest that the council prezone the initial annexation area and again offer guarantees to the two major landholders.

In addition, he will ask the council to investigate the costs and benefits associated with an annexation of the entire South Laguna area into the city.

If it is shown that there are benefits to Laguna by bringing all of South Laguna into the city the council could pursue that option when the LAFC meets again on the issue this summer, city officials said.

Inmate says U.S. cuts exports, Sirhan foe liar

From Wire Services

SOLEDAD — Inmate Robert Bell, who said he first associated with a witness against Sirhan Sirhan in Orange County Jail, labeled the witness "a chronic liar" Thursday.

Bell testified to the parole board about witness Lawrence Eugene Wilson, who had told the board Sirhan had threatened to kill Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Bell was the second witness of the day to dispute the death threat claim.

Sirhan, convicted assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has denied allegations of threats against the second Kennedy brother.

Bell, a convicted burglar, told Sirhan's parole board that key witness Wilson, is "a chronic liar" and "a prolific manipulator."

The board is considering whether to rescind Sirhan's 1984 parole date.

Bell said Wilson approached him in 1978 and suggested he corroborate Wilson's story about the alleged Sirhan death threat.

"He wanted me to say I overheard him and Sirhan talking (See SIRHAN, Page A2)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. announced economic sanctions and the suspension of military exports to Argentina today and said the United States would "respond positively to requests for materiel support" for Britain in the crisis over the Falkland Islands.

"There will of course be no direct U.S. military involvement," Haig said in announcing the sanctions ordered by President Reagan after Argentina on Thursday rejected anew U.S. efforts to mediate the dispute.

Haig said while he pressed the effort at mediation, the United States refrained from taking sides in the crisis, and Britain understood that position.

"Now, however, in light of Argentina's failure to accept a compromise, we must take concrete steps to underscore that the United States cannot and will not condone the use of unlawful force to resolve disputes," he said.

Argentina invaded the British-held islands April 2, and the British sent their fleet to the South Atlantic to mount a blockade that took full effect at 4 a.m., PDT today.

Even as he announced American support for Britain, "our closest ally," Haig said that in the end there will have to be a negotiated settlement of the territorial dispute over the sparsely populated islands 250 miles off the Argentina coast.

"Otherwise we will all face unending hostility and insecurity in the South Atlantic," Haig said.

He began by saying that the crisis was entering "a new and dangerous phase in which large-scale military action is likely."

He reviewed what he called an "extraordinary effort" by the United States to find a peaceful solution, an effort that sent him shuttling between London and Buenos Aires.

Haig said the United States had proposed "a fair and sound" settlement that would have included an end to hostilities, military withdrawal by both sides, creation of an interim British-Argentine-U.S. authority to administer the islands and the creation of a framework for negotiations to determine the final settlement.

Jobless toll to increase in county?

Although Orange County's jobless rate remained unchanged through March, unemployment is expected to swell in the county by June when college graduates flood the job market, according to Employment Development Department figures released Thursday.

According to labor market analyst Alta Yetter, the county's 6.1 percent jobless rate "still compares very favorably" to the March unemployment rates for the state and the nation — 9.4 and 9 percent respectively.

The EDD figures indicated that 73,000 Orange County residents were out of work in March, compared to 72,000 in February. The unemployment rate remained unchanged because the size of the labor market increased.

The March 1982 rate compared to an unemployment rate of 4.3 percent posted in March of last year in Orange County.

Ms. Yetter said the outlook for the future isn't bright, predicting that the jobless rate will rise considerably in future months because of near-certain layoffs in manufacturing.

Extra parking set for El Toro show

The Marines at El Toro are providing extra parking areas for the expected 350,000 visitors to Saturday and Sunday's open house and air show.

A new parking area will be available for visitors near the Marine base golf course, and shuttle buses will be provided to transport viewers to and from the air show.

Other parking areas include an area near the station picnic grounds, two areas along the flight line near Building #6 and another near Gate 9.

For those who want to park near the golf course and catch a ride to the show, take the San Diego Freeway to Lake Forest, head east to Trabuco Road and turn left.

SIRHAN HEARING...

about political figures and that I heard him say he was going to assassinate Edward Kennedy after his (Sirhan's) release," Bell said.

Initially, Bell said he did tell that story to authorities but now claimed he was lying. When parole board member Loretta Collier referred to a previous statement by Bell quoting Sirhan as saying, "I ain't finished with him (Robert Kennedy) yet. I'll get his brother," Bell was adamant.

"He didn't say none of that," Bell said of Sirhan. Asked if he heard a conversation about Kennedy, he said, "No, I didn't."

Bell said he agreed to lie for Wilson when the two of them were together at the Orange County Jail because Wilson convinced him he had "juice" and could influence authorities to be lenient with Bell, who was then awaiting trial.

"He was always buddy-buddy and asked me if I needed anything," he said of Wilson. But later he said he learned that Wilson was known throughout the prison system as a liar.

"Everybody knows Larry Wilson is a chronic liar," he testified. Asked if Sirhan ever discussed politics, he said no.

"He didn't talk to hardly anybody," he said. "He was just by himself."

PREGNANT ASTRONAUT — Rhea Seddon Gibson and her husband Robert, both astronauts, have announced that they are expecting a baby late this summer. Mrs. Gibson is the first member of the astronaut corps to become pregnant.

President's speech had little insight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's aides cautiously let out advance word that his speech to the nation would have "some new ideas."

But in the end there was little new in what he said Thursday night.

Reagan's nationally broadcast speech delivered from the Oval Office:

- Offered no changes in his proposal to break the budget deadlock.
- Offered no new proposals for altering the debate and procedure under which the Congress will tackle his 1983 spending plan.

Reagan endorsed a proposed Constitutional amendment, pending in the House and Senate, that generally would require Congress to approve a balanced budget in the future, except in wartime. It would take a three-fifths vote of each chamber to approve a deficit budget any other time.

But even that step reflected Reagan's long-standing support for the balanced budget concept. He said at a March 31 news conference that he liked the idea, adding the caveat that it "must also carry with it a limitation on taxes."

That tax condition was missing from his speech Thursday evening.

The president sought to re-employ a tactic that worked extremely well for him a year ago: Encouraging the people of the nation to apply pressure, through letters and telegrams and telephone calls to their representatives in Congress.

NEWS ANALYSIS

After repeating many of the economic arguments he has made in the past, he told his audience: "Make your voice heard; let your representatives know that you support the kind of fair, effective approach I have outlined for you tonight. Let them know that you stand behind our recovery program. You did it once, you can do it again."

Within a little more than one hour after the speech, 1,313 telephone calls were received showing support for the president and 261 opposing him, a White House press office statement said.

In writing a final draft in longhand on a yellow legal-size pad, Reagan apparently rejected advice that he turn a harsh tongue on the Democratic leadership.

As he put the final touches on a speech that aides earlier in the day predicted would be a tough attack on his opposition, he apparently chose to try a softer sell.

As White House officials told it Thursday morning, Reagan was planning to use the speech to "blame the Democrats... for the failure to reach an agreement" on the budget.

"He'll say that the people who contributed to the economic problems we see today are standing in the way of solving them, one aide predicted.

And a well-connected lobbyist, summarizing a White House briefing he had received, predicted: "He's going to really take the gloves off."

But that didn't happen.

Raid brings quest by job seekers

More than 20 would-be workers showed up at the B.P. John furniture plant in Santa Ana today seeking to fill jobs formerly held by suspected undocumented workers removed Thursday by federal agents.

An employee said the firm's personnel office was busy handling applications this morning in the wake of the raid in which 130 workers were taken into custody. Immigration and Naturalization Service and Border Patrol agents descended on the plant at 2001 E. Dyer Road as part of the week-long "Operation Jobs" campaign being conducted nationwide.

The purpose of the operation is to remove undocumented workers from jobs, thus making the positions available to people who are either U.S. citizens or are in the county legally, officials say.

Thursday's enforcement action in Orange County also led to the detention of 52 people employed at the West American Rubber Co., 750 N. Main St., Orange.

A switchboard operator said the firm would have no comment on the raid.

Since Monday, when the first raids occurred in Los Angeles, more than 600 suspected undocumented workers have been taken into custody. Many workers were released after producing documents showing they were legally within the United States.

Those who cannot produce necessary papers face deportation.

Operation Jobs has drawn strong protest from leaders of Hispanic, civil rights and religious groups who claim the sweeps are discriminatory and racially motivated. They also have charged that those taken into custody are being denied certain rights, such as being permitted to talk to an attorney.

Sign language results in traffic crash

A San Juan Capistrano motorist who got pulled over because she was practicing sign language while driving Thursday was released, pulled back into traffic, and struck and injured a motorcyclist.

According to the California Highway Patrol, an officer pulled over Carrie Marie Warren, 19, in Mission Viejo. But Miss Warren convinced the officer all she was doing was practicing some sign language.

When she was then released and pulled out from the center divider back onto the San Diego Freeway at Avery Parkway, the CHP said she collided with a motorcycle operated by Gary McClennahan of San Clemente.

McClennahan was taken to Mission Community Hospital and later transferred to Camp Pendleton. His condition was described as good.

Onofre leak solved

Problems that caused a non-radioactive leak to a nuclear power plant in San Onofre have been identified and corrected, Southern California Edison Co. reported Thursday.

Water from the reactor's cooling system escaped Wednesday from Unit 2 of the San Onofre Nuclear Generating Station, which is undergoing startup testing. Such leakage is common to the startup procedure in any large power plant, company spokesman David Barron said.

The incident occurred during testing for leakage in valves and piping in the reactor coolant system at high temperatures and pressures, Barron said.

Nuclear fuel in the reactor has not yet been irradiated and no radioactivity was released in the incident, he said.

'Alabama' tops country music

Mandrell, Haggard share best vocalist awards

By The Associated Press

The rocking country band called Alabama was the big winner at the 17th annual Academy of Country Music awards, taking two honors in addition to being named entertainers of the year.

Barbara Mandrell was named top female vocalist Thursday night, Merle Haggard won top male vocalist, and the duo of David Frizzell and Shelly West won top vocal duo and song of the year, for "You're the Reason God Made Oklahoma," in the ceremony at Knott's Berry Farm. Alabama, which less than two years ago was playing a bar in Myrtle Beach, S.C., claimed "Hat" trophies for top vocal group and album of the year for their "Feels So Right." A year ago, the band won the top vocal group award.

"I think the academy just kind of leads the way," said lead singer Randy Owen. "It's a great honor. Last year we did 300 days on the road and we're glad all the people listened."

Miss Mandrell's top female vocalist award marked her fourth honor from the Los Angeles-based academy.

"You've been very, very good to me for a very long time," the singer told the audience of 2,000 at the Buena Park amusement park.

Haggard was not on hand to claim his best male vocalist trophy — his 14th Hat trophy and his sixth for male vocalist.

Juice Newton was another absentee winner in the best new female vocalist category. But Ricky Skaggs said, "Thank you, Lord" as he collected his award for best new male vocalist.

The Oak Ridge Boys, gospel singers turned country, won the single record of the year award for "Elvira." The song is the subject of a $10 million federal lawsuit by members and survivors of the Rivingtons, who claim that the "Oo-papa-mau-mau" refrain of "Elvira" was stolen from a Rivingtons hit.

However, in accepting the best single award, Oak Ridge Boy Joe Bonsall said without referring to the lawsuit that the band had first heard "Elvira" sung by a group in Texas a few years ago.

"If we knew the name of that little group in Texas we'd buy them a Cadillac," Bonsall said.

The Clint Eastwood film "Any Which Way You Can" became the first winner of the newly-created Tex Ritter award for country motion picture of the year. That award was presented by Ritter's sons, "Three's Company" star John Ritter and his brother Tom.

WEATHER

Coastal

Cool tonight with temperatures ranging from 54 to 59. Morning low clouds on Saturday with mostly clearing in early afternoon. Some hazy sunshine due. Highs 66 to 70.

Elsewhere, from Point Conception to the Mexican border and out 60 miles: Light variable winds night and morning hours, becoming west to southwest 10 to 15 knots in the afternoons today and Saturday. Westerly swell 1 to 2 feet, except local 3 to 5-foot combined seas in outer waters. Mostly cloudy through Saturday with partial clearing and some sunshine in the afternoon.

U.S. summary

Rain fell over the upper Mississippi Valley today as showers and thunderstorms spread from the Texas Panhandle into Kansas and diminished from Indiana to Mississippi.

Thundershowers over Florida gradually moved over the Atlantic, and the rest of the nation had fair skies.

The National Weather Service forecast thundershowers over Texas and southeastern New Mexico, with cloudy skies over the rest of the southern Great Plains.

A few thundershowers over southern Florida and a few showers over northern Maine were predicted. Scattered showers also were expected for western Washington and the mid- and upper-Mississippi Valley.

Temperatures around the nation early today ranged from 28 in Kailash, Mont., to 75 in Phoenix, Ariz.

California

The National Weather Service predicts sunshine sooner this weekend as morning clouds and fog dissipate earlier in the day. Southwest winds gusting to 25 mph are forecast Saturday for mountains and northern deserts.

Highs should range from the low 70s in Los Angeles, between 60 and 70 at beaches, in the 60s in the mountains, between 50 and 60 in upper deserts and the mid-50s in lower deserts.

Showers from Point Conception to the Mexican border can expect light, variable winds, predominantly from the southwest at 10 to 15 mph during the afternoon. Westerly winds could be gusting to 15 to 20 mph at 5 to 10 mph at night.

Some sunshine due

Sirhan plot linked to county jail

From Wire Services
SOLEDAD — Inmate Robert Bell, who said he first associated with a witness against Sirhan Sirhan in Orange County Jail, labeled the witness "a chronic liar" Thursday.

Bell testified to the parole board about witness Lawrence Eugene Wilson, who had told the board Sirhan had threatened to kill Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Bell was the second witness of the day to dispute the death threat claim.

Sirhan, convicted assassin of

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has denied allegations of threats against the second Kennedy brother.

Bell, a convicted burglar, told Sirhan's parole board that key witness Wilson, is "a chronic liar" and "a prolific manipulator."

The board is considering whether to rescind Sirhan's 1984 parole date.

Bell said Wilson approached him in 1978 and suggested he corroborate Wilson's story about the alleged Sirhan death threat. "He wanted me to say I overheard him and Sirhan talking about political figures and that I heard him say he was going to assassinate Edward Kennedy after his (Sirhan's) release," Bell said.

Initially, Bell said he did tell that story to authorities but now claimed he was lying. When parole board member Loretta Collier referred to a previous statement by Bell quoting Sirhan as saying, "I ain't finished with him (Robert Kennedy) yet. I'll get his brother," Bell was adamant. (See SIRHAN, Page A2)

Argentina cut off

U.S. aids Britain in Falkland crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today offered military supplies to Britain in the Falkland Islands crisis, while suspending arms sales and loan guarantees to Argentina. President Reagan accused Argentina of armed aggression and said it "must not be allowed to succeed."

So ended four weeks of neutrality in the territorial dispute over the South Atlantic islands.

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. announced the sanctions against Argentina and the offer of aid to Britain, although ruling out any "direct U.S. military involvement" in the heightening crisis.

He said Reagan ordered the sanctions against Argentina because the Buenos Aires government refused to compromise in the dispute over control of the islands.

Haig said the Falklands crisis "is about to enter a new and dangerous phase in which large-scale military action is likely."

At the White House, Reagan told Midwest editors and broadcasters that Argentina was the aggressor "in this dispute over the sovereignty of that little ice-cold bunch of land down there, and they finally just resorted to armed aggression and there was bloodshed."

"And I think the principle that all of us must abide by is armed aggression of that kind must not be allowed to succeed," the president said.

He said he was sure the United States would honor any British request for aid, because he knew they would not make any request he could not honor.

But Reagan said he had not received any response to the offer — "At this moment we've had no request for such help" — and repeated Haig's assurance that "there would be no direct involvement militarily by the United States."

The tilt toward Britain had been expected, but the American stance was toughened with Haig's announcement that the United States "will respond positively to requests for materiel support for British forces." He did not say what kind of supplies would be involved.

He spoke as both Britain and Argentina set up war zones around the disputed islands. The British had imposed a full blockade of the region at 4 a.m. PDT, and Argentina responded by declaring a blockade of its own.

Despite Haig's pessimistic assessment of the prospects of war, Reagan was heard to remark that neither side seemed to want to start the shooting.

Reagan was overheard making that comment to senators at a White House meeting on the budget. "It just seems obvious that no one wants to start the (See FALKLAND, Page A2)

Man held in prank 911 call

Taking a hard line on abusers of their new 911 emergency telephone system, Irvine police officers arrested a youth they said made a prank murder report Thursday.

According to the police report, David Jackson Clark, also known as David Bojorek, of 43 Choate, admitted to officers he made the bogus call, in which he claimed he was being murdered.

The 18-year-old said he was watching television with some friends when he decided to dial the new 911 number and scream for help, the report said.

He apparently didn't realize the address of a caller immediately flashes on a switchboard terminal when any call is received on the 911 line, said Irvine police Lt. Bob Lennert.

The phony report was the first received on the 911 line since it was opened April 19, Lennert added.

Clark was booked in Orange County Jail on suspicion of filing false emergency reports, with bail set at $500.

"Our concern is that this is strictly an emergency line," said Lennert. "We need to keep it open in case someone else really does have an emergency."

Extra parking set for El Toro show

The Marines at El Toro are providing extra parking areas for the expected 350,000 visitors to Saturday and Sunday's open house and air show.

A new parking area will be available for visitors near the Marine base golf course, and shuttle-buses will be provided to transport viewers to and from the air show.

Other parking areas include an area near the station picnic grounds, two areas along the flight line near Building #6 and another near Gate 9.

For those who want to park near the golf course and catch a ride to the show, take the San

Continue along Trabuco and enter the air station near the golf course. The route will be open until 1:45 p.m. both days.

Gates to the air station will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days for the open house, static display of aircraft and the noon air show.

He said Argentina "is always ready to comply with Security Council resolution 502 and to accept intervention of the United Nations or any of its organs and, of course, of the secretary-general."
But, at the same time, he reiterated his nation's insistence on resumption of Argentine rule of the islands.

SIRHAN HEARING...

"He didn't say none of that," Bell said of Sirhan. Asked if he heard a conversation about Kennedy, he said, "No, I didn't."
Bell said he agreed to lie for Wilson when the two of them were together at the Orange County Jail because Wilson convinced him he had "juice" and could influence authorities to be lenient with Bell, who was then awaiting trial.
"He was always buddy-buddy and asked me if I needed anything," he said of Wilson. But later he said he learned that Wilson was known throughout the prison system as a liar.
"Everybody knows Larry

Wilson is a chronic liar," he testified. Asked if Sirhan ever discussed politics, he said no.
"He didn't talk to hardly anybody," he said. "He was just by himself."
Asked who Sirhan's closest friend was, he said: "Himself."
Asked if he might be getting something for this testimony, he replied: "I ain't gettin' nothin'."
Earlier, William "Old Man" Kogan, 60, said Sirhan, whom he considered a friend, was the target of opportunistic prisoners who sought to make points for themselves by wheedling Sirhan's life story out of him and embellishing it.

County jobless rate expected to rise

Although Orange County's jobless rate remained unchanged through March, unemployment is expected to swell in the county by June when college graduates flood the job market, according to Employment Development Department figures released Thursday.
According to labor market analyst Alta Yetter, the county's

6.1 percent jobless rate "still compares very favorably" to the March unemployment rates for the state and the nation — 9.4 and 9 percent respectively.
The EDD figures indicated that 73,000 Orange County residents were out of work in March, compared to 72,000 in February. The unemployment rate remained unchanged because the size of the labor market increased.
The March 1982 rate compared to an unemployment rate of 4.3 percent posted in March of last year in Orange County.
Ms. Yetter said the outlook for the future isn't bright, predicting that the jobless rate will rise considerably in future months because of near-certain layoffs in manufacturing.

Budget address
Reagan speech reveals little

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's aides cautiously let out advance word that his speech to the nation would have "some new ideas."

But in the end there was little new in what he said Thursday night.

Reagan's nationally broadcast speech delivered from the Oval Office:

— Offered no changes in his proposal to break the budget deadlock.

— Offered no new proposals for altering the debate and procedure under which the Congress will tackle his 1983 spending plan.

Reagan endorsed a proposed Constitutional amendment, pending in the House and Senate, that generally would require Congress to approve a balanced budget in the future, except in wartime. It would take a three-fifths vote of each chamber to approve a deficit budget any other time.

But even that step reflected Reagan's long-standing support for the balanced budget concept. He said at a March 31 news conference that he liked the idea, adding the caveat that it "must also carry with it a limitation on taxes."

That tax condition was missing from his speech Thursday evening.

The president sought to re-emphasize a tactic that worked extremely well for him a year ago: Encouraging the people of the nation to apply pressure, through letters and telegrams and telephone calls to their representatives in Congress.

Youth ruled eligible for Little League

National Little League officials have ruled that 12-year-old Arri Buford is eligible to continue playing baseball in the Fountain Valley North league.

The decision is expected to end a residency dispute surrounding the youngster.

Mike Engel, president of Fountain Valley North, said national Little League officials in Williamsport, Pa., notified him late this week of their decision that Arri is eligible.

Thomas L. Brown, attorney for the Buford family, has indicated the family will drop its lawsuit against Little League as soon as written confirmation of the decision is received.

Arri is expected to be playing with his team the Astros on Saturday at the Lighthouse Lane field in Fountain Valley.

The Buford family lived in Fountain Valley for nine years. Last year, Arri's father James Buford, a disabled veteran, moved temporarily to Detroit for medical treatment.

Arri, however, was living in Fountain Valley with a family friend during December and January, when Little League registration for the current season was conducted, Engel said.

With strong pitching and hitting, Arri helped the Astros reach first place.

The Veterans Administration recently relocated the Buford family to Garden Grove, and some rival coaches protested that Arri was not eligible to play in Fountain Valley North.

The rocking country band called Alabama was the big winner at the 17th annual Academy of Country Music awards, taking two honors in addition to being named entertainers of the year.

Barbara Mandrell was named top female vocalist Thursday night, Merle Haggard won top male vocalist, and the duo of David Frizzell and Shelly West won top vocal duo and song of the year, for "You're the Reason God Made Oklahoma," in the ceremony at Knott's Berry Farm.

Alabama, which less than two years ago was playing a bar in Myrtle Beach, S.C., claimed "Hat" trophies for top vocal group and album of the year for their "Feels So Right." A year ago, the band won the top vocal group award.

"I think the academy just kind of leads the way," said lead singer Randy Owen. "It's a great honor. Last year we did 300 days on the road and we're glad all the people listened."

Miss Mandrell's top female vocalist award marked her fourth honor from the Los Angeles-based academy.

"You've been very, very good to me for a very long time," the singer told the audience of 2,000 at the Buena Park amusement park.

Haggard was not on hand to claim his best male vocalist trophy — his 14th Hat trophy and his sixth for male vocalist.

Juice Newton was another absentee winner in the best new female vocalist category. But Ricky Skaggs said, "Thank you, Lord" as he collected his award for best new male vocalist.

The Oak Ridge Boys, gospel singers turned country, won the single record of the year award for "Elvira." The song is the subject of a $10 million federal lawsuit by members and survivors of the Riverbongs, who claim that the "Oo-papa-mau-mau" refrain of "Elvira" was stolen from a Riverbongs hit.

However, in accepting the best single award, Oak Ridge Boy Joe Bonsall said without referring to the lawsuit that the band had first heard "Elvira" sung by a group in Texas a few years ago.

"If we knew the name of that little group in Texas we'd buy them a Cadillac," Bonsall said.

The Clint Eastwood film "Any Which Way You Can" became the first winner of the newly-created Tex Ritter award for country motion picture of the year. That award was presented by Ritter's sons, "Three's Company" star John Ritter and his brother Tom.

Sirhan plot linked to county jail

From Wire Services
SOLEDAD — Inmate Robert Bell, who said he first associated with a witness against Sirhan Sirhan in Orange County Jail, labeled the witness "a chronic liar" Thursday.

Bell testified to the parole board about witness Lawrence Eugene Wilson, who had told the board Sirhan had threatened to kill Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Bell was the second witness of the day to dispute the death threat claim.

Sirhan, convicted assassin of

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has denied allegations of threats against the second Kennedy brother.

Bell, a convicted burglar, told Sirhan's parole board that key witness Wilson, is "a chronic liar" and "a prolific manipulator."

The board is considering whether to rescind Sirhan's 1984 parole date.

Bell said Wilson approached him in 1978 and suggested he corroborate Wilson's story about the alleged Sirhan death threat.

"He wanted me to say I overheard him and Sirhan talking about political figures and that I heard him say he was going to assassinate Edward Kennedy after his (Sirhan's) release," Bell said.

Initially, Bell said he did tell that story to authorities but now claimed he was lying. When parole board member Loretta Collier referred to a previous statement by Bell quoting Sirhan as saying, "I ain't finished with him (Robert Kennedy) yet. I'll get his brother," Bell was adamant.

The senior citizens center is located at 800 Marguerite Ave. The candidates are Riley, Dr. Gene Atherton, David Hirschler and Al Arps.

Argentina cut off

U.S. aids Britain in Falkland crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today offered military supplies to Britain in the Falkland Islands crisis, while suspending arms sales and loan guarantees to Argentina. President Reagan accused Argentina of armed aggression and said it "must not be allowed to succeed."

So ended four weeks of neutrality in the territorial dispute over the South Atlantic islands. Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. announced the sanctions against Argentina and the offer of aid to Britain, although ruling out any "direct U.S. military involvement" in the heightening crisis.

He said Reagan ordered the sanctions against Argentina because the Buenos Aires government refused to compromise in the dispute over control of the islands.

Haig said the Falklands crisis "is about to enter a new and dangerous phase in which large-scale military action is likely."

At the White House, Reagan told Midwest editors and broadcasters that Argentina was the aggressor "in this dispute over the sovereignty of that little ice-cold bunch of land down there, and they finally just resorted to armed aggression and there was bloodshed."

"And I think the principle that all of us must abide by is armed aggression of that kind must not be allowed to succeed," the president said.

He said he was sure the United States would honor any British request for aid, because he knew they would not make any request he could not honor.

But Reagan said he had not received any response to the offer — "At this moment we've had no request for such help" — and repeated Haig's assurance that "there would be no direct involvement militarily by the United States."

The tilt toward Britain had been expected, but the American stance was toughened with Haig's announcement that the (See FALKLAND, Page A2)

Man found dead in bed

Police have discovered the body of a 28-year-old Costa Mesa man who had been dead six days.

The body of Gary Lee Johnson, 523 Bernard Street, was discovered in his bed at 6:30 p.m. Thursday after neighbors became suspicious and called police.

Police said there was no evidence of foul play. A spokesman for the Orange County Coroner's office said the man died April 23. An autopsy was scheduled today to determine the cause of death.

Art festival slated for 1,500 kids

About 1,500 handicapped students from Orange County schools will be participating Saturday in the sixth annual "A Very Special Arts Festival" at South Coast Plaza shopping center in Costa Mesa.

Carol Johnston, star of the television show "Lefty," and Jay MacIntosh of "The Waltons" will be on hand for the opening ceremonies at 10:30 a.m. in the Carousel area.

Students will display their art work and perform songs, dances and musical programs until 4 p.m. at the shopping center.

Students from Fairview State Hospital will participate in two dance routines near the Sears store at 11 a.m.

Students from the Huntington Beach City School District will perform from 1:40 to 2:30 in the Jewel Court.

Also, students from the Huntington Beach Union High School District, Magnolia School District and the Newport-Mesa Unified School District will display art projects.

Benefits slashed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sleeping pills, antihistamines, and eyeglasses for people with 20-40 vision or better are among the Medi-Cal benefits to be eliminated in a tentative plan to cut the program by $500 million, a legislative aide said Thursday.

Extra parking set for El Toro show

The Marines at El Toro are providing extra parking areas for the expected 350,000 visitors to Saturday and Sunday's open house and air show.

A new parking area will be available for visitors near the Marine base golf course, and shuttle buses will be provided to transport viewers to and from the air show.

Other parking areas include an area near the station picnic grounds, two areas along the flight line near Building #6 and another near Gate 9.

For those who want to park near the golf course and catch a ride to the show, take the San

Continue along Trabuco and enter the air station near the golf course. The route will be open until 1:45 p.m. both days.

Gates to the air station will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days for the open house, static display of aircraft and the noon air show.

SIRHAN HEARING...

"He didn't say none of that," Bell said of Sirhan. Asked if he heard a conversation about Kennedy, he said, "No, I didn't."

Bell said he agreed to lie for Wilson when the two of them were together at the Orange County Jail because Wilson convinced him he had "juice" and could influence authorities to be lenient with Bell, who was then awaiting trial.

"He was always buddy-buddy and asked me if I needed anything," he said of Wilson. But later he said he learned that Wilson was known throughout the prison system as a liar.

"Everybody knows Larry

Wilson is a chronic liar," he testified. Asked if Sirhan ever discussed politics, he said no.

"He didn't talk to hardly anybody," he said. "He was just by himself."

Asked who Sirhan's closest friend was, he said, "Himself."

Asked if he might be getting something for this testimony, he replied: "I ain't gettin' nothin'."

Earlier, William "Old Man" Kogan, 60, said Sirhan, whom he considered a friend, was the target of opportunistic prisoners who sought to make points for themselves by wheedling Sirhan's life story out of him and embellishing it.

FALKLAND CRISIS...

United States "will respond positively to requests for material support for British forces." He did not say what kind of supplies would be involved.

He spoke as both Britain and Argentina set up war zones around the disputed islands. The British had imposed a full blockade of the region at 4 a.m. PDT, and Argentina responded by declaring a blockade of its own.

Despite Haig's pessimistic assessment of the prospects of war, Reagan was heard to remark that neither side seemed to want to start the shooting.

Reagan was overheard making that comment to senators at a White House meeting on the budget. "It just seems obvious that no one wants to start the shooting," he said.

Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez said in New York that his nation had not rejected the last U.S. peace proposals, but he only made "observations" Thursday.

campaign being conducted nationwide.

The purpose of the operation is to remove undocumented workers from jobs, thus making the positions available to people who are either U.S. citizens or are in the county legally, officials say.

Thursday's enforcement action in Orange County also led to the detention of 52 people employed at the West American Rubber

Co., 750 N. Main St., Orange.

A switchboard operator said the firm would have no comment on the raid.

Since Monday, when the first raids occurred in Los Angeles, more than 600 suspected undocumented workers have been taken into custody. Many workers were released after producing documents showing they were legally within the United States.

County jobless rate expected to rise

Although Orange County's jobless rate remained unchanged through March, unemployment is expected to swell in the county by June when college graduates flood the job market, according to Employment Development Department figures released Thursday.

According to labor market analyst Alta Yetter, the county's 6.1 percent jobless rate "still compares very favorably" to the March unemployment rates for the state and the nation — 9.4 and 9 percent respectively.

The EDD figures indicated that

73,000 Orange County residents were out of work in March, compared to 72,000 in February. The unemployment rate remained unchanged because the size of the labor market increased.

The March 1982 rate compared to an unemployment rate of 4.3 percent posted in March of last year in Orange County.

Ms. Yetter said the outlook for the future isn't bright, predicting that the jobless rate will rise considerably in future months because of near-certain layoffs in manufacturing.

Budget address

Reagan speech reveals little

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's aides cautiously let out advance word that his speech to the nation would have "some new ideas."

But in the end there was little new in what he said Thursday night.

Reagan's nationally broadcast speech delivered from the Oval Office:

— Offered no changes in his proposal to break the budget deadlock.

— Offered no new proposals for altering the debate and procedure under which the Congress will tackle his 1983 spending plan.

Reagan endorsed a proposed Constitutional amendment, pending in the House and Senate, that generally would require Congress to approve a balanced budget in the future, except in wartime. It would take a three-fifths vote of each chamber to approve a deficit budget any other time.

But even that step reflected Reagan's long-standing support for the balanced budget concept. He said at a March 31 news conference that he liked the idea, adding the caveat that it "must also carry with it a limitation on taxes."

That tax condition was missing from his speech Thursday evening.

The president sought to re-employ a tactic that worked extremely well for him a year ago: Encouraging the people of the nation to apply pressure, through letters and telegrams and telephone calls to their representatives in Congress.

Woman held in assault on Irvine officer

A 41-year-old Newport Beach woman was arrested at an Irvine coffee shop early today after she allegedly kicked a police officer in the stomach.

Betty Jeanne Bullock, 280 Cagney St., was booked into Orange County Jail on suspicion of assault on a police officer, a misdemeanor. Bail was set at $2,500.

Officer John Coltrane was called to the Airport Inn coffee shop at 2:20 a.m. today after hotel security guards already had made a citizen's arrest of the suspect for being drunk in public and throwing a salt shaker at a waitress, said Lt. Bob Lennert.

As Coltrane began to handcuff her, she kicked him, Lennert said. Coltrane was not hurt.

NEWS ANALYSIS

After repeating many of the economic arguments he has made in the past, he told his audience: "Make your voice heard; let your representatives know that you support the kind of fair, effective approach I have outlined for you tonight. Let them know that you stand behind our recovery program. You did it once, you can do it again."

Youth ruled eligible for Little League

National Little League officials have ruled that 12-year-old Arri Buford is eligible to continue playing baseball in the Fountain Valley North league.

The decision is expected to end a residency dispute surrounding the youngster.

Mike Engel, president of Fountain Valley North, said national Little League officials in Williamsport, Pa., notified him late this week of their decision that Arri is eligible.

Thomas L. Brown, attorney for the Buford family, has indicated the family will drop its lawsuit against Little League as soon as written confirmation of the decision is received.

Arri is expected to be playing with his team the Astros on Saturday at the Lighthouse Lane field in Fountain Valley.

The Buford family lived in Fountain Valley for nine years. Last year, Arri's father James Buford, a disabled veteran, moved temporarily to Detroit for medical treatment.

Arri, however, was living in Fountain Valley with a family friend during December and January, when Little League registration for the current season was conducted, Engel said.

With strong pitching and hitting, Arri helped the Astros reach first place.

The Veterans Administration recently relocated the Buford family to Garden Grove, and some rival coaches protested that Arri was not eligible to play in Fountain Valley North.

'Alabama' tops country music

Mandrell, Haggard share best vocalist awards

By The Associated Press

The rocking country band called Alabama was the big winner at the 17th annual Academy of Country Music awards, taking two honors in addition to being named entertainers of the year.

Barbara Mandrell was named top female vocalist Thursday night, Merle Haggard won top male vocalist, and the duo of David Frizzell and Shelly West won top vocal duo and song of the year, for "You're the Reason God Made Oklahoma," in the ceremony at Knott's Berry Farm.

Alabama, which less than two years ago was playing a bar in Myrtle Beach, S.C., claimed "Hat" trophies for top vocal group and album of the year for their "Feels So Right." A year ago, the band won the top vocal group award.

"I think the academy just kind of leads the way," said lead singer Randy Owen.

"It's a great honor. Last year we did 300 days on the road and we're glad all the people listened."

Miss Mandrell's top female vocalist award marked her fourth honor from the Los Angeles-based academy.

"You've been very, very good to me for a very long time," the singer told the audience of 2,000 at the Buena Park amusement park.

Haggard was not on hand to claim his best male vocalist trophy — his 14th Hat trophy and his sixth for male vocalist.

Juice Newton was another absentee winner in the best new female vocalist category. But Ricky Skaggs said, "Thank you, Lord," as he collected his award for best new male vocalist.

The Oak Ridge Boys, gospel singers turned country, won the single record of the year award for "Elvira." The song is the subject of a $10 million federal lawsuit by members and survivors of the Rivingtons, who claim that the "Oo-papa-mau-mau" refrain of "Elvira" was stolen from a Rivingtons hit.

However, in accepting the best single award, Oak Ridge Boy Joe Bonsall said without referring to the lawsuit that the band had first heard "Elvira" sung by a group in Texas a few years ago.

"If we knew the name of that little group in Texas we'd buy them a Cadillac," Bonsall said.

The Clint Eastwood film "Any Which Way You Can" became the first winner of the newly-created Tex Ritter award for country motion picture of the year. That award was presented by Ritter's sons, "Three's Company" star John Ritter and his brother Tom.

Sirhan plot linked to county jail

From Wire Services
SOLEDAD — Inmate Robert Bell, who said he first associated with a witness against Sirhan in Orange County Jail, labeled the witness "a chronic liar" Thursday.
Bell testified to the parole board about witness Lawrence Eugene Wilson, who had told the board Sirhan had threatened to kill Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Bell was the second witness of the day to dispute the death threat claim.

Sirhan, convicted assassin of

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has denied allegations of threats against the second Kennedy brother.

Bell, a convicted burglar, told Sirhan's parole board that key witness Wilson, is "a chronic liar" and "a prolific manipulator."

The board is considering whether to rescind Sirhan's 1984 parole date.

Bell said Wilson approached him in 1978 and suggested he corroborate Wilson's story about the alleged Sirhan death threat. "He wanted me to say I overheard him and Sirhan talking about political figures and that I heard him say he was going to assassinate Edward Kennedy after his (Sirhan's) release," Bell said.

Initially, Bell said he did tell that story to authorities but now claimed he was lying. When parole board member Loretta Collier referred to a previous statement by Bell quoting Sirhan as saying, "I ain't finished with him (Robert Kennedy) yet. I'll get his brother," Bell was adamant. (See SIRHAN, Page A2)

Many seek jobs left by aliens

More than 20 would-be workers showed up at the B.P. John furniture plant in Santa Ana today seeking to fill jobs formerly held by suspected undocumented workers removed Thursday by federal agents.

An employee said the firm's personnel office was busy handling applications this morning in the wake of the raid in which 130 workers were taken into custody.

Immigration and Naturalization Service and Border Patrol agents descended on the plant at 2001 E. Dyer Road as part of the week-long "Operation Jobs" (See JOB, Page A2)

Candidates' forum in CdM

All four candidates for the fifth district supervisorial seat, including incumbent Supervisor Thomas Riley, are expected to attend a forum Sunday afternoon at the Oasis senior citizens center in Corona del Mar.

The senior citizens center is located at 800 Marguerite Ave. The candidates are Riley, Dr. Gene Atherton, David Hirschler and Al Arps.

Argentina cut off

U.S. aids Britain in Falkland crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today offered military supplies to Britain in the Falkland Islands crisis, while suspending arms sales and loan guarantees to Argentina. President Reagan accused Argentina of armed aggression and said it "must not be allowed to succeed."

So ended four weeks of neutrality in the territorial dispute over the South Atlantic islands.

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. announced the sanctions against Argentina and the offer of aid to Britain, although ruling out any "direct U.S. military involvement" in the heightening crisis.

He said Reagan ordered the sanctions against Argentina because the Buenos Aires government refused to compromise in the dispute over control of the islands.

Haig said the Falklands crisis "is about to enter a new and dangerous phase in which large-scale military action is likely."

At the White House, Reagan told Midwest editors and broadcasters that Argentina was the aggressor "in this dispute over the sovereignty of that little ice-cold bunch of land down there, and they finally just resorted to armed aggression and there was bloodshed."

"And I think the principle that all of us must abide by is armed aggression of that kind must not be allowed to succeed," the president said.

He said he was sure the United States would honor any British request for aid, because he knew they would not make any request he could not honor.

But Reagan said he had not received any response to the offer — "At this moment we've had no request for such help" — and repeated Haig's assurance that "there would be no direct involvement militarily by the United States."

The tilt toward Britain had been expected, but the American stance was toughened with Haig's announcement that the (See FALKLAND, Page A2)

Man found dead in bed

Police have discovered the body of a 28-year-old Costa Mesa man who had been dead six days.

The body of Gary Lee Johnson, 523 Bernard Street, was discovered in his bed at 6:30 p.m. Thursday after neighbors became suspicious and called police.

Police said there was no evidence of foul play. A spokesman for the Orange County Coroner's office said the man died April 23. An autopsy was scheduled today to determine the cause of death.

Art festival slated for 1,500 kids

About 1,500 handicapped students from Orange County schools will be participating Saturday in the sixth annual "A Very Special Arts Festival" at South Coast Plaza shopping center in Costa Mesa.

Carol Johnston, star of the television show "Lefty," and Jay MacIntosh of "The Waltons" will be on hand for the opening ceremonies at 10:30 a.m. in the Carousel area.

Students will display their art work and perform songs, dances and musical programs until 4 p.m. at the shopping center.

Students from Fairview State Hospital will participate in two dance routines near the Sears store at 11 a.m.

Students from the Huntington Beach City School District will perform from 1:40 to 2:30 in the Jewel Court.

Also, students from the Huntington Beach Union High School District, Magnolia School District and the Newport-Mesa Unified School District will display art projects.

Benefits slashed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sleeping pills, antihistamines, and eyeglasses for people with 20-40 vision or better are among the Medi-Cal benefits to be eliminated in a tentative plan to cut the program by $500 million, a legislative aide said Thursday.

Extra parking set for El Toro show

The Marines at El Toro are providing extra parking areas for the expected 350,000 visitors to Saturday and Sunday's open house and air show.

A new parking area will be available for visitors near the Marine base golf course, and shuttle buses will be provided to transport viewers to and from the air show.

Other parking areas include an area near the station picnic grounds, two areas along the flight line near Building #6 and another near Gate 9.

For those who want to park near the golf course and catch a ride to the show, take the San

Continue along Trabuco and enter the air station near the golf course. The route will be open until 1:45 p.m. both days.

Gates to the air station will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days for the open house, static display of aircraft and the noon air show.

SIRHAN HEARING . . .

"He didn't say none of that," Bell said of Sirhan. Asked if he heard a conversation about Kennedy, he said, "No, I didn't."

Bell said he agreed to lie for Wilson when the two of them were together at the Orange County Jail because Wilson convinced him he had "juice" and could influence authorities to be lenient with Bell, who was then awaiting trial.

"He was always buddy-buddy and asked me if I needed anything," he said of Wilson. But later he said he learned that Wilson was known throughout the prison system as a liar.

"Everybody knows Larry

Wilson is a chronic liar," he testified. Asked if Sirhan ever discussed politics, he said no.

"He didn't talk to hardly anybody," he said. "He was just by himself."

Asked who Sirhan's closest friend was, he said: "Himself."

Asked if he might be getting something for this testimony, he replied: "I ain't gettin' nothin'."

Earlier, William "Old Man" Kogan, 60, said Sirhan, whom he considered a friend, was the target of opportunistic prisoners who sought to make points for themselves by wheedling Sirhan's life story out of him and embellishing it.

FALKLAND CRISIS . . .

United States "will respond positively to requests for materiel support for British forces." He did not say what kind of supplies would be involved.

He spoke as both Britain and Argentina set up war zones around the disputed islands. The British had imposed a full blockade of the region at 4 a.m. PDT, and Argentina responded by declaring a blockade of its own.

Despite Haig's pessimistic assessment of the prospects of war, Reagan was heard to remark that neither side seemed to want to start the shooting.

Reagan was overheard making that comment to senators at a White House meeting on the budget. "It just seems obvious that no one wants to start the shooting," he said.

Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez said in New York that his nation had not rejected the last U.S. peace proposals, but he only made "observations" Thursday.

JOB SEEKERS . . .

Campaign being conducted nationwide.

The purpose of the operation is to remove undocumented workers from jobs, thus making the positions available to people who are either U.S. citizens or are in the county legally, officials say.

Thursday's enforcement action in Orange County also led to the detention of 52 people employed at the West American Rubber

Co., 750 N. Main St., Orange.

A switchboard operator said the firm would have no comment on the raid.

Since Monday, when the first raids occurred in Los Angeles, more than 600 suspected undocumented workers have been taken into custody. Many workers were released after producing documents showing they were legally within the United States.

County jobless rate expected to rise

Although Orange County's jobless rate remained unchanged through March, unemployment is expected to swell in the county by June when college graduates flood the job market, according to Employment Development Department figures released Thursday.

According to labor market analyst Alta Yetter, the county's 6.1 percent jobless rate "still compares very favorably" to the March unemployment rates for the state and the nation — 9.4 and 9 percent respectively.

The EDD figures indicated that

73,000 Orange County residents were out of work in March, compared to 72,000 in February. The unemployment rate remained unchanged because the size of the labor market increased.

The March 1982 rate compared to an unemployment rate of 4.3 percent posted in March of last year in Orange County.

Ms. Yetter said the outlook for the future isn't bright, predicting that the jobless rate will rise considerably in future months because of near-certain layoffs in manufacturing.

Budget address

Reagan speech reveals little

NEWS ANALYSIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's aides cautiously let out advance word that his speech to the nation would have "some new ideas."

But in the end there was little new in what he said Thursday night.

Reagan's nationally broadcast speech delivered from the Oval Office:

— Offered no changes in his proposal to break the budget deadlock.

— Offered no new proposals for altering the debate and procedure under which the Congress will tackle his 1983 spending plan.

Reagan endorsed a proposed Constitutional amendment, pending in the House and Senate, that generally would require Congress to approve a balanced budget in the future, except in wartime. It would take a three-fifths vote of each chamber to approve a deficit budget any other time.

But even that step reflected Reagan's long-standing support for the balanced budget concept. He said at a March 31 news conference that he liked the idea, adding the caveat that it "must also carry with it a limitation on taxes."

That tax condition was missing from his speech Thursday evening.

The president sought to re-employ a tactic that worked extremely well for him a year ago: Encouraging the people of the nation to apply pressure, through letters and telegrams and telephone calls to their representatives in Congress.

Woman held in assault on Irvine officer

A 41-year-old Newport Beach woman was arrested at an Irvine coffee shop early today after she allegedly kicked a police officer in the stomach.

Betty Jeanne Bullock, 280 Cagney St., was booked into Orange County Jail on suspicion of assault on a police officer, a misdemeanor. Bail was set at $2,500.

Officer John Coltrane was called to the Airport Inn coffee shop at 2:20 a.m. today after hotel security guards already had made a citizen's arrest of the suspect for being drunk in public and throwing a salt shaker at a waitress, said Lt. Bob Lennert.

As Coltrane began to handcuff her, she kicked him, Lennert said. Coltrane was not hurt.

Registration fee is $15. More information is available from the college, 963-0811, ext. 256.

Youth ruled eligible for Little League

National Little League officials have ruled that 12-year-old Arri Buford is eligible to continue playing baseball in the Fountain Valley North league.

The decision is expected to end a residency dispute surrounding the youngster.

Mike Engel, president of Fountain Valley North, said national Little League officials in Williamsport, Pa., notified him late this week of their decision that Arri is eligible.

Thomas L. Brown, attorney for the Buford family, has indicated the family will drop its lawsuit against Little League as soon as written confirmation of the decision is received.

Arri is expected to be playing with his team the Astros on Saturday at the Lighthouse Lane field in Fountain Valley.

The Buford family lived in Fountain Valley for nine years. Last year, Arri's father James Buford, a disabled veteran, moved temporarily to Detroit for medical treatment.

Arri, however, was living in Fountain Valley with a family friend during December and January, when Little League registration for the current season was conducted, Engel said.

With strong pitching and hitting, Arri helped the Astros reach first place.

The Veterans Administration recently relocated the Buford family to Garden Grove, and some rival coaches protested that Arri was not eligible to play in Fountain Valley North.

"All we need is good weather, and the weather forecast looks fine," said Jim Campbell, 25, flying with Patty Trusty, 23.

'Alabama' tops country music Mandrell, Haggard share best vocalist awards

By The Associated Press

The rocking country band called Alabama was the big winner at the 17th annual Academy of Country Music awards, taking two honors in addition to being named entertainers of the year.

Barbara Mandrell was named top female vocalist Thursday night, Merle Haggard won top male vocalist, and the duo of David Frizzell and Shelly West won top vocal duo and song of the year, for "You're the Reason God Made Oklahoma," in the ceremony at Knott's Berry Farm.

Alabama, which less than two years ago was playing a bar in Myrtle Beach, S.C., claimed "Hat" trophies for top vocal group and album of the year for their "Feels So Right." A year ago, the band won the top vocal group award.

"I think the academy just kind of leads the way," said lead singer Randy Owen. "It's a great honor. Last year we did 300 days on the road and we're glad all the people listened."

Miss Mandrell's top female vocalist award marked her fourth honor from the Los Angeles-based academy.

"You've been very, very good to me for a very long time," the singer told the audience of 2,000 at the Buena Park amusement park.

Haggard was not on hand to claim his best male vocalist trophy — his 14th Hat trophy and his sixth for male vocalist.

Juice Newton was another absentee winner in the best new female vocalist category. But Ricky Skaggs said, "Thank you, Lord" as he collected his award for best new male vocalist.

The Oak Ridge Boys, gospel singers turned country, won the single record of the year award for "Elvira." The song is the subject of a $10 million federal lawsuit by members and survivors of the Rivingtons, who claim that the "Oo-papa-mau-mau" refrain of "Elvira" was stolen from a Rivingtons hit.

However, in accepting the best single award, Oak Ridge Boy Joe Bonsall said without referring to the lawsuit that the band had first heard "Elvira" sung by a group in Texas a few years ago.

"If we knew the name of that little group in Texas we'd buy them a Cadillac," Bonsall said.

The Clint Eastwood film "Any Which Way You Can" became the first winner of the newly-created Tex Ritter award for country motion picture of the year. That award was presented by Ritter's sons, "Three's Company" star John Ritter and his brother Tom.

WEATHER

Coastal

Cool tonight with temperatures ranging from 54 to 59. Morning low clouds on Saturday with mostly clearing in early afternoon. Some hazy sunshine due. Highs 66 to 70.

Elsewhere, from Point Conception to the Mexican border, and out 60 miles. Light variable winds night and morning hours, becoming west to southwest 10 to 15 knots in the afternoons today and Saturday. Westerly swell 1 to 2 feet, except local 3 to 5-foot combined seas in outer waters. Mostly cloudy through Saturday with partial clearing and some sunshine in the afternoon.

U.S. summary

Rain fell over the upper Mississippi Valley today as showers and thunderstorms spread from the Texas Panhandle into Kansas and diminished from Indiana to Mississippi.

Thunderstorms over Florida gradually moved over the Atlantic, and the rest of the nation had fair skies.

The National Weather Service forecast thunderstorms over Texas and southeastern New Mexico, with cloudy skies over the rest of the southern Great Plains.

A few thunderstorms over southern Florida and a few showers over northern Maine were predicted. Scattered showers also were expected for western Washington and the mid- and upper-Mississippi Valley.

Temperatures around the nation early today ranged from 26 in Kalamazoo, Mich., to 76 in Phoenix, Ariz.

California

The National Weather Service predicts sunshine sooner this weekend as morning clouds and fog dissipate earlier in the day. Southwest winds gusting to 25 mph are forecast Saturday for mountains and northern deserts.

Highs should range from the low 70s in Los Angeles, between 80 and 78 at beaches, in the 80s in the mountains, between 82 and 80 in upper deserts and the low 60s in lower deserts.

Moisture from Point Conception to the Mexican border can expect light, variable winds, predominantly west-southwest at 10 to 15 mph during the afternoon. Westerly winds should be running to 25 mph and 8 to 10 mph further east 50 miles out.

Some sunshine due
