

County's image changes under scrutiny

By GLENN SCOTT
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County is wealthy, well educated, expensive to live in, politically powerful and ethnically diverse.

That may not exactly be new information. But 37 customers paid $150 each to learn yesterday how computers could turn that information into valuable market research on which to plan private industry growth and government services.

The Rose Institute of State and Local Government, based at Claremont McKenna College in Claremont, zeroed in on Orange County as a pilot computer study because, says director Alan Heslop, its rapid growth makes it a laboratory for studying population development.

The institute also assembled experts at the Registry Hotel in Irvine to expand on some of its findings.

High housing prices and traffic

• Housing costs in Orange County are the highest in the nation

• Tourism nets $4 billion annually and one in 10 county workers earns a living at it.

• Farm land may disappear soon. It's decreased 44.9% since 1972.

• 20% of county households earn more than $50,000 a year.

congestion will limit expansion, said economist Richard Ayer of Security Pacific National Bank. The county won't grow economically as quickly as it did in the last decade, but it will grow, he said.

Agriculture is dwindling. Technology and tourism are growing, said the experts.

Also growing is Orange County's Republican voter registration, and with it the political clout to affect statewide elections, said Dr. Tony Quinn, consultant to the California Assembly Republican Caucus.

Some of the other Rose Institute findings showed an increase in the number of county residents who now work here, rather than commute to outside jobs. Many of those people work in technological fields.

But tourism still racks in $4 billion a year here, and one out of every 10 county workers earns income from the tourist trade.

Big tax victory for Rams

Team will get $700,000 refund

By JEFF ADLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Los Angeles Rams football team posted its first win of the season yesterday, but the victory came in an Orange County hearing room rather than on the gridiron.

The county Assessment Appeals Board ruled that the National Football League franchise and owner Georgia Frontiere were entitled to a more than $700,000 property tax refund for the team's use of portions of Anaheim Stadium in 1980-81 and 1981-82.

The three-member hearing panel also ordered that the value of the Rams interest in the stadium be reduced, which in turn will reduce the amount of the team's annual tax assessment.

The Rams now will pay approximately $150,000 per year in property taxes compared with the $355,000 the county assessor had been claiming, said Kent Giboney, an appraiser in the assessor's office.

At issue in the hearing, which lasted nearly two weeks, was the formula by which appraisers determined the Rams' possessory interest in the 70,000-seat stadium. Possessory interest is (See RAMS, Page A2)

Dentist's woes mount

Restraint sought after deaths, arrest

By JODI CADENHEAD
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The legal troubles of Costa Mesa dentist Tony Protapappas mounted today as authorities planned to seek a temporary restraining order to restrict the Laguna Beach man's use of anesthesia in his practice.

Deputy District Attorney Hal Morgan said authorities also may attempt today to obtain a court order barring Protapappas from practicing dentistry altogether until an investigation involving the deaths of two patients is completed.

Officials from the state Attorney General's Office, the state Department of Consumer Affairs and the Orange County District Attorney's Office were scheduled to appear this morning in Orange County Superior Court, police said.

Authorities have been investigating the deaths of two women who died following treatment at the dentist's office at 534 W. 19th St. A 13-year-old Sacramento girl also treated by Protapappas remains in critical condition.

Officials said all three patients had been given anesthesia prior to developing medical complications. Cathryn D. Jones, 31, of Costa Mesa died Sunday and Minna Kim Andreassen, 23, of Huntington Beach, died Sept. 20. Patricia Craven, 13, remains (See DENTIST'S, Page A2)

Dental patient critical

By JODI CADENHEAD
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The family of a 13-year-old girl, who is suffering from apparent brain damage and kept alive by life-support systems, is waiting today for a miracle.

Patricia Craven of Sacramento has remained in critical condition at Mission Community Hospital since she was rushed there Feb. 8 following dental treatment earlier that day at the Costa Mesa dental office of Tony Protapappas.

Attorney David Fishman, who represents the family, said yesterday that the girl's mother, Patricia Craven Russ, decided to take her daughter to the Costa Mesa dentist because he had previously treated Russ.

Fishman said the girl entered the dentist's office at 10 a.m. to have some cavities filled and wisdom teeth removed. The attorney said she was unconscious when she left the dentist's office at 6:30 p.m. She had been given anesthesia.

The attorney said Protapappas had assured the mother that Patricia "would come out of it soon."

After arriving at her son's home in Mission Viejo, Russ called paramedics when she discovered that her daughter had stopped breathing, Fishman said.

"I understand she's being kept alive by life support systems," said Fishman. "There's a flat EEG (electroencephalogram). The family is trying to decide what to do."

Authorities are investigating why Cravel slipped into a coma and why two other patients died after being treated by Protapappas.

The dentist was arrested by Costa Mesa police Wednesday night after allegedly drawing a gun on two officers behind his office.

HB street 'washed' by spilled foam

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huntington Beach took a bath yesterday.

Five hundred gallons of liquid foaming agent used in laundry detergents spilled from a truck and flooded a busy street.

For awhile, chaos ensued. Cars lost control in the super-slippery stuff and spun in circles before the street was closed.

No accidents or health hazards were reported. But the foamy liquid proved a mess to clean up. "If we had poured water on it, we'd have had a soap bubble for 30 feet high," said one official. Another claimed "it would have foamed forever" if water were applied.

Instead, city crews poured sand and concrete on the area of Gothard Street between Warner and Slater Avenues.

The road was closed from 12:50 p.m. until 7 p.m.

Police said a plastic container overturned and the concentrated liquid poured out through the sides of the truck.

The material was being hauled from a City of Industry chemical (See FOAM, Page A2)

Jail expansion under fire

County civic center panel voices opposition

By JEFF ADLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Orange County Civic Center Commission has added its voice to the growing chorus of opposition to construction of a new county jail on a parcel adjacent to the current jail in Santa Ana.

With one commissioner absent, the board's other four members voted yesterday to register strong opposition to construction of a medium-maximum security jail in the city's civic center.

Commissioner Vernon Evans, a former Santa Ana mayor, called the proposed facility a "super jail" that should not be located in the city. He said he would support any efforts to raise funds to fight placement of the jail in Santa Ana.

Commissioner Terry Mosbenko said the commission's resolution is intended "to remind (Orange County) supervisors the jail does not belong in Newport Beach, Huntington Beach or Santa Ana either when there are so many desolate sites available."

The commission's action, however, is purely advisory, said Michael McLean, commission chairman. The commission is composed of five members, two appointed by county supervisors, two by the Santa Ana City Council and one member selected by the four others.

The panel is not empowered to reject or approve of any projects slated for the Santa Ana civic center. It was established to raise money to finance approved civic center construction projects, according to county officials.

The Board of Supervisors voted recently to limit its search for a new jail site to three locations, one in downtown Santa Ana, the other two in remote canyons east of Anaheim.

Foggy weekend forecast

Foggy mornings, hazy afternoons and lukewarm temperatures are expected this weekend, a three-day break for many Orange Coast workers.

A layer of fog cloaked the coast this morning for the second straight day but caused no major problems.

Operations at John Wayne Airport went on as normal and lifeguards at local beaches said visibility was restricted to two miles but presented few problems for boaters.

The fog will return Saturday morning and give way to high clouds by mid-morning, according to the National Weather Service. Sunday will be much the same with a warming trend taking hold Monday.

The high reading at Newport Beach Thursday was 59 degrees. Temperatures over the weekend are expected to be in the upper 60s.

Khadafy threatens action if 'pushed too far'

By The Associated Press

Libyan strongman Col. Moammar Khadafy has threatened military action if Libya is "pushed too far" by U.S. naval maneuvers that might extend into southern Mediterranean waters claimed by his country.

He said the Gulf of Sidra will be turned into a "red gulf of blood" if the U.S. aircraft carrier Nimitz and its battle group move too far into the disputed waters.

"We will not permit America or any foreign state to enter the Gulf of Sidra or any other part of Libyan waters," Khadafy said Thursday in a speech to his Parliament. "The Libyan people are ready to fight to defend their land, their water and their skies."

Australia fire still out of control

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Fire roared through the parched hills ringing Melbourne today after a series of killer blazes scorched the drought-punished southeast coast, leaving farms and forest looking like they were "attacked by napalm."

At least 89 bodies had been found, including those of 12 volunteer firemen who died when flames engulfed two fire trucks in Cockatoo. By late yesterday, about 900 people were reported injured, and officials estimated damage along a 500-mile stretch affected by the brushfires at $400 million.

Badly burned animals were being shot today by workers from the agricultural department in the state of Victoria. A spokesman said at least 15,000 sheep and 8,000 cattle had died in the fires, which destroyed about 750 Victoria farms.

"The fire-hit areas of Victoria looked like they had been attacked by napalm," said Adm. Sir James Murray, the governor of that state. "It was like a giant flame-thrower," an exhausted firefighter said.

By late yesterday, more than 4,000 firefighters had controlled most of the brushfires, except for those in the hills around Melbourne, Australia's second largest city.

The blazes, which began Wednesday, consumed about 3,000 homes in seven towns, in Victoria and the state of South Australia, authorities said. Some of the homeless slept on cricket fields.

Thousands of acres of farmland, brush and forest were devastated. Regal stands of pine and eucalyptus became giant bonfires as flames grew 300 feet high.

Desert winds of up to 60 mph fanned flames as they lashed through the Adelaide hills and down the coast past Melbourne into the Dandenong Ranges. "The wind was like it came from a huge hair dryer," said a man who lost his home.

"The roar of the wind and the flames were horrific, it was like a train," said Alanor Gray, who lost her store in Macedon. "The fire was coming up the highway like a fireball."

"A panzer division going through could not have caused so much damage," said Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser after inspecting the devastation.

In Cockatoo, where the 12 firemen died, two men sat on the roof of a school and hosed it down to help save the lives of 120 children who were inside.

San Diego plane crash kills four

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The death toll rose to four today in the fiery crash of small plane that smashed into a department store parking lot last night.

Ed Hastings, 23, critically burned in the fire that engulfed the cockpit of the twin-engine Piper Aerostar, died at 4:30 a.m. at University Hospital, said deputy San Diego County coroner David Lodge.

The pilot, Marden Dixon, 41, a Provo, Utah attorney and father of six, remained in critical condition at University with burns over 91 percent of his body, a nursing supervisor said.

Hastings, of Battle Mountain, Nev., was a student at Brigham Young University in Provo, Lodge said.

Dixon and Hastings, their clothes on fire, had escaped the flaming cockpit after the plane went down shortly after takeoff from Montgomery Field. It crashed in the busy Clairemont commercial area and set three parked cars on fire.

Then the plane's fully loaded fuel tanks exploded, sending a wall of fire and leaking aviation fuel along the curbs of Balboa Avenue.

"It hit the ground and three seconds later it blew up," said gas station attendant Troy Painter, 19. "I don't know how those people got out."

"It sounded like a loud pop when the fuel ignited," said Debby Mahoney, a desk worker at the health spa across the street. "Then there was a stream of fire running down the street, and drivers were honking their horns and panicking."

The dead were identified by the coroner's office as Linda Austin, 23, of Provo; her 3½-month-old baby, Alex Austin; and David Jones, 27, also a Brigham Young University student.

Witnesses, who said the aircraft sounded as if it was having engine trouble, said the pilot had tried to land on Balboa Avenue.

"The plane winged over and was stalling, and it looked like the pilot was trying to put it down on the street," said Bob Rappoport, a 26-year-old pilot who saw the plane approaching. "It was coming right for me. I jumped out of my van and ran across the street and felt the heat and flash from the explosion."

The aircraft narrowly missed a service station.

"It was coughing as it went over us," said attendant Larry Baker. "It definitely lacked speed. I could see the numbers on it. Then it went in."

Marvin Adler to remain mayor

FV mayor keeps post till August

Fountain Valley Mayor Marvin Adler and Mayor Pro Tem Ben Nielsen will remain in their posts through August, rather than April, because of changes in the city's election dates.

Previously, the five city council members have selected the mayor from among their ranks for one-year terms beginning each April.

But the council decided last month to change the date of local council elections from April to November during even-numbered years, to coincide with the statewide general elections.

On Tuesday, the council voted for a temporary extension of mayoral terms so that a new mayor will be picked immediately after the November 1984 council elections.

Under this plan, Adler and Nielsen will serve through August. A new mayor and mayor pro tem will be selected in August to serve through November 1984.

At that time, the mayoral term will revert back to one-year.

UC cites need for $4 billion

By The Associated Press

The University of California will need $4 billion worth of building and remodeling in the next decade in order to keep up with technological advances and changing student interests, a UC official says.

"The obvious question is: Where will the money come from," UC Assistant Vice President William Baker told the Board of Regents yesterday. Under present funding levels, the university can expect only $200 million to $250 million from the state in the next decade, he said.

In a report Baker presented to the regents, he said that $1.6 billion will be needed for new classroom buildings, libraries, laboratories, hospitals and clinics.

Another $900 million will be needed to renovate existing facilities and $500 million will be required for self-supporting campus facilities such as parking lots, athletic facilities and housing.

Baker's report, the result of a year-long study of UC's nine campuses, said nearly $1 billion extra operating funds will be needed for deferred maintenance and operating expenses for the UC physical plant over the next decade.

UC President David Saxon has appointed a 12-member committee of faculty, students and administrators to consider ways to raise the rest of the needed funds.

The major building needs stem from changes in academic programs, the report indicated.

Another report presented to a Regents committee said a shortage of more than $85 million in Medicare and Medi-Cal reimbursements could "seriously affect" UC's teaching hospitals in San Francisco, Davis, Irvine, Los Angeles and San Diego.

WE'VE ONLY JUST BEGUN!

Twenty-five years ago a few far-sighted people revolutionized the carpet business.

First, the chemical industry developed synthetic fibers, eliminating reliance on wool quality and production.

Second, machinery was invented which enabled carpeting to be manufactured up to 100 times faster.

Third, and most important, some people stuck their necks out and risked capital to put these developments to work.

What does this mean to you? It means that carpeting costs less than 40 years ago. It means that what was once a luxury is now within range of almost everyone. It means a selection unimaginable 40 years ago.

With our family in the carpet business since 1894, we have seen more changes in the last few years than we believed possible, creating the greatest consumer growth industry in our economy. After 89 years, it looks like we've only just begun!

Water emergency plans formulated

By STEVE TRIPOLI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Officials of the county's 41 water distribution districts are putting the finishing touches on a plan to keep fresh water flowing in a major emergency.

The plan is aimed especially at what is considered the most likely emergency to strike the county — a major earthquake — according to Gordon Elser of the Orange County Water District.

But it also can be adapted to a County man attacked in Irvine

One of the few muggings reported in Irvine occurred last night, according to police.

Lloyd Green, 25, of Tustin, said he was walking at 6 p.m. in the parking lot at Albertson's supermarket, 4541 Campus Drive, when two young men with blond hair approached him. As one asked for a match, the other took his wallet, said police Sgt. Dick Bowman.

The two men, both described as from 5-7 to 5-9 in height, then fled into a nearby apartment development, he said. Green told investigators he lost $9 and his wallet.

The last mugging reported in Irvine took place several months ago when a woman told police a man took her jewelry.

major flood, hurricane, tidal wave, toxic spill, fire or nuclear power plant emergency, he said.

The idea is to quickly determine which districts have usable water supplies after a disaster, then to get available water where it's needed, Elser said.

To that end, plans now being completed will create an emergency volunteer organization of water officials which can make quick decisions on using those supplies, Elser said.

That group will set up a single meeting place shortly after an emergency and assess water needs from there, Elser said.

Using a hypothetical emergency which destroys Irvine's water supply, Elser said the group would determine which district closest to Irvine had water it could ship to the city, and then find a way to pipe it there.

The so-called Water Supply Emergency Preparedness Study, being conducted by Boyle Engineering of Newport Beach, already has surveyed all county water agencies, Elser said.

The survey, financed by three water districts, determined where each agency gets its water, where it stores it and where its major supply hookups are, he said.

Boyle officials now are drawing up a mock emergency scenario using a powerful earthquake — one measuring 8.3 on the Richter scale — as an example, Elser said.

Operation cleanup

Crews put finishing touches on the cleanup of Pacific Coast Highway between Warner Avenue and Golden West Street. Four-mile stretch has been closed since a Jan. 27 storm buried it under thousands of tons of sand. But officials say final cleanup and repairs are being made and road should be reopened late this afternoon.

Light tax hike could be bad news

There may be some good news and some bad news on the horizon for Orange County property owners.

The good news is that property taxes in 1983-84 may go up less than 2 percent for the first time since the 2 percent ceiling was set by Proposition 13 in 1978.

The bad news is that an increase in property taxes of anything less than 2 percent will force local government to further stretch already strained budgets. And that could translate into additional service cuts.

The reason tax assessments only climb a bit is because the California Consumer Price Index, to which property taxes are tied, decreased seven-tenths of a percent between April and December 1982, said Ernest Dromenburg, who represents

The decline is attributed to the poor economy.

Orange County on the state Board of Equalization.

The decline is attributed to the poor state of both the national and state economies.

Dromenburg has advised county assessors to be ready to reduce their property tax rolls because, if the trend continues, it's possible the value of real property in 1982-83 will not increase in 1983-84.

That would not mean that Orange County government would lose money, it just wouldn't get as much as it was expecting to receive in tax revenues, said Webster Guillory of the county Assessor's Office.

Officials in the county Auditor-Controller's Office said that for every percentage point the tax rate decreases, the county loses $1 million.

But Guillory pointed out that the final computation of the California CPI and its impact on property taxes won't be computed until April.

Ex-talk show hostess sued

County public defenders seek $2 million in damages

Two Orange County public defenders, alleging that their careers and personal reputations have been damaged, are suing former KABC radio talk show hostess Carole Hemingway, KABC and the ABC network.

Deputy public defenders Jean Farley and James Egar are seeking more than $2 million for damages they say they suffered when Hemingway criticized Farley's role in a rape case.

Hemingway, at a press conference yesterday, said that she, the station and ABC are standing by her story. Hemingway now is a syndicated columnist for the Los Angeles Times Syndicate.

The suit stems from a report on the criminal justice system where Hemingway, it is alleged, said Farley employed "delaying tactics" and was "callous and cruel" in her feelings toward the 10-year-old victim in a rape case.

The case was declared a mistrial when Farley failed to appear in court. Hemingway reportedly told her listeners. The suit alleges that Hemingway accused Farley of abandoning her client.

Attorneys for Farley are claiming that she left the area with Egar to seek medical treatment for him, and was forced to remain away longer than she planned.

Hemingway's account was "designed to embarrass the plaintiffs and cause them emotional distress," the Orange County Superior Court suit contends.

Hemingway stood by her actions when asked if she thought she'd been too hard in the broadcasts.

Mesa park work near completion

By KAREN KLEIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

To all the noon-time park users who have missed the lunch shelter and restroom facilities at Lions Park in Costa Mesa, the word from Parks Superintendent David Alkema is: Don't despair.

The picnic tables will be back in new-and-improved form, along with larger, nicer restrooms and a maintenance shop for parks personnel.

The city's tab? Only $338,119. Alkema said the work is part of a general renovation of Lions Park, directly adjacent to the Neighborhood Community Center on Park Avenue.

"The old structure was in pretty bad condition," Alkema said. "And the restrooms were horrible."

The new, L-shaped picnic pavilion will be designed to match the brick decor of the community center and the nearby fire station.

Alkema said he anticipates the project will be completed prior to the Lions' Club Fish Fry, which has been held in the park during the first weekend in June for 28 years. During the fry, the park averages about 10,000 people a day, he said.

The picnic tabs are gone from Lions Park, but they'll be back in a more attractive format.

Cable TV consultant quits post

John Bateman, credited with being largely responsible for bringing cable television to west Orange County, has announced he is severing ties with the system.

Bateman suffered head injuries recently in a taxi cab accident while visiting an ailing family member in England, according to local officials.

He is not returning to Orange County because of those injuries, he informed officials this week.

Bateman had been serving as the consultant to the Public Cable Television Authority, a panel of local elected officials who administer the franchise granted to Dickinson Pacific Cablesystems.

But he also has worked since the early 1970s as a paid employee in the effort to bring a cable television system to the area.

The Cablesystems network serves 31,500 households in Huntington Beach, Fountain Valley, Westminster and Stanton.

No decision has been made on whether to replace Bateman, an official said.

University High debaters triumph

University High School debaters Jaan Taagepera and Seth Slater won a first-place trophy recently at a novice debate tournament at Loara High School in Anaheim.

Also finishing high enough to earn certificates were classmates Vasu Swaminatha and Brian Holmes, according to Keith Bernstein, the debate team's publicist.

In other speaking categories, students Douglas Gitlan, Dan Sokolov, Mac Pettis and Slater earned extemporaneous certificates while Gitlan won a second for his performance in the student congress.

New interest tax law facing bank challenge

In July, barring further legislation — and there are bills pending in Congress that would change the picture — banks and savings and loans will be required to withhold and send to the government a 10 percent tax on all interest and dividend payments.

This, we are told, is designed to catch the tax cheats who fail to report such earnings as income. But at the same time, we learn that only about 11 percent of taxpayers fall into this dishonest category. In other words, 89 percent dutifully report their interest earnings and pay taxes on them.

So why should the government go to all this trouble, and put the banks and savings and loans to all the expense of withholding taxes on interest throughout the year? Isn't it enough to continue having the banks report amounts of interest paid to both the customer and the IRS at the end of the tax year, and trust to the taxpayer's honesty and the diligence of the IRS to see that the tax is paid?

But this means the government has to wait for its money. With year-round withholding, the tax revenue can be collected ahead of time, as with other withholding taxes, and the government can have use of the money throughout the year.

Meanwhile the saver is being deprived of compounded interest on the amount that's being withheld. For some, that wouldn't be too much of a loss. Indeed there will be no tax withholding on accounts that earn less than $100 in interest a year. And senior citizens who depend on interest payments to sustain them will be able to claim an exemption.

This, of course, doesn't do much for those under 65 who have been diligently saving in the hope of building up some interest income to supplement Social Security when they finally do retire.

For years we have been told that Americans are not saving enough to enable banks to build up capital to give the economy a boost. The Japanese, we are advised, save 25 percent of their earnings, the Germans save 15 percent, but Americans save less than 6 percent.

To encourage us to do better, the government has instituted such spurs as last year's all-savers accounts, on which the interest was entirely tax-free. And we are urged to invest in individual retirement accounts which will not be subject to tax until after retirement, but will give the banks some of the money they need right now.

The sudden decision to start withholding tax on interest hardly seems to fit in with this policy. It's all very well to say that those who are still earning can add to their deductions to offset the money withheld, but a financial balancing act like this is beyond the average citizen.

The National Savings and Loan League is putting its weight behind efforts to repeal the new law and urging depositors to write their senators and congressmen in support of repeal.

If the real point of the interest withholding maneuver is not to catch the 11 percent of cheats, but to enable the government to get its hands on more tax revenue faster — and it could add up to billions when every savings account in the country makes its little contribution — it begins to appear that the government is less concerned about our lax saving habits than it has led us to believe.

Seniors too honest?

On the subject of honest and dishonest taxpayers, the U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging has come up with the news that half of the nation's senior citizens who file federal income tax returns pay more tax than the law requires.

Older citizens, says the committee report, are prompt and conscientious taxpayers, but are often confused by differences in federal and state tax laws.

Many do not take advantage of the $2,000 personal exemption for persons aged 65 or older, and continue to take only the $1,000 standard personal exemption on their federal returns. Others are not yet aware that persons over 55 can take a once-in-a-lifetime exclusion of up to $125,000 in gain from sale of a principal residence.

While professional tax preparers are usually well aware of all the tax law changes, senior citizens who file their own tax returns often are not, and as a result pay more than they should.

The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) sponsors a free Tax-Aide program to help older persons with their taxes. The 19,000 volunteers in the program, mostly retirees themselves, are trained in federal and state tax laws with the help of the Internal Revenue Service. The IRS also provides special funding from its Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) service to cover out-of-pocket expenses for the volunteers.

The IRS information number in the phone book can give you the location of Tax-Aide services. It's a phone call that could save money for senior citizens who cannot afford the help of a professional tax counselor. Retired persons are apt to be least able to overpay their taxes, and even the IRS doesn't want that kind of help.

Q. What's the biggest snake in North America?
A. The harmless Indigo. More than 8 feet-7 inches long.

American cabinetmakers say one kind of oak is better than any other — oak from the slopes of that German mountain called the Spessart.

Maybe you don't know about the inside of a camel's nose. It's moist.

Very moist. A camel's nose works as a one-way valve. It adds water to inhaled air and absorbs water out of exhaled air. Curiously, a camel's nose cools exhaled air below the temperature of the camel's body. All this saves water.

Q. Can a crab grow another claw if it loses one?

A. Can indeed. In fact, some female crabs intentionally drop claws, if something tries to block their way back into the water in the spawning season.

Q. How much advertising do we get on the televised NFL football games?

A. No more than 24 minutes under Federal rules.

Q. How fast does a rocket have to go to escape earth's gravity?

A. At least 18,000 mph.

U.S.-Israel project planned

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration, with Israel as a partner, is quietly working on a multimillion-dollar land-development plan in Costa Rica. The scheme involves buying up land along the Nicaraguan-Costa Rican border, clearing roads through the wilderness and moving in thousands of settlers.

Although the development plan is being promoted strictly on economic grounds, there are secret political considerations behind it. The Costa Rican border settlement, combined with the military buildup in Honduras, would create a giant strategic pincers physically isolating Nicaragua by land.

THE U.S. AGENCY for International Development will ask Congress for about $10 million to finance the settlement for the first year. Israel will provide the technical expertise, presumably based on its experience with settlements in the West Bank area. (An Israeli source bristled at the use of the word "settlement" in connection with the project, but other sources said the term is appropriate.)

The eventual cost of the land development will run more than $100 million, the Costa Ricans estimate. One source put the final figure at $500 million.

AID officials will try to sell the plan to Congress on its economic merits. They have given it the innocuous title, "Northern Zone Infrastructure Development."

But the geopolitical motive was laid out candidly in a cable last month to the State Department from our ambassador to Costa Rica, Francis McNeil. The confidential cable, seen by my associate Bob Sherman, explains the real reason for the ambitious settlement program.

"The GOCR (Government of Costa Rica) has been extremely concerned with developing its northern zone because of continuing: 1) incursions into Late last year, a special task force chaired by Costa Rican Vice President Alberto Falt, with representatives from the United States and Israel, was organized to begin detailed planning. In addition to Israeli Ambassador David Tourgeman, experts from an Israeli firm, Tahai Consulting Engineers, have been involved in the project for months.

It is hard to justify the ambitious settlement operation on economic grounds. Though Costa Rica has problems, overpopulation is not one of them.

Furthermore, the northern areas that are to be opened up for settlers are mostly marginal land that will have to be drained or otherwise improved before it is suitable for agriculture. Yet the plan calls for supporting up to 1,000 families on each 50 acres of land along the border.

IN FACT, one administration source acknowledged that AID would never have given such an economically risky project top priority if it weren't for the political implications.

Ambassador McNeil recognized this in his confidential cable, when he warned: "It is essential that the land purchases be expeditiously and quietly carried out to avoid land invasions organized by leftists which would nullify the project's geopolitical objectives."

In other words, though the administration evidently hopes to hide from the American public the political point of the settlement program, it does not expect Nicaragua's leftist sympathizers to be fooled.

JACK ANDERSON

Costa Rican territory by armed bands from Nicaragua; 2) 'stop and search' incidents involving Costa Rican boat traffic on the San Juan River; 3) saturation of the area by extremely powerful signals from Nicaraguan radio and television stations," the cable said.

Incursions from leftist Nicaragua "have made the Costa Ricans extremely nervous," McNeil cabled, adding: "Development of the region has become a number one priority of the (Government of Costa Rica) which they hope will address what they consider a serious immediate and long-term security problem."

The border-settlements plan has involved negotiations at the very top. President Reagan discussed the project with Costa Rican President Luis Alberto Monge last June, and again on Reagan's Latin American tour in December. Reagan pledged his support in a letter to Monge dated last Sept. 20.

Governor seeks to mend GOP fences

While all eyes have been trained on newly elected Gov. George Deukmejian's struggle with the Legislature over the state budget and his appointees to office, the Duke has been making hay on the political side mending fences within the Republican Party.

From the progress he has already made it would appear the Duke is about to bring state Republicans into a harmonious relationship they have not enjoyed in many years.

DURING THE '40s and early '50s Earl Warren practically emasculated the state Republicans by building a party of personal followers rather than party devotees. Towards the end of his reign a hard core right wing had split off from the regulars and these came to dominate Republican Party politics, unseating Republican U.S. Sen. Thomas Kuchel with the demagogic right winger, Max Rafferty, and going on to elect song and dance man George Murphy to the U.S. Senate and actor Ronald Reagan as governor, more on the basis of their right wing ideology than any other qualifications.

In fact the right wing exerted so much influence it contributed to the defeat of Republican candidates it considered too moderate with the result liberal Democrats were winning elections.

Last year the right wing nearly blew the Republican chances for any victories by pushing Lt. Gov. Mil Curb in his contest for the gubernatorial nomination against Deukmejian, and its attempts to select the Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate to contest Jew Brown's bid for the job.

WATERS/BLACKBURN

Through some astute moves, Deukmejian seems to be eroding the influence of the rightwingers and rebuilding the state GOP to one which will be more tolerant of the moderates and make it easier to field candidates more acceptable to California voters, especially the badly needed support of the conservative Democrats and independents.

One sign of this was the developments at the recent state GOP convention. Elected as state chairman was Ed Reinecke, the former lieutenant governor staging a comeback from the political disgrace he suffered during the Watergate scandals.

Reinecke, a most likeable individual, was duped into perjuring himself before a congressional committee by his excessive loyalty to Richard Nixon. As a result he was compelled to resign his office as lieutenant governor on the eve of launching his candidacy for re-election. Despite his troubles he remains tremendously popular with the state GOPers.

Deukmejian not only accepted Reinecke as the new chairman but more significantly engineered his own selection of L.A. County Supervisor Mike Antonovich as vice chairman. This will put Mike in charge at the time Deukmejian will be seeking re-election in 1986.

ANOTHER PLOY was the accord Deukmejian reached with U.S. Sen. Pete Wilson, the only other Republican to win statewide election last year. The Duke has agreed to let Wilson select the person to serve as state chairman in the period following Antonovich which will coincide with the years Wilson will be running for re-election.

Deukmejian has also been active otherwise, sponsoring a fund-raiser to help Curb, his 1982 GOP opponent, pay off his campaign debts, and finding a job for Carol Hallett, the former Assembly Republican leader who actively supported Curb against Deukmejian.

It is this kind of fence mending that will not only help solidify the state GOP but help insure the Duke's re-election.

Novels blend fact, fiction

How close to an actual living person can an author come in depicting a character in a novel? This is a problem that has confronted publishers, if not authors, for a long time, given the law of libel and the propensity to sue.

In the latest decision (which the lawyers like to call a "landmark case"), the New York Supreme Court dismissed a libel suit against a novelist who was accused by his former girlfriend of and weaknesses emphasized for dramatic effect. He or she is cutting out dolls to resemble people, but the dolls are not people in the flesh.

A novel in which living personalities are limited is aptly called the French a roman a clef — a story with a key. The "key," of course, is knowing the identity of the real persons portrayed under different names in the novel. This, oddly enough, is almost the oldest kind of book to bring to life.

PERHAPS THE most famous, and brilliant, in this genre is John Galsworthy's Point Counter Point, written in the late 1920s. The leading characters are witty and wicked representations of such famous figures of the day as D.H. Lawrence and his wife, Frieda, J. Middleton Murry and Katherine Mansfield, and Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of the British fascist movement — not to mention Baudelaire in a modern transmutation.

Most aspiring authors whose novels are rejected complain bitterly that they were "true to life." But photograph is not necessarily a work of art, and the art of the novelist is to conjoin fact and fiction so skillfully that his world becomes more "real" than the world we see around us. In this sense, no authentic novel can libel a living person.

SYDNEY HARRIS

basing one of his fictional characters on her in a derogatory fashion.

It is difficult indeed to determine where liberty ends and license is taken in the novel. In one sense, every author draws upon the people he has known and met for characters in his book; the raw stuff of life is the very fabric of the imaginative work, and the author molds or remolds this into creative form.

On the other hand, no novelist of talent is a "realist" in the literal sense of the word. He takes attributes and traits from different persons and stitches them together; most characters in a novel are composites, with both their strengths

Election posters dated

By PAT HOROWITZ
Special to the Daily Pilot

DEAR PAT: I bought some copies of presidential campaign posters and noticed that all of them had the dates of manufacture listed. Is this some kind of a legal requirement?

K.R., Costa Mesa

Yes. The federal Hobby Protection Act requires that sellers of imitation political items (buttons, posters, literature, stickers or advertisements) mark the items with the calendar year in which they were manufactured.

Imitation numismatic items (coins, tokens, paper money or commemorative medals) must be marked "copy." If you receive an imitation instead of an authentic item and it's not marked properly, under this law you may file suit for damages and seek an injunction against the practice.

Don't 'wash' aphids

DEAR PAT: Someone told me aphids can be controlled by spraying plants with a detergent and water solution. This would be a lot cheaper than chemical sprays. Is this garden hint true, and if it is, what amounts of detergent and water should be used?

L.P., Laguna Beach

Don't use detergent and water. Your plants won't like the detergent and the aphids won't be discouraged. The aphid control spray you mention calls for a mixture of three tablespoons of Ivory Flakes thoroughly dissolved in a gallon of water. Only the old-fashioned soap flakes will work for this garden care money-saver.

Ginseng tea problems

DEAR PAT: Someone told me ginseng tea causes high blood pressure. I drink a lot of this tea, so I'd like to find out if this is true.

L.E., Irvine

Ginseng can cause problems for some long-term users, according to research done at UCLA School of Medicine. Hypertension, diarrhea, skin lesions, insomnia and nervousness can occur. These and other effects reported by long-term users were neither uniformly negative nor uniformly predictable, but long-term ingestion of large amounts of ginseng is not advised.

'Milk glass' stain removal

DEAR PAT: I bought several antique bottles at an antique bottle show recently. They are just lovely, but there is one problem. There is a slight discoloration inside the bottles, even though they've been washed and dried. Can this "milk glass" appearance be removed safely?

W.T., Fountain Valley

Fill the bottles with a half and half mixture of ammonia and water, letting the mixture stand for two or three days. If this doesn't work, half-fill the bottles with denatured alcohol or water, and add a cup of clean, white sand from an aquarium supply shop. Shake well until a cloudy deposit yields to clear the glass. Another method is coating the inside of the bottles with mineral oil and cleaning with cotton swabs.

Got a problem? Then write to Pat Horowitz. Pat will cut red tape, getting the answers and action you need to solve inequities in government and business. Mail your questions to Pat Horowitz, At Your Service, Orange Coast Daily Pilot, P.O. Box 1560, Costa Mesa, CA. 92626.

AUTO MARKET . . .

1983 PEUGEOT 505 SILVER EDITION

ORANGE COUNTY . . . To mark its 25th year in the United States, Peugeot Motors of America is unveiling a limited-production automobile, the 1983 Peugeot 505S Silver Edition. Only 2,100 will be built.

Setting the tone for Peugeot's silver anniversary, the Silver Edition has an uncommon finish: the paint contains specially-designed metallic particles that absorb colors from the car's surroundings. So instead of the monochromatic look of ordinary cars, the Silver Edition 505 changes constantly with the vividness of the entire color spectrum. To preserve this striking finish and give it a rich, deep luster, the Silver Edition's special paint is protected by a coat of clear lacquer.

White-walls are not offered on the Peugeot 505S Silver Edition, but it is the most lavishly equipped car Peugeot has ever offered in the United States. Among the long list of standard features are leather upholstery, heated driver's seat, power sunroof, 40-watt stereo cassette player with four speakers and more.

In addition to its luxury, the 505S Silver Edition is a real driver's machine. To begin with, there is the interior with its contoured bucket seats and leather-wrapped steering wheel. A strategically-placed left footrest helps position the driver during spirited cornering. The Silver Edition comes equipped with Michelin's high-performance TRX tires mounted on eight-spoke alloy wheels. For safe driving in even the worst conditions, the car has a limited-slip differential that assists handling and traction in mud or snow and high-intensity halogen fog lights.

The 505S Silver Edition also includes the attributes of every 505: rack-and-pinion steering, four-wheel disc brakes, four-wheel independent suspension, five-speed overdrive transmission, and all-steel, unibody construction. It is available with a choice of two engines; the XD2S turbocharged diesel or the XN6 fuel-injected gasoline engine. The turbo-diesel combines four-cylinder diesel economy and durability with turbo-charged performance; the fuel-injected engine delivers quick throttle response and an impressive 97 horsepower.

Peugeots are sold in the United States through a network of 335 dealers and are covered by a one-year/unlimited mileage warranty and three-year warranty against corrosion. Peugeot Motors of America maintains a parts availability rate of over 95 percent, one of the highest in the industry, domestic automakers included.

For further information, contact one of three Orange County Peugeot dealers. They are Beach Imports of Newport Beach; Bill Yates VW-Porsche-Peugeot in San Juan Capistrano and B and Z Imports of Huntington Beach.

NEWPORT BEACH . . . Auto Advisory Services will be conducting a legal advertising seminar for the Automobile Industry on March 16, 1983. The seminar is designed as an overview of advertising laws and regulations. Both State and Federal laws will be covered.

This seminar is very timely. Recently the California Supreme Court rendered a decision affecting all dealers. This decision held that owners may be liable for the actions of their salespersons. The Court also upheld various administrative code regulations requiring new affirmative disclosures.

Advertisements run by dealers are the most visible area of legal non-compliance to government agencies. Experience has shown that dealers are often faced with allegations of false or misleading advertising. Experience also demonstrates that most violations result from innocent mistakes. Dealers rarely understand what is legally required of them.

One of the course instructors will be William Lowrey of Auto Advisory Services. Mr. Lowrey was a former investigator with the Department of Motor Vehicles. For the past eight years he has been advising the California auto industry in areas of DMV compliance.

The other instructor will be Charles Michaelis. Mr. Michaelis is an attorney whose present practice emphasizes representation of the auto industry. In addition, Mr. Michaelis has been associated with Auto Advisory Services over the past five years as a special consultant.

Persons who attend will receive course material. This material will include copies of all relevant laws and regulations. A detailed outline will also be provided for easy reference to the applicable laws. Lastly, attendees will be provided with examples of organizational forms and controls as an aid to disclosure compliance.

The cost of the seminar is $75. Dealers who are presently retaining clients of Auto Advisory Services are entitled to attend for $60. The location is the Hilton Inn at the Park located near Disneyland in Anaheim. The instruction will begin at 1:00 p.m. and end no later than 5:00 p.m. Enclosed is a course agenda for your review. Registration is limited, so register early to secure a reservation. To receive a registration form and further information, please call (714) 851-7721.

Festival of the Whales . . .

Dana Point spruces up for big event

By STEVE MITCHELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

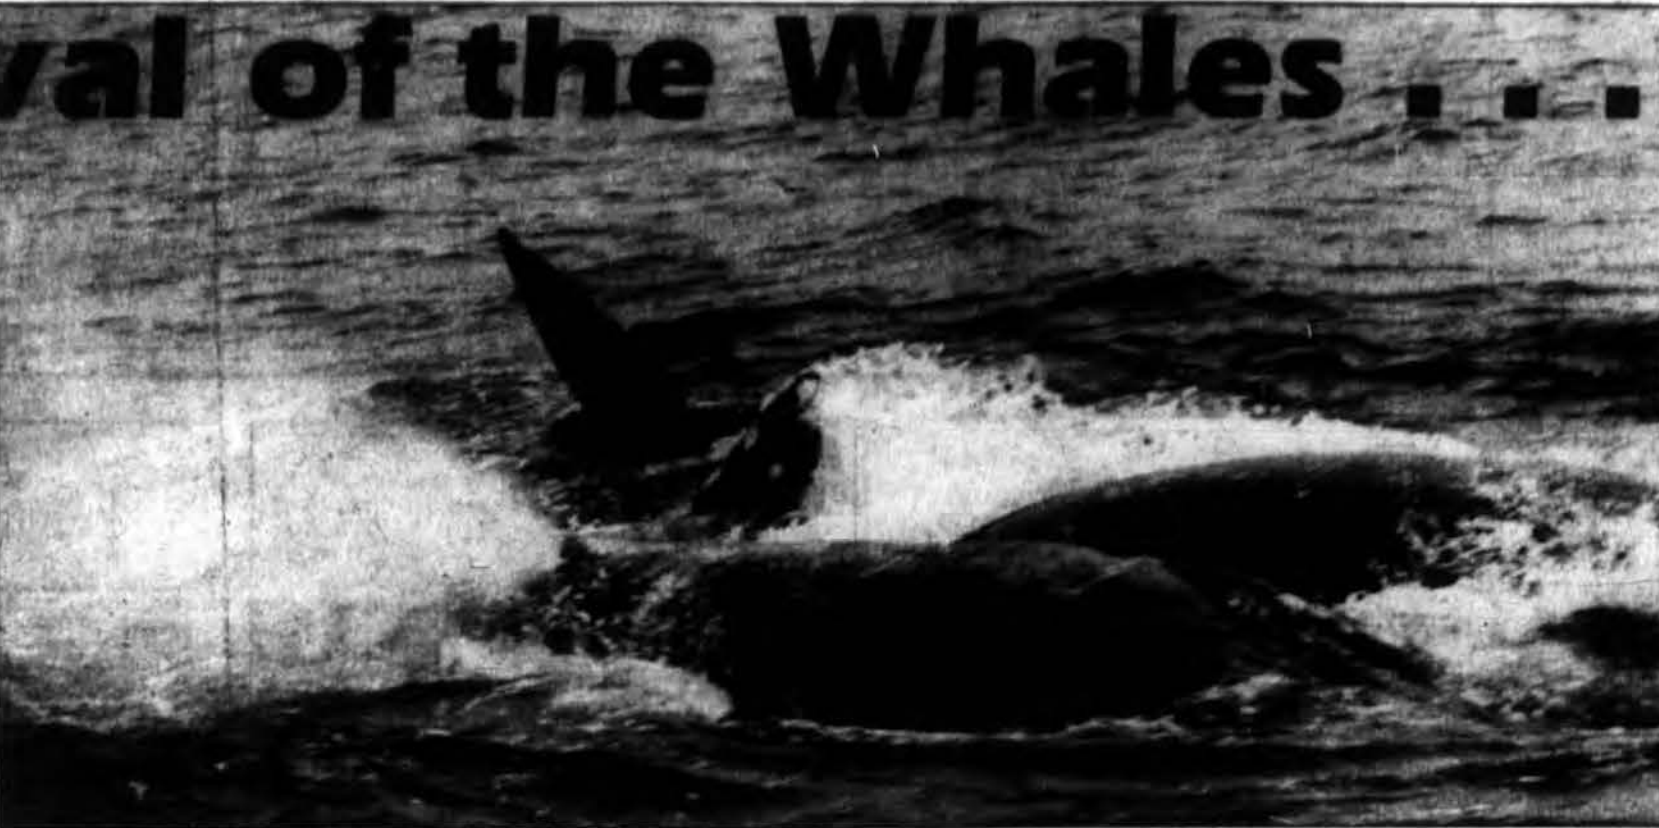

They're Orange County's biggest tourists. Thousands of the finned visitors come to the coast every year, just like clockwork. And, for the past decade, the county has shown its appreciation for the giants, which parade by at an average of 100 a day from December through March.

This year will be no different as thousands of people celebrate the annual winter migration of the California gray whales past Dana Point.

For the next three weekends, Dana Point Harbor hosts the annual Festival of the Whales.

The mammoth whales, as they have done for millions of years, migrate past Dana Point on their way to the warmer waters and quiet lagoons of Baja.

Their 6,000-mile trip begins in California gray whales cavort on their way to Mexico.

the icy Bering Sea, and by the time the herds arrive off the Orange Coast, their journey is nearly at an end.

Dana Point has celebrated the predictability and the spectacle of the whales since 1973.

The 11th annual Festival of Whales features a parade, slide shows on marine wildlife, a movie festival starring the whales, tidepool walks and, of course, hourly whalewatching cruises.

Free shows and events will take place this weekend, then again Feb. 25 to 27, and, finally, the weekend of March 4-6.

Talks and slides on whales will be held weekend days at 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. at the Orange County Marine Institute in the harbor basin. Films on the behemoths will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekends at Harpoon Henry's in Mariner's Village.

A parade, featuring antique bicycles and a life-sized whale balloon, will step off Feb. 26 at 11 a.m. in the harbor basin. Geology and tidepool walks are also scheduled that day.

Whalewatching cruises depart each hour from Dana Wharf Sportsfishing. For reservations, call 831-1850.

Job burnout

There's no shortage of nurses now

By JOEL C. DON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Just a few years ago, hospitals offered bounties of cars, cash and exotic vacations to meet their need for registered nurses.

As a result of the nurse shortage, salaries swelled, working conditions improved and health care administrators devised new incentives and options for career advancement.

But as the nation plunged deeper into economic distress, "retired" nurses donned their whites and went back to work to help bolster family incomes. The nursing shortage quickly disappeared. Some warn the profession may be glutted by 1985.

"What I see now is a temporary decline in positions available due to economic hardship," said Dr. Toni Sullivan, director of the new nursing program at the University of Southern California. "What we're seeing now is maybe it's harder to find a job."

"One may have to go to another city. But jobs are still available and it's going to pick up. Nursing has been the ideal profession because nurses could pick right up and work anywhere and usually where they want to live."

The Huntington Beach resident launched USC's nursing school last September, with 44 students enrolled in a four-year program offering a bachelor of science in nursing.

She eventually plans to expand the school to include master's and doctorate degree programs for nurses wishing to pursue specialized health care services as well as teaching and administrative careers.

She blames the tough job market for nurses on the sour economy as well as hospital cutbacks due to changes in reimbursement programs, such as recent cutbacks in Medi-Cal.

"Institutions are turning down patients because they're unsure about getting paid," Sullivan said, adding that nursing staffs are trimmed when hospital beds aren't filled.

About 60 percent of registered nurses work in hospitals, she hospitals during the late '70s was in part a result of job burnout and complaints over the subordinate role of nurses to doctors and nursing supervisors, Sullivan said.

Dr. Toni Sullivan is the director of the new nursing program at USC.

The shortage changed some of that. In recent years, primary care nurses have been offered educational opportunities to enter emerging health care specialties.

Some nurses are given caseloads of patients, so that they can follow people from hospital admission through treatment and release in a similar fashion as a patient's personal physician.

Sullivan said the nursing $17,300 annually.

Her figures show hospital administrative nurses command the largest annual salary, at about $24,600. Convalescent home nurses make about $14,300 a year and doctor's office nurses average $11,900 annually.

Sullivan believes the profession will command higher salaries as nurses assume more responsibilities that traditionally have been those of primary care physicians. Midwifery and nurse practitioners are becoming popular specialty fields, she said.

There is a stage being set for competition for some people for some services," Sullivan said. "Nursing has made great strides with medicine. There is evidence of nurses working with doctors in collaborative practices as peers."

Sullivan earned a bachelor's degree at Felician College in New Jersey and a doctorate in nursing from New York's Columbia University. She moved to California to start USC's baccalaureate program.

Though a student can become a registered nurse after earning an associate arts degree from a two-year community college, Sullivan believes the bachelor's degree offers better chances for advancement and earning power.

USC nursing students spend 50 percent of their classroom time studying non-nursing subjects in the arts and humanities sciences and various electives.

'There is a stage being set for competition for some people for some services. Nursing has made great strides with medicine. There is evidence of nurses working with doctors in collaborative practices as peers.'

noted. Others take positions in home health care, occupational health and long-term care of the elderly. Less than 5 percent of nurses work in doctor's offices.

Sullivan predicts an increasing demand for nurses specializing in critical care services involving sophisticated medical technology as well as the care of senior citizens, a population segment that is growing rapidly each year. The exodus of nurses from profession's subordinate role — fueling animosity between doctors and RNs — was forged decades ago when the profession was exclusively female. Likewise, nursing pay scales have remained much lower than other health care workers.

During the past three years, however, nursing salaries have been boosted by about 13 percent each year. Sullivan said a federal study showed full-time registered nurses average about

She lives with dying

When children talk like 'wise old men'

By KAREN E. KLEIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When dying people look back at their lives and try to make some sense out of them, the things they remember most are the things that Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross calls "the moments."

"It's those all-too-brief times when people have experienced unconditional love that they remember at the end of their lives," Kubler-Ross said at a UC Irvine lecture last week.

"Like the time when a father, who was always too busy with work, took an afternoon off to take his son fishing," Kubler-Ross explained.

It is the small things that make life worth living, Kubler-Ross said.

An internationally recognized expert in the field of death and dying, Kubler-Ross spoke to an audience of nearly 600 in UCI's Fine Arts Village Theater.

The charismatic author and former professor of psychiatry began her pioneering work with the terminally ill 20 years ago. Since then, she has published seven books dealing with death and has been a prime mover in the field of hospice care for terminal patients.

In her work with the dying, she said, she finds it is most important simply to listen to them. She finds terminally ill patients have much to teach all of us about life and about the experience of death — which she feels can be positive.

One thing she has learned from dying patients is that all of us have a certain amount of what she calls "unfinished business" we must take care of before we can die in peace.

"Unfinished business is all the negative things we learn — like rage, hate, shame and guilt — and we've pressed deeper and deeper down until we're emotionally drained from keeping it all inside," Kubler-Ross said.

If we express our feelings and settle our score with friends and family we will be prepared to die, or prepared if someone close to us dies unexpectedly, she said.

"Do it today," she said. "Don't put off all the good things and bad things you wish you could do or say. Anytime you hold on to pain, anger or depression, you're doing it to punish someone else. People who punish have a lot of unfinished business."

Dying people, especially children, develop their spiritual qualities prematurely, Kubler-Ross said. "They talk like wise old men, and they're not afraid to die if you allow them to talk about it. I've never seen a child that doesn't know he's dying."

Kubler-Ross told the story of Jeffy, a young leukemia patient she once knew. When his doctor wanted to try yet another experimental treatment on the 9-year-old, the boy refused and asked that he be taken home to die.

When he left the hospital with his parents, Jeffy asked Kubler-Ross to come home with him for a few minutes.

Elisabeth Kubler-Ross has worked for 20 years among the dying.

"When we pulled into the driveway, Jeffy looked up at a brand new two-wheel bicycle hanging on the garage wall. He asked his father to take it down. Then he looked at me and said, 'You're here to hold mom back,'" Kubler-Ross recalled.

The frail boy had his father attach training wheels to the bike, which he had never succeeded in learning to ride alone, and he announced that he wanted to ride around the block — without anyone running along at his side.

"As we all stood there, for what seemed like hours, Jeffy slowly, painfully made his way around the corner. When he reappeared at the other end of Kubler-Ross advocates, holistic medicine, which takes the entire person into account — his physical, emotional, intuitive and spiritual quadrants, she said.

"Holistic medicine doesn't get rid of the good things in the scientific approach, but it takes account of all the patient's needs."

The more unconditional love we give and receive, and the more we rely on intuition rather than on cold logic, the better off we will be, Kubler-Ross said, physically and emotionally.

It is a lesson she learned from the dying. "I've learned that we're all students and we're all teachers," she said.

'Unfinished business is all the negative things we learn — like rage, hate, shame and guilt — and we've pressed deeper and deeper down until we're emotionally drained from keeping it all inside.'

the block, he was grinning from ear to ear. It was his last victory — the big dream of his life," Kubler-Ross said.

If Jeffy had been forced to undergo more treatment and stay in the hospital, Kubler-Ross explained, he never would have achieved the last ride which meant so much to him.

"The next week he called his brother into his room, told him he would not be alive for the brother's birthday which was coming up in a few weeks, and said he wanted him to have the bicycle. 'But on the condition,' Jeffy said. 'Don't ever use those damn training wheels.'"

"Become intuitive — remember all the things you learned as a child and didn't believe were true," she advised. "things like 'ask and it shall be given.'"

Attitudes and circumstances have changed since she first began work with the dying, Kubler-Ross said. "You must be prepared to face rejection when you come up with new ideas," she said. "Twelve years ago I would be spit in the face for working with dying patients. Last year I saw the inauguration of hospices to take care of all the needs of terminal patients."

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a problem that driving me crazy. Suicide looks better every day. I am a 23-year-old girl from a large family. Most of the kids are out of the house. I wish I was, but I can't break loose. It's my father. He no longer loves my mother and has turned to me for consolation. I try my best to comfort him and succeed all too well. I didn't realize what was happening and now feel trapped.

My mother has known about this lousy situation from the beginning and she hates me. I don't blame her. But she holds me responsible for everything — never a word of criticism against my mother. This cannot be termed child abuse because nothing sexual happened until I was 21, and a 1-year-old is not a child.

To complicate matters, I have met a young guy who is crazy about me and he is very much in love with me. I have told my father he must stop depending on me and that I want to make a life for myself. He cries, sobs and begs me to break up with this person — insisting that my first loyalty is to him and maintaining he cannot live without me. He says if I don't choose him over the other man soon, he never wants to see me again.

I am torn and miserable. I love my father very much, but I cannot give up my sweetheart. Please show me the way out of this horrible mess. — ILDA IN N.C.

DEAR GILDA: Get out of that house at once, even if it means moving into a broom closet over a swimming alley. If your father writes you out of his life, you'll survive.

You need counseling to help you through this automatic time. Look in the phone book under "Mental Health," or your physician may be able to suggest a good psychologist. I cannot impress on you strongly enough the importance of packing your bags and getting out immediately. No rewrites. Just leave a note and go!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read your letter from the young girl who wrote to complain about her mother reading her mail. On that same letter as a P.S. written by the mother. She scribbled in haste, "I don't read her mail. I just saw it needed to be sealed and put a stamp on the envelope."

I am reminded of the woman who wrote a letter to her sister and added the following P.S.: "I send you the $10 I owe you but the letter is already sealed." — MRS. H.S. IN ASHLAND, OHIO

DEAR OHIO: Thanks for my laugh for the day, or some folks it may be their only one.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: During the holidays I had two large dinners in my home. I have a relative who lives alone. (I'll call him Uncle Tim.) After the dinners he went into my kitchen, found plastic bags and took home all the leftovers. He didn't have enough to put in a mouse trap.

The man is far from a pauper. Meanwhile, I am counting on those leftovers for another meal for our family.

How do we cure this penny-pinching tightwad, apart of excluding him? — STILL FUMING IN FEBRUARY

DEAR FEB: Watch the vulture. The minute he heads for the kitchen say, "No guests allowed in the kitchen, Unc."

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF

Tricky Game (Max Hardy, 14484 S. Yukon Ave., Hawthorne, CA 90250, 198 pp., paperback, $6.95 plus $1 postage and handling). Many of the hands and situations will be familiar to readers of this column, but this book will provide several hours of pleasant reading and could help you to be less obvious in your play of the cards.

This example features two of the great pairs of yesteryear. Sitting North-South were Eric Jannersten and Jan Wohlin of Sweden, while East-West were Boris Schapiro and Terence Reese of Great Britain. The contract was normal, and Reese made his natural lead of the queen of hearts.

The unthinking play by declarer at trick two is to start on diamonds. But watch what would happen. East would win and continue with a heart, and declarer would be able to take only eight tricks before he had to start on clubs. West would then make the rest of the tricks with the ace of clubs and three hearts. Wohlin saw that he would get no more than eight tricks if he went after diamonds, so at trick two he boldly led the king of clubs! West had no idea that it was his partner who held the queen — he was afraid that, by winning the ace of clubs, he would set up dummy's suit — so he held up.

With a club trick in the bag, declarer quickly shifted to the king of diamonds. Now he could run nine tricks before the defenders could get the hearts going.

YOUR HEALTH
DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: This isn't exactly a medical question, but I think it's important. I think how a doctor "looks" makes a difference in how he succeeds in treating his patient. Take my doctor, as an example. When I leave his office, I don't have the confidence in him I should have. He doesn't look like a doctor. He wears no tie. I've never seen him in a white coat. I don't get the impression that he's neat and clean. I'm thinking of changing doctors, although he's supposed to be an excellent doctor. Am I being silly? — MRS. C.

DEAR MRS. C.: You're not silly. Anything that interferes with the proper and satisfactory physician-patient relationship may interfere with attaining good health. However, you'll be interested to know that a recent survey of patients indicates that many differ from your point of view.

The report appeared in the American College of Physicians Observer. Many questions were asked. For example, does the starched white physician's coat imply competence and inspire confidence? Some think it is too formal and creates a barrier between doctor and patient. Yet, others think that a doctor should look professional and that appropriate clothes lend credibility and a sense of authority. Some patients said, "I'm not here for a fashion show." What they cared most about were such qualities as friendliness, openness and medical expertise.

It will interest you to know, Mrs. C., that 84 percent said that male physicians need not wear ties. One patient concluded, "It is important to me that I be listened to, answered honestly and patiently and in general, be treated as a responsible, decision-making adult. Appearances are inconsequential to accessibility of information and treatment." Think it over before you change doctors.

FOR MRS. K.: Any teen-ager who collects women's shoes or other apparel may require professional help. Is there any way you can convince him to have a frank talk with your family doctor? An apparently unimportant fetish may be only the tip of the iceberg. Deeper trouble requires help, rather than hope that it will disappear in time.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARINGS ON PACIFIC TELEPHONE'S APPLICATION FOR AN INCREASE TO OFFSET DEPRECIATION EXPENSE

Pacific Telephone has filed an application with the California Public Utilities Commission to increase its rates by $165.9 million per year to offset increased depreciation expenses.

This application was filed with the CPUC on November 4, 1982, and asks only to offset increased depreciation expenses resulting from a utility undertaken to replace telephone equipment lives and salvage efforts. Depreciation is the method used by businesses to recognize the cost of equipment over the period the equipment will be used. This recognition allows the company to replace the equipment when it finally wears out or is obsolete.

If this application is approved, it will not increase the company's current earnings level. Rate increases resulting from this depreciation application, if approved, would be in addition to increases that result from Pacific's pending general rate increase application (D.I. No. 85).

The California Public Utilities Commission will hold public hearings on application according to the schedule printed below.

If the application is approved by the Commission, the estimated impact on the average residential customer's monthly bill will be an increase of $1.56. The $165.9 million revenue requirement represents a 6 percent increase in Pacific Telephone's total intrastate revenues.

The Commission's staff will review the company's application and any proposed changes in the rates requested by Pacific Telephone. Other interested parties may also propose their own rate changes. Although a variety of rate proposals may be submitted, the final determination will be made by the Commission after thorough hearings have been completed. The final rates authorized by the Commission may be in different classes of service and/or higher than those listed below.

A copy of Pacific Telephone's application is approved in its entirety by the California Public Utilities Commission, the impact on customers will be as follows:

SAN FRANCISCO — Tuesday, March 15, 1983, at 10:00 a.m. in the Commission Courtroom, State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco, California 94102.

SAN ANGELES — Wednesday, March 16, 1983, at 10:00 a.m. in the Commission Courtroom, State Building, 107 South Broadway, Los Angeles, California 90012.

The Commission welcomes your comments. If you cannot attend these hearings, you may submit written comments to the Commission at the addresses listed below. Simply state that you are writing about Application 82-11-07 of Pacific Telephone.

A copy of Pacific Telephone's Application 82-11-07 may be inspected at its local business office or at its headquarters.

Additional hearing days will be devoted to analyzing the need for the requested rate increases and ways of allocating any approved increase among residential, commercial, and industrial customers. At these hearings, the Commission will receive the testimony of Pacific Telephone's witnesses, and the testimony of other interested parties, and the Commission staff. The Commission staff consists of engineers, accountants, economists and attorneys who independently evaluate the proposals of utilities for rate increases and present their analyses and recommendations to the Commission at public hearings.

Further information may be obtained from Pacific Telephone's headquarters at 140 Montgomery Street, San Francisco, California, 94102, or from the following California Public Utilities Commission offices:

Bank opens

Costa Mesa city officials, civic leaders and business executives in coast area cities attended the grand opening of Commerce Bank last night at South Coast Plaza Town Center. The independent commercial bank, which specializes in business banking, is at 3210 Park Center Drive, Costa Mesa, near Westin South Coast Plaza Hotel.

Response to loan plan slow

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Bank of America is offering fixed-rate, 30-year mortgages for the first time in several years, but only nine loan applications have been received since the program began over a month ago.

Of the nine, only one loan has actually closed since the single-family home loan program began Jan. 7, said Robert A. Van Horne, regional vice president-real estate loan administrator for BoFA.

"We would be more pleased if we had more applications," he said.

"But it is a little too soon to tell if the program is a success."

The loans, which are only available in the Los Angeles area, haven't been advertised pending completion of a three-month pilot program during which bank officials are marketing the loan to real estate agents.

Bank officials said they hoped the new fixed-rate loans, in contrast to the variable-rate mortgages that have been available, would rejuvenate the state's housing industry.

However, the current interest rate of 12 3/4 percent, while lower than rates have been at many times during the past few years, is apparently still high enough to discourage many would-be buyers.

Tip to Robinson: Get Lanham back

BEHIND THE SCENES:

According to sources, Rams owner Georgia Frontiere had narrowed her candidates to two before John Robinson appeared on the scene. Assistant coach Paul Lanham was one of the finalists. The other is unknown, although if Robinson had turned down the job, executive vice president Ray Nagel was supposedly going to make a strong pitch for UCLA's Terry Donahue.

There are still a number of people within the Rams organization, primarily players, who don't know Lanham has departed to join George Allen and the Chicago Blitz staff as a special teams and wide receivers coach.

Add Lanham's exit: There is a catch, though. Lanham left for two reasons: a) his contract with the Rams had run out (as of Feb. 1); b) he needed a job. One, hopefully, that would lead to a head coaching position some day. That's why he chose Allen, who hired Lanham as a Rams assistant in 1978.

SPORTS COLUMNIST

JOHN SEVANO

More Lanham: He is currently in Arizona at the Blitz's training camp without a contract. Why? Because he's leaving the option open of possibly returning to the Rams if Robinson gives him a call. Logic would seem to dictate that Robinson could use Lanham. First, Robinson needs some NFL experience on his staff. Second, nobody knows the Rams better than Lanham. Third, Lanham would be an extremely popular choice by the players for the team's offensive coordinator spot.

Tip to Robinson: Pick up the phone and call Lanham before it's too late. Lanham has already been approached by Washington Coach Joe Gibbs, Atlanta Coach Dan Henning and New York Jets Coach Joe Walton. Says Lanham: "If I'm going to stay in the NFL, I'd rather be an offensive coordinator with the Rams and stay in Southern California." George Allen, incidentally, has been pursuing Lanham since November.

The Nevada Las Vegas basketball team, and its recent controversy over whether the Runnin' Rebels should be ranked No. 1 or not, has brought up an old argument concerning the polls and should they rank their choices according to ability or record? I've always felt a team should be ranked according to how good it is, not the record it possesses because the latter can be misleading.

For what it's worth, I don't think UNLV is a No. 1 team. But I also don't think the Rebels should have been left off four coaches' ballots in the UPI poll. Supposedly, the quartet cited either past violations by UNLV Coach Jerry Tarkanian and/or the team's questionable schedule as to why they ignored the Rebels.

Rebuts UC Irvine Coach Bill Mulligan: "They (the Rebels) may not be the best team, but that doesn't matter. They're 22-0, they're not on probation and they're not cheating."

As for their schedule, all I can say is a couple of years ago everyone felt the same way about Indiana State. And what happened? They played Michigan State in the NCAA finals."

If you don't think Olympic rules are inconsistent, try this: Jim Craig, one of the Lake Placid heroes who later performed for the Atlanta (now Calgary) Flames and Boston Bruins in the NHL, will most likely be back in the U.S. nets in the '84 games.

Three cheers for Georgia. Her move to acquire John Robinson as the team's head coach was her best in the last three years.

The fact he won his arbitration case from Minnesota and money conscious owner Calvin Griffith has fueled speculation that right-handed relief ace Ron Davis will soon be traded to the Angels.

A pitch for triple A

That's Mike Hogan's goal at spring training

By CURT SEEDEN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Mike Hogan is probably one of the few persons on the face of the earth to base his dreams and goals on words of wisdom from the very quotable Yogi Berra.

Nonetheless, the former Newport Harbor High and Orange Coast College baseball star, about to embark on his first full-year of professional ball, remembers the ex-Yankee catcher's words.

"Yogi said, '75 percent of baseball is 90 percent mental,'" Hogan explains. "You'll see pro players in spring training who don't even think they're in top shape but they know the game so well mentally, inside and out, it's just unbelievable."

"The young kids may run circles around them, but the veterans survive because of the confidence they have in themselves," Hogan adds.

It is confidence which Hogan feels will determine his destiny. It is confidence that he feels will help him make the jump from single A baseball to triple A by the time spring training is over.

Hogan reports to Cocoa Beach, Fla., March 9 where the Houston Astros conduct spring training. He's hoping to make the move from Auburn, N.Y., (the Astros' single A team in the New York-Penn League) to Tucson (the Astros' triple A team).

Mike Hogan

"My goal is to put a sparkle in somebody's eye and maybe get that crack at triple A," Hogan says. Still, he's the first to admit that the biggest step in a young ballplayer's career is from A to double A.

Hogan wasted little time making his presence known last season after reporting to Auburn in mid-season. The hard-throwing right-hander finished with a 5-2 record, seven complete games in 10 starts and a league-leading 1.81 ERA.

Houston was the fifth team to draft Hogan. He had been noticed earlier — in 1981 when he was 11-1 with a 1.90 ERA at Orange Coast and in 1982 when he was 13-2 with a 1.80 ERA at Arizona State.

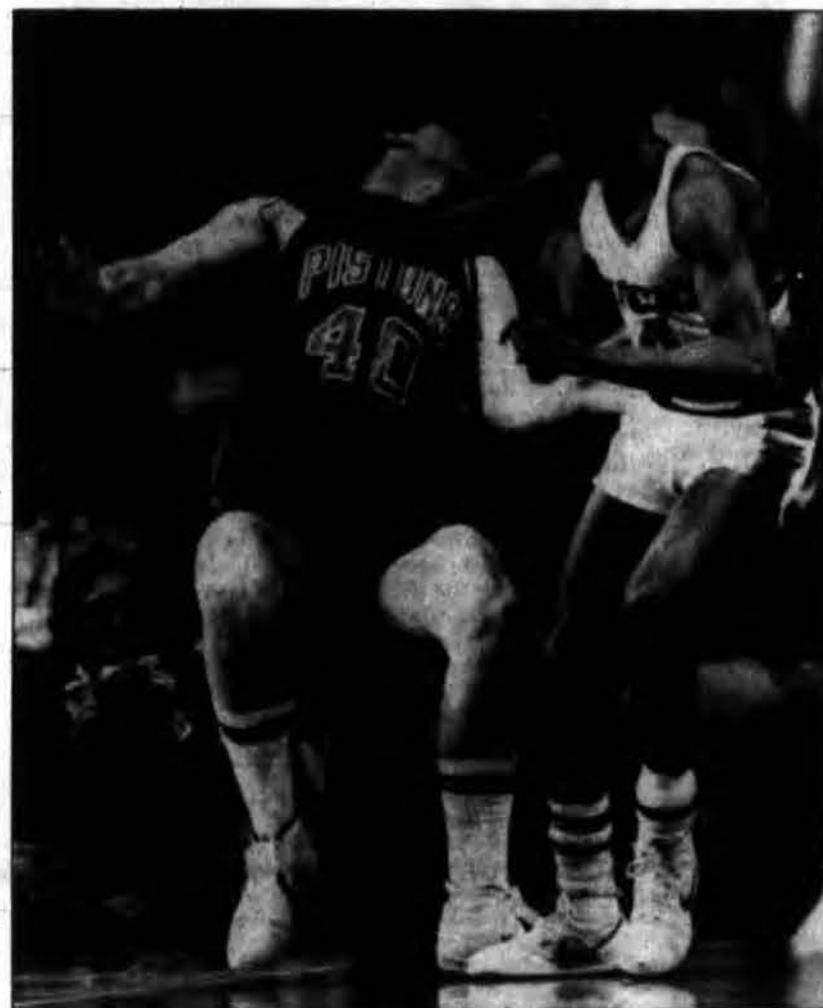

"I felt like I was ready (to turn pro). I finally had enough confidence to go into the professional ranks," he says.

Hogan's rise to professional baseball has been swift, considering he only played one year of high school varsity ball and that was as an outfielder.

It wasn't until OCC assistant Tim Kelly helped him convert his talents to the mound in summer Metropolitan League baseball prior to his freshman year at Coast, that Hogan got the chance to pitch in a game.

"The way Tim Kelly coached pitching really helped me," Hogan says. "He explained the difference between pitching and throwing. You have to think about what you're doing."

When Hogan reports to Florida next month, he'll, no doubt, be reunited with former OCC and Arizona State teammate Don Smith, who was drafted by the Dodgers and is already training in Vero Beach.

Lakers make sure this time

DALLAS (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers never gave the Dallas Mavericks a chance for last-second magic Thursday night.

Ever mindful of two last-second defeats in Reunion Arena already this year, the Lakers drubbed the Mavericks 127-110 before a sellout crowd of 17,184 behind Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 32 points and 25 each by Earvin "Magic" Johnson and Norm Nixon.

"I'm glad to get out of here with a win," said Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley. "We played our best in the last six minutes when we really needed it."

Dallas Coach Dick Motta said, "Those were the Lakers. That's probably what should have happened the other times we've played them. Every time we closed in on them, Magic or Jabbar took over. It just goes to show you how far we have to go."

Abdul-Jabbar had 13 rebounds and Johnson doled out 11 assists in the rout.

"In the fourth quarter I wanted us to keep running and not try to milk the clock," Riley said. "We couldn't let them come from behind again."

Los Angeles dominated the boards 55-39 and built the lead to 14 points in the first half.

Playoffs for Sunset...

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The first of five rounds of eliminations, which will provide the 1983 CIF 4-A basketball champion at Long Beach Arena March 5 gets under way tonight with three Sunset League representatives taking their shots.

For Sunset League champion Huntington Beach it's a home game against Notre Dame (Sherman Oaks), a 67-56 winner at San Marcos Wednesday in a wild card contest to determine the Oilers' opponent.

Marina and Ocean View, however, are on the road with games at Bosco Tech (Rosemead) and Los Alamitos. Tipoff in each instance is at 7:30.

The seeded teams in the 32-team tournament include St. Bernard (22-2), Mater Dei (23-2), Verbum Dei (21-6) and Long Beach Poly (22-3).

Lakewood, the 1982 4-A champion, is at Buena.

Oilers put nine-game winning streak on the line

BILLY THOMPSON

The Oilers of Huntington Beach Coach Roy Miller are in the playoffs for the first time since 1979 when they were eliminated in the first round by Compton, 66-65.

Huntington Beach boasts three first team all-league selections in 6-7 sophomore Jamel Garner, 6-6 Mike Mills and playmakers Billy Thompson, in addition to second team choice Lou Harrigan.

Notre Dame answers the Oilers' high-low post offense with a guard-oriented game, led by 6-1 senior James Dixon, who has averaged 21.8 points a game. Notre Dame is 16-7 overall and the Del Rey League's No. 3 entry.

Vikings eye upset on road against Bosco Tech

SCOTT FILPEK

Marina High's Vikings have a tough order to fill at Bosco Tech (located at 1151 San Gabriel Blvd. in Rosemead).

The Techmen, runners-up to St. John Bosco in the Del Rey League with a 22-4 record, finished second at the San Dimas Tournament of Champions. They're ranked No. 8 in the final 4-A rankings.

Wayne Engelstad, a 6-7 junior with a 21.3 scoring average, and 13.4 rebounds per game, paces the Bosco Tech offense, which is mostly up-tempo.

The Vikings counter with Sunset League Player of the Year Scott Filipek, who averaged 23.6 points and 7 assists a game.

Seahawks at Los Alamitos with revenge motive

KEITH MULLALLY

It's a rematch for Ocean View's Seahawks, who take their third place credentials to Los Alamitos where the Empire League champions await with a 19-5 record.

Los Alamitos dealt Ocean View a 79-65 loss in early December behind double figure scoring from all five starters.

The Seahawks rely on a zone defense and the outside shooting of 6-8 Byron Ball, 6-4 1/2 Mike Judge and 6-6 Steve Moser, in addition to the all-around play of Keith Mullally.

Steve Moser and his Ocean View teammates duel Los Alamitos.

...Sea View teams

Sea View League co-champions Estancia and Corona del Mar high schools take their annual trek into the CIF 3-A basketball playoffs, beginning tonight as the 32-team eliminations get under way. Each is billed to begin at 7:30.

The Eagles of Estancia have been CIF entries the past seven years (five times under Coach Larry Sunderman), advancing to the semifinals in 1981 and winning the first round game every year.

Corona del Mar High's Sea Kings have also been to the playoffs seven straight years (six under Coach Jack Errion) and won two 3-A crowns in addition to getting to the finals and semis on two other occasions.

Also in action tonight from the Sea View League is El Toro (at Foothill); and South Coast League teams Capistrano Valley (hosting Warren), Dana Hills (at Santa Ana) and Laguna Hills (at Cerritos).

Eagles seek eighth straight CIF opening win

Estancia's Eagles are up against a foe with similar size in Moreno Valley (18-6), which tied for second in the Sunbelt League.

Moreno Valley's Vikings rely on 6-1 center Larry Williams (17.0 points per game), 6-3 forward Damon Medlock (12.0 ppg) and 5-10 Tony Ward (14.0 ppg), according to Coach John Dahl.

Estancia guards Jon Johnston and Jim Curtis will be up against the man-to-man defense of Moreno Valley.

Among Moreno Valley's six losses are two in double overtime, one in overtime and one which came in the final three seconds of regulation.

JON JOHNSTON

Sea Kings await Rowland's inside muscle attack

Rowland High's Raiders bring their high post offense to Corona del Mar with an anticipated tendency toward muscling the ball inside — where the Sea Kings' Greg Wynn, Karl Wolff and Chip McKibben are stationed.

Also expected back for the Sea Kings is 6-6 Tom Vance to go with the CdM backcourt duo of Mike Hess and Dave VanSteenhuysen.

Rowland's most proficient scorers are 6-4 Richard Martinez (15.6) and 5-11 guard Eddie Dominguez (14.2). The Raiders compiled a 13-10 overall record and competed in the same league (Sierra) with No. 3 seeded Los Altos.

GREG WYNN

El Toro, Capo, Dana Hills, Laguna Hills vie

JEFF ARNOLD

Jeff Arnold and his El Toro teammates take their 13-8 record to Foothill where the Century League champions await with a 18-6 overall mark.

Capistrano Valley's Cougars, who own a 22-2 overall record, the South Coast League title and the No. 3 ranking in Orange County, have Burt Call in the backcourt to try to seal off visiting Warren (17-7).

Dana Hills (13-10) is at Santa Ana (14-9) and Laguna Hills' Hawks (14-10) are at Cerritos (20-4) in other games involving South Coast entries.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
T.S. No. F-881

YOU ARE IN DEFAULT UNDER A DEED OF TRUST, DATED MAY 10, 1982, UNLESS YOU TAKE ACTION TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY, IT MAY BE SOLD AT A PUBLIC SALE. IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDING AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER.

On March 11, 1983, at 9:15 A.M., EXCHANGE TITLEHOLDERS, INC., a California Corporation as duly appointed Trustee under and pursuant to Deed of Trust recorded May 13, 1982, as Inst. No. 82-166077, of Official Records in the office of the County Recorder of Orange County, State of California. Executed by STEVEN R. STACHER, an unmarried man and M. ANN MONTAGUE, a single woman as Joint Tenants with Right of Survivorship, will sell at Public Auction, to the highest bidder for cash (payable at time of sale in lawful money of the United States) at the front entrance to the old Orange County Courthouse, located on Santa Ana Blvd., between Sycamore St. and Broadway, Santa Ana, Calif., all right, title and interest conveyed to and now held by it under said Deed of Trust in the property situated in said County and State described as: Lot 8 of Tract No. 9642, as shown on a map recorded in Book 416, Pages 39 and 40 Miscellaneous Maps, Records of Orange County, California.

The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 1 Petersburg, Irvine, California 92714.

The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any inaccuracy of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein.

Said sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, with interest thereon, as provided in said note(s), advances, if any, under the terms of said Deed of Trust, fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trustee created by said Deed of Trust.

The total amount of the unpaid balance of the obligation secured by the property to be sold and reasonable estimated costs, expenses and advances at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale is $48,123.29.

The beneficiary under said Deed of Trust heretofore executed and delivered to the undersigned a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and a written Notice of Default and Election to Sell. The undersigned caused said Notice of Default and Election to be recorded in the county where the real property is located.

PUBLIC NOTICE

IMPORTANT NOTICE
IF YOUR PROPERTY IS IN FORECLOSURE BECAUSE YOU ARE BEHIND IN YOUR PAYMENTS, IT MAY BE SOLD WITHOUT ANY COURT ACTION, and you may have the legal right to bring your account in good standing by paying all of your past due payments plus permitted costs and expenses within three months from the date this notice of default was recorded. This amount is $1,346.73 as of December 15, 1982, and will increase until your account becomes current. You may not have to pay the entire unpaid portion of your account, even though full payment was demanded, but you must pay the amount stated above.

After three months from the date of recording of this document (which date of recording appears hereon), unless the obligation being foreclosed upon permits a longer period, you have only the legal right to stop the foreclosure by paying the entire amount demanded by your creditor.

To find out the amount you must pay, or to arrange for payment to stop the foreclosure, or if your property is in foreclosure for any other reason, contact: PCM REALTY AND MANAGEMENT c/o ALLEN & FLATT, 4400 MacArthur Boulevard, Suite 370, Newport Beach, California 92660, (714) 752-7474.

If you have any questions, you should contact a lawyer or the governmental agency which may have insured your loan.

Remember, YOU MAY LOSE LEGAL RIGHTS IF YOU DO NOT TAKE PROMPT ACTION.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to Article VI, Section 8 of the Declaration of Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions recorded November 1, 1973 in Book 11062, Pages 686-713, inclusive, as Instrument No. 16202, Official Records of Orange County, California, a breach of the obligation of payment of assessments has occurred. Notice of said breach and lien was filed for record on March 23, 1982 as Document No. 82-100372 of said Official Records. No payment of past due amounts has occurred. Therefore, the Pepperwood Village Homeowners' Association does hereby elect to cause to be sold, the following described real property to satisfy the obligation:

Unit 54, Lot 1, Tract 7948, as described and recorded in Book 360, Pages 42 and 43, inclusive of Miscellaneous Maps, Official Records of Orange County, California.

The record vested owner(s) of the property more commonly known as 1471 South Walnut, A-54, Anaheim, California, hereafter referred to as Yousaria A. Refai.

Smith finds angel roles all the 'Rage'

By JAY BOBBIN

Certain performers have a thread running through their careers. Sometimes, it's a co-star or director with whom they've worked several times. For others, a word in a title can be the continuing factor, and that's the link between two projects for beautiful Jaclyn Smith. It's almost needless to mention that she was one of "Charlie's Angels" in that hit series, and she'll star in NBC's version of Sidney Sheldon's best-seller "Rage of Angels" on Sunday, Feb. 20 and Monday, Feb. 21.

Smith plays Jennifer Parker, an ambitious young woman training to become a lawyer. An encounter with a witness in a gangland trial tarnishes her reputation. She then finds it hard to establish her own practice, but she pushes onward and overcomes all obstacles, attracting two different suitors: conservative but married attorney Adam Warner (Ken Howard) and ruthless, streetwise underworld lawyer Michael Moretti (Armand Assante).

"I've always looked for departures from Charlie's Angels," the model-turned-actress admits, "simply to fight that superficial image; those roles really were interchangeable among the girls. Each character I've wanted to do since then has been totally different from the last; I even consider Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy a character role because of the wigs and the dialect. This role is really the best I've been offered, though, because she's so fully developed. Jennifer is very well written in the book, but my imagination could play a part in determining how she had to appear."

Though Smith was spontaneous to an extent, she also did some heavy preparation for the part. "I worked with a dialect coach, because I do have a bit of a Southern accent, and the courtroom scenes had to sound crisp and clear. I also did legal research, to become familiar with the terms, and spoke with several female attorneys. In a courtroom, a lawyer is really giving a performance; he's an actor in a sense, so the delivery had to be very spunky and certainly not in the soft-spoken manner I really have."

Since Smith gave birth to son Gaston (by her third husband, cinematographer Tony Richmond) shortly before filming began, her maternal duties remained as important as the movie: "I really had Gaston with me everywhere except Acapulco — which was only four days — and Paris, which was also four. He stayed back in New York, but we were together all the time I was shooting there, so I didn't feel cheated."

ABC's Thursday night insult festival

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

If you're a veteran situation comedy watcher, you no doubt spotted several familiar trends in the premiere episodes of two new ABC series, "Condo" and "Amanda's," airing at 8 and 8:30 p.m. Thursdays.

First, you realized that old sitcom stars never die. They just get a new name, a new family, a new format and a fresh wagonload of recycled one-liners.

And you noticed that old sitcom themes never die. They just get a change of scenery. If it was funny once to make fun of racial tension between blacks and whites, let's try it between whites and Mexican-Americans. If cranky senior citizens and dimwitted employees were good for some cheap laughs before, by all means do it one more time.

But before taking a closer look at these two new series, let's pause for a brief refresher course in sitcom history.

Back in the 1960s, the airwaves were dominated by corny rural comedies such as "The Beverly Hillbillies," "Petticoat Junction" and "Green Acres." But something happened in the early 1970s: TV sitcoms grew up and moved to the city. Two ground-breaking series, both debuting in 1970, set the tone: "All in the Family" and "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

Archie Bunker's bunch and the WJM newsroom gang took slightly different routes in raising sitcom humor to new, more mature heights. "All in the Family" launched a loud, frontal assault on important social issues, employing all the subtlety of a bazooka. Archie, the all-purpose bigot, took on blacks one week, Jews the next, homosexuals the week after that.

The series worked, of course, because of the perfectly balanced ensemble (sweet Edith was always on hand to counter Archie's worst habits) and because the writers were always clever enough to show that Archie's bigotry never paid off.

"The Mary Tyler Moore Show," of course, did not attack social issues as directly, but it was no less revolutionary. It presented an independent, professional woman who had a social life but was not desperate to be married. It was intelligent and unafraid to deal with social issues in a more gentle manner. (During the series' seven-year run, Lou Grant got divorced, Chuckles the Clown died, Phyllis' brother revealed he was gay, Ted Baxter had fertility problems.)

The comedy styles of the two series were quite different. "All in the Family" relied on loud philosophical arguments (between Archie and the Meathead, for example) and outrageous insults (between Archie and the Jeffersons, for instance).

The MTM shows were quieter, relying on the more difficult comedy of character. The laughs were based on James Kirkridge (McLean Stevenson) and Jess Rodriguez (Luis Avalos) draw battle lines in "Condo," a new ABC comedy Thursdays at 8 p.m. on KABC (7).

Another assassin still waiting for Roman

By LYNDA HIRSCH

ALL MY CHILDREN: Silver continues to create havoc in Erica's career by giving her the wrong script. When Erica flies off handle at meeting, Lars says if she doesn't stop her outbursts she'll never work again. Erica thinks she is having a nervous breakdown but will not see a therapist. When Kent expresses his concern for Erica to Silver, a jealous Silver wishes Erica were dead. Cliff, realizing Palmer signed Nina's signature to power of attorney, considers legal action. After learning that Palmer and Daisy are still having an affair, Chuck plans to tell Donna, but changes his mind when Donna says how much she and the baby need Palmer. Turning on the charm, Tad manages to get off with a one-year probation. Despite his protests, Ruth enrolls Tad in high school. Catching Langley and Opal embracing, Jenny feels a lack of respect for her mother. Benny and Phoebe plot to get Brooke and Tom together again. Mark and Ellen are trying to reconcile.

ANOTHER WORLD: On the witness stand, Sandy's past as a male prostitute is revealed. A blinded Rachel is unable to deal with Steve's death. Pulling into her shell, she wishes she had married Steve months ago. Mac hurt when Rachel refuses any help from him. It is suggested that Quinn take over Steve's business. Under cross-examination, Blaine breaks down on witness stand. Cass resigns from Cory Publishing and tells Mac that Felicia has pleaded with him to start his own publishing house and that she is going to be Cass's first client. Cecille furious when she spots Felicia's lipstick on Cass's collar. Elena takes stand to testify against Cecille.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Annie gives birth to quadruplets, two boys and two girls. Karen tells James if he doesn't marry her she will expose the truth that he is not a true Stenbeck. James talks Dee into eloping with him. Margo tries to reconcile with Tom, but he believes she had an abortion and refuses to get in touch. When Craig learns that the insurance company is going to settle with Steve, he places a phone call and says that it appears that Steve set his own truck on fire, causing the case to be reopened. Maggie agrees to be John's lawyer, but warns him he may end up in jail for faking his own death.

CAPITOL: Julie says she will not choose between her family and Tyler. Mark rejects Sloane's suggestion that he give her confidential material in return for his being allowed to censor her copy. Kelly won't go with Trey to Julie's birthday party, fearing Myrna will expose her as a one-time hooker. Jordy is drinking again. Ronni meets her father, Danny Danato. Frank develops Larry's picture and discovers a code. Having dinner at Maggie's, Frank amused when she confesses her love for him. Once Maggie falls asleep, a gun-toting Frank heads for the break-in at the Easy Rider.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Roman struggles with the phony tailor and kills him. Marlena and Roman are married. Stephano and Alex are not worried since there is another assassin waiting for Roman. A clairvoyant Eugene is aware of the murderer on the balcony who has drawn a gun to kill Roman. Roman and Abe stop the would-be killer and decide on a plan that will incriminate Stephano. After Marlena and Roman are married, she learns that she will be spending her honeymoon not with Roman, but with Don. Roman disguises himself as one of the Demearas' employees and gets himself locked up with his intended murderer.

EDGE OF NIGHT: Camellia makes pass at Gavin. Miles puzzled by Nicole's unwillingness to fight murder rap.

Raven postpones marriage to Ian and flies to see Sky. Barbara's father growing fonder of Miles.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Tolliver thinks Susan is double-crossing him in the blackmail attempt of the Quartermaines. Scotty and Heather fear long prison terms for the forgery of Jason's power of attorney. Alice thinks Susan is on the brink of an emotional breakdown. The Quartermaines are fearful that their illegitimacy will be exposed, causing them to lose all their money. Susan invites Jackie over for a major story. Jackie arrives minutes after Heather flees the cottage and discovers Susan shot to death just as the Quartermaines appear. Holly and Scorpio wed and decide everyone but Ruby and Bobbi will think Scorpio is the baby's father. Blackie continues to help Lu hide from her pursuers.

GUIDING LIGHT: Jennifer believes that Amanda seduced Mark, but Mark tells Jennifer the truth — that he came on to Amanda. A broken-hearted Jennifer leaves town, but leaves a note for Morgan. That note is destroyed and Jennifer's disappearance is considered a mystery. Quint teeters between life and death. He is finally freed from the wrecked auto and rushed to the hospital. Rebecca steals into his room and makes Quint believe that the crash occurred as he tried to kill her. Quint goes into cardiac arrest and Justin decides to operate. Peter Enright arrives in Springfield as Alan and Hope's houseguest. He later visits Justin to have a heart exam. Justin and he discuss a serious cardiac problem, with Peter saying that the disappearance of his daughter caused much trouble. Philip becomes a teen. Tony learns that Suzi has run away from the ballet company. Ed and Maureen wed.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: The mob feels that Jenny may realize who killed Stubbs. She and Larry go out for dinner, unaware that the bottle of wine they have has bacteria placed in it by Tommy. Dee and Asa wed and go on a Texas honeymoon. A lonesome Bo decides to see Becky. While Becky loves Bo, she realizes he's seeing her on the rebound. Free from jail, Marco decides to open up a talent agency and in order to finance it, he steals Samantha's health club mailing list and sells it to a travel agency. Katrina agrees to let Jenny care for Mary. Cassie takes Ian's letter sweater but says she won't go to bed in exchange for it. Wilton Varner, the interior decorator, turns out to be Tango, although no one in Llanview realizes this.

RYAN'S HOPE: Joe and Johnny have an argument with Johnny accusing Joe of being back in the mob. Ace gives Angie's dog to Siobhan. Patrick discovers Amanda is having toxic reaction to the potion Catsby gave her and Amanda is hospitalized. Catsby tells Kirk she prevented Amanda from revealing anything about the man in Switzerland. Pat hires an actor who looks like Kirk's former partner in hopes this will smoke out Kirk's secret. Seneca tells Jill and Faith he plans to wed as soon as a viable candidate comes along. Frank Ryan is about to return to New York.

SEARCH FOR TOMORROW: George fears Rusty when Tony refuses to deceive Liza any longer. Brian graduates from the police academy. At Stu's urging to take some time off, Joe decides to accept Rusty's offer to become chairperson of his bank. Rusty continues to create tension between Travis and Liza by making Travis believe Tony and Liza were lovers. Jenny learns she can't afford to hire detective to locate her long-lost daughter Danielle. Jo unaware that she is heading a bank which is being used to launder illegal money. Warren takes Suzi on a delayed honeymoon in order to escape Rusty's control. In Trinidad the complex interaction of people bonded together by unspoken affection, despite their drastically different personalities. What other show could have created hilarious classic episodes out of the death of Chuckles the Clown or Lou Grant's refusal to attend his own surprise birthday party?

Many of the popular sitcoms currently on the air follow in the footsteps of these programs. "Newhart," "Taxi" and "Cheers" are character comedies in the MTM tradition.

ABC's two new Thursday series, "Condo" and "Amanda's" follow the "All in the Family" model, each delivering 30 minutes worth of heavy-handed insults. Neither of these tasteless programs, however, has the underlying heart and occasional moments of poignancy that balanced Archie's anti-social tendencies.

The new series also employ two sitcom veterans: McLean Stevenson, who was Col. Blake on the early "M-A-S-H" episodes, and Beatrice Arthur, who starred as "Maude."

In "Condo," Stevenson portrays a WASP family man who finds his new neighbor, played by Luis Avalos, is a Hispanic landscaper. In predictable fashion, Stevenson early on mistook his neighbor for the condo gardener, and the racial insult battle was under way.

"Do you speak English? Nice to meet one of you who does," Stevenson said.

When he realized the Latino was his neighbor, Stevenson muttered, "Oh, my God . . ."

To which Avalos replied, "If you have one, pray to him for some intelligence."

Later, Stevenson told him, "Go back to your probably enormous family."

Stevenson's own sitcom family was apparently out to lunch when brains were handed out. His younger son (Marc Price) wore stereo headphones constantly and made such intelligent statements as "Ah, Dad, do I have to read? It's Saturday!"

His dippy wife (Brooke Alderson) explained the history of the family's Christmas wreath: "Some black children were selling them door to door, and we felt we'd better play it safe and buy one."

But in a credibility-straining plot turn, the teen-age children from the two families (Mark Schubb and Julie Carmen) fall instantly in love, and get married secretly so their parents won't keep them apart. Then they conveniently forget to tell their parents about it until the girl finds she's pregnant three months later.

So you guessed it! Now, the feuding fathers are in-laws and will be forced to trade insults week after week. What could be funnier?

An old rubber boot, perhaps.

The show's racial humor is pointless and offensive. "Condo" ought to be demolished as soon as possible.

"Amanda's" was a bit funnier because it moved faster. But it wasn't really much of an improvement.

Bea Arthur resurrects Maude's obnoxious personality as the proprietor of a small Southern California hotel.

She's so rude to her guests, however, it's a wonder anyone would want to stay there. "If there's anything you want, go take a flying leap!" she told one.

In the dining room, another guest complained about the wilted lettuce. "You probably scared it to death," Arthur replied.

Neither her family nor her enemies were spared.

She told rival hotel owner, "If I die before you, I'm to be cremated and my ashes blown in your eyes."

Speaking of her son's wife, she said, "Face it, Marty, the girl is a lemon."

As a back-to-back barrage of insults, "Condo" and Bea Arthur stars as the owner of a small hotel and Fred McCarren and Simone Griffeth star as her son and daughter-in-law, in "Amanda's," Thursdays at 8:30 p.m. on KABC (7).

"Amanda's" raise sitcom nastiness to new heights. The fact that the shows included not one likable character didn't seem to bother the producers.

The only antidote for this Thursday night monster festival is a quick trip at 9:30 p.m. to the "Cheers" bar. The characters at that place show a little warmth and compassion now and then, and might restore your faith in humanity.

TV Q&A

New talk show will pour it on 'Thicke'

By LYNDA HIRSCH

Q: Can you tell me if the actor who's being named to work on the new syndicated talk show "Thicke of the Night" is any relation to Gloria Loring, who is on Days of Our Lives? — V.R., Shippensburg, Pa.

A: Yes, he's her husband. Alan Thicke has long been popular for his Canadian talk show and has written many songs in conjunction with his wife Gloria, who is seen as Liz on Days of Our Lives. Fred Silverman, who is putting the show together for his independent production company and formerly was president of NBC, has decided that Thicke will be perfect competition for the Peacock Network's Johnny Carson. Says Silverman, "Thicke will do off-the-wall kind of humor, a la Steve Allen. We are hoping to get a younger audience than Carson has and hold them through the years."

Q: Can you tell me if the actress who played Tracy on General Hospital is going to be returning shortly? They've mentioned her name several times. — W.Y., Parma, Ohio.

A: At this point, Jane Eliot, who created Tracy and then went on to play Carrie on Guiding Light, has no plans to return. She is currently being seen on the cable soap "New Day in Eden." Her characters of Tracy and Carrie were both created by Doug Marland, who has been head writer for Guiding Light and General Hospital.

Q: Is it likely that the character of Alma will return to Another World? I felt her acting was inspired. — R.V., Charlotte, N.C.

A: Elizabeth Franz was amazing in the job, but producers aren't certain how well the "Alma-drives-Blaine-insane" storyline was received by viewers. Laura Malone, who plays Blaine, said that those scenes were "very tough for me to do. In fact, they were so tough that many of the other actors on the show couldn't watch them." As for Franz, she is now doing a play on Broadway.

Q: The actress who plays Stella the maid on General Hospital looks very familiar. Can you tell me what her acting background is? — Mrs. N.H., Canton, Ohio.

A: You may recall Jeff Connell from "The George Gobel Show," where she played "Spooky Ole Alice," Gobel's long-suffering wife.

Q: Susan Lucci is fabulous on All My Children. I understand she's nothing like her character and quite a homebody. Is that true? — W.N., Buffalo, N.Y.

A: At present, Susan is nothing like Erica. She is married to restaurateur Helmut Huber and has two children, a son, Andreas, and a daughter, Liza. However, Susan has told us, "When I was younger I was much like Erica. In fact, when I have to say some of those silly lines or be mean I just remember how I treated my mother when I was 17 and it all comes back to me."

Q: On The Guiding Light, they brought back the character of Rick as Ed's son. Ed's son isn't named Rick, he's named Freddy. Has the new writer gone mad or doesn't she know any better? — L.T., Kenosha, Wis.

A: She does know better. The character's full name is Frederick Bauer, named after his grandfather, lovingly known as Papa Bauer for many years on that show. As a young man, Frederick decided to go from the name Freddy to a different diminutive for Frederick — Rick.

CHIROPRACTIC OUTLOOK

By Dr. Gary Baranoski

SEAT BELT STIFFNESS

Even a brief auto trip, kept safe with a seat belt, can cause a stiffness that affects your ligaments, muscles, nerves and body frame.

The construction of the belt's webbing, combined with jolts and jarring (sudden pothole drops, for instance) can force your spinal columns out of its proper position, exerting abnormal pressures. This is frequently felt as pain between shoulder blades, neck and spinal stiffness, and arms and lower-trunk discomfort which may affect the legs.

Careful, thorough chiropractic exams will locate the cause of stiffness. Gentle adjustments will correct it. Seat belts save lives. Use them. And utilize chiropractic to restore body flexibility. Have regular chiropractic exams and spinal treatments, too.

Sue Etem . . .

Artistic style blends with limited-edition collectors plates

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Artist Sue Etem of Huntington Beach has come a long way since starting her professional career in her native state of Texas.

There she worked for a newspaper, illustrating advertising copy for Montgomery Ward.

"I drew a lot of post-hole diggers and union suits," (long underwear) she said.

But she's put an emphasis on painting people ever since, particularly chubby-cheeked children.

And about three years ago, she discovered the world of limited-edition collector's plates. Her artistic style seemed to blend perfectly with the fast-growing business and Etem soon became a leading star among plate collectors.

Her illustration of a blonde child sipping water from a garden hose was named the plate of the year in 1982 for the biggest increase in value over the year.

Initially the plate was sold at $39.50. At year's end it was quoted at $132, according to industry sources.

On Stage

Bach Festival . . . OC Master Chorale to honor composer

The Orange County Master Chorale will present the county's first two-day Bach Festival Saturday and Sunday at two Santa Ana locations.

The Chorale will begin its musical tribute to the Baroque composer, with a free concert to be held at the First Baptist Church of Santa Ana, 1010 W. 17th St. at 8 p.m. Saturday. Sunday's concert, which will feature one of Bach's greatest masterpieces, "Mass in B Minor," will be held in the Santa Ana High School Auditorium, 520 W. Walnut at 7 p.m.

Widely acclaimed Baroque artists performing at the first event include nationally acclaimed concert artist and University of Southern California instructor Eudice Shapiro; nationally top-ranked organist Marvel Jensen; USC magna cum laude graduate pianist Sandy McCune; and the singing ensemble, the Jane Hardester Singers, led by choral conductor Dr. Jane Hardester. In addition, members of the Orange County Master Chorale, as well as a professional chamber orchestra, will perform at the event.

Shapiro will be soloist for Bach's "Suite No. 3 in D-major" and "Partita in C-major" as well as his "Brandenburg Concerto No. 2 in F-major." Jensen will perform "Passacaglia and Fugue in C-minor," while pianist McCune's solo contribution is Bach's "Concerto in D-minor."

The Jane Hardester Singers will perform "Nach dir Herr, verlanget mich" and will later join with members of the Chorale for their rendition of Bach's "Lobet den Herrn, alle Heiden."

Sponsors who have made it possible for the Chorale to present this program by underwriting the majority of the costs are Bingham Electric Company, Carl Karcher Enterprises, Murdy Foundation, Inc., Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Schumacher, Mr. and Mrs. Gary A. De Vul, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Hanada and the Musicians Union No. 7 Trust Fund.

The second day of the Bach Festival will feature a special presentation of Bach's "Mass in B Minor." Bach completed his setting of the Latin service of Holy Eucharist within the last three years of his life, after a quarter-century of writing and directing the music for St. Thomas Lutheran Church in Leipzig. He divided each of the five traditional movements — those used in every celebration of the mass — into portions for the chorus and portions for soloists.

The composition will be performed by the Chorale under the direction of music director Dr. Maurice Allard.

Featured soloists will include Sara Ganz, soprano, who has been associated with the San Francisco Opera for the past three years. Gail Dubinbaum, mezzo-soprano, who debuted in December at the Metropolitan Opera as a member of the company's Young Artists Program, will solo in the "Mass" as will Stephen Amerson, tenor, who was selected as a finalist in the Ventura County Symphony's Young Artist Competition in 1981. Rod Gilfry, bass-baritone, who will soon graduate from USC with a master of music degree in vocal arts, has appeared at concert halls throughout the West. Although he has performed Bach's "Mass in B-minor" previously, this is his first appearance with the Orange County Master Chorale.

The Orange County Pacific Symphony Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Dr. Keith Clark, will join the Chorale for this performance.

"The Chorale was founded in 1956 on the occasion of the City of Anaheim's centennial celebration," according to Donna Bunce, business manager and 12-year member of the Chorale. "The Orange County Master Chorale name was adopted in 1969 to better reflect the countywide nature of its performing locations and membership."

"Dr. Allard is in his fifth season as director of the Chorale. He is well known in Orange County from his 11 years of teaching at the University of California, Irvine, where he was professor of music in the areas of voice and choral work," said Bunce.

The first night's concert is free. Tickets for the Chorale's Sunday concert, Bach's "Mass in B Minor," are $8.50 for adults and $5 for seniors and students 18 years and under.

To order tickets call 714-535-0153.

What's Happening

James Woodward . . . A plate is a plate is a plate or is it?

The oldest collector's plate is Bing & Grondahl's "Frozen Window," which is valued at over $4,000.

A plate is a plate is a . . . plate? Not when it is one of the more than 1,100 kinds of limited edition plates currently gracing the shelves and walls of American homes.

Then, it's much more than the utilitarian dish. It's a work of art. A decorative masterpiece. And an investment.

According to James Woodward, manager of the Raphael Galleries, Ltd. of La Jolla and president of the Southern California Association of Plate Collectors Clubs, limited edition plates are the world's most popularly traded art form.

The first California Plate Collectors Convention, scheduled for tomorrow and Sunday at the Anaheim Convention Center is sponsored by the SCAPCC. The convention will feature plates from the world's foremost manufacturers and is expected to draw more than 30,000 plate enthusiasts from the Western United States and Canada. It is open to the public.

Woodward says plate collectors currently number between five and six million nationwide and another 400,000 are joining the ranks annually.

"The perception of collectors plates as affordable and enjoyable art is the underlying reason for the phenomenal growth of the plate market in recent years," says Woodward.

A collectors plate is a decorative plate produced in a limited edition for the purpose of being collected. They may bear pictures or sculpture and be manufactured in a variety of countries.

Most plates are round and ceramic, from simple terra cotta to true hard-fire porcelain. Others are square or made from a variety of materials — crystal, wood, silver, silverplate, copper or pewter.

Historically, the first collectors plate ever produced was by the Danish firm, Bing & Grondahl, in 1895. Only 400 to 500 copies of the "Frozen Window" were made, with most still in existence.

The key to a collectors plate is a limited edition. Because only certain numbers of plates are made the plates have the potential for increased appreciation.

"Once closed, the edition of a plate is never reopened," explains Woodward. "The market price is determined exclusively by how much collectors are willing to pay."

And, collectors pay plenty for some of the more popular editions. Collectors who purchased the Lalique Annual in 1965 ($25) or the Goebel Hummel Annual in 1971 ($30) or the Rockwell Society Heritage in 1977 ($14.50) have seen their plates increase in market value from 1,275 percent to 7,300 percent.

The most expensive collectors plate is the 1907 Rosenthal at $5,000. It originally sold for $1.

According to Woodward, most plates sell (at first issue) anywhere from $20 to $50.

In "Lovesick," the doctor needs a doctor.

More precisely, a psychiatrist played by Dudley Moore falls in love with a beautiful young patient (Elizabeth McGovern) and agonizes over the unethical affair during visits with a fellow shrink (John Huston).

As a film, "Lovesick" isn't particularly healthy either.

Writer-director Marshall Brickman (Woody Allen's writing partner on "Sleeper," "Annie Hall" and "Manhattan") has tried to inject too many ideas into a vehicle that's too frail to contain them.

He's wound up with a comedy that's not funny enough, a romance that strains credibility and a social satire that barely scratches its target.

An uneven performance by Dudley Moore doesn't help. As the film opens, Moore is a serious New York psychiatrist who consults at a hospital and listens to a succession of wealthy, eccentric patients. He's also quite bored.

During a birthday party, a fellow shrink (Wallace Shawn in a brief but funny appearance) tells Moore about his repressed love for a neurotic young playwright he's treating. Shawn's sudden death prompts the woman to begin seeing Moore for treatment.

Moore has been reasonably credible thus far, but his abrupt infatuation throws the film into an grinding gear change. Before long, Moore is spying on McGovern through Manhattan and breaking into her apartment to read her diary.

Moore's credibility evaporates as he begins to mimic his Bo Derek-chasing character in "10." Later, a combination of pills and alcohol turns him into a lovable drunk resembling the one he portrayed in "Arthur." McGovern, whose natural charm and beauty graced "Ordinary People" and "Ragtime," fares only a little better. It's easy to imagine her as the object of any man's desire, but she doesn't show enough intellectual depth to convince us she's a playwright.

To be fair, writer-director Brickman must take much of the blame for the sketchy performances. His thin script doesn't give McGovern, in particular, much to work with.

John Huston is hammy as the older psychiatrist Moore consults. Alec Guinness is more restrained and more effective as the ghost of Sigmund Freud, who pops up now and again as Moore's conscience.

Near the conclusion, Brickman seems to lose interest in the romance. Instead he tries to skewer psychiatry as a whole during a confrontation between Moore and some colleagues who disapprove of his romance.

In his role as Freud, Guinness mutters, "Psychoanalysis was just an experiment. I never meant for it to become an industry."

It's questionable whether even the real Freud could have straightened out this schizophrenic film.

Dudley Moore portrays a psychiatrist who falls in love with Elizabeth McGovern in "Lovesick."

by PHIL SNEIDERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Let's get one thing straight up front: Dr. Phil Sniderman, a psychiatrist who is one of the central characters in "The Entity," is not related to this reviewer, even though he does bear the same name.

Ron Silver portrays this mind doctor, who believes an invisible creature that's been raping Carla Moran (Barbara Hershey) is just a figment of her imagination.

We in the audience, know better, of course.

because we've seen Carla getting bounced around her bedroom by an unseen presence. We've even seen this creature attack her son with lightning bolts.

Despite some muddled plotting, "The Entity" is an above-average supernatural thriller with several effective white-knuckle sequences.

While its haunted house effects aren't as flashy as those in "Poltergeist," the film does present an interesting tug of war between skeptical psychiatrists and ghost-hunting parapsychologists.

Above all, "The Entity" boasts an outstanding lead performance by Barbara Hershey. The film forces Hershey to endure quite a few physical indignities at the hands of the unseen force, but her character emerges as a strong-willed, caring woman struggling to regain control of her life.

After the creature's first attacks, including a scary runaway car episode, Carla seeks help from Dr. Sneiderman, the unrelated psychiatrist mentioned earlier.

He believes the attacks are imaginary events, linked to Carla's troubled childhood. When his treatment fails, however, she turns to a group of ... the ghost hunters set out to trap the being in liquid helium, setting up a literally chilling climax.

parapsychologists, who are quickly convinced a real psychic phenomenon is haunting the woman.

Over the psychiatrist's objections, the ghost hunters set out to trap the being in liquid helium, setting up a literally chilling climax.

As the psychiatrist, Ron Silver, who played an obnoxious producer to perfection in "Best Friends," gives a more low-key, yet no less intense performance here.

Frank DeFelitta scripted, from his novel. While he sets up an interesting debate between the different scientific groups, he doesn't adequately resolve the quarrel.

Veteran director Sidney J. Furie ("The Iceman," "Lady Sings the Blues"), handles the suspense sequences well and keeps the film grounded closer to reality than is usual for this sort of thriller.

Ron Silver is a psychiatrist trying to help a distraught Barbara Hershey in Entity."

Ballet Pacifica . . . Dancers to present new works Saturday

A trio of challenging dance works will be presented by Ballet Pacifica for the second membership program in the current series.

Slated for Saturday at 2:20 and 8 p.m. at the Laguna Moulton Playhouse, 606 Laguna Canyon Road, Laguna Beach, are "Fantasia," a new work created by Deborah Appleton to music by Tchaikovsky and another Tchaikovsky piece, "Rococo Variations," choreographed by Lila Zali, founder-director of Ballet Pacifica.

Also included on the varied program will be "The Gift to Be Simple," the unusual work by Norbert Vesak that was inspired by a visit he made to the Hancock Shaker Village in Massachusetts in 1961. The production, which is based on original Shaker dance forms, sensitively portrays the lifestyle of the Shakers and their many creative contributions to society.

Tickets are $8 for adults and $6 for children, students and senior citizens and may be ordered by calling (714) 494-7271.

FRANCOIS, 18151 Beach Blvd., Huntington Beach. 842-1919. Lunch served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Dinner served from 6 to 11 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Closed Sunday. Lunch from $4.95 to $11.50. Dinner from $9.85 to $19.50. Full bar service. Banquet facilities available. Reservations recommended.

Jimmy Richmond knew if he waited long enough, a plot of land surrounded by cauliflower fields along Beach Boulevard would make an excellent site for a restaurant. In 1966, 11 years after the property was purchased, he opened Francois as a house of fine continental cuisine at competitive prices.

Francois seems an anomaly amid the cacophony of the major thoroughfare, with its endless string of car dealerships, fast-food eateries and gas stations. But once inside the restaurant, the noise and noxious auto fumes disappear. Diners instantly are enveloped by rich wood paneling, leaded glass, antique chandeliers and high-back chairs accented by white linen, elegant silverware and china and a carnation at each table.

Service likewise was found to be helpful and of highest quality; attention you'd expect at restaurants charging twice as much for dinner entrees. It's the kind of ambiance and culinary excellence forged from Jimmy's lifetime experience in the restaurant trade.

His son, Frank, now is at the helm of this popular hangout among Huntington Beach locals. On any visit you'll also find the cordial and attentive service offered by Arnold Lindqvist and Gustavo Populus, who add the flavor of a European bistro.

The dinner menu is a popularity contest of continental favorites. Francois is well known for its flambe entrees, including specialties such as chicken Grand Marnier ($12.95) and roast duck flamed with liquors and orange sauce. Among the three a la carte soup and salads list is a popular spinach salad flambe ($3.75).

Our meal was launched with a complimentary homemade beef and chicken liver pate, served with flowered radish and parsley garnish and a heaping basket of crackers. It's a Francois tradition that others would do well to imitate.

Dinners are served with choice of soup or salad. My guest chose a salad with vinaigrette, a rather undistinguished plate of iceberg lettuce and shredded carrots. But the soup of the evening, cream of vegetable, was a most remarkable brew. It's made from a creamy chicken stock and is brimming with fresh garden-fresh vegetables, a sheer pleasure to the palate.

My guest's rack of lamb ($16.75) was cooked to order and accompanied by sculpted mashed potatoes, green beans with onions, red peppers and brussels sprouts as well as mint jelly and mint sauce. The picture was made complete with a finger bowl and a requested sampling of chef James Pigage's savory bearnaise sauce.

I opted for one of the restaurant's longtime specialties, boned chicken breasts flamed at your table with brandy, Grand Marnier, apricots and ginger and saddled with wild rice and broccolini with butter sauce. The chicken was moist and tender and the flambe performance added a festive mood to our meal.

If you still have room after one of Francois' sumptuous feasts, you'll find a most tempting dessert list. The sweet tooth might enjoy strawberries Romanoff, crepes suzette, bananas Foster, crepes Fitzgerald or cherries jubilee, all at the relatively modest price of $5.25.

The bar offers coffee diablo, cappuccino and espresso for after-dinner enjoyment. The saloon each evening also features the tunes of pianist Blaine Hardin.

What's showing along Orange Coast

AIRPLANE II THE SEQUEL: Rated PG, stars Robert Hayes, Julie Hagerty, Lloyd Bridges and Raymond Burr. Funny continuation of the first movie, a parody of disaster flicks, doesn't work as well because characters have become too familiar.

KISS ME GOODBYE: Rated PG, stars Sally Field, Jeff Bridges and James Caan in a tired plot line involving a man, woman and the woman's first husband — in spirit form.

TOOTSIE: Rated PG. Dustin Hoffman plays an out of work actor who dons women's clothing, and wins a soap opera role. Funniest film of the year, and it's quite touching, too. Jessica Lange, Teri Garr and Bill Murray are superb in supporting roles.

FIRST BLOOD: Rated R. This Sylvester Stallone film about a Vietnam veteran has plenty of blood and guts but not much storyline. Stallone, as an ex-Green Beret, goes on a killing rampage when provoked beyond his limits by a bunch of local cops.

HONKYTONK MAN: Rated PG. Clint Eastwood sheds his macho image for this warm-hearted family film about an ailing country singer traveling to Nashville for a Grand Opry audition during the Depression. Eastwood directed the film, which also stars his 14-year-old son Kyle as the singer's nephew and traveling companion.

BEST FRIENDS: Rated PG, stars Burt Reynolds and Goldie Hawn as a couple who decide to marry after living together for years. Most of the comedy comes in the depiction of the couple's in-law problems.

E.T. THE EXTRA-TERRESTRIAL: Rated PG, stars Henry Thomas, Dee Wallace, Robert Macnaughton and Drew Barrymore. This highly acclaimed science-fiction film deals with a young boy who befriends a little lost alien from outer space. This family film has been touted as one of the best in years.

48 HRS.: Rated R, teams Nick Nolte and Eddie Murphy in a stylish police comedy. Directed by Walter Hill, the film's best asset is Murphy in his screen debut.

ENIGMA: Rated PG, stars Martin Sheen as a secret agent on a mission behind the Iron Curtain. Plot suffers from predictability and twists which prove unconvincing.

GANDHI: Rated PG, stars Ben Kingsley as India's non-violent mahatma. Riveting performance makes this portrait of a leader, long as it is, continually intriguing.

THE DARK CRYSTAL: Rated PG, stars the inspired creations of Jim Henson, the man behind the Muppets. But these creatures are not pigs and frogs — they're the inhabitants of a fantasy world where the struggle for good and evil is being played out against a sinister background. A triumph of innovation, design and technology.

THE EMPIRE STRIKES BACK: Rated PG, this sequel to "Star Wars" was nearly as well-received as its predecessor when originally released. Cast revives most of the old characters, played by Mark Hamill, Harrison Ford and Carrie Fisher, and introduces some new characters — including "Yoda" featuring the voice of "Miss Piggy's" Frank Oz.

THE TOY: Rated PG, this silly comedy stars Jackie Gleason and Richard Pryor. The obvious gags are no longer funny by about half-way through the picture.

STILL OF THE NIGHT: Rated PG, stars Meryl Streep and Roy Scheider in a murder mystery which abounds with Hitchcockian themes. Unfortunately, the film never heats up enough to provide the audience any real interest.

THE VERDICT: Rated R for language. Paul See Currently Screening Page 9

Newman gives his best performance in years as a drunken lawyer who pulls himself together to try a longshot case against a powerful legal firm representing the Catholic Archdiocese of Boston. High-octane direction by Sidney Lumet ("Prince of the City").

THE LAST UNICORN: Rated G, this is another animated version of a novel — but this time it's for adults as well as the kids. The story, based on a fantasy by Peter S. Beagle, follows the odyssey of a unicorn on her search for another of her own kind. Features the voices of Mia Farrow, Robert Klein, Alan Arkin and Jeff Bridges.

THE HOUSE ON SORORITY ROW: Rated R, with Kathryn McNeil and Eileen Davidson. A well-made, suspenseful horror film with surprisingly little of the blood and gore most of these flicks concentrate on.

SOPHIE'S CHOICE: Rated R, stars Meryl Streep in a soul-deep performance which is strong enough to eclipse the film's shortcomings. Streep disappears completely into her role as a concentration camp survivor haunted by guilt. But the film, at nearly three hours long, may tax the patience of action film addicts.

TIMERIDER: Rated PG, this is a humorous, fast-paced action film based on a time warp which hurtles the main character back into old Mexico. Stars Fred Ward as biker Lyle Swann, with Belinda Bauer and Peter Coyote.

TIMEWALKER: Rated PG. Science-fiction film about a mummy who breaks loose on a college campus. Though it is silly, shallow and humorless, the film does manage to work up some suspense.

TREASURE OF THE FOUR CROWNS: Rated PG, this is a 3-D adventure story with advanced special effects, masks and a stone castle centerpiece.

THE ENTITY: Rated R. Barbara Hershey gives an outstanding performance as a young mother who is repeatedly attacked by an unseen presence. Despite some muddled plotting, the film boasts some effective white-knuckle sequences and presents an interesting tug of war between psychiatrists and parapsychologists.

LOVESICK: Rated PG. Dudley Moore stars as a psychologist who falls in love with a beautiful young patient played by Elizabeth McGovern. Film is marred by a weak script and an uneven performance by Moore.

WITHOUT A TRACE: Rated PG. Gripping story of an English professor (Kate Nelligan) whose son disappears on his way to school. Nelligan gives a strong performance, and the film deals with an important subject in a reasonably credible fashion. The relentlessly somber tone is a bit wearying though.

He wants a second chance to love his children...
but someone else has taken his place.

'We Swedes . . .' Film shows Sweden from the "inside"

"We Swedes," a film that offers viewers a rare opportunity to know Sweden from the "inside," will be screened tonight at Orange Coast College.

Presented as part of OCC's 1982-83 travelogue series, "Armchair Adventure," the film will be shown at 8:00 in Orange Coast's Robert B. Moore Theatre.

Tickets for the program are $3. Gold card holders (senior citizens) and children under 12 will be admitted for $2.

Tickets are on sale in the OCC Ticket Office, located in the college's Student Center Building or they may be purchased by phone, using Visa or Mastercard, by calling 556-5527.

Tickets will also be sold at the door.

"We Swedes" was produced and will be presented by veteran filmmaker, Ed Lark. A native Californian, and graduate of UC Berkeley, Lark lived in Sweden for three years. His travel films have taken him around the world.

"We Swedes" presents a fascinating comparison between familiar tourist attractions and the real world of the Swedes. The first half of the film features the many tourist highlights that attract millions of visitors each year, while the second half goes behind the tourist facade to view the country through the eyes of the Swedes themselves.

"In the 1930s Sweden was called the 'Middle Way,' but it is no longer that," Lark says. "There is probably no other country in the world that is more noted for its progressive social changes, human rights legislation, and sexual equality."

"Sweden leads the world with new and bold programs that are designed to make life for each Swede more comfortable and secure. In spite of the many social welfare programs, Sweden is not a socialist country. Over 90 percent of the country's gross national product comes from private industry."

"WITHOUT A DOUBT A WINNER!"

"An important movie -- a movie I want you to see... if I had a child... I would take my child to see this film." Joel Siegel, GOOD MORNING AMERICA, ABC-TV

"It begins so powerfully, pulling all the right strings, and its ending has an undeniable force." Janet Maslin, NEW YORK TIMES

"Kate Nelligan is superb..." Linda Gross, LOS ANGELES TIMES

"'Without A Trace' tugged at my heart and moved me deeply."

Jeffrey Lyons, SNEAK PREVIEWS, PBS-TV

"Wrenching, high-voltage drama... hardly a dry eye in the house."

Poetry reading Saturday

Terry Kennedy Hackett, who studied under poet Anne Sexton, will read her poetry Saturday at 2:30 p.m. at the Forum Theater, 650 Laguna Canyon Road.

Hackett, of Polish background, who was raised in Vermont and was influenced by Sexton's teachings, taught women's writing in several eastern colleges including Regis and Stonehill.

The poems in her first book, "Durango," have been called "honest... hard hitting and full of insight." Her readings have been called "moving and enlightening."

Hackett recently moved to the West Coast and has given several readings in the state.

Actress Marion Ross

Marion Ross stars in 'Barefoot in the Park'

Marion Ross stars in Neil Simon's "Barefoot in the Park" at the La Mirada Civic Theatre Tuesday through March 6. Directed by Jerry Paris, the play also stars Chris Lemmon, Julie Paris, Arthur Batanides and Byron Webster.

Ross is best known for her continuing role as the delightfully zany wife, Marion Cunningham, on the hit television series "Happy Days." Ross began her career at San Diego's famed Globe Theatre where she won the city's annual newspaper award as the best actress in San Diego. She soon went on to films and television and now combines movies, television and theatre in her busy professional life.

"Barefoot in the Park" has been generally acknowledged one of the funniest and most successful stage comedies of our time. Drawn by Neil Simon from memories of the first week of his own marriage, the play depicts the adventures of a newlywed couple setting up housekeeping in an antiquated New York apartment.

Tickets are $9.50 to $13.50 and are available at the La Mirada Civic Theatre, 14900 La Mirada Boulevard, or may be charged by phone (213) 944-9801 or (714) 994-6310.

Orange County Philharmonic Society to hold auditions

Auditions for Music Encounters, a student-to-student music program sponsored by the Orange County Philharmonic Society, will be held for the south county at 10 a.m., Feb. 26, at Santa Ana High School. North county auditions are scheduled March 5 at 10 a.m. at Esperanza High School.

Music Encounters is currently presented in 52 Orange County schools. Auditions for the 1983-84 program are open to any student, 7-16 years of age, performing on any instrument, or combination of chamber music ensembles. Students must bring a short biography of music experience and have prepared three musical selections, each no longer than 3½ minutes. All music must be memorized and applicants must bring their own accompanist.

For further information regarding the Music Encounter auditions, contact the OCPS office 646-6411.

OCC program

Jan Knowlton will present a musical program, "First Ladies of Music," Saturday at 8 p.m. in Fine Arts 119 at Orange Coast College.

Tickets are available at the door for $4 or $3 in advance.

'Art of Special Effects' is topic of discussion

Frank Marshall, producer of the movie "Raiders of the Lost Ark," co-producer of "Poltergeist," and production supervisor of "E.T.," will discuss special effects during a lecture Tuesday, at Orange Coast College.

Marshall will speak at noon in OCC's Fine Arts Hall 119. Admission is free and open to the public.

Marshall has titled his lecture, "The Art of Special Effects: From 'Raiders' to 'E.T.'"

A former Newport Beach resident, Marshall is a graduate of UCLA. He began work on his first feature film in 1967, Peter Bogdanovich's "Targets."

He became a member of Bogdanovich's production crew on "The Last Picture Show" and "What's Up Doc?" then served as associate producer on "Paper Moon," "Daisy Miller," "At Long Last Love," and "Nickelodeon."

Marshall has had four feature film collaborations with producer-director Steven Spielberg — "Raiders of the Lost Ark," "Poltergeist," "E.T.," and "The Twilight Zone." He will soon be teaming up with Spielberg as executive producer of "Raiders II."

In addition to films, Marshall's interests include sports and music. He has produced several albums, as well as a cabaret act for Lesley Ann Warren.

SKINNY HAVEN — Healthy Club Card Saves Calories and Money

Inflation is hitting both wallets and waistlines these days, but Skinny Haven restaurants are battling inflation on all fronts! You can now enter the Healthy Club Card. Skinny Haven has developed the Healthy Club Card to let patrons know how much they really do care. Here's how the club works. Skinny Haven will issue an individual "Healthy Club" Card, which is good for 30 days. After having lunch or dinner at a Skinny Haven restaurant, present your Healthy Club Card to the cashier and the card will be punched for each entree purchased. After 12 punches, Skinny Haven buys you a free lunch or dinner on your next visit. That includes Salad Supreme to Quiche Neptune to the Western Beef Sandwich. More news at Skinny Haven is the addition of wine, beer and wine-cocktails to the menu at many of their 25 locations.

VELVET TURTLE — New lighter, faster and less expensive luncheons

The Velvet Turtle Restaurants have changed in a big way. Customers can now enjoy new lunch and dinner menus, new dishes, new decor and best of all, new low prices. For lunch, you can now order more salads, sirloin burgers and new sandwiches offered on Croissants, whole natural grain bread or sourdough bread. Or, a la carte and blackboard specials. Luncheon prices start at a low $3.95. Dinner is a new treat too. Patrons can look forward to a changing variety of nightly blackboard specials. New fresh fish entrees are featured every night with a choice of soup du jour or chilled salad, and warm sourdough bread. Prices begin as low as $7.95 for a complete dinner. In addition to old favorites like Beef Wellington and Roast Rack of Lamb, guests can also savor brand new lower priced specialties such as a special seafood salad, a third cut of Prime Rib and a Petite Lobster Tail. You might not recognize the Turtle from its shell, either. Almost all of the Velvet Turtles have now been remodeled with brighter and lighter interiors, and a much more relaxed atmosphere. All in all, a perfect setting for dinner. Some things, however, never change at the Velvet Turtle. Customers will continue to delight in the splendid service, warm atmosphere and fresh cut flowers. The Velvet Turtle in Newport Beach can be reached by calling 644-5313.

Sue Etem is favored artist among plate collectors

The plate also was named collectible of the year by the National Association of Limited Edition Dealers along with an art work by Norman Rockwell.

She also will be vying for top billing Saturday and Sunday at the first California Plate Collectors convention at the Anaheim Convention Center.

Industry sources say that an estimated 5.9 million people — a 4000 percent increase from 1971 — collect plates and more than 400,000 new enthusiasts will be added this year.

Etem is not involved with transferring her art to the collector plates.

Once she finishes her paintings in the studio of her second story home, she turns them over to a producer.

The painting, usually done in acrylics, is transferred to the plates by a photographic process.

Etem's works have become so popular with collectors, says her son and business agent Darrin, that her paintings are sold before she can finish them.

She was born in Fort Worth and has been involved in art since her childhood.

She and her husband Maury and their three sons lived in Europe for several years and the travel, she says, gave her a chance to study such classic artists as Velasquez, Goya, Jacques-Louis David and Murillo.

Etem said the experience fed a desire to want to duplicate the works of the masters.

South Coast theater . . . One 'Betrayal' deserves another

One good "Betrayal" deserves another, and South Coast Repertory will unveil its production of the Harold Pinter drama Tuesday, three days after this weekend's closing of the play at UC Irvine.

Sharing the Tuesday opening night will be the Harlequin Dinner Playhouse, where the comedy "An Almost Perfect Person" will open a seven-week engagement.

"Betrayal," according to advance notices, is more than a play about adultery which leaves spouses deceived and friends betrayed. Pinter begins his story at the end of the affair and builds to a climax at its first overtures 10 years earlier.

David Emmes, SCR's producing artistic director, is staging "Betrayal." His cast includes Cecelia Riddett, Dan Kern, Thomas R. Oglesby and Art Koustik.

Performances will be given Tuesdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m., Sundays at 7:30 and weekend afternoons at 2:30 at SCR's Fourth Step Theater, 655 Town Center Drive, Costa Mesa, through March 27. Call 957-4033 for reservations.

Linda Kaye Henning, late of TV's "Petticoat Junction," stars as the "Almost Perfect Person" in the Harlequin comedy. Mark Taylor and Seth Foster complete the three-character comedy about a woman and her adventures in the political arena.

Curtain times are 8:15 Tuesdays through Thursdays, 9 p.m. Friday, 8:30 Saturday and 7:30 Sunday, with Saturday and Sunday brunch matinees at 1 p.m. at the Harlequin, 3503 S. Harbor Blvd., just north of Costa Mesa. Reservations are taken at 979-5511.

Opening a week from tonight at the Huntington Beach Playhouse will be the venerable comedy "The Marriage Go Round." Jack Secord is directing the play about a college professor's bikini-clad temptations.

Jack Willenbacher will enact the fellow in the midst of a sweet dilemma. Others in the cast are Diane Marlin, Sally Golden and Patrick Healey.

Performances of "Marriage Go Round" will be given Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 through April 2 at the playhouse, in the Seaclyff Village shopping center on Main Street at Yorktown Avenue, Huntington Beach. Reservations 847-4465.

THE SAN CLEMENTE Community Theater is in rehearsal for a March 3 opening of the comical farce "See How They Run." Robert Hastings is directing the play, set in an English vicarage.

Barbara Hollis and Carl Bennett head the cast as the lone Americans, while D. David Morin is Hollis' clergyman husband.

Performances of "See How They Run" will be given Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. through March 26 in the Cabrillo Playhouse, 202 Ave. Cabrillo, San Clemente. Call 492-0465 for tickets.

FINALLY, TO THE surprise of no one who's seen the show, the Mission Viejo Playhouse has extended its splendid production of "Godspell" to a fourth weekend.

Originally scheduled to close Saturday, the rock-gospel musical now will be performed next Friday and Saturday at 8:30 in the Forum Theater on Laguna Beach's Festival of Arts grounds, 650 Laguna Canyon Road. Call 770-0381 for details.

CALLBOARD — Auditions for the musical "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off" will be held Monday at 7 p.m. at the Newport Theater Arts Center, 2501 Cliff Drive, Newport Beach . . . director Kent Johnson is seeking a leading singer-actor and actress, two teen-age girls, a small boy and 10 chorus women . . . call 642-8119 for details . . .

County's image changes under scrutiny

By GLENN SCOTT
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County is wealthy, well-educated, expensive to live in, politically powerful and ethnically diverse.

That may not exactly be new information. But 37 customers paid $150 each to learn yesterday how computers could turn that information into valuable market research on which to plan private industry growth and government services.

The Rose Institute of State and Local Government, based at Claremont McKenna College in Claremont, zeroed in on Orange County as a pilot computer study because, says director Alan Heslop, its rapid growth makes it a laboratory for studying population development.

The institute also assembled experts at the Registry Hotel in Irvine to expand on some of its findings.

High housing prices and traffic

• Housing costs in Orange County are the highest in the nation

• Tourism nets $4 billion annually and one in 10 county workers earns a living at it.

• Farm land may disappear soon. It's decreased 44.9% since 1972.

• 20% of county households earn more than $50,000 a year.

congestion will limit expansion, said economist Richard Ayer of Security Pacific National bank. The county won't grow economically as quickly as it did in the last decade, but it will grow, he said.

Agriculture is dwindling. Technology and tourism are growing, said the experts.

Also growing is Orange County's Republican voter registration, and with it the political clout to affect statewide elections, said Dr. Tony Quinn, consultant to the California Assembly Republican Caucus.

Some of the other Rose Institute findings showed an increase in the number of county residents who now work here, rather than commute to outside jobs. Many of those people work in technological fields.

But tourism still racks in $4 billion a year here, and one out of every 10 county workers earns income from the tourist trade.

Big tax victory for Rams

Team will get $700,000 refund

By JEFF ADLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Los Angeles Rams football team posted its first win of the season yesterday, but the victory came in an Orange County hearing room rather than on the gridiron.

The county Assessment Appeals Board ruled that the National Football League franchise and owner Georgia Frontiere were entitled to a more than $700,000 property tax refund for the team's use of portions of Anaheim Stadium in 1980-81 and 1981-82.

The three-member hearing panel also ordered that the value of the Rams interest in the stadium be reduced, which in turn will reduce the amount of the team's annual tax assessment.

The Rams now will pay approximately $150,000 per year in property taxes compared with the $355,000 the county assessor had been claiming, said Kent Giboney, an appraiser in the assessor's office.

At issue in the hearing, which lasted nearly two weeks, was the formula by which appraisers determined the Rams' possessory interest in the 70,000-seat stadium. Possessory interest is (See RAMS, Page A2)

Dentist's woes mount

Restraint sought after deaths, arrest

By JODI CADENHEAD
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The legal troubles of Costa Mesa dentist Tony Protopappas mounted today as authorities planned to seek a temporary restraining order to restrict the Laguna Beach man's use of anesthesia in his practice.

Deputy District Attorney Hal Morgan said authorities also may attempt today to obtain a court order barring Protopappas from practicing dentistry altogether until an investigation involving the deaths of two patients is completed.

Officials from the state Attorney General's Office, the state Department of Consumer Affairs and the Orange County District Attorney's Office were scheduled to appear this morning in Orange County Superior Court, police said.

Authorities have been investigating the deaths of two women who died following treatment at the dentist's office at 534 W. 19th St. A 13-year-old Sacramento girl also treated by Protopappas remains in critical condition.

Officials said all three patients had been given anesthesia prior to developing medical complications. Cathryn D. Jones, 31, of Costa Mesa died Sunday and Minna Kim Andreassen, 23, of Huntington Beach, died Sept. 20. Patricia Craven, 18, remains (See DENTIST'S, Page A2)

Dental patient critical

By JODI CADENHEAD
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The family of a 13-year-old girl, who is suffering from apparent brain damage and kept alive by life-support systems, is waiting today for a miracle.

Patricia Craven of Sacramento has remained in critical condition at Mission Community Hospital since she was rushed there Feb. 8 following dental treatment earlier that day at the Costa Mesa dental office of Tony Protopappas.

Attorney David Fishman, who represents the family, said yesterday that the girl's mother, Patricia Craven Russ, decided to take her daughter to the Costa Mesa dentist because he had previously treated Russ.

Fishman said the girl entered the dentist's office at 10 a.m. to have some cavities filled and wisdom teeth removed. The attorney said she was unconscious when she left the dentist's office at 6:30 p.m. She had been given anesthesia.

The attorney said Protopappas had assured the mother that Patricia "would come out of it soon."

After arriving at her son's home in Mission Viejo Russ called paramedics when she discovered that her daughter had stopped breathing, Fishman said.

"I understand she's being kept alive by life support systems," said Fishman. "There's a flat EEG (electroencephalogram). The family is trying to decide what to do."

Authorities are investigating why Cravel slipped into a coma and why two other patients died after being treated by Protopappas.

The dentist was arrested by Costa Mesa police Wednesday night after allegedly drawing a gun on two officers behind his office.

HB street 'washed' by spilled foam

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huntington Beach took a bath yesterday.

Five hundred gallons of liquid foaming agent used in laundry detergents spilled from a truck and flooded a busy street.

For awhile, chaos ensued. Cars lost control in the super-slippery stuff and spun in circles before the street was closed.

No accidents or health hazards were reported. But the foamy liquid proved a mess to clean up. "If we had poured water on it, we'd have had a soap bubble for 30 feet high," said one official. Another claimed "it would have foamed forever" if water were applied.

Instead, city crews poured sand and concrete on the area of Gothard Street between Warner and Slater Avenues.

The road was closed from 12:50 p.m. until 7 p.m.

Police said a plastic container overturned and the concentrated liquid poured out through the sides of the truck.

The material was being hauled from a City of Industry chemical (See FOAM, Page A2)

Jail expansion under fire

County civic center panel voices opposition

By JEFF ADLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Orange County Civic Center Commission has added its voice to the growing chorus of opposition to construction of a new county jail on a parcel adjacent to the current jail in Santa Ana.

With one commissioner absent, the board's other four members voted yesterday to register strong opposition to construction of a medium-maximum security jail in the city's civic center.

Commissioner Vernon Evans, a former Santa Ana mayor, called the proposed facility a "super jail" that should not be located in the city. He said he would support any efforts to raise funds to fight placement of the jail in Santa Ana.

Commissioner Terry Mosbenko said the commission's resolution is intended "to remind (Orange County) supervisors the jail does not belong in Newport Beach, Huntington Beach or Santa Ana either when there are so many desolate sites available."

The commission's action, however, is purely advisory, said Michael McLean, commission chairman. The commission is composed of five members, two appointed by county supervisors, two by the Santa Ana City Council and one member selected by the four others.

The panel is not empowered to reject or approve of any projects slated for the Santa Ana civic center. It was established to raise money to finance approved civic center construction projects, according to county officials.

The Board of Supervisors voted recently to limit its search for a new jail site to three locations, one in downtown Santa Ana, the other two in remote canyons east of Anaheim.

Foggy weekend forecast

Foggy mornings, hazy afternoons and lukewarm temperatures are expected this weekend, a three-day break for many Orange Coast workers.

A layer of fog cloaked the coast this morning for the second straight day but caused no major problems.

Operations at John Wayne Airport went on as normal and lifeguards at local beaches said visibility was restricted to two miles but presented few problems for boaters.

The fog will return Saturday morning and give way to high clouds by mid-morning, according to the National Weather Service. Sunday will be much the same with a warming trend taking hold Monday.

The high reading at Newport Beach Thursday was 59 degrees. Temperatures over the weekend are expected to be in the upper 60s.

in critical condition. Deputy Chief Coroner Jim Beisner said today that a team of dental experts examining patient records last night had "concerns about the quality of care."

Costa Mesa undercover detectives arrested Protopappas Wednesday night at his office on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon on two officers, carrying a concealed weapon and possession of cocaine.

Protopappas' attorney, Robert Coviello, said yesterday the dentist told him he was bringing the cocaine home to his brother to use as a pain killer following extensive dental surgery Protopappas had performed a few days earlier.

Coviello also said Protopappas didn't realize that the two men were officers when he allegedly drew a 9 mm pistol. Coviello said that the dentist was carrying the the taxable portion of the stadium leased to the team for its exclusive use during certain days of the year.

Rams attorneys, joined in the challenge by lawyers representing the city of Anaheim, argued the team's taxes should be closer to $70,000 than the $355,000 levied by the county. They also claimed the possessory interest in the stadium should be valued at $6.5 million, not the $30-plus million claimed by the county.

The appeals board ruling set the Rams possessory interest in the stadium at $13 million, some 17 percent of the facility's total $76 million assessed value, Giboney said.

Frontiere, who was not present when the board's decision was announced, could not be reached for comment.

Facelift expanded on HB state beach

Workmen and heavy equipment are preparing to give the southern half of Huntington Beach State Beach a facelift.

The $4.2 million project, which entails construction of new restrooms, a main lifeguard tower and concession stands, got under way in late January. It is expected to be completed before the start of the busy summer season.

The affected part of the beach — from Magnolia Avenue to Brookhurst Street — will be closed to vehicle traffic during construction.

After the Magnolia-Brookhurst phase is completed, work is expected to start on the beach extending from Beach Boulevard to Magnolia Street.

When both phases are completed, the beach will have 2,500 parking spaces. It now has 1,250 spaces.

The work is being done by the Micca Construction Company of Long Beach.

Heavy equipment, including twin-engine earth movers, are busy hauling and leveling beach sand in preparation for construction.

Dick Dale arrested on sex charge

Surf guitar king accused in case involving Newport girl, 13

Newport Beach resident Dick Dale, self-proclaimed "King of the Surf Guitar," will be arraigned early next week on felony sex perversion charges, authorities say.

Dale, 45, was arrested Wednesday evening at his home on the tip of the Balboa Peninsula and released several hours later after posting $25,000 bail.

The musician is accused of oral copulation with a 13-year-old girl in Newport Beach, according to a warrant issued by a Harbor Municipal Court judge.

Newport detectives said Dale, whose real name is Richard Anthony Monsour, did not use force in the alleged incident and offered no resistance when arrested.

Police would not say where or when the alleged crime took place.

Dale, who lives in the old King Gillette home overlooking Newport Harbor, attained popularity in the early 1960s during an era when the Beach Boys, Jan and Dean and other groups helped launch surf music.

He began a comeback several years ago and has performed at the Golden Bear in Huntington Beach and other night spots recently.

New kids' club big hit in Irvine

By GLENN SCOTT
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Children are bouncing into the new Irvine Boys and Girls Club in Woodbridge even faster than optimistic club directors predicted.

The club opened the doors to its $1.2 million facility on East Yale Loop in mid-December. Each day, new faces have appeared at the front counter.

So far, 1,650 kids have enrolled by paying a token $10 annual membership fee. That's the equivalent of playing 40 games of Donkey Kong in exchange for a year's worth of games and programs.

"I don't think there's any new club across the country that has experienced the kind of enrollment in two months that we have," said Lou Yantorn, executive director for the Harbor Area Boys Clubs. "We would have been happy with 500 in two months."

Already 350 boys and girls are signed up in basketball leagues, 60 are taking judo classes and 125 are involved in the first drama production planned in the club's multi-purpose room, which is equipped with a stage.

The production: "The Sound of Music." Opening night will be in late April.

Yantorn said many parents have told him the club was just the sort of supervised facility that family-oriented Irvine needed.

The $10 fee, he noted, is only a token charge. Studies show the club will spend about $150 per year on each child, he said. The construction costs and most of the operating costs for the club have come through donations.

The Irvine Club's enrollment already is larger than enrollments for the Harbor Area group's three other facilities in Costa Mesa and Newport Beach. But Yantorn said organizers expected that and designed a facility twice as large as any other.

"The kid population is out in Irvine," he explained.

Newport man arrested after shooting in CdM

Bail has been set at $250,000 for a Newport Beach man accused of shooting an acquaintance during a dispute yesterday outside a Corona del Mar apartment complex.

Domenic Cacio, 53, is being held in a jail ward at UC Irvine Medical Center, where he is being treated for stab wounds suffered in the dispute, police said today.

Cacio is alleged to have fired off five gunshots during the pre-dawn argument, hitting Meahdi Shademan, 36, in the stomach and shoulder, police said.

Shademan, a Newport resident, is in serious but stable condition at Fountain Valley Community Hospital Trauma Center. Police said Shademan also was hit over the head several times during the dispute.

A revolver, three baseball bats and a length of wood were found in a car belonging to Cacio, officers said.

"Cacio reportedly told officers he was stabbed repeatedly by Shademan during the altercation. Police said they have not decided whether to charge Shademan."

A third person, Josseim Shahi, 25, of Laguna Hills, also was arrested following the altercation. He was arrested on suspicion of hitting Shademan over the head with a wood object.

Police believe the men have been involved in a long-standing dispute over a woman.

WEATHER

Seas 6 to 10 feet with westerly swells 6 to 8 feet. Light variable winds tonight and tomorrow over inner waters, becoming west to northwest 12 to 18 knots tomorrow afternoon. Wind waves 3 to 4 feet. Westerly swells 3 to 5 feet. Some fog and low clouds tonight and tomorrow morning, otherwise fair tonight and tomorrow.

U.S. summary

Both the Southeast and Pacific Coast regions had wet, windy weather today. A storm system was centered off the west-central coast of Florida. Gale warnings were posted for the coastal areas of Washington and northern Oregon. A flood warning was issued for California's northern coast.

Some light fog forecast along coast for weekend

The Upper Midwest was getting rain showers and gusty winds. Sections of the Mississippi Valley were getting drizzle and snow flurries.

Skies were clear in southern California and the southern half of the Great Plains.

Snow was forecast for the northern portions of New England while southern New England and most of New York were expecting snow mixed with freezing rain.

Rain also was expected to spread from the Pacific Northwest and northern California into the northern Rockies and Central Plateau.

Temperatures around the nation at midnight PST ranged from 6 degrees below zero in Houston, Maine, to 70 degrees in Key West, Fla.

California

The God of the High Pressure Zone must like Southern California, because the zone isn't moving and unseasonably warm, sunny days will stay through the holiday weekend, forecasters said.

Cloudy mornings were expected to clear each day, with high temperatures reaching the mid- to upper-70s in Los Angeles and coastal valleys and the 80s in the desert, the National Weather Service said.

In the mountains, ski conditions were expected to be excellent and all roads to the southern California mountains were open. Temperatures in the mountains were expected to drop down to the 30s tonight, but the thermometer was expected to rise up to 60 Saturday with winds 15 mph in the afternoon, the agency said.

Ski resort operators reported good conditions at the slopes: a 10- to 19-foot base at Tahoe; 14½-foot base at the 8,200-foot level in Squaw Valley; 10-foot base at Echo Summit and similar conditions at Mammoth and June mountains.

However, the weather service warned against travel with high-profile vehicles due to southwest winds that were expected to gust up to 60 mph in the Reno-Carson City area and the Tahoe Basin. Some snow was also expected in those areas.

Khadafy threatens action if 'pushed too far'

By The Associated Press

Libyan strongman Col. Moammar Khadafy has threatened military action if Libya is "pushed too far" by U.S. naval maneuvers that might extend into southern Mediterranean waters claimed by his country.

He said the Gulf of Sidra will be turned into a "red gulf of blood" if the U.S. aircraft carrier Nimitz and its battle group move too far into the disputed waters.

"We will not permit America or any foreign state to enter the Gulf of Sidra or any other part of Libyan waters," Khadafy said Thursday in a speech to his Parliament. "The Libyan people are ready to fight to defend their land, their water and skies."

JAMESTOWN, N.D. — After four days of futile searching, the U.S. Marshal Service is offering a $25,000 reward for the arrest of an anti-tax radical accused of killing two marshals, because "the perpetrator is so dangerous." The announcement last night came hours after a small army of law enforcement officers searched three houses in Ashley and a farm in nearby Wishek without finding the protester, Gordon Kahl.

ACAPULCO, Mexico — Queen Elizabeth II, after a stop in this posh seaside resort, sailed up the Mexican coast today to visit a steel mill being financed by British bankers.

Australia fire still out of control

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Fire roared through the parched hills ringing Melbourne today after a series of killer blazes scorched the drought-punished southeast coast, leaving farms and forest looking like they were "attacked by napalm."

At least 69 bodies had been found, including those of 12 volunteer firemen who died when flames engulfed two fire trucks in Cockatoo. By late yesterday, about 900 people were reported injured, and officials estimated damage along a 500-mile stretch affected by the brushfires at $400 million.

Badly burned animals were being shot today by workers from the agricultural department in the state of Victoria. A spokesman said at least 15,000 sheep and 8,000 cattle had died in the fires, which destroyed about 750 Victoria farms.

"The fire-hit areas of Victoria looked like they had been attacked by napalm," said Adm. Sir James Murray, the governor of that state. "It was like a giant flame-thrower," an exhausted firefighter said.

By late yesterday, more than 4,000 firefighters had controlled most of the brushfires, except for those in the hills around Melbourne, Australia's second largest city.

The blazes, which began Wednesday, consumed about 3,000 homes in seven towns, in Victoria and the state of South Australia, authorities said. Some of the homeless slept on cricket fields.

Thousands of acres of farmland, brush and forest were devastated. Regal stands of pine and eucalyptus became giant bonfires as flames grew 300 feet high.

Desert winds of up to 80 mph fanned flames as they lashed through the Adelaide hills and down the coast past Melbourne into the Dandenong Ranges. "The wind was like it came from a huge hair dryer," said a man who lost his home.

"The roar of the wind and the flames were horrific, it was like a train," said Alanor Gray, who lost her store in Macedon. "The fire was coming up the highway like a fireball."

"A panzer division going through could not have caused so much damage," said Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser after inspecting the devastation.

In Cockatoo, where the 12 firemen died, two men sat on the roof of a school and hoisted it down to help save the lives of 120 children who were inside.

San Diego plane crash kills four

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The death toll rose to four today in the fiery crash of small plane that smashed into a department store parking lot last night.

Ed Hastings, 23, critically burned in the fire that engulfed the cockpit of the twin-engine Piper Aerostar, died at 4:30 a.m. at University Hospital, said deputy San Diego County coroner David Lodge.

The pilot, Marden Dixon, 41, a Provo, Utah attorney and father of six, remained in critical condition at University with burns over 91 percent of his body, a nursing supervisor said.

Hastings, of Battle Mountain, Nev., was a student at Brigham Young University in Provo, Lodge said.

Dixon and Hastings, their clothes on fire, had escaped the flaming cockpit after the plane went down shortly after takeoff from Montgomery Field. It crashed in the busy Clairemont commercial area and set three parked cars on fire.

Then the plane's fully loaded fuel tanks exploded, sending a wall of fire and leaking aviation fuel along the curbs of Balboa Avenue.

"It hit the ground and three seconds later it blew up," said gas station attendant Troy Painter, 19. "I don't know how those people got out."

"It sounded like a loud pop when the fuel ignited," said Debby Mahoney, a desk worker at the health spa across the street. "Then there was a stream of fire running down the street, and drivers were honking their horns and panicking."

The dead were identified by the coroner's office as Linda Austin, 23, of Provo; her 3½-month-old baby, Alex Austin; and David Jones, 27, also a Brigham Young University student.

Witnesses, who said the aircraft sounded as if it was having engine trouble, said the pilot had tried to land on Balboa Avenue.

"The plane winged over and was stalling, and it looked like the pilot was trying to put it down on the street," said Bob Rappoport, a 26-year-old pilot who saw the plane approaching. "It was coming right for me. I jumped out of my van and ran across the street and felt the heat and flash from the explosion."

Watt's war paint?

Interior Secretary James Watt appears to be wearing some form of ceremonial makeup during a speech last night in Columbus, Ohio. The truth of the matter is, the shadows are cast by his hands and fingers blocking light from television crews.

Laguna eyes joint pool use

Laguna Beach City Council members and the school board will test the waters Tuesday on a proposal that would see joint city-school district funding for a new community pool.

The two panels will meet at 8 p.m. in the council's chambers, 505 Forest Ave.

But before either entity decides to take the plunge into what could be a $1 million project, a number of issues must first be resolved.

Where the dollars for a pool complex would be derived is of foremost concern to both sides.

An 11-member aquatics task force has prepared a report outlining suggestions for funding a two-pool swim complex on the Laguna Beach High School baseball fields.

The school district is currently seeking a buyer for 11 acres of surplus land it owns in the Top of the World community.

The asking price is $3.1 million.

The city, on the other hand, might be able to use funds collected from developers for new parks.

The task force report, which will be reviewed Tuesday night, also suggests a variety of joint aquatics programs, the hiring of a full-time aquatics director, and joint maintenance of the pools, perhaps supported by user fees.

Forderbrugen services set

Private graveside services were to be held today for longtime Corona del Mar resident and former shopowner Katherine Forderbrugen, who died Monday.

A 25-year resident of Corona del Mar, Forderbrugen was the founder of Nip's Tuck, a children's clothing and toy store that was located in South Laguna and later moved to Newport Beach.

Forderbrugen, who sold the shop several years ago, was a native of Minnesota.

She is survived by three daughters, Diane Larnard, Carol Crabb, and Mary Wells. All are Corona del Mar residents. She also leaves two grandchildren and a sister, Rosemary Heckel of Glendale.

WE'VE ONLY JUST BEGUN!

Twenty-five years ago a few far-sighted people revolutionized the carpet business.

First, the chemical industry developed synthetic fibers, eliminating reliance on wool quality and production.

Second, machinery was invented which enabled carpeting to be manufactured up to 100 times faster.

Third, and most important, some people stuck their necks out and risked capital to put these developments to work.

What does this mean to you? It means that carpeting costs less than 40 years ago. It means that what was once a luxury is now within range of almost everyone. It means a selection unimaginable 40 years ago.

With our family in the carpet business since 1894, we have seen more changes in the last few years than we believed possible, creating the greatest consumer growth industry in our economy. After 89 years, it looks like we've only just begun!

Mesa park work near completion

By KAREN KLEIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

To all the noon-time park users who have missed the lunch shelter and restroom facilities at Lions Park in Costa Mesa, the word from Parks Superintendent David Alkema is: Don't despair.

The picnic tables will be back in new-and-improved form, along with larger, nicer restrooms and a maintenance shop for parks personnel.

The city's tab? Only $338,119. Alkema said the work is part of a general renovation of Lions Park, directly adjacent to the Neighborhood Community Center on Park Avenue.

"The old structure was in pretty bad condition," Alkema said. "And the restrooms were horrible."

The new, L-shaped picnic pavilion will be designed to match the brick decor of the community center and the nearby fire station.

Alkema said he anticipates the project will be completed prior to the Lions' Club Fish Fry, which has been held in the park during the first weekend in June for 28 years. During the fry, the park averages about 10,000 people a day, he said.

The picnic tables are gone from Lions Park, but they'll be back in a more attractive format.

UCI poison center gets a reprieve

By GLENN SCOTT
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The UC Irvine Poison Center will remain in operation for at least another six months as a private fund-raising group seeks private donations to keep it going.

Hospital Administrator William Gonzalez and Paul McQuade, chairman of the poison center's new foundation, said that the center would not be shut down in March, as proposed earlier.

The center was listed by Gonzalez as one of UCI Medical Center's programs that would be cut to meet budget cutbacks caused by dwindling state support.

But Gonzalez said he is hopeful the foundation, which has begun its first fund-raising drive, can raise enough money to keep the center going.

"Although we are in the initial stage of fund raising, we are confident that, through the efforts of the foundation, the poison center eventually can become self-supporting," he said.

The poison center last year handled about 25,000 calls.

On March 11, 1983, at 9:15 a.m. Federal National Mortgage Association, as duly appointed Trustee under and pursuant to Deed of Trust executed by BRIAN OKULEY and BARBARA ANN OKULEY, husband and wife as joint tenants, recorded in Book 178, 1981, as instrument No. 1981-1, in Book 14256, page 184, of Official Records in the Office of the County Recorder of Orange County, California, WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER FOR CASH (payable at time of sale in lawful money of the United States) of the front entrance to the old Orange County Courthouse, located on Main Street, between Sycamore St. and Broadway, Santa Ana, California, all right, title and interest conveyed to and now held by it under said Deed of Trust in the property situated in said County and State described as:

Lot 6 of Tract No. 2679, in the City of Costa Mesa, County of Orange, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 78, Page 50, Miscellaneous Maps, in the Office of the County Recorder of said County.

The undersigned disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the above street address.

The sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession or encumbrances, to pay the total amount of the unpaid balance of the obligation secured by the property to be sold consisting of principal and interest of $104,066.89, plus costs, expenses, advances, and trustee fees estimated to be $2,405.45 at the time of initial publication of this Notice of Sale, which sum total is $106,472.34. Currently dated bank cashier's checks, checks certified by a bank, or cashier's checks of regulated lenders described in Sec. 2924h of the California Civil Code, payable to the undersigned, or cash, or any other form of payment acceptable with proper identification.

The beneficiary under said Deed of Trust previously executed and delivered to the undersigned a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and a written Notice of Default and Election to Sell. The said Notice of Default and Election to Sell was recorded in the county where the real property is located.

This document is executed by FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION, (Woodgreen Service Co. Division) Suite 1600, 1600 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90024 (213) 824-2223. Mailing address is P.O. Box 76956, Los Angeles, CA 90076.

Oklahoma jobs cited by General Motors

SOUTH GATE (AP) — In an ironic reversal of history, General Motors officials have come to town to tell laid-off workers that opportunity may await them in Oklahoma.

"I saw that movie, 'The Grapes of Wrath,'" families left Oklahoma because of the Dust Bowl," said one laid-off worker, who identified himself only as Bob. "Now we're going back."

Almost a year ago, the GM plant across from the United Auto Workers union hall here was closed "indefinitely," putting about 2,500 people out of work. At GM's Oklahoma City plant, a second shift has been reactivated and workers are needed to fill about 400 jobs, company officials said.

Conspiracy admitted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In charges stemming from an FBI "sting" operation, Japan's largest electronics company admitted conspiring to buy computer secrets stolen from IBM before a judge who warned "corporations around the world" to shun espionage.

Expressing a "deep and immeasurable regret" over the case, Hitachi Ltd. entered the plea in exchange for a guarantee of no further prosecution.

The company must pay a $10,000 fine within 30 days and provide U.S. District Judge Spencer Williams with written details of its plans to ensure "nothing like this ever happens again," the judge said.

Japan gives U.S. extension

TOKYO (AP) — Japan has decided to offer the United States a third-year extension on voluntary restraints on its auto exports to the U.S. market, Kyodo News Service reported.

The Japanese news agency said the government will request the nation's auto industry to hold shipments to the United States to 1.68 million units in fiscal 1983 beginning in April, the same level maintained the past two years.

Kyodo said Minister of International Trade and Industry Sadanori Yamaguchi will make the proposal when he meets U.S. Special Trade Representative William Brock in Tokyo.
