Saying the "iffy" weather was a major factor in the low turnout, organizers of the first-ever Great Stuffed Cabbage Roll-off nevertheless declared the two-day event a success.

Cabbage-head Vick Knight said between 3,000 and 3,500 stuffed cabbage lovers attended the festivities Saturday and yesterday on the Festival of Arts grounds in Laguna Beach.

They witnessed two Armenian cousins win round-trip tickets to Europe after winning the cook-off, in competition with nearly two dozen other teams.

The team of Zena Savolian, 60, of Montebello, and her cousin, Betty Sukiasian Bradvica, 42, of Monterey Park, walked away with the top prize yesterday.

Jim Dean, another cabbage head, said proceeds from the cook-off will benefit the National Conference of Christians and Jews. But he said the organizers won't know until late this week how much was raised.

Among judges for the cabbage roll were Pilar Wayne as well as 27 restaurant critics and restaurateurs.

A dozen food booths and 17 craft booths highlighted the two-day festivities.

UC Irvine professor shares national award for poetry

By GLENN SCOTT
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

UC Irvine English Professor Charles Wright said today he was surprised to learn he was chosen as co-recipient of the 1982 American Book Award in poetry because he expected Galway Kinnel to win.

Instead, Wright and Kinnel were selected to share the prestigious award, which generally is regarded as one of the top two American literary awards along with the Pulitzer Prize.

Wright, a Laguna Beach resident who has taught 17 years at UCI, shares the award for his work, "Country Music: Selected Early Poems." Galway's book was titled "Selected Poems."

Formal presentation of the award is Thursday in New York, but Wright said he'll stay home and let a representative from publisher Wesleyan University Press attend for him.

Wright's book comprises selected poems from four previous books published from 1970 to 1977. He chose the title, he said, because many of the poems are about his growing up in eastern Tennessee and western North Carolina and because the phrase reflects his interest in "music and the sound of language."

Added Wright: "Actually, it's my wife's title, so I'm forever grateful to her." (See UCI PROF, Page A2)

Plagued airline may fly again

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Failed Golden West Airlines, which halted service Friday night, was expected to announce today that it will seek protection under federal bankruptcy law and resume service sometime next month.

Airline executives not connected with Golden West reported they've been told the commuter carrier may start up again as soon as next week.

An announcement was to be made during a press conference this afternoon called by Golden West.

Golden West, which moved its headquarters from Newport Beach to Costa Mesa three weeks ago, is the largest and one of the oldest commuter airlines in the state.

The halt in service late Friday left commuter carriers Air Irvine and Imperial Airlines scrambling to pick up stranded Golden West passengers at John Wayne Airport.

The scramble hit full-force today — a busy travel day for businessmen. Air Irvine, which operates nine-passenger Piper crafts, quadrupled its flights, going from six to 24 takeoffs. Imperial also increased service.

More than 100 Golden West passengers were rescheduled to other airlines or sent to Los Angeles International Airport by limousine over the weekend. (See AIRLINE, Page A2)

HB women braved storm

Relaxing vacation in Tahiti turned into a violent ordeal

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Anne DeVusser and her mother Ruth Williams went to Tahiti this month for a little rest and recreation on the cruise ship Majestic Tahiti Explorer.

The two Huntington Beach women were expecting to have a good time, something they'd remember over the years.

What they got were memories for a lifetime.

"We ran from a hurricane at sea for three days. We made it into Papeete harbor and the storm hit that night," said

DeVusser, an accountant and businesswoman.

The storm — the worst to hit the South Pacific Island in modern times — killed one person, injured 26 and made about 25,000 homeless, according to news reports.

The two women rode out the storm without injuries. "And we learned one important thing," DeVusser said, "We didn't get seasick."

It was the first trip to Tahiti for Williams, 70, a nurse. "And it's probably going to be my last, too," she said.

"The way the ship bounced back and forth, I got the best massage I ever had," she said.

But the inhabitants of the island didn't fare so well in the 95-to-110-mph winds.

"There was almost complete devastation," said DeVusser. "I don't know how those poor people can recover." But she said she's going to help.

The mayor of Faaa, a city on the other side of the island from Papeete, asked the Huntington Beach travelers to seek help for the Tahitians in America, they said.

"They need money, food and building supplies and we want it to go directly to the people and not to the government," said DeVusser.

She said people wanting to help can call her or her mother at 964-6025 or 963-8065.

Bolsa Chica ruling stuns HB Amigos

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An appeals court decision upholding a 1973 land exchange giving the Signal Landmark Co. ownership of about 18,000 acres of Bolsa Chica wetlands is viewed as a legal setback by a leader of local environmental forces.

But Dr. Peter Green, past president of the Amigos de Bolsa Chica, said the ruling will not deter environmentalists from fighting development plans for the area near Huntington Beach south of Warner Avenue and adjacent to Pacific Coast Highway.

Green said the most important aspect of the Orange County and Signal land use plan is that "it's damaging and destructive to the environment."

Signal spokesman Thomas Fortune said the company "is pleased but not surprised."

"The trade was negotiated between Signal and the Attorney General's office."

"It was signed by state officers, including Ronald Reagan, who was then the governor. They're not going to give away land," Fortune said.

The plan calls for the creation of an 1,800-slip marina, a navigable channel to the sea and up to 5,700 waterfront and ocean-view homes.

It was pulled off the docket of the state Coastal Commission last year because of intense controversy.

And several legislative proposals are being considered in Sacramento this week that would have an impact on the area that environmentalists believe should be retained for wildlife habitat.

The 4th District Court of Appeal in San Bernardino ruled Friday that the Amigos were too late in challenging the 1973 land agreement which gave the state a 300-acre ecological reserve and an option to acquire an additional (See BOLSA, Page A2)

OCC prexy elected to top office

Orange Coast College President Bernard J. Luskin has been elected to the top post of an association representing more than 1,200 community colleges nationwide.

Luskin was voted chairman of the board of the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges. The election took place yesterday at the association's national convention in New Orleans.

In this role, Luskin will be involved in federal legislation, industry-education relationships and academic policy matters.

Election to the national post comes at a time when Luskin is overseeing extensive cutbacks in programs and faculty at Orange Coast College in Costa Mesa.

Orange Coast is described as the largest single-campus community college in the nation.

Luskin, a resident of Huntington Harbour, became president of Orange Coast on July 1, 1982. Before that, he was president of a sister school, Coastline College, for seven years.

Dow slips past 1,200 barrier

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dow Jones industrial average reached the 1,200 level today for the first time in history as Wall Street kept its eight-month-old bull market in high gear.

The widely recognized average of 20 blue chip stocks climbed 4.16 to 1,200.46 by noon (EST). Last Aug. 12, the average stood at 776.92.

On Friday, the Dow rose 8.03 points to a record-high 1,196.30, finishing the week with a gain of 24.96 points.

Analysts said the market got a boost from the news late Friday of a $3.1 billion drop in the basic measure of the money supply for the latest reporting week.

HB pilot lands in Valley park

A single-engine plane piloted by a Huntington Beach man was forced to make an emergency landing yesterday afternoon on the central air field of Mile Square Park in Fountain Valley.

A spokesman for John Wayne Airport said pilot George Bell took off shortly after noon. Bell reported that low oil pressure was forcing him to make an emergency landing in the park. The central park area formerly was used as a helicopter landing pad.

No injuries were reported in the forced landing. The incident is under investigation by the Federal Aviation Administration.

Pageant draws 200 entrants

The Miss California Princess pageant got off to a late start yesterday as nearly 200 contestants squeezed into a powder-blue ballroom at the Sheraton Universal Hotel in North Hollywood.

Costa Mesa organizer Frank John Baptist Bagley is facing charges of misdemeanor false advertising in connection with the beauty contest, attended by hundreds of family members and friends of the young contenders.

Linda Eslinger, 23, of Newport Beach, who walked in front of the judges wearing an off-the-shoulder white dress, said, "My mom was dying for me to enter. The contest ran behind and we got impatient. But it's gone well."

Past pageants promoted by Bagley apparently didn't go nearly so well.

Last year Bagley served four months in a Texas jail after pleading no contest to misdemeanor theft charges related to a Houston contest that never took place. He left town one week before the pageant.

Bagley said he had to cancel the contest after his hotel room was burglarized and $3,500 in entry fees taken.

Officials for the Airport Inn in Irvine said they received numerous complaints following a contest there in February, 1981. A Probus pageant staged at the Hollywood Palladium a few months later by Bagley was criticized by officials from the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce.

Parents can choose sex of offspring

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A Huntington Beach physician is offering a new twist in family planning.

Dr. Bharat Marolia, 39, chief of Huntington Intercommunity Hospital's obstetrics and gynecology department, is pioneering a new technique to allow prospective parents to choose the sex of their child before conception.

Marolia was the first Southern California physician licensed to perform a patented "sperm separation" process developed by Northern California biologist Ronald J. Ericsson. Currently, a fertility clinic in La Jolla is the only other Southern California facility where the patented procedure is offered.

The Huntington Beach physician now has three patients pregnant through the procedure.

"Most of the couples I've seen want to limit themselves to two or three children," he said. "Several had two or three girls already, and to complete their family they wanted a boy."

In fact, the Ericsson procedure is designed primarily to produce male children. A similar procedure is available for producing female children, but testing of the method is incomplete.

The sex selection process is based on isolating the sperm cells carrying X (female) and Y (male) chromosomes. The cells can be separated because the Y-bearing sperm are more mobile and swim faster.

A sample of the husband's

Dr. Bharat Marolia offers parents choice

semen undergoes three to four hours of processing and filtering, resulting in a final sample that contains 80 to 85 percent male-producing sperm.

The processed sample is then deposited in the wife's birth canal through a routine artificial insemination procedure in the doctor's office. Through body temperature charts, the doctor can do the procedure at the time when a woman is most likely to conceive.

Dr. Marolia warns his patients the method is not foolproof. He said, however, that 75 to 80 percent of the children born as a result of this procedure are male.

He said the sperm processing has been found to have no adverse effects on the children. In fact, he said, the procedure often filters out abnormal cells and may reduce the chances of producing a malformed baby.

Could pre-selection of a child's sex eventually upset the balance of men and women?

Marolia claims the procedure is being done on too small a scale to significantly affect the sex ratio. If the program does become more widespread, he believes many couples will choose to have girls, helping to keep the population balanced.

The Huntington Beach doctor said his program does not utilize outside sperm donors and does not work with surrogate mothers.

AIRLINE...

Most Golden West passengers used the carrier to connect to other airline flights out of Los Angeles or San Francisco.

Golden West has been in financial hot water for more than a year, trimming flights, employees and pay during that period.

At one point, the carrier actually ran out of cash and was forced to defer paychecks to its 419 employees. At the same time, the carrier asked workers to take a 10 percent wage cut.

Expand the airport?

(Asked at the Department of Motor Vehicles office in Costa Mesa)

Angela Moretti, 31, commercial artist, Westminster

"I'm against expansion because of the noise pollution and I think the tax money (the project would require) should be put to better use, in the colleges, the programs for the poor and elderly."

In Ho Han, physician, 29, Fountain Valley

"Expansion would be fine for me because I won't have to go up to L.A. airport to get a plane. It would save me an hour of time, maybe two or three hours when traffic is bad."

Jacqueline Weinberger, Housewife, Corona del Mar

"Even though I find it handy to fly out of there, there shouldn't be any expansion. That would raise the noise pollution and increase the chances of a crash. I feel its present size is about right."

Andrew Carter, 63, retired teacher, Huntington Beach

"This may sound selfish, but I'd love not to go to L.A. for flights. Plus, expansion would bring in more tourists and broaden our tax base. But if I lived in the area I wouldn't like it too much. The (San Diego) freeway has as much traffic as it can stand."

Winona Hollaway, housewife, Newport Beach

"I feel there is enough air traffic in the area right now. I have friends who are very concerned about it. They live close to the airport and say the noise level is very high. They would hate to see it get worse."

George Harblson, 25, corporate controller, Laguna Hills

"Not being a property owner near the airport, I have no problem bringing in more flights. We need more transportation in and out of Orange County. But I can understand the concern about the noise — perhaps there's a way to expand without impeding property rights."

Science fair in Irvine

Irvine's youngest scientists will show their stuff Thursday when the city's school district stages one of its most inspiring annual events — the Irvine Science Fair.

More than 200 students in grades three through 12 from the Irvine Unified School District will display their homemade projects at the one-day fair at Irvine High School, 4321 Walnut Ave.

The fair will be in the school gymnasium. It opens at noon and runs through 8 p.m. The students will be stationed at their projects after 6:30 p.m. to explain them to spectators.

An awards ceremony will be staged at 8 p.m. to announce winners in various categories. Awards are presented in two major divisions: Physical and biological sciences. Several age-group divisions are involved.

Home to a major research university as well as hundreds of high-technology businesses, Irvine is a place where equations are often as popular as earned-run averages.

Dorothy Terman, curriculum coordinator, said many of the students in Thursday's fair won preliminary contests in their own schools to qualify.

Twenty-one judges from UC Irvine and nearby businesses will pick the winners, based on both the projects and oral interviews with each of the competitors.

230 acres. In return, Signal got clear title to the rest of the historic wetlands.

The Amigos challenged the agreement in 1979, claiming that because it involved historic tidelands, the trade was "a gift of public properties."

But a Superior Court judge rejected the claim because of a statute of limitations and the appeal court upheld that opinion Friday.

The appeals court held that the state received "substantial consideration" (the land for the reserve and the option to add the additional acreage.)

Environmental leaders say they will consult their attorney and other board members before possibly deciding to appeal to the state Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON — The Pioneer 10 space probe was flying past the orbit of Pluto today, about 3 billion miles from Earth where it was launched more than 11 years ago. The spacecraft will continue on past Neptune on June 13, leaving the solar system for its journey into deep space, National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said yesterday. On that date it will become the first manmade object to leave the solar system.

Longest UAW strike ends

PEORIA, Ill. — Thousands of United Auto Workers members streamed back to Caterpillar Tractor Co. factories in six states today after settling a record 205-day strike by accepting a wage freeze. Third-shift workers reporting to their jobs last night were the first of more than 20,400 Caterpillar employees to return to work after the UAW's longest strike against a major manufacturer. The new pact contains a wage freeze, reduction in bonus time paid for perfect attendance, a profit-sharing plan and employee stock ownership option.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — A 13-month-old boy who received two liver transplants in less than 10 days was "alert and active," improving enough to hold his mother's hand, doctors said. Brandon Ball, the youngest patient ever to undergo two liver transplant operations, "continues to show signs of improvement and doctors remain optimistic at this point," a statement from Le Bonheur Children's Medical Center said yesterday. The boy had been receiving antibiotics for a stubborn lung infection, but physicians withdrew the drugs as his lungs cleared up.

STATE

Feinstein victory predicted

SAN FRANCISCO — A handgun made Dianne Feinstein mayor, and a short-lived handgun ban that stirred up dozens of political complaints could be her undoing tomorrow when voters decide whether to cut short her term. But in a final irony, even people who want her out concede that voters likely will say "No" to the lone ballot question: "Shall Dianne Feinstein be recalled from the office of mayor?" "She's going to win big," predicted Dave Brigode, head of a pro-recall group, Citizens for a New Mayor.

SAN DIEGO — A newly hatched kiwi bird was reported resting comfortably yesterday and spending most of the time sleeping in an incubator at the San Diego Zoo. It's believed to be only the second successful hatching of New Zealand's unusual-looking national bird outside of New Zealand or Australia.

Pony Express rides again

POLLOCK PINES — Amid cheers from bystanders, riders of the Pony Express are again speeding through the chilly Sierra daily, saddlebags bulging. Each morning except Sunday, Postmaster Patricia Peterson turns over a packet of letters to the first of 10 Pony Express horsemen, who carry it in relay along a 40-mile mountain trail to snowbound Little Norway, a lodge-restaurant-store near 7,200-foot-high Echo Summit. The riders, ranging from teen-agers to 72-year-old cowboy Walt Allen, offered to tote mail after a massive April 9 mudslide closed U.S. Highway 50, a major east-west link across the Sierra.

Child car restraints not used

LOS ANGELES — Purchases of child car restraints have increased since a state law went into effect Jan. 1 requiring them for children under 4, but a death and two injuries last week prove compliance isn't widespread enough, officials say. Little Patricia LaMaster, 20 months, died in a traffic accident when the car in which she was riding collided with another.

MANAUS, Brazil — The government says three Libyan planes detained for a week are free to leave Brazil today, but without their cargo of Nicaragua-bound weapons. Ann and Steve Humke, of Silverado Canyon, perch atop one of the huge boulders which narrowly missed their home last Friday night. No injuries were reported.

Boulders hit canyon house

The second major slide of six-ton boulders in three days was reported early today in Silverado Canyon, Orange County Fire Department officials said. The huge rocks crashed through a fence and demolished a picnic table about 6:15 a.m. behind the home of Steve and Ann Humke of 28562 Silverado Canyon Road. No one was injured in the latest slide, said Jeff Taylor, a fire department spokesman. Residents in the area already were prepared for the boulders, some about half the size of a Volkswagen, to come crashing down from the steep hillsides. A rockslide Friday night had knocked over trees and fences and crushed small sheds.

The Humkes' home narrowly escaped damage when three large boulders crashed down on both sides of the structure in Friday's slide. Officials said the boulders are prone to slip from their niches in the hillsides when the ground becomes saturated. The last major slide in the canyon occurred three years ago.

Killer: Don't follow me

Videotape made before execution a warning to young people

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Less than a week before he was executed, convicted killer John Louis Evans III videotaped a message telling children, "Don't follow me," a prison spokesman said today. Evans made the tape last week at the request of prison chaplain the Rev. Martin Webber, state prison spokesman Ron Tate said. One of the condemned man's stipulations was that it not be used until after his death, Tate said. Evans, 33, died Friday night in Alabama's yellow-painted electric chair after the U.S. Supreme Court set aside a stay ordered by a federal judge. "In recent months or years, he supposedly became a Christian," Tate said of Evans. The videotape "is about his life and asking, you know, don't follow me," the spokesman said. The tape was made by Webber's group, the New Life Foundation, and is to be used for educational purposes under an agreement signed by Evans and Webber, Tate said. Sentenced for the 1977 robbery-murder of Mobile-pawn shop owner Edward Nassar, Evans was brash and defiant during his trial, and he demanded death in the electric chair. But after his mother convinced a U.S. Supreme Court justice to halt his original execution date in 1979, Evans called the stay a "sign from God," and decided to fight the sentence. Evans was the first person to die in Alabama's electric chair since 1965 and the seventh convict to be executed nationwide since the Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976.

"still has virtually all of his (court) remedies" left to pursue, said his attorney, John Carroll. Before Evans' execution, a bill to change the method to lethal injection had been introduced in the Legislature.

Navy pioneer George Hussey dead at 88

George F. Hussey Jr. who helped develop Navy weapons that saved American sailors from Japanese suicide attacks in World War II, has died at age 88. Hussey, a Navy vice admiral, died last Sunday. He was head of the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance from 1943 to 1947, making him responsible for all Navy guns, ammunition, bombs, mines and torpedoes. Under his direction, a variable time fuse was developed for anti-aircraft shells that helped beat back attacks on American ships by kamikaze pilots. Hussey also was in charge of research into "rocket guns," precursors to guided missiles. The rockets, fired from landing craft and airplanes, were widely used to clear out entrenched enemy defenses before GIs made amphibious landings. Hussey retired from the Navy in 1947.

Teen to face life in county slaying

By The Associated Press
An 18-year-old Orange County man faces life in prison with no chance of parole for taking two co-workers into a foothill area, robbing them, killing one and wounding another. Another defendant in the case, John Viscioti, 25, faces trial May 2 and prosecutors are seeking the death penalty. Superior Court Judge Robert Fitzgerald said the younger man, Brian Hefner, "not only deserves to spend the rest of his life in prison, he should have been put to death, if we could have arranged it through the trial process." Hefner was sentenced on Friday.

friend, Michael Wolbert, 21, of Huntington Beach, survived five bullet wounds but lost an eye. Deputy District Attorney Tom Goethals said his office decided not to seek death for Hefner because of his age and lack of violent history. Viscioti and Hefner allegedly asked co-workers at a Garden Grove burglar alarm company to accompany them last Nov. 8 to meet four women. On the way, Wolbert was told to stop his car in a desolate area in the foothills east of Orange. He and Dykstra were robbed of the $120 they had been paid that day, then both were shot. In a videotaped police interview played during the trial, Hefner admitted telling Viscioti to fire the shots. "The first thing that came to my head," Hefner told detectives, "was if they weren't alive, they couldn't tell on us."

Millionaire still 'leads dull life'

Lottery windfall hasn't changed man, 61, after 11 years of riches

WARREN, Pa. (AP) — A man who quit his $10,000-a-year job as a liquor clerk when he became the Pennsylvania lottery's first millionaire says he still washes his own dishes, mows his lawn and finds life "rather boring."

"After 11 years, nobody cares," said Harry Ward Casey, 61, reflecting on his moment of victory April 27, 1972, when he won $50,000 a year for 20 years.

"It's a dull life I lived before. It's a dull life I live now. I don't find it exciting. It hasn't changed me," he said in a recent interview.

But Casey is quick to point out that he's appreciative of his windfall.

"It was a godsend. My wife was terminally ill, and she died (of cancer) eight months later. It did allow me to spend more time with her that I wouldn't have been able to spend," said Casey, who since has remarried.

Although his current life is "rather boring," he says, "I have no regrets. It's marvelous on a 50-cent investment. But it's not all that marvelous. It doesn't solve all your problems."

Casey, who is reluctant to grant interviews, was the first of 86 people to hit the millionaire jackpot in the Pennsylvania Lottery. Thirty-three won prizes of $50,000 a year for 20 years, 25 won $1,000 a week for life with a minimum of $1 million and 28 Lotto winners have won a minimum of $1.03 million.

The largest state prize of $5,553,038.40 was won Dec. 26 by Pascal T. Cervi, 77, of Hopewell Township near Pittsburgh. Cervi's first installment on a 20-year jackpot was $264,430.40.

"People are making big money these days. Ballplayers make a million dollars in a year," said Casey.

"I feel like a Model T compared to the prizes they're winning today. I'm an antique. Now they have those big luxury models."

Casey did take a Florida trip with his dying wife soon after he hit the jackpot. He taught himself to play chess, dabbles now in oil paints and has taken up golf. But he has done little in the way of major spending.

He still washes dishes, mows his own lawn and tends his vegetable garden behind his red brick, ranch-style home on a tree-lined street in this northwestern Pennsylvania community.

Harvard crowd cheers Tim Leary on return

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Former drug guru Timothy Leary drew a cheering crowd of students in a sold-out appearance at Harvard University, where he returned for the first time since being fired 20 years ago.

Tall and lean, his white hair shaggily cut, the 62-year-old Leary drew applause the moment he appeared on stage yesterday at the 1,600-seat Memorial Hall.

The man who once advised the 1960s generation to "turn on, tune in, drop out," said the problem at the time of his dismissal was that "the world wasn't ready for us."

"I never have felt any rancor against Harvard," said Leary, accompanied by another former Harvard researcher, Richard Alpert, 49.

Leary was a lecturer and Alpert was an assistant professor of clinical psychology when Nathan M. Pusey, then president of Harvard, fired them on May 28, 1963, charging they broke an agreement against using undergraduates in their drug experiments.

Laguna theater best in West

Moulton playhouse wins festival, will vie in national tourney

By TOM TITUS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

It's "north to Alaska" for the Laguna Moulton Playhouse.

For the second consecutive time, performers from the Moulton will be representing the western United States in the bi-annual, one-act play festival of the American Community Theater Association.

Laguna's production of "Lou Gehrig Did Not Die of Cancer" was crowned champion of the three-play tournament Saturday night on the Moulton stage, beating out entries from Nevada and Hawaii. Next stop for the local entry is Haines, Alaska, for the national competition June

To raise funds for transportation, the Moulton will present two public performances of "Lou Gehrig" Friday and Saturday at the playhouse, 606 Laguna Canyon Road, Laguna Beach. Curtain time will be 8 p.m. Admission will be $5.

Directed by Alex Golson, the playhouse's workshop director, "Lou Gehrig" stars Jon Sidoli as a Little League baseball coach who takes his avocation too seriously; Kathryn Johnson as his wife, a community theater actress, and Barbara Edivan as the mother of one of Sidoli's less-than-star players.

Sidoli, who has been seen locally performing leading roles in "A Streetcar Named Desire," "The Desperate Hours" and the original drama "Thornhill," was named best actor of the tournament.

Best actress honors went to Kathy Bott, a member of the Hawaii company's production, "The Kalakoa Kids," adapted in pidgin English from the play "The Me Nobody Knows." Hawaii's play was named alternate to the national competition.

Representing Nevada was Edward Albee's "The Zoo Story," directed by former San Clemente actress and director Joanne Applegett.

Harriet Nelson of "Ozzie and Harriet" fame presented awards to the winners following the tournament.

Judges were Bernie Singer, former chairman of the ACTA Midwestern Region and a federal judge; Albert Palsea, a London and New York stage actor, and Nedejda Klein, an actress and director with the Actors' Studio in Los Angeles.

The Laguna Moulton Playhouse won the last FACT festival two years ago with an original play, "Match Point" by Mary Jane Roberts.

No sign of divers

MOUNT VERNON, Ky. (AP) — A diver who had plunged into a submerged cave entrance searching for eight missing amateur spelunkers emerged after six hours today and reported no sign of the explorers.

"He didn't find anyone in the cave," said Jim Burch, disaster and emergency services director for Warren County. "Maybe they went to another part of the cave, which is several miles long, to find another entry. The explorers were believed to be trapped in the southeastern Kentucky cave by high water.

The water has begun to drop, state police said today, but the diver wore special breathing apparatus as he entered the cave.

"As far as we know, they are safe and they are probably in a dry pocket up there," Kentucky State Police Trooper Stanley Hale said last night.

Prison systems are only a bandage. Preventing child abuse is a cure.

Abuse as a child is a common thread that runs through the lives of most men and women in prison today.

And statistics show that the violent crime in America is often committed by adults who were abused as children.

Not all abused children grow up to be criminals. If we can prevent child abuse, however, we can decrease America's crime rate.

And child abuse can be prevented.

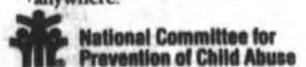

The National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse is a private charitable organization that knows how to prevent child abuse.

But we need your help to do it. We need money. We need volunteers.

Take the first step toward preventing child abuse. Send us your check today. Or write for our booklet.

Because if we don't all start somewhere, we won't get anywhere.

Help us get to the heart of the problem.

Hitler's diary find genuine?

Historians cautious, declare further study needed

By KENNETH JAUTZ
Associated Press Writer

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Two prominent historians, including one who had at first vouched for the authenticity of the purported diaries of Adolf Hitler, said today that further study was needed before they could decide if the papers are genuine.

The historians, England's Hugh Trevor-Roper and American Gerhard L. Weinberg, appeared at a news conference here at which Stern Magazine said they would back its claim of having discovered Hitler's 60-volume diary.

However, the historians took a more cautious view than the magazine apparently had expected. There was no immediate comment from Stern officials on the historians' statements.

In opening the press conference, Stern Editor-in-Chief Peter Koch described the magazine's discovery of the purported Hitler diaries as "the journalistic scoop of the post-war period."

But Trevor-Roper, who holds the title Lord

Dacre, said, "A final judgment cannot be given until the whole text of the documents can be examined."

Weinberg, a professor at the University of North Carolina and author of two books about Hitler, said: "I don't consider (the documents) a forgery, but there are further tests that are necessary. It seems to me essential that scholars familiar with the period have an opportunity to examine a transcript of the whole text."

Stern began publishing portions of the purported Hitler diaries today.

Trevor-Roper, author of a 1947 book "The Last Days of Hitler," wrote in the Times of London that he had reviewed the diaries and believed they were genuine.

The diaries run from 1932, when Hitler began his rise to power, to April, 1945, only days before he shot himself, Trevor-Roper said. The archive has several unpublished books, including a third volume of "Mein Kampf," 300 drawings, and Hitler's Nazi Party card, the historian said.

Burned boy gets visit from Reggie

California Angels slugger Reggie Jackson has promised a home run to a 6-year-old boy hospitalized in critical condition with burns allegedly caused by his father.

"David was really happy," said his mother, Marie Rothenberg. "I think he was overwhelmed. I was overwhelmed."

Jackson also gave the boy an Angels jersey with his number, 44, when he visited David's hospital room Friday at the UC Irvine Medical Center.

David, who has been in intensive care since March 3 with burns over 90 percent of his body, asked nurses to cover his hands before Jackson arrived. He didn't want Jackson, who's been David's hero since he played with the Yankees, to see that parts of eight fingers are missing.

David didn't say much during the 25-minute meeting.

"He asked me how I was doing," Jackson said. "My part is so small and insignificant that if I can do something to help someone, it's important," the right fielder said.

The boy's father, Charles Rothenberg, has told newspaper reporters and police that he set the blaze that burned David in a Buena Park motel room, because he had been told he would never see the child once the boy was returned to his mother. The two were sharing the room while on a trip from New York to Disneyland.

Rothenberg has pleaded innocent, however, to arson, attempted murder causing great bodily harm, and assault with a deadly weapon. He remains in Orange County Jail in lieu of $250,000 bail.

Buena Park police Officer Terry Branum, who was present during the visit, said Jackson told David all the players were hoping for his recovery. Mrs. Rothenberg said the visit helped David face painful physical therapy and medical treatments.

However, Jackson failed over the weekend to slam his fifth homer of the year.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — You might never need to know where you can sell two pounds of human hair, but Jim Hicks can tell you.

He can also tell you why the boundaries of the 50 states weren't drawn so they'd all be square, and recite the legend of the sand dollar.

Those are among the 35,000 questions that Hicks, head of reference services at the Central Arkansas Library System for the past seven years, and his staff answered last year. No question is turned away, Hicks said in a recent interview.

Concerning the legend of the sand dollar, he said, "It took us a while to find it. The sand dollar has features on it that symbolize Christ. The five holes in it symbolize the five nail holes, for example."

Hicks said the person asking why state boundaries weren't drawn square was told that natural boundaries such as rivers and mountains made that task impossible. The caller with the hair for sale was told — what else? — to try wig shops.

Hats off to Irvine for a great day

Irvine's chili cook-off took off this year with a vitality and spirit that was a joy to see.

The Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the event sold 5,000 entry badges to the recent all day adventure. That's 2,000 more than last year. And although they're not sure yet how much money was raised for charity, the promoters say they should at least match the $17,000 donated in 1982.

A number of special touches made the difference this year. Entertainment was wholesome, varied and suitable for all ages.

Food was everything and anything you could imagine.

And even the local constabulary joined in the festivities by dressing as cowboys, not cops, for the occasion.

Another happy note from the cook-off... police didn't have a single drunk driving arrest Saturday night after the event.

That adds up to more people, fewer problems and greater fundraising capacity for those worthy causes the cook-off committee will choose during the coming months.

Congratulations Irvine, for a great day.

Disabled need help

To the Editor:

After reading your article in last night's paper regarding the street people and their plight, I had to write in the hope that more people will take an interest and that somehow, something will be done in their behalf. We must not shrug our shoulders and do nothing.

I have a very special interest in our state institutions. My daughter, Annie, now aged 20, suffered a hemorrhage in her brain, causing severe brain damage. She has been in hospitals ever since then, private hospitals until our insurance ran out eight months ago.

Now she is in a state institution. She has very poor judgment, is hostile and is physically abusive. Burned out is a term we became used to very quickly — the staff would burn out, or be worn out by Annie very, very quickly. We spent a lot of time looking for hospitals willing to take Annie. There are very few out there!

The state hospitals are understaffed because they do not have the funding they need.

We must get legislation passed to help those who cannot help themselves.

Airport runway solution

To the Editor:

Customarily I do not venture into the political arena but I am so upset with the John Wayne Airport fiasco that I want to offer my solution.

To date many bounces around for new locations even to cutting off mountain tops. In looking over the present site from the air it appears that a strip, two runways wide or so, could be condemned to connect the John Wayne Airport with the Marine Helicopter Base. This would necessitate building runways over 405 but it seems successful at LAX.

If this were worked out, it would be possible to have runways over four (4) miles long and the planes obviously could fly in and out without bothering anyone. Then too, there would be ample ground on which to build an adequate terminal.

Income tax law

To the Editor:

I found the April 4 Waters/Blackburn article about Paul Fisher's tax plan interesting. However, I hope their facts are more accurate than their statement. "At best the income tax which didn't exist until 1912 and didn't affect small taxpayers until WW2..."

The fact is it was employed in the U.S. as a war tax in 1862, but although there were several attempts to pass permanent legislation, like the income tax law of 1894, it was not accomplished until the enactment of the 16th Amendment in 1913, having been declared unconstitutional.

Money, children and long-distance driving — these are said to be the three main sources of argument between husbands and wives. Debate over money and children is too various to itemize. Besides, you already know all about that. In the matter of trip driving, however, researchers claim most husbands complain that their wives can't read road maps, and most wives say their husbands are too stubborn to stop and ask directions.

Q. Are the male schoolteachers in Saudi Arabia permitted to teach female students?

A. Only by way of closed-circuit TV.

Q. Polls show 7 percent of the grownup Americans have never heard of "Custer's Last Stand."

Most renowned of history's prognosticators was Nostradamus, who made his predictions between 1503 and 1566 A.D. Am asked if he actually foresaw the assassinations of John and Robert Kennedy. Can't say that. But he did predict that three powerful brothers would rise in politics and he said one would be killed by a thunderbolt in the daylight and the other at night. Nostradamus came up with some uncanny visions. He predicted the Great London fire of 1666 and the French Revolution. He wrote of Louis Pasteur by name. And he said Germany would get a leader named Hitler, close enough to Hitler to be noteworthy.

Q. Did women ever appear stark naked on stage when my granddad was a boy?

A. Not unless he was a boy after 1919. That was the year the first women performed in total nude on a stage. At the Folies Bergere in France, it was. The show so excited the audience of the day that travelers from all over the world converged on Paris.

This is reportedly the most widely quoted joke in the Soviet Union: "What's the difference between Capitalism and Socialism?" Answer: "Capitalism is the exploitation of man by man. Socialism is the opposite."

THE BATTLE FOR THE PRESIDENT'S MIND

Catching a big fish

WASHINGTON — Hans Lipschis, a former SS guard at Auschwitz, is scheduled to be deported to West Germany this month. He will be the first suspected Nazi war criminal, according to the Justice Department, to be expelled.

Lipschis is a small fry. This is the story of a big fish. He is Valerian Trifa, once a power in the Iron Guard in his native Romania. During the Nazi occupation, the Iron Guard was Romania's home-grown version of the Nazi party.

Trifa was an ideologue, stridently militant with a unique gift for incitement, the author of violently inflammatory anti-Semitic tracts. He is held largely responsible for inciting a bloody pogrom in January 1941, in which hundreds — perhaps thousands — of Romanian Jews were butchered.

In 1955, I discovered that Trifa had escaped with the fleeing Nazis and had obtained secret

Special Investigations had succeeded in bringing a deportation order against Trifa. The ex-fascist had come to the end of the line.

Or had he? More than six months later, Trifa is still living in the Detroit area.

The reason, according to Neal Sher, acting director of the Special Investigations office, is that no country will take Trifa. The government can't just dump him beyond the three-mile limit like a load of garbage — however fitting that might seem.

Under the law, a deportee is given his first choice of destination. Trifa picked Switzerland, but the Swiss refused to accept him.

That left it up to the government to find a country willing to give Trifa refuge. The Justice Department first tried Italy, from which Trifa had emigrated to this country in 1950. Italy refused to take him back, despite Trifa's personal entreaty.

Finally, last Oct. 7, the Justice Department announced that the Nazi hunters in the Office of

The department then tried West Germany. Nothing doing.

WHAT ABOUT Romania? After all, that's where Trifa's outrages occurred. A suitable justice should await him there.

A Justice Department source suggested that the Romanians had been asked to accept Trifa, but there has been no response to date. A Romanian Embassy official told my associate Lucette Lagnado that his government had helped with the U.S. investigation of Trifa.

So the search continues, and it is being closely monitored by the House Judiciary Committee and its chairman, Rep. Peter Rodino, R-N.J. Meanwhile, Valerian Trifa — who admitted his membership in the Iron Guard and to lying about it on his immigration application 33 years ago — continues to live comfortably in this country, the spiritual leader of 35,000 Romanian-American Orthodox Church members.

Light touch of electricity

When my wife utters a little gasp of surprise as she's sitting at her desk paying the bills, I know she's looking at one that's more than she thinks it ought to be. (I have devised a system for not worrying about bills that I recommend to any husband: let your wife pay them and she can do the worrying.)

She often gasps when the bill for our electricity comes in. When I ask what it is, and say it doesn't seem like too much to me, she explains that it's twice as much as it was three years ago.

THE FACT IS electricity is the cheapest thing we buy. We have an eight-room house in an area where electricity is expensive in relation to many parts of the country and it costs us around $600 a year.

Just for fun, I was counting the electric light bulbs in the house. Counting the basement lights and the neon tubes over the stove and over the bathroom sink, there are 73. Some nights as many as 18 of them are burning. I tend to leave lights on when I go out of a room if I plan to come back.

Do we get our money's worth out of our electric bill? The television set in the living room is on three hours a day and sometimes the little black and white one in the kitchen is on at the same time. The dishwasher in the kitchen and the washing machine downstairs may be going at the same time, too. In the kitchen we have a toaster, an oven next to the food mixer, a can opener and several other electric gadgets I'm embarrassed to tell you we own.

In the basement I have half a dozen power tools including a table saw that often blows a fuse if I run it while my wife has the clothes drier going. In the summer I trim the hedge with an electric clipper and come in on a hot day to our air-conditioned kitchen for a cold drink out of the refrigerator.

Don't tell me $600 is expensive for all that or I'll make you a batch of ice cream in my electric freezer.

One of the great satisfactions of life is to get some difficult job done more easily with the help of some tool. That's what electricity does for us. Plug-in energy at the flip of a switch.

THE GASPS from Margie's desk are most audible when the bills come after Christmas. At Christmas we often leave the lights on in front of the house as well as the lights on the tree in the living room for twelve hours a day. Our four kids are all home then taking long hot showers and drying their hair with electric hair blowers.

I was thinking about the electric bill in relation to other things we pay for:

— Our telephone bill, for instance is more than our electric bill. How's that for ridiculous? If my wife wants to gasp, she can gasp over the telephone bill.

— The other night we went to a good restaurant and the check came to more than $40 for two people. I figure electricity costs us $1.60 a day, so the $40 we spent in the restaurant would have paid for 25 days worth of electricity.

— I bet we spend $200 a year on lettuce. That's a third of our electrical bill. I like lettuce but I wouldn't trade it for electricity.

Maybe the electric company will read this and offer to give us one month free. That would make me gasp.

Citizen watchdog pays off

Bob Marchioni, a Benecia resident who, as a self-appointed watchdog of his city's expenditures, undoubtedly is about as popular as a skunk with local officials, reports an aspect of local government waste which should be considered by Governor George Deukmejian and the legislators in weighing the needs for allocations of state funds to local government.

The pesky Marchioni poured through the public records of city expenditures to discover the taxpayers had footed the bill for 11 city officials to attend the League of Cities convention in San Diego last fall.

THE GROUP included the mayor, city manager, three councilmen, the police and fire chiefs, and some department heads. All collected $45 per diem expenses although some collected for five and six days though the meeting lasted only four days. In addition they were reimbursed for their hotel bills which, for most, ranged around $220 but the mayor's hotel bill was $954.

It might also be pointed out each paid a $75 registration fee which netted the League a cool $825. Including transportation costs Marchioni tallies the total bill for the excursion at $5,774.81, not counting the salaries of those attending.

Reasonably Marchioni, as well as other city residents, may ask "Was this trip necessary?" It can be contended that by attending such meetings the officials gain knowledge helpful to them in conducting the business of the city. But is it knowledge that couldn't have been gained otherwise? And do the benefits justify the expense?

But the $64 question is why it was necessary for so many to attend, nearly all of the city's top level management?

The League's convention is an annual event. If each city sends unlimited delegations as Benecia did, the cost to the taxpayers must be staggering.

Probably no group however is as active in attending seminars, conventions, "work-shops" and other forms of out of town meetings as the school people. The superintendents, school administrators and school board members all have their associations which meet not only annually but often in regional meetings.

AND THE STATE meetings are only part of it. Each of these groups also have national associations which have annual conventions, usually at some exotic vacation resort.

And, as in the case of the Benecia example, more often than not they are attended by delegations rather than just one representative. While Marchioni has tallied the cost of just one meeting for just one small city, it is obvious that these meetings take a sizable chunk out of funds which could otherwise be used for essential operations.

Marchioni may be a pest to his city officials but it is too bad there aren't many more Marchionis around the state to bring to full exposure the abuse of the taxpayers by such expenditures.

Video comics snickering over 'sniglets'

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK — For the romantic, it's OK that words can't express certain experiences. But for the realist, there are holes in the dictionary, words that Noah Webster left out — like the junk that accumulates on the neck of old ketchup bottles, or the wrinkles caused by extended stays in the bathtub.

Some of those holes now can be filled, thanks to comedian Rich Hall and his "Not Ready for Network Players" who appear on Home Box Office's monthly spoof, "Not Necessarily the News." Henceforth and forevermore, there will be "sniglets" for once-wordless situations.

"Whenever you can say, 'oh, that thing' you've got a sniglet," says Hall. "It's something that should have a name but doesn't."

According to Hall's unabridged dictionary, "flen" is the black crusty residue found on the necks of old ketchup bottles. "Grackles" are the strange wrinkles that appear on your body when you've stayed in the tub too long.

Sniglets are all over the place. During the conversation with Hall he spied a Bic pen and decided that the innocuous hole on the side of the pen deserved a name. It was dubbed "blint." "You try for a name that fits the image," he says. "But we find a lot of these words have some of the same sounds."

"Lub" is any particle of food that becomes lodged in one's teeth, prompting the fear of same, "lubophobia."

"Lebbets" are the mangled pieces of bread in a bag that are passed over for fresher pieces. "Chwads" are those hard pieces of gum that seem to be part of the furniture, at least they're frequently found under chairs and tables.

Hall says "flen" is the most popular sniglet. "Research says HBO's primary audience is males from 18-25, and that describes the kind of guy who's bound to have an old ketchup bottle around," he says.

The idea for sniglets came when Hall was mailing a letter then checking and rechecking to make sure it went down the mailbox. He calls that "prememblamentation." Many viewers must have experienced it when they mailed their sniglets to HBO. Hall says about 10,000 suggestions have been received.

Many of them are crude and dwell on bodily functions," says Hall. "One we keep getting is the goo that's in the corner of your eyes when you wake up. Some suggestions are written in crayon. We got one from an HBO vice president, but it was deemed to be below standards."

None of Hall's sniglets has achieved official sanction. "When I called, Funk & Wagnall where both out, and Daniel (he means Noah) Webster is dead," says Hall, a stand-up comedian by profession.

Hall is a writer and on-camera company member of HBO's "Not Necessarily the News," a fast-paced collection of send-ups, news spoofs and splice jobs on politicians. Some segments were part of the underground tapes that recently were making the rounds in Washington, including the White House's closed-circuit TV system.

When an announcer intones, "Ladies and Gentlemen, the president of the United States," Reagan, from an old movie clip, saunters into a Western saloon. He's wearing a white hat and is confronted by a vermin who isn't: "I'm poor and I'm hungry. What am I going to do?" Reagan says 'shut up' and decks him.

In the spirit of bipartisanship, House Speaker Tip O'Neill is also on the tapes. With a little audio hocus-pocus, his roll-call vote turns out to be orders for pizza. "How many for anchovies?"

"O'Neill should be wary of 'stroodles.' You know them. They're the strands of pizza that grow longer and longer the more you try to tear them off."

A glossary of 'sniglets'

NEW YORK (AP) — Here are some more of the "sniglets" you won't find in any dictionary but will find in the glossary of Home Box Office's "Not Necessarily The News":

Aquadextrous — adj, the ability to turn bathtub faucets off with toes.

Perpitation — v, act of taking an item off a supermarket shelf and placing it on another shelf.

Rumpaphobia — n, fear of someone walking in on you in a public toilet.

A billion-dollar boondoggle

Probe turns up military coverup in record keeping

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Air Force, Army and an agency that handles supplies for all the armed services hide billions of dollars in inventory errors, according to a report by the investigative arm of Congress.

The General Accounting Office, in a report to be issued this week, cited instances in which tanks, missiles, aircraft and ships were out of service because they lacked parts that inaccurate records indicated were available, the Virginian-Pilot and the Ledger-Star reported yesterday.

Spokesmen for the Defense Department declined to comment until after Pentagon officials review the report, the newspapers reported.

The House Armed Services readiness subcommittee requested the report and will meet Wednesday in Washington to receive it. The subcommittee has been investigating Defense Department supply problems since June 1981.

The investigation was prompted by the disappearance from the Norfolk Naval Supply

Center of $85 million worth of goods over 5½ years. After a day of hearings in Norfolk in February 1982, the subcommittee broadened its investigation to include supply problems in all branches of the armed services.

At the subcommittee's request, GAO auditors and investigators studied the records of four major supply facilities for the last two fiscal years. Two of the facilities were operated by the Army, one by the Air Force and one by the Defense Logistics Agency, which handles supplies used by all of the services.

"I find the GAO report shocking," said Rep. Dan Daniel, D-Va., chairman of the subcommittee. "It clearly strikes at the integrity and management of the defense supply system."

"It is very likely that the services are buying millions of dollars of unneeded items. At the same time, thousands of highly needed items that directly support the readiness of our forces are not acquired."

America's head count bigger

Population continues shifting toward the warm Sunbelt

By RANOLDPH E. SCHMID

WASHINGTON — Americans are getting closer to each other.

It's not a question of friendship. It's a simple matter of numbers.

The increase in the population has increased population density by more than half over the last 30 years.

The 1980 census found an average of 64 Americans per square mile, up from 42.6 in 1950.

New Jersey is the most crowded state; there are 986.2 people per square mile. Alaska is the emptiest — only 0.7 people per square mile.

Population density in the 49th state has more than tripled since 1950 when it was 0.2 per square mile. The growth in New Jersey was closer to the national average, climbing by 53 percent from 64.2 over three decades.

Overall the census counted 226,546,000 people in 1980, up from 203,302,000 a decade earlier and from 179,323,000 in 1960 and 151,326,000 in 1950.

While the population has shifted toward the Sunbelt in recent years, the Northeast remains the most densely populated region by a wide margin.

The Middle Atlantic states

AMERICAN PROFILE

averaged 368.9 people per square mile in 1980, up from 300.1 in 1950. New England — the second most closely packed region — had 196.0 people per square mile, up from 147.5.

Following New Jersey, the most densely populated states are Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Maryland.

At the other end of the scale, the Mountain states average only 13.3 people per square mile, up from 5.9 in 1950.

The Pacific region — which had been the most sparsely populated area 30 years ago — moved into third place and the West-North Central region dropped to fourth. Population density in the Pacific region went from 16.8 to 35.5 people per square mile between 1950 and 1980; in the West-North Central region, it went from 27.5 to 33.8.

After Alaska, the least densely populated states are Wyoming, Montana, Nevada and South Dakota.

Here is a state-by-state rundown of 1980 population density and the change from 1950:

1. New Jersey 986.2, up from 642.8; 2. Rhode Island 897.8, up from 748.5; 3. Massachusetts 733.3, up from 396.2; 4. Connecticut 637.8, up from 409.7; 5. Maryland 428.7, up from 237.1; 6. ## The search . . . Vegas looks for the ultimate showgirl

Las Vegas showgirls Dianne Gibson and Susan McCarthy talk about their lives as showgirls during recent stopover in Costa Mesa.

By LORENZO BENET

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

"We are looking for the ultimate showgirl," announced Don M. Guglielmino, director of public relations for the Tropicana resort in Las Vegas.

The ultimate showgirl, he explained, is at least 5-foot-10 and 18 years of age. She is pretty, graceful, and maintains an hourglass figure. If you answer this description and are interested in spending the next year wearing 35 pound costumes and four-foot tall hats on a nightly basis, you may want to show up at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles' Pershing Square this Thursday at 11 a.m. to register for your chance to become the Tropicana's ultimate folies showgirl.

Of course, you won't be alone; there will be hundreds vying for the job — not only in Los Angeles, but also in Phoenix, Dallas, San Diego and San Francisco.

Five finalists will be selected from each city and flown to Las Vegas for the final audition May 21.

"The response we have received so far leads us to believe that this individual we finally select, will undoubtedly become the most publicized personality among Las Vegas stage revues today," Guglielmino said.

This woman will be awarded a one year contract to appear in the 16th edition of the Tropicana's "Folies Bergere," which is seen by a half-million people a year. She will earn $22,000 and be the hotel's cover girl for publicity and promotions. She could land an additional $100,000 in modeling, movie and television contracts, Guglielmino said.

Two of the 12 current showgirls, 5-foot-11 Susan McCarthy and 6-foot-2 Dianne Gibson

"You have to laugh about things and get yourself psyched up. When you're on that stage and the lights hit you have to smile. You have to make each show better than the last."

formerly of Lakewood recently described the different aspects of being a folies performer during a stopover at the Westin South Coast Plaza Hotel.

They advised that those who audition should convey an aura of confidence.

"Just smile like crazy, be bright and cheerful — even if you're scared to death," said McCarthy, a six-year folies veteran.

They said showgirls have it pretty good as far as Las Vegas entertainers go. They perform two shows a night, six evenings a week. During performances the showgirls sing a little, dance a little, but most of the time they parade about the stage outfitted in sequined costumes with wide capes. At times, they go topless (thus the minimum age requirement of 18), but McCarthy and Gibson say "it's just part of the job."

"We've been told that people like our show the best because it has the least amount of nudity of all the Las Vegas acts," McCarthy said.

Registration at the Biltmore lasts from 11 a.m. to noon. Auditions are noon to 3 p.m. Information call the Tropicana at (702) 739-2546.

There are a few drawbacks to being a showgirl, they said. Showgirls get just one night off a week. And doing the same act night after night can get tiresome, Gibson and McCarthy agreed.

"You have to laugh about things and get yourself psyched up," Gibson said. "When you're on that stage and the lights hit you have to smile. You go out there with the attitude of trying to make each show better than the last."

Showgirls also have to watch their weight, which is periodically scrutinized by hotel officials.

"I once got a notice," McCarthy said abashedly.

Gibson said working nights doesn't allow her to spend as much time with her son as she'd like to. "I make a point to be home at 3 (p.m.) to see him," she said.

Ironically, showgirls, commonly referred to as the most glamorous performers in Las Vegas, didn't have it easy with men during their adolescent years.

"It's funny," Gibson said. "We all have the same stories; our height (the 12 showgirls range from 5-foot-10 to 6-foot-2) inhibited guys from asking us out or asking us to dance."

"One time," McCarthy said, giggling "I was in a disco and this guy 5-foot-two asked me to dance. I stood up and he practically died."

Speaking a physical thing

Speakeasy teaches you how 'to interface'

By NANCY SHULINS

Of Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK — Sandy Linver talks with her hands. And her arms. And her torso. She uses her mouth. And her face. And her eyes. Watching her speak, you feel as though you were watching a new Olympic sport.

In a sense, you are. "Most people are amazed to discover how physical speaking is," says Linver. "The problem is, too many people clench their fists and lock their knees instead of using their bodies, opening their mouths, and breathing."

Linver, a small, energetic woman with a jumble of auburn curls and a hundred-watt smile, is president of Speakeasy Inc., an Atlanta-based company that teaches people in business how to talk to other people in business. Without putting said people to sleep.

In the 10 years since she started her company, Linver has worked with mumblers and mutterers, babblers and bores.

She has helped 10,000 people overcome such handicaps, among them executives from the Coca-Cola Co., IBM, and AT&T. In the process, she has reached some conclusions about how otherwise competent people behave when placed before a crowd and are asked to talk.

"In the past, technical people have tended to rely on their information to carry them. Now they're also having to persuade their clients. It's new to them."

The forget how. They tighten their stomachs. They stop breathing. They recall the time they forgot their lines in the school play. They panic.

At Speakeasy's two or three day seminars, instructors use videotape, role playing and other techniques to teach public speaking. Of the 10,000 who have signed up, only five fled midway through the course.

For attorneys and board chairmen, public speaking has long been a part of the job. For computer experts and others in technical fields, it is fast becoming a part of the job, because increased demand for computers has sparked increased competition for clients. And whoever gives the best sales pitch is likely to walk away with the sale.

Linver says that as much as 70 percent of her business now comes from people in technical fields.

"We're concerned with helping them develop a style," she says. "In the past, technical people have tended to rely on their information to carry them. Now, they're also having to persuade clients. It's new to them."

Speakeasy seminars begin with participants giving brief speeches about themselves. The moment of truth comes when the speeches are played back on videotape.

Math major Shirley Prutch saw herself adopting a model's pose, head tilted, feet together, hands clasped in front of her. It was supposed to look feminine. Instead, she recalls, "it looked weird."

To get participants to open their mouths and project their voices, Linver has them imitate umpires, carnival barkers, or panhandlers. Most are surprised when they play back the tapes: The poses that felt so exaggerated tend to look pretty good.

Prutch, who addresses two or three groups daily, says she has become a better speaker as a result of Speakeasy.

"I'm finding I really enjoy it." Then, lapsing into native computerese, she adds: "I love to interface with people."

Sandy Linver insists that "most people are amazed to discover how physical speaking is."

No class in first class

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I do not wish to defend smokers, but they are treated as if they have some loathsome disease while others behave in ways that are far more offensive and get away with it. For example:

I am a single working woman who couldn't afford it, but I bought a first-class airline ticket from Indianapolis to the West Coast because I wanted to travel "in style." Seated next to me was a woman with an infant. That baby screamed for one hour and 15 minutes. I had to get up and walk around to keep from going nuts. Across the aisle were a couple of kids popping bubble gum and blowing bubbles. They knew they were getting under my skin and kept it up all the way. (No parent in sight.) Behind me was a teen-ager who kept kicking my seat to the beat of the music that was piped into her head. What would you have done? — BURNED IN INDY

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd have written off the trip as a burner and moved to a seat in coach.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was amused by the letter from the woman who complained about her husband's "sex record." He rates her very good, good, fair and no good.

Why didn't you tell her that two can play that game? If my husband ever did such a humiliating thing to me, I would buy a notebook of my own. Every time we had sex I would write, "Not as good as Joe," "Not as good as Jack," "Not as good as Harvey." I would then leave the notebook where he was sure to find it.

He might kill me, but I'd never confess I had made up those entries just to get even. — COMPARISON SHOPPER IN MISSOURI

DEAR SHOPPER: Your letter reminded me of that old joke. In answer to a routine question, "How's your husband?" a capricious female replied, "Compared to whom?"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I felt a very strong kinship with "Wide-Awake Kate in Torrance," the girl who was confused by the euphemism "sleeping with." When her date fell asleep and she nodded off in the car beside him, she was scared to death she'd get pregnant because her mother had warned her against "sleeping with" a boy. I experienced something similar that caused me shame and embarrassment for years. I was afraid that being kissed would get me in a family way.

When I was 8 years old my cousin had to get married. I heard the relatives talking and asked my mother about it. She gave me a lecture about what can happen when you let a boy kiss you too much. Until I was 20 I was scared to death to kiss a boy for fear I would suffer the same fate as my cousin.

So please, Ann, urge all parents who read your column to be careful what they say to their young children. A twisted fact or the misuse of words can strike terror in their little hearts for a long time. — K.C. VICTIM

DEAR K.C.: Thanks for another superb example. Letters such as yours do a better job of pinpointing a problem than anything I might say.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 23, my girlfriend is 22. We have been going together for six years. She would like to set a date and get married.

Diane is sweet, considerate, bright, loving — everything a guy could ask for. I think I love her, but I am not sure. For a long time I've had the idea that I will never be completely happy until I take out other girls to compare her with.

Yet I cannot expect her to allow me to date unless I give her the same right. The thought that she might meet someone she likes better than me drives me bananas. If I didn't find anyone I liked better and she did, I would never forgive myself. Please advise. — CONFUSED IN N.Y.

DEAR N.Y.: You'll never feel satisfied until you date others, so go ahead and do it. And tell Diane to do the same. It's a risk worth taking.

YOUR HEALTH

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I wonder if my doctor is mistreating me. During a physical, he discovered that my blood pressure is 150 over 96. He calls it mild hypertension. But he hasn't prescribed anti-hypertensive medicines. I have a friend with pressure like mine who is on the pills.

My doctor says that all I need to do is take off about 25 pounds and cut down on my salt intake. He has also suggested that I learn relaxation techniques. "Let's give that a try for a few months," he said. "If your pressure misbehaves, there'll be time enough for anti-hypertensives." Shall I ask for another medical opinion? — MRS. O.

DEAR MRS. O.: Your doctor makes good sense in not "rushing in" with medication before he tries conservative treatment. Reducing weight, cutting down on salt and learning how to relax often bring pressures down to normal — or at least prevent them from going higher.

People with diastolic pressure ranging between 90-100 are considered to be mild hypertensives. This affects about 30 million Americans. They make up about 75 percent of all hypertensives and about 15 percent of the population. There's a question whether such patients will live longer because of the medication.

According to Thomas G. Pickering, M.U. of Cornell University Center: "Should we subject larger numbers of persons to long-term treatment with potentially harmful medications?"

But AMA's Richard J. Jones, M.D., warns: "Drug therapy for mild hypertension, particularly for patients under 50 may indeed have been overrated. However, because patients may be at risk for cardiovascular disease and stroke for reasons other than blood pressure, no patient should discontinue his medication without discussing all the risk factors with his physician."

Dr. Steincrohn welcomes questions from readers. He cannot answer all individually but will include those of general interest in his column. Send your questions to him, in care of the Daily Pilot, P.O. Box 1560, Costa Mesa 92626.

ERMA BOMBECK

AT WIT'S END

Just once, I'd like to get a virus that everyone in town doesn't have.

Nothing serious, mind you. Just a little bug that makes people stop eating the chip dip and offer a little sympathy. When I tell people I'm sick, it's for one reason only. I crave attention. I want everyone (including my doctor) to sit at my right hand and occasionally make notes as I trace the route of my malady from my chest to my throat to my head. I want just one person to say, "That sounds serious. Maybe you should go to bed."

It'll never happen. In 30 years, I have always been the last adult female in North America to get the bug that "everybody's got and there's no cure for it and so what! You might just as well stay on your feet and work it off." Why doesn't this make me feel better?

A couple of weeks ago I felt like my chest had been wound too tight. Pain tap-danced across my forehead. My eyes felt like round razor blades. I saved up my coughs for a time when I felt adventurous. Fever racked my body, my lips were dry and parched and food held no interest for me.

"I don't feel well," I said to my husband.

"Nonsense," he said. "You're just bored."

"Then you CAN die from it," I said.

"Look," he said, "everyone in the office has what you have. There's a lot of it going around and the diagnosis is they probably just need a job change."

"You could be right. I don't want to be married anymore."

"Sometimes," he continued, "it's just an attitude where you tell yourself you're sick, when in reality you are generally discontented with yourself. I've seen a million cases of this in the office."

"You didn't say that when you went to bed for three days after you had your teeth cleaned."

"That's different. I had complications."

"A popcorn hull embedded in a molar?"

"Will you stop coughing like that?" he cautioned. "You're scaring the kids half to death."

The word "virus" has become synonymous with we-don't-know-what-it-is-or-how-to-cure-it-but-you're-certainly-trendy. I don't know how we all got to be so "ordinary." Maybe it happened a long time ago.

Whatya wanta bet when Eve complained of not feeling well, Adam said, "There's a lot of it going around. You're the 15th person I've talked to this week with the same symptoms. No sense dwelling on it. It'll just make it worse. Here, have a piece of fruit. Remember, an apple a day keeps the doctor away."

She saved 'General Hospital'

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES — ABC's "General Hospital" is celebrating its 20th anniversary as daytime's highest-rated show, but five years ago producer Gloria Monty thought she was being asked to conduct its death rites.

It seems so unlikely that "General Hospital" — the show that set the pace for all other soaps, the show that raised sex and intrigue to new heights on television, the show that set a daytime viewing record with Luke and Laura's wedding, the show that recently won seven of nine "Soapy" awards — once was moribund.

"I became producer in 1978 and the show was dead," Monty recalls. "It was not dead, but it was within a few months of cancellation. It had a very low rating and I was told it probably would last only a few more months."

"General Hospital" made its debut as a half-hour serial on April 1, 1962, and the only members of the original cast still with the show are John Berardino as Dr. Steve Hardy and Emily McLaughlin as head nurse Jessie Brewer.

The resurgence of "General Hospital" can be traced to Miss Monty's appointment as producer. It was, in fact, to have a profound effect on the entire field of soap opera.

Her early background was in the theater. She has had a master's degree in drama from Columbia University and had directed more than 50 plays before she was asked to direct the pilot for "Secret Storm." She stayed with that show for 10 years.

She also was associated with "Bright Promise" and worked on numerous specials for "ABC Wide World of Entertainment."

Monty most likely is the model for the soap opera producer in the hit movie "Tootsie." Dustin Hoffman once worked for her, and he spent three months backstage at "General Hospital" prior to beginning the movie.

"Even before I became producer of "General Hospital," I heard the show had its own editing facilities," Monty says. "That meant we could do our own work without having to wait. It meant we could go on location. It meant I could pick up the pace of the show."

"I tried to make it as close to a 90-minute film as I could (although it's only an hour long). I began to gather together a repertory company of actors and used them experimentally as I had in the theater. We gathered the actors together in families. The Webbers, the Quartermains, the Hardys. One big thing was bringing in Luke Spencer, played by Tony Geary."

The major focus of the serial — the mysteries, the sex, the intrigue — was on Luke Spencer.

Gloria Monty helped salvage "General Hospital."

Hitchcock re-releases set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Universal Pictures has acquired worldwide rights to five classic Alfred Hitchcock films from the late director's estate and plans to re-release them, a Universal official said.

The films, all of which have been withdrawn from release in recent years, include four starring James Stewart: "The Man Who Knew Too Much," with Doris Day; "Rear Window," with Grace Kelly; "Rope," with Farley Granger, and "Vertigo," with Kim Novak, plus "The Trouble With Harry," starring Edmund Gwenn.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold: ♠AJ853 ♥K95 ♦73 ♣KQ9

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♦ Pass 1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now? A.—You have a five-card major suit, but there is no need to advertise that fact. Partner has already told you that he has a balanced hand, and yours is balanced, too. Make the value bid of three no trump — three spades tells partner you have a six-card suit and an unbalanced hand.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold: ♠AKQ ♥AKJ105 ♦J87 ♣92

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♥ Pass 3 ♥ Pass 3 ♦ Pass 4 ♦ Pass 4 ♠ Pass 5 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now? A.—You have a very good hand, yet you can do no more than bid five hearts. If you trust partner's cue bids, your side may not have a club control. Partner had two opportunities to cue-bid clubs, but bypassed both. If he does have a club control, he is free to bid over five hearts.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold: ♠KQ5 ♥82 ♦AQJ98 ♣763

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass 2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now? A.—This is a matter of simple arithmetic. Even if partner has 20 points, your side has only 32 HCP. Not even your fifth diamond is enough for you to presume that your combined holding will stretch to slam. Bid three no trump.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold: ♠K93 ♥Q875 ♦AKJ6 ♣72

The bidding has proceeded: East South West North 1 ♠ Dble Pass 2 ♠

Pass ? What action do you take? A.—If you bid again because you thought that partner's jump was forcing, we suggest you read again the chapter on takeout doubles in your bridge book. Partner's jump is invitational, and you have a dead minimum takeout double. To make matters worse, you have only three spades and partner may have only a four-card suit. Pass.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold: ♠4 ♥AQ106 ♦KQ98 ♣KQJ5

The bidding has proceeded: East South West North 1 ♠ Dble Pass 1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now? A.—Partner's one no trump response to your takeout double shows a fair hand, so you want to get to game. The question is where to play the hand, in a suit or in no trump? If you cue-bid two spades now, you might receive an answer to that question while at the same time you advise partner of your strong hand.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold: ♠Q1065 ♥93 ♦8542 ♣AK6

The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now? A.—In support of spades, your hand revalues to 11 points. Therefore, you are too strong for a simple raise to two spades. Jump to three spades — that is not forcing, only invitational. If partner has full values, he will carry on to game.

Identity problem

Witt bids to return to rotation

By JOHN SEVANO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dave Goltz and Mike Witt are two pitchers struggling to find their identities.

One is a starter. The other a long reliever. Both are interchangeable. Neither is sure which one is which.

It was Goltz, in place of Witt, who started against Baltimore yesterday. It was Witt, however, who replaced Goltz in the sixth inning, who got the victory.

For the record, the Angels beat the Orioles, 7-3, before 43,521 at Anaheim Stadium. The win marked the first time in five years the Angels were able to take a series from Baltimore on their home turf.

Rod Carew continued his torrid hitting, going 4-for-5 and scoring three runs to raise his average to .453. Tim Foli had two hits and two runs batted in, while Brian Downing and Juan Beniquez had two hits and an RBI each.

The intrigue, however, surrounded Goltz and Witt, two pitchers who, like most competitors, probably shook hands before their current battle, will shake hands after, and have little to say to each other during.

Goltz currently owns what Witt feels is his spot in the rotation. Goltz, meanwhile, has no intention of surrendering his promotion willingly.

"I kept them in the game. I kept it close," assessed Goltz of his performance which saw him go 5 1/2 innings, give up three runs on five hits, strike out four and walk two.

"Naturally, I would like to be one of the starters. But I'm here to do whatever they want. What happens, happens."

Witt isn't as noncommittal. He wants his job back, period. And he's upset with himself for losing it in the first place.

"I think if I had been harder on myself, after the first couple of games, than what I was, I could have come back in the third game and been all right and not had to deal with this situation," said Witt.

"You can say all you want about a pitcher's rhythm and his mechanics, but if he's not in the right frame of mind . . . well, I just think that was 90 percent of it."

Witt entered yesterday's game with an 0-3 mark and an earned run average that surpassed 8.00. He ended it with not only his first victory and a lower ERA of 6.75, he may have also regained some valuable confidence he appeared to lack earlier.

"I can only do what I'm capable of doing," said Witt. "In the past I haven't responded well to certain situations where today I did."

In other words, Witt was having trouble with his mental frame of mind with men on base.

Yesterday, though, he relieved Goltz with a runner on first and two out in the sixth and promptly got Rich Dauer to hit a fly ball.

Witt also allowed a runner to reach base in the seventh and (See ANGELS, Page C2)

A record run to Ensenada

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Daily Pilot Boating Writer

ENSENADA — All records were smashed yesterday in the Newport-to-Ensenada yacht race which will go into the books as the fastest in the 36-year history of the famed party race.

The most astounding record was set by Bob Hanel's 68-foot catamaran Double Bullet which finished the 125-mile course at 10:30 Saturday night for an elapsed time of 10 hours, 30 minutes and 6 seconds, knocking 3 1/2 hours off the old elapsed time record of 14 hours, 1 minute set by the catamaran Aikane in the 1957 race.

The first 10 boats to finish were all under the old elapsed time record. The first four boats to finish were catamarans. Second was Kristine, skippered by Eddie Arnold of Newport Beach in 10 hours and 42 minutes, third was Tyger Tyger, skippered by Lyle Willets, Newport Beach in 11 hours and 12 minutes and fourth was Machete, Warren Seaman, Los Angeles, in 11 hours and 43 minutes.

The first mono-hull yacht to finish was Dennis Choate's new 68-foot sloop Saga from Long Beach which finished fifth with elapsed time of 12 hours and 12 minutes.

The 84-foot sloop Christine out of Marina del Rey finished sixth in 12 hours and 18 minutes; the 68-foot Merlin out of Long Beach, last year's line honors winner, was seventh in 12 hours; eighth was Roger MacGregor's new 65-foot Anthem in 12 hours and 56 minutes; ninth was Avenger (13:18) and 10th was Mike Kane's 56-foot trimaran Crusader from Newport Beach (13:24).

By 10 a.m. yesterday, more than 200 boats had finished and scores of others were approaching the finish line in droves. By 3 p.m. fewer than 50 boats were still at sea.

The yacht Campbell Sloop, skippered by Leon Campbell, San Diego Yacht Club, finished at mid-morning in a sinking condition after a thru-hull fitting let go off Todos Santos Island. Campbell said the water was above the cabin floorboards with the crew frantically bailing as they crossed the finish line.

Rams have sights set on back

As the hour of 5 a.m. approaches tomorrow, the Rams will hopefully be wide awake for the start of the NFL draft.

Of course, since they traded picks with Houston Saturday, and now own the No. 2 choice overall, they could very well make their first pick in their sleep and still come out ahead.

The Rams, however, have a number of ways they can go in tomorrow's draft. And don't be so certain they're done wheeling and dealing yet. A possible transaction with Baltimore, in order to get a crack at the highly sought-after John Elway, is a distinct possibility.

Reality, though, figures to see the Rams take SMU running back sensation Eric Dickerson and team him with Wendell Tyler in the backfield. Dickerson is a 215-pounder with 4.45 speed.

Other possibilities include the drafting of Notre Dame tight end Tony Hunter, or Arkansas linebacker Billy Ray Smith.

The Rams' obvious needs are defensive, especially at linebacker and the line. Rams Coach John Robinson has indicated, however, the Rams are going to go back to their old philosophy of drafting "the better athlete" or "need."

Whereas the draft used to be divided into a two-day affair, the entire procedure will be carried out during a 17-hour span tomorrow.

Houston has eight picks in the first two rounds.

Lakers shrug off layoff to pummel Portland in opener

INGLEWOOD (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers had a week off before opening defense of their National Basketball Association championship. But it was hardly a vacation.

"You have to give Rat credit," Laker center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar said of Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley. "He worked us hard and he sought out things we needed to improve upon."

After a number of intense practice sessions last week, the Lakers began the playoffs yesterday afternoon with a 118-97 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers in the first game of a best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal series.

Playing almost flawlessly at the start of the game, Los Angeles sprinted out to a 29-12 advantage after eight minutes of play, and the Trail Blazers were never able to get closer than four points after that.

Defense was one area Riley stressed during drills leading up to the series opener, and the Lakers played defense extremely well at important points of the game.

Abdul-Jabbar scored 32 points and Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 18 assists and 19 points to pace the Lakers.

"During the week, we worked very hard on the defensive end of the game," said Riley. "I think the things we worked on really paid off, especially in the first quarter."

"Both teams were extremely emotional at the beginning of the game," Riley continued, "but I think Portland was emotionally spent because of the two games they played against Seattle."

Portland Coach Jack Ramsay basically agreed, saying: "They got off to a tremendous start. They did everything well. We want to play better and I know we can . . . We may have been a little fatigued, but we will be back on Tuesday."

'Tree' falls on Ainge in bench-clearing brawl

BOSTON (AP) — The ingredients for a brawl had been simmering in the heat of a do-or-die playoff pressure cooker.

After three elbowing incidents between Atlanta center "Tree" Rollins and Boston guard Danny Ainge, Ainge tackled Rollins and the pair rolled to the floor as players from both benches dove onto the pile yesterday.

Ainge was bitten on the middle finger of his right hand during the melee with 6:15 left in the third quarter of the Celtics' 98-79 National Basketball Association playoff victory over the Hawks. The win gave Boston a 2-1 triumph in the best-of-three series and sent the Celtics into a best-of-seven round starting here Wednesday night against Milwaukee.

"He just stuck my finger in his mouth and I thought he was going to bite it off," Ainge said of Rollins, who wouldn't comment on the biting incident.

Boston trainer Ray Melchiorre said five stitches were needed in Ainge's finger. His status for Wednesday's game was uncertain.

"He had good range of motion in the finger. It (the bite) just missed the tendon," Melchiorre said. Ainge's finger was not (See "TREE", Page C2)

Orange Coast crew dominates regatta

The Orange Coast College crew dominated yesterday's dual regatta, winning all four of the events the Pirates entered in the event held at the North Lido Channel in Newport.

Wadkins makes it interesting before taking T of C

CARLSBAD (AP) — Lanny Wadkins, with a chance to make it easy, had to struggle to salvage a one-stroke victory yesterday in a successful defense of his title in the Tournament of Champions.

"I could have made a cakewalk out of it, and I didn't," Wadkins said after his round of par 72 that included bogeys on two of the last three holes.

"It was just one of those days when I couldn't make anything happen. I never had a simple, straight-in putt all day.

"I didn't think par golf would win it, but that's the way things happen. It's just the pressure of Sunday golf."

Wadkins took a three-shot lead with birdie on the 10th and 11th holes and, he said, "I felt like I was really in control, ready to blow it open."

"I had it programmed, but somebody turned my channel off."

Wadkins finished with a 280 total, eight shots under par on the difficult, 6,911-yard La Costa Country Club course. That was the same total that brought him the title last year and left him one shot in front of PGA champion Ray Floyd.

The victory in this elite event that brings together only the winner of PGA Tour titles from the past 12 months, was worth $72,000 from the total purse of $400,000 and moved Wadkins into the season's money winning lead with $229,048.

It was Wadkins' second victory of the season — the other came at Greensboro three weeks ago — and enabled the former PGA titleholder to join Gil Morgan as the only multiple winners on the tour this season.

Floyd had a closing 69, three under par and matching the best round of the final day. He finished at 281 and won $48,000.

"I'm a little surprised," Floyd said. "I didn't think three under in the last round would give me any chance at all." But it did.

Jabbar requesting $2 million a year

From AP dispatches
LOS ANGELES — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar will ask $2 million a year when he comes up as a free agent next season and that may hinder his chances of being re-signed with the Lakers, it was reported yesterday.

Lakers owner Jerry Buss, while acknowledging that he wants to keep Abdul-Jabbar and that the star center wants to stay with the Los Angeles team, probably won't be willing to pay him $4 million for the next two seasons, citing Lakers front office members who were not identified.

Abdul-Jabbar's agent, Tom Collins said last week he would seek $2 million a year when Abdul-Jabbar becomes a free agent after the end of this season. The next two seasons may be the last the 36-year-old center plays.

That would considerably up Abdul-Jabbar's current salary, estimated at $1.1 million, and would make him the second-highest paid player in the National Basketball Association, behind Philadelphia 76ers center Moses Malone, who reportedly gets $2.3 million a year.

"Kareem should be compensated for who he is and what he's done over the years. We're just asking for a fair contract, one that will make him one of the highest-paid players ever," Collins said.

Overtime goal lifts Boston

Defenseman Brad Park's second goal of the game 1:52 in overtime capped a Boston comeback that lifted the Bruins to a 3-2 victory over Buffalo last night in the seventh and deciding game of their National Hockey League quarterfinal playoff series. The Bruins advanced into the semifinals, beginning tomorrow night, against the New York Islanders. Edmonton got two key goals from checkers Ray Cote and Dave Hunter and set an NHL record for short-handed goals as the Oilers belted Chicago, 8-4, in the first game of the Campbell Conference championship series. The Oilers scored their eighth and ninth short-handed goals of the playoffs in the final period to break the game open.

Braves unbeaten at home

Bob Horner hit a three-run homer in the first game and a solo shot in the nightcap as Atlanta swept a National League double-header from the New York Mets yesterday. The sweep left the Braves unbeaten at home (9-0) and the Mets winless on the road (0-8). Elsewhere in the NL, Leon Durham's tie-breaking, two-run homer in the fourth inning powered the Chicago Cubs to a 5-1 victory over San Francisco. Jose Cruz singled up the middle with the bases loaded and one out in the bottom of the 11th inning to lift Houston to a 3-2 win over Philadelphia in the Astrodome. Andre Dawson homered and drove in three runs, and Bryan Little added two RBI as Montreal rallied twice to take a 5-4 triumph at Cincinnati. Dave LaPoint and Bruce Sutter combined on a six-hitter and Keith Hernandez singled home the game's first run to lift St. Louis past San Diego, 2-0. LaPoint, 2-0, outdueling Andy Hawkins, 0-1, through 7 1/2 innings before being relieved by Sutter, who earned his second save.

Quote of the day

Cheryl Miller, standout freshman forward at USC, comparing men's and women's basketball: "We're doing everything like men except shaving."

Brett extends streak to 13

George Brett extended his hitting streak to 13 games and Hal McKenra drove in two runs yesterday to lead Kansas City to a 7-1 romp over Toronto in the American League. Brett raised his average to .471 when he went 2-for-4 with a double and single. In other AL action, Milwaukee's Don Sutton handcuffed Texas on four hits through eight innings in a 3-1 victory, placing him in 29th place on the all-time victory list with his 261st major-league triumph. Dwight Evans smacked two opposite-field homers, including a game-winning, three-run blast in the eighth inning to lead Boston past Oakland, 4-2. Larry Herndon's RBI triple keyed a two-run, third-inning rally as Detroit completed a three-game sweep of Seattle with a 4-2 win. Scott Fletcher knocked in four runs and scored another as the Chicago White Sox snapped a three-game losing streak by stopping Cleveland, 9-3. Chicago right-hander Rich Dotson allowed seven hits in seven innings to earn his second victory of the season. Minnesota at New York was postponed because of rain.

Malone shakes off injury

Moses Malone, wearing elastic supports on his injured knees, elastic 38 points and grabbed 17 rebounds as Philadelphia defeated New York, 112-102 yesterday in the first game of their National Basketball Association semifinal playoff series. The 6-10 Malone, who hadn't played since April 10, dominated the middle as the 76ers took the lead late in the first period and never relinquished it. Larry Bird scored 26 points as Boston trounced Atlanta, 98-79 to move into the quarterfinals. Bird also had nine rebounds and nine assists as the Celtics captured the deciding game of a three-game mini-series and advanced to meet Milwaukee, starting in Boston Garden Wednesday. Alex English scored 42 points and Mike Evans sank two crucial baskets in overtime as Denver eliminated Phoenix, 117-112 in the deciding game of their playoff series. Denver, which captured its first mini-series victory in four appearances, advanced to the Western Conference semifinals, starting tomorrow night against San Antonio.

Baseball today

1876 — The first shutout in National League history was pitched by Al Spalding, whose Chicago Cubs defeated Louisville 4-0 in the franchise's first game.
 1901 — The Detroit Tigers staged one of baseball's most remarkable comebacks, scoring 10 runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to beat Milwaukee, 14-13.
 1904 — Pitcher Jack Chesbro of the New York Yankees registered the first of his 41 victories that season, an American League record that still stands.
 1933 — Russ Van Atta collected four hits and pitched the New York Yankees to a 16-0 victory in his first major league game.
 Today's birthday: Texas shortstop Bucky Dent is 32.

Bryant shines for Stars

Kelvin Bryant ran for 110 yards and a touchdown as Philadelphia jumped to an early lead and held off Boston yesterday, 23-16, in United States Football League action. The Stars now own the top record in the league at 7-1, while Boston, which fell behind 20-0 but fought back to within four points against Philadelphia, is now 5-3. Reggie Collier and Cornelius Quarles scored on plays up the middle to lead Birmingham to a 21-9 triumph over Oakland. Carl Franks ran 18 yards for a score with 2:25 to play as Tampa Bay held off Washington, 30-23. The victory kept the Bandits atop the Central Division.

Stacy coasts to victory

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Hollis Stacy struggled to a par-72 on the final round yesterday, but still managed to ease away from the field and defend her LPGA S&H Golf Classic title with a six-stroke victory over Patty Sheehan and Deedee Lasker. Stacy, who started the day with a three-shot advantage over Janet Coles, birdied three of the first four holes on the backside of the 6,023-yard Pasadena Golf Club course to assume a seven-stroke advantage and then cruised to her 12th career triumph. She finished with a 72-hole total of 11-under-par 277 and was never seriously challenged by Sheehan or Lasker, who completed the second-oldest tournament on the LPGA tour with 5-under-par totals of 283. Coles, chasing her first title in five years, and Jo Ann Washam were at 284, followed by Lori Huxhold at 285.

Dodger game washed out

PITTSBURGH — The scheduled baseball game between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Pittsburgh Pirates was postponed yesterday due to rain. The game between the two National League teams will be made up July 19 as part of a two-night double-header. The Dodgers face St. Louis tonight in the opener of a three-game series.

Connors claims tourney title

Defending champion Jimmy Connors had some problems in the first set, but once he got back on track had little difficulty beating Mark Edmondson, 7-6, 6-1 yesterday to win a tennis tournament in Las Vegas. Meanwhile, in Haines City, Fla., Martina Navratilova fought off high winds and a second-set surge by Andrea Jaeger to capture a women's tennis tournament, 6-1, 7-6. Pro tour veteran Bob Charles won the battle of the winds with a dramatic 48-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff to beat local favorite Greg Powers and claim the Tallahassee Open golf title yesterday. Two-time defending national champion Darrell Waltrip took control midway through the Grand National stock car race in Martinsville, Va. and posted his second straight victory. Three-time world champion Alexis Arguello knocked down Claude Noel in the first round and stopped him early in the third of their scheduled 10-round junior welterweight bout in Atlantic City. Eusebio Pedroza of Panama successfully defended his World Boxing Association featherweight title in San Remo, Italy, by winning a unanimous decision over American Rocky Lockridge in their 15-round bout.

eight, and two in the ninth, and worked out of each jam accordingly. It was Witt's first acid test... and he passed. "He did a good job," said Manager John McNamara encouragingly. ## Lewis sprints to easy victory at Mt. SAC

WALNUT (AP) — Top-ranked sprinter Carl Lewis ran the fastest 100 meters of his career yesterday and only a wind slightly over limits kept him from bettering the world record. A major 1984 Olympics hope for the United States in both the sprints and long jump, Lewis ran the 100 in the Mt. San Antonio Relays in 9.93 seconds, with a 2.3 meters per second aiding wind. That wind was .3 over the allowable limit, so Lewis' dash can't challenge the world record of 9.95 by Jim Hines in the 1968 Olympic Games. This was the first race this season for Lewis outdoors and the University of Houston student said: "I was sure I would do well because I had done well indoors and have a better start than last year. "If I'm out in front five or six meters from the start, I don't think anybody in the world can beat me." Willie Gault, the track and football star from the University of Tennessee, was with Lewis at the start with Ron Brown close.

Shrewdly, McNamara dodged the question of what next? "We're just going to have to wait and see what happens," he replied.

For the moment, at least, nothing will change. Goltz's next scheduled start is Sunday against Boston. Witt will continue to come out of the bullpen. "I'm not thinking about doing anything in a hurry," said Witt. "I'm not worried about a week from now or two weeks from now."

No, Witt's only concern is getting back into the rotation, while Goltz's objective is to stay there.

ANGEL NOTES — Daryl Sconiers was the subject of a prank pulled on a rookie yesterday. Because of Little League day, the Angels had to move their batting practice session ahead by 15 minutes. Sconiers, who was supposed to hit with the last group, forgot about the change and wasn't reminded of it either when his group started hitting. Sconiers, who had been fielding ground balls at first base, finally got his helmet and bat and walked toward the cage around 11:15 a.m. Much to his chagrin, when the last group took their final swings, it also marked the last of batting practice. When Sconiers got back to the locker room, his teammates really got on him. "Hey, Daryl," yelled Reggie Jackson, "did it feel good out there today?" "Daryl, were the balls really jumping off your bat?" asked another. The irony is that Sconiers didn't have a particularly good game at the plate. In going 1-for-4 with an RBI, he also struck out twice and never really had a good cut at the ball. Said Rod Carew after the game, attacking the needle in a little farther. "Gee, I'm sorry Daryl. If I had known you were going to look THAT BAD I would have told you it was time to hit." Sconiers laughed it all off. The Angels are off today and tomorrow. They open a two-game set with Detroit Wednesday night (7:30) with Matt Willea (2-1) scheduled to face Geoff Zahn. A number of Angel players, thanks to a friend of Tim Foll, went deep sea fishing today.

Fatal accident mars race German driver killed at Riverside

RIVERSIDE (AP) — John Fitzpatrick and David Hobbs teamed up to win the Grand Prix of Endurance yesterday, but they weren't in a mood to celebrate afterward. Fitzpatrick, of San Diego, brought a two-car team to the event. He co-drove one car with the Englishman Hobbs and left the second car to Rolf Stommelen of West Germany and Derek Bell, another Englishman. Stommelen, a three-time winner of the Daytona 24 Hour endurance race, was killed as the result of injuries suffered in an accident about halfway through the race at Riverside International Raceway. Stommelen, 39, was driving into the 180-degree turn nine when the rear wing on his Porsche Turbo appeared to twist, forcing him into the wall. The car flipped over twice and caught on fire.

Firefighters from the track were on the scene immediately, but were forced back by the flames. Additional fire crews had the fire out within five minutes, and the California Sports Car Club safety crews removed Stommelen from the car.

Stommelen was taken to Riverside Community Hospital, where he died at 3:13 p.m. from cardiac arrest caused by the injuries, the hospital announced.

After the accident, Fitzpatrick left the driving to Hobbs and Bell for the remaining three hours of the race.

The Fitzpatrick-Hobbs Porsche averaged 106.020 miles-per-hour in winning by one lap (3.3 miles) plus 24.97 seconds over Al

Volleyball races just heating up

Still smarting from an upset loss to Costa Mesa last week, the Estancia High volleyball squad will try to maintain a slim edge on the Mustangs in the Sea View League race at 7 o'clock tomorrow night when the Eagles visit University.

In other action, Costa Mesa hosts Mater Dei, Corona del Mar calls on Newport Harbor and El Toro welcomes Irvine.

In the Sunset League, Fountain Valley, resting in second place, will attempt to cut into the two-game margin of pace-setting La Quinta. At 8-2, the Barons are a game ahead of third-place Edison.

Gauchos capture title

OJAI — The Saddleback College men's tennis team of Maris Lutens and David Salmon capped off a successful weekend yesterday by capturing the community college doubles title at the Ojai Invitational. Lutens and Salmon breezed to a 6-0 decision in the first set, but fell in the second 4-6, before recovering to prevail in the deciding set, 6-3. The crucial service break came with the Gaucho pair leading 4-3, and then they were able to serve out to win the match. In the community college singles final, Kevin Gillette of San Bernardino Valley knocked off Saddleback's David Blackstone, 6-3, 6-1.

bitten to the bone but "you can't get much closer." "I don't think it's any individual's fault," said Atlanta Coach Kevin Laughery. "This is obviously a key game and when the ball's not going in (the basket), there's a lot of body contact." About three minutes before the fight, Ainge said, Rollins elbowed him and Ainge "put a fist in his chest that wasn't hard enough to hurt my wife." Later, Ainge said, he ran into Rollins' elbow on a pick. Right after Rollins dunked the ball, Ainge said, "I was running downcourt expecting an elbow." Near the Hawk's foul line, the players collided. Rollins' elbow went into Ainge's head, Ainge's left arm went into Rollins' side, and Ainge tackled Rollins.

"I thought Danny Ainge was a pretty tough guy because it took three of them to hold him down and one to bite him," said Boston's Larry Bird, who dove onto the pile "to get guys off" Ainge.

"When I play aggressive, people call me dirty. When other players play aggressive, they call it aggressive," Rollins said. "Danny made a mistake... Previously, he had hit me and I told referee Darrell Garretson about it but nothing was done."

Skippers told of experiencing northwest winds of up to 30 knots outside the Coronado Islands Saturday night.

The race was to officially close at 3 p.m. today with the gala trophy presentations in the patio of the Bahia Hotel.

Race chairman Bob Carolan said corrected time results and trophy winners would not be available until the trophy presentations.

Mounties favored But OCC, Rustlers have strengths, too

There doesn't seem to be much doubt about who'll take the team title at this week's South Coast Conference track and field meet at Fullerton College, but don't expect powerful Mt. San Antonio College to have all the fun.

The Mounties are loaded in the sprints, relays and pole vault among other events, but look for a couple of individuals to sprout their talents when the prelims kick off Wednesday at 2 p.m. and the finals begin Saturday at 1:30, both on the Fullerton oval.

Orange Coast, for instance, figures to gain some big team points in the steeplechase and 10,000 meters — two events which aren't on the dual meet docket during the regular season.

Lalo Terriquez and his brother Ulisses are favorites in the 3,000-meter steeplechase for Orange Coast. And the Pirates' Bob Adams and Paul Merryman are equally adept in the 10,000 meters.

Golden West's strengths come from sprinter Mark Lohr and shot putter Scott Bolton. The Rustlers also boast Jerry Nelson who won 16-0 in the pole vault last week at the Mt. San Antonio Relays.

Lohr and OCC's Todd Andrews are legitimate hurdle competitors, both clocking 14.8s in the 110 highs and around the 54.5 marks in the 330 intermediates this year.

TRACK

Top sprint marks have been delivered this season by Mt. San Antonio's Al Miller (10.2 in the 100 and 21.3 in the 200).

The Mountie 400 relay team has also clocked a 42.9 this season.

OCC offers Mark Guest in the middle distance events. Guest has clocked a 1:54.0 in the 800 meters in dual meet competition.

In the women's meet, OCC will flex its distance muscles behind the running of sisters Janine and Katelyn Dube in the 800 and 1,500 and Kim DeVetis and Sue Zika in the 1,500 and 3,000.

The Pirates' top field event competitor could be Laura Mills, out of University High, if she is sufficiently recovered from a stress fracture of the ankle. Mills competes in the shot put and javelin. Allison Carter has also thrown the javelin 137 feet this year for the Bucs.

Other top women competitors to watch include Santa Ana's Loretta Jordan who clocked the quickest 400 meters in Southern California this season, a 59.1 in the rain, no less.

The Dons also offer Celeste Carrington who has a best in the shot put of 41-5.

Parents can choose sex of offspring

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A Huntington Beach physician is offering a new twist in family planning.

Dr. Bharat Marolia, 39, chief of Huntington Intercountry Hospital's obstetrics and gynecology department, is pioneering a new technique to allow prospective parents to choose the sex of their child before conception.

Marolia was the first Southern California physician licensed to perform a patented "sperm separation" process developed by Northern California biologist Ronald J. Ericsson. Currently, a fertility clinic in La Jolla is the only other Southern California facility where the patented procedure is offered.

The Huntington Beach physician now has three patients pregnant through the procedure.

"Most of the couples I've seen want to limit themselves to two or three children," he said. "Several had two or three girls already, and to complete their family they wanted a boy."

In fact, the Ericsson procedure is designed primarily to produce male children. A similar procedure is available for producing female children, but testing of the method is incomplete.

The sex selection process is based on isolating the sperm cells carrying X (female) and Y (male) chromosomes. The cells can be separated because the Y-bearing sperm are more mobile and swim faster.

A sample of the husband's semen undergoes three to four hours of processing and filtering, resulting in a final sample that contains 80 to 85 percent male-producing sperm.

The processed sample is then deposited in the wife's birth canal through a routine artificial insemination procedure in the doctor's office. Through body temperature charts, the doctor can do the procedure at the time when a woman is most likely to conceive.

Dr. Marolia warns his patients the method is not foolproof. He said, however, that 75 to 80 percent of the children born as a result of this procedure are male.

He said the sperm processing has been found to have no adverse effects on the children. In fact, he said, the procedure often filters out abnormal cells and may reduce the chances of producing a malformed baby.

Could pre-selection of a child's sex eventually upset the balance of men and women?

Marolia claims the procedure is being done on too small a scale to significantly affect the sex ratio. If the program does become more widespread, he believes many couples will choose to have girls, helping to keep the population balanced.

The Huntington Beach doctor said his program does not utilize outside sperm donors and does not work with surrogate mothers.

Mrs. Warmington services planned

Memorial services for Virginia P. Warmington, scheduled tomorrow at 11 a.m., will be public, a family spokeswoman said today.

Services for Mrs. Warmington, member of a well-known Newport Beach building family, will be held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Newport Beach.

Burial will be private.

We asked: Expand the airport?

(Asked at the Department of Motor Vehicles office in Costa Mesa)

Angela Morett, 31, commercial artist, Westminster

"I'm against expansion because of the noise pollution and I think the tax money (the project would require) should be put to better use, in the colleges, the programs for the poor and elderly."

In Ho Han, 29, physician, Fountain Valley

"Expansion would be fine for me because I won't have to go up to L.A. airport to get a plane. It would save me an hour of time, maybe two or three hours when traffic is bad."

Jacqueline Weinberger, 28, housewife, Corona del Mar

"Even though I find it handy to fly out of there, there shouldn't be any expansion. That would raise the noise pollution and increase the chances of a crash. I feel its present size is about right."

Andrew Carter, 63, retired teacher, Huntington Beach

"This may sound selfish, but I'd love not to go to L.A. for flights. Plus, expansion would bring in more tourists and broaden our tax base. But if I lived in the area I wouldn't like it too much. (The San Diego) freeway has as much traffic as it can stand."

Winona Holloway, 28, housewife, Newport Beach

"I feel there is enough air traffic in the area right now. I have friends who are very concerned about it. They live close to the airport and say the noise level is very high. They would hate to see it get worse."

George Harbison, 28, corporate controller, Laguna Hills

"Not being a property owner near the airport, I have no problem bringing in more flights. We need more transportation in and out of Orange County. But I can understand the concern about the noise — perhaps there's a way to expand without impeding property rights."

AIRLINE...

Most Golden West passengers used the carrier to connect to other airline flights out of Los Angeles or San Francisco.

Golden West has been in financial hot water for more than a year, trimming flights, employees and pay during that period.

At one point, the carrier actually ran out of cash and was forced to defer paychecks to its 419 employees. At the same time, the carrier asked workers to take a 10 percent wage cut.

Until late Friday, Golden West was serving Orange County, Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Ontario, Oxnard, San Jose, Monterey, Sacramento and Fresno.

Wright said he recently finished a new book of poems and has signed a contract with Random House to publish "The Other Side of the River."

Trailer rental hold OK

San Juan Capistrano's right to impose rent controls on mobile homes has been upheld by a state appeals court, which reversed an earlier Superior Court ruling.

Owners of two San Juan Capistrano mobile home parks challenged the constitutionality of the city's rent control ordinance after the town sought to block increases at the Rancho del Avion and Rancho Alipaz parks.

The ordinance allows park owners to raise rents based either on a formula tied to the Consumer Price Index or arbitration based on a "fair market return" on the owner's investment.

Park owners argued unsuccessfully the rent control ordinance was invalid because the state took control of mobile home rents through a six-year-old residency law.

But city attorneys successfully countered the state law was intended to regulate evictions, not rents.

The 4th District Court of Appeals decision reversed an earlier ruling by the Orange County Superior Court in Dec. 1981.

More than 100 Rancho del Avion mobile home owners have refused to pay rent increases.

Pair jailed in faked bank robbery

A 19-year-old Newport Beach bank teller is in jail today on charges he helped a 21-year-old friend pull off a bogus bank robbery last Friday noon.

Murray Wayne Jansen, a Costa Mesa resident and teller at the Newport Center Union Bank, reported he'd been robbed at his teller's window by a lone gunman who used a note for his money demand.

Newport Beach investigators asserted they saw through the ploy, arrested Jansen and set up a hunt for the "fake" bank robber.

Giovanni Carrillo, 21, of Irvine, was arrested when he returned to his home more than eight hours after the reported robbery. Police said they recovered all the money.

The FBI, called in on the case, refused to say how much money was taken and recovered.

Supreme Court to rule on immigration raids

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court today agreed to decide whether immigration agents can sweep through factories in search of illegal aliens while fellow agents block the exits. The justices said they will review the ruling of a federal appeals court in California that such raid tactics are unconstitutional because they detain everyone in the factories.

Space probe approaches record

WASHINGTON — The Pioneer 10 space probe was flying past the orbit of Pluto today, about 3 billion miles from Earth where it was launched more than 11 years ago. The spacecraft will continue on past Neptune on June 13, leaving the solar system for its journey into deep space, National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said yesterday. On that date it will become the first manmade object to leave the solar system.

Longest UAW strike ends

PEORIA, Ill. — Thousands of United Auto Workers members streamed back to Caterpillar Tractor Co. factories in six states today after settling a record 205-day strike by accepting a wage freeze. Third-shift workers reporting to their jobs last night were the first of more than 20,400 Caterpillar employees to return to work after the UAW's longest strike against a major manufacturer. The new pact contains a wage freeze, reduction in bonus time paid for perfect attendance, a profit-sharing plan and employee stock ownership option.

Liver transplant boy improves

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — A 13-month-old boy who received two liver transplants in less than 10 days was "alert and active," improving enough to hold his mother's hand, doctors said. Brandon Ball, the youngest patient ever to undergo two liver transplant operations, "continues to show signs of improvement and doctors remain optimistic at this point," a statement from Le Bonheur Children's Medical Center said yesterday. The boy had been receiving antibiotics for a stubborn lung infection, but physicians withdrew the drugs as his lungs cleared up.

Ann and Steve Humke, of Silverado Canyon, perch atop one of the huge boulders which narrowly missed their home last Friday night. No injuries were reported.

Boulders hit canyon house

The second major slide of six-ton boulders in three days was reported early today in Silverado Canyon, Orange County Fire Department officials said.

The huge rocks crashed through a fence and demolished a picnic table about 6:15 a.m. behind the home of Steve and Ann Humke of 28562 Silverado Canyon Road. No one was injured in the latest slide, said Jeff Taylor, a fire department spokesman.

Residents in the area already were prepared for the boulders, some about half the size of a Volkswagen, to come crashing down from the steep hillsides. A rockslide Friday night had knocked over trees and fences and crushed small sheds.

The Humkes' home narrowly escaped damage when three large boulders crashed down on both sides of the structure in Friday's slide.

Officials said the boulders are prone to slip from their niches in the hillsides when the ground becomes saturated. The last major slide in the canyon occurred three years ago.

Ruling stuns HB Amigos

Bolsa Chica wetlands declared property of Signal Landmark

By ROBERT BARKER

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An appeals court decision upholding a 1973 land exchange giving the Signal Landmark Co. ownership of about 18,000 acres of Bolsa Chica wetlands is viewed as a legal setback by a leader of local environmental forces.

But Dr. Peter Green, past president of the Amigos de Bolsa Chica, said the ruling will not deter environmentalists from fighting development plans for the area near Huntington Beach south of Warner Avenue and adjacent to Pacific Coast Highway.

Green said the most important aspect of the Orange County and Signal land use plan is that "it's damaging and destructive to the environment."

Navy pioneer George Hussey dead at 88

George F. Hussey Jr. who helped develop Navy weapons that saved American sailors from Japanese suicide attacks in World War II, has died at age 88.

Hussey, a Navy vice admiral, died last Sunday. He was head of the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance from 1943 to 1947, making him responsible for all Navy guns, ammunition, bombs, mines and torpedoes.

Under his direction, a variable time fuse was developed for anti-aircraft shells that helped beat back attacks on American ships by kamikaze pilots.

Hussey also was in charge of research into "rocket guns," precursors to guided missiles. The rockets, fired from landing craft and airplanes, were widely used to clear out entrenched enemy defenses before GIs made amphibious landings.

Hussey retired from the Navy in 1947.

Signal spokesman Thomas Fortune said the company "is pleased but not surprised."

"The trade was negotiated between Signal and the Attorney General's office."

"It was signed by state officers, including Ronald Reagan, who was then the governor. They're not going to give away land," Fortune said.

The plan calls for the creation of an 1,800-slip marina, a navigable channel to the sea and up to 5,700 waterfront and ocean-view homes.

It was pulled off the docket of the state Coastal Commission last year because of intense controversy.

And several legislative proposals are being considered in Sacramento this week that would have an impact on the area that environmentalists believe should be retained for wildlife habitat.

The 4th District Court of Appeal in San Bernardino ruled Friday that the Amigos were too late in challenging the 1973 land agreement which gave the state a 300-acre ecological reserve and an option to acquire an additional 230 acres.

In return, Signal got clear title to the rest of the historic wetlands.

The Amigos challenged the agreement in 1979, claiming that because it involved historic tidelands, the trade was "a gift of public properties."

But a Superior Court judge rejected the claim because of a statute of limitations.

The appeals court held that the state received "substantial consideration" (the land for the reserve and the option to add the additional acreage.)

Teen to face life in county slaying

By The Associated Press

An 18-year-old Orange County man faces life in prison with no chance of parole for taking two co-workers into a foothill area, robbing them, killing one and wounding another.

Another defendant in the case, John Visciotti, 25, faces trial May 2 and prosecutors are seeking the death penalty.

Superior Court Judge Robert Fitzgerald said the younger man, Brian Hefner, "not only deserves to spend the rest of his life in prison, he should have been put to death, if we could have arranged it through the trial process." Hefner was sentenced on Friday.

A jury deliberated only two hours March 29 before convicting Hefner of first-degree murder, attempted murder and robbery.

One victim, Timothy Dykstra, 23, of Westminster, died from a bullet wound in the chest. His

Beirut pullout talks begin

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz and the U.S. ambassadors to five Middle East nations gathered in Cairo today at the start of Shultz' mission to arrange a withdrawal of Israeli, Syrian and Palestinian forces from Lebanon.

"We know that we cannot substitute for the commitment and the effort of the people of the Middle East," Shultz said after his arrival at 1:30 p.m. (4:30 a.m. PDT). "We will complement it and we will play a full part, as full partners, in this great enterprise for peace."

Reagan's special Mideast envoy, Philip C. Habib, also was in Cairo to meet with Shultz and the U.S. ambassadors to Israel, Syria, Jordan, Lebanon and Algeria.

Shultz was scheduled to meet with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak tomorrow and Wednesday with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, who sent troops into Lebanon on June 6, 1982 to rout the PLO.

In his airplane en route to Egypt, Shultz was optimistic — saying a withdrawal agreement "is a very do-able thing" — and vowed to stay in the Mideast as long as there is a chance of carrying out his mission.

Shultz said he is prepared to shuttle back and forth between Israel and Lebanon if that would help produce an agreement on troop withdrawal. He plans to go to Beirut Thursday.

"I am prepared to work at it as long as it seems that there is a chance to accomplish something," Shultz told reporters during the seven-hour flight from Washington to Britain, where his plane refueled before continuing to Cairo.

Shultz said he will raise the possibility of an expanded U.S. role in Lebanon in discussions with Lebanese and Israeli officials.

Teen to face life in county slaying

friend, Michael Wolbert, 21, of Huntington Beach, survived five bullet wounds but lost an eye.

Deputy District Attorney Tom Goethals said his office decided not to seek death for Hefner because of his age and lack of violent history. Visciotti and Hefner allegedly asked co-workers at a Garden Grove burglar alarm company to accompany them last Nov. 8 to meet four women.

On the way, Wolbert was told to stop his car in a desolate area in the foothills east of Orange. He and Dykstra were robbed of the $120 they had been paid that day, then both were shot.

In a videotaped police interview played during the trial, Hefner admitted telling Visciotti to fire the shots.

"The first thing that came to my head," Hefner told detectives, "was if they weren't alive, they couldn't tell on us."

Feinstein victory predicted

SAN FRANCISCO — A handgun made Dianne Feinstein mayor, and a short-lived handgun ban that stirred up dozens of political complaints could be her unmaking tomorrow when voters decide whether to cut short her term. But in a final irony, even people who want her out concede that voters likely will say "No" to the lone ballot question: "Shall Dianne Feinstein be recalled from the office of mayor?" "She's going to win big," predicted Dave Brigode, head of a pro-recall group, Citizens for a New Mayor.

Rare kiwi bird hatched at zoo

SAN DIEGO — A newly hatched kiwi bird was reported resting comfortably yesterday and spending most of the time sleeping in an incubator at the San Diego Zoo. The baby bird, unnamed and of unknown sex, broke out of its shell after its father sat on the egg for 70 days. It's believed to be only the second successful hatching of New Zealand's unusual-looking national bird outside of New Zealand or Australia.

Pony Express rides again

POLLOCK PINES — Amid cheers from bystanders, riders of the Pony Express are again speeding through the chilly Sierra daily, saddlebags bulging. Each morning except Sunday, Postmaster Patricia Peterson turns over a packet of letters to the first of 10 Pony Express horsemen, who carry it in relay along a 40-mile mountain trail to snowbound Little Norway, a lodge-restaurant-store near 7,200-foot-high Echo Summit. The riders, ranging from teen-agers to 72-year-old cowboy Walt Allen, offered to tote mail after a massive April 9 mudslide closed U.S. Highway 50, a major east-west link across the Sierra.

Child car restraints not used

LOS ANGELES — Purchases of child car restraints have increased since a state law went into effect Jan. 1 requiring them for children under 4, but a death and two injuries last week prove compliance isn't widespread enough, officials say. Little Patricia LaMaster, 20 months, died in a traffic accident when the car in which she was riding collided with another.

Austrian chancellor steps down

VIENNA, Austria — Chancellor Bruno Kreisky, the dean of West European leaders, kept an election campaign promise and announced his resignation after conservatives ended his Socialist Party's 11-year majority in Parliament. The 72-year-old Kreisky, leader of this neutral country since 1970, has held office longer than any current leader of a European democracy. He was seeking his fourth outright majority in yesterday's elections.

Libyan planes to leave Brazil

MANAUS, Brazil — The government says three Libyan planes detained for a week are free to leave Brazil today, but without their cargo of Nicaragua-bound weapons. A fourth detained aircraft, a U.S.-made C-130 transport, was under repair and apparently would not be ready to take off with the three Soviet-made Ilyushin jets. Brazilian officials said the cargo would be returned to Libya at an unspecified future date. Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy said the arms were destined for Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista regime, which is fighting an effort by exiled opponents to overthrow it.

'Stuffed cabbage roll' successful in Laguna

Saying the "iffy" weather was a major factor in the low turnout, organizers of the first-ever Great Stuffed Cabbage Roll-off nevertheless declared the two-day event a success.

Cabbage-head Vick Knight said between 3,000 and 3,500 stuffed cabbage lovers attended the festivities Saturday and yesterday on the Festival of Arts grounds in Laguna Beach.

They witnessed two Armenian cousins win round-trip tickets to Europe after winning the cook-off, in competition with nearly two dozen other teams.

The team of Zena Savoian, 60, of Montebello, and her cousin, Betty Sukiasian Bradvica, 42, of Monterey Park, walked away with the top prize yesterday.

Jim Dean, another cabbage head, said proceeds from the cook-off will benefit the National Conference of Christians and Jews. But he said the organizers won't know until late this week how much was raised.

Among judges for the cabbage roll were Pilar Wayne as well as 27 restaurant critics and restaurateurs.

A dozen food booths and 17 craft booths highlighted the two-day festivities.

UC Irvine professor shares national award for poetry

By GLENN SCOTT
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

UC Irvine English Professor Charles Wright said today he was surprised to learn he was chosen as co-recipient of the 1982 American Book Award in poetry because he expected Galway Kinnel to win.

Instead, Wright and Kinnel were selected to share the prestigious award, which generally is regarded as one of the top two American literary awards along with the Pulitzer Prize.

Wright, a Laguna Beach resident who has taught 17 years at UCI, shares the award for his work, "Country Music: Selected Early Poems." Galway's book was titled "Selected Poems."

Formal presentation of the award is Thursday in New York, but Wright said he'll stay home and let a representative from publisher Wesleyan University Press attend for him.

Wright's book comprises selected poems from four previous books published from 1970 to 1977. He chose the title, he said, because many of the poems are about his growing up in eastern Tennessee and western North Carolina and because the phrase reflects his interest in "music and the sound of language."

Added Wright: "Actually, it's my wife's title, so I'm forever grateful to her." (See UCI PROF, Page A2)

Plagued airline may fly again

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Failed Golden West Airlines, which halted service Friday night, was expected to announce today that it will seek protection under federal bankruptcy law and resume service sometime next month.

Airline executives not connected with Golden West reported they've been told the commuter carrier may start up again as soon as next week.

An announcement was to be made during a press conference this afternoon called by Golden West.

Golden West, which moved its headquarters from Newport Beach to Costa Mesa three weeks ago, is the largest and one of the oldest commuter airlines in the state.

The halt in service late Friday left commuter carriers Air Irvine and Imperial Airlines scrambling to pick up stranded Golden West passengers at John Wayne Airport.

The scramble hit full-force today — a busy travel day for businessmen. Air Irvine, which operates nine-passenger Piper crafts, quadrupled its flights, going from six to 24 takeoffs. Imperial also increased service.

More than 100 Golden West passengers were rescheduled to other airlines or sent to Los Angeles International Airport by limousine over the weekend. (See AIRLINE, Page A2)

OCC prexy elected to top office

Orange Coast College President Bernard J. Luskin has been elected to the top post of an association representing more than 1,200 community colleges nationwide.

Luskin was voted chairman of the board of the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges. The election took place yesterday at the association's national convention in New Orleans.

In this role, Luskin will be involved in federal legislation, industry-education relationships and academic policy matters.

Election to the national post comes at a time when Luskin is overseeing extensive cutbacks in programs and faculty at Orange Coast College in Costa Mesa.

HB women braved storm

Relaxing vacation in Tahiti turned into a violent ordeal

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Anne DeVusser and her mother Ruth Williams went to Tahiti this month for a little rest and recreation on the cruise ship Majestic Tahiti Explorer.

The two Huntington Beach women were expecting to have a good time, something they'd remember over the years.

What they got were memories for a lifetime.

"We ran from a hurricane at sea for three days. We made it into Papeete harbor and the storm hit that night," said

DeVusser, an accountant and businesswoman.

The storm — the worst to hit the South Pacific Island in modern times — killed one person, injured 26 and made about 25,000 homeless, according to news reports.

The two women rode out the storm without injuries. "And we learned one important thing," DeVusser said, "We didn't get seasick."

It was the first trip to Tahiti for Williams, 70, a nurse. "And it's probably going to be my last, too," she said.

"The way the ship bounced back and forth, I got the best massage I ever had," she said.

But the inhabitants of the island didn't fare so well in the 95-to-110-mph winds.

"There was almost complete devastation," said DeVusser. "I don't know how those poor people can recover." But she said she's going to help.

The mayor of Faaa, a city on the other side of the island from Papeete, asked the Huntington Beach travelers to seek help for the Tahitians in America, they said.

"They need money, food and building supplies and we want it to go directly to the people and not to the government," said DeVusser.

She said people wanting to help can call her or her mother at 964-6025 or 963-8065.

Work starts at Crystal Cove Park

By STEVE MITCHELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A meandering stairway — a combination of concrete, railroad ties and gravel — is the first physical sign that improvements are finally being made to the $32 million Crystal Cove State Park.

But state parks officials say the $20,000 stairway nearing completion on the bluffs overlooking Scotchman's Cove is only the beginning.

By summer's end, work is expected to begin on more than $1.5 million in facilities and improvements to the park, purchased in 1979 from the Irvine Co.

By year's end, the 3.5-mile strip between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach will boast four new parking lots, six new beach access ramps, portable restrooms and hiking staging areas.

Alan Tang, a landscape architect for the state parks system, said a 300-car parking lot will be constructed "back from the bluff" at Scotchman's Cove.

He said the asphalt lot, with marked spaces, will include a temporary kiosk where a parking fee will be collected from beachgoers.

A 60-space parking lot will be created just north of the stables on the ocean side of Pacific Coast Highway.

A 450-space parking lot will be built on the inland side of the highway across from Boy Scout Hill near Los Trancos Creek.

HB pilot lands in Valley park

A single-engine plane piloted by a Huntington Beach man was forced to make an emergency landing yesterday afternoon on the central air field of Mile Square Park in Fountain Valley.

A spokesman for John Wayne Airport said pilot George Bell took off shortly after noon. Bell reported that low oil pressure was forcing him to make an emergency landing in the park. The central park area formerly was used as a helicopter landing pad.

No injuries were reported in the forced landing. The incident is under investigation by the Federal Aviation Administration.

And a 50-space lot will be constructed behind El Morro Elementary School as a staging area for hikers and equestrians using the inland portions of the new park.

In addition to the parking lots, phase-one construction plans include coastal access ramps, with three planned for the Scotchman's Cove area, and three more ramps to be constructed upcoast of the Crystal Cove community.

Pageant draws 200 entrants

The Miss California Princess pageant got off to a late start yesterday as nearly 200 contestants squeezed into a powder-blue ballroom at the Sheraton Universal Hotel in North Hollywood.

Costa Mesa organizer Frank John Baptist Bagley is facing charges of misdemeanor false advertising in connection with the beauty contest, attended by hundreds of family members and friends of the young contenders.

Linda Esslinger, 23, of Newport Beach, who walked in front of the judges wearing an off-the-shoulder white dress, said, "My mom was dying for me to enter. The contest ran behind and we got impatient. But it's gone well."

Past pageants promoted by Bagley apparently didn't go nearly so well.

Last year Bagley served four months in a Texas jail after pleading no contest to misdemeanor theft charges related to a Houston contest that never took place. He left town one week before the pageant.

Bagley said he had to cancel the contest after his hotel room was burglarized and $3,500 in entry fees taken.

Officials for the Airporter Inn in Irvine said they received numerous complaints following a contest there in February, 1981. A Princess pageant staged at the Hollywood Palladium a few months later by Bagley was criticized by officials from the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce.

Bernard J. Luskin

Orange Coast is described as the largest single-campus community college in the nation.

Luskin, a resident of Huntington Harbour, became president of Orange Coast on July 1, 1982. Before that, he was president of a sister school, Coastline College, for seven years.

Dow tops 1,200, then falls back

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dow Jones Industrial Average broke through the 1,200 barrier for the first time in history today, but the market couldn't hold its gains and finished with a loss for the full trading session.

The widely followed market indicator rose about five points in the first hour of trading, hitting an all-time intraday high of 1,201.95. But then profit-takers moved in and, in an orderly sell-off, pushed the index down 9.08 for the day to a close of 1187.22.

On Friday, the Dow rose 8.03 to an all-time closing high.
